Huge Slash In Automobile License Fees Voted By Texas House

MOTOR LEVIES MAY BE CUT IN HALF BY BILL

Gilbert - Murphy Hubbard Measure Gets One-Sided Vote of Favor

TRUCK TAX PRUNED

Light Opposition to House Bill Maintains Four-Hour Fight

AUSTIN, Feb. 25. (AP)—Encountering but feeble opposition, a house measure originally drafted by Representatives Gilbert, Murphy and Hubbard, providing a 50 per cent reduction in license fees on passenger automobiles, was passed by the house today in four hours.

The bill created aso a 19½ per cent slash in registration fees for smaller privately owned trucks, re-enacted present tractor licenses and provided an enlarged scale for obtaining revenue from trailers.

Majority of 100

Final passage of the bill carried by a 111 to 11 vote after adoption of several amendments.

Duvall, chairman of the sub-committe which virtually rewrote the original bill, said the cut in pleasure car rates would result in an estimated income to the highway department next year $8,918,339 as compared to $14,804,097 derived from present rates.

The loss from truck license fees will total about $300,000, Duvall said, because of a boost in license fees of heavier carriers.

Smaller Cut Rejected

In accepting 50 per cent cut in privately owned car registrations suggested in an amendment by holder the house rejected a 35 per cent decrease contained in the measure. It also voted down an attempt of Purl Kemble to obtain a uniform rate of $5 on all similar vehicles.

In making the cut, the house practically committed itself to sanction of a four-cent excise tax on gasoline which Tillotson, author of a bill in this direction, said would be necessary to turn money into the state treasury for highway purposes due to the loss from licenses.

Distribution sections of the bill provide that counties shall retain all of the first $60,000 derived from registration fees, that one-half of fees more than this amount shall go to he state, and that no county shall obtain more than $300,000 from this source.

Charlie Chaplin Seriously Ill Of Ptomaine Poisoning

Famous Comedian Ordered to Bed After Stroke While at Work on His New Production

CHAPLIN

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Feb. 25. (UP)—Charlie Chaplin, famous screen comedian, was reported seriously ill of ptomaine poisoning at his home here tonight.

As Chaplin prepared to leave for his studio he suffered a dizzy spell and fell to the floor. His personal physician, Dr. Cecil Reynolds, answered an urgent call and ordered the comedian to bed for at least five days.

While Chaplin's illness was believed to have been caused by poisoned food, it was thought possible that he was suffering from appendix trouble.

Officials at the Chaplin studio said that the actor had been bothered by his appendix for a number of years, but had refused advice of several physicians to undergo an operation for its removal.

Dr. Reynolds ordered Chaplin to rest completely during the five days. The physician said that even if the ptomaine trouble did not become more serious he would keep the comedian under observation.

While he described Chaplin's condition as serious, Dr. Reynolds said he entertained no doubt but that Chaplin would recover.

When Chaplin felt the dizziness coming on he asked for a glass of water, then dropped just as he was about to accept it.

All work on Chaplin's new picture, "City Nights," has been halted indefinitely and the large company of actors and extras on location was instructed that resumption of filming would be governed by the comedian's condition.

News Men 'Assault' Morrow and His Future Son-in-Law but Are Repulsed

Mexico City's Journalistic Brigade Meets Defeat in Trying To Learn 'When and Where'

By GEORGE A. SCHREINER
Universal Service Correspondent

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 25.—An anxious world will only be kept waiting for two or three days to learn when and where Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Miss Anne Spencer Morrow are to marry.

Colonel Lindbergh, blushing like a boy, today promised to "talk a little later—see me in two or three days." But today he was adamant—he had "nothing to say."

Colonel Lindbergh was visited by American newspapermen from the Mexican capital at the delightful sub-tropical retreat where the Morrows have their week-end home at Cuernavaca.

Morrow "Held Up"

What was virtually a hold up of Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow on the highest crest of the ranges between Mexico City and Cuernavaca was staged by the American correspondents this forenoon. On the same road where the ambassador narrowly escaped, at least on one occasion last summer an unpleasant interview with a bandit gang, he was not overly pleased when the combined forces of the newswriters swooped down upon him with their cars blocking the road for his own machine at kilometer 56.

Although the incident was not planned for that particular spot, the roadway at kilometer 56 is narrow and dangerous. I was in the first car that reached the summit, and I was scanning every motor that passed, and they were happily few. The flying dust made it impossible to see more than a few feet ahead.

Ambassador Smiles

Around a curve there suddenly swung the ambassador's car, the motor humming loudly on the upward grade. The chauffeur in my car shot out his hand, but for some yards the other car did not slow up. Then it came suddenly to a stop as the other writers in their car appeared in the curve.

There was a rush for the ambassador's car. Mr. Morrow smiled, a

McBride, working on the lights of his car, which he had parked alongside of the road, was injured when Hensley's car collided with the parked automobile, according to accounts of the wreck received at the hospital.

Mr. Hensley's wife and his father, J. E. Hensley, of Kendrick, Okla., arrived here Monday. The body will be forwarded to Kendrick Tuesday by the Merkle Undertaking company. Funeral services probably will be held the same day.

CASE AGAINST JOHNSTON ENDS VERYABRUPTLY

Prosecution Closes Fight to Prove Governor Is Incompetent

RECESS OBTAINED

Defense to Begin Presentation of Evidence Thursday

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 25. (AP)—The prosecution, which for two weeks had put testimony of scores of witnesses into the senate court of impeachment in an effort to sustain charges on which 11 articles of impeachment against Henry S. Johnston, suspended governor of Oklahoma, were based, concluded its case abruptly late today.

The defense immediately obtained a recess until Thursday morning to permit assembling of defense witnesses and preparation of the suspended governor's case. At that time, counsel indicated, it will have summoned 72 witnesses and will be ready to proceed.

One Charge Dropped

The prosecuting house board of managers dropped the eighth article of impeachment, which alleged that the governor illegally employed the militia to oppose the assembling of an attempted impeachment session of legislators here in December, 1927, thus reducing the articles to 10.

Thomas H. Owen of Johnston's staff of attorneys indicated in asking the recess that the respondent would take up each article separately. By agreement with the board of managers, the 11 charges were consolidated in the prosecution of the prosecution's case under the general charge of incompetency, to shorten the trial.

Mrs. Wray Testifies

The prosecution ended its case with the testimony of Mrs. George W. Wray, chief clerk in the governor's office, who contributed to testimony already adduced in an effort to show that Mrs. O. O. Hammonds, the governor's confidential secretary, dominated the governor and his office.

Questioned by John Head, chairman of the house board of managers through most of today, Mrs. Wray recounted a story of the governor's attempt to circumvent Mrs. Hammond's efforts to prevent visitors of whom Mrs. Hammonds disapproved from gaining audiences with the governor. Mrs. Hammonds, she said, insisted on censoring the visitors list and admitting only those persons whom she favored.

Secret Pact Made

Unwilling apparently to cross Mrs. Hammonds, Mrs. Wray said, the governor entered a secret agreement with Mrs. Wray, whereby the chief clerk informed the governor of the presence of the visitors whom Mrs. Hammonds sought to exclude.

The prosecution drew from Mrs. Wray a story of Mrs. Hammonds' interference with plans for decorating the governor's office in anticipation of a visit from Gov. Alfred E. Smith while Governor Smith was the Democratic presidential candidate.

SORORITY GIRL INITIATED AT FUNERAL RITES

Pauline Pruitt Inducted Into Organization During Final Service

VICTIM OF POISONING

Oklahoma A. and M. Co-Ed Well Known Among Young Wichitans

STILLWATER, Okla., Feb. 25. (UP)—Prevented by death from initiating Pauline Pruitt, 17, into the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority, members of the order at the Oklahoma A. & M. college here held initiatory rites today over her body.

The initiation for the girl was conducted as a part of the funeral services.

According to the girl's sorority sisters and her father, Dr. Charles Pruitt of Comanche, she essayed to take a drink of water at the home of her sister, Mrs. Kendall, here about 1 o'clock Sunday morning. She picked up a cup, not knowing it contained the furniture polish, poured water on top of the fluid, and drank the contents. She died several hours later.

Dr. Pruitt announced he would not authorize an investigation of the death, as he was assured it came by accident.

GIRL VISITED OFTEN IN WICHITA FALLS

Miss Pauline Pruitt, 17-year-old co-ed at Oklahoma A. and M. college, who died early Sunday at the home of her sister in Stillwater, Okla., after accidentally drinking a potion of furniture polish, was well known in Wichita Falls, having visited here often with relatives. She is a cousin of Mrs. Paul Steed, 2009 Jones street, and an aunt, Mrs. Allison Moore, lives near here on the Iowa Park road.

She was reputed one of the most popular girls in the school, and was well known in the younger set here, having spent most of last summer here. She was also here during the Christmas holidays.

Her cousin, Mrs. Steed, received first word of her accidental death Sunday night.

SCHOOL OFFICIALS TO INVESTIGATE

STILLWATER, Okla., Feb. 25 (AP)—An inquiry into the death of Miss Pauline Pruitt, 17, Oklahoma A. and M. college student, who died yesterday from the effects of drinking furniture polish Saturday night, will be made by college authorities, C. H. McElroy, dean of men, said today.

County authorities will make no investigation unless one is asked by relatives of the girl, Ernest F. Jenkins, county attorney said. Dr. Charles C. Pruitt of Comanche, the girl's father, said he was satisfied his daughter's death was accidental and the family would not request an investigation.

Dean McElroy said the college would investigate the case because of evidence that college rules against late dates and car riding at night had been broken.

Miss Pruitt, who lived at the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority house, had arranged to spend Saturday night at the home of her sister, Mrs. Kendall Hert. After a date with Claud Poole, prominent senior athlete, president of the student senate and president of the local chapter of the Sigma Nu fraternity, the girl arrived at Mrs. Hert's home.

There Miss Pruitt was said to have gone to the kitchen for a drink, taking the furniture polish, which had been left in a cup, by mistake. She returned to the living room, resumed conversation with Mr. and Mrs. Hert and another sister, Mary, it was said. She soon became ill, the three witnesses said, and asked Mrs. Hert what was in the cup from which she had drunk. Physicians were called and attended her until she died.

"Very frequently men hide in or under some of the many buildings within the walls, thinking they will get a chance to escape," Harrell said.

M'CLOSKEY AIDE DEFENDS BOSS

Secretary of Accused Man Upholds Alibi

AUSTIN, Feb. 25. (AP)—The defense's effort to establish an alibi for Congressman-elect Augustus J. McCloskey on trial on one of the five indictments charging election frauds was extended this afternoon to Charles Ramirez, secretary to the defendant when he was Bexar county judge and indicted with McCloskey.

Ramirez, not on trial with McCloskey, was described in testimony by Dave Dewhurst, the prosecution's star witness, as the man who actually faked the election returns by which McCloskey was elected.

John Tafolla and his brother, James Jr., testified that at the time Ramirez was said to have been busy changing the returns, he was at the Tafolla home taking a guitar lesson from John.

Ramirez himself next was called.

Ramirez' testimony agreed with that of the Tafolla brothers, and he then was asked the direct questions whether he had changed any election returns or assisted Dewhurst

Fifteen bodies had been recovered at 11 o'clock, and 30 injured, many of them negroes, were receiving care. It was impossible to obtain accurate estimates of how many more had been killed or injured and of the extent of property damage.

Buildings Wrecked

The business district of the town of 800 population was shattered by the wind which swooped down, then lifted and was reported to have struck in rural districts with possible death where farm houses were wrecked. Eight brick buildings in Duncan and one-third to one-half of frame residences were leveled in the storm.

An emergency hospital was set up tonight and the injured were being taken to Clarksdale and Greeneville for hospital attention after being given first aid attention.

But few men were left uninjured in Duncan to begin the work of relief and rescue parties were arriving from adjoining towns, which, according to early advices, were not seriously damaged.

Wind Continues

A high wind continued to blow, accompanied by rain and lightning. Relief workers said they feared little could be accomplished in dragging aside the disordered wreckage and counting the losses tonight.

Highways in every direction were mud bogs and blocked by broken limbs of trees. All surrounding communities, however, were organizing forces to go to the aid of the stricken community.

Seven-Cent Street Car Fare Voted By Council; Election Called April 2

The proposed hike in street car fare which has been pending before the city council for some time became an ordinance Monday night when the council voted to give the Wichita Falls Traction company power to raise its fare from six to seven cents.

The ordinance read at its passage that the seven cent fare would continue for six months and thereafter until repealed.

A new franchise will be written by city and traction company officials as soon as possible so that the fare can be set at a price which will pay the company cost of operation plus a certain percent of profit on the net investment.

The fare when the new franchise is enacted may be raised or lowered, as the case may be, to guarantee the traction company the "cost plus" or to protect the citizens against the company reaping more than the agreed profit from their operations.

The ordinance went into effect immediately after its passage.

On a motion introduced by Alderman J. H. Patton, the council voted

NORTHEAST TEXAS STORM KILLS FOUR

DALLAS, Feb. 23 (UP)—Two cyclones unwrapped their fury early today as they skirted across northeast Texas, leaving behind them four dead, at least nine injured and a property loss of a quarter million dollars.

The storm apparently started in a low pressure area between Dallas and Fort Worth and moved in a northeasterly direction toward Cooper, which is about 75 miles from Grand Prairie, the first town which was struck. At Cooper the storm dissipated its force.

Two negroes, Alfred Gibson and his wife, were killed at Grand Prairie as a tree crashed down on them when they sought refuge from the storm. Gibson, crushed, died instantly. His wife died en route to a Dallas hospital.

Storm Hits Cooper

The storm then dropped on the outskirts of Cooper, where it took the lives of N. F. Jones and his wife. Five others in Cooper were injured as 25 dwellings were laid low by the terrific wind which ripped a 200-foot path through the town. The damage there amounted to $50,000, according to estimates tonight.

Four persons were injured at Grand Prairie where the Gibson family was killed. A dozen houses were demolished there.

At Grand Prairie, the injured are: John B. Trigg, 60; Mrs. John Trigg, 64; Miss Leona Trigg, 19, and W. E. Meek, 23.

The storm apparently occurred in the center of a low pressure area which prevailed over northeast Texas early today, according to meterologists here. Heavy rains and hail fell throughout this section.

The Primtex Oil and Refining company suffered one of the heavy losses. Wind wrecked storage tanks, letting oil escape, and blew down smoke stacks.

THREE SMALLPOX CASES

Smallpox quarantines were placed on three Wichita Falls homes during the week ending last Saturday, according to the report released Monday by Dr. H. D. Fillmore, city physician.

MRS. OAK SUFFERS 20 YEARS; SARGON BRINGS HER HEALTH

through her community. Mrs. Oak was elated over her recent restoration to health by Sargon and made the following statement for publication:

"I read in the papers about the great number of people getting relief through Sargon and I bought some just as soon as I could find it in San Antonio.

"I suffered from inactive liver for twenty years and about three years ago I became so terribly rundown I could not attend to my household duties without stopping to rest.

"At times I would have such severe pains in my stomach after meals that I would have to run for the soda box. Dieting did not help me, and even the best medicines I could buy did not reach my case.

"But Sargon went right to the root of my trouble without losing a minute's time. I never saw anything like it. I felt better from the very first dose, and now I find that I can eat anything I want without any ill effects. I am not the least bit nervous and I feel so well and strong that even after I get through with my housework I want to be up and on the go.

"The Sargon Soft Mass Pills completely overcame my liver trouble and constipation. They act so gently that they did not upset my system or make me the least bit sick like other laxatives.

"I know from experience that the Sargon treatment will end stomach and liver complaints. I feel just like I have been made all over like new, and I want all my friends to know what this grand medicine will do for them."

Sargon may be obtained in Wichita Falls from the Rehfro Drug Co., Eight and Scott streets, No. 1 main store, and Seventh and Indiana, No. 2; and in Electra from Lough's Drug Store.—Adv.

in changing them. He replied that he had not.

The last of today's 30 witnesses was James McCloskey, aged father of the congressman-elect.

Through Eugene M. Bailey, clerk in the 20th precinct of Bexar county at the Nov. 6 election, testimony was adduced that at least one of the records offered by the state as feloniously altered in a plot to steal the election from Harry M. Wurzbach, only Republican congressman from Texas since the civil war, still was in its original form.

The rush of character witnesses included some of the most prominent men in Texas.

In seeking to establish the McCloskey alibi, the Rev. Robert W. Small, who described himself as a Baptist minister without pastorate and interested in relief and reclamation work, testified that on Saturday afternoon, Nov. 10, the congressman-elect was hunting doves with him more than 20 miles from San Antonio. It was at that time, according to evidence adduced by the state, that McCloskey was in a room in the Bexar county courthouse adjoining one in which Ramirez, under the tutelage of Dave Dewhurst, was faking the election returns.

The defense produced two witnesses who swore they saw McCloskey with the Rev. Mr. Small.

Council Votes Delay in Taxes

in favor of granting an extension on the payment of city taxes to April 1.

An announcement that the Fort Worth and Denver railway would begin repair work on the subways under their road along Fourth street was made by Alderman Roy Carter when he read a letter from the company stating that the work would begin March 4.

The latter asked that the city cooperate with the railway company during the period of repair by keeping the streets which pass under the tracks closed.

The council also voted in favor of backing any action taken by George Fairtrace, city manager, and the city attorneys in appealing the verdict rendered last week in the 89th district court in the case of D. G. Whitney against the city for pollution of the Wichita river.

A resolution asking for the Wichita Falls municipal election April 2 was passed by the council.

Election boxes, it was passed in the resolution, will be located in the Alamo school, the county courthouse and the South Side Baptist church.

A hearing on a petition presented to the council by J. G. Glass, asking a permit to establish a grocery store at 2201 Taylor street, was set by the aldermen for next Monday night.

A petition of the Magnolia Petroleum company for a permit to establish a gasoline pump at 508 Ohio street which conflicted with a city ordinance was referred to the city manager for adjustment, as was a petition from the residents in the vicinity of Seventh and Burnett streets asking that the city pay the full salary for a night patrolman of the section.

Construction Work On Church Starts

Construction work which will effect the completion of the basement and erection of one story of the main building of the Highland Heights Christian church, opposite the Junior college on Avenue H, was started Monday, according to officials of the church.

The foundation of the building was completed last year. With the completion of the basement as now planned, quarters for a portion of the Sunday school will be provided. The first story of the superstructure, which is to be built of face brick, will afford a large auditorium. It will be roofed temporarily, the roofing later to enter into the construction of the floor of the second story of the church.

City Purchases Bond To Protect Checks

A bond protecting checks issued by the city of Wichita Falls against alteration up to $10,000 was received Monday from the General Indemnity company of Rochester, N. Y., by W. E. McBroom, city clerk.

The bond protects the city against the alteration of the amount of a check or the name of the payee by standing for amounts obtained from checks which might be altered, Mr. McBroom said.

DRINK WATER IF BACK OR KIDNEYS HURT

Too much rich food forms acids which excite and overwork the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Flush the kidneys occasionally to relieve them like you relieve the bowels, removing acids, waste and poison, else you may feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, the stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get irritated, obliging one to get up two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste, begin drinking water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine and bladder disorders disappear.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive and makes a delightful effervescent lithiawater drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help prevent serious kidney and bladder disorders.—Adv.

MORROW AND LINDY SILENT

News Writers Fail to Get Date of Wedding

bit testily at first, and Paul D. Cravath, who was sitting on his right had a puzzled expression. Allen Dawson, third secretary of the embassy, sitting beside the driver, quickly analyzed the situation, probably recalling to himself the smart maneuver by which he spirited Colonel Lindbergh out of Mexico City Sunday night, removing him from the reach of interviewers.

After the greetings were over, the ambassador began to answer our questions with a laconic:

"I have nothing to say."

Questions Fail

No amount of coaxing could change his attitude. He made it perfectly plain that he was not in a mood to give out any information and stated that he would see the correspondents at the embassy later in the afternoon. He was returning from Cuernavaca to the embassy to continue his investigation of the kidnaping and murder of two American mining men from Guanajuato last Thursday.

"What are Colonel Lindbergh's plans?" he was asked.

"I have nothing to say. Neither the Morrow family nor Colonel Lindbergh will have anything to say. You fellows are wasting your time. You are going to have the same experience that every reporter has had at every town where Colonel Lidbergh has stopped. You had better go back to Mexico City. I will be pleased to see you but I will have no information to give you."

When Colonel Lindbergh made a remarkably well done getaway from Mexico City last night, only rumors remained behind. At the embassy nobody but a sleepy telephone operator and some diplomatic secretaries were left. There was nothing to do but to make an early start for Cuernavaca to find out when and where the wedding is to be. It was really, as one put it, a matter of life and death.

Lindy Next Victim

When the interview with Ambassador Morrow on the wild mountain road was at an end, it was painfully plain that the quest thus far was a failure. We had also learned that the ambassador did not favor our bothering his family and his guest at Cuernavaca. However, the word had slipped from the ambassador that the colonel might speak for himself, which kind intimation made it more than worth while braving more miles of the brand new road over one of Mexico's highest mountain ranges which is not infrequently infested with bandits.

Presently the pretty valley was reached and the cars bumped into Cuernavaca over a cobble road laid in the days of the Spaniards and seemingly unrepaired since then. Down main street our motor crawled until what seemed like an alley was reached. At the third door from the corner the Morrow home was indicated by the fact that a car with the United States shield was waiting.

Repeated knocking brought a genteel butler to the door and to him were handed the cards of the callers. His face showed plainly that the visit was not unexpected. Presently he returned, bowed politely, and led the group into a spacious parlor to the right of the main entrance.

Jury Completed In Nichols Trial

of the next two days in the special section of the court.

Examinations of the jurors Monday got under way after Judge Allan D. Montgomery overruled an objection brought by the counsel for the defense attacking the constitutionality of the law by which Judge Montgomery was appointed to sit in the 89th district court under instructions from Judge P. A. Martin, as presiding judge of the eighth administrative district.

Judge Montgomery is presiding all this week in a section of the 89th court, while Judge P. A. Martin, regular judge in that court, conducts another section. The arrangement was made through the terms of the "administrative judges act," which authorizes a presiding judge to shift district magistrates from one court to another where dockets are overcrowded. The law was passed two years ago, and its constitutionality has never previously been questioned, attorneys said.

E. F. Fruechte, attorney for Nichols, argued that two judges could not preside over the same court at the same time. He indicated that the protest would be carried to the supreme court if his client should be convicted.

Jurors Named

Judge Martin said Monday evening that the court of civil appeals in Dallas has already ruled on the question and held the law and its operation constitutional.

Mrs. Nichols and two small children, both girls, sat at the defendant's side throughout the long grind of getting the jury Monday. The jury as finally selected included M. Bookbinder, Burkburnett; Carl Sullivan, Wichita Falls; J. E. Humphrey, Electra; F. N. Kennedy, Burkburnett; J. A. Walker, Wichita Falls; C. A. Harding, Iowa Park; G. R. Tasker, Wichita Falls; Paul Reason, Wichita Falls; J. L. Pearson, Burkburett; B. C. Clemmons, Wichita Falls; J. T. Sadler, Wichita Falls, and J. H. Castledine, Wichita Falls.

Then the Lone Eagle appeared, smiling and debonnaire. He gave us the laugh at the manner in which he slipped out of Mexico City on us last night. Then he said that he was glad to see us, that he was glad to be back in Mexico, and then like his future father-in-law, began to answer all questions with:

"I have nothing to say."

During winter weather use Listerine night and morning and between times after cold or wet feet, or exposure to drafts or bad air in cars, buses or trains. It is pleasant, effective, safe.

BRIDGE WORK BEGINS MARCH 1

Company Sets Date For Scott Avenue Project

Work on the construction of the new bridge across Wichita river at Scott avenue will begin March 1, according to word received from the Luten Bridge company, contractors, by the county commissioners' court at its regular meeting Monday.

The word came as the answer to a query wired to the company at Little Rock at the suggestion of M. A. Bundy, commissioner from precinct 1, asking definite information after the beginning of the work. The company answered within two hours, saying their superintendent would be on the ground to begin work on March 1.

The court received a petition from property owners along the Electra-Clara road gap asking that 7 miles of road, connecting the pavements in precinct 2 with those in precinct 4, be hardsurfaced. The petitions, informally offered at the last meeting, was presented by H. C. Obenhaus, who with Charles Vanloe, was the spokesman for a group of half a dozen citizens of the district who called upon the court. Mr. Vanloe argued that the citizens are paying their part of the former road bond taxes and that they deserved a share in the benefits. The court told the petitioners that no money for the work was available and that the present was an inauspicious time for the presentation of a bond issue. It was suggested that the section might form itself into an independent road district and that it might be possible for the court later to reimburse the district for funds expended. The legality of such a procedure is to be investigated by members of the court. The commissioners expressed a desire to see the road built, but explained that the financial obstacles are serious.

Plans for the new superintendent's home on the county farm were turned over to J. M. Isbell, county engineer, for completion. Bids on the construction are to be received on March 18. The commissioners considered the question of employing a man to assist the county attorney's office in gathering information for delinquent tax suits, but no action was taken.

Aged Woman Near Death After Negro Tries to Burn Her in Furnace

ATCHISON, Kan., Feb. 23. (AP)—Gasping a story of being attacked and stuffed into her furnace by a negro houseman, Mrs. C. V. Jacobs, 53, wife of a prominent retired baker here, was close to death tonight.

Her alleged attacker, Louis Glover, 37, was spirited to an unrevealed place of safe-keeping before officers allowed her story to become public.

Mrs. Jacobs was burned about the head and shoulders and nearly suffocated, apparently from coal fumes, but was able to make a statement before she collapsed.

She told officers that Glover, their employe for a number of years, attacked her in the kitchen of her home, dragged her into cellar and forced her head and shoulders through the furnace door. Then, she said, the negro was frightened by the ringing of a doorbell and fled.

Officers said Glover at one time was an inmate of an insane asylum.

TEN SCHOOLS PROMISED AID

State Inspector Completes Wichita Survey

J. C. Griffin, inspector for the state board of education, will recommend that 10 rural schools in Wichita county receive financial help from the state during this school year, according to an announcement made Monday evening at the end of a survey of the schools asking help.

Mr. Griffin's report did not include the exact amount of the aid he will advocate. The schools are asking for a little more than $5,000 this year. The inspector explained Monday evening that state aid is based upon the physical equipment of the schools and that he finds the schools he visited in this county meeting practically every requirement of the state.

With Burl Bryant, county superintendent, the inspector completed his survey Monday, visiting County Line, Enterprise, Clara, and Cashion. The school at County Line is meeting in a church and in two adjoining shacks, the building itself having been destroyed by fire two weeks ago. Mr. Griffin announced that the school would nevertheless receive the aid of the state, its physical equipment having come up to standard before the fire.

Mr. Griffin had high praise for the rural schools visited at the end of his inspection in Wichita county. The buildings are good and well equipped, they meet the state aid requirements in ventilation, lighting, and heating, and the teaching staffs are adequate and well trained, he declared.

The inspector explained that the state guarantees six months of school to all schools which meet the physical requirements and which are properly using all their own tax funds for school purposes. His recommendations, based on the inspection here, will go in to the board of education at Austin for approval. Mr. Griffin plans to go to Archer county Monday.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

In the allocation of the fund the resolution provides that cotton planters may receive $8 per acre while other planters are limited to $3 per acre. No individual can receive more than $2,000 under this resolution.

SURPRISE

Costly Diamond Brooch Given Mrs. Coolidge By Friends

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25. (INS)—Mrs. Calvin Coolidge was given a "surprise" today in the shape of a magnificent diamond brooch—a gift from an unidentified group of her feminine friends and admirers in the capital.

The value of the brooch was not learned, but it is said to run to five figures.

Unusual precautions have been taken to prevent the names of the donors from becoming known.

The gift was made "in affectionate appreciation of her kindness and graciousness" as a White House hostess.

In the center of the brooch is a single diamond of nearly five carats, and clustered about it are scores of smaller stones.

BILLS RUSHED TO PASSAGE

'Sharp Shooting' Charges Fail to Halt Vote

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 25. (UP) Vigorous objection was made by Representative Dave Faulk in the house today against what he called "sharp shooters" who continually try to "slip their bills through" out of regular order.

Despite Faulk's objection four bills were passed on special consideration. Others were set for special orders later in the week.

"Sharp shooters" from Oklahoma and Tulsa counties who introduced the bills amending the children's employment statute saw their bill passed 76 to 3.

The measure permits children under 15 years old to perform in theaters providing the child is accompanied by a parent or guardian.

Property of corporations except public service companies would be made subject to the same tax assessment as property of individuals in another bill passed unanimously.

The bill was a committee substitute measure for a bill originally offered by Representative Watson.

The court clerk of Muskogee county is given permission to select as many deputies as he needs in another bill passed unanimously by the house. The salary for two deputies was placed at $135 monthly, and three deputies at $125.

Physicians attending prisoners at Granite penitentiary would be reimbursed by the state prison revolving fund in a bill that passed the house.

Representative Jones, of Greer county, author of the bill, told the house that Mangum physicians had performed major operations on Granite prisoners for 16 years without being compensated for their services.

'HOT DOG' JOE VISITS RUSSIA

But Just Any Other Country Would Have Done

By EDWARD L. DEUSS

MOSCOW, Feb. 24. (US)—"Hot dog" Joe Hitalkas, who made a million by selling what his nickname stands for, has come to Soviet Russia looking, as he says, for something new, yet edible, to wrap around a hot dog. He hasn't found it yet, but by the time he returns to the United States by way of Japan he hopes to have the recipe for something that will put the roll out of business.

"Hot Dog" Joe won fame a couple of years ago when the citizens of Scarsdale, N. Y. kicked out his long row hot dog stand because it didn't match with limestone facades, green lawns and shaded avenues decked with limousines. The school kids paraded the streets with banners pleading for Joe. In Moscow Joe also saw children parading with banners—red ones—and he said it made tears come to his eyes.

Lost In Court

Joe carried the hot dog stand case to the supreme court and lost after a long wait. Since then he made several trips to Europe. He visited his sisters in his native Greece. The name on his passport, he explained, was only 75 per cent of his real name, Hitalikidas.

"Now Joe," I asked, "give us the low down. People don't come to Russia hunting hot dog wrappers. They always come with a purpose—either to investigate something or sell something. There are no hot dogs here yet."

"Vell, it was like dis," he said, "I walked into the amalgamated tourist office in New York City and asked what dey had to offer. Vell, dey said dey had a nice delegation going to Russia, de land of mystery, politics and crisis. Dey said Russia's always tottering on de brink of collapse and I ought to see it. So I said I'd go along."

Students Like Him

The delegation—all tourists groups are delegations to Rusian reporters—visited the school of mines in Moscow among other things. The students, boys and girls, picked out Joe as a fine fellow. They posed for the cameraman with their arms about his neck.

"Why, Joe, did they slight the other delegates?"

"Vell, because I had the most clippings with my picture. They thought any man who got so much publicity must be an American senator.

"Tomorrow I'm off to investigate Sbbastopol and the Caucasus."

NEW AIRPLANE

PARIS, Feb. 25. (UP)—A new 600-horsepower airplane in which Captain Condouret and Captain De Maillynerie will attempt a transatlantic flight, will be put through test flights this week, preparatory to a projected flight in March, probably to South America.

Oklahoma Schools May Get Funds From Special Tax on Malt Drinks

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 25. (UP)—A measure to provide revenue for Oklahoma public schools by levying a tax on malt extracts and its derivatives escaped its death in the lower house today when it was committed to the appropriations committee.

This measure, making the manufacturer of beverages pay for education, was one of seven recommended not to pass in a committee report to the house today.

Other bills killed were:

An act authorizing county commissioner to maintain as county highways all roads used by rural postmen and in transportation of school children.

A measure providing fees of $3 a day and 10 cents mileage for all witnesses appearing in courts of the state.

An act raising salaries of deputy court clerks in Kiowa county.

A bill allowing the police judge-mayor of all towns under 20,000 population to appoint one of the town's magistrates.

A measure allowing the statutes giving liens for inn keepers, hotel owners, and boarding house managers to relate to keepers of residences or apartment houses where light housekeeping rooms are rented.

A bill establishing a lien upon motor vehicles in favor of persons sustaining injuries.

Corporation Board Hears Applicants

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 25. (UP)—Application for a state motor permit for operating between Oklahoma City and Alva via Enid and Cherokee was asked today of the corporation commission by R. W. Scott, Winfield, Kan.

The hearing was set for March 4.

The Orient railroad also filed application with the corporation commission to consolidate its station facilities at Cherokee with the Santa Fe railroad. The hearing was set for March 11.

A permit to sell ice at Harjo and in the adjacent oil fields in Pottawatomie county asked by Bill Callin, Harjo, will be decided March 12.

The case of W. E. Nix, asking for an application for a freight motor certificate between Erick and Elk City was continued today until March 4.

Cop Intercepts Booze Delivery at Speakeasy

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 25. (UP)—A telephone rang in a downtown liquor sales room here today shortly after police had raided the place. "This is Arthur," the voice on the wire told a policeman. "Send a couple of cars to the wharf. Your shipment for today is ready." The cars were sent and returned with Arthur, and 80 gallons of confiscated liquor.

Rivers Threaten Farming Lands

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25. (UP)—The great rivers of the United States are slowly but surely eating away the farm lands, according to Hugh H. Bennett of the agriculture department.

In a statement issued today, Bennett points out that 513,000,000 tons of soil are washed out to sea each year with the Mississippi river alone responsible for 428,000,000 tons of this wastage.

The amount is so vast that if it could be loaded in two-ton trucks, it would take more than eight years to pass a given point at the rate of one truck a second.

"This is a loss we have not stressed in our land inventories," Bennett said, "yet it is about 21 times the annual net loss of plant foods taken out of the field by all the crops that are harvested.

Measured on a basis of chemical analysis, the value of the phosphorus, potassium and nitrogen contained in the material washed from the fields each year would cost something in excess of $2,000,000,000."

Terracing of fields, wise forestry conservation and grazing of sharply sloping lands are some of the means of checking the erosion offered by Bennett.

ECKENER'S SON GETS POSITION

Son of Graf Zeppelin's Chief to Work in U. S.

By KARL H. VON WEIGAND

BERLIN, Feb. 25. (US)—Knut Eckener, son of Commander Hugo Eckener and hero of the transatlantic flight of the Graf Zeppelin, will soon leave for America to enter the service of the Goodyear Zeppelin company, of Akron, Ohio.

Young Eckener is an expert construction engineer, and his father is loaning him to the Goodyear firm to work on the two new giant Zeppelins that are being built at Akron for the American navy.

Satisfactory agreement has been reached between Commander Eckener and the government in their conferences here for projected flights of the Graf Zeppelin. Eckener is not abandoning his Orient flight which will be made Easter week as planned. Egypt, however, has been taken off the itinerary because of the unfriendly attitude of the British government.

The government has agreed to build a new and larger airship hangar at Friedrichshafen, which assures the building of a new super-Zeppelin by Dr. Eckener. This latter project has been privately financed already. The design which has been accepted by Dr. Eckener and Chief Constructor Doerr for Germany's next great airship calls for 4,400 maximum horsepower by eight motors mounted in tandem in four gondolas. The ship will have a maximum speed of 90 miles an hour, with an 80-mile-an-hour cruising speed.

Through an amicable understanding between the government and Dr. Eckener, it is now assured that the Graf Zeppelin will be at the disposal of the Aero-Arctic society and Dr. Nansen next year for polar explorations.

World Without Clothes Predicted

LONDON, Feb. 25. (UP)—A future "world of nakedness" is visualized by John Langdon Davies, in his new book "Future of Nakedness," released today.

"We value people by their clothes, judge them by clothes, fall in love with them by clothes," says Baker, "and all sorts of unfortunate things might happen if our standard of judgment suddenly disappeared.

"Nakedness then, in order to safeguard civilization, should only be permitted to those who neither offend the eyes nor fall below a certain intellectual standard."

The author then offers an alternative for intelligent people who lack the proper physical requirements, saying:

"Very intelligent people, who could not qualify for nakedness, might even be permitted to wear ear rings or spats."

"I am strong for Luckies."

Celebrated Screen Star

"Motion picture actors are under a great strain—they need the comforting qualities of a good cigarette. That is why most of us smoke Lucky Strike. The marvelous toasted flavor of Luckies brings complete enjoyment and relaxation but does not hurt the throat or wind. I am strong for Luckies—they are the 'stars' of the cigarette picture. I would rather have a Lucky after a meal than rich pastries or desserts."

JOHN GILBERT

The modern common sense way—reach for a Lucky instead of a fattening sweet. Everyone is doing it—men keep healthy and fit, women retain a trim figure. Lucky Strike, the finest tobaccos, skilfully blended, then toasted to develop a flavor which is a delightful alternative for that craving for fattening sweets.

Toasting frees Lucky Strike from impurities. 20,679 physicians recognize this when they say Luckies are less irritating than other cigarettes. That's why folks say: "It's good to smoke Luckies."

Note: Authorities attribute the enormous increase in Cigarette smoking to the improvement in the process of Cigarette manufacture by the application of heat. It is true that during 1928, Lucky Strike Cigarettes showed a greater increase than all other Cigarettes combined. This surely confirms the public's confidence in the superiority of Lucky Strike.

GIRL MAY WED KING'S COUSIN

'Developments' Expected In Royal Romance

By GEORGE W. HINMAN JR.

PARIS, Feb. 25. (US)—The oft repeated and as often denied report that Mabelle Gillman Corey is to marry Don Luis Ferdinand De Bourbon, cousin of King Alfonso, of Spain, seems at last nearing fulfillment.

While the prospective bride insistently maintains that the report of her engagement to Don Luis still is as untrue as when last denied, she admits that the next fortnight may bring developments.

The fact is that negotiaions for financial settlements which customarily precede such European marriages already are in progress, with every prospect of an agreement being reached shortly. The former star of the broadway stage is relying greatly on her erstwhile husband, William E. Corey, Pittsburgh steel magnate, whom she divorced some years ago after a marriage which attracted nation-wide attention.

Mabelle has just returned from San Remo where both she and Don Luis were visiting. She passed today at her chateau in the outskirts of Paris, which, it's understood, she would like to sell for a golf club or as another fashionable gathering place. It's known that Mrs. Corey considers her chateau as too large and costly of upkeep to suit her present purposes.

Don Luis recently had difficulties with his royal cousin, King Alfonso, following a Parisian incident which involved Don Luis with the French authorities to the extent that he found it necessary to leave the capital. Alfonso was known to be highly irritated at the time when his cousin's detention by the French police received much publicity in the Paris press.

Don Luis now is at Rapallo.

Frocks to Be Less Expensive in '29, Says Style Expert

By PEARL GROSS
Universal Service Staff

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—Whether by accident or by design clothes are less expensive this season than ever before.

One of the most exclusive and smartest shops here startled sleek Fifth avenue this week by advertising spring ensembles for $19.75 and this—to those who know their Fifth avenue—is news indeed.

Somehow, the fashion ateliers have decided that if clothes are a little more attractive to madame's pocketbook, she will buy more. It is true that one dress, as exclusively priced as it is fashionable, somewhat curtails the dress budget of those who like to be in style and at the same time have a wide selection in personal wardrobe.

Thus the shopkeepers have figured out that volume is preferable to occasional sales—somehow they have it all reckoned on a basis of budgeting. But whatever it means economically as to sales it is a welcome relief to the shopper.

Lace Frocks

For instance, a lace frock used to be a luxurious addition to the wardrobe. These filmy, fragile affairs of fairy webwork were right expensive. To refer to Fifth avenue again—one of the "veriest" of the very smart stores displayed a lace cocktail frock for $39.50. Of course, that same shop will advise you to buy three or four of these dresses at a time, in different colors, assuring you that that is the "smart" thing to do.

Lace is the very newest note of elegance for the spring season. The lace frocks come in beige, rose, green—all colors for tea and theater wear. There are dark browns, black and more somber lacey affairs for sportswear.

The little cocktail jackets are workover sleeveless dresses so that they become evening gowns at the slightest provocation. This is the charming, utilitarian value of the cocktail style of frock.

Scarfs in Favor

There is the "whoopie" scarf. There are at least a dozen ways in which scarfs are being utilized.

They decorate every and any costume. Thus: You drape the "whoopie" scarf and tie it around the neck like a riding stock tie, or a tailored cravat. This is for sports wear. Or you wear it carelessly knotted on one shoulder.

Sometime this shoulder knot is a bow, or else it floats off in trailing lengths to the hemline of the skirt. Some demoiselles prefer to wear their scarfs draped around the hips, Gypsy-fashion. Then there is the mode of tying the scarf in front at the neck, allowing the point of the 'kerchief to droop at the back almost to the waistline. This is the cape idea.

All of these scarfs are gayly colored, glamorous lovely squares and triangles of silk and chiffon.

The tight, turbanned hat is slowly giving way to wider brims. Pretty soon, the swagger, vagabond-type of chapeaux will be with us again, as always happens during the summer season.

Everything is tightly draped, swathed and cut with an eye to elegance, these days and this rule applies to hats as well as frocks. Soft felts and faille are adaptable to shirrings and drapings, with most of the draping well around the nape of the neck or to one side.

PEERS WANT THEIR REWARD

Baldwin Concerned Because King Delays Gifts

By ROBERT WELLES RITCHIE

LONDON, Feb. 25. (US)—Why does not King George permit the long delayed publication of the "New Year's honors?" That is the question which is secretly bruited about in parliamentary and palace circles.

His majesty is now so far recovered as to be able to walk about the room at Craigweil house, Bognor, and it was even reported yesterday that he took a brief stroll in the garden. Yet this most important social and political event has now been deferred almost three months.

May Postpone Another

Moreover, the "dissolution honors," which are the annual rewards to the peerage and faithful government workers upon the dissolution of parliament, are impending some time in May and there is grave speculation as to whether that announcement also is to be held up by his majesty.

Under the constitution not even the counsellors of state appointed as temporary head of the government in the crisis of the king's illness, are empowered to grant titles. That is solely the king's prerogative. It is learned on high authority that before the king approached the most desperate stage of his illness, Premier Baldwin personally submitted a list of New Year's honors for his approval.

Wary of Scandal

"I will not approve any name in this list until I have personally made investigation of each candidate," the king is said to have stated to the prime minister. "I will not have a repetition of the Lloyd George scandal."

His majesty's reference was in regard to the incident when illness caused the king to make his cruise of the Mediterranean. At that time Premier Lloyd George secured his majesty's blanket endorsement of a list including certain individuals counted unworthy, causing an inquiry in parliament of the premier's private motives in preparing the list.

Baldwin Embarrassed

So since early in December Premier Baldwin's list remains unconfirmed, greatly to his embarrassment, but to the embarrassment chiefly of those who have expected the peerage or elevation to noble rank.

I am told that unless the new year's list is promulgated very shortly, Premier Baldwin will be decidedly handicapped at the forthcoming elections—trebly so if the dissolution honors should by any chance also be held up. It is well known, though blinked at, that heavy contributions to the campaign are usually presupposed to promise a baronetcy or higher.

It is known that Premier Baldwin made a recent trip to Bognor. Was it to prompt his majesty as to this pressing necessity?

Slayer Calm as His Last Plea Is Denied

NEW ORLEANS, La., Feb. 25. (UP)—Lige Wall, 58, condemned to be hanged at Amite, La., March 1, for the murder of Percy Roberts, 18, was unruffled today by news he had been denied clemency by the state board of paroles. "I'm leaving it with God and Governor Long," he said, "I killed the boy in self defense."

Wichita Man Has Gained 20 Pounds

"I Feel Better Than I Have for a Long Time Since Taking Orgatone," He Says

"The day I started on Orgatone, I was in a very bad run down condition, but since taking Orgatone, I feel better than I have in about 18 months, and have gained about 20 pounds," was the remarkable statement made by T. W. Gouldy, repair man for the Texas Electric Service company, who lives at 2002½ Jones street.

"I have finished my second bottle of Orgatone, and I feel like a different person. For a long time I have been bothered with stomach trouble and my liver was in a very bad condition. The pain across my back was something awful and I knew that I needed a medicine for my general condition for I was full of malaria. My appetite was very poor and the food that I did eat did not nourish me and I felt tired and worn out most all the time. I was nervous and restless and didn't sleep well at night. I suffered from constipation.

"Orgatone was recommended so highly I decided to try it and it has certainly proved a good medicine in my case. I am improving right along and am gaining daily in weight and strength and feel better than I have in about 18 months. My constipation is a thing of the past and in fact, my general condition has improved and I am glad to recommend Orgatone for what it has done in my case."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called patent or secret remedy but a new scientific treatment containing no alcohol or other false stimulating drugs and is sold in Wichita Falls exclusively by the Allison's Drug store, under the personal direction of the special Orgatone representative. Out-of-town customers are being supplied prompt promptly upon receipt of price, one bottle for $1.25 or six bottles for $6.25.—Adv.

COMPETENT AIR PILOTS NEEDED

Despite Fad, Real Aviators Are Scarce, He Says

By CHARLES M'LEAN

NEW YORK, Feb. 25. (US)—Despite the fact that thousands of young Americans have taken to aviation and are rapidly gaining experience as pilots, operating companies of the country are faced with a shortage of competent airmen that seriously threatens to retard contemplated expansion.

Already training plans are being arranged by a number of the largest operators, and so spirited is the battle to retain the services of pilots already employed, that stock in the leading companies is being offered them in addition to salary.

The future pilot of huge air palaces, much after the fashion of locomotive engineers, will be trained exclusively on planes belonging to the company which originally employs the "prospect." Remuneration will be high, and other conditions will be of the best.

Two thousand hours will be the minimum requirement for new pilots, although they will be allowed to first "take hold" of the big planes after attaining as low as 400 hours flying time.

Maj. Thomas Lanphier, one of the most noted airmen in the country, at present chief of operations of the Transcontinental Air Transport company, the Lindbergh line, said today:

"It is impossible for young men interested in aviation to acquire sufficient experience to gain employment under present arrangements. The cost is too high. The only way operating companies can guarantee themselves an efficient personnel is to train their own pilots. That will take time, but will be worth while.

"Of the thousands of aviators now holding flying licenses, there are not more than 150 competent to pilot multi-motored planes necessary for passenger work."

Stock Losses Not Cause of Suicide

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., Feb. 25. (INS)—The family of Gabriel S. Youngblood, New York attorney, who ended his life by drinking poison after hacking his wife and son with a hatchet, today denied reports that he had been temporarily deranged by losses in Wall street.

The following statement was given out by the Youngwood family:

"The family of Gabriel S. Youngwood wishes to correct reports that Mr. Youngwood had been involved in speculation. He at no time owned, or was interested in any Wall street venture. His condition was due to long continued overwork and nervous strain. His accounts, records and files are in satisfactory condition and indicate that any obligations he may have had will be met without difficulty."

Liquor and Blood Held Of About Equal Value

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 25. (US)—A quart of human blood is worth as much as is charged in some parts of the county for a quart of "real pre-war" whisky, under a legal ruling here today.

One of the items in Nurse Mae Cummings' suit against Mary Purcell to collect a $328.66 bill was $25 for a quart of blood she gave her employer in a transfusion operation.

Municipal Judge George McDill let the $25 stand as "reasonable," although he vigorously whittled other charges in awarding Nurse Cummings a judgment for $150.

It will thrill you. See Saul's ad tomorrow.—Adv.

Lotteries Cause Much Suspicion

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 25. (US)—The only reputation a lottery can have is that it pay out the prizes promptly, and permit no shadow of a doubt to fall on its methods of determining the winners.

There are two big lotteries in Mexico now whose misfortune it has been to create suspicions in the mind of their addicts. The public still wants to know what became of a certain big prize given by one lottery, but as yet not actually paid out, so far as the public knows, and now there is a case which charges another institution of that type with refusing to pay 10,000 pesos to a man who claims to hold the winning ticket.

The party alleging this latter injury to himself will sue the lottery, and if what he says is true, this great industry here is likely to emerge from the action with that large black eye so many these days hope it will get.

Try This Simple Method For Blackheads

If you are troubled with these unsightly blemishes, get two ounces of Calonite powder from any drug store. Sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth and rub over the blackheads. In a few minutes every blackhead, big or little, will be dissolved away entirely.—Adv.

Women Possess Inescapable Desire To Linger on Fringe of Naughtiness

The Foolish Wife Who Dallies With Temptation. Righteous Protest Against Wedding Showers; Should a Discordant Home Be Held Together for Children?

Dear Miss Dix—I am a young married woman, not yet 30, the mother of two lovely children, and with one of the kindest and best of husbands, whom I love better than any other person in the world. For nearly three years now a brilliant, intelligent man, who is my husband's best friend and the husband of a good woman that I like very much, has been making violent secret love to me. He sends me books and writes me ardent love letters and is always asking me to go places, but I have never gone with him alone. If my good husband dreamed of this it would break his heart, because he loves this man like a brother and trusts him absolutely.

Now I don't love this man, though he fascinates me, and I do love my husband. What I want to know is why don't I end this affair? I don't know myself. I have done nothing wrong unless it is wrong to have kept his letters. I never answered them.

—A TROUBLED WOMAN.

Answer: If you will recall the episode of Mother Eve and the serpent, you will get a line on your conduct. You are doing as you are doing because women have a hereditary tendency, that they seem unable to resist, that makes them daily with every temptation that comes their way, and the more risky a thing is the more it allures them.

In the long process of evolution women have changed a lot, but they have never lost their hankering after forbidden fruit. So you are just running true to form when you follow in your greatest-grandmother's footsteps and lend an attentive ear to the snake in the grass whose head you know you ought to squash instead of listening to his glib tongue. You know perfectly well that the same thing is going to happen to you that happened to Grandma Eve if you go on listening. You are going to lose your husband and get chucked out of your good home, and the gates of Paradise will shut forever behind you.

You have seen the same thing happen to a lot of other women. You know a dozen flirtations that have ended in tragedies. You know a lot of bitter disgruntled women eking out a bare living on alimony, and a lot of ill-reared, cynical, precociously world-wise, half-orphan children that are the result of romances that women intended to keep innocent, but which didn't look that way to their husbands when they found out about them, nor sound that way in the divorce court.

They knew how such affairs end. So do you. That didn't keep them from playing with fire and burning their fingers, however, and probably it won't keep you from dallying with the flames. But I am warning you. When it is all over and you have wrecked your home and deprived your children of a father's care and influence, don't say I didn't tell you.

First, it is woman's insatiable love of adventure, her morbid craving for thrills, that makes you listen to this man's lovemaking, and then it is vanity.

Husband's no matter how good and kind they are, seldom waste much time in flattering their wives and telling them that their eyes are like violets drenched in dew, and how wonderful is the curve of their cheek, and that they never saw anything so lovely as the way the hair grows on the back of their necks. A husband's commendation, if any, is more apt to be about the excellence of the bread and the paring down of the butcher's bill, and a woman just naturally hungers and thirsts for the brand of jolly that she was used to in her girlhood days.

Also, there is curiosity. A married woman is devoured by the desire to know whether she has lost the bait with which she used to catch them, and if anything should happen to John—which she hopes and prays won't—but if it did, whether she could marry again.

That is why married women, even those who have good husbands and who really love their husbands, get into the foolish flirtations that wreck their lives and break up their homes. They simply can't resist taking another bite out of the apple, no matter how dangerous it will be nor how well they know that it is liable to give them a chronic indigestion from which they will suffer the balance of their lives.

So there you are, madam, and a fine, intelligent woman you are—not to run the risk you are for nothing. For you haven't even the excuse of being in love with your gay Lothario. An overwhelming passion might justify you to some extent, but you lack this. You chance the loss of children and husband and home and the respect of all who know you for the sake of a thrill. What a gambler you must be!

But burn those letters. They are like a charge of dynamite under your doorstep, liable to blow you to kingdom come any minute.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—Don't you think this thing of "wedding showers" and "stork showers" has become a regular hold-up? I have gotten so I dread the mail because somebody I know is always going to have some sort of a shower, or somebody else is levying contributions for a new baby. I know a working girl who gets only $15 a week. Last week she was invited to four stocking showers and she managed to scrape together enough money to go to three of these events, but she had to darn her own stockings and re-darn them in order to go.

I am a poor man's wife and I know I am being continually called upon to give away aluminum pots at kitchen showers that I need at home.

—CANTAB.

Answer: Right you are, Mrs. Cantab. The wedding showers and baby showers have become a deluge in which people of moderate means are sunk and drowned, and they should be stopped.

It has gotten so now that we positively can't afford to have our friends get married, for by the time we have contributed to a lingerie shower and a handkerchief shower and a stocking shower and a glove shower and a kitchen shower and a miscellaneous shower, our pocketbooks look as if they had been left out in the wet and rained on, and we still have the wedding present to get and a prospect of a baby shower in the future.

It is all so foolish and such a useless waste of money, because every bride who has a large circle of friends and acquaintances gets ten times as much as she has any need for and a lot of junk that is good for nothing on the face of the earth and that just clutters up the place and catches dust.

Why, I know brides who have been saddled down with dozens of clocks and enough candlesticks to light a street and a bushel, more or less, of pickle forks and pie lifters and cake cutters and enough table ornaments for state banquets when the poor little thing is going to live in a two-room-and-kitchenet flat and do her own work.

I can think of nothing that needs reforming more than this shower nuisance and wedding-present graft, and if any young couple wants to call down the blessings of all who know them they will have "No Presents" printed on their wedding cards.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—Do you believe that a mother should keep her home together for the sake of four small children, regardless of the conditions? I often wonder if children do not suffer more from hearing their father and mother continually quarreling than they would from the results of a separation.

—GLADYS.

Answer: Whether a home should be kept together or not depends upon the kind of a home it is. There are homes that should be broken up, and out of which the children should be taken as they would out of the cantamination of a pest-house. There are mothers and fathers from whom children should be taken to save them from being debauched by evil influences.

It seems to me that for the sake of their children that a man and woman might forego the pleasure of perpetually quarreling and fighting, but if they will not do this they should separate. The children will be better off with one parent in a peaceful home than with both parents in a house of discord. It ruins a child's health and shatters its nerves for it to be brought up in a home that is a place of strife.

TEXANS LET'S TALK TEXAS

a topic for conversation

TEXAS poultrymen, farmers and urban chicken raisers could grow ten times the number of chickens now in Texas, and secure from them twenty times the number of eggs now being laid by Texas hens, and there would still not be enough to supply the needs of the Texas trading area. America imports about 90,000,000 pounds of dried eggs—shipload after shipload—from China, annually, besides heavy imports of eggs in other forms. A tremendous opportunity is open to aggressive Texas communities to develop poultry production and marketing. Investigate the poultry industry and you will find it profitable.

LOVE KEEPS UP SMITH BATTLE

Dallas Senator Sees Move To Nominate Miller

AUSTIN, Feb. 25. (AP)—Charging that the measure was an attempt to nominate the candidate of the Al Smith faction of the Democratic party for governor next year, Senator Thomas B. Love of Dallas today voiced a vigorous denunciation of the Wirtz political party bill.

"In the last presidential campaign the lieutenant governor was one of the great pillars of the Al Smith movement in Texas, and it was commonly understood that he was to be the Al Smith candidate for governor in 1930," the Dallas Hoover leader asserted.

Senator A. J. Wirtz of Seguin and Lieut.-Gov. Barry Miller bore the brunt of Love's attack.

The measure would take off present restrictions on the state Democratic executive committee regarding their power to name the qualifications of those who vote on candidates in the Democratic primary.

It would strike out that provision which says that "no person shall ever be denied the right to participate in a primary in this state because of former political views or affiliations or because of membership or non-membership in organizations other than the political party."

Wirtz opened discussion of the measure by asserting he thought political parties should have the power to prescribe the qualifications of their own members. He declared a recent legislature had conformed to that view by giving the state executive committee authority to bar negroes.

Senator Woodur of Houston offered an amendment which would prevent the committee from exercising its newly granted powers until two years after the bill was enacted into law, thus precluding the possibility of barring "Hoovercrats."

Famous Recipe For Stopping a Severe Cough

You'll be pleasantly surprised when you make up this simple home mixture and try it for a distressing cough or chest cold. It takes but a moment to mix and costs little, but it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. Pour this into a pint bottle; then fill it with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. The full pint thus made costs no more than a small bottle of ready-made medicine, yet it is much more effective. It is pure, keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

This simple remedy has a remarkable three-fold action. It goes right to the seat of trouble, soothes away the irritation, and loosens the germ-laden phlegm. At the same time, it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly upon the bronchial tubes and thus helps inwardly to throw off the whole trouble with surprising ease.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Nature Thought of Everything

Nature thought of everything when the human body was made. When the body is about to become ill, nature planned danger signals to warn us. Thus, if our children grind their teeth when they sleep, or lack appetite, or suffer from abdominal pains, or itch about the nose and fingers, we should know that they may have contracted worms. Then, if we are wise, we buy a bottle of White's Cream Vermifuge and safely and surely expel the worms. Thus we avoid the danger of very serious trouble. White's Cream Vermifuge costs only 35c a bottle, and can be bought from Miller Drug Store.

Are You Ready

When your Children Cry for It

Baby has little upsets at times. All your care cannot prevent them. But you can be prepared. Then you can do what any experienced nurse would do—what most physicians would tell you to do—give a few drops of plain Castoria. No sooner done than Baby is soothed; relief is just a matter of moments. Yet you have eased your child without use of a single doubtful drug; Castoria is vegetable. So it's safe to use as often as an infant has any little pain you cannot put away. And it's always ready for the cruelest pangs of colic, or constipation, or diarrhea; effective, too, for older children. Twenty-five million bottles were bought last year.

INFORMATION AND WINFORMATION

Daily Editorial

WILLIAM CULLEN KEMP is dead at the age of 78. By all all odds, he should have been the most learned soul in the universe. And, logically, the most useful.

No brain, ever before, lodged so many precious secrets of power and wisdom.

Socrates and Anaxagoras strolled through its cells, and argued fundamentals with Pascal and Kant.

Chauvanet, the mathematician, had deposited all his theorems there—and every important experience, percolated through the sands of time, and essenced in ink, had fed his omnivorous appetite for truths.

Mr. Kemp studied at Columbia for 60 years. He wore the longest string of earned degrees on record. He absorbed more knowledge than the first Britannica contained—and enters oblivion without an evident impress on literature, the arts, or practical sciences.

Like a limpet, he attached himself to one place, and filtered the passing tides of history.

It requires 80 quarts of water daily to nourish an oyster. It took over half a century's reading to appease Kemp's insatiate thirst for education.

Apparently, the two might have changed roles, so far as we have inherited from his existence.

Information has no earthly use until it is turned into win-formation.

THE UTILITY of facts lies in their application. To know everything in print, gives a man precisely the market value of the books themselves—unless he can energize their substance to accelerate contemporary thought, brush the cobwebs from misunderstanding, or furnish others with method and inspiration.

But this futile career was content with hand-me-down opinions, satisfied by the empty contemplation of great achievement.

He accumulated wealths enough to rebuild empires, re-create industries and magnify possibility.

He collected toll from all ages, and returned nothing to society. He knew everything libraries had gleaned, but never put a bit of it to work.

He leaves a dozen diplomas, to remind us that he died at exactly 12 degrees below zero.

Nicholas Murray Butler, (of the same university Mr. Kemp so sedulously attended) presided at a recent dinner to the seven Abou Ben Adams, whose efforts have most benefited their generation, and took pains to note that there wasn't a college graduate in the lot.

The three R's seem sufficient training for any objective—provided one acquires the three P's, too, purpose, precision, and perseverance.

Who Profits on Our Burglaries?

THE UNPRECEDENTED and unhindered looting of Wichita Falls homes and stores that has gone on here systematically for months should arouse the people of this city sooner or later to the magnitude of the losses which are being sustained. Efforts of law enforcement bodies to halt the depredations have so far proved well night futile, and at the present rate, losses from thefts will far exceed our fire damage at the end of the year.

Residents of Country Club estates have joined to provide their addition with a patrol system and additional protection, but while this may solve the situation in that section, it is doubtful if an increase in police patrols for the remainder of the city is either feasible or desirable.

Police authorities attribute at least 90 per cent of the losses to persons either living in or having access to servant houses scattered throughout the residence section of the city. Not only are thefts from these quarters most difficult to trace, it is said, but more than often the owners of the places are most reluctant to aid officers in questioning "trusted" employes or tenants. In some cases, obstacles are even placed in the way of any thorough sort of investigation, it is also said.

If this situation be true, then residents of Wichita Falls are partly to blame for the situation here, and themselves are shielding, through their ignorance or kind-heartedness, persons who may be guilty of ransacking their own or their neighbor's house.

Whatever the source of the robberies here, it seems a self-evident fact that the loot being secured from Wichita Falls homes and stores is easily disposed of by its unlawful owners. There seems no doubt not only that disposition of the loot is made easy, but is very profitable. If the source of the thefts must be attributed to the public, then certainly the responsibility for the business being profitable must lie at the doors of the police department and other law enforcement agencies.

What has become of the vast quantity of merchandise, shoes, shirts, coats, furs, underwear, hats, dresses and what not stolen in Wichita Falls during the last few months? How was this merchandise disposed of and to whom? Why should the victim of a burglary pay money to secure the return of his merchandise from the purchaser thereof?

These are some questions the Wichita Falls public should like to have answered.

Wichita's Automobile Show

OPENING of Wichita Falls' annual automobile show this week should be an occasion of much interest not only to residents of this city, but to Southern Oklahoma and Northwest Texas as well. In the display rooms of the show here will be the new models of the principal manufacturers, with agents and demonstrators on hand to explain the various improvements to which all manufacturers are pointing this year.

The grouping of many models in one showing is a great convenience to the public, as well as an inducement to carefully study the various machines. Aside from this, however, the show will be well worth a visit for the striking comparison in the new cars and those of five years ago. The strides of the industry during this period have been greater than in any other era in the history of the business. Never before has the dollar of the automobile purchaser been able to secure such convenience, service, beauty, utility, style and efficiency as in the models just coming on the market. And while the improvements have been almost numberless during the last few years, the price to the purchaser has been ever lower. Standard equipment of almost any car today is of such variety and utility as would have been undreamed less than a decade ago.

The Wichita Falls automobile show deserves a visit from every motor car owner, if for no other reason, that automobiles may not improve more rapidly than the appreciation of their public for new accomplishments.

Increasing the Prison Population

VIGOROUS prosecution of law violators which has characterized the work of the district attorney's department for the last few weeks deserves praise from the citizenship of Wichita county. An unusual number of prison sentences have been assessed by juries in the district courts. Law violators have found scant sympathy and few loopholes of escape in their meetings with District Attorney Sam Spence and his assistants.

Such work must result in better observance of the statutes, and a decrease in our "undesirable" population as word goes round that Wichita county is not so "soft" on criminals. We have been fortunate in the comparatively small number of capital cases here within the last few months, but other felonies have brought stiff sentences in a number of instances. The courtrooms have sounded with demands for "limit" terms in prison for law violators. Such procedure is ever the best preventive for crime and antidote for crime waves.

IN FAVOR OF ANOTHER MONTH

Progress stops at nothing. We have taken forward steps in every walk of life. We live differently and seem to be satisfied, although several years back, if told that we would be living in such an age, any number would have come forward to prophesy the wreck, ruin and confusion that would result, but now, who would change our mode of living for that of years past?

Now that man has improved on about everything with the exception of the regulation of day and night, he is now trying to do the next best thing in that connection by giving us a year of 13 months, each containing 28 days, and though we may not be completely informed on the matter, we are now inclined to favor the change.

BRIGHTEN UP THE ROADWAYS

Roadside refreshment stands and gas stations in this country already are sprucing up, partly as a result of a campaign for their beautification and prizes offered for architectural quality. The motorist, however, is still unregenerate and flings empty bags and boxes and wrapping paper out along the highway, to the great detriment of wayside neatness and beauty. In England there is a society for "country-side and footpaths" preservation which is attacking the problem of ugly garages and refreshment stands by asking motorists to boycott places that are "disfigured and disfiguring."

SIDE GLANCES By George Clark

The Day Book of a New Yorker

Broadway Chatter by Grant Dixon

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—A famous comedian, who has a passion for gambling, one night got into one of the big crap games in which Arnold Rothstein was wont to participate and won a large sum of money by what professional gamblers call "sticking his hand in." This meant that he bet such comparatively small sums that when he stuck his hand in to make his bet nobody paid any attention to him. He had a phenomenal run of luck, which resulted in him getting the cash, disappearing from the game and escaping without being shot. According to the well informed in these circles, this almost constitutes a record.

Most New York hotels strive to get all the publicity possible on the theory it increases their business, and many of them pay press agents well and, in addition, give them their suites and meals to keep the name of the hostelry before the public. Mr. O. O. McIntyre, whose New York letter is now widely published and whose weekly salary check is said to be the size of numbers usually seen on the sides of box cars or in telephone books, started with the Majestic hotel. First he gave away his column about New York to the newspapers, occasionally mentioning the Majestic in it, and then he sold it for a small price. Later he moved to the Ritz under the same sort of an arrangement, where he still lives. But he has long since been graduated from the press agent class. His daily column is now widely sold and widely read.

Recently one hotel in New York got more publicity than it bargained for, and it was the sort which has not been desirable. One night some time ago Arnold Rothstein, the gambling king of New York, staggered out of a room in a big New York hotel, with a bullet hole drilled through his middle and collapsed by the service entrance. This hotel was in the headlines for days, and there was a twinge in every headline for the manager. I have even heard there is talk of changing the name.

In Forty-third street just off Broadway the Metropole hotel thrived years ago. It was the favorite gathering place of the sports and theatrical people of the town until one night a stranger came in and tapped Rosenthal, another famous gambler, on the shoulder and told him someone wanted to see him outside. He stepped out of the door into a barrage of bullets which cut him down, and this was the beginning of the publicity attendant on the famous Becker case of New York, when the police lieutenant was finally electrocuted, as well as the four gunmen. The Metropole received so much bad publicity that it finally closed its doors because of lack of business.

Wilson Mizner, the soldier of fortune, and who is now writing scenarios for the movies in Hollywood, was discussing the Metropole hotel one night, and he remarked it had the curse on it because of the murder. He suggested that some enterprising gentleman put in a night club and restrict its members.

"Put an old man on the door, said Mr. Mizner, "so every one he refuses to let in won't be taking a sock at him. He should be an old man with the palsy so that he naturally shakes his head no, and he should turn down one out of three people who try to make the grade. As soon as the New Yorkers hear it is hard to get in, the place will be packed. You couldn't keep them out."

But no one tried it. After all, it is just a bad break in the luck when some conspicuous character gets killed in a hotel.

Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, who was the "Princess Alice" Roosevelt of the turbulent days of T. R. in the White House, was discussing card games with this writer recently. Her angles may interest a few of the readers of this column and shame some of the ladies who think days are made solely for bridge.

"I play poker once in a while," said Mrs. Longworth, who, by the way, is as beautiful as ever, and that's saying a great deal. "But I never play bridge, because I have other things to do. I have found once one starts on this game it is insidious and gets in the blood so it is easier not to play at all. I have a great deal of reading to do and other interests which take time."

Mrs. Longworth is regarded as one of the keenest students of politics in Washington, and it was in her house that the fight which defeated the league of nations was planned by the senators in sympathy with her ideas.

Incidentally, when she does play poker, she won't go above a comparatively small limit game, but I understand usually does well.

FAVORITE JOKES OF FAMOUS FOLKS

As Told by Them to FRANK E. NICHOLSON

By ALEX SMITH

You could hardly expect Alex Smith, famous golfer, to like any story best other than a golfing joke.

ALEX SMITH

"It concerns Messrs. Abrams and Jacobs," Smith explained. "They took up golf late in life, and one afternoon they were going over the links, playing for a stake of $1 a hole, and the competition was spirited.

"Mr. Abrams drove into a bunker. With his iron he made four ineffectual swipes, raising the sand in clouds. Then he stooped down, picked up the half-buried ball and tossed it out on the fairway.

"Mr. Jacobs stiffened with indignation.

"'Look a'here,' he whooped. 'You can't do that! It's against the rules.'

"'I already have done it,' said Mr. Abrams calmly.

"'Bu again I tell you, it's against the rules,' declared Mr. Jacobs. 'I've been playing the game longer than you, and I tell you the professional taught me long ago that you should not touch a ball with your hands at all.

"'What am I going to do do if by such tricks that you win the game?'

"'Sue me,' replied Mr. Abrams."

Man Rushes Into Fire To Save Three Children

SPOKANE, Wash., Feb. 25.(UP)—Blinded by smoke and scorched by flames, John M. Caprey three times raced through fire and saved his three infant children from death today. Oklahoma Asks Big Weevil Fund

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 25.(UP)—A resolution asking U. S. congress to appropriate $10,000,000 for exterminating the boll weevil in Oklahoma was introduced into the house today.

Representatives Brown, Cartwright and Roe, authors of the bill, pointed out in the resolution that the boll weevil menace is now a matter of concern to the nation and that "fabulous sums" have been appropriated already to fight northern farm menaces such as the corn borer and Hessian fly.

A bill of Representative Whitaker which provides that any considerable part of the bank of a navigable stream carried away by natural causes may be reclaimed by the original owners was introduced. The bill also allowed the owner of a bank of a stream to acquire land accumulated from natural causes.

Personal taxes levied in Oklahoma would be a "first prior and superior lien, and superior to all mortgages lien and encumbrances of all nature" by terms of a bill introduced by Representative Brown.

Homer Paul introduced a measure requiring all railroad companies to place electric bells at all intersections with public highways.

A joint resolution introduced by Paul would authorize the transfer to the state training school for white boys at Pauls Valley, the old rugs which have been removed from the house of representative chambers and committee rooms.

I Saw It Myself

By C. W. ROGERS
Record News Staff Correspondent

The prediction here is made that four counties bordering on the eastern line of the Texas Panhandle will make important contributions to the future growth of Wichita Falls—provided the City That Faith Built does not neglect its opportunities, which is hardly probable.

These counties are Collingsworth, Wheeler, Hemphill and Lipscomb. When they are provided with paved highways leading directly into Wichita Falls by way of Childress, now in early prospect, and a north and south rail line, which is not a remote possibility, a huge flood of traffic will be at Wichita Falls' command.

These four counties with amazing potential possibilities are now only in the infancy of their development, yet one of them produces upwards of 40,000 bales of cotton annually and could be made to produce enough to supply in Wichita Falls a cotton mill larger than any in Texas.

The total farming area of these four counties includes 2,304,560 acres, of which only 502,255 acres are in cultivation, according to statistics of the United States department of agriculture. Their total wealth is stated as: Collingsworth, $21,000,000; Wheeler, $21,700,000; Hemphill, $19,000,000, and Lipscomb, $15,000,000, or $79,700,000 for the four counties. This estimate represents assessed valuation, not actual value.

Population and population per square miles is given as: Collingsworth, 13,000 and 14.5; Wheeler, 13,000 and 14.5; Hemphill, 10,000 and 12, and Lipscomb, 4,000 and 4.8, an average population of 11.4 to the square mile.

Statistics make dry reading, but if you want a line on where some big opportunities are likely to break in the next few years, digest those contained in the two paragraphs next above and compare with those hereinafter recited and you'll be getting some information of the kind utilized by those who have made money in West Texas.

It is a known fact that engineers of the Burlington system have made surveys for a rail line northward from points on the Denver road near Childress, which will traverse some if not all of these counties. The most feasible route has not been announced, but the presumption is that rich territory unserved by rail transportation may influence direction of the line through the towns of Wellington, Shamrock, Mobeetie, Wheeler, Canadian and Lipscomb.

In view of the activities of the Burlington, Santa Fe, Rock Island and Frisco in sparring for advantage in the Panhandle and West Texas it is reasonable to believe that the Burlington will not long delay making application to the Interstate Commerce commission for permit to construct this line to the north, which men with knowledge of the rail situation forecast will be extended to a connection with the Burlington system at a point in Kansas or Nebraska to provide a cutoff saving some 500 or more miles in the haul from the North to tidewater at Houston.

Railroad companies make surveys and delay construction for years; again the delay is sometimes not so long. For instance, the South Plains line of the Burlington. An area is ripe for rail construction if, as and when it can present the evidence that it can product necessary tonnage. The four counties named can present the evidence. All that is holding them back is inadequate rail and highway transportation.

Collingsworth county alone, if given over entirely to production of cotton, has 465,000 acres of tillable land that could produce 232,500 bales of cotton, provided it came up to the last three-year average of one-half bale per acre on land now in cultivation. Collingsworth county in late years has relied on cotton as its principal crop because of low production costs. The cotton planter, with a tractor, can plow four times as much of the loose soil as the planter with a mule team back in the black waxy land of Ellis, one of the banner cotton counties.

The soil of Collingsworth is adapted to crops other than cotton. Sweet potatoes make enormous yields. The county could be made to produce a peck of sweet potatoes for every man, woman and child in the United States, its farmers declare.

Dairying and poultry raising would be of far larger proportions in Collingsworth were it not for inadequate transportation.

Compare Collingsworth with Ellis county, the banner cotton county of Texas. The area of Ellis comprises 590,720 acres, of which 440,314 are crop acres. In 1926 Ellis county produced 126,087 bales of cotton. Ellis county's wealth is estimated at $108,000,000, by the department of agriculture.

Collingsworth county, with a total area of 574,720 acres, of which only 177,004 acres were in cultivation, in 1926 produced 82,947 bales of cotton. Collingsworth's wealth is given as $15,000,000.

Wheeler county, which is considered too far north to grow cotton successfully and makes no claim to being a cotton county, in 1926 produced 39,623 bales of cotton.

Wheeler is going in heavy for dairying. Last year 38 cars of purebred dairy cows were shipped into Wheeler. Southern Wheeler has a fair outlet for its dairy products over the Rock Island into Oklahoma City.

Wheeler is a wonderful corn and wheat county, and grows a variety of fruits. With all due respect to Alvord and Weatherford, the finest watermelons this writer ever ate were grown in Wheeler. Estimated wealth of Wheeler is $21,000,000.

Hemphill county continues to be essentially a beef cattle growing county. Agriculture is just getting a foothold. Its soil is rich, and is adapted to small grain, the sorghum grains and forage crops. It is termed a paradise for hog raisers. It could economically grow enough hogs to supply a big packing house in Wichita Falls. Hemphill county's wealth is estimated at $19,000,000.

Lipscomb county, like Hemphill, is a beef cattle county, but it has agricultural possibilities of vast magnitude. The county's wealth is estimated at $15,000,000.

It is inevitable that in time the four counties on the eastern border of the Panhandle will be brought into their full productivity. They are progressing rapidly in that direction, more rapidly than older counties.

If the Burlington chooses to build a north-and-south outlet, connecting on the south with the Denver road, it would provide a direct intrastate haul of products into and through Wichita Falls, and incidentally add enormously to Wichita Falls' wholesale trade.

Aside from the possibility of the prospective rail line, it will only be a matter of a comparatively short time until paved highways will be completed from Wheeler county all the way into Wichita Falls by way of Childress. That will speed development.

The Reader's Opinion

The columns of The Record News are open to its readers for the discussion of questions of current interest or import. Letters should be not more than 300 words in length, preferably shorter, and should be signed with the name and address of the writer. Initials or pen-name, will be substituted upon request. DUCKS HAVE FRIENDS IN WICHITA AREA

Editor, The Record News: I read with much interest your editorial under the caption of "Give the Ducks a Chance." This editorial might quite as well have been under the caption "Give Posterity a Chance," as that is a part of the duty of the present generation in the matter of preservation of our game birds.

I desire to congratulate you on your stand in this matter. I believe that your editorial will meet with the hearty commendation of the sportsmen throughout this region. Sincerely yours,

BEN G. ONEAL.

Editor, The Record News: I note your editorial on violation of the game laws and comment on the fact that there has been a great deal of duck shooting since the season closed.

I very much appreciate this editorial and I feel that if the people are educated to abide by these laws, we can preserve the game that we have for many years to come.

Yours very truly,

L. O. LANDON.

Editor, The Record News: Your few lines in The Record News, "Give the Ducks a Chance," should not go without an expression from every true sportsman who reads the article.

Keep the good work up. It will have the right effect on the outlaw who cares nothing about playing the game fair. Your good work through the press will do more to stop that practice than anything I know of. Give us more of those reports, and I will assure you that the fellow who does love true sportsmanship will lend every effort to stop the illegal hunting and fishing.

Very truly yours,

J. C. PHILO.

Editor, The Record News: Referring to your editorial in The Record News of Feb. 28 in which you appeal to the public to give the ducks a chance, wish to advise you that I for one certainly endorse everything you say and feel sure that nearly all the sportsmen and hunters in this territory feel the same way about the matter.

It is true that some are shooting ducks and geese that are on their way back north and are not willing to give them a chance. All sportsmen will suffer in the future from this kind of practice and we have already felt a shortage of ducks in this locality as the duck shooting has been very light this season.

It is against the law to shoot the birds now and everyone should be glad to obey the law and at the same time give the ducks a chance to go north and raise in order that this popular bird may hold its place along with the other game birds.

I wish to thank you for your timely article and feel sure that the public will be glad to listen to your appeal.

Yours respectfully,

JAS. R. ROBINSON.

SLUGGING RED BENNETT FROM TULSA JOINS SPUDDER CAMP

FRED TO TAKE JENKINS' POST

And He's the Sort of Hitter to Delight Fans

By LARRY DAILEY
Record News Sports Editor

I'm walking down the street yesterday at noon, enjoying a pipe after breakfast and thinking that it's getting warmer. Which of course turned my thoughts to baseball, and the Spudders. And while thinking about the Spudders, who should cross my line of vision but a fellow of medium heighth, stocky and sandy-haired. I gave a shout of joy.

He was Fred Bennett, and unless I am mistaken he will be in a few months, another hero of Wichita Falls fandom.

A mighty hitter, is this Red Bennett, my friends. A mighty hitter indeed, as his mark of around .370 for two seasons in the Western league attests. And a mighty hitter he must be to satisfactorily fill the place vacated in left field by Dynamite Tom Jenkins.

Has No Batting Weakness

Bennett, who was purchased this winter from Milwaukee club of the American association, but who had never pastimed for the Brews, was a member of the Tulsa Oilers, Western league champions for the past two seasons. He is a right-handed batter and thrower.

Bennett has no batting weakness. I mean, the opposing chucker may throw him some sort of hook and Bennett will swing and miss a foot. "That's his weakness now," the hurler will chuckle to himself. So the pitcher will toss him that same sort of curve—and our Mr. Bennett will very probably whale it out of the lot.

The youthful Bennett carries his bulk with surprising speed around the base lines and in flitting hither and yon in the garden. He has developed into a very commendable outfielder and while he is not exactly a riflelike thrower he has an arm that will prevent the foe from taking undue liberties while on bases.

Bennett and his wife arrived yesterday from their winter home way down in Arkansas. The addition of the former Tulsan makes four Spudders in town ready to answer Jim Galloway's call for spring training Friday. Others are Second Baseman Pete Turgeon and Center Fielder Howard Fitzgerald, who wintered here, and Ross Eldred, the clouting Brick from California, who arrived last week.

Benton Signs Contract

Rabbit Benton, the scintillating shortstop, mailed in his contract, and thus the last of the unaccounted Spudder athletes is safely in the fold. Not that there was worry over Rabbit. He always is late in signing his contract and last spring brought his papers to camp with him.

Also in the mail at Spudder headquarters was a letter from Silent Swede Swenson, the demon third baseman, announcing his marriage last Saturday in his home town at Rockford, Ill., to Miss Helen Amelia Phedorff.

Both Benton and Swenson advised they would report Friday or within a day or two of that date.

Guy Airey, who returned home yesterday after a trek of the hinterlands of Texas in behalf of the West Texas league, in which the Spudders are interested because of their ranch at Abilene, announced that there will be no more ladies' days at Athletic park. But the fair fans are to be given a special rate which will enable them to see the games for about 10 cents per contest. That's a fair rate. A ball game is worth a dime, isn't it, ladies?

Ladies' season tickets, entitling the holder to all games except on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays, will be sold for $5. There will be 56 games played here, exclusive of 13 Saturdays and 11 Sundays, so the ladies will pay less than a dime to see each game on their $5 season ticket.

Basket Runner-up At Stake Tonight

Second place in the second half of the Commercial basket ball league will be at stake tonight in the final games of the season. Hub Clothiers and Featherston-Hawkins-Vague, tied for the runnerup position, meet in the opener of the two games on the Junior college floor.

Texas Electrics, winners of the first half, leaders of the second half and unbeaten for the season, meet the Junior college Indians in the second game. A defeat for the Kilowats would tie them for the leadership of the second half with the winner of the F-H-V and Hub contest.

Olney and Estelline Open Three-Game Bi-District Basket Series Tomorrow

THE BATTLE of the in-and-outers will be fought tomorrow night at Miami Beach. Down in that city of balmy breezes, Young Stribling, hope of the south, and Jack Sharkey, the gabbing gob, will fight in the most important ring engagement since Gene Tunney battered Tom Heeney into submission in the eleventh round last summer.

Down on old Miami shore, within earshot of the boom of the surf, under summer skies in a ring pitched over white sand, the terrible Sharkey man and Stribling the stripling will fight to be haled as the outstanding heavyweight of the day.

Either may achieve that distinction. And it is conceivable that out of this war tomorrow night neither will advance cause why he should be held as the successor to Tunney.

AT THEIR best, Stribling and Sharkey are (or were) formidable fighters. If not great fighters. There were times in the career of both gladiators in which they approached greatness. But this has been some time ago. For nearly two years Stribling and Sharkey have shown nothing to indicate either is a potential champion. Yet, because they have shown flashes of greatness in the past, and because of the dearth of good heavyweights today and the retirement of the titleholder, their fight takes on the importance of a championship duel.

The boys who write pieces for the newspapers on the scene down in Floreeday are having trouble picking the winner. For that matter, practically all the exports are either qualifying their statements when they do express an opinion on the victor, or are deliberately straddling the fence.

And with reason. The fight, on advance form, is strictly a tossup. For the very good reason that there is no form by which the principals may be judged.

I PICKED Tunney to knockout Heeney within 10 rounds, which in the light of the result was a very good guess. But there was no difficulty in forecasting that engagement. Heeney lacked much of being a championship contender. There was no question of Tunney's superiority.

My first impulse, when Tex Rickard announced the making of the Stribling-Sharkey match, was to lean toward Willie as the victor. But I don't know. If the boys down there on the scene don't like his chances, we folks up here can't enthuse greatly over Willie.

STRIBLING attained the peak of his fighting form several years ago. The Georgian sprang into pugilistic prominence along about in 1923 when he, then an unknown schoolboy, whipped Mike McTigue, who was light heavyweight champion of the world. The referee called that fight a draw and saved the title for McTigue. In a subsequent fight with bould Michael, Stribling again gave the Irishman a decisive licking.

He has defeated some other mighty good fighters. But not for two years has Willie fought a really first-rate battler. His fighting has been confined in that period to the hinterlands, barring a two-round knockout last fall of Jack Squires, who was, and still is, an unheralded fighter from Australia.

SHARKEY'S big moment was in the first round of his fight with Jack Dempsey. The Manassa mauler was tottering around the ring, ready for the kill. But Sharkey, as in other times in his career, failed to arise to the occasion. He permitted Dempsey to rally and later, in that seventh round, showed that stupidity of temperament or whatever it is that has been his curse, in turning his face to the referee to protest that he had been fouled. Dempsey, of course, promptly knocked him out.

STRIBLING'S fights in the last year have been confined to his frequent tours on which he met fighters of more or less ability to hold up their hands, mostly less. Sharkey's last start was with K. O. Christner, from whom he won a decision. There is nothing then to base a prediction for their shindig tomorrow night.

Both are fast boxers. Stribling probably is the sharpest hitter of the two, though neither really is a knockerout, as they say in the gym. Neither is particularly aggressive. Were Stribling an adept at close-range milling I would unhesitatingly say that he stands the best chance to win. For Sharkey has shown he has no liking for the taking of punches in the midriff. But Stribling's best efforts at infighting are confined to a mauling and holding, which is very commendable in its design, that of preventing the other fellow from hurting him. But it doesn't enable him to hurt the other fellow.

CONDITION will play a vital part in their fight. That is something one removed from their training camps knows nothing of. And really, the experts watching them workout are having difficulty in sizing them up, regarding their fitness. Stribling is finely drawn. That is, for several days he has been ready for the fight. His constant fighting keeps him in fine shape. There is the possibility that he will be fought out, or in other words, stale, and will lack snap and speed when he faces Sharkey.

Jack had a long layoff in the winter. His fight with Christner may have been just the tuning up he needed for Stribling.

And then, again, perhaps Jack hasn't fought enough, to keep his hand in, to enable him to hit with his best judgment and timing. And maybe some of the boys who are of the opinion that Stribling is too finely drawn don't know Willie's real condition and that the southerner, an athlete since babyhood, is at his best right now.

I recall three years ago, down in old Miami, that Gene Tunney, who then was not heavyweight champion of the world, withdrew with no grace but with a lot of haste, from a match with Stribling. A technicality, merely that of the promoter failing to produce the money guaranteed two days before the fight, enabled Mr. Tunney to legally refuse to fight Stribling. And I recall at that time that Young Stribling had one of his times of greatness. He was a great fighter, my friends, was Young Stribling two days before he fought Tunney and had that battle gone through it might have changed pugilistic history. Young Stribling and not Gene Tunney might have fought Jack Dempsey and won the championship.

BUT THAT is all conjecture. And this is not three years ago. This is tomorrow's fight. And Sharkey and Stribling, both of whom probably have passed their peak as a fighter. The question then is, which one has retained the greatest amount of fighting ability from a year or so ago.

It may be a bruising, slashing fight. It may end in a speedy knockout. Or it may be a dismal exhibition of hauling and mauling. I am inclined to believe it will be a fairly good mill, with both men on their feet at the end of ten rounds.

But anything MAY happen and either may win.

That's the only forecast to make when such a consistent pair of fighters are in there throwing punches.

PIRATES WON'T SELL WANERS

Recalcitrant Brothers Must Play for Corsairs

PASO ROBLES, Calif., Feb. 25. (AP)—Donie Bush's perspiring Pittsburgh Pirates took advantage of sunshine today for a stiff workout. In the past, Donie has left the players to their own amusements on Sundays but as yesterday's weather was none too favorable, he put them through today.

Sam W. Dreyfuss, club treasurer, emphatically denied that John McGraw had offered $210,000 for the Waner brothers, star outfielders, who have failed to come to an agreement with the Pirates on their contracts for this year.

"They are not for sale at any price. They will play with the Pirates this year or they won't play at all," Dreyfuss said.

Alex Ross presents his boxing shows in new and spacious quarters tomorrow night. The Wichita Falls entreprenuer has moved to Palace theater, Tenth and Indiana, and announces that ample seating facilities will be available. Ross changed his location with his shows drawing overflowing houses in his former location.

Alex offers an interesting card to mark his moving into the Palace. It is headlined by Sam Riley and Kid Rich, a pair of fast moving Oklahoma middleweights, moth of whom are widely and favorably known to boxing enthusiasts in this section.

Pug Sutherland of Childress and Virgil Oden of Wichita Falls will meet in an eight-round semi-windup that promises to be replete with action. Five other bouts, one of six rounds and others of four rounds, complete the show.

The Stribling-Sharkey fight will be announced from the ringside, blow by blow, according to Ross.

Complexes, Reflexes May Settle Stribling and Sharkey Fisticuff

Mental Attitude of Gladiators of Great Importance; Fighters Differ In Methods of Training

By ALAN J. GOULD

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 25. (AP)—Maybe it won't be an affair of fisticuffs at all—at least not altogether. Reflexes, psychological influences and mental attitudes may have as much as anything to do with whether Jack Sharkey or Young Stribling wins Wednesday in Flamingo park.

Most everything you can think of has had something to do with this fight or its promotion so there seems no reason now to the experts to neglect the more subtle factors.

Take Jack Sharkey. They said he talked himself into whipping Harry Wills and aroused himself to a fighting frenzy to knock out Jim Maloney and Jack Delaney. What he did about several other fights is not quite clear. He talked himself out of at least one, the famous bout with Jack Dempsey, where he took it on the chin while turning to say something to the referee.

Diffesent Temperaments

Now Sharkey is the cool, calculating boxer, less prone to moods, to being erratic and more intent upon the task in hand.

Where Sharkey is intent and serious, Stribling gives the impression of most craft. The Georgian's training and career have helped develop a more subtle tough to his ring work, quick thinking and lightning-like thrusts. The truth is that the Georgian is of a deceiving type—deceiving in what he intends to do with his right or left, especially the right. The Striblina idea is to lull an opponent into more or less security or uncertainty and then do the unexpected. In other words, "psychology."

The Shakey camp is full of seriousness and the slam-bang training methods of the old school.

Striblings Have Show

The Stribling entourage, on the other hand, puts on a sideshow and the folks enjoy it. "W. L." wears white boxing gloves. W. L.'s little son is put through acrobatic tricks by "Pa" Stribling. Evidently he has had enough of it for he cried most unceremoniously when tossed around today. An ex-vaudeville actor does the announcing while a "hayseed" impersonator mingles with the crowd.

The Stribling workout is carefully planned. One round of boxing is designed to give W. L. right hand a "play." The next exemplifies the rugged body resistance of the Georgian as he lets a sparring mate pound him with arms upraised. It is all very entertaining but to the somewhat skeptical eye it appears that W. L. is a bit lean and drawn by comparison with the tougher looking and swivel punching Sharkey.

During the workouts, Jack Dempsey, impresario, may step in unexpectedly, bronzed and with springy step. The evidence is at hand at once in explanation of why Dempsey's name, as promoter, is printed in larger type on the posters than the names of either fighter. The crowds are quick to turn to the not so very old Manassa mauler, cheer him and idolize him. An outsider, unacquainted with the arrangements, might imagine Dempsey to be the main card, with Stribling and Sharkey tuning up for the semi-final.

SPORTS DEPEND ON YOUNGSTERS

Shreveport to Stand or Fall With Its Rookies

SHREVEPORT, La., Feb. 25 (AP)—The Shreveport Sports have at least one thing to be thankful for as the 1929 Texas league baseball season approaches—an infield.

Death, drafts, retirements, sales, etc., ad infinitum, have wrecked three departments of the team. Or, at least, have left only a skeleton framework for good pitching, catching and gardening staffs.

But the infield looks good. So good, in fact, that one of last year's regulars will have to exert himself, so they say, to hold down his job. And the reason Pete Kilduff will have to work to stay on second is, as usual, a youngster. Kilduff has had lots of experience, but Sports backers believe that when Stewart, a young flame from the Piedmont league, starts work Pete will be fortunate if he stays on the roster. Stewart batted at a .335 clip last year, and led the Piedmont league in putouts and assists, his young legs carrying him to 25 stolen bases.

Other Vet Infielders Back

The other returning infielders probably will have little difficulty, and the first game of the season likely will find Whelan back at first, Holman at second, Devireros at short and Andy Woehrs warming the bench until he is needed as utility. But Stewart's playmate last year, a lad named Ford, will be among the tryouts for second base. Ford and Stewart were noted for double plays with the Piedmont club.

Behind the bat the Sports will have only one oldtimer, Frank Tobin. Raymond Hayworth's sale to the Detroit Tigers unquestionably weakened that department. But Bernie Starr, in the New England league last year; Gilly Campbell, who finished the 1928 season with Beaumont; A. Krause, a star with Texarkana, and Bill Williamson, Pacific coast semi-pro, will try out as backstops. Out of the four the Sports should get a dependable relief catcher.

Shreveport needs pitchers. The mainstays of the 1928 staff are gone, Oscar Estrada by draft to the St. Louis Browns, and Bunny Hearn by recall to the Boston Red Sox. The five veteran members of the mound corps who will return are Joe Brown, Tiny Osborne, Lefty Thompson, Chief Wilkins and Francis Karpp. Nothing there to cheer about, for Brown was the only winner of the lot last season. Eight other pitchers, though, will begin the season at Shreveport.

Al Williamson, who had a brief and unsuccessful tryout with the White Sox after a splendid 1927 season; three Texarkana Lone Star leaguers, Sis Hopkins, Grandpa Wood and A. Miller; Jim Grant, a Mississippi Valley league veteran with a good record; Andy Price, southpaw; Jack Shipley, Broken Bow, Okla., youth who lost only two games out of 28 in 1928, and Lane, a portsider from the Georgia-Alabama loop, are to report for training.

Dick Cox to Play

There is just a bare skeleton left from the 1928 outfield. Johnny Watwood was bought by the Chicago White Sox, and Don Frazee was killed in an airplane accident. Dick Cox, who had announced his retirement, will return. And to fill the other gardening posts Sport owners have summoned hordes of class B, C and D youngsters.

Among the most promising are Kirby, who batted .387 with Alexandria; Roy Hutson, who hit well over .300 in the New England league; Dewey Stover, a .335 batter in the Mid-Atlantic league; Cashon, from Tampa with a .335 average; McClanahan from Palestine; Biggerstaff of Alexandria and Gallagher of Talladega.

With all the youngsters on tap, the owners have given Sports fans one thing to ponder: Not a single new player has had class A experience. The Sports will finish in the first division if all the newcomers are phenomenons; in the second if, as is likely, most of them are mere flashes.

Three Letter Men Report To Coach J. N. Hall

The 1929 track season for the high school was opened Monday afternoon when 25 prospects reported for the first meeting of the year in the commercial department. Among those reporting were three letter men of last year, Captain Ross Save, sprinter; Estell Sharp, dash and broad jump, and Thomas Beay, high jump and high hurdles.

According to J. N. Hall, track coach, prospects for a winning squad this year are very bright. Among the athletes who reported who are expected to make a good showing on the track are: Howard Scott, high hurdles; Babe Anderson, low hurdles and dash; Morris Lee, dash, and Boerbin Wheeler, high hurdles and pole vault.

Olin Garrett is manager of the squad this year.

Health And Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK McCOY

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Dr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper

(Copyright 1929 by The Bell Syndicate Inc.)

Soft Diets

While fasting must not be considered a "cure-all," it is indicated at the beginning of the treatment for any disorder, as practically any patient is benefited by an exclusive fruit, vegetable or milk diet for a time.

I do not advocate the ordinary soft diets sometimes given in hospitals which consist of a mixture of milk custards, gruels and soups. This diet is sometimes given after an operation by the doctor who believes that these foods are more readily digested than the ordinary food served in the hospital. This assumption is a serious mistake, and I am sure that some of the complications from operations arise because of the wrong diet.

If custards are properly made without the adition of sugars and starches they will be quite readily digested and not produce unpleasant disturbances in the alimentary canal.

Milk requires much time for its digestion and unless used in the right way more harm can result from the thickened curds than if ordinary foods were used. It takes from four to six hours for a glass of milk to leave the stomach and if other foods are used at the same time it may take longer.

Mushes of all kinds are inclined to cause digestive disturbances because of the large amount of starch they contain. Oatmeal mush or gruel, which is commonly used, is irritating to the stomach and should be used only by those who are in good health. There is no reason for giving this highly starchy food to a patient who is confined to bed. One of the greatest difficulties after an abdominal operation of any kind is to avoid excessive flatulence, and for this reason starches and sugars should be avoided.

If there is a reason for using a soft diet, it is far better to use a soft cooked egg combined with some of the non-starchy vegetables, such as spinach, summer squash, string beans, etc. These vegetables should be cooked in a small amount of water, mashed and seasoned with cream, if desired. In place of the egg it is all right to substitute Salisbury steak to a limited amount.

Occasionally, I still advise an exclusive water fast but only for a few days to assist in flushing the system. This is sometimes advisable at the start of the treatment for arthritis, rheumatism, cystitis and various toxic diseases. The best method is for the patient to drink one or two glasses of distilled water every half hour during his waking hours. In this manner from three to four gallons of distilled water can be consumed daily. Enemas should also be used because of the lack of solid matter for the bowels. This is also true of all liquid diets.

I rarely have a patient continue an exclusive water fast for more than a few days without changing to some of the other liquid diets or to the solid foods.

In tomorrow's trticle I will describe the method which I have found most suitable for using the milk diet.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Indigestion and Magnesia

Question: Mrs. R. V. asks: "Is constant indigestion a cause of thinness? Will milk of magnesia if taken after every meal correct this condition?

Answer: Milk of magnesia will sometimes give a temporary relief but cannot be considered a cure. Constant indigestion undoubtedly would tend to keep one thin. You would have to have a diagnosis to determine the cause of your indigestion.

Stimulation

Question: K. J. A. asks: "Why is it that I do not feel strengthened or energized after a meal which does not contain starchy food? I am much underweight?"

Answer: All highly starchy or sugar foods tend to produce a quite rapid stimulation within a short time after they are eaten. We are uncertain as to whether this comes entirely from the food value contained in these foods or from some influence made upon the digestive organs—possibly the effect upon the secretion of digestive fluids. It is quite certain in any case that the stimulation does not indicate real strength and that there is no food which actually produces a better muscular tone in a short time after it is eaten. Real strength must come from muscular training and the use of foods containing the proteins and the organic minerals.

Snoring

Question: Mrs. C. M. writes: "Please tell me what makes people snore. My husband snores so loudly he keeps me awake nights. Is there a cure?"

Answer: Snoring is usually caused by some obstruction of the nasal passages. Most cases can be benefited by following a fasting and dieting regime for colds and catarrh.

MORAN AND MACK

MORAN: Where is yo' studyin' all this Cairo-practick stuff.

MACK: In th' book.

MORAN: I didn't know yo' could read.

MACK: I CAN'T read.

MORAN: Well, what's th' use of havin' a book?

MACK: It's got picktures in it.

MORAN: Oh, yo' reads off th' picktures.

MACK: That's it.

MORAN: Yo' is a picture reader.

MACK: That's me.

MORAN: Show me a picture, an' I'll study with yo'.

MACK: Take it easy, Egghead, yo' is liable to get brain fever lookin' at circkus billposters.

MORAN: Look out, here comes a man in. He looks sick.

MACK: If he only looks sick, we is th' guys what is goin' to PROVE it.

Arranging of schedules for the convenience of the staff officers featured the semi-monthly meeting of the Wichitan staff Monday morning in room 121. As the staff is composed of students from both the high school and college, it was found necessary to adjust schedules in order that a definite time could be determined for a class in journalism that is now under consideration by the staff. A vote was taken in order to determine whether or not the staff wanted such a class, with the balloting resulting in affirmative. Prof. A. F. Edwards, sponsor of the weekly, who is in charge of the course, has consented to supply textbooks for the course.

Although no academic credit is to be offered students taking the course in journalism, a deep study of the profession is promised by the instructor. Staff members of the Wichitan are especially urged to be present at all meetings of the class, which is planned for Friday afternoon of each week in room 121.

Special staff pins recently ordered by Mr. Edwards are expected to arrive within the next two or three weeks, it was announced.

Cache of Ancient Cannon Discovered By Two Fishermen on Cuban Coast

HAVANA, Cuba, Feb. 25. (UP)—The Cuban government is investigating the discovery of a cache of ancient cannon found by two fishermen near Key Largo, off the southern coast of Cuba, and purported to offer a proof that Columbus was not the first European navigator to reach America.

The cache, which is believed to contain rich pirate treasures, was found by two brothers, Rafael and Felucho Cortez, and examined yesterday by a party of newspaper men who went to Batbano to investigate reports of the discovery.

The cache was about 15 feet under water, the cannon being laid one above the other, indicating they had been hidden there by pirates or rovers. They were dated 1181, far anteceding the date of Columbus' voyage as far as their origin is concerned.

The two brothers who made the discovery are said to be descendants of Hernandez Cortez, ancient Spanish conqueror. Rafael Cortez lifted the cannon from the water in his hands, displaying enormous strength. Some of the cannon weigh 500 pounds.

There is a legend at Batabano concerning Francois Huanao, a pirate, who once roamed the vicinity, and it is believed he might have loaded some of the cannon with treasure and left them there. Some of them are sprinkled with lead, and these will be investigated first.

Dirt Greater Menace Than War, Sanitation Expert Tells Club

"Dirt has killed far more people than all the machinery of war," declared the speaker. He stated that several of the ancient cities of the world, including Rome and Babylon, had sanitation systems similar to that now used in New York.

Colonel Archer was brought to Wichita Falls under the auspices of the Wichita Falls Master Plumbers' association. He represents the extension service of the national plumbing and heating industries. George W. Wineburne introduced the speaker.

Musical selections were given by a quartet composed of Mrs. Wayne Holmes, Mrs. Luella B. Thompson, R. E. Shepherd and William E. Young. Mrs. F. R. Collard accompanied.

NEW YORK AND HARLEM RAILROAD COMPANY

Five-Year Record

The New York and Harlem Railroad company is controlled by the New York Central lines, which operate the road under lease. The company was formed in 1831 and originally operated a road in New York City. An extension to Chatham, N. Y., was opened in 1852 and was leased to the New York Central for 401 years from April 1873 at a rent equivalent to 8 per cent dividends on the preferred and common stock and interest on the bonds. Later the rental was made interest on $12,000,000 in 3½ per cent bonds and 10 per cent on the stock. The New York & Harlem owns the Fourth Avenue Street railway in New York.

Minority stockholders have recently sought from the New York Central an accounting of revenues through construction of the Grand Central station and from hotel and other buildings on New York & Harlem land, contending it was not the intention of the lease to grant air rights above the land to the New York Central and that stockholders have a claim for a return in excess of the guaranteed dividend.

Bonded debt totals $12,000,000. Capital stock outstanding includes $1,343,950 in 10 per cent preferred stock of $50 par value and $8,656,050 in common of $50 par. Dividends of 10 per cent on both issues are guaranteed by the New York Central and paid regularly. In 1927 net income was $580,802, as compared with $628,686 in 1926.

As of Jan. 1, 1928, total current assets were $767,976. Current liabilities were $767,520.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Feb. 25. (AP)—The cotton market showed increased activity and strength today. Buying was influenced by relatively steady Liverpool cables and favorable reports from the cotton goods trade. May contracts sold up to 20.34 and closed at 20.32, with the general market closing very steady at net advances of 19 to 32 points.

The market opened 1 to 8 points higher and continued to advance on covering, and what appeared to be some broadening of trade and speculative demand. There was considerable March liquidation in preparation for notice tomorrow but this was offset by short covering as well as a good demand from trade interests. This seemed to create an impression that any notices issued tomorrow would be stopped with reasonable promptness, and the market worked quite steadily higher during the balance of the day.

Realizing was encountered on the advances but it was quite readily absorbed on moderate setbacks and the highest prices were reached in the late trading when March sold at 20.31 and the new October contract at 19.75 or 24 to 34 points net higher on the active months. At the close, March contracts were only 3 points under May compared with a difference of 6 points at the close of last Thursday.

The advance was accompanied by favorable comment on reports from the cotton cloth markets, including a statement by a large New York house that its sales last week were 10 per cent in excess of production and that for the first three weeks of February sales had been about 23 per cent over production for the period.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 25. (AP)—The cotton market developed considerable activity today and prices scored a good upturn on a demand prompted by reports that spot interests were buying near months as well as advices from New York stating that there was considerable purchasing of March and May in that market which developed a scarcity of contracts. At the highest March sold at 19.52 compared with 19.25 the day's low point. The option closed 1 point under the high for a net gain of 24 points. The general market closed very steady at net advances of 18 to 24 points.

Despite favorable cables and the bad weather in the belt the market opened easier, first trades being unchanged to 2 points down compared with Saturday's close. Fears of large tenders in New York tomorrow, first March notice day in that market, encouraged some selling after the start and March sold down to 19.25, May 19.46 and July 19.53, or 2 to 4 points net down.

Offerings tapered off at the decline and prices rallied, probably on the unfavorable weather and the belief that March notices in New York would be promptly stopped. By noon March had advanced to 19.44 and active months generally to levels 16 to 17 points above the previous close.

Some realizing attracted by the improvement was absorbed at setbacks of 5 to 6 points and the market started on the upgrade again on coverings by shorts encouraged by the reported scarcity of near month contracts in New York. The highs of the day were reached in final trading. Closing prices were at or near the best.

Steel's Activity Features Trading; Offsets Money Hike and Loan Call

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Feb. 25. (US)—Steel common, with advance of over 7 points, featured another generally firm and slightly more active stock market today. Steel was churned steadily throughout the session and its outstanding strength offset calling of loans and advance in the money rate from 6½ to 9 per cent.

Professionals endeavored to depress the list by attacking different active stocks as the money rate moved high but their efforts were nullified by the performance of the best known market leaders.

Bethlehem Steel gained 3¾, Advance Rumley over 4, Collins & Aikman 11½, but the list as a whole showed gains of a point or less in most of the favorite trading stocks. Missouri Pacific preferred with a 4¼-point advance stood out in an otherwise firm but quiet railroad group. Oils were extremely quiet, but continued to show a good undertone. Trading for the session increased to near 3,500,000 shares.

Steel was most of the market, with W. C. Durant and his colleagues responsible for most of the activity. Special analysis was issued by the stock exchange firm looked upon as sometimes representing insiders in the steel corporation and its appearance proved a big help to the Durant group. It emphasized the favorable earnings outlook and hinted at possible retirement of bonds. Such retirement, if accompanied by a sale of stock, would not be bullish, however, as most of the Steel stockholders want a stock dividend and not rights. At the same time the special analysis was broadcast, several other brokers issued very bullish advice on the outstanding market leader. In fact, this surprisingly sudden realization of the favorable position of Steel by leading groups rather strengthens opinion expressed here last week that the stock is being used in valiant effort to turn the market in the face of reverse opposition. If successful, those interested would try to keep the churning process up until after inauguration at least. To the experienced trader such churning means important liquidation in the market as a whole.

Those active in Steel were responsible for the resistance of Combustion and a few other active stocks. There was further favorable report of the Combustion earnings outlook, but the public was too nervous to follow the group activity and the result was not very satisfying to its sponsors. Nash Motors came in for some good buying, as the reports of its current sales are highly satisfactory. Graham Paige also is doing better business than ever, but the sponsors of the stock are willing to wait for the money powers to have their way with the market before assuming an aggressive stand. Bearish report of Chrysler sales, however, added to the pressure on the stock.

There was nothing surprising in the advance of call money. It was explained as due to preparations for month-end disbursements, but the banks don't have to take such steps until Thursday if necessary at all. The calling of loans mainly was evidence of the co-operation with the reserve policy by member banks who will make bi-weekly adjustment with the reserve tomorrow afternoon. The last statement of the reserve bank did not give any reason for worry about the money situation. It did show, however, that member banks are carrying out the order of the reserve board to shut down on collateral or brokers' loans.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW

CHICAGO, Feb. 25 (AP)—Widening discounts, facilitating transfer of wheat from Missouri river markets to Chicago, had much effect toward bringing about a big setback today in wheat values here. In addition, general rains and snow throughout the middle west and southwest helped improve to a material extent the moisture situation for new crop winter wheat.

Closing quotations on wheat were heavy, 2¼c to 2¾c@2⅞c net lower. Corn finished ⅝c to ⅞c down, oats ¼c to ⅜c off, and provisions varying from 7c decline to a rise of 5c.

It was current talk that shipments of No. 2 hard wheat to this city from Missouri river points were being arranged late today on a basis of ½c a bushel under the price of the May delivery here. This is the widest discount of the season so far, and word of such a development proved to be in the nature of a last straw on the camel's back.

Corn and oats gave way with wheat and as a result of 823,000 bushels increase of the corn visible supply. Provisions were firmer early owing to commission house buying, but reacted later on account of packers' selling and because of lower quotations on hogs.

POPE IS GRATIFIED

ROME, Feb. 25. (UP)—Pope Pius, addressing 2,000 members of the Roman Catholic Youth association today, remarked that he was gratified to notice that the whole world understood he was prompted solely by spiritual motives in effecting the conciliation with the Italian government for settlement of the Roman question.

Baer Facts

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

NEW YORK, Feb. 25—The question before the committee on nobody's business is whether the young lady of 1929 shall be pleasingly plump or skeletonishly thin.

The question that puzzles the young lady of 1929 also puzzled the young lady of 1898.

And in some cases, it's the same young lady.

The only way we can misjudge the future is by the mistakes of the past.

There are numerous male doctors who advise their patients to diet in an effort to sluff off surplus poundage. Every woman likes to scoff heartily. Until the time arrives when she strokes her three chins and reflects:

"I am carrying too many spares."

So she becomes a dietitian in an effort to slenderize her double silhouette. She will live for months on lemons and cucumbers. Which combination is not really a diet but a traffic problem.

The problem being how to prevent the lemon, going down, from passing the cucumber, coming up.

Now, no woman can be elected Miss America if she has a shape like Asia.

But shapes are shapes. And, once established, it is difficult to veto them.

Let us start with the revolutionary era. The girls of that period looked like semi-colons. They wore bustles. Some artificial. Some real.

But George Washington thought they were beautiful. And should we argue with George so close to his birthday?

The ladies of the civil war were also beautiful in their hollow bonnets and their pantaloons. They had very little feet. And we want to warn you in advance that feet are things which cannot be reduced by dieting.

And then the girl of a slightly mildewed calendar made famous by Charles Dana Gibson. She was the rose of yesterday.

But, as we look at her wasp waist and weeping willowy form, we realize that the rose of yesterday was mostly all stem.

When a modern flapper claims she is on a diet, you can bet that she hasn't been invited out to eat that night by the boy friend.

But let Oscar pick up the dinner check and she remembers that she has missed seven meals and that now is the time to catch up.

We would say that the duration of a flapper's dieting depends on environment, circumstances or any other name for a telephone call.

If nature intended you to get fat you may as well stop snubbing your shadow and get used to it. If you are of the svelte type you can eat all you want.

A woman on a diet is a lady who only eats when she thinks no one is looking. We have yet to find one who was so sincere in her mono-famine that she put storm doors on the refrigerator.

Lawton May Get Dairy Inspector

Special to The Record News

LAWTON, Okla., Feb. 25.—Classification of Comanche county dairies through employment of a dairy inspector may be shortly accomplished through the work of representatives of state and federal health departments, now working here.

The passing of a milk ordinance will be necessary as the first step in obtaining inspection of dairies. A daily inspection form would be adopted, if such ordinance were passed, and this would be filled out regularly. This form consists of requirements necessary for the preservation of health and cleanliness, such as physicial examination, tubercular testing, lighting, air-space, floor construction of dairies, etc.

A meeting with dairymen of the county with state and federal representatives will be held early this week. It is said 18 states have adopted the regulations which were originated by the United States department of health.

Testimony for the plaintiff in the suit of Mrs. J. M. McGrath, asking $68,000 damages from the Wichita county water improvement district No. 1 and from the city of Wichita Falls, was started before Judge P. A. Martin in the 89th district court Monday.

Ed McGrath, son of the plaintiff, was kept on the stand throughout the afternoon, replying to the direct questioning of Ed W. Napier, attorney for Mrs. McGrath. His evidence was offered to identify the land involved in the suit, which claims that seepage from an irrigation canal has water-logged fields belonging to the plaintiff. E. B. Surles, representing the water district, began his cross-examination of the witness just before adjournment Monday.

Trial of the case is expected to occupy all of this week in Judge Martin's section of the court.

Business and Professional Women's Club Here Granted State Charter

The Wichita Falls Business and Professional Women's club, organized several years ago, was incorporated by the terms of a charter granted by the secretary of state in Austin Monday, according to Associated Press dispatches received here.

The club is the owner of a clubhouse, located on a 15-acre tract presented several years ago by T. B. Noble. The house and grounds, located just off the Seymour road, have been christened Camp Noble, and serve as a recreational center for business and professional women and girls here.

The names of 50 members are included in the charter, according to Mrs. Joella Terrill Butler, first vice president and one of the incorporators. The club plans to limit its membership to 100, each member to be a shareholder, Mrs. Butler said.

Besides supplying a recreational center and offering a place of entertainment for working girls without homes, the club has its own beneficent enterprises, Mrs. Butler explained. It interests itself in helping ambitious young girls to business education and employment, she said.

Miss Arnie Fay Smith is president of the organization. Other officers and board members include Mrs. Butler, Miss Winfred Ballard, Miss Maude Thomas, Mrs. May F. Lyons, Miss Mamie Kuhfuss and Miss Winnie May Giddings.

ROYAL ARCH DEGREE

The Royal Arch degree was conferred on John A. Mayer, senior warden of Wichita Falls lodge No. 635, A. F. and A. M., at a meeting of chapter No. 202, R. A. M., held Monday evening at the Masonic temple, according to George W. Lawler, secretary.

SCHOOL DAYS

Negro Boy's Efforts To Avoid Punishment Bring Trouble

Scared to go to school because he thought he was due a whipping, a 10-year-old negro boy Monday morning got himself out of the frying pan into the fire by playing hookey and spending his leisure time in attempting to steal a ring off a counter in the Kress store here.

Officials of the company caught him in the act and sent for James A. McDonald, juvenile officer. When the officer heard of the boy's fears, he decided those same school authorities might well handle the additional offense as well. So the officer and the truant went together to school. He got the whipping, the juvenile officer believes.

JACK DEMPSEY TURNS IN NEWS

Ex-Champion Tells About Dodging Bullet

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 25. (UP)—Jack Dempsey believes he escaped possible kidnaping and perhaps serious injury today only because an assailant who fired one shot at him was a poor marksman and had a faint heart.

Dempsey and Floyd Fitzsimmons, fight promoter, reported they found an intruder in their room at the home of Harry Moir, owner of the Morrison hotel, Chicago, early today. When Dempsey started in pursuit of him the visitor fired a single shot at the former heavyweight champion, Dempsey and Fitzsimmons said, but apparently lurked around the Moir mansion for half an hour in hope that Dempsey would come out.

For that half hour Dempsey and Fitzsimmons described themselves virtual prisoners in their room, which had no telephone connection. They were unarmed. Only when they saw an automobile, parked across the street, flash a light as if to signal, and then a few minutes later, two men drive away, did they feel safe to leave the room.

No one else in the house seemed to have heard the shot.

Dempsey did not report the affair to Miami Beach police until nearly noon.

Intensive work will be started at once, he stated, toward the development of a large area during the current year.

Dr. Fred Gross, veterinary, also spoke on the radio program Monday evening, giving an instructional discussion of contagious diseases among different kinds of livestock.

Millions of Families Depend on Dr. Caldwell's Prescription

When Dr. Caldwell started to practice medicine, back in 1875, the needs for a laxative were not as great as they are today. People lived normal, quiet lives, ate plain, wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air and sunshine. But even that early there were drastic physics and purges for the relief of constipation which Dr. Caldwell did not believe were good for human beings to put into their systems. So he wrote a prescription for a laxative to be used by his patients.

The prescription for constipation that he used early in his practice and which he put in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a liquid vegetable remedy, intended for women, children and elderly people, and they need just such a mild, safe, gentle bowel stimulant as Syrup Pepsin.

Under successful management this prescription has proven its worth and is now the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. The fact that millions of bottles are used a year proves that it has won the confidence of people who needed it to get relief from headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath, dyspepsia, colds and fevers.

Millions of families are now never without Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and if you will once start using it you will always have a bottle handy for emergencies.

W. B. Caldwell M.D. AT AGE 83

It is particularly pleasing to know that the most of it is bought by mothers for themselves and the children, though Syrup Pepsin is just as valuable for elderly people. All drug stores have the generous bottles. A trial is sure to convince any household of the merits of this famous prescription.—Adv.
