Uncle Sam Declares That He Has No Intention Of Urging Americans To Leave Nation

(By The Associated Press)

HANKOW, China, Feb. 25—The government of the United States has told Japan in a blunt note that it has no intention of ordering evacuation of Americans in the central China war area as the Japanese army formally had requested.

It was understood in diplomatic circles here that the note declared Americans have a perfect right to live and to carry on their duties in any part of China, regardless of the presence of the Japanese army.

Is Sharp Document

The note was regarded as one of the sharpest documents from the United States government to Japan since the Chinese-Japanese war began.

Authoritative sources here disclosed that Ambassador Joseph C. Grew had handed the United States note to the Japanese government at Tokyo.

Most of the Americans concerned are missionaries.

It was recalled that after the sinking of the United States gunboat Panay by Japanese airplanes, Japan had guaranteed against infringement of, or interference with, the rights of the United States in China.

PANHANDLE, Feb. 25 (AP) — A truck-automobile collision near here last night was fatal to W. S. Flynn, Oklahoma City salesman, who was in the automobile. R. M. Brown, Amarillo, driver of the truck escaped injury. Flynn died two hours after the crash.

Five Suits In Bridge Now

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Feb. 25—And now, to add bedlam to confusion, comes five-suit bridge.

Ely Culbertson calls it "the bridge player's nightmare." "Most people," he said, "can't even handle four-suit bridge."

Howard Schenken of the Four Aces said, "I like it."

The king and queen of England recently purchased two sets, but Americans still have to wait a few weeks because the only commercialized set in this country just cleared customs.

Cards Called Royals

Cards of the new suit, bearing a solid green crown on the faces, are called "royals," the highest suit in the deck. You can play contract or auction with the new set.

Each player received 16 cards and the one remaining is turned face up in the middle of the table. It goes to the highest bidder who then may exchange it for any card in his or the dummy's hand.

Whereas a book now is six tricks, a five-suit book is eight. Instead of bidding "one" as in auction or contract, you have to bid "nine." That's for simplicity. And the game needs all the simplicity it can get.

Special Pensions In Railway Retirement Plan Suggested

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25. (AP)—A high administration official suggested today that special pensions be added to the railroad retirement system, to take care of older workers who lose their jobs when railroads merge.

These pensions, he said informally, might allay organized labor's fear of loss of livelihood and thereby facilitate consolidations designed to save money.

Gen. Pershing Continues To Rally Today

Condition Was So Critical At One Time Last Night That End Was Believed Near

(By The Associated Press)

TUCSON, Ariz., Feb. 25—Gen. John J. Pershing, whose condition became so critical last night physicians predicted the end was near, continued to rally today and an official bulletin said his heart and blood pressure were improved.

"General Pershing's rally continues," said the 9:15 a. m. bulletin issued by Dr. Roland Davison. "He is now better than he has been since early yesterday afternoon."

Condition Is Critical

The bulletin, however, contained the discouraging statement that "his condition must still be regarded as critical."

"No prediction can be made at this time," Dr. Davison stated.

The World war chief, who lapsed into unconsciousness at 9 p. m., causing his physicians to surmise he could not last long, rallied under the administration of heart stimulants and "partly regained consciousness."

His temperature was normal and he rested well during the early morning hours. He rallied enough at one time to show signs of recognizing those at his bedside.

Encouragement To World War Chief Sent By President

Slash In Funds For Interior Department Being Proposed

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25. (AP)—The house appropriations committee proposed today that congress provide $124,998,730 for interior department expenses in the year starting July 1.

The total is $7,947,535 less than the department received last year and $2,490,535 below the sum recommended by the budget bureau.

Chief reductions below current year funds include $4,617,000 for the reclamation bureau, $2,010,469 for the Indian bureau, and $2,761,708 for the national park service.

Initial Dribble Of Income Taxes Is Being Reported

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25. (AP)—The initial dribble of 1937 income tax payments encouraged treasury officials today in their hopes of collecting from $725,000,000 to $750,000,000 next month.

Collections through Feb. 21 totaled $1,252,738,507, compared with $791,232,263 in the similar period of the previous fiscal year. In March, 1937, $700,272,831 in income taxes was collected.

Committee Approval Is Given Anti-Profiteering Measure

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25. (AP)—The house military committee approved today a bill to give the president broad authority to prevent profiteering in war time.

The committee's action broke a long committee deadlock over the legislation, which President Roosevelt recommended in his national defense measure to congress.

The measure contains a provision for a universal draft of man power and industry in wartime.

Nazis Claim Schuschnigg Must Go After Hitler Is Snubbed; German Anger Said Aroused

BY LOUIS P. LOCHNER
Associated Press Staff Writer

BERLIN, Feb. 25—Austria's Chancellor Schuschnigg had the opportunity to rally to Hitler, he failed to seize it and therefore must go into the discard—this is the reaction of a number of leading nazis in Berlin.

Their concern is because Schuschnigg did not praise Germany's Hitler in his speech to the Austrian parliament, broadcast in Germany.

Independence Stressed

Schuschnigg stressed Austria's determination to retain her sovereignty, as against the German idea of union of German-speaking nations.

Prominent nazis in a series of midnight interviews prefaced their remarks by emphasizing they were not speaking for Fuehrer Hitler, but held that their viewpoint was that of nazis generally.

"Why did Schuschnigg not find the same generous words for Hitler as our fuehrer found Sunday for the Austrian chancellor?" the nazis asked. "Why did he read the riot act so aggressively to our Austrian nazi comrades?

Missed Big Chance

"Why open up old wounds? Schuschnigg missed his big chance. For us he is finished. History will take its course without him.

"We got the police and the ministry of the interior as well as large sections of the army; Austria is ours." (The Austrian Interior Minister Seysz-Inquart is pro-German and friendly with the nazis.)

"It is too bad that Schuschnigg must end thus. We already had a central office established in Berlin

Gaiety Reigns At Galveston Mardi Gras

(By The Associated Press)

GALVESTON, Feb. 25.—This isle shook off winter's lethargy today and became a kaleidoscope of color as the island's seventy-first Mardi Gras—an old world custom of fun—began.

For the next five days a people getting ready for the sackcloth and ashes of Lent will spend their time in a riot of fun. King Frivolous XXI will rule by the laws of gaiety. Mayor Adrian Levy today started the festival with a proclamation for Mardi Gras as the destroyer Somers, and the coast guard cutter Saranac, warped into docks.

Youths To Have Fling

Tomorrow 6,000 youths of the island and the mainland will have their fling at the merrymaking with a mammoth parade, a junior coronation, and the freedom their elders enjoy during the balance of the festival.

King Frivolous XXI will arrive Monday morning and will disembark from his ship to the music of bands, the waving of purple banners, the clanging of bells and salvos of artillery bellowing a welcome. From the beautiful seawall boulevard, where he will be greeted first, King

Indian Chief Faces Charge

(By The Associated Press)

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 25.—An execution carried out under Seminole law that was old when Columbus discovered the new world brought a grizzled chief into the white man's courts today to answer for the slaying, while his fellow braves acclaimed his deed.

In the flickering firelight of the Pirate's Cove Indian village the chiefs puffed on their pipes and agreed that the shooting of John Billy, 30, by Chief John Osceola, 78-year-old leader, was justified by the Seminole code.

May Drop Prosecution

There was some question whether the proud chieftain would be prosecuted.

He was released in care of his attorney after being booked at police headquarters and returned to his camp for the pow-wow.

State Investigator Stuart K. Smith said Osceola described John Billy, a member of the tribe, as "heap much bad."

Officers said Osceola apparently had been delegated to carry out the execution under tribal law. They said the old chief, partly crippled, yesterday was driven by his son in a truck to the nearby village where John Billy lived. They said Billy was called outside his house and killed by Osceola with one blast from a shotgun.

Army Outshines The Navy At Reception In White House

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (AP)—The army outshone the navy at last night's White House reception for service officers and their wives.

The reason: New blue dress uniforms replaced the army's customary olive drab attire, in use since the World war.

"I'm jealous," laughed Admiral William D. Leahy, chief of naval operations, as he saw a crowd inspecting General Malin Craig's uniform.

CHAPTER 1

A tall lithe girl in a brown coat and bonnet stood knocking on old Oliver Dart's oaken street door in the heart of London while a summer storm blustered and the sperm-oil street lamps were being lit. She had come three thousand miles by sailboat across the Atlantic and a hundred miles by coach from Bournemouth, and she was only just losing her patience.

The door opened a crack to let a plump red-faced woman in a starched cap peer out. The girl said to her, "Let me in, please! I'm wet to the skin!"

"Who be you?"

"Polly Chelsey. Great-niece to Mister Oliver Dart. I've come from Connecticut to see him."

"Where be Connecticut? In Yorkshire?"

"In America."

"Lud!" There was a gasp, and the door opened.

On the threshold the girl turned to call to the driver of a gig that had brought her to the door: "Cabby, bring my trunk, and mind you don't drop it!"

The driver lumbered up the steps with a small doeskin trunk studded with brass nails and deposited it on the hall floor.

"How much do I owe you?" asked Polly Chelsey.

"Two shillings, eight pence, Miss."

"You're a robber, but here 'tis. And good night to you."

"Good night to you, young Miss. Journey's end be bright!"

"Bright!" echoed Miss Polly Chelsey forlornly after the street door had banged shut. She looked around the narrow wainscoted hallway which was decorated with nothing, as far as she could see, but a winding staircase and a fat old woman holding a candle. "Well," she said a little uncertainly, "could I see my uncle now?"

"It'll lay him out, Miss. The surprise."

"But I wrote him a letter before Christmas and told him I'd be here this summer on my cousin's brig, the Trim Yankee out of New Haven. He let me come."

"There was no letter, Miss."

"What? He never got it?" The girl stood pondering a moment while the wet cloak clung to her in sculptured lines and her dripping bonnet sent small rivulets down her surprised young face. "Well, that's a pretty pass! — But never mind. Take me to him and I'll recite the letter like a magpie."

"I'm Mrs. Broggs. Miss—cook to Mr. Dart. I'd advise you not to see him. No good can come of it. Let me make you comfortable in the house unbeknowns to him, Miss!"

"But there's no sense to that," cried Polly impatiently. "I've come to see him on business. If you mean he's a cross old man, so be it. I've known many such in our town of Lyme."

Still Mrs. Boggs demurred, shifting her feet uneasily and saying "Lud"! both under her breath and aloud. Presently she said, "He's above stairs in his study, Miss—supping. Follow me, if you must, but don't say I didn't warn you."

Up they went, and Polly Chelsey

Four Persons Dead In Plane Crashes

(By The Associated Press)

RENO, Feb. 25.—An early morning pleasure flight ended in the death today of Robert Hancock, popular 50-year-old aviator from Burlingame, Calif., when the luxury transport plane he was piloting cracked up as it was taking off from the Reno airport.

Hancock was flying the party of Adolph B. Spreckels, jr., young San Francisco sugar heir and owner of the plane.

Passengers In Plane

Passengers in the plane with Spreckels were Lois Clarke de Fuyter Spreckels Clinton, 26-year-old former wife of Spreckels; Mrs. Alex Young, 30, of San Francisco, and Rex Leslie, 35, San Francisco.

Dr. Louis Lombardi of St. Mary's hospital in Reno said Mrs. Clinton was the most seriously hurt. She suffered a serious head injury and possible internal injuries. The others suffered from cuts and bruises. All were put to bed at the hospital.

The twin motored ship took off and when about 100 feet in the air winged over. The pilot gunned his motors in an effort to pull the plane out of a sideslip. It hit the ground with its motors racing and the fuselage buckled in the middle.

Pilot Is Killed

Hancock was dead when taken from the wreckage.

The party left San Francisco at 10:40 last night, arriving in Reno shortly after midnight. After spending the early morning here they were just taking off at about 5 a. m., for the 180 air mile return flight to San Francisco when the ship crashed.

(By The Associated Press)

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif., Feb. 25.—Doctors strove today to save the life of James Lawrence, son of an English nobleman and only survivor of an airplane crash on the William Randolph Hearst ranch that killed Lord Terence Conyngham Plunket of London, his wife and their pilot.

Lawrence, his body covered with burns and his ankle fractured, lay in San Luis Obispo sanitarium, where he was removed late yesterday from the accident scene, 40 miles north of here. Dr. James Marshall said he expected Lawrence to recover.

Inquest To Be Held

The bodies of Lord and Lady Plunket and Pilot T. J. Phillips, former Monrovia policeman, were brought to a mortuary here pending an inquest by Coroner C. W. Palmer.

Seeking to land his titled passengers and their traveling companion on a fog-shrouded airport at the ranch, Phillips overshot the field, one wing struck the ground and the plane crashed in flames.

The group had left Los Angeles at 2 p. m., for San Simeon, where the Plunkets and Lawrence were to be guests of Hearst. The plane was owned by the publisher's San Francisco and Los Angeles newspapers. Phillips, who gave up his police work two years ago, was the plane's regular pilot.

Oklahoma Mayor Likes Job And Refuses $400 Month

PRYOR, Okla., Feb. 25 (AP) — Thomas J. Harrison had rather be mayor of Pryor at $25 a month than head of the land acquisition department of the Grand River dam authority at more than $400.

"I have become used to $25 a month," he said when offered the job. "Such a salary probably would be too rich for my blood."

Harrison, mayor for 10 years, also is in the insurance business.

TO SEEK DEATH

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Feb. 25. (AP)—District Attorney Otis D. Babcock said today he would demand the death penalty for Robert Sterling, 31-year-old negro convict who went berserk in the prison yard at Folsom yesterday and killed a guard and critically injured a fellow prisoner before he was overpowered.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 25 (AP) — The Record said today that President Franklin D. Roosevelt had suggested William C. Bullitt, of Philadelphia, United States ambassador to France, as a substitute choice for governor to restore party harmony among Pennsylvania Democrats.

The president, the newspaper said, suggested Bullitt at a White House conference today. The conference was called in an effort to end the party split which developed after the tentative slating last week of Charles Alvin Jones, of Pittsburgh, for governor.

Debs Corner Famous Desert Rat In An Effort To Learn His Secrets; But Scotty Is Smart

(By The Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 25.—Thirty-five debutantes of California pioneer families caught and quizzed the famous Midas desert rat, Death Valley Scotty.

They placed the 62-year-old, blue-eyed mystery man on the witness stand. An overstuffed easy chair. Spreading themselves in a circle on the floor around him, they bent their eager, youthful energies to ferreting out secrets which have mystified the world years before these girls were born.

They perform an intellectual dissection each week on some notable visitor in the southland.

The secretive burro man, who says he has spent $8,000,000 since the Tonapah gold field rush, and built a $2,381,000 castle in Death Valley, beamed and told stories of fascinating adventures.

"Where is your gold mine?" quizzed one of the girls.

"On a bluff in the desert," the cagey prospector replied.

"Why did you build the castle?"

"Wal, I knew Bill Rogers forty years, long ago, when he was a cowboy. One time up in the castle he asked that question. 'I'll tell you, Bill,' I sez. 'When you die they'll be asking people to contribute for a monument. But, Bill, this is mine, the castle. This monument oughta last a thousand years.'"

"What do you do in the castle? Don't you get thrills all the time about it?"

"Wal, pal, you ain't married

Proposals For All Products Are Drafted

Federal Subsidy Of 2.4 Cents Pound On Cotton And 12 Cents On Wheat Will Be Offered

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25—Farmers who comply with the new crop control program this year will receive a government subsidy of 2.4 cents a pound on their cotton and 12 cents a bushel on their wheat, agriculture department officials decided tentatively today.

Payments for tobacco may range from half a cent to one and a half cents a pound, and for rice .125 cents a pound.

To Appropriate Fund

The subsidies would be paid from the $500,000,000 fund which congress is authorized to appropriate for benefits to farmers diverting land from soil depleting to soil-building crops.

The tentative rate for potatoes has been set at 3 cents a bushel, and peanuts 2 cent a pound. No rate has been determined yet for corn.

This year's farm program inaugurates a new method of making payments to cooperating growers. Last year they were paid on the basis of the amount of land they diverted from the major soil-depleting crops.

Paid On All Crops

Cotton growers, for example, received 5 cents a pound on the normal production of each acre of land taken from cotton, up to 35 per cent of their base acreage.

This year growers will be paid the subsidy rate on all crops produced on acreages allotted them for each major crop.

Cotton growers who knowingly plant in excess of their acreage allotment will be denied subsidies, providing marketing quotas are invoked. Otherwise, 5 cents a pound would be deducted for their surplus production.

Will Be Penalized

Growers of other crops will be penalized by means of deductions if they plant in excess. For instance, the program as being drafted would penalize wheat growers 96 cents a bushel, rice growers a cent a pound, and potato growers 30 cents a bushel

Senate Battle Is In Offing

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—President Roosevelt's year-old request for authority to reorganize federal bureaus became today the focal point for the second bitter senate fight of this session.

The battle, which will begin Monday, is expected to last at least two weeks—not nearly so long as the anti-lynching struggle, but probably much more intense.

Old Foes Opposed

In the forefront of opposition were Senators Wheeler (D-Mont), Byrd (D-Va) and Burke (D-Neb), who stood together a year ago against President Roosevelt's court bill.

Wheeler announced last night he would seek to have congress pass on all reorganization changes made by the president, who under the present bill could abolish and consolidate bureaus.

"If the bill passes as it now stands," Wheeler said, "congress ought to admit it is incompetent to legislate, and turn all of its functions over to the executive branch of the government as has been done in Germany, Italy and Russia."

LSU's Face Red As Students Duck Teacher In Cold Pond

BATON ROUGE, La., Feb. 25. (AP) — University officials spluttered embarrassment with disclosure that Louisiana State dairy students tossed a teacher into an icy pond.

Students said they became irked at Dayton M. Carrell, graduate student fellow who taught them a laboratory class, picked him up fully dressed and, after swinging his body back and forth a few times to gain momentum, let him soar well out in the middle of the freezing water.

School authorities, at first denying everything, said later an investigation was underway.

Carrell, who came here from Abilene, Tex., wouldn't talk much. He didn't deny the ducking, however.

"No," he said, "I don't deny anything."

He refused comment on the students' charges he "meddled" and "snooped" around the laboratory, reasons they gave for their actions.

Carrell said the dairy department was investigating the incident.

"But I don't know what's going to happen."

The students gave Carrell credit for taking his ducking in good nature.

"I know where you boys are taking me but I don't know why," they quoted him as saying as they hauled him toward the pond.

A little later he climbed shivering from the water.

More Water For Growing Lubbock Will Be Sought

City To Drill Three Wells; Trailer Menace Studied

Action to provide a greater source of water for Lubbock's increasing population and to signalize the "beginning of the end" for the conceded menace of trailer house construction highlighted 19 items of business considered Thursday when city commissioners held a regular semi-monthly session in City hall.

Several Witnesses Heard

Diligent consideration allowed the body, all representatives of which were in place, to hear several witnesses and to deal with a heavy program of 19 business items before adjournment at 6 o'clock.

After considering bids from four drilling contractors, commissioners decided to accept offers of B. G. Barron and W. P. Crawford to drill a 140-foot, 24-inch well each in the northwest section of Lubbock, Marlin R. Smith, city engineer, to award a third well's contract to either Barron or Crawford after passing on relative merits of their work.

Smith Gives Information

Evidence of the need for expansion of water facilities, Smith appeared before the commission with a map showing present service of the water department and explained potentials of the proposed work.

Water would be supplied with an abundance of pressure, whereas last summer consumption was too nearly at the supply index, it was pointed out. Sixteen-, fourteen- and ten-inch mains would be constructed.

Barron offered to drill a test well for 60 cents a foot and would complete the well permanently for $4.30 a foot. He offered to begin work in seven days and to complete it in 75 days.

Complete In 60 Days

Crawford submitted a bid of 60 cents a foot for the test well, $3 for completing it for permanency, saying he could begin activities in five days and complete them in 60 days.

Flack and Pierson of Seagraves would have undertaken the construction at the rate of 80 cents and $4, starting in four days and completing in 30 days.

L. A. Peebles submitted a bid of 50 cents and $4.50, beginning in five days and completing in 60 days. He agreed to use his own engine equipment which would have precluded building of a power line and setting of transformers by the city. His $5 bid, however, was high for those submitted.

Paced by Mayor Ross Edwards' suggestion, interpreted in his opening statement that "This thing soon will be too big to handle," the commission passed on first reading an ordinance governing trailer houses, the motion being worded that the city attorney may revise an ordinance submitted by W. H. Rodgers, city manager, to the body.

The ordinance would define size and construction of houses, as well as where they might be placed and other factors designed to end an expressed peril of unsanitary conditions, unsightliness and other factors.

One Man Building 100

John R. Sechrist, hotel proprietor of 1315 Avenue F, testified before the commission in regard to the trailer houses. He said the dumping of wastes from them, since few assertedly have facilities for disposal of sewage, slops or garbage, was prevalent. Furthermore, he said, he had been informed one man "is building 100 of them (trailers) now."

J. A. Fortenberry, commissioner, interposed a statement he had been informed the houses are being placed in the back yards of prominent residential areas to be rented to Texas Technological college boys. Other commissioners said negroes had been rented such places in increasing numbers.

Verging On Emergency

All agreed the situation not only is alarming, but verging on an emergency.

Sechrist suggested the city provide a place where the nomadic and semi-nomadic (depending on whether they have permanent wheels) types of abode might be congregated outside the city limits, at a sufficient distance to protect Lubbock's thousands.

The city manager read excerpts from a control plan used to advantage for wheel-equipped trailers exclusively in a greater population center. A two-weeks time limit in any given location was suggested, and an extra-careful and regular sanitation check.

Commissioner A. J. Richardson made the motion.

Proposal Is Passed

An alternate proposal that heavy traffic arteries be made into boulevards or that traffic signals be installed at Broadway and Avenue Q and at Sixteenth street and Avenue Q, with stop signs on the north side of the intersection of Tenth and K, the south of Thirteenth and J, the south of Fifteenth and O, and the north of Fifteenth and V, was passed. Pushed over for future consideration also was a proposal for stop signals at Main and L and for parking meters on L from Main to Broadway. Police submitted the plan, an outgrowth of a recent survey.

Aplomb of the commission was slightly jarred just before adjournment, when Commissioner Richardson answered Mayor Edwards, "That about all, gentlemen?" with, "Yes, there's just one more thing."

Favors Higher Salaries

He launched into an explanation that the city of Lubbock, having annual revenues of approximately $500,000, should be taken "care of" by a commission "paid higher salaries."

He suggested, in substance, the mayor should be paid a monthly salary of $200, commissioners $100, and that the mayor "should devote his full time to the duties" of seeing city business "conducted in a businesslike manner."

He compared county and city commissions, attempting to show the county commission has a more favorable basis for conduct of business affecting those they represent, since, in effect, their remuneration is greater and they feel they can devote more time to their official duties.

Received No Support

In connection with his plan, which received no support from other commissioners, Commissioner Richardson proposed the city commission should meet four times monthly.

Asked if the plan would not conflict with provisions of the city manager plan, Commissioner Richardson said it might, "to some degree."

Other commissioners, W. G. McMillan and W. B. Price, as well as Mayor Edwards, firmly reiterated to Commissioner Richardson's occasional questions punctuating a continual explanation of his plan that they would prefer serving "without any remuneration whatsoever" to seeing salaries of mayor and commission hiked.

Mayor Edwards said, "Plenty of Lubbock persons would take the positions of mayor and commissioners at the same price we're getting."

McMillan Expresses View

Commissioner McMillan said (and his statement brought approving nods from the rest of the opposition bloc ranged about Commissioner Richardson's suggestion): "I would be willing to meet four or five times a month, or even more if business demanded, without asking more remuneration—or would do so without remuneration whatsoever."

Commissioner Fortenberry said he "would not consider more pay" and that "some of the greatest cities pay their commissioners nothing."

Mayor Edwards said duties of the commission should be considered a "civic duty."

Richardson Proposes Election

Commissioner Richardson, who in the same breath informed ". . . and I am not running for re-election," proposed calling a special election "to let the public decide" the question. He was informed he might have the city attorney prepare his motion for amending the city charter, since there was some doubt expressed by the proposal's author as to necessary procedure.

J. A. Lindsey appeared to learn the commission's plan toward renting all or part of the 400-acre the "Boles tract" southeast of the city, recently acquired for sewage disposal purposes. He said he would farm the land "for the city" for 50 cents a cultivation and for 50 cents a watering, exclusive of constructing necessary ditches. In return, he said the city would need to secure a right-of-way under the Fort Worth and Denver City railroad track for passage of a water conduit. It was decided, on motion of Commissioner McMillan, to advertise for cash rental bids, returnable at the next session of the commission.

To Investigate Complaints

Commissioner McMillan, supported by Commissioner Richardson, said investigation should be made into complaints some city employes had been doing electrical contract work, despite their asserted failure to have executed bonds for that purpose. The body also discussed an asserted practice of some lumber yards "actually to be contracting construction projects" without having posted bond, or having provided compensation insurance for employes.

Resolution was made that one mill per square foot of floor space would be sufficient basis for building permit requirements in instances governing specific construction, which would be defined closely. Three mills is the present rate. One cotton warehouse recently constructed cost $60, "and only one inspection was required," said Commissioner McMillan. "That is too much for such type of construction." The building department will draft an amendment to the building code.

Other Matters Handled

Also handled: Commissioners will seek to effect a settlement either in money or in hospitalization with Jack Strickland, who was injured when working for the city in 1936 and concerning whose damage action against the city failed in 99th district court recently when the jury absolved the city from negligence, but through a mistake failed to award the plaintiff a percentage of damages he had asked; to release Paul Barrier from a paving lien in front of Seventh street property he recently sold; approved a sign bond for C. E. McGehee, an electrical bond for H. L. Burden, and general contractors' bonds for C. T. Book and J. Ray Givens; agreed to pay D. J. Schlag, until recently building inspector for the city, for a two-weeks vacation allowed him, but which he did not take; acceptance of a lot between Eighteenth and Nineteenth streets on Avenue K which Hurley Carpenter agreed to deed the city in case a tax of approximately $260 against it were absorbed; to avoid "skips" in pavement; discussed sale of green grubs owned by the city and how to dispose of them, and the possibility of having to borrow on paving certificates or issue warrants.

Miss Lavenia Williams, city secretary, and W. D. Wilson, law partner of Durwood H. Bradley, city attorney, also attended the session.

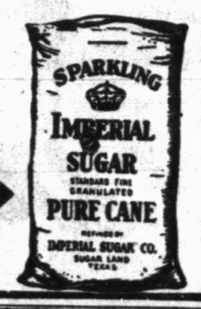

A baby is born in New York City every four minutes.

Heiress Slain

A prolonged drinking bout in a cheap rooming house, rose into a brawl over two kittens and culminated in the death from unknown causes of Mrs. Harriet Nielson, above, member of a wealthy California family. New York police arrested William King, 45, an unemployed saxophonist, who admitted striking the woman after she had smashed a gin bottle over his face. Mrs. Nielson was formerly a member of an Olympic diving team.

THE CHOICEST ARE USED

As I walked out one morning for pleasure,
I spied a cow-puncher all riding alone;
His hat was throwed back and his spurs was a-jingling,
And as he approached me he warbled this song,

Whoopee ti yi yo, git along little dogies,
It's your misfortune and none of my own,
Whoopie ti yi yo, git along little dogies,
For you know Wyoming will be your new home.

Your mother she was raised way down in Texas,
Where the jimpson weed and sand-burrs grow;
Now we'll fill you up on prickly pear and cholla
Till you are ready for the trail to Idaho

Whoopee ti yi yo, etc. . . . . .

Early in the spring we round up the dogies,
Mark and brand and bob off their tails;
Round up our horses, load up the chuck-wagon,
Then throw the dogies upon the trail.

Whoopee ti yi yo, etc. . . . . .

—From WHOOPEE TI YI YO

When the yearly round-up comes, the choicest animals are cut out of the herd to be fattened for market. From them comes the nation's best beef. The poorer specimens—the luckless dogies—must hit the long trail to graze and seek their own food . . . . Out of all the coffees the world market affords, Duncan selects the choicest beans, to be blended and roasted and packed under the name of Admiration Coffee. Today, Admiration outsells any other coffee in Texas. There is just something about it's aroma that makes you want to buy it and something about its flavor that makes you keep on using it.

This is one of a series of advertisements finding inspiration in the original, authentic cowboy ballads. Selections are from the John A. Lomax collections.

Testimony In Case Offered

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25. (AP) — Oklahoma's old age pensions rolls are crowded because thousands of pioneers failed to strike it rich after Indian territory was opened up for settlement, the social security board was told today.

Rep. Massingale (D-Okla) testified it was not at all startling that 584 of every 1,000 persons over 65 in the state were on the "needy" pensioners roster.

Failed To Get Money

Persons without any wealth poured into the state during the opening of territory and subsequent oil booms, he said, and failed to accumulate money.

The federal board completed hearings on charges of irregularities in the administration of the state pension system. It was brought out that, even if the board holds up federal assistance, Oklahoma's 70,000 pensioners will get their March checks. State officials said they had on hand about $1,800,000 in state funds.

Arthur J. Altmeyer, chairman of the federal board, observed that the board had a difficult problem to solve—protecting the state's needy aged and, at the same time, protecting taxpayers in both Oklahoma and the country as a whole. The board has threatened to cut Oklahoma from the federal assistance list.

Federal investigators testified yesterday that at least $685,000 in old age pensions had been paid out irregularly. The federal government foots half the pension bill.

Oklahoma officials denied none of the board's charges, but blamed pressure from the state legislature, drouth, business depression, a general misunderstanding of the social security act, limited administrative funds and "growing pains."

Reform had been started already, they said, and would proceed with all possible speed.

What's This--Love?

Cinemactress June Lang recently told New York reporters that A. C. Blumenthal, Broadway producer, with whom she is shown holding hands, is only her friend. Mr. Blumenthal declined to discuss his emotions in the public prints. Love or not, whatever the case, Miss Lang and Mr. Blumenthal apparently see eye to eye on the matter.

Made Her Kill

Eyes turned heavenward, 20-year-old Margaret Tack, shown above on the witness stand in a Detroit court, seems to be listening for "voices" of the sort which, she testified, impelled her to kill Lloyd McCardy, her sweetheart. The girl said the voices told her "He will never marry me." She feared she would become an unwed mother, she said, so shot McCardy and then herself in a parked automobile last Sept. 9.

Junior High School Students Exhibiting Pottery Work

An exhibit of 50 pottery pieces, work of seventh grade students of Mrs. Bruce Bryan, is being shown in Junior High school library.

Sixteen pieces, shaped by eighth grade students, are being completed by commercial potters and will be added to the exhibit this spring. Illustrations of ancient pottery are being used in classes.

Students carved tools to work the clay and studied other pottery. Pieces are designed by students. It was fired in the school furnace and again by commercial potters.

Pictures of the exhibit will appear in the Cowboy Roundup, school yearbook.

No wonder that this sensational winter gasoline is way out in front for starting icy motors with split-second speed.

More! It snaps up pick-up ... peps up power ... and steps up mileage. You don't have to fight the choke or baby the clutch. You get touch-and-go starting every time your toe taps the button.

Phillips can afford to give motorists highest test at the price of ordinary low-test motor fuels because Phillips is the WORLD'S LARGEST PRODUCER OF NATURAL HIGH TEST GASOLINE. Rail Changes Being Asked

BRADY, Feb. 25 (AP)—The Railroad Commission of Texas today heard an application by the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe railway for authority to readjust its train schedule on the San Saba and Menard districts.

C. F. Petet, secretary of the commission, conducted the hearing. Testimony will be given the commission and a decision probably will be returned soon.

Reduction Is Asked

The application asked for a reduction of the Santa Fe's train service on the San Saba district from daily, except Sunday, to tri-weekly service, and to establish daily, except Saturday, service on the Menard district.

W. E. Maxson, vice-president and general manager of the Santa Fe lines, the first witness for the company, said the change was requested to better serve that section which is now giving the railroad most of its business.

F. H. Christian, superintendent of the road, explained the proposed change and outlined the schedule as it would affect both districts. J. S. Hershey, general freight agent, testified that Brady alone of the Menard district, had supplied more than 50 per cent of shipments of all other stations combined on the San Saba district.

Operate At Loss

Passenger receipts showed that during 1937, trains 53 and 54 on the San Saba district operated at net loss of $1,545.

Delegations from San Saba, Richland Springs and Eden of the San Saba district vigorously protested the proposed changes.

James Daniel, vice-president of the Eden State bank, and proprietor of a warehouse, said the changes would hurt materially his section. Others from Eden who testified were C. B. Hobby, grain buyer and commission man, and G. Y. Lee, stock farmer and secretary-treasurer of the Farm Loan association.

R. L. McConnell, secretary of the San Saba Chamber of Commerce, led a group of protestants from that city, with S. C. Dofflemeyer, Mayor J. T. McConnell, and H. O. Timmons testifying.

J. T. Steadham of Fort Worth represented the railroad transportation brotherhoods.

Mardi Gras

Frivolous XXI will be escorted by soldiers and sailors to the heart of town. There the mayor and other dignitaries will greet him and give him the keys to the city.

Great Parade Planned

After nightfall the great Mardi Gras parade, witnessed by thousands, will wind through the streets. Clowns and courtiers, vikings, imps, druids, devils, spirits and apes will go arm in arm with sea gods, nymphs and mermaids in this frolicsome spectacle.

The king's ball, a social highlight, will be held at the Galvez hotel during the night. A medley of maskers, knights and beggars, jungle clad cave men and blond cuties, will gambol at the ball.

Pageant And Ball

On Shrove Tuesday the Mardi Gras will flare to its colorful denouement with a pageant and ball during which King Frivolous XXI and his queen will be coronated and their identity made known. A gorgeous tableau artistically rehearsed by professionals will precede the coronation. The grand duchess of Texas, Miss Katherine Smith of Dallas, will be received on a stage filled with duchesses and their escorts from many Texas towns.

Then, until the clock rings out the funmakers' attire and rings in Lent, the carnival spirit will prevail.

Director Gus A. Amundsen, jr., predicted 50,000 Mardi Gras celebrants would visit Galveston during the festival. Most of them, he said, would arrive Saturday and stay through the whole show.

calmly met today an ever increasing burden, as telegrams, telephone calls and personal visits took more and more of her strength.

The strain of the two-week vigil at the bedside of her ailing brother, showed plainly in her face. But she was composed as she met enquirers, and answered in a calm voice the long distance calls that came from all parts of the nation.

Telegrams poured in from friends and acquaintances and from men high in international diplomacy, as one of the last of the World war leaders lay seriously ill.

Miss Pershing attended to them all.

Pershing's Rank Was Settled When He Entered West Point

PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 25. (AP)—General John J. Pershing's rank was settled when he entered West Point, Governor Charles H. Martin of Oregon, retired army major general, recalled today.

"I was a class mate of his at the military academy," the governor said. "He was nearly 22 years old when he entered, only a few months under the age limit for admission.

"He had been a school teacher in Missouri, and on account of his general bearings and his knowledge of things, he was made president of the class. From the very outset, his nickname was 'The General.'

"He ranked high in the cadet corps, but had no intimate associates. He never was chummy with anyone.

"He was the same way in the army. But wherever he was given a job to do, he did it."

When Dr. Delporte, of the Belgian National Observatory, discovered a tiny planet in February last year, he moved the range of known planets much closer to the earth.

Group Hospitalization Is Declared To Be Great Contribution To Social Welfare

DALLAS, Feb. 25. (AP)—Group hospitalization was declared this generation's greatest contribution toward social advancement last night as Dr. Justin F. Kimball, originator of the movement, was honored by the chamber of commerce with a testimonial dinner.

Dr. Kimball is executive vice-president of Baylor university hospital and medical units in Dallas.

Speakers acclaimed him as a practical humanitarian, who is helping others help themselves. That was declared the soundest form of social work.

Patients Neglected

"Before Dr. Kimball came along with this idea hospitals were half full of empty beds and the country was full of moderate income folks who were not getting adequate medical attention," Robert Jolly, of Houston, past president of the American Hospital association, said. "Only two classes of folks were getting proper hospitalization then and they were the rich to whom bills were no tragedy and the very poor who went as charity patients.

"The idea sounded too good to be true when it was first proposed," Jolly said, "but it works and is spreading like wild fire."

He declared that physicians, hospitals and patients all profit from the arrangement.

Stock Market

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, Feb. 25 (AP) — The stock market shook off "bad news" with little effort today and resumed its climb toward recovery territory.

Yesterday's Chrysler dividend omission brought some selling at the opening, but this was absorbed easily and losses running to a point or more generally were soon converted into gains of as much.

Chrysler, more than 10 minutes late in appearing on the ticker tape, was down 2¾ points. It subsequently regained the greater part of this.

Bonds and commodities, hesitant on the get-away, quickly attracted support along with stocks.

Selected steels, aircrafts, rubbers, mail orders, utilities, copper, farm implements and specialties took their turn on the upward slant.

Among these were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown, Douglas Aircraft, Boeing, U. S. Rubber, Goodyear, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, Western Union, Consolidated Edison, American and Foreign Power preferreds, Anaconda, Kennecott, J. I. Case, International Harvester, Westinghouse, General Electric, Allis Chalmers, Johns-Manville, Union Carbide, U. S. Gypsum, Newport Industries, Dome, Homestake and McIntyre.

Desert Rat

are yuh? But you will be getting underway some day and spend a couple of years working hard to catch the feller. Then, after you're hitched, some day you'll wake up and look at him thar asleep and ask yourself, 'Why did I work like a mule for this?' That's the way with me and the castle. It's there and I just don't pay much attention to it".

The girls served tea.

"Why do you do the sensational things you do?" asked Miss Joine Alderman.

"Why do you kiss the feller you like?"

Scotty always has the trigger-quick mental drop on anyone he is with. Before she realized it, Miss Alderman replied:

"Because I like to—oh my, I'm always making breaks!"

"You got it, that's it," Scotty said consolingly.

"Tell us all about your castle, it is so thrilling,' said Yvette Wilcox, hostess.

"Wal, girls, I'll tell ya while ya eat. I spent forty years a-plannin' and a-buildin' it. I should be spending the rest of my life talking about it. You're all welcome to come up and see it. I'll feed and water you."

And he left the girls more mystified than when he stepped into their curious circle.

This Time Man Really Wished That Policeman Knew Him

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 25. (AP) — Patrolman R. C. Wedam met a man he thought he knew on the street today and greeted him with a "hello Fred."

The man looked at him. "You know me?" he asked.

"I'm sorry," Wedman replied, "I thought you were someone I knew."

"I'm sorry too," the man said, "because I don't know myself."

Later, at General hospital, Mrs. John Bunders identified him as her husband, business agent for a pole and tie workers union, who had been missing since Monday night. He was unable to recognize her, however. Hospital attendants said he was suffering from amnesia.

Census Chief Declares That Depression Has Hit Bottom

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (AP) — President Roosevelt received a report today from John D. Biggers, his unemployment census administrator, that "it looks to me like the recession will not go beyond its present bounds."

The industrialist, who directed the government's recent jobless count, added:

"It (the business slump) is dragging along the bottom, and consumers goods, in my opinion, will soon show a pickup."

(Consumers goods includes food, clothing, automobile tires, cigars and cigarettes, carpet and rugs and other items).

Cotton Market

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 25 (AP)—Cotton futures opened 5 to 7 points down here today.

March contracts started at 9.27 bid, May 9.33, July 9.39, Oct. 9.46, Dec. 9.46 and Jan. 9.47.

The trade purchased on all dips and towards the end of the first half hour the market was quiet and prices traded around the opening.

Liverpool reports said incentive to trade was lacking there.

Domestic dry goods markets reported a broader demand at unchanged prices. Manchester cabled that a fair inquiry developed in cloth and yarns there but that manufacturers were hampered by accumulated stocks.

Selling dried up later in the morning and buying became more active. Most of the demand came from the short side but trade interests continued limited purchasing.

Near mid-session March contracts recovered to 9.32, May 9.35, July 9.44, Oct. 9.52 and Dec. 9.52, or unchanged to 3 points down compared with the previous close.

There was little foreign participation in the market despite the differences between local centers and Bombay which was the widest in several months.

The turnover here yesterday was 27,250 bales and open commitments 418,500, a decrease of 2,000 bales from the previous day.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Feb. 25 (AP)—Cotton futures opened off 5 to 6 on lower markets aboard, eight March notices and under liquidation and foreign selling. March 9.15; May 9.19; July 9.27; Oct. 9.34; Dec. 9.32; Jan. 9.35B.

After an overnight accumulation of selling orders had been absorbed by the trade and a little scattered buying, a steadier tone developed and prices recovered partially in quieter trading. Hedge selling proved to be small.

May recovered from 9.18 to 9.24 and shortly after the first half hour was selling at 9.22, when the list was 2 to 3 points net lower.

Prices were ruling at about previous closing levels around midday in quiet trading. The recovery from early losses was due to trade buying of nearby positions and Liverpool demand for forward months. The lightness of southern offerings also attracted some buying.

May sold up to 9.26 and at noon was selling at 9.23. Worth street advices indicated quiet but steady conditions.

to cope with the problem of unemployment in Austria, to take over into Germany a number of Austrian unemployed, and to help solve Austria's economic problems.

His Swan Song

"All this will come—but without Schuschnigg. Tonight's address was his swan song. Hitler was willing to give him a real chance, but he missed it."

Omitting mention of Hitler by name, Schuschnigg gave warm praise to Italian Premier Mussolini as one who had "always tried to avoid any impressions of interference in our internal affairs."

Hitler, in Munich last night for celebration of nazidom's 18th birthday, listened to Schuschnigg's broadcast speech before going himself to the famous Hofbrauhaus to restate Germany's demand for return of war lost colonies.

Proclaims New Drive

Speaking in the hall where he had announced creation of the nazi party, Hitler proclaimed a new drive against "Jewish agitators in Germany," and said the nation would accept no substitute for her colonies.

The fuehrer attacked as malicious rumor-mongering stories he attributed to a London newspaper that 40,000 nazi legionnaires in Germany were at the Austrian border despite the Berchtesgaden peace and another 10,000 were ready to march into Czechoslovakia, where reside 3,500,000 Germans.

Weevil Fight Is Advocated

HOUSTON, Feb. 25. (AP)—A south wide mobilization of agricultural forces to wage a war of extermination upon the boll weevil, under government leadership, was advocated by James Anderson, Houston cotton factor, last night before the Texas Entomological society.

The society's 10th annual meeting opened Thursday.

Activities on all fronts to repel the insects and parasites were reviewed in a score of addresses, papers and general discussions.

Cover Whole Country

"If insect control measures are to be effective," Anderson said, referring specifically to the boll weevil, "they must cover the whole country in a manner that can only be accomplished by the United States government in cooperation with the state entomologists and extension service specialists.

"The increased per acre yield that would be accomplished by an effective southwide control would result in a marked lowering of the per pound cost of production, and that has come to be a major factor in the vitally important matter of competition of the south with foreign cotton growing countries in world markets."

Came From Mexico

The boll weevil, arch villain of all cotton pests, came into Texas from Mexico in the latter part of the last century, and gradually spread over the cotton states, Anderson said, estimating it has cost farmers hundreds of millions of dollars.

He said the efforts of an occasional farmer here and there can accomplish little, for reinfestation from uncleared neighboring farms, will soon follow extermination.

The Rio Grande valley is doing its part toward a correlated drive against the pink boll worm, according to a paper read by Assistant Government Entomologist F. I. Jeffries. He related how farmers of Cameron, Hidalgo and Willacy counties have burned their cotton stalks in the fall to starve out the pest. The Mexican government is co-operating, he said.

Data To Be Obtained By Irrigation Group

Data relative to promotion of additional truck farming will be obtained by communication with all irrigation farmers of the county, according to plans discussed in offices of the chamber of commerce Thursday night by a committee from the Lubbock County Irrigation association.

Four of the five districts of the county were assigned to persons Thursday night and plans will be completed, probably today, for working of the other district before meeting of the association in the courthouse Monday night.

Members Are Listed

Members of the committee "to determine if the irrigation farmers of this section will grasp the opportunity now before them, . . . and to determine what the farmers want to do and will do" are F. F. Revier, general chairman; T. M. Nelson, T. J. Foster, J. E. Hancock, J. I. Exum, Travis Tubbs, R. M. Lowe, W. O. Fortenberry, Aubrey Edwards, W. R. Birchfield, Chas. Adams, jr., C. D. Crump, E. R. Steen, and C. R. Ballard.

Plans are for a form blank to be distributed to every irrigation farmer in the county to obtain information. On the blank, farmers are asked to designate a list of truck farm products they would prefer to grow, an estimated acreage which would be devoted to each crop, and to express whether they have a desire to cooperate in a marketing plan. Other information asked includes: extent of farmers in producing irrigated truck crops in the past; size of irrigation wells in gallons per minute; make of the pump used; and capacity of the pump in gallons per minute.

Purpose Is Cited

Main purpose of the association, as outlined in material to be distributed to irrigation farmers, is to promote production of cash crops in a sufficient quantity to make profitable methods for marketing.

"As a general rule, our vegetable products will be on the market after exhaustion of South and East Texas crops and before Colorado crops come on," the pamphlet said. "Our irrigation truck farmers have every natural advantage to make money—provided they will take it."

A tentative plan for marketing, as suggested in the pamphlet, is "It is probable that the marketing of these crops would be handled through a home-owned, home-managed cooperative marketing association."

Reports on information obtained from the canvass will be made at the Monday night meeting of the association as will reports from several other committees.

Friend Of The Jobless Gets His Release From Prison

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 25. (AP)—Father James R. Cox, friend of the jobless, was released today on his own recognizance after his indictment with 13 others for conspiracy and use of the mails in furtherance of a lottery.

The priest was released upon recommendation of Deputy U. S. Attorney J. R. Spigel, with the stipulation that he post a regular bond next Tuesday.

Charges against Father Cox, who once led a "hunger march" of jobless on Washington, grew out of a $25,000 garden stakes contest to choose a name for the monastery gardens of old St. Patrick's church, of which he is pastor.

Sanctions For Nations Asked

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 25. (AP)—President Lazaro Cardenas Thursday urged "popular direct sanctions" against nations or factions bombing unfortified cities in international or civil conflicts.

Addressing the national congress of the Confederation of Mexican Workers, President Cardenas termed air attacks upon civil populations a "crime against civilization" and proposed that the confederation take the lead in summoning an international conference to devise methods to carry out the sanctions.

Will Be Called

Vincente Toledano Lombardo, secretary-general of the confederation, in a later speech said such a conference would be called at once.

Cardenas' reference to international politics was cheered as was an attack upon some foreign oil companies whom he charged with failing to understand "the work of the Mexican government" and with attempting "to make it fail."

Forces in the oil industry, he said, were "withdrawing all the economic assets" from the country because of labor conflicts.

The president said he would enforce the forthcoming decision of the supreme court "whatever it may be."

Ruling Is Expected

The court is expected to rule soon on an appeal by foreign oil companies from an arbitral board decision which upheld an order for benefits of more than $7,000,000 to be paid annually to more than 18,000 employes.

Justice Alfredo Inarruti, president of the court section considering the case, said a date for handing down the decision had not been fixed.

Moose And Elk Are At It Again And Window Broken

A mountain battle between a moose and an elk, interrupted last fall by the shots of W. G. McMillan and W. E. Humphries, Lubbock hunters, at 3:30 o'clock this morning was resumed in a Hemphill-Wells department store display window, and the elk was butted through the plate glass to the sidewalk.

At least, that is one explanation of the crash, which brought several policemen and others to find the elk on the concrete.

Prosaically, it was explained the weight of the massive head and horns of the elk was too much for its mooring.

The broken window, it was said, is the same one a dummy mannequin fell against and smashed last summer.

Rites For Accident Victim Saturday

BROWNFIELD, Feb. 25.—Body of J. F. Walker, 79, fatally injured in a truck accident near Post Thursday morning, will be sent overland today to his home in Sulphur Springs. Funeral services and burial probably will be conducted Saturday.

Walker is survived by a daughter, Mrs. W. I. Pickett of Brownfield, and four sons, Elbert Walker of Fort Worth, and D. E., W. T., and H. E. Walker, all of Sulphur Springs.

Regains Consciousness

Condition of Raymond Pickett, 41, driver of the truck in which Walker was killed, was not considered serious by members of the family. He regained consciousness early today, and apparently suffered only lacerations about the face and from shock.

Pickett gave details of the accident this morning. He said the steering mechanism of his truck, in which he was returning from Sulphur Springs where he had taken a load of horses, had gone "out of order." The truck crashed over a 10-foot embankment and was almost demolished.

Walker, father-in-law of Pickett by a former marriage, was en route here to visit his daughter, Mrs. W. I. Pickett.

Other tentative payments under the new soil conservation program include:

Two cents an acre for non-crop open pasture land in the farm, plus $1 for each animal unit (one cow, one horse, five sheep, two calves or two colts) of range capacity for such pasture in Oklahoma and Texas.

Grasshopper Plague Over The Middlewest Now Predicted

HOUSTON, Feb. 25 (AP)—A grasshopper plague of record breaking proportions is anticipated for the middlewest this summer unless the weather gives the farmers relief, Dr. Lee A. Strong, chief of the United States bureau of entomology, said here today.

"If we get the right kind of weather at the right time the plague will be broken," he said, "if we do not the plague next summer will be far worse than that of last summer."

Professor Is Speaker Here

"Drama With A Purpose" was discussed at 10 o'clock this morning at Texas Technological college by Harold A. Ehrensperger, professor of speech at Northwestern university and editor of the Christian Student, in an address to teachers and students.

He pointed out that "great things in the theater have been laying dormant," and that the theater would be used as a tremendous force in moulding public opinion.

Germany, said Professor Ehrensperger, is an example of a modern nation using the theater as a political force.

At another part of his address he said in effect that the greatest possibilities of the stage were still to be realized.

Mr. Ehrensperger will speak at 5 o'clock this afternoon at Methodist Student center, 2405 Thirteenth street, on "Student Problems." At 7:30 tonight, he will address the general public at the First Methodist church on "Drama and Social Action." Leaders Of Five States Protest Bill Regarding Submerged Lands

exas Land Is ery Valuable

AUSTIN, Feb. 25. (AP)—Texas' sub- rged lands, totaling about 1,600,- acres valued at more than $100,- ,000, were retained originally as rt of the public domain for the nefit of public schools and citi- ns generally, government officials d today.

Threat of federal acquisition of areas through the Nye resolu- n, said to be a step in that direc- n, has rallied strong opposition Washington hearings from offi- ls including Governor James V. ired, Attorney General William Craw and Land Commissioner W. McDonald.

Great Areas Set Apart

Far-reaching congressional acts of e infant Texas republic through e inspiration of President Mira- au B. Lamar were responsible, his- rians say, for setting apart great eas of unclaimed land to estab- h the free school system, the Uni- rsity of Texas and A. & M. col- ge and for citizens seeking home- ads.

J. H. Walker, retired land com- issioner, said Texas' position in the ashington hearings was unique in at it was the only state to retain public domain upon entering the ion. He said this was due to the ct Texas was the only state which ad seen a republic prior to annexa- on.

The 78-year-old former commis- oner, probably the greatest living uthority on Texas lands, disputed ie generally conceded fact the ate owns its submerged lands to a oint three miles out into the Gulf Mexico.

Distance Is 10 Miles

"The boundary act of 1850, ap- roved by congress and Texas," he id, "defies the state's borders as xtending three marine leagues from he shore outward — a distance of ot three, but 10 miles."

Walker said the distance would be easured from the coasts of Padre, Matagorda, St. Joseph, Mustang and alveston islands and the Matagorda eninsula.

The former commissioner esti- ated yield from oil and gas rights the submerged areas to the school und as $250,000 to date and incal- ulable in the future since drilling as only started. The legislature ded these rights a few years ago.

"The federal government might ake the submerged lands under its ights of eminent domain," Walker aid, "but it would have to pay for hem. It has conceded Texas' own- rship in several instances when it urchased tracts for lighthouses and ther purposes."

Stretches 400 Miles

The Texas coast, third longest of ll states, stretches nearly 400 miles. Walker considers the coastal lands he most valuable of the public do- ain because of harbor develop- ents through which the state's reat production of oil, cotton, cat- le, timber and other marketable aterials can be exported.

The silver-haired former commis- oner said up to 1897 anyone could equire a homestead in Texas by ettling on a strip of public domain or three years — the other reason hy the state's forefathers retained he land.

Starting the flow of inestimable illions into public education by aving the Texas congress set apart ast acreages. President Lamar in 837 called education "the guardian enius of democracy."

"A suitable appropriation of lands o the purpose of general education," e said, "can be made at this time ithout inconvenience to the govern- ent or the people, but defer it un- il the public domain shall have assed from our hands and the un- educated youths of Texas will con- titute living monuments of our neg- ect and remissions. It can now be ffected without the expenditure of single dollar."

The New York Knickerbockers of 1849 were the First American baseball team to be uniformed. The uniform was identical with that used by English cricket players.

BIG POTATO CROP

FREDERICKTON, New Brunswick (AP)—New Brunswick potato growers expect to plant from 20,000 to 30,000 acres of seed stock in 1938. This would make a record production for the province. Last year 8,630 acres were given over to seed potatoes. Demand in South America is giving the industry its greatest impetus.

When snails wear out their teeth, they are replaced by new ones.

State Rights Are Violated

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (AP)—Officials of five states declared today passage of a pending bill to give the government title to submerged coastal lands would be a violation of their sovereign rights.

They attacked the measure after a navy department official told the house judiciary committee the bill would give the government valuable oil reserves for national defense.

The lands particularly mentioned were sections of the California coast.

Hoover Is Stockholder

Representative Scott (D-Calif) testified that Ex-President Herbert Hoover was a principal stockholder of the Pacific Dock company of Long Beach, which holds land to which the government is seeking title.

Scott also told the committee that the Long Beach oil land situation was the root of political turmoil between the Republican and Democratic parties of the state. He declared that the Republican administration of the state had never shown any interest in securing the land for the people until the government had entered the picture as a claimant to the property.

Attorney General Gaston Porterie of Louisiana, voicing the opposition of the gulf states to the bill, declared that areas acquired by the United States from France or Spain gained their sovereignty as they became states.

To Determine Loyalty

"An attempt at this late date to change the agreement between the states and bring about evasion of well established legal precedent will help to undermine that fealty, and loyalty that the various states have for the agreement, known as the federal constitution," he said.

"Naval oil reserves can readily be acquired by purchase from private owners or from the various states."

Attorney Robert Stuart of the Texas State Teachers association, told the committee he believed the bill should be shelved to save the appearance of a "cloud" over the title of Texas school children to millions of acres of valuable oil lands. He said the public domain of Texas rests with the public school fund.

Tony Lazzeri To Aid Cubs In Strategy

AVALON, Santa Catalina Island, Feb. 25. (AP)—The curtain of mystery hiding the connection Tony Lazzeri will have with the Chicago Cubs this season was lifted today.

Lazzeri, after 12 years with the world's champion New York Yankees, will serve as one of the principal members of Manager Charlie Grimm's newly created board of strategy, organized to bring the 1938 National league championship to Chicago.

The other members will be Charles Leo "Gabby" Hartnett, rated as the outstanding catcher in the major leagues, and the two veterans of the game, John "Red" Corriden, and Roy Johnson, both retained as coaches. Hartnett, in addition to signing as a catcher, also signed a coaching contract this season.

Available As Infielder

Lazzeri, besides serving as a member of the strategy board as a coach, will also be available as utility infielder to fill in either at third base, shortstop or second base. It was in the latter position he was such a scintillating star with the Yankees.

Organization of the board was the idea of P. K. Wrigley, owner of the Cubs, who signed the 35-year-old Lazzeri without ever having met him. He was impressed with the former Yankee star because of his playing qualities, his sharp wisdom of the baseball on the field and his ability to execute it. Wrigley recognized Lazzeri's rare abilities both from his own observation and from what he had been told.

Good Record Is Set Here

A basketball record of which any team might boast has been turned in by Coach Lovie Liston's Lubbock Junior High school Cowboys this season. Although defeated in their final game, a "comedy" affair against the junior high professors yesterday afternoon, the team had a regular season record that is worth noting.

The Teachers beat the Cowboys, 24 to 22, Liston himself being forced to score 18 points to overcome a lead his boys made against the Teaching Teachers.

During the regular season, the Cowboys won 7 games, lost three, scored 248 points to 159 for the opposition, and produced a forward who broke all junior scoring records.

Harris Goes To Town

Captain Floyd Harris, 155-pound, 5-foot-9 forward, scored a total of 60 points in the ten games, or an average of ten per game, "which is mighty good for a junior high player," Coach Liston agreed. Liston boosted of another player, Guard DeWitt Moore, who played his first game of basketball during the recent season. "Undoubtedly, one of the strongest guards I ever saw," his coach said, pointing out that he also scored 30 points during the season. Roland Nabors, younger brother of the heavyweight grid player who is now in Texas Tech, was another star Cowboy, although he scored few points. He was the "feeder," and a fine ball handler.

Liston Retaliates

The Cowboys yesterday jumped away to a 6-point lead in the early minutes against a team of faculty men who had never played basketball. Kennedy, Walters, Gordon, Davis and Crouch composed the starting lineup, and the "regulars," Cox, Liston, Hancock, Nichols and Thompson, had to do some fast playing to overcome the lead. They trailed at halftime, 6-15, but went ahead in the last half due to Liston's scoring spree.

Robert McKinnon, Nabors, Harris, Moore and Francis Bearden started for the Cowboys, and Prim was a substitute. McKinnon, with 8 points, led the scoring for the losers. Harris scored 6 and Nabors 4.

All of the regulars will be in senior high school next season, candidates for Goober Keyes' Westerner cagers.

Seldom has an elephant been known to reach 100 years old and 70 would be a much more accurate expectation of life for the beasts.

Donovan Says Louis Will Turn Tables On Maxie

Greatest Left Jab Described By An Expert

BY GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 25. — One of the most enthusiastic men in town about the new and matured Joe Louis is Referee Arthur Donovan, a man whose opinion rates more than the usual respect.

Donovan has handled every heavyweight fight of importance here in recent years, including Max Schmeling's knockout of Louis, Tommy Farr's 15-round rough-house with the champion, and Louis's three-round kayo of the impetuous Natie Mann night before last.

Will Reverse Score

He says that Joe now is very close to the super-fighter that excited fight writers and bedazzled ringsiders thought he was two years ago. Donovan has been in there close with the big negro. It's obvious he thinks Joe will reverse the score on Schmeling next June.

"He's got about everything now," he said, when asked for his very best opinion. "Principally, he has the greatest left jab I've ever seen. Honestly, it's terrific. The first time he reached out and stabbed Mann with it I heard Natie's nose crack. He could knock some good men out with it in time, and it would cut anyone to ribbons in 15 rounds."

Still Sucker For Right

Joe Jacobs, Schmeling's voluble manager, was at the same time assuring a neighboring group that "Louie still is a sucker for a right. Look how Mann batted him around with a right."

"I'm not so sure about that," said Donovan. "Joe has learned a lot about keeping away from a right, and I can see it. Mann caught him by surprise with a couple, but he'll be watching out for Schmeling.

"When they fought the first time, Louis had been popping over a lot of fellows with that left hook, thrown from any distance and any angle. He had been missing a lot of them and leaving himself wide open, but nobody was smart enough to take advantage of it until Schmeling came along.

Much More Cautious

"Now he's much more cautious with it. Against Mann, if you noticed, he didn't throw his left until the second round, when he was in close and had a target he knew he couldn't miss. In other words, Schmeling doubtless will hit him with rights, but not like the ones he landed in their first fight, when he was crossing over Joe's missed lefts and catching him flush, coming forward.

"And Schmeling will find Joe a much keener, harder hitter than the other time. All that was said and written about Louis not being properly trained for that fight seemed to me to be true. He seemed bewildered when Max started smacking him. When Mann hit him the other night he got mad, the first time I ever saw him show a trace of the old Dempsey spirit."

Handling Of Liquor Problem Was Puzzler In Early Days

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 25 (AP) — Modern perplexity over what to do with alcoholics had its parallel in ancient times, says Dr. Arthur Patch McKinlay, professor of Latin at the University of California at Los Angeles. Some laws treated a drunken offender more leniently than a sober one, some more severely, his studies showed.

In the Greek town of Locri, in southern Italy, the code of Zaleucus allowed a lady one attendant, but she was entitled to two if she were drunk.

Arkansas Razorbacks Launch Final Effort To Cop Southwest Flag; Mustangs To Be Foes

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Feb. 25 (AP) — A band of seniors, itching for a chance to return Arkansas university to its former place of basketball glory, embark tonight upon a final mighty effort to rack up the Southwest conference championship.

A handful of the finest all-around athletes in the institution's history will take the court against Southern Methodist university in the first of a two-game series.

If Arkansas wins both games, it takes the pennant; if it splits with the Mustangs, it cinches at least a tie.

Stepping out for the Razorbacks will be Jack Robbins, guard; Jim Benton, and Don Lockard, forwards, and Ray Hamilton, center. Robbins, Benton and Hamilton played spectacularly on the football field as well as the basketball court, and Lockard last year led the league in basketball scoring.

The Razorbacks used to win the conference basketball titles with monotonous regularity, and these men are determined to set Arkansas back on the old road.

The stock of Southern Methodist, soaring higher by the game, took a nosedive when S. M. U. fell before Texas university, 25 to 23, earlier this week, and today the experts wondered if the Mustangs' machinery had fallen apart.

However, S. M. U. will have in this series an incentive lacking in the contest with the oft-beaten Texas team, and should be difficult to handle.

Arkansas has lost one conference game and won nine; Baylor has won seven and lost two, and S. M. U. has won six and lost two. If Southern Methodist sweeps the series, it will have a fine chance to win the title. Baylor and the Mustangs clash in the season finale, which conceivably could decide the race.

Japan Harassed By Threatened Boycott; Plans Deal To Shift Olympic Games To Italians

BY SCOTTY RESTON
Associated Press Sports Writer

LONDON, Feb. 25 — Harassed by a threatened boycott of the 1940 Olympiad, Japan may make a deal with Italy to shift the games from Tokyo to Rome.

This possibility is being discussed in British Olympic circles where a boycott of the Tokyo games now is under consideration. The British Amateur Athletic association already has decided on such a boycott and will ask the I. A. A. F. take similar action at its Paris meeting, Feb. 28 and March 1.

Provision Is Made

Under the "deal" Italy would undertake to stage the games in 1919 provided Japan is given the thirteenth Olympiad in 1941.

Another such "deal" gave Tokyo the games in the first place. In 1935 the international Olympic committee awarded the 1940 games to Rome.

Japan, remembering the 2,600th anniversary of the founding of the Japanese empire came in 1940, put its diplomatic machinery in operation to have the game changed.

On the basis that Rome could have had the games in 1940 Italy now is assuming she will get them in 1944. The 1944 games will not be awarded until the I. O. C. meets in 1939, but Italy has already planned a new stadium seating 100,000.

Has Other Ideas

Great Britain, however, has two other ideas. The first is that London should have the 1944 games. The second is that it is time the Olympics were protected from the political controversy which inevitably results when they are awarded to a militaristic country.

Italy will be advised of Britain's views on the 1944 games when the I. O. C. meets at Cairo, March 10-11. At that meeting Lord Aberdare will invite the committee to London for its 1939 meeting when the 1944 games will be awarded.

It is felt here that when Italy finds Britain bidding against her she may be willing to take the games in 1940 if Japan by any chance voluntarily gives them up.

With the various delegates already on their way to Cairo for the meeting, three facts are evident: 1—There is no widespread boycott or even sympathy for a boycott of the Tokyo Olympiad in Europe; 2—Japan will not give up the games or make a deal with Italy unless the far eastern conflict and the threatened British boycott become much more severe; 3—The I. O. C. is in danger of being divided into political blocs corresponding to the present ideological and political blocs in world affairs.

Emery Facing Jack Munger In Go Today

BY FELIX R. McKNIGHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

HOUSTON, Feb. 25.—Broad-shouldered Walter Emery, working the hard way to win the Houston country club invitational golf title, goes into his third day of grief today against bespectacled Jack Munger, one of the game's ranking amateurs.

Emery, the Houstonian, who went to the finals of the 1935 National Amateur and won a Walker cup team position, has scrambled to stay in the tournament since he teed off in the qualifying round. Forced into a playoff for a championship flight berth, he got the open shot after a four-hole "swatfest."

Beats Reynolds Smith

Paired against Reynolds Smith, Dallas Walker cup star, in the first round he jammed a big cigar in his mouth, puffed all the way around the course, and came off a one up winner at the home hole, despite Smith's perfect round of 69, two shots under the par 36-35—71. Emery had a match play 70.

Today he was up against Munger, former Southern champion, twice quarter-finalist in the National Amateur, and an easy-going youth who took one shot away from par yesterday in beating Ed Anderson of Houston, 5 and 4.

"And," grinned Emery, "if I should happen to get past Munger, it looks like I'd have either Johnny Goodman or Harry Todd to play."

Goodman, on top of his game after a long layoff, broke par by two shots in beating Bobby Riegel of Beaumont, Texas, 5 and 3. Riegel, who was 70 in the qualifying round and a threat to Goodman, dropped the first two holes and was never able to draw near the nation's top amateur. Goodman met Bill Welch, Southwest conference champion, today. Gallerites flocked to the match which pitted John Dawson, Chicago, against David (Spec) Goldman of Dallas, the 1934 National Amateur finalist and one of the nerviest matchc players in the southwest. Dawson ripped par by four shots yesterday in beating Bill Skeeters of Dallas, carding six birdies in a 5 and 4 victory. Goldman was no worse than par in a similar win over Carl Letscher of Houston.

Ed White, the medalist and former national intercollegiate champion, breezed into the second round and a match with Hickman Greene of Fort Worth, Texas, former Louisiana star who caused a mild stir by upsetting O'Hara Watts of Dallas in the opening round.

Whispered as the "good thing" in the tourney was Harry Todd of Dallas, who methodically dissected par in beating Ed Rotan of Houston. He meets Bob Kiersky of Houston.

Receding bayou waters allowed the course to go back to par 71, the eighth hole being open for par four play after being shortened to par three.

Local Golfers Are Invited

Opportunity for public course golf players to compete in the annual Texas Amateur tournament has been offered by the Texas Golf association, and possibility that Lubbock would be host in a qualifying tournament for the event was seen yesterday by Charles Akey, Lubbock Country club pro-manager.

A letter from Ralph B. Baldwin, secretary-treasurer of the association, read, in part:

"We want the public players of Texas to know they can play in the Texas Amateur Championship tournament, and to be eligible, must compete in a qualifying round, of not less than 18 holes, to determine winner and runner-up.

"The course holding the qualifying event should notify the secretary of the Texas Golf association at San Antonio, or the Colonial Golf club, Fort Worth, where the amateur tournament will be held. Tournament dates are May 4-7, at the Colonial."

Local Club Willing

The letter writer asks that the information be spread, so that public players may enter a qualifying round.

Charles Akey, at Lubbock Country club, would like to hear from local and South Plains golfers regarding their attitude toward a one-day qualifying tournament in Lubbock. If enough interest is shown, the Country club will accommodate to the extent of conducting the qualifying tournament to decide two players from this section who may compete in the Texas Amateur.

"Bottomless" Gas Well Will Prove Good Swimming Hole

ALTO, La., Feb. 25 (AP) — Come summer, the children here will have their swimming hole—probably the most expensive in the world—in a pond on top of a hill.

The pond is in the crater of the Alto gas well which blew out in 1928, caught fire and for two years made a pyrotechnics display at a terrific loss in labor and money. In the two years before it could be brought under control it belched flames, water and mud.

The crater is quiet now and more than 100 feet in diameter. No one knows the depth of the water in it, but it is deep enough for good swimming and has been for several years.

Houston Scribe For Tec

By Collier Parris

WEST TEXAS GOLF Association tournament site and dates will be set at a meeting of officers and directors Sunday in Mineral Wells.

Thanks to the "politicing" of Director Jo Dick Slaughter and the efforts of Charles Akey, the group very probably will name Lubbock Country club as the site. Slaughter will be at the Sunday meeting to cast one of five votes that should bring West Texas' biggest golfing event back here.

The Lubbock Country club will be "ready" to accommodate the tournament this year, and, anyway, it's Lubbock's time. The event has been around the circuit, or practically so, since it was held here.

We'll know definitely by Monday, but here's a guess that Slaughter's and Akey's dickerings haven't been in vain.

Possibility of another golfing event of interest was indicated yesterday. The Texas Golf association writes this department announcing that public players of the state are eligible, and invited, to compete in the Texas Amateur. They must qualify, however, in an 18-hole or more qualifying round.

If enough golfers in and around Lubbock show sufficient interest to make this city a qualifying center for the area, the Country club will be glad to conduct the event. Winner and runner up will be eligible to compete in the state amateur tournament.

The country club is a member of the Texas Golf association, and its members may compete in the state tournament without preliminary qualifying, but non-members must compete in a qualifying round. The Texas Amateur will be held at Fort Worth's beautiful Colonial club May 4-7.

AS PROMISED EARLIER, the readers are going to hear considerable, from time to time, about the Texas Tech-to-the-Southwest conference movement, and conference fathers are going to hear even more.

One of the latest expressions of support for the movement comes from one who rates highly in respect and esteem of Texas and Southwest fathers and fans—Lloyd Gregory of Houston.

Gregory, now managing editor of the Houston Post, still writes his sports column, which is probably the most widely read in the state. Gregory sends one of his recent columns, with a note attached, to Pete Cawthon. The note says: "Dear Pete: I'm in the fight now to help Tech gain deserved admission to the conference. Keep me posted. . . . I may be able to help a little bit."

Parts of the "Looking 'Em Over" column follow:

"Texas Tech is worthy of a berth in the Southwest conference.

"A long letter from James M. Speer of Paducah calls to mind the heroic efforts Texas Tech has made and is making to get into the conference.

"It is only a question of time until the West Texas school will be admitted. Texas Tech would be a credit to the conference. In point of enrollment, Texas Tech is the state's third largest school, trailing only University of Texas and Texas A. & M. College. Under Pete Cawthon Texas Tech has compiled an athletic record, and built a splendid athletic plant. In the courses it offers, and in the scholarship of the faculty and students, Texas Tech compares favorably with Southwest conference schools.

"As I see it," continues Gregory, "the addition of Texas Tech would be the smartest move the Southwest conference possibly could make. With Tech in the league, the conference then truly would be representative of the Lone Star state. As it is now the empire of West Texas is NOT represented, and the Panhandle folk don't like it—not even a little bit.

"Their resentment is easy to understand. Tech has made a notable record in intersectional football; the Plains country is football-conscious with Tech drawing large crowds to Lubbock; and West Texans feel that Texas Tech would be an asset to the conference. . . .

"Tech draws its supporters from a wide area—Texas, New Mexico, Colorado and Oklahoma.

"The Southwest conference offers the logical competition for Texas Tech.

"An eight-school conference would NOT be too large for a round-robin. Each school could play seven conference games and then have dates for at least three intersectional clashes.

"And by the way, the Red Raiders of Texas Tech, coached by Pete Cawthon and Dutch Smith, really will go in for intersectional football in 1938."

That's mighty fine of Mr. Gregory. His words will bear much weight with Southwest conference people and should have a lot to do with making schools and fans of "low" Texas, Texas Tech conscious.

It also has unsettled the untouchables themselves, who still feel they will be eternally damned if they "pollute' the temples.

A HUNDRED men attending a Lubbock civic club the other day had finished singing the first verse of "America." A pastor member began the invocation:

"We thank Thee, Father," he said, "that we are gathered here today for fellowship and for service . . ."

Possibly The Plainsman should not have been letting his mind wander from the prayer, but it occurred to him that the prayer might better have been, "We thank Thee that we live in a country where we may, if we wish, gather together as we are here—or gather wherever we wish—and for any lawful reason."

Too few of us remember every day—too few of us carry with us the remembrance that here, at least, we may do, within the statutes, as we please and without having to have the approval of a stuffed shirt.

All the loose talk that's going around this land of ours about "the changing form of government" would largely be stopped in its tracks if Americans only took time to look about them.

The idle, albeit sometimes fervent, conversation to the effect that "we're heading toward communism, or toward a fascist dictatorship" would be thrown out the window if we only used our imaginations a little bit.

SURE, we've got some bad sides to our form of government! Sure, a lot of our government—from the lowest precinct to Washington—looks like it's being handled by blockheads. Sure, we've got too much unemployment and doubtless a lot of fixing is needed in high, as well as in low places.

But we have the right to speak, we have the right to print anything that is neither indecent, slanderous or libelous.

And we don't have to let some halfbaked dictator step on our necks any and every time he wants to!

The calamity howlers, the tearer-downers, the bellyachers who find everything wrong and nothing right sometimes make us forget a lot of basic principles. Sometimes some of the best of us forget to look around us and with closed eyes fail to see that if our sphere is not perfect it is at least a lot closer to perfection than any of the others.

Until someone comes along with a sure-fire improvement—tested and found to fill the bill—we'll do a whole lot better to stay where we are and BE THANKFUL for the fortunate circumstance that we're here, instead of in some European madhouse.

THIS is straight from Washington: "Experts confidentially admit that portions of the new farm law are in conflict—which means they are stepping warily for fear of backfires. The only certainty is that $550,000,000 will be distributed as rapidly as possible."

Well, at least the only "certainty" is a pleasant one to contemplate!

Those who have looked over the new income tax blanks say they have been changed a good deal but the main part is just the same. That place reading "Total payment due" is still there!

THERE is a very strong likelihood that Harry L. Hopkins, dispenser of relief for the government, may become the new active head of the American Red Cross, succeeding the late Admiral Cary Grayson.

In light of the possibility, many of the leading adherents of the Red Cross are seeing as red as their symbol.

They are afraid Mr. Hopkins' elevation to the executive position would result in an effort to turn the organization into a New Deal agency and that politics would soon swallow it, lock, stock and barrel.

There is a lot of room for fear in the matter.

The Plainsman believes most strong New Deal supporters will see it and will agree that politics has no more place in the Red Cross than it does in the lodge-room or the church pew.

That is one organization which must be kept "all for one, and one for all," something that cannot be done if politics is injected.

J. M. "Jimmie" Rankin is resigning, at the end of the current year, his position as superintendent of schools at Ralls.

You note we said "his" position. Well, it is just that. It is "his" position.

Lots of school superintendents resign. And it's always news when they do.

But when Jimmie Rankin resigns at Ralls, that's BIG news.

For a generation that wiry, little dynamo has been at the head of the Ralls school system.

He has etched his name upon the hearts of heaven knows how many boys and girls during that time. He has engravened his name upon the hearts of the adults of the community; he has driven his personality into the cornerstone of his community; he has been a living, breathing part of Ralls since he first took up his duties there.

Small in stature, big in mind, heart and precepts, Jimmie Rankin, it is safe to say, has carved for himself a niche in his community greater than that of most of his fellows.

His resignation, announced today, must leave an aching void in Ralls and in the very hearts of the people with whom he has so long lived and labored.

An orchid—no, a bushel of orchids to a swell little fellow and a magnificent career of school and community service!

HERE AND THERE: Every business has its own slang and jargon, and the song-writing racket is not excluded . . . Some examples: A "Smoothie" is a subtle, or sophisticated song . . . A "Cutie" is a comedy song . . . A "Filler" is a not too strong bit, used on the air to permit the listener (if any) to light his pipe and prepare for the balance of the program . . . A "Killer-Diller" is a very popular ditty . . . Thus, we presume, "You Can't Stop Me From Dreaming" is a "Smoothie;" and "The Martins and the Coys" is a "Cutie;" A "Filler" would be "I'll Still Love To Kiss You Goodnight," and a "Killer-Diller" is "Rosalie", still going strong after many moons . . . Oh, yes. A great expression for a good presentation of a sentimental song is "wiping it off the chin." A is molasses, you know! . . . Wallace Rix was one of quadruplets and went to school at the age of four years . . . Latest convert to the 5 a. m. crowd at Lindy's famous restaurant in New York is Franklin D. Roosevelt, jr. . . . Lindy's is the place where the gang goes for scrambled eggs and coffee after rounding the night spots . . . Speaking of night spots, the joints with a Latin flavor are getting a big play in Gotham now but Lupe Velez, Hollywood's No. 1 Latin, has been shunning them for the other kind during her present stay in the Big Town . . . Note to Ed Wilson: You probably have heard from home, but if you haven't, that oil play in the vicinity of Robinson, Illinois is going swell . . . The jam in used cars, which a few weeks ago threatened the new car business, is breaking nicely all over the country. . . We hope Time magazine is right (too often it is hopelessly inaccurate in spots) in its statement that O. O. McIntyre left six weeks' columns in advance . . . As there aren't any more like Will Rogers, neither are there any more McIntyres . . . And, incidentally, they were great friends and often made a happy foursome with the late Will Hogg, of Houston, and Amon G. Carter, of Ft. Worth.

For Love Of Polly

was ushered into a well-furnished sitting room where a thin-featured, pale-eyed old man in a frilled shirt and high stock was having cold cuts and tea before a fire.

The serving woman made a bobbing curtsey and said, with the watchful look of a child bursting a paper sack: "Your great-niece from Americky, sir!"

Old Oliver Dart looked as if his eyes and ears had deceived him. Then, when he saw that she was an actuality, his face seemed to narrow and close in on itself, so that Polly thought she must be looking at a gnome instead of a man.

She gave a shaken little laugh and explained, "I'm Polly Chelsey from across the Atlantic — daughter to your niece Mary that married the American seaman in Connecticut, and died there."

"To what circumstances do I owe your visit?" asked Oliver Dart.

Polly Chelsey bent her graceful long-limbed body toward the fire to warm her hands. Her hair was smooth and brown, her eyes deep blue, her features evenly cut. There was an unconscious dignity about her. Though she was but 18, she seemed a woman grown, as any girl would who had been housekeeper, seamstress and cook for her family since her fourteenth year.

She spoke up bravely. "It's as I told you in the letter you never got. I've come for my mother's share of my grandfather's money, because we need it so. My father's had to give up following the sea because of a stiffness of the joints, and my brother's been lame from a lad. We heard, round-about, that my grandfather Richard Dart died last year. Knowing he had a counting-house business and was well-off, I said I'd come for my mother's share—"

Oliver Dart spoke curtly and with an obvious relish: "The property was all willed to your mother's brother, the proper heir. Very logical."

"Oh!" cried Polly in quick protest. "That's the way the artistocrats do. The titled land owners. But my grandfather's case was different. He was a city man, in business."

"Yet entitled to make a will, my dear young lady. Even had your mother remained dutifully in England and not gone over to the tricky Yankees he might have followed the same course. But certainly she and her children deserve nothing as matters stand. I'm surprised you ever entertained such ideas. You look more intelligent."

"I took a chance," Polly said, and sighed. She had spent the family savings and several dangerous weeks making this journey; within ten minutes this tight-lipped, hard-eyed old man had shown her it was in vain.

"Don't let me detain you from returning to your lodgings," said Oliver Dart.

"To my lodgings?" repeated Polly uncertainly. "Why, sir, I'm in this predicament: my cousin Tim Chelsey put me ashore at Bournemouth and took his cargo over to Cherbourg. He'll not be back to pick me up for several weeks. I expected to stop here till then."

"Indeed," replied Mr. Dart. "Most peculiar . . . Mrs. Broggs, set another cover and bring a pot of tea for the guest. Draw up, Miss Chelsey, and tell me what the dastardly Yankees are up to now."

"What the Yankees are up to?" exclaimed Polly coloring. "The English Navy, you mean! They're stealing men off our ships till half the seagoing lads in America have stripes on their backs from British whips—"

She stopped suddenly and smiled, to lighten her words, for she was hungry and needed a shelter. Polly Chelsey from Connecticut was nobody's fool.

CHAPTER 11

Polly tried to make conversation while she supped with old Oliver Dart, but it was hard going. To call him "Uncle Oliver" was out of the question, for he was addressing her as Miss Chelsey and so repudiating their kinship. His cold pale eyes watched her furtively.

"As if I might slip the silver salt dishes into my pocket!" she thought irritably. "Or is it my manners he's critical of?"

Her table manners were beyond reproach, however, which must have caused surprise to a man who believed all Americans to be savages. But old Oliver Dart was finding her annoying in other ways. "An American village girl!" he told himself distastefully. He saw she lacked the graces that elegant English girls were trained to have. She was strangely outspoken, and she laughed like a boy. When she walked, it was with long swinging steps.

Seeing a portrait that interested her she got up and crossed the room to look at it. "Is that my Grandfather Dart?" she asked.

"It's nobody that concerns you," answered Oliver Dart, though it was her great-uncle, his brother and her grandfather's, now dead . . . Wherever she tried to make contact, he thwarted her, so that she had nothing to which to cling. His hostility penetrated, as a frost penetrates the marrow of the bones on a cold day, and eventually she fell silent, hoping in this way to escape his displeasure.

"He's a terribly cross old man," she decided in bewilderment. She had told Mrs. Broggs she knew many such at home. She saw that she was mistaken. There was something baffling in old Oliver Dart's behavior. She did not know that it sprang from a mind bordering on madness.

While Polly was at supper Mrs. Broggs ordered her helper, the porter, to carry the little doeskin trunk to a bedroom on the floor above. Presently she came for the girl and took her there.

As the door closed on Polly Chelsey, Oliver Dart shut his eyes and put his finger tips together. It was thus that he could think of America most effectively, letting the venomous current of his hatred make the circuit of his withered body while his warped mind plotted. The coming of this girl had fired his memory. He recalled afresh how he had lost a fortune when Yankee rebels had thrown British tea into Boston harbor before the last rebellion. Wounded in the purse, he had become a little "touched," living more and more for the day when he would see the insolent American colonies (for so he still spoke of them) restored and punished . . . Strange that this girl should come walking into his house tonight! — A kinswoman? "Bah."

Polly, meantime, was relaxing under the chatter of Mrs. Broggs and marveling over being so high in the air. "Are all London houses so tall and thin?" she asked.

"Mostly the fine ones be. The drawing-room floor's 12 steps above ground, with kitchen and scullery beneath. Then the bed-room floors

THE NEED OF NEW USES FOR COTTON

Uncle Sam is going to seek new uses for cotton and to this end the new farm bill carried an appropriation of $4,000,000 to uncover new uses and new markets for the staple. That much money spent along this line will be worth several times that much paid to farmers not to plant cotton.

One trouble with our agricultural problem has been the lack of consumption, not over-productions. We have cut down on the use of more products to such an extent that it has not been possible to sell the surplus abroad. True, in the past few years our foreign markets have dwindled.

New uses for crops mean employment of men to develop them; more employment means more money available for purchase of food and clothing; in turn that means more workers employed.

It is a slow process. However, remember the old saying, "the longest way around is the shortest way there." The slump did not come overnight, although it seemed to, but it was a long, long trail. The way back to a fuller life may be nearly as long.

A Thought . .

For the body without the spirit is dead, so faith without works is dead also.—James 2:26.

Faith and works are as necessary to our spiritual life as Christians, as soul and body are to our life as men; for faith is the soul of religion, and works, the body.—Cotton.

Hollywood Chit-Chat

BY PAUL HARRISON
Journal Hollywood Correspondent

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last of six stories on the Hollywood importation of foreign actresses, who place accent on glamor.)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 25.—With a peasant 'kerchief tied over her reddish head, and with a pleased smile of wonderment on her pretty face, Mireille Balin looks exactly like Hollywood's idea of an immigrant girl. Which she is.

About three months ago, when she came here to try to earn her living in the sweatshops of the cinema, Mlle. Balin had most of her worldly possessions done up in 28 trunks. She was a lonely little figure, unaccompanied except by a staff of servants.

After many wearying hours of searching for lodgings suitable to her means, she finally rented a 10-room cottage with an ordinary outdoor swimming pool.

Then, because everybody in this far-flung film center has to have a car of some sort, Mlle. Balin again dipped into her savings and bought an Hispano-Suiza no bigger than a ten-ton truck.

She "Seldom" Goes Out

Although she says that she does not have moch moneee—not so much, anyway, but that she has to work to get more—Mlle. Balin seems quite a lot better off than most other newcomers from Europe. Or maybe this one is a spendthrift. Of course she earned a great many francs during her three years of picture making in France.

The actress explained that she has been vereee buseee here, what with three hours of English study every day, and a singing lesson and makeup and screen tests, and seeing selected movies and reporting to Billy Grady, foreign talent supervisor.

This was the first interview Metro had permitted. It had not, however, withheld her from social circulation. She said:

"I nevaire go to partee or night clops—only maybe two, t'ree times a week."

In Paris, after posing for a few advertisements in color, Mlle. Balin was sought out and hired by the noted French director, Pabst. Her first picture, she said, was "Donkey Show." "Donkey Show?" "But yes—'Donkey Show'." She took my pencil and wrote it out—"Don Quixote."

Likes What She Likes

She became a star soon after that. Made one appearance with Fernand Gravet. Her greatest success was "Pepe le Moko," which has been shown in some metropolitan centers of this country. Word has come to her, she says, that when her English has improved Louis B. Mayer intends putting her into a picture with Spencer Tracy or Clark Gable.

"I hope eet ees true," she said. "Thees Tracy ees my best actor, but also Paul Muni. They say I am not to speak of Paul Muni because eet ees not for thees studio he works. But I like what I like—no?" Yes.

She has—or had—tremendous vitality and vivacity. Ate four or five meals a day and was never still a minute. Now her appetite has dwindled to three meals, and she has lost five pounds, and cannot sleep at night. "No pep," mourned Mlle. Balin. "'Pep'—okay? I like slang. In two weeks maybe I am dead."

In films, she explained, she always has been a leetle vamp. She is not an actress dramatique. The makeup experts here have been conducting some alarming experiments with her. "They poot my eyebrow up; they poot my eyebrow down. They make my hair so (tight back), and so (curled to the shoulders) and so (wind-blown). They geeve me ze beeg mouse (mouth). On ze screen I do not know myself!"

Often She "No Onnerstan'"

Her belief is that she is not temperamental, but she also admitted that she is one of the "I-do-not-onnerstan'" girls. This no-sayee business is an old and exasperating device employed by several imported sirens, notably Simone Simon, who have had trouble with their employers and directors.

Mireille Balin believes, at this time, that it's the easiest way to get along. She explained frankly that if someone tries to make her do something she does not want to do, she says, "I do not onnerstan'." When asked a question she doesn't care to answer, she replies, "I do not onnerstan'."

The actress tried to justify this stratagem with a rather curious explanation. "I do eet," she said, "because I hate lies."

Gifts From Her Dog

Miss Balin says she is neither married nor engaged. She wears what appears to have been a man's heavy platinum ring mounting a diamond of 11 1-2 carats. Asked about it, she grinned and said, "You can write that my dog gave eet to me."

That's her every-day ring. For Sundays, holidays and a flash at the Trocadero she has a diamond of 14 1-2 carats. Another present from her dog.

Actually, she has several dogs, Skye terriers. She explained that only the "husband and son" are here. In Paris remains the "wife, who always ees having the babies."

The green-eyed Mlle. Balin had a French father, an Italian mother, and was born at a villa near Monte Carlo. Charles Balin was a wealthy newspaper publisher. Mireille had a luxurious upbringing and an expensive finishing-school education. Hers was a celebrated figure around southern European resorts.

That figure hasn't yet been photographed in Hollywood, but returned travelers bear news of it. They declare that whenever she appeared on the beach at Cannes the gendarmes had to rope off and guard a space around her. Concessioners then would have a field day renting spyglasses.

Roosevelt Seen Losing Ground In New York State Unless Jackson Gets Governor's Call

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25. — The likelihood that an anti-New Dealer will capture the governorship in Roosevelt's home state of New York, usually considered the second most important political job in the nation, is casting a shadow in Washington.

Rodney Dutcher

No one professes to be able to see very clearly into the future up there. But it is significant that Assistant Attorney General Robert H. Jackson, Roosevelt's candidate for the governorship who is about to become solicitor general of the United States, is making no active effort for the Democratic nomination.

Politicians here are increasingly inclined to believe that Gov. Herbert Lehman will seek renomination. This may sound queer to those who remember how Roosevelt had to beg him publicly to get on the ticket in 1936, but Lehman yearns to be a U. S. senator.

Lehman Likes Albany

Efforts to persuade Senator Bob Wagner to run for governor and let Lehman have the senatorial nomination having failed, it now appears Lehman prefers to stay in Albany so as to be in a position to run against Senator Copeland in 1940.

Lehman broke formally with Roosevelt during the court fight, but insiders know that this merely publicized a previous rift. With the possible exceptions of Jackson and Jim Farley, either of whom would need full and whole hearted support from Roosevelt, Lehman would be the only New York Democrat who would have a chance of beating racket-busting District Attorney Tom Dewey should the latter accept the Republican nomination. Dewey has said that he isn't interested, but he is very likely to be drafted by his party as its white hope.

Farley Discouraged

Attorney General John Bennett is seeking the Democratic nomination and has so much support among county chairmen and other politicians that he is likely to be nominated by the Democratic convention if neither Lehman nor Farley step in. Few believe, however, that Bennett could beat Dewey.

Farley himself would like to be a candidate, it seems, but the bitterness between old line Tammanyites, the American Labor party and his own Democratic group in New York discourages him as much as it confuses the whole picture.

Jackson, the only pro-Roosevelt New Dealer on the gubernatorial horizon, is receptive but not eager. He has discouraged proposals from New Yorkers who sought to organize Jackson-for-Governor clubs. Well pleased with the important post of solicitor-general, he will have to be pushed by Roosevelt before he rolls up his sleeves and actively enters the messy New York fight.

Praise For Elliot

Although Elliot Roosevelt, Hearst radio executive, cancelled invitations to broadcasters whom he had asked to dine at the White House (after much adverse criticism had arisen) those in the radio business who know him speak highly of his ability and insist that his relationship to the President is far from the only factor in his success.

Elliot has appeared ably as his own attorney and witness before the Federal Communications commission and demonstrated business capacity once by buying for $55,000 a Forth Worth station which was worth a net profit of $25,000 a year to him. He doesn't like Washington and seldom comes near the White House.

Talk Cheap?

The Senate's filibuster on the anti-lynching bill cost more than $300,000, if one accepts the apparently reasonable estimate of $9000 a day made by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

It's just plain argument whether failure to pass other legislation in this period repressed further cost or an actual saving to the country. Many filibusters sat content in the thought that they were also filibustering against other legislative schemes.

Chinese Leader Is Speaker In City

Dr. Z. T. Koo, Chinese lecturer, Thursday night closed a series of lectures here by addressing approximately 250 persons in the First Baptist church auditorium.

He had spoken earlier to a group of Texas Technological college students and faculty members in a special convocation. He was brought here under the auspices of the college organization of the Young Men's and Women's Christian associations.

He spoke on phases of the Far Eastern conflicts, dealing at length with the position of Japanese and Chinese Christians and their situation in the war zones.

Special organ music was by Mrs. C. E. Hereford, wife of the pastor of the church. Dr. Koo also played several numbers on a handmade bamboo flute. Most of the selections were Chinese folk tunes.

He will leave today for California where he is scheduled to make a series of addresses.

G. W. Dupree, jr., president of the YW-YMCA at Tech, presided.

Rankin Quits School Post

RALLS, Feb. 25. (Special)—After 17 years service with Ralls public schools, Supt. J. M. Rankin has announced he will retire at the end of the present team.

He had taught two years in another Crosby county school before he came here.

"Rapidly expanding business interests will require my full time," his statement said.

Despite the fact Supt. Rankin's experience exempts him from the requirements of younger and less-experienced teachers, he continued to pursue his academic work. He received his master's degree about five years ago and has completed part of the work for a doctor's degree.

Points To Accomplishments

"I take pride in pointing out that when I became superintendent of the Ralls Public schools, there were four schools in the district offering high school work, a thing so manifestly inefficient and uneconomical that you joined with me at once to correct the condition," he told the board. "With your cooperation our schools have been reorganized so they are now a compact efficient organization of one central high school and three ward schools, inviting comparison with any system in Texas of comparable size."

Under his administration, the school has emerged from beneath a debt amounting to more than a year's tax collections; rates have reduced by half; and two permanent buildings have been erected and no bonds issued.

Consistent Athletic Winners

"Fifteen of the 17 years of my service here, Ralls has been winner of the spring Interscholastic league meets. We have been frequent winners and strong contenders for district honors in football and basketball. When Ralls first had district championship basketball and football teams, I had full responsibility for all management and coaching. Since then I have had the responsibility for checking the eligibility of players and never has our school and community been humiliated by a protest sustained against one of our players in a major sport."
