GREATER NEW DEAL IS OUTLINED

To Present Free Concert Tonight

The Williams Spiritualistic Singers, above, reached Midland today on a tour of West Texas, and will be presented at the high school tonight in free concert.

FAMOUS NEGRO SINGERS ARRIVE

Free Concert Slated To Begin Here At 8:30

Favorite negro songs, familiar to all the Southland, will be heard tonight at 8:30 by the Williams Spiritualistic Singers at the high school.

The concert is free.

Spirituals, folk songs and plantation melodies will be intermingled with readings. Among the old-time favorite songs to be sung are "Swing Low Sweet Chariot" and "Every Time I Feel the Spirit." In connection with the program "Old Black Joe" in a typical Virginia plantation scene will be dramatized.

The singers are from the Edmondson Institute and Orphanage at Athens, Texas. Bishop A. B. Williams is head of the institute and director of the company of singers.

The company has presented programs recently at El Paso, Las Cruces, Sweetwater and at the West Texas chamber of commerce convention at San Angelo. A crowd of 1800 attended the Sweetwater concert. The school represented by the singers is governed by a white board of directors, Bishop Williams said. The negro educator is a graduate of the University of Oklahoma, where he received a literary degree.

Balcony will be reserved for negroes.

ADDED LOSSES IN SHEEP REPORTED

Complementary losses to sheep ranchers along the High-Lonesome draw in Reagan county have been reported in messages at Midland, one report saying 1100 head were lost on the Belcher ranch and lower down the draw.

The Belcher sheep were in a shearing pen constructed in the draw. The watersheds that supply the upper source of the Middle Concho began pouring great volumes of water into the draw when an estimated 12-inch downpour fell, and sheep could not be moved. Indeed, ranchers and their families in some instances were threatened with drowning.

The Robert A. Bishop ranch, for instance, reported flood waters inundated the garage of the headquarters and flowed into the family quarters. Wilson was fearful for the safety of his family for a time. A total of 248 ewes and 104 lambs were lost at that ranch. Others down the draw reported losses. Hail added to the confusion, the stones being the size of "inkbottles."

Hail and rain in the Davis mountain region killed thousands of sheep, other reports said.

Mexican Vacation Is 'Cheaper Than Home'

B. C. Girdley, justice of the peace, says a vacation trip to Monterrey, Mexico, is cheaper than staying at home. He, with Mrs. Girdley and son, B. C. Jr., and Newnie Ellis Jr., returned Wednesday night from a trip into the southern republic.

Entering Mexico at Laredo, the paved road to Monterrey is only 146 miles, Girdley said. They changed sufficient money upon entering Mexico and found expenses very moderate. The first section of the road was over such country as South Texas, gradually becoming more hilly.

A pass led through beautiful mountain country, emerging again into more level terrain as Monterrey was approached. The group spent a week on the trip.

Mother Postpones Reunion with Quints

NORTHBAY, Ont., June 8, (U.P.)—Almost freezing weather and a country doctor's caution prevailed on Mrs. Ovila Dionne today to postpone reunion with her quintuplet daughters.

The doctor told her it would be dangerous for her to get up and assured her that the children were in good health.

American Gandhi Visits the Senate

WASHINGTON, June 8, (U.P.)—A man dressed like Mahatma Gandhi strolled into the senate gallery today, in sandals, loin cloth and white cape—nothing else. He created a sensation among attendants before police ejected him.

Senators knew nothing of the occurrence. He gave his name as H. Goodell but refused to give his address.

COLTS TO PLAY HERE SUNDAY

The Colts will play in Midland Sunday, conceding Iraan the privilege of postponing a scheduled game with Midland there—in order that Iraan may go to Del Rio for an exhibition game. The game for Sunday had not been matched this afternoon.

Joe Pyron, Midland manager, said Midland will go to Iraan sometime next week, likely Tuesday or Wednesday.

Midland's two new recruits, White on first base and Surratt on third, will be eligible Sunday and will be seen here for the first time by most of the fans. Cramer, pitcher, and outfielder will likely be on the mound. Manager Pyron may use Leonard Rose, he said, "or both of the flingers." Richter, first sacker, likely will be placed in the outfield to bolster a weakness that developed with the recent injury to White, who broke his leg when Midland defeated Abilene.

A meeting will be held at Crane Tuesday or Wednesday night for discussion of protest filed by Midland against Odessa. Manager Pyron charges Odessa used ineligible players following the quitting of the Ector county town by White and Surratt.

Scouts to Begin a New Project Soon

A project that will require all of 15 years for completion will be undertaken by the boy scouts within a few weeks, it was announced following the approval of the commissioners court of a plan to purchase cases to be placed in the library for exhibit of historical exhibits.

The scouts will seek donations or loaned exhibits of bric-a-brac, old guns, Indian relics and other exhibits. These will be carefully identified and classified, so that they may readily be returned to their owners at any time requested.

Preliminary survey discloses a wealth of such material in Midland, and a ready acquiescence of owners to allow relics to be exhibited.

Officials Confer In Drought Session

County and chamber of commerce officials of Midland and Howard counties are in conference at Big Spring today on the drouth relief program. The meeting may prove to be a preliminary to a general meeting suggested for Midland. Every effort possible is being made to get Midland and other counties included in the drouth relief program.

ALL PASSENGERS SAFE AS BIG SHIP CRASHES IN WOOD

Pilot Walks Miles to Explain Charges Are Alive

SELLECK, Wash., June 8, (U.P.)—All passengers of the United Air wooded wilderness near here last night were reported alive today.

Dwight Hansen, co-pilot, carried word of the crash to Selleck, struggling four miles through the woods despite a broken nose, cuts and possible skull fracture.

The plane carried five men and four women. Logging crews were sent to aid of the plane. Word that all were safe was given by a passenger who was found a mile from the ship.

'Royal Order of Siam' Password Is Embarassing

What at first appeared no more than cabalistic ritual took on a phonetic significance that was embarrasing to K. C. Tucker, minister of the Church of Christ, after a few seconds of continual repetition of O-wa ta goo Siam, described as the password to the Royal Order of Siam.

Try it yourself.

Catch it?

Exactly.

"Oh what a goose I am," the minister found himself saying.

He and several other candidates were kneeling on the floor of a boy scout session, their heads touching the floor. As a candidate realized what he was saying he looked suspiciously upward, caught the grins of those "in the know," and arose with what dignity he could muster. The minister was the first from the floor.

The ceremony was put on by Gerald Self, son of M .D. Self who recently moved here with Magnolia. The scout has the Eagle rank with gold palm.

Strange Story Is Told by Hun Sailor

ODESSA.—Ector county law enforcement officers received a telephone call recently from Penwell to the effect that a man had jumped through the windshield of an incoming bus from the west and run off into a pasture near Caprock, half way between Penwell and Duro.

After making a wide search, the officers found Herrmann Klimaschenski, a big blonde, red-faced German about 32 years old, lying flat on the ground in the brush in the Buck York pasture, nearby three miles from the highway. He was uninjured after crashing through the heavy windshield, except for a few minor scratches. The fellow appeared to be in extreme fright and said, "I guess you will finish me up here."

Officers thought the man crazy, and brought him to Odessa to be held in the local jail. They said he appeared to be quite docile, but was nervous and jumpy, indicating by his talk that he was in fear of being mobbed. In going through papers found on his person, officers found indications that the man was a native of Lehr, Germany, had served in the merchant marine, and had first come to the United States in 1924. Evidence was to the effect that he had boarded a bus in California, and was bound for Baltimore, Md.

Two local men who spoke German were called in to talk to the prisoner, and after some time apparently convinced him that the local officers meant him no harm and calmed him. He then told officers a strange story of his trip from the Pacific coast, and of an alleged persecution, which he said drove him to jumping through the windshield of the moving bus and attempting escape. Officers said that in the recital of this story he appeared to be sane and they were to some extent convinced of his credibility.

He was said to have told officers that he had buried all of his money, around $200, when he thought they had "surrounded" him. He was taken to the place where they had found him, and in a very short time, Deputy Jones said, uncovered the money, which was ingeniously concealed in a shallow hole. Convinced of the man's sanity, officers released him, and he stayed in a hotel until the time of his departure for Baltimore.

Spread of Dictatorships Darkens Map of Europe

By MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Writer

LONDON, June 8.—Fascism and dictatorial governments, like smallpox, are contagious and Europe is doing its best to prove the truth of the thesis. Coups d'etat in Latvia and Bulgaria have added two more countries to the black map of Europe where all semblance of liberty and democracy have been extinguished.

That war to make the world safe for democracy is rapidly becoming the most ghastly joke of modern times. History is repeating itself. Just, as after the terrible Napoleonic wars, the first third of the 19th century witnessed an extinction of free institutions, so is the first third of the 20th.

LAWS PASSED TO PREVENT WEARING OF UNIFORMS

The sinister line-up is as follows:

Dictatorships: Italy, Germany, Turkey, Yugoslavia, Rumania, Poland, Latvia, Bulgaria, Portugal, Austria, Hungary.

Twilight lands half-way between democracy and dictatorship: Spain, Greece, Esthonia, Lituania, Finland.

Free countries: England, France, Holland, Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Norway, Denmark, Sweden and Switzerland.

That Fascism is catching is further demonstrated by the fact that even in the free countries there are Fascist parties which seek to tear down democratic government. The result has been that the governments of many of those countries have found it necessary to pass laws forbidding the wearing of uniforms by political organizations.

Denmark was the first to take action. A law was passed April 12, 1933. Its object was twofold: to prevent German Nazis in uniform from crossing the South Jutland frontier and agitating for Fascism, and, secondly, to prevent Danish Fascism from wearing distinctive uniforms.

The Danish imitators of Hitler thought they had found a clever way to circumvent the law. They decreed that, in going to and from meetings, their followers should wear their uniforms or Swastika armlets, but cover them up with overcoats. The police brought several test cases against these fellows and were upheld by the courts. Now in Denmark it is only safe to wear such uniforms in the privacy of one's home and with the windows shuttered up.

SWASTIKA EMBLEMS WORN UNDER VEST

Sweden quickly followed Denmark's example. It passed a law on August 1, 1933, prohibiting the wearing of political uniforms and distinguishing badges. The Swedish apes of Hitler raised a great howl and ordered their followers to wear their Swastika emblem under their vests close to their heart. There have been several prosecutions, but the law is so hazy that there is now talk of tightening it up so as to prevent the wearing of uniforms and badges even inside the house.

Norway also passed a law, based upon the Danish one, but specifically made exceptions in favor of boy scouts, members of athletic associations and the Salvation Army, as none of these was a political organization. In Norway, too, there is talk of tightening up the law so that it will be illegal to wear political uniforms indoors.

IMPRISONMENT OR FINE PENALTY IN HOLLAND

Holland last year added to its penal code a law forbidding the wearing of political uniforms. Punishment is by imprisonment or fine or both. The matter is left to the discretion of the courts. So far they seem to have held that the wearing of a small badge or medal does not contravene the law, but that it is illegal to wear a distinctive uniform or shirt or large badges or armlets.

In Belgium the parliament is at present discussing the passage of a law against political uniforms. Recently, when the matter was being debated in the chamber of deputies, twenty young men belonging to the Fascist organization, the National Legion, tossed down from the gallery printed leaflets insulting to the deputies and declaring that, if the bill were passed, the Legion would take no notice of it. Twelve of the disturbers were arrested, charged with abusing the deputies and threatening them with death.

Switzerland has also taken action against the wearing of political uniforms.

ACTION IN ENGLAND AGAINST BLACK SHIRTS

In Great Britain Commander Locker-Lampson sought to introduce in the House of Commons a private member's bill against wearing of political uniforms. The Commander, a sturdy Tory, admitted his measure was aimed mainly at Sir Oswald Mosley and his Fascist crowd of Black Shirts whom he scornfully called "dirty shirts."

Lord Winterton, another Tory, opposed the bill being taken up. He said the Black Shirts at present constituted no serious threat to British democracy and parliamentary institutions. Furthermore, he opposed giving Mosley the advertisement of a cheap martyrdom. The House of Commons agreed with him and the bill was not taken up.

USE HOME MADE DIVING SUITS

SEATTLE. (U.P.)—Two high school youths, Howard E. Iversen and Lloyd Johnson, both 18, made a diving suit out of a flivver's gasoline tank, two bicycle pumps, garden hose and other odds and ends plus 70 cents. The boys made more than 30 trips to the bottom of Lake Union recovering tools and other equipment lost from boats.

OLD AUDITOR'S PAY SMALL

OLYMPIA, Wash. (U.P.)—State auditors in the early days drew small paychecks. Cliff Yelle, present auditor, has a territorial warrant made out to Andrew J. Moses, the first territorial auditor, paying him $18.75 for three months work. Yell, one of the lowest paid of high state officials, gets $250 a month.

CATTLEMEN ASKED TO ELECT WALKER

Dayton Moses, attorney for the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers association, believes it is to the best interests of cattlemen and land owners as well as other Texans to re-elect J. H. Walker, state land commissioner.

Copies of letters received by friends here follow in part:

"Walker, as you know was for many years chief clerk under the late J. T. Robison, is keenly anxious to protect the landowners in their holdings from these vacancy hunters and he is carrying out the policies of the landoffice inaugurated by Commissioner Robison and is the unqualified friend of the west.

"I will next week write an article for the July issue of "The Cattleman," suggesting the importance of legislative enactment to prolong the date of maturity of school land obligations for, say ten years, during which time no foreclosure can be had by the land commissioner.

"As you know school lands in Texas were mainly brought under the school land act of 1887 which provided a minimum of $2 per acre for dry land and $3 an acre for watered land, which law was superseded by the act of 1895 reducing the minimum price per acre to $1. I dare say that 95 per cent of all the school lands in the west even though they had been purchased prior thereto were declared forfeited and repurchased, unde the act of 1895 and subsequent acts thereto. The date of maturity of the obligations is 40 years from the date of purchase."

Rockhold was playing with Vernon Mason when he made the shot. He used a spoon. It was the first ace made on the Muny course, Charles Akey said.

Number five is a short 143-yard par three hole. Beverly played the difficult nine-hole course in 40, only four strokes above par.

"Next winter we may well undertake the task of furthering the security of the citizen and his family through social insurance," the president said. "This is not an untried experiment. Lessons of experience are available from states, from industries and from many nations."

Inter-City Tennis Matches Saturday

Inter-city tennis will be played on the City of Midland courts Saturday afternoon when Midland and Odessa join forces to play the crack singles and doubles players sent here by San Angelo. Play is expected to begin at 2:30 or 3.

The invading team of Clinton and Pettus will be especially watched, Clinton reputed to have dropped only a set or two in two years, engaging all comers. De Berry, formerly of Midland, and D. Williamson are the other Angeloans.

Woods and Turner, Odessa doubles tem, are expected to join the Midlanders for the match. Dick Nelson and Harrold Dean are likely to see service.

One of the largest crowds to watch a match this season is expected to look on.

Forty Humble Men Hold Meeting Here

The periodical meeting of bulk and station men of the Humble Oil & Refining Co. was held at Hotel Scharbauer Thursday afternoon. Forty were present.

Spokesmen at the gathering were D. T. Monroe and Bryan Meade of Houston, who explained the purpose of the meeting was to familiarize Humble men with products of the company. The last such meeting was held at San Angelo, but a new plan has been evolved for holding the meetings every month, rather than quarterly.

Others who attended were E. W. Berry and Deal Holman of Abilene, Pat Moran of Pecos, Arnett Dorbandt, district salesman of Abilene; Johnson Phillips, in charge of bulk and service stations in Midland, and filling station operators of McCamey, Big Spring, Wink, Midland, Stanton and other proximate towns.

Odd Answers Given After Quick Questions Are Put

WESTFIELD, Mass. (U.P.)—To test the alertness of his class, George G. Sharp, instructor at Westfield high school, suddenly popped this question:

"What famous general is buried in Grant's tomb?

"Sheridan!" exclaimed one pupil.

"Taylor!" guessed another.

Sharp got nearly half way around his class before getting the right answer.

Glastonbury Firemen Put Out Wrong Fire; Man Ired

GLASTONBURY, Conn. (U.P.)—The dentist who pulled the wrong tooth won't feel so bad after reading this one.

The South Glastonbury fire department, responding to an alarm, speeded to a farm on the outskirts of the town, unlimbered chemicals and extinguished a lively brush blaze.

They had finished their work when an irate farmer confronted the firemen and "bawled them out" for smothering the wrong fire. The pile of brush, he explained in well-chosen words, was fired by himself after he had waited several months for it to dry. As a result he had to cart the saturated brush to a swamp some distance away.

INTELLIGENCE TESTS BERATED

At last a high authority has come forward not only to question the utility of intelligence tests but to berate them quite soundly. In a recent report of the Social Studies Commission of the American Historical Association the use of these tests is condemned not only among students, as giving too high a rating to the student who is successful at learning the "tricks of the trade," but also in grading and promoting teachers. Such tests, the report states, encourages teachers "to concentrate on the mechanical aspects of learning, thought and study. When they form the sole or major basis for judgment they are a menace to education."

The rebuke is timely and necessary. What America and the whole world is needing today is not men and women with a mechanical attitude toward life and thought, but men and women who will individually seek a clear basis of thought, and thus have the understanding to come to grips with the social and economic problems of their day.

The Town Quack

(Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.)

Since '49, Clarence Scharbauer and I have been talking about algerita berries. And now, the first time something comes out in print about algerita berries, we get corrected. The society page comes along and gives authority for the statement that what we have been raised on was "agarita" and not "algerita." The statement said the "algerito" is a chaparral berry. The C. I. A. was given as authority.

* * *

Now Clarence and I don't want to be posing as knowing more than our state schools, but we still say we have been eating algerita berries. If the berries which grow down in Pecos county aren't the chaparral variety, I don't know where to look for them, and we stand to be corrected again. And I haven't consulted Clarence before writing this. It takes usage to make a word good, or to make a good word, so I believe we have used the word algerita long enough for it to be right. Any time you see anything about those berries in this column, it will still be algerita.

Church school Sunday morning at 9:45: "Jesus on the Cross" is the soul stirring lesson subject (Matt. 27:1-60).

Divine worship Sunday morning at 11:00 o'clock. The pastor's message will be "Does Prayer Change Things?" This theme, in substance, has been suggested by one of the members. Who isn't interest in the same, since we are told by some that it is senseless to expect anything from prayer "because this is a law abiding universe?" In this discourse the minister will tell, from a Bibliogical viewpoint, why so many of our prayers are seemingly unanswered, also, the effects which really are produced when we pray, etc. If you are at all interested in prayer, and who isn't? you'll want to hear this message!

Worship service Sunday evening at 8:00 o'clock: "Jesus Teaches Forgiveness" is the theme selected for the discourse. (Text: Matt. 6:12; Passage: Matt. 18:21-35).

"I've just bought an ELECTRIC REFRIGERATOR."

"I've just bought an electric refrigerator—I can't afford to take chances with the food my family eats—I want to be sure that it is fresh and wholesome all of the time and that there is no danger of undermining health with food that looks, tastes and smells all right but which in reality, due to improper refrigeration, is unfit for use."

And so it goes—electric refrigerators by necessity have been built for Texas' climate and will maintain constant temperatures of 50 degrees or less when the thermometer reads 100 in the shade for days on end. When you buy your electric refrigerator you are not experimenting—you know that regardless of how hot the weather may be, your food is kept at just the right temperatures all of the time and that it is perfectly safe to eat.

"NOT CONSTIPATED FOR SEVEN WEEKS"

Writes Mrs. Johnson After Using Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Sufferers from constipation will be interested in this unsolicited letter:

"Your ALL-BRAN surely relieves constipation. I am so glad over the good it has done me that I feel I must write and tell you of it.

"For lunch I take a banana, a large one. Six tablespoons of ALL-BRAN in a sauce dish, and dip banana at each bite until all is consumed. I haven't been constipated now for seven weeks."—Mrs. Louise Johnson, 1433 Forest Street, Denver, Colorado.

Constipation often causes headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness. This condition is usually due to lack of "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to further promote regular habits. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN has both, as well as iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. Within the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears out the wastes.

Try ALL-BRAN in place of patent medicines—often harmful. Two tablespoonfuls daily will overcome most types of constipation. Chronic cases, with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Use as a cereal, or in cooking. Recipes on the red-and-green package. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

STRAUGHAN NARROWLY MISSES SHUT-OUT; HOKUS POKUS MAULERS WIN A 9 TO 1 DECISION OVER GOODYEARS

Scruggs Motor company scored 11 runs on 11 hits and six Hardware errors last night to pace Southern Ice in the Nocturne playground ball league.

For the second straight time, Straughan, Scruggs pitcher, was beaten out of a shutout because of an error, H. Mills scoring in the seventh when Stevens was charged with a bobble. Scruggs scored two in the second, two in the third, one in the sixth and six in the seventh. Hardware got two on in the first and Straughan struck out McCumber, Varner and L. Mills.

Hokus Pokus defeated Goodyear in the other game, 9 to 1. The Grocerymen scored three in the first, two in the second, three in the third and one in the fifth. Goodyear scored one in the third when Ferguson went from second to home on Warren's wild throw to Parrott. Slim Newton, Hokus Pokus pitcher, was in trouble only one other time—when two hits and two errors loaded the bases in the fifth.

INTER-CITY GAME PLAYED TONIGHT

Tonight's inter-city playground engagement between the Robinson grocery of Big Spring and the Hokus Pokus of Midland will serve to give a comparative study of the relative strength of loops in the two towns.

Big Spring is unused to the lights, and uses a 14-inch outseam ball, indicating a slower brand of play. Midland uses the rabbit ball, which must be fielded much faster, and the local run on 60-foot baselines, whereas the invaders have to romp only 45 feet from bag to bag.

Sam Warren, Hokus Pokus manager, says he expects to win the game, despite the fact the visitors have not dropped a game this season.

A return engagement is expected to result.

Joe Nolan Dorsey, Patsy Arrington, Winners of Revue

Joe Nolan Dorsey won the junior and Patsy Lou Arrington the senior cup at last night's "Tiny Tot" bathing revue at the Yucca theatre. Winners were judged by popular applause. Judges were Mmes. Bryan C. Henderson and Wade Heath.

The junior award was made by a tumultous wave of applause following on the heels of a similar ovation for Billy Harper, who danced his way into instant attention.

Into the semi-finals in the junior class went Robye Jean Gregory, Peggy Riley, Frances Dale Bayless, Geraldine Fuller, Joan Gee, James Early Kelly, Carter Bennett and the eventful finalists.

Into the semi-finals of the senior judging advanced Ann Ulmer, Dorothy Jean King, Doris June Bayless and the winner. Into the finals with Patsy Lou went Ann Ulmer. Four calls were made before the contest was decided.

The revue was probably the most contested of its kind ever held in Midland. Especially did the junior presentation amuse the audience, with the babies constantly performing antics that set off laughter in the big audience.

Entrants in the junior class were Robye Jean Gregory, Peggy Riley, Dorothy Barron, Frances Dale Bayless, Thetis Kate Kidwell, Geraldine Fuller, Billie Prothro, Eddie Juan Darnell, Joe Nolan Dorsey, Joan Gee, Sarah Ellen Link, James Earl Kelly, Norman Gregg Cornelius, Carter Bennett, Tommy Bond, Billy Harper, Dona Mae Kelly, David Anguish, Royce Ray McKee.

The following firms sponsored entries in the contest: M System grocery, First National bank, Petroleum pharmacy, Wilson Dry Goods. Exciting Film Tells Exploits of the Devil Dogs in Jungles of Phillipines

"Come On Marines!", the exciting and humorous account of the adventures of members of the Marine Corps, home and abroad, which shows today and tomorrow at the Ritz theatre, was taken from Philip Wylie's thrilling action-romance "The Pink Chemise," which ran as a short story in Liberty magazine, a few months ago. The story has for its background the Phillipine jungle.

Richard Arlen, Ida Lupino, and Roscoe Karns have the featured parts in the picture, which was directed by Henry Hathaway for Paramount. Grace Bardley, Monte Blue and Toby Wing are also importantly cast.

Richard Arlen, as the soft-hearted but ambitious leatherneck loses his opportunity to enter the officers' academy, as the result of a "girl-scrape." As a further humiliation, he is ordered to the tropics for active service.

After he has reinstated himself in the good graces of his officers, it falls to his lot to lead a detachment of Marines into the jungle in an effort to rescue a stranded group of "school-children."

To his surprise the "school-children" turn out to be full-grown and lovely debutantes, who have just left finishing school. A surprise attack by bandits complicates matters still further.

Finally, Arlen resorts to a startling ruse to trap the bandits. Thrilling action scenes bring the picture to a surprise climax.

Only Tinseled Remnants Remain of Gay Life, Moral Code, That Set Movies Apart

BY DAN THOMAS
NEA Service Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1934, NEA Service, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Calif.—A real home life with youngsters romping about the house (an "old-fashioned" existence once regarded cynically by Hollywood's sophisticates) appears now to be the goal of the film capital's younger set.

That seems a strange thing to say about talkietown and it would not have been a true picture at all a few years ago. However, these last few years have brought unexpected changes into the movie colony. Whereas gay parties and general fast living used to be the keynote of existence here, hard work now supersedes all else. And it is work of a nature which almost demands the relaxation of a comfortable home life.

After sweltering under the terrific studio lights all day long, your girl actress not only doesn't feel like making whoopee but she can't do it if she is to be at her best for the following day's work. Consequently our girls have turned toward marriage and children as the best possible private life.

* * *

It was a rare occurrence for a young actress to be a mother in the old days. Today, however, they are numerous. Karen Morley, June Collyer, Joan Bennett, Sue Carroll, Dixie Lee, Arline Judge, Helen Twelvetrees, Jobyna Ralston and Barbara Stanwyck all have babies. And Sally Eilers and Frances Dee are about to join the group. The child idea isn't entirely feminine either. Every one of those named above, with the exception of Helen Twelvetrees, is married to a screen actor or director. And the fathers are every bit as proud of their youngsters as are the mothers.

While this is a picture of one side of Hollywood, and a rapidly growing side at that, it is not complete. There still is another side which has come down from the old days when working in pictures used to be looked upon as more or less of a lark, with the resulting gay night life.

* * *

In those days Hollywood wasn't exactly a moral community—and it isn't today, if one accepts the customary standards of morality. The celluloid colony doesn't. That's where it differs from the world at large.

Oh, everyone here recognizes the fact that certain standards exist. But they exist for the outside world.

Since the early days of motion pictures, Hollywood has been a small world within itself—as completely shut off from the rest of the world as if it were surrounded by a high wall. It has its own customs, at variance with public opinion perhaps, but still satisfactory here. The film crowd never has frowned on divorce, never has regarded it as a sin for a girl to have an affair, and never has known the meaning of prohibition.

* * *

While there isn't a more gossipy town in the world, still people here believe that everyone has a right to live his or her own life.

Despite the fact that marriage and a home life is becoming the prevalent thing, on man or girl is shunned for preferring something else.

Social standing is based almost entirely upon success.

And a girl with a lover is just as welcome anywhere as one with a husband. The gossiping is more of a pastime than anything else.

* * *

As a matter of fact there is very little real criticism here of personal habits. It is a free land in which persons are permitted to do as they please. As a result everything is done openly. There is no hiding no sneaking around corners such as one finds in most cities.

Compare Hollywood with any average town, for example. There if a boy or girl wanted to have an affair they must be most furtive. And if it was found out, mothers would prohibit their daughters from having anything to do with the girl in the case.

In Hollywood that's all different. The boy and girl would make no bones about their affair, make no effort to keep it a secret. Either the girl would go openly and boldly to the man's apartment, or he would go to hers. And while the affair might furnish a choice morsel for gossip, it would in no way reflect upon either party.

Personally I don't think the result of such freedom results in any more immorality than one finds in other communities. The only difference lies in the fact that it isn't regarded as immorality here.

* * *

However, there is a noticeable lessening of such diversion, just as there is noticeably less drinking. Despite the fact that liquor is a legal beverage, I feel perfectly safe in saying that the amount of it consumed here is fully 50 per cent less than it was three years ago.

Hollywood still is a land of the free all right, but its inhabitants, particularly the younger set, are using that freedom less with each succeeding year.

NO STAMPS, ARRESTED

AMARILLO (U.P.)—Gracey Underwood had not even heard that the 18th amendment had been repealed let alone that government stamps were required on hard liquor.

Gracey was surprised when Federal Judge James C. Wilson told her that the federal government no longer objects to the sale of liquor. She had pleaded guilty to possession of 36 gallons of whiskey.

But Gracey was more surprised when the judge sentenced her to 30 days in jail for selling liquor without a government stamp.
