First Woman Dies in Chair CHUCK WILSON'S TRIAL BEGUN

JURORS FOR MURDER CASE BEING PICKED

Slaying of H. C. Taylor Involved; Defense Making Close Examination of All Veniremen Questioned.

DENIAL PLANNED

Hijacking Story Will Likely Be Expanded by Defendant, Who Claims to Have Been at Home at Time.

A jury to try Charles "Little Chuck" Wilson on a charge of murder in connection with the fatal shooting of H. C. Taylor was being slowly and laboriously selected this afternoon in 114th district court.

Only two jurors, I. C. Howlett and C. H. Gibson, were chosen this morning. Six veniremen were examined. C. S. Wortman, appointed counsel for Wilson, exhausted two of his 15 challenges. With the exception of two jurors who disqualified, the state accepted all the veniremen. Mr. Wortman examined the veniremen lengthily and meticulously, while Mr. Allred asked few questions.

For the first time since the defendant was arrested, he appeared nervous in court this morning. His eyes shifted rapidly from the faces of the veniremen to those of the district attorney and the judge.

Defense Not Indicted

Questions directed at the veniremen by Mr. Wortman did not indicate the nature of the defense, although it is understood that Wilson will introduce evidence to prove that he was miles from the scene of the murder when the crime was committed. Several questions asked by the defense counsel in which the phrases "had a difficulty" and "personal encounter" suggested that Wilson might plead self-defense or that the family trouble element might be injected into the case. It is expected that the trial will continue for at least three days. Attorneys in the case believe that the special venire will be exhausted this afternoon and that extra talesmen will be summoned. They estimate that if the jury is not selected this afternoon, a night session of the court will be held. Hearing of evidence is due to begin in the morning.

To Deny Charge
It was learned this morning that Wilson is planning to deny that he had any connection with the shooting of Taylor.

He was arrested in his house at LeFors a few hours after the shooting. His wife, Billie Wilson, who admits she was with Taylor when he was shot west of LeFors, declared his assailant was a tall man. Officers later found a .41 caliber gun under Wilson's pillow. A .41 bullet was found in Taylor's spine.

OKLAHOMAN KILLED

EL PASO, Feb. 23. (AP)—Lee R. Mayse, 35, of Pawhuska, Okla., was killed today at Fabens, 30 miles from El Paso, when the automobile he was driving crashed into a farm wagon. Mrs. Mayse, 25, riding with him, received minor injuries. Mayse lost control of the car as he turned a sharp curve. The wagon was demolished by the driver, Ezedio Subla, was uninjured.

'WHITE GOLD' WELCOMED

DENVER, Feb. 23. (AP)—Spring-like weather returned to the Rocky mountain region today after a week-end of snow and rain gave over most of Colorado and Wyoming. Farmers described the precipitation as a "fall of white gold," pointing out that in addition to the moisture which fell on the fields, mountain gulches were filled with an invaluable source of water supply for summer months. A threat of drought in several sections vanished with the storm.

In Denver a warm sun melted 3.3 inches of snow. In eastern Colorado the storm was general. From eight to five inches of snow fell at Hugo and Limon.

As Good As A Savings Account

When you buy or build a home, you get a mortgage, but you also get a score of benefits you don't get when you rent.

For instance, the home buyer owns cash equity which, in a well bought home, is as good as a savings account. Scores of persons have built an estate in this way which would have otherwise been impossible.

The person who contemplates buying or building a home will find the Classified Columns of the News and Post an interesting place to "shop."

Cup That Cheers General Butler

Maybe the name of Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler won't evoke many cheers in Italy. But 3500 pupils of the Northeast High school in Philadelphia, in a rousing ovation, proclaimed him the most popular speaker of the year at the school. Here you see the Marine Corps officer (right), who nearly faced a court martial for his remarks about Premier Mussolini, receiving a silver loving cup from David S. Cristol, representing the student body. In the center is Mayor Harry Mackay of Philadelphia.

PRAIRIE OIL & GAS FIRM SUED FOR $75,000 TODAY

Mrs. Zella Reddick Brings Big Action as Result of Her Husband's Death.

The Prairie Oil and Gas company was named defendant in a suit filed by Mrs. Zella Reddick in district court this morning in which she asks that she be paid $75,000 for damages, alleged to have been sustained by her when her husband was killed and she was injured, Feb. 23, 1929, on South Cuyler.

The petition alleges that she and her husband were struck by an automobile being driven at the rate of 90 miles an hour by D. C. Brown, an employee of the Prairie at the time. She states that her husband was killed and that she suffered a fractured leg and other serious injuries. She claims that she is now a cripple and is physically unable to work due to the injuries received in the accident.

Mrs. Reddick asks the court to award her damages in the amount of $25,000 for injuries she alleges she sustained, and $50,000 for damages growing out of the death of her husband. The original petition alleges that Mr. Brown failed to sound the horn on the automobile he was driving and that the machine was without lights at the time. Mr. Reddick was an employee of the Western Carbon company.

Muscle Shoals Bill Is Approved —Goes to Hoover

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23. (AP)—The senate today approved the compromise Muscle Shoals bill, completing congressional action.

What stand the president will take on the agreement is problematic. It was emphasized at the white house only last week that he had not seen the agreement, and said in that connection that because of that some predictions made on capital hill that he would veto it were misleading.

The conference report providing for operation of the government $150,000,000 power and nitrate plants on the Tennessee river in Alabama was approved by the senate without a record vote.

It was the second time during the long years of controversy a bill has been sent to the white house providing for operation of the wartime plant.

The bill provides for government operation of the power plant, a construction of transmission lines over which the power will be distributed with preferential sale to municipalities.

The nitrate plant would be leased for quantity production by private interests of fertilizer. If a lessee could be found within a year.

If no lease could be negotiated within this time the government would operate the plants for experimental manufacture of fertilizer.

Baptist Revival Is To Be Continued For Third Week

Revival services at the First Baptist church reached their third Sunday yesterday. Additions to the church through Sunday evening numbered 60, with approximately 50 conversions.

After consideration, the church decided to continue the revival through the third week. Services will continue as they have during the last two weeks, at 10 in the morning, and at 7:30 in the evening. There will be a baptismal service tonight after the regular service. Reverend Whitley will speak tonight on "Why Baptists Accept Immersion Only as New Testament Baptism."

In the service yesterday evening Reverend Whitley took as his subject, "Why Will Ye Die?" "I want you unsaved tonight to answer this question, why will ye die?" said the revivalist. "Just why aren't you a Christian? Why is it that you have not trusted Christ? I would like for you to tell us tonight why you are not a Christian. If you won't tell us I'll answer for you. I am going to give several reasons why people die, why they are not Christians."

"In the first place people don't like to give up sin. Many people have sins that they don't want to give up. They love sin. But just as sure as people hold on to sin they will die the spiritual death spoken of by the prophet.

"Some folk say they are going to die because there are hypocrites in the church. Certainly there are hypocrites in the church, but not nearly as many as people think. Most of those we call hypocrites are unsaved in the first place. Even if they are hypocrites, the unsaved man is smaller than they if he hides behind them.

"Other people say they are going to die because they do not know how to be saved. I have seen peo-

Boy Falls Down Elevator Shaft

Richmond Eastup, 15, suffered body bruises and severe sprain in his back when he fell down the elevator shaft from the first floor of the Rose building to the basement, a drop of 14 feet, yesterday afternoon. He is receiving medical attention in Pampa hospital.

The boy had made several trips to upper floors in the elevator with passengers, and he and another boy had started to ascend to the third floor. Previously, a physician whose office is in the building had taken the elevator to the third floor. This the boy did not know, and when he opened the door to the shaft, he was under the impression that he would step into the elevator. Just before he stepped into the empty shaft, he was looking behind him conversing with his companion.

The injured youth was elevator boy at the Schaefer hotel. He is not employed at the Rose building.

STATE TAKES HER LIFE FOR SLAYING COP

She and Walter Dague Calm as They Walk to Death Machine in Pennsylvania Prison Early Today.

NEITHER SPEAKS

"Iron Irene" and Gunman Lover Were Merciless in Their Depredations—Remain So to Their Doom.

By I. R. LINDGREN
ROCKVIEW PENITENTIARY, BELLEVILLE, Pa., Feb. 23. (AP)—Calm and collected, Irene Schroeder and Walter Glenn Dague went to their deaths in the electric chair at "Rockview" penitentiary today just after break of dawn.

The state claimed of them the supreme price for the killing of a guardian of its highways. The women went to the chair first, at 7 a. m. One contact was made and she was pronounced dead at 7:05.

Dague was placed in the chair at 7:08 and five minutes later was dead.

Mr. Schroeder's face was pale, almost ghastly, except for a slight bit of rouge on either cheek, as she was brought into the death chamber. Her eyes were open until she was seated in the big chair, then she closed them and kept them closed until the death hood was placed over her head.

Dague Was Calm
Dague came in with steady stride and as he sat down in the chair, raised left and right at the witnesses. Then he hood was adjusted and the electric contact was made while the prison chaplain still was offering up a prayer for the condemned.

Neither of the slayers spoke, nor was any word spoken to them. The woman who once wielded a gun with her gunman lover in merciless bloodshed, was as unflinching at her doom as ever she had been during her days of banditry and subsequent flight and fight for life.

"Iron Irene," they termed her at her trial. "Iron Irene" she was until the end. The spirit that bore her up when the jury in the Lawrence county court pronounced death as her sentence, held with her as she walked into the grim chamber of death here and surrendered her life for the life of Corporal Brady Paul, of the state highway patrol, on Dec. 27, 1929.

She was clad in a gray, artificial silk dress, loose, and poorly fitting. She wore big stockings and black slippers. The hair was clipped away from the back of her head at a spot where an electrode was attached.

First Thus to Die
Mrs. Schroeder, who leaves a five-year-old son, was the first woman ever to pay the supreme penalty in the electric chair in this commonwealth and the fourth woman to be put to death in this manner in the United States. She was 22 years old.

She was a native of the Wheeling, W. Va., section and at one time was a waitress. Dague, whose widow

Four Men Killed At Gulf Refinery

PORT ARTHUR, Feb. 23. (AP)—Four men are dead and several injured to a minor extent, as the result of the explosion here last night of a Gulf refinery high pressure still.

The dead are Joseph E. Whittington, 38, assistant stillman, and three negroes, Luke Brock, Henry Elbert and Vincent Allen.

Allen and Elbert were instantly killed. Whittington and Brock died today.

The blast occurred at 11:47 p. m., according to Charles R. Stevenson, plant superintendent, and was heard for miles. Hundreds of windows were shattered by the impact.

Fire which broke out following the blast, burned until 3 a. m. today before being extinguished. The blaze was confined to the still and damage, Stevenson said, was only "nominal."

Whittington is survived by a widow and one son.

CHICAGO VOTE IS TOMORROW

Army of 70,000 to Maintain Order in Hot Election For City's Mayor.

CHICAGO, Feb. 23. (AP)—An army of approximately 70,000 today made plans to maintain order in tomorrow's mayoralty and aldermanic primaries, with reports already before them of pre-election violence.

The reports came from the eighth and thirtieth wards and told of an attempt on the life of Theodore Clifford, a candidate for alderman, of two sluggings and two kidnappings. Clifford reported to police that two shots had been fired at him from another automobile as he rode alone in his own car last night. He was slightly hurt by flying glass broken when a bullet shattered the windshield.

Bernard Sheelan, 21, and John G. Grady, 20, complained they had been seized and beaten by hoodlums when they handed out campaign literature asking the selection of John O'Shay over John S. Clark. Simultaneously O'Shay headquarters reported that two unnamed men had been kidnapped in an automobile and attacked by their abductors before they were freed on the outskirts of the city.

Credentials were issued to 45,000 poll watchers by Judge Edmund K. Jarecki, supervisor of the election, and a force of 15,000 judges and clerks of election will be augmented by 5,000 policemen and a special city and county detail of several thousand men.

As primary day approached there was speculation about Alphonse Capone, the gang leader. Rumor had it that he was in Chicago. His attorneys said that he "probably" was, but just where could not be learned.

Meanwhile Mayor William Hale Thompson, Judge John H. Lyle, who issued a vagrancy warrant on Capone's arrest, Arthur F. Albert and George K. Schmidt, planned the windup of their fight for the republican mayoralty nomination. They called for them called for police guards.

Davis Will Aid In Campaign for Desired Measure

The bill introduced in the legislature last week to effect the disintegration of chain filling stations owned by major oil companies will have the support of Panhandle representatives and senators, according to Mel Davis, who is leaving tonight for Austin to work in the interest of the bill. He will be accompanied by Chester Weymouth and Ray Johnson of Amarillo. Mr. Johnson is of the firm of Underwood, Johnson, Dooley and Simpson.

The bill is modeled after the law which prevents packing companies from operating butcher shops. Its proponents argue that the filling stations operated by major oil and refining companies keep up the price of gasoline and continuously lower the price of oil. It is also said that the companies are monopolistic and kill competition.

If the bill became a law, all chain filling stations operated by refiners would be abolished.

Mr. Davis said before he left for the capital that he had no fears regarding the proposed gas tax bill. "It is generally conceded down here that the bill will be badly defeated. It hasn't a chance for passage," he declared. Mr. Davis returned from Austin recently.

Elm Trees Offered Cheap by Hoo Hoo

KANSAS CITY MAN KILLS 2

Claims Victims Attempted to Rob Him; Police Find No Weapons on Them.

KANSAS CITY, Kans., Feb. 23. (AP)—Declaring he had killed two men who attempted to rob him, Dayton Thomas, 46, surrendered to police early today and was held as a murder suspect in default of $7,500 bond.

Officers investigating Thomas' story found the bodies of John McNally, 28, and Joe Carmody, 27, shot to death in their automobiles.

Police said Thomas told them McNally was driving him home from a late party when Carmody overtook them, forced them to the curb, and then left his vehicle to approach McNally's car.

Thomas said he fired upon Carmody who staggered back into his automobile. As Thomas was investigating, officers quote him as saying, McNally attempted to drive away, whereupon Thomas fired upon and killed him. Police said search of the bodies revealed the two men were unarmed.

Hoover Studies Need of Veterans

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23. (AP)—President Hoover, preparatory to vetoing the veterans loan bill, is having an inquiry made throughout the country to ascertain the degree and number of veterans in distress.

At the White House today, it was said various federal agencies are making queries to ascertain also how effective the legislation would be as a relief measure.

Under the bill the ex-soldier would be able to borrow up to 60 per cent of the face value of his adjusted compensation certificate.

The measure is to be vetoed between now and Thursday. Efforts are to be made in congress to override the veto at once.

Taking $1,000 as the average value of the certificates, the president was said already to have ascertained there are 210,000 veterans who would be able to borrow $16,000,000, or $80 a piece, if they had received no advance already on their certificates.

CURTAIN FOR DAME MELBA

Great Soprano Loses Fight With Strange Malady Caught in Egypt.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Feb. 23. (AP)—The curtain was rung down today on the life of Dame Nellie Melba, one of the purest sopranos grand opera has ever known, after weeks abed with a strange illness which baffled physicians.

Seventy-one years old, the famous prima donna for several days had fought a losing battle with a skin malady picked up in Egypt, and aggravated by a long journey home from Europe before Christmas and the extreme heat of the Australian summer. She died today in a Sydney hospital.

Friends believed she hastened her own end with insistence upon spending Christmas in her native Australia, disregarding the advice of her physicians in Europe under whose treatment she was growing better. She became ill again aboard ship and had to enter a hospital at Sydney before proceeding to Melbourne.

She was happy, however, in spending her last hours in this city, near where she was born, and from which she took her stage name, Melba. Her real name was Nellie Porter Mitchell, changed by her marriage in 1882 to Armstrong. Her father was David Mitchell, a contractor of Scottish blood, at Burnley, not far from here.

Known to all the world as the successor to Patti and Jenny Lind, Melba sang last in America at the New York Metropolitan in Paul in 1917-18, and after that was seldom heard in public. She was said to have retained the purity, sweetness and flexibility of her voice almost until the time of her death.

Her life with Capt. N. F. Armstrong, her husband, was not entirely happy. Shortly after birth of her son George Nesbit Armstrong, she became separated from both, and in April, 1900, Captain Armstrong, then a rancher near Galveston, Texas, obtained a divorce. She later became reconciled with her son.

She was made a dame of the British empire in 1922 in recognition of her war work and on King George's birthday in 1927 she received the grand cross of the order of the British empire.

Robert Hill Goes On Trial Today

EASTLAND, Feb. 23. (AP)—Robert Hill, last of Cisco's Santa Clara bank robbers, went to trial here today for the slaying of G. E. Bodine, Cisco police chief. Twelve veniremen had been questioned by noon, but none chosen for service. The defense exercised 11 peremptory challenges and the state one. A venire of 100 had been called.

Hill is already under 99-year sentence for robbery with firearms in connection with the case. He escaped from Wynn prison farm in 1929, but was recaptured at El Paso about a month ago when he attempted to cross the international border.

JURY BILL ENGROSSED

AUSTIN, Feb. 23. (AP)—The house today engrossed a bill by Representative McGill of El Paso to permit 10 jurors to concur in a verdict in a civil case. The vote was 59 to 49.

The bill came up on special order as a result of an error in the voting machine last week. The machine had showed an amendment by Representative Pope of Corpus Christi, striking out the enacting clause, had been adopted. A check of the machine the next day, however, disclosed the Pope amendment had been defeated.

TIME IS NOT SUFFICIENT TO CONSIDER IT

All Tariff Bills Meet Same Fate in Ways and Means Committee — Hawley Keeps Vote Secret.

HAS RESOLUTION

Specific Ballot on Petroleum Restriction Is Voted Down Before Postponement of All Hearings.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23. (AP)—All embargo and tariff bills including the proposed limitation on oil imports were rejected by the house ways and means committee.

Chairman Hawley said that after voting down a proposal to limit oil imports to 16,000,000 barrels annually, the committee adopted a resolution postponing all action on the temporary agriculture embargo and the Williamson bill to ban all Russian products.

Hawley declined to make public the vote in the committee. The resolution adopted read: "Whereas, in the opinion of the committee there would not be sufficient time during the remainder of the present session for the consideration of tariff or embargo bills, therefore be it resolved that the consideration of all such bills be referred to and pending before the committee be postponed." The committee does not expect to meet again this session.

The postponement resolution session was adopted 13 to 7. Before it was adopted, democratic Leader Garner moved that oil legislation for a protection tariff be excepted but was defeated 13 to 3.

Representative Ramsey, republican, Iowa, then asked that the Burton bill for a temporary embargo on depressed agricultural products endorsed by Chairman Legge be excepted. This was rejected 17 to 3.

There was no direct vote on the Capper-Garber oil imports restriction bill.

Little Wisconsin Town Is Location Of Price Making

CHICAGO, Feb. 23. (AP)—A perfunctory transaction between two dealers each Friday morning in the little Wisconsin city of Plymouth sets the wholesale price of American cheese throughout the entire United States for the ensuing week. Plymouth, a city of perhaps 5,000 population and not even important enough to be the county seat, is the home of the Wisconsin cheese exchange, probably the most powerful and dominating influence in the American cheese industry today.

The conduct of that market is unexciting. Each Friday morning a dealer walks into the trading room and lists the amount of cheese he wishes to sell by writing on the bulletin board opposite his name the number of boxes of one style or another he wishes to sell. Presently another dealer walks into the room and writes down his bid. Then he, too, walks out. Almost invariably the number of boxes offered is 180, and the styles are the ones on which the market price is based.

No one else appears to offer or bid. When the secretary closes the "board" at the specified time, the transaction is completed, since the articles of incorporation specify: "All cheese listed and left on the bulletin board without protest shall be considered sold." And these prices are accepted as standard by cheese dealers throughout the nation.

This exchange is the outgrowth of a number of cheese exchanges located in many parts of Wisconsin where cheese was once bought and sold. It differs from the ordinary trading exchange in that it does not deal in future deliveries.

The methods of conducting the exchange have been severely criticized and has been under investigation by the Wisconsin department of agriculture and markets for several months. The results of the investigation will be made public next Thursday at Fond Du Lac, where a statewide meeting of cheesemakers, dealers, farmers, dairymen and state officials has been called.

Mrs. Irving Cohen and children, Harold and Betty, of Shreveport, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Frank Goodhalter.

INSUFFICIENT ADVERTISING

When Governor-elect Sterling told the manufacturers of Texas the other day that they needed to advertise more he called attention to what probably is a major retarding factor in the industrial development of this state. Texas has never been a state noted for advertising in any phase of activity and as a result the activities of Texas are comparatively obscure.

We have resort climates, scenic beauties, and historical attractions in Texas that should make this state one of the winter playgrounds of the nation, but it has never been popular with the tourist because we have never advertised our advantages.

Now the cry is going out calling upon the people of the state to rally to the support of Texas manufacturers by using goods made in Texas, and the people, although they doubtless are eager to contribute to the prosperity and progress of the state in this way, are bewildered because of ignorance of the manufacturing interests of the state.

How many Texas-manufactured products can you name? Recently much publicity was given to a candidate for governor because he made his campaign dressed in Texas-made clothes. Undoubtedly there must be some clothes manufacturing plants in Texas, but it is safe to say that few people outside of the cities in which they are located can name the brand which is manufactured there. When we don't know what brand is made in Texas how can we carry out our desire to help the Texas manufacturer?

Others are exploiting their advantages with well-directed advertising, but in Texas residents of the state themselves are ignorant of the activities carried on in the state as well as the geographical attractions because no effort has been made to inform them. People don't search for secrets in the busy world of today. They don't have to, because there are too many ready to tell them how they can satisfy their wants. It is time for Texas to join in the telling.—Vernon Record.

EXTENDING THE MARRIAGE LAW FIELD

In connection with his contemplated legislation modifying the present Texas marriage law until such time as its scope will be broadened by the adoption of a similar law in neighboring states, Senator Pink Parrish of Lubbock has been gathering some interesting data.

Business men of Clovis, N. M., estimate that their city's location near the state line brought more than $15,000 into the town in 1930. Of this amount, there were more than $2,000 went for clerk's fees for issuing licenses, as estimated $7,000 went for marriage fees, and an equal amount was spent by the newlyweds and their friends and relatives.

The clerk at Clovis issued 1,417 licenses, most of them to Texas couples. Although Clovis probably profited more than other cities, all towns along the Oklahoma and New Mexico state lines were visited by those seeking to escape the requirements of the Texas law that intentions to marry should be filed three days in advance.

Roswell, N. M., more than 100 miles across the state line, furnished licenses to 100 Texas couples, so eager were they to marry outside of Texas.

Amarillo sold 219 licenses in 1930, compared with 438 the preceding year and more than 600 in 1928, before the law went into effect.

Wheeler, 18 miles from the Oklahoma line, sold 34 certificates compared with 158 in 1929, although the new law went into effect June 12, 1929.

Crosbyton, which is more centrally located, issued more marriage licenses from January 1 to June 12, 1929, than have been issued since that date.

In Tulsa, which is about midway between New Mexico and Oklahoma, and almost inaccessible to the latter, the 1930 figure was less than half that of 1928, or 30 and 64 respectively. Memphis, near the Oklahoma line, issued 43 in 1930 and 175 in 1928.

Reports are similar throughout the Panhandle, although the marriage rate should be rapidly increasing along with the growth in population.

Figures are not at hand for El Paso but it is known that a similar condition exists here with a consequent increase in the number of licenses issued at Las Cruces, New Mexico.

A somewhat similar condition will be found along the borders of other states where there are no particular marriage restrictions.

This is due largely to the desire of many for the novelty of having the marriage ceremony performed in another state.

However, the increase which has been shown all along the Texas border indicates that there is something more than this desire which has led so many to go to Oklahoma, Louisiana and New Mexico for marriage licenses.

It would appear that until similar restrictions are adopted by the group of states in this section, the present marriage laws of Texas are only tending to send many out of the state to have the knot legally tied and without delay.—El Paso Herald.

Faithful Horse Burns in Shack

CHICAGO, Feb. 23. (AP)—For years Patrick Dooley, 65, a rheumatic cripple, and his horse, "Old Faithful," lived together in a one-story patched-up shack.

"Old Faithful" slept in the rear. Dooley had his quarters in the front.

A door separated them during sleeping hours, but during working hours they were always together, doing little odd jobs of hauling that paid dividends to both.

Last night Dooley sat in his chair in the front section of the house fast asleep. Fire broke out about the straw covered quarters of "Old Faithful." Dooley slept on, undisturbed.

Four policemen burst in and had Dooley taken to a hospital, but they weren't able to rescue "Old Faithful."

On the door leading to Dooley's room the police reported they had found fresh horseshoe marks. They said they believed "Old Faithful" was trying to be faithful to the end by pawing the door to warn his master.

Dooley may recover.

Horse racing under a regulation similar to that in Illinois would be permitted in Missouri under terms of a bill introduced yesterday by Representative Wisdom.

Brooklyn Gang Battles Rivals

NEW YORK, Feb. 23. (AP)—"The Hoodlums," a gang from the Red Hook section of Brooklyn, battled with "the Hudson Avenue boys" in a Brooklyn dance hall early today.

The casualty list was one man dead, another critically wounded and an uncounted number slightly injured. Police said the Hoodlums were Irish youths and the Hudson Avenue boys an Italian faction.

There were between 900 and 1,000 men and women, most of the latter girls in their teens, on the floor of Paramount Danceland when the trouble started.

They fought wildly to get the exits. In the scramble women were trampled under foot, clothing was torn and faces scratched.

When police arrived friends of Charles Barnes, 24, a chauffeur, were helping him down the stairs. Patrolmen took charge of him, loaded him in an automobile, and started for a hospital. Before they got there he was dead from two bullet wounds.

Michael Maselli, 26, was shot by a policeman who said Maselli reached for his hip pocket as though to draw a revolver. The man was believed to be dying at a hospital.

A siren placed on the roof of the dance hall for such emergencies, was the signal which brought police swarming into the place.

When they got there 250 persons still were on the floor, struggling to get to exits. The place was in darkness.

Detectives said the overt act which precipitated the warfare came when the orchestra was playing "home, sweet home." One of the gangsters ordered a dancing couple to get off the floor and go home. They paid no attention to him. A moment later the lights went out and the gunplay started. At least 30 shots were fired, police said, but Barnes was believed to be the only person hit. It was the police theory that the dancer ordered hours belonged to one gang and the man who gave the order, to another.

Senator Moore Is Blamed For Bill

AUSTIN, Feb. 23. (AP)—Senator Holbrook of Galveston today, in speaking on a point of personal privilege, charged Seth or Moore of Greenville with introducing and passing by the state affairs committee a bill drawn to "absolutely annihilate and destroy" the state psychiatric hospital at Galveston. Holbrook charged Moore with introducing the bill and reporting it from committee during his absence.

The bill was re-referred to the state affairs committee on motion of Holbrook. Moore said he would concur with Holbrook in his motion.

"TEXAS HISTORY MOVIES"

ITURBIDE HAS WRESTED MEXICO AND TEXAS FROM SPAIN. REPUBLICANS OF MEXICO HAVE MURDERED ITURBIDE AND ARE NOW IN POWER. TEXAS IS DECEASED. NOW WE LEAVE THE STORY TO BEGIN A NEW ONE.

Thus far we have told of brave explorers; of dashing heroes of battle; of mad pirates; of ambitious soldiers who would be Kings—
Jolly adventurers all.

NOW COMES THE HISTORY OF

Stephen Fuller Austin

"If he, who by conquest, wins an empire, receives the world's applause, how much more is due to those who by unceasing toil, lay in the wilderness the foundation of an infant colony, and build thereon a vigorous and happy state! Surely there is not among men a more honorable destiny than to be the peaceful founder and builder of a new empire. Such was the younger Austin."

NOW BEGINS THE CHRONICLE OF THE ANGLO-AMERICAN COLONIZATION OF TEXAS, THE EVENT THAT MADE US ALL WHAT WE ARE TODAY.

TO BEGIN THIS TALE WE MUST GO BACK MANY YEARS.

NANCY EARLE ARRIVES SUNDAY; EAGER ABOUT SCHOOL

First Talk Will Be Tomorrow At City Hall Auditorium; Feminine Readers of News-Post Are Invited

Nancy Earle arrived in Pampa Sunday afternoon, and is expected to be in the city hall auditorium tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the city hall auditorium. She was met by representatives of this newspaper and was taken on a motor tour of Pampa and surrounding country Sunday afternoon.

"Such hospitality!" she exclaimed after meeting a few Pampa people. "She likes the people and is eager to begin work with them. The school will continue each afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and an additional lecture will be given on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in order the business and professional women may have an opportunity to come in contact with this lovely woman."

"Is she beautiful?" some one asked. "One hardly knows — or cares. For she is more than beautiful. She is charming."

"And you should see her clothes!" exclaimed a correspondent of the News-Post who attended one of the schools in another city.

"Trunks and bags and boxes," writes our correspondent, "you never saw such an array! It was a delight, this exploring the gorgeous wardrobe of somebody else, finger-finger fluffy nothings, smoothing soft, exotic velvets, peering into intriguing hatboxes, being properly awed by foreign labels, and wondering how a simple length of cloth can become a delectable gown when slipped over a charming head. Nancy Earle was most gracious about it. She frankly loves clothing and likes talking about them, and her ideas about gowning include far more than a mere, 'Isn't this pretty?' She is the least vain of persons."

"Nancy Earle has the utmost taste in dress, a taste that has been developed by much study and by a contact with the latest modes in this country and abroad. A note of exquisite simplicity predominates in every costume, with an incredible smartness achieved by the use of the gown and its perfect suitability to the wearer. This, and just that inspired touch of difference which her every costume seems to achieve—perhaps it is a whimsical note of color, a fan, a jewel, or her coiffure which she seems to be able to make a part of the gown. There are some colors which she never wears and some fabrics, because as she explained, they would be a violation of her personality type. Every accessory is scrutinized rigidly for this same purpose. Jewels? Yes, but this kind and not that kind, this with this gown, but never with that. And frequently none at all, when her principles of effective decoration indicate no need of it. Every wisp of handkerchief, even, is made to contribute to some definite bit to the effect she wishes to create. And perfume? Perfumes, too, have definite personalities, she says, and one must understand them before she chooses.

"In discussing clothes, Miss Earle said, 'A woman's gowns should express her personality. She should regard them not merely as the practical covering of her person, but as a means of establishing herself as an interesting and distinctive individual. Our clothes represent one means of weaving an aura of colorful interest about ourselves. Miss Earle maintains that this is not vanity. It's merely that we owe it to ourselves not to let the humdrum workaday push us down into a rut of dull monotony, because we soon become dull and monotonous and old ourselves. Life is prosaic, isn't it? And practical, too, for all of us. And sometimes hard. But let's seize upon every possible way to surmount it and make it more poetic and gayly courageous. The tilt of our hats, the way we walk, our perfume, our clothes, can be gallant stepping stones upward out of the dull desert of life. It's a matter of psychology, you know."

"We need not spend extravagant sums to put the principle into effect. The simple gingham apron can be made a stepping stone. If a woman has one costume a year, it can be the ultimately perfect thing for her, if she chooses it according to principle."

"Let's poetize ourselves!" pleads Miss Earle. "If we don't do it ourselves, nobody else is likely to! However many pennies we spend, let's make them count. It isn't the number of pennies. It's a matter of principle, and imagination, and inner glory."

HAS SCHOOL BILL

AUSTIN, Feb. 23. (AP)—S. M. N. Marrs, state superintendent of schools, said today he would have a bill introduced which would enable many public schools to carry out their contracts with teachers and keep open for the desired length of term. He said emergency legislation was necessary on account of the new law which allowed tax payments to be deferred until Oct. 15.

Under the plan school trustees would be authorized to issue interest-bearing warrants in payment of salaries this year. "The warrants will be negotiable and teachers will be able in the majority of cases to cash them at face value," Marrs stated.

MENU for the FAMILY

By SISTER MARY

NEA Service Writer

Many of our pet superstitions about foods, cooking methods and digestibility are being shattered by scientific investigation and research. Some of the beliefs are based on prejudice and tradition, others on the unhappy experience of a few individuals with digestive peculiarities, and almost none on a sound knowledge of nutrition.

There are, of course, some people with whom certain foods "do not agree." When this is discovered, it is well to avoid those foods. One should be sure, however, that the idiosyncrasy is real and not fancied.

Persons who are in normal health, and who do not over-indulge in some specially liked and delicious food may enjoy almost any palatable combination with no misgivings.

One fallacy that is quite commonly encountered is the one that acid foods produce acidity in the system. The taste of food is no guide to its final reaction in the body, for it is only after the system has made use of its fuel that the nature of the ash can be determined. Some foods after being digested and utilized by the body, have an acid reaction in the blood and others an alkaline reaction. Although lemons are sour to the taste because of the organic acids they contain, the effect of the lemon is the effect of its ash, which is basic, not acid. Apples, bananas, muskmelons, oranges and potatoes have been found experimentally to be very efficient in reducing body acidity.

In order to maintain a balanced diet it is important that foods having an acid reaction are adequately offset by those having an alkaline reaction. Generally speaking, fruits, vegetables and milk leave an alkaline ash. Breadstuffs and all cereals, meat, fish, eggs, peanuts, prunes and plums leave an acid ash. In this connection it is interesting to compare rice and potatoes. Both are sources of starch and we often find rice used as a substitute for potatoes. Since potatoes tend to balance the acidity of meat while rice accentuates the acidic content of the diet, it is quite obvious that rice is not an adequate substitute for potatoes.

Pancakes, waffles, muffins, and breads of all sorts are not in themselves unwholesome food, but they have a bad reputation with many people. In the first place they are usually eaten without proper mastication on account of their softness in structure. Second, they are usually served with much butter and a syrup of some variety, and the tendency is to eat largely of such combinations to the exclusion of other more essential foods. Third, they are very appetizing, and cause most people to overeat.

Veal is no more indigestible than fish, chicken or beef. In France it is given to invalids as we give chicken in this country.

The practice of pouring milk or cream on fruits was formerly considered a poor thing to do. Now we are told that the acid of the fruit hastens the digestion of the milk.

AMERICA'S ONLY KNOWN MATADOR IS INJURED BY BULL

FRANKLIN IS GORED IN LEG BY ANIMAL

Spanish Rival Goes to Aid of Prostrate Man; Who Faints But Returns to Receive Ovation.

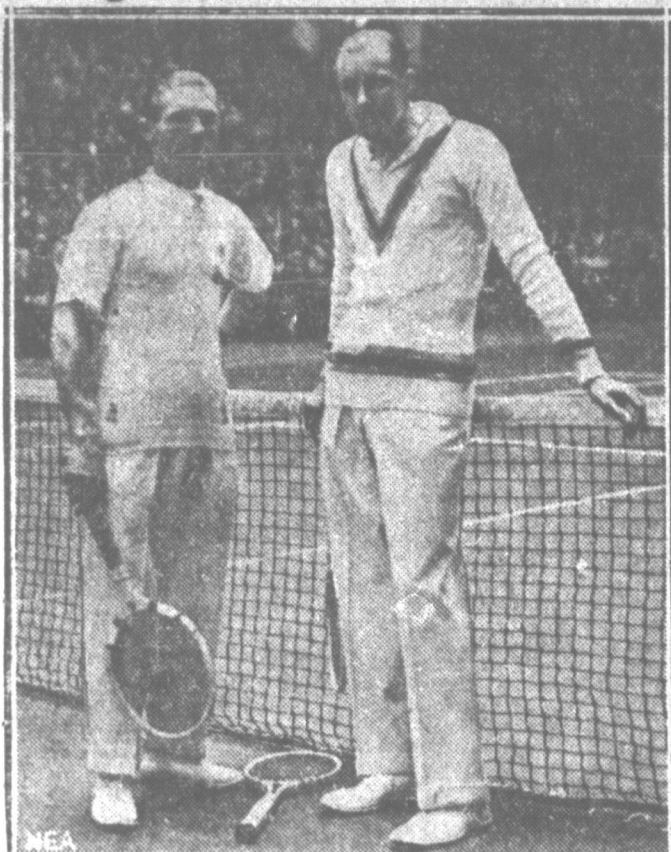

LAREDO, Feb. 23. (P)—Sidney Franklin, America's only known matador, was resting in a hospital here today from a gash in the leg suffered yesterday when he was gored by a bull in an arena in Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, during a bull fight arranged as an event of Laredo's thirty-third annual Washington's birthday fiesta.

The bull subsequently was killed by Marcel Landa, famous Spanish bull fighter and Franklin's rival in the arena yesterday. Franklin had slipped on soft sand and was at the mercy of the charging bull for several minutes, before picadores finally distracted the animal's attention. Franklin leaped to his feet and started waving a red flag at the animal but Landa, seeing Franklin's leg bleeding, rushed to the rescue.

A moment later, the American fainted and had to be borne from the arena. Landa finished the bull, but before the next fight was concluded, Franklin returned to the ring, receiving an ovation from Mexican and American admirers.

Physicians said they were doubtful that the wound would heal sufficiently for him to appear in a bullfight arranged for next Sunday in Mexico just across the border from Eagle Pass. A street parade today will conclude festivities of the celebration. Units of the parade were the twenty-third U. S. Infantry band, the eighth United States engineers, a Mexican military band, the Cowboy band of Simmons university, Abilene, the Knights of Columbus band of San Antonio, the American Legion drum and bugle corps, and groups from many local organizations here and in Nuevo Laredo.

One of the largest throngs ever to witness a net battle saw the lanky Tilden, who ruled amateur tennis in this country for ten successive years, defeat his Czechoslovakian opponent, 6-4, 6-2, 6-4, in the first of their series of matches for the world crown. They are to carry on their two-man tournament on an international tour.

ROUGH GOING FACES TEAMS ON WEEK-END

Twenty-Six Cage Outfits Left in Running; Thirteen to Emerge Saturday.

AUSTIN, Feb. 23. (P)—Out of gruelling rounds of district play champions of 26 Texas high school basketball teams rested this week in anticipation of rough going in bi-district play scheduled for Friday and Saturday.

Out of this week-end's round of play will come the 13 teams making up the entry list of the 1931 state basketball tournament to be held here March 6-7.

A new opponent, Groveton high, the winner of the title in district 13, will face Athens high Hornets this week-end. The Groveton five fought its way into the bi-district round through a 48 to 22 win over the Grapeland high five while Athens Hornets were shooting from all angles to turn back the Huntington high Red Devils 50 to 33.

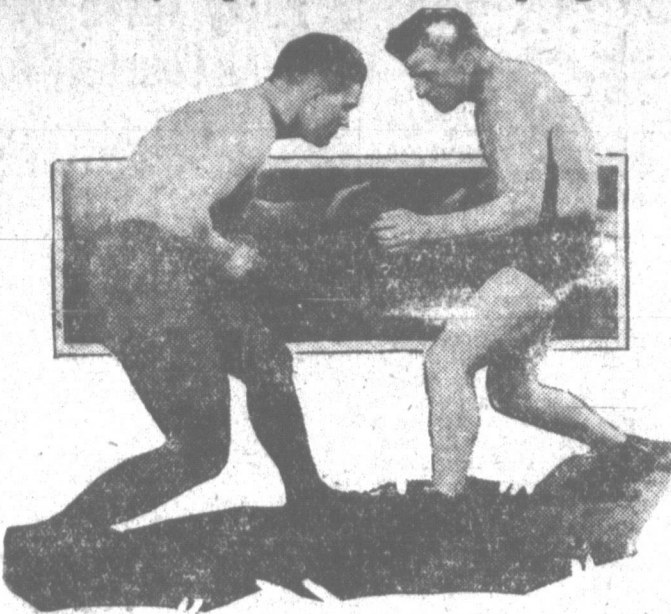

Roy B. Henderson, athletic director of the University Interscholastic league, today said final arrangements for bi-district play were incomplete. The district winners will meet on Friday and Saturday.

The pairings for bi-district play are: Dallas vs. Plano, Crowley vs. Nocona, Grob vs. Winfield, Alba vs. Denton, Big Spring vs. Breckenridge, Bardwell vs. Mexia, Athens vs. Groveton, Locker vs. Winters, Buna vs. San Jacinto high of Houston, Sidney Lanier of San Antonio vs. Bloomington, and Mathis vs. Weslaco.

Henderson said Feb. 28 was the deadline for bi-district play.

RED ARMY CELEBRATES

MOSCOW, Feb. 23. (P)—The Red army today celebrated its thirtieth anniversary with parades, speeches and other enthusiastic evidences that it was ready to defend Russia against any invasion.

The commissar of war, Vofroshchik, issued an order of the day bidding the army be on its mettle because, he said, the country was being continually threatened by "imperialistic war."

Russia stands for peace, he said, but this does not mean that the country would permit any invasion of its rights.

According to government figures the Red army numbers 562,000, which officials declare is the smallest in proportion to total population in all of Europe.

TRI-STATE MAT CARD INCLUDES FARLEY, HALLAS

AMARILLO, Feb. 23. (P)—Three big wrestling matches on one card will be the pre-fat Stock Show attraction next Friday night, Feb. 27, at the Municipal auditorium in Amarillo.

The program will mark the return to the ring of Cal Farley, outstanding contender for the welterweight crown. The Amarillo business man will meet Billy Hallas of El Paso, another outstanding welterweight. Farley and Hallas have met several times, and the result has always been a sensational match. Farley's last bout was with Jack Reynolds, the champion, in Amarillo last June.

The semi-windup will see the famous "ape man," Dutch Mantell, of Amarillo, matching holds with "Blacksmith" George Pedigo of Toledo, Ohio. Pedigo has wrestled his way up the welterweight ladder until he is among top-notchers, while Mantell's ability is known far and wide.

The third match will feature Bob Roy of Amarillo and Bob Bennett of San Francisco. Roy is a youngster who has won his spurs on recent trips through the southwest and west, while Bennett, who is on his way east after a successful conquest of the Pacific coast, has proven the sensation of the last few months in Amarillo. His showing against Jack Rose and Pete Brown the last two weeks has convinced fans that he is one of the greatest stylists the game has ever known. The triple card will be sponsored by the Tri-State Fair association.

LONDON'S WRESTLES TONIGHT

NEW YORK, Feb. 23. (P)—Jim London, recognized in some states as heavyweight wrestling champion, defends his title against Jim McMillen, University of Illinois alumnus, in Madison Square Garden tonight with another sell-out in prospect. London recently defeated McMillen in a title match that drew more than 30,000 into the Garden.

WALKER WILL BOX TUESDAY

His Heavyweight Opponent Is To Be Johnny Risko, the Favorite Target.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 23. (P)—Mick Walker will renew his heavyweight campaign in a 10-round match tomorrow night with the durable Johnny Risko of Cleveland. The fight is the first of a double-barrelled festive carnival under the palms this winter in the Miami arena built by the Madison Square Garden corporation, which withdrew from the setting this year after promoting two annual festivals of 1930.

Stirling is directing the Walker-Risko show and featuring it with three-round exhibitions by his son, Young Stirling, and Max Schmeling, who are matched to fight this June for the world's heavyweight title somewhere in Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago or Jersey City.

On March 5, Primo Carnera, the umbrageous Italian, is booked to defy the handicap of a cracked rib and take on the erstwhile Boston conqueror, Jimmy Maloney, in a 10-round contest under the production of Frank J. Bruen.

George Pipgras Is Recovering Rapidly

MUSTANGS IN TIE AS HORNED FROGS SPURT

Issue May Not Come to Front For Week—Will Clash in Fort Worth in Last Game.

DALLAS, Feb. 23. (P)—Traveling stride for stride again, Southern Methodist and Texas Christian will battle down the home stretch this week in quest of the Southwest conference basketball crown. Although each has three tough games scheduled in the next six days, there is possibility the issue will not be settled until they clash a week from tonight at Fort Worth in the final tilt on the schedule. Either could drop the decision this Friday and Saturday nights they will be hosts to the University of Arkansas Razorbacks, retiring champions here. If Jake Reynolds and Rhea Williams regain their goading eyes, the Methodists will be favored to capture at least two of the three, assuring them a shot at the flag.

Southern Methodist, beaten twice last week after having won its first six contests, will wind up a disastrous south Texas trip tonight against the Rice Owls at Houston. Friday and Saturday nights they will be hosts to the University of Arkansas Razorbacks, retiring champions here. If Jake Reynolds and Rhea Williams regain their goading eyes, the Methodists will be favored to capture at least two of the three, assuring them a shot at the flag.

Texas Christian, back at the top again after a month's lapse, faces two tough engagements away from home. Tuesday night the Frogs tackle the Texas Aggies at College Station, duly forewarned by what happened to S. M. U. on the same floor Saturday. Wednesday they will wind up their south Texas business against Rice at Houston, returning to play Baylor Saturday night at Fort Worth.

The other games carded the final week concern only the also-rans. The Texas Longhorns, beaten eight straight and no relief in sight, entertain the Rice Owls Thursday night and their old rivals, the Aggies, on Saturday. The games will afford the Steers a last opportunity to do right by their handsome new gymnasium.

Closely-Knit Dry Body For Political Purposes Opposed

BY JOHN F. CHESTER
WASHINGTON, Feb. 23. (AP)—Proposals to create a single all-embracing dry organization to fight through the 1932 presidential campaign were reported today to have drawn vigorous objections at the prohibition "board of strategy" meeting.

The strategy board, with almost all of its 16 members present, at closed sessions was reported to have agreed upon the necessity of mobilizing the dry forces before 1932, with a co-ordination to eliminate overlapping effort, but some leaders were said authoritatively to object to a too close-knit organization.

Earlier it had been reported that virtual agreement had been reached upon a plan that would institute somewhat of a "board of directors" idea. Whether this now will be reported to the national conference of organizations supporting the eighteenth amendment meeting here tonight, could not be learned.

Meantime a statement, was published today by the Methodist Episcopal board of temperance, warning the democratic party to "stop slapping democratic dry sentiment in the face" and to keep "moral issues" out of the 1932 campaign.

"In 1928," the board said, "the same men who are today saying that the democratic party must be we're hooting at the very idea that Governor Smith would lose southern states because of his attack upon prohibition."

"What happened in 1928 will almost certainly happen in 1932 if national democratic leadership once again plays with the buzz saw of southern and western resentment."

Chicago Convicts Shot To Death

JOILET, Ill., Feb. 23. (AP)—Prison guards, forewarned of an impending plot by prisoners to escape, early yesterday shot to death three Chicago convicts who scaled the wall of the old state penitentiary in a futile dash for liberty.

Aided by a powerful prison searchlight, the guards, posted outside the prison walls, with machine guns as their weapons, found the three men easy targets and mowed them down before they had a chance to reach two automobiles parked on a roadside near the prison, presumably by confederates.

The occupants of the cars, pursued by guards in two automobiles, drove rapidly toward Chicago, and escaped, apparently untouched by shots fired at them as they fled.

Joseph Norkiewicz, 31, and Julio Chileno, 39, both serving time for a confidence game, and Alvin J. Kellman, 34, a convicted robber, were the men killed. They were part of a kitchen detail of five convicts. Overpowering Frank Lambert, a lone guard, who was with them in the refectory house, they thrust him into a refrigerator and slammed the door, about 3 a. m.

Using large sticks taken from an adjoining bakery, and nails smuggled from the prison machine shop, the flatters constructed a crude ladder which they carried across the prison yard to the southeast corner. Here they placed the ladder against a tool shed and barber shop and mounted to the roof, clamping a cable, also stolen from the machine shop, onto an abutting wall.

Vanderlip, note, financier, was one of the heaviest winners in the recent sensational rise of Auburn auto stock above the 200 mark, but he seems far more interested in caring for one of his prized pets, a rare breed of crane, with which he is shown at his winter estate in the Palos Verdes Hills, near Los Angeles. Answering reports that he was sponsoring activity of the motor stock, Mr. Vanderlip grinned and said, "My position has been and is only that of a darn long time investor. The last stock I bought was at 105." Vanderlip is a former president of the National City Bank of New York.

Washington Sets Capitol Busy As Day Is Celebrated

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23. (AP)—With holidays for all but President Hoover and congress, the capital devoted itself today to celebrating in earnest the 100th birthday of George Washington.

President Hoover remembered the father of his country yesterday by attending divine services in Alexandria. He occupied the pew in the Christ church in which George Washington often sat.

The broad avenues of the capital were lined with stars and stripes waving in a brisk breeze. Here and there the flags of foreign nations fluttered their tribute from embassies and legations. Most of the churches held patriotic services but all lay organizations postponed until today the usual exercises.

This morning a military mass at the Church of the Immaculate Conception was the principal service, attended by a large body of American Legion members and a guard of honor of marines from the Quantico, Virginia base. Part of the picturesque ceremony was a presentation of massed colors. In the afternoon memorial continental hall was the chosen scene of a program sponsored by the Daughters, Sons and Children of the American Revolution.

Escaped Men In Cactus County

FLORENCE, Ariz., Feb. 23. (AP)—Fourteen convicts, including one murderer, who clambered over the state penitentiary wall here yesterday while a guard was not watching were being tracked through sagebrush and cactus of surrounding desert today.

Fifteen escaped, but one was captured. A steel girder, taken from a prison construction job enabled the convicts to climb to the top of the wall and drop 20 feet to the ground outside. The last man was seen by a guard as he sprinted for cover.

Warden William Belbridge immediately released bloodhounds and a guard detail. He personally relieved the wall guard, J. M. Daly, whom he described as "inattentive."

"There was no excuse for it," the warden said.

A baseball game had been in progress in the yard and several hundred prisoners had been taken from their cells to witness it. The warden said the escape plot apparently had been hatched on the spur of the moment.

John Quantrell, who slew a cook on the Anvil ranch in Pima county two years ago because he did not like the food, was among those who escaped. Nine were negroes.

Seven hundred guests at the annual Finnish club ball were held prisoners for five and one-half hours while immigration officials sought aliens for deportation. Sixteen men and two women were deported to Ellis Island.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

"Mind" was the lesson-sermon subject in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, Feb. 22.

Isaiah 11:9 furnished the golden text: "The earth shall be full of the knowledge of the Lord, as the waters cover the sea."

The lesson-sermon included the following passages from the Bible: "O the depths of the riches both of the wisdom and knowledge of God! how unsearchable are His judgments, and His ways are past finding out! For who hath known the mind of the Lord? or who hath seen His counsel? For by Him, and through Him, and to Him, are all things: to whom be glory forever"—Romans 11:33, 34, 36.

The following citations from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, were also included: "Mind is God, and God is not seen by material sense, because Mind is Spiritual, which material sense cannot discern . . . Mind is the I Am, or infinity. Mind never enters the finite, or matter . . . The divine Ego, or individuality, is reflected in all spiritual individuality from the infinitesimal to the infinite."

More Time For Pleasure Less Time To Grow Old

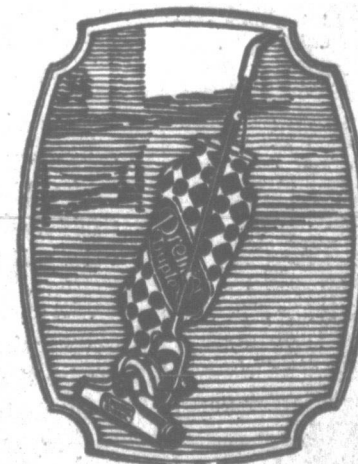

Count up the hours you spend in the kitchen every day, working over a hot stove, preparing this and that. Now divide this by two and you have approximately the time you would spend in an electrified kitchen. In an electrified kitchen your kitchen work becomes a pleasure and the drudgery of former days is just not there. You can cook your meals ahead of time and have extra hours of leisure.

Then count the hours you spend each day sweeping and dusting. Cut this in half and you have the time you would spend if you used an electric sweeper. You can save many other hours of labor by using other electric appliances, too.

A completely electrified home makes it possible for the homemaker to have better, more wholesome foods, and many extra hours every day for pleasure and recreation. It makes it possible for her to stay young and beautiful.

Miss Nancy Earle

The eminent authority on health, beauty and charm, who is conducting a five-session school here this week, heartily indorses the home electrical for the modern housewife, because it gives her more leisure, and more time to care for beauty and health—more time to say beauty and health—more time to stay

THE CRIME IN THE DUTCH GARDEN
BY HERBERT ADAMS

SYNOPSIS: Whose evil hand sent a grinning stone image crashing fatally on Annabelle Querdling as she sat at sunset in her Dutch garden? Roman's was taboo at her estate, where resided her niece, Evelyn and Marjorie; but Jimmie Haswell, London lawyer, had previously discovered Evelyn's engagement to Lionel Duckworth, a singer, when the two consulted him concerning death letters received by the splinter. Haswell, on a chance visit with his cousin, Donald Wade, Miss Querdling's neighbor, hastened to the garden with him and finds the police superintendent and constable investigating the murder. He discovers that the fatal seat had been moved so that the falling statue could not miss its target.

Chapter 4
WHAT THE GARDEN HEARD

Morrow Craig, the residence which Annabelle Querdling had inherited from her father, Richard Plantagenet Querdling, was more than large enough for her quiet household.

There were a dozen bedrooms and four reception rooms. The smaller drawing-room, at the side of the house, had been given to the nieces for their private use and they took Superintendent Richmond and his companions there to begin the questioning.

The superintendent invited Haswell to remain with him and Constable Roscoe. After Evelyn, Donald Wade and Lionel Duckworth withdrew, he produced his notebook and asked Marjorie, the first witness, to sit down. About a year older than her sister, her coloring and blue eyes were similar, but to Jimmie she did not appear as attractive.

"I knew your aunt, although I have only spoken to her a few times. How old was she?" asked Richmond.

"Sixty-nine," said the girl, in a low clear voice.

"Apart from those letters, had there been any trouble that you knew of?"

"I don't think so, but—in what way do you mean?"

"Well, was there ever a real quarrel? You cannot think of any one who might have wanted to injure her?"

The girl considered the question and paled a little, but her "No" was again quite firm.

"I see. Please tell me exactly who lives in the house."

"Only my sister and myself—with my aunt. And of course the servants."

"Had your aunt any other relations?"

"My brother, Vincent. He lives in London. We haven't seen him for four months."

"Now, Miss Blake, tell me of the servants. Any men?"

"Not in the house. There is Ben Acres, the gardener, and the chauffeur, Edward Green. But he is leaving. He—" she hesitated and her color returned—"he wanted to marry."

"Do you mean," asked Jimmie, smiling, "that your aunt dismissed Green because she disapproved of that marriage in particular or of marriages in general?"

"Of marriages in general," said the girl more warmly. "Aunt Annabelle was very good in many ways, but in that she was most unreasonable." A slight flush indicated that in this she disagreed with her aunt.

"Any besides these two men?"

"George Dent and Arthur—I don't know his name—help Ben. They live in the village," Marjorie supplemented. "There are three maids: Mrs. Frater, the cook—she's ill now—Janet Haynes and Hetty Smith, the housemaid."

"Were there others here last night?"

"Yes. Mr. Duckworth—you just saw him—dropped in and Dr. Netherton came to see the cook."

"Didn't someone mention Major Gregham?"

"I met him in the garden."

"Think carefully, Miss Blake," Inspector Richmond put the question slowly and deliberately. "Was there no one else in the house or gardens at about the time the tragedy occurred?"

She hesitated and her fair skin flushed and paled under his scrutiny.

"Tell me what happened."

"There was no one else she said. 'After dinner,' she began after a slight pause in which the memory appeared painful, 'my aunt went out to her usual seat in that garden. I went with her, but soon returned to the house. Afterwards, Mr. Duckworth came in. We brought him to this room and left him with my sister. Then I met Dr. Netherton.'

"Did Mr. Duckworth see your aunt?" interrupted Richmond.

"No. He came straight to this

Pampa Hoo-Hoo Club

Hoo-Hoo Club Aids Progress by Civic Work

"The fact that Pampa has continued to progress during the present period of depression is partly due to the confidence expressed by the Hoo-Hoo Club in its advertisements," said George Briggs, secretary of the Board of City Development, yesterday in commenting on local affairs.

"While they are not primarily a civic organization, they have supplied a need that no civic organization has attempted to fill—that of stimulating confidence in the minds of the people at a time when other cities were on a standstill, and as a result Pampa is steadily going ahead of all other cities and communities in this section.

"Their method of advertising is unique in this respect, that they do not advertise the lumber business directly, but are constantly seeking to locate new industries, and are backing every movement for the betterment of Pampa, realizing that every move for the upbuilding of Pampa calls for an investment in what they sell, and what is good for the community as a whole will benefit the lumber industry indirectly.

"The Hoo-Hoo Club has attracted more attention to Pampa than most people realize. The advertisements they have had in the News-Post have been reproduced in the national organ of Hoo-Hoo with comment by the editor; their ads have been photographed and bound into folders and mailed to all clubs throughout the universe. Right now the president of Hoo-Hoo is appearing at every meeting of lumbermen's district, state and national organizations and telling them about the work Pampa's club is doing. In the photostatic copies of their ads, the Pampa News-Post title line appears."—Pampa News-Post.

Aids the Blind

An inexpensive, rapid process for reading by the blind—which, it is said, will be 80 per cent cheaper than books made by the present Braille system—is the invention of Dr. K. Grandahl, above, newspaper publisher of Red Wing, Minn. His invention uses perforated rolls, somewhat like those in player pianos, the roll passing through a machine under the reader's finger tip.

Kansas to Hear "Alfalfa Bill"

TOPEKA, Feb. 23. (P)—Leaders and some of the rank and file of the democratic party in Kansas assembled here today for their annual day of political medicine making and to hear the doctrines of Gov. W. H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray of Oklahoma.

The Oklahoma chief executive will be the principal speaker tonight at the annual meeting of the Washington Day Dinner club and late this afternoon he will address members of the legislature in representative hall. He arranged to address service club members and farmers at a luncheon in Emporia this afternoon.

Successes of the democratic party in the election last fall and plans for the 1932 campaign were topics discussed by the milling crowds in hotel lobbies.

Gov. Harry H. Woodring shared honors with Governor Murray on the day's programs. Both are democrats.

"WET" CANDIDATE LOCKED IN PADDED CELL.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Feb. 23. (P)—Henry W. Haynes, self-anointed presidential candidate on a platform calling for public "beer fountains," awaited a sanity hearing in a completely bare cell of the city jail today after he had fired his padded cell yesterday and thereby caused one death.

Haynes, who says his home is Lake City, Fla., set fire to his mattress in the city jail Friday and was given over to the county pending a sanity hearing. Early Sunday he set fire to a padded cell in the county jail, and as a result a negro woman, charged with murder, was suffocated, another negro woman was in a critical condition, and 22 other women prisoners were taken to a hospital for treatment.

TRIAL IS POSTPONED

TEXARKANA, Feb. 23. (P)—Arrest in Oklahoma City of a man living in the same house with Jess Glascock when R. W. Hanks was kidnapped and shot December, recalled today in postponement of Glascock's trial for robbery with firearms. The trial was reset for March 9, when District Attorney R. G. Waters asked for time to investigate the new angle of the case.

Hanks, Redwater banker, was abducted from the yard at his home, forced to walk several miles, and then shot three times by his kidnappers. Hunters found him and brought help.

HOLIDAY OBSERVED

NEW YORK, Feb. 23. (P)—Wall street was on a holiday today. Following the usual custom when a holiday falls on Sunday, the financial community today observed Washington's birthday. The New York stock and curb exchanges, the banks and all of the commodity markets were closed.

STABBED MAN DIES

LULING, Feb. 23. (P)—Adam Bruscoe, 31, oil field store operator was bound over to the Caldwell county grand jury under $10,000 bail today in the fatal stabbing here Saturday of D. Kinnard, pumpman for the Gulf Refining company. Kinnard was seated in his automobile with his four children, a four months old baby in his lap, when he was stabbed with a pocket knife. An artery in Kinnard's leg was severed and he died 45 minutes later.

SEEK LOST SOLDIER

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 23. (P)—Army fliers from Brooks field, San Antonio, continued today their search near Satura Island, in San Antonio bay, for the body of Corporal R. E. Gibbons, mechanic in the 52nd service squadron at Brooks field, who was drowned late Saturday when a sailboat capsized in a sudden squall. Private Orlando, his companion, swam ashore, thinking Corporal Gibbons was following him.

Dog Missing?—He May Be Found In City Pound

Is your dog missing?

Maybe he's one of the 48 dogs at the local pound. If he is he won't be there long. One day this week, the dog-catcher, who looks like a wizard with his vicious scowl and sinister smile, will take the dogs one by one to a canyon back of the pound. There he will, as he declared this morning, "give 'em a ball of hot lead right between the eyes."

Why? Because none of the dogs are licensed, none have been vaccinated. The dogs will be kept in the pound a week to give their owners a chance to license and vaccinate them; then they will be shot. There is nothing anyone can do about it. It's a city ordinance. The dog-catcher hourly snoops up and down alleys, streets, hunting for unlicensed dogs. Pedigreed dogs and curs look alike to him.

Harvesters To Play Faculty's Team Tonight

There were indications on the various school campuses of the city this morning that the Harvesters' last basketball game of the season, to be played tonight at the local gym, would draw one of the biggest crowds of the season.

Interest is unusually high. Probably for the reason that the Harvesters will play the faculty team. The game will start at 7:30 o'clock. Proceeds of the game will go to the high school annual fund. It has been announced that every teacher in the Pampa school system and three-fourths of the high school students will be present to encourage their cage representatives.

Admission is 25 and 15 cents. The faculty starters will be Kelly and Weathered, guards; Sone and Selby, forwards; Mitchell, center; sub, Weare. Gordon, Workman, Roberts. The Harvesters' line-up will probably include Moore, James, Martindale, Salsbury, Lord, Poe, Chastain, Kennedy.

ANYWAY, SILENCE HELPS

CHICAGO, Feb. 23. (P)—Silence from friend husband and lots of it, may win bridge games.

Mrs. Trudie Pennish, crowned as champion woman bridge player of the Chicago area last night, gave the tip to a curious reporter.

"Does friend husband ever criticize your plays?" she was asked.

"Absolutely not," she replied. "He'd no more tell me how to play bridge than I'd tell him how to run his law business."

And there may be something to it for Robert W. Halpin, the man champion, said the same thing about his better half.

"She," he said, "just sits by—silently."

Piles Go Quickly

Without Salves or Cutting
Itching, bleeding, proctitis, piles are caused by bad circulation of the blood in the affected parts. The parts become weak, flabby, almost dead. Only an internal remedy can remove the cause—that's why salves, suppositories and cutting fail. Dr. Leonard's prescription, HEM-ROID, succeeds because it removes the cause, restores circulation, heals and strengthens the diseased parts. HEM-ROID has such a wonderful record of quickly ending even piles of long standing, that Father Drug Company says one bottle of HEM-ROID Tablets must end your pile agony or money back—adv.

TO AVOID PROHIBITION

DALLAS, Feb. 23. (P)—Jed C. Adams, democratic national committeeman from Texas, today said the committee should eschew the prohibition question entirely when it meets in Washington March 5.

"The national committee does not have any authority to commit the democratic party to any attitude on prohibition," Mr. Adams said. "That is a matter for the national convention to consider and act on."

Mr. Adams said he would be unable to attend the Washington meeting.

Ansley challenged the students when W. A. Stigler, assistant school superintendent, claimed that pupils nowadays spell better than those trained in the old Webster blue-backed text.

Prohibition Data Sent To Senate

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23. (AP)—Transfer to the senate by the Wickersham commission of prohibition data on some of the 14 states omitted from the material already sent to the capital was assured today by members of the commission.

While it was said at commission headquarters that data was lacking on conditions in six states or so, the remaining reports available are to be forwarded to the senators. Thirty-two states were covered in the information sent last week.

The new material deals with some states where anti-prohibition sentiment is very apparent—such as New York and Illinois.

Omission of some of the available data from the original consignment was said at the commission to have occurred through an inadvertence.

One commissioner, who wished his name withheld, said there was some dissatisfaction among the members that any testimony had been submitted to the senate without the approval of the full commission. He asserted the selection of what was sent, and what remained had been made entirely by Chairman Wickersham.

Insanity Defense Is Indicated By Jones

MIDLAND, Feb. 23. (AP)—Indications that the defense might indicate insanity were seen today as selection of a jury began for the trial of C. B. Jones, charged with slaying Weldon L. Russell, Abilene business man, here. Sam C. Wasaff, defense attorney, asked each juror if he would give the defendant an impartial hearing, require the state to prove Jones actually fired the shot that killed Russell, require the state to prove intent, and listen without bias if the defense should plead insanity.

Five jurors had been chosen at noon.

Russell died several hours after being shot in the abdomen at a party given in a private home here. Early 30 witnesses were summoned.

But one thing is so strange," said Frau Elsa. "That is the newspapermen. They want to write such funny things. I can't even be kind and talk to the milk man."

"It is no ridiculous," I called in the milk man to help show how to open a can. Then the newspapers print a story of my not knowing how to open an American can. Such a funny thing! I wish they wouldn't do those things. No sense to them."

"But everyone really is kind. We are not bothered. And such lovely gardens and flowers!"

While no one ever can question that Einstein thinks more of his home life than anything else, yet he is a husband, and like other husbands has human traits.

For instance, Frau Elsa frowns on cigars. The pipe is all right, but she thinks cigars are "not good for the heart."

But cigars are a temptation, even for Professor Einstein. He gets a real treat, compensating for the loss of a home-cooked meal, when he shyly takes a cigar after a banquet.

The first time they were passed around in Pasadena he waved the box by. His eyes followed it as it circled the little groups of friends at the luncheon. And when it came back to his left, his eyes were still on it. They twinkled as he slowly extended his hand.

"Ja, but don't mention it to the frau."

"Some say, 'I am going to die because there is no chance for me. They think that they have committed the unpardonable sin. There are some in every community who have. But many who thought they had have been saved. If I were you I would spend a lifetime, if necessary, trying to get back even if I thought I had committed that sin."

"My last words tonight are these: Some say they will die because they feel unworthy. I would not give the snap of my finger for a religion that does not make a man feel unworthy. All that God wants is for the unworthy to come to Him, as they are, and surrender completely. He asks nothing else."

An invitation has been extended to all to attend the services the remainder of this week. There will be two services each day through next Sunday, when the revival will close.

Funeral Director Likes Convention

Chas. O. Duenkel of the G. C. Malone funeral home, returned Saturday night from Oklahoma City, where he attended a two-day session of the joint conference on business procedure, for funeral directors.

The conference is a cooperative movement within the funeral profession to improve still further the standards of service to the public and to install better business methods. Mr. Duenkel said.

In accordance with the most advanced methods of instructions, the joint conference dramatized the problems of the funeral director and presented a variety of solutions through 14 plays performed in the Hucksley hotel by a troupe of Broadway actors.

The sessions were highly educational in nature," Mr. Duenkel said, "and I hope we will be able to pass on the benefits to the public."

The joint conference movement has been under way for several months and is attending a similar conference at Dallas this week.

BUNGALOW IS THRILL FOR MRS. EINSTEIN CARE OF HUSBAND IS HER PRINCIPAL TASK

In her temporary California home Mrs. Elsa Einstein has been deluged with mail. At left she is shown reading a family letter from Berlin. Her secretary separates the missives into three boxes—one for autographs, one for further inspection, and one for the fireplace.

PASADENA, Cal. (AP)—Frau Elsa Einstein thinks living in a California bungalow is just a grand thrill.

She takes care of her distinguished husband, Prof. Albert Einstein, as she would a child. Her great joy, she says, is seeing that he is fed right and dressed properly.

"The markets are so interesting," she says, and most every day she takes a shopping tour.

The Einsteins live simply, and comfort to them is a matter of primary consideration. The professor dodges as many dinners and luncheons as he can just to be at home for Frau Elsa's cooking.

"But one thing is so strange," said Frau Elsa. "That is the newspapermen. They want to write such funny things. I can't even be kind and talk to the milk man."

"It is no ridiculous," I called in the milk man to help show how to open a can. Then the newspapers print a story of my not knowing how to open an American can. Such a funny thing! I wish they wouldn't do those things. No sense to them."

EXECUTION—

and two children reside at Penwood, W. Va., once was an insurance salesman and Sunday school teacher there.

Together they took part in a series of holdups and robberies which culminated in the slaying of Paul. After the shooting they fled to Arizona, where they are captured after a second gun fight with officers.

Brought back to Pennsylvania, they were convicted in the Lawrence county criminal court at New Castle in March, 1930, and shortly thereafter were sentenced to be executed. Appeals were taken to high courts and all were denied. Petitions for clemency to the state pardon board also failed, and the governor was powerless to grant them a stay without a recommendation from the pardon board.

Mrs. Schroeder, as well as Dague, displayed an indifference to their fates, this attitude marking their long imprisonment at New Castle and the two days they were in the death house here.

Both Ate Heartily
Both ate heartily on their last day on earth, and among Mrs. Schroeder's requests was that she be provided with "funny" papers.

A lurid page in the crime history of the nation was written by Irene Schroeder and Walter Glenn Dague. Irene was 20, and mother of a four-year-old boy, when she became gunwoman and killer. Her husband had ceased to live with her. Dague had been a Sunday school teacher, a Wheeling automobile salesman, husband of a school teacher, and father of two children.

The woman, stolid and unromantic in appearance, and Dague, pale-eyed and dapper, were bound together in an illicit love and a short career of banditry.

Petty robberies and bold holdups perpetrated by the pair were climaxed by the killing of Corporal Brady Paul, of the Pennsylvania highway patrol, near New Castle, Pa., Dec. 27, 1929. Patrolman Ernest Moore was wounded at the same time. Later, as they fled west, the killers fought a policeman at St. Louis, Mo., and kidnaped and wounded one deputy sheriff and fatally wounded another in Arizona.

Robbed Grocery
On the morning of Dec. 27, 1929, Mrs. Schroeder, Dague and Tom Crawford, the woman's brother, had robbed a grocery store at Butler, Pa. A report of the robbery was sent to New Castle. Corporal Paul and Moore sped out along the New Castle-Butler road and stopped all approaching automobiles.

Dague and the woman stepped from the automobile with drawn weapons. There was gun fire. Moore testified at the woman's trial that she fired at Paul. The woman admitted she actively engaged in the shooting. Paul and Moore fell, the latter rendered unconscious by a bullet. The bandits then sped on. Paul died about an hour later. Moore recovered to tell his story at the trials of Mrs. Schroeder and Dague.

Days after the gun battle, the authorities found Mrs. Schroeder's little son with relatives near Wheeling and the boy, investigators said, unknowingly furnished information that linked his mother with the crime.

Was 27th Woman
Mrs. Irene Schroeder, who died in the electric chair at Bellefonte, Pa., today was the twenty-seventh white woman to be executed in this state.

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Newton D. Baker Silent On Report

NEW YORK, Feb. 23. (AP)—Former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker returned today from a vacation cruise in the Mediterranean. He declined to discuss the Wickersham commission's report, which he signed as a member of the commission despite his advocacy of repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

"Mr. Wickersham speaks for the commission," he said.

Mr. Baker left on the cruise a week before the report was made public.

Gen. John J. Pershing was designated by former Secretary Baker as "a commander who will go down through history." He said he had read 12 chapters of the general's memoirs, sent to him at Monaco.

What Pershing said about lack of ships hampering our war operations was true, Baker said, but added "it must be remembered the submarine entered largely into this problem."

"After the first month or two in modern warfare," he said, "it is a matter of improvisation. No nation can prepare for a long war. The consumption of materials is too great."

To a query about the possibility of his being the democratic nominee for president in 1932, he answered that it was "unimportant."

Federal Official Criticizes Italy

NEW YORK, Feb. 23. (AP)—An address in which John Lord O'Brien, first assistant attorney general of the United States, was quoted as indirectly criticizing Benito Mussolini rebounded in Italian-American circles today.

Speaking before the Union League club of Brooklyn Saturday night, Mr. O'Brien was quoted as follows:

"Thank God, we do not live in a country such as Italy, where a dictatorship of one man can make a horizontal slice in wages."

Asked to explain his remarks later, he said:

"Perhaps I made a poor choice of words in expressing my ideas. It was not my purpose to cast aspersions upon Italy or its rulers. I was giving expression to a contrast."

"I understand that when the depression came to Italy, Mussolini issued a manifesto ordering a 10 per cent cut in government salaries. I understand this was later extended further into private employment."

"The thought I had was that the federal government here has taken no such action."
