Strong Protest To General Franco Ordered; Eight Men Were Killed In Explosion

(By The Associated Press)

Great Britain blamed the Spanish insurgents today for the death of eight British seamen and the wounding of 24 on May 13, when the British destroyer Hunter struck a mine off southeastern Spain.

The London government ordered its ambassador to Spain, Sir Henry Chilton, to protest to Generalissimo Francisco Franco's administration at Salamanca and reserved the right to claim damages.

Is Termed Accidental

It said the explosion was "accidental," but a spokesman declared the government understood the insurgents had laid mines in the high seas off Almeria, the scene of the blast, and in other places, and that the Hunter hit one of them.

Incidents of similar nature were a part responsible for withdrawal of Italy and Germany from the international neutral naval patrol of Spain. But there was no indication Britain would follow their example. Instead, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden was working to bring both the fascist powers back into the neutrality group. In Berlin, official sources predicted Germany and Italy would rejoin the naval patrol by the end of the week.

They left the international organization May 31, the day German warships shelled Almeria, Spanish government port. The previous week, the German pocket battleship Deutschland and the Italian auxiliary vessel Barletta had been bombed by Spanish government planes.

On the Spanish war front, government soldiers strengthened newly-won positions on the northwestern edge of Madrid, besieged since last November.

Along the Mediterranean coast the government stationed a special vigilance fleet and anti-submarine defense on the heels of two days' shelling of coastal points by insurgent warships.

Strange Story Of Beauty In London Sought; Is Located On Doorstep Early Today

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, June 9 — Scotland Yard sought today to learn Diana Battye's own story of her strange eight-day disappearance that ended in sobbing collapse on a London doorstep.

The wealthy 21-year-old society girl was found early today, slumped on a step next door to the home of her fiance, Michael Asquith.

"She has not been able to give an account of what had happened to her," said a friend of the family in relating that "Didi," as her intimates knew "England's most photographed beauty," seemed on the verge of a nervous collapse. She was placed under doctors' care.

Young Asquith had disclosed to police that he had received a letter containing a threat to "remove" Diana unless he took better care of her.

Apparently the socialite photographer's model, who had aspired to motion picture stardom, had been walking the streets of London while police scured the British Isles fr her.

There was some speculation that the two may have had a lovers' quarrel and "Didi" returned after seeing an advertisement which Asquith put in the personal columns of several newspapers yesterday.

Aid Of States To Be Sought Under Plan

President Favors Removal Of Income Tax Exemptions But Says Amendment Necessary

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 9 —Treasury officials said today states would have to join the federal government in a reciprocal tax program if millions in revenue now lost through exemptions are to be channeled into public treasuries.

President Roosevelt told his press conference he always had favored removing income tax exemptions which are granted federal and state employes.

Two Other Developments

Two other developments helped make taxation a major topic of capital discussion:

1. The house approved a resolution for an inquiry into tax dodging, but voted to restrict publicity. The senate must agree to the limitations or seek a compromise.

2. United States Chamber of Commerce officials predicted business spokesmen would seek modification of the new undistributed profits tax.

Amendment Necessary

The president, discussing the removal of exemptions, said a constitutional amendment probably would be necessary.

Treasury officials reported the government could make its future security issues taxable simply by enactment of a law. They added, however, that unless all states and political subdivisions took similar action, interest rates on federal obligations would rise to exhorbitant levels.

New Troubles Are Reported In Strikes

Two Automotive Plants And Power Company Hit Today; Wide Area Is Affected

(By The Associated Press)

Strikes at two Michigan automotive plants and a power company added new complications today to national industrial conflict.

At Flint members of the United Automobile Workers Union pulled switches at the Consumers Power company plant. In Detroit the Budd Wheel company and two Ternstedt Manufacturing company plants were closed.

Stalling Is Charged

Unionists charged the companies were stalling in negotiations on wage adjustments and abolition of piece work.

The Flint power strike was the second in three weeks. The strike affected not only the big automobile center but also the industrial cities of Saginaw and Bay City and 13 counties.

An estimated 3,500 workers sat down at the Ternstedt plants, units of General Motors Corp. About 1,500 of the 2,600 Budd company workers walked out.

Negotiations Under Way

The steel strike which has already claimed eight lives marked time as the dispute reached the end of its second week. Reports were heard that peace negotiations were undr way at Washington and Columbus, Ohio.

Officials of the Newton Steel company, a Republic subsidiary, postponed the schedule reopening of the Monroe, Mich., plant from 4 p. m., today until 8 a. m., tomorrow.

At Chicago, Van A. Bittner, regional SWOC director, disclosed he had appealed to the Iinland company to negotiate SWOC demands for a written contract guaranteeing collective bargaining privileges. Inland officials spurned the suggestion, reiterating a determination not to sign a contract.

Appeals Court Hands Down Ruling Today; Called Lotteries

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, June 9—The court of criminal appeals, the state's highest tribunal in criminal cases, ruled today that theater bank nights were lotteries and therefore illegal.

The court had been considering a test case from Bonham for more than a year. The supreme court ruled several months ago that bank nights were against public policy but did not pass on the important question of whether they were lotteries.

The decision was unanimous, although Judge F. L. Hawkins wrote a separate opinion giving different reasons for concurring. The main opinion was written by O. S. Lattimore.

Fine Is Upheld

The decision upheld the fine of $100 assessed H. S. Cole, Bonham picture show proprietor, on a charge of violating the lottery law.

Cole contended a bank night was not a lottery because a person did not have to pay to have a chance at the prize.

"We think it does not materially affect the scheme," Lattimore said, "that there be a possibility that some one might get a prize who had not paid for a ticket. . . . The appellant's purpose and plan—as frankly admitted by him—was to increase the patronage of his show. No sane man would believe for a moment that appelant would continue for an extended period to operate a scheme the result of which would or could lose him money."

Courts Have Differed

Hawkins pointed out that courts of other states had differed on the question of whether a bank night drawing was a lottery.

He held there was indirect consideration for participation in the drawing because persons paying admission to the theater were in a better position to receive the prize than those not there.

"The writer is impressed with this view," he said, "that where the present scheme has been held in other states not to be a lottery, the cases have turned upon a failure to show a direct consideration from the participants, or at least from a part of them, in the drawing for the prize.

Indirect Consideration

"Unless our reasoning be faulty, there does appear to be an indirect consideration moving from the registrants in the book in the purchase of admission to the theater, thereby obtaining a more favorable situation to claim the prize than the outside registrants enjoy."

Bank night operations have been widespread in Texas. A bill to make certain they were illegal had been introduced in the legislature but the decision today apparently eliminated the need for its passage.

Last Goodbyes Are Said To Jean Harlow

(By The Associated Press)

GLENDALE, Calif., June 9 — Jean Harlow's closest friends said their last goodbyes to her today over her bronze and silver casket.

In the quiet of a mortuary chapel the film star's mother, Mrs. Jean Bello, kept a tryst with the daughter she guided in the fast climb to public adulation, to wealth, and to the love and esteem of contemporaries.

Powell Is Present

There, also, was William Powell, screen star and sweetheart of Jean, for love of whom she attempted in the last year to readjust her way of thinking and acting to match his ideals.

Only 200 or so were admitted, by card, to the funeral services. These were, for the most part, her associates in motion picture work — Clark Gable, Spencer Tracy, Lionel Barrymore, Warner Baxter, Frank Morgan and others who were starred with her; W. S. Van Dyke, who directed many of her films; Ray June, her cameraman and several studio executives.

Former Husbands There

Among the mourners were Charles McGrew, III, wealthy sportsman who married her when she was only 16; Hal Rosson, her third husband from whom she was divorced in 1934; her father, R. Monticlair Carpenter of Kansas City, and her former stepfather, Marino Bello, who came to his ex-wife's aid when uremic poisoning caused Miss Harlow's death Monday at the age of 26.

A Christian Science funeral rite by Mrs. Genevieve Smith, practitioner, and a massive casket was to be borne to the Wee Kirk O' The Heather chapel in Forest Lawn Memorial park. Nelson Eddy and Jeanette MacDonald, famous singing duo of the films, were to sing two of Jean's favorites: "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," and "Indian Love Call."

After the last tribute from relatives, the body was to be placed in the "sanctuary of benediction," and mausoleum where lie many of the once great of the films—Will Rogers, Marie Dressler, Lon Chaney, Florenz Ziegfeld, Wallace Reid, Ernest Torrance, Jack and Lottie Pickford, Lowell Sherman, Earle Williams and others.

Miss Harlow's dressing room at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio in Culver City was locked today, a memorial wreath on the door. The room will remain unoccupied for an extended time, as a shrine to the "glamour girl" who earned a million dollars for herself and more millions for her employers.

Although Jean had one of Hollywood's largest collections of jewels, no gem adorned her in death.

Friends of the actress said today that the uremic poisoning and cerebral odema that claimed her life probably developed slowly over a long period of time, and that although it was not publicly known, her health was a matter of concern to her mother and Powell. Her condition became serious two weeks ago as she was acting in "Saratoga," an unfinished film, with Clark Gable.

Bills Are Approved By Allred Today

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, June 9—Governor James V. Allred signed two more of the major appropriation bills today, those making provision for eleemosynary institutions and rural schools in the next biennium.

He made no changes in either measure. The rural aid bill appropriated $11,000,000, an increase of $1,000,000 over the regular appropriation for the current two years, and the eleemosynary bill $14,131,615, an increase of $2,654,524. In addition to the regular appropriation of $10,000,000 for rural schools made two years ago, however, the legislature approved a $1,800,000 deficiency. This brought the total for rural aid this biennium to $11,800,000.

Others Given Approval

The governor approved yesterday appropriations of $16,657,001 and $4,951,130, respectively, for educational institutions and the judiciary system. Of the principal appropriation bills, only that providing for state departments remained on the executive's desk. He has until Friday to act on bills passed at the general session of the legislature.

Governor Allred said he believed the appropriations for eleemosynary and educational institutions were sufficient and there should be no calls for emergencies. If he had had the power, he said, he would have trimmed the rural aid bill $500,000.

Wets Lead In Georgia Vote

(By The Associated Press)

ATLANTA, June 9—Mounting returns from yesterday's prohibition referendum in Georgia increased the lead of repeal advocates to 9,811 votes today.

Late unofficial tabulations also added to the big majorities for 26 state "new deal" constitutional amendments sponsored by Governor E. D. Rivers.

Count This Morning

The count at 9:45 a. m. (Eastern standard time) showed 70,229 for repeal and 60,418 against, but neither side was confident of the outcome because the vote closely paralleled the 1935 situation when Georgia remained dry by 243 votes.

The vote was based on returns from 844 of the state's approximately 1700 precincts, in 155 of the 159 counties.

Marvin Griffin, director of repeal forces, said the situation "looks pretty good for repeal."

From the other camp, W. W. Gaines said he had "high hopes" that added returns from rural counties would "overcome the lead of

MOTION FOR REHEARING

TEXARKANA, June 9 (AP)—District Attorney Elmer Lincoln said today a motion for rehearing in the case of A. C. Ward, whose conviction on a charge of accomplice to murder by arson was reversed, would be filed within the next few days with the state court of criminal appeals.

MAPS ARE STUDIED

DAKAR, French Senegal, June 9 (AP)—Amelia Earhart studied maps of Africa's wild expanses today while awaiting the favorable weather report that would send her on the next stage of her just-for-fun flight around the world.

RUMORS ARE SPIKED

FORT WORTH, June 9 (AP)—Paul Waggoner spiked rumors here today that he would move to New Mexico or Colorado, shortly after the announcement that Guy Waggoner, his brother, plans to build a $50,000 home on a ranch Guy owns in the northeastern part of New Mexico.

Huge Problem Being Faced

AUSTIN, June 9 (AP)—Representatives of telephone companies, testifying before a senate committee, pledged cooperation today in efforts to stamp out book-making in Texas.

At the same time, John H. Bickett, former judge of the San Antonio court of civil appeals, speaking for the Southwestern Bell Telephone company, said the problem was a bigger one than it might appear at first examination.

He suggested that the bill which the committee was preparing to write should be aimed at the operator of a book-making establishment, persons who place the bets and, with limitations, at the owner of property used for book-making purposes.

Telephone companies, he testified, had attempted to refuse service to places they believed to be operated by bookies, but, being common carriers, had had to move carefully. Suits against the Southwestern Bell for refusal to give service were pending, he said.

He suggested a provision in the law instructing the communication companies to discontinue service on information from a county or state official it was being used for book-making purposes and exempting the companies from damages for such discontinuance.

If such a provision were included, he said, a copy of the information should go to local law enforcement officers.

ENROLLMENT BOOSTED

COLLEGE STATION, June 9. (AP) Texas A. and M. officials, after planning the first day's registration, which showed a 25 per cent increase, predicted today the total enrollment for the summer session's first term would be betwewen 1,300 and 1,400 students.

Eighteen Thousand Men Are Returning To Jobs Today

MEXICO CITY, June 9. (AP)—Eighteen thousand striking Mexican oil workers were ordered "back to work at noon" today to end the walkout which has virtually paralyzed transportation-dependent industries since May 28.

The workers had been ordered to return yesterday but refused because of a last minute hitch between striker leaders and the government labor department. Agreement was again reached later.

Total Of 200 Enrolled For Classes In High School

A total of 200 students, of which number 144 are in the high school and 56 in elementary and junior high school grades, had enrolled for the Lubbock public school term before the deadline at noon today.

The term, which began Monday of last week, will continue through July 15. Classes are being held in Senior High school building.

Oklahoma Crops Are Damaged By Hail

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 9 (AP)—Oklahoma's grain and garden crops, judged by agricultural experts the best in six years, suffered additional damage today as hailstorms and heavy rains continued to hammer away at scattered areas.

A rainstorm in the northeastern section was so hard farmers reported many stands of wheat injured and garden crops beaten into the ground.

A wind and electrical storm struck the northwestern sector, ripping limbs from trees and damaging power and communication lines over an area 50 miles wide. Accompanying rainfall ranged up to 2.25 inches.

Blackwell's 2.09 inches of rain in two hours was the heaviest there since June, 1935. Cold drizzles fell over the Panhandle and temperatures dropped to 48 degrees.

Temperature Again Climbs In City; Is 91 On Tuesday

Promise of a second hot summer day following general rains and hailstorms over the area was seen late this morning, when the temperature reached 77.5 degrees.

Temperature soared to a maximum of 91 degrees Tuesday afternoon and at 6:30 o'clock and receded only two degrees, Municipal airport reported.

Ideal weather for replanting and cultivation necessitated by rains and hails is bringing farmers into fields over the South Plains. Much replanting and cultivation to keep land from baking and to keep weeds down has been made necessary.

Important Speech Is Planned By Adolf Hitler June 19

MARIENWERDER, East Prussia, Germany, June 9. (AP)—Adolf Hitler is coming to strategic East Prussia on June 19 to make an important party speech from the historic castle of Marineburg, seat of Teutonic knights, it was reported on apparently good authority today.

The speech, insofar as could be learned in the secrecy that envelops Der Fuehrer's plans, will deal with frontier problems. It will be made before the oldest and highest leaders of the nazi party and, in all likelihood, will be kept confidential.

Murder Trial Will Open On Thursday

PLAINVIEW, June 9.—(Special)—A special venire of 72 men has been called to report in 64th district court Thursday morning at 10 o'clock for selection of a jury to hear the murder case against Lawrence Brady, 19, charged with slaying of E. P Hamner, filling station operator, last December 29.

W. W. Kirk will be defense attorney, having been named recently.

Charles H. Dean, district attorney, will handle the state's case. Trial will be before Judge C. D. Russell.

The slaying occurred in the filling station-residence of Hamner. His body was found the next morning, the head crushed. A hatchet was believed used as the lethal instrument.

Brady is said to have made a statement on the case at Coleman, where he was apprehended. Recently Brady was returned to the county jail here.

Snow, Rock Slides Hampering Search

SALT LAKE CITY, June 9 (AP)—Snow and rock slides threatened serious injury or death today to searchers for bodies of seven persons who died in a December air crash.

Hundreds of tons, loosed by new thaws, crashed down a mountainside directly below where the plane wreckage lies 25 miles south of here.

One falling boulder struck a Civilian Conservation corps enrollee yesterday. He was injured seriously. Greatest precautions were ordered as a result.

Farmer Faces Perjury Charge After Marriage Of Son

SULPHUR, Okla., June 9 (AP)—Charles Rucker, 47-year-old Murray county farmer, faced a perjury charge today in the marriage of his 16-year-old son to 13-year-old Dorothy Lee Thomas of Corsicana, Texas.

Rucker pleaded innocent to a charge that he swore Dorothy was 18 years of age when he obtained a marriage license last Wednesday for the girl and his son, Thomas Rucker.

Broad Steel Strike Probe Is Planned By Senate Group

WASHINGTON, June 9. (AP)—Senator Bridges (R-NH) agreed today to submit to the senate post-office committee a labor organizer's request for a broad steel strike investigation.

He said he would not expand his own resolution for an inquiry into alleged censorship and interference with mail in the strike area.

HEART ATTACK FATAL

ORANGE, June 9 (AP)—Luther Bass, 49, Orange railroad employee, was found dead by the side of his bogged down car at noon today. He left home early in the morning. His death was attributed to a heart attack.

Two Texans Perish As Heavy Storm Sweeps Over Lake

CAMPTI, La., June 9 (AP)—Two Texans perished last night during a sudden storm which kicked up waves on Black Lake big enough to swamp the boats in which they were riding.

The victims were A. B. Woodard, 38, of Tyler, and J. E. Land, WPA employe from Nacogdoches. Judge S. P. Marshall of Nacogdoches and two guides, Dan Gilliam and Cameaux Franklin of Campti, were rescued. Alton Holloway of Longview, Texas, raced his motorboat through the turbulent lake to pull the men from the water. Woodard and Franklin were in one swamped boat, the other three men in another.

Prison Terms Are Upheld

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, June 9.—Life sentences assessed three defendants for conviction of a third offense were upheld by the court of criminal appeals today.

The habitual criminal statute was invoked successfully by trial courts against Marshall Phillips of Shelby county for theft, J. R. Cotton of Travis county for theft, and Robert Thompson of Travis county for forgery.

Others Are Affirmed

Also affirmed were the cases of C. L. Jackson of Nueces county, 46 years for burglary; J. C. Evans of Potter county, 10 years for robbery and Eddie Jones of Upshur county, five years for the murder of Will Peoples on June 4, 1935.

The court granted a new trial for H. L. Martin of Nueces county, given five years for theft, because the trial court failed to submit the case of circumstantial evidence.

New Braunfels Man Seriously Injured In Auto Mishap

SAN ANTONIO, June 9 (AP)—His left arm crushed from his body at the shoulder in an automobile accident near San Antonio early today, Roland Serstefer, 40, of New Braunfels was in a critical condition at a New Braunfels hospital.

Werstefer's truck and a truck operated by Francisco Ysler of Asherton, sideswiped each other near radio station WOAI on the Austin highway.

Damage Of $30,000 Is Caused As Fire Hits Georgetown

GEORGETOWN, June 9 (AP)—Fire wrought $30,000 damage to four business buildings here last night. The blaze, apparently originating in a dry goods store, spread to a theater, grocery and a law office. Firemen from Austin and Taylor were summoned.

Two Army Fliers Are Lost In Great Salt Desert

SALT LAKE CITY, June 9. (AP)—Two army fliers from Boston were lost in the great salt desert west of here yesterday, and today army airplanes scanned the barren miles for the easterners' plane.

Major Clarence Hodge, commander of the 26th division air service of the Massachusetts national guard, radioed the Elko, Nev., airport, 200 miles west of here, at 12:48 p. m. yesterday he was lost.

That was the last heard from the Boston-bound ship.

Not until early today did it become known Major Hodge had a passenger, Lieutenant Joseph L. McNeil of Boston.

McDonald Says Subsidy Need Of Farmer; Wants Allotment Plan

WASHINGTON, June 9 (AP) — J. E. McDonald, Texas agriculture commissioner, told the House Agriculture committee today the government should adopt a domestic allotment plan to "subsidize the farmer as it has industry."

"It must do this to put the farmer's dollar on a parity with the manufacturer's," said McDonald. "There would then be a maximum exchange with benefits not only received by farmers, but by those engaged in commerce and manufacture as well."

McDonald said the government must continue its supervision in agriculture.

One Woman Is Killed And 12 Persons Hurt By Horse

NICE, France, June 9 (AP) — A woman was killed and twelve persons were hurt late today when a horse broke loose from a carriage during a "battle of flowers" spectacle arranged for the Rotary International meeting and plunged into a crowd of spectators.

The horse broke its traces and charged a crowd in Massena square, opposite the municipal casino, where the world Rotarians are meeting. The "battle of flowers" just had started at the time.

Onlookers checked the animal in a few minutes.

The Weather

FAIR

WEST TEXAS: Generally fair in south and central portions, probably showers in the Panhandle tonight and Thursday; slightly cooler in the Panhandle tonight.

EAST TEXAS: Mostly cloudy, showers in northeast and north central portions tonight; Thursday partly cloudy. Fresh southerly winds on the coast.

Proposed Farm Legislation Is Discussed At Local Meeting

Eighty cotton farmers from this section heard Cliff H. Day, Plainview, an executive of the Texas Agricultural association, discuss proposed legislation affecting farmers, at a meeting in the district courtroom this morning. H. G. Lucas, Brownwood, state president, was unable to be present.

Day was a member of a committee from the South that discussed he bill, known as he Agricultural Adjusment act of 1937, with Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace.

Particular attention was given to the cotton angle of the bill. Its provsons were outlned and its applcaton to both voluntary cooperators and others explained.

A parity price would be set and cotton payments based on a parity paid, as well as soil conservation payments. Only 85 per cent of the parity would be paid producers.

Control features of the act were discussed. The secretary of agriculture would allot produc-

Expectant Fathers Now Can Be Warned If Quins Are On Way

(By The Associated Press)

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 9.—Expectant fathers can be warned in the future to prepare themselves for one, two or five children, two University of California physicians said today, by use of a new instrument similar to the sound detectors used by the army to locate enemy airplanes.

The instrument is a stethoscope, called a "symballophone" by its inventors, Dr. William J. Kerr and Dr. A. M. Basset. With it the physician for the first time can determine the exact location of sounds inside the human body. They demonstrated the device today before the American Medical association.

The physician can also use the instrument to make more specific studies of heart troubles, including the timing and pitch of heart sounds, of diseases of the lungs and respiratory tract and friction within the lungs; of troubles in the vocal cords of opera and other singers; and the various "engine knocks" of the human body.

Loveta Carmichael, Dyer White Marry

Marriage of Miss Loveta Carmichael, summer school student of Texas Technological college, and Dyer White of Brownfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. White of Tahoka, was performed Sunday morning in the Elida, N. M., First Methodist church by the Rev. Jesse Watson. Only relatives were guests.

The bride wore a navy sheer dress with white accessories.

Immediately after wedding breakfast in the flower decked dining room of the Carmichael ranch home, near Kenna, N. M., the couple left for Brownfield where Mr. White is employed by the Quinn Drilling company. The bride's traveling suit was of coronation blue linen with white accessories.

Mrs. White, daughter of Mrs. Luther Carmichael of the ranch near Kenna, and the late Luther Carmichael, will receive a B. S. degree in home economics education from Tech this summer. She is a former teacher in the Dixie school near Tahoka. She will drive to classes from Brownfield.

Baking Demonstration Given At Homemakers Club Meet

The home of Mrs. C. C. Lane, near Lubbock, Tuesday afternoon was scene of a cake baking demonstration performed by Miss Clara Pratt, county home demonstration agent, for members of the Homemakers club.

The agent stressed correct measuring and oven temperature for best results. Oven and candy thermometers are essential, she said. The cook should know her oven and pans, then arrange pans in the oven to the best advantage. Butter or a good grade of shortening, rather than lard, should be used with cake flour made only of soft wheat. Good texture of the cake, she said, depends largely on the fineness of the sugar.

The cake baking process should be: Cream shortening, add sugar gradually. Add small amount of flour, that has been sifted three times, alternately with milk.

Each member will bring a cake to the July meeting to be scored by the agent.

The club elected Mrs. Joe Lane farm food supply demonstrator. The next meeting will be June 22 in the home of Mrs. P. F. Revier.

Painters Auxiliary Meets In Home Of Mrs. H. H. Jons

Mrs. H. H. Jons, 1312 Main street, was hostess for a meeting of the woman's auxiliary to the painters union Tuesday afternoon.

Attending were Mesdames Buel Hall, J. A. Hall, U. S. Allen, William Von Wolff, H. P. Harp and Lloyd Hamilton.

Mrs. Benson Is Hostess To Matrons Club On Tuesday

The Matrons Forty-Two club was entertained Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. W. D. Benson, 1710 Avenue K. Sherbet and angel food cake were served.

Guests were Mesdames O. B. Trinkle and Amelia McKinney. Memers attending were Mesdames W. R. Spencer, K. Carter, J. E. Garrison, Joe Penney, J. O. Jones, P. O. Kelly, E. F. Allison, Frank Caines and a Mrs. Williams.

Girl Scout Camp Is Initiated Today

The first Girl Scout day camp to be conducted in Lubbock was conducted this morning at Mackenzie State park. Girls from 10 to 14 years of age were enrolled.

The program, lasting from 7:30 until 11 o'clock, included group singing, nature study, swimming, dramatics and folk dancing. The camp will be continued the same hours each Wednesday and Friday for three weeks, Miss Fay Hodge, director, said.

Mrs. T. C. Delaney, chairman of camp committee of the Girl Scout council, urged that parents cooperate in the program by sending their daughters to the city bus station at 7:15, or by bringing them to the park. Parents also are invited to watch the camp activities.

Mrs. Delaney and Miss Hodge met with camp councilors Tuesday night to make final plans for the program Wednesday.

Care Of Feet Is Subject Of Canyon Club Discussion

CANYON COMMUNITY, June 9 (Special)—A called meeting of the local home demonstration club was conducted Monday afternoon. In a short business discussion, presided over by Mrs. B. L. Davis, Mrs. W. C. Pelty reported a recent council meeting. A program on "Care of the Feet" was conducted by Mrs. Ted Barnett as follows:

"Grooming the Feet," Mrs. Barnett; "Work Shoes," Mrs. Charles Pelty, jr.; "Dress Shoes," Mrs. B. H. Sides, and "Hosiery For All Occasions," Miss Gladys Simmons.

Guests were Mesdames W. J. Roberts, Ernest Kimberlin, J. B. Sides, H. V. Simmons and James Gammill. Members attending were Mesdames Barnett, Pelty, Sides, Bay Simmons, W. C. Pelty, W. C. Pierson, Davis and Misses Simmons and Nancy Ann Sides.

All-College Social Planned For Early Friday Night

Summer school students of Texas Technological college and their guests are to meet informally with faculty members and their guests in an all-college mixer from 8 until 9 p. m. Friday on the administration building lawn.

Participants are assured a brief program, lively entertainment, refreshments, and the chance to make new acquaintances. Prizes will be presented in recognition of the greatest distance traveled by those who attend. It was announced through the summer school recreational committee.

Eckert-Lancaster Rites Performed

MEXIA, June 9. (Special)—Miss Elouise Lancaster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Lancaster, became the bride of Dayton Eckert, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Eckert of Slaton, in a ceremony performed at 2 p. m. Sunday at the First Methodist church by the pastor, the Rev. R. Otis Sory.

Maid of honor was Miss Temperance Wright of Throckmorton and the bride's sister, Audrey Faye Lancaster, was junior bridesmaid. Her brother, Astol Lancaster, served as best man and J. E. Eckert, jr., of Slaton was a groomsman.

Immediately after a reception in the Lancaster home, the couple left for Chicago and other points of interest in the Great Lakes region. They will be at home, upon their return, at Slaton where Mr. Eckert is employed in the clerical department of the Santa Fe railroad company.

Mrs. Eckert, a graduate of Texas Technological college, Lubbock, the past several years has taught home economics in the Slaton public schools.

VFW Auxiliary Allows Money To Help Widows, Orphans

The woman's auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars, in regular meeting Tuesday night at the Hilton hotel, voted to allow 70 dollers for the Texas Cottage fund for V. F. W. widows and orphans. Plans for delegates to attend a state encampment at Beaumont June 20-22 were completed.

Attending were Mesdames J. D. Rondeaux, T. H. St. Clair, J. B. Jones, Floyd Jackson, Frank McPherson, W. H. McDonald, Ira Womack and W. R. Wilhite.

Kappa Gamma To Hear Book Reviewed At Dinner Meet

"She Strives To Conquer" (Frances Maule) will be reviewed by Mrs. W. R. Vivrett at a dinner meeting of Kappa Gamma sorority at 7:30 o'clock tonight in the Hilton hotel Aztec room. Pan-American colors will be featured in table decorations.

CLASS HAS PICNIC

The high intermediate girls class of the First Baptist Sunday school had the first of a series of summer socials at City park Monday night. Swimming and a picnic supper were enjoyed. Attending were Kitty Moore, Marilyn Jordan, Marguerite Cammack, Ruth Castle, Mildred Kuykendall and their teacher, Miss Bertha Cagle.

Personal Mention

Miss Evelyn Gregory, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Gregory of near Lubbock, has gone to Pecos, where she owns a gift shop, for the summer after visiting here several days. She taught last year at Dunn and will return there in the fall.

Three Lubbock boys, Pete Cawthon, Oran Wilson, jr., and Harold Parsons, have gone to Camp Stewart, near Kerrville, to spend six weeks. They were accompanied by Oran Wilson, sr., who has returned from the trip. This will be Pete's third summer at the camp. Harold was there last summer.

Miss Gladys McSpadden of this city, her sister, Mrs. Ray Schmidt of Lone Wolf, Okla., and their mother, Mrs. H. W. McSpadden of Brownfield have gone on a three weeks' tour of southern California by way of Sequoia and Yosemite National parks, Boulder Dam and the Grand Canyon.

Ruth Duncan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Duncan, 2415 Thirty-fourth street, is expected home Friday from San Antonio where she has just completed her sophomore year at Brackenridge High school. Adept at public speaking and debating, Miss Duncan was recognized by the school as one of the 65 outstanding students of an enrollment of 1400 this spring.

Maxine Treesh, teacher of Grand Junction, Colo., is attending summer classes at Texas Technological college and staying with friends, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Penley, 1712 Sixteenth street.

Miss Ruth Lewis, 1310 Avenue N, is spending a month in Navasota, Galveston and other South Texas cities.

Miss Gennelle Wilhite, Floydada school teacher and her mother, Mrs. Garnett Wilhite, visited friends here last night. They were to return today. Miss Wilhite holds M. A. and B. A. degrees from Texas Technological college and has taught Spanish in Floydada High school the past two years.

Preston Conerly To Wed In Huntsville

HUNTSVILLE, June 9 (Special)—The engagement of Miss Ruth Lee Jones to Thomas Preston Conerly of Clovis, N. M., was announced recently at a party given by her mother, Mrs. Guy F. Jones. The marriage is to take place at the Jones home, June 20, with the bride's father officiating.

Frank Maddox of Dallas and Lubbock will attend Mr. Conerly, a graduate of Texas Technological college, Lubbock, as best man.

Miss Jones is a graduate of Southern Methodist university, Dallas, and the past two years has been teaching at Huntsville.

USE PICKLE JUICE

Use the liquids from jars of pickles in boiled or French salad dressings. They will add a spicy flavor.

Mrs. Martin Kuykendall and children, Martin, jr., Maxine, T. L. and Donald, have returned from an extended visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Edwards, pioneer ranchers, in Llano county. Mr. Edwards, still an active, healthy man, is 94 years old. Mr. Kuykendall joined the family recently and they went to San Saba county to visit his parents.

Celebration Is Staged Today

BRONTE, June 9 (Special)—The people of Bronte and Coke county today are celebrating one of the most important events in the history of Bronte and Coke county, the completion of highway 70. This artery of travel is only about 150 miles long, extending from Clairemont in Stonewall county on the north to San Angelo, Tom Green county, on the south.

The history of locating and building highway 70 is almost romantic. The undertaking was begun in 1916 —back before the state highway department was created. The Good Roads Association of Texas was functioning at that time, and did much good work in locating highways that were most needed and in building good roads as it was possible with the funds available. July 11, 1916 congress passed a law establishing a federal aid road department. April 4, 1917 Texas enacted a law conforming to the law of the federal government relative to good roads building, thus creating the Texas highway department.

Colp Was Secretary

Col. D. E. Colp, now deceased, of San Antonio was secretary of the Good Roads association. In 1916 Col. Thos. Trammell, deceased, of Sweetwater, one of the oldest pioneers in all this part of the west, invited Col. Colp to visit Sweetwater and discuss the importance of a highway from Sweetwater to old Mexico, the most direct route possible. Col. Trammell was a man of vision and knew every cow trail between Red river and the Rio Grande. In the course of time he became one of the successful bankers of this part of West Texas. Col. Colp visited Sweetwater in response to the invitation of Col. Trammell. Upon the arrival of Col. Colp, Trammell telephoned R. L. Knierim, a local business man and old time citizen of Bronte, to come to Sweetwater, meet Col. Colp and be in the conference. Mr. Knierim went, which was the beginning of a struggle led by Mr. Knierim from then until the road designation was made and the work of constructing it was completed. During the time Mr. Knierim made 19 trips to Austin to meet with the highway commission, besides many trips he made to San Antonio, Abilene and other places in the interest of this highway. It is estimated that during the time, he gave more than three months of actual time working in behalf of this road and spent several hundred dollars of his own money.

Others Gave Aid

Along with Mr. Knierim many other local citizens worked and did what they could to bring the building of the highway to a realization. San Angelo on the south succeeded in getting 70 paved to the Coke county line a year or so ago, while Sweetwater was more fortunate and got the road from Sweetwater to the southern line of Nolan county at Blackwell paved several years ago. The strip across eastern Coke county, about twenty-nine miles in length, got the approval of the highway commission for grade and drainage structures in 1932, which was finished early in the summer that year. In January this year the commission let contracts for paving the Coke county strip, which would make 70 an all-weather road from Clairemont on the north to San Angelo on the south.

While highway 70 is a short road yet its importance is seen in the connections it makes with other arteries of travel, some of the most important in Texas, and the further fact that it is the nearest and most direct route to Old Mexico. At San Angelo 70 connects with state highway 30 to Del Rio, and there the traveling public can enter Old Mexico at Villa Acuna, making it only about 190 miles from Bronte to the republic beyond the Rio Grande. Only a few miles of highway 30 in Val Verde county remain yet to be paved. There, too, progress is being made in building.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go
The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.
Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

"Victory Bells" Ring Out At Tech As Education Bill Is Signed

Three-Weeks' Water School To Be Opened At City Hall Here On Monday Night

Specific phases of sanitation problems connected with the operation of a municipal water system were included Tuesday in the detailed program arranged for a three-weeks' "water school" which will open at the city hall here Monday night.

Lectures and round table discussions with several added special features will comprise the programs which will be given on Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights of each of the three weeks through which the course will continue.

State Arranges Course

The course has been arranged and will be given under direction of the state department of sanitation by invitation of and in cooperation with the city. J. N. Hinyard, of Austin, representing the state sanitation department, will conduct the courses.

Hinyard will be assisted in conduct of the course by J. C. Oliver, Lubbock district engineer of the state health department, and M. R. (Red) Smith, Lubbock city engineer.

Programs are designed for the area roughly within a 75 miles radius of Lubbock, and considerable interest was reported Tuesday among those in nearby towns having to do with the supervision of their water supplies. An attendance larger than at similar "schools" at San Angelo and Amarillo is indicated by the early response, Hinyard was advised.

Supply To Be Talked

Because of the particular interest in many sections of the South Plains in the development of a satisfactory supply, Hinyard said, at least one program of the course and possibly several will be devoted to that subject, with a competent geologist in charge of the discussions.

Other subjects to be discussed in detail by authorities will deal with all phases of safeguarding against pollution, the protection of distribution systems, treatment, filtration and sewage disposal.

Salary Hikes Are Assured

Texas Technological college celebrated with a ringing of "Victory bells" in the east tower this morning the fact that the general education bill which means much to the college and its personnel has become a law.

The signature of Governor James V. Allred assured Tuesday afternoon a restoration of most of the salaries of faculty members which were reduced during the depression period.

Senior, junior, sophomore and freshmen students, both co-eds and men students, the janitor, Miss Elizabeth West, librarian, and Dean James M. Gordon, took part in ringing the "Victory bells." They participated one and two at a time.

There was a general spirit of rejoicing on the campus. "Biggest thing that has happened to Tech in many years," was the characterization of the signing of the library appropriation bill by the governor. Faculty and students not only felt a definite need had been filled, but there was a great moral and spiritual uplift that means so much to the college, Dean Gordon said.

Dean Gordon sent a message to President Bradford Knapp, on a vacation in Louisiana, advising him of the approval and also to Senator G. H. Nelson and State Representative J. Doyle Settle, asking them to advise Governor James V. Allred of the appreciation of the college.

Likewise it provides for a modern library building to be completed for the 1939 fall semester and establishes a graduate school and a separate department of journalism.

Approved By Dean

The bells were rung with the approval of Dean James M. Gordon who said that no occasion could be more suited to the traditional purpose of the chimes.

By his action, the last hurdle to the college's receiving $275,000 for a library building was brushed aside by the governor.

The measure, which became law by the flourish of the young chief executive's pen, had a significance of possibly greater importance: It insured restoration of salaries of department heads to at least 90 per cent what they were prior to 1933 slashes.

Appropriations Upped

It established Tech appropriations for the 1937-39 biennium at $1,838,706, or approximately $400,000 greater than for the last two-year period.

In effect, the law not only will make certain retention of the college's corps of concededly valuable faculty members, many of whom faced dangled offers from other colleges and universities, but will allow full remedy for a library situation that for years has been seriously inadequate.

In the long term just completed, the college had an enrollment of 3,010 students and library facilities for one-tenth that number.

Need Readily Apparent

It is recognized, President Bradford Knapp of the college said recently, that only when at least one-third the enrolled student body of an institution of higher learning can be accommodated simultaneously by library facilities can that institution be regarded as discharging its full obligation to those enrolled.

To put the figures baldly, seating accommodation in the present library provides for only 148 students.

Further significance in the appropriation available for Tech includes the possibility of establishing a graduate school and provision for recognition of a separate journalism department divorced from the English department.

Appreciation expressed by Tech board members and patrons was interspersed with comment on tentative plans already made by the college board of directors.

While appropriations will not be available until in September, one board member, vice-chairman Spencer A. Wells, said preliminary discussions anent the library building had gone so far as to include tentative plans for making the structure one of the most modern in the country, including air-conditioning. In line of policy, it would match architecturally other buildings on the campus.

Wells, who paid tribute to the decidedly meritorious work of Sen. G. H. Nelson, on the finance committee of the senate and chairman of the sub-committee that considered the education appropriation for the upper house's finance committee, said the senator "deserved especial credit for the masterful manner in which he maneuvered Tech's needs in free committee of the senate."

Other Aids Secured

He called attention to the senator's managing to include, also in the bill appropriation for cottages and pavement on the college campus here.

Wells did not lose sight of "excellent work done by Rep. J. Doyle Settle of the 119th district, who was vice chairman of the appropriation committee of the lower house."

The college board of directors recognizing the need of moving with all possible dispatch in order to alleviate crowded library facilities, is expected to meet soon, Chairman Clifford B. Jones of Spur may "immediately institute board activities," Wells said he understood.

The board "had not presumed" to take any formal action, "pending the governor's signature of the measure which had been engrossed May 21." Senators, numerous of whom had committed themselves as planning to support the request for the Tech library, recognized the need as No. 1 of Texas public institutions of higher learning, they said.

Dr. Knapp who had appeared before the appropriations committee of the house and who earlier had suggested a program he would ask of legislators, could not be reached Monday night for a statement, since he was away on vacation. He earlier had indicated his pleasure at the attitude of legislators, when press services announced May 22 the legislators had passed the appropriations bill.

He had said "we will be in relatively better position than in the past," but that the legislature, while it had been "very considerate," had not been "more than is deserved" by the institution.

Wells Praises Faculty

Wells, like Dr. Knapp had done earlier, paid testimony to the "personal sacrifices" of numerous faculty members of Tech, reiterated his belief the "staff at the college is wonderful" and said he was gratified salaries would "be more commensurate with the value of those faculty members."

He said the board of directors probably would appoint soon a building committee, which will make recommendations to the entire board.

Wells saw additional advantages in the new library structure, which "not only would relieve congestion in the administration building, through allowing additional classroom space by replacing the old location, but possibly could accommodate classes itself."

Distribution Outlined

Earlier, it had been announced the appropriation would mean each year of the biennium, in round figures, $83,000 for maintenance of equipment; $34,000 for summer school and $415,000 for salaries.

Tech, which ranks third in size among state-supported educational institutions, had asked for $510,000 for salaries each year of the biennium and $178,046 for maintenance, as well as three new buildings. The state board of control budget recommendation was for $367,468 in salaries and $76,000 in maintenance, with no recommendation for building funds.

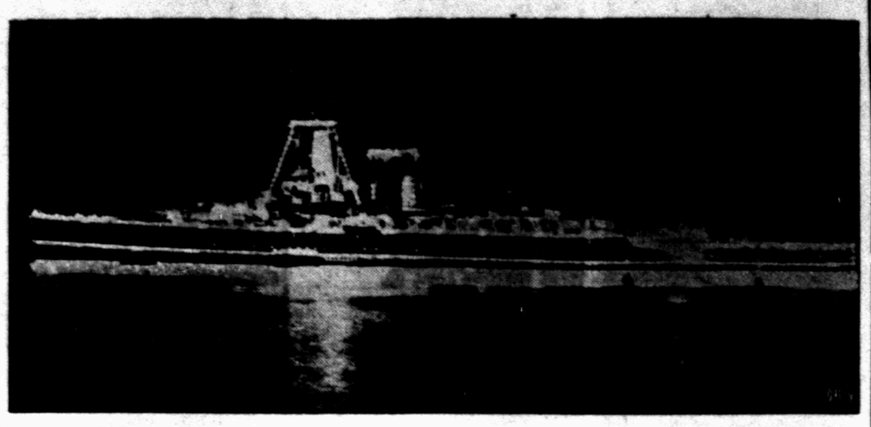

For the last biennium, appropriations were $289,690.60 for salaries, $62,517 for maintenance and $4,000 for improvement.

Seventy-eight members of the faculty who had been slashed in salary from 25 to 33 1-3 per cent in 1933 since them had received no restoration of emolument, even though faculty members in most Texas schools had been given hikes in salary to some degree in the meantime. The "extreme low level," however, in the Tech faculty received salary additions two years ago.

"Ninety per cent" of the basic $3,500 for department heads would be approximately $3,375, or much above the $2,700 to which they had been reduced, Dr. Knapp earlier had pointed out.

Half the appropriation for the library would be available the first year of the biennium, half the last year, it had been announced from Austin.

Wheat Harvest To Start About 20th

Wheat harvest in Lubbock county probably will not begin before June 20 unless the grain ripens faster than now appears to be the case, railroad officials and grain dealers reported Tuesday afternoon.

Most of the wheat is raised in the northern part of the county. Shallowater, Monroe and Becton are the principal shipping points.

Shipped From Abernathy

A considerable portion of the county's crop is shipped from Abernathy, just across the line, in Hale county. This is due to the fact that in addition to a considerable acreage south of town, wheat from Monroe, a non-agency station on the Santa Fe, is billed out of the Hale county town.

Likewise on the Fort Worth & Denver, Kittilou, west of Idalou, does not have a station agent, nor does Becton, the former billing cars out of Lubbock and the latter at Petersburg, in Hale county.

Idalou has good wheat prospects this year, rains recently increased the probable yield several bushels per acre. Acreage is not large, but the movement will be heavier than for several years.

Prospects Are Good

Shallowater wheat prospects are also good, rains having increased yield. Neither Slaton nor Lubbock have much wheat acreage and the movement is usually small.

However, Lubbock is a grain inspection point and there is a good movement through here for federal inspection. Several grain buyers located here bring considerable wheat into this market for handling to ports or terminal elevators.

This year there will be one firm to purchase wheat for export. It is the first time that this has been done in Lubbock.

First Meeting Of Shrine Club Is Staged Here On Tuesday

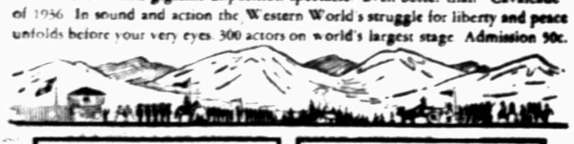

First meeting of the recently organized South Plains Shriners club attracted an attendance of 28 at a dinner in the Chimayo room at Hilton hotel Tuesday night.

At a business session two officers were elected: Lennis W. Baker, treasurer; and Morris Levine, vice president. L. D. (Pup) Thomas, president, and F. V. Ellison, secretary, were elected at previous meetings. All officers are temporary, said Thomas.

By-laws were submitted at last night's session, but were not acted upon. Action will be taken at a later meeting, probably the second Tuesday in July. At the July meeting ladies will be guests at a dinner and dance for the South Plains Shriners. It will be held here.

A committee composed of Levine, chairman, Neil H. Wright, and Robert H. Chipley, was appointed to investigate possibility of the club sponsoring an underprivileged boys' club.

Hospital Bid Is Outlined

Chamber of commerce personnel, directed by a special committee, settled seriously to the task today of preparing Lubbock's formal application to the state board of control for the West Texas State hospital created by recent act of the legislature.

Members of the hospital committee headed by C. E. Maedgen were advised that numerous meetings of the group probably will be necessary before the formal application has been completed and submitted before June 20.

Committee members were advised to expect calls at almost any time and to make every effort to attend the conferences. So rapid is the possibility of developments during the next 10 days that extended notice in advance of meetings may prove impossible, chamber officials explained.

Time of the sessions, it was explained, depends on when the chamber personnel compiles in desired form for submission to the committee the mass of detail on which they worked into darkness last night. That information, they explained, will be part of the ammunition which the committee will need when it appears before the state board of control confronted with the task of convincing that body that of towns and cities west of the 100th meridian, Lubbock offers most advantages for the institution to be created with a legislative appropriation of $817,000. Nearly half of Texas lies west of that meridian.

Endeavor Is Spurred

Lubbock's endeavor, in which the committee must take the lead, was spurred by reports Tuesday that at least 13 towns and cities definitely are in the fight for the institution. Every day, chamber officials said, has brought new reports of intensified rivalry for the hospital which, from the beginning, will bring a revenue of $500,000 or more annually in payrolls and maintenance expenses to the city of its location.

Latest of those to be listed as contenders, the chamber was advised, are Lamesa, Snyder, Odessa and Ballinger. Others very definitely in the field are Sweetwater, San Angelo, Big Spring and Midland which, with Lubbock, are generally believed, according to observers, to comprise the group from which the selection finally will be made. But there are other smaller towns and cities, especially along and adjacent to the Texas and Pacific railroad which are working quietly and which, in the aggregate, form a group to cause chills of apprehension among those in the supposed "favorite" class.

Presentation Planned

All work now being done by the chamber of commerce and its committe centers about the formal presentation of Lubbock's application for the hospital. That, in itself, is a huge task because it requires the most detailed information about the applicant city.

However, by far the most important single item for inclusion in the application is the site to be offered without cost to the state. The site must comprise not less than 300 acres of good agricultural land, but the board of control has suggested that up to 500 acres of that type of land with 1,000 acres of soil of less quality might enhance the applicant's chances.

Chamber of commerce officials disclosed Tuesday that Lubbock can offer a wide variety of choices as to sites, all measuring up to requirements as established in the legislative bill. Reports Tuesday said that options actually have been taken on seven tracts with several others under consideration.

So voluminous is the work in preparing the application, it was added, that the one for Lubbock probably will not be completed until near the June 20 deadline. After that, preparations must be made for the series of public hearings the control board proposes to hold in applicant cities.

Routine Business Likely To Face City Commissioners

If anything more than routine business is to occupy the semi-monthly meeting of the city commission at the city hall Thursday afternoon, officials said they were not informed today as to what it may be.

However, there were probabilities of several important discussions, including parking meters, budgets and general park problems, all of which will require action within the next few weeks.

The meeting will be called to order by Mayor Ross Edwards at the usual time of 1:30 p. m., he announced.

Problem Said To Be Solved

MILWAUKEE, June 9 (AP)—Max Eugene Nohl of Milwaukee, and Capt. John D. Craig of Long Beach, Calif., deep sea divers who have their eyes on the gold lockers of the sunken liner, Lusitania, were believed to have solved a decompression problem here today which may greatly aid their quest.

The two men entered an air pressure chamber specially built at the county emergency hospital for the treatment of "caisson bends." They remained for more than an hour under pressure of more than 112,000 pounds.

Breathe Pure Helium

While in the pressure chamber, they breathed almost pure helium in an experiment designed to show that by eliminating nitrogen from the air supply they could conquer the "bends" or cramps caused by solution of nitrogen in the blood stream, which divers ordinarily suffer unless they go through a slow and lengthy decompression period.

Nohl and Capt. Craig, risking their lives, stepped from a pressure of nearly 42 pounds to the square inch of body surface to normal atmospheric pressure in the space of two minutes and remained unaffected. It ordinarily requires 47 minutes for decompression from this pressure.

Dr. Edgar Ende of the Marquette university medical school, participating in the test, said it was the "first time helium has been used by a human being under pressure."

Church Conference Is Held In City

A dinner at Doak hall, Texas Technological college, and a vesper service on the lawn at Seaman hall were features late Tuesday of the formal opening of the ninth annual conference of the North Texas Protestant Episcopal district.

After a morning watch at 6:20 o'clock this morning, classes began at 8:15 and lasted until 12:30.

Spur Woman Leads

Miss Virginia Elliott of Spur, in charge of the recreational program, directed the session last night. Rev. J. Hodge Alves, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, was in charge of devotional services.

Classes will be held daily and programs nightly through June 19, according to Bishop Seaman of Amarillo, director of the conference.

The conference is sponsored by the entire district, Texas Technological college, and Seaman hall. Boys are staying in Horn hall and girls in Doak hall. All meals will be taken at Doak hall.

Approximately 50 youth leaders are expected at the conference.

Lubbock County Tech Exes To Form Organization

Organization of a Lubbock county chapter of the Alumni and Ex-Students association of Texas Technological college is scheduled at a buffet supper at Hilton hotel tonight at 8 o'clock.

Officers will be elected, committees appointed, meeting dates set and other plans made.

All ex-students of the county are urged to attend. Cost will be 50 cents.

Decision was made to organize the chapter at the annual banquet of the Alumni and Ex-Students association of Texas Technological college at Lubbock May 31. Bill Collins is directing arrangements.

LUBBOCK EVENING JOURNAL

LUBBOCK, TEXAS, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 9, 1937

Twin Feature Offered To Fans Today

BY BILL BONI
Associated Press Sports Writer

It's a press agent's dream, that double-header the New York Giants and St. Louis Cardinals are scheduled to play today at the Polo grounds. It's a return engagement of the pitchers' battle of the century — Carl Hubbell vs. J. Herman Dean —brought about when yesterday's game was rained out.

If anything, the buildup has been even better than for the original. Of course, Hubbell no longer is trying to extend that fabulous winning streak, as he was back on May 19, when last they met in St. Louis. Hubbell walked off with a 4-1 decision that day and Dean lost the ball game, his temper and $50.

Other Events In Shade

The prospect of the Dean-Hubbell clash cast the events of yesterday into the shade, even the facts that the Chicago White Sox ran their winning streak to ten straight to tie the Yankees for the American league lead, and that the Pirates cut their losing string short at five to move in behind the Giants and ahead of the rained out Cubs.

The Sox now have completed a climb from the cellar that began on May 8. The final step was their 5-4 trimming of the Yanks yesterday, accomplished despite Joe DiMaggio's ninth homer and Lou Gehrig's eighth.

The Pirates, on Russ Bauer's six hit pitching, routed the Phils, 8-6. Lefty Lee Grissom, with a four hitter, blanked the Bees, 4-0 while, in the American league, Hank Greenberg's fifteenth homer and Elden Auker's one hit hurling stopped the A's, 6-0, and the Red Sox put over eight runs in the ninth to edge out the Indians, 10-8.

The Browns and Senators were rained out.

Local Women In Tourney

Among qualifiers today in the Women's West Texas Golf tournament at San Angelo are six Lubbock women who aspire to make the going tough for the favorites.

Mrs. C. L. Dean, Lubbock's most proficient feminine golfer, headed a delegation that included Mrs. C. E. Dean, Mrs. Guy L. McAfee, Mrs. J. H. Stiles, Mrs. Glenn D. Smith, and Mrs. E. A. Henry.

On the golf courses, they are known, respectively, as Sue, Bonnie, Opal, Marguerite, Vivian and Mamie Sam, and they top the works in Lubbock lady golf.

Winger Defends Title

Mrs. R. E. Winger of Fort Worth is defending champion at the San Angelo tournament. She won last year at Mineral Wells, and is one of the favorites this time. Mrs. Winger succeeded Mrs. Frank Goldthwaite of Fort Worth, winner of the first tournament, at Lubbock, in 1935. Mrs. Goldthwaite, the former Anelia Gorzycza, member of the United States Curtis Cup team, is to compete in the San Angelo meeting.

The tournament banquet and Calcutta pool is scheduled for tonight, at the San Angelo Country club house. Match play will begin Thursday and continue through Sunday, when the championship will be decided.

In addition to the previous champions, some of the local delegates and stars from other towns, threats for the championship this year include Mrs. Reba Armstrong of El Paso, Mrs. Theron Hicks of Big Spring, Mrs. Jess Rogers and Mrs. Otto Morris of Amarillo, and Mrs. Will O'Connell and Mrs. W. K. Powell of San Angelo.

HOUSTON, June 9 (AP)—The three daily newspapers in Houston, the Post, the Chronicle and the Press, decided today to discontinue the use of racing entries, results and selections because of the repeal of a law which had permitted wagering on races in Texas.

Managing Editor Lloyd Gregory of the Post said the racing news would be discontinued tomorrow.

Bill Wallace Will Return To Rice As Assistant Coach

HOUSTON, June 9 (AP)—Bill Wallace, Rice institute's great football performer of 1934 and 1935, will become an assistant coach at his alma mater next season.

Dr. Gaylord Johnson, business manager of athletics, announced the highly-rated backfield ace would begin his work July 1, although his specific duties were not disclosed. He will fill the vacancy created on the resignation of Eddie Dyer, freshman coach.

Crusty Dutchman Meets Mar Allah In Wrestle Feature

"If At First You Don't Succeed . . . ."

Another array of "main event" wrestlers goes under the glare of Sled Allen's big droplight at the Auditorium tonight, the show bringing six fancy stepping middleweights in three fights that should please.

Sheik Ben Ali Mar Allah, he of royal Persian descent, meets Vic Weber, crusty New York Dutchman, in the main spasm. The supporting card features the durable Joe Kopecky of Houston against Jack Hagen of Shreveport in the semi-final, and produces Buck Lipscomb of Indiana vs. Ace Freeman of New York for a curtain raiser.

The Persian prince and the New York Dutchman stack up as a "natural" tonight, and they're due to attract a house full of persons to the local hall of horrors. Of different temperaments, although of the same purposes, they will offer enough contrast to provide a show of variation and they'll be at each other's throats with enough venom to provide sufficient rowdy action for the fans who like their sports rough.

Both Won Last Week

Mar Allah stepped into the ring for a main event performance last week, just as soon as he hit town after more than two years away, and proceeded to outsmart and outfight young Jack Terry, who previously had sworn vengeance for a previous defeat in the Hawaiian islands, to cop the show. His artful guile as well as his powerful muscles was too much for young Terry, who had been looking quite good up to that hour.

Weber also won last week. Following his second defeat at the hands of Joe Kopecky a Wednesday night earlier, Weber came back pretty mad last week and doused the lights of Ace Freeman in their semi-final engagement. If Vic stays angry, he'll give the Persian prince plenty of trouble tonight.

Freeman, who came into prominence by blasting Sailor Moran and other well known main eventers, is relegated to the preliminary tonight, and he meets a guy who is well despised in this section—Buck Lipscomb, the Hoosier Hotshot. Buck has been here on two occasions, first as Don Kent, then as Buck Lipscomb. It is believed that Lipscomb is his real name. He is as mean and tough an hombre as ever came out of Indiana, or any other state, stopping at nothing to gain a point or to humiliate and injure his opposition. Freeman is the type who'll get rough, too, so there'll be three rough battles tonight.

Yes, Jack Hagen can get rough, plenty rough, and he'll need it tonight, when he meets Kopecky, the wise old Panther from South Texas. Kopecky hasn't been beaten here for nearly two months, and he has fought on nearly every card. He missed last week, but he's due to be back, tough and strong, tonight. In Hagen, he meets an ambitious lad who doesn't hang back when he's crowded. There'll be a lot of fisticuffs in this one, also a lot of choking, et cetera.

The entire card stacks up as one of the best balanced in several weeks, with villains on ever spot, opposed by "gentlemen" who do not mind stooping to conquer.

First Rounds Will Start Thursday

BY FRITZ HOWELL

BIRMINGHAM, Mich., June 9 (AP)—The star studded field of 143 professionals and 25 amateurs had a "free ride" coming today over the windswept, hay-covered Oakland Hills golf course—one last chance to find the answers to a host of questions the 7,000-yard layout will ask tomorrow as the 41st National Open championship gets under way.

None welcomed another gratis tour more than Sam Snead, who has been installed as the No. 1 favorite, although it is his first crack at the country's most coveted crown.

Plays In Rough

Snead couldn't find the correct answers yesterday as he practiced with Gene Sarazen, Lawson Little and Tommy Armour. The West Virginian played most of the round in the deep rough. He said he totaled "somewhere around 76 or 77."

Snead was quoted at 8 to 1 by the betting commissioners, despite the practice round results. Close behind him in the betting were Henry Picard, Harry Cooper, Byron Nelson and Ralph Guldahl, 10 to 1, and Tommy Armour and Ky Laffoon at 12 to 1.

Armour and Laffoon were originally quoted at 20 to 1, but the odds skidded as they finished second in the Inverness best ball matches at Toledo last week and then turned in good practice rounds here.

Says Odds Too Long

Tony Manero, defending champion, who shattered all records with his 282 at Baltusrol last year, was on the books at 15 to 1, but Tony believes the odds are too long and that he is an "even choice against the field."

Gene Sarazen, who won the title in 1922 and 1932, was quoted at 16 to 1; Al Watrous, the host professional, and Johnny Goodman, the Omaha amateur who grabbed the crown in 1933, each at 25 to 1.

SPORTOGRAPHER

by COLLIER PARRIS

OUR STUDY OF modern history being restricted, more or less, to current batting averages, golf scores, track records, we are rather unfamiliar with the degree of antipathy, if any, with which Germany regards Persia, or vice versa.

We feel quite certain, however, that when it comes down to individual cases, there is no love lost between one Vic Weber and one Sheik Mar Allah.

Germany meets Persia in an abbreviated, licensed, legitimate war tonight within the city limits of Lubbock, and there will be many lookers, listeners and readers anxiously awaiting the announcement or publication of the casualty list. Most of them will be pro-Germanic this evening, although it is not unreasonable to suspect that there are those among us of Persian bias. We don't know.

Personally, we like to see the Sheik fight, and we wouldn't miss tonight's main event. Vic has his dander up more than somewhat, and he is due to be a serious, scrapping young Dutchman this evening.

LOCAL GOLFERS STEP INTO FAST COMPANY

A representative half-dozen members of Lubbock's golf sorority are in San Angelo today; ready to tee off for the qualifying round of the third annual Women's West Texas Golf association tournament.

The tournament is of particular interest to Lubbock's golfing element, because the women's association was founded here. Its first tournament was played here summer before last, and was, conclusively, a success. A Lubbock player, Mrs. Guy McAfee, was the association's first president.

Hopes of local links fans will ride with the six Country club women competing in the San Angelo event for the rest of the week, but it will be little short of miraculous if a local woman comes through in the championship flight. Our lady friends simply haven't been playing the game long enough, nor under conditions practicable enough, to allow them more than an extremely long shot chance in the Women's West Texas.

At San Angelo some of the state's and at least one of the country's outstanding golfers will compete—women who have been playing the game, under more suitable circumstances, for several years longer than our locals.

Lubbock women golfers are steadily improving. This improvement has been at the rate of approximately 50 per cent per annum for the past two seasons. With the installation of grass greens (half the women's game is on the greens) the gals have had to start all over, but they're coming to the front swiftly.

Within another season or two, if they keep up their practice and collect more tournament experience, the town'll have half a dozen or more feminine niblick wielders who can hold their own in the West Texas.

SO FAR, THE Women's West Texas titles have gone to Fort Worth women, Mrs. Frank Goldthwaite and Mrs. R. E. Winger. Mrs. Goldthwaite, winner of many championships, member of Uncle Sam's Curtis Cup team, won it at Lubbock, defeating Mrs. Winger in the finals. Mrs. Goldthwaite did not compete last year, being in England with the Curtis team, and Mrs. Winger took the title.

Both the Fort Worth stars are entered in the San Angelo tourney, and it isn't without reason to suspect that one of them will carry off the title again.

They will, however, have keener competition than before. It will be no runaway for the winner, regardless of address.

Pam Barton Is Defeated By Former British Champion

TURNBERRY, Scotland, June 9 (AP)—Mrs. A. M. Holm, former British women's golf champion, defeated Pam Barton, the defending title holder, 5 and 3, today in a third round match.

A large gallery of fans saw Mrs. Holm consistently drop her shots inside Miss Barton's on the approaches and putt with unerring accuracy.

Any chance Miss Barton might have had of winning disappeared on the ninth when she slipped and fell, twisting her ankle, while playing a brassie shot. The champion limped through the rest of the match.

YANKEE WINS AGAIN

NEWPORT, R. I., June 9 (AP) — Gerald B. Lambert's Yankee sailed through the rain Tuesday to her second victory over Chandler Hovey's Rainbow in the opening series of trial races to select a defender of the America's Cup against the second challenge of T. O. M. Sopwith, English sportsman.

The course was an irregular 23.7 mile triangle.

Yankee led Rainbok by 2 minutes and 3 seconds.

Six Out Of Eight Clubs Win Games In Texas Tuesday

(By The Associated Press)

It may look paradoxical at first glance but six out of eight teams won Texas league games in yesterday's contests.

The catch is that two doubleheaders were divided. And in the six-game program the lower division clubs came out slightly ahead, winning four.

The tail-end Dallas club suddenly found life in its bats going into the eighth inning against the second-place Beaumonters. Johnny Johnson had pitched run-less ball for seven innings but in the eighth he had to keep ducking while the Steers went berserk in a six-run rally. The score was 6 to 3 for Dallas.

San Antonio tried hard to extend their winning streak to five games but Ed Greer of Fort Worth's fifth-place Cats still had the Indian sign on them, 3 to 2. Greer allowed the Padres five hits while Liebhart was granting Fort Worth nine.

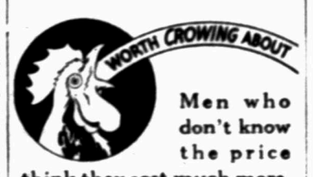

Down in Houston the pitchers held the spotlight in a double-header. In the first game Mike Cvengros of Houston pitched four-hit ball to beat Oklahoma City 5 to 0. Ash Hillin came back in the nightcap to repeat that feat and defeat Houston 5 to 1. Cvengros has not been scored on in 20 innings.

Tulsa and Galveston divided the other doubleheader by identical scores, 4 to 2, the Oilers taking the first.

"Feminine Mussolini" Directs Italian Women's Footsteps In Fascist Paths

Little known because little publicity is permitted to fall upon women holding important Italian posts, a woman actually is a sort of dictator of feminine Fascism. This woman — Professoressa Dolloressa Maria Castellani—was sought out and interviewed exclusively by Rosette Hargrove, a European staff writer for NEA Service and the Avalanche-Journal.

By ROSETTE HARGROVE
NEA Service Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1937, NEA Service, Inc.)

ROME, June 9—Flatter the girl! Calling upon that neat bit of feminine psychology known to even the least worldly wise village swain, Facism has sought to win the women of Italy to its banner.

Benito Mussolini has made women feel their importance—raised them to the rank of collaborators in his scheme of government. He has contrived to give even the most humble housewife the impression that she is vital to the welfare of her country.

His frequently expressed respect for family ties, his solicitude for the children, his appreciation of the Italian woman's fortitude and courage in war-times—all these are things which you constantly hear from women in all walks of life.

If the thunder of distant guns and the ominous hum of machinery in armament mills ever causes Italian women to think they are giving birth to sons who will be mere cannon fodder, these "un-Fascist" thoughts are pushed far back in their minds.

Women Forge Ahead

With further unerring feminine psychology—a knowledge that women know most about woman—the feminine Fascist movement has been placed under the leadership of Professoressa Maria Castellani, a woman with a brilliant record as a university professor. She is the director of all the Feminine Fascie throughout the country, with head office in Rome.

Her office is perched at the top of the Palazzo Braschi, overlooking the Roman square, celebrated for its famous fountain. Here she works fourteen hours a day and more, surrounded by an army of women helpers and secretaries.

During the interview which she granted this correspondent, she was being continually interrupted either by the telephone or visitors. Although business was conducted with all the exuberance of the Italian character, Professoressa Castellani gets things done quickly. The Roman salute greeted every caller, but it had none of the seriousness and grim earnestness that confronts you in Berlin.

"The new Italian woman," declared Professoressa Marie Castellani, "unlike those of other countries, where in many cases they occupy important political posts merely because they have just followed a way paved for them by father, husband or brother, achieve recognition on individual merit and nothing else. Publicity is taboo. The result is that while a great number of Italian women fill important positions, their work is recognized in just the same way as a man's, without any privilege of sex."

According to this dynamic person, there is nothing to stop a woman from occupying the highest posts in politics and the "corporations."

Have Representation On Council

Within the National Fascist Party, women are assimilated to the Feminine Fascie, which numbers more than 700,000. As the express wish of these women, their activities are specially dedicated to social work in its numerous ramifications.

The leaders of the Fascie are elected, legally, Vice-Presidents of the provincial sections of Maternity and Child Welfare work as well as other collaborators for the protection and welfare of working women.

Trade-unions admit women on an equal footing with men, and in the essentially feminine branches they fill the highest posts. To the Corporations Council, the nucleus of the Corporative Parliament, five women have been designated, two for the clothing guild, one for textiles, including the silkworm industry, and two for the professional and artist guild, which includes a sanitary section for certified nurses and midwives.

"All these women," Professoressa Castellani went on to say, "are real workers, and not merely intellectual women camouflaged as experts."

In Italy, furthermore, unlike Germany, all careers are open to women, excepting the army, diplomacy and magistracy. There are several women professors in the universities. In the various Ministries, there are women who are heads of bureaus, and the fact that they have not achieved higher positions as yet is mainly because they have but recently entered the ranks.

Train Girls 14 To 18

Italy has today women barristers and solicitors, 5 women notaries, nearly 800 doctors, 195 engineers and chemists, 13 architects, without counting dentists, veterinary surgeons, as well as countless writers, journalists and artists.

The teaching profession absorbs a great number of women. Over 140,000 have adopted this career, where every branch is open to them with a few exceptions such as the teaching of philosophy and literature in the higher boys' or co-educational schools.

One of the most important phases of woman's work in the Fascist regimes is the protection of fellow-women. The activities of every organization are devoted to the preparation of children for the collective life of the country.

The "Balilla" organization covers a million and a half female children who up to the age of fourteen represent the "Little Italian Women" group; from 14 to 18 they come into the category of "Young Italian Women" and from 18 to 22, they automatically become known as "Young Fascists."

Much study and time are devoted to the sports and recreative activities of these girls. Italians point with pride to the enormous strides young Italians have made in all branches of sports. An Academy of Physical Culture has been founded in Orvieto, where the pick of Italian women prepare for leadership in physical culture under careful training and study. These skilled teachers in turn train the various categories of "Young Italians" in every kind of athletics.

Agricultural workers' welfare work is pointed to with particular pride by Doctor Maria Castellani.

Country housewives are given classes in domestic economy, manual work, weaving and so on. Farmers' wives are given instruction in poultry farming and other work related to the farm and are thus able to increase the welfare of their families.

Women field workers during their seasonal work, as in fruit picking, olive and rice pruning, live in well-ventilated dormitories, their health as well as their children's strictly supervised.

Unlike Hitler, Mussolini was never obliged to send the married women back to their cooking and their children because they had never taken a very active part in public life. Like all Latin women, they reigned supreme in their home, leaving the business of politics to the men. Also unlike Hitler, Mussolini never resorted to draconian measures such as condemning, if not actually forbidding, frivolities such as pretty clothes, smoking, make-up and amusements. In his opinion, these are not detrimental to the more serious future task of Italian women—that of helping in the building up of the new Empire.

JUDGES NOMINATED

Stephens is now a federal district judge at Los Angeles.

Julius Caesar created our present New Year's Day when he made January the first month, instead of March.

Gulf Oil Company Official Is Ordered To Face Trial

HOUSTON, June 9 (AP) — United States District Attorney Douglas McGregor said today Federal Judge T. M. Kennerly had ordered the removal of O. H. Carlisle, Gulf Oil company division manager, to Madison, Wis., to face trial on charges of violating Sherman anti-trust laws.

The decision, McGregor said, was handed down at Galveston, where the justice is holding June term of court.

The oil executive was indicted with 51 other officials of major companies last June by a Madison federal grand jury on charges of conspiracy to raise and maintain spot market prices in the East Texas and other midcontinent oil fields.

I like people to know that I'm not just hired at my station. I'm the proprietor, making my living, all on my own. Naturally I'm choosey about anything I recommend, so no matter how close you might check whatever I say about mileage and performance, I can always look you square in the eye. And that goes double for my Conoco Germ Processed oil. It is the only kind that can Oil-Plate your engine. The patent Germ Process, you might say, gives this oil a real strong "yen" for metal. The oil actually joins up with every working part, always leaving a durable, slippy Oil-Plating that cannot run down, whether your car is stopped or hitting it up. Then you can start up a thousand times a day, or streak along from morning till night. But Oil-Plating will still be there, heading off wear, and letting you skip a lot of stops you used to make for oil. The Plainsman likes this little verse by Lyla Myers of Little Rock, Ark., which is called "Let's Not Complain":

We all want something we can't have
That's just the plan of life
Why,—our desires prompt every scheme—
Activity—and strife.

A baby reaches up and cries
For something it can't touch;
And all through life, things out of reach
Are those we want so much.

Desires bring forth ambition,—and
Oftimes this means achievement.
Our hope, in any aim, gives us
More pleasure than bereavement.

So, though our hearts have guided us
Toward goals we did not gain—
In gratitude for joys we found
In hopes—let's not complain!

AT THIS writing Guy Waggoner of the Ft. Worth hoss racing Waggoners, has made no statement regarding insistence in the press that he will move all his vast interests from this state to New Mexico and Colorado, because race track gambling has been again outlawed.

Perhaps by the time this comment sees the light of day, Waggoner will have come out in the open, branding the discussion as without foundation. The Plainsman hopes so. He'd hate to think that any man who has luckily received so much at the hands of Texas would put himself in the "can't take it" class.

ONE of this column's readers, who signs himself "Hoosier Hendricks," sent in a timely little epistle anent the recent deluges. He titles it "Drowning Dust Bowl Ducks."

Called Cy Jones today, by phone out at his farm.
I called to get advice without intention to alarm.
For Cy's a man of great renown.
Although he lives outside the town.
Says I to Cy, "It's rainin' still,
but I have got to see you."
Says Cy to me, "I'm sorry, pal, but
I've too much to do.
It's too durn watery everywhere
for my auto and my trucks.
Besides, I'm busy puttin' life-savers on our dust bowl ducks.
You see, since startin' raisin'
ducks back there in '31,
They haven't seen a drop of rain
and, I'm a son-of-a-gun,
When they hit this pesky rainy spell
They was flabbergasted — sure-zel!
They waded into mudholes — just like a half-grown chicken—
And couldn't swim a gol-durned bit. They stood there just a-stickin'!
Their heads were up—stretched 'way up high—
We dragged 'em out, or they'd have died."
Says I to Cy: "Seems like you'll lose
A lot of money doing this. What do you use?"
Says Cy to me: "That's just like you—you poor, dumfuzzled city rube.
To save our ducks we only use our own, old, worn out inner tubes!
They cost us nothin'. They fit so slick.
Ducks don't know they got 'em—we put 'em on so quick.
Of course, sometimes, they quack and flop.
And then sometimes, they roll and buck
When you strap life-savers on a dust bowl duck.
But after six years, 'thout a drop of rain.
Even a duck's gotta learn to be a duck again.
Although they've been a-scannin' the floatin' clouds on high
They couldn't never learn to swim—it's been so doggone dry!
You know a duck is just a duck, in anybody's clime
But he comes in mighty handy 'round about Thanksgiving time.
I would come in today, but shucks! I gotta put life-savers on my dust bowl ducks!"

THERE'S just a plain mean streak in Old Andy Jack Stricklin, the Lone Wolf of Terry County.

Just because The Plainsman said Lubbock citizens missed a great treat—and one that would do them good—when all of them didn't hear National Commander Harry Colmery, of the American Legion, here recently, Old Andy Jack saw an ulterior motive.

"Yah, yah," he crowed in his Terry County Herald, of Brownfield, "our guess is that the gentleman made a fine attack on the President and that's the reason the Lubbock Shournal thought the folks missed so much!"

As a matter of fact, Commander Colmery didn't mention politics, or political personages. He made no reference to the President.

But in jumping at his conclusion, Old Andy Jack showed his hand.

He thought Commander Colmery made an attack on the President simply because we said in this column that the commander spoke on Americanism!

Wassa matter, Andy Jack? Have you suddenly awakened to the fact that a lot of that stuff up in Washington is as far from the true tenets of our country as you are from your old home in Plum Tree, Tennessee?

Trailer Adventure

BY NARD JONES
Copyright, 1937, NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Failing, with the help of GERRY NEAL, to locate her companion, BETTY HAYNES, abducted by JACK SPEDDON, MARTHA BRITTAIN starts north from San Francisco up the west coast. And suddenly she decides, even though she loves Neal, that he is implicated in Betty's disappearance. So at a small California town she has him arrested.

Next, in Portland, Martha learns that a JOHNNY CIZNIK, Seattle underworld character, is involved in the case. Police hint that Betty may have been murdered. Martha goes on to Seattle and there is abducted by Speddon who tricks her into meeting him at a trailer camp. When Martha awakens she finds herself in an abandoned warehouse. A few minutes later she is chloroformed and taken aboard Ciznik's ship. Speddon shows up and takes Martha to Ciznik's cabin. There Martha learns that she and Betty have become innocent victims of a gigantic dope ring whose leaders wanted to try out a new trailer as a narcotic conveyor and used the girls to make the test.

Ciznik offers to take Martha into the ring. He urges sneeringly on the grounds that if she doesn't join them, it will mean inevitable death for both she and Betty. But Martha is adamant. Angered at the defiance, Ciznik calls in a slinking Oriental. Horrified, Martha sees this yellow man approach even as Ciznik prepares to leave the cabin.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXII

What fearful order Ciznik had issued to the Oriental, she could only guess—and she was never really to know. For at that moment there was a terrific detonation out over the water. The Chinese stopped in his tracks, turned questioningly to Johnny Ciznik. The latter's face had drained of its color.

"Ling!" he roared. "Get above!"

Standing there, Martha felt the swing of the ship as it altered its course. Bells tinkled somewhere below, and slowly the throb of the engines increased, vibrating the floor plates beneath her feet. She stood there for a moment, too frightened to move—too frightened even to realize that in their hurried exit, Ciznik and Ling had left the cabin door swinging wide. As the ship turned, the door swung heavily, clanged against the wall. It was then that Martha regained her senses, and rushed to the open doorway.

The passage was empty, but above her she could hear men shouting against the wind. Expecting every moment to run headlong into an adversary, Martha walked hurriedly along. Desperately she hoped to gain the deck above, perhaps hide herself during the confusion. Then, as she passed one of the doors which stretched along the passageway, she heard her name called clearly. And it was Betty's voice!

Martha stopped as one stunned. Almost afraid to answer, she answered softly. "Yes . . . it's Martha."

"You can turn the latch from the outside," Betty said.

In one sudden movement Martha was inside the stateroom; and so great was her joy at finding Betty that she almost let the door swing tight again. "Wait!" Betty said, clutching the knob. She turned the lock so that the door would not close flush with the wall. "If you'd been in here as long as I have you wouldn't miss a chance like this, sister!"

Martha wanted to cry for joy at the familiar, jocular tone. But when Betty turned to her she saw in the blond girl's eyes the unmistakable effects of days of fear and weariness. For a long moment they held to each other there in the dimly lighted little cabin, saying nothing.

"When the ruckus started, I listened at the door—and heard you walking down the hall," Betty said. "I'd know that walk anywhere in the world."

"Tell me," Martha pleaded. "Are you—all right?"

Betty nodded. "Sure. I'm all right. Handsome Mr. Ciznik has been a little unpleasant once or twice, but I've managed him so far. Have you met Mr. Ciznik, by any chance?"

Martha flushed angrily. "Just now." She took Betty's arm. "Come on, let's get out of here."

"Easy, Mart. There's not a chance. We'd run right smack into them. I tried it once—but this boat seems to have a knack of getting away from the revenue cutters."

"Is that what all the excitement is?"

Betty nodded. "You heard a revenue cutter firing a warning to stop. After a—" She stopped suddenly as the stateroom plunged into darkness. "There go the lights! Ciznik will run without lights, and keep away from their searchlight beam if he can."

"How—how long have you been on the boat?"

"Maybe a week. It seems more like a year—and it may be longer than a week for all I know. They don't want to let go of me, and they don't quite know what to do with me."

"But how did you get up into the Northwest? They told me at the California border that Speddon had driven through alone."

Betty smiled ruefully. "Oh, no! Little Orphan Annie was lying in the closed rumble seat—and Mr. Speddon's gun was pointed down between the cushions of the front seat with one hand while he handed the dumb officer his license with the other. It seemed to me like we drove 100 miles before he let me back into the front!"

"What made him take you in the first place?"

"It was because of a crazy remark I made. You remember we went back to the service station to ask the attendant if he'd seen Neal? Well, just to make conversation I said I wasn't surprised to have Neal disappear, because the whole job looked suspicious and I wouldn't be surprised if we were working for rumrunners or dope smugglers. Out of a million inane remarks—and I can make 'em all—I had to say that! Speddon wouldn't believe I was joking. He told me I knew too much and that in three days I'd be talking to Ciznik. He tore out of town like mad—and never stopped except for gas and oil and sandwiches."

"You didn't send me any telegram then?"

"No. That was Speddon. I think he'd have gone back after you, but he was afraid. So he thought he could keep you happy until you got to Seattle he'd be all right. I did manage to slip you a note—did you get it?"

Martha nodded. "At Portland."

"I don't suppose you could read much of it. I just had half a minute to scrawl it out and slip it to a gas station attendant. I was trying to warn you about Ciznik and Speddon. But . . ." Betty's voice grew suspiciously husky in the darkness, "but I don't suppose anything could have kept you from walking into this, anyhow."

"I've found you safe, that's all that matters."

"Safe . . ." Betty repeated the word queerly. "Have you any idea what will happen to us if that government boat should overtake this one?"

"But they'll be too busy to think about us."

"I wish I could believe it," Betty murmured. "But when Ciznik recalls what we could tell the police I'm afraid he'll remember, all right."

* * *

"They fell silent at the sudden sound of heavy footfalls in the passageway. They grew nearer, went on down past the door.

"That's Ciznik!" Betty whispered.

"Betty! He's gone back to his stateroom to find me! We've got to make a break for it. Maybe if we can get up on deck we'll have a chance."

They plunged out in the dark corridor, feeling their way along the wall. At the far end they heard Ciznik's swift curses as he realized Ling had left the door open for Martha's escape.

"Hurry!" Betty breathed desperately. "He'll turn a flashlight down the hall."

Martha ran on, collided painfully with the rail of an iron stair. Clutching Betty's wrist, she started up.

When they reached the deck they realized the reason for Ciznik's sudden concern for them.

A TASK OF REHABILITATION

Novelists and essayists have had a good deal to say about the "lost generation" in recent years. Bernard M. Baruch, one of America's wisest men, in a commencement address at South Carolina's famed preparatory school The Citadel, the other day offered some extremely sensible remarks on the subject.

"There is an element of tragic sadness," he said, "in the hundreds of thousands sifted through the terrible sieve of the depression and now left helpless on the barren strands of the WPA. Now, when real recovery has come after several years of their enforced idleness, most of them remain unemployed because the procession has passed them by, and for one reason or another they have become unfit to take their place in our economic revival.

"These are the derelicts—the economic casualties—of one of the greatest catastrophes that ever blasted this country."

Shall we have the intelligence and good-will, do you suppose, to apply ourselves to the job of getting these casualties rehabilitated?

That, at least, is something to think about.

Hollywood Chit-Chat

BY PAUL HARRISON
Journal Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, June 9—Movie-in-the-making: Property men as a group always perform the oddest jobs in Hollywood. Oddest of the lot right now are the duties of John Harrison Adler. Among other things, he's a water-muddier.

What he has to do is make several thousand gallons of fresh, warmed water look like the roily mess that moves sluggishly past the docks of New York's East River. Only this particular water is in a big tank on the set of Samuel Goldwyn's "Dead End."

The water is made to look muddy by adding vegetable coloring matter. It would be simplier to throw dirt in the water, but some of the actors have to swim in it, and they wouldn't like mud.

Lettuce leaves and beet tops and fruit rinds, all carefully cleaned, also are added for the sake of realism. And a little oil—not the harbor variety, but pure olive oil.

Another of Adler's jobs was wearing out the pair of shoes Sylvia Sidney wears in the picture. He took a pair of perfectly good shoes and held 'em against a grindstone.

He aged the clothes Joel McCrea wears, and also a number of mattresses and blankets which are seen in the tenements. He took new brooms, and with a pair of pliers, painstakingly yanked out a lot of the straws. Adler also put the barnacles on the pilings which support the "Dead End" wharf.

The main reason that this set, a short street of tenements, was built indoors is because the sun plays an important part in the picture. That sounds paradoxical, but it makes sense.

The story starts at dawn and ends at night, so the sun and its shadows must correspond with the sequences. The filming might have taken years if they'd tried to use the real sun. But this way, they can light the set with say, 10 a. m. shadows, and keep it that way for weeks.

Fur And Feathers

The pleasantest sort of adventuring, it seems to me, would be making jungle pictures. People are paid good money for seeing the world through movie cameras, and even in tropic wildernesses picture outfits travel in style. There is excitement to be had for the seeking, yet a Malay tiger or a cobra is scarcely more to be avoided than some Hollywood producers.

The first jungle expedition in a couple of years is about to leave Paramount for the Malay Straits, Singapore, Penang and trackless points to the north, up near the border of Siam. It's going to make a feature titled "Booloo," meaning "fur and feathers."

Boss of the party is a tall, scholarly-looking fellow named Clyde Elliott. Originally from Nebraska, he made shorts and newsreels until 1931, when RKO persuaded him to go with Frank Buck and make "Bring 'Em Back Alive." He never had seen a wild animal outside a circus or a zoo. In 1933 he did "Devil Tiger" for Fox. Film expeditions, he admits, are fun.

Elliott will have plenty of company on his trip. There'll be two cameramen and assistants, a sound man and assistant, various technicians, and even a production manager. The latter will build sets and boss the natives. Their equipment will weigh at least 10 tons and will include lights and a generator and an engine.

"Devil Tiger" was filmed so close to civilization that lights were hooked to a power line. This time, though, they'll push up into the hills. Lights are necessary because tropic shadows are so black that illumination under the trees must be provided.

Another member of the party will be Colin Tapley, a Paramount stock actor who will play the role of a British scientist in the jungle and to whom will fall all the photographed adventures.

His leading lady already is down there—a pretty Eurasian girl named Nah Laku. She not only can speak English, but will sing it; two songs have been written for her and Tapley to croon in the wilderness against a background of native music.

She'll be the lowest-paid leading woman in cinema history—unless she reads this and raises the dickens. Her agreed salary is 60 Straits dollars a month, which is about 36 American dollars.

Ordinary native actors will get $16 a month and at that, says Elliott, will be shamefully overpaid.

'Why Isn't This Brought Out For Discussion?

Proposal To Hobble Trade Commission Just Doesn't Make Sense, Rodney Dutcher Says

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 9—Attention would be called oftener to the screwier phases of New Deal policy conflict if the accumulation of them had not long since tended to make the spectators inured.

A few eyebrows may lift a bit, however, when an administration thoroughly committed to further regulation of industry blithely junks its only fact-finding staff of expert accountants and economists available to analyze industries, their problems and practices.

Dutcher

At the end of a long period of seemingly calculated attrition, the Economic Division of the Federal Trade commission will be overboard after July 1 unless Congress meanwhile assigns to it a special investigation. This is the division which for many years has made the big federal investigations of unfair trade practices, anti-trust violations and other phases of production and distribution concerning which facts were needed prior to legislation.

The division recommended legislation which eliminated squeezes and corners from the cotton market, the packers and stockyards act, and the commodities exchange act. It made the sensational public utilities investigation of a few years ago and also the investigation of chain stores.

In its recent milk investigation it exposed combinations of producers and milk companies. Once its work did much to break up the "tobacco trust." It made the official study of the steel industry's basing point system and a few years ago proved that the bread industry wasn't making unreasonable profits. It did all the cost studies for the government during the war.

Recently the division completed a study of the fruit and vegetable market and is urging laws designed to eliminate notorious racketeering in that field.

Powers Whittled Away

High spot in the division's big recent investigation of middlemen and farm income is its report on the world's largest grain market at Chicago. It found large grain operators were able to manipulate the market to their advantage and the disadvantage of others with squeezes and even close approaches to corners. It showed that when wheat went up 5 cents a bushel one minute and 5 cents down the next, someone was being squeezed. The division recommended certain laws to correct these abuses.

Years ago, however, the late Federal Trade Commissioner William E. Humphrey began to plug for "no more investigations." Proteges of the once-powerful ex-Senator Reed Smoot of Utah, still entrenched at the Budget bureau, have helped weaken the division. And lately Commissioner Ewin Davis, former lame duck congressman from Tennessee, has seemed to favor abolishing the division.

Originally the unit was expected to make investigations on the direction of either house of Congress, of the President, or on its own initiative. That was whittled to the point where a joint resolution of both houses was required before the division could act. Later the budget bureau ruled no investigations could be made without specific congressional appropriation, a rule has come to mean the President and the bureau must so approve.

When Is Economy?

The crushing blow came when Budget Director Douglas telephoned the FTC and ordered resubmission of budget estimates along certain lines.

"But that eliminates the economic division," he was told.

"We know it," the director replied.

The division has only [illegible] employes, who earn an average of $2,000 a year. The relative insignificance of its maintenance expense observers to believe that there is more behind the elimination of the appropriation for it than the purpose of an economy gesture. The dismissal and scattering of a highly trained, experienced staff at a time when the government is likely to need it most, especially with the new wage and hour legislation ahead, also come under the head of curious.

Apparently the only thing that might save the economic division from extinction would be the defeat of the proposal to investigate public utility propaganda, which has been passed by the House. The passage of Congressman Wheeler's resolution to investigate unfair trade practices, financing of utilities and other phases of the automobile industry. The first calls for an appropriation of $150,000 and the second of $50,000.

Women Believe That Time Is Coming Soon When They Will Be Called Upon Juries

"Ladies of the jury —" and the fate of one John Doe may lie in the hands of 12 good women and true within a few years.

Under the state law, a woman may not serve on a Texas jury. But the Texas Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs has recommended that Texas women prepare themselves to serve as jurors both in crim nal and civil cases. Necessary legislation, they believe, will come within a few years.

Forces Are Divided

Forces in Lubbock apparently are evenly divided on the question. Answers typical of those received from members of the Business and Professional Women's club here:

Jennie Fay Stennett, president of the club—"I have always been in favor of women serving on juries. They are quite competent to do so."

Elsie V. Link, secretary—"Jury service should be optional for women."

Lavenia Williams, city secretary—"Oh my goodness, I wouldn't want to serve on one. Would you?"

Mrs. Allie M. Dyer, president and manager of a ladies' shop—"I am not very much in favor of it. Women are too easily swayed. People would no longer get a fair trial."

Mrs. Fred Higbee, postoffice clerk—"Most women are as capable of filling the place as men."

Cotton Market

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, June 9. (AP)—Cotton futures opened steady, up 6 to 9 points on higher Liverpool cables and reports of heavy rains in Oklahoma. Jly 12.24; Oct 12.25; Dec 12.22; Jan 12.25; Mch 12.29; May 12.32.

Selling pressure later let up noticeably and although the buying was only moderately active, prices were responsive to trade and foreign buying as well as short covering.

A disposition to await publication of the weekly weather report for confirmation of private complaints of too much rain in the western belt caused volume to taper off after the opening and prices sagged a few points from the best.

Oct. eased from 12.27 to 12.24 shortly after the first half hour when the market was generally 4 to 7 points net higher.

July liquidation continued and for the first time the near month sold at a point discount under October.

A private estimate placed May domestic consumption at 695,000 bales against 719,000 in April and 531,000 in May last year.

Liverpool declined from a steady opening under liquidation but later evened off.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, June 9 (AP) — Cotton opened steady today at net advances of 3 to 4 points in a technical reaction from the sharp decline of earlier in the week.

Liverpool cables were better than due and shorts covered moderately in the early trading. There was some buying by the trade in small volume.

Such bearish factors as the continued favorable weather in the belt, lagging spot and cloth markets and good crop advices were ignored in the early part of the session.

July opened at 12.14; Oct. 12.23; Dec. 12.31; Jan. 12.33; March 12.38 and May 12.40.

After the start some additional support was encountered and towards the end of the first half hour active positions were four to six points above the previous close.

Newspaper Guild Planning To Enlarge Its Membership

ST. LOUIS, June 9. (AP)—The American Newspaper Guild, which, as a member of the American Federation of Labor, had limited itself to editorial department workers, voted today to open its ranks to other "white collar" newspaper employes and to affiliate with John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization.

The decision of the guild's fourth annual convention to admit "business, advertising and other unorganized newspaper workers," over whom the A. F. of L. had denied it jurisdiction, doubled the organization's potential membership, its leaders said. The present membership of the guild was reported to be 11,112.

The convention's vote, 118 1-2 to 18 1-2, on resolution favoring CIO affiliation and industrial unionism came after the delegates had rejected proposals by the Washington, D. C., guild to consider the two subjects separately and to refer the entire question to the membership at large.

New Lumber Company Is Being Opened By James M. Pryor

A new lumber company is being opened at 411 Avenue Q by James M. Pryor, former Amarillo lumber company executive, who will handle both new and second hand lumber.

There is a distinct field here for second hand lumber, he explained. To get his stock, Pryor will do wrecking work by contract, tearing down old buildings and salvaging the material. He has several tentative wrecking jobs, he added.

Pryor was with a large Amarillo concern for 10 years as district manager, he said.

Texas Lawyers Plan Assault On Persons Practicing Illegally

HOUSTON, June 9 (AP)—District Attorney Dan W. Jackson announced plans today for a statewide campaign for enforcement of laws covering unauthorized practice of law.

Jackson, chairman of the Texas Bar association committee on enforcement of laws covering the unauthorized practice, said the bar association annual convention would be held July 1 to 3 at San Antonio.

Jackson said there had been "a number of violations of the state laws covering the unauthorized practice of law."

Marble Machines Taken Up Pending Official Action

GROESBECK, June 9. (AP)—Marble machines here have been taken up by the owner pending action of the legislature on a bill which would make operation of the boards illegal.

B. L. Bradley, attorney for R. A. Titsworth, operator, said he advised Titsworth to take up the machines, which have been operating here under an injunction restraining officers from seizing them.

Mexican Oil Strike Ends

MEXICO CITY, June 9 (AP) — Mexico's 18,000 oil workers who tied up operations of 17 British and American companies for 11 days in a general strike against the $400,000,000 industry, were ordered back to their jobs today.

Red and black strike flags came down in the capital and elsewhere over Mexico's vast petroleum domain; pickets folded their tents, and put away their chess and checkerboards to start again the flow of motor fuel and other petroleum products which virtually had been stopped.

To Arbitrate Demands

The workers' syndicate formally halted the strike last night when it asked the federal conciliation board to arbitrate its demands on wages, hours and other working conditions.

The end of the walkout represented a victory for President Lazaro Cardenas and fulfillment of his promise of Saturday night that the strike would end Monday.

In its continuing dispute with the employers, the syndicate announced it would:

Ask the conciliation board to force the companies' acceptance of the syndicate's draft of a blanket labor contract;

Action To Be Filed

File action against the companies, through the board, for "losses suffered by the workers in consequence of the conduct of those companies in refusing to sign the collective contract," as well as for wages during the strike, expenses of the general oil congress and strike costs generally;

Seek retroactivity of the contract to May 28, the day the strike started;

Insist upon a conciliation board membership that would "deserve the confidence of the workers;"

Intensify propaganda in support of the workers' demands during the arbitration period, which the union said it expected would be no more than 45 days.

At the outset of the strike, the workers demanded a 40-hour week instead of 44 hours; a minimum daily wage of six pesos ($1.62) instead of 4.30 pesos ($1.16) which they said was the present average; 30-day vacations and a pension plan.

The companies said it was financially impossible to meet these demands.

Little Interest Is Shown In Eclipse In This City

The biggest solar show of more than 12 centuries received little more than passing notice in Lubbock Tuesday afternoon as the sun's eclipse was visible for approximately 45 minutes here.

Although plainly visible through smoked glasses, only a small arc was clipped out of the sun—insufficient to attract attention without actual observation.

Dr. R. S. Underwood, mathematics instructor and astronomer of Texas Technological college, who predicted the time of visibility of the eclipse here more accurately than most scientists, said a number of students at the college observed through colored glasses the eclipse.

It first was visible about 5 minutes after 3 o'clock and lasted until about 3:50, he said. The phenomenon was most plainly visible about 3:30 when approximately 5 per cent of the lower circle of the sun was shadowed.

He viewed the spectacle through shaded glasses, saying he obtained better views through them than through telescopes.

Staten Island Man Is Held After Death Of Texan

PHILADELPHIA, June 9 (AP) — Bernard Johnson, 23, of Staten Island, N. Y., was held today in $5,000 bail in the death of Roy N. Moore, 37, of Port Arthur, Tex. Moore died May 30 aboard the tanker Gulfgem after it had sailed from Las Pedros, Venezuela.

E. J. Chayfitz, a federal bureau of investigation agent, testified at a hearing before U. S. Commissioner William S. Wacker that Moore quartermaster on the ship, died from injuries he suffered in a fight with Johnson.

The ship docked last night.

Mrs. Buna Moore, 26, testified her husband had told her there was labor trouble on the ship and that he had been warned not to go aboard.

JAILED AFTER SHOOTING

BRADY, June 9 (AP)—J. M. Jennings of Brady today was charged with assault with intent to murder in connection with the shooting of his son-in-law, Alphonso Colucelli of San Antonio, early today. Jennings surrendered and was lodged in county jail by Sheriff Love Kimbrough.

TOWNSEND MEET POSTPONED

CHICAGO, June 9 (AP)—A spokesman for Dr. Francis E. Townsend, old age pension advocate, said today the Townsend clubs' national convention, scheduled to be held at Washington in July, has "been temporarily postponed."

PAUL DODGE DIES

TUCUMCARI, N. M., June 9 (AP)—Paul Dodge, editor of the Tucumcari Daily News and former president of the New Mexico Press association, died suddenly today at the age of 62.

The word "larva," the early stage of an insect's life, comes from the Latin word for "ghost."

First Oil Well Supply House Is Open For Business In Seagraves

SEAGRAVES, June 9 (Special)—First of what is expected to be a large number of oil field supply houses, for oil development in Gaines, Yoakum and Terry counties, has been opened here. The Mid-Continent Supply Co., moved into the old Humble Oil company warehouse.

Two large buildings provide plenty of storage space for the large stock. Much stock is already in the house and more is said to be on the way. George Walters, Odessa, is manager and has moved here.

Seven other companies are said to have purchased locations, mostly quarter block lots, along the highways from the Loop road to the school houses.

Practice Of Selling Tomato Culls Would Be Probed

AUSTIN, June 9 (AP)—The State Department of Health would be asked to investigate the practice of selling discarded tomato culls in East Texas by a resolution introduced in the house today.

Rep. B. F. Cathey of Quitman and others said growers in the Tyler, Troup and Jacksonville areas sometimes discarded defective tomatoes along highways and that later they were picked up by trackers who sold them at reduced prices, holding down the market price and endangering public health.

Celebration Is To Be Staged

TULIA, June 9 (Special) — The carnival spirit will reign at Tulia, July 16-17 when old-timers and residents gather at the county seat to celebrate the founding of Swisher county. J. W. Kellogg is general chairman of the two-day frolic, which is the 47th annual celebration.

With prospects for the best wheat crop in six years, Tulia promises a better celebration than the one last year, attended by 10,000 people. The most important event scheduled is the rodeo and barbecue. Other features are a mile-long parade depicting the growth and development of the county since 1890, entertainment of various kinds, band music, and dancing.

Committee In Charge

Kellogg has working with him on an executive committee, C. C. Northcutt, H. E. White, Sam C. Wilks, Walter Tomlinson, B. C. McCasland, and P. C. Colgin.

Lee Ward, H. N. Garrett, T. J. Robb, and T. P. Johnston, are in charge of concessions. The finances will be handled by J. Ross Noland, H. E. White, and Walter Tomlinson. M. C. Riemenschneider is chairman of the music committee, with C. C. Deen and R. E. Daniel helping him.

Entertainment is in charge of R. G. Clennin, Johnie Blocker, George Childress, and P. T. Engleman. Plenty of bread, coffee, and pickles have been assured by the committee made up of J. R. Crocker, Earl Rogers, L. F. Campbell, and Ruie Cantrell. Harry Rogers, Pat O'Daniel, J. W. Evans, J. A. Hutchinson, and J. Lee Griffith are on the barbecue committee.

The celebration is being given publicity by a committee composed of Sam A. Thomas, J. S. Engleman, and J. Hoyt Boles. Grady Briggs, C. W. McFarling, jr., H. M. McGlaun and E. F. Mangum have charge of the parade, and on the reception committee are B. C. McCasland, Ray G. Jordan, A. Foy Curry, jr., and J. Hoyt Boles.

Sentences Are Given Priests

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER
Associated Press Staff Writer

BERLIN, June 9—The official Nazi press demanded today that Germans choose between Hitler and the Vatican.

The latest manifestation of the breach between church and state was published in the party newspaper Westdeutscher Beobachter at Cologne.

"We must now demand one single decision," the government controlled newspaper stated editorially—"are you willing to obey Adolf Hitler more than a church government, which long ago became a secular power?"

Vatican Criticized

"It is quite evident in Rome that there is not a religious leadership but a purely secular center of power, fighting to maintain its supremacy over whole peoples."

Trials of Catholics on immorality charges were continued at Koblenz, where two Catholic brothers were sentenced to two and a half years and one year in prison, respectively.

The heavier sentence was imposed because the convicted man's offense was alleged to have occurred within Cologne cathedral, which the prosecuting attorney assailed as "horrible sacrilege."

Editorial One Of Many

The Cologne newspaper's editorial was another of the many in the past few weeks directed against Pope Pius for his failure to rebuke George Cardinal Mundelein of Chicago, who criticized Hitler and charged that undue publicity was given trials of German Catholic monks and lay brothers on charges of immorality.

The press continued its criticism of the Cardinal and the Vatican on this coast, but took no outward notice of the Sunday incidents—which included fist fighting in Munich.

Searchers Seek Bodies Near Wrecked Plane

Lost nearly six months, a once mighty airliner was found in the mountains near Alpine, Utah, "smashed into a million pieces." Searchers are shown here seeking parts of the plane, lost mail and the bodies of seven crew members and passengers who died in the accident. (Associated Press Telephoto)

Brief Bits Of News . .

Daughter Is Born—A daughter Mari Lynn was born at 10:47 o'clock Tuesday night at West Texas hospital to Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Epperson of 2112 Broadway. Epperson is a student of Texas Technological college.

Campbell Rites Today—Funeral services were to be held at Portales, N. M., this afternoon for Mrs. Frank Campbell, 44, wife of a rancher near there, who died in a Lubbock sanitarium Tuesday of a heart ailment. Burial was under direction of Rix Funeral home of Lubbock.

Back From Trip—Back from a trip to Bartlesville, Okla., where he visited relatives, George W. Foster, city employe said he visited four states while on his trip. He drove to Siloam Springs, Ark., then through the Ozarks to Joplin, Mo., cut across to Coffeyville, Kansas and back to Bartlesville. Crops looked fairly well on the trip, he said.

Report Stolen Car—Hobbs, N. M., officials last night reported a 1937 Chevrolet sedan stolen there. License number was New Mexico 33-574. It belonged to the Empire Oil company, police were told.

Probe Approved On Tax-Dodging

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 9 — The House ordered a sweeping investigation of "tax dodging" today after a spirited debate which touched several times on the tax-paying philosophy just expressed by J. P. Morgan.

It passed, with amendments, a Senate resolution providing an inquiry by a joint House and Senate committee. Sponsors of the amendments said they were designed to prevent ill-considered publication of portions of the tax information to be obtained.

The changes modified a measure which had the approval of the administration and were accompanied by expressions of resentment from members of both parties at what they termed efforts to control the activities and policies of congress.

The resolution, introduced by administration leaders upon the receipt last week of President Roosevelt's message asking an investigation of alleged tax evasions now goes to the Senate for consideration of the House amendments.

President Asks Ship Subsidy

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 9 — President Roosevelt proposed today that the federal government contribute $160,000,000 toward the cost of a new merchant fleet of 95 vessels.

Declaring the merchant marine is in a bad way, he asked Congress for $10,000,000 to subsidize an immediate start on construction.

At the same time he recommended that the legislators authorize the maintenance commission to enter into $150,000,000 of ship construction contracts next year.

Joseph P. Kennedy, chairman of the Maritime commission, explained the program at a press conference immediately after the President's announcement.

He said the new fleet would consist of 60 cargo vessels, 24 passenger-cargo ships, one liner similar to the United States lines' present "Manhattan," and ten high-speed tankers.

Kennedy said he had received assurance from private ship operators that they are ready to build 28 ships in a period ranging from the next 18 months to three years.

High Death Rate Is Reported In 1936

WASHINGTON, June 9 (AP)—The census bureau said today the 1936 death rate in the United States was 11.5 per 1,000 population—the highest since 1929. The 1935 was 10.9.

Death last year totaled 1,474,177, the bureau said, an increase of 81,425 over the previous year.

The bureau reported the heat wave last July and an increase in respiratory deaths early last year were the principal factors.

North Dakota had the lowest death rate last year—8 per 1,000 population. Low rates included Arkansas 9.2, Texas 10.7.

MYSTERY IS SOLVED

GAINESVILLE, June 9 (AP) — County Attorney William C. Culp said today Orville Lee Durham, 24, farmer, had made a statement in connection with a fire in an automobile in the garage of George Wilkerson near Valley View, and the firing of shots when members of the Wilkerson family and Durham's estranged wife left the Wilkerson home to investigate the blaze. Charges of arson and assault to murder were filed against Durham in justice court here.

Health Office Sought Here

Systematic effort to convince the state board of health and Dr. George M. Cox that Lubbock should be the location for one of six district health control points in Texas as provided by recent legislative enactment continued today under direction of the chamber of commerce.

Just what a district office will mean has not been fully determined, it was said, although expectation is that one to be selected somewhere in this general area will serve as headquarters for a territory comprised roughly of 50 or more Panhandle and South Plains counties, each county of which eventually may have a public health education setup of its own.

Numerous counties in the state, according to information compiled by Joseph R. Griggs, Lubbock county school superintendent, already have county health units which carry forward under expert supervision an educational health program under general direction of Dr. Cox.

Although the legislative act empowered the state board of health to designate district control offices, choices were deferred until Dr. Cox could make a survey to determine most desirable locations. Chamber officials said that they will urge that Lubbock is almost at the geographical center of the probable Panhandle-Plains district.

While the specific nature of the organization for various districts has not been indicated, the indicated plan is that each will be manned by an expert personnel to work among individual counties, and to direct a far-reaching campaign of educations in the fundamentals of health and sanitation.

Coach Elva Baker Is Back At Tech

Several pounds lighter and quite a few inches thinner than he was at the height of his popularity here, Elva Baker, former Texas Tech football star, now assistant coach at Greenville High school, came back to the campus yesterday and enrolled in summer school for the first six weeks of the semester.

Baker, who lost weight and inches during a recent spell of illness, delayed his arrival here until the coaching situation at Greenville had been cleared up, himself getting a new contract as assistant coach only a few days ago. While here this summer, the former Red Raider tackle and captain will be connected in an official capacity with the boys dormitory.

Dan Stallworth, successful coach at Quanah High school for the past few seasons, Monday was named head coach at Greenville High school, succeeding Milton "Speedy" Moffett, former Texas Tech grid star whose contract was not renewed. For the past several weeks, the athletic department of the Greenville school has provided state-wide news because of a "strike" on the part of football players of the school. The gridders refused to "play ball," after Moffett's contract was ended, and swore they would never play ball unless he was retained, along with Baker.

Moffett himself prevailed upon the players, urged them to "forget it," and return to duty. This they did after one new coach had been elected, but who later "resigned" without even visiting the school.

Election of Stallworth came as a surprise Monday. At the same time, the schoolboard elected to retain Baker.

"I believe Stallworth will get along fine," Baker said yesterday. "I talked with him yesterday (Monday) and I like him fine. I'm sure the boys will like him, and that we'll be in the thick of the district race again this year."

The majority of the population of Hatti are negroes, while most of the rest are mulattoes descended from former French settlers.

Barriers Are Seen In Farm Program

WASHINGTON, June 9 (AP) — Congressional leaders said today a difference of views between Secretary Wallace and the House Agriculture committee has been a barrier to enacting President Roosevelt's recommendations for farm tenancy legislation.

The committee has committed itself to a bill providing for extension of long-time, low interest loans to tenants for the purchase of farms. It would appropriate $50,000,000 for five years.

Secretary Wallace and the President's committee on tenancy, on the other hand, recommended that the government be authorized to purchase land for re-sale to tenants under terms that would not permit the buyers to acquire title in less than 20 years.

Crew Of Burning Ship Taken Off Safely By Another

FERNANDO DE NORONHA, Brazil, June 9 (AP)—The crew of the burning Greek steamer Maria Stathatos was transferred safely today to the German plane-carrier Westphalen, the catapult ship for the reich's trans-Atlantic transport planes.

The Mari Stathatos, aflame from stem to stern, arrived off this island near the northeast coast of Brazil late last night.

Roundup Of Group Of Italians Is Reported On Frontier

PERPIGAN, Franco - Spanish Frontier, June 9 (AP)—Roundup of a group of Italians suspected of trying to bomb strategic Spanish government points in France led today to the arrest of a second man at Cerbere, France.

Police said five other Italians were suspected of placing bombs which were found several months ago in various parts of Perpignan. They charged one of these suspects had been instructed to bomb the Spanish consulate at Toulouse.

LOVE . . . HONOR . and COOK

"From the sublime to the realities of life, that is true for some wives, but not for me. My automatic Electromaster range requires so little attention that it gives me many hours of leisure. Like most newly-weds, it had to be economical—not only to buy but to operate. It has the speed, the cleanliness, the coolness, the beauty—to make me choose electric cookery every time."

Arkansas Deputy Sheriff Is Victim In Fight At Still

MARKED TREE, Ark., June 9 (AP) An Arkansas deputy sheriff died in a Memphis, Tenn., hospital yesterday from bullets said by a companion to have been fired by a federal agent raiding a moonshine still already seized by state officers.

County and federal officers carried out their raids independently of each other and met at the still in a wooded section north of Marked Tree. In the resultant confusion, Deputy Frank White of Marked Tree was fatally wounded.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

By The Associated Press

Eldon Auker, Tigers—Pitched one-hit ball, retiring last 12 batters in order to turn back Athletics, 6-0.

Fabian Gaffke, Red Sox—Clouted pair of doubles and single drove in three runs and scored another, and stole a base in 10-8 victory over Indians.

Russ Bauers, Pirates—His six-hit, seven-strikeout pitching broke five-game Pittsburgh losing streak with 8-1 trimming of Phillies.

Rip Radcliff and Mike Kreevich, White Sox—Former hit double and two singles, latter triple and single in 5-4 defeat of Yankees.

Lee Grissom and Baxter Jordan, Reds—Former blanked Bees, 4-0, on four hits and fanned six; Jordan paced attack with single, double and triple.

A road recently laid in Birmingham, England, cost approximately $25,000. The road is only two-thirds of a mile long and has in it materials ranging from cast iron, wood, and rubber, to concrete with cork-filled joints. The road has 32 different surfaces.
