Apollo 17 Streaks Toward Moon

PILING UP — With the Christmas season here, the mail is beginning to pile up at the local U.S. Post Office from incoming deliveries. M.T. Nichols, 601 Plains, Postal employee, sorts out the parcels received in shipments this morning. During the peak days, which should occur around Dec. 15, the Post Office expects to handle around 100,000 pieces of incoming and outgoing mail.

Flow Of Mails Multiplies As Christmas Approaching

By LARRY HOLLIS
With the holiday season upon us, the load of incoming mail has increased to about 70,000 pieces daily, with the peak dates yet to come.

Postmaster Carl V. English said the peak date for incoming mail usually falls around Dec. 15, within a day either way. This has been the general rule in past years and he sees no reason for it to be any different this year.

Currently the office is handling about 70,000 pieces of mail coming in to the city daily. Due to the area mail processing, with letters from Pampa going through the sorting process in Amarillo, a count is not kept of outgoing mail.

Marcos' Wife Stabbed; Assailant Shot, Killed

MANILA (AP) — A dark-suited man slashed President Ferdinand E. Marcos' wife, Imelda, today with a long bolo knife as she was congratulating winners of a beautification contest.

The attack occurred at an amusement park in Pasay City, adjoining Manila.

30,000 to 50,000 outgoing pieces are being handled daily now. English said as many as 100,000 pieces would be handled on the peak days. About 120,000 pieces were handled on the peak day several years ago, he noted. This is counting incoming and outgoing mail.

Increasing each week during December, the flow of mail remains heavy the last two weeks before Christmas, then quickly tapers off to normal.

Anticipating about the same load as last year, English said they didn't plan to hire any extra personnel, though some may have to work longer hours than normal. Most of that would depend on the load.

"We believe we can get it all delivered as in the past," English said.

Letters greatly outnumber the amount of parcel post packages received. The greatest number of packages should begin arriving next week, he said, with most of them in by the week after that.

Although the U.S. Postal Service does not set any deadlines for the sending of Christmas mail, they do issue suggested dates to allow time for the mail to reach its destination for Christmas.

Regular surface mail letters should be sent by Dec. 15 for the continental United States, with parcels mailed by Dec. 10. Air mail dates would be Dec. 21 for letters and Dec. 20 for parcel post.

For Alaska and Hawaii, surface letters should be mailed by Dec. 15, with air mail by Dec. 20 for both letters and packages. Regular surface mail packages should have been sent Nov. 30.

Most of the suggested dates are already past for regular mail to armed forces personnel overseas. Air mail can still be sent in time for those in Canada and the Arctic (Dec. 8, tomorrow), South and Central America and Europe (Dec. 11 and Africa and the Azores (Dec. 9).

Similarly, it's probably too late to insure delivery in time for Christmas for most regular international mail.

These suggested dates can still be met:

- Canada and Mexico—surface greeting cards (SGC), today; air parcels (AP), Dec. 14; air greeting cards (GC), Dec. 19.
- South and Central America—AP, Dec. 11; AGC, Dec. 16.
- Europe—AP, Dec. 11; AGC, Dec. 16.
- Africa—AP, Dec. 9; AGC, Dec. 14.
- Near East—AP, Dec. 9; AGC, Dec. 14.
- Far East—AP, Dec. 9; AGC, Dec. 14.

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The men of Apollo 17 streaked toward the moon today, leaving behind the cares of a cranky computer that delayed their journey for nearly three hours. They left on man's last planned 20th century lunar voyage with a liftoff lightshow which turned earth's night to noon.

"Good show, babe! Little late, but good show!" cried a relieved and elated commander Eugene A. Cernan as he and crewmates Dr. Harrison H. "Jack" Schmitt and Ronald E. Evans rocketed away from Cape Kennedy.

"We had to work at it," said Mission Control. "Glad we made it."

"Guess who else is," said a happy Jack Schmitt, a Harvard-trained geologist who became the first American scientist in space.

After the launch, the first ever in darkness, the astronauts orbited earth twice and then were propelled on a path toward the moon, where they hope to find the missing links in man's knowledge of lunar evolution.

The smooth flight was blighted by only two small, nagging, but not serious problems. An alarm system in the cabin of the spacecraft was sounding without reason whenever the astronauts threw certain switches. Cernan also reported for a time that not all the latches which lock the command module and the lunar module together had operated.

Mission Control said the alarm system problem was not serious enough to affect the mission and the uncooperative latch later took hold.

It was a more serious problem earlier, however, that delayed Apollo 17's launch. Officials on the ground said the lost time would be recovered by a speeded up voyage to lunar orbit and Monday's moon landing would occur at the originally scheduled time.

A computer which refused to acknowledge a manual signal from launch control technicians caused the Apollo 17 countdown to stop less than a half minute before the huge Saturn 5 rockets were to ignite.

Battling against time, engineers at Cape Kennedy and at the Marshall Spaceflight Center at Huntsville, Ala., quickly developed and tested a plan to outfit the confused computer.

The new system worked and Apollo 17 blasted into space at 12:33 a.m. EST, less than an hour before the ever-changing position of sun, earth and moon would have forced a 24-hour postponement.

Despite the countdown, the launch was smooth and spectacular.

While hundreds of thousands of persons watched from Cape Kennedy viewing areas, the life-size Saturn 5 rocket lifted slowly, majestically from its nest of concrete and steel, climbing into a nearly clear, black Florida sky.

For more than six minutes, the rocket's 2,200-foot tail of flame burned away the darkness and lighted the sand flats and Atlantic beaches where the awed crowds watched.

After orbiting earth for nearly three hours, the astronauts re-ignited the third stage of their Saturday 5 rocket. The powerful thrust sent them hurtling out of earth's gravity grasp.

Santa Parade 3 p.m. Today

After several attempts, Santa Claus finally made it to town today for the annual Santa Day Parade.

Beginning at 3 p.m., the parade was to leave Coronado Center for a march through the downtown area.

With various floats and individual entries, the parade participants bundled up against the cold air as people lined the streets in anticipation of the event.

and put them firmly on their way to the moon.

About an hour later, at 5:20 a.m. EST, the astronauts freed their command ship from the third-stage rocket, which is called the S4B. The spacemen turned their cone-shaped craft and linked its pointed nose with the lunar module, which still nestled in the S4B.

After securing three latches which had earlier failed to engage properly, the astronauts activated a spring system which ejected the combined command ship America and lunar module Challenger from the S4B.

"Oh, boy," said Evans happily. "Here we go. It came right out of there."

The S4B spent rocket stage was maneuvered away from the command ship and then ordered by radio signals to vent its remaining oxygen and hydrogen.

The venting sent the rocket hull speeding away, toward the moon. The S4B will crash into the lunar surface on Sunday, causing seismic waves that will excite instruments left on the moon by previous Apollo missions.

Apollo 17's destination is a valley of the moon thought to have been carved by lunar volcanoes. Cernan, the silver-haired, 38-year-old mission commander, and Schmitt, a geologist on the most important field trip of his life.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The rise in wholesale prices accelerated sharply in November, dampening the Nixon administration's hopes that inflation has been brought under control, government officials said today.

The Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics reported that the wholesale price index rose six-tenths of one per cent, both on an adjusted and unadjusted basis, last month. It was the biggest increase in wholesale prices since July and it reversed a recent trend on slower price increases at the wholesale level.

The index was pushed up by price increases of fresh vegetables, eggs and dairy products, cars and furniture, lumber, leather and some textile products. Also contributing to the rise were increases in the prices of coal, hides and skins, and natural gas.

The report means that it will be difficult for President Nixon to reach his target of slowing the rate of inflation to at least 3 per cent by the end of the year. Rises in wholesale prices are usually reflected quickly in retail prices.

In the six months that ended in November, wholesale prices went up at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 5.7 per cent. That rate has slowed somewhat in the last 3 months, mainly because the index declined slightly in October on an unadjusted basis.

The report showed that Nixon's wage-price controls have failed to bring wholesale prices down much, if at all. During the first year of the controls, the index increased at an annual rate of 5.4 per cent. The bureau said this figure compares with a 5.2 per cent rate of increase in wholesale prices in the 8 months before Nixon froze wages and prices August 15, 1971.

The bureau said price rises in industrial commodities were three-tenths of one per cent on an unadjusted basis and four-tenths of one per cent adjusted. The index of industrial commodities is considered one of the most sensitive measures of inflation in the economy.

Prices of farm products and processed foods and feeds went up 1.6 per cent. This figured to be 1.4 per cent when the bureau statistically discounted seasonal influences.

The report is expected to strengthen the demand for continuation of wage and price controls, scheduled to expire next April unless Congress votes an extension.

U.S. And Red Special Envoys Resume Secret Peace Parley

PARIS (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger and Le Duc Tho resumed their secret talks today shortly after an American spokesman said there might be "disappointments and setbacks" in the pace of final peace negotiations.

Before the private peace session resumed in the Paris suburb of Gif-sur-Yvette, the acting U.S. delegate, Heyward Isham told the semipublic peace talks that prospects for peace were brighter but added: "The negotiating process has not yet reached its final conclusion."

Nguyen Minh Vy of North Vietnam told the weekly meeting that the Saigon government's objections to the draft Kissinger and Tho worked out last month have "again pushed the negotiations into a deadlock."

Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh of the Viet Cong denied speculation in the Paris press that a peace agreement was imminent.

Kissinger and Tho maintained their usual news blackout around their negotiations.

But Isham reported progress, saying:

"Most of the major problems involved in the settlement have been resolved in a manner that reflects credit on the good will and seriousness of both sides."

Mrs. Binh was the only one of the chief delegates attending the session today, U.S. Ambassador William J. Porter was reported suffering from a cold and severe laryngitis. Xuan Thuy of North Vietnam was presumably preoccupied with the Kissinger-Tho meetings, which he also attends, and Pham-Dang Lam of South Vietnam also sent his deputy.

Truman Remains On Critical List

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman, his wife and daughter at his bedside, remained on the critical list today, but attending physicians expressed optimism about his condition.

Although his heart was weakened, spokesman at Research Hospital and Medical Center said that fluid in the former president's lungs had diminished and that "they're optimistic" about the chances of removing him from the critical list.

Dr. Wilson Miller, consulting internist, was quoted in an early morning medical bulletin as saying he is "satisfied with his cardiac situation at present."

Late Wednesday night, the hospital said the 88-year-old Truman had been in "a deep stupor." An early morning bulletin did not mention the word "stupor."

The hospital quoted Dr. Wallace Graham, Truman's personal physician, as saying it was "difficult to differentiate... between induced sedation and actual unconsciousness or coma."

Mrs. Clifton Daniel, Truman's only child, arrived at the hospital shortly after midnight and went to the former president's room on the sixth floor. Truman's wife Bess also was at his bedside.

Mrs. Daniel later told newsmen she has "great faith" her father will survive.

She said her father "is asleep... resting comfortably and breathing easily. He's a strong man, and he's gotten over worse things. He is in serious condition but he has been before."

Truman was admitted to the hospital late Tuesday. The initial diagnosis was pulmonary congestion. At that time, his condition was described as fair.

By Wednesday morning, the former President was described in serious condition, and an additional diagnosis of bronchitis had been made. A hospital spokesman said the bronchitis was complicated by mild weakening of the heart, a condition caused by arteriosclerosis or hardening of the arteries.

In Wednesday's early evening hours, John Drees, public relations director at the hospital, reported Truman's condition had been "complicated by infection which thus far has not responded adequately to antibiotics."

The hospital placed Truman on the critical list at 9:17 p.m. EST. The hospital's definition of critical includes the phrase "death may be imminent."

Jury Rules Man Sane; Re-trial Set

After a lengthy deliberation, a 31st District Court jury ruled Thomas Edwin Puryear, 31, sane and Judge Grainger McIlhenny set Jan. 8 as the starting date for a new trial for criminal assault.

Puryear's first trial was ruled a mis-trial after the question of his sanity was introduced and Judge McIlhenny called for a sanity hearing.

Puryear is accused of the rape of an Oklahoma woman he allegedly pulled from her car, took her to a deserted road and assaulted her three times.

The woman had met a sick relative at the Amarillo airport and was taking her to Oklahoma under heavy sedation. The woman and the victim's two children were left in the car.

Acting on a description broadcast, Amarillo police took Puryear into custody. Sheriff Rufe Jordan took the victim to Amarillo where she identified her assailant. He was returned to Pampa, arraigned before Judge Nat Lunsford and indicted by the grand jury within 24 hours after the alleged attack.

Nixon Names Successor To Volpe

CAMP DAVID, Md. (AP) — President Nixon today named Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe to be ambassador to Italy and selected California oil company executive Claude S. Brinegar to succeed him in the second-term Cabinet.

The announcements at the President's mountaintop retreat reduced to one—attorney general—the Cabinet post yet to be covered in Nixon's preparations for a new term.

Sources have reported that Richard Kleindienst will be retained as attorney general. Volpe, former Massachusetts governor, is a charter member of the Nixon Cabinet.

E.L. GREEN

Cabot Corp. Official Retires

Cabot Corp. today announced the retirement of E.L. Green, Jr., vice president of the Energy Group.

Green, with nearly 36 years of service, joined the company in 1936 as executive assistant. He became vice president of the Cabot Carbon Co. in 1948 and was elected to the board of directors of the parent company in 1958. In July 1960, he was elected vice president of Cabot Corp. and general manager of the Oil and Gas Division.

Since 1969, he has served as group vice president of the Energy Group and became a member of the executive committee of Cabot Corp. in 1971.

In addition to these posts, Green also served as president of Texas Butadiene and Chemical Corp., a company in which Cabot held an interest in the 1950s.

He also held offices in other Cabot affiliated companies—Texas Gas Corp., Cabot Gasoline Corp., Cabot Engineering Co., Cabot Petroleum, Ltd., Cabot Carbon of Canada, Ltd., Cabot Petroleum North Sea, Ltd., Cabot Petroleum Peru, Inc., Cabot Petroleum (Argentina), Inc., and Appalachian Exploration & Development, Inc.

Green's retirement was effective Dec. 1, 1972, and his position with Cabot Corp., has been assumed by John G.L. Cabot, whose office will be located in Boston, Mass.

Statistics Motivate Nixon To Cut White House Staff

CAMP DAVID, Md. (AP) — President Nixon's move to slash the White House staff is spurred by little-noticed statistics showing that executive-office employment has doubled in his first term.

Nixon himself acknowledged last week that the White House staff has grown rather like topsy-turvy. He promised that as he shakes up the bureaucracy and trims personnel "the biggest cuts will be made in the White House staff itself."

The President gave no figures on White House employment or on the size of the proposed cutback. Neither would White House spokesmen.

But an examination of monthly reports published by the Civil Service Commission shows that since Nixon moved into the White House in January 1969 the executive-office staff has increased from 1,748 to 3,562.

More than 1,000 of the new employees were added to the executive office rolls during a 12-month period when federal agencies faced a presidentially ordered 5-per-cent cutback.

The sharp upswing in executive-office employment also bucked the government-wide trend. When Nixon came into office, there were 2,948,393 federal civilian employees, nearly 200,000 more than now.

The columns of fine print in the monthly personnel reports include the more than 600 employees of the White House office—the aides and advisers closest to the President—as well as staffers in a variety of offices, councils, and commissions grouped under the heading "the executive office of the President."

White House officials say—and the statistics confirm—that a portion of the increase can be attributed to new functions taken on by the executive office.

These include, for example, the Cost of Living Council set up to police wage-price controls. At last report, the council had grown from 0 to 966 employees in less than a year.

Officials also cited a change in bookkeeping methods as a reason for the upswing in employment statistics. Until 1970, they said, presidents had obscured the size of their personal staffs by having salaries paid through other agencies or through the White House "special projects" fund.

Nixon ordered that all his White House employees be listed as such, one spokesman said, "in the interest of candor and accuracy."

Thus, the reported size of the elite White House office staff jumped suddenly from about 250 to about 500. At last report it had grown to 606.

Major increases occurred elsewhere in the executive offices unrelated to any change in bookkeeping methods.

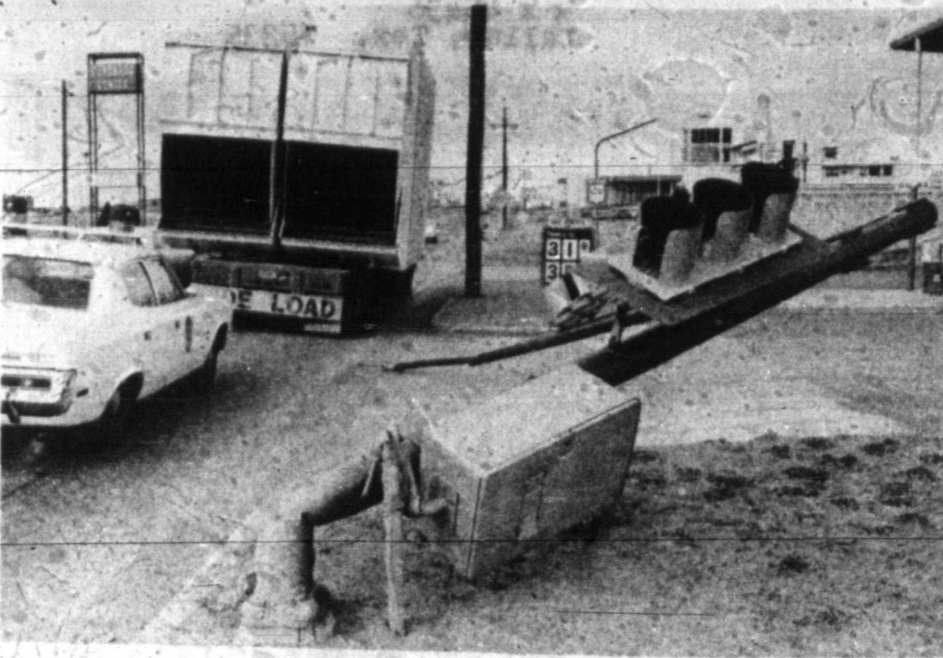

Henry Kissinger's National Security Council lists 80 employees, about double the size of the pre-Kissinger staff.

John Ehrlichman's Domestic Council staff has grown from 25 employees in late 1970 to 50 but still is smaller than other lesser known executive offices.

For example, the Office of Telecommunications Policy lists 68 employees, the Office of Science and Technology reports 79, the Council on Environmental Quality, 68, and the Council of Economic Advisers, 58.

The Office of Management and Budget, which has assumed a broader watchdog role over government spending and employment, has seen its own payroll go up from 535 early in Nixon's administration to 689 at last report.

While the President has not specified precisely where White House personnel cuts will be made, he has said they will be substantial.

TRAFFIC LIGHT DAMAGED — At 2:25 p.m. Wednesday, a truck driven by Ernest Johnson Jr., Lubbock, struck the arm of the traffic signal light at Hobart and Somerville, bending the pole to the ground. Johnson was hauling an over-sized load, a grain bin destined for Canadian, under permit and was on the properly designated route. No charges were made in the accident. The truck belonged to Leaseaway Southwest Inc., Lubbock, and the load to Triangle Mfg. Co., Slaton.

POW's Wife Pins High Hope On Talks

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (AP) — Vietnam peace talks drag on, but for the first Christmas in the nearly seven years her husband has been a prisoner of war, Louise Mulligan is willing to hope.

"You get frustrated by the talks. There's nothing you can do," said Mrs. Mulligan, wife of Cmdr. James A. Mulligan, a Navy pilot. "But now I honestly feel the war is going to end by Christmas."

Five weeks ago, when presidential aide Henry A. Kissinger announced that peace was near, Louise and some of the other 21 wives from this coastal Navy town whose husbands are prisoners or missing, reacted with skepticism.

After enduring years of frustration, disappointment, dashed hopes and rearing children alone, most dared not hope.

"Once a cease-fire is signed, I feel every effort will be made to get the prisoners home as soon as possible. There is tremendous hope among the wives now," Mrs. Mulligan said. "Some of us had just been holding back."

Now, many of the wives are preparing for their husbands' return by painting their homes. Some are buying nightgowns.

Year in and year out they have sent Christmas packages to their men. Most have been returned.

This year, Louise has her husband's present whether he celebrates Christmas at home with his family — or has to again spend it in Hanoi.

"I have one to put under the tree, and one ready to be mailed to him. I'm not taking any chances," she added.

"Something I just realized," she said. "Jim wasn't here for the first trip to the moon and now they are making their last moon exploration shot and he's still not here. He's missed the whole thing."

Mulligan's family of six sons has grown up without him. One has married. Another finishes college this month. And the commander will discover that several of his sons disapprove of the Vietnam war.

So does his wife.

Less than a month ago, Louise received a letter from her husband. "It was one I didn't show the boys," she said. "It was a love letter. Jim never allowed himself to hope before, but this time he said he'd be home for Christmas."

Butz To Remain In Nixon Cabinet

By DON KENDALL, AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon had just re-enlisted Earl L. Butz as secretary of agriculture Wednesday and the quick-tongued farm boss was asked about it.

"He didn't say for how long, did he?" Butz remarked to newsmen. "It may be only 'til he can get a successor. I don't know."

It was taken as a jest, typical of the man, and there were chuckles. But it was only another Butzism?

Some people, including a few of his associates, think Butz may be tempted to quit by his own accord in the near future while he is still 'way ahead in terms of farm popularity.

But a few minutes later, warming to his subject, Butz said he was very flattered and proud to continue on the Nixon team.

"After 12 months, I'm just getting comfortable in this job," he said.

Over the long haul, his job in the second Nixon term is fairly well-defined: new farm legislation, implementation of new rural-development programs, and the nuts-and-bolts of spending an $11-billion annual budget.

But the immediate future is cloudy. What does Nixon mean when he says the Agriculture Department will undergo a major shakeup at the White House announced Wednesday? Butz reported to comment about specific plans for overhauling the century-old department. There will be changes, he said, including personnel reductions and switches as well as organizational face-lifts.

Butz was chosen to succeed Clifford M. Hardin a year ago, as his work on the campaign trail later proved, to help reelect Nixon.

Little Harvester Staff Attending THSPA Meet

A group of 16 Pampa High School publications students and three sponsors left this morning to attend the Texas High School Press Association convention this weekend.

Attending the sessions at Texas Woman's University in Denton, the students will study various aspects of the publications field during workshop and general sessions.

Carolyn Hom, editor of the Little Harvester newspaper, is currently serving as state secretary for THSPA.

Other Little Harvester staff members attending the convention are Jimmie Dacus, Mona Williams and Christine Ramirez.

Advertising students attending include Lakan Mariano, Tanga Paronto and Cassandra Sweet.

Attending from the Harvester yearbook staff are Marcie Holcomb, Lea Lunsford, Rip Thomas, Tonya Lewis, Susan Morrison, Wendy Brown, Jim Buckley and Mike Hood.

Representing the Prairie Gold student magazine are Shelley Cogdell, Nancy Dingus, Cindy Gill, Janet Moring, Nancy Palmer and Becky Thompson.

Accompanying the students are Miss Elizabeth Hurley, publications advisor; Mrs. Bette Truly, Prairie Gold advisor, and Bill Haynes, teacher.

Keynote speaker for the opening session will be Richard Johns, executive director of Quill and Scroll international honor society, from the University of Iowa.

Sessions will be held on yearbook techniques, newspaper content, sports writing, editorials, photography, advertising and literary magazines.

Rodeo Contract Signed

The Executive Board of the Top O' Texas Rodeo Association, headed by Bill McIntire, president, met last night Sonny Linger and signed a contract for the 1973 Top O' Texas Rodeo to be produced by Cramer and Linger of Cohagen, Mont.

Linger and Cramer are pioneers in the rodeo production business. Linger has served 18 years as arena director for Butler Brothers of Elk City, Oklahoma. No stranger in this part of the country, he had charge of the Butler Bros. string of stock for many Top O' Texas Rodeos here in years past.

The new producers will bring a complete rodeo package to the Top O' Texas, including all stock, labor, announcers, specialty acts, etc.

Intensive planning has already started on the 1973 Rodeo and, according to Bill McIntire, president, the association is looking forward to a great 1973 show.

NASA Chief Relates Apollo Missions' Achievements, Future Space Flight Plans

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The head of America's space program says if Americans are to return to the moon or go to Mars in this century, it will have to be a cooperative mission with the Soviet Union and perhaps other countries.

Dr. James C. Fletcher, NASA administrator, said the planned U.S.-Russian joint space flight in 1975 could be a giant step toward international cooperation in major space projects that are too costly for one nation to tackle.

For the next decade at least, he said, the United States will concentrate its manned space effort on earth-orbital flights with programs like the Skylab space laboratory and the shuttle, a reusable rocket plane.

As the final Apollo mission, No. 17, was being prepared for launching to the moon on Wednesday, Fletcher in an interview assessed the program and looked to the future. Here are some of his observations:

Q. Assess the Apollo program in terms of what it meant to the United States.

A. Scientifically, it has allowed us to start obtaining a clear picture of what the moon is like, how it functions, its dynamics, how it has evolved and its relationship to the sun and our earth. In the long run, after all the Apollo data has been evaluated over the next several years, it may help us understand how our planet evolved from an uninhabited place to the place we now call home.

And Apollo allowed us to see our earth as it really is. The television pictures and photographs made of earth from the moon made us realize that the earth is a very small planet in the universe. It made a lot of people start talking about ecology and the need to preserve this fragile planet, protected from the harshness of space only by an atmosphere of gases.

At the end of the last decade,

Nurse's Aide Training Takes Applications

A nurse's aide training course will be given at Highland General Hospital for interested persons.

The training for the 40-hour course will consist of basic nursing skills. Cost is $15.

Classes will be conducted from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday, with starting date dependent upon the number of persons signing up for the course.

Those successfully completing the training will be considered for employment at the hospital.

Persons interested in taking the course may contact the nursing office at Highland.

when Apollo 11 occurred and man first set foot on the moon, it gave Americans renewed confidence in themselves. They knew their country could really put together a complex program and do what it says it will do within the price it said it would cost. It's hard to put a tangible value on that because it's an attitude and an emotional feeling. But what makes a country great or not so great depends a lot on whether its people have pride in its achievements.

Q. Was Apollo worth the $25 billion it cost?

A. Oh, I don't think there's any question about that. You can get mundane about it and just figure the return on your investment. Economists have calculated from a technological standpoint this nation will realize at least $150 billion from Apollo over the next 15 to 20 years. We've already got some out of it from the technology that is flowing into many, many fields.

Through the years it has been technology which has made this country grow, from the cotton gin to the telegraph to the airplane. That's a cold, analytical type of thing. But you can also measure the worth of Apollo in terms of self-confidence and pride in the country, which you can't measure in dollars.

Q. The large Skylab station is to be launched next April and will be visited by three three-man crews for periods up to 56 days. How will they be helping to solve down-to-earth problems?

A. Skylab is going to be the United States' first space laboratory. There are going to be 87 experiments on board that are going to keep the astronauts very busy. They'll operate a telescope for astronomy. They'll evaluate, sensing devices for locating and monitoring earth's resources, such things as minerals, oil and the condition of various crops. There are some experiments with materials in a gravity-free environment which could develop space manufacturing techniques. There are experiments in separating biological materials, viruses, which could have a medical impact. More than anything else we'll learn how to live and work in space.

Q. After Skylab there will be a lull of more than a year until the U.S.-Russian flight in July, 1975.

What is the significance of that mission?

A. It's a step toward long-term cooperation with the Soviets, which in my judgment is the only way we're going to take large future steps in space, like establishing a base on the moon or going to Mars. Those are costly undertakings and if we're going to do them in this century, we have to do them together, and perhaps with other nations contributing also. This joint flight is to see if we can do something like that together.

Q. If nothing else, we hope to establish by using a common docking mechanism that a space rescue mission can be mounted by either nation.

And when you have human beings, astronauts and cosmonauts, in space, transferring between an American and a Russian spacecraft, you can't ignore the symbolic aspect. It could introduce a new era of easing tensions between the Communist and non-Communist world. It's almost as important symbolically as the first landing on the moon.

Q. First orbital flights of the space shuttle are planned from Cape Kennedy in 1978. What is the importance of this reusable vehicle?

A. The shuttle will open up a whole new ball game in space. Because it is reusable and will return to earth like an airliner, it will greatly reduce the cost of operating in space. We know that just from assessing the programs we know we'll be dealing with in the 1980s. Those are the military programs, commercial satellite programs such as communications and weather and more sophisticated scientific payloads.

The shuttle can take these payloads up and drop them off in orbit. If something goes wrong with a satellite, a shuttle crew can fly up and repair it or bring it home for repair. In that way the cost of the payload is reduced considerably because you know if it goes bad, you can fix it, and you don't have to conduct such an intensive testing program or pack it with expensive, redundant equipment.

The shuttle has a large bay that can accommodate 65,000 pounds of payload. It can carry two pilots and 12 passengers. You can send ordinary people up with minimum training. You can send them up by the dozens—doctors, researchers, scientists, astronomers, engineers. When we develop a space station, the shuttle will be the ferry boat from earth. It's a brand new way of doing things in space.

Q. The estimated cost of developing the shuttle is $5.15 billion. Will the shuttle pay for itself?

A. Definitely. The shuttle will pay for itself with just the routine missions we know we're going to have to do. But the real payoff will be in the fringe benefits, and the extent of these we can't even foresee right now.

Commercial organizations will want to participate. We'll have the whole world using this because the cost of going into space will be inexpensive. Only two countries can now put men in space, but every nation will be capable of sending men into space on the shuttle.

The shuttle I expect will be to space operation what the DC3 was to airline passenger operations. Passenger operations never really got going until there was a reliable inexpensive way to get back and forth. We're still using DC3s after more than 30 years. My guess is the shuttle will be the same way.

Q. What is the current status of European participation in the shuttle?

A. The Europeans, the Council of Ministers, have decided to go ahead with Phase B of the sortie laboratory design. It's still in the paper and pencil stage, but they've committed $7½ million leading to a design freeze next fall. And a probable commitment to proceed before that to Phases C and D. Who is going to pay for these later phases has to be worked out. But at least it seems that West Germany, Spain, Belgium and Italy will be involved. They will build the sortie lab.

Q. Describe the sortie laboratory.

A. It is a flying laboratory that can accommodate several researchers in orbit for 10 days to a month. The shuttle will take it up and bring it back to earth for refurbishment. Maybe there will be two or three sorties, with one in space, a second being readied for launch and perhaps a third being refurbished. This is a very important way in which other countries can get involved in manned space experiments.

Q. Will the shuttle be a stepping stone for flights to the planets and to establish moon bases?

A. Yes, I think the shuttle will be the main workhorse for everything we do in space for the rest of this century. Before going beyond earth orbit again, we'll have to learn to assemble things like launch platforms and spaceships in orbit. I think that's one of the early type experiments that we'll do with the shuttle.

Here's one way we can compare the costs of the shuttle with the present Apollo-Saturn 5 rocket. Four shuttle flights can deliver into space more payload than the Saturn 5 can. A Saturn 5 costs around $200 million. Each of the shuttle flights will cost about $10 million each, a total of $40 million. There is no way you can convince anybody to build another Saturn 5 when you have this kind of capability.

Q. When are we likely to establish a moon base or send men to Mars?

A. I think not before the end of this century if we do it ourselves. If we share the costs with the Soviets or others, it might be earlier. Predicting more than 10 years ahead is difficult. But we'll be prepared for any eventuality. We'll lay the plans for lunar bases in case that's the way we go. That would be easier than a Mars mission. But Mars is a doable mission if the country, or countries, want to do that. Much will depend on what our unmanned Viking finds when it lands on Mars in 1976, and on what Russia's unmanned landers find, too.

America's first fog-warning device was included in the construction in 1808 of West Quoddy Light, the most northern lighthouse along the rockbound coast of Maine. Sixty dollars were added to the lighthouse keeper's $300 yearly pay for beating a 500-pound bell with a hammer on frequent foggy days.

Why Baby-Shaped Kimbie's diapers fit this baby so well.

And why they'll fit your baby, too.

Exclusive shape
Most diapers are shaped like Kimbie's diapers are shaped like your baby.

Soft center folds
The folds give Kimbie's their exclusive shape. In addition, they help tailor the bulk. So Kimbie's fit smoother without bunching and drooping.

Leg hugging fit
Kimbie's exclusive center folds hug baby's legs. The diaper fits snugly, with less chance for accidents.

Adhesive safety tapes
They make Kimbie's exclusive shape really work. You get a safe, snug fit everytime—around the waist, and around the legs.

Cottony fluff filler
More absorbent than cloth. And so soft Kimbie's unique shape can really snuggle up to a baby.

Choice of sizes
There's a Baby-Shaped Kimbie's diaper to fit the shape your baby is in—from teeny, tiny newborn to active toddler.

Homemade cookies bring a feeling of the old-fashioned holiday spirit into the commercial atmosphere that threatens to overwhelm young and old. Since tradition is important during the holidays, there is a personal reward in knowing that there was no shortcut to the bakery for cookies and cakes.

Whatever their origins, Christmas cookies are here to stay. Children, especially, enjoy character cookies with frosting and sparkles. Animal characters cut from paper plates (Funny Friends) may be used as patterns for shaped molasses cookies, decorated with sparkles and strung on a tree or used as table place settings.

CANDY CANE COOKIES

- 1 cup vegetable shortening
- 1 cup confectioners' sugar
- 1 egg
- 1 teaspoon pure vanilla or anise extract
- Grated rind of 1 lemon
- 2 1/2 cups unsifted all-purpose flour
- 1 egg yolk
- 1/4 teaspoon water
- Red food coloring

Patterns from kiddies paper plates help create Christmas cookies.

- 1 egg
- Juice and rind of 1 lemon
- 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
- 1 teaspoon each cinnamon, cloves, nutmeg and allspice

- 1 package (4 ounces) chopped candied lemon peel
- 3 to 4 cups unsifted all-purpose flour
- Canned vanilla frosting, cut-out pictures from funny friends plates and bowls

Bring honey to boil in large saucepan. Remove from heat; stir in sugar, egg, lemon rind and juice, baking soda, spices, lemon peel and flour. Stir until smooth and well blended. Chill for two hours. Turn out dough on a heavily floured board and roll with a floured rolling pin to 1/4 inch thickness. Cut dough with a sharp knife into 3-inch squares. Place on greased cookie sheet. Bake in a 400-degree oven 10 to 12 minutes or until lightly browned. Makes 20 cookies. These cookies are very hard and soften when stored for a few weeks in an air-tight container. When ready to serve, spread cookie with frosting and then press desired animal cut-out into frosting. Wrap each in clear wrap to give as gifts.

ANIMAL COOKIES

- 1/2 cup butter or margarine
- 1/2 cup molasses
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 2 eggs
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 3 to 4 cups unsifted all-purpose flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon baking soda

Mash butter until soft and fluffy. Stir in molasses, sugar, eggs and vanilla. Stir in flour until stiff dough is formed. Stir in salt and baking soda. Chill dough for 2 hours. Turn out dough on heavily floured surface; roll with floured rolling pin into 1/4 inch thickness. Cut out animals from funny friends paper plates. Place animal cut-outs on dough and outline shapes with tip of sharp knife. Using a pancake turner, lift cookies onto greased cookie sheet. With toothpick mark mouths and eyes in animals and mane on lion. Remove paper cutouts. Bake cookies in preheated 400-degree oven for 6 to 8 minutes or until lightly browned. Cool on rack and store in air-tight container.

PICTURE CARD COOKIES

- 1 cup honey
- 3/4 cup firmly packed brown sugar

Dress a fresh spinach salad with garlic-flavored French dressing and garnish with crumbled crispy cooked-bacon-and-sliced-hard-cooked egg.

Garnish green cabbage slaw with fresh orange sections. Looks pretty and tastes good!

Drummer Boy Spread

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

The holidays are really the "big cheese" for those who enjoy giving and receiving presents. Why not, then, make it a time of enjoying a very special cheese and liverwurst spread concoction that all ages will enjoy.

DRUMMER BOY SPREAD

- 2 4 1/2 ounce cans liverwurst spread
- 2 8 ounce packages cream cheese, softened
- 4 ounces camembert cheese
- 2 tablespoons crumbled blue cheese
- 1 teaspoon lime juice
- 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1/2 cup chopped pecans

Reserving four ounces of cream cheese for decoration, combine remaining ingredients except pecans. On waxed paper, shape cheese mixture into a cylinder resembling a drum. Once chilled, smooth edges and top of drum with a knife. Roll curved edges of drum in nuts. Place on serving dish and then decorate with remaining cream cheese. Serve with your favorite crackers. Makes about 3 1/2 cups spread.

Hard-cooked eggs may be added to the liquid leftover from pickled beets. Let the eggs stand in the beet liquid for a couple of days in the refrigerator, then serve these pickled eggs.

Decorative and tasty Drummer Boy Spread combines cheese/liverwurst.

Variety Casserole

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

A casserole that fits holidays always is welcome. One with a variety of flavors that meld well contains deviled ham, onion, tomatoes and cheese.

BUBBLY CASSEROLE

- 8 slices bread
- 2 4 1/2 ounce cans deviled ham
- 1/2 medium onion, sliced in thin rings
- 2 tomatoes, sliced
- 4 slices American cheese
- 2 eggs
- 2 cups milk
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- dash pepper

Line greased 8-inch square baking dish with four slices of bread. Spread bread generously with deviled ham. Arrange layer of onion rings and tomato slices over ham. Top with cheese slices and remaining bread. Beat eggs, combine with milk, salt and pepper. Pour over bread. Let stand 20 to 30 minutes. Bake at 350 degrees for 50 to 60 minutes until golden brown and puffy. Makes 4 servings.

SECOND-TIME AROUND

Leftover roast beef can be spruced up for second-day service by heating in a wine sauce. For Second-Day Beef Burgundy slice cooked roast and cut in strips. Stir into hot gravy to which burgundy has been added to taste. Add sliced fresh mushrooms, cover and cook slowly until heated through. Serve over cooked noodles or rice.

Mix shortening, sugar, egg and vanilla. Stir in lemon rind and flour until well blended. Turn out dough on floured surface and knead a few times until a smooth ball. Cut dough into 48 pieces. Roll out each piece with the fingers into a rope 6 inches long. Place ropes on greased cookie sheet and curve one end into shape of cane. Bake in preheated 375-degree oven for 9 to 10 minutes or until firm to the touch, but not brown. Cool on rack. Beat egg yolks and water until smooth. Stir in enough red food coloring to make a bright red. With a new, clean small paint brush paint egg yolk mixture in stripes on canes. Let dry at room temperature. Makes 48 canes.

Dress a fresh spinach salad with garlic-flavored French dressing and garnish with crumbled crispy cooked-bacon-and-sliced-hard-cooked egg.

Garnish green cabbage slaw with fresh orange sections. Looks pretty and tastes good!

Don't fret, Four-Eyes, seldom is often enough
By Abigail Van Buren

(c 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I read with interest your letter about the high school girl (signed "Miss Four Eyes") who was upset because she had to wear glasses.

I am enclosing a clipping I have had around for some time. It might interest you and Miss Four Eyes. It is a reported PTA meeting, written by Mrs. H. G. F., occupation, housewife.

"Last night there were fifty-six mothers present at the PTA meeting. Only two were absent. I noticed that fifty-three mothers were wearing glasses. The school enrollment is 118 children, giving each mother two and a fraction kids, and more 'fractions' were visible from where I sat.

"I concluded that if the poem, 'Men seldom make passes at girls who wear glasses,' is accurate, then seldom is often enough."

UTAH EYE DOCTOR

DEAR DOCTOR: Thanks for a real day-brightener.

DEAR ABBY: While shopping recently in one of the better department stores, I was horrified when I heard the bloodcurdling screams of a hysterical child. I then saw a terrified youngster about 4 years old being held down by her mother while another woman was piercing the child's ears!

I learned that this is a new service the store offers when one purchases a pair of earrings for pierced ears.

Altho I understand it is done by a nurse, I think it is very rude and inconsiderate to impose the sight and sound of this barbaric procedure on other shoppers.

I'd like to know what you think of such a promotion to sell earrings.

NORTH HOLLYWOOD

DEAR NORTH: I think that to subject a small child to such an ordeal is cruel. And to subject shoppers to the "sight and sound" of it is poor business.

DEAR ABBY: I can't forget "Happy in Olympia," the 27-year-old wife and mother who was perfectly happy just being a wife and mother and wanted nothing else from life. I say this is great for her, and probably will be for the next 10 years. But what happens when her children are grown, and want to live their own lives? I have seen too many of my age group (I am 20) struggling with the demands of mothers who cling to them because they have had nothing rewarding or fulfilling in their lives, apart from children.

My mother has been active in her own career for as long as I can remember, but our house has always been immaculate and I have had all the attention I wanted from her. In fact, I keep no secrets from my mother, and I have a better relationship with her than my friends whose mothers made raising their children their only concern.

I suggest that instead of watching talk shows all day, "Happy in Olympia" start learning to do something else, so that when her children grow up and leave her—as they surely will—she won't suddenly feel useless and lost, which is the sorry lot of too many middle-aged women today.

THINKING AHEAD

DEAR THINKING: You're thinking all right. Motherhood is a noble career, but it rarely lasts over 25 years. Then what?

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

FRIDAY, DEC. 8
Your birthday today: Self-disciplined but determined, forward-looking enterprise characterizes your life this year. Few obstacles remain untested. Today's natives are capable of involving themselves wholeheartedly in dramatic causes.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Those around you seem unwilling to go beyond what they already know.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Abrupt moves provoke their own limitation, endless rounds of discussions where joint resources are concerned.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): It is better to settle for what you can get now than to fritter options away in bickering, looking toward visionary future gains.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Imaginative ideas find few, if any, takers today. Strong feelings build into symptoms which require checking.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Those you care about are in various difficult moods, or express wishes that are beyond your ability to fill. Patience!

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Charity begins at home—consider your needs first, work hard to compensate them instead of squabbling with neighbors.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Courtesy and prudence do much to alleviate stress. Making decisions on other people's affairs is particularly sensitive—don't.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Expect higher costs, larger quantities of anything than planned. Financial opportunities are all tied to long waiting periods.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): If it is worth while doing, it will have hindrances for you to cope with. Once you have gone forward, others will join in.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Have the judgment to leave the insoluble stand a while longer, work on what is feasible. Older people attract special complications.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): A vexing failure of communication and cooperation is likely if you become impatient or aggressive. Bear with it all.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Too many cooks do not necessarily have to spoil the broth. Be cautious about your contribution to family welfare today.

Health, Beauty Cruise May Cure What Ails You

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

For some people the transition from ugly duckling to beautiful swan may be merely a matter of going beyond the three-mile limit.

Imagine, if you will, hairdressers, makeup artists, a masseuse, skin specialist, an etiquette counselor and an obesity expert as captive performers on a ship at sea. For 12 days? It's enough to jiggle one's false teeth.

For more than a thousand people who are expected to embark on a beauty and health cruise to the Caribbean this fall, the idea will become a reality. Presumably, at docking time, all will be a bit handsomer, healthier, happier and wiser. With all those hours to wile away in togetherness with beauty and health experts, can the bloom fail to rub off.

Beauty treatments — facials, makeup, hair dye — will be dished out in the French manner with Madeleine Bretilard, head of the Paris Lancome Beauty Institute and three of her assistants, heading up the beauty seminar on the SS France when it leaves port. Massage will be the authentic Parisian one with ozone machines "that penetrate the first layer of the skin" opening pores for a mask treatment as they do in French salons. And there will be the latest in European hair fashions and hair dyeing techniques by the Technical Director of L'Oréal, James Viera.

In their quest for charm and elegance, passengers are slated to get the latest word from etiquette expert, Amy Vanderbilt, and there should be some new routines in exercises by Elaine LaLanne, who works with her physical fitness husband, Jack LaLanne, of television fame.

But two doctors are expected to get a real workout. One, well-known dermatologist, Michael Kalman of New York, will give advice about skin, and Neil Solomon, Secretary of Health and Mental Hygiene for the State of Maryland, will advise on losing weight.

In a conversation the other day, Dr. Solomon revealed that he was anticipating the crush of enthusiastic passengers. The youthful Solomon's popularity has been furthered by publication of a best seller, "The Truth About Weight Control." His medical research has centered about endocrinology, metabolism and weight control.

"I expect to tell passengers how they can take off from 5 to 15 pounds using the most recent medical discoveries. There will be no gimmicks. They'll get real facts about weight control that they can incorporate into everyday eating and exercise."

And dieting shouldn't spoil the trip for anyone, he explains. Even the ship's gourmet cuisine — crepes suzettes or whatever — may be relished when he "tells them how to do it."

"As people grow older they lose one per cent of active metabolizing cells each year. Physical activity must be increased or food must be decreased to keep weight the same."

Metabolism changes also occur when one gives up cigarettes.

"Weight is gained because fewer calories are burned up when they stop smoking. After smoking is stopped, food must be decreased or exercise increased by 10 per cent to keep

Our old friend Z, the man who used to play all the auction bridge hands in the papers, is back at the club again after a long illness. He still doesn't know much about scientific bidding but his dummy play is the best.

He ruffed the heart lead; looked at dummy for a second and remarked, "I played this same hand in Milton Work's auction column back in 1927. If trumps break 2-2 I have a perfect safety play to make my contract."

He did play two rounds of trumps. Both opponents followed and he spread his hand.

"How do you play it?" asked West.

"Quickly and easily," was the reply.

weight normal. And it must be done for about three months."

That research study was conducted by Temple University, he explains.

He is particularly anxious to catch up with dieters with the "Yo-Yo syndrome." Even though they are likely to diet avidly, their weight goes up and down, "like a yo-yo" he comments, and they are likely to become very discouraged. This condition may be caused by "abnormal fat in the system" that does not allow them to burn up the calories that should be burned up, even though they diet.

Dr. Solomon has a test diet and if they don't lose weight after being on it for a week, they fall into the yo-yo pattern. He will then give them 13 pointers to help "get the fat off their bodies." Once it is off, it should not be regained if they eat normally.

He cashed his ace of clubs and ace of diamonds; led a diamond to dummy's king; played dummy's queen of hearts and discarded his last diamond.

West was on lead and had to either give Z a ruff and discard or lead a club with equally fatal results.

"It worked this time," said West, "but only because I held just two diamonds."

"Nonsense," said Z. "If you had another diamond or both other diamonds you would have set up a diamond trick in dummy for me if you led the suit."

Half And Half?

In the half-century since they won the right to vote—and the concomitant right to run for office—women have never taken more than a handful in the U.S. Congress.

With the defeat of Maine's Margaret Chase Smith, there will in fact not be one woman senator when the 93rd Congress convenes in January.

Yet within six congressional and three presidential elections from now—just 12 years—women will hold half the 435 seats in the House of Representatives and a third of the 100 seats in the Senate.

Or such is the confident prediction of Helen Delich Bentley, chairman of the Federal Maritime Commission and one of the ranking female officials in the Nixon administration. She bases her prediction on trends she sees among under-30 voters today.

A former newspaper reporter herself, Mrs. Bentley told a meeting of women journalists at the University of Minnesota that the role of women in the federal government has expanded greatly in recent years.

For example, no less than 119 women have been appointed to top-management positions. These include:

A member of the Council of Economic Advisers; a member of the Atomic Energy Commission; the chairman of the Tariff Commission; the chairman of the National Endowment for the Arts; a staff assistant to the President; five generals and one admiral; a judge on the U.S. Tax Court; the Treasurer of the United States; the director of the U.S. Mint, and, of course, Mrs. Bentley as head of the Maritime Commission.

In addition, she says, in the past 15 months, 1,200 women have been appointed to middle-management government jobs in Washington.

These, however, are appointments. The goal of some 250 elected women representatives and senators in the 99th Congress in 1985 remains an extremely ambitious one. But if the goal is not achieved, it may be due in part to something else Mrs. Bentley touched upon.

In her experience, she has found that men, especially young men, have more faith in the abilities of women than do the women themselves.

Even Pity Can Be Wrong

Humanitarianism is a false religion. It is a way of causing a man to suppose that he has made a wise decision merely because he has made an emotional decision. While compassion itself is not bad, it does not make everything associated with it good.

By the way of analogy, let us take the case of the compassionate baseball umpire. The young fellow coming up to bat had a pitiful background. He had been a poor boy and had to fight his way to the professional ranks. After he got there and was on the threshold of a brilliant career, he broke his leg. Now he was at the plate in a comeback for a role that had never really gotten started. A crack of the bat sent the ball into deep short. The infielder raced back and put his glove on it. The batter got a good start toward first, but the pain hit in the last few steps. The throw beat him to first by a split inch. The umpire knew the lad was out, but, in the compassion of the moment, he called him safe. There were a few handclaps among the sympathetic spectators in the stands, but mostly the crowd was silent. They knew a wrong had been committed. It spoiled the game.

Real life is not a ball game, but it is a contest. The rules are just as precise, perhaps more so, than any sport event. You can surround a wrong with enough humanitarianism to float a battleship, but it's just so much salty water on an India ink; it doesn't dissolve a thing.

Many prominent persons like to be humanitarian, especially with other people's money, because it gives them a feeling they are doing more good than they have done wrong and thus, by their own noble goodwill, have expiated their misdeeds. Thus humanitarianism is a man-made justification, which is a way of saying that it is a type of religion.

Population Explosion Is Hogwash

By MARILYN MANION

A few years ago, a friend of mine, expecting her fifth child, was accosted at a cocktail party by some rabid ecologists who told her she was irresponsibly aggravating the population explosion. Never mind, said they, that she and her husband could afford to feed, clothe and educate a large family. Their point: that anything beyond "zero population growth" endangers our food supply, overcrowds our cities, and even upsets the balance of nature, affecting the quality of the air we breathe.

Aside from the fact that these particular population fanatics were being extraordinarily nosy and impolite, their remarks are hogwash. Dr. R. J. Rushdoony, who spoke over the Manion Forum radio program not long ago, can prove all of the above cited arguments—and a few more as well—to be patently false. Dr. Rushdoony is a world-renowned Christian scholar and writer, and an ordained Presbyterian minister. He is an author, pastor and former missionary. Here is how he explodes the "overpopulation" myth.

"Over-population is an imbalance between the number of people existing and the food supply. Today, with over 200 million Americans, we not only have enough food, we are shipping it abroad.

"The reason for the agitation for limited population is very simple. If you persuade people that a problem exists, which points to only one kind of answer, then you have guaranteed a certain conclusion. According to this myth, we are overpopulated to the point that, to prevent catastrophe, there must be state control of population, of birth, if you persuade people that there is overpopulation, then they're going to believe we must have compulsory birth control, abortion, and various limitations on the right of man to reproduce himself.

"The people who desire control by the state find it to their advantage to persuade many people, who otherwise would not be persuaded, of the necessity of state controls over man. We have reached a point where, because of this idea of overpopulation, we're going to have such controls. This means the end of a free market economy and a free society, both of which are built-in guarantees against overpopulation, an imbalance between food and people. The countries today that have an overpopulation problem—that is, an imbalance between food and people—are all the Marxist countries, the Communist nations.

"Ramine and hunger were chronic in European history for some time prior to the beginning of the last century. But with the development of the free market economy, famine suddenly disappeared from Western Europe, with the sole exception of the Irish potato famine. The free market stimulates productivity.

"Whenever a state destroys the free market, ultimately it destroys itself. The Soviet empire and Red China are not able to feed themselves; they just import grain. In the old Russia, the Ukraine was the breadbasket of Europe. Today they cannot feed themselves. Two out of every six people in the Soviet empire are fed with American grain. Add to that Australian and Canadian grain, and you have a picture of their collapse as far as being able to feed themselves is concerned."

A habit of labor in the people is as essential to the health and vigor of their minds and bodies as it is conducive to the welfare of the state.—Alexander Hamilton, first secretary of the U.S. Treasury.

World Of Walt Disney Will Live From Now On

By PAUL HARVEY
Disney World, Orlando, Fla., had to be completed without his personal supervision yet he is everywhere there. Walt Disney is.

What keeps the Magic Kingdom magic? The elongated shadow of one uncommon man—and the TLC of another.

Walt Disney had a sense of balance between fantasy and reality that was and is spellbinding.

But it would have died with him except for that one other person.

Angel and I had only two hours following a speaking engagement in Orlando to visit Disney World. We had time to stroll Main Street and to attend four performances: The Country Bear Jamboree—lifelike likenesses of bears performing country music; The Haunted Mansion where modern electronic magic creates real see-through ghosts; The Hall of Presidents where all American Presidents appear lifelike on one stage—moving, talking. And a boat ride through what's called

H. L. Hunt Writes

MARTIN DIES

The recent death of Martin Dies, former Congressman from Texas, brings to mind the valuable work he did during the World II era when he exposed first Nazi infiltration in this country and then the communist menace. Nazis and communists were bedfellows after the Hitler-Stalin pact of 1939, as Dies pointed out, and both ideologies were bad for the United States. Congressman Dies, a forceful and eloquent speaker, headed the House Committee on Un-American Activities for a number of years. It became known as the Dies Committee. As such, it drew the fire of the radical-liberal element of this country when it went after the communists. President Roosevelt denounced it. Mr. Dies ran into the same problems that Sen. Joe McCarthy would encounter later.

Regardless of criticism, the Dies Committee did a professional job of exposing communists and Nazis who sought to undermine our economy, our war effort and later our system of government. Communist agents and sympathizers who had wormed their way into government jobs were identified by Mr. Dies and his group. His was a job well done.

The people and the government of Republic USA need a watchdog now to investigate and expose the communist menace. It is as deadly now as it was in the days of the Dies Committee. Suspected agents and fellow-travelers would refuse to testify now before a watchdog committee but their records could be exposed before the public. It would be a good thing once again to mirror the efforts of our enemies.

Congressman Dies and his colleagues were maligned in many quarters. It seems a good bet that history will record that they did a great service for their nation.

It's A Small World where thousands of dolls wear the costumes of many nations yet sing in harmony.

Angel and I were as wide-eyed as children; perhaps everyone is a child in the Magic Kingdom including the performers and employees who are transported back and forth underground to where they belong so that none ever appears out of costume or out of context.

And when they do appear wherever—as tour guides in the park or bellmen in the hotel—they reflect and enhance the joy, the enthusiasm, the fun of this fantasyland.

Each and his or her superior is known and addressed by his or her first name. It's these heirs to his earthly estate who keep Walt Disney alive: the immaculate, groomed and pleasant proprietors of the exhibits, the technicians who tend the animations, the painters and tailors who work all night every night so that next morning every scratch or smudge is erased and every costume is new.

Each of these is that one person who perpetuates the happy unreality of the Magic Kingdom. And the switchboard operator with a smile in her voice.

And now we come to the Hall of Presidents.

After a wide-screen synopsis of our history and our heritage you meet these lifelike likenesses of each of our Presidents. They move and talk so naturally, so "comfortably," that they are there. From George Washington through Richard Nixon, history strides that stage until they are all there with you.

Including those least remembered but no less pertinent: Millard Fillmore and Franklin Pierce, William Harrison and Chester Arthur.

Each man on that stage—as each employee in that park—must at times have felt insignificant.

Yet take any one away, then another one, then remove another one and soon you have an empty stage.

Disney's World is upheld one by one by one.

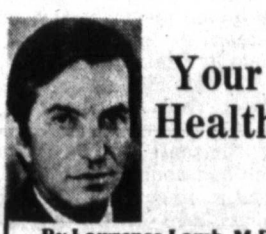

The King is dead; long live the Kingdom!

Middle age is when your memory is shorter, your experience longer, your stamina lower, and your forehead higher.

Speakers, like sunsets, are more brilliant when they get down to earth.

If a man tells a woman she's beautiful, she'll overlook most of his other lies.

He who will not learn but from himself has a fool for a teacher.

Breakfast Problems In This Household

Dear Dr. Lamb—Breakfast at our house is quite a problem. All health books say to eat a good, nourishing breakfast. None of us care for breakfast food, not prepared or the cooked variety. It is said that proteins are necessary, still what protein is not high in cholesterol? Eggs are limited, liver is high in cholesterol, so are sausages and bacon and ham. Bread is fattening. Really, what do you feel is a good breakfast that is low in fat and carbohydrates, cholesterol and not too many calories? We also have a weight problem and would truly welcome any advice. This is the one meal when we are hungry and do not know what the proper things are to eat. Thank you for your help. We always read your article in the morning. We use a lot of skim milk, cottage cheese and powdered skim milk.

Dear Reader—I get lots of letters asking about breakfast, so you are not alone. Of course, the hot cereals are fine, such as oatmeal. There are a number of other hot cereals that some people like and these do contain a certain amount of protein, particularly if they come from wheat or oats. The protein in whole wheat products contains important essential amino acids. Unless a person has a medical problem that prevents their use, I think one should try to get some protein from cereal, and breakfast is a good place to do this.

Fortified skim milk is an excellent source of protein, so are egg whites, which contain no cholesterol or fat.

It is not true that sausage, bacon and ham are high in cholesterol. Sausage and bacon are very high in fat, but they are not high-cholesterol foods. Lean ham used in moderation is satisfactory for breakfast. So is lean round steak and lean beef. So you could use whites of eggs and ham periodically without increasing your fat or cholesterol intake excessively. You could have prepared cereals (which I understand you don't like) or home-cooked cereals, which includes oatmeal, home-cooked wheat products and rice. Rice is not rich in protein, however.

Some people enjoy fish, which is an excellent source of protein, for breakfast and most of the lean fishes are relatively low in fat. This does not include herring, sardines and some of the fatty salmon. Canned pink salmon is lower in fat than some other types of salmon and it can be used to make salmon patties, which some individuals like for breakfast, too. You can also use dried beef and make creamed beef on toast, if you like that, or you can use chicken. Some people like creamed chicken on toast even for breakfast.

Inside Washington

Soviet-China Cold War
Just Short of Shooting

By ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON — Although little known to the U.S. public at large, venomous strife just short of armed conflict is raging ferociously between Russia and Red China.

The two Communist giants are unsparing in their exhortations and defamations. Each is attributing the basest motives and most heinous crimes to the other.

While this savage vendetta is being waged largely in print and by word of mouth, its sinister significance and ominous portent are of supreme importance to other countries—particularly the U.S., which ironically, each is accusingly lumping with the other.

To the Russians, the U.S. is the "imperialist lackey" and willing accomplice of heretical China; and to China, the U.S. is the "war-mongering stooge" and "colonialist ally" of the renegade Soviet Union.

That the U.S. obviously can't be both is airily disregarded in their fierce recriminations.

Their hundreds of millions of despotically-ruled minions know no better because they have no way of learning the truth. Both in Russia and China all media are iron controlled; nothing is published or broadcast without official sanction.

So in each of these huge Communist empires, the other is the vilest of villains and the U.S. is its willing and equally base accomplice.

This is the somber situation portrayed in an unnoticed report published by the Senate subcommittee on national security and international operations, headed by Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash. Consisting entirely of published material from Chinese sources, the document is profoundly disturbing and merits far more public and official attention than it has so far received.

This is bluntly stressed in a brief foreword by Sen. Jackson, who in addition to being chairman of this subcommittee is also a ranking member of the powerful Armed Services Committee. Last summer, virtually single-handed, he put through Congress an amendment to the five-year interim agreement on strategic weapons specifically requiring that the U.S. have parity with Russia in any new strategic arms accord.

This provision was vehemently opposed by all the leading Senate doves—notably Sens. George McGovern and J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee.

The Warning
In his forward, Sen. Jackson spells out two clearcut premises:

(1) "China has been delivering a simple message: that the Soviet Union has replaced the United States not only as China's main enemy, but as the principal threat to the security and independence of the smaller nations of the world."

(2) "This does not mean that Peking has wholly abandoned its customary view of the United States. Chinese leaders still call the U.S. a 'superpower,' but one which must now contend with the USSR for 'world hegemony.'"

"The Chinese 'line' on foreign affairs," says Jackson, "has shifted so dramatically over the years that the utterances of 1972 are omens which must be read with the greatest caution."

As contained in the chilling Jackson report, these fateful Chinese utterances range over the world. Following are particularly revealing highlights:

CONTROL OF NUCLEAR WEAPONS — "We have publicly declared that at no time and in no circumstances will China be the first to use nuclear weapons. This fully proves that China is developing nuclear weapons for defensive purposes only and with the aim of breaking the nuclear monopoly. If the Soviet Union entertains the same defensive purposes, why does the Soviet representative not dare come forth and make a similar declaration? Is this not plain logic?"

"As everyone knows, the Soviet Union has made hundreds of nuclear tests. When it had made enough tests in the atmosphere, it proposed a partial ban on nuclear tests. Now, when it has made enough underground tests, it calls for a ban on all nuclear tests. This is another trap, blatantly designed to maintain its nuclear monopoly, following the partial nuclear test ban treaty and the treaty on non-proliferation of nuclear weapons."

STAKES IN SOUTH ASIA — "The armed aggression by the Indian government against Pakistan was carried out with the connivance, support and shielding of the Soviet Union. Countless acts proved this. Over a long period the Soviet government energetically supported India's expansion and has provided the Indian expansionists with large quantities of war material.

"To put it bluntly, in supporting India in its provoking of an armed conflict with Pakistan, the purpose of the Soviet government was to take advantage of India's inevitable dependence on the Soviet Union in the war and to control the Indo-Pakistan subcontinent and the Indian Ocean and to expand its spheres of influence so as to compete with another superpower for world hegemony."

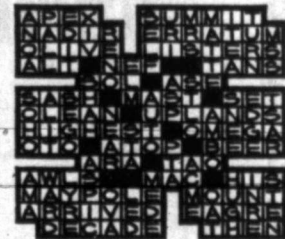

GANGSTER LOGIC — "To put it plainly, 'borders' and 'security' alleged by the Soviet government mean that wherever it attempts to commit aggression and expansion will become its 'borders' and where its 'security' is threatened. The Soviet government has consistently carried out expansion and aggression abroad in accordance with this gangster theory and logic."

DANGEROUS IMPERIALISM — "The Soviet revisionist renegade clique has further revealed its true colors of social-imperialism. With a growing appetite, it is reaching out its hands everywhere.

Sisemore, 3 Others Four Repeaters On AP All-American Team

NEW YORK (AP)—Two players from No. 1-ranked Southern California and three from Nebraska's deposed national champions, including Heisman Trophy winner Johnny Rodgers, were named today to The Associated Press All-America football team for 1972.

Four members from the 1971 All-America team made it for the second year in a row, including Oklahoma's super runner Greg Pruitt. He was joined in the 1972 backfield by quarterback John Hufnagel of Penn State and running backs Otis Armstrong of Purdue and Woodrow Green of Arizona State.

The other repeaters are middle guard Rich Glover of Nebraska, winner of the Outland Trophy as the nation's top interior lineman, offensive tackle Jerry Sisemore of Texas and center Tom Brahaney of Oklahoma.

The third Nebraska representative is defensive end Willie Harper while top-ranked Southern Cal is represented by tight end Charles Young and sophomore linebacker Richard Wood.

Rodgers, Harper, guard John

Gradishar of Ohio State and John Skorupan of Penn State and defensive back Calvin Jones of Washington.

Wood, who calls defensive side to take away Pruitt's explosive sweeps and he didn't approach his 1,665 yards of last season. But Coach Chuck Fairbanks said he still "had a heckuva year for us."

Although he missed one Arizona State game with a knee injury, Green still galloped for 1,363 yards and 15 touchdowns. He had the professional scouts drooling even last year.

Purdue's Armstrong is likely to be a first-round pick when the National Football League does its drafting early next year. He was the only player to be named AP Back of the Week twice this season and he did it by gaining a school record 233 yards against Northwest.

Tight end Young is outstanding whether he's catching the football or blocking. "He has outstanding speed and can catch the ball," says Southern Cal Coach John McKay. "He can go deep as well as short, almost like a split receiver."

McKay also says that Southern Cal's defense deserves three-fourths of the credit for the Trojans' No. 1 ranking and Wood is the leader. "He's as fine a defensive football player as I've ever seen at this stage of development," says McKay.

Brahaney, Hannah, Sisemore and Hicks were largely responsible for their blocking for their teams' high finish in the national rushing statistics. Oklahoma was tops, while Alabama, Texas and Ohio State all wound up among the top 11. Ruskak is rated one of the finest blockers in North Carolina history.

Even though opponents hesitate to try and skirt Harper's end, he still is the key man on Nebraska's pass rush and containing the Wishbone sweep. He's big, tough and mobile with 4.6 speed over 40 yards. The other end, Baylor's Goree, was the Southwest Conference's Defensive Sophomore of the Year in 1970 and Defensive Player of the Year last season. Against Arkansas, he made 16 tackles and blocked two punts, a performance which forced the Razorbacks into punting on third down just in case he did it again.

Marx could have joined the pro ranks a year ago, but he had a year of eligibility left because he broke his arm in his sophomore year and decided to come back. Needless to say, Notre Dame is glad he did.

Oklahoma's Moore reached his peak in the Sooners' 27-0 rout of Texas. He made 10 tackles; blocked a quick kick which Oklahoma recovered for a touchdown, recovered a batted pithout in the end zone for another touchdown and pressured the Texas quarterback into an interception.

Like Wood, Gradishar and Skorupan earned AP Lineman of the Week honors during the season. George Hill, Ohio State's defense coordinator, says Gradishar "has great speed and ability to get outside and he's a great pass defender. We count on him each week to make the big plays. He's just a great football player; what else can you say?"

Penn State Coach Joe Paterno says Skorupan is "one of the finest linebackers we have had. He compares very favorably with the outstanding linebackers we have had in recent years."

Jones, smallest player on the All-America team at 5-9 and 170, had overcome his lack of size to win Pacific-8 honors three years in a row.

Pampa, Texas 66th Year Thursday, Dec. 7, 1972

Hannah of Alabama and defensive back Robert Popelka of Southern Methodist all moved up from the second team of a year ago while Brad Van Pelt, Michigan State's towering 6-foot-5 safety, climbed from the 1971 third team.

Rounding out the elite 22-man All-America squad for 1972 are tackle John Hicks of Ohio State, guard Ron Ruskak of North Carolina, defensive end Roger Goree of Baylor, defensive tackles Greg Marx of Notre Dame and Derland Moore of Oklahoma, linebackers Randy signals for Southern Cal's unbeaten Trojans, is the only sophomore on the All-America team while Green, Hicks and Gradishar are juniors.

Rodgers wound up regular season play with four National Collegiate Athletic Association records, seven Big Eight Conference marks and 19 Nebraska records. He has scored 46 touchdowns, 276 points, caught 150 passes for 2,708 yards and 26 touchdowns and has returned punts for 1,654 yards. In all-purpose running, he has an NCAA record 5,586 yards.

Hufnagel has directed Penn State to 26 victories in 28 games since becoming the starting quarterback midway in the 1970 season. He holds nine Penn State records, including game, season and career marks for passing and total offense yardage.

Oilers Not Interested In Rodgers Or Glover

HOUSTON (AP)—Nebraska's Johnny Rodgers may have been No. 1 in the hearts of the Heisman Trophy voters but he won't be the No. 1 pick in the 1973 pro draft if the Houston Oilers get the first shot.

Neither will two other Heisman trophy nominees Greg Pruitt of Oklahoma and Rich Glover of Nebraska, according to Oiler Coach Bill Peterson.

"I think Rodgers is a great athlete," said Peterson, whose Oilers have a 1-11 record, worst in the NFL with two games to play. "But when you are building a program, you have to look at your needs."

"If we had an established program, we might go after an all-around performer like Rodgers. But to have a great football team you have to have a great defensive team."

Peterson said the size of all three collegians would keep the Oilers from choosing them in the first round of the draft.

"We are looking for the guy who can come in and play for us the first year and stay around for a long time. You take a guy of Rodgers' size and the length of his career is questionable."

Peterson said Glover, a middle guard for the Cornhuskers, would be too small to play on the line in the pros. "He'd have to play middle linebacker for us and it would take him a couple of years to learn that position," Peterson said.

Peterson stopped short of naming who the Oilers would go after in the draft if they should lose their last two games and get the first round selection that goes to the team with the worst record in pro football.

Peterson started to name the Oilers top five prospects but he was interrupted by Oilers owner Bud Adams at the press conference. "I really wouldn't tell them now," Adams said. "I don't think the press is entitled to know yet who our top five choices are."

Old-Timers Perform In National Finals

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Two old-timers in the bronc riding event came through in flying colors here Wednesday night in the fifth go-round of the National Finals Rodeo.

They were Marty Wood of Colorado Springs, Colo., 50-year-old cowboy who qualified for the first NFR in 1939, and Cactus Flower, another veteran at 25 years old who has never missed an NFR.

Wood was kicked in the face by his mount, Wall Street, while attempting to set the saddle. But the three-time world champion saddle bronc rider recovered and came back to place fourth in that event after the bull riding contest—the final event of the evening.

Cactus Flower proved that his bucking days aren't over despite his age. The big bronc, who is owned by former world champion cowboy Jim Shouder of Henryetta, Okla., promptly sent Ivan Danes to the turf. Danes, a Canadian cowboy, is one of the world's premier riders.

Another cowboy taking a nasty spill in the saddle bronc event was Bobby Brown of Adrian, Tex. Brown was taken out of the Oklahoma State Fairgrounds Arena on a stretcher, but later was pronounced not seriously hurt and was not taken to the hospital. Ken Welch of Merkel, Tex., placed first for the second time at the NFR in the saddle bronc event with 79 points.

Frank Shepperson of Midwest, Wyo., turned in the best time yet at this year's NFR in the steer wrestling event. He had a time of 4.1 seconds.

Bull riders had a good night during the fifth go-round. Only three cowboys were thrown by the testy bulls, a rarity in that event. Sandy Kirby of Greenville, Tex., had a score of 80 for first place, with Larry Mahan of Salem, Ore., and Spanky Browne of Wilburton, Okla., tying for second with 79 points.

It was the second straight night in which Phil Lyne of George West, Tex., had not placed in bull riding.

Basketball Roundup

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"Running, that's our ballgame," says Coach Bob Leonard of the Indiana Pacers.

The defending American Basketball Association champs ran away from the expansion San Diego Conquistadors 124-112 Wednesday night and they're starting to run away with the ABA's Western Division, opening a 3 1/2-game lead over Denver and Utah.

Elsewhere, Dallas defeated Denver 110-104. Utah turned back Carolina 119-108. Kentucky trounced Virginia 119-105 and New York outlasted Memphis 101-95.

The Pacers built a whopping 25-point lead over San Diego in the first quarter but saw their bulge chopped to eight by halftime and to just four midway through the third period. They had it back up to 20, though, in the final period.

Darnell Hillman, George McGinnis and Roger Brown got out on the fast break and just outran San Diego," Leonard said. "San Diego got some offensive rebounds but we started sending both forwards out on the fast break and that's why San Diego was getting the rebounds. That will happen sometimes when you get ahead."

San Diego's Stew Johnson took scoring honors with 36 points while McGinnis and Brown led Indiana with 24 and 20, respectively.

Seven Dallas players scored in double figures as the Chaps beat Denver. Rich Jones led the way with 24. Bob Netolicky had 19 and Skeeter Swift 18. Ralph Simpson paced Denver with 23.

Glen Combs scored 28 points, James Jones 23 and Zelmo Beaty 22 as Utah whipped Carolina's Eastern Division leaders and climbed into a virtual second-place tie with Denver in the West. Billy Cunningham and Joe Caldwell led the losers with 24 and 23.

Kentucky opened a 95-91 lead over Virginia to 109-94 in a three-minute span of the final period behind Walt Simon and Dan Issel and went on to beat the Squires. Issel finished with 32 points and held Virginia's Julius Erving to one point in the final 12 minutes after the Squires' ace tallied 31 during the first three periods.

New York outscored Memphis 10-2 late in the game to pull out a victory over the Tams despite 28 points by Lee Davis of the losers. George Carter paced the Nets with 20.

The Apollo 17ers are heading for the moon but the Philadelphia 76ers will settle for third place in the National Basketball Association's Atlantic Division.

The 76ers are a long way from the moon but they're just 3 1/2 games behind the Buffalo Braves following Wednesday night's 122-117 triumph over the Kansas City-Omaha Kings, only their third success in 27 starts.

Elsewhere, Baltimore whipped Portland 115-102 and Phil Chenier set a club regulation-time record with 53 points, Seattle took Milwaukee 95-91 and Detroit downed Phoenix 114-105.

John Q. Trapp scored 10 of his career-high 35 points in the fourth period to pace the 76ers over the Kings. He gave Philadelphia the lead for good at 104-102 on a jumper with 7 1/2 minutes left. Fred Carter, who scored 28 points, and Kevin Loughery, who added 23, then combined for 10 points as the 76ers opened a 117-109 bulge.

KC-Omaha's Nate Archibald scored 34 points and added 10 assists, but he felt he had a bad night after hitting only 12 of 39 floor shots. "They gave me the jump, but I missed a lot of shots," he said.

Baltimore's Chenier hit 22 of 31 shots—he scored 13 points in the final period to help stave off a Portland rally—and erased the 49 points scored by Earl Monroe when he was with the Bullets.

HOW THE FIREFLY LOST ITS HEAT—A Christmas Tale

by Navarro & Hanratty

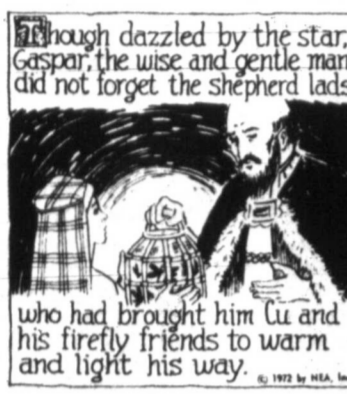

The shepherds, with U and the other fireflies, waited in awe, for Gaspar had been joined by two other Wise Men!

Said, Melchior, the second Wise Man: "I first saw the Star while in the forest... its cobweb of bright yellow light laid a silence over the night noises of the forest!"

Balthasar, eldest of the Wise Men, replied: "Surely, this is an omen of the old prophecy which says: 'A Star shall signify the birth of Our Lord'—for there is only one God for all living things!"

HOW THE FIREFLY LOST ITS HEAT—A Christmas Tale

by Navarro & Hanratty

Although dazzled by the star, Gaspar, the wise and gentle man, did not forget the shepherd lads

As Gaspar twirled the cage the better to see U, the great firefly, a wondrous thing occurred.

Look, cried Gaspar, "No matter which way they are turned, the fireflies also

DOYLE GERCKEN

SWC Honors Pampa Youth

Doyle Gercken, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Gercken of 1314 E. Kingsmill, has recently been honored by The Southwestern Company of Nashville, Tenn.

Last summer Doyle won special recognition in competition with more than 4,000 outstanding college students who were selected from approximately 400 colleges and universities to participate in the Southwestern summer sales program.

In competition with hundreds of students from schools such as the University of Washington, Duke University, Vanderbilt University, M.I.T., Harvard and Yale, Doyle earned the Gold Award for working 75 hours each week of the summer. Doyle is a student at West Texas State University in Canyon.

FASHIONABLE BEEF FILETS

A great and gracious way to extend hospitality to favored friends during the holidays is to have a brunch or midnight supper. By sunlight or candlelight, filet mignon leaves a lasting impression. These truly deluxe steaks, cut from the beef tenderloin, have an established reputation as "tenderest of all." Carry on the glamour with a wine sauce.

SYNOPSIS: The Eskimos of young Ononik's village are worried because for some mysterious reason the Ice King of the North has prevented the summer from arriving on schedule. To placate the Ice King, the villagers plan a festival in his honor.

CHAPTER TWO THE FESTIVAL

"The Ice King of the North is very angry," said Miski, the wise man of the Eskimo village. "He sends frigid winds and storms of snow even though it is August and the ice on the sea should long since have melted."

"To placate the Ice King we must have a festival in his honor. Then he will surely put aside his anger and we will be able to do our summer hunting for reindeer and rabbits and duck."

"Hooray!" cried Ononik, the Eskimo boy. "I love festivals! Dancing! And singing! And eating! Oh, that will be good!"

But Ononik's mother said, "How can we have a festival? Hunting has been so poor there is scarcely any food left in the village. In my house we are down to our last seal flipper."

"It is the same with us," moaned the other women. "Our storerooms are nearly empty."

Ononik's father said, "Can we not have a festival without food?"

Miski shook his head. "The Ice King would be insulted if we had a festival in his honor and had no food. If we did not care to bring out our food in his honor perhaps he would not care to stop the winter winds."

Then the men said, "Very well. We will do it for the winter storms must end."

So the Eskimos returned to their igloos. The women melted snow and put their last hunks of meat in the water to stew. The men made flat drums out of wooden hoops covered with the thin inner tissues of seals.

When all was ready the villagers returned to the igloo of Miski, the wise man. They all sat on the floor of the snow house and Miski stood in the middle and sang a song to the Ice King.

"The Ice King of the North is angry," said the Wise Man.

He asked the Ice King to get over his anger and bring the Eskimos good weather so they could have good hunting again. Then Miski sat down and the men began to beat on their drums with sticks made of ivory walrus tusks.

Boom! Boom! Boom!

Then the Eskimos sang. First they sang in a soft chant keeping time to the drum beat. Presently their voices rose and their singing became louder than the wind roaring around the igloo.

Ononik, anxious to please the Ice King, sang louder than all the rest.

The dancing started. All the men and boys stood in their places and stamped on the floor and moved their arms up and down in curious patterns meant to placate the Ice King.

After that the food was served. Ononik took half his share outside to his dog Keotuk who crouched at the door.

"Don't worry," said Ononik soothingly to his dog. "This has been a festival such as I have never seen. It is bound to have pleased the Ice King and tomorrow good weather will come and we will have good hunting again."

But, alas! On that very night came a storm worse than any that had come before. The furious wind swept sheets of ice from the north and hurled them on the tiny Eskimo village. Three igloos were smashed by the tons of ice and the poor owners had to move in with neighbors. A mountain of ice pushed out of the sea and towered over the village.

"The Ice King did not hear us, there is nothing more we can do," Miski told the terrified Eskimos who gathered in his igloo after the storm.

Ononik went out in the cold. He fell to his knees in the snow and pressed his mouth against the ear of Keotuk, the dog.

"Listen to me, Keotuk," he murmured. "I have a plan!"

Keotuk wagged his tail and licked his master's chin as if to say, "I'll do anything you say!"

"Come, then," said Ononik, jumping to his feet. "You and I are going to Santa Land!"

Three Skelly Oil Employees Awarded For Their Services

PAMPA—Three Skelly Oil Company employees, Claxton D. Butler, Junior D. Ellis and Paul W. Mathews, celebrated their 25th service anniversaries with the company Dec. 1.

Each received an engraved wristwatch as a service award.

The three men joined Skelly's exploration and production department December 1, 1947. Butler and Mathews are currently pumpers for the company, and Ellis works as a relief pumper.

A graduate of Pampa High School, Butler is a deacon in the Hobart Baptist Church and is secretary of the I.O.O.F. lodge here. He is a U.S. Navy Veteran.

He and his wife, June live at 1101 South Sumner. They have three children, Gary, Stephen and Valerie.

Ellis joined Skelly as a roustabout and has also worked as a relief pumper and as a pumper. He is also a graduate of Pampa High School and holds memberships in the Top of Texas Club, Highland Baptist Church and is a Master Mason in Lodge No. 1381. He enjoys raising and grooming poodles as a hobby.

He and his wife, Jean, have four children, Terry, Vicki, Rita and JoLynn. The Ellis family lives at 312 North Dwight Street in Pampa.

Mathews joined Skelly as a roustabout, was named pulling machine operator in 1953 and assumed his present position last year.

He is a graduate of Delaware (Okla.) High School and holds memberships in the Skellytown Volunteer Fire Department and the Credit Committee of the Skelly-Texas Credit Union. He is also active in the Skellytown Baptist Church and enjoys boating and fishing as hobbies.

He is a U.S. Army veteran and was awarded the Bronze Star during World War II while serving in the Philippines.

He and his wife, Arlene, have three married daughters, Karen Horner, Nancy Fox and Denise Purret. The Mathews live in Skellytown.

The Grand Army of the Republic held its last encampment on Aug. 31, 1949, more than 80 years after the Civil War had ended.

Skelly Oil Honors Employees

The Skelly Oil Company Kingsmill plant recently held a banquet to honor its employees for working one million man-hours during 16 years without a disabling injury. The plant was presented a plaque by the Natural Gas Processors Association for their accomplishment.

Special guests at the Nov. 30 included J.R. Porter and Wayne Wright from Skelly's home office in Tulsa, Okla., and B.R. Nunn and wife and W.M. Ledbetter of the Northern District Office in Pampa.

Employees honored for the period include Joe D. Hathaway, William H. Fuller, Samuel O. Dunham, Wallace R. Benefiel, Claude O. Sitterly, John Simmons, Lewis C. Yager, Jake W. Winborne, Jerry E. Brittain, Chester A. Darnell, Clyde Tidwell, Alford E. Elwess, Olen V. Bailey, Edward G. Moultrie, Lawrence J. Ebenkamp and Harvey K. Rochelle.

Four of the plant employees have worked 30 or more years without a loss of time injury. They are John Simmons, 32 years; Claude O. Sitterly, 31; Lawrence Ebenkamp, 30, and Samuel O. Dunham, 35.

Wives of the employees were also special guests at the banquet.

Dinner music and entertainment for the occasion was furnished by "That Band with Dixie Land."

TAKES IN COAST GAMES OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — "I knew you'd make it," Yogi Berra, manager of the New York Mets, told his former teammate Charlie Silvera before the start of the third-World Series game in Oakland.

Silvera now coaches for the Detroit Tigers but he caught behind Yogi in the 1949 World Series. Their pitching teammate of that year, southpaw Ed Lopat, was also here as a special scout for the Montreal Expos. Silvera presented Yogi with one of Berra's columns which appeared in a San Francisco paper. That's where Silvera makes his off-season residence.

Communications Workers of America Local No. 6128 is still taking applications for its annual "Hi, Mom" project. The union will pay the initial three-minute rate on calls from military service personnel for two persons in the immediate Pampa area.

Anyone interested in receiving a call under the project may mail the entry to Pat Wilhelm, Box 672, Pampa, 79065.

All entries should include the service personnel's complete address and length of absence due to military service. Winners will be announced Dec. 15.

SIC Chief Announces Appointment

AMARILLO—R. Earl O'Keefe, president and chairman of the board of Southwestern Investment Company (S.I.C.), has announced the appointment of E. Jay O'Keefe and Creighton B. Lynch as Executive Vice Presidents as part of a management realignment program.

O'Keefe also reported that S.I.C.'s board of directors has approved a change in the name of the company's consumer finance subsidiaries to "SIC Credit Company." The name change, which will be implemented beginning January 1973, is expected to reflect more accurately the broad scope of the Company's credit services. O'Keefe said.

E. Jay O'Keefe, son of R. Earl O'Keefe, is also president and chief executive officer of S.I.C.'s wholly-owned subsidiary, Western National Life Insurance Company. Creighton B. Lynch heads the company's consumer finance operations, with 135 offices in 14 states. Both new executive vice presidents are members of the company's executive committee and board of directors.
