Queen Wichita To Be Crowned At Maskat Tent

Biggest Crowd of Shrine Circus Expected to Go Out Tonight and Witness Colorful Coronation of Girl Picked in Contest for Popularity Honors; Also to Be Masons Night

Tonight is big night at the Shrine circus. Queen Wichita is to be crowned.

With all the pomp and color that is possible for members of Maskat temple to crowd into the ceremony and with a keen friendly rivalry between several of the half score contestants for the honor, officials of the big circus are expecting a record-breaking attendance at Athletic park tonight.

Already upward of 30,000 have passed the turnstiles at the circus gates and the crowd tonight is being predicted by Potentate Cline, Recorder Fritz, Press Agent Extraordinaire Post and other dignitaries to eclipse that of any single night.

To Crown Queen

To the most popular girl in Wichita goes the honor and crown of queen. She will be crowned such tonight before the thousands who will pack the canvas top to view the gorgeous ceremony.

In addition to the honor goes a Chevrolet touring car. This prize is being presented merely to attach some importance other than newspaper recognition to the title of queen in Wichita, according to Potentate Cline and Prince Post of the publicity purveyors. To the girl chosen as the runner-up for the popularity place goes a diamond solitaire, estimated to be worth $300.

The Standing of Contestants

The standing of the contestants, as given out officially last night is as follows:

Miss Jolena Graves	50,750
Miss Eugenia Lane	48,515
Mrs. Gertrude Green	38,700
Miss Geraldine Dooley	27,500
Mrs. Eli Stephens	27,100
Miss Esther Lyon	22,500
Mrs. Denis Dellis	22,000
Miss Robbye Harrison	10,370

Another big crowd turned out to witness the circus and parade the midway last night.

Harry Lavan, directing the big production, is receiving quite a bit of praise and encouragement from citizens in general and Shriners in particular over his efforts. He is also running the "Flying LaVans," the feature at of the show. This is a sensational aerial trapeze performance which concludes the program.

Mainly About PEOPLE

How Burnett Made It It Was All In Land— Watch Irrigation— You, Yourself Profit—

THERE is an old Roman away out in the plains country who is known as the pioneer citizen of the panhandle and the plains. Colonel Charles Goodnight is known and beloved by all the pioneers of a vast territory. He fed his herd on the green grass when the range was free. He helped to conquer a wilderness. With the assistance of Mrs. Goodnight he saved the buffalo from extension.

Long ago he warned the cowmen that the man with the plow and the hoe would take the country as he had taken it throughout all civilization question of time until the large ranches would disappear and the stock raiser and the farmer would take the place of the large ranch and the cowboy.

Colonel Goodnight saw the hand writing on the wall. He bowed to the inevitable. He disposed of his large possessions and he did it cheerfully and without a regret. All his life in Texas he has been a builder and a humanitarian, and when the bell sounds for him there will be tears shed in the homes of the many who loved him.

CAPT. Samuel Burk Burnett was perhaps the most successful of all the cowmen of Texas.

Major Lou Barkley, former postmaster of Fort Worth, back in the rough and ready days of 1880, was chief cowpuncher on Burnett's Wichita county ranch. Burnett had 8,000 cattle then and 30,000 acres of what the Indians thought was worthless land. In 1881 Major Barkley drove a herd of the best cattle in the southwest to the Indian territory. That saved the herd from the drouth.

Burnett was in the north on some business and the Indians refused to let Barkley and his men and the herd of cattle remain there. Burnett was notified and he made haste to shorten his northern trip and to return to the territory.

HE made a deal with the Indians and then what was known as the Big Pasture was controlled for years by Burnett and those associated with him. He fought against the opening of the Big Pasture to white settlers and W. T. Waggoner and other cowmen who were enjoying grazing privileges fought by his side.

Joseph A. Kemp could tell a beautiful story of the politicians and the cowmen who fought the advanced guard civilization in what was then known as the Indian Territory and the rich lands just over the Red river from the Texas border line. All those interested in the big pasture surrendered when they were compelled to surrender.

Burnett surrendered without a growl. He had some vision and the ability to interpret the signs of the time. "Westward, he" was his slogan and his ranch holdings in Texas when he died must have been beyond the 500,000 acre mark.

SAMUEL Burk Burnett had a handsome town house in the city of Fort Worth. It was presided over by Mrs. Olive Burnett and never had a Texas home a more gracious mistress. Just a few short years ago one of the idols of the home, young Samuel Burk Burnett, Jr., was called to the invisible shore. The other idol of the home was and is Miss Anne Burnett, the young granddaughter of the dead chief of the Texas cowmen of old. Burnett had never made large investments in city property in Fort Worth until after Baldridge, an unfortunate banker, passed on. Then a 12-story office building on Main street became the property of the ranch king.

Men estimate the value of his estate at 15 millions. He has a son here, a daughter-in-law and a grand-

DEMS TRIUMPH ON TARIFF BILL

G.O.P. Cloture Move Seems Beaten

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Defeat of the republican motion for cloture on the administration tariff bill appeared virtually certain tonight on the eve of the vote on the issue, set for noon tomorrow.

Democratic leaders claimed and republican leaders conceded that it would not be possible to obtain for the motion the two-thirds majority necessary to invoke the resisting rule which would limit debate on the bill and its amendments to one hour for each senator. Leaders on both sides, however, hoped that out of the move would come a unanimous consent agreement to limit debate, at least on the less important items in the measure. Negotiations looking to such an agreement are under way.

If the cloture move fails, consideration on the tariff will go steadily ahead. Whether there will be a return to night sessions, may depend upon the outcome of the negotiations by which it is hoped to cut down debate and speed a final vote.

15-Year-Old Girl Assaulted After Being Lured From Home by Boys

By Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., July 6.—Luring two girls, less than 15 years old, to a lonely spot here last night, two young men assaulted one of the victims and left her bound and gagged, it was announced today by the sheriff's office. The other girl escaped and notified officers. No trace of the men had been found tonight.

Learning that the brother of one of the girls was away from home, the men telephoned and told the sister her brother was seriously injured in an accident. She was told to bring the other girl for company and hurry to the end of the street car line, where they would be met.

The youths met the girls when they alighted from the car and induced them to walk to a secluded spot where the attack was made. One of the girls broke and ran. The other girl was found with two handkerchiefs stuffed in her mouth and with her hands and feet tied.

3 Dying From Subway Fumes

THRONGS DROP AS GAS FILLS CROWDED CARS

Frenzied Panic In Tube When Fire Flashes

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 6—Trapped in a dark subway tunnel, 75 feet below the street and reeking with gas fumes and smoke, nearly 500 men, women and children, passengers on an east side train of the interborough Rapid Transit company, today were converted into a frenzied shrieking mob, almost a third of whose members were overcome before they could fight their way to safety.

Three probably will die. Police officials said it was a miracle many were not trampled to death.

A little fire extinguisher, whose contents were turned on a motorman's control box, was held responsible by police and fire officials for the clouds of poisonous fumes and smoke sent swirling through the tunnel.

More than three scores of those overcome were in such serious condition as to require hospital treatment, while the number treated on the streets and in emergency hospitals set up at the scene was placed at about 100.

The train—a ten car Jerome avenue express, heavily loaded—was crashing along its subterranean way beneath Lexington avenue shortly after 11 o'clock when passengers in the third coach were startled by an explosion which blew open the door of the driver's compartment. A short-circuit had occurred.

Extinguisher No Good.

Patrolman Fred Norman, who was riding in the car seized a fire extinguisher from its rack and as the train ground to a sudden halt, rushed to the compartment and shot the contents of the extinguisher on the sputtering flames which were eating the insulation from the control box wires. Instead of checking them, he declared, the extinguisher served only to spread them and in a moment the car and soon the entire tunnel, was choked with smoke and fumes.

Electra Jumps Ahead With 57 Completions in Month of June

Special to the Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, July 6.—Fifty-seven completions in the Electra field during the month of June!

This is by far the greatest number of wells that have been completed in this district in a single month for several years. The wells range from 1,200 barrels to a half a barrel. Of the entire number completed only 11 of them were failures. Taking the failures a review disclosed the fact that only two of them were drilled over 1,500 feet and none of the wells went as deep as 2,000 feet.

In May the average of producing wells in the field were 80 per cent in comparison to the number drilled. The June summary shows that the average of 80 per cent producers is maintained. Several of the dry holes reported in the months' summary were completed at less than 500 feet, which by all rights should not be considered as a fair test to any property.

PARTY HIT BY HARDING

President Attacks Republicans

By Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 6.—President Harding in an address here tonight made a vigorous appeal for harmony in the ranks of the republican party. Too many who prefer to be republicans, he declared, are attempting "to attract attention to themselves," instead of working for the good of their party and country.

The president said he did not care to be a soloist, but added that some one had to act as director, otherwise there would be discord. He spoke at an open air banquet which celebrated the fifteenth anniversary of the Columbus Republican Glee club of which tonight he was made a life member.

Strikers Restrained By Court Order

By Associated Press.

Mr. Fox is an employe of the county in connection with the road construction work.

RAIL BOARD HALTS STRIKE

Signal Men Walk-Out Averted

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 6.—A threatened extension of the strike of railway shopmen to include 12,000 signal men was prevented today by members of the United States labor board when D. W. Helt, head of the Brotherhood of Railroad Signal Men, which has been taking a strike vote, promised to maintain the status quo pending further conferences.

It was the second time that intervention of board members has averted an extension of the walkout, a threatened strike of maintenance of way men having prevented Tuesday through the efforts of Chairman Ben. W. Hooper and W. L. McMenimen, labor members of the board.

Meanwhile railway circles expressed strong hopes of a quick settlement of the shopmen's strike which began July 1. B. M. Jewell, head of the railway department of the American Federation of Labor, who is directing the shopmen's strike today reiterated former statements that the shopmen were willing to consider a settlement proposition submitted by any authoritative body.

"If any one has a proposition for settlement up his sleeve, let him shake it out," Mr. Jewell said. "We are ready to consider any reasonable proposition submitted by any authoritative body."

The situation is improving so far as the strike is concerned, Mr. Jewell said, asserting that he had received reports from several points that "what few men that did remain at work last Saturday and Monday joined the walkout Wednesday."

Mr. Jewell said he had received a telegram from J. F. Valentine of Cincinnati, head of the International Moulders Union authorizing a walkout of 2,500 moulders employed on railroads. He also exhibited telegrams from heads of the ladies auxiliaries of shopmen's organizations in which it was said that the women are doing picketing duty.

Little Violence Reported

The sixth day of the shopmen's strike was marked with little violence except for a few sporadic outbreaks in widely scattered sections. The railroads maintain that men were returning to work, but some of the carriers annulled some trains and readjusted schedules.

The officials of the unions maintained that the ranks of the strikers remained unbroken.

MILK AND ICE FUND QUICKLY REACHES GOAL

Enough Cash Given For Poor In Very Few Days

With a grand total of $366 raised by public subscription in little more than a week and with free ice and milk at cost for the poor, The Record New Milk and Ice Fund has sufficient money to provide the two necessities of life for the poor kiddies in Wichita Falls during the summer.

Mrs. E. B. Gorsline, Jr., secretary of the United Charities and Captain Hicks of the Salvation army have made a thorough check of the situation and find that the fund on hand with the contribution of ice and cut rate milk will be entirely sufficient.

Donors Thanked

Mrs. Gorsline and Captain Hicks said Thursday they desire to thank most sincerely every person and organization that contributed to the fund in any way.

They also expressed their thanks to The Record News for conducting the campaign. No one but deserving persons will get the benefit of money raised, Mrs. Gorsline said, and all cases will be thoroughly investigated.

She thinks that those who contributed have done a splendid work for humanity.

To complete the fund there came in the mail Thursday a check for $2 from

Still In Clubhouse

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, July 6.—Probably the most unique capture in Wilbarger county law circles in recent months was recorded the fourth of July when the sheriff's force took into custody a moonshine still which had been placed in the clubhouse of the Spring Lake Rod and Gun club, about 15 miles northeast of Vernon. The equipment was of a crude manufacture, but was in use when discovered.

The club is patronized by many of the leading business men of Vernon who make frequent excursions to the lake on fishing trips. Two members arrived at the grounds at 2:30 Tuesday morning in order to be ready for the fishing at daylight, and at their approach, the operators fled. The mash in the vat was hot when it was found.

SEN TURNS DOWN TRUCE

CANTON, China, July 6. — Sun Yat Sen, deposed president of the south China, today refused general Chen Chiung Ming's proposal that he head a delegation from the eight southern provinces to negotiate with the Peking government for the reunion of China unless he first is restored to the northern presidency from which Chen drove him.

Ben W. Hooper, chairman of the rail labor board

Much of the credit for averting a strike of 400,000 maintenance of way men and for halting, temporarily at least, a threatened walk-out of 12,000 signal men is due to Ben W. Hooper, chairman of the railway labor board.

FRENCHMEN RAP DISARM PLAN

Jouhax Criticizes Work of Conference

By Associated Press.

PARIS, July 6.—A tilt between Leon Jouhaux, the French representative on the disarmament commission of the league of nations and Sir Robert Cecil, enlivened today's session of the commission.

M. Jouhaux criticised Sir Robert's plan for disarmament and the work of the commission, saying that the workers of the world had been expecting much from the commission, but that it had accomplished nothing thus far except to increase the difficulties by continued talk about guarantees. The work of disarmament, he declared, should proceed whether the various nations demanded guarantees or not. Sir Robert asserted that M. Jouhaux's speech consisted of a plan which every one present was aware lacked many details which Jouhaux as head of the workers federation of France might supply.

Francisco Jose Urrutia, representing Colombia, made an appeal in favor of the immediate inclusion of Sir Robert's disarmament plan of the clause of the Washington treaty relating to poisonous gas, but further discussion on this point was postponed until smaller nations received official copies of the Washington treaties.

Hooper, Not Hoover

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 6. — Dispatches last night quoted W. H. Johnston, president of the International Association of Machinists as saying that the railway executives were given to understand by Secretary Hoover "that our move toward a general strike was mere bluff."

Mr. Johnston explained today that he referred to Chairman Hooper of the railway labor board and not to Secretary Hoover. The similarity of names led to an error in transmission.

O. C. Williams, Railroad Brakeman, Walks to Circus, But Rides Away

O. C. Williams, a brakeman for the Fort Worth & Denver City railroad, is rejoicing today. He was presented by Maskat Temple Shriners at the Shrine circus Thursday night with a Ford sedan.

Mr. Williams was enjoying the circus and when he found that he had been awarded an automobile he lost no time in claiming the car. Before the entire crowd had left the grounds he was in his newly acquired possession and driving away.

The crowd that swarmed the circus Thursday night was one of the most enthusiastic of the entire event. It is estimated that approximately 5,000 people went in the gates and they all joined in the merriment of the occasion. Kiddies and grown-ups alike filled the various tents, saw the great snake, the aerial artists and drank pink lemonade. It was midnight before the last of the crowd left the gates.

COLVIN SLAIN; BEBOUT WITH SHOOK NAMED

Man Shot Down In Front of Home As Wife Looks On

J. O. Colvin lies in the Hines undertaking parlors with five bullet holes through his body.

Tom R. Shook and Charles Bebout, city policemen, are under $10,000 bond each, held in connection with the shooting that occurred at 503 Holliday street Thursday night at 9 o'clock, resulting in Colvin's instant death.

Shook and Bebout were taken into custody shortly after the shooting affray, and charges of murder were placed against them by Chief of Police J. W. McCormick. Both made bond Thursday night and were released. They waived preliminary hearing before Justice R. V. Guinn and will be brought before the 30th district court grand jury, which is now in session.

Went to Search Home

According to eyewitnesses, the shooting occurred when Officers Shook, Bebout, Bob Miller and Melvin Johnson, headed by Night Chief R. Lee McDonald with a federal search warrant, entered Colvin's premises on Holliday and told him they had come to search his home.

Colvin is said to have arisen from his seat on the porch and to have invited the officers to "help themselves."

One of the policemen, eye-witnesses said, was heard to exclaim, "Get that gun out of his hand."

A scuffle is said to have followed, during which time Night Chief McDonald grabbed for Colvin's right hand, in which, according to his wife, Colvin held a .45 pistol. The pistol was secured by the chief, then, according to one of the officers, Colvin is alleged to have drawn a second weapon from his belt and to have fired one shot.

The shooting in which he lost his life followed, witnesses assert.

All Shots Go Through

All the shots seem to have entered Colvin's body on the right side, and to have come out on the left. None of the bullets remained inside. Justice Guinn remarked last night that he "was most peculiarly shot, and that it was hard to judge the course of the bullets."

Two, however, entered the man's right breast, apparently coming out on the left side of his abdomen.

Shook and Bebout were carried direct to Sheriff Fred Smith's office at the courthouse, where both made bond. The bonds were signed by Charles Bebout, Tom Shook, J. D. Avis, Bull Heydrick, F. F. Hunter, Jimmy Williams, W. W. Gardner, P. J. Lea and M. D. Rowe.

Wife Sees Shooting

Colvin is survived by his wife and four children, all of whom were present at the time of the shooting. Mrs. Colvin gave her version of the affray to District Attorney Schenck late last night, stating that when the officers approached her house, that her husband arose and invited them to search the premises when they had informed him of their mission.

It was her statement that Colvin had had two pistols, and that he had drawn one of them, but that he did not fire a shot.

His pistols, both of which were held at the city police station Thursday night, showed upon an examination that one chamber of a .45 double-action had been fired.

Shook's only statement was that "I fired five times." Bebout made no statement in connection with the affray, it being the statement of the district attorney that he had possibly fired two shots.

Colvin's body was carried to the Hines undertaking establishment soon after he was killed, where it was prepared for burial Thursday night. Funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

Belcher's Statement

According to officials of the city police department, an incident occurring earlier in the evening is believed to have laid the foundation for the shooting. Officer W. P. Belcher of the plainclothes department gives the best version of this in the following manner:

"We got a call stating that two men were going to Colvin's house to buy some whisky," Belcher stated last night. "So we followed and shadowed them. We saw the two men drive up in front of Colvin's house, and one of them got out and went inside. In a few minutes he came back and got in the car, and we drove across the street and blocked their passage.

"I got out of the car that Shook and I were in told the men to give me what they had. One of them reached inside of his shirt and pulled out a half-gallon jar of whisky, and

TWO HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Burk Men Injured Near Iowa Park

Special to the Record News.

IOWA PARK, Texas, July 6.—Reese Morgan and John Reese, both aged 45, were brought to a local hospital today suffering from minor injuries received when their high-powered automobile overturned on the road several miles west of town after noon today.

Morgan suffered a fractured clavicle and possibly internal injuries, the extent of which are not known. Reese is suffering more from the shock than injuries. Both are from Burkburnett.

Physicians do not believe the men are seriously injured.

Three other members of the party were severely shaken up and after treatment for bruises, returned to their home at Burkburnett.

The entire party were residents of that city.

threw it to the ground. It splattered all over me and got in my face.

Says Colvin Had Gun

"I walked to his car then and told him that he was under arrest. I got in the car and they drove me back to Colvin's house. I opened the door of the car and called to Colvin, who was standing in his yard. He came toward me, and before he got off of his own yard, he reached in his hip pocket and threw a pistol down on the grass behind him. Then he came out to the car. I never got out, but I told him to get in the car and go to town with us.

He said, 'I haven't got time to fool with you and I won't go,' and then backed toward his yard, got his pistol off the grass and leveled it on the man that sat in the car with me. He told him to get out of the car—I think he said 'get out of there.' Colvin addressed the man I had under arrest several times and told him to get out, then his wife and two of the children grabbed him, whirled him around and we drove off.

Said He Would Return

"I told him before we left that I would go back to town and get a warrant for his arrest and come back. He said that he wouldn't go regardless of what I got."

It was Belcher's statement that he and Shook had brought the two men back to the station, where they were placed in the city jail, and that the officers had then obtained a federal search warrant from United States Commissioner J. A. Lantz to search the premises of the Colvin home.

It was after the warrant had been obtained, according to police officials, that the officers, headed by their night chief, returned to the Colvin residence, where the shooting occurred.

Colvin served as a city policeman under Commissioner Brawley and also served under Commissioner Fitts until September of 1921. He had been city poundmaster.

WHERE'S LUCILLE?

Horrace Robbins was the busiest man on the circus lot last night.

He was looking for "Lucille."

Of course everybody knows who Lucille is, or know something about her act. She has been the old stand-by of Norris Ewing's nightly cash-drawer receipts at the circus. The bar mention of Lucille's name meant money in Norris' fingers.

Robbins was interrupted on his search throughout the night with the timely question, well put by many visitors to the show, as: "Horrace, it's not have you seen Lulelle, but where is Lucille?"

Robbins hasn't answered that question yet, according to Shriners.

KIDS DRAW CROWD

Young Rocky Kansas busted his thumb and then they called it off.

Dave Paul said it was a draw.

Others agreed with him and contributed to the kitty.

It was a street fight at Eighth and Scott. Just like any other fight it drew throngs of tired business men around an improvised arena. That's all. Just a scrap between two wids.

DALLAS LAUDS IT

The Maskat temple Shrine circus is a bigger proposition and a more successful affair than the Dallas show.

Al Reid, chief rabban of Hella temple, Dallas and Tom B. Hunter, said so.

They were visitors at the circus last night.

little Reuben got another big hand last night with their contortionist and slack wire walking stunt. The kid is a marvel.

Louis Forcier, one of the veteran clowns of the old-day circus, and his army of professionals continue to draw laugh after laugh and really are putting a lot more life into the big show as it progresses.

Another good act is the McCune-Grant trio. These people are always on the go and have something in a combination clown and trapeze stunt that goes over big.

Sheik Dance Popular

Probably the most unusual and most popular act of the entire circus is the "Sheik Dance and Song." This always stops the whole show. Half a dozen harem-gowned debutantes of Wichita Falls society step lightly out on the main stage, lead by R. E. Shepherd, clad quite properly as he should be, as the Sheik of Araby and present their song and dance. Shepherd sings through a megaphone, his clear-cut tenor being carried first to one side of the big top and then to the other. Meanwhile the subdebs go through their steps. In this party are Misses Lillian Randle, Frankie Adicks, Leta Joe McCallister, Beatrice Shyker, Bernice Pross and Helen Knotts.

Band's on Lot

The Maskat temple band under the direction of E. V. Lawler, has been playing all accompaniments to circus stunts, as well as furnishing music between acts and prior to the opening of the big show. Those who are connected with th affair say that the musicians go through their program with as much ease and talent as if they had been on the road with the show through a season or so.

IT'S MASONIC NIGHT

As well as being coronation night at the Shrine circus, tonight is also Masonic night.

To do honor to the occasion, Potentate Cline had officially invited every member of the Masonic order in Wichita Falls as well as the Order of the Eastern Star out to take part in the festivities.

HURRY! HUR-RR-RAY!

Here's a new one.

L. W. Fritz is the "heaviest" spieler on the circus lot.

He weighs 220 pounds stripped.

He's the heaviest in avoldupois as well as in words. However, he seldom varies his bally-hooing. His favorite expression is "Hurry." However, he serves it up in a varied style. Sometimes it's "Hur-rie," then again its "hurry! hurry! hurry!" and sometimes a long, drawn out prohibition yell "hur-r-r-r-rah!"

Why he's trying to hurry up the crowd no one has been able to determine. But it's a fact that he does inject the old pep into one's bones so say those who have stood afar and wtched him operate.

THRONGS—

gers into some semblance of order, Patrolman Norman seized a woman who had been overcome, clammored down into the darkness of the tunnel and commanded other male passengers to follow his example.

Cop a Hero.

He grouped his way with his burden to 59th Street and led the refugees up a long winding emergency stairway to the street.

Then he sent in alarms which brought all available fire apparatus, ambulances and police reserves in the vicinity rushing to the scene and plunged back down to rescue other victims. He worked until he dropped, and was sent home in Mayor Hylan's private limousine.

In the meantime, passengers in the other cars of the stalled train, ignorant at first of the cause of the delay were growing nervous and the guards opened the doors and advised them to seek safety. Smoke and fumes poured in as the doors were opened and the passengers dropped frantically to the tracks and began making their way toward the distant exits. Many, fearing the deadly third rail, dropped down on their hands and knees and literally crawled to safety. A moment after the general push for safety started a southbound express roared in on the opposite track and ground and came to a sudden halt as train lights and tunnel lights went dark. Power had been shut off to save the passengers from possible electrocution. But the darkness only added to the panic and the passengers on this train smashed their way out of the cars and joined in the scramble for exits.

Drop in Tracks

Men women and children were dropping in their tracks as the fumes, smoke and the excitement overcame them.

Others of stronger physique and stronger nerves picked them up and dragged them along to safety.

In the meantime, Lexington avenue had been choked with ambulances and fire trucks and police reserves from three stations were drawing a cordon to hold back the thousands attracted by the smoke.

Physicians came hurrying with their office nurses while calls to the Red Cross brought additional workers. Police, firemen and volunteers then plunged into the subway and brought out victim after victim, using the emergency exits at Fifty-third, Fifty-eighth and Sixty-third streets and working by ladders through the ventilation grating at Sixty-first street.

Blame for the seriousness of the accident was laid on the Pyrene fire extinguisher by Captain Thomas Rush of Engine company 30, which was the first to reach the scene. Directed by Mayor Hylan to make a statement, he said "The smoke was not from a fireman's point of view. I found employes of the Interborough fighting the fire with hand extinguishers which are called Pyrene extinguishers, and as a result of liquid from these extinguishers striking the fire, deadly fumes were created. This pyrene extinguisher is a widely advertised article and while it is very effective for gasoline fires, it is a deadly menace in a closed place."

Probe Starts

A formal investigation will be started to fix blame for the accident.

An executive of the Pyrene company at Newark, N. J., who declined to give his name, denied Pyrene gave off "deadly" fumes though he admitted the extinguisher produced gas which in a closed place might cause "fainting and temporary exhaustion."

COURT TO SET ROAD ROUTE

Council to Leave Up to Judiciary

Final settlement of the proper routing which the Clay county road shall take through Wichita Falls will probably be left up to the courts.

This was the conclusion drawn Thursday when the city council, meeting in special session, ordered the city attorney to petition the courts for a writ of injunction, prohibiting the county commissioners from continuing their present work on the Fort Worth street route.

The city, it is understood, is anxious for the courts to decide the proper route the Meridian highway shall take through Wichita Falls, in view of the much dissension that has arisen through the naming of any location.

Local Man Hurt In Auto Wreck

STEPHENVILLE, Texas, July 6.—Blinded by lights from an approaching automobile, George L. McKay, oil operator of Wichita Falls, lost control of his own car and was seriously injured in the resulting wreck a few miles from here late Wednesday. Two girls, Misses Geraldine Hale and Betty Marie Ferrin of Stephenville, who were in the car with McKay, received minor cuts and bruises.

McKay was pulled unconscious from the demolished machine and is in a serious condition, according to reports from a Fort Worth sanitarium, where he was removed. The party was returning from a dance when the accident occurred.

'Sno "Bathing Pool" at Red River Park, But a "Real Swimmin' Home"

There is a difference between bathing pools and swimmin' holes.

Nice concrete pools afford their advantages, but many prefer the soft sand of a natural bottom and a spring board off the bank.

That is what prompted Tom Manley to originate Red River park.

A natural lake, really a cut off of the old river channel, filled with clear, cool water was his discovery.

Manley erected individual lockers for "swimmers," a dance platform, confection stand and such other necessities as might be found at picnic resorts.

Natural springs located all 'round the place are real springs. Then just across the "hole" is a long sand bar of the river bed, truly a beach in every respect.

A negro orchestra furnished music for dancing at night.

A unit power plant supplies abundant light, but seems far out of contrast to the rustic setting, since the park is far from the "hurry and noise" of the city.

Located barely two miles from the concrete road toward Burkburnett and only three miles from that town, many have opportunity to enjoy a real day's or evening's pleasure.

But it is the "swimmin' hole idea that appeals to most.

Jones Leaves Missouri U.

By Associated Press.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 6.—J. C. Jones, president of the University of Missouri, today presented his resignation and it was accepted effective, April, 1923, at a meeting here of the board of curators of the institution.

In a letter to the board asking "to be relieved of the duties of the presidency at the commencement next April" President Jones did not state any reason for his resignation, but it was understood that he desired to be relieved of the responsibility, owing to his advanced age. He is 66 years old.

ROBERTS NOT GUILTY

Charged with the theft of harness, and with an array of testimony against him, A. H. Roberts was found not guilty by a jury of six men in the county court at law Thursday, and was dismissed.

Roberts was tried before Judge Guy Rogers.

daughter at Fort Worth and a son-in-law and two three grandchildren in the city of Denver.

THE man who devoures beefsteak every day pays more for that steak than Burnett or Waggoner paid per acre for land in the good old days when the ranchmen and their cowboys were not only the law west of the Pecos but the law west of Fort Worth.

There is a new civilization here and the man with the plow and the hoe is making it. Colonel Charles Goodnight was a prophet when he foretold the going of the large ranch and the coming of the farmer and the stockman.

They are already here.

Irrigation will do the rest. Large ranches are doomed. They are going to join the Indian, the wildhorse, the bison, the antelope, the cow king of old and the ever irrepressible and picturesque cowpuncher who was the first rough rider of the range.

State Fair Official Makes Promise

W. H. Stratton, secretary of the Texas State fair at Dallas, told Wichita Falls Rotarians at noon luncheon in the Kemp Thursday that the officials of the state fair are going to do all in their power to help the Texas-Oklahoma fair.

He said that since the fair is to be held several days before the state fair it will be possible for him to help considerably in sending various exhibits here.

Speaking of the equipment at the fair grounds, Mr. Stratton said that Wichita Falls is very fortunate in having been able to secure such a well equipped plant for holding the fair. He said that with a splendid live stock and agricultural section surrounding this city the fair here should be a splendid success.

"There is no greater civic builder of any kind than a fair," Mr. Stratton said. He took occasion to praise Pete Rogers, president of the Rotary club, and said that he had known him for years and that he is a hard worker for civic progress.

R. E. Shepherd talked on the coming trade trip and made an appeal for more Rotarians to go on the trip. He said that only 12 Rotarians had signed up so far. He promised that everybody who goes will enjoy the trip and that it will be beneficial to each individual as well as to the city as a whole.

George Platt made a very interesting talk on adding machines and gave the history of adding machines of various kinds from the earliest time to the present. He had one of the most modern Burroughs machines the work of which he demonstrated and which proved unusually interesting to the Rotarians.

Miss Mildred Martin sang two songs for the Rotarians. Her voice was very clear, of sweet tone and the songs brought hearty applause. She was accompanied on the piano by Mr. Pittman.

ENGLISH TEACHER COMING TO U. S.

(By International News Service.)

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Dr. W. G. Cove, president of the National Association of Teachers of England and Wales, will make a special trip to the United States to be present at the sixtieth annual meeting of the National Education association to be held at Boston from July 2 to 8, it was announced here today.

Dr. Cove came into prominence when he led the fight in 1918 for the Fisher Education bill, often called the Magna Charta of free public education in England.

SHE SENDS HUBBY TO JAIL

Mrs. Mildred Hauser.

Her husband, Lee Hauser, had been arrested on forgery charges. In his room at the Plaza hotel the police found expensive dresses and lingerie.

But Mrs. Hauser wasn't living with him. And the dresses and dainties didn't belong to her. That's where she got the "scorned" idea.

"Do you think he'd live clean if I paroled him?" the judge asked.

"Not in a thousand years," she replied. "He cleaned me out of all my diamonds by bringing my rings back with glass settings after I'd sent them out to be remounted."

"Would you be responsible for him if I paroled him to you?" the judge asked.

"Not in a million years. I tried to help him when I married him, but I'm cured trying to build up a man without any materials to start with."

WORLD DRY IN 5 YEARS—JOHNSON

(By International News Service.)

WASHINGTON, July 6.—The entire world will be absolutely bone dry in five years.

No less a person than William E. (Pussyfoot) Johnson, international prohibition worker, who donated one of his orbs to the cause while in England, is the author of this prediction.

Addressing a curch congregation here, Johnson gauged the progress of the dry movement by its achievements in India, where he conducted extensive investigations some time ago. The Volstead law, Johnson said, is proving a success in the United States, pointing out the great number of arrests and quantities of liquor confiscated.

PASTOR ASSAILS "BLUE LAWS"

(By International News Service.)

PITTSBURGH Pa., July 7.—Laws designed to force Sabbath observance ultimately will do more harm than good, according to Rev. Stewart Martin Smith, pastor of Donora Captist church here and chaplain of two organizations of World war veterans.

"The peace and quiet of the old-time Sunday cannot be forced upon a people that is slowly but surely changing its definition of religion," declared the Rev. Dr. Smith. "I know the closed Sunday in Pittsburgh, and I know the open Sunday in Paris, France. In Paris I discovered as much genuine piety as I ever discovered in Pittsburgh.

BEQUEST NAMES WICHITA PEOPLE

Burk Burnett's Will Is Probated

Bequests for Wichita Falls' relatives provided for in the will of the late Capt. S. Burk Burnett, which was filed Wednesday in the probate court of Tarrant county, amount to $25,000. Two sisters here, Mrs. T. W. Roberts and Mrs. Amanda Barkley received $10,000 each, and a niece, Mrs. Bently Bacon, daughter of Mrs. Barclay, received $5,000.

The granddaughter, Anne Burnett will receive the bulk of the large fortune which is estimated at not less than $6,000,000 although a maximum value of $15,000,000 is made by those in position to appraise it. The only surviving child, a son, Tom L. Burnett, Texas ranch owner is given $25,000 a year and a fund of $50,000 is left for the improvement of the Burk Burnett park at Fort Worth which was donated to the city by the deceased.

The will which is probably the largest ever to enter Tarrant county courts, in effect creates a trust fund from which the granddaughted will receive two-thirds the income and her mother, Mrs. Ollie Anne Burnett one-third. Other bequests provide for other relatives, nieces, nephews, old friends and servants.

"MEN WANTED" NOW, NOT "JOBS WANTED"

(By International News Service.)

CHICAGO, July 7.—Signs of the times are seen here in the changing of the cry for "jobs" to the outbreak of signs for "men."

Requests to the Illinois state free employment offices jumped from 5,568 in March to 6,660 for the first 25 days in May.

"Within 30 days I feel sure that any man who will work will be able to get a job," Charles J. Boyd, secretary of the employment service declared.

Huge increases in building activities presage even larger demands for men this summer, Boyd stated. Needs for labor from basic industries is also on the upturn.

HERE AND THERE

SENATOR Robert M. LaFollette of Wisconsin is certain to be given another term of six years by his constituents. This is the verdict of newspaper correspondents who have covered the state. LaFollette has another paramount issue. He has submitted a constitutional amendment to curb the power of the United States supreme court and his plan to make supreme court decisions subject to final revision at the hands of congress now threatens to become a national issue. This is the LaFollette challenge:

"I purpose to show that the supreme court has departed from the position allotted to them by the founders of this government. Indeed, so far have they gone that members of that court, such men as Justice Harlan and Justice Day and Justice Holmes, men whose views should command respectful attention of congress, said that the majority of the court were violationg the constitution of the United Stataes. They have gradually encroached upon the legislative department of this government until they well nigh destroy the scheme of government prepared and carried out for odds by the fathers."

There are thousands of Americans who are eternally pointing to the British plan and praising the British for impartial enforcement of all laws. They are reminded that the high courts of England cannot nullify or knock out laws enacted by the British parliament. A few years ago the high court of England attempted something of the sort and then followed the enactment of the law by the parliament which makes it impossible in the future. Senator LaFollette's contention is that the makers of the American constitution never dreamed that the judiciary would dare to nullify acts of the American congress. It will make a national issue all right and Hon. Cullen F. Thomas is touching lightly upon it in all his speeches when he mildly assails the five to four decisions of the court of last resort in declaring unconstitutional laws enacted by the legislative branch of this government.

WHAT PRICE SAYS

THEODORE H. Price of New York is an economist. He predicts a buyers panic this fall. He says there is now a scarcity of labor instead of unemployment. Stocks are up from five to one hundred points, and the last six months have been reasonably prosperous throughout the country. He predicts an early settlement of the coal strike. There is an unprecedented demand for tires and automobile production in this country. For this reason rubber has become one of the great staples of the world. Silk is higher, labor is higher, steel is higher, cattle are higher, crude oil consumption for May was the largest on record.

Copper is moving upward. Trade reports are generally optimistic both as to the present and the future. Labor shortage is increasing. Railroad traffic continues remarkably good. A shortage of cars in the autumn seems probable. In addition to this, the amount of building and new construction in progress all over the country is really amazing. Economist Price says that all this is fundamentally due to the ease of money which promises to continue throughout the year. Unless a revival of speculation in stocks and commodities or a freight blockade or both absorb the loanable supply of bank credit.

Should a buyers panic come this fall, Theodore H. Price will be the top notcher among the prophets. Since the slump began more than two years ago the buyers have not been rampant. They have held off. They have kept their hands on their pocketbooks. They have economized. But Price is a bull and to him at least the future is rosy.

Federal Judge James C. Wilson is sending violators of the anti-narcotic law to the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth or imposing heavy fines. It goes without saying that dope-sellers should be given the limit. They are destroyers of their kind.

A Milwaukee editor says men take their advertising as they did their whiskey. They like it straight. Women prefer the curved lines. Now what has whiskey got to do with curved lines? Dr. Atticus Webb may know. He is the last word on John Barleycorn nor does he object to personal advertising.

FRIENDSHIP

OF ALL things in the world of human beings friendship is the most important. It is the secret of social evolution. We might say that it is the force that is pushing the race toward its maturity, and we might say that it is the goal toward which the race is bound.

In every sort of human relationship friendship is essential. The most fundamental of all the relationships is that of marriage. Marriage is begun by passion. It has for its cause the greatest urge among all the natural instincts. But while marriage is begun by passion it can only be continued and become a success when it has developed into friendship. What commences under the influence of a force which is derived from our animal nature must be completed under the influence of that force which is derived from our moral nature.

Every club or society is cemented by friendship. Men conceivably might work together, fight together, or pray together under other bonds; but they cannot possibly play together without friendship.

One of the best things in education, and one of the principal benefits the child gets from the school, is friendship.

Democracy is no more nor less than a state based upon friendship. The attempt to form a state and to maintain it by force or fear has always been unsuccessful. In other words, it is impossible for human beings to live together very long under any other bond than friendship.

Every institution in which any class of men are considered other than friends has to go down after a while. It is for this reason that we have abolished slavery. The collective human conscience will not tolerate the existence of any number of our fellows whom we are prevented from considering as friends.

The ultimate solution of the industrial problem is also going to be found in the idea of friendship. So long as self-conscious labor and self-conscious capital regard each other as enemies, and regard their interests as essentially opposed, there can be no peace. Only when they learn how to get together, and each work for the other's interests, and only as they learn to do this under equitable conditions will the solution come.

WHAT THEY'VE SPENT?

UP TO DATE Cullen F. Thomas has spent $4,684; Earle B. Mayfield $4,371; Clarence Ousley $4,069; Charles A. Culberson $3,207; Robert L. Henry $1,730; James E. Ferguson $1,323. The reader is reminded that the limit placed by the statutes on amount of campaign expenses by any candidate for United States senator is $10,000.

According to the surface signs Texans are not going to be Newberryized this year. Mrs. Ferguson did not admit a report as she did not spend a penny while Sterling P. Strong got out before the gong was sounded. Gone are the good old leg pulling days when the heelers and strikers are everywhere in evidence and 4,000 saloon keepers had to be reimbursed for furnishing the stuff that kept the boys in fighting trim.

Pawhuska Indians of the Osage tribe are said to be happy. They were paid $10,000,000 for their oil leases, or $5,000 a piece to each Indian. In addition they get a fifth royalty of the oil that comes in on their land. That makes each Indian family $20,000 richer than they were before the oil auction took place.

Titans of the petroleum world gathered at Pawhuska one day this week for the bidding classic of the year. This classic was advertised as the sale of oil leases in proven Osage country. It was a rich as well as a bidding classic as it placed $10,000,000 in pockets of the Osages who are the richest Indians in the world.

THE SWAT SEASON

Oh, my daughter, bring the swatter, for the flies my forehead chew; always, dearie, for the weary there is something fierce to do. Man must never cease endeavor, something tiresome must be done; always jumping, always humping, till his earthly course is run. I am weary, old and leery, and I'm yearning for repose; but when napping flies come scrapping on my forehead and my nose; ay, the friskers climb my whiskers and they drill among my hair, and they tickle and they prickle and they drive me to despair. So, my daughter, bring the swatter that our leading goldsmith made, with its flopper framed in copper and its handle pearl-inlaid. Bring the swatter and I'll totter up and down these princely halls, slaying, sloshing, flies a-squashing, on the ceilings and the walls. Flies are coming—hear them bumming!—they arrive on every breeze, little caring that they're bearing germs of every known disease. And we pot them and we swat them, and the toiler never quits, but a dozen come abuzzin' for the one the swatsmith hits. It is useless, though it's truceless, though our labors never end; yet, my daughter, bring the swatter, then just watch my smoke ascend.

TRAINS LATE AT FT. WORTH STATIONS

By Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, July 6.—A Texas & Pacific passenger train due here at 9 this morning, came in four hours late, due, according to a statement from railroad officials, to the tampering with safety appliances in New Orleans. Many other passenger trains are running far behind schedule today. The strikers attribute it to the walkout of the shopmen, though all roads with the exception of the Texas & Pacific deny that statement. A Fort Worth & Denver train is said to have broken down last night at Rhome and relief was sent from here.

HOUSTON, July 6.—Dan W. Ryan, 45, president of the Buffalo Bayou company, sand and shell company, died at 3:45 a. m. today from wounds received at 11 o'clock last night when he was shot on the Clinton road. A charge of murder was filed against his wife.

Mrs. Ryan did not make a statement to reporters, but her attorneys said that she admitted firing the fatal shots. Her attorney said she told him that she followed her husband, discovered him with another woman, accosted him, that he threatened her and that she then fired.

DUMM AND DUMMER SEE MENACE OF NEW BALKAN WARS IN BALKAN WEDDING

"There's no use talking," declared Senator Dumm, "peevishly, "there'll never be any chance of permanent peace in the Balkans."

"What's happened now?" asked Representative Dummer. "I thought everything was peaceful over there now."

"That's it," insisted Dumm. "Everything was sweet and low; there was not a fight looming up anywhere—when suddenly they started pulling off royal marriages again."

"The Balkans have to have a little battling going on about them or they don't feel at home," suggested Dummer. "Who upset the permanent peace by getting married?"

"King Alexander of Jugo-Slavia and Princess Marie of Roumania," explained Dumm. "They're nice young people, but they certainly have shown a lack of good judgment. With ordinary people it don't make much difference who they marry, but with royalty it is different. When a king has a row with the wife, who happens to be the daughter of a neighboring king, and tells her her folks are alotta poor fish, all she has to do to start a world war is to tell her mother and father."

"In the Balkans you can start a war on less than that," admitted Dummer. "Not long ago a king of one Balkan country declared war on the complaint of his daughter that her husband, king of a nearby state, dropped cigar ashes all over the parlor rugs!"

"I wouldn't be a bit surprised if the next Balkan outbreak occurred over the fact that King Alexander smokes a pipe too strong for his wife to stand," remarked Dummer. "Tell me, has King Alexander an auto?"

"Certainly he has," replied Dumm.

"That settles it," declared Dummer, "then there's sure to be war."

"How so?"

"Like all married couples who have flivvers they'll go out for a Sunday trip and the wife will try to tell the King of Jugo-Slavia which way to turn at every crossroads. One word will lead to another, the princess will tell her old man, the King of Roumania, that her husband dared dispute her about a left-hand turn, and then there'll be ultimatums, mobilizations and another world war."

"The outlook is very menacing," went on Dumm. "Suppose the Queen of Roumania starts hanging around her daughter's home and gets on King Alexander's nerves? He'll whisper to the wife: 'I wish you'd get that old crow outa here so we can be alone once in a while. Remember, princess, I didn't marry the whole Roumanian royal family!'"

"Then what?" asked Dummer.

"The Queen of Roumania will overhear it and order the Roumanian heavy artillery to start shelling her son-in-law at sunrise. England will object. France will side with the queen. Germany will butt in. America will write a couple of notes and in 48 hours the world war will be on all over again," predicted Senator Dumm.

o o o

"I was reading the accounts of the marriage," remarked Dummer, "and observed that it was a great military spectacle."

"Sure!" declared Senator Dumm. "In European royal circles they bring all the available cannon, cavalry, infantry, and warplanes right to the church door in case anybody stops anything. Why, the streets of Belgrade were so clogged with soldiers, horses and artillery during the hours of the wedding that the happy couple had to fight their way to the chapel doors. The ceremony lacked one thing that generally marks every part of a Balkan gathering, however."

"What was that?" asked Dummer.

"Though some foresight on the part of the entertainment committee nobody threw a bomb!" replied Senator Dumm.

"Didn't that cause any hard feeling?" asked Dummer.

"It certainly did," replied Senator Dumm. "In fact, the spectators demanded that the ceremony be held all over again with the bomb business inserted as per custom, but nothing came of it. The crowd was somewhat satisfied when a volley was fired from 200 cannon as the wedding was concluded.

"Two hundred cannon!" exclaimed Dummer.

"Two hundred cannon," replied Senator Dumm. "In the Balkans they give just the right touch to a wedding!"

The Mucker

By EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

"I can't quite make that gink out," he mused. "Either he's a mighty good loser or else he's a deep one who'll wait a year to get me the way he wants to get me."

And Pesita a few moments later was saying to Captain Rozales:

"I should have shot him if I could spare such a man; but it is seldom I find one with the courage and effrontery he possesses. Why think of it, Rozales, he kills eight of my men, and lets my prisoners escape, and then dares to come back and tell me about it when he might easily have gotten away. Villa would have made him an officer for this thing, and Miguel must have told him so. He found out in some way about your little plan and he turned the tables on us. We can use him, Rozales, but we must watch him. Also, my dear captain, watch his right hand and when he slips it into his shirt be careful that you do not draw on him—unless you happen to be behind him."

Rozales was not inclined to take his chief's view of Byrne's value to them. He argued that the man was guilty of disloyalty and therefore a menace. What he thought, but did not advance as an argument, was of a different nature. Rozales was filled with rage to think that the newcomer had outwitted him, and beaten him at his own game, and he was jealous, too, of the man's ascendency in the esteem of Pesita; but he hid his personal feelings beneath a cloak of seeming acquiescece in his chief's views, knowing that some day his time would come when he might rid himself of the danger of this obnoxious rival.

"'And tomorrow,' continued Pesita, 'I am sending him to Cuivaca. Villa has considerable funds in bank there, and this stranger can learn what I want to know about the size of the detachment holding the town, and the habits of the garrison.'"

CHAPTER IX

Barbara in Mexico

The manager of El Orobo Rancho was an American named Grayson. He was a tall, wiry man whose education had been acquired principally in the cow camps of Texas, where, among other things, one does not learn to love nor trust a greaser. As a result of this early training Grayson was peculiarly unfitted in some respects to manage an American ranch in Mexico; but he was a just man, and so if his vaqueros did not love him, they at least respected him, and everyone who was or possessed the latent characteristics of a wrongdoer feared him.

Perhaps it is not fair to say that Grayson was in any way unfitted for the position he held, since as a matter of fact he was an ideal ranch foreman, and, if the truth be known, the simple fact that he was a gringo would have been sufficient to have won him the hatred of the Mexicans who worked under him—not in the course of their everyday relations; but when the fires of racial animosity were fanned to flame by some untoward incident upon either side of the border.

Today Grayson was particularly rabid. The more so, because he could not vent his anger upon the cause of it, who was no less a person than his boss.

It seemed incredible to Grayson that any man of intelligence could have conceived and then carried out the fool thing which the boss had just done, which was to have come from the safety of New York city to the hazards of warring Mexico, bringing — and this was the worst feature of it — his daughter with him. And at such a time! Scarce a day passed without its rumors or reports of new affronts and even atrocities being perpetrated upon American residents of Mexico. Each day, too, the gravity of these acts increased. From mere insult they had run of late to assault and even to murder. Nor was the end in sight.

Pesita had openly sworn to rid Mexico of the gringo—to kill on sight every American who fell into his hands. And what could Grayson do in case of a determined attack upon the rancho? It is true he had a hundred men—laborers and vaqueros; but scarce a dozen of these were Americans, and the rest would, almost without exception, follow the inclinations of consanguinity in case of trouble.

To add to Grayson's irritability he had just lost his bookkeeper, and if there was one thing more than any other that Grayson hated it was pen and ink. The youth had been a "junger" from Iowa, a fairly nice little chap, and entirely suited to his duties under any other circumstances than those which prevailed in Mexico at that time. He was in mortal terror of his life every moment that he was awake, and at last had given in to the urge of cowardice and resigned. The day previous he had been bundled into a buckboard and driven over to the Mexican Central which, at that time, still was operating trains—occasionally — between Chihuahua and Juarez.

His mind filled with these unpleasant thoughts, Grayson sat at his desk in the office of the ranch trying to unravel the riddle of a balance sheet which would not balance. Mixed with the blue of the smoke from his briar was the deeper azure of a spirited monologue in which Grayson was engaged.

A girl was passing the building at the moment. At her side walked a gray-haired man—one of those men whom you just naturally fit into a mental picture of a director's meeting somewhere along Wall Street.

"Sich langwidge!" cried the girl, with a laugh, covering her ears with her palms.

The man at her side smiled.

"I can't say that I blame him much, Barbara," he replied.

"It was a very foolish thing for me to bring you down here at this time. I can't understand what ever possessed me to do it."

"Don't blame yourself, dear," remonstrated the girl, "when it was all my fault. I begged and begged and begged until you had to consent and I'm not sorry either—if nothing happens to you because of our coming. I couldn't stay in New York another minute. Everyone was so snoopy, and I could just tell that they were dying to ask questions about Billy and me."

"I can't get it through my head yet, Barbara," said the man, "why in the world you broke with Billy Mallory. He's one of the finest young men in New York City today—just my ideal of the sort of man I'd like my only daughter to marry."

"I tried, Papa," said the girl in a low voice; "but I couldn't—I just couldn't."

"Was it because—" the man stopped abruptly. "Well, never mind dear, I shan't be snoopy too. Here now, you run along and do some exploring yourself about the ranch, to stop in and have a talk with Grayson."

Down by one of the corrals where three men were busily engaged in attempting to persuade an unbroken pony that a spade bit is a pleasant thing to wear in one's mouth Barbara found a seat upon a wagon box which commanded an excellent view of the entertainment going on within the corral. As she sat there experiencing a combination of admiration for the agility and courage of the men and pity for the horse the tones of a pleasant masculine voice broke in upon her thoughts.

"Out there somewhere!" says I to me. "By Gosh, I guess that's poetry!

Out there somewhere—Penelope—
with kisses on her mouth!"

And then, thinks I, 'O college guy! your talk it gets me in the eye,
The north is creeping in the air
the birds are flying south."

Barbara swung around to view the poet. She saw a slender man astride a fagged Mexican pony. A ragged coat and ragged trousers covered the man's nakedness. Indian moccasins protected his feet, while a torn and shapeless felt hat sat upon his well-shaped head. American was written all over him. No one could have imagined him anything else. Apparently he was a tramp as well—his apparel proclaimed him that; but there were two discordant notes in the otherwise harmonious ensemble of your typical bo. He was clean shaven and he rode a pony. He rode erect, too, with the easy seat of an army officer.

At sight of the girl he raised his battered hat and swept it low to his pony's shoulder as he bent in a profound bow.

"I seek the major-domo, senorita," he said.

"Mr. Grayson is up at the office, that little building to the left of the ranchhouse," replied the girl, pointing.

The newcomer had addressed her in Spanish, and as he heard her reply, in pure liquid English, his eyes widened a trifle; but the familiar smile with which he had greeted her left his face and his parting bow was much more dignified though no less profound than its predecessor.

And you, my sweet Penelope, out there somewhere you wait for me,
With buds of roses in your hair and kisses on your mouth.

Grayson and his employer both looked up as the words of Knibb's poem floated in to them through the open window.

"I wonder where that blew in from," remarked Grayson, as his eyes discovered Bridge astride the tired pony, looking at him through the window. A polite smile touched the stranger's lips as his eyes met Grayson's, and then wandered past him to the imposing figure of the Easterner.

"Good evening, gentlemen," said Bridge.

"Evenin'," snapped Grayson. "Go over to the cookhouse and the Chink'll give you something to eat. Turn your pony in the lower pasture. Smith'll show you where to bunk tonight, an' you kin hev your breakfast in the mornin'. S'long!"

The ranch superintendent turned back to the paper in his hand which he had been discussing with his employer at the moment of the interruption. He had volleyed his instruction at Bridge as though pouring a rain of lead from a machine gun, and now that he had said what he had to say the incident was closed in so far as he was concerned.

The hospitality of the Southwest permitted no stranger to be turned away without food and a night's lodging. Grayson having arranged for these felt that he had done all that might be expected of a host, especially when the uninvited guest was so obviously a hobo and doubtless a horse thief as well, for who ever knew a hobo to own a horse!

Bridge continued to sit where he had reined in his pony. He was looking at Grayson with what the discerning boss judged to be politely concealed enjoyment.

"Possibly," suggested the boss in a whisper to his aide, "the man has business with you. You did not ask him, and I am sure that he said nothing about wishing a meal or a place to sleep."

"Huh?" grunted Grayson, and then to Bridge, "Well, what the devil do you want?"

"A job," replied Bridge, "or, to be more explicit, I need a job—far be it from me to wish one."

The Easterner smiled. Grayson looked a bit mystified—and irritated.

"Well, I hain't got none," he snapped. "We don't need nobody now unless it might be a good puncher—one who can rope and ride."

"I can ride," replied Bridge, "as is evidenced by the fact that you now see me astride a horse."

"I said ride," said Grayson. "Any fool can sit on a horse. No, I hain't got nothin', an' I'm busy now. Hold on!" he exclaimed as though seized by a sudden inspiration. He looked sharply at Bridge for a moment and then shook his head sadly. "No, I'm afraid you couldn't do it—a guy's got to be eddicated for the job I got in mind."

"Washing dishes," suggested Bridge.

Grayson ignored the playfulness of the other's question.

"Keepin' books," he explained. There was a finality in his tone which said: "As you, of course, cannot keep books the interview is now over. Get out!"

"I could try," said Bridge. "I can read and write, you know. Let me try." Bridge wanted money for the trip to Rio, and, too, he wanted to stay in the country until Billy was ready to leave.

"Savy Spanish?" asked Grayson.

"I read and write it better than I speak it," said Bridge, "though I do the latter well enough to get along anywhere that it is spoken."

Grayson wanted a bookkeeper worse than he could ever recall having wanted anything before in all his life. His better judgment told him that it was the height of idiocy to employ a ragged bum as a bookkeeper; but the bum was at least as much of a hope to him as is a straw to a drowning man, and so Grayson clutched at him.

"Go an' turn your cayuse in an' then come back here," he directed, "an' I'll give you a job. Get out."

"Thank you," said Bridge, and rode off to the pasture.

Miss Louise Frieze Is Married to W. M. Graves On Thursday Afternoon

Thursday afternoon at 5:30 at the First Presbyterian church was solemnized the marriage of Miss Louise Frieze to W. Middleton Graves of St. Louis, the Rev. N. F. Grafton reading the ring ceremony.

Maiden hair fern was the chosen motif and the exquisite greenery was arranged in the front where the nuptial altar was former, harmonizing with the classic lines of the church. Palms were used with the ferns to give additional dignity and beauty, and a stately silver vase, filled with Ophelia roses, stood on the central table, the shell pink of the flowers being the only note of contrast to the greenery.

Bouquets of maiden hair fern, tied with green ribbon, were carried by the brides' attendants, while the frock of each one repeated the blush tints of the Ophelia roses. The gowns were of silk crepe, trimmed with hand-made roses of self material.

The wedding procession entered following the solo "For You Alone" by Mrs. Louella B. Thompson, and the violin "Meditation" from Massanet's Thais, by Mrs. Bruce Greenwood.

Mrs. O. E. Maer presided at the organ ad played for the processional, the Lohengrin wedding march. During the ceremony she played softly Holevy's "Meditation."

The bridesmaids with their attendants, Annette Walsh and Edwin Bebb, Cecelia Adickes and Raymond Myers, and the maid of honor, Miss Sibyl Kell and Charlie Clough of Columbus, Ohio, the best man, and the matrons of honor and their husbands, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Miller and Mr. and Mrs. Charles I. Francis, entered together, down the left aisle of the church.

Masters Chester Morgan, junior, and James P. Gough, junior, small nephews of the bride, carried baskets of fern and rose petals, which they scattered in the path of the bride. Immediately preceding the bride, who entered alone, came little Olive Daugherty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Daugherty, the ring bearer.

Little Miss Daugherty wore a frock of net and lace, over blush pink silk. The small boys wore suits of white satin and broadcloth.

The bride's wedding gown was of white crepe Romaine, in girlish fashion, with hand made roses, of the crepe, the only ornament. Her tulle veil, cut in points at the bottom, fell the length of the gown, and was fashioned into a coronet at the temple, with a bit of point lace, a cap she wore when a baby, this being the "something old" of wedding sentiment. Her flowers were brides roses and lilies of the valley in shower effect.

Following the ceremony, the more intimate friends repaired to the home of the bride's parents, on Eighth street, for the final farewells. For the trip she wore a frock of beige canton and midnight blue Poiret twill, in combination, with color of filet and valenciennes. Her hat was a fall semi-tailored model of beige satin and duvetyne, and her gloves, shoes and other accessories were in harmony.

Mr. and Mrs. Graves left for St. Louis, where their home has already been furnished completely by the groom. In August they will take their honeymoon, a motor trip to Chicago and about the Great Lakes country.

Mr. Graves is district manager for the Oliver Electric company, with headquarters in St. Louis.

Thursday's wedding has been one in which the loving interest of life time friends of the bride has centered since the announcement and there have been many occasions to do her honor. The youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Frieze, long time residents of Wichita Falls, she has occupied an interesting place in the social life of the city since her school days, and her wedding was in keeping with this position.

Mr. Graves is well known in Wichita Falls, having during the war been stationed at Call Field, where he received his commission. It was not until after the war, however, that he met his bride of yesterday, the war days being the school days of the bride. Following the completion of her school course she spent a winter in St. Louis with her sister, Mrs. James P. Gough, where the romance had its inception.

There were many lovely gifts which came as the tribute of friends on this occasion.

POEM OF DAY

THE WEAVER.

A weaver sat at his loom
Weaving a rug for me,
And I whispered: "Put nothing of gloom
In my rug lest drab it shall be."
But he, with never a word,
Kept weaving the drab with the gay,
And I wept, for it seemed he'd not heard
Nor heeded the boon I did pray.
But when he had finished at last
And I gazed on the rug he had made,
It sent my heart beating fast
With pride at the beauty displayed.
Oh weaver of life, at your loom,
Weave into my day as you will,
For though with the joy you mix gloom,
I know 'twill be beautiful still.

—Robin W. Walker.

FASHIONS

Here Is a Charming Frock in Black and White

One of the most charming little afternoon frocks seen for a long time is illustrated in the sketch. Is combines black and white georgette in a most effective manner, back and front sections of the frock being of the white with side sections of the black. The two are blended in the elbow length sleeves.

The embroidery used on back and front sections and sleeves is of exceptional interest. It is done in black silk thread of a very fine texture and in a helter-skelter blending of geometrical designs that is particularly effective and pleasing.

At one side the black chiffon is arranged to simulate a sash, loops and ends of the fabric, giving a slightly bouffant hip line, while at the other the panel hangs straight and falls a few inches below the hem line proper.

A Jet ornament marks the waist line at either side.

With no silhouette that is new or different as yet heralded for fall and winter, the garments shown as advance season models are still very interesting and with a sufficient number of new points to compel attention.

Longer skirts are now not guesswork, but an assured thing, and there is a determined effort to popularize a normal waist line. Nothing that can justify the statement that tight fitting clothes are to be popular, or that there is to be a clearly defined normal waist line, has as yet put in an appearance, and there is hardly a likelihood that such a style will be launched, but an indicated normal waist line is in evidence—although by no means dominating the field.

The wisest of the style designers are drawing in the frocks to the figure by means of insets of elastic, so that women may settle the waist line subject to suit themselves, which seems a safe and wise plan.

Silk frocks for all occasions will hold the center of the stage. Steam-heated apartments and houses have served to minimize the value of the wool fabric frock, even for the coldest weather.

Encouraged by the government, Swedish growers raised a record sugar beet crop last year, 1,485,000 metric tons.

Little Stories For Bedtime

BUSTER BEAR GIVES IT ALL AWAY.

It was very plain to see that Old Man Coyote had quite lost his appetite. It was very clear that he wasn't thinking about his stomach just then, but about his legs and how fast they could go. He had been half way up the hill when he first saw the terrible creature without head, tail, or legs rolling down straight at him. He stopped only long enough for one good look and then he started for the bottom of the hill as fast as he could make his legs go. Now, it is a very bad plan to run down hill. Yes, sir, it is a very bad plan. You see, once you are started it is not the easiest thing in the world to stop. And then again you are quite likely to stub your toes.

This is what Old Man Coyote did. He stubbed his toes and turned a complete somersault. He looked so funny that the little scamps watching him had all they could do to keep from shouting right out. Old Granny Fox and Reddy Fox, watching from a safe distance, did laugh. You know, they have not been friendly with Old Man Coyote since he came to live on the Green Meadows, and as they had themselves had a terrible fright when they first saw the strange creature they reoiced in seeing hi mfrightened.

But Old Man Coyote didn't stop 'or a little thing like a tumble. Oh, my, no! He just rolled over on to his feet and was off again harder than before. Now, there are very few people who can see beaind them without turning their heads as Peter Rabbit can, and Old Man Coyote is not one of them. Trying to watch behind him, he didn't see where he was going and the first thing he knew he ran bumo into—guess who? Why, Buster Bear, to be sure! Where Buster had come from nobody knew, but he was as big as life. When Old Man Coyote ran into him Buster growled a deep, provoked growl and whirled around with one big paw raised to cuff whoever had so early upset him. Old Man Coyote more frightened than ever, yelped and ran harder than before, so that by the time Buster Bear saw who it was who had run into him he was safely out of reach and still running.

Then it was that Buster Bear first saw the strange creature rolling down the hill which had so frightened Old Man Coyote. Unc' Billy Possum, Jimmy Skunk, Sammy Jay, Peter Rabbit and Mrs. Peter, watching from safe hiding places, wondered if Buster would run, too. If he did it would be almost too good to be true. But he didn't. He looked first at the strange creature rolling down the hill, then at Old Man Coyote running as hard as ever he could, and his shrewd little eyes began to twinkle. Then he began to laugh.

"Ha, ha, ha! Ho, ho! Ha, ha, ho! I see your are up to your old tricks, Pricky Porky!" he shouted as the strange creature rolled past almost over his toes and brought up against a little tree at the foot of the hill.

Old Man Coyote heard him and stopped short and turned to see what it meant. Very slowly the strange creature unrolled and turned over. There was a head now and a tail and four legs. It was none other than Prickly Porky himself! There was no doubt about it, though he still looked very strange, for he was covered with dead leaves, which clung to the thousand little spears hidden in his coat. Prickly Porky grinned.

"You shouldn't have given me away, Buster Bear, just because you have seen me roll down hill before in the Great Woods where we both came from," said he.

"I think it was high time I did," replied Buster Bear, still chuckling. "You might have scared somebody to death down here where they don't know you."

Then everybody came out of their hiding places laughing and talking all at once as they told Buster Bear of the joke they had played on Old Man Coyote, and how it had all grown out of the fright Peter Rabbit had received when he just happened along as Prickly Porky was rolling down hill just for fun. As for Old Man Coyote, he sneaked away, grinding his teeth angrily. Like a great many other people, he couldn't take a joke on himself."

PECULIAR TARPON FOUND AT TAMPA

(By International News Service.)

TAMPA, Fla., July 5.—When George Roberts, veteran guide at Pass-a-Grill, reported seeing a gold tarpon swimming in local waters he was ridiculed, but a few days later Arthur Henderson, St. Petersburg fisherman, succeeded in catching a fish of that description.

Whether the fish hooked by Henderson was the same one sighted by Roberts has not been established, so it is not known whether the single specimen is an oddity of nature or whether there are others of the same kind.

The ordinary color of the tarpon is silver, which has caused it to be known as the "silver king," as it grows to large size and is considered the gamest of fish, always putting up a hard battle before being landed.

For quick action, a pistol holster has been patented that opens its entire length when a weapon is withdrawn.

Luxury For Women Travelers On World's Largest Ship

FOUR SCENES FROM A PRIVATE SUITE AND A GLIMPSE OF THE POMPEIAN BATH

A Corner of a Spacious Drawing-Room; At Top Right, a Triple Pier-Glass that Folds Back into the Wall

Not even in the civilization of ancient Egypt—which history makes the time of greatest luxury—could there have been such catering to the comfort-loving instincts as that presented by the White Star liner Majestic, greatest of ocean liners, which has just made her maiden voyage to New York.

It is possible for the woman of means who travels on the Majestic to reserve a suite of eight rooms with three baths. Marbles and onyx, silver plated showers, and accessories of the bath not usually seen on ships and rarely on land, are found in the bath rooms of the liner. Carefully trained attendants are on call. Specialists in hairdressing, in manicuring, in massaging are available to assist Milady in her own apartment in the intimacy of her toilet.

In the bedroom and the boudoir are the many little accessories to the toilet that women prize. Each bedroom in the large suites has its own triple pier glass, for the inspection of gowns. Artfully placed electric lights may be switched on as one stands before the glass, to show a costume to advantage. When not in use this valuable adjunct folds back invisibly behind a panel in the wall.

Each bedroom also has a dressing case with triple mirrors. Hair dressing may be conducted before such a case with perfect satisfaction, either by maid or mistress. Every movement of the comb, every gleaming strand of hair, is thrice repeated in the mirrors, which are of the finest plate.

Living in such an apartment as the regal suite on the Majestic—or indeed in any of the many lesser suites aboard the ship—is a pleasure to a woman. The rooms are elegantly furnished, with soft carpets, generously tufted chairs, deep and "snuggly," for lounging in luxury, with daintily inlaid writing desk, with exquisite little tea tables, with glowing electric heaters that may be turned on with a movement of a switch, with telephone and call buttons—nothing has been overlooked that contributes to ease in living.

Writing Home, in Luxurious Comfort; At Top, Left, Dressing-Table With Triple Mirrors. There is plenty of Closet Space in these Private Suites

Luxury in Bedrooms

Here a woman may have her own drawing room, large enough for the holding of a reception; her own private sun veranda, with a garden effect in decoration, furniture like that on a finely appointed veranda at Newport or Southampton, and with broad windows looking on the sea, having flower boxes before them, filled with blooms and growing plants.

All this is quite the acme of luxury in ocean travel today, a luxury further expressed in the arrangement and equipment of the bedrooms in the suite. There are no steamship berths of the old style in first cabin on the wonder ship. Bedsteads like those at home, fashioned in rare woods, equipped with box springs and tufted hair mattresses, made up with fine linen, bed spreads and satin down puffs, and the softest of soft pillows, seduce one to long and restful sleep. In most of the largest staterooms are twin beds; in others single beds. The larger suites have two bedrooms each, and a maid's bedroom adjoining.

Should a woman wish to breakfast in bed—and this is a custom among luxury-loving travelers—a touch of the button at the head of the bed calls the stewardess. Noiseless, deft, thoughtful, this attendant produces the kind of breakfast madam would like. It is served on the most fragile china, on a dainty tray that may be placed on a bedside table, or beside one on the bed.

Breakfasting at sea under such conditions is far from the rough and uncomfortable experience of the earlier Atlantic travelers, who took their meals as best they might in a heaving, smelly dining saloon.

TRAINS NOT HIT BY STRIKE HERE

Denial that local passenger and train service has been materially affected by the strike of shop craft unionists was made Thursday by the local railroad officials. Statements to the effect that recent slight delays have been caused by the absence of carmen and other workmen to care for them were emphatically denied, and it was asserted that short delays for the past several days have been occasioned by the holiday rushes.

NEW U. S. COAST DEFENSE GUN LARGEST

The gun en route from Walter Reed arsenal to Rockaway Point for mounting.

The first of two giant coast defense guns, the largest the government possesses, has been completed at the Walter Reed arsenal, Troy, N. Y., and is on its way to Fort Tilden, off Rockaway Point, to be mounted for use. The new gun weighs 320,000 pounds, or 160 tons. It is of 16-inch bore and of the largest type being built in the world. The second gun is nearing completion.

Woman and Children, Deserted By Man, Helped by Milk Fund

With the stork hovering over and in her delicate condition not physically able to work but with two small children and an aged mother to care for, a deserted wife in Wichita Falls is taking in washing to keep the wolf from the door.

It is one of those cases that make the hearts of even the most experienced welfare workers, accustomed to seeing the unfortunate of life in their distress, beat with deepest sympathy and brings tears to their eyes.

In this particular case the father deserted several weeks ago leaving no money in the house. But brave to the last with an explicit faith in her Creator, the little woman worked on to keep her children and mother from starving and to pay house rent. Finally the United Charities and Salvation army workers came as angels of mercy and now the anxiety of the deserted mother has been relieved.

"That is one case where the Record-News Milk and Ice Fund will do wonders in providing the helpless children and women with milk and ice," said Mrs. E. B. Gorseline Jr., secretary of the United Charities. Mrs. Gorseline said also that an effort is being made to locate the woman's husband.

Chiropractic

The medical profession has again had a chiropractor hauled into court trying to have some believe he has practiced medicine and that he is a felon, a criminal of the worst type, when he has only practiced chiropractic, which is not related to medicine in the least. F. A. Black with five years' practice of chiropractic behind him in Wichita Falls again faces the music for about the steenth time. Come over to the courthouse, Friday, July 7 and hear us defend chiropractic and the good that word embodies. We will lay down at the beckon of the medical profession? I should say no.

Second New Sand in Electra Shallow Brought in by Bridwell

1750 FT. WELL SHOWING 200

Another Producer On Same Lease

The second new sand for the present week within the confines of the original South Electra "shallow pool" was reported Thursday, the Bridwell and Heydrick No. 15 Waggoner, getting a sand at 1750 feet, which is showing up for 200 barrels, or possibly better. The new well is the far west well on the lease and incidentally in the pool.

The No. 11 on this same lease has been completed for a 40-barrel pumper in the 1800-foot sand.

PLANET HOPS UP IN ELECTRA

Passes Magnolia In Production

By HARRY STROUD
Special to the Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, July 6.—The Texas company is leading the field in amount of production and for years has been closely seconded by the Magnolia Petroleum company. However, a new contender has entered the field and has passed by the Magnolia. The runner up for production honors is now the Planet Petroleum company.

Figures compiled early in the week give the larger operating companies in the field the following production:

	Barrels
Texas company	7,000
Planet Petroleum company	5,000
Magnolia Petroleum company	3,500
Gulf Production company	1,100
Griswold Oil company	900
Bridwell-Heydrick	475

The best producing well in the Electra pool is the Texas company's No. 215 Waggoner, which on Thursday of this week made 1,550 barrels after being completed for over two months. This well has set a new production mark for all north Texas and, according to pipe line figures has held up to its high peak of production longer than any of the sensational wells of the northwest extension at Burkburnett.

1,700-Barrel Run

When the well came in it was reported good for around 1,200 barrels and kept this average up for several days. The best day's production for the well is 1,700 barrels, which was made one day when the Planet's 44, which is an offset, was being cleaned out. With the exception of that day Thursday's run is the record.

On the same day that figures on 215 were obtained other Texas company wells were also performing in a remarkable manner. No. 217 made 825 barrels, No. 224 was credited with 219 barrels and 216 with 153 barrels.

Planet Spurges Forward

The Planet Petroleum company has one battery of three wells which are probably the three best combined in the entire field anywhere. These three wells contribute some 3,000 barrels to the pipe lines each day. The best of the trio is No. 44 which is still making from 1,000 to 1,200 barrels daily. No. 52 is contributing 800 barrels, while No. 46 is doing around 1,000 barrels per day. These three wells are the deciding factors that kicked up the production of the Planet far above that of the Magnolia company.

The value of the south pool can be appreciated when it is taken into consideration that the Planet with 80 acres is producing a third more oil than is the Magnolia with its Piper, Sumner, H. & T. C., Putman, Hamilton and other famous leases.

EL DORADO HAS HUGE WASTAGE

Wells Not Handled Efficiently

Special to the Record News.

TEXARKANA, Texas, July 6.—The results of a study of production conditions made by engineers of the United States bureau of mines in the El Dorado, Ark., oil and gas field are given in a bulletin by H. W. Bell, petroleum engineer and J. B. Kerr, which has just been issued by the bureau of mines, manufacturers and Agriculture, Little Rock, Ark.

The El Dorado oil field has developed rapidly since January 10, 1921, when the first well that produced commercial quantities of oil was completed. The low prices for oil and lack of adequate pipe lines and tankage in the earlier months did not apparently retard the rate of development to any extent. Up to November 2, 1921, the field had produced approximately 10,000,000 barrels of oil from a proven oil area of about 4,825 acres, which was an average of 2,150 barrels to the acre.

Production 77,000 Barrels.

The maximum daily production of the field was about 77,000 barrels, which occurred for a few days in August, 1921. The production decreased to about 44,000 barrels per day by the middle of October, 1921. Since August, 1921, producing wells were completed at the average rate of about twenty per week for three months. By the end of October, 1921, about 400 commercial oil wells had been completed. The initial productions of the oil wells ranged from only a few barrels to 15,000 barrels of oil per day and the gas wells up to a maximum of about 40,000,000 cubic feet of gas per day. Unfortunately, some of the wells have been inefficiently handled, which has resulted in considerable waste.

The present report includes a history of the development of the El Dorado field; discusses drilling methods employed in the field, water conditions, and the use of cement as protection against water encroachment; and contains a production record of the field. A chapter, contributed by the United States geological survey, covers the geology of the field.

Copies of the report may be obtained from Jim G. Ferguson, commissioner, bureau of mines, manufacturers and agriculture, Little Rock, Ark.

BRITTISHERS TO GET FROZEN PORK CUTS

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 5.—The department of agriculture has entered into an agreement with the British government whereby frozen pork cuts may now be imported into England, it has been announced.

Heretofore frozen pork cuts could not be sent to England because the United States meat inspection did not meet the technical requirements of the British law.

The agreement just reached eliminates this obstacle and fresh pork cuts bearing the inspection stamp of the department of agriculture may now be imported into England just as freely as whole carcasses and cured meats.

WELL SPUDDED IN AT HASKELL

Wichitan On Program At Celebration

Special to the Record News.

HASKELL, July 6.—Several hundred Haskellites celebrated the Fourth of July with a big basket picnic in the T. E. Ballard ranch, 13 miles east of Haskell and watched with much interest the spudding in of the Commenwealth Oil and Development company's well No. 1.

Immediately after a dinner of fried chicken, country ham, bean and potatoes, cakes and pies of all kinds and numerous varieties of salads, then ice cream until no one would take more cream—even the kiddies had to give up on the cream before it was all gone—a nice program was sendered.

Speeches by Rev. McHenry Seal, Baptist pastor of the Haskell church; H. S. Wilson, P. D. Sanders, B. M. Whiteker, all of Haskell, made talks and then S. S. Kouri of Wichita Falls, also J. G Clark, secretary, and T. A. Edmonds, president of the Commonwealth company of Fort Worth, made talks and then a reading by Miss Adena Kuori and she dedicated the well Commonwealth No. 1, Ballard's ranch, by breaking a bottle of oil on the mighty bit as it hung ready for action.

Then the engine whistled and whistled and a tremor, something slipped (or better still) a release and down ward went the more than 5,000 pounds of steel bit and iron shaft and the earth jarred and the great 15-inch bit hit the ground and a few more strokes and the Commenwealth No. 1, Ballard's ranch, had spudded in.

This well is located about 1,000 feet east of the Kouri No. 1, which has been abandoned lately from the fact that they had lost three strings of tools and several joints of casing, and owing to the strong gas pressure, the operators were not able to cut out the salt water, as the cement would not set solid as the gas pressure was so strong that it would honey-comb the cement and both gas and showing of oil continued to come through each attempt to cut out the water with cement.

Dale and Green Well Is Awaiting Pipe Connections

Dale and Green No. 1 Jennings on the Beaver-Electra Refinery grounds, just north of the Gulf Production company's discovery well on the Jennings, swabbed Thursday at the rate of 300 barrels daily, from the 1,900-foot sand, apparently the best production in the deep sand in this new pool. The well is now waiting pipeline connections, having filled the small amount of storage at the site.

"The use of the radio in broadcasting agricultural reports," Wheeler said, "is having a far-reaching effect in extending knowledge of market conditions, and will inevitably contribute much toward a better system of marketing farm products."

Spuds Continue Losing Streak, Dropping First to Gassers

MOKAN OUTPITCHES BURNS IN DUEL BUT BUNCHED HITS PUT SHREVEPORT IN FRONT

Spuds Leave Many Runners Stranded When Punch Lacking; Fincher Sent to Omaha and Ramsey to Bonham in T-O; Rally in Ninth Nets Three Markers But Is Not Enough

Special to The Record News.

SHREVEPORT, La., July 6.—The Gassers shunted the Spudders to the cellar today when they copped the opening game 5-3.

Mokan and Burns staged a duel for honors, but bunched hits by the local team allowed them to emerge on top. Jackson's homer in the eighth with one on decided the winner.

A belated rally in the ninth netted three runs, but the Gassers tightened up and halted the threatening advance of the visitors.

The Spudders outhit the Gassers, but did not hit with runners in scoring position, while the home team poled out hits with scores resting on close corners.

Adams led the hitting for the Spudders, getting three blows out of five times at bat. White and Bischoff each collected a brace of safeties, one a triple by Bischoff which was to no avail.

The ninth was the Spudders big inning. White led off with a single to left and Bischoff poked a drive through third for another. Kitchens went in to hit for Mokan and filled the bases when he beat out an infield hit. Adams, shot a single into center, scoring White and Bischoff. Tanner filed out to left and Bescher fanned, but Summa singled to right, scoring Kitchens. On the throw in, Summa circled first as to advance to second on the play, but was trapped off the bag by the catcher with a great throw to Jackson.

Summa had a big day in center, getting seven killings, three of which came in the first. Baggan, Hartford and Ezzell all driving to his field.

Jackson's bat was largely responsible for the win and figured prominently in every run the Gassers collected. In the fourth, sixth and eighth he hit with runners aboard and drove in three of the runs himself.

Mokan pitched a nice game, but lacked runs to win. An error by Adams in the fourth got him in a hole and was responsible for the first two runs.

Burns held the Spudders to five hits in the first eight innings, but weakened in the ninth and yielded up five blows, but emerged safely after three runners had counted.

Bill Fincher, pitcher obtained by the Spudders from Galveston early in the season, was released to Omaha in the Western league last night. He left immediately for Wichita Falls, from which place he will go to join Burch's club.

Ramsey, another Spud hurler, was reported released to Bonham in the Texas-Oklahoma league. He had been called to Wichita Falls last week from Wichita, Kan., where he had been since early in the season. It is understood that a 24-hour recall clause was inserted in the transfer.

GUN CLUB TO SHOOT AT 3:30 P. M.

Members Back From Registered Meet At Amarillo

Members of the local gun club who went to the July 4 registered shoot at Amarillo report a great time in that city, as well as excellent scores.

A complete squad made up the party which left here late Saturday night and after driving until noon Sunday, participated in the afternoon's card which ran off the preliminarires. Scores for the first day were more than gratifying to the shooters, considering their handicaps.

Hunter Dempsey, A. G. Deatherage, Hunter Lyon, Charles Greenburg and Bert Adrian composed the party from here.

Although there was a large number of shooters present, the weekly meets of the local club usually have a number almost as large as the big two-day meet at Amarillo.

The meet today will be shot under a percentage handicap as on last week.

Four members came up tied with a perfect score last week and an even to determine the winner of last week's program will add interest to the day's activities.

Today's program will begin at 3:30 o'clock.

COUNCIL TAKES UP ROAD ROUTE

In special session Thursday morning the city council took up the Meridian highway matter and passed a resolution instructing the city attorney to sue out an injunction against the county commissioners to prevent continuation of the work on Fort Worth street.

There is no bad feeling between the council and the commissioners, it was said, but the suit is merely a friendly one to settle the routing of the highway through the city. The route favored by city officials is said to be from Fort Worth street to Denison street, thence to Jalonic and on to Lamar. It will be necessary to open the street from Jalonic to Lamar.

By Associated Press.

Negroes threaten to apply for an injunction unless the test is modified.

VERNON FEATHER JUMPS TO TOP

Special to the Record News.

VERNON, Texas, July 6.—Dock Bowers of Vernon, by virtue of his victory Tuesday at Childress over Jess Porter of that city, establishes himself as one of the leading featherweights of the southwest, in the opinion of many followers of the fistic art in this section. Bowers weighed in at 128 and Porter at 140, but the local lad battered his bigger opponent to a pulp, and in the sixth round of the go floored him with a terrific right to the chin. In falling Porter pulled Bowers on top of him, and the referee granted a foul, although he called the bout a draw.

Porter suffered a broken nose and two closed eyes, and was helpless when Bowers floored him. The Vernon fighter has never been defeated. Last week he won an easy decision over Kid Peavineat Burkburnett, and has fought many times in this locality. Bowers has offered a challenge to any featherweight in the southwest.

FAST HEATS IN GRAND CIRCUIT

By Associated Press.

NORTH RANDALL, Cleveland, Ohio, July 6.—Trotting one of the greatest heats ever witnessed at the North Randall track, Nedda, owned by the Hill and Dale farm, Mammaroneck, N. Y., and driven by H. Fleming, won the trotting sweepstakes for 2:05 trotters the feature of this grand circuit racing card here today. Several very close finishes marked the day's racing.

Getting away to a bad start in the first heat, Nedda apparently out of it, gradually overtook her field, one of the fastest in training and trotted the distance in 2:02 3-5, 3 seconds faster than the time for the heat to win.

Now That's Rather Odd

It was just a Katy switch engine. But even switch engines run amuck sometimes.

The burly "battleship" had been parked in the vicinity of the union railway station Wednesday night at a late hour. The engine suddenly decided to look the tracks over—possibly it had grown tired of living the life of the yards so long, and wanted to discover new fields.

Anyway, the monster made its way through all the switches and at last wound up on the Denver tracks, where it lost impetus in the Sunshine yards and furnished a blockade for a passenger train approaching the city.

Sitting on the tracks with all lights out, the passenger found the runaway engine and escorted it back to the city, being met by an engine crew that had gone in quest of it.

Stories to the effect that the engine had been carried to the spot by strikers was discredited by local railway officials, who intimated that the runaway had been caused by a leakage in the engine throttle.

VETERAN RETURNS FROM CONVENTION

J. B. Smith, aged 75 years, of Eighth and Bluff streets, this city, has returned from the Confederate reunion in Richmond, Va.

He was the only Confederate veteran to go from Wichita Falls and said he had a splendid time.

Mr. Smith served in Company I, Third Mississippi cavalry during the war and at the re-union he met a veteral named Drisdale with whom he soldiered and had not seen since the war. He said the people of Richmond treated the veterans royally and that all of the 6,000 members of the fast vanishing legion appeared to enjoy the event immensely.

Mr. Smith has attended six reunions and said he has enjoyed them all. The expenses of his trip were paid by members of the Daughters of the Confederacy and others who subscribed to the fund.

BRYANT RETURNS

County Superintendent Burl Bryant returned to Wichita Falls Thursday morning, following a three-day absence from the city in which time he "gloriously celebrated the Fourth."

Superintendent Bryant was in attendance at the American Legion two-day picnic at Bowie, Texas, which lasted from July 4 to 5.

BAILEY TALKS TO BAR ASSOCIATION

By Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, July 6.—Former United States Senator J. W. Bailey of Dallas, addressing the Texas Bar association's annual convention here this morning, urged that the primary system in reference to the choice of judges be abolished and the convention plan be substituted. This, he argued, would result in men of the greatest ability being chosen for the bench and would give the lawyers a greater hand in choosing capable men.

The convention will adjourn this afternoon.

BODIES RECOVERED FROM CONCHO RIVER

By Associated Press.

SAN ANGELO, Texas, July 6.—The bodies of Guy L. Stanford and Miss Jewell Ball, drowned Tuesday, were recovered from Concho river near here today. Stanford, a shoemaker, and an invalid, lost his life in attempting to rescue Miss Ball, daughter of a prominent business man, when the girl got beyond her depth in the stream.

SPRING CROP BEATING RUST

Wheat Prices Drop Accordingly

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 6.—Indications of greater likelihood that the spring crop would beat the black rust led to lower prices in the wheat market today. Closing quotations were unsettled, 1 3-8 to 2c down with September 1.14½ to 1.14 5-8 and December 1.17 1-8 to 1.17 1-4. Corn and oats both lost 1-4c to 1-2c and provisions 5c to 10c.

No damage at all either by weather or rust was reported from the spring wheat belt and with consequent liquidating sales in progress and a temporary dearth of purchasing orders the market showed much weakness and during the forenoon. There was also some hedging pressure in evidence. Offerings of new wheat to arrive were of fair volume. After a 4c decline from yesterday's high point, however, enlarged demand from exporters and millers changed sentiment somewhat and there was a good deal of covering on the part of shorts.

NEW YORK BONDS

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 6.—A sweeping demand for liberty issues which resulted in many new records for the year was the outstanding feature of today's active bond market, buying evidently proceeding from substantial investment sources.

The new maximums were, Liberty 3½s at 100.04; first 4¼s at 100.44; second 4¼s at 100.26; third 4¼s at 1.0024 and fourth 4¼s at 100.40.

In addition the first 4s and the second 4¼s duplicated their previous high prices of the year. In a majority of the series, however, final prices were under their best on realizing sales.

ADDING INSULT TO INJURY. —By Hanny

Now That's Rather Odd

BATON ROUGE, La.—The Louisiana house of representatives was thrown into an uproar yesterday by a fist fight on the floor of the chamber between Senator J. O. Stewart of Lake Charles and Representative F. C. Claiborne of New Doads. The fight followed a tilt in connection with a senate bill which had been referred to the house judiciary committee of which Mr. Claiborne is chairman.

HOMINY, Okla., July 6.—Expensive motor cars, silk shirts and other luxuries of modern civilization are all right, but jazz and modern dance steps have no place at an Indian gathering.

At the inter-tribal dances being held this week at Osage village, near here, syncophated melodies and jazz dances are barred by the tribesmen.

Members of Poncas, Otoes, Pawnees and scattering members of other tribes are attending the celebration as guests of the Osages. The financial status of the tribesmen is revealed in the manner in which they arrive at the "roundhouse."

The Osages, aristocrats of all aborigines, drive up in expensive automobiles, many piloted by chauffeurs.

SALE PRESSURE IS PERSISTENT

50 Point Losses For October

By Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, July 6.—Selling pressure was persistent in the cotton market today. There were periods of recovery and steadiness but selling increased on the upturns and was heaviest in the late trading so that the close was at the bottom at losses of 45 to 60 points with October off to 21.85. When in the late trading, the market broke below 22 cents for October, stop-loss orders in considerable volume were caught on the long side.

Early declines amounted to about 30 points and were followed by small recoveries but after the reading of the weekly crop report the decline was widened to 31 to 42 points.

In the latter part of the session the continued dry weather over the belt and its effect on selling increased. In the last half hour, the tone turned soft under the effect of the foreign news and rumors.

Oils Alone Prove Exception

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 6.—Prices in today's stock market tended higher, except for Mexican oils, which again were affected by reports of adverse conditions in the larger producing fields.

Relaxed money rates and the more conciliatory attitude attributed to labor leaders in the railway strike revived speciative interest, especially in transportations, which were stronger and more active than at any time in many weeks.

Net gains of 11¾ and 8¾ points were made by Louisville and Nashville and Atlantic Coast line, respectively and final quotations for the leading transcontinentals, coalers and trunk lines, particularly Canadian Pacific, Union Pacific, Illinois Central, New York Central, Reading, Baltimore and Ohio and New Haven were 2 to almost 5 points over the previous day's close.

Steel Up

United States steel rose 2 1-2 points up with American and Baldwin locomotive, Studebaker and the popular coppers. Buying of steel was based on the belief that federal approval soon would be given to the three company merger the demand for equipment accompanied reports that extensive contracts for railway supplies were impending.

Mexican petroleum rallied briskly from its extreme depression, but registered a net 11 1-4 points, while Pan-American petroleum A finished at a gain of 1 5-8 points. Domestic oils were mainly better with Standard Oil of New Jersey as the foremost feature at a gain of 5 1-4. Miscellaneous stocks and several of the utilities also figured in the day's movement at gains of 1 to 2 points. Sales amounted to 850,000 shares.

MANY JOINING CHRIST BANNER

Success Of Meeting Is Told

Rev. W. D. Cook, pastor of Yale Avenue Evangelical church, where a revival is being conducted by Rev. R. C. McIver, made the following report Thursday of the revival services:

"The revival which is in progress at the Yale Avenue Evangelical church is proving to be a great success so far, as it is a real revival in that many of the Christians who have not been living as they should are getting right with God, and on last Wednesday quite a few of the Christians went into a covenant to fast and pray for the success of the meeting.

"Rev. R. C. McIver brought us a great message on the subject of prayer; taking his text from the Twelfth chapter of the acts of Apostles and the Fifth verse, and in substance he told the cause of so many prayers not being answered, ascertaining that it was on the account of the selfish motives which we have in view when we utter them; often we desire as we are told in the Divine Word that we wish to consume it upon our own lusts and in this way the Lord will not answer, but if we have Christ in us we will pray in accordance with the will of God, for our thoughts will be to do His holy will only.

"There were quite a number who raised their hands for prayer and one came forward to be prayed with but could not make a complete surrender to the Lord.

"Everyone is invited to these services as we are making this effort in the name of the Lord and are working for the salvation of souls and not for church members as we are trying to leave the results of our labors with the Lord.

"Ministers of any and all of the churches are especially invited to attend and make themselves at home. Our Presiding Elder Rev. L. Newman is giving an opportunity to all ministers who are filled with the spirit, and if you can come and help us we will be glad to have you."

IRRIGATION TO AID WILBARGER

Vernon Looking to Better Farms

Vernon already has realized what the big Wichita valley irrigation project means to this entire section and is preparing to apply the advantages that will go to Vernon. The following item taken from a Vernon newspaper tells just how the people in that place feel about the irrigation project:

"E. L. McCarter, field manager for the West Texas chamber of commerce who was spending a few days in Vernon last week, sees a brilliant future for Vernon and Wilbarger county and "Mac," as he is familiarly called by his numerous friends here, isn't a day dreamer either.

"First of all McCarter believes Wilbarger county is one of the very best agricultural counties in all Texas and, with this natural advantage plus the energy and push of Vernon people, the county is going to make rapid strides when the reconstruction days have passed. For one thing Mr. McCarter sees great benefit derived from the big irrigation project to the south of Vernon.

"Although the dam for the irrigation project is not in Wilbarger county, the water in the lake will cover thousands of acres of Wilbarger land and Vernon, as the closest town of any importance and natural gateway to the great pleasure resort, should reap a wonderful harvest of dollars in the final accounting when a stream of tourists begin traveling to and from the lake.

"The magnitude of this vast project exceeds that of Lake Worth which has made Fort Worth famous and according to the West Texas chamber of commerce man there should be no reason why Vernon should not begin now to make plans to reap great benefits from it. For one thing there must be an adequate highway constructed from Vernon to the lake shores in order that travel over this route may be encouraged."

Lesson No. 12
ELECTROMAGNET INDUCTION

The property of magnetic induction is a vital factor in the exchange of energy between various parts of the radio circuits. This is illustrated in the radio transmitter of lesson No. 6, where the voltage in the armature of the alternating current generator is developed by induction. The alternating current from the generator flows through the primary winding of the power transformer and creates an alternating magnetic field, which by magnetic induction, transfers energy in the form of induced voltage and current to the secondary winding of the power transformer. In the ostillation transformer the rapid oscillations of the magnetic field in the primary winding transfer energy by induction to the secondary winding and thence to the antenna to be radiated in the form of electromagnetic waves.

We know that when a closed coil of wire is rotated in a magnetic field, and the magnetic lines of force enclosed by the coil are increased or decreased, an electromotive force or voltage will be induced and a current will flow in the coil. Upon this principle depends the development of voltage and current of the alternating and direct current generators.

If the coil, instead of rotating, remains stationary and the magnetic field is passed back and forth across the coil so that the magnetic lines of force enclosed by he coil increases or deceases, voltage will be induced in the coil and current will flow.

Electromagnetic Induction

If two coils of wire (I.) and (B), as shown in the diagram are placed in close proximity to each other and current suddenly caused to flow in the turns of coil (A), a magnetic field with expanding lines of force will develop in the coil. The increasing lines of force cut the turns of coil (B) and induce in it an electromotive force and if the coil (B) forms a closed circuit, a current will flow momentarily. As the current and consequently the magnetic field in coil (A) becomes steady, the current in coil (B) dies away.

If the circuit of coil (A) is suddenly opened, the lines of force in the mafnetic field about the coiled collapse and in so doing cut the turns of coil (B) and induce in it another momentary current in an opposite direction, however, to that which flowed in the first instance.

It is important to note that the direction of the current induced in coil (B) in both cases is opposite to the direction of the current in coil (A) and that the value of the induced electromotive force depends upon the rate of change of the magnetic field developed by current in coil (A), when the current is being established and also when it is reduced. The induction caused by the reaction between these two circuits is known as mutual induction. The following lesson will explain other important features of electromagnetic induction.

Pen Grounds Taxed

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, July 6.—The lands belonging to the penitentiary system, and no other property, are subject to taxation, the attorney general's department held today in an opinion answering questions of the board of prison commissioners. However, it was held that school district maintenance taxes, if any have been assessed against prison lands, are illegal and void.

SPECIAL TAXES FORMS IN CITY

Returns to Be Made Out In July

Forms of making returns of special taxes, due under the revenue act of 1921 during the month of July, now are available at the office of Collector of Internal Revenue, Dallas, Texas, and the following branch offices: Dallas, Fort Worth, Abilene, Tyler and Wichita Falls, Texas. The local office is in the federal building.

To avoid penalty return and payment of the tax must be made on or before July 21, 1922.

Return of the capital stock tax of domestic corporations, on form 707, foreign corporations, form 708. Form 11 is used for making return of the miscellaneous occupational and the tobacco manufacturer's special tax. Regulations 64, governing the collection of the capital stock tax, Regulations 50 governing the collection of the miscellaneous occupational taxes and Regulations 8 governing the collection of the tobacco manufacturer's special tax also may be obtained upon request of the office of the collector of internal revenue and branch offices.

The revenue act provides "that every domestic corporation shall pay annually a special excise tax with respect to carrying on or doing business equivalent to $1 for each $1,000 of so much of the fair average value of its capital stock for the preceding year ending June 30, as is in excess of $5,000. In estimating the value of the capital stock, the surplus and undivided profits shall be included.

"Every foreign corporation shall pay annually a special excise tax with respect to carrying on or doing business in the United States equivalent to $1 for each $1,000 of the average amount of capital employed in the transaction of its business in the United States, during the preceding year ending June 30."

The basis of the tax in the case of a domestic corporation is "carrying on or doing business" in the capacity of a corporation or association. Quoting from the Capital Stock Tax Regulations No. 64, "The words 'carrying on or doing business' must be given every ordinary and natural signification. 'Business' is a very comprehensive term and embraces whatever occupies the time, attention or labor of men for the purpose of livelihood or profit. In other words business necessarily involves the idea of gain." Every domestic corporation must make a return on Form 707, even though the law may indicate that it is exempt from the tax. The question of exemption is one for determination by the commissioner of internal revenue.

The basis of the tax in the case of a foreign corporation is "carrying on or doing business in the United States." A foreign corporation is carrying on or doing business in the United States if it maintains an agent or an office or warehouse in the United States, or in any other way enters the United States for the purpose of its business.

Following are the miscellaneous occupational taxes: Brokers, $50; pawn brokers, $100; ship brokers, $50; custom house brokers, $50. Proprietors of theaters, museums and concert halls where a charge for admission is made, having a seating capacity of not more than 250, shall pay a tax of $50; having a seating capacity of more than 250 and not exceeding 500, $100; having a seating capacity exceeding 500 but not exceeding 800, $150; having a seating capacity of more than 800, $200.

Persons carrying on the business of operating or renting passenger automobiles for hire are required to pay $10 for each such automobile having a seating capacity of more than two and not more than seven, and $20 for each such automobile haing a seating capacity of more than seven.

32,000 ATTEND SHRINE CIRCUS

Spirit Of Festival Still Prevails

Not far from 5,000 people passed through the gates at the Shrine circus last night, and it was one of the liveliest crowds that has attented the big event. Everybody appeared to catch the spirit of the event and merry-making was supreme.

Total attendance at the circus since the opening night has been in round numbers 32,000 people, making it one of the most popular events that has ever been staged in Wichita Falls.

Attractions at the circus are many and varied in variety. But they are all such as create the spirit of mgerriment and the crowds that throng the circus grounds leave dull care outside. It is Bobby this and Bobby that and who gives a whoop when inside the grounds where the ballyhooss are bawling and the squakers are squaking.

PLAY PRANK IN NAME OF KLAN

WARNING notices found on the doors of several negro dwellings located on Jalonic and Fort Worth street early Thursday morning spread pandemonium in the realm of "blackland" yesterday for a while. Later however, the negroes were assured that the "K. K. K." which appeared on the notes warning them to leave the city at once was not genuine.

The attention of the police department was called to the disturbance at an early hour, and it was revealed after an investigation that the notes were probably of a mischevious nature. The detectives sent to the scene drew the conclusion, it is learned, that the notes of warning, written in a decidedly poor scrawl, and at times almost unintelligible, were prepared by some party attempting to play a prank on the negroes.

HEADWAY MADE ON HENRIETTA HIGHWAY

Provided work at the present location is completed to the railroad tracks south of Wichita Falls by Sunday, the Tibbetts Construction company will begin the work of moving their plant, at that time, to a place nearer this city.

The plant, it was learned yesterday, will be moved to station 00, near Jalonic street, leaving a gap approximately 2 1-2 miles in length from the present location, at station 120, to be filled in with concrete paving.

The construction company, it was said Thursday, is operating a fast crew, and making much headway with the Henrietta roadway.

JURY DEADLOCKED AND TURNED FREE

The jury held in the I. Shuster case was discharged by Judge Guy Rogers in the county court at law Thursday morning, when they reported to the magistrate that they were hopelessly deadlocked on their decision.

Three had voted for conviction, while three had voted for acquittal.

Shuster's case had been appealed from the corporate court to the county court at law. The defendant was charged with vagrancy, the city alleging that he sold tincture of Jamaica ginger containing more than 1-1-2 per cent alcohol.

BRIDE-BROTHER FIGHT—HARD LUCK

(By International News Service.)

VANCOUVER, Wash., July 4.—With ring, marriage license and sweetheart, Richard W. Field appeared before the Rev. A. D. Skaggs here.

When Field later left the parsonage he still had the ring and the marriage license—and a black eye—but no bride.

The groom-to-be was in the very act of placing the ring on the finger of Miss Virginia Griffin when the latter's brother rushed into the room, shouting:

"The marriage shall go no further!"

The brother ordered his sister's lover to "come outside." Field did so and received a wallop in the eye. Then the brother's friend appeared with an automobile, and the two men dragged the near-bride into the machine and speeded away.

Field was left standing on the porch, holding a ring in one hand and a marriage license in the other, and it was only with one eye that he could follow the rapid disappearance of his sweetheart. He was unable to explain the brother's objection to the marriage, which the latter succeeded in preventing by a matter of a couple of seconds.

JAM IN LOCAL FREIGHT YARDS

Engine Side-Swipes Box Car

Because cars jammed up late Wednesday night in the local yards, it was openly stated Thursday that the strike of local shop craftsmen threatens to tie up railroad traffic through Wichita Falls.

The statements and rumors, called to the attention of local railroad officials, brought the reply that a switch engine which sideswiped with a box car in the local yards Wednesday night had brought about the jam of cars here.

The wreckage, it was stated, was quickly cleared away and traffic resumed as normally.

NOISY PARTY PAYS $50 FINE

Hotel Man Appears To Testify

Two couples arrested in a prominent hotel late Wednesday night were found guilty of being drunk and of disorderly conduct when they were arraigned before Special Judge W. H. Caldwell Thursday in corporate court.

To the two men, Judge Caldwell, without hesitation, said, "I assess your fines at $50 each," while Judge Caldwell fined the two women $40 and $35.

The trial had ended ere it had hardly begun.

A conspicious feature of the hearing was the fact that the hotel management appeared in court against both couples, explaining to the court their noisy conduct in the hostelry, and that they had been under the influence of liquor.

A call concerning the quartet reached the police department late Wednesday night, resulting in all four of the "party" being incarcerated in the city bastile.

Yesterday afternoon, it is understood, the men, both of whom are said to be prominent Wichitans, and of families, were summoned before the 30th district court grand jury, in connection with the hotel affair.
