NOBODY'S BUSINESS

BY JULIAN CAPERS JR.

Austin—Democratic voters of Texas, with the opening of both major candidates for Governor behind them, this week were studying platforms and opening addresses of Bill McCraw and Ernest Thompson, while the boys were pulling the political wires were pulling 18 hours a day in both camps, angling for the support that will put their men in a runoff contest next July.

The McCraw opening at Arlington, birthplace of the Attorney General, was all that the McCraw managers expected. Utilizing every bullyhoo trick in the bag, the competent staff of McCraw press agents assembled a crowd that packed a city block on Arlington's square, including 18000 who rode a free special train from Dallas. McCraw outlined his platform in a carefully prepared, serious address which pleased his crowd, and the thousands who listened on the radio.

PLATFORMS PARALLEL

Meanwhile, the political experts were analyzing the McCraw and Thompson platforms, and finding that the Attorney General tracked the trail blazed by Thompson about 90 percent of the way. The differences between them will constitute the main issues of the campaign. McCraw advocated ratification by the State of the Federal Child Labor amendment. Thompson opposed it, and urged a State law to regulate child labor. McCraw declared for higher taxes, if they are needed, from "corporate interests", specifically mentioning natural resources pipelines and public utilities. Thompson would seek additional revenue, if needed, from a luxury tax and natural resources, urging lower utility rates through state regulation, instead of increased state taxation to hike rates to consumers. Both pledged economy, no new taxes, opposition to a sales tax. Thompson favored a tax on luxuries, if needed, while McCraw called a luxury tax the same as a sales tax.

McCraw made rather broad claims for the credit for abolishing hot oil, lowering gas rates, developing the oil industry, defeating Federal Oil Control, and other achievements in which both the Railroad Commission and the Attorney General's office have participated. There is likely to develop some pretty lively differences of opinion as to who brought about these blessings, as the campaign progresses.

Draft Ferguson Movements

Like the proverbial nine-lived cat, the third term talk for Mrs. Ferguson refuses to die, even in the face of Jim's announced refusal to enter the two-time woman governor again. In San Antonio, this week will see a mass meeting, headed by "liberals" who resent interference by Rangers with San Antonio's traditional "wide-open" gambling and sale of liquor by the drink, with the announced intention of drafting Ma as a candidate. T. H. McGregor, shrewdest political mind in the Ferguson camp, was to deliver the principal speech.

Tom Hunter, the Wichita Falls veteran, jolted the McCraw enthusiasts considerably, when he dropped his hat into the ring for a third effort at the governorship, as forecast last week in this column. Hunter got around 239,000 votes last time against Jimmie Allred, and the best guessers here think he will poll a substantial vote again. He classified Thompson and McCraw as being political blood brothers, and figuratively beat the Hunter breast in agony over the State's unhappy situation. He will miss Boyd Gatewood, veteran publicist who wrote the clever gags that enlivened Hunter's last campaign. Gatewood having died of a sudden heart attack on the eve of Hunter's announcement.

MONTGOMERY LAUDED

To Julian Montgomery, State Highway engineer, went the plaudits of good roads enthusiasts.

Loraine Men Visit Haskel Milk Plant

Mayor J. C. Hall, Alonzo Phillips, O. L. Griffin, and Earl Hall, were in Haskel Saturday to view the milk plant that was recently put in operation there. The trip was made to get first hand information about a milk plant with the view of trying to get such a plant established in Loraine. Those who made the trip were favorably impressed and are anxious to have a meeting of business men and farmers soon to explain the proposition so that some plan may be worked out to secure a plant.

MITCHELL COUNTY SINGERS TO MEET AT COLORADO

W. W. Porter, president of the Mitchell County Singing Convention, announced a few days ago that the annual convention of the organization will be held at the tabernacle in Colorado next Sunday. Several out of county singers and musicians are expected to be present.

gathered in Austin for the Texas Good Roads' association's annual meet. During six months service, Montgomery—who stepped into an admittedly very hard job as successor to the capable G. B. Gilchrist—has not only carried forward the road building activity of the state without pause, but has advanced the planning program materially, so that when Federal funds for the 1939 program become available June 30, Texas will be far out in advance of most States with a carefully planned and engineered program to begin putting highway coin in circulation, relieving unemployment and improving roads, immediately.

The good roads folks made a highly popular choice, too, when they elected Lowry Martin, civic-minded and popular publisher of the Corsicana Sun, president. Another popular publisher, Joe Leonard of the Gainesville Register, was made a vice president.

GAS RATE SUIT ENDS

Ending a bitter legal fight that has paraded through courts in Dallas and Travis counties, representatives of the Railroad Commission and the Lone Star Gas Co. reached an agreement here under which the Commission's employees will be permitted to examine the books and records of the gas company in El Paso and other cities, pending decision of the appellate courts, of the Commission's right to assume original jurisdiction in gas rate matters involving incorporated towns and cities. The gas company first sought an injunction preventing the Commission from exercising such jurisdiction; then the Commission sought to enjoin the company from interference with it in exercising such jurisdiction. The ultimate outcome of the matter may affect the regulation of gas rates in many Texas towns and cities.

School Band To San Angelo Friday

The Loraine High School Band will leave early Friday morning for San Angelo where it will enter the annual contest for high school bands in this district. The band will return home Saturday afternoon.

ONE FOURTH OF TEXAS FARMS HAVE NO MILK COWS

College Station—Almost one-fourth, or 121,000 of Texas' farm families, have no milk cows, according to E. R. Eudaly, chairman of the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service.

This means the dairyman pointed out, that Texas needs an additional quarter million dairy cows if farm families are to have sufficient milk for home needs, and also that dairy production for home use can expand considerably in Texas and in the South in general without competing with commercial dairy areas.

Eudaly based his statement on figures and estimates of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics which show that 24.2 percent of Texas farm families do not have a milk cow and that over the 12 Southern states as a whole, only 71 percent of the farm families keep cows for milk.

There is an average of only 2 milk cows per farm over the cotton belt as a whole as compared to an average of nearly 4 for all farms in the United States and more than 10 per farm in Wisconsin, Texas, with an average of 3.2 cows per farm, leads all the cotton belt states except Oklahoma in this respect.

The dairyman does not believe that AAA programs tend to force cotton farmers into dairying in competition with commercial dairying centers. "There were 5,562,000 dairy cows in the 12 principal cotton producing states in 1932, before the AAA," he said. "On January 1, 1938, there were 5,896,000 an increase of 334,000 milk cows. This is an average increase of 29,000 dairy cows per state, or an average increase per state of 5,000 for each year since the AAA came into existence."

"Nutritional specialists of the Extension Service tell me that the average farm family of five needs two good milk cows for home use. Thus in Texas alone we could add 242,000 dairy cows without increasing our commercial output to any noticeable extent."

Gym Project Waits Developments

Since the local school district voted $10,000 in bonds recently with which to build a gymnasium auditorium through a WPA project the new pump priming spending and lending program has come before Congress, and the board of trustees decided to wait a little while before going ahead with the project.

The board has information that leads them to believe a $20,000 loan or a large grant can be secured from the government and they are withholding the WPA project until more information can be secured about the later program. The information in hand now is to the effect that a loan of $20,000 can be secured over a period of fifty years to be repaid at the rate of two percent a year without interest. If such is true, and word from Congressmen Mahon and Garrett says that such is probable, the $20,000 can be paid back at a less yearly cost than the $10,000 bonds.

The board is expecting full information on the plan soon.

GRASSHOPPER CONTROL FIGHT UNDER WAY

College Station—The fight to combat the worst grasshopper infestation in history is under way with the arrival of 27 carloads of bran and 14,500 gallons of sodium arsenite from federal sources, according to R. R. Reppert, entomologist of the Extension Service of Texas A. and M. College and state grasshopper control leader.

Texas has been assigned 7000 tons of bran and 140,000 gallons of sodium arsenite by the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine, which administers the government's grasshopper control program. This material will be matched by farmers who will receive allotments of poison mash through county agricultural agents and county grasshopper control committees.

Entomologists have known for over six months that more than 100 Texas counties would suffer a severe hopper infestation, and federal entomologists have helped the Texas Grasshopper Control Committee make advance plans to hold down crop damage.

While the hatch is still incomplete, hoppers have emerged in record numbers in most of the counties where damage is expected. Only in the Panhandle are the hoppers still in the egg stage. The recent cold wave did little to reduce grasshopper numbers.

County agricultural agents, county grasshopper control committees, and farmers are ready to combat the insects. Experience has shown that control is simplified when poison mash is scattered around the places where hoppers hatch out before they multiply and spread to fields. A similar program last year saved Texas farmers 6 million dollars and returned more than a hundred dollars for each dollar spent.

Control measures will begin around May 1 in the counties where the hatch is most advanced, Reppert said.

SCOUT RALLY IN COLORADO SATURDAY

All Scout troops of Mitchell County are invited to gather at Colorado Saturday for a rally in which games and contests to be used in the annual camp at Big Spring in May will be used. The rally will give all the boys an opportunity to see and do the things to be done in camp.

The Loraine troop is planning on going if transportation can be arranged. (Here's a chance for someone to do a good turn.) The rally is to start at 9 o'clock Saturday morning and will last until three Saturday afternoon. Scouts are asked to take what they want for dinner and be prepared to cook it.

Loraine Athletes Win Honors In Regional Meet

TRAINING SCHOOL FOR SCOUTERS WILL BE HELD IN LORAIN

A training school for men who are interested in Scouting in any way is being arranged for by J. W. King, local Scoutmaster. The school will be held in May, exact date to be announced later.

The school will be conducted in Loraine by Ed McCurtain, district Scout executive, and will be held one night each week for three weeks. The training course is free and will be helpful to all who take it even though they never take an active part in Scout work. The course will give an inside viewpoint of Scouting. The local Scoutmaster will appreciate the cooperation of the men of Loraine in this work. Make your plans now to attend the school.

ANOTHER LIGHT RAIN VISITS THIS SECTION

Another light shower visited this section Tuesday night. The rain came from a heavy cloud in the northwest which a high south wind all day Tuesday had built up. The cloud did not leave as much moisture here, however, as it looked like it would. North of here the rain must have been much heavier.

A small twister visited the Draw community in Lynn County killing three people and injuring several others.

Happenings at the Baptist Church

Well, these notes are being written from a big roomy study that has been built in the basement of the church. This has been made possible by a gift of $25 by Miss Iona Callahan and the balance by free will offerings Sunday night after service. Then Monday a number of the brethren came in and built the room. Is the pastor happy? Well, look at him and decide. Thank you all.

Sunday was another good day for our church. 179 were in Sunday School and two splendid congregations for the preaching service. The B. T. U. was just a little off Sunday evening. We must not let this part of the service lag. Much good will be accomplished in this work if we will put forth an effort.

God is wonderfully blessing our church now and will continue to do so if we will only let Him, but He must be first or not at all.

METHODIST CHURCH

Although the weather was inclement, attendance at all services was good. About 140 in Sunday School.

We are happy to announce that on next Sunday evening at 7:45 a chorus of 30 or more boys and girls from Roby high school, under the direction of Mrs. Floy Jim Hughes, will give an hour's concert of sacred music. This will include old favorite hymns, some of Mendelssohn's and Handel's sacred compositions, with quartets and solos.

This group won first place in mixed chorus in class B West Texas Voice Tournament at Hardin-Simmons University. They have given concerts in Rotan Sweetwater, Snyder, and Denton. A real treat is in store for all who love music. We extend a special invitation to everyone to be present.

The young people of our church will leave Saturday afternoon at three o'clock for the district rally at Midland. The program, The Last Roundup, will be in the open around the camp fire on Saturday evening Sunday will be a day filled with worship and plans for the assembly June 1.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—Gen. Saturnio Cedillo, the feudal chieftain of the province of San Luis Potosi, is moving out of the No. 1 menace to the Cardenas administration, according to all one can glean at this crossroads.

A friend of this writer, an oil operator who has reasons for remaining anonymous, brings news from Mexico that the big, swarthy Mestizo, the most conspicuous hold-out on the state agrarian program, is gaining a following in a long sweep of Mexican provinces, and, in this view, dissident factions will swarm in behind him, if there is a further drift toward civil war.

He has the friendship and backing of various foreign interests, according to my informant, and around his huge, stolid, grim person there is gathering powerful opposition to the government.

He is a self-made fighting man who served his apprenticeship in various minor work-outs, before the big upheaval of 1910, when old Porfirio Diaz was overthrown. He joined this revolt, but called himself a "conservative revolutionist." He never liquidated his personal army, now numbering about 10,000, and his autocratic state is firmly entrenched in the constitutional commonwealth. When he resigned as secretary of agriculture on August 16, of last year, it was reported that he had made a truce with President Cardenas, but that talk seems to have been premature.

He was a member of the National Revolutionary party committee of 1934, which drafted Mexico's six-year agrarian and economic plan, but has been a determined and effective opponent of such fixings, particularly the Cardenas agrarian plan.

My friend picks Senors Cardenas and Cedillo as the two strong men of Mexico, one being driven left and the other right by the present social tension.

THE Swiss bell-ringers, the one-armed trap-drummer, the circus ring-master and all such supposedly busy and preoccupied people are just snoozing along compared to Dr. Morris Fishbein, goal-keeper against medical quacks, heresies, panaceas, innovations, utopias and unsanctioned experiments.

When Dr. James H. Means, retiring president of the American College of Physicians, drops a few provocative words about self-imposed medical reform, they scarcely hit a press wire before Dr. Fishbein swings a devastating counter-assertion.

Dr. Fishbein is elaborately equipped and organized for timely blasts against any encroachment of subsidized or socialized medicine. As editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association, with headquarters in Chicago, he commands a large staff of secretaries and assistant secretaries, trained like a fast ball club to field any challenge or dissent.

He is undoubtedly the most highly publicized medical man in America. Through the journal, he reaches the nation's 125,000 doctors; through Hygeia, the more popularized medical publication, he carries his message to many more thousands and is a prolific writer for national magazines.

He wofls hundreds of exchanges and eight or ten medical books every week, lectures, speaks on the radio, reviews books, writes books and, always enjoying a fight, keeps up a fast running fight against the quacks.

When he finished Rush Medical school, at the age of twenty-three, he had the choice of becoming a pathologist for the state of Indiana, or an assistant editor of the Journal of Medicine.

He chose the latter. Mrs. Fishbein, who was Anna Mantel, serves through the war with him, traveling with him and assisting him in the biggest and busiest job of medical journalism ever attempted. They have three children.

Dr. Fishbein, plump, affable, bald, and forty-eight years old, also is deep in art, music, literature, the drama, bridge, golf and public affairs, exercising a sharp critical judgment in all these fields. He is a magnificent demonstration of how a knowing doctor can build up his basal metabolism.

12 MILLION JOBLESS

One-Seventh of Population Receives Public Aid . . . First Report of Senate Committee on Relief

Emergency rationing of troops by airplane and parachute was successfully accomplished in Texas by the army air corps during maneuvers. This picture shows metal food container for personnel rations, bale of hay and a 130-pound sack of oats, with parachutes attached, ready to be loaded on the bomb racks of the Martin bomber seen in background.

One in Seven on Relief

TWELVE million American workers are totally unemployed. More than 18,000,000 persons, or one-seventh of the population of the country, are receiving public assistance from the federal, state or local governments. From 1933 to 1937 inclusive the federal and state governments have spent $19,400,000,000 for work relief and other forms of public assistance.

These far from cheerful figures were in a preliminary report of the senate committee on relief and unemployment submitted by Chairman Byrnes.

At the time the report came in, Harry Hopkins, WPA administrator, was telling the house appropriations committee, holding hearings on the administration's recovery-relief program, that the proposed $1,250,000,000 relief appropriation would enable 200,000 to be added to federal aid rolls, bringing the total number to 2,800,000 persons.

This money, he said, would last only for the first seven months of the coming fiscal year. He refused to estimate how much would be needed thereafter.

The senate committee report in general absolved the WPA from charges of graft, waste and inefficiency, but in some respects it sharply criticized the administration's relief policies.

To the discomfiture of administration leaders, the committee recommended that the senate's revenue bill repealing the undistributed profits tax and modifying the capital gains tax be adopted as a major aid to economic recovery. Retention of those taxes is in the house bill backed by President Roosevelt.

One Spending Bill Passed

WITHOUT a record vote the house passed the first of the new spending bills, appropriating $903,000,000 for the Department of Agriculture during the next fiscal year. Of the total sum, 201 millions are for the building of new roads, this being one of the President's pump-priming suggestions.

Help for Utilities

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT now is planning to extend government aid to the public utilities, which have suffered severely from government competition. This was learned after he had conferred with RFC Chairman Jones, and Douglas and Hanes of the SEC. The purpose is to aid the utilities in financing new construction, through the RFC lending program. Employment of now idle workers is the aim.

A.F. of L. Follows C.I.O. Lead

AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR, following the example of the rival C. I. O., entered politics on a national scale by forming an organization to back selected candidates for public office.

The action, emphasizing anew the split between the two labor associations, indicated that the labor vote will be divided in many state primaries and November congressional elections.

Fight in Pennsylvania

DEMOCRATS of Pennsylvania are split wide open over the campaign for the May primaries, and Gov. George Earle is in the middle of the hot fight. He is seeking the nomination for senator. Mayor Wilson of Philadelphia, supported by Senator Guffey and John L. Lewis, is opposing him. Wilson charged that Earle had borrowed large sums from M. H. McCloskey, contractor and co-leader of the Philadelphia Democratic organization, and Chairman Green of the Republican state committee promptly demanded that Earle resign or face impeachment. The governor admitted financial dealings with McCloskey but said his debt had been reduced to $6,000.

Earle declared Guffey was trying to wreck the state party organization "so he can control the Pennsylvania delegation to the Democratic national convention in 1940 and team up with Southern Democrats to get the nomination for vice president."

Hitler Reviews Army

REICHSFUEHRER HITLER celebrated his forty-ninth birthday by reviewing his new Pan-German army, and it developed that he and his military leaders are expecting that open warfare will be the form of future conflicts. The 10,000 troops that marched along Unter den Linden, led by an Austrian battalion that had not yet learned the goose-step, were equipped for mobile fighting and armed with a new machine gun. In the parade were 500 tanks of medium size and armored cars with radio.

It was announced in Vienna that a warrant had been issued for the arrest of Archduke Otto, pretender to the Austrian throne. A Berlin newspaper said the Austrian properties of the Hapsburgs had been confiscated.

Members of the German American Bund held a meeting in New York on Hitler's birthday which developed into a riot. Seven men wearing American Legion caps were severely beaten by "Storm Troopers" in uniform. J. W. Hill, national secretary of the bund, asked a congressional investigation of the activities of Representative Dickstein of New York, who, he said, predicted there would be bloodshed if the meeting were held.

TVA Investigators

WHEN Sen. James J. Davis of Pennsylvania, Republican, consented to serve on the joint congressional committee to investigate the Tennessee Valley authority, that group was complete.

Senator Bridges of New Hampshire, author of the resolution calling for the inquiry, was left off the committee, contrary to precedent.

The other senators named by Vice President Garner are: Sen. Donahue of Ohio, Fred H. Brown of New Hampshire, H. H. Schwartz of Wyoming, Democrats; and Lynn Frazier of North Dakota, radical Republican.

House members are J. M. Mead of New York, W. J. Driver of Arkansas, R. Ewing Thomason of Texas, Democrats; C. A. Wolcott of New Jersey and T. A. Jenkins of Ohio, Republicans.

It was presumed that Senator Donahue would be chairman of the committee. He is not marked as prejudiced either way in the matter. In the senate he is almost never heard.

Investigators were to be put in the field as soon as possible, and after congress adjourns the joint committee will hold public hearings, probably in Knoxville, Tenn., and in Washington.

Turkey Quake Kills 800

FROM Ankara, Turkey, comes news that an earthquake in Anatolia killed at least 800 persons and destroyed many villages. Whole families were buried under mountainous debris, and some 50,000 persons were rendered homeless.

Terrific underground rumblings were accompanied by intermittent shocks over a wide area of western Asia bordering the Aegean sea, and especially about Kirshehr, Yozgad and Tehorum.

What to Eat and Why

C. Houston Goudiss Discusses LAXATIVE FOODS ★

Nationally Known Authority on Food Shows How Right Diet Can Help You to Avoid Health Hazards of Faulty Elimination

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

6 East 39th Street, New York.

THOUSANDS of men, women and children are alive today because we have learned how to prevent many types of infections and how to cure diseases which once caused untimely deaths.

We have reason to be proud of the achievements of science in fighting disease and lengthening the span of life. But we should be ashamed of the fact that hundreds of thousands of individuals are not getting the most out of life—indeed they are not realizing half their potentialities—because improper eating and faulty habits of hygiene cause them to suffer from that great evil of civilization—constipation.

EVILS OF CONSTIPATION

Someone has called constipation the most deadly disease, and while this may seem like an extreme statement, it becomes justifiable when one realizes the untold misery and wretchedness that may result when food residues remain to stagnate and putrefy in the body.

Constipation muddies the complex brain. It causes a general feeling of discomfort and fullness in the abdomen, lack of appetite, bad breath, coated tongue, a feeling of lassitude and a tendency to become easily fatigued.

By weakening resistance, it opens the way to numberless diseases. Serious complications, such as irritation of the appendix, may occur as a result of the friction of hard masses of waste against the delicate walls of the intestine. Piles have frequently been laid at the door of faulty elimination.

Do you wonder that I consider prompt, regular elimination the keystone of good health?

FATE OF FOOD IN THE BODY

From the mouth, food passes down the esophagus into the stomach, where it is penetrated by the gastric juice. It then passes into the small intestine where it is mixed with the secretions of the liver and the pancreas. Here the nutritive elements are absorbed by minute, hair-like tubes which line the intestinal walls. These tubes converge into the blood vessels and lymphatics which transport nourishment to all parts of the body.

Undigested residues pass into the large intestine or colon, where they are normally moved along by a series of muscular contractions known as peristalsis, and finally evacuated.

The amount of the evacuation varies in bulk with the amount of indigestible roughage contained in the food. When there is insufficient bulk to promote normal peristalsis, waste accumulates and we have the condition known as constipation with all its resulting evils. Bacteria prey upon the stagnating material, producing poisons which may be absorbed by the body.

There is not the slightest excuse for allowing this condition to develop. For the misery and wretchedness of constipation may easily be avoided by including in the daily diet sufficient laxative foods, that is, those rich in fiber or cellulose.

BULK OR FIBER ESSENTIAL

Because of their fibrous framework, plant foods are our chief source of cellulose or bulk, and therefore, our greatest aid in promoting normal elimination. Vegetables and fruits are sworn foes of constipation, and unrefined cereals are also extremely valuable.

SOME LAXATIVE FOODS

Foods with an exceptionally high residue include raw fruits, especially those with skins and seeds; dried fruits, as apricots, prunes, figs and raisins; raw vegetables; such cooked vegetables as onions and leafy greens; the legumes, that is, dried peas and beans; whole grain cereals and bran.

Among the vegetables, don't overlook cabbage, lettuce, celery, spinach, brussels sprouts, string beans and green peas.

Foods which tend to form a little gas in the intestines, including spinach, onions and cauliflower, are also useful stimulants to intestinal movement.

In addition to providing cellulose, the acid fruits, such as oranges, lemons and grapefruit, act as a mild stimulus to increased peristaltic motions.

NEED FOR VITAMIN B

Another important factor in promoting normal elimination is vitamin B, which has been shown to be essential for good muscular tone and activity of the digestive tract. Investigations with experimental animals have demonstrated that it requires twice as long to empty the large intestine when the diet is deficient in vitamin B. Yeast, egg yolk, milk, whole grain cereals, liver and green leafy vegetables are good sources of this vitamin.

LIQUIDS ESSENTIAL

A sufficient quantity of liquids is likewise necessary to prevent the contents of the lower intestine from becoming too hard for easy evacuation. In addition to water, the diet should therefore contain an abundance of milk, fruit juices and other beverages. Acidophilus milk and buttermilk are especially beneficial.

Fats and oils, used in moderation, act as gentle lubricants.

REGULAR HABITS

It is most important to eat at regular hours and to establish regular times for evacuation, as this is a great aid to body rhythm.

Guard carefully against over-eating, for this practice is a frequent cause of constipation. When

Questions Answered

Mrs. B. T. M.—Do not worry if your child prefers the egg yolk to the white. The white is chiefly protein, and he can easily obtain protein from other foods, especially milk. But the yolk contains an abundance of minerals and vitamins in addition to protein and fat. Nutritionists have determined that the inclusion of one egg yolk daily in an otherwise adequate diet is an effective method of balancing the intake and output of iron in a child's diet.

Miss S. B.—No, the generous use of cream cannot be considered as a substitute for taking milk as a beverage or in cooked dishes. Cream is much higher in fat and contains less protein, minerals and vitamins, with the exception of vitamin A. Cream deserves to be included in the diet for its vitamin A content, but it should not replace milk.

Mrs. A. McK.—Strawberries contain vitamins A, B and C. Recent experiments indicate that they rank with citrus fruits and tomatoes as a source of vitamin C. © WNU—C. Houston Goudiss—1938.

Hidden Benefits

Few housewives realize the underlying advantage of the use of a good light-oil furniture polish! Most polish is used only for the luster it bestows on the chairs, tables, piano, woodwork in the home. Rubbing the polish on cleans the furniture—works up a glow—and the outward effect is fresh and sparkling! But that is only part of the housewife's reward. For out of this domestic routine comes definite benefit to the furniture! A reputable polish, with a light oil base, does what is known as "feeding" the finish. The "massage" causes the oil to penetrate, seep into the pores of the wood—just enough to lubricate—and keep it healthy! Here, it is important to note that cheap polishes are made with a heavy oil base—and are "greasy" and unpleasant to use. The best polish—made with a fine light-oil base—is never greasy. Applied on a damp cloth (according to directions), it is neat to use and proves a boon to the furniture! Lack of polishing—or the use of a poor polish—will cause the finest wood to dry out, crack, split—for wood is a product of Nature and needs a certain amount of oily moisture. So polish the furniture regularly! Use a quality oil polish—it pays! For not only does the furniture look better—it is better! Its life is preserved!

AROUND THE HOUSE

Rinse Silks Well.—Silk underthings should be washed in water that is barely warm, and should be rinsed in at least three fresh rinsing waters.

Preparing Baked Potatoes.—Baked potatoes look much nicer if scooped from the shell, mashed with butter, pepper and salt, a well-beaten yolk of an egg, then placed back in the half shell and browned in the oven. They not only look nicer, but taste better.

When Painting Molding.—A piece of heavy cardboard is handy for the amateur painter to hold under the molding to protect the wall paper.

To Retain Juices in Meats.—To keep flavor and juices in meat when baking or frying, expose it to extreme heat first, then reduce the temperature and cook more slowly.

When Someone Is Ill.—Always wrap a rubber hotwater bottle in soft cloth before placing in a patient's bed. Place the bottle near but not against the patient's flesh. If placed too close the patient may be burned before realizing it.

SYNOPSIS

Ruth Chiswick of L. C. ranch, obsessed by fear of danger to her outspoken father, Lee, from a band of lawless rustlers headed by Sherm Howard, decides to save him by eloping with young Lou Howard, Sherm's son, and comes to the town of Tail Holt to meet him. While in Yell Sanger's store, a crook-knosed stranger enters, sizes up the situation, and when a drunken cowboy, Jim Pender, rides in and starts shooting, protects Ruth, while Lou Howard hides. Disgusted with Lou's cowardice, Ruth calls off the elopement, and sends the stranger for her father at the gambling house across the street. There she meets Morgan Norris, a killer, curly Connor, Kansas, Mile High, Sid Hunt, and other rustlers, and Sherm Howard. Lee Chiswick enters, with his foreman, Dan Brand, and tells Sherm Howard of his orders to shoot rustlers at sight. Jeff Gray returns to Ruth and coldly reassures her of her father's safety. At supper, Ruth introduces Jeff to her father and Brand, and in Sanger's store later she speaks cordially to curly Connor. Coming out of the store, they are greeted by sudden gunfire. Lee is wounded, and Jeff Gray appears with a smoking revolver. Two days later, Ruth tells her father of her projected elopement and her disillusionment. Later, Ruth meets Jeff Gray, whom she thinks tried to kill her father. When he tries to hold her, she accidentally presses the trigger of her gun, and wounds Jeff. She takes him to Fat Sorley's camp.

"Must I?" He grinned at her with cheerful effrontery.

"Of course you must," Ruth almost stamped her foot in exasperation. "If you didn't do it, who did?"

"I wouldn't know."

She took that up triumphantly. "Neither you nor anybody else."

"But I could guess."

"Who, then?" she demanded.

"If I ever mention it, probably it will be to the gent himself," he said softly.

"I thought so."

Gray turned to the line-rider. "Two shots were fired before Mr. Chiswick's friends took a hand. I fired the second. Point is, who cut loose with the first?"

"If you weren't in it, why did you shoot at all?" Ruth asked.

"I've asked myself that two-three times since," he replied suavely. "Plumb dumb of me. For 20 years I've been minding my own business exclusive, yet soon as I hit Tail Holt I butt into yours, not only once but se-ve-real times. I wouldn't know why, unless I've gone loco."

"You beat around the bush without telling anything," the girl charged.

"By your own story you shot at the boss once," Sorley snapped. "Right after you'd eaten supper with him and Miss Ruth."

"Who said that was my story? I don't recollect ever telling it."

Ruth stared at the hardy scamp, her eyes dilating with excitement. "You mean you didn't fire at Father at all, but at the villain who was trying to kill him?"

"Go to the head of the class, Miss," Gray said, with a grim ironic smile. "It's the best story I could think up after three or four days, so I thought I would come back and try it on Lee Chiswick. 'Course you're smart as a whip, and I wouldn't expect to put it across with you."

A queer lift of joy sang in the girl's blood. She knew this was the truth. It explained everything. He had fired on the assassin and run forward to protect her father from any others who might turn their guns on him while he was defenseless. Naturally his purpose had been mistaken. The fire of Dan and Curly had driven him away. He had no time to explain. If he stayed, he would be shot down. There was no chance to show his weapon, with only one chamber empty. Now he had no evidence to back his story.

"Why didn't you tell me before?" she cried.

"You and yore friends are so handy with guns I never get time to make oration," he said dryly.

Distress flooded her. She had shot him, after he had perhaps saved the life of her father.

"His story don't look good to me," Sorley said coldly. "I would say he was runnin' a whizzer on us, Miss Ruth."

"No. It's true." The girl drew a deep breath of relief. "I'm awfully glad it is."

The wounded man looked at her. "What difference does it make to you whether I or someone else shot him?" he asked.

Her eyes met his, the color on her cheeks hot beneath them. "I don't like you a bit. I think you are hateful. But I didn't believe you were a low scoundrel until what I saw at Tail Holt. Now I know you're not that kind of man. You saved my father's life. I don't know how to thank you . . . or to tell you how sorry I am that I hurt you."

"So now it's all right," he jeered, "and I ought to tell you how grateful I am for the lead pill you gave me."

"I've told you I'm sorry, and that I didn't mean to do it," Ruth said. "That's fine. You just pointed yore popgun at me to make Fourth-of-July fireworks. I'm lucky you picked only a leg to puncture."

Ruth felt anger stir in her, but she kept it down. "If there's anything I can do for you while you're here—anything I can bring you," she said in a carefully even voice.

"I'm going to see you again, am I? How nice! There are several things you can bring me. One is some tobacco. I'd like two-three books, and the latest newspaper you have. Also, bring Lee Chiswick. I want a powwow with him."

"I'll send the books with my father," she said.

Lee Chiswick broke into his daughter's story excitedly.

"He's hanging around waiting for a chance to dry-gulch me."

Ruth shook her head. "I thought so at first. I don't now. Listen."

"'Lucky the wolf didn't do you a meanness when he had a chance.' The strong jaw of the cattleman set. 'I'll have him rounded up and rubbed out before he's 24 hours older.'"

"You won't need to round him up. I can tell you where he is. My story isn't finished. Do you want to hear it or not?"

"Where is he?" demanded Chiswick.

"He's at the rimrock line-camp, with a bullet-hole in his leg."

"Did Pat get him?"

"No. I did."

"You what?"

"I shot him."

Her father stared at her with blank astonishment. "Good God, girl! What do you mean?"

"I tried to pass him. He caught at the bridle rein. I don't know why. Perhaps he couldn't get out of the way and didn't want Blue Chip to trample him down. Somehow my gun went off and hit him. I didn't want him to die before he could get help, so I took him to the camp."

"Why didn't you come and get some of us?" he asked, his voice sharp with anxiety. "He might have shot you down on the way."

"I was as safe with him as I would be with you, Father," she said. "He isn't that kind of man. I don't like him. He's . . . insulting. But he is not the kind of ruffian who would hurt a woman or would take advantage of a man in a fight. He didn't shoot you. Someone else did."

"That's crazy talk!" Lee shouted. "We saw him do it."

"We thought we saw him do it," she corrected. "But we didn't. He saw someone fire at you and shot at the man. Then he ran forward to protect you, and we all thought he was the killer. Think it over, Father. From the position you were standing the bullet that creased you must have been fired in the alley, but this Gray came another direction."

"Got it all figured out, haven't you—with his help?" Lee said angrily.

"If he had been the man, would he have run forward into the nest of us? It isn't reasonable. He was taken by surprise when Dan began shooting at him. I could see that. To save his life he had to get out."

"What's he doing here, then?"

"He wants to see you. I don't know what about. He insisted on my bringing you."

"He'll see me, all right," the cattleman said, his voice harsh and grim.

"My opinion is that he saved your life, after he had already taken care of me when a crazy man was on the shoot. Then I put a bullet in him, and now you want to finish him." Ruth spoke with sharp bitterness.

"I'll listen to him," Lee told her.

"I'll hear what he has got to say. Maybe you are right, but I don't believe it. If he comes clean and tells me what he is doing here—and if what he says satisfies me—he'll be as safe with me as in God's pocket. I'll have him brought to the house and we'll take care of him here. But he can't pull the wool over my eyes. He has got to be straight goods."

"That's fair," Ruth agreed. "I don't know anything about who he is. Maybe he's an outlaw on the dodge. He's as hard as iron and he may have gone bad. But there's something clean about him. He wouldn't shoot a man in the back. I'd stake everything I had on that."

Chiswick nodded. "I would have said that myself, and I'm not often wrong about a man. When he ran at me with his gun smoking, I was sure surprised. Maybe you're right, daughter. He'll get a chance to tell his story."

"May I ride up to the line-camp with you?" Ruth asked.

"Not!" he exploded, and slammed a fist down on the breakfast-table to emphasize his decision. "You can't go with me. What's the matter with you, girl? You head for trouble like a thirsty steer for water. First, you run off with a no-count scallawag not worth a hill of beans, then you shoot another and tote him to hospital without asking me a by-your-leave. That's no way for a lady to do. No wonder folks think you're a wild young hellion. You are grown up now. You got to learn to act genteel."

"Would it be unladylike for me to go down with you and take some fried chicken and biscuits to a sick man?" she wanted to know.

"You fix up this fried chicken and I'll take it down," Lee said firmly.

"I aim to be reasonable, but I'm through letting you behave so crazy."

Ruth gave up. She packed the tobacco, the books, and the food. For Pat she put in a corn-cob pipe to replace the broken clay one.

Knowing her father's impulsive nature, she was full of misgivings.

Over his shoulder, as he started, he called back a word of reassurance. "Don't you worry, daughter. I'm not going off half-cocked. If this Gray can show me he's not a yellow coyote, I'll not harm him."

In a natural meadow half a mile from the house he stopped to give Dan Brand instructions about the drive of yearlings sold to Broderick. This done, he told his son Frank and the foreman what he had just learned from Ruth.

Frank asked to ride with him to Sorley's camp.

The Chiswicks rode up to the rimrock and skirted the edge of it until they reached a break. Through this they climbed to the lip of the park where the line-camp lay.

From the chimney of the cabin a thin trickle of smoke drifted.

"Pat is probably line-riding and has left this fellow alone," Frank said.

As they drew closer, Lee hulled the house. From the boulder field back of it an echo came back to them. No other answer sounded. A second time he shouted, still without response.

"Get your gun out, boy," he ordered grimly. "I don't like this."

He swung from the saddle and drew the rifle attached to it. Frank dismounted hurriedly, his horse between him and the house.

"I sure don't want to get blasted out of my saddle," he said.

The two men worked toward the cabin, using their horses to screen them as much as possible from any sharpshooters who might be in the building or among the rocks above. Nobody stirred except themselves. Frank felt a strange prickling sensation run up and down his spine. Any moment there might come a crash of guns.

Lee maneuvered close to the door, then made a bolt for it. His son was inside, scarce a second later.

The cabin was empty.

"What name shall I say?" asked Reynolds.

"Where's the fellow gone?" Lee asked.

"I reckon he wasn't as bad hurt as he was making out," Frank said.

"What's this?"

Lee picked a piece of wrapping-paper from the table. He read aloud something that had been scrawled on it with a pencil. "Much obliged, Doc, for fixing my leg. See you later maybe."

Jeff Gray rode into Tail Holt two days after leaving the rimrock line-camp. His broad shoulders sagged with weariness. The eyes of the man were sunken. The lean face was haggard and unshaven. At the Alamo corral he dismounted stiffly.

The owner of the place, Jim Reynolds, squinted an unspoken question at him from under slanted eyebrows. There was an arresting quality about Gray that held attention. The fatigue, the stains of travel, did not conceal his dominant force. He unsaddled the sweat-streaked roan gelding with a competent economy of motion. When he moved, a pantherish ripple ran wavelike through his well-packed muscles.

"Yore bronc some gaunted," Reynolds said.

"Some," Gray agreed.

He watered and fed the animal himself. Reynolds watched him, observing that he knew how to treat a hot, tired horse. The corral-owner wondered who this stranger was.

"I'll put up at Ma Presnall's if she has room for me," Gray said.

"Could you send word to Sherm Howard that I'm there and want to see him?"

"What name shall I say?" asked Reynolds.

"Jeff Gray. I'm obliged, sir."

Gray limped up the street toward the boarding-house.

Ma Presnall had her muscular arms bare to the elbows. There was a splash of flour on one temple. She had been baking. Her face was leathery and wrinkled, the challenge of her washed-out eyes direct and hard. For twenty years she had lived in frontier camps and held her own.

He could have a room and board, she said, for a dollar a day or five dollars a week. Strangers paid in advance. A five-dollar bill passed from Gray to her and she led him to his room.

After washing the caked dust from face and hands, he lay down on the bed. The wound in his leg was throbbing. For the better part of sixty hours he had been in the saddle and he was almost worn out. When the opportunity came he would bathe and dress the hurt. Just now he had no time. He was expecting a visit from Sherman Howard and perhaps from others. It was unfortunate that his entry into Tail Holt had been so melodramatic. Probably he would have to light out again, if they gave him a chance to go.

With his pocket-knife he ripped open the lining of his vest and drew out a folded paper. He expected to need it shortly. The paper was a printed poster offering a reward of 2,000 for the capture of Clint Duke, the leader of a band of outlaws who had held up and robbed the Texas and Southern Flyer. A description of the desperado was given. With it was a picture taken from a cut. The face that looked back from the poster at Jeff Gray was his own.

Through the door Ma Presnall called information. "Some gents to see you."

"Who are they?" Gray asked, putting the paper in his vest pocket.

"Sherm Howard, curly Connor, and Morg Norris."

There was a barely perceptible pause before Gray said, "Ask them to come up, Mrs. Presnall, if you will."

Italian Hemstitching for a Chair Set

THE chair set shown here is made of an even meshed cream linen, marked off in squares of Italian hemstitching. Tiny scrolls in outline stitch with two diamonds in satin stitch are embroidered in all the outside corners. The scroll motif is shown at lower left. The tassels are made by raveling strips of the material and then rolling them.

The chair back piece measures 15 by 10 inches finished, and the chair arm pieces 7½ by 7½ inches. Allow ¾-inch at all edges for the rolled hems. The hemstitched squares measure 2½ inches. Mark them in pencil. The method of hemstitching the rolled edges is shown here at A and B. Remember that a moist thumb always helps in rolling an edge evenly.

Italian hemstitching is really just two rows worked together as shown at C and D. To prepare the rows, draw two threads, skip four and then draw two more.

Recovery in Prospect, But Not Immediate

Nearly all his life, when he was ill, Mark Twain was inundated with letters from well-wishers, one offering this, and another offering that marvelous remedy for his malady, whatever it might be, says his daughter, Clara Clemens (in "My Father: Mark Twain").

He tried to acknowledge all such messages and sometimes did so in a whimsical way. Here is one of his replies:

"Dear Sir (or Madam): I try every remedy that is sent to me. I am now on No. 67. Yours is No. 2,653. I am looking forward to its beneficial results."

Cross Wheat and Couch Grass to Halt Shifting of the Farm Soil in Canada

In some parts of Canada a serious problem has been confronting farmers for many years now—one with which no English farmer is likely to be faced. Their farms won't stay put.

On the wide prairies of North America acres of loose soil shift each year, through the action of wind and rain. Up to the present there has been nothing to prevent it. Farmers simply had to sit and watch the fertile top soil wash away in the heavy rains of the spring and autumn, and blow away when, in the summer, the burning sun dried it up into fine dust.

Thus, every year, says a writer in London Answers Magazine, the land was impoverished, and no amount of manuring or careful cultivation on the part of the farmer served him in what seemed to be a hopeless battle against Nature.

In the last year or two the trouble has been intensified, and considerable tracts of land have been laid waste.

But the scientist can sometimes find a weapon which will turn defeat into victory, and the Biological Institute of Svalof, South Sweden, hopes before long to put a stop to this constant disappearance of valuable soil.

They are crossing wheat with the farmers' old enemy, couch grass, and they have every reason to hope that the result will be a useful crop of grain, provided by a plant whose clinging roots will bind together the shifting soil.

Canadian farmers will have much to thank the scientists for when they plant this grain, and another on which the scientists are working now.

The latter is a cross between wheat and rye, which, it is hoped, will be capable of withstanding the bitter cold of the long northern winters, and of producing a useful crop at the same time. The Canadian farmers' continued prosperity depends on some such type of grain.

At present the yield is too small to be useful, but in the future, no doubt, it will be a standard crop.

The News is still of the opinion that Loraine needs a thorough cleaning. As yet the mayor has not seen fit to issue a proclamation for a cleanup campaign. We hope he will do so right away.

Are you interested in a milk plant for Loraine? If you are you will attend a meeting to be called right away by the president of the chamber of commerce. If you are interested in the welfare of Loraine and surrounding community you should be interested in securing a milk plant. This community is going to have to turn to something besides cotton and a good market for milk is one of the best ways to do it, in our opinion.

A Boy Scout troop was organized in Loraine recently. In order to arouse more interest in the troop, especially among the men of the community, the Scoutmaster is arranging for a training school for adults, starting in the early part of May. The Scoutmaster needs help in putting over a good Scout program in the community and he urges every man in the community who can to attend the school which will be conducted one night each week for three weeks.

The Boy Scout organization is one of the finest things at all for boys, and there are plenty of men who would benefit in more ways than one from a course in Scouting. Attend the school.

CHILD HEALTH DAY IN TEXAS IS MAY 1

Austin, Texas April 25.—"Texas, this May 1, has cause to celebrate its annual May Day—Child Health Day as an expression of better child health this past year over the state," Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, said.

Throughout the length and breadth of this state on May 1, children will gather in celebrations, which include play, games, and exhibitions of special ability which has been developed. The children themselves are celebrating another year of life, in most cases, we hope, a year in which there has been increased health and enjoyment.

The State Department of Health joins with the individual child in the celebration of these gains.

"Today we celebrate the fact that the maternal mortality rate during the past year was lower than any previous year in the history of the State of Texas.
This means more mothers living to care for the children of Texas, to encourage them and assist in providing them happiness. The fact that diphtheria has continued its retreat and that the death rate from this disease is the lowest in the state, together with the lowest death rate from typhoid, in history, is to be celebrated Doctor Cox added.

"These facts we accept with true pleasure and joy in that we have had some share in the reduction of these rates. A great deal remains to be done and the battle is only begun. It is my desire that the State Department of Health, all agencies interested in the child, every county and every community within this state may work unceasingly during the ensuing year, day by day, that May Day—Child Health Day 1939 will afford us many more things which we may celebrate," Doctor

Cox concluded.

TEXAS BUSINESS STILL LOOKING UP

Austin, Texas, April 25—Retail sales in Texas continue to make a far better showing than in the Nation as a whole, according to the Bureau of Business Research of The University of Texas. Aggregate sales, as measured in dollars, during March of a representative group of department stores, dry goods, and apparel stores,
men's and women's specialty stores were only slightly below those of the corresponding month last year and exceeded those of February by almost the normal seasonal amount, the report said.

Reports from 106 retail establishments showed total dollar sales during March of only 2.4 per cent below those of the like month last year, while the increase over February was 21.6 per cent. The fact that Easter came in March last year whereas this year it came in April lends further optimism to the current showing.

HALF MILLION CHILDREN TAKE PART IN LEAGUE

Austin, Texas April 25—More than half a million Texas public schoolchildren in rural, grade and high schools have participated in the 1937-38 Interscholastic League program, including local, county,
and district meets, already held.
Roy Bedichek, chief of the University of Texas Bureau of Public School Extracurricular Activities, has announced. Approximately 1,200 of these are expected to qualify for participation in the twenty-ninth annual State Meet, May 5, 6 and 7.

The 1937-38 League program has been the most far-reaching the organization has ever attempted, Mr. Bedichek said. A total of 5,672 schools entered the various contests, and county meets were held in 246 out of Texas' 254 counties. The Texas Interscholastic League is the largest organization of its kind in the country, he declared.

Pension Yourself

Three things you'll have trouble in avoiding. They are DEATH, TAXES and OLD AGE. This is particularly true of OLD AGE.

We can't keep from growing old. It is inevitable if we live at all. But the thing that CAN be avoided is a needy and dependent old age. If careful habits are formed, if savings are deposited in a reliable bank like ours, it will be the best old age pension for you. A comfortable balance at the bank always gives one a comfortable feeling, old or young.

Isn't this the real problem of Beer —and almost its only problem?

THERE ARE people, of course, who steadfastly and sincerely believe beer to be intoxicating, or its use sinful, harmful, or a first step toward use of "hard liquor."

Just as sincerely we hold that the weight of the evidence is overwhelmingly against them...that beer is a mild, wholesome food beverage...and that "there is nothing more promising to combat the evil of too much alcohol than the opportunity of drinking good beer."

No...it is not in beer itself, we believe, that its gravest problem lies, but in those conditions, undesirable to us all, which sometimes surround its sale.

How should that problem be handled... by brewers, by retailers, by consumers, and by the public authorities? On its handling, we believe, depends the ultimate success or failure of the art and science of brewing, with all its manifold contributions to human pleasure and happiness and to the farm and industrial welfare of this country.

In that belief, a short time ago the Brewers Foundation was organized...to align the brewing industry with forces working for the public good in this country.

Our underlying motive...to perpetuate and promote our industry...is of course obvious. But equally obvious, we hope, is the fact that our interests coincide with the public interest.

Important progress has been made. Brewermembers of the Foundation already represent nearly half the production of beer and ale in the United States: and these members are pledged, individually and collectively, to the Brewers Code, one significant clause of which is as follows:

"We pledge our support to the duly constituted authorities for the elimination of anti-social conditions wherever they may surround the sale of beer to the consumer."

Being practical men, we promise no miracles. We cannot immediately or effectively "police" the quarter-million points where beer is sold (nor, to be fair, have we legal authority in many cases to do so). Nor can we, immediately, bring about full compliance with the law among all retailers, nor honest enforcement by all authorities.

But a beginning has been made...and we do promise that you will see results from it.

How far we can go, and how soon, depends very much on ourselves...but partly also on you.

Public opinion, once aroused, can operate to bring about honest enforcement of existing laws. Restriction of your patronage only to legal, respectable retail outlets can and will operate to raise retailing standards.
Public preference for the products of Foundation members will bear witness of your approval both to members and to cooperating retailers, and will encourage them to renewed efforts.

This is, therefore, at once a statement of our objectives and an appeal for your support, without which we must fall short of our high hopes. We urgently invite your full and sympathetic cooperation.

A Cure For Spring Fever

If you feel drowsiness slowly creeping over you, you have discovered the first symptom of that dreaded disease, spring fever. Immediately, straighten your posture almost to rigidity. Bend the head and shoulders far back until they touch the desk behind. If the vertebrae pop, that's a good sign. Yawn long but not loud and stretch the arms as far back and out as far as your neighbors' good nature will permit. You are now ready for the final dose. Open the pages of the textbook that you loathe and read. Conscientiously try to glean something from it and all your senses will soon be awakened, for your entire wits will be needed to follow the thought in the dry book. If the sleepy feeling still persists, you should soak your head with cold water and vow never to get less than eight hours of sleep again.

SENIOR DAY MAY NOT BE A NATIONAL HOLIDAY BUT—

Our senior class is among 1,148 other Texas senior classes that call a halt to class work one day of the school year to relax and see the sights. The scoffing underclassman says that the frail seniors need one day of rest to bear the shock of a diploma.

SENIORS TO H-SU

The Seniors of Loraine High School have been invited to the annual Senior Day at Hardin-Simmons University Saturday, April 30. The event is sponsored by the Seniors of the University. A full day is being planned for all the Seniors throughout this section of West Texas.

A group of the Loraine Seniors together with their sponsor, Miss Hoskinson, are planning to go to Abilene to attend this Senior-Day.

IN APPRECIATION

The Senior Class of Loraine High School wish to thank the people of Loraine and the surrounding territory for their presence at the Senior Play. Also we express our thanks to the merchants and other people who cooperated with us so well in giving us advertisements for our program.

Rev. Patterson Speaks to Students

Rev. Patterson, Baptist pastor of Colorado, spoke to the student body in assembly Friday. He came representing the American Legion. Rev. Patterson made a very inspiring talk on "Service", the last of the qualities that the seventh grades are judged on for the American Legion award. These awards will be presented at the seventh grade graduation exercises.

Missionary From South Sea Islands Gives Show

Tuesday morning, April 19, Bro. John Yates, a missionary from the South Sea Islands, presented a picture show of typical scenes of the Malay peninsula. Bro. Yates had a number of skins, clothing, implements, and other things of interest that he had on exhibition in addition to the picture. He sang and talked in the native tongue of the islanders.

The program was sponsored by the Senior Class.

Simmons To Austin In Pole Vault

Al Simmons tied for first place in pole vaulting 11 feet 9 inches with Austin from Baird, but the officials of the meet gave first place to Austin.

This set a new record for region II in pole vaulting which formerly was 11 feet 7 inches. Joe Albright tied for third making 11 feet but after all figuring of the officials he didn't even place.

Simmons placed 3rd in broad jump and 4th in the 440 yd. dash.

Bo Brians placed 4th in the shot put.

BAND MAKES TRIP TO SAN ANGELO

The Loraine High School Band plans to be on its way to San Angelo where different Bands in this District meet and march and enter various contests.

We are all working hard both in marching and playing and we sincerely hope that the Loraine people will not be disappointed when they hear us play and see us in our gold and black uniforms which as yet have not arrived. We will be disappointed if they do not get here after the work we have put out. Just the same we hope you will hear us when we leave and come back and then maybe you can tell how happy we are.

We plan to spend Friday and Friday night and part of Saturday in San Angelo.

The Sophs. are still waiting patiently for the ice-cream supper and when time comes, we will make the most of it. It is only one month until school will reach its end for this term. We will all be happy from the whispers I hear passing around.

The Sophs. are wondering if Billy's hair will ever stay combed back. If we have a substitute teacher in algebra and how it will turn out. If Hester Finley will ever learn how to pronounce words.

Seniors, the sophs enjoyed your play Friday night very much. It was a real success, and here's wishing you more in the years to come.

The weeks are gradually slipping by sophs, and it won't be long until what we call "the day of great rejoicing" will be here. We sincerely hope that there will be none left behind, so watch your step. Flash! A West Texas widow was having so much trouble with the courts and lawyers, she was almost wishing her husband hadn't died. We are very glad to say that we have a boy in our class that we are quite sure will become a great athlete. It happens to be Marvin Hall, who won third place at Sweetwater in the mile run. Stay in there Lefty, the sophs need more like you.

Thought for the day: "Dictators are great humorists—they can gag a whole population. . . . We're still hungry for weiners, but it seems as though we were just absolutely meant to be patient. Howard, have you or have you not seen "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs?" (We wonder!)

Calendar of Coming Events

Friday—April 29—Band goes to San Angelo.

Saturday—April 30—Seniors go to H-SU Senior Day.

Tuesday—May 10—Mrs. K. L. Taylor's Recital.

Friday—May 13—Senior final exams.

Coming Senior Attractions

We were pleased with the large crowd at the Senior Play Friday night and we hope that everyone enjoyed it as much as we enjoyed presenting it. Now that the play is over, we shall turn our attention to the planning of the commencement program which will be May 20th. The subject is "Our School" and the program will be presented by the Seniors.

The Baccalaureate Sermon is to be May 15 and Rev. A. C. Hardin will be the speaker. The dinner will be at Mrs. F. H. Baumann's home.

We are having quite a conflict in regard to our trip to Carlsbad Cavern, so that date has not been definitely fixed.

The Seniors have only three more weeks of school and we shall try to make the most of them.

THIRD GRADE NEWS

We are about through with our Texas Unit and we are going to visit our Southern neighbor, the Land of the Aztecs, Mexico. We are getting the sandtable ready. It is going to be a desert scene with Popocatepet, a volcano mountain where it is very cold on top and very hot in the desert below.

We have found that the Mexican people are very fond of dancing and music. We have also found that Mexico is the land of bullfighting. Mexico has lots of gold, oil, and silver. She produces one tenth of the world's supply of coffee.

SEVENTH GRADE NEWS

The seventh grade enjoyed Rev. Patterson's speech immensely. Our only regret is that he was the last speaker. We have enjoyed all the talks, and we will try our best to be better citizens after hearing them.

Wanda May Smith went to Abilene Saturday to enter the Regional Contest in Ward School Junior Girls Declamation. She won third place.

LOCAL CIRCLE

The April meeting of the Local Circle was held in the home of Mrs. Roy Edwards with Mrs. Lily Bennett assistant hostess, Monday, April 25.

Mrs. Harold Martin called the meeting to order promptly at 3 P. M. at request of Mrs. Scoggins. "Take My Life and Let it Be" was sung, this being the theme song of the Womans Missionary Conference which convened at Snyder last week.

Mrs. T. A. Martin brought as devotional the April lesson from the World Outlook based upon scripture from Matthew 8, stressing religious education.

Mrs. C. W. Palmer led in prayer. The main feature of the meeting was a most inspirational review of high points of the Womans Missionary Conference brought by Mrs. Scoggins in her sweet unassuming manner, and was much appreciated by all.

Routine business was transacted and many visits, trays, flowers, etc., reported by social service chairman.

Plans for serving luncheon to visitors at the zone meeting of W. M. S. Thursday of this week were made, after which the hostesses took charge.

An Automobile Contest with Mrs. Scoggins representing the Plymouth, Mrs. Harold Martin the Ford, lined up the ladies for tests of assembling parts, filling radiators, testing lights, speed, etc., and by a narrow margin the Fords nosed out ahead. Both groups were good rooters and were now ready for tires and gas. Mrs. Edwards, who conducted the race, invited the guests to the dining room "filling station" where Mrs. Bennett served delicious punch and cookie tires to eighteen members.

Mrs. W. H. Finley, mother of Mrs. Bennett, was a most welcome guest.

Mesdames H. B. and T. C. Wilson will entertain in May. Reporter

BAPTIST W. M. U.

The ladies met at the church Monday afternoon in regular Bible study with ten present. Mrs. McCollum taught a very interesting lesson.

The next lesson will be the last two chapters of Joshua, the meeting to be May 9.

Next Monday is regular Missionary program and will be held in the home of Mrs. Dan Butler with Mrs. Mahon and Mrs. James Bennett joint hostesses. Lets all be there. When we miss one of these meetings we miss a wonderful blessing.

Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Smith and Miss Tempie Harris visited Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Taylor in Colorado Sunday.

Your BAKER knows
THERE'S NOTHING LIKE
TEXAS GAS FOR BAKING

Texas Bread Week

We salute the Bakers of Texas! "Texas Bread Week," which they are sponsoring, deserves the support of everyone. This industry means an annual volume of business for the state of nearly three-quarters of a billion dollars, with an annual payroll estimated at $10,000,000.

It is the quality of breads and pastries offered to his customers that largely determines the popularity of a baker's products. That's why practically all bakeries in Texas, wherever gas service is available, use heat-controlled gas bake ovens. For every baker knows that the even heat distribution and perfect temperature control by automatic regulators which these ovens provide are essential to his success in baking quality breads, cakes, pies and pastries. And, too, his operating costs are less with gas because of its cheapness, the efficiency of modern appliances and because of thick insulation which cuts down heat losses. For baking, your baker knows gas is best.

SEEN and HEARD around the NATIONAL CAPITAL By Carter Field FAMOUS WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENT

Washington.—A breakdown of the state delegations in congress on the vote on the government reorganization bill is of unusual interest if considered in connection with the much-talked-about "purge"—the proposal to defeat in Democratic primaries such members of the house and senate as have opposed the President on important issues.

Almost of paramount importance politically is New York. No "purge" has been proposed there, but one of the most loyal of the 77 Democratic senators, Robert F. Wagner, bucked the President on this issue, to everyone's surprise. Of course Sen. Royal S. Copeland also voted against the President on this bill, but it is Wagner, who is up for re-election this year, not Copeland, whom the President would very much like to see retired to private life.

In the house, Rep. John J. O'Connor, chairman of the powerful rules committee, has been troublesome to the New Deal for some time. As chairman of that committee he has had much to do with blocking the wages and hours regulation bill. He issued a blast against the reorganization bill as soon as it had passed the senate, and then voted against it.

But—so did nine other New York Democrats, of whom all but one, Alfred F. Beiter, come from the Greater City. And an additional New York city Democrat, Martin J. Kennedy, was paired against the bill! So it is rather difficult to figure the organization leaders helping to organize a move to eliminate the insurgents when primary day comes. Especially when it is remembered that several important functionaries in this group of leaders, particularly Ed Flynn of the Bronx, bucked the President's wishes rather forcefully when he attempted to get approval for Robert H. Jackson's gubernatorial ambitions.

Irritating Thorns

In Maryland, where the President would love to see Sen. Millard E. Tydings replaced by a New Dealer, Tydings having sided against the President on every controversial issue of any importance, four of the six Democrats voted against the President.

In Ohio, where there are all sorts of anti-New Deal rumblings, and whose senator, Vic Donahey, was the first named of the TVA investigating senators, 12 of the 21 Democrats voted against the President.

In Texas, where Sen. Tom Connally was among the first to insure on the Supreme court enlargement proposal, eight Democrats refused to follow their own Sam Rayburn, majority leader.

Virginia, whose senators, Carter Glass and Harry F. Byrd, have been the most irritating thorns on Capitol Hill so far as the White House is concerned, was even worse. Seven of her nine Democratic representatives voted against the President.

Even in South Carolina, whose senator, James F. Byrnes, led the fight for the reorganization bill in the senate, did not do so well. Three of her six Democrats voted wrong from the White House standpoint. Which may not be so displeasing to Sen. Ellison D. (Cotton Ed) Smith, whom the White House would like to see beaten this fall.

The one senator who comes up this year that the President is most anxious to save is "Dear Alben" Barkley of Kentucky, who defeated Pat Harrison for senate leader by one vote due entirely to White House pressure. He is now seriously threatened in the primary. But four of the eight Kentucky Democratic representatives voted against the President on the reorganization bill. And so it goes through most of the delegations.

A Chuckle Here

Just a few days before the house so surprisingly scuttled the President's pet government reorganization bill, Mr. Roosevelt was talking with a group of visitors. As they told the story afterward they had the impression that the President was not greatly concerned about what congress might do about anything, but he grew rather forceful when decrying any real danger of dictatorship in this country.

Toward the conclusion of the interview, the visitors reported, the President asked them dramatically if they could name any power he possessed that the two preceding Presidents, Coolidge and Hoover, had not had.

The visitors were not politically minded. As a matter of fact, they were chuckling as they came out of the White House about the retort one of their number had made. This gentleman had said to the President, when asked what powers he had that his two predecessors had lacked: "The power of expression."

But it did not occur to them until several hours later that after all the power to allocate a couple of billion dollars a year to projects all over the country, with the power to say to Senator Blank that he would either vote for administration measures or get no spending for his state, was rather tremendous. Nor that the power of patronage, which of course both Coolidge and Hoover had, had been enormously increased through the tremendous multiplication of the number of good jobs on the federal pay roll.

All of which is very significant now because of the new insurrection on Capitol Hill—that against voting the President huge sums for relief, which he can then allocate as he pleases.

May Turn on Heat

It must be admitted that there seems very little prospect of this latest revolt succeeding. But then it seemed rather unlikely, after the White House turned on the heat for the reorganization bill and was able to get it through the senate, that it would be upset in the house.

At least three times every one watching the situation has been sure, within the last 18 months, that the wages and hours regulation bill would be enacted, only to see it sidetracked. So that predictions at the moment seem rather daring. This new revolt just might get somewhere, unlikely as it seems now.

The great importance of it is that if it should, it would clip the President's power so effectively that it is scarcely likely he would be able to force any measure through congress for the remainder of his present term. It would mean that from now on congress would come mighty close to determining its decisions on its own political and economic judgment. It would mean the end of White House domination of Capitol Hill.

Just one reservation has to be made to this. The President still has that "power of expression." It is not impossible that his strength with the people in certain states and districts would be such that he could bring about the defeat in the Democratic primaries this year of a dozen or more outstanding figures among the insurgents. That, should it occur, would be apt to bring congress back to heel very decidedly.

Probe to Be Unique

The TVA investigation will be unique among the outstanding congressional inquiries of the last quarter of a century in one particular—it will not have a prosecutor!

Some senator or member of the house among the ten who compose the committee may decide, after the thing gets started, to take a real interest and try to get somewhere with it. There is no such promise to those who know the men from looking over their names, but surprises do happen.

But in the past it has been the custom, when a committee was appointed to delve into something, to pick out the particular man who had been doing most of the crusading on that subject, and put him on the investigating body, if not as chairman, then at least as a member.

For example, after Sen. Burton K. Wheeler had been attacking Harry M. Daugherty, then attorney general under President Harding, bitterly for weeks, and virtually forced the appointment of an investigating committee, he was appointed on it. He was not made chairman, for the simple reason that he was a Democratic senator, and the Republicans were in control of the senate, so that all chairmanships were given to Republicans.

But—everybody knew when Wheeler was appointed that he would really run the committee, and he did.

Walsh Made History

When Sen. Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin, father of the present senator of the same name, finally got his resolution for investigation of the lease of Teapot Dome passed, Sen. Thomas J. Walsh, who agreed with La Follette about it and was known as a relentless prosecutor, was named chairman.

Walsh made history, digging in for the carefully hidden trails long after nearly everyone but Walsh and La Follette was persuaded that actually the whole thing was all right.

This has always been the rule in both houses, though frequently committee chairmen, especially in the house of representatives, have stolen the thunder of the special prosecutors simply because they out-prosecuted them. House members have a little harder time getting publicity than senators, and hence are less loath to do battle when they get a chance for the front pages.

If the normal course of procedure had been followed in the TVA investigation, Sen. H. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire would have been named as one of the Republican members. He would not have been put at the head of the senate list, because he is a Republican, but certainly he would have been put on the committee, because he is the one senator who has been exhaustively investigating the situation and studying the subject for more than a year—knows more about it than anyone else in either house in all probability.

Lesson for May 1

FOLLOWING VISION WITH SERVICE

LESSON TEXT—Mark 9:14-29.
GOLDEN TEXT—All things are possible to him that believeth.—Mark 9:23.
PRIMARY TOPIC—When Only Jesus Could Help.
JUNIOR TOPIC—At the Foot of the Mountain.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Living Up to Our Knowledge of Christ.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Following Vision with Service.

One of the lessons that seems hard to learn and to keep constantly effective in the life of a Christian is that mountain-top experiences of spiritual uplift are not an end in themselves but a preparation for service. All too often we come to regard such times of peculiar blessing, whether in the privacy of our own room, or in the great conference of Christian workers, as something which should glow warmly in our own hearts, making us glad in the Lord, and not as a background and preparation for ministry to others. One might just as well hope to feed the physical body constantly without any work or exercise and keep in good health, as to feed the soul on good things, do nothing for God or fellow-man, and still avoid what someone has called "spiritual dyspepsia."

The writer has just attended a most unusual and blessed Bible conference, the leaders of which rightly apprehended this truth. Evangelism was the matter chiefly in mind, but instead of announcing the theme of the week's meetings as "Evangelism" the program presented it as "Preparation for Evangelism." That is sound spiritual sense. We came not to discuss evangelism itself so much as to prepare ourselves to go out and evangelize. God help us to do it!

Jesus rightly characterized the time in which he lived as

I. A Faithless Generation (vv. 14-19).

"Jesus found in the valley disputing scribes, a distracted father, a demon-possessed boy, and defeated disciples." The unbelief which called forth the rebuke of Jesus "is revealed in different phases. There were the scribes, willful and persistent unbelief; there was the father, unwilling unbelief; there was the boy, irresponsible unbelief; and there were the disciples, unconscious unbelief. The whole atmosphere was an unbelieving atmosphere" (Morgan).

As we look at that depressing picture of long ago, let us consider ourselves lest we also be tempted to "limit God" by our faithlessness. The most casual reader of Scripture cannot help but see that God seeks out and honors faith, and as we begin to study God's Word with care we realize that the fundamental of all fundamentals is really to believe God. Some Christian men and women are living out a tremendous testimony for God by fully believing Him and His Word, but many of those who profess to follow Him actually make Him appear ridiculous before the world because their unbelief makes Him out to be a "small" God instead of the infinite, eternal, omnipotent God.

II. The All-Powerful Saviour (vv. 23-27).

The keynote of our first division might well have been the sad words "they could not" in verse 18. But now the Son of God has come and the new keynote is the inspiring words of verse 23, "all things are possible to him that believeth." There is no problem too difficult for our Lord; there is no sorrow too deep for His comfort; there is no challenging opportunity too great for His enabling power.

III. Prayer the Connecting Link (vv. 28, 29).

The disciples in chagrin at their inability to deal with the difficulty of the demon-possessed boy, having witnessed the power of Christ in delivering him, begin now to realize that evidently even though unconscious of it, they had come into the powerless position of unbelief.

What a solemn warning there is for us in the experience of these followers of the Lord. Like the termite who destroys the very life and strength of wood—and yet leave it apparently whole, only to crumble in dust when it is put under the pressure of daily use—there are spiritually destructive influences which all but unconsciously destroy the virile strength of the Christian. Prayerlessness is the most effective weapon of Satan at this point. Without prayer there is no power. Real problems are not successfully met nor are opportunities grasped "but by prayer."

New and Pretty Fashions

AND you can make them for yourself with the greatest of ease! Send for the patterns right off—even if you haven't done much sewing, they're quick and easy to follow. Each is accompanied by a complete and detailed sew chart that answers your every question.

Gay and Perky Apron.

It's exactly right to call this pretty apron a "fashion," because it fits as well as a dress and has an animated charm of its own. It positively will not slip off the shoulders when you have both hands in the dishpan—or any other time—and it completely protects your dresses from spatters and spots. Make it of linen, gingham or percale and trim it with bright braid.

Dress With Bolero.

This charming dress has details that belong in the very forefront of fashion—you see them in the most expensive models. The shirting at the waistline, the flare of the skirt, the wide shoulders, with puff sleeves, the whole effect of swing and gaiety, make it smart of the smart! In silk print, flat crepe, taffeta or (for summer wear) linen or sheer silk, this dress will be lovely. Be sure to wear a flower at the neckline, too.

The Patterns.

1479 is designed for sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 1½ yards of 35-inch material, with 5 yards of bias banding or braid to trim.

1478 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 4½ yards of 39-inch material for the dress and 1¼ yards of 39-inch material for the jacket.

Spring-Summer Pattern Book.

Send 15 cents for the Barbara Bell Spring and Summer Pattern Book which is now ready. It contains 109 attractive, practical and becoming designs. The Barbara Bell patterns are well planned, accurately cut and easy to follow. Each pattern includes a sew-chart which enables even a beginner to cut and make her own clothes.

Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1020, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. Price of patterns, 15 cents (in coins) each.

A Mother's Fidelity

Mute eloquence of a mother's fidelity is her carved effigy, dressed in her own clothes, which stands in an open window of a house in Bruges, Belgium. When her son went to war in 1914, she promised to watch for his return at this window. Refusing to believe reports that he had been killed, she continued her vigil until bedridden, when she had the effigy put in her place.

For many years, she and her son have been dead, but the silent figure still watches the road leading to Liege.—Collier's Weekly.

Sentiment Is Their Ticket

People "let themselves in" for a good part of their troubles.

Utopia is impossible because we are not Utopians. We ought to know that.

When a young man sows his wild oats he often mixes too much old rye with them.

If people will morbidly attend murder trials, why not charge them $1 admission?

"Reading makes a full man," as Bacon said, and observation makes an original one.

A man may be proud of his "superiorities," but it may be only his glands.

A Time for Anger

"Always a soft answer" is poor philosophy. Anger, righteous anger, is as important and necessary as lightning is to cleanse the atmosphere.

A grouch salvages only one privilege: He doesn't get picked on.

Bear in mind that privileges generally involve taking on responsibilities.

That crimp cut sets right—doesn't bunch up or spill out. And that's why P.A. draws good, and smokes slow and cool. Plenty mild, too, for such rich-tastin' smokes. MEXICAN LABOR LEADER'S PROPHECY COMES TRUE!

PROPHET — Vincente Lombardo Toledano (right) attorney and secretary of the "Confederacion de Trabajadores Mexicanos," or Confederation of Mexican Workers, prophesied before the Mexican labor syndicate's convention, that the Supreme Court would annul the award of the Mexican Labor Board assessing millions of dollars costs against American oil companies. Toledano denounced foreign capital.

TAKING OVER!—New Mexican "Board of Directors" of the former Huasteca Petroleum Co., an American firm whose property was seized by Mexican government. The group, known as "Section Fifth," and comprised of officers and members of the labor syndicate, occupies company office (above), from which Americans have been driven, at Mexico City. Pritchett plans to try and see as many voters as possible between now and the primary in July.
