W. O. Morgan Is Victim of Death

W. O. "Slim" Morgan, 56, owner of Tahoka Grocery, was found near death of a gunshot wound at his store about 6:45 a. m. Saturday. He died at 8:15 a. m. in Tahoka Hospital without regaining consciousness.

Funeral services were held in the First Baptist Church, of which he was a member, at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday with Rev. Lee Ramsour, pastor, officiating. Burial followed in Tahoka Cemetery under direction of Stanley-Jones Funeral Home.

Mr. Morgan came to the store early Saturday morning to make preparations for moving to a new location in the Tippit building on U. S. 380 just west of Tankersley's. Noticing a light in the store, a Mr. Johnson, salesman for a milk company, went into the place of business and found Mr. Morgan critically wounded on the floor near the rear of the building. He called Police Chief L. N. Bartley and other officers, and Mr. Morgan was taken to Tahoka Hospital. He had a .22 bullet wound over the right ear, and a .22 rifle lay nearby.

Since there was no evidence of foul play, Justice of the Peace A. L. Dunagan rendered a verdict setting forth the fatal injury was accidental or self-inflicted.

William Oscar Morgan was born June 23, 1896, in Grayson county. He came to Lynn county in 1920, and on June 4, 1921, he was married to Miss Mable Reece. They lived on a farm east of town until 1936, when Mr. Morgan went to work for Burleson Grain Co. He worked for Jim Burleson until a year or two ago. He and his wife bought the grocery store several months ago. Mr. Morgan had worked hard all his life, and his health had been none too good the past few years. He left a host of friends who are grieved by his passing.

Survivors include the wife, Mrs. Mable Morgan; two sons, Dalton of Tahoka and Travis of Fort Bliss, El Paso; two daughters, Mrs. Lena Caln of Sacramento, Calif., and Mrs. Ernest Walker of Tahoka; his mother, Mrs. Drew Morgan, who lives in the Morgan home here; one brother, Walter of Sherman; two sisters, Mrs. Alma Simpson of Cumby and Mrs. Essie Stifflemire of Sherman; and three grandchildren.

Last year, the local Pythian Sisters Temple led the entire nation among Pythian Sister Temples in raising funds for this cause, and the local ladies are very proud of the achievement and of the banner they received for same.

In that drive, Lynn Temple raised $136.05 at their benefit party and $653.97 in the March of Mothers drive which followed, for a total of $790.02.

They ask the cooperation of all citizens in helping them set another record this year for a worthy cause.

$3,200 Goal Set For Lynn County

The 1953 March of Dimes drive in Lynn county was inaugurated this week with the Boy Scouts distributing coin collectors in the business houses of Tahoka, according to Clint Walker, chairman of the drive.

With more persons stricken with infantile paralysis in 1952 than in any other year, and with the prospect of a staggering patient care bill, the local county chapter of the March of Dimes organization along with 3,100 other county chapters are preparing today to match the record polio onslaught with a record 1953 March of Dimes.

Last years March of Dimes was the largest this county has given since it was first organized according to Mr. Walker. However, due to the large carryover of expenses from the preceding year for patient care, and a larger than usual patient care expense this year, local funds are practically exhausted. A goal of $3,200.00, same as last year, has been set for this county for 1953, and Mr. Walker states that he is confident the people of this county will rise to the challenge and exceed this goal as they did in 1952.

Several organizations in the county are helping with the drive and more are expected to join in this fight against polio. Volunteers are asked to get in touch with the county chairman and donations may be mailed to Clint Walker or F. B. Hegi, Tahoka, Texas, (County Treasurer, March of Dimes).

Strange Motors Gets High Award

Only about thirty of the 185 dealers in the district qualified for the award.

The award is made on the basis of "sound finances, efficient management, an always cooperative spirit, and completely modern facilities."

L. W. Smead, general sales manager of Ford Motor Company writes the Stranges: "The Four-Letter Award is the highest honor Ford Motor Company can pay those of its dealers who measure up to its exacting standards (and) expresses our appreciation of your efforts to conduct your business in a manner that reflects the Ford ideal of Service to the motoring needs of the public."

Bill Sr. and Bill Jr. have been operating the local Ford house nearly five years.

Smith, Chairman of the MOD in Texas. Attorney-General Outlines Politics

AUSTIN, Jan. 7 — Attorney General-elect John Ben Shepperd pledged recently that citizens of Texas may expect "efficiency, economy and integrity" from the Attorney General's office during his tenure.

Shepperd pointed out that he would not have to "look around to find something to do." In addition to the tidelands problem, the office faces a full workload of pending cases, many of which are of extreme importance to the state. He mentioned the gas gathering tax and school-land suits as being most critical at the present time.

The Attorney General is the legal representative of the People of Texas in approximately 2,000 cases each year, legal adviser to 200 state agencies, and handles suits involving citizens' rights and millions of dollars in state funds and property.

Shepperd announced that a plan for reorganization of the department is now being studied along the lines of his reorganization of the Secretary of State's office which resulted in economy of personnel and considerable savings of operating funds while maintaining efficiency.

He plans to cooperate with Governor Shivers and the Department of Public Safety in enforcing the communist control law passed by the last Legislature.

He warned that all of the injunctive and investigative powers of his office will be aimed at organized gambling and that efforts of organized gambling syndicates to obtain a foothold in Texas will be strenuously opposed.

"Violations of our state's anti-trust, tax, narcotic, liquor, gambling and other laws will be vigorously prosecuted," he declared, "but law-abiding businesses and citizens will be just as vigorously protected."

"The office will not assume nor will it develop a prosecution complex. It will not be used by any pressure groups to stifle the American system of freedom of opportunity of enterprise," he said.

Shepperd further pledged the full aid of his administration to the incoming 53rd Legislature. He has already appointed a Special Legislative assistant, "to achieve a high degree of copoeration" with the lawmakers.

He stated that he will appoint special assistants with primary duties of studying water, election, usury and foreign corporation tax problems.

He said that he considered water the number one state problem and stated that all of the resources of his office will be available to help solve it.

Shepperd said that a special study will be made of the small loans problem, and, at the request of the State Bar of Texas, he will name a special assistant to lead in this work.

"Because of lack of rigid enforcement, many corporations organized outside of Texas do not obtain permits to do busines in this state," he said, "and the people of Texas are deprived of millions of dollars in fees and taxes and Texas firms face unfair competition."

Shepperd made a study of the corporation problem while Secretary of State, and plans much more rigid enforcement of these laws.

Shepperd, 36 year old former Longview attorney, is former Secretary of State and former National President of the Junior Chamber of Commerce. Before his election as Attorney General, he was a member of the law firm of Kenley, Sharp, Shepperd and Ritter and a former president of the Gregg County Bar Association.

WASHINGTON AND

"SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

On this New Year's Day Washington predicts 1953 as the year of decision.

Much strife, much bitterness, is anticipated as issues that have long been kept in the shadows of indecision, are brought forth.

C. W. Harder

The decisions will have both worldwide, and domestic repercussions.

For example: despite the world desire for peace and orderly operation of the world economy, and the belief that some sort of international understanding is necessary, the future of the United Nations is a question mark.

Wishful hope may be supplanted by realization of hard facts.

Here are some of the indications. From California a freshman congressman, William Mailliard, will arrive. As a reserve commander, he spent a few weeks in Korean waters following his election. On returning, he expressed surprise at the vast amount of commerce he observed being carried on with Red China by shipping carrying the flags of United Nations members.

It is obvious that this nation, supplying the major part of the non-Korean manpower in the Korean struggle, cannot sacrifice men to the overwhelming manpower reserves of the enemy.

The only way to win the contest is to shut off supplies. But, according to the new Congressman, supplies from U.N. members pour into Red China while Americans die for the U.N. cause.

Another straw in the wind.

The British have been keeping independent oil operators out of Iran by threats. U. S. State Department appeared to be on the side of the British and their oil monopoly, Anglo-Iranian Oil.

Apparently the situation became ridiculous.

But whatever happened in the closing days of 1952, the U. S. State Department appeared to change policies with a statement advising it should be possible for American oil companies to trade in Iranian oil. Of course, so far, it is not known whether this statement was based on an attempt to open Iranian oil to free competition, or the first step to turn it over to one of the U. S. majors. But either way, it would be a step toward smashing the world oil cartel found to exist by the Federal Trade Commission.

While foreign affairs may seem remote from business along Main Street, it is a fact that controls, high taxes, inflation, and other damaging effects on the health of independent business are largely due to foreign policies.

Of course, the direction taken on anti-trust law enforcement will have a great deal to do with independent business welfare.

No one will predict just what will happen in this sphere.

It is felt that if the office in the Department of Justice charged with enforcement of the anti-trust laws is permanently removed from political pressure, as requested by a majority of the nation's independent business, the problem will be largely solved. As it stands now, the power of life or death for the nation's independent business is too closely held by a politically appointed Attorney General. On this one issue the delayed battle to decide which system is to prevail, monopolies or independent business, may hinge.

"Decisio" Before Dawn" Is Mighty Drama Of Daring Mission Behind German Lines

"Decision Before Dawn," 20th Century-Fox's acclaimed adventure drama featuring Richard Basehart, Gary Merrell, Oskar Werner and Hildegarde Neff, will be unveiled locally tomorrow at the Rose Theatre.

Filmed entirely in Western Germany under the direction of Anatole Litvak, the picture deals with a little known World War II episode when German prisoners of war, disgruntled with their plight and anxious for the end of hostilities, volunteered to spy on their own country for the Allies. These men, braving damnation by their countrymen, risked their lives, identities and futures to bring the conflict to a speedier conclusion.

Richard Basehart, who rose to stardom as the emotionally unstable man on the ledge in "Fourteen Hours," plays the courageous and daring American officer who guides the dangerous mission behind enemy lines. Merrill, the exciting newcomer who attained prominence in "All About Eve," and more recently in 'The Frogmen," is the intelligence chief who stakes his military career on the success of the operation.

For its other stars, "Decision Before Dawn" introduces to American audiences a pair of well-known European favorites—Oskar Werner and Hildegarde Neff. Werner, a 28-year-old Vienese stage star, is cast as the PW who risks his life for the Allied cause while Miss Neff is a disillusioned young camp follower who sees her salvation in the hopeful young face of Werner.

Making of the picture represented one of the most difficult motion picture productions ever undertaken. To recreate the background authenticity of war-battered Germany, Litvak, and Co-producer Frank McCarty traveled more than 2,000 miles through the French and American zones of occupation to film sequences in 16 cities and hamlets. Filmed under the scrutiny of the Allied High Commission for Germany, the production unit found it necessary to get the various Allied governments to permit them to use captured German weapons, German actors and American soldiers.

VALUE OF SOIL TEST DEMONSTRATED

COLLEGE STATION, —Many farmers are not sold on the value of soil testing but Edwin Sager of the Arneckville community, DeWitt county, is not now numbered among this group.

Last spring Sager visited the office of DeWitt county Agent Dewey Compton seeking information as to the grade and amount of fertilizer he should use to insure a good crop of red top hay. The county agent suggested that a soil sample from the field to be planted be submitted to the laboratory operated by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service at College Station.

The suggestion was carried out but when the results of the analysis and the accompanying recommendations were returned to Sager, he returned to Compton with the remark that he couldn't afford to use that much fertilizer under his hay crop. The recommendation was that 400 pounds of 10-10-0 fertilizer be applied per acre.

There were good reasons for questioning the recommendation, says the county agent. The land was an eight acre block that was being rented. It had been in cultivation for many years and was a poor lime rock soil. The best corn yield that could be expected from it was about 20 bushels per acre and conditions had to be right to get such a yield. The doubts thus were justified.

After further discussion, Sager decided to follow the recommendation made by M. K. Thornton, Extension agricultural chemist who has charge of the laboratory. And that is why today he is a strong believer in soil testing.

In July, he cut and baled 1,073 bales of excellent red top hay from the eight acres. That figures 134 bales per acre and at market value the crop was worth $167.50 per acre. The cost of seed—and he seeded heavily—and fertilizer was $22 per acre and labor for planting and baling pushed this to $59.58. A little simple arithmetic shows a net income per acre of $107.92.

Compton concludes in his report that very few fields of cotton in the county will yield such a return. Sager concludes the dollar he spent for the soil test was the best investment he had ever made.

Farmers of Northern Lynn County Will Vote In Water District Election

LUBBOCK, Jan. 5.—An election is being held on January 13, 1953, by the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1, for the election of three District Directors from Districts 1, 3, and 4.

W. O. Fortenberry is the candidate for District No. 1, which contains all the territory in the District situated in Lubbock and Lynn Counties.

Willis A. Hawkins is the candidate for District No. 3, which contains all the territory in the District situated in Bailey, Castro, and Parmer Counties.

Jim Line, G. A. Dietz, and V. A. Dodson are the candidates for District No. 4, which contains all the territory in the District situated in Potter, Deaf Smith, Randall, and Armstrong Counties.

At the same time, three County Committeemen are being elected from each county within the Water District.

The candidates for County Committeemen from Lynn County are:

Joe D. Unfred, Wayne Smith, D. W. Hancock, C. C. Swope, A. E. Hagens, E. J. Hewlett.

Polling places in Lynn County are:

Polling place no. 1, New Home School House.

Polling place no. 2, Wilson School House.

These County Committeemen will play a very important part in establishing the regulations of the District and seeing that such regulations are carried out. Three committeemen of the five-man Board can approve an application for a permit to drill a well.

Beginning the first of February a permit will be required on any well that is to be drilled, either industrial, municipal, or agricultural. These permits will be issued free of charge. The forms can be obtained from any County Committeeman, well driller, or the County Agent in each county.

One of the purposes of this application is to obtain information from the High Plains area regarding underground formations and well construction. This has been pointed out to the District as being very important information, not only to the people of the High Plains, but to the U. S. Geological Survey and is information that should have been gathered many years ago.

All indications are pointing to the prospect of a lot of State legislation confronting the District in the next few years. The Directors feel it will take the full cooperation of all the committeemen as well as the farmers and businessmen of the High Plains to keep the control of ground water in the hands of the local county people.

"Indeed he does. It's perfectly disgusting to see him clean it."

Norman Rockwell, America's most famous illustrator, is shown talking with the models he used to paint one of the pictures appearing on a 1953 calendar devoted to Ford Motor Company's fiftieth anniversary. He found these models among his neighbors in Arlington, Vt. Posed at left as the late Henry Ford, when he was a watch repairing boy of 10 years, is Robert DeBlock, 12, seventh grade student at Arlington Memorial school. Rockwell chose Bernard Cullinan, custodian at the Arlington school, to depict a neighbor visiting Mr. Ford's work shop.

Wind Erosion To Plains Lands May Be Worse This Year Than Previously

Fort Worth—The Soil Conservation Service reports that the lands subject to blowing in western Texas and Oklahoma have entered the new wind erosion season in the most perilous condition since the blow years of the early 1930's.

Regional Director Lous P. Merrill of SCS disclosed that reports from area headquarters in the wind erosion sections of the two states show 6,279,500 acres are not sufficiently protected by growing plant cover or crop residues to prevent destructive blowing in strong winter and spring winds. This total is nearly 2,000,000 acres mores than were in this category at this time during the last twelve years.

The dry weather following wheat plantings and the large acreages in cotton, failure of sorghum crops, and overuse of sorghum stubble and range lands, account for the big increase in unprotected acreages, Merrill explained.

Good growing weather to permit new wheat and other winter growing crops could reduce the unprotected acreage greatly, the regional SCS director said.

The Panhandle section of Texas was added to the trouble areas of the Southern High Plains of Texas as a threatened area. Merrill reported. Area Conservationist Myles A. Kelly at Perryton, reporting for the uppermost ten counties of the Panhandle section, and George W. Taylor at Amarillo, whose area includes 11 counties, said in their reports that winter wheat seerings are in poor condition and offer little or no protection for the soil.

Taylor said only 20 per cent of the wheat planted in his area has sprouted. Sorghum stubble in the Amarillo area at present is furnishing protection but much of it is being over-grazed, Taylor reported. Cotton lands in that area are in poor condition.

SCS Area Conservationist Homer A. Taff at Lubbock reported 1,680,000 acres in his 12-county area without sufficient blow protection. Most of this is cotton land which was mechanically stripped and sorghum land on which the crop was cut for bundle feed.

In the 13-county area reported by Area Conservationist W. S. Goodlett of Big Spring 1,394,000 acres are unprotected and in condition to blow. Mechanically harvested cotton acreages, with large areas of bare cultivated and range lands, account mainly for the condition, Goodlett said.

In the northwest section of Oklahoma, A. T. Elder at Woodward said 500,000 acres of wheat lands on which the new crop has made poor growth, are in condition to blow. Farmers using crop residue management practices, however, have adequate protection.

Merrill said that in the few dust and sand storms which already have occurred in the blow areas only 83,500 acres have suffered moderate to severe damage. Of this total, 29,500 acres are in the Big Spring area.

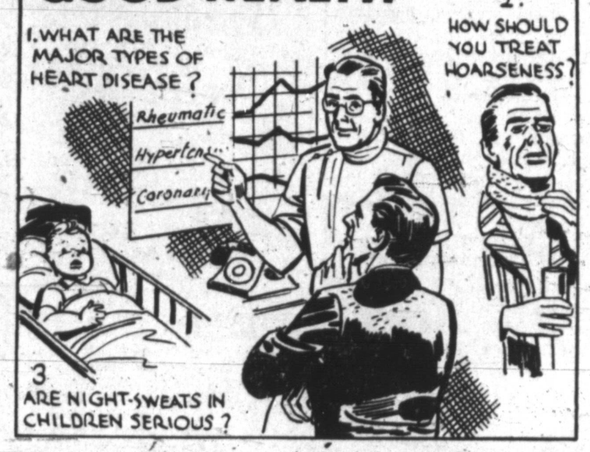

"Many farmers in the areas of Oklahoma and Texas threatened by wind erosion are awake to the danger and are doing their best to get ready," Merrill said. "They already are busy with emergency tillage operations on the exposed land.

"However, our goal in this fight against wind erosion is the kind of farming that has been done by soil conservation district cooperators R. J. Purtell of near Brownfield; Steve Brockman at Dimmitt; the late O. M. McGinty of near Spur, and J. J. Loftis of near Frederick, Okla. These men are keeping their land protected and making it more productive at the same time. There will be no blowing on their farms this season and on thousands of other farms whose owners are using soil conservation district methods."

NEW OWNER OF OLD BUSINESS . . . The immense 87-year-old Western Newspaper Union business and production plant at Dallas, Texas, has a new owner. W. E. Reid (insert above), who has managed the branch, has purchased the entire business from WNU and has formed a new company, Western Newspaper Supply, which will continue the business as usual, in the same building, 600 S. Akard St. The company has been in this location for over 50 years. The newer 3-story part of this building was erected in 1930-31. The company will continue to handle all kinds of new equipment and supplies including all major lines of fine printing equipment, as well as newsprint, ink, metal and other supplies. Reid has been in the printing, publishing and machinery business for more than 38 years.

GOOD HEALTH

Answer to Question No. 1:

There are many types of heart disease. Ninety per cent of all heart patients suffer from one of three types of the disease—rheumatic, hypertensive and coronary. Children between 5 and 15 are the chief victims of rheumatic fever which damages the heart valves and causes rheumatic heart disease. Hypertension, or high blood pressure, causes the heart to enlarge and puts a damaging strain on the heart and arteries. This usually attacks middle-aged people. Coronary heart disease is caused by arteriosclerosis or hardening of the arteries—and is most common among old people.

Answer to Question No. 2:

Hoarseness is usually due to an inflammation of the vocal cords. On rare occasions it is caused by a serious disease. It is of no great importance other than the discomfort. The best treatment is rest of these cords by talking very little—and when necessary, only in a low voice. Cold compresses, gargling and inhalations may be helpful to hurry the healing process. If hoarseness persists, be sure to see your physician.

Answer to Question No. 3:

As a rule, night-sweats in children are not serious. They are usually due to an over-heated room and to too many bed-covers. If the night-sweats persist despite proper room temperature and proper covering and if the child seems usually healthy, by all means consult your family doctor.

Camp Kilmer, N. J., is named after the famous poet, Joyce Kilmer, a native of nearby New Brunswick and a member of New York City's "Old Seventh" Regiment. The poet-soldier was killed in action during World War I.

The number of fruit trees in Texas is at an all-time low and horticulturists with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service recommend expanded plantings of adapted varieties.

Don't throw the poinsettia out because it sheds its leaves. The plants go into a rest period immediately after blooming and with care can be carried through to bloom again.

The 24-hour clock system was adopted as official time by the Army in 1942.

Tahoka Bulldogs Win Fourth Place In Levelland Tournament of Champions; Meet Sudan, Littefield Here

Tahoka Bulldogs' next home games are with Sudan A and B teams here next Tuesday night, beginning at 7:00 p. m. Then, on Friday night of next week, Littlefield A and B boys teams and A girls will play here. These games start at 6:30 p. m.

This week end, Friday and Saturday, the Bulldogs' A team is entered in the annual Andrews tournament.

Last week end, the Bulldogs took fourth place in the Levelland Tournament of Champions which featured eight of the better teams of the Plains.

Class AAA Lamesa took first, Class A Denver City second, and Class AA Childress was third. Phillips took top consolation honors, Quannah second, Levelland third and Seminole fourth.

Bulldogs Beat Levelland

After holding a comfortable margin over the Levelland Lobos most of the game, Friday afternoon, the Bulldogs came very near losing the contest in the fading minutes. Tahoka's victory was the most sensational one of the tournament.

Coach Jake Jacobs smooth-operating Bulldogs played their best game of the season in this one. They held a 5-point lead at end of the first quarter, made the score 29-19 at the half for a 10 point lead, and 40-30 at the third. Once they had a 12 point lead and another time a 11 point lead.

But late in the fourth, Levelland went into a full court press, and possibly the Bulldogs became a little rattled or nervous. Anyway, Levelland pulled up to with in two points with about three and a half minutes to go, 45-43. Then, Levelland's Isreal sank a field goal to tie the score 45-45 with 2 minutes 18 seconds left. Tahoka's Slover made good on a free throw to give Tahoka a 46-45 lead. Leatherman drove in for a field goal with 55 seconds left to give Levelland a 46-47 lead. Tahoka fouled, and Levelland failed to make good on a free throw and took the ball out of bounds on the second with 31 seconds left in the game. Tahoka's chances seemed gone, but they certainly were not! Charley Hyles, guard, stole the ball from a Levelland player trying to freeze the ball, drove down court to the left. Got set, and fired a long one that swished through the hoop with six seconds left. As the buzzer sounded, a Lobo took a long desperation shot from mid-court that missed—and Tahoka had defeated Levelland the first time in fully 15 years.

Tahoka Loses Semi-Finals

Going into the championship bracket, Tahoka met the tall, tall Denver City Mustangs Friday night, losing 50 to 35.

In this game, the Bulldogs were not sharp at all. The tall Mustangs controlled both backboards and the tip on jump balls, took an early lead, and maintained a comfortable margin all the way. The winners held a 24-17 halftime lead, and pulled away in the second and third periods.

Plans Progressing Here Toward Reconstruction of Negro Church

Work was begun last week on the construction of a new house of worship for the Pleasant Grove Baptist church here, colored, and is progressing nicely this week. The building of the new edifice was made necessary by the destruction of the old building by fire in the spring of 1951. E. Y. Gibbs of Lubbock is the contractor.

The structure is to be by far the largest and most substantial house of worship ever constructed in Tahoka for any group or denomination of colored people. The floor is being laid with solid slabs of concrete, and the walls likewise will consist of solid concrete, with a slate-surface, composition shingle gable roof covering the main auditorium, and a flat roof over the Sunday School department. It is to be nicely finished inside and out side.

The dimensions of the auditorium are to be 32 by 48 feet, facing south on North 6th street, which is the main street leading from the Tahoka-Lubbock highway east to the cotton compress. On each side of the front entry are to be rest rooms, and just back of the pulpit at the north end of the auditorium is to be a choir platform and the baptistry. Back of the auditorium and adjoining it is to be Sunday School department, 40 feet east and west by 16 feet across. It will be cut into rooms, the largest of which will be used as a kitchen and dining room and also as an assembly room for the Sunday school classes. The remainder of that department will be cut into S. S. class rooms.

The Church has been greatly hampered in its work since its old building was destroyed by fire nearly two years ago. Since that time the church and Sunday School services have been held in the public school building for the colored children.

For many months, Rev. L. E. Brown, who now lives in Houston, has been the pastor of the church. Deacons are Prince Smith, Henry Hood, Burnard Bailey, and British Daniel.

Miss Paralee Sayles holds a number of important positions in the church. She is church clerk and secretary, S. S. Superintendent, and Youth director. Mrs. Williams is W. M. U. president. Miss Erma Sayles is pianist, and Mrs. Henrietta Burleson and Miss Beatrice Hurst are co-directors of the choir.

A number of the men of the church, since the church building was burned, are members of a non - denominational Sunday School class with one of the men of the First Methodist Church.

white, as teacher usually.

Regular attendance upon the Pleasant Grove Baptist Sunday school does not ordinarily exceed 40, Miss Sayles reports. They hope to greatly increase the number when they get into their new church building.

Miss Sayles reports that not more than half of the amount of funds with which to build the Church are now in hand. A subscription list will be circulated soon and it is hoped that the white people will respond liberally.

The A.M.E. (Methodist) Church here has a vigorous pastor, Rev. W. D. Atkins, in charge of its work, and though the membership is small, the Church is doing a good work.

A rejuvenated and progressive colored Baptist Church "over the hill" will doubtless add greatly to the moral and spiritual atmosphere of that section of Tahoka and be a distinct asset to the entire city.

Mrs. J. H. McNeely returned home by bus Wednesday of last week from Los Angeles, Calif. She recently went to the West Coast in company with her son, C. W. Evans, and wife, who were home from Saudi, Arabia, where he is employed by an oil company. She says they had a great time in California, and her son took her to see many sights. Mr. and Mrs. Evans expect to start their return trip to Arabia on January 17.

It has, also, wondrous handling ease, with Power Steering as standard equipment. It has superb comfort. It has sumptuous fabrics and tailoring. And its acoustics are so thoroughly mastered that it may well be one of the world's most quiet cars.

But no listing of facts can do true justice to this phenomenal automobile, or to its brilliant brothers, the 1953 SUPERS and SPECIALS.

And no words can really tell you the beauty you see, the comfort you feel, the excitement you experience—when you look at and drive any one of these big, beautiful, bounteous Buicks for 1953.

Odds and Ends

(BY E. I. THE ELDER)

Well we guess that by this time that North Carolina Baptist Church that got so wrought up over that new translation of the Bible that its leaders publicly burned a copy of it, is now beginning to have some slight pangs of conscience over the proceeding.

We guess also that the few other churches of different denominations that expressed approval of the act, or at least sympathy, are also beginning to wonder if they were not slightly overwrought.

The public generally is inclined to regard these acts as examples of the narrowness of the churches which were involved. But nearly all narrowness, religious or political, is based on one of two causes: First, Ignorance (or lack of information, if the use of a softer term is preferred), and Second, Superstition.

Those who burned that Bible probably did so because of a lack of information, to use the softer term.

There are many people yet in this country, which we are proud to think of as the most enlightened country in the world, who do not know enough to know that not a word of the King James Version of the Bible was originally given to the world in English. Nearly all of the Old Testament was originally written in Hebrew and nearly all of the New Testament was written in Greek. Not a word of it was written originally in English language until some 500 years after the birth of Christ.

If these modern Bible-burners could have heard Jesus as he spoke to the multitudes that followed him in Galilee, in Judea, and wherever he went during his ministry on earth, they would not have understood a word that he said. Furthermore, if the books of Matthew, Mark, Luke, and John, the Acts of the Apostles, Paul's letters to the Gentiles, and all the other books of the New Testament had been presented to these Bible-burners, not a word of it all could have been read by a single one of these modern fanatics unless and until they had learned to read Greek, for the books of the New Testament were first written in Greek. This Greek had to be translated by somebody into English centuries later before there could be any English New Testament of any version. It was in 1611, nearly 1600 years after the Crucifixion of Christ, that the scholars of England, who were members of the Church of England—not one of them was a Baptist or a Methodist or a Presbyterian or a "Disciple,"—translated the Greek into English and thus gave to the world, the King James Authorized Version of the New Testament, the version which has been in general use in America for some 300 years now.

Other translations of the New Testament Scriptures into English had been made prior to the King James translation, however as follows: By John Wycliffe in 1380-82, and by John Tyndale in 1525-26, and the whole Bible by Miles Coverdale in 1535. These were Independents or Protestants but were not members of the Church of England, not yet established, but the 47 King James translators consulted these previous translations in making their own in 1611.

So the King James Version is itself a translation. It was on the whole a most excellent translation, undeniably, at the time it was made. It helped to shape the English language, in fact, and to enrich English literature through all the years that have since intervened. But, it might have not been in every instance a faultless translation, but even if it was, the English language has ever been a changing and a growing language, which makes it necessary for revisions to be made at intervals.

As to the Old Testament, it was written almost wholly in Hebrew or in a modification of that language. These Hebrew books were first gathered together and translated by Jews themselves into Greek nearly 300 years before Christ. This Greek Version of the Old Testament, which is called the Septuagint, was the version which was in general use in Palestine in the time of Christ. It contained of course, the books of Isaiah, Micah, all the other Prophets, and books on which both the King James Version and the New Revised Standard Version are based.

Now, I do not know a word of Hebrew and very little about the Greek language, and so I would not profess to know which translation adheres more closely to the original meaning of the Scriptures. I only know that some forty different denominations entered into the plan to have this version made and that 32 of the admittedly great Hebrew and Greek scholars participated in the translation and final issuance of the volume now under fire. These represented all the great Protestant denominations in this country, and I have no reason to question their scholarship, their integrity, sincerity, or their devotion to their God in the results of their labors.

As they represented so many different denominations as well as the best scholarship, perhaps, in each of these denominations, the inevitable conclusion must be that this new Version must be very meritorious and probably the most accurate English version of the Bible ever published. It certainly is from the standpoint of good English.

Now the passage of Scripture at whose translation the critics have directed their hottest fire is the translation of Isaiah 7:14. In the King James Version it is as follows:

"Therefore the Lord himself will give you a sign: Behold, a virgin shall conceive, and bear a son, and shall call his name Immanuel."

In the new Standard Revised Version, this verse is translated as follows:

"Therefore the Lord himself will give you a sign. Behold, a young woman shall conceive and bear a son, and shall call his name Immanuel."

Then a foot note, referring to the words, "a young woman," says "or vrgin." The inference is that the translation of that Hebrew word into "a young woman" is more accurate than the translation of it into the word "virgin."

And so the critics jump at the conclusion that these modern translators so translated the expression in order to eliminate the word virgin and to lay the foundation for an attack on the virgin birth of Christ.

Well, if that was their purpose they must have forgotten about it when they got over into the New Testament.

Here is the way they translated Matthew's acount of the birth of Christ. Matthew 1:18: "Now the birth of Christ took place in this way. When his mother Mary had been betrothed to Joseph, before they came together she was found to be with child of the Holy Spirit; and her husband Joseph, being a just man and unwilling to put her to shame, resolved to divorce her quietly. But as he considered this, behold an angel of the Lord appeared to him in a dream, saying, Joseph, son of David, do not fear to take Mary your wife, for that which is conceived in her is of the Holy Spirit; she will bear a son, and you shall call his name Jesus, for he will save his people from their sins." All this took place to fulfill what the Lord had spoken by the prophet: "Behold a virgin shall conceive and bear a son, and his name shall be Immanuel." (which means, God with us).

Then follows the account of the visit of the wise men, their finding and worshiping the child Jesus, the divine warning given them not to go back up to Jerusalem but to return by another way to their homes in the east, the consequent fury of Herod and his slaughter of the children, and the events that followed, in verbiage that differed somewhat from that of the King James Version but with no substantial difference in meaning, the whole account indicating divine guidance and divine protection of the child Jesus. Read it all in the first four chapters of Matthew and then tell me if you find any hint that the translators were seeking to discredit belief in the virgin birth of Christ or in his Deity. I think that you will

Only Gas Gives You Flame-Kissed Flavor . . .

Smokeless Broiling

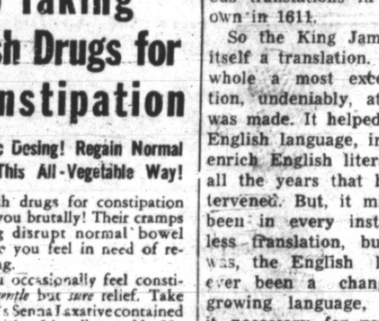

Only a clean, blue gas flame can sear a steak to give it that "just-right" flavor. And when you broil in a modern gas range . . . your kitchen remains smokeless. The gas flame consumes smoke and food vapors. See the modern automatic gas ranges at your dealer's. Buy an automatic gas range and enjoy finer cooking.

IT IS MORE CAR THAN YOU BELIEVED COULD EXIST...

If you're buying a car in the better ranges, there's a special reason this year to drive a Chrysler New Yorker before you decide. In this car are values you won't find elsewhere at any price today. Its great engine is not just surpassingly powerful, but new in performance and ruggedness. Its beauty is splendidly its own . . . splendidly right. Interiors are exquisite beyond compare—with fabrics and appointments that are the final word in luxury. Except for Chrysler's own Imperial, here is a car which is unequalled, and is unlikely to be equalled for years to come. Your Chrysler dealer cordially invites you to drive it at your convenience.

find on the contrary that it is fully as impressive and convincing of his Deity as the King James Version. A marvelous account it is.

Now turn over to Luke and read the translation of the account of the birth of Christ as made by these same "modernists." I wish you would get a copy of the New Version and read the whole story, for I can not print it all here. Luke 1:26-35. "In the sixth month, the angel Gabriel was sent from God to a city of Galilee named Nazareth, to a virgin betrothed to a man whose name was Joseph, of the house of David; and the virgin's name was Mary. And he came to her and said, 'Hail! O favored one, the Lord is with you.' But she was greatly troubled at the saying, and considered in her mind what sort of greeting this might be. And the angel said to her, 'Do not be afraid, Mary, for you have found favor with God. And behold, you will conceive in your womb and bear a son, and you shall call his name Jesus.

"He will be great and will be called the Son of the Most High; and the Lord God will give to him the throne of his father David, and he will reign over the house of Jacob forever; and of his kingdom there shall be no end."

And Mary said to the angel "How can this be, since I have no husband?"

And the angel said to her, "The Holy Spirit will come upon you, and the power of the Most High will overshadow you; therefore the child to be born will be called holy, the Son of God.

"And behold your kinswoman Elizabeth, in her old age, has also conceived a son; and this is the sixth month with her who was called barren. For with God nothing will be impossible."

And Mary said, "Behold, I am the handmaid of the Lord; let it be to me according to your word."

And the angel departed from her.

And then follows the rest of the story, which many have said is the most beautiful story ever written.

Now in all honesty, folks, does this look to you as if the translators of the new Standard Revised Version of the Bible were undertaking to discredit the story of the virgin birth of Jesus?

Does it not look more like those Bible-burners were grossly uninformed and knew pitiably little about the thing they were condemning?

In justice to that great body of Southern Baptists carrying on their work through the Southern Baptist Convention, it should be stated that the North Carolina Church which burned a copy of the new Bible is not affiliated with the Southern Baptist Convention, as I am informed. If it were, its radical action would not receive the approval of Baptists generally.

Caveness Writes Interesting Incident Of Early History

When H. P. Caveness wrote that most interesting account of the battle of Gettysburg which we published recently, he also wrote a number of brief human interest stories of incidents connected with the great battle which he has consented for The Lynn County News to publish one or more in each issue for the next few weeks. We are sure our readers will enjoy them.

Barlow and Gordon

On the afternoon of the first day's battle at Gettysburg, General Barlow of New York was struck by a shell and fell from his horse. His men left him for dead. A little later General Gordon of Georgia rode by and seeing a man of his own rank seriously wounded but still alive he dismounted and inquired if he could be of any assistance during his last moments. Barlow asked that his wife, a nurse in the army, be notified of his plight. Under a flag of truce, two runners from Gordon's staff rode through Union lines, found Mrs. Barlow and escorted her to the side of her husband. Mrs. Barlow removed her husband to a farm house where she succeeded in nursing him back to health. Gordon supposed he died. Barlow later heard of the death of a General Gordon and supposed it to be the Gordon who befriended him. Twenty years later, at a banquet of Union and Confederate soldiers in Washington, Barlow, Attorney-General of New York, and Gordon, Governor of Georgia, were on the program as speakers. Although each was of the opinion that the other had been killed, they recognized each other and a happy reunion was held. They were henceforth very warm friends.

An Incident of the First Day

I asked my father, one of the first to be taken captive, who was fighting with a company from Mississippi in a railroad cut, how many he killed before the enemy could take their position. He replied that he did not know that he killed any one and was glad he did not know.

I was reminded of that statement when I read the story of a Union officer who was active in taking those Mississippians in that railroad cut. After this engagement was over, this officer approached Col. Rufus Dawes, his superior, who, from the erect appearance of the man, supposed he had come for further orders. His compressed lips told a different story. With great effort, the officer said, "Tell them at home I died like a man and a soldier." He then opened his coat, showed a ghastly wound on his breast, and dropped dead. It could have been a bullet from my father's gun that killed this brave man.

Something To Thing About

COLLEGE STATION—There is still a chance that winter legumes and small grains planted for pasture now will pay big lividends in the spring. According to E. M. Trew, pasture specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the situation is such that perennial grasses will be slow in making a start in the spring and early grazing will further damage them.

Grasses such as dallis and bermuda went into the winter in a weakened condition because of the long drouth. To graze them as soon as spring growth commences will prevent proper rebuilding of their root systems and result in low vigor and poor production throughout the growing season, says Tew. They should be rested a few weeks, he adds.

Winter pastures of small grains and legumes will bridge this gap. Plantings made now are a gamble but may be justified if no other grazing is in sight, says the specialist.

The total tonnage of all fertilizers available in 1953 is expected to be about 11 per cent higher than last year. Seasonal shortages may develop, however, because of transportation problems.

A chemical analysis will show whether water being considered for irrigation is suitable for the purpose.

Pointers For Irrigation Offered

COLLEGE STATION —Texas agricultural producers know the value of water and what a lack of it can mean to a maturing crop or to a pasture. The present drouth has greatly increased interest in irrigation—to make up this lack—even in sections of the state where little or no irrigation has been previously used.

For the agricultural producer who may be thinking about an irrigation system, R. V. Thurmond, an irrigation specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, says farmers should give consideration to many factors before making a final decision. The water supply, he says, may come from streams, lakes, ponds or wells provided of course there is plenty when needed most. He points out that a supply equal to at least five gallons per minute per acre or storage capacity of from one to three acre feet per acre will be needed to irrigate most crops.

There are problems connected with the use of water regardless of its source and a big one, according to Thurmond, it its quality. A chemical analysis will show whether or not the supply is suitable for crop production and Thurmond recommends that such a test be made. He adds the state chemist, for a nominal fee, can make these determinations. If water is taken from a stream, river or lake, a permit of use should be obtained from the Texas Board of Water Engineers. Percolating ground water pumped from wells may be used at the discretion of the owner.

The topography of the field to be irrigated will determine whether surface methods or a sprinkler system should be used. Soils best adapted to irrigation have sufficient depth for storage of water; texture and structure that readily permit water to enter; good surface and subsoil drainage and with sufficient fertility to produce good yields.

To be profitable, says Thurmond, irrigation must result in increased yields sufficient to more than pay the costs involved These costs include additional equipment, land preparation, expense of operating the equipment and additional labor. A plentiful supply of water for irrigation, if properly used, can mean increased yields and may also make possible the successful growing in an area of higher priced crops which could not otherwise be produced without supplemental water.

Farmers interested in an irrigation system for their farm are advised by Thurmond to consult with their local county agent. He can furnish information on irrigation in the area.
