C-130 crashes during training

INDIAN SPRINGS AIR FIELD, Nev. (AP) — A C-130 transport plane carrying 68 people on an Army training mission crash-landed and burst into flames early today near a remote desert landing strip. Officials said at least three were killed, four were missing and most of those aboard escaped with minor injuries.

Lt. Col. Mike Wallace, an Air Force public information officer, said he had received reports that the runway at Indian Springs, 45 miles northwest of Las Vegas, was unfit, possibly as part of the training exercise.

Clark County Deputy Coroner Grant Davis said from Las Vegas that the Air Force told him three people had been killed and four others were missing and unaccounted for following the accident about 12:30 a.m. PDT.

The crash occurred one mile north of Indian Springs Air Field, an airstrip that is affiliated with Nellis Air Force Base.

Mary Ann Miller, who works in Indian Springs' only food market, said she felt the impact of the crash at her store 1 1/2 miles away. "I felt the building shake," she said.

In Washington, Capt. Virginia Prbyla, an Air Force spokeswoman, said the plane was believed to be carrying nine crew members and 59 passengers. She said the plane was a supporting element in a night training exercise involving the Army's 9th Infantry Division from Ft. Lewis, Wash. She said the exercises, which began Sept. 11, are designed to simulate joint Air Force-Army airlift operations in combat conditions.

Shelly Camp, a Las Vegas police officer who was at the scene, said earlier the Air Force told him four deaths had been confirmed.

Bob Barca, a public information officer for Nellis, said 61 of those aboard had been accounted for. He said 41 of them were treated for minor injuries and released, while the 20 others were admitted to hospitals.

Sgt. Joe Wiles, another public information officer for Nellis, said none of those hospitalized was thought to be critically hurt, and said most of the injuries were "orthopedic" such as broken arms or legs.

Wallace, public information officer at Nellis, said rescue workers spent hours trying to remove all passengers from the wreckage.

Firefighters rushed to the scene, but the plane burned for about four hours after the crash. Reporters, kept a half-mile from the wreckage, could see flames leaping 20 to 25 feet into the air.

Nellis has an ongoing military training exercise known as Red Flag which lasts for several weeks at a time. It is not known whether the crashed C-130, a Lockheed-built craft whose model name is Hercules, was involved in Red Flag.

The air field is home base to a large entourage of helicopters and other craft.

In Washington, Maj. Sam Martin, an Air Force public affairs officer, said the plane was attached to the 463rd Tactical Airlift Wing, from Dyess Air Force Base in Texas.

Nine military personnel were treated for various injuries — none described as critical — at Nellis Air Force Base near Las Vegas, said Dr. Charles Darianzo, chief of hospital services at the base. They were reportedly transported by military helicopter.

Presto! New United Way campaign appears

Campaign volunteers and United Way agency representatives gathered at noon today in the Yucca Theatre downtown to kick off the 1982 campaign. Aimed at raising $1.35 million — a 16 percent increase over last year's efforts — the campaign is being led by George Bush, chairman, and Joe Kloesel, vice chairman.

In planning the drive, Bush had told campaign leaders, "This will be a magic year for the United Way," although he admonished them that "pulling $1.35 million out of the hat will be no small trick."

On hand at the kickoff to help Bush illustrate those points was Great Scott (magician Scott Wells), who has claimed that he will be able to predict the exact amount which will be raised in the campaign.

In addition to optimistic predictions for the campaign's outcome, Bush and Clarence Cardwell, ARCO vice president who served as chairman of pilot campaign activity, announced pledges already tallied.

Cardwell's report summed up pilot campaign results to date with $109,917.98 in pledges, which represents

15.5 percent of the campaign goal. "With one employee campaign remaining to be completed," he said, "we expect to raise in excess of $230,000 — 17 percent of the campaign goal."

Other contributions logged by Sunday night pushed the total raised to date to $302,303.32, which is 22.4 percent of the goal. With a month in which to work until the first report meeting Oct. 21, Bush planned to challenge campaign volunteers and the community to double that amount and to report contributions 45 percent complete at that time.

Pilot campaigns were conducted this year by 12 Midland firms, 11 of which have completed their solicitations. As had been reported at a meeting of those firms Friday, Cardwell announced corporate gifts from all 12 firms totaling $99,910, a 27 percent increase over the corporate gifts from those firms last year.

The 11 firms whose campaigns are complete reported $106,059.14 in employee giving, also a 27 percent increase over their contributions last year.

Partial results from the 12th firm add up to $3,948.84.

Cardwell pointed out that the pilot firms originally had sought to improve their giving by 20 percent over that of last year.

Covering almost all areas of the campaign, the pilot firms were ARCO, Coquina, Exxon, Halliburton, Midland National Bank, J.C. Penney, Peat, Marwick & Mitchell, Southwest-ern Bell, Rogers Ford, Texas Instruments, Texas Electric and Tom Brown, Inc.

Cardwell gave special recognition to three pilot firms whose employee campaigns produced outstanding results: J.C. Penney — 348 percent increase; Peat, Marwick & Mitchell — 229 percent increase; and Halliburton, 216 percent increase.

Also gathering extra recognition were firms with above average increases in their combined corporate and employee giving: Exxon, 44 percent; and Texas Instruments, 36 percent.

First female Supreme Court nominee awaits confirmation

By MIKE SHANAHAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sandra Day O'Connor, praised by liberals and conservatives alike, awaited Senate confirmation today as the first woman on the Supreme Court.

Her approval was a foregone conclusion, giving President Reagan a victorious start to a week that also holds the promise of a new budget battle on Capitol Hill.

There was no declared opposition to Mrs. O'Connor, and it was possible the 51-year-old Arizona appeals court judge might be sent to a lifetime appointment on the high court by a unanimous vote. Her swearing-in ceremony already has been set for Friday.

Today's vote marked the end of a Senate "advise and consent" process in which some senators strongly disagreed with Mrs. O'Connor's judicial philosophy but said they would support her anyway.

Liberal Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, for example, said he was troubled by Mrs. O'Connor's conservative views on whether poor defendants in criminal cases should be guaranteed a lawyer.

Nonetheless, Metzenbaum said a nominee never should be rejected because of personal views on specific issues and he warmly praised Reagan for choosing such a highly qualified woman.

In the midst of a growing number of controversies swirling around Reagan on Capitol Hill, his choice of Mrs. O'Connor proved a political masterstroke.

She successfully turned aside most of the hostile questioning about her views during confirmation hearings before the Senate Judiciary Committee earlier this month.

While expressing personal opposition to abortion, Mrs. O'Connor declined to say how she would rule on that and other touchy issues likely to come before her as an associate justice.

But she did indicate strong conservative beliefs in the strengths of state legislatures and courts, as well as opposition to court-ordered steps to achieve desegregation and support for capital punishment.

The result was a 17-0 Judiciary confirmation vote and support from liberal Democrats who oppose almost everything else Reagan has proposed, from AWACS radar planes for Saudi Arabia to Social Security reductions.

Only Sen. Jeremiah Denton, R-Ala.,

who focused almost exclusively on Mrs. O'Connor's views on abortion during the hearing, declined to vote for her in committee. Saying it was the most difficult decision of his life, Denton abstained.

Aides to the conservative former Vietnam prisoner of war said he had not decided how to vote on the Senate floor.

Two other conservatives, Republicans John East of North Carolina and Charles Grassley of Iowa, voted for Mrs. O'Connor's nomination, raising doubts about the political clout of the anti-abortion lobby, which had strongly urged her rejection.

On other subjects this week, Congress is expected to give the first detailed scrutiny to Reagan's newest round of cuts in federal spending.

Budget director David A. Stockman is scheduled to appear before both House and Senate committees to explain Reagan's proposed $16 billion in new reductions. They include one-time delays in cost-of-living increases for Social Security and other pension and welfare programs.

Meanwhile, the Senate Finance Committee is taking up the president's plan to save the overall Social Security system from eventual default.

Solidarity leaders to discuss threats

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Solidarity leaders, accused of turning their independent labor movement against communism and the Soviet Union, will meet Tuesday to discuss the new threats from the Soviet and Polish governments.

The union's presidium meeting was delayed from Monday amid signs that the Communist government may be preparing to move against it in response to the Kremlin's demand last week for a crackdown.

In Radon, meanwhile, Solidarity members at the Radoskor shoe factory threatened today to go on hunger strikes unless government officials meet with them to discuss the "tragic food situation" in their central Poland province, a union spokesman said.

The factory is the workplace of new Politburo member Zofia Gryzb, the only Solidarity member on the 15-member ruling body. No other details of the threatened strike were provided. Poland has been suffering from chronic food shortages for several years.

East Germany urged the Polish government today not to be deceived by voices of moderation within Solidarity and warned Warsaw's policy of accommodation was paving the way to "counter-revolution" in Poland.

In one of its longest and most critical commentaries on developments in Poland, the official ADN news agency said the crisis "has in the past two weeks reached an extraordinarily dangerous level for the Polish people and socialist state power."

ADN said the major question facing Poland and the rest of the Soviet bloc was whether the regime in Warsaw would finally muster the strength "to strike back at counter-revolution with all its means."

Solidarity's leaders were expected to decide Tuesday whether to support their political demands when the union's national congress resumes on Friday. The Soviet note charged that the first part of the congress week before last "became in effect a permanent tribune from which slanders and insults sounded" against the Soviet Union.

Premier Wojciech Jaruzelski held an emergency meeting Sunday with his Cabinet and officials of major cities and provinces and discussed the "state of readiness" of the government, the official PAP news agency said.

"Indispensable decisions" were made to prepare for "various needs and eventualities," a government communique said without elaboration.

It was the second emergency Cabinet meeting in four days. After the previous one on Thursday, the government warned Solidarity that it was jeopardizing Poland's independence. It was a clear threat of Soviet military occupation.

The news agency indicated Poland's economic crisis was at the top of the agenda. It also claimed some of Solidarity's 9.5 million members were quitting the union because of its leaders' calls for political and social change. There was no confirmation from the union.

PAP reported "mounting dissatisfaction" in some cities because of "critical" shortages of warm clothing, shoes and meat.

"It is true, the situation is difficult as regards power, fuel and raw materials," Deputy Premier Janusz Obojski, the government's economic czar, said in a TV interview. "Production is dropping. In connection with such a situation, we must carefully cut up what we have."

The Kremlin's demand that the Polish party and government put an end to the "large-scale anti-Soviet campaign" it said Solidarity was carrying on brought a warning from the United States.

INVESTORS GUIDE

Include employees in a Keogh plan

By BILL DOYLE

Q. I am employed by a big company, at an annual salary of $25,000. I am covered by that company's pension plan. I also own my own business, from which I get $15,000 in income a year. I have no established pension plan at my firm for myself or my employees. My income taxes are becoming quite substantial.

Can I defer income taxes on 15 percent of the $15,000 from my business by establishing a Keogh plan for the self-employed?

A. Yes. But you'll have to include your employees in the Keogh plan, if they qualify as working for you full time. Anyone who has self-employed income from a business, profession, trade, free-lance work, directors' fees and such can set up a Keogh plan.

You can have a Keogh plan, even though you are covered by another retirement plan at the company where you work. This rule has applied, ever since Keogh plans were authorized in 1962.

Right now, you can put up to 15 percent of your self-employed income, — but no more than $7,500 — into a Keogh plan each year. Beginning in 1982, the limit becomes $15,000.

You don't pay income tax on the money you put into a Keogh plan. Nor do you pay tax on the income your Keogh plan money earns, in interest and-or dividends, until you start withdrawing it. That's normally after retirement, when you figure to be in a lower tax bracket.

However, under Keogh plan rules, you are required to include your full-time employees on the same basis as yourself. If you put 15 percent of your income from that business into a Keogh plan, you must contribute into the plan 15 percent of each full-time employee's salary. A full-time employee is defined as anyone who works at least 1,000 hours a year.

If you don't want to include your employees, you can wait until next year and set up an individual retirement account (IRA) just for yourself.

One of the major provisions of the new federal tax legislation allows every working person to have an IRA, beginning in 1982. You'll be able to tuck away $2,000 a year — $2,250 if your spouse isn't employed — in an IRA, with the same tax-shelter arrangement as a Keogh plan. Until that law was passed, only people not covered by a retirement plan were eligible for IRAs.

Q. I am really confused about the new individual retirement account (IRA) rules that go into effect Jan. 1. I earn $27,000 a year and am in a pension plan at work. My wife earns about $4,000 from part-time work and, of course, has no pension plan. Am I correct in my understanding that we will both be able to open IRAs? If so, how much money can we put away, tax-deferred, each year?

A. Your understanding is correct. You're both working and earning income. So, each of you can establish an IRA. The total amount you can shelter from income taxes will be $4,000 a year.

Under the old rules, a person eligible for an IRA can now put 15 percent of his or her earned income — but not more than $1,500 — into an IRA annually.

Beginning next year, an IRA participant will be able to tuck away 100 percent of earnings — up to $2,000 — a year. You can then put $2,000 into your IRA; your wife $2,000 into hers.

Q. I am in my company's retirement plan. I also have a Keogh plan, in which I tax-shelter 15 percent of the self-employed income I have built up as a sideline. Will I also be able to have an individual retirement account (IRA) for the years 1982 and thereafter?

A. I put that question to three tax experts at big accounting firms. They all came back with the same answer: "Yes." The new federal tax law apparently allows an individual to participate in all three types of retirement plans.

Doyle welcomes written questions, but he will be able to provide answers only through the column.

'Oh, ye of little faith' in presidential programs

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Lyndon Johnson called them "nervous Nellies" and now Ronald Reagan refers to them as "Chicken Littles." In each case they refer in general to those of little faith in presidential programs.

More specifically, President Reagan's criticism seems directed at the financial community, which indeed has expressed horror at the possibility of the sky falling, i.e., of the economy collapsing.

Establishment institutions cannot come right out and say so, but they have been acting that way some of the time. Nobody seems to want stocks; they want bonds even less. Few lenders are willing to commit themselves for long terms; short-term permits them to run if required.

But as Wall Street already has replied, "We do not set interest rates nor do we produce markets." The market makes interest rates, they contend, and the dominant market factors now are the enormous federal debt and the realization that more will be added in fiscal 1982.

Wall Street is very aware of this debt, which in a couple of months will total $1 trillion on which more than $100 billion a year must be paid in interest. It is aware also that from now on each additional cut in federal spending will be opposed by a growing constituency of debt.

That constituency is powerful too, because it includes a large number of political figures who feel they are being disenfranchised, and a much larger number of institutions and people who have adjusted over the years to living off the federal government in one way or another.

And so there are doubts about whether the job of paring can be done, and there are doubts about the consequences if the job is done. The Chicken Littles of Wall Street on the one hand see Washington as an elephant slurping up all the contents of the water hole, and on the other a drought so bad that the water hole dries up by itself.

14 wildcat tests scheduled for Basin

Area oil operators have scheduled 14 wildcat tests in the Permian Basin.

BORDEN VENTURE

Natamas North American Inc., will drill a 9,000-foot wildcat, the No. 1 Clayton, at a site 7 miles southeast of Gail.

The site is 7/8 of a mile northeast of Ashmun and Hillard's No. 1 Long, drilled to 8,583 feet, and abandoned March 4, 1963. In the Long, the tops were: Spraberry, 5,247; Strawn, 7,966; and Mississippian, 8,528.

The stake is set 2,550 feet from the south, and 2,630 feet from the west line of section 10, block 30, T-4-N, T&PRR survey.

COKE WILDCAT

Petroleum Exploration Inc., Abilene, will take a chance on the 6,700-foot wildcat No. 5 Durham Estate "A," to be drilled 3.6 miles southeast of Silver.

The location is 467 feet from the south and east lines of section 312, block 1-A, H&TC survey.

The drillsite is surrounded by the Bloodworth Northeast field.

CONCHO PAIR

Tucker Drilling, San Angelo, will drill the wildcat No. 3 Miller to 4,300 feet, 12 1/2 miles southwest of Eden.

The location is 1,500 feet from the south, and 457 feet from the west line of section 47, block 8, H&TC survey.

The drillsite is 1,003 feet north of the No. 2 Miller, and 3/8 mile northeast of the Goen and Fry opener in the L.W.G. field.

Tucker will also drill the No. 1 Miller "A," another 4,300-foot wildcat, in section 33, block 8, H&TC survey. The location is 2,050 feet from the south and west lines of the section.

The drillsite is 1 1/8 miles southwest of No. 3 Miller, reported above; and 1/2 mile southeast of Tucker's No. 1 Miller.

FISHER PROSPECT

HLH Petroleum, Dallas, will drill the No. 1-284 G.W. Peck, a 4,700-foot wildcat, 5 miles east of Eskota.

It's staked 2,950 feet from the north, and 1,320 feet from the east line of section 284, G.W. Peck survey.

The drillsite is 1/2 mile northeast of Fullerton's No. 1 Hall, abandoned June 29, 1949 at 4,707 feet.

RUNNELS QUARTET

U.S. Minerals Operating Co., Austin, will drill a 4,500-foot wildcat, the No. 1 J.E. Cooper, 7 miles southeast of Winters.

The site is 1,667 feet from the north, and 770 feet from the west line of section 2, Norvell-Travis survey, abstract 533.

Trojan Oil, Irving, will sink the No. 1 M.H. Taff, a 5,000-foot wildcat, 4 miles east of Ballinger.

The site is 5/8 of a mile west-northwest of the Big Ed (Gardner lime) field. Apparently, there are no wells of comparable depth in the vicinity.

The location is 2,750 feet from the south, and 467 feet from the east line of the Rama Christa survey, abstract 432.

Aries Petroleum, Abilene, will drill the 4,800-foot wildcat, the No. 1 Dudley Ranch "13," 12 miles west-southwest of Ballinger.

The site is about 1/4 mile south-southwest of Garrett Production Co.'s No. 1 State of Texas, abandoned December 17, 1951 at 4,810.

The stake is driven 1,667 feet from the south, and 467 feet from the west line of D.H. McFadin No. 5 survey, abstract 1,164.

Charles M. Childers, Abilene, will drill the 4,000-foot wildcat No. 1 Robin, 3 miles southwest of Crews.

The location 990 feet from the south, and 462 feet from the west line of section 23, Juliana Voske Cabrera survey, abstract 514.

STONEWALL VENTURES

Union Exploration, Lamesa, will drill a 6,500-foot wildcat in Stonewall County, five miles south of Old Glory.

The No. 1 Valhienkamp "32" is located 660 feet from the north, and 1,320 feet from the west line of section 132, BBB&C survey.

It is 1,000 feet north of Desana Corp. No. 3-B Flat Top, dry and abandoned April 8, 1978.

RAW Energy has scheduled the No. 1 Britany as a 6,600-foot wildcat in Stonewall County, one mile south of Aspermont.

The site is 660 feet from the south, and 1,320 feet from the east line of section 123, block D, H&TC survey.

Drillsite is 3/4-mile southwest of Continental Oil Co. No. 1 Scoggins, a 6,513-foot project, dry and abandoned Aug. 8, 1954.

CHAVES WILDCATS

Elk Oil Co., Roswell, will drill the No. 1 Runion-State, 6,200-foot wildcat in Chaves County, N.M., 16 miles southwest of Elkins.

It is located 990 feet from the north, and 1,980 feet from the east line of section 24, township 9 south, range 24 east.

There is no production of similar depth in the area.

Maguire Oil Co., Dallas, will drill the No. 1-36 Union State, a 6,800-foot wildcat in Chaves County, 12 miles southwest of Boaz.

Location is 1,980 feet from the south, and 1,980 feet from the west line of section 36, township 7 south, range 27 east.

The site is 3 1/3 miles east slightly south of Harragan Petroleum No. 1 Faircloth, a 6,766-foot project, abandoned Sept. 27, 1978.

TOM GREEN SEARCHER

ATAPCO, Midland, has scheduled a 6,600-foot wildcat in Tom Green County, six miles north of San Angelo.

Designated the No. 1 Llano, the location is 8,600 feet from the north, 6,750 feet from the west line of the Llano CSL No. 964 survey.

It is 1/8 mile south-southeast of the Bald Eagle field and is 4/5 mile north-northeast of the Bridwell, Perkins & Prothro No. 1 Llano County School, abandoned Jan. 10, 1952 at 6,412 feet.

The seminars are open to the public, and there is no charge. For more information, phone Joyce Lovett, education chairman, at 684-5826.

Drilling slowdown may be coming

DENVER (AP) — A slowdown in oil and gas drilling is predicted for next winter unless the government decontrols the price of natural gas, a Texas petroleum exploration executive predicts.

F.D. Covey, president of Houston-based Mitchell Energy's exploration and production division, said the doubling of drilling rigs in this country during the past two years, from 2,000 to 4,100, is one reason.

"You can't sustain that sort of growth forever. Maybe you could if there were some action to decontrol gas, but that's not likely between now and February," he said.

"There'll be such a high availability of rigs that they won't all stay busy," Covey predicted last Friday while attending a symposium on energy investments here.

The drilling Covey said he expects oil prices remain stable for the next year or two and then start easing upwards, unless there is some mid-east political disruption in the interim.

Soviet delegation arrives in Poland

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — A high-level Soviet delegation arrived in Warsaw today to discuss economic cooperation with the beleaguered Polish government.

The delegation was headed by Nikolai Baibakov, deputy prime minister of the Soviet Union and chairman of the Soviet State Planning Committee, Poland's PAP news agency said.

Pap said the Soviets were invited by the Polish government, which is billions of dollars in debt to foreign creditors and is unable to pay them because of year-long labor upheaval.

Meanwhile, leaders of the independent union Solidarity gathered for a meeting in Gdansk to discuss a response to Soviet and Polish government attacks on the labor federation.

Workers at a Soviet industrial plant warned that Poland "is on the edge of enormous misfortune and a national catastrophe," the official Soviet news agency Tass reported.

"The counter-revolutionary ideas and filthy deeds of Solidarity are a direct attempt to use trade union channels for ideological sabotage against the socialist community," declared an open letter to Polish workers issued by workers at the Ural-mash machinery plant in the Ural Mountains city of Sverdlovsk.

The letter, part of a Moscow campaign to demonstrate Soviet displeasure with events in Poland, expressed confidence that Polish workers would take "resolute measures" to stop "counter-revolution."

On Monday, the Polish government's chief labor negotiator said Solidarity declared war on communism in Poland and killed the partnership that was developing between the government and the independent labor federation.

"The funeral of this idea has already taken place," said Deputy Premier Mieczyslaw Rakowski. "And it wasn't me that put it in the grave. It had a solemn funeral in Gdansk."

Rakowski said the first half of Solidarity's first national congress in Gdansk two weeks ago "apparently declared war on the authorities and the (communist) system." He said the statements of some union leaders had gone from "stupid" to "criminal."

Tass on Monday accused the union of provoking crises in an attempt to seize power. In a dispatch from Warsaw, it said the union's leaders believed the Polish government was too weak to stop them.

Noting that the labor congress is reconvening this weekend, Tass said: "Active preparations are under way for decisive actions and to struggle for political power."

Locals in the 9.5-million-member labor federation did not wait for their national leaders. They responded with accusations of Soviet interference in Poland's internal affairs.

"Setting a sovereign government against a sovereign nation is clear interference in the affairs of our country," said a statement issued by workers in a paper factory in Niedomice.

Those taxing talks

Representatives of the six taxing districts gathered Monday afternoon in City Hall to discuss the future of the Midland County Tax

Appraisal Board. Among those participating in the hearing were, from left, Board Chairman Gil Tompson, City Councilman Gordon

Marcum and County Attorney Robert Rendall.

MISD may wish to keep control of tax board

By ED TODD
Staff Writer

The Midland Independent School District, which is guaranteed the upper hand in controlling the Midland County Tax Appraisal Board, may opt to dominate the board and give token representation to three or five other taxing bodies.

It depends strictly on the school trustees' pleasure.

The school board, said Midland ISD Superintendent Dr. James Mailey, likely will not endorse a Midland County resolution which would give equal voting power to each of the six taxing entities in the county.

"The board will take a look, a hard look, at what the law now says," Mailey said Monday in City Hall in an informal, information-only gathering of the existing appraisal board and representatives of the six taxing districts: the city of Midland, Midland County, Midland ISD, Greenwood ISD, Midland College and Midland County Hospital (Midland Memorial Hospital).

MAILEY STRONGLY suggested that the trustees may want to control the appraisal board, which the Texas statutory formula effectively condones, since the Midland ISD is the largest ($17.7 million) tax levier in the county and, by law, will be paying the bulk of the $830,000 chief appraiser's budget for 1982.

"I don't think the school district will be amenable to reducing its vote," Mailey said.

The Texas Property Tax Code seems to favor tax-levying power over people representation via the one-man, one-vote concept.

The law now calls for only the public schools, municipalities and counties to be represented on a five-member appraisal board in Texas counties. Furthermore, the law prescribes that the makeup of the appraisal board shall be decided by a vote of the governing bodies of schools, cities and counties.

In Midland, that means that the college and hospital would have no vote and no direct voice in regulating that Central Appraisal Office, manned by Chief Appraiser Virgil Jones Jr. and his 25-member staff. And it also means that power to elect the appraisal board's membership would be controlled by the Midland ISD, which will have 60 percent of the vote unless it decides to cast aside the statutory formula, which, by law, could happen.

"(The college and hospital) do not have voting rights" unless granted by a unanimous vote of the Big Four — Midland ISD, city, county, and Greenwood ISD, noted County Attorney Robert Rendall, who has been succeeded by Jimmie Oglesby as legal adviser to the appraisal board.

THE MIDLAND County Commissioners' Court unanimously has passed a resolution to discard the statutory formula and to allow for a six-member appraisal board which would give equal representation in any official business to each of the six districts.

Mailey indicated that the school would not consent to weakening its guaranteed dominant role on the board.

The county-drafted resolution proposed that the appraisal board keep its present six-member makeup, authorized in 1979, of one representative for each of the six taxing districts. The board automatically will fall into the statutory formula in 1982 unless action to the contrary is taken by Oct. 1.

Currently making up the board are potential and likely lame-duckers Gil Tompson, board chairman who represents the Midland ISD; Joe Nuessle, Midland city attorney who represents the city of Midland; Charlie Welch, Midland County commissioner who represents the county; Walt Holton, who represents the hospital; Fred Wright, who represents the college; and Bud Lea, who represents the Greenwood ISD.

NUESSELE offered a proposal on board membership. It didn't fly.

"I don't know if I'm here as a city attorney or as a member of the board," he said wryly and then proposed an 11-member board and, thus,

Haig stresses resolution of Polish crisis

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. is making clear the importance the Reagan administration attaches to peaceful settlement of the Polish crisis.

Haig has said he will tell Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko at their first meeting Wednesday that the Soviets must refrain from military intervention if they wish to improve already cool relations with the United States.

In addition, he gave a meeting today with Polish Foreign Minister Jozef Cyrrek a place on his schedule that emphasized the importance and gravity with which the administration views Poland's problems.

Haig was to meet Cyrrek after appointments with close U.S. allies but ahead of representatives of other nations that also are important to the United States, including China and Venezuela.

State Department spokesman Dean Fischer said Haig wants an assessment of Poland's internal situation, both economic and political. He said the question of economic aid for Poland may also be raised.

Fischer said Haig discussed Poland in nearly all of his meetings with U.S. allies Monday, including British Foreign Minister Lord Carrington and Italian Foreign Minister Emilio Colombo.

Haig does not believe the Soviets are on the verge of sending in more troops to stop Poland's move toward democracy, Fischer said. He said although the secretary believes the Soviet demand last week for the Polish Communist Party to crack down on internal dissent was "somewhat intimidating," there is no evidence that the Soviets are massing troops near the Polish border.

Haig delivered a major address to the 36th U.N. General Assembly Monday in which he charged that Soviet intervention in Afghanistan and the Soviet-backed Vietnamese occupation of Cambodia pose a threat to global order, economic development and the U.N. Charter.

"One of the great dangers to the Charter today and to development itself is the willful violation of the national integrity of both Afghanistan and Cambodia by the Soviet Union and Vietnam," he said. "Their behavior challenges the basic rights of all sovereign states."

Gromyko, who addresses the assembly today, listened with his usual impassivity. But Tass, the official Soviet news agency, said the speech was "a demonstration of the hypocrisy of American diplomacy."

Tass said Haig's charge that the Soviet Union violated Afghanistan's national integrity was "absurd."

"It is not the U.S.S.R. but the United States that is interfering in the internal affairs of that country," Tass said.

Haig did not mention Poland in his speech.

He outlined a new U.S. program to promote economic development in poor nations that gives greater stress to private investment and less to assistance from governments.

First female justice expects she'll be 'very busy'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sandra Day O'Connor, confirmed by a unanimous Senate as the first woman justice on the Supreme Court, promises to be "very busy, very fast" after she is sworn in later this week.

There is no clear indication, however, how she will vote on social and constitutional issues that come before the court.

The 51-year-old Arizona appeals judge won a 99-0 endorsement in the Senate on Monday as the 102nd justice in the 191-year history of the nation's highest court. She will be youngest of the nine members.

Mrs. O'Connor will be sworn in for the lifetime appointment in ceremonies Friday in the Supreme Court building, and White House officials said President Reagan may attend.

"My hope is that 10 years from now, after I've been across the street and worked for a while, that they'll all feel glad for the wonderful vote they gave me today," a smiling Mrs. O'Connor said at an appearance on the Capitol steps with Vice President George Bush and Senate leaders.

Once installed on the court, which opens its 1981-82 term Oct. 5, "I'm going to get very busy, very fast,"

Mrs. O'Connor said.

Reagan hailed a "happy and historic day" and said in a statement that Mrs. O'Connor's confirmation "symbolizes the richness of opportunity that still abides in America — opportunity that permits persons of any sex, age or race, from every section and walk of life, to aspire and achieve in a manner never before even dreamed about in human history."

The vote, following four hours of laudatory speeches by conservatives and liberals alike, was a victory for Reagan as well as Mrs. O'Connor.

Opposition to Mrs. O'Connor's views on abortion melted when Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., leader of the most conservative wing of the Senate, said he would support the nomination "because I have faith in the president."

Helms said he believed Reagan's views against legalized abortion were too strong to permit him to nominate someone who supports the 1973 Supreme Court decision.

Sen. Jeremiah Denton, R-Ala., who abstained from an otherwise unanimous Judiciary Committee vote for confirmation last week, said he didn't want to be the spoiler Monday.

Accused murderer, 73, ordered to state hospital

SAN ANGELO (AP) — A court-appointed psychiatrist and a physician testified that a 73-year-old man charged with murder in the deaths of two fishermen is an alcoholic who probably never will be competent to stand trial.

Mortimer "Bubba" Hall Monday was ordered to Rusk State Hospital by State District Judge Earl Smith after testimony showed Hall's mental state was such that he could not understand a trial or aid in his own defense.

Hall is charged in the March 22 fatal shootings of David James Adams, 32, of Rolling Acres and John Bernardon, 34, of Midland while the two were fishing near Mertzon, about 50 miles southwest of San Angelo.

Hall's physician, Dr. John L. Read, testified that Hall suffered from senility, an irregular heartbeat and alcoholism. Hospital records show Hall was hospitalized for treatment of alcoholism after he was indicted by an Irion County grand jury in April, and he currently is a patient at a geriatric center in San Angelo.

"His mental health is severely impaired," Read said. "I would say his chances are close to 100 percent that he will never gain his competency to stand trial."

Court-appointed psychiatrist Dr. Richard Coons said Hall suffers from senility and probably had some further brain damage from the "heavy use of alcohol over the years."

District Attorney Gerald Fohn did not challenge the defense position.

Smith said state officials will examine Hall for 90 days to decide whether Hall is likely to be able to stand trial in the near future. If not, another hearing will be called to have Hall committed indefinitely.

If he is ever found to be competent, he will face the murder charges, Smith said.

The widows of Adams and Bernardon have filed a civil suit against Hall alleging wrongful death. Attorney Max Parker, representing the widows, said they will proceed with the case.

He said a guardian probably could be appointed for Hall's estate and the civil case could be resolved without his testimony.

Mortimer "Bubba" Hall, 73, of Mertzon, hides his face as he is driven away from the Tom Green County Courthouse in San Angelo after a jury found him incompetent to stand trial.

MISD may keep control of tax board

ly, suggested that the Midland ISD sidestep the statutory rule.

The Nuesse proposal would break down board voting power like this: —Midland ISD: five of the 11 members. The school district, which has a tax levy of $17.7 million, would pay 50 percent of the $830,000 chief appraiser's 1982 budget.

—City of Midland: two of the 11 members. The city, which has a tax levy of $6.2 million, would pay 20 percent of the budget.

—Midland County: one of the 11 members. The county, which has a tax levy of $4.3 million, would pick up 10 percent of the cost.

—Midland College: one of the 11 members. The college would pay 10 percent of the bill.

—Hospital: one of the 11 members. The hospital would pay 6 percent of the cost.

—Greenwood ISD: one of the 11 members. Greenwood would pay 5 percent of the chief appraiser's operating budget in 1982.

But to get out from under the statutory formula, a unanimous vote by the Big Four — Midland ISD, city, county and Greenwood ISD — would be required. But on what to vote would be the dilemma. Under the statutory bypass option, up to 13 members could be on the board and under any arrangement agreed upon by the officials of the taxing districts.

"You can doodle around with this endlessly," said Nuesse. "It (his proposal) would give everybody representation, but it would obviously have a glaring discrepancy."

By law, the governing boards of the Big Four taxing entities determine the membership of the appraisal board. In Midland County, that formula gives the Midland ISD 60 percent of the possible 5,000 and a guarantee of a majority rule on the five-member board. But, noted Nuesse, the law is so flexible that it allows the Big Four the option of allowing the college and hospital in on the vote.

And, under that plan, Nuesse proposed a voting system to determine the board membership and which would reduce the Midland ISD's control to 51.8 percent.

Under yet another proposal, the city would have 912 of the 5,000 votes; Midland ISD, 2,594; the county, 621; college, 402; hospital, 282; and Greenwood ISD, 189.

"There's innumerable ways of doing it," Nuesse said.

TOMPSON, who chaired the discussion in City Hall and who will be out of office unless the Midland ISD chooses to reappoint him, said he and the other members of the "old" board "are rather in a peculiar position of having no voice. We are on the outside awaiting your decision."

"I feel like we are out of place," Tompson said. "We are only a catalyst in this gathering."

Midland Mayor G. Thane Akins, who viewed the officials there as "reasonable people," said he had supposed "the voice (on the appraisal board) ought to be apportioned to the vote entitlement. I think we ought to do it some way so that everybody has a voice."

Commissioner Welch's view was similar to that of the mayor's.

"We feel like everybody today (under the six-member board) is represented."

City Councilman Gordon Marcum II proposed a 13-member board which would allow five votes by Midland ISD, three by the city, two by the county, and one each by the Greenwood ISD, college and hospital.

"That would have some type of balance," he said and would proportionately reduce the Midland ISD share of the $830,000 operating budget to 38.6 percent.

Midland College President Dr. Jess Parrish favored the resolution by which all six taxing entities would have votes on the appraisal board.

"We like the idea of having some representation," he said. "I can read the provisions very well."

Edwin Magruder Jr., president of the hospital's board of directors, expressed satisfaction with the present set-up which, for almost two years, has allowed the hospital a vote on the board.

"I'm just glad we're protected by the statute. I'd like to see the board continue as it has been," Magruder said.

He was opposed to an 11- or 13-member board, which, he said, "wouldn't be able to do business as well as a six-member board. I don't think we'd ever get anything done."

Magruder observed that under the statutory formula, "the thing has been tilted in favor of who collects the most taxes."

He favored the current makeup of the board.

"I'd like very much for the (Midland) school district to consider leaving the board as it is," Magruder said.

TO THAT SUGGESTION, Mailey queried the representatives of the other taxing bodies to see if they would be willing to equally share the expense of running the Central Appraisal Office. He got no answer.

Welch, who opposes Midland ISD domination of the appraisal board, likened the "weighted" vote on the board makeup to having a big bank account. Welch said that he was "glad" that voting on election day isn't linked to the voter's "bank balance" by which more money would mean more votes.

"I think the one-man, one-vote concept" as sanctioned by the U.S. Supreme Court should apply to the vote on composition of the appraisal board, Welch said. He recommended that the officials there "quit talking dollars and cents and start talking about representing people."

But Mailey said he has "a hard time harmonizing" equal voting power with unequal tax-levying power.

The statutory formula, which would give the Midland ISD control of the law-mandated five-member board, will take effect in 1982 unless the Big Four opt to do otherwise by Oct. 1. Today, both the City Council and the Midland ISD trustees were to consider the county's resolution to retain the six-member, equal-vote appraisal board.

"The (school) board," Mailey had said, "will not be in favor of the resolution, proposed by the county and adopted by the county."

Hispanics prepare for being dominant

By RICHARD ORR
Staff Writer

With Hispanics expected to be the dominant minority in this country before the decade is out, local, state and national Mexican-American leaders are gearing up to meet the challenge which will result from that demographic swing in traditional social

"We're very proud of our heritage," said Sylvia Hernandez-Maddox, who was elected Aug. 22 as State Chair of the Texas Mexican-American Women's Political Caucus. "But it's been misinterpreted for too long now."

"We're viewed as liberal Democrats, and that's not the way it is. In reality, there's always been a large mass of conservative Republicans among Hispanics — and it's growing. We finally realized we weren't getting anywhere with the Democrats."

Carter was more interested in blacks than Hispanics. Reagan appointed the first Mexican-American commissioner (Henry M. Rivera) to the FCC."

Another appointment of major concern to the women's caucus is that of Sandra O'Connor to the Supreme Court, according to Ms. Hernandez-Maddox, who said the group, an affiliate of the National Women's Political Caucus, is dedicated to promoting "women's rightful place in politics."

Ms. Hernandez-Maddox attended a seminar in Washington, D.C., last week in conjunction with Hispanic Heritage Week. She said her group was instrumental in selecting State Representative Janet Angel from Kinney, who was elected in her second term. The group also elected judge of Rose Spence to district judge in Bexar County.

"It's not just Hispanics we're interested in," said Ms. Hernandez-Maddox, "but women in general."

Among the issues facing the caucus are education, child care, equal opportunity for women, the appointment of women to political posts at all levels of government and extension of the Voting Rights Act.

According to figures from the bipartisan Southwest Voter Registration and Education Project, 19 percent of Hispanics nationwide voted for the republican candidate in 1976. Four years later, that figure had risen to 25 percent.

"Hispanics have traditionally been linked to welfare, unions and liberal politics," said Ms. Hernandez-Maddox, an employee of the Odessa Chamber of Commerce whose husband Charles is an officer with an Odessa bank.

"That's a negative image," she added. "Hispanic Heritage Week promotes understanding. That's one of its purposes."

Featured speaker at the Washington seminar was Colorado State Senator Polly Baca.

$1,000 stolen from apartment

An employee of El Paisano Apartments, Debbie Watson of 2400 Whitmire Boulevard, told police she put $1,000 of the complex's money in a bank bag and left it in her apartment over the weekend. When she returned from a trip, she said the apartment had been entered through a living room window and the money was gone.

Three kitchen ranges, two dishwashers and two garbage disposal units were reported stolen from houses under construction at 404 and 408 Crenshaw. The loss was placed at $3,920.

An employee of the First United Methodist Church at 305 N. Baird St. told officers $200 in cash a $1,095 electric typewriter were taken in a burglary of an upstairs office of the church. There was no sign of forced entry.

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed a vacant, wood frame house at 2205 W. Carter St. about 5:30 a.m. today. Four fire department units responded to the call and used 4,000 gallons of water in attempts to extinguish the blaze. The owner of the house is not known. Firefighters spent more than an hour at the scene.

Monday was first day of fall

The first day of fall officially began at 10:05 p.m. Monday, but Midlanders won't feel any cool temperatures in the next few days.

With the last 12-hour day ending tonight, the forecast calls for partly cloudy skies today and mostly cloudy skies tonight and Wednesday with a slight chance of showers or thunderstorms.

Summer temperatures are expected to continue through the week with no important temperature changes. Today's high is expected to climb to the low 90s, with Wednesday's high predicted to be in the upper 90s according to the National Weather Service at the Midland Regional Airport.

There is a 20 percent chance of rain tonight and Wednesday. Monday's high of 94 was six degrees lower than the record temperature of 100 set in 1977 for the day. The overnight low of 64 was much warmer than the 1972 record temperature of 46 set in 1972.

Winds should travel south to southeast at 10-15 mph through Wednesday, decreasing to 5-10 mph tonight.

Hot news

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Sawdust and agricultural waste are among the hottest energy items in California's Central Valley.

Both these products, which were once burned, buried or hauled away to landfills, are now being used in a project to generate pollution-free heat and electricity, according to a report in Crocker National Corp.'s "Assets" magazine.

The waste products are converted to pelletized fuel which, found for wood, produces as much heat as Western coal and with an ash residue of some 3 percent that contains trace materials and other nutrients that can be returned to the soil.

In addition to producing kilowatts of electricity, the pellets are used by a sugar refinery that burns it to dry sugar-beet pulp. The pellets also provide heat for hospitals, military installations, asphalt plants, schools and lumber yards in the United States and Canada.

Police look for station robbers

ODESSA — Police here are looking for two men who held up the Hudson Gas Station at 1330 E. 2nd St. shortly after 9 p.m. Monday.

An attendant at the station told officers he was alone when the men came in, pointed a blue steel revolver at him and demanded the station's money. They also took the attendant's wallet, which contained an undisclosed amount of cash.

No dollar figure was placed on the station's loss.

Big Spring man held in lieu of bond in connection with murder, rape

BIG SPRING — A 41-year old Big Spring man was still being held in jail here this morning in lieu of posting a $200,000 bond in connection with a murder and rape that occurred in Big Spring early Saturday.

Steve Harper, 41, was charged Monday afternoon by Peace Justice Lewis Heflin with capital murder, aggravated rape and aggravated assault.

According to Big Spring police, Harold Denton Boy, 37, died from a bullet wound in the chest about 1:30 a.m. Saturday. Boy's 17-year old daughter told officers that a man shot her father and whipped her with a pistol.

Boy's wife and three other daughters were in the house at the time of the shooting and assault.

Police said a 17-year old girl reported that a man broke into her residence on the other side of town about an hour after the incident at the Boy's residence and choked and raped her.

According to officers, the description of the man in the two incidents was the same.

Woman celebrates her 115th birthday

HOUSTON (AP) — Rosa Deramus says she has picked up to 400 pounds of cotton a day, outlived three ministers at her Baptist church and never got a Social Security card in her 115 years.

One hundred relatives whose ages spanned five generations gathered in her northeast Houston home Sunday to honor their matriarch with cakes, candles, flowers and hugs.

Those attending the festivities included 15 grandchildren, 50 great-grandchildren, five great-great-grandchildren and five great-great-great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Deramus was born in the tiny East Texas community of Timpson and lived there until 1979, when she moved to Houston.

LONDON (AP) — A visit by Prince Charles and Princess Diana to Australia and New Zealand in 1982 is being planned, but "nothing has been finalized," according to Buckingham Palace.

The formal trip is the first to be announced for the Prince and Princess of Wales, who were married July 29.

The Sun newspaper reported in today's editions that the visit might "melt the hearts of Aussies who dashed Prince Charles' hopes of becoming governor-general."

Charles, who received some of his schooling in Australia, reportedly wanted to take the post as the representative of his mother, Queen Elizabeth II, but opposition was expressed by Australians who wanted one of their countrymen for the job.

When Charles visited Australia last April, crowds chanted, "We want Di," but she remained in London, preparing for the wedding.

NEW YORK (AP) — David Brinkley, who retired last week after 38 years as a broadcast newsmen with NBC, is joining ABC News, according to an ABC sports announcer.

Frank Gifford, during his commentary on ABC's "Monday Night Football" broadcast, made a reference to Brinkley's move and said "a formal announcement will be made" with other specifics today.

The network had said earlier it would have a "major" announcement today at a news conference here, but would not elaborate.

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — The host of the radio talk show found little disagreement with his caller. But time was getting short, and the host said he just had to move on to other people phoning in.

Even so, Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. was polite in telling his caller, former Vice President Walter Mondale, that he had to get to other blinking phones during the program on radio station KJL.

Brown, in his second stint as a talk show host, mostly answered questions from callers and discussed questions on farming and pesticide use for several guests.

During his call, Mondale defended the Carter administration's farm policies and charged that the Reagan administration "put in place a fiscal program that guarantees deficits of $60 billion to $100 billion over the next several years... That is going to be paid for by the highest real interest rates in American history."

NEW YORK (AP) — Former British Prime Minister Sir Harold Wilson says he finds President Reagan's performance "very impressive," and that "one feels over in Europe there is somebody in charge."

"I felt there was no free world leadership under the previous government," Wilson said at a news conference held Monday prior to the start of a national speaking tour.

"Having taken over the most difficult system of government in the free world," Wilson said, "he's doing in my opinion a very good job of it."

Wilson resigned as Labor prime minister in 1976. He was succeeded by James Callaghan, whose Laborites were defeated in a May 1979 general election by the Conservative Party under Margaret Thatcher.

Wilson had little to say about Mrs. Thatcher's government, but commented that "she'll have to expand" the economy.

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Author Alex Haley has dedicated a plaque in this old port where his ancestors arrived 214 years ago aboard an English slave ship.

The plaque was installed Monday at the city dock, where the author's forebear Kunta Kinte — made famous in Haley's "Roots," — arrived from West Africa. The plaque honors Kinte and other slaves who arrived at the port.

Gov. Harry Hughes said the ceremony "signifies the resolve of this state to reject those who would cast us back into a dark chapter of history."

Haley told the crowd in a tiny park area at the head of the harbor that Annapolis citizens are saying, "this is what it was; go on from here."

Chisanbop seminar scheduled at MC

James Bramlett, director of Midland College Department of Community Services, announced a four-evening seminar on Chisanbop.

"This form of mathematics may be more commonly known as finger calculating," Bramlett said. "It's a fascinating method of figuring addition, multiplication and subtraction by the use of the hands."

Scheduled for 7-10 p.m. on Oct. 19, 21, 26 and 28, the seminar will be conducted by Sue Ashwood of the Region 18 Educational Service Center.

Ms. Ashwood will begin the seminar with a rationale and background of Chisanbop in the United States, and then introduce the actual techniques.

Each session includes a review stage and then progresses to more advanced calculation. By the end of session four, students practice three methods of multiplication, learn to find missing addends and discover the stage of manipulation most expedient and efficient.

"This may sound complicated," Bramlett said, "but the procedure is geared toward those who possess little or no math aptitude. Many individuals without mathematical ability have been able to master the Chisanbop method and apply it easily."

According to Bramlett, the seminar is suitable for students of all ages, and math teachers may find this an interesting means of instilling confidence in problem students.

Pre-registration for the seminar may be completed in room 156 of the Midland College Administration Building between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. weekdays, including the lunch hour. Fee is $18.

Met's opening unruly, disappointing

By MARY CAMPBELL
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The Metropolitan Opera on Monday had its most unruly opening night since moving to Lincoln Center in 1968.

Soprano Renata Scott was not vocally adequate for the title role of "Norma," which she sang. She lacked the high notes and the coloratura facility.

There was turmoil in the audience, sometimes well-bred, sometimes ill-bred. When she made her appearance, walking forward slowly to orchestral music, a man in the balcony yelled, "Brava, Maria Callas." Norma was one of the late Miss Callas' famous roles.

Ushers chased down the hecklers, and burly security guards escorted two stanzas out of the house rather roughly.

Miss Scott began the famous "Casta diva" aria soft and shaky, then went shrill with the first high note. The embellishment that she attempted was butchered. There was much booing at the end of the aria. There also was applause and shushing to quiet the booing.

Later, as Miss Scott swooped through more coloratura attempts, there was laughing in the back of the first floor. The act two Norma-Adalgisa duet, "Mira, O Norma," started rather well then a high-note squeal was heard, accompanied by more laughter from upstairs. That note sounded as if it were by Tatiana Troyanos, who sang Adalgisa, and the laughs were decidedly rude.

Between the two scenes of act one, there was an unusual hum, as if every couple in the Met was exchanging remarks. At the beginning of act two, conductor James Levine won his share of boos followed by some shushing. Customary curtain calls after act one were omitted.

Final curtain calls were brief and the audience exited rapidly. A voice proclaimed, "a disgraceful performance," after Miss Scott's solo bow. She received applause with a smattering of boos.

Tenor Placido Domingo was in rich, shining voice. He has enough vocal weight to be just right for the part of Pollione, who first loved Norma, then switched to Adalgisa. He can put tenderness in his sound when he sings of love.

The part of Pollione is considered thankless. It is relatively small and usually fades into the background, as audiences concentrate on the two women. In this case, the part was much noticed and appreciated.

Miss Troyanos sang well, on balance, though she had a hard edge to her sound. She and the stern-sounding Miss Scott didn't blend well at all in the first act, and the second act was much better.

The "Norma" costumes were all new this year, and many changes were made in scenery and lighting. The two huge Stonehenge-type stones were still there, in different positions, in all scenes.

The sold-out evening, with the top ticket price $200, brought the Met a gross of $365,000, the largest since the opening of the building in 1966, when the top ticket price was higher. That night saw the world premiere of "Antony and Cleopatra," an opera that many did not like, on a stage with the turntable not functioning.

All five "Normas" in this fall's schedule are sold out. There will be two more in February. The opera will go on the spring tour.

The opening-night Met audience, as usual, spent its time before the opera and during intermission lining up along railings and stairways and walking around, looking at each other. This year, celebrities were few. Clothing ranged from traditional black tie and long gowns and trendy metallic and silk culottes with tiny cocktail hats to dressy streetwear or yellow cableneck sweaters worn with jeans.

SEMINOLE — Services for Homer Whitaker, 72, father of Georgia Kuback and Robert Whitaker, both of Midland, were to be today in the Chapel of the Chimes in Singleton Funeral Home in Seminole with the Rev. Kent Atkins of the First Baptist Church of Seminole officiating. Burial was to be in Seminole Cemetery under the direction of Singleton Funeral Home.

Whitaker died Saturday in a Seminole hospital following a lengthy illness.

Airline disputes claim attendant crushed to death

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — World Airways is disputing a Federal Aviation Administration claim that a 24-year-old flight attendant who died during a trans-Atlantic flight on a DC-10 jet was crushed to death by a malfunctioning elevator.

Airline spokesman Michael D. Henderson said Monday that a preliminary autopsy report from London indicated that Karen Williams, a former Miss Oakland, died Sunday of a cardiac arrest and that there was no damage to her internal organs.

Wallace Emory, chief of the FAA's office in Frankfurt, West Germany, had said in a telephone interview that Ms. Williams died of a crushed chest in one of two elevators connecting the main deck and a galley where food is prepared.

In Washington, the National Transportation Safety Board said "preliminary information" indicated Ms. Williams suffered fatal injuries when she became stuck between the top of a service cart and the top of an elevator doorway as she tried to remove the cart.

Ira Furman, a board spokesman, did not reply when asked if the board was aware of the airline's announcement.

Told of the findings, he said what the airline called a "minor degree of asphyxiation" was "not inconsistent" with the board's announcement and he said he would express no opinion on the validity of the autopsy report.

Ms. Williams died aboard World Airways Flight 32 about an hour before landing Sunday at Gatwick Airport south of London. The flight originated from Baltimore-Washington International Airport.

Henderson said officials of the Oakland-based airline did not yet know all the circumstances of Miss Williams' death. He said the autopsy report would be released today in London.

"It doesn't really make sense," said Emory. "The elevator should not operate with the door open. There are a lot of unanswered questions."

Henderson said Ms. Williams was working alone, loading food trays, when "one of the flight attendants in the upper galley heard a yell."

Two doctors among the passengers attended Ms. Williams, Henderson said, adding, "Apparently her death was almost instantaneous."

Henderson said the airline checked the elevator systems on its eight DC-10s after the accident and briefed flight crews on the operation of elevator equipment.

An airline spokesman in London, Philip Keenlyside, said Ms. Williams' body was removed at Gatwick and the plane continued to its next scheduled stop in Frankfurt.

The NTSB spokesman said that while the board had not determined what happened to the mechanism on the World Airways plane, electrical interlock switches designed to immobilize the elevator while either the upper or lower door is open were located where they could be damaged by service carts or accidentally operated by someone trying to remove a cart.

The manufacturer of the DC-10, McDonnell Douglas Corp., told airlines in 1979 the switches could fail if contaminated by liquids and recommended modifications which World Airways had carried out, the board said.

Jury deliberations delay Layton trial

By LISA LEVITT Associated Press Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Jury deliberations in the murder conspiracy trial of former Peoples Temple cult member Larry Layton has been delayed, possibly until Wednesday, because three jurors have come down with the flu.

U.S. District Court Judge Robert Peckham stopped deliberations Monday and ordered the jurors back to the hotel, where they are sequestered, after the three got sick. He said he would check with the ill members to see if perhaps they could meet again as early as this afternoon.

"They appear to have the virus that's been going around this building. Hopefully they will be able to commence after a brief period of rest," the judge said.

Deliberations began late Thursday and have run off and on since then, totaling more than 19 hours.

Layton, 35, is charged with conspiracy to murder Rep. Leo Ryan, D-Calif., and U.S. diplomat Richard Dwyer; and aiding and abetting in Ryan's murder and the attempted murder of Dwyer. He faces a maximum penalty of life in prison if convicted.

Ryan, three journalists and a temple defector died Nov. 18, 1978 in a storm of bullets at a remote jungle airstrip outside the cult's Jonestown, Guyana settlement. Dwyer was wounded in the ambush.

Within hours, the Rev. Jim Jones and 912 cult followers carried out a mass suicide-murder ritual at their encampment.

Government lawyers contend Layton led the ambush.

Layton's lawyers argued that he posed as a defector and went to the airstrip on a suicide mission to kill himself and the other temple members who had decided to leave Jonestown, but he knew nothing of a larger plot hatched by Jones and his lieutenants to kill Ryan.

The jury asked during a Saturday session to review videotapes of the Ryan party's visit to Jonestown before the ambush and to hear a reading of testimony from Ryan aide Jackie Speier.

Ms. Speier, severely wounded in the airstrip attack, was the prosecution's first witness in its three-week presentation. Layton's lawyers, saying the government had failed to prove its case, never called a witness, relying instead on cross-examination and a five-hour final argument by Layton lawyer Tony Tamburello.

Kathy Williams, 24, of Oakland, Calif., was crushed to death Sunday in a World Airways flight from Baltimore to London. This is an April 12, 1979 file photo taken when Ms. Williams won Miss Oakland 1979.

Aerial search results in death of investigator

NEW BRAUNFELS, Texas (AP) — An aerial search in a borrowed helicopter resulted in the death of a sheriff's investigator when the aircraft crashed, while the two burglary suspects who prompted the search were apprehended by officers on foot.

Federal Aviation Administration investigators today will inspect the site of the helicopter crash that claimed the life of a Comal County sheriff's investigator Ed Murphy, said Texas Ranger Ray Martin.

Murphy died when the helicopter, borrowed by the sheriff's department from a suburban bank to search for a pair of suspected burglars, hit a pair of high-voltage electric lines as it was taking off Monday near Canyon Lake in Comal County, about 15 miles west of San Marcos, said Comal County Deputy Steve Stapleton.

There was no fire but witnesses told Stapleton the helicopter was flattened by the impact. The pilot, Billy B. Swartzell, is hospitalized at Brooke Army Medical Center in San Antonio.

A resident of Canyon Lake Forest, a subdivision built on the lake, had reported a burglary and the sheriff's department asked Ken Rice, president of Canyon Lake Bank, for the use of Rice's helicopter to assist in the search, Stapleton said.

Montreal wins in 17th on Dawson's single

By Associated Press

There is no joy in Mudville... and Manager Jim Fanning warns there will be no music in Montreal, either, unless the Expos win.

"Casey At The Bat," in this case, was Expos outfielder Andre Dawson, and Monday night he re-wrote the classic Ernest L. Thayer poem slightly by not striking out.

In the National League's longest game this year, Dawson's grounder in the 17th inning scored Rodney Scott from third, giving Montreal a 1-0 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

The victory allowed the Expos to keep pace with St. Louis in the race for the National League East's second-season title. The Cardinals, who blanked the Chicago Cubs 2-0 in an afternoon game, lead the Expos by 1½ games. The New York Mets, who beat Pittsburgh 4-3 in 13 innings, trail by 2½ games.

Through 10 innings, Steve Carlton of the Phillies and Ray Burris of Montreal were locked in a pitchers' duel. Carlton, who yielded just three hits, fanned 12 to become the NL's all-time strikeout leader with 3,128, replacing Hall of Famer Bob Gibson. Burris also gave up just three hits.

With one out in the 17th, Scott singled and stole second. Reliever Jerry Reed then walked Warren Cromartie and Terry Francona to load the bases. Dawson followed with a hard grounder to third baseman Mike Schmidt, whose throw to home narrowly missed getting Scott.

Cardinals 2, Cubs 0
Joaquin Andujar and Bruce Sutter combined on a three-hit shutout that helped St. Louis rebound from three straight losses at New York.

Andujar left after he pulled a hamstring muscle in his right leg while batting in the ninth, and Sutter pitched a hitless final inning for his 23rd save.

Darrell Porter and Keith Hernandez each drove in a run for the Cardinals.

Manager Whitey Herzog said he wasn't sure yet whether Andujar would be forced out of his starting rotation, but the pitcher said similar injuries in the past have cost him a great deal of time.

Mets 4, Pirates 3
Mark Lee, Pittsburgh's fifth pitcher, let loose a wild pitch in the 13th inning that allowed John Stearns to score New York's winning run, extending the Mets winning streak to four games.

With one out, Lee walked Stearns, and Ron Gardenhire's single sent the Mets catcher to third. With a 0-2 count on rookie Brian Giles, Lee threw a low and outside pitch that catcher Tony Pena was unable to handle.

Lee Mazzilli drove in a pair of New York runs, one with a single in the eighth that gave the Mets a 3-1 lead. Pittsburgh rebounded with two runs in the top of the ninth on a single by Mike Easler and Johnny Ray's sacrifice fly.

Jason Thompson homered for the Pirates in the second.

Padres 6, Reds 0
Chris Welsh tossed a three-hit shutout, and San Diego scored all six of its runs in the sixth inning to halt Cincinnati's winning streak at four games and drop the Reds three games behind Houston in the NL West.

Singles by Barry Evans, Juan Bonilla, Gene Richards and Luis Salazar drove in runs, and the others scored on a bases-loaded walk by Charlie Leibrandt and a sacrifice fly by Ozzie Smith.

Welsh allowed just one runner to reach second base in pitching only his second shutout. The 26-year-old rookie southpaw, acquired in a pre-season deal with the New York Yankees, walked four and struck out three.

Seattle Mariners' shortstop Paul Serna dives for a ball hit by Texas' Bubby Bell but can't nab it. Bell drove in the final Ranger run with the single at Arlington Stadium.

Boston continues streak

Stay half-game behind Tigers

By Associated Press
Ralph Houk is having trouble playing the ever-popular game of pennant-race scoreboard. But his Boston Red Sox are having very few problems playing baseball, and that might make Houk's scoreboard watching unnecessary. The Red Sox stayed a half-game behind the first-place Detroit Tigers in the tight American League East second half race Monday night with a 9-3 romp over the Milwaukee Brewers, who dropped 1½ games off the pace. The victory was Boston's seventh in the last eight games, all at home. The Red Sox are 24-16 in the second season.

"I keep looking at the scoreboard and I don't really know who to root for, Detroit or Baltimore," said Houk, who saw the Tigers beating the Orioles 5-1 on the Fenway Park scoreboard. "But you can be sure I'll be pulling for the Orioles tomorrow."

Houk didn't need to do much managing Monday. He just turned Dave Stapleton, Jim Rice, Jerry Remy, Carl Yastrzemski, Carney Lansford, Tony Perez and Rick Miller loose and each had two hits in Boston's 14-hit attack. Stapleton slammed a homer in the five-run fifth inning and added a single, while knocking in four runs.

"The Red Sox are playing good and when they get hot at Fenway it's double trouble," Milwaukee Manager Buck Rodgers said. "They're high now and we have to break that momentum, hopefully tomorrow night."

"Right now, nothing is disastrous but it does set you back."

The Yankees, who already have qualified for the playoffs by winning the first-half race, had their second-half hopes set back a bit by Rick Waits, who blanked them 5-0. Elsewhere, it was Minnesota 7, Kansas City 2 and California 6, Chicago 3. The Oakland A's game at Toronto was rained out.

Tigers 5, Orioles 1
Milt Wilcox hurled a six-hitter for his first win ever over the Orioles. John Wockenfuss drove in two runs with an RBI single in the fourth and a sacrifice fly in the sixth.

Orioles starter Scott McGregor entered the game with an 11-2 lifetime record against the Tigers. He has a 7-2 record at home this season, with both losses against Detroit.

"I'm a different pitcher than I have been the last four or five years," Wilcox said. "I've changed my approach to pitching with (pitching coach) Roger Craig's help. I've added two new pitches, a forkball and an overhand curve and dropped the change-up, which got me into trouble."

"I don't think anybody will laugh at us anymore and say, 'Here come the weaklings,'" Wilcox added. "We have confidence now."

It was the third straight win for the Tigers after five consecutive losses to open their current road trip.

Rangers 4, Rangers 1
Danny Darwin threw a three-hitter, striking out seven. Texas built a 3-0 lead in the fourth on single by Bump Wills, Mickey Rivers and Buddy Bell and Pat Putnam's double, and added its final run in the eighth on Al Oliver's RBI single.

"Three days ago I told a couple of players we could still win this thing and they laughed," Oliver said of the Rangers, who are three games out in the AL West. "I think they realize now I was right."

Indians 5, Yankees 0
Rick Waits pitched a six-hitter and Rick Manning had two hits, stole three bases and scored twice for Cleveland. Mike Fischlin contributed a two-run double in the fifth inning.

"I haven't pitched a decent game since the strike," said Waits, who had a 1-5 record with a 9.44 earned run average in the second season before Monday's game. "I have had a lot of sleepless nights. My arm has been sluggish. I can't seem to explain it. I just can't seem to get going. But tonight, my arm felt very strong."

Twins 7, Royals 2
Rookie shortstop Ron Washington, who carried a .205 average into the game, had three hits and two RBIs and scored twice as Minnesota moved within 2½ games of the first-place Royals in the West.

"I was just thinking, 'See the ball and hit it,'" said Washington. "I saw it and I hit it. Ever since I joined them, we've been feeling like we could do it," said Washington, who was called up from Toledo on Sept. 4. "It's just a matter of the breaks falling — and tonight they fell. Who knows what can happen?"

Angels 6, White Sox 3
Joe Ferguson's two-run single in the second inning paced the victory, which saw Don Baylor hit his 116th homer as an Angel, setting a team record. California broke a six-game losing streak with the victory, only the Angels' second in the last 16 games.

Sting win

CHICAGO (AP) — Frantz Mathieu scored in the seventh round of a shootout Monday night, lifting the Chicago Sting to a 1-0 victory over the San Diego Sockers and a berth in the Soccer Bowl against the two-time defending North American Soccer League champion Cosmos.

The victory gave Chicago the best-of-three series 2-1. The rubber match in the semifinal series was played before a crowd of 39,623.

Carlton is all-time NL strikeout leader

MONTREAL (AP) — Left-hander Steve Carlton of the Philadelphia Phillies became the all-time National League strikeout leader Monday night against the Montreal Expos.

The 36-year-old Carlton struck out Larry Parrish in the second inning and Andre Dawson in the third with the bases loaded to raise his total to 3,118, surpassing St. Louis Cardinal Hall of Famer Bob Gibson.

The strikeout moved Carlton, in his 16th season, into fourth place on the all-time strikeout list behind Walter Johnson's 3,508, Gaylord Perry's 3,326 and Nolan Ryan's 3,229.
