Athens Gives Great Ovation To Churchill

By STEPHEN BARBER
Associated Press Staff Writer

ATHENS, Feb. 14—British Prime Minister Churchill and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden arrived in Athens by plane late today and received a stirring ovation from thousands of Athenians at a ceremony in Constitution square.

Churchill, in a short speech full of enthusiasm and optimism, told the assemblage, "these are great days. These are days when darkness rolls away and the future lies before your country.

He emphasized the long friendship between Britain and Greece and expressed hope for the unity and prosperity of the Greek people.

Announced In Advance

Special editions of Athens afternoon newspapers had carried the story that the two British statesmen were expected to visit the Greek capital and make a public appearance at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Constitution square.

The papers urged the populace to be present and a vast crowd assembled in the square two hours before Churchill and Eden arrived.

The crowd cheered as aircraft circled over the city in the cloudless spring sky, and broke into new roars later as an automobile procession brought the distinguished visitors to the square.

Churchill rode in an open car with Archbishop Damaskinos, the Greek regent, preceded by British armored cars, Lt. Gen. Gen. R. N. Scobie in his own yellow limousine and other cars carrying British and Greek officials.

Great Day For Greece

The regent, first to speak, said "This is a great day for Greece. Mr. Churchill's presence proves the interest of his mighty country for Greece. It is a happy event because it coincides with the signing of peace in Greece and the three-power conference in the Black Sea. Greeks remember warmly Mr. Churchill's first visit to bring peace to this country and therefore receive him with much joy."

"On behalf of the Greek people I want to thank him," the regent concluded. "I thank him and wish success in all his efforts. Long live Churchill. Long live Britain. Long live the United Nations."

Churchill then spoke, after prolonged cheering and cries of "Zito Churchill."

The British prime minister said, "there are great days. These are days when darkness rolls away and the future lies before your country. There has been much misunderstanding and ignorance of our common cause and misrepresentation of the issues fought out here in Athens."

"Speaking as an Englishman," Churchill continued, "I am very proud of the part the British Army played in protecting this immortal city from violence and anarchy."

Panhandle Air System Asked

FORT WORTH, Feb. 14 (AP) — The counsel of the many existing and proposed air carriers carried along in their usual competent fashion—clarifying every point—today at the Civil Aeronautics board's Texas-Oklahoma feeder airline hearing at Fort Worth.

They probed operations plans, finances and schedules of Gulf Airlines and Texas Central Airways, the latter a Braniff satellite, before Examiner Thomas L. Wrenn closed those cases—then came an abrupt change.

Young Pilot Steps Up

Wrenn called the docket number cut youth wearing lieutenant's bar of another feeder case and a clean and pilot's wings stepped up.

He introduced himself as Wayne B. Lee, appearing without counsel, in behalf of his application to establish a local air carrier system in the Panhandle.

The 20-year-old Panhandle native told of what he called the inadequate ground transportation in the area which he proposed to serve. He had also a list of 41 residents of Perryton and Ochiltree county who had promised to subscribe more than $50,000 of the $100,000 he estimated would be necessary for the operation.

"Perryton," he said, "now is served by two buses, the same is true of Spearman.

"My air line would serve the two towns with Amarillo, Liberal, Kas.; Borger and Canadian."

The Texas Central case testimony was presented by J. Ben Critz, its secretary treasurer, and B. F. McLain, its president. McLain is president and Critz is vice president and general manager of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce.

Cross examination brought from Critz that one of the reasons the corporation quit selling stock after reaching the $100,000 mark was advice from secretary of state that the corporation should obtain a stock selling certificate.

Two Convicted, Given Death Sentences As German Spies

NEW YORK, Feb. 14. (AP) — William Curtis Colepaugh, an American whom the prosecution called "a double-crossing traitor," and Erich Gimpel, his German accomplice, were convicted today as Nazis spies and sentenced to die by hanging.

Without displaying emotion, Gimpel — and then Colepaugh — stood before a seven man military commission and heard Col. Clinton J. Harrold, its president, say:

"This commission, by a secret written ballot, finds you guilty upon all three counts, and you are hereby sentenced to be hanged by the neck until dead."

The charges against them were: They violated the law of war by secretly landing behind our defense lines from a submarine; they acted as spies in violation of the 82nd article of war and they conspired to commit espionage and sabotage.

Before the sentences can be carried out they will be subject to review, first by Maj. Gen. Thomas A. Terry, commanding general of the Second Service command, and then by the board of review of the judge advocate general's office at Washington.

The trial was the second of its kind in this war. In the summer of 1942, a commission sitting in Washington convicted eight Nazi saboteurs who landed by submarine on the coasts of Long Island and Florida.

Six were electrocuted, one was sentenced to life imprisonment at hard labor and another to 30 years' imprisonment.

Unlike Colepaugh, Gimpel did not take the stand during the eight-day trial.

The evidence showed that Colepaugh and Gimpel distrusted each other and maneuvered to get control of the $60,000 given them in Germany for their two-year mission. FBI agents found $44,095 in Gimpel's briefcase and $10,574 and 99 diamonds in his pockets.

Reds Bludgeon Way On Toward Berlin

By W. W. HERCHER
Associated Press Staff writer

LONDON, Feb. 14.—The Russian First Ukraine Army seized seven German city-strongholds in Silesia today as it bludgeoned its way towards Berlin and Dresden with the aid of British and American bombers that smashed Dresden, Chemnitz and other centers ahead of the Soviet advance.

In Pomerania the First White Russian Army liquidated the holdout fortress of Schneidemuehl, 15 miles behind the lines, killing more than 7,000 Germans and capturing 5,000 after a two-weeks siege.

More Budapest Prisoners

In Budapest, which fell Tuesday, the Russians picked up another 12,700 prisoners, mostly abandoned wounded, rasing the list of captured in that one city to nearly 123,000. The final toll will be higher, as Moscow said a fragment of the garrison escaped only to be surrounded again west of the Hungarian capital.

The day's successes, announced in two orders of the day by Premier Stalin and the regular nightly Moscow communique, also credited the First Ukraine Army of Marshal Ivan S. Konev with bagging 2,100 prisoners and taking more than 200 population centers in Silesia.

Dressen lay 68 miles or less ahead of the southern arm of Konev's drive, by Russian account, while the Germans said the northern arm had reached within 71 miles of Berlin.

Bypassed Pockets

In between lay an ill-defined pocket or pockets of bypassed towns, including surrounded Glogau and the Silesian capital, Breslau, which the Germans Wednesday night said had also been encircled.

Importance of the drive through Silesia was pointed up by Russian announcement that another 200 German planes had been captured, making 545 in two days.

Up ahead to the west the Russians could see in the skies the red glare of fires set in Dresden by 4,000 tons of British and American bombs, apparently the first fruits of the Crimea conference. Chemnitz, 34 miles farther west, also was hard hit.

Konev's men held the spotlight, however, Moscow news dispatches said they had crossed the Queis river defense line in their drive towards Dresden while the Swiss radio quoted German accounts as saying the northern wing had reached Sommerfeld, only 71 miles southeast of Berlin. The German DNB agency itself broadcast that Konev had broken into Sorau, 84 miles southeast of Berlin.

By Russian official account Konev's nearest approach to Berlin was 84 miles, with capture of Freystadt, 75 miles northwest of besieged Breslau.

A Moscow news analyst, Nikolai Akimov, declared that Konev's drive was of such great importance that "it is difficult as yet to foresee all its consequences." He predicted that the Germans would have to throw in "several dozen" more divisions to fill Konev's 100-mile gap in their defenses and that

San Antonio Man Is Killed From Ambush

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 14. (AP) — Hersel H. Gray, who was tried here in 1940 on a gaming charge during which he testified to a payoff, was shot to death early today in what Detective Chief Duke Carver termed an ambush killing.

Gray, assessed two years in the penitentiary which never were served when a new trial was granted, was slain when he drove up to the garage at his home.

Mrs. Gray told officers she heard the car enter the driveway, the door slam and then three shots in rapid succession.

The first charge of buckshot sprayed the car, the second apparently hit Gray in the arm and the third tore into his chest and side.

Gray was tried on an indictment charging operating a policy and his testimony was that he "paid off" various city employees and officers in an effort to prevent prosecution on the gaming charge. After the new trial was granted the case never was again brought to trial.

Grandiose Peace Parley Indicated

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14. (AP)—Indications mounted today that the Big Three have definitely decided to hold a grandiose general peace conference when all the fighting is done.

This represents a change from earlier official views, especially among American authorities, that World war II would wind up with a series of piecemeal settlements unlike the long, formal peace of Paris and Versailles.

Doubtless, the conference will await the defeat of Japan. Officials hope that an international security organization will be set up by then.

Refer To Such Session

Stalin, Roosevelt and Churchill referred to a peace conference in their communique on Poland. They said the extent of German territory awarded Poland would be reviewed at such a meeting.

War Mobilizer James F. Byrnes, giving a first hand report on the Big Three meeting, said "it is to be expected that there will be a peace conference."

The grand parley is bound to be different from Versailles, however. The League of Nations covenant was included in the treaty signed there, which made peace with Germany.

This time, the Dumbarton Oaks charter is expected to be a separate treaty and probably will come before the Senate for ratification before the map-making past is even written.

Actual peace with Germany may not be signed for many years.

Submarines Sink 31 More Ships As Total Hits 1,020

MANILA, Thursday, Feb. 15 (AP)—Fighting for each street intersection, American infantrymen pushed forward inexorably with caution Wednesday toward the south Manila bay front while enraged Japanese killed civilians in cold blood and dynamited and fired sections of the city so well known to tourists.

The enemy demolition fires blackened the skies as the Yanks tightened a circle on doomed Nipponese weakened but still fighting in on area between the Pasig river mouth and the bay front.

Explosions and flames swept over the bayside stretch from the port area south to the Pasay residential sector.

Trap On Remnants Gradually Tightens

By RAY CRONIN
Associated Press War Editor

GRADUAL tightening of the American trap around the badly battered remnants of Japan's Manila garrison was reported by Gen. Douglas MacArthur late Wednesday. Slowly but surely the Yanks were closing in for the finale of the bloody battle for the war-scarred metropolis.

Doughboys of the U. S. 11th corps reached an historic spot on Bataan peninsula. After clearing the zigzag trail at the base of the famous battle area of 1942, the Yanks shoved southward 11 miles on the peninsula to reach the town of Abucay, on the Manila bay shore. The town was the eastern anchor of the initial American-Filipino defense line on Bataan three years ago—a line that the Japanese broke only after more than three months of bitter fighting.

Nips Fight Savagely

Associated Press dispatches from Manila said the Nipponese were fighting savagely in the Taft avenue residential area but American infantrymen were backing them slowly toward the ancient walled city and the pier section on Manila bay.

Tanks were thrown into the Bataan fight. It was tough going in that sector with the Japanese holed up in pillboxes, caves and trenches.

Corregidor, guarding the mouth of Manila bay, was hammered by bombers with 107 tons of explosives. Other American fliers swept the Bataan east coast sinking 24 additional Japanese supply barges.

In the Zambales foothills, northwest of Bataan, and in the Caraballo mountains far to the northeast, the Yanks inflicted heavy losses on the enemy and seized great quantities of supplies and equipment.

Tokyo Bleats of Peace

Radio Tokyo blared on the subject of peace Wednesday as American ground, air and noval forces in the western pacific continued to hammer home telling blows.

Stimson, Patterson Urge Nurse Draft

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14 (AP) — The Army turned on its heaviest persuasive powers today in a drive for prompt enactment of legislation to draft women nurses for military service.

Secretary of War Stimson, by letter, and Undersecretary Robert P. Patterson, in fighting person, hammered before the House Military committee the urgency of a draft law at once.

Patterson, a surprise witness as the committee neared the end of public hearings, tossed at the group new casualty figures showing 400,000 soldiers wounded and needing nursing care.

And then, apparently suspecting committee apathy toward the legislation requested by President Roosevelt on January 6, he asserted bluntly:

"Gentlemen, we pledged, when we declared war, our entire resources. We inducted millions of men and sent them overseas. We called on them to face the hardest ordeals and they are entitled to the best nursing care."

8,000 Planes Hit All Parts Of Naziland

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Thursday, Feb. 15. — Reports from Stockholm said a Berlin air raid alarm interrupted telephone communication between the Nazi capital and Scandinavia last night and the German radio warning system indicated that Allied bombers were over three sections of the Reich.

The night attacks would carry the air campaign into a second consecutive day. In the 24-hour period which ended last night, approximately 8,000 planes, of which more than 3,000 were heavy bombers, spread destruction throughout Germany.

Ten Big Centers Pounded

They blasted at least 10 industrial centers and delivered a tremendous blow to Dresden, eastern gateway to the heart of beleaguered Nazidom, which the German "achtung" warning system indicated was under attack again last night.

The warnings broadcast through Germany said one Allied bomber formation was over Saxony, of which Dresden is the capital; one was over Brandenburg, the province which includes Berlin, and a third over Heligoland heading for northwestern German and Schleswig-Holstein.

Principal Targets

Yesterday's round-the-clock aerial bombardment, one of the greatest of the war, was aimed at the vital communications and fuel targets of Dresden, Chemnitz, Magdeburg and Bohlen — all south of Berlin and within 200 miles of the Nazi capital — and at Nuernberg, Bonn, Dortmund and Vienna and Maribor in Yugoslavia.

The tactical airforces based on the continent also had a big day, striking at enemy emplacements and formations along the Western front.

Bomber formation losses from these operations had not been announced last night, but the tactical airforces reported loss of 23 planes, most of them downed by anti-aircraft fire.

In Support Of Reds

The Dresdent attack was in direct and coordinated support of Russian troops advancing westward through Silesia.

In a 12-hour period some 4,000 tons of explosives were rained on Dresden by American and British planes. It was suggested unofficially in London that Air Marshal Sir Charles Portal, British air staff chief who returned from Yalta yesterday, brought instructions from the Big Three to step up other blows in support of the Red armies whenver possible.

Dresden was caught in a tornado of explosives as a force of 2,250 U. S. heavy bombers and fighters ranged over Germany in widespread raids, delivering their main attack on this refugee-packed capital of Saxony.

RAF Out During Night

The American air strikes came in the wake of blows by 1,400 RAF bombers during the night. Of these, 800 bombed Dresden twice in attacks three hours apart. The British dumped perhaps 2,200 tons of bombs on the city, and it still was burning when American planes arrived later in the day.

The bombers got visual runs over targets at Dresden, but clouds covered Chemnitz and Magdeburg. Early reports indicated that there was no German air force opposition, permitting most of the 900 escorting Mustangs and Thunderbolts to make far-flung strafing sweeps.

Dresden, with a prewar population of 640,000, now is of vital importance to the German defense system against the Russians. Road and rail lines to eastern and southern Germany, Berlin, Prague, Vienna, Breslau and Leipzig run though Dresden.

Donald Nelson Weds Once-Beauty Queen

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14 (AP) — Donald M. Nelson, 56, former War Production board chairman, was married tonight to Marguerite S. Coulbourn, 26-year-old former campus beauty queen, by Justice Thurman Arnold.

Nelson, now special representative of President Roosevelt on international economic affairs, had applied for a marriage license several days ago.

Nelson was divorced about five weeks ago in Chicago. Miss Coulbourn's first husband, Paul Strashun of New York, died several years ago.

Planes Batter Nazis; Resistance Slackens

ROER DAMS IN PATH OF ALLIES—Map shows location of the five principal dams that control the water level of the Roer river, some of which have been breached by the Nazis to temporarily stall the American First and Ninth and British Second armies in their drive for the Cologne plain. The dams impounded 160,000,000 metric tons of water, only partially released by the Germans, and one dam, the Schwammenauel, largest of the series, is in control of American troops. This dam, of reinforced earth, is 180 feet high, 1,080 feet long and 375 feet thick, and held over 100,000,000 tons of water.

Canadians Beat Off Counterblows And Drive Ahead

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, Feb. 14—While almost 8,000 Allied warplanes battered German installations from the Siegfried line to the Russian front today, British and Canadian forces lunged nearer Hitler's industrially vital Ruhr valley against resistance that began to slacken after a week of steady pressure.

The Canadians advanced all along the front of their powerful wedge which is inflexibly turning the flank of German divisions holding the northern end of the Siegfried line and the Rhine plain.

They pushed to points northeast of Kleve, four miles southwest of Kleve, cleared the Kleve forest three miles north of Goch and established a second bridgehead over the Niers river, west of Kessel.

Counterblows Repulsed

The German command hurled at least four counterattacks against the Canadian units driving eastward, but they were officially described as generally lighter than previous counterthrusts and all were repulsed, some with the air of Allied planes.

Allied vanguards, muddy and tired from their terrific effort of the past week, stood and cheered as wave upon wave of fighters and fighter bombers tore into the attacking Nazis and magnificently aimed artillery sent sheets of steel through the enemy's ranks.

For once the weather was against the Germans. Brilliant, springlike sunshine flooded the battle zone as the enemy launched his counterattacks, enabling Allied planes to take to the air in the greatest numbers since the Canadians opened their push west of Kleve last week.

One Allied column was fighting forward within a mile and a half of the heavily-fortified road center of Goch, eight miles south of Kleve.

As a result of these advances

Nazis Urged To Ditch Scruples

LONDON, Feb. 14. (AP) — Nazi propagandists exhorted the German people today to "cast overboard our last scruples" and to "kill, murder and poison" their enemies.

Charging that the Crimean declaration expressed the Allies' aim "not only to cut off Germany's head and limbs, but to exterminate us," German radio commentator Joseph Saal advocated "our last scruples must be cast overboard and all-out fanatical resistance must be the laconic reply to the pact of our enemies."

Blessed From Scruples

The exhortation to murder came from Paul Schmidt, German foreign office spokesman, as quoted by the Stockholm newspaper, Svenska Dagbladetsn in a dispatch from its Berlin correspondent.

Schmidt, the dispatch said, also contended at a press conference that the Big Three declaration released Germany "from all moral scruples."

As the propagandists fanned the hate campaign, there were increased reports of troubles within the refugee -ridden Reich.

The Nazi government acknowledged the food situation had deteriorated, making new demands upon farmers.

The Moscow radio reported food riots in Berlin with "armed patrols guarding food stores."

Soldier Confesses "Burial" Of Wife

COLUMBIA, S. C., Feb. 14 (AP) Sheriff T. Alex Heise said tonight that Lt. S. C. Epes had signed a statement that he buried the body of his wife, Mrs. Mary Lee Epes, 26, at a lonely spot off the Leesburg road 12 miles from Columbia at about 2 a. m. last January 29.

The sheriff did not make public how the young woman met her death, but that she was dead when taken from the Epes apartment. Heise said Lt. Epes would be placed in Richland county jail as soon as he could be removed from the hospital at Fort Jackson, where the young Army officer was stationed.

Attempted Suicide

Fort Jackson authorities announced earlier tonight that Epes had attempted to commit suicide by slashing his wrists and throat with a razor blade last Monday, two weeks after his wife, an attractive auburn-haired former Jacksonville, Fla., school teacher, disappeared.

Epes had told Columbia Detective Chief S. S. Shorter shortly after he had reported his wife's disappearance that he left his wife in the city's business district and that she planned to breakfast and then spend the day shopping.

The sheriff said Mrs. Epes' body was removed from the Epes apartment on Sims avenue Sunday night or early Monday morning, Jan. 29.

Led Officers To Spot

Heise said Epes himself led officers to the spot where he had buried his wife, traveling in a hospital ambulance. He led them to the point where the Leesburg road and the road from Fort Jackson join and remarked that the body was "exactly nine tenth of a mile" from the juncture, Sheriff Heise explained.

The sheriff said Epes told the officers that he had returned to the burial place four nights after interring his wife in a shallow "fox hole" grave and had placed a discarded Fort Jackson sign at the site. The sign, reading "latrine closed," was still in place when the officers arrived at the scene.

War Contracts Taken From Brooklyn Firm

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14 (AP) — The Office of Economic Stabilization tonight ordered the cancellation of all war contracts and priority privileges of the E. A. Laboratories, inc., of Brooklyn, N. Y., for alleged failure to obey a War Labor board order.

The action was the first use of the drastic executive sanctions by which companies accused of violating WLB rulings may be squeezed virtually out of business.

The E. A. Laboratories, where work halted because of a strike September 22, formerly employed 560 persons.

"Long-Winded" Subs Claim Eight Vessels

LONDON, Feb. 14 (AP)—The German communique said today that U-boats equipped with air masts had sunk eight ships totaling 51,000 tons in waters near the British coast and on "the seven seas."

President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill announced several months ago that the Germans were fitting their submarines with an air intake like a periscope which permitted the U-boats to remain submerged for longer periods.

Meador's Condition Is Reported Worse

Condition of W. H. Meador, 77, long-time Lubbock resident and former county tax assessor, who has been ill for several weeks, was reported as "very serious" early today.

The pioneer's condition turned for the worse early Wednesday morning and he remained in a coma all day.

He is at his home, 1631 Main.

As Meador grew progressively weaker, his 16-year-old grandson, Fred Hulver Schmidt of Slaton, was injured in a traffic accident yesterday afternoon at the edge of the Slaton business district. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schmidt of Slaton, the youth suffered a concussion as the result of a colision between his light delivery truck and a heavy truck. He is in Mercy hospital in Slaton.

FDR May Visit Pope, Appease De Gaulle In France During Current Tour Abroad

By EDWARD KENNEDY
And JOSEPH DYNAN
Associated Press Staff Writers

PARIS, Feb. 14—President Roosevelt is expected to visit Italy and call on Pope Pius, and perhaps come to France during his current visit abroad, it was reported reliably today.

Judge Samuel I. Rosenman, a special adviser to the President, left by a special plane today for Italy and was expected to confer with his chief there.

It is quite conceivable that after a stay in Italy the President will come to France, where arrangements to receive him have been made both by the French government and by Allied supreme headquarters.

High-ranking administration officials and army officers have been summoned to be prepared to meet the President. Judging from this, the President may intend to make inquiry into the problem of the relief of the French civilian population.

One of the war's greatest scandals may come out in this connection if Mr. Roosevelt visits France.

He is expected to take advantage of his sojourn to persuade General de Gaaulle to forget the blow to France's pride in her exclusion from the Yalta meeting of the Big Three. The President could depict all the benefits for France in wholehearted, enthusiastic cooperation within the proposed United Nations organization.

All arrangements of the President's tour are subject to change. While there are no indications that the President is ill, there is no doubt that the Crimea conference has been a hard strain on him and that some of his aides are worried about his physical condition.

Meanwhile, both French and American authorities here are standing by for news from Italy, where Mr. Roosevelt is reported preparing to receive a group of White House correspondents flown from Washington for a press conference on the Big Three meeting.

(This reference apparently was to certain White House reporters, including an Associated Press representative. There has been no Washington announcement of their trip pending formal clearance from abroad.)

Army Sharply Boosts Production Goals On Certain Type Equipment

By STERLING F. GREEN
Associate Pdress Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14—The war is traveling at such a fast pace, the Army said today, that production goals of only a month ago are too low now.

The War department and the War Production board in separate actions called for pumped up output with the emphasis on a new, secret fighter plane, heavy bombers, trucks and engine parts.

The Army's 1945 procurement schedule was raised by $1,600,000,000 over the amounts fixed in January. Now the total for the year is to be $37,800,000,000, or 18.9 per cent above 1944 deliveries. Undersecretary Robert P. Patterson said it means a heavy load on American industry and labor.

Munitions And Tanks

Besides air force increases, ground troops need more ammunition, heavy artillery, and tanks, they are booked to get 21.9 per cent more than last year. The schedule for tanks calls for 70 per cent more than 1944.

WPB acted on the engine part situation in response to a plea by the joint chiefs of staff that there is a "critical emergency." It has undertaken an overhaul and $50,000,000 expansion of the engine parts industry.

In many cases the Army has ordered complete new trucks because of inability to get replacements. This practice contributed to the 20 per cent increase in the production goal for heavy trucks in 1945.

As a quick remedy, WPB has installed three-man panels — a WPB executive with Army and Navy assistants—in each of the seven major engine plants. They hold overriding priority power to divert each plant's deliveries to any combat zone where emergencies develop.

Going farther back to the roots of the shortage, WPB now is installing its own men in 36 plants making pumps, bearings, carburetors and other parts whose scarcity has hampered engine output.

Landing operations in the Pacific have been endangered by the shortage of parts for cranes, bulldozers and other equipment, it was reported by Lt. Col. Thomas Riley of the Marine corps, who was sent to Washington from the Philippines to solicit aid.

Causes of Shortage

Some of the causes given by Hatfield for the shortage:

Too few spares have been sent out along with the original equipment.

Use of internal combustion engines has soared. For the first time the Navy now generates more horsepower with internal combustion than with steam.

After three years of war, vehicles are wearing out.

The industry just isn't big enough to meet the huge wartime demand.

Change In Naming Of Regents Suggested

AUSTIN, Feb. 14 (U.P.)—Appointment of University of Texas regents by the State Supreme court is suggested today in a pocket-size magazine being distributed in the House of Representatives.

The change from appointments by the governor is advocated in an article by Mrs. Minnie Fisher Cunningham, New Waverley, in "The Emancipator," published in San Antonio. Mrs. Cunningham was an unsuccessful candidate for governor, and heads a women's organization seeking reinstatement of Dr. Homer P. Rainey as university president.

Mrs. Cunningham's article also advocates a restriction that not more than two regents at one time shall be from the same profession, occupation or group.

She calls for increasing the present nine-member board to 15 members, of whom would be women. Some terms would expire annually, instead of on the present two-year basis.

Mrs. Cunningham also wants the constitution changed to require one regent to be from a commercial group, one from labor, one from manufacturing or mining, another from agriculture and another from the "learned professions."

The present law governing appointments or regents should be abolished and all appointments under it be annulled, Mrs. Cunningham says.

Texas Club Boy, Calf Take First Plane Ride

ADA, Okla., Feb. 14 (AP) — A purebred polled Hereford calf and a 16-year-old Seguin, Tex., farm boy, Reno L. Lehmann, took their first airplane ride today.

The 175-pound calf was a gift to the boy from J. W. English, Ada rancher, who decided to make the presentation because he admired the Seguin 4-H club member's sportsmanship at the Houston, Tex., fat stock show.

Piloted by English, the plane took off on the two-hour trip to the Seguin airport shortly after 1 p. m. The calf, its legs tied with rope, sat on the floor beside the boy with its head in his lap.

The youth placed second in the scrambled calf division at the Houston show. But he received no calf as an award, as did the first place winner. English said he decided Lehmann, "being right up there trying so hard, should have one, too."

AUSTIN, Feb. 14. (U.P.) — Rep. Harry Davis, Boerne, today said he would introduce in the Texas House this week a constitutional amendment to allow the state to pay World War II veterans a bonus of $200 each.

Davis said one draft of the proposal already has been drawn, but a substitute is now being prepared for introduction possibly Thursday or Friday, if the House then is in session.

He estimated it would require outlay of about $200,000,000. He said funds could be raised by an omnibus tax law.

Morgenthau Would Keep Tax High And Postwar Interest Rates Low

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14. (U.P.)—Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau jr., today told Congress that a strong postwar tax system must be maintained "at a rate far higher than prewar expenditures." The public debt, he added, must be reduced as rapidly as possible.

Morgenthau proposed these policies in his report to Congress on the fiscal year 1944, which ended last June 30. And for the first time, he went on record as favoring postwar tax reductions to encourage expansion of private enterprise.

Necessary To Economy

"Such measures are essential to the realization of full employment in a peacetime economy of free enterprise and competition," he said.

He added that "little if any" tax reduction could be expected until major hostilities cease. Premature tax relaxation, he said, might tend to defeat the aims of the stabilization program. The treasury is working with a joint committee from Congress on matters of postwar tax politices.

He assured Congress that there was no question of the ability of the country to pay off its huge public debt.

Morgenthau poured cold water on reports in financial centers that the government was about to offer higher interest rates on its securities offerings.

Must Keep Rates Low

"Continued low interest rates," he said, "will be a major contribution to economic stability and the maintenance of full employment after the war, for low interest rates stimulate business and encourage new enterprise."

The interest rate on the public debt as of June 30 last year averaged 1.93 per cent, Morgenthau said.

Touching on the Bretton Woods monetary and fiscal agreements, he declared that ecenomic cooperation will facilitate the revival and growth of world trade. To achieve these goals, he added, world cooperation with the proposed international stabilization fund and bank is essential.

Receipts Short Of Expenses

Total treasury receipts during fiscal 1944 were $45,400,000,000, or five and one half times those of 1941, Morgenthau said. Nevertehless, he added, they met less than half of the war's costs in the same 12 months.

He said he does not expect individuals to cash in their war bonds on a large scale when the war is over. But he predicted high spending from income, based on security afforded by their savings in government securities.

"The distribution of savings bonds among many individuals in the relatively low income groups will enhance the contribution of such spending to the maintenance of economic stability," he said.

Juniors Add $500 To Fund For Children

Junior Red Cross members contributed $500 to the National Children's fund this month, according to Mrs. J. H. Stiles, Red Cross secretary.

The money, mailed to the National Junior Red Cross headquarters, will be added to the special and restricted account the American Junior Red Cross maintains for national contributions from boys and girls. From this fund, generous amounts have been appropriated for relief of children in war zones of England, Russia, China, Greece, France, Iceland, Poland, Finland, and Italy. War nurseries and convalescent homes for children under five living in bombed areas were established and equipped under the direction of ministries of health and Red Cross organizations.

Surgical, medical and hospital supplies are included in all shipments to these innocent victims of war and recently special movie film and simple educational supplies, long denied the children, have been shipped. "Such gestures do much to create a spirit of world cooperation which will be so essential to a lasting peace," Mrs. Stiles said.

Baby Flattop And Minesweeper Lost In Leyte Campaign

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14 (AP) — The Ommaney Bay, one of the intrepid "baby flattops" which defied a Japanese battleship force and saved the Leyte beachhead last October, has been sunk.

A rookie in the Pacific fleet, the escort aircraft carrier since last June had tallied this imposing record against the Japanese:

A heavy cruiser and a troop transport sunk, four cruisers and four destroyers damaged, three battleships probably damaged, 16 planes shot down, other planes destroyed on the ground, troops wiped out with bombs, ground installations smashed.

Was In Three Invasions

She fought through three invasions—Palau, Leyte and Mindoro.

In the Philippines area, the Navy announced, she was sunk by enemy action. The minesweeper Long also was lost. The number of casualties was not disclosed; their next of kin have been notified. Both commanders were saved.

The Ommaney Bay was the 10th U. S. aircraft carrier and the fifth of the "baby flattop" class sunk in this war. The losses hiked the total of warships sunk to 209.

The carrier would have a normal complement of 500 officers and men, a Navy officer said, and the minesweeper about 120 personnel.

Hadn't Lost a Pilot

Up until her final action, the Ommaney Bay and her air complement wrought heavy destruction on enemy forces without the loss in combat of a single pilot or aircrewman the Navy said. She fought through three invasions, Palau, Leyte and Mindoro, and the battle of Leyte.

The ship and her air complement, known as composite squadron 75, spent 12 days helping the Palau attack last September, at one stage catching a heavy concentration of enemy troops with 10 accurate bomb hits.

Turret Gunner Wounded

Coy W. McClendon, aviation ordmanceman 1/c, Richland, Tex., turret gunner, was wounded on the arms and legs as he sprayed the Japanese with his 50-calibre gun. McClendon was not seriously injured and was back at his gun in the next fleet action.

In the Leyte fleet battle Oct. 24, the carrier and her airmen fought two Japanese forces. The first fight came when a force of planes was launched to hunt down the fleeing Japanese fleet.

Lt. Comdr. Allen W. Smith, Atlanta, Ga., and Jacksonville, Fla., commanding composite 75, led the attack in an Avenger. They found a Mogami class heavy cruiser.

Cruiser Was Damaged

The Japanese cruiser was not sunk but was damaged.

Meantime, another enemy fleet was menacing The Bay and her sister escort carriers. She launched four torpedo bombers as the Japanese battleships approached. One hit a cruiser.

In the second fight, Smith led a group against a fleeing heavy cruiser and sunk it. It was finally found through efforts of Smith's crewman, Arnold R. Zubik, aviation radioman, 2/c, Richmond, Tex.

As a result of the feat, Zubik, previously awarded the Navy and Marine Corps medal for rescuing a pilot from a burning airplane, was sent on to flight school, to become a commissioned officer and aviator.

Snowfall In Houston 50 Years Ago Recalled

HOUSTON, Feb. 14 (AP)—While Houstonians today wore light clothes and enjoyed balmy temperatures, old-timers of the city recalled the chilling temperature and recorded snow which fell here exactly 50 years ago on St. Valentine day.

While records at the local weather bureau were somewhat vague on the subject, Col. James S. Burk, 77, U.S.A., retired, said he was a surveyor and a recent comer to Houston 50 years ago and he definitely recalled that snow was 24 to 30 inches deep on February 14 between Houston and Galveston.

The local weather records for 1895 have a simple pencil notation, "snow in February 20 inches" but does not give the date.

Records, however, do show that on February 14 the low for that day was 25 and the maximum 28, and there was a minimum of 25 for the two following days. The "precipitation" on that day was 1.90 inches, and E. A. Farrell, in charge of the local weather bureau, said that "precipitation" might have meant snowfall.

Commandant of Naval Station At Norman To Be Transferred

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14. (U.P.)—Sen. Elmer Thomas, D., Okla., said today under Secretary of the Navy Ralph A. Bard had advised him that Capt. V. C. Griffin, commandant of the Naval station at Norman, Okla., would be transferred to a new command about March 15.

Griffin, Thomas said, had irritated Norman citizens by what they felt was his excessive activity in community affairs. Thomas said Griffin had opposed a bond issue for water improvements and had initiated a Naval investigation of rent ceiling violations.

In his letter to Thomas, Bard said a naval invetsigator general had found Griffin's activities "proper" in both these instances and that the officer was merely trying "to protect the interests of his command as well as those of the federal government." However, Bard added, the inspector admitted that Griffin "has not always displayed the maximum amount of tact and diplomacy."

Bard wrote Thomas that he had been 'advised" that Griffin's tour of duty at Norman ends "on or about March 15."

If you feel "washed out," here's a tip:

EAT IRON-RICH ALL-BRAN TO HELP MAINTAIN BLOOD'S IRON LEVEL

One-ounce dish of Kellogg's All-Bran gives over ⅓ of your daily minimum iron needs

LOTS OF FOLKS who sometimes feel under par may not be getting enough iron. This vital mineral is constantly needed to help make good red blood—to replace the blood normally "worn out" in the process of living.

The best place to get iron is in foods. But not many foods are rich in available iron. In fact, it is not easy to get an abundance of this important mineral in the ordinary diet. Your iron intake can vary greatly from day to day.

Fortunately, there is an everyday cereal that is a rich, inexpensive source of readily assimilable iron. It's ALL-BRAN, made by the Kellogg folks of Battle Creek. Ounce for ounce, this famous cereal gives you 50% more iron than calves' liver.

In addition to iron-richness, this toasty, nut-brown cereal is an important source of calcium, phosphorus and essential vitamins. That's because ALL-BRAN is made from the vital outer layers of finest wheat.

KELLOGG'S All-Bran is made from the VITAL OUTER LAYERS of finest wheat

You know that Nature makes a habit of storing the larger share of protective food elements in the skin of the potato and the peel of the apple. Into the vital outer layers of wheat, too, Nature packs some of the grain's most important nutrients. ALL-BRAN is made of these vital outer layers, and is more abundant in many food elements than whole wheat itself.

America's Famous Regulating Cereal

Besides being a storehouse of iron and other important food elements, delicious KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is a great natural regulating cereal. Millions of people eat it regularly. Just a one-ounce serving eaten daily is usually adequate for satisfactory laxation. ALL-BRAN, which is triple-milled for golden softness, does not interfere with the process of normal digestion.

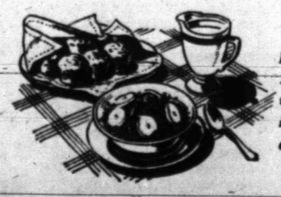

Be sure your family gets adequate amounts of iron and other important food elements. Serve KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN regularly, starting today.

How many blood donors in your family?

Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Clarke, 651 E. 90th Street, Chicago, Ill., have each donated 16 pints of blood. They have been donating regularly since Pearl Harbor. Such patriotic men and women, everywhere, can tell you that anyone in good health can give blood. The fluid part of the blood is restored in a few hours. Maintaining the body's proper iron level helps to replenish your good red blood.

The Woman's Angle
By Margaret Turner

YOU may have overlooked a little story in Wednesday morning's paper that seemed important to the writer. It was concerned Rep. George H. Mahon's proposal that the people of the United States should be given an opportunity to study and discuss the Dumbarton Oaks proposals for world peace. Mr. Mahon said he doubts there are more than 100,000 Americans who are acquainted with the document.

About all the Woman's Angle got out of the sketchy stories she read about the conference was that world peace in the future is to be kept with an international organization. We've one as much confused thirking on that subject as any other matter, with the exception of varying draft statuses. We know this much about it; America is going to have to shoulder a great responsibility for lasting peace and many thinking Americans want the issues explained to them and want to know what is expected of them after the war is over.

YOU don't have to go outside of the city limits to find fathers and mothers who are terribly unhappy as they look at the world picture at present and remember their sons and their friends' sons already have given their lives for the cause. We talk about a world organization but we remember the League of Nations was a failure. Who is going to make and enforce the international laws we talk about as being necessary to keep men walking the ways of peace instead of flying at one another's throats?

Yes, Mr. Mahon, a discussion of the proposals as set forth at Dumbarton Oaks conference will clarify our thinking and help us to see the part Americans are to play.

ON BATHING

THE paragraphs on how to draw a bath caused quite a bit of merriment it seems. One interested friend wanted to know what kind of "oil" we poured in the water. Well, my friend, it's bath oil, pine-scented and it softens the water and helps to do away with the flaky condition this good old South Plains water is likely to leave on your fair skin, if you use it as it comes from the faucet.

One woman read the column aloud to her husband, hoping he would take the hint and stop turning the hot water in until the tank is emptied and then being forced to prolong the time of taking his bath, because he cannot run in enough cold water to cool it.

WOMEN WORKERS

Lubbock women attending the lecture on the legal and economic status of women at St. John's Methodist church last Saturday afternoon were pleased, no doubt to hear Judge Sarah T. Hughes of Dallas say women have made good on the job. But she said some other things, too.

For instance the pert, intelligent little woman said some women have failed in one factor since entering the business world because they haven't taken the responsibility that goes with their jobs. Taking a job to many women meant a stop gap between cetrain phases in their lives; such as when their husbands came back after serving overseas' missions, or until they married or until they found a better job.

The Woman's Angle is as proud as anyone that women have taken jobs and have carcarried them out satisfactorily, but think it should be pointeded out that while some women have refused to take responsibility in their work, others have taken too much. We are thinking of many horrible examples we have heard of snappishness from behind ticket windows, information desks, store counters and from waitresses.

IF WE were an employer we'd do the work alone if it meant that or hiring employees who chew gum and snap it in customers' faces with a sound about as loud as that clapping they do when the crowd sings "Deep in the Heart of Texas."

We'd fire a waitress who waited on a table with one hand while in the other she carried a cigarette.

We'd instantly dismiss the worker who asked "You knew there was a war going on, didn't you?"

We'd tell our employees that we were nonpartisan if it meant that one of them became embroiled in a lengthy argument because someone else didn't see eye to eye with her politically. And yet we have experienced or have seen all of these things worked in Lubbock.

The morning after the election last November we saw a young woman hold up a line that had queued almost to the door while she literally fought with a man who teased her because her candidate had lost. She actually beat her fists on the counter and he looked sorry and also an expression of "wouldn't you know you couldn't joke with a woman?" was on his face.

A friend was told by her maid a favorite brand of chewing gum was on a counter in a downtown store and she dropped by a short time later and asked about it. However, she had to wait a while because the clerk was chatting gaily with a soldier, although he had made a purchase and appeared anxious to leave.

To her innocent question of "Do you have any So-and-So gum?" our friend was told rudely, "Look on the counter you don't see it there, do you?" She said she has had enough similar experiences to find herself fighting a desire to fling up her hands as if to ward off a blow when it becomes necessary to go in certain stores.

Of course there are uncouth, discourteous men serving the public, also, and of course there are perfectly charming women.

We think women are too prone to think about little details and become fussy with that concern. Most of the time that a man finds himself "fenced in" so to speak, he cracks a joke to relieve the tension, while a woman is apt to take it out on her next customer.

House Refuses To Engross Bill To Exempt Pensioners From State Tax

AUSTIN Feb. 14. (U.P.) — The Texas House of Representatives today refused to pass to engrossment a constitutional amendment calling for exemption of old age pensioners from ad valorem tax payments.

The votes, 56 ayes to 75 noes, for all practical purposes killed the proposal as 100 votes must be cast for an amendment before it can be submitted for popular vote.

Measure Is Opposed

Rep. F. G. Swanson, Tyler, said the proposal would give special privileges and "add to the intricacies of political juggling." He said taxation should be uniform.

"I'm against submitting what is nonsense instead of common sense," Swanson said.

The House electric voting machine was first tested for defects before the vote was taken. After another check, Rep. Sam Hanna, Dallas, observed:

"This is the first time one of those pension bills failed to pass and it broke the machine down."

Schoch Report Sited

Rep. S. J. Isaaks, El Paso, speaking on personal privilege called legislators' attention to a study of Texas' natural gas by Dr. E. P. Schoch, University of Texas research chemist.

The Schoch report showed, Isaacks said, that Texas produces more than twice as much gas as other states, yet Texans have to pay higher prices for its use. The other states, he said, get Texas gas for lesser rates.

Would Cut Down Rates

Rep. Marvin B. Simpson, jr., Fort Worth, asked Isaacks if he thought passage of a bill requiring utilities to maintain Texas offices, have directors reside in Texas and keep their books within the state would cut down the higher rates. Simpson is author of such a bill.

"Unquestionably it would," Isaacks said.

The House finally passed and sent to the Senate a bill appropriating $13,255 for A. & M. college to carry on cotton wilt research at Ysleta until Aug. 31.

Also finally passed by the House was a Senate bill appropriating $16,502 for the state service officer's division in the adjutant generals department, and a bill allocating $14,000 as an emergency for the department of education.

Hearing Is Postponed

A hearing by the Senate nominations committee on re-appointment of State Adj. Gen. Arthur Knickerbrocker was postponed from today until Monday.

An executive session of the Senate was ordered for 11:30 a. m. tomorrow to act an confirmation of nominees already approved by the committee. Passed by the Senate and sent to the House was a bill to require peace officers to make true reports of seized li-

U. S. Attorney Seeks To Guide Future Of Wayward Boy

DALLAS, Feb. 14. (AP)—A nine-year-old boy who admitted robbing a safe of $206 will have a home with the United States district attorney if arrangements can be made so I can obtain legal custody of him," Eastus declared. "His mother has been divorced from his father for many years. She works downtown from 9:30 at night until 7 a. m. and therefore can't keep an eye on him."

The boy was arrested by post office inspectors yesterday while attempting to escape from the runway at the terminal annex with two stolen parcels.

Eastus said the boy didn't know right from wrong "until I talked to him." "He tells me he wants to go home with me tonight and get down on his knees and pray. He's a brilliant kid. I want him and he's smart enough to be president some day."

Suspension Is Voted For College Weekly

WILLIAMSBURG, Va., Feb. 14. (AP) — Students of William and Mary college voted today to suspend publication of the college weekly after President John E. Pomfret announced there would be faculty supervision of the paper and termination of the editorial services of the student who wrote that the time would come when negroes should attend the college and "mary among us."

The student body by a standing vote decided to cease publication of the weekly, "the Flat Hat," rather than have the paper "subject to advisory supervision" by a faculty committee.

William L. Willims, of Norfolk, president of the student body, read to the students a letter from a minority faculty group. This group stated its opposition to supervision of the publication and expressed the belief that the subject of race relations was a proper one for discussion by students through their paper. Names of the minority group were not disclosed.

Appeals Court Halts Houston Loan Suits

AUSTIN, Feb. 14. (AP) — The Third Court of Civil appeals today granted a writ of prohibition to halt suits brought recently in Houston by Attorney General Grover Sellers charging violations of the state small loans act.

quor. Author Sen. T. C. Chadick, Quitman, naively explained the bill does not require the officers to make report but if they do report they must tell the truth.

Sen. Rudolph Weinert, Seguin, offered a joking amendment requiring the report to be true "less such quantity as may be required for the officer's personal consumption." He withdrew the amendment.

Bulldog Slayer Of Child To Die In Gas Chamber

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 14. (AP) — The grieving mother of Marguerite Theresa Derdenger, 21-months-old baby whose neck was broken by a jealous bulldog, said tonight she would insist upon being present when the animal is put to death in a gas chamber.

Woof, which had lived at the Derdenger home all its five years, apparently had became jealous of the baby. When the child attempted to stroke its back last night it seized her by the back of the neck and held on for several minutes, refusing to loosen its grip despite the frantic exhortations and beating from Mrs. Derdenger and her father, Albert Lange.

Bert Morse, director of the animal shelter, said Woof would be held 10 days for rabies observation then would be placed in an air-tight chamber into which carbon monoxide would be pumped by an automobile motor. He said he had never heard of another such case in his 17 years experience.

Mrs. Derdenger said Woof had been gentle with the baby and never before had hurt her. She said she believed the dog had become jealous of the family's attention to the child. Her husband, S/Sgt Charles P. Derdenger, is stationed at Camp Barkeley, Tex.

"Trade Shows" Must Have Travel Permits

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14. (AP)—All animal shows—from dogs to breeding cattle shows—now are regarded as "trade shows" by the war committee on conventions.

Trade shows involving intercity travel and housing accommodations, if to be attended by more than 50 persons, must have a permit from the committee.

But rodeos are not "trade shows," an official of the committee said today. He explained, however, that a rodeo would come under the convention ban if held in conjunction with a trade show, such as a cattle or horse show.

A rodeo, not held in conjunction with a trade show, is regarded as entertainment, and entertainment does not come within the Byrnes directive designed to curtail travel and relieve burdened housing accommodations.

The directive specifically mentions conventions, trade shows and group meetings, but not entertainment.

Asked about breeding cattle sales, the official said the committee regarded them as basically trade shows, and that a permit would be required.

Purely local affairs, which do not require inter-city travel, do not require a permit.

Red Raiders Cop Opener, 46 To 36

The Texas Tech Red Raiders bounded away to a quick lead, and were never headed off as they took the opening game of the two game series with Texas Mines last night at the Tech gym, 46-36.

Playing without their high scoring center, Don Grove, the Red Raiders blanked the Miners for ten minutes at the start of the ball game, while rolling up a 13-0 lead. The Red Raiders then moved along to a 29-15 lead at the end of the first half.

The Miners showed some of their power in the last half of the ball game, and with a tricky ball handling game, held their own with the Red Raiders, but were never able to really crowd Coach Polk Robison's sharpshooters.

Abrams set the pace for the Miners in the last half of the game, and topped the El Paso scoring with 13 points, finding the range for five field goals and three donation tosses.

Jay Kerr, the only veteran of the Red Raiders in the game, and Gene Hardey, the rangy Kansas lad, set the pace for the Techsans, Kerr looping in 14 points and Hardey accounting for 12 more.

The two leaders were getting plenty of support from their teammates, with Truett Bernard flipping in six points and Jiggs Jackson eight, while every Red Raider in the game found the range on the basket at least once.

The two teams will conclude the series tonight at the Tech gym, the tipoff scheduled for 8 o'clock.

The squad will be handled by Coach Dell Morgan of Texas Tech.

Driver and Duron, the big and little men of the squad, battle the Amarillo fighters. McCarty meets the Sheppard Field champion, Vaughn takes on the Waco winner, Balch fights the Abilene champion, White meets the Corpus Christi champion, Haag meets the El Paso kingpin, and Sorkin matches punches with the Camp Howze light-heavy.

Rice Owls Set Pair Of League Records

HOUSTON, Tex., Feb. 14 (AP) — Establishing two conference records, the Rice Owls tonight swamped Texas University, 74-45, before a capacity crowd for their eleventh consecutive victory of the Southwest Conference season.

The 74 points gave the Owls a total of 735 in 11 conference games, exactly 54 more than the record established by Arkansas in 12 games last year.

And Bill Henry scored 25 points, 20 in the last half, to crack his own individual scoring record with a conference season total of 264.

Rice and Henry have one more game to play with Baylor at Waco Saturday night so those marks are certain to go much higher.

Major Schedules Go In Printer's Hands

NEW YORK, Feb. 14 (AP)—Major league schedules calling for 154 games and the houtine alignment of teams are in the hands of the printers it was learned today with only minor changes from the 1944 playing charts.

The three-trip plan adopted by the sport after a January 1943 conference between the late Commissioner K. M. Landis and Joseph B. Eastman, then director of the ODT, will be continued.

Delay of some Western club owners in selecting their night game dates held up the National until today and the American calendar may be further altered to take care of an increase in owl ball activity.

President Ford Frick of the National loop insisted there had been no talk of merging the circuits on an East vs West basis and said there was no indication the ODT would make any such request according to his recent conversation with Col. J. Monroe Johnson, director of the transportation bureau.

Frick parried queries about the commissioner situation by insisting no club owner had requested him to call a joint meeting to discuss the matter and surprisingly added he did not expect any such move.

Clean Sweeps Steal Bowling League Show

Clean sweeps took over the spotlight Wednesday night in the City-Commercial bowling league play at the Plamor alleys, as the Hub Laundry five increased its lead to three games by sweeping all three from DeKalb Oilers.

Other clean sweeps were turned in by Meads Bakery and Lions club with Coco-Cola and S. & Q. Clothiers, respectively, as the victims, in the other match, Armour's won two over the Optimist club.

Arnold Maas of the Lions set the scoring pace for the night with a 220 single game top, and the best series of 261 pins.

Girl Cage Site To Be Picked Saturday

Superintendents and coaches of schools eligible to enter the 18th district girls' basketball tournament to be held Feb. 22-24 will meet in the Lubbock county superintendent's office at the court house Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock to make final arrangements for the tournament, Roy Boyd, district director, said Wednesday.

Where the tournament will be held is to be decided at the meeting. Boyd said it is hoped it will be at one of the Lubbock county rural schools.

Teams placing first and second in nine counties, all members of the Girls' Basketball League of Texas, are eligible for the tournament.

Counties in which the winning teams have already been decided, placing first and second in the order named are: Lynn — Wilson and New Home; Hockley—Whitharral and Anton; Terry—Union and Meadow; Hale — Abernathy and Petersburg; Cochran—Whiteface; Crosby — Lorenzo; Lamb — Littlefield.

The two teams to represent Lubbock county will be decided in the county tournament which opens today and continues Saturday.

Dawson is the only other county in which the winning teams are yet to be named.

Umbrellas were used in ancient Egypt.

Finance Cagers Nose Section 1 In Thriller

Finance's high geared cage machine couldn't get into high until the final quarter Wednesday night at the Lubbock Army Air field gym, but they came from behind in this period to defat the Section 1 cagers, 28-27 in a thriller.

"The game started the untangling of the first half race in the post squadron league, with three teams left with a chance for the first half flag.

Edward McNelly paced the winners with 14 points, closely followed by Bob Carlson of Section 1, who looped in 13 points. Section 1 held the lead at the half, 18-14, and moved into the home stretch with the same four point lead, with the score 23-19.

Robinson Knocks Out Cincinnati Battler

CHICAGO, Feb. 14. (AP)—Ray (Sugar) Robinson of New York exploded the ring invincibility of George Costner, Cincinnati, Ohio, by knocking him out in the first round of their scheduled 10-round welterweight battle in Chicago tonight.

Heretofore Costner had won 23 straight fights by knockouts.

Against the sharp shooting Robinson, the No. 1 challenger for the world welterweight title, however, Costner looked like a novice.

In The Cause Of Unity

FDR's Peace Delegation Is Fine

GRATIFYING, indeed, are President Roosevelt's selections to date of U. S. representatives to the forthcoming United Nations peace conference, scheduled to open in San Francisco on April 25. The American chief executive has gone out of his way to make the U. S. delegation even more non-partisan than bi-partisan. And his choice of at least two members of the delegation indicates that he has "tossed politics out of the window," as very well should be done, in this important matter.

Selection of Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg, of Mich., and of Navy Commander Harold Stassen, former governor of Minnesota, mirror the broadness of Mr. Roosevelt's attitude in the San Francisco conference matter. Either of those gentlemen may very well become the Republican party's presidential nominee in 1948 and in appointing them to the U. S. delegation the President has demonstrated that he does not mind contributing to the personal prestige of GOP hopefuls if those men may be useful to the entire nation in the matter of charting the peace.

As these lines are written, Senator Vandenberg has not yet indicated whether or not he will accept Mr. Roosevelt's appointment, but Democrats and Republicans, alike, will hope he decides to serve. Recognized on both sides of the Senate's aisle as one of the real statesmen in Washington today, Senator Vandenberg, as representative of what the British would call "the loyal opposition," would be in a position to do more in the way of solidifying peace views in the Senate than any member of the President's own party. His appointment is the most important and the most promising of all nine made thus far by Mr. Roosevelt.

TEXANS, of course, will take pardonable pride in the fact that the state's own Tom Connally will be a member of the delegation. The chairman of the Senate's Foreign Relations committee is a logical choice for numerous reasons, chief among which is the fact that upon his shoulders will rest the task of steering senatorial approval of peace terms and treaties.

"Tall Tom from Marlin" has gone a long way since he first entered Congress as a member of the House more than a quarter century ago, and, more especially, in the last few years as one of the powers of the upper chamber. His viewpoint, to a great extent, is still the viewpoint of the rank and file of Americans who live "down the middle of the U. S. A.," largely untouched by European and other world ties. Unlike one born and reared in sections of the country with large foreign-born populations, or with appreciable numbers of first generation Americans, Senator Connally has the "grass roots" slant of those who have no connections with the Old World. A master orator and shrewd politician, Senator Connally should return to the Senate from San Francisco with all the additional background he may need to tie the Senate and White House together in deliberatons and decsons on the peace terms of the future.

MOST Americans, too, will commend the President for making certain that the fine counsel of Cordell Hull will be available to the U. S. delegation at San Francisco; are deeply pleased that this grand old man is being kept very much in the diplomatic picture. The gaunt Tennessean is a symbol of honesty and practicability to millions of his fellow citizens who appreciate and respect, too, his long experience in global affairs. Mr. Hull's prestige around the world will be helpful, not only in the April meeting but in others to come, assuming his health will permit his continued activity.

All in all, Mr. Roosevelt's appointments thus far cannot be characterized in any other way than broad-guaged, fair, un-political.

This augers well for the future—for the future of the United Nations as a world force, and for the best interests of our own country, as well. The Roosevelt policy in this regard is so fine, so logical—such an unselfish example of effort toward public interest—that it arouses hope that Mr. Roosevelt's Fourth Term may be productive of more statesmanship and less partisanship than have been noted in his previous three terms or, for that matter, in American affairs for many years.

WHEN NEW YORK WAS YOUNG

V

MRS. LAWRENCE came from one of the original Dutch families that had settled New York. Her maiden name was Greetje Van der Lyn. She possessed the innate Dutch qualities of order and obedience. In her management of the household she retained some of the customs of her upbringing. The sitting room of the Lawrence house was, in no sense, a lounging place. It was never opened except on momentous occasions, and these were months apart. On all ordinary occasions the dining room was used as the living room.

"Charles and Nellie Mason," said the Major, nodding toward his Virginia friends, "are here on what may be called a leisurely tour, just to see the place. They'll been to Philadelphia for a week, and after they leave our town, they're going to Boston, and from there back to Virginia by sea. Am I right, Charles?"

"You're quite right, sir," Charles Mason replied. He was a tall, lean, handsome man of 30-odd. Miss Fraser soon learned that he was inclined to be talkative. Nellie, his wife, had that fond, innocent look in her eyes that one sometimes sees in the eyes of pet animals.

"We saw some very, very interesting curiosities today," said Mr. Mason. "One was a porcupine, his back full of darts, which the man said he shoots at you if he doesn't like you—"

"They look like writing pens," Mrs. Mason remarked.

"Did he shoot any at you?" the Major inquired.

"Not a dart," Charles Mason replied. "He liked us, I suppose. We pair sixpence to see the porcupine, and another sixpence to look at what they call a Japanese. But I don't believe it's a Japanese."

"Oh, the showman took his solemn oath that is was." This came from Mrs. Mason.

"Ha! ha! ha" guffawed the Major. "Of course, it's not a Japanese; it's a monkey."

"This is the advertisement in the Gazette that we read, and it caused us to go," Mrs. Mason asserted. She produced a newspaper clipping, and read in her soft Southern voice that Mr. Edward Willet is showing—

A creature called a Japanese, about two feet high, his body resembling a human body in all parts cept the feet and tail. He walks upright and performs various actions to admiration, such as walking upon a line, hanging and swinging under it, dances to any tune, etc.

"You must not believe what you read in the gazettes," said Mrs. Lawrence.

"Well, what difference does it make?" Charles Mason argued. "I'd never seen a monkey, nor had Nellie, so our sixpences are well spent after all."

"Have you been to the theater yet?" Miss Fraser asked.

"No, we haven't; we got here only two days ago—on Thursday," Mr. Masoon replied. "Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence have asked us to go one evening next week. I understand that this company of actors—Murray and Kean, aren't they?—is the first set of players you've ever had in New York. That's right?"

"No, not quite correct," said the Major. "We've had plays here before occasionally, but nothing regular. This company looks like it will be permanent. They have a lot of plays and are going to give them all."

"I've never understood," the Major continued, "why the theater and its players have been so cruelly treated in the colonies."

Miss Frasier remarked that there was more than one reason. First, the character of the players—they are roving folk, with no fixed home. The second reason is, she said, that many people believe the theater attracts the idle and the dissolute.

"We don't treat 'em badly in Virginia. We've had actors and theaters and plays ever since I can remember," Charles Mason said. "They are welcomed in South Carolina, too. There's the Dock Street Theater in Charleston."

"Yes, three colonies—Virginia, South Carolina, and now New York," the Major said. "Everywhere else they're condemned at sight. Why, my dear sir, do you know what would happen to you if you gave a play in Boston? The pillory and the jail, or perhaps 40 stripes on your bare back, followed by expulsion."

"The Murray and Kean company—here now—gave some performances in Philadelphia," Mr. Mason remarked.

"Yes, they did, but the authorities ordered them out of Pennsylvania, so they came here."

"New York has many interesting things," Miss Fraser remarked, "besides waxworks and monkeys and stage plays. Go to Ranelagh Gardens and Vauxhall and take a look at them. They're beautiful, even in winter—"

"We're going to see them all," said Mrs. Mason, "before we leave. I want to go down to the tip end of the island, where the fort is, and look across the bay."

"That's called the Battery now," Major Lawrence told her. "In summer it is a beautiful place, with all the trees in leaf." He paused a moment, as if in reflection; then he turned to Mr. Mason. "Charles, if you will come with me in the morning, I'll show you a piece of New York that a traveler seldom sees." Looking at Mrs. Mason, he said, "No Nelle, this excursion is not for you. Charles will tell you all about it when he returns."

"It sounds like something devilish," Charles Mason said. "I'm all for it."

Looking At Life - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

YOU have all heard about that great show "Harvey" which has taken New York by storm and which is sold out until next July.

It's a show well worth seeing, and the most remarkable thing about it is Frank Fay, the leading man.

I have known Frank Fay for quite a few years.

I always liked him, but like many others, never thought him a particularly great shakes.

He was always just about an inch away from real success. He had many ups and downs and often he was on the ragged edge.

BRANDEIS

In those days Frank Fay was a pretty cocky sort of a person. He had a lot of fights and he used to argue with people and drink a lot and he had a pretty darn good opinion of himself.

If you asked Frank Fay he would have told you that there wasn't much of anything he didn't know better than anybody else.

The other evening we were sitting in Toots Shor's which is Fay's regular hangout, and he came over to our table and sat down with us.

He had just got through with the evening's show and like anybody, who had just had a lot of applause, was in a pretty mellow mood.

"Have a rink Frank?" I asked him.

"No thanks; I'm not drinking any more," he said.

We talked for awhile and I noticed that a great change had come over him. He was quiet and modest and talked very little about himself. "Doesn't it feel great to be a success?" I asked him.

"Well," he answered, and there was a sort of a far-away look in his eye, "it feels great all right. But it makes you kind of scared.

"Here you work year after year and nobody pays much attention to you, and all of a sudden you awake up one morning and you find yourself famous. It kind of scares you, you know.

"You know in your heart and soul that you were just as good before and you wonder what it's all about. And above all you wonder if it's going to last.

"I don't know how it is with others, but I think success makes a fellow awfully meek."

I did a lot of thinking about what Frank told me, and when I got back to the hotel that evening I made a mental survey of a lot of successful people I know.

And I came to the conclusion that every single really successful person I have met, is modest and simple and meek.

OH, there are a lot of phoneys and fly-by-night successes who go around strutting and blowing their own horns and wearing loud clothes and letting everybody know what great guys they are.

But they don't last long. Just a puff of wind and they are blown back again where they came from and where they belong.

But the genuine successes are different. They worked and fought and suffered for their success. They haven't time to think of themselves, they know that the top of a mountain is always much smaller than the bottom. And they also know that it's very lonesome up there and that you have to be strong to weather the wind that blows on a mountain top.

I think that fellow Fay is a real success.

Maybe he made all that noise on the way up only because he was scared. May be it's like whistling in the dark when you are frightened.

And if you happen to be on the way up—or may be there already—don't you worry if you are a little scared.

Liquor Probe Scuttled

New Dealers Fear Vote Reprisals

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

A SWEEPING Senate investigation of certain alleged big-time liquor violators has been quietly squelched by administration leaders because a corporation involved contributed heavily to the Democrats' campaign chests and has a close tieup with influential party bosses in Washington, New York and California.

The death sentence killing a full disclosure of shortages, high prices and browbeating of dealers escaped publicity because it took the form of a complicated parliamentary maneuver. But the incident threatens to explode a scandalous neglect of duty by the Department of Justice and deliberate winking at the law for political gain.

Two years ago, on the unanimous recommendation of the Senate Judiciary committee the Senate authorized a Judiciary subcommittee to study widespread charges that certain big distillers were buying up small rivals, acquiring control of beer and wine firms and using their monopolistic power to manipulate supply and prices to thirsty consumers. It was these exposes which led WPB to declare two "liquor holidays."

TUCKER

One year ago the Senate extended the life of the examining unit, and in the summer its agents assembled what they considered proof of the indictment against at least one of the large distilling corporations. The subcommittee was ready to hold open hearings last July, but postponed them until after the November election at the request of Democratic National Chairman Bob Hannegan, who feared the political repercussions.

In asking for a second extension a few weeks ago, subcommittee chairman Pat McCarran of Nevada lifted the veil from some of the findings already noted. His revelations convinced the full Judiciary Committee that the situation demanded a far-reaching inquiry, and it recommended that step with $15,000 as an additional authorization. Since this committee consists of the best legal minds in the upper body, immediate approval by the Senate was taken for granted.

LIQUOR: When Senator McCarran presented his group's resolution for continuance of the probe, it was automatically referred to the Audit and Control committee. This organization, headed by Sen. Scott Lucas of Illinois, a loyal administration man, is charged with deciding whether or not the amount asked for investigations is warranted by the facts.

The Lucas body, according to such an expert as "Assistant President" James F. Byrnes, who once ran the same outfit, has no authority to pass judgment on the wisdom of any proposal advanced by a standing committee like Judiciary. It is merely supposed to make an accounting of the financial needs of a proposed inquiry and report back to the Senate.

In this instance, however, the Lucas crowd decided that there was no justification for further investigation of the liquor industry and denied any funds to Senator McCarran. Audit and Control assumed the power of an appellate court. Charging that the senator from Illinois had exceeded his authority, the stubborn man from Nevada asked the full chamber to overrule Audit and Control.

White House friends such as Majority Barkley of Kentucky, Hill of Alabama, Mead of New York, Radcliffe of Maryland and Lucas bitterly opposed the Westerner.

Barkley declared that it would take too much money and too much time to make the survey. Lucas argued that it would be a slight to his unit iif the Senate overrode it. So the McCarran proposal was voted down by 43 to 28.

Several ironic factors enter the picture. Although the Lucas committee granted funds for almost every other special investigative body, including several looking into somewhat unimportant problems, it did not see fit to open liquor secrets to the light of day. Senators from states with powerful distillery interests—Illinois, Kentucky, Maryland, New York—saw no good in the McCarran demand.

INQUIRY: Attorney General Biddle has shown utter indifference to the McCarran findings, although he has brought anti-monopoly suits against a press association, insurance companies, railroads, etc. In fact, the AG did his part in sabotaging further scrutiny of alleged illegal practices by liquor moguls.

Besides managing the inquiry into the booze business, McCarran has a sub-committee studying post-war decentralization of industry. For both groups he obtained the loan of an assistant Attorney General from the Department of Justice—a man named George Moore. While he was working on other matters, Senator McCarran decided to dig into the federal seizure of the Montgomery Ward company's plant and the forcible ejection of Sewell Avery, its president.

Moore is the agent who obtained the full records of that affair. On the basis of his reports, Senator McCarran found that the President had no authority under the Constitution of the War Powers act to take control of the mail-order house. This opinion was subsequently upheld by the Federal District court in Chicago.

Moore was quietly notified that the D. of J. would not require his services after February 1, 1945. He has lost his committee job because Lucas and administration senators refused to prolong the life of the committee to which he had been assigned. But so far the AG has made no move against the distillers held by the Senate investigators to have broken the law.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

FROM the rumor factory in Stockholm comes word that the Junker generals will mutiny again.

Although it is crystal clear to all that the Reich is hanging on the ropes and that anything can happen, cautious military analysts continue to discount tips about wholesale revolution. They still have insufficient evidence for believing that the Nazi grip on the rank and file of the Wehrmacht is appreciably lessened.

To understand Hitler's control over his minions, it is necessary to review certain events which were not given much attention in the USA when they occurred.

LEMAN

The Austrian corporal began as a civilian rabble rouser. Even when he attained power, he was mistrusted by the brass hats.

Two courses of action were open to him: 1. He could endorse Roehm's plan to raise a large separate armed force from the National Socialist party, which would be a competitor and eventually supplant the regular army. Or, 2, he could recognize the independence of the Reichswehr and refuse to create a rival institution.

He cast in his lot with the Prussian clique. As proof of his good faith he ruthlessly assassinated Roehm and his old cronies in the historic "blood purge." In return the Junkers bowed to him as supreme military commander on condition that officers and enlisted men should remain completely outside the Brownshirt machine.

The following GHQ order was passed on May 21, 1935: "Soldiers are not to take part in politics. They shall not become members of the National Socialist party during the period of their service." This ruling was not repealed until as late as October 1, 1944—when affairs were on the way to wrack and ruin.

Since then cells have been established in all companies and courses of political instruction have been made compulsory. "The Reich no longer rests on two pillars, the party and the army," announces an official document that has just arrived here, "but on a single one, the National Socialist doctrine, in which the Reichswehr and the movement are fused."

Here And There In Texas

States' Music Goes Highbrow

By CHARLOTTE PHELAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

BACH in the barracks? Certainly.

And Elgar at Ellington. Moussorgsky at McCloskey. Sibelius at Sam Houston and Franck at Fort Bliss.

Texas symphony orchestras have gone to war.

They are doing a lot of visiting at service installations and traveling far-reaching itineraries—guest artists, cumbersome entourages and all. They play special concerts at home for students and soldiers. They sponsor opera presentations. And they're meeting with adequacy demands of unprecedented wartime subscription audiences.

The season's obligations for Texas' two major symphonies—the Houston, under Ernst Hoffmann, and the San Antonio, under Max Reiter—have kept them busier than at any time during the peaceful years.

Full Program Planned

A Houston organization began last Oct. 21 a season literally running over with at least 85 formal and pop concerts at home and at 23 cities, colleges and Army posts in Texas, Mexico and Louisiana. Yet to come are appearances at McCloskey General hospital at Temple, Dallas, Fort Worth, Camp Howze at Gainesville, the Corpus Christi Naval Air center, the Harlingen Army Air Field Gunnery school, the University of Texas at Austin, and Ashburn General hospital at McKenney. That's just a smattering.

Recently the Houston symphony took to the air lanes to begin a series of 30-minute weekly broadcasts over a statewide hookup. The orchestra will be heard each Saturday from 6 p. m. to 6:30 p. m. over a Texas network.

THE San Antonio symphony orchestra launched a 40-concert season last Nov. 4 with numerous out-of-town appearances scheduled as well as 12 free programs for service men and women in the military-stocked San Antonio area.

But that wasn't enough for the maturing South Texas group. So the symphony society arranged for an opera festival Feb. 20-25. The orchestra will assist with four grand operas.

The Houston aggregation has sponsored operas, too.

Both orchestras—and scores of others in Texas cities and colleges—have assumed heavy responsibilites these days.

No Temporary Thing

But this is no wartime flowering.

Although many have come of age, they went through childhood and adolescence first.

The Houston symphony was born in 1913 with a limited birthright—$1,500. Thirty-six musicians made up its personnel. In 1936 Hoffman, fresh from 13 years of European work, took over the podium. Hoffman inaugurated an expansion program that neared its zenith this year.

BOTH the San Antonio orchestra, with $175,000, and the Houston, with $192,134, are flexing the largest budgets in their histories.

The rise of the San Antonio orchestra aparallels that of the Houston organization, though its span has been briefer. The orchestra's spectacular jump from a program of four to 40 concerts in only six years tells the story.

And behind that story is Max Reiter.

On "Trial Basis"

Reiter went to San Antonio with creditable experience gathered and assimilated as a symphony conductor in Milan and Trieste and other European musical centers — and with a staunch ambition to develop a full-fledged symphony orchestra.

"Le me conduct one concert with whatever talent is available," the 40-year-old conductor said. "If you like it, let's do something."

He did something. And a total of 103,000 persons who attended last season's concerts, for example, liked it.

REITER is probably Texas' only commuting conductor. For while he was developing the San Antonio orchestra he was doing the same for Waco. Waco will have had three full-dress concerts at the season's end for its symphony society's 2,200 patrons.

His symphony, too, has taken to the road, and has appearances in Dallas, Feb. 13, Austin, Feb. 16, and other cities as transportation facilities permit.

Symphonies in other Texas cities are also in the swing. There's the 27-year-old El Paso orchestra under H. Arthur Brown. Last year the 80-odd-piece non-professional group played to 3,000 subscription listeners, called several times on Fort Bliss and helped with the sixth war loan campaign.

Austin Is Oldest

The University of Texas has the oldest symphony orchestra in the state, having been organized in 1897. Eric Delamarter is conductor. The City of Austin also has a symphony, conducted by Dr. Hendrik J. Buytendorf. In Dallas, there is the Southern Methodist University orchestra under Paul van Katwiuk.

Almost every major university or college concerns itself with a symphony orchestra, and while the war has interrupted symphony activities in some cities accustomed to having them, they've important items in postwar plans.

SELECTED STOCKS ADVANCE

NEW YORK, Feb. 14 (AP)—Investment-rated industrials and selected rails scored new advances in the stock market today, although closing prices were under the day's best levels.

The Associated Press 60-stock average, while ahead only .2 of a point against yesterday's gain of .8 of a point, at 60.7 was the highest since Sept. 9, 1937.

Leadership was evident in support accorded Union Carbide, up 3⅛ at 84½, Du Pont, up 1½ at 163, both new 1944-45 highs and Dow Chemical, up 1¼ at 128. Chrysler topped 100 but slipped back to close at 99½, up ½ for another new high.

During the day 1,015 issues crossed the tape, compared with 965 Tuesday, the greatest number since May of 1940 when the Nazis were sweeping across France.

Among the 580 issues registering advances were U. S. Steel, Youngstown, General Motors, Willys-Overland, U. S. Rubber, Goodyear, International Harvester, Douglas, United Aircraft, Standard Oil (N.J.), Western Union, Santa Fe, New York Central, Canadian Pacific and Illinois Central. The last two also set new tops.

Volume at 2,060,000 shares, against 1,800,000 yesterday, was the largest since Jan. 9 of this year.

American Telephone, down ½ at 161⅞, was under water most of the day, and toward the last was joined by Southern Railway and Texas Co.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Feb. 14 (AP) — Cotton futures advanced about $1 a bale today on aggressive mill and commission house buying which met a scarcity of offerings. The market held near the best levels for the day, influenced by the increased lend-lease demand for cotton, the tightness in spot cotton and the possibility of early action on new farm legislation to advance parity prices.

Profit-taking and liquidation in the final hour erased most of the early gains. Futures closed 10 cents a bale lower to 35 cents higher.

Thanks to Bovine Ally, Patrol Is Annihilated

TEMPLE, Feb. 14. (UP)—Mrs. O'Leary's renowned cow that started the great Chicago fire has been partially avenged.

Sgt. Henry M. Wilgus of Hamlin, Tex., now at McCloskey General hospital for treatment of shell fragment wounds received in France, tells the story.

It seems a cow wandered too near the front line and set off a flare. The light disclosed to Wilgus and two other machine gunners a German patrol trying a sneak attack.

Thanks to their bovine ally, Wilgus' crew annihilated the patrol.

Western Front

and the cleaning-out of the Reichswald forest, Montgomery's forces were through the main belt of the original Siegfried line and threatened to turn the northern flank of the Westwall. Once they reach the Rhine to the east they will be in position to sweep southward and roll up German defenses between the Rhine and the Meuse.

Allied troops were within a few hundred yards of Kessel, road hub at the southern edge of the Reichswald, and its capture was believed near. The Kleve state forest, at the eastern edge of the Reichswald, was almost cleared.

Third Scores Gains

The U. S. Third Army—the only other major unit of Gen. Eisenhower's massive forces now participating in the attack from the west—scored gains up to a mile in expanding its Wallendorf-Echternach bridgehead south of captured Pruem.

Doughboys of the Fifth division pushed halfway through the village of Ernzen ,two miles north of Echternach, and reached a point beyond Ferschweiler, three-quarters of a mile from the Pruem river.

Allied headquarters reported that the Roer, along which the American First and Ninth and the British Second armies are standing had receded four inches from its highest point by late Tuesday, but still was five to six feet above normal as a result of the enemy's breaching of dams at its headwaters. The river's present average depth is between 11 and 12 feet.

Many Targets Battered

Taking advantage of the bright weather, the Ninth Tactical airforce flew more than 200 sorties and blasted targets from Duesseldorf to Cobienz, including Nazi headquarters at Bad Ems, five miles east of Coblenz, which was set ablaze. Some 2,000 Allied planes flew in direct support of the British and Canadian drive in the north.

Air activity alone enlivened the Seventh Army front, with Allied planes renewing their attacks on German-held towns. Drusenhein, in the path of the 36th division, was heavily bombed.

Soviet Advances

this inevitably would weaken the other enemy fronts "on the eve of new and more powerful blows planned by the Allies."

The RAF and USAAF raids on Dresden apparently were part of the Allied plan of closer cooperation as the Eastern and Western fronts draw nearer.

On the other Eastern front sectors obscure battles raged.

A delayed dispatch to Moscow from the central front east of Berlin said that a big battle was in progress as the Germans steadily butteressed their Kuestrin and Frankfurt-on-Oder defenses against Marshal Zhukov's blows. This dispatch, without date, said three days of snow had turned roads into a mess and that Soviet troops were mud-caked from head to foot.

FAIRMONT, W. Va., Feb. 14 (AP) —Benjamin Franklin Male, 73-year-old Oregon farmer convicted last week of voluntary manslaughter in a 40-year-old slaying, received a valentine gift of conditional freedom today.

Criminal Court Judge Charles E. Miller imposed a suspended sentence of one to five years upon Male, after first upbraiding him for remaining in hiding since the 1905 slaying of Walter O. Smith, a village school teacher.

Male came back voluntarily to stand trial for the slaying, which was precipitated when teacher Smith disciplined one of Male's children.

Pacific Battles

Manila and on Luzon island, as well as in Burma and one sector of southeast China, took to the air to tell the world it is their theory that no hand offering peace should be rejected.

Meanwhile the U. S. Navy department credited Yank submarines with one of their biggest hauls of Japanese shipping—31 vessels sunk.

Tokyo's peace talk came from Sadao Iguchi, spokesman for the Japanese information board. He called the Big Three agreement "international power politics" and said true world peace could be found only in the Nippon policy "not to reject any hand which offers peace."

Total Now 1,020

The latest reported sinkings by Yank submarines included a converted light cruiser, a converted gunboat, an escort ship and sundry other tankers, transports and cargo craft.

Since the start of the war the subs have accounted for 1,020 ships sunk, including 107 combatant craft.

The department also disclosed that less than 100 men were lost when the U. S. escort carrier Ommaney Bay was wrecked by two Japanese aerial bombs in Philippines waters. Later the ship was sunk by a torpedo from another American man-of-war.

The Japanese grip on the vital Canton-Hankow railway in southeast China was loosened somewhat as the Chungking high command announced Chinese recapture of Pinkshek. The city is 165 miles north of Canton. The Chinese now hold a 16-mile section of the railway northward from Ingshek.

Line Vital To Japs

The purpose of the Japanese offensive in southeast China was to gain complete control of the railway from Manchuria to Canton and thus split China in two. The rail line is vital to the Japanese in their attempts to seal off the China coast against expected American invasions in the future.

On the central front in Burma, British East African troops captured the town of Seilpyu, 105 miles southwest of Mandalay.

Constitution Change Killed By Committee

AUSTIN, Feb. 14 (AP)—Submission of two constitutional amendments to exempt homesteads under $3,000 valuation from all city, county and district taxes, was killed by unanimous vote of the House constitutional amendments committee today.

Authors of similar resolutions proposing submission of the amendments were Reps. J. R. Donnell of Corsicana and R. W. Mills of Wichita Falls. Homesteads up to $3,000 value are now exempt from state taxes.

Mayors from a number of Texas towns testified that such exemptions would cripple their revenues to such an extent they could not maintain any standard of health, sanitation, protection of education in their various communities.

Said Rep. F. G. Swanson of Tyler, "these bills are impractical and place a premium on shiftlessness. Democratic forms of government are going to pass out of existence when people lose their sense of responsibility."

Mercury Hits 80 Here Wednesdfy

But for the calendar, which said February, Lubbockites would have headed for the nearest swimmin' hole Wednesday.

A winter heat wave drove the mercury to 80 degrees at the agricultral experiment sub-station east of the city for the highest reading since Nov. 1, 1944.

Several weeks of spring-like weather have set trees to budding and lawns to greening. Aware of the unseasonal weather and remembering late cold snaps of other years, citizens fear that Lubbock ocunty's fruit crop may not more than fill a shoe box.

January Average

The average temperature for Januray, as recorded at the experiment center, was 33.8 degrees. The mean high temperature was 41.2, the mean low 26.4.

W. L. Jones, station agronomist, said the mean high was 1.2 degrees above the January average for the last 35 years, that the mean low for the same period was topped by .7 degrees.

However, Jan. 30 and 31 offered 18-degree weather, records showed. The lowest temperature of the winter was the 16 degrees recorded Dec. 1.

Weber Death Sentence Is Cut To Five Years

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14 (AP) — The death sentence once imposed on Pvt. Henry Weber for refusing to drill has now been cut down to five years at hard labor.

This was disclosed today by Maj. Gen. Myron C. Cramer, Army judge advocate general, in a letter to chairman Thomas (D-Utah) of the Senate military committee.

Thomas became interested in the case after the death sentence was pronounced at Camp Roberts, Calif. Senator Wheeler (D-Mont) demanded an investigation, telling the Senate: "Whoever sentenced that boy to hanging ought to be discharged from the Army."

Weber had been quoted as asking for a non-combat assignment, on the ground that as a member of the Socialist labor party he was opposed to killing human beings. His superior officer charged him specifically with refusing to join his squad for training, a court martial offense in wartime.

Weber was convicted. The trial court itself however recinded the death penalty and decreed life at hard labor.

Brazilians Tie Into Nazis Near Bologna

ROME, Feb. 14(AP) —Brazilian troops in platoon strength and supported by artillery attacked a German-held hill near Caggio, 29 miles southwest of Bologna, and engaged the Nazis in a stiff fight. Allied headquarters announced today without giving details of the engagement.

Otherwise the Italian front has subsided to minor patrol clashes and artillery duels.

More than 500 U. S. heavy bombers with fighter escort flew from Italy and attacked rail yards in the Vienna and Graz areas in Austria and at Maribor in Yugoslavia yesterday. In all, Allied planes flew some 2,400 sorties during the day, losing 15 craft.

U. S. General Decries Atrocities In Manila

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 14 (AP) —Japanese atrocities in Manila were bitterly denounced today by Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler, commanding the 37th U. S. division engaged in the battle of the Philippine capital.

Army photographers are documenting some of the atrocity incidents, said John Adams, CBS correspondent in a broadcast of his interview with Beightler.

"At one intersection in south Manila the staff officers found the bodies of 26 civilians of which nine were babies," Adams said. "It appeared that all had been bayoneted and many of them had their hands tied behind their backs."

Southwest Military Aids Polio Battle

DALLAS, Feb. 14. (AP) — Army personnel in the Southwest gave financial support to a home front war—the drive against infantile paralysis—by voluntary conrtibutions of more than $100,000 in the January national campaign, Eighth Service command headquarters said today.

Posts, camps and stations in Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Arkansas and Louisiana have turned in to the service command headquarters $104,248.08 raised by military personnel and civilian employees of army ground, service and air forces.

Texas Shines In '44 War Fund Campaign

AUSTIN, Feb. 14.—The Senate and House in joint session today heard a report that Texas surpassed all the other big quota states in percentage of quota raised in 1944's national war fund campaign.

AAUP Goes To Bat For Rainey In Asking For Full Reinstatement

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14. (AP)—The American Association of University Professors went to bat today for Dr. Homer P. Rainey, ousted recently from the presidency of the University of Texas.

Sharply demanded Dr. Rainey's reinstatement as an "assurance that the principles of academic freedom and tenure would again be observed at the University of Texas." His removal, the association declared, "was a serious disregard of good academic practice."

Called Interim Report

The association's report was contained in its winter bulletin. The organization described it as an "interim" report, announcing that final judgment would be withheld until completion of a study of testimony given at a Texas Senate committee's investigation.

The report was signed by Dr. Ralph E. Himstead, general secretary of the association, a national organization of college and university professors, with headquarters here. In making the report public, Dr. Himstead observed that since its preparation the newly reorganized board of regents of Texas university had rejected a proposal to reinstate Dr. Rainey.

Circumstances leading up to Dr. Rainey's dismissal Nov. 1, 1944, and subsequent developments were outlined in the 3,500-word report.

Investigation Continues

"Although the association's (AAUP) investigation of the University of Texas situation will not be completed until the publication of a full report, the evidence now in the possession of the association makes it clear that in the dismissal of faculty personnel and of Dr. Rainey there was a serious disregard of good academic practice generally observed by the governing boards of accredited institutions.

"In this connection," Dr. Himstead said, "I should like to comment briefly on the attitude of the majority of the board of regents of the University of Texas as of Nov. 1, 1944, with reference to the relationship of the regents to the president and the faculty of the university.

"Statements made by these regents to the representatives of the association make it clear that they regard this relationship to be that of a private employer to this employes, a relationship in which the regents are not debarred by any moral restrictions beyond their own individual sense of expediency from imposing their personal views and prejudices upon the teaching of the university and from employing the power of dismissal to gratify that private antipathies and resentments.

Not Proprietary Institution

"They have made it clear that they regard the University of Texas as a proprietary institution. But a university is not a proprietary institution. . . . Educational institutions, created and supported as they are by endowments and contributions or by taxation, have a responsibility to the public and are public in character. That is particularly true of state universities. The trustees of a university are trustees for the public, the whole of the public. They cannot properly assume proprietary attitudes and privileges. . . .

"The evidence in the University of Texas situation indicates," the report stated, "that what is happening in Texas with reference to the university is a reappearance of an old phenomenon, namely, an effort on the part of certain special-interest groups to control education.

"Such attempts have been made before. They will be made again. They must be resisted. An essential of democracy is education, and an essential of education is freedom."

The AAUP previously has stated that it will decide on the basis of its investigation whether recognized college and university crediting groups will be asked to blacklist the University of Texas."

Increasing transportation aid from $24.25 to $27 is proposed. Expense allowance is raised from $210 to $240 per teacher, and provisions are made for districts of 1,250 population rather than 500 as now.

Texan Advises Solons To Ignore Summonses

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14. (AP)—Congressmen from poll tax states were advised today by Chairman Sumners (D-Tex) of the House judiciary committee to ignore a contest of their seats by the Southern Electoral Reform league.

Sumners in a House speech that after being asked for a legal opinion he had written a statement advising the members involved to "pay no attention" to the contest.

Commending his decision, Rep. Rankin (D-Miss) told the House attempts are being made "to harness the members on this (poll tax) issue in contempt of the House and Senate."

The league has announced it will try to unseat congressmen elected from poll tax states on the ground the levy is unconstitutional.

Moss A. Plunkett, league president, has said he will take testimony at a hearing here Friday on voting conditions in the states involved. Seven Southern congressmen have received summonses signed by a notary public directing them to appear as witnesses. Six of them have said they will ignore the call and one declined comment.

Application For Writ Of Error Is Granted

An Application for a writ of error was granted Wednesday by the Texas Supreme court in the case of F. G. Watkins and wife, Edith, against Sue Alice Slaughter and her husband, R. L. Slaughter, jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Watkins are appealing from a court of civil appeals finding in support of Judge Dan Blair of the 72nd judicial district of Lubbock county, who held in favor of the Slaughters on a try title as well as for damages action based on the east 80 acres of tract 6, Bob Slaughter block of Hockley county.

At stake was definition of rights to 1-16th royalty interests to subsurface minerals. Judge Blair, sustained by the Amarillo court of civil appeals, in an opinion by Associate Justice Stokes, found that the Slaughters had reserved to themselves in deeding the surface to the Watkinses a 1-16th royalty interest to the subsurface of the entire tract.

The appeal raises one particular issue: legal definition of intent expressed in royalty clauses of the warranty deed. The case was transferred to Lubbock county from Hockley county.

Grandma Switches Millions of Mothers To Her Mutton Suet Idea For Chest Colds

Newer Relief For Children's Colds' Coughs, Bronchial Irritation and Chest Muscle Tightness Being Hailed Everywhere.

Pioneer grandma liked to "rub" her children's colds with a "home rub" containing mutton suet. Such a rub was her "old reliable" for relieving chest muscle tightness, soothing bronchial irritation, loosening phlegm, checking coughing, easing sting of chapped lips and nostrils. Today science has modernized this principle with Penetro, the salve with a base containing this same old fashioned mutton suet, plus 5 active ingredients—so now Grandma's old idea is switching millions to this newer relief.

Your children will like Penetro the first time they feel it spread smoothly on chest, throat, back—its mutton suet makes it melt instantly, vanish quickly. It gets to work 3 ways at once to make your youngsters more comfortable—(1) Penetro relieves colds' pain as its mutton suet helps carry medication to nerve ends in the skin. (2) Relieves muscular tightness and congestion through counter-irritation (increased blood flow). (3) Loosens phlegm, eases coughing through pleasant inhalation of instantly released vapors.

Your child will feel relief so quickly—as painful misery eases, as coughing is lessened, phlegm loosened, chest rawness soothed. Naturally he'll rest more comfortably and give nature a chance to restore vitality to his little body. That's why so many mothers are thanking Grandma for her idea—are praising science for perfecting it—are going to druggists everywhere to buy Penetro. Relieve your chest cold miseries as millions are doing—today get your jar of white, easy-to-use, economical Penetro.
