In El Salvador...

President Pledges No Vietnam-Type Conflict

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan said today the United States had "no intention" of becoming involved in a Vietnam-like conflict in El Salvador.

At the same time, the president told reporters at an impromptu news conference that "we are in support of the government there against those who are attempting a violent overthrow."

He noted that the Soviet Union has denied involvement in supplying arms to the anti-government guerrillas opposing the military and civilian junta ruling El Salvador. However, he said, "the evidence we have and have made public ... makes it evident they are involved."

Asked whether the United States risked becoming involved in a conflict from which it would be difficult to extricate itself, the president replied that such questions represented "part of the Vietnam syndrome."

He added: "We have no intention of that kind of involvement."

Reagan spoke as a Defense Department spokesman, Col. Jerry Gronowski, disclosed that the administration is actively considering sending additional military advisers to El Salvador to train government troops.

The United States already has about 20 military advisers stationed in the strife-torn Central-American nation.

Reagan linked Soviet behavior to the possibility of a future U.S.-Soviet summit. He said Soviet ties to the arms shipments "would be one of the things that should be straightened out" in connection with a summit.

A summit meeting was suggested Monday by Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev.

The Washington Star reported today that the United States may send up to 50 Army specialists to El Salvador, But Grohowski said nothing definite has been decided on numbers.

"There are all kinds of options," he said.

U.S. officials, meanwhile, said a recent lull in arms shipments through Cuba to rebels in El Salvador has diminished the possibility of swift retaliatory action by the United States against the Havana government.

Some officials speculate that Cuba and other countries have curbed arms deliveries in recent weeks out of fear the United States may respond with military force.

Clayton Won't Seek 5th Term

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Bill Clayton says he won't seek a fifth term as House speaker after all and, in fact, plans to make this term his last as state representative.

His choices include political retirement or a race for a statewide office in 1982, Clayton told reporters Monday.

"I will not be seeking another term in the Legislature," he said.

Clements OKs Reagan Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas Gov. Bill Clements has endorsed Ronald Reagan's economic program after hearing more about it a White House session for the nation's governors.

"The governors, with perhaps the one exception of the governor of New York, indicated their support and enthusiasm, so I feel real good about it," Clements told reporters Monday on the White House lawn.

The governor said it is too early to tell if proposed federal spending cuts will influence his state budget.

Prime Rate In Descent

NEW YORK (AP) — The prime lending rate has dropped as low as 18.5 percent at some of the nation's banks, reflecting a widespread weakening in demand for business loans, and bank officials and economists predict further rate reductions.

"The trend definitely is downward," said Rachel Balbach, a vice president and chief economist at First National Bank in St. Louis, which was among banks Monday cutting their rates one-half percentage point, to 19 percent.

City Prepares To Test New Warning System

If you hear sirens wailing Wednesday afternoon, don't become alarmed.

Unless unforeseen problems arise, the city plans to test its new emergency warning system at 4 p. m. tomorrow. Hopefully, the warning sounds will be heard throughout the city.

The system is composed of huge sirens that have been installed on poles at seven sites in the city. The controls are located in local civil defense headquarters in the police-fire-civil defense building at 27th St. and Hide Town Drive.

Purpose of the system is to provide the means for sounding a warning that would be within earshot of all Snyder residents in the event of impending danger, such a tornado, flood, etc.

The locations of the seven sirens are as follows:

West of College Ave. on Parks Ave. in North Snyer.

On 13th St. at Ave. K near the Northeast Elementary School.

At El Paso Ave. and 25th St.

On 36th St. just north of the 37th St. Church of Christ.

On 28th St. just south of Central Elementary School.

Near the intersection of 37th St. and the East Highway.

In Cogdell Center just south of Martha Ann Woman's Club.

The sirens will rotate as they sound their warnings, which enables each instrument to cover a considerable area.

Ask Us

Q.—Why is there not more coverage give to the Scurry County Livestock Show?

A.—If you are referring to coverage by area or regional media, we have no answer. If you are referring to the SDN, the livestock show got more space and claimed more time by our staff members than any other event since Christmas. And, based on our observation of some 20 other papers from over the state, we devoted more space and more time to it than any other paper did to its local livestock show.

If we didn't know better than to try to second-guess West Texas weather, we would say that Mother Nature is setting us up for a late freeze this spring.

History would indicate it. Mild Februarys have more likely than not served to cause vegetation to spring out too early and then get caught in the grip of an April frost.

But, if we know anything at all about West Texas weather, we know that it does not necessarily follow tendencies when you expect it to.

Recapping the past year, we found that summer came early in 1980 and stayed late. There really was very little autumn, and winter made its appearance more than a month earlier than the calendar said it should, only to virtually disappear before Christmas.

Now, we are within a month of spring, and still not enough real winter get excited about.

We also remember a year when the worst cold spell of the season (and the only snowfall) came on the last day of winter.

That was the time when the coldest day of winter and the first 100-degree reading came within some 10 days of each other.

Nevertheless, those pictures in the seed catalogs are beginning to look more tempting than ever as the mercury edges into the high 70s and low 80s and basketball season begins to wind down to the playoffs. And if baseball and track are just around the corner, can football be far behind?

Ordinarily, we would take it for granted that, when a robin appeared in our bird bath the past weekend, spring was here. This bird has traditionally been known as the harbinger of spring. But we remember that Mule Kayser had a bunch of robins remain for the winter at his place east of town.

So, if the wild creatures themselves become confused about our seasons, what can you expect from mere human beings?

Mrs. W. K. Brown called to endorse our observation about some rather liberal (from the standpoint of grammar) expressions that have emerged, especially on television. She says the expression "different than" grates on her grammatical upbringing, just as we observed, and she adds another to the list: "Where it's at." When she was minoring in English at Louisiana Tech, the faculty there did not tolerate such things.

We recall a college English instructor advising a class that "you are permitted to sometimes split an infinitive, but it is always different from and greater than."

2 Candidates File For School Posts

Two more candidates today entered the race for places on the Snyder Independent School District Board of Trustees.

Dr. Paul A. Thompson filed as a candidate for Place 7 and Roy McQueen filed as a candidate for Place 6 on the board.

The first contested race was set up when Dr. Thompson filed. J. D. Hinton had filed earlier for Place 7.

There was no candidate for Place 6 before McQueen filed this morning.

Dr. Thompson, 35, is a medical doctor.

McQueen, 36, is publisher of the Snyder Daily News.

The two incumbents whose terms expire this year, Bill Eiland of Place 6 and Ted Crenwelge of Place 7, have indicated that they do not plan to seek re-election to the board.

The election is scheduled for Saturday, April 4, and March 4 is the deadline for candidates to file with the board secretary at the school administration office.

Surrender Ends Seige In Spain

MADRID, Spain (AP) — More than 300 deputies and ministers held hostage in the Spanish Parliament left the building today after most of their 200 right-wing Civil Guard captors deserted, many jumping from windows with the submachine guns they fired at the beginning of the takeover.

The Civil Guard officer who led the attempt to resurrect the Franco dictatorship, Lt. Col. Antonio Tejero Molina, surrendered inside the Parliament building, then was whisked away in a black official car with a motorcyle escort.

The ministers and deputies emerged one by one from their all-night ordeal in the Parliament building. As they stepped into the bright winter sunshine, they shouted to crowd of several thousand, "Long Live Freedom!" "Long Live Democracy!"

As caretaker Premier Adolfo Suarez left the building he was embraced by members of his family and the crowd.

Tejero Molina and a hard core of his guardsmen remained briefly inside the building, then gave up. One of the freed hostages quoted Tejero Molina as telling the captives just before the ordeal ended: "You can leave quietly. Nothing will happen here. The only thing that will happen is that I will have to pay with 30 or 40 years in prison."

Authorities said Tejero Molina, who plotted a similar takeover more than two years ago but got only a seven-month sentence, accepted full responsibility for the latest coup attempt but insisted that all non-commissioned officers and enlisted men involved in the takeover be given a guarantee against reprisals.

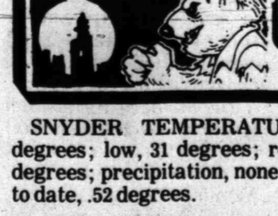

The hostages were freed after military authorities announced that Tejero Molina accepted conditions for a "face saving surrender."

Reagan Proposes Summit Condition

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan indicated today the American response to the Soviet Union's proposal for a summit conference may hinge on Russian involvement in supplying arms to guerrillas in El Salvador.

9-Digit Zip Code Defended

WASHINGTON (AP) — Postmaster General William F. Bolger testified today that if Congress bars the proposed nine-digit ZIP code, it will prevent the Postal Service from using available technology to slow down future increases in mail rates.

Bolger said the Postal Service has "reached the practical limit of how much more of the current mechanization we can deploy and still get a good return."

To make the best use of machines that can sort mail automatically, the current five-digit code should be expanded to nine digits, he said.

Bolger testified before a Senate Governmental Affairs subcommittee that also heard criticism of the nine-digit code from Sens. David Durenberger, R-Minn., and Howell Heflin, D-Ala.

"I feel we should stop the nine-digit ZIP anyway we can," Heflin said. "I'm not opposed to progress, but we are becoming a nation of numbers. The individual ought to be treated as an individual."

Bolger said he accepted President Reagan's proposed cuts in the postal subsidy of $250 million this year, and $746 million next year. Reagan wants to eliminate the subsidies — which total $1.5 billion this year — by 1984.

"We believe we can accomplish this contribution to the fight against inflation without a cut in service," Bolger said. "But we cannot do so indefinitely if our hands are tied and if we are denied the ability to increase productivity through automation," he said.

Bolger noted that use of the nine-digit code would be voluntary. "Americans will decide themselves whether they use ZIP plus four or not," he said.

message to moscow

The Reagan administration has chosen, quite deliberately, to begin its tenure with some very blunt talk about the Russians.

In his first conference as President, Ronald Reagan was asked his view of the long-range intentions of the Soviet Union. The President could hardly have been more direct: "Well, so far, detente has been a one-way street the Soviet Union has used to pursue its own aims...I know of no leader of the Soviet Union since the revolution, including the present leadership, that has not more than once repeated...that their goal must be the promotion of world revolution."

Nor did Mr. Reagan stop there. Characterizing the Soviets' pursuit of their objective, he added, "...they have openly and publicly declared that the only morality they recognize is what will further their cause, meaning they reserve unto themselves the right to commit any crime, to lie, to cheat, in order to attain that..."

Only the day before, Secretary of State Alexander Haig had used the occasion of his first press conference in office to accuse the Soviet leadership of involvement in "conscious policy, in programs if you will, which foster support, and expand this (terrorist) activity...throughout the world today."

As observations of demonstrable fact, the Reagan-Haig remarks are beyond dispute.

At present, the Palestine Liberation Organization is but the most notable of the terrorist groups receiving open or clandestine assistance from the Soviet Union or from such Moscow clients as East Germany, Czechoslovakia, and Cuba.

Granted, then, that President Reagan and Secretary Haig spoke the truth. But do such statements from an American president and his secretary of state serve such a constructive purpose?

We think so.

The Reagan administration has sent a message to Moscow in vivid, unmistakable terms: The government of the United States entertains no illusions whatsoever about the nature of its chief adversary.

Putting the Soviet leaders on notice of this fact diminishes the prospects for the kind of miscalculation that prompted Leonid Brezhnez's predecessor, for example, to precipitate the Cuban missile crisis of 1962.

The Russians, fond of testing the mettle of each new American president, now have less reason to risk a truly reckless opening probe against Mr. Reagan.

Tough talk alone will not, of course, be sufficient to restrain the Soviets during the next four years. The Reagan administration must begin quickly to restore American military strength and to revitalize badly frayed alliances.

In the meantime, however, the President and his chief foreign policy spokesman have rendered the world a slightly less dangerous place by giving Brezhnev and company a whiff of verbal grapeshot.

For years, few women have seen fit to tamper with the child-bearing cycle. Somewhere the averages are written.

Birth of first child at age 20.

PTA and brownie baking at age 30.

Graduation of first child at age 38.

First child married at age 42.

Grandmother for the first time at age 44.

The last decade has changed all of that. A lot of women are reversing the cycle, choosing to pursue a career first, and postponing having a family until later. Few have explored the ramifications of this trend. In the past we have treated the older pregnant mother with awkwardness and embarrassment, and usually blurt out something profound like, "What happened?"

Today's generation has a new timetable for mother that looks something like this:

Birth of first child at age 35.

PTA and brownie baking at age 45.

Graduation of first child at age 53.

First child married at age 57.

Grandma for the first time (assuming your child follows your example of career first, children later) at age 73.

If the trend catches on, I think these are some of the things you can look for.

A pregnancy rider on your Medicare forms. For a few extra bucks, you can be covered by an Act of God clause that would see you through your prenatal care and your postnatal depression which could be quite costly over the long haul.

An increase of Social Security cards for show 'n tell. Also more participation by parents as resource persons in history classes. ("That battle wasn't preshitoric. My mom served doughnuts to the troops.")

Creative cooking developed for the older Mom, such as Sedative Brownies, Tranquilizer Taffy and One-Box-Fits-All Breakfast Cereal.

A new family pastime where the children sit around and connect the liver spots on Mom's arms. Also, a new national physical fitness craze called "Napping."

Frankly, I think it's a Catch-22 situation. You either look 42 when you are 20 or you look 60 when you are 38. And you can always count on someone no matter what age to ask, "What happened?"

my turn

by john dunnam

In my never ending quest for humor I dug up these old graveyard jokes. Well, actually, (I mustn't lie, lest my poetic license be suspended) I sponged them off John Long who clipped them out of Quest Magazine.

A tombstone is the last chance for famous, infamous, or us just plain folks to speak up for the last time. It is here that the deceased or their survivors can set the record straight, sum things up or even settle an old score.

Even the position of the tombstone can convey a message. Houdini's monument is carefully placed so that his granite bust stares intensely at the locked gate of the Machpelah Cemetery in Queens, N.Y. Country-western singer Hank Williams lies buried beneath a patch of Astroturf and a concrete cowboy hat.

But it is the writing on the tombstone that tells the most interesting tales. Quest believes the most intriguing toombstone tale was left by Herman Melville, a famous writer. On his plot in Woodlawn Cemetery in the Bronx, N.Y. is "a headstone with an empty scroll—a wordless, enigmatic blank."

I'm not impressed in the least. Heck, I've had writer's block lots of times, but it hasn't killed me yet.

Cowboy epitaphs are generally short and to the point. Such as:

Here lies Lesley Moore.
Four slugs from a forty-four. No Les no more.

Or how about this one:
He called Bill Smith a liar.

Sometimes, a foul deed not only puts one in his grave, the sin is also etched in the headstone for all the world to see:
Here lies the body of Mannie. They put him here to stay. He lived the life of Riley while Riley was away.

And we all know someone that we would like to see under this epitath:
Those that knew him best, deplored him most.

People will go to any lengths to prove a point. On the hypochondriac's grave is the inscription:
See, I told you I was sick.

Sometimes even a fatal accident inspires a farewell phrase:
Looked up the elevator shaft to see if the car was on the way down. It was

If you are a person of few words, perhaps the epitaph of Arthur Haine will appeal to you.
Haine haint.

On the same level, my college roommate, David Lott, said his epitaph would be: Lott's Not.

Some make a final attempt at humor:
Here lies Johnny Yeast.
Pardon me for not rising

As a humor columnist, what should I have put on my toobstone? Just tag it:
Well, he seemed funny at the time.

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Ronald Reagan's budget cutters have vowed to slash federal spending by eliminating not only fat but entire programs and entire agencies as well. They will undoubtedly learn during this process that a threatened agency or program has at least as many lives as the fabled cat.

Even the most obscure unit of the federal bureaucracy has supporters in the private sector and on Capitol Hill. Those outside government want to continue reaping the money or services that it bestows, while those in Congress want to maintain their oversight authority, which normally translates into committee staff positions.

These forces can put up formidable opposition to even the worthiest of cost-cutting plans.

A classic example is the U.S. Travel Service, a tiny agency with an $8 million budget and a 60-member staff hidden deep within the Commerce Department. Its task is to encourage foreigners to visit the United States.

Budget cutters from the past three administrations have argued that the agency is unnecessary because it simply duplicates the promotional efforts of the U.S. airlines, tourist centers and hotel chains.

But the airlines and other segments of the tourist industry are understandably enthusiastic in their support for an agency that gives them several million dollars a year in free publicity. Another friend is the Senate Commerce subcommittee on tourism, whose primary function is to oversee this one small agency.

For many years, the Travel Service had six foreign offices, located in such cities as London, Paris and Rome. Naturally, members of the subcommittee had to visit those offices once a year to make sure they were being well run. Senators and representatives do not easily surrender that kind of annual junket.

Attempts to eliminate the agency were easily beaten back on Capitol Hill in 1973 and 1975. In fact, the agency had grown to 120 employees and an annual budget of $13.5 million by 1979, when the Carter administration decided to stage its assault.

This time the friends of the Travel Service could not win a clear victory. A compromise was worked out when the budget cutters eventually realized that the fight was costing more than it was worth. The agency's budget was cut, its work force was halved and its foreign offices were closed.

Budget Director Davis Stockman favored the elimination of the Travel Service when he was a congressman. So the agency's days are numbered, right? Perhaps not.

When the Republicans took control of the Senate, the tourism subcommitte passed into the hands of Larry Pressler, a conservative from South Dakota. The new chairman says he will introduce legislation to restore the agency to its former strength — and reopen the foreign offices.

So, the president and his advisers may well have to consider whether they really want a big fight over so small a matter.

In fact, the new administration may already be learning something about the realities of budget cutting. Shortly before Inauguration Day, Reagan aides announced that they had targeted the Council on Wage and Price Stability for quick elimination. Now they say that it will take them six months to a year to accomplish this goal because some functions of the council were written into law by the Congress.

john cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — There is almost no way in which President Reagan can cut federal spending without producing outrage, because almost every family is involved in one way or another with government assistance.

Well, there's probably one way, but more about that after a bit of backgrounding.

If the government is on almost everyone's back, as the old campaign slogan put it, then it's true too that almost everyone is on the government's payroll. Each, you might say, is into the other deeply.

If you exclude military expenditures and interest on the public debt, benefit programs account for no less than 70 percent of budget outlays. Try excising anything undersirable from that without anguished cries.

In 1965, Federal payments for individuals amounted to $34 billion. In 1980, they were estimated at more than $280 billion. The growth was at a rate faster than that for military or most other spending.

The result: Individuals, families, institutions and the government are in each other's clutches. It will take a mighty and emotional wrench to separate them.

What can be done?

One of the simplest restraints would be to remove benefit payments from the Consumer Price Index. Most payments increase as the CPI increases, and the CPI is acknowledged to overstate inflation.

The CPI, in fact, is so flawed, that nobody but the federal government takes it seriously. It doesn't measure increases in the cost of living. What it does measure, it measures inaccurately.

What the CPI actually measures are increases in the products that make up what is called a market basket of goods and services. The government rarely changes that market basket, but individuals shoppers clearly do.

That is, shoppers switch to other goods and services when traditional ones become more expensive. They switch to chicken when beef prices rise sharply; they buy vegetables in season to avoid high prices.

Even more criticism is directed at the CPI for the unusual weight it gives to mortgage interest rates and home prices. Not everyone buys a house in a given year or month, but the CPI errs in assuming they do.

Musical Coterie Celebrates American Music Month

Musical Coterie met Feb. 19 at the Martha Ann Woman's Club for its annual "Parade of American Music." Since 1955, Feb. has been celebrated as American Music Month by the National Federation of Music Clubs with which the Snyder Musical Coterie is affiliated.

Jerry Worsham, chairman of Musical Coterie's Parade of American Music, served as the master of ceremony for the program "Twentieth Century Broadway Hits." Each decade of Broadway hits was introduced by Mr. Worsham. Musical selections were then performed by various local musical groups and soloists.

The Central Elementary Choir, directed by J.D. Smith, performed "Give My Regards to Broadway," "Toyland" and "You're a Grand Old Flag" as representative music of 1900-1910.

The years 1910-1920 were illustrated by Susan Scott's performance of "I'm Always Chasing Rainbows" and by Randy Perkins' rendition of "Swanee."

Students from Elaine Lambert Dance Studio performed to the music of "Indian Love Call," "Fascinating Rhythm," "Tea for Two" and "Charleston." These selections illustrated the years of 1920-1930 on Broadway.

John Bullock sang the Cole Porter hits "Begin the Beguine" and "Night and Day" representing music popular during 1930-1940.

The years of 1940-1950 were represented by "How Are Things in Glocca Morra?" sung by LaQuita Reaves and by "You'll Never Walk Alone" performed by Randy Perkins.

Darrell Collins sang the Rogers and Hammerstein songs "We Kiss in a Shadow" and "Hello Young Lovers" to illustrate the music of the years 1950-1960. Noel Nease also performed music of this decade with his versions of "Tonight" and "I've Grown Accustomed to her Face." The Northeast Elementary Choir concluded the review of the years 1950-1960 with their performance of "I Could Have Danced All Night," "America" and "Edelweiss."

Piano solos by Kay Hammack and Beverly Duff were used to illustrate the music performed on Broadway during 1960-1970. Miss Hammack performed "Sunrise, Sunset" while Miss Duff played "The Impossible Dream."

"Tomorrow," sung by Susan Scott concluded the program on Broadway Hits.

Musical Coterie is a member of the Texas Federation of Music Clubs and the National Federation of Music Clubs.

Follow the play if East plays low and West wins the first diamond. The clubs can no longer be used. And, if both East and West duck the diamond, South can revert to hearts in order to make nine tricks.

When declarer has to knock out two cards at no trump, it is important that the player who is shorter in the suit that the defenders are establishing has his entry knocked out first. Second hand high is sometimes the answer.

(NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

When your partner leads a suit against no trump and you can see that continuing with that suit is the winning defense, you may be forced at times, to make an unusual play to do so.

South passed a marginal hand, but open or not, three no trump is the most likely final contract.

East put up the king of clubs at trick one and it was allowed to hold. South won the club continuation, crossed to dummy with a spade and led a low diamond.

The ball was now in East's court. East with one remaining club, simply has to hope his partner has the ace of diamonds in order to establish the clubs and then use them. In other words, East has to preserve West's entry until after the clubs have been established.

If East rises with the diamond king, South has no chance. East clears the clubs and when both the hearts fail to break, and the queen of spades does not drop under the ace-king, South must concede a two trick set.

Bryan Lewallen On Rep. Shaw's Staff

BRYAN LEWALLEN

AUSTIN -- Bryan Lewallen, 20, son of Mrs. W. P. Lewallen, 316 29th St., Snyder, has joined the staff of State Rep. Larry Don Shaw of the 63rd District as a legislative aide.

Lewallen, a 1979 graduate of Snyder High School, is a sophomore majoring in elementary education at the University of Texas at Austin. He maintains a full course load while attending classes in the morning and working in Rep. Shaw's office in the capitol each afternoon.

Lewallen, who worked 3½ years at Cogdell Memorial Hosptial in Snyder, attended Texas Tech for three semesters. He met Shaw last year while working in the Carter-Mondale general election campaign while Shaw was serving as the Carter- Mondale coordinator for 59 West Texas counties.

"I was very impressed with Bryan's work," said Shaw. "He's extremely intelligent and enthusiastic and he is mature for his age. I thought his knowledge of our area would be a valuable asset to my office in Austin, so I told him he had a job in Austin if he wanted to transfer to UT for the spring semester. He did, and he's doing an excellent job for me. I'm a Tech graduate myself, and I felt a little bad about luring Bryan to transfer to UT, but my alma mater's loss is my gain. I'm glad to have Bryan aboard."

Upon completion of the spring semester at UT and adjournment of the legislature at the end of May, Lewallen plans to return to Snyder and take a summer job as a disc jockey at KSNY Radio.

Senator Declares War On Mail Order Ripoffs

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Sen. Ray Farabee wants to strike a blow for Texans who answer advertisements for "business opportunities."

Many of them are ripoffs, he told the Senate State Affairs Committee Monday. A few minutes later the committee approved his "worm bill" 11-0.

"The problem is increasing in Texas," the Wichita Falls Democrat said. "Everywhere you turn someone is offering you a 'business opportunity' to get rich quick from worm farms or chinchilla ranches."

Farabee handed the committee a list of more than 700 Texans who invested more than $400,000 in a scheme to raise fishing worms and sell them back to a Houston firm for $2.50.

The firm refused to buy back the worms and there was no market for the surplus wigglers. Every investor lost everything, he said.

In another scheme, 250 Texans lost $350,000 from offers to raise chinchillas in their spare room or garage. Others lost $103,910 in a make-money plans to manufacture coasters from beer cans.

Liquid is more effective

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My doctor has me on Maalox for stomach acid. He insists that I take the liquid but it is very expensive, as well as inconvenient to lug a bottle with me all the time. I would prefer to take tablets. Couldn't I just take baking soda and save money? I see ads on TV about various tablets people can take to control acid indigestion. Why can't I take one of those?

DEAR READER — Sounds like you have a good doctor. The reason he wants you to take a liquid instead of tablets is because studies have shown that a liquid preparation is about three times as effective as tablets. There are Maalox tablets but that is why he wants you to take the liquid.

Now, not all antacid preparations are equally effective, and they do contain different ingredients. Aluminum hydroxide is very good but it tends to cause constipation. Magnesium hydroxide has the opposite action. So a combination of aluminum hydroxide and magnesium hydroxide is often used; that is what your liquid Maalox contains.

I have listed the main ingredients in many of the common antacids in a table in The Health Letter number 10-4, Use and Abuse of Antacids, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. It includes the basic principles of using antacids that you need to know.

Some of the antacids, including those you see advertised on TV, are effective for temporary relief, but for long-term treatment you need to be under a doctor's care.

And forget about baking soda. It was used before we had better medicines. The modern antacids are not absorbed but neutralize the acid in your digestive system. The sodium bicarbonate in baking soda is absorbed into your bloodstream. This can cause serious medical complications if the practice is abused. Also, the carbonate releases gas in your stomach which may make matters worse.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a fairly healthy person but I recently found out that I have tuberculosis through a routine physical examination. I have no symptoms as yet. I am on isoniazid, pyrodoxine and Myambutal. My doctors tell me that since I have been on medication for a month I am no longer contagious. My family and friends don't believe that. I wonder if anyone will feel safe around me again.

DEAR READER — People are still reacting to the 1900s when tuberculosis was the number one killer in the United States. Today there are fewer than 30,000 active cases reported a year in the USA. It is still a major problem in many part of the world.

First, let me tell you that many authorities say that if you have been on combined effective therapy for as little as two weeks you are unlikely to be very contagious and a month should certainly accomplish that for you. Of course, you will need to take medicine for much longer to be completely cured so you won't have a reactivation of your tuberculosis later.

We are far past the days when people had to stay in isolation in TB sanatoriums for long periods of time. When TB is present it often does not cause any symptoms. Your story is one of many examples of the value of regular medical examinations.

In 1560, France and England signed the Treaty of Edinburgh, preventing France from interfering with Scotland.

Haynes Denies Daniel Remarks 'Frivolous'

ANAHUAC, Texas (AP) — Houston attorney Richard "Racehorse" Haynes said he was not being frivolous when he asked in open court whether former Texas House Speaker Price Daniel Jr., killed by his wife last month, used marijuana and preferred the company of young boys.

Haynes raised the questions during a pretrial hearing Monday in a lawsuit Daniel's sister, Jean Daniel Murph, has filed seeking custody of Daniel's two small children, Franklin Baldwin Daniel, 3, and Marion Price Daniel IV, 1.

Haynes represents Daniel's widow, Vickie, 33, charged with murdering her husband in their spacious, ranch-style home near Liberty last Jan. 19. She has admitted shooting him with a rifle but said it was self-defense.

Mrs. Murph filed the custody suit claiming her sister-in-law is not a fit mother, and testified that Mrs. Daniel had paid for mental counseling last April.

"She told me she was mixed up and Price had suggested it," Mrs. Murph told the court during cross-examination by Haynes.

The attorney then broke in to ask if Mrs. Daniel ever confided in her about problems involving marijuana or "young boys ... bringing black boys around who stayed there."

Mrs. Murph denied any knowledge of such information and presiding judge W.G. "Dub" Wood ordered Haynes to abandon that line of questioning after Mrs. Murph's attorney, J.C. "Zeke" Zbranek, objected strenuously.

However, Haynes later told reporters he had a serious purpose in mind and was not just questioning Mrs. Murph at random. He refused to elaborate.

During further cross-examination, Haynes asked Mrs. Murph if she knew whether Daniel had "compelled" his wife to have an abortion.

She replied Mrs. Daniel had told her she had undergone an abortion but that it had "killed Price."

At the end of the five-hour hearing, Wood granted Mrs. Murph's request that Mrs. Daniel and the two children undergo psychiatric examinations today, naming one Houston psychiatrist to examine Mrs. Daniel and another to examine the children.

"The scope of the examination of Vickie Daniel shall be limited to inquire into her mental state and emotional stability as it relates to the physical and emotional well-being of the children," Woods said.

Mrs. Murph said she would undergo examination if requested by Daniel's attorneys.

"Mrs. Daniel is in Tyler and will have to stay there until somebody sends her bus fare or money for gasoline," Haynes said.

Woods responded by ordering Zbranek to give the widow and children $125 for transportation to Houston.

The children and Mrs. Daniel did not attend Monday's hearing.

A hearing has been set for 1 p.m. Wednesday on change of venue out of Liberty for the murder charge. The child custody hearing was scheduled to continue at 1:30 p.m. Thursday.

Dear Abby

If You Already Have A Dining Room Set...

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1981 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: This is in reference to the 72-year-old man who says he cannot marry because he had a prostate operation 10 years ago that ended his sex life.

Abby, there is a new surgical procedure that will restore a man's sexual capabilities if the nerves are still intact. It is known as a "penile implant," and is now being done at Baylor University Hospital in Houston. Friends of mine who have had this operation tell me that it has been a godsend.

When I had bladder cancer eight years ago, I was offered this type of operation, but I didn't have it done because my wife assured me that she preferred a new dining room set. Sincerely yours,

NICK IN CANOGA PARK, CALIF.

DEAR ABBY: I need to know how to handle a very obnoxious 27-year-old Australian who recently joined the same company as myself. I am a 42-year-old Englishman, single and a very private person. Because I never discuss my personal affairs, or invite any of my friends (male or female) to visit me at work, this rude Aussie keeps asking me if I am "gay."

He boasts constantly about his sexual conquests and claims that most of the women who are chasing him are married, as he has more to offer them than their husbands. He came to work with a new gold watch, claiming it was a gift from one of his married ladyfriends. More recently he came to work with a new car, claiming it was a gift from another of his "women." I find this difficult to believe. However, true or false, it is none of my business and I am not one bit interested.

Since I have to work with this man, I prefer to be on good terms with him, so I would appreciate a few tips on how to keep him in his place without offending him.

I read you in the Rome Daily American.

AN ENGLISHMAN IN ITALY

DEAR ENGLISHMAN: I would not worry about offending anyone who makes a practice of asking offensive questions. Simply tell him that your personal life is none of his business. Keep him at arm's length, and when he starts boasting about the women in his life, absent yourself from his company.

DEAR ABBY: I've been wanting to get this off my chest for a long time. Why do people let young children answer the telephone? I get so annoyed when tots answer the phone and in a whining voice say, "Who is this?"

They're unable to take a message or telephone number — they just keep whining, "Who is this?"

Please print this, Abby. I'm sure others feel as I do.

IRKED IN EDEN, N.C.

DEAR IRKED: Most busy mothers ask their little ones to answer the phone, and, of course, youngsters enjoy being "helpful." But no child should be allowed to answer the telephone before he is old enough to do it properly.

Keep your home up and help keep electric bills down.

A large part of saving energy — and money — is simply a matter of cutting waste. In these days of "scarce" energy and inflation it's important to all of us to conserve. You can start by maintaining your own home.

Seal cracks around doors and windows with caulking and weatherstripping to stop heating and cooling leaks.

Check to ensure that ductwork is well insulated and sealed. If this is not done right, much of the heating and cooling escapes into your attic.

A Win Is A Win Is A... That's All Snyder Wants

ANDREWS -- Win by 20 or by a point, it all comes down to a black mark in the victory column and that's all Snyder is looking for tonight as the Tigers take on No. 7 ranked Andrews here in a crucial District 2-AAAA game at 8 o'clock.

"It wouldn't matter to me if it were one point or even a half a point, as long as we won the ballgame," assured Coach George Byerly, speaking of a Snyder victory which would give the Tigers a district championship. "We'd take it for sure."

Tonight's game, preceded by a 6:15 junior varsity tilt, is the biggest of the season for both teams. Andrews, ranked state-wide and boasting a fine 25-4 record, will only have memories left if Snyder does what it wants to do - defeat the Mustangs for a second time this year.

A loss for the Tigers would leave them in the running, but the road ahead would be much clearer - and simpler - if Snyder can get past the highly-touted Mustangs this evening.

An Andrews victory would, in all probability, set up a pair of playoff games. If the Mustangs do win, and win against Fort Stockton on Friday, first-round co-champs Snyder and Ector would battle early next week, the winner of which would take on Andrews for the district title, presumably next Friday.

But Byerly is not considering that situation today. He's counting on a Tiger victory. He knows it won't be easy.

"I think we're playing better basketball than when we played them here," he said of Snyder's 35-33 victory over the 'Stangs earlier in the season. "But I think we'll have to play them better than we did here. I feel like they'll play better because they're playing at home, and that can make a difference."

Andrews, led by mid-20s scorer Jerry Alaniz, likes to get the ball up and down the court quickly, scoring on the fast break and blitzing its opponents right off the gym floor. It didn't work at Scurry County Coliseum, but Byerly doesn't expect that to deter the Mustangs tonight.

"There are certain things we'll have to try and do to win," he said. "We've got to be able to handle their pressure defense, because that's really Andrews' offense, and we'll have to stop them from running. We were able to do those things here, and that's why we won the ballgame."

Alaniz paces the Mustangs, but stopping him won't necessarily put the breaks on Andrews.

"They've got good balance, so you can't just key on him. They've got three people averaging over 15 points a game," pointed out the coach. "Brooks (Keith) and Murray (Mike) both average 15, and Alaniz averages in the 20s. Then they have Price (Jamie) and Gonzales (Jamie). Gonzales doesn't score much but he's a big factor for them on defense," he added.

Snyder's starters will likely be Barry Blackmon, Kris Seale and Eric Arnold up front, and John Wilson and Curtis Gafford at the guards. James Caldwell, out the past two games with a minor injury, should be ready to see action also, and Ricky Housden and D.W. Lofton can probably expect to see action as well.

Pearcy Shuns SMU, Picks Notre Dame

ANDREWS (AP) -- Apparently bothered by an NCAA investigation into alleged recruiting irregularities at Southern Methodist, one of the nation's top running backs has spurned a letter-of-intent he signed with the Mustangs and has decided to attend Notre Dame instead.

Van Pearcy of Andrews was one of the few highly sought players who remained unsigned through last Wednesday's national signing date.

The 6-2, 185-pound Pearcy is the 13th member of the Parade Magazine 41-player all-America high school team to sign with the Fighting Irish.

When Pearcy signed a Southwest Conference letter with SMU Feb. 11, he said he was 99 percent sure he would sign a national letter with the Ponies the following Wednesday.

But the story of the NCAA investigation broke the next day, and Pearcy agreed to visit the Notre Dame campus. On national signing day, he said he hadn't made his mind up yet.

"When he signed with SMU, he really seemed at peace with himself," Andrews football coach Bill Shipman said. "When the SMU thing broke, I was kind of hoping it wouldn't bother him, but obviously it did."

Oregon State Cops 23rd Straight Win

by The Associated Press

It was the best of times and the worst of times for top-ranked Oregon State, whose blitzkreig defense made sure that was enough to keep the Beavers the only major unbeaten college basketball team in the nation.

Ralph Miller's powerhouse squad made only 36 percent of its shots in the first half, then came back with a more characteristic 73 percent in the second to whip the Washington Huskies 89-63 for its 23rd straight victory this season.

In other games involving teams in the new Associated Press Top 20, fourth-ranked DePaul manhandled Butler 89-64 and No.20 Louisville, making its first appearance in the national rankings in nine weeks, won its 11th game in a row with an 81-67 decision over Cincinnati.

Elsewhere, Zam Fredrick solidified his national scoring leadership with 43 points as South Carolina ended its regular season with a 106-69 triumph over Georgia Southern; Mike Ferrara, the No. 2 scorer in the nation, scored 35 points to lead Colgate to a 75-66 decision over Army; Villanova outlasted Connecticut 74-73 in double overtime behind John Pinone's 23 points; Graylin Warner scored 23 points and Kevin Figaro added 22 as Southwestern Louisiana upset Lamar, then ranked 19th, 97-81; Tulsa improved its record to 18-6 with a 63-47 victory over Indiana State; and Dennis Isbell scored 23 points to help Memphis State to a 75-67 victory over Penn State.

No Shocker Allowed; FPC Defeats Western

BORGER -- Frank Phillips College, at one time nationally ranked in the NJCAA poll, defeated Western Texas' Westerners in WJCAC action here last night, 74-64.

WTC, now mathmatically eliminated from the upcoming Region V Tournament, falls to 15-13 on the season and 6-11 in conference play. The Plainsmen increase their records to 25-3 and 14-3.

Elsewhere last night, Midland College wrapped up the WJCAC men's crown, as expected, by thrashing Odessa 97-80. Howard College ousted Clarendon 88-73, and South Plains pulled off another of its miracle finishes by zapping Amarillo College 87-85 at the buzzer.

Western Texas was blitzed early as 6-9 sophomore Larry Hubbard hit his first seven shots of the night. With the score 2-2 at the 17:35 mark, Western was unable to find a bucket for five and a half minutes. By that time, the score was 14-2.

FPC kept its 10-12 point lead for most of the half, but with 6:22 left, Western rallied back under 6-5 sophomore Chuck North. The Westerners rattled off five straight points and tied the totals at 35-35 before the Plainsmen took a 37-35 lead into intermission.

The closest Coach Larry Dunaway's bunch ever got again was a point, 48-47. Curtis Adams broke the Plainsmen away with a long jumper, then added a freethrow when Westerner freshman Clarence Cephas was hit with a technical. Ben Bijole and North traded quick buckets, but the hosts made it 59-49 as Adams popped the net twice more and Hubbard once.

Western pulled within six points with about eight minutes left in the game when Hubbard got his fourth foul and freshman Brett Smith came alive for the visitors. But FPC stretched the lead back out on a pair of freethrows by Lance Tomlinson, and took the victory on in.

North's 22 points led Western Texas. Smith had 13 points and Cephas added 8. The effort was accented by a 33.8 shooting night, including performances of 2-14 and 3-12 by Ceasar Scott and Darren Lee - normally two of WTC's hottest shooters.

Hubbard's 22 paced the Plainsmen. Adams had 13 and Tomlinson added 10.

Western Texas concludes the 1980-81 season at home Thursday, entertaining Midland College at 8 p.m.

Western Tex. (64)--Lee 2 1 7; Cephas 3 2 8; Scott 2 0 4; Smith 5 3 13; North 6 10 22; Dickey 3 0 6; Stevenson 2 0 4; Gholson 0 0 0; Totals 24 16 64.

Dusters Breeze Past Frank Phillips, 80-52

BORGER -- You can't always count on winning when you hit 36 percent from the field, but when your opponent hits 23 percent, well...

Western Texas College's Dusters concluded their regular season slate with little more than a warmup to regionals here last night, pounding dismal Frank Phillips College 80-52.

The victory leaves WTC at 24-6 on the season and 9-3 in conference play. Frank Phillips' Prairie Dolls fall to 8-16 and 0-11.

In other WJCAC games last night, Amarillo dumped South Plains College 74-61 and Howard County nipped Clarendon 78-71.

Amarillo extends its marks to 25-6 and 9-2. Howard is 26-6 and 8-3. The pair meet Thursday in Amarillo for a game which will decide whether the WJCAC race ends with the Lady Badgers on top or in a three or four-way tie.

Amarillo, Western Texas, Howard, Odessa and Clarendon colleges have already secured trips to the Region V Tournament, to be held in Brownwood on March 1-4. Thursday's game between the Lady Badgers and Hawk Queens will also serve to determine seeding for the tournament.

Coach Joe Cushing's Dusters led all the way here, building to a solid 44-26 halftime advantage. Valerie Wells' 22 points paced the ladies, though Jenni Anderson and Shari Teal also landed in double figures with 13 and 10 points. Karen Washington and Dorcas Perkins added 8 each, and Stella Bickley notched 6.

WTC managed only 36 percent from the field, 27 of 74, and hit 26 of 42 from the charity stripe. But Frank Phillips - due in a big way to tough Dusters defense - was accurate on only 21 of its 91 field goals.

Linda McReynolds was the Dolls' major gun, hitting for 12 points. She managed only 4 of 15 from the floor, however, and the usually high-scoring Monica Gage came away with a meager 5 points on a 2-for-15 effort.

Teal, WTC's normal point-leader, was 3 of 12, but still remained a force in the game as she ripped down 13 rebounds and accounted for 4 blocked shots. Wells had 9 rebounds and Anderson and Cindy Maddox got 7 apiece.

Western Tex (80)-- Maddox 2 0 4; Bickley 3 0 6; Wells 8 6 22; Watson 2 0 4; Teal 3 4 10; Anderson 3 7 13; Washington 1 6 8; Perkins 4 0 8; Briggs 0 3 3; Goltl 0 1 1; Totals 27 26 80.
Frank Phillips (52)-- Luman 1 0 2; Gage 2 1 5; Chandler 3 1 7; McReynolds 4 4 12; Ingram 0 1 1; Alexander 3 1 7; Maxey 3 2 8; Boatman 1 0 2; Fields 2 0 4; Davis 2 0 4; Moore 0 0 0; Totals 21 10 52.
Fouls: WTC 21, FPC 36.
Fouled Out: Alexander, Chandler (FPC).
Halftime: WTC 44, FPC 26.

Lewis Pleased With Effort In Scrimmage

Snyder High School baseball squad scrimmages Lubbock Dunbar 4:30 at Moffett Field on Thursday and Coach Albert Lewis will be looking to see some improvement over Saturday's workout with Midland Lee.

"We're going to work harder and try to improve on our fundamentals each week," said Lewis, who was pleased with Snyder's effort against Midland. "We made a lot of mistakes, but all of them are correctable."

Snyder utilized four pitchers in the workout - Tony Degrate, Gerald Don Hicks, Mike Roemisch and Ralph Hernandez - and will go with the same rotation Thursday. Roemisch and Degrate are the only two full-time starters returning from last year's state semi-finals ball club.

"Our pitching was not real good, but the effort was there," said Lewis of the Midland scrimmage. "All of the pitchers except Tony either hadn't worked out much that week or had sore arms, so we're better than we looked there. I think it will come around for us."

If there was a major point of concern, it was in the infield.

"I was pretty pleased with the job our outfield did. We only made one mistake out there, but I wasn't pleased with the infield," he said. "We made physical as well as mental errors. I wasn't impressed with the results, but the effort was there. We mishandled five popups and that shouldn't happen. The wind was blowing strong, but that's a teaching thing. You've got to learn to get there quickly and make adjustments," he added. "I'd say this - you've got to learn how to play the wind in West Texas or you can't play baseball."

One of the brightest areas was the hitting, which figures to be strong this year.

"I was pretty impressed with our hitting," Lewis continued. "Especially for being so young. They (Lee) had some pitchers that were throwing pretty well, and we got enough hits and runs to win normal ballgames. And we hit three out (home runs by Degrate, Roemisch and Neil Evans)."

Snyder also has a scrimmage on Feb. 28, at San Angelo, then opens the 1981 season at Midland on March 2.

Bearkats LSC Tourney Champs

HUNTSVILLE (AP) -- It was back to basics Monday night for Willie Whittenberg, and it paid off. The 6-7 Sam Houston State forward scored 24 points, led the Bearkats to the Lone Star Conference basketball tournament championship and was named the tournament's Most Valuable Player.

"We just used our basics, what we normally use," he said, following Sam Houston's 89-76 thumping of Howard Payne for the LSC tournament title.

As tournament champs, the Bearkats will be the host team for the NAIA District 4 playoffs and will play Southwestern on Saturday.

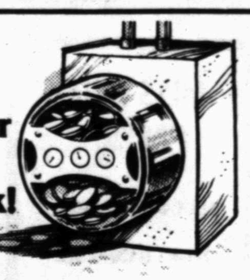

The winner of the NAIA District 4 playoff gets a berth in the NAIA National Tournament slated for March 9-14 in Kansas City.

Democrats Dismiss Tax Plan As 'Hallucinogenic'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic tax writers in the House today dismissed as "jelly bean talk" and "hallucinogenic" claims by President Reagan's chief economic advisers that a 30 percent personal income tax cut over three years will dramatically improve the economy.

Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan bristled at the Democratic assault on the president's economic program during a hearing of the House Ways and Means Committee. Reagan held his ground, insisting that tax cuts would stimulate the economy by encouraging savings and investment.

The Senate, meanwhile, is beginning the task of turning Reagan's budget-cutting proposals into reality.

Senate Republican Leader Howard Baker of Tennessee, after a meeting with the president, said he hoped the Senate could complete floor action on Reagan's proposed budget cuts by mid-April, and predicted "good bipartisan cooperation."

After his White House meeting with GOP congressional leaders, Reagan said the legislative campaign "is now fully under way."

Theft, Five Accidents Investigated By Police

A theft and five traffic accidents have been investigated by city police officers.

From I&R Meter Service, Troy Hall said nine uniforms of his had been stolen, plus 12 gallons of gasoline. The uniforms were valued at $180. Investigating that case was Sgt. Jerry Parker.

The first traffic accident occurred at 8:40 a.m. Monday at the Purple Sage Motel. A 1970 Plymouth owned by Velma Gonzales struck a fence, causing an estimated $200 damage to the fence. Working that wreck was Buddy Kinney.

At 3:15 p.m., Bill Armstrong worked a two-vehicle collision that slightly injured one woman.

The accident occurred at 37th St. and Houston Ave. and involved a 1978 Buick driven by Laurie Ann Peterson of Hermleigh and a 1979 Ford driven by Alvin Louis Collins of Big Spring. Laurie Rollins, a passenger in the Collins car, was taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital where she was treated and released.

At 5:35 p.m., Armstrong worked a collision at 37th St. and College Ave. that involved a 1977 Chevrolet driven by Josephine Drakley and a 1981 Mercury driven by Richard Graham Cochran.

Sgt. Dale Burns worked a hit and run at 5:40 p.m. in the Varsity Square Shopping Center. There, a parked 1972 Chevrolet owned by Neilda Word was struck by a vehicle which left the scene.

The final accident occurred today at 1:30 a.m. in the 3000 block of 37th St. Involved in it were a 1976 Chevrolet driven by Kelly Deavers and a parked 1976 Ford owned by Nelson Eckert. Miss Deavers was taken to Cogdell where she was treated and released. Moderate damage was reported to the cars. The accident was worked by Keith Ward.

Hope Case Settled

PORTLAND, Maine (AP) — A women's organization that contended Bob Hope gave it short shrift at a benefit performance has reached an out-of-court settlement of a suit against the comedian and a promoter.

The Springfield, Mass., Junior League had filed a $300,000 suit against Hope and Robert Cole's American Show Producers Inc., of Portland, contending Hope was on stage for only 55 minutes at a Nov. 24 benefit when he should have appeared for 90 minutes. The group also complained about the content, promotion and ticket prices for the show.

Cole announced the settlement Monday. "As far as we're concerned, the whole thing is over," he said.

League attorney Peter Roth agreed that "the case is essentially settled," but said some details remain to be carried out before the suit is formally withdrawn.

Neither attorney would reveal the details of the agreement.

But attorney Jason Thompson, representing Cole and Hope, said the last payment of "a couple hundred bucks" for court costs would be in Roth's office today.

And Other Auto Repairs Done Right...

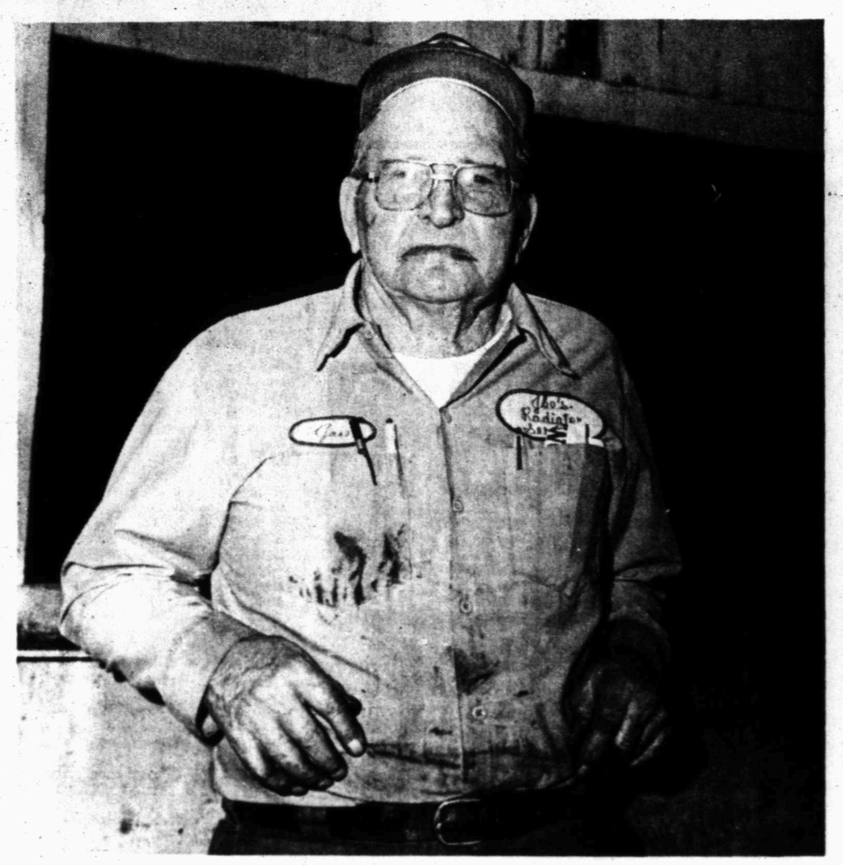

Joe Rhodes Is A Radiator Fixer

Joe Rhodes, owner of Joe's Radiator Service, began his automotive and radiator repair profession in 1945. Since that time his reputation has grown and folks know that whether the job is general repair or radiator work, he can get the job done right.

Joe does all types of automotive repair, including overhauls, brake work, transmission work, and exhaust system work. And, of course, he can fix the radiator or cooling system on your car.

Back to the automotive repair service, we all know how hard it is to do without your car when it's broken down. The folks at Joe's Radiator Service realize this too. That's why they will put forth every effort to finish a repair job just as soon as possible. For this reason Rhodes is also open til noon on Saturday in case you can't come by during the week.

It's nice to know of an automotive repair service you can depend on when you need it, and Joe's Radiator Service is just such a place. He offers good, honest, personal service and that says a lot these days. Go by 2013 College Avenue and meet Joe, you'll be glad you did.

CAR TROUBLES?-Joe Rhodes is the man to see. He has 46 years in the automotive repair business. See Joe's Radiator Service at 2013 College Avenue for all your automotive repair needs. (SDN Staff Photo)

If You Can't Afford Termites, Call Alexander's Pest Control

You can't escape from termites. They're hard at work in every area of every state, and they may be busy devouring somebody's home right in your neighborhood--maybe even yours.

You can't afford to take chances with costly termites. Your home is your largest dollar investment. It can be protected efficiently and scientifically at a pittance of the cost compared to the damage termites can do.

Call Alexander's Pest Control for professional protection, just to be sure.

By the time termites are discovered, the cost of repairing damage done could result in thousands of dollars. Once termites gain entry to your home, they spread rapidly through joists and floors. Wily termites are careful not to break through the surface of the wood--so your first clue of termites may come when a piece of furniture sinks into the soft wood. Replacing floors and supporting framework could amount to as much as 10 times their original cost.

After getting inside, the appetite of termites is insatiable. They often follow the wooden framework of the house to upper levels and floors, creating havoc as they do. Once inside the house, termites keep on with their destructive job until either the house is destroyed or treated. Just because your house is made of brick or concrete doesn't mean that it's safe from termites. These insidious insects are crafty and cunning in gaining access and getting to the wooden construction inside.

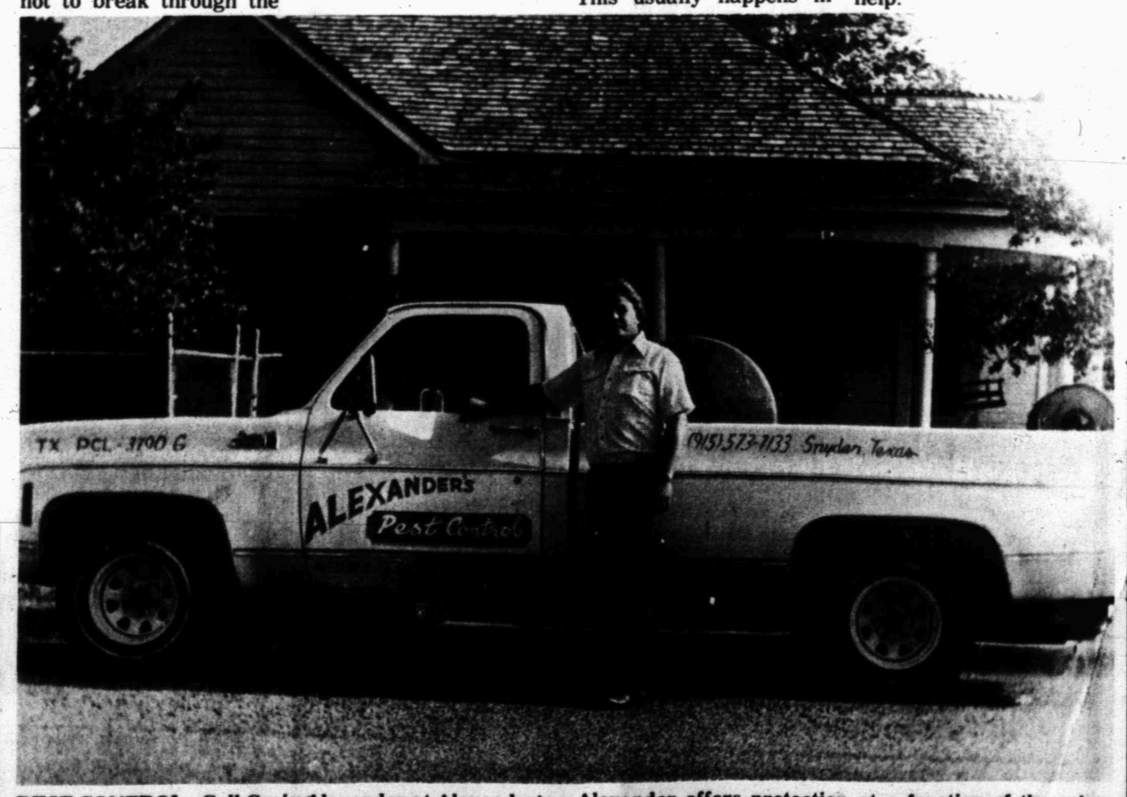

Voracious termites will eat anything containing wood or cellulose. They frequently damage valuable papers, books, expensive rugs and items in storage. Beside feeding themselves, worker termites carry food back to the colony for the queen, king, secondary reproductives and soldier termites. With this large family to feed, the worker isn't the least concerned about the value of your property.

A concrete foundation doesn't stop termites. Termites must return to their nests every 12 to 24 hours for moisture, and to feed the non-workers. Termite tubes under your foundation are a sure sign of infestation.

Mature termites develop wings and on a warm, moist day emerge from the colony as a swarm. This usually happens in the spring and sometimes in the fall. After flying a short distance, the wings drop off and new colonies are formed. If you see swarming termites, you had better call us for an inspection.

Professional chemical treatment is the only way to be sure you're safe from termite damage--and this treatment is far more economical than repairs. Using proven methods, we'll treat the soil around and under your house to create a chemical barrier that stops subterranean termites cold. We make sure every possible point of entry is blocked.

Alexander's Pest Control, 573-7133, also does all types of pest services. Owner Craig Alexander reminds you that whatever your pest control or weed control needs are, he can help.

PEST CONTROL - Call Craig Alexander at Alexander's Pest Control for professional pest and weed control. Alexander offers protection at a fraction of the price costly termites can incur. (SDN Staff Photo)
