The long period of investigation into the prison riot at Attica, N. Y., is well underway. At present, it appears that those making the most noise are interested principally in technicialities involved in the deaths of eight hostages. Hopefully, they will not lose sight of a basic fact: If there had been no riot, there would have been no deaths in the prison.

Already there are those on the scene whose interest apparently is an effort to make heroes of the rioters.

This has long been a tendency of some people in our country. As someone mentioned the other day, nearly all school children are familiar to some extent with the sordid careers of Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker. But how much can they tell you about the two highway patrolmen who were killed by Bonnie and Clyde at the outset of their lawless escapades.

"How in the world did we ever get by?" a caller asked. He was referring to the traffic situation at West Elementary School which was brought to the attention of the school board at its meeting Tuesday night, and recalling the situation of earlier years, such as 1957 when there were approximately 800 pupils in West Elementary, and El Paso Avenue and Thirty-seventh Street had not been widened as they are now.

The problem, as presented to the school board, involved the automobiles of parents who come to deliver or pick up their children at the school. According to the report by the P-TA, they are not observing traffic regualtions and are creating a hazard.

The board will have to decide whether its responsibility extends to trying to keep parents from endangering their own children by doing what they know they shouldn't do. It may be difficult to justify spending public funds on any additional installations for this specific purpose.

National Highway Week begins today, and the Texas Good Roads Association, noting that President Nixon and Gov. Smith apparently were in accord on support of this observance, took the opportunity to needle the president.

Referring to the president's comments on the importance of highways, the association's Newsletter commented:

"These sentiments were as warmly received as spoken. Sadly, they failed to thaw the administration's freeze on federal highway funds. At least, as of this hour, Texas lookouts had not sighted any trickle-through of that $148,758,000 the feds have been holding in their little cold hands."—WACIL McNAIR.

ANNOUNCES RETIREMENT — Associate Justice Hugo L. Black announced his retirement Friday from active service on the Supreme Court. He cited failing health as his reason. Black has been hospitalized since Aug. 28. He was appointed to the high court by President Franklin D. Roosevelt and has served since Aug. 12, 1937. Southern Conservative Successor Is Probably

By ROBERT L. CAMPBELL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — With Alabaman Hugo Black stepping down from the Supreme Court, another Southerner probably will be President Nixon's choice as a successor. But Nixon wants a less liberal Southerner than Black to bolster the court's conservative majority of one.

Rebuffed in two attempts to have a Southern conservative appointed to the nation's highest tribunal, Nixon has promised the next appointee will be one.

Before Black announced his retirement Friday, the court lineup was five predominantly conservative members to four liberals. The former group included Nixon's first two appointments, Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Harry Blackmun, both strongmen of the faction that interpreted the Constitution conservatively. The others included Potter Stewart, Byron R. White and John M. Harlan.

Black, perhaps known best for his populist interpretation of the Constitution, generally sided with William O. Douglas, William J. Brennan Jr. and Thurgood Marshall.

They, along with Abe Fortas and former Chief Justice Earl Warren, produced a distinctly liberal bent from the court until Fortas' resignation and the retirement of Warren in 1969.

Nixon appointed Burger as Chief Justice, then sought another conservative to give the court a majority.

But his nominations of Clement F. Haynsworth of South Carolina and G. Harrold Carswell of Florida to succeed Fortas were rejected by the Senate. Many senators said Haynsworth was insensitive to conflicts of interests; a number of senators said Carswell was mediocre; and both were cited on racial positions.

Airlines Staging Sky Lounge War

By JAY SHARBUTT
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two hundred and two bars will be flying over the United States by the end of this month, the result of a lounge war between four major airlines.

And no cease-fire is in sight in the battle for the passenger dollar.

The weapons have included a guitarist, Frank Sinatra Jr. and a seven-piece band, and "at the rate it's going Piper Cubs may be getting lounges," said one airline executive here.

The four battlers in the Great Lounge War are American, Continental, United and Trans World airlines.

This week TWA raised the stakes in the game of aerial one-upmanship, which began in June. It said a "fully-staffed bar" and lounge would be ready today for coach passengers in all 41 of TWA's domestic-run Boeing 707 jetliners, which for the past decade had bars only for the folks in first-class.

A TWA spokesman said the new move will make the airline "the only carrier to offer its passengers coach lounge service on both 707 and 747 jets."

TWA's 18 jumbo jets on domestic runs initially had only the first-class section "upstairs" bar near the crew compartment; starting June 7, bars were installed amidship of all 18 for coach passengers.

American, which started the coach lounge war, has gone TWA one better: Its 16 jumbo 747 jets each have three bars.

1 Held In Burglary

The chance of solving the $20,000 clothing burglary at Rogers, Inc. here Thursday morning appeared good following the arrest Friday night of Helen Louise Hymond, 27, of Lubbock. She was nabbed by Lubbock Police there about 11:45 p.m. Friday on a warrant issued by Justice of the Peace J. P. Billingsley of Snyder.

Bond of $25,000 was set by Justice of the Peace Charles Smith of Lubbock, and she was remanded to county jail in Snyder in lieu of bond.

Billingsley also has issued a warrant for the arrest of another suspect — a man — in the case. Police Detective Paul Alexander of Snyder said more arrests are expected in the next few days.

The Snyder Police Department, the Scurry County Sheriff's Department, Texas Rangers and the Lubbock Police Department are cooperating in the case.

The loss was covered by insurance.

"Strong Willed" Baby Goes Home

WESTMINSTER, Calif. (AP) — At age 4 months, Ty White has overcome more ailments than an adult is likely to suffer in a lifetime. His doctor calls him "the baby who refused to die."

"There is such a thing as a psychological will to live in some tiny infants," says Ty's pediatrician, Selden C. Beebe.

The youngster had help from his mother, Pat White, 16 doctors and a platoon of nurses.

Mrs. White had suffered three miscarriages, and Ty was born by caesarean section in her sixth month of pregnancy, a 3-pound 2-ounce incubator resident with a slim chance of life.

From the first cry, Ty had trouble breathing. His weight dropped below three pounds, and he was suffering from diarrhea. Radiology tests revealed that Ty had a form of colitis—an inflammation of intestines and colon, from which only one of 10 babies survives, doctors say.

Then, physicians discovered Ty had another problem with a 90 per cent fatality rate—an inability to produce the blood-clotting agents, platelets.

Exploratory surgery was performed to determine the source of the colitis, and Dr. Visut Kanchanapoom noticed a hernia and repaired it.

Despite a continued loss of platelets, preventing healing of the surgical incisions, two more operations had to be performed. Within six weeks Ty received 40 transfusions, 16 of them supplied from the blood of his paternal grandfather, Frank White Sr.

The boy's weight dropped to 2½ pounds despite intravenous feedings. Doctors threaded a tube through a large vein in his neck into a blood vessel near his heart and funneled through it life-sustaining amino acids, vitamins and large molecules of food.

Ty started to gain weight in his second month of life, but then developed pneumonia. As antibiotics and draining of the lungs were curing that, a block was discovered in the tube in his neck, withholding nourishment.

Another operation removed the tube and doctors inserted a replacement in the other side of his neck.

Mrs. White, a 28-year-old school teacher, stood by, speaking to her son, getting him to giggle, playing music for him.

"Pat did a remarkable job," said Dr. Beebe. "She personally did more than any medication known to man."

In late August, Ty began to respond: He began producing his own platelets; his incisions began to heal; and his intestinal problem began to improve to the point where he could be fed by mouth—a tremendous step.

By Labor Day, his weight reached 4 pounds, 2 ounces. On his four-month birthday, he was a bouncing, bubble-boy baby.

Pat took Ty home Thursday.

Mrs. White, whose husband Frank Jr. works in Honolulu for a shipping firm, says, "He's going to be a football player."

ALONG SUEZ CANAL

Israel-Egypt Trade Fire

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israel and Egypt exchanged missile fire along the Suez Canal today in the most serious outbreak of Middle East fighting since a U.S.-sponsored ceasefire went into effect 13 months ago.

The Israeli military command claimed Egyptians opened fire with Soviet-supplied ground-to-air missiles against Israeli warplanes flying over the occupied Sinai Desert. The Israelis said their jets returned the Egyptian fire but made no mention of crossing the canal into Egyptian airspace.

A military spokesman in Cairo, however, said the firing began when a formation of Israeli Phantom jets blasted Egyptian positions with a number of Shrike rockets. Egypt said the Israeli attacks took place about six miles from the Israeli-held side of the canal.

The Cairo spokesman said the Israeli rockets caused no casualties or damage. The Israeli command did not say whether any of its planes were hit by the Egyptian antiaircraft missiles.

The hostilities along the Suez, which has been free of major fighting since the cease-fire began on Aug. 7, 1970, coincided with a burst of fighting reported by Lebanon near its border with Israel.

The Lebanese military command said Israeli soldiers opened fire on the village of Rmaich, about 2½ miles from the border. A spokesman said the firing followed gunfire on the Israeli side of the border, presumbaly between Palestinian guerrillas and the Israelis.

The missile exchange further charged the 103-mile-long Suez Canal with tension. Israeli and Egyptian troops already were on the alert because of the downing of an Israeli transport plane by Egyptian air defenses.

The Israeli state radio, quoting official military sources, said Egyptian troops "went on a full scale alert with soldiers donning helmets." It added that "Israeli troops also were at appropriate readiness."

Defense Minister Moshe Dayan said the attack on the plane Friday was an act of provocation, but that the question of retaliation required some thought.

A Soviet-made antiaircraft missile hit the U.S.-built Stratocruiser over the Sinai desert, and it crashed in flames 15 miles east of the Suez Canal, the Israeli military command reported.

It said seven of the eight members of the four-engine transport's crew were missing and one parachuted to safety.

The Israelis said the plane was carrying "cargo" and was making a routine trip parallel to the waterway but not near it. The Suez marks the cease-fire line between Egypt and Israel.

Egypt at first claimed the craft was a Phantom fighter-bomber on a reconnaisance mission over Egyptian territory, but later acknowledged it was a transport.

The loss brought to 17 the number of aircraft the Israelis say the Egyptians have shot down along the canal since the 1967 Middle East war. But it was the first reported loss since the ceasedfire went into effect in August 1970.

Riots Are Staged In Saigon

By J.T. WOLKERSTORFER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Police and students battled into the night today in a new spate of anti-government and anti-American demonstrations here. Fire bombs set cars ablaze and dense clouds of tear gas hung over the Chinese section of Saigon.

Students protesting the one-man presidential election and compulsory military training clashed with police in four sections of the city earlier in the day. Fresh demonstrations and fire bombings erupted at a student compound in Cholon, Saigon's Chinese quarter, after nightfall.

Despite barrages of tear gas canisters, more than 100 chanting students marched out of the Minh Mang compound carrying flickering torches and posters denouncing President Nguyen Van Thieu.

They hurled fire bombs at end circling police, overturned a police jeep and set it on fire. The mob forced an unloaded U.S. Navy bus off the road, but did nothing to the vehicle after it crashed into a lamp pole.

Then the students turned on another jeep carrying three Vietnamese. A woman and two men, one of whom appeared to be a Vietnamese navy officer, jumped out of the vehicle as the demonstrators attempted to overturn it.

Hearings Set On Future Control

By ROBERT L. Campbell
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wright Patman, chairman of the House Banking Committee, says his panel will begin hearings Sept. 27 on extending the wage-price control act, the authority by which President Nixon ordered the 90-day wage-price freeze.

Speaking to newsmen after 23 leaders of the House and Senate met with Nixon for two hours Friday on the administration's new economic plan, Patman said some members of Congress have mentioned the possibility of extending the act from April 30, 1972, to Jan. 1, 1973.

No mention was made of specific proposals discussed at the meeting, but Patman said he hoped the administration would come up early with any legislative proposals it has in mind.

"We intend to call before the committee the various administration officials who have been charged with the responsibility of administering this program over the past month," Patman said. He added that private witnesses from "all areas of the economy" also will be called.

Patman reiterated the view of many who oppose the Nixon plan that controls on interest rates are needed.

"I don't believe you can enforce an overall wage-price control act unless you restrict interest rates," the Texas Democrat said. "We are paying $150 billion a year interest on the public and private debt. You can't defend a law that has exceptions."

The meeting with Nixon was the last in a series Nixon has had to collect views on what is needed after the present freeze ends Nov. 13. Previous sessions have been with labor, business and farm leaders.

Meanwhile, Cost of Living Council director Arnold R. Weber said up to 25 cases of alleged violations of the freeze may be sent to the Justice Department for legal action.

Weber said in an interview none of the cases involve large U.S. corporations.

Early Fall Spell Envelopes State

Early autumn weather kept the Snyder area unseasonably cold and damp Saturday.

A brisk norther that whistled through the area Friday morning and brought heavy showers, had moved to the South Texas regions, but heavy clouds and occasionally mist and drizzle endured over much of West Texas Saturday.

The weather provided a soggy conclusion for the annual Scurry County Fair, and it also dampened football fans at Friday night's Snyder-Andrews game, although only fog and mist fell during the game.

The official thermometer in Snyder dropped to a chilly 48 degrees Friday night, and it was expected to dip into the forties again Saturday night.

As the cold front reached deep South Texas, downpours caused flooding in regions still soggy from hurricane-spawned rains.

Peace officers and National Guardsmen helped evacuate a dozen people from homes in Mercedes, 15 miles west of Harlingen as they were threatened by rising water early Saturday.

At Sebastian, a village 10 miles north of Harlingen, a dispatcher for the Texas Department of Public Safety reported, "There's water in nearly every house."

Two high-wheeled National Guard trucks were used as men went from home to home rousing other Mercedes residents to warn of danger from rising water.

Reporting as much as 3 inches of rain fell at Corpus Christi before daylight, the National Weather Service posted a flash flood warning for low areas in the rest of Nueces County and neighboring Jim Wells, San Patricio, Duval and Bee counties.

Water covered many streets in Corpus Christi but they were said to be passable. There was no word of any homes being flooded.

Much of the same South Texas area experienced floods which drove several thousand persons from homes and inflicted an estimated $25 million in damage only last weekend. The water came from deluges loosed by dying hurricane Fern.

Still more rain earlier this week compounded the situation in many of the same counties clustered around Corpus Christi, partly as a result of hurricane Edith churning in the Gulf of Mexico.

AT TOWER DINNER

Barry Defends Nixon's Policies

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP) — Nixon administration policies on the economy, dealings with Red China and the Vietnam War were defended Friday night by Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz.

Speaking at a $100-a-plate dinner for Sen. John Tower, D-Tex., in his boyhood hometown, Goldwater also said he considers Japan "the economic and military threat of the future" rather than Russia or China.

This statement was made in reference to President Nixon's announced plans to visit mainland China.

"I think the President's move toward Peking is a wise one because I think that within 25 years, Japan will again be a military threat in the Pacific," the Arizona senator said.

Goldwater, the 1964 Republican nominee for president, spoke for 30 minutes at the dinner, attended by about 300 area Republicans. They interrupted him with applause several times.

"Nobody is more opposed to the admissimn of Red China to the United Nations than I am," Goldwater said, "but I think that Japan will eventually become so superior economically and militarily she will again return to her old ways."

He described Nixon's "new economic policy" as "a step that had to be taken."

"I don't think wage and price freezes will really solve anything," Goldwater declared. "But the President inherited a dollar that was about bankrupt on the world market."

In backing Nixon's handling of the Vietnam war, he said the President [illegible] the best of a bad situation.

"When Nixon came into office, he took on the worst managed war in history," Goldwater said. "The war was started by Jack Kennedy and made worse by Lyndon Johnson.

"My concept is, when you get into a war you say I'm going to win it and win it tomorrow. That's why I still say I was right when I advocated using our air power more effectively in 1964."

The former presidential candidate predicted that within a year, the only Americans in Vietnam will be a few guards.

Goldwater blasted Democrats hoping for the presidency, taking a special swipe at Sen. Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts.

"I'd hate like the devil to wake up one morning to find another Kennedy as president of the United States," he said.

He called Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota, Sen. Edward Muskie of Maine and Kennedy "all nice people," but said being "a nice guy" is not a qualification for being president.

In a tribute to Tower, Goldwater called the Texan "an articulate conservative spokesman and a great American." The dinner honored Tower for a decade of service in the Senate.

The Arizonian said, "I speak for every Republican in the country when I say we are proud of what Tower has done."

Tower said he met Friday afternoon with President Nixon and the administration was busy molding the second phase of its new economic policy.

"I don't think even the President has fully formulated his next move," Tower said, "but he is meeting with business, labor and legislative leaders, and whatever comes out of this will come after a thoughtful process."

"The cast worked hard during our so-called vacation," commented Director Jack Clay in explaining how the drama was presented so early in the SMU Theatre Department's season.

The production, which was scheduled to run for five days, was extended to a sixth performance as a result of a run on tickets and rave reviews.

Troops Fall In VC's Ambush

SAIGON (AP) — Government troops fell into a double Viet Cong ambush north of Saigon and lost more than half of their 75-man force, military spokesmen disclosed Saturday. Three American advisers also were killed and one was wounded.

Official reports said 15 South Vietnamese troops were killed, 25 were wounded and three were missing. Eight Viet Cong were reported killed.

Viet Cong troops hiding in the Michelin rubber plantation 35 miles north of Saigon first ambushed a jeep, killing all three occupants, then attacked a two-platoon relief column with mortars, rocket-propelled grenades and machine gun fire.

The South Vietnamese dead included the Tri Tam district chief. Tri Tam is the headquarters of the Michelin rubber plantation, the biggest in South Vietnam.

The two attacks occurred late Thursday on highway 14, 2½ miles southeast of Tri Tam, but weren't reported until today.

In other action, the U.S. Command reported that a rocket-firing helicopter gunship was shot down on the Bong Son plain along South Vietnam's central coast. One American crewman was killed and three were wounded.

The Saigon command said it had no new reports of fresh fighting in the U Minh forest deep in the Mekong Delta.

South Vietnamese troops sweeping through the mangrove swamps of the U Minh, supported by rocket-firing U.S. helicopter gunships and a 7th Fleet destroyer off the Ca Mau peninsula, killed 60 North Vietnamese troops in a third day of fighting Friday, the Saigon command said.

The reports of Friday's battle action raised to 189 the number of North Vietnamese troops claimed killed by South Vietnamese forces and U.S. air strikes.

State Treasury Facing 'Cash Flow' Deficit

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Preston Smith's reported intention to wait until next June to call a special taxing and spending session of the legislature might be shattered next week.

The governor's budget man, Dickie Travis, will meet with state Comptroller Robert S. Calvert's staff to hear some bad news about something called "cash flow."

Simply stated, there will be urgent demands on the state treasury next Sept. 1 that can't be met if Smith calls the session in June, say Calvert's money men.

"I'm predicting a cash flow deficit next Aug. 31," said Jim Wilson, Calvert's chief tax estimator.

Kenneth Kimbro, the comptroller's chief clerk, said the federal government requires that the state's matching money for September's welfare payments be in the treasury on Sept. 1.

Even if the legislature votes new taxes to cover added spending—including medical costs for welfare recipients—the money doesn't flow immediately into the treasury.

"It takes a little while when you raise a tax to get some money in. If they put a sales tax increase in effect April 1, the tax is not due (from merchants) until July 31, which means most of it goes into the treasury in August ... I don't see how a special session in June could get the money in there by Sept. 1," Kimbro said.

Travis said a telephone call this week from Wilson was "the first time I knew there was a possible problem."

He said he would pass on to Smith what he learns next week from the comptroller's people.

Two governor's aides confirmed that Smith has been talking privately of waiting until June to call the special session, which is required since he vetoed the entire state appropriation for the fiscal year that starts next Sept. 1.

There are some pretty good arguments for waiting that long.

For one thing, Calvert will have had nearly a full year of experience in collecting new 1971 taxes and thus can give more accurate estimates of what they, as well as previous levies will bring in 1972. This could result in savings for taxpayers. Smith pointed this out in his televised veto message June 20.

For another, the party primaries will be over, which would diminish the possibility of lawmakers and statewide officials cluttering up the session with political grandstanding.

According to some reports, several of Smith's recent appointees might be rejected by the Senate in the next special session, another advantage in waiting as long as possible.

But if Smith is a non-candidate or loses the primary, his slight authority over the legislature would be weakened even more as a lame duck.

"What could he gain politically from calling it in June?" one governor's aide said scornfully.

The Texas Supreme Court might make up the governor's mind for him if it decides the legislature must come back to rewrite the House redistricting plan which the court held unconstitutional Sept. 9. New districts must be in effect by Feb. 7, the deadline for party primary candidates to file for a place on the ballot.

"I don't see how he could avoid submitting appropriations, too, if he had to call a session for redistricting," an aide said.

Smith opposes such a session and had declared he thinks the five-member legislative redistricting board—which includes Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, an announced gubernatorial candidate—has authority to redraw House districts.

He said it would waste $500,000 of the taxpayers' money to hold a special session. But he would have little choice except to call one if the supreme court says it is necessary.

And, said the aide, Smith would contradict himself if he then called still another $500,000 session for appropriations.

"It goes back to when I was 4. My sister was always telling me that some day I'd be Miss America."—Laurie Lea Schaefer, Miss America 1972.

"I don't speak for Mr. Mills. He does a good job and a lot of it. I'm not outspoken. I stay in the background."—Mrs Wilbur Mills, wife of the chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee.

"The arts have become very, very elite in this country. You have to go to special schools, then try out and audition all of your life. We hope to break through that by creating a free theater."—Geraldine Fitzgerald, actress who now is writing plays for a community street theater.

"I think it's a compliment to our popularity that the censors at every frontier read every word in every issue."—Leila Da Cruz, Lebanese editor who developed and oversees a market for translated American comics books in the Mideast.

Freon Gas Is New Cancer Weapon

DALLAS (AP) — Doctors in Dallas are using Freon gas, best known for air-conditioning capabilities, as a promising new preventive attack on cancer of the cervix.

Gynecologists at the University of Texas Southwestern Medical School describe successful use of a tissue-freezing technique known as cryosurgery to destroy abnormally-growing cervical cells in 32 of 35 women patients diagnosed to have "mild dysplasia"-an early form of abnormal change in the cervix, or mouth of the womb.

Club Tours Texas Tech Museum

The Altrurian Daughters Club began its yearly program "Exploring Everyday Ecology," by holding its first meeting in Lubbock, on Sept. 15. Fifteen members and two guests, Mrs. Roger Mize and Mrs. Tom Adams, met for a luncheon at Hemphill-Wells in Monterrey Center. Hostesses for the luncheon were Mmes. W. B. McSpadden, F. F. LeFeuvre, Lee T. Stinson, William F. Atwood, J. A. Thompson and Lee Smyth.

After the [illegible] moved to the Texas Tech Museum where Mrs. William F. Atwood, as program leader, had arranged for Jerry Rogers, director of the Ranch Headquarters, to conduct a tour of that facility. This tour adequately carried out the theme of this meeting, "Exploring Ranch Ecology."

The Ranch Headquarters, as an important part of the museum is being developed on twelve acres of land provided by Texas Tech University. On this land twenty historic ranch buildings are to be assembled, restored, and furnished in authentic detail. Five of these buildings, along with two windmills, are now in place. Mr. [illegible] account of the restoration being done on the U Lazy S Carriage house, the Renderbrook-Spade blacksmith shop, the J.A. Milk and Meat Cooler, the Slaughter two-story dugout and the Long S box and strip house.

The group returned home with the feeling that the museum was indeed an exciting place and with a better understanding of the dramatic era represented there.

The Red Tide has devastated Florida waters at least 23 times since 1844.

The Weeders Guide

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

Here are some questions and answers and a quiz for garden addicts. First the questions:

Can tuberous begonias be saved for next year? They may, by digging them just before the heavy frost. Dry them in a shaded area or indoors for about two weeks, remove tops and store in dry sand in a cool cellar. Put the tubers in moist peat in February or March and when roots and shoots show, replant in pots and water until ready to set indoors.

Do sawdust or corn cobs make a good strawberry plant mulch? They may be applied as a mulch to check weeds but added nitrogen must be applied (one tablespoon of ammonia sulfate, calcium sulfate or nitrate of soda per bushel of material.) Sawdust and corncobs break down rapidly and berries so mulched often are dirty and hard to clean. A far better mulch is weed-free straw.

What are the myriads of tiny jumping and flying insects infesting some lawns? They probably are leafhoppers. They do little damage to grass but are annoying. They can be checked with lawn sprays containing diazinon or malathion.

Is there a way to control Mexican bean beetle without using insecticides? Purdue University horticulturists don't know of any. Carbaryl (Sevin) and methoxychlor control this beetle. They are safe for humans to use, and are contained in many home garden preparations.

1. To what family does cobweb houseleek belong? A, Allium; B, Sempervivum; C, Rose.

2. Which annual is well suited to shady areas? A, Balsam; B, Zinnia; C, Petunia.

3. An acre of healthy growing timber produces enough oxygen to sustain how many persons? A, Four; B, 18; C, 25.

4. How far apart should you place strawberry runners in the row? A, Four inches; B, 15 inches; C, Eight inches.

5. Which should be applied to onions and potatoes in the field to stop storage sprouting? A, Maleic Hydrazide; B, Gibberellic acid; C, auxin.

6. Which type of leek is recommended for soups and stews? A, Dover Special; B, Alpine Special; C, Swiss Special.

The answers: 1-B, 2-A, 3-B, 4-C, 5-A, 6-C.

DAHLIAS CHANGED

Dahlias have come a long way in the garden decoration scheme from the one-type, round flower. It may be grown most anywhere in the garden—foreground to background. There are small button types to big decorative 10 to 14 inchers. The dahlia, grown chiefly as a cut flower, does well in most kinds of flower arrangements.

Small flowers or sparse flowering are indications of overcrowding.

Prospects Are Brighter For US Space Program

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — America's prospects for a strong future space program suddenly appear brighter after months of pessimism during which many thought this country was ready to rest on the glories of Apollo and turn the new frontier over to the onrushing Russians.

Last spring, the space agency was almost certain it faced a five-year gap in manned space flights at the end of the Apollo moon program in 1972 and after three launchings in the Skylab space station project in 1973.

There was talk of additional layoffs of thousands in the already hard-hit aerospace industry, of subsequent loss of capability built up through the Mercury, Gemini and Apollo programs, and of mothballing the great assembly and launching facilities at Cape Kennedy and elsewhere.

Today everyone is a lot more optimistic.

A second, more sophisticated Skylab project with three three-man crews, appears to have a good chance. There also is a possibility that two Apollo spacecraft, among those mothballed when three moon landing flights were cancelled, will be used in orbital mapping and earth resource missions. There is talk of reactivating the cancelled Apollo 18 and 19 moon landing flights.

And in 1975 or 1976, barring political or technical difficulties, a long-awaited linkup of American and Soviet spaceships may become a reality. Another leftover Apollo would be used.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration also is taking steps to cut costs which would enable the reuseable space shuttle—the great hope of the next decade—to log its first manned orbital mission in 1978, instead of 1980 or 1981.

There are many reasons for the new thinking.

Congress, after five straight years of sharp trimming of NASA's budget from a peak of $5.9 billion, decided this year the agency had been cut enough. It voted $3.5 billion, the same as last year.

Included was $100 million to continue shuttle development. Last year, funding for the reflyable rocket plane barely survived. This year it made it by a comfortable margin.

Congress has rallied behind NASA because of the aerospace layoffs, because many more members say they realize the value of a firm space program in maintaining a strong world technological position, and because many have become worried about the progressively aggressive Soviet space program and the gains it has made in military systems and development of a space station.

Much credit also should go to a talented group of men in the top echelon of NASA and its major aerospace contractors—men who have produced bold ideas for a continuing program.

The future of the program received a great boost from the recent flight of Apollo 15 and the motivation and performance of the three astronauts, David R. Scott, James B. Irwin and Alfred M. Worden.

Apollo 15 was the first truly scientific manned expedition ever undertaken.

The flight proved conclusively that man has a role in space. A dozen times there were minor problems that would have aborted an unmanned payload. The astronauts were able to overcome them.

Beyond that, the ability of the two highly-trained men like Scott and Irwin to transmit from the moon a running glow of precise geological data to scientists on earth and to collect and carefully document meaningful rocks and moon dust could not be matched by any machine.

Scott and Irwin were not geologists. But they trained hard for months to do the best job they could on the moon.

Scientists praised their work, and the descriptions relayed by Worden from lunar orbit. But they raised an old argument about how much more could be done by a trained geologist on the moon.

The controversy has boiled for years, between the scientists and the pilot-oriented men who have been the NASA leaders since the agency's organization in 1958.

NASA bowed to scientific pressure and named six scientist-astronauts in 1965 and 11 more in 1967. At the time, the prospects for flights were good, but the budget cuts wiped out three Apollo trips and delayed other projects. Four, along with several key scientists, have quit the program, and until recently five or six others considered resigning because they felt the agency was treating them as so much window dressing. Their chances of flying for eight or nine years were slim, and they were falling behind in research in their special fields.

But the scientists lately have been making their point.

Said one NASA scientist, "Scientific knowledge is the greatest possible return we can receive right now. The top level of management has been doing an about face.

"For one thing, the scientists argued they needed more time between Apollo flights to properly study results and select appropriate landing sites for later missions. After some debate, the flights were set at six-to-eight-month intervals instead of the previous four."

Then, within a week after Apollo 15 returned to earth, the agency named Dr. Harrison H. Schmitt, a geologist-astronaut, to fly to the moon on Apollo 17, the last flight in the program, with Eugene A. Cernan and Ronald E. Evans.

Bumped by this decision from a chance to land on the moon was pilot-astronaut Joseph H. Engle, who had trained for months with Cernan and Evans.

Schmitt's selection followed a long controversy, extreme pressure from the scientific community and bitter objection by commander Cernan against the splitting up of his crew.

The Schmitt appointment, plus other concessions by the pilot-oriented group, have helped ease the restlessness in NASA's scientific corps, including the scientist-astronauts.

"Six months ago I didn't have a prayer of a chance to fly," said one scientist-astronaut. "But now things look better. A second Skylab is a distinct possibility, and that might give as many as six of us not already assigned a chance to fly in 1974 or 1975. As long as I've got even one chance in 10 to work at my specialty in space, I'll stick around."

The Apollo program is due to end next year, with Apollo 16 set for a March 17 launching and Apollo 17 in December. Apollo 16 astronauts John W. Young and Charles M. Duke Jr. are to land near the crater Descartes in the moon's central highlands while Thomas K. Mattingly orbits. The Apollo 17 landing spot will not be selected until after the Apollo 15 data are studied extensively.

In early 1973, Skylab, a two-story workshop, is to be launched unmanned by a Saturn 5 rocket. The next day a three-man crew is to ride a modified Apollo ship to a docking with the station. They are to remain aboard 28 days, conducting medical, scientific and engineering studies, then ride the Apollo back to earth.

Two additional three-man crews are to rocket up to the same station during 1973, each remaining aboard 56 days.

The makeup of the crews and the experiment procedures have been the subject of vigorous disagreement between the scientists and the pilot-oriented men of NASA.

Although the crews have not been officially named, reliable sources told The Associated Press these astronauts have been selected:

Crew No. 1—Charles Conrad Jr., Paul J. Weitz and Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin, a medical-astronaut.

Crew No. 2—Alan L. Bean, Jack R. Lousma and Dr. Owen K. Garriott, a physicist-astronaut.

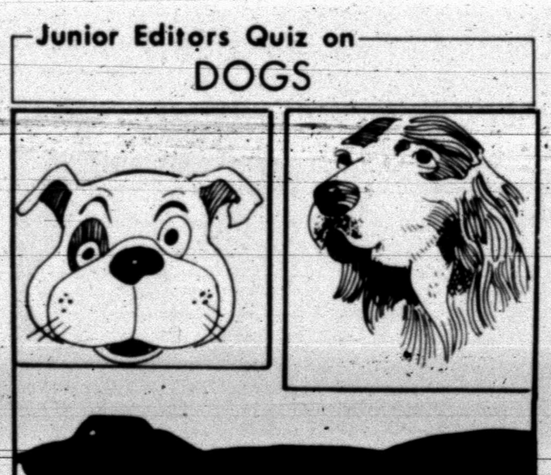
Junior Editors Quiz on DOGS



QUESTION: How did different breeds of dogs get their names?

ANSWER: It was originally thought that the dog was a descendent of the wolf or jackal. However, the earliest dog recorded in history was a Maltese, a toy terrier, held in high esteem in the ancient world. This was the dog worshipped by the Egyptians about 4,000 B.C. The Greeks and Romans also cultivated the breed. It was first bred on the island of Malta, a Phonecian trading center.

There are over 100 pure bred dogs recognized by the American Kennel Club. Over the years, they have been bred for various purposes. They perform certain duties for man and usually derive their names from their activities or from the place where they originated. The hounds hunt, as the name implies; the terriers tear up the ground looking for small animals. In the sporting dogs, the term pointer, setter and retriever speak for themselves. The poodle originated in Germany and jumped puddles while chasing game, hence the name poodle. The Cairn terrier derived its name from the rocks of Scotland where it hunted. On the other hand, many dogs have assumed the name of the area where the breed first appeared. In a few instances, the dog's name came from the appearance of the coat, such as wire-haired terrier.

Pete and Mary and Ted and Undecided

by Abigail Van Buren

[© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.]

DEAR ABBY: I've been going with a guy I'll call Ted for over two years. We plan to get married—maybe next year.

We go with another couple I'll call Pete and Mary. I used to have a big crush on Pete, but I thought I was all over it until Mary left town. Ted was also gone. Pete came over, and we sure dug each other. Things got out of hand and we made another date.

I still love Ted, but I've got a physical attraction for Pete, who says he loves Mary but doesn't want to quit seeing me.

I don't love Pete; I just want to see how it is with other guys. Now I'm so mixed up I don't know what to do. If Ted and I keep going around with Pete and Mary, I am afraid my guilty conscience will give me away. And if I try to avoid them, Ted will get suspicious.

I am so sorry I let this happen, but I really don't want to end it. Please help me. SAD BUT GLAD

DEAR SAD: You're lucky. You have proven to yourself that you aren't ready to confine yourself to one fellow. You have a lot of growing up to do. Quit sneaking around with Pete and tell Ted you'd like to date others.

DEAR ABBY: My husband never liked my first name so when we started dating he'd call me "Sweet Stuff." After we were married he started calling me "Mamma." Now, 10 years later, he doesn't call me anything.

When we are out in company he refers to me as "Her" and "She." When he wants to get my attention he says, "Hey, you." If I say, "Who?"—he says, "You!"

Our friends have begun to notice it, and this bothers me. Even a dog has a name. Any suggestions?

"HEY, YOU" IN BIRMINGHAM

DEAR "HEY:" If you've gone from "Sweet Stuff" to "Hey, You" in 10 years, your stock has slipped to a precarious low. Let him know that you're bothered, and would like a little consideration. And tell him if he doesn't like your real name, to go back to "Sweet Stuff."

DEAR ABBY: Someone wrote in to say that whenever they invited a guest preacher to give the sermon at their church they allowed him exactly one hour, after which there was an automatic ringing of chimes. And if the preacher wasn't finished, the chimes would drown out his voice, so he was finished whether he liked it or not.

And you remarked, "I'll wager that the church had a full house every Sunday!"

Abby, we are Seventh Day Baptist Christians and our sabbath is on Saturday—not Sunday. So in the future please show some respect for our sabbath, too.

OFFENDED IN ALABAMA

DEAR OFFENDED: No offense intended to you or to others whose sabbath is on Saturday. But my correspondent specified a particular church in Brook, Ind., and their sabbath is on Sunday.

DEAR ABBY: Since when is it such a great idea to inform a guest preacher that he has exactly one hour in which to preach his sermon, and at the end of the hour to start ringing chimes to drown him out whether he's finished or not?

I think we ought to give the services back to the Lord, since it is Him we are supposed to be worshipping at these services. Then we can let Him decide how long we should worship right on thru the chimes.

Wouldn't it be a shame if Christ returned after the chimes had rung and found that everybody had gone home?

Redistricting Battles Eyed

AUSTIN (AP) — The state Supreme Court has indicated it wants to look into whether this year's long and emotional legislative redistricting battles were even necessary.

Court clerk Garson Jackson sent letters to parties in a hearing scheduled for Thursday saying the court wanted briefs and oral arguments on whether the legislature was required to redistrict in 1971 or 1973.

The high court declared the House redistricting bill passed this year unconstitutional Sept. 9. Thursday's hearing is on a suit brought by Sen. Oscar Mauzy of Dallas to determine whether the job of rewriting the bill now falls to the legislature in special session or the five-man Legislative Redistricting Board.

Jackson said the court directed him to advise Mauzy and Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin that the "court expects briefs and oral arguments" on whether the state constitution required the 1971 or 1973 legislature to redistrict.

The Texas Constitution requires redistricting in the first regular session after publication of U. S. census data. Failure to do so automatically gives the job to the redistricting board.

Jackson said the court expected Mauzy and Martin to lay out facts concerning the 1970 census "so that the court may determine therefrom when the same was 'published.'"

In a related development, Rep. Fred Head of Henderson asked the court for permission to intervene in Mauzy's suit.

Head currently has a suit on appeal to the 3rd Court of Civil Appeals here in which he challenges the right of the redistricting board to act. Head contends the 1971 legislature should not have "reapportioned itself since census data were not published before it convened, but were issued druing the census.

Monkey Snatches Woman's Wig

PORT HARCOURT, Nigeria (AP) — There are enough problems in Port Harcourt's expensive department stores without having to put up with monkeyshines of real monkeys.

One Nigerian housewife was upset when a playful monkey perched over the store entrance and scampered off with her wig. About 10 minutes later, after a merry chase witnessed by chuckling but sympathetic onlookers, the young lady retrieved her wig, put it back on and walked away embarrassed but stylish again.

Texas Voters May Have Final Say In SEC Raps

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) — State and federal authorities must decide now who, if anyone, takes the rap in the Securities and Exchange Commission stock fraud case.

And Texas voters may have their say in 1972 when some of those involved in the stock manipulation scandal seek re-election or higher office.

U.S. Dist. Judge Sarah Hughes ruled Thursday that eight businessmen, including former Texas Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr and a former state insurance commissioner, John Osorio, had joined in illegal stock transactions. However, the decision merely placed the defendants, at SEC request, under permanent court orders not to make any more illegal stock deals.

The 11-page decision did not mention Gov. Preston Smith, Speaker Gus Mutscher, Reps. Tommy Shannon of Fort Worth, W. S. Heatly of Paducah and several others who were not defendants but have admitted they made quick profits on the manipulated stock of National Bankers Life Insurance Co., now in receivership.

It also did not mention U.S. Asst. Atty. Gen. Will Wilson, another former state attorney general and a former legal counsel to Houston promoter Frank W. Sharp, labeled the key figure in the SEC investigation.

Sharp, who was one of the eight permanently enjoined, earlier paid a $5,000 fine and got a three-year probated sentence on minor charges of stock tampering, then testified against other defendants in return for immunity from further prosecution.

Now attention turns to federal and state grand juries in Houston, Dallas and Austin who will decide if any of the SEC civil law violations should be followed by criminal law prosecution, including SEC accusations of a scheme to give some state politicians quick stock market profits in return for legislation that Sharp wanted.

No matter what the grand juries do, the SEC investigation and trial has already had an effect on a number of Texas political plans in 1972 and the balance of power in the 1973 legislature.

Smith has been in doubt about attempting a third term campaign and the SEC investigation undoubtedly will affect his final decisions. There has been no announcement but Smith has indicated by some of his recent actions that he will not seek re-election.

Mutscher says he is a candidate for a third term as speaker of the House but there is growing opposition among House members, some predicting Mutscher will be ousted before his current term ends in any special session before 1973. Mutscher also must win re-election as a representative from Brenham.

Heatly is considered likely to win re-election from Paducah but, unless Mutscher is speaker again, it is highly unlikely Heatly will be chosen as the influential Appropriations Committee chairman for a seventh legislative session. Two leading contenders for Mutscher's speakership have vowed they will not reappoint Heatly.

Shannon has said he will seek re-election from Fort Worth and already has an announced opponent for the 1972 campaign.

Still another 1972 campaign, that of Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes for governor, likely will be affected to some degree by the SEC investigation. Sharp testified that he once heard Osorio say that Barnes had "delivered for us ... He only deals in cash." Osorio at once called the testimony "a damned lie" and denied ever making such statements.

Barnes' opponents in 1972 are likely to revive the incident. "We have an uphill fight before us," a Barnes aide said afterwards.

Unfinished investigations are pending before separate Texas House and Senate committees.

The Senate group concentrated on operations of the State Banking Department, particularly in the collapse of Sharpstown State Bank at Houston. It considers much of its work done with the passage of seven bills in the recent legislature that gave the banking department more authority and power to act quickly in a bank crisis.

The House committee, which concentrated on SEC charges that outside influence was used to pass two bills in 1969 that would have helped Sharp's bank, has another session tentatively set for Oct. 7 and 8, with Mutscher, Osorio and Heatly scheduled to testify.

Sharp and Carr appeared at the last committee session which ended with charges from Carr and some committee members that Wilson and other top Republicans were behind the SEC investigation. The committee invited Wilson to appear, but he replied that he would delay any appearance until after the grand juries involved have acted.

The state grand jury in Austin has indicated it has finished its investigation, primarily into the legislative influence angle, and will report soon, probably the last week in September.

A high informed source told The Associated Press recently that the district attorney's office had prepared drafts of bribery indictment papers that named Mutscher, Shannon, and one of Mutscher's aides, Rush McGinty, but the papers had not been presented to the grand jury.

The source also said papers had been prepared naming Osorio in connection with a charge of filing a false report with the insurance commission. The source said this past week that the drafts naming the four men were still in hand and had not been acted on by the grand jury.

The district attorneys at Houston and Austin held a conference on the site of a trial if either of their state grand juries should return indictments. "Although we might have venue on a more limited basis that Travis County (Austin), that county has venue on all matters brought to my attention," District Atty. Carol Vance of Houston said later.

The federal grand jury in Houston, which has concentrated on probing the downfall of Sharpstown State Bank, heard testimony from Shannon Thursday then recessed until Sept. 27. Its term expires Oct. 26.

In Dallas, U.S. Atty. Eldon Mahon said his office would begin studying the findings of the SEC suit but it might be weeks before any cases are presented.

Andrews Rallies To Score 27-20 Victory

Two quarters do not a football game make.

Andrews' Mustangs overcame a 20-13 deficit with two touchdowns in the third quarter to capture a 27-20 verdict over Snyder's Tigers in their home opener here Friday night.

It was a thrilling contest from start to finish. Andrews scored first in the opening stanza, then Snyder tied it up in the same period. Snyder went ahead with a TD early in the second quarter, and the Mustangs pulled within one point. The Tigers then punched across another touchdown before halftime to take a 20-13 lead only to see the advantage vanish as the visitors put on a stirring rally in the third quarter. Two Tiger drives in the fourth quarter fell short.

Andrews took the opening kickoff and swept 74 yards in six plays. Halfback Mickey Matthews, who was switched from quarterback after last week, took a pitch out wide left and zipped 29 yards to the goal. End David Nix's extra point made it 7-0. The touchdown was set up on a 34 yard run around right end by halfback Davey Jones.

The Mustangs hurt the Tigers with their wide pitchouts all night. Matthews was especially effective. He scored three touchdowns and gained 155 yards on 27 carries to become the leading ground gainer. Halfback Bill Evin also made his presence felt, gaining 94 yards on 11 carries. He scored one touchdown.

Little fullback Sammie Lee Harrison was Snyder's best offensive weapon, gaining 76 yards on 19 thrusts. However, quarterback Butch Buchanan also had a good night, completing five of 12 passes for 85 yards and one touchdown.

The Tigers drove 25 yards in nine plays to tie it up. The drive was launched after Dicky Stanley recovered a fumble. Jimmy Dyess cracked the line for three to the 22 and a 5-yard penalty put the ball on the 17. Melvin Cobb gained two, Harrison added two and Dyess contributed three to the 10. Dyess gained two more, then Harrison went up the middle from the eight for the touchdown. Sandy Land's kick for extra point was accurate.

Snyder then traveled 70 yards in six plays to take the lead. Following a punt, Dyess burst 15 yards to midfield, but a 5-yard penalty moved the Tigers back, but Dicky Stanley, Louis Loyd and Mike Glasscock knocked him down short of the goal to preserve a 14-13 lead.

Following the kickoff, Snyder drove 80 yards in seven plays to take a 20-13 halftime advantage. Dyess gained two to the 22, then Melvin Cobb headed left. He ran into trouble, reversed his field, and scooted 28 yards to the 50. Harrison went off tackle for 17, then added two more to the 31. Buchanan, on the quarterback draw play, netted 15 to the 16. Harrison contributed two, then the little fullback blasted up the middle for the final 14 yards. Land's kick for an extra point was blocked by left end Jerry Cahill.

Earlier in the second quarter, Matthews returned a punt 50 yards to the Tiger 20. Mustang quarterback Eddie Farmer tried to pitch out to Ervin heading right, but Stanley penetrated into the backfield and knocked the lateral down and recovered the ball to halt the drive.

Disaster struck the Tigers in the third quarter. Andrews accepted the opening kickoff and marched 65 yards in three plays. Ervin got the first six, then he took a pitch out to the right and went 37 yards to the Snyder 22. Matthews went over left tackle and spanned the remaining distance. Nix's kick was accurate as the count was tied at 20-20.

Six minutes later, with 5:25 remaining in the period, Matthews plunged across left guard from the two to cap a 28 yard drive that required nine plays. Nick's kick went through the uprights again as the visitors posted their final margin. The drive was set up when a high snapback went over Dyess' head as he attempted to punt on fourth down. He was thrown for a 14 yard loss back to the Snyder 28.

Snyder made a valiant effort to tie or win the game in the fourth quarter. The local lads drove 66 yards in 10 plays on their first possession. After a 15-yard penalty set them back to their 15, the Tigers moved 11 yards to the 26 with Dyess toting the leather. Jackie Murray added two, then Buchanan completed a 28-yard pass to the Andrews 44 with Gary Patterson making the reception.

Harrison got 14 and another first at the 30. Dyess gained six to the 24. Buchanan was stopped for no gain, then Cobb gained five to the 19. Dyess was thrown for a loss to the 22. Buchanan then hit Dyess over the middle at the five. However, he couldn't hold onto the ball and Buchanan was thrown for a six-yard loss to the 28 as the drive fizzled out.

Snyder held and launched another drive with 4:29 remaining. It spanned from the 26 to the Andrews 48 and required five plays. Buchanan started it off with a nifty 20-yard completion to Melvin Cobb. In two carries, Murray added three to the 49, Harrison gained three to the Mustang 48. Murray was stopped for no gain. Then, on 4th down, Buchanan fired a strike to Patterson at the 25 yard line. The ball hit his fingertips. At the same time, a defender crashed into him and the ball fell to the turf.

Snyder got the ball again before the game ended, but there was just time for one play and a pass fell incomplete.

The ability of Andrews to run wide on pitchouts and the pressure they were able to put on Buchanan in the second half accounted for the margin of victory.

Both teams hit hard. Glen Williams was outstanding on defense for Andrews. Several Tigers looked good, including Louis Loyd, Joe Bullard, Sandy Land and Dicky Stanley. Bullard turned in an exceptionally sound performance.

Next Friday, the Tigers journey to Big Spring.

Ira Scores 43-0 Win

IRA — Ira's Bulldogs struck fast and furiously as they flailed Paint Creek 43-0 here Friday night. Ira now is 1-1 for the season.

The Bulldogs scored three touchdowns in each of the first two periods.

Ricky Cox romped 20 yards for the first TD, and he kicked the two-pointer.

A few minutes later, Jimmy Mason took a 30-yard pass from Donald Sellars for the second touchdown. Cox's kick made it 16-0.

Cox then plunged across from the five to cap a 30 yard drive. He then passed to Jimmy Briseno for one extra point as the first quarter ended 23-0 in favor of Ira.

Dale Wiggins contributed a 50-yard touchdown run early in the second period. The extra point kick was wide.

Donald Sellars romped for 60 yards and another touchdown. Cox kicked for two extra points as the margin soared to 37-0.

Cox scored the last touchdown on a 20-yard pass from Donald Sellars. Ira elected to down the ball so they wouldn't get a 45-point advantage. Under Six-Man rules, play stops after one team gets a 45 point lead.

There was no scoring in the second half as Ira Coach Lynn Jackson let his reserves get into the game.

Next Friday, Ira is at Christoval.

Union-Terry Triumphs 35-6

FLUVANNA — Union - Terry broke a scoreless deadlock with two touchdowns in the second period and then went on to down the Fluvanna Buffaloes, 35-6, here Friday night.

The visitors held a 16-0 lead at halftime.

Both teams scored a touchdown in the third period. Fluvanna's only score of the game came on a pass from J.W. White to Larry White, the play covering 40 yards.

Union-Terry added two more touchdowns in the fourth period.

Steve Stansell and John Bilano were outstanding on defense for the Buffaloes.

Benjamin Nips Cards 54 to 51

HERMLEIGH — The host Cardinals lost a thrilling 54-51 Six-Man gridiron contest to Benjamin here Friday night.

The visitors took a 27-18 lead in the first half, but Hermleigh rallied for a 30-27 lead at the end of three quarters. Then, Benjamin outscored the hosts, four touchdowns to three, in the fourth quarter to sack it up.

Benjamin took a 14-0 lead in the first, then Hermleigh cut it to 14-6 on a 15-yard touchdown pass, Tommy Vineyard to Moody Thomason.

Benjamin scored two more times in the second quarter. Hermleigh matched the performance with touchdowns in the same period as Dale Peterson scored on runs of 30 and 20 yards.

Stars Sponsor Golf Tournaments

NEW YORK (AP) — Seven entertainers will have their names attached to PGA golf tournaments in 1972.

Glen Campbell, Bing Crosby, Dean Martin and Andy Williams co-sponsored tournaments are set for January. Jackie Gleason has the Inverrary Classic at Lauderhill, Fla., in February, two weeks after the Bob Hope Desert Classic at four California courses. In May, the Danny Thomas Classic will be held in Memphis, Tenn.

Grass Prospect

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Trainer Frank Zitto expects that Alma North will do well during turf races at the Atlantic City thoroughbred meeting.

Alma North, owned by Eugene Mori's East Acres stable, is a 3-year-old daughter of Northern Dancer, holder of the Kentucky Derby record of two minutes for the one-mile and a quarter. She was purchased at Saratoga for $15,500.

Time Problem

NEW YORK (AP) — The annual gridiron classic at East Lansing, Mich., between host Michigan State and Michigan may have to take a back seat to the World Series on Saturday, Oct. 9. Both the football game and the World Series will be on national television.

If the Oakland Athletics win the American League West and the league playoff, the football game will start at 11:50 a.m. If Oakland fails to make the series the football game will start at 2:05 p.m.

The Air Force has a water polo team competing for the first time on the varsity level.

Scientists Track Fish With Sonar

CHESAPEAKE CITY, Md. (AP) — University of Maryland scientists now are using sonar to determine the ecological balance of the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal.

The sonar is used to track fish.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers contracted for a comprehensive three-year research program to determine the nature and probable magnitude of the biological efforts of widening and deepening the 19-mile long C & D Canal.

So the researchers net a number of fish, primarily striped bass, and tag them with identification offering a reward if the fish is returned to the Chesapeake Biological Laboratory.

Then a sonic signal sender is placed deep in the fish's stomach.

After the fish is released, the scientists track him through the "beep-beep" being broadcast from his stomach, recording where he rests and where he feeds.

A number of parallel surveys also are under way.

Other marine researchers are collecting fish eggs and larvae to find out how nursery areas and young fish react to the canal's enlargement.

The migration patterns, seasons and life stages of crabs and shellfish also are being investigated.

Scientists know some environmental changes occured during the widening of the canal, which may be one of the world's most intensively used waterways as a vital link in a short water route between Philadelphia and Baltimore, and between New York City and Baltimore.

When concluded, however, the study should provide a glimpse into exactly how the environmental balance has been changed.

Borden County Rips Threeway

THREEWAY — Scoring in every period, Borden County's Coyotes romped to its fifteenth straight victory with a 28-6 decision over Threeway in an Eight-Man football skirmish here Friday night.

The Gail team's Randy Hensley scored on a 10 yard run in the first period.

The hosts tied it up in the second quarter on a 20 yard pass play. But, later in the period, Ross Sharp returned a kickoff 55 yards to put Borden County ahead again 12-6, and Hensley ran across on a two-point bonus play to make it 14-6.

Hensley scored again in the third quarter on another 10 yard run, and Charles Billeck added two more points.

Billeck scored Gail's last touchdown in the fourth quarter on a two-yard plunge.

Borden County will be at Whitharral next Friday night.

Bulldogs Chew Hobbs, 52-12

O'BRIEN — O'Brien's Bulldogs chewed Hobbs' Panthers 52-12 here Friday in a Six-Man gridiron tussle.

Danny Del Hierro was outstanding for the hosts, scoring twice and throwing two touchdown passes.

Del Hierro romped across from the five in the first period. Ragland Hayes also scored on a 36 yard run.

In the second frame, Del Hierro scored again on a five yard run, then he tossed a 6-yard touchdown pass to Arly Watson.

In the third frame, Louis Conn passed 12 yards to Steve Figueroa in the end zone.

Figueroa tallied on a 26 yard run in the last period, and Watson took a 21-yard touchdown pass from Del Hierro.

Hayes kicked two-point conversions after each of the first five O'Brien touchdowns.

Hobbs got its two touchdowns on a three yard run by David Martinez in the first quarter and a five yard run by John Hughes in the third period.

Hobbs hosts Mertzon next Friday.

Pros Play For Keeps; Dallas Visits Buffalo

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Quarterbacks—old like John Brodie, new like Jim Plunkett, injured like Joe Namath and missing like Joe Kapp—will hold the key to success or failure as never before when the National Football League begins its 52nd season Sunday.

For pro football's quarterback ranks never have been so disrupted, by injuries claiming stars such as Namath, Bart Starr, John Unitas and Sonny Jurgensen, by trades involving veterans such as Norm Snead, Don Horn and Pete Liske and by the development of rookies such as Plunkett and Archie Manning.

But the changing of the quarterback guard is just one of the changes likely to be a factor in the NFL's second season of play under the two-conference structure that sends eight teams to post-season playoffs en route to the Super Bowl.

All will be evident Sunday when the regular season begins a 14-week run with a 12-game program in which the spotlight will focus on the Quarterbacks, eight new coaches and two important rule changes.

One of the focal points of the opening day's schedule will be Baltimore, where the Super Bowl champion Colts begin defense of their American Conference East title against the New York Jets in a game to be nationally televised by NBC starting at 4 p.m., EDT.

The remainder of the Sunday schedule shows Houston at Cleveland, Kansas City at San Diego, Los Angeles at New Orleans, Miami at Denver, New's Giants at Green Bay, Pittsburgh at Chicago and Washington at St. Louis.

In the windup of the first week's action, NFC Central champion Minnesota is at Detroit for the first of 13 Monday night shows to be nationally telecast by ABC at 9 p.m. EDT.

The opening games, as well as those that follow, will be played against the backdrop of the situation involving the quarterbacks. Here's a club by club rundown at a glance:

American Conference

Baltimore—Earl Morrall is back at the No. 1 spot with Unitas still recuperating from an Achilles injury suffered in the off-season.

Buffalo—Job belongs to Dennis Shaw.

Cincinnati—With Greg Cook's arm not responding, Virgil Carter is No. 1 again. But rookie Ken Anderson of Augustana, Ill., has impressed.

Cleveland—Sophomore Mike Phipps was handed the reins but has been erratic, so it could be wobbly-kneed Bill Nelsen again.

Denver—Don Horn, acquired in a trade with Green Bay, has won the starting job.

Houston—Veteran Charley Johnson is No. 1, but could be pressed by either of two rookies—Dan Pastorini of Santa Clara or Lynn Dickey of Kansas State.

Kansas City—Job belongs to Len Dawson.

Miami—Job belongs to Bob Griese.

New England—Plunkett, the Heisman Trophy winner from Stanford, has won the No. 1 job from Mike Taliaferro following Kapp's refusal to sign his contract and his subsequent departure.

New York Jets—Al Woodall, a third-year pro, takes over with Namath injured. Namath could be back before the season ends.

Oakland—Daryle Lamonica is No. 1 but sophomore Ken Stabler is pushing him. George Blanda also available.

Pittsburgh—Terry Bradshaw appears to have won the battle for the starting job with Terry Hanratty.

National Conference

Atlanta—Job belongs to Bob Berry.

Chicago—Job belongs to Jack Concannon.

Dallas—Roger Staubach, now in his third year might get the call over Craig Morton, No. 1 last year in taking the Cowboys to NFC title.

Detroit—Greg Landry starts out No. 1 but Bill Munson remains a distinct threat.

Green Bay—Starr's arm troubles, likely to keep him out for the season, has thrown the job up for grabs between 40-year-old Zeke Bratkowski and Alabama rookie Scott Hunter, a sixth-round draft pick.

Los Angeles—Job belongs to Roman Gabriel.

Minnesota—Snead, acquired in trade with Philadelphia, appears to have dislodged Gary Cuozzo as the starter.

New York Giants—Job belongs to Fran Tarkenton.

New Orleans—Manning, a product of Mississippi, likely will get the call over holdover Edd Hargett.

Philadelphia—Snead's trade and Greg Barton's decision to play in Canada has given Liske, acquired from Denver, the job almost by default.

St. Louis—Jim Hart, the incumbent, is being pressed by Pete Beathard.

San Francisco—Job belongs to Brodie.

Washington—Jurgensen's injury has given the No. 1 spot to Billy Kilmer, acquired from New Orleans. Jurgensen's return is questionable.

Four coaches will be taking the field in each conference. In the AFC, Harvey Johnson takes over at Buffalo, Nick Skorich at Cleveland, Ed Hughes at Houston and Sid Gillman at San Diego. The NFC's new line-up shows Dan Devine at Green Bay, Tommy Prothro at Los Angeles, Bob Hollway at St. Louis and George Allen at Washington.

In addition, John Mazur at Boston and J.D. Roberts at New Orleans will be in their first full season.

A new rule permits missed field goal attempts to be run out of the end zone, while a new definition of intentionally grounding a pass is expected to make it more difficult for a quarterback to throw a ball away and escape punishment.

Strategically, the expectations are that there will be more use of multiple offensive formations, including the man-in-motion, in an attempt to crack defenses whose quickness and agility, along with size, have tended to curtail scoring.

Injuries to quarterbacks and other stars of the magnitude of Lance Alworth and Ron Johnson—already have had an effect on the preseason choices for titles with fewer tight races expected to develop than at first thought.

In AFC East, where Baltimore is defending, both Miami and the Jets were expected to make it a battle but the New Yorkers are getting little support with Namath out.

The same is true in NFC East, where Allen's refurbished Redskins were expected to challenge Dallas until Jurgensen was injured. Now it appears that the Cardinals are the major threat.

On the other hand, Bradshaw's development and the Pastorini-Dickey combination supporting Johnson have made Pittsburgh and Houston legitimate contenders for Cincinnati's AFC Central crown.

In AFC West, it's again expected to be a two-team battle between Oakland and Kansas City.

The NFC Central scramble looks like a two-team struggle between Minnesota and Detroit but San Franciso isn't expected to be pushed in NFC West, where Los Angeles is rebuilding and Atlanta still growing.

Under the two-conference structure, the three division winners in each conference will qualify for the post-season playoffs. The playoff participants will be rounded out by the second-place team with the best record in each conference.

Booklet Analyzes Texas Fish

AUSTIN--Is the long "ear" on a longear sunfish longer than the long ear on a yellowbelly sunfish? And is the yellow belly of the yellowbelly sunfish yellower than the yellowish belly of the longear sunfish?.

The answers to these and many more fascinating questions are now available in easy-to-read language and colorful illustrations in "Freshwater Fishes of Texas" a 40-page magazine-size bulletin published by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

There are 53 full-color paintings of 35 popular freshwater species by wildlife illustrator Nancy McGowan Pruitt, all originally published as a series in Texas Parks and Wildlife Magazine from February, 1967, through April, 1969. Descriptive text on each species is by department fisheries biologist Robert J. Kemp Jr. and the publication was edited by Richard McCune.

"This new bulletin fills a long-awaited need for an accurate and understandable fish identification guide," said executive director James U. Cross. "It is virtually a required manual for anyone who would hope to set a new Texas freshwater game fish record." The department began keeping the official state records in December, 1970.

So will the occasional weekend angler, student or newcomer to Texas find it useful and informative. In addition to a narrative description of each species, the text also gives their life history and angling importance along with fishing tips.

The publication is singularly unique among such fish books in that illustrations show a wide assortment of variations in fish coloration--caused by such factors as water conditions, spawning seasons, age, sex and exertion.

Included are 11 species of sunfish, three basses, four gars, five catfish, three carp, several newly imported species and other unusual fish ranging from the American eel to the paddlefish.

A modest fee to cover costs of printing and handling has been set at 48 cents with two cents state sales tax. Copies are available at department regional and district offices or may be obtained by mailing 50 cents to: "Freshwater Fisher of Texas," Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, Reagan Bldg., Austin, Texas 78701, along with name, address and zip code.

Smith Takes Tennis Lead

NEW YORK (AP) — August was a good month for Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif. The 1970 Pepsi Masters winner led in the Pepsi Grand Prix of Tennis with 127 points, six more than Romania's Ilie Nastase. The winner will receive $25,000 at the end of the tournament trail.

Track Inflation

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP) — Inflation has hit the racetracks.

Parking at Roosevelt Raceway, the trotting track here, and Aqueduct, the thoroughbred track 15 miles nearer New York, this year is $1.25. Harness racing programs with past performances now are 75 cents. Aqueduct and Belmont Park programs are still 25 cents.

The Morning Telegraph, the racing paper with past performances of thoroughbreds, has gone up from 75 cents to $1.

Shuvee Is Ready To Run

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — Mrs. Whitney Stone's champion handicap mare Shuvee will compete on a Sunday when she runs in the Delaware Handicap, Sept. 26, closing day of the fall meet at Delaware Park.

The 32-day meet will have exacta wagering (picking the first two horses in correct order) on seven races daily.

Leading Race Horse Breeder

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Leslie Combs II of Spendthrift Farm was America's leading race horse breeder for the second straight year in 1970. Racers bred by Combs and his partners won $1.6 million.

Gets An Ace

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP) — For Dr. John Rohrbough of Clarksburg, W. Va., his 3 wood is just the club to use on the Lakeside course here. He used it for a hole-in-one on the fifth hole.

Resident hunting licenses in New York state are now $4.25.

Castle Is Monument To Mexico's Courage

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Atop a wooded hill in the heart of this city stands Chapultepec Castle - a little known bit of American history.

To Mexicans, the castle is perhaps the greatest symbol of Mexico's patriotism and an everlasting monument to its nation's courage.

The year was 1847 and the castle which earlier had been the palace for many of Mexico's rulers including Maximilian and Carlotta now is called Colegio Militar—Military college.

It is filled with cadets aspiring to the armed forces. Their ages range from 13 to 20.

Mexico had undergone years of suffering with the government changing hands quite frequently. Antonio Lopez de Santa Anna during this epoch ruled the land 11 times. Poverty, illiteracy and political chaos were abundant.

Because of sovereignty problems with the United States over lands near the Rio Grande that began when Texas declared its independence from Mexico March 2, 1836 a U.S. invasion force entered Mexico after Congress declared war May 13, 1846 while James Polk was president.

One army under the command of Gen. Zachery Taylor left Texas and met little resistance as it moved southward through the scarcely populated northern half of Mexico. Another, under Gen. Winfield Scott, would enter by Sea at Vera Cruz.

When Scott's army reached the outskirts of Mexico City, the palace for many of Mexico's rulers including Maximilian about 15,000 soldiers were ready to defend their capital. Supplies were limited, weaponry was outdated, ammunition scarce.

On the morning of Sept. 8, the U.S. attacked and defeated Santa Anna's army in a fierce battle. Ah this time, most of the staff at the military college had left to join active Army groups.

On the morning of Sept. 13, two days before the 37th anniversary of Mexico's independence from Spain, many of the cadets had been ordered to abandon the scoool. A small group of about 50 stayed on and prepared to defend themselves against overwhelming odds.

Artillery opened up early in the morning from close range in the woods below. Mexico's flag waved in a soft breeze from a tower. Some cadets were on sentinel duty on the roof, at the windows and the main entrance and school grounds.

Vincente Suarez, 17, was on duty at the main gate. By early afternoon, the sound of rifle fire increased until he could see the smoke from the rifle blasts at the edge of the woods only yards away. Suddenly, a group of soldiers ran from the woods toward his post.

He shouted "halt," but there was no reply as the soldiers in blue advanced. Before he could cock his rifle he was bayoneted by a soldier from a New York regiment.

U.S. soldiers entered the school and a close action battle was on.

Fernando Montes de Oca, 18, was at a window when the troops entered the building. He lept from a first-floor window, was shot and fell dead down a cliff on the side of the castle.

Augstin Melgar, 18, had been a cadet at Colegio Militar, but for some reason had left the school without permission in May. Around the end of August he returned and was readmitted as a special student who would get no credit for his studies. This was because he had to face academy desertion charges.

On the day of the battle he was one of those who remained behind. He was shot dead as he stood by a window.

Lt. Juan de la Barrera, 20, a graduate engineering student, had been at the school since he was 13. He was ordered to help prepare the school's defense he, too, died of bullet wounds within the castle walls.

Francisco Marquez, 14, was one of the youngest cadets to stay behind. A bullet found him and the youth dead on the school grounds, his rifle by his side.

Juan Escutia, 20, pleaded for a rifle so that he could join Mexican troops at the city's edge. Finally, the school director issued him a rifle and ordered him to stay at the school.

Escutia was on the flat castle roof as the battle mounted. U.S. troops were searching out the building room by room taking prisoners. Defeat was imminent.

Escutia looked to a tower where his country's banner was flying. He ran to the flagstaff and hauled it down. With the flag clutched in his hands he raced back across the roof to a stairway.

A U.S. soldier from a lower floor window fired and Escutia pitched from the roof to the rocks below. Mexico's flag still was locked in his hands.

Soon the battle was over Some were wounded, others prisoners.

The war ended shortly and a treaty was signed Feb. 2, 1848.

Computer Improving Air Quality

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — A computer system linked to super-sensitive "sniffers" is helping improve air quality for residents of this West Texas city.

The computer, installed at a nearby American Smelting and Refining Co. smelter, determines how much sulphur dioxide—a by-product gas created during copper and led smelting—is reaching ground level.

When the computer projects sulphur dioxide concentrations approaching air quality control limits, a company spokesman said, smelter operations are curtailed or [illegible].

Each of the 18 sensors placed around El Paso—some of them in residents' back yards and garages—works as a super-sensitive "sniffer" detecting concentrations of sulphur dioxide as small as one part in 20 million, the spokesman said.

Readings from the sensing units are transmitted electronically to an IBM 1800 data acquisition and analysis system, which converts the readings into sulphur dioxide reports for company meteorologists.

"For years, we've been trying to reach the point where we could act to prevent pollution rather than react after it build up," said W. R. Kelly, the company's plant manager. "The computer can give us that ability."

Kelly said the next step in the company's plan to improve air quality in El Paso also will be centered around the IBM computer.

The firm is developing a mathematical model of El Paso's atmosphere. The computer will use the model to continuously simulate the city's weather and alert officials to weather trends that would cause a build-up of sulphur dioxide at ground level.

"We started with the mathematical model for diffusion of a gas into the atmosphere," Kelly said. "The model is being adapted for variations we have here: Differences in temperature, terrain and wind patterns, temprature inversions over the city, and even small differences in the behavior of this particular gas."

To complete the model, the company is programming into the computer several years of El Paso's weather history. Detailed data about current weather becomes part of the midel each day.

"Using the computer simulation technique, we will be able to predict whether the smoke will reach ground level in bothersome concentrations or will diffuse harmlessly in the atmosphere over the surrounding desert," Kelly said.

Vernon To Get Drug Center

AUSTIN (AP) — State officials have decided on Vernon as the site to open the state's first comprehensive treatment and rehabilitation center for youths hooked on hard drugs.

The State Board of Mental Health and Mental Retardation, which will operate the center, said Friday it will take over the facilities of the Vernon Center South, where geriatric mental patients are now treated.

The geriatric patients will be transferred into three new ward buildings to be constructed on the main campus of the Vernon facility.

The drug treatment center will be able to handle 350 juveniles between ages 14 and 21, said Mental Health Commissioner David Wade.

"We recognize that other age groups are in need of help," he said, "But the lack of funds makes it impossible to wage a full scale, across-the-board battle at this time."

"With the use of hard drugs, particularly heroin, becoming an every-increasing menace among our young people, this department is dedicated to providing a treatment program that will help these unfortunate young citizens," said Wade.

One new building will be constructed, to go along with existing structures, for the program, he said. Other projects are proposed.

An academic program, including vocational training, will be available at the junior and senior high school levels.

Lawrence (Butch) Metcalf, Air Force offensive line coach, played in the 1963 Orange Bowl and the 1965 Gator Bowl as a tackle for Oklahoma.

Movies Will Occupy Prime Time On TV

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — So you like to watch movies on television, eh?

Okay, you're going to get movies this season: old movies, new movies, minimovies, nonmovies, good movies and, of course, the usual array of bad movies.

In prime time on the three major networks alone, an assortment of programs labeled "movies" will occupy 16 hours a week and they will be around every night in the week, with two rivals competing with each other on Fridays and Saturdays.

Television's frantic eagerness to woo the viewer annually leads to this sort of over supply, inevitably followed by surfeit. Over the years, viewers indicated a fondness for Westerns, and for a season or so horses and Main Street shootouts dominated the screens. The audience took a fancy to some variety programs a couple of seasons back, and last winter it was almost impossible to turn the dial without running into a production number with dancing girls.

This season it looks like time for a movie bender.

Just exactly how much of these 16 hours will be occupied by movies depended pretty much on the individual's definition of the word. A "movie" used to mean specifically a motion picture film made to be shown in theatres. As the supply of vintage films available for television re-use dwindled, there came along the "movie-for-TV," usually a two-hour treatment slipped into time spots reserved for old theatrical films. It usually has stars of medium luminosity, plenty of action but is custom tailored for TV's rigid schedules, with neatly timed plot cliff-hangers surfacing just before the breaks of commercials and station identification.

NBC has moved strongly into this area with its "World Premiere" shows, this year graduating into a full-blown Friday night series. They have done well in the ratings, indicating public acceptance, and have been especially useful as pilot films for subsequent series. This season alone Rock Hudson's miniseries, "Macmillan and Wife," Peter Falk's companion series, "Columbo" and George Kennedy's "Sarge" all were launched as "World Premiere" features. CBS turned out a few two-hour features, and got two new series out of them: "Cannon" and "Bearcats."

ABC has cleverly married the word "movie" to a popular television form. It was once believed that a series of dramas, each a separate entity, needed some continuity. Thus an assortment of stars—Bob Hope, Danny Thomas and Fred Astaire among them—served as "host" on what was simply an anthology. The device was mildly successful, but now it appears that the magic word "movie" is the key: ABC three years ago started turning out 90-minute shows, ranging from comedy to horror tales under the title "Movie of the Week." The series has proved such a hit that the network has spun off a sister series for this season called "Movie of the Weekend."

CBS, obviously impressed by the ABC operation, is now deeply involved in a string of freshly minted 90-minute film features which it calls "New Friday Night Movies."

It remains for NBC, however, to take the greatest liberties with the word. It calls one of its new 90-minute series "Mystery Movie." It really is three action shows of eight episodes each, starring the same characters. The miniseries will be shown in rotation exactly as were the three segments of its "Bold Ones" last season.

Stan Robertson, NBC vice president in charge of its made-for-TV features, has his own definition: a "movie" on television is any film program longer than an hour in length—if it costs more. He defends "World Premiere" as movies because they come in on budgets of around $750,000 each.

Besides, after making the off-network rerun rounds, some of them are available for theatrical use—in foreign markets.

Budgets for ABC's twin "movie" series run around $500,000 for each 90 minutes, and so do CBS's. Stars of the shows receive between $15,000 and $25,000.

Where once the Universal Studios dominated the movie-for-TV market, the bonanza now is spread around many film factories of Hollywood. ABC's deal—typical—with its producers gives the network the right to two broadcasts. Then the property reverts to the studio—which sells it for more reruns.

ABC movies have attracted stars of the caliber of Bette Davis, Jane Wyman, Shelley Winters, Barbara Stanwyck and the late Van Heflin. CBS has Mia Farrow signed for one show.

Brave Thieves

BALTIMORE (AP) — They weren't magic carpets, but three Persian rugs were spirited out of a downtown department store—under the arms of three men.

A clerk at the store said he saw the men leaving with the rugs, but thought they had been purchased. The rugs were valued at $8,269.

Poultry Inspections Intensified

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has intensified inspection of poultry and egg products in several Midwest states after discovering turkeys produced by a Minnesota grower contain unacceptable levels of the poison PCB.

Dr. Kenneth M. McEnroe, head of the department's Meat and Poultry Inspection Program, said Friday initial tests indicated the contamination is not widespread. But he said additional tests are being made "and we should know something by Monday."

PCB, or polychlorinated biphenyls, is a family of compounds linked with some skin disease, liver damage and birth defects. It has been produced in the United States since the early 1930s and has been used in paints, adhesives, sealants and cooling systems.

A leak in the cooling system of a fish meal processor earlier this summer led to widespread PCB contamination of chickens and eggs in the Southeast resulting in the destruction of thousands of animals.

The latest contamination, McEnroe said, was discovered through "routine tests" by USDA scientists.

McEnroe said he knew of the discovery for "more than a week" but withheld disclosure until tests could be conducted on poultry in Minnesota and surrounding states. He said no additional contamination has been found.

LEBANON, Ind. (AP) — Pierre Platt joined the roll of Indiana taxpayers Friday.

Pierre is a dog.

He inherited $1,000 from the estate of his owner, Ruby Platt.

Judge Charles F. Thompson ruled in Boone County Superior Court on Friday that Pierre must pay $63 in inheritance tax like anybody else.

Dowdy Must Face Trial

BALTIMORE (AP) — Rep. John Dowdy, veteran Democratic congressman from Athens, Tex., must face trial on Nov. 8, a federal judge decreed Friday.

Dowdy, 59, is accused of accepting a $25,000 bribe to intervene in a federal investigation of anon-defunct home improvement firm in Maryland. The government contends the money changed hands in an Atlanta, Ga., airport.

Dowdy has denied any wrongdoing, but proceedings against the Athens legislator have been delayed a half dozen times through legal maneuvers and his ailing health.

Last week, doctors in Bethesda Naval Hospital pronounced him fit to stand trial.

He has been a member of the House since 1952 and has been known as a staunch conservative. Dowdy has said that his indictment on charges of bribery, conspiracy and perjury was politically inspired by groups he has opposed in the past.

IRA Cowboys Spend Heavily

Those figures followed a survey conducted by the IRA and the totals reflect miles traveled and money spent for necessities of the trade by about 2,500 members.

Librarians Diversified

Career Corner

by Joyce Lain Kennedy

Dear Joyce: As a special librarian (I work in a bank), I wish you would tell readers about our relatively little known field of special librarianship. — J. P., Seattle what job would you like to see explored in this column?

This is an attractive career choice for men and women who wish to blend an interest in a particular subject field and dealing with published material.

The special librarian obtains a bachelor's degree in the field of his choice, followed by a master's degree (12 months full-time study) in library science. This combined training allows special librarians to become experts in locating specific information in all media – books, periodicals, reports, patents, pamphlets, pictures, slides, maps, clippings, films, microfilms and microcards. These . . .

INFORMATION HUNTERS must be aware of current publications and research and be able to assemble, organize, and maintain information so that it may be of maximum use to the library's clientele. Special librarians work in a kaleidoscope of employment settings, but basically, there are 2 types of:

SPECIAL LIBRARIES: (1) The special organization library, such as a corporation or governmental agency, in which library staff and readers work for the same organization; (2) the special subject library – which may be semipublic, independent, departmental, or branch library – serving students, professional groups or members on a given subject. A few examples of special library careers:

Advertising, marketing and communications media (advertising agency librarians, broadcasting librarians, etc.); biological sciences (librarians who work for food or chemical companies, medical and hospital libraries, government health services, botanical libraries, etc.); business (banks, stock brokers, labor organizations, and businesses of all types employ librarians); nonprofit organizations (foundations and research institutes, for instance, hire special librarians); fine and applied arts (museum librarians, college librarians, etc.); news and newspaper librarians, and other career opportunities too numerous to list here.

WHAT DIFFERENTIATES the special libraries from public libraries? One business librarian answers: "It's the same sort of difference one finds between a self-service supermarket and the corner 'deli.' Supermarket staples are easy to find and may be plucked right off the shelf with little bother. The corner deli, on the other hand, prides itself on its selection of esoteric, ethnic and hard-to-find items. Here, often as not, one needs the proprietor's assistance and advice.

"It's much the same with libraries. You can often find material by yourself at the public library, but if you're looking for highly specialized or technical material, or doing in-depth research, a special library is often the only place to find what you need and the staff will locate the information for you."

EARNINGS, according to a 1970 survey of members of the Special Libraries Association, averaged about $11,800. 11 percent reported making less than $8,000. 38 percent reported over $12,000, including 3 percent who earned between $20-25,000, and 1 percent who made over $25,000.

FOR MORE INFORMATION. The Special Libraries Association will send you free career literature (single copies only). To request, send a postcard asking for "Special Librarianship," to Joyce Lain Kennedy at this newspaper. Allow several weeks for delivery.

WOMEN RETURNING TO WORK: To help calculate the actual expenses of working — and how much you must earn to come out ahead – send a postcard to Joyce Lain Kennedy at this newspaper for free copy of "Your Financial Worksheet – A Guide For Women Returning To The Job World." It will be sent by the Institute of Life Insurance. Specify title in request. (Do not combine request with "Special Librarianship," send separate postcard.)

Young Driver Charged

RUTLEDGE, Fla. (AP) — David Alan Seymour straddled his minibike and set out for a quick run around the block. The ride ended in a 50-mile-per-hour chase with police and seven traffic violations.

The 4-foot-2, seven-year-old boy after his arrest Wednesday night. He said he couldn't tell them how to spell my middle name because I can't write it yet. I couldn't remember my phone number either."

David was told by his father not to ride his 5 horsepower minibike on the street. But Brevard County Sheriff's Deputy Coy Granger said he spotted the second grader zooming along on a main road.

On went the cruiser's beacon and off and running went David at 50 m.p.h., according to the deputy.

Granger said the tyke also ran a stop sign before coming to a screeching halt.

Granger took the 63-pounder down to the station house.

David's parents were contacted and his father, Robert Seymour, an inspector at nearby Cape Kennedy, said he found his son "red eyed and shaking like a leaf."

Before David was allowed to leave with his parents, he was charged with driving without a license, having no registration tag, going 50 m.p.h. in a 25 m.p.h. zone, driving without lights, having no inspection sticker, attempting to elude a police officer and running a stop sign.

"It seems like a pretty rough way to treat a boy that small," said David's father. But he added, "The boy was wrong—I'm not doubting that."

All of which seemed to support the desk sergeant's greeting when David walked through the station house door.

"When I came in," recalled the young cyclist, "the sergeant told me: 'Boy, you're in ahead of trouble.'"

No date has been set for David's juvenile court appearance.

Johtilla won three races and earned $90,140 at the 1971 Monmouth Park thoroughbred meeting.

State GOP Leaders Map Plans

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas Republican Leaders meet Saturday and Sunday to review party revitalization plans and discuss a new move for a GOP gubernatorial candidate in 1972.

"We've got a lot of things on our agenda," said James R. Kane, executive director, "but I'm sure a lot of talk will be about the draft Fred Agnich for governor' movement."

Mrs. Richard Sowell, McAllen, a deputy state chairman, said Thursday she is sponsoring a movement to draft Agnich, a first term state representative from Dallas, for the GOP governor's race, and asked other party leaders to discuss the move with her at the state meeting.

State deputies, which represent different regions of the state, will hold an executive session Saturday afternoon to go over 1972 campaign plans, mainly candidate financing problems.

Sunday at noon an open session of the full GOP State Committee will be held with talks by Sen. John Tower, R-Tex; Mrs. Ann Tobin Armstrong, national GOP co-chairman and state GOP Committeewoman and Peter O'Donnell, Dallas, national GOP committeeman. A closed session, also on finances, will follow.

Plane Crash Kills Three

RAYMONDVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Three San Antonio men, a father and his two sons, died Friday when their airplane crashed in remote ranch country northeast of Raymondville.

The Department of Public Safety identified the trio as William P. Marvin, 33, pilot of the Piper Comanche; Robert Marvin, 26, the pilot's brother, and Clarence W. Marvin, 58, father of the two younger men.

Officers used four-wheel drive vehicles to reach the crash scene in dense brush country.

Paul Milton of Young's Flying Service at Harlingen sighted the plane's wreckage a few minutes after the Federal Aviation Agency at Brownsville said a plane had vanished.

The FAA said the Marvins were en route from San Antonio to Brownsville at the time of the crash.

Weber Says Judgment Of Freeze Premature

WASHINGTON (AP) — The executive director of the Cost of Living Council says it's too early to judge the effectiveness of President Nixon's wage-price freeze in combating inflationary forces in the economy.

In an interview, Arnold R. Weber said the freeze may be over or almost over, before the Nixon administration will be able to proclaim it a success or failure.

But he said the relatively small number of complaints, about 9,000 so far, and the number of inquiries indicates widespread public acceptance.

Weber said the Consumer Price Index will show some upward movement during the freeze, primarily because raw agricultural products are exempted and because of the way the index is figured.

But he said it's a "fair estimate" that consumer prices will fall short of the 5 per cent to 7 per cent annual rate that existed just before the freeze.

The questions and answers:

Q. Do you believe the freeze is working?

A. I think the whole question of effectiveness of the freeze is a very complicated one and that it would be premature to make any categorical judgments as to success or failure. Probably in the technical sense you won't be able to know how effective it was until the freeze is almost over—and probably, when it's over—given the nature of the data that we get. The primary data would be from the Consumer Price Index and various wage data series.

Q. What about the evidences of cooperation that you see?

A. I was going to say that on the other hand, one of the visible indexes that we have of acceptance and apparent effectiveness is the number of complaints, inquiries and requests for exemption.

In fact, we've received around 9,000 complaints. About half of those evaporate when you look at the data in terms of interpretation of the facts and the rules.

Q. Have you any estimates of how much the Consumer Price Index might increase during the freeze?

A. No, but I think it's important to note that the Consumer Price Index undoubtedly will show some movement that is independent of the freeze—because, first, raw agricultural products are not subject to control; and, secondly, it's important to note how the Consumer Price Index is constructed. There are certain products and commodities, like rent and housing for example, that were last surveyed in July and then will be picked up in September, so the index will capture whatever increase took place between July 1 and August 15 when the freeze went into effect.

Coast Declared Disaster Area

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon Friday declared sections of Texas a major disaster area.

The action requested by Gov. Preston Smith of Texas makes available federal funds to aid in relief and recovery measures.

The most serious damage was along the Texas Gulf Coast.

A & M Is Sea Grant College

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas A&M University Friday was designated as one of the nation's first four sea grant colleges by Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans.

Stans issued certificates to representatives of A&M, Oregon State, University of Washington and the University of Rhode Island.

The sea grant program, created by Congress in 1966, is conducted by the Commerce Department's National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

The land grant system," Stans said, "brought the intellectual resources of universities and the mechanical arts in a growing nation in the 19th Century.

"Today, the sea grant system is focusing ... on the needs of our coasts and their ocean extension.

"These four universities ... have excelled in the marine area, in education and training of scientists and technicians for oceanic activities and in the vital function of getting the information developed into the hands of the men and women who need it as they go about their daily tasks."
