Workers Driving For Bond Quotas

Volunteer workers were hitting hard licks Wednesday to make up for a slow start for the Fourth War Loan drive Tuesday evening.

A check with all issuing agencies showed that through Tuesday the total sales amounted to $85,129.25, a gain of little less than $50,000 over the preceding day.

Twenty-seven men from the four service clubs took to the field following a brief breakfast session Wednesday morning and were combing the business district for E bonds. They were to complete their canvas by Thursday evening, reported Ted O. Groebl, chairman.

Organizations have something to aim for Wednesday with the announcement by Groebl that Howard county had secured one of 10 German helmets picked up from battlefields made available to the 29 counties in this area.

"This is one piece of German equipment which will do Uncle Sam a lot of good," he commented. "We are going to give it to the organization which is responsible for selling the most series E. bonds. It will be the permanent possession of the winner."

Workers adopted the theme Wednesday of "BUY NOW!" From the chairman down, all urged Big Spring and Howard county people to buy those series E bonds quickly so that the immediate goal of $453,000 would be attained. Groebl pointed out that this was the major step toward realizing the county's over all quota of $1,380,000.

Tickets have been printed for the Ritz theatre bond premier, the all star "Thousand Cheer," which will be presented on Jan. 25, and anyone making application for bonds at the Ritz or bond headquarters and requesting tickets can have them. Similarly, tickets will be available for the State's premier, "Coney Island," on Jan. , and applications should be made at headquarters (in the Empire Southern Service) or the State.

Before an all-too-small crowd which turned out for the kick-off rally downtown Tuesday evening, J. H. Greene made an impassioned plea to seek out issuing agencies to buy bonds and hot wait to be contacted.

"When will the bond buying cease?" he asked rhetorically. "When our boys have all the material, medicines, tanks, boats, guns, ammunition and everything needed to win the victory, and when they shall have been returned happily to our homes. . . . It will not end—nor do Howard countians want it to end—until every slant-eyed Jap and every German have laid down their arms in complete surrender, and their ideas as well."

Greene said that "we have a difficult job to do, but ever since Pearl Harbor, we have had difficult jobs to do. "Everytime we

Foundrymen On Strike Worry Shipbuilders

SEATTLE, Jan. 19 (AP) — Idleness of 10,000 Washington and Oregon war workers in a strike of foundrymen today drew the concern of shipbuilding officials who expressed fear that the construction of tanklanding ships and other vitally-needed sea craft may soon be curtailed.

Some 6,000 members of the AFL Molders' and Foundry Workers' Union struck yesterday morning in protest against what their leaders termed an unfair wage award by the Regional War Labor Board, and by their action about 4,000 additional workers remained off their jobs rather than pass picket lines. Seventy-nine foundries were affected.

Union leaders said a telegraphed appeal from the National War Labor Board that the walkout "must be ended immediately" would be disregarded.

"Unless concessions are made by somebody," said H. W. Sprague, chairman of the Pacific northwest negotiating committee for the union, "the strike will proceed."

The National WLB also appealed to AFL President William Green and the AFL executive council, now in session at Miami, to intercede in support of labor's "no strike" pledge. The board said the back-to-work order had the support of Henry Stevenson of Cincinnati, the union's international president.

A threat to the production of Boeing bombers was dispelled by the union's agreement to permit aeronautical workers pass picket lines at the foundry which turns out wing spars.

The principal union grievance was the Regional WLB's refusal to grant an 8-cent hourly wage increase to the journeymen $1.20 scale, although increases of 2 1-2 to 7 cents were allowed in lower brackets.

Contract Let For Sewerage

Contract for enlarging the city's sewer plant facilities was let Wednesday morning by the city commission to the Lippert Bros. General Contractors of Oklahoma City, Okla. on a bid of $134,800.

The bid was lowest of 10 submitted and was more than 10 thousand dollars under the nearest bid by Dolph Construction Co. of Brownwood, which submitted an offer of $134,950. Bids ranged upwards to $200,000..

Work will start within 10 days from the signing of the contract. Representatives of the contractors said they would return here the forepart of next week to close the contract, and E. J. McDaniel, city manager, anticipated that work would start "within two or three weeks."

Plans call for the construction of an almost new plant, the present Emhoff tank being converted into a digester. There will be units for the separation of the sludge and effluent before the former is diverted to digesters and then to drying beds and the latter to filtration compartments for purification and chlorination. The Hayes two - stage process will be used and the contractor, with 23 years of sewer plant construction experience, has just completed similar units at Childress, Texas and Altus, Okla.

The work will give Big Spring a plant capable of caring for a city of more than 20,000 population.

Jazz Rings Out In Opera House

NEW YORK, Jan. 19 (AP) — The sedate metropolitan opera house blew its top, from cellar to chandelier it rocked to the red hot rhythm of barrelhouse, boogie-woogie and the blues.

Jass invaded the Met's hallowed portals last night for the first time.

The lowdown music was beat out by the Trumpeter Louis Armstrong, Sax-playing Coleman Hawkins, Jack Teagarden and his slip horn, and a dozen more jive-minded musicians selected in an Esquire Magazine poll as the jazz artists of 1944.

Some 3,500 hep-cats paid $650,000 in war bonds to witness the precedent-shattering event, a part of the Fourth War Loan drive. Admission was by war bond only.

The audience whistled, squealed, stamped and clapped in syncopation. The plush diamond horseshoe quaked and staid ushers lifted their eyebrows.

Jive-educated toes tapped in unison as Mildred Bailey sang "Squeeze Me," Red Norvo swung out "I Got Rhythm" on his xylophone, and Lionel Hampton and Sidney Catlett thumped a torrid drum duet.

The audience was really in the groove when Benny Goodman, the king of swing, was piped in from Hollywood.

Said one conservative looking middle-aged usher as he bit his lip: "If I said what I think of this, I'd be jailed."

Indians Wield Knives Against Nips In Jungles

Arizona Tribesmen Use Ancient Tactics In Stalking Enemy

ADVANCED ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, NEW GUINEA, Jan. 19 (AP)—Knife-wielding American Indians of 20 tribes, backed by such modern components of war as tanks and bombing planes, are stalking Japanese in the tropical jungles of New Britain.

Proud of their ability to thread through dense growth, these skilled tribesmen of Arizona and New Mexico ended a stalemate Sunday at invaded Arawe on the southwest coast by breaking through main enemy defenses to such depth that field guns were captured.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters reported the success today.

Each equipped with several knives as well as pistol and rifle, these Indians, forming part of the 158th regiment of "bushmasters," penetrated 1,000 yards through enemy lines while the Japanese still were groggy from an 87-ton air bombardment.

Pilots of Liberators and Mitchells, striking so close to the American lines they had to be guided by a ground smoke screen in distinguishing positions, said the bombing was the most concentrated one yet unleashed in the jungles.

The "bushmasters," whose ability to transmit secret communications in tribal tongues should prove baffling to the Nipponese, were sent to Panama during the early days of the war to become the first American troops trained in jungle tactics.

Last April, they left the Canal Zone and on June 30 first appeared in the Southwest Pacific war zone. Unopposed, they occupied Kiriwina Island in the Trobriand group off the southeastern tip of New Guinea. It was from there they moved in to reinforce the Texas dismounted cavalrymen who opened the invasion of New Britain at Arawe last Dec. 15.

Partisans Trap Motorized Unit

LON DON, aJ1.n9 (AP)— NU LONDON, Jan. 19 (AP) — Yugoslav Partisans have trapped a German motorized division of 400 vehicles near Lipovac in western Bosnia and wild fighting now is progressing through rugged hill country against the encircled Nazis and a second division rushed to its assistance, Marshal Josip Broz (Tito) announced today.

The Nazi relief expedition, Tito's broadcast communique said, broke through Partisan lines toward Jajce, Tito's former headquarters, 30 miles south of Banja Luka on the Vrbas river. Bitter fighting ensued and the issue apparently was still in doubt at the time the bulletin was issued.

Meanwhile units of the 3rd Yugoslav corps were reported pushing the Germans back in eastern Zosnla.

Continued fighting in southern Hercegovina was reported. In Lika province in Croatia the Germans were still attacking in an attempt to breach Yugoslav lines guarding liberated territory.

War Secretary Sir James Grigg yesterday told the house of Commons that the Yugoslav Partisans have tied down at least 125,000 German troops, and said the German drive which began in Croatia late in December was "a failure." All possible aid was being supplied to the Partisans, he added.

Russian Offensive Aimed At German Siege Of Key City

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

MOSCOW, Jan. 19 (AP)—Red army forces on the Leningrad and Volkhov fronts in northern Russia sprang forward today in a new offensive calculated to end the German siege of Leningrad, second city of the Soviet Union.

Two neighboring army groups, it was disclosed launched simultaneous assaults several days ago to break through strong German defense lines and are now developing their drives on a large scale. (Previous German broadcasts indicated the new Russian attacks began last Friday.)

The fact that the launching of the offensive could be announced was taken here to mean that it is proceeding successfully.

Russian troops on the Leningrad front began their push south of the suburban town of Oranienbaum.

The town lies on the shores of the Baltic just south of the island naval base of Kronstadt and has been in Russian hands since the siege began 17 months ago.

At the same time Red army forces on the Volkhov front attacked north of Novgorod, 100 miles southeast of Leningrad between Lake Ilmen and the Baltic.

The twin operations appeared to have been planned jointly to break the German semi-circle around Leningrad, under constant threat of enemy bombardment.

The blockade of Leningrad was broken a year ago by a Red army thrust through the fortress town of Schlesselburg, which opened a narrow corridor to the east. The Germans, however, dug in close to the western and southern sides of the city, constructing an elaborate system of fortifications.

Labor Draft Is Met In Congress With Cold Hands

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (AP) — The administration's bid for civilian labor conscription powers was carried before a largely unresponsive congress today by the Secretary of War, Henry L. Stimson.

Stimson, who will be followed later by Navy Secretary, Knox, was accorded a hearing by the senate military committee, which is sitting on the Austin-Wadsworth national service bill and showing no inclination to get up.

A house committee pigeonholed the legislation indefinitely yesterday and several members of the senate committee were outspokenly critical of it, despite President Roosevelt's assertion that it was needed to insure full war production.

Settlement of the railroad wage dispute and restoration of the lines to private operation did national service no good in the house. Two influential representatives said that only a major strike disrupting war production at a time when battle causalties were mounting could change sentiment there.

Stimson advocated national service long before Mr. Roosevelt made it a keystone of his new legislative program.

The plan would require registrattion of civilian men and women for posible assignment to war jobs, at prevailing rates of pay, in places where volunteer labor forces proved insufficient.

"Pineapple" Puckett Is Victim Of A Hidden Japanese Machine Gunner

BOUGAINVILLE (Delayed) (AP) "Pineapple" Puckett died today, cut down by a hidden Jap machine gunner.

He was fatally wounded while directing aid to a fallen companion.

"Pineapple" Puckett was Marine Platoon Sergeant Clarence D. Puckett, 23, of 6355 Regular street, Detroit, a great, confident lad, six feet, three inches tall, with arms like young oak trees. He wore two .45 pistols, carried any shoulder weapon he could find, and as many grenades as he could pack.

He won his nickname nearly a month ago when his grenade tossing was credited largely by officers and men of his platoon with decimating a strong Jap force attempting a dangerous flanking movement against Marine forces in newly-won positions

That day "Pineapple" hurled 33 grenades in human mortar fashion and when the battle was over, they counted 75 Jap dead.

"Pineapple" was with a squad inching forward against strong Jap positions when he got it today.

John Carter Peters, pharmacist's mate, second class, U. S. N. R., of Caryville, Fla., navy hospital corpsman told the story.

Corpsman Peters said a Jap machine gun "opened up a little to the left, where 'Puck' was, and got the Marine nearest to him. He just stood up and bellowed, using his big body as a marker to show litter bearers where the wounded Marine was. He must have known he was exposing himself. I yelled at him to get down, but he was still bellowing for a litter bearer when another burst cut him down."

"When I reached 'Puck,'" Corpsman Peters continued, "I saw he was hit badly in the chest—but there wasn't a chance of getting litter bearers to him. The other Marine was dead. I asked 'Puck' could he make it back 75 yards himself to where there were bearers and he just gasped, 'Sure, kid.' He forced himself into a crouch and actually ran that 75 yards."

Then, with a tired sigh, the big fellow lapsed into unconsciousness. He died a few hours later.

Railways Given Back To Own Operators

By JACKSON S. ELLIOTT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (AP)—The nation's rail transportation system was back in the hands of private operators today but Senator Wheeler (D-Mont) warned that it still faces a critical manpower problem.

President Roosevelt announced settlement of the wage dispute, with raises all around, late yesterday, and War Secretary Stimson thereupon ordered the seized railroads returned to their owners, effective at midnight.

The roads, once threatened by labor disputes of the 350,000 members of five operating unions and of 1,100,000 non-operating workers, including shopmen, clerks and others, were taken over by the government on Dec. 27, three days before a strike-call deadline.

The settlement and some earlier agreements, which labor and management sources estimated would cost the roads approximately $350,000,000 annually, plus retroactive pay awards, provide generally for increases of nine cents an hour to the operating workers and increases of from nine to 11 cents for the non-ops.

The 15 non-op unions originally had asked for 20 cents an hour more and the operating brotherhoods a 30 per cent hike, or $3 a day, whichever might be greater.

In his announcement, Secretary Stimson said the agreements, which were approved by Wage Stabilization Director Vinson, "provide assurance that there will be no stoppage of rail service and that the employes of the roads will continue to discharge their responsibilities faithfully and conscientiously so that there may be no diminution in the rising tide of our military might."

Legislature Is In Favor Of Session

AUSTIN, Jan. 19 (AP) — A clear majority of members of the legislature today had expressed themselves as favoring an immediate special session to facilitate soldier voting.

A poll initiated yesterday by several members of both houses at an informal meeting evoked this response:

In favor of a special session: House members, 67; senate members 19.

Against a special session: House members 2.

For a special session if a way of facilitating the vote of soldiers can be found. House members 12.

(Senate membership 31; house 150.)

Sen. William E. Stone of Galveston responded with a letter in which he said he believed the matter should be left in the hands of Gov. Coke Stevenson.

Stevenson has not receded from his stand that it is his opinion a constitutional amendment to waive poll taxes for soldiers can not be submitted at a special session of the legislature.

House members flatly opposed to the session were T. R. Bond of Terrell and Albert Power of Snyder.

Replies to the telegraphic poll were still coming in at midmorning.

3 Units Converge On Appian Way Under Heavy Fire

By WES GALLAGHER

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, ALGIERS, Jan. 19 (AP)—British troops of Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's Fifth army, advancing under intense mortar and machine-gun fire, have crossed the lower Garigliano river at three points converging on the ancient Appian way, for centuries the main coastal highway to Rome.

The attack was launched at 9 p. m. Monday, Allied headquarters announced today, and all three bridgeheads were secured despite violent enemy resistance which included a rain of fire on the river itself, 80 miles southeast of Rome.

The first crossing was made near Sul, a village seven miles inland from the Tyrrhenian coast and located on a hill 500 yards beyond the river. Headquarters said heavy fighting still is in progress there.

The second bridgehead was established along the railroad running from Capu to Rome, four miles from the coast.

The third was at Argento, almost on the coast itself, where the Germans countered with a tank attack in a desperate but futile effort to drive the British back across the river.

The announcement said Canadians on the Eighth army front were engaged in "fierce fighting."

Patrol activity was carried out by British and American units of the Fifth army front which are driving for Cassino, nazi fortress on the road to Rome.

Naval action continued in the Adriatic during the past week, the communique said, destroyers shelling Rovigno on the Istrian peninsula, Durazzo in Albania and Drevenik, Vala and Korcula on the Dalmation coast.

An American coastal force attacked lighters off Spezia, without damage to themselves, while British units torpedoed a small ship in Sumartin harbor of Brac Island.

In the air escorted heavy bombers blasted key communications targets in Tuscany province yesterday.

Targets included rail yards at Pisa, Pistoia, Poggibonsi, Pontedera and Certaldo. The airfield at Pistoia also was hit. American Mitchells and Spitfires scored 15 bombhits on a 3,000-ton merchant vessel off Leghorn, leaving it sinking.

The air communique, describing Monday night's heavy bomber attack against Pisa, said the rail yards were well covered with bomb hits.

Brits Soothed By Broadcast

LONDON, Jan. 19 (AP)—British newspapers, which yesterday expressed high indignation over Pravda's publication of a rumor of British-German peace talks, appeared placated today by the Moscow radio's broadcast of the official British denial.

At the same time, Moscow dispatches said Britons and Americans in the Soviet capital also expressed relief at the broadcast, which went to the whole nation and was transmitted to the Russian press.

The London Daily Mail, which yesterday called the communist party organ's account "an insult to the British people," headlined its story today: "'Peace' Lie Is Now Dead." The News Chronicle said the Germans were spreading peace talk rumors, "hoping to gain respite."

In broadcasting Britain's denial, the Moscow radio also gave the first inkling of a possible explanation for the Pravda story by quoting a London Sunday Times (not to be confused with the Times of London) dispatch of Jan. 16 from Ankara which said that the Nazis were fishing for terms.

German propaganda broadcasts, meanwhile harped on the theme that the Pravda story was intended by Moscow to draw a renewed British and American pledge of allegiance toward Russia "regardless of how the Polish question is being solved by the Soviets."

German officials themselves denied that Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop had been in contact with the Allies, according to a Nazi-controlled Scandinavian Telegraph Bureau dispatch quoted by Reuters.

FIRE IS COSTLY

TAMPICO, Mexico, Jan. 19 (AP) —A fire covering three city blocks destroyed more than 40 homes and several warehouses yesterday leaving many persons injured and causing damage estimated at $50,000.

Governor Does Not Plan Call Of Legislature

DALLAS, Jan. 19 (AP) — Gov. Coke R. Stevenson doesn't plan to call a special session of the Texas legislature.

The pipe-smoking governor made that plain here yesterday—and he reiterated it last night when he commented:

"The loss of lives of loved ones is one of the prices parents of the boys must pay. And by supplying the weapons of war we will do more than anything to save lives."

There's a great deal of agitation for giving the soldiers the right to vote, governor Stevenson admitted at a dinner given in his honor by the Dallas Citizens Council and attended by 566 persons.

Speaking back to his critics, he told the democratic women of Dallas county at a noonday luncheon: "as long as you trust my honesty and integrity, you must accord me the right to run your government by the constitution. And unless you amend it, I'll run it by the same old constitution we have now."

In the meantime, pressure was being exerted to change the governor's mind about calling an extraordinary session of the legislature. Twenty legislators agreed in Austin to "put the heat" on the governor for a special session. They wired other members and all answers were favorable.

It was Rep. Joe Ed Winfree, Houston, who declared that governor Stevenson had allowed "this man downstairs, there temporarily or accidentally, as attorney general to give him the bum steer." He referred to Attorney General Grover Seller's opinion that the legislation would be unconstitutional.

The legislators signing the petition in Austin asked for the extraordinary session to exempt soldiers from paying poll tax and extend the time for absentee voting. Meridian's Senator Karl Lovelady, chairman of the caucus, will be in charge of a telegraphic poll of his colleagues on the question.

House Argues Two Service Pay Bills

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (AP) — Two mustering-out pay bills, one providing a maximum of $700 and the other an aggregate top of $1,120, competed for house favor today with a military committee-backed measure calling for $300.

While both the more liberal proposals apparently had strong bi-partisan backing, indications were the committee measure would win approval before the end of the day and be sent to the senate which last month passed a bill with a $500 top.

The committee measure would give the $300 to men and women under the rank of major who are discharged honorably and not at their own request after having served 60 or more days. Those with less than 60 days of service would receive $100.

Spain Cautioned About Axis Aid

LONDON, Jan. 19 (AP) — Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told Commons today that the British ambassador to Spain, Sir Samuel Hoare, had been instructed to make "further strong representations to the Spanish government" over the fact that a number of Spanish volunteers still were fighting for the Nazis on the Russian front.

Another issue, which is likely to present additional complications to Madrid and London, was brought before the house when Eden said the British government had renewed strong representations supporting the Italian government's request for the release of all Italian ships in Spanish ports.

Bridge was entertainment, and Mrs. E. O. Ellington won high score.

Those attending were Mrs. M. H. Bennett, Mrs. Cal Boykin, Mrs. E. O. Ellington, Mrs. M. K. House, Mrs. J. B. King, Mrs. V. Van Gieson, Mrs. J. B. Young, and Mrs. J. D. Miller.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. J. Y. Robb.

Couple Married At East Fourth Church

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Bennett announce the marriage of their daughter, Marguerite, to Pvt. Paul C. Floyd of Merkel, who is stationed at Long Beach, Calif.

The ceremony was read Tuesday morning at the East Fourth Baptist church by the pastor, the Rev. W. H. Colson.

Mrs. Floyd will return to Big Spring.

Why VICKS VAPORUB Is So Good For Relieving Miseries of Childrens Colds

More than two generations ago—in grandmother's day—mothers first discovered Vicks VapoRub. Today it is the most widely used home-remedy for relieving miseries of children's colds. And here is the reason . . .

The moment you rub VapoRub on the throat, chest and back at bedtime it starts to work two ways at once—and keeps on working for hours—to ease coughing spasms, help clear congestion in cold-clogged upper breathing passages, relieve muscular soreness or tightness. It promotes restful sleep. Often most of the misery of the cold is gone by morning! That's why VapoRub is so good to use when colds strike. Try it!

DOWNTOWN STROLLER

According to our way of thinking, MRS. V. VAN GIESON could be considered one of the most faithful workers in her church. For the past 15 years she has held the office as treasurer of the North Texas district of the Woman's Auxiliary for the Episcopal church.

Showing a fine spirit of cooperation, a large number of local women were down at the courthouse Tuesday evening for the first bond rally of the Fourth War Loan Drive . . . according to what we hear, in fact, there were more bond saleswomen than there were bond-buyers.

Called to talk with MRS. LEE HANSON early today, but was out of luck for she has a 'super case' of laryngitis.

Welcome visitor in town Tuesday was Mrs. J. G. BRISTOW, and son, J. GORDON, JR., who came down from Childress where husband and father, CAPT BRISTOW, is stationed.

It was a case of re-election by acclamation out at the officers' club Tuesday when the Women's club named MRS. HORACE L. BORDEN, as vice president a second term. She also serves as chairman of the surgical dressing headquarters, which is doing fine work in turning out dressings for the Red Cross.

Judges Are Guest Speakers At B. & P. W. Club Meeting

Gladys Smith Is In Charge Of Program

Judge Cecil Collings and Judge James T. Brooks were guest speakers at the Tuesday evening meeting of the Business and Professional Women's club at the Settles Hotel.

Gladys Smith, chairman of the finance committee, was in charge of the program which opened with the group singing "America" directed by Mrs. L. A. Eubanks with Helen Duley playing piano accompaniment.

Judge Collings spoke on "Women and the War Today" and Judge Brooks talked on "Women in the Post War World." Judge Collings pointed out that women are helping in the present war and explained that their duties, small as they might seem, are vital. In discussing women in the post war world, Judge Brooks stated that because of assistance which women are offering during the present conflict, they are making a place for themselves in the post war world.

Those attending the meeting were Mrs. Moree Sawtelle, Edith Gay, Ina Mae Bradley, Mrs. L. A. Eubanks, Elizabeth Standefer, Maurine Word, June Matson, Mary Louise Griffin, Velva Glass, Mary Reidy, Myrtle Jones, Mary Diltz, Wilrena Richbourg, Glynn Jordan, Kitty Ford, Gladys Ford, Bernice Haley, Ruth Griffin, Kathryn Thigpen, Gladys Smith, Jewel Barton, Fern Smith, Inez Eaves and Dorothy Miller.

Clarabel Wood was named president, and other officers include Mozelle Chapman, secretary and reporter; Adelphene Covington, treasurer; Lucille Taylor, social chairman; Dorothy Moore, program chairman; Alice Ruth Sanders and Marie Rainey, poster committee.

Those attending the meeting were Adelphene Covington, Lucille Taylor, Alice Ruth Sanders, Dorothy Moore, Clarabel Woods, Charlotte Holden, Elsie Marie Rainey, Mozelle Chapman and Mrs. A. W. Page.

Delegates Return From Convocation

The Rev. R. J. Snell, rector at St. Mary's Episcopal church and secretary of convocation, W. R. Dawes and Mrs. V. Van Giesen, treasurer of the North Texas district woman's auxiliary, returned from the 34th annual convocation of North Texas District which was held in Lubbock, Saturday through Monday.

The annual parley was devoted to reports from various churches in the district and planning for the year.

Girls! Don't forego this help because of an old TABOO

For 62 years many girls have sought relief in CARDUI's 2-way help. Some take it as a tonic: it usually stimulates appetite, aids digestion by increasing flow of gastric juices; thus helps build energy and resistance for needed days. Or take it, as directed, 3 days before "your time"; CARDUI then often aids in relieving functional pain.

This time try CARDUI. (adv.)

'Quiz Kid' Program To Be Presented

The School Forum of the Air sponsored by the Big Spring City Council of Parent-Teachers will present a radio program over KBST Thursday at 1:30 o'clock.

Susie Has A Man-Sized Job Of Handling Irish Grid Queries

AP Features

SOUTH BEND, Ind. — "Bet I can take two whole bites of this sandwich before those phones ring," the girl challenged.

But the phones beat her to the peanut butter, as they always do, and it was not until an hour later that pretty, 18-year-old Susie Grace had found time to sandwich in her sandwich.

Five hundred calls a day — that's part of the tempo at Notre Dame's athletic publicity office, where Director Walter Kennedy and Susie, his secretary, pass telephones around as if they were batons in a relay race.

"Can I get two reserved seats on the 50-yard line for this week's game?" "Is Johnny Lujack really injured?" "What's the team going to eat for breakfast before the game?" "I asked for 10 ducats and got only three, how come?" . . . and thus it goes, a series of requests as unbroken as the water pouring over Niagara Falls.

Susie probably knows more about Notre Dame football than any other girl in the country.

V-Mail Request

"I can't imagine anyone with a more interesting job," she beams. "Let's go through this stack of mail and see some of the questions."

One V-mail letter begins: "I am a rabid Notre Dame fan even over here in jungle land. I've gotten into a few arguments lately and would appreciate it if you could give me the necessary dope to settle them. . . . I would like all the scores of games between Notre Dame and Minnesota."

"See?" flashes Susie, "that guy will pick up $10 or $20 betting on old scores with his buddies in the other fox holes."

A Menu Please

Another letter reads: "Could you tell me what Notre Dame athletes eat before games and what they ate 10 years ago?"

Here's one with a Canadian stamp, from Quebec: "We four boys are studying for the priesthood and would like something from Knute Rockne's files to prove football is a Christian sport, that physical combat does not show disrespect for the human body. . . ."

Still another: "I would like a yearly list of Notre Dame All-America players; graduates who became head coaches; a list of Millers from Ohio belonging to the Miller family of which Creighton is the latest, the relationship to each other and the years and positions they played. Enclosed is a three cent stamp."

A Tall Order

Others want such things as: the number of real Irishmen who played on Notre Dame teams . . . A breakdown of nationalities and religious beliefs of all team members, past and present . . . complete life histories of Coach Frank Leahy and Knute Rockne . . . Notre Dame's football schedules since 1915, names and pictures of players.

And here is a gem: "Who owns the coin flipped by the referee?"

"Girls all over the country send pictures of themselves—lot of leg art, you know — and ask for receipts," Susie cuts in. "We usually pass them on to the boys, and if they want to write them it's OK, I guess."

SUSIE GRACE
Rarely Finds Time To Eat

Other items Susie reveals: an average of two footballs a week is received for players to sign, 200 requests pour in weekly for autographs, the majority asking for signatures of Angelo Bertelli, now at Parris Island, N. C., in Marine training, and Johnny Lujack, who took his place at quarterback; most popular questions concern information about Don Miller and George Gipp, two of Notre Dame's all-time backfield greats, and the capacity of the school's stadium.

Army Game Leads

"The most money ever enclosed with a letter was $25 to cover cost of pictures and mailing," Susie recalls from her filing-cabinet mind. "And the scores most often requested are for games between Army and Notre Dame.

"We get 20 to 30 postcards a day from children wanting Notre Dame stickers, and just recently we received a note from a Civil War veteran asking for a new or old jersey worn by one of the players.

"We get 100 or more requests a week for pictures of players, but we've cut them down by charging 50 cents."

By this time Susie had reached her third peanut butter sandwich and the phones began ringing again.

Firemen Save Coal Savings

OCEAN GROVE, N. J., (AP) — Mrs. S. W. Lewis wanted to save every piece of coal. After shaking down the furnace one morning, she threw a few bits of fuel back into the bin.

Firemen responding to an alarm a short time later found the coal pile afire and were forced to battle almost an hour to save the coal supply and the house. Damage was slight.

Shipyard Repairmen Are Needed At USES

More shipyard repairmen must be recruited to meet emergency conditions on the west coast, Navy and Civil Service representatives declared today in a joint statement, emphasizing that these essential war jobs offer civilians a chance to serve with the fleet as a riveter, shipfitter, electrician or helper at good wages plus overtime.

The hour they make application, qualified skilled tradesmen receive their appointment to navy yards of their choice at Bremerton, Washington, Vallejo or San Francisco, California.

The government pays transportation to the west coast and assures appointees of housing accommodations in either dormitory or family dwelling units.

The War Manpower Commission, the Navy and Civil Service have given top-priority to west coast navy yard personnel needs so that persons interested in this federal employment can make application at the United States Employment Service, 105½ East Second Street, on Thursday afternoon, January 20, 1944, from 12:10 p. m. to 4:00 p. m. All persons will be appointed in accordance with WMC regulations.

Love's Old Sweet Song—

Pioneer Petition Puts Poetic Parting Plea

One of the gems among the voluminous files of the district clerk's office is the petition filed in the February term of district court here in 1888.

Written in firm and beautiful hand, the petition asks that a divorce be granted to the gentleman who signed it. He had some unsavory remarks to make about the general character and habitat of his wife, whom he left soon after they were married in August of 1886. His petition to Judge William Kennedy follows in part:

"As soon as Plaintiff was informed of the character and conduct of defendant as above specified, he hastened (in the language of her associates) to "shake" defendant in the said month of August when it waxed warm and the spoony mesquito sang his lullaby around the harassed head of our troubled hero, the plaintiff in this cause.

"He awakened, so to speak, in astonishment to find himself a lone bed fellow in the virtuous couch which he had prepared and perfumed with incense from love's sweet bower of roses for himself and lovely bride, who to the great astonishment of plaintiff during the unparalleled sweets of the honeymoon forsook him to go away in company with indecent men.

"He avers that there has been no property accumulated by him, at least. During said marriage, he has made some money but it was long since spent and he has barely enough to pay an attorney's fee, the cost of this court and the fine for the fight he is going to have in case this suit is not won by the Lawyer . . . that the defendant has not accumulated anything so far as Plaintiff knows except a bad character which she is welcome to keep if your honor so decrees."

As a clinching argument, the Plaintiff threw in the final information that the defendant "is now living with a republican Irish-American stone cutter." That alone should have been sufficient grounds in any Southern court.

The petition concluded with hope that "if it comes to his power (the Plaintiff) will be able to render equal assistance to your Honor (the court)."

Steers Lose Again As Phillips Quint Ring Up 40 Points

The Big Spring Steers dropped their sixth consecutive game Tuesday evening in extending the Phillips Tire Co.

As it turned out, the Steers lost out 40-37 because of their aggressiveness. Both sides sank 18 field goals, but the Tiremen capitalized on 12 Steer fouls to sink four goals. The Steers sank only one of four free shot chances, and that was the difference in the score.

Phillips held a one point lead at half time 21-20.

Billy Ray Warren, towering Steer center, led the scoring, gathering 16 points, three more than Bobby Cowley, top scorer for the Tiremen.

Bobby Barron, who set up several scores for Warren with his accurate passing, also collected eight points, sinking a quartet of field goals from different angles far out. Woody Baker also turned in an excellent floor game, a performance equalled by Asbury for Phillips.

Since the difficulty of the Steers all season has been in hitting the goal, the offensive pounch demonstrated Tuesday evening gave rise to hopes that the victory drouth was about over.

Cox, board of education members; Bryan Dickson, superintendent; John Rowntree, principel, and Jewell Wallace, head coach.

Confused Player Rings Own Goal

ELKHART, Ind., Jan. 19 (AP) — Fans booed, players fraternized and officials spent most of their time clearing debris off the floor in a strange high school basketball game last night between Elkhart and Riley High of South Bend.

Elkhart, which had averaged 45 points in four previous league games, won 5 to 4—but had help from one of the Riley players. Elkhart scored a field goal, a free throw and got the other two points when Ernie Kovatch of Riley became confused and tipped the ball into the wrong basket.

THE CLUBHOUSE

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK — (AP) Features Sports Editor Chip Royal, the conductor of this column, started a nation-wide furore recently when he began his poll to determine the three greatest all-time sports achievements.

Like everyone else who has rubbed wintergreen liniment on a shin-splint or taped a blistered finger, this sports scribe has very difinite opinions on the matter.

My selection as the No. 1 sports achievement took no athletic skill at all. Only a hammer, four nails and a pair of peach baskets were needed.

They were combined one day in the winter of 1891 when Dr. James A. Naismith tacked the two baskets to the bottom of the indoor mezzanine running track at Springfield College in Springfield Mass., and invented basketball—the sport that now draws more spectators a year than any other sport in the United States.

Right there Dr. Naismith, who died a few years ago in Kansas, became the only out-and-out inventor of a major sport, all others being evolved from a forebear.

And the second greatest sports achievement this county ever saw was no more athletic than the first.

Event No. 2 took place in 1831 when a young, fuzz-faced draftsman named Alexander J. Cartwright drew a square with his quill pen on a sheet of white paper and later, using the drawing as the blue-print for a playing field, gave dignity and substance to the "One-Old-Cat" game his friend — Abner Doubleday — had devised from founders that spring at Cooperstown, N. Y.

Cartwright's layout was 90 feet from base to base — a distance that never has been changed and his contribution was known as a "square until years later when the magnates set the square on end to provide space for seats near the playing field.

That's how the square became a diamond, baseball was born and the United States ultimately got to know Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Rogers Hornsby, Dizzy Dean and thousands of others.

And the third greatest sports achievement? I'll bequeath the honor to the nameless individual who brought to the United States a set of rules governing English football — a sport in existence in one variety or other since 500 B. C. when the Spartans called it harpaston.

Rutgers and Princeton decided in 1865 that a game could be made of football kicking and on Nov. 13, 1869, they played the first inter-collegiate contest.

From that humble beginning the United States got to know A. A. Stagg, Walter Eckersall, Willie Heston, Red Grange, Nile Kinnick, Tommy Harmon and the location of South Bend, Ind.

Maybe they are not the greatest achievements but if they hadn't happened the national sports pages today probably would be devoted to checkers and dominoes.

Record Win Streak Set By Chicago Quint

CHICAGO, Jan. 19 (AP)—There might be a longer win streak than the 90 straight hung up by the Marshall High junior basketball team, but Chicago prep fans haven't heard about it. The West Side five which hasn't lost a game in almost five years, won their 90th consecutive last night, and has a chance to attain 100 straight wins before the season closes

Marshall Pounds Win From Bolden

CLEVELAND, Jan. 19 (AP) — Lloyd Marshall believes there's no place like home—especially when you're fighting.

The Californian returned to his native Cleveland last night to pound out an easy 10-round decision over Nate Bolden of Chicago in what Matchmaker Larry Atkins billed as a duration light heavyweight title bout.

The win was Lloyd's fourth in five Cleveland appearances and it earned him a March engagement with Joltin' Jake Lamotta, the rough-housing Bronx middleweight. In his other local tussles, the former Golden Glover notched decisions over Anton Christoforidis and Curtis Sheppard, knocked out Ezzard Charles and belted heavyweight Jimmy Bivins to the floor before taking the count himself in the 13th.

Rated by Ring magazine as the number one active light heavy, Marshall spent most of his time chasing Bolden around the arena ring,

He caught up with the backpedaling Chicagoan enough times to unleash a slashing assortment of rights. One of these sent Bolden to the canvas for a nine count in the third round after Nate temporarily ceased his bicycling to stagger Marshall with a left hook.

Ace Red Hurler Has Army Exam

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 19 (AP)—Pitcher Johnny Vander Meer, reclassified 1-A in the draft, leaves today for New York to undergo X-ray examinations and 48-hour observation.

The Cincinnati Reds' double no-hit, no-run twirler reported to the Newark induction station yesterday and after said further army examinations would be necessary.

Peddles Papers

NEW YORK (AP) — Wall streeters looked with surprise when they saw Guy Emerson, vice president of the Bankers Trust company, hawking newspapers from a stand near his bank.

He explained to passersby that he had volunteered to take over operation of the newstand while its proprietor went into the bank to buy a war bond.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19 (AP)—Looks as if round two of that battle of the minor league convention would begin when baseball's post-war planning committee meets next month . . . Judge W. G. Bramham, the minor league boss, didn't spare anyone's feelings in his "suggestions"—least of all the chain operators . . . And as the first reply, President Shag Shaughnessy of the International league pointed out that local ownership of minor league clubs may be the ideal situation, but only such smart baseball men as Earl Mann, Mike Kelley, Jack Dunn and Charley Graham have made it work . . . The chain system has its faults, but it does provide the best "baseball brains" for the little clubs.

Brakes Needed?

Another Bramham warning is against "irresponsible" promotion which might lead to starting a lot of ball clubs that wouldn't last . . . That may be just another way of saying that the National association's promotion setup is good enough to do the job without major league interference . . . Of course, the first job will be to get the leagues going again to take care of players returning from the war, but there's also the little task of promoting interest in baseball in general, and that's where the majors should, and do, take the lead.

Unanswered Question

An airline points out that after the war it will be able to provide overnight transportation from the major league cities to Los Angeles and San Francisco, in case the circuits want to spread out to the west coast . . . Does that mean baseball will be a fly by night business?

WTSC Will Have 1944 Cage Team

CANYON, Jan. 19 (AP)—Basketball is coming back to West Texas State College, which formerly boasted of the tallest team in the world.

D. A. Shirley, member of the college's athletic council, said the college would have a team on the floor in 1944 Shirley said efforts would be made to bring back football, also.

Air Blast Trap Catches Insects

PLAINVIEW (AP)—Eighty-three-year-old A. R. Nisbet has constructed a farm insect catcher.

Tried out on cotton and other crops, it operates on the air blast principle, covers two rows at a time and weighs only 250 pounds. The bug catcher can be attached to any make of tractor and will work while the farmer is cultivating or working with his crop.

A large fan propelled by the tractor's motor blows air through two pipes, curved to project the air blasts upward to strike insects seeking shelter on the under sides of leaves.

The blasts blow the insects into funnel shaped pipes with bags attached to their ends, opposite the air vents. These bags trap the pests, which are burned.

F. E. Posey, Pecos county farm agent, said the machine was 80 per cent effective.

Rocky Voyage

SAN PEDRO, Calif., (AP)—When Don Finch failed to appear in court on an illegal parking charge, police got a bench warrant and wrote that if he didn't come in within five days, they'd come and get him.

Finch replied: "I'll gladly pay the fine if you'll come and get me. He's a sailor somewhere in the South Pacific.

'Silver Taps' Will Be Played For Aggie Pet

COLLEGE STATION, Jan. 19 (AP) — Aggieland says goodbye today to Reveille — the dog that wormed her way into the hearts of thousands to become a symbol of fighting spirit.

The little black and white mascot of Texas A. and M., termed "more than an animal; she is a tradition" by President F. C. Bolton, died of old age yesterday in the veterinary hospital.

The Aggie band will play "The Spirit of Aggieland" and "Silver Taps" this afternoon when they bury Rev in the center of Kyle Field, where the dog loved to cavort during half-time drills at football games.

Reveille's collar will be placed in a case and a plaque will be affixed to the entrance of the stadium.

Not long ago, when the cadets were raising money to have Reveille designated a general, they also contributed funds to have her portrait done in oil. It hangs where every cadet may see as he goes about the day's routine.

Reveille was picked up one night in 1931 by some Aggies on a road south of the campus. A leg-hurt was dressed and she was taken to a dormitory. She immediately was adopted by the cadet corps as its mascot.

She made trips with the corps; she frolicked in and out the formations when the band put on a show she wore an Aggie blanket.

Said Dr. Bolton:

"To many a homesick freshman Reveille represented the dog he left at home; that dumb friend that could always be depended upon a wag of the tail and a friendly bark no matter how dark the clouds or how negligent were other friends. Reveille was a tangible, visible connecting link with a carefree boyhood."

Thirteen Jinx Dogs College Cage Quints

NEW YORK, Jan. 19 (AP)—Thirteen seems to be a jinx to winning college basketball quintets.

Last week Depaul's Demons of Chicago, undefeated and boasting a 13-game winning streak, lost to Valparaiso, of Indiana. That left undefeated Camp Grant and Milligan (Tenn.) College with 13-game streaks.

The jinx caught up with Camp Grant last night, Marquette handing the soldiers a surprise 46-38 defeat at Elgin, Ill. The Golden Avalanche got off to an early 17-6 lead and led throughout. The soldiers pulled up to 34-33 in the second half before Marquette again crept away.

Milligan, boasting victories over Duke and North Carolina in its long streak, risks the jinx on Friday when the Buffs meet Emory & Henry at Bristol, Va.

Levy Will Try For Yankee Outfield

NEW YORK, Jan. 19 (AP)—Big Ed. Levy, who failed to make the grade last spring as a first baseman for the championship New York Yankees, will be given a tryout as an outfielder at Atlantic City this spring, the Yankees front office indicated today.

At the same time Pitcher Spud Chandler sent word he expected to be called soon for an army physical examination at his Moultrie, Ga. home. He is 1-A.

When Long Distance lines are crowded the operator will say
"PLEASE LIMIT YOUR CALL TO 5 MINUTES"
There's a good reason for that. • It's to help everybody get better service. • And you can say a lot in five minutes. Maybe you can hold that next Long Distance call to three minutes. • That would be even better.

Goat 'Gold' Makes Goats Of Hunters

SALMON, Idaho, (AP) — There aren't any dentists working the Salmon river uplands in Idaho's primitive area, but nevertheless more than a few wild goats have "gold" teeth.

Exhaustive examinations of the rugged country have been launched because taxidermists claimed they found flakes of "gold" embedded in teeth of wild goats brought in to be stuffed, but there have been no bonanzas.

Frank Keefer, taxidermist, says it's only fool's gold. Once he retrieved metallic flakes from the hairs of a mountain goat, Keefer related, but a forest ranger told him the substance was mica, explaining there are whole mountains of the gold-like ore in the Salmon river country.

Poll Indicates Return Of Long Faction In La.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 19 (AP) —Slowly mounting returns in Louisiana's democratic primary election — in which nomination by the party is tantamount to election — indicated today that the faction of the late "Kingfish" Huey P. Long, if not in the saddle, has a good chance to be in the saddlebags on one side of the steed of state henceforth. A ground swell of returns from the bayous, rice fields, cotton plantations and upstate industrial cities would tell the story.

The "ins" of governor Sam Houston Jones, who was not averse to dealing out some tart words of criticism to the democratic party nationally, seemed likely to have in Jimmie H. Davis, the leading candidate for governor if the country vote followed its early and expected trend. But it seemed likely the "outs" of the faction headed by the New Orleans mayor, Robert S. Maestri, Earl K. Long (brother of the "kingfish") and the party's national committeeman, James A. Noe, would have some better seats in the 1944-48 show.

Davis, public service commissioner and singing movie actor in his spare time, despite the early lead given the veteran Lewis L. Morgan, the Maestri-Long-Noe candidate for governor, was encouraged by the small advantage Morgan gained in the metropolitan area of New Orleans. His headquarters felt certain the trend in the country in Davis' favor would make him top man.

But Earl Long himself seemed well on his way to be top man for lieutenant governor and the "old regular"-Long choice for attorney general, Joe T. Cawthorn, held an early lead in both city and country.

There is a law in Louisiana which provided there shall be no runoff primary for other state offices if there is none for governor. If one gubernatorial candidate has a clear majority or if the second man in the race for the governor's seat should withdraw, the men who have simple pluralities down the state ticket win the nomination (and election) automatically.

Legion Asks For Special Session

HOUSTON, Jan. 19 (AP) — State Commander Sam D. Forman disclosed today that the American Legion of Texas has requested Gov. Coke Stevenson to call a special legislative session to repeal the poll tax as applied to servicemen.

Congressional, district and division representatives of the state's 40,000 legionnaires have forwarded a letter to Stevenson asking him to "exercise your privilege of office and call the special session that these great fighting men may be permitted to vote without payment of a poll tax."

Forman, estimating that over 500,000 Texas men and women are in uniform, asserted that Legionnaires "are solid behind this action."

"Some are pretty hot about it and they demand and end to all this talking," he added.

The letter asked that "permission be given soldiers, including women, to exercise their rights as American citizens and residents of the state of Texas" and that "we cannot consistently refuse them the right of a ballot."

Forman said he believed Stevenson would call a special session but "should he not, the boys individually will take the fight to the legislators in a statewide campaign."

You Find What You Seek

In a current issue of a well known national magazine there is an article concerning the findings of a woman reporter who went out to hunt details on the "black market." Results of her findings were "genuinely shocking," is is were "genuinely shocking," it is market has no social or economic boundaries. From poor neighborhoods to rich, she discovered Americans purchasing meat, canned goods, sugar, shoes, nylon stockings and manufactured goods without regard to either ration stamps or ceiling prices." Her study included cities in almost every section of the nation.

There should be no disposition to minimize her findings, for undoubtedly there has long been considerable black marketing. There is a lot of it going on right now—and undoubtedly right here.

But the fact that she found widespread black marketing is no proof that the rank and file of American people are not trying to live up to rationing regulations.

Certainly, there are people who sell goods illegally. It has always been so when certain people will do anything for money. We had the bootlegger in prohibition days—and we still have him under the title of "black marketer" today. This same psychology has been extended to include foods, clothing, tires, gasoline, etc.

There was a time when the public always indulged in the adage that the preacher's children were "wild." Nothing was further from the truth, for only the few "wild" ones were being taken as the criterion. As a class, preachers' children turned out a lot better than the rank and file. Because the reporter found black marketing was practiced extensively is no reason to assume that everybody indulges in it.

A speaker recently used this illustration which may be aptly applied in this case: One hunter, speaking to another, asked if he had never gone on a tiger hunt. first then observed that he had never killed a tiger—because he had never gone o na tiger hunt.

People who look for black markets can always find them. People who look for a cooperative and patriotic America can find it, too.

WASHINGTON (Sp) — A hummingbird flew through my office window today and whispered in my ear that Harry Hopkins is going to take the New Deal to London and keep it there until after the November election.

A friend of mine bought me a smoking pipe for Christmas. Not knowing whether I would like that particular style of pipe, he asked the tobacco-shop man whether he could exchange it for another in case it did not please me. The man said that the District of Columbia sanitary laws forbid the return and exchange of pipes after they are once sold. Imagine a germ trying to survive in a pipe!

The Supreme Court has decided to rule whether fire insurance companies are subject to federal antitrust laws. Judge Hatton Summers, of Dallas, chairman of the House Judiciary committee, wanted to appear in the case as a friend of the court. His committee had approved a resolution saying insurance business is not interstate commerce and accordingly not subject to such laws. Cong. Sam Russell, of Stephenville, the other Texan on the committee, some weeks ago made a streng speech against the resolution. When the court learned that other congressmen wanted to appear in the ease, it ruled them all out, including Judge Sumners.

Walking - Enciyopedia Wright Patman says "boy babies are now 10,584 to every 10,000 girls—exactly the same ratio as in 1917-18." Some people believe that the ratio of boys to girls born during war picks up, but I don't believe the figures will prove it.

Wright also says "cities expected to keep their war growth are all in the South—with Texas cities leading."

WPB tells Cong. O. C. Fisher, of San Antonio, it has approved the application of Bandera Electric cooperative for 166 miles of additional lines in lower Hill County to carry electricity to 223 farms and ranches. Figuring in application was granting or recognition to goats as "animal units" in war food administration and WPB calculations of need. This official rating for Angora goats was requested by Raymond Hicks and E. L. Teel of the Bandera cooperative when in Washington some time back.

Capt. Alex. (Tex) Bradford, formerly of Corpus Christi, breezed into the office recently and told me a lot of things I didn't know. When Tex was in Corpus Christi he was a member of "Bradford & Wiggins, oil well fire fighters, wild well cappers and explosive engineers." He originated in the Panhandle and used to live at McCamey in Upton County. Three and a half years ago he enlisted and since then, part of the time in the American and part of the time in the British Army, Tex has fought fires and taught others how to fight fires in London, Africa, Asia and the Lord knows where else. His story would make a saga.

Some people object to keeping the same man in the White House a long time because it reduces the chances of their sons of becoming President.

"Have you had the flu yet" is now the customary greeting in Washington.

Gen. H. H. Arnold, commander of the Army Air Forces, says: "There is no ersatz for experience."

Plenty Of Cars—What About 'Gas'?

OKLAHOMA CITY, (AP) — If the Rolls Royce John Utter drives to work should break down, he can always wheel out one of eight additional automobiles accumulated since he began collecting them in 1939.

An inspector for the Army at an aircraft plant, Utter has three Rolls Royces, vintages of 1917, 1925 and 1931, two Stutz Bearcast, a Packard, a Lozier, a Studebaker and a Peerless. Their model designations run from 1907 to 1935, but they all perform creditably on the highway because, says Utter, half the fun of collecting automobiles is keeping them in repair.

Rooster's Crow A War Casualty

INTERLAKEN, N. J., (AP) — Chalk up another war casualty — Dr. O. K. Parry's pet rooster.

The town council asked Dr. Parry to kill the rooster after Mayor Stanford C. Flint said at a council meeting he had received "seven or eight" calls from a war worker who complained that the bird's early morning crowing was interfering with his sleep and causing his work to suffer.

Washington Daybook

By HOWARD FLIEGER

WASHINGTON — Sam Rayburn is a Texas Democrat who doesn't talk much.

He's a speaker of the house who spend most of his time listening. He holds a daily news conference that seldom produces more than half a dozen short sentences. You can count on one hand the speeches he's made in Congress since the war began.

But one day Sam Rayburn, tired of listening, made a speech that quietly worked its way into a sensation. It was shortly before Congress went home for Christmas. He spoke only a few minutes, but already some of his colleagues have ticketed it as one of the great speeches of the war.

For days he had listened to Congress row about subsidies, price ceilings and restraints on the home front. His patience was frayed by bickerings.

"I desire to speak on some dangerous trends," said the Speaker.

• • •

He spoke about distrust among allies. He talked about complaints, about sacrifices, about those who want an edge on their neighbors or who complain that somebody else has something they can't get.

"That is dangerous talk," Rayburn told the quiet House. "Anything calculated to bring about disunity and wrong thinking in our country or disunity among us and those allied with us is dangerous talk. . . .

"Some people are complaining who have improved their position during this war. I hate to think of it, but as I do think it I must say it: I think some groups in this country, at the expense of our unity in the war effort, are thinking more of their position after the war than they are of winning the war now. It is a sad commentary upon some human beings . . .

"It is going to take the might and brain of every patriot under the flag to do this job. Our hands are to the plow. We cannot look back. The very fate of civilization depends not only on how our Army and Navy act, but how you and I act and how you and I respond to the necessity of this hour. . . ."

When Rayburn finished speaking Democrats and Republicans alike applauded. But it was a big Washington news day without the speech and — with some exceptions — the story gave way to more startling things in most newspapers.

• • •

It caught the eye of editors, however. Soon it started showing up on editorial pages. Senator Truman (D-Mo.) put it in the Senate record. Twice before the recess Rayburn was asked to repeat the speech on the radio. Later he went through it again for the newsreels. The more time that passes, the more attention it attracts.

As members headed back to their home districts at the year-end close of Congress, Rayburn probably wondered how many of them remembered the job he cut out for them. He told them to take heed of loose talk, disunity and carping.

"When these strange things are talked and printed and blared over the radio," he said, "I hope that we . . . will go back and try to stamp out some of these things among our people."

LOSER TAKE ALL

By Adelaide Hazeltine

Chapter 26

When Sarah refused to help make room for the flood refugees Ann replied, "Then I'll do it myself."

She edged through the crowd, ran up the stairs. She knocked at the first door she reached. It was Mr. Newton's.

"You'll have to move out for tonight," she told him. "We have some flood victims who need your bed. You can go downstairs, sit in the lounge chairs or anything you like. But please hurry."

"Hurry?" he roared pounding his cane on the floor. "Of all the insults! "I'll have you know . . ."

Ann didn't wait to hear what he would have her know. She knocked on the next door, gave the surprising news and rushed on to the next and the next Those who pleaded they couldn't go downstairs she herded into Jerry's small suite on the third floor where they could air their grievances to one another.

Back in the lobby Ann saw one of the victims standing in the center of the floor giving orders to the others. Then she saw it wasn't a victim at all but Jerry Lane. He looked battered and bedraggled.

"The rooms are ready," she told him and the glow in his eyes was worth all the abuse she had suffered at the tongues of the paying guests.

"Coming up!" he replied. A smile of encouragement, hovered around his mouth. "You've been great, Ann."

Great! She forgot she was almost as exhausted as the people she was helping upstairs, forgot that her own clothing was soggy with water. She put two and three women and children to a bed, made pallets for others on the floor. One frail little woman lay in solitary luxury on Mrs. Fay's chaise lounge. The overflow went to the back wing with three children added to Mary Lee on Ann's bed.

"Where's Dr. Renfrow?" Jerry asked when he met Ann in the hall after all was quiet again at Terrence House. "There's a woman in Mr. Newton's room who needs a doctor."

"I'll call him," Ann volunteered. "He probably doesn't know what's happened."

She went to the lobby desk. Sarah still sat stonily behind it.

"We want Dr. Renfrow," she told her. "Do you know where he is?"

"He's at home," she said sullenly. "Getting some sleep. I just talked to him."

"Didn't you tell him about these people? We need him."

"I told him everything!"

"Then he's coming?"

"No. He's not coming."

Not coming? She couldn't believe that he wouldn't come in an emergency like this. Then she remembered that once before Sarah had made a decision for him and that Ann had regretted not contacting him herself.

"I think I'll call him," she said evenly. After a long time his voice answered.

"Bert? This is Ann. We need you terribly. The flood victims . . ."

"Sorry," he said with a twist of derision to the word, "I'll be over in the morning to see my regular patients if any of them are left." And he hung up.

Stunned, Ann turned away. She wouldn't have believed it if she hadn't heard it herself.

An hour later the defense plant doctor came for a few minutes. He gave special instructions for the few dangerous cases and warned that pneumonia was the greatest worry for all of them.

"I'll send you two or three nurses," he said when he left. "You'll need them by morning when the real effects begin to show. Right now a lot of them are running on nerve."

When the nurses came, Jerry insisted that Ann go to bed. "I'll be up all night," he said. "I'll call you if we need you."

Back in her room she began to realize that the doctor was right about her, too. Once she sat down she felt completely exhausted.

She took off her wet clothes, shook her head over the plight of her suit. It would probably never look the same again. Then she chided herself for worrying about a suit when most of the people in Terrence House tonight had lost all their possessions.

She took a hot bath, some aspirin and laid blankets on the floor for a bed. But as she was ready to lie down she noticed a ball of fluff on top of a curtain rod. It was Matilda asleep with her head under her wing.

As Ann watched the bird awoke, cocked an eye at her and sailed down to alight on her shoulder. The cage Ann saw had been put into a corner of the room. Evidently Flora had had no luck coaxing the bird to return to it.

Well, Ann would have to put Matilda in it for the night. She couldn't fly loose in the room.

She brought the cage to the middle of the floor. It she could find that spring it would take only a moment to clean it out and Matilda would be ready to travel.

If they still intended to travel! She had no idea what her plans would be tomorrow.

She felt again behind the filigree skirt. Suddenly her eyes widened. Her fingers touched a tiny knob and when she pulled the knob she heard the click of a latch.

Then the cage fell apart before her, leaving the base entirely separate from the wire top.

The ringing of the phone interrupted her.

"I've got Jack down here," Mr. Mason's voice said. "The doctor says he's got to get to bed quickly."

Hollywood

Sights And Sounds

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD — Mikhail Rasummy was saying he didn't care about money. He was saying he didn't worry anymore. He was saying he took life as it came, pretty much, and when you hear his story you'll understand.

Three years ago Mikhail, an ingratiating Russian star, was just a half-starved Russian in New York. For five years, ever since he left a Moscow Art theater group to stay in America, he had been precariously successful in keeping body and art-loving soul together. He spoke no English, had to confine his theatrical attempts to little Russian theaters, and make his living mosly by odd jobs.

"I made $3 a day, week-ends, packing nuts in paper bags. I sometimes made one or two dollars a day, peddling lowly items of merchandise. Then a friend told me of a wonderful job—driving, $40 plus $3 an object. I was excited until I found that an 'object' was a corpse. I was to collect bodies for an undertaker." Mikhail raises his hands to heaven. "It was too much . . Peanuts, trivia, and now bodies! I decided I might as well go to Hollywood . . ."

• • •

To Hollywood he came, arriving with $18 in his pocket. He found a $4-a-week room, promptly got sick, and spent three months in a hospital. Recovered, he began the search for picture work. Once in Germany he had played tragedies for Max Reinhardt, and the impresario's son, Gottfried, was now a Metro producer. Gottfried was making "Comrade X," a comedy, but was sympathetic to Mikhail's protestations that he could play anything.

Eventually came a call from Metro. Mikhail and four others were to be inspected as possibilities for a small role. They narrowed down the choice to two—Mikhail and one other. En route to see Director King Vidor, who would have final word, Mikhail felt sorry for his rival. "I will get this part," he assured himself. Vidor picked the other man.

• • •

Mikhail was sunk. Three days later Metro called again. They needed a Rusisan type for a bit—$50 a day. He took it. Vidor and others seemed enchanted, built up his part. He earned $300.

"But I was still hurt about the other role — until they told me it had been cut from the picture."

On his $300 he went back to New York, visiting old friends who had told him he was a fool to try Hollywood. "Comrade X" made him a success. When he played the irascible mechanic in "Hold Back the Dawn," Paramount gave him a contract, and then he turned in a notable performance as Gypsy in "For Whom the Bell Tolls."

"I haven't worked since 'the Bell,' but maybe they're waiting fr another gypsy role," he philosophizes.

When an Army airplane goes from one war theater to another it is thoroughly inspected so that it does not transport germs or disease-carrying insects.

Experts Pay Tribute To New British Airplanes

By RICHARD R. KASISCHKE

LONDON, Jan. 19 (AP)—British air experts joined today in paying tribute to the Eighth air force's sensational new long-range Mustang (P-51B) fighters, which were disclosed yesterday to have destroyed or damaged 87 German planes against a loss of six in their first 15 missions.

The achievements of the improved Mustang—darling of the USAAF and nemesis of the luftwaffe—were made public at an official "unveiling" of one of the doughty little fighters in the presence of a group of correspondents.

British writers immediately labelled it "the plane to reach Berlin."

Although the new Mustangs have been operating incognito in this theater since last Dec. 1, their presence was revealed only last week after they had escorted a big formation of Flying Fortresses to Oschersleben—less than 100 miles from Berlin—in the deepest fighter penetration of Germany up to that time.

The great range of these fighters—which are expected to shepherd American heavy bombers when they launch their first great raid on the German capital itself—is made possible by auxiliary fuel tanks under the wings.

The tanks can be replaced by 500-pound bombs.

The improved Mustang, powered with Rolls Royce-Merlin engines and fueled from extra tanks, is a military secret, but its prolonged combat action in the recent great battles over Oschersleben and Brunswick indicates that it has plenty of margin. It is no secret that it can operate with precision at 35,000 feet, while its top speed is in excess of 400 miles per hour.

The official figures disclosed yesterday showed that to date the Mustangs have definitely destroyed 41 enemy planes, probably shot down 13 more and damaged 33 to establish a pronounced superiority over anything the Germans have sent up.

Fourth Term 'Draft' Begun In California

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (AP) — An unofficial fourth term "draft" movement was started here today by Culbert L. Olson, former governor of California, with a prediction that his state's convention delegates will vote solidly on the first ballot for renomination of President Roosevelt.

Olson, here to attend a meeting of the democratic national committee, told a reporter there is "no doubt" that California democrats will unite behind a slate of delegates pledged to support President Roosevelt and Vice President Wallace.

"We feel it is essential," he said, "that President Roosevelt's leadership be continued in the war and during the period of transition to the peace."

While asserting the republicans are gaining strength in California, Olson said polls indicate that "Roosevelt can carry it again."

Summers Against Special Session

Rep. Burke Summers of the 91st legislative district was on record Wednesday as calling a special session of the legislature "at this time."

He made the statement in reply to an inquiry by Rep. Joe E. Winfree, Houston, one of a group which is petitioning for a special session and which is seeking others to join in the plea to the governor.

Summers said that he felt that a session to handle the soldier vote question was "a bit premature" in that "Congress is at present jockeying with this proposition. There is wrangling as to whether or not the proposed enactment would be constitutional. Governor Stevenson says it would not be and he is right 10 times out of 10 on constitutional law."

The representative professed to detect "politics" in the move for the extra session and observed "I — ..ot a professional politician and do not know what is back of this clamor. I do not know who is beating the drum for whom. My guess is that the issue is politics first and soldier voting second."

He made an alternate proposal that "the entire salary that each member would receive during his service at this 'special session' should it be called in the immediate future, be used for the purchase of series E war bonds. If our legislators are anxious to implement our soldiers with the ballot, why not help furnish the money to implement them with materials that will hasten world-wide victory?"

have answered and each new challenge means we must tighten our belts and roll up our sleeves and dig in. Compared with the privations, the uninterrupted schedule for fighting that our men are following it is a small thing for us to empty our purses to buy bonds. We must buy them, for we must hold on to the freedom bought so dearly 165 years ago. We've got to win or die."

The Big Spring Bombardier school furnished displays of equipment so several thousand people could see during Tuesday afternoon downtown, and furnished its band for a brief concert and Sgt. Joe Kling to sing.

RAF Has Dropped More Bombs On Foe

LONDON, Jan. 19 (AP) — The Royal Air Force has dropped 400 times more bombs on Germany so for this year than the German air force has dropped on Britain, Air Minister Sir Archibald Sinclair told commons today.

From Jan. 1 through the night of Jan. 17-18, the British bomber command dumped some 6,000 (long) tons of explosives on German targets while only about 15 tons were unloaded by the enemy on Britain.

The biggest Royal Air Force raids in 1944 have been: Berlin, 1,000 tons on Jan. 1; Berlin on Jan. 2; Stettin, Jan. 5, and Brunswick, 2,000 tons, on Jan. 14. No official figures have been released on the second Berlin raid or on the bombing of Stettin, but it was estimated roughly that they were of 1,000 tons each.

Former 'Flying Tiger' Ace Is Called 'One-Man Airforce' By His Pilot-Mates

LONDON, Jan. 19 (AP) — Maj. James H. Howard of St. Louis, a former "Flying Tiger" who outfought 30 nazi fighters in a flaming half-hour over Oschersleben last Tuesday to protect a formation of Flying Fortresses, was hailed by his Mustang pilot-mates today as a "one-man airforce," but he merely said facetiously, "I just seen what looked like my duty and I done it."

The 30-year-old, six-foot-four Missourian buzz-sawed devastatingly into the swarm of nazis during one of history's greatest air battles to become America's first air-hero veteran of both the Pacific and European theaters.

His exploit rivals for sheer drama the feat of the missing Lt.-Comdr. Edward H. (Butch) O'Hare, who single-handed tackled nine Japanese dive-bombers, knocking at least six into the sea.

Although the battle was seen by the crews of the Flying Fortresses he was protecting, the identity of the lone pilot remained uncertain for a week, because of the reluctance of various Mustang pilots in claiming victories. Today, however, the U.S. Eighth Air Force command singled out Maj. Howard as the hero.

Howard was credited officially with two nazi planes destroyed, two probables and one damaged in reports compiled after the raid, but bomber crews insisted they had seen the lone American fighter shoot down six enemy aircraft.

The spectacular dogfight began just as Howard's group was leaving the target. Corkscrewing in and out of clouds and over and under bombers at 400 miles an hour, Howard burned out three of his four 50-caliber machine guns in the furious action. Not one of the bombers he was protecting was lost and his own plane was marked by only a single bullethole.

Howard said the hottest dogfight of all was with a single-engine ME-109 which he chased around in circles for five minutes before "getting him in line for a squirt."

"I was quite busy," he commented.
