Local Officials Disclose Goals For New Year

By MARY ALICE ROBBINS
Avalanche-Journal Staff

The beginning of a whole new decade now is just a few hours away, and it's time to start jotting down all those new year's resolutions.

Among those contemplating the traditional "things-to-do lists" are local public officials, whose duty it will be to see that many of the resolutions made today become realities in the 1980s.

For Lubbock Mayor Dirk West, the main goals will be the same as when he took office in 1978 — waging war on local speeders and crooks. "I resolve to continue the traffic program we started over a year ago and to continue seeking ways to help the crime problem," West said.

According to the mayor, the Crime Line and Crime-Stopper cameras have worked well, but Lubbock cannot become complacent with the successes. "Crime is not going away, and we'll have to continue to seek ways to fight it," West observed.

To make sure he's trim and fit to carry out these goals, West said he also has a personal resolution. "I'm going to lose a little weight,," the city's top official resolved. After the feasting of the holiday season, that's likely to be a resolution topping the list for many Lubbockites.

County Judge Rod Shaw said he doesn't normally make new year's resolutions because they are too easily broken. However, he does have some goals for Lubbock County.

"The county's chief aspirations for the near future," Shaw said, "are to get our new jail open and operating efficiently and to get our new youth center open sometime in the fall and operating in cooperation with the surrounding 14 counties for the rehabilitation of the juveniles with problems."

There are two resolutions at the top of the list for School Board President Monte Hasie. "My personal resolution for 1980 is to try to improve the school

Security Council Votes Sanctions

By United Press International

The United Nations Security Council today adopted an American-initiated resolution to impose sanctions against Iran if the American hostages in Tehran are not released by Jan.7.

The vote was 11-0, with 4 abstentions. Abstaining were the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia, Kuwait and Bangladesh.

The vote, a political victory for the United States, came as Secretary General Kurt Waldheim left the United Nations en route to Tehran, confident his visit would help solve the hostage crisis.

(Other Iranian Stories On Page 16, Sec. A)

"I am more confident today," Waldheim said. "I hope to meet Ayatollah Khomeini and the other authorities in Iran."

Waldheim said press reports he would not be received have been denied.

But in Tehran, the militant students who agreed today to meet with Waldheim indicated he is wasting his time if he expects to negotiate release of the American hostages.

The militants' about-face, apparently prompted by Iran's official acceptance of the visit as a "fact-finding" mission, came shortly before Waldheim's departure for a scheduled New Year's Day arrival in Tehran.

New Year's will the third holiday and the 59th day the Americans will have spent in the close confines of the sprawling U.S. Embassy compound. They also passed Thanksgiving and Christmas there, seen only by the students and a few hand-picked visitors from the outside.

The Iranian militants released film of the Christmas Day meeting of three U.S. clergymen and the hostages. It was shown today on U.S. television.

Elsewhere in Iran, new tribal unrest claimed seven deaths and 14 others were reported held hostage or detained by rival political groups in Iran's provinces.

The decapitated bodies of four West Iranian youths were discovered by police on a highway between the southeastern cities of Bam and Iranshahr, press reports said. Iranshahr was the scene of recent clashes between government forces and Baluchi tribesmen.

Another three men, revolutionary guards sent to Baluchistan to maintain calm after recent troubles, died in an ambush made by unidentified gunmen near the southeastern port city of Chahbahar, reports said.

In the holy city of Qom gunmen attacked the home of Ayatollah Sadegh Rouhani and fled after wounding one of his guards, a spokesman said. There was no immediate explanation for the attack, which followed a Dec. 5 shootout at the home of Rouhani's neighbor, moderate Ayatollah Sayed Kazem Shariat-Madari.

A spokesman for Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini said "the future will tell" whether the religious leader would meet with Waldheim. But he also said reports attributed to Khomeini's office ruling out such a meeting "are all wrong."

The militant students and Iran's ruling Revolutionary Council were at odds over the Waldheim mission, but they seemed to agree on one point — that there would be no negotiations with the U.N. leader over release of the hostages.

"The key to the release of the spies is in the hands of criminal (president) Cart-

China Blasts Soviet Move

By The Associated Press

China today demanded that Russian troops be withdrawn from Afghanistan, branding the Soviet military intervention as a threat to its security. Official sources in Islamabad said Pakistan also had called for a Russian pullout from the neighboring country.

Some 250 Soviet troops were killed or wounded in the Moscow-backed coup last Thursday that replaced one communist regime in Afghanistan with another, a Western diplomatic source in New Delhi, India, said today.

The source, quoting a reliable informant in Kabul, the Afghan capital, said the Soviet force in Afghanistan — now estimated by diplomats there to number 45,000 — was "fanning out" through the countryside to bolster Afghan government troops in their war against anti-Marxist Moslem insurgents.

A Pakistani newspaper, citing reports by Afghan rebels in Pakistan, said Sunday that the Soviets had suffered a large number of casualties in fighting with rebels in one northern province of Afghanistan below the Soviet border.

Western diplomats in Kabul said they had reports that Soviet troops had also been sent to the east and northeast to fight the rebellion, which broke out after Marxists first seized control of the Afghan government 20 months ago.

In London, meanwhile, Deputy U.S. Secretary of State Warren Christopher met with envoys from five other Western nations to discuss possible further moves to demonstrate joint opposition to the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan.

In Peking, the Chinese Foreign Ministry summoned the Soviet ambassador today, told him the Afghan operation "poses a threat to China's security" and demanded that Soviet troops be withdrawn. Official sources in Islamabad said the Pakistani government had also officially demanded a Soviet withdrawal.

Not all the reaction was negative. Vietnam's Communist Party newspaper hailed the Soviet Union for "assisting a nation which was in need of such assistance to save itself."

The New Delhi diplomat, who asked not to be identified, said his source in Kabul could not provide a breakdown of

Economic Indicators Show Dip

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government index intended to foretell future economic activity plunged in November for the second consecutive month, suggesting strongly that the economy will start 1980 on the skids, the Commerce Department reported today.

The drop of 1.3 percent in the Composite Index of Leading Indicators in November followed a 1.4 percent decline in October. It was the fourth month in five that the index has declined.

"It certainly makes a recession look more certain," said a Commerce Department analyst, who asked not to be identified. "The index is much weaker than it had been."

Many economists had believed the economy had begun falling into a recession in the second quarter this year, when the nation's output fell at an annual rate of 2.3 percent.

But real gross national product — the value of the nation's goods and services adjusted for inflation — rebounded in the third quarter to grow at an annual 3.1 percent.

Preliminary figures from the Commerce Department indicate that fourth-quarter growth could be around 1.5 percent.

As a result, many economists now believe the downturn will begin in earnest in the first quarter of 1980.

The department analyst said the November index confirms that suspicion.

In November, the index stood at 136.6, which means it was 36.6 percent ahead of its 1967 base of 100. That was the lowest level since July 1977 and the weakest since the index peaked at 143.6 in October 1978.

"Instead of falling off a cliff, we had a period of stagflation in 1979," the analyst said. "That makes it one of the oddest preludes to a recession, which it looks like we're headed for, that we've ever had."

Firefighters Reject Kansas City Offer

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A work slowdown by Kansas City firefighters entered its 11th day today after firemen turned down a city offer of another $600,000 in wages and benefits.

"We have stretched and stretched to the point where we can't stretch any farther and we're not going to," Mayor Richard Berkley said Sunday as police and National Guardsmen manned fire stations in this city of 500,000.

Only 37 union firemen reported for work in the three shifts from 7 a.m. through 11 p.m. Sunday and eight of the city's 32 fire stations were closed during the three shifts. A normal shift has 190 men.

Jim Treece, police spokesman, said 35 pieces of fire equipment were manned for the 316 square miles of the city. At full strength, the fire department uses about 53 pieces of equipment.

Berkley called the city's fire protection "quite good, although it's obviously not quite the same." John Germann, president of Local 42 of the International Association of Firefighters, described the city's defenses against fire as "practically non-existent."

Since the slowdown began, police confirmed 11 cases of arson, including the firebombing of a city car assigned to Fire Chief John Waas. However, Treece said the number was not abnormally high.

Firefighters launched the work slowdown Dec. 21 after rejecting the city's "last and final" wage offer. During the first stage of the job action, firefighters refused to work non-emergency overtime. The day after Christmas, firefighters began a "sickout," and the action escalated Saturday when firemen who re-

City To Greet 1980 Quietly

Thousands of Americans plan to greet the arrival of the New Year with parties and revelry tonight, but most Lubbock residents will celebrate in a more sedate fashion.

The biggest party will be in New York's Times Square, where 50,000 revelers are expected to whoop it up as a white ball of light drops at the stroke of midnight.

Hundreds of police will be on hand to see that the merrymaking doesn't get out of hand. Last year, there was a stabbing, several dozen robberies and 40 picked pockets reported to officers.

Another big crowd is expected in Atlanta's Margaret Mitchell Square.

In Lubbock, those who have any business to take care of before New Year's Day besides shopping for black-eyed peas, will have to finish it today because most businesses and governmental offices will be closed Tuesday.

All banks and savings and loan offices will shut down to welcome in the new year, as will City Hall, Lubbock County Courthouse and the Federal Building.

All offices are operating on regular schedule today, however.

Lubbock public school students will not be affected by the holiday because they are still on Christmas vacation and will not return to classes until next week.

The U.S. Postal Service will be operating on a holiday schedule New Year's Day, meaning no residential, business or rural delivery will be provided.

Post offices will be open throughout today, though, and all services will be provided.

A-J Will Observe Holiday Tuesday

The Avalanche-Journal, in order to allow its employees to spend New Year's Day with their families, will publish only a morning edition Tuesday.

Tuesday morning's paper, complete with evening edition features and comics, will be delivered to all subscribers of the evening paper.

Regular schedules will resume Wednesday.

Anatoly Shcharansky Faces Bleak Holiday

MOSCOW (UPI) — New Year is a bigger holiday than Christmas in the atheistic Soviet Union, but for Anatoly Shcharansky's parents it will be a bitter festival, with their son locked in a distant jail cell facing 10 more years of a prison sentence for treason.

For Shcharansky, it probably will mean weak tea and a chunk of bread — and possibly a salted sprat.

The elderly Shcharanskys will be joined by their other son, Leonid, 33, and his wife Raya and 8-year-old son Sasha to see in the new year at the family home in Istra, 45 miles north of Moscow.

"We have a fir tree with lights, and of course there will be toys for Sasha," said Shcharansky's 71-year-old mother, Ida Petrovna, in an interview. "But we can't have a proper new year without Tolya."

She painted a grim picture of life in the prison holding Shcharansky, a leading dissident spokesman whose trial on espionage charges led to an uproar in the West.

Anatoly, who will be 32 on Jan. 20, was convicted July 14, 1978, of spying for the United States and sentenced to 13 years in prison, the first three to be spent "in close confinement."

Because he was arrested March 15, 1977, he will be due for transfer from his high security prison in Chistopol, 500 miles east of Moscow, to a labor camp in March.

"I don't think he is looking forward to the transfer," his mother said. "The prison of course is terrible, but at least he is not forced to work there and he can do some studying."

A computer programmer by profession, Shcharansky spends his time reading technical literature on cybernetics, mathematics and logic, as well as trying to keep up his reading knowledge of English and French, said his mother.

"His eyes have suffered terribly and now he can only read for two or three hours a day before getting headaches," she said. "The last time I saw him, I realized he was seriously ill — he was all skin and bone and I couldn't recognize him as my son until I heard his voice.

"I have been applying to the authorities to have him moved to a hospital or at least have him examined, but they have done nothing. All they do is give him aspirin for the headaches."

Under the law, Shcharansky should get visits from his relatives every six months, on Aug. 6 and Feb. 2, "but I got a letter from him this month saying that he has been deprived of the February visit," his mother said.

"They deprived us of the February visit last year, too. They never explain why and Tolya is not allowed to tell us in his letters."

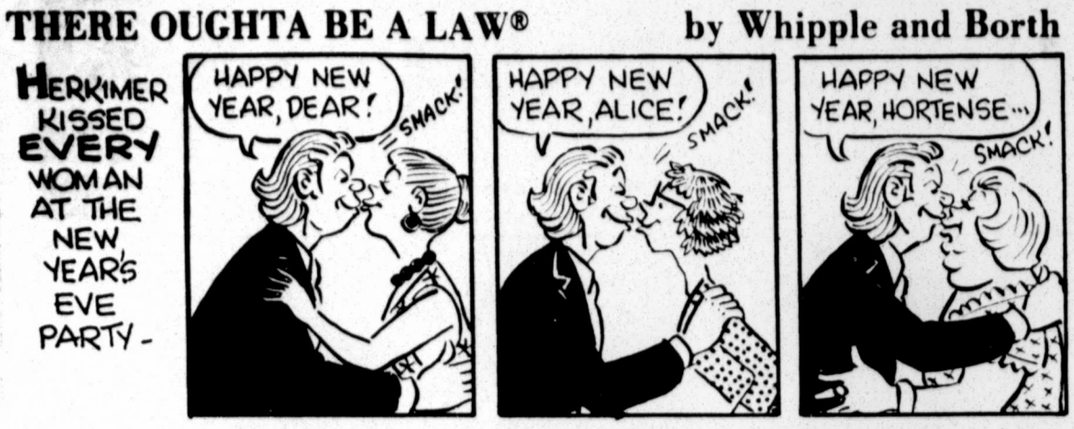

The last time she saw her son, on Aug. 6, Ida Petrovna said she sat about 4 feet from him, behind a thick glass screen.

"He is not allowed to give us details about life in the prison, but I know he shares a cell with one other person — Viktoras Piatkus (a Lithuanian dissident)," she said.

"I also know that the cell contains only two cots and two small wooden tables and is not big enough to walk around properly in. There is only one window and that is high up in the wall, near the ceiling, small and barred."

Hitchcock Knighted

LONDON (AP) — In England, he's now Sir Alfred. But to fans across the world, he's still the peerless master of the macabre.

HITCHCOCK

Alfred Hitchcock, the portly 80-year-old movie producer and director, became a Knight Commander, Order of the British Empire, with today's publishing of Queen Elizabeth's New Year's Honors List.

The son of an east London fruit-and-vegetable grocer who moved to Hollywood in 1940, Hitchcock has made 54 films and a television series that opened with a caricature of his profile, marked by his pouting lower lip.

In March, Hitchcock received the American Film Institute's Life Achievement Award, the supreme Hollywood accolade.

"If he had stayed at home in England, by now he would have been Sir Alfred at least," said veteran actor John Houseman as stars gathered to honor Hitchcock with the award. "Here in Hollywood, he is merely King Alfred."

Oscar Favorites

NEW YORK (AP) — Meryl Streep and Dustin Hoffman appear to be odds-on favorites to win Academy Awards for their performances in "Kramer vs. Kramer," says Newsweek magazine in calling Miss Streep the first American actress since Jane Fonda to rival the power of such male stars as Hoffman and Al Pacino.

HOFFMAN

MISS STREEP

But in a five-page profile of the blond actress in its Jan. 7 issue, the magazine says the first choice for the role of Joanna Kramer in the film about a custody dispute was Kate Jackson, formerly of ABC's "Charlie's Angels."

Miss Streep was then not a major star, with "The Seduction of Joe Tynan," for which she won wide acclaim, still unreleased. But the producers who interviewed her for a minor role quickly tapped her for the lead.

"I loved acting with her," Hoffman told Newsweek. "It's like playing with Billie Jean King. She keeps trying to hit the perfect ball."

Crab Racing Draws Crowds

Lighter Side Of Today's News

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — Jim Morgan, a self-described "master promoter of off-beat activities," has got crowds flocking downtown to enjoy crab racing.

"Just any excuse to get together and have a really good time," said the 38-year-old entrepreneur of the more than 100 boisterous crab racers who pack into a local restaurant each Sunday night to cheer on their entries.

The track is plywood, Morgan said, and contestants must pay $1.50 to join the National Crab Racing Association and another $1.50 to pick and name their own racing crab.

Morgan, who dresses in a tuxedo and red ruffled shirt for the occasion, introduces the contestants and calls the races.

Elimination heats start at 8 p.m. and the main event takes place when the field is reduced to five.

The race is slow, Morgan said, and many crabs never leave the starting gate. Some spin and some sleep. The slow-pokes are doused with a shot from a water pistol.

"We don't want to be accused of brutality to crabs," Morgan said.

Paul Hilliard, president of the board of education in nearby Franklin, and his wife, Pat, have been avid "crabbers" since racing began 10 weeks ago.

"I think the biggest thing is people really enjoy picking their crab and naming it, but some just like to watch. I really look for this idea to grow ...," said Mrs. Hilliard.

Dog Learns Tricks For Rose Parade

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Right now it looks like a spider with an Afro haircut but if it works, some 125 million people worldwide will see a 40-foot orchid-covered dog in the New Year's Rose Parade stop, sit down, shake hands and then get up and take a bow.

Several days before the 91st annual Tournament of Roses Parade and veteran float builder Rick Chapman — greasy, weary and beer in hand — is sitting next to the last of the seven animated steel skeletons his Festival Artists Inc. created this year.

Just prior to the Jan. 1 parade, the vehicles will bloom with color and fragrance as legions of young volunteers attach freshly cut flowers to each finely crafted skeleton.

"Even if it's flawless now," he says, "there's no reason to believe it will be flawless after 70 kids have stomped all over it. Twigs and pins fall down into the hydraulic valves and when we form the convoys to haul the floats into position they get hit by cars and run into trees and so on."

Chapman, 37, is in the stretch drive of his 14th year as a float builder. The six floats finished earlier for the Bank of America, Arco, Sunkist Growers, Lawry's Foods and other corporate clients are awaiting the hordes of teen-agers who will add about two tons of glue and flowers to each. But Chapman still has the Baskin-Robbins dog to worry about.

"He'll sit down, shake hands and then stand up, at which point the audience will applaud," he says. "Then he'll take a bow. That's the trick — he does something that's unexpected. It's a crude version of a magician who's always doing something that you don't expect."

Fifty-nine floats will vie for television attention in this year's parade and although the commentators may be gushing over how many flowers are used, Chapman's eyes will be on the movements.

"To us, the joy is not the covering, it's the animation," he said in an interview. "You have to think it through as people will see it, and of course, once they see something once, they expect it to do it again and again perfectly."

Beneath the floral coverings, beauty queens and other props on the floats are the hydraulic devices and electric motors which Festival Artists creates to provide the unique movements for each of its animated entries.

"We're in the business of faking it, so if we can't buy it we make it," he says. "I've learned a lot of mechanical engineering over the years but we have a structural engineer on the staff."

Chapman, a Pasadena native who began working around the Rose Parade in 1955, now employs 10 people full-time and hires hundreds of teen-agers each year as flower pasters.

"It's a year-around business," says Chapman, who finished the final week on crutches after a leg injury. "Designing for the Rose Parade begins in March and construction starts around August. Our people get really strung out about now. By December 15th, if you're awake, you're here."

NY Students Score Low On Reading Abilities

NEW YORK (UPI) — A city Board of Education report showed that almost 60 percent of New York's public school students read below grade level in 1979, up from 57 percent last year.

The report, released Sunday, said that 40.3 percent of students who took a standardized reading test in 1979 read at or above grade level. The 1978 level for a comparable test was 43 percent.

The 1979 scores were based on an examination — the California Achievement Test — administered in June to 475,522 students in elementary, junior high and intermediate schools throughout the city.

Of the 59.7 percent who are reading below grade level, 20.3 percent read up to one year below level; 19.3 percent read from one to two years below level, and 15.1 percent read two or more years below grade level.

Five percent of the pupils are classified as non-English-speaking and are assumed to be reading below grade level.

A total of 507,860 students took a slightly different form of the CAT in March 1978, when the 43 percent level was reached. The CAT was given in June after the board found erratic scores in another standardized test, the Metropolitan Achievement Test, which was given in March 1979.

The CAT reading level percentages did not include Community School District 3 on the Upper West Side of Manhattan. The district refused to take that test because officials there said that taking one standardized test, the March MAT, was enough.

The emergency conditions under which the June CAT exam was given and its lateness in the school year may have contributed to the decline, a statement released with the board report said.

An interim report to Schools Chancellor Frank Macchiarta, eased with the reading scores, found that the MAT test was inaccurate.

The report said the exam, developed by Psychological Corp., used faulty testing techniques in measuring differences between pupils at different grade levels.

The board has said it will not pay the company an estimated $500,000 for developing the test.

Schools To Prohibit Sale Of 'Junk Food'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Pupils will get a short reprieve on the ban of "junk food" that was to have stopped the before-noon sale in schools of sodas, chewing gum, frozen ice desserts and some but not all candy bars by January 1.

Even so, children might as well make New Year's resolutions to stop buying junk foods until after lunch, because Agriculture Department officials said they expect the new rule to go into effect in less than a month.

"We're not going to make the Jan. 1 date," said Jodie Levin-Epstein, an assistant to Assistant Agriculture Secretary Carol Tucker Foreman.

She said some school systems already are restricting sale of such foods to children even before a final federal mandate is issued.

"It's clear that the message is out," she said.

The Agriculture Department's goal is to forbid sale of junk foods until after the last lunch period in 98 percent of the schools that participate in the federally subsidized school lunch and breakfast programs.

Mrs. Freman has said she hopes schools and vendors will offer fruits, vegetables, fruit juices and nuts at snack counters and in vending machines.

In April 1978, she first proposed to restrict sales of all candy, soda water, frozen desserts and chewing gum. A 1977 law gave the Agriculture Department authority to regulate foods that compete with the school lunch and breakfast programs.

The initial proposal was delayed twice and then withdrawn because it was not based on an across-the-board scientific standard. A second proposal last July was based on a single nutritional standard.

It would permit sale at any time of foods that provide at least 5 percent of recommended daily allowance of one of the eight basic nutrients: protein, vitamin A, ascorbic acid, niacin, ribloflavin, thiamine, calcium and iron.

The effect of that proposed standard was to restrict sale of sodas, chewing gum, frozen ice desserts and only some candies.

Candy bars with nuts, ice cream sandwiches and snacks with raisins could be sold in schools all day. But if the standard were tighter, it would exclude many fruits that provide important fiber.

Court To Debate Right To Refuse Risky Tasks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court is slated to hear arguments next week in what could be a landmark labor case deciding whether workers have the right to refuse to do work they think threatens their lives.

The case involving two workers who balked at an assignment to walk out onto a huge safety net at a Whirlpool small appliance plant in Marion, Ohio, has been five years in the making.

The high court is scheduled to hear oral arguments Jan. 9, after it returns from a month-long holiday recess.

Twelve days after a co-worker plunged to his death in 1974, Virgil Deemer and Thomas Cornwell refused to step onto the 13-acre net strung from the plant's ceiling — even though it was part of their job.

The maintenance workers said the net was unsafe and claimed the right to refuse to work under conditions that might cost them their lives.

"I just didn't want to walk on it because a guy had gotten killed," said Deemer.

At the time of the fatal June 28, 1974, accident the net — strung under 13 miles of overhead conveyor belt — was being strengthened.

The net was strung 20 feet above ground to catch materials falling from the conveyor. Maintenance workers were required to clear the net periodically.

"I realize it was a task we performed nightly, but once you feel the shock (of the accident) you think, 'it could have been me instead of him'," said Cornwell, 31, now a maintenance mechanic at the Marion plant.

Deemer, 34, a father of four who now works at the plant as an assembler, said Whirlpool is "safer than most places in town."

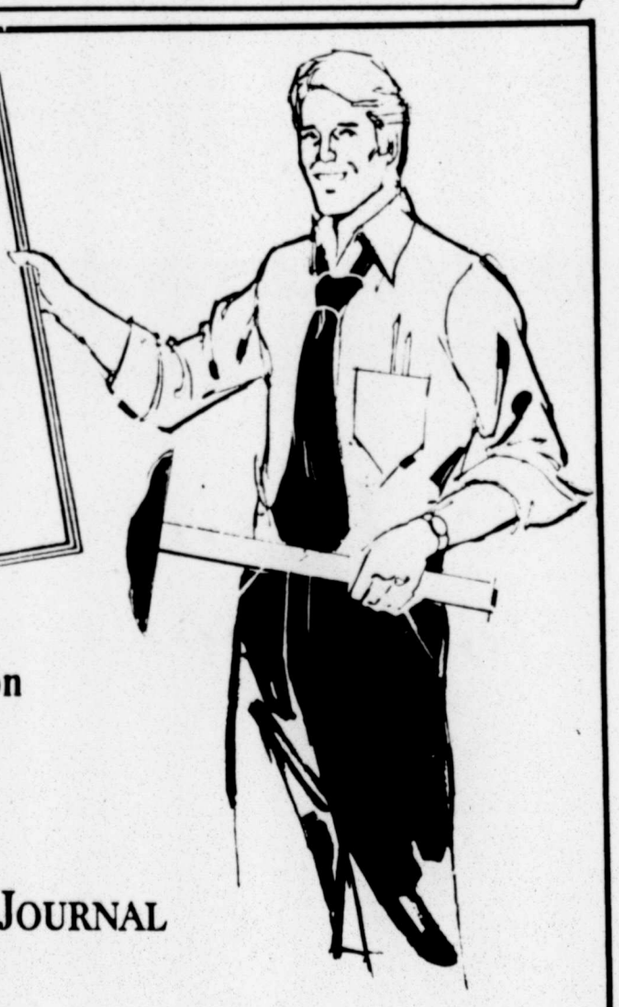

"But the fact remains the guard screen was unsafe," he said. "Something should have been done about it, and nothing was until a man was killed."

The company docked Deemer and Cornwell six hours pay and gave them written reprimands for refusing to do their jobs.

The Labor Department filed suit against Whirlpool in federal court, charging the disciplinary action amounted to unlawful retaliation against workers for asserting their rights.

The department said regulations issued under the Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970 gives a worker the right to refuse a job when he reasonably believes it would expose him to a "real danger of death or serious injury."

The South Plains Association of Governments was brought into existence more than a decade ago to combat the dilemma of having too many governmental chiefs and too little cooperation among the Indians.

DEBBIE STALTER

But throughout the 1970s, the local panel — designed as a clearinghouse and coordinator for government projects — has found itself fighting against federal and state bureaucracy for its rights of existence, a problem compounded by the SPAG member governments' incessant habits of withdrawing from and rejoining the organization.

In taking a look back to the time when the council of governments was new to the business of handling regional affairs, the conclusion might be made that SPAG hasn't gone too far down the road to independence in the past 10 years.

In fact, just this year the association once more buckled under to federal government requirements in hopes that its efforts would bring economic redevelopment funds to the Lubbock area.

In the past decade, the main factor behind the feud between SPAG and higher federal entities has been the panel's efforts to secure Economic Development Administration job funding for this area.

To do so, the SPAG board of directors had to be expanded to include minority representation to satisfy federal requirements.

And although this addition may have opened up a new direction as far as who is selected to serve on the board, to some the action meant that SPAG was once again bowing down to federal government demands.

In fact, this move left such a bad taste in the mouths of Lubbock County commissioners that they voted themselves out of the council of governments in September.

The change also was not accepted favorably by the City of Lubbock, which joined the county in protesting the plan.

The protesters were hard pressed at that time to explain to their minority constituents and others that they were not against minorities serving on the board, but rather that they opposed the idea of anyone other than elected officials serving on the board.

Although the city's reaction to the board expansion vote was not as drastic as the county's, its outlook on the issue was just as dim.

The SPAG group has always been less than enthusiastic about having to revise its board of elected officials because the federal government said it had to do so.

In October 1973, the board first voted against expanding its membership to receive EDA job funds — a move which may have cost the local panel thousands of dollars in economic redevelopment money.

But some board members later felt they might not have gotten funding even had they voted for minority representation. Board members discovered three years later when they added minorities to their membership that the federal government wouldn't accept the way in which the minority members were selected.

And although 1979 brought yet another attempt to please higher government officials on the minority issue, the association of governments still hasn't been assured it will receive the economic development funding.

The Public Works and Economic Development Act, which since 1965 has funded redevelopment projects across the nation, expired this year, leaving Congress to toy with the idea of whether to continue the act's projects. And in the meantime, the 15-county SPAG area is left to wait for a decision.

The fireworks resulting from the push for federal funding certainly wasn't the only instance of SPAG trying to buck the federal or state government's wishes — nor was it the only time a SPAG membership government pulled out of the organization.

Hale County decided it no longer wanted to be a part of the association in 1971 after discussion arose about dues charged by the council of governments.

Although Hale County commissioners never officially withdrew, they strongly opposed the SPAG decision to charge both counties and cities lying in those counties membership dues and questioned whether belonging to SPAG warranted paying a double fee.

Hockley County did withdraw about that time because of the same issue, saying SPAG was initiating a double dues assessment by charging both cities and counties to belong.

Controversy later arose about whether SPAG should provide its services to governmental units which were no longer SPAG members. In 1971, when the problem first came up, six SPAG area counties and five cities were not paying dues, although some were taking advantage of SPAG-sponsored programs.

The board finally enforced the resolution not to provide services to non-member governments in 1975.

Among those services was the Law Enforcement Academy, which provides basic police training required by state law for beginning officers.

Whether SPAG should charge non-member governments for this service and for the SPAG process of reviewing member governments' applications for federal funding was being considered during the mid-1970s and is still being tossed about during board meetings at the end of this decade.

Just what non-member governments' reaction will be to SPAG's decision on the charges remains to be seen.

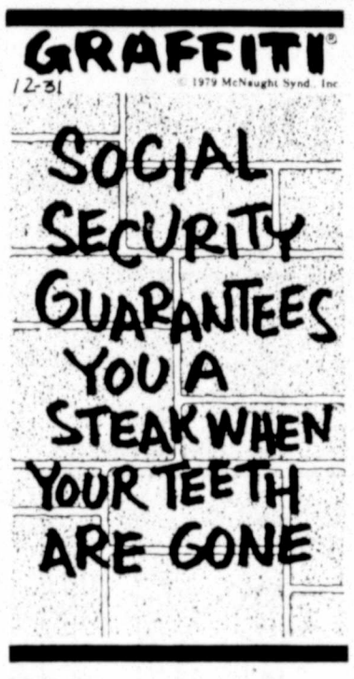

And to what extent the federal and state governments will impose their authority on the local panel in future may be a dark spot in SPAG's crystal ball.

For example, in August 1971, the council of governments was told by the Texas Criminal Justice Council that in order for it to receive state crime prevention monies, it would have to budget by line item all money SPAG planned to use to match funds with the state.

These budgeted items, SPAG was told, would have to be given priority ranking, meaning that projects at the bottom of the list might not be funded should state grants run short.

The state also mandated that local matching funds would have to be in cash, although in the past much of the local money was of the "in-kind" variety — such as provision of space and facilities.

This instance and others leave the council's board members with their groundwork and battle plans laid out for them. At stake is their right to individual existence as a local governing group and their ability to weather the effects of bending to whatever higher mandates they must accept.

Crime Line Clears Many Cases In 1979

As 1979 comes to a close, Crime Line has been in operation for only nine months and closes out the year as an unqualified success and 1980 should produce even more successes.

More than 100 felony crimes have been cleared in the first nine months of operation, ranging from capital murder to burglary. And almost a quarter of a million dollars in stolen property has been recovered.

As Lubbock continues to grow, crime will continue to increase. Crime Line will assume an even more important role in fighting crime and removing criminals from our city streets.

Donations continue to come in and anyone wishing to make a tax-free donation to Crime Line may mail it to Crime Line, P.O. Box 2000, Lubbock, Texas.

A $1,000 reward is being offered this week by Crime Line for information concerning the murder of a Mexican national working in Lubbock.

About 11:49 p.m. Christmas Eve, police responded to a call about a man being down at the Che Che Club located at 1819 E. Broadway. Upon arrival, officers found a Mexican male, later identified as Ramiro Viller Vargas, lying on his back between two cars near the northwest corner of the club.

Reports indicate Vargas had been shot in front of the right ear and Justice of the Peace Charles Smith ruled the death a homicide at the scene.

Police said Vargas had told a woman companion that he was going to check on his car in the club's parking lot about 11 p.m. The woman told police when Vargas failed to return, she became worried and left the club about 30 minutes later to check on him.

Reports indicate the woman found Vargas' body, went back inside the club to get two friends, returned to the parking lot to check Vargas' vital signs and then called police.

Crime Line is offering a $300 reward for the burglary of more than $1,400 worth of property from an East Lubbock residence.

Police were called to 2202 E. 47th St. about 4:15 p.m. Wednesday in reference to a burglary.

Upon arrival, officers could find no signs of forced entry, but the victim thought the burglars might have entered the house through the front door. Reports indicate investigating officers examined the door's lock and it appeared weak.

Items taken in the burglary included a woodgrain AM/FM digital clock radio, a color television set, a microwave oven and six guns.

A $300 reward is being offered by Crime Line for information about a Christmas Day burglary.

Police received a burglary call to 5321 47th St. about 8:50 p.m. Tuesday.

The victim reportedly told officers more than $2,100 worth of property had been stolen from his residence and had gained entry to the house by prying open the rear garage door and kicking open the door leading from the garage into the kitchen.

James is described as having brown hair and brown eyes and weighing about 150 pounds.

Roy Lee Hollowman, 35, is wanted on a felony theft warrant and Crime Line is offering $300 for information about this man.

Hollowman is described as a black male with black hair and brown eyes. He is 5 feet 11 inches tall and weighs 215 pounds.

Crime Line is offering a $300 reward for information concerning a 30-year-old black female wanted on a felony warrant for aggravated robbery.

Police are searching for Diane Cook Collins, who is described as having black hair and brown eyes. Reports indicate she is 5 feet 5 inches tall and weighs 160 pounds. The female fugitive also has an operation scar on her stomach.

Garner Quits Show Because Of Health

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Actor James Garner is quitting the popular "Rockford Files" television series because he is suffering from a variety of ailments, including arthritis, an ulcer and sinusitis.

A spokesman for the 51-year-old actor said Garner has been ordered by his physician to rest from four to eight weeks.

The last "Rockford" episode will be aired Jan. 10 on NBC. The show will be replaced by "Skag," a story about a steelworker, starring Karl Malden.

Klansmen Plan Demonstration After Funeral Service Denied

DALLAS (AP) — A granddaughter of longtime Ku Klux Klan spokeswoman Addie Barlow Frazier said today Klansmen would picket again outside a Dallas funeral home which refused to allow a KKK funeral for her. She said the time of the next demonstration had not been decided.

Mrs. Frazier, 72, who helped organize a Klan rally in downtown Dallas on Nov. 3, died Saturday night in a Dallas hospital, where she was admitted Dec. 7 with viral pneumonia.

Beverly Pittman, who lives in the north Dallas suburb of Carrollton, said her grandmother bought a pre-need burial policy in January 1976 with Laurel Land, a Dallas funeral home and cemetery, through monthly payments that totaled $685.51.

"They flatly refused to give her a Klan ceremony, because of the robes. They wanted no robed Klansmen there. They said they wanted no trouble," said Mrs. Pittman, who said there were "four or five" KKK members picketing the funeral home Sunday and said others would return today.

"We're working off a little anger and frustration," said Dan Smith of Dallas, one of four robed klansmen demonstrating at the funeral home Sunday.

"To deny somebody their last rites is pretty low down," he said.

"They allow robes at funerals of Shriners, beanies at Jewish funerals, and if it's a military funeral, they allow uniforms, but they flatly refused to give her a Klan ceremony because of the robes. They wanted no robed Klansmen there. They said they wanted no trouble," Mrs. Pittman said.

Panhandle Sheriff Shot In Fight With Prisoner

PANHANDLE (AP) — The sheriff of this rural Panhandle community was in serious condition at an Amarillo hospital today after his gun discharged during a scuffle with a prisoner, authorities said.

A spokesman at Amarillo's Northwest Texas Hospital said Carson County Sheriff Connie Reed, 59, was in serious condition after undergoing surgery for a perforated intestine Sunday.

The prisoner was being escorted from his cell to a telephone at Carson County Jail when he grabbed Reed's .357-magnum pistol, officers said.

The prisoner was treated for facial lacerations and taken to Potter County Jail in Amarillo. Officers said he was to be taken today to Panhandle — 28 miles east of Amarillo.

Carson County Attorney Gene Bryan said Reed, Chief Deputy Clint Dodd and jailer Buck Fields were escorting the prisoner to a phone about 11:15 a.m.

"The man pushed the jailer forward and made a break for the door. The sheriff and chief deputy wrestled the prisoner to the floor and somehow the prisoner got hold of the gun and shot the sheriff," Bryan said.

The prisoner was arrested Saturday on a charge he refused to pay for gasoline at a service station in McLean, about 30 miles east of Panhandle.

Winds Disperse Poisonous Gas

BRISCOE (AP) — Strong north winds dispersed poisonous fumes from a blown-out natural gas well, letting nearby residents return home and allowing the well's owners to start repairing it, officials said late Friday.

Work crews from a well servicing company in Pampa and Trigg Drilling Co. of Oklahoma City, the owner, spent most of the day testing hydrogen sulfide gas coming from the well, which is north of this tiny Panhandle community.

"We will continue to work on it and our plans are to repair the surface equipment," said Trigg production superintendent Bill Griffin, who added current efforts are not designed to cap the well.

Griffin said drilling reached a depth of 17,000 feet Thursday night when the well hit a high-pressure pocket of gas which exceeded its capacity, causing the blowout.

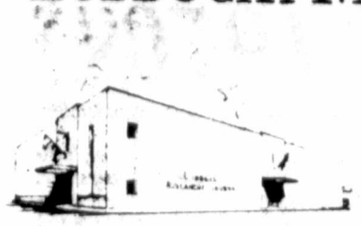

At least 95 families from Hemphill and Wheeler counties were evacuated because of the fumes, but most of them had returned home by Friday night.

Eve Of New Decade, Too

IN A FEW hours, the final hours of 1979, indeed The Seventies, will fade into history.

And with this widely noted event will come into being not only a New Year, but a New Decade.

For most, the Year 1980 at this point will be viewed on a broad scale, of nations and peoples, of vast economic problems and political confrontations. But, that is not how the New Year will be viewed in the months ahead.

FOR MOST persons, 1980 will be seen as a year as what does it mean to me and mine?

This is not selfish thought, but rather one of honest appraisal of life itself in the context of the broader scene just mentioned.

While governments may fall, the dollar rise on world markets, gold soar to undreamed-of levels, earthquakes, storms and disaster may strike—the bottom line in all of those things is "what does it mean to me and mine?"

ACTUALLY, WE can bring that equation down closer home. What will the 1980s mean for Lubbock, the South Plains and those who call this area home?

No longer are we an isolated area, relatively untouched by many of the big events of the national and world scene.

Today, the price of cotton as well as prunes may well be determined by some bureaucrat in Washington as much as the old law of supply and demand.

And what it costs to produce that staple product, as well as what we pay for food and clothing, produced here or elsewhere, may be decided in part by a group of men with strange names and sometimes strange dress meeting thousands of miles away. Oil is the lubricant of progress and problems.

SO WHAT does the New Year mean to each of us?

It should mean an opportunity to renew our faith in ourselves as individuals, as parents or children, as members of a community, a church, a city and area.

It should mean the opening of new doors of interest and learning, of broadening one's horizons, of caring for others, of doing one's small part to choose wise leaders and being just as quick to constructively do something about those who aren't.

And for those who may lead, it will be a time of opportunity to serve. In brief, 1980 and the Decade ahead can mean, to a great degree, what we want it to mean.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Last 10s Bottom 10

HAPPY NEW YEAR! May the 1980s be so good to you that everyone will think you were born with a silver spoon in your mouth and it turned to gold.

Gov. Bill Clements has set up a committee to study the challenges Texas is likely to face in the 21st Century.

That could mean either one of two things: He's given up on the 1980s or he plans to be around for a long, long time.

We've seen the Roaring '20s, the Terrible '30s, the Frightening '40s, the Fabulous '50s, the Sizzling '60s and the Sedentary '70s. Now, says My Neighbor Twice Removed, come the Expletive '80s!

You're on the Downhill Side of middle age if you remember when the 20th Century had more to do with tomorrows than with yesterdays.

BOTTOM NEWS stories are the ones universally overlooked when editors and others sit down to rank the Top News Stories of the year or of the decade.

This is, of course, rank discrimination.

As a champion of the underdog, I consider it my duty to correct this injustice in some small way.

I must admit that personal opinion holds sway when one tries to recall, without aid of notes, events of a whole year—let alone a decade—that were of such underwhelming unimportance as to be universally overlooked.

As you can imagine, there are no handy reference books for Most Unimportant—or, if you prefer, Least Important—news events.

Being forgotten is the ultimate test of a Bottom 10 News Story, which is by way of admitting that my list is inaccurate simply because I remember that they happened.

Being remembered when it should best be forgotten does not perforce disqualify a story from the Bottom 10.

It serves, rather, as a welcome reminder that even a failure can achieve a degree of recognition so long as man's imperfect memory persists in playing tricks on him.

But enough of this planting of the seeds of a lack of confidence in the very listing I am about to present. If you can do better, make up your own list and then forget it.

MY CANDIDATES for the Bottom 10 News Stories of the 1970s are:

1. George McGovern runs for President. He carried Massachusetts and the District of Columbia, but no part of the United States.
2. President Carter declares the moral equivalent of war on energy. Then he went AWOL, as Sen. Ted Kennedy reminds us in one of his frequent commentaries on moral equivalencies.

(Purists will say my two Least Important selections are well remembered. To them I say the results speak for themselves and the results were abysmally negative.)

3. Texas Tech selects new president.
4. Texas Tech searches for another new president.
5. Texas Tech hires a new football coach.
6. Texas Tech hires another new football coach.
7. Texas Tech hires yet another new football coach.

(Remember, it's results—as in Cotton Bowl Trip—that count.)

8. Officials look for a bear east of Lubbock. Ramsay Clark goes to Tehran to secure release of hostages (tie).
9. Texas goes to zero-based budgeting. (It turned out to mean that the Legislature added some more zeroes to the righthand side of the budget's base line.)
10. Harold Stassen runs for President again, again and again. (He barely nosed out California Gov. Jerry Brown's candidacy for the Bottom 10 list, by virtue of having run three times to Brown's two.)

YOU WILL NOTICE that national politics dominates this list. That's because politicians are unparalleled in their saying and doing what's unimportant.

Higher education presidents and football coaches run a close second in the rankings. That's because they receive more attention and get more blame than anybody else but actually have very little authority to make Important Decisions.

Those are made by faculty members, janitors and the ALCU with the support of HEW and Justice Department lawyers.

You will notice that no Act of Congress made my list of Bottom News Stories of the 1970s. That's because, over the decade, from the budget to the bottle, Congressmen seemed to be dedicated to the proposition of Bottom's Up.

Turning Other Cheek Won't Do

WASHINGTON—As a practicing Christian and an American-right-or-wronger, I express hope and belief that the country is fed up with President Carter's policy of the Other Cheek.

Carter enunciated this policy in two December press conferences where he told us that his projected second term would be the mixture as before—that is, inaction in response of action, paper punishment for painful imprisonment of the American hostages.

It is nothing but paper when a document closes Iranian bank accounts, when Iranian visas are scrutinized, when Donald McHenry reads a penitent confession of American faults at the Security Council, when telexes go out to close a half-dozen U.S. embassies, when sharp notes fly forth to protest arson of our overseas property and murder of our servicemen.

THIS IS OTHER Cheek diplomacy and if there are Americans who admire it in a Commander-in-Chief, so much the worse for them.

If the polls show Carter is acquiring popular support by being patient with a kidnapper of his countrymen, it does not justify him, any more than (I'm quoting H. L. Mencken) it would exonerate him for fattening missionaries on the south lawn and serving them up to placate some cannibals who had come to dislike us.

It may be that the modest percentage of citizens who despise Carter for his born-again pacifism will have to form a nucleus of fighters which in every defeated country is called the Resistance.

But first, I would hope, that Carter gets off that Other Cheek kick. Our Constitution separates church and state by prohibiting any established religion.

IF THE PRESIDENT thinks his foreign policy is Christian, he certainly has not read the classic biography of Jesus by Ernest Renan.

Jesus separated church and state by repeatedly showing that he was no patriot of Judea. His loyalty was to mankind, and Jesus' kingdom was the kingdom of Heaven.

As for the Christian doctrine of turning the Other Cheek to an assailant, it was a policy of churchly behavior and never intended as advice to the legions of Caesar.

I am almost at the point of believing Jimmy Carter and the Ayatollah both cling to a creed which suits the political purpose.

If the American people polled an overwhelming majority for action, if the Iranian mobs chanted for springing the hostages, I think present policies in Washington and Tehran would be reversed in a wink.

It simply cannot be that the best of the lot believes in Other Cheek diplomacy. Does John Connally who was Secretary of Navy and stopped an Oswald bullet in Dallas?

Does Kennedy who had two brothers who fought for their country? Does Dole, who wears an empty sleeve and a Purple Heart? Why is Gen. Al Haig silent at the hour of flim-flam?

I would hope that Reagan has learned the rough side of international politics from the recent behavior in Puerto Rico and Mexico. Bush could not have spent even his brief service as head of CIA without learning how many mad dictators are tamed by tenderness.

The candidates, and at least half the American people are wrong, if they allow Jimmy Carter to ride the sorry nag that got Wilson and Franklin Roosevelt their re-elections: "He kept us out of war." Oh, America, not again!

Do You Spend As Much Or More Than Others?

WASHINGTON—An "average" family living on an "average" budget does not exist. Even if you and your neighbor lead very similar lives on very similar incomes, your budgets may be radically different.

Your own ages, your children's ages—not to mention your hobbies or jobs or dozens of other aspects—would make this so.

But, if you're merely normal, you're still curious about the spending patterns of others.

So to start with, here's what average Americans were spending in the early '70s of each pretax dollar in each major category (before the wild inflation that hit our country starting in the mid-1970s):

FROM EACH DOLLAR we were spending 20.1 cents for food; 31.4 cents for housing (excluding mortgage principal payments); 21.4 cents for transportation; 7.8 cents for clothing and upkeep;

6.4 cents for medical care; 11.4 cents for recreation, personal care and education, and 1.5 cents for miscellaneous items.

And how does your spending compare with others in your bracket?

In briefest summary, if you're an average family at the top of the income scale, the share of your before-tax income ($25,000 or more) going to food and shelter is much less than the proportion spent on these basic expenses of life by families in the lowest before-tax income brackets ($3,000 or less). That's logical.

IN DOLLAR TOTALS, of course, the higher-income family spends more (it has more dollars to spend).

Specifically, the share going for food if you're in the $25,000 or more bracket is roughly 19 percent as against 23 percent if you're in the below $3,000 income level.

(The gap yawns even wider when the focus is solely on spending for food at home: 9 percent by the higher family earners as against 20 percent by the lowest family earners.)

Housing reveals a similar pattern, with proportions for shelter (including utilities, furnishings and maintenance) tapering down from 38 percent if you're at the bottom of the income ladder to 28 percent at the upper end.

THE DOLLAR TOTALS are diametrically opposed: climbing from the bottom of the income ladder to the top.

The more money you have, though, the more you tend to spend in percentages as well as dollar totals on such discretionary items as clothing and recreation. Again, it's no more than logical.

If you're in the $25,000-and-over class, 9.4 percent of your before-tax earnings goes for clothing, 10.9 percent for recreation.

Also provocative: Medical expenses account for an above-average share of the living expenses of families in each income class below $10,000—primarily because in these families there often is a heavier concentration of elderly and illness-prone members.

What about the size of your family?

How does the size of your family compare?

ON AVERAGE, AT the top of the income scale, average families are larger (3.8 members), a statistical absurdity but nevertheless revealing.

At the bottom, the average is three members, and the average rises as the income level rises. The biggest proportion of homeowners is in the highest income brackets too.

Do not permit the figures to mislead you by forgetting that spending is deeply influenced by where you live and that these are only averages.

Your spending will vary according to the region in which you live, whether yours is a rural family, a suburban unit or resident of an inner city. It will be vitally affected by whether you rent or whether you are a homeowner.

James J. Kilpatrick:

Pity On Kids Costs Too Much

WASHINGTON—Every January when the federal budget goes to the Congress, the White House includes an inconspicuous little table of those programs that are "relatively uncontrollable under present law."

The list of uncontrollables runs on and on, to an estimated $404 billion in the current fiscal year.

A year hence, when the table for 1981 is prepared, we will have one more uncontrollable. It will be known as CHAP—the Child Health Assurance Program—and it will cost a bundle.

Remarkably little has been written about this newest "entitlement" under federal outlays for health and welfare.

UNDER THE BILL approved by the House earlier this month, an estimated five million additional children and 220,000 pregnant women would be added to the millions of poor persons now covered under what is known as EPSDT—the Early Periodic Screening, Diagnosis and Treatment program.

The Senate has yet to act upon its somewhat narrower and less costly version of the bill, but most observers expect agreement between the two houses by early spring.

The principal arguments made in the House in support of the greatly expanded program were to this effect—that EPSDT has failed to meet the medical needs of millions of needy children who are eligible but yet untreated, that fresh incentives are required to gain more vigorous efforts from the states, and that the money spent today on preventive services for these children will be recouped many times over in dollars that will be saved tomorrow.

The last argument proved to be the most persuasive. Congressman Tim Lee Carter of Kentucky, himself a physician, cited pathetic cases in his own practice of children from poor families whose lives could have been made happier and more productive (and less expensive to the taxpayers) if early medical attention had corrected deformities, or immunized against such diseases as polio, or treated other congenital conditions.

SEVERAL SPEAKERS CITED a study in North Dakota indicating substantial long-run savings as a consequence of screening in infancy and early childhood.

My thought is not to debate the merits of CHAP. The program is restricted to children of our poorest families. It may indeed save money over the long haul, though these repeatedly promised savings sound awfully conjectural to me.

My guess is that CHAP soon will be riddled by the kind of massive fraud, waste and chicanery that have made Medicaid a colossal public rip-off.

But it would take a heart of stone to oppose a program that might correct the cleft palate, or repair the displaced hip, of a poor child who might otherwise be condemned to suffer his handicap for the rest of his life.

The merits to one side, a vast deal can be said in support of the argument unsuccessfully advanced by Dave Stockman, a young Republican from St. Joseph, Mich., now serving his second term.

STOCKMAN PLEADED UNAVAILINGLY for an amendment that would finance the new child health program by annual appropriations rather than by open-ended "entitlements."

Out of a total budget of $531 billion, $404 billion—or 76 percent—now is regarded as "uncontrollable." Some of that sobering sum is for interest on the debt, some for incomplete defense contracts, some for farm price supports and the like.

But the great bulk of it is for "entitlements" that are blank checks upon the Treasury.

"Over the last decade or so," said Stockman, "we have created a perpetual motion machine. We have created a self-propelled, half-trillion dollar spending machine that is simply out of control.

"And that has reduced fiscal policy to an annual exercise in futility and impotence, and reduced the role of Congress to that of a green eye-shaded disbursement officer who totes up the bill, writes the check and then trundles off to the chapel to mourn after the process is over.

"IF WE ARE to get some kind of discipline and some kind of control on the budget process and fiscal policy of this country, then the place to start has to be this entitlement system."

Stockman's effort lost by a lopsided margin of 226-152, but it was an effort worth making. The federal budget has indeed slipped out of effective control by the Congress.

Compassionate and humane it may be, but CHAP in this regard will only make bad matters worse.

Lightly Speaking

"Mr. President, how do you feel about the French?"

"Fine people!"

"And how about the Germans?"

"Fine people!"

"And how do you feel about the Japanese?"

"Fine people!"

"And the British?"

"Fine people!"

"Turning to another subject, in the most recent opinion surveys, there seems to be a feeling that you still don't understand the issues. How do you feel about the Polls?"

"Fine people!"

Doctors Trained For Rural Areas

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) — George Stolzfuss knew by the time he hit high school that he wanted to be a country doctor.

So he picked a medical school where he could sample the life, a school set amid green fields instead of city streets, a school whose curriculum was oriented towards farm communities and small towns.

Stolzfuss, 34, is now the only doctor in Friendsville, Md., a town of 650. He lives on a farm.

The Hershey Medical Center, taking a cue from its pastoral surroundings, is sending students to the country and hoping they'll like it enough to return as full-fledged physicians.

The 7-year-old Hershey preceptorship program, affiliated with Pennsylvania State University, is among 94 apprenticeship programs at medical schools in 10 states, according to a 1978 study by the American Academy of Family Physicians.

But Hershey appears to be a leader. The school has recruited 288 doctors around the country to work with medical students. None of the doctors are paid for participating.

The school has sent more than 500 students out to live and work with family doctors in rural areas plagued by skimpy medical care.

The breadth of the program is tied to Hershey's rural setting.

"Penn State is more committed than other schoools," said Richard Hill, who until two months ago was chief of the Health, Education and Welfare Department's health manpower branch in Region III.

"They felt it was necessary in their location and they went after it. The medical school is in a much more rural setting than most."

Stolzfuss chose Hershey precisely because of its location. The nearest city is Harrisburg, population 63,000, about 10 miles away.

"There's no other school in the country as firmly oriented towards small towns as Hershey," Stolzfuss said. "Just about every other medical center is in the middle of a big city and tends to be oriented towards big city practices."

Stolzfuss chose Friendsville after a search committee contacted him. The old lumbering town had been without a doctor for 10 years.

"Everyone in the Friendsville area that I know is just tickled to death. It's one of the best things that ever happened," said Bruce Jenkins, a retired school superintendent.

"A lot of doctors ... just can't see coming into the sticks," Jenkins said. "Dr. Stoltzfuss didn't come in with that idea. He came in with the idea that this is the kind of community he knew and understood and would like to be a part of."

Dr. Eugene Engle, 28, said the Hershey program "cemented" his decision to go into family practice. He is practicing with a partner in Manheim, a town of about 5,400 near Lancaster.

"It was an underserved area when we came here six months ago," Engle said. "Three doctors died in the last four years. We picked up their practices."

Michael Mesoras, a fourth-year student at Hershey, plans to open a rural practice in western Pennsylvania, where he grew up. He is apprenticed to Dr. Jon Schiller of Windber, a Pennsylvania coal mining town of 5,000.

Windber has five doctors, but should have eight, Schiller said.

Schiller, who has helped train about 10 students from Hershey and the University of Pittsburgh over the last five years, said the program benefits all involved, not just the students.

"The patients are glad to see them," he said, "and it makes for a stimulating atmosphere. We learn, they learn, our practices are questioned and we have to keep up."

Dr. Fergus Pope, who serves the 500 people of Bakersville, N.C., said exposure to rural patients helps students adapt to the realities of country medicine.

"It doesn't really matter what their specialty is," said Pope. "Gradually, they suit their practice to fit into the lifestyle and economics of rural people and generally poorer people."

The Bakersville Community Clinic takes 10 medical students a year from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. State law requires medical students to spend a month at a small clinic.

Pope said three local doctors — including two of his partners at the clinic — are Californians who returned to the Carolina mountains after working at the clinic as students.

But Bakersville hasn't always been so lucky.

"We started originally with a nurse practitioner clinic. We didn't have any doctors," said James Henline, a funeral director who helped found the clinic.

"For our area we have plenty of doctors now. We're in really good shape. We have better medical care now than we've ever had."

Just how many medical students follow through and set up rural practices is not known. Officials have been unable to measure the impact of such programs as Hershey's and North Carolina's.

Dione Mahoney, an HEW health education specialist, said more doctors are going into primary care residencies — hospital training for the front-line, generalized care best suited to small towns and rural settings.

Tip Leads Police To Suspect

SNYDER (Special) — A tip from a local informant led Snyder police to a city residence where Lloyd Dale "Skipper" Ready — wanted on Lubbock County murder charges — was apprehended early today.

The 40-year-old Ready, who was charged Friday with murder in the 1976 death of Severo Garza Jr., was found "hiding in a bedroom" of a Snyder residence at 3:40 a.m. today, Snyder police officer Jerry Parker told The Avalanche-Journal.

Ready is in custody in Snyder, and will be moved to Lubbock later today.

Parker said the tip resulted from the 1 a.m. arrest of Ready's wife on Lubbock warrants for forgery and bond forfeiture, also in Snyder.

Ready, accused of killing Garza with a drug overdose, was believed to be in California. Parker said he had "no idea" how long the former Lubbock man had been in Snyder prior to his arrest.

Garza, 31, was found dead in the trunk of a car at a Slaton wrecking yard almost exactly three years ago. He was believed to have been dead about two weeks.

Garza was last seen in Lubbock on Dec. 1, 1976, and his body was discovered on Dec. 13 by a Lubbock police officer who was dusting Garza's 1976 Pontiac Grand Prix for fingerprints.

An autopsy was never performed on his body because of a dispute during that period between Lubbock County Commissioners and area pathologists over autopsy fees. The Garza family unsuccessfully brought suit against the county in federal district court because an autopsy was not done.

Criminal District Attorney John Montford did not reveal why Ready is charged with administering a fatal dose of drugs.

He said the Garza case was the fifth pre-1979 murder case to be cleared in Lubbock County this year and investigations continue in the nine still unsolved.

Ready once was wanted in the 1968 shooting death of a 23-year-old man who was killed outside an East 34th Street nightclub. Ready was the subject of a nine-hour police siege in an Orlando Avenue residence in January 1968.

He was subsequently found to be insane at the time of the shooting and at the time of his trial.

Famous Broadway Songwriter Richard Rodgers Dies At 77

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard Rodgers, the prolific composer whose unforgettable melodies for such Broadway hits as "Oklahoma!", "South Pacific" and "The King and I" helped define the musical as America's own art form, is dead at the age of 77.

The cause of death was not immediately known, said Alice Regensburg, Rodgers' long-time publicist. Rogers had been ill for some time, suffering a throat ailment that made it hard for him to speak, and only five weeks ago received a pacemaker to help his heart.

Over the last 60 years, many of Rodgers' 1,000-plus songs — most written in collaboration with lyricist Lorenz Hart and later Oscar Hammerstein II — have become classics, intrinsic parts of Americana.

"All I really want to do is to provide a hard-working man in the blouse business with a method of expressing himself," Rodgers once said. "If he likes a tune, he can whistle it, and it will make his life happier."

Sammy Cahn, president of the Song Writers Hall of Fame, remembered Rodgers as a "true professional" whose work could not be matched.

"With all the sophisticated methods we have of computerizing performances, I don't think there's any way you can measure the incredible contribution of Richard Rodgers," Cahn said in a telephone interview from California.

Broadway historians credit him with turning the musical theater into a tight package that fully integrated music and dramatic plot.

"Oklahoma!" — written in collaboration with Hammerstein and opened in 1943 — was regarded as the pinnacle. It was the perfect mix of song, dance and story and was followed two years later by "Carousel."

Rodgers wrote sweet, sophisticated, inspirational and catchy songs that endured. A sampler of titles proves it: "Some Enchanted Evening," "People Will Say We're in Love," "Climb Every Mountain," "If I Loved You" "Bewitched, Bothered and Bewildered," "Oh, What a Beautiful Morning," "My Funny Valentine," "There Is Nothing Like A Dame," and on and on.

He was born June 28, 1902, in Manhattan. His father, a well-to-do physician, and his mother exposed Rodgers to many musical scores and classical composers. He first played piano at age 4, could play by ear at 6, was writing by 9 and at age 15 published his first song, "Auto Show Girl."

His partnership with Lorenz Hart was born when Rodgers began studies at Columbia University. As the first Columbia freshman to compose the score for the annual Columbia Varsity show, he matched his music to the words of Hart, then a recent Columbia graduate.

"When I met him," Rodgers once said of Hart, "I acquired in one afternoon a career, a partner and a best friend."

Their first professional score, "Poor Little Ritz Girl," came out in 1920. However, not until they wrote "The Garrick Gaieties" in 1925 did they begin a successful career that included 28 stage musicals, a nightclub revue and eight film musicals and lasted until Hart's death in 1942.

Their hits included "Dearest Enemy," "On Your Toes," "Babes In Arms," "Pal Joey," and "The Boys From Syracuse."

But it was during his subsequent 18-year partnership with Hammerstein that Rodgers tasted his sweetest successes.

The two turned out such box office smashes as "Oklahoma!," "South Pacific," "The Sound of Music," and "The King and I," an unmatched set of hits that ran for more than 1,000 performances each.

After Hammerstein's death in 1960, Rodgers went it alone and in 1962 wrote "No Strings," the only show for which he wrote both music and lyrics.

Funeral arrangements were to be announced.

Burned Mexican Boy Flown To Galveston

GALVESTON (AP) — An Air Force plane flew a critically burned 2-year-old Mexican boy 800 miles from El Paso today for treatment that might keep him alive.

The boy suffered second-and third-degree burns over 65 percent of his body when he fell into a burning pit of garbage Saturday in Juarez, Mexico — across the Rio Grande from this border city.

Space was found late Sunday in the Shriners Burns Hospital in Galveston for Jose Luis Romero after officials at an El Paso hospital said their burns unit lacked the facilities to treat such a severe burn.

Shriners got him admitted into Sun Towers Hospital in El Paso, which has a burns unit, but officials said the boy's hopes for survival hinged on getting him to a hospital such as Galveston's with its larger facilities for burns treatment.

The boy lost his nose and ears because of the burns, and officials said he was in danger of losing his hands.

U.S. Air Force officials agreed to fly the child to a military installation near wherever treatment could be obtained, and a C-9 air evcuation plane designed to carry patients was dispatched late Sunday from Scott Air Force Base in Illinois.

The plane left El Paso International Airport with the boy about 12:30 a.m. today for Ellington Air Force Base in Houston, where a Coast Guard helicopter stood by to take the burns victim to Galveston.

A tracheotomy was performed on the boy earlier Sunday to assure an open air channel, since hospital officials feared swelling of facial burns might otherwise prove a problem.

Officials at the El Paso hospital worked frantically Sunday trying to find a hospital that would agree to treat the boy, whose parents have little income.

The Shriner hospital at Galveston said first that it had a waiting list of about a week, but hospital officials said that might be too late.

Another Shriners hospital in Boston said it had space, and while hospital officials and Shriners began trying to line up transportation, officials at the Galveston hospital said they had found space.

"The biggest problem right now is infection. If any kind of infection were to set in, we couldn't transfer him at all and he'd probably die right away," an official at the El Paso hospital said Sunday afternoon.

"Our problem is we don't have the capability to take care of this severe a case," said Susan Sandoval, an information official with the El Paso hospital.

She said the first 72 hours is the critical time for a burn patient.

Medicare Premiums Hike Planned For Next Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — The monthly premium that most Medicare beneficiaries pay will rise from $8.70 to $9.60 next July 1, the government announced today.

The 90-cent increase applies to the so-called Part B of Medicare, which covers doctors' bills and certain outpatient medical expenses. There is no premium for Part A, which covers hospital stays.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare said nearly 28 million persons will be enrolled in Part B of Medicare in the fiscal year starting Oct. 1, including 25.1 million persons 65 or older and 2.8 million disabled persons under 65.

Part B is optional, but most persons eligible for Medicare pay for it.

The premium increase is required by law and is pegged to increases in the cost of the program.

The premiums went up 50 cents last July.

The increase is limited to the same 9.9 percent boost that Social Security recipients received in their benefits last July. Without that lid, the premium would have been raised to $16.30 a month to cover costs, HEW said.

The deficit is made up from general revenues. The total cost of Part B of Medicare is expected to jump from $9.7 billion in fiscal 1980 to $11.4 billion in fiscal 1981, HEW said.

Program Encourages Innovation By Inventors

POTSDAM, N.Y. (AP) — A clock for the blind that "talks"; a coin-operated ski boot warmer; a portable collapsible windmill; sunglasses that can be adjusted to eliminate more glare.

All these inventions are being developed through Clarkson College's Entrepreneurship Program, now in its fourth year.

Though students get no academic credit for their efforts, they receive an initial funding of $100 for materials and research expenses. Those with marketable ideas and convincing 20-page reports can win a $1,000 scholarship and additional funding to carry their project up to the final marketing stages.

"We encourage innovation," said Edward McHugh, director of the program he and Clarkson College president Robert A. Plane helped create in 1976. "Students can present proposals concerning services, computer programming, manufacturable products — you name it and they can try it."

In the past three years, 26 projects involving 46 students have been chosen to compete for three scholarships awarded in each of those years. The projects have ranged from a working model hovercraft kit to a dog's water dish that refills itself. Winning projects have included concrete speaker enclosures and a solar-charged flashlight.

The speaker enclosures are in their second year of development en route to eventual marketing. The inventors are William Amidon, 20, a junior chemical engineering major from Trumbull, Conn., and Charles Mitchell, 20, a junior industrial distribution major from New Canaan, Conn.

Since concrete does not vibrate like wood does, they explain, sound is trapped in the concrete and the result is a superior sound.

Some students who do not win scholarships or additional funding go back to the proverbial drawing board and submit new projects the next year. Most of the participants are sophomores and juniors.

Douglas A. Dieruff, 20, from Rochester, N.Y., is one example of such persistence. A junior majoring in electrical and computer engineering, Dieruff is working on his third timepiece. His first was a Braille digital clock. Last year, he won a scholarship for an improved clock for the blind that emitted a series of beeps when touched, giving the correct time.

This year, Dieruff is back again with a third clock. Called "Talk Time," it will actually speak the correct time. Chip components will enable the device to operate using only 10 sounds, one for each number between zero and nine. At 10:52, for example, the clock would say, "one-zero-five-two."

Other projects under way this year include sunglasses whose degree of darkness can be adjusted by turning a knob, and a portable windmill for generating electricity on a sailboat or on a camping trip.

Carter, Democratic Candidates Lack Women As Close Advisers

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter was huddled with his inner circle of advisers when Rosalynn Carter made an observation, one that had troubled her before. The first lady quietly scribbled a note and passed it to her husband.

Mr. President, she said, look around. There are no women and no minorities in this room.

Until recently, at least, women held no prominent positions on the staff of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy; the top-ranking woman on his campaign staff has known the senator for only a month.

Carter and Kennedy have one thing in common when it comes to women's issues: neither counts a woman among his most trusted advisers.

The same is true of California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., whose top advisers on his campaign staff and in the state capital are men. He has, however, appointed a number of women to important jobs on his gubernatorial staff.

Carter relies heavily on his wife, of course, but women who hold high-level jobs in the White House chafe at the limited role they and other women play in high-level discussions.

The president meets each morning with a group of male advisers, some of whom are not even senior staff members. Anne Wexler and Sarah Weddington, the two women on Carter's senior staff, are excluded.

Joanne Howes, deputy campaign manager for Kennedy, says the senator also lacks women among his closest advisers.

"He's the first to admit that in the past his personal staff was very heavily male," said Miss Howes, 35, who earns $40,000 a year and has been working for the campaign a month.

"It's not an uncommon thing. I think people get into ruts."

However, White House press secretary Jody Powell takes exception to even a comparison between Carter and Kennedy, saying Carter's record is so much better in hiring women.

"I don't claim we are perfect," Powell said, "But I do not think you can in any way campare the position that women enjoy in the White House with Kennedy's record."

Now that Kennedy is running for president, he is trying to rectify the situation by hiring women to work in his campaign and, apparently, his Senate staff.

Though Howes is the top woman in the campaign, she freely admits she's not a "close adviser."

"I think that for me to expect to be in the inner circle when I have known the person a month isn't realistic. But I have the feeling that those kinds of relationships will develop."

Miss Howes came to the Kennedy campaign from the National Women's Political Caucus. She said the Kennedy campaign had devised no strategy to deal with Kennedy's image on women's issues except to "show that Kennedy does treat professional women as women of substance" by hiring them.

So far, Carter and Kennedy have traded criticism of each other's record on women's issues, particularly the Equal Rights Amendment, which needs approval in three more states before it becomes part of the U.S. Constitution.

Citizens Face Preparation Of Annual Tax Returns

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Federal income tax forms are appearing in mailboxes along with post-Christmas bills, and employers soon will be handing out W-2 slips, signaling the approach of April 15.

The tax deadline may seem a long way off, but it's not too early to start thinking about your return — particularly if you expect a refund. The earlier you mail in the forms, the sooner you will get your money.

The first thing to decide is whether you want to prepare your own return. The Internal Revenue Service regularly reviews the forms in an effort to make them easier to understand, but studies show that many people still find the paperwork too confusing.

The IRS will do all the calculations for you if you use the short form — 1040A — or if your adjusted gross income on the long form — 1040 — is under $20,000 and you meet certain other conditions. In all other cases, however, you have to complete the return before you send it in.

If your financial life is relatively simple — if most of your income, for example, comes from wages and the tax has been withheld by your employer — you should be able to handle the job yourself.

If, however, you have complicated money matters by making a major purchase like a house, for example, or by getting married or divorced, you probably need help. (If you itemize deductions, the cost of the help usually can be deducted on the 1980 return you file in 1981.)

There are several sources of aid, including the IRS itself. You can call one of almost 60 toll-free IRS telephone numbers or visit one of the nearly 1,000 agency offices. There is no charge. As a general rule, the IRS will not actually fill out your return for you. IRS employees will, however, answer questions about the rules and regulations and can provide help with arithmetic problems.

There is no guarantee that the answers you get from the IRS will be correct. According to "Help: The Indispensable Almanac — 1980," an IRS survey found that the agency's tax preparers made mistakes on more than three out of four returns checked. A similar error rate was found for other experts, including professional and commercial tax preparers.

Remember: You are responsible for your return no matter who fills it in. If there are penalties, you have to pay them.

There are several types of commercial and professional tax preparers. The most widely used are the national tax services like H&R Block. Training programs vary widely and so do error rates. Ask about the educational experience of employees and whether the office is open throughout the year.

Local tax services are often part-time operations that open in February or March and disappear after April 15. They may be less expensive than national services, but they may not be available to handle complaints or problems after the filing deadline.

Certified public accountants — CPAs — have the most training and undergo the strictest testing. They are more expensive than tax services, with fees running anywhere from $25 an hour on up, but you may find them worth the price if you have a particularly complex return. Unlike commercial tax preparers, CPAs are allowed to represent you before the Internal Revenue Service.

Minimum Wage Rate Increases 20 Cents

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The federal minimum wage goes up 20 cents an hour New Year's Day — giving an estimated 5 million American workers immediate pay raises.

In all, some 57 million workers are covered by the Fair Labor Standards Act that will boost the mimimum wage from $2.90 per hour to $3.10 per hour Tuesday.

Social Security taxes also are slated to go up when the New Year rolls in.

That hike will not apply to workers on the lower end of the income scale, however. And many low-income workers who make more than the minimum wage are expected to get wage hikes because of the minimum wage increase.

The news is also good for Social Security recipients.

The maximum amount of outside income that a person age 65 to 71 may earn without losing benefits rises from $4,579 to $5,000. Those under 65 may earn $3,720 instead of the current $3,480. There is no earnings limit for those more than age 71.

Wage earners making more than $22,900 a year — about 13 percent of the work force — will pay up to $183.90 more in Social Security taxes during 1980 than they did in 1979.

The increased Social Security tax bite results from legislation passed in 1977 to make the sagging Social Security trust fund financially self-sustaining.

Upper income workers — the group that usually is tapped for tax increases — will be levied higher Social Security taxes to pay for the increased benefits.

Also, since employers pay the same amount as workers in taxes, they will pay half the $4.2 billion 1980 tax increase.

Although the tax rate will remain the same in 1980 at 6.13 percent, the wage base — the maximum amount on which taxes are collected — will go up from this year's $22,900 to $25,900.

So persons making more than $22,900 will be hit with a tax increase. The 9 percent of the workforce making more than $25,900 will have to pay the maximum $183.90 tax increase

The maximum Social Security tax liability in 1980 will be $1,587.67, compared with $1,403.77 in 1979.

Employees who receive tips will apply a smaller percentage of the tips toward their regular wages under the law. The Labor Department said the amount of tips applied to the employees' wages will be reduced to 40 percent from 45 percent.

Government Releases Statistical Abstract

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The average American is married, white, about 30, and he is having trouble keeping up with inflation and taxes.

That picture unfolds from the 1,057 pages, 1,601 tables and 54 charts in the 100th edition of the Statistical Abstract of the United States.

The Census Bureau's annual book of statistics in its centennial edition available today lists the U.S. population in 1978 at 218.5 million.

It said the median age of the population in 1978 was 29.7 years — 30.6 for whites and 24.3 for blacks.

The data book said 70.1 percent of adult men and 64.2 percent of adult women were married. Only 4.8 percent of the men and 6.7 percent of the women were divorced.

The divorce rate in 1978 was 5.1 per 1,000 persons compared to 10.3 marriages per 1,000.

Females outnumbered males in 1978 by 112 million to 106.5 million compared to a 91.4 million to 89.3 million edge in 1960.

The average American is still a white Anglo-Saxon Protestant, but the percentage of non-whites in the population rose from 12.6 in 1960 to 16.1 in 1978.

Americans from families of English origin still made up the largest single ethnic group — with 25.9 million persons — but German-Americans ran a close second — with 20.5 million.

Some 94 million Americans were working in 1978 — half of them at white-collar jobs — with only 6 percent of the labor force unemployed.

But the chance of being out of work nearly doubled — to 11.9 percent — if you were black, and it kept on soaring — to 16.3 percent — if you were a teen-ager.

The average weekly paycheck in private industry rose from $189 in 1977 to $204 in 1978, but expenses were also up.

The consumer price index — the government's guide to inflation — jumped from 181.5 to 195.4. And Uncle Sam socked Americans with $402 billion in taxes in 1978 compared to $357.8 billion the year before.

Death, like taxes, was still with us — and rising. The death rate increased from 878 to 882 per 100,000 Americans with heart disease accounting for more than one-third of the deaths.

WINE PRODUCTION

Argentina ranks fourth among the world's wine producing nations, according to the Wine Institute of Mendoza province. It says Italy leads with an estimated 1.7 billion gallons produced in 1978.

Numerous Labor Pacts To Be Negotiated In 1980

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor contracts affecting more than 3.8 million of the 9.4 million workers covered by collective bargaining agreements expire in 1980, according to Labor Department estimates.

With inflation running at a 13 percent annual rate and a recession expected in 1980, large wage boosts and increased job security are expected to top labor's demands.

Although President Carter's 1979 guideline limiting pay raises to 7 percent a year is generally viewed as too low in the face of current inflation, administration inflation-fighters hope to dissuade unions from pressing demands to catch up fully with inflation.

Government economists contend that such large raises would only lead to still more inflation.

National contracts affecting 60,000 oil refinery workers, 316,000 steel and aluminum workers, 550,000 telephone company employees, 41,000 longshoremen and 66,500 aerospace workers are among those up for renegotiation during the year.

Many of those talks could result in strikes, labor relations experts say. The first major walkout could come as early as next week, when the first year of an oil industry contract expires with the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union.

Robert F. Goss, president of the oil workers, faces a Jan. 8 strike deadline for reaching a pattern settlement with the oil industry on 400 separate contracts that cover 60,000 of his members.

The oil industry is highly automated, and the companies say a strike would have no short-term impact on fuel supplies.

Later in the year, the success of the United Steelworkers' unique no-strike bargaining arrangement with the basic steel industry, called the Experimental Negotiating Agreement, will be tested as the two sides replace three-year contracts that expire in August.

New Magazine Treats Fishing As Business

SEATTLE (AP) — Fishing reminds many people of romantic images of men and boats and the sea. But for the founders of a new magazine here, fishing is strictly business.

"My partner Mike Nordby and I intend Pacific Fishing to be the Fortune Magazine of the West Coast fishing industry," says Duane Kelly, who plans to publish the first edition of Pacific Fishing in January.

People involved in commercial fishing should be considered businesssmen, not just fishermen or processors, says Kelly.

Seattle is the center for publishing news about the West Coast fishing industry, not because of the fishing off the Washington coast or in Puget Sound but because of Alaska.

"It's the staging area for everything that happens in Alaska and Alaska is the richest fishery we've got," says Dick Phillips, editor of The Fishermen's News. "Alaska itself is just too expensive for magazine publishing. Even Alaska Magazine is published in Edmonds, Wash."

Kelly says that in addition to headlining fishermen, Pacific Fishing's monthly editions also will contain seafood market reports from Japan, interviews with processors and boatbuilders, and continuing reports on the economic development of bottomfish.

Besides the usual stories on new boats, there will be articles on how to finance those boats and how to minimize paying income tax on revenues.

Kelly says he got the magazine idea about a year and a half ago while he was assistant advertising manager for Seattle's largest fishing-boat builder, Marine Construction and Design Co. He saw the industry in a long-term boom: crab revenues up 1,000 percent in 10 years to $220 million, and a new 200-mile zone that would lead to the U.S. takeover of the bottomfish fishery.

To do that, according to a U.S. Commerce Department study, some $2.3 billion would have to be invested in the fishing and fish processing business. A small chunk of that, thought Kelly, could set up a new business magazine.

A study by New York consultant James B. Kobak found that business magazines could be very profitable — for example, the oil industry's Oil and Gas Journal — and determined that Kelly would need 5,000 subscribers to launch Pacific Fishing.

So far, he has more than 2,000.

Kelly has three main competitors with headquarters or main offices in Seattle — National Fisherman, The Fishermen's News, and the Alaska Fisherman's Journal.

Cigarettes Foil Dissidents' Plot

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — An alleged plot by Filipino dissidents in the United States to overthrow President Ferdinand E. Marcos was foiled by a pack of cigarettes, authorities say.

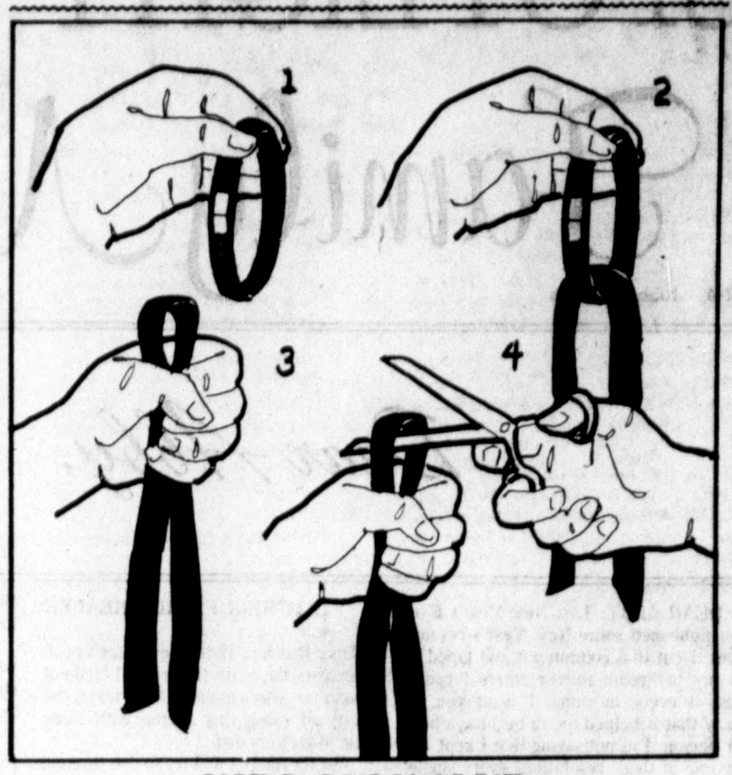

The military said a U.S. citizen and 15 Filipinos were arrested for an alleged conspiracy to spark guerrilla warfare in Manila, assassinate top officials, and destroy parts of the capital with remote control bombs.

Manila military commander Brig. Gen. Prospero Olivas said the plot surfaced when a pack of Dunhill cigarettes fell out of a piece of unclaimed baggage from the United States at the Manila airport two weeks ago.

The cigarette pack contained blasting caps wrapped in cotton, explosive devices, a manual on demolition and a copy of an article titled "The Poor Man's James Bond," Olivas said.

The general claimed the government has "evidence" pointing to a connection between the alleged plotters and a supposedly revolutionary group of Social Democrats with alleged links to Filipino dissidents in the United States.

The group is reportedly trained in sabotage and urban guerrilla warfare.

Holiday Gift Ribbons Have Several Uses

By SHARI LEWIS

Okay! The holiday's over. Now the trick is to find a way to use all the stuff left over — the only slightly wrinkled wrapping paper, crumpled ribbon and beat-up boxes. Here's a trick that makes the most of the ribbon:

Put the rumpled ribbon between two layers of wax paper and press it. That'll give it a new look.

Now make a loop out of a small piece of ribbon (3 to 4 inches). Tape the loop shut. (Picture 1) Slip a longer piece of ribbon (a yard or two) through the loop. (Picture 2) Hold the ribbon so that your fist hides the fact that there is a loop. It will look as though you're simply holding a long strip of ribbon, with the bend over your hand. (Picture 3)

Show your friend that you're cutting the ribbon in half (but really the loop). (Picture 4) Then cut away the extra pieces that are sticking up above your hand (but really get rid of all signs of the loop by pulling with the scissors as well as cutting). Give the other person the two ends of the ribbon to hold and when you take your hand away, the ribbon will be whole once again.

On another day, for another friend, make another loop and you can use the same ribbon for another performance.

TODAY'S BRAIN TWISTER: If a man looks at a picture and say, "Brothers and sisters have I none, yet this man's father is my father's son," whose picture is the man looking at?

Police Apprehend Former Patients

WINTERS, Calif. (AP) — Two former patients of a mental institution wanted for questioning in the deaths of two fellow patients were being held in Arizona after they were apprehended northwest of Phoenix, authorities said.

Police said David Leonard Baker, 23, and Harold Thomas Francis, 34, were sought on a murder warrant in the fatal stabbing of Arthur Mitchell Hayman, 36, who was slain last Wednesday on a country road near Dunnigan, Calif. Baker and Francis were also wanted for questioning in the slaying of Annette Goranson, 43, who died after being stabbed in the abdomen and having her throat slashed.

Dear Abby,

DEAR ABBY: Last New Year's Eve you published some New Year's resolutions. I cut that column out and taped it on my bathroom mirror where I could read it every morning. I want you to know that it helped me to become a better person. I'm not saying that I kept every one of those resolutions every single day, but I kept most of them, and they are now habits which have improved my personality, my character and my self-esteem.

I'm not a teenager, Abby. I'm a 30-year-old mother of two.

Please make it an annual column; some of your readers may not have seen it. I hope it will help others the way it has helped me.

— FAITHFUL FLORIDA READER

Dear Reader: These New Year's resolutions are based on the original credo of Alcoholics Anonymous. I have taken the liberty of using that theme with some variations of my own:

Just for today I will try to live through this day only, and not set far-reaching goals to try to overcome all my problems at once. I know I can do something for 12 hours that would appall me if I felt that I had to keep it up for a lifetime.

Just for today I will try to be happy. Abraham Lincoln said, "Most folks are about as happy as they make up their minds to be." He was right. I will not dwell on thoughts that depress me. I will chase them out of my mind and replace them with happy thoughts.

Just for today I will adjust myself to what is. I will face reality. I will try to change those things which I can change and accept those things I cannot change.

Just for today I will try to improve my mind. I will not be a mental loafer. I will force myself to read something that requires effort, thought and concentration.

Just for today I will do a good deed for somebody — without letting him know it. (If he or she finds out I did it, it won't count.)

Just for today I will do something positive to improve my health. If I'm a smoker, I'll make an honest effort to cut down. If I'm overweight, I'll eat nothing I know is fattening. And I will force myself to exercise — even if it's only walking around the block, or using the stairs instead of the elevator.

Just for today I will be totally honest. If someone asks me something I don't know, I will not try to bluff; I'll simply say, "I don't know."

Just for today I'll do something I've been putting off for a long time. I'll finally write that letter, make that phone call, clean that closet, or straighten out those dresser drawers.

Just for today, before I speak I will ask myself, "Is it true?" "Is is kind?" And if the answer to either of those questions is negative, I won't say it.

Just for today I will make a conscious effort to be agreeable. I will look as well as I can, dress becomingly, talk softly, act courteously and not try to improve anybody except myself.

Just for today I will have a program. I may not follow it exactly, but I will have it, thereby saving myself from two pests: hurry and indecision.

Just for today I will have a quiet half hour to relax alone. During this time I will reflect on my behavior and will try to get better perspective on my life.

Just for today I will be unafraid. I will gather the courage to do what is right and take the responsiblity for my own actions. I will expect nothing from the world, but I will realize that as I give to the world, the world will give to me. P.S. Have a happy, healthy New Year. And pray for peace!

LOVE, ABBY

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK

When my daughter was born I cannot tell you how choked with emotion I became. As she lay cradled in my arms, her little fingers wrapped around mine, I leaned over and whispered in her ear, "At last, I have given birth to my very own baby sitter."

The ripening of a sitter didn't happen overnight. There were years of preparation. She would stand at my right hand and observe as I heated soup, adjusted the television dials and readied her brothers for bed.

Like a little sponge she would soak up my expertise on how to referee a disagreement, when to give in to demands and how to enforce three-hour naps.

Then one night, two days before New Year's Eve, when she was in her 13th year, I sat her down and said, "Do you feel ready to assume the responsibility for baby-sitting?" She nodded. "I know you've been observing Mommy for all these years and I have made it look easy, but I'd like to lay on you a few of the basic crises that you might be faced with while baby-sitting. Ready? First, tell me, what would you do if a child refused to go to bed?"

"I would threaten to eat him!" she said coolly.

"Very good, now how much liquid do you give a child under six before going to bed?"

"When they complain of being thirsty, you mist the plants on their window sill and tell them to inhale deeply."

"Right. Now, here's a toughie. What do you do when one of your charges pushes a coin up his nose?"

"What denomination is it?"

"A dime."

"For a dime," she said, "I wouldn't lose my place in the book I'm reading. For a quarter, I'd get out the vacuum sweeper and suck it out."

There was no doubt about it. The kid was a pro. It had been a long period of hiring baby sitters, stocking the refrigerator, calling until my finger fell off, breaking in a new one every time we moved and worrying every time I was at a party and the hostess said, "It's the sitter." But it was all behind me now. I had my own live-in sitter.

"I think you're ready to sit," I said, "but don't worry. For your first time, we won't be out too late."

My daughter looked at me. "You got it wrong. I'm sitting for the Thompsons' kids on New Year's Eve."

Maybe I taught her too much.

The painting is titled "Landscape With a Sluice Gate."

Feast Reflected Christmas Joy

By JEANNE LIVELY
Family News Staff

The Texas Tech Music Department and the University Center's Madrigal dinner presentation held recently at the U.C. ballroom succeeded in re-creating an old English Christmas feast, complete with the merriment of Christmas.

To trumpet fanfare, the Madrigal Singers entered the "castle" dressed in appropriate medieval costumes. To further the Medieval illusion, the Madrigal singers portrayed characters of the era. Bass Mike Medley portrayed Henry the VIII, taking it upon himself to welcome the guests into his abode along with soprano Suzy Graham (Queen Anne).

And to make things seem more authentic, a Lord of Misrule (Tom Francis) read a lengthy list of table rules to make even the rowdiest knight behave.

Rules included not dipping one's fingers into one's drink, cleaning one's fingernails before dining, and no cajoling of another's lady.

After the reading the rules, Henry VIII summoned a servant to light the candles at his table. A trumpet fanfare again heralded a major event -the lighting of the King's candles. Then, the audience members were allowed to light the candles on their own tables.

As the ballroom glowed with the light of the candles, the King summoned the wassail bowl (apple cider). And if that wasn't enough, a servant followed carrying a real boar's head, complete with an apple in its mouth.

A boar's head was not placed on everyone's table, but pork roast was — prepared by U.C. food services director Gertrude Morse and her staff. But there was still more. The complete menu follows:

PORK ROAST
GLAZED CARROTS
ROASTED POTATOES
HARVEST SALAD WALDORF SALAD
HOMEMADE BROWN BREAD

Dessert? -the utterly tantalizing, fantastic plum pudding!

Mrs. Morse's recipe is as follows:

PLUM PUDDING
(For 12 Persons)
1/2 cup shortening
3/4 cup sugar
2 eggs
3/4 cup corn syrup
3 cups bread crumbs
6 tbsps. flour
3/4 tsp. baking soda
3/4 tsp. powdered cloves
1-1/2 tsp. cinnamon
3/4 cup buttermilk
3/4 cup chopped nuts
3/4 cup raisins

Cream shortening and sugar, beat until light. Add eggs one at a time and beat; blend corn syrup. Add bread crumbs and mix well. Sift flour with soda and spices; add alternately with buttermilk. Fold in nuts and raisins.

Pour into ungreased pan. Cover tightly (Mrs. Morse and her staff just use brown paper and string) and steam for approximately 3/4 hour.

Tip: To make your plum pudding truly spectacular, use sugar cubes dipped in lemon extract and place on pudding. Set afire and win compliments!

HOLIDAY DRINK

Pour chilled canned unsweetened pineapple juice over crushed ice. Add sparkling cider and serve with lime wedge and cherry decoration.

WINNING TEAM — Sharing a special moment are six-year-old Rocky Arizzi and Jerry Lewis, National Chairman of the Muscular Dystrophy Association. Rocky has just been named the National Poster Child for a second year.

Research Grants Approved

NEW YORK (Special) — Three hundred grants and postdoctoral fellowships for basis and clinical studies of neuromuscular diseases were approved at the year-end meetings of the Muscular Dystrophy Association's Board of Directors, David Miller, president of MDA's South PLains Chapter announced. The awards will bring the number of MDA research projects in force after January 1 to more than 700, with funds allocated totalling over $17.4 million.

Mr. Miller said that the new awards include grants of over $1.5 million to MDA's research/clinical centers at Baylor College of Medicine, Houston; the University of California, Los Angeles, School of Medicine; New York University Medical Center; the University of Virginia Medical Center; and Washington University Medical Center. MDA supports nine research/clinical centers at major universities in the U.S. and one in England. Year-end awards to individual researchers include 154 grants-in-aid and special grants for basic research, 42 clinical research grants, and 99 postdoctoral research fellowships.

The MDA budget for 1980 authorizes record expenditures of $19.4 million for the Association's research program, a $1.5 million increase over 1979, Mr. Miller said.

Among the research projects funded by MDA in 1979 were 306 investigations into Duchenne muscular dystrophy — the most common and severe form of muscular dystrophy — 135 into myasthenia gravis, and 105 into amyotrophic lateral sclerosis (ALS). With the recent addition of Djerine-Scottas disease and myositis ossificans to the roster of neuromuscular afflictions covered by MDA, 40 diseases are now included in the Association's worldwide research and free medical services programs.

Djerine-Sottas disease is a disorder affecting the peripheral nerves that is marked by generalized muscle weakness and atrophy, Mr. Miller explained. Myositis ossificans is an inflammatory muscle disease characterized by the progressive conversion of voluntary muscle tissue to bone.

MDA sponsors research in 35 states, Washington, D.C., Puerto Rico, and Guam, and 17 foreign countries. For more information, contact your local MDA office.

Q.1—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AQ6 ♡6 ◇A3 ♣AKQ7652
The bidding has proceeded:

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| 2 ♠ | Pass | 2 ◇ | Pass |
| ? | | | |

What do you bid now?

A.—Big things seem to be in store, but there is no need for you to act precipitately and consume more bidding space than is necessary. You have already created a forcing-to-game situation, so you can afford to take it easy. Just bid three clubs and allow partner to bid his hand naturally.

Q.2—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AKJ6 ♡A83 ◇A87 ♣A62
What is your opening bid?

A.—Your hand is too strong for a one no trump opening bid and a whit too weak for two no trump, so you have to open one of a suit. We would choose the "convenient" opening bid of one club, to allow partner the maximum room to respond. He might not be able to act over a one spade opening bid, but still have enough values for your side to make game.

Q.3—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AK ♡KJ963 ◇A854 ♣Q7
The bidding has proceeded:

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 ♡ | 2 ♠ | Pass | Pass |
| ? | | | |

What action do you take?

A.—You would like to double, since that would give partner the option of converting for penalties—a state of affairs which would delight you. Unfortunately, in the real world partner bids two spades, and leaves you with a devilish problem. Therefore, we would compete with two diamonds, realizing full well that we are overstressing that suit, but at least offering partner a choice.

Q.4—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠KQ932 ♡Q94 ◇AJ6 ♣AK
The bidding has proceeded:

| North | East | South | West |
|---|---|---|---|
| Pass | Pass | 1 ♠ | 2 ♡ |
| Pass | Pass | ? | |

What action do you take?

A.—Your chances of making game are slight considering that partner has passed twice. If he held three spades and a smattering of points, he would have bid two spades. It looks as if your best chance for a plus score is to defeat the opponents, so pass.

Q.5—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠K10854 ♡A6 ◇962 ♣874
The bidding has proceeded:

| North | East | South |
|---|---|---|
| 1 ♡ | 2 ♠ | ? |

What action do you take?

A.—You dare not bid two spades! That would be forcing and there is no telling where the auction would end. Pass. If partner is weak, two clubs may be the final contract, but that is hardly a tragedy. And if he is strong, he will balance with a double and you can then show signs of strength.

Q.6—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠AK863 ♡AKQJ2 ◇7 ♣94
The bidding has proceeded:

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 ♠ | 2 ♠ | Dble. | Pass |
| ? | | | |

What action do you take?

A.—While partner's double is for penalties and you can surely defeat two clubs, especially since partner should be short in spades, your reward is unlikely to be worth as much as a vulnerable game or slam. We would jump to three hearts to advise partner of our strong distributional hand and allow him to make the next move.

Q.7—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠83 ♡QJ7 ◇K6 ♣AQJ762
The bidding has proceeded:

| North | East | South | West |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 ♠ | Pass | 2 ♠ | Pass |
| 2 ♠ | Pass | ? | |

What do you bid now?

A.—The one bid you cannot afford to make is three clubs—that describes a hand with a long club suit and little on the side, and requests partner to pass unless he has a better-than-minimum opening bid. Some number of no trump is in order. If you have a partner who is likely to drop the bidding short of game, you should jump to three no trump. Otherwise, two no trump is sufficient, for it gives the partnership more bidding space to investigate an alternative contract.

What do you bid now?

Q.8—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠A982 ♡K82 ◇74 ♣A763
The bidding has proceeded:

| West | North | East | South |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 ◇ | Pass | Pass | ? |

What action do you take?

A.—While this is not much of a hand, it is nevertheless too good to let the opponents steal the contract at the one-level. Double, to get your partner to name the suit. In the balancing position, a takeout double does not promise more than 11 points.

Weizman Says U.S. Plans Boost In Aid

A-J News Services

TEL AVIV, Israel — Defense Minister Ezer Weizman, just returned from talks with President Carter and other American officials, said today Israel's share of U.S. foreign aid would be increased in the coming year.

Weizman refused to reveal the exact sum Israel would receive for fiscal 1981, but said it would be more than the $1.8 billion it has received the past three years.

The Israelis' original foreign aid request for the fiscal year beginning in October 1980 was for $3.45 billion.

In an interview Sunday, Weizman said he had not yet been told exactly how much U.S. assistance Israel would receive in the new fiscal year. He said, however, that he did not expect to receive the full $3.45 billion.

Arriving at Ben-Gurion Airport today, he told reporters, "In these days when the United States itself is experiencing internal economic difficulties ... it certainly is our duty to understand this."

Weizman also said in the interview that the United States should establish more military bases in the Middle East and that Israel would be happy to help.

Weizman, who traveled to the United States to negotiate a new U.S. military and economic aid package for Israel, said such bases would counter the Soviet Union's burgeoning influence in the area.

"If you do consider that there is a world conflict and struggle between the Soviet Union and the United States, we would very much like to see the United States more present in the Middle East, even physically," he said.

On Saturday, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat was quoted in the weekly magazine October as saying the United States should have a military presence in the Middle East. He also said Egypt "is willing to extend facilities to American forces" for defense of the region.

Weizman said Sadat's offer "proves again that he is a great man."

"Israel doesn't have to make the same offer," Weizman said. "There's a very deep partnership between Israel and the United States. When and if the United States requires anything, she knows the answer will be positive."

The United States has a small naval station in the Persian Gulf and several Air Force bases in Turkey.

Meanwhile, the Israeli cabinet, ignoring the opinion of its legal advisers, extended for five weeks the deadline for clearing Jewish settlers off an illegal outpost on a rocky hill on the occupied West Bank.

The militant Gush Emunim settlement organization, whose members occupy the Elon Moreh outpost that was declared illegal by the Supreme Court Oct. 22, welcomed the Sunday postponement as a "positive" decision.

But the settlers insisted they still would only agree to leave their temporary mobile homes when the government declares that the West Bank and Gaza Strip are no longer occupied territories — paving the way for more Jewish settlements in the region.

Prime Minister Menachem Begin told the Cabinet that the recent heavy rain storms and the rough, hilly terrain at Mount Kabir, where a replacement outpost is going up for the 15 Jewish families at Elon Moreh, forced him to ask for another extension.

"An additional five weeks will be needed in order to complete the preparatory works and build the new place," one cabinet official said after a three-hour debate, which raised a storm of protest from ministers who do not believe the settlers will agree to move.

"The settlers are situated today on land which does not belong to them," said Justice Minister Shmuel Tamir after the session. "They are trespassers. In my opinion, the previous extension ... was reasonable and enough."

dead and wounded among the 250 Soviet casualties in the coup. There was no information available on losses suffered by Afghan soldiers loyal to ousted Prime Minister Hafizullah Amin during the 3½ hours of fighting Thursday.

Diplomats in Kabul told Associated Press correspondent Robert Reid that two Soviet divisions totaling about 20,000 men crossed the Soviet-Afghan border Sunday, joining the estimated 25,000 Russian troops already in the country. Reid was one of the few Western reporters allowed into Kabul in the wake of the coup.

In Washington, U.S. National Security Adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski accused the Russians of "large-scale aggression" that "constitutes a serious problem for the international community." He said that his government assured Pakistan, Afghanistan's southern and eastern neighbor, of U.S. aid including "the use of armed force" if the Soviets moved against it.

Brzezinski also had a warning for Iran, saying: "I should think that every sober-headed Iranian — even the most anti-American ones — ought to ask themselves what do the events in Kabul portend for Tehran. There have been Soviet troops in Tehran before. Tehran could be next."

President Carter used the Washington-Moscow hot line Saturday to warn that unless the Soviets withdrew their troops from Afghanistan, Soviet-American relations would be affected adversely. The White House said a reply was received from Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev, but it would give no clue to what he said.

The new Afghan government announced that it asked the Soviet Union for help in dealing with the enemies of the "socialist revolution." Pravda, the Soviet Communist Party newspaper, said the Soviet forces were sent to counter "unlimited backing" given the Moslem rebels by the United States, China and Egypt. It said they would be withdrawn when they were no longer needed.

The Afghan government in a broadcast communique Sunday night claimed there was "complete peace and calm in the country, and the armed forces are in full control." But the Karachi, Pakistan, newspaper Jang said Afghan rebel sources in Pakistan reported Soviet troops battling Moslem insurgents in the northern province of Takhar, with 400 rebels, a Soviet general and large numbers of Soviet and Afghan army troops killed Saturday.

The rebels are conservative, fundamentalist Moslems opposed to the Marxists who took over the government in April 1978 after killing President Mohammad Daoud. The insurgents are said to control about half the country by day and more by night.

Kansas City Firefighters Snub Offer

ported for duty refused to do work not required of their job classification.

The city has retaliated by firing 42 firefighters who refused overtime and by issuing deferred three-day suspensions to 278 others. Police, supported by about 700 National Guardsmen, staffed 16 fire stations while fire department battalion chiefs staffed five and regular firefighters manned two stations. The airport was protected by an independent company.

The firefighters have been working without a contract since their three-year contract expired May 1.

The city's contract offer proposed a 48-hour work week, instead of the current 40-hour week, and a 19.3 percent increase in wages and benefits over the next two years.

Citing the increase in working hours, the union demanded an immediate 20 percent pay increase. Annual pay for firefighters currently ranges from $12,132 to $17,982.

Informal talks between the city and the union went through the night Saturday and into the early hours Sunday, with the city upping its contract offer from $5.1 million to roughly $5.7 million.

But the union's executive board rejected the offer before the proposal could go to the 900 firefighters for a vote.

NO RESPONSE — Using a helicopter to reach the top of an overturned ore freighter off the western coast of Canada, an Alaskan state policeman pounds on the hull to see if there is any response from crew members who may have been trapped inside. # Coast Guard Cutter Fails To Sink Stricken Vessel

KETCHIKAN, Alaska (AP) — The freighter Lee Wang Zin, which capsized Christmas Day in the cold seas off Alaska, was headed today for an unceremonious burial in Canadian waters that may sink forever any clues to the whereabouts of its crew.

But early today, 16 rounds fired from five-inch cannons on the Coast Guard cutter Munro missed the vessel, probably because of darkness, a spokesman said. A commercial diver was called in to plant charges inside the ballast tanks, reducing the danger of a hit to the fuel tanks.

There had been hope that some crewmen might have survived the Dec. 25 accident, when the ship, carrying 30 Taiwanese sailors and a load of iron ore pellets for Japan, rolled over.

Searchers turned up two bodies and a life raft, but divers found no signs of the crew aboard. Aerial flights showed only traces of fuel oil that spilled when the ship rolled.

Coast Guard and Navy officials Sunday were forced to scuttle plans to sink the vessel in open seas and hastily arranged to sink it in Canadian waters when a tow line snapped, sending the ship and its estimated 200,000 gallons of fuel drifting toward Canada's Queen Charlotte Islands.

"The Canadian government concurs with our decision" to sink the vessel in about 1,200 feet of water, said Coast Guard Petty Officer Phillip Franklin. "They'd rather have us sink it there than have it drift into Queen Charlotte Islands."

Authorities said the ship carried bunker C-type oil, which solidifies in cold weather and will remain trapped inside the ship when it is dispatched to the ocean floor.

It has not been determined what caused the 741-foot Lee Wang Zin to capsize off the southeastern Alaska coast. Only one distress signal was received, indicating the ship inverted suddenly. The Coast Guard and U.S. Navy found a 160 foot-long gash on the vessel's hull and believe it may have smashed into a reef during a storm that hampered the search for survivors.

The weather broke Saturday and Alaska state troopers landed atop the exposed hull by helicopter to listen with stethoscopes, but heard no responses. It was presumed that crew members would have suffocated or died of exposure.

Judge Orders End To Strike

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Judge Frederick M. Coleman ordered an end to the city's 75-day-old teacher strike today, saying he wants the teachers back in class at 8 a.m. Wednesday.

Coleman also ordered all members of the school board and leaders of the Cleveland Teachers Union to resume negotiations and "remain confined" until the pay dispute is settled.

There was no immediate comment from teachers on whether they would obey the order, but union sources had said earlier they did not believe teachers would return under court order.

Asked whether the teachers would obey the order, union lawyer Bernard Berkman said, "This is a union in which the individuals involved make their own decisions."

Union leaders said privately last week that they did not expect the teachers would return under any court order.

Berkman said he was disappointed with Coleman "ordering people to work who don't want to work. It's inconsistent with the 13th Amendment prohibiting slavery."

Coleman issued the back-to-work order requested by the school board after receiving an arbitrator's report on the status of the bitter dispute.

The report was prepared by Earle C. Brown, director of the Cleveland American Arbitration Association in Cleveland, who met with both sides under court orders for more than nine hours Saturday.

Neither side would comment on what was said to Brown in meetings Saturday.

Meanwhile, the four persons who were still conducting a sit-in at the Cleveland school administration building ended their protest Saturday, saying they believe Coleman was about to make a ruling which would end the strike.

The sit-in began Dec. 5 with 33 persons participating, but the number eventually dwindled to four who promised to stay in the lobby until the strike ended.

The 5,200-member Cleveland Teachers Union last week, in a vote ordered by the court, turned down by a 4-1 margin two pay offers of the board. The union has been asking for a 27 percent pay boost over two years.

Each of the board's offers would have cost about $30 million. One would have provided for a 7 percent raise retroactive to Sept. 1 and another 9 percent next September. The second offer would have raised teachers' salaries 10 percent immediately with another 10 percent in a year.

Death Toll Mounting

By The Associated Press

The New Year's Day holiday weekend traffic death toll continued to climb, as generally pleasant weather lured many motorists onto the nation's highways.

By noon, a total of 231 persons had died in traffic accidents.

The National Safety Council estimated that 360 to 440 persons could be killed in traffic accidents during the four-day weekend, the final weekend of the 1970s.

Council statisticians said that during a non-holiday weekend of the same length at this time of the year, 480 deaths could be expected.

The highest New Year's weekend death toll was recorded in 1965 when there were 564 traffic deaths during a three-day holiday period. The worst toll for a four-day New Year's Day observance was 481 in 1969.

Traffic fatalities were running behind predictions of the Texas Department of Public Safety today as the holiday period entered its final two days.

The DPS projected 56 persons would die on Texas roads during the 102-hour holiday period from 6 p.m. Friday through midnight New Year's Day.

Only 16 fatalities had been reported by mid-morning today.

system in some way this year," Hasie said. "And for the school system, the resolution is to continue to produce well-prepared citizens for our society."

Texas Tech University Regent Don Workman topped his resolution list with emphasis on meeting the educational and medical needs of the area. "The resolution for Texas Tech, as I see it," Workman said, "is to continue to furnish the high quality of education for this region, as well as to improve the medical care by providing doctors needed by the region."

To achieve this goal, Workman sees the need to find a president for Tech who can maintain the quality of education the university already has. Although he didn't say when Tech's permanent president will be named, Workman said he hoped a candidate would be selected "right away."

State Rep. Froy Salinas has one main goal on his resolution list — holding the line on taxes. "It is my hope that through efficiency in government and the good sound economy, the State of Texas will be able to avoid any new or additional taxes," Salinas commented.

The public officials interviewed in this article have listed their resolutions for the coming year and decade. It will be up to the public to judge whether the goals are actually being carried out.

Iranian Militants Deride Waldheim Visit

er," and they will be freed "only in exchange for the extradition of the traitor shah." Mohammed Reza Pahlavi, the students said in a strongly worded communique.

"I clearly state that no negotiations are scheduled" with Waldheim over freedom for the captives, said Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh after the Revolutionary Council met during the weekend to approve Waldheim's visit.

That approval was viewed as an official reprimand of the students, who had made it clear they did not welcome Waldheim's visit.

The "no negotiation" stand appeared to contradict a U.N. announcement of the trip, which said Waldheim would make a new diplomatic attempt to free the hostages.

The threat of economic sanctions has angered both the students and the Revolutionary Council, but they disagreed over Waldheim's role in it.

The militants said the Security Council would impose the economic embargo if Waldheim's visit did not end "to the benefit of America." Earlier, they said the secretary general had "superpower" ties and was "not an honest representative."

They also ruled out release of the hostages until the shah was returned to Iran from Panama.

"If the American government expects you to give it the good news of freedom for the spies, and if this (U.S.) government has dispatched you to Iran for this purpose, you should know that as the Imam and the nation have said, the release of the hostages will take place only in exchange for the extradition of the traitor shah," the communique said.

The extradition "must take place through the American government," it said.

The foreign minister made it clear earlier that Waldheim's visit is viewed as a fact-finding trip and not a negotiating venture.

An announcement from the United Nations Sunday said that "based on his (Waldheim's) contacts with Iranian authorities, his offer to visit Iran has been accepted." He is expected in Tehran Tuesday after a stopover in Paris.

U.N. spokesmen said the secretary general would make a last ditch attempt to negotiate for the release of the Americans and the Security Council was set to vote today on a U.S.-initiated resolution giving Iran until Jan. 7 to free the Americans or face mandatory economic sanctions.

Ghotbzadeh, reflecting the revolutionary council's view, said, "The students have said that he (Waldheim) is not the right person. I don't agree with it."

He applauded Waldheim's role in "our victory" at the United Nations — a reference to Washington's increasing difficulties in getting enough votes in the Security Council to impose an economic blockade against Iran.

The final decision to release the captives, Habibi said, remains in the hands of Khomeini.

U.N. sources in New York said Waldheim made arrangements for the trip with Iran's new ambassador to the United Nations, Mansour Farhang.

Also planning a trip to Tehran this week was Palestine Liberation Organization commander Yassar Arafat, Sheikh Mostafa Rahnama, an Iranian journalist and religious leader, said.

Rahnama said he reported the impending visit this weekend to Khomeini.

Waldheim's mission was announced one day after Secretary of State Cyrus Vance submitted a new plan to the Security Council, proposing that the secretary general make one final efffort to get the hostages freed before the council imposes economic sanctions.

A senior American official said Sunday the United States was certain of 10 firm votes — One more than needed for approval of the resolution by the 15-member Security Council.

Even before the council vote, various non-council members were reported by Iranian authorities to opppose the sanctions. They said Austria would refuse to go along with any such economic measures and two other nations, Romania and Yugoslavia, have already promised aid in various forms.

House In 1970s More Than Just Man's Castle

First In A Series

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — The house in the 1970s wasn't just a man's castle. It also was his hedge against inflation, his savings, his tax break, his investment, the hope for his children's education and his retirement.

Single-family homeowners now have an equity of more than $1.5 trillion in more than 55 million units, or $28,000 per unit, compared with 1970 figures of $656 billion on 46.8 million units, or $14,000 per unit.

Attitudinal changes were even greater. The use of "his" to denote home ownership became dated sociologically if not as an adage. Women insisted on equality; their paychecks helped pay the monthly note.

Other attitudes changed too. Unmarried couples obtained mortgages, and singles did too. Business partners bought homes for rental income and tax writeoffs. Middle-income families bought vacation homes.

Prices changed as much as anything. The median sale price of existing single-family homes in 1970 was $23,000. The National Association of Realtors found a median of $56,000, 143.5 percent higher, in 1979.

New home prices rose even faster. Commerce Department figures show the typical single-family home sold for $23,400 in the first year of the decade, and about $64,200 in the last, a difference of 174 percent.

Postwar babies, the population surge that began after World War II and which earlier had changed education, art and politics, had a lot to do with it.

"These were new buyers," explained a real estate analyst. "They didn't sell one home to buy another. They were brand new demand." They demanded singles, duplexes, apartments, mobiles, coops, condos.

In the decade of the 1970s the housing stock of the country grew by 15 million units, from 67.7 million to 82.8 million, despite the loss of roughly a half-million old units a year, mostly in inner cities.

Inflation spurred the boom, among other things forcing renters to seek a piece of the action, to buy their own home rather than continue to pay ever-higher rents. Even the swinging singles joined in.

Owning a home, people found, was indeed a hedge, with median prices year after year rising more than inflation in general, often as much as 25 percent or 30 percent more.

In mid-1979, the consumer price index was growing at a 13.2 percent annual rate, but existing single-family homes had risen 17.2 percent in the preceding 12 months. All gain, said owners.

For first-time house shoppers it was another story. Down payments and monthly carrying costs soared, and many would-be buyers found they couldn't afford to buy or, if they did, to meet the monthly payments.

As the decade began, 20 percent down and a 7 percent rate was thought hard to handle. As it ended, those who could afford to do so grabbed at 12 to 15 percent. They had to be well-heeled, perhaps from selling another house, because lenders sought 30 or 40 percent down.

Operating costs rose too. Heating oil that cost 20 cents a gallon in 1970 was headed in some areas to a dollar a gallon in 1979. Taxes rose. Overall, monthly payments on new purchases quadrupled those of 1970.

Consider this example of financing costs alone.

The $23,400 home of 1970 required a down payment of no more than 20 percent or $4,680, a mortgage of $18,720 at 7.5 percent and 240 monthly payments of $150.82. The $64,200 home of 1979 required 30 percent or $19,260 down, a mortgage of $44,940 at 11.5 percent and 300 monthly payments (high prices forced lenders to extend maturities) of $457.84.

Maintenance costs forced many families to raise to 35 to 45 percent the portion of income spent on housing, compared with a traditional 25 percent. Inflation had made them rich; it had made them poor.

Some solved the latter problem by refinancing or taking out second mortgages. With their inflated houses hoarding thousands of dollars in equity, and with mortgage rates so high, lenders obliged them. It was the way some families sent their youngsters to college. The fact that interest rates were tax-deductible helped ease the pain.

Apartment house landlords also made riches and then began strangling on expenses. They raised rents to space-age figures, from $300 in 1970 for a two-bedroom New York apartment to more than $1,000 in 1979, for example.

Many found the solution to their plight by combining two needs — their need for cash, and the tenant's desire for ownership. Owners thus tapped their equity by converting to cooperatives or condominiums.

The picture is changed as the decade ends. The prices and financing bear little resemblance to those of the 1970s. Some talk fearfully of a coming price deflation, others of more inflation.

For certain, the 55 million owners of single-family dwellings, and the condo and coop owners and landlords who bring the total housing stock to 82.8 million, have built up enormous equity, along with huge (by 1970 standards) carrying charges.

So much so that some ask: Is a house a home or an investment?

Living Costs Highest In Northeast

BOSTON (UPI) — The Northeast now has the highest cost of living of any region in the nation, due in part to its heavy dependence on foreign oil, the government reports.

The U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics said this week it costs a family of four with an "intermediate" income between $22,117 and $17,982 to make ends meet in the nine-state area, which includes New England, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

The North Central states ranked second in the cost-of-living derby, followed by the West and South.

New York, Washington, Milwaukee, Buffalo, N.Y., San Francisco, Philadelphia, Hartford, Conn., Minneapolis, and Portland, Maine, rounded out the top 10.

"The most dominant statistic, both nationally and regionally, was the steadily increasing price levels caused partially by the rising cost of petroleum," said the report.

The figures were for the fall of 1978, the most recent available, the bureau said.

The hypothetical "intermediate" family budget in the Northeast ranged from $22,117 in Boston to $17,982 in Lancaster, Pa. New York was $21,587, Buffalo $19,517, Philadelphia $19,416, Hartford $19,392 and Portland $19,186.

In the North Central states, the index went from $20,025 in Milwaukee to $17,430 in Dayton, Ohio. Minneapolis was $19,389.

The South ranged from a high of $20,105 in the Washington, D.C., area to a low of $16,211 in Austin.

U.S. Embassy Flanked By 'Corridor Of Hate'

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Take a walk along Tehran's "corridor of hate" and find out how venomous the anti-American campaign has become.

Elsewhere in this pseudo-modern metropolis people smile and weep and go about the daily routine of life. But outside the U.S. Embassy the hate-filled faces staring moodily through the steel-grilled gates into the courtyard beyond reveal another aspect of the Iranian national character.

"Americans are bad," an old woman muttered in response to a reporter's question, a black chador pulled across her face.

American television crews routinely staking out the gate didn't bother shooting the scene. A voice roared over a loudspeaker: "Hey, you TV people, this is for you." The crowd switched its epithets from English to Farsi when the cameramen remained indifferent.

The "corridor of hate" is a quarter mile of Teleghani Street, festooned with banners that hang like yellowing washing from the trees outside the embassy's southern wall and the tall buildings across the street.

New banners are added each day.

"The American tradition is murder may it be in Vietnam, Jaleh Tehran or in Mecca," said one in English, referring to a massacre of demonstrators by the shah's men in Tehran in 1978 and the recent attack on the Grand Mosque in Mecca.

"America cannot frighten a nation who has chosen martyrdom from death," another read.

The forest of banners is supplemented by displays of gory pictures attributing to "American imperialism" and the CIA much of the carnage of recent years, including the Vietnam War, the Lebanese civil war, the rebellion in Nicaragua and the attempts of the shah's forces to suppress the Iranian revolution.

Visiting Americans, who generally are treated politely elsewhere in the Iranian capital, are greeted by raised fists and burning effigies of President Carter.

Crowds large and small march by with banners flying each hour of daylight and into the early evening. Usually the shouted messages are the same: "Down with Carter" and "Yankees go home." The voices rise to a screeching pitch as they pass the main gate, possibly to be sure of reaching the ears of the Americans held captive somewhere inside.

Some of the demonstrators are perennials.

"We're making a star of that bow-legged lad with the whining voice," said one TV cameraman.

An apoplectic-looking old man made one evening news show in the United States three nights in a row.

The embassy compound itself is an intimidating place. Built over a whole city block with high, thick brick walls to keep people out, it is the perfect place to keep captives in. Its steel entrances and institutional-looking architecture give it the air of a prison. The impression is heightened by the surliness of the militant students on guard who suspiciously check the credentials of American reporters.

Prowling the streets outside are the all-pervasive revolutionary youths with their camouflage trousers, military jackets and shining weapons.

American reporters agree that while there is some orchestration of the crowds, there is also a deeply rooted sense of anger and barely veiled threat.

Iranian Crisis At A Glance

By The Associated Press

American hostages were spending New Year's Eve in the U.S. Embassy in Tehran on the 58th day of their captivity with no sign of an agreement for their release in sight.

U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldhem was en route to Iran to try to work out an agreement, but his intervention was not well received. Here are the highlights.

U.N. RESPONSE

Waldheim was flying to Tehran to try to ease the crisis, which began Nov. 4. But the militant students holding the hostages rejected his intervention, saying the hostages would not be released until the deposed shah is returned for trial.

Iran's Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh rejected negotiations with Waldheim.

The Security Council was preparing to adopt a resolution asking Waldheim to "intensify his efforts" to secure the release of the hostages. Meanwhile, the United States delayed a demand for the council to vote limited economic sanctions against Iran and gave Waldheim 11 more days to try to get the captives freed.

IN WASHINGTON

National Security Adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski warned Iran to take note of the Soviet Union's decision to send troops into neighboring Afghanistan to support a coup and beef up government efforts to put down Moslem rebels.

"I should think that every sober-headed Iranian — even the most anti-American ones — ought to ask themselves what do the events in Kabul portend for Tehran. There have been Soviet troops in Tehran before. Tehran could be next," he said.

MAN OF THE YEAR

Time magazine's "Man of the Year" designation for 1979 went to Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, a man who the magazine said "towered malignly over the globe."

"As the leader of Iran's revolution he gave the 20th century world a frightening lesson in the shattering power of irrationality, of the ease with which terrorism can be adopted as government policy," said the magazine in announcing its selection of the person who did the most to "change the news, for better or for worse" in 1979.

Time Magazine's 'Man Of Year' Awarded To Ayatollah Khomeini

NEW YORK (AP) — Time magazine's first "Man of the Year" was aviator Charles Lindbergh, who inspired America. This year, the designation went to a man who "towered malignly over the globe" — the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

"As the leader of Iran's revolution he gave the 20th century world a frightening lesson in the shattering power of irrationality, of the ease with which terrorism can be adopted as government policy," said the magazine in announcing its selection of the person who did the most to "change the news, for better or for worse" in 1979.

In the Jan. 7 issue, with a portrait of the Moslem mystic on the cover, Time editors said they had little trouble making the choice, noting that "selection has never necessarily connoted either the magazine's, or the world's, approval of the subject."

Others honored with the "Man of the Year" designation since the review began in 1927 have included Adolf Hitler, Josef Stalin, Franklin Roosevelt and Wallis Warfield Simpson.

"The way things go, most years we pick a good guy, but this year we selected a bad guy," said a Time spokesman who asked not to be identified.

Time said others "who stood in the spotlight" in 1979 included Pope John Paul II, British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, Federal Reserve Board Chairman Paul Volcker and a Cambodian child who was part of one of history's greatest mass flights.

The editors noted Khomeini's impact was greater than the crisis at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran, where militants are holding Americans hostage to press demands for the return of the deposed shah.

"The revolution that he led to triumph threatens to upset the world balance of power more than any other political event since Hitler's conquest of Europe," said Time. "The danger exists that the Iranian revolution could become a model for future uprisings throughout the Third World ... Already the flames of anti-Western fanaticism that Khomeini fanned in Iran threaten to spread ..."

The magazine also portrayed Khomeini as a man who has been married for 50 years, enjoys the company of his 14 grandchildren, reportedly has a weak heart and subsists on a diet of rice, bean curd and raw onions supplemented by a bit of mutton or melon.

The issue contains an interview with the Moslem leader, who from exile in Paris exhorted Iranians to overthrow their monarch.

Ayatollah Urges Support For Oppressed Nations

NEW YORK (AP) — Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, in an advertisement subtitled "Christmas Message to the Christian World," urged Americans to ring church bells in support of oppressed nations, not in support of hostages held in Iran.

"(President) Carter, vanguard of the world's oppressors, called for the bells to be rung throughout the United Sates in support of his agents against the deprived Iranian nation," the Moslem revolutionary leader said in the advertisement in Sunday's New York Times.

"How good and appropriate that you ring the bells according to the order of God and the teachings of Jesus Christ in support of the oppressed nations crushed under the boots of Carter's soldiers," said the ad, referred to the hostages held since Nov. 4 in the U.S. Embassy in Tehran as "spies."

Cecil's Draperies Commencing New Year With Three-Day Sale

Cecil's Draperies, at 2845 34th St., ushers in the new year with as big three-day sale of Del Mar woven woods and blinds this Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Closed New Years Day, Cecil's will be open Wednesday to commence this sale in which the Del Mar woven woods will be marked at a full one-third off.

"In extending greetings for the new year and expressing appreciation of your trade in the year now ending, we're glad that we can add emphasis to our appreciation and good wishes by conducting this sale," is the word from owners-operators Harve and Cecil Gardner who in 1980 are marking their 30th anniversary of service as Cecil's Draperies.

It is pointed out that the Del Mar woven woods, on sale for the three days, are as practical as they are beautiful. They elegantly improve one's window insulation by 35 per cent in winter over windows with no drapery control. There are hundreds of handsome styles and patterns from which to choose.

Actually, Cecil's is a tremendous "find" and friend at all times of the year. There presently is much that is new, even in a selection that year-in and year-out has been outstanding.

Great Selection

Lots of new bedspreads are in stock in one of the best selections of these yet offered by Cecil's.

There are exciting new fabrics for drapes and spreads (to match). Possibly one has not realized that fabric materials are sold at Cecil's, as well as the custom drapes, etc.

Accessories

Or select from Kirsch rods and accessories that need no introduction.

For upholstery fabrics, or for custom upholstering, Cecil's can end a frustrating search.

Custom quilting is another service one might not realize is provided at Cecil's Draperies.

Wallpaper to match the drape materials is available, together with an exciting array of decorative trims, embroidered sheers and even spreads.

Repeat orders during Cecil's three decades of business attest to the satisfaction experienced as to product and service.

Cecil and Harve head a staff of more than 20 who provide such services, remember, as:

(1) Interior decorating by experts;
(2) Quilting;
(3) Bedspreads (custom-made and ready-made);
(4) Cornice boards;
(5) Upholstering by masters in the trade;
(6) Draw drapes, etc.

"Don't forget the sale, and don't forget that Cecil's Draperies sells any of its products 'over the counter' or provides custom work to the extent desired."

"Happy New Year!"

Robert Spence School Accepting Late Registration For Impending Schedule

Registration deadline is Jan. 11 for the variety of classes available for the season beginning Jan. 14 at this outstanding school in the Terrace Center, 4902 34th St., Suite 15, phone 797-8134.

Classes will include personal development, exercising, business etiquette and professional modeling. In addition, the Little Princess, the Young Miss and the Classic Woman brief courses will be offered. Enrollment is limited since no more than eight students are assigned to a class so that instructors can devote individual attention to each student.

"Feeling good about yourself, knowing that you are poised and self-confident and that you are socially effective" is what the courses at the Robert Spence School are all about.

"We recognize that such a process is a very individual one and that you are seeking to develop a sense of style that is comfortable, natural and effective — a sense of style that will let you be your most successful self."

New Course

A new course, designed for professional women, will be offered beginning in January. The four-lesson course concentrates on posture, poise, make-up, hairstyles, wardrobe and business etiquette for the woman in business. This course is excellent for the personnel of large or small businesses, banks or professional organizations. Class times are flexible to meet the schedules of the various groups.

The Little Princess and the Young Miss are six-week courses designed for girls who are age five to nine and 10 to 14, and cover posture, social etiquette, grooming and personality.

The Classic Woman course is a six-week course designed for the woman who is interested in updating her wardrobe, perfecting her make-up and developing poise so that she will be confident in all situations she may encounter. This course is especially successful for clubs and area groups.

The Robert Spence School now has licensed aestheticians who can assist individuals on make-up application. Facials and mini-facials are available by appointment.

The personal development course, a 26-week course, is designed to help the student look and sound her best. By concentrating on the fundamental elements of movement, skin care and make-up application, hair styling, figure correction, speaking, wardrobe coordination and personality development, the personal development course helps students achieve poise and self-confidence.

For Professional Modeling

Beyond these self-improvement courses, Robert Spence offers an 18-week course of instruction in professional modeling. Such training can open career vistas to many women. The school functions as an agency and has placed many women in modeling jobs in the Lubbock area as well as in Dallas and New York City.

As a modeling agency, Robert Spence makes available its professionally trained models and instructors for occasions such as conventions, grand openings, fashion shows, commericals and photography.

Long Record

The Robert Spence School is owned and directed by Brenda Becknell and is fully certified by the Texas Education Agency. In January, the school will begin its eighteenth year of operation in Lubbock.

All instructors are members of the World Modeling Association and the Modeling Association of America, and they are graduates of the Robert Spence School.

New Container Dumper Among Fabit Benefits, Innovations

Fabit Corporation, 1408 N. Quirt Ave. in Lubbock, extends heartiest of New Year greetings.

"As 1979 draws to a close, we want to take this opportunity to express appreciation of your trade. Not only do we appreciate your giving us the opportunity to serve you, but we also realize that your interests also are our best interests. We are determined to give you the service you pay for, and we are dedicated to the policy of providing courteous and efficient service at prices as low as we can charge and still meet our obligations.

"We take pride in your loyalty and we want you to know that we appreciate each of you."

This is the sincere message from Clyde A. Blakely, president of Fabit, and from Ted Ratcliff, manager of the firm's Refuse Services Division, each expressing wishes for a happy and prosperous new year for all.

The Refuse Division is excited, and justifiably so, about its new Container Dumper utilized in its refuse operations that presently involves four trucks (all side-loading) and two routes in and around Lubbock. The Container Dumper is manufactured right here in Lubbock by the highly capable Fabit Corp., being used commercially in the firm's own business.

One must see this unit in operation to appreciate fully its utility and the engineering that has made it so simple and efficient . . . by Fabit.

Division Serves Well

Fabit solicits customers in its several departments, with special attention at this time directed to the Refuse Service Division.

"Fabit can work for you, too!"

Already established and known for its versalitity in custom fabrication, manufacturing of complete machines or parts, the most recent expansion as announced by Clyde A. Blakeley, president, has proven of special benefit to commercial and industrial accounts in Lubbock and neighboring communities.

The Refuse Services Division is geared to manufacture, sell, lease, service and trade refuse containers.

Advantages Cited

The service is unique in that it uses new automatic side-loading container dumping equipment. Company officials state that the new equipment is better suited for use in narrow alleys or curbside container installation and that it does not spill as much trash as front-loading container systems.

Refuse Services Division is headquartered at the Fabit Corp. location at 1408 N. Quirt Ave. in Lubbock.

The division is managed by Ted Ratcliff IV who is a 1971 graduate of Texas Tech University with a B.S. degree in Industrial Engineering.

CONTAINER-DUMPER ELIMINATES PROBLEMS

Other Services

"Are you acquainted with the many unique services of the Lubbock-owned Fabit firm at North Quirt and Loop 289?

Fabit Corp. since its establishment in mid-1968 has filled a distinct need in the area, and such has been its wide acceptance and growth that new production equipment and latest methods are continually added, to make an already-efficient facility even more serviceable.

Precision Fabrication

"For custom manufacturing of complete machines or parts in small quantities or in large production runs, one may turn with confidence to Fabit, a firm that likely can serve you in your own industrial, agriculture or municipality needs."

Its services even include engineering and development of prototypes or production models, metal shearing, bending, hold punching, rolling welding, shape cutting, grinding, painting, assembly and wiring, plus a complete metal fabrication service.

Rails, Stairs

One of the popular phases of its production involves guard rails and stairways for area industry.

Whatever the order, Fabit likes to prove that it is foremost in things that count: experienced management, quality control, good machinery, prompt service, complete manufacturing ability and reasonable prices.

These qualities have made the firm indispensable to many other manufacturers, for ranchers, farmers, industrialists and for city units.

Parts, Service

Fabit stocks parts and provides service for all its products.

Adherance to close tolerances is standard procedure. With experienced management and the best machinery available, Fabit has the capability of precision fabrication work. Accurate, precise work is the rule, and the result is better quality products that look better and work better. This highest quality costs no more.

"In order to do this best possible job and to maintain a high volume of production, Fabit Corp. is equipped with the best shear and press brake available.

A five-ton bridge crane serves the entire production area and helps speed the work and keep material handling costs down.

"Let Fabit prove its ability! Your work can be done with us for a quoted contract price or on an hourly basis. We will appreciate your fabrication orders, large or small, and will give them our prompt and careful attention."

Billie Jo's School Of Dance Invites Enrollment In January

It's a child's world, and the pitter-patter of dancing feet is the sound around Billie Jo's School of Dance at this time of year . . . as everyone is preparing for the new spring enrollment period that starts now, continuing through the month of January.

Five teachers, all specialized in their field, already are preparing the annual recital held at Lubbock Municipal Auditorium.

There are costumes to be made, scenery to be designed, and the details of choreographing and staging the recital to be worked out. Each teacher is specialized and knows his or her job to perfection.

Skilled Staff

At Billie Jo's, Sherry Hornack heads up the Ballet Department. Ballet gives a child the feeling of self, the personality. Ballet is fantasy, and the world of fantasy (a very real world for children) should be encouraged.

Sherry has been teaching at Billie Jo's for four years; she has her Bachelors degree of Arts in Dance from Texas Tech.

Sherry Allen heads the Jazz and Twirling Departments at Billie Jo's. Jazz is sweeping the country today. All children love to do jazz; it gives them an opportunity for self expression and it teaches them to project their personalities into all other phases of dance. Sherry is a former member of the Apache Belles, an organization that featured Sherry for many Dallas Cowboy games. She is a member of Dance Masters of America. She also teaches Baton, and her students hold many titles due to her excellent training.

Marilyn Campbell is fantastic with the acrobats and tumblers at Billie Jo's. Every little boy and girl has a great desire to become a gymnast. Strength and muscle control are developed through this training. Marilyn also teaches Ballet, Jazz, Balance Beam, Women's Exercise Classes and Pageant Modeling. She is a member of Dance Masters of America and is a favorite with all the students at Billie Jo's. She takes many of her students to perform at various organizations. This will be her third year on the staff.

Versatile Studio

Billie Jo teaches the Tap at this versatile dance studio. Tap is rhythm, the quickest and surest way of developing coordination. Children so trained are outstanding at sports in school and at social activities. Tap is enjoyable, good for children full of nervous energy, and it creates self discipline. Billie Jo has been teaching in Lubbock for 21 years and is loved by her students. This year she has a very pretty and talented assistant, Tammy Gann, to help with her fast-rising success. Tammy has won many state and national honors with her tap dancing, and "we are proud to have her at Billie Jo's."

New Classes

Something new at the school this spring are the Women's Exercise classes. These will be taught by Marilyn Campbell and Tammy Gann. Marilyn and Tammy plan to help one keep in shape through basic exercise and dance done to disco music.

Billie Jo's offers special pre-school classes for "tots," starting at age of three. All teachers are specialized in the subjects they teach.

Remember, the subjects taught at Billie Jo's School of Dance, 4228 Boston, phone 795-0108, are Ballet, Tap, Jazz, Baton, Tumbling, Balance Beam, Pageant Modeling and Women's Exercise. For full information call 795-0108 or visit the studio. Classes start Jan. 2 and enrollment will continue throughout January.

'TUFTWICK, WHERE QUALITY-PRICE ADVANTAGES ARE TRADITIONAL'

Tuftwick Sets 'Rock-Bottom' Prices For January Clearance

"The very best for you in 1980" — this is the wish from Tuftwick Carpet's staff at Brownfield Highway and Slide Road.

Hal, Arvel, Nancy and Beth each extend warmest greetings, at the same time expressing appreciation of blessings and considerations of the days and seasons past.

Transition from the old year to the new has been made most interesting — for the pocketbook and for the home decor — by Tuftwick's announcement of Year-End Clearance Sale prices to make way for new arrivals.

The big January sale starts Wednesday, Jan. 2; come early for best selection.

Whatever the selection in the very large stock, including full rolls, short rolls and remnants, one can save by purchasing from Tuftwick during this meaningful sale.

"Tuftwick takes pride in selling at $3 to $5 per yard under suggested retail, no matter the selection, no matter if just arrived in stock!"

Treated For Static

One must surely see the new rolls arriving, from such famous mills as Lees, Milliken, Philadelphia and Horizon. Seldom has there been such a variety of fabrics and colors and patterns. All the new fabrics received by Tuftwick are treated for static and soiling, with either Scotchgard or Teflon.

A really great selection of Antron (the best Dupont nylon) is noted.

Remember, the new carpet arrivals are being introduced at sale prices! So don't delay in selection, comparison and purchase.

With the quality of workmanship, with fine materials and beautiful new patterns, more for the money in carpet is provided than ever before, the folks at Tuftwick welcome opportunity to explain and prove.

Also, of prime interest at this time, is recognition that carpet is a great energy saver, a definite instrument in insulation. (And energy savings mean dollar savings.)

Furthermore, at Tuftwick, expert installation is assured.

All labor is guaranteed.

"Longtime recognition of Tuftwick Carpet, Inc. as a headquarters for attractive pricing, utmost in value, and always a wide selection is a matter of general knowledge.

"But in appreciating Tuftwick for its inflation-fighting prices, have you realized that this big firm at Slide Road and Brownfield Highway in Lubbock includes the most elegant wool carpets, even custom made for your own situation, along with its wide choices in other materials and grades?"

Finest 100 per cent wool carpet from Philadelphia Carpets, even in custom colors, is available at Tuftwick . . . so "let us custom make your carpet" is no idle claim there.

"Seriously, if you can't find the color you need, as example, consider custom carpet manufactured especially for you.

"Imagine . . . the exact color or any imaginable color, from the softest, most delicate color of your favorite rose to the deep rich auburn shade of your Irish setter! The exact style, weight and texture . . . even the exact shape, seamless and to 2 ft. width and 60 ft. length, can be yours!

Easy terms are available, with no money down, and up to 36 months to pay!

Jan's Casual Cottage Marking In-Season Items At Sale Price

"For an exciting, economical, fashionable entry into 1980, selection during the Year End Clearance Sale just underway at Jan's Casual Cottage, 3402 34th St. (in Indiana Gardens) is heartily recommended."

Closed New Year's Day only, Jan's will re-open Wednesday, and values are exceptional throughout this store known year around for value and selection.

Drastic Price Slash

Included are pants, sweaters, blouses, coordinates, skirts, etc.

Bonanza For Small Sizes

And there is a fantastic selection for the small sizes: 0, 1, 2 and 3, up to 13.

New spring arrivals are making news at Jan's, also; and during the sale a dual opportunity is enabled . . . that of purchasing current-season items at sale prices and at the same time viewing and selecting from the very newest fashions for the fast-approaching spring season.

"Recognized" and "trusted" brand names are the rule at Jan's Casual Cottage, with such famous labels as Branch, Garland, Stuffed Shirt, Jody, Act I and others.

(And surely you have discovered Jan's present location, occupied for several months, with expanded stock and greater shopping convenience, together with enlarged stock. Jan's opened three years ago in smaller quarters just to the west of its present address.)

Ernie and Jan Holleman, owners-operators of the popular shop, saw a demand for a complete selection of 0-13 sizes, and they have stocked accordingly, with an appreciative public taking note.

"Isn't it great to have such a selection in sizes, fashion and quality . . . and with the present sale affording really 'newsmaking' entry into the new year?"

"Jan's Casual Cottage, at 3402 34th St., is a relaxing and casual place in which to shop and select; won't you discover this for yourself during our sale?"

"Happy New Year to all!"

'MORE THAN A PAINT STORE ALONE'

Felix West, Ever Expanding, Expresses New Year Greeting

"New Year's Greetings" from Felix West!

Felix West Paints cherishes the friendships of the year now ending, and of the years before, pledging to serve in every manner possible again in 1980.

"May the months ahead hold the very best for you and yours" is the sincere message from Felix West.

"Much more than a paint store alone," Felix West Paints, on Clovis Road east of University Avenue, stocks fully to justify the invitation:

"Get it all at Felix West."

This should be even more meaningful in the new year, with the firm actually expanding in size and merchandise, rearranging in other areas, at the current time, in keeping with its attention to customer needs. (A big parking area was paved this year adjacent to the building, and this convenience has met with enthusiastic customer response.

Not only is the stock complete at Felix West Paints, but the firm holds the price line for customer benefit.

And most often there are some real bargains in discontinued items, remnants, etc., making it advantageous to check the store frequently for special opportunities.

Open Saturdays

Another item of customer consideration is the long hours observed every weekday. Felix West Paints is open from 7:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m., Mondays through Saturdays; yes, Felix West is open all day Saturdays.

Thousands of general hardware items and scads of other products contribute to the "difference that is Felix West Paints."

Colony paints, Armstrong and Congoleum . . . these are among the names that spell true quality and availability for the demands of every season; always at Felix West.

Felix West has a pipe threader as an added service, enabling cutting and threading in every pipe also is provided.

Located just one block east of University on the Clovis Highway (2319 Clovis Road), Felix West not only is one of the easiest stores to find (look for the distinctive signs), but it provides all the popular and even hard-to-find hardware items that make a trip there worthwhile.

Whether one selects from the Colony paint stock or chooses from the wide inventory of hand and power tools, pipe fittings, shop items, inexpensive gas or electric bathroom heaters, etc., the price and quality is unmistakably the best — a tradition well practiced and protected at Felix West Paints in its one big Lubbock location.

Felix West is no newcomer to Lubbock or to the hardware and paint trade, and he is unusually adept at stocking the right items for South Plains clientele.

Don Crow Chevrolet Pledges Continued Fine Service In '80

"Happy New Year!"

This is the word from Don Crow Chevrolet, Inc., Slide Road at South Loop 289, where ownership, management and staff take pride in the ultimate in customer service and "square dealing."

Jess Nichols, service manager, joins with the entire Don Crow organization in extending warmest of New Year and holiday greetings, expressing appreciation of past considerations and looking forward to a new year in which Don Crow service again can be most meaningful.

Furthermore, this special low price includes installation, intake gasket set and labor, for Chevrolet passenger cars and light duty pickups. Cost for heavy duty trucks is slightly more.

From the service manager to the service advisors and technicians (including five master technicians) at Don Crow Chevrolet, Inc., all take pride in the ultimate in customer service at a price that can be lived with.

"And don't forget Don Crow Chevrolet's invitation to compare costs; we are glad to show you the posted hourly rates and allotted Chevrolet factory time for any job, eliminating any confusion. We are aboveboard in all dealings."

Don Crow believes that it pays you to know all the facts; it pays to know and trust Don Crow Chevrolet!

"When you consider our honesty in dealing, the dedication of a professional staff with true know-how, our reputation for saving for you in dollars and cents, then why consider anything less than Don Crow Chevrolet for your every auto repair need?

All service work is guaranteed 90 days or 4,000 miles on all General Motors parts and accessories.

More than a dozen technicians and three service advisors are on the job.

Stork Shop Extending Greetings For New Year

"Sincere New Year Greetings from The Stork Shop!"

"We are most mindful of the many benefits and blessings that have been ours in the year ending, and we want to thank each of you who have contributed in any manner to the fellowships, trade and confidence that we have enjoyed. May the best that the new year can hold be yours."

"More than ever, for anything in maternity wear, one can turn to Lubbock's only exclusive maternity wear shop, The Stork Shop, 3416 34th St., in Indiana Gardens, is the pledge we shall continue in 1980."

Brand names, as well as finest selection, continue important at The Stork Shop where quality is assured without exorbitant price.

Added Lines

The Paulette line of dresses was added this year to the many other well-known labels in our store, including Phil Jacobs, Marian Sue, Charles Lewis and Maternity Circuit.

Some still may not realize that The Stork Shop carries a complete line of Mary Jane lingerie, including panties, bras, slips, hose, girdles, gowns, robes and pantyhose.

Bargain Rack

And at this time a special sale rack of in-season merchandise affords added savings, with this display having such items as turtlenecks, sweaters, blouses, pants, dresses, pant suits and jeans, all in a good size selection.

Use of Visa and Master Charge is welcomed.

Store hours are 10 a.m. until 6 p.m., six days weekly.

Under ownership and active management, since early '78, of longtime Lubbock resident Mrs. Doyle (Ida) Langford, The Stock Shop actually dates is record of service from much earlier.

Since its establishment, it has been in the same Indiana Gardens location.

Everything at the fully-stocked and attractively arranged Stork Shop says, "welcome; we're glad to count you among our friends, and we wish you the very best the new year can promise."

UNIVERSITY MANOR NURSING HOME EMPHASIZES QUALITY CARE

'Best Without Exorbitant Cost' Said True At University Manor

"Again for 1980 you have the promise:

"It costs no more to have the best."

This is the word from University Manor, state licensed Medicaid Type 3 home with the purpose of furnishing aging and chronically ill senior citizens a safe, wholesome and comfortable place in which to live with a homelike atmosphere in quiet surroundings.

Janell Alexander, lifelong Lubbock resident, is administrator.

Appreciative Staff

Mrs. Alexander and the entire staff take this occasion to extend heartiest greetings for the new year, at the same time voicing appreciation of the many blessings of 1979.

Ann Green, LVN, also a longtime Lubbock resident, is director of nursing for the 95-bed facility; Gail Hanson is director of activities; and Grace Hardison is Food Service director.

Physical facilities at University Manor, together with the dedicated, qualified leadership and staff, make for residence there a very pleasant experience, more than a few "who know" will attest.

Men and women, including married couples, may enter the home without age restrictions.

By Doctors' Referral

All residents must have doctors' referral; and local physicians are encouraged to use University Manor for their patients who need nursing care.

Activities are a major factor in the life of each individual, with University Manor offering a variety of programs and opportunities.

University Manor personnel devote as much time as possible to each resident/patient, trying to learn the dislikes or preferences of each in order to give the best service possible, maintaining an active and happy atmosphere.

Churches and civic groups also devote much time to residents at University Manor, and the staff encourages such interest and worship.

The planned activities are very much a part of the University Manor program, including games, entertainment and numerous craft pursuits. Parties are arranged at frequent intervals.

Truly, every phase of operation at University Manor points to the fact that "it costs no more to enjoy the best".

Visits, calls or letter inquiries are invited for full information.

National Fire Extinguisher Owners Extend Greetings, Relate Services

"A happy and a safe new year . . . all year long . . . is the wish from Mr. and Mrs. Furd Taylor and staffmembers at the National Fire Extinguisher Co., Inc., 3407 Ave. A, phone 765-6532."

It is no idle claim that again in 1980, National Fire Extinguisher Co. can fill all your fire extinguisher needs, thanks to a good staff, a good line of products, service to please, and a genuine desire to serve best.

A master warehouse and distributor of quality portable fire extinguishers, the firm is owned and actively managed by the husband-wife team of Furd and Betty Taylor, assisted by an experienced, well-trained and customer-oriented staff including licensed and experienced service men.

In operation since back in 1963, the firm this year came under ownership of the Taylors. Furd Taylor is a Texas Tech graduate of '59 and is certified as a safety professional (earned by examination) by the Insurance Board of Texas. Mrs. Taylor, the former Betty Meyers, is a lifelong resident of Lubbock and is a graduate of Cooper High School.

Two lines dominate the stock of the firm . . . the General fire extinguishers (since 1903) and the Badger-Powhatan lines, both for home and business.

All extinguishers sold by National Fire Extinguisher are best quality, all fully rechargeable, and being all-metal products, they last a lifetime.

Sales and service, retail and wholesale, are provided.

A really good stock of fire extinguishers is kept in stock; the shop is fully equipped; and the firm does all its own work, never sending extinguishers elsewhere for repairs.

"See why we say that National Fire Extinguisher can fill all your fire extinguisher needs!"

Whether selection is from a General (think of fire before it starts) unit, or one from Badger-Powhatan (the protection people), assurance of a quality, long-lasting unit is the picture.

General is the only manufacturer in North America with a complete line of portable fire extinguishers, and has long been recognized as a leader, the knowledgeable management at the National Fire Extinguisher firm emphasizes. General manufactures all it vital component parts: valves, shells, hose assemblies, powder and many other parts. This integration assures the buyer of a quality product manufactured under strict control.

"For the best in portable fire protection equipment, depend upon the homeowned National Fire Extinguisher Co., Inc., 3407 Ave. A, phone 765-6532, in Lubbock."

Pelican, For Finest In Dining, Tells New Year Eve Special

"Why settle for less than a New Year's Eve dinner today at The Pelican, Lubbock's fine restaurant that brings unsurpassed fresh seafood and prime rib steaks at prices one can appreciate?"

A "New Year's Eve Special for Two" has been arranged for $11.95 per person, including an 8 oz. prime rib for each, soup, salad, bread, two complimentary drinks and a split of champagne, enabling one to eat the best and to celebrate with the fun folk at The Pelican, 7202 Indiana, phone 793-2507.

Opening at 5 p.m. today, service will be on a first come, first served basis.

Greetings Voiced

"A happy holiday . . . and thereafter . . . is the greeting from the Pelican ownership and staff, all deeply appreciative of the trade that has marked the Pelican's service in Lubbock, with a pledge of finest food and service throughout the new year.

(Regular Pelican hours are 5 p.m. until 10:30 p.m., Sundays through Thursdays; and 5 p.m. until 11 p.m., Fridays and Saturdays.)

Always Fresh Seafood

The Pelican probably is best known for its outstanding seafood, including oysters on the half shell, swordfish, lobsters, etc., with the seafood flown in fresh weekly.

"The best prime ribs in town" is another claim of the restaurant, welcoming the opportunity of proving this assertion.

And equally good news is that the prices are not prohibitive; far from it. In fact, the median meal price is calculated at $7.95 per person.

Reservations Welcomed

Seating is provided for 120, with reservations invited.

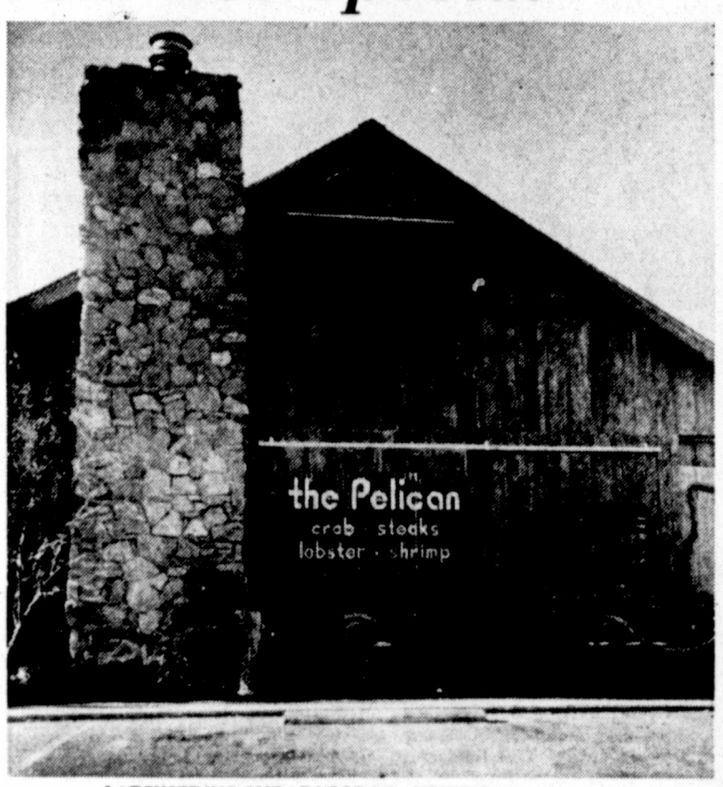

Private meetings can be served any weeknight.

A beautiful lounge is provided, with the 155-gallon aquarium with salt water fish really a showpiece in itself in the lounge area.

Throughout The Pelican, decor is inviting and the meals and service are exquisite. A very casual atmosphere prevails, with casual dress "always right."

Dean Williams, owner and manager, personally extends his New Year greetings and emphasizes his appreciation of trade at The Pelican opened here about three years ago.

"May we at The Pelican serve you again in the new year? We believe you'll like everything about this dintinctive eating place just off Loop 289 at 7202 Indiana in Lubbock."

Insulating Windows Advantages Include New World of Savings

"Put your windows to work conserving energy!"

This is not a trite suggestion, but rather a very practical procedure.

Aluminum replacement windows, storm windows and storm doors can be a great factor in energy conservation, in comfort, in economy and in the over-all beauty of the home.

And these windows and doors can be custom made for you, right here in Lubbock at Insulating Windows, Inc., now in its new home at 327 E. 74th St. (formerly serving at 1616 Ave. F).

Come by the big new facility or call Insulating Windows at 745-5768 for full details about how this experienced firm can work for you.

(Insulation-related installations can qualify for income tax credit, too, it is reminded by the manufacturing firm.)

For All-Year Comfort

Insulating Windows, Inc. can open a whole new world in one's enjoyment of the home every day of the year, winter and summer, with the finest in storm windows and doors, with insulating windows enhancing the beauty, comfort and hospitality of the home . . .

For Cost Reductions

Properly designed, properly located and properly used windows actually can reduce heating and air conditioning costs, research has proven. In winter, now with us, a window can capture the sun's warmth while providing a barrier to heating system losses.

Energy Conservation

"Proper windows would seem to be a very, very rational approach to energy conservation . . . and with the help of the experienced staff at Insulating Windows., Inc., the job is simplified . . . with you, the customer, benefitting now and for seasons to come."

Don't delay; call (806) 745-5768 or come by and visit the new home of Insulating Windows, Inc., 327 E. 74th St. (just south of Loop 289).

Wheel & Tire Center, On 50th, Distinctive In Service, Values

"Since our opening in Lubbock at mid-year, reception and growth has been most gratifying, and we at Wheel & Tire Center, 1506 50th St., recognize and appreciate the fact that the confidence and trade that you, our customers, have given us has made this growth possible. Thanks very much, and we extend best of New Year Greetings to all.

"In these recent months a lot of you have discovered the bright yellow building at 1506 50th St., home of Wheel & Tire Center, and if you have visited us you have found selection, quality and price in tires to your exceptional benefit. Wheel & Tire Center would offer nothing less, also pledging the same value and personal interest again in 1980."

Wheel & Tire Center in Lubbock is a second facility of the Amarillo firm of the same name, operating and serving in that region for several years.

Ray Jackson is manager of the Lubbock operation.

Michelin, Goodrich

Stocked is everything in auto and truck tires by Michelin and B.F. Goodrich, including the performance T/A Radial by Goodrich.

Also there are mag wheels by Western, Cragar, American Racing and Keystone.

As added inducement, Jackson and salesman-assistant manager Dwaine Thomas join in emphasizing that "prices on every Michelin in stock are slashed 25 per cent."

Wheel & Tire Center mounts and balances, at no charge, all tires sold there.

Master Charge and Visa purchases are welcomed, and financing is made available through Dial Finance.

Wheel & Tire Center is open from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m., Mondays through Saturdays.

"May we have the early pleasure of meeting your tire needs, completely and economically? We believe we can aid in your new year plans and enjoyment; just check with us at the bright yellow building, 1506 50th St., phone 763-2333, in Lubbock."

Carpet City Relates Specific Prices In January Sale Beginning Wednesday

"Carpet City," at 2257 34th St., commences its big storewide January Clearance Sale on Wednesday, Jan. 2.

This means that everything in stock is marked down to a drastic extent, owner Howard Darwin emphasizes.

Examples of the sale values include:

Heavy first-quality carpet, teflon and static guard, earth tones, at just $6.99 per yard. (This is of Dupont "Touchable Yarn," said to be one of Dupont's finest. You'll like this soft denier continuous filament nylon.)

And first quality kitchen prints at $3.50 per yard!

Sculptured cut and loop, at $3.99 per yard (both the jute back and rubber back).

(All prices are for carpet only.)

"Isn't this sale a most practical way to say 'thank you' for the business in the old year, greeting the '80's with expectation of serving even better?"

Carpet City, a discount store featuring special purchases (factory irregulars and discontinued quantities) was opened June 1 by Howard Darwin, owner, who went into the carpet business after '77 graduation from Texas Tech. Formerly of Brownfield, Howard knows the area and its residents, appreciating their recognition of quality and value.

Carpet City usually receives full rolls from the suppliers, but is glad to cut a roll for particular needs.

Good Choice

The firm has its own installation crew, with installations guaranteed for a full year. Installation usually can be made within a day or two of purchase.

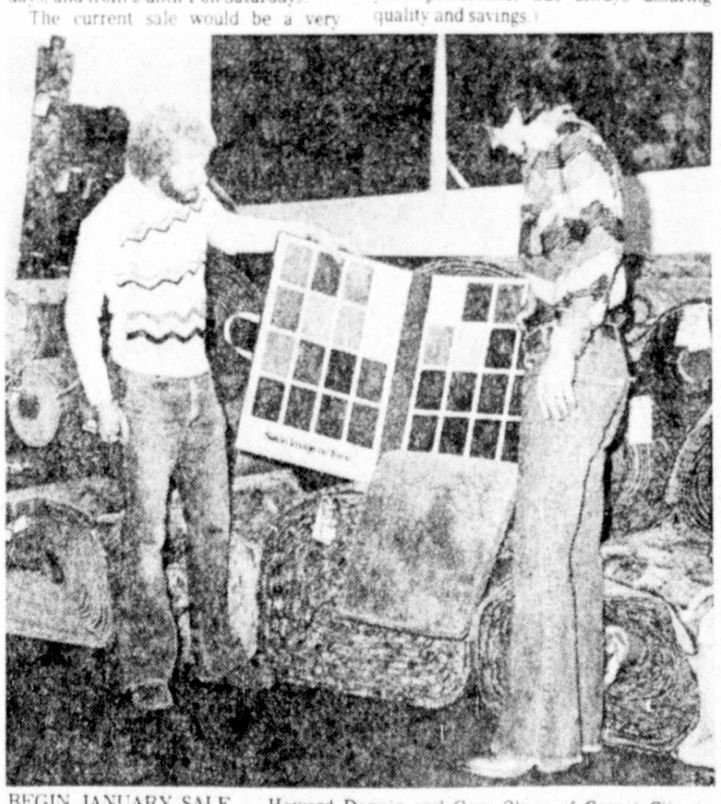

A good color and material selection is maintained, and Darwin says, in explaining prices to be expected, that customers can secure carpet there at about one-half suggested retail.

Financing is available, and both Master Charge and Visa are honored.

Carpet City, 2257 34th St., phone 747-9027, is open six days a week, from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m. Mondays through Fridays, and from 9 until 1 on Saturdays.

The current sale would be a very good time to learn firsthand of the type store Howard Darwin has provided in Carpet City.

"A special room has been arranged for sample showing of finest carpet available on custom order. Yes, Carpet City can order just about anything one could possibly desire in carpet, up to the most expensive available. Carpet City is in business to serve 'you,' whatever your preference, but always assuring quality and savings."

BEGIN JANUARY SALE — Howard Darwin and Gary Oliver of Carpet City are shown in an attractive area of the big store where January Sale prices are being posted.

MAKESHIFT RINK — Mild weather has kept outdoor skating rinks in Austin, Minn., on the slushy side. But that didn't deter Rebecca Smith's efforts. # Warmup Predicted For Area

A-J News Services

Mostly fair and slightly warmer weather will usher in the New Year on Tuesday if forecasts prove correct.

Weathermen expect the mercury to climb near 60 on New Year's Day after a high this afternoon in the lower 50s.

Lows tonight should be in the upper 20s, a slight moderation from this morning's low of 22.

Skies should be mostly fair today and Tuesday, with 10 hours sunshine predicted today and 8 hours on Tuesday.

It was nippy over the South Plains this morning, with Olton recording the area's low of 11 degrees. Silverton noted 15 and Friona, Hereford and the Muleshoe Wildlife Refuge all posted 16-degree readings.

The New Year, however, appears likely to start off dry. No precipitation is foreseen at least through Friday.

The rest of the state should share in the area's pleasant weather for the last day of 1979.

Forecasts called for mostly clear skies and comfortable temperatures. Highs were to be mostly in the 50s and 60s. Extremes were to range from the 40s in North Texas to the 70s in the Big Bend area of Southwest Texas.

Some fog was reported in the Panhandle and East Texas early today, but reports indicated it was not dense enough to cause serious problems.

Some low clouds were reported over the Lower Rio Grande Valley and in Northeast Texas, but most of the state had clear skies during the pre-dawn hours.

Early morning temperatures were mostly in the 20s and 30s. Extremes ranged from 17 at Dalhart to 51 at McAllen.

A thick fog shrouded the East and was blamed for causing a plane accident in Michigan in which three persons were killed and one critically injured. Rain and snow battered the West.

In the northern Detroit suburb of Royal Oak, Mich., under a travelers advisory for heavy fog, a single-engine plane sheered off the tops of trees, flipped over and crashed in a park Sunday night, killing three passengers and critically injuring the fourth.

Moments before the crash, the pilot desperately radioed officials at Troy Executive Airport. "I can't see anything," he said.

Police said when the plane left Pontiac, Mich., visibility was about seven miles, but when the crash occurred at around 7:30 p.m. CST, visibility had dropped to about one-quarter mile.

Fog was a problem in the rest of the northeastern quarter of the nation. Travelers advisories were in effect Sunday night across the southern half of lower Michigan and through this morning over all but the extreme southern portion of Ohio.

Patches of dense fog could also be found over the Carolinas and the Dakotas. Visibilities were well below a mile at a number of places in these areas.

A cold front continued to push inland over the western part of the nation during the early morning hours today. Rain fell along the North Pacific Coast and in northwestern California, and a few thunderstorms rumbled over the southwestern corner of Oregon.

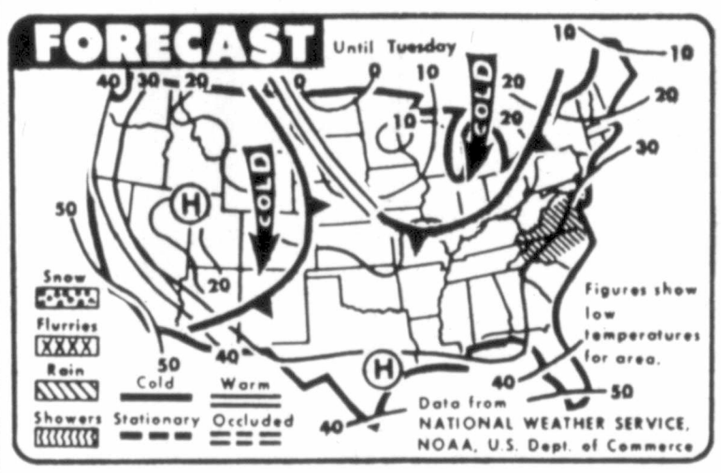

The system also produced snow in western Montana and eastern Washington, where travelers advisories were issued, and at higher elevations over the remainder of the Pacific Northwest.

At the same time scattered light snow persisted over portions of central and south central Missouri and neighboring sections of Arkansas.

Drizzle also was reported from the Missouri bootheel through much of Tennessee and in parts of central Florida and eastern North Carolina.

Skies were mostly clear across New England, the mid-Atlantic coast and all but the easternmost portions of the Great Plains.

Partly to mostly cloudy skies were the rule west of the Rockies.

WEATHER FORECAST — Seasonably cool weather is expected in the forecast period until Tuesday morning, for most of the country. Rain is forecast from North Carolina to southern Maryland. (AP Laserphoto)

BOOK AWARD

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Peter Roop of Appleton, Wis., has been awarded the Society of Children's Book Writers 1979 $500 Work-in-Progress Grant. Roop received the award for his work-in-progress, a historical novel entitled "The Last Buffalo Jump."

Driver Arrested For Possession

A faulty headlight on the car of a Lubbock man led to his arrest Sunday on charges of possession of more than four ounces of marijuana.

Police officers stopped the 26-year-old's car around 7:30 p.m. at 34th Street and Quirt Avenue when they noticed a headlight was out and the front license plate missing.

They found what reports say was a "strong odor of marijuana," what appeared to be marijuana cigarette butts and an envelope and plastic bag containing "a green, leafy substance."

Another Lubbock man, who reportedly was carrying a gun, was observed by police officers making traffic violations in the 1600-block of Avenue U around 9 p.m. Sunday.

Police said a routine check of his car yielded a pill bottle containing small pink capsules and larger black capsules, a salt shaker containing a "white substance" and a wallet containing another man's identification.

The man, who was not carrying a drivers license, was arrested. The pills and "white substance" were sent to Department of Public Safety laboratories for analysis.

A high speed chase in the 2400 block of 50th St. led to the arrest of a 27-year-old man, address unknown, who police officers clocked at 70 mph in a 50 mph zone.

A student returning from a 10-day vacation, told police Sunday his stereo valued at $1,000 was stolen sometime between Dec. 20 and Dec. 30.

Burglars apparently gained entry to Geoff A. Hager's 1621 Ave. Y residence by prying open a north kitchen window and opening the back door, according to reports.

Another student told police he was walking east on 24th Street near Avenue N at about 3 p.m. Sunday, when a car containing three men stopped and two of the men got out and assaulted him.

The student sustained bruises to his face, and was kicked in the leg and back, before running home.

An 18-year-old Lubbock man remained in county jail late Sunday in connection with the Sunday morning shooting of Nathaniel Roy, 37, of 1715 E. Auburn St.

Police were called about 12:25 a.m. to a shooting at 6203 Quetsel where they found the victim lying face up between an east wall and a pool table.

The suspect turned himself in to police at 3:09 a.m. Sunday.

Three Lubbock men, one 19 and the other two 20, were in county jail Sunday. They were arrested in connection with aggravated rape and kidnapping of a 19-year-old Lubbock woman.

The incident reportedly occurred sometime between 4:15 a.m. and 6:12 a.m. Sunday.

Police were called to a city residence where the woman told them that three men had raped her and gave police a description of the car they left in. A short time later, police stopped a car with three men in it and fitting the woman's description in the 700-block of Parkway Drive. The victim later identified the vehicle, and the suspects were taken to county jail.

The woman told police that she and a girlfriend were at a club in the 1700-block of Parkway Drive when they accepted a ride home with three men. She said the men took her friend home but refused to leave her at her house.

Reports show the woman was forced into a house in East Lubbock where the three suspects threatened to kill or beat her and then raped her. After the incident, the woman told police she was forced back into the car.

When she got into the car, one of the men demanded money from her and threatened to "burn your house with you and your baby in it" unless she gave him the cash. The victim told the men to drive her to a central city residence where she would get $50 for them. However, when the woman went into the house, she told her friends to call the police.

Karen Hawkins, assistant manager for Sambo's Restaurant, 511 University Ave., told police that two white men and a white woman caused about $232 worth of damage when they began fighting inside the restaurant about 1:25 a.m. Sunday.

Mrs. Hawkins said that one of the men threw a plate at the woman and then threw a coffee cup, breaking a glass door in the restaurant. When the three suspects tried to leave, reports show two employees attempted to stop them, but the suspects began hitting and kicking the employees and left in a car northbound on University Avenue.

The men were described as being in their late 20s, and the woman was said to be about 22 or 23.

A 33-year-old nurse reported that a man jumped into her vehicle and threatened her with a knife about 11 p.m. Saturday at the Methodist Hospital parking lot.

The woman said that she was getting out of her car when the suspect jumped at her and told her to move over. When the suspect pulled out a knife, the woman pushed him back with her feet and fled out the passenger door. As she attempted to escape, the suspect reportedly pulled the woman's hair and scratched her face.

The suspect was described as Mexican-American, 26 to 35, very short, of medium build and wearing an Army jacket.

A Texas Tech student lost about $4 cash and several credit cards when a man pulled a small pistol on him while he was in his car about 9:20 p.m. Saturday in the 2300-block of Seventh Street.

Kris Kao said that he had just entered his car when a black man came up, pointed a small pistol at him and demanded his wallet. The suspect took the wallet and ran south on Ave. W.

The suspect was described as 18 to 25, thin and of medium height and wearing a dark beret and checkered shirt.

Robert Lewis Wilson, 51, of 2206 Redbud Dr. was in serious condition today at West Texas Hospital with injuries suffered in a hit-and-run incident about 6:30 p.m. Saturday in the 2300-block of Quirt Ave.

Reports indicate that Wilson, who is on crutches, was walking northbound along the east curb when a car struck him from the rear, knocked him over the rail and into the water. Wilson said he was able to swim to the bank and that some passersby pulled him out.

The victim said the white Chevrolet continued north on Quirt Avenue, slowed down twice and then sped off.

Suspects Rob, Burn Studio

AUSTIN (AP) — A ceramics studio was robbed and burned Sunday — the fifth such incident on an eight-block stretch of Barton Springs Road in two weeks.

"We've got a sick person on our hands," said arson investigator A.R. Spillar.

"This appears to be a repeat of everything that's happened on Barton Springs," Spillar said of the southwest Austin business street.

In each case, starting with Sandy's Hamburgers on Dec. 16, multiple fires have been set and the buildings have been broken into through a rear door.

The latest burglary-fire was at Lantz Ceramics Supplies and Firing Studio about 5 p.m. Sunday.

The others occurred at the Hip Pocket Sandwich Shop, the Frontier Drive-Inn and the Holiday House.

Margaret Lantz, 68, owner of the ceramic shop, reported $80 was taken, as well as some porcelain pieces and a book of manufacturers' instructions that cost more than $1,000.

"I just don't see how they could do this to me. I've always tried to be so nice to everybody," Mrs. Lantz said.

She said her husband, Gordon, had checked the shop about 2 p.m. Sunday. Another Barton Springs Road businessman, Clark Gillum, said he was scared his Town Pump Tavern "may be next"

TODAY'S STOCK PRICES

Dow Jones Up .60 To 839.51

NEW YORK (AP) — Precious metals stocks rose sharply in otherwise lackluster pre-holiday trading today as gold prices reached a new high on the London bullion market.

The broader stock market showed little reaction to the government's report of a sharp drop in the index of leading economic indicators.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up .60 to 839.51 by noon. But losing issues outnumbered gainers by a 7-5 margin in the broad tally of trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Commerce Department said its index of leading economic indicators, designed to foreshadow economic trends, declined 1.3 percent in November. It was the fourth time in the last five months that the index showed a decline.

Volume was fairly light with many traders out of the market today for a four-day holiday. Stock markets will be closed Tuesday for New Year's Day. Big Board volume came to 13.39 million shares at midday, compared to 15.3 million in the previous session.

Gold and precious metals stocks showed strong gains as the price of an ounce rose to a record close of $524.25 on the London bullion market.

Among precious metals stocks, Hecla Mining jumped 4 to 40¾, ASA rose 1⅞ to 40. Homestake added 1¾ to 50. On the American Stock Exchange, Day Mines rose 2½ to 33⅛.

Oil stocks generally showed fractional gains while auto and retailing stocks were off a bit.

Among actively traded issues, Texas Utilities was unchanged at 17¾ and General Public Utilities added ⅛ to 8¼. IBM fell ¼ to 64.

The noon NYSE composite index was up .01 to 61.89. The Amex market value index gained .48 to 246.09.

Bullion Hits Record Price

LONDON (AP) — Gold hit a European record closing high of $524.50 a troy ounce in London today, the last day of 1979, when the market closed early for the New Year's holiday.

The London closing gold price was 50 cents above the record morning "fixing" of $524 an ounce by the five leading London bullion dealers, and up $16 from last Friday's closing price of $508.50.

Gold burst through the $500-an-ounce level for the first time in Europe Thursday, closing at $511 in London and $518.50 in Zurich, the main European market. Gold closed in Zurich Friday at $517 an ounce.

The Zurich and other Swiss financial markets were closed today for the New Year's holiday, and trading was slow on the markets that were open.

It cost $2.2222 to buy one British pound in London today, down from Friday's late rate of $2.2340.

The Winners Celebrate — The Losers Cry

Upset Surprises Rams, Too

IRVING (AP) — A play called 63X and a daring defensive ploy that caused the Dallas Cowboys' shotgun offense to backfire carried Los Angeles into the National Football Conference title game where the Rams have a chance to punch a ticket to their first Super Bowl.

The Rams, who were eight-point underdogs, stunned the Cowboys 21-19 Sunday thanks to a seven-back defensive secondary that helped neutralize Dallas' two-minute offense and an amazing show by a quarterback who was second string when the season started.

Los Angeles travels to Tampa Bay for the NFC title game and Ram coach Ray Malavasi flat put it on the line, saying, "If we play our next two games like we did today, we'll win it all."

Quarterback Vince Ferragamo, who started the year behind Pat Haden, delivered the killing thunderbolt on a 50-yard pass-and-run play to fleet Billy Waddy with just 2:06 to play in the game.

The victory surprised even some of the Ram players.

"Rich Saul (Ram center) told me after the game they didn't expect to win," said Dallas linebacker D.D. Lewis. "They thought they were gonna get beat."

Waddy said of the winning touchdown pass: "Someone tipped the ball a little but I kept my eye on it. On 63X, Ron Smith is the primary receiver but Vince came to me over the middle. It boiled down to one big play."

The Rams hoodwinked the Cowboys at the start of the game by taking out linebackers and inserting seven defensive backs on obvious passing downs.

Malavasi said, "We tried to match speed with speed. Linebackers don't have the speed of receivers. It was Bud Carson, our defensive coordinator, who came up with the idea. We had planned to use it here against Dallas in October, but we had too many defensive guys hurt. It was very effective."

The Cowboys couldn't get untracked and Los Angeles built a 14-5 lead on Ferragamo touchdown passes of 32 yards to Wendell Tyler and 43 yards to Ron Smith, who leaped between two Dallas defenders.

Dallas' only points came on a safety when Randy White trapped Ferragamo and Rafael Septien kicked a 33-yard field goal.

Ron Springs' one-yard touchdown run and Roger Staubach's two-yard touchdown pass to Jay Saldi put the Cowboys ahead 19-14 early in the fourth quarter.

That's when Ferragamo went to work. Dallas still had a chance after the final Ram touchdown but Staubach failed to complete a pass in three tries.

Dallas coach Tom Landry said, "I told our players that I thought they had done a good job this season, winning the (NFC) East with all the problems we have had. You can't take anything away from the Rams.

"I think our defense was not quite as good as in the past because we have made so many changes this season. Sometimes with new people working the big plays get away from you."

The Cowboys had knocked the Rams out of the playoffs three times since 1973. In fact, the only time Los Angeles had ever won a playoff game on the road was in 1976 in Texas Stadium.

"We have a lot of pride," said safety Jackie Wallace. "We were totally embarrassed (30-6) down here on national television back in October. We felt our pride was at stake. They are missing three key players from last year, Ed Jones, Hollywood Henderson and Charlie Waters and it really showed."

Offensive tackle Jackie Slater said, "What a great feeling. This has been the week of the underdogs. Houston won, we won and Tampa Bay won. I'm just real happy."

Malavasi said, "It was a great win.

Defense Spells Doom

IT WAS A fitting climax, perhaps, to a bummer of a season for the Dallas Cowboys. There were good plays and bad, high hopes and disappointment. But when it was all over, the Los Angeles Rams had eliminated the 'Pokes from the NFL title chase.

So near and yet so far. That has been the story of the Cowboys this season. At times they have moved with confidence and precision. On other occasions they have looked like a group of kids playing on the vacant lot. The 'Pokes were consistent only in their inconsistency and Doomsday was just a memory.

Critics of the Cowboys will have plenty to talk about for a long time, following the loss to the Rams. The Dallas offense sputtered and stuttered, as Roger Staubach turned in one of his few ordinary games of the year. And the defense gave up big chunks of yardage at crucial times, including that long touchdown pass that won the tussle for the Rams in the final three minutes of play.

Dallas' prevent defense may have prevented a Cowboy victory.

EVEN THE DALLAS coaching staff will not escape some criticism. The play selection from the sidelines was ultra-conservative, many press box observers thought, and the defensive strategy was questioned even while the game still was unfolding.

Before the tilt, everyone thought the Cowboys would put maximum pressure on young Ram quarterback Vince Ferragamo with blitzing linebackers and a four-man front. A safety blitz also was probable, with Cliff Harris coming strong from the outside.

It didn't work worth a hoot.

TEMPTING AS IT is to fit goat horns on the losers, the Cowboys probably did as well this year as could be expected. They fought a constant battle with adversity all season, and adversity finally won.

No need to recount in detail the staggering personnel losses suffered by the 'Pokes even before the season got under way. Ed Jones and Jethro Pugh retired and All-Pro strong safety Charley Waters tore up a knee in an exhibition tussle and was sidelined for the year.

Then at mid-season, linebacker Thomas Henderson was fired for insubordination and making unauthorized TV commercials on the sidelines while his teammates were getting pounded at Washington.

No other contender could have won with comparable losses, either. Pittsburgh lost linebacker Jack Ham in mid-season, but suppose they also had started the schedule without Joe Greene, L.C. Greenwood and strong safety Donnie Shell?

THE DEFEAT WAS a tremendous disappointment for fans of the Cowboys, but the guys hurting the worst are the players. They are the fellows who started the long grind in the heat and dust at Thousand Oaks last July, and they are the ones who have absorbed all the bumps and bruises. If they can survive the setback, then the fans ought to be able to bear up, somehow, too.

Unless someone starts World War III before next September, there will be another NFL title chase in 1980. And you can bet your savings that Coach Tom Landry already is beginning to plan and prepare for that campaign.

The Cowboys have the basic personnel to return to the top, if Waters returns to the team and Landry can pick up four or five good young players in the draft. He'll be looking for a linebacker, a running back and a couple of offensive linemen, for sure.

Then if Staubach comes back for another shot — and I think he will — then the 'Pokes will be right back in the running.

Steelers Earn Title As NFL Decade Team

"I can understand why some people get bored watching us. I got bored watching Green Bay," Terry Bradshaw said Sunday after he and the Pittsburgh Steelers beat the Miami Dolphins 34-14 to earn a berth in the American Football Conference championship.

Green Bay was the team of the 60s. Sunday's results assure the Steelers of being the only team of the 70s with three Super Bowl trophies — and maybe another if the fans who twirl Terrible Towels get their wish.

"Things were falling into place. Our team was on the upswing," said Don Shula, coach of the AFC East champions.

But by the end of the first quarter, the Steelers had scored three straight touchdowns, two on passes by Bradshaw, to take a 20-0 lead. And the Pittsburgh defense did the rest as Miami managed just 25 net rushing yards the entire game.

"I was pleased. I was definitely pleased," said tackle Joe Greene. "We made a pretty good team look like something less than that."

Shula agreed.

"The disappointing thing is that we

Purdue, Tennessee, Clemson and Baylor all had hopes of ending 1979 in style. Ohio State, Alabama, Southern California, Florida State, Oklahoma and Arkansas harbored hopes of beginning 1980 by making itself the college football champion of the year that ends today.

On New Year's Day, the national championship figures to be decided in one of three bowl games. The Rose Bowl pits No. 1 Ohio State against No. 3 Southern Cal, the Sugar has second-ranked Alabama against No. 6 Arkansas and the Orange features fourth-rated Florida State against No. 5 Oklahoma. The Cotton Bowl, the only one of the Jan. 1 games that doesn't appear to have a bearing on the national title, pits No. 7 Nebraska and No. 8 Houston.

Before those heavy battles take place, Clemson and Baylor had a date in the Peach Bowl this afternoon and Purdue was to take on Tennessee tonight in the Bluebonnet Bowl as the collegians regained the television attention wrested away from them by the professionals over the weekend.

In the only games this weekend, North Carolina edged Michigan 17-15 in the Gator Bowl and Missouri took the Hall of Fame Bowl, 24-14 over South Carolina.

Clemson, 8-3 and ranked 18th, went into the Peach Bowl a slight favorite over Baylor, 7-4 and ranked 19th. The Bears, of the Southwest Conference, played one of the toughest schedules in the country this season. Their four losses were to Texas, Arkansas, Houston and Alabama.

"Touch" IS COMING...

Don't Sell Bum Short

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

SAN DIEGO (AP) — He is an owlish man in his 50s, with crewcut hair and jowly cheeks. He can't see the 50-yard line with thick-lens spectacles. His jaw is usually crammed with chewing tobacco. He wears brightly colored cowboy boots and a wide-brimmed Texas hat with an ostrich feather around the brim.

But no country bumpkin is O.A. "Bum" Phillips, head coach of the Houston Oilers football team. He's got a football mind like a steel trap.

Phillips — rancher, horse trader, defensive genius — has emerged as the most captivating personality in the NFL playoffs, counting down to the Jan. 20 Super Bowl.

If the victories of Tampa Bay and Los Angeles were surprises, Houston's 17-14 upset of the highly touted San Diego Chargers was nothing short of a miracle.

AP Sports Analysis

The Oilers entered the game with their veteran quarterback, Dan Pastorini, and star ball-carrier, Earl Campbell, rendered hors de combat. Ken Burrough was aching so much he could only be used as a decoy.

"If we run out of players, we will just punt and play defense," lamented Phillips before the game, noting that the game was so much in the bag for the Chargers that Las Vegas refused to establish a line on it.

The Oilers didn't run out of players. Instead, it must have looked to Dan Fouts, San Diego's 4,082-yard passing genius, as if Oilers were coming out of the ground by the dozens — especially Vernon Perry, the rookie refugee from the Canadian League who intercepted four of Fouts' passes, blocked a field goal attempt and ran the ball back 57 yards.

It was a day that the sheer grit and guts of the battered defensive unit spoiled the dreams of a team that many expected to go all the way.

And behind it all was the deft hand of the rugged yet fatherly figure they call "Bum," whose trademark in close to 30 years of coaching has been defense.

Phillips was asked afterward how many pairs of boots he kept in his closet.

"Naw, I got all colors," he replied, suggesting — perhaps justifiably — that he saw no reason to that line of questioning.

"Don't forget, you've become a TV personality," someone said.

"Don't know why," he said, still attempting to shift attention from himself.

Referring to his familiar 10-gallon hat, Phillips said, "When you're on the eastern side of the field, you need something to keep the sun out of your eyes."

As for tobacco, he says: "Been chewin' all my life."

Bum's earthiness has dripped down to his players, who apparently would jump off the Golden Gate bridge for him. "I know of no one who is better at motivating his players," says Alabama's Paul "Bear" Bryant, a longtime admirer.

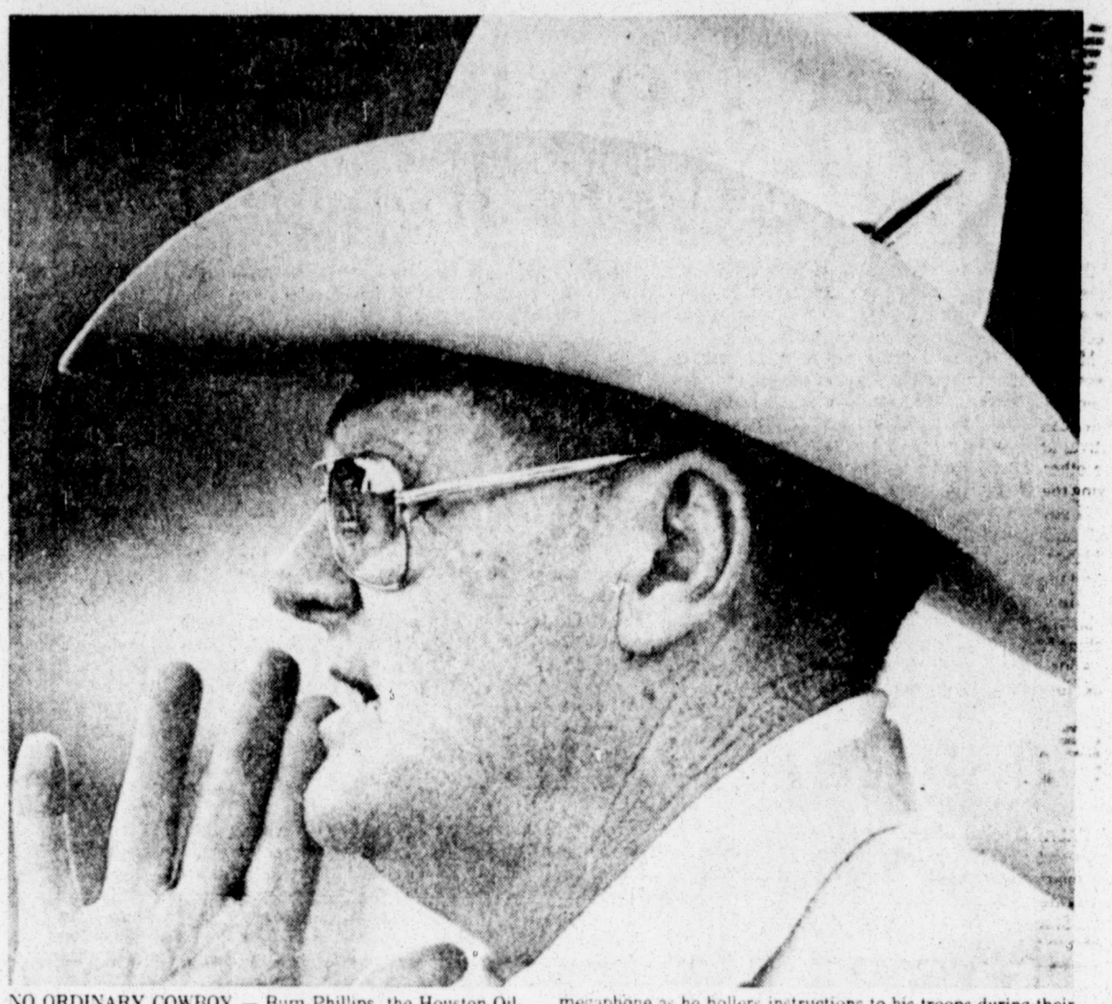

Phillips is a fresh relief from the many steely eyed gridiron tacticians who stroll up and down the sidelines on Saturday and Sunday afternoons in season.

The probing TV cameras lay them bare for the world to see. A player makes a costly error. He is yanked. He is either chewed out before millions or, worse still, given the "deep freeze" treatment, completely ignored.

It's not Phillips' way. Chewing and spitting, he takes everything — bad and good — in stride. Showing fatherly concern, he drapes an arm around the offender's shoulder and whispers encouragement in his ear: "Don't worry, kid, you'll make it up next time."

The player does, too. When you play for a guy like "Bum" Phillips, you bust your belt buckles. And it shows.

NO ORDINARY COWBOY — Bum Phillips, the Houston Oilers mastermind who fails to dress in the traditional garb of pro football coaches, wears his cowboy hat and uses his hand as a megaphone as he hollers instructions to his troops during their 17-14 upset of the San Diego Chargers in Saturday's AFC playoff contest. # Bucs' Eyes Focus On Super Bowl

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — With the Tampa Bay Buccaneers just a victory from Super Bowl XIV, quarterback Doug Williams is confident about Sunday's second encounter with Los Angeles and a possible trip to Pasadena, Calif., Jan. 20.

The Bucs already have beaten the Rams this season — 21-6 on Sept. 23 at Tampa Stadium. And they meet them again on home turf for the NFC title.

The strong-armed, second-year pro is so confident, he's already told his folks in Louisiana not to expect him home until the fourth week in January.

"We wanted to play ball in January and we will be," Williams said, referrng to the Jan. 6 Rams game at Tampa. "But we wanted to play in the middle of January, too. I don't have any intention of going home — back to Baton Rouge — until the end of the month."

The fourth-year Bucs battled their way into Round 3 of the playoffs, defeating favored Philadelphia 24-17 Saturday behind the record-setting rushing of fullback Ricky Bell, the passing and running of Williams and the stingiest defense in the NFL.

Williams completed seven of 15 passes for 132 yards and one touchdown and ran six times, including four crucial first downs. Tampa rolled up 186 yards rushing and held the Eagles to 48 yards on the ground.

"I had a feeling all week," Williams admitted afterward. "Ever since we won our final season game against Kansas City to clinch the NFC Central, the team was in great spirits.

"All our practices were good. We were relaxed. We played like there was no tomorrow. And we played for today. Everybody played his heart out and that's the way you have to play," Williams said.

On the opening drive, the Bucs controlled the ball for 9½ minutes, marching 80 yards for a touchdown on a 4-yard sprint by Bell and the momentum that carried them to victory.

In the second quarter, Bell plunged 1 yard for another score and kicker Neil O'Donoghue added a 40-yard field goal to put Tampa ahead 17-0.

Tampa took a 17-10 lead into the final quarter, then widened the gap on a 9-yard scoring pass from Williams to tight end Jimmie Giles. Philadelphia rounded out the game on a 37-yard bomb from Jaworski to his favorite receiver, Harold Carmichael.

"It's still amazing, still unbelievable," said Bell, a dependable workhorse who rushed 38 times to set a post-season record before 71,402 fans — the largest crowd ever to see the Bucs at home.

For the Bucs, just winning the division title was a giant step. They went from an 0-26 start to the top of the NFL this year as the only undefeated team after five games, then stumbled trying four times before finally winning the Central Division.

"It's like a fairy tale," beamed Bell. "And we deserve a fairy tale. I believe in Cinderella. And we're a Cinderella team."

CONSULTATION — Dallas Cowboys coach Tom Landry and quarterback Roger Staubach get serious in a late-game, sideline discussion Sunday at Texas Stadium. But, the consultations could not pull off another win, as the Cowboys were upset by Los Angeles 21-19. (AP Laserphoto)

never challenged them," he said. "You can't be proud of that in a game that meant so much."

NFL commissioner Pete Rozelle attended the game. He had no "Team of the Decade" trophy for the Steelers, but the Dolphins certainly weren't staking a claim to that unofficial distinction. Neither was two-time Super Bowl champion Dallas, a loser in the NFC playoffs.

"I think we could have gotten consideration if we had gone to the Super Bowl and won," said Shula. "I don't think we will now."

"You have to say the Steelers are the 'Team of the Decade,' " said Dolphin guard Larry Little. "I know one thing, right now, this very minute, they are the best team in pro football."

There are three other teams left with something to say about that. Among them is Houston, which meets Pittsburgh for the AFC title here next Sunday.

The Oilers and Steelers — rivals in the AFC Central Division — also met for the conference here title last year. Pittsburgh won 35-7 in freezing rain.

This season has been a repeat. They again split in the regular season. Pittsburgh again won the division while Houston earned a wild-card.

Now, they meet again for the conference title and a spot in Super Bowl XIV against Tampa Bay or Los Angeles.

Against Miami, the Steelers took the opening kickoff and drove for a touchdown that came on a 1-yard run by Sidney Thornton.

"I was surprised we were able to run on them as well as we did. Our offensive line manhandled them," said Bradshaw.

Bradshaw capped the next two Steeler drives with touchdown passes to John Stallworth and Lynn Swann.

"They ran three plays and we had 13 points," said Greene. "They ran six plays and we had 20 points. I'd liked to have seen the game plan they had set for us, but they never had a chance to get into it."

The Dolphins, who blocked a Steeler extra point try in the first period, penetrated the Pittsburgh 10-yard line twice in the second quarter but came up scoreless.

Linebacker Dennis Winston, subbing for injured Jack Ham, intercepted a Bob Griese pass to stop one drive. The Steelers held on downs at their own 2-yard-line after Thornton lost a fumble.

Sports Photographer Panzera Dies At 60

FORT WORTH (AP) — Sports photographer Al Panzera, who won more than 250 awards for his pictures while working for the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, died early today of heart failure. He was 60.

Panzera, the son of a New York City police detective, worked for the Star-Telegram for nearly 34 years. During that time he won awards from the National Press Photographers' Association; the Society of Professional Journalists, Sigma Delta Chi; the Associated Press and the Austin Headliners Club.

Panzera started his career in photography at the age of 16 while working at the old New York Journal-American. He attended Manhattan University and joined the Army Air Corps during World War II.

He was serving at the Fort Worth Army Air Field, now Carswell Air Force Base, when the Star-Telegram hired him in 1946.

Panzera, who covered sporting events ranging from Super Bowls to Muhammed Ali title fights, had been selected to be one of six pool photographers to cover track and field in the Olympics next summer in Moscow.

probably the greatest since I've been in LA."

Ram offensive guard Dennis Harrah chirped, "This has got to be one of the greatest wins of my life."

Dallas defensive tackle Larry Cole said, "We've given up the big play all year and that's what did us in again today."

Perhaps the sentiment of the Ram players was summed up most by wide receiver Drew Hill. In the tunnel heading for the locker room at the end of the game, he said to nobody in particular: "We just won our respect."

Perry Destroys San Diego

SAN DIEGO (AP) — As strong safety for the Houston Oilers, Vernon Perry is the last line of defense. But on Saturday, he was downright offensive.

Perry intercepted four passes — making one less catch on the day than San Diego's leading receiver — as the shorthanded Oilers upset the Chargers 17-14 in an AFC semifinal game.

As if that wasn't enough, Perry blocked a field goal attempt in the second quarter and returned it 57 yards. It was quite likely the game's most important play.

"The blocked field goal cost us the game," said Jim Hanifan, the Chargers' chief assistant coach. Instead of trailing 10-0 on the field goal, Houston came away with a field goal of its own — and revived confidence.

Overcoming the loss of injured starters Dan Pastorini and Earl Campbell, the Oilers rallied around the Perry-led defense and second-year quarterback Gifford Nielsen.

Three years ago, the Chicago Bears cut the Jackson State defensive back because, according to Perry, "I was too slow."

He recalls the setback as "a bitter disappointment. I asked myself: 'Am I wrong or did they make a mistake?' "

After two brilliant CFL seasons with the Montreal Alouettes, Perry's two-year contract expired last year and he waited for the NFL to show interest.

The wait wasn't a long one. After the Oilers out-bid the Buffalo Bills for his services, Perry played a key role in the Houston's second straight trip to the AFC finals as a wild-card entry.

Houston, 13-5, and Pittsburgh, 14-4, meet Sunday in a rematch of last year's AFC showdown, won by the Steelers 34-5. The winner advances to the Super Bowl in Pasadena, Calif., Jan. 20.

"We just gutted it out," said veteran center Carl Mauck. "We were goin' down fighting."

"We had three guys out and somebody had to take over," said Perry.

"Everybody rose to the occasion," said Nielsen, wh was makig his second NFL start. His 47-yard touchdown pass play to wide receiver Mike Renfro late in the third quarter put Houston ahead to stay.

After that, the Oilers' aroused defense held the fort.

"Ain't no such thing as a one-or two-man team," said Perry.

The Chargers contributed to their demise as quarterback Dan Fouts tossed a record-tying five interceptions and got caught with 12 players on the field during a Houston field goal attempt. Instead of trailing 7-6 at the half, coach Bum Phillips spurned the field goal and went for a touchdown on a fourth-and-inches play. Reserve running back Boobie Clark scored to give the Oilers a 10-7 halftime lead.

VICTORY CELEBRATION — Houston's Vernon Perry, still carrying the ball, jumps into the arms of teammate Robert Brazile after making his fourth interception of the game and insuring Saturday's 17-14 upset over San Diego in the AFC playoffs. Perry also blocked a field goal in the contest. (AP Laserphoto)

Major Bowls Spice New Year's Fare

UH, Huskers Reach For Cotton

DALLAS (AP) — When Nebraska tight end Junior Miller encounters Houston linebacker David Hodge in the 44th Cotton Bowl Tuesday, it will be more than a meeting of two rivals.

Miller and Hodge, both key members of their respective units, met a couple of weeks ago in San Diego, where they were honored for making the Kodak All-American team. Because of that activity, the two Texas natives are now good friends and each speaks highly of the other. But for three hours on Tuesday, they'll be trying their best to beat each other.

"I got to know David Hodge pretty well in San Diego," said Miller, who is from Midland. "He and I and (Oklahoma linebacker) George Cumby went to Sea World together.

"He's an all-American and I'm an all-American, and to be able to compete against him is a big thrill. I'm looking forward to it."

Adds Hodge, who comes from Clute, "You always look forward to playing against someone who's the best. He's kind of like Ronnie Lee (former Baylor tight end now with Miami), but he's quicker. He seems to be as strong, but he's a lot faster.

"You want to work extra hard against a friend. It will be fun to play against him."

How well Miller and Hodge perform could have a lot to do with the success of their teams in the New Year's Day Classic, which starts at 1:10 p.m. Both teams are 10-1, with Nebraska rated seventh and Houston eighth.

Miller, a 6-foot-4, 245-pounder, is a big play man. Although his 21 receptions were 12 fewer than last season, he averaged nearly 20 yards per catch and scored seven touchdowns. He also averaged 11 yards per carry on seven reverses.

"We're going to try to get the ball to Junior as much as we can," Nebraska coach Tom Osborne said. "But it doesn't always work the way we want it. We may call six or seven passes on which he is the primary receiver but don't always throw it to him. Sometimes the defense has something to say about what you do."

Hodge will be doing all he can to keep Miller under wraps. The 6-3, 210-pounder led the Cougars with 125 tackles, intercepted two passes and recovered two fumbles. He's the heart of a defense that limited opponents to an average of 11 points per game.

Nebraska has other weapons besides Miller, most notably, I-back Jarvis Redwine, who rushed for 1,042 yards. Redwine made a second-stringer of I.M. Hipp, the school's all-time rushing leader. Hipp still gained 577 yards and No. 3 I-back Craig Johnson added 530 and scored six touchdowns.

Halfback Terald Clark led Houston with 1,063 yards and fullback John Newhouse, cousin of the Dallas Cowboys' running back Robert Newhouse, had 678.

Houston is playing in its third Cotton Bowl in four years. Nebraska is a three-point favorite to beat the Cougars, who lost to Notre Dame 35-34 in last year's game.

OYSTER STEW — Arkansas football coach Lou Holtz finds that one raw oyster is enough, as he tries to go the seafood route at a feed given for the Razorbacks during Sugar Bowl week in New Orleans. But, the coach decided a second oyster was not on the menu for him and quickly shifted to red beans and rice. Tuesday, Holtz and the Razorbacks put aside the food festivities to take on Alabama in the Sugar Bowl game. (AP Laserphoto)

Pasadena Brings More Than Roses

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Art Schlichter and Paul McDonald, two contrasting quarterbacks, likely will be the key performers Tuesday when top-ranked Ohio State takes on No. 3 Southern California in the Rose Bowl.

Both sides already are contending the winner will claim the national college football championship. Ohio State matches its 11-0-0 record against USC's 10-0-1 mark in the 4 p.m. CST, nationally televised showdown.

The two schools have been consistent bowl performers in the last decade. Each has appeared eight times in post-season play, the Trojans performing in six Rose Bowls, the Liberty Bowl and the Bluebonnet Bowl and the Buckeyes in five Rose Bowls, the Orange, Sugar and Gator bowls.

Schlichter, 6-foot-2 and 200 pounds, is a raw-boned sophomore who runs as well as he passes. He's developed into a big play man.

The strong right-hander has cracked the school's single-season total offense record in both of his seasons. With two years to go, he already ranks as the Buckeyes' all-time passing champion.

"It always amazes me how well Schlichter does in the clutch. There are not many quarterbacks that can run and pass like him. And what I like about him is, he's only a sophomore," said Earle Bruce, Ohio State's coach.

"We are a big play team," said Schlichter, who accounted for 1,955 yards and 22 touchdowns this season. "We can be very explosive at times. But I think we can drive the ball down the field if it's needed."

The left-handed McDonald, 6-2 and 180 pounds, is a smart senior, a gifted passer but not a good runner. He ranks as the second-best passer in major college history.

McDonald is completing passes at a school-record 64 percent clip this season. He has thrown for 3,904 yards and 36 touchdowns in his four-year career.

"He's more caught up in the confines of our system," said USC coach John Robinson. "His career interception rate is the lowest in college football. McDonald's reputation is less than it should be because of (Heisman Trophy winner) Charles White and our whole team."

The Trojans, who some say have the greatest array of talent in history, averaged 466 yards and 33 points per game this season. Ohio State produced at rates of 408 yards and 34 points.

McDonald predicts it will be a high-scoring game, saying, "I don't think anybody is going to sit on the ball. It's supposed to be the best game in the country this year. Let's make it that."

Southern California ranks as a 7½-point favorite to hand the Big Ten its sixth successive defeat and 10th in the last 11 Rose Bowls.

"I don't pay much attention to that," said Robinson. "We were six-point underdogs against Michigan in the 1970 Rose Bowl. We won.

"I think it will be a close, dramatic game. The teams will find a way to hang in there for three quarters and then the team that gets hot in the fourth quarter with its passing game will win."

If the Trojans have a defensive weakness, it might be their secondary. USC has yielded 199 yards passing per game, but Bruce contends that is misleading.

"I don't think anyone has passed effectively against them early in the game. It's come-from-behind passing yardage. They're so strong physically against the run, you have to pass," he said.

Sooners, Switzer Wary Of Seminoles

MIAMI (AP) -Fourth-ranked Florida State, making its first appearance in a Jan. 1 postseason event, tangles with one of college football's perennial powers Tuesday night when the Seminoles take on No. 5 Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl game.

Despite its perfect 11-0 record this year and a 15-game winning streak, FSU enters the 7 p.m. CDT clash as a one-touchdown underdog against an explosive Sooner squad led by two-time all-America Billy Sims, the 1978 Heisman Trophy winner.

Oklahoma players, making their third straight Orange Bowl trip, have been insisting for a week that they aren't taking the Seminoles lightly, and coach Barry Switzer agrees.

"Florida State is an outstanding team, one of the few in the country," Switzer said. "We haven't met a passing attack like theirs since Dan Fouts was at Oregon. And that team was not as skilled as Florida State."

"I haven't seen a team this good in a long, long time," FSU coach Bobby Bowden said of the Sooners, who own a gaudy 72-7-2 record during the seven seasons Switzer has been at the helm.

"We certainly haven't faced one this good since we've been at Florida State," added Bowden. "It won't be easy, but when you play the big boys, it never is."

Sims is the key to Oklahoma's wishbone attack, but FSU defensive coaches insist that a team can't concentrate on him alone because the other backs are capable of turning in the big play — quarterback J.C. Watts and fullback Stanley Wilson each gaining more than 450 yards during a year in which Sims had 1,506 and a 6.7-yard average per carry.

FSU hopes to get the protection it needs to match the Oklahoma offense with the pinpoint passing of two quarterbacks, Jimmy Jordan and Wally Woodham, who passed for 2,113 yards this year, giving them a combined total of 7,723 yards during their four-year careers.

All-America middle guard Ron Simmons, a 235-pounder with 4.6-second speed for 40 yards, and cornerback Monk Bonasorte, a third team all-America, are the key FSU defenders. Oklahoma's quick defense is led by all-America linebacker George Cumby.

FSU, an independent, carries the nation's second longest winning streak into the game, its 15-game string topped only by the 20 of second-ranked Alabama, which meets Arkansas in the Sugar Bowl.

Vols To Watch Purdue Passes

HOUSTON (AP) — Purdue defensive end Keena Turner and Tennessee safety Roland James will play key roles in trying to stop quarterbacks Mark Herrmann and Jimmy Streater in the 21st Bluebonnet Bowl tonight.

Turner, the Boilermakers' all-time leader with 57 tackles for losses, will try to restrict Tennessee's Streater to the pocket while James will be eyeing the passes of Herrmann, the Big 10's all-time passing yardage leader.

Purdue, 9-2 in its third season under coach Jim Young, went into the 7 p.m. kickoff in the Astrodome with the favorite's tag but Tennessee, 7-4, has played what coach Johnny Majors calls "some of the best football I've been associated with."

"He's the most dangerous when he gets into the open field," Turner said of Streater. "He is so quick and it helps him in both running and passing. He sets up so quick on his passes, he's hard to get to. That accounts for his completing 60 percent of his career passes."

James will go after Herrmann from a safety position after starting earlier in the year at cornerback.

"Earlier in the year they were avoiding me," James said. "But when I moved to safety, that gave me a little more freedom to go for the ball."

That's what James expects to have to do against Herrmann, who has passed for 6,431 yards during three seasons at Purdue.

"We've worked a lot on our reaction to the ball," James said. "That's about all you can do because we know he's going to throw it."

The Boilermakers are attending a bowl for the second straight year. They blasted Georgia Tech 41-21 in last year's Peach Bowl to complete a 9-2-1 season.

Turner and defensive tackle Calvin Clark spearheaded a Purdue defense that led the Big 10 in defense against the rush, allowing an average of 101.4 yards per game.

Tennessee, 7-4, also is in the third year of a rebuilding program under coach Johnny Majors. The Vols' record was the first winning season in the Majors era and marked Tennessee's first bowl trip since 1974.

New Mexico Hires Cage Aide

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI) — Ron Thate, an assistant basketball coach at Loyola Marymount in California, was named Sunday as fulltime assistant to University of New Mexico head coach Gary Colson.

Thate, 33, had been an assistant under Colson in his previous coaching job at Pepperdine.

Colson, who resigned from Pepperdine last February, was named earlier this month to replace Norm Ellenberger, who was fired as Lobos head coach in the midst of a sports scandal still under investigation at the school.

Colson said Thate would join him immediately in the task of recruiting while the Lobo team is coached in its games by the other full-time assistant, Charlie Harrison, the lone survivor from Ellenberger's staff.

"We've got to hit the road immediately," said Colson, who called Thate an "excellent recruiter." The Lobos lost seven basketball players because of discoveries of transcript-rigging since the scandal erupted late last month during an FBI investigation.

Thate, a native of Los Angeles, played his freshman year at the University of Southern California but transferred to Occidental College, where he was NAIA all-America his junior and senior years.

He was drafted by the Los Angeles Lakers but opted to play professionally in France, where he averaged a little more than 41 points per game in two seasons.

January Heads 'Hall' Inductees

DALLAS (UPI) — Former PGA champion Don January and veteran football coach Floyd Wagstaff will be among six men inducted into the Texas Sports Hall of Fame today during ceremonies highlighting Cotton Bowl week.

Other inductees will be Olympic shotputter Darrow Hooper, professional tennis pioneer Bruce Barnes, former Texas League manager Al Vincent and the senior memeber of the Baylor athletic department, Milburn "Catfish" Smith.

January, 50, captured the PGA title in 1967 and only recently won the PGA Seniors Championship in his first try.

Wagstaff developed a generation of young football and basketball players at Tyler Junior College and will be installed into the Hall of Fame by one of his former pupils, Kansas State University coach Jim Dickey.

Porkers Follow Scanlon

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Despite what Lou Holtz says, Arkansas quarterback Kevin Scanlon is no joke.

For instance, Holtz was asked how Scanlon had developed so quickly from his so-so performance of 1978.

"I'd have to say it's a miracle," said Holtz, the Arkansas coach.

When asked about Scanlon's ability as a runner, Holtz will use throw-a-way lines such as: "When he runs the ball, we use a lot more film." And, "Our offensive linemen always say they have to hold their blocks longer when Scanlon's carrying the ball.

"If he runs outside, we get a delay of game penalty."

The object of this affection is a Beaver Falls, Pa., product who majors in speech communications and has a B-plus average. He's a smooth talker who worked at the state capitol in the governor's office last summer.

"I don't mind not being known as a runner," Scanlon said Sunday. "But I'm not as slow as people think. I know he's just kidding when he says those things."

He played behind Ron Calcagni last year and threw four interceptions in 49 attempts.

This year, he completed 92 of 139 passes for 1,212 yards and nine touchdowns while leading the Razorbacks to a 10-1 season and Tuesday's Sugar Bowl date with second-ranked Albama. Scanlon threw only six interceptions and Holtz says only one was Scanlon's fault.

For his performance, Scanlon was named Offensive Player of the Year in the Southwest Conference.

Scanlon said the fact that he had three cracked bones in his back hampered his performance last year — That and the fact that he played sparingly.

"I'd get in and feel like I had to do something great," Scanlon said. "I'd have a receiver open short and a receiver covered deep but I'd throw deep and get it picked off. This year, I'd hit the open man and we'd hit a long one now and then."

Scanlon has a good arm but Holtz is most impressed by his ability to read defenses.

"With most college quarterbacks you can't use all of your playbook," Holtz said. "For instance, if you have a pass pattern and it will work against eight coveragess but not the other two out of any 10, and maybe it will get intercepted against those other two, you'd better be careful about putting it in.

"With Kevin, you don't have to worry. If you call that, he will get you out of the play if he reads the two coverages it won't work against."

Scanlon says he enjoy reading defenses.

"I feel real comfortable in our passing game," Scanlon said. "Being a senior helps. I used to come up to the line of scrimmage and only see part of the defense. Then I began to see more and more. Now, it's just like watching it on film."

Scanlon says preparation for Alabama's blitzing defense has been thorough.

"We've covered everything that could possibly be. We've even been over things that Alabama has only done once during the season so that when I walk up to the line of scrimmage I won't be surprised."

Holtz says Arkansas must be versatile against Alabama's defense, which led the nation in defense against scoring, and that Scanlon is the key.

Scanlon made the big plays time after time in the Razorbacks' 10-1 season. For instance:

- Completed nine of 13 for 115 yards against TCU, including a 51-yard bomb in the final two minutes to set up the winning field goal.
- Completed 16 f 20 for 223 yards and two touchdowns against Rice.
- Completed 12 of 16 for 137 yards and three touchdowns against SMU.
- Completed 12 of 15 for 127 yards against Texas A&M.
- Completed five of six for 155 yards against Colorado State.
- Threw two second-half touchdown passes as Arkansas rallied from a 17-0 deficit against Baylor.

FIRST DOWN — Los Angeles running back Cullen Bryant hits the turf after a vigorous shove from Dallas cornerback Dennis Thurman in Sunday's NFC playoff game at Irving. Bryant had taken a pass and picked up yardage for a first down before being upended by Thurman. The Rams' 21-19 win shoved them into the NFC championship game next week. (AP Laserphoto)

DEFENSIVE MANEUVER — Miami wide receiver Duriel Harris (82) is all set to latch onto a pass from Bob Griese in the second quarter of Sunday's AFC playoff game at Pittsburgh. But, in comes the Steelers' Ron Johnson, left, to bat it away. The champion Steelers manhandled the Dolphins 34-14 to advance to next week's AFC championship tilt. (AP Laserphoto)

Virginia Follows 7-4 Freshman

By The Associated Press

Ralph Sampson is 7-foot-4, and he was certainly head and shoulders above everyone else at the Richmond Invitational basketball tournament.

Playing up to his considerable height and talents, the most heralded freshman prospect in the country led the 14th-ranked Cavaliers to the Richmond Invitational championship with a 79-58 rout of previously undefeated Old Dominion Saturday night.

Along the way, Virginia's tower of strength set two rebounding marks for this tourney — a single-game record of 21 in the finals and a two-game mark of 31. Additionally, he scored 15 points and blocked 10 shots in a blazing, all-around performance in the championship game.

"That certainly doesn't make a season, but it's something to build on," said Virginia coach Terry Holland of Sampson's performance. "I think he'll get better with every game he plays. Every success he enjoys builds his confidence."

"Virginia is an excellent team without the dimension that Sampson gives them," he said. "When you add Sampson, they are awesome."

It was a pyrrhic victory for Holland, however. Lee Raker, Virginia's leading scorer going into the game, was knocked unconscious and suffered a separation in his left shoulder and could be out of action for one to two weeks.

Elsewhere in college basketball, top-ranked Duke won its own Iron Duke Classic with an 87-75 overtime victory over Cincinnati; No. 2 Kentucky defeated No. 3 Notre Dame 86-80; No. 4 DePaul trimmed Bradley 68-61; No. 5 LSU crushed Delaware 96-62; No. 6 North Carolina defeated Ziebert of England 115-93 Saturday night, then lost to Parker Pen of Holland 87-76 in the Philips International championships in London; No. 7 Ohio State hammered Northwestern Louisiana 71-46; No. 8 Purdue defeated Tulsa 82-58; No. 9 Syracuse stopped Villanova 92-84 to win the Rochester Classic and No. 10 Indiana won the Cabrillo Classic with a 61-52 decision over Brown.

Also, No. 11 Iowa beat Drake 77-66; Illinois upset 12th-ranked Louisville 77-64 in the Rainbow Classic Saturday night before the Cardinals took third place by beating Nebraska 65-58 Sunday; No. 16 UCLA outscored Stanford 92-60; No. 18 Oregon State won the Far West Classic with a 72-67 victory over Clemson and 20th-ranked Brigham Young took third place in the Far West with a 104-91 victory over North Carolina-Charlotte. In a Sunday game, Kansas State upset No. 19 Arkansas 66-57.

Mike Gminski scored 25 points, nine of them in overtime, to lead Duke past Cincinnati. It was the third time this season that the Blue Devils were forced to go into overtime.

"We got a little sloppy down the stretch," said Gminski.

Short Bears Lean On Teagle

By CHUCK McDONALD
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

Baylor coach Jim Haller knows exactly what his team will have to do to be successful.

"We'll have to play over our heads to win 16 games," he said before the season started. "Hopefully we've got some overachievers on the team."

Maybe the Bears do have some overachievers on this year's club — but they'll certainly miss one of last year's standouts. Vinnie Johnson scored 29 points a game as a senior but the Bears could still only post a 16-11 record.

Right now, after a 76-67 victory over Davidson in the final non-conference game of the season, Baylor is 5-5. The Bears host Texas A&M on Jan. 5 and have their work cut out for them to win 11 more games.

Terry Teagle, who scored 23 points against Davidson, is already outdoing himself in the scoring department. As a freshman he averaged 14.5 — second only to Vinnie.

"Right now he doesn't know he's any better than anyone else on the team," added the Baylor coach. "But I think he'll be one of the top three or four players in the league this year. I rank him up there with (SMU's Brad) Branson, (Arkansas' Scott) Hastings and (A&M's Rudy) Woods."

But Teagle will need help — and that's where the Bears start getting into trouble. The biggest man on the team is 6-8 Julio Gallardo and Haller says, "he can't jump a lick."

"We may be the smallest major college team in the country," adds the Baylor boss, "but our strongest assest is our shooting ability. Last year we set a school shooting record — hitting 51 percent of our shots.

"We're going to have to continue that kind of performance."

Haller is hoping that 6-5 junior college transfer Mike Battle will step to the front to help shoulder the scoring load as does junior guard Pat Nunley.

Nunley, a 6-4 junior, has been a starter since midway through his freshman year and has given the Bears stability at the spot. Last year he averaged 9.4 points a game.

"We've got two real quality players," says Haller, "and that's Teagle and Nunley. After that we've got seven or eight players that are pretty even."

Among those that can help the Bears improve on last year's fourth place SWC finish are junior Mike Little — older brother of Texas Tech's David Little — and freshman Jay Shakir.

Little transferred to Baylor from Howard Junior College two years ago and started 14 games for the Bears averaging 8.2 points a game before leaving the team for personal reasons. After sitting out for a year he's back and Haller is glad to have him.

"Jay Shakir will probably wind up a starter by the end of the year," says Haller. "He can jump right out of the gym."

Chuck Stanley, a 6-6, 210, junior has helped bolster the Baylor inside attack in the early going and is expected to contribute down the stretch. Consistency, though, is Stanley's problem according to Haller.

Like most coaches with small lineups, Haller points to the Bears quickness as an assest. He also hopes that his team is older and wiser this year.

"I've got five or six kids coming back that have played a lot," he said. "And we've had some success, we've won in (Houston's) Hofheinz Pavilion, (SMU's) Moody Coliseum and (Arkansas') Barnhill Arena.

"Those are some pretty tough places to win," he added, "I hope that'll have a carryover affect."

SuperSonics Going Up, Portland Down

By The Associated Press

The Seattle SuperSonics are rolling, the Portland Trail Blazers are reeling.

Those two NBA teams were dramatically going in opposite directions, helped along by Sunday's developments.

Seattle's 107-100 victory over Portland accounted for the SuperSonics' 24th triumph in 30 games and the Trail Blazers' 15th loss in their last 19 starts.

Jack Sikma was the big gun for Seattle, scoring 32 points as the Sonics held onto a slim half-game lead over Los Angeles in the Pacific Division.

"Sikma just played a great game," said Blazers' coach Jack Ramsay. "He did everything a center can do in the NBA. That was the difference."

The Lakers kept pace with the Sonics by beating Phoenix 113-105.

Sikma scored 26 of his points in the second half to help the Sonics pull away. Seattle trailed 86-81 with 9:11 left but took the lead two minutes later by scoring seven straight points to take an 88-86 edge with 7:05 remaining.

Lakers 113, Suns 105

Jamaal Wilkes and Kareem Abdul-Jabbar combined for 58 points as Los Angeles stopped a nine-game Phoenix winning streak. Wilkes scored 18 of his season-high 30 points in the first half and Abdul-Jabbar had 12 of his 28 points in the fourth quarter as the Lakers recorded their third straight victory.

Jazz 95, Bucks 88

Utah beat Milwaukee behind 23 points by Adrian Dantley and 21 by Terry Furlow. Reserve Tom Boswell scored seven points in the fourth quarter for the Jazz, who won their third game in four starts. It was their fourth road victory of the season, matching their total for all of last season, and their second in as many nights.

SWC Suffers Long Weekend

By The Associated Press

Southwest Conference basketball teams, despite a "lost weekend," have assured themselves another winning intersectional season going into family feudin' beginning Thursday with SMU at Arkansas in the feature game.

Other SWC matchups show Rice at Houston in the television special, Texas Tech at Texas and Texas A&M at TCU.

The league suffered a severe sinking spell last week, going 5-10 and harvesting no first place tournament trophies.

Vanderbilt's 88-77 upset of SMU knocked the Ponies to 8-2, still the league's best.

Texas shined Thursday night with a four-point victory over San Francisco, and then took a 77-61 flogging from New Mexico State Saturday night. The Longhorns led 35-31 at halftime, then shot a miserable 28 per cent from the field in the second half.

Texas is 7-2 against intersectional foes.

The Texas Aggies took the second place medal in the Pillsbury Classic when Minnesota muscled Shelby Metcalf's crew 69-63 Saturday night. Metcalf played only his starting five in the game. Vernon Smith and Rynn Wright both made all-tournament honors at forward.

While the Aggies dipped to 8-5, Texas Tech lost all three games in the Far West Classic including a 47-46 loss to Penn State Saturday in a joust for seventh place. Tech is now 6-4.

Baylor beat Davidson 76-67 and TCU walloped tiny Northeast Missouri State 89-71 to even their records at .500.

Houston earned the consolation crown of the Sun Bowl Classic with an 83-75 victory over Alabama behind cousin guards Robert and Kenneth Williams.

Arkansas fell to 6-3 with a loss to Memphis State Friday night and a 66-57 defeat at the hands of Kansas State Sunday.

Power Company Plays Villian In TV Movie

By JOAN HANAUER

NEW YORK (UPI) — In the old days you could tell th good guys because they wore white cowboys hats, while the chaps in the blck hats were the baddies.

Now the people in denim with the quilted vests are the good guys and the villains are the men in pinstripe, vested suits.

It's still the family homestead that's at stake, but now it isn't being threatened by hostile Indians, rancorous ranchers, stubborn sheepmen or the rapacious railroads. Today the problem is the power company.

That's the basic plot of "Ohms," a CBS movie to be shown Wednesday at 8 p.m. Central time.

Ralph Waite has come down off Walton's Mountain to play Floyd Wing, a conservative and prosperous farmer whose property is threatened by the construction of million-volt power line. His neighbors face a similar problem, and he is their natural leader.

David Birney plays an outsider, an activist high school teacher who convinces the farmers to abandon random strong-arm tactics in their effort to keep the power company out, and instead find a way to rally the electorate and therefore the governor to their side.

Other well-known names include Cameron Mtchell as the farmers' lawyer, and Leslie Nielsen as the governor.

The title comes from th technological word ohm, which refers to the unit of resistance to electrical force. The farmers follow the lead of a group called 'O,' led by farmer Wing's daughter, which pursues a nonviolent but activist route toward convincing the uncommitted.

The television play comes across in brilliant color with green fields, genlty rolling hills and fly-free cowbarns presenting an idealized view of farm life. The message is strictly black-and-white.

Into this Eden comes the wicked Unified Power Corp., which wants to build giant towers and string an ecologically dangerous million-volt power line across the farms of Wing and his neighbors, threatening their health and their prosperity.

While the farmers lead an idyllic exitence, the power company is a double-crossing corporation that rides roughshod over everyone to achieve its mega-volt goals.

The oversimplified plot has its weaknesses, but also a germ of truth. Power companies today are perceived more often as bad guys, despite large sums spent on public relations to put across a more benign image. They are part of that larger perceived conspiracy of power gainst the powerless, wealth against those who are not rich.

"Ohms" is a rare case of telvised morality on a controversial issue. It makes for naive drama, but the kind where audiences can root for the good guys.

Name Suitable For Community

NO BUSINESS, Va. (UPI) — If you're looking for a real getaway, try No Business.

No Business lives up to its name. There is no business in No Business, except for farming. Residents say there used to be a few sawmills, manganese mines, bears, tigers and bobcats, but they're all gone now.

What there is, mostly, is land — open fields dotted with cows, mountains slumbering beneath low-hanging clouds, farmhouses at well-spaced intervals.

"It's peaceable, quiet," said Rex Morehead, 50, a dairy farmer. "Most people know each other and know each other's parents. Quite few have been here four generations."

Group Still Needs Funds For Washington Portraits

BOSTON (AP) — Though they have fallen more than $3 million short of their $5 million goal, the group trying to keep the famous Gilbert Stuart portraits of George and Martha Washington in Boston say the fight is not over.

Retired Gen. James Gavin, head of the Washingtons Belong In Boston Committee, said Sunday the committee will try to negotiate a lower price with the Boston Athenaeum, the private library that agreed to sell the pictures to the National Portrait Gallery in Washington.

After the Athenaeum announced its decision last April to sell the portraits, it agreed to postpone the sale until the end of 1979 to give Boston people a chance to match the Washington offer.

Counting matching funds from the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, which has exhibited the pictures on loan since 1876, Gavin's group has raised less than $2 million.

New Liquor Bottle Size Regulations Take Effect

WASHINGTON (AP) — New Year's Eve revelers who closely check their liquor supplies today are likely to find that the pint or fifth they thought they were buying wasn't a pint or fifth at all.

A federal regulation taking effect with the start of the new year means the familiar labels will give way to metric measurements.

Thus the half-pint size of whiskey will shrink to 200 milliliters. That is 6.8 ounces, or 1.2 ounces less than a half-pint.

Actually, the 200 milliliter size already is in widespread use by distillers, who have had several years to conform to the new size regulation. The regulation makes U.S. liquor sizes conform to those in most of the rest of the world, making it easier to import and export liquor.

Other sizes allowed by the metrification program are 50 milliliters (1.7 fluid ounces), 500 milliliters (16.9 ounces, or about a pint), 750 milliliters (25.4 ounces or about the old "fifth" size), 1 liter (33.8 ounces or slightly larger than a quart) and 1.75 liters (59.2 ounces or slightly smaller than the old half-gallon).

Americans Opposed To Sport Hunting

WASHINGTON (AP) — The majority of Americans approve of hunting if the animal's meat is later eaten but oppose it purely for sport, according to a new survey of environmental and wildlife issues.

The three-year study by Stephen Kellert of the Yale School of Forestry and Environmental Studies found that 64 percent of those questioned approve of hunting if the animal's meat is subsequently eaten. But 60 percent are against purely recreational hunting and 80 percent oppose hunting if it is done solely to collect a trophy. Kellert questioned 3,107 Americans in the fall of 1978 for the poll, which was done for the Interior Department.

British Columbia Schools Report Iranian Increase

VANCOUVER, Canada (AP) — Universities in British Columbia report a dramatic increase in applications from Iranian students. Officials at Simon Fraser University, the universities of British Columbia and Victoria, and Columbia College, say a major reason for the increase seems to be that the U.S. Embassy in Tehran cannot process applications from students seeking an education in the United States.

Canada has placed no new restrictions on Iranian students who want to come into the country, including those seeking to transfer from American colleges.

"The number of inquiries is really out of the ordinary," said Simon Fraser spokesman Dennis Roberts.

Cluster Headaches

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband is 25 years old and he has been having severe headaches for the past two years. They usually occur at night, sometimes waking him out of a sound sleep. The headaches are preceded with dizziness, spots and blurred vision.

Recently one of these occurred in the daytime and the doctor was able to see him during the attack and decided he has cluster headaches based on the fact that the headaches come on abruptly and are throbbing pain behind the eye on one side of the face. He sweats excessively with these attacks and the headaches last about seven hours. The headaches occur frequently for a period of time and then they don't occur at all for several months.

The doctor prescribed Caffergot with strict warnings about taking it only when necessary. Are there other medications that are effective that are safer? He has taken mild tranquilizers and aspirin but they don't help much. Will these headaches go away without returning? Some of them seem to occur after drinking. Can this be a cause?

DEAR READER — You've given a fairly good description of cluster headaches. They're really just a variant of migraine headaches and the reason they're called cluster headaches is because a person may have a series of attacks of headaches or a cluster of them and then there may be no attack for several months, as you described in the case of your husband.

They are sometimes difficult to treat. In addition to Caffergot or ergotamine tartrate, there is a long list of medicines that have been tried with varying success. A few are very effective but can only be used for short periods of time.

You'll need to rely on your doctor's advice on which ones he might try. Propranolol (Inderal) is effective in 50 to 60 percent of the patients who have migraine headaches, and might be useful. Some other medicines that have also been used to treat high blood pressure are sometimes helpful — even though the headache patient doesn't have high blood presure.

Your husband might benefit from a better understanding of headache problems and so I'm sending you The Health Letter number 2-9, Headache: Man's Most Common Pain. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of The Avalanche-Journal, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

In general, cluster headaches tend to be more difficult to treat than most migraines (although some migraine headaches are pretty refactory to treatment).

In both instances, an improvement in lifestyle does help. People who have migraine headaches tend to be perfectionists and strive to please. The tension this sometimes creates seems to be a factor in precipitating frequent attacks in some people.

It's hard to say whether alcohol has any relationship to your husband's cluster headaches or not. It is not usually thought of as a cause of such headaches but, of course, it is generally appreciated that if one overdoes it, one can have a rather severe headache the next morning. But those are called hangovers, not cluster headaches.

Remote Mexican Hamlet Chosen For First Solar Community

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The mountain hamlet selected by a U.S.-Mexico joint project for this country's first solar energy community is so remote that planners describe it as "a place you can't even get to on horseback."

The village of Ajuchitlan, tucked away from the 20th century in mountains hot as a blast furnace less than 100 miles south of this capital, near Cuernavaca, will be a model for isolated villages to use solar energy to pump water and generate electricity.

"You get there first by car, then four-wheeled vehicle, then on horseback and finally on foot up rocky cliffs," Robert Wilcox, science attache at the U.S. embassy told The Associated Press. "Electricity wouldn't reach there until the next century."

Ajuchitlan is so remote that families cannot afford delivery of kerosene to run a generator or burn lamps. Villagers cook with firewood, but trees are getting scarce and farther away. Clothes are laundered on stones at a stream. Bedtime is soon after sunset.

The plans for the village are being drafted at the U.S. Department of Energy while negotiators discuss the cost.

The joint project begins, literally, with getting there. "Mexico is providing the road and bridge," Wilcox said. "The U.S. will provide the design and the hardware."

He said a meeting will be held early next year to approve the design and cost. Solar installations for the village can be completed in less than 15 months after the agreement is signed.

Although there are several methods to take advantage of the sun's energy, Mexico selected the cheapest and least complex. The sun provides the power needed to drive pumps to supply water for homes and irrigation and to drive a generator for electricity.

A key element is water below ground.

"There are water deposits in the subsoil of northern desert areas at about 30 to 90 feet that can be pumped for use in homes, agriculture and cattle raising," a study shows.

"Use of that water will determine the development of tourism in Baja California, for example. Solar plants are vital to cattle raising. During the 1974 drought in northern Mexico, lack of water cost $10 million in lost cattle."

The sun's heat boils butane gas which drives a water pump, also driving a simple generator for electricity. One kilowatt of electric energy produced by this solar plant will cost $7,700 over 20 years, about the cost of operating a refrigerator. The same kilowatt produced by an internal combustion pump would cost $72,000.

"It costs $25,000 to build each mile of road in the Mexican desert to get to these villages," said a member of one agency involved in the project. "Solar energy installations need no roads because there is no fuel delivery nor spare parts to replace."

Nor is maintenance required. One untrained watchman opens a valve at daybreak, shuts it at dusk. He wipes porous tiles occasionally.

White Collar Occupations Expected To Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — White-collar occupations, led by clerical jobs, will make up a majority of the 20 million new jobs the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics expects the economy to generate in the next decade.

"New developments in computers, office machines and dictating equipment will greatly affect employment in many occupations within this group," according to a new BLS report.

The need to replace workers who die, retire or leave the labor force for other reasons will mean another 47 million job openings during the decade, so jobs will be available in fields of declining employment — such as farming — as well as in expanding fields, BLS says. It predicts national employment of about 114 million by 1990.

Death Count In Northern Ireland Nears 2,000

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Soon, perhaps within days, someone in Northern Ireland will become a macabre statistical milestone — the 2,000th fatality in a decade of bloodshed and insurrection.

By police count, the official death tally in the conflict is 1,992. When the toll caused by the spillover of sectarian violence into the Republic of Ireland, England and Europe is added, the total tops 2,150.

In the tight-knit communities of Northern Ireland, which has a population of 1.5 million, the killings have touched everyone. Since August 1969, nearly one family in five has had a member killed, maimed or wounded. The Catholic McCartan family of Belfast has lost six sons.

The 2,000th victim could be anyone. But chances are it will be a British soldier, a militiaman, a police officer or a prison guard. They're the main targets these days.

But many of the victims have been men, women and children in the wrong place at the wrong time — playing in the street, drinking in a bar, shopping with the kids, sometimes even watching television at home.

"Nowhere is really safe," a senior police officer said. "No one is beyond the killers' reach."

The Irish Republican Army, which is heavily Catholic, is fighting to end British rule in Northern Ireland, where pro-British Protestants outnumber Catholics 2-1.

The IRA seeks to reunite the province with the overwhelmingly Catholic Republic to the south. Against them are British security forces and Protestants bitterly opposed to being dragged into an all-Ireland republic in which they'd be outnumbered 3-1 by Catholics.

The first official fatality of "The Troubles" was a 30-year-old Catholic, John Gallagher, shot dead Sept. 8, 1969, in Armagh when Protestant policemen trapped behind a barricade fired into a crowd.

The first British soldier slain was gunner Robert Curtis, 20, shot by IRA snipers while on patrol in Belfast's Turf Lodge district on Feb. 5, 1971.

Since then, the Army has lost 327 dead — its costliest campaign since the Korean war — plus 95 Ulster Defense Regiment auxiliaries.

But three-fourths of Northern Ireland's dead have been civilians, most of them innocent bystanders slaughtered in indiscriminate bombings and "eye for an eye" revenge killings.

Elizabeth McGregor, a 76-year-old Protestant widow, was killed when she walked into a crossfire between British troops and IRA gunmen battling in a Belfast shopping precinct in 1973.

Patrick Toner, a 15-year-old Catholic farmboy, was blown up Jan. 19, 1975, when he stepped on an IRA landmine while herding his father's cows near Forkill in County Armagh. The mine was meant for soldiers.

Mervyn McDonald, an unemployed Catholic laborer, and his 23-year-old wife, Rosaline, were shot dead by Protestant extremists as the couple watched TV with their two young children on July 9, 1975.

The "civilian" category ironically includes terrorists — like Mick McVerry, 24-year-old commander of the "South Armagh Battalion" of the IRA's Provisional wing.

He was shot and killed as he led an attack on police barracks in the border village of Keady the night of Nov. 15, 1973. The IRA still hails him as a patriot hero.

Maire Drumm, 56-year-old leader of the Provisionals' political front, Sinn Fein, was killed by Protestant gunmen as she lay in Belfast's Mater Hospital on Nov. 1, 1976.

The Provisionals admit losing about 250 fighters, but the figure is likely higher because they often drag their dead away for secret burials. Police say the bodies of some terrorist victims also have never been found.

At least 80 persons have been slain in the Republic, including Lord Louis Mountbatten of the British royal family. He was killed when an IRA bomb ripped apart his holiday boat in Donegal Bay on Aug. 27 — the same day Provisionals killed 18 soldiers in a bomb ambush.

Among the 67 persons slain in British cities was Conservative Party lawmaker Airey Neave, assassinated in London on March 30 by a bomb that tore his car apart as he left the Houses of Parliament.

The fighting is the legacy of more than 500 years of disputed British rule in Ireland. The current conflict, its roots deep in the island's bloody history, was spawned in the late 1960s by a Catholic civil rights campaign designed to redress the wrongs Catholics felt they had suffered at Protestant hands since partition in 1922.

Protestants retaliated and fierce rioting erupted in August 1969. British troops sent in to restore order found themselves fighting a reborn IRA.

No end to the bloodshed is in sight. The IRA says it will fight "to the last man." The Protestants chant a traditional warcry: "No surrender."

Betty Williams, the Belfast housewife who shared the 1976 Nobel Peace Prize with Mairead Corrigan for their crusade to end the violence, lamented: "It'll take at least another generation before there'll be any change."

Study Urges Alliance With China

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Rand Corp. analysts think the Sino-Soviet feud is likely to get worse rather than better in the 1980s, and they suggest that the United States throw in with China, even as far as developing a defense alliance.

The Soviet Union is the most likely troublemaker in Asia in the coming decade, according to the 12-chapter report entitled "Asian Security in the 1980s." It was prepared for the U.S. Defense Department and made public recently.

The Rand report recommended that the first element of U.S. Asian strategy should be: "Developing a security relationship with China in a manner which establishes a stabilizing balance in Asia, yet which is not gratuitously provocative to the Soviet Union, or threatening the interests of America's traditional allies and friends in the region."

The report is the product of a conference held last January among Asian and U.S. government analysts.

The conference, chaired by Richard H. Solomon, suggested there is still considerable distrust of China's motives but that Soviet interests, capabilities and history make it even more likely to challenge Asian security in the next decade.

The report identified other problems that could cause tension and conflict in the 1980s, particularly the issue of leadership, dramatized by the recent assassination of Korea's president, Park Chung Hee.

Only three non-Communist Asian countries — Japan, Australia and New Zealand — have political systems capable of smooth transitions said the report. South Korea, Taiwan, the Philippines, Indonesia and Thailand were singled out as countries particularly vulnerable to disruptive leadership crises.

Other sources for problems identified in the report are: The enduring military confrontation between North and South Korea; territorial disputes and rivalry for the resources of contested offshore areas; trade imbalances and social instabilities resulting from profound economic change in the world's most rapidly developing region; and the likelihood of communal violence resulting from the impact of Islamic fundamentalism on such multi-ethnic states as Malaysia, Indonesia and the Philippines.

PAINTING ACQUIRED

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Soap Bubbles," a composition by French 18th-century genre and still-life painter Jean Simeon Chardin, has been acquired for the Los Angeles County Museum of Art by the Ahmanson Foundation. "Soap Bubbles" was painted in the late 1730s. Director Emeritus Kenneth Donahue says, "This painting of a young man blowing a soap bubble rendered with an extraordinary intensity and simplicity enriches the scope of the museum's French collection by providing a counterpoint to the sumptuous decorations and playful pastoral scenes by Fragonard and Boucher."
