County residents won't lose water supply

By Ian Heald
Staff Writer

Officials with the Texas Natural Resources Conservation Commission said Monday that county residents who live between county roads 115 and 117 will not lose their rightful access to water.

Last week, James Sawyer, who had sold the land to those residents, sent his 50-plus customers of The South Midland County Water District a letter announcing he would shut down his operation because of recurring monetary losses.

That came as a shock to residents who purchased plots of land in the private community under a contractual agreement with Sawyer that said they would be supplied with fresh water, according to County Commissioner Louisa Valencia.

Despite repeated attempts, Sawyer could not be reached for comment on Monday.

But in a letter to his customers last week, Sawyer wrote, "The water system is not making any money. The expenses are more than the income … . TNRCC (Texas Natural Resources Conservation Commission) is now requiring me to install a 2,500 gallon pressure tank to serve all of my customers. This pressure tank costs at least $10,000, not including the installation fee and the hiring of an engineer to complete the project … . I am deeply sorry for any inconvenience this has caused each of you. The shut off date will be May 1, 2000."

In the letter, Sawyer suggests residents begin drilling their own wells.

Norma Pallanes, one of the county residents, said something has to be done to stop Sawyer from cutting their water supply.

"Here we are: Most have paid for our land and now he's sent a letter saying he's going to close the water," Ms. Pallanes said. "We're very upset. We feel like we've been backstabbed. Now, we've all paid for this land. That's his problem if he can't afford it. He needs to get this money to maintain the water system."

Manuel Olivas, another county resident, was equally frustrated with the situation. "When he (Sawyer) sold us the property he said he'd furnish the water," Olivas said.

Not knowing if the county or state would step in and remedy the situation, Olivas said he has begun plans to dig a well.

"It's a private development done by Mr. Sawyer years ago," Ms. Valencia said. She said the county's hands are tied because the area in question is a private development. Even the roads are owned by Sawyer.

"I started hearing complaints about (Sawyer) when his roads went to pot," Ms. Valencia said. "Everything in there is private. We can't go in there and furnish util-

Courthouse security stays on alert

Benny Matlock and his courthouse crew daily perform duties — sometimes sensitive ones — to prevent harm to others.

They are courteous to courthouse visitors and regulars and, foremost, they are alert to any dangers that could become tools of violence.

"What I have told my people is 'We are like Wal-Mart greeters that can arrest you,'" said Matlock, a Midland County sheriff's lieutenant who heads up the Midland County Courthouse security that was implemented in August 1999 at the behest of the Midland County Commissioners' Court, Sheriff Gary Painter and courthouse judges.

"My folks have to be on their toes," Matlock said.

Each month, Matlock and his officers scrutinize the 28,000 to 34,000 people who enter the courthouse's main and west entries and inspect them for weapons, such as knives and firearms, explosives and contraband.

Matlock's security staff has made courthouse arrests but not for weapons or contraband violations.

"We arrested one guy for public intoxication and breach of security," Matlock said. "We've made several arrests on wanted persons who entered the courthouse."

Johnston attends Amtrak conference to campaign for Midland stop on new route

By Ian Heald
Staff Writer

Marcus Johnston, Midland's director of engineering and development, attended the National Association of Railroad Passengers Conference in Fort Worth to lobby Amtrak officials for a depot in Midland.

In late February, Amtrak announced it would be developing a route through the Permian Basin en route to Los Angeles to help streamline costs. It named Odessa, not Midland, as its future stop.

Despite this, Johnston said he met with Amtrak officials to keep the city of Midland in the loop.

"I asked Amtrak to at least keep us informed of any press releases that would be beneficial to Midland or Amtrak," Johnston said. "I still wanted to attend the meeting to get an idea of what's going on. What I hoped to accomplish out there was make them see there's another city out here besides Odessa."

Mayor Bobby Burns said he supported the trip to Fort Worth. While he does not want to compete with Odessa, or do anything to prevent that city from having a depot, he would like to see Midland with a depot of its own.

Despite Odessa being named as the future stop, Mayor Bobby Burns said he'd like to see Midland get a train depot as well.

When Amtrak's plans were announced in late February, Burns said Midland did not pursue the Amtrak stop because it did not want to interfere with Odessa's plans. But, Burns said, he supported Johnston's trip to Fort Worth. While he does not want to compete with Odessa, or do anything to prevent that city from having a depot, he would like to see Midland with a depot of its own.

"I want to be sure Midland is included in the decision," Burns said. "We want to be in the loop and in the discussion. We want to make sure Midland has every opportunity to be in the loop."

Johnston said Odessa may have beaten Midland to the punch when the Mexican American Network of Odessa (MANO) began lobbying Amtrak four years ago.

"We launched a grass-roots letter campaign to the former CEO of Amtrak," said Iris Correa, executive director of MANO. "We did letter writing that involved Crane, Andrews, Kermit, McKaney and Hobbs. We recommended the I-20 corridor to Amtrak as a stop because it would save them time. This new route will cut 10 hours of time to Los Angeles."

Ms. Correa said the train stop will be ideal for Odessa's development because it will drop off on First Street, near downtown Odessa.

Kevin Johnson, spokesman for Amtrak, said Odessa is the only

Burnet sixth-grader brings gun to school

■ Student faces third-degree felony charges for having a weapon on campus and expulsion under MISD's zero tolerance policy for weapons, alcohol and drugs.

By Jeff Stevens
Staff Writer

At 8:55 a.m. Monday, Burnet Elementary school officials found themselves facing one of the most feared situations in today's educational climate — a child with a firearm.

A teacher, whose identity the district did not make public, noticed a 12-year-old student in her sixth-grade class handling an object under the desk where he was sitting.

"The teacher was very alert and knew the student had something in his possession," said Burnet Principal Larry Hines. "She alerted me of the fact, and we proceeded by getting hold of the MISD security."

The class only had a few students in it, and all but the young man were ushered out of the room. Hines confiscated the gun, which was not loaded. He then notified the child's parents, along with MISD police.

'This is an isolated incident but one we take very seriously.'

— Joseph Baressi Jr., MISD superintendent

According to Sergeant David Colburn of MISD police, the weapon was confiscated for evidence and the boy was taken to Culver Youth Center. He faces third-degree felony charges for having a weapon on campus and expulsion under the district's zero tolerance policy for weapons, alcohol and drugs.

"There will be a recommendation for expulsion," said Colburn.

The officer said the weapon is an old five-shot revolver, probably a .38 caliber. Colburn also shed some light on where the child might have gained access to the gun.

"My understanding is that he was visiting another boy's house over the weekend. I'm not sure if they were both looking at the gun. But the Midland Police Department did take a report in reference to the theft of the firearm, which occurred over the weekend," Colburn said.

Police and school officials do not believe the boy intended to use the gun.

"As far as we know there was no intent to do anyone harm and no threats were made," Colburn said, adding that the boy might have brought the gun to school to return it to its owner.

"This is an isolated incident but one we take very seriously," said Superintendent Joseph Baressi Jr. "Thanks to the teacher's alertness and proper handling of the situation, the students in the classroom were kept safe from a potentially dangerous situation."

PG&E faces new battle with Brockovich

KETTLEMAN HILLS, Calif. (AP) — In the No. 1 hit "Erin Brockovich," many moviegoers are seeing how a brash young legal secretary forced Pacific Gas & Electric Co. to pay a record $333 million settlement for poisoning the water in a small California desert town.

But the movie's story of environmental villainy is only the beginning of the legal and public relations nightmare Brockovich has created for the utility company.

A bigger, broader lawsuit is headed to trial in November against San Francisco-based PG&E and one of its main suppliers.

About 1,500 employees, their families, other residents and farmers who lived or worked near three PG&E gas-compressor plants contend their water supplies also were contaminated with harmful levels of cancer-causing chromium 6 from the 1950s to the 1970s.

The tough-talking, streetwise Brockovich is trying to find every last person who may have been exposed. Being portrayed on screen by Julia Roberts hasn't hurt. In the movie's first week, 40 to 50 potential plaintiffs called.

"We won't feel resolved — morally, ethically, or legally — until we have found everyone we were supposed to," said Brockovich, 39. "And I will keep working until we do."

PG&E has said little about the accuracy of the movie or its effect on the litigation.

"Our general response with respect to the movie is just that we recognize it's a dramatization. It's an entertainment vehicle," spokesman Greg Pruett said. He added that PG&E officials "don't really have any thoughts" about how the film might affect the company's image or influence jurors.

"I will say this: I do believe that when the case is brought to trial, we will mount a very spirited and vigorous defense," he said. "And we are confident we will be successful in that defense."

Brockovich, who was hired by lawyer Ed Masry even though she had no college degree or technical experience, was looking at files for a real estate case in 1992 when she found medical reports about low T-cell counts and other blood problems among residents of the town of Hinkley.

Curious, she drove her beat-up car out to the Mojave Desert town — about 100 miles northeast of Los Angeles — and began a quest that lasted four years.

"Erin did most of the work," Masry, played by Albert Finney in the movie, said of the research that uncovered the Hinkley pollution scandal that brought compensation for 652 Hinkley residents in 1996.

Brockovich earned $2 million for herself. But she wasn't done snooping around.

Suspecting similar problems at other PG&E plants, Brockovich and Masry drove out to Kettleman Hills in California's Central Valley, where employees and their families once lived onsite in a complex they called Camp PG&E.

Masry looked at the cooling towers and the buildings abandoned in the mid-1980s and saw no sign of contamination. He told Brockovich to drop it.

But she noticed a white powder on the needles of the tamarisk trees, an abnormality she remembered from Hinkley. And soon, she was at it again, mining records and tracking down anyone who lived or worked at Kettleman.

Among the boxloads of documents she copied was a 1964 letter from the U.S. Interior Department notifying PG&E about unhealthy levels of chromium 6 in Kettleman's water well.

The Kettleman plaintiffs accuse PG&E of contaminating the water they used for drinking, bathing, swimming and watering crops. They say the water gave them everything from nosebleeds to fatal diseases.

The case also includes about 150 people from Hinkley who missed out on the first lawsuit and about 20 from a plant in Topock, on the California-Arizona line, who also claim they were sickened by chromium. Also being sued is Betz Laboratories Inc. of Pennsylvania, which supplied the chromium, one of the chemicals used to cool natural gas.

Unlike the lawsuit depicted in the movie, PG&E has not offered binding arbitration, which would bring a swift outcome. Lawyers for the plaintiffs say PG&E is trying to prolong the proceedings so that there will be fewer survivors.

PG&E declined to respond to that allegation or any other related to the lawsuit.

Gary Praglin, one of the lawyers for the plaintiffs, said at least 50 people have died since the case was filed about five years ago. Their include cancer, kidney and liver diseases, serious respiratory problems and colon diseases like Crohn's.

Ruth Ann Vaughn, who spent the first 10 of her 47 years at Camp PG&E, recalls the innocent days she spent floating boats carved from Ivory soap in the cooling ponds, or being sprayed by the mist from the cooling towers as she rode on the handlebars of her brother's bike to buy bubblegum from a company snack machine.

She blames chromium exposure for her Crohn's disease and the loss of her sister and mother, who died of multiple organ failure in the early 1990s. And she wants PG&E to pay.

COURTHOUSE: Staff stays on lookout for many things

(From 1A)

Those arrests, he noted, were linked to outstanding misdemeanor or felony warrants.

Matlock said that would-be offenders "have got smart" and "dump it (weapon or drugs) before they enter the courthouse.

"We have quite a few people that come up, see us, and turn around and walk off," Matlock said.

The "why" of their turnaround would be conjecture.

But in some instances, it could be because they were concealing something they ought not to be carrying into the courthouse where weapons, except those carried by Texas or federal peace officers, are prohibited.

Or it could be something as seemingly innocuous as a ballpoint pen or a hairbrush or a lipstick tube or an umbrella or a cane or walking stick.

What could be inside those tools could be not just injurious but deadly:

- A functional ballpoint pen equipped with a made-for-slashing 2-1/2-inch stainless-steel blade in its barrel.
- A plastic hairbrush that conceals a hard-plastic dagger-like blade.
- An apparent tube of lipstick that, instead of containing that waxy and rosy lip coloring, holds a curved cutting blade that extends an inch long and that could inflict a fatal neck wound.
- A plastic shank, shaped like a spear and, like the hairbrush, not picked up by metal detectors.
- A box opener fitted with a razor blade used as a weapon.

"These are not defensive-type weapons," Matlock noted. "These weapons are made for offensive purposes."

The possibilities of concealed weapons — instruments of harm — could be extensive: An umbrella that has a firearm barrel and triggering mechanism for a shaft and handle; a cane or a walking stick that is a scabbard for a sword; a pistol the size of a pocket wallet; or a pair of shoes or boots fitted with a spring-loaded knife.

"If you click your heel right, a knife will come out the end of a boot, the toe, just like something out of James Bond," Matlock said.

"We've had a lot of firearms come in," Matlock noted, "but those handguns have been legally possessed by concealed-handgun-permitted owners," he said. "They are not allowed in the courthouse with them. We do check their conceal-handgun permit."

Texas peace officers, who, by law, are "on duty 24 hours a day, seven days a week," are "allowed in the courthouse with their firearms," Matlock noted. "However, they do sign in."

In the courthouse's main entrance, but not within the secured area of the security officers and their electronic-detection equipment, Matlock and his staff have found contraband, such as marijuana but not "any cocaine yet," marijuana pipes and other drug paraphernalia.

Their X-ray's colored images can detect the density of metals and their shapes to help discern their dangers and can detect organic and inorganic materials.

"We've had narcotics left in the pay phones that are just outside of security," he said. "We have found knives ... dropped in the hallway" prior to security and also have found discarded prescription drugs.

Matlock noted that "any kind of weapon as prescribed by the Texas Penal Code" is prohibited in the courthouse unless it is lawfully carried by a peace officer.

But the Commissioners' Court has "gone one step further and disallowed any kind of knives" because of the "violence that has taken place in other courthouses and county buildings throughout the United States.

"Pocketknives are not allowed inside the courthouse at all," said Matlock, who noted that, by the Commissioners' Court's decree, "Edged weapons, including but not limited to knives, scissors, ice picks, and letter openers, will not be permitted within the secured area of the courthouse."

But in the main, the pocketknife is "a tool in West Texas," Matlock noted. "But if you go to New York City, it's a weapon. Down here (in Texas), 90 percent of the people I have arrested in the last 20 years have a pocketknife on them."

Prohibited weapons also include Mace, pepper spray, clubs, batons, explosives and the firearms.

Matlock noted that 95 percent of the people coming into the courthouse "have absolutely nothing to hide. There's a small percentage that may have something to hide.

"Thus far, we have been very fortunate at the courthouse and not had any (violent) instances yet," Matlock noted. "We have had a couple of disturbances on family-related matters."

Matlock noted that in a courthouse, a "divorce situation or a situation like that of a high-profile crime (court case)" could trigger violence because of the emotional level of those cases.

"The peace officers need to have firearms" as a tool to help curtail violence or to prevent it.

In addition to his staff of peace officers, who include Bob Caraway, Bob Mayo, Nancy Flores, Carolyn Joiner, Dennis Long, and secretary Rosemary Zarate, the courthouse is staffed by armed bailiffs who maintain order in the courts. Those peace officers include Jake Ussery, John Sikes, Robert Carouth, Joe Ortiz, Ronnie Bearden and Tony Rowe.

"Most of our trials involve some kind of emotion," Matlock said, because the judicial system may be "either taking a person's rights away from them or their property away from them, or losing the rights to see their own children.

"There's a lot of emotion involved," Matlock said. "Our job as security here is to prevent harm to anyone ... judges, the employees, the public."

Judge George "Jody" Gilles of the 142nd Texas District Court noted that Midland jury panelists, for example, understand the "minor inconvenience" of the courthouse security system.

"They realized that, unfortunately, there is an aspect of today's society in which they are vulnerable within a public building," Gilles said.

Of security officers, Gilles noted that their qualities would include "being able to deal with the public, a great amount of common sense, the ability to have a gut reaction or a sixth sense when something doesn't seem right."

"We are here to greet people and to help them with directions and to get them in (to the courthouse) comfortably," Matlock said. "But our main job is to protect the employees and the public in this building."

INS says parole for Elian will be revoked Thursday if terms not met

MIAMI (AP) — The federal government said Monday night it would revoke Elian Gonzalez's permission to remain in the United States by Thursday unless his Miami relatives agree to surrender the boy if they lose their court fight to keep him in the country.

"Without a specific written commitment ... we have no choice but to move forward with the termination of Elian's parole as of Thursday, March 30, 2000, at 9:00 a.m." the Immigration and Naturalization Service said in a letter to the attorneys representing the relatives.

The agency said the relatives have failed to make that commitment, which is required under federal law as a condition of Elian's parole, which allowed the 6-year-old Cuban boy to remain in the United States.

Government officials said they called the relatives to a meeting for this morning to discuss the ramifications of the termination and an orderly return of the boy to his father in Cuba. The agency said it was unnecessary to bring the boy but that Lazaro Gonzalez, the boy's great-uncle, should attend.

There was no reaction from Elian's Miami relatives or from the crowd of about 50 people gathered outside the boy's Little Havana home. A family spokesman said lawyers were discussing the letter, and they could not be reached for comment.

Earlier, Linda Osberg-Braun, an attorney for Elian's Miami relatives, insisted the family has complied with the government's demands.

"In light of our cooperation, we request that your officials cease their constant threats to revoke Elian's parole," the attorneys wrote in a letter to Attorney General Janet Reno.

Elian has been at the center of an international tug-of-war since late November, when he was rescued by fishermen who found him lashed to an innertube bobbing off the Florida coast. His mother and 10 others perished when their boat sank during the journey from Cuba to the United States.

Elian's Miami relatives say they can give him a better life than he would have in communist Cuba. They Justice Department, however, says he belongs with his father.

Reno has demanded that the relatives pursue any court appeals rapidly and promise to surrender Elian for return to his father in Cuba if they lose.

An appellate judge on Monday granted requests by the relatives and the Justice Department for an expedited appeal, giving the relatives' attorneys several days more to prepare their arguments than the government would have preferred.

But the relatives had not addressed the government's other demand.

"That being so, the INS is under no obligation to maintain the current arrangement," the government wrote in response, referring to the deal giving Elian's great-uncle custody in the meantime.

The government has made it clear it would not want to do anything to traumatize the boy or provoke Miami's large Cuban community.

WATER: TNRCC says residents will still have access

(From 1A)

ities. It's up to TNRCC more than the county. They're the ones that set the rules."

TNRCC oversees the regulations of water systems throughout the state.

Lindsey Buckner, environmental investigator for TNRCC, said Sawyer's water is safe, but he needs to install pressure maintenance facilities to be under state code.

Buckner said Sawyer was cited in March 1999 for lack of a pressure system but ignored the notice and refused to pay a $938 fine regarding the matter. When Sawyer failed to respond to the fine within 6 months, his case was forwarded to TNRCC's litigation office in Austin, Buckner said.

"He has been under notice for some time now and knew he needed to upgrade the system," said Ruben Ochoa, spokesman for TNRCC.

Ochoa said there is currently enough pressure to operate the system but problems could arise if the electricity went out. A backup system needs to be in place to ensure water pollution doesn't occur, he said.

In addition, Sawyer has been under continual violation for not having a Certificate of Convenience and Necessity, required of anyone who dispenses water to residents to ensure they're doing it safely, Ochoa said.

"We are presently sending him a letter indicating all the requirements that he needs to meet and the consequences of not doing so," Ochoa said. "One consequence is enforcement action from the attorney general. If he refuses well-intentioned information and advice then what can result is a court-ordered receiver," Ochoa said.

If Sawyer decides to abandon the drinking water supply operation then TNRCC will immediately appoint a representative to manage the system, Ochoa said. And abandonment would allow TNRCC to seize any wells owned by Sawyer as well, he added.

Regardless of whether Sawyer cooperates or not, the 50-plus homes in the area will not lose their access to water, Ochoa said.

AMTRAK: Train officials say stop wouldn't be efficient planned stop in the Permian Basin. "Odessa is on the list for planned stops. We are moving forward assuming that's going to happen."

(From 1A)

Despite the city of Midland's optimism, Johnson said there is no legitimate possibility of having stops in both Odessa and Midland.

The reason for choosing a stop in the Permian Basin was to be economical, Johnson said. The new route would eliminate Amtrak service in Del Rio, Sanderson and Alpine. The San Antonio/Los Angeles route would also be eliminated, but other service out of San Antonio would continue, Johnson said.

Two stops in the Permian Basin may combat the desired efficiency of the operation, Johnson said. But he added, "I don't know, never say never."

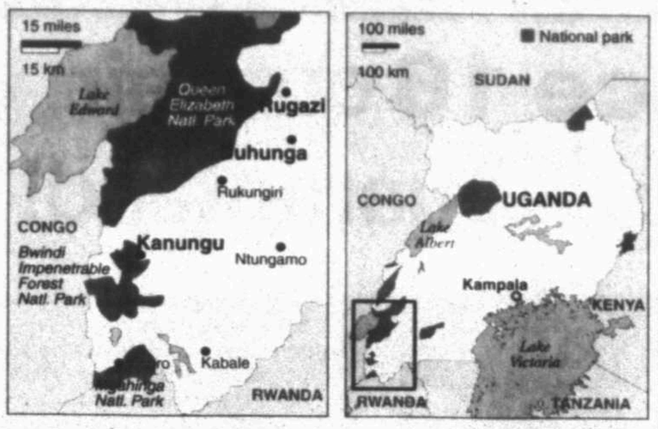
Cult deaths in Uganda

The discovery of a third scene of buried cult members on Monday, comes as authorities continue investigating the deaths of at least 490 other members of the Movement for the Restoration of the Ten Commandments of God in Uganda. Police officials speculate cult leaders fled as followers began to divide when the world didn't end Dec. 31 as was predicted.



Kanungu, March 17: Up to 330 charred bodies are found in a church hall fire. Originally ruled suicides, they are now investigated as murders.

Buhunga, March 24: More than 150 bodies are found hacked or strangled in mass graves. They are believed to have been buried six weeks earlier.

Rugazi, March 27: More than 70 bodies are found at the edge of a sugarcane field knifed or strangled; they are believed to have been buried one month ago.

More bodies uncovered from grave linked to Ugandan cult

RUGAZI, Uganda (AP) — Prison laborers dug layer-by-layer through rotting corpses Monday, pulling dozens of bodies from a mass grave at a sugarcane field — the third scene of carnage linked to a doomsday cult.

The laborers unearthed 73 bodies, including two dozen children and babies, from the field belonging to a defrocked Catholic priest who was one of the sect leaders. The grim discovery brings the number of cult-related deaths that police have confirmed to 562 since a March 17 fire in a makeshift church.

Some of the bodies recovered Monday bore stab wounds and others had pieces of cloth wrapped tightly around their throats. They appeared to have been dead at least a month, said Dr. Ben Twetegire.

The prisoners, shirtless and shoeless, stood head-high in the trench, sweating and digging under a glaring midday sun as they worked to unearth the bodies.

They covered their noses in gauze and passed cigarettes among themselves to try to ward off the enveloping stench, which drifted for hundreds of yards across lush hillsides overlooking a series of volcanic lakes. Onlookers and police plucked leaves from a cypress tree and thrust them into their nostrils to ease the stench.

As the twisted bodies were hoisted from the reddish brown earth, villagers pressed against the crude wood fence at the edge of the cane field.

But there were no screams of recognition. The bodies were apparently those of strangers — sect members who came for seminars on righteous living and the end of the world from former priest Dominic Kataribabo, a leader in the Movement for the Restoration of the Ten Commandments of God.

The bodies, some of them dismembered and one visibly pregnant, were examined for little more than a minute each by Twetegire, who dictated his horrific notes to Medal Magdalene, a 30-year-old health worker. Prisoners then picked up the bodies and flung them into a nearby trench for reburial.

Standing next to the doctor, Magdalene's list went on and on:

Body No. 38. young male. largely decomposed.

Body No. 39. young female. badly decomposed. external signs of violence.

Police inspector Chris Tindigarukayo said authorities didn't wait for forensics experts to examine the bodies before reburial because they feared the spread of disease.

Probe ordered in wake of adventure tourism slaying

UITENHAGE, South Africa (AP) — Police opened a homicide investigation into an adventure tourism disaster that killed at least eight people in the Storms River Gorge, officials said Monday.

Another five people were missing and feared dead after a flash flood propelled their group, which was riding down the Storms River on inner tubes, into a dangerous set of rapids Saturday.

Police said none of the four guides and 20 clients was wearing a life preserver. The tour had been organized by Storms River Adventure.

Regional tourism official Greg Vogt said a case of culpable homicide had been opened.

Seven bodies were found over the weekend and the eighth was discovered Monday, said Superintendent John Best of a regional disaster office. Nine of the adventurers emerged from the river under their own power and two were rescued Sunday by helicopters. The disaster, one of the worst in adventure tourism in South Africa, happened near Uitenhage, 560 miles southeast of Johannesburg.

All those in the group were South Africans. Two children were among the victims.

Michelle Mabe (left), Judi Hansler and Jennifer Cochran (not pictured) will be at Energi Personnel's booth at the MC jobs fair this Thursday.

See Energi Personnel at Midland College job fair on March 30

This year, as they have for the last few years, Energi Personnel will be at the annual Midland College Job Fair, March 30 from 1-4 p.m. at the Chaparral Center on the MC campus.

Energi owner Judi Hansler likes the job fair because, "It allows me to put a face with some of the resumes I get." A personal meeting allows Judi to get a better understanding of the job applicant's personality. Personality is every bit as important as job skills in placing the right person in the right job and company, Judi asserts. The job fair gives the applicant five minutes to sell himself or herself in person—beyond just what a resume can tell.

It's also a non-threatening arena for those who are currently between jobs and for those who have a job but may be testing the waters for something better than what they have now.

Speaking of jobs, Energi Personnel can place a number of people with a variety of job skills, including skilled machinists, welders, compressor mechanics and other skilled labor.

They also have office jobs at many levels for those entering the work force for the first time or re-entering after some time away. "We especially need people with five to seven years' executive clerical experience," says Judi. "Someone who can handle the entire office environment."

When you come to the job fair, Judi recommends that you come prepared. "Bring your resume. It doesn't have to be fancy, but it should look professional and should be an accurate reflection of your skills and job history."

Judi suggests you dress appropriately, also. "Come dressed professionally—no shorts or t-shirts." That sounds pretty obvious, but you will see some people at the fair dressed too casually—and if you're dressed properly, you'll move ahead of the others. "If you're applying for a skilled labor job you don't need to wear a suit, but you should still dress well," says Judi. "That shows employers you're serious about looking for a job."

When you leave, it's usually up to you to follow up. That also sets you apart from the crowd.

The most efficient way to job-seek is to stop at the Energi Personnel booth because at that one stop you can learn about the jobs listed above and many others, says Judi. Energi can help you get placed at just the right company—and if, for some reason, that doesn't work out, they can find you another position without you having to go pound the street again. Energi makes available a strong benefits package including paid holidays, vacations and insurance for those who qualify.

Go ahead. Test the waters at this year's job fair—and talk to Judi at the Energi Personnel Booth.

Energi Personnel is a full service staffing company with offices in Midland and Odessa. The Midland address is 4400 North Big Spring, Suite 202. The phone number is 683-7277. The Odessa address is 835 Tower Drive, Suite 16, phone 337-0440.

Let D & D Plumbing service your old a/c unit or install a new one

D & D's Allegiance 16 cuts air conditioning costs—guaranteed!

D & D Plumbing wants to guarantee you 25 percent savings on your air conditioning bill? Isn't that some sort of gimmick—or is it just plain dumb on their part?

Actually, air conditioning units sold these days are almost always more efficient than models sold 15 years ago—so if you buy any new air conditioner, you're likely to save some money on your cooling bills, provided your current unit is around 15 years old.

The Allegiance 16 from American Standard is extra special because it is probably the most efficient unit on the market. Its Seasonal Energy Efficiency Rating (SEER) of 16 means it uses less than half the power of the SEER six units popular 15 years ago. It cuts electricity use and keeps your home at an even temperature because it runs at a low speed most of the time.

You could even save enough to make the monthly payment on the unit. If you don't save at least 25 percent on your cooling bills, D & D will remove the unit and give your money back plus $50 for your trouble.

Now is the time to look into a new unit if yours appears to be on its last legs—don't wait until the middle of the blazing hot summer and risk doing without a/c for a day or two while having a replacement installed.

Call (from left) David, Dwain or Derek Rotan of D & D Plumbing BEFORE it gets hot. They can prepare your old unit for a hot summer, or install a super-efficient Allegiance 16 that's guaranteed to cut your cooling costs by 25 percent.

Even if you keep your current air conditioner, it's a good idea to have it checked out before summer. If you sign up for D & D's Comfort Club, you'll get two precision tune-ups each year (spring and fall) and two professional cleanings. Tune-ups include: cleaning and checking the condensing coils, testing and adjusting coolant levels, cleaning or replacing filters and more.

A thorough checkup can save you money in several ways: it can help your unit run more efficiently, using less electricity; it can help your air conditioner last longer, and it can help D & D find and fix small problems before they become big and costly. It also reduces your chances of a major breakdown on the hottest day of the year. Comfort Club members receive a 10 percent discount on parts and labor if they are needed.

You really can stop fuming about high cooling bills and start doing something about it. Call D & D and let them install a super-efficient Allegiance 16, or let them make your old unit as efficient as possible so you can keep your cool this summer!

D & D Plumbing, Heating and Air Conditioning (plumbing license M-14772 and air conditioning license TACL B009344E) is owned by brothers David, Dwain and Derek Rotan, the third generation of hometown service technicians. They offer complete plumbing and air conditioning service on all brands, while they sell and service Trane and American Standard equipment. 24-hour emergency service is available. Call 687-1011.

Call Mid West Glass before the first heat wave

-Install window film now, protect your home this summer-

It's only spring, and you've probably already seen a few days where that west-facing room was too hot or too bright. Remember how uncomfortable it was last summer? On the other hand, you don't want to keep the blinds and drapes closed—you'd really like to enjoy your windows.

There is a solution. Leave those drapes and curtains wide open and let Mid West Glass install window film that lets you control the amount of heat, light and damaging ultraviolet rays that barge into your home. With window film, you can block out up to 80 percent of the heat and 100 percent of the UV rays that fade and discolor carpet, furniture, draperies, paintings and other décor.

You'll notice the difference the first warm day. You may also notice the difference when your electric bill arrives. Window film can actually pay for itself over a period of time in reduced cooling costs.

If you call Mid West now, you'll take advantage of off-season response time (faster) and off-season pricing (lower). And you'll be ready when summer's heat arrives for a long stay.

Window film helps protect your home by keeping glass from being shattered when it breaks. For maximum safety, ask about security film that holds broken glass together even when hit by a hammer.

Film can add beauty to your home. Some films have almost no color, others have a variety of rich shades to coordinate and compliment the look of your home. Window film can also let you reduce the amount of light in a room by a little or a lot. Reflective film can add privacy.

Fast, simple installation and a variety of options make window film a very economical option for protecting and beautifying your home.

State-of-the-art films will keep their great looks year after year (residential films come with a lifetime warranty. They work with single pane or thermal windows, sliding glass doors, bay windows, sun rooms, French doors and storm doors as well as just about any size or shape of glass you may have.

Most installations go quickly, so you can begin enjoying your "new" windows in no time.

...take advantage of off-season response time and off-season pricing.

Now you can really enjoy the openness of your home's windows without worrying about fading, heat or lack of privacy or security. The solution is fast and very affordable. Call Mid West Glass today for a free estimate on window film for your home.

Mid-West Glass offers glass and windows for any use, as well as patio enclosures. Located at 906 W. Front, the phone number for a free estimate is 682-7373.

Putin's election offers Russia clarity after years of confusion

By Barry Renfrew
Associated Press

■ News analysis

MOSCOW — Russia should be more stable and predictable under Vladimir Putin after years of turmoil that left Russians and the rest of the world wondering who was in charge of the world's largest country.

Putin has already begun clearing up the uncertainty and chaos that characterized ex-president Boris Yeltsin's final years in power. After winning presidential elections Sunday, Putin's top goal will likely be cementing his control of the government.

The United States and other nations will know who speaks for Russia and can expect clear dialogue and straight answers.

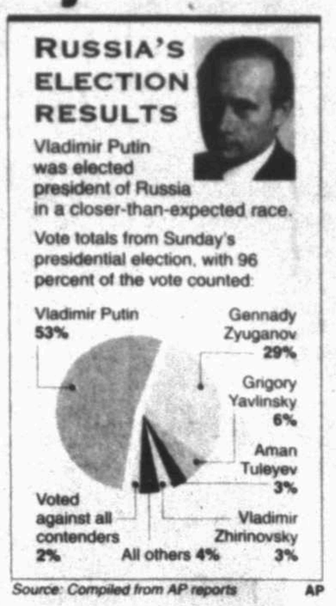
While clarity in Moscow will be a welcome change after Yeltsin, Putin's ambition of restoring Russia's status as a great power will be less appealing to the West.

Although Russians hope that Putin can rescue the floundering economy and improve their lives, many are happy for now that a strong, capable leader has taken over.

Russia already seems calmer, far less prone to crisis, since Putin became acting president when Yeltsin unexpectedly resigned on Dec. 31.

The one exception has been Russia's military offensive against breakaway Chechnya.

Yeltsin, who was frequently ill and out of sight, showed little interest in running the government or tackling Russia's enormous problems.



Although he retained a firm grip on power, Yeltsin often was indifferent or confused. He did little to stop government insiders from fighting for wealth and power or to clean up rampant corruption.

Yeltsin's unpredictability alarmed the rest of the world. Russia is still the world's No. 2 nuclear power and the confusion in the Kremlin often meant sleepless nights for governments worldwide.

As ties deteriorated, Yeltsin repeatedly waved Russia's nuclear arsenal at the West.

While the West staked much on Yeltsin for pushing through democratic reforms, it was also appalled by his distinctly unpresidential antics and persistent rumors of alcoholism. Russians were even less pleased.

Putin has been deliberately vague about his plans. He insists he will continue democratic and market reforms, but also speaks of increasing the control of the state over every aspect of life.

The new president is likely to proceed cautiously, with no dramatic policy initiatives.

Putin comes across as methodical and deliberate. His first words after winning the presidency were to tell Russians not to expect quick fixes.

"The level of expectations is very high. People are tired and struggling and they're hoping for things to get better, but miracles don't happen," he said Monday.

The former KGB officer appears to be a nationalist with a strong pragmatic streak.

He stresses his desire for good ties with the West and stability as long as Moscow is treated as an equal.

Putin is popular because he has restored many Russians' sense of national pride after years of decline and humiliation.

His talk of putting Russia back on the map is welcome in a nation that misses its days as a superpower.

By not raising expectations and moving cautiously, Putin may boost his chances of economic and social improvements.

But while Russians are likely to be patient, they will want to see that the new president is not tied to the corruption and incompetence of the Yeltsin administration.

Chechen officials deny voter fraud allegations

GROZNY, Russia (AP) — Small rebel bands attacked Russian posts in Chechnya on Monday, and Russian jets bombed rebel targets in areas the military had claimed to control, indicating weaknesses in the Russians' grip on the republic.

The attacks came despite heightened security for Russia's presidential election Sunday, and cast doubt on the military's claim to control most of Chechnya.

Rebels shot grenades at a police checkpoint near Urus-Martan, 12 miles southwest of the Chechen capital Grozny, drawing Russian fire, the ITAR-Tass news agency quoted the military command as saying. Snipers also attacked a police headquarters in Urus-Martan.

Militants also ambushed a police checkpoint in Shali, 16 miles southeast of Grozny, ITAR-Tass said. No casualty information was available.

The military claimed Monday to have 1,500 rebels trapped in the village of Tsentoroi, 30 miles southeast of Grozny. It maintained no fighting had begun but said Russian troops were preparing for battle.

Only a small part of the votes in the presidential election had been counted in Chechnya by Monday, but preliminary results indicated nationwide winner Vladimir Putin received 40 percent of the vote.

Putin was followed by Communist leader Gennady Zyuganov with 32 percent, said Sergei Yastrzhembsky, the presidential spokesman on Chechnya. Nationwide, Putin won more than 52 percent of the vote, to Zyuganov's 30 percent.

Placing third in Chechnya was ethnic Chechen Umar Dzhabrailov, a Moscow businessman. He got 12.7 percent in Chechnya, but less than 1 percent nationwide.

Russian officials and the head of Chechnya's electoral commission, Abdul-Kerim Arsakhanov, denied any foul play. But some election officials suggested the results could have been rigged in Putin's favor.

Costa Rican police arrest suspect in Americans' slaying

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP) — Police have arrested a 16-year-old boy in the killing of two American college women near a Costa Rican beach town earlier this month, authorities said Monday.

While police are still trying to determine a motive, they say they're close to solving a case that has threatened Costa Rica's image as a safe, peaceful haven for tourists.

The suspect — whose identity was not released because he is a minor — was arrested Saturday night in Sixaola, a town on the border of Panama, Judicial Police Director Jorge Rojas said.

Rojas said police also are seeking two other male suspects, both minors whom he did not identify.

The bodies of Emily Eagen, of Ann Arbor, Michigan, and Emily Howell, of Lexington, Kentucky, both 19, were found on the side of a highway March 13 near the town of Cahuita, 90 miles east of San Jose. Both had been shot.

Acquaintances of the suspect said he gave them the 380-caliber handgun that was used in Howell's slaying. A second gun of the same caliber was used to kill Eagen, but has not been recovered, Rojas said.

The suspect also was identified by two witnesses who claim he forced them at gunpoint to burn the sports utility vehicle the victims had been using.

A juvenile court in the Caribbean city of Limon has ordered the arrest of the boy under a two-month provisional jail term without bail. If convicted, he faces a maximum sentence of 15 years.

Rojas told a news conference that the arrest is "an important development in the case. We are very close to solving it completely," he said.

The deaths shocked this Central American country, whose reputation for safety and stability in an otherwise turbulent region has helped attract thousands of U.S. retirees and about $1 billion a year in tourism from more than 1 million tourists.

Focus on elderly a needed target for this region

Increased interest in issues involving Midland senior citizens is entirely appropriate for a number of reasons. There are more older residents who call Midland home now, and those residents have particular needs that others in the community may not share.

Seeing that those needs are addressed is important.

Both the Midland League of Women Voters and two Midland Vision 2000 task forces have recently targeted issues involving senior citizens for study and potential action. That emphasis is definitely not out of line because the populace in the Midland and Odessa area is growing markedly older, as is the populace throughout Texas.

There are more older residents who call Midland home now, and those residents have particular needs that others in the community may not share.

Interestingly, both groups have listed public transportation for senior citizens as a top goal. Public transportation is certainly one of the concerns that needs additional study, but it isn't the only topic of concern for seniors.

Health care, affordable housing, a multipurpose senior center, nutrition and other concerns needs to be explored if the needs of this area's senior population are to be fully addressed.

Even the subject of taxation holds particular interest for many older Midlanders and should be included in the studies, particularly if the Midland community hopes to attract older people as residents.

Health care is a primary concern and Dr. Eileen Piwetz, chair of the League of Women Voters' Seniors and Housing task force, noted that, "We'd really like Midland to be the undisputed leader of providing health care in the Permian Basin."

That is a commendable goal that certainly should make this area more attractive to older people.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Today is Tuesday, March 28, the 88th day of 2000. There are 278 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On March 28, 1930, the names of the Turkish cities of Constantinople and Angora were changed to Istanbul and Ankara.

On this date:

In 1834, the U.S. Senate voted to censure President Jackson for the removal of federal deposits from the Bank of the United States.

In 1854, during the Crimean War, Britain and France declared war on Russia.

In 1896, the opera "Andrea Chenier," by Umberto Giordano, premiered in Milan, Italy.

In 1898, the Supreme Court ruled that a child born in the United States to Chinese immigrants was a U.S. citizen.

In 1939, the Spanish Civil War ended as Madrid fell to the forces of Francisco Franco.

In 1941, novelist and critic Virginia Woolf died in Lewes, England.

In 1942, during World War II, British naval forces raided the Nazi-occupied French port of St. Nazaire.

In 1943, composer Sergei Rachmaninoff died in Beverly Hills, Calif.

In 1969, the 34th president of the United States, Dwight D. Eisenhower, died in Washington at age 78.

Ten years ago: British customs officials announced they had foiled an attempt to supply Iraq with 40 American-made devices for triggering nuclear weapons, following an 18-month investigation by U.S. and British authorities.

Five years ago: In Japan, Mitsubishi Bank and the Bank of Tokyo agreed to a merger to create what was then the world's largest bank.

One year ago: NATO broadened its attacks on Yugoslavia to target Serb military forces in Kosovo in the fifth straight night of airstrikes; thousands of refugees flooded into Albania and Macedonia from Kosovo. The Baltimore Orioles beat a Cuban all-star team 3-2 in Havana. Venus Williams beat kid sister Serena 6-1, 4-6, 6-4 to win the Lipton Championships in the first all-sister women's final in 115 years.

Is Syria's dictator a peacemaker? Only for Nazi criminals

Which is the greater threat: George W. Bush meeting with Bob Jones III, or President Bill Clinton meeting with Syrian dictator Hafez al-Assad in Geneva to further grease the slope leading to Israel's ultimate demise?

State Department spokesman James Rubin betrayed the indefensibly flawed and fatal (for Israelis) philosophy behind resumption of the "permanent status negotiations" between Israeli and Palestinian delegates when he said on March 17, "The Palestinian issue represents the core of the conflict."

Thomas

No, it doesn't — and it never has. The core of the conflict is the rejectionist policies of Israel's enemies to the very existence of the Jewish state, which preceded even the 1948 reconstitution of Israel. A largely ignored article in U.N. Resolution 242 requires of the Arabs "termination of all claims and states of belligerency and respect for and acknowledgment of the sovereignty, territorial integrity and political independence of every State in the area and their right to live in peace within secure and recognized boundaries free from threats or acts of force."

There has been no such termination. The Jerusalem Post, on Feb. 11, ran a picture of a small Palestinian child dressed as a suicide bomber taking part in a rally in Nablus observing the 12th anniversary of the terrorist group Hamas. The Post reported theatrical shows that included blowing up cardboard Israeli buses and setting mock Jewish settlements on fire. Do people who desire peace behave like this?

Is Assad a peacemaker? According to the Ariel Center for Policy Research, which published an ad in the Feb. 8 issue of the Israeli newspaper Ha'aretz, President Assad provides safe haven to international terrorists and to Nazi war criminals, including Alois Brunner, one of the Adolf Eichmann's senior henchmen. Assad is also a leading Holocaust denier. On Jan. 31, the editor of Assad's official newspaper, Tishrin, wrote: "... Israel invented the legend of the Holocaust so as to blackmail the world and wield terror among intellectuals and politicians." This is a strategy of peace?

There's plenty of anti-Jewish sentiment in the Middle East, but Assad's brand is particularly venomous. On Nov. 27, 1999, the Syrian weekly al-Osbua al-Arabi ran this: " ... the Passover Matza is soaked with the blood of Iraqis, Lebanese and Palestinians ... the Talmud is drenched with hatred ... the hostility toward humanity is imprinted on the Jewish soul ... the Jewish Shylock spreads throughout the world and acts under American sponsorship."

Since seizing power 30 years ago, Assad has maintained his position by treating his opponents to execution, torture, imprisonment without trial and kidnapping. Assad has used various means to deter the Sunni majority, including poison gas, which he employed to murder 20,000 residents of the city of Hama. One out of 240 Syrians is employed in "security" organizations, their main purpose to keep Assad in power.

Syria is still defined by the United States as a terrorist state and is the axis around which much of the world's terrorism revolves. Iran, Sudan, North Korea and Cuba are among those that maintain terrorist ties to Syria. Assad has not been a peacemaker with his own Muslim neighbors. He supports and harbors anti-Turkish PKK Kurdish terrorism, claiming Syrian sovereignty over southeastern Turkey. He continues the 13-centuries-old conflict with Iraq. He occupies Lebanon, which he has turned into the world's largest terrorist camp, and is now ready to inflict even more death and destruction on Israel as it withdraws soldiers from the "buffer zone" between the two nations.

Syria is also one of the most active proliferators of weapons of mass destruction, especially the chemical and biological variety.

Nothing that Israel or the United States may do will deter Syria or Israel's other implacable enemies from their appointed and, they believe, divinely mandated objective to eliminate from the region Israel as a nation and all Jews as a people. How can differences be bridged if terrorists and terrorist states hold steadfastly to this objective? There is no evidence that they are prepared to change. There is plenty of evidence they will use the leftist government of Israeli Prime Minister Ehud Barak and the strong-arm tactics of the Clinton administration to hasten Israel's apocalypse and realize Hitler's dream.

WILLIAM SAFIRE

Conspiracy among rogue nations spells trouble

What do you do with a disturbing national security tip from a usually reliable source? You check it out, of course, with intelligence sources that have no ax to grind.

But what do you do when those analysts say that they pondered the report at interagency meetings and doubt its accuracy — but it could be true and bears watching? All I can do is pass along the disputed report with appropriate caveats.

It was first hinted at six months ago in a paragraph by the well-connected Bill Gertz of The Washington Times: "A Pentagon intelligence agency reported earlier this month that North Korea offered to sell the government of Sudan an entire factory for assembling Scud missiles."

Safire

That didn't seem to add up, because Sudan is nearly broke and doesn't need long-range missiles to fight its civil war. Where would the money be found to finance the missile factory, and who in that area wants the Scuds?

Enter Amir Rashid, Iraq's oil minister and Saddam Hussein's chief procurer of ballistic missiles.

Two years ago, I'm told, Rashid paid a secret visit to Pyongyang and saw North Korea's missile marketer, Chon Byong-Ho. Saddam's man also visited the Chang Gwang Sinyong Corp., a key world source of illicit arms.

Topic A was Scuds, many of which were secreted by Iraq in Sudan to escape U.N. detection. A year later, Iraq's chief engineer, Ra'ad Ismail Jamil, received a North Korean delegation in Baghdad.

Only five weeks ago, says my informant, two delegations arrived in Khartoum, capital of Sudan. One was a group of North Korean technical experts; another was a military research mission from Baghdad.

Their project? The Koreans are said to be working on building a ballistic-missile plant near Khartoum, with Iraqi financing of $475 million. Pyongyang gets a big chunk of that for turnkey construction and expert staffing; Khartoum a smaller percentage for acting as cutout, site protector and smuggler; and Baghdad gets its old missiles refurbished and new, longer-range missiles built.

If true, such conspiracy among three rogue nations would spell big trouble. So I rattled some American intelligence cages; had they heard of this three-pariah missile deal?

All had. The story (without the recent Khartoum meeting) has been bruited about for months, including the $475 million figure. It was the subject of two interagency meetings; the White House was briefed.

The current U.S. assessment is that any Iraqi-financed missile factory "cannot be confirmed," although there is no doubt that North Korea has been peddling arms in Sudan. "The report is impossible to stamp out," says a frustrated doubter. Another derogates the story that won't go away as "rumint" — merely rumored intelligence.

Their logical reason for skepticism is that Sudan is heavily infiltrated by Iranian operatives, who might sabotage or publicize any Iraqi plant. Another is that newly secure Pyongyang is now in the midst of a charm offensive, which will soon include the first visit to Washington by a high-level diplomat since the end of the Korean War. This huge weapons deal would run counter to that opening.

On the other hand, there is reason for skepticism about the spookery's skepticism. Eighteen months ago, on indirect evidence later questioned, President Clinton ordered a cruise missile attack at the Al Shifa pharmaceutical plant. Our spies may now be super-cautious.

On the third hand, I am inclined to take the rumint seriously because this method of outsourcing his secret weapons development to a rogue-state neighbor so neatly fits Saddam's interest.

Wait — this just in. Porter Goss, chairman of the Permanent House Select Committee on Intelligence, is willing to go on the record: "We have been concerned with the development of weapons of mass destruction and their delivery systems in Sudan, as well as Sudan's ties with North Korea. The matter is receiving our attention."

CHARLEY REESE

Will Castro go out with an attack on the United States?

Will Cuban leader Fidel Castro, the world's last Stalinist dictator, go out with a whimper or a bang? Most people who know him predict he will go out with a bang by attacking the United States.

Surely I jest, you might be thinking, but too many people close to Castro have said the same thing. This megalomaniac's ego simply cannot cope with being an old man discarded by his own people. He would rather commit the international equivalent of cop s uicide by attacking the United States.

Reese

Here is a paragraph from a paper written by Ernesto F. Betancourt of the Institute for Cuban and Cuban American studies:

"Finally, the third scenario is advanced by those who think Castro would rather end in an apocalyptic last ditch struggle against the hated Americans, thus provoking a Gotterdammerung to seek a place in history for himself. In a letter to Celia Sanchez i n June, 1958, Castro referred to a war with the United States as his true destiny. All those who over the last decades have been close to him in moments of crisis, coincide in concluding that an apocalyptic finale is his most likely choice."

Here are a few more bits of evidence offered by Betancourt:

A March 1996 article in Jane's Defence Weekly revealed Castro was training special forces for a pre-emptive attack on the United States.

In September 1998, the FBI arrested 10 members of a Cuban spy network in Florida. Bits of the indictments indicate that the spy network was considering sabotaging planes or hangers at undisclosed locations in Florida. An FBI affidavit states that one of the men had been tasked to provide information on: "deployment of aircraft, base daily routines, descriptions of the interior and exterior of buildings, particularly one being prepared for a highly secret activity; the use of plane equipped for electroni c warfare and the home addresses of hundreds of military personnel stationed at the base." The bases targeted included Boca Chica Naval Air Station at Key West and Air Force bases in Tampa where the Southern Command is located.

Dr. Luis Roberto Hernandez, who defected from Castro, has reported in a published article that he worked on a Cuban biological-warfare project that included identifying and producing virus strains that could be injected into migratory birds. The West Nil e virus that killed some people in New York City this past summer has been found in some dead migratory birds in the area.

Americans should never underestimate the malice and malevolence of Castro. Americans are far too lackadaisical about Castro, in part because American leftists never cease painting him as a democratic socialist. He is far from being a democratic anything. He is a killer with a pathological hatred for America and Americans.

The United States had better increase its surveillance of Castro, especially now that he has allied himself with the Chinese. He has allowed the Chinese to build electronic surveillance stations similar to the Russian one that is still operating. I have a feeling that American complacency is in for a big shock one of these days.

U.S. Census Bureau offers homeless an address — at least for a while

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gary Wolfe is homeless, but the Census Bureau is giving him an address. He's not getting a cozy bed nor a warm meal, but he will count — a change of pace for many homeless whose lives are often ignored.

Census surveyors started visiting homeless shelters Monday to locate as many of the nation's homeless as possible, in part to help determine where federally funded services should be provided.

But Wolfe doesn't believe it.

"I can't honestly say I've seen any money from the government from the census," he said on a brisk morning in downtown Washington, huddling under a gray blanket on concrete church steps that serve as his bed. Since he doesn't use a shelter or soup kitchen regularly, his address, for census purposes, will be the intersection of 10th and G streets.

"The census is irrelevant. The bottom line is that you have thousands of people out here who need help," Wolfe said.

To the Census Bureau, the homeless survey is known as a count of people without fixed addresses. From New York to Los Angeles, census-takers on Monday began surveying homeless shelters; on Tuesday, they will stop by soup kitchens and mobile food vans.

Then Wednesday morning, census workers will hit the streets to locate people like Wolfe, who don't sleep in the shelters and don't get their food regularly from soup kitchens. Enumerators will seek information from those lying on park benches and on top of steam grates that line city sidewalks, but they are not allowed to wake anyone up.

On the Net:
Census Bureau site:
http://www.census.gov

"I'll participate, I have no problem with that," said Fred Hall, a friend of Wolfe's, as he folded his blanket in the shadows of the recently built $200 million MCI Center sports and entertainment arena. "I don't know how much it will help, but I'll participate."

Both the Census Bureau and advocacy groups agree it will is almost impossible to count all the homeless, but they say this year's system is better than what happened in the last census. Critics contend the 1990 count, which took place over one night, was so flawed it was useless as a tool for designing programs to help the homeless.

The Census Bureau says it undercounted about 1.4 percent of the total population in 1990 and placed the number of homeless in 1990 at about 400,000.

The Clinton administration has estimated there are about 600,000 people in the country today without fixed addresses.

Big cities such as Detroit and New York are especially counting on an accurate census of the homeless to reverse population declines. A recent study by the Coalition of the Homeless in New York showed the city may have one of the largest homeless populations, hovering around 100,000.

"We empathize with the challenges" faced by the Census Bureau, said Mary Anne Gleason, director of the National Coalition for the Homeless. "It's an awesome task, and they are working hard at it."

Census Bureau director Kenneth Prewitt said: "We think what we have in place today, because of cooperation from advocacy groups and local leaders, will help us get a much better count than 10 years ago."

Census officials will use statistical methods to ensure they do not double-count people they may find in two different places.

To help convince the homeless it is in their best interest to cooperate, the Census Bureau has enlisted the help of homeless advocacy groups, as well as homeless people themselves.

Ross Weisiger, 58, is homeless and took a job as a census-taker last week. He will help count some of the people he knows from the downtown streets where he lives.

"Since they are paying $15 to $17 an hour, I said 'Hello', knock on wood," said Weisiger, who is about $10,000 in debt. "I'm homeless, and I'm interested in helping out the homeless. They want to use street people to count the street people."

Horse Liniment Eases Arthritis Pain

OCALA, FL. -- An ingredient derived from hot peppers that decreases inflammation in racehorse's legs, is now recognized as safe and effective for human use. The ingredient has been formulated into a product called ARTH-Rx™ and comes in a strength designed for humans. Researchers are excited and say the formula can relieve arthritis pain for millions.

Developed by the Phillips Gulf Corporation, ARTH-Rx is a breakthrough in the treatment of painful disorders ranging from minor aches and pains to more serious conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, rheumatism, tendonitis, backache and more.

Although the mechanism by which ARTH-Rx works to relieve pain is not totally clear, scientists suggest that pain is relieved because ARTH-Rx intercepts the messenger substance that sends pain signals to the brain.

ARTH-Rx is available in a convenient roll-on applicator without a prescription. According to a spokesperson for the company, due to the overwhelming demand for ARTH-Rx, supplies are sometimes limited. ARTH-Rx can also be ordered by calling 1-800-729-8446. © 1999 PGC

Jury awards ex-smoker $20 million from two largest tobacco companies

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A jury ordered the nation's two largest tobacco companies Monday to pay $20 million in punitive damages to a dying ex-smoker who took up the habit after the surgeon general's warning began appearing on cigarette packs in the 1960s.

The Superior Court jury decided 9-3 to order Philip Morris and R.J. Reynolds to pay $10 million each to Leslie Whiteley and her husband.

The same jury awarded the couple $1.7 million in compensatory damages last week after finding that the companies deceived the public about the dangers of smoking.

That verdict was the first time the industry lost to a smoker who took up the habit after 1969, when tobacco companies began putting government-required health warnings on cigarette packs.

Around the country, juries have awarded damages to individual smokers only five other times. But three of those verdicts were overturned and the two others are still under appeal. The industry has yet to pay anything in any of those cases.

Whiteley, 40, said she started smoking in 1972 at age 13. She smoked Philip Morris' Marlboros and Reynolds' Camels until 1998, when she quit shortly before doctors diagnosed small-cell lung cancer. Doctors said she will probably die this year.

The Whiteleys had asked for $115 million in punitive damages, which they said would represent 1 percent of the companies' combined net worth. Their lawyer said cigarette makers remain unrepentant for the harm they cause.

Philip Morris lawyer William Ohlemeyer contended that punitive damages are improper because "the companies have made profound changes in the way they do business." He and other company lawyers have pointed to the $206 billion settlement reached in 1998 by cigarette makers and 46 states suing over health costs.

He said the companies will appeal if the judge upholds the verdict.

The tobacco companies argued that Whiteley harmed herself by her admitted use of marijuana, by smoking during pregnancy and by disregarding warnings on cigarette packages.

"Mrs. Whiteley never smoked a pack of cigarettes that didn't have a health warning on it that was written by the surgeon general," Ohlemeyer said.

But after reviewing internal industry documents, jurors found that the companies designed cigarettes negligently, then made false or misleading statements to the public and concealed information about the dangers of smoking.

Crime Stoppers names new coordinator

By Mella McEwen
Staff Writer

Midland's Crime Stoppers program gained a new coordinator Monday when Midland County Sheriff Gary Painter announced the appointment of Sgt. Bill Anderson to the post.

Anderson, a patrol sergeant and 13-year veteran of the Midland County Sheriff's Office, was one of four who applied for the post, Painter said.

"He comes to us with a tremendous amount of knowledge," Painter said. "We expect good things from Bill, for his knowledge and ability to carry Crime Stoppers a long way, hopefully into new areas like national and international recognition."

Anderson said that in his new post he would have some big shoes to fill, left by his predecessors.

"I'm enthusiastic about this opportunity," he said. "I have some big footsteps to follow. I look forward to getting out there and working with the agencies, businesses and the media to get the message out. To be successful, you have to work with the media to get your message out, and with the different agencies, you have to see that they got the message and followed up. If this program is successful, it will help deter crime and if we do that, we'll have a safer community."

He said he plans to work to revive the Crime Stoppers program in the city's schools, saying there's a lot of untapped potential in getting cooperation from the schools.

Charles Kuss, president of the Crime Stoppers board, said that board members would like to see the program revitalized at the school level. He said board members hope that the schools, which now operate under his board, will become so enthusiastic they will establish boards at each school.

One reason Anderson was chosen, Kuss said, was his experience, both in Big Spring and in Midland.

"It's always great to have someone come in with experience," he said.

Painter said Anderson's experience includes

Monahans First Baptist Church marks 100 years

By Johnnye Montgomery
Staff Writer

MONAHANS — First Baptist Church of Monahans will celebrate its 100th anniversary Saturday with an old timers' reunion at the church from 1-4 p.m., then a festive banquet from 6-8 p.m. in the Ward County Coliseum. On Sunday, the celebration will continue with regular Sunday services beginning at 10:30 a.m.

Midlanders who lived in Monahans during oilfield boom times will remember going to church at First Baptist. These alumni and others are invited to the festivities. Seven of the church's eight living former pastors will be in attendance, in addition to the present pastor, the Rev. Jeff Box.

The church was originally organized by nine Monahans residents April 1, 1900. They named it Monahans Baptist Church. Charter members included Mrs. O. C. Wilson, F. Wilson, L. Wilson, C. B. Wilson, W. W. Overby, M.M. Cox, John Andrews, Alice Andrews, Kate Boys and Hattie Overby.

Services were held in the Monahans school for the first 25 years of its existence. In 1926, Monahans Baptist acquired its own church house, which led in later years to a series of additions, including Sunday school rooms, a choir loft and a wooden tabernacle constructed in 1937.

The church's first brick auditorium was completed in 1940, with church members supplying most of the labor, and buying materials only as they had funds to do so. Later the church added on to the sanctuary, added an education building, and in 1961, a library. In 1979, a new 20,000-square-foot multipurpose building was added, and in 1994, another facility was raised to house children and youth activities.

In February 1942, the name was changed to First Baptist Church of Monahans.

First Baptist has also been active in evangelism throughout its history. In 1948, the church organized the Northside Baptist Mission. The name was later changed to Calvary Baptist Church. In 1953, during the pastorate of the Rev. Levi Price, another mission, Southside Baptist Chapel, was started. In 1956, its name was changed to Southside Baptist Church. In 1961, First Baptist opened a Hispanic mission. In 1968, under the leadership of the Rev. Ken Andress, Rio Grande missions projects were begun.

In 1983, First Baptist sponsored a Freddy Gage Crusade, during which more than 1,000 attendees made public acknowledgements of

Commissioners ponder paint job on damaged car

By Ed Todd
Staff Writer

It may at first glance seem minor.

But the Midland County Commissioners' Court is taking seriously the concept of dollars vs. value in the restoration of a late-model sheriff's department patrol car damaged in a recent pursuit.

The court on Monday rejected the high bid of $3,036 to repaint the gray 1999 Ford Crown Victoria patrol car, which is listed on the county's inventory at $21,590, and opted to consider the $1,850 low bid.

Restoring the Sheriff's Office logo and stripping would be an additional $255.

Commissioner Mike Bradford made the initial motion in opting for the $1,850 low bid, which died for lack of a second.

Dale Little, who is the Midland city-county's emergency management coordinator and, among other roles, county's fire marshal and safety officer, had presented background on the damage and had recommended that the patrol car be repainted to prevent rust damage.

The car, driven by Sheriff's Patrol Officer Margaret Rogers during a disturbance call, had spun out of control on a curve on a gravel road and had crashed into a barbed-wire fence.

The officer suffered neck and back injuries, was taken by ambulance to the hospital, and the person she was chasing sped away and later was located in Odessa, noted Sheriff Gary Painter.

Her patrol car was towed away and, Little said, was repaired and made road-worthy again. "This car is drivable."

Instead of absorbing the cost of the new paint job, Commissioner Louisa Valencia suggested a less costly "touch-up job" and made the motion to table action on the car. The new motion passed 3-0 on the votes of Commissioners Valencia, Randy Prude and Bradford.

County Judge Bill Morrow did not vote on the issue.

Bradford, who has a family background in trucking, said, "If you don't take care of equipment with preventative and proactive maintenance, then all you do is build the costs to you higher.

"We had to take care of our things on the front-end, or the costs will get out of hand," Bradford said.

Little, who recommended the paint job, has "a proven track record" in accident investigations and repair recommendations, Bradford noted.

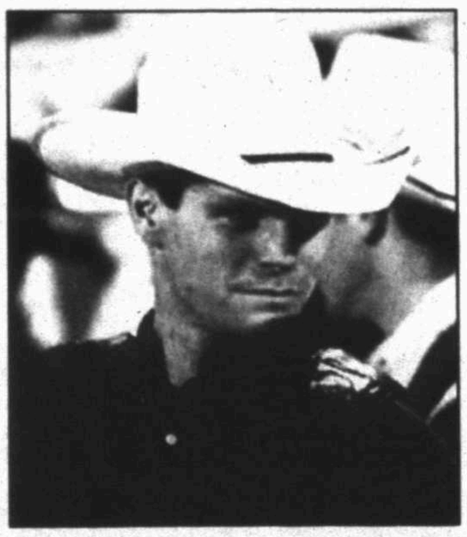
Fallen bull rider's shadow to hang over Top Guns event



Glen Keeley, professional bull rider, died from injuries he suffered after a bull ride in Albuquerque.

ODESSA — When the Top Guns Bull Ride competition rolls into Odessa this weekend, it will have a bit of sadness to it. The Professional Bull Riders suffered their first fatality last Friday night when bull rider Glen Keeley died of injuries he sustained while competing at the PBR-sanctioned Ty Murray Invitational in Albuquerque.

Keeley, 30, was crushed by the bull Promise Land and later died at the University of New Mexico Medical Center of abdominal injuries.

At the time of his death, Keeley, of Nanton, Alberta, Canada, was ranked in the top 10 in the Bud Light Cup standings. He had been a member of the PBR since its beginning in 1994. He qualified for the PRCA's National Finals Rodeo in 1993 and won the Canadian World Championship in bull riding in 1989.

"It was a terrible accident," said PBR president and four-time world champion bull rider Tuff Hedeman. "Every bull rider wants to be where Glen was at — one of the best bull riders in the world who got to ride the best bulls there are. Certainly his life was cut short, but if you could ask him, I'm sure Glen would say he wouldn't have done anything differently."

The day after Keeley's death, the PBR riders and staff members present at the Albuquerque event held an informal prayer service. During the Saturday night performance, they each wore yellow ribbons and the number 68 on their vests. Sixty-eight was Keeley's back number. There was also a special prayer for Keeley's family at the beginning of the performance.

"During the opening (of the performance), I think there were tears on every guy's face," PBR rider Tater Porter said. "You have to have faith and keep going. There's a reason for everything and you have to go forward. You can't go backward in whatever you do."

Despite the loss, the show will go on.

"Every guy who rides at this level knows better than anybody how dangerous it can be," nine-time world champion Ty Murray said. "It's not like something like this causes us to rethink our careers. What it does do is remind us to be thankful for everything we have in life. I've known Glen for 12 years and he loved to ride bulls. That was his life; what he lived for. I think he was fortunate to spend 30 years doing what he dreamed of and loved. That is more important than if he had lived longer but not lived his dream."

A memorial service for Keeley will be held at the Stavely Community Center in Stavely, Alberta, Canada at 2 p.m. Thursday. The Keeley family asks that donations be made to the Stars Air Rescue, a service that offers air support to traumas in rural Canada, 14401 Aviation Park, NE Calgary, Alberta, Canada.

GARY OTT

Doesn't 'expecting the unexpected' make the unexpected expected?

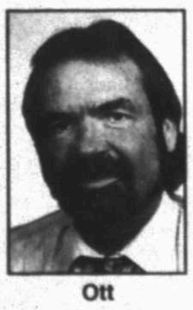
You know you are not terribly sophisticated if you spent this past Sunday night watching that marathon of reruns of the "Andy Griffith Show" instead of the Academy Awards ... and not feeling the least bit guilty about doing so.

— Lowell Thomas, the American author and broadcaster who died in 1981, once pointed out, "After the age of 80, everything reminds you of something else."

— For the time being, I'll just have to take his word on that.

— One man's opinion: If your last name were Einstein, there would be a lot of pressure on you to be smarter than the average guy.

— Line from a country-western song: "You're going to ruin my bad reputation."



Ott

— Another line from a country-western song: "One has my heart, the other has my name."

— Always remember this simple fact when a person makes you angry: It takes 42 muscles in your face to frown, but it only takes four muscles to extend your arm and smack the person upside the head.

— It was on this date in 1979 that America's worst commercial nuclear accident occurred inside the Unit Two reactor at the Three Mile Island plant near Middletown, Pa.

— Why do we press harder on the buttons of a remote control when we already know the batteries are dead?

— Overheard: "Ugliness is in a way superior to beauty because it lasts."

— I hate to admit this, but that ongoing news story about the plight of the little Cuban boy has never caught my fancy.

— I mean, I hope everything works out OK, but I'm not exactly sitting on the edge of my seat in anticipation.

— The following is one of my favorite quotes from General Omar Bradley: "The world had achieved brilliance without conscience. Ours is a world of nuclear giants and ethical infants."

— Unfortunately, that is probably still true today.

— No matter how worthy the cause, I've never been comfortable asking others for a monetary donation.

— An unknown person once asked this question: "Why do we put suits in garment bags and garments in suitcases?"

— It was probably the same person who asked this: "Doesn't 'expecting the unexpected' make the unexpected expected?"

— There really are guys, mostly those who are not married (and probably never will be), who consider it quite normal to buy new underwear rather than to do a load of laundry.

— Just a hunch: There are far fewer children who collect coins today than in years gone by.

— It is hard to explain how you got a black eye without sounding like you are making it up.

— It is true, I suppose, that anyone can grow up to be president, but it might say something about this country's election process that the two leading presidential candidates are sons of former Washington powerbrokers.

— Just wondering: When did talk radio get so popular? Wasn't Larry King the first well-known host?

— Some people, it seems, thrive in turmoil, be it at work or in their personal lives.

— Which makes you feel the most awkward? Being overdressed or underdressed?

— Yeah, I agree. Underdressed. By far.

— Con men, though sometimes amusing on the surface, tend to get old in a hurry.

— And today's final quote comes from Martin Luther King, Jr., who once said, "If a man hasn't discovered something that he will die for, he isn't fit to live."

'Make a Difference Day' project is recognized

From Staff Reports

The Midland Reporter-Telegram has been honored by USA Weekend for its effort this past October in the National Make A Difference Day campaign.

The Midland Reporter-Telegram coordinated the overall community Make A Difference Day efforts.

Local projects included:

— Students from a Midland College English as a Second Language class visited residents of a small adult home care facility, spending time with each resident and passing out hugs and flowers.

— About 200 volunteers helped the Arts Assembly of Midland repaint half the Churches in Harmony mural on the side of the Community & Senior Services warehouse, a mural designed and painted in 1997 by 16 Midland churches.

— Members of the Altrusa Club established book corners in the Community Children's Clinic, Salvation Army Living facility and Midland Soup Kitchen, setting up bookcases and filling them with books for those using the facilities to enjoy.

— Members of the Lee High Lady Rebel Basketball team, 30 volunteers, painted the fence at a house behind the recently reopened Church on Wheels/Midland Soup Kitchen and held its fifth annual "Free Throw for Charity" event, collecting pledges for each free throw players made. The pledges went to the Church on Wheels/Midland Soup Kitchen Ministry.

— Each homeroom at St. Ann's School adopted different projects, from making toys for animals in the animal shelters to entertaining patients at Allison Cancer Center, bringing plants to a retirement center and collecting baby items for the Crisis Pregnancy Center. The entire school collected household cleaning supplies for the Midland Rainbow Room, which benefits clients of Child Protective Services.

USA Weekend appears Sundays in the Midland Reporter-Telegram. The USA Weekend will publish a special salute to all the nationwide Make A Difference Day projects in the April 9 edition.

Obituaries

Mattie Adams

On March 24, 2000, Mattie Lou Adams was escorted by God's special angels to her new home in heaven. She now resides with her Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ.

Our mother was born on June 16, 1912 in Clarksville, Texas. She was one of thirteen children born to Lemuel T. Dunn and Sara S. McCary. Mother was married to Clarence James Adams on October 19, 1932 in Roxton, Texas. Although she resided in Midland for the past 32 years, many of her fondest memories are the years she and her family lived in the Farmington-Aztec, New Mexico area. At the time of her departure from this earth, she was being cared for by the loving hearts and caring hands of Sunbridge Care and Rehab in Stanton, Texas.

Mother's children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren were the pride and joy of her life. She would always tell us, "I love you with all my heart." She left the following poem in her Bible addressed to her children:

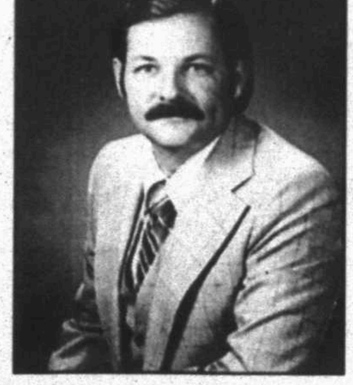
When I am gone release me, let me go... I have so many things to see and do. You must not tide yourself to me with tears. Be happy that we had so many years. I gave you my love. You can only guess how much you gave me in happiness. I thank you for all the love you have shown, but now it's time I traveled on alone. So grieve a while, if grieve you must. Then let your grief be comforted by trust. It's only for a while we must part. So bless the memories within your heart. I won't be far away because life goes on. So if you need me, call and I will come. Though you can't see me or touch me, I'll be near. And if you listen with your heart, you'll hear all of my love around you soft and clear. And then, when you must come this way alone... I'll greet you with a smile and "Welcome home." Author Unknown

Funeral services were held at 1:00 p.m. on Monday, March 27th, at Ellis Funeral Home. Reverend Mike Benson, pastor of Harvest Time Church, officiated. Pallbearers were Cary Adams of Arlington, Texas, Daryl Adams of Shreveport, La., Greg Adams of Fort Worth, Texas, Jonathan Phillips of Franklin, Ky., Jim Phillips of Arlington, Texas, and Bob Hill of Midland, Texas. Honorary pallbearers were Aaron "Jop" Joplin of Bloomfield, N.M., and Bob Potts of Midland, Texas. The family requests memorials be directed to Sunbridge Care and Rehab in Stanton, Texas or the Alzheimer's Association.

Mattie is survived by her six children, Cleve J. Adams and wife, June of Midland, Texas, Ronnie L. Adams and wife, Sydney of Keithville, La., Robert G. Adams and wife, Carole, Larry G. Adams and wife, Shirley, all of Arlington, Texas, Mary L. Tyson and husband, Larry of Midland, Texas, Judy D. Jones and husband, Ron of Franklin, Ky.; and grandchildren, Karen, Greg, Kay, Rhonda, Chris, Daryl, Sommer, Shannon, Tiffaney, Amanda, Cary, Charles, Kim, Alex, Bryan and Jonathan; and twenty great-grandchildren.

Mattie Lou Adams was preceded in death by her parents; her husband, Clarence of 54 years; a grandson, Wade Adams; and her twelve brothers and sisters.

Thank you, Mother. You have always been our rock and inspiration. Your light and spirit continues to guide us throughout our lives. You are the wind beneath our wings.



Alan McAfee

After a long, well fought war, Alan Dale McAfee, 49, lost his final battle with melanoma March 26, 2000. He was born June 25, 1950, to Estell and Jeri McAfee at Fort Dix, New Jersey. His family moved to Odessa briefly in late 1950, before settling in Mesa, Arizona. He returned to Odessa in 1963, after the death of his father.

He graduated from Permian High School in 1968, and served in the United States Navy from 1968 through 1972. While in the Navy, he served one tour in Vietnam.

After leaving the Navy, Dale returned to Odessa. He went to work for El Paso Products, which later became Huntsman, in the Material Warehouse. He was highly respected by his co-workers and took great pride in a job well done. He was employed by Huntsman at the time of his death.

Dale married Kay Foster in 1974. That union produced a daughter, Nikki; and a son, JB. Dale married his soul mate, Jodi Williamson, August 15, 1986.

Dale held high standards for his family, friends and co-workers. As much as he always expected from others, he never asked for more than he was willing to give. Dale was an avid pool shooter. He loved playing video games, golf and going camping. He thoroughly enjoyed working in his yard and tending his trees.

Dale had a wry sense of humor that stayed with him to the end of his battle. He will be greatly missed by his family, friends and co-workers.

Dale was preceded in death by his father, Estell McAfee; his mother, Jeri Alford; and his brother, Jerry McAfee.

Dale is survived by his wife, Jodi McAfee; daughter, Nikki McAfee; son, JB. McAfee; grandsons, Dakota and Dylan; brother and sister-in-law, Riley and Jenifer McAfee of Chandler, Ariz.; sisters and brothers-in-law, Candy and Mike Darst of Queen Creek, Ariz., Sherry and Doug Rosenberger of Odessa; and Gail and Joe Schmidt of Pittsburg, Kan.; brother-in-law and sister-in-law, Ken and Nancy Williamson of Wilson, N.C.; and numerous nieces, nephews, cousins and friends.

Pallbearers for Mr. McAfee's service are Mike Bohannan, Jan Wallum, Larry Gandy, George Vorce, David Bewley, and Chuck Oats.

Services will be at 4:00 p.m. today, March 28, 2000, at the Sunset Memorial Funeral Home Chapel. Burial will follow in Sunset Memorial Gardens.

DAMAGE: Officials debate cost of repair to damaged vehicle

cost-effective measure, noted that the barbed-wire damage to the patrol car was "extensive and, therefore, you can't touch them (deep cuts) up like you can a key job" or surface scratches.

"They (deep scratches) are just all over the vehicle and the fenders and hood," Prude said, "and by the time you try to do a touch-up, you may end up spending the same amount of money anyway and still not have as good-looking vehicle. We don't want it to rust."

Like Mrs. Valencia, Prude said that he was "wondering if it could be done cheaper. And I'm pretty convinced now it can't be after visiting with Dale (Little) and Ed (Krevit)." Krevit is captain of the sheriff's Public Safety Division that includes patrol.

"And (Ms. Rogers) was doing her job, doing a good job," Prude said.

From her perspective, Mrs. Valencia suggested that the patrol car's surface possibly "could be (repaired with) a touch-up instead of a whole paint job.

"If you can't, you can't," she said. "But if you can, you ought to try it."

Further, Mrs. Valencia said that if the patrol car is going to be replaced after it sustains more wear and mileage, "Why spend $2,000 for a paint job if you are going to replace it?

"It seems like every time we turn around, there's car damage," Mrs. Valencia said. "You've got to be careful."

County Auditor Carole Wayland noted that in the county's Fiscal Year 1999, the county "spent just about $11,850" in vehicle repairs.

Usually, about once a year, a sheriff's vehicle is heavily damaged or totaled and not returned to service, she said.

According to the county's inventory of "rolling stock," there are 96 county vehicles. Of those, 61 are assigned to the Sheriff's Department. Of those 61, eight are carried as the sheriff's seized or forfeited vehicles.

Krevit noted that it was about a month ago when Ms. Rogers had been dispatched to a disturbance call at a beer party where young people "were destroying the property out there.

"It was just one of those unfortunate deals" when Ms. Rogers' car spun around on her" in gravel while she was in pursuit.

Explosion shakes Phillips plant near Houston

PASADENA (AP) — An explosion Monday rocked a Phillips Petroleum Co. chemical plant along the Houston Ship Channel, sending at least 52 workers to local hospitals and keeping area residents indoors for more than two hours. One man was listed as missing.

No fatalities were reported after the 1:25 p.m. CST explosion at the plant's K-resin unit, plant spokesman Norm Berkley said.

"We're doing everything possible, search and rescue, and we have some very sophisticated processes to try to make sure we account for everyone," he said. "It's a terrible day for us at the plant."

More than 10 years ago, the same complex was the scene of another explosion that killed 23 workers.

"I don't know what's happened in this case," Berkley said. "I think the only similarity is certainly that we've had a tragic, tragic day. We've had an explosion, we've had a fire, injured employees. We've got some employees unaccounted for. I couldn't feel worse about it."

The plant has about 850 workers but Berkley said about 600 would have been there at the time of the blast.

Some of the most seriously injured workers, including nine who suffered burns, were taken to Memorial Hermann Hospital in nearby Houston. The remainder were transported to Memorial Southeast Hospital, Columbia Bayshore Medical Center and East Houston Medical Center in eastern Harris County and Ben Taub General Hospital in Houston.

Hospitals treated workers for a range of symptoms, including anxiety, smoke inhalation, falls, burns and shrapnel wounds. All were in stable condition and some were released quickly, hospital officials said.

Speaking at the site Monday afternoon, Phillips chief executive officer Jim Mulva said the Bartlesville, Okla.-based company was concentrating on taking care of its injured employees and contractors.

"Our greatest concern and objective is to provide for care and assistance for all personnel in the vicinity, and their immediate families," Mulva said.

Workers at neighboring plants, area residents and schoolchildren initially were urged to remain indoors while officials tried to determine what was burning. That precaution was lifted after about 2 1/2 hours.

Heavy black smoke turned white about two hours after the explosion, leaving behind tangles of scorched metal. Plant officials said there was no indication anyone outside the plant could be injured by the smoke but said breathing high concentrations could cause irritation of the eyes, nose and throat.

The fire burned cyclohexane, styrene and 1,3-butadiene, according to plant environmental director Cindy Simpson. The facility was shut down and stable by dusk, said plant manager Kevin Collins, who added that he did not know when systems would be restarted.

As a precaution, the U.S. Coast Guard ordered the chemical ship NCC Jizan to leave the complex until further notice. There were no anticipated traffic interruptions for the Port of Houston, officials said.

Other plants at the chemical complex were not damaged, the company said.

Pasadena Mayor Johnny Isbell said an emergency siren system intended to alert Pasadena residents did not sound immediately because it was being repaired Monday. However, a boom heard for several miles was warning enough for many in the area.

"I was in the main shop area when I heard a loud explosion," said Tim Williams, a plant worker who estimated he was more than 200 yards from the blast site. "My ears hurt, and I took off running. I looked back and saw flames, and kept going."

The Phillips complex was the site of an Oct. 23, 1989, series of explosions and fires in a polyethylene reactor that killed 23 and injured 130 in one of the region's worst industrial calamities.

Last June, two people were killed and four were injured in an explosion that also damaged the K-resin unit. K-resin is a clear plastic used in drinking cups, food containers and other items.

Phillips was fined $204,000 by the Occupational Health and Safety Administration for 13 alleged safety and health violations in the wake of the June 23 explosion and fire.

"We have worked tremendously hard to make sure a situation like that has never, ever occurred again," Berkley said. "Obviously, it has."

holding an associate's degree and a master peace officer certification, the highest in the state. He is also a licensed firearms instructor and a former SWAT team member.

He said the Crime Stoppers program is important because "it gives citizens the opportunity to speak out and report crimes and incidents they're not ordinarily open to report. They have the opportunity to remain anonymous, and it gives us the opportunity to follow up on reports, gives us different avenues to investigate."

Anderson said he also plans greater exposure for the "Crime of the Week" and to work more closely with the other law enforcement agencies in town.

"It just means a better level of communication," he said.

Kuss said other efforts to strengthen the program will include a fund-raiser later this year and he looks forward to having the board members involved in planning that event.

Widowed spouses get over grief with get-up-and-go

DEAR ABBY: The letter from "Hurting in Lake Forest, Calif.," the widower who felt isolated by family and friends after his wife's death, prompts this letter.

The fact is, most people don't know how to deal with someone experiencing grief. Most people don't call after a death because they don't know what to say. They are afraid they might "upset" the person who is grieving by mentioning the deceased. They don't know what to do if the person gets upset or begins to cry. These people need to know that the person who is grieving is feeling sad anyway, and talking about their loved one doesn't make them feel worse, but better (eventually). "Hurting" said it all by pointing out that his friends and family have disappeared at a time when he needs them the most.

Grief is a process for each individual. There are many normal emotions associated with grief, including anger, sadness, guilt, confusion and denial. It is important for everyone to know — grievers and supporters alike — that it is OK to feel and express all of those emotions.

Please tell your readers, the next time they know someone is experiencing grief, to PICK UP THE PHONE OR PAY A VISIT! It may be the only one the grieving person receives. — GRIEF EDUCATOR IN LOUISIANA

DEAR EDUCATOR: There is wisdom in your letter, and I hope it enlightens those who need it. There is a great deal of discomfort about death in our society. Some people act as if death is contagious. Others are embarrassed by grieving and don't know what to say, so they say nothing. However, a kind word can soothe an aching heart. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: Please tell "Hurting in Lake Forest" there are many ways to deal with widowhood. My husband passed away two years ago. We had lots of friends we socialized with frequently. I don't know if the women were afraid they'd have to pay for my meal, but after the funeral, all of them disappeared.

I joined a health club, began volunteering at the local hospital and began a new life for myself. Now I'm enjoying new friendships — and so can the widower in Lake Forest. — LIVING WELL IN TUCSON

DEAR LIVING WELL: Bravo! Read on:

Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Tied to every ending is a new beginning. I couldn't boil water without burning it when my wife died. I had to learn how to cook in order to survive. Eating alone was no fun, so I invited a couple for dinner and was the brunt of good-natured jokes and kidding about the mess I made in the kitchen. However, they helped me clean the mess and gave me an "E" for effort.

I continued to extend invitations, and this resulted in dinner invitations at the rate of about two for one. I'm still clumsy in the kitchen, but I get the job done. At age 73 (and still single) I am still having dinner parties and being invited out a couple of nights a week. — NEWPORT BEACH BOB

DEAR BOB: You're right; it's important to reach out instead of waiting to be taken care of. Other suggestions sent by readers for "Hurting in Lake Forest" included: joining a grief support group; checking with the Veterans of Foreign Wars and attending military reunions — or anything that gets you out of the house and puts you in contact with other people; joining AARP's Widowed Person's Service; joining a little theater group; taking classes at a community college; volunteering in schools, libraries, hospitals, shelters and charities. The choices are endless.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Tuesday, March 28, 2000:

Others respond to your energy this year. You are right on top of goals, and you lasso in whatever you want. Your tenacity carries you over rough spots and allows you to make strong decisions for yourself as well as for others. You expand your circle of friends, but your old friends remain important as well. If you are single, you have your pick of potential suitors. Choose someone who not only makes you happy, but with whom you are also unusually comfortable. If attached, communication becomes even better. You add to the quality of your home life after June through a new addition or home. CAPRICORN adores you.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
★★★★ Stay in control of your finances. You don't have to be affected by others. Don't shy away from a special opportunity, but understand just how long it will take to come to fruition. You are unusually sensitive to a co-worker. Tonight: In the limelight.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
★★★★★ You have an unusual ability to see the big picture. Listen to your inner voice. Follow through on what you know to be right. Others might not agree, but an independent, strong stance makes a difference. Others go overboard for you. Tonight: Make a long-distance call.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
★★★★ Your sixth sense helps you with a partnership and a money matter. Your ability to move past a problem and find the answers impresses a boss or someone in the know. Let another know just how much you care. Tonight: Togetherness counts.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
★★★★★ Others approach you, knowing what is necessary and wanting to enlist your help. Work as a team. Watch what is going on behind the scenes. Imagine what it might be like to walk in another's shoes. Your understanding can make or break a situation. Tonight: Out and about.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
★★★ Dig into work, and you'll quickly get a lot done. Another is very uptight, and he pushes hard. Listen to your inner voice about a partnership, work and financial evolution. Another's intentions are honorable, no matter what your choice. Tonight: Indulge a partner.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
★★★★★ Tap into the wellspring of creativity. Solutions come from left and right. Listen to another's reservations. Your attempts to get more information could be thwarted for now; try again tomorrow. Others pitch in. Make an important request. Tonight: Play the night away.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
★★★ Review a decision carefully. A co-worker goes beyond the call of duty to make what you want happen. Good will filters through work. A partner, who is sometimes difficult, might have a good idea. Sort through your feelings, and listen to what is being said. Tonight: Home is your castle.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
★★★★★ Others don't often see eye to eye with you. Think about what is necessary to make a particular situation work. A flirtation could have more than a superficial connection; proceed with caution. Understanding helps you relate to others. Tonight: An important talk with a partner.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
★★★ Expenses are out of whack. Get in touch with your feelings toward a family member. Caring comes out of a difficult situation. You might need to ask another for his support. A walk during a break can re-energize you at work. Tonight: Don't push.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
★★★★★ Your charisma makes a big difference. You easily solidify a relationship. Others respond to your high energy. Approach a touchy situation carefully. Reach out for others; go all the way. You'll get the answer you seek. Tonight: Just ask.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
★★★ Say little; think a lot. A potential investment could go many different ways. Understand what is motivating a family member who tests your patience and loyalty. Your gut feeling about an indulgence is right. Keep a secret to yourself. Tonight: Vanish while you can.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
★★★★★ Mean what you say when asking for what you want. Popularity soars. You gain favor because of your persistence. Don't be overly serious; use your charming ways. Network and attend a must meeting. You can make a difference. Tonight: Where the gang is.

The bidding:

WEST	NORTH	EAST	SOUTH
1◇	2◇	Pass	2♠
Pass	3◇	Pass	3♠
Pass	6♠	Pass	Pass
Pass

Opening lead: King of ◇

Study the diagram above. Would you rather play or defend six spades by South?

North's first cue-bid was a takeout for the majors; the second showed a strong hand. That virtually forced South to rebid the three-card spade holding, and North elected to jump to slam, which would have had excellent prospects had South held four spades.

Suppose you elect to play. You ruff the opening diamond lead, cash the ace and king of spades, felling West's queen, and start on hearts. When the queen of hearts drops, you start running winning hearts. East can ruff the fifth heart, but you overruff, return to dummy with the ace of clubs, and lead the remaining heart. Whether or not West ruffs, you lose only one trump trick.

But suppose that, instead of ruffing the fifth heart, East were to discard a club, then discard another club on the last heart. Now declarer is stuck in dummy. East ruffs the club lead from dummy, forces the table with a diamond and the defender must collect another club ruff — down one.

Still, you should choose to declare. After ruffing the first diamond and cashing the ace and king of spades and ace of hearts, picking up both major-suit queens, first cash the king and queen of clubs. Now return to the table with the king of hearts and run the suit. No matter how East defends, one trump trick is all South will lose. Try it.

Singapore won't show Ally-Ling kiss episode

SINGAPORE — The "Ally McBeal" episode in which Ally kisses another woman has been banned in Singapore.

"The entire episode centers around alternative sexual explorations," the Television Corporation of Singapore said Monday. "As a responsible broadcaster, we are very careful to monitor and take action against overtly sexy or alternative themes."

"Ally McBeal" is a top-rated show in Singapore, which has tight controls on the media.

The episode shows Ally, a lawyer played by Calista Flockhart, and her colleague Ling Woo, played by Lucy Liu, going out on a "date" and kissing each other on the lips.

The Television Corporation of Singapore has decided not to air an "Ally McBeal" episode that "centers around alternative sexual explorations."

The episode drew the show's largest audience ever when it was aired in the United States in November.

NEWPORT, R.I. — Piano man Billy Joel was in Newport over the weekend to oversee his latest production: a 14-foot sailboat.

Joel spoke Sunday with students from the Newport Area Career and Technical Center who are building the boat for him and his daughter.

The singer saw an old Whitehall in dry dock during a visit to the seaside town last summer and wondered how he could get one. A harbormaster put him in contact with the students, who began the project in October.

Joel made a $10,000 donation to the marine trades program in exchange for the custom-made vessel.

"I've always been fascinated with the history of this area, the different trades that are still here," Joel said. "My daughter and I and my friends are going to have a lot of fun with this boat."

NEW YORK (AP) — David Lynch's $7 million, two-hour-plus "Mulholland Drive" television pilot may find new life not on TV, but as a feature film.

TV Guide reported in its April 1 edition that the French media conglomerate Canal Plus was close to acquiring the pilot for release as a feature-length film in the United States and abroad. ABC shelved the pilot last season.

"We're close to a deal where Canal Plus would pay ABC $7 million for the rights and will put another couple million in for David to give it a new ending," Tony Krantz, an executive producer of the pilot and cochairman and chief executive officer of Imagine Television, the studio that produced it, told TV Guide.

Lynch, the creator of the TV show "Twin Peaks," got an initial commitment of $4.5 million from ABC executives for the project, and Touchstone Television, a division of Disney, which owns the network, threw in $2.5 million.

But ABC decided not to air the pilot because it was "too long and weird," TV Guide said.

Former James bond star Roger Moore attended the memorial service for Desmond Llewelyn.

LONDON — Former James Bond star Roger Moore led the tributes Monday at a memorial service for Desmond Llewelyn, who played the gadget-master Q in several Bond films.

Moore said Llewelyn, who died in a car crash in December at 85, was a "wonderful man" without whom no Bond film would have been complete. Llewelyn appeared in 17 Bond movies.

The four other men who have played Agent 007 — Sean Connery, George Lazenby, Timothy Dalton and Pierce Brosnon — did not attend the service.

HONOLULU — A freighter is leaving Tuesday to bring food and medicine to Andrew Halsey, who is trying to become the first epileptic to row alone across the Pacific.

Andrew Halsey left San Diego in July in a 27-foot rowboat on what was expected to be an eight-month, 7,500-mile trip to Sydney, Australia.

But after missing favorable weather patterns early on, he was swept back and forth off the Mexican coast for months.

Although Halsey now is making better progress, backers fear his food and medical supplies are getting low. The 42-year-old former bricklayer is prone to severe seizures.

Lady Rebels hope third time's lucky vs. Mojo

By Jay Peden
Sports Writer

For several weeks now, the girls' soccer teams of Midland Lee and Odessa Permian have seemed to be on a collision course for a grudge match in the playoffs.

Lee won District 4-5A titles in 1998 and 1999, but Permian knocked the Lady Rebels off the 4-5A throne this season with two regular season wins. Since then, Lee coach Mike Simpson and his players have made no secret of the fact that they wanted another go at Mojo. Even after Lee lost a coin flip and got stuck with the district's No. 3 playoff seed, Simpson didn't seem to mind.

"This puts us back on course to meet Permian again, and that's what we really wanted," Simpson said two weeks ago about a possible regional quarterfinal berth.

But now that that moment is finally here — Lee (16-5) and Permian (20-3) meet at 3 p.m. today at the Lee Soccer Field — the focus seems to be shifting from who the opponent is to what the winner gets: a spot in the Region I-5A Tournament.

"This is a pretty important game, but it's a springboard to bigger and better things," Simpson said. "To me, this is not the Permian game. This is the regional quarterfinals. We've got to take care of business and do what we need to to keep it going longer."

The same attitude seems prevalent at Permian.

"This is just another ball game," Permian coach Kent Rivas said. "We're not making the hype about it like Lee is. It's going to be a good game, and it's going to be an emotional game, but we've got to go out and play like any other game."

LEE
Region I-5A Quarterfinals

Rivas conceded that it was an important game, but not because Lee was the opponent.

"It's a (regional) quarterfinal game," he said. "It doesn't matter if we play (El Paso) Del Valle or (El Paso) Franklin or Arlington Martin; you've got to prepare to play. The fact of the matter is we beat Lee twice, and we know we got lucky the second time — (at least) luck was on our side — but I couldn't care less who we're playing."

In Lee's and Permian's first meeting, on Feb. 1 in Midland, Permian won, 2-1, on Kelly Wilson's goal with a half a second left on the clock. It was the first soccer win by the Permian girls over Lee's girls since 1995.

In the second meeting, on Feb. 26 in Odessa, Permian won, 3-2, again on a last-minute goal by Wilson. She was credited with two goals and Sarah Nelson had another, but Simpson has called two of the goals own goals.

"We are glad to have the opportunity to play them again," he said. "The way the other two games went, we're glad to be in the position to try it one more

OMEGA TREATING CHEMICALS INC. COLLEGE INVITATIONAL

Chaps lead by 15 in own tourney

By Oscar LeRoy
Sports Writer

The Midland College men's golfers have a 15-stroke lead over their competition after two rounds of the 17th Annual Omega Treating Chemicals Inc. College Invitational played Monday at Green Tree Country Club. Just don't expect the Chaparrals to be jumping for joy.

The Chaps shot a 277 in the morning round then capped it off with a 286 in the afternoon for a 563 total after the first day of play. The morning round saw three Chaps — Ernie Rose (70), Nathan Goulding (67) and Kevin Hoffer (67) — all shoot under par. The afternoon round had Chaps Russell Wrentz (68) and Rose (69) shoot under par.

The Chaps, however, felt that their individual play could've been better.

"I was just consistent I guess," said the sophomore Rose, who is in a three-way tie for second in the medalist standings with a 70-69—139 total. "I could've been about four strokes lower. In the first round, I tripled the 16th hole and three-putted the 18th hole. Then in the afternoon, I hit it out of bounds on 10. I made a lot of birdies which helped. I had about 12 birdies for the two rounds."

Hoffer, another sophomore, didn't find too many positives on his play despite being tied for 10th in the medalist race after shooting 67-76—143 on the day.

"I really didn't play that good," Hoffer said. "You always expect to do better. We played pretty good in the first round, but I think it could be better for sure."

Chaps head coach Delnor Poss said he was pleased with the way his team performed on Monday. He was especially pleased with the morning round, which saw three players combine to shoot 9-under par.

"That's the first time this semester that we have played really well as a group," said Poss about his team's first-round play. "They did that considering that the pin placement today was very difficult. Those three people shooting 9-under was excep-

Catchings some flak

Injured star can't shoot, but leads victory over Tech

By Teresa M. Walker
AP Sports Writer

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — A limping Tamika Catchings couldn't shoot, yet the All-American managed to do everything else in leading Tennessee to the Final Four for a record 12th time.

Catchings, playing with a sprained right ankle for much of the game, scored just seven points but grabbed 16 rebounds as top-seeded Tenhessee held off Texas Tech 57-44 on Monday night in the Mideast Regional final. The junior, the focus of Texas Tech's defense, was 2-for-11 from the field.

"To counteract that, I went down and made sure I rebounded and played great defense so I wouldn't be sitting on the bench with Pat," Catchings said, referring to Tennessee coach Pat Summitt.

For awhile, the game looked like a replay of last year's East Regional final, when Tennessee star Chamique Holdsclaw couldn't hit a shot. The Lady Vols lost that game to Duke, ending a run of three straight national championships.

But Catchings refused to let the Lady Vols (31-3) lose to Texas Tech (28-5).

The 6-foot-1 forward tipped away passes, took charges and matched her career high with the 16 rebounds. She had three steals and six assists.

"She is the player of the year, and players of the year tend to make plays in a lot of different ways that hurt people," Texas Tech coach Marsha Sharp said. "She hurt us on the boards a lot. It's just those little things that separate teams this time of year. When you got a player like that, they normally can bail you out."

Kara Lawson led Tennessee with 13 points. Michelle Snow and Semeka Randall each had 12 points for the Lady Vols, 7-of-7 in regional finals played in Tennessee.

"It was ugly, but it was also beautiful," said Summitt, who matched former UCLA men's coach John Wooden with her 12th Final Four trip.

"I told our basketball team that we were in this situation a year ago and the ball wouldn't fall. We just couldn't come up with the plays you have to come up with. That's where we go back to our rebounding and defense."

Texas Tech hasn't been to the Final Four since 1993, when Sheryl Swoopes led the Lady Raiders to a national championship in their one and only appearance. The Lady Raiders used their defense to harass Tennessee into one of its worst shooting performances this season.

Tennessee led most of the game, but Texas Tech got within 42-40 with 8:37 left on Aleah Johnson's basket. Randall scored six points in a 10-2 spurt that sealed the victory for Ten-

Spartans were only ones expected

By Hal Bock
AP Sports Writer

As Michigan State struts into the Final Four, its No. 1 seed intact after two weekends of March Madness, the Spartans must wonder how those other guys with suspect credentials got there.

North Carolina and Wisconsin were questionable for the NCAA tournament two weeks ago, thrilled even to be considered after 13-loss seasons and more than happy with their No. 8 seeds. Everybody knew Florida, its roster crammed with freshmen and sophomores, was simply too young to withstand the pressure.

So here are the Tar Heels, Badgers and Gators — all dressed up and ready to join Michigan State as the tournament reaches Indianapolis for the NCAA semifinals on Saturday. The championship is at the RCA Dome on Monday night.

Michigan State, returning to the Final Four for the second straight year, is the logical favorite as the last No. 1 standing.

"The pressure has been there since the first (preseason) magazine came out," coach Tom Izzo said. "These guys deserve what they got."

In the semifinals, the Spartans face off with Big Ten rival Wisconsin for the fourth time this season. Michigan State has won the first three — the only games Wisconsin has lost since Feb. 2.

"I don't think it's ever easy to beat a team twice or beat a team three times," Izzo said. "We know it's going to be tough to beat a team four times. They are on a roll and making shots now."

Michigan State also knows Wisconsin can rebound. The Badgers were the only team to beat the Spartans on the boards all season until Iowa State did so in the Midwest Regional finals.

Michigan State's senior leadership of Mateen Cleaves, Charlie Bell and Morris Peterson is crucial this time of year. The Spartans, winners of nine straight games, overtook Iowa State with a 23-5 run in the last six minutes and did the same thing two nights earlier, scoring the last 17 points against Syra-

Tiger by the tail: Sutton takes TPC title

By Doug Ferguson
AP Golf Writer

PONTE VEDRA BEACH, Fla. — Hal Sutton saved his praise for Tiger Woods. He first wanted to make sure he beat him in The Players Championship.

With steel-blue eyes that have seen as much trouble as triumph the past two decades, Sutton hit 17 of 18 greens on one of the most demanding courses for a one-stroke victory over Woods on Monday in a tournament delayed a day because of rain.

"He's the greatest player in the game," Sutton said of an opponent who pushed him to the final hole. "It's OK to praise him now. I don't have to go hit another shot with him out there."

Sutton, who finished with a 1-under 71 to finish at 278, became only the fourth player to go wire-to-wire in The Players Championship. The victory was worth $1,080,000, compared to the $126,000 prize he won in the same tournament 17 years ago.

Woods, who had a 71 to finish at 279, earned $648,000. Through seven events, he has won more than $3.2 million, the third-highest total in PGA Tour history. Even more daunting, he has finished first or second in 10 of his last 11 events on the PGA Tour.

"I've won my share and I also lost," Woods said. "But the key is always to keep putting yourself in position."

On the final hole, Sutton tracked the flight of his 6-iron from the middle of the fairway until it landed 10 feet short of the hole.

"Yes!" he shouted, slapping hands with caddie Freddie Burns and marching toward victory with the same determination he brought to the first tee 21 hours earlier.

Sutton had a point to prove, and he drove it home with a gritty, nearly flawless performance in which he closed with seven solid pars. And, on this day, even Woods was no match.

"Tiger Woods is not bigger than the game," Sutton said. "You all do a damn good job of making him bigger than the game. That's what makes it tough."

All week, Sutton refused to believe Woods was too good to be beaten. He insisted the final round was not "Sutton vs. Woods," but both players against a challenging course.

Still, for a man who won the PGA Championship at 25, then resurrected his career to become a Ryder Cup star at The Country Club in September, Sutton called his victory "the greatest day in my golfing life."

"Any time you win on this golf course, you've had to overcome your nerves. You've had to show courage," Sutton said. "And then for Tiger to be the one that I was playing in the last group and having to beat, that makes it special."

Woods, as always, made it exciting.

"At least I made Hal work for it," Woods said. "He wasn't going to have a nice stroll up 18 with no pressure on him. We had a good battle."

Three down with three holes to play, Woods hit a 5-iron into 12 feet on the par-5 16th and made the eagle putt, stepping off to the side for that famous uppercut he first introduced on the TPC at Sawgrass six years ago when he won his first U.S. Amateur.

Sutton's lead was suddenly down to one, with two of the most terrorizing holes the Stadium Course has to offer. The par-3 17th played the easiest it has all week because of overnight rains and only a slight breeze.

But it's still an island, a patch of turf that Sutton failed to hit in the third round in making a triple bogey, his only score worse than par over the final 45 holes. Woods hit a wedge that spun back into the rough and had to make a 6-footer to save par, while Sutton hit the middle of the green for a safe par.

On the 18th, Woods hit a 2-iron to the fairway and, hitting first, watched his 6-iron catch swale to right of the green. He pitched up to a couple of inches for par, and victory finally belonged to Sutton.

This was the first time since 1983 The

MHS falls off pace in Abilene

Staff Report

ABILENE — Abilene Country Club may prove to be the Alamo for Midland's girl golfers.

The ACC course was friendly to the home teams Monday as Abilene High extended its 4-5A golf lead to a massive 96 strokes over the field. But to make matters worse, Abilene Cooper passed Midland High in the standings for second place, which could knock the MHS girls out of a Region I berth. The top two district teams advance to the region tournament in Lubbock.

■ 4-5A Girls Golf

MHS went into Monday's third of four district rounds with a nine-stroke lead over Cooper, but when the day ended, MHS was 21 strokes behind Cooper, a 30-stroke swing. Cooper produced a 339 team score while MHS limped in with a 369.

The teams play the final round at San Angelo Country Club on April 7.

In the medalist race, Abilene High's Devon Day erased a three-stroke deficit against teammate Laura Cutbirth to tie for the individual lead at 235. Day had a 73, the district's best round this year, while Cutbirth had a 77. Abilene High also had the third best medalist score as Amy Morgan owns a 238 after a round of 76 Monday.

If there was a survivor for Midland, it was MHS' Shelly Winchell. Winchell, a Region I qualifier last year, had her best district score of the year, turning in a 74 for a three-round total of 243. That now becomes important for Winchell, who must now think about getting herself back to the region meet.

The top two players not on a qualifying team earn a region berth, but must have a top six finish in district play. Winchell now stands in fifth place, which would be good for a region berth. She has a 19-stroke lead over Hallie Taylor (262) of Abilene High.

The other qualifying berth currently belongs to San Angelo Central's Amy Young at 242.

Midland High's Tiffany Susik, another Lady Bulldog who had region hopes, produced a 94 to fall into seventh place at 263, 20 strokes behind teammate Winchell for the final region berth.

Midland Lee's Korah Mehaffey, who was in the thick of the race for a region medalist berth after two rounds, also fell on hard times with a round of 96 and is now tied for 10th place at 265. She went into Monday's round tied for fifth place with Winchell and Susik.

The best round by Lee came from Kristi Martin, who had an 87.

tional."

Goulding, another sophomore, shot a 67 along with Hoffer to help the Chaps build that lead.

"The best part of my game was my wedges," Goulding said. "I hit a few close wedges. I also didn't have to make any long putts or birdies in the morning round. I just played solidly in the morning."

The Chaps are used to having high standards, considering they have been consistently among the top contenders for the NJCAA championship. They know that they have to perform better if they want to be in contention again for a national title.

"We've always had the potential but we just haven't shown it," Goulding said. "We're getting close to the end of the season so we need to start showing it to gear up for nationals."

The Chaps are showing improvement from the start of the spring semester, when the the team was down to just four players because of disciplinary problems. Still, the Chaps were always in contention in tournament play.

"We finished second, third or fourth in tournaments which is not bad but it's not what we're used to," Poss said. "It's difficult to win every tournament and you can't stay on top of your game all the time. I have a hard working group of guys overall. I knew with their attitude that they would come back and play good, solid golf."

The closest team to the Chaps at the College Invitational is Western Junior College Athletic Conference foe New Mexico Junior College which shot 290-288—578. Western Texas is in fifth with a 587, while Odessa College's first team is sixth with a 588.

Barry Hume of Paris Junior College leads the medalist race with a 71-66—137.

The tournament continues today with only 18 holes. Play starts at 8 a.m. at Green Tree Country Club.

Lady Chaps tied for fourth at Oral Roberts

Staff Report

TULSA — The Midland College women's golf team stands tied for fourth after Monday's first round of the two-day Oral Roberts University Women's Invitational, which is being played at Broken Arrow Golf and Athletic Club.

Midland College, the only two-year school at the NCAA Division I tournament, totaled 325 on Monday to tie the hosts, Oral Roberts. Arkansas-Little Rock leads the tournament with its 302, with North Texas and Northeastern Oklahoma State both 18 shots back at 320.

MC's Linzi Morton shot a 75 and is tied for the medalist lead with three others. Pam Mackay is tied for ninth with a 79. Rounding out the Lady Chaps were Renee Gonzales at 83, Krystal Mehaffey at 88 and Vanessa Cody at 89.

Team Scores

1. Arkansas-Little Rock, 302; 2. (tie) North Texas and Northeastern Oklahoma State, 320; 4. (tie) Midland College and Oral Roberts, 325; 6. Missouri-Kansas City, 344; 7. Texas-Pan American, 355; 8. Centenary, 355; 9. Texas A&M-Corpus Christi, 356; 10. Truman State, 369

DISTRICT 4-5A SOFTBALL TODAY

Midland High vs. Odessa High

Where: Midland High softball field on Loop 250 adjacent to Masters Golf Range.

When: 4:30 p.m.

Records: Midland High is 14-7 for the season and 4-3 in District 4-5A play while Odessa High is 6-10 overall and 2-5 in league play.

4-5A Significance: Midland High is tied with Abilene Cooper for third place and only three teams make the state playoffs. MHS needs a win to stay in the playoff hunt.

Notes: Both teams come into this game after 4-5A losses. MHS fell to Midland Lee, 1-0, Saturday while OHS fell, 4-2, to Odessa Permian... MHS already owns a district win over the Lady Bronchos... Against Lee, MHS got only three hits... Pitcher Collin Lange has dropped two 1-0 decisions to Lee, but she is 4-1 against the rest of the league...

Next: MHS will travel to Abilene Cooper at 2 p.m. Saturday.

Midland Lee vs. Odessa Permian

Where: Ratliff Stadium softball complex in Odessa.

When: 4:30 p.m.

Records: Lee is 16-6-1 for the season and 5-2 in District 4-5A play while Odessa Permian is 7-9 overall and 1-6 in league play...

4-5A Significance: Lee is the defending district champion, but is currently in second place and two full games behind league leading Abilene High. AHS is open today, so Lee could gain 1/2-game on the Lady Eagles with a win...

Notes: Lee is coming into this game after a 1-0 win over crosstown rival Midland High while Permian is riding high after winning its first loop game of the season, 4-2, over crosstown rival Odessa High... Pitcher Brandie Row had a no-hitter against Permian in the first half, but Mandy Hacker will pitch for Lee in this game... Sophomore Erin Evans got the game winning hit in the third inning against MHS.

Next: Lee will host league leading Abilene High at 2 p.m. on Saturday.

time."

The circumstances of those games also had the Lady Rebels itching for another chance at Permian.

"I think the whole team is looking forward to playing them," said Linsey Johnson, Lee's leading scorer. "It's always a good game. They're always out for us, and they'll play as best they can.

"This is our last chance of the season to prove we can beat them. We'd never lost to them since I've been here — especially not two in a row. I think they wanted it more than us, but we'll be stepping up. When it comes time to play them, we're going to want it."

Since mistakes were key to Lee's lost last time, Simpson said they will be key this time.

"(We need to) eliminate some of the mistakes we made the first two times — just play smarter soccer," Simpson said. "We hurt ourselves in both of the games, but just being smarter, that will go a long way towards putting us in a position to win it."

Lee has rolled through its two playoff games so far, outscoring Lubbock Coronado and El Paso Valle by a combined 16-1. Since Permian had the first-round bye as district champions, the Lady Panthers have played only once, but they performed well in a 3-1 win, Rivas said.

"Overall, the team has been playing well," he said. "We went into a hostile environment at El Paso Bel Air, and it was a very physical game, and the girls handled it very well."

Today, the trip will be shorter, but the stakes are higher.

"I think the kids are up for the fact that it's a Permian-Lee game," Rivas said. "Who isn't up for a Permian-Lee game? It could be jacks, and it would be big. It could be debate. Any time Permian and Lee step on the field, it's going to be a good game."

That school rivalry, as well as the familiarity, will add to the atmosphere.

"Lee knows what we've got, and we know what Lee's got," Rivas said. "Basically, it will come down to whoever wants it more.

"Even if they beat us, my kids are going to go out and give 100 percent, and I'll be proud of them," Rivas said. "They've done something that's never been in done in the city of Odessa. They've accomplished a lot."

The 2000 Lady Panthers have two significant items on their resumé. No Permian girls team had made it to the regional quarterfinals before, and no Odessa soccer team — either school, either gender — had won a district title.

With a win today, they could add another item to the resumé: first Permian girls team to go to the Region I-5A Tournament. Or Lee could become the first back-to-back Region I-5A qualifier from this district. Either way, one will become only the third district girls' team to go to regionals — joining the 1997 Abilene Cooper team and, of course, the 1999 Lee team.

"There haven't been a lot of people from our district go (to the regional tournament), but West Texas has been represented well," Simpson said. "Having been there and being beaten in overtime and having watched Lewisville win and go on to the final four (state tournament) — these kids are hungry. They think they're as good as anybody in the state, and I think on any given day, they can beat anybody in the state."

But to do that, they've got to beat Permian first.

Wisconsin is getting hot 3-point shooting from Division II transfer Jon Bryant. And coach Dick Bennett thinks his team won't be disturbed by the Final Four hype.

"This is a very level-headed group," he said. "If the very worst thing that happens to us is that we're just happy to be there and don't play very well, then we have a very good life."

In the other semifinal, North Carolina, a perennial Final Four team, was not expected to get there this year. It faces a Florida team that almost did not escape the first round.

The Tar Heels have emerged from a seasonlong funk, picking the right time to piece together their first four-game winning streak. They have reached the final weekend for the 15th time and third in the last four years.

"I think this team is in a class by itself," point guard Ed Cota said. "It took awhile to get used to each other and find a way to win. The teams that I was on in the past, guys knew what it took to win. This team got it done late in the season, but there couldn't be a better time for it."

Coach Bill Guthridge, under fire when North Carolina struggled, is thrilled with the turnaround.

"I am so happy for the team and so proud of them," he said. "They really hung in there all year through some difficult times and helped keep me up."

Florida was saved in the tournament opener by Mike Miller's basket with a fraction of a second left against Butler. From there, the Gators have flourished, beating first No. 1 seed Duke and then No. 3 Oklahoma State to win the East.

And don't worry about them being too young, either.

"We have nine guys that have been to the Sweet 16," sophomore guard Teddy Dupay said. "How many other teams have that? It's not a lot."

Freshman guard Brett Nelson said the Gators earned their way to Indianapolis.

"I knew this was going to happen," he said. "I knew something special was going to happen because of how hard we all work. I'm really excited. This is a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity. We've got to seize the moment."

TPC: Sutton wins again after 17 years

(From 1C)

Players Championship had to finish on Monday because of rain. That was the year a 24-year-old Sutton birdied the 17th for a one-stroke victory over Bob Eastwood.

Since then, Sutton's game dipped so low he had to use a one-time exemption for career earnings just to keep his card in 1994.

But it was vintage Sutton in the final round. He missed only one fairway, on the par-5 16th, and made a career bunker shot to save par at the eighth hole, the only green he missed.

"Hal has always been a great competitor," Woods said. "Even when he wasn't playing his best, he was always trying. He drives the ball beautifully, hits a lot of good iron shots, and this week he rolled the ball well."

Five players tied for third at 284 — Nick Price, who finished Sunday, Jeff Maggert, Scott Dunlap, Colin Montgomerie and Robert Damron.

Surging Spurs dump Sonics

Associated Press

SEATTLE — Led by Tim Duncan and David Robinson, the San Antonio Spurs are rounding into playoff form.

Duncan scored 30 points, Robinson added 23, and Sean Elliott hit a pivotal 3-pointer as the NBA's defending champions used a 17-3 fourth-quarter run to beat the Seattle SuperSonics 90-82 Monday night for their third straight victory.

The Spurs dominated inside. Duncan grabbed 18 rebounds and Robinson had 16 rebounds and four blocked shots.

"Last year we won these type of games," Robinson said. "Tonight was a good sign."

Elliott, playing his seventh game since being activated after a kidney transplant, scored 10 points, including a 3-pointer for an 80-76 lead with 5:30 left.

"Tonight was kind of like the old us," said Elliott, whose 26 minutes were the most he's played in his comeback. "I feel good. I wasn't too tired out there."

The Spurs, who allow opponents an average of 89.9 point per game to lead the league in scoring defense, held the Sonics to 6-for-20 shooting in the fourth quarter.

"I was thrilled with our defense because that's what we predicate our game on," San Antonio coach Gregg Popovich said.

The Sonics led 75-71 when the Spurs held Seattle to three baskets over the final eight minutes. The Sonics lost their fourth straight home game and slipped into eighth in the Western Conference playoff race.

Antonio Daniels provided a big lift for the Spurs in the fourth quarter with nine points on 4-for-5 shooting.

Gary Payton and Vin Baker led the Sonics with 21 points apiece. Seattle lost a fourth-quarter lead for the third time in four games.

"They have two big horses inside with David and Tim who plugged up the middle," Baker said. "Maybe guys are pressing too much, because we are struggling offensively in the fourth quarter."

After Baker's basket with 8:03 left, the Sonics went almost four minutes without a basket until Vernon Maxwell's runner with 4:05 left. They got two layups the rest of the game.

The Spurs went on an 11-1 run for an 82-76 advantage. Duncan and Daniels had four points each.

Seattle led 69-68 when Baker scored on an offensive rebound and Samaki Walker was assessed a technical foul for shoving Jelani McCoy. Payton's free throw gave Seattle a 72-68 lead with 8:45 left.

Payton scored nine points in the third quarter as the Sonics were up 66-61 after three periods.

The Sonics opened the third quarter with a 7-0 run on Greg Foster's basket, a 3-point shot by Brent Barry and Baker's putback for a 51-42 advantage with 10:24 left in the quarter. Payton's runner with 3.1 seconds in the half gave the Sonics a 44-42 halftime lead.

Mavericks 113, Jazz 105

SALT LAKE CITY — Michael Finley and the Mavericks finally found a way to beat the Jazz.

Finley scored 24 of his 31 points in the first half, Hubert Davis had 13 of his 15 points in the fourth quarter and Steve Nash hit six free throws in the final 49.2 seconds as Mavericks beat the Jazz .

The Mavericks snapped a 12-game losing streak to Utah. They hadn't won in Salt Lake City since Feb. 9, 1989, a span of 25 games. It also was Dallas' first victory in 21 games at the Delta Center, which opened in 1991.

Dallas shot well all night, building a 55-48 halftime lead on the strength of 55.8 percent shooting.

The loss ended Utah's four-game winning streak, a stretch where the Jazz had seized control in the fourth quarter. But this time it was Davis who took over at the end, hitting baskets to thwart every Utah challenge.

When it was finally over, the Mavericks raised their hands in celebration and shared handshakes and hugs on the court with new owner Mark Cuban. Dirk Nowitzki had 16 points and 17 rebounds, and Erick Strickland scored 15 for Dallas, which shot 58 percent (40-of-69). Finley hit 13-of-18.

Karl Malone had 26 points and 10 rebounds to lead Utah but the Jazz couldn't maintain the momentum that had delivered victories in 13 of their previous 14 games. In fact, Utah looked tired, hitting 48.1 percent (38-of-79).

The Mavericks were 10-for-10 from the foul line in the final minute, with Nash hitting all six of his attempts.

And each time the Jazz made a run in the closing minutes, Davis delivered. When Utah cut it to 100-93 with 5:58 to play, Davis hit a jumper. When the Jazz made it 102-95 with 3:01 to go, Davis hit a 3-pointer.

And when Davis missed a 3-point attempt with 1:35, Nowitzki went out on the perimeter to grab his 17th rebound.

District 4-5A Baseball Today

Midland Lee vs. Abilene Cooper

When: 4 p.m.

Where: Lee's Ernie Johnson Field.

Records: Lee is 13-7 overall and 2-1 in District 4-5A. Cooper is 10-6 and 3-1.

4-5A Significance: If Lee wins, the Rebels will have at least a share of the district lead, and they will have it all to themselves if Midland High beats Abilene High. A loss will drop the Rebels to even in district and into a tie for third place. Cooper will maintain the district lead all alone with a win, but with a loss the Cougars will also drop into third place.

Notes: Lee is getting back into the 4-5A swing today after splitting a doubleheader with Lubbock Monterey during its open district date Saturday. The split was certainly better than the previous Tuesday for the Rebels, who were bombed by Abilene High 9-0 in a district game. Lee got only two hits in that game while the Eagles hammered Lee starter T.J. Mansell for 11 hits. Today the Rebels will throw senior right-hander Jon Rogers, who picked up the first victory of district play by pitching a complete game 9-5 win over Midland High... Cooper has been as solid as expected so far, and it jumped into first place Saturday by defeating Odessa Permian 6-2.

Next: Lee will go on the road for another district game Saturday at Odessa High starting at 2 p.m.

Midland High vs. Abilene High

When: 4 p.m.

Where: Abilene High.

Records: Midland High is 16-4 overall and 2-2 in District 4-5A. Abilene High is 11-3 and 2-1.

4-5A Significance: A win would put Midland High over .500 in district for the first time this season, and if Cooper beats Lee, the Bulldogs would be alone in second place. A loss would drop MHS to fifth place. If Abilene High wins, the Eagles would be in no worse than second place, and they would be tied for the district lead with Lee if the Rebels beat Cooper.

Notes: As expected, Midland High's hitting is coming around. The Bulldogs pounded out 18 hits to clobber San Angelo Central 19-4 in a six-inning run rule win Saturday. It was the kind of hitting performance expected from a lineup which helped MHS earn a No. 5 preseason ranking. The Bulldogs also got a complete game performance on the mound from freshman Casey Zachery, and found a defense which made most of the routine plays after committing two errors in two district losses. Midland High will likely start senior Mark Avila against Abilene High... The Eagles started off district strong, winning their first two district games before suffering a major setback with a 5-2 loss to Odessa High Saturday.

Next: Midland High returns home to host Odessa Permian in a district game Saturday at 2 p.m.

Irish using NIT to prove point

By Dennis Waszak Jr.
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK — Notre Dame is using its NIT run to send a message to the NCAA selection committee: The Irish should have been one of the tournament's 64 teams.

"We've talked about proving them wrong since the beginning of this tournament," Irish coach Matt Doherty said Monday during a luncheon introducing the coaches of the NIT semifinalists.

"That's been part of our mission — to prove to the NCAA committee that they made a mistake. I tell the team to look at Wisconsin (in the NCAA tournament). They have 13 losses. That could have been us."

Notre Dame (21-14) will play Penn State (18-15) in the second semifinal Tuesday night at Madison Square Garden. In the first game, North Carolina State (20-12) will face Wake Forest (20-14).

The championship is Thursday night.

"These four teams could be in that other tournament, but I, uh, forget the name of it," Doherty said.

Doherty expressed his frustration when Notre Dame was not selected to participate in the NCAA's field of 64, but he refused to allow his team to dwell on it. Now, Notre Dame is two wins from the NIT championship.

"I'm grateful to the NIT because I think we should be playing for some kind of championship," Doherty said.

"Yes, we were disappointed at not making the NCAAs, and that's no slight to the NIT. There were some teams this year that were very disappointed, and couldn't overcome that."

Notre Dame beat Michigan, Xavier and Brigham Young to join Louisville (1985), St. John's ('89) and Minnesota ('93) as schools who have played in the semifinals of both the preseason and postseason NITs. The Irish lost to Arizona in the semifinals in November.

The Irish are led by 6-foot-9 sophomore Troy Murphy, the Big East player of the year and the only AP first-team All-America selection still playing.

"Troy Murphy is an outstanding player, who has a number of good players to complement him," Penn State coach Jerry Dunn said. "They're a very good team in what is probably one of the strongest fields ever in the NIT."

Jarrett Stephens returned from a career-threatening knee injury in the 1998 NIT semifinals against Georgia to lead the Nittany Lions in scoring (18.7 points) and rebounding (10.7). Penn State, which hasn't played Notre Dame since beating the Irish in the 1954 NCAA tournament, is also led by brothers Joe and Jon Crispin.

In the other semifinal, ACC rivals Wake Forest and N.C. State play for the third time this season. The teams have never met in the postseason, however, other than the ACC tournament.

"It's not an advantage for either team," N.C. State coach Herb Sendek said. "They know us well, and obviously, we know them very well. It's actually a challenge for both of our teams."

The Wolfpack, in their first NIT semifinal since 1978, beat the Deamon Deacons 76-56 in Raleigh, N.C., in January. A month later, Wake Forest routed N.C. State 71-53 in Winston Salem, N.C.

"His team was a better team the first time around," Wake Forest coach Dave Odom said. "They played much better defense and our offense was in a state of flux. When we played in Winston Salem, our team had gotten a lot better."

N.C. State, which last made it to the NIT semifinals in 1983, is led by guard Anthony Grundy, forward Kenny Inge, and forward Damien Wilkins. Wilkins, a 6-6 freshman, is the son of former New York Knicks player Gerald Wilkins, and the nephew of former NBA All-Star Dominique Wilkins.

Wake Forest has been led by forward Darius Songaila and guard Robert O'Kelley.

"There is no shame in playing basketball in the last week of March," Odom said.

Penn St. women attain first Final Four; UConn advances

Associated Press

Tennessee and Connecticut were expected to reach the women's Final Four. Penn State wasn't.

The Nittany Lions ended 24 years of frustration for coach Rene Portland and started Leon Barmore's retirement earlier than most had figured when they knocked off top-seeded Louisiana Tech 86-65 on Monday night to win the Midwest Regional. It's the first Final Four berth in Penn State history.

So now it's on to Philadelphia where Penn State will play Connecticut in the national semifinals Friday night. Tennessee will take on the Georgia-Rutgers winner. Portland and her Nittany Lions are making their first trip to the Final Four.

"She deserves it," Penn State center Andrea Garner said of Portland, who grew up in suburban Philadelphia. "She's been in there, I don't know how long, longer than I am old. She writes on the board, 'This is our time.' It's her time, too."

Lisa Shepherd scored 20 of her 25 points in the first half to put Penn State in control and the Lady Lions (30-4) survived the pressure defense of top-seeded Louisiana Tech guards Tamicha Jackson and Betty Lennox in their Kansas City battle.

"Their execution in the first half was just perfection," Portland said. "If we get four like that in a row, we'll be wearing a different hat."

The loss snapped Louisiana Tech's 21-game winning streak as the Lady Techsters failed to get Barmore in the Final Four one last time. Barmore, who has been part of 10 NCAA Final Four trips as a head coach or assistant, retired with a 520-77 record in 18 years at Tech. His winning percentage of .872 is the best of any major college basketball coach.

Helen Darling and Garner each scored 15 points for Penn State, with Darling getting 12 assists and Garner grabbing 12 rebounds. Jackson led Tech (31-3) with 19 points and Lennox scored 14, but they were a combined 12-for-40 from the field.

Connecticut 86, LSU 71

At Richmond, Va., Svetlana Abrosimova scored a season high-tying 25 points to lead Connecticut (34-1), which also got 16 points from Sue Bird and 15 from Shea Ralph. It was the Huskies' 15th straight victory, one shy of tying a school record for most consecutive wins in a season.

Connecticut went undefeated in 1994-95 to win the school's only women's national title. April Brown scored 18 of her 23 points in the first half and Marie Ferdinand added 17 for LSU (25-7), which fell to 0-2 in regional finals.

LSU pulled within six points, 58-52, with 12:23 remaining in the game. But the Huskies went on a 17-6 spurt to lead 75-58 with 6:05 left.

WOMEN: Lady Raiders fall to Tennessee by 13

nessee.

"I guess we just forgot about her," Johnson said. "I don't know. Some players step up, some don't, and she was the one that stepped up in that run."

Johnson led Texas Tech with 12 points. Plenette Pierson had all 10 of her points in the first half.

Tennessee routed Furman, Arizona and Virginia to reach the regional final, and the Lady Vols looked like they would add Texas Tech to the list after taking a 12-4 lead.

But Texas Tech got Snow into quick foul trouble, and she went to the bench with 14:11 left. With the 6-foot-5 Snow sitting, the Lady Raiders started heading to the basket. Pierson scored eight of her 10 up close.

Tennessee had more trouble midway through the half.

Catchings landed awkwardly on her right foot after missing a jumper from near the free throw line, badly wrenching her ankle with 10:17 left before halftime. The pro-Tennessee crowd fell silent as she was helped off the court by a team official and team trainer Jenny Moshak.

Catchings' ankle was wrapped heavily and she returned to the game with 3:02 left in the half.

"It hurt when I came back out, but I wanted to be out there for my teammates," she said.

Crude falls

NEW YORK — Crude oil futures fell Monday on the New York Mercantile Exchange after OPEC ministers failed to reach a quick consensus on how much crude oil to add to global supplies.

Discussions were to resume Tuesday in Vienna, Austria, with Iran is seen as the chief obstacle to a consensus on how much to ease production cuts that expire this week.

Curbs on crude output adopted by the Organization of the Petroleum Exporting Countries last March have squeezed supplies, helping oil prices rebound from 12-year lows around $10 a barrel in December 1998 to a nine-year intraday high of $34.37 a barrel March 8.

Iran, OPEC's second-largest producer behind Saudi Arabia, is known to favor boosting output by about 1.2 million barrels a day, an amount unlikely to provide price relief for consumers.

Two other key producers in the group, Saudi Arabia and Kuwait, have proposed a production increase of 1.5 million to 1.7 million barrels a day.

Industry analysts warn of possible shortages and $2-a-gallon gas during the peak driving season this summer if OPEC fails to increase production significantly.

Nasdaq lower

NEW YORK — Microsoft deflated every major stock market index Monday, falling sharply after the government reportedly rejected the company's offer to settle their antitrust case. Microsoft's decline masked strength in other technology issues.

The Dow Jones industrial average fell 86.87 to close at 11,025.85. The blue-chip index lost an early gain due to Microsoft's weakness and profit-taking in the financial shares that soared last week.

The Nasdaq composite index fell 4.47 to 4,958.56, and the Standard & Poor's 500 fell 3.60 to 1,523.86. Trading was quiet.

Microsoft, the most actively traded Nasdaq stock, fell 7 5/8 to 104 1/16, accounting for nearly 40 points of the Dow's decline.

Dollar up

NEW YORK — The dollar rose against the euro, the British pound and the Swiss franc as expectations for additional interest rate hikes in Europe fizzled.

The unusually large Swiss rate hike of three-quarters of a percentage point last week had raised hopes that other European central banks would follow suit, but comments from officials at the Bank of England and the European Central Bank downplayed the possibility of more increases.

In late New York trading, the euro was quoted at 96.62 cents, down from 97.53 late Friday, and the British pound fell to $1.5878 from $1.5926. The dollar also rose against the Swiss franc, trading at 1.6441 Swiss francs, up from 1.6277 late Friday.

In other trading, the dollar was quoted at 106.87 Japanese yen, down from 107.05, and 1.4585 Canadian dollars, down from 1.4636.

Gold slides

Gold fell almost $5 on the New York Mercantile Exchange as ministers of the Organization of the Petroleum Exporting Countries held their first session in Vienna, Austria, but took no action on production proposals. Ministers plan to continue their deliberations on Tuesday.

Gold for delivery in April was off $4.60 to settle at $280.50 a troy ounce, while April silver was off 2.8 cents to $5.10 a troy ounce on the New York Mercantile Exchange.

OPEC negotiations resume today

By Bruce Stanley
Associated Press

VIENNA, Austria — OPEC oil ministers failed to reach agreement Monday on how much crude oil to add to global supplies, with Iran seen as the chief obstacle to a consensus that could provide some price relief to consumers.

The ministers were to resume discussions Tuesday.

On the Net:
http://www.opec.org

Iran accepts the need for OPEC to boost output, the Iranian Oil Minister Bijan Namdar Zangeneh said, but the amount of an increase favored by his country might not be enough to reduce petroleum prices from nine-year highs.

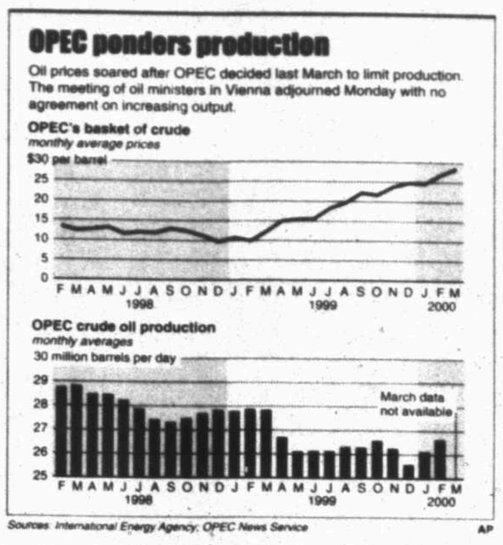
Zangeneh spoke before the opening Monday of the semiannual meeting of oil ministers from all 11 members of the Organization of the Petroleum Exporting Countries.

"I won't talk on numbers, but we don't want a market shortage," he said.

Iran, OPEC's second-largest producer, is known to favor boosting output by about 1.2 million barrels a day — an amount that probably would do little to reduce world oil prices.

An OPEC delegate, speaking on condition of anonymity, told reporters that Libya, Indonesia and Nigeria back Iran's position.

Two other key producers in the group, Saudi Arabia and Kuwait, have proposed a production increase of 1.5 million to 1.7 million barrels a day. The upper limit of their proposed increase would amount to about 7 percent more than what OPEC members agreed to pump after curtailing output last March.



For U.S. motorists and other consumers of refined products such as gasoline, much hinges on efforts by Saudi Arabia, OPEC's No. 1 producer, to win Iran over to its point of view.

American motorists now pay an average of $1.59 per gallon for unleaded gasoline, an increase of nearly 60 cents since prices bottomed out at 99.8 cents per gallon in February 1999, according to a Lundberg Survey of 10,000 U.S. gas stations released Saturday.

Industry analysts warn of possible shortages and $2-a-gallon gas during the peak driving season this summer if OPEC fails to increase production significantly.

Meanwhile, Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan sought Monday to minimize fears raised by some U.S. lawmakers that a recent spike in fuel prices could have a negative effect on economy.

"Currently, we do not as yet — and emphasize as yet — see any significant indication that crude oil price increases are in the process of embedding themselves in other areas of the economy and inflating the general price structure," he said in testimony before a Senate committee in Washington.

Greenspan said it was unclear what level of energy inflation would be needed to spread to other areas of the economy.

OPEC, which operates on consensus decisions, must decide whether to extend cuts it made in 1998 and 1999 that have propelled oil prices to their highest levels since the 1991 Persian Gulf War. The latest round of cuts expires at the end of the week.

U.S. oil prices tripled to a March 8 peak of $34.37 per barrel following OPEC's decision last March to slash production.

Prices for U.S. West Texas intermediate crude in the United States, world's biggest consumer of oil, and Brent crude from the North Sea have eased somewhat in recent weeks amid optimism that OPEC will raise output.

The United States, world's biggest consumer of oil, has lobbied the cartel to raise production. The government has said that an increase of 2 million to 2.5 million barrels per day is needed to replenish inventories and satisfy growing world demand.

DaimlerChrysler invests in Mitsubishi Motors Corp.

Gaining ground in Asia

DaimlerChrysler announced Monday that it would acquire 34 percent stake in Mitsubishi Motors Corp., creating the world's third-largest automaker. The deal would give DaimlerChrysler control over Japan's fourth-biggest automaker.

TOKYO — DaimlerChrysler AG signed an agreement Monday to invest in Mitsubishi Motors Corp., finally securing the toehold in Asia that it has long wanted.

DaimlerChrysler will pay $2.1 billion to buy newly issued shares that will give it a 33.4 percent stake in Mitsubishi, enough to guarantee it board representation and limited veto power. On a fully diluted basis, DaimlerChrysler will be paying a 7.4 percent premium on the price at which Mitsubishi shares closed on Friday.

The German car company said that the alliance gave it entree to Asian markets as well as access to small car technology that it would use to expand its Smart car brand. DaimlerChrysler said Monday that Mitsubishi will supply transmissions and direct injection gasoline engines for Smart cars, thus sharply curtailing development costs.

"We have closed the circle," Juergen Schrempp, chairman of DaimlerChrysler, told reporters at the company's headquarters in Stuttgart Monday. "We have covered all the markets of the world."

For Mitsubishi, the agreement means survival. With debts that outweigh equity by a factor of five and a history of poor profitability, the company needed a partner.

In a span of two years, 7 of Japan's 11 automakers have taken foreign partners — a stunning trend considering how closed this market has been.

"In terms of Japanese automakers, this was the last one available," said Christopher Richter, an analyst at HSBC Securities in Tokyo. "Toyota is too big, Honda has no apparent interest in an alliance and competition for the Korean automakers is intense."

That begs the question of whether DaimlerChrysler is paying a price for walking away from a deal with Nissan Motor Co. nearly a year ago. Since then, DaimlerChrysler has talked with PSA Peugeot Citroen, Fiat and others but failed to clinch a deal.

Excluding its truck business, which is not part of the agreement, Mitsubishi has a much smaller product line than Nissan, and debt accounts for a bigger portion of its balance sheet than did Nissan's debts.

And it is an integral part of a tightly knit business cluster, the Mitsubishi Group, which has resisted political and financial pressure to dismantle itself, unlike other Japanese conglomerates. Mitsubishi Group companies own, and will continue to own, a larger portion of Mitsubishi Motors than members of the Fuyo Group held in Nissan, according to Richter.

Kentaro Aikawa, the former chairman of Mitsubishi Heavy Industries, Mitsubishi's biggest shareholder, is infamous for saying that shareholders do not matter. "The notion that accrued profits belong to shareholders is an American one," Aikawa said in 1997. "In Japan, these profits go to paying employee salaries, even when the work dries up."

While Aikawa has since taken an advisory role at the company, his sentiments have continued to color perceptions here.

"I think one of the biggest challenges here will be providing DaimlerChrysler with the management access and participation it wants while keeping the existing management team in place to keep the Mitsubishi group happy," said Steven Usher, an analyst at Jardine Fleming Securities in Tokyo. "I think that will be very touchy."

When Nissan announced a year ago that it had sold a similar-sized stake to Renault S.A. of France, it was clear that the company had resigned itself to the management of its partner.

High speed Internet access could help business recruiting

By Mella McEwen
Staff Writer

Efforts to attract new businesses and help existing businesses become more competitive are getting a boost from the World Wide Web.

New companies have been flocking to Midland to offer high speed Internet access through Digital Subscriber Lines (DSL), which promise high download and upload speeds without the need for a second phone line.

"I think it will be an asset to certain businesses in the city. It gives us a leg up in trying to bring our businesses into the same world we see in the larger cities," said Buddy Sipes, chairman of the board of the Midland Chamber of Commerce. "We have the speed of transmission now and that is taking the competitive edge away from the larger cities. This is going to help our city."

Austin-based Jump.net, in conjunction with IP Communications, has begun offering DSL to Midland and other cities in Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri. Company spokeswoman Meredith Parrish said that prices start at $44.95 a month.

"We offer different packages that can include DSL, an e-mail box and web space," she said, adding that the company offers ADSL, which has different speeds for upload and download, and SDSL, where the speeds are the same. The equipment is provided and installed by IP Communications.

The company is offering a 30-day money back guarantee on its DSL service, giving 30 days of free DSL service. The offer is good through June 1 and customers choosing to cancel after that 30 day period must return the equipment within 30 days. The service offers "always-on" connections at speeds up to six megabits per second.

Southwestern Bell customers in Midland should also have DSL service available, said spokeswoman Lindsay Lombar. Southwestern Bell offers standard DSL service with speeds of up to six megabits per second download and 384 kilobytes per second upload. Customers have their choice of Internet service providers. Cost is $49 with a one-year contract with Southwestern Bell Internet Service and $198 for equipment, or $80.95 a month without SBIS.

The company's Premium DSL service offers downstream connection speeds up to 6 megabits per second for $199 a month with a one-year contract with SBIS or $149 a month without Internet service included, and equipment purchase of $198.

Service from Jump.net can be ordered by calling 877-388-3752 or www.jump.net/freetest. Service from Southwestern Bell can be ordered by calling 1-888-792-3751 or through their Internet provider, or at www.swbell.com/dsl.

The two join new DSL providers DSL.net, offering DLS service to Midland businesses, and Everyone's Internet, offering DSL service to Midland homes or businesses.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

Insurance companies not top choice for investments

By Eric Tyson

Q: Our son will be investing in an IRA, but we are not sure where to open an account. My husband and I each have one with an insurance company. Would that be a good place for our son's IRA, or would Franklin Templeton or another company be just as good? Our son is 22 and works on our family farm.

Tyson

A: Insurance companies tend not to be among the premier investment companies for two reasons. First, insurers' investments tend to have above-average expenses to you, the investor. Secondly, insurers tend to not be among the companies most capable of del ivering the best returns given the risk that they assume in their portfolios.

While Franklin Templeton is an investment company, it distributes its funds through brokers, and thus the funds carry sales commissions. Franklin Templeton funds would not be on my short list of funds with the best performance given the risk level of its funds.

I would recommend that you and your son get acquainted with some of the leading no-load mutual fund companies such as Vanguard and T. Rowe Price.

Q: I'm presently in two bond funds — one overseas fund and one high-yield U.S. fund. I am trying to diversify with one more bond fund in the United States with at least a 10 percent return. Can you suggest any?

A: I know many excellent U.S. bond funds, but I think your return expectations are too high if you're investing in them expecting a double-digit return. During the past decade, bond-fund investors have enjoyed double-digit returns as generally falling in terest rates have caused bond prices to appreciate, adding to the interest returns bond investors have earned. Over the past year or so interest rates have increased, which has caused falling bond prices and lowered the total return bond investors have r eceived.

When investing in bonds, I don't think you can expect to be able to predict which way interest rates will head in the future. It would be better for you to examine the current dividend yield on a bond fund as being a more accurate predictor of your expec ted long-term annual return. Should interest rates fall, thus boosting your total return — great! But please don't expect that!

Presuming you don't have to be concerned with paying a high rate of income tax on your interest earnings, I would advise you to stick with an intermediate-term corporate or index bond fund, which are currently paying in the neighborhood of 7.5 percent at low-cost fund provider Vanguard.

With a high-yield bond fund the current dividend yields are higher -- above 9 percent. Be careful, though, in expecting that high of an annualized return, as defaults in an economic downturn can erode your high-yield bond returns.

MCS beats Pecos JV

The Midland Christian baseball defeated Pecos JV, 20-3, at Simon Field on Monday to improve to 7-7 on the season.

Micah Brown was the winning pitcher to improve to 2-3 on the year.

Offensively for the Mustangs, Jamie Beeghley was 2-for-2 with a double; Coy Riley was 2-for-4; Brandon Tobias was 2-for-3; Jacob Cross went 2-for3 with a double and a triple and Garrett Hellums had a double.

The Mustangs next face Carrollton Christian 4:15 p.m. Friday at Christensen Stadium in district action.

Lant honored

Keith Lant, a Midland High graduate, has been namned NAIA Region V Picther of the Week.

Lant, a senior right-hander, pitched a complete-game one hitter against Bethany College (Kan.). He carried a no hitter into the seventh inning before giving up a leadoff single. With the win, Lant improved to 5-1 on the season for the Bulldogs (24-6).

Team members: Jake Baccus, David Bles, Chris Cooper, Steven Ellington, Cody Frazier, Isaac Natividad, Jake Pulliam, Jonathan Rodriguez, Jeremy Sessions, Mark Shatzer, Matthew Stovall and Cody Thompson.

Bad serve doesn't cost Capriati victory

By Steven Wine
AP Sports Writer

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. — On the verge of victory, Jennifer Capriati hit a serve that would shame the worst weekend hacker. The lip of her racket sent the ball sailing over Serena Williams' head and into the first row of seats behind the baseline.

"I've never done that," Capriati said later with a sheepish grin. "That was kind of cool, though."

She could smile because she regrouped for another impressive win in her career comebaek. Despite the shanked serve and other shaky moments, Capriati outlasted the sixth-ranked Williams 7-6 (2), 1-6, 6-3 in the fourth round of the Ericsson Open.

"It's unbelievable," said Capriati, a former teen-age prodigy who turns 24 on Wednesday. "I'm just very happy, because it shows I've really come a long way."

With the sloppy but dramatic victory, the 13th-seeded Capriati advances to the quarterfinals in Key Biscayne for the first time since 1992. The last time she beat an opponent ranked so highly was in 1996, when she won at Chicago against Monica Seles, who then shared No. 1 with Steffi Graf.

Capriati has climbed to 14th in the world, her best ranking in six years. She'll play 12th-seeded Sandrine Testud next and needs three more victories to claim the biggest title of her career.

"I definitely believe in myself that I can win it," she said.

Potential obstacles include top-seeded Martina Hingis and No. 2 Lindsay Davenport. Hingis advanced to the quarterfinals by beating Kim Clijsters 6-0, 6-4, while Davenport eliminated Elena Likhovtseva 6-4, 6-4. Seles, seeded seventh, beat No. 9 Anna Kournikova 6-1, 3-6, 6-0.

In men's play, top-seeded Andre Agassi advanced to a fourth-round showdown against Patrick Rafter by sweeping Andrei Pavel 6-4, 6-3.

With a noisy stadium-court crowd firmly behind Capriati, she overpowered Williams in a first-set tiebreaker, became annoyed by several line calls in the second set, then surged to a 5-1 lead in the final set.

At that point Capriati began to look nervous. She squandered a match point, sent her next serve into the stands and covered her face with both hands in embarrassment.

Capriati lost that game and another to make the score 5-3. When she served two double-faults — her 13th and 14th — to give Williams another break point, Capriati appeared on the verge of collapse.

"I was just so excited and the crowd was so excited that I lost my concentration," she said. "I had to regroup a little bit. I had to really bear down in that last game."

After Williams hit two consecutive backhands wide, Capriati belted a 102-mph service winner on match point. She punched the air with her fist and skipped happily to the net to shake Williams' hand.

"I played OK," Williams said. "She played some of her best tennis. She did good."

Williams, the reigning U.S. Open champion, has lost before the semifinals in three of five tournaments this year, and the latest defeat will prevent her from disproving recent remarks by Hingis. According to Hingis, she and Davenport are in a class by themselves at the moment.

This slump is nothing compared with what Capriati went through when drug and personal problems forced her off the WTA Tour in 1993. She returned in 1996 and had sporadic success, then won two tournaments last year and reached the semifinals of the Australian Open in January.

She has been revitalized by veteran coach Harold Solomon and by her romance with Xavier Malisse, a touring pro from Belgium. Capriati, often emotional and testy with the media in the past, beamed as she sat before a roomful of reporters Monday.

"Everyone's been interested in my story, whether I'm good, bad, whatever," she said. "You know, it's fine. I'm used to it."

Off-field violence headlines NFL meetings

By Dave Goldberg
AP Football Writer

PALM BEACH, Fla. — NFL commissioner Paul Tagliabue isn't concerned about the league's image. He just wants the violence to stop.

That was the backdrop against which the NFL opened its annual spring meeting Monday. On-field issues have given way to more disturbing problems, the most serious of which are murder charges against two players.

"The issue isn't one of image. It's a substantive issue of player conduct," Tagliabue said after his annual speech on the state of the league to owners, coaches and other club officials.

Tagliabue, as usual, accentuated positive developments. He called last year's title game the best in Super Bowl history. He also pointed to the competitive balance — others call it mediocrity — that enabled the St. Louis Rams to go from 4-12 to an NFL championship.

Outside the meeting rooms, however, discussions focused on the spate of player arrests — and some convictions — for a variety of crimes. Charged with murder are Ray Lewis of Baltimore and Rae Carruth, formerly of Carolina.

On Wednesday, coaches Mike Holmgren of Seattle, Tony Dungy of Tampa Bay and Brian Billick of Baltimore will lead a panel discussion on handling troublesome players. But, beyond the debates, the league has taken no specific steps on confronting this problem.

"We're going to reassess the level of discipline," said Tagliabue, who two weeks ago handed down the first suspensions in NFL history for off-field violence.

Two game-suspensions were given to Matt O'Dwyer of Cincinnati and Jumbo Elliott of the New York Jets for their part in a bar brawl. Denard Walker of Tennessee, who pleaded guilty to assault on the mother of their child, received similar discipline.

"Just because these things happen, you can't junk the whole system," Billick said. "I think what we have to do is share our resources and share our ideas."

Some are ready to do just that, having instituted counseling programs.

Dungy and another Bucs official, for example, sat down with a star player and bluntly told him to drop a troublesome group of hangers-on. And the New York Giants seem to have helped quarterback Kerry Collins and defensive lineman Christian Peter with intensive counseling.

"It starts at the top," Dungy said Monday. "I think if you let a player realize that his career depends as much on his behavior as how he plays, you're making a lot of progress. Once they know the things we don't like they can start doing what we do like."

No leaguewide anti-violence policy is likely to come out of these meetings. In fact, little of substance will occur.

Instant replay, for example, most likely will be brought back for another year, again featuring the coaches' challenge. Last season marked the first time since 1991 that replay was used.

Dungy's team was hurt by replay several times last season. But while he personally opposes replay, the Bucs will vote for it. Replay requires the approval of 24 of the 31 teams.

New Houston team looking for camp site

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston's NFL expansion team may go through summer training camp away from the city's humidity but close to the Dallas Cowboys' Rio Grande Valley camp, team owner Bob McNair said Monday.

On the short list are Austin and San Antonio.

"That's what we're looking at now," McNair told the Houston Chronicle for Tuesday's editions. "We're looking at our options, and we don't know what we're going to do at this time, of course. But San Antonio and Austin have hosted training camps, and they're in such good proximity to Houston."

The Oilers trained at Trinity University in San Antonio before moving to Tennessee after the 1996 season. The Cowboys trained at St. Edward's University in Austin, before moving to Wichita Falls.

McNair would like to get his NFL expansion team, which begins play in 2002, away from sweltering Houston summers and closer to the Cowboys' camp so the teams can scrimmage, he said.

"Jerry (Jones) and I have been talking about what a wonderful opportunity we have to highlight what should be a great rivalry," McNair said. "If we take advantage of it, we should be able to stimulate interest in football even more, if that's possible, in Texas."

The team doesn't have to decide on training camp anytime soon and McNair said he will likely let general manager Charley Casserly and the team's first head coach, who will be named after the 2000 season, tour the sites.

Tips On Writing EFFECTIVE Classified Ads

◆ STICK TO THE FACTS

Prospective buyers need to know details, like the condition of the item for sale, the size, brand name, color and any other relevant information that would help them make a decision.

◆ BE HONEST

Aside from being unethical, exaggerating or misinforming potential buyers won't help you make a sale, and may only serve to lose a prospective buyers' trust. Even if they come to look at what you have to sell, they'll be less likely to buy the item or trust you once they see they've been mislead.

◆ SPELL IT OUT

Abbreviations are not easily understood by many people and may even confuse a reader. It only takes them a second to pass over an ad because it doesn't seem clear, why let it be yours because you abbreviated a description?

◆ THE BOTTOM LINE

State the price. You'll save yourself the hassle of having to answer calls from prospects who, upon learning the price, are not really interested. Price is the first thing they'll look for when reading your ad, and when prospects know the price, you'll know you have a serious buyer on the line.

◆ BE THERE

List the best hours to call and make sure you're at home. If you don't list a specific time, you could be flooded with calls any time of the day or night. And when you're not at home to take calls, most likely, they won't call back.

◆ ASK US

If you aren't sure how to word your ad or what features to include, why not ask us? Our professionals on staff know how to create an effective ad that sells, they're always willing to help, and there's no charge!

312 Professional Help Wanted

The person we're looking for will...

love working with computers & learning new skills; love (even more) talking to people on the phone, have excellent spelling & typing skills; have the ability to learn quickly & retain information learned; be committed to quality & be able to pay attention to fine details; possess the ability to care about & respect our customers; and be able to constructively handle stress on a daily basis.

In return, you'll be given... all the training you need to be successful; skills that you can take with you for your future, lots of hard work sprinkled with fun & laughter; an opportunity to grow in a professional environment where your skills & dedication to quality are valued; a chance to go home each day knowing that you've made a difference in someone's life.

We would prefer applicants with at least 3+ years experience in an office setting but "go-getters" of all experience levels are encouraged to apply. This position is for 40 hours per week, with a varied schedule (most days are from 9:00 am to 6:00 pm, Monday- Friday, but you will be scheduled to work 11 am to 8 pm approximately 2 times per week. Also, 1 or 2 Saturdays per month, from 7:30 am to approximately 2 pm.) Pay is based on an hourly wage of $6.25 plus a generous commission plan that regards you for your speed, productivity & accuracy.

If you possess the skills listed above and are looking for a challenge, fax your resume to: Brandi at 682-6999.

Only selected applicants will be called for an interview, no phone calls please.
