Additional Shelters For Juveniles Recommended

Aransas County Judge John D. Wendell said Monday that he will recommend to commissioners court the construction of an additional shelter for juveniles with revenue-sharing funds anticipated for the current fiscal year.

The commissioners court considered a revenue-sharing budget on Tuesday.

Wendell said the county should receive approximately $119,491 for the fiscal year.

The county judge said that two cells are available for juvenile detention but that the space is inadequate.

Adult detention facilities are located on the second story of the jail, directly behind the courthouse.

Also on the court's agenda was appointment of election judges and discussion of a pick-up for the road and bridge department.

Final plans for the proposed Goose Island Estates Subdivision also were discussed.

Air Force To Honor Hewes

T/Sgt. Ed Rose, new Air Force recruiter for this area, has announced that Sheriff Bob Hewes, a former Air Force man himself, is to receive a certificate of appreciation from the Air Force for helping to recruit men for that branch of the service.

Hewes is to be honored at a luncheon at Key Allegro Motel Thursday noon, Aug. 9 which will be attended by a number of local community leaders.

The presentation will be made by Mayor Walter S. Falk, Jr., a retired lieutenant colonel with the Air Force.

The luncheon meeting also will give local people an opportunity to meet Rose, veteran of 17 years in the Air Force, who already has decided that when he retires he will live in Rockport.

Five Injured In Car Crash

Five persons were injured in a two-car collision July 28 at the intersection of Highway 35 and Cactus Street in Fulton.

State Highway Patromen Bill Hill and Rick Brush reported that one of the cars was driven by Mrs. Ilma Cookston of Fulton who was treated by a physician for shoulder and neck injuries.

The second car was driven by Charles Reed whose wife and three children sustained minor injuries.

The officers said Mrs. Cookston was going east on Cactus and the Reed car was proceeding north on Highway 35 when the accident occurred.

Mayes Obeys Hair Rules

DALLAS - "I'm here to play basketball, not to grow my hair long."

Those are the words of 6-7 Rockport star, Steve Mayes, considered one of the South's mainstays for the 28th annual Texas High School Coaches Association basketball all-star game in the Dallas Convention Center this week.

Mayes was one of the few athletes who reported to camp with semi-long hair, but he probably took a trip to the barber shop to cut that matter short. His natural Afro-style hair is no longer than two inches as the regulation book says.

It has been the South basketball all-stars that have been in the middle of all the hair controversy here, with all-stater Eddie Owens of Houston Wheatley failing to show because of his disapproval of the hair code.

"That's Eddie's business," said Mayes. "Personally I think the rule is antiquated. But, I'm here to play basketball and I consider that an honor. Hair grows back. You don't get an opportunity often."

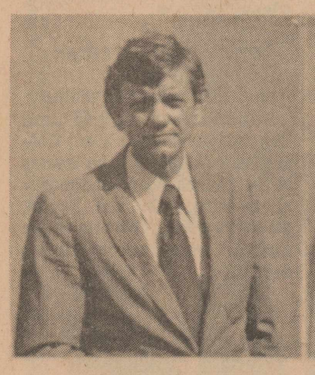
At Rockport Mayes was the key as the Pirates advanced to the state tournament before bowing out. He averaged 21.8 points per game and 15 rebounds.

For the South all-stars, Mayes was scheduled to be one of the top replacements at the post position. Deer Park's Danny Van Rheem and Kennard's Paul Lamb were tabbed for starting post positions by South coach, Reggie Davis, but Mayes has impressed the coaching staff by his aggressiveness under the boards and should see plenty of action.

"Mayes has improved for us in every workout," said Davis. "He was a little slow at first because he was feeling kind of sick, stomach trouble of some sort, but he has perked up the last couple of days."

"I felt a little sick Sunday," said Mayes. "But that's all over now. I think it was nervousness more than anything else, but that's settled down."

United Savings Promotes Hiller, Appoints Ladner Branch Manager



DELMAR R. HILLER

GERARD J. LADNER

Delmar R. Hiller, manager of the local office of United Savings Association for nine years, on August 1 became vice president and mortgage loan officer at the main office of United Savings in Corpus Christi.

Named to succeed him as branch manager at Rockport was Gerard J. Ladner, a retired Army colonel and for the past two years city plumbing and electrical inspector.

Hiller, who was mayor of Rockport from 1966 to 1972, will continue to make his home here, at least for the time being. He has been active in numerous community activities and a few years ago was awarded the Chamber of Commerce "Citizen of the Year" award.

Ladner had a distinguished career with the U.S. Army before retiring. His last four years in the service were with the inspector general's office, 4th Army Headquarters at Ft. Sam Houston. Previously he was a Department of Defense military attache in Managua, Nicaragua.

Ladner and his wife, Margaret, live at Key Allegro. They have three married daughters and a son, Gerard J. Ladner, Jr., 16, a student at Rockport-Fulton High School.

LAW OFFICERS HONORED — Law enforcement officers were special guests July 24 at a fish fry at Jim's Marina in Lamar sponsored by most of the business people of Rockport and Fulton.

Beeville Boy Drowns Here

James Lawrence Rivera, 15, of Beeville, drowned July 24 after falling off a float approximately 200 yard off Rockport Beach.

Rockport Justice of the Peace Roy Hinton said the boy was spending the day in Rockport with the Ruben Bollagor family. He was in the water with three Bollagor children when he "fell from his float and never came up," Hinton said.

Hinton rulled the death accidental drowning. The body was found by Don Wright and Rex Davenport of the shrimp boat Julie Chris.

Rivera was a lifelong resident of Beeville, where he was to be a freshman at A.C. Jones High School in the fall.

Survivors include his mother, Mrs. Irene Garcia of Beeville; his father, Lupe B. Rivera of San Antonio; three brothers, Jesse S. and Joe S. Gonzales, both of Houston, and Joel Rivera of Beeville; and his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Maria Soliz of Victoria.

Funeral Mass was celebrated Friday in the St. James Catholic Church. Burial was in Beeville Memorial Park. Trevino Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

ARMED ROBBERY AT BILLUP'S STATION

A lone gunman robbed the Billup's Service station at Highway 35 and Market Street early Tuesday morning around 1:55 a.m. Mrs. Betty Schmidt told investigating officers that a man drove into the station where she was on duty at the time, and held her at gunpoint. An undetermined amount of cash was taken.

Mrs. Schmidt was not harmed and after the gunman left the station, she called the Rockport Police. The case is being investigated at this time. Aransas County Sheriff's Department assisted Rockport Police in the search for the gunman.

Chief of Police James Craigmile said, "Two armed robberies in the city in recent weeks point out the need for more manpower and patrol time. Fortunately no serious injury has resulted from the recent robberies." However, the Chief pointed out that in these situations "anything can happen to make a nervous man with a gun commit a rash act."

Mrs. Schmidt advised that a Rockport unit had passed the service station shortly before the robbery occurred.

"In many cases when one city officer is working and gets tied up on accidents or other calls, it removes the patrol unit from service. The best prevention we can have in any city is good lighting and constant police patrols," Chief Craigmile said.

1,772 Aransas County Residents Receive Social Security Benefits

Social security benefits were being paid to residents of Aransas County at a rate of $236,000 a month at the close of 1972, Arthur L. Finck, Jr., social security manager in Corpus Christi, said today.

Of the social security beneficiaries living in Aransas County, 1,187 are retired workers and their dependents. Another 348 are receiving benefits as the survivors of workers who have died, and 230 are getting benefits as disabled workers or their dependents.

Finck pointed out that although most social security beneficiaries are older people, about one out of every four is under age 60. In Aransas County, 431 people under age 60 are collecting social security payments each month. Nearly 227 are under age 18, receiving payments because a working father or mother has died or is getting social security disability or retirement benefits. Most of the 41 beneficiaries in Aransas County between 18 and 22 years of age, are getting student's benefits under a provision in the social security law permitting the continuation of a child's benefits beyond his 18th birthday, and up to age 22, if the child is attending school full time.

Also in this 18-22 age group, Finck said, are some other types of beneficiaries, illustrating the broad family protection that the social security program provides workers of all ages. Some are children of retired, disabled, or deceased workers who became disabled before they reached 22 and who will probably never be able to work and become self-supporting. The monthly benefits of these young people, severely handicapped by physical or mental disabilities, will continue indefinitely. Benefits are also payable to the mother if the disabled son or daughter is in the mother's care.

Finck said that another relatively small but significant group of youthful social security beneficiaries are those who are receiving benefits as disabled workers.

Savings Bond Sales $38,490

June sales of Series E and H United States Savings Bonds amounting to $7,162 in Aransas County were reported today by County Bond Chairman Fred Bracht. Sales for the first six months totaled $38,490 for 64% of the 1973 goal of $60,000.

Sales in Texas during the month amounted to $16,998,554-while sales for the first half of 1973 totaled $119,984,282 with 55% of the yearly goal of $216.6 million goal achieved.

Junior High School Registration

Students that will attend the sixth, seventh, or eighth grade at Rockport-Fulton Junior High School during the 1973-1974 school year and did not complete the 1972-1973 school year in Aransas County Schools are asked to come to the Junior High School office in order to be registered for classes which begin August 27 at 8:10 a.m. Office hours are 8-12, 1-4.

New students must bring report cards, immunization records, etc. from the last school attended. Students that did attend the Rockport - Fulton Junior High School, Fulton Elementary School or Rockport Elementary School last year have already been registered and need not come to the Junior High School until the opening day of school.

Students that did not receive report cards at the close of the 1972-1973 school year because of unpaid fees may come to the Junior High School office and pay these fees.

Utility District Hearing August 15

The Texas Water Rights Commission has scheduled a hearing at 10 a.m., August 15, in Austin on the creation of the Aransas County Municipal Utility District No. 1.

The utility district proposed would be composed of 102 acres out of Reserve "D" in the Lamar Townsite. Developers said in their petition for creation of the district that a $1-million investment is planned in improvements.

The petition was filed for South Coast Development Co., by Carol E. Conlin of Rockport, Dan G. Hodges of San Antonio, and Edwin D. Pair of Fort Worth.

Police Department Expresses Thanks

The Rockport Police Department wishes to thank all of those who assisted July 24 with the recovery of James Rivera who drowned off the Rockport Beach.

Many citizens, Aransas County Sheriff's office, Parks and Wildlife, and Aransas County Navigation personnel all rendered able assistance at the scene.

A special thanks is extended to the bay shrimpers who used their boats to drag for the body. The recovery was made by Captain Don Wright of the boat Julie Chris.

"It is reassuring to know that people such as these are willing to give their time and assistance during disasters and unfortunate incidents including drowning and injury," Chief James Craigmile said.

Sheriff's Dept., Police, Fire Depts. To Have Same Phone No.

Sheriff Bob Hewes announced today that effective September 1 the Sheriff's Department, the Rockport Police Department, all of the Aransas County Fire Departments and the Aransas County Emergency Corps will utilize the same telephone number which will be 729-2222.

Hewes stated that presently his office is answering five different telephone numbers and with the new system through a rotary system the dispatcher at the Sheriff's office will have one main line with 3 additional numbers so that if one line is busy it will automatically ring the next line.

Under the old system the dispatcher answered two lines for the Sheriff's Department, one line for the Rockport Police Department, one line for the Rockport Fire Dept. and one line for the Fulton Fire Dept.

With the addition of the fire alerting system it is now relatively simple to alert any fire department singly or alert all fire departments at one time.

Sheriff Hewes requests that all citizens change the telephone numbers in the front of their telephone books so that the system will be effective.

Speaker Discusses Rotary Ideals

Ideals and objectives of Rotary were discussed by Elmer Borchers of Laredo who is district governor of the civic club, at a luncheon meeting of Rockport Rotary July 25 at Corky's restaurant.

Borchers, paying his first official visit to the local club, declared that service to the community is all important and most rewarding to Rotarians who participate. He urged all Rotarians to become more deeply involved in club activities.

He reported briefly on a recent conference of district governors from all over the world. He said every one of the 130 district governors was present at the Lake Placid, N. Y. meeting, although many from foreign countries experienced great difficulty in obtaining sufficient money for the trip because of monetary restrictions.

Borchers said Rotary International operates from a headquarters in Evanston, Ill., and a European sub-headquarters in Zurich, Switzerland. While English is the official language of Rotary, the club publishes a Spanish edition of its monthly magazine and letters to headquarters are in many different languages.

He pointed out that because of its international aspects, Rotary provided an ideal means of communication between different countries and different races. This makes it a potent force for world peace, he added.

In conclusion, Borchers declared that Rotary provides the tools for doing many good things, but they are effective only if club members use them.

Water District Okays Trailer Park Request

A request for water service for Mobile Inn Trailer park on State Highway 35 in Fulton was granted by the Aransas County Conservation and Reclamation District board of directors at a meeting in the county court house July 24.

Approval was based on the provision that owners of the trailer park, Mr. and Mrs. S.J. Williams, pay the cost of extending a four-inch line from existing lines to their property. Cost of this was estimated at $2,200, and Williams, who appeared at the hearing, said he planned to ask others who live along the route of the proposed new line pay a portion of the cost.

Aslo appearning at the hearing and representing the city of Rockport which will meter water to the trailer park if the line is installed were Herman Johnson, city secretary, and Tom Shults, city water superintendent. They supplied information on feasibility of the project and its approximate cost.

In addition to Jack McDavid, board president, directors present included Thomas L. Morgan, John Mitchell, Jr. and David H. Crooks, as well as Sam E. Wilcox, attorney for the District.

Health Dept. Honors James Montgomery

The official State Health Department's certificate of competency for the oldest ecology oriented profession in Texas, has been awarded to James T. Montgomery.

Montgomery works for the Lamar Water Co. As an ecology worker, he has been taught effective ways for producing safe drinking water and treatments to make wastewater into clean streams for public use.

This training from the Texas Water Utilities Association, the largest water and wastewater training school in the United States, has produced clean streams and better operated water facilities than any other section of the country.

To receive the certificate, he has completed both a formal and a specialized education, accumulated a prescribed amount of actual work experience, and passed the examination given by the State Health Department's Sanitary Engineers.

The growing need for clean water has made the water ecologist one of the most important workers in his community. Most of his work is not seen by the public he serves; but the effects are used daily everytime someone uses water.

Sick Movies

The really shocking truth is that movies were better several decades ago than they are today. There has been great technical progress but the films themselves, their content as good entertainment and something of value reflecting artistic accomplishment, are today rare.

Hollywood was long ago taken over by the flamboyant money-maker who substituted shock, sex and vulgarity to make a fast dollar. Unfortunately too much of the rest of the world's film makers followed the example. So too did U.S. commercial television.

That this view is not that of a cranky editor living in a dream world or another age is confirmed by one of the film critics who still understands human values, morality and wholesome things--that good films can be made stressing such themes.

Thomas Quinn Curtis, from the Venice film festival at the first of this month writes that films made fifty years ago are better than today's. He reports that the European premier and re-release of "The Kid" (Charlie Chaplin, 1921) packed the house and outclassed all new films.

"The Kid" was made on a very low budget, The theme is endearing. Chaplin finds a baby boy (Jackie Coogan) in the garbage can and the pair become inseparable, as Chaplin battles to keep authorities from taking the child away from him. It's full of mirth, produces a few tears, and is an artistic triumph as entertainment and humor.

Chaplin, like Laurel and Hardy, were born Englishmen, and it's disappointing that the English still produce more genuine comedians than America--where the vulgar, naked, loud, brassy and lack of sensitivity and refinement condemn almost every U.S. film to the gutter, intellectually, morally and artistically.

Drunk Driver Schools

In Florida, in 1971, a drunk driving school was begun at Fort Lauderdale. Since April of that year, thirty others have been opened and at a recent organizational meeting of an association binding them together, Governor Rueben Askew of the Sunshine State says the schools have sharply reduced the number of repeat offenders.

Askew says the average repeat rate for drunk drivers is 20 per cent but that those who attend the drunk driving schools have only a 3 per cent repeat rate. In Florida the schools are jointly run by the highway department, the Alcoholic Rehabilitation Bureau and the Governor's safety Conference.

Progress has been so impressive, Secretary Emmitt Roberts of the association says he believes the new schools are conquering alcoholism among drunk drivers, just as tuberculosis was conquered several decades ago. Askew says the new approach, including self-analysis and positive behavioral modification, has been a "phenomenal success."

Other states have similar programs but many have nothing of this kind. The success of the Florida approach should attract wide interest in other states across the nation.

Airports & Rails

One of the more interesting transportation advances in some major cities is linkage of municipal airports with the metropolitan area by special rail service. Since airports must always be located well outside cities, getting to them is usually relatively costly, and in today's congested traffic often time-consuming.

A rail link between downtown and the airport terminals provides fast, economical transportation. Such service means quick access to train or bus connections for arriving passergers and cheap, convenient transportation to the airport for departing passengers.

One of the first cities to provide really first-class rail service to an airport was Brussels, Belgium. There the airport rail link begins at the central train station. One can walk from any arriving train to the special airport train in two minutes.

More American communities should have such transportation facilities since air travel is steadily increasing in volume as highway congestion becomes more acute.

Little Cigars

Congressman Torbert Macdonald (D-Mass) believes small cigar commercials on television are contrary to the law banning cigarette advertising. Manufacturers say such commercials are legal because the little cigars are wrapped in brown paper, and are thus cigars.

Macdonald thinks they are more like cigarettes than cigars and that manufacturers are taking advantage of this loophole in the law against cigarette advertising to push the little cigars on television. They are, of course, as harmful as cigarettes if inhaled.

Macdonald proposes further congressional action to ban such advertising; since small cigars are as bad for one's health as cigarettes if inhaled, and since so many inhale them, Macdonald's proposal is in the public interest--especially so in view of the obvious appeal to youth by small cigar advertising.

Saccharin News

Diet beverage drinkers, and those who substitute saccharin for sugar in their coffee or tea, should take notice of the recent Food and Drug Administration report that tests on animals have produced "presumptive evidence" saccharin can cause cancer.

Already cyclamate has been banned. There had been earlier warnings about saccharin. Only the reckless, therefore, will not consider the FDA warning, even though the National Academy of Sciences has not (as of this writing) recommended an FDA ban.

Reducing Speed Limits

Several states have reduced speed limits on state highways in an effort to reduce gasoline consumption and others are considering such a step. There's no doubt reduced speed (and turned off air conditioners) lower fuel consumption.

Those compelled to drive at the upper limit can use the federal highways, where the limit is still 70 m.p.h. That doesn't enable all motorists to continue driving as in the past but the superhighways can accommodate most long-distance travelers and thus lower state limits won't inconvenience everyone. In addition, lower speeds mean fewer accidents and death; this is on the positive side.

Nevertheless, there's something about blanket speed reductions which disturbs many people. If the gasoline shortage is largely contrived, having been caused by deliberate failure to properly provide for the nation's needs, as many feel, the public is now being forced to react in the way of lower speed limits.

Though lower limits may produce side benefits, Americans are nonetheless forced to comply with a new situation because of inadequate planning and foresight.

If lower limits are desirable that proposition should stand or fall on its merits. The nation, meanwhile, should have adequate fuel at prices not greatly different from those in recent years, and this can be accomplished by vigorous, imaginative cooperation between the energy producers and a federal government using the carrot, and stick.

Too Many Awards

The television industry would do well to concentrate on producing mature, intelligent programs, rather than the typical puerile, phony-laughter fare it has long been dishing up for gullible corporations seeking to sell the lowest moron soap or deodorants.

If the networks and independent producers did so, they would not be wondering--every year at this time--why the public is so indifferent to the industry's Emmy awards show.

The truth is there are too many awards--far more than are deserved--and the public knows it. Nor is the presentation of all these awards considered important by most Americans, because of a lack of respect for the television industry in general.

Much ado about nothing is a good way to describe it. Or one might say: "Who cares?"

Death For Sale

Spectacular accidents (one involving nine gasoline-laden cars at Indianapolis) which took a toll not only among drivers and cars but among spectators as well, illustrate the objection to racing often made by critics today, that this high-speed contest is overly dangerous.

Death is literally for sale and the chances of these accidents, and death, is one of the morbid factors which packs the stands at racing events. Yet racing would be just as thrilling if horsepower were limited and fuels were required to be less flamable.

The continuing grisly death in flames or crashes of racing drivers is a part of this "sport" which should be eliminated as far as is possible. That can only be done by limiting horsepower, requiring the use of less flamable fuel and by federal track and spectator seating standards.

Attendance Report Due from Students 18 and Over Who Get Social Security

Students 18 and over who get monthly social security checks will soon be getting an attendance reporting card that has nothing to do with how many classes they might have cut, according to social security officials here.

A reporting card is mailed by the Social Security Administration to each student beneficiary about 3 months before the end of the school year. The student should return the card to social security as soon as possible, a spokesman said.

"The information on the attendance report helps us decide if the student can continue to get monthly checks," he said. "Any delay in returning the reporting card could mean a delay in payments."

Full-time students who are 18 and over and are unmarried can get monthly checks from social security until they're 22 if a parent gets social security payments or if a parent has died after working long enough under social security.

"Under recent changes in the social security law," the spokesman said, "a student who has not earned an undergraduate degree can continue to get social security payments through the end of the semester or quarter in which he reaches 22."

If the student's school does not use the semester or quarter system, payments can continue until he completes the course he's taking or 2 months after he reaches 22, whichever comes first.

"More than 590,000 students in colleges, high schools, and trade schools get $65 million a month from social security," the spokesman said.

Any student who needs help with the report or information about his benefits can call, write, or visit any social security office, he said.

Polston-Brandes Wed

The Rev. Edward Kircher officiated at double ring nuptials on Saturday at 8:30 p.m. in Our Lady of Refuge Catholic Church in Refugio uniting in marriage Miss Mary Ann Brandes of Refugio and Robert Daniel Polston of Corpus Christi.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Winston F. Brandes of Refugio and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd D. Polston of Rockport.

Mrs. George Rinche of Rockport was organist and soloist. She played traditional wedding music and sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "Mother At Thy Feet I'm Kneeling."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an Empire style gown fashioned of miramist over slipper satin designed and made by the bride and her mother. The bodice, overlaid with a wide band of re-embroidered chantilly lace, featured a rounded neckline and short bell sleeves of re-embroidered Chantilly lace over miramist, edged with flowerlet trim. A wide panel of lace trellised the length of the gown to the lace bordered hemline which flowed to a lace edged train. She wore a silver cross, a gift from her parents. A Juliet cap fashioned of re-embroidered Chantilly lace over satin and accented with sprays of lily-of-the-valley and white ribbon held her veil of silk illusion. She carried a nosegay of white feathered carnations and baby's breath encircling white daisies with white satin streamers and greenery intermixed.

Mrs. Michael McGuill of Fairhope, Ala., sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Maid of honor was Miss Robin Dawson of Refugio and bridesmaids were Miss Pam McVay of Rockport and Miss Kathy Williams of Refugio.

Flower girl was Miss Angie McGuill of Fairhope, Ala., the bride's niece, and Brian Flores of Rockport was ring bearer.

The attendants wore high waisted formals of embroidered organza over solid rainbow colors of pink, yellow, lavender and blue fashioned with round necklines and sheer butterfly sleeves. Ribbons matching their dresses accented the waistlines and tied in back. They wore white picture hats with bands of ribbon to match their dresses. They carried nosegays of white daisies with greenery and baby's breath with ribbons to match their dresses entwined.

The flower girl wore a dress identical to the bridesmaids in white and carried a basket trimmed with white ribbon of white daisies and white daisy petals.

The bride's mother wore a formal nile green knit gown with a bodice of eyelet organza jewel trimmed at the waistline, neckline and sleeves. She wore white accessories and a white carnation corsage with yellow trim.

The mother of the bridegroom wore a pink formal princess style gown accented with beaded trim, white accessories and a white carnation corsage trimmed in green.

Allen Lee Johnston of Corpus Christi was best man. Groomsmen were Kenneth Polston of Rockport, brother of the bridegroom; John Brandes of Austin, brother of the bride; and Manuel Flores of Rockport.

Ushering were John Beck of Victoria, cousin of the bride, and Phil Carlton of Rockport. John and Joseph Williams were altar boys.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in Our Lady of Refuge Auditorium.

Serving in the house party were Miss Laura Hornburg, Miss Jackie Ploch, Mrs. Douglas Whitlow, Mrs. Harlew Conally, Mrs. Frank Neblett, Mrs. Willard King, Mrs. Lawrence Malaise, Mrs. Hughes Moore, Mrs. Harold Ploch, Mrs. Jesse Williams, Miss Sue Ellen Heard, Mrs. Arthur Dawson, Miss Shelly Dawson, Miss Kathy Stratmann, Miss Kelly Dawson, Miss Claire Heard, all of Refugio; Mrs. Eddie Neathery, Mrs. Graden McVay, Mrs. Kenneth Polston, all of Rockport; Miss Debra Beck of Victoria and Mrs. John Brandes of Austin.

Miss Karen Norman of Refugio presided at the bride's book.

For wedding travel, the bride wore a two-piece ensemble featuring a solid blue blazer and flared skirt in a plaid to match the trim on the blazer collar and sleeve cuffs. She wore white accessories and a daisy corsage.

The newlyweds will make their home in Corpus Christi.

The bride is a 1973 graduate of Refugio High School.

The bridegroom, a 1970 graduate of Rockport-Fulton High School, is presently employed with IHC Holland Marine Corp. in Corpus Christi.

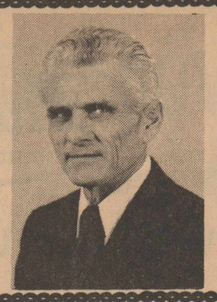
OUTDOORS 'n things

by L. D. NUCKLES



During the summertime nothing is more fun for the kids than a trip to the beach, but there, as in any other outdoor activity, certain elementary precautions should be observed. Safety, in the outdoors, is a never-ending business. Some of the dangers found on the beach are natural things, things that would be present if man had never made his appearance on the scene. Others, such as dead catfish, broken glass, and rusty fishhooks, are a direct result of man's tendency to foul everything he touches.

The sun, a necessary ingredient for a happy day at the beach, can be dangerous. While it's true that not many people will die this summer as a result of overexposure to the sun at the beach, it's also true that a great many will pay for their day in the sun with several days of pain from the sunburn that they'll acquire. Moving into the shade after your face and shoulders have begun to sting doesn't help much. In the first place, you're alread burned, and in the second place, you'll go right on burning in the shade. The reflected light, from the sand and the water, is strong enough to sunburn even in the shade. Lots of good suntan lotion and clothing to cover up before the burn has begun to make itself known, and the common sense to use both, can save you that painful aftermath to your holiday.

Stepping on a dead catfish, which someone has thrown out on the sand, can be a painful experience and the wound should always receive the attention of a doctor. Even if the spine does not break off and require minor surgery to remove it, a puncture wound of this type always presents the possibility of tetanus. The wound inflicted by a stingray falls into this same catagory, but, because of the intense pain involved, nobody will need to tell you that you need to see a doctor.

Another creature that is quite common on our Texas beaches, can cause acute discomfort, and is potentially quite dangerous, is the Portuguese man-of-war. This harmless looking creature, with its pretty purple "sail" has tentacles which may trail as far as hundred feet behind it. Each tentacle is covered with microscopic darts containing a very powerful poison. If the tentacle touches you the darts are injected into the skin and the poison is released. The results can be anything from a sharp, burning sensation to death, depending on the amount of contact, the persons reaction to the poison, and the promptness of the first aid given.

Pieces of the tentacles should be removed from the victims body as soon as possible by a person wearing gloves, using a beach towel, or something of this sort to protect the hands. The entire affected area should then be washed down with alcohol and two minutes later flushed down with clean sea water. Medical authorities caution that the area should NOT be rubbed with sand as is sometimes recommended. After this cleaning process has been completed, a corticosteroid analgesic balm should be applied, preferably by aeresol spray. Compresses soaked in diluted ammonia are effective in reducing the pain, and, if nothing else is available, just plain urine is said to be better than nothing. In any event a doctor should be consulted as soon as possible.

The beach is a great place to play -- there's no doubt about it, but like any playground, dangers do exist there. A well stocked first aid kit and a thorough knowledge of the dangers that MAY be encountered there can help prevent a minor incident from becoming a major tragedy.

Sirs:

Would any of these girls recognize themselves and remember when this snapshot was taken if it was published in your paper? I am sending it to you for what it is worth. It has been in an old album that I have had since I lived in Rockport one winter. I was in the fifth grade at that time -- And that has been many years ago.

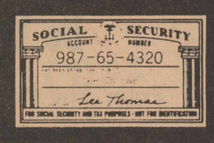
Questions and Answers



Q. I became disabled in January last year and applied for social security payments that same month. I had a 6-month waiting period before I got my first check. Since the waiting period has now been shortened to 5 months, will I get a check for the extra month I had to wait?

A. No. This change in the disability law is effective for benefits payable for months beginning January 1973 based on applications filed in or after October 1972. If you were already getting disability payments before January 1973, you will not benefit from the shortened waiting period.

Q. Shortly after his 18th birthday last summer, my son was severely injured in a car accident, and he probably won't ever be able to work. Even though I get monthly social security retirement payments, my son couldn't get checks when we applied last year because he was over 18 at the time of the accident. Now, I hear that I should reapply for him because of some recent changes in the law. Is this true?

A. Yes. Now a child severely disabled before 22 can qualify for social security payments if one of his parents is getting benefits or died after working long enough under social security. You should call, write, or visit any social security office to reapply for benefits for your son.

Q. I'm 64 and I've been getting monthly social security disability payments for nearly 3 years. I heard that disability payments are not made to people after 65. Since my payments are a big part of my income, what will I do when I turn 65?

A. You'll continue to get payments after you're 65, but they will be retirement benefits rather than disability. The only change is that the payment comes from a different social security trust fund. The switch-over will be automatic and will not cause any interruption in your monthly checks.

Q. I've been getting social security disability payments for over 3 years, and I know I'll have Medicare coverage starting next month. What will my Medicare insurance cost me?

A. Because you get disability benefits, you won't pay a monthly premium for your hospital insurance. Medical insurance is voluntary and, if you want this additional protection, the premium will be $6.30 a month. If you decide to take the medical insurance, your premium will be deducted from your monthly social security check starting the month your protection begins.

Q. I've been getting monthly social security disability benefits since 1967, and I know I'll be eligible for Medicare coverage starting in July. Will my children, who also get monthly checks as my dependents, be able to get Medicare coverage, too?

A. No. The recent change in the law extends Medicare coverage only to disabled workers like you and to disabled widows and widowers 50 to 65, people 18 and over who receive social security benefits because they became disabled before 22, and certain other disabled people. Minor children are not included.

Q. Will Medicare coverage for the disabled be the same as the Medicare coverage now provided for people 65 and older?

A. Yes, the only difference is in the requirement for getting Medicare coverage. Disabled people must have been getting monthly social security disability payments for 24 consecutive months. There is a special provision for people who need a kidney transplant or dialysis.

MOURNING DOVE-WHITE-WINGED DOVE

Hunting Regulations 1973-74

DAILY BAG LIMITS

MOURNING DOVES
Daily Bag Limit-10. Possession Limit-20

WHITE-WINGED DOVES
Daily Bag Limit-10. Possession Limit-20

NOTE: Bag limits of both white-winged and mourning doves may be taken during the open white-winged season.

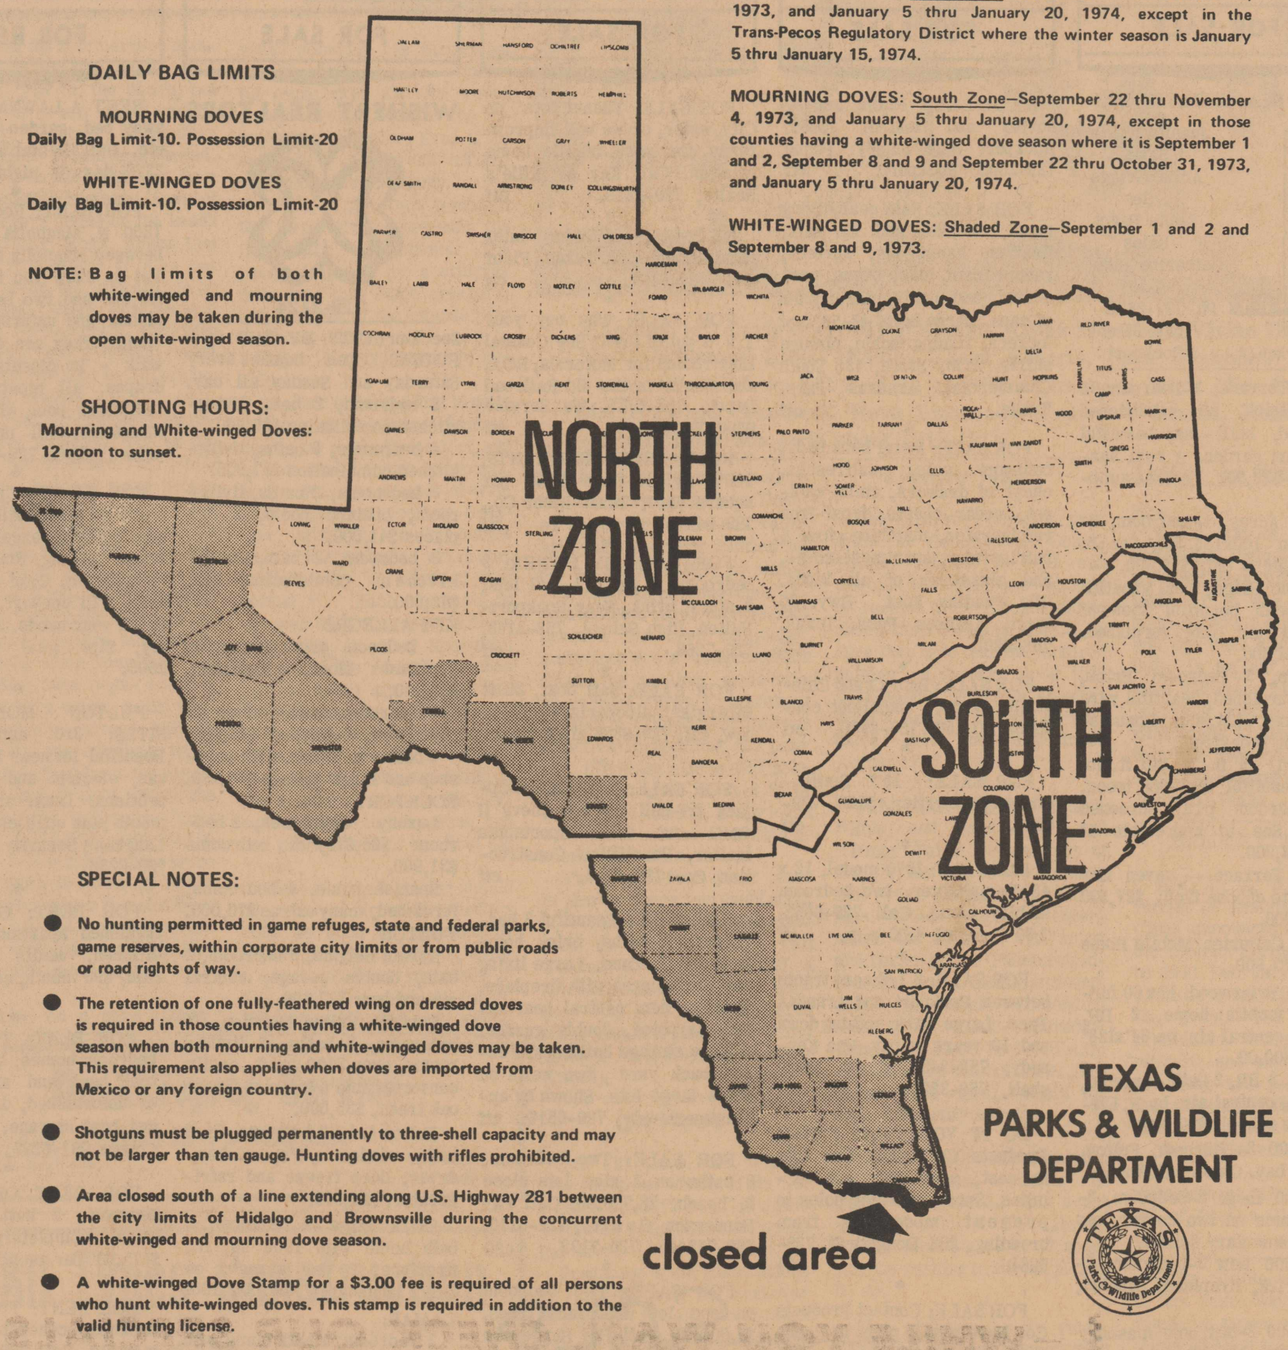
SHOOTING HOURS:
Mourning and White-winged Doves:
12 noon to sunset.

OPEN SEASONS

MOURNING DOVES: North Zone—September 1 thru October 14, 1973, and January 5 thru January 20, 1974, except in the Trans-Pecos Regulatory District where the winter season is January 5 thru January 15, 1974.

MOURNING DOVES: South Zone—September 22 thru November 4, 1973, and January 5 thru January 20, 1974, except in those counties having a white-winged dove season where it is September 1 and 2, September 8 and 9 and September 22 thru October 31, 1973, and January 5 thru January 20, 1974.

WHITE-WINGED DOVES: Shaded Zone—September 1 and 2 and September 8 and 9, 1973.



SPECIAL NOTES:

- No hunting permitted in game refuges, state and federal parks, game reserves, within corporate city limits or from public roads or road rights of way.
- The retention of one fully-feathered wing on dressed doves is required in those counties having a white-winged dove season when both mourning and white-winged doves may be taken. This requirement also applies when doves are imported from Mexico or any foreign country.
- Shotguns must be plugged permanently to three-shell capacity and may not be larger than ten gauge. Hunting doves with rifles prohibited.
- Area closed south of a line extending along U.S. Highway 281 between the city limits of Hidalgo and Brownsville during the concurrent white-winged and mourning dove season.

TEXAS PARKS & WILDLIFE DEPARTMENT

AUSTIN -- A second experimental split mourning dove season was set in a July 12 meeting of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department Commission.

The commissioners acted on the recommendations of the department staff for a fall North Zone season of Sept. 1 - Oct. 14, 1973; and a fall South Zone season of Sept. 22 - Nov. 4, 1973.

The winter hunting season in both zones is slated to run Jan. 5 - 20, 1974, with the exception of the Trans-Pecos Regulatory District where the winter seas will be Jan. 5 - 15, 1974.

In those counties of the South Zone which have white-winged dove hunting, the mourning dove season will be concurrent with the Sept. 1-2, Sept. 8-9 white-wing season with additional mourning dove hunting Sept. 22-Oct. 31, 1973.

Bag and possession limits on both mourning and white-wing doves remain the same as they were last year -- 10 and 20 respectively.

Hunting hours for both species of doves are noon to sunset.

Originally, the split mourning dove season was proposed as a one-year experiment to evaluate the effects of winter hunting on dove populations and harvest.

The commission approved a second year for the experimental split season because inclement weather across most of Texas in the January segment curtailed hunting.

Some 91 percent of the 7.1 million doves harvested last year were taken during the fall portion of the season.

Seasons were also set on rails, woodcocks, Wilson's snipe or jacksnipe, gallinules and teal ducks of all species.

--Rails: Sept. 1 - Nov. 9, 1973; exception is the Trans-Pecos Regulatory District where the season will close on Oct. 31.

Bag limit on king and clapper rails is 15 in the aggregate, possession limit of 30 in the aggregate. Bag and possession limit on sora and Virginia rails is 25 in the aggregate.

--Woodcocks: Nov. 17, 1973-Jan. 20, 1974.

Bag limit on woodcocks is five birds, possession limit is 10.

--Wilson's snipe or jacksnip: Dec. 26, 1973 - Feb. 28, 1974. Bag and possession limit of eight and 16 respectively.

--Gallinules: Sept. 1 - Nov. 9, 1973, with the exception of the Trans-Pecos District where the season will end Oct. 31. Bag limit is 15, possession limit of 30.

--Teal ducks of all species: Sept 15 - 23, bag limit of four in the aggregate, possession limit of eight in the aggregate.

Hunting hours on rails, woodcocks, Wilson's snipe or jacksnip and gallinules are one-half hour before sunrise to sunset.

Happy Homemaking
By BARBARA BAKER

If you scrub floors on your hands and knees, here's a way to save your knees: Take a scrap piece of lumber about 12 inches square and put rollers on the bottom at each of the four corners. Glue a piece of foam rubber to the top and cover this with a scrap of cloth. You'll be able to scoot across the floor with just the touch of a finger.

If the vacuum cleaner bag is emptied into a WET paper bag, there will not be so much dust flying around.

Most children's shoes make a black mark here and there on the floor. By using an ordinary pencil eraser, these can be taken off without hurting the wax or scrubbing so hard.

Use an orange stick inside a damp rag to clean around the wood of window panes. It is handy for getting into corners and under ridges.

In the Kitchen

By Sarah Anne Sheridan

In this day of high grocery prices, pot roasts and vegetables make the food dollar go further while giving the family nutritious meals.

Pot Roast

1 4-lb beef roast
2 t instant meat tenderizer
seasoned salt
pepper
flour
2 T margarine
6 carrots, halved
8 small potatoes, pared
8 small onions, peeled

Sprinkle roast with meat tenderizer as label directs, roll in flour, seasoned salt and pepper. Brown roast on all sides in hot margarine in dutch oven. Add 2 cups water and simmer (covered) 2½ or 3 hours or until tender.

Prepare carrots, potatoes onions. About 1 hour before roast is done add vegetables. Continue simmering until meat is done and vegetables tender but crisp.

Place meat on platter surrounded by vegetables. Thicken gravy and serve in separate bowl.

Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Savory New Potatoes

1 10½ oz. can consomme
1 can water
Few celery leaves
Few sprigs parsley
1 bay leaf
½ t salt
1 lb. small new potatoes
3 slices bacon
1 small onion

Bring consomme, water, celery leaves, parsley and seasonings to a brisk boil. Drop in scrubbed, unpeeled potatoes and cook, uncovered until potatoes are tender when tested with a fork. Strain off the liquid. Reserve vegetables. Boil liquid until ½ cup remains. Cut each slice of bacon into 4 pieces and fry until almost crisp. Add finely chopped onions to bacon and bacon fat and cook until done. Add potatoes and consomme to onion, bacon mixture. Cook over medium heat, spooning liquid over potatoes occasionally, until heated thoroughly.

Public Hunters Must Pay Fees

AUSTIN -- Something new has been added to public hunts on Texas Parks and Wildlife Department installations -- hunting fees.

In a recent meeting, the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission voted to charge hunters for the privilege of hunting on management areas to help defray the costs of running the hunts.

Public drawings will still be held to determine who will hunt for deer, javelina, turkey and quail on management areas. After the drawing lucky hunters will be notified and asked to send in their fees.

On management area dove, squirrel and waterfowl hunts not requiring drawings, fees will be paid at the gate when hunters come on a first-come, first-served basis.

Fees will be: Deer -- Two-day permits, $20. One-day permit, $10; Javelina -- $3; Turkey -- $5; Mourning Dove -- $1; Quail -- $1; Squirrel -- $1; Waterfowl -- $3.

No fees will be charged for hunting on the Pat Mayse Wildlife Management Area or that portion of the U. S. Army Corps of Engineer's property on Dam "B" Reservoir under license to the department, with the exception of deer hunts on the Pat Mayse area.

Department officials say the fees came about because costs of hunts conducted solely for recreation opportunity could not be absorbed in research funds.

If the hunts are part of a research program, the actual management of the hunt and the collection of data can be charged as part of the program.

Budget Easin' Season

AUSTIN - Quick meals don't always mean high-priced "convenience" foods.

According to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department's seafood marketing section, the homemaker-on-the-go can prepare tasty yet economical meals if she plans them around versatile and economical seafood.

Fresh fillets of Texas redfish and speckled trout are waste-free forms of seafood which are packed with protein and are ready to cook.

Combine them with canned goods from the pantry, vegetables from the freezer and a bag of corn chips, and you're ready for a "Fish Vegetable Casserole." Try it, your family and budget will love it.

For more nice n' easy seafood recipes, free of charge, send a card with your name and address to: "Seafood," Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, Austin, Texas 78701.

TIPS FOR OUTDOORSMEN

by Vern Sanford

EARLY WARNING OF STORM

Anytime you go boating, even for a short period of time, take along a small radio. Pocket-size will do.

Follow this habit, despite the fact that you will boat in an area with which you are thoroughly familiar, and you plan a strictly, pleasure-boat ride.

Make it a must to take along a radio anytime you dedicate a day to fishing—and definitely if you're planing to be out all night.

Why drag along a radio when you're going outdoors primarily to get away from things?

Well, one reason is that the radio could be worth its weight in gold, to you. A radio is fine for entertainment—but its wonderful as a weather indicator.

A weather indicator?

No station broadcasts weather warning all day long!

Maybe not, but the static you complain about, is in many cases advance warning of an approaching storm. There are other reasons for static too, but those loud flashing, sputtering, heavy blasts of ear-splitting static reflect lightening in the area.

Static Is Your Cue

Not all static is indicative of a storm. Some comes from nearby electric transmission lines or faulty or ungrounded electrical equipment in operation. But sudden bursts of static are warning signs. A radio reacts to lightening long before you can see flashes.

To you who are afloat loud static is a warning to "look for storm clouds". As the static gets louder and more frequent it's admonishing you to up anchor, get moving and head for shore.

Many of us get so engrossed in our fishing that we are not very observing of what's happening about us.

Any storm can be dangerous, but if it's coming from the direction you have to travel it's doubly dangerous. In that event you're not racing with it but against it. And one thing for sure is—you can't outrun a 30-mile wind backed by a heavy rain and still drive the boat safely.

So, start early, be extremely careful on the way back—and tie down securely in your dock or on your trailer.

There's nothing safer than shore when you're in a heavy thunderstorm, unless it's inside a solidly built weatherproof structure.

Above all, don't gather under a tree. It's the most unsafe place to be in a thunderstorm.

LOUISA'S LETTER

Dear Louisa,

Why is it that so many young people of today have lost interest in the church? We live in a small town and the church used to be the place where the young people met and had their social life. Now, many of the young people are at the beaches or sleeping late or anywhere but church. Why is this?

Grandmother--Va.

Answer:

In the words of yesteryear yours is the $64 question and is not a simple one to answer. To begin with, the church is more commercially oriented today than it was in the past. There is more concern over altar decorations, huge memberships, etc., than there is in helping people and welcoming, into the church, those who need to be there.

We hear on all sides that the church needs change if it is to appeal to young people. It does need change but not changes in standards of behavior and morality or courtesy.

We need to emphasize the teachings of the Sermon on the Mount, The Golden Rule and that of being a giver rather than that of a taker.

Of course, these things will be hard to get across to our young people if the examples we set are contrary to our words.

The church, as it is today, may not be perfect, but it is an influence for good and wholesome living to most of its members. Their children have a better start in life than those who never go. They may stray a bit but there are things they never forget that were learned in church schools.

I think that the great mistake that most of our mature church-goers make is in being so unsure of themselves and of the values they have always had of love, morals and duty.

Do not leave the church because you feel that some of its members are hypocrites. Get in there and try to make it what you think it should be.

Louisa.

Rains Help, Hurt Coastal Wildlife

Assessment of flood damage to wildlife on the upper Texas coast continues to be a major task for Parks and Wildlife Department field personnel.

Production losses, breeding schedule interruptions and the effects of locally heavy rainfall through mid-July are still being added to early spring flood damages.

Department biologist Bob Hofstetter of Seabrook indicated that monthly surveys of the major oyster producing area of Galveston Bay have shown increasing losses of oysters from freshwater flooding.

And as of mid-July, the oyster kill in Trinity Bay was 100 percent. The kill in the usually prolific Redfish Reef complex in mid-Galveston Bay varied from 95 percent on the east end to 15 to 30 percent on the rest of the reef.

Hofstetter said that with favorable water conditions, however, a normal oyster spawn could be set as late as October.

Farther down the coast in Rockport, biologist Eddie Bradley reports an "extensive loss of oysters on reefs in the northern and western extremes of San Antonio Bay with significant survival of harvestable oysters on the east side and little damage to Panther Point reef on the extreme south side of the bay."

Freshwater damage to shrimp production continues to be undetermined.

In mid-July with continued flooding on the Guadalupe River, San Antonio Bay above the Intracoastal Canal was practically all fresh water.

Larval brown shrimp, which prefer higher salinity, encountered predominantly fresh water when they entered the bays from Gulf breeding grounds in early spring.

Some of the brown shrimp survived in the water, but a considerable portion are thought to be lost as reflected by the poor catch during the May 15 - July 15 spring harvest season in the bays.

White shrimp, which favor low salinties, began entering the bay nursery grounds in early May. High freshwater runoff into the bays continues to favor their development.

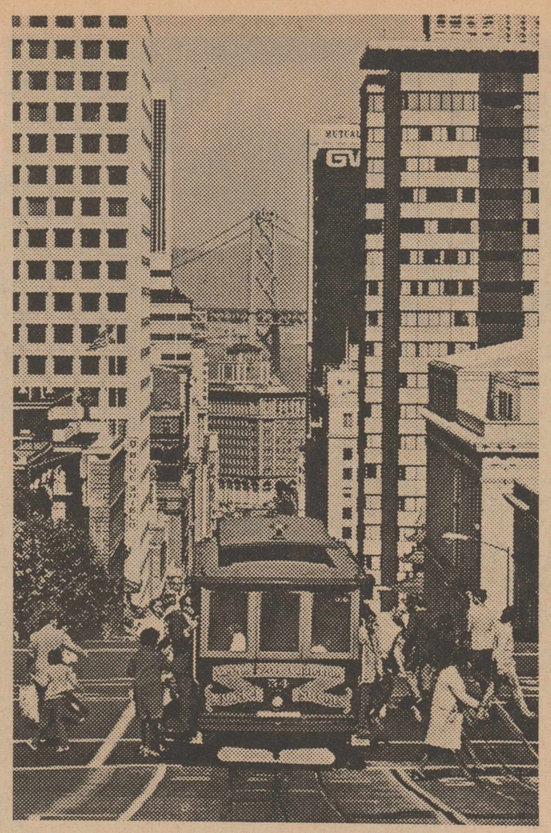
Spawning success of marine fishes will have to be evaluated later.

Biologists point out that most bay species of fish have a wide tolerance to salinities and that generally a high influx of fresh water will probably not be of major significance.

Some abnormal shifting of adult populations is thought to be a temporary result of low salinities and bay species are being found in adjacent Gulf water.

Ground nesting birds such as quail and some mourning doves continue to be plagued by flooded nests and drowned young. However, both of these species renest if disturbed while laying eggs.

Biologists report quail whistling and pairs by the roadside during mid-July as evidence that the birds are still mating. Range conditions are generally excellent and department field personnel are optimistic about a good final hatch of both quail and dove.



ONE-HUNDRED years old and still clanging away up and down San Francisco's hills, the city's famed cable cars are mobile history. The first car dipped down Clay Street on a foggy August morning in 1873. The cars were designated a national historic landmark by the U.S. Interior Department in 1964.

TV COMMENTARY

By John Smiley

IN OCTOBER NBC will begin a new post-midnight series called "Tomorrow." The one-hour talk show will follow Johnny Carson's efforts, and will be for the non-yawners, surely. The host, Los Angeles television newsman Tom Snyder, promises to put people on who haven't been seen before.

STANLEY KRAMER, who directed "Judgement at Nuremberg" and "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner," will soon jump into the TV directing ring. He'll be piloting a series of dramatic reenactments of famous trials, most of them 90 minutes in length. Among possible subjects; the Sacco-Vanzetti, Scopes, and Rosenbergs trials.

CBS has announced the supporting cast for "The New Perry Mason Show." Harry Guardino will play Hamilton Burger, the district attorney who opposes Mason, and loses a lot; Dane Clark will be Los Angeles police lieutenant Arthur Tragg; Albert Stratton is private detective Paul Drake, and Sharon Acker portrays Mason's confidential secretary, Della Street.

THE MINISERIES is on the horizon at NBC, and hopefully on other networks also. These programs will offer a variety of entertainment and at the same time will allow networks to stick with a good thing, if found. With the miniseries, it could be possible to take as many as six segments to tell a single story. It will also facilitate a quick change, if necessary.

THE CHILDREN'S TELEVISION WORKSHOP is turning moviemaker, specializing in family pictures. Hopefully these will be of the same quality as those produced by the past-master, Disney.

OUTDOORS IN TEXAS

BY VERN SANFORD

"Wildlife is a product of edges." This statement has long been an axiom in game management circles. Although hunters may not have thought of it in these terms, this principle is one that most of them realize instinctively.

What does it mean?

Dr. J. P. Linduska of Remington Arms explains it this way. When you go hunting for cottontails (and that's legal in Texas anytime) you don't put your beagle down in the center of a cornfield, or in the middle of a dense wood. You work the hedgerows, brushpiles, and woodland borders .... the edges.

It's the same with quail and pheasants. For every one of these birds you find out in the center of the field, you'll stir up a dozen on the borders, on the banks of ditches and just inside the thickets. Again it's the edges.

Of course the real give-away as to where game hangs out is to watch a bird dog with a couple of seasons of savvy behind him. He won't putter around in the big uniform places. He will skirt the edges of the field, the edges of the plum thickets, the edges of the orchard, and all the other edges where different types of vegetation meet.

Dr. Kinduska says "It's no mystery why game inhabit the edges. That's where they find, in close proximity, all the things necessary for a good life."

He points out that the center of a picked cornfield offers food aplenty and occasionally the birds will wander to the center. Also the center offers protection, so now and then the birds will stray in. But by far the greatest advantage to the hunter is to be found at the edges .... since that's where the game spends most of its time.

Succinctly put "it's a matter of safety and logistics".

Whether it's game or some other species of animal life it's not enough simply to have lots of food and cover. Unless they are properly distributed .... one in relation to the other .... the amount of wildlife an area will support will be limited well below its real potential.

That's why, other things being equal, 10 one-acre ponds will produce more ducks than one big 10-acre pond.

It's a large part of the reason, too, why the small patch farms of yore were more productive of game than the big, consolidated, Texas ranches of today.

Modern day game management strives to improve habitat partly by increasing and bettering "edge" conditions.

Naturally, such a program doesn't allow for too many generalities. In a large timber stand it might well mean creating openings to insert food producing units in a uniform habitat of trees. In a large area of open fields it might call for hedges, or fence-row plantings of shrubs and trees to add cover to a barren landscape.

Whatever the formula, it will vary with the nature of the countryside and the type of game you want to encourage. But you can be sure that giving wildlife an edge on numbers will require, first of all, giving them an edge on which to live.

Irish Coffee Indeed

A well known district justice was sitting in the lounge of a hotel on a hot day drinking a steaming cup of coffee.

A close friend arrived and said, "Why don't you drink something cooling? Have you ever tried chilled gin and tonic?"

"No," said the justice, "but I've tried a lot of fellows who have."

BEING 101.987 Acres, more or less.

FOURTH
There are less than fifty land owners within the proposed District. Each of the undersigned is the owner of title to land therein; and, they constitute a majority in number of the owners of title to such land and a majority in value of such land, as indicated by the County Tax Rolls of Aransas County, Texas.

FIFTH
The said District shall be organized for the purpose of: (1) The control, storing, preservation and distribution of its waters and flood waters, the water of its rivers and streams, for irrigation, power and all other useful purposes; (2) The reclamation and irrigation of its arid, semi-arid, and other lands needing irrigation; (3) The reclamation, drainage, conservation and development of its forests, waters and hydro-electric power; (4) The navigation of its coastal and inland waters; (5) The control, abatement and change of any shortage or harmful excess of water; (6) The protection, preservation and restoration of the purity and sanitary condition of water within the State; (7) The preservation and conservation of all natural resources of the State; (8) Make, construct, acquire and provide for all improvements, facilities, plants, equipment and appliances incident or helpful or necessary to the collection, transportation, processing, disposal and control of all domestic, industrial or communal wastes, whether fluids, solids or composites, and to gather, conduct, divert and control local storm water or other local harmful excess of water; (9) Use any mechanical or chemical means of processes incident, necessary or helpful to accomplish these purposes, and to conserve and promote the public health and welfare, and to protect, effect or restore the purity and sanitary condition of the State's water; (10) To accomplish such objects by any and all practicable means; and (11) For such other and further purposes and objects as may be permitted by Article XVI, Section 59 of the Constitution of Texas and the laws of the State of Texas now in force, or as hereafter changed or amended, or that may be hereafter adopted.

SIXTH
The general nature of the work to be done by and within the District at the present time is the construction of a waterworks system for domestic, industrial and commercial purposes, and the construction, acquisition, purchase, maintenance and operation of a sanitary sewer collection system and sewer disposal plant, all as more particularly described in the engineer's report filed simultaneously with the filing of this Petition, to which reference is here made for more detailed description; and the control, abatement and amendment of the harmful excess of waters and the reclamation and drainage of overflowed lands within the District, and the construction, installation, maintenance, purchase and operation of such additional land, facilities, systems, plants and enterprises as shall be consolant with the purposes for which the District is organized.

SEVENTH
A public necessity exists for the organization of such District, to provide for the purchase, construction, extension, improvement, maintenance and operation of such waterworks system and sanitary sewer system, and such drainage facilities, so as to promote and protect the purity and sanitary condition of the State's waters and public health and welfare of the community. The land and residents will be benefitted, there is a necessity and need therefor, and the District will further the public welfare.

EIGHTH
The proposed improvements are feasible, in that there is an ample supply of underground water and water from other sources available and the terrain of the area to be included with the proposed District is of such a nature that a waterworks system and sanitary sewer collection system and a sewage disposal plant may be purchased and constructed at a reasonable cost. Further, all the homes presently within the area and those to be constructed therein will be connected with such systems.

NINTH
A preliminary investigation has been made to determine the cost of the project, and it is now estimated by those filing this Petition, from available information, that the ultimate cost of the contemplated project will be approximately $1,000,000.00.

TENTH
The herein described area does not lie within the extra-territorial jurisdiction of any municipality or fresh water district, water control & improvement district or other character of district, within the provisions of the Water Code of Texas.

WHEREFORE, Petitioners pray that this Petition be filed as provided by law, that it be set down for hearing for a designated date in accordance with the provisions of the Texas Water Code, and other pertinent statutory provisions; that notice of such hearing be given as provided by law; that upon such hearing this Petition be granted; that the proposed municipal utility district be approved and organized; that five directors thereof be appointed to serve until their successors are duly elected and have qualified; and, that Petitioners have such other orders, acts and relief as may be necessary and proper to carry into effect the organization of said District and the purposes for which the district shall be organized.

RESPECTFULLY SUBMITTED this 9th day of March, 1973.

Efficiency
The average light bulb converts about 10 per cent of its energy into light, wasting the rest as heat; a firefly operates its lamp without heat at better than 95 per cent efficiency.

Know the Weather

Where does the moisture in the air come from? Where does the moisture of clouds come from?

Since the sun produces no moisture, and since the air around us continuously presents clouds, which bring us rain, naturally the question arises: "Where does the moisture come from?"

The answer is that the air, through evaporation, absorbs moisture from the earth and ocean at an amazing rate. Millions of tons of water are absorbed through evaporation every second!

Thus, when a rain brings us hundreds of thousands, or millions, of tons of water from the sky, this water has been picked up from the oceans, rivers, lakes and the earth itself--through evaporation.

Without evaporation, which makes possible the transfer of moisture, large areas of the earth would be useless, desert wastes.

Is lightning likely to approach nearer when you see it to the south, or in the southeast?

If you see lightning to the south or southeast, it's most likely to pass you by unharmed in most parts of the United States. In Florida or in some deep southern states --and even in other areas, occasionally--this rule will not hold true.

The dangerous lightning storms usually come from the west, or the northwest. If you spot lightning in this direction, it would be wise to plan on its arrival and take whatever precautions are wise. This is the prevailing direction of weather and lightning storms follow the normal drift of the atmosphere.

The lightning that strikes you, by the way, will never be seen. If you see a lightning bolt, or flash, the time for fear has already passed and you can relax. There is no need to think of the next one--you won't see it, either, if it hits you.

Fashion

Many of the shops are filled with fall clothes and sales on summer garments and shoes have been going on for weeks.

The girl who has a limited budget will be smart to watch for sales but she should know the value of things and not buy because they are listed at half price.

Nothing is a bargain if it cannot be made to fit or if the color is unbecoming. Nor is a twenty dollar shoe for ten dollars a buy if the last of the shoe is too narrow.

EDITORIAL

Little Cars

The news from Detroit is that the American car buyer has unexpectedly turned to smaller cars in recent months --probably because of the gasoline shortage--or alleged shortage.

It is now said U.S. makers face a glut of big automobiles at a time when so many dealers can't get enough compacts or small cars. Since the big cars must be passed on to dealers the glut in big cars is to be also a dealer problem--even at a time of near-record sales, in a good car-buying year.

The new turn in buyer preference became apparent too late to change production schedules. Next year's models are, in fact, the current preoccupation of manufacturers.

Since the turn in buyer preference has meant increased foreign-car sales, the new trend will have major significance. If it reduces gasoline consumption, that is, the rate of increase, this will help alleviate an expected future fuel shortage. If it means more smaller cars burning less fuel, creating less pollution on the nation's roads and highways, this will be a plus.

Fin Whales

The fourteen-nation International Whaling Commission recently overrode Japanese and Russian objections and voted to end the killing of fin whales within three years.

This is the second commission ban on whales; catching the blue whale, the largest mammal in existence, has been barred since 1966. The fin whale, now threatened with extinction, is the second largest.

Unfortunately, the commission has no enforcement authority, and the Russian and Japanese governments can formally serve notice with the commission they will not respect the ban; they are expected by many to allow their hunters to continue killing fin whales. Persuasion, moral pressure from the rest of the world, then, seems to be the last hope of the fin whale.

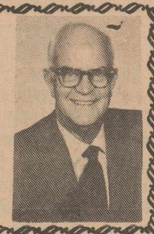
The Kinsey Report



Although I thoroughly enjoyed the movie, "Tom Sawyer," I derived even more satisfaction from my 92-year-old father's reaction to this classic film.

Dad doesn't go to many movies but said this was one he wanted to see. All during the showing he was enthralled with the recreation of the story he first read before the turn of the century and which he has re-read many times.

On the way home, he not only commented on how much he enjoyed the show but also started telling stories about things that happened when he was a boy and recounting experiences that in many cases were similar to the antics of Tom Sawyer.

Comment On Sports

DRUGS * * *

BY PETE FRITCHIE

WASHINGTON, D.C.--Daniel Hanley, a member of the Olympic Committee Medical Commission, spoke out recently in Washington on the use of drugs by athletes.

Concerning the Munich games in 1972, Hanley said most of the doping was in the weight-lifting and cycling events. But he said those who turn to drugs are misled.

The Bowdoin College physician said: "There is no place in sports for the use of stimulant drugs or steroids. There is no chemical answer to improve performance in sports.

"To the best of our knowledge, there is no way to supercharge a normal cell. This statement is not always acceptable in the sporting world, but it is nonetheless true--there is no known substance which consistently improves performance in a normal, healthy, well-trained, well-conditioned athlete."

Hanley said of thousands of tests made in the Munich games, twelve were positive.

MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS

MIND SURGERY

"Brain control" operations are a hardy perennial for publicity and controversy. The past year has seen one of these recurring flowerings of public attention and interest in mind surgery.

This upsurge of attention has revolved particularly around operations long known as lobotomies, or, more recently, as psychosurgery.

A flood of concern regarding Federal support of lobotomy and psychosurgical research resulted. The position of the National Institute of Mental Health, as the principal HEW agency in the mental health field, and of the HEW is clear.

Although HEW does not support research in psychosurgery, it does maintain a strict policy for the protection of human subjects involved in Federally supported research projects. In this connection, the distinction between psychosurgery and neurosurgery is important.

Psychosurgery is surgery performed for the purpose of altering behavior, while neurosurgery is surgery to correct or remove diseased brain tissue.

From neurosurgery patients who have suffered brain injury or other damage, we have been able to learn a great deal of what we now know about brain functioning and the effects of brain damage on behavior.

Although this research does not involve psychosurgery for human protection, it is nonetheless subject to rigorous scientific and administrative review by special committees at the research institutions.

Because HEW seeks to utilize the resources of modern science to fight illness and to expand medical knowledge, research on brain function and the restoration of brain function in the case of patients with brain damage is of the utmost importance.

For this reason, the HEW-NIMH program is committed to broadly based fundamental and clinical studies in brain function and behavior, of which surgical investigations are only a part and which comprise a wide range of biochemical, pyschological, pharmacological, and other fields.

Rehabilitation of Disabled Workers Has Tripled with Social Security Help

The number of severely disabled people who are rehabilitated and return to work every year has almost tripled since social security began paying for some of the cost, according to social security officials here.

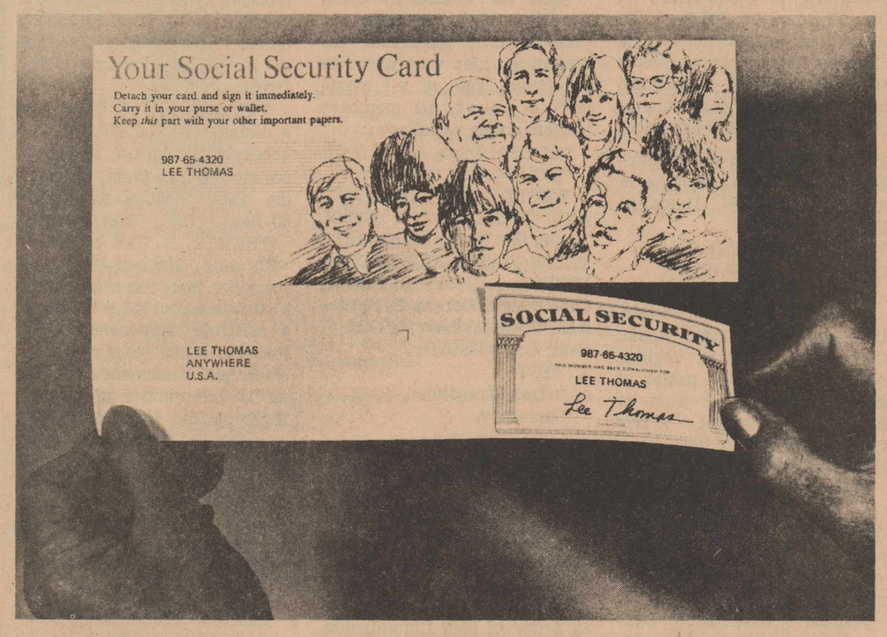
In fiscal 1966, before social security began helping to fund rehabilitation, 6,717 severely disabled workers were rehabilitated with regular State-Federal vocational rehabilitation funds. "Since that year," a social security spokesman said, "social security has helped pay the cost in selected cases and the number of rehabilitated workers has steadily increased — to 19,029 in 1971."

Eligible workers can get monthly disability payments from social security if they're severely disabled and it looks like they won't be able to work for a year or more. Selected workers receive training and other rehabilitation services from State and local agencies. If they are able to return to work, social security payments end after a trial work period.

Through fiscal 1971, social security spent $89 million to rehabilitate 35,000 disabled workers, the spokesman said. "But for every $1 spent for rehabilitation," he said, "social security has 'saved' $1.60 in benefits that would have been paid if the disabled workers had not been rehabilitated."

Rehabilitated workers also resume paying social security contributions on any earnings covered by social security after they return to work, the spokesman noted.

Social security pays over $3 billion a year in disability benefits to 3 million people—1½ million disabled workers and 1½ million members of their families.



TWO-PART SOCIAL SECURITY CARD—As issued, a social security card has two parts. Smaller part is detached (as shown) and carried in purse or wallet. "That's the part you show to an employer to be sure he correctly copies your name and social security number into his records," according to a social security spokesman here. "The other part, the stub, should be kept in a safe place as a permanent record of your social security number, which is yours alone and remains the same for life. You should apply for a card several weeks before you'll need your social security number," the spokesman said.

ABOUT YOUR HOME

By April Rhodes

When planning a workable schedule, set your kitchen timer to allot planned time for certain tasks.

When buying fruits and vegetables, a good rule to follow is to buy medium sizes to avoid immature or overmature items.

August is the month when insects, borers and worms do great damage to fruit trees and shrubbery--spraying is a must.

Continue to keep faded roses cut and you'll probably have roses until frost.

If there is space, a free-standing cabinet with a cutting-board top and cabinets underneath placed in the middle of the kitchen saves many steps.

Are your kitchen cabinets and drawers overcrowded? Eliminate any utensils not used and place those seldom used in a special area.
