Joseph William Clifton Tooley, a little man with big ideas and a big heart, is unable to say that he has an old home town so he calls Pampa, his town. "It's the only town I could ever call my home," Joe says.

"My father was a Methodist circuit rider and he kept me on the move during my youth," was Joe's comment about his early life, consequently he has worked for the

Troops Guard Accused In Negro Death

GREENWOOD, Miss.—UP—Battle-equipped troops guarded two accused "wolf whistle" slayers at the county jail Monday against a purported threat of lynching for the death of a 14-year-old Negro boy.

Sheriff George Smith of LeFlore county said he requested a local battalion of the Mississippi National Guard mobilized for sentry duty after receiving two anonymous threats of an attempt to "get the suspects."

While 30 Guardsmen armed with M-1 rifles and riot guns patrolled the jail District Attorney Gerald Chatham called a conference of all authorities involved to review the case against the two men.

The suspects, half-brothers Roy Bryant and J. W. Milam, admitted kidnaping the boy, Emmett Till, because he "insulted" Bryant's attractive young wife with a wolf whistle, but claimed they released him unharmed.

After they were charged with the kidnaping, a body, believed that of Till, was found in a river in adjacent Tallahatchie county. A grand jury was scheduled to meet at Sumner to consider murder charges.

But Sheriff H. C. Strider of Tallahatchie county said he had little murder evidence against Bryant and Milam, was not sure the body was Till's and accused the National A. S. M. for the Advancement of Colored People of plotting the incident.

Chatham called the conference of local authorities just prior to the grand jury meeting in view of Strider's announcement that he was investigating the case on the assumption that it was "plotted by the NAACP."

betterment of Pampa since establishing his residence here in June, 1935.

Joe now owns and operates Richard Drug, which is well known as ticket headquarters in Pampa. When asked how many tickets he had sold for charity and other events he said "How could I ever estimate the number of tickets I have sold? I've sold lots of em in my seven years here."

Tooley was born May 5, 1907 in Hill county. His mother died when he was only 13 days old and his uncle and aunt took him in. He got his third name, Clifton, from his father's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Clifton.

After he was large enough for his father to take care of him he went to live in Vernon where his father was preaching. He began his education there but moved with his father as he took one congregation after another as it was the custom of a Methodist preacher and circuit rider in those days to move wherever he was needed.

He was graduated from Meritton high school, near San Angelo on June 1, 1925, just 30 years before his oldest daughter, Jo, finished here at Pampa High on June 1, 1955.

Tooley entered Baylor University in the fall of '25 after he finished high school. He finished his work there in June of '27 with a Pharmacist's Degree. June was an eventful month in the life of J. W. C. Tooley. He then spent several years working one place and another and bought a drug store in Idaho but left there when the bank went broke. He then came to Pampa.

He had been hired to work at Richard Drug beginning March 1, 1929, but worked only three hours. He wasn't fired but went to Panhandle as manager of Richard Drug of that city. He remained in Panhandle as manager of the store until it was sold.

One day during his time in the Panhandle store he noticed a girl seated at one of the booths in the back. He said to his friend, Elvin Grimes, "That sure is a cute little gal back there." Grimes introduced them and he asked Miss Dorothy Harper for a date. "That was back in '33," Joe recollected as he got a little starry-eyed. He and Miss Harper were married after a two year courtship and will observe their twentieth anniversary this October.

New Labor Day Death Record Seems Certain

Storm Raging In Gulf Coast Area

BROWNSVILLE, Tex.—UP—The Brownsville weather bureau Monday predicted the newest Gulf storm, Gladys, boiling toward the Mexican coastline, will cause "local flooding" in South Texas along the Devil's and Pecos rivers and along the Rio Grande.

Chief Forecaster John Hagan said at 7:30 a.m. the storm was about 175 miles south-southeast of Brownsville. He predicted it would go ashore Monday afternoon in the sparsely populated section of northern Mexico about 75 miles south of Brownsville.

Hagan said the storm would then follow a path similar to that of 1954's hurricane Alice. He predicted it would move northwest through northern Mexico and thence into the Laredo-Del Rio area which was ravaged by floods following Alice.

Four-Day Flooding Expected
Hagan said: "Local flooding is expected in the area below Falcon reservoir during the next 24 to 36 hours and local flooding above Falcon on the Rio Grande and on the Pecos and Devil's rivers during the next one to four days."

Hagan warned that South Texas "in areas subject to overflow should maintain alertness for rains."

Moderate to heavy rains began falling in the lower Rio Grande Valley shortly before dawn. At 7:30 a.m. heavy rains were peppering the area from Mission on the west all the way to the coast, with the heaviest early rainfall report two inches in less than an hour at Weslaco.

Schools to Remain Closed
School officials at Los Fresnos, Tex., in Cameron county, called off plans to have the Los Fresnos school open Monday. A parade slated for Monday afternoon in Port Isabel was also cancelled.

The New Orleans weather bureau said today that the storm was expected to move north as far as Galveston by early Monday night. Storm warnings fluttered in the Brownsville-Port Isabel area. Small craft along the Texas coast was advised to stay in port.

High tides and winds preceding the storm caused two fatalities even before Gladys struck inland. The victims were Marie Guzman, nine, and Lucille Guzman, 11, sisters of Encino, Tex. They drowned off Padre Island when they were swept into deep water while swimming.

The weather bureau said Gladys would reach shore late Monday at a point on the Mexican coast 75 to 100 miles south of Brownsville, Tex., provided it continued on its present course.

It Moves Toward Texas
Early Wednesday the storm was located 240 miles south-southeast of Brownsville and about 110 miles east-northeast of Tampico, Mex. It was moving shoreward at 7 to 10 miles an hour.

Another storm, the full-blown hurricane Flora, thrashed the Atlantic with 90-mile-an-hour winds at the same time Gladys bore down on the Mexican coast. Flora was centered 1,000 miles east-northeast of San Juan, P. R. early Monday and moving west-northwest at 18 miles an hour. The howler, still far from land, posed a threat to Atlantic shipping, the weather bureau said.

Gladys' advance winds broke up picnics and swimming and fishing parties for thousands of Labor Day (See STORM, Page 3)

Four Israelis Killed
An official government spokesman said four Israelis were killed in the new flare-up of violence.

(Tel Aviv dispatches said the Israeli government announced that one of its patrols which "lost its way" at sunset Sunday evening in Egyptian-held territory near the border was attacked by Egyptian positions which killed two and wounded one.

(Israel said the United Nations had been informed and was taking action to recover the bodies of the two dead to return the wounded man.)

President Lauds American Workers

DENVER—UP—President Eisenhower said Monday that all Americans are proud on Labor Day that U.S. workers "labor in freedom and dignity" and "receive fair compensation for their efforts."

In a special Labor Day message from the Summer White House at Lowry Air Force Base here, Mr. Eisenhower said "we can also be proud that the individual human beings who make up this great labor force come from all races, all religions and all national origins."

The President's statement was recorded for both radio and television.

HE FIGURES THIS ACCOUNT IS JUST A BIT OVERDUE

OTARU, Japan.—UP—An elderly janitor pressed a $300,000 suit against the government Monday. The janitor, Yoshiyuki Nishikawa, 60, claimed his forefathers lent 1,000 ryo (about $25,000) to two officials of the Tokugawa Shogunate government 172 years ago. He claims the debt, with interest, now amounts to $304,265.

Earthquake Hits San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO.—UP—A strong earthquake rolled through an area 150 miles around San Francisco but surveys indicated Monday damage was minor and there was no loss of life.

The series of tremors lasted 15 minutes, starting at 7:01 p.m. (8:01 p.m. est.) Sunday. It was the most severe in the area since the July 1952 temblor that killed 12 persons at Tehachapi, Calif.

The Rev. John Weber, S. J., seismologist at the University of Santa Clara, said the shocks threw needles of two seismographs "clear off the drums."

Holister Shaken
The Holister police department said the blast "shook hell out of the town for nearly three minutes" but caused no damage.

Holister Rancher Howard Harris said his cattle "started milling around in a circle" during the quake.

Harris' ranch lies directly on the San Andreas Fault, a belt of shifting subterranean earth which sends earthquake shocks from the San Francisco Bay area diagonally across the state through Bakersfield and Tehachapi to the Imperial Valley.

The sharp, rolling earthquake toppled chimneys, burst water mains and knocked pedestrians to the ground at San Jose.

Glass Windows Shattered
The sheriff's office at San Jose said plate glass windows in the Hibernia bank and several store fronts were shattered by the initial shock.

In downtown San Jose, two women fainted and other persons were knocked off their feet by the temblor, the sheriff said, but there were no serious injuries.

In San Francisco skyscrapers swayed and trembled, pitching lamps, dishes and pictures to the floor. Many of the San Francisco residents ran outside.

Four Found Dead In Car
Bellefontaine, Ohio.—UP—Authorities Monday investigated the deaths of a family of four, found dead in the family car about two miles southwest of here.

Logan County Sheriff Fred Foerster said the deaths apparently resulted from carbon monoxide poisoning and probably was a "murder-suicide."

The victims were listed as Army Pvt. Carl Howell, 21; his wife, Carol, 19; and their children, Debra, 2, and Bruce, 8 months.

The discovery of the bodies was made Sunday night as several youths ran upon the car while "looking along lovers' lane for petters."

Authorities believed the deaths took place as early as last Thursday. The sheriff said the victims were dead for several days.

Sheriff Foerster said Howell was home on leave from Camp Chaffee, Ark., and had been in the service for about one year. No notes were found in the car nor in the family's home, a rented farmhouse about one mile from the scene.

Red Paper Hits Nixon
LONDON.—UP—The Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda said Monday U.S. Vice President Richard Nixon was being influenced by "U.S. reactionary circles" who want "to return world politics once again into the cold war channel."

The Pravda attack on Nixon was broadcast by Radio Moscow and monitored in London.

It said "U.S. reactionary circles" are trying to upset the spirit of Geneva and that "certain high placed persons in the U.S. are apparently becoming affected by this influence."

Pravda sharply attacked Nixon's recent speech to the Veterans of Foreign Wars and said it was "imbued with the spirit of intolerance and bounded with attacks against the USSR, Communist China and the Soviet satellite states."

The lengthy article spoke of "the departure towards relaxation of international tension and the establishment of trust and mutual understanding between states" achieved at Geneva.

California Toll Heaviest; Texas Fourth In Fatalities

By UNITED PRESS
Deaths on the nation's highways mounted relentlessly towards a new Labor Day holiday record Monday.

The National Safety Council feared that its prediction of 400 traffic deaths by midnight Monday would be passed and that the record of 453 deaths, set in 1951, would also tumble.

A United Press count since 6 p.m. Friday showed 293 traffic deaths across the nation. There were 48 drownings, four deaths in plane crashes, and 35 fatal miscellaneous accidents for a holiday death total of 380.

California had the worst record with 31 traffic deaths. Ohio reported 21, Michigan 19, Texas 18, Pennsylvania 17, and Wisconsin 15. The District of Columbia and six states report no traffic deaths—Delaware, Idaho, Montana, New Mexico, North Dakota and Vermont.

Indiana Has Worst Tragedy
The worst single tragedy occurred near Fulton, Ind., when a car crash killed five persons. A worse disaster was averted Monday near Bucyrus, Ohio, when 12 cars of the Pennsylvania Railroad's "Golden Triangle" train were derailed. Twenty-nine passengers were injured, but no one was killed.

The worst was yet to come as millions of cars hit the road in the last-minute rush to get back home. Americans were already dying on the highways at the rate of more than one every 15 minutes.

The quickened rate raised the death rate to 35 per cent over last year's Labor Day holiday, when 368 Americans died in car crashes.

Ned H. Dearborn, president of the Safety Council, said flatly "this looks like the worst Labor Day weekend in history."

Motorists Warned
He pleaded with motorists to "slam on the brakes" before it is too late.

The weather took a hand in boosting the death rate and putting extra burdens on holiday-goers.

In California, the worst heat wave in Los Angeles history threatened to send the temperature into the 100's for the sixth straight day. The heat was blamed for 37 deaths and cars were lined bumper-to-bumper on roads leading to the beaches.

Along the South Texas coast, the advance winds and high tides of hurricane Gladys sent thousands of Labor Day weekenders scurrying off the long, narrow spit of Padre Island.

Two small sisters were drowned in the rough surf Sunday and 100 fishermen were temporarily marooned by high tides. The National Guard provided amphibious vehicles to get them off, but the fishermen had to leave their cars on the island.

Coroner Wreck Fatal
Robert L. O'Day, 45, was killed Sunday when the car he was driving smashed into a truck on U.S. 75 north of Comroe.

A head-on collision four miles north of Carrizo Springs Sunday killed two persons and critically injured a third.

The dead were identified as Ramon Meseguido Gutierrez, 22, of Asherton, Tex., and Mrs. Juanita Vargas, 24, of Carrizo Springs. Gutierrez was a passenger in a car driven by Jesus Pena, 23, of Asherton.

Pena was in critical condition in a Carrizo Springs hospital. Mrs. Vargas was riding with her husband. (See DEATH, Page 3)

Middle East Danger Cited
WASHINGTON.—UP—If Russia delivers arms to Egypt and other Arab countries it could be the spark to ignite the whole Middle East, diplomatic officials said Monday.

Egyptian government circles said Sunday night that the only thing that could dissuade Egypt from accepting Soviet arms would be receipt of Western arms.

The United States, Britain and France have been keeping a tight rein on arms shipments to the Middle East under a 1950 agreement. They are trying to make certain that Israel and the Arab nations keep their present arms balance.

The system is regarded as one of the chief deterrents to full-scale war in the Holy Land.

But Russia's reported offer, if carried through, would destroy the arms balance now being maintained, it was said, and might prompt the Big Three western powers to increase munitions shipments to Israel.

BURLINGTON, Vt.—UP—Ruth Atkinson, 57, and a grandmother, was so proud when she saw her son, John, graduate from the University of Vermont in 1950 that she decided to get a degree herself. This year John was in the audience while his mother received a degree in education.

Texas Dead By Violence Reaches 30

By UNITED PRESS
At least 30 persons have died violently in Texas since the long Labor Day weekend began last Friday, a United Press survey showed Monday.

Twenty-one persons have been killed in traffic accidents, four have drowned and five others lost their lives by miscellaneous means since the holiday period began at 6 p.m. Friday. It will end at midnight Monday.

The Department of Public Safety issued a prediction that traffic would take 300 lives during the holiday period. With more than 12 hours left, it appeared that the prediction would not fall very short.

Hope Is for Best
Col. Homer Garrison Jr., director of the DPS, had said he hoped the department's guess would miss the mark like it did on July 4. The DPS predicted that 29 persons would die in traffic accidents over the Independence Day weekend, but the actual count showed only 18.

Federico Anzaldúa, an 18-year-old Mission youth, was fatally injured early Monday in a traffic collision about five miles south of Mission.

Highway patrolmen said Anzaldúa's automobile collided with a pickup truck on Farm Road 1013.

Marcellino Tobias, 24, was killed instantly shortly before midnight Sunday when he was hit by a car 14 miles south of San Antonio on U.S. 81. Patrolmen said Tobias had just gotten out of his parked car when he was struck down. Driver of the car was listed as Barton Loe of San Antonio.

Reds Watch U.S. Show Of Power

By JOHN CLANCY
PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 3—UP—The Army staged a mock atomic assault Saturday with Russian and Communist Hungarian military experts watching closely.

helicopters land infantry troops in a simulated battle that was capped by orders for the firing of an atomic cannon.

The infantry landed by helicopter had been pinned down by "enemy" fire when the order went out for atomic assistance. A blast, simulating the atomic cannon's fire, promptly was exploded and the infantry broke out as a mushroom cloud from the explosion rose overhead.

Watch Navy Power
The Russians, Lt. Col. Bogatyrev and Major Antonov, and Hungarian, Capt. Czank, also watched the Navy show off its air power.

The Communists had been told by Air Secretary Donald A. Quarles to watch the show closely and report back to their nations on the strength of the U. S.

Navy planes were catapulted from the deck of the carrier USS Ticonderoga while jets overhead refueled from a tanker plane. Carrier type landings also were made on a strip of the airport.

The air show was put on at the airport in the southwest part of the city. More than 60,000 persons jammed the field for the show.

Four Photographers Burned
Four news photographers and a radio commentator were burned by the backfire of a jet plane being catapulted from the Ticonderoga. Philip MacMullan of the United Press was taken to a hospital with burns of the face and hands and shock. The others were not hurt seriously enough to require hospital treatment. The photographers were standing on the bridge of the ship when they were burned.

A race by six Air Force Super Sabre jet fighters and three Stratojet bombers had to be postponed until Sunday because of the weather.

Fire Destroys Three Buildings

CLARKSVILLE, Tex. —UP—Fire destroyed three buildings on the south side of the Clarksville square Sunday and damage was expected to exceed $100,000.

The businesses destroyed were J. W. Nichols dry goods, Nat's children's shop and the Texan theater. Other buildings on that side of the square were damaged by smoke. Firemen said the blaze apparently started above the Nichols store.

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 27—UP—Police were holding a San Antonio teenager Saturday for the shooting death of 17-year-old Moses Moreno Friday night during a beer drinking party. Police said Moreno died after a bullet struck him in the heart during a scramble for the weapon.

MAKING A GO OF LIFE

By ROY L. SMITH
Read Matthew 27:35-43, 54

Jesus lived in conscious contact with God. One man alone is no match for life. Its problems are too vast; its mysteries are too profound; its moral issues are too involved. Divine power is needed to supplement human power, and men of all faiths in all ages have tried by all means to find some way to appropriate power.

Jesus seemed very sure of himself at this point. "Your Father knoweth what things ye have need of" (Matt. 6:8), he said, and then proceeded to live as though he were perfectly sure his own needs would be supplied. He could have worried for he was beset with difficulties and hampered by delays. He might have stopped to pettiness, for he had to deal with many irritating people and his strength was sapped by trifles. He had good reason for giving vent to temper, for he was opposed by some of the most despicable forces in the world. Instead, his unwavering confidence in God's purpose to provide for his needs steadied him and made him calm under all circumstances.

"Consider the lilies" (Mat 6:28), he said one day when life was pressing him hard. God has made adequate provision for them, he said, and will make adequate provision for us. "Consider the ravens" (Luke 12:24), he said. They had been provided for and Jesus knew we are infinitely dearer to God than many ravens. "Ye are of more value than many sparrows" (Matt. 10:31), he said in an effort to make double sure that his disciples were aware of God's care. All these are profound expressions of Jesus' religious faith. By it he lived, always conscious of his contact with God.

Thou art as near as my next breath, O God, deep enough within me to know the thoughts I do not utter, conscious of my changing moods, concerned with my slightest mistakes, and watchful over every investment of my energy. Let me never forget that thou art at hand. Amen.

Thou art as near as thy next breath, O God, deep enough within me to know the thoughts I do not utter, conscious of my changing moods, concerned with my slightest mistakes, and watchful over every investment of my energy. Let me never forget that thou art at hand. Amen.

Look at one of nature's creatures and note the generous way in which God has made provision for it. If it not reasonable to believe that he has also made adequate provision for you? Can you believe he has made you and not made provision for you?

STORM

weekend visitors to Padre Island which stretches 140 miles along the lower Texas coast from Corpus Christi to Brownsville.

Fishermen Evacuated
More than 100 fishermen, trapped on the northern tip of the island, were evacuated by National Guard amphibious vehicles.

The U.S. Coast Guard dispatched planes to warn coastal residents and weekend vacationers of the danger of the approaching storm.

A Corpus Christi, Tex., police dispatcher reported that water gushed over the causeway linking Padre Island with the mainland at 7 a.m., and at 9 a.m., it remained underwater.

Cars Swarmed Ashore
However, he said more than 2,200 cars swarmed off the island before the high waves drowned the beaches as far back as the sand dune barriers.

Boatswain Joseph C. Chighizola, commanding officer at the Port Aransas Coast Guard air unit at the Corpus Christi Naval Air Station, patrolled the island Sunday dropping mimeographed warnings to clear. Padre. He said that so far as he knows, every person and all vehicles had been cleared from the island.

Floyd Curbello awakened at his fishing camp 10 miles off Port Isabel shortly before dawn Monday and had to be towed in to safety.

Parties Towed In
Chief Warrant Officer Stanley Thoroughman, commanding officer at the Port Isabel lifeboat station at the south tip of Padre Island, said three parties had to be towed in from Laguna Madre.

W. L. Elliff and John Atcheson, both of Harlingen, ran out of gas in an outboard motorboat 19 miles north of Port Isabel in the intra-coastal canal. However, they were towed in early Monday morning.

A freak tidal wave hit Galveston's west beach at 3 a.m., stalling scores of cars parked on the beach.

One plane dropped mimeographed warning messages attached to weights along the resort shores. Thousands of vehicles streamed back across the causeway connecting the island with Port Isabel to heed the warning.

Storm signals were displayed from the Brownsville-Port Isabel area warning small craft to remain in port.

May Be Dangerous
"This may become a dangerous storm," said John Hagan, chief forecaster of the Brownsville weather bureau. "It is intensifying and its movement depends somewhat on how much it intensifies."

He said the storm would produce heavy rains in lower Rio Grande Valley and possibly as far up the coast as Corpus Christi.

The heavy rain forecast included a warning of possible flooding. Hagan said he would consider issuing flood warnings for parts of South Texas if the storm develops as expected.

The full fury of the storm was headed for a sparsely inhabited ranch area in northern Mexico. Forecasters recalled that previous storms in this area caused little material damage.

Tides Above Normal
Tides two to three feet above normal came up suddenly in the Gulf, had picked up gale force by the time the weather bureau issued its first advisory Sunday.

It appeared to be following a path similar to 1954's hurricane Alice. Alice spawned torrential rains in

Two Accidents Reported Here

Two accidents over the week end brought damages to the four cars involved to a total of $460.

Archie Alton Roberts, 30, of Lufkin, driving a 1954 Chevrolet was in collision with a car driven by Lloyd Sam Childress, 49, of Twitty, at the intersection of S. Barnes and E. Fredrick.

Roberts' car was damaged in the amount of $175 and Childress' car received $50 damages in the accident which occurred about 10:45 a.m. Friday.

Two cars, driven by E. Jay McIlvain, 19, and Clyde Don Henry, 28, collided on S. Hobart. McIlvain's car received $225 damages and Henry's car was damaged in the amount of $10 in the accident occurring about 1:45 p.m. Saturday.

Red Cross Board Meets Tomorrow

The Red Cross Board of the Pampa Chapter will meet tomorrow at 7 a.m. in Johnson Cafe for a general business session to be presided over by Homer Craig, chairman.

Harlan Yoder will report on the recent Jr. Red Cross workshop activities. Program for the month will consist of orientation of board members by Mrs. F. W. Shotwell, executive secretary.

All board members and committee chairmen are urged to be present.

and he went to work again as a pharmacist but this time it was at the Harvester Drug. When he came to Pampa this time he brought with him a small daughter. He worked at the Harvester Drug until seven years ago when he bought Richard Drug.

Tooley is active in community and church life. He doesn't spend too much of his extra time at home but he says "The family doesn't mind too much for they are 'Pampa Minded' too."

He is a member of the First Methodist Church and is very active. He is a member of the Elks Lodge and has been part of the backbone of the Lodge since its reorganization. Tooley has been a member of the Lions Club for many years and is a charter member of the Pampa Optimist Club. Perhaps it is just by coincidence or maybe it's because he is a good worker but Tooley is membership chairman of the First Methodist Church, Lions Club, Elks Lodge and was made membership chairman of the Pampa Optimist club recently.

"My one ambition since I had to move from school to school, has been to send my children to one school from start to finish," he said. He has almost completed that ambition because his eldest daughter has already finished and his younger daughter, Kay, is in the eighth grade this year. He said he had no intention of moving before she finishes. Speaking of school, Tooley is an avid sports fan and boasts all sports in the schools and also the kid baseball program of the summer plus the Pampa Oilers.

Tooley spends much of his time working for charity and as he puts it "for the city of Pampa, Pampa supports me and I will support Pampa as much as I can."

A typical day in the life of the civic minded druggist begins just as anyone's day. He comes down early and opens his store but when the help arrives he is off to some meeting. A typical day of his life would probably include Optimist Meeting at 6:30 p.m. Monday and church at 8:10 the same evening.

Then on Tuesday he would come down and open the store. At 9:30 he would go before the ministerial alliance for some worthy cause. He appeared before the city commission at 10:30 and finally got back to the store in time to take off for lunch.

At 2:10 that afternoon he had to make a cancer society meeting and he didn't get back to the store till 3:45. Then at 4:10 he had a meeting with the parents of a crippled child to get the child admitted to the Elks Crippled Children's Hospital. He probably closed the store then at 8 and went to Lodge and didn't get home till 11. Oh, incidentally, he had one or two calls to the store each night for some medicine.

Tooley didn't say that he kept a diary but this is what each page of it would look like if he did.

The Tooley residence, 1318 N. Russell has that air of charity and as you enter the driveway you will see a sign above the door that reads "Tooley Town, Pop. 4."

If you're looking for Joe sometime and find he is not at the store or at home then look for him to be attending some meeting that has been called for benevolent purposes or the purpose of making Pampa a better town in which to live and rear a family. Not many Pampans hold the work of the community in higher regard than the small 5 ft. 4 inch pharmacist at Richard Drug.

Adenauer Moscow-Bound

BONN, Germany.—UP.—West Germany's "rolling embassy" headed Monday towards Moscow where it will serve as headquarters for Chancellor Konrad Adenauer when he begins talks Friday with Soviet leaders.

The local special train, expected to reach the Soviet capital Tuesday evening, is the first West German train to travel into the heart of Soviet territory since World War II. Adenauer flies to Moscow Thursday aboard a super Constellation of the German Lufthansa airlines.

The train was necessary because West Germany does not maintain diplomatic relations with the Soviet and there were no suitable facilities in Moscow for the group of 100 diplomatic, technical and clerical personnel.

TRAFFIC LIGHTS BRING MISHAPS

EDINBURG, Tex.—UP.—Edinburg police proudly announced Thursday that there hadn't been a single traffic accident on Courthouse Square during the three months that its traffic lights were missing because of new construction.

Then they replaced the lights. Within the hour two cars collided on the square.

Mr. and Mrs. Houston Doswell of Dallas and Mrs. Minnie Fischer of Big Spring visited over the week end in the homes of relatives, Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Powell, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Frick and Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Ward.

band, Paulo Vargas, who was not seriously hurt.

Another Sunday victim was Mrs. Clara Ross York, 82, of McKinney, who was killed when her car overturned about 16 miles northwest of McKinney.

A car-truck head-on crash near Muleshoe Saturday claimed its fifth victim Sunday when Mrs. Alvin A. Brock, 58, of Snyder, died from her injuries. Her husband, who was postmaster at Snyder, was one of the other four victims.

Two little sisters, Maria Guzman, 9, and Lucille Guzman, 11, of Encino, Tex., were drowned while swimming off Padre Island when rough waves carried them into deep water.

Five-year-old Donald Ray Holt died in a Dallas hospital from a gunshot wound in the neck. The boy was accidentally shot by a playmate.

Helpful
COEUR D'ALENE, Ida.—UP.—Sinaloa Takaki, 38, a native of Japan who has lived in this country since 1885, helped six of his countrymen become American citizens. He explained the oath of allegiance and acted as interpreter after Federal Judge Chase Clark said some of the six could not easily understand English. Takaki himself has never become an American citizen.

RUTLAND, Vt.—UP.—George Lambert wasn't disturbed at all when rubbish in the rear of his truck burst into flame. He drove around the corner into Rutland's main fire station where firemen extinguished the flames.

Texas Has Fair Weather

By UNITED PRESS

Texas enjoyed pleasant Labor Day weather Monday, except for rain drenching the Lower Rio Grande Valley as tropical storm Gladys blew inland.

"These rains will increase during the day and spread farther north up the coast and up the Lower Rio Grande Valley," a forecaster said. He expected the rain to spread up the Rio Grande Valley and into the lower Pecos Valley Monday night and Tuesday.

Heavy showers were predicted for the southern portion of South Central Texas, with locally heavy showers in the Del Rio-Eagle Pass area of West Texas Monday night and Tuesday.

Scattered showers were predicted for other portions of the state Monday night or Tuesday. Forecasters at Dallas said temperatures will remain about as they are, except in the storm area, where they will be lowered.

The low temperature in the state early Monday was 53 at Dalhart.

Mrs. Carr Dies At Borger Home

Funeral services for Margaret M. Carr, 93, who died at her home, 1417 Hazelwood in Borger, were to be held this afternoon in the Presbyterian Church at Ballinger.

Mrs. Carr, whose daughter, Mrs. J. E. Reeves, lives in Pampa, was born August 31, 1862, in DeWitt County.

She is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Reeves; Mrs. Martha Clark, Wichita Falls; Miss Carmen Carr, Galveston; and Mrs. Wiche Dimmer, Ballinger.

Burial will be at Glen Cove, and Amarillo. The highest minimum was 76 at Galveston.

Other lows included Lubbock 54, Midland 63, El Paso 64, Alpine 60, Del Rio 72, Laredo, Brownsville and Corpus Christi 73, San Antonio 71, Austin 60, Lufkin 65, Waco 68, Dallas and Fort Worth 65, Abilene 64 and San Angelo 68.

A cold front was running from New England southwest to eastern Kansas, but forecasters said it won't affect Texas weather.

DROUTH BREAKER?

Dry land crops over the area are suffering from the dry weather and when showers are forecast for the area farmers are somewhat relieved. Above is a scene that is typical in the dry land areas in Gray and surrounding counties. This was taken east of town Saturday when thunderheads scattered through the area looked promising, but failed to deliver relief giving moisture. (News Photo)

Police Hold Ex-Convict

FORT WORTH, Sept. 3—UP—Police disclosed Saturday that they have arrested and are questioning Jay Hunt, 36, an ex-convict who may know who bumped off both Leroy (Tincy) Eggleston and Cecil Green.

closed until Saturday. He had a gun. stock of marijuana cigarettes and police said he will be charged with narcotics possession. He also had two suitcases in the trunk of his automobile and other clothes hung up in the back, but denied that he had been anywhere or was going anywhere. The agents seized him on a tip. The body of Eggleston, 49, ranking member of the Dallas-Fort Worth underworld, was found Wednesday night in a well, where he had been dropped six days earlier after being killed with a shot-

When Green, supposedly Eggleston's closest friend, was ambushed last May 2 at a drive in on Jacksboro highway, Eggleston hopped out of Green's automobile and took refuge in Hunt's home. Hunt was said to be one of two or three living persons who were closest to Green and Eggleston. "I don't know a damned thing about it," was all Hunt would tell his questioners.

Jet Fighter Crash Lands

SAN ANTONIO—UP—Second Lt. Glen R. Magathan of Elmont, Kan., crash landed his F-86 jet fighter at Kelly Air Force Base Sunday but escaped injury. His plane was badly damaged. Magathan, one of four F-86 pilots who took off from Randolph AFB for Luke, Ariz., made the crash landing when he discovered his landing gear jammed. He is stationed at George AFB, Victorville, Calif.

THE OILERS' PLAYOFF opponent still isn't known as the regular season enters its final day.

The Oilers will definitely finish in third place but the top two places are not yet settled. The Oilers will meet either Amarillo or Albuquerque in the opening round of the playoff.

Right now it looks like it'll be Albuquerque. The Oilers will meet the second place team in the first round of the playoffs and the Oilers are now in possession of this rank. The only way the Oilers could draw Amarillo in the opening round is for the Gold Sox to lose both of their games today to Clovis and for Albuquerque to sweep its pair from El Paso.

In either case, the Oilers will open the playoffs on the road. The first two games will be played away from home and the next three will be played here, meaning the Oilers will be here Friday and Saturday, at least, and Sunday if the opening series goes as far as five games.

The team that winds up in first place will meet fourth place Plainview in the other first round of the West Texas-New Mexico League playoffs.

In the meantime, box seat reservations for the playoff games are still being made. The boxes are going fast and all will likely be sold out before the series starts, which, in our case will be Friday night.

The boxes are selling for $6 for the entire playoffs, be it one or two series. Each box contains four chairs so it looks like the fans will be getting a good bargain at this price. If there are any boxes left by the time the series rolls around, each chair will sell for 50 cents. The main thing about the box seats, though, is that the fans will be assured of a seat for all playoff games. All other seats in the grandstand will come on a first come first served basis.

THERE'S A LOT OF GOOD golf

going on today at the Pampa Country Club. Five members of the Championship Flight in the 20th annual Top O' Texas Tournament now in progress here have equalled or bettered par in the first 36 holes of action and several others are crowding par figures.

They'll be playing all day today, 18 holes this morning and 18 this afternoon so if you like to see golf at its best you can go out to the local course.

At least one mark has been broken in the current TOT tourney. Grover Austin, Sr., father of the immediate past Country Club champion here, is missing his first TOT tournament this year. The elder Austin had made all of the previous 19 tournaments but had to pass this one up due to his job.

I'm sure that Austin was theonically linker that had made all of the tournaments here up to this year. If there is any we stand to be corrected, of course.

Bearded Avila: Not Injured

CLEVELAND — UP— Second baseman Bobby Avila of the Cleveland Indians, who was bearded Sunday by a pitch thrown by Connie Johnson of the Chicago White Sox, was expected to play in Monday's double header against Kansas City.

Banks Strains Muscle

CHICAGO — UP— Shortstop Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs, who has played in 203 consecutive games, may not be able to play in Monday's double header against the Milwaukee Braves because of a strained muscle in his right thigh, suffered when he slid into second base in the second inning of Sunday's Cardinals-Cubs game.

Car To Be Given Away Tonight

By BUCK FRANCIS
Pampa News Sports Editor

The regular 1955 season comes to a close for the Pampa Oilers tonight when they meet the Plainview Ponies in a doubleheader at Oiler Park.

First game will begin at 7 p.m. Feature of tonight's activities, however, will be the between-game ceremonies at which time a 1955 Dodge Station Wagon will be given away.

The Pampa Oilers Community Baseball Association will give the new automobile to the holder of the lucky ticket. Tickets for the station wagon drawing will be available tonight at the ball park by making a $1 donation to the Pampa Oilers.

Both the Oilers and Ponies, who have already clinched a playoff berth, will take a day off tomorrow after tonight's twinbill.

The Ponies grabbed the lead in the series yesterday with a 4-2 decision.

Milt Ardrey spun a five-hitter to lead the Ponies to the victory. Ardrey was rocking along with a no-hitter until Joe Fortin walloped his 39th homer of the season in the sixth inning.

Tom Harrison, after a shaky start, pitched fine ball for the Oilers. Harrison gave up nine hits, six coming in the first two innings when the Ponies scored three of their four runs.

Harrison, starting with the final out in the second inning, didn't allow another Pony to reach base until the eighth, retiring 16 Ponies batsmen in succession.

The Ponies scored once in the first and two in the second for a 3-0 lead before Fortin's homer reduced it to 3-1 in the sixth. The two then traded runs in the eighth to complete the scoring.

Plainview used "mother nature" to advance for its first inning run. With two away and one on, Dick Halstrom lost Frank Green's fly ball in right field in the sun and the ball fell safely for a double and a run scored.

Joe Dellamonica smacked a two-run double in the second inning to make it 3-0 for the visitors.

In the eighth, Green drove in the final Pony run with a sacrifice fly and Red Dial doubled home Rach Slider with the final Oiler run in the lower half of the eighth.

Rookie Fred Jackson will get the starting nod in the first game of today's twinbill. Manager Grover Seitz was undecided on his second game choice.

Kaplan Leads TOT With 6 Under Par

Young Don Kaplan held on to his lead in the 20th annual running of the Top O' Texas Invitational Golf Tournament as the towey headed in to the third round this morning.

The Borger youth, who was the runnerup to champion Rex Baxter, Jr., of Amarillo in last year's tourney here, came in with his second sub-par round total is 136.

Kaplan moved three strokes ahead of the field with yesterday's sensational round. Leslie Howard, Pampa, another youngster at 16, who was tied with Kaplan after the first round, slipped to a 73 yesterday to drop into a three-way for third place.

Max Hickey moved into the runnerup spot with a two-under par 69 yesterday. Hickey had carried a 70 Saturday as his two-round total to date is 139, three strokes off the pace set by Kaplan.

Tied with Howard for third place are Audie Little, the tournament medalist from Childress, and Bobby Briggs of San Antonio, all with even par 142s for the first two rounds.

Both Briggs and Little shot 69s yesterday to go with their first round 73s.

A total of six players bettered par yesterday and four others equalled regulation figures. In addition to Kaplan, Hickey, Little and Briggs, the other sub-par rounds were shot by Joe Chisum and Malcolm Douglass, both of Pampa, who had 70 rounds.

Chisum, however, had an 80 opening day and is out of the running for the title. Douglass stayed in the running with a 73-70-143.

Equalling par yesterday were Jack Simpson of Amarillo, Don Prigmore of Pampa, Bobby Westfall of Amarillo and Burt Watkins of Pampa, all of whom are still in the running for the crown.

Westfall stood at 143, Simpson 144 and Watkins a distance 145 as play entered the final 36 holes today.

Thirty-one of the 32 player championship flight were expected to tee off this morning at the start of the final 36.

A new champion will be crowned since defending champion Rex Baxter, Jr., didn't return.

Trophies for the winners arrived yesterday and will be presented this afternoon following action. (Please see results elsewhere on this page for all flights).

Sinton Reaches Semi-Pro Finals

WICHITA, Kan. — UP— The defending champion Wichita, Kan., Boeing Bombers and Sinton, Tex., Plymouth Oilers meet Monday night for the National Baseball Congress tournament championship.

Wichita Boeing rebounded from a quarterfinal round loss to defeat the North Platte, Neb., Plainsmen 7 to 2 Sunday night in one semifinal game. Sinton won 9 to 2 over the St. Joseph, Mich. Auscos Sunday night to move to the championship round.

The Kansas club beat the Texans 5 to 2 back in the fourth round by scoring three runs in the ninth inning.

Sports Briefs

Expects Early Blitz
GROSSINGER, N. Y. — UP— Manager Al Weill is preparing for a surprise blitz attack in the early rounds by challenger Archie Moore by having champion Rocky Marciano step up the pace in his workouts. Weill said he has asked J. B. Reed, a sergeant in the Air Force who is built like Moore, to come East from Travis Air Force Base to help the champion prepare for his title defense on Sept. 20.

Patty Wins Singles Finals
BADEN-BADEN, Germany — UP— Budge Patty, former Wimbledon champion from Los Angeles and Paris has added the men's singles title of the Baden-Baden Invitation tennis tournament to his list of achievements. Patty romped over Italian Davis Capper Fausto Gardini 6-1, 8-6, 6-1 Sunday and then teamed up with Luis Ayala of Chile to gain the doubles title 6-4, 13-11 over Jaroslav Drobny of Egypt and Bob Howe of Australia.

Tribe Takes Over Lead In Razzie-Dazzle AL Chase

By UNITED PRESS

Ray Narleski's tireless laboring was one reason the Cleveland Indians were back in first place at this Labor Day milestone of the American League pennant race.

And the way the rubber-armed bullpen artist has been pitching these days he could be moving towards a possible World Series duel with another standout reliever — Clem Labine of the Dodgers.

Both right-hander figured prominently in Sunday games. Narleski appeared in both ends of a doubleheader against Chicago and helped pitch the Indians to a pair of 5-3 victories which dropped the White Sox into third place, one and one-half games off the pace.

Labine, meanwhile, picked up his 12th victory of the year as the Dodgers downed the Pirates 6-5, and continued their drive towards the earliest pennant clinching in National League history. The Dodgers' "magic number" now is 45, and they would like to beat their own league record by wrapping up the flag before Sept. 12.

Appears in 32 Games
Narleski now has appeared in 52 games for the Tribe. He has a record of eight victories and no defeats but probably has saved another dozen games for Cleveland. Labine also is considered an "off-record" 20-game winner, since he has been credited with eight "saves" in addition to his legitimate dozen victories in 50 appearances.

In Sunday's doubleheader, Narleski relieved firing Bob Lemon in the eighth inning of the opener and struck out three of the last seven Chicago batters. In the nightcap, the Camden, N. J. strongman came to Mike Garcia's rescue with two men on, two out and the Sox one run behind in the sixth inning. He retired Nellie Fox on a pop-up and then pitched two-hit ball the rest of the way.

Labine made his 10th relief appearance in the Dodgers' last 16 Schmidt appeared headed for a performance against the Pirates and fect no-hit, no-run game against the Cubs when he retired the first 20 men. Then Frankie Baumholtz and Ernie Banks hit successive doubles to break the spell, and the Cubs routed Schmidt in the eighth to win 4-3.

The Yankees remained only a half-game back of the Indians by walloping the Senators 8-3 with help of home runs by Mickey Mantle and Irv Noren.
Sam White's double and a single by Grady Hatton in the fifth inning carried the Red Sox to a 5-4 squeaker over the Orioles and left Boston four games back of the lead, while the Tigers clobbered the Athletics 17-1 with a 20-hit attack.

Cardinal rookie pitcher Willard appeared in the Dodgers' last 16 Schmidt appeared headed for a performance against the Pirates and fect no-hit, no-run game against the Cubs when he retired the first 20 men. Then Frankie Baumholtz and Ernie Banks hit successive doubles to break the spell, and the Cubs routed Schmidt in the eighth to win 4-3.

The Giants regained third place from Philadelphia by turning back the Phillies 7-1, but both teams will be eliminated from the NL race Monday if the Dodgers win one of their two games against the Phils.

Hank Aaron hit his 26th and 27th home runs as the down-but-not-out Braves whipped the Redlegs 5-2.
Ray Narleski, who helped pitch the Indians to twin victories over the White Sox and into first place in the American League.

Lopata Collapses After HR Blast
PHILADELPHIA — UP — Big Stan Lopata, who suddenly collapsed in the Philadelphia Phillies' dugout after hitting a three-run homer Sunday, was detained for observation at Temple University hospital Monday where physicians said he suffered a "delayed reaction" to a beating Friday night.

Lopata was reported "resting comfortably" and a club spokesman said he probably could start the Phils' final western trip Tuesday after the club plays Monday's doubleheader at Brooklyn.
The hard-hitting catcher was beamed in Friday night's game by the Giants' Windy McCall, but he stayed in action and tripled to start the Phils' winning rally. He played the entire game Saturday night and hit his 19th homer of the season. He showed no ill effects.

Snead Leads In Insurance Open
WETHERSFIELD, Conn. — UP — Slammin' Sammy Snead, who entered the Insurance City Open golf tournament in hopes of qualifying for the U. S. Ryder Cup team, seems headed for the $4,000 first prize in the bargain.
The long-hitting veteran from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., with a 54-hole total of 13-under-par 200, headed into Monday's final round with a solid four-stroke lead over Gerry Kesselring, the surprising young Canadian pro from Toronto.

"I've got a pretty good lead on the boys," Snead admitted, but he hastily added with a grin, "I would like to have them call it quits right now and present me with the money."

Odessa, Midland Open Grid Season

By UNITED PRESS

Port Arthur, Odessa, Temple and Tarkenton figure in the top games on this week's inaugural card for Class AAAA and AAA schoolboy football teams.

All four are touted as top-rated clubs in their own sectors and the Port Arthur-Odessa, Temple-Tarkenton contests stand out on a 39-game program that has several other top drawer attractions for the opening weekend.

Last year's champions in these two divisions are among those clubs getting their competitive baptism this week, but one of them—Buckner—finds itself in the strange position of not being able to defend its laurels.

The small West Texas school which has been perfectly at home in the playoffs in the upper brackets for many years had to drop back to Class AA because it could not find a district willing to waive the enrollment minimums and vote the Bucks into AAA.

The team will assay a tough schedule, however, and opens Friday night against Snyder, a team picked to win in I-AAA.

Abilene, the AAAA titleholder, still is a threat to repeat and the Eagles test their 1955 wings against Highland Park in a road game Friday night.

Four others among the state's better-liked AAAA teams will open against better-than-average opposition as Waco invades Corsicana, Tyler moves into Palestine, Wichita Falls hosts Vernon and Corpus Christi Miller, entertaining Galena Park.

Good intra-division battles are on tap in Class AAA in addition to the Temple-Tarkenton clash, including Victoria at Abilene, Austin Travis at Conroe, San Antonio Burbank at Kingsville, San Antonio Edson at Alice and Harlandale at Harlingen.

Moore Expects Knockout
NORTH ADAMS, Mass. — UP — Archie Moore, who meets champion Rocky Marciano for the heavyweight title in New York, Sept. 20, said Monday he expects to knock Marciano out if he misses with his punches "as he is sure to do."

"Rocky has only one style of fighting, he comes at you with those short club-like arms and if he misses with a punch, as he's bound to, I'm sure to nail him and probably knock him out."

Otto Leaves 'Retirement'

By UNITED PRESS

Otto Graham's return to pro football, although reluctantly, more than likely means the Cleveland Browns will open the 1955 National Football League season in three weeks the favorites to win the eastern division title.

The 33-year-old Graham finally gave in to Coach Paul Brown's urging during the weekend and once again will be at the Cleveland helm when the season opens. His return came on the heels of the Browns' third exhibition loss in four starts, a record the club is willing to pooh-pooh as "just one of those things."

With George Ratterman leading the Browns, the Los Angeles Rams exploded for their second-half touchdowns on Friday night to down the champions 38-21. The win was the Rams' fourth in five starts, while the other West Coast kingpins, the San Francisco Forty Niners, mauled the Chicago Cardinals 43-7 in a game marred by many fights on Sunday to run their exhibition record to 4-1 also. The Rams and Forty Niners loom as the strongest contenders for Western Division laurels.

Other weekend games found the Philadelphia Eagles, the Browns' chief competitors for Eastern Division supremacy, defeating the Green Bay Packers 24-10 Saturday night in Memphis, Tenn.; the Chicago Bears dumping the Washington Redskins 45-10 on Saturday night in Charleston, W. Va., and the Detroit Lions downing the Pittsburgh Steelers 24-0 in Miami Friday night.

Games this week: New York (1-2) vs. Baltimore (0-1-1) at Minneapolis Tuesday night; Los Angeles vs. San Francisco at Los Angeles, Friday night; Washington (1-1-1) vs. Green Bay at Winston-Salem, N. C., Saturday night; Cleveland vs. Detroit (2-2) at Cleveland; Saturday night; Baltimore vs. Cardinals at Chicago, Saturday night, New York vs. Bears (1-2) at Little Rock, Saturday night, and Pittsburgh vs. Philadelphia at Pittsburgh, Sunday.

Jet Aims For New Air Mark

By JOHN CLANCY
PHILADELPHIA — UP — An Air Force F-100C Super Sabre jet plan bent on proving the speed superiority of fighter aircraft, aimed at a new speed record Monday in the Thompson Trophy event on the final day of the National Air Show.

Col. Horace A. Hanes, 30-year-old native of Fayetteville, Ill., now residing at Edwards, Calif., will pilot the only plane entered in the time trial event over a 15-25 kilometer course.

Air show officials were hoping for a new speed record since the Air Force announced that an F-100C, the only mass-produced plane capable of supersonic speed in level flight, had broken the 500-mile-per-hour mark a few weeks ago.

Bomber Steals Luster
But some of the Super Sabre's luster was stolen Sunday by a B-47 Stratojet bomber which streaked across the country at an average speed only 21,432 miles per hour slower than the fastest of six Super Sabres which raced from coast to coast later in the day.

The bomber from March Air Force Base, Riverside, Calif., won the General Electric trophy in a race with two other Stratojets, averaging 589,294 mph, despite the failure of its radar five minutes from the finish.

The 2,337-mile non-stop flight to Philadelphia International airport required only three hours, 37 minutes and 59.2 seconds.

Only Four Finished
Six hours after the General Electric flight, the six Super Sabres took off from George AFB, Victorville, Calif., on a 2,324-mile flight to Philadelphia, racing for the famed Bendix Trophy. Only four of the fighters finished as two blew out tires at their lone refueling stop.

The winner of the fighter plane race was Air Force Col. Carlos M. Talbott of Charleston, Ill., who averaged 610,726 mph with an elapsed time of three hours, 48 minutes and four seconds, including his five-minute stop at Wichita, Kan.

The last of the four fighter planes to finish turned in an average speed of 574,451 mph, nearly 15 mph slower than the winning bomber and actually slower than the other two bombers.

Passenger Train Derails

BUCYRUS, Ohio — UP — A west-bound Pennsylvania Railroad passenger train derailed Sunday near here early Monday morning, it slammed into five freight cars that had derailed on adjacent tracks moments before.

Twelve of the passenger cars left the rails and 29 persons suffered minor injuries.

Road officials said a 135-car freight, bound from Chicago to Harrisburg, Pa., left the tracks about four miles west of here. The westbound "Golden Triangle Manhattan" due to arrive in Chicago at 7:20 a.m. sat, reached the scene minutes later and slammed into the derailed cars.

The injured were taken to hospitals here and in Upper Sandusky, Ohio. Three were held for observation, but officials said their condition was not serious. The others were treated and released.

The Pennsylvania detoured its trains around the scene, with resulting delays of about 1½ hours. Cause of the freight derailment has not been determined.

Fireman Dies
SAN ANTONIO — UP — A San Antonio fireman, Walter A. Kyliak, 49, fell dead Sunday night while fighting a fire at the Bactex Fertilizer Co., apparently from a heart attack. The two-alarm blaze caused an estimated $20,000 damage.

Car Wreck Fatal
SAN ANTONIO — UP — An automobile accident near Laredo claimed the life Sunday of Jaime Hamilton Dewar, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hal Dewar of San Antonio. A companion in the car, Sheppard Pogue, 16, also of San Antonio, suffered only minor injuries when their car overturned.

Student Killed
BROWNWOOD — UP — James David Scott, 18-year-old Brownwood youth who would have been a sophomore at the University of Texas this year, was killed Sunday when an automobile overturned on a curve and pinned him under the wreckage. Three companions escaped with minor injuries.

Strong Quake Registered
PASADENA, Calif. — UP — A strong earthquake 2,200 miles from here in an undetermined direction was registered at 2:19 p. m. (cst) Sunday by seismographs at the California Institute of Technology. Dr. Charles Rice said the quake was "strong enough to cause considerable damage in a settled area."

Gloria Gets 16,000 Pickles
CHICAGO — UP — The National Pickle Packers Association Wednesday sent 16,000 pickles to Gloria Lockerman, 12-year-old speller who won $16,000 on the TV show $64,000 question. The association said it learned pickles are Gloria's favorite relish. It sent 30 gallons of them to her Baltimore home.

MR. AND MRS. C. H. SYLVESTER (Photo by Johnson's Studio, Shamrock)

Nova Jones And Charles H. Sylvester Are United In Marriage In Shamrock

SHAMROCK — (Special) — The sanctuary of the First Methodist Church in Shamrock was the scene of the wedding of Miss Nova Jones and Charles H. Sylvester at 7:30 p.m. Aug. 27. Rev. Frank Beauchamp officiated.

The couple was married before an altar formed by an arch entwined with pinnacles, flanked with baskets of white flowers and yellow pompons tied with bows of tulle ribbon. A satin-covered prayer bench completed the setting.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Verla Jones of Shamrock and E. R. Jones of Ft. Stockton. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Sylvester of Avoca.

A prelude of music played by Mrs. Cabot Brannon included "Because" by d'Hardelot and "Through the Years" by Youmans. The traditional wedding marches were used.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Guy Hibler of McLean, the bride wore a white dress of Italian lace in champagne beige. The bodice was fashioned with three-quarter-length sleeves and a wide boat neckline. Her shoulder-length veil of French illusion fell from a small beige hat of beads and sequins. She carried a colonial bouquet of yellow pompons tied with net and streamers of gold ribbon.

Mrs. Jerry Berten was matron of honor. She wore a dress of brown lace with beige accessories. Her colonial bouquet was of yellow pompons with ribbon streamers and yellow net.

Miss Linda Jones, sister of the bride, was ring bearer. She wore a lace-trimmed dress of pale blue with a bandeau of yellow pompons in her hair.

Irving Turner of Seminole served as best man. Ushers were Royce Williams of Seminole and Billy Buske of Spur.

For her daughter's wedding the bride's mother wore an antique taffeta gold dress with black accessories. Mrs. Sylvester, mother of the bridegroom, wore a brown suit with black accessories. Both had corsages of white carnations.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlor. The bride's table was covered with a white linen cloth trimmed with lace. Tapers flanked the bride's bouquet used as a centerpiece. Miss Suzanne Hibler presided at the punch bowl and Mrs. Guy Hibler served the cake. Mrs. J. S. Worley registered the guests. Others assisting with the serving were Mrs. R. L. Orrick and Mrs. E. M. Rives.

For travel the bride wore a suit of bronze with bead trim and bronze accessories. Her corsage was of yellow pompons from her bridal bouquet.

Following a short wedding trip the couple will be at home at 435 N. Ballard Pampa.

The bride attended Shamrock High School and West Texas State College in Canyon.

The bridegroom is employed by the Stanolind Oil Company in Pampa. He is a graduate of McMurry College in Abilene and Avoca High School.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Milton

Nuptial Vows Exchanged In Oklahoma By Phyllis Pugh And George Osborne

PERRYTON — (Special) — Miss Phyllis Eriene Pugh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Pugh of Balco, and George Landrum Osborne, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Osborne of Perryton, were married at 3 p.m. Aug. 21, in the Apostolic Church of Balco, Okla.

Rev. John W. Whipple, pastor, read the double-ring ceremony before an arch entwined with greenery and decorated with white wedding bells. At either side were large baskets of white gladioli.

Miss Edna Mae Buechner, pianist, played a medley of nuptial selections and accompanied Miss Carolyn McGlamery as she sang "Because" and "I Love You Truly." Elvin McDonald sang "The Lord's Prayer." The traditional wedding marches were played for the processional and recessional.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of imported white chintilly lace over a tulle bodice. A fitted lace jacket was worn over the strapless bodice. The jacket was designed with a mandarin collar and long fitted sleeves that came to points over her hands. The full skirt, worn over hoops, was ballerina length.

Her two-tiered fingertip veil of French illusion was edged with lace and fell from a half-hat of chintilly lace over satin, embroidered with seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of garnet red King roses over a white Bible.

Miss Cletia Jean Kiewer was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Fairlene Ollenberger of Ponca City, Okla., and Mrs. John Chisum of Enid, Okla., sister of the bride.

Miss Kiewer wore a ballerina-length dress of blue net over tulle and carried a bouquet of yellow gladioli. Miss Ollenberger and Johnson of Lubbock; Mr. and Mrs. Leland Thane of Stamford; Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Stokely of Pampa; Mrs. Guy Hibler and Mrs. Alice and Mrs. Bud Alexander of Pampa; Mrs. Curtis Liles and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Hanks all of Pampa.

The bridegroom was graduated from Perryton High School. He is associated with his father in farming and ranching.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Jack Osborne of Pampa; Sue Williams, Ronnie Waide, Mr. and Mrs. Morrison Osborne, Thad and Debra Jo, Mrs. T. M. Osborne, all of Perryton.

So this is HOUSEKEEPING

BY SHIRLEY STUART

I'll risk a sirloin steak against leftover hash that next weekend across the country there will be at least 25 thousand picnic menus identical to the following: hot dogs, hamburgers, mustard, onions, buns, deviled eggs, assorted fruits, plenty of coffee.

By Monday morning 25 thousand homemakers will be wondering how to remove the above menu from more than 100 thousand picnic clothes! To ease the washday job, try taping this chart (or even better and more complete, the Whirlpool washer instruction booklet where the information was obtained) near your washer.

Stain	Whites	Colors
Grass (hot dogs, hamburgers and the like)	Rub with soap and sponge with carbon tetrachloride if necessary.	Sponge with carbon tetrachloride.
Mustard	Wash in hot soapy water and chlorine bleach.	Sponge with wood alcohol.
Egg	Soak in cold water. Stretch material over a bowl, pour boiling water through stain. If stain remains, bleach with hydrogen peroxide.	Sponge with cold water. Sponge with cool water; apply warm glycerine for several hours.
Fruit	Pour boiling water through stain.	Sponge with warm water. Apply warm glycerine.
Coffee	Wash in warm suds and rub. If yellow stain remains bleach with hydrogen peroxide.	Wash in lukewarm suds. If necessary, treat with alcohol except on acetate rayon.
Grass (not on the menu but bound to sneak in)	Wash in warm suds and rub. If yellow stain remains bleach with hydrogen peroxide.	Wash in lukewarm suds. If necessary, treat with alcohol except on acetate rayon.

You'll note we left common old dirt and mud off the list. Junior doesn't HAVE to know they are a breeze in an automatic washer!

MANNERS MAKE FRIENDS

Unless you have whatever a guest might suggest, don't ask, "What would you like to drink?" For it embarrasses both guest and host for the guest to name something the host can't provide. The best thing to do is to name what you have to offer and let the guest choose from the list.

Jane Talk

By JANE KADINGO

Pampa News Women's Editor

SINCE THERE HAVE BEEN so many weddings just lately and all during the summer months, I thought this article by Kay Sherwood, NEA staff writer, was especially appropriate at this time. I think her idea is especially nice even for those who have been married several years. I'm tempted to try it myself — or fix up a page in my scrapbook like it.

IS THERE A NEW romance... Make the pencilled outline about one-half to one inch smaller than the picture. Use a mat knife or razor blade in holder to slice through paper and board to make the "windows" for the pictures. Tape pictures securely to the back.

If you're not going to cover the framed montage with glass give the portraits a squirt of clear plastic spray to protect them from dust before taping to matboard. The frame can be simple picture molding in natural or deeper tones or an old-fashioned frame if it's not too dark or heavily carved.

Such a montage can be worked out in various ways but as a started here's the way a friend of mine and I fixed one up not long ago. First (and most important) is to decide about how large you want it and how many pictures to use.

We picked out portraits taken at about the same age as babies, toddlers, students, graduates, teenagers and finally the wedding picture — ten pictures in all in varying sizes.

As a focal point we centered the layout with the marriage certificate. Plan the layout by spreading the pictures on a table and shifting them around until you like the effect. Allow ample space between and vary the shapes for balance.

HEAVY MATBOARD or Bristol board cut to size for framing is background for the montage. You may want to cover the matboard with wallpaper as we did in a lacy indistinct pattern for greater interest.

If you do draw a line down the center of the board apply wall-paper strips with rubber cement brushed on back of paper and board and allowed to dry until tacky. Then stick the two together. Make sure center seam is straight. Smooth down with clean cloth.

Lightly draw the layout on the surface or use a tissue-paper pattern as a guide. A triangle insures true lines and accurate positioning. Use a compass for cir-

Project Is Planned By Treble Clef Club

The Treble Clef Club will meet at its new time, 7:45 p.m., Tuesday in the City Club Room. The program on symphonic music will be under the direction of Mrs. Fay Dellis Adams.

Each member is asked to bring any suitable material for a music shelf the club is sponsoring in the Lovett Library. The music shelf will be the club's main project this year and will be under the chairmanship of Mrs. J. G. Morrison.

The club adopted a recommendation last spring containing the following suggestions:

1) A standing committee of three be appointed by the president of the club to receive and screen all material donated for this shelf, to work with the librarian and act as liaison between the library and the club.

2) All study books used by the club be donated to the library at the end of the year.

3) An annual subscription be given for a magazine in the field of music.

4) Personal donations be given of new and used books.

5) Phonograph records be given to the library and made available for program material only.

6) Personal donations of music be given and made available for use by patrons.

The project and suggestions will be discussed at the Tuesday meeting. Mrs. Mack Hiatt, president, will be in charge.

Gamma Delphians Begin Fall Meets

The Gamma Delphian Society met Friday in the home of Mrs. Jess Clay, 517 N. West, for its fall seminar and for an informal coffee.

Mrs. Clay was leader of the program, "The Fourth Estate." Mrs. George Hrdlicka spoke on the influence of the newspaper, and Mrs. Knox Kinard told of the newspaper readers and their wants. Propaganda and suppression of news was explained by Mrs. R. W. Karr, and Mrs. W. R. Ewing told of the principle sources of news. Freedom of the press was the topic of Mrs. A. D. Hills.

Present were Meses: Carl Axel, son, W. R. Ewing, Ervin Pursly, Al Lawson, George Hrdlicka, Jess Clay, Knox Kinard, Sam Cook, A. D. Hills, Azelle Loftus, J. G. Lyons, H. H. Boynton, R. W. Karr and Isla Campbell.

Miss Janet Russ And Glen E. Farmer Exchange Wedding Vows In Wheeler

WHEELER — (Special) — Miss Janet Russ, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Russ Jr. of Hale Center, recently of Wheeler, became the bride of Glen Farmer of Wheeler in the home of the bride's parents in Hale Center at 3 p.m. Aug. 26.

B. M. Ligon, minister of the Church of Christ of Jal. N.M., read the double-ring ceremony in front of a fireplace decorated with baskets of pink and white gladioli and green stock and arrangements of white gladioli and greenery.

Miss Bobby Louthan of Hale Center played pre-nuptial piano selections and the traditional wedding march.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a ballerina-length dress of Dresden blue nylon over taffeta, fashioned with a full pleated skirt, an empire waistline accented by a lace panel, an off-the-shoulder neckline and small pleated sleeves. Her short circular veil fell from a halo of blue tulle accented by tiny pink flowers. Her only jewelry was a string of pearls, a gift from the bridegroom. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink sweetheart roses tied with white satin streamers. For something old, she wore her maternal grandmother's engagement ring, a moonstone; for something new and blue, her ensemble; and for something borrowed, a handkerchief borrowed from the pianist, Miss Louthan.

Miss Billie Owen of Amarillo was the maid of honor. She wore a pink-orchid ballerina-length dress of antique silk over taffeta, with a fitted bodice, bouffant skirt and square portrait neckline accented by a rolled collar. Her bandeau was of matching material covered with tulle. She carried a colonial bouquet of blue pink and white French carnations.

Bob Weatherly of Wheeler was best man.

Mrs. Russ, mother of the bride, wore a cinnamon princess styled dress of rayon faille, with coffee frost accessories and a pink carnation corsage.

The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Farmer, wore a cinnamon silk shantung two piece dress, with pink accessories and pink carnation corsage.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the

Make Your Vacation Live Again In Picture Display On A Wall

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

Call your vacation snapshots for an imaginative record of your travels and earn a star for thoughtfulness from friends who are cornered to hear the details of the trip.

You can use the best as the springboard for a sprightly wall display in recreation or family room.

The rest can be boxed or pasted up for the delight of the family who alone remember how exciting it was to catch the fish or how the scenic wonder looked in focus without Junior's clowning in the foreground.

Strike a theme for the display. If fishing was the main event, as it was for a friend of mine who devised the sailing pictured above, you can incorporate an old rod and reel and a length of line to set the pace.

On a background of perforated hardboard, she hung the pole diagonally and "flew" the snapshots together with fishing line. Trout flies on the line add color.

For more color, she mounted the best pictures on colored construction paper. Unusually fine negative offerings of milk, fruit juice and water. Many Babies who go on a milk strike will drink it eagerly in warm weather.

The dirtiest, wiggliest age is around 18 months. It may be a great strain on your back to get Baby clean after a day of exploring the floor and park. If so, try getting in the tub with him, where it's easier to scrub and get a grip.

Before painting stucco, make sure the surface is wire-brushed thoroughly to remove any salt formation. The paint should be applied promptly.

A beach trip, exploring a big city or a restful vacation on a farm all suggest accessories that will perk up the picture's account of the vacation.

A few sea shells pasted on heavy paperboard for they could be arranged on tiny shelves suspended, and a shiny shovel from the children's shoe store add interest to pinned up snapshots of your beach trip. An aerial view of a city or a souvenir could do the same for metropolitan vacations.

College Beliefs

The comments of Dr. Riley B. Montgomery, president of College of the Bible, Lexington, Ky., and president of the International Convention of Christian Churches, on independent colleges are of more than passing interest.

He shows just how mixed up our college presidents can be, even in a discussion of their own business.

Much, of course, of what Dr. Montgomery said in his discussion of "The Small Christian College" needs definition. For instance, he said that:

"It provides a sound and adequate liberal or general education of high quality that is essential to good citizenship in a democratic society where the intelligence and the broad understanding of the citizen insures the democratic way of life."

In the one sentence, it will be noted, Dr. Montgomery used the phrase "democratic society" and the "democratic way of life." Surely Dr. Montgomery knows that most of the ills that beset our nation today come as a result of turning away from a republican (small letter, please) form of government and towards a democracy or, more accurately, mobocracy . . . in which the will of 51 per cent or more of the voters determines what is right and wrong from a system of government under which government's powers were limited to a system wherein the only limitation of government's powers is what the politicians think the traffic will bear at the moment.

On Dr. Montgomery's second point: "It provides a small, closely knit community of learners in quest of knowledge and truth without limitations or restrictions on the range of search," we would like to comment. Until we have found a "small Christian college" whose leaders and teachers will point out to their students that the public school system is a form of socialism that ought to be shunned by Americans we question whether the "quest of knowledge and truth" is "without limitations or restrictions."

Of his third point we can only say that it sounds like typical New Deal-jargon and that as such is uninteresting. What does he mean when he says "It guides all its students and faculty in democratic living and learning which motivates growth and maturity in social responsibilities?"

It is in his fourth point that Dr. Montgomery indicates that he realizes what a "small Christian college" should do when he says that:

"It gives experience in living and learning freedom in the fellowship of free persons where freedom is granted to others as well as received from others. This experience prepares young people in mind, heart, conduct and character to stand against influences that would rob them or their fellows of the right to freedom in any walks or areas of life."

We have never heard of a small Christian college that was not eager for government handouts in the form of tax exemptions for the schools and through making contributions to such schools a tax deductible item when a donor contributes to the school's support.

Having gone this far in pointing out what we feel are the erroneous viewpoints of Dr. Montgomery (which are shared by nearly all of his fellow college presidents), we should point out that such schools are certainly of greater service than state supported schools or have a better opportunity to serve students and all of us than a government school enjoys. Because such colleges as Dr. Montgomery represents are less under the thumb of government there is a greater chance that there will be more expression of freedom than there is in a state school.

THE NATION'S PRESS

THE RUSSIAN WINDOW SHOP

(Chicago Tribune)

There were apparent overtones of irony in the inspection tour made by visiting Soviet farm tractorists through the International Harvester company's tractor plant here. The company has had a run on file against the Soviet government for 30 years, based on the communist seizure of the International Harvester works near Moscow and 10 sales and warehouse branches. The value of this property was between $50 million and $60 million dollars. The company president, John L. Caffery, made an oblique reference to this outstanding Soviet litigation when the Russian spokesmen referred to the hope that there would be an expansion of trade relations between the United States and the Soviet Union. Our company is not a stranger to your country or to some of our lines served the Russian farm for a long period of years, we have such confidence in their ability, past and present, that

I suspect some of them are still being used in your country."

Mr. McCaffery may have been suggesting that the Communists are still using his company's facilities to turn out International Harvester copies. He had some reason to believe that the Communists are very good imitators.

A few months ago, he recalled, the Russians put out feelers to purchase mechanical cotton pickers. When International Harvester checked with the United States department of commerce, it lost interest in the possible sale. Russia wanted to purchase only one machine. It is not unreasonable to conclude that the Russians intended to copy the model without leave.

Perhaps the tractorists the Russians have been turning out in International Harvester's old Moscow plant are now recognized to be obsolete. If so, they would probably be willing to go so far as to buy one new model tractor here. A little later we should probably hear that Russian technology had secured another "first" by inventing radical innovations in tractor design.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES

Can American Farmers Teach Russians Free Enterprise

A recent article written by Columnist Ray Tucker quotes an Iowa farmer as saying to the Russian visitors, "The Government can't tell me what to plant! I can let my farm go to weeds, if I want to, and it's nobody's business!"

Any farmer should be permitted to let his land go to weeds, provided the seeds from the weeds do not blow over on the neighbor's farm and thus cause the neighboring farmer extra labor to eradicate the weeds. Ownership of land doesn't give any individual the right to so operate it that he directly damages his neighbors'.

This kind of control, however, is an entirely different kind of control than having the government tell each farmer how many acres he can plant of a certain crop so that the government will have less of the crop to buy.

And if he has no record of having produced this crop, he cannot produce it.

Tucker relates what the New York-Washington correspondent for the Manchester Guardian of England had to say as to how American farmers did not really believe in free enterprise, in an unhampered market.

Fifty years ago they did to a large extent believe in free market. They even protested against protective tariffs for the manufacturer that compelled them to pay more for the things they bought, but now the farmers have, sad to relate, largely given up the idea of a free economy. They are worshipping the myth that the government should take care of them and relieve them of the necessity of competing for this world's good.

So it seems a pity that our Government has had Russian Bureaucrats posing as Russian farmers come to America to learn about the blessings of free enterprise.

The Manchester Guardian used to be a newspaper that largely advocated a free economy but now, judging from their columnist's writings, they have joined the collectivists, the social planners. What makes me draw this conclusion?

Listen to this statement by Mr. Cooke of the Manchester Guardian. "The curious thing is that so few Americans seem to have understood the change in their own country. Fifty years ago, they had a system of free enterprise which brought them to the verge of ruin. Now, they have hybrid, which is half healthier."

It is too bad that England has newspaper correspondents that are so ill-informed that they make statements like the above. It was not a system of free enterprise that brought the United States to the verge of ruin. It was interference with free enterprise by the government that brought the United States to the 29's and 30's to a state of ruin.

The interference was such laws as the Norris-LaGuardia Law and the Adamson Act and the Clayton Amendment to the Sherman Anti-Trust Law that gave certain labor groups the right to do things that were immoral and illegal and unjust if done by the individual or a corporation. It was also such laws as the Federal Reserve system and the graduated income tax and protective tariffs and subsidies to "education" and the Federal Reserve System that took the control of money and credit out of the free market control "which brought the United States to the verge of ruin."

It is the belief that free enterprise brought on the depression and caused people to believe that the politicians—the state—could manage men's affairs better than they could manage themselves, that is leading us into such foolishness such as parity prices and limiting acreage and one foolish law after another.

It is no wonder that England has gone socialist when a columnist in the Manchester Guardian is so badly confused as this columnist is. Certainly the United States farmers could not very well sell the Russian representatives the belief in the blessings of American agriculture operating under a free and unhampered market.

The great trouble with human relations is that when we get into trouble due to collectivist government laws, too many people that think they believe in free enterprise blame free enterprise rather than the government, the real cause of our trouble and our real economic enemy.

Truman's Blast At Ike Backfires Against Dems

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Harry S. Truman's intensely bitter and partisan attack on President Eisenhower has taught a salutary lesson to the Democratic high command.

The accusation that Ike had been guilty of "misrepresentation, deceit and demagoguery" was received so unfavorably by the Nation's press and Party politicians that the former President has cancelled his scheduled speaking tour, at least temporarily.

Truman attributed his abrupt and unexpected decision to the advice of his physician and Mrs. Truman. It is not difficult to believe that she argued against another "give 'em hell" campaign, for she was deeply hurt by his vigorous 1952 speeches. She did not accompany him on any of his major political tours.

But Truman himself had told friends only a few days before the cancellation that he was "fit as a fiddle," that he was bored with political inactivity, and that he ached to "get into the thick of things." He is reported to have conceived a deep prejudice against the man he once offered to back for the Democratic Presidential nomination — Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Truman's possible withdrawal is understandable. His extreme views, especially on racial and labor matters, are resented fiercely in the South, which the Stevenson-Bulter forces have been trying to placate. He would have done all the good work and good will they have been trying to build in Dixie through such figures as Speaker Sam Rayburn and local leaders. His earthy language also offended women voters.

Democratic bigwigs will deny that Truman is an unwanted campaigner — a denial is a "must" when many of the leading Democratic newspapers deplored his revival of personal and political bitterness, they found it necessary to greet his trial effort with stony silence. Even the stubborn and headstrong Truman had to take the hint.

The embarrassment resulting from Truman's Michigan experiment, however, will continue to shadow the Party and its 1956 nominee. For the former President has said that, provided his health permits, he will take to the stump next year, "if I am asked to do so."

He places the 1956 standard-bearer in a difficult dilemma. If the Democratic candidate — Stevenson, Harriman, Kefauver, etc. — seeks the Missouriian's oratorical assistance, he will take on all the former Chief Executive's enemies. But if the request should not be forthcoming, it will mean that the Party will find itself in the position wielders are snipping Uncle's fiscal whiskers, their natural rate of growth will just about restore at one end what is being cut off the other end.

I suggest putting Tony Buono to work on this. Any man who can complete a shave in 26 seconds surely ought to be able to do something about Uncle Sam's vasty Vandike faster than it is being done today.

of disowning and repudiating its only living former President and the most articulate expounder of its 20-year-old New Deal record.

And, of course, such a snub would be interpreted as a slap at Truman's stoutest political supporters — labor, racial and farm groups.

The Democratic Presidential situation, meanwhile, appears to have been clarified within the last few weeks, or since the politicians began to think and talk seriously about their prospects. As regularly contended in this column, if looks as if Adlai E. Stevenson will be a first-ballot selection.

Tammany Boss Carmine G. De Sapio is still pushing Governor Averell Harriman, but the latter still bows to Stevenson. Harriman will become a strong contender only if the Illinois man cannot round up an early majority.

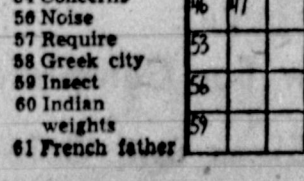

Senator Estes Kefauver's Stevenson enters primary contests, he will corral many delegates which the Tennesseean had in 1952. Several states which backed the crime investigator three years ago — Pennsylvania, California, even Tennessee — appear to favor Stevenson now.

The South apparently has no opposing candidate. Senator Richard B. Russell of Georgia has taken himself out of the race, and Senator Lyndon B. Johnson's health will not permit him to engage in the struggle.

The Doctor Says

By EDWIN J. JORDAN, M. D.

There are innumerable superstitions surrounding the appearance of birthmarks.

Even in this enlightened age, many people believe that birthmarks result from some incident to which the mother was exposed while carrying her child.

The notion that if a baby is born with a strawberry mark, the mother either ate a lot of strawberries during pregnancy or showed an uncontrollable desire for these berries still persists.

Quite often the appearance of a birthmark is blamed on some dreadful experience of the mother during pregnancy. There is no scientific evidence to support such beliefs.

There are several kinds of birthmarks. Many of them are moles, which may be flat or elevated and dark or almost skin color. Brown ones are called pigmented moles. Some are hairy. Probably most of these should be let alone.

SOME BIRTHMARKS are made up of a great many tiny blood vessels in the skin. Often they are irregularly shaped and slightly raised. This is called a spider nevus because the blood vessels at the center look like the body while the smaller ones passing outward, resemble the legs of a spider.

Such marks may appear anywhere but are particularly common around the lips or tongue.

Another common variety of birthmark made up of blood vessels is called a port wine stain. This is called a spider nevus because the blood vessels at the center look like the body while the smaller ones passing outward, resemble the legs of a spider.

WHAT TREATMENT should be used for a birthmark? The answer to this question depends on the location, the size, and the kind. Some can be removed by local treatment, including surgery, various types of electric cautery, freezing with carbon dioxide snow.

Right To Work Bans Not Wanted In South

By Thurman Sensing

For a number of years we have heard much discussion on both sides — and it still continues — of the luring to the South or the pirating by the South of industry located in other sections of the country. It is to be doubted that much luring or pirating has actually taken place, rather that industry has moved to the South or sprung up in the South for perfectly natural reasons.

Be that as it may, there is one type of industry that the South does not want — and that is industry that in any way results in destruction of the right to work. It is no accident that the eleven states of the old Confederacy have all passed "Right to Work" laws. These laws are fundamental to the Southern philosophy that while a man may join a union if he wishes, there is no power on earth that should force him to do so before he can get a job or hold a job and make a living for himself and his family. To do so is to destroy freedom — and the South is a great believer in freedom of choice.

It makes no difference, either, whether this convincing to destroy the individual's right to work is promoted by labor bosses or by management or by an unholy alliance between the two. It is well known that in some sections of the country management has been perfectly willing to accept the closed or union shops. This may be done either through indifference to the rights of the individual, through greed because strikes would cut into their profits, or through apathy because it makes their job easier for them — but the effect is the same.

Such management does not seem to realize that when this is done they are placing their industries under the complete dictatorship of the labor unions. Having once found out that this is the result, however, they at the same time realize that industry in other sections that does not suffer under this dictatorship has great competitive advantage. But, instead of trying to remove the shackles that bind them, they instead want to make their competition equal by having it bound with the same shackles.

It is to be suspected that this attitude underlies much of the criticism of Southern industry by other parts of the country.

Industry in the South has thus far been comparatively free of union domination. There have been strikes and violence in Dixie, that is true, and such things are to be deplored — but they are better than suffering under union dictatorship. When the unions dominate, industry is controlled by, and the individual worker is subjected to, the whims and fancies of the labor bosses.

Such industry is not wanted in the South — by honest workers or by decent management. The "Keep Out" sign should be posted at all entrances.

One of the reasons we hear most often as to why we need not be concerned about another depression is that the Government cannot afford to let it happen.

That is dangerous reasoning — because it leads straight into the planned economy of socialism. Our present boom may go on for a long time, but let's not think it must go on forever because the Government cannot afford to let it stop.

If the Government cannot allow interest rates to rise because it would cost too much to service the national debt, then the Government must guarantee easy money. If the Government must guarantee an ample supply of money, then the Government must keep the printing presses running. If the Government must guarantee full employment, then the Government must take over the direction of business and industry. If the Government must see that the national income remains high so it may obtain sufficient taxes to operate its budget, then the Government must underwrite our economy.

Actually, Government in a free nation cannot guarantee prosperity. It can only establish the rules; the people themselves must play the game. We cannot both have our cake and eat it, too; we cannot have both Government provided security and individual freedom. It is to be hoped that we never have another depression in this country, but human nature being what it is, it is to be doubted that we shall not. Of course, if we go into socialism to avoid it, then we shall have permanent depression. Witness Britain's Labor Government!

After His First Catch, Hank's A Real Salmon Fan

By HENRY McLEMORE

Faced with the choice of either catching a salmon while in Seattle (where salmon fishing is as much a religion as it is a sport) or risk social ostracism, I was on Puget Sound yesterday long before the fish, notoriously early-risers, were up.

It was kind of eerie out there on the Sound, with only Mary, who was asleep in the bow, and a bait-pot of herring for company. As I put-putted about, waiting for the sun to rise from behind the Cascades, I had plenty of time to try to find out from myself why I was out there.

I wasn't there because I was certain to catch a salmon, even though I was on the greatest salmon fishing grounds in the world. No one gets any more strikes than I do, but did you every try to have your picture taken with a strike? Or try to broil one? No one could guarantee I would get a fish even if I were fishing in a barrel with a stick of dynamite for bait.

I wasn't on Puget Sound in the pre-dawn chill because I am a born fisherman and would rather fish than eat. There are men who like to fish even when nothing is biting. They are perfectly satisfied just to be outdoors, communing with Nature. I have never found a seat on a fishing boat that was as comfortable as a living room rocker.

I wasn't there because I like to get up early in the morning. A sunrise has never appealed to me as much as the sight of the whole sun itself. The way the sun is, say, around ten-thirty or eleven in the morning. No colored clouds to distract from its majesty. No sleep in a man's eyes, either.

Then the sun came up and I had to quit quizzing myself, because the water off Al Christensen's boat house on Whidbey Islands was jammed with boats. How I ever missed running into a dozen or so of them in the darkness, I'll never know.

I had never fished for salmon before so it took me a little while to get my tackle rigged. I had quite a bit of trouble threading my hearing onto the triple hook device. The herring has to be put on just so, else it won't look alive in the water and the salmon will pass it by. And if there is anything more slippery than a herring when you are handling it with slightly numbed fingers, I don't know about it.

By the time I had our lines out people in other boats already were landing salmon. A very stout lady in a small cruiser not much larger than herself must have been using government bonds for bait, for before breakfast time she had already landed the limit.

Mary made sure our boat wouldn't be skunked, as fishermen say, by hauling in a salmon when she reeled in to see if her bait was still in good shape. It was the smallest salmon ever caught. I am sure. How I ever got that far out in the Sound is a mystery. It wasn't more than three inches long, and surely, couldn't have swam (swum?) out there by itself. Hitched a ride, I imagine.

Then I caught my first salmon — an 18-pound Chinook. And then I knew why I was out there on Puget Sound. It sternerly resented being caught by the likes of me, and put up a game fight. We could have caught our limit, I'm sure, but we headed for shore as soon as the Chinook was safely aboard. I wasn't going to run the risk of capsizing, or getting blown out to sea, and losing that salmon.

The Chinook really weighed 18 pounds. I am amazed that I didn't write 38 pounds, instead of 18. I think I'll change it to 38 right now. Makes a better story, doesn't it?

PFCs With PhDs Teach Generals About Atoms

By DICK DICKSON
NEA Special Correspondent
ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. — (NEA) — Unique among American colleges and universities is "Nuclear U." at Sandia Air Force Base in Albuquerque, where Pfc's with PhD's teach generals — and others — the fundamentals of atomic weapons.

Its students, who range from buck privates to admirals, generals and top-ranking civilian defense officials, need top secret clearance to learn their ABC's — atom bomb construction. Faculty members have dubbed it "The Kremlin" because it is housed in a huge, windowless building, heavily guarded and surrounded by barbed wire.

Even the exact number of men from every branch of service who have graduated since the school opened in 1947 is a classified secret. But there's nothing secret about the tough grind; failures average between five and 10 per cent in each class.

"There is no substitute for perfection in this business," one instructor pointed out. "Either they know it or they don't."

Sgt. I. C. Olen, a pioneer instructor at the school, said some students show fear when they find themselves looking into the business end of an atomic bomb — until they become familiar with it and gain respect for it.

Occasionally a student enters the school whose views are opposed to subjects taught there. One such case was related by Air Force Staff Sgt. Royce C. Bloomer, a 26-year-old instructor from Flint, Mich.

"This one boy was a conscientious objector, violently opposed to the use of atomic weapons in warfare," Bloomer said. "He didn't remain in school very long when his views became known. He was transferred."

Students and instructors alike never know if a security agent is mingling with the students to see if the nation's most highly guarded secrets are properly safeguarded.

Student texts and notebooks, some classified as high as top secret are never allowed to leave the building. If a student has homework to do, he must return to the study rooms in the Kremlin and do his work there.

The notebooks themselves, which may contain anything from an innocent doodle to highly classified information, are destroyed 30 days after the student graduates. As far as anyone at the school knows, never has a text book or notebook been lost or unaccounted for.

"If such notebooks ever were to stray, they would prove invaluable to the Kremlin in Moscow," said Pfc. Edward Catalano, a 27-year-old draftee instructor who holds a Ph.D. degree in physical chemistry from the University of Chicago.

Asked if he thought teaching such unusual classes was any different from teaching a civilian class, 24-year-old Pfc. David K. Adams replied, "Yes, we have to go on KP."

Pfc. Adams, who received his

M.A. degree in physics, is no different from the other brilliant enlisted instructors at Nuclear U. All must participate in their share of details common at any military base.

Pfc. Adams, who has taught first and second year physics to college students, thought the actual teaching of generals and privates no different from what he experienced before entering service.

"All are equal when it comes to taking exams," he said. Asked what a typical question on an exam might be, Adams said, "Explain the neutrino hypothesis."

This, he told a reporter, "is a particle no one has ever seen, but thought to exist in order to explain the behavior of nuclear material."

COUSINS SHARE HEADACHES — If there were Academy awards for black eyes and sore heads, four-year-old Mary Catherine Cailteux, left, of Clyde, Kan., and Ronald Martin, 5, of Salina, Kan., might win the honors. The children, cousins, were hit on the head by baseball bats just a day apart at different places, but under the same circumstances. They just ran into bats being swung by playmates.

French Round Up African Subversives

PARIS — UP — Police rounded up hundreds of North Africans today in a crackdown on Nationalist subversion throughout France and prepared to deport hundreds of them to Algeria for questioning.

The crackdown appeared directed chiefly against members of the "revolutionary North African committee" and police said "several hundred Algerians" were taken into custody. They will be sent to Algeria for questioning.

Police action came as Madagascar dispatches reported the arrival there of two government envoys. They were expected to seek approval of the exiled former Sultan of Morocco, Sidi Mohammed Ben Youssef, for France's reform program for that protectorate.

Arrival of the French team was considered a major break in the Moroccan crisis and indicated that negotiations between France and Moroccan nationalists over limited home rule had advanced far enough for Ben Youssef's opinion to be sought.

It was the center of Ben Youssef two years ago for his nationalist leanings that caused the long crisis in Morocco which cost thousands of lives. The envoys were Gen. Georges Catroux, former Moroccan resident general, and Henry Yrissoir, director of the personal cabinet of Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay.

Niven Wants 'News Making' Hollywoodites To Get Medal

By ALINE MOSBY

HOLLYWOOD — UP — Some Hollywoodites blush when movietown "characters" make front pages with their antics, but David Niven proposed Monday that they be given an award.

Community leaders of the cinema city are forever insisting Hollywood is like any small town, and the residents upstanding, ordinary people.

Niven yawns that true blue persons are "dull" and "we should all get down on our knees to thank the colorful ones."

"Hollywood is a show-so let's give them a show," said the English actor in his clipped accent.

"We should thank the people who give this town glamour, and we should give them an award. Those of us who aren't colorful should bless those who are."

Niven dreamed up this Oscar for oddballs. "The Tiger award," while he was reading a recent weekly magazine cover story on one of the town's most volatile characters, Frank Sinatra.

The initials for his "Tiger" trophy stand for the qualifications: Talent ("you must be sure to have that"), individuality, guile, eccentricity and realism.

Niven nominations for the 1955 Tigers:

Marion Brando, Humphrey Bogart, Frank Sinatra, Grete Garbo.

Marlene Dietrich, Marilyn Monroe, Ava Gardner and Errol Flynn; Producers Samuel Goldwyn and Mike Todd; Directors John Huston, Otto Preminger and Ella Kazan.

"These young actors!" he groaned. "If they cook their own breakfast, fine, but why be photographed for some fan magazine doing it in an apron? The newcomers should try to be themselves."

In the old days, reflected Niven as he stood on the "Birds and the Bees" set at Paramount, Hollywood had more colorful characters.

"When I came out here we had Robert Benchley, Charlie Butterworth, F. Scott Fitzgerald and Jack Gilbert," he said.

"Connie Bennett had a great Rolls Royce with a chauffeur who sat outside. Tom Mix had a big white Packard and wore a 10-gallon hat. Dietrich had the longest car ever made, with a chauffeur who wore two guns and a mink collar."

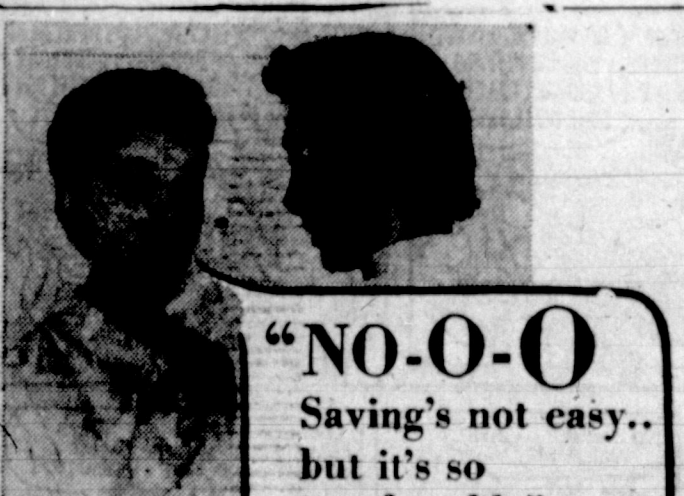

Niven thinks youngsters Jimmy Dean and Eva Marie Saint "may qualify for a Tiger award in a few years—they're shaping up rather well." Niven didn't agree, but I thought he should add Zsa Zsa Gabor and Terry Moore to his list of characters who give the town spice.

"I wish to God I was a character myself," he added. "But I'm not."

HST Hits Administration On Organized Labor Views

By LEE LINDBERG
DETROIT, Mich.—UP—Former President Harry S. Truman accused the Eisenhower administration Monday of "opposition or indifference" to organized labor.

He characterized President Eisenhower as "the kind of man who gives you a big smile and some nice promises in the political campaign, and then turns you over to your enemies for the next four years."

The GOP administration, he charged in a speech prepared for delivery at noon, is "more concerned with dollars than with people."

Doctor's Wishes Ignored
Mr. Truman ignored the wishes of his wife and doctor to make the Labor Day address before 50,000 members of AFL and CIO unions and their families.

He told newsmen his wife and doctor are "always worried about me doing too much, but I slipped out on them and came to Detroit."

The former President addressed the Detroit and Wayne county federation of labor from the steps of city hall. It was the same platform where he launched his successful "give 'em hell" campaign for the presidency in 1948.

Friendship Promised
Mr. Truman promised that the Democratic candidate next year will be a friend of labor "during his whole term in office."

"While I am not asking for votes for myself," he said, "I do ask you and hope that you will support the Democratic candidate for President next year."

"I am not in a position to tell you who it will be, but I can assure you of this: 'He will be a good friend of labor.'"

POSTCARD ROUTINE—Americans inevitably are found lined up at the Place de l'Opera in Paris using the balustrade of a Metro station to dash off some "wish you were here" notes.

America Goes On Spree With European Travel

By KENNETH O. GILMORE
NEA Staff Correspondent

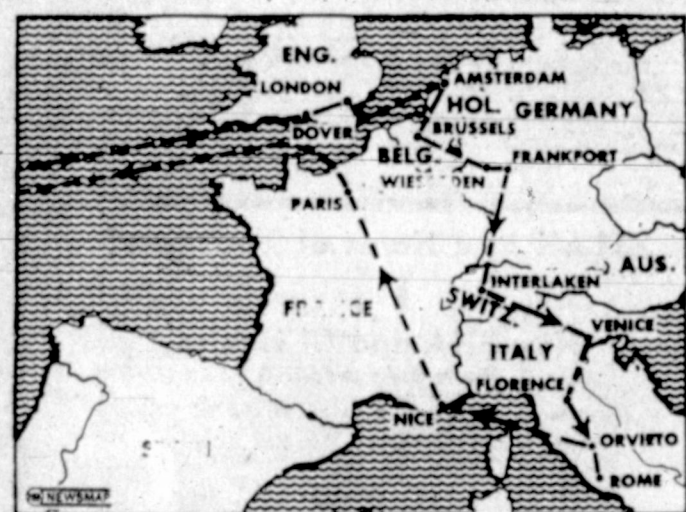

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Breeding to Europe to see the sights is getting to be like buying a car or TV set. For the average American it has become one of those necessary and attainable luxuries.

From the haggard looks of passport officials to the prosperous smiles on the faces of travel agents, all signs point to 1955 as the biggest overseas travel year in U.S. history. And it isn't just the wealthy who are taking off by boat and plane.

Small wage earners by the thousands are flocking across the sea to frolic in Paris, see the royalty in London, worship in Rome and canal-it in Venice. They're taking advantage of well promoted and economic tourist offers, group trips, and pay-after-you-come-back plans.

Now that the season has just passed its peak, travel experts are able to say with certainty that records will be broken for number of housewives, bus drivers, bricklayers, college students, secretaries and clerks who are will be in Western Europe.

"The American public is on a colossal traveling spree," says Miss Frances Knight, director of the U.S. Passport Office. She ought to know. For every minute of the working day during June — she and her undermanned staff issued or renewed on the average of 6.5 passports. This totaled 71,628 passports which was above the May figure for the first time in history — and well ahead of the June, 1954, total of 43,432.

TYPICAL TRIP — Four weeks of travel in Europe, according to American Express Co., follows route on this map. It costs $1,000 and includes fares, hotel tips and personally conducted tours.

Reds List Army Cuts

LONDON, Sept. 3 — UP — Communist Poland and Communist Albania announced Saturday night they will reduce their armed forces by December, 1955.

Albanian and Polish broadcasts monitored here said the Polish army will be reduced by 47,000 men by Dec. 20, and the Albanian army by 9,000 by Dec. 31.

Both broadcasts said the released men will be employed in industrial and agricultural enterprises.

The two Communist announcements came within minutes of each other from the Polish agency Pap and the Albanian news agency Tirana.

They followed Russian and Czechoslovak announcements that the Russian army would be reduced by 640,000 men and the Czech army by 45,000.

The Polish broadcast said the reduction was decided on because of the "progress made in easing international tension owing to the Geneva conference."

The world Almanac puts the military strength of the Poles at 600,000 men.

The Albanian announcement said the decision to reduce the armed forces was made "to contribute to the further easing of international tension and the consolidation of mutual trust between states."

"We were doing nicely until this year when for no predictable reason there was a 30 per cent increase in travel," says Miss Knight. "And it is estimated that by 1960 over a million persons will be going overseas."

What became a gigantic headache for the new passport chief is a delight for the professional travel services who are enjoying an unprecedented amount of business. And they all confirm that, as never before, a large segment of their customers are from the lower income groups.

"Our final travel figures for this year will exceed by far anything we have experienced," says James H. Cowan, manager of the international travel department for the American Automobile Association. "We've had a 35 per cent increase up to now."

"The housewife is our No. 1 tourist. Second comes skilled labor, then clerks and secretaries. Professional persons such as doctors and lawyers are seventh or eighth on the list."

Says Stephen Halsey, Washington representative of the American Express Co., "Now a secretary who makes $65 to $75 a week can afford to make a trip to Europe by saving up enough for a small down payment. And there are a lot of families in the $4,000 to $8,000 income group who are traveling abroad. The war scare is over and people feel they can go out on the line as far as credit is concerned to travel."

Slackening of cold war tensions and general prosperity are two of the most common reasons given by private and public officials here for the huge exodus to Europe, which is expected to reach one half million mark this year.

In addition, Miss Knight notes such factors as the increase in the number of vacations with pay, early retirement and pension plans and social security. "People who 20 years ago would have thought they were too old to travel," she explains, "pick up tickets and off they go."

"Americans are the most traveled people in the world," adds Edwy Reeves, executive officer of the Passport Division. "Many of them have seen the high spots in the U.S., and now they want to go further afield."

He also points out that people want to move faster than ever before due to air travel. Pan American airlines reports, for example, that they flew 14,780 persons to Europe in June — a 33 per cent increase over the same period last year. And it is estimated that during June 2,000 persons a day were flying across the Atlantic.

Where are Americans going in Europe and how much are they spending? The Commerce Department's newly created international office reports that during 1954 roughly 420,000 American tourists spent 252 million dollars in the European and Mediterranean area during 1954. This averages $59 per person, not including transportation costs from $200 to $500.

A trip abroad can be done for less, however. One of the most popular and cheap modes of travel is with a group ranging from 20 to 100 persons. The usual itinerary includes the highspots of England, Holland, Belgium, France, Switzerland, Germany and Italy.

The American Express Co. offers a four-week junket covering these countries for $1,000 including these hotels, boat fare, and personally conducted tours of historic sites.

During the spring and fall the AAA had a 28-day budget trip for $755. This so-called off season travelling is becoming more and more popular. But most of the AAA's customers go on the 50-day tour of Western Europe, which runs to $1,130.

Cook's travel service, which is the oldest in the world, sets up a five week European trip which costs between $1,100 and $1,200. And if you have the money, they'll also take you on an African safari.

One of the newest trends is the quick trip to Europe. Going by air, a business man and his wife can swing through England, the Netherlands and France in two weeks for roughly $650 each.

Truman Labor Leaders Rake Ike In Labor Day Speeches

By RICHARD C. SIZEMORE

WASHINGTON — UP — With former President Harry S. Truman in the van, Democrats and union leaders Monday raked the Eisenhower administration with a barrage of critical Labor Day oratory.

Mr. Truman, speaking before 50,000 AFL and CIO members at Detroit, accused the administration of "opposition or indifference" to the welfare of organized labor. He characterized President Eisenhower as "the kind of man who gives you a big smile, and some nice promises in the political campaign, and then turns you over to your enemies for the next four years."

The former President said he doesn't know yet who will be the Democratic presidential candidate in 1956, "but I can assure you of this: He will be... a friend of labor."

Republicans in their Labor Day speeches and statements called attention to the record employment levels which have been reached under the Eisenhower administration. Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell said 65.3 million Americans held jobs during August — an all-time high and an increase of some 500,000 over July.

President Eisenhower used the occasion to appeal to employers to eliminate "arbitrary" rules against hiring men over 45 years of age. Asserting that many such men "have nearly two decades of productive work ahead of them," the 64-year-old President said:

"Today, when our nation needs every skilled worker available, we cannot afford to squander our manpower through a prejudice which obscures the values of maturity, responsibility and constancy."

In another Labor Day statement, Mr. Eisenhower paid tribute to "all the working men and women of this country," but did not specifically mention the trade union movement.

A rift between Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler and Interior Secretary Douglas McKay was set off when Butler accused McKay of "openly conducting a union-busting drive." McKay called the charge "political demagoguery."
