A little less than a year ago a charter election was held and the charter was defeated by a large vote. SAYS DID NOT INTERFERE IN MINGO AFFAIR

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Operators in the Mingo, W. Va., coal field, in restricting efforts to unionize their workmen, acted entirely on their own accord and were in no way influenced by the United States Steel corporation, Ernest L. Bailey, superintendent of the Portsmouth Solvoy and Coke mines at Freeburn, Ky., today informed the senate investigating committee. He emphaticelly denied, when questioned by Senator Kenyon, republican, Iowa, that there was any association between the operators and the steel corporation in policy toward union labor.

Senator Kenyon read a statement purported to have been issued by W. Jett Lauck, consulting economist for the United Mine Workers, in which it was charged that the steel corporation was the "guiding hand" behind the effort to crush out "the mine workers' organization." The statement said the steel corporation, through its subsidiaries, was the largest producer of coal in West Virginia, employing more men than any operator in the region adjacent to Mingo county and was planning, in conjunction with the Norfolk and Western railroad to extend its operations in the Mingo field.

IRISH STILL NOT WITHOUT HOPE, SAY

Are Marking Time Pending Conference of De Valera With Prime Minister Thursday Morning.

By Associated Press.

LONDON, July 19.—Eamonn De Valera, the Irish republican leader, and his colleagues, who accompanied him to London for the conference with Prime Minister Lloyd-George, in the effort to lay the basis of a tripartite conference for a solution of the Irish question, are marking time in anticipation of the conversation of Mr. DeValera and the prime minister Thursday morning.

It is reported that by that time Mr. Lloyd-George will have certain propositions to present to the Irish leaders which will have received the approval of the British cabinet.

The spokesman of the Irish delegates today characterized their attitude as "still not unhopeful."

While all the rest of the Ulster officials had shifted their scene of action to Belfast, the Marquis of Londonderry, the Ulster minister of education, was received by King George this afternoon at Buckingham palace.

Later it was reported that General Smuts, who talked with members of the British cabinet during the morning might go to Belfast in the capacity of a non-partisan intermediary.

Mr. DeValera and his party made it known today that they considered it probable they would return to Dublin for the week-end.

IRISH NEGOTIATIONS FALL INTO LULL.

By Associated Press.

LONDON, July 19.—Events which had apparently been proceeding smoothly and with fair rapidity toward a common ground upon which the British government, the Irish republicans and the Ulsterites could find a basis for a settlement of the troubles in Ireland have fallen into a lull, and, for the moment the negotiations, both official and private have ceased.

With Sir James Craig the Ulster premier, again in Belfast having before his departure from London delivered a pronouncement which seemed at the time to spell the end of discussions between the thee parties, the English people are trying to determine what will eventually happen with respect to Ulster and more particularly with respect to the whole of Ireland, at the next conference between Mr. Lloyd George and Mr. DeValera, which is set for Thursday.

Meanwhile, General Jan Christian Smuts, the South African premier, may proceed to Belfast as intermediary, and the fact that the Ulster leader has declared that his services and those of the official under him "are available at any moment," leads to a hopeful view that the final word of the Ulsterites has not yet been spoken.

Notwithstanding the attitude of Ulster as expressed by Premier Craig, the spokesman of the republican delegates today declared they were "still not unhopeful," while another Sinn Fein representative said:

"It is not a question of Belfast being subservant to Dublin, or vice versa, but that both must be subservient to Ireland."

GREEKS REJOICE AS REPORTS OF SUCCESS GET CONFIRMATION

By Associated Press.

ATHENS, July 19.—An official communique issued at general headquarters of the Greek army in Asia Minor covering events of July 16, tells of operations around Kutaia, on the southern branch of the Bagdad railway. The citizens acclaimed the king and the army. Houses and public buildings were decked with flags.

The newspapers lay stress upon the political and strategical importance of Kutaia and predict that the main Turkish railway lines will shortly be in the hands of the Greeks.

The prisoners taken by the Greeks are declared to be several thousand in number. An immense amount of booty also was captured.

WICHITA ONE OF FIVE COUNTIES IN PROPOSED DISTRICT

Wichita county will be in the twenty-eighth state senatorial district with Clay, Montague, Archer and Baylor counties, if the redistricting bill introduced before the special session of the legislature is passed.

The same bill, which would split the present senatorial district into three parts, was blocked when presented before the regular session on a technicality.

MINIATURE CLOUDBURST AND TWISTER WREAKS DAMAGE IN SHALLOW FIELD TUESDAY

Special to The Record News.

BURKBURNETT, Texas, July 19.—A small cloudburst and embryo cyclone visited the Texhoma shallow field and to within two miles of Burkburnett Tuseday afternoon. Twelve derricks were reported blown down in the Texhoma field and other damage done to property by the wind and rain, but no damage to persons is reported so far.

The rain extended as far north as the cemetery, two miles south of Burkburnett, falling in great torrents, and roads and leases are flooded tonight.

Burkburnett's only share in the disturbance was a sand storm of good sized proportions.

From reports received in Burkburnett Tuesday night, the rain extended very little further west into the county than the shallow field. From Burkburnett to Electra rather heavy clouds were reported, and some wind, but no rain.

DISARMAMENT MOVE REVEALS MANY ANGLES

Proposal Assumes Magnitude Little Expected at Outset, Leading to Many New Issues.

LONDON, July 19.—It is announced as provisionally arranged that Premier Lloyd George will attend the Washington conference on limitation of armaments.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—President Harding's move for a disarmament conference is assuming far greater magnitude in world affairs than first indications disclosed.

As preliminary negotiations proceeded they reveal all sort of unexpected diplomatic ratifications and lead in to fields which in the beginning had seemed far removed from the purpose of the conference. But officials here apparently are thoroughly confident that the widespread effect of the president's proposal will in the end only prove an aid in accomplishing the frank exchange of ideas for which the conference was called.

One of the principal side issues now occupying attention of the American government is the disposition of Japan to hold out for an exact definition in advance of the subjects to be considered by the assembled powers. The attitude of officials here is that to thresh out that question now only would delay the conference but might also branch into a discussion of merits of the disputed subjects themselves.

It is felt that the program for the conference could be best arranged by the conference itself or, failing that, at least by negotiation after each of the invited powers has sent in unconditional acceptance.

It developed during the day that the explanation given by Japan by the state department relative to the scope of the conference was entirely informal and the department officials apparently hoped to be able to reach an understanding without a further exchange of formal notes.

The information desired by Tokio is understood to have been given the Japanese ambassador during an informal conversation with Secretary Hughes and it is assumed that further exchanges of a similar nature will take place in the Japanese capitol before the stage of formal reply is reached.

While these preliminaries are in progress President Harding is understood to be giving some attention to the personnel of the commission that is to report the United States in the conference.

It is indicated that although no actual choice probably would be made for a month, or more, the president definitely had desired that the senate, because of its joint responsibility for foreign affairs will sit on the commission, however, it is a question the administration is not yet prepared to answer.

JAPAN WANTS TO FIX CONFERENCE PROGRAM

By Associated Press.

TOKIO, July 19.—Subsequent to a cabinet meeting today, which discussed a report of Kijuro Shidehara, the ambassador to the United States it was announced that the United States and Great Britain and Japan probably would exchange views in an effort to outline the program for the coming Washington conference.

A semi official statement issued today says Japan is prepared to give all prominence in the conference to the questions of the open door and equal opportunity in China, so as to place China in a fair way to the attainment of an independent national status.

The Chinese minister has had an exchange of views with Viscount Uchida, the Japanese foreign minister, regarding the situation as it concerns China.

Fred Crowley, manager of the casing head gasoline department of the Mideo Petroleum company at Tulsa, is visiting old friends and associates in Wichita Falls, while stopping at the Kemp.

NORRIS BILL ATTACKED AS FARM SUDSIDY

Senator Edge Asks if no Rest for "Poor, Unchampioned, White Collar Man Who Pays."

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Senator Edge, republican, New Jersey, today attacked the Norris bill to create a one-hundred million dollar federal corporation to finance farm exports.

"Is there to be no rest for the poor, unchampioned 'white-collar-man' who is forced to put up his money for the benefit of various favored classes?" the senator asked. "This bill is plain subsidy."

Senator Norris declared it would increase prices. Farmers, he said, were bankrupt, but Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, challenged the statement and Senator Norris said that he was "almost justified" in using the term.

Assertions by Senator Reed that wheat, corn, rice and other agricultural products had been exported during the last year far above the average volume were supported by Senator Norris, but he said that American farmers still have a surplus which depressed prices.

ANOTHER VICTIM OF "K. K. K."

By Associated Press.

TYLER, Texas, July 19.—George H. Peters, 20, was brought here to a hospital today from a point about three miles from Chandler, Texas, where he was found early today unconscious and gagged. A note was found in his clothing signed "Klu Kid," saying he had been taken from a hotel at Chandler and about $240 in money taken from him. The note added he was not the man wanted, however. Late this afternoon he had not regained consciousness.

Peters went to bed in the hotel last night and none today knew when or how he was removed, so far as could be learned here, or how many persons were concerned. Doctors say they believe he may have been struck with a sand bag or similar instrument. The nature of his injuries had not been determined this afternoon except they were believed to be serious. A brother lives in Fort Worth and his father is believed to reside in Houston.

GERMANS DEAF TO APPEALS TO HELP RUSSIAN PEASANTS

BERLIN, July 19. — Maxim Gorky's appeals to the Germans to help the Russian starving have met with slight response.

The general attitude appears to be that the Germans are in no condition to help anybody, and, if they were, they would not support bolshevism, which is charged responsible for the bad harvest through failure to furnish the peasants with materials with which to work, and discouraging the willing by confiscations.

ALLEGING WITHHELD LANDS, $3,000,000 ASKED IN OIL SUIT

By Associated Press.

OKMULGEE, Okla., July 19.—Suit was filed in the district court here today against the H. F. Wilcox Oil and Gas company and the Producers and Refiners corporation by S. M. Rutherford, Jr., administrator of the estate of Hettie Gilland, Creek Indian woman, for $3,000,000 as damages for oil and gas alleged to have been taken from her allotment. Immediate possession of the land also is asked.

The Gilland woman died in Muskogee last month and for two years prior to her death the land had been unlawfully withheld from her by the two oil companies, the petition recites.

DAWES ESTIMATES HE CAN SAVE ABOVE HUNDRED MILLIONS

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—An approximate saving of $112,512,628 can be effected in the appropriations of approximately four billion dollars available for government expenditures during the current year, President Harding was informed today by Director of Budget Dawes. Included in the estimate of saving, General Dawes said, was the sum of $22,822,113, pertaining to continuous appropriations for building and construction which would be postponed for expenditures in the future years.

The estimate of government economy possible during the present fiscal year was contained in a letter directed to the President by General Dawes who presented the amounts by which expenditures could be reduced in various departments and independent establishments.

Survey of possible economy during the year was begun several weeks ago by General Dawes using the budget machinery after a meeting at which department heads and bureau chiefs had been directed to reduce expenditures and adopt a policy of economy and efficiency.

"Whatever may be the relation of total expenditure to total revenues at the end of the current year," Director Dawes said in his letter, "which for various reasons, including possible new legislation, the operations of the shipping board, the railroad administration and fluctuation in current receipts of the post office department, cannot be predicted at this time, the above amount is that much of a contribution to a more favorable relation.

"This fine response to your request from the heads of departments and independent organizations and bureau chiefs incidental to your assumption of responsibility as the business head of governmental administration, infers the existence in their minds of the principles involving improvement in government business.

Estimated savings of the more important departments were listed by Director Dawes as follows:

State department $1,171,982; Treasury department $30,342,149; War Risk bureau $16,534,523; War department $15,000,000; Navy department $10,047,891; Interior department $19,827,191; Department of Agriculture $1,687,802; Post office department $35,500; Postal service $14,920,421; Department of Commerce $2,063,385; Department of Labor $10,600; Department of Justice $94,300.

Completion of the economy estimates by the government organizations within three weeks was regarded by Director Dawes as evidence of increased efficiency. Work would be begun at once by the budget bureau, he added, on the budget for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1923, using the new estimates of necessary expenditures as a basis.

NAVY HEADS ARE SCORED FOR METHODS

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Republican majority and democratic minority members of the senate naval sub-committee which investigated the war time scandal among enlisted men at the Newport, R. I., training station, in reports made public today agree in condemning in severe terms the methods used by the navy in detecting those at the station guilty of immoral practices.

The only outstanding point of difference in the two reports consists in the responsibility of former Secretary Daniels and former Assistant Secretary Roosevelt for the use of naval enlisted men as participants in the immoral practices in order to obtain evidence against offenders.

The majority report signed by Senators Ball of Delaware and Keyes of New Hampshire, hold that the methods used were with the knowledge of both the secretary and the assistant secretary and declares the latter to be "morally responsible" for the instructions issued in the matter.

The minority views, presented by Senator King of Utah, in the form of an accompanying statement to the majority report contend the whole matter was conducted without the knowledge of either the navy department chiefs.

"The inference and statements and innendoes that Mr. Roosevelt or Mr. Daniels knew of those methods," the minority report asserts, "are wholly without justification and do a great injustice to the persons mentioned."

With respect to the methods employed, the report says:

"That the methods employed in securing evidence by some of the enlisted personnel were abhorrent and call for severest condemnation, no one can deny. The condemnation of the majority of these methods meets my approval."

AGREE TO CUT PAY OF SHIP OFFICERS

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 19.—A gentlemen's agreement embodying a 15 per cent reduction in standard war time pay for deck officers of American ships and permitting masters to make their own contracts with ship owners was formulated today by organizations of deck officers and the American Steamship Owners association.

The new agreement, which was subscribed to by representatives of the shipping board, will be effective August 1, and will take the place of a signed agreement which expires on that date.

HARDING ASKS INVESTIGATION RESERVE BOARD

Wants Congress to Go Thorougly Into Actions of System During Deflation Period.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Governor Harding of the Federal Reserve Board with the approval of Secretary Mellon, has asked congress to investigate the operations of the board and the reserve system and Chairman McFadden of the house banking and currency committee late today introduced a resolution to carry out the request.

The investigation proposed would embrace every detail of the activities of the board, its twelve banks and its branch banks over "the period of deflation" or about the last eighteen months, according to Mr. McFadden. He said if the house approved of his program he would tackle the job immediately, taking in what he described as "a mess of charges and accusations of discriminations coming mostly from the south and west."

Mr. McFadden said that his resolution proposed to bring forth an explanation of the board's rulings, its interpretation of the laws under which it operates and the methods it has employed in dealing with member banks. The par clearance question, a subject of litigation by Southern bankers who opposed par clearance, is another phase which Mr. McFadden said undoubtedly would be considered."

Governor Harding's letter to Mr. McFadden touched on recent speeches by John Skelton Williams, former comptroller of the currency and former member of the reserve board, attacking the board's policy and actions. Mr. Harding stated he believed that in view of Mr. Williams' former official position, his statements should be gone into and it was understood Mr. Williams would be among witnesses called.

A resolution to "direct" President Harding to remove all members of the federal reserve board and appoint new members was introduced today by Senator Watson, Democrat, Georgia. It prescribed that the new members be not "mere assidious servitors of the Morgan, Steel, Packers and other interests." The resolution charged the board with having, through unlawful contraction of money and other policies, "inflicted irreparable loss of thirty-one billions of dollars upon the helpless American people" and with having loaned the larger part of the banks' funds to monopolistic profiteers.

COTTON CREDITS TO BE ADVANCED IN SOUTH

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Further credit for harvesting and marketing the coming cotton crop will be extended in whatever amount is legitimately required, it was announced tonight by the federal reserve board and the governors of the reserve banks of Richmond, Atlanta, St. Louis, Kansas City and Dallas.

The announcement was made after a meeting of the governors of the reserve banks in the cotton growing sections to formulate a uniform policy on cotton loans for orderly marketing of the new crop. It was decided that credit would be extended either directly to member banks by the reserve banks or indirectly to non-member banks through the member banks.

"In order," the announcement said, "that the rediscount facilities of the federal reserve banks may be made fully effective, it will be necessary that member banks in the cotton states place their loaning facilities freely at the disposal of cotton producers and dealers in their respective localities with the knowledge and assurance that the federal reserve board and the federal reserve banks recognize the urgency of tendering all proper assistance to these important interests during such abnormal times."

KIDNAPERS HOLDING MAN FOR $50.000

Prominently Connected Pennsylvania Business Man Captured and Held Until Demands Met.

Is Related to Prominent Families Which Figured in Famous Kidnaping Case in 1919.

By Associated Press.

SHARON, Pa., July 19.—A reward of $5,000 was offered tonight by Edward V. Randolph for the safe return of his son, Thomas D. Randolph, business man here, who was kidnaped last night and is being held for fifty thousand dollars ransom, according to his father.

The reward, Mr. Randolph said, would be paid to "any local person who brings my son home safely and causes the apprehension of his abductors. Not a cent," Mr. Randolph declares, "will be paid to the kidnapers."

By Associated Press.

SHARON, Pa., July 19.—Thomas D. Randolph, a leading business man here, was kidnaped last night and is being held for $50,000 ransom, according to information turned over today by Mrs. Randolph to city and county authorities.

Mr. Randolph did not return home last night and his wife was almost hysterical this morning when she received two notes, one signed "kidnapers" and one from her husband. The first note demanded fifty thousand dollars.

Randolph is related to practically the same wealthy families as Billy Whitla, who was kidnaped in March, 1909.

Mr. Randolph, who conducts a stationery and book business, telephoned his wife last night that he would be delayed at the store as he was waiting to meet a party of men coming from Younstown, Ohio. Mrs. Randolph sat up for him and shortly after midnight received another telephone message saying that the doors of Randolph's store were opened and all the lights were burning. Mystified, she waited until morning, when the first letter, a special delivery bearing a Sharon postmark, was handed to her by her fahter-in-law, Edward V. Randolph. The letter was directed to Mr. Randolph, and read:

"We have kidnaped your son and demand $50,000 as follows: Ten thousand dollars in twenty dollar bills; forty thousand dollars in fifty dollar bills; nothing to be over fifty dollar bills. We demand the money under the following terms: The greatest secrecy must prevail. Don't try in any way to catch us. If so, we will destroy your son and call it off. We know our business. Don't let the police know it. Don't hire private detectives. Your movements will be watched. We know your relatives, Henry Buhl of Pittsburgh and the Buhls of Detroit, and Mrs. Frank Buhl of Sharon. We suggest that you get the money from Henry Buhl of Pittsburgh.

"Go to Pittsburgh Tuesday at 9:40 o'clock. Take chair car and sit right on train all the way down. Sit near a window. Don't record the numbers on the bills. Our bank will know them. If you do we will cause you sorrow, which will exceed what you are going through now. If you get the money Tuesday night keep the bourse lighted from 8 o'clock all night. This will be a signal to us and we can confer further with you."

The letter concluded with the suggestion that the trip be made to Pittsburgh "Tuesday morning."

The other letter was directed to Mrs. Randolph and purported to be from her husband. It urged her "for God's sake get me away from these fellows and pay what they demand."

Like the first letter it had been mailed in Sharon and bore no marks other than the address and the stamp cancellation.

BANKERS SEE STIFF COMPETITION FROM GERMANY FOR U. S.

By Associated Press.

MINNEAPOLIS, July 19.—Germany's rapid industrial recuperation promises to plunge the United States into competition for world trade which will mean longer hours, more efficient work and smaller wages for everyone as well as rigid economy in the conduct of national and individual affairs, F. W. Decker, president of the Northwestern National Bank, Minneapolis, declared in an address at the opening session of the nineteenth annual convention of the American Institute of Banking here today.

"The German government," Mr. Decker said, "is today subsidizing to a considerable extent of the cost of living to all laboring men in order that they may work for cheaper wages, and thus assist her factories in capturing part of the world's industrial trade, particularly in the lines for which she has her own raw material."

MANY ATTEND SERVICES FOR MISS CHILDERS

Tuesday afternoon at 53:0 in the Church of the Good Shepherd, her home church since childhood, funeral services were held for Miss Emma B. Childers, the Reverend F. T. Dat-son conducting the church rites, and reading the burial service at River-side cemetery.

The overturn of a sightseeing automobile, in which a number of tourists were seeing the Yellowstone caused the death of Miss Childers, according to the first details which have been available.

Everyone in the truck was injured to the extent of broken bones, it is reported, with the exception of Miss Bohn. Miss Childers' friend and traveling companion, who accompanied the body home. Miss Childers was the only one fatally injured.

"Emma B. Childers needs no spoken or written eulogy," said Rev. Datson. "Her life stands as a monument, and her spirit continues, though the flesh has departed."

The rector spoke of her sincerity of purpose and action, of of the assistance she had given him in church work, both in this city and in Fort Worth, where he was also her rector for a time.

He mentioned the tribute that was paid her by the presence at the funeral service of a large number of young men and women who had been taught by her during the time she was a member of the Wichita Falls high school faculty.

He also paid a tribute to her work in Fort Worth with the Young Women's Christian Association, at a particularly trying time, the war days, with a multitude of soldiers of all nationalities complicating the problem of the association.

There were present at the funeral at the church, which followed an earlier service at the house, for the family, and the more intimate friends, a large and very representative number of friends and acquaintances. Friends of the family, and associates of Miss Childers in the school work, and in the Y. W. C. A. work which she took up six years ago were present, and there were a particularly large number of young people present who were students in Miss Childers' history classes, many of them completing the four years course under her instructions.

Frank Childers, a brother, and his family, were here from McAlester, Okla.; Mrs. John Rounsaville, Miss Byrd Johnson, Mrs. Virginia Brown and Miss Crowl of Fort Worth; Miss Childers' associates in Y. W. C. A. work, and Miss Catherine Bohn, her companion on the vacation trip, and Mrs. M. B. Roberts of Center, Texas, were out of town attendants on the funeral. Miss Childers' father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Childers, and three brothers and a sister reside in this city, these being J. E. LeValle and Tom Childers, and Mrs. Charles Chenault.

POLICE SEEKING WOMAN WANTED ON CHARGE OF THEFT

Police were watching all inbound trains Tuesday in search of a young woman, thought to be wanted here in connection with the disappearance Saturday afternoon of some silk underwear from the Perkins-Timberlake company.

A young woman who was arrested shortly after the article was missed by City Detective Jack Miller, was said Tuesday by local police to be the woman wanted.

The woman was released following a short investigation, and left, according to her declaration, for Seymour. Tuesday Detective Miller, who was acting as chief of police, declared that the same woman was thought to have lifted some clothing at Vernon, from where she immediately went to Quanah.

EDITOR SEES BIG FUTURE FOR SECTION

A brilliant future for Wichita Falls and the section surrounding was predicted to the members of the University club by Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald, editor of the Record News, who attributed to this his decision to make the city his home, and to join hands with those who are helping to bring about that realization.

Expressing pleasure at having had the opportunity to work with Mr. Kemp when he first began campaigning in behalf of irrigation and conservation twenty-odd years ago, Mr. Fitzgerald laid particular stress on the great opportunity afforded through the irrigation of vast stretches of land in this territory where such measures had not yet been even projected.

He also concurred in opinions he had heard quoted that when conditions in the oil world again reached the normal, the stores of oil such as had yet not even been dreamed of would be uncovered in this section.

No regular program was followed by the University club Tuesday at the Kemp hotel on account of the inability of W. G. Bralley and Judge Edgar Scurry, scheduled to speak, to be present. The attendance at Tuesday's luncheon was one of the smallest of the year.

A brief report of the University club's activities was given by John P. Marrs, secretary. A committee, consisting of Nick Carter and Herbert Voelcker was appointed to arrange next week's program. The Wichita Falls baseball team will be invited guests at the next luncheon, Mr. Carter announced.

Music for the day consisted of the "University club March," played by the composer, Frank Loew, and vocal solos by Miss Teresa Veale.

PASTORS SHOULD BE SALESMEN.

Dr. G. Franklin Ream, pastor of the Washington Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, Kansas City, Kas., continued his series of sermons on popular topics last night with a talk on "Salesmanship." Dr. Ream first made a few remarks regarding the art of salesmanship and then told how it might be applied to church work.

"If the salesman for religion would have one-tenth the training of the average insurance agent and would put in one-half the energy of the average merchant, religion would top the list of all modern transactions.

"The trouble is that salesmen do not know their line. They have had little practical experience with the product. They can't demonstrate it. It is religion that puts man into salesmanship. It will re-establish confidence and bring all other business back to normal.

"Many men would accept religion if it were put up to them in the right manner. If they could be sold on the idea that religion is a business and is necessary for the happiness and welfare of all, they would ally themselves with the ranks of Christian workers."

MAN AGAIN IS VICTIM OF KU KLUX

By Associated Press.

TENAHA, Texas, July 20.—J. W. McKnight, plumber of Nacogdoches, Texas, was mobbed for the second time within four days at Tenaha late tonight. McKnight was whipped Saturday night by masked men at Timpson, Texas. He went to Tenaha to give information concerning his assailants, three of whom he said he recognized. He was arrested tonight on charges of carrying concealed weapons and was on the way to Center, Texas, under guard of Deputy Jim Barber, when a body of masked men in an automobile overtook the officer and his prisoner. McKnight was taken by the masked men who at latest reports were speeding through Timpson, Texas, firing pistols.

BOTULISM ON OLIVES, SAYS DR. DOUGLASS

Warning that Botulism, a deadly poisonous form of fungus growth has been found on some brands of bottled olives at some points in Texas, was issued Tuesday by Dr. A. H. Douglass, city sanitary officer. Notice to this effect was reported by Dr. Douglass to have been received from the state department of health at Austin.

The growth, Dr. Douglass said, can be readily detected by anyone. He described it to be of a dark gray color and of a formation similar in structure to common mold well known to all house wives.

The fungus develops in the olive, he said, before it is picked and develops its dangerous qualities after being bottled.

ADVISES AGAINST TOO LONG PERIODS IN BATHING POOLS

Irritated eyes, reported to have been sustained in several instances by children in public swimming pools, were announced Tuesday by Dr. A. H. Douglass, city sanitary officer, to have been caused by the children remaining too long in the water.

The irritation, he said, is directly caused by chlorine gas used to purify the water, and is harmless, except for slight irritation to the eyes or ears of persons remaining in the water for prolonged periods.

CONVENTION OF K. C. WILL BE HELD IN FRISCO, AUGUST 2-5

NEW YORK, July 19.—The largest international convention of the Knights of Columbus will be held in San Francisco beginning August 2 and ending August 5. Thousands of Knights and their women folks are already on their way to the coast in special trains from the East and the Middle West to roll up the total of approximately 25,000 visitors that the K. of C. international meet will bring to the city by the Golden Gate.

Mayor James Rolph, Jr., and his city fathers have appointed a committee of one hundred prominent San Franciscans of all denominations to greet the Knights and arrange for their entertainment while in the city.

Supreme Knight James A. Flaherty of Philadelphia, will have the army of Knights on their march westward and sound the keynote of the convention, known as the "America First" convention, because the Knights of Columbus plan to launch a gigantic American history movement, which will call for the expenditure of more than a million dollars in time and labor for the preparation of a new popular history of the United States from original sources.

Other important works that the Knights will initiate at this convention are their national fight on the white plague and the new phase of their educational and hospitalization work for veterans of the war, the latter to cost approximately $5,000,000.

Delegates from all parts of the United States and Canada, from Newfoundland, Cuba, Alaska, Porto Rico, Panama, Hawaii, the Philippines and Mexico will represent the 800,000 Knights that form the membership of the organization. With them will go scores of alternates.

"The most picturesque activities of the Knights of Columbus have been concerned with Europe for the past three years—ever since America's entry into the war," Supreme Secretary William J. McGinley declares in his prospectus of the convention. "Now our attention is directed solely on our own country, and the K. of C. American history movement is the surest way of focusing and keeping focused the eyes of America on what America means.

"This history movement, we believe, will be the solution of the Americanization problem, for we have found an eagerness on the part of would-be citizens for American history and ignorance on the part of many who are citizens regarding American histoy. It is our aim to supply both with a propaganda-proof story of the country in which we live."

The convention will lay new plans for the conduct of the K. of C. schools, which have already graduated free more than 150,000 former service men in all kinds of technical colrses. The convention will be called upon to ratify the K. of C. plan to maintain scholarships in twenty recognized colleges and universities for 500 young veterans of the war.

The call was turned in from a fire alarm box at Thirteenth and Broad streets, he said.

LEGIONNAIRES PROTEST ACT CHICAGO POST

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, July 19.—Resolutions requesting national headquarters of the American Legion to withdraw the charter of the Sol-Sal-Mar American Legion post of Chicago because this post had announced at a banquet that they would support Jack Johnson, negro pugilist, in a fight against Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion, were adopted last night by the local American Legion post.

The action followed news dispatches from Chicago yesterday morning to the effect that the Chicago post had banqueted Johnson and praised his war record, pledging their support if he fought Dempsey.

The Travis post resolution said that Johnson was a fugitive from justice during the war and could not have fought for the United States. The resolution also condemned and objected to an effort by any organization looking to Johnson's reappearance in the ring.

Similar resolutions are reported pending before other American Legion posts in Texas, including the John W. Lowe post at Dallas, which will ballot on the question Wednesday night.

By Associated Press.

SHREVEPORT, La., July 19.—Condemnation of the action of the Sol-Sal-Mar post of the American Legion at Chicago in endorsing Jack Johnson, negro heavyweight, and request for its expulsion from the national organization are contained in a letter forwarded today by E. A. Bacon, adjutant of Shreveport Post No. 14, American Legion.

AGE-OLD ROMANCE SURROUNDS STORY OF SUNKEN RICHES

By Associated Press.

PAPEETE, Tahiti, July 13.—Romance is not yet dead. Tales of buccaneering, murder on the high seas, buried gold on lonely unhabited islands and charts and cryptograms of hidden treasure-trove are not all inventions of imaginative minds or legends of a day which is long past.

Such a tale is the story of the treasure of the island of Pinaki, whose hiding place, after a patient search of over seven years, has at last been discovered. And now a schooner from Tahiti has been dispatched to bring away the gold.

A half century ago, four sailors, deserters from a coastwise vessel, joined revolutionists in Peru and learned of a vast treasure of jewels, plate and ignots, the property of the church, which had been hidden in Peru to prevent it from falling into the hands of one of the warring factions. Secretly the sailors searched for the treasure, found it concealed in a church building and moved it to another hiding place on the coast.

Going to Panama, the seafarers, at night, boarded a small schooner, murdered the crew, and after putting the treasure aboard, set sail across the Pacific, intending to make some European port later to dispose of their wealth. Recalling that they had no clearance papers and probably could not enter a European port safely, they decided to hide the gold on some uninhabited island and then get it later in a vessel they would charter at Sydney, N. S. W., for trading purposes.

Across their path lay the island of Pinaki, in the Paumotu Archipelago of the South Seas, and at this uninhabited spot they stopped and hid their loot. One native, who observed them from a neighboring island and rowed across to see what the men from the strange schooner were doing was killed and his tribal brothers, who crossed later, found only his empty canoe and strange markings on the trees.

Sailing on to Australia, the four scuttled their vessel when a few miles from shore and, rowing in, told of a storm at sea which opened the seams of their ship. Not all believed them, for some residents had seen the ship approaching and had witnessed its mysterious sinking. There were no police, however, in that section and as the four men looked desperate, they were permitted to strike out overland for Sydney, unmolested.

Years later, in about 1914, a Mr. Howe was accosted on a Sydney street by an aged beggar. When Howe gave the man a few shillings he was surprised to hear the beggar ask his name and address. Some time later Howe received an urgent summons to go to a Sydney hospital. There he found the beggar, who told of how he and three others had buried their treasure, had sailed on to Australia and had set out overland for Sydney. On their way, blacks attacked them and killed two of the sailors. The beggar and his surviving companion, Brown, tried for years to get a ship to go for the treasure, but never obtained money enough. Brown finally disappeared and he, Killrain, had fallen into misfortune and knew his end was near. Therefore he gave Howe the map of the island, begged him to believe the story true and to search for the treasure. The following day the beggar died.

Since then Howe has been searching for the treasure and lately announced that he had found it in a shallow lagoon on Pinaki. Lately he chartered a schooner at Papeete to go to lift the gold, after making a contract with the Colonial government as to his rights in the matter. It is said the treasure is worth several million dollars.

NAVY ABOVE SEA, ON SEA AND UNDER SEA TO BE BUILT

WASHINGTON, July 19.—The three-plane navy—the navy on the sea, below the surface and in the air—is going to be the navy of the future.

This is the very decided impression that remains after the first of the aerial bombing tests which the navy is conducting off the Virginia Capes.

Official reports on the bombing will not be completed for some time yet. These reports must be digested by the navy general board. When the general board has taken the reports under careful advisement and has considered them in connection with reports of other tests and developments by other nations recommendations will be made for the future naval policy of the United States.

Despite the fact that no official indication has yet been given as to the thoughts running through the minds of the members of the general board, it is a very safe prediction that the three-plane navy is going to be the navy of the future. The prediction is based on the comment of the officers of the fleet, the men who are at sea and the men who will do the fighting if war comes. Their theories are the theories which go to make up the reports upon which are based the final conclusions of the general board.

The navy is not convinced that the battleship is obsolete. The navy still holds that the battleship is the backbone of the nation's defense, but at the same time the navy is not willing to depend upon the battleship alone, the navy wants big battleships, fast cruisers and speedy destroyers, but it wants more.

The navy wants submarines, great powerful, long-cruising submarines. The navy privately admits that the submarine was not defeated in the recent world joust. It respects the submarine as an enemy and wants submarines for defensive and offensive operations.

Furthermore, the navy wants a large air force. When General Mitchell made his statements that the battleship was useless against the aeroplane the navy pooh-poohed. General Mitchell is still being poor-poohed in the fleet. But while the navy ridicules Mitchell and smiles at his statements the navy is insisting upon a large air-force, for it is convinced that air-forces are going to be a potent factor in future naval warfare. No one in the navy believes that naval battles can be fought in the air alone, but neither does anyone believe that surface craft can put up a good fight against an enemy, strong in the air, without a strong supporting aerial force.

The navy wants to construe its plans for the future along the three-plane idea. The navy wants to be prepared for warfare under the sea, on the sea and above the sea.

Congress and those who hold the money bags are going to hear much in the future of the three-plane navy.

RATIO OF PROGRESS LEAPS IN CANADA

OTTAWA, Ont., July 19.—Banks in Canada at the confederation of the provinces in 1867 numbered 123, according to comparative statistics released by the government showing the development of the Dominion, and had increased in 1920 to 4,500.

Canada's railroad mileage was 2,288 and had increased to 38,896 last year. Not a single grain elevator was in Canada in 1867, while there are 3,797 today. In 1867 it was generally believed that wheat growing on the western prairies was impossible. For the past ten years the three prairie provinces have won the annual wheat championship of the North American continent. For five years they have held the international championship for oats.

Cattle numbered 2,024,200 in 1867 and 9,477,380 last year. Then they were range scrubs, now they are fine grades with many purebreds. The improvement of blood lines has been notable in all varieties of livestock. The scrawny sheep of the big herds have given place to the high-grade and purebred stocks of small farmers. The pony of the days of open prairie has been supianted by well-bred horses. Alberta, which was "out" of the world in 1867, won the championship for Clydesdale stalltions at the International Livestock Show at Chicago last year.

FUR SEALING IN ALASKAN WATERS COMING BACK

VANCOUVER, B. C., July 19.—Fur sealing in Alaskan and British Columbian waters, which suffered for many years because of decimation of the herds through indiscrimate killing, has returned and thousands of animals are expected to be given this year.

Off the west coast of Vancouver Island alone, Indians are expected to capture 2,000 of the fur-bearing animals, and the total catch for the year may reach 100,000, it is estimated. Last year the waters along the Washington coast produced 1,200 skins.

The story of the Alaskan fur seal herd is an interesting one. When the United States acquired Alaska from Russia, the herd was estimated at 2,500,000. Then through pelagic sealing with its indiscriminate slaughter and attendant waste of life as well as through lack of international understanding on the question of conservatism, the seals all but disappeared, the industry fell off and their capture became illegal.

The decline of the seal herd was pitiable. Shot at se under this method five or more bodies were lost for each one recovered. There also was great waste due to starvation of pups on the shore. Under such conditions the great herd rapidly dwindled until in 1911 there were but approximately 125,000.

Of prolific endencies, the seals, however, multiplied rapidly after closed seasons were instituted for their protection.

TOURISTS AVOID "GAY PAREE."

While Frenchmen have been blaming Americans and Englishmen for ruining the value of the franc by extravagance in Paris, M. Andre Paisant, on behalf of the French government, has been interviewing the Hotel Keepers' association in Paris. Why, he wanted to know, were Americans and Englishmen not visiting Paris in as great numbers as usual?

There was an inconsistency somewhere. It now appears that, far from any desire to "throw francs about" in Paris, visitors from across the channel and across the Atlantic protest against the unreasonable charges of French hotel keepers. Many potential visitors have been frightened off.

When the hotels find 20 per cent of their rooms empty at a time when they ought to be full, the elementary rules of economics again have a chance, and the charges come down. Moreover, in the future hotels in France are to display their tariff, to prevent absent-mindedness in making out the bills of Englishmen and Americans.

ASPHALT IS PLACED ON FREE LIST

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—The house finished consideration of contested schedules in the Fordney tariff bill today by placing asphalt on the free list and, thus in four of the five paragraphs open to separate votes, overruled the action of its ways and means committee in framing the measure. Dye control provisions of the bill, as drawn were the only section of the five not upset by the house.

After disposing of the asphalt amendment which rejected proposed duties ranging from fifty cents to $3 a ton, the house began consideration of the numerous "perfecting" amendments which the ways and means committee deemed necessary.

It raised proposed duty on dried beans from 1 1-4 cents to 1 3-4 cents per pound and increased the duties on shelled almonds from 8 cents to 12 cents per pound and shelled walnuts from 5 to 7 1-2 cents a pound in rapid order.

The business of "perfecting" the bill then was stopped by a long parliamentary fight. It was a recurrence of the controversy of yesterday ranging about claims of Democrats that Republican members of the ways and means committee had not allowed the minority to pass on the amendments before they were offered. The wrangle continued for two hours. Some members declared there was nothing fair in the treatment, others that it was an old time custom.

At the end of the discussion, Representative Campbell, of Kansas, presiding, ruled that the amendment could be offered. The decision was immediately appealed by Representative Garner, Democrat, of Texas, but the house sustained the action of its presiding officer by a narrow margin.

MINERS' PICKS ARE STRIKING EACH DAY UNDER SCRANTON, PA.

By Associated Press.

SCRANTON, Pa., July 19.—This city, is a good illustration of the mining industry, will go anywhere in order to obtain results.

Several cities in ancient days were built beside volcanoes. This is one modern American city which is built over a coal mine, or rather a series of coal mines.

The present fame and future prosperity of Scranton, a hustling, typical American city, literally rests upon the coal industry. From a country hamlet fifty years ago Scranton has become the third largest city in Pennsylvania and ranks first among the coal mining cities of the world. This growth has been due to coal and most of the coal mined in the Scranton district comes from underneath the city, itself.

Beneath the business block and household dwellings each day the picks and the cutting machines are digging deeper into the black power producer which has brought so much wealth to the community.

To the casual visitor it may seem alarming to realize that underneath the streets of the city there is a labyrinth of shafts and tunnels forming an underground city consisting of rooms connected by an endless series of subways and to know that the very life of the inhabitants is dependent upon the strength of the supports which are left standing.

On the other hand, going to work would seem to be simple instead of a nerve racking, energy-consuming subway trip or a jostling, jerky trolley ride. The worker in Scranton can sleep peacefully above ground, eat a refreshing breakfast and then drop down a few hundred feet to join his colleagues in reducing still further the remaining foundation of the city.

Scranton is the center of the anthracite coal region. This anthracite coal deposit in central Pennsylavnaia is ont of the richest of America's natural resources. The coal occurs in an elliptical basin running down through the Lackawanna Valley. The deepest part of the coal basin lies under the central part of the city of Scranton.

Within the city limits there are over thirty-three mines in operation with an annual production of over six million tons of anthracite coal. These mines have produced since their discovery over 225,000,000 tons of coal which means the coal industry within the city limits has contributed something like a billion dollars of productive wealth to the people of Scranton and the owners of the mines. More coal is mined annually in Scranton and the Scranton coal basin has produced a greater total volume of coal than any other city in the world.

Long before New York city had even dreamed of a subway system, the city of Scranton was well supplied with many miles of underground tunneling.

OBREGON FAVORS INTERCHANGE OF COLLEGE STUDENTS

By Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 19.—Exchange of students between universities in Mexico and the United States, a plan fostered by business and educational workers in both countries, is being encouraged and recommended by President Obregon as a means of bringing about a better understanding between the two nations, according to advices received here.

In a communication from the Mexican president to Nelson O. Rhoades of Los Angeles, member of the committee having the plan in charge, is said 150 offers from American universities to Mexican scholars have been received, that many of the opportunities already have been accepted, and that the young Mexicans have been sent to this country to study.

Recognizing the value of complete reciprocity, however, and the advantage of familiarizing the United States' representatives with Mexico, the Mexican president has asked that the twelve archeology, Spanish, geology, Mexican history and other subjects. The visitors are to have their fare paid by the Mexican government and to receive the sum of 2,000 pesos annually.

"The Mexican government," the letter adds, "will authorize these privileges in exchange for the scholarships which the United States will give to our students. We will work in complete harmony with the committee that has been found in furtherance of the exchange plan."

The movement was set on foot by the American Chamber of Commerce in Mexico, and has been placed before the National Foregn Trade convention and other commercial organizations in the United States, besides the universities. The executive secretary of the movement in Mexico is O. R. W. Cook, formerly of Los Angeles a graduate of the University of Southern California.

AMERICAN LEGION WOULD PROTECT FROM IMPOSTERS

By Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 19.—National headquarters of the American Legion has taken steps to prevent misuse of government benefits for ex-service men, according to a statement made today by Lemuel Bolles, national adjutant.

"It has been brought to our attention that a few men have deliberately falsified claims for compensation, vocational training and medical treatment," said Mr. Bolles. "Considering the large number of wounded veterans who are entitled to every benefit the government can give, the number of imposters is not large. But, few as they are, their action works hardship on the disabled.

"Cases of deception have been more numerous lately, due to the rush of claims, following the Legion's fight for government efficiency. However, the Legion will find time and means to expose any imposters who come to us for assistance in pressing their claims."

All Legion posts have been instructed to furnish government bureaus with information they obtain about men concerning whose disability any doubt exists. The post activities in favor of the genuinely disabled will continue.

FOREIGN OILS SHOW STRENGTH RESULT TARIFF

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 19.—Washington today stimulated trading in stocks. Oils, especially the foreign groups, early in the sessions, displayed activity and strength on reaction by the house of the proposed tax on imports, lost ground at mid-day, and rallied sharply later.

Rails showed more consistent strength in the belief that funding of their obligations soon would be taken up by congress.

Sugars, tobaccos, leathers and the more miscellaneous stocks moved within restricted areas, more gains than losses being shown at the firm close.

Fresh reactions occurred in foreign exchange, with the British rate against particularly weak. Recovery followed when dealers reported moderate dealing in grain and cotton bills for English and French accounts. Call money lowered to five and a half per cent in private negotiations. Similar conditions applied to time funds for which only a nominal inquiry was reported.

Business in bonds was relatively greater than in stocks. Liberty issues showed mixed gains and losses, but most domestic and international groups tended upward.

WITHDRAW REQUEST USE OF ASYLUM FOR SOLDIER HOSPITAL

The request for legislative sanction of the plan to loan the West Texas Insane Asylum buildings, near Lake Wichita, for use as a temporary former soldiers hospital has been withdrawn it was announced Tuesday.

The offer to loan the building was made when Wichita Falls was considered among cities likely to obtain one of the government hospitals for disabled soldiers and was made with a view of assisting the Wichita Falls offer. The move would have required the permission of the Texas legislature and was to have come before the special session now in progress at Austin.

Governor Neff was asked Tuesday that the request of the local Chamber of Commerce be withdrawn.

HAYS PLANS WIRELESS FOR FARMER

WASHINGTON, July 19.—If Will H. Hays, the diminutive dynamo now presiding over the world's greatest business, which is the United States Postal Service, doesn't quit fooling around and experimenting with things some of these days any farmer in the country is going to be able to put up a thingumajib in a peach tree in his back yard and find out instantly what steel is selling for in New York, what wheat and hogs are bringing in Chicago, and the market price of oranges in sunny California.

It may sound fantastic, but it's true. Not only will the farmer have his market reports brought right to the peach tree in his back yard, but he also will have the governmental weather reports from the same tree, which will enable him to decide whether it's safe to figure on cutting wheat or hay tomorrow.

All this is going to be accomplished Hays believes, through the development of wireless telephany and the co-operation of the United States Department of Agriculture and the Postoffice Department.

The groundwork already has been laid and is being added to daily. It is not generally known that right now market reports are going out of Washington several times daily from the big radio station at the Postoffice Department. These reports are picked up by the radio stations of the air mail service all over the country, where they are available for anyone who applies for them.

These stations are comparatively few in number at present, the principal ones being at St. Louis, Omaha, Cincinnati Salt Lake City, Cheyenne, Reno, North Platte, Neb.; Elko, Nev., and Bellefonte, Pa.

The success which has attended initial efforts at this broadcasting has convinced officials of the feasibility of doing it on a national scale, providing, of course, that the scientific sharps continue to make progress in the simplification of radio telephony. Radio telephony apparatus is soon to be installed at the air service stations.

A commission, headed by R. B. Howell, republican national committeeman from Nebraska is now engaged in studying the possibilities of the plan. He is being assisted by William A. Wheeler, a department of agriculture specialist, and J. C. Edgerton, radio expert of the postoffice department.

Howell is going abroad at his own expense to study what European countries are doing along similar lines. Great strides have been made in this direction in England, and in France and Germany steps have been taken to "bring the farmer into the city."

FEAR LENDS WINGS TO FEET OF NEGRO SHOPLIFTER HERE

Caught in the act of "lifting" several pairs of silk hose and some silk underwear, fear is reported to have lent uncommon speed to the feet of a negro, who led officers a merry chase for 25 or 30 blocks Tuesday morning.

The negro was reported to have been caught stealing the clothing at the Colonna Toggery, 707 Indiana. A saleswoman attempted to hold the negro, who shook loose and ran.

Detective Hunter and Motorcycle Officer Johnson, who chased the negro in their machines were about ten minutes behind the negro. He was reported to have been last seen running south after he passed the Seventh street fire station. Police were unwilling to estimate the distance covered before the negro stopped.

BOY, 6, SHOWS KNOWLEDGE OF HUMAN BODY

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 19.—When he told his school teacher that he'd rather talk on "Hygiene and Sanitation" than recite "a silly rhyme," Gene Baldwin Starkloff, six-year-old son of City Health Commissioner Max C. Starloff attracted attention.

In St. Louis now he is considered a prodigy. He possesses a very phenomenal brain, physicians declare, and destiny has so shaped it that he will become one of America's foremost surgeons or physicians.

The boy, in Latin terms, is able to give technical definitions of the parts of the human anatomy. Further, he is able to describe the functions of the body's organs. The best physical here have ben unable to rattle him with puzzling questions.

In his father's office the youth pours over boks on medical science. His hours at home, when not given to arduous play, are spent in studying a chart of the human body.

"That story about stork bringing newcomers is all bunk," declares the youth, who has reasoned to his own satisfaction that humans enter the world much after the fashion of newborn chickens or other baby animals.

"The boy's knowledge of anatomy would shame the average well-educated doctor", one of the leading physicians here declares. "He is a marvel."

BIG CRIMINAL DOCKET BEGINS THIS MORNING

Starting with the trial this morning of Dan Bennett, charged with the murder of George Gentry, the 30th District court opens a criminal term of twenty days, during which it is expected that several important cases will be tried.

All criminal cases now pending in the 30th District court will be called this morning by Judge H. F. Weldon and it is expected that some will be dismissed upon the recommendation of state attorneys.

After calling the criminal docket a jury will be selected from a special venire of 100 men to try the Dan Bennett case. He is charged with having killed George Gentry, local resident, in April.

ENGINEERS SEEK VENTILATOR PLAN FOR SUBWAY TUBE

By Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, July 14.—Searching for an ideal system of ventilation for the highway tubes which are to be driven under the Hudson river between New York and New Jersey, engineers of the Pittsburgh station of the United States Bureau of Mines are preparing for the most elaborate experiments ever conducted along this line.

Workmen are now engaged in building a tube 400 feet long by 16 feet high and nine feet wide. Through this automobiles will be driven, under conditions suggested by the New York-New Jersey tunnels. The engineers will then determine the best means of carrying off the exhaust gases from the machines, and embody them in a ventilation system that will protect the lives of persons traveling the tubes. The experiments will be conducted under the direction of J. W. Paul, of the Pitsburgh Bureau, some time during the latter part of August.

Bureau engineers long ago determined, by exhaustive tests, the nature of the gasses from motor cars, and pointed out the danger to persons who allowed motors to run in garages insufficiently ventilated. The same problem is presented by the traffic tubes, which, if calculations are right, will be pretty well filled with motor cars every hour of the day and night. To carry off these gasses and preserve the lives of persons in the tubes, will be the object of the experiments.

The Pittsburgh work is a continuation of problems somewhat similarly taken up at the University of Illinois, which are nearing completion.

"TEXAS TODAY"—AND THEN SOME REFLECTIONS.

Texas is a great state—no question about that—largest in the Union covering an area of 265,780 square miles. With such a vast area it is not strange that the climate and products are varied. Texas ranks not only as the banner state in cotton, cattle and surplus, but stands high in lumber, corn, wheat and fruit and petroleum output. Within a radius of 250 miles of Houston are 14 oil fields producing millions of barrels of oil per annum. A continual flow of wealth comes Texasward in exchange for these products. In consequence employment is not difficult to obtain and population is increasing swiftly. In a few years no state will have a larger population. Fertile's gifts are so numerous that a great population is certain. When people move to a country, they must have means of subsistence otherwise they cannot remain. Texas abundantly supplies the means. The hand of industry tickles the soil when forth come wealth, mineral and agriculture. Census returns will supply the facts. No one need travel far to find them. Take a bird's-eye view of the great commonwealth, and study the accomplishment of only 85 years. Just that length of time ago Texans fought and won their independence on the field of San Jacinto, 17 miles down the ship channel, below the city of Houston. Texas prior to that eventful battle was an outpost of the Mexican Republic. A wilderness with tribes of Indians and only a few scattered whites in between the tribal holdings. Texas was destitute of almost everything which in our day counts for the prestige of power. How different the story now! Millions of inhabitants, four great cities ranking in the metropolitan class, San Antonio, Dallas, Houston and Fort Worth; with Galveston, El Paso, Beaumont, Waco, Austin and Port Arthur forming an aggregate of municipal greatness destined to rank second to none in years to come. The accomplishment of the Texas war force in the 18-minute fight on San Jacinto's famous field made possible the still greater accomplishment of the Texas army of peace which went forth with brawny arms and worth while ambition to subdue the wilderness. How well that army succeeded the cattle ranches with cattle on a thousand hills, the cotton farms, truck farms, fruit growers, fisheries, oil wells penetrating the earth, thousands of feet bringing forth liquid gold, mines for coal and silver and other varied forms of mineral stone for use of man abundantly prove. Industrial factories and work shops send forth in town and country armies of the bucket brigade. Texas is fast forging to the front as something more than an agricultural and cattle raising state. As a consumer of raw materials the manufactured articles are sent forth into the commercial world with values increased many fold by the hand of labor. Commercially the shipping seen continually at the wharves of Galveston, Houston, Texas City, Freeport, Orange, Beaumont and Port Arthur tell a tale of the sea, and of men who go down to the sea in ships beholding the glory of the Creator on the great waters. Inland the great state is girdironed with numerous railroads—all constructed since that eventful battle on San Jacinto's sword. The marvel is how so much could be done in such a short period.—Editorial in Salvation Army War Cry.

A splendid tribute to the history of Texas, some of the achievements of Texans, the matchless resources of Texas and the illimitable possibilities of the Lone Star commonwealth. But a thousandth part of the story has not been told. The editor of the War Cry should visit West Texas, an empire within itself. He should visit the matchless oil fields of West Texas. He should visit the manufacturing and financial and railroad and petroleum center and magic city Wichita Falls. He should go over the great grain belt of the Panhandle and the plains. He should motor over the corn belt of the upper country. He should visit the vast sections where the feeding crops of the Southwest are produced. He should visit the Burkburnett oil fields; the richest, according to the size of the territory or area in the world, fields which have produced more wealth for the many and not to the few than any given territory under the shining sun—either in America or foreign countries. He should traverse a country where there are millions of acres of fertile land that have never felt the touch of the plow or the hoe. He should acquaint himself with the domain of the cowman, the domain of the sheepman, the domain of the goat man. He should be told that all the cereals and all the fruits of the temperate zone and all the small grains and all the feed stuffs of the temperate zone are produced in this territory. He would discover that all the new railway mileage of a closing decade has been constructed in this territory. He should be told that new cities and towns have come into existence in this territory and are as well built and as modern with all the accessories of a twentieth century civilization in this land which does not border on the Gulf Coast or the Rio Grande river. Theodore Roosevelt knew his America. He knew his Texas. He said this vast region running east from the foothills of the Rocky Mountains was "The Garden of the Lord." He predicted that in the fullness of time, a vast population noted for its wealth, its intelligence, its patriotism and its progress would make a paradise out of a comparative wilderness. Texas is a grain producing state. Texas is a fruit producing state. Texas is a vegetable producing state. Texas is a sugar producing state. Texas is a rice producing state. Texas is a tobacco producing state. Texas is one of the greatest cattle countries in the world. Texas is the home of the sheep and the home of the goat. Texas wool is of a finer quality with the exception of the Ohio clip than is found in any state of the American union. Texas produces half the annual clip of Mohair. Texas is one of the most remarkable of all petroleum producing states. Texas is a lime producing state. Texas is a Portland cement producing state. Texas is a granite and marble producing state. Texas has quick silver deposits. Texas has coal and lignite deposits. Texas produces all the lucious fruits of the tropics. Texas produces onions finer than ever grown in the Bermuda islands. Texas has the longest seacoast of any state and when it comes to sea foods those who are engaged in the fishing and oyster industry challenge the world in production and quality. Texas has mighty forests of pine and hardwood. Texas to be exact, has all the raw materials. Texas has vast deposits of sulphur, Texas has vast deposits of salt. Texas has vast deposits of phosphate. Texas is a wool producer. Texas is the largest of all cotton producers. Texas is a gas producer. Texas is a soft coal producer. In cotton and cattle Texas leads the world. Texas has a population of 5,000,000. Texas could support in luxury 30,000,000 producers and workers. Texas should be no place for parasites or idlers or cormorants. There are 100,000,000 acres of semi-arid land and swamp land in Texas that could be reclaimed by irrigation or drainage and be made the most fertile and the most productive, adding millions to the population of the state and billions to the material wealth of the state. This is not a fanciful picture. This is not exaggeration of the pen or the mind. There are more opportunities in Texas than in any land under the sun, and the laws of Texas are as fair to the investors of capital and as inviting to the business men or the farmer or mechanic or workman as the laws of any state of the sisterhood. Texas produced more than a billion dollars from the soil in 1920. Texas led all American states in the value of agricultural products. Texas is rapidly becoming the champion producing state of eggs and poultry and turkeys. And the dairy men of the country say that the butter and cheese of Texas dairies are equal to the products sent forth by New York and Wisconsin and Illinois which have had a monopoly of the butter and cheese industry for years and years. While those who are pessimistic are talking hard times, while those who are uninformed are eternally croaking of disaster and while those who are not familiar with the wars of the past and the business depressions of the past are fearful of the future, it is well to turn to the morning and tell to the world that the sun is shining and that "there is nothing the matter with Texas."

A RANK INJUSTICE.

This is the indictment brought by the Houston Post. "There are a number of counties in Texas that shamefully evade their just share of the burdens of the state." In such counties, the Post says, "property assessments are made at so slight a percentage of actual values the amounts the citizens thereof pay for all purposes do not equal by thousands of dollars the sums they draw from the school fund alone for maintenance of their schools." This is nothing short of criminal. It is a rank injustice to other counties where fair assessments are made and where the people are willing to do their part toward the education of all the children of all the people and pay their full quota to the cost of maintenance of government.

Rippling Rhymes
By WALT MASON

LOOKING AHEAD.

A man can't see an hour ahead; in one brief hour he may be dead, from all his labors gone; life's so uncertain none can say, "I'll see the finish of this day, and greet another dawn." The citizen, in gorgeous health goes forth to gather in some wealth, a buoyant, cheerful scout; he strides along the village street, an airship drops a sack of wheat, and he is flattened out. Oh, all varieties of doom are found about us, dumping gloom upon the human race; our lives we're taking in our hand, wherever we may walk or stand, or ride or dance or chase. And yet along our course we speed, as though our lives were guaranteed, for eighty-seven years; next year we will insure our lives, and save some money, that our wives may eat, if death appears. Next year, or maybe five years hence, we'll show we have some good horse sense, and salt some coin away; next year we'll tread the thrifty track and lift the mortgage from the shack—we're out for fun today. Thus reason multitudes of jays who look ahead to countless days that they may never see; no man who on this planet rides can safely bet one hour divides him from eternity. Let us be prudent, then, and wise, meet obligations as they rise, and cancel every debt; if there are chores that should be done, oh, let us do them ere the sun of this bright day has set.—Copyright by George Matthew Adams.

PROF. STEINBRUGGE SAYS

Love is a clash of two contrary forces. Then comes matrimony and the temporary suspension of the clash. In time, the clashing is resumed and then comes the inevitable adjustment. Social obstacles and the eternal struggle for existence are mingled with the progress of love; but love will triumph because it is the law.

Where there is a beach and bathing there must be love. The summertime is the time for love and conservative and cynical individuals succumb to the great law. Love is mysterious and baffles the greatest scientists. There are no laws to love, and relatively speaking it will not bear analysis. Artificial love belongs to the ignorant. It is the product of stupidity and eventually creates suffering. It beautifies the homely when it is sincere and it makes the beautiful hideous when it is false. It is expensive both financially and mentally. It is dangerous and it is safe. It destroys and it builds.

Who's Who

BAINBRIDGE COLBY.

The American delegation to the international conference on limitation of armaments and the far eastern questions, which will convene in Washington late this fall, will be composed mainly of republicans. It is conceded, however, that the democrats will have some representation. Most prominent among the democrats mentioned for a place on the delegation is Bainbridge Colby. Colby is considered a likely appointee because during his term as secretary of state at the close of the Wilson administration he laid the cornerstone for the international policies now being enunciated by Secretary of State Hughes.

Bainbridge Colby was born in St. Louis on December 22, 1869. After graduating from Williams college in 1890 he studied law and was admitted to the New York bar in 1892. He represented Samuel Clemons (Mark Twain) in settlement with his publishing house and was one of counsel of interests who brought about reforms in the Equitable Life Assurance Association.

Mr. Colby began taking an active interest in politics twenty years ago when he was elected as a republican to the New York legislature. He was actively identified with the candidacy of Theaodore Roosevelt for the presidential nomination in 1912. He was one of the founders of the progressive party and served as a delegate to the progressive convention held in Chicago in 1912.

Mr. Colby was a commissioner of the U. S. shipping board and a member of the U. S. shipping board fleet corporation, 1917-1919. He was a member of the American mission to the inter-allied conference at Paris in November, 1917. He was nominated as secretary of state by President Wilson, February 25, 1920, and served in this capacity during the last year of the Wilson administration.

Immediately following the inauguration of President Harding, Mr. Colby and former President Wilson formed a law partnership, with offices at New York and Washington, D. C.

ONEIDA INDIANS PLAN CENTENNIAL

By Associated Press.

GREEN BAY, Wis. July 19—Oneida Indians plan a centennial homecoming celebration here in August to mark the hundredth anniversary of the coming of the Oneida Indians to Wisconsin after they had been crowded out of their hunting and fishing grounds in New York state.

When they settled here in the fall of 1821 this part of the country was a vast wilderness with few white settlers.

Several thousand Indians are expected for the celebration which takes place August 1 to 5. The Menominees, Chippewas, Stockbridges, Munsees, Brothertowns, Pottawatamies and Canadian Oneidas are looked for in great number.

Old Indian customs will be observed. Indian games will be played and an Indian council will be held.

This centennial celebration may be the Oneida's first and last to be held, as the Indians are rapidly forgetting their old ways and are entering commercial and business life of every community.

Personal invitations will be extended by the Indians to President Harding, Commissioner of Indian Affairs Burke and Governor Blaine of Wisconsin.

Breakfast Stories

A stout passenger alighted from a train at a small station in Scotland. He was a stranger to the village. After walking the whole length of the poorly lighted platform he failed to discover the way out. Not even a porter could be found and the man was almost in despair when he noticed a ragged urchin peering through the railings, evidently vastly interested in the stranger's appearance.

"I can't get out of this confounded station," said the traveler. "Can you show me the proper way out?"

The lad surveyed his questioner, moved away a yard or two and asked, with a grin, "Have you tried sideways?"

"What I say is perfectly true," said the witness. "The man threw a can over the fence and hit my wife in the face as she was looking through the railings."

"And you persist in saying that your neighbor seized the can and struck her deliberately?" asked the magistrate.

"He did, your honor."

"And did she give him any provocation?"

"Well, your honor it was like this" "Did she or did she not?" snapped the magistrate.

"She gave no provocation whatever, sir. All she gave him was a piece of her mind and a whack on the head with a clothes prop."

The traveler raced his fastest to the one-horse railway station and missed the train by the most vexatious of narrow margins.

"When is the next train in that direction?" he asked, pointing to the receding cars.

"Tomorrow," answered the station agent.

"At what time?"

"Jest one minute sooner than right now."

DECLARE FOREIGN TRADE OF JAPAN IS ON DECLINE

YOKOHAMA, July 19.—General opinions that the foreign trade of Japan was the most disastrous last year that it has been since the opening of the ports of Japan to foreign commerce and trade were expressed at the annual meeting of the Yokohama and Tokio foreign boards of trade here recently.

The total trade of Japan for 1920, according to Mr. I. Bickart, chairman of the Yokohama-Tokio foreign board of trade, was 4,284,560,392 yen, as against 4,271,037,000 yen for 1919. Of this 1,948,394,611 yen represents exports and 2,336,174,781 yen imports, the excess of imports over exports being 387,780,170 yen. As compared with 1919 exports exhibit a decrease of 150,478,006 yen and imports an increase of 162,714,901 yen.

The articles which have exhibited most notable slumps in 1920 were: Raw silk, peas and beans, copper, starch, matches, silk fabrics, woolen fabrics, leather manufactures, hosiery, sine, beer, paper, hats and caps, tea and iron—all given in the comparative order of their decreases.

Japan expected a deflation of values at the end of the great war, but few merchants even thought of the year of bad business that 1920 brought to the empire. Failures of business houses and banks were common during the year, the climax being reached in July. Among the appalling drops in values witnessed during the year were:

Raw silk, from 4600 yen to 1100 yen.
Habutai, from 35 yen to 11 yen.
Fish oil, from 30 yen to 14 yen.
Menthol, from 37 yen to 13 yen.
Camphor, from 750 yen to 200 yen.
Cotton yarn (20), from 662.50 yen to 380 yen.

MEXICO CLAIMS ISLANDS NEAR WESTERN COAST

By Associated Press.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., July 19.—Contentions upon which Mexico may base her claims to a number of islands just off the coast of California in the Pacific Ocean, which are now occupied by Americans and are under the control of the United States, are summed up in a report made to President Obregon by General Amado Aguirre, sum-secretary of agriculture and chief of the commission making a study of the islands, according to an account of Excelsior, published in Mexico City. The report declares that the claim of Mexico to the islands is indisputable, but that the Mexican government is willing for the islands to remain under the American flag in return for foreign credit, the amount of which was not stipulated.

Included in the group of islands is Santa Catalina, of which William Wrigley Jr., of Chicago, is the whole owner. Others are the Farallones, San Miguel, Santa Rosa, Santa Veracruz, Anacapa, Santa Barbara, San Nicholas and San Clemente.

The arguments of General Aguirre in favor of Mexico's claims to the islands as published in Excelsior, are:

"The United States is not occupying them by right of discovery, because they were discovered in the 16th century by the Spanish navigator Cabrillo, who gave them the names which they now bear.

"They are not occupied by right of purchase, as Mexico has never sold them to any person or nation.

"They are not occupied by right of conquest, for they were never conquered.

"They are not occupied by right of territorial jurisdiction, because the international code of the United States sets the principle that the territorial jurisdiction of a nation cannot extend farther than a league from shore, and the islands in question are at a greater distance from the shore of the United States.

"The international code of the United States rejects the right of conquest by stating that not all territory conquered belongs to the conqueror, but only that part assigned by definite stipulations of duly authorized treaties."

Furthermore proof of the claim of Mexico to the islands is cited in the decree of the queen of Spain in 1836, declaring that in the future all possessions of the Kingdom of New Spain belonged to the Republic of Mexico, a sovereign nation. For many years, Mexico actually exercised control over the islands, it is asserted.

In substantiation of the assertion that Mexico exercised dominion over the islands, it is pointed out that a decree was issued June 20, 1838, authorizing the governor of California to make grants of any part of the islands to Mexicans, according to the stipulations of the law of August 18, 1824, and that the titles to parts of the islands granted to Vastilero and Carisi in 1839 and 1841 were nullified by later decrees of President Santa Anna in November, 1853, by President Alvarez in July, 1854, and by President Comfort, March 10, 1857.

It is stated by Excelsior that President Obregon may include the matter in General Aguirre's report in future negotiations between the United States and Mexico toward the accomplishment of a proposed "Treaty of Friendship and Commerce."

FORFEITS FORTUNE IN FILMS TO STAR IN HOME

Mrs Natalie Keaton and God-Daughter Natalie

Popular Screen Actress Marries Comedian and Gives Up Career to Make Life Happy for "Hubby."

LOS ANGELES, July 17.—It has been whispered about among the more exclusive of Southern California realtors that a bride "who is giving up $100,000 annually just to learn how to cook" is looking for a site for a fine new home.

The Los Angeles correspondent of the International News ervice investigated and verified the report, with the exception that he found the bride is giving up $104,000 a year to become what she terms "a plain, everyday wife." It was also learned that she is of a distinguished family which boasts of two "movie" stars of the first magnitude, that but recently she married a "movie" comedian, and that she has appeared in a number of successful films.

The bride, Mrs. Natalie Talmadge Keaton, sister of Norma and Constance Talmadge, and bride of Buster Keaton, tells, in the following article, why she would rather be a "queen in a home," instead of a "queen in the films."

"I am going to take up an experiment costing me $104,000 to determine whether I can become a successful housewife.

"In other words, I am turning down an offer of $2,000 weekly in real, honest-to-goodness money, which would be paid to me if I appeared in the "movies," because I want to 'star' in a kitchen role.

"I think I know what some really intelligent people will say when they read this.

"I feel right now that something to this effect will be said:

"'Oh, very well! She'll be glad enough to get back to the 'fill-ums' when the novelty wears off. Let her stand over a hot range and wrestle with pots and pans like I have done these twenty years and she'll likely change her mind.'

"Or this, for example, may be said:

"'It will be a cinch the way this little Keaton woman will keep house. Why, any poor simp could bask in ease half the time, with the conveniences she will have. There'll be a whole fleet of automobiles to dash here and there. Then there'll probably be a flock of servants and everything will be of the push-a-button sort, and, presto, the work is done.'

"And again, someone may volunteer an unkind remark like this:

"'Oh, she's probably going to wash a few dishes and 'hold out' on some film promoter to get a little publicity!'

"Let me emphasize that if anyone harbors such ideas as I have suggested he or she, is wrong.

In Search of a Home.

"I received not only one offer commanding a salary of $104,000 a year, but several. One of them reached the 'please sign here on the dotted line' stage. But when I made up my mind to marry Buster Keaton I also made up my mind that I was to be the manager of our home, and a real manager I will be.

"At present I am looking over Los Angeles and vicinity for a site for that home. I prefer that it be on a high hill. It will be big and roomy. There will be a vegetable garden, a flower garden, a bridle-path for horseback riding, and a swimming pool. For years I have been building a 'castle of dreams' and this is to be my castle. I will be just an old-fashioned housewife and plan to make the hours spent in my home the golden hours of my life.

"I am studying the likes and dislikes of my husband. I have learned that he is fond of such plebeian dishes as corned beef and cabbage, pork chops, corn bread and corn on the cob.

Riddle of the "Movie" Struck.

"I have not been so busy in films but that I could devote a little time to domestic science. I could pursue it only at odd hours, yet I managed to learn to turn out what my relatives said was fairly good cooking. I can do considerably more than fix a mess of corned beef and cabbage for Buster. But if he prefers that dish he will get it, and it will be prepared in the best way I know how.

"It seems rather strange to me that I have heard quite a few "movie" struck girls sigh and yearn for a career on the silver sheet. And here I am sighing and yearning for a career in a home—perhaps just the sort of a home that some of these girls would forsake for a career in motion pictures.

"But I am yearning for more than a home. I am yearning for contentment. And just between you and I, dear reader, I will tell you the underlying cause of my decision. It is:

"Because I love my husband more than anything else in the world. I want to make him happy, so that he can be successful. If he is successful, then I will be pleased. For his happiness will be my happiness."

A WIFE IN THE MAKING

BY RHYLLIS PHILLIPS

GOSSIP RUNS RAMPANT.

By degrees Cherry managed to excuse herself from several of the least interesting of the Wellsburg clubs to which she had been elected with such gusto several months before. She found that her mind refused somehow or other to keep up with the intricacies of the Ladies' Literary circle, or to expand with the brilliancy demanded of it by the laws and urgings of the "Housewife's Own," a select, oh, most select circle of sixteen that met twice a month to further the efficiency of the home. She remained true to the tennis club, however, and met once or twice a week the elect of Wellsburg's younger set in a game of tennis or two.

The girls seemed to find Cherry rather dull. That is to say, she was not interested in the sort of things that for generations young ladies of Wellsburg had been trained to be interested in, and that made it difficult for them to quite place her.

Then, too, this independent streak in her was most upsetting. It was unheard of for a newly-wed wife to up and start out in business despite the advice of friends and family. No, they were not at all sure of this new entity in their midst. And so many of the younger men had been influenced by Cherry, her hats and her modern ideas. It really looked as though the nicest boys, the eligibles of the town, might very easily become corrupted by her. There were several of them who stoutly took sides with Cherry against the whole, misunderstanding world. They openly praised her for her nerve and good sense in what she had chosen and loudly hoped that the Lord would send them such a nifty little wife later on. Such sentiments from nicely brought up Wellsburg youths was nothing short of treason. And for all this revolution, one Mrs. Cherry Randall was responsible. Small wonder that the tennis club secretly longed to have the young person's resignation sent in.

Some, there were, of the crowd who felt for Ned. They pitied him and his lot from the bottom of their hearts and were loud in their praise of him and his nobility in allowing Cherry to ride as high-handedly as he had. Others, again, made biting remarks about Edward's attention in another direction. To this the antis retorted that "it was just what might be expected from a man under the circumstances. And Cherry had but herself to thank if he roved."

And in this manner life dawdled by. Life, made up of laughter and tears and heartaches, for one, small bride, and perplexities and temptations for one new husband.

TESTED RECIPES.

Corn Oysters with Bacon Curls—Mix one can corn which has cooked gently fifteen or twenty minutes with one and three-quarters teaspoons salt, a dash of paprika, two tablespoons milk, three-quarters cup fine bread or cracker crumbs and one well-beaten egg. Drop by spoonfuls on a hot frying pan which has been well greased with bacon fat. Brown on one side, then turn and brown delicately on the other. Serve with bacon curls and garnish with parsley.

Savory Cheese Tapioca—Take 3 heaping teaspoons of instantaneous tapioca, one cup boiling water, one cup tomato pulp, one-half cup of cheese, two tablespoons butter substitute, one-fourth cup of stale bread crumbs and salt and pepper to taste. Cook the tapioca and the water in a double boiler for fifteen minutes, then add the tomato pulp, one-half of the cheese cut into small pieces, one tablespoon of the butter substitute, and seasonings to taste. Remove from the fire and divide the mixture into greased baking dishes, cover with bread crumbs, the remainder of the butter substitute cut into bits and the balance of the cheese broken into very small pieces. Bake in a moderate oven for forty minutes. If one likes sugar with the tomatoes, one tablespoon may be used while cooking in the double boiler. Serve hot or cold. This makes a very nice luncheon or supper dish and may also be served at dinner in place of meat. It makes a very palatable dish for meatless day.

SUGGESTIONS.

Table or Bed Linen—Always wrap table or bed linens which are to be stored away in dark blue paper to keep them from turning yellow.

The Transom—If you have an unsightly transom in a room paste on the glass cream-white (not glazed) paper the exact shade of woodwork. The paper must be pasted on the inside of the woodwork, tinted to match the woodwork. If the woodwork is dark use dull, dark paper of the same shade. The effect will be almost like wood paneling.

An Improvised Bread Board—Oiled paper wrappers taken from bread may be used in place of a bread board in rolling out pie crust and biscuits and then thrown away, thus saving both time and effort ordinarily used in cleaning the board.

Save your old white silk waists—It is sometimes necessary to put a soft shirt next to the skin of an infant under wool shirts to prevent irritation. These little protectors are cut in one piece, and can easily be made from an old white silk waist.

After blankets are thoroughly dry, beat with a carpet beater, and they will be fluffy like new.

With the Women of Today

Mrs. H. E. Pearce

Mrs. H. E. Pearce of Birmingham, Ala., who admits that "business has a great fascination" for her, which is really putting it very mildly, sees no reason why a woman shouldn't be a good housekeeper wife and mother, and at the same time take an active part in commercial affairs. Mrs. Pearce herself does just that.

Although she is a prominent society and club woman, Mrs. Pearce owns and operates the largest towel supply business in the south. And this is not all she does. She also owns and operates a large farm, and is postmistress of Boyles Station, Ala. She has held this latter position for a period of eight years, and was recently appointed for another term. In addition to this she looks after the rentals and collections of her real estate.

But even with all of those duties her story is not done, for to quote the press of her state, "Mrs. Pearce fulfills, first of all, the highest calling of womanhood, that of a good wife and devoted mother. Her home life is ideal. Her husband is a successful physician and it is not necessary for her to work to be a successful woman, for her two healthy, well-bred children are proof of her success as a mother. What more could be expected of any one human being labeled 'woman'?"

Mrs. Pearce is state president of the Alabama Business and Professional Women's Clubs, having been re-elected for the third time. She is representing her organization at the national convention soon to be held in Cleveland.

Here are just a few more of Mrs. Pearce's activities which occupy some of her "spare time:"

She is state chairman of the anti-tuberculosis committee for the Federation of Women's Clubs, and has been appointed a member of the board of directors for the National Tuberculosis Association; is president of the Jefferson Study Club; treasurer and one of the founders of the Big Sisters Association—a home maintained for young business women; member of the Birmingham Civic Association, Birmingham Chamber of Commerce, Salter Chapter Eastern Star; officer in the Woman's League Woman Voters; member of the Advisory Board of the Community Council; was president of the Equal Suffrage Association when the Nineteenth Amendment was ratified and had the honor of representing her state in the Jubilee celebration.

Four years ago when the women decided to run a woman for member of the County School Board, the club women held a mass meeting and appointed Mrs. Pearce county campaign manager for their candidate, with the result that a slate prepared by the men was smashed and the woman elected.

LOVE BOWS TO FINANCES

Love in a naval camp on a lieutenant's pay is doubtless quite satisfactory in fiction, but it isn't enough to compensate for wealth and ease and social position, Miss Alexandra Flowerton of New York, Far Rockaway and Los Angeles has decided. Or perhaps it is her parents who find the prospect unalluring. At any rate the engagement of Miss Alexandra to Lieut. Louis A. Kloor, one of the naval flying officers lost in a balloon in the far north last winter, has been broken off, with "the most friendly feeling on both sides."

All has not been sweet and zephyry in the courtship anyway; harsh winds have blown apart the lovers before this. Lieutenant Kloor was a frequent visitor at the Flowertoon home in Far Rockaway, N. Y., near the naval flying field, long before the fateful balloon voyage. Then the first word to reach civilization about the aviators was gleaned from a letter from him to Miss Flowerton.

Matutinal Visits Riled "Papa."

After the return of the fliers, a formal engagement was announced and the officer formed the pleasant habit of dropping around from time to time by plane, sometimes to stop, more often to drop love messages near Miss Alexandra's window. When he began to make the trips in early morning hours, the whirring of the motor seriously disturbed Papa Flowerton, who is evidently a man of quick decisions. He bundled his possessions and his family together, closed the Far Rockaway house and marched off to Los Angeles for an extended visit.

That was in April. For several weeks the California climate was permitted to bring peace and quiet to the Flowertons, as Californians maintain it will affect anyone. Then they returned to Far Rockaway and to Lieutenant Kloor.

It seems that at about this stage of the romance the Flowertons, or their social secretary, or some other persons intimate with the family, looked up the yearly salary of a naval lieutenant. The rest of the family was informed; the amount was compared with the cost of Miss Alexandra's latest gown; and the engagement was broken off.

Mrs. Flowerton emphatically insists that no trouble other than those of a base materialistic nature have come between the two. "We all like the lieutenant very much," she said, "but it is evident that he could never support my daughter in the style to which she is accustomed. No outside influences of any sort entered into the matter."

So Miss Alexandra has embarked for the Sandwich Islands—the best place in the world to "forget"—and Lieutenant Kloor is nursing his grief—and maybe a grouch—within the confines of the station at Far Rockaway.—Kansas City Star.

PRAISES PUGNOSED BEAUTIES

PARIS—America is developing an entirely new type of feminine beauty a type that will be as distinct and individual and even more beautiful than the classic types of Greece and Rome, according to Dr. Jack Brettmon, one of Paris' foremost facial surgeons.

From the bewildering multitude of old world facial types brought together in America no two resembling each other, American climate and American life are forming, by natural selection, a single composite national type, the like of which the human race has never seen before, he said.

Already it is possible to discern the first outlines of this national type, still in process of formation, but fully fifty years will be required for it to reach perfection.

As the Greek beauty stood out as the finest example of feminine loveliness of her age, the American beauty will in turn dazzle the world with her charm.

Here are the chief characteristics of the American type:

Cute nose, inclined to turn up.

Remarkable complexion, coming from health.

Brownish hair, blue eyes.

Good form, resulting from athlete training.

Fascinating personality, exurbent, sympathetic, self reliant.

"The American beauty will be the world's first 'pug-nose' beauty," Dr. Brettmon continued. "Hitherto no people has been able to produce a type with an up-turned nose that was really aesthetic. America has succeeded, however, in accomplishing this and demonstrating that a woman can have a pug-nose and yet fulfill the requirements of beauty quite as well as the ancient Greek girl with her long, slender nose.

"Noses of American women as a rule have a tendency to turn up. Noses of American men, on the contrary, generally take the opposite direction. I don't know the cause of this difference between the sexes.

The American beauty will have the finest complexion of any type the world has ever seen—due both to prohibition and her athletic habits.

"No other people ever had the chance to grow perfect complexions that America has, because no European people has ever instituted prohibition. Alcohol is the greatest enemy of beauty."—Kansas City Star.

THE HOUSEWIFE OF 1921

Now that woman's suffrage is a reality the American woman must henceforth be considered not merely as a housekeeper and home-maker, but as a voter—a citizen and a force in this busy work-a-day world. With added responsibilities her health should never be neglected, and when beset with ailments peculiar to her sex she owes it to herself to first give that grand old medicine, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a trial, as for over forty years it has been the standby of American women in restoring them to health and strength.—Adv.

The Spudders Know Each Moonshine Still—From Galveston to Old Fort Sill—Ham Pat Will Win? The Helly Will!—Not if He Pitches Hill & Hill!

DANNY CLARK AND CADDY WORKS POUND THE PELLET, AND SPUDS BEAT MARINES IN ELEVENTH 6-4

By C. F. CARTER

A gink in the Airdome, who was a total stranger to us, but we guess he was a reg'lar feller, says to us in the tenth inning, says he:

"Tell ya what I'll do. We're all tied up now, see? And I'll betcha the way that Mitchell is going the Spudders will lose.. I'll betcha 8 to 5, I will."

"No," we slipped him the soft answer after a few seconds of deep thought. "There's just been a city election, and there's a new police commissioner down at city hall. We don't know him yet, and we don't want to get pinched as a common gambler."

And then came the eleventh inning, and Danny Clark belted a triple to deep center field, and Caddy Works squeezed him home—and the Spudders won the old ball game finally, 6 to 4—and we went back to work happy but not so darn rich as we might have been.

The Marines made so many hits yesterday that Carl Stoecker busted the bell recording 'em. It's a fact; Carl knocked the gosh-durn dingus out of the center of it, and after that he had to swing from the hip to make the old bell ring. Sixteen hits the Hampats collected, and the Spudders got only six—and we licked 'em 6 to 4! They booted two, and the Spuds played errorless ball, and also stuck their hits in when they were needed; that's the inside story.

Abe Bowman started for the Salmites, and got along nicely until the fourth, when Chick Mattick started a sudden batting bee that resulted in Abe calling it a day. Rube Marshall picked up the load, and carried it through the eleventh inning triumphantly. The Marines nicked Rube for 8 hits in the 7 and 2-3 innings he labored, but the Reuben fortunately kept 'em fairly well scattered and "poured it on 'em" in the pinches. Some fast fielding also pulled Rube out of one or two excavations.

Three on One Hit.

The fireworks started in the third when the Spudders gathered three tallies with the aid of only one blow. Abe Bowman started it with a ringing two-bagger to left. Bob Bescher hit to Mitchell who pegged to third; Segrist dropped the ball, Abe made third safely and Bob went to second. Tanner popped to Palmer. Tex McDonald also hit to Palmer who threw to the plate too late to get Bowman. Clark hit a long sacrifice fly to Falk, and Bescher scored, McDonald taking second on the throw-in. Griggs sealed a fly to Munson, who generously dropped it and Tex also counted. Segrist threw out McElwee.

In the fourth, however, the Marines tied the count, when Mattick and Robertson singled in succession. Skinner, batting for Segrist, flied to McElwee, Mattick taking third after the catch. Roy Mitchell cleaned the bases with a mighty triple to center. Exit Abe, enter Rube. Falk singled, scoring Mitchell. Munson forced Falk at second, Clark to Tanner. Galloway singled to right, and Conley was tossed out by Danny Clark.

In the seventh both teams tallied again, a hefty triple by Caddy Works and a squeeze play with Kitchens at bat, giving the Spudders theirs. The Marines earned theirs on two singles and an infield out.

And after that it was a tough tussle until the eleventh, when the Spuds finally brought home the bacon. Danny Clark started it off with a terrific triple to the center field fence. Griggs was hit by a pitched ball, and McElwee was tossed out at first by Mitchell. Works also hit to Mitchell, whose peg to the plate arrived too late to catch the sliding Clark. Griggs went to third on the play, and scored while Conley was throwing out Kitchens. Rube fanned the ozone for the third out.

Throughout the game the Spudders put up a brilliant game in the field, and time and again stopped threatened Marine markers by lightning scoops and accurate throws.

All right. That's a starter. Let's go from here. The Airdome at 4 p. m. Carl says he'll buy a new bell today.

BURNS TESTIFIES CICOTTE SAID HE'D THROW FIRST GAME IF HE HAD TO THROW BALL OUT OF PARK

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 19.—The state today turned its full strength into prosecution of the Chicago White Sox baseball players and others charged with the alleged conspiracy which resulted in the 1919 world series scandal. The prosecutor sent Bill Burns, admitted accomplice of the defendants, who turned state's evidence in return for immunity, to the witness stand to tell the inside story of the reported sell-out of some of the game's greatest players to gamblers who wanted the series thrown to Cincinnati.

Burns, who was only about one third through his story when court adjourned for the day, was on the stand long enough to name Arnold Rothstein of New York, Abe Attell, former featherweight pugilistic champion, David Zelser of Des Moines, one of the defendants, Billy Maharg of Philadelphia and himself as among the organizers of the alleged conspiracy.

He drew a vivid oral picture of numerous meetings between the players and the alleged fixers in Cincinnati hotels the days of the first two games of the 1919 series, declaring that the Athletes agreed to make the series "a made to order one," by throwing games just as desired.

Burns testified of conversation in which Eddie Cicotte, one of the American League's greatest pitchers, said he would "throw the first game if he had to throw the ball out of the lot." Claude Williams, the White Sox southpaw ace, was quoted by Burns as agreeing to throw the second game.

Burns identified Zelser as a man he had known as Bennett during the forming of the alleged conspiracy and declared that Bennett or Zeiser was present at most of the meetings when the reported sell out was arranged.

Burns entered professional baseball in 1906 with Los Angeles. He then played with the Washington Americans, Cincinnati, Philadelphia, Detroit, the Chicago White Sox and Minneapolis. Later he worked for a mining company in Texas as powder foreman, he said, and then went into the oil business. During the past year, he said, he had not worked.

Intimation that the players were double-crossed out of much of the money promised them was given by Burns. He said Abe Attell had termed Rothstein "a walking bank," who would pay all he promised, but after the first game Attell refused to give him any money, saying he couldn't pay the players until he collected the bets made. The players were to get the $20,000 after each game lost, Burns said.

He then explained that when he (Burns) offered to put a lease on 12,000 acres in oil land in Texas as security, Maharg refused to let him do so, saying that Rothstein might not pay the men.

Burns' entrance into the courtroom was dramatic. After Harry Grabiner and Kid Gleason, secretary and manager, respectively, of the White Sox club, testified that the players were under contract to the club during the world series, Taylor Spink, official scorer of the 1919 series, testified as to the scores of the various games. Then for fifteen minutes those in court fidgeted with the defense repeatedly asking the cause of the delay.

"We are now awaiting a witness, your honor," said George Gorman of the prosecution.

"We do not wish to divulge his name as we do not want him interrupted on the way here."

Finally two private detectives entered. Behind them came Burns, followed by two more plain clothes men.

Burns walked through the section occupied by the defendants without looking at them. On the stand he spoke in a low even tone which scarcely carried past the jury and repeatedly wiped his forehead with his handkerchief. Finally he took off his coat. Burns fidgeted a bit during legal arguments over his testimony, but while hesitating at times over questions, most of his answers came quickly. His testimony will be resumed tomorrow.

SPUDS TO GET TWIRLERS IF MONEY TALKS

"The Spudders are going to have good pitchers, if it takes all this year's possible dividends to get them."

The above statement was made to the sporting editor of the Record News last night by a man who had full authority to make it; a man whose name is withheld at this time because it so happens that he also has been given a free hand in the matter, and has certain deals pending for the Spudders right now—deals that might be held up or even stopped altogether if premature publicity were given.

Some time back this paper stirred up a wee hornet's nest of popular opinion when the sporting editor called rather warm attention to the need of a few good twirlers to boost up the weakened staff of the Spudders. This opinion has not changed in the least, but the paper has received the confidence of the man referred to above and cannot break it.

However, it can be stated positively that if the Spudders are successful in obtaining the men for whom they are dickering at this time the team will be strengthened materially. It will have one of the finest pitching staffs on the circuit—and one of the men included in the pending negotiations will furnish rather a surprise when his name becomes public.

The Spudders may not get the men for whom they are dickering—but the Record News this morning is in position to make this positive statement: That the Wichita Falls Baseball association is keenly alive to the club's need of good twirling, if the Spudders are to win out in this last race, and good hard cash will be spent to get pitchers. Players may also figure in the pending deal, if it goes through. The main thing to remember, fans, is that while you are reading this, one man is working the wires over time in an effort to land a few real pitchers—not semi-pro talent, but experienced, high-priced baseball players.

WISDOM and WORSE

By C. F. C.

It's a mark of disrespect to let Old Glory fly throughout the night—but a Texas League pennant, that's a different type of flag. If we ever get one, hot dawg, we'll keep her flying, morning, noon and night. That's the way Red Phillips says he feels about it, anyway.

Ponder, turned over to Chicago by the Pirates, licked Brooklyn 8 to 1 Monday—and meantime Pittsburgh is being gloriously trompled in the dust by the pugnacious Giants. Which proves that the second guess of the trading manager is always the best guess—and the most useless.

T. C. U. alumni are moving about our city today with their chests considerably expanded, due to the remarkable box work of one Peter Donohue, Texas Christian University twirler, who stepped into the breach for Cincinnati and held Philadelphia to 4 scattered hits in 8 2-3 innings. Pete musta had something.

The trouble is that baseballs are getting livelier, while heads remain just about as thick as usual.

Begins to look as though the adulation of his home town fans is music in Dick Humphries ears sweet enough to keep him away from the Texas League the balance of the season. Skipper Salm expected Humphries to report to the Spudders, but never a word came from the former Exporter. Today, however, we received a telegram from Knox City, Humphries' home, telling how Knox City defeated Stamford 5 to 4, with Humphries in the box. It was Knox City's thirteenth straight victory—and we rather reckon that Dick in addition to getting good money for his semi-pro efforts probably is about the most popular man in the gosh-durn town.

Anyway, Froggy Rothfuss for one don't care if he never sees Mister Humphries again. Met Froggy on the street yesterday, and he was gazing earnestly at Joe Art's fancy beat register:

"One hundred and six," murmured the Spudder. "No wonder that dam head o' mine still feels hot."

Just before the boys hopped the rattler for Dallas, Salm received a wire from Arve Odom, the eminent southpaw, stating that as the season was pretty far gone he didn't believe he'd try out with the Spudders this year—but would be glad to show his wares in 1922. Salm intends to send Frank Kitchens, who recommended the youngster and who knows him well, to Orange to induce Odom to come a-running. As far the Spudders are concerned, the season has just started, and a good southpaw flinger would add considerably to the strength of the pitching staff.

Bill Ruggles in the well known Dallas News is getting our pitchers and pinch-hitters all balled up. Speaking of the series now in progress, Bill remarks: "Dallas is not likely to draw the youthful star, Holloway until the last game, as he worked twice against Fort Worth." Yes, Bill, Holloway is all worn out from pitching against the Panthers—but we might pitch Hollingsworth, the left-handed pinch-hitting, outfielding, first baseman, if it becomes necessary.

Attorney in the baseball trial called Charlie Comiskey a "jumper"—and the Old Roman was. He jumped right out of the witness chair, and started for the aforesaid attorney.

Player named Ivk reported to Pittsburgh. We slipped up a couple of times, now see if YOU can pronounce it.

Fourteen-Year-Old Jockey May Capture Race for Top of France's Winning List

PARIS, July 19.—The most important part of the horse racing program in France is now a thing of the past, but the race—for most jockeys, the biggest of all—for the top of the winning list is still keenly contested. At the present time Frank O'Neill of St. Louis, heads the list, with fifty winning mounts aut of a possible 300. He is closely followed by Matt MacGee, another American. Then come English and French jockeys. The former always figure high up in the list at the end of each year, while the Frenchmen usually make up the tail.

This year, however, the roles may be changed, for several promising young French boys have come to the limelight in flat racing. Undoubtedly the best of the group is little Jean Lepinte, fourteen years old. He stands barely four feet high and weighs under sixty pounds. Jean, as most people on the tracks call him, was born at Maisons Laffitte, near Paris, one of the big centres of horse racing and training in France. His father was a bricklayer and was not at all interested in horse racing. His young son, however, showed his affection for horses and racing very early. He was barely seven years old when he could be seen out on the training tracks carefully watching the preparation of horses for big events. He would follow horses on the way home from the tracks, and out of pity for his small legs stable boys often gave him a lift on one of the horses. Nothing pleased the boy so much and one day he decided that he also would try his hand at training horses for races and bid boldly for a chance to ride them in races.

Perseverance Wins.

When ten years old Jean told his father and mother that the time had come for him to quit school and go out in the world and work for his living. Receiving his parents' consent, Lepinten one morning on the way back from the tracks waylaid George Lawrence, one of the oldest British trainers in this country. Point blank Jean asked Lawrence for a job and said he could soon learn to ride horses as the other boys did. Lawrence at first smiled, but in view of the boy's insistence told him to come around to the stable next morning.

He was an early arrival at the stable, but created something of a sensation when he revealed himself in knickerbockers and wearing socks and low shoes. He interestedly watched the horses being prepared for their trials and, pending the arrival of Trainer Lawreece, wandered round the stable questioning other boys as to which horse he was to ride. He only received coarse laughs in reply and began to feel unhappy, particularly when the head man showed up and gave Jean a huge wooden fork and told him to get busy and clear up the boxes once the horses were out. But manfully he undertook the ... and he had his reward a few days later, when he was put up on a horse for lessons. He learned his job very rapidly, and very soon afterward he was seen out in the trials.

A litle later Lawrence had reason to be dissatisfied with the two jockeys attached to the stable and told them that he would find someone else to ride his next running horse. Lawrence, as a good trainer, watched the work of his staff, as well as that of the horses, and paid particular attention to young Lepinte. He decided that the boy should have the ride on his next horse to run in a race. Lepinte simply jumped for joy at the prospect and could not believe his ears when Lawrence told him that if he made good he would fix him up with a contract, making him the stable jockey.

Wins His First Race.

Given his chance, Lepinte proved his value, for his first ride was his first winner, and throughout the race he showed a lot of good judgment, never allowing himself to get too much mixed up in a big group and always making for the rail on entering the home stretch. His first appearance created a sensation, however, owing to his height and weight. Whereas, most jockeys wear close-fitting tunics, Lepinte's was so big that it practically smothered him. So heavy was his saddle—in order to make up the weight—that he could not carry it, and there were many people who during the race shouted themselves hoarse believing a jockey had fallen off. As a matter of fact Lepinte appeared so small on the horse that there were many persons who could not seen him.

On being congratulated after the boy's first race, Lawrence was jokingly asked if he had any more youngsters in the cradle, but the trainer replied: "Wait, and you'll see this boy make good." Lepinte has done this, for today he is eagerly sought by owners and trainers alike to ride their lightly-weighted horses. At the beginning of the year, because he had not got the public's favor, Jean steered very long-priced horses by the winning post. It was frequent to see his mounts return odds of 25 and 30 to 1 against. Now, however, he carries quite a sum of betting money, and rarely do his mounts pay out as much as 10 to 1, simply because he has been considered a boy of value, and the jockeys at the top of the winning list now and again take a look back to see where Lepinte figures in the list. He has ridden twenty-six winners this year out of a possible 155 and has one of the best averages.

He now has a contract with Lawrence which brings the boy some 25,000 francs a year, inclusive of his percentage on winning rides. A year ago Lepinte took the riding horses over jumps for their trials, and today he is one of Lawrence's principal collaborators in the specialty, for he schools most of the stable's beginners over hurdles and stone walls.

CAUCASSIAN GEORGIA IS WELL TREATED BY INVADERS

PARIS, July 19.—Bolshevik soldiers who invaded the country of Georgia behaved admirably in their attitude toward the civilian population reports Odette, Keun, correspondent of the Matin, a newspaper which cannot be suspected of Bolshevik sympathies.

"The supplies of the American Near East Relief organization, seized at first by the new Bolshevik authorities at Batoum, were returned intact to the American committee when it was seen that their claims were well founded," writes Mlle. Keun from Batoum.

"The shops were not touched. Public schools, closed for several weeks, were re-opened by the Bolsheviks. Refugees were transported to their homes. The sale of wine and hard liquors was rigorously prohibited. Strict peualties were imposed against profiteers, and in five days the price of all foodstuffs tumbled from 50 to 75 per cent.

"Naturally, in all the unoccupied rooms were lodged Bolshevik soldiers. Six Bolsheviks sleep in the room next to mine. Though they are replaced from time to time by sox others no one can find any complaint against them. Nothing has been stolen; they cannot get drunk; they prepare their meals in the same kitchen with the rest of us and even give us part of their flour and their soup, and when they want tea they bring their own sugar. In all the occupied villages haved like innocent children."

HORSE-SENSE TO RESCUE.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 19.—Tired and exhausted from hauling a dray wagon for many a day, Old Dobbin dropped his weary bones in a heap across a public park drive here and refused to breathe any more. Stretched in full length across the drive, he blocked traffic via the road he had selected for his demise.

Being outside the city limits, local authorities refused to remove the carcass and it remained there three days. Then spurred by the decomposition of the quadrupled's body, citizens in the vicinity prevailed upon the owner of the drayage concern to remove the obstruction and give it proper burial. Traffic has been resumed as usual in the park.

WHITNEY AND O'HARA LEAD IN GOLF OPEN

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Nelson M. Whitney, an amateur of the Audubon Golf clug of New Orleans and Pat O'Hara, a professional of the Richmond Country club of Virginia led a field of forty three who qualified in the opening half of the qualifying round today of the national open golf tournament at the Columbia Country club. Both Whitney and O'Hara, turned in scores of 73 for the eighteen holes and their cards totalled at the ninth and eighteenth holes showed identical scores of 36-37-73.

The spread in the qualifying scores ranged from these two 73's to 7 players who tied for last place with scores of 78. Following Whitney and O'Hara came four players with 74, including Walter Hagen, the 1919 champion and Jack Burke, runnerup in last year's open championship. Among those who qualified with scores of 75 were Abe Mitchell, the English star, and R. L. Finkenstaedt, a local amateur.

Ten players qualified with scores of 76, including Jock Hutchinson, the American who recently won the British open championship.

The final seventeen with 78 scores included Joe Kirkwood, the Australian expert. Another player to qualify in today's contest was John Bredemus, San Felipe, Texas, who turned in a card of 76.

Playing conditions were none too favorable owing to a high gusty wind and slow putting greens. Performances of amateur entrants was an outstanding feature.

Rickard exhibited the cancelled check with Woods' endorsement. He paid Carpentier's $200,000 share to Robert Edgren as stakeholder.

No reason was given for making Dempsey's check payable to Woods and the examination was adjourned in order to permit Rickard to submit further documents in the matter.

In his search for Dempsey's assets, Spellman has attached the champion's automobile and the court has refused to vacate the attachment.

QUAKERS REPORTED ACTIVE

By Associated Press.

RICHMOND, Ind., July 19.—What are the present activities of the Quakers, has been asked recently. Numerically, "the Friends of America," as they are called, are a small body numbering about 115,000 but distributed from coast to coast.

On the Atlantic coast are New England, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and North Carolina yearly meetings! on the Pacific coast, California and Oregon yearly meetings, the latter extending into Washington and Idaho. Inland states in which friends are well represented are Ohio, Indiana, Iowa and Kansas.

American Quakerism has two capitals, the older and more conservative of Philadelphia the newer at Richmond, Ind. Within a radius of 100 miles of Richmond are to be found approximately one-fourth of American Quakers.

While intensely individualistic in principles and practice, Friends are learning how to unite for accomplishing worth while tasks. Otherwise they could not have joined so readily in perfecting the machinery of the American Friends' Service committee, with headquarters at Philadelphia which has done a monumental relief work in Europe.

The majority of American Yearly meetings are united in a national organization, the five years meeting of Friends in America, which carries on a comprehensive and growing work at home and abroad. The headquarters of this organization are located in Richmond, where the executive staffs of the national boards are housed in their own office building.

Friends have long been active in foreign mission work. Few as they are in numbers, their missionary efforts well night encircle the globe, including work in Japan, China, Africa; Syria, Mexico, Central America, Cuba and Jamaica.

At home a principal concern of Friends is for the cause of international peace and good will. Theirs is regarded here as the only religious body having a national board on peace. Just now it is very active in the fight for universal disarmament.

In addition to a number of private secondary schools. Quakers support ten colleges, not including Bryn Mawr which is controlled by a board of trustees composed of Friends. These colleges are located at Haverford and Swarthmore, Pa., Guilford, N. C., Wilmington, O., Richmond, Ind., Oskaloosa, Ia., Wichita, Kan., Central City, Neb., Newberg, Ore., and Whittier, Cal.

One of the big events of the Quaker year is the annual summer conference of Young Friends conducted at Earlham college, Richmond, under the auspices of the Young Friends of the Five Years Meeting. It is attended by young Quaker men and women from all parts of the country.

MILLIONS PAID BY TAXPAYERS TO SWINDLERS

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Grafters, big and small, have become a great menace to the taxpayers, and revenue chiefs are scouring the country to rid cities and towns of this element.

Revenue Commissioner Blair has before him reports showing millions of dollars have been paid out by taxpayers to swindlers. He said there is no possible method of computing the public's real losses through frauds practised by crooks passing themselves off as "tax experts" or former government attorneys capable of wielding "strong influence at Washington."

Secret service men already have run into nests of schemers of this type in many of the large cities, in which they have centered their operations. On the strength of evidence secured, grand juries in several states now are deliberating over indictments.

Indictments expected by Commissioner Blair are expected to involve a number of former government employes who remained in the government service long enough to gain access to the private files of officials and then have resigned to use the knowledge so acquired for illicit profit.

Commissioner Blair said he will prosecute such swindlers to the limit of the law penalties in every case where proof is conclusive. Special agents report that many of the swindlers have caused taxpayers to underestimate their true liability to the government and have made false returns. The swindlers have charged large fees for such advice as was given. In the process the taxpayers have lost money, has become a perjurer, and the government has sustained losses which are incalculable.

The summer wash tie is here. So is its enemy, the red raspberry.—Cedar Rapids (Iowa) Gazette.

ARMY OFFICER GETS $5,000--MRS. BERGDOLL

WASHINGTON, July 19.—The direct charge that five thousand dollars was paid to Major Bruce R. Campbell, an officer of the army, for use among "the higher ups" to obtain the release of Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, her slacker son, was made today by Mrs. Emma C. Bergdoll, of Philadelphia to the house investigating committee.

Later the committee developed that on February 10, last year, about ten days after Mrs. Bergdoll swore the money was paid, Campbell deposited four thousand, five hundred dollars with a member of the New York stock exchange and two thousand more on March 3, all of which and more was wiped out by the end of June in market trading. The money was deposited to the joint account of the major and Laura E. Campbell, supposedly his wife.

Major Campbell, who was Bergdoll's counsel in court martial proceedings, had previously testified that he did not get one dollar of Bergdoll's money, but at the direction of the committee the war department had ordered him here from Camp Pike, Arkansas to answer the charges.

GUARD JAIL FROM BURGLARS

TEXARKANA, Ark., July 19.—Deputy Sheriff Sain thrice chased would-be burglars away from the jail here after they had attempted to cut through the bars and gain entrance.

"When men try to break into a jail" observed the deputy sheriff as he went to investigate, "there must be a reason."

The reason was a gallon of bonded whiskey.

Decline and Fall Marriage.

DEFIANCE, Ohio, July 19.—Cupid is glum.

The romance is gone from his work and his darts fly wide.

Old man High Cost has been whispering his warning counsel into the ears of prospective brides.

Consequently, the books in Probate court here show four marriages less last month than during June last year.

RESIDENTS MUST ASK PAVING

No more paving projects for residence sections will be made until the city council has been definitely petitioned by residents, it was announced Tuesday by Street Commissioner Walter S. Curlee. This conclusion was announced by Mr. Curlee to have been reached as a result of the recent kick by citizens over the proposal to pave Fifteenth street.

A marked reduction in expenses of the street department operating expenses during the last three months was shown in a report made public Tuesday by Mr. Curlee. The April expenses were shown to be $20,000 with $8,122 for May and $6,518 for June.

A total of $117,000 was reported to be now available from the bond issue for paying the city's portion of paving projects. About $30,000 of this was reported to have been added to the general fund following the decision of the city council to discontinue plans for paving Fifteenth street. The city's portion for work on Ohio, Indiana and Fillmore is to be taken from the $117,000 fund.

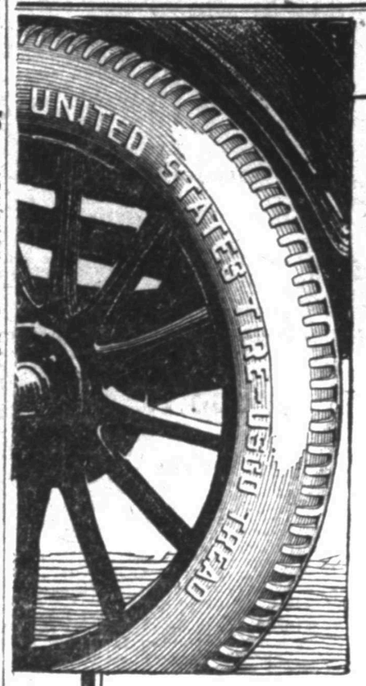

Burnett street, Eleventh from Grace to Ohio, Twelfth from Lamar to Ohio and a short distance of Fillmore are announced as projects now under consideration.

QUARTER-INCH OF RAIN TUESDAY

A very welcome shower, following the excessive heat of the past two days, visited Wichita Falls and immediate vicinity Tuesday afternoon. The rain was fairly hard while it lasted and amounted to about one quarter of an inch.

The temperature Tuesday up until the time of the shower, gave promise of equalling the season's record for heat made about 3:30 Monday afternoon, when 106 was registered. After the shower the thermometer dropped sharply.

THE U. S. USCO TREAD

Here is the U. S. Usco Tread, with a long-established standard of service among motorists who have an eye to value, as well as to price. While selling for less than the other tires in the U. S. Fabric line, the Usco has earned a reputation for quality and dependable economy which is not exceeded by any tire in its class.

The standard tire likes nothing better than to prove its service

PEOPLE used to be secretly envious of the young fellow who came tearing up the street and stopped his car with a jerk.

Now they are inclined to criticise such abuse of tires. A mark of the growing consciousness about tires—their service, their work, their value.

This same respect for a good tire is the reason why the four-square tire dealer has passed up odds and ends, "job lots", "seconds", "cut prices"—and come out squarely with the standard quality service of U. S. Tires.

He is getting a bigger, and also better, tire business than he ever had before.

He is dealing now with his own kind of people. The substantial citizen. The man who knows that you can't get something for nothing. The steady customer—not the bargain hunter.

• • •

To the man who has not yet learned the standard tire service he is entitled to we say—

Go to the dealer in U. S. Tires and make him show you.

Here is a man in close touch with one of the 92 U.S. Factory Branches—a constant supply of fresh, live U. S. Tires.

The U. S. Tire you buy is a tire built for current demands. No overproduction. No piling up of stock. No loss of mileage by hanging around on the dealer's racks.

Every way you look at it, a par quality tire at a net price.

NEW YORK SUGAR

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 19.—There was more activity reported in raw sugar today but no changes occurred in quotations at 3 cents for Cuba's cost and freight, equal to 4.61 for centrifugal, while Porto Ricos are quoted at 4.50 for centrifugal.

Raw sugar futures were easier at the start with opening prices 1 to 4 points lower under liquidation, but there was enough demand from shorts and commission houses to absorb all offerings and prices rallied closing at 1 point lower to 2 points net higher. July 3.00; September 3.06; December 2.79; March 2.70; all bid. Refined sugar was firmer with three leading refiners advancing list prices 15 points to the basis of 5.90 for fine granulated. Others were unchanged at 5.20.

Strength in the spot market led to a little covering in refined futures and prices were firmer, closing unchanged to 5 points net higher. July, September and December closed at 5.65 bid.

NEW YORK COFFEE

NEW YORK, July 19.—Coffee futures acted somewhat heavy today owing to a poor spot demand, liberal receipts at primary points, large stocks and lower firm offerings which caused moderate commission house selling and a decline that dropped September to 6.32; December to 6.79 and March to 7.06. While there was some trade buying of September against sales of actual, it had little stimulating effect owing to the easier Brazil cables and the market from the opening, which was 2 points lower, continued under scattered selling pressure all day and at the close was one to six points net lower. July 6.13; Sept. 6.33; Dec. 6.74; Jan. 6.85; March 7.05; May 7.25.

Spot coffee neglected. Rios 6 3-8 @6 1-2; Santos 4's 9 1-8@9 3-4.

By Associated Press.

BULLS HAVE GOOD DAY IN WHEAT

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 19.—Bulls had the advantage in the wheat market today largely owing to indications of export demand. The close was unsettled, 1-2c to 1 1-2c net higher, with September 1.28 1-4 to 1.28 1-2 and December 1.32 to 1.32 1-4. Corn gained 5-8 to 1 3-8c and oats 3-4c to 7-8@1c.

In provisions, the outcome varied from 15c decline to 5 cents advance.

Good buying of wheat futures was generally taken to mean that exports business was in progress. Bulls also put stress on reports that country offerings were light and that rains in Kansas and Nebraska had interferred with threshing.

Expectancy that vessel loadings here this week would be liberal gave strength to the corn market. Oats were affected by continued bullish threshing returns.

Provisions averaged lower in sympathy with downturns in the value of hogs.

AMATEUR "HOUDINI" COMES TO GRIEF

BERLIN, July 19.—"Spectacular methods in burglary are all right for the movie, but after this I am going to stick to the safe and sane old-fashioned second-story man rules," sighed Max Arndt after his attempt to rob an express car by an amateur Houdini trunk act landed him in jail.

Max and Paul Arndt, Burglars, Ltd., conceived the idea of Max permitting himself to be locked into a good-sized wardrobe trunk, accompanied by a full set of burglar's tools. Brother Paul then shipped Max from the Berlin railroad station to Spandau. It was agreed that during the trip Max was to open the trunk, step out and rob the other trunks in the express car.

It might have worked smoothly, except that the Arndt brothers forgot to take the precaution of boring a couple of holes in the trunk for air. Before Max could liberate himself he had exhausted the air in the trunk and fainted. Railroad officials became suspicious of the weight of the osggage and forced it open. When Max had been resuscitated he stepped out smilingly and bowed with the announcement that he was a vaudeville artist trying out a new Houdini trick.

He might have gotten away with his slight-of-hand alibi, but his black magic didn't include a chapter on hiding burglars' kits up his sleve, and he was told to tell it to the judge. Max did. So did Paul. The judge told them that they might continue their legerdemain with a year's course in the penitentiary.

MAN OF 95 TOO YOUNG TO QUIT WORK, DECLARES

NEW YORK, July 19.—Daniel M. Treadwell, lawyer, author, scientist, broker and man of affairs, on the eve of his ninety-fifth birthday is just a bit amusedly tolerant of the furore made annually over the fact that John D. Rockefeller, in the ripe maturity of his eighty-second year, still is able to play golf and enjoy a drive in his motorcar—or, perhaps, one of his motorcars might be better.

Mr. Treadwell goes to his office at the Home Title Insurance company daily, and conducts his routine affairs as a matter of course; and he doesn't expect anyone to wax excited about it. He is regarded as the oldest active business man in New York City and he is looking forward to being a good deal older business man before he retires to spend his old age in peace and quiet.

Mr. Treadwell admits that John A. Stewart of Morristown, N. J., chairman of the board of directors of the United States Trust company, who will celebrate his ninety-ninth birthday on August 26, is getting along in years and has earned his retirement, but feels that for himself ninety-nine years will be a bit young for retirement. Mr. Stewart goes to his office in Wall street three times a week.

Never Wears Glasses.

On the 26th of this month Mr. Treadwell will go to Freeport, L. I., for his annual birthday party with his little grandnephew, Charles P. Harvey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Harvey, who is his junior by a little matter of exactly eighty-four years to the day. Mr. Treadwell will be ninety-five and Charles eleven years old, but the slight discrepancy in years doesn't alter the fact that the two are "buddies," and neither would feel that his birthday had been celebrated properly minus the presence of the other.

As a matter of fact Mr. Treadwell has the appearance of a man in the late fifties. His eye is clear, he never wears glasses, his step is firm and he has a full crop of bushy white hair. His carriage is erect and soldierly and he has all the vigor and vitality of a man slightly more than half his years.

Mr. Treadwell has a spontaneous humor which is very readily tapped. In fact, he managed to find considerable amusement over his clumsiness, some two months ago, when he permitted a pair of new rubber heels to trip him up and hurl him headlong down two flights of stairs leading to the stoop of a neighbor's home. He was bruised a bit instead of being killed outright, as would have happened in the case of some old fellow of sixty or seventy years; but he refused to call a doctor and has little to remind him of the fall now.

DIVORCE RATE CLIMBS DOUBLE PACE IN ENGLAND.

LONDON, July 19.—In more than 40 per cent of the divorce suits heard during 1919 there were no children of the marriage.

Husbands are more faithful than wives.

The first five years of married life are the easiest.

These striking facts are gleaned from a collection of official statistics issued as a White-paper by the Home office.

The number of divorce suits rose from 2680 in 1918 to 5763 in 1919, an increase in one year o 114 per cent. The total for 1919 was three and a half times higher than that of 1913.

The most sensational comparison made in the report is that in which the divorce petitions are classified as follows:

Petition by husbands	4,132
Petitions by wives	1,630

NEW COURSES INTRODUCED IN INDIA SCHOOLS

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 19.—Courses in nature study and physical geography have been introduced into the native government high schools of India to combat superstititnos which tend to hinder the advancement of the people, according to information received by the board of foreign missions of the Methodist Episcopal church.

These courses are to be instituted at once in twenty high schools and are to be taught by native teachers specially trained in the scientific explanation of the phenomena of India.

The Rev. Dr. L. A. Kenyon, acting principal of the Methodist mission industrial school at Allahabad on the Ganges, has been chosen to train these teachers.

His party has taken many extended tours about India, notably to the Himalaya Mountains and to the Marble Rocks and Nirbada Falls of Central India, features of India which have been especially reversed by the various native religions.

COTTON GAINS NEAR CLOSE AT NEW ORLEANS

By Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, July 19.—Cotton was higher in a moderate way today as the result of buying encouraged by rather general cloudy weather over the belt, the forecast of continued showery weather and fear that weevil damage would increase in consequence. Reports of a good demand for new crop cotton in south Texas met by only limited offerings, increased demand for contracts as did also the rumor that one of the largest milling concerns in the country was about to raise the price of its cotton goods by twelve percent. Highest prices came in the last few minutes of the day when most active months were 19 to 21 points higher than finals of yesterday. The close was at net gains of 16 to 19 points. October traded up to 12.45 and closed to 12.43.

In early trading the market was irregular and unsettled. Considerable liquidation came from the long side at one time prices were seven to eight points under the close of yesterday.

The forecast of showers over most of the belt took the market out of its depression but around the middle of the day the tendency was to fall off again. In late trading the market made its greatest show of strength.

NEW YORK COTTON

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 19.—The cotton market was generally firm today and at the close, which was within a few points of top, the tone was very steady with prices 12 to 21 points net higher. The market opened steady, March showing one point decline and others 4 to 7 points advance. To the strength in Liverpool was added Wall street buying and scattered local covering as a result of predictions for showers over the belt in contrast to yesterday's forecast of generally clear weather for the entire week. In fact throughout the day, unfavorable crop and weather advices were more bullish spot news had much to do with better sentiment among traders.

Another influence of considerable importance was announced that yesterday's offerings of ginghams by the largest manufacturer had resulted in great activity and some of the heaviest orders ever placed, confirming recent more optimistic views as to conditions in textile circles. The reactions during the day were small and mostly in the early forenoon when October declined to 12.64 and December to 13.06 or four to six points under the previous night. From this level the market advanced to 12.92 for October and 13.32 for December with the close only 3 to 4 points under this level.

A feature of the day was antincrease in switching operations, mostly from October, to December at 40 points compared with 40 points at the close on Monday. It was judged by private advices that the crop especially in the eastern belt was being menaced to an unusual degree by boll weevil and grassy conditions as a result of recent rains, while Texas notwithstanding less rain also sent in many weevil complaints.

MOVEMENT OF WHEAT CONTINUES

The wheat movement is holding up unusually well this year, and better than the most sanguine predictions allowed, according to reports from local grain men and from the railroads moving the crop. While the flush of the year's crop has been moved the railroads say wheat continues to move in large quantities.

Harvesting, except in isolated sections, has been finished in the Wichita Falls district, according to reports. Some wheat remains to be harvested and moved in the northern part of the Oklahoma district served by the Wichita Falls and Northwestern railroad, the officials report.

Unusual service has been given by the railroads in this section in moving the wheat to export and elevator points this year, local grain men declare.

This is due to the surplus of cars on hand at the first of the season and to the speed of returning the cars from the points of shipments.

SUES PULLMAN CO. FOR COLD.

WORCESTER, Mass., July 19.—The Pullman company of Boston is defendant in an unusual $5,000 suit, filed in the Superior court by Nathan Issen of Worcester, who claims that because of a defect in a Pullman car in which he was a passenger December 7, 1920, he suffered a severe cold, which later developed into bronchits.

An alleged opening at the side of his berth is the defect claimed.

ONE BORN EVERY FOURTH MINUTE

A lady who had a family of three children didn't want any more because she had heard that every fourth child born in the world was a Chinaman.

As ludicrous, perhaps, as an old misconception some skeptical folks used to have about advertising.

There was a time when some advertisements had to be taken with a grain of salt. A few misguided advertisers thought they could sell their goods better by misrepresenting them. Those advertisers have long since gone out of business or mended their ways. Hard experience taught that untruthful advertising didn't pay.

Other advertisers proved that the only way to advertise successfully, make regular customers and build up good will was to tell the absolute truth about their goods in their advertisements.

You can depend on the merchant or manufacturer who advertises. The concern that tells you frankly what it is doing is a good concern with which to do business. The store that advertises is a progressive store that has something really worth while to say to you. And companies that advertise their products or their service have confidence in them. You can safely share their confidence.

Inferior merchandise cannot masquerade in the quality clothes of advertising.

ORDINANCE 376.
AN ORDINANCE REGULATING AND REQUIRING CARNIVALS TO HAVE LICENSE TO OPERATE AND FIXING THE LICENSE FEE, PROVIDING A PENALTY AND AN EMERGENCY.
WHEREAS, street carnivals have been held in the City of Wichita Falls every few months, and have often resulted in large crowds congregating and engaging in unlawful conduct and in the victimizing of many ignorant persons, requiring extra policemen and police regulation; and,
WHEREAS, there is now no law regulating the licensing and controlling of street carnivals, NOW THEREFORE,
BE IT ORDAINED BY THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN OF THE CITY OF WICHITA FALLS:
1.—It shall be unlawful to hereafter hold, sponsor, operate or run a street carnival in the City of Wichita Falls unless a permit to hold such carnival is first obtained from the City of Wichita Falls in accordance with this ordinance. Each person aiding or abetting in the holding of such carnival or its subsidiary shows, concessions, amusements, and businesses shall be equally guilty of a violation of this article, when said carnival operates or runs without such permit.
2.—A permit shall be issued by order of the Board of Aldermen to hold such carnival when and only when a proper application in writing is made therefor. Such application shall state in detail the different component parts of the carnival including all concessions, shows, amusements, businesses and the proposed location of said carnival, the time it is to run, and the number of persons regularly traveling therewith, if any, and the number of local persons connected therewith, and shall give a complete and full plan of the proposed carnival.
3.—If the proposed carnival appears to be entirely composed of lawful amusements and lawful enterprises, the Board of Aldermen shall determine the number of extra police necessary to properly superintend such carnival and regulate the anticipated crowds and carnival. The Board of Aldermen shall instruct the Assessor and Collector of Taxes how many extra officers shall be needed and whether to issue such permits.
The applicant for permit (if the Board of Aldermen shall determine that said permit shall be issued) shall then pay a license fee of FIFTY ($50.00) DOLLARS together with FIVE ($5.00) DOLLARS per extra officer, for the number of officers that the Board of Aldermen shall determine shall be necessary, per day for so many days that said carnival is issued a permit by the Assessor and Collector of Taxes shall issue the permit specifying the length of time and the location. These fees are intended to be used for regulating, inspecting and policing such carnival, and shall be deposited with the City Treasurer in a police fund for policing these carnivals and shall be spent by the Police Department for such purposes, and is hereby appropriated for such purpose.
4.—If the proposed carnival consists in whole or in part of any unlawful games or enterprises of any kind, the permit shall be refused, and if such carnival is issued a permit and it conducts itself in an unlawful manner in whole or in part, its permit may be revoked by the Mayor and fees paid shall be forfeited.
5.—It shall be unlawful for any carnival to operate in whole or in part within 300 feet of any private residence, church, school or after its permit expires or after it is revoked for cause, and all persons assisting in such operation shall be deemed guilty of violating this ordinance.
6.—The Chief of Police shall have supervision of the policing of said carnival.
7.—Any person guilty of violating any provision of this ordinance upon conviction shall be fined in any sum not to exceed TWO HUNDRED ($200.00) DOLLARS.
8.—That in the event any section, subsection, paragraph or provision of this ordinance shall be held or declared to be void, or unenforceable, such void or unenforceable portion shall be restricted to the identical part or provision so held or declared to be invalid, and such void or unenforceable portion shall not in any manner affect or render invalid any other part, section or provision of this ordinance.
9.—This law shall not apply to street fairs composed of local people for purely local charitable purposes and without profit.
10.—By reason of the absence of any law licensing and regulating carnivals, it is necessary for the immediate preservation of public peace and safety that this ordinance shall take immediate effect and this ordinance is hereby declared to be an emergency measure and the rule requiring ordinances to be read on three separate days is hereby suspendd and this ordinance is now here placed on its third and final reading and it shall become effective immediately upon its passage and it is so enacted.

TAYLOR IS SUGGESTED FOR PLACE

Declared to be thoroughly qualified through his past experience and training for the office, H. E. Taylor, boy scout executive, was recommended Tuesday night by friends for appointment to the office of juvenile officer, to succeed R. W. Morgan, who resigned to accept the position of chief of police.
Mr. Taylor is at present out of the city on a short vacation and business trip.
D. M. Perkins, who, with other business men on the scout council, is a supporter of Mr. Taylor for the office, declared that he felt confident the office would be acceptable, should it be made by the county commissioners.
That the work of a juvenile officer is largely to assist in making citizens out of youths, who might otherwise develop into incorrigibles rather than work, similar to that usually performed by a peace officer, they declare. Supporters of Mr. Taylor assert that his training is such as to peculiarly fit him for such work. He has had considerable training in handling boys, and in the past two years has in Wichita Falls built the boy scout movement from a straggling troop of about 30 members to some 15 or 16 troops of over 600 enthusiastic members. Also they point out that he has had considerable special schooling in this line of work.

CHIEF BOYD TO MAKE HIS HOME HERE

A determination to quit his life work as a peace officer and devote his energies to some private business, not so exacting, was voiced Tuesday by W. A. Boyd, who turned in his resignation to J. B. Fitts, newly elected police commissioner.

Commissioner Fitts declared that he would have been glad to have Mr. Boyd stay in the service of the city as a detective. "I have the highest regard for Mr. Boyd as a man and an efficient officer, and it is with regret that I see him leave," Mr. Fitts said.

Mr. Boyd told the commissioner that he had already made plans to cease his activities as a peace officer with the view of taking up other work some time next fall. He also said that he felt that the present time would work to the best interest of the new commissioner, as he could start out building up a force from which none would be expected to retire, as was his intention.

Declaring that he had found Wichita Falls very much to his liking and that he valued very highly the many friends and acquaintances he had become associated with here, Mr. Boyd said Tuesday that it was probable that he will continue to make Wichita Falls his home.

At the conclusion of several important criminal cases, which are scheduled to come up within the next two or three days, Mr. Boyd said he expected to take an extended rest before entering into any work.

Most notable among the cases, for the conclusion of which Mr. Boyd is waiting is the Dan Bennett case. Bennett is scheduled to face trial Wednesday on a charge of murder in connection with the death of George Gentry, who was found dead in a cellar, where he made his home. Mr. Boyd, Police Chief Huff and Detective Jack Miller are due credit for the alleged solution of this case.

NEW POLICE CHIEF HAS LONG RECORD

R. W. Morgan, who will take his oath of office as chief of police this morning, is no stranger to official life either in this city and county or previous places of residence.

The county commissioners' court in session late Tuesday expressed unanimous regret in accepting the resignation of Morgan as county juvenile officer, an office which he has held for the last year and half.

"We will never find a man who will fill the position more acceptably," declared J. P. Jones, county judge, in expression of the court's regret at his departure from the county work.

Previous to his taking the position of county juvenile officer, Mr. Morgan served the city for four years as city sanitary officer. He came to this city from Paris, Texas, in 1914, where he served as a police officer for eight years.

The new chief is a man of family numbering five boys and two girls, ranging in years from thirteen to thirty. All are residents of this city. The Morgan home is at 1508 Twelth street.

PUEBLO WOMAN USES SKATES AFTER FLOOD

Pueblo, Colo., July 19.—One of the chief concerns of many persons in and around Pueblo following the recent flood was transportation. Not so, however, with one ingenious young lady, with whom this tale has to do.

Before the flood waters receded the only means of reaching Pueblo from outside was by aeroplane, and the latter were unable to make a landing within the city limits.

After the water and huge masses of mud and debris had been removed from the streets the principal mode of travel about the city was that used by Adam and Eve previous to the original flood.

Nearly all the automobiles on the streets were engaged in some branch of the reclamation work, and it was several weeks before the street railway company succeeded in getting their cars in operation.

This condition, in an industrial city like Pueblo, where so many working people live on one side of town and work on the other, caused a great deal of speculation as to "How will I get there?"

The young lady referred to was much perplexed for a time over the difficulty of reaching her place of employment on time. Being an enthusiastic devotee of roller skating, however, she conceived the idea of accomplishing her daily traveling via the roller-skate route. She brought out her skates, strapped them to her dainty extremities, and, pronto, the problem was solved.

She rolled merrily along to and from her work, dodging, with a smile, in and out among the hurrying crowds changing the time-honored phrase, "Business before pleasure," to "Business with pleasure."

While it is not anticipated that the sidewalk roller skating fad will reach such proportions in Pueblo as to seriously curtail the business of the street car company, it is believed that many who have been visiting amusement parks and paying for the privilege of skating will emulate this khaki-clad miss and secure a little healthful recreation in going to and coming from their daily tasks.

A Belfast newspaper man escaped by hiding behind a lamp post when a fusilade of shots were fired at him, says a dispatch. Sounds thin.—El Paso Herald.

LEGION OFFICIALS TO DISCUSS WAR INSURANCE

By Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 19.—Officials of the American Legion, representatives of the war risk insurance bureau, public health service, and federal board for vocational education will meet here early in August, according to Legion officers, for the purpose of discussing closer co-operation in behalf of disabled former service men.

The Legion has received word of the appointment of Carlos A. Pennington, assistant director of the bureau of war risk insurance, as contact officer between the Legion and the government bureau.

SELECTION OF SUCCESSOR TO MORGAN SOON

The county commissioner's court will not appoint a juvenile officer to succeed R. W. Morgan resigned before Monday according to a decision made Monday following a brief session Tuesday afternoon at which the matter was brought up.

It was pointed out by Judge J. P. Jones of the county court, that while the commissioner's court appoints the officer under the new law they can only consider for appointment an applicant that has received the approval of the county superintendent of schools, and the superintendents of the two largest independent school districts in the county.

Indications Tuesday pointed to a delay in the appointment of the officer due to the fact that Burl Bryant, county superintendent of schools, Lee Clark, superintendent of city schools here, and the superintendent of the Burkburnett schools—the committee which would make the recommendation—are all out of the county attending summer schools and will not return for two or three weeks. All three positions have other acting officials during their absence and it is thought possible that the recommendation will be made by them, if not deemed contrary to the recently enacted law.

Although no formal applications have been filed it is known that the friends of several local men are urging their appointment. Included among the number are Lemley Humphris, connected with the local constable's department, Robert Goodfellow former chief of the city police force.

NEW SCHOOL VOTE RECORD SET MONDAY

An election has been held in Wichita county in which all votes were cast in the affirmative.

The phenomenon occurred in an election held Saturday in school district No. 14 commonly known as the Allendale district, according to a belated report received Tuesday at the office of the county superintendent of schools.

The election was held to vote on a $2,000 bond issue for the erection of a school building. Not a vote was against it. All 9 votes were cast in favor of it.

Acting County Superintendent of Schools Presson started calling residents of the district on the phone Monday to determine the election results. He was unable to find anyone that had voted until Tuesday.

DODSON SOUNDS CALOMEL'S DOOM

The "Liver Tone" Man Warns Folks Against the Sickening, Salivating Drug.

Ugh! Calomel makes you sick. It's horrible! Take a dose of the dangerous drug tonight and tomorrow you lose a day.

Calomel is mercury! When it comes into contact with sour bile, it crashes into it, breaking it up. Then is when you feel that nausea and cramping. If you are sluggish, if liver is torpid and bowels constipated or you have headache, dizziness, coated tongue, if breath is bad or stomach is sour, just try a spoonful of harmless Dodsons Liver Tone tonight.

Here's my guarantee—Go to any drug store and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't straighten you right up and make you feel fine and vigorous, go back to the store and get your money. Dodson's Liver Tone is destroying the sale of calomel because it can not salivate or make you sick.—(Adv.)

UNCLE SAM TAKES LIEN ON PROPERTY OF BOOTLEGGERS

DUBOIS, Pa., July 19.—If your Uncle Samuel doesn't get you coming he is certain to get you going. His tax laws are like the laws of nature—you can't escape them.

Bootleggers though they were slipping one over on the old gentleman and "getting away with it," but they have discovered that though they sold liquor illegally the government is going to collect its pound of flesh in the way of revenue taxes.

For months there has been a powerful lot of bootlegging in this part of the state, according to current reports. Some were caught red handed and went so far as to plead guilty to save the expenses of defending a suit

In the meantime Internal Revenue Collector Llewellyn, of Pittsburgh, took notice. He sent a special examiner up here in Clearfield County. The examiner went over the Criminal Court docket in Prothonotary (County Clerk Ralston's office. He made a list of all those convicted of liquor law violations. This list was sent to headquarters in Pittsburgh.

In the last few days tax liens against many of these violators have been received at the prothonotary's office and are being chalked up against the property of each violator convicted.

They are perfectly good liens, too—iron clad and guaranteed not breakable. Better still, they have right of way over all other claims against the properties. Uncle Sam will collect his little bill first—100 cents on the dollar and interest—and what is left, the other ordinary claimants, if there are any, may have.

U. S. an Expert Accountant

It's simple. The action is taken under Section 3186 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, which set forth that if the taxes are not paid at the proper time they become a lien against the property of the person, owing such taxes. Not only the tax itself, but the interest and all costs are bunched in that lien, and the longer you dodge those taxes the bigger the bill the government will collect in the end.

None of the illicit liquor sellers paid any tax for the liquor they peddled around, so they violated the Revenue laws, and the liens are the next step.

Bootlegger tax dodgers are all treated alike, whether they do a big business or a little business—no graduated scale for them.

The sheriff will collect the government's bill.

CHARGES EXCESSIVE PROFITS ARGENTINE PLANTS IS DENIED

By Associated Press.

BUENOS AIRES, July 19.—Figures alleged to indicate excessive profits and "abuses of the Frigorifico trust" by large British and American packing concerns, operating in Argentina, which Minister of Agriculture Demarchi is reported to have shown the packing industry representatives at an agricultural conference yesterday, are refuted by the American representatives, who claim their companies are making only 10 per cent profit on capital invested, and not 93 per cent as claimed by the American League and other agricultural interests.

The conference, called in connection with a crisis with the fall of meat prices, has brought about, did not make public the conclusions reached.

OBTAIN CAR STOLEN

A Cadillac automobile stolen from T. J. Taylor of this city over a year and a half ago was returned to him Tuesday by Charles Debout, local representative of the Dallas Anti-Theft bureau. The car was stolen in this city on the night of January 5, 1921.

Mr. Debout recovered the car at El Paso after a prolonged chase of the car and driver in different parts of New Mexico.

Canada was the native Indian word for a "village." When the French explorers first sailed up the St. Lawrence, pointing to the land, they asked it sname, while the natives thought they required the name given to the collected wigwams on the shore and replied "Canada."
