NYA JOBS OPEN FOR 30 MITCHELL COUNTY YOUTHS

Austin, August 15.—A quota of 30 National Youth Administration School Aid jobs has been allocated for Mitchell County under the 1938-39 School Aid Program to provide part-time employment for young people in elementary and high schools who cannot otherwise continue in school, J. C. Kellam, State Youth Director, has announced.

R. D. Coles, County Superintendent, has been notified of the number of jobs allotted. He has been requested to organize an advisory committee of local school officials to recommend an equitable distribution of jobs within the county on a basis of youth need and availability of school facilities. Mr. Kellam said that as soon as tips is done, the NYA State Office will be in position to approve schools for participation.

School officials requiring information concerning the 1938-39 School Aid quotas should communicate with their county superintendent. They should furnish him with data which will assist the county committee in recommending the distribution of jobs, Mr. Kellam said.

As for the last three years, boys and girls in secondary schools between the ages of 16 and 24 will be enabled to earn a wage not exceeding $6 a month. They will be selected for employment by their own school officials, who will plan and supervise their work assignments. Students seeking part-time NYA School Aid jobs should apply to the superintendent or principal of the school they plan to attend, since the officials of schools approved by the NYA for participation in the program select the students for the jobs, Mr. Kellam said.

An Editorial

Governor elect W. Lee O'Daniel caused quite a stir here last week when he endorsed six candidates for state office in the run-off primary. Most of the people we have talked to were resentful and thought O'Daniel was taking too much authority or something in trying to tell the people how to vote in the second primary, especially since he had fought professional politicians so hard in his race for governor. At least three of the candidates he endorsed are considered professional politicians. Terrell has held public office for almost a half a century; Woodul has been in politics for some time; and Stevenson has been in the legislature for about 15 years.

The reaction of the people here seems to be that those candidates endorsed by O'Daniel will suffer. One staunch O'Daniel supporter stated that he is almost persuaded to vote for the Republican candidate for governor in the general election, after O'Daniel had presumed to tell the people how to vote in the runoff.

Sentiment of people all over the state is fairly well voiced in the following editorial taken from the Sweetwater Daily Reporter.

HOW THE MIGHTY HAS FALLEN

It is our thought that the most unhappy man in Texas today is W. Lee O'Daniel, the man who a few short hours before was enjoying the goodwill and favor of nearly every man, woman and child in the state.

It is sad to contemplate, how any man who had such an opportunity for service to his state and nation, could in one full swoop, sink to the level of the common professional politicians whom he just a few weeks before had so roundly condemned.

He let the plaudits of the multitude go to his head, and working on his ego, his newly-found politician friends found him like putty in their hands. In just two short weeks, they had him where he was ready to eat out of their hand and lick their fingers in gratitude for letting them make a fool out of him.

Poor W. Lee O'Daniel, he wasn't content to let good enough alone, but suddenly envisioned himself as a little dictator; who would not only be governor of the state, but would fill all of the other offices as well, including justice of the supreme court.

There is one happy thought in connection with the incident, the people of Texas have learned before it is not quite too late, the true character of the man whom they had virtually elected as governor of their state. Forewarned is fore armed and his every action as governor will now come under searching scrutiny in the court of public opinion.

New Dealers Win and Lose; Girdler Storms Strike Quiz

Politics

In Idaho, Republicans were jubilant. In Ohio, they were hopeful. In Arkansas, where they never had a chance, Republicans went about their workaday tasks and forgot politics.

His "purge" had partially failed because Iowa's Gillette, Missouri's Clark and Nevada's McCarran were sure of re-election. But with a few exceptions his wheelhorses were sure to be back in Washington next winter.

Judiciously timed, the National Emergency council's report on conditions in the South was released

SENATOR POPE Idaho had its own "purge."

Just as the President marched through Georgia to crack down on Sen. Walter F. George, the bitter-tongued New Deal foe whom he hopes will be defeated by Lawrence Camp. But Franklin Roosevelt had to march around South Carolina on his way back to Washington, because Sen. "Cotton Ed" Smith was almost certain to be renominated regardless of Presidential wishes.

Severest blow to New Dealism last week came when Sen. James Pope, in-and-out administration supporter, was defeated for renomination by Rep. D. Worth Clark, conservative Democrat. But Idaho's Republican primary vote was small, indicating that many a G. O. P. had voted the Democratic ticket to oust Pope.

In Arkansas, New Dealer Hattie W. Caraway was renominated to the senate and will be elected next November. In Ohio, Franklin Roosevelt's classmate at Harvard—Sen. Robert J. Buckley—was given the Democratic nomination over Gov. Martin L. Davey, arch foe of the C. I. O. Ohio's senatorial race will be interesting because Buckley will face Robert A. Taft, a former President's son, in the final election.

Labor

Republic Steel corporation's Tom W. Girdler has never been soft-spoken. Last week he stormed Washington and in one fell swoop denounced (1) John L. Lewis' C. I. O. for "violence and intimidation"; (2) the National Labor Relations board for "abridging freedom of speech," and (3) Sen. Robert M. LaFollette's civil liberties committee for keeping its work "one-sided."

Behind these blasts was last year's Little Steel strike. Ready for release was an N. L. R. B. decision finding Republic guilty of "unfair labor practices" in the Little Steel fiasco. Ready, too, were orders for Republic to reinstate 5,000 C. I. O. strikers, and to disestablish alleged company-dominated unions.

That Republic objected, is to state the case mildly. In its 136-page brief were 616 exceptions. What Little Steel most wanted was a chance to state its opinion of C. I. O., a chance the labor board seemed unwilling to offer. Thundered the report: "We contend the National Labor Relations act, as construed . . . in this connection, is unconstitutional as abridging freedom of speech."

to $49,167. The five-year total: $172,978.03. Said Son James in comment: "I got into places I never would have if I wasn't the son of the President. But son or no son, I got tossed out a lot, too."

Countered Alva Johnson: "His figures show that his net income would have been more than $60,000 last year except that he split it . . . to avoid higher tax brackets."

Aviation Last week at Floyd Bennett field ended the first non-stop Berlin to New York flight. Down from rain drenched skies dropped Germany's 24-passenger monoplane, Brandenburg, carrying a crew of four in record time of 24 hours, 57 minutes.

Because tiny Canton and Enderbury islands are perfect mid-Pacific stopping-off places for transoceanic planes, the U. S. asserted its claim last march by planting colonists on each. Great Britain protested, anxious to guard her thus-far undeveloped Pacific air rights. Last week came as novel a settlement as diplomats have ever seen. Canton and Enderbury will be owned and developed jointly as U. S.-British aviation bases.

Crime In the early 1930s, Chicago's gang warfare was so bad that many an out-of-town visitor wired ahead for police protection. But Scarface Al Capone finally went to Alcatraz and A Century of Progress exposition helped make the town decent. Last week peaceful Chicago wondered if it would again have gun trouble.

Checking their records, police found six underworld murders since Bookie Harry Minor was shot down June 29. Four others had been reported the previous 12 months. But while Al Capone and "Bugs" Moran fought a bootlegging war, Chicago's current massacre apparently has roots in labor warfare. Five victims have been union workers, two were aides of an alderman.

Foreign "The Japanese say Changkufeng hill has fallen into their hands. They lie. I, Peter Mikilovitch Klejm, lieutenant of infantry in the Soviet army, am now with my division in the trenches on the hill which is safe in our hands. I can see the Japanese trenches only 220 yards away. The yellow bandits are plastering our positions with machine gun fire."

Seated at their radios one night last week, the whole of Russia's Soviet Union heard machine gun and rifle fire along the distant Changkufeng front where Siberia, Manchukuo and Korea converge. Next day heavy Soviet artillery pounded the whole four-mile front.

MAXIM LITVINOFF He crossed swords and won.

Japan and Russia were continuing their five-year "secret war" which broke into international headlines July 11.

Throughout the day cannons boomed fiercely. All doubt about Soviet artillery accuracy was dissipated. Only one or two sighting shots preceded each direct hit. If they had held Changkufeng hill the night before, Japan's soldiers now retreated under the heaviest bombardment since the World war. Still more disturbing were reports that Russia was building new defenses on nearby Possiet bay where hostilities were sure to break out.

Next night the fight continued, but at 11 o'clock in the morning bugles sounded from either trench and ominous silence filled the shell-torn air. Then it was apparent the war was over.

Thus, temporarily at least, ended a skirmish of diplomatic wits in far away Moscow. Foreign Minister Maxim Litvinoff had crossed verbal swords with Ambassador Mamora Shigamitsu for two solid weeks, finally besting him. Terms of truce: (1) Firing would stop and troops would remain at their present fronts; (2) All other points at issue would be negotiated between the two nations.

Japan had sued first for peace, had surrendered to Maxim Litvinoff's insistence that the redemarcation commission carry two Japanese and two Russians, rather than three men each from Japan, Russia and Japan-dominated Manchukuo.

People

When Sweden's eligible Prince Bertil visited New York last month, he wined one night at a fashionable Manhattan night club with friends. One friend was blonde and buxom Lesley Hyde Ripley; lauded in next morning's papers for drinking milk instead of champagne. If Lesley Ripley drank milk to save money, her father spent much more than her savings on his daughter's debut last week.

A seldom-fallible sign of U. S. business trend is the amount invested by socialite fathers on their daughters' "coming out" parties. When Franklyn Hutton staged Barbara's debut, money ran free throughout the U. S. Depression debutantes fared not so well. But when Henry B. H. Ripley spent at least $50,000 to launch Lesley in the social swim, it appeared that Recession must surely be over.

One thousand guests bespotted themselves in a $25,000 ballroom added to the Ripley mansion. They washed down supper and breakfast with champagne for a total outlay of $10,000. They danced, and the pipers earned $7,500. Decorations nicked the family purse for $5,000. But unlike many such parties, the Ripley Roman Holiday was bought and paid for within 24 hours.

Samuel Insull, once monarch of a $4,000,000 utilities empire, died in a Paris subway station July 17, clutching a five-cent commutation ticket. Last week his will was filed in Chicago's probate court. Samuel Insull's estate: "Not in excess of $1,000."

Business

In 1934, NRA Administrator Hugh Johnson organized a consumer goods industries committee to make periodic forecasts on U. S. trade winds. Last week came its most recent report. Trade winds are blowing well, said 20 major executives, will blow even better in the autumn. Excerpts from typical replies:

From Lammont duPont: "Since July 1 we have operated 5 per cent above standard. Business has improved about 15 per cent."

From General Foods' Clarence Francis: "We believe the last half of the year—particularly the last quarter—will give a fairly good account of itself."

Miscellany

A fortnight had passed since Howland Spencer sold to Father Divine his 500-acre estate across the Hudson from Neighbor Franklin Roosevelt. But not until last week did Father Divine's personal army of cherubims and seraphims make a tour of inspection. Led by the man they call "God," 2,500 black and white cultists piled up the river from Harlem in a sidewheel excursion boat, stopping first at a newly acquired "Heaven" near Milton, N. Y.

Over a table piled high with cold chicken and steaming corn, Harlem's self-appointed messiah told his rapt audience: "As his close neighbors we are not going to disgrace the President. We aim to grace him by our presence. Peace, everybody."

"Peace!" answered a thousand throats. Next day, as Father Divine made his personal inspection at Crum Elbow, Eleanor Roosevelt hopped in her car across the river, headed for nearby Poughkeepsie. If inquiring reporters thought she would talk about her new neighbors, the First Lady outfoxed them. "Father Divine?" she parried. "What estate? Oh, you mean that place across the river that's been sold?"

June 30 found the average U. S. citizen with $49.67 in his pocket. By July 31, said the U. S. treasury department last week, the figure had dropped to $49.57. Throughout America John Public checked his bank account, tried to figure where he had lost 10 cents in 31 days.

One night last week handsome, wealthy Mr. and Mrs. William Townsend Adlee retired at their Monroe, N. Y., estate. Sometime later a handyman smelled smoke. Down from a second-story window jumped Nurse Lillian Henyon with the Adlees' 21-month-old infant. As firemen watched, helpless, the flaming house collapsed and the baby became an orphan.

Coffee for Ginger Cookies.—Try mixing ginger cookies with cold coffee instead of water.

Napkins From Tablecloths.—When tablecloths wear thin in the center, cut up the outside into 12 or 16-inch squares and hemstitch them. These make napkins which will wear for some time.

Beautifuling Wash Stand.—Rubberized cretonne if pasted around an unsightly wash stand will cover ugly plumbing and make a bathroom attractive.

When Sugar Gets Lumpy.—When sugar gets hard and lumpy, put it in the refrigerator for two or three days and you will find it will become quite soft again.

Onion Absorbs Paint Odor.—If an onion is cut in halves and placed in a room that has been newly painted it will absorb the odor of paint in a few hours.

Don't Soak Brushes.—If clothes and hair brushes become very dirty wash with water in which a little borax has been mixed. Dip brushes into water and wash with another brush covered with a light coating of soap. Never soak in water.

Shoe Health.—If your brown shoes are looking a bit scuffed, give them a dose of castor oil, rubbing it well into the leather and then polishing in the usual way with shoe polish. Castor oil gives brown shoes their color back again, and preserves the leather, too.

Deaf Musicians

Several schools for the deaf have full-fledged military bands, playing standard instruments. . . . The sense of touch is closely related to the sense of hearing. Therefore, with the aid of a highly developed sense of touch, the deaf may learn to distinguish time, intensity, pitch and even melody. . . . By careful training deaf musicians may learn to detect errors in their own playing. . . . Easiest instrument for them is the drum, which, of course, is a vibration instrument.

"Morgan Norris killed Buck Conrad and freed Lou."
"Four besides himself. Others will be here after a while."
He flung another question at her, his voice harsh and swift. Nothing in manner or speech betrayed the swift awareness of her, passionate and fierce, that sent a heat running through his strong body.

"Ruth cried, in explanation, 'We heard firing as we came into town.'
Jeff flung out a hand, to push the memory from him. 'They . . . killed Hank Ransom, my friend, who was hiding me.'
'How did you escape?' she murmured.

Nationally Known Food Authority Describes Its Place in the Diet
By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

ONE of the most significant contributions of modern nutritional science was the discovery of the importance of the protective foods—milk, eggs, fresh fruits and vegetables.
These foods abound in the minerals and vitamins that help to insure normal growth and health, and safeguard us against the deficiency diseases.

C. Houston Goudiss

In this group, milk and dairy products made from it assume a commanding position because milk is the best and most practical source of calcium and vitamins A and G.
These substances should be consumed in much greater proportions than at present if we are to increase health and efficiency and improve our chances for longevity.

The first rule in providing adequate amounts of the protective foods is to allow daily a quart of milk for every child and at least a pint for each adult.
This amount of milk need not always be consumed as a beverage, however. It may be used in cooked dishes or eaten in the form of cheese and ice cream.

Composition of Ice Cream

Ice cream is often regarded as a confection, but it deserves to be classed among our most nutritious foods.
It is composed of varying proportions of cream, milk, sugar, flavoring and frequently a binder or stabilizer such as gelatin.
The composition varies somewhat between the home-made and the commercial product, and the commercial product differs in various states.
That is because standards governing the butter fat content differ widely so that the requirement ranges from 8 to 14 per cent.
Most large commercial companies produce an ice cream with about 12 per cent fat.

Guard Against Contamination

Some states require the pasteurization of the milk or cream used in manufacturing ice cream; others stipulate that the entire mix must be pasteurized before freezing.
These measures are desirable, as ice cream requires the same scrupulous care that should be given to milk and cream.
Because of the possibilities for contamination, several precautions should be observed in buying ice cream.
Choose cream manufactured by a reputable concern.
Be sure to buy from a dealer who keeps it well frozen, for ice cream that has been melted and refrozen again may be dangerous, owing to the opportunity for the multiplication of bacteria while it was melted.
See to it, also, that the dealer uses sanitary methods in dispensing.

Home-Made Ice Cream

An easy way to make certain of the purity of the ice cream you serve is to make this delicious dessert at home.
Motor-driven freezers are available, as well as those that are manually operated.
And the homemaker with an automatic refrigerator finds it easier to make ice cream than to prepare many less interesting and nutritious desserts.

Ice cream powders which simplify the preparation of home-made ice cream, can be obtained unflavored, or in a variety of flavors, including lemon and maple, in addition to the popular vanilla, chocolate and strawberry.
The ice cream powders may be used with milk or a combination of milk and cream to produce a healthful dessert.

Many people believe that it is injurious to follow ice cream with hot coffee.
But it has been demonstrated that just the opposite is true.
The coffee raises the temperature of the food in the stomach and thus modifies the cooling effect of the ice cream.
Another common question concerns the effect of cake or pie a la mode.
Experiments indicate that eating ice cream with cake or pie produces a more satisfactory gastric juice than when either of these foods is eaten alone.
One must take into consideration, however, that cake or pie a la mode is a rich combination and plan the remainder of the meal accordingly.

Use More Ice Cream

It has been estimated that five billion pounds of milk are used each year in the production of commercial ice cream, which provides about three gallons of ice cream per capita.
The amounts of ice cream made at home will raise this figure somewhat.
But the amount consumed may well be further increased, because when properly made from pure ingredients, ice cream deserves to rank with our other dairy products among our most wholesome and nourishing foods.

Chemical Industry Is Putting Luster in Textiles by Using Lobster Shells

Gourmets who have been troubled about what to do with empty lobster shells will be pleased to know that the chemical industry is finding uses for the material.
The horny armor of lobsters and other crustaceans has been found to be a starting material for the manufacture of chemicals which give a soft, lustrous finish to textiles, reports a writer in the Chicago Tribune.
The material which makes up the protective coatings of crustaceans and insects is known as chitin.
It differs profoundly from the hard materials used in the skeletons or armor of other forms of animal life.
The supporting matter of sponges is calcium silicate.
The shells of oysters, clams, and snails are built of calcium carbonate, or limestone.
The bones of vertebrates consist of calcium phosphate.
Each of these three compounds is mineral in nature.
The chitin found in crustaceans, on the other hand, is an organic substance and one that bears little chemical resemblance to any other component of living matter.
Perhaps its nearest chemical relation is the cellulose of plants.
Cellulose is a complex combination of a great number of sugar molecules.
When subjected to the prolonged destructive action of dilute acids it is eventually broken down into sugar.
Chitin is an analogous complex, not of sugar, but of a substance called acetyl glucosamine.
This last substance is as complicated as its name.
It is a compound of acetic acid and glucosamine.
The latter, the essential building stone of the chitin molecule, is in turn a compound of sugar and ammonia.
Glucosamine possesses most of the properties of the sugars.
In addition it has the alkaline action of ammonia.

More than twenty years ago when we landed in this West Texas country we heard this remark: "This country will promise more and produce less, or promise less and produce more than any country on earth." We have seen it work both ways several times.

Only a week or two ago the cotton crop here held forth great promise for a bumper yield; now the boll worms and leaf worms have hit it and prospects are not so bright. The worm may not do as much damage as it looks now like they might, and again they may clean up almost the entire crop. It could happen either way.

It is possible that the worms may leave after a few days and the cotton go ahead and make a good yield, there is plenty of time for it to do that.

Most cotton in this territory can spare quite a lot of forms to the worms and still have more than an average crop left. Early cotton especially has an abundance of forms, quite a lot of which is in the form of grown or nearly grown bolls. The later cotton, however, will be hard hit by boll worms.

Several years ago this editor, along with most editors in this country, preached the doctrine of "The cow, the sow, and the hen." We saw the time when most farms had milch cows, brood sows, and a flock of hens that were helping them to make a living. We are all familiar with the results—an overproduction of hogs and the price of butterfat at a low ebb. The hen, however, has held her own and in fact has produced a great part of the living for many farmers the past few years.

Because the price of hogs went almost to nothing, the price of butterfat is low, and eggs and chickens are cheap has not altered our opinion. We still believe the cow, the sow, and the hen has a place on every farm in this territory. We do not mean that every farmer should go into dairy farming, hog raising and chicken raising on a big scale, but we do mean that if each farmer had two to six good milch cows, two

Push the Pullets and Cull the Drone

Texas Breeder-Feeder Association By T. C. Richardson, Secretary

"A hen does not stop laying because she is molting, but molts because she has already stopped laying," says a poultry authority. Hens which begin molting in June, July or August brand themselves as short-season layers and if they have not already been culled out, had best be disposed of before the fall laying season. The feed they would eat can be better used by the pullets and the hens which will molt later.

If these hen drones are not already fat it will take only a few days in the coop on a rich fattening ration to put them in condition to can for family use, or for market. It is mistaken economy to take a poor hen to market, or to put in a can one too thin to kill for Sunday dinner. City dealers know better than to offer their trade hens that are not fat. If they must buy them poor, they feed them up before offering them for sale, and they therefore buy thin hens with this extra expense in view. The farmer loses the sale of the few pounds of grain it would take to fatten them and pays the market man to finish the job.

Fall and winter egg production when the price is highest, comes from well developed pullets and late-molting hens. Most people prefer eggs from mature hens for early spring hatching, and those which have kept laying throughout the summer go into a late but quick molt, and are likely to furnish the earliest hatching eggs. The same habit indicates a high annual egg production, which makes them the most desirable for producing next year's pullets.

Chickens, like people, must have a variety of food to keep healthy and vigorous. No one kind of grain will give them what they need, and while the ration should be built around the grains raised on the farm, as a matter of economical production, it is also poor economy to deprive either growing pullets or good brood sows, and a flock of 100 laying hens he would not have to worry so much when the worms hit his cotton. He would not have to depend upon cotton alone for a living.

Each farm, too, should have a good brood mare or two and raise horse and mule colts. In this issue of our paper we have an article from A. and M. College showing that horses and mules are becoming scarce in the United States. Raising of horses and mules should prove profitable for several years to come.

Since the worms have hit the cotton, and the price of the staple has gone down, it seems to us that the sale of stock in the proposed cheese factory should be doubled quickly. The cheese factory is one of the things that is going to help this community get out of the cotton rut.

NOBODY'S BUSINESS

BY JULIAN CAPERS JR.

Austin—Striving desperately to gauge the effect of W. Lee O'Daniel's precedent shattering action in endorsing a slate of six candidates for State offices in the August runoff primary, political headquarters and political managers here this week-end presented a scene of indescribable confusion.

The first flush of joyful enthusiasm which pervaded the camps of the O'Daniel blessed candidates cooled rapidly, as hasty surveys in every section of the State brought in a wide variety of reports on the situation.

The first axiom in the lexicon of the politician is "Don't mess with the other guy's race." O'Daniel wiped that admonition off the slate as calmly as he disregarded all the rules of campaigning in the first primary, and called for his over half million supporters to elect Walter Woodul, Judge C. V. Terrell, Coke Stevenson, Bascom Giles, and Judges Richard Critz and Harry Graves. He said he needed these men to assure the "business administration" that the voters asked for. For a few hours, the blessed can-laying hens of other grains and mixed mashes to supplement the corn or grain sorghums which nearly every Southwestern farm grows. Wheat is the best single grain for poultry, but it, too, must be supplemented by animal or vegetable proteins, which are best supplied by skim milk or scientifically compounded mash feeds. The label on mixed feed tells its composition.

However well the skilled poultryman get along with a flock under close confinement, his intensive methods are not adapted to farm poultry production. Sunshine and green feed are the natural vitamin-carrying elements, and if the farm flock is given free access to them, while observing the same sanitary precautions of the poultry specialist, there is little doubt that the farm flock will be more resistant to disease, more productive in proportion to the feed used, and therefore more profitable per hen than the "egg factory" type of operation.

The Southwest is fortunate in that green feed may be grown for use in every month in the year, thus avoiding much of the winter expense for sprouted grains; and its many sunny days throughout the cold season reduces the need for cod liver oil in the ration. At this season preparations for winter greens are in order. If alfalfa or sweet clover is not already growing it can be seeded as late as the first of September; mustard or turnips sown now will give quick greens and fill in the gap until wheat, oats or barley are ready. Italian rye grass is making a good showing in most of the Southwest for winter pasture, and may be as useful in the poultry run as in the field.

The land for fall and winter greens must be ready for the seed when the time comes. If it is not ready now it is none too soon to begin preparing the kind of seed bed suited to the crop which is to be sown. A good seed bed is half the job.

didates and their workers seemed to think their races were "in the bag." Then the squawks began filtering in. Estimates of O'Daniel's action ranged all the way from a "courageous non-political act" to "a double-cross." Supporters of Gerald Mann and Jerry Sadler, opponents of Woodul and Terrell, were loudest in their protests. It became very obvious, very quickly, that O'Daniel would not lead all of his half million supporters into the camps of the endorsed group.

Allred's Hand Seen

O'Daniel spent a week in Galveston as the guest of Maco Stewart, insurance executive and political power on the island. Stewart is closely allied with Tom Holbrook, lame-duck State senator from Galveston. Then the governor-elect visited in Austin with Gov. Allred. Holbrook is reported here to have drafted the endorsements which O'Daniel made in his now famous radio talk. Allred is the enthusiastic backer of some of the endorsed candidates, including Woodul, Terrell, Giles, and the two judges. Political circles here buzzed with the report that Allred and Stewart (the latter acting thru Holbrook) were responsible. The story that the endorsements were forthcoming was freely told in Austin hotel corridors two days before the speech, and Holbrook privately told the story to his friends, soon after the Mansion conference with O'Daniel and Allred.

Candidates Still Wonder

Both the endorsed candidates and those left on the doorstep were wondering what the effect will be. Concensus of belief was that O'Daniel would recruit some votes for the blessed slate, but there was much doubt expressed here as to whether he would be able to carry the whole ticket. But O'Daniel has upset the established rules of political campaigning so consistently and with such success that few observers here were willing to make any forecast as to the outcome of anything he has done. At the week-end O'Daniel was reported here to have admitted protests he had received out numbered commendatory messages about two to one. Politicians here universally agreed the endorsement will bring out a huge vote in the runoff primary, when a light vote had been anticipated previously.

Flood Probe Drags

A boom for Sen. Albert Stone, of Brenham, to make the race for congress two years hence against Lyndon Johnson, was one political development in the wake of the lower Colorado river flood this week. Stone was non-committal, and two years is a long time for the voters to stay mad, even if they were washed out by floods.

The Senate investigating committee, which is delving into charges that improper operation of Buchanan Lake aggravated the June flood, halted its inquiry after two days of testimony, in which a direct conflict of engineering opinion developed—the Colorado River authority engineers contending there was no improper operation, and Dean Taylor of Texas University engineering school taking the opposite view. The probe is to resume when engineering data said to be needed to determine the facts about the flood, is assembled this week. Meanwhile, the Department of the Interior, which sent an investigator to the scene, made public his report, exonerating the Authority management, and caustically charging that a "flood of propaganda" had been stirred up among the washed-out valley farmers by persons opposed to the Federal power development program.

Austin Notes

The University of Texas will open its long session next month without a permanent president, members of the Board of Regents said after a meeting here this week. Dr. J. W. Calhoun, controller, is acting president.

The long-standing political feud between Gov. Allred and Rep. Martin Dies broke out when Dies announced in Washington that he will appear before the Senate judiciary committee in January and oppose confirmation of Allred as Federal Judge for South Texas. The bitterness between Allred and Dies flared up two years ago when Clyde Smith ran against Dies for Congress, and Dies claimed Smith, assistant Secretary of State during Allred's first administration, was put into the race against him by the Governor. Inasmuch as the Allred appointment was arranged by Senators Morris Sheppard, and Tom Connally, and Vice President John Garner, Dies' protest—if he goes through with it—isn't expected to carry much weight. Capitol employes were wondering after the O'Daniel endorsements, if the unreserved commitments made by the endorsed group might mean that they will be forced to let O'Daniel dictate the patronage in these four extensive State departments, if the endorsed slate wins. The Attorney General, Railroad Commission, and Land Office control a good many hundred fat jobs, and the Lieutenant Governor also has some patronage. Should O'Daniel seek to curtail employes to save expense, many employes feel, the endorsed candidates, if they are elected, might have to stand for substantial reduction of personnel in these departments. O'Daniel's announcement that he will seek to speed up court procedure was another demonstration of either courage or ignorance. No question ever comes before the Legislature that causes more strife. Most of the solons are lawyers, and each has a different idea about reforming court procedure. Usually bitter debate rages for weeks, and then the reform bills die in committee.

CAUSE OF COTTON ROOT ROT BEING INVESTITGATED

Austin, Texas, August 15.—Various phases of cotton-root rot is the subject of an investigation now in progress at the University of Texas. It promises to result in important discoveries in regard to that pest which causes heavy losses every year to cotton growers, according to information obtained in regard to the research that is being made. This work is being carried on under the direction of Dr. G. W. Goldsmith, professor of botany at the University.

He is being assisted by Dr. Leta M. Henderson of Bisbee, Ariz., and several student assistants, including R. B. Mitchell of the United States Department of Agriculture who is studying bacteria, fungi, and soil, and is working toward his doctor of philosophy degree. Other assistants include Miss Pauline Young of Austin who teaches science in the schools at Port Arthur and will resume teaching duties in the fall; Elizabeth Moore, Aline Nemir, and John M. Carpenter of Austin; Ernest Pechacek of Platonis; Evelyn Koemel of West Sam Evans of Waco; Fred Spencer of Temple.

Re-elect Judge RICHARD CRITZ for a FIRST FULL TERM as Associate Justice SUPREME COURT of TEXAS

THE HIGH QUALITY and great amount of Judge Critz's work on the Supreme Court while serving an unexpired term is attested by the fact that he is the choice of nearly all the Judges and Lawyers of Texas. Judge Critz came from the ranks of the people. As a boy he worked on a farm for wages, and all that he has been attained in spite of poverty and hardship and as a result of his own effort. Judge Critz was a country lawyer in Taylor, Texas, and never represented any large corporations or vested interests.

HORSES AND MULES DECREASED IN TEXAS

College Station—Within the past 8 years the number of horses and mules on Texas farms has decreased by 379,000, while the decrease in the United States as a whole for the past 10 years is in excess of 10 million.

Jack Shelton, vice-director and state agent of the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service, sees in these figures a partial answer to the puzzle of declining farm markets.

"A recent U. S. D. A. Bulletin, entitled 'The Farm Horse', shows that the farm work stock will consume an average of 125½ bushels of oats or 71 7-10 bushels of corn per head in the course of a year. That means that a market equal to more than 47 million bushels of oats or over 27 million bushels of corn per year has been lost in Texas," he pointed out.

"For the United States as a whole, the annual loss amounts to a million and a quarter bushels of oats or 715 million bushels of corn. Too, 20 years ago hay was the third largest U. S. crop where today it is in twenty-sixth place."

Shelton emphasized that he was not decrying the use of power machinery or questioning its efficiency in many operations, but insisted that there exists a demand for horse and mule colts that is far greater than the supply.

"Texas farmers are missing an additional and profitable source of income in this connection, and at the same time are losing a chance, however indirect, to increase the volume of the market for grain produced on their farms," he said. "It is gratifying to note that production of horses and mules in Texas is on the upswing."

AAA CERTIFICATES BEING LIQUIDATED

College Station—Holders of C-5-1 certificates, known as "brown" certificates and "participation trust certificates of the cotton producer's pool", may now turn them in as the final liquidation of the pool will soon be made, according to George Slaughter, chairman of the Texas Agricultural Conservation Committee.

The liquidation of this pool completes the activities of the first AAA program, that of 1933. The original holders of the certificates were among the farmers who elected to take cotton options in the producer's pool as part payment for removal of cotton from production.

These producers received an advance of 4 cents per pound and later were given an opportunity to sell out to the pool or to receive a second advance of 2 cents per pound. Those who chose the second advance surrendered their original certificates and received those designated as C-5-1, which entitled them to share in the proceeds of the sale of the pool cotton after deduction of the original option price of 6 cents per pound, the two advances, and other expenses of the pool.

The pool will be liquidated at the rate of $1 per bale to the original holders of the certificates and to transferee holders on record on or before May 1, 1937. Holders to whom certificates were transferred after May 1, 1937, will receive the purchase price plus 4 percent interest, all not to exceed $1 a bale.

Certificates to be tendered for sale to the pool should be attached to the proper forms, which will be furnished by the secretary of the county AAA association, and mailed to D. F. Mallette, Room 206, Old Post Office Building, Washington, D. C., before December 31, 1938.

TEXAS LICENSE PLATES FOR 1939 PURPLE AND GOLD

The state highway commission has chosen purple and gold colors for 1939 passenger automobile license plates.

Members said a better quality of paint would be used on next year's licenses and edges would be crimped or turned to reduce the hazard of cutting the hand and also to strengthen the plates.

Tags for 1939 commercial trucks will have black numerals on a green background while farm trucks will have white numerals on a black background. Miscellaneous series, including tractor-trailer, dealer, motor bus, motorcycle and sidecar plates will have black numerals on yellow background.

WHICH SEX OF THE MOSQUITO BITES?

The male mosquito does not bite. Only in the female is the proboscis fitted for biting and blood-sucking. The mouth parts of the male are rudimentary and he could not bite no matter how hard he might try. This, at any rate, is true of all the common mosquitos. Whether blood-sucking is common to both sexes in any rare species is a disputed question. "So far as we know," says the U. S. Bureau of Entomology, "there is no species of mosquito of which the male sucks blood."

"On the farm and ranch depend all forms of prosperity," said Judge Richard Critz as he made the principal speech at the opening-day program of the annual Blanco County Fair and Rodeo in Johnson City last week. Judge Critz, candidate for re-election to a first full term as associate justice of the Supreme Court, earned his first dollar as a Hill County farm hand. He now has his investments in farms rather than in corporations, he said. An estimated 8,000 persons converged on Johnson City for the annual fair there.

Jerry Sadler, Longview, candidate in the run-off for State Railroad Commissioner, has something besides a popular program and a strong hand to commend him to the voters. He has a hearty handshake. Sadler believes he has shaken hands with more citizens than any other Texas candidate this year. He is making a vigorous run-off drive, speaking all over Texas. Sadler, 30, is the youngest candidate for a State office. He is a former oil field worker and is a practicing attorney, and is making his first race for public office.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D. Dean of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for August 21

HANNAH: GODLY MOTHERHOOD

LESSON TEXT—1 Samuel 1:9-18; 2:1-5. GOLDEN TEXT—Her children arise up, and call her blessed. Proverbs 31:23.

"Godly Motherhood" — All the power and grace of the infinite God working in and through the most tender and at the same time most potent human relationship—motherhood! There indeed is the solution of many of our national and social problems. For we agree with the poet that man, who regards himself as being mighty, ruling over land and sea, must defer to a mightier power.

"For the hand that rocks the cradle is the hand that rules the world." Hannah was the mother of Samuel, who became one of Israel's outstanding leaders—a priest, a prophet, and "the maker of kings." God needed a great man, so He chose for him a great mother.

Our study for today will be topical rather than textual and extended to related portions in chapters 1 and 2. We consider Hannah as a mother who was spiritual and sacrificial, but at the same time practical in her daily life and service.

I. Spiritual.

Many are the tributes offered to mothers, but none has deeper significance than the testimony of a boy or girl that their mother has led them both by precept and example to have faith in God. Though other advantages may be beyond the reach even of the most self-denying mother, this most important of all benefits she may bring her children, but only if she herself is an earnest and faithful follower of the Lord.

1. Hannah trusted God in her hour of trial and sorrow (1:10). Although her husband was a man of good qualities, he had followed the custom of his times and taken a second wife. Hannah, childless in the presence of Peninnah and her children, was in deep sorrow. But she knew where to take her burdens; she brought them to the Lord in prayer.

2. She prayed—ferently and effectually (1:17, 18, compare James 5:16b). Mother's prayers have followed many a wayward boy and girl and brought them back to God. When every other influence for good had been swept aside, they have been unable to forget mother's prayers. One wonders what will happen to boys and girls who go out to face a wicked and bewildering world, with the memory of a prayerless, worldly mother to blight rather than to bless them.

3. She recognized children as a gift of God (1:11). And surely they are. Christian men and women should protest by both word and deed against the vicious modern theory that children are a sort of biological accident to be avoided.

II. Sacrificial.

The most precious possession a woman can have is a child of her own. It was, then, the deepest and finest sacrifice of a noble mother-heart when she

1. Dedicated her boy to God, even before his birth (1:11). Yet this act so fine and commendable was in reality only an intelligent recognition of the fact that children are a gift of God. Your children and mine belong to God. Let us not stand in His way (or their way) as He graciously leads them out into service for Him.

2. She kept her promise (1:24-28). Many parents have solemnly dedicated their children to God before their birth, and then later the prospect of separation from them has been too much for the parents, and the promise to God has been thrust aside. The writer has on many occasions seen young men and women weep with broken-hearted dismay because a mother or father has forbidden them to go to China, Africa, or elsewhere at God's call. Mother, have you kept your promise to God regarding your boy, your girl?

III. Practical.

Hannah not only promised her boy to God; she made the completion of that promise certain.

1. By guiding her boy in the right way (1:24). As a matter of fact, she went with him to the temple. A mother who "sends" her boy to Sunday school or church will never help him like the mother of whom it may be said "she brought him unto the house of the Lord."

2. By providing for her boy (2:18, 19). There is no more tender and meaningful story in all literature than that of Hannah bringing her boy his "little coat." It is still true that the best "support" a missionary of the Cross can have is a home that "stands by."

The story is told of a missionary candidate who had no "board" back of her but the "washboard" of a godly mother, and who made a valiant and useful servant in the foreign field. Such an arrangement may not be the most desirable and it really should not be necessary if God's people would give, but it has its glorious advantages.

Such a mother as Hannah would have such a son as Samuel of whom it is said that he "was in favour both with the Lord, and also with men" (2:26).

AT EVENING TIME

By Madeline A. Chaffee
© McClure Newspaper Syndicate, WNU Service.

The "Briny Toyshop" was closed for the day. Its tiny show window still displayed an enticing array of delightful playthings...

The most persistent youth in the small sea-faring village rattled the door, but in vain. Miss Matilda Bell did not even hear.

There seemed more than ordinary magic in the glowing spell cast by the sun at this close of day. The old-fashioned garden sloping to the rocky shore seemed a fairy place.

Miss Matilda was so much a part of her surroundings that she had ceased to notice them in detail. Her mind had flown back nearly 50 years, to the time when she had not the faintest thought of ever being a little, elderly, sweet-faced lady sitting by herself in the twilight.

tures blotted out the garden, the rocks, the sea itself, and Miss Matilda felt herself in the arms of her young lover, so tender, so dear.

And he had sailed away, full of hope and happy anticipations of the day when he should return to make her his wife. Miss Matilda's eyes blurred. That day had never come.

Years had taken away that first tragic grief, but Miss Matilda had loved too deeply to forget. How she wished she had been with him! Sometimes he seemed to speak to her in the voice of the sea, and she would say that she was coming—some day soon, very soon—coming to be with him.

On the rocks below Miss Matilda's cottage two figures were silhouetted against the dull red sky. "But, dear girl!"—the man's voice was tender, serious—"you don't know what the life is. I do—and I wouldn't condemn any woman to it, least of all—you. It will be a torture without you—but it wouldn't be fair to take you."

The girl's straight, sweet gaze held his steadily. "But, Tom, don't you see I want to go? It may be years before you come back. Our marriage—that-is-to-be is going to be

Wise and Otherwise

"A child must have a chance to express its ideas," says a psychologist. Yes, but not on plain wallpaper!

"Girls were quicker in their movements eighty years ago," says a writer. They got a bustle on then.

"And they call America the land of free speech," said the disgruntled Scot when the telephone operator told him to put a nickel in the box.

The best husbands are those who marry young. If a man waits till he has money it hurts more to pay it out.

true partnership. Tommy boy, and it must begin by my going to South America with you now. I can face anything—with you!"

The two silhouettes suddenly converged into one as Tom said huskily:

"Bless you, sweetheart, you're coming with me. We'll play the game of life squarely—together."

And up in the little dusky window above the garden, with the sea still crooning a low love song, Miss Matilda had come into her own.

See by Mirrors

HOW TO SEW

by Ruth Wyeth Spears

Trim kitchen windows with oilcloth shelf edging.

WE ARE indebted to one of the readers of this column for this idea. She was so enthusiastic about the book, SEWING, for the Home Decorator, offered with these articles that she wrote a nice letter of appreciation and also described this clever idea of her own for making her kitchen gay.

All of us know how often kitchen curtains must be laundered. Yet, we like interesting windows in this room as well as any other. Well, here is the answer with the minimum of work.

The curtains themselves are as easy to wash and iron as a dish towel—no frills, just hems. But don't make them too skimpy. A full width of 35-inch-wide material is not too wide. Cut away the selvage at the front edge and hem it with a 1-inch hem. Use a 2-inch hem at the bottom. This gives the curtains body so they will have smart crisp lines. The casing at the top should be just wide enough for the curtain rod. And don't forget to allow for shrinkage if the material is not pre-shrunk.

If figured material is used, choose colors that will harmonize with the shelf edging along the top of the window and the tie-backs as shown in the sketch. The thumb tacks used for the shelf edging may also add color interest.

NOTE: Every Homemaker should have a copy of Mrs. Spears' book, SEWING, for the Home Decorator. Forty-eight pages of directions for making slip-covers and curtains; dressing tables; lampshades and many other useful articles for the home. Price 25 cents postpaid (coin preferred). Ask for Book 1, and address Mrs. Spears, 210 S. Desplains St., Chicago, Ill.

Never drive fast over a road you don't know like a book.

Learn what you can expect of your car.

How Women in Their 40's Can Attract Men

Here's good advice for a woman during her change (usually from 38 to 42), who fears she'll lose her appeal to men, who worries about hot flashes, loss of pep, dizzy spells, upset nerves and moody spells.

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them!

Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure.

When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out.

Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance.

The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.
