Lynn's Ex-Service Men Receive "Bonus" Bonds

TWO TEACHERS ARE ELECTED

Public School Music Is Added To Grammar Grades; New Units Of Affiliation

Two additional teachers were elected to teach in the Tahoka schools for the ensuing year at a recent meeting of the school board, according to Superintendent W. G. Barrett.

Miss Hope Wells of Hedley, who will receive her degree at the West Texas State Teachers College at Canyon in August, will teach public school music at the Central Ward building. She has been majoring in that subject in college. She has had two years experience in teaching.

Miss Cressie Turner, who has been teaching at Pampa but whose mother lives at Grassland in this county, will be the teacher of the seventh grade at the high school building. She holds a degree from the Abilene Christian College.

Mrs. Assiter, who has been teacher of the seventh grade, will teach History in the high school. She majored in this subject in college.

Mr. Barrett also states that this school has been granted 1½ additional credits in vocational agriculture, giving it 3 full credits in this subject.

Hattie Server Out For District Clerk

Miss Hattie Server of Wilson has made her announcement as a candidate for district clerk of Lynn county, and she respectfully solicits the favorable consideration of every voter.

She has resided at Wilson the past fifteen years and is a graduate of the Wilson high school, which has long borne the reputation of being one of the best high schools in a town of that size in Texas. She has also had much business experience for a young woman, and she is doubtless capable of making a most excellent district clerk.

She has worked two summers in the office of the county farm agent here and has made many friends here and in other parts of the county as well as in her home town and community. She is the only candidate, we believe, residing in the immediate vicinity of Wilson, and her many friends there will doubtless give her their most enthusiastic support.

Miss Server makes the following statement in connection with her announcement.

"I have been a resident of Wilson for 15 years. My business experience and activities cover a period of ten years. I have held the position of bookkeeper for The Wilson State Bank, The Wilson Mercantile Company, and The Planters Gin Company, Inc., all of Wilson. I have also worked as Junior Clerk in the Lynn county agent's office."

"In announcing for this office I wish to say to the voters that I do so with full knowledge of the responsibilities of the office and feel that I am amply fitted by education and experience to administer the duties of district clerk."

Tahoka Defeats Lorenzo Team

Playing the third game of the season at Lorenzo last Sunday afternoon, the Tahoka Bulldogs won over the Lorenzo team by a score of 4 to 0. Jack Burke did most of the mound work for Tahoka while Karr Wells was the catcher.

A game with the Hobbs, New Mexico, team has been matched for Sunday afternoon, to be played on the Hobbs diamond.

SINGING CONVENTION

The Panhandle - Plains Singing Association will hold its annual convention, Centennial session, in Lubbock at the Sled Allen Auditorium Saturday and Sunday, June 20-21.

Everybody invited. All good singers are urged to attend.

OLD SETTLERS MEET JUNE 24

Program And Barbecue Feature Of Annual Affair; Will Meet At Geo. Small Place

The old settlers of Lynn county will have their third annual meeting here on Wednesday of next week, June 24.

It has been decided to hold the meet this year at the George Small home three miles east of town. A barbecue will be served to the members of the organization. A program has been prepared and a jolly, good time is anticipated.

There will be talks by the old-timers, songs, and possibly readings, and a lot of old-time music.

Judge J. W. Elliott, now in Los Angeles, is president of the association, C. H. Doak of O'Donnell is first vice-president, G. W. Small is second vice-president, J. W. White third vice-president, Mrs. Oscar Roberts is secretary, and Mrs. Jewell Doak Rogers is historian.

Good Program At Luncheon Club

A couple of snappy songs by the Girl Scouts greatly delighted the members of the Luncheon Club at the luncheon Tuesday noon.

Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Huber, who are here directing the music in the Baptist revival services, also gave a vocal number each, which were fine.

The president, Rev. Geo. A. Dale, stated that some of the members had suggested that a vacation be taken for the remainder of the summer, and he placed the matter before the club for its consideration. Various views were expressed by the members present, and it was finally decided to have meetings of the club only twice each month, on the first and third Tuesdays in July and August, after which the weekly meetings should be resumed. Dues for July and August are to be cut in half, $1.25 per member per month.

The weekly meetings will continue through June also, and all members of the club are urged to be present next Tuesday.

Methodist Pastor Is At Dallas Meeting

Rev. and Mrs. C. C. Armstrong left for Dallas Sunday afternoon, where Brother Armstrong was to attend a conference of some kind being held at S. M. U. this week. In the meantime Mrs. Armstrong and the children expected to visit relatives.

They will return to Tahoka about the end of next week.

Fisher Patterson Dies In Houston

Fisher Patterson, about 58, son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Sherrod and a long-time resident of Tahoka, died early Monday at the home of a daughter in Houston from spinal meningitis, according to word received here by the Sherrods. Burial was in Houston Monday afternoon.

Mr. Patterson was well known in Tahoka, but had been living at Levelland, Littlefield, and in Oklahoma the past ten years. His wife died here twelve years ago. Five children, all of whom were at his bedside when death came, survive. They are: Mrs. Opal Graham, Mrs. Exie Mae McJunkie, and Marlin Patterson, all of Houston; and Harlan and Glenn Patterson, both of Fort Sam Houston, San Antonio.

Many friends here were saddened on learning of the death of their former fellow-citizen.

BUYS DRAY BUSINESS

Harvey Freeman has purchased the dray business of Mr. J. J. Atkinson, taking charge Thursday. We have no information as to Mr. Atkinson's intentions.

THREE FAMOUS SMILES—ALL IN A ROW!

The President and Mrs. Roosevelt enjoying Texas hospitality on their tour of the state last week, with Governor James V. Allred serving as official host. Further evidence of the cordial relations existing between the Texas and National administrations is the naming of Governor Allred to nominate Vice-President John N. Garner at the Democratic Convention in Philadelphia. The purpose of the President's visit to the Lone Star State was to represent the U. S. Government at the Texas Centennial Exposition, as well as to spread good will for the cause of the Democratic party.

Wilson Entertains With Barbecue July 4

The people of Wilson have planned a big Fourth-of-July celebration, and are inviting the people of Lynn and neighboring counties to come and enjoy the day with them.

There will be peaking by all the county candidates and by many of the district candidates.

A free barbecue will be served at the noon hour.

There will be speaking by all the tween Wilson and the Tahoka Bulldogs in the afternoon, and an attempt is being made to arrange a game betwen two negro teams. All basball fans will enjoy both games, if the colored game is arranged.

There will be other attractions also.

A great crowd is expected to be present. Wilson may be expected to put this celebration over in a great way, for though she is a small town she is in the habit of doing big things.

Let's all go to Wilson on the Fourth.

Complaint Is Filed In Murder Case

A complaint here a few days ago tice court here a few days ago charging a negro with the murder of the Mexican whose dead body was found in a field in the Gordon community one day last week.

The negro has not been arrested but officers are sure they will have him in jail within a short time. If officers have procured any new evidence in this case the past few days, they have not disclosed its nature.

Candidates Plan Speaking Dates

The candidates of Lynn county have arranged a speaking schedule for the remainder of the campaign, all to be at night except at Wilson on July 4, on the following dates.

The voters are cordially invited to attend these meetings.

Morgan, Friday, June 19.
West Point, Tuesday, June 23.
South Ward, Thursday June 25.
New Lynn, Friday, June 26.
Magnolia, Tuesday, June 30.
Grassland, Thursday, July 2.
Wilson, Saturday, July 4.
Joe Bailey, Tuesday, July 7.
Wells, Friday July 10.
Gordon, Tuesday, July 14.
Edith, Wednesday, July 15.
O'Donnell, Friday, July 17.
Three Lakes, Tuesday, July 21.
Tahoka, Friday, July 24.

"Future Farmers" Start Summer Work

The officers of the Tahoka Chapter of the Future Farmers of America had a short meeting at the High School building Thursday evening, June 18. Plans were made for a picnic and swimming party at Buffalo Springs Friday, June 26. The group will leave the high school building about 4:30 o'clock that afternoon.

Another meeting is called for Wednesday evening, June 24, at 8:30 o'clock at the High School building. Cecil Ayres urges that as many students of Vocational Agriculture as possible be present. Plans for some feeding projects for the coming school year and further plans for the picnic will be made.

Miss Leona Fechner of Dallas is here as the guest of Miss Berta Hill. She is a teacher in one of the Dallas schools.

Additional Rain An Aid To Crops

Good rains fell over most of Lynn county again Friday and Saturday mornings. Again these rains fell slowly, for the most part, and were just what was needed at the time for the crops.

The rainfall in Tahoka these two days amounted to 1.15 inches. In some places the fall was possibly heavier and in some places lighter than it was here. North of Tahoka, the rain had been much heavier than it had been here, however, prior to this visitation.

We have interviewed numbers of farmers this week from various parts of the county, and invariably they tell us that the young cotton is very fine and thrifty. It came up with a long stem and is growing rapidly. The only exceptions to this rule come from the Dixie community, where a heavy rain and hail storm destroyed the crops on a number of farms last week. These farmers have been replanting their crops this week, and it may be that they will yet make as good crops as anybody in the county.

The earliest cotton in the county is to be found in the Midway community and in the northeast portion of the county, according to reports coming to the News office. Cotton on many farms in these communities has been up several weeks and has made splendid growth.

Miss Lucille Busby of Sweetwater is here visiting her friend, Miss Pauline Smelser.

Tahoka Exhibt At Frontier Days

Tahoka will be represented in the West Texas exhibit building of the Frontier Days celebration at Fort Worth which opens July 1st. A large poster, arranged and decorated by an artist, and telling the story of Tahoka and Lynn county in word and picture, will be on display.

The exhibit was made possible by a committee from Tahoka Luncheon Club headed by J. K. Applewhite.

J. T. Mitchell Is Buried At Post

J. T. Mitchell, 61, formerly of Grassland but more recently living north of Post, died Sunday afternoon in a Lubbock sanitarium after a five-days' illness with a heart ailment. He was well known in Tahoka and in the eastern part of the county.

Funeral services were held in the Baptist Church at Post Monday, Elder D. W. Reed preaching the funeral sermon.

Mr. Mitchell came to Grassland in 1915, buying a tract of the C. W. Post land just across the road from Central Church. In 1929 he traded for a ranch north of Post and moved to the newly acquired property. He is survived by three daughters.

Many friends here regret to hear of Mr. Mitchell's death.

H. B. and Rollin McCord were in attendance at the funeral.

Mahon's Opponent Is Heard In City

Rev. E. B. Speck of Lubbock, retired Baptist minister and candidate for Congress, spoke to a fair-sized crowd on a street corner here Wednesday afternoon.

Rev. Mr. Speck is the Townsendite candidate for Congress against George Mahon. He was mild and perfectly gentlemanly in his criticism of Mr. Mahon and of others who oppose him. He presented his views in a dignified but forceful manner and seems to have made a good impression personally, though it is not probable that he made many converts to the Townsend pension plan.

He was introduced by Dr. C. P. Tate of O'Donnell.

He is making a rather thorough canvass of the district, we understand.

SERVICE MEN EXPECT MONEY

Approximately $186,000 Will Be Paid Lynn County Men Who Saw World War Service

The hearts of ex-service men here were made glad Monday morning when they were notified that their "bonus" bonds had arrived.

At an early hour Tuesday afternoon, there had been 108 registrations at the Tahoka post office, 69 at O'Donnell, and 31 at Wilson.

Aubra Cade, former post commander of the Marion G. Bradley Post of the American Legion here, estimated that the total number in the county would approximate 300.

While there had been only 108 registrations here, Mr. Cade said that there had been about 150 applications. He was notified over the telephone that there would be at least 20 additional registrations at O'Donnell, and a few living in this county receive their mail at Meadow, Slaton, and Post, respectively. He was sure that the final figures would not fall far short of 300.

Mr. Cade was informed that the average payment per man at O'Donnell was about $700.00. It was estimated by postal authorities here that the average would be about $600.00 per man.

If the above figures are approximately correct, about $180,000 will be distributed in this county, about half of which would come through the Tahoka post office.

The average payment throughout the United States will be about $550, according to statistics furnished from Washington. If this should be the average for Lynn county, the total payments would be around $165,000. A report from Washington published a few weeks ago stated that the amount coming to Lynn county would be about $186,000 which is doubless approximately correct.

At the local post office, the bonds have run from 1 to 28 per man, or $50 to $1,400, we are told.

It is expected that the bondholders will receive their checks within a few days. The receipt of these checks, it is believed, will very materially stimulate business here as well as elsewhere. Many debts will be paid, home and farm improvements will be made, clothing in many instances will be purchased, and some will doubtless buy new automobiles. In fact, almost every line of business will feel the impetus resulting from the turning of this volume of money into the channels of trade.

Four Miles Road South Unfinished

The work of placing the base preservative on Highway 9 south of town has been hindered by the recent rains and other causes, but the job has been completed with the exception of four miles extending south from the Tahoka city limits.

Employees in the state highway office here were unable to say just when this work would be resumed but they were sure that it would be done at an early date.

The number of men employed on Highway No. 84 west of Tahoka has been increased to 65. Work on this project is rather slow by reason of the fact that the caliche trucks are being loaded by hand, as it were, by men with spades and shovels. It is a W. P. A. project.

Caliche had been laid to a distance of 3.7 miles west from Tahoka Wednesday afternoon.

Blue Sox Lose In Game At Wilson

Wilson, June 16.—The Tahoka Blue Sox found a hot reception party here Sunday and the young Wilson baseballers sent them home smarting under a 22 to 2 defeat.

Wilson hopped on four Tahoka pitchers for 26 hits, while Hyde, Wilson pitcher, was giving up only five to Manager Prentice Walker's outfit.

News Review of Current Events the World Over

Landon Is Republican Nominee—Britain May Alter Sanctions Policy—Mussolini Makes Sweeping Changes in Cabinet.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

© Western Newspaper Union.

IN ONE of the greatest demonstrations of popular acclaim in the history of American politics, Gov. Alfred M. Landon was nominated for President of the United States by the Republican national convention meeting in Cleveland.

Gov. Landon

Nominated on the first ballot, Governor Landon received the unprecented number of 984 out of a possible 1,003 votes. The nomination was made unanimous. Although his name had not been placed in nomination, Senator William E. Borah of Idaho received 19 votes, including 18 from the Wisconsin delegation and one from West Virginia.

Col. Frank Knox of Chicago, publisher of the Chicago Daily News, was nominated for Vice President on the ticket, receiving the unanimous vote of the delegates.

Party unity and harmony were the watchwords of the delegates. The action of the three other leading candidates for the Presidential nomination—Col. Frank Knox of Chicago, Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan and Senator Borah—in withdrawing in Landon's favor paved the way for a militant and united front in the coming campaign by the Republican party.

The convention adopted a platform of "Americanism," pledging a broad farm relief program, repeal of reciprocal tariff bargaining, the elimination of monopolies and opposition to American entry into the League of Nations and the World court.

Condemning "waste and extravagance" of the Democratic administration, the platform declares for economy by reduced expenditures and for a balanced budget. Adequate relief for the unemployed and co-operation of the states is provided. The platform demands the repeal of the present social security program for a simplified "pay-as-you-go" old-age pension plan. Without proposing a constitutional amendment, it pledges support to states' minimum wage and working hour laws, abolition of sweatshops and child labor, improvement of working conditions and the right of labor to bargain. It calls for restoration and maintenance of the merit system in civil service, regulation of business by a tribunal whose actions would be subject to court review and federal supervision of interstate utilities.

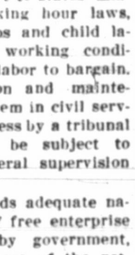

The platform demands adequate national defense right of free enterprise without competition by government, free speech, pledges care of the veterans and calls for efforts to collect the defaulted war debts.

Governor Landon in a telegram read to the convention by his campaign manager, John Hamilton, placed his own interpretation on certain planks in the platform. Under the title of labor he advocated a Constitutional amendment permitting the states to adopt legislation necessary to protect women and children in the matter of maximum hours, minimum wages and working conditions, provided it is not possible to do so under the Constitution as it now stands.

He likewise advocated a currency expressed in terms of gold and convertible into gold, adding: "I recognize, however, that this requisite must not be made until and unless it can be done without penalizing our domestic economy and without injury to our producers of agricultural products and other raw materials."

Concerning the merit system in civil service, he suggested that it should include every position in the administrative service below the rank of assistant secretaries of major departments and should cover the entire Post Office department.

IN A long expected cabinet shake-up in Italy, Premier Mussolini gave out three of his eight portfolios. There are 15 posts in the cabinet. Il Duce appointed his son-in-law, Count Galeazzo Ciano, as foreign minister. Ciano, only thirty-three, is the world's youngest foreign minister. He moved up from the cabinet post of propaganda. Mussolini also gave up the ministries of colonies and corporations, these posts going respectively to Ferruccia Lantini and Alesandro Lessona. Count Ciano's former ministry was taken by Dino Alfieri. Giuseppe Bastianini, ambassador to Poland, was made undersecretary for foreign affairs. He is only thirty-seven.

Mussolini

The action of Il Duce gave rise to talk of his successor. Observers pointed out that because of the importance of the post of foreign minister, Ciano is believed to be in closest succession to Mussolini.

Elsewhere in the world governments were experiencing changes. In Nicaragua, Dr. Carlos Brenes Jarquin, completing the unexpired term of the deposed President, Dr. Juan B. Sacasa, announced his cabinet. The cabinet included Dr. Luis Manuel Debayle, minister of foreign relations; Dr. Geronimo Ramirez Brown, prime minister; Jose Roman Gonzales, minister of public works; Benito Ramiriz, minister of finance; Dr. Lorenzo Guerrero, minister of education; Dr. Roberto Gonzalez, minister of health; Dr. Alejandro Sequeira Rivas, sanitary director.

LARGER loaves of bread at no increase in price to the consumer were being offered by leading baking company chains selling their product in large cities of the United States. One company increased the size of its 10 cent loaf by 25 per cent, and another by 15 per cent. The saving to consumers was made possible by the invalidation of the AAA processing tax, according to an official of a baking company. The tax was 30 cents a bushel on wheat, he said, and was reflected in an increase of from $1.28 to $1.40 a barrel for flour.

At the same time, the threat of a possible potato famine, due to drouth that is seriously curtailing crops in the Southeast, caused uneasiness among housewives. Prices rose precipitately, but eased off, because immediate demand from consumers declined. The seriousness of the situation was reflected in reports from the crop division of the Department of Agriculture that unless rains fell soon an acute shortage will boost the price of potatoes. The carry-over this year was small, it was revealed, and Maine reported only 100 carloads of last year's holdover on hand. While weather conditions up to the middle of July will determine the extent of the shortage, it was believed by farm experts that the later crops will meet the August and September demands.

DEATH came to John Hays Hammond, eighty-one, internationally-famed mining engineer, economist and writer at his home at Gloucester, Mass. He had lived a life high in adventure and rich in experiences. He was a friend and confidant of Theodore Roosevelt, Mark Twain, H. Rider Haggard, Cecil Rhodes and many other figures celebrated in world history in the past half century.

John Hays Hammond

Mr. Hammond was born in San Francisco, California, in 1855 where his parents settled after the Mexican war in which his father served as a major. It was the era of the spectacular California gold rush. He watched miners pan for gold dust as a boy. After graduation from Yale he set himself up as a mining engineer. Soon he visited the west coast of Mexico, believing it could be developed as a mining country.

He became known as an expert judge of mining property and was sent to South Africa by "Barney" Barnato great speculator of the last century. Hammond experienced some romantic adventures including an acrimonious encounter with Paul Kruger, president of the Transvaal republic who sentenced him to be hanged and relented only on the intervention of the secretary of state.

After developing mining property in many parts of the world, Mr. Hammond was appointed by President Taft in 1911 as special ambassador and personal representative at the coronation of King George V.

AFTER settling a general strike in which 1,000,000 workers had paralyzed the industrial life of France, the new "popular front" government under Premier Leon Blum was faced with further difficulties in the form of a series of new strikes. Although the government had toiled day and night trying to adjust disputes and though most of the demands of strikers had been satisfied by employers, there was a smaller return to work than had been expected. It was reported that as fast as strikes in some industries were settled, others were affected.

The extent of the permanent ravages which will be left in the wake of this upheaval will only become apparent later on. Some observers predicted that private industry would be forced into bankruptcy so as to secure operation by the state. But whether Premier Blum and his "popular front" government were prepared for such extreme measures was not at all certain.

THE Supreme Court of Illinois upheld the constitutionality of the state's fair trade act in a decision affirming the opinion of the Cook County Circuit court. The court held that Carl W. McNeil, in the liquor business in Chicago, could not sell his product at less than the wholesale list price. Said the opinion:

"The fair trade act has for its major objective the preservation and protection of property interests of the producer and his distributors in the good will represented by brands, trade marks and trade names."

INDICATIVE of the rising tide of business recovery, the Western Electric company, a subsidiary of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, one of the largest employers of labor in the Middle West, resumed its common dividends. The action follower restoration of the company's operations to a profitable basis in 1935, with gains in both sales and employees. Practically the entire payment, amounting to $3,000,000, goes to American Telephone and Telegraph, which owns more than 90 per cent of Western Electric's stock.

At the company's Hawthorne works, near Chicago, 10,500 employees were on the payroll on June 1, an increase of 1,730 since January 1. This compares with a low of approximately 6,700 during 1933. Employment is now the highest since 1932.

A VITAL alteration in Great Britain's foreign policy, particularly as it affects Anglo-Italian relations, was indicated by Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain in an address in which he implied broadly that England may soon move to end sanctions against Italy. Regarded by many experts as likely to become Britain's next prime minister, Chamberlain said:

"Collective security based on sanctions has failed."

This was taken to mean that England may reverse the policy which had supported the League of Nation's futile sanctions campaign to halt Mussolini's conquest of Ethiopia.

In authoritative diplomatic circles in London it was reported that Mussolini had definitely served notice on Britain that Italy will leave the league unless the assembly meeting at Geneva on June 30 drops the anti-Italian sanctions program.

AGRICULTURE was given representation on the federal reserve board through the appointment by President Roosevelt of Chester C. Davis, administrator of the AAA to that body. In discussing his appointment, Mr. Davis said: "The fiscal policy of the federal government has never been tied in closely enough with agricultural problems." Mr. Davis has spent most of his life in agricultural activities. He was born on a farm in Iowa, was graduated from Grinnell college and later owned and operated a farm. For some years he was a newspaper publisher and then became editor of the Montana Farmer.

Doctor Tolley

Mr. Davis was succeeded as AAA administrator by Dr. Howard R. Tolley. Nationally known as a soil expert, Doctor Tolley helped Mr. Davis draft the soil conservation plan, enacted after the United States Supreme court decision invalidated the AAA.

THE New Deal was made the issue of a congressional campaign in Alabama with the result that Luther Patrick, an ardent supporter of the administration, defeated Congressman George Huddleston, an incumbent for 22 years. Patrick, a forty-two-year-old lawyer, won the Ninth district nomination by about 6,000 votes after a spirited campaign in which he charged Huddleston with disloyalty to the New Deal.

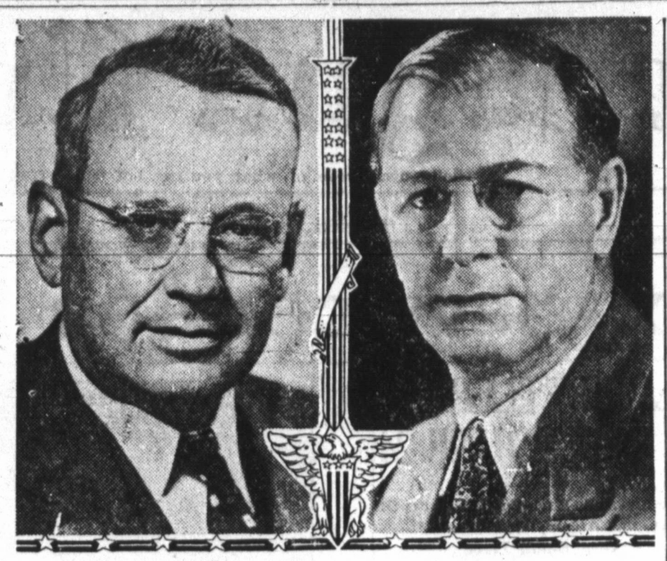

CALLED back to the British cabinet, which he left some months ago as a political scapegoat, Sir Samuel Hoare was made first lord of the admiralty, to succeed Viscount Monsell. Sir Samuel, who boldly faced a hostile house of commons last December to defend his part in the Anglo-French peace plan which would have given Mussolini only a part of Ethiopia, will face the task of solving problems arising out of British-Italian fleet difficulties in the Mediterranean. The biggest task facing Hoare, however, is restoration of the British navy to an undisputed position of supremacy on the seas.

Sir Samuel Hoare

TEXAS celebrated the one-hundredth anniversary of its independence by opening a $25,000,000 centennial exposition in Dallas. Foremost among distinguished visitors attending the world's fair the first week was President Roosevelt. To obtain the centennial exposition Dallas made available more than $9,000,000 in cash and property. The exposition will be open until November 29. Numerous other celebrations marking the state's 100 years of freedom have been held in various cities and towns of Texas. The exposition presents educational, historic and recreational features associated with a major world's fair.

THE senate passed the $829,000,000 compromise revenue measure by a vote of 38 to 24. The bill then went to conference with the house of representatives, which had enacted a revenue measure carrying out tax proposals made by President Roosevelt. The senate measure called for a 15½ to 18 per cent tax on net corporate incomes as compared with the present 12½ to 15 per cent levy; a new type of 7 per cent tax on undistributed profits; repeal of the existing exemption of dividends from the 4 per cent normal income tax; an increase of 1 per cent in th individual income surtax on surtax brackets between $6,000 and $50,000.

ALF M. LANDON FRANK KNOX

"Win With Landon!" Is G. O. P. Convention Cry

Confident, Cheering Republicans Unanimously Acclaim Kansan and Knox.

Cleveland, Ohio.—To a man, the Republican party stands behind Alf M. Landon of Kansas and Frank Knox of Illinois, convinced that victory lies ahead in November, as a result of one of the most stirring and harmonious conventions in the party's history.

There was never a doubt as to the faith of the delegates that Landon and Knox can beat Roosevelt. Both were nominated unanimously, Landon by acclamation.

Landon's name was the only one presented to the convention. It was the first time such a thing had happened at a Republican convention since the nomination of Grant in 1868 and 1872. He and his running mate will be committed to a platform that makes the issue in the campaign that of the American form of government against government of a queer and unnatural kind under the Stars and Stripes.

Enthusiasm Rings Out.

The platform, which contained as an integral part, a simple restatement of the Bill of Rights from the Constitution of the United States, also was unanimously adopted.

That was the kind of a convention it was. Decisive. Enthusiastic. Courageous. Certain.

And it was colorful. There was the inspired fearlessness of the typical pioneers who crossed the plains to settle the typical prairie states in the telegram wherein Alf Landon laid his cards on the table for all to see BEFORE his nomination.

The youth and fire and uncompromising determination of the convention were characterized by the dogged, lifted chin of young, sorrel-topped John D. M. Hamilton, committeeman from Kansas, as he made Landon's nominating speech.

The convention's resolution of purpose, its undampened ardor for the traditions of American liberty against regimentation and bureaucratic dictatorship were part and parcel of the mighty ovation which for 30 minutes acclaimed the arrival of Herbert Hoover.

"For Three Long Years."

Proof that party enthusiasm was only whetted to a new high pitch by three years of Roosevelt was demonstrated in the stampede of the whole floor, under the leadership of a young and good-looking blonde woman who left the gallery to snatch a flag and march at the head of the parade which acclaimed the former President for an hour after his departure. He had told them that they were "a convention of Americans to determine the fate of those ideals for which this nation was founded." They showed him they were with him when he shouted for them to "stop retreat!"

Unconcealed contempt for anything New Dealish or Rooseveltian became the theme song of the convention. In the powerful keynote speech of the temporary chairman, Senator Frederick Steiwer of Oregon, was born the chant that carried through the convention and is now being sung at Republican meetings everywhere—"Three Long Years!" to the tune of "Three Blind Mice!"

Senator Steiwer had quoted President Roosevelt's statement in a message to congress in 1933:

"For three long years the Federal government has been on the road toward bankruptcy. . . . Thus we have piled up an accumulated deficit of $5,000,000,000."

Steiwer Strikes a Chord.

Senator Steiwer pointed out that that was the accumulation of four years. Then he continued:

"For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1934, the deficit was approximately four billion dollars. For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1935, it was in excess of three and a half billion dollars. For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1936, and eliminating any requirement for the payment of the soldiers' bonus, the deficit is between three and a half and four billion dollars. For three long years the deficits have exceeded those which the President denounced. For three long years we have continued on the road toward bankruptcy. Instead of an accumulated deficit of five billion dollars in four years, we have a deficit of approximately eleven billion dollars in three years—but they are three very long years. During the same period the government spending has gone up. Listen to the astounding totals—for three long years: For the fiscal year 1933, approximately five billion dollars; for 1934, seven billion dollars; for 1935, seven billion four hundred million dollars; for 1936, seven billion six hundred million dollars, and the estimate of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1937, is in excess of eight and a quarter billion dollars. I ask this question—for how long a period has the Federal deficit exceeded that which the President denounced?"

The convention responded with a single, resounding voice.

"For three long years!"

"For how long a period has the federal spending been kept above the seven billion dollar line?"

The galleries caught up the chorus with the delegates:

"For three long years!"

"For how long have we lived under the evil trinity of increased deficit, increased debt and increased taxes?"

The band played the chords for the words this time.

"For three long years!"

Platform Takes It Up.

Right into the platform went the spirit of the chant:

"For three long years the New Deal administration has dishonored American traditions and flagrantly betrayed the pledges upon which the Democratic party sought and received public support.

"The powers of congress have been usurped by the President.

"The integrity and authority of the Supreme court have been flaunted.

"The rights and liberties of American citizens have been violated.

"Regulated monopoly has displaced free enterprise.

"The New Deal administration constantly seeks to usurp the rights reserved to the states and to the people.

"It has insisted on the passage of laws contrary to the Constitution.

"It has intimidated witnesses and interfered with the right of petition.

"It has dishonored our country by repudiating its most sacred obligations.

"It has been guilty of frightful waste and extravagance, using public funds for partisan political purposes.

"It has promoted investigations to harass and intimidate American citizens, at the same time denying investigations into its own improper expenditures.

Raps Bureaucracy.

"It has created a vast multitude of new offices, filled them with its favorites, set up a centralized bureaucracy, and sent out swarms of inspectors to harass our people.

"It has bred fear and hesitation in commerce and industry, thus discouraging new enterprise, preventing employment and prolonging the depression.

"It secretly has made tariff agreements with our foreign competitors, flooding our markets with foreign commodities.

"It has coerced and intimidated voters by withholding relief to those opposing its tyranical policies.

"It has destroyed the morale of many of our people and made them dependent upon government.

"Appeals to passion and class prejudice have replaced reason and tolerance.

"To a free people, these actions are insufferable. This campaign cannot be waged on the traditional differences between the Republican and Democratic parties. The responsibility of this election transcends all previous political divisions. We invite all Americans irrespective of party, to join us in defense of American institutions."

But on the final night of the convention it was another song that rang through Cleveland's auditorium—"Oh, Susannah!"—the campaign song of the Landon forces, who, earlier on that day had so demonstrated that the Kansas governor was the choice of the people to defeat the New Deal, that all of the other candidates willingly released their delegates.

Hamilton Presents Landon.

Before Hamilton began the nominating speech he read a telegram from Governor Landon which went into the annals of political conventions as one of the most courageous pieces of forthrightness and honesty ever to be spoken by a candidate for nomination. Governor Landon wanted it understood before his name was presented that there were certain planks in the platform upon which he had placed interpretations which ought to be known.

He made it plain that, although the platform expressed belief that labor legislation with respect to minimum hours, maximum wages and working conditions could be "done within the Constitution as it now stands," he would, if it were necessary, support a constitutional amendment to accomplish such legislation.

He made it plain that while he agreed that "the first requisite to a sound and stable currency is a balanced budget" the second requisite "is a currency expressed in terms of gold and convertible into gold."

He was more definite than the platform in his ideas of restoring and expanding the merit system in the federal government. "In carrying out this pledge, I believe there should be included within the merit system every position in the administrative service below the rank of assistant secretaries of major departments and agencies, and that this inclusion should cover the entire post office department."

Applause Baffles Meter.

The applause which greeted the reading of the telegram was second only to that which followed Hamilton's presentation of Landon's name to the convention. The cheering at this point was even beyond the capacity of the huge noise meter above the stage to register.

Delegation after delegation leaped to its feet to begin the happy, hollering, whistling, singing, dancing band wagon parade for Alf Landon. Everywhere the banners "Win with Landon" and the posters with the governor's picture were raised. There were hundreds of them. In their enthusiasm, delegates climbed chairs, pummeled each other good naturedly and carried on generally with all the reckless abandon of a college crowd after a big football game. It was an hour before Hamilton could resume talking.

Hamilton dwelt upon the manner in which the forty-eight-year-old governor had administered the affairs of his state simply, efficiently, like a business man "who had had to meet the Saturday night payroll" would. He pointed out the difference between the Landon methods and the Roosevelt methods.

"Through three and one-half years we have heard much talk of emergency. Emergency has been advanced as an argument for the breaking of campaign pledges, for a reckless spending of public funds; for the creation of a bureaucracy, for the appointment of public officials for reasons of personal loyalty rather than merit, and for a bewildering succession of inconsistent and impracticable measures which have retarded recovery and created uncertainty.

Faced Roosevelt's Problems.

"Yet Gov. Landon was elected to his office at the same time that the New Deal administration was elected to power. He faced in his capacity as a state executive emergencies of the same kind that confronted the national executive. He faced also the same question of whether he should in that emergency break the pledges he had made in that campaign, or whether he should keep those pledges. The answers given by the new President and the new governor were different and they were in character. For, as we have seen from the public record of the two of them, their characters were different."

Landon for Unity.

Hamilton struck what proved to be the popular note when he declared:

"Behind Governor Landon, as standard bearer of the Republican party, will rally a united party, for he has a genius for creating unity. Behind Governor Landon will rally that great group of citizens, without regard to party label, who wish to see performance and not propaganda, confidence and not confusion. Behind Governor Landon, carrying the standard of young America, will rally that great section of the people who wish to repudiate the alien philosophies and outworn theories, and who, without regard to their own age, are young enough to have faith that we can build a greater country by carrying forward the dynamic American doctrines of hope, of tolerance, and of effort."

After the nomination had been seconded by Delegates Gasper C. Bacon of Massachusetts, Gov. Frank Fitzgerald of Michigan, Mrs. Corinne S. Alsop of Connecticut (a cousin of President Roosevelt), Perry Howard of Mississippi, Henry Depping of Missouri, Mrs. Janet Tourtelotte of Washington, Charles M. Day of South Dakota, and Mrs. Ruth Hanna Simms of New Mexico, the other candidates came to the stage to announce that they would throw every ounce of support at their command to the election of Landon in November.

These candidates who sacrificed their ambitions for the good of the party and the nation were Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan; Frank Knox of Illinois, the Chicago newspaper publisher who was nominated for Vice President the next morning, receiving a unanimous roll call vote; Sen. L. J. Dickinson of Iowa; Gov. Harry Nice of Maryland; Robert A. Taft of Ohio.

SYNTHETIC GENTLEMAN

"Pat—" he began, still standing, "I've stumbled on something."

"So I gathered," she observed "And I assume that it has do with your pet murder."

"It has to do with your father."

She smiled.

"I suppose you've discovered that he killed Kelly."

"I've discovered that he called on Kelly that night."

"Wonderful!" Pat mocked. "Who told you that?"

"The taxi-man who drove him down town."

Barry related his adventure with the errant medico.

Pat listened almost indifferently.

"It was sheer chance," Barry concluded. "I hadn't any idea of implicating your father. But now he is implicated. You must see that."

"I don't—unless you insist on dragging him into it."

"I insist on nothing, Pat — except clearing an innocent man."

"At the expense of one equally innocent?"

"What does your father stand to lose by telling the truth? We know now that Kelly was alive when Rogers left the house. I'm just as sure that he was alive when the Judge left. But he must have been killed soon afterward. We've got to find out who killed him."

"Why?"

"Because now we've two men to clear."

"If my father saw Kelly after the boy left—"

"That clears Rogers."

"And puts it up to my father."

"Your father didn't kill Kelly," Barry said. "I know that, and I know why he went to that house."

"Really?"

"He went to protest against filing that Jefferson street decision."

"And then filed it."

"He had to. The pressure was too strong for him. He'd been struggling against it for weeks. In politics, even honest men have to listen to reason sometimes. Your father had to."

"How interesting!"

"In spite of the hullabaloo, he wrote the decision. And, that day, came the bitterest onslaught of all. The Globe made a direct accusation. Your father was frantic. Just before midnight, he telephoned Kelly from the tobacconist's shop, and went straight to Sixteenth street.

"He told Kelly this verdict would ruin him. Might ruin everybody. For more than an hour, he plead and argued. No use. Kelly was adamant. Your father gave up at two o'clock, left Kelly—alive—and filed his decision next morning, before anyone knew that Kelly was no longer alive. That's the truth, isn't it?"

"So plausible that telling it publicly would probably end my father's career."

"And so?"

"And so I think we'd better forget it."

"You mean that, to continue your father's career, you'd let this boy go to the gallows?"

"Of course, I don't."

She turned to him, the hardness gone out of her voice.

"There's no chance of that, and you know it."

"There's always a chance."

"We'll face that when we come to it."

"We've got to face it now, Pat."

"Why?" she plead. And then, passionately: "What right have you to demand that we do anything? You don't even know this boy."

"I do."

"Since last—"

"And you know him. He's the real John Clarke Ridder."

That gave her pause.

"Whoever he is, he's got a wife and a baby. I can't risk his life to save you, or myself."

"If he's convicted—" Pat began.

"I won't have him go through that. If the Judge doesn't tell the truth now, I will."

Pat's mouth became a straight, hard line.

"And who'll believe you?" she asked.

"I can prove—"

"Who'll take the word of a bribed taxi-driver and a branded adventurer?"

"Listen, Pat—"

"You listen. I've warned you to stop prying into our affairs. You went right on. And now you—the scum of the earth—"

She was losing her head.

"Now you come into my house with a story vilifying my father and threaten to tell it if we don't. My reply to that is: Go ahead! And, an hour after you do, you'll be arrested for robbing the mails!"

They stood facing each other.

"That letter you opened before Willetts—the letter with the hundred dollar bill — that wasn't addressed to Barry Gilbert, was it?"

"No."

Pat crossed the room.

"I'm sorry," she said, "but you asked for it."

"I did, but I can't take your answer. I can't because—God help me, Pat—I'm in love with you."

She gave no sign of hearing.

"I'm an adventurer," he went on, "and you're a lady. The realest I ever met. That's why you can't do this."

No answer.

"I couldn't," Barry continued, "and I'm a fake gentleman. I wanted to. I wanted to drop the whole business. I told Willetts that after you'd washed me last Friday. And Willetts said, 'That isn't done. A gentleman's got certain responsibilities.' He has. That's a tradition stronger than we are."

Pat turned, at last.

"This is funny," she said. You—"

"It is funny," he cut her short. "I'd like to behave like a loafer, and I can't. I'm willing to go to jail to save this boy—and I'm the scum of the earth. You're a lady. How about you?"

"If it were only me—" she broke.

"Your father's a gentleman. How about him?"

Before she could reply, the double doors opened.

Judge Hambidge was standing there—erect and soldier-like.

"Mr. Gilbert's right, Pat," he said. "I release you from your promise to me. I can't go through with it. I'm too tired, and full of self-loathing."

He turned squarely to Barry.

"You're right about everything. About my going to Kelly that night, and the reason I went. He let me in himself. We quarreled violently. So violently that he took a revolver out of his desk drawer and kept it in his hand. Then I walked out of the house. But you were wrong about just one thing, Mr. Gilbert. I left the house at two o'clock, but, when I left it, Kelly wasn't alive."

CHAPTER VII

They were a curiously inert little group for a minute or two after the revelation.

It was like a play, Barry thought; curtain down on a climax, and the actors relaxing until it should rise again for the next scene.

After a time, Barry crossed the room to the pair.

Pat turned on him.

"Well, now you know," she said. "You know about us, but remember we know about you, too."

She was herself again; hard and defiant.

Ignoring her, for the moment, Barry asked the Judge, "Do you want to tell me what happened?"

"I wrote my opinion in the Jefferson street proceedings, and then, again as you say, I couldn't go through with it. I'd never done a crooked thing in my life. I don't know how I ever made that speech at the Astor. The instant it was finished, I telephoned Kelly. 'You'd better come down and talk it over,' he said.

"It's Not a Criminal's Crime, Either," Barry Answered.

"Of course, it would have been fatal for anyone to learn of that meeting. That's why I got out of the taxi at Twenty-third street. As I told you, Kelly admitted me himself. He was drunk, and in a bad temper. 'What's the matter with you?' he asked, when we'd gone into the drawing room. 'White-livered? Here; take a drink, and forget it.'

"There was a bottle on the table, and two glasses. Both of 'em had been used, but he half-filled them, and gave me one. I needed it, but I can't drink Scotch—never could. I told Kelly so, and he blazed out at me. 'You're too good to drink with me—is that it?'

"'No,' I answered; 'that's not it. But I can't hand down that decision I simply can't, Mr. Kelly. It's rotten, and everyone knows it. I've got the cursed thing in my pocket, and—'

"'And I've got something in my pocket,' he shouted—"

"Father!" Pat intervened.

"For over an hour, I plead and argued. And Kelly kept drinking, and getting uglier. He was a big man, with a bull neck, and huge hands. At last, he said, 'Shut your damned mouth, and get out of here!'

"I said, 'I'm not going.'

"'No?' he sneered, and got up from his chair. He stumbled across the room to a great, old-fashioned desk, and got a revolver. 'Now, beat it,' he yelled, 'and damned quick!'

"'All right,' I said, 'but I won't file that decision.'

"I walked into the hall, and Kelly stood, leaning against the door, with the pistol in his hand, so furious that I half expected him to shoot before I could get my hat. 'You think you can scare me,' he shouted. 'You and The Globe. You think you got something on me. Witnesses. Squealers. Well, I know how to take care of them, by God! Beat it! And, if that decision ain't filed by noon today, I'll—'"

Again, Pat said, "Father!"

"I know," Hambidge interrupted himself.

Pat's admonition had come just in time, Barry thought. The Judge had risen, tense, and so excited that he seemed on the verge of collapse.

"And that was that," Barry calmed him.

"Not quite," Judge Hambidge continued, but in a lower tone. "When I got to the bottom of the steps—the stone steps, I mean—I stood thinking. If I left that way, there was no telling what Kelly might do. 'I've got to go through,' I thought. 'It's ruin either way, but, if I obey orders, ruin only for me. I'd better give in.' I couldn't make up my mind, though. I kept looking back, half decided. And, suddenly, a queer thing happened. The front door swung open."

The Judge mopped his hands again.

"I'd shut it carefully," he resumed, "but there it was, wide, almost like an invitation. I walked into the hall. The glass doors to the drawing room were closed, but I could see the light through them. When I put my hand on the knob, the lights went out. I turned the knob, and pushed, but the door wouldn't open. Not latched—it was as if someone was holding it. 'Kelly,' I thought. 'He won't let me in. I've got to act quick now.' Almost in a daze, I wandered up to the avenue. At nine o'clock, I gave the decision to my clerk, and told him to file it immediately. A few hours later, I learned that Kelly was dead. The papers said his body was found stretched across that door to the hall. I knew then it was there when I left the house, and that was why I couldn't open the door."

Pat said, "Are you satisfied?"

"Are you?" Barry asked. "Or would you rather that I tried to find who killed Kelly?"

"What does it matter—" Pat began, hotly.

"I think Mr. Gilbert's answered that question," the Judge interrupted. "We've got to clear young Ridder. At any cost, Pat, we've got to clear him."

"Mr. Gilbert's our friend," her father went on. "He says so, and I believe him."

"What do you want to know, Mr. Gilbert?"

"How long did you stand at the foot of the steps before that door swung open?"

"Five minutes. Maybe, a little more."

"Do you think someone opened it? Someone who, then, went in to Kelly?"

"You mean, the murderer?"

Barry nodded.

"No. That's the last thing he would have done. The door probably didn't latch when I closed it."

"While you were in the house, did you see anyone but Kelly?"

"No. We were shut in together."

"Did you hear anyone?"

"Since you mention it, once I did think I heard the front door close. I may have imagined it, but now I remember Kelly asked, 'Who's that in the hall?' It was about half an hour after we went into the drawing room, and I looked out, but there wasn't anyone."

"He—or she—may have gone into the dining room," Barry said. "Whoever killed Kelly came out of the dining room; I'm certain of that."

"Why?"

"Because the drink Kelly offered you was Scotch whiskey. Was there anything else in the room?"

"If there had been, I'd've asked for it."

"Exactly. And the weapon that crushed Kelly's skull was a cutglass decanter containing rye whiskey.

"In the five minutes you were standing on the pavement," Barry reasoned, "someone came out of that dining room, with that decanter, and struck Kelly. There was no time for a quarrel. That man — or that woman — knew what he—or she—was going to do."

"Why do you say 'she'?" Pat asked. "This wasn't a woman's crime."

"It's not a criminal's crime, either," Barry answered. "A criminal would have brought the weapon, and it wouldn't've been a cut-glass decanter. A criminal might have worn gloves, to prevent leaving finger-prints. But, since this wasn't a criminal, the fact that there were no finger prints suggests that the murderer just happened to be wearing gloves."

"And?" Pat inquired, tensely.

"And men don't often wear gloves on a warm night. Women do. It was a warm night."

"It was very warm," the Judge said.

"You are a shrewd young man," the girl sobbed at him. "But your assumptions are ridiculous. Gloves! Anyone might have worn 'em. Anyone might remember the risk of leaving finger-prints, and wipe them off a bottle with a handkerchief. Anyone might've come in through an unlatched door—any time after my father left."

"But," Barry objected, "Kelly was dead then."

"How do you know that? How do we know my father wasn't right when he thought Kelly was keeping him out? All your conjectures lead nowhere, Mr. Gilbert. The only discovery you've made is that father saw Kelly after young Ridder did. And, as I told you, that's merely implicating one innocent man instead of another."

"And you—"

"Naturally, it's the second innocent man I care about. Especially since his innocence—of murder—wouldn't keep your disclosures from disgracing him."

Uncommon Sense

Living and Learning

And step by step since time began I see the steady growth of man.

Whittier was a kindly old Quaker gentleman, with a devout belief in Providence, and a cheery optimism regarding his fellow creatures.

Moreover, he was right.

That is not so easy to believe in these days of racketeers, but we have advanced since the times of the iron creeds of the older days.

• • •

Naturally, human nature hasn't changed much.

The phase of it which is being exhibited in central Europe just now is not pleasant to behold.

But Whittier lived in a time when men still talked of the old days—when men and women were burned as witches and when religious prejudices were rampant.

Throughout the country today religious tolerance is to be found.

Education, which in old New England was confined chiefly to the village schools, was often in the hands of poorly educated men, filled with prejudices.

• • •

All the great systems of hospitals, schools and opportunities for advancement have been built up chiefly since the time when the educational center of the country was confined largely to the states along the Atlantic seaboard.

There was little ease, and more hard work than was good for the men and women of the time.

• • •

But through it all the people lived and learned. By the time when Emerson, Whittier, Thoreau and many other really able and broad minded men had begun their work of building and teaching, the West was still "wild" in the sense that parts of it were populated by savages, and the greater areas were still forest and prairie.

How astonished would the men and women of that time be if they could come back and look at the industrial development of the country!

• • •

Today there are few "backwoods" districts. The schools are everywhere; old prejudices and superstitions have been forgotten.

There are havens for the afflicted poor. It is possible for any boy who has purpose and grit to get an education.

And even in the black days through which we just have passed there has been practically no absolute destitution.

• • •

I do not quite agree with the late Doctor Coue that "every day in every way we are growing better and better."

But in most ways we are growing better, and are learning all the time. And the longer we live and think the more intelligent we become and the greater grip we get on the fact that only by mutual helpfulness can we acquire real civilization.

Being a Bridesman Is No Sinecure by a Long Shot

Mate Halasz, an inhabitant of Szeged, holds the world's record as "bridesman"—as distinct from best man—which function he has performed at 1,574 weddings.

The position of "bridesman" at Hungarian peasant weddings is no easy one. Wearing a beribboned hat and carrying a stick decorated with streamers, he goes round delivering the invitations by word of mouth. At the wedding feast he is expected to compose and recite a poem for every dish set on the table and to direct the dances.—London Sunday Observers.

WHAT IS THE DUTY OF THE SUPREME COURT?

We are informed that the five Supreme Court Justices who can flout any law passed by Congress declared they are not at all concerned with the good or ill in legislation passed up to them, nor are they concerned with the effect of their decisions upon the nation Their job is to say what they think the Founding Fathers might have thought about it. Well it's difficult to believe that the great Americans who founded this nation would be in favor of permitting sweat shops and chisllers to force women and children to work for starvation wages. Big Spring Weekly News.

The Big Spring Weekly News publishes the above editorial under the caption: "Supreme Court Lives In The Past." It obviously was moved to make this comment by the action of the U. S. Supreme Court in declaring unconstitutional a state law which undertook to fix wages for women.

We are thoroughly in sympathy with such legislation and believe that our Federal and State constitutions should be amended so as to authorize the enactment of such laws. But until the Constitution is amended, it seems to us that the majority of the Supreme Court was right in holding such legislation unconstitutional.

If the Big Spring editor will take the trouble to read sub-division 1 of Section X of Article 1 of the Federal Constitution, he will find this language: "No state shall * * * pass any bill of attainder, or expost facto law, or law impairing the obligation of contracts."

Doesn't that mean that the freedom to contract as one sees fit shall be preserved to the individual? Doesn't it mean that any law limiting this freedom shall never be passed by any state? If the state of Texas should enact a law prohibiting newspaper publishers as well as other industrialists from employing women in their establishments except at a minimum salary fixed by statute,doesn't the editor of the Big Springs News admit that such a statute would limit his freedom in making contracts with any adult female that he might wish to employ in his establishment? Would it not also limit the freedom of the women who might seek such employment? Wouldn't such a law "impair the obligation of contracts" entered into in violation of its provisions?

In Texas, and probably in most of the states, we have a similar provision in our state constitution. Section 16 of Article 1 of our state constitution provides: "No bill of attainder, ex post facto law, retroactive law, or any law impairing the obligation of contracts, shall be made."

Now, we do not believe that the five justices of the Supreme Court who rendered the above mentioned decision ever declared that they "are not at all concerned with the good or ill in legislation passed up to them", or that they "are not concerned with the effect of their decisions upon the nation."

But they are conscious of the fact that it is not their business to legislate. It is not their business to say whether a law is a good law or a bad law, so far as its effect on the nation is concerned, or so far as its effect upon individual citizens is concerned. That is the province of Congress and the President. It is the business of the Supreme Court, when the constitutionality of a law is attacked in a case before it, to determine whether or not such law does square with the Constitution. If they are intellectually and morally honest, the justices will render an honest opinion regardless of the effect the invalidation of the law may have.

If it is a good law and one that the people desire but is unconstitutional, then the remedy is for the people to amend the Constitution.

If there is any criticism to be made of the Supreme Court, it is that at times it has possibly been too loose in construing our Constitution. Sometimes it has stretched the Constitution almost to the breaking point, it seems to us, in declaring laws constitutional.

TARIFF TALK

Some weeks ago we quoted the TEXAS WEEKLY rather freely on the tariff, and we made a number of comments of our own. The TEXAS WEEKLY published some of our comments, and the far-away MIDDLETON (CONN.) PRESS, it seems, took up the discussion. Last week the TEXAS WEEKLY published in part the reply of this New England paper to our comments and to those of the WEEKLY. Here it is.

The Middleton (Conn.) Press is interested in tariff talk. "Once again," observes the Press, "as national conventon time nears, there is talk down South about the tariff. Texas is more concerned about it than any other State because cotton sales have fallen off. Elsewhere . . . will be found from THE TEXAS WEEKLY a reproduction of the sorrows of the Tahoka News on the failure of congress to act on the promise in the party platform of 1932.

"If our Texas contemporaries will look back on the Washington news in the summer of 1933 they might run across the plain intimation that the party leaders had highly resolved not to touch the tariff, no matter about the plank.

"That resolve is understood to have been entirely satisfactory to President Roosevelt. Anyhow, he had nothing to say by way of reproof. At no time did he press for any repeal of the law he had criticised during the campaign and which was denounced in the 1932 platform as "the system of taxation which makes the rich richer and the poor poorer."

"The Tahoka News asks: 'Why in the world don't we return to this "fundamental principle" of the Democratic party, Mr. President and gentlemen of the Congress?' The answer to that is that neither the President nor any of the Congressmen care to suggest such a thing.

"If Texas is really concerned in the matter, why is the State not represented in that direction by either of its senators or by any one of its twenty-one representatives in Congress?

"Texas, as a matter of fact, is not consistent in its position, because it has never complained about protective tariffs on its own products. There are a score or more of things raised in Texas, nearly all of which have high protective tariff rates.

It is true that Texas Senators and Representatives seem to have abandoned the traditional Democratic position on the tariff.

It is true that the Democratic party as a whole seems to have abandoned it. No longer are we making a fight against the Protective Tariff, the child of the Republican party. And that is what provoked our inquiry as quoted by the Texas Weekly and the Middleton Press.

But there are others who see this matter as we do. The Texas Weekly quotes the TALLAHASSEE (FLA.) DEMOCRAT as follows:

"Time was when the south, and only the south, contended for foreign trade. And then followed the dark hour when even the south lost heart or interest and the nation seemed headed for the rocks of isolationism.

"But important newspapers thruout the south joined The Texas Weekly and other champions of foreign markets. The word was passed and repasssed until editors and speakers from the Atlantic to the Pacific had taken up the cause.

"When important groups of northern industrialists like the Automobile Manufacturers Association issued pamphlets in suffor of foreign markets, the fight ceased to be sectional and became national in scope. . . .

"We are at a loss to say where the few remaining isolationists will look now for comfort and support. Almost everyone has discovered at last that the United States produces surpluses of some commodities, manufactured articles as well as farm products, which it can sell only for goods and that only through a two-way flow of commerce. The salvation of the factory and the farm is recognized by industrialists in the north and farmers in the south in the restoration of foreign trade.

"The United State News has even taken the premise that foreign trade lost since 1929 has been equal to and would have replaced the relief program. With figures and charts the Washington newspaper proves this case and goes further to show that many farm and factory products must be exported if they are sold at all. . . .

"Consider this statement from the United State News: 'The loss in America's exports for the fiscal years 1934 and 1935 as compared with the fiscal year 1929 was greater than the amount needed to pay the relief bills for each of those fiscal years.'

"And now consider this pertinent statement by Winthrop W. Aldrich, chairman of the board of the Chase National Bank: "There could be no surer way to bring about a generation of war and misery throughout the world than for the policy of national economic self-sufficiency to be pressed to its logical conclusion.'

"And so we have it on the authority, not of southerners alone, not of cotton growers who must have foreign markets to prosper and buy manufactures, but of financiers and industrialists and their spokesmen that the way of foreign trade is the way, not only of prosperity, but of peace."

We note that some of our newspaper contemporaries recently have been praising candidates who buy advertising space in their columns. We do not believe that a candidate deserves any praise for this except for his good judgment. If a candidate has any money to spend we do believe that he can find no better way to spend it than by newspaper publicity. Not in order to cultivate the good will of the editor and publisher, but in order to get his name and his cause before the people. In fact, we believe that there are very few newspaper people who will permit themselves to be bought over to the cause of any candidate by his purchase of newspaper space from them. But there are a few. Furthermore, we believe that there are few newspaper people who will undertake to "hold up" the candidates. But there are a few. This, of course, is to be deplored. The candidate who seeks to buy the editor by the use of newspaper space and the editor who can be bought by any candidate by such patronage are alike censurable. But, if we were a candidate for any office and had any money at all to spend, we would spend most of it for newspaper publicity.

There was a lot of hullabaloo and hooey and plain old bull at the Republican convention in Cleveland last week. There will be a lot of it at the Democratic convention to be held in Philadelphia next week. But we have noticed that the bull-throwers rarely ever get anywhere much. Hoover made the strongest speech that was made at the Republican convention. He made a terrific arraignment of the Republican administration. He thrilled those hungry Republicans. A lot of them threw their hats in the air, stomped and yelled. That much was doubtless spontaneous and perfectly O. K. But a lot of them had apparently conceived the idea that by their loud and vociferous and long-continued noise-making they might stampede the convention to Hoover as the Republican nominee. They accomplished nothing except to disgust a majority of the convention and bring its early adjournment for the night. While Hoover, in our opinion, is about the strongest man and the hardest hitter the Republicans have, it would have been foolish to nominate him. The wise guys who were running that convention knew this, and in fact most of the rank and file knew it, and hence there was no more chance for the Republicans to nominate him than there is for the Democrats to nominate the gentleman of brown derby fame, the Happy Warrior, the Honorable Alfred E. Smith, at the Democratic convention next week. Their noise-making was all vanity.

Mudslinging in politics is always to be condemed and deplored. The campaign liar and slandeder is one of the most contemptible of all vile characters. But every candidate's character is proper subject matter for investigation. Every candidate's moral conduct, his financial dealings, and his connection with special interests are matters that the public should know. The fellow who investigates and exposes the crookedness of a cndidate, therefore, is not mudslinging; he is rendering a commendable and patriotic service.

Alfred M. Landon is the Republican nominee. He is doubtless a pretty good American citizen. He probably has more ability than most county judges in Texas. He may even have as much ability as some Texas Congressman. In fact there may be several governors in the United States who have no more ability than Landon has. But the ablest governors were not available material as Presidential candidates. The Republicans were looking for a man that nobody had anything against, and they got him. But he is just as close to the White House today as he will ever be, Selah!

And so the Republicans nominated Knox for Vice President. It will now be their task to pull a knox out of the ditch.

It now seems that Norris is definitely out of the Republican party. Borah seems to be preparing to take a walk. Hoover has been laid on the shelf. Johnson over in California is as quiet as a sick kitten. Moses seems to be wandering around in Egyptian darkness. The old G. O. P. elephant's ribs are showing and his feet are sore. It doesn't look like he is going to be able to make it over the desert sands this year to the White House.

We must keep the bollot pure. We must keep the electorate pure. If and when the time comes that the great body of the American people can be bought with financial favors extended by somebody in authority, then indeed the rights and liberties of the individual become insecure.

Yes, west Texas people are good people. At the recent Spur celebration, 5000 visitors were there, and there was not an arrest. At the Crowell ecelebration the crowd was estimated at 10,000, lasted two days and not an arrest. But liquor does not flow as freely in west Texas as it does in some section.—Terry County Herald.

"ROBIN HOOD OF EL DORADO" ONE OF YEAR'S BEST

With Warner Baxter contributing the finest performance of his career "Robin Hood of El Dorado" opens at the English Theatre Sunday for a three days run,to take its place among the truly magnificent outdoor features of the talking screen.

Produced on a spectacular scale, it is a romanticized slice of one of the most glamorous periods of America's frontier history—that era which began in 1848 with the discovery of gold in California.

Possessing much of the epic sweep of such tremendous hits as "The Covered Wagon," "The Big Trail" and other outdoor films that marked the closing days of the silent screen, "Robin Hood of El Dorado" has a dramatic majecty that gives it the aura of importance, while at the same time retaining the intimacy of romance and personal thrills which make for truly superb entertainment.

Baxter surpasses even his performance in "The Cisco Kid" with his characterization of Joaquin Murrieta, the dashing bad-man of the Far West who left a trail of plundered gold and broken hearts as he rode through the American mining settlements at the head of his outlaw army.

With him is a notable cast which includes Ann Loring, a spectacular newcomer who seems destined for stardom; Bruce Cabot in his bes sympathetic role to date; Margo, the little Spanish dancing beauty who has become an outstanding dramatic actress; J. Carrol Naish, Eric Linden, Edgar Kennedy, Charles Trowbridge, Harvey Stephens and literally hundreds of others. William Wellman directed and John W. Considine, Jr., produced the picture for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

HIGHWAY COMMISSIONER HARRY HINES HONORED WITH BANQUET MONDAY

Over 200 people attended the Highway Banquet here Monday night given in honor of Harry Hines, chairman of the State Highway Commission. Mr. Hines, who was principal speaker of the occasion, brought greetings from the State Highway Commission of Texas and stated that it was his desire and the desire of the entire commission to see good highways built in every section of Texas where they are needed and especially did he hope to see highways built here in West Texas, where they have so long been needed. Mr. Hines stated that he felt that West Texas had in the past been neglected in the road building program, but was assured that West Texas was now coming into its own.

Mr. Hines complimented the citizenship of Lamesa on its fine show of public interest in ever being on the alert and working for highways

About 40 visitors were present from neighboring towns. The following towns were represented with delegations: Snyder, Breckenridge, Gail, Olney, Seminole, Hobbs, Carlsbad, Lubbock and Ackerly.

Carl Roundtree was toastmaster and Sam Richardson introduced the speaker.

Mr. Hines came to Lamesa in the afternoon from Lubbock, where he had earlier in the day delivered the commencement address to the graduating class of Texas Technological College. After reaching Lamesa, Mr Hines made a personal inspection tour of a portion of Highway 15.—Dawson County Courier.

Laren Hill of Edith community, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Butler, and Miss Marjorie Richardson of Plainview were married Saturday afternoon in Plainview. They are visiting this week with his parents.

Mattie Pearl Jones Weds Ivan Cathcart

Miss Mattie Pearl Jones and Mr. Ivan Cathcart were united in marriage at Clovis, New Mexico, last Saturday night. Mr. and Mrs. B. B. West of Tahoka accompanied them on the trip and were witnesses to the marriage ceremony. The marriage vows were read by Pastor Campbell of the Clovis Methodist Church. The bride and groom and Mr. and Mrs. West returned to Tahoka Sunafternoon.

the bride is the daughter of Mr. Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Jones of this city. She was principally reared at Wilson and has been a resident of Tahoka several years. For the past two or three years she has been employed as saleslady at Thornrill's Variety Store.

Mr. Cathcart is the son of T. R. Cathcart and was reared in Tahoka. For several years he was engaged in the market business here but for the past few months has been engaged in this business in Slaton.

The young couple will make their home in Slaton. They have the best wishes of numerous friends here.

TAHOKA MUSIC CLUB CLOSES YEAR

The Tahoka Music Club closed its 1935-'36 year with a final session Wednesday afternoon. The year's work of the club rated 95% at the State Convention's report, the only point lacking being the attendance of an additional delegate at that convention.

Last week the club was honored by an invitation to its president to serve as hostess in the Transportation Building headquarters of the music division of the Centennial at Dallas, which, however, it was impossible to accept. In appreciation of expressed interest in its increased facilities for better programs, Station KFYO also honored the club with the dedication of a concert broadcast.

The president was hostess to the club at this meeting and served a one o'clock luncheon to members preceding the business. Following that, Mrs. C. O. Huber, of Pampa, graciously sang two lovely numbers: "Morning" by Oley Speaks, and "Somewhere a Voice Is Calling". Mrs. Homer St. Clair was also a guest. The Minor Baton Trio sang "Chinese Lullaby" from "East Is West" and the Stenson setting of "The Prayer Perfect."

This meeting had been postponed for several weeks out of respect to the late Mrs. G. M. Reid, who was a loyal and loved member. Just before the meeting adjourned, members stood at attention while Mrs. Suddarth quoted the following lines as a club memorial tribute to Mrs. Reid:

"We'll not forget you, friend of ours,
The flowers fade, but who, the flowers
Forgets? Their sweetness, after all,
When winter comes we still recall,
And we, who knew your sweetness, too,
We'll think of you.

"We'll not forget you. Do not praise
Our loyalty. A thousand ways
You have engraved yourself upon
The hearts of friends when you are gone.
Because of all you used to do,
We'll think of you.

"We'll not forget you. Others' grace
Shall bring the memory of your face,
And others' kindness shall remind
Our hearts of one who, too, was kind.
When we behold the good—the true—
We'll think of you."

NEW LYNN H. D. CLUB

The New Lynn H. D. Club met with Mrs. H. A. Winkler June 16th. Each member brought a covered dish and spent the day. Two quilts were quilted.

Mrs. Roy Kelly was elected as representative to the A. & M. Short Course.

The club meets with Mrs. P. K. Fleming July 7.

Mrs. Charles Taylor was a new member.

Visitors present: Mmes. F. A. Stone, W. C. Clements and D. H. Clements.

Members present: Mmes. J. A. Jaynes, A. B. Short, Winnie Bartley, J. M. Spears, Dee Howry, Roy Kelly, R. W. Barton, Everett Smith, C. B. Caviness, S. B. Francis, E. B. Terry, H. A. Winkler, Susie Bartley and Vivian Craig.

MISS NAOMI LAWSON WEDS LEWIS WARD OF KAUFMAN

In the charming simplicity of a home ceremony, Miss Naomi Lawson of Grassland, became the bride of Lewis Ward of Kaufman at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. A. A. Lawson.

Miss Minnie Hood of Grassland was the bride's only attendant. Jay Gordon of Lubbock was the best man. Miss Hood and Mr. Gordon entered together.

The bride wore a rose pink lace jacket frock with navy blue trim and navy accessories. She carried an arm bouquet of pale pink rosebuds. She entered with the bridegroom.

Immediately after the ceremony, the couple left for New Mexico. Mrs. Ward traveled in a semi-tailored navy blue triple sheer frock worn with navy accessories.

For the past several years, Mrs. Ward has taught in th ePost grammar school.

Mr. Ward is a graduate of Trinity University and has done post graduate work at Texas Technological College.

Only relatives and intimate friends attended the ceremony, which was read by Elder D. W. Reed. Those present were: Mrs. A. A. Lawson, the bride's mother, Mrs. Hubert Anderson of Post, Misses Crystal Jackson of Cisco and Minnie Hood of Grassland, Messrs. and Mmes. Paul Lawson, G. C. Watson, A. H. Hood, D. W. Reed, and Messrs. Jay Gordon of Lubbock and Loy Lawson.

CHURCH OF CHRIST NOTES

Last Lord's Day was another good day with us. The attendance at the morning service was extra large.

The Wednesday night Bible lessons are proving very profitable for several who come with prepared lessons.

A few questions to think on: Does my life please God? Do I study the Bible enough? Am I enjoying my Christian life? Is there anyone I cannot forgive? Have I ever won a soul to Christ? How much time do I spend in prayer? Is there anything I cannot give up for Christ? How many things do I put before my religious duties? How does my life look to those who are not Christians? Am I doing anything that I would condemn in others? Is the world being made better or worse by my living in it? Can God, Christ, and the Church count on me? If I should die today where would I go?

Services next Lord's Day as usual Come help and be helped at the friendly church.—R. P. Drennon.

WYATT FAMILY REUNION

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Wyatt had the pleasure this week of holding a family reunion at their home in Tahoka. Three generations were present. It was the first time in fifteen years when all their children, son-in law, and daughters-in-laws and grandchildren have been together at the same time and place.

Willard Wyatt, together with his wife, the former Lena Galbreath of Ft. Worth, and their daughter Emma Jean, arrived from Port Arthur, where he is employed by the Gulf Refining Company.

Madeline Wyatt came from Pasadena, California, by way of Denver, where she was joined by her sister, Frances and her husband, James Gates Carr, of that city.

Notley Wyatt of Tahoka and his wife and their four children, Leta Frances, Betty Ruth, Nancy Nell, and Neil Mark, together with Fountain and Elizabeth Wyatt of Tahoka, made up the family gathering.

The Wyatts came to the South Plains from Weatherford, settling in Tahoka a quarter of a century ago.

Willard and family, Madeline and the Carrs left yesterday for Weatherford to visit childhood friends and landmarks, then to the Centennial at Dallas before returning to their respective home.—Contributed.

Mrs. Elizabeth Allen and son Roger of Chicago were here the first of the week visiting Mrs. Allen's sister, Mrs. Ray Hunter, who recently moved here from Lubbock. Mr. Hunter is the market man at the Guarantee Food Store.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Leslie were called to Burkburnett Sunday by the death of Mr. Leslie's brother-in-law. The body was buried at Alvord in Wise county, tre former home of deceased. Mr. and Mrs. Leslie returned to Tahoka Tuesday night.

NEW HOME H. D. CLUB

"Vegetables are very important in the diet. They furnish mineral salts, calcium, phosphorus, and iron," said Miss Lilith Boyd to the New Home H. D. Club in the home of Mrs. R. H. Bates June 12th.

Calcium builds teeth and bones, and is found largely in milk. Iron is in the blood; lettuce and potatoes contain iron. These must have vitamins to back them. Vitamin A prevents germs, vitamin B prevents berri-berri, vitamin C prevents scurvy, vitamin D causes good teath and bones to develop, and vitamin G is for general well being.

Mrs. J. H. Izard sent in her resignation as council representative. Mrs. Boswell Edwards was elected to finish out her term.

Those present were: Mmes. Van John Armontrout, P. W. Goad, Earl George, Loyd McCormick, Boswell Edwards, and the hostess, Mrs. R. H. Bates.

Mrs. Joe Winter of Tokio is here visiting her daughter, Miss Birdie Winter.

QUILTING PARTY

A quilting party was held Thursday night, June 11, at Mrs. Jess Tabor's of the Dixie neighborhood. All ladies present brought covered dishes. Had a wonderful dinner and lots of fun. Quilted two quilts.

Following are the names of those present: Mrs. Creed Clements, R. D. West, G. M. Murrah, B. H. Bailey, Gerry White, Callie Cabe, Lois Terry E. E. Perry, A. B. Hatchel Chealis Freeman, B. C. Aycox, Alice Reed, Earl Tunnel, Sadie Lishmond, Mrs. Lishmond of Lubbock and daughter from Post.

The following two were the only old maids; Miss Ella Murrah 19 and Kathleen Perry 13. All the little kids rolled over in the mud hole three times to celebrate the occasion.

Miss Ludie Strasner has been in a Dallas Clinic for observation the past ten days with a view to receiving treatment or undergoing an operation for an affection of one of the lower limbs. It is feared that the bone is seriously affected.

Mrs. Chester Connolly, who is taking treatment in a Lubbock Sanitarium, is said to be showing some improvement. She has not been well for several months.

W. O. Thomas, who has been in the West Texas Hospital for treatment the past several days, was reported to be somewhat improved Wednesday night. He is suffering from gall bladder trouble.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Herring and children of Mission spent Wednesday and Wednesay night here visiting Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Nicholson and children. Mrs. Herring and Mrs. Nicholson are sisters.

J. H. Edwards, inspector for the state railway commission, suffered a severe attack of indigestion over at Wills Point in Van Zandt county the latter part of last week and came home as soon as he was able to do so. His condition for a time is said to have been very serious.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. (Boots) Swan left a few days ago for Hobbs, New Mexico, where they expect to reside temporarily. But if they are not pleased with Hobbs they are prepared to move on, since Mr. Swan recently constructed a most commodious and well-appointed home on wheels, containing most of the conveniences of a modern home.

Mrs. A. N. Hughes, after a visit of two months with her son in Brownfield, has returned to her home here with her daughter, Mrs. R. C. Forrester.

Mrs. Lawson Back From Washington

Mrs. Paul J. Lawson, who recently attended a great meeting of home demonstration workers held in Washington, D. C., as the representative from Lynn county, reports that it was a wonderful meeting and that she greatly enjoyed it.

Others attending from this section of Texas were: Mrs. Morris of Dawson county, Mrs. E. F. Alford and Mrs. Horton of Lubbock county, and Miss Clara Pratt, home demonstration agent of Dickens county.

They spent five days in the city of Washington, and in addition to the profit and pleasure they derived from their attendance upon the meetings of the home demonstration convention, in which about twenty foreign countries as well as the United States were presented, they visited many places of interest in and near Washington. Among these were Mt. Vernon, Arlington, and Alexandria.

Mrs. Lawson says that Hon. George Mahon, congressman from this district, was exceedingly nice to them in showing them about the city and extending many courtesies.

The party from the South Plains went by way of Memphis and came back by St. Louis.

Mrs. Lawson promised to write a more extended account of the trip for publication next week.

ARM BROKEN

Lenore Anglin, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Anglin, fell and broke her arm below the elbow Thursday morning while skating on the sidewalk across the street from the Anglin residence.

The broken bone was set by Dr. Turrentine, who advised that the patient be taken to Lubbock for an x-ray examination, which was done Thursday afternoon.

The accident occurred when Lenore skated into a chain extending across the sidewalk, with which a cow was staked.

SPENDS MONTH WORKING ON HIS BOYHOOD HOME

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Knight recently returned from Naples, Morris county, over in northeast Texas, where they spent a month visiting relatives. Mr. Knight, however, says trat he put in the entire time working on the old home place, the home of his boyhood.

He and Mrs. Knight lived on this place a few years after their marriage but they left it 36 years ago. They have been going back at intervals of two or three years since, but this year they decided to make a real visit. Mr. Knight put in the time cutting down and clearing away the trees and brush that had grown up on the 100-acre farm since he left. Thirty acres of the farm, he says is now covered with Bermuda grass, and most of the remainder with crab grass. So, he converted the farm into a cow pasture. He had a lot of interesting things to tell about the old farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Knight spent one night with Mr. and Mrs. John Thomas at Sulphur Springs and more than two weeks with Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Nance in Dallas.

Typhoid Vaccination Protects Individual

Austin, June 18.—Parents of boy scouts, girl scouts, and other young people going to camps of any kind, are urged by Dr. John W. Brown, State Health officer, to have the family physician vaccinate each individual against typhoid fever. Some of the danger points for spread of typhoid, it was said, are creek swimming holes and flowing springs. Even though the water at these places may appear clear and sparkling, there is danger that it is contaminated.

"Typhoid fever is an unnecessary disease," Dr. Brown said. "Every case is due either to community negligence or to the carelessness or ignorance of some individual. Eternal vigilance in maintaining sanitary surroundings and a pure water supply is necessary.

"Three 'shots' of typhoid vaccine —a week apart—will put your child in the 'protected' class. As it takes several weeks for the protective treatment to establish itself in the body, have it done now.

"Typhoid fever is an intestinal camplaint caused by the typhoid baccillus. The digestive tract of a patient is consequently infected with typhoid germs. Anything that may be contaminated by the body discharges is apt to be infectious and dangerous.

"The prevention of typhoid fever is peculiarly a matter of community responsibility. In cities large and small most urgent control measures are those providing for (1) proper disposal of human excreta through sewage disposal plants and toilets of sanitary type; (2) safe public well water supplies; (3) extermination of flies; (4) healthy food handlers; (5) supervision of disease carriers; and (6) public milk supplies of high quality with the added safeguard of careful pasteurization.

"Prevention of single cases or of epidemics of typhoid fever is dependent upon cooperation of individuals with public health officials in endeavoring to stamp out typhoid entirely."

R. L. Littlepage of the Midway community was called to San Antonio Wednesday afternoon by the serious illness of his mother, Mrs. R. P. Littlepage. Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Littlepage lived in the Midway community many years, and they have many friends here and in other parts of the county who will be grieved to learn of Mrs. Littlepage's serious illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Scott, Mrs. Leonard Harvey and her niece, Mrs. Pruitt, all of Lubbock, were the guests Tuesday of Mrs. R. C. Forrester and daughter, Miss O'Bera. Mrs. Scott is a sister of Mrs. Forrester.

Dr. Ann West, who recently removed to Dallas for the practice of her profession, is visiting her mother, Mrs. W. J. West, nine miles north of Tahoka. She was accompanied by her friends, Miss Iola Williams and Miss Leona Fechner, who are visiting other friends in the county.

Billy Brandon and Harvey Smith went to Fort Worth this week with a car load of cows.

Centennial Visitors

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Thomas and son Skiles have been in Dallas since last week attending the Centennial Exposition.

* * *

Mrs. C. B. Townes and daughter, Miss Lottie Jo, were expected home Thursday from a visit to the big show.

* * *

"Dub" Morris left Tuesday for Dallas to attend the Centennial.

* * *

Noel Alphin, who accompanied his sister, Mrs. Cearly of Post, to Dallas last Friday, where they attended the Centennial, returned home Wednesday. Noel got a great kick out of the big show.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Henderon returned Wednesday from Dallas, where they had gone last week to attend the Centennial. W. O. says he had the pleasure of hearing the President's address from a point close to the platform. He was amazed at the magnitude of the Centennial, and says it would take a long time to see all of it.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. McPherson and little daughter left Tuesday to visit the big Centennial show at Dallas. They are expected back today.

REDWINE STUDENTS VISIT TEXAS CENTENNIAL

Seventeen students, accompanied by the Redwine teachers, Corbin Douthit and Miss Gladys Douthit, and Mrs. J. A. Giles, as chaperon, visited the Centennial Exposition at Dallas last week. The group went in a covered truck.

The group suffered with two hundred thousand other loyal Americans as they stood in Marine Park in Fort Worth to see the President. This large crowd stood in the hot sun an hour, then a clap of thunder started a forty-five minute shower. This was the largest group of wet people that these West Texas young people have ever seen. After the rain was over, President Roosevelt drove to the park accompanied by Governor Allred. Due to the rain the President made a one minute talk and then finihed the parade. He was supposed to spend Friday night with his son who lives in Ft. Worth.

The students visited the Centennial grounds from 11 A. M. to 12 P. M. Saturday. It was decided by the group that this is the biggest and grandest thing they have ever seen or ever hope to see.

On the way home, the group was pleasantly entertained by Mr. Don Giles and Mr. A. R. Vaughn in an amateur hour which they held over a make-believe station which they established.

The teachers and students wish to express their sincere appreciation and thanks for each person who made this trip possible.

Midway

Madeline Russell, Reporter

Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Draper and daughter Marian left Tuesday for Denver, Colorado.

Miss Ora Anderson, home demonstration agent of Yoakum county, spent the week end here with her mother.

Mrs. Essie Russell visited friends at Dixie Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Norval Cunningham spent the week end at Lubbock.

Mr. R. L. Littlepage and sons, Cleveland and Walthal, went to Lubbock on business Monday.

Mrs. Lloyd Edwards underwent an operation last week and is doing fine.

Little Billie Fay Anderson is recovering from a painful burn received last week.

Grandpa Luttrell is seriously ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Willis of Olney are visiting here in the home of his brother Jess Willis.

Mr. R. L. Littlepage left Wednesday to visit his father and mother, who are ill at San Antonio.

Mr. and Mrs. Bradshaw and children are visiting here in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Kitchen.

Quite a few of the Midway people attended churcr and Sunday school at Bethel Sunday.

We had a large attendance and good singing Sunday night at the Midway school house. We welcome each and every one back.

J. S. Lane, father of Mrs. Clyde Jones, attended a family reunion at Lake Arthur, New Mexico, on June 7. He and two brothers and one sister met in the home of one of the brothers there for the happy occasion. It was the first time the four had been together in many years.

Supt. W. G. Barrett was ill with a mild attack of the "flu" last week.

O'Donnell Man Hurt In Wreck

The condition of W. V. Gibbs, O'Donnell man who was seriously injured when his car overturned on the highway six or seven miles south of Tahoka Saturday afternoon, is still serious, according to latest reports, though he is showing improvement.

Mr. Gibbs was alone in his car when it was overturned. He was picked up a few minutes thereafter by a traveler on the highway and brought to Tahoka. After receiving first aid treatment here he was taken in the Harris-Applewhite ambulence to the West Texas Hospital in Lubbock, where it was found that his pelvic bone was broken and two vertebra dislocated. He has been in a critical condition since, but it is now hoped that he will recover.

Mr. Gibbs was found lying more than 90 feet from his overturned car, it is said. The car was badly damaged.

Mr. Gibbs owns a grocery store and filling station at O'Donnell and a pool hall here.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Wyatt and daughter of Port Arthur, Mr. and Mrs. James G. Carr of Denver, Colorado, and Miss Madeline Wyatt of Pasadena, California, were visitors here this week in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Wyatt, parents of J. W. and Miss Madeline and Mrs. Carr. They also visited their brothers, N. M. and Fontaine Wyatt. They left Thursday to visit other relatives in Dallas and to see the big Centennial Exposition.

Dixie

The farmers are still busy planting and killing weeds.

There was a large crowd at Sunday school Sunday and also a good crowd at singing Sunday night. We ask that you keep coming.

We are planning a Father's Day program for Sunday morning. Everyone is invited.

We have dropped our Tuesday night singing till the farmers get through planting.

Miss Avis Shelton visited relatives at Garlynn Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Inman visited Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Inman at Crosbyton Sunday.

Everyone remember Sunday services Sunday and come.

Mrs. Jesse King and daughter, Mary Emma, of Nahville, Tennessee, Carl Junior King of Dallas, and Mrs. Clint Breedlove and daughter, Mary Louise, of Lubbock were the guests one day last week of Mrs. Florence King of this city.

Mrs. Zoe Lowrey, who underwent a major operation in the Lubbock Sanitarium a few weeks ago and who was able to return to her home here the first of last week, is still gradually recovering.

G. O. P. Platform: Restore Liberty!

Strikes at Dictatorship of New Deal; Landon's Position Clear.

Cleveland, Ohio.—Almost a complete reassertion of the Constitution of the United States, in the face of three long years of attack upon it by the New Deal, was the platform adopted by the Republican National convention here. To its restatement of the American principles of a national liberty based upon personal liberty was added the vigor of a telegram from Gov. Alfred M. Landon of Kansas, making clear his interpretation of certain important planks as the unanimously selected nominee of the party for the Presidency.

The platform roundly condemned the New Deal for the President's usurpation of the powers of congress; flaunting the Supreme court; violation of citizens' liberties; countenancing dangerous monopoly; passing laws contrary to the Constitution; violation of the Bill of Rights, and repudiating the sacred obligations and traditions of the nation. It deplored federal waste and use of public funds to political ends; unfair investigations; intimidation of industry; coercion of voters; appeals to class prejudice and destruction of public morale.

A summary of the platform follows:

Constitutional Government and Free Enterprise

We pledge ourselves:

1. To maintain the American system of Constitutional and local self government, and to resist all attempts to impair the authority of the Supreme court of the United States, the final protector of the rights of our citizens against the arbitrary encroachments of the legislative and executive branches of government.

2. To preserve the American system of free enterprise, private competition, and equality of opportunity.

Re-Employment.

The only permanent solution of the unemployment problem is the absorption of the unemployed by industry and agriculture. (To this end, the platform advocated abandonment of all New Deal restrictive, competitive and coercive policies—especially those which restrict production.)

Relief.

To end confusion, partisanship, waste and incompetence, we pledge:

1. The return of responsibility for relief administration to non-political local agencies familiar with community problems.

2. Federal grants-in-aid to the states and territories while the need exists, upon compliance with these conditions: (a) a fair proportion of the total relief burden to be provided from the revenues of states and local governments; (b) all engaged in relief administration to be selected on the basis of merit and fitness; (c) adequate provision to be made for the encouragement of those persons who are trying to become self-supporting.

3. Undertaking of federal public works only on their merits and separate from the administration of relief.

4. A prompt determination of the facts concerning relief and unemployment.

Security.

We propose a system of old age security, based upon the following principles:

1. Pay-as-you-go.

2. Every American citizen over sixty-five should receive the supplementary payment necessary to provide a minimum income sufficient to protect him or her from want.

3. Each state and territory, upon complying with simple and general minimum standards, should receive from the federal government a graduated contribution in proportion to its own, up to a fixed maximum.

4. To make this program consistent with sound fiscal policy the federal revenues for this purpose must be provided from the proceeds of a direct tax widely distributed. All will be benefited and all should contribute.

We propose to encourage adoption by the states and territories of honest and practical measures for meeting the problems of unemployment insurance.

Labor.

We pledge ourselves to:

Protect the right of labor to organize and to bargain collectively through representatives of its own choosing without interference from any source.

Prevent governmental job holders from exercising autocratic powers over labor.

Support the adoption of state laws and interstate compacts to abolish sweatshops and child labor, and to protect women and children with respect to maximum hours, minimum wages and working conditions. We believe that this can be done within the Constitution as it now stands.

Agriculture.

Following the wreck of the restrictive and coercive AAA, the New Deal administration has taken to itself the principles of the Republican policy of soil conservation and land retirement. This action opens the way for a non-political and permanent solution. Such a solution cannot be had under a New Deal administration which misuses the program to serve partisan ends, to promote scarcity and to limit by coercive methods the farmer's control over his own farm.

Our paramount object is to protect and foster the family type of farm, traditional in American life, and to promote policies which will bring about an adjustment of agriculture to meet the needs of domestic and foreign markets. As an emergency measure, during the agricultural depression, federal benefit payments or grants-in-aid when administered within the means of the federal government are consistent with a balanced budget.

We propose:

1. To facilitate economical production and increased consumption on a basis of abundance instead of scarcity.

2. A national land-use program, including the acquisition of abandoned and non-productive farm lands by voluntary sale or lease, subject to approval of the legislative and executive branches of the states concerned, and the devotion of such land to appropriate public use.

3. That an agricultural policy be pursued for the protection and restoration of the land resources, designed to bring about such a balance between soil-building and soil-depleting crops as will permanently insure productivity, with reasonable benefits to co-operating farmers on family-type farms, but so regulated as to eliminate the New Deal's destructive policy towards the dairy and live stock industries.

4. To extend experimental aid to farmers developing new crops suited to our soil and climate.

5. To promote the industrial use of farm products by applied science.

6. To protect the American farmer against importation of all live stock, dairy, and agricultural products, substitutes therefor, and derivatives therefrom, which will depress American farm prices.

7. To provide effective quarantine against imported livestock, dairy and other farm products from countries which do not impose health and sanitary regulations fully equal to those required of our own producers.

8. To provide for ample farm credit at rates as low as those enjoyed by other industries, including commodity and livestock loans, and preference in land loans to the farmer acquiring or refinancing a farm as a home.

9. To provide for decentralized, non-partisan control of the Farm Credit administration and the election by national farm loan associations of at least one-half of each board of directors of the federal loan banks, and thereby remove these institutions from politics.

10. To provide in the case of agricultural products of which there are exportable surpluses, the payment of reasonable benefits upon the domestically consumed portion of such crops in order to make the tariff effective. These payments are to be limited to the productive level of the family type farm.

11. To encourage and further develop co-operative marketing.

12. To furnish government assistance in disposing of surpluses in foreign trade by bargaining for foreign markets selectively by countries both as to exports and imports. We strenuously oppose so-called reciprocal treaties which trade off the American farmer.

13. To give every reasonable assistance to producers in areas suffering from temporary disaster, so that they may regain and maintain a self-supporting status.

Tariff.

We would keep on the free list all products not grown or produced in the United States in commercial quantities. As to all commodities that commercially compete with our farms, our forests, our mines, our fisheries, our oil wells, our labor and our industries, sufficient protection should be maintained at all times to defend the American farmer and the American wage earner from the destructive competition emanating from the subsidies of foreign governments and the imports from low-wage and depreciated-currency countries.

We will repeal the present reciprocal trade agreement law.

We will restore the principle of flexible tariff.

We will adjust tariffs with a view to promoting international trade, the stabilization of currencies, and the attainment of a proper balance between agriculture and industry.

We condemn the secret negotiation of reciprocal trade treaties without public hearing or legislative approval.

Monopolies.

We favor the vigorous enforcement of the criminal laws, as well as the civil laws, against monopolies and trusts and their officials, and we demand the enactment of such additional legislation as is necessary to make it impossible for private monopoly to exist in the United States.

Regulation of Business.

We recognize the existence of a field within which governmental regulation is desirable and salutary. The authority to regulate should be vested in an independent tribunal acting under clear and specific laws establishing definite standards. Their determinations on law and facts should be subject to review by the courts. We favor federal regulation, within the Constitution, of the marketing of securities to protect investors. We favor also federal regulation of the interstate activities of public utilities.

Civil Service.

We pledge ourselves to the merit system, virtually destroyed by New Deal spoilsmen. It should be restored, improved and extended.

Government Finance.

We pledge ourselves to:

Stop the folly of uncontrolled spending.

Balance the budget—not by increasing taxes but by cutting expenditures, drastically and immediately.

Revise the federal tax system and co-ordinate it with state and local tax systems.

Use the taxing power for raising revenue and not for punitive or political purposes.

Money and Banking.

We advocate a sound currency to be preserved at all hazards. The first requisite to a sound and stable currency is a balanced budget. We oppose further devaluation of the dollar. We will restore to the congress the authority lodged with it by the Constitution to coin money and regulate the value thereof by repealing all the laws delegating this authority to the Executive.

National Defense

We favor an army and navy, including air forces, adequate for our National Defense.

We will co-operate with other nations in the limitation of armaments and control of traffic in arms.

Bill of Rights.

We pledge ourselves to preserve, protect and defend, against all intimidation and threat, freedom of religion, speech, press and radio; and the right of assembly and petition and immunity from unreasonable searches and seizures.

We offer the abiding security of a government of laws as against the autocratic perils of a government of men.

Furthermore.

1. We favor the construction by the federal government of head-water storage basins to prevent floods, subject to the approval of the legislative and executive branches of the government of the states whose lands are concerned.

2. We favor equal opportunity for our colored citizens. We pledge our protection of their economic status and personal safety. We will do our best to further their employment in the gainfully occupied life of America, particularly in private industry, agriculture, emergency agencies and the civil service.

3. To our Indian population we pledge every effort on the part of the national government to ameliorate living conditions for them.

4. We pledge continuation of the Republican policy of adequate compensation and care for veterans disabled in the service of our country and for their widows, orphans and dependents.

5. We shall use every effort to collect the war debt due us from foreign countries amounting to $12,000,000,000—one-third of our national debt.

6. We are opposed to legislation which discriminates against women in federal and state employment.

Conclusion.

We assume the obligations and duties imposed upon Government by modern conditions. We affirm our unalterable conviction that, in the future as in the past, the fate of the nation will depend, not so much on the wisdom and power of government, as on the character and virtue, self-reliance, industry and thrift of the people and on their willingness to meet the responsibilities essential to the preservation of a free society.

In conclusion, the platform emphasized the fact that the great national crisis and the issues involved transcended party lines, and called for a united front, regardless of party.

LANDON'S TELEGRAM

Cleveland, Ohio.—Clarifying beyond a doubt his interpretation of the platform of the Republican party in the coming election, Governor Landon, the nominee, with the forthrightness and honesty which has characterized his participation in public affairs, dispatched the following telegram (in part) to the Republican National convention before his nomination:

"Under the title of labor the platform commits the Republican party as follows: 'Support the adoption of state laws and interstate compacts to abolish sweat shops and child labor, and to protect women and children with respect to maximum hours, minimum wages, and working conditions. We believe that this can be done within the Constitution as it now stands.'

"I hope the opinion of the convention is correct, that the aims which you have in mind may be attained within the Constitution as it now stands. But if that opinion should prove to be erroneous, I want you to know that, if nominated and elected, I shall favor a Constitutional amendment permitting the states to adopt such legislation as may be necessary adequately to protect women and children in the matter of maximum hours, minimum wages, and working conditions. This obligation we cannot escape.

"The convention advocates 'a sound currency to be preserved 'at all hazards.' I agree that 'the first requisite to a sound and stable currency is a balanced budget.' The second requisite, as I view it, is a currency expressed in terms of gold and convertible into gold.

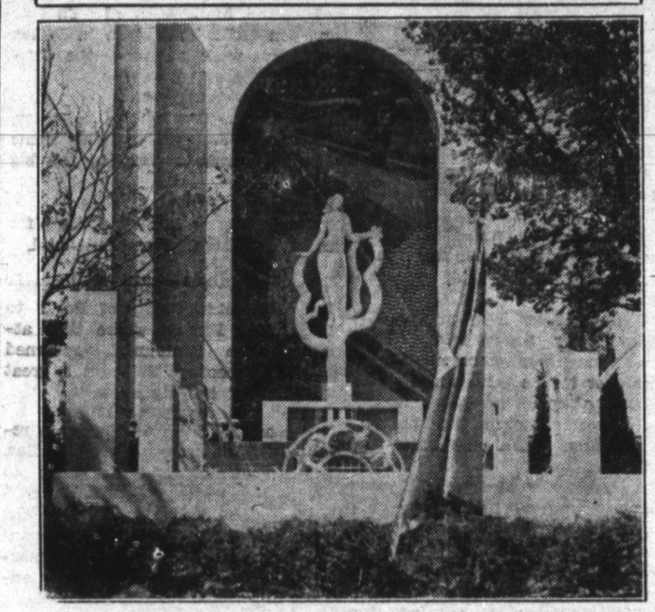

"I recognize, however, that the second requisite must not be made effective until and unless it can be done without penalizing our domestic economy and without injury to our producers of agricultural products and other raw materials.

"The convention pledges the party to the merit system and to its restoration, improvement and extension.

"In carrying out this pledge I believe that there should be included within the merit system every position in the administrative service below the rank of assistant secretaries of major departments and agencies, and that this inclusion should cover the entire postoffice department.

"ALFRED M. LANDON."

Fountain Beautifies Exposition

WORLD'S FAIR OFFICE FRONT.—One of the picture spots of the $25,000,000 Texas Centennial Exposition which opened in Dallas June 6, is the changing-color fountain and pool before the Administration Building, which reflects the beautiful mural over the lobby door.

REPORTS FROM THE

COUNTY CLUBS

Miss Lilith Boyd, H. D. Agent

NEW HOME H. D. CLUB

"I gave my old worn linoleum rug a thorough cleaning with soap and water before refinishing it", said Mrs. Loyd R. McCormick, cooperator in the New Home Demonstration Club.

"I used almost a quart of Holland Blue quick drying enamel for the base of the rug. I learned by experimenting on a small rug the design was too mottled unless the base was allowed to dry some before stippling. For the stippling process, I dipped a sponge into gray enamel, being careful not to get too much, and applied it on the blue base. I completed the painting of the rug within three to four hours. With the remaining blue enamel, I intend to paint a lard can for kitchen waste and some pound coffee cans for a cabinet set", Mrs. McCormick stated.

After having made some changes in a high-chair she had on hand, Mrs. McCormick has a useful kitchen stool.

MRS. FENTON DEMONSTRATES

"Before I understood How to serve balanced meals my children had bilious attacks", said Mrs. R. W. Fenton, cooperator in the Tahoka Home Demonstration Club.

"I think it is the mothr's responsibility to see that her children have the proper foods. Balanced meals are the best health insurance in the world", said Mrs. Fenton.

Mrs. Fenton made the following menus at her club meeting for the next day:

BREAKFAST

Tomato juice
Whole wheat toast Bacon & eggs
Butter Jam
Milk and coffee

DINNER

Roast Beef
Baked potatoes Tender greens
Corn
Corn gems Butter
Pie Ice Tea

SUPPER

Repeat dinner menu milk instead of tea.

Types of meals depend on whom you are serving. When making meal plans for a period of a week or longer, they are some easier to balance than when made daily.

H. D. COUNCIL MEETS

The annual encampment of Lynn county H. D. clubs, which is sponsored by the county council, has been planned to meet August 19-20 at Two-Draw Lake near Post—a two-day picnic, each club to furnish a play or game for entertainment.

A report from each delegate sent to the A. & M. Short Course is expected to be given at this encampment.

Lynn county clubs will send ten women and four girls as delegates to College Station in July.

At the council meeting Saturday, a report from the National Rural Women's Association held in Washington, D. C., was given by the delegate, Mrs. Paul Lawson of Grassland. She reported that 6,700 delegates attended this association. Seventeen foreign countries were represented.

The delegates of this district visited many historical places as they traveled through the South and East on their route to Washington.

Members present were: Mmes. M. O. Canaday, A. L. Dunagan, L. M. Nordyke, F. M. House, J. W. Lowrey, M. C. Brandon, I. M. Draper, Garland Pennington, R. W. Barton, and Paul J. Lawson.

Visitors were: Mmes. Claud Wells, Marian Draper, Fay Todd, W. E. Dubree, W. S. Anglin, Milt Finch, and C. McCaskill.

THE MEANEST MAN IN LITTLEFIELD FOUND

The meanest man in Town has been discovered but not identified, and he's one of those cases that hanging is far too good for.

We don't know where he lives, nor what his name, but we'd be willing to pay a reward to find out. It would be extreme pleasure to turn his name over to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

This particular blight on humanity, deliberately took a knife and cut the tongue out of the mouth of the mother of five little puppies, who had arrived in the world but a few days earlier.

But this game little mother dog, is carrying on to the best of canine ability, trying to raise her little family. And if there are heroines in the dog world, she's it.

And if there are skunks and low-down mongrels in the human world, the fellow who committed this heinous crime—is it.—County Wide News.

SHOWS CORN PLANTED IN MARCH SHOULDER HIGH

Jess Howell, prominent farmer of the Challis community called on the Herald Wednesday afternoon to show us some corn he has growing. Jess says he planted this corn the 23rd of March. He did it more for an experiment than anything else. While he was listing he put on his planter box and planted 12 acres. This corn is now shoulder high and some already in tassel. It is the tallest we can remember ever seeing here at this time of year. He stated he would have plenty of roasting ears and watermelons by the first of August. Come in again Jess—around August 1st.—Terry County Herald.

FOLKS! ..

THERE IS NO SUBSTITUTE FOR GOOD HEALTH

And here comes a letter from your next door neighbor, a man whom you all know, a man whose word has always been considered his bond, one of your taxpayers and community builders, and is as follows: "This letter is to state that I was a sufferer of stomach trouble for eight years. I spent three years of suffering and went to any number of doctors, three told me that I had a gastric ulcer. Two months ago Gas-Tons tablets were recommended to me. I bought a bottle and began taking them and since that time I have gained fifteen pounds and am able to do, for the first time in eight years, my regular farming work. I unconditionally recommend these tablets to any one suffering from severe stomach pains, gas or colitis. Anyone wishing any information in regard to the results I have received will address me, Route 1, Shallowater, Texas. I will gladly reply. This statement is made voluntarily hoping that other people suffering as I did may receive the benefits that I have." And this letter was signed by E. S. Nelson of Route 1, After what this good man has said what more could we add? And we feel that the only question that could enter the minds of any stomach sufferer would be whether to try the 25 tablet size at $1 or the 100 tablet treatment for $3.

You take no risk in ordering Gas-Tons. If after using the tablets 10 days you do not get the relief you yourself expect, you have but to send back the unused portion of the bottle, and we will return the money you have paid us, in full, every penny of it.

Call at your home town druggist and ask him about the iron clad guarantee, also what this remarkable compound is doing for others.

Gas-Tons are sold in Tahoka by Tahoka Drug Co., and by leading drug stores in other towns. If your druggist does not have Gas-Tons send money orders payable to Tahoka Drug Co., Tahoka, Texas.

Lady Took Cardui When Weak, Nervous

"I can't say enough for Cardui if I talked all day," enthusiastically writes Mrs. L. H. Caldwell, of Statesville, N. C. "I have used Cardui at intervals for twenty-five years," she adds. "My trouble in the beginning was weakness and nervousness. I read of Cardui in a newspaper and decided right then to try it. It seemed before I had taken half a bottle of Cardui I was stronger and was soon up and around."

Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

FLORENCE WRITES BOOK ABOUT THIS SECTION

"Hopeful Visions on Higher Ground" is the title of a new book written by W. P. Florence of Slaton depicting the development of the South Plains during the past 36 years as well as the life of the people on the Plains and below the Caprock during this period.

The little volume is largtly biographical but it contains much valuable historical matter and is entirely different from any treatise we have read dealing with this section of the state. It has the "human interest" touch from the very first paragraph even to the back cover.

Florence has again demonstrated that truth is often stranger than fiction, and so much more interesting. We could hardly find time to begin reading the little booklet after it came into our hands, but we could hardly quit after we once got started.

It deals in part with the struggle between the "nesters" and the ranchmen, when the former undertook to get a toe-hold on these South Plains, and many of the colorful characters of this period are mentioned. Pen pictures of some of them are painted with a master's hand. Interesting incidents relating to the beginning of many of our South Plains towns are also given, the most conspicious perhaps being Lubbock and Gomez, the latter at one time being the most lively and promising burg in this entire section. There are also references to Tahoka, Tahoka Lake, to Grassland, Moar's Draw, and other points of historical interest.

If you ever start to read the book you will read it through with gripping interest.

Only the Fence

A stranger addressed the farmer's boy across the fence.

"Young man, your corn looks kind o' yellow."

"Yes, that's the kind we planted."

"Don't look as if you would get more than half a crop."

"Don't expect to. The landlord gets the other half."

Then, after a pause, the man said: "Boy, there isn't much difference between you and a fool."

"No," replied the boy, "only the fence."—Hoard's Dairyman.

Many a sweet-tempered boy isn't worth his salt, but, by George, isn't he delightful to have around if you don't have to depend on him!

Black-Draught's Reputation

The confidence people have in Black-Draught, built up from satisfactory use so many years, is shown in its being handed on from one generation to another. It must be good to have such a strong following.

"We have used Black-Draught for twenty years," writes Mr. Fred Richardson, of Hartshorne, Okla. "My mother has used it for fifty years. It is the best medicine I know anything about. I take it for sour stomach and constipation, or when I feel sluggish and bad. Black-Draught is splendid to regulate the bowels, cleansing them of waste matter, ridding them of constipation. I expect to use it twenty-five years more if I live and it gives satisfaction as it has always given."

This Makes Laxative Pleasant to Take

People who know Feen-a-mint don't have to "talk themselves" into taking a laxative when they know they need it. They like Feen-a-mint, the delightful chewing gum laxative. For just as soon as you start chewing Feen-a-mint, its stomach-settling mint brings a clean, fresh taste to the mouth. As you chew out the laxative ingredient which is absolutely tasteless, the flow of digestive juices is increased. The laxative is mixed with them and carried into the system gently. Feen-a-mint doesn't gripe, nauseate or cause upset, and it is non-habit-forming. It passes through the stomach and into the bowels so scientifically that your action is wonderfully easy and thorough. Try the pleasant, refreshing Feen-a-mint way the next time you need a laxative. Doctors prescribe its laxative ingredient for both children and adults. Sold on money-back guarantee. Generous family size package 15c and 25c.

One Big Shot Convicted
The Many Laugh
Roman Triumph, New Style
Storms, Floods, Twisters

The kind of "justice" supposed to "terrify" crime in this country is very amusing justice: confined to the national government. Murderers, kidnapers and other racketeers are jailed, not for their crimes against society, but for failure to pay income tax. The felon is jailed for failure to divide his criminal earnings with his government.

Arthur Brisbane

A change from this program is due to Special Prosecutor Dewey, who, before Supreme Court Justice McCook, in New York city, has convicted a "topnotch racketeer," as Mr. Dewey calls him—Charles ("Lucky") Luciano. He and eight vice-ring associates are convicted on 62 counts, that may entail prison sentences of 1,240 years for "Lucky" and each associate.

This is an actual conviction for crime, not for taxdodging.

In this world, many laugh and a few do things. Fulton said he would run a boat up the Hudson river by steam; crowds gathered to laugh.

When it was suggested early in this century that men would soon fly, successfully, millions laughed.

Had it been suggested that an army officer would cross the continent "flying blind" in a hooded cabin, seeing nothing, guided by a scientific "radio beam," the laughs would have been louder; but that is what Major Eaker, of the army air corps, has just done. If you should say now that giant ships will fly around this earth, up in the stratosphere, above clouds and storms, carrying thousands of passengers, dropping them at their various destinations in smaller ships, "around the world in 48 hours or less," there would be more laughter but it would be foolish laughter. What men can imagine they can do, and more.

General Badoglio, who was sent by Mussolini to take over Ethiopia, and did so, celebrated his triumph in Rome, Mussolini and the Italian king, now emperor of Ethiopia, assisting.

The triumphant general, named viceroy of Ethiopia by Mussolini, who surprised the world with the swiftness of his conquest, led his troops, burned by the tropical sun, under the victory arch of Constantine to the tomb of the unknown soldier of the big war.

"Storms kill nine in Oklahoma and Kansas; tornadoes, floods and lightning cause havoc," so runs the headline, and so other headlines have been running for months past. Hail ruins crops; lightning bolts kill three; "twisters," those powerful, revolving windstorms, lift up and knock down little houses.

The sultan of Sulu is dead on the Island of Jolo, now only sultan in name.

Once, as spiritual and temporal head, he ruled all the Mohammedans of the Sulu archipelago.

The death of this former ruler, Jamalul Kiram, recalls an interesting incident following the Spanish war. Jamalul, good Mohammedan, did not think he should deal with this nation, on account of its religion. He was soothed by an official statement that the United States had no official religion whatever.

The Black Legion, latest secret murder organization, tells candidates: "You cannot join unless you are a native-born, white, Protestant gentile; willing to proceed against negroes, Catholics and Jews." To "proceed against" means to murder.

The Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, a Protestant organization, says it is shameful for the Black Legion to use the word "Protestant," and blasphemous to use the name "God Almighty."

Sir Samuel Hoare had to leave the British cabinet because he opposed the foolishness of sending a great British fleet into the Mediterranean to protect Haile Selassie, not protecting him in the least.

Now, Sir Samuel Hoare is back in the British cabinet, "the king pleased to appoint him." This means, probably, that the futile League of Nations' "sanctions" effort to coerce Mussolini will be dropped. Many things are easier than coercing Mussolini.

Why do Americans swallow eagerly anything in the way of foreign-made goods, especially if they come from the friendly British islands?

British merchants advertise proudly "Made in Great Britain." Every Englishman urges "Buy British." Americans seem proud if they can advertise "Made in England" or "Made in France." Perhaps our goods are inferior but every American makes his money here—why not back our own people?

More killing, bombing, shooting in Palestine, Arabs refusing to discontinue strikes and killings, even at the request of their own leaders.

Lesson for June 21

JESUS EXALTED

LESSON TEXT—Luke 24:36-53.

GOLDEN TEXT—Wherefore God also hath highly exalted him, and given him a name which is above every name.—Philippians 2:9.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Goes Home to Heaven.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Goes Home to Heaven.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Lord We Worship.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Exalted Christ and the Unfinished Task.

In order properly to view the ascension of Christ into heaven, it would be well to study his ministry during the forty days prior to his ascension.

I. The Walk of the Two Discouraged Disciples (vv. 13-15).

Emmaus was seven and a half miles northwest of Jerusalem. Just why these disciples were walking this way we do not surely know. Perhaps their home was there. Or they were merely walking to seek relief from their stunning sorrow. If they had believed what Jesus had told them about his death and resurrection, they would have escaped this great disappointment. Unbelief causes many heartaches and disappointments. The topic of conversation was the tragedy of the cross and the resurrection rumors. So little had his teaching about the resurrection impressed the disciples that the reports which the women brought were as idle tales to them.

II. The Unrecognized Companion (vv. 16-24).

1. Who he was (v. 15). While they rensorted together on the wonderful events of the last few days, Jesus joined them. When he questioned them concerning their sadness they did not recognize him. How often we are so engrossed with our sorrows and disappointments that we fail to recognize Jesus, even though he is walking by our side.

2. His question (v. 17). Perceiving their sadness and perplexities, he sought to help by calling forth a statement of their grief.

3. Their answer (v. 18). His questions so surprised them that they jumped to the conclusion that he was a stranger in Jerusalem. The condemnation and crucifixion of the great prophet of Nazareth were so recent and notorious that no one who had lived in Jerusalem could be ignorant of them.

III. The Scriptures Opened (vv. 25-31).

1. His rebuke (vv. 25-30). He did not rebuke them for not believing the strange stories that they had heard, but for ignorance of and lack of confidence in the Old Testament Scriptures. They had only accepted such parts of the Old Testament as suited their notions. The very center and heart of the Old Testament Scriptures set forth the death and resurrection of Christ. Ignorance of the Scriptures and unbelief as to the wonders and complete redemption wrought by Christ robs us of many joys and deprives us of power as workers for Christ.

2. Jesus Recognized (vv. 31-35). While sitting at meat with the disciples, their eyes were opened as they saw him bless the bread and distribute it to them. We too can see the Lord on such common occasions as eating a meal if we have open eyes. Indeed, we ought to see him when eating, buying, selling, and in our recreations, for he has promised his abiding presence. They were so filled with joy over this revelation of the Savior that they hastened back to Jerusalem to tell the other disciples of his resurrection.

IV. Jesus Stands in the Midst of the Eleven (vv. 36-47).

1. He said, "Peace be unto you" (vv. 36, 37).

However, they were terrified and affrighted. Sinful man in the presence of a holy God is ill at ease.

2. He showed them his hands and his feet (vv. 38-40). In order to convince them of his personal identity, he gave them tangible evidence that he was not a mere spirit.

3. He ate before them (vv. 41-45).

4. He commissioned them to evangelize the world (vv. 46-49). They were to testify concerning his shed blood and resurrection, and on this ground they were to preach repentance and remission of sins to all nations.

5. Jesus ascends into heaven (vv. 50-53).

Having given them the parting message to evangelize the world he ascended into heaven. From his place in heaven he continues to carry on his work through his disciples as they are energized by the Holy Ghost. Just as we treasure the last words of our departed loved ones so we should ponder this farewell message of our Lord.

Magnet of Thankfulness

The unthankful heart, like my finger in the sand, discovers no mercies; but let the thankful heart sweep through the day, and as the magnet finds the iron, so will it find in every hour some heavenly blessings, only the iron in God's sand is gold.—Henry Ward Beecher.

Growth to Perfection

Earth holds heaven in the bud; our perfection there has to be developed out of our imperfection here.—C. Rossetti.

Bedspreads Welcome Delicate Lilac Motif

Dark and light lilacs, tied with a flourish into the loveliest of floral sprays, is far and away the nicest—and easiest—flowery touch one can give a bedroom. Even an amateur will find the large spray easy to embroider on a bedspread with four smaller sprays on the bolster, or scarf ends. The flowers are entirely formed of lazy-daisy stitch and French knots, the leaves of blanket stitch—the rest is in outline. With cotton or rayon floss the designs are seemingly done in no time, in shades of lilac, orchid, or palest yellow.

Pattern 1152 comes to you with a transfer pattern of a motif 18 by 21 inches and two reverse motifs 4 by 5½ inches. Color suggestions; illustrations of all stitches needed; material requirements.

Send 15 cents in coins or stamps (coins preferred) to The Sewing Circle, Needlecraft Dept., 82 Eighth Ave., New York, N. Y. Write plainly pattern number, your name and address.

Ways of Giving

SOME men give so that you are angry every time you ask them to contribute; they give so that their gold and silver shoot you like a bullet. Other persons give with such beauty that you may remember it as long as you live; and say, "It is a pleasure to go to such men." There are some that give as springs do; whether you go to them or not they are always full; and your part is merely to put your dish under the everflowing stream. Others give just as a pump does when the well is dry, and the pump leaks.—Henry Ward Beecher.

Dogs' Teeth as Money

Dogs' teeth are stated to be used as money by the natives of certain districts in New Guinea.

Regret in Vain

Of all fruitless errands, sending a fear to look after a day that is gone is most fruitless.—C. Dickens.

Texaco Station Is Winner Of Prize

Clay Bennett and Howard Wheeler were all pepped up this week by reason of the fact that in a recent contest the Texaco Service Station, which they operate had been awarded seventh place in the entire Southern District in the sale of Goodrich tires. The district covers the four states of Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, and Louisiana.

The prize which they won was $50 in money and a beautiful and valuable pin.

One of the remarkable features of this contest was that among the seven highest winners were a Goodrich dealer at Levelland and another at Brownfield, the Levelland dealer topping the entire list. The high record made by South Plains dealers is accounted for in part by the fact that there has been a larger demand here for tractor tires than in any other part of the South. Bennett and Wheeler have evidently been getting their share of this business.

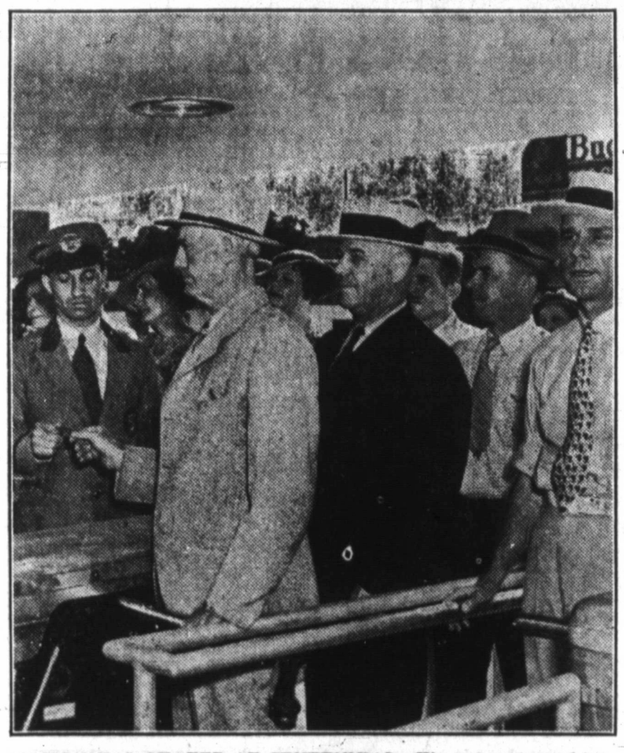

Cleveland Littlepage Will Teach School

Cleveland Littlepage, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Littlepage of Midway, who was recently awarded a B. S. degree at the Texas Technological College, has been elected as teacher of vocational agriculture in the rural high school at Hobbs in Fisher county near Rotan. His work will begin July 1.

Mr. Littlepage is a very fine young man, and his many friends believe that he will make good in his chosen profession. He will continue to keep informed as to Lynn county affairs through the Lynn County News, which will go to his address.

Rev. W. K. Johnston of Lubbock filled his regular appointment at the Presbyterian Church here Sunday.

60 Years to Make Good for Parents

CENTENNIAL SHAFER AT CENTENNIAL—His parents named him Centennial 60 years ago, when he was born, June 6, 1876. Sixty years later, to the day, Centennial Shafer bought the first ticket as Texas Centennial Exposition opened in Dallas.

Assess Candidate - Election Expense

The county democratic executive committee will meet next Monday to make up the ballot and arrange for the printing of the ballots to be used in the Democratic primary election on July 25, according to announcement made by County Chairman Jack Applewhite.

Last Saturday was the last day for candidates to file their names with the committee, and next Saturday will be the last day for paying their assessments.

The committee met last Monday and assessed the candidates for the various offices, to provide funds for printing the ballots and for the various expenses of holding the elections in July and August. They were assessed as follows:

For District Clerk	$25.00
For County Judge	$40.00
For County Clerk	$50.00
For Collector & Assessor	$60.00
For County Attorney	$35.00
For Sheriff	$50.00
For Treasurer	$40.00
For Commissioner	$30.00
For Public Weigher	$10.00
For Justice of the Peace	$5.00
For Constable	$5.00

Rodeo At Midland Last Of This Month

Telling the citizens of Tahoka about the World Championship Centennial Rodeo to be held at Midland June 26, 27 and 28, H. G. Bedford and Geo. W. Glass made a brief stop here Tuesday.

The rodeo will be staged in the new $60,000 Midland Fair arena, with afternoon and night shows Friday and Saturday and the final show Sunday afternoon, June 28. A long parade of mounted contestants, cowgirl sponsors and riders in general will open the celebration Friday, June 26 at 1 p. m.

Over $3,500 in purses have been posted for calf roping, bronc riding, bull dogging, bareback bronc riding, wild horse roping, steer riding and a wild horse race. The cowgirl sponsors' contest, with representatives from thirty towns, will have a top prize of a $100 saddle and several other valuable awards.

Stock to be used is the wildest to be found, assuring a fast and thrilling show. One event will hardly be finished before another starts, officials guarantee. Leonard Proctor, Roy Parks, and John Dublin are committeemen in charge of the big show. World famous contestants, just finishing the Centennial rodeo at Dallas, will compete at Midland.

HIGHWAY BEAUTIFICATION

To promote cleanliness, attractiveness and beauty along our highways the Highway department is making awards for the best school, home, and service station along State and Federal Highways in each county.

The winners this year are: Service station, Tahoka Service Station; home, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Roberts, on the Brownfield highway. This county did not have a school entry this year.—Mrs. E. I. Hill, local chairman.

Benoy Gattis, son of Mr. and Mrs. I. I. Gattis, was sick the first of the week but is better.

ATTEND REUNION

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Yates, Mr. and Mrs. John Fulford and their two children, and the two children of Mr. and Mrs. Newt Barham returned Monday from Glen Rose, where they attended a reunion of the Yates families.

As usual, they had a wonderfully enjoyable time.

Mrs. F. E. Redwine returned last week from Las Vegas, New Mexico, where she spent several weeks visiting her daughter, Mrs. Elwaine Graussoin.

Good Crowds At Baptist Revival

Good crowds are attending the revival services which began at the Baptist Church last Sunday. There were three additions to the church on that day.

Rev. J. Frank Weedon, pastor of the First Baptist Church at Jacksonville, arrived Monday to do the preaching through the meetings, which will continue through next week; and Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Huber of Pampa arrived the same day to direct the music.

The pastor-evangelist has been bringing some fine messages, and the music, under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Huber, is excellent. They have organized a junior choir, which has a part in the song services each evening.

The morning services are unusually well attended, and the preacher is bringing some of his best messages at this hour.

Services begin at 10:30 each morning and at 8:30 each evening.

You are cordially invited.

PIE SUPPER AND CANDIDATE SPEAKING AT NEW LYNN

There will be a pie supper and candidate speaking at the New Lynn School Auditorium Saturday night June 27.

All candidates, county and district are requested to be present with their speech in hand. We are expecting one of the largest crowds ever to assemble in the New Lynn High School Auditorium, at this occasion, so don't fail to be among the number.

All women and girls married or singles in the district and surrounding districts are to bring pies. Let all come out and enjoy an evening of recreation. The proceeds will be used for the benefit of the school.

After a residence of a few weeks in Hobbs, New Mexico, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Freeman have returned to Tahoka.

Joint Court For Boy Scouts Is Planned

A joint court of honor for the Boy Scout organizations of Tahoka, Slaton, and Post, together with a swimming meet, is scheduled to be given during the last week in July at Post, according to Superintendent W. G. Barrett, who is chairman of the Court of Honor Council for the Southeast District of the South Plains Area.

This was decided upon at a meeting of the council in Post Monday night, over which Mr. Barrett presided. He was accompanied to Post by Cecil Ayres, new teacher of vocational agriculture here.

G. M. Reid is recovering from a severe attack of the flu, which kept him confined to his room several days.

So You're Going To Be Married In June—

Keeping house is FUN, if your new home is equipped with an automatic gas water heater. Hot water for dishes, laundry and personal needs — INSTANTANEOUSLY day or night . . . and the upkeep won't strain a newlywed budget either. Gas rates are so low.

The low gas rate fixed by the Railroad Commission of Texas, and put in effect by the Company is lower than the rate in 591 other Texas cities and towns having gas service. Minimum bill also reduced.
