Ask Us

Q. — What are the laws in Scurry County against pornography and obscenity?

A. — The law here and all across Texas and the U.S. is the same. If an item is determined to be obscene, it is against the law to distribute or sell it. The law includes a stipulation regarding "community standards," which states each community may choose to establish what is "obscene." As for Scurry County, no such standard has ever been established.

Pipeline explosion kills 5, hurts 21

ST. FRANCISVILLE, La. (AP) — A natural gas pipeline explosion that killed five people and injured 21 others destroyed a secluded hunting camp 200 yards away and littered the woods with "charred leaves and stumps," a sheriff said.

It happened in hilly, southeastern Louisiana woods at 1:21 p.m. Sunday as 22 workmen were reconditioning the pipeline owned by Texas Eastern Gas Corp. of Houston, said Sheriff Bill Daniels of West Feliciana Parish.

The cause was not known, said James Young, a Texas Eastern Gas spokesman in Houston.

Sheriff Daniels said four of the dead worked for Clarkco, a contractor out of Jackson, Miss., and the other was a Texas Eastern Gas employee. Some were burned beyond recognition, he said, and none had been identified by early today.

The injured included other crewmen, as well as people at the hunting camp for deer season. What was believed to be four members of the same family — a man, his wife and children aged 2 and 5 — also were among those hurt.

All of the injured originally were taken to West Feliciana Hospital in St. Francisville, but 12 were transferred later to the burn unit at Baton Rouge Medical Center, 30 miles south of here.

Four of nine people taken to West Feliciana Hospital were admitted there, but their names and conditions were not disclosed. The other five were treated and released.

A spokeswoman at Baton Rouge Medical Center said that, of the 12 people taken there, eight were admitted in stable condition and four were treated and released.

"All we know is that a construction crew was working on a Texas Eastern line," said Daniels. "For some unknown reason, there was an eruption that was followed by an explosion.

"The area was leveled with just charred leaves and stumps for a wide area. The hunting camp was destroyed," he said.

The blast, which occurred 12 miles east of St. Francisville, also charred trees that were left standing, and interrupted electricity and telephones in the area.

"The clock stopped at 1:21," said Tommy Tubbs, who lives across the rural road from the construction site.

Tubbs said he and his wife "ran and opened the door, and looked down the road. We saw what looked to be a dirt cloud — it must have been 250 feet over the trees.

"Then we heard a loud roar, and the dust cloud turned into flames," he said.

Tubbs said he and his wife fled when that happened.

"We were scared. We came back when some police cars and some ambulances started coming in," he said.

Two bodies were found near a bulldozer and two backhoes, said Young.

In Brief

Death toll 30

By The Associated Press

At least 30 people lost their lives in Texas traffic during the Thanksgiving holidays, but the toll is down from the same weekend a year ago, when 49 lives were claimed on the state's roadways.

The holiday traffic death count compiled by The Associated Press began at 5 p.m. CST Wednesday and continued until 11 p.m. Sunday.

Trailer gutted by fire

Heavy damage was reported following a mobile home fire reported here Saturday night just north of the city.

According to Fire Chief Terry Don McDowell, firemen were called to the Ronnie Fisk residence — located at the intersection of Ave. O and Lear Ave. — around 7:05 p.m.

At the time of the report, the fire was well underway, fire officials say, and extensive fire damage to the interior was noted before firefighters arrived at the scene.

An electric space heater placed too close to a couch is suspected as the cause of the blaze.

No injuries were noted as a result of the fire.

Burglary suspects are jailed

Police jailed two suspects Saturday afternoon in connection with the Friday night burglary of G&G Grocery at the intersection of Huffman Ave. and the Clairemont Highway.

Now free on bonds of $2,000 each after being charged with one count of burglary of a business are 18-year-old Tommy Ray Hull and 17-year-old Billy Joe Leatherwood, both of Rt. 3, Snyder.

The pair is accused of breaking into the store sometime late Friday night or early Saturday morning and taking numerous food and tobacco items.

The burglary was discovered by store employees reporting for work at 4:30 a.m. Saturday and much of the missing merchandise was said recovered with the arrests of the suspects shortly after 4:30 p.m. Saturday.

A new bumper sticker featuring the message "Snyder Better Than Ever" is now available at several business locations throughout the city.

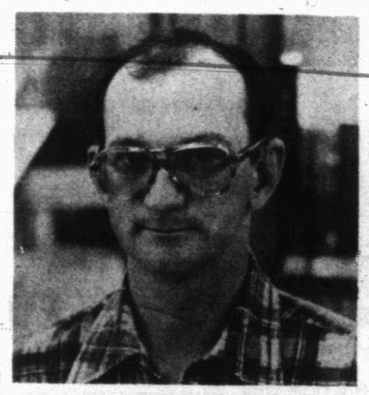
The sticker is the braichild of members of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce Business Development Committee, which is headed by local businessman Bill Dryden.

Design work for the sticker as well as the slogan "better than ever" was suggested by Wade Warren, marketing director for the Snyder Daily News.

Much of the work securing bids for the stickers was completed by committee member Tom Latos, manager of Kmart in Snyder.

In all, 10,000 stickers have been printed. Funds for this — equaling some $998 — was provided from motel tax funds administered through the city.

Local residents are encouraged to place the bumper stickers on their cars to advertise their home city whenever they travel.



GARY SHERBERT ...new at SCS..

New staff technician joins local SCS office

The Snyder-based Soil Conservation Service office for the Upper Colorado Soil and Water Conservation District has gained a new soil conservation technician.

Joining the local staff is Gary Sherbert, a native of Lamesa.

He previously was employed by the Dawson County Soil and Water Conservation District as a conservation technician, but this is his first assignment as an SCS staffer.

He also worked for five years as a surveyor and party chief for Lybrand Professional Engineering firm of Lamesa.

Sherbert is a graduate of Lamesa High School and a member of the National Guard unit based in Big Spring.

His main duties will be assisting farmers and ranchers in designing, layout and checks on such conservation practices as parallel, standard and diversion terraces, waterways, ponds, livestock pipelines and irrigation systems.

'Tintypes' holdover is Tuesday

Tickets are still available for the Tuesday night holdover performance of "Tintypes" at Western Texas College.

The show was a sell-out in the three performances originally scheduled. Tuesday night's performance will be a prelude to the American College Theatre Festival appearance in El Paso Thursday.

Tickets are $5 for adults and $3 for students and can be reserved by calling the box office at 573-8511, ext. 234 Monday or Tuesday morning. Curtain time is 8 p.m.

"Tintypes," a musical review, is under the direction of Jim Rambo. Appearing in the cast are Ramona Murphy of Snyder; Trina Lemons of Fluvanna; Jeff Combs of Muleshoe; Jeff Milburn of Brownfield; and Rene King of Lubbock.

The chorus is made up of Cherie Loveless, Connie Essery and Lisa Robbins of Snyder; Latrice King of Lubbock; Aaron Knight of Big Lake; and Terry Hunter of Kermit.

HOLDOVER PERFORMANCE — Among the cast members to be featured at Tuesday night's holdover performance of "Tintypes" is Trina Lemons of Fluvanna. The Western Texas College musical review is slated for 8 p.m. in the Fine Arts Theatre on campus. Tickets are $5 for adults and $3 for students. (SDN Staff Photo)

Locking doors less help against thieves

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four out of five stolen cars were left unlocked by their owners, but a federal report says that locking up is becoming more futile as auto thieves become more professional.

In fact, the professionals have edged the juvenile joy riders out of position as the primary vehicle thieves, and the chances of recovering a stolen car have taken a dive from 84 percent to 55 percent in 10 years.

Thus, the report, entitled "Vehicle Theft Prevention Strategies," advocates new laws and new procedures by state governments, police, insurance companies and even wreckers to stem the vehicle theft business.

"Vehicle theft is no longer a matter of juvenile 'joy' riding," according to the report prepared by Abt Associates, Inc., for the Justice Department's National Institute of Justice. People under age 18 accounted for 56 percent of the vehicle thieves arrested in 1970, but only 40 percent by 1981.

"This is increasingly becoming an adult crime involving gangs making enormous profits," James K. Stewart, the institute director, said Sunday. "About 1 million motor vehicles are stolen in this country every year, costing us an estimated $3.5 billion."

Thoughtful Holiday Shopper Knows Just What Not to Buy

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1984 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Now that people have started to shop for holiday gifts, please remind them about what and what not to give the older person.

I'M ONE IN INDIANAPOLIS

DEAR I'M ONE: Many others have requested a rerun of my column on holiday gifts—for people of all ages—and here it is:

DEAR READERS: Can you believe it's time to prepare for the holidays again? Well, it is, so do yourselves a favor and do your Christmas shopping early.

If you're wondering what to give Aunt Jennie or Grandpa, who don't go out much, let me tell you what not to give them:

No dusting powder, after-shave or cologne. (They probably have several unopened boxes gathering dust on their closet shelves.)

Grandpa doesn't need another necktie, and Aunt Bertha doesn't really want any more brooches, necklaces or bracelets.

With the price of groceries so high, folks who live alone on a fixed income probably would be delighted to receive a basket of goodies. Include small cans of salmon, chicken, ham, tuna, vegetables, fruit, instant coffee, tea bags, crackers, cookies and instant soup mixes.

Older people who live in confined quarters do not need more "things" that are ornamental only. Don't send music boxes, statuettes or other bric-a-brac.

A truly thoughtful gift: post-cards and some lined stationery with envelopes and a generous supply of postage stamps. (Enclose some felt-tip pens, too.)

The homebound will appreciate a box of greeting cards for all occasions so that they too can send birthday, anniversary, graduation, get-well and condolence cards to others. (Be a sport! Stamp some envelopes.)

Don't give anyone a gift of clothing unless you're absolutely sure the size is right. That goes for color and style, too.

If you're tempted to pass along a scarf, purse, wallet or some useless little doodad you received three Christmases ago, please don't; the recipient will probably find it just as useless as you did. (Besides, you might get it back the year after next.)

If someone on your gift list is living on a pension, a check for any amount would be much more appreciated than a frivolous little trinket. Or give someone who's counting pennies a year's subscription to a newspaper or magazine you know he or she will enjoy.

If you buy a gift on sale, be sure it's appropriate, since if the recipient tries to take it back he will be told, "Sorry, sale merchandise is not returnable."

Don't give anyone a pet unless you're absolutely sure it's wanted and will be properly cared for. And if you want to delight someone who considers his pet a "member of the family," include a tin of cat or dog food for the pet.

Don't give wine or liquor unless you're sure the recipients imbibe. Candy, nuts and fruitcake make wonderful gifts for those who aren't counting calories, but please have compassion for those who are, and lead them not into temptation.

Resist giving toddlers stuffed animals and dolls that are bigger than they are. And parents will thank you for not sending their children horns, drums, sirens or whistles. If you give a child a game or book, be sure it's in the appropriate age range.

Instead of giving someone a gift with permission to "exchange it if it's not what you want," save yourself (and him) much time and effort and give him a gift certificate in the first place.

Holiday time can be very depressing for people who are alone, so if you know someone who might be alone and lonely, give him or her the best gift of all—an invitation to spend the holidays with you and your family. Loneliness is the ultimate poverty.

Love, Abby

Democrats want tax cut freeze

WASHINGTON (AP) — Freezing further tax cuts and stretching out increases in defense spending would go far toward reducing burgeoning budget deficits, House Majority Leader Jim Wright says.

The Texas Democrat, interviewed on NBC-TV's "Meet the Press" on Sunday, advanced those revenue savings as the type the House leadership would be willing to entertain when it negotiates with President Reagan next year.

But Wright ruled out any further cuts in social programs that bore the brunt of budget reductions during Reagan's first four years in office. And he indicated that any tax-increase legislation — which the president has firmly ruled out — would have to be submitted in the chief executive's name.

"... I don't want to be in a position of making him eat crow," Wright quipped. "... Let him call it fried chicken or ice cream. He is a master of the euphemism. He one time called a tax increase 'revenue enhancement' and on another occasion he called it a 'tax reform.'

"So long as it doesn't place its burden disproportionately upon the middle-income taxpayer, who's already taxed beyond his capacity, and the working poor, then I'll consider it," Wright added.

As to his own ideas for slashing deficits that are projected to mount from $174 billion this fiscal year to $206 billion in 1986, Wright suggested freezing any new tax cuts and extending the military growth rate planned for the next four years into a five-year period.

"Those two things would cut the deficit in half," he said. "If we're serious, we might approach it from that angle."

Wright, who is considered likely to assume the speaker's chair after Rep. Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass., retires in two years, repeatedly pictured House Democrats as willing to work with Reagan. "I think we share with him the responsibility to try to find reasonable, workable answers" to the deficit problem, he said.

But, he added, "If the president insists upon trying to balance the budget by doing away with the retirement benefits hard won by America's middle-income and lower-income families, no, I will never assent to that. If he expects us to agree that we ought to do away with the medical benefits that people have paid for and earned, we'll never agree to that."

In last four years, Wright noted, defense spending has nearly doubled from the $146 billion appropriated in 1980.

Meantime, he said, "we have reduced domestic government (programs) by about $50 billion a year in the last three years and we've reduced entitlements (individual benefits) by approximately $50 billion. You can squeeze that lemon, but you don't get much more out of it."

On international issues, Wright said Reagan would find strong support for arms control initiatives from both sides of the aisle in the House, which retained a 71-seat Democrat majority after the Nov. 6 elections.

But he said most members will continue to oppose a restoration of covert aid to CIA-backed guerrillas fighting the leftist government of Nicaragua. The funds were cut off last spring following disclosure of U.S. mining of Nicaraguan harbors.

"I don't think the House wants to be a party to ... engaging in a war within another country's borders while contending that we aren't," Wright said. "There just something inherently dishonest about that."

John Tyler, our 10th president, was senator, governor, vice president and became president on the death of William Henry Harrison.

Your Birthday

Nov. 27, 1984

This coming year, you will make a number of constructive changes that will help advance your personal interests. They will come from your own imagination and your new, positive attitude.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Do not be hesitant about pushing your plans forward today if you think they are better than the ideas of your associates or companions. Looking for Mr. Right? The Matchmaker set can help you in your search. Send for it today by mailing $2 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You'll be a go-getter today in things that are of benefit to you materially or financially. All you need is the right motivation.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Do not be fearful about expressing your leadership qualities today. Everyone involved will fare better if you set the pace and determine the course of action.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Difficult objectives can be achieved today if you do what needs to be done without a lot of fanfare. Decide in advance what you want to do and quietly proceed.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You have a marvelous faculty today for expressing your ideas in ways that capture the imagination of others and make them eager to participate in your ventures.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your determination and fortitude are your greatest assets today. Once you set your mind upon an objective, you're not apt to quit trying until you succeed.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Even people who vigorously resisted your ideas can be swayed over to your way of thinking today and become allies instead of antagonists.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A great deal of your time today may be expended on the needs of others, rather than your own. However, later you'll be duly compensated.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're capable of handling difficulties with ease today. Even if disturbances pop up, you should be able to manage them without breaking stride.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It will prove to be a good diversion today if you can allocate some time to your pet hobby or to putting around with a project you enjoy doing.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) The results will be rewarding today even though your energies are apt to be directed toward social activities rather than essentials.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) This is a good day for you to try to finalize a matter where you are personally owed something of material value. The debt will be collectable.

Untangling three suits

By James Jacoby

South opened one club and then jumped to two no-trump after the one-heart response by North. South's second bid described a hand of 18 or 19 high-card points with stoppers in any unbid suits. North wondered whether his side might have a 4-4 spade fit, but he was afraid that a three-spade bid might be construed as a slam try. He simply raised to three no-trump. In your own partnership, you should have an agreement about the meaning of a three-spade bid in such an auction. I recommend that your agreement be that three spades is simply searching for that possible 4-4 fit, with no slam aspirations.

It's unlucky to be in no-trump and not have enough time to develop tricks in your nine-card fit, but the compressed diamond honors (doubleton A-K facing doubleton queen) placed declarer in that unfortunate situation. Although the deal is not your everyday, run-of-the-mill hand, South glimpsed some light at the tunnel's end. He won the ace of diamonds, cashed the A-K of hearts, and led a low spade toward dummy's Q-J. West properly ducked, or South would have had nine tricks. When the spade queen won the trick, declarer played dummy's heart queen, throwing the diamond king. After a spade lead back to his ace and a low spade from his hand, West was unable to prevent access to dummy. This line works whenever spades are 3-3 or West has the king.

Poetry members discuss Japanese poetry in meeting

The Scurry County Poetry Society met Nov. 19 in the home of Dorothy Cox. Garnet Quiett, president, called the meeting to order and Mayzell Fenton, chaplin, gave the invocation.

Cox presented a program about haiku and tanka, Japanese poetry forms. She explained that haiku is a simple, untitled, unrhymed, 17 syllable (or less) poem that does not depend upon meter or rhythm for its structure. The nature poem includes an implied or stated season word.

The tanka poem was described as a poem without meter or rhyme which contains five lines and 31 syllables and is written with 5-7-5-7-7 syllable count.

Fenton read her poem, "World War II," which was recently published in the M P Platoon, Company G newsletter.

Quiett shared her sonnet, "Sky Travellers," which took first place in an annual Poetry Society of Texas contest. The poem will be included in that organization's 1985 Yearbook.

During the brief business session, nominating, program and yearbook committees were named.

The group planned a potluck supper for their Christmas party set for Dec. 17 in the Ina Fargason home.

The members enjoyed refreshments after the meeting.

Interested persons may obtain more information about the Poetry Society by calling 573-9708 or 573-0432.

Fingerling Orders Now Being Taken

The Upper Colorado Soil and Water Conservation District, serving Scurry and Borden Counties, is currently accepting fingerling orders for pond restocking.

The District announces that the prices will remain the same as the 1984 stocking program. The following prices are now in effect per hundred: 4-6 inch channel catfish, $35; 6-8 inch channel catfish, $55; 1-3 inch hybrid bluegill, $40; 3-5 inch hybrid bluegill, $60; 2-3 inch hybrid largemouth bass, $70; 4-6 inch hybrid largemouth bass, $160; and fathead minnows (approximately 250 per pound), $7 per pound.

Delivery date is tentatively set for March 30 from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. at the Soil Conservation Service office in the Snyder Shopping Center.

Suggested stocking rates for small ponds are 100 channel catfish per surface acre. If you plan to supplementally feed the catfish or fertilize the pond, then 500 catfish per surface acre can be stocked.

The channel catfish can be stocked alone or with fathead minnows to serve as forage. The diet of a catfish is largely made up of aquatic insect larva, but minnows are also eaten if available. The larger 6-8 inch catfish fingerlings are recommended if large bass are present in the pond. Fingerlings of this size are generally fast enough to avoid being eaten by the bass.

In ponds greater than one acre surface area, stocking 100 catfish, 50 bass, 500 bluegill and two pounds (approximately 500) of fathead minnows provides a balanced stocking program.

The hybrid bluegill can be stocked alone or with bass or catfish. About 10 percent of the bluegill will reproduce and are a good choice as forage for bass. They grow larger than the native bluegill and are an excellent choice for stocking alone in very small ponds.

Plastic bags will be provided for hauling the fish. They can be kept in the bags for up to two hours, but should be placed into ponds as soon as possible.

Payment is due upon placement of the order with checks made payable to the Upper Colorado SWCD. Orders will be taken through March 21.

Additional information can be obtained by calling 573-0171 or by seeing SCS personnel in the office located at 3423 Avenue T.

Poet laureate

There is no authentic record of the origin of the office of poet laureate of England. There was, however, a versifier regis, or king's poet, in the reign of Henry III (1216-1272) who was paid 100 shillings a year. Geoffrey Chaucer assumed the role of poet laureate and, in 1389, got a royal grant of a yearly allowance of wine.

Let's talk.

Information about your changing telephone service from Jim West, Manager-Community Relations

Serving you and the community

What do you think about when you think of Southwestern Bell Telephone?

A company that provides telecommunications? "The telephone company?" A company that connects you across town and is your connecting link to towns across the world?

We're all those things, but we're more.

As I look around the state, I see we're a company that's committed to, and involved in, the communities we serve. Our children go to the same schools. We attend the same churches. We shop at the same stores. So just like you, we have a stake in our community.

We're volunteers in 2,200 Texas organizations

How are we helping Texas communities?

Our employees are volunteers. They are active in literally hundreds of organizations. It's a diverse group, too: American Business Women's Association, Soroptimists, United Way (and its affiliated agencies), American Diabetes Association, Rotarians, Jaycees, neighborhood Crime Watch groups, local Food Banks, among others.

Thousands of employees are also active in our own service organizations — Telephone Pioneers of America and local Community Relations ("CR") Teams. These two groups are involved in hundreds of community service projects in Texas each year, like Special Olympics, hospice programs and Lighthouse for the Blind, to name just a few.

Our employees are also very active in many organizations for the advancement of minorities, like the National Urban League, NAACP, LULAC, Texas Association of Mexican-American Chambers of Commerce and many others.

Giving more than our time to good causes

We also make many donations to support key public and private facilities in many Texas communities, like a hospital expansion fund. However, we give only when there's a proven need for the company to contribute. For example, a hospital expansion benefits the entire community.

Our 35,000 employees in Texas give much more than their time. Over the last 12 months, they donated 6,564 pints of blood to local blood banks (that's about 821 gallons), gave more than $4 million to the United Way, made 2,315 talks about changes in our industry to clubs and organizations and donated more than $327,000 to colleges and universities.

Texas heroes: The true spirit of service

The spirit of giving goes even further. Several have risked their lives to save another. These Texas heroes include folks like Waco employee Ken Tucker who administered first aid to a woman after she had suffered a near-fatal motorcycle accident and McAllen employee Rey Soto who saved a woman from drowning in the Rio Grande.

As you can see, Southwestern Bell Telephone's "spirit of service" goes beyond our top priority of providing you with quality telephone service. It's also being actively involved in our communities, helping our neighbors and friends and doing our best to make Texas an even better place to live.

That's the true spirit of our Texas service.

As of November 1, 1984 in most cases, Southwestern Bell Telephone is no longer billing you for your charges for leased equipment from AT&T Information Systems. AT&T is now sending you a separate bill and you should return your payment directly to AT&T.

If you use AT&T long distance (AT&T Communications), you'll still get a bill from us for at least two more years. AT&T Communications signed a contract for us to provide customer billing for them for three years, ending on December 31, 1986.

Locking doors less help against thieves

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four out of five stolen cars were left unlocked by their owners, but a federal report says that locking up is becoming more futile as auto thieves become more professional.

In fact, the professionals have edged the juvenile joy riders out of position as the primary vehicle thieves, and the chances of recovering a stolen car have taken a dive from 84 percent to 55 percent in 10 years.

Thus, the report, entitled "Vehicle Theft Prevention Strategies," advocates new laws and new procedures by state governments, police, insurance companies and even wreckers to stem the vehicle theft business.

"Vehicle theft is no longer a matter of juvenile joy riding," according to the report prepared by Abt Associates, Inc., for the Justice Department's National Institute of Justice. People under age 18 accounted for 56 percent of the vehicle thieves arrested in 1970, but only 40 percent by 1981.

"This is increasingly becoming an adult crime involving gangs making enormous profits," James K. Stewart, the institute director, said Sunday. "About 1 million motor vehicles are stolen in this country every year, costing us an estimated $3.5 billion."

Thoughtful Holiday Shopper Knows Just What Not to Buy

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1984 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Now that people have started to shop for holiday gifts, please remind them about what and what not to give the older person.

I'M ONE IN INDIANAPOLIS

DEAR I'M ONE: Many others have requested a rerun of my column on holiday gifts—for people of all ages—and here it is:

DEAR READERS: Can you believe it's time to prepare for the holidays again? Well, it is, so do yourselves a favor and do your Christmas shopping early.

If you're wondering what to give Aunt Jennie or Grandpa, who don't go out much, let me tell you what not to give them:

No dusting powder, after-shave or cologne. (They probably have several unopened boxes gathering dust on their closet shelves.)

Grandpa doesn't need another necktie, and Aunt Bertha doesn't really want any more brooches, necklaces or bracelets.

With the price of groceries so high, folks who live alone on a fixed income probably would be delighted to receive a basket of goodies. Include small cans of salmon, chicken, ham, tuna, vegetables, fruit, instant coffee, tea bags, crackers, cookies and instant soup mixes.

Older people who live in confined quarters do not need more "things" that are ornamental only. Don't send music boxes, statuettes or other bric-a-brac.

A truly thoughtful gift: post-cards and some lined stationery with envelopes and a generous supply of postage stamps. (Enclose some felt-tip pens, too.)

The homebound will appreciate a box of greeting cards for all occasions so that they too can send birthday, anniversary, graduation, get-well and condolence cards to others. (Be a sport! Stamp some envelopes.)

Don't give anyone a gift of clothing unless you're absolutely sure the size is right. That goes for color and style, too.

If you're tempted to pass along a scarf, purse, wallet or some useless little doodad you received three Christmases ago, please don't; the recipient will probably find it just as useless as you did. (Besides, you might get it back the year after next.)

If someone on your gift list is living on a pension, a check for any amount would be much more appreciated than a frivolous little trinket. Or give someone who's counting pennies a year's subscription to a newspaper or magazine you know he or she will enjoy.

If you buy a gift on sale, be sure it's appropriate, since if the recipient tries to take it back he will be told, "Sorry, sale merchandise is not returnable."

Don't give anyone a pet unless you're absolutely sure it's wanted and will be properly cared for. And if you want to delight someone who considers his pet a "member of the family," include a tin of cat or dog food for the pet.

Don't give wine or liquor unless you're sure the recipients imbibe. Candy, nuts and fruitcake make wonderful gifts for those who aren't counting calories, but please have compassion for those who are, and lead them not into temptation.

Resist giving toddlers stuffed animals and dolls that are bigger than they are. And parents will thank you for not sending their children horns, drums, sirens or whistles. If you give a child a game or book, be sure it's in the appropriate age range.

Instead of giving someone a gift with permission to "exchange it if it's not what you want," save yourself (and him) much time and effort and give him a gift certificate in the first place.

Holiday time can be very depressing for people who are alone, so if you know someone who might be alone and lonely, give him or her the best gift of all—an invitation to spend the holidays with you and your family. Loneliness is the ultimate poverty.

Love, Abby

Democrats want tax cut freeze

WASHINGTON (AP) — Freezing further tax cuts and stretching out increases in defense spending would go far toward reducing burgeoning budget deficits, House Majority Leader Jim Wright says.

The Texas Democrat, interviewed on NBC-TV's "Meet the Press" on Sunday, advanced those revenue savings as the type the House leadership would be willing to entertain when it negotiates with President Reagan next year.

But Wright ruled out any further cuts in social programs that bore the brunt of budget reductions during Reagan's first four years in office. And he indicated that any tax-increase legislation — which the president has firmly ruled out — would have to be submitted in the chief executive's name.

"... I don't want to be in a position of making him eat crow," Wright quipped. "... Let him call it fried chicken or ice cream. He is a master of the euphemism. He one time called a tax increase 'revenue enhancement' and on another occasion he called it a 'tax reform.'

"So long as it doesn't place its burden disproportionately upon the middle-income taxpayer, who's already taxed beyond his capacity, and the working poor, then I'll consider it," Wright added.

As to his own ideas for slashing deficits that are projected to mount from $174 billion this fiscal year to $206 billion in 1986, Wright suggested freezing any new tax cuts and extending the military growth rate planned for the next four years into a five-year period.

"Those two things would cut the deficit in half," he said. "If we're serious, we might approach it from that angle."

Wright, who is considered likely to assume the speaker's chair after Rep. Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass., retires in two years, repeatedly pictured House Democrats as willing to work with Reagan. "I think we share with him the responsibility to try to find reasonable, workable answers" to the deficit problem, he said.

But, he added, "If the president insists upon trying to balance the budget by doing away with the retirement benefits hard won by America's middle-income and lower-income families, no, I will never assent to that. If he expects us to agree that we ought to do away with the medical benefits that people have paid for and earned, we'll never agree to that."

In last four years, Wright noted, defense spending has nearly doubled from the $146 billion appropriated in 1980.

Meantime, he said, "we have reduced domestic government (programs) by about $50 billion a year in the last three years and we've reduced entitlements (individual benefits) by approximately $50 billion. You can squeeze that lemon, but you don't get much more out of it."

On international issues, Wright said Reagan would find strong support for arms control initiatives from both sides of the aisle in the House, which retained a 71-seat Democrat majority after the Nov. 6 elections.

But he said most members will continue to oppose a restoration of covert aid to CIA-backed guerrillas fighting the leftist government of Nicaragua. The funds were cut off last spring following disclosure of U.S. mining of Nicaraguan harbors.

"I don't think the House wants to be a party to ... engaging in a war within another country's borders while contending that we aren't," Wright said. "There just something inherently dishonest about that."

John Tyler, our 10th president, was senator, governor, vice president and became president on the death of William Henry Harrison.

Your Birthday

Nov. 27, 1984

This coming year, you will make a number of constructive changes that will help advance your personal interests. They will come from your own imagination and your new, positive attitude.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Do not be hesitant about pushing your plans forward today if you think they are better than the ideas of your associates or companions. Looking for Mr. Right? The Matchmaker set can help you in your search. Send for it today by mailing $2 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You'll be a go-getter today in things that are of benefit to you materially or financially. All you need is the right motivation.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Do not be fearful about expressing your leadership qualities today. Everyone involved will fare better if you set the pace and determine the course of action.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Difficult objectives can be achieved today if you do what needs to be done without a lot of fanfare. Decide in advance what you want to do and quietly proceed.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You have a marvelous faculty today for expressing your ideas in ways that capture the imagination of others and make them eager to participate in your ventures.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your determination and fortitude are your greatest assets today. Once you set your mind upon an objective, you're not apt to quit trying until you succeed.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Even people who vigorously resisted your ideas can be swayed over to your way of thinking today and become allies instead of antagonists.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A great deal of your time today may be expended on the needs of others, rather than your own. However, later you'll be duly compensated.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're capable of handling difficulties with ease today. Even if disturbances pop up, you should be able to manage them without breaking stride.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It will prove to be a good diversion today if you can allocate some time to your pet hobby or to putting around with a project you enjoy doing.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) The results will be rewarding today even though your energies are apt to be directed toward social activities rather than essentials.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) This is a good day for you to try to finalize a matter where you are personally owed something of material value. The debt will be collectable.

Untangling three suits

By James Jacoby

South opened one club and then jumped to two no-trump after the one-heart response by North. South's second bid described a hand of 18 or 19 high-card points with stoppers in any unbid suits. North wondered whether his side might have a 4-4 spade fit, but he was afraid that a three-spade bid might be construed as a slam try. He simply raised to three no-trump. In your own partnership, you should have an agreement about the meaning of a three-spade bid in such an auction. I recommend that your agreement be that three spades is simply searching for that possible 4-4 fit, with no slam aspirations.

It's unlucky to be in no-trump and not have enough time to develop tricks in your nine-card fit, but the compressed diamond honors (doubleton A-K facing doubleton queen) placed declarer in that unfortunate situation. Although the deal is not your everyday, run-of-the-mill hand, South glimpsed some light at the tunnel's end. He won the ace of diamonds, cashed the A-K of hearts, and led a low spade toward dummy's Q-J. West properly ducked, or South would have had nine tricks. When the spade queen won the trick, declarer played dummy's heart queen, throwing the diamond king. After a spade lead back to his ace and a low spade from his hand, West was unable to prevent access to dummy. This line works whenever spades are 3-3 or West has the king.

2 medium-size leftover baked potatoes
¼ cup heavy cream
Salt and pepper to taste
¼ cup (packed) shredded cheddar cheese
Paprika

Remove skin from potatoes; dice; there should be about 1½ cups. In an 8-inch skillet stir together potatoes, cream, salt and pepper; sprinkle with cheese. Cover and heat slowly until hot. Sprinkle with paprika. Makes 2 servings.

Poetry members discuss Japanese poetry in meeting

The Scurry County Poetry Society met Nov. 19 in the home of Dorothy Cox. Garnet Quiett, president, called the meeting to order and Mayzell Fenton, chaplin, gave the invocation.

Cox presented a program about haiku and tanka, Japanese poetry forms. She explained that haiku is a simple, untitled, unrhymed, 17 syllable (or less) poem that does not depend upon meter or rhythm for its structure. The nature poem includes an implied or stated season word.

The tanka poem was described as a poem without meter or rhyme which contains five lines and 31 syllables and is written with 5-7-5-7-7 syllable count.

Fenton read her poem, "World War II," which was recently published in the M P Platoon, Company G newsletter.

Quiett shared her sonnet, "Sky Travellers," which took first place in an annual Poetry Society of Texas contest. The poem will be included in that organization's 1985 Yearbook.

During the brief business session, nominating, program and yearbook committees were named.

The group planned a potluck supper for their Christmas party set for Dec. 17 in the Ina Fargason home.

The members enjoyed refreshments after the meeting.

Interested persons may obtain more information about the Poetry Society by calling 573-9708 or 573-0432.

Fingerling Orders Now Being Taken

The Upper Colorado Soil and Water Conservation District, serving Scurry and Borden Counties, is currently accepting fingerling orders for pond restocking.

The District announces that the prices will remain the same as the 1984 stocking program. The following prices are now in effect per hundred: 4-6 inch channel catfish, $35; 6-8 inch channel catfish, $55; 1-3 inch hybrid bluegill, $40; 3-5 inch hybrid bluegill, $60; 2-3 inch hybrid largemouth bass, $70; 4-6 inch hybrid largemouth bass, $160; and fathead minnows (approximately 250 per pound), $7 per pound.

Delivery date is tentatively set for March 30 from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. at the Soil Conservation Service office in the Snyder Shopping Center.

Suggested stocking rates for small ponds are 100 channel catfish per surface acre. If you plan to supplementally feed the catfish or fertilize the pond, then 500 catfish per surface acre can be stocked.

The channel catfish can be stocked alone or with fathead minnows to serve as forage. The diet of a catfish is largely made up of aquatic insect larva, but minnows are also eaten if available. The larger 6-8 inch catfish fingerlings are recommended if large bass are present in the pond. Fingerlings of this size are generally fast enough to avoid being eaten by the bass.

In ponds greater than one acre surface area, stocking 100 catfish, 50 bass, 500 bluegill and two pounds (approximately 500) of fathead minnows provides a balanced stocking program.

The hybrid bluegill can be stocked alone or with bass or catfish. About 10 percent of the bluegill will reproduce and are a good choice as forage for bass. They grow larger than the native bluegill and are an excellent choice for stocking alone in very small ponds.

Plastic bags will be provided for hauling the fish. They can be kept in the bags for up to two hours, but should be placed into ponds as soon as possible.

Payment is due upon placement of the order with checks made payable to the Upper Colorado SWCD. Orders will be taken through March 21.

Additional information can be obtained by calling 573-0171 or by seeing SCS personnel in the office located at 3423 Avenue T.

Poet laureate

There is no authentic record of the origin of the office of poet laureate of England. There was, however, a versifier regis, or king's poet, in the reign of Henry III (1216-1272) who was paid 100 shillings a year. Geoffrey Chaucer assumed the role of poet laureate and, in 1389, got a royal grant of a yearly allowance of wine.

In WTC Classic action...

Dusters whip Grayson Viks, 66-48

Coach Joe Cushing said he got what he wanted out of the WTC Classic here last weekend - a tuneup for Tuesday night's Western Athletic Conference opener.

The Dusters, 12-2, will travel to Levelland to play South Plains College in the first WJCAC tilt of the season at 6. WTC men will also take on South Plains at 8.

"We got to play a lot of people. I think we gained some intensity and I believe we're ready for conference," said Cushing, whose Dusters nailed Grayson County 66-48 in Saturday's final game.

"Again, we played real tough defense. I was especially pleased with that.

The game was close throughout most of the first 20 minutes, though the Dusters did open up a 31-25 halftime lead. They worked the inside-outside game to perfection in the second half, usually pitching the ball in to 6-2 post Clara Campbell, who would either put it in or toss it back outside for the short jumper.

Western opened up a 10-point lead early in the second half when Patti Hayes and Rhonda Hoelting combined for six straight points, 41-31. The Dusters continued to outscore Grayson on almost a two-to-one basis, and eventually led by as many as 20 points.

Hayes led all scorers with 20 points. Campbell had 12, and Hoelting and Lyndy French put in 10 apiece.

Grayson was paced by 8 each from Julie Cardinale and Paula Crutcher. Crutcher spent part of the first half and all of the second half on the bench after a disagreement with Viking Coach George Speer.

WTC pulled down 35 rebounds for the game. Renvy Evans had 9 while Hayes had 8. Sharon Fore came away with 7 of Grayson's 31.

In other classic games, Howard College got 12 points from Alex Provencio and 12 from Joyce Boudreaux to defeat McLennan, 68-50; South Plains ran past Hill Junior College 87-68 as Shari Shilling and Sally Walling popped for 22 and 16 points respectively; and Amarillo got 13 points from Debby Jones and 11 from Georgia Walton to defeat Weatherford 62-51.

South Plains, the Dusters' opponent Tuesday, has a 9-4 season record.

Chicago wins Central; trio tied in NFC East

by The Associated Press

The Chicago Beats whipped Minnesota 34-3 Sunday to wrap up the NFC Central title with a 9-4 record.

Another division title was wrapped up Sunday as the San Francisco 49ers crushed the New Orleans Saints 35-3 to win the NFC West title.

Two other divisions remained close as the season finished its 13th week.

The Seattle Seahawks beat Denver 27-24 to create a tie in the AFC West at 11-2 and break the Broncos' 10-game winning streak.

In the NFC East, the Washington Redskins beat the Buffalo Bills 41-14 and New York Giants rallied to edge Kansas City 28-27 to tie them with Dallas at 8-5 atop the division. St. Louis, 7-6, remained one game behind with a 17-16 victory over Philadelphia.

In other games Sunday, Pittsburgh crushed San Diego 52-24, Cincinnati beat Atlanta 35-14, the Los Angeles Raiders defeated Indianapolis 21-7, the Los Angeles Rams edged Tampa Bay 34-33 and Cleveland downed Houston 27-10.

Last Thursday, Dallas beat New England 20-17 and Detroit edged Green Bay 31-28.

Tonight, the New York Jets visit Miami, which has already clinched the AFC East title.

Redskins 41, Bills 14

Joe Theismann became the Redskins' all-time passing leader as he threw for 311 yards and two touchdowns. Theismann passed Sonny Jurgensen as the Redskins' passing leader as he completed 26 of 33 passes. Art Monk, who caught one of the touchdown passes, finished with 11 catches for 104 yards.

Ladies ready for AHS crew

ABILENE -- Coach Ken Housden's Lady Tigers will take a 2-0 record into Tuesday night's 7:30 contest with Abilene High here.

The meeting will include a junior varsity game, scheduled to start at 6. Snyder JV is also 2-0.

The ladies will follow that action by playing in the Crane Tournament Nov. 29 through Dec. 1. They then return home on Dec. 4 to play Abilene. It will be their final home game before opening the District 2-4A season Dec. 14 against Andrews.

Westerners pop Hill, 81-74

ODESSA -- Western Texas College's Westerners copped their third straight victory in the Odessa Thanksgiving Classic here Saturday, defeating Hill Junior College 81-74.

The Westerners, now 10-1, open Western Athletic Conference play Tuesday at 8 o'clock as they take on South Plains College in Levelland.

Coach Phil Spradling said his Westerners were not impressive in defeating Hill, but that may be understandable. Western had defeated Angelo State JV 127-56 and Odessa AAU 136-82 on Thursday and Friday.

"After we played those first two the guys got kind of lackidasical. We should have beat them pretty handily but we played to the competition. We have to get out of that and just go out and play our hardest," said Spradling.

"It was close all the way, but I really thought we'd have it at the end. We had been down by 9 points with a minute and a half to go in the first half and we tied it up, so we knew we could do what it took," he said. "But we can't afford to do that in conference. We've got to get after our opponent for 40 minutes in every game."

The halftime score was 44-44.

James Dawn scored 23 points for the Westerners. Anthony Smith pitched in 16 and Alvin Hicks and Victor Spencer had 14 apiece.

Spradling said he expects Tuesday's WJCAC opener with South Plains to be tough. He got to scout the Texans in the Odessa Classic.

"They weren't real impressive but I know they'll be ready for us. It starts a new slate for everybody. I'm looking forward to it to see how the guys react in conference play," he said.

Scott's Tigers tumble 52-47; host Abilene High Tuesday

ABILENE -- Coach Larry Scott said his Snyder High School Tigers are improving, but still have a long way to go following their 52-47 loss to Abilene Cooper on Saturday.

"Our defense really picked up," said Scott, who added, "We had 17 steals but we didn't convert them into points. Offensively, we're still lacking. You could tell we have made progress, but we still need a lot of work."

The Tigers, 0-2, try again for their first win of the season when they host Abilene High at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Scurry County Coliseum. A JV game is set for 6:15 and a sophomore game for 4:30.

Snyder JV also played here Saturday and lost, 41-40.

"We got most of our points from outside," said Scott. "Our outside shooting looked good but we didn't get the ball inside. We need to mix it up a little bit, have a good mixture of inside and outside."

Bobby Scott led the Tigers with 11 points. Jackie Anderson hit for 9, Charles Bollinger for 8 and Mike McWilliams for 6.

Cooper, 2-0, got 18 points from Terriance Bell and 10 from Fred Starks.

Cooper ruled the boards only by two, 32 to 30, but Coach Scott said that was a difference in the game.

"They were getting a lot more second and third shots than we were," he said. "And our freethrow shooting (15 of 26) had an effect. Also, we had 24 turnovers and they didn't press us that much. They pressed us halfcourt, but not full court. I'd say that (the turnovers), our lack of defensive rebounding and our freethrow shooting were the difference in the game."

Snyder trailed early 15-11 but came back to make it 23-all at halftime. Cooper then went back in front 18-13 in the third period, which proved to be the difference in the game. Snyder pulled within three points late in the contest but was forced to foul, and Cooper made the freethrows.

Trey Tippens and Willie Greathouse had 7 rebounds each for Snyder while Scott had 4 steals and McWilliams and James Powell had 3 apiece.

Information on the junior varsity game was unavailable.

Israel, Lebanon resume troop talks

NAQOURA, Lebanon (AP) — Israeli and Lebanese military delegations resumed troop withdrawal talks today while Lebanon's army was deployed to take full control of Beirut from sectarian militias.

Shortly before the fifth round of negotiations began, Israeli delegation spokesman Lt. Col. Yona Gazit told reporters that Israel wanted to increase the pace of the talks, which began Nov. 8.

"We hope they will start moving faster," Gazit said. "We hope that more progress will be achieved at a faster rate."

A government official in Jerusalem who spoke on condition he not be identified said Israel wanted as many as five meetings a week instead of the current two.

The Beirut deployment was part of a three-stage plan to extend the control of Lebanon's army down the coastal road to the front line held by Israeli troops in the south and along the Beirut-Damascus highway to the east where Syrian troops are stationed.

Lebanese government sources said an immediate objective of the plan is to ensure round-the-clock traffic between Beirut's Moslem and Christian sectors with a minimized threat of kidnapping for motorists and pedestrians.

Sectarian abductions have been frequent on both sides of the line that separated the two sectors since the outbreak of civil war in 1975.

The army's 3rd, 5th and 6th brigades, whose combined 6,600-strong units have been stationed in the capital since July, were assigned to enforce the plan, under which armed militiamen are leave the streets.

Prime Minister Rashid Karami said successful execution of the plan would show Israel that the Lebanese army is capable of carrying out security duties in south Lebanon.

Israel has been critical of the Lebanese army's abilities, and the success of the current maneuver could have a major impact on the course of the withdrawal talks.

Only hours before the talks resumed today, guerrillas launched two attacks against Israeli troops in south Lebanon. Israel's military command reported on guerrilla was killed during a firefight near the Ansar detention center where hundreds of Lebanese prisoners are being held by Israeli forces.

For the first time, German Shephard guard dogs led by Norwegian soldiers patrolled the road between the Mediterranean seashore and the meeting site. U.N. soldiers could also be seen on the roof of an old Turkish guard tower in the border village's Moslem cemetery.

Additional concrete slabs were placed outside the conference hall to prevent a car bomb attack.

Mexico aiming for tourism

SAN JOSE DEL CABO, Mexico (AP) — Where only sand fleas and sea gulls once prevailed, the Mexican government is building vacation resorts in hopes of drawing U.S. tourist crowds and their dollars.

The transformation of this quiet fishing village at the tip of Baja California was started in 1978 by the National Trust Fund for Tourism Development, or Fonatur, with a 20-year development plan for the Los Cabos area.

Currently, there is a new international airport outside the city and three beachfront hotels with 11 more planned. In coming years, plans call for condominiums, a shopping center and golf course — all aimed at American tourists.

"The United States is the main market of tourism and the number of tourists is up about 20 percent over last year," said Carlos Kennedy, Fonatur marketing director here.

He said Fonatur is developing the area with "Old World charm" because "we don't want tall buildings and high rises all along the beachfront."

Tourism is second only to petroleum in producing income for Mexico and brings in about $1.5 billion annually. With the price of oil dropping on the world market, Mexico is hoping tourism can take up some of the slack and help pull it from the economic crisis it has faced since 1982.

Fonatur also is developing other resort areas, often carving them out of wilderness where studies showed tourist would go — areas with beach fronts, natural surroundings and an air of tranquillity.

4 minor traffic mishaps occur here with weekend

Police investigated four minor traffic mishaps over the weekend.

W.T. Erwin of 5400 Cedar Creek Dr. filed the first report at 8:52 a.m. Saturday.

According to the report, a curbside mailbox at the Erwin residence had apparently been struck by an unidentified vehicle sometime during the night.

Saturday's second accident was reported in the 2100 Block of 24th St. at 1:40 p.m.

Involved in it were a 1979 Ford driven by Michael Shane McCravey of 4101 Avondale and owned by the Snyder Daily News and a 1980 Chevrolet driven by Dixie Marie McClellan of Rt. 3, Snyder.

The parking lot of Anthony's Department Store on College Ave. was the scene of the day's third mishap at 3:37 p.m.

Involved in that accident were a 1983 Mercury driven by Travis Glen Hill of 2810 Ave. L and a 1979 Oldsmobile driven by Gloria Gann Shaw of 5500 College Ave.

The weekend's fourth accident was logged at 1:56 p.m. in the 2600 Block of 36th St.

Involved in it were a 1981 Buick driven by Ellen Clarice Beasley of 2805 36th St. and a 1983 Pontiac driven by Lawrence Bertil Hartley of 2801 35th St.

No injuries were reported from any of the weekend's mishaps.

Vehicle's windshield reported broken out

Snyder police are investigating a misdemeanor criminal mischief complaint involving a broken auto windshield and filed Sunday morning.

According to reports, Sybil Reynolds of 4117 Jacksboro Ave. reported the incident at 11:39 a.m. Sunday. She said someone had broken out a window in her son's car while it was parked at the residence overnight.

Damaged was a 1974 Chevrolet Camaro. The owner was listed as Dean Cruse.

No value was estimated for the broken window.

City police also reported the clearing of a "gasoline drive-off" complaint filed by employees of the Plaza Truck Stop at U.S. Highway 84 and Huffman Ave. late Sunday night.

Employees of the service station called at 11:07 p.m. Sunday to report a man driving a one-ton truck had driven away from the station without paying for $25 worth of gas.

The case was said cleared with the arrest of a 25-year-old suspect by Sweetwater police around midnight.

City police also logged a misdemeanor theft arrest in connection with a shoplifting incident at Furr's Supermarket Saturday afternoon.

A 51-year-old woman was arrested at the store shortly after 5 p.m. Saturday after store employees called police to report the incident.

In other weekend action, city officers jailed one suspect for public intoxication Saturday evening.

Uraguay people elect president

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — Voters chose centrist Julio Sanguinetti as Uruguay's president and then poured by the tens of thousands into the streets to celebrate an election held to end 11 years of military rule and revive their once-proud democratic tradition.

Although ballots from across this small South American country continued to be counted today, Sanguinetti was accepted by opponents as the winner in the 10-man presidential race. The election Sunday was the first national voting in Uruguay in 13 years.

"The country has now entered a period of dignity," the 48-year-old Sanguinetti, a lawyer and parttime political journalist, said in a victory speech at the headquarters of his Colorado Party. "The party is ready to undertake the task of national reconstruction."

His major opponent, Alberto Zumaran of the National Party, made a surprise appearance during the victory address to concede defeat. "I feel honored to comply with the decision of the people," he said, embracing Sanguinetti.

Official returns from 2,560 of the country's 7,873 polling places showed Sanguinetti's party capturing 237,753 votes, or 39.6 percent.

The National Party had received 208,492 votes, or 34.7 percent. The Broad Front, a coalition of leftist parties, had 98,880 votes, or 16.5 percent. The remainder of the votes were split among smaller parties.

Serving warrants can be dangerous

ODESSA, Texas (AP) — Serving warrants can have its humorous moments, but it also is one of the most danger jobs a law enforcement officer can have, says Sgt. Max Watters.

"They know they've done something wrong, so they know we're eventually going to be looking for them," said Watters, head of the Odessa police warrant sections. "We don't have the element of surprise. They're waiting for us, know we're coming.

"You never know what you're going to run into when you stick your head into an attic. You never know when they're going to have a gun or a knife," he said.

Watters, 48, oversees seven officers who serve about 550 warrants monthly to traffic offenders, minor assault suspects and people who are drunk or rowdy in public places.

Warrants served through the police department are for Class C misdemeanors, which carry penalties of no more than a $200 fine.

But police detectives also serve felony warrants and subpoenas to appear in court, and Watters said it's difficult to predict from the seriousness of the charge how difficult it will be to serve that warrant.

"We serve in all parts of town, from the Country Club Estates to the (poorer parts of town). Some people run just as hard from a Class C as others would from a felony," Watters said.

He said even misdemeanor offenders often try to escape capture, despite the risk of being charged with the more serious violation of "fleeing a police officer," a Class B misdemeanor with maximum penalties of 180 days in jail and a $1,000 fine.

Responsible types who've never been arrested before often attempt daring escape schemes, Watters said, as do women who "go crazy" when they discover they're being targeted for an arrest.

"A fighting woman is more dangerous than a fighting man," Watters told the Odessa American. "They'll hurt you. They kick you, bite you, they'll scratch you. I wore a set of teeth marks on my hand for a week one time."

But the most desperate are narcotics addicts, the warrant officer said. "They don't mind being in (prison)," he said, "because it's a warm place to stay, with good food.

"But the thought of having to do without their beloved narcotics, that just kills them," he said.

Female drug addicts "go ape. They'll try anything to get to the hospital emergency room in hopes a doctor will give them something to satisfy their needs," Watters said.

Memory of staff lingers at station

ODESSA, Texas (AP) — The memory of six KOSA-TV employees still lingers in the station's newsroom, a year after they and two others were killed in an airplane crash.

"We're close to normal again," station manager Tom Hughes said, adding that the station's insurance company replaced equipment losses and that a lawsuit never was considered. "But there are still thoughts of those guys every day."

The eight men died on Nov. 26, 1983, in the crash of an airplane returning them from assignments at two high school football playoff games.

Ex-kidnap victim looks for others

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Carolyn Huebner remembers too well the three years she spent in captivity after being abducted from her front yard. She now spends most of her time reuniting missing children with their families.

Ms. Huebner was abducted from her Pennsylvania home at age 6 and vowed "if I got away, I'd do something about such things."

Texas Child Search Inc., begun in San Antonio in 1982, is a direct outgrowth of her pledge. Last year, the organization handled 28 missing child cases and helped solve 20 of them.

"I kept my promise and I think that's why I'm successful (in finding missing children)," Ms. Huebner told the San Antonio Light. "It's what God wants me to do."

Ms. Huebner attributes her success to being able to understand the emotional trauma experienced by missing children and their parents.

Authorities say about 2.5 million children are reported missing each year across the United States, with about 500,000 never being found.

Ms. Huebner said the memories of her own childhood trauma have motivated her. She still vividly recalls the closed darkness of a tiny closet and the leg irons used to shackle her to a bed on the rare days she was allowed in the lighted world.

Memories of the daily beatings and small rations of rice and water never can be erased, she said.

"I never gave up hope," Ms. Huebner said. "I kept praying, and God was with me every day."

Ms. Huebner works closely with law enforcement officials, talks with the friends of missing youngsters, uses police computers, fingerprints and — in the case of murdered children — compares dental records in her diligent detective work.

Among the children she has helped was a 12-year-old girl named Karen, who was bleeding and weeping near a park a night before Easter.

Disregarding her thawing turkey and a head full of hair rollers, Ms. Huebner stopped the truck she was in and spoke to Karen.

Ms. Huebner said she knew almost instinctively that the cut on the girl's face was not caused by a run-in with a tree in the park, as the child first said.

She determined in a matter of minutes that the waif was a child prostitute and had been battered. She took the child home for the night and reunited her with her parents the next day.

Bass family empire started with loan for $40

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A mere $40 loan for a train ticket to West Texas in the 1930s started what has become a $4 billion family fortune, according to the patriarch of one of the world's richest families.

In an interview with The Dallas Morning News published Sunday, Perry Richardson Bass, 70, recalled that his father, Dr. E.P. Bass, a Wichita Falls oilman, was in New Orleans with his wife, in the late winter of 1933, entertaining officials of the Pure Oil Co.

"My daddy gave (four $10 bills) to my mother to spend at the horse races," Bass said. "But instead, my mother squirreled them away."

When Bass returned from school in Pennsylvania for spring break, his bachelor uncle, Sid Williams Richardson, was visiting. By the end of World War I, Bass' father and uncle had each made fortunes wildcatting oil. By the depths of the Depression, however, Bass' father was worth more than $250,000, while Richardson needed money for a train ticket.

"He and my mother and I were talking, and Uncle Sid asked to borrow some money from her," Perry said. "She asked him what it was for and he said, 'I'm going to buy a railroad ticket to go out to West Texas to start over. Everybody's looking for oil in East Texas, but I'm going to go to West Texas.'"

Annie Bass gave her brother the four $10 bills for the trip to West Texas.

During the next decade, Richardson would develop the Keystone Oil Field. That find is generally credited with opening up that part of the state to oil exploration, and it formed the basis of the Bass fortune, now estimated at up to $4 billion.

Bass joined his uncle after graduating from Yale with a bachelor of arts degree in geology and geophysics in 1937. He said he remembers the first few years as debt and hard work.

"He worked you very hard," Bass said of his uncle. "My mother used to get mad at him because he was so mean to her little boy."

As a boy in landlocked Wichita Falls, Perry Bass somehow acquired an interest in sailing, an enthusiasm not shared by his father.

"My daddy was definitely afraid of water," he said. "He hunted and fished, but he didn't like the water. They used to say that he could step on a rowboat in a millpond and immediately get seasick.

"Finally, my daddy said that I could have one if, 'You build it with your own hands and used your own money.' He thought he had me on both counts,' " Bass said.

Bass built a 15½-foot snipe, and with it, won the world championship in that class at a 1935 regatta on Dallas' White Rock Lake. He sailed until several years ago, serving as navigator on broadcasting magnate Ted Turner's 12-meter racing yacht, the American Eagle, which won the World Open Championship in 1972.

According to James Toal, Fort Worth city planning director, the Basses now own all or part of at least 21 blocks of downtown. Toal says that the most conservative estimates are that the family has spent $250 million since the mid-1970s renovating the center city.

"It's our hometown," Bass said. "There are a lot of nice people here."

For years, the Bass family built its fortune in anonymity, something that has changed in recent years due to media interest in the family, Bass said.

"The media lays you open to all the robbers, the pickpockets, the kidnappers ... We get requests in here all the time for things like ... perpetual motion machines. It's a time-consuming thing," he said.

Bass says his four sons — Sid, 42; Ed, 39; Bob, 36; and Lee 28 — are his proudest accomplishments.

"We expected a lot of them," he said. "It has to be that way — just one misstep, and we're gone for generations.

"We see so many families that seem to have everything going right and the kids just don't turn out well ... It was just luck. We were just plain lucky."

Bass and his wife, Nancy Lee, now travel a great deal. Bass said he particularly enjoys salmon fishing in Iceland.

"We go a lot of places together," he said. "It makes up for all the years when I worked seven days a week, and she had to raise four boys."

Locals' son in Who's Who

John Zell Gaston IV, son of John and Zollie Gaston III, former residents of Snyder, has been named to "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges" for 1985.

Zell is a second-year senior at Oral Roberts University in Tulsa, Okla. He is a 1980 graduate of Pleasant Hill High School of Pleasant Hill, Mo., and is majoring in accounting at ORU.

Maj. Weaver is decorated

Maj. William F. Weaver, Jr., son of Mrs. William F. Weaver Sr. of 3008 34th St., Snyder, has been decorated with the U. S. Air Force Commendations Medal at Randolph Air Force Base.

The Air Force Commendation Medal is awarded to those individuals who demonstrate outstanding achievement or meritorious service in the performance of their duties on behalf of the Air Force.

Weaver is chief of the Training Programs Branch with the 3305th School Squadron.

He received a master's degree in 1978 from Webster University, St. Louis.

Captain J. Brown completes course

Capt. Jerry L. Brown, whose wife, Janis, is the daughter of Ellen Rinehart of 2505 Avenue N, Snyder, has completed the medical logistics management course at the Academy of Health Sciences of the U. S. Army, Fort Sam Houston.

During the course, Medical Service Corps officers learned how to handle the complex special needs of medical service and supply systems and operations.

He received a master's degree in 1979 from the University of Texas.

Food crisis is likely to last long time

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — The haunting television images of skeletal, starving Ethiopians burst suddenly onto the world's consciousness, triggering a flood of sympathy and aid.

But as the images fade, the specter of mass starvation continues to stalk Ethiopia and more than half of the rest of Africa's nations. Some experts talk of one of the greatest calamities of modern times in the making.

It certainly is a problem, they say, that won't go away once the television sets are switched off, and it is likely to affect a generation of Africans.

Whether cameras are there to record it or not, destitute families will continue to trek from parched fields to emergency feeding centers for food handouts. The emaciated bodies of children will continue to be sewn up in burlap sacking for burial in common graves.

The secretary-general of the Ethiopian Red Cross, Getachew Araya, remarked in Geneva earlier this month that "the world is currently looking at Ethiopia" and that a feverish effort had been launched to help more than six million victims of famine in his country.

"But I'm a little bit scared, and the Red Cross in Ethiopia is a little bit scared, that maybe this fever is a 15-day wonder," Getachew said. "If the fever goes down, maybe after a month or so, and if supplies are not forthcoming ... At least for one year, we are back to where we were a month ago."

Dawit Wolde Giorgis, chief of the Ethiopian government's main agency dealing with the famine, the Relief and Rehabilitation Commission, told a news conference in Rome: "The catastrophe is just beginning."

He said the impact of the failure of Ethiopia's "small rains," January through mid-April, is being felt now. "But the impact of the failure of the main rainy season, in June and July, will be felt in December," Dawit said. "The main rainy reason was a total failure."

Ethiopia's Marxist military leader, Mengistu Haile Mariam, said in a rare news conference here Nov. 16 that the failure of the "small rains" forced farmers to eat the seed grain that had been put aside for sowing before the June-July rains. When those rains failed, he said, the government had to appeal for outside help because its reserves were nearly exhausted.

The story in Ethiopia has been similar throughout much of Africa because of what Mengistu called "a radical change in the general ecological situation."

A devastating drought — from Morocco in the north to Mozambique in the south, from Somalia in the east to Senegal in the west — is in its third straight year in some places.

Mengistu said drought has become chronic in parts of northern Ethiopia over the past decade, although many experts say bad government policies and primitive agricultural methods that strip the land are also to blame for the present famine.

The drought has left 35 million people "in desperate need of help," according to a recent report by the office of the United Nations Disaster Relief Coordinator in Geneva.

It said 27 African nations — whose populations account for about 200 million of Africa's 500 million inhabitants — are now listed as urgently needing external food aid and that, overall, 36 countries face food shortages.

Calling Africa the world's "hungriest continent," the Rome-based U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization has said "all signs point to a further deterioration" in the continent's food situation next year.

Bill Kliewer, vice president of World Vision International, told an American television audience that he fears a "holocaust" in Africa unless the United States and other countries rally round to help.

Cut your own taxes and save

Keoghs can help moonlighters

By Robert Metz

Moonlighters take note. If you do not have a Keogh plan, you are probably missing a chance to save taxes. It's an opportunity you can exploit far into 1985, so long as you set up your Keogh by year's end.

Many taxpayers who qualify for Keogh plans still don't have one because they accept the misguided idea that an individual taxpayer cannot have an Individual Retirement Account as well as a Keogh plan.

All told, some taxpayers are saving for retirement in four places at the same time — a company pension plan, an IRA, a Keogh for their moonlighting income, and Social Security.

The confusion over the right to use both Keogh plans and IRA plans exists in part because Keogh plans do the same kinds of things IRAs do.

Keogh plans inspired IRAs. Keoghs are named after former Rep. Eugene Keogh, D-N.Y. He pushed the idea for a decade before the rest of Congress accepted his concept that taxpayers should be entitled to pension plans even if they didn't work for an employer who had one.

The concept has since been widened a lot. That's to encourage saving, which is viewed favorably because savings add to the pool of capital for investment.

After several upgradings, Keogh rules now allow a maximum deduction for contributions of 15 percent of the self-employment net income up to a ceiling of $30,000. For example, a self-employed manufacturer's agent who nets $10,000 after deductible expenses could put $1,500 in Keogh. Remember, the income must come from the performance of services. It cannot come from investments or other "unearned" income.

Keogh plans are used by many small businessmen as their basic pension plan apart from Social Security. Keoghs have proven to be especially attractive to doctors and other professionals.

Tax Trap: Special rules apply to Keogh owners who hire others. Usually, employees must be included in the plan. See your tax adviser.

Like funds set aside for IRA plans, funds placed in Keoghs can be invested at banks, savings associations at credit unions, or at mutual funds. Or the money can be invested with a broker. In 1984, for the first time, it is not necessary to have a bank or financial institution serve as a trustee.

With minor exceptions, withdrawals cannot be made before age 59 1/2 without penalty. Exceptions: death, disability or separating from the company. But withdrawals must start in the year you turn 70 1/2.

Tax Trap: In one important respect Keoghs and IRAs have parted company. Effective for 1984 returns, IRAs must be funded by April 15, 1985, the normal deadline for paying taxes. This is so even if the taxpayer gets an extension of time for filing the return. Not so for Keoghs.

Tax Tip: Taxpayers can delay funding their Keogh plan until they actually file. Thus, they must determine the tax due and pay it by the April deadline. Still the Keogh plan can be funded as of the final deadline under whatever extension the taxpayers apply for and get.

Tax Trap: A reminder — 1984 taxes are due by April 15. This holds whether or not you have an IRA plan, a Keogh plan or both.

The Internal Revenue Service routinely grants four-month extensions for filing income tax returns. In appropriate circumstances, individual taxpayers can extend the filing deadline out to Oct. 15, 1985.

Dr. Lamb

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm a 52-year-old woman in good health except for my bowels. For the past three years I have had difficulty. I never had any problems until three years ago, when I started a diet. Like most women my age, I started to gain weight, so I followed a liquid-formula diet plan. It was supposed to provide everything I needed without eating anything else. I followed it for six weeks and it certainly did help me lose weight, but my bowel function changed completely. I used to be as regular as a clock, but starting with that diet, I could go several days without a bowel movement.

Then I started to have pains that were like cramps in the side of my abdomen, and when I did have a bowel movement, it was often hard and dry. Sometimes I also would have loose stools.

Now I eat a fairly normal diet, but my bowels have never returned to normal. Why don't they function like they used to before that crazy diet? I'm glad to have lost a few pounds, but I don't appreciate the way in which this has wrecked my bowels. Any suggestions will be appreciated.

DEAR READER — See your doctor to be certain about the cause of your abnormal bowel function. An unexplained change in bowel function is a sign of colon cancer.

The diet may explain your problem, but don't take an unnecessary risk. That formula diet didn't provide the needed bulk for normal bowel function. Constipation often accompanies fad diets that don't provide adequate bulk. Once your colon lost its usual habits, it never returned to its natural rhythm.

You can do something about that. I am sending you The Health Letter 16-4, Spastic Colon, Irregularity and Constipation, for details. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Increase the bulk in your diet, drink plenty of fluids and re-establish a normal reflex pattern. That means eating a good breakfast, which includes at least two glasses of liquid and going to the bathroom shortly afterward every morning, with or without results, until your colon gets in the habit again. Your story should be a good warning to those tempted by fad diets.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Can you give me some information on Hodgkin's disease? I have a small lump in my neck and four small lumps by my groin area. I've seen two doctors who say I shouldn't worry, but I'm scared. One doctor said I'll probably have these lumps forever. Could this be Hodgkin's disease? I feel fine otherwise. I'm 23.

DEAR READER — When the cause of a lump is not obvious, there is only one answer. Take a biopsy, or remove it and look at it under a microscope.

I doubt very much that anyone knows what those lumps you have really are. If they cannot tell you specifically what they are, one should be taken out and examined carefully.

The lumps probably are lymph nodes, which can become enlarged for many reasons. A local collection of enlarged nodes could be a local infection; hence the nodes in the neck enlarge with a sore throat. They also can enlarge due to cat-scratch fever. There are many other causes for generalized enlargement of nodes other than Hodgkin's disease, but it can be one of the causes.

Injured parties IDs mixed up

SIOUX CITY, Iowa (AP) — Authorities say they will take fingerprints and check dental records of a badly bruised teenager who awoke from a two-week coma after an automobile crash and said she was another girl who had been declared dead in the same accident.

The crash survivor was originally identified as Shawn Lake after the Nov. 10 accident, but emerged from a coma and said she was Patricia Noonan, authorities said.

A funeral had been held for Miss Noonan, even though it was actually Miss Lake's remains that were apparently laid to rest.

No one in this western Iowa city knows how the mistake could have occurred.

"Everything was done in the usual manner," including viewing of the body before burial, said Steve Baumgarten, owner of the funeral home where services were conducted for the dead girl. "What can I say? It's just bizarre."

"No, I'm Patty, Patty, Patty," the girl who had been identified by family and police as Miss Lake, said when she regained consciousness Saturday afternoon, said Dr. B.E. Krysztofiak, a neurologist.

At the Marian Health Center, Miss Lake's mother, Colleen Lake, had been keeping a vigil at the bedside of the girl she believed to be her 16-year-old daughter, who was the same size, age and build as Miss Noonan.
