Reviewing Child Abuse

WASHINGTON (AP)-The Supreme Court agreed today to review a decision striking down as unconstitutional the way Texas officials handle child abuse cases.

The court voted to study an appeal aimed at reinstating the state procedures.

At issue are portions of the Texas Family Code which were challenged by a suburban Houston couple, John and Mary Sims.

Three young Sims children were attending Houston elementary schools in 1976 when teachers began to suspect that the oldest child, 9-year-old Paul, was a victim of severe and abusive beatings.

School Bus Wreck

McHENRY, Ill. (AP)—A school bus rounding a curve south of McHenry rolled over today, injuring 42 elementary school students, 10 badly, officials said.

Micki Becker, secretary to schools Superintendent Richard Farmer, said the cause of the accident was not known.

Japan Plants Wheat

TOKYO (AP)-A seven-month drought in eastern China's Anhwei Province has dried up all major reservoirs and small rivers, and peasants are rushing to plant wheat and other dry land crops instead of paddy rice, China's official Hsinhua news agency reported today.

Candy Recalled

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)-Schrafft Candy Co. has recalled 24,000 one-pound bags of Halloween candy corn after the discovery that hard, non-toxic particles were mixed with it.

The recall Saturday came after an order from Connecticut's Department of Consumer Protection that the Caldor store in Old Saybrook take the Schrafft candy corn off its shelves.

The order came Friday after state chemists discovered what they thought to be pieces of ceramic-coated metal in sample bags of the candy.

Soviet Gas Halted

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)-The flow of natural gas through a pipeline to the Soviet Union was interrupted when hundreds of workers at a major refinery walked out demanding higher wages and the release of political prisoners, the government said today.

The line supplies the neighboring Soviets with about 30 billion cubic feet of gas annually, officials said.

Cancer List Lengthens

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP)-As many as 40 "practically indispensable" chemicals and compounds used in today's industry can cause cancer, the International Labor Organization said in a report published today.

Among substances incorporating one or more of these, it said, are tar - which may give rise to cancer of the skin and lung - soot, asbestos and chromium.

The report called on ILO member states to introduce new laws for the mandatory testing of all chemical substances suspected of causing cancer.

Predicts Low Turn Out

AUSTIN (AP)-Secretary of State Steve Oaks predicts only 37 percent, or about 2.3 million, of Texas' qualified voters will turn out Nov. 7 for the general election.

"That's a low voter turnout," Oaks said on a Sunday panel program Capital Eye. "I wish I could tell you that that was wrong. I'm afraid that it may be exaggerated. I'm afraid the turnout may be less than 2.3 million - less than 37 percent. In 1974, the last comparable year, the last non-presidential year, we only had a voter turnout of 31 percent, and that same year we had the lowest voter turnout in congressional elections not only in Texas but in the United States since 1926."

Parents Offer Reward

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)-A wealthy couple, their nerves shredded by days of silence from their 6-year-old son's kidnapper, added a tearful plea to a $50,000 reward offer for the boy's safe return.

Cary Sayegh disappeared from the playground of Albert Einstein Hebrew School last Wednesday. The family since has received only one telephone call from his abductor.

Rips Tortilla Curtain

ESPANOLA (AP)-A New Mexico congressman says the United States should create a legal way for Mexicans to cross the border for "an economic shot in the arm" instead of building fences to keep them out.

U.S. Sen. Harrison Schmitt, a Republican, criticized a "Tortilla Curtain" proposal by the Carter administration that calls for concrete and wire fences in El Paso, San Ysidro, Calif., and San Luis, Ariz.

General Session Underway...

TSTA District Elects Officers Sunday Night

Educators from across District 14 of the Texas State Teachers Association converged today at the Scurry County Coliseum to view exhibits and attend general and section meetings. District President Ned Underwood said some 2,000 to 2,500 educators were expected to be on hand at the coliseum.

The convention began Sunday with the display of exhibits and delegate certification.

The next president of the district is Stanley Whisenhunt of Wylie. He replaces Underwood as president next June. Named president-elect of the district by the house of delegates last night was Jerry Schuchert of Stamford.

Other officers elected at the business session include Judy Thomas, Abilene, secretary; Kaye Price, Abilene, treasurer; and Martha Kiel, Abilene, district committee member.

Elected to the district audit committee were Sam Thomas and Ferrell Hogg, both of Abilene, and Ramona Cooke of Wylie.

Teachers from the 12-county district were to hear addresses at their general session this morning in the coliseum by Pat Goforth of Clear Lake and by John D. Jackson of Hurst, instructor at the American Airlines Flight Academy in Fort Worth.

Ned Underwood, the 1978-79 president of the district organization, was presiding over the general session.

Various groups were to hold luncheon sessions in some two dozen locations throughout the city following the morning session.

The 1979 District XIV TSTA convention will be held in Abilene.

Abortion Law Up Before High Court

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court agreed today to decide whether a state may require unmarried females under 18 to obtain the consent of their parents or judge before they undergo abortions.

The justices said they will review a Massachusetts abortion law ruled unconstitutional by a federal court in Boston.

The lower court said the law infringes on the privacy rights of some "mature minors."

The Massachusetts law was challenged in a 1974 lawsuit by two pregnant teen-agers, their doctor and the director of an abortion clinic.

A three-judge federal panel has twice struck down the law, once after a state appeal reached the Supreme Court.

The law requires a female who is under 18 and not married—divorcees and widows are exempt—to tell her parents about her abortion plans. If one or both of her parents refuse consent, permission for an abortion may be obtained from a state judge.

Under the law, a state judge may refuse that permission after ruling that an abortion is not in the female's best interest. Such a ruling could be made in any stage of the pregnancy.

The Supreme Court legalized abortions in 1973, basing its ruling on a woman's constitutional right to privacy.

In other action today, the high court:

—Left intact a Chicago ordinance that requires car rental companies to pay for their customers' parking tickets. Hertz, Avis and Chrysler Leasing had argued that the ordinance was unconstitutional. Similar laws in numerous other cities across the country appear safe, at least for the time being.

—In a case that could have direct bearing on the court's controversial Miranda decision in 1966, agreed to decide whether minors accused of crimes may be questioned by police after the suspects ask to consult with their probation officers.

2nd Spraying Is Underway

Spraying planes were up this morning to begin the second and final application of insecticide in the boll weevil control program here.

The planes began spraying at mid-morning and officials of the Scurry County Producers Association were hopeful that the spraying could continue uninterrupted. However, they were keeping an eye on the wind velocity.

Only two sprayings were scheduled this fall in the diapause program to control boll weevils in Scurry County cotton farms.

Dollar Falls To New Low

LONDON (AP)—The sagging dollar tumbled to new lows and the price of gold skyrocketed in early trading on Europe's money markets today amid continued concern over American econimic troubles.

The price of gold jumped nearly $7 an ounce in Europe's main bullion markets, Zurich and London, as speculators sought their traditional sanctuary against monetary uncertainty in the precious metal.

Dealers said the renewed pressure on the dollar began in Tokyo and spread to Europe.

The dollar, which closed in Tokyo Friday at 179.625 yen, set three new lows today—an opening of 178.50 yen, a trading level of 178.30 and closing 178.475.

One dealer reported: "The dollar's poor performance has to do with exporters unloading dollars during the day. They're afraid the dollar might decline even further."

Europe's markets opened after Tokyo had closed and the dollar was in trouble as soon as trading began.

A Frankfort broker commented: "There honestly seems to be no floor for the dollar in the market's mind." The dollar opened at a new low there in nervous dealing—1.7400 marks. It quickly dipped to 1.7388 marks, down on Friday's closer of 1.7615 marks.

Many European dealers said the dollar could go lower. "The dollar is much lower than it should be," one dealer commented. "But we have no news that makes us feel it should be on the upswing."

In Paris, the dollar fell through the 4-franc level for the first time in three years. It opened at 4.00625 francs, well down from Friday's 4.07125 franc closer, then dipped to 3.9875.

"No one seems to want dollars," a dealer said.

Mideast Talks Resumed Today

By The Associated Press

Face-to-face Israeli-Egyptian peace talks have resumed in Washington after a lapse of more than a week and an Israeli spokesman says there is "no crisis" in the negotiations.

In Baghdad, Iraq, meanwhile, Arab foreign ministers today opened a meeting to prepare for a summit conference aimed at countering the Camp David agreements and the bilateral Egyptian-Israeli peace drive.

Iraqi Foreign Minister Saadoun Hamadi, appealing for unity, said the Camp David accords were "a stab against the Arab struggle to liberate Palestine." The conference is being attended by representatives of all members of the Arab League except Egypt. The summit convenes Thursday.

Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin conferred with his Cabinet in Jerusalem today about the Washington talks, and the five-hour meeting ended with a decision to form two Cabinet committees to study economic questions and conflicting Egyptian and Israeli claims for compensation for oil extracted from the Sinai Peninsula during Israel's 11-year occupation.

Direct negotiations resumed Sunday night with a two-hour session between the heads of the two delegations at a downtown Washington hotel. Diplomatic sources in Washington described the meeting as "business-like," but there was no immediate word on whether any headway was made toward resolving a treaty text.

Again acting as middleman, Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance summoned the Israeli delegation to the State Department today for further talks. American and Israeli legal experts also met this morning to discuss treaty language.

In the session Sunday, Lt. Gen. Kamal Hassan Ali, the Egyptian defense minister, and Boutros Ghali, the acting foreign minister, called on Israeli Foreign Minister,

no debate desired

The highly contentious issue of "gay rights" has surfaced at the White House in a surprising context: President Carter's search for a new deputy secretary of agriculture.

The second highest position at the Agriculture Department has been vacant ever since John C. White left the job seven months ago to become chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

The leading contender for the post is reported to be W.R. (Buster) Hancock, a citrus grower from Leesburg, Fla. who is a current member and former chairman of the Florida Citrus Commission.

The commission contracted several years ago with singer Anita Bryant to star in a series of television commercials promoting Florida orange juice. Miss Bryant touched off the continuing controversy when she subsequently mounted a personal crusade against homosexuality.

That dispute ought to be quite irrelevant to Hancock's credentials and qualifications for the job, but the "gay rights" issue invariably produces a no-win situation for any politican.

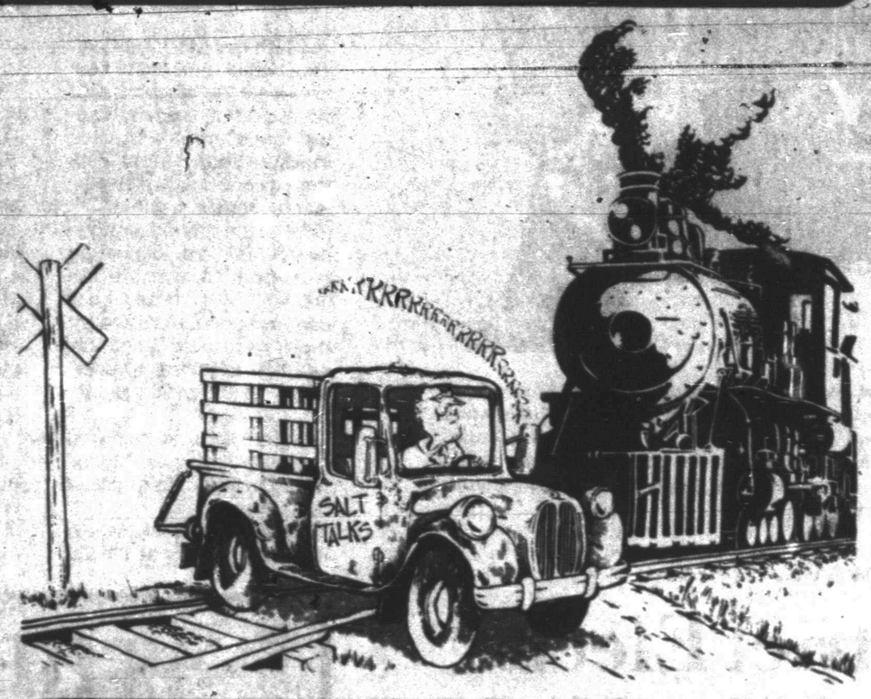

As a result, White House officials are quietly but carefully "touching all the bases" to make sure that Hancock's nomination won't embarrass Carter by producing an unwanted public debate over homosexuality.

let 'them' do it

California voters fired a shot heard throughout the country when they approved Proposition 13 last June. It deals with taxes. Adoption by an overwhelming vote was taken as an indication that public officials empowered by law to levy taxes had better think twice before adding anything to the present burden of financing government activities.

Another referendum will be held in connection with the general election November 7. Californians this time are asked to approve an anti-smoking law which will require isolation of smokers from the rest of us in public gathering places. It is identified as Proposition 5.

The issue in the coming referendum isn't quite so popular as the mandate to lower taxes. Reports indicate it may not be approved. Here in Texas, however, we have abundant reason for being glad that we let the Legislature make our mistakes for us. If we had to blame ourselves for unpopular legislation half the fun of living would be lost.

I love a houseful of plants as well as the next person, but frankly I am sick and tired of people telling me how easy it is to maintain an indoor jungle.

Oh sure, there are a few plants that thrive on neglect and take root on my kitchen tile, but generally plants take a lot of care. I must have 15 or 20 plant books that divide species into "Easy to Grow" and "Takes a Little Extra Care."

Today, I'd like to list in this column "Plants that Will Never Grow." (Please clip and save).

The Nephrolepic (Boston Fern) grows only in the pages of Better Homes and Gardens and Sunset magazines to my knowledge, it has never prospered without a camera lens trained on it.

There is no way you can water them in hanging baskets without killing your carpet and tile. It was just an amusing idea.

The species is so demanding that many women are looking for options. A friend of mine said she would not have a Boston Fern this year, but would have a baby. She explained, "I'm getting too old for ferns."

The Euphorbia pulcherrima (Christmas poinsettia) would take another miracle out of the East to keep it alive after Christmas Day.

Once you follow explicit instructions to set it in a cool, dark room until spring in a dormant stage, it slips off into a sleep of death and you're stuck with a stupid pot of dirt and a dead twig in the closet for six months. (Poinsettias have been known to die on a church altar attended by four priests and three bishops.

Euphorbia grandicornis (cowhorn cactus) are born dead. I have never known of a person who had the courage to pull the support systems on a cactus and say, "Throw it out! It's gone!"

Saintpaulia (African violets). I had one that lived for three weeks once only because it had the perfect blend of light and humidity. If I had just been able to keep the oven door ajar, flick the light on the toaster 20 minutes out of every hour, keep the vaporizer going and the earth from revolving on its axis, I felt I could have sustained life.

I do not want all of you gardeners who have had success with these flowers to write. It is depressing and I wouldn't believe you anyway.

Face it. When my Maranta leuconceur kerchoveana (Prayer Plant) thumbed its nose at me...I knew it was all over.

WASHINGTON (NEA)- To the uninitiated, the crumbly black nodules that lie on the floor of the world's oceans appear to lack any aesthetic, social or commercial value.

Their color, size and shape give the dull rocks the appearance of brunt potatoes. Retrieval is highly complex and expensive because they are found only at the darkest, coldest ocean depths, usually two to four miles below the surface.

But billions of dollars will be spent in the coming decades to recover those nodules because they represent one of the few remaining untouched mineral treasures on the face of the earth.

A typical nodule is composed of 24 percent manganese, 14 percent iron, 9 percent silicon and 3 percent aluminum, with lesser amounts of almost two dozen valuable ores such as copper, zinc, cobalt and nickel.

Because intense exploration has been under way only since the 1960s, information about the prevalence of the undersea nodules remains imprecise and sometimes contradictory.

One estimate places the quantity in all the world's oceans at 1.5 trillion tons, but according to another estimate that amount is available in the Pacific Ocean alone.

Unlike many land-based resources that are being rapidly depleted, the nodules are believed to be growing at a rate of 16 million tons each year. Assuming the technology needed to harvest the undersea treasure can be developed, the seabed resource is truly a bonanza.

But who owns it? For centuries, the world's nations have generally accepted one basic theory of legal rights on the high seas; The ocean and its seabed belong to all countries collectively but to no one country individually.

That concept was reaffirmed in 1970, when the United Nations General Assembly approved, without a dissenting vote, a statement of principle that said:

"The seabed and the ocean floor, and the subsoil thereof, beyond the limits of national jurisdiction...as well as the resources of the area, are the common heritage of mankind."

Implementation of that high ideal, however, has thus far eluded delegates to the United Nations Conference on the Law of the Sea, which since 1958 has convened no less than nine times in New York, Geneva and Caracas.

The issue of rights to mine undersea resources has emerged as a classic North-South confrontation, pitting the highly industrialized nations of the Northern Hemisphere against the lesser developed countries of the Southern Hemisphere.

At the close of a mid-1977 session of the UN conference, some leaders of the latter group secretly and unilaterally revised a crucial draft document, angering United States Ambassador Elliot L. Richardson, President Carter's special representative to the conference.

With the approval of the White House, Richardson went to Capitol Hill to announce that although this country still embraced the "common heritage of mankind" concept, "the United States (also) maintains that the right to engage in seabed mining is a legal freedom of the high seas."

In the ensuing year, six congressional committees approved unprecedented - and unwarranted - legislation authorizing the federal government to grant licenses to corporations that would, in effect, give them proprietary rights to the international seabed.

The measure was passed by the House during the summer and its proponents tried, but fortunately failed, to ram it through the Senate in the closing days of the 95th Congress.

The Carter administration claims the new law is needed to provide Richardson with additional leverage in the UN negotiations, but that approach also represents a crude neo-colonial effort to grab international territory to which this country has no lawful right.

"Exploration of the deep seabed by United States corporations...is by far the most extreme unilateral position we have taken short of war," says Rep. David F. Emery, R-Maine. "No other country has ever attempted such a venture into international waters."

corporate revolts

NEW YORK (AP)-In the corporate suite where the facade is neat, controlled and subtly proper, a conspiracy might be hatching that could erupt in a palace revolt that topples the chief.

It's happening more often than before. Since 1975, presidents of major corporations have been ousted at an increasing rate, and more than half of them were undone by disgruntled subordinates.

"This sort of thing didn't exist in the 1960s," says Professor Eugene Jennings, psychologist and confidential adviser to chief executives. There were "kitchen debates," but seldom revolts, he maintains.

In the kitchen debate, top tier executives discuss the chief executive's weaknesses and discretely leak to the board of directors the word that he no longer has their respect, support and confidence.

This is usually bad news for the chief, and often it can undermine his effectiveness, but he can still assert his leadership by effectively managing other members of his executive corps and the directors too.

By contrast, in an open palace revolt sides are chosen and the revolting side makes a demand upon the board: "He goes or we go."

Jennings, who teaches management at Michigan State University and is the author of numerous studies of corporate life, attributes the rising incidence of revolt to several peculiarities of today's business world.

"In the 1960s there was a greater respect for authority and an unwritten law among boards that no palace revolt should be successful. Almost all boards were made up of business people," he said.

"Boards are different today. They are comprised not only of business people but outsiders from various walks of life. Boards today are not as much believers in the old ethic."

They meet more often too. In the 1960s, when directors met perhaps six times a year, there was little opportunity for an executive to inform discretely on his boss. He simply didn't have the personal contact.

Today, there is far more interaction between board and executive. Boards meet more often, and there are many more committees, often made up of both outside directors and inside executives.

Jennings observes also that the style of business management has changed.

Most deposed presidents Jennings studied were vulnerable on the issue of effective leadership, he believes.

One demonstrable weakness Jennings found is a "tendency to patronize disgruntled people." Rather than improve their own abilities and become more formidable, the chiefs "tried to sedate the disgruntled."

Another weakness: a reluctance to fire those opposing them. And when they did fire someone, they had the remarkable bad luck or poor judgment to fire those the board considered very competent.

A third weakness observed in deposed executives is "getting the feeling they are invincible or at least indispensable."

The Department of Defense, originally designated the National Military Establishment, was created Sept. 18, 1947. It is headed by the secretary of Defense, who is a member of the president's Cabinet.

Letters To Editor

To The Daily News:

In your Sunday, Oct. 22, publication, you made public your endorsement of two fine candidates in two very important political contests. However, this voter noticed you made no endorsement in another most important race between incumbent Senator John Tower and challenger Bob Krueger.

For the interest of Texas and our nation, this voter would like to express his choice, and hope you will do likewise.

John Tower in his 17-year tenure in the U.S. Senate has voted time and time again along the lines of the more conservative, common-sense philosophy of the people of Texas. He has a most outstanding voting record on legislation concerning our nation's military preparedness, which Bob Krueger does not. In fact, Bob Krueger is rated one of the worst representatives in Congress involving his voting record on military legislation.

John Tower "did not" vote with the majority of Congress to give himself an inflated 29 percent pay increase in 1977, which the Krueger campaign is falsely publishing across the state.

Sen. Tower has steadily voted against the lesbian-pushed ERA legislation which Bob Krueger has steadily supported.

Of most importance to Texas, John Tower has been a great voice in the Senate on legislation concerning the oil industry and our nation's energy problems. Bob Krueger, on the other hand, has not because his record shows he was absent numerous times when legislation concerning the oil industry was on the floor of the House of Representatives to be voted on. Krueger is to be commended for his stance favoring deregulation of our natural gas, but on Carter's whole energy bill, he has yet to make a firm public stand against it. This so-called energy bill is going to be anything but a solution to our nation's energy problem, as anyone involved in oil production can quickly assert.

Earlier this year, Jimmy Carter and his liberal Democrat controlled Congress succeeded in giving away the Panama Canal to the government of Panama. It has been estimated this canal give-away will cost the taxpayers of America an overwhelming increase from around 19 million dollars annually to over 50 million dollars annually. John Tower voted against this give away, whereas Bob Krueger voted for it.

Just before the close of "The Last Great Congress" legislation on a constitutional amendment giving Washington, D.C. representation in Congress as the 50 states have was voted on and passed. It will now go before the legislatures in each state of the union to be voted on before becoming an amendment to our constitution. Thanks to Bob Krueger and other liberal congressmen, it will now be possible for this "the home of the bureaucrats," to be represented in Congress as a state of the union. In no other location of our nation is the political philosophy more radical and liberal than in Washington, D.C. John Tower knows this and therefore does not support it.

Yes, Jimmy Carter would like Texas to put Krueger in the Senate to Work with the liberal majority. But, for Texas and common sense, I'll vote for John Tower.

Oswald: "There is no substitute for good play in match point duplicate, but luck plays an important secondary part."

Alan: "Here is a hand from a New York regional open pair final. Practically every South player got to three notrump and every West player opened the queen of spades against that normal contract."

Oswald: "If declarer goes right after clubs he will be able to win eight easy tricks. Two spades, two hearts and four clubs. That won't be quite enough since the defense will grab three spades and their two aces."

Alan: "So every alert declarer will try to snaffle a diamond trick first. They will win the first spade in dummy and lead a diamond. The best diamond to lead is the deuce, but some desperado types might try the jack. In any event, a good East player will hop up with the ace and shoot a spade back. That is good play and will give East and West a good score. If East ducks, South will shift to clubs, make his contract and give East a bad score."

Oswald: "Skill has determined the East-West score. Luck has handled the case of North and South."

Yes, we do. We may wish we hadn't, but in the long run we expect to show a profit by this opening bid. By the way, we open with one diamond.

Where There's Smoke There's Controversy

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1978 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I read that the voters in California now have another controversial proposition that is causing a heated battle. It's Proposition 5, having to do with smoking. If passed, exactly what will it DO—and NOT do? I do not live in California, but there's been talk of initiating the same kind of legislation in my state.

LIKES TO SMOKE

DEAR LIKES: If passed, Proposition 5 will:
Recognize both the right to smoke and the right to breathe clean air.
Establish non-smoking and smoking sections in restaurants.
Guarantee non-smokers smoke-free places of employment while providing smoking areas for employees who smoke.
Create smoke-free hospital rooms unless a smoking room is requested.
It will not:
Prohibit or restrict the sale of tobacco products.
Regulate smoking outdoors.
Restrict smoking in designated smoking sections indoors.
Affect smoking in private places.
Cost the taxpayers money. Instead, it will save tax dollars.
Be carved in granite, since the Initiative allows the legislature to amend it with a mere majority vote.

DEAR ABBY: Our son and daughter-in-law have a son (a college senior) who announced that he plans to marry the girl with whom he has gone for a long time.

It seems that our son and his wife feel that this girl is not right for their son, so they suggested that the young couple live together for a year while he is in graduate school, hoping the love affair won't survive beyond that time.

This doesn't seem like the right solution to us. What do you think?

PERPLEXED

DEAR PERPLEXED: Although your son and daughter-in-law prefer to have their son live with the girl rather than marry her, the final decision will be made by the young couple, and not by either the parents or the grandparents. (Or me.)

DEAR ABBY: What in the world do they put on this newspaper that causes an instant hay fever attack? Two minutes after I start reading my newspaper my eyes begin to water, my nose itches and I start to sneeze! In five minutes I'm weeping.

Has anyone else ever complained about this?

HOWARD E.

DEAR HOWARD: Much in today's world news would make anybody cry. As for your itching schnoz, maybe you have no nose for news. (P.S. An allergist might be more helpful.)

Blind Veteran Wins Biggest Jackpot Ever

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)- James Schelich, who was blinded and lost 75 percent of his hearing in the Korean war, says "people who need it" will benefit from his winning $275,000 in the world's largest slot-machine payoff.

Schelich, who was injured during an explosion 26 years ago, lives in a nursing home in Washington, Mo. It was his fourth trip to Las Vegas and he had been playing about an hour and 45 minutes Sunday morning when he hit the jackpot.

"I have no special plans for it," Schelich said. "It'll go to people who need it."

Described by a traveling companion as a deeply religious and patriotic man, Schelich, 48, said, "There's going to be an awful lot of people that are going to get a awful lot of good out of this.

"First of all, I'll have to see what Uncle Sam is going to do with me about income taxes. I have no regrets about paying my fair share."

Asked what he would do with the rest of the money, he said he plans to work "closely with all the local charitable organizations that have become very important to me."

"When I needed prayers, an awful lot of people prayed for me," said Schelich. "I've never forgotten that."

Schelich hit the jackpot using silver dollars on a progressive jackpot machine, known as the "Pot of Gold" at the Flamingo Hilton.

When Schelich hit his jackpot on the machine, bells rang and sirens went off, but no money came out.

Instead, Henri Lewin, senior vice president of Hilton Hotel Corp., presented Schelich with a check for $275,000. The previous record jackpot was $250,000, won at the Las Vegas Hilton last July by Laura O'Neil of Miami.

Barron Hilton, president of the hotel firm, congratulated the winner by telephone and invited him to be a guest for a week's vacation for two at the Hilton Hawaiian Village.

Schelich said he had never before gone home from Las Vegas as a winner. "I'll come back out again...you bet," he vowed.

Canadian Ripoff

OTTAWA (AP) - The Canadian government probably paid $142 million in unemployment benefits last year to people not entitled to them, Canada's Auditor-General J.J. Macdonell says.

In a report released Wednesday, he said the apparent over-payments were discovered during an audit and are in addition to $6 million in overpayments the government discovered earlier.

Treatment of acne

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 19-year-old male who has been visiting dermatology offices for four years because of an acne problem. What I would like to know is what causes acne? Is there any way to get rid of it before you outgrow it? What body changes occur to stop it? My current doctor's treatment consists of washing with an abradant cleanser and applying a clear liquid prescription, then applying a thick white liquid. I was taking pills, but this doctor found they were affecting my liver. Is this all that can be done? Isn't there any other method of treatment?

DEAR READER — As a generalization, acne is a problem of the adolescent years. It really does begin with puberty, which suggests that it has something to do with an increase in the formation of sex hormones. The problem really isn't just limited to young people, though, as it does occur in older people, including those who are middle-aged or older.

It is related to improper functions of the skin. Remember, the skin is an organ and it is filled with glands that create oils and sweat.

The activation of the oily glands, through whatever mechanism, is the chief underlying cause of acne. Just having oily skin by itself might be all right, but defects develop at the surface of the skin so the oil glands get plugged up and retain sebum, the oily secretions formed by these glands. It's this oily or sometimes almost waxy material which becomes blackheads or whiteheads, and if the drainage of that gland is completely blocked at the surface of the skin, the accumulation may develop into a pimple.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 8-2, Acne Can Be Treated, to give you more information about how this problem develops and what our current thinking is about treating it. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Address your request to Dr. Lamb in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

There are stubborn cases, but most cases can certainly be helped a great deal with adequate treatment.

The other major factor which contributes to the development of acne is the action of small bacteria just inside the gland that acts on the fatty secretions. Acne, then, is related to excessively oily or greasy skin, problems at the surface of the skin that prevent adequate drainage and, finally, the action of bacteria.

It follows that the proper treatment is directed toward decreasing the oily greasy formation, coupled with peeling the skin or improving the surface of the skin so that oil glands can drain properly without getting plugged up and, finally, the use of antibiotics to help eliminate the bacteria that converts the fat to irritating substances. All of these are discussed in The Health Letter that I am sending you.

Unfortunately, some people do have trouble with their liver when they have taken tetracyclines, commonly used in the treatment of acne. This, however, is most often in individuals who take very large doses. Sometimes these medicines are effective in small amounts over prolonged periods of time. They should not be used during the period of life that the teeth are developing.

Every face is different but the things a person can do at home to help include using agents to dry the skin and frequent washing of the skin. If you need more than the use of skin-drying agents and, perhaps, hot soaks to the skin with a warm wash cloth, then it is probably best to see your doctor and have him help you. This could help you avoid developing scars and pits.

Hurricane Kendra Watched Closely

MIAMI (AP)—Mariners as far north as Delaware were warned to keep a close watch on Hurricane Kendra, which rambled about the Atlantic off Florida after being designated the season's fifth hurricane.

Forecaster Gil Clark at the National Hurricane Center said Kendra was not likely to hit land.

"Usually they turn sharply to the east once they get abreast of Florida," he said. "It's pretty rare for a hurricane to hit the United States this late in the year."

Kendra was the 11th tropical storm of the 1978 Atlantic season and developed into the season's fifth hurricane Sunday afternoon.

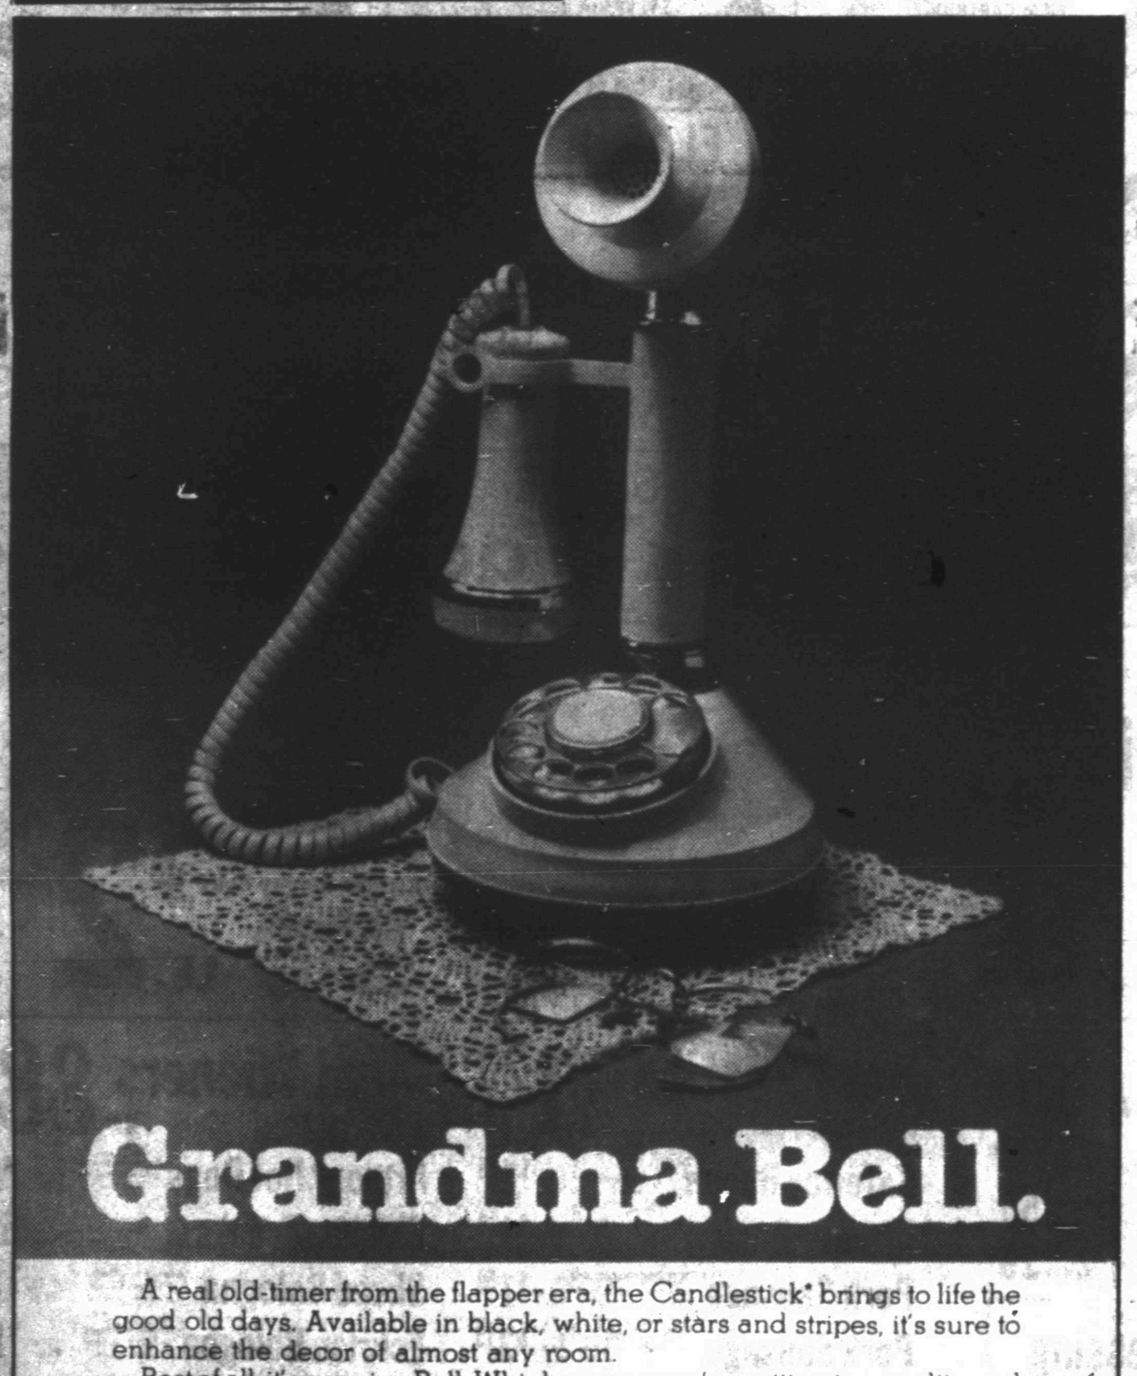

At 5 a.m. EST today, Kendra's eye was about 400 miles east of Daytona Beach, Fla. The storm was moving north at 10 mph and forecasters expected no significant changes.

Top winds were estimated at 80 mph, with gales extending out 100 miles from center and 50 miles to the southwest.

Bengals, Cards Finally Break Into Win Column

By The Associated Press

There are no more zeroes on the left side of the National Football League standings. A couple of formerly wounded quarterbacks took care of that on Sunday.

Jim Hart launched a 55-yard touchdown pass to rookie Dave Steif to propel St. Louis past the Philadelphia Eagles 16-10. And Ken Anderson completed 11 of 16 passes for 268 yards, including a 45-yard TD to Isaac Curtis, in Cincinnati's 28-13 victory over Houston.

Just as upsets of Pittsburgh and Los Angeles wiped out the NFL's unbeaten ranks a week ago, upsets by the Cardinals and Bengals cleaned out the winless ranks.

Both head coaches, Bud Wilkinson of St. Louis and Homer Rice of Cincinnati were finally rewarded with the faith they had shown their players.

"I've been telling you guys for eight games that I've never been more proud of any group of men," Wilkinson said he told his team. "You just refused to give up."

In Cincinnati, Rice recalled: "We had a team meeting Saturday and I told them: 'We're a time bomb just waiting to explode. It's just a matter of time.'"

The most impassioned speech, though, was made to Wilkinson by Jim Bakken of the Cardinals, who kicked a 31-yard field goal. "I've been in this league 17 years, and I can tell you that other coaches would have quit on us," he said. "but you stayed with us and gave us inspiration. A lot of coaches would have berated us, called us on the carpet. But each week you told us we were getting closer. And we want you to have the game ball."

He handed the ball to his coach - and the 62-year-old Wilkinson cried. "It was the greatest thrill of my life," said the legend who coached the Oklahoma Sooners to a 145-29-4 record, three national championships, two Sugar Bowls, four Orange Bowls and four unbeaten seasons in 17 years.

Hart, who suffered a slight shoulder separation two weeks ago, was a surprise starter for St. Louis. He completed 12 of 24 passes for 260 yards and the winning TD. Jim Otis also scored on a 7-yard run.

McLendon Wins Pensacola

PENSACOLA, Fla.-Mac McLendon parred the first playoff hole and won the $125,000 Pensacola Open when Mike Reid drove into the woods and bogeyed the extra hole.

McLendon and Reid were tied after 72 holes at 16-under-par 272.

Austin Wins Her First One

STUTTGART, West Germany - Top-seeded Tracy Austin beat Betty Stove of the Netherlands 6-3, 6-3 to win her first international tournament as a professional.

Westerners Take Demaret Tourney

BROWNSVILLE--Western Texas College came from behind with a final-day 304 to win the junior college division of the Jimmy Demaret Intercollegiate Golf Tournament held here over the weekend.

The three-day meet was played at El Diablo Country Club and El Angel Country Club.

WTC and Texas University freshmen tied after the first round with a 291 each. The University went in front on the second 18 by two strokes, 601 to 603, but the Westerners trimmed the challenge on the final day to win, 907-908. Odessa College was third with a 912.

In the University division, New Mexico State won with an 886, followed by Centennary University 887, Sam Houston State 892, Houston Baptist 897 and Texas A&M 900.

WTC golfers Billy Sitton and Mike Waller were runner-up and third place medalist with 224 and 225 respectively. Lawrence Field of UT was medalist with a 223. Other Westerners turned in the following scores: Don Cofer 229, Greg Reynolds 229 and Britt Lindsey 236.

Two former WTC golfers led their teams in the University division: Chris Brown led Texas Tech with a 221 while Terry Kendrick paced Houston Baptist with a 226.

Coach Bob O'Day commented that he was pleased with the performance. "We played so bad last week at Odessa, and bounced back. We beat Odessa, which currently leads the Western Conference, and they had beaten us soundly last week."

Friday the Westerners close the fall season with a conference tournament in Roswell, N.M.

Hermleigh X's Gorillas, 45-34

By JOHN LONG

TRENT--The Trent Gorillas were defeated in their homecoming game Saturday night by a super charged Hermleigh Cardinal team that carried the game 45-34.

Cardinal Stan Warren accounted for four of Hermleigh's six touchdowns, and James Williamson and Wesley Kruger each brought in one.

For the Gorillas, Herbert Beaver made three out of the team's five touchdowns. The remaining two touchdowns were made by Gilbert Beaver.

The game started out in favor of the Gorillas when Herbert Beaver, a 150-pounder, scooped up the game's opening punt and scurried 75 yards down the field for a touchdown.

Hermleigh retaliated on a three-yard touchdown run by Warren and a pair of extra points kicked by Chip Roemisch. Hermleigh again scored on a one yard run by Warren.

In the second quarter, Hermleigh scored only once, and that was on a 20-yard pass caught and run over the goal line by James Williamson. Wesley Kruger brought in an extra point with an end-zone pass.

The Gorillas made two touchdowns, and both of them were by Gilbert Beaver. The first was on a 15-yard pass. Following that, Lloyd Williams booted in two extra points.

With only 18 seconds left in the half, Gilbert Beaver caught a six-yard TD pass in the end zone. The extra points failed, and the score stood at 21-20 in favor of Hermleigh at the end of the half.

In the third quarter, the Cardinals came back and scored a touchdown on a six-yard pass to Wesley Kruger. Roemisch kicked the extra points. Another touchdown was made by Warren on a three-yard run.

The Gorillas made only one touchdown, and that on a one-yard dart by Herbert Beaver. Williams kicked the extra points.

During the fourth quarter, Stan Warren scored again on a seven-yard run, Roemisch kicked in the extra two points.

For the Gorillas, it was Herbert Beaver who last scored on a 32-yard run.

Hermleigh, 7-0 for the season and 3-0 in district play, faces Highland next week.

The Panthers, now 3-3 for the year, upped their district mark to 2-1. They host Trent 6-1-0, 45-34 losers to Hermleigh Saturday, on Nov. 3.

Begin Season Wednesday...

WTC Gearing Up

This year's Westerner squad is strikingly different from that of a year ago. Shorter, quicker, less mature and less team oriented, it is one which will take longer to jell, feels Coach Nolan Richardson. But that doesn't mean the 1978-79 Westerners won't be in contention for the title...it just may take a little longer to warm up.

"It's taking us a little while longer to learn," says team co-captain Dwight Williams, a sophomore from El Paso. "But as soon as everybody adjusts we'll be alright."

Joe Mendoza, also a sophomore from El Paso and the other co-captain, agrees. "If we all come together and play as a unit everything will turn out okay. Last year there were two groups, one that was already here and one that Coach brought with him," he comments, echoing what Richardson had pointed out earlier. "Now there is the group that was already here, and a lot of individuals from all over. It just takes time to get everybody playing together."

Another aspect of this team the two comment on is quickness.

"Most of the teams in the conference will be about our size, so we're really not too bad off there," says Williams, who at 5-10 is the shortest player on the team. "But we'll be quicker than last year and that should help us a lot. We'll be able to run.

"We scrimmaged Odessa and Midland very well," he adds, moving back on the subject of team unity. "Coach will get the best out of everybody. He is great about getting it out of you. As soon as everybody gets around to his way of doing things, we'll be fine. Right now, I guess we're all just kind of itching to play."

Meanwhile, Richardson predicts a tougher race than last year for the Westerners, who won the conference and regional titles.

"I think everybody will be out after us," he grins. "Western has dominated the conference for so long, and everybody is gunning for us. They're always up for us. With that thought in mind, we've got our work cut out. Hopefully, we can hold our on. We might not look so great on paper, but I feel like we can do real well. We're just going to take it day by day."

The first day, or game, for the Westerners will be Nov. 1 in El Paso.

Conference Aimed At Scuttling Agreements

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP)—Arab foreign ministers opened a meeting here today to prepare an agenda for a summit conference aimed at scuttling the Camp David agreements.

The meeting is attended by 19 of the 22 members of the Arab League, with Lebanon and North Yemen expected to arrive later. Egypt, a pariah among Arabs for its dealings with Israel, is absent.

Radical states are expected to denounce President Anwar Sadat of Egypt for Egypt's unilateral peace attempt with Israel. But the conservative Arab bloc, led by oil-rich Saudi Arabia, is expected to advise moderation.

Saudi Arabian Foreign Minister Prince Saud el Faisal said Saturday the object should be to bolster Arab unity, not to isolate Egypt.

The meeting was preceded by a reconciliation of Iraq and Syria, marking the end of a 10-year feud. They forged a political and military alliance to oppose the Camp David agreements, strengthening the hardline group that denounces Sadat as a traitor.

But observers doubt whether this grouping, which joins Iraq, Syria, Libya, Algeria, South Yemen and the Palestine Liberation Organization, can persuade the conservatives to help overthrow Sadat.

Last month Iraq proposed establishment of a $9 billion fund by the oil-rich Arab states to finance a campaign against the Camp David accords. Iraq said part of the fund could be used to lure Egypt away from dealing with Israel.

The Camp David accords call on Jordan to play a role in the future administration of the West Bank of the River Jordan.

Jordan and Saudi Arabia have refused to endorse the accords, stating they are inadequate for a comprehensive Mideast peace. Both have refrained from denouncing Sadat, co-winniner with Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin of this year's Nobel Peace Prize.

Observers believe the hardline approach is also bound to be opposed by Sudan and Morocco, the Arab states closest to Sadat.

Charlie's Angel Wed Sunday

NEW YORK (AP)-The engagement lasted "so long I can't remember," said actress Jaclyn Smith. But it ended in seven minutes when the co-star of television's "Charlie's Angeles" married actor Dennis Cole in a brief ceremony.

About 25 persons, including Kate Jackson, a "Charlie's Angels" co-star, attended the wedding Sunday in Marble Collegiate Church on Fifth Avenue. Arthur Caliandro, a pastor at the interdenominational church run by Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, officiated at the service.

Cole, 38, said he considered himself a lucky man and added, "She's a beautiful woman."

Burglary Case Is Under Probe Here

Bartin Perez told police he was the victim of burglars who entered his apartment and took $1,300 worth of items.

He reported the break-in to officers at 4:15 p.m. Sunday. Taken from his apartment, he said, were clothes, money, a television, a stereo, a clock-radio, and a blender.

In an unrelated matter, police arrested three subjects on a felony criminal mischief charge in Towle Park early this morning.

The three are alleged to have damaged or destroyed a picnic table, a picnic table canopy, and a restroom in the park. The damages was estimated at $500.

Two of those arrested are juveniles. They have been released. The third is an adult, and charges against him are pending.

In a misdemeanor act of criminal mischief, Sgt. Art Casias of the local National Guard unit told police that three windows on a truck have been broken out. He estimated damage at $65.

Two telephones were taken by an intruder from Linda Massingill's 306 34th St. home. That incident was reported at 8:40 p.m. Sunday.

Three minor traffic accidents were also investigated.

The first occurred at 7:40 p.m. Saturday at 37th St. and Ave. E. Involved in it, reports show, were a 1972 Chevrolet driven by Jeffery L. Kirkpatrick and a 1972 Ford driven by Etta D. Chapman.

The next took place at 2:30 p.m. Sunday at the intersection of 32nd St. and Ave. C. A 1975 Pontiac driven by Sherette Sue Perry and a 1974 Plymouth driven by Rocky Holmes were in collision.

The final mishap was at 4:35 p.m. Sunday at 38th St. and College Ave. Reports show that a 1974 Toyota driven by Terry Boatman was in collision with a 1972 International driven by Lester Carter.

Check Your Automobile Tag Sticker

AUSTIN—It's time for a last-minute checkup. Look at your automobile registration plate.

Does the validation sticker expire in October, 1978?

If so, you have until Oct. 31 to get a new validation sticker for your vehicle.

R.W. Townsley, director of the Motor Vehicle Division of the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation, reminded motorists today that they should have received October renewal registration applications by mail.

If you do not have the new three-part registration renewal card, you must take your most recent registration receipt, car title and the registration fee to your county tax assessor-collector to obtain a new validation sticker.

Under the new year-around registration law, about 700 thousand vehicle registrations expire each month. They must be renewed for one year during the month of registration, since the last of the short-term transition registrations expired in September.

The staggered registration system was conceived to eliminate long lines at the last minute when more than 10 million registrations were filed in two months. You can make the short lines shorter still by promptness in registering your vehicle.

Your Birthday

October 31, 1978

Old friends will play important roles this coming year in helping you to have an easier road to hoe. Stand by them when they need you. They, in turn, will stand by you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) This is a good day to review your goals. You may have been chasing an unattainable objective. The more realistic your target, the more likely your success. Find out more about yourself by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your logic must take precedence over your hunches today, or you could be seriously blown off-course. Steer safely in charted waters.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) This is a good day to launch a new enterprise in an area where you have knowledge, experience and expertise. If you get out of your bailiwick, however, it might be costly.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Don't make foolish concessions today in negotiating important agreements. Your position is strong. Deal from your strengths.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Face issues squarely today. Don't try to dodge them. You can clean up an old problem and remove a big weight from your mind.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Social situations can turn what could have been a productive day into one quite wasteful. Hard work is required if you're to accomplish anything.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You could get so carried away talking about old times with pals that you'll ignore a family matter that must be taken care of today.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Outlandish promises made today in order to get someone to do your bidding will have to be kept, though they may prove to be a hardship.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Some changes are in store where your social life is concerned. You may see evidence of this today. The effects will be both adverse and beneficial.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) In your anxiety to tie up loose ends today you may deprive yourself of all that's due you. Take the time to do things right.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Actions predicated upon sober reflection will produce desirable results today. In cases where you're too nonchalant, the opposite will be true.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Before getting further involved with one who is presently indebted to you, ask him to settle his old bill. Don't chase bad money with good.

September Sees Indicator Rise

By MICHAEL DOAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)-A government indicator of future economic trends rose 0.9 percent in September, the biggest increase since April, the Commerce Department said today.

However, most of the increase was confined to building permits and a rising money supply, making it difficult to establish an economic trend. An increased money supply can contribute to inflation.

The government looks at its index of leading indicators to fine out where the economy is headed. It often takes several months to establish a pattern.

In the entire July-September quarter, the index gained a weak 0.1 percent when Compared to the spring quarter.

The Carter administration is counting on slow, steady growth for the rest of the year to keep both inflation and unemployment in check. Economists disagree on whether inflation-tightening measures will lead to a recession next year.

The 0.9 percent gain for September followed an increase of 0.7 percent in August and a drop of 0.9 percent in July. It was the biggest increase since a 1.1 percent jump in April at the end of a severe winter.

Contributing to the rise in the index were the money supply, building permits, liquid assets, deliveries and a relatively low layoff rate.

Negative contributors were factory orders, orders for plant and equipment, prices of sensitive products and stock prices. However, the index did not reflect the dramatic drop in stock prices during October. The average work week was unchanged.

The index stood at 138.3, meaning the indicators were 38.3 percent stronger than in the base period of 1967. They were at 132.5 in September 1977.

Youth Faces Charge Of Robbery Here

Larry Gordon Mael has been charged with one count of aggravated robbery.

The 17-year-old Mael was arrested Thursday afternoon in connection with the Oct. 17 holdup of Bailey's Truck Stop. He remains in Scurry County Jail in lieu of $25,000 bond.

No charge has been filed against him in connection with the Cash Foods convenience store robbery last April. Mael, who turned 17 only last month, was a juvenile at the time of that reported offense.

District Attorney Pete Greene indicated he would seek to press only the truck stop robbery charge against Mael and try the youth as an adult.

Mael is alleged to have brandished a sawed-off shotgun in the truck stop holdup. Police seized a gun they believe he used in the robbery.

Jury Panel Is Dismissed

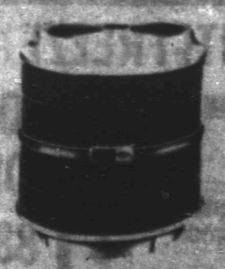

A jury panel called for service in 132nd District Court this morning was dismissed when Judge Wayland G. Holt announced that three civil cases that had been set for trial had been settled out of court.

The same panel has been called to report again at 9 a.m. Nov. 20.
