Coolidge Urges Americans To "Hold Fast" To Hoover

States Defeat Of Demos Will Help Recovery

Only Living Ex-President Is Principal Speaker At Huge Rally In New York; Urges Support Of Party

Attacks Roosevelt

Credits Leadership Of Hoover With Averting Calamity In Nation; Terms His Party As Most Efficient

(By The Associated Press)

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Declaring the Republican party "the most efficient instrument for sound popular government ever entrusted with the guidance of a great nation," Calvin Coolidge told the American people tonight they "shall be most likely to find progress in holding fast" to Herbert Hoover.

The former president's address was three fold:

Address Three Fold

1—An attack on "pending Democratic treasury raids" and a criticism of Franklin D. Roosevelt for his "silence on the question of bonus" payments.

2—A praise of Republican policies, past and present.

3—A complete endorsement of President Hoover's leadership during the depression.

Cheers Are Brought

Standing under mammoth oil paintings of Hoover and Curtis, with speech slow and deliberate, the former president brought the thousands in the Garden off their seats amid cheers and stamps by declaring:

"Some people are saying that as things could not be any worse we might as well try a change. That is a very dangerous principle to apply to the discharge of the duties of American citizenship. Things could be a great deal worse than they are and would have been much worse had it not been for the vision, the courage and the leadership of President Hoover."

The lower sections were filled, but the upper galleries of the Garden were but partially filled as the private citizen from Northampton was introduced as:

Faith Never Falters

"One voice in our country that has never failed to carry confidence, one high faith in America that has never faltered."

For five minutes the thousands cheered; thousands of flags waved. Two bands joined in. The Garden's capacity is about 35,000.

The former president's address was followed closely. Time and again, the crowd broke with laughs at some of his sallies; cries of "no-no," "yes-yes" at his questions.

The laughs were long and loud when Coolidge described his years as president by saying:

"When I was in Washington."

The Lubbock Salvation Army corps' bureau for jobless cotton pickers and farmers needing pickers sent 118 pickers to the fields Monday and Tuesday, and found nine miscellaneous jobs for unemployed persons, G. A. Dickerson, supervisor of the bureau, said.

The two-day total for this week increased to 204 the number of jobless persons receiving employment at cotton-picking through the Army, which began the work last week. Several farmers, Mr. Dickerson said, want families, who will pick cotton and will remain on the farms until the picking is completed.

Samuel Insull Gets Freedom

Former Utilities Magnate Is Liberated Tuesday After A Day In Athens Jail; Greek Law Is Studied

(By The Associated Press)

ATHENS, Greece, Oct. 11.—After spending one day in "the best room in the house" at Athens police headquarters, Samuel Insull, under indictment in Chicago on embezzlement and grand larceny charges arising from the downfall of his utilities system, was liberated this afternoon.

Greek authorities gave him his freedom because the instruments ratifying the extradition treaty between Greece and the United States have not yet been exchanged. For this reason, it was explained, there was no legal warrant for detaining him further.

Application for Insull's extradition by the American legation, it was said, now will follow normal procedure.

Apparently the first process will be presentation of attested documents from the United States. On the basis of these documents, the case would go before the appeal court in Athens, which would decide whether the offenses charged were punishable in Greek law.

Fear He Was Becoming Insane Leads Chicago Business Man To His Death

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—Sewell L. Avery, Jr., 31-year old son of one of the nation's foremost business executives, killed himself today after, physicians said, 10 years of fear that he was becoming insane.

A butler in the Avery apartment on Lake Shore Drive found the body of young Avery, a successful business man in his own right, in the living room. His head rested in a fire place from which were pouring fumes from a burning grate.

Avery, Sr., is chairman of the board of Montgomery Ward and Company, president of the United States Steel, Armour and Company, the Chicago Daily News, the Chicago Great Western railroad, and many other corporations.

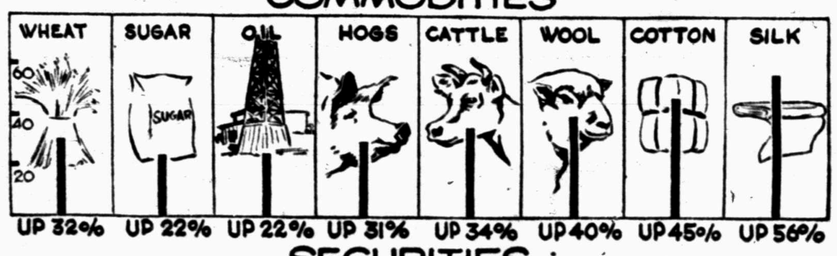

Dr. George F. Dick, physician to young Avery for 10 years, gave evidence at the inquest today which caused the coroner's jury to return a verdict of "suicide while mentally depressed."

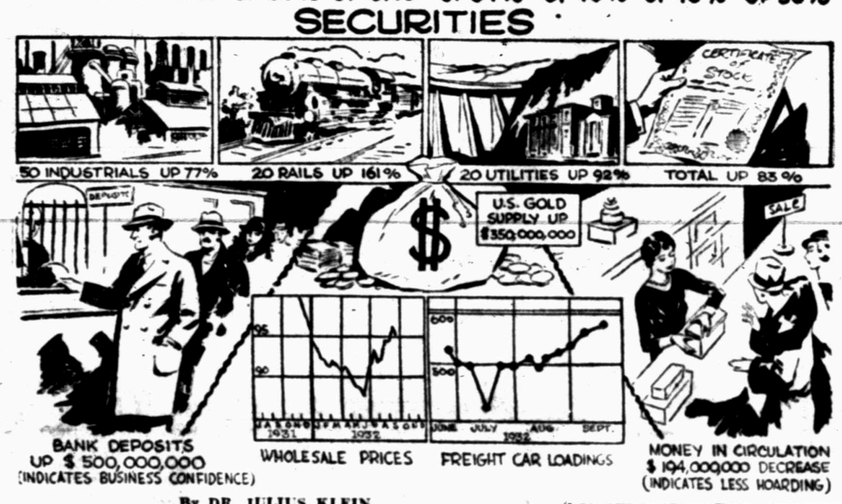

"He was afraid he was going insane," Dr. Dick testified. "He suffered from illness but his mental condition was largely responsible for it."

Price Trend Is Explained

Farm Products Lead Commodities In Swing To Higher Levels, Writes Dr. Julius Klein, In Giving Business Barometer

Percentage of Increase in Prices Since Their 1932 Low Points

By DR. JULIUS KLEIN
Assistant Secretary of Commerce
(Written for The Morning Avalanche and NEA Service)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—The devastating and discouraging slide of the price curve has, at least for the time being, been halted. And we have recently witnessed price appreciation in a number of commodities that even the more conservative of our business observers are describing as "most encouraging." The government's official tally sheet of price changes, compiled by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, shows that the price level reached its low point during the week ended June 18, and that since then the movement has, in the main, been upward.

DR. KLEIN

The swings toward higher levels in the prices of the various commodities have, however, not been uniform. Food, and the other products of the farmer's labor, in general, have shown a more rapid and extensive rise than other classes of goods. Prices of poultry, butter and cheese have bounced up to a point 30 per cent above their recent low points. Wheat has advanced 32 per cent; lard, 35; wool, 40, and cotton, 45, while eggs and pork have soared to a point 70 per cent higher than several months ago. These upward changes have, of course, given large sections of our domestic market a substantial, though as yet merely potenital, increase in purchasing power.

ALTHOUGH textile product prices have been considerably advanced, owing partly to rising raw material prices, low stocks and increasing orders, other groups of commodities whose price changes are currently recorded, with the exception of hides and leather products, show relatively small advances. Fuel and lighting, metals and metal products, building materials, chemicals and drugs, and house furnishing goods, although extremely steady in price during the past two months, are still at, or only moderately above, their low points.

Not in Cards

What the immediate and near future, and even the more distant future, trends of prices and their effects on business may be, is not "in the cards" at the moment. The more cautious observers remind us that following the war of 1812 and the Civil War more than 20 years elapsed before prices gave evidence of being in equilibrium and history may again repeat itself. We also know that at the present time there are huge and unwieldy surpluses of many important raw materials and foodstuffs piled up throughout the world, which present a formidable obstacle to be overcome before any substantial international price recovery can be recorded. There are other equally strong reasons to be advanced in argument against the possibility of substantial and sustained price advances.

ON the other hand, there is much talk and some efforts under way throughout the world to jack up the price level by means of inflation. In our own country some carefully guarded measures have already been inaugurated. The Federal Reserve Banks have for more than five months been increasing their purchases of government securities and thus pumping funds into the tanks of commercial reservoirs. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation, through the granting of loans, may make a substantial contribution to business credit. And then, of course, there is always the poc-

Barometers Of Business

Dr. Klein says persons wishing to follow the progress of business should watch the trend of the following items: (1) Industrial production. (2) Steel mill activity. (3) Freight car loadings. (4) Employment and payrolls. (5) Commodity stocks on hand. (6) Construction contracts awarded. (7) Retail trade. (8) Bank loans and investments. (9) Bond prices. (10) Money in circulation. (11) Life insurance policy loans. 12) Capital issues.

Deposit Of $3,000,000 Made To Credit Of Agricultural Corporation In Texas; Now Ready For Loans

(By The Associated Press)

FORT WORTH, Oct. 11. — With the depositing of $3,000,000 in the United States treasury by the Reconstruction Finance corporation today to the credit of the finance account of the Regional Agricultural Credit corporation of Fort Worth, the latter organization is now in a position to make loans.

A. E. Thomas, executive vice president and manager of the local corporation, which functions throughout the state and operates branches at Houston and San Angelo, was advised by telegram from Washington that the $3,000,000 had been deposited.

Check Is Written

He immediately wrote a check for $2,000,000 and sent it by special messenger to the federal reserve bank at Dallas in order that this portion of the corporation's capital can be earning interest until it is needed. Thomas estimated that the remaining $1,000,000 will be sufficient to meet payment on what checks he expects to write for some time.

"We are now ready to lend money for cattle feeding and other agricultural purposes in instances where the usual sources of credit are not available for good sound loans," Thomas said. "I mean by the usual sources, the local bankers and other banking loan companies."

GANGSTER BURIED

State Demands Death Penalty; Defendant Described As Chief And Lord Of That Bandit Gang

"It Will Be The Greatest Service To Lubbock County And The Most Severe Blow Ever Dealt To Gangsters In This Country," Shouts Bradley In Demanding Death Verdict

WITH his life and liberty at their disposal, Hugh Walker, on trial for Frank V. (Leather Hat) Brown's murder, saw twelve 99th district court jurors file from the courtroom at 5:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. No decision had been reported at 9 o'clock last night.

For six hours yesterday the jury, the defendant, and a mass of spectators had heard attorneys demand both Walker's death in the electric chair and his acquittal. Debonair still, although a trifle worn after the 12-day hearing, Walker at the morning session heard J. E. Vickers, a special prosecutor, call him "General Walker, the chief lieutenant of banditry, the lord chief commander of that bandit gang."

In the afternoon Walker, a cigaret held loosely in his lips, heard Defense Counsel Walter F. Schenck say: "Somebody is being persecuted by a man who is guilty himself. Let me implore you, before you incarcerate this man, to think of his mother who can't be here, and of his old father who is sitting by his side."

Bradley Has Last Word

The last words, however, that went to the men in whose keeping Walker's fate had been placed were those shouted by District Attorney Durwood H. Bradley:

"Will you on this day in this case write a verdict that will send Hugh Walker to the electric chair and protect Lubbock county from murderers and robbers?

"I beg of you, yea, I demand at your hands a verdict of guilty and a death sentence. It will be the greatest service to Lubbock county and the most severe blow ever dealt to gangsters in this country."

Reopen Deliberations

Jurors went to bed at 9 o'clock last night without reaching a verdict. They will begin deliberations early this morning. Walker's hearing opened Sept. 28, and after a delay caused by a change of venue motion, examination of veniremen was begun Sept. 30 before Judge Clark M. Mullican.

Vickers' argument was interrupted by Schenck yesterday morning, precipitating a tilt between the attorneys which drew a warning from Judge Mullican. Schenck objected to Vickers' line of argument.

"When you say something like that, it's like putting a bag of hornets in the seat of the defendant's trousers," Vickers said turning to the jury.

Mullican Gives Orders

Schenck popped to his feet again, objecting to the statement. Judge Mullican ordered the jury removed.

"I'm not going to spend this last day trying to keep you gentlemen quiet," the judge warned. "I've never sent a lawyer to jail for contempt of court, but I can exercise that power. You can't run over me, officially or personally. No man has ever done it and got away with it."

Kucera Is First

Ben Kucera, Walker's other attorney, was the first of the three speakers yesterday afternoon. He stressed the fact that testimony of a principal must be corroborated and declared that the fact that state witnesses had differed in their statements of what happened in Morningside addition when the state alleged the defendant got out of G. A. Ross' car and got into Jess Covington's.

"If they are mistaken about one thing, they might be mistaken about all other details," Kucera said, and then turned his attention to Ross, star prosecution witness, and an admitted principal in Brown's shooting.

"What did Ross tell Hugh Walker about this thing? That he went out there with some fellows from New Mexico. Ross knows he was there. On July 5 he told his story, on July 6 officers went to the lake and found nothing, and on July 7 they went out there and in five or ten minutes Ross stepped on the gun. He had all the time he wanted to put that gun in that lake."

Testimony Attacked

City Opposes Cotton Rates Of Railroads

Lubbock Chamber Of Commerce To Send Representative To ICC Hearing Being Opened In Dallas Today

Expressing opposition to freight rates on cotton as proposed by the Fort Worth & Denver and subsidiary railroads, the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce board of directors Tuesday decided the chamber should be represented and such opposition expressed at a hearing which will begin this morning in Dallas before the interstate commerce commission and the Texas railroad commission. A. B. Davis, manager of the Lubbock chamber, was to attend the hearing.

The proposed rates would stimulate shipment of uncompressed cotton in carload lots, and in that quantity only, and would not include loading charges, the chamber directors opined. In a resolution, they expressed an opinion that putting of the proposed rates into effect would:

"Rattlesnake Pete" Cheats Death 33 Times To Be Taken By Heart Disease

(By The Associated Press)

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 11.—Peter Gruber, whose snake lore and successful treatment of poisonous reptile bites and medical use of their venom made him internationally famous as "Rattlesnake Pete," died at his home here today.

The 75-year old ex-saloonkeeper and museum proprietor, whose hands and arms were scarred with the marks of more than 500 snake bites, survived 33 attacks to die in his bed of heart disease induced by rheumatism which had kept him confined for six months.

Several persons owed their lives to "Rattlesnake Pete's" knowledge of snake bite treatment. Tribute to his skill hung from his watch chain in the form of a lion's claw mounted in gold, inscribed "From The Animal King To The Snake King."

The charm was a gift from Frank Bostock of Bostock's animal show after Gruber had saved the life of Clyde Powers of New York, then an employe of the show and recently a stage manager for Claude Dillingham.

Social Affairs For Two Church Classes Emphasize Hallowe'en Motif

The Woman's Angle

BY BLANCHE E. BEAN
Avalanche Woman's Editor

YESTERDAY, we took a trip around over the state to see what other club women were doing. Today, we hear what some columnists of the state have to say:

The society editor at Denison bridges the gulf between late summer and winter in her introductory statements recently: "Though the unexpected chilly weather of the past few days caused persons to go into their shells, as it were, there is an indication that they will become acclimated soon and will continue their autumn programs which were somewhat halted by the elemental tantrum. Not that it isn't time for cool weather, but Texans have been so long spoiled by the gift of lovely Indian summer far into the winter that they refuse to take the seasons seriously.

"When they do decide to do so, however, they grow enthusiastic over seasonable changes and fit their activities to the temperature. Chili suppers and weiner roasts already are being planned in abundance, their very informality making them available entertainment mediums on very short notice.

While over at Borger where Miss Nora Gambill writes under the title of "Scribbles—n g.", there is a little reflection on flower borrowing:

"And the latest fad," she says, among the young matrons is that of flower trading. . . . Now Mrs. Don Baker had a great longing for pansies, and Mrs. E. E. Poose was the possessor of a glorious bed of the exquisite purple velvet blooms. . . So Kathleen B. went digging in Iris F.'s pansy bed and carefully transplanted a big bunch of them. . . She kept a watchful and tender eye on the spot where she could envision pansies blooming very shortly—and then the tiny sprouts came up—Morning glories!"

While in another copy of the Border Herald, J. C. R. who writes under the heading of "The Wasp Nest", has something to say to which I want to voice an agreement. In his discourse, he inserts a paragraph and opines, "Oftentimes financial difficulties drive a husband or wife, or both, to liquor, and this breaks up the home, it is said. I'm inclined to believe, rather, that the liquor drives the family to financial difficulties, and both combine to break up the home. I can't understand how poverty can drive a man to liquor. If he is a victim of poverty, I don't see how he can buy liquor. Poverty is often blamed for liquor, when, as a matter of fact, liquor should be blamed for poverty. . . ."

Sue Vinson, the "Us Women" of the Childress Index, has a flight of poetic fancy inspired by the autumn days and bursts into some eloquence:

"At no other time is the wind so cool while the sun is so warm. The sky is never so blue, with white smoke from the gins hanging so lazily against the color, as in October.

The grass is never so green as just before frost, and the trees are not so beautiful, even when they put out the first leaves of spring.

"Nearly all the flowers that bloom now are yellow, to add to the general blue-and-gold look of things. Everything has a serene and luxuriant look, as if the earth had gained everything it wanted during the striving days of spring and summer."

But then she has a change of heart and concludes: "And if I don't look out I'll be quoting poetry or chasing butterflies, which is no way to act even if October is my favorite month, and I've forgotten about that sandstorm the other day."

At Mineral Wells, the city of bubbling youth or something of the kind, the society editor, LaRue Mercer DeBusk, forgets about these four score years and ten to exclaim: "When the average person thinks of living to the age of 53 it seems like a long time but imagine being married that long!"

In San Angelo things take a more prosaic turn as the woman's editor takes her pen in hand to relate: "With the change of season comes the complete change of social activities. Women again are occupied by club duties, these comprising civic work and educational betterment. Art clubs and study clubs all have resumed bi-monthly meetings for the fall and winter months. Bridge is being taken more seriously as the numerous groups have reorganized for weekly play. Others are being formed.

* * *

"The note of informality, however, prevails in all clubs since women have become definitely budget conscious. Small affairs are given practically every day. . . ."

Tech Players Are Luncheon Guests

Football linemen, "those who open the way," were given tribute by Milton (Speed) Moffett, Matador back, at a Lions club luncheon at which 40 members of the Texas Technological college football squad and its coaches were guests Tuesday in the Hilton hotel. R. C. Smith, president of the Matador club, also was a guest, with Pete Cawthon, Dutchy Smith, and Del Morgan, coaches. Harry Kimbell was program chairman. A program was presented after the coaches and players were introduced.

Moffett thanked the Lions for their support of the team and denied charges that there was any "cockiness" on the team.

"You can't be cocky out there, you've got to be in there all the time," Moffett said, "for the minute you let down there are four more men trying to get your place."

Dutchy Smith told of his scouting trip to Arizona last Saturday and reported "things look kinda' bad for us Friday night". He said the Tech line would be outweighed five to eight pounds to the man and that Arizona had plenty of fast backs.

Coach Cawthon made a short talk on the schedule, pointing out that eight games still remain to be played. He said reservations were already coming in for the Notre Dame B game and that Hunk Anderson, Notre Dame coach, had informed him he was bringing a good team down here.

R. C. Smith told of enthusiasm for the team he had encountered while on a visit down state. He said everybody was asking about the Tech club.

Sock And Buskin Working On Series Of Plays To Be Presented At Local College Within Month Or Six Weeks

Sock and Buskin, dramatic club of Texas Technological college, plans to present a series of three plays within the next month or six weeks. The first, a play by Glenn Hughes, entitled "Babbitt's Boy," will be ready for production in about two weeks, according to Miss Ruth Pirtle, head of the speech department.

This play dramatizes the conflict in the life of a young literary idealist who is trying to adjust himself to the life of an average American citizen after having lived among England's literary scholars for a few years.

William, as the young man is called, overcomes the conflict with great difficulty and is considered a better man for it because he has won.

Cast Selected

The following students have been selected as members of the cast: Graydon Ausmus, Margaret Robinson, Ruth Mildred Rylander, Opal Louise Creighton, and Roscoe Bayless. Casts for the other plays, "Incognito" and "White Collars" have not been completed. "Incognito" was written by a local student, Dan Taulson.

Sock and Buskin means "Light Shoe and Heavy Shoe" and is interpreted on the stage as meaning comedy and tragedy. The ancient Greek comedians wore light shoes (socks) while the tragedians wore heavy shoes (buskins) as a symbol of the profession.

Plenty of Talent

Miss Pirtle believes that the club has a number of talented members this year. Lloyd Marr, a new member, has had four years of training in a professional stock company playing in various parts of this country and in Canada. Another student, Marjory St. John, of Roswell, has had experience in Little theater work.

The club has about 65 members at the present time and is holding a series of tryouts by which it expects to elect 15 or 20 new members. Those students in Sock and Buskin who do exceptional work are eligible to the local chapter of Alpha Psi Omega, national dramatics fraternity.

Hockley County's Valuations Lower

(By Staff Correspondent)

LEVELLAND, Oct. 11—Hockley county's tax valuation for 1932 is $7,195,900, a reduction of $344,760 from the 1931 total, W. C. Elliott, tax assessor, stated. Last year the rolls totaled $7,540,660.

The tax rate is 95 cents per $100 valuation, the same as last year.

"Our decrease was due largely to personal property depreciation," Mr. Elliott explained. "There was no change in the farm land valuations of around $10 per acre."

The roll has been approved by the county commissioner's court and paying of taxes has started.

Six governments have ruled the state of Texas—Spain, France, Mexico, the Texas Republic, the Confederate States and the United States.

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 11. (AP)—Cotton was comparatively quiet today on the eve of the Columbus Day holiday tomorrow, but prices showed an upward tendency from the start on good cables, freezing weather in the western belt and firmness in stocks, and futures closed 13 to 18 points higher.

A private estimate on September domestic mills consumption of 467,000 bales was bullishly construed as it compared with 402,611 the previous month and 464,335 in September last year.

The market opened steady with Liverpool cables coming in 5 to 7 penny points better than due. Private cables said there was trade calling and local buying on strength of British securities and hedging was light. Manchester cabled the home trade was improving and that a fair business with India was pending. First trades here showed gains of 2 to 8 points and prices continued to improve after the start on shorts covering in advance of tomorrow's holiday and on the freezing weather in the west. Before the end of the first hour December traded up to 6.85 and March to 6.78 up 9 to 11 points compared with yesterday's close.

Later in the morning the market again rallied in sympathy with a firmer tone in stocks to show net gains of 13 to 14 points.

The market eased 4 to 5 points in early afternoon but made new highs for the day in the last hour with December at 6.72 and March at 6.88 or 18 to 19 points above the previous close. Prices reacted 3 to 4 points at the end on realizing and December closed at 6.69 and March at 6.84 both months showing net gains for the day of 15 points.

Liverpool is due on New Orleans tomorrow 1 to 2 penny points up.

Port receipts 72,257, for week 182,504 for season 1,942,525, last season 2,138,361. Exports 56,685, for week 125,176, for season, 464,691, last season 994,117. Port stock 3,546,604, last year 3,913,716. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 114,572, last year 144,664. Spot sales at southern markets 45,864, last year 105,670.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Oct. 11. (AP)—Trade and foreign buying along with short covering lifted cotton prices moderately today. The general market closing barely steady at net advances of 13 to 16 points.

The opening was 7 to 9 points higher on reported frosts in the western belt. Liverpool cables were relatively steady.

Active months worked about 13 to 18 points above the previous finals but fell back on profit taking. Trade buying continued, however, and after selling off some 8 or 9 points from the best, prices turned firmer.

March sold up to 6.89 with the general list showing net advances of about 18 to 22 points, but closing quotations were a few points off from the best under scattering and southern selling.

Trade buying appeared to be for both domestic and foreign account, particularly the latter, and was accompanied by reports of a continued tight spot situation in the south.

The official weather details showed minimum temperatures of 32 degrees or lower, ranging down to 26, at 15 stations in Oklahoma, and light frosts were reported in Northwest Texas.

The New York cotton exchange service estimated consumption of all growths in this country for September at 467,000 bales against 403,000 in August and 464,000 last year.

Liverpool cables reported trade "calling and local buying in that market and said that British home trade in cotton goods was improving with a fair business for India pending.

All Legal Steps Said Exhausted

DALLAS, Oct. 11 (AP)—Charles F. O'Donnell, an attorney for the family of the late Mayor Tom L. Bradford, said today all legal steps had been exhausted for the return here of Hubert J. Jenkins, who took his son, Hugh Bradford Jenkins an heir to the Bradford estate, to Louisville several weeks ago.

A request by Governor R. S. Sterling for Jenkins' return to Dallas from Louisville, where he has retained custody of the boy, was refused recently by Governor Ruby Lafoon of Kentucky. Lafoon held that the father was the natural guardian of Hugh Bradford Jenkins, although his step-grandmother, Mrs. Addie Keating Bradford, was appointed legal guardian here.

Jenkins is under indictment here for kidnaping. He was alleged to have spirited the Bradford heir away from Dallas shortly after the mayor's death.

Financial Markets Are Firmer With Stocks Showing To Best Advantage

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 11. (AP)—Financial markets were firmer today, with stocks showing to best advantage.

Share trading was not particularly active, but the rally of 1 to 4 points or so, net, even though it may have largely reflected short covering in preparation for tomorrow's holiday, was comforting to those who had been watching for support levels. Wheat closed moderately higher, helped, no doubt, by stronger Wall street prices.

Generally speaking gains were largest in those equities which had been most severely depressed by recent selling. The market opened strongly and altogether it met occasional setbacks, activity lessened during these periods, and highest quotations were reserved for the last hour. Final levels were somewhat under the best. Volume totaled 1,747,390 shares.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 11. (AP)—Beef steers and yearlings found a rather slow outlet in the day's trade at steady to 25 lower levels as compared with Monday. Chicago sold best weighty steers up to 9.65 and only a few consignments at various points were of quality to sell at $8.50-9.25. The general bulk of steers and yearlings had to go in a spread of 5.25 to 7.75. Market offerings of strictly good and choice fed steers continue scarce with the bulk of supply running to short fed kinds. Stockers and feeders also found a slow movement and prices were considered steady to weak. Replacement steers sell largely in a range of 3.50 to 5.25 with a few loads of choice yearling stockers around 5.75-6.00 and comparable grade stock steer calves up to 6.25 or above. Receipts for two days at eleven markets totalled 136,300 as compared with 143,758 last week and 163,535 the same period a year ago.

Hog trade was rather uneven with some centers recording values as steady to ten lower, while others were strong to 5 higher. St. Louis secured up to 4.00 on best butchers, while top prices elsewhere ranged downward to 3.50.

Lambs continued in the higher trend established yesterday and sold steady to 25 higher figures. Majority of desirable fat kinds brought 4.75-5.50 with a few closely sorted natives and outstanding westerns at 5.75-85.

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, Oct. 11. (AP)—Hog 500; truck hogs mostly steady; no rail hogs offered; truck top 3.65 paid by small killers, packer top 3.60; bulk better grade, 1.85-2.60 pound truck hogs 3.60 and 3.65; packing sows mostly 2.75 or steady.

Cattle 2,200; calves 900; generally dull trade in most classes slaughter cattle, about steady at recent declines; practically no good fed steers offered but receipts include several loads well finished yearlings and remaining supplies mostly cows and mixed butcher classes, few yearlings up to 6.50 plain butcher yearlings around 4.25 down; good fat cows 2.50-3.75; one load bulls 2.00; good stock calves and yearlings fairly active, steady, several sales well bred stock steer calves 6.00-50; slaughter calves slow, unchanged, practical top heavies on packer account 3.50; few up to 4.00; bulk around and under 3.00.

Sheep 1,500; all classes steady; few fat lambs 4.00; 4 decks fat yearlings 3.25; 2 decks aged fat wethers 1.75.

Grain

FORT WORTH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Oct. 11. (AP)—Demand was good for wheat, fair for sorghums and light for other offerings on the cash grain market here Tuesday.

Quotations ranged a shade lower, basis car loads on track at Fort Worth, freight paid to destination.

Delivered Texas gulf ports, export rate, or Texas common points: Wheat: No. 1 hard, according to protein and billing, 58-67.

Barley: No. 2 nominally 32-33; No. 3 nominal 31-32.

Sorghums: No. 2 bright milo per 100 pounds 65-67; No. 2 bright kaffir 62-65, both prices nominal.

Delivered Texas common points or group three: Corn No. 2 mixed 39-40; No. 2 white 42-43; No. 2 yellow 40-41, all nominal.

Delivered Texas common points: Oats: No. 2 red 22 1-2 to 23 1-2; No. 3 red 21 1-2 to 22 1-2.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 11. (AP)—Stimulated by New York stock market upturns that preceded grain trading, cereals today developed strength after wheat had again outdone low-price records.

Rallies in wheat came after the market went momentarily to more than 6 cents a bushel under the recent higher point. Indications that Winnipeg prices were pegged, and that the rural marketing of spring wheat both north and south of the Canadian boundary was diminishing were effective at bullish factors.

Wheat closed firm at almost the day's top, 5-8-1 above yesterday's finish, corn 3-8 to 5-8 up, oats 1-8 to 1-4 advanced, and provisions unchanged to 5 cents lower.

Plans To Combat Ordinance Will Be Made At Gathering

Plans to combat an ordinance, which would permit livestock to be kept only in specific zones of the corporate area, will be outlined at a meeting Saturday night, W. W. Campbell, a lawyer, has announced.

The meeting will be held in the county courtroom, on the first floor of the courthouse and will be called at 7:15 p. m.

City commission has called a special election on the ordinance, for Tuesday, October 18.

Skunk Is Visitor To Court Session

QUANAH, Oct. 11. (AP)—A skunk invaded the courthouse and threatened to disrupt a session of Judge Stokes district court one day last week. It had come to rest under the furnace.

Bob Moore, line foreman for the Northern Texas Utilities company, who professed considerable knowledge of the strength and weakness of the animal, reached under the furnace and yanked it out by the tail and held it helpless in the air.

Much dismay registered by those present. But Bob suffered no penalty for his daring. He said the trick was really not a trick for when a skunk has his hind feet off the ground it is powerless to use its musk gland—believe it or not!

Moore stated he learned the correct approach to a skunk from men who had spent years working on pipe lines. When a segment of pipe is laid on the ground in a skunks neighborhood, the animal is sure to enter it. The pipe line men get them out and handle them without the animal ever throwing its protective musk. Moore said this could be verified by any one trying his method. But it was stated that all present when he rescued the animal from the courthouse furnace were willing to take his word for it.

5 Ways to SAVE Money In Heating

... as told to us by a thrifty housewife

The amount of your gas bill is largely in your hands. During winter months, with house heating needs causing a constant demand for gas, you may make a real saving in your gas bill by following the suggestions given below. Help us to help you SAVE MONEY ON YOUR GAS BILL.

1. Don't turn gas up to a point where the flame goes over the top in open top heaters. This wastes gas.
2. Don't try to heat the breakfast room, or adjoining rooms with the range oven. A small gas heater will do the work better and cheaper.
3. If you keep a fire burning in the bath room, see that it is turned low after the room has become comfortably warm.
4. When shopping, or going out for the evening, close the windows, turning out all gas heaters. The house will retain most of its warmth.
5. Don't open doors or windows to cool the room—turn down the gas instead. A wall thermometer will assist you to keep rooms at a uniform temperature.

Tech Observes "Ladies' Night" For Arizona Contest

Record Crowd Expected For Friday Scrap

"Please The Home Folks With Low Prices And Good Games" Is Motto In Business Office This Week

Desiring nothing more than to please the home fans and give them every benefit the circumstances offer, Texas Tech officials will throw the gates of Matador Field open to women patrons Friday night in observance of a special "ladies' night" as the Matadors open their first conference season.

Escorted ladies will be admitted to the game free of charge except for the ten cent federal tax assessment for every spectator. For a dime, an escorted lady may procure a grandstand seat ticket at the gate Friday night.

No Reserved Seats Sold

Because it is "ladies' night" there will be no seat reservations for any but holders of season tickets, or holders of tickets to all games this season. These persons will be ushered to seats designated on their tickets. Otherwise there will be no reserved seats. The price for all adult tickets, bleacher or grandstand, is $1.10 each, tax included.

In admitting ladies free to Friday night's conflict, Tech has another underlying purpose. A large crowd is desired as the Matadors engage in their first conference football game. Until this season, Tech has played outside of conferences and of conference regulations. This fall sees the Matadors open a championship campaign.

Need Big Crowd

A large crowd at the conference game Friday night between the Texas Tech Matadors and the University of Arizona Wildcats will boost Tech's stock in the conference, making it possible to remain therein, and will help in the event Tech applies for membership in the Southwest conference.

Coaches Cawthon and Smith, predicting their Matadors to lose Friday night against the allegedly powerful Arizona club, gave their boys a hard workout yesterday afternoon, trying new plays and running against Arizona plays.

Doubleheader Is Scheduled

Since a doubleheader is scheduled for Tech this week, it will be necessary to divide the squad, sending a delegation of gridsters to Las Vegas, N. M., on Friday morning. They are to meet the New Mexico Normal university there Friday.

Because of the two games, the necessity of dividing the squad and because Arizona possesses a football team that is nobody's set up, hopes for a Matador victory are not as bright as they be. Add to this condition the fact that a number of the regulars and shock troopers are ineligible to play in the conference game and the possibility of a defeat is still nearer. The coaches are pessimistic.

Stiff drills are on the program for this afternoon and tomorrow night, the Matadors taking the field for a nocturnal workout Thursday.

Lineup Not Settled

Cawthon had not settled on a possible starting lineup for Friday night's game yesterday. The game at Las Vegas, though of no importance in the conference race, takes precedence over the Arizona contest because it was scheduled first, and a strong band will be sent to New Mexico. Three members of the regular backfield, Quarterback Adrian Clark, and Halfbacks Ed McKeever and Gwynn Dowell, ineligible to play against Arizona, will go to New Mexico. Woodrow Wilson, starting tackle, Ben Anthony, starting center and Carlton Luper, shock troop end, are also ineligible, as are other strong reserves.

Any team that Cawthon can put on the field Friday night will be outweighed by the visitors, as has been the case in the last three contests. The Wildcats average 185 pounds, and the best Tech can do Friday night will be around 174.

Local fans may well expect plenty of color and show in the Friday night tilt. Coach Farwick of the Wildcats is a former West Point man, a player on the Army team in 1923 and 1924, and he has brought Army tactics to Tucson. His team, according to Coach Smith, who scouted the Wildcats in their victory over the New Mexico Aggies last week, is one of the hardest blocking and tackling teams "I have ever seen."

Employe Of Lorenzo Gin Is Painfully Hurt In Mishap

J. R. Fitzgibbon, employe of a Lorenzo gin, suffered severe injuries to a hand when the member was caught in a gin stand about 11:30 o'clock Tuesday morning, it was said last night at West Texas hospital. Flesh from the fingers was stripped off.

That two if not all of the fingers might be saved with skin grafts was reported last night by the attending physician.

The two-year-old son of Paul Smith, a laundry employe, suffered severe bruises when struck by an automobile yesterday. The child also was treated at West Texas hospital, where it was said the boy suffered no serious injuries.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Williams and son, John, spent Tuesday in Lubbock as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Carroll. They were en route to their home in Arkansas from California, where they spent the summer. John Williams has visited here before.

Ponies Off Today For Syracuse

DALLAS, Oct. 11. (AP)—The Southern Methodist University Mustangs were given a stiff workout here today. They leave tomorrow for Syracuse, N. Y., where on Saturday they play Syracuse University.

As a result of their poor showing in games to date, the Ponies were none too optimistic about defeating the New Yorkers, but the fact the squad was in good physical condition gave them some hope.

Coach Ray Morrison gave much attention to the Mustang's offense, in other years something to talk and write about but this season woefully weak. At the same time, he sought to plug weaknesses in the defense.

Morrison indicated he would start the same lineup against Syracuse that started against the Rice Institute Owls last week. Rice defeated the Ponies 13 to 0 for their first victory of S. M. U. in ten years.

Depression Strikes At Grid Officials

DALLAS, Oct. 11. (AP)—The depression has finally struck at football officials.

Benne Lee Boynton, one of the southwest's best officials is the first victim.

Bennie Lee was scheduled to accompany the Southern Methodist Mustangs to Syracuse, N. Y., this week to officiate in the S. M. U. and Syracuse University game. Tonight, he was packed and ready to leave tomorrow at noon.

He packed too soon, for no sooner had he locked his gladstone bag than a telegram was handed him which read:

"Consider it a kind and economy consideration if you will agree to cancellation of your contract to referee here Saturday."

Southern Methodist hasn't scored this season. Syracuse lost Saturday. Crowds go see winners only. So for "economy consideration" Bennie Lee agreed to stay home.

Junior High Cowboys Will Meet Brownfield Wednesday

Coach Mule Davis' junior high school Cowboys will tangle this afternoon at 4 o'clock with Brownfield junior high eleven in that city, according to announcement from the local school last night. Today's game will be the first of the season for the prospective Westerners.

Starting lineup for the Cowboys probably will be: George Morgan, L.E.; Rollie Vermillion, L.T.; Leon Hersher, L.G.; Joe Durham, C; Joe Jones, R.G.; Lloyd Logan, R.T.; Murray Venable, R.E.; Worth Bull, L.H.; Jack Trammel, R.H.; R. J. Murray, Q.B.; and Othie Upton, captain and F.B.

Longhorns Look Toward Game Saturday With U. Of Oklahoma

AUSTIN, Oct. 11 (AP)—With the "B" team reeling off Oklahoma University plays against the varsity, Coach Clyde Littlefield sent his University of Texas football team through an extended scrimmage session here today in preparation for the meeting with the Sooners at Fair Park, Dallas, Saturday.

Impressed by Oklahoma's convincing 21-6 victory over Kansas last week, Coach Littlefield warned his charges that the Sooners would be tough customers, and emphasized the fact that they must be in tiptop form if they expected to win.

Westerners Do Not Look Warm In Scrimmage

Chapman Crew To Take On Abilene Eagles In Saturday Feature Here; Club Shows Not Much Spirit In Drill

Coaches Weldon Chapman and Burl Huffman sent their Lubbock High Westerners through a scrimmage yesterday afternoon, following a lengthy practice on blocking and tackling.

The blocking and tackling practice showed the lads up in a more favorable light to sideline tacticians than did the scrimmage which was about as thrilling to watch as a growing buttercup. There was small evidence of pep and enthusiasm, and even less of concentrated effort.

For the scrimmage, Coach Huffman directed the reserves against the first team in a volley of Abilene High school offensive plays that clicked rather well.

On his defensive team, Coach Chapman had a line composed of Howard Bain, center; Bob Vaught and Hugh Newton, guards; Captain Louis Spear and Harold Gaines, tackles; Possum Blackwell and Dalton Blagg, ends; Rufus Ryan, quarterback; Joe Nelson, fullback and Tol Terrell and Bill Davidson, halfbacks. That may be the starting team against Abilene Saturday night at Matador Field.

Gaines A Regular

Particular attention was paid to big Harold Gaines, the biggest man on the front line, yesterday, and before the day was over he was breaking through with considerable skill. He appears to have the inside track for the left tackle position, and if his good work of last Saturday night continues his job will be a cinch.

Joe Nelson replaces Truman Hutson at fullback. Hutson may break back into the first ranks after this week's practice. His offense is about right, but he has been weak on the defense. Richard Godeke, a halfback candidate, was playing a wing position on the offensive team. He was out with illness last week.

Potentia Men, These

Truman Hutson, Raymond Billings and Rayburn Hale were doing most of the offensive work.

Losers to Sweetwater last week 24 to 7, the Westerners are not favorites to beat Abilene this week, but there is a fighting point, if the Westerners will make it so, in the fact that Abilene was the team which defeated Lubbock in the state quarterfinals last year after the Westerners had had plenty of trouble winning a district and bi-district championship.

More or less exasperated with the lack of enthusiasm and the sluggish manner in which they worked out yesterday, Coach Chapman promised a big dose of practice for this afternoon and each afternoon until Saturday. The club may work out at night tomorrow, however, when the lights are turned on for the Matador practice at the Tech field.

Football Officials Find Favor With New Rulings

(This is the second of a series of three stories on the reactions of football's working directors to the new rules designed to safeguard players. Today's story deals with the opinions of prominent officials.)

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 11—Through so experienced a spokesman as Tom Thorp, long recognized as one of the country's foremost football arbiters, gridiron officials today replied to the inference of coaches that violations of one of the new rules, barring forceful use of hands by defensive linesmen, were not being "called" frequently enough.

"A survey of games played will show that penalties this season are far greater than ever before," he said today. "This would indicate that officials are on the job. I know of no official who would overlook important violations of the playing code. Perhaps the coaches are referring to individual cases.

"Hands" Rule Clear-Cut

"The rule on illegal use of hands is clean-cut. There should be little question in the mind of any official. The use of the hand or hands on the head of an opposing linesman is a violation. It should be penalized and in the east officials have been instructed to be very strict.

"Coaches can do a great deal to eliminate any illegal use of hands by removing an offender who persists from the game. In fact, much of the responsibility for elimination of violators rests with the coaches themselves. Let them forbid their players using hands illegally and this dangerous play will be eliminated entirely."

Hail Benefits Of Rules

Working officials hailed with Thorp the benefits of the new rules.

Some expressions to the Associated Press follow:

Herb Dana, San Francisco: "The dead ball rule absolutely eliminates piling up. The substitution rule is valuable not so much because it gives a team with less reserves a better chance, but because a player who is hurt realizes he can return in the next quarter and won't oppose retiring so bitterly, which in the past created dangerous situations."

George Varnell, Seattle: "Injuries and bad bumps have disappeared. The alterations in use of hands are finding fine cooperation from coaches and players."

Dr. F. D. Lambert, Columbus, O.: "There's less question in officiating now than ever before. In nine games I've worked, the new rules have worked splendidly. Coaches who booed the 'dead ball' rule now say it is fine. The only objection I can see is that the substitution rule lengthens games about 15 minutes."

Clyde E. McBride, Kansas City: "The 'dead ball' rule already has demonstrated its worth in preventing piling up injuries. The cries that this rule prevents a runner in the clear from recovering his feet if he slips doesn't go far with me. If the carrier can't keep his feet, let him pay the penalty."

Wilmer Crowell, Philadelphia: "The new rules were designed to eliminate injuries and they have done that. They are working out nicely."

E. C. Quigley, Kansas City: "While the rules committee appears to have gone to extremes in attempting to keep the play clear, I heartily approve of legislation against 'rabbit' punching and 'piston' punching. I like all the changes. I believe they will prove entirely acceptable as the season progresses."

Lamesa Tornadoes To Play Odessa Friday Afternoon

LAMESA, Oct. 11 (Special)—The Lamesa Golden Tornadoes, coached by F. T. McCollum and F. L. Gregg, are scheduled to play Odessa here Friday afternoon. A hard game is expected. Coach McCollum states that he has one of the best lines that he has ever had for a high school, and is expecting to develop a fast backfield which will carry the team well into the finals for district championship. The squad has only played two games to date, holding Big Spring Class A team nothing to nothing, and defeating Hobbs, New Mexico Oilers 24 to 0. Strong teams on the schedule of the Tornadoes are Brownfield, Tahoka, O'Donnell, and Slaton. The Slaton game is scheduled for November 11, and always draws interest of football fans in this section.

Southern Methodist May Play Oklahoma In Charity Contest

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 11 (AP)—Officials of Southern Methodist university, Dallas, and the University of Oklahoma reported today they had agreed tentatively on December 10 for a charity football game.

BRANNON RECOVERED

FORT WORTH, Oct. 11 (AP)—Apparently fully recovered from the leg injury which kept him on the sidelines during the greater part of the Horned Frogs' past two games, Buster Brannon will be started at quarterback against the Texas Aggies Saturday afternoon at College Station. This was indicated in the workouts of the Frogs yesterday and today.

Jefferson U. Wins Over Kelly Field Grid Team, 37 To 6

DALLAS, Oct. 11. (AP)—The Jefferson University Rangers retained their undefeated and untied record today with a 37 to 6 victory over the Kelly Field Fliers of San Antonio. It was the fourth consecutive win for the Rangers. A feature of the game was a hundred yard run by Hamitt of Jefferson in the fourth quarter when he intercepted a Kelly Field pass smack on the goal line and raced the entire length of the field for a touchdown in front of a six-man interference.

Jodie White, sensational Jefferson halfback, was checked first two periods, but tore loose in the fourth quarter for 62 and 2-yard runs for touchdowns. Malone, former Denton High school flash, scored the other two touchdowns for Jefferson.

Kelly Field scored in the fourth period when Estes caught a pass from Timberlake and galloped 23 yards for the touchdown, shaking off several Jefferson tacklers. An estimated crowd of four thousand saw the game.

Rice Squad Cut To 44 Men Before Meeting Loyola U.

HOUSTON, Oct. 11 (AP)—The Rice Institute football squad was cut to 44 players under Coach Jack Meagher's orders today, as he sent the Owls through a strenuous workout in preparation for Saturday's game here against Coach Clark Shaughnessy's Loyola Wolves of New Orleans.

Meagher expressed a belief that Loyola's defeat by Baylor was caused in large measure by Loyola's reported failure to scout Baylor, which won the game with forward passes.

The Rice squad originally numbered 55.

'Marse Joe' McCarthy To Boss Yanks Three Years

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (AP)—Joseph Vincent McCarthy, the square-jawed Buffalo Irishman who piloted the New York Yankees back to world championship baseball heights in a two-year term as manager, today received his reward in a new three-year contract at a substantial increase in salary.

It was understood the figures written into the new contract called for at least $100,000 for the three-year period.

The contract marked a fresh step forward in the unusual career of "Marse Joe," who never played a game of big league baseball in his life but now holds the distinction of being the only pilot ever to manage pennant winners in both the American and National leagues. Two years after being summarily removed as manager of the Chicago Cubs, McCarthy has established himself firmly in the driver's seat of the richest outfit in baseball.

McCarthy denied he had any trades or alterations in the Yankee machine in mind and parried all questions as to what he contemplated or expected for 1933. The most he would admit was that "it would be tough staying on top" but he added quickly: "It always is. The fans like to ride the champions."

Baylor Bears Prepare For Tilt With Arkansas Porkers

WACO, Oct. 11 (AP)—The Baylor University Cubs scrimmaged with the varsity today in preparation for their game tomorrow with Hillsboro Junior college on the Baylor gridiron. It will be the Cubs' first game of the season.

The Bears may have a light scrimmage tomorrow, leaving afterward for Little Rock, Ark., where they will clash Saturday with the University of Arkansas Razorbacks.

Texas Aggies Scrimmage In Preparation For Frog Game

COLLEGE STATION, Oct. 11 (AP)—Coach Mattie Bell sent the Texas A. & M. football players through a stiff scrimmage against reserves and freshmen today in preparation for the Texas Christian university football game here Saturday.

Another hard workout was scheduled for tomorrow, with a lighter workout Thursday.

An Important Hearing

BEGINNING this morning in Dallas is a joint hearing of the Interstate Commerce commission and the Texas Railway commission at which will be discussed a matter of prime importance to Lubbock and the South Plains.

We refer to efforts on the part of port interests at Houston, Galveston and Texas City, aided by the Fort Worth and Denver City railway and large port cotton companies to secure cheaper freight rates on shipments of flat cotton, which will not reflect to the benefit of the cotton producer but which, if successful, will paralyze inland compressing and, eventually, a great deal of inland cotton business.

Delegations from Lubbock and many other South Plains cotton points are attending the Dallas meeting, determined to protect the interests of South Plains cotton planters, buyers, merchants, ginners and compressers. And unless they are successful in their opposition the selfish alliance between the port interests, cotton firms and the Denver lines is apt to do this section untold harm.

In pushing their part of the deal, the large cotton companies are threatening to truck from Lubbock and other South Plains points the cotton which it purchases in this area—thus holding a club over the railroads that have been transporting the crop. In other words, besides facing a threat of having our inland compresses closed and our cotton markets hampered we are also facing a threat of our highways being clutered up with dangerous trucks, heavily loaded and making traffic even more hazardous than it has been.

The Morning Avalanche is in favor of reduced freight rates on cotton providing the reduction applies to flat and compressed cotton, alike, and providing the reduction is reflected to the benefit of the farmer who raises the cotton.

But we are opposed to the port interests-Denver-cotton companies alliance which would deplete our compress payrolls and taxable values, cut off the buying power of our cotton merchants and buyers and not aid the planter a single bit.

In other words, we're interested in protecting Lubbock and South Plains cotton planters and cotton men against the onslaught of the port interests and outsiders seeking only private gain to the detriment of all others. And further than that, we can see nothing laudable in the plan of the cotton companies to litter our roads with trucks, operating in danger to life and limb and, through their heavy loads, smashing the pavements which the people of Texas have paid tax money to construct for their own convenience, rather than for the convenience of large cotton firms.

TAX "REVISION"

Poor blind, bungling humanity. One wonders sometimes how man ever survived. He seems never to do the right thing at the right time and is forever trying to accomplish the impossible when it is quite obvious that he must do something else.

Right now virtually every state has a tax revision commission or its equivalent when tax reduction, not revision, is needed. Has it never occurred to the heads of government that retrenchment in government costs is not to be obtained by revised tax laws? Or is the tax revision commission a political invention to fool the taxpayers into believing that their public executives and lawmakers are sincerely and intelligently working for cheaper government and lower taxes?

Private extravagance in the United States during the prosperity era was downright parsimony compared with public waste and extravagance since the war. Government has indulged in every luxury, irrespective of whether it was the province of government, and the people liked it and paid for it as long as they could.

But the time has come when government must return to the three R's of public administration—protection of life, health and property. These, properly, are the only three true functions of government. And right now they are the only ones the taxpayers can afford.

Tax revision isn't going to spare the taxpayer; it will merely give the thorns new names. Budget revision is the need of the moment, and the revision must be downward without moderation.

Will the American people be able to break the expensive habits acquired in recent years? Will they be able to get their federal, state and municipal governments out of the idea of building convention halls, public palaces and stadiums and ...t of those equally expensive habits of ...ernalism and interference with private ...ness? Those who know how deeply ...ucratic government is rooted in Am... politics question it very much.

Brookhart Handicaps Iowans

(In view of the fact that both President Hoover and Governor Roosevelt have made Iowa their chief battleground, Charles P. Stewart once more analyzes possible political trends in this heavily contested state.)

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 11.—Iowa, center of farm discontent that it be, is not the easiest of the "food belt" states for Milo Reno and his agricultural followers to swing from the Republican to the Democratic column on election day.

"Food belt" commonwealths like Nebraska, South Dakota and even Kansas, while Republican, are not so overwhelmingly so as Iowa, and Missouri probably is slightly more Jeffersonian than Hamiltonian; formerly was decidedly so. Iowa is Republican by 4 or 5 to 1; 10 to 1 in spots; never has given a Democratic presidential majority since Civil war days. In 1913 there was one Hawkeye town in which President Wilson could not find a single Democrat to appoint postmaster and had to give the job to a Republican.

A lead of this sort requires considerable overcoming.

NEVERTHELESS, Iowa Democrats are hopeful; Republicans worried.

The agricultual situation is the most potent pro-Democratic factor.

Sentiment clearly is predominantly against President Hoover in the matter of his resort to force to drive the B. E. F. from Washington a few weeks ago.

Senator Smith W. Brookhart

In such large communities as Dubuque, Clinton, Sioux City and Council Bluffs, with industrial populations which are not acutely conscious of their dependence on agriculture, immediate prohibition modification is so strongly demanded as to be a count in favor of the candidate on the Democratic platform, which unmistakably is regarded as the wetter (or at least the more urgently wet) of the two.

In the dryer interior, farm dissatisfaction largely offsets the claims made for President Hoover as a better friend of prohibition than his rival.

SENATOR SMITH W. BROOKHART'S independent candidacy for re-election as a bone-dry, ultra-progressive Republican, adds to G.O.P. handicaps.

He does not directly affect the national ticket, to be sure, but he is as bitter in his opposition to Mr. Hoover as the most passionate Democrat, and perhaps, calling himself a Republican, even more effectively so.

It may seem as if, if Iowa is so radically inclined on the farm issue as is represented, Brookhart should have been renominated over the not-very-clearly-defined Henry Field, who actually did get the Republican senatorial nomination.

The fact is, however, that he was in disfavor with both conservative and radical Republicans.

It will be recalled that there was much talk in Washington during the last session of congress of the number of relatives whom certain law-makers had on the government payroll, and (justly or not) a particularly strong case of this sort was made out against Brookhart. This was greatly to the indignation of the very type of Iowans upon whose support he was depending—that is, hard-up farmers, who did not fancy the idea of a spokesman at the national capital, getting a senator's salary and with family connections drawing $25,000 a year, as was represented.

Of course, conservatives also fought him frantically.

Likewise, in a sense, he was classed with the 'ins', the argument being advanced that, for all his fiery speeches, he has accomplished nothing.

YET DESPITE these factors, which beat him in the Hawkeye primaries, Brookhart has his following. It undoubtedly would have gone to Field in a straight-away test between him and the Democratic nominee, Louis Murphy.

The split naturally helps Murphy senatorially; Brookhart will draw from him a little, but much more heavily from Field.

Furthermore, the G.O.P. senatorial division will make for scratched ballots and generally add to Republican disorganization, from which Iowa politicians (not excluding numerous disgruntled Republicans) predict that the Democrats will profit handsomely.

BUT FOR ALL THAT, a state with so huge and consistent a normal Republican majority as Iowa's is hard to visualize as flopping completely over.

It is not a safe state for Republicanism this year. That is about as strong an assertion as it is judicious to make.

Among Democrats Murphy appears to have the best chance—to win the senatorship, between Field and Brookhart. There is a fighting possibility that the Democrats will carry it presidentially. If so, the head of the ticket will be quite likely to pull Clyde L. Herring through for the governorship, over Governor Dan W. Turner, a candidate for re-election.

And it is no small thing for so rock-ribbed a Republican state as Iowa to have to be set down in the somewhat doubtful column.

Lubbock Citizen Writes About The Great Drama Of Lone Star Politics

Editor, The Avalanche: The curtains have just fallen on the fourth act of the biennial political drama in Texas politics. The stage is the state of Texas. The audience consists of many and varied groups of people typical of the Lone Star State. In one section of the roofless walls of the great theatre we see General Wolters with his uniformed army of occupation; they are seated in the East Texas oil field. In an other section are the millionaires or captains of "big business" Scattered throughout the 254 counties we observe a popular group, viz; the State highway employees who sit near the governor and the commission, and at the interim of the acts do reverence to the chief executive and his appointees. Then we have the Board of Control seated comfortably near the Army of Occupation. Located near the control members are the college and university groups who have been favored by the board and who expect additional favors from said board. In still another group we see Dan Moody, Cato Sells, Tom Love, W. P. Hobby, J. W. Hunt and other representatives of the organization of political nondescripts. Scattered throughout this vast amphitheater, where seats can be found, were located the toilers, the farmers, the country merchants, the mechanics, the railroad brotherhood, the unemployed, the students, the teachers and ten thousands who long and hope for opportunity. These were the people who sat in the vast roofless walls of the theater when the curtains rose at the Cotton Palace in Waco on last May where Miriam A. and James E. Ferguson appeared on the stage to open their appeal for and in defense of humanity.

Two weeks later, in the same city, and from the courthouse lawn Governor Sterling opened his cause for re-election with an appeal to the people to sustain him in his position for two more years in an orgy of waste, ignorance and incompetency.

In the interlude of the great acts of the drama appeared Tom Hunter—unheralded and unknown but with a personality and a message that was well received.

The all-Texas audience was called upon in each act to register approval of the actors. It was accordingly done and the vote stood Ferguson-Sterling-Hunter. Under the scheme of the Texas election drama the two high candidates re-appear and appeal to the electorate for support of their cause. The Fergusons continued their battle for and in defense of the forgotten man, sought to aid the unfortunate, argued for an opportunity for the unemployed and sought to place the star of hope above the cradle of the poor man's child. Sterling closed the governors office; the highway department closed their doors to current and future business, got into state owned cars and drove down the political highways to secure votes to perpetuate an administration of waste, ignorance and vice, the lack of which is unknown and unequaled in the history of any state in the union. With money and organizations using thousands of dollars; with paid lawyers and prelates; with army officials and state rangers; with power of office and official control; with advantage of hirelings and authority to impose slavery upon hungry and helpless hundreds who had to work to save themselves and families from starvation—with all these agencies at his command—he lost. Thus the curtain falls in the second act of the political drama with the fruits of victory in the hands of those who had toiled for six years while their oppressors reaped.

The third act in the grand opera of political proceedure opened here in Lubbock. It was here that our people extended to the visiting delegates the hospitality that will long be remembered by them. It was here that the opposing factions met in the convention halls and accorded Miriam A. Ferguson a victory by acclamation. It was here that the State Executive committee, a Sterling committee, certified the nomination of Miriam A. Ferguson for governor. It was here that order prevailed and Democratic harmony obtained. It was here that Fergusonism triumphed and Sterlingism met its Waterloo.

The fourth act of this drama was shifted to the state capitol. The curtains were raised at midnight and on the stage appeared a trinity of lawyers representing the cause of a three time defeated governor in one campaign. Think of it—the Judge on the case was an appointee of the Governor and an uncle of Dan Moody, an inveterate enemy of the Fergusons. An order restraining the Secretary of State from certifying the name of the nominee of the party was granted and the star chamber adjourned. This was the notice conveyed to her who had been chosen by popular vote and by state convention to the November election. In the days that followed—"Then and there were hurrying to and fro." The defendants attorneys made prompt answer and argued law and facts. The court deliberated and rendered an opinion worthy of the office he held. Not satisfied, the governor apealed to another court and still another until it reached the highest court in the state. This court sustained the law and facts by holding with the people in the election, the convention in its nomination and the other courts in their decision. Thus the curtains fall on the fourth act and the people still marvel to what extent the governor and his cohorts will go in their mad career. This is the first time in the annals of American politics that the oppressor rebelled.

Man Who Punched Cattle All Along Frontier Is Buried In Fort Worth

FORT WORTH, Oct. 11 (AP)—G. W. Norton, who punched cattle all along the frontier when many a Texas city consisted of half a dozen stake and canvas houses, was buried here today.

Norton died Monday in a hotel built on the lot that was a stable yard where he spent his first night in Fort Worth many years ago.

Pioneering west from Fort Worth, Norton claimed the distinction of pitching one of the first tents erected on the site of the city of Abilene. There, he often recalled, he was in constant warfare with cowboys who would end their periodical "sprees" by cutting the guy ropes of the tent and letting the canvas fall on the occupants.

Norton punched cattle along the Conchos before San Angelo was even a tent city. In those days there were more Indians than white men on the plains of West Texas and riding the range was a hazardous life.

The pioneer cow puncher made his home in Atlanta, Ga., during the latter years of his life. He owned extensive property in Texas, however, and it was his custom to spend a part of his time each year looking after his interests in this state.

Coolidge

man Everett Sanders, Coolidge traced the history of the Republican party's efforts "for sound money" and said "the defeat of Democratic greenback craze and the free silver issue were both followed by periods of prosperity under Republican administrations."

Turning to the Democratic party and its program, Coolidge said the "assurance that the pending Democratic raids on the treasury would be defeated by a Republican victory in November would no doubt have the same effect in reviving all kinds of business."

The former president declared that "an early and timely word from the Democratic candidate for president that he would reject the proposal to increase the national debt by $2,300,000,000 to pay a bonus would have been a great encouragement to business, reduced unemployment, and guaranteed the integrity of the national credit. While he remained silent, economic recovery was measurably impeded."

Hoover Is Leader

Mr. Coolidge declared that "if initiating proposals and securing their adoption constitutes leadership, President Hoover is a leader, and if saving this country from one impending disaster after another provides any basis for gratitude then President Hoover is entitled to gratitude."

The loudest uproar from the crowd, stopping the former president for several minutes, came with this remark:

"President Hoover was not born to the enjoyment of generations of inherited wealth so that he could be educated by private tutors and sent through schools and universities. He was never carried into political office by the way of family influence. He has always had to depend on his name and reputation."

As his farewell word of the address, Mr. Coolidge said:

"The more this campaign has progressed, the more I am convinced that the public welfare requires that he (Hoover) should be re-elected."

Tonight's rally also was the opening high-light of the New York state campaign, with William J. Donovan, nominee for governor, and George Medalie, candidate for the United States senate, adding their voices to the chorus for a Republican victory in November.

Walker Trial

testimony of Mrs. T. B. Hilton, her husband, and Joe Hilton, Kucera attacked it.

"Mrs. Hilton and Joe said they recognized Walker. They said right out that Hugh Walker did this, and Hugh Walker did that," Kucera said. 'Did they know on the night of May 30 Hugh Walker did 't? Why did she not say so? She said she was afraid to tell anyone. They didn't recognize anyone until Mr. Ross made a story.

"On the night of May 30, Hugh Walker was right here in Lubbock, and you have the witness Williams and John Berry who testified to the fact he played dominoes with them."

Closing, Kucera appealed, "I know you men realize the important task that is yours. I feel you are going to do your duty and decide this case the way your conscience dictates, and find a verdict that this defendant is not guilty."

Described As Poor Man

Describing Walker as a "poor man who has been surrounded by statements by a witness who has admitted he is a murderer and a hijacker," Schenck, who began his argument at 2:45 o'clock, said, 'I can't believe you will find him guilty."

"About this man Ross—his testimony is not true, cannot be true, and you can do nothing except find this defendant not guilty," Schenck declared. "Look at the murder man in this case, think about your death gun. Who owned it? Ross did.

"The state never has yet got Hugh Walker into Jess Covington's car. They've got him into Ross' car only," Schenck declared, after reading testimony by state witnesses regarding the purported change of automobiles by Walker in Morningside addition.

"Why is that man Ross walking the streets—" Schenck began, and turned to Bradley. "I beg your pardon, that isn't—"

"That's all right," the district attorney shot back, "Go ahead."

"Why was Ross walking the street yesterday on $2,500 bond?" Schenck asked then. "He was talking to lawyers about his own case. (A fact not brought out in testimony and apparently the reason for Schenck's hesitation.) Ross won't be here the next time, gentlemen."

Schenck charged the Hilton's identified Walker and Richardson, who is under 20-year-sentence in the case, to "clear their own skirts."

Ross has been charged with robbing Cliff Lindsey in February, and defense witnesses sought to connect Brown with the alleged offense.

The closing argument by District Attorney Bradley was from 4:10 o'clock to 5:30. The courtroom was filled to overflowing, and aisles were being filled when Bradley began.

"Both Kucera and Schenck have heaped upon this man Ross' head many hard things," Bradley said. "If either of the others accused occupied his position he would be innocent and the other the guilty man.

"I have no plea for G. A. Ross; I do not condone him. He'll get his in time to come, thank God. He'll be tried by some other jury. You're trying Hugh Walker, and now stay with me and let's try Hugh Walker," Bradley asked.

Refuting Mr. Kucera, the district attorney declared that Mrs. Hilton named Walker and Richardson on June 26 and that it was not until July 5 that Ross told his story.

Mr. Schenck had stated to the jurors that Walker perhaps would have had a better attorney had he had more money.

"Judge Schenck," Bradley addressed the lawyer who was not in the courtroom at the time, "you are a better lawyer than Frank V. Brown had on that night when you, Hugh Walker, (the speaker shook his finger at the defendant) sent him to his grave.

"Look At His Face"

"I ask you to look at that face," he directed the jurors again to Walker. "Murder and robbery is written across it. It is a physical demonstration of a reckless life thrown away.

"Why would these people testify for Hugh Walker? Because they are his own kind. I can take them and prove that hell is an ice house, and that bananas thrive in December at the North Pole."

It was then that Bradley slipped out of his coat and vest, and loosened his shirt collar before continuing his impassioned plea.

Referring to allegations about Brown and Mrs. Hilton, Bradley charged "This filth, these damnable falsehoods are brought in here to befuddle you in an attempt to turn that murderer loose." Again the finger of accusation shot at Walker.

Picking up the alleged death rifle and pointing to the inscriptions "Bear 1" and "deer," Bradley declared that the proper "epitaph to be carved on this gun now is one man—one man."

Stand By The Law

"I implore you, beg you, to stand by the law today, send him to the electric chair. He's had a fair and impartial trial."

Brown's widow and his daughter were in the courtroom. Walker's wife and his father sat by the defendant's side.

During Vickers' address he fumbled frequently with the two guns which the state claimed were used in the murder.

After describing the approach of the car to the Tom Hilton house and of three men to the car in which Brown, pioneer Lubbock rancher was sitting, Vickers said:

"'Barber John' Richardson whips out that splattermatic and sticks it in Tom Hilton's stomach and orders him into the house with an oath not fit to repeat before women."

The attorney brandished the automatic as he talked.

"'Barber John' says get that big s— out of that car," Vickers shouted. "He musters the Hiltons into the house, and in the excitement his handkerchief drops off. Mrs. Hilton sizes him up, looks at that beak nose, that hatchet face. Joe Hilton gets a look at him, too.

"Hugh Walker is standing out there with that 30-30 on "Leather Hat" Brown, he backs Brown up to the house.

Shot In Hand

"'What do you want, men,' Brown asks. Poor old "Leather Hat" Brown realizes that these bandits are there bent on murder, and he makes a last desperate effort to save his life or the lives of some of the Hiltons. He clinches with "Barber John", and is shot in the hand.

"In the meantime Hugh Walker with that Winchester (Vickers picked up the rifle, crouched, and backed away from the jury box), goes backing off in that cat-like way described by Mrs. Hilton. When "Barber John" fires that pistol, Hugh Walker shoots this 30-30 Winchester.

Saw Brown Fall

"The Hiltons go running, but just before they started they saw Frank Brown go reeling, saying, 'My God.'

"Then those two lieutenants go running to that lieutenant of banditry, Hugh Walker, the leader of that bandit gang, the lord chief commander of the bandit gang. Why they go running to him, I don't know. I don't know whether they first frisked Brown, lying there in his blood."

The purported return trip of the car to Lubbock was outlined by the prosecutor, and then Vickers attacked Walker's alibi that he was in Lubbock.

Witnesses Flayed

"When the general presses the button, they come from New Mexico, from the storm swept coast, from Fort Worth—they come in from here and yon to build him up an alibi. Hugh's mind works like chain lightning, and when he presses a button his lieutenants come from over the state of Texas and from New Mexico.

A long charge to the jury by Judge Mullican gave the jurors three possible verdicts — murder with malice with a penalty of death or a penitentiary sentence for any term of years not less than two, murder without malice with a penalty of not less than two nor more than five years in the penitentiary, or of not guilty.

"Decrease the prices received by the producers;

"Hurt every agency affected: producers, buyers, ginners, other handlers, bankers and business institutions;

"Decrease all business done in the interior and decrease the business done by the railroads;

"Only help a few large shippers at the ports."

Opposition Declared

The South Plains Freight Rate association recently passed a similar resolution, declaring opposition to "any such system of freight rates on cotton because it discriminates between the small shipper and the large shipper and will force the marketing of cotton into the hands of a few large shippers who can accumulate at one origin the carload quantity required by the tariff in order to obtain the lower freight rates."

Both the Lubbock chamber and the freight rate association resolutions declared "in favor of reduced freight rates on cotton, provided rates on compressed cotton are reduced proportionately to rates on flat cotton."

Lubbock is in the 72-cent zone.

Two Suspects Being Held In Lubbock On Theft Of Cotton

Two suspects in connection with the theft of a bale of cotton from T. Teal, a farmer living four or five miles north of Lubbock, were being held at the county jail late last night, Will Earnest, deputy sheriff, said. The men were taken into custody by the deputy after a lengthy investigation of the theft, which occurred early Monday.

Charges were to be filed this morning the deputy said. According to Deputy Earnest, the cotton was in a wagon in the field near the road when it was taken. The wagon was hauled about a mile and the contents transferred to a trailer.

Somewhere in Lubbock the trailer became unfastened and was later picked up and hauled to Woodrow where the cotton was ginned. The bale was sold.

As far as could be learned this was the first theft of cotton reported for the 1932 ginning season.

In life, Gruber denied reports of his death twelve times. Bitten constantly by his dangerous "pets", he treated himself 32 times for the bites of poisonous snakes. Just once he was unable to treat himself, when a Texas rattler bit him in a large artery and he collapsed within 15 seconds. He was 10 days in the hospital and the effects of the venom bothered him for nine months.

He came to Pittsburgh and lived a quiet life, but his friends said he was depressed and melancholy—a defeated, broken man.

Drawn To Campus

Police believe the aged man, his health and spirit ebbing, was drawn to the picturesque Washington and Jefferson campus. They sense that he probably wandered about in the familiar surrounding of his Alma Mater and that happy memories of his days as student and president made him more and more depressed.

Then, they believed, after a sad farewell to the place he once knew so well, he boarded a Pittsburgh-bound bus.

In his pocket was a pistol. At the foot of Quayle hill, not far from an amusement park where many W. & J. students revel, he alighted and strode into the field.

One shot and it was over.

available to members and said that physicians desiring to prepare papers or study certain subjects, could get magazine articles, books, etc., from the state secretary.

Tells Of a Trip

Dr. Foster told of a trip he had recently made to Chicago where he talked with members of the judicial council of the American Medical association. The council is working on a study of medical costs in conjunction with the Rosenwald Foundation and a split in the council was predicted over the report.

Changes in the medical profession were noted by Dr. Knapp in his address. He complimented the physicians on their being "keen for the most up-to-date discoveries" of their profession. He pictured changed conditions in the South along medical and health lines and said "the South has become one of the healthiest parts of the country."

Sandards Changed

Standards of the profession have undergone a change, he pointed out. Schools are changing and "stepping up" in their entrance requirements and the speaker predicted the time when all medical schools would require a degree from a recognized college before a student could enter the medical school.

John Cook played a piano solo before the speaking program and Jack Paul and his "Show Boat" orchestra gave several numbers between the talks.

The scheduled program of Tuesday was carried out and all papers were read. Visitors introduced at the banquet included Dr. J. J. Hanna, Quanah, president; Dr. G. T. Vineyard, Amarillo, councilor; Dr. Tom B. Bond, Fort Worth; Dr. R. B. Giles, Dallas; Dr. Gerald Bennett, Fort Worth; Dr. Charles F. Harris, Fort Worth; Dr. C. W. Stevenson, Wichita Falls; Dr. M. H. Glover, Wichita Falls and Dr. A. C. Scott, Temple.

sibility of more direct efforts towards inflation.

But while watching the backfield play, we shouldn't lose sight of the work on the line. Attention should not be centered on price movements at the expense of all of our important and significant indicators of business conditions. In this country we have experienced many prosperous periods during eras of low or gradually recovering prices and we may expect to do so again. The man who would be well informed should follow not only the spectacular "back-field movements" of the prices but also the plugging, less spectacular "line play" of American business as shown by the movements of the Federal Reserve Board's indices of industrial production, the Department of Labor's indices of employment and payrolls, and the Department of Commerce's indices of commodity stocks.

IN addition, the many unofficial but equally important and carefully constructed indicators of business compiled by private sources will be found upon study to have guidance value to most every business enterprise.

I refer to such statistics as freight car loadings, which are still an important measure of short-term changes in the movement of goods, even though their value as a long-term indicator has been somewhat destroyed by the increased use of trucks for inter-city hauling; steel mill operations, building contracts awarded, electric power consumption, business failures and other compilations of similar character.

British Cotton Industry Is Enjoying Days Of Boom

MANCHESTER, Eng., Oct. 11 (AP) The British cotton industry momentarily is enjoying good times as a result of a torrent of orders released by the recent settlement of the weaver's strike and of the forced flood of yarn orders growing out of fears that labor troubles will put a stop to spinning.

Indian shippers have been heavy buyers this week. For the last fortnight spinning mills have experienced demands for yarn similar to those of the 1929 boom. Sales were doubled. Order books have reached the 1930 level.

Don't let Anyone kid you —

He-men like 'em Mild

You might think that a two-fisted fellow like the steel jack in the picture would like his tobacco strong. Not at all.

He wants his cigarettes mild and that's why he picks Chesterfields.

Mildness doesn't mean a smoke that's weak or flat or insipid or anything like that. In fact it's just the reverse. Two-fisted fellows as well as anyone else—men and women—want a cigarette that's mild . . . one that satisfies—and that's Chesterfield.

We believe that every smoker is looking for a cigarette without any "bite" or bitterness, and a cigarette that has a pleasing taste—and that's Chesterfield.

The Price Of A Baby

is too often the price of neglect. No one will knowingly neglect a baby. Many mothers will sterilize the bottle, bathe her child frequently yet fail to realize that if the child is playing on a dirty rug one source of infection has been overlooked.

The price of cleaning a rug is very small. Who will venture to state the price of a baby?

French Plans To Be Talked

New Disarmament Proposal To Be Discussed By Officials Today; Five Projects Are To Be Included

PARIS, Oct. 11 (AP)—Premier Edouard Herriot was expected to confer with Norman Davis, American disarmament conference delegate, about the proposed new French disarmament plan when he goes to London tomorrow to consult with Prime Minister MacDonald and Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon.

French newspapers said today the new French plan consists of five projects:

1. A General convention for the reduction of armaments.
2. A general consultative pact which would include the United States.
3. A regional European pact for mutual assistance and non-aggression.
4. Progressive creation of an international air force to be placed at the disposal of the League of Nations.
5. A protocol on the application of the principle of equality of rights—a measure intended to satisfy Germany.

Under the proposed consultative pact, if a nation insisted on war after a warning, mutual assistance would be brought to operate in favor of the country which was the victim of aggression and the United States would abandon its rights of neutrality.

The fifth project would stipulate a new strength of armament for each state, which could not be increased an dit would also recognize the principle of equality of rights.

Jury Is Probing Possible Slaying

DEWITT, Ark., Oct. 11 (AP)—A grand jury today began investigating the possible connection of Helen Spence Eaton, comely 19-year-old divorcee, under two year sentence for shooting Jack Worls to death while he was being tried for her father's murder, with the slaying of Jack Bohots, restaurant owner.

The young woman who rose from a spectator's seat in the courtroom two years ago to kill Worls because she said she was afraid he would be freed, interrupted her second trial yesterday with a plea of guilty. At the first trial she was convicted and sentenced to five years' imprisonment but the supreme court ordered a second trial.

She has been held in jail since last February for the death of Bohots, her former employer, whose body was found in his parked automobile. Mrs. Spence denied she shot him.

New Orleans eats 15 pounds of chicken per capita yearly, five pounds more than the country's average, the department of agriculture estimates.

Tahoka Farmer Successful In Steer Calf Experiment

By Staff Correspondent

TAHOKA, Oct. 11—G. U. Stewart, a farmer living near here, has been breeding Jersey cows and roan Durham bulls, in an effort to produce a larger steer calf that can be used for beef purposes.

Mr. Stewart, according to W. B. Slaton, banker, has found the plan very successful. "He has about 200 head of Jerseys and he tells me that he finds when he gets a steer calf, the animal feeds out better than a full Jersey," said the banker. "I think that some other farmers will try this plan."

The farmer has a number of bull calves that he is feeding out this winter. He has plenty of grain and feed and he expects to get some good results.

Some Deposits In Tahoka Bank Which Closed Voluntarily Never Withdrawn

By Staff Correspondent

TAHOKA, Oct. 11—Four or five men have on deposit with the state of Texas at Austin about $22 which was on deposit in the Security State bank here when it voluntarily closed the early part of this year and asked depositors to "come and get your money."

Months were spent by W. Coleman Wells, cashier of the bank, in liquidating the bank. It had on deposit at the time G. E. Lockhart of Lubbock, president and principal stockholder, and the directors decided to liquidate, about $40,000. There were about 300 depositors.

No Money Lost

The action was taken Lockhart said, after due consideration, and no one lost any money. Depositors came and got their money until there was only about a thousand dollars left. Then Mr. Wells, liquidating, had to begin searching out depositors who had left the county or community.

By word of mouth and by all by all available means Wells got the depositors located until he had cut down the balance to a few hundred dollars. Then he started again.

Some Still Missing

"We never have been able to locate four or five of our depositors," Mr. Wells explained. Whether they are dead or not, we do not know. No one have been able to locate seems to know where they went or what became of them.

"The money has been turned over to the state department at Austin and they are holding it. When these people can make proof of their ownership, they will be paid the balance due them."

The bank building is being used by Mr. Wells for a liquidating office.

Return To Hay For Fuel Seen

ST. PAUL, Oct. 11 (AP)—A return to the practice of some pioneers in going to the hay pile for farm fuel was seen as a winter possibility today by Dr. R. A. Gortner, University of Minnesota biochemistry chief.

Heat content is sufficient to justify ranking the hay pile with the corn crib as a way out for the farmer with a crop surplus which commands little money in the market, Dr. Gortner said.

His experiments have been concentrated on the cheapest variety of hay—that which grows wild on the prairie.

They have convinced him that if hay brings $5 per ton, the farmer will get as much for his product by burning it as by selling and using the money for coal costing $10 per ton.

Three Schools In Hockley Close For Cotton Picking

By Staff Correspondent

LEVELLAND, Oct. 11 — Three Hockley county schools, Clauene, Sundown and Cobleland, are not planning to start school sessions until after cotton picking has ceased, W. E. Fry, county superintendent of schools, stated.

The other rural schools, Smyer, Pettit, Whitharral, Hodges, Pep and Center, are operating. All of them, according to Mr. Fry, have enrollments larger than last year, with indications of a substantial gain during the winter.

Levelland, Ropesville and Anton, the independent districts, also report good enrollments. Ropesville added two teachers this fall, because of the large number of transfers. J. B. Leverett is superintendent. There are ten teachers at Ropesville.

Pettit also has made plans for another teacher. There are eight this year and if the expected gain after cotton picking comes, a ninth will be added.

Sundown also has added a new teacher.
