Murder Charge Filed Against Hanners In Slaying Of Wichitan At Home

TRUCK DRIVER FAILS TO MAKE $5,000 BOND

Frank Blumhoff Killed As He Opens Door To Irate Husband

GRAND JURY TO ACT

Hanners' Estranged Wife Tells of Warning Given Pair Before Shooting

A charge of murder was filed here Monday against Dewey Hanners, 26, Pampa truck driver, following his surrender to police after Frank Blumhoff, 36, oil field worker, was found dead at his home, 2303 Eighth street, with a bullet wound almost in the center of his chest.

The shooting occurred shortly after 7 o'clock Monday morning and when City Detective Pat Allen reached the house in response to a call, he found Hanners waiting in the front yard with a .32 caliber automatic pistol from which one shot had been fired in his hand. Detective Allen said Hanners surrendered with the remark:

Waits for Officers

"I shot him but I don't know whether he's dead or not."

The accused man was taken before Judge O. L. Gibbs in justice court Monday afternoon. Judge Gibbs set bond of $5,000 and Hanners was placed in the county jail after he had waived examining trial and stated he was unable to make bond.

Mike Anglin, assistant district attorney, said Monday afternoon that the charge against Hanners would be presented to the grand jury for the July term of the 30th district court on July 28, when the jury reconvenes to make its final report to Judge Allan D. Montgomery. The district attorney's department will be no attempt to oppose bond for Hanners.

Hanners told police and members of the district attorney's department that he had previously warned both his wife, from whom he had been separated for some time, and Blumhoff that he would kill them if they did not stop their attentions toward each other.

S. P. Sparks, a yard man at the house where Blumhoff was slain, told Mr. Anglin that Hanners had visited the house on one occasion and asked if Blumhoff and the woman were there. At that time, Sparks said, he thought the woman was Blumhoff's wife and told Hanners they were away. He quoted Hanners as having said:

"Tell them a man from Oklahoma is looking for them. They'll understand."

Warns Couple

Mr. Anglin said Hanners later saw his estranged wife and told her he would kill her and Blumhoff "if they didn't stay away from each other," according to Mrs. Hanners' statement. Hanners said he came to the house Sunday morning after returning from a trip to Dallas in a truck from Pampa and found no one at home. He returned again

Bob Long Prepares For Debate On Candidates For Attorney General

Wichita Falls Representative and Alfred Petsch to Clash Over Merits of Jimmy Allred and R. L. Bobbitt; Oil Leases Involved

AUSTIN, July 14. (AP)—Representative Bob Long of Wichita Falls was in Austin today, delving into records in preparation for his debate Wednesday night at Llano with Representative Alfred Petsch of Fredericksburg on the relative merits of Robert Lee Bobbitt and J. V. Allred, candidates for attorney general.

Both legislators were members of a special investigating committee inquiring into University of Texas land leases and Long, supporting Allred's candidacy, said he planned to relate a number of facts regarding the committee's findings and others made privately.

SEAT IN LEGISLATURE AT STAKE IN DEBATE

A seat in the Texas legislature will be the stake Wednesday night when Bob Long, Wichita county legislator, debates Representative Alfred P. C. Petsch, Moody administration leader, on the respective merits of Jimmie Allred and R. L. Bobbitt, candidates for attorney general.

If Long wins the debate and is able to prove charges which he has made against Attorney General Bobbitt, Petsch has declared that he will resign his place in the Texas legislature. The challenge for the debate was issued some 10 days ago by Representative Petsch following an acrimonious exchange between Long and Petsch during a political rally at Llano, according to dispatches from Austin. Long, speaking in behalf of Allred at the Llano gathering, made charges against Attorney General Bobbitt for his alleged failure to prosecute certain claims of the University of Texas against various oil companies. His speech was interrupted from the audience by Representative Petsch, according to reports, with the declaration by Petsch that "if you can prove your charges I'll resign my seat in the Texas legislature." Long immediately accepted the challenge and the debate was arranged.

Hoover Advises Agricultural Chiefs He's Neutral in Wheat Price Battle

President Leaves Farm Market Difficulties for Board to Decide; Capper Delays Proposal

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN

WASHINGTON, July 14. (US)—President Hoover has decided to adopt an attitude of strict neutrality in the adjustment of the present wheat difficulties and has so advised Chairman Legge of the federal farm board and Secretary of Agriculture Hyde.

In view of this presidential attitude Senator Capper, Republican, of Kansas postponed his call at the White House at which he had planned to invoke the president's intercession for the purchase of an additional 100,000,000 bushels of wheat by the federal agency.

Officials on Tour

Both the chairman of the farm board and the secretary of agriculture are now in the Southwest, engaged in a barnstorming campaign to urge the farmer to drastically cut their wheat acreage.

The tour has met so far with discouraging results and Chairman Legge and Secretary Hyde are expected back by the end of the week. Not until then will any decisive announcement be made regarding the disposition of the huge surplus of wheat now sagging on the resources of Western farmers.

Any federal action towards hoarding the grain for future marketing seemed predestined to doom as authoritative statements pointed to the ill results of similar action with the national coffee crop in Brazil.

Storage Problem

Even if the government through its agents did purchase the 100,000,000 bushels demanded by the farmers, the problem of storage would have to be met it was pointed out. Minneapolis, the largest grain center in the world has facilities for only 60,000,000 bushels. This is the amount already in government possession.

Opposition against further large purchases of wheat was emphatically declared at the farm board, where ex-Gov- Samuel McKelvie of Nebraska expressed the opinion that purchase of 100,000,000 bushels of wheat would not help the situation permanently. He added:

"We're getting past the point of theories here in the board. Such a purchase would unquestionably boost the price temporarily, but it would be worse again when the time came to sell."

NORRIS' TREATY RIDER CHANGED

Agreement Bodes Early Ratification of Pact

WASHINGTON, July 14. (AP)—An agreement seemed assured tonight among the London treaty advocates on the Norris reservation and leaders looked confidently to early ratification of the naval limitations agreement as a result.

Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska, the author of the reservation, said he was willing to strike from his resolution the preambles reciting the failure of President Hoover to give to the senate all of the notes and data relating to the London conference.

His reservation provides that the United States shall not be bound by any secret agreements or understandings which may exist outside the actual terms of the treaty.

Inasmuch as President Hoover and members of the delegation to London had asserted no secret understandings were involved in the treaty, some administration forces were opposing the reservation.

However, after a round of conferences today a general understanding was reached tonight on the modified Norris resolution.

Ruth Hanna McCormick Defends Expenditures and Accuses Foes

CHICAGO, July 14. (AP)—Ruth Hanna McCormick, the first woman to be nominated to the United States senate, told the senate campaign funds investigation committee today that, if what she termed "the patronage machine system" were removed from senatorial primaries, one of the main causes of large campaign expenses would be removed.

Her comment was part of a 7,000-word prepared statement which she read at the opening of the inquiry into her expenditures in defeating Senator Charles S. Deneen for the Republican nomination last April.

Defending the expenditure of $252,572 of her own money and the spending of $67,214 by her friends in her behalf, Mrs. McCormick interpolated the observation that she was "willing to believe" that her opponent's campaign cost twice as much.

Senator Gerald P. Nye, chairman of the committee, asked Mrs. McCormick if she believed that charge could be substantiated by evidence, and she replied that "it will be substantiated if your inquiry reaches down into the precinct organizations."

BOY DESCRIBES NIGHT'S BATTLE OF BOAT PARTY

Five Young Men and Girl Drown When Pleasure Craft Overturns

WOMAN LAST TO DIE

Sole Survivor Tells Gripping Story of Heroism After Reaching Land

BOSTON, July 14. (UP)—A tale of a night of horror in which he saw his six companions slip to their death in the sea was related here today by Baden Garceau, 23-year-old Harvard graduate, sole survivor of the 18-foot pleasure yawl which capsized in Massachusetts bay off Scituate.

Garceau, the son of a prominent Boston attorney, was rescued from the open sea as he clung to the rigging of the capsized yacht by the crew of the Boston mackerel seiner St. Ria, which later brought him and the body of one of the victims to this port.

The victims of the tragedy were: Charles A. Hall of Scituate, owner of the yawl; Miss Betty Munsell of Watertown; John Blower, 26, of Pittsburgh, Pa.; Walter Klaiber, 28, of Youngstown, Ohio; Willard Earl, 22, of Kansas City, Mo.; David Garache, 27, of Concord.

Girl's Body Found

The body of Miss Munsell was found close to the clinging form of Garceau by the rescue party. The bodies of the other victims had not been recovered despite a wide search made by Captain Frank Favalord, skipper of the St. Ria, after he came upon the overturned yacht.

Coast guard vesels and private yachts joined in a wide search of Massachusetts bay in an eforft to recover the five missing bodies.

According to the story of harrowing experiences related by Garceau on arrival here, the party set out from Scituate at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon on a short pleasure sail.

"We went out about five miles and decided to return. We got back about three miles when a squall came up and capsized us. The mainsail was up and the sheet tied," the rescued youth said.

Two Enter Rigging

"Five of the party climbed onto the keel when the yacht overturned and two of us entered the rigging Those in the rigging were Hall and myself. Garache became panic stricken. He went overboard twice and I hauled him back each time. He went over a third time and as he did so he grabbed Blower by the leg. I then went overboard and rescued Blower but Garache was swept away and was drowned."

Garceau said the waves then washed Blower off the overturned craft and he was lost. The next to go, according to the sole survivor, was Earl who was clinging onto the keel.

"Klaiber clung on until midnight when he was forced by the rising waters to relinquish his hold and was drowned.

Two Ships Pass

"During this period of time, we saw the New York boat go by and a coast guard boat about a half mile away. Following the disappearance of Klaiber, there remained only Hall, the girl (Miss Munsell) and myself. The girl was calm and clung with Hall to the keel while I stayed in the rigging.

"Eventually the girl collapsed and was swept off the keel, but Hall saved her. Later, the girl and Hall were forced off the keel and I went to the rescue of both. Finally, Hall lost his hold and disappeared into the darkened waters.

"About 6:30 o'clock this morning, despite her valiant efforts to cling on until a vessel should come to our succor, she gave up the fight and floated away from the bobbing craft. I was picked up at 9 o'clock by the St. Ria about six miles off Scituate."

The event was the occasion for a municipal celebration in Dallas in which many public officials from over Texas took part.

A two-mile parade passed through the downtown section at noon and moved to the site for the basin. John W. Everman, supervisor of public utilities, threw the switch which put the dredge in operation and Phil Record North, of Fort Worth, broke the bottle of salty gulf water over the machine.

CHICAGO JURY CALLS WRITER

Probers Defy Wishes Of Investigator

CHICAGO, July 14. (US)—The Cook county grand jury defied State's Attorney John A. Swanson today by deciding to call Harry T. Brundige, St. Louis star reporter, in the Alfred J. Lingle murder investigation.

The action was taken against the wishes and advice of the state's attorney, but followed virtual instructions from Chief Justice Denis J. Normoyle that the grand jury should ignore the attitude of Swanson and call the newspaperman on its own responsibility.

Brundige is the reporter who published a series of articles in the St. Louis paper charging that other reporters than Lingle were profiting from gang connections in Chicago and were engaged in various sorts of rackets. He offered to appear before the grand jury and furnish names in support of his charges, but Swanson insisted that the reporter first should tell his story to the state's attorney's office.

This action deadlocked the situation as The Star refused to allow Brundige to "run the gauntlet" of a grilling by the state's attorney.

Chief Justice Normoyle in addressing the grand jurors today told them that the eyes of the nation were upon the conduct of the Lingle murder investigation and that they must not let any technicalities stand in the way of getting information which may have a bearing on the crime.

OTIS AKERS FOUND INSANE BY JURY HERE

Wichita Lifer Demented, Penitentiary Experts Tell Court

PRISONER DANGEROUS

Slaying of Charlie McDaniel Believed Solved By Confession

Otis Akers was found insane by a jury of 12 men in the 89th district court Monday afternoon at the conclusion of his trial on a lunacy complaint filed by penitentiary officials several days ago after Akers had served about seven months of the life term given him in the 89th court here on a conviction for robbery with firearms.

Although testimony heard during the insanity trial led court officials to state they were convinced that the hearing had cleared up the mystery of the slaying of Charlie McDaniel, pioneer Dundee cattleman, who was shot to death by a bandit who attempted to rob a bank there two years ago, members of the district attorney's department said Akers would not be brought to trial on the slaying charge, because it is not likely he would be given a more severe sentence for murder than he was already under for robbery. It was also pointed out that one man had already been tried, positively identified by witnesses as the slayer and then acquitted of the murder of McDaniel after he had established an alibi.

Tells of Robbery

Akers was brought here for the hearing by N. L. Speer, sheriff at Huntsville. R. H. Baughn, acting warden at the penitentiary, and Dr. M. H. Judd, prison physician who filed the complaint against Akers, were called as witnesses in the hearing at their own request.

Sheriff Speer related a story he said Akers told him on the way to Wichita Falls Sunday, in which Akers said he had shot McDaniel and told of the details surrounding the attempted bank holdup. The prisoner said he was starting into

Worker Risks Life To Save Comrade

HOBBS, N. M., July 14. (AP)—From the isolated Hobbs oil field today came a story of the heroism of H. E. Powers, who risked his life to save a fellow workman from deadly fumes in a steel gas tank.

Physicians and oil field workers labored today to save the lives of both men who were overcome by the gas. Physicians believe both will die.

Ray Seymour was trapped in a tank on the lease of the Pacific Coal and Oil company. Before he started to enter Powers shouted to him not to go in until they had tested it for gas. Seymour believed the tank was empty and did not heed the warning.

Disregarding the danger, Powers rushed to the tank and went in to bring Seymour out. Both men were discovered, overcome at the bottom of the tank. They were taken out through a manhole plate at the bottom of the tank and resuscitation efforts were begun.

Mr. Sterling is expected to discuss his plan for a state road bond issue, and to give the saving in taxes which he declares will be made in Wichita and neighboring counties by the assumption by the state of the county bonds issued to build state highways. In each of his recent addresses, Mr. Sterling has given figures on the savings estimated in the area in which his speech was delivered.

Texas Rangers Rule Negro Section of Town With Machine Guns

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 14. (UP)—Gov. W. J. Holloway instructed Adj. Gen. Charles Barrett to delay departure of his company of national guardsmen for Erick, Okla., until further notice tonight.

Later reports from Beckham county officials from the western Oklahoma town where racial disturbances threatened advised the governor that county authorities "might be able" to cope with the situation.

County Attorney Hubert Ivester and M. L. Inman, acting sheriff returned to Erick tonight and found the tenseness had subsided somewhat, they advised the governor.

The troops were held in readiness, however.

TROOPS ORDERED HELD IN READINESS

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 14. (UP)—A decision to hold state troops in readiness to send to Erick, Okla., by special train to meet threats of widespread depredations against negroes in communities of southwestern Oklahoma was reached here late today by Gov. W. J. Holloway and Attorney General J. Barry King.

A formal order for the mobilization will not be made, however, until the officials receive a confirming order from Acting Sheriff M. L. Inman and the county judge at Erick, which is in Beckham county, southwestern Oklahoma.

Officials of the county previously today had asked for state protection, saying mobs were collecting to move against negroes at Erick as a result of feeling created originally by the attack and murder of a white woman at Shamrock, Texas, just across the border.

SITUATION QUIET IN SHAMROCK

SHAMROCK, Texas, July 14. (AP)—Negroes who left their homes here after Saturday's warning that they get out of town, were returning today under assurances from Texas rangers and city and county officers that they would be given full protection.

Sergeant M. T. Gonzaullos and Rangers W. H. Kirby and J. P. Huddleston all of Dallas, sent here by Governor Moody, announced they were equipped to put down any disorders, which had been threatened after the slaying of Mrs. Henry Vaughan by a negro last Friday.

Gonzaullos and his men went into a conference with county and city officials, after which they "set up" two machine guns and assembled tear and gas bombs for emergency use.

Gonzaullos issued orders to his men to arrest anyone found agitating mob violence.

Jesse Lee Washington, negro accused of beating Mrs. Vaughan to death with a piece of pipe was held in Granite, Okla., and Judge W. R. Ewing of the 31st district court was expected here tomorrow to consider plans for convening a grand jury to indict Washington. It was likely his trial would be rushed.

The case will be tried in Wheeler county where Mrs. Vaughan died, according to local officers, although she was fatally attacked in Collingsworth county.

Banker Shot to Death as He Takes Witness Stand in Court Hearing

LOS ANGELES, July 14. (UP)—Motley H. Flint, long a leader in Southern California finance, was shot to death today by Frank D. Keaton, middle-aged real estate broker, who selected a superior courtroom as the setting for the killing.

Three shots from Keaton's .38-caliber revolver struck the banker as he walked from the witness stand smiling and greeting Mrs. Louis Selznick, a friend.

"Why, how do you do, Mrs. Selznick, I am very glad to see you," were the last words Flint was heard to say.

Keaton was sitting in the second row of spectators. He was directly behind Mrs. Selznick and had a straight line of fire to Flint who was about 10 feet from his assailant.

The first shot struck Flint in the throat and two more struck him in the body as he fell forward almost at the feet of Mrs. Selznick, who collapsed. Flint did not struggle after the first shot struck him. Physicians said he died instantly.

"Oh, my God, oh, my God," Keaton mumbled. Then he threw the smoking revolver on Flint's body and slumped back into his seat.

Judge Frank C. Collier, in whose courtroom the shooting occurred, was the first to reach Keaton. He placed the man under arrest and two bailiffs snapped handcuffs on his wrists. Keaton offered no resistance. He spoke of a bank stock investment Flint advised him to make and in which he lost $4,600.

HANNERS FAILS TO MAKE BOND

Truck Driver Held in Slaying of Wichitan

Monday morning, when Blumhoff was shot. He told Mr. Anglin that he asked Blumhoff, who came to the door, whether Mrs. Hanners was there.

"He told me she wasn't in the house and I told him I knew better," Hanners was quoted as saying. "Then I shot him."

Blumhoff was found lying dead a few feet from the door. He was only partially dressed. A hole was found in the screen of the front door through which the bullet had evidently been fired. The door was still latched when police arrived.

Mrs. Hanners told officers she was in the house at the time and explained that she had been living with relatives here since her separation from her husband. They have one child, a 2-year-old boy. Blumhoff had been taking care of the residence at 2303 Eighth street, where the slaying occurred, while his mother and sister were away on a vacation trip in Washington, D. C., it was said.

Mrs. Hanners said she was in a room adjoining that in which Blumhoff was slain when her husband appeared. She said she heard the shot and returned to the room to find Blumhoff sitting on the bed, with the wound in his chest. She quoted him as having said, "He got me." She immediately left the room to call for help, she said. Blumhoff fell to the floor dead before aid could be secured.

The body of the slain man was taken in charge by the Dalton-Powell Funeral home. Funeral arrangements Monday evening were awaiting word from his mother in Washington, who was notified of the slaying.

Council Takes Steps to Regulate Train Whistles and Golf Courses

Stop Signs Ordered Placed at Rail Intersection; Putt-Putt Builders Must Secure Permit

Definite steps toward the prohibition of prolonged and loud blowing of locomotive whistles within the city limits were taken at Monday night's meeting of the city council, and the city attorney was instructed to draw up an ordinance regulating the installation and operation of miniature golf courses, which have been established numerously in the city during the past month.

Fred Weeks, author of a controlling ordinance proposed to the council three weeks ago for the purpose of forbidding the use of locomotive whistles to the point of becoming a nuisance, discussed the continued need of such regulation in an impassioned plea to the aldermen. Following prolonged discussion, a motion proposed by Alderman R. O. Harvey was unanimously adopted. It requests George D. Fairtrace, city manager, to have stop signs installed immediately at Holliday, Brook, Taft and Harrison streets where they intersect the W. F. & S. railroad, and also to address letters to officials of railroads concerned stating that unless operators of all locomotives within the city, limit the use of engine whistles to the volume and duration actually required by safety, a controlling ordinance such as proposed by Mr. Weeks will be adopted.

Various complaints relative to golf courses remaining open long past midnight have been received at city offices recently, it was stated. It was revealed that managers of these various courses signed an agreement recently to close their places not later than 11:30 p. m. The motion asking the city attorney to draw up an ordinance regulating the new pastime stipulated that it shall require obtaining of permit from the city to install such a course in the future, within the city.

W. E. McBroom, city clerk, was authorized to advertise for bids from local financial institutions for designation as the city depository during the fiscal year beginning Aug. 1, 1930.

The claim of G. D. Ireland, 2105 Broad street for $750 for alleged property damage resulting from the unusually high waters following the rains of June 13, 14 and 15 was denied by the council.

Members of the council heard a plea from E. L. Buelow, 1314 Giddings street, for cancellation of a 10 per cent penalty imposed upon him by failure to remit to the city tax collector before March 31. Mr. Buelow set out that his delay was the result of endeavoring to obtain a reduction in the last property assessment. The petition was denied.

BURK HEARS CANDIDATES

Geniality Marks Speeches Of County Entrants

(By Staff Correspondent)

BURKBURNETT, Texas, July 14.—Geniality and a tendency toward mild wise-cracking marked the second Wichita county political rally Monday night when 23 candidates for state, district, county and precinct officers presented their qualifications and platform to a crowd of around 500 people gathered at Main street and Avenue C in Burkburnett.

Three candidates for election as state senator from the 23rd district were the first speakers.

Roy J. Daniel, the first speaker, proclaimed his opposition to the state road bond issue, to any further tax on oil; his approval of the relocation of the state penitentiary on lands already owned by the state and his support of appropriations for education, including aid for junior colleges. Ben G. Oneal emphasized his interest in the oil industry as the basic one in the county, calling attention to what he termed its present "critical condition." He promised, if elected, to give his full support to any measures which the operators of the district might determine for its salvation. George W. Backus, the third candidate for state senator, promised all his time and the benefit of wide business experience in furthering the interest of the district, declaring himself as in favor of law-enforcement and opposed to the return of the open saloon.

Joe P. Hatchitt, candidate for representative of the 111th district, made his support of an amendment in the workmen's compensation act the basic plank in his platform.

A touch of fire was introduced into the meeting when Albert G. Walker, candidate for representative from the 112th (flotorial) district branded as a lie a rumor that he did not want the vote of the 1928 bolters.

"It was your privilege to vote as your conscience dictated," he declared, "and I'm not waving a bloody shirt." Early Van Deventer, Walker's opponent, warned his hearers that the railroad commission is seeking a monopoly on trucking, freight, and ginning, and promised to oppose the movement.

J. W. Akin and Judge Allan D. Montgomery, opponents in the race for judge of the 30th district court set the audience laughing with humorous exchanges, Mr. Akin explaining why he had resigned his post in 1915 and Judge Montgomery answering his own reasons for wanting it now.

The only personal exchange came when E. E. Fischer, opposing Judge Irwin J. Vogel in the race for judge of the county court-at-law, declared that 50 per cent of the cases tried in the court during the past 18 months had been reversed and declared that the court was "the biggest leak in the count's pocketbook" because of the cost of each trial. Judge Vogel answered with the assertion that he had heard the statistics and the accusation for the first time at Monday's meeting and asked for their sources.

Other candidates who presented their claims for election were George Hodgins, Sheriff W. G. Bralley, and Perry Browning, in the race for sheriff; Arthur Howard, Roy A. Jones, and Jim Robinson, for tax collector; L. V. Abernathy and E. F. Fruechte for count attorney; Burl Bryant, county superintendent, Mrs. A. J. Newby and J. A. Hood for county school superintendent; Dave Thorne and W. T. Vance for justice of the peace, George Skein spoke in behalf of the Cecil Storey for attorney general. Unopposed candidates introduced to the crowd included Mrs. A. B. Eichelberger for district clerk, Judge John P. Marrs for county judge, F. R. Knauth, county commissioner, and Max Shumate, tax assessor.

Governor Says Foe Seeks To Elect Friends

ing before the first primary, Dan Moody, the man whom they hope to succeed, issued a statement in Dallas, Monday, assailing his old enemy, Jim Ferguson.

The governor charged that Ferguson was attempting to extert an influence on Texas governmental affairs through three channels—the election of his wife as governor, the election of Cecil Storey of Vernon as attorney general, and the election of numerous friends to the legislature.

Governor Moody has not announced his preferences in the current campaign but Attorney General Robert Lee Bobbit, a Moody appointee, is running for a first elective term in that office and Ross S. Sterling, appointed chairman of the highway commission by Moody, is in the governor's race.

The governor said that Storey, a member of the legislature, voted for the amnesty law, the purpose of which was to permit Ferguson to hold office.

"While his wife cannot be elected governor, Ferguson's obvious purpose is for his friends to get control of as many offices as possible," Moody charged. "In some instances the office of attorney general has been as important as the governor's office."

Clint Small was in the lower Rio Grande valley Monday, speaking at Brownsville in the afternoon and at Harlingen at night.

While Sterling was the most active of the candidates Monday, making speeches at Lubbock, Plainview, Canyon and Amarillo, his Dallas headquarters received cheering news from Northeast Texas.

Barry Miller headquarters, however, received assurance from Clarence White of Clarksville, a supporter of the lieutenant governor, that Miller would carry Red River county.

Miller spoke at Orange tonight.

Earle B. Mayfield headquarters said that a great crowd heard W. M. Pierson of Dallas speak for the former United States senator at Terrell in Jim Young's home county Saturday night.

J. T. Gant, manager of a local cotton oil mill, was fined $100 and costs Monday morning in the county court at law after a plea of guilty on a charge of selling seed products with lower protein content than the law allows. Judge Irvin the bank with the intention of robbing it when McDaniel grappled with him and tried to take his gun, the sheriff said.

Otis Akers Found Insane

"During the scuffle the gun went off and McDaniel was shot. I didn't kill him; he committed suicide," Akers was quoted as having told Sheriff Speer. Acting Warden Baughn said Akers had told him a similar story of the holdup and slaying.

The man who attempted to hold up the bank escaped after a sensational flight toward Wichita Falls, in which he wrecked three automobiles and after each crash continued his flight in cars taken from motorists who stopped to offer help. Several bullets struck his car in a flying gun battle with citizens at Mankins, where an attempt was made to stop him. The bank robbery attempt and slaying took place the day following the holdup of a lunch stand on the Iowa Park road, for which Akers was sentenced to life under the habitual criminal act. Three other robbery indictments are pending against him here.

Physician Testifies

The prison physician and warden testified Monday that Akers is suffering from dementia praecox, which causes him to have hallucinations and delusions. Dr. G. I. Meyer, of the staff of the Wichita Falls State hospital, testified that persons suffering from that type of insanity rarely can be cured and that the sufferer is likely to become extremely dangerous.

Mike Anglin and George W. Anderson, assistants to the district attorney, said Monday that Akers would have to be certified to an institution for the insane by John P. Marrs, county judge. The case will be taken to the county court Tuesday. The prisoner will have to be kept in an asylum until he is pronounced cured and then will have to be tried again before a jury to establish his sanity before he can be returned to the penitentiary to serve out the remainder of his life.

BREAKS ARM

George Huckabee, 14-year-old son of Mrs. Cordia Huckabee, 201 Webster street, suffered a broken arm late Monday night when he attempted to crank an automobile. The youth was rushed to the Wichita General hospital but was allowed to return to his home after the two bones had been set.

J. Vogel and court officials said the case was the first of its kind to have appeared in Wichita county to their knowledge.

L. S. Tinnin, former Electra constable, failed to appear for trial on a charge of swindling and Judge Vogel ordered his bond forfeited.

NOTE MAY SAVE DOOMED MAN

Life Termer Offers to Confess Crime

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 14. (AP)—A scrawled note, received by Governor Holloway today from Elmer Moore, life termer at McAlester penitentiary, asked the executive not to permit the electrocution early Thursday of Claude (Blackie) Hager, 41 years old, sentenced to death for murder.

"Just a few lines to notify you that I am willing and ready to talk, and that I alone am guilty," Moore, 22 years old, wrote.

Hager was sentenced to death for the murder of Walter Harp of Ulysses, Kan., in Ottawa county in August, 1928. Moore, after receiving a life sentence on a plea of guilty, turned state's evidence against Hager who had traveled with Harp through the harvest fields that summer.

Hager's case had been affirmed by the criminal court of appeals, and the governor has completed an investigation, but today had not intervened.

"I don't want Hager to pay the penalty for a crime that I am guilty of," Moore wrote.

"To relieve my mind, I am going to make a clean statement. I am willing to come before you and make a statement that I am the guilty man."

DEATH PENALTY VIEWS PRESENTED

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 14. (AP)—Facing death in the electric chair at the McAlester penitentiary within 72 hours, Clause (Blackie) Hager and James Edward Forrest, negro, outlined their views on capital punishment in letter received today by the Oklahoma City Times, the one insisting that if it is to be retained in Oklahoma, "fair and impartial" trials should be guaranteed poor and rich alike, the other pleading against it.

To make judges "think twice" before sentencing men to death, Hager suggested that "if we are always to have capital punishment in the state of Oklahoma, and also in other states, I think that there should be law in force to make every judge execute each defendant that he passes the death sentence on."

Forrest, concurring in Hager's plan, viewed the present heat wave as divine punishment on Christian people for not "helping them that needed help."

Couple Held in Daring Holdup in Arkansas Hotel

CASSVILLE, Mo., July 14. (AP)—Accused of a daring holdup in a room in Rogers, Ark., a man who gave his name as C. A. Brown, 48, of "near Tulsa, Okla.," and Mrs. Dollie Reed, 30, today were held in jail here awaiting extradition to Arkansas.

Brown and Mrs. Reed, with Mrs. Joe Baker, a young divorcee, were captured by Sheriff William Homan of Cassville after a race from near the Arkansas line to Butterfield.

Brown, officers announced, was identified by George Dawson, prominent stockman and farmer residing 25 miles east of Bentonville, Ark., as one of the men who robbed him of $450 in Hotel Rogers Friday. Dawson told officers Brown and his companions pretended to arrange to purchase a farm and offered a $3,000 draft upon an Oklahoma bank with the understanding they were to receive $500 cash. Dawson said he obtained $450 and gave it to them when they drew a gun and forced him to hand over also the draft.

Dawson said the robbers "put the money in a satchel that had more money than I ever saw before in my life," and then left town.

Mrs. Baker was allowed to go to Monett to stay with a brother-in-law, but may be re-arrested for questioning later. Brown and Mrs. Reed refused to waive extradition.

Jungle Expedition Seeks Lost Flier

RANGOON, Burma, July 14. (UP)—A relief expedition was working its way slowly through the swamplands of northern Burma today to aid Eric Hook, British aviator, who was injured seriously when the plane crashed almost two weeks ago.

The nearly fatal end of the flight, which started as an attempt to set a new record, was revealed yesterday when word reached here from Prome, 200 miles northeast of Rangoon, that Matthews had staggered exhausted into the town.

Matthews said both he and Hook were injured when the plane crashed on the east side of the Arrakan hills, but that Hook's injuries were serious. The surrounding country was wild and swampy, and they had only a small supply of food. The drinking water was malarial.

Matthews decided to strike out for civilization, and taking Hook on his shoulders, he staggered through the forests for many days, until he thought it best to abandon his companion and make faster progress towards civilization, where aid could be sent Hook.

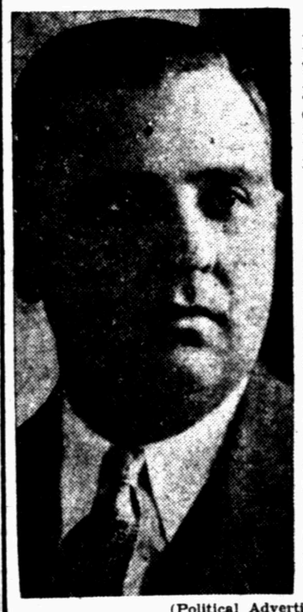

Prospectors Rush Silver Deposits

THE PAS, Man., July 14. (AP)—Tales of silver deposits along the waters of Churchill river, more than 150 miles north of The Pas, where Indian tradition for years held it that the precious metal was to be mined, held the attention of prospectors today. Two outfits were gathering equipment for a dash into the Granville lake era, north of Pukatawgan.

From time to time, for years, native Indians have brought out bits of silver from the Pukatawagan district, but the red man has never told the white where it could be found.

Prospectors who in recent years have ventured into the era have been balked in their efforts by the Indians who refused them information.

THE BATTLE CRY OF MODERATION!

Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. Avoid that future shadow* by avoiding over-indulgence, if you would maintain that modern, ever-youthful figure. "Reach for a Lucky instead."

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOASTED." Lucky Strike has an extra, secret heating process. Everyone knows that heat purifies and so 20,679 physicians say that Luckies are less irritating to your throat.

*"There is only one remedy for fat, and that is eat the right food... There are at least one hundred so-called obesity cures. None of these is permanent. All of these are injurious," says Vance Thompson, Ph.D., in his famous little book, "Eat and Grow Thin," published by E. P. Dutton & Company. We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky instead," you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

HANNERS FAILS TO MAKE BOND

Monday morning, when Blumhoff was shot. He told Mr. Anglin that he asked Blumhoff, who came to the door, whether Mrs. Hanners was there.

"He told me she wasn't in the house and I told him I knew better," Hanners was quoted as saying. "Then I shot him."

Blumhoff was found lying dead a few feet from the door. He was only partially dressed. A hole was found in the screen of the front door through which the bullet had evidently been fired. The door was still latched when police arrived.

Mrs. Hanners told officers she was in the house at the time and explained that she had been living with relatives here since her separation from her husband. They have one child, a 2-year-old boy. Blumhoff had been taking care of the residence at 2303 Eighth street, where the slaying occurred, while his mother and sister were away on a vacation trip in Washington, D. C., it was said.

Mrs. Hanners said she was in a room adjoining that in which Blumhoff was slain when her husband appeared. She said she heard the shot and returned to the room to find Blumhoff sitting on the bed, with the wound in his chest. She quoted him as having said, "He got me." She immediately left the room to call for help, she said. Blumhoff fell to the floor dead before aid could be secured.

The body of the slain man was taken in charge by the Dalton-Powell Funeral home. Funeral arrangements Monday evening were awaiting word from his mother in Washington, who was notified of the slaying.

Death Strikes Electra Man

ELECTRA, Texas, July 14.—William E. Tipton, 55, of Fowlkes Station, five miles east of Electra, dropped dead near his home about 11 o'clock Monday morning. Mr. Tipton was a member of a fishing party at a small tank near Fowlkes Station, six families from that vicinity having gone out for a fish fry, at the time of his death.

With a group of other men he was helping to seine in the tank and had just stepped to the bank of the pool holding a seine pole in his hands when he fell. Physicians were called at once but Mr. Tipton was already dead. The cause of death was said to be heart failure. The deceased had been a resident of Wichita county for the past 27 years, having lived near Electra for 17 years. He was born in Ward county, Texas. At the time of his death he had been working as an oil field employe on the J. M. Hemby lease.

Council Takes Steps to Regulate Train Whistles and Golf Courses

Stop Signs Ordered Placed at Rail Intersection; Putt-Putt Builders Must Secure Permit

Definite steps toward the prohibition of prolonged and loud blowing of locomotive whistles within the city limits were taken at Monday night's meeting of the city council, and the city attorney was instructed to draw up an ordinance regulating the installation and operation of miniature golf courses, which have been established numerously in the city during the past month.

Fred Weeks, author of a controlling ordinance proposed to the council three weeks ago for the purpose of forbidding the use of locomotive whistles to the point of becoming a nuisance, discussed the continued need of such regulation in an impassioned plea to the aldermen. Following prolonged discussion, a motion proposed by Alderman R. O. Harvey was unanimously adopted. It requests George D. Fairtrace, city manager, to have stop signs installed immediately at Holliday, Brook, Taft and Harrison streets where they intersect the W. F. & S. railroad, and also to address letters to officials of railroads concerned stating that unless operators of all locomotives within the city, limit the use of engine whistles to the volume and duration actually required by safety, a controlling ordinance such as proposed by Mr. Weeks will be adopted.

Various complaints relative to golf courses remaining open long past midnight have been received at city offices recently, it was stated. It was revealed that managers of these various courses signed an agreement recently to close their places not later than 11:30 p. m. The motion asking the city attorney to draw up an ordinance regulating the new pastime stipulated that it shall require obtaining of permit from the city to install such a course in the future, within the city.

W. E. McBroom, city clerk, was authorized to advertise for bids from local financial institutions for designation as the city depository during the fiscal year beginning Aug. 1, 1930.

The claim of G. D. Ireland, 2105 Broad street for $750 for alleged property damage resulting from the unusually high waters following the rains of June 13, 14 and 15 was denied by the council.

Members of the council heard a plea from E. L. Buelow, 1314 Giddings street, for cancellation of a 10 per cent penalty imposed upon him by failure to remit to the city tax collector before March 31. Mr. Buelow set out that his delay was the result of endeavoring to obtain a reduction in the last property assessment. The petition was denied.

County Tax Board To Hear Protests Aug. 6-8

BURK HEARS CANDIDATES

Geniality Marks Speeches Of County Entrants

(By Staff Correspondent)

BURKBURNETT, Texas, July 14.—Geniality and a tendency toward mild wise-cracking marked the second Wichita county political rally Monday night when 23 candidates for state, district, county and precinct officers presented their qualifications and platform to a crowd of around 500 people gathered at Main street and Avenue C in Burkburnett.

Three candidates for election as state senator from the 23rd district were the first speakers.

Roy J. Daniel, the first speaker, proclaimed his opposition to the state road bond issue, to any further tax on oil; his approval of the relocation of the state penitentiary on lands already owned by the state and his support of appropriations for education, including aid for junior colleges. Ben G. Oneal emphasized his interest in the oil industry as the basic one in the county, calling attention to what he termed its present "critical condition." He promised, if elected, to give his full support to any measures which the operators of the district might determine for its salvation. George W. Backus, the third candidate for state senator, promised all his time and the benefit of wide business experience in furthering the interest of the district, declaring himself as in favor of law-enforcement and opposed to the return of the open saloon.

Joe P. Hatchitt, candidate for representative of the 111th district, made his support of an amendment in the workmen's compensation act the basic plank in his platform.

A touch of fire was introduced into the meeting when Albert G. Walker, candidate for representative from the 112th (flotorial) district branded as a lie a rumor that he did not want the vote of the 1928 bolters.

"It was your privilege to vote as your conscience dictated," he declared, "and I'm not waving a bloody shirt." Early Van Deventer, Walker's opponent, warned his hearers that the railroad commission is seeking a monopoly on trucking, freight, and ginning, and promised to oppose the movement.

J. W. Akin and Judge Allan D. Montgomery, opponents in the race for judge of the 30th district court set the audience laughing with humorous exchanges, Mr. Akin explaining why he had resigned his post in 1915 and Judge Montgomery answering his own reasons for wanting it now.

The only personal exchange came when E. E. Fischer, opposing Judge Irwin J. Vogel in the race for judge of the county court-at-law, declared that 50 per cent of the cases tried in the court during the past 18 months had been reversed and declared that the court was "the biggest leak in the count's pocketbook" because of the cost of each trial. Judge Vogel answered with the assertion that he had heard the statistics and the accusation for the first time at Monday's meeting and asked for their sources.

Other candidates who presented their claims for election were George Hodgins, Sheriff W. G. Bralley, and Perry Browning, in the race for sheriff; Arthur Howard, Roy A. Jones, and Jim Robinson, for tax collector; L. V. Abernathy and E. F. Fruechte for count attorney; Burl Bryant, county superintendent, Mrs. A. J. Newby and J. A. Hood for county school superintendent; Dave Thorne and W. T. Vance for justice of the peace, George Skein spoke in behalf of the Cecil Storey for attorney general. Unopposed candidates introduced to the crowd included Mrs. A. B. Eichelberger for district clerk, Judge John P. Marrs for county judge, F. R. Knauth, county commissioner, and Max Shumate, tax assessor.

MOODY SCORES JIM FERGUSON

Governor Says Foe Seeks To Elect Friends

ing before the first primary, Dan Moody, the man whom they hope to succeed, issued a statement in Dallas, Monday, assailing his old enemy, Jim Ferguson.

The governor charged that Ferguson was attempting to extert an influence on Texas governmental affairs through three channels—the election of his wife as governor, the election of Cecil Storey of Vernon as attorney general, and the election of numerous friends to the legislature.

Governor Moody has not announced his preferences in the current campaign but Attorney General Robert Lee Bobbit, a Moody appointee, is running for a first elective term in that office and Ross S. Sterling, appointed chairman of the highway commission by Moody, is in the governor's race.

The governor said that Storey, a member of the legislature, voted for the amnesty law, the purpose of which was to permit Ferguson to hold office.

"While his wife cannot be elected governor, Ferguson's obvious purpose is for his friends to get control of as many offices as possible," Moody charged. "In some instances the office of attorney general has been as important as the governor's office."

Clint Small was in the lower Rio Grande valley Monday, speaking at Brownsville in the afternoon and at Harlingen at night.

While Sterling was the most active of the candidates Monday, making speeches at Lubbock, Plainview, Canyon and Amarillo, his Dallas headquarters received cheering news from Northeast Texas.

Barry Miller headquarters, however, received assurance from Clarence White of Clarksville, a supporter of the lieutenant governor, that Miller would carry Red River county.

Miller spoke at Orange tonight.

Earle B. Mayfield headquarters said that a great crowd heard W. M. Pierson of Dallas speak for the former United States senator at Terrell in Jim Young's home county Saturday night.

J. T. Gant, manager of a local cotton oil mill, was fined $100 and costs Monday morning in the county court at law after a plea of guilty on a charge of selling seed products with lower protein content than the law allows. Judge Irvin the bank with the intention of robbing it when McDaniel grappled with him and tried to take his gun, the sheriff said.

"During the scuffle the gun went off and McDaniel was shot. I didn't kill him; he committed suicide," Akers was quoted as having told Sheriff Speer. Acting Warden Baughn said Akers had told him a similar story of the holdup and slaying.

The man who attempted to hold up the bank escaped after a sensational flight toward Wichita Falls, in which he wrecked three automobiles and after each crash continued his flight in cars taken from motorists who stopped to offer help. Several bullets struck his car in a flying gun battle with citizens at Mankins, where an attempt was made to stop him. The bank robbery attempt and slaying took place the day following the holdup of a lunch stand on the Iowa Park road, for which Akers was sentenced to life under the habitual criminal act. Three other robbery indictments are pending against him here.

Physician Testifies

The prison physician and warden testified Monday that Akers is suffering from dementia praecox, which causes him to have hallucinations and delusions. Dr. G. I. Meyer, of the staff of the Wichita Falls State hospital, testified that persons suffering from that type of insanity rarely can be cured and that the sufferer is likely to become extremely dangerous.

Mike Anglin and George W. Anderson, assistants to the district attorney, said Monday that Akers would have to be certified to an institution for the insane by John P. Marrs, county judge. The case will be taken to the county court Tuesday. The prisoner will have to be kept in an asylum until he is pronounced cured and then will have to be tried again before a jury to establish his sanity before he can be returned to the penitentiary to serve out the remainder of his life.

BREAKS ARM

George Huckabee, 14-year-old son of Mrs. Cordia Huckabee, 201 Webster street, suffered a broken arm late Monday night when he attempted to crank an automobile. The youth was rushed to the Wichita General hospital but was allowed to return to his home after the two bones had been set.

J. Vogel and court officials said the case was the first of its kind to have appeared in Wichita county to their knowledge.

L. S. Tinnin, former Electra constable, failed to appear for trial on a charge of swindling and Judge Vogel ordered his bond forfeited.

NOTE MAY SAVE DOOMED MAN

Life Termer Offers to Confess Crime

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 14. (AP)—A scrawled note, received by Governor Holloway today from Elmer Moore, life termer at McAlester penitentiary, asked the executive not to permit the electrocution early Thursday of Claude (Blackie) Hager, 41 years old, sentenced to death for murder.

"Just a few lines to notify you that I am willing and ready to talk, and that I alone am guilty," Moore, 22 years old, wrote.

Hager was sentenced to death for the murder of Walter Harp of Ulysses, Kan., in Ottawa county in August, 1928. Moore, after receiving a life sentence on a plea of guilty, turned state's evidence against Hager who had traveled with Harp through the harvest fields that summer.

Hager's case had been affirmed by the criminal court of appeals, and the governor has completed an investigation, but today had not intervened.

"I don't want Hager to pay the penalty for a crime that I am guilty of," Moore wrote.

"To relieve my mind, I am going to make a clean statement. I am willing to come before you and make a statement that I am the guilty man."

DEATH PENALTY VIEWS PRESENTED

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 14. (AP)—Facing death in the electric chair at the McAlester penitentiary within 72 hours, Clause (Blackie) Hager and James Edward Forrest, negro, outlined their views on capital punishment in letter received today by the Oklahoma City Times, the one insisting that if it is to be retained in Oklahoma, "fair and impartial" trials should be guaranteed poor and rich alike, the other pleading against it.

To make judges "think twice" before sentencing men to death, Hager suggested that "if we are always to have capital punishment in the state of Oklahoma, and also in other states, I think that there should be law in force to make every judge execute each defendant that he passes the death sentence on."

Forrest, concurring in Hager's plan, viewed the present heat wave as divine punishment on Christian people for not "helping them that needed help."

Couple Held in Daring Holdup in Arkansas Hotel

CASSVILLE, Mo., July 14. (AP)—Accused of a daring holdup in a room in Rogers, Ark., a man who gave his name as C. A. Brown, 48, of "near Tulsa, Okla.," and Mrs. Dollie Reed, 30, today were held in jail here awaiting extradition to Arkansas.

Brown and Mrs. Reed, with Mrs. Joe Baker, a young divorcee, were captured by Sheriff William Homan of Cassville after a race from near the Arkansas line to Butterfield.

Brown, officers announced, was identified by George Dawson, prominent stockman and farmer residing 25 miles east of Bentonville, Ark., as one of the men who robbed him of $450 in Hotel Rogers Friday. Dawson told officers Brown and his companions pretended to arrange to purchase a farm and offered a $3,000 draft upon an Oklahoma bank with the understanding they were to receive $500 cash. Dawson said he obtained $450 and gave it to them when they drew a gun and forced him to hand over also the draft.

Dawson said the robbers "put the money in a satchel that had more money than I ever saw before in my life," and then left town.

Mrs. Baker was allowed to go to Monett to stay with a brother-in-law, but may be re-arrested for questioning later. Brown and Mrs. Reed refused to waive extradition.

Jungle Expedition Seeks Lost Flier

RANGOON, Burma, July 14. (UP)—A relief expedition was working its way slowly through the swamplands of northern Burma today to aid Eric Hook, British aviator, who was injured seriously when the plane crashed almost two weeks ago.

The nearly fatal end of the flight, which started as an attempt to set a new record, was revealed yesterday when word reached here from Prome, 200 miles northeast of Rangoon, that Matthews had staggered exhausted into the town.

Matthews said both he and Hook were injured when the plane crashed on the east side of the Arrakan hills, but that Hook's injuries were serious. The surrounding country was wild and swampy, and they had only a small supply of food. The drinking water was malarial.

Matthews decided to strike out for civilization, and taking Hook on his shoulders, he staggered through the forests for many days, until he thought it best to abandon his companion and make faster progress towards civilization, where aid could be sent Hook.

Prospectors Rush Silver Deposits

THE PAS, Man., July 14. (AP)—Tales of silver deposits along the waters of Churchill river, more than 150 miles north of The Pas, where Indian tradition for years held it that the precious metal was to be mined, held the attention of prospectors today. Two outfits were gathering equipment for a dash into the Granville lake era, north of Pukatawgan.

From time to time, for years, native Indians have brought out bits of silver from the Pukatawagan district, but the red man has never told the white where it could be found.

Prospectors who in recent years have ventured into the era have been balked in their efforts by the Indians who refused them information.

GRAHAM ROAD WORK FINISHED

City Accepts 5.3 Miles Of Paving

Special to The Record News

GRAHAM, Texas, July 14.—More than five miles of paving has been constructed in the city of Graham the past several months, the city council having at their last meeting accepted six units. Since the West Texas Construction company started work on their first contract in August, 1929, a total of 5.3 miles or 102,425 square yards of pavement has been constructed in Graham.

The total cost of construction of the pavement was $310,640.29. Of this amount $15,000 was provided by the bond issue voted a short time before the first contracts were let. Aid from the county was received in constructing the paving on Fourth street.

Father Held in Death Of Afflicted Daughter

WALTON, N. Y., July 14. (UP)—Counsel for Andrew L. Beers, 78, who admitted he killed his mentally afflicted daughter, Frances, 27, "on an impulse" last week, was to apply to County Judge McNaught at Delhi today for the appointment of a lunacy commission to examine Beers.

Beers, who said he plunged an ice pick into his daughter's brain because he feared for her after he was dead, is detained at county jail at Delhi on a charge of first degree murder.

The Suicide Trail
A Path for Cowards?
Defiant Mr. Gandhi
Accepting the Radio

By EMILE CAUVREAU

Life in New York proves too much for a psychologist, a stock speculator, a chauffeuse, a bricklayer and an ordinary workman. They all attempt suicide. The psychologist fails. The causes that drove them to end it all are no job, stock crash, connubial misery and "an alternative so much worse that there is no choice."

You will ask yourself: Does suicide require courage or is it cowardly act? These people were not all cowards. Their love of life was worn so thin through disappointment, grief, suffering, despair that they thought they could hold out no longer. Living, they reasoned, must be more than mere inertia or the performance of a physical function. It must be a joy. These people reasoned well. But hope is greater than logic. Hope would have saved them. Most people sustain themselves by the promises of tomorrow. Sometimes it works out. It keeps many people alive.

Mahatma Gandhi, diminutive, half-naked figure, weighing less than 100 pounds, defies successfully the British empire. He uses nonresistance as his only weapon—and he proves it to be mightier than the sword.

Nonplussed, Great Britain has recourse to ordinances centuries old, which wise Indians meet with silent Boycott, and which the British answer with sporadic arrests. The world looks on with interest at this spectacle of a non-Christian state using Christian gospel as a defense weapon against its Christian rulers.

Now that the Pope of Rome is installing a radio sending station in the vatican and will broadcast personally, the final shred of criticism against radio will cease. It was the same with the contempt held for vaudeville, until President Wilson pronounced it good and patronized it regularly.

All innovations have the same blind prejudice of opposition to contend with. For centuries the church tabooed the theater. Today they help each other. Moving pictures, and more recently the talkies, were frowned down upon by educators until educators found in them a useful medium of marvelous possibilities. Man is like that. What benefits him he will deify. What stands in the way of his material gains he will villify. And yet there is a truth about values which is above and outside human evaluations. But only men like Millikan, Einstein and Bergson bother about it.

In this day of sophistication and sex disillusionment it is still front page news that love is, with some, "fort comme la mort"—strong as death. A marriage, apparently forced on him, causes a young violinist in New Jersey to seek to end his own life and that of his true love. He is dying. His sweetheart is dead. They were not permitted to live together and they agreed to a death pact on an illicit honeymoon.

The artistic and musical young man could no more live without love than without air. His wealthy father had ambitions for him and how could the heart of his child plead against them? Even now he is obdurate. He did not understand his son. God help him!

War Vets Form Line To Battle Forest Fire

BEND, Ore., July 14. (AP)—Five hundred men, including 100 delegates to the United Spanish War Veterans state convention here, today formed a nine-mile long line to combat a spreading forest fire in the Cascade foothills which already had burned over 4,000 timbered acres.

Although controlled yesterday, the fire broke over the lines in two places and raged in yellow pine timber. Fire fighting units concentrated near Big Springs where the conflagration seemed the fiercest.

Wonder if husbands really expect wives to believe them when they send a vacation postcard home reading, "Wish you were here."

It is reported in London newspapers that Queen Mary smokes cigarets. Maybe that's why, when she steps out of the royal carriage there are a great many people there to help her to alight.

Some people can spend a more enjoyable vacation alone because there is nobody around to listen to their symptoms.

If you get sunburned on the bathing beach it surfs you right.

The Voice of the Flame

WHEN sober scientists undertake to put on a show, they can usually stage something that make ordinary vaudeville wonders look simple.

A group of the General Electric company's engineers the other day set up a radio device to make light waves audible, just for the edification of the convention of the American Socity of Civil Engineers.

First one of the engineers held a lighted match in front of a photo-electric cell. A dull rumbling, like thunder, came from an attached loudspeaker. Then a Neon lamp was passed before the cell. A steady hum proceeded from the loudspeaker. Following this an ordinary incandescent bulb was put in front of the "mouth piece," and a roar that almost shook the building was forthcoming.

There were other tricks of a similar order. A specially-made German lamp produced a noise like the siren of a fire engine. A Swiss lamp made a noise like a hoot owl. A battery lamp gave out sounds like the thumping of a bass drum. And so on, through marvel after marvel.

Now all of this, on the surface, may not look like much; but it is just a reminder of the fact that scientists have uncovered a whole universe of profound mysteries, lying hidden all about us. Listening to the queer noises made by light waves is a miraculous act, when you stop to think about it. The medieval alchemist hunting for the elixir of life was never on the trail of anything half so thrilling.

Tennyson, observing a common flower blooming in a chink in a stone wall, remarked that if he could but fully understand that bit of vegetable growth, from beginning to end, he "would know what God and man is." The modern scientist is in the same position. If one could fully understand this business of light waves that produce thunder, drum beats and siren wails, one would have a clearer picture of the universe than any mortal that ever lived.

All of which is just another way of saying that the earth is compacted of profound mysteries. The scientists are poking into these mysteries bravely, but each one when solved merely uncovers a new one beyond it. They discover just enough to demonstrate that we live in a world of wonder.

And that, perhaps, is their chief service to us. Who can be cocksure, in a world where the tiniest flame can speak with a voice like thunder?

Idols and Kisses

THIS episode of young Miss Amy Johnson and the man she slapped provokes certain meditations about the difference between male idols and female idols.

Miss Johnson, as you know, is the toast of the British empire nowadays because she flew, alone, in a second-hand plane, from London to Australia. She is being feted and dined on a lavish scale. And the other day, in Australia, an ardent young man stepped up to her automobile and kissed her.

Amy wasted no time. She hauled off and busted him one, leaving him with a bloody nose and a sincere conviction that a famous young aviatrix is not to be kissed with impunity. Which, of course, is quite all right—

But male flyers, or heroes of any kind, are different. Lindbergh was pursued by the kisses of many fair admirers and while he ducked most of them, he could never use his fists to convince any of the girls that he preferred to stay unkissed. That privilege is reserved for the feminine element. Any famous young man, apparently, must grin and bear it. It is only the girl who can swing a lusty right to stave off an unwanted kiss.

A Show-Down at Last

WE OUGHT to have a final show-down in the very near future on the London naval treaty. We shall soon find out whether our isolationists are going to be able to scare us into rejecting what is surely one of the mildest—to say the least—of all international agreements. One way or another, the senate will shortly be making a final decision.

It is just a little bit hard to be very patient with these bitter-end foes of the treaty. Their catch-phrase, "a billion-dollar purchase of inferiority," means so very, very little. Do they mean by it, that a billion dollars is too much for us to spend on our navy? If we do not spend it we shall never have parity. Or do they mean that the treaty limits our navy too greatly? Then we shall have to spend a great deal more than a billion dollars to reach the level they desire.

Until they make their position clear on that point, it will be hard to take their opposition to the treaty as anything more than a cheap political trick.

Ten Murders a Year

ENGLAND may be the mother country, but there are times when it appears that mother and daughter have very little in common.

London, for instance, has just reported a drop in its murder rate. During 1929, in all the London police district, there were only 10 murders committed. Yet the British aren't satisfied—for four of the murderers have thus far escaped justice. This is rather shocking, and Britain is writing to the Times about it, in staid indignation.

Ten murders in a whole year! New York, Chicago or Detroit would look on a record like that as being a near approach to the millenium. And any time the police of any American city can catch 60 per cent of their murderers they will be more than satisfied. The present ratio is a mere fraction of that.

WALTER WINCHELL

On Broadway

(Copyright, 1930, Daily Mirror, Inc.)

Logic

You tried to mold me to a drab design,
You claimed my ways would never, never do;
I had my choice—the taverns and their wine
Or, on the other hand, the gift of you.

I weighed the matter very carefully—
The first had been a haven all my youth—
And though you meant so very much to me
I really couldn't turn about in truth.

Suppose you'd changed me to a model lad,
And clipped my wings and trained me properly,
I'm certain you'd have been a trifle sad
When you had found what the result would be;
Why, my allure would quickly disappear
The moment you were sure of me, my dear!

—Don Wahn.

Is My Face Red?

Izzy Elinson of the Bronx (N. Y.) Elinsons, offers the probable reason why a certain Broadway columnist didn't play the Palace. The booking agent informed him that he was to do 15 minutes' time in his act and gave him a week to prepare the routine. The columnist submitted his act and after much coughing and aheming asked the agent what he thought of it.

The booking man looked at his watch and replied: "You are supposed to do a 15-minute act and your chatter consumes but five minutes!"

"I know," calmly answered the paragrapher. "The other 10 minutes will be contributions from the audience!"

Merciless Truth

Dan Malloy, the actor, who says jobs are scarce, stooped on the street the other day, to pick up a dime, which turned out to be a manhole cover, it looked so big to him.

Beg Poddon

It happened in one of the late places the other night. During a tense moment of the floor revue as the girls paraded in a few beads, a man struck his woman companion a terrific wallop on the face.

The dishes clattered to the floor, tables and chairs upset, the woman picked herself up, took her departure, with the man following her.

A lad at the next table proceeded to defend her.

"Here, here," cautioned an attache, "don't butt in. There's nothing wrong. She's just his wife."

Puns Upon a Time

Belle Bellhart can make up a sentence containing the word "diadem" like this: "People who touch bad likker diadem site quicker."

Greetings!

La Guinan, who is now doing penance on Long Island and the other gay place operators will be happy, one feels certain, over this darling paragraph. The King is dead, Russell Ryder, long live the king, Bert Friedlob.

Master Friedlob, 28, of that ducky little town, Chicago, now has Ryder's throne of Broadway's Biggest Spender. One night last week he left $1,750 in one hot spot, and his tips in three other asylums that night totaled as much. And so we appoint ourself a committee of one to kiss the newcomer on his brow in the name of Broadway, which needs him so badly.

And in spite of the Manager-Ticket Spec Agreement, Friedlob paid $225 for a pair of front row pews at "Vanities" Satdee eve'g.

In fewer words, Chicago tops us again, darn it!

Newspaperman Stuff

Henceforth the N. Y. Times will not accept passes for any event, except those for the sport editor (2) and the critic. The Times sports bureau usually gets 15 or more passes, but at the Sharkey-Smelly fight someone in the executive offices was overlooked and he complained bitterly to Major Adler of the newspaper.

Major Adler then issued a notice that the rag would not accept more than the customary pair of free tickets to any theater or sports event, with the exception of the pair for L. Wiley. All baseball pass books have been returned and, as a result, there is a miniature war going on in the otherwise respectable offices of the Times, with everybody suspecting the other as the author of the letter which started all the fuss.

Testimonial

Recently it was recorded here that the Lorillard Tobacco Co. is in the wrong building, for the first sign you see (as you enter their elevators) is: "No Smoking!"

Now we learn that the Western Clock Co., which manufactures the Westclox watches and clocks at La Salle, Ill., features a huge clock behind the information desk in the factory. The clock displays a sign which reads: "Manufactured by the International Clock Co., Endicott, N. Y.!"

Oop!

Sometimes pot-shots serve as boomerangs, as Rosy Cheeks Hellinger will tell you. Our confrere, who is now acting in vaudeville between columns, was among Argentinita's heaviest hammerers, but it appears he Can't Take It, himself.

You probably recall our cunning joke about his act—viz, that he complained to a Brooklyn manager about following a monkey act and the manager agreed with him, saying: "The audience might think it is an encore."

Mr. Aitch, who looks like that (without his makeup on), has this to say in rebuttal: "Mr. Winchell opened shows and that's why he never followed monkies!"

Look! Look! He doesn't know how to spell monkeys!

It Is a Small World

"So it would seem," reports The American Sketch and Tatler, "that the artist friend from New York had it wrong when she insists that the little New England town gossips because it is too small to be in touch with the affairs of the big world in which she dwells. Whether from New York, Boston or Gopher Prairie not only are Judy O'Grady and the Colonel's Lady sisters under the skin, but the Colonel himself and Pat O'Grady are as closely related as the celebrated Cain and Abel. If all the world did not delight in gossip, Walter Winchell would lose his audience."

"STEP-CHILD"

BY ROB EDEN

Having completely lost her memory as the result of an accident, Kay Smith is living with Mrs. Talbot, eagerly awaiting a clue to her identity. Kay loves Dane Talbot, who is friendly and sympathetic, but learns he is engaged to Julie Drew. Eavesdropping unintentionally, Kay learns that Mrs. Talbot distrusts her, so she runs away.

CHAPTER V

Kay hummed to herself as she hurried through the dishes the next morning, and flew around putting the little apartment that belonged to Edith Nason in order. She was happier than she had been in a long time. Edith's welcome last night, when her ring had aroused the nurse from a sound sleep.

The bed next. Edith had told her just how to lift it up, and push it in its closet. She found a broom in the kitchen, and swept the room.

They had overslept this morning, after their long talk that night, and Edith had only time to make breakfast and fly to the hospital. Luckily she was on a day case.

Edith Advises Rest

Of course Kay could stay with her as long as she wished. She was glad of her company. She mustn't think of getting a job just yet. Better stay here and rest for a while. This when Kay had said she wanted to work, to do something to occupy her time, to keep her from thinking.

Not now, Edith had advised. Later. In a week or two.

Kay had said nothing to this advice. The Miss Nason who had met her at the door last night, a kimono thrown hastily over her night dress, her brown hair falling over her shoulders, her eyes weary, sleepy, had surprised her. She was used to the Miss Nason at the hospital, spotless in white, the hair neatly tucked under a snowy, starched cap. This Miss Nason, who insisted on being called Edith, was a girl, not much older than herself, terribly sweet, and strangely pretty in her dishabille.

True, this morning she had put on a fresh, white uniform and cap, and some of her prettiness had disappeared into bright efficiency, but Kay could only look at her in amazement that she could transform herself so quickly.

The apartment was small, a living room, with a folding bed, a kitchen, tiny but well-equipped, and a bath. It was clean now, and the girl surveyed it with pride. She had even changed the water in the bowl of asters that stood by the window drinking in the autumn sun.

Hurrying into her clothes, Kay went out, the key to the flat in her pocket.

She was sorry to disobey Edith, but she must get a job. Perhaps when the nurse came home that evening she would have one!

She had shaken her head when Edith had asked her if she could typewrite. No. She coludn't. She knew that. For in Mrs. Talbot's boudoir there was a fragile pastel colored machine, which she had tried, only to find the whole thing foreign to her. Indeed, she had marveled at the speed with which Mrs. Talbot's maid-secretary had used it. No, she couldn't typewrite. Then she couldn't do office work, Edith had explained. The best thing to do when she was ready to get a job, was to go to a department store, and ask for clerking. Surely she could do that.

That was where she was bound now. A department store. She entered the first one she came to, and bravely asked at the information counter where she should go for a job. Walking through the maze of aisles, following the directions to take the escalator, she finally found the employment office, where several girls were already sitting waiting.

It was some time before she was called, and at last she found herself facing a gray haired woman over a broad mahogany desk. The woman was looking at her approvingly.

"I want a job—" Kay managed to say. She was badly frightened, and did not know why.

"Your name?" The woman's voice was low, and kindly.

"Kay Smith."

"Have you had any experience in a department store?"

"No—".

The woman's eyebrows lifted slightly. "Have you ever worked?"

"No—" Why was she asking all those questions? Kay's fingers gripped the desk tightly. Questions. Questions. All she had to answer. And she never knew the answers...

"Do you live in the city?"

The girl gave her Edith's address.

"How old are you?"

Kay hesitated, then bravely said, "Nineteen."

"Are you a graduate of high school?"

If the woman's face hadn't been so kind, Kay would have fled. She didn't think it was going to be like this—getting a job. The past she didn't know. Cropping up always.

"I—" she was going to say she didn't know, then checked herself —"I—yes."

"Live with your mother and father?"

Why did the woman need to know all this? "No."

"Oh, you're not living at home?"

"No." Kay wanted to scream it.

"Mother and father—living?"

"No—" Tears spurted to her eyes, and she made a tremendous effort to control herself. She was lying

In order to insure minority representation, each voter in voting for state representatives, may cast three votes for one candidate, or one and a half votes for each of two candidates, instead of one vote for each of three candidates. A similar system of cumulative voting for aldermen may be provided for by orddinance of the councils in cities organized under the general state law of 1872.

All three subjects are discussed in a group of illustrated official booklets now offered readers of the Record News.

Popular July Bride-Elect Honoree At Bridge Shower

Following close upon the announcement tea given Saturday by Miss Elizabeth Weldon honoring her sister, Katherine, whose marriage to R. Q. Davis is to be an event of July 21, party after party has been announced in the pretty bride-elect's honor.

Miss Mildred Sherrod entertained Monday afternoon at her home on Pearl. The house was lovely in the pink and green motif recognized as the bride-elect's chosen colors. Summer flowers in all lovely pastel shades made an exquisite background for the tables covered in cool green where bridge was played. Tallies and score cards carried out the same dainty pastel shades.

In the games, Mrs. Arnold Cureton won the first prize, a handsome box of stationery and presented it to the honoree. Miss Sherrod presented her honor guest with a lovely piece of French lingerie.

The guest's gifts were presented in novel form. A little negro red cap delivery boy brought the great bag of presents to the front door, saying Miss Weldon had lost them. Many lovely pieces of linen were numbered in the shower.

A delicious ice course, stressing the pink and green colors, was served to Miss Katherine Weldon, honoree, and Misses Catherine Kay, Dell Hatchitt, Josephine Kelly, Mildred Miller, Martha Ellen Hines, Mary Agnes Riley, Mary Ferguson, Frances Palmer, Camille Avis, Emily Mitcham, Elizabeth Langford, Jane Moore, Willette Jarrell, Helen Cline, Margaret Hines, Laura Mae Costley, Laura Lee Hampshire, Corinne Tucker, Katherine Weeks, Marilyne Miller, Lucile Harper, Mary Tancred, Elizabeth Smith, Kathryn Randle, Happy Whatley, Marjorie Wilhite, Ann Earl French of Fort Worth, Ann Wolsey of Dallas, Elizabeth Weldon, Zaidee McKinney, Marjorie Hines; Mesdames Louis Hodges, Arnold Cureton and H. F. Weldon.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

We have written a column on another subject, but having just seen Ruth Chatterton at the Majestic, we cannot help talking for a bit of this wonderful actress.

To us, a play in which Ruth Chatterton stars is a play for people of sentiment, of ideals and of character. And it is always a Ruth Chatterton play. The others, (though two in this cast, Fred Kerr as Lord Trench and Mackenzie Ward as Ernest were in the original production on the London stage), are her supporters.

As the actress on the English stage, this "first lady of the talkies" did not appeal to us so strongly. But once on her proper footing, she stirs the souls of those for whom she interprets a story.

The great homes supposed to be estates of English ducal families and the lovely grounds surrounding them are beautiful sights in themselves. The lovely Chatterton adorns them. They are her proper footing.

Put as it were, on trial before the members of her lover's family, she wins the heart of her lover's father. And she wins the heart of her lover's brother, who has for years felt himself bound in honor to a married woman.

Stark tragedy and comedy walk hand in hand. Lord Trench who is, we would suppose by his sibilant use of the letter "S," a wearer of false teeth, with his bitterly sarcastic wife, are cause for genuine laughter.

"Love," says Ruth Chatterton, "is a terrible thing." Love, that demanded honor before it could be perfect, took her real lover from her. Her heroism is the heroism she has shown in each play in which we have seen her.

Although the story leaves a lump in the throat as often as it brings tears to the eyes, it is one that, as we said in the beginning, will be of interest throughout, to those people who have ideals and character.

The bathroom scene is a farce; it does not react on one like those suggestive bathroom scenes where a woman's pretty head peeps over a screen. There is no screen.

And at the very last, you feel your way out with your eyes misty but glad that love, when it is love, is a noble thing.

Child's Training Starts in Cradle, Writes Miss Dix

Who Is to Blame When Children Are Rude to Their Parents? — Folly of Considering Marriage the Basis of Popular Approval—How to Appeal to Selfish Suitors.

Dear Miss Dix—I have two children, a girl 17 and a boy 14, and the only time that they are pleasant to either parent is when they are asking for some special favor. Although I have no help with the housework, I have never permitted them to do a thing, always saving them. I do not even ask them to go on an errand, and if they are reading and ask for a drink of water I bring it to them. They have plenty of spending money, but never want to go anywhere with us. Worse still, the boy uses bad language to us both and the girl is very snappy, yelling her answers when we ask her any question. They have no bad company to blame. The girl does not have any boy friends and the boy stays at home and reads all of the time. Please tell me that their bad dispositions will change because I am a —BEWILDERED MOTHER.

Answer—I wish that I could tell you that your children will outgrow their faults and come to treat you and their father with respect and honor and affection, but it would be folly to hold out any such false hope to you. Their dispositions will not alter. Their attitude toward you will not change. You have made of yourself a doormat and as long as they live they will trample roughshod over you.

Behaviorists tell us that a child's character is determined before it is 3 years old. The wisest man who ever lived said, "Train up a child in the way he shall go and when he is old he will not depart from it," and common observation bears out the truth of both of these contentions.

What we teach a baby in its cradle becomes its guiding impulse and settles its conduct through life. You have spent 17 years teaching your children to despise you and to look upon you as a slave whose mission was to serve them. You have taught them never to consider you or your pleasure or comfort; never to regard your feelings. You have taught them to be utterly selfish and self-ceptered.

For 17 years you have meekly submitted while they insulted you and their father, and now when your children are just exactly what you have made them you are surprised and horrified at the result of your handiwork. Yet how could you expect anything else? How could you cultivate selfishness in a girl for 17 yeras and then expect her to be unselfish? How could you abase yourself before your children and then expect them to look up to you? How could you let your children speak to you as they would not speak to a dog and then expect them to be courteous and deferential to you? Impossible. The habit of a lifetime of contempt for you is too strong.

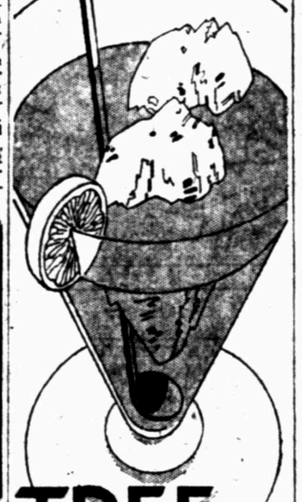

When children treat their parents as your children treat you it is invariably the parents' fault. Every, little child looks up to its father and mother. The desires of every child's heart is to reverence its parents, to depend on some one who is wiser and who has had more experience in the world than it has had, and when parents step off this pedestal it is their own fault.

Look about you and you will see that the fathers and mothers whose children love and respect them and are dutiful and helpful are those who have demanded something of their children, not those who have given everything and asked for nothing. It is the parents who have made their children bear their share of the work of the family and make their share of the sacrifices, who have the children who look out for father and mother in their old age.

By spoiling your children you have done yourself a great wrong because you have deprived yourself of the pleasure of having affectionate and dutiful children, which is one of the greatest joys life can give, but you have done them an irreparable injury that will handicap them as long as they live.

For it is just such pampered, selfish children as you have brought up who are the weaklings who sit down and give up when confronted with the hardships of life and who fill the divorce courts because they cannot find any other slave who will cater to all of their whims as their foolish mothers and fathers have done.—DOROTHY DIX.

Dr. Allen Rogers, Ph.D. University of Pennsylvania; Member American Chemical Institute; American Institute of Chemical Engineers; awarded Grazelli Medal, 1920; author Manual of Industrial Chemistry; Director Department of Industrial Chemistry, Pratt Institute.

Dr. Allen Rogers
Ph.D., University of Pennsylvania says: "As a Cleansing Dentifrice Colgate's has no equal"

Dr. Rogers is head of the Department of Industrial Chemical Engineering, Pratt Institute. His tests on tooth pastes and their action are of the highest interest not only to the public but to scientific circles as well.

WHEN a distinguished scientist like Dr. Allen Rogers announces without reservation that one dentifrice is vastly superior to all others, the world wants to know his reasons. And he gives them. Conclusive, scientific reasons. Backed by painstaking, impartial laboratory research.

Colgate's has no equal. Very well, why? It is a matter of low surface tension, as Dr. Rogers explains. "The sole purpose of a dentifrice is to give the teeth and gums a complete cleansing. It must, therefore, have the ability to get into the crevices between the teeth and remove the decaying foods.

"A tooth paste that has a low surface tension is the one that gives the best results. My tests indicate that Colgate's gives these desired results."

Nothing need be added to that convincing statement from one of the country's recognized authorities.

But if one should ask further scientific proof of these facts, there are such noted scientists as Dr. H. H. Bunzell, Ph.D., of the University of Chicago; Dr. Hardee Chambliss, Dean of the School of Sciences, Catholic University, Washington, D. C., and scores of others equally well known, who have been retained to make analytical tests and render expert opinion—and their individual researches agree entirely with those of Dr. Rogers.

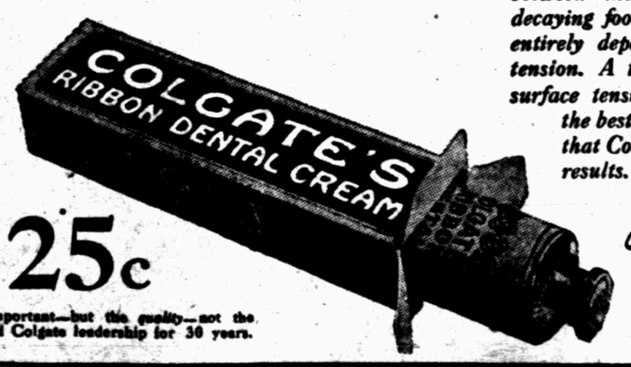

More people use Colgate's on dental advice than any other dentifrice today.

Dr. Rogers says:

"My tests reveal that Colgate's Tooth Paste produces the lowest surface tension. Since surface tension determines detergent or cleansing action, it follows, therefore, that as a cleansing dentifrice, Colgate's has no equal.

"The sole purpose of a dentifrice is to give the teeth and gums a complete cleansing. It must, therefore, have the ability to get into the crevices between the teeth and remove the decaying foods. This action is almost entirely dependent upon its surface tension. A tooth paste that has a low surface tension is the one that gives the best results. My tests indicate that Colgate's gives these desired results."

The Clean Colon

Keeping the colon clean probably is the most important part of keeping well. When most persons hear this, they may think of taking a carthartic to "clean them out," but this is not what I mean by keeping the colon clean. I mean cleanliness of the colon every day in the year, which means two or more natural bowel movements each day.

If you keep your colon clean you never will need fear the bad consequences of constipation. You automatically avoid auto-intoxication and headache, coated tongue, bad breath, cold, sores and general tired feeling which this condition of self poisoning brings with it.

An average of two out of every three letters which come to my attention from over all the country ask about a remedy for constipation. More persons suffer from this than from any other single disorder. They do not know how to keep their colons clean!

The colon is self-cleansing. If given a chance, nature is able to handle the elimination of waste promptly and in a manner which aids health. When Walt Whitman wrote, "I keep my bowel clean as my face," he was referring to this ability of the healthy lower bowel to empty itself. There is no need to rely on strong purges and cathartics.

The gorilla needs no caster oil, the savage no salts, nor does the civilized man when he learns a few simple rules about how to have daily, easily passed bowel movements.

By avoiding constipation you may avoid many troublesome complications. Appendicitis often is caused by constipation. One who keeps the colon clean and normal never will know that he has an appendix, and need not suffer the intense pain resultant on inflammation of this organ.

Piles are caused primarily by the same blocked, stopped up condition of the lower bowel. The large intestine usually is blocked by masses of poisonous wastes for years before it develops into the condition known as piles or enlarged veins which may become very annoying and painful. They never will be entirely overcome until the constipation which precedes them is done away with.

The person with a clean colon is not troubled with piles or other rectal disorders, such as fissures, in which the lining of the bowel is torn by the hardened masses of feces; and such things as colitis and itching may be avoided to a great degree by keeping the colon in a clean, toned up condition.

After observing thousands of cases of rheumatism and arthritis, I am convinced the true origin of most of the rheumatic tendencies lies in poisoning from the large intestines. Before the patient can recover, this toxic condition must be eliminated. The same condition is contributory to or precedes the majority of all diseases.

(Tomorrow: How to Keep the Colon Clean.)

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Nervous Breakdown

Question—Mrs. S. H. D. asks: "Is there any remedy for a nervous breakdown? If so, what is the best?"

Answer—The first thing to do is to find the cause of what you call a nervous breakdown. As soon as this cause is removed your breakdown will be broken up, and you will not know when it has disappeared.

Mono Diet

Question—D. M. asks: "Would it be wise to eat only on kind of food at a meal?"

Answer—All our study about food combinations would be unnecessary if we could be satisfied to live on a mono diet. Under this plan one would eat only one kind of food at a time, and as much as desired. The times for meals would be irregular, depending entirely on the return of hunger. This is the way most of the wild animals eat, and it seems to be the natural way, but does not fit in with our hurry-up age, when all our hours must be regulated. Under our present plan of living it seems almost necessary to plan for having meals at certain times, and those who try the mono diet plan soon return to using a mixed diet. Centuries of habits are difficult to overcome quickly, and a reformer is liable to lose all his friends if he changes to too radical a mode of living.

Pin Worms

Question—Mrs. H. asks: "Will you please give me your advice on pin worms both in adults and children? And how to treat them. Are they serious?"

Answer—Pin worms are not particularly injurious, but indicate an unclean condition of your colon which you can quickly get rid of through a short course of enemas, using them at least twice daily for several days.

Soviet Continues Industrial Plans

MOSCOW, July 14. (UP)—Relentless continuation of the policy of industrializing the Soviet union with the utmost rapidity and the abolition of private farming was indicated in resolutions, adopted by the Communist party congress, made public today.

The principal objectives remain, first, accomplishment of the five-year plan in four years; second, total collectivization of farms and abolition of the kulaks, or landed peasants, as a class; third, eventual elimination of all private enterprise. The Soviet Union would be made, as the newspaper Pravda commented today, "the invincible base of an international proletarian revolution."

The resolution of collectivization warns in the strongest terms against use of force, except against kulaks. It proclaims that a billion rubles (nominally $500,000,000) will be assigned next year for the assistance of collective farming, compared with half that amount this year.

The congress announced a merciless struggle for the suppression of sabotage and counter-revolution in industry. It was indicated that the policy of inviting highly qualified foreign engineers and technicians would be continued.

Embezzlement Suspect Returned to Texas

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 14 (UP)—C. R. Williams who is wanted in Oklahoma on charges of selling insurance policies without a state license is being returned from Albuquerque, N. M., to Breckenridge, Texas, Secretary A. L. Roark of the state insurance board, said today.

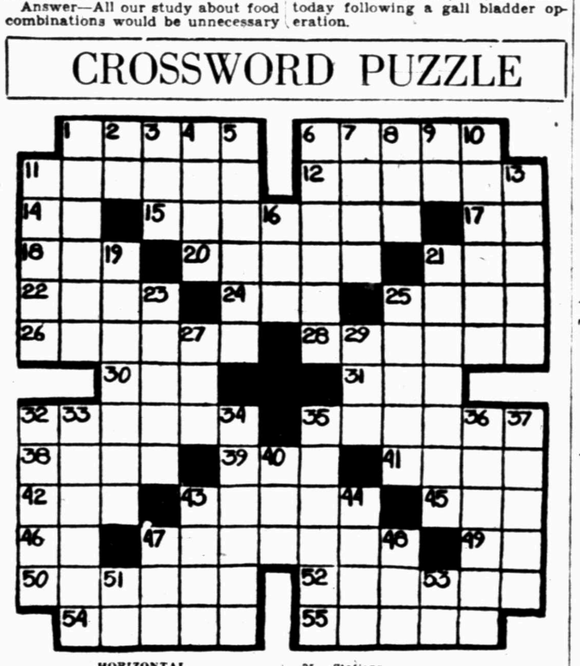

Williams will face embezzlement charges in Texas. He was arrested last week.

Oklahoma officials consented to not contest the Texas requisition for the return of Williams to that state, Roark said.

WILTSE MASTERS PAYNE AND SPUDDERS WIN SEVENTH STRAIGHT

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED D. THOMPSON

Sunday's great battle with the Beaumont Exporters was reeled off in exactly one hour and thirty minutes. It was probably the shortest game of this season, and some thought the quick work set a record or something. You know, every time something odd occurs, people begin thinking of records. Well, this game set no record whatever. Back in 1928, Joe Kiefer pitched against the Fort Worth club here and polished the game off in 55 minutes.

Sunday was a great day for the pitchers, that is, the winning ones. All the way from the sandlots of Wichita Falls to the groomed parks of the big leagues pitchers hurled shutout baseball, or engaged in sensational duels.

On the Jalonic street diamond here Gabe Harris nosed out Flip Hoskins 2 to 1 to enable the Dixon Motor company to win a close victory over the Sullivan grocery team.

Meanwhile, down at Athletic park, Earl Caldwell was registering his sensational five-hit shutout of the Beaumont Exporters, while Wachtel was shutting out the Cats, 6 to 0. And then we go up to the big time and find the Pittsburgh Pirates blanking the Brooklyn Robins, 1 to 0, and the Braves blanking the White Sox in a nightcap, 3 to 0. It was a great day for the winning pitchers.

Oscar Eckhardt may be the leading hitter of the league when you consult the record books, but as for being a real swatter we'd pick any man on the Spudder lineup first. Eckhardt hits with his feet, if you know what we mean. He can beat out the scratchiest hits! Nearly all of his blows are sordid little knocks between the box and third base. Yet luck seems to be with him, and the fielders have a hard chance getting to the ball. This luck, coupled with Eckhardt's undisputed speed in reaching first base, has made him the league's leading hitter. But during the Beaumont series here, of all the hits the big bozo got, only two were out of the infield. One was a home run, and the other was a double he hit in the ninth inning of Sunday's game. Now make your own choice, but I'd rather see a clean single by Jack Crouch, or Charlie Geygan, or Jack Kloza, or just any Spudder any old day.

We have learned on good authority that a new rule is to be inscribed in the by-laws of the national pastime, a rule made necessary by the introduction of night baseball. The rule is to the effect that if anything goes wrong with the arc lights during the game, and the contest is forced to a halt by the failure of the mechanism to work, the game shall be continued the next night at the very point where it was left off the night before.

Suppose for instance, that two men were on base and two balls and one strike had been called on the batter when the lights went haywire. The next night, when a new fuse had been plugged in or something, the two base runners would take their position and the same batter would go to the plate with the two balls and the strike against him.

The rule probably was suggested by an incident during one of Waco's recent noctural battles. The lights went off, you remember, and the game was delayed 15 minutes before the trouble was discovered. Suppose it had been impossible to make the repairs. There would have been no rule to take care of the situation, and the probability is the contest would have been called no game.

The Waco incident, we say, may have caused the Texas league owners to consider the new rule. On the other hand, another factor may have entered in. Many of the boys, you know, have a habit of approaching a friend with this: "Bet you five to one the Spudders whip the Cubs." Or something like that. And some of the better fixed boys have a habit of placing pretty stiff bets on the pastime. Now suppose a guy had a grand or so laid on a night game and his side was overwhelmed about the fourth inning. It would be very simple, you know, to run around with a pair of pliers and gum up the works.

This last idea, of course, is purely our own. It is hardly probable that the Texas league owners are inscribing the rule for the benefit of the bet placers. The rule is needed for the protection of the clubs and the players.

Tracing It Down

"Where is baseball first mentioned in literature?" asked Wylie Culbertson, one of the local wits.

"Dunno," says I.

"In the Bible," says he.

"Aw get out!" says I. "Well, what does it say about it then?"

"'In the big-inning . . .'"

Oh My, Oh My

Here's another coined by Hal Wiltse, the boy with the big blond smile.

Wachtel, the Waco pitcher—you know, Paul Wachtel, the spitballer—pronounces his name "Waa-tell." I enter the room and Hal booms: "Well, Wachtel you doin' here?"

Had you been down at the lot about 2 o'clock last Saturday afternoon, before the Beaumont-Spudder game, you would have thought the boys were getting ready for football and not a baseball game.

It happened this way. Shiver, Beaumont outfielder, is an all-American end, you know. Larry Bettencourt is an all-American center. About two bells, when the boys were coming in to warm up, Shiver yelled from the Beaumont dugout.

"Hey, Bettencourt," says he, "why don't you think of something else besides home runs? I'll get a football and show you how to do some blocking."

"Well, go ahead and get your football," booms Larry.

"Well, don't think I ain't got one," challenges Shiver. "I've got one right over in the clubhouse."

"Well, go get it then and stop talking about it," shouts Bettencourt.

And sure nuff, in a few minutes, out steps Shiver with a football, and he and Bettencourt started passing and punting, and both of them were darned good, too. Some of the other boys joined in and soon the park resembled a football training camp.

Speaking of Bettencourt, his great muscular body has started every player in the league talking.

When Cy Cashion of the Shreveport club was here he said: "That guy's even got muscles in his eyebrows!"

BUFFS DROP OPENER, 7 TO 2

Pitcher Hal Drives in Two Tallies

By FRED D. THOMPSON

Hal Wiltse met up with one of his old playmates, George Washington Payne, down at Athletic park Monday afternoon, and celebrated the reunion by leading the Spudders to their seventh victory in a row, the adept left-hander proving too much for "Old Rubber Arm" and his crew of Houston Bisons.

Wiltse, crippled by a sprained shoulder muscle which has dealt him misery in the last four games he has pitched, danced through the battle without once showing the hurt spot was bothering him and limited the Buffs to 10 hits, while the Spudders pounded Payne for 16 safe blows. In addition, Wiltse drove in the first run of the game in the third inning with a sacrifice fly, and his clean single over third in the eighth accounted for another Spudder tally.

Bettencourt Swats Another

Larry Bettencourt was back at his old game of knocking home runs and his circuit blow in the fourth which untied the score served as a starting point for the swatting which was to come. The game was the opener of the series here.

Neither side got a hit in the first inning. Peel, sent from the Cardinals only last week, got a hit in the second, and Levey's inability to hold the ball got another Buff runner on, but Burns threw to Wiltse at first to retire Hock for the third out.

The Spudders were held hitless in the second, but in the third Crouch opened up with a single to left. Geygan singled to right, Crouch going to third, and Wiltse's sacrifice scored Crouch. Levey beat out a bunt to third, Geygan going to second. Storti was thrown out, second to first and the runners advanced, but Fitzgerald fouled out to first.

Hunt opened the fourth for the Buffs with a single through second. Kaufmann followed with a single to left, advancing Hunt to second. Peel sacrificed, Geygan to Burns, Hunt going to third and Kaufmann to second. Selph hit to Levey, and Levey threw to Geygan for Kaufmann. Kaufmann turned back towards second and Geygan after a chase threw to Storti who made the putout. Hunt scored from third on the play, tying the score. Morrow grounded out, Storti to Burns, closing the period.

The Spudders resumed the lead in the fourth. Kloza singled to third and when Hock threw high to first continued to second. Burns struck out, but Bettencourt slammed a home run over the left field fence, scoring Kloza and himself. Crouch popped out to first and Geygan flied out to center.

The Tense Inning

Both sides went scoreless in the fifth. The Buffs made it hot for Wiltse in the sixth, though the southpaw was not in the least to blame, two Spudder errors contributing to the loading of the bases. At that, however, the visitors were able to make only one score. Hunt opened with a single to right. Kaufman was safe at first when Geygan bobbled the ball, Hunt going to second. Peel grounded out, Storti to Burns and the runners advanced. Storti juggled Selph's infield blow, and Hunt scored from third on the error, Kaufmann taking third. Morrow grounded to Wiltse, who tagged Kaufmann out between third and home, Selph going to second. Hock grounded the ball to behind first, and Burns failed to reach the sack before the runner, loading the bases. Things were looking mighty bad, but Wiltse got himself out of the pinch by striking out Pitcher Payne.

The Spudders resumed swatting in their half of the inning to score one more run. Burns lined a hot one through the box after Kloza had grounded out, third to first. Bettencourt singled to left and continued to second on the left fielder's error, Burns going to third. Crouch sacrificed to left, scoring Burns and sending Bettencourt to third. Geygan struck out.

He'll Try Anything

Five hits in succession in the seventh brought in two more runs. Wiltse flied out to right. Levey hit to right for a double but tried to make four bases on it, much to his chagrin. A relay from right to first to catcher caught him out at the plate by a mile. Storti doubled to right and went to third on the throw-in. Fitzgerald tripled to right, scoring Storti. Kloza singled to center, scoring Fitzgerald. Burns singled to right, advancing Kloza to third. Bettencourt flied out to left.

The final score came in the eighth, which Crouch opened with a single to right. Geygan sacrificed, pitcher to first, Crouch taking second. Wiltse then drove Crouch home with a single over third. Levey forced Wiltse at second, short to second. Storti doubled to right, Levey going to third, but an infield play retired Fitzgerald to close the inning.

Pitcher Payne, ace of the Spudder mound staff last year, was given an ovation on his first trip to the plate.

U. S. Davis Cup Team Selected

PHILADELPHIA, July 14. (INS)—Wilmer Allison, Austin, Texas; John Van Ryn, East Orange; George Lott, Chicago, and John Doeg, Santa Monica, Calif., will carry the colors of the United States in the approaching Davis cup matches, Joseph W. Wear, chairman of the U. S. Davis cup team revealed this afternoon.

The final selection of the American team was made in Paris today by Capt. Fitz-Eugene Dixon and communicated to Wear.

William T. Tilden II, who has staged such a wonderful comeback this year, will not be a member of the team.

The four youths give America one of the youngest teams ever to represent this country.

The exact part each man will play in the matches will not be determined until 24 hours before play starts. It is presumed, however that Allison and Van Ryn will serve as the doubles team, with either of these two and Lott or Doeg playing the singles matches.

Allison's splendid play of late has left the selection of the singles place somewhat in doubt.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, July 14. (AP)—A more favorable view of the weather outlook for the South and relatively easy Liverpool cables, appeared to be largely responsible for declines in cotton today.

July sold off to 12.77 and the new October contract to 12.53 making net declines of about 23 to 25 points and new low records for the season on these two positions. The general market closed steady at net declines of 6 to 12 points.

The market opened barely steady at declines of 12 to 17 points in response to the lower Liverpool cables and private reports of rains or showers in the Eastern belt with lower temperatures. Last prices showed rallies of 6 to 4 points from the lowest.

Cable advices received here from Liverpool attributed the relatively easy showing of the market there to local and continental liquidation on reports of better weather in the South. The detailed weather reports showed maximum temperatures ranging from 100 to 114 degrees at a large number of stations in the South over the week end, but according to some authorities the recent hot weather has caused very little damage and where there has been lack of growth or injury, it has been due chiefly to the need of rain.

Exports today 11,920, making 6,745,858 so far this season. U. S. port stocks 1,604,789.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, July 14. (AP)—While there were some spurts of activity in today's cotton market, trading on the whole was moderate and the price trend was downward. Much lower cables than due and beneficial rains in the Eastern belt were the main incentives to liquidation and selling by ring scalpers. After opening 13 points down and dropping to levels 16 points under the close of Saturday in the early trading prices rallied 8 points on covering due to the continued high temperatures but soon made new lows 18 to 20 points under the previous close on liquidation and selling due to the good rains in the Eastern belt.

The general market closed steady at net declines of 10 to 13 points. The market continued to ease off during the first hour until October traded down to 12.65 and December to 12.81, or 16 points under Saturday's close.

Prices made new lows in late trading on selling on the rains with October at 12.55 and December at 12.73, or 21 to 26 points below Saturday's close. There was a sharp rally at the end on covering, prices regaining 13 to 14 points from the lows. October closed at 12.68 and December at 12.73 or 10 to 13 points net lower for the day.

Financial Optimism Reflected In New Improvement in Stock Market

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, July 14. (US)—Additional improvement in the stock market, reflecting the notably more optimistic sentiment prevailing in financial quarters, was scored today. Among the more volatile issues, the net gains were very substantial and even among the leading stocks the advance carried many stocks up an average of over four points among the industrials, almost as much among public utilities and over two points for railroad shares. Throughout the day the market acted impressively, as though the bull contingent absolutely dominated it. The proper kind of leadership for a bullish performance developed last week and the constructive interests showed their appreciation by active sponsorship of their own particular favorites. Prices improved virtually from the opening of the market and only minor interruptions were witnessed. In contrast to recent market sessions, when dullness developed as prices declined, today's market was featured by a substantial expansion in volume as prices improved. For the day total sales exceeded 2,737,000 shares, the largest in weeks. The market continued to ignore a further sinking spell in wheat, but apparently the influence of the stock market's more favorable sentiment found reflection in the grain markets, for they also improved in the late trading to close up about a cent for wheat and proportionately in the other grains. Call money remained in free supply, the rate declining to 2 per cent after renewing at 2½.

Character of leadership was the principal factor in the noticeable betterment in sentiment which expressed itself in the price trend. Repeated declaration here that the market needed more than anything else proper leadership is fully confirmed in its recent action. There is unmistakable evidence of more aggressive sponsorship throughout the list, with resultant diminution of bear activity as the bears find their attacks not only repulsed but turned into somewhat of a rout in certain stocks. Credit for the development of decided leadership is extended to Washington, with the White House declared a leading spirit in inaugurating the prosperity-building campaign which this time takes the form of action rather than meaningless hopeful public declarations. Inspired by this leadership, many powerful speculative interests have been encouraged to become more aggressive and have discovered that stocks respond rather favorably to buying without bringing out undue amount of offerings.

General Electric, with a gain of two points, U. S. Steel, up 2⅝, American Telephone & Telegraph, up 2, Standard of New Jersey, up 1⅜, Consolidated Gas up 1¾, provided the desired leaders of the advance. In none of the highest-grade issues was the advance spectacular, strengthening the conviction that the buying was of higher type than merely short covering, although short covering undoubtedly contributed to the market's strength and especially to the sharp gains in specialties. General Electric was reported sponsored by one of the most active present-day operators. Vanadium was an outstanding feature of strength among the speculative isues, running up 7⅜ points as recent accumulation made itself more evident in the stock. Bears in this stcok have suffered a severe loss recently. Johns-Mansville, favored by the surprisingly favorable June building advices disclosing a sharp gain in construction contracts, was in demand and gained four points. The company's report for the second quarter, it is known, will make unfavorable showing, but with a revival of building activities its earnings will be among the first to respond. Worthington Pump, in which an aggressive group has resumed operations, jumped over 7 points, while Columbian Carbon was up 5¾. North American showed a gain of over 5 points on heavy short covering, while Electric Power & Light and other Electric Bond & Share issues continued to reflect more effective support. United Corporation was up a point. Sears-Roebuck and Mongomery-Ward were both higher despite the price-cutting.

Motion picture stocks were particularly well sponsored, Radio-Keith reflecting activity of its specialist, who returned from a short vacation. Interests active in R-K-O. seemingly are ignoring an anticipated unfavorable statement for the second quarter reflecting the condition more or less general in the industry. However, a reasonably fair half-year, it is claimed, will still result in earnings of perhaps $3 a share for the full year. Warner showed signs of additional short covering, while Paramount was well bought by people who recognize its strong position in the trade and probability that its earnings will show less fluctuation than other major units in the business. Fox and General Theaters were bought by strong interests identified with the stocks who had been more or less dormant for many weeks. The buying was induced not only by general strength in the group but also by belief these companies stand to gain much from the expected betterment in the trade later in the year. Fox has greatly stabilized its position by reason of the internal adjustment and affiliations with other powerful units, while General Theaters naturally benefits from the greater activity in the entire industry. Radio achieved a new high on the present recovery, closing at 41 for a gain of over a point. The strength was attributed to more aggressive sponsorship by its specialist, although another leading exchange member has been the most active in the issue.

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, July 14. (AP)—Good demand continued to feature the trade in cash wheat on the Fort Worth market as the week opened. Both mills and exporters were after wheat with bids showing strength. There were receipts of 606 cars here and other markets reported fairly heavy offerings. Exporters were bidding 91 to 91½c, basis delivered Texas gulf ports for ordinary wheat. Mill bids ranged 92 to 92½c basis ordinary No. 1 hard wheat delivered Texas common points, with 13 per cent protein bringing 92½c to 93c.

Estimated receipts of coarse grains: Corn, 10 cars; oats 29; barley 8 and grain sorghum 6.

Bids and offers on coarse grains ranged as follows, basis carloads delivered Texas common points, freight paid:

Corn—No. 2 mixed 97@97½c; No. 2 white $1.04@1.04½; No. 2 yellow 99c @$1.00.

Oats—No. 2 red nominally 44@45c.

Sorghum—No. 2 milo per 100 pounds nominally $1.70@1.75; No. 2 kaffir nominally $1.57@1.60.

Dealers also quoted as follows, basis delivery Texas group one points; No. 2 mixed corn 95½@96c; No. 2 white $1.02½@1.03; No. 2 yellow 97½@98½c; No. 3 white 44¾@45½c, to which add 1c for delivery Texas group three.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, July 14. (AP)—Crop damage reports from Canada and nearby states pushed wheat values upward as a rule today, but temporarily the market broke low price records.

The transient setback resulted from heavy sales in connection with a big movement of new winter wheat away from the harvest fields Southwest and West, and from movement of the spring wheat harvest in South Dakota. Export purchases of wheat appeared to be enlarging, however, and future delivery wheat offerings here were scarce as the day closed.

Closing quotations on wheat were nervous, ¾@1c per bushel higher than Saturday's finish. Corn closed 1¾@2c advanced, oats ⅛c off to ⅜c up, and provisions varying from 5c decline to a rise of 10c.

Capacity shown for rallying quick was an outstanding feature of the wheat market in the final transactions today. Fairly large export demand for United States wheat was in evidence, with higher premiums being paid at the Gulf of Mexico, No. 2 hard winter wheat there commanding 2½c over the price of September contracts.

Today's total receipts of winter wheat at eight domestic points Southwest showed a surprising large total, 5,383 cars. It was partly news of this heavy total which at one stage brought about new low record prices today. Subsequent scarcity of speculative offers, however, resulted in a quick rebound of prices, and the finish was but ½c below the day's top point.

Corn scored a late rally as well as wheat. Continued dry weather was a factor all day in the corn market which, however, acted for the most part in line with wheat. Oats followed corn.

Notwithstanding downturns in hog values, provisions averaged higher as a result of buying orders from sources east.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—July 86c, 90c; September 88⅞@89c; 92⅝@92¾c; December 94⅞@95c; 98⅛@98¾c. Corn—July 78c, 81c; September 76c, 78⅝@78¾c; December 69¼@69⅝c, 71⅛@71⅝c.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, July 14. (US)—The rallying tendency of the wheat market today in the face of constant hedging pressure and the heavy buying attributed to prominent shorts which developed on the break to new lows led to a more bullish feeling "on the curb."

Further hot weather and absence of rains would be construed as bullish on corn. The cooler weather offered a respite from possible damaging conditions, but the expected precipitation was not received. Receipts were heavier in the cash market, but they promised little pressure in view of the record low to which Chicago supplies have declined.

Siebel C. Harris, of Scot, Burrows & Christie, says: "A dry harvest in Europe is considered bearish, owing to the fact that plentiful supplies of new wheat are released immediately for milling purposes. Personally, we believe that this question of harvest weather in Europe is most important as we feel that a wet harvest would force foreigners into the market in a big way to protect absolute requirements, which would probably pull the market out of its present rut."

Broomhall today reported hot dry weather throughout Europe with harvest in full swing in Central sections. During the coming week, harvest will be under way in Northern France and Germany.

A cable from New South Wales reported renewed agitation for a compulsory wheat pool in Australia.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, July 14. (AP)—(U.S.D.A.)—Cattle trade around the 11-market circuit continued slow with demand centering upon the better grades of light weight fed steers and yearlings. An increased movement of western grassers helped to swell the receipts, but there was some abatement in the run of matured native grain feds. Steady prices were maintained on good to choice light weight native steers western steers were weak to 25c lower. and yearlings. But other natives and Packers were very bearish on matured fed steers scaling about 1,200 pounds. Chicago scored $12.00 on a short load of finished long yearlings and secured $11.75 for best weighty steers. Well conditioned heavy Texas cake feds at Kansas City sold at $8.35. Country demand for stocker and feeder classes remained narrow. Four loads of good 941-pound white faced western Kansas feeders in Kansas City landed at $8.10. Receipts were estimated at 72,200.

The hog market was slow with the lighter weights, 220 pounds and down on a steady to 15c lower basis and heavier offerings 10@25c lower. The day's extreme top of $9.85 was paid at Chicago. Total offerings were around 137,700.

'Firebox' Death Suspect Repudiates Confession

PORTLAND, Ore., July 14 (INS)—To his lawyer in Cumberland county jail this afternoon James M. Mitchell, 21, denied that he had made a "confession," either verbal or written, that he killed Miss Lillian I. MacDonald, whose body was placed in a firebox.

Defense Attorney Joseph E. Connellan said Mitchell repudiated his "confession," during a conference following his arraignment in court, where he pleaded not guilty as hundreds of men and women sought to catch a glimpse of him.

Connellan said that the defense plea probably would be insanity.

put your Telephone on Half-pay during Vacation

You'll save money . . . and spare yourself inconvenience when you return.

The Rumseys are going vacationing.

The milk's been stopped, the ice man has been called off, and the Man Who Delivers the Newspaper has been instructed to bring no more until further notice.

But the telephone will be left at home, drawing full pay in an empty house!

Something should be done about this!

Vacation rates for idle residence telephones

One solution (provided you're planning a vacation of 30 days or more) is to place your telephone on vacation half-rates while you are away.

It's a convenient way to save money. And—this, to folks who sometimes have their telephones taken out—it spares you inconvenience on your return.

That's because:

1. You pay just half the regular rate.
2. Service is reconnected quickly after you return—usually within 24 hours after you notify us.
3. You keep your present telephone number. (You'd lose it if you had your telephone removed!)
4. Your name remains in the telephone book.

If you wish, while you are away we will refer your calls to another telephone—that of relatives, for instance.

"Something should be done about this"

Vacation rates are available for periods of more than 30 days, but not over four months. They apply only to residence telephones.

To obtain them, mail the coupon below or telephone the business office.

"STEP-CHILD"
By ROB EDEN

to the woman, but it didn't matter. She was getting a job!

"I'm sorry," and the woman's voice showed she was. "We like to have our girls at home. Now if you'll give me some references—five business references."

"References?"

Presses Button

"Yes. You've had no former employer so we must have five references," the woman was tapping the desk with her pencil.

Kay's heart sank. Five references. She couldn't give them. The Talbots, yes, but she didn't want them to know where she was. And she knew no one else, except Edith Nason. Slowly she shook her head. "I can't."

"Can't give five references? I'm sorry then, there will be nothing for you," and she pressed a button on her desk, to summon another applicant.

Kay arose quickly, and ran out of the office. She could not get away fast enough. She had left the apartment so bravely, so eagerly, for a job. Thinking it would be easy to get. Never dreaming that the past about which she knew nothing would enter i . . .

It was an hour before she screwed up enough nerve to enter another store. When she was finally admitted to the employment manager her teeth were chattering and her face very pale.

The same thing. Questions. Horrible ones. Questions that brought her physical and mental pain, because she did not know the answers. This manager was not as kind as the first, and dismissed her curtly, after a few minutes.

"You look awfully tired," a girl sitting beside her at the fourth office said solicitously.

"I am." Kay tried to smile, but the smile was a dismal attempt.

"Any luck?"

"No, not yet."

"What do you want, clerking?"

"Yes."

The girl looked at her curiously. "You don't look the type."

"Why?" Kay was amazed.

"Oh, I don't know. Something about you. Have you ever worked before?"

"No."

Helpful Tips

"I didn't think so. Kinda hard getting a job the first time. I had a terrible time. Walked the streets for days."

"Most everybody wants references," Kay breathed sadly.

"Yeah, that's the way. New in the city, aren't you?"

"How did you know?"

"Oh, just guessed, and it turned out right. You'll get the hang of asking for a job after while. What you need is self-confidence, and a lot of it. Go breezing into an office, as if you're the only person in the world. Don't get scared. If you don't get a job here, you'll get one some place else. You're pretty, you know, and it shouldn't be hard—not with your looks." Someone summoned the girl, then, and Kay was sorry to see her go. When the girl returned in a few minutes, and announced she had a job, Kay's face lit up with pleasure, and she tried to steel herself for the coming interview. Despite the excellent advice she had, however, she drew nothing.

Her feet ached when she reached the street, and she felt chilly. Her coat was thin, unsuited to the fall weather. She scrambled on top of a bus, because there were no seats inside, and sat shivering, hugging herself with her arms to keep warm.

The first day—a failure. And she had thought it was going to be a success. Planned that when Edith came home, she would tell her the good news. A job. Well, there was tomorrow, yet, many tomorrows.

Her eyes looked down aimlessly on the moving traffic below. Cars creeping along, lines of them, worming this way and that. She found herself studying the faces of the drivers, peering down at them from her high vantage. Would it always be that way? Would she always be looking for someone she knew? Some familiar person.

All day in her tramp through the stores it had been the same. Looking into faces, longing to see someone she might know. Seas of faces, and she recognized none of them.

A low slung car ground to the side of the bus and stopped. Familiar. She had seen it before. Dane's car! She leaned over the rail and looked down. Yes, there was Dane driving, his fingers tight on the wheel, his eyes straight ahead on the long line of traffic. A gray hat on his head, a gray overcoat on his shoulders.

She wanted to cry out, call to him, but checked herself in time. No use. The signal turned, and the black car was speeding ahead of the bus. Finally she lost it in the jam ahead and settled back disconsolately.

Had he missed her? He must have. Mrs. Talbot had probably called him that morning when she found Kay missing.

Did he care, because she was gone? Or was he glad?

Mrs. Talbot, she knew, would be relieved. Julie, too. But Dane? Somehow she wanted so much for him to care.

All during the long day, she had thought of him, wondering what he would do when he found she had gone. Suddenly, she arose in a panic, and pressed the bell. She had gone five stops beyond her street.

Tomorrow—Kay is given ray of hope.

STATE—Janet Gaynor in "Four Devils." Talking short subjects and sound news.

STRAND—"So This Is London," with Will Rogers. Cartoon, "Radio Riot" and color novelty.

MAJESTIC—Ruth Chatterton in "The Lady of Scandal." Lupino Lane comedy and cartoon, "Noah's Lark."

GEM—"Navy Blues" with William Haines, Karl Dane and Anita Page. Comedy, "Meet the Missus."

It is surprising that a genius such as Ruth Chatterton should permit herself to be cast in such a flimsy plot as that of "The Lady of Scandal," with so many delightful successful plays of the type in which she appears to best advantage now available. I would rather pay to see her again in "Charming Sinners" having already seen it twice, than to see "The Lady of Scandal" the first time for nothing.

Miss Chatterton does more than one could hope for in the silly part she has. In the first place, the idea of all the lily-handed nobility being complete rotters and boors is emphasized entirely too melodramatically. Many an honest heart beats beneath silk pajamas, you know.

After all these continual unnatural happy endings, we are at last confronted with an unhappy one which is even more unnnatural.

There is even less excuse for the mock heroics at the conclusion of "The Lady of Scandal" than for the usual miraculous clinch and fade-out to which we have almost become accustomed.

It is criminal to ruin a good play with poor acting, but it is more inexcusable to place one of the few real actresses of the screen in a shoddy, unexciting, spineless thing that is only bearable because of her own charming, sparkling, desirable self.

Those who have been disappointed in it with me will be delighted to know that "Charming Sinners" will be brought back for one show on some Friday night next month.

FIRMS NAME REVUE ENTRIES

Junior C.-C. to Honor Beauties at Luncheon

Registration of a dozen new Wichita Falls firms for the entry of bathing beauties in the revue to be held at Lakeside park Friday night was reported Monday by members of the Junior chamber of commerce who are promoting the affair.

Of the concerns listed Monday as sponsoring entries in the parade of feminine charm next Friday evening, four announced the identity of the young ladies who will "wear their colors." Miss Opal Nichols will represent the Burnal-Jones Rubber company. Miss Dorothy Jackson has been chosen by the Zihlman Auto Supply company. The Fritz Motor company will sponsor Miss Fay Gillispie, and Miss Cleba Kimbrell will carry the hopes of Boone-Kemp, Inc.

Other firms reported Monday as having registered their intenion of sponsoring entries are the American Cleaners and Dyers, Rio Tire company, B. F. Goodrich Rubber company, Kent Tire and Storage company, Cline's Commercial college, Wichita Falls Cigar and Tobacco company, Sears-Roebuck company, and the Wichita Falls Ice Manufacturers' association. Others formerly announced include the Optimist club, Lakeside park, and the Langford-Hooker Insurance company.

Plans have been adopted for a called membership meeting to be held at the Kemp hotel Friday noon for the purpose of honoring with a luncheon the young ladies who will appear for local firms in the revue at Lakeside park Friday night. The luncheon program will be in charge of Will McKemie, chairman of the Junior chamber of commerce committee on the revue, it was said.

MORE GIRLS NEEDED

Registration of local merchants for entering representatives in the bathing revue to be held Friday night at Lakeside park has reached a number greater than that of girls who have volunteered for the contest, it was announced Monday.

Five more young ladies were needed Monday evening to provide candidates for the firms already listed as sponsors of contestants. Photographs will be made free of charge for use of sponsors at Bartlett's studio, 710½ Ohio, or Osborn's studio, 804½ Indiana, during the next two days, it was announced.

NEW YORK, July 14. Mrs. Moody's return was marked by mixed emotions, chief among them being a desire to get home to her husband as quickly as possible and dispel the homesickness that has beset her since she departed for Wimbledon to win the women's singles championship of that historic tournament for the fourth year in succession.
