Sims decision

Jimmie Clarence Sims, the suspended junior high school coach recently acquitted on drug charges, moved a step closer Friday to being reinstated in his Midland Independent School District job.

Kay Walling, Texas State Teachers Association representative, said MISD Superintendent Joe Baressi will recommend to trustees that Sims be allowed to return to work at San Jacinto Junior High School.

Baressi would not comment on what was said at the meeting. However, he confirmed that he told Sims what the administration's recommendation will be.

Baressi emphasized that the board will make the final decision on Sims' status.

Soldier acquitted

FORT BRAGG, N.C. (AP) — A veteran paratrooper was acquitted Friday of charges that he executed an unarmed man at a roadblock during last year's U.S. invasion of Panama.

Sgt. Roberto Bryan said he never should have been charged, but that he had no hard feelings toward 1st Lt. Brandon Thomas, the chief prosecution witness, or the Army. He plans to return to active duty Tuesday.

Tree inspiration

NEW YORK (AP) — Alex Haley says he may not have become a writer if his parents and grandparents had not given him a foot-thick slice from a California redwood as a gift 60 years ago.

The tree slice had small white markers illustrating the tree's growth, Haley said.

"I was told that, if I read all I could, whenever I found something notably historic, then that could become another marker in my slice of tree," he said.

U.N. chief's meeting with Iraqi so far in vain

■ Foreign minister tells Javier Perez de Cuellar that Iraq plans to send more foreign "guests" to potential military targets.

By Jocelyn Noveck
Associated Press

The U.N. chief tried for five hours Friday to get Iraq to think twice about its occupation of Kuwait, and Baghdad announced it was sending more foreign men to be serve as shields at potential military targets.

"Every place, every town that has a vital installation will host our guests," an Iraqi government spokesman said. Iraq calls "guests" the thousands of Westerners it has detained since it invaded Kuwait Aug. 2.

Army Gen. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, commander of U.S. forces in the Persian Gulf, did some tough talking of his own. He called Iraqi generals "a bunch of thugs," but said war can be averted if Iraqi troops stay out of Saudi Arabia.

He also said he could not let the fate of hostages in Iraq affect his strategy. About 21,000 Westerners — including 3,000 Americans and 4,500 Britons — have been prevented from leaving Iraq and Kuwait.

U.S. Embassy diplomats in Kuwait are resisting Iraqi orders to close the mission and said water was running low, food was spoiling and they were sleeping outdoors to escape the heat because electricity also was cut off, according to a report in today's edition of The New York Times.

The report from Kuwait quoted Ambassador Nathaniel Howell as remarking "it isn't a very pleasant way" to live.

Baghdad also tied the release of 237 foreign women and children to the return of Iraqis it said were stranded in Britain and France as a result of international trade sanctions.

Hostage who died native of Marathon, Texas

WOODSTOCK, N.Y. (AP) — An autopsy performed on an American banker being held captive in Iraq showed the native of Marathon, Texas, died of a heart attack, State Department officials in Washington said Friday.

But the department said the fact that a heart attack killed bank executive James L. Worthington Jr., 53, "in no way diminishes the inhumane treatment which may have contributed to his death."

"He was clearly under stress," said Margaret Tutwiler, the State Department's press secretary. "He didn't have access to decent medical facilities."

"We want to make clear to Iraqi officials that we hold them responsible for the safety and well-being of all Americans," she said.

The State Department said the autopsy was conducted with an American doctor present.

Relatives had said they suspected that a heart attack caused Worthington's death.

Worthington

"We're pretty sure it was a heart attack. He didn't have high blood pressure, but he was at risk by some other things," said Tim Neilson, son-in-law of the banker who lived in Woodstock when he was not working overseas. "He smoked cigarettes and drank a lot of coffee."

Worthington, who was born in Marathon, had signed a second year-long contract as a consultant for the Alahi Bank of Kuwait in January. He lived in the Hilton Hotel in Kuwait City, relatives told the Kingston Freeman.

"He was taken hostage in Kuwait and moved to Basra where he died of a heart attack," said Worthington's daughter, Maggie Jean Neilson.

Worthington may have been moved to a strategic location near an Iraqi oil field in the southern port of Basra as part of Iraqi President Saddam Hussein's "human shield," she said.

"Now that he's not coming home, we'll never really know what happened," Ms. Neilson said.

New positions proposed for officers who can no longer perform duties

By Brian Pearson
Staff Writer

Midland Police Department Chief Richard Czech has proposed creating a new departmental level for officers who can no longer function at their positions because of a handicap, injury or other medical reason.

"Police service officers" would perform desk-type duties such as taking phoned-in reports on non-emergency crimes such as bicycle thefts, Czech said.

Those officers would fill six front-desk positions and between two and four security jobs at Midland International Airport, he said. The airport officers mostly would guide traffic, he said.

The program, set for Oct. 1 implementation, would immediately affect as many as eight commissioned officers, all of whom can no longer fully carry out their job responsibilities, he said.

"It will benefit employees who are unable to function," he said. "We will be able to keep them working until retirement age."

Census figures indicate Midland County population less than group estimated

By James Cullen
Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — No sooner did Texans get the raw census figures this past week than they started arguing about them.

The federal Census Bureau Wednesday released preliminary population figures that showed Texas with 16.8 million people, an 18 percent increase since 1980.

The census figures showed Midland County with 105,784, a 28 percent increase over the past decade, but less than the 121,000 the Texas Legislative Council estimated for the county in April. Ector County had 118,113, a gain of 2.4 percent, but less than the 138,000 the TLC estimated.

While the figures were released for local review and are subject to change, the final figures that will be released in December will play a major role not only in filling new legislative and congressional districts next year, but also in determining how much money state and local governments will receive from the federal government over the next decade.

The census totals came within 1.7 percent of the state demographers' projection of 17.1 million people, but that difference of 300,000 Texans is equivalent to one-half of a new congressional district and an estimated $30 million in federal dollars annually.

AAA expects decrease in holiday traffic

■ DPS estimates as many as 40 people may be killed in traffic accidents across the state this weekend.

By Michael Kashgarian
Staff Writer

Labor Day weekend may be the last chance for a summer excursion. According to the American Automobile Association (AAA), about 10 percent of the U.S. population will travel this three-day weekend.

In addition, AAA anticipates a 2 percent decrease in highway traffic from last Labor Day weekend due to higher gas prices brought on by the Iraq crisis.

Nevertheless, Labor Day weekend is traditionally a busy weekend on the highways.

Labor Day and July Fourth weekends hold the record for having the most holiday traffic fatalities, according to the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation.

CENSUS: County population tops 100,000

(From 1A)

The news was good for Midland County, where preliminary figures show a 28 percent increase of from 82,636 residents in 1980 to 106,784.

But Bruce Partain, communications manager for the Midland Chamber of Commerce, said there are other indications that the county's population is much larger than early census figures show.

A demographic study recently conducted by the Sales and Marketing Management Magazine of New York City shows that the area has an estimated 112,500 residents.

Marwan Khoury, director of planning and development for the city of Odessa, said the city of Midland's population has gone from 70,525 in 1980 to 88,740 this year. Census figures were not made available by city of Midland officials.

Responding to the early count, Partain said, "We think the (census) figures will be a great deal more than 100,000 for the city."

Partain said a population count of more than 100,000 for the city is important because it would put Midland in a different metropolitan classification.

Many companies looking to move or expand to another city will not consider moving to an area with fewer than 100,000 people, Partain said.

The national preliminary tally of 246.8 million people was 1.7 percent lower than the 250 million the Census Bureau expected, but the bureau expects to close that gap before it delivers the final census results to the president at the year's end.

State Comptroller Bob Bullock said Friday the preliminary census numbers indicate a serious undercounting, as he encouraged local officials to challenge the figures in the next two weeks.

"Since many federal programs use the census figures to distribute federal aid to the states, an undercount of this magnitude will deprive Texans of the federal dollars they're entitled to," he said.

Texas lost $30 million a year over the past decade because of the Census Bureau's inaccurate count in 1980, Bullock's office estimated. "And we fear that the 1990 undercount, if not corrected and adjusted, may have equally unfair consequences for Texas in the next decade," Bullock said.

Ed Martin, executive director of the Texas Democratic Party, said the losses appeared to occur in areas that tend to vote Democratic. "Some Democrats are skeptical, that Mr. (Robert) Mosbacher's Commerce Department may want an undercount," he said.

If the preliminary census figures stand up to challenges from state and local officials who claim the census undercounted Texans, particularly in metropolitan areas, the increase of 2.6 million over the past decade would still qualify the state for three additional congressional seats, to bring the state's total to 30.

The suburbs of Houston and Dallas and either South Texas or the Austin-San Antonio corridor would gain the new congressional seats, while party officials say population shifts virtually ensure that Dallas will get a predominantly black congressional district for the first time.

But Rep. Tom Uher, D-Bay City, co-chairman of the Legislature's Joint Select Committee on Redistricting, said population shifts in metropolitan areas will present all sorts of difficulties for incumbents when the Legislature gets the official census breakdowns April 1, with two months remaining in the legislative session.

Staff Report

The Kwik Kar Oil & Lube at Wadley Avenue and Midland Drive will match a $1 donation per customer to the Muscular Dystrophy Association on Saturday.

In addition, according to Mary Schwartz, who owns the company with her husband, Kwik Kar has arranged with the 7-Eleven next door to offer the first 80 customers who come in during a KNFM live-remote broadcast Saturday morning gasoline for 92 cents and a free Big Gulp soft drink. The live remote begins at 10 a.m.

"We sure would like to donate a lot of money for Jerry's kids," Mrs. Schwartz said.

Church parade set

San Juan Catholic Church will sponsor a parade and "Family Fair" today starting at 10 a.m.

The parade will begin at Fairgrounds Road and Garden City Highway and will end up at the San Juan Catholic Church on New Jersey Avenue.

The parade theme is "We Are All Colors." The public is invited to attend. The family fair is scheduled to last throughout the afternoon.

Candidates enlist political support from opposite ends

AUSTIN (AP) — In this corner: Democratic Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower and blues musician Taj Mahal, speaking for a congressional effort to help minority farmers.

Across the Capitol: Republican challenger Rick Perry and U.S. Sen. Orrin Hatch of Utah, calling Hightower a liberal, denouncing flag-burning and touting patriotism.

It was just another day in the race for state agriculture commissioner Friday, when competing Capitol news conferences demonstrated the candidates' differences.

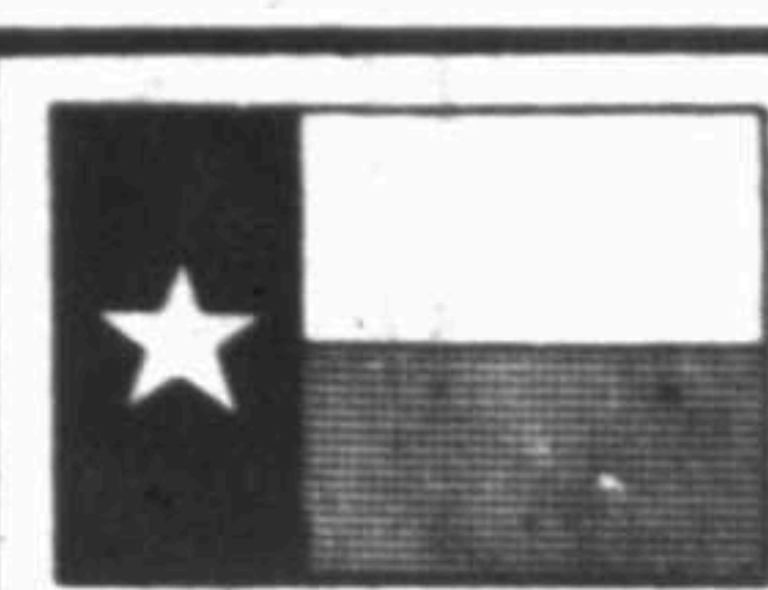

"We're different. We're quite different in our values. Always have been, always will be," said Perry, a state representative from Haskell.

Perry added that he has no problem with the Minority Farmers Rights Act backed by Hightower and Mahal.

Hatch said he's only known Perry a short time. But he praised his background as a farmer and rancher, and said he'd be better for the state than Hightower.

The GOP senator said Hightower "really is running around doing liberal politics at the expense of Texas."

Hatch, who supports a constitutional amendment to ban flag-burning, said he was upset by people who protest in that way.

"What Perry's trying to do is wrap himself very tightly in the flag," Welch said. "I think most Texans would just as soon see us burn more politicians and fewer flags."

Hightower's comments on that issue. And he said he resents the barbs Hightower throws at President Bush.

Perry said the flag-burning issue "gives a very stark contrast" with Hightower. Asked whether his stand makes him more patriotic, Perry said, "Yes sir, it does."

Hightower's spokesman, Andy Welch, said the incumbent believes most Texans oppose flag-burning. But he said tolerance is needed for the small number of

Welch called the other charges "typical Rick Perry and I guess Orrin Hatch slime."

"Jim Hightower has taken a lead in representing family farmers and ranchers before that bureaucracy in Washington," Welch said. He said the news conferences showed that Hightower focuses on issues rather than personal attacks.

Hightower's issue Friday — backed by minority farmers and Taj Mahal at a news conference — was drumming up support for a proposal in the U.S. House and Senate to help minority farmers.

Among the elements they support are a minority outreach and education program, expansion of minority participation in USDA programs and preservation of minority-owned farmland.

"Minority farmers have really taken it in the teeth," Hightower said. "We need to open the system up to all the people in agriculture ... because we need all of the genius that we can bring into agriculture."

Mahal, who said he has an agricultural degree and performed at the Farm Aid concert in Indianapolis this year, stressed the importance of agriculture: "You cannot climb a light pole and pick light bulbs and eat them."

WEATHER SUMMARY

Sunny skies in forecast

Staff Report

Today's forecast calls for mostly sunny skies with a high in the upper 90s and 5 to 15 mph southeast winds, according to the National Weather Service in Midland.

Tonight is expected to be fair with a low in the upper 60s, NWS said. Sunday's forecast calls for partly cloudy with a high in the mid-90s, NWS said.

The record high for Aug. 31 of 104 was set in 1852. The record low of 56 for today's date was set in 1955. Friday's high was 96 after an overnight low of 68.

The forecast for Labor Day is partly cloudy with a high in the mid-90s and a low in the upper 60s.

STATE

Scattered showers and thunderstorms, some with very heavy rain, had developed over the southeast part of North Texas from south of Longview to north of Houston.

A strong thunderstorm dropped one-quarter-inch hail as it passed over Lufkin about 2 p.m. The showers and thunderstorms were developing in a hot and unstable air mass in the low levels over Eastern Texas.

In West Texas, high pressure in the upper atmosphere caused mostly sunny skies and temperatures above normal late Friday.

Afternoon temperatures were in the low 80s in the mountain areas of West Texas, while the remainder of the area had warmed into the mid to upper 90s.

In South Texas, gusty winds near a thunderstorm in Houston were clocked near 60 mph at the Intercontinental Airport. Afternoon temperatures were in the 90s with some 100 degree-plus readings. Some rain-cooled areas were in the 80s.

The South Texas forecast calls for scattered showers and thunderstorms most sections Saturday through Sunday. Otherwise partly to mostly cloudy with hot afternoons and warm at night.

NATION

August drew to a close Friday with blazing heat in the Plains and fierce thunderstorms in the Southeast.

Temperatures reached into the 90s over much of Nebraska by noon, with 90- to 100-degree readings or higher across the southern half of the Plains.

Afternoon showers and thunderstorms reached along the North Carolina coast and the northern coast of South Carolina, from western North Carolina into southeast Tennessee, through northern Alabama, southern Mississippi, across Florida, Georgia, and over to southeastern Louisiana, eastern Texas, and Arizona.

Showers and storms also extended from northern Colorado across southeastern Wyoming, the Panhandle and northern Nebraska, Wisconsin and upper Michigan.

The heaviest rainfall during the six hours up to 2 p.m. EDT was 2 inches at Fort Myers, Fla.

The Associated Press also contributed to this report.

MISD may recommend Sims' reinstatement

By David Morris
Staff Writer

Jimmie Clarence Sims, the suspended junior high school coach recently acquitted on drug charges, moved a step closer Friday to being reinstated in his Midland Independent School District job.

Kay Walling, Texas State Teachers Association representative, said MISD Superintendent Joe Baressi will recommend to trustees that Sims be allowed to return to work at San Jacinto Junior High School.

The district also plans to offer Sims back pay with 10 percent interest, Ms. Walling said.

MISD trustees voted to suspend Sims without pay following his arrest on cocaine delivery charges in October. He was found innocent by a 238th District Court jury last month.

"He will be reinstated as a teacher-coach at San Jacinto as soon as the board agrees to it," Ms. Walling said.

Ms. Walling was at a meeting Friday morning between Sims and MISD representatives during which Baressi reportedly offered to reinstate Sims pending school board approval.

Ms. Walling said the meeting also was attended by MISD Assistant Superintendent Bill Denton, MISD attorney Barry Beck and Sims' attorney, Tom Hirsch.

Baressi, reached at his home Friday evening, would not comment on what was said at the meeting. However, he confirmed that he told Sims what the administration's recommendation will be.

"The reality of it is that the man was found innocent," Baressi said. He emphasized that the board will make the final decision on Sims' status.

"The school board will vote on it, and if Mr. Sims isn't satisfied... then he can request a hearing," Baressi said. Trustees are scheduled to vote on the matter in executive session during their Sept. 11 meeting, he said.

Sims could not be reached for comment Friday evening.

Ms. Walling said Sims, whom she represented at the Friday meeting, is eager to return to work.

"He's been the victim of one of the most vicious publicity scams perpetrated by law enforcement that I have ever seen," she said. "For almost a year now, he's had to suffer the consequences of someone's grab for glory."

She said Sims was satisfied with the MISD's offer, which reportedly includes lost benefits such as annuity payments and sick leave rebates.

"The only thing that Jimmie's ever wanted was to teach the kids and do his job, and it's unfortunate that he was prevented for almost a full year from doing that."

"I think MISD realizes they were probably too hasty when they jumped in and suspended him without pay."

She said the district at most should have suspended Sims with pay pending the outcome of his trial.

Higher gas prices aren't keeping people at home

Associated Press

Driving to the family barbecue this Labor Day weekend will cost more than it has in years, but higher gasoline prices aren't keeping fuel-thirsty Americans off the road.

"If it would be $5 a gallon, I'd still go away for the weekend," Bud Case said as he shelled out $26.13 to fill up his Chevy S-10 camper Friday in Charleston, W.Va. "As long as you've got money, you're not going to deter the American people from going anywhere."

Drivers are pretty much held hostage to the higher prices, the 62-year-old South Charleston builder said.

"It's like being in jail," Case said. "If the bail is $10,000, someone will dig in and get that money. Gas prices are the same way."

Heading into the long holiday weekend, the American Automobile Association reported that gasoline prices were averaging $1.307 for a gallon of self-serve regular unleaded. That's up from $1.084 over the July 4 holiday and $1.062 on Labor Day last year.

The AAA predicted a 2 percent decrease in Labor Day travel, but a spokesman said higher gasoline is not the culprit.

"We think it has more to do with just the general doldrums of the economy," the AAA's Geoff Sundstrom said. "Historically, people tend to curtail their travel if they're concerned about their economic livelihood. High prices by themselves don't seem to cut into travel that much."

Some motorists are grumbling at the rising costs, but others are quietly paying the bigger bills, service station workers say.

"They're probably used to it by now," said a woman who hasn't heard too many complaints at a Roadrunner store on Interstate 40 in Arkansas.

But Texaco attendant Ben Stratton in Augusta, Maine, said many customers keep asking when prices will go back down.

Even though the cost of a road trip is higher following Iraq's invasion of Kuwait and the ensuing oil crisis, it's only a few dollars higher.

Driving 303 miles from St. Louis to Chicago would take $19.80 worth of gas at current prices and an average 20 miles per gallon, compared with $16.42 on July 4 or $16.09 last Labor Day.

Savings would be greater with cars that get better mileage.

"If people realize that on a relatively short trip that we're not really talking big bucks, it shouldn't stop them from going," said Bern Rotman, spokesman for the New York state Department of Economic Development. His department estimated a Labor Day round trip of 600 miles will cost just $5.32 more than it did last year.

GULF: U.N.'s Perez de Cuellar, Iraq's Aziz to meet again

(From 1A)

U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar met twice with Iraq's foreign minister, Tariq Aziz, in Amman, Jordan, trying to negotiate a solution to the gulf crisis. The two will meet again Saturday.

Aziz told reporters later all foreigners in Iraq could leave if Perez de Cuellar could produce guarantees against a military attack from the West.

Iraq made a similar offer to Washington on Wednesday, through its U.S. ambassador. The United States rejected any conditions for releasing hostages.

Perez de Cuellar called the talks a "step forward," but said nothing about guarantees and said he had no immediate plans to go to Baghdad to meet President Saddam Hussein. A senior Jordanian official had said the two would meet if the Amman meetings yielded results.

Aziz said upon arrival that Iraq "will achieve victory despite the international conspiracy against it." But later he also said Iraq "has no intention of igniting the explosive situation."

More than 50,000 supporters of the fundamentalist Moslem Brotherhood marched through Amman's streets on Friday demanding holy war against "U.S.-Zionist aggression" on Arab soil.

Sources in Baghdad, meanwhile, said nationwide food rationing would begin today, a result of U.N.-ordered sanctions against

POLICE: Czech proposes new departmental level

(From 1A)

But the service officers, Czech said, will not solely be demoted commissioned officers. Civilians also will be hired and trained to fill service officer roles not filled from within department ranks, he said.

Training for the position would be less extensive than that for regular officers, he said.

Czech estimated that up to 25 percent of the department's service calls will be handled by those officers. He said that will free up commissioned officers and allow the department to put more manpower on the streets.

The demoted officers in the program would keep their salaries for between six and 12 months, after which their pay would be downgraded to a police service officer scale, Czech said.

While commissioned officers make between $1,778 and $2,058 monthly, the service officers would earn between $1,612 and $1,869, depending on their experience, he said. The lower pay scale will save the department money in the long run, he said.

In addition, demoted officers would lose their commissions, no longer have take-home cars — an estimated $300 monthly value — and not be allowed to carry weapons, Czech said.

Councilman J.D. Faircloth said the council favorably views the proposal and is anxious to get it implemented.

"As soon as the chief is ready to go, we'll vote on it," Faircloth said, adding that it may be reviewed by councilmen this month. "I think the council is for it."

The program is a better alternative than laying off a handicapped officer, he said.

"I guess I personally feel that if a person cannot perform at their assigned work level, they should be demoted accordingly," he said. "It's not fair to the existing department to have someone get full pay but do less work. That's also a burden to the taxpayers."

Faircloth added that the proposal is part of an overall City Hall plan to streamline all departments and make them more efficient.

No other councilmen could be reached for comment Friday. But Leonard Hendon, Midland Fraternal Order of Police president, said his organization already does not like what it sees in the proposal.

"We've got some big concerns with that proposal," Hendon said. "We've been talking this over and so far we're getting all negative feedback."

Hendon would not elaborate on what the concerns were but said they would be aired publicly sometime next week. The FOP hopes some changes will be made in the existing proposal, he said.

"We're waiting for some feedback before we take any action or make any statement," he said. "We're just looking after the protection of officers and their job security."

Police seal apartment of Gainesville freshman

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — An 18-year-old University of Florida freshman charged with beating his grandmother was held on $1 million bond Friday, and police investigating the deaths of five students sealed his apartment.

Humphrey

Task force investigators would say only that he is among what they described as a growing pool of potential suspects in the serial slayings.

Edward Lewis Humphrey, who earlier in the summer reportedly lived at the apartment complex where two of the bodies were found, was arrested Thursday at his grandmother's house in Indian Creek, some 180 miles to the south-east. He was charged with aggravated battery on a person over age 65, authorities said.

"There's a lot of good information that we have received that seems to bear some credence that he may be a possible suspect," said police Lt. Sadie Darnell. "There are so many individuals out there, frighteningly so, who could have committed these crimes. We're not going to jump to any conclusions."

Darnell also named Warren Virgil Tinch, an Ohio fugitive wanted in a mutilation murder, and a man named Stephen Bates held in Polk County in a burglary and assault case, as potential suspects.

At Humphrey's jailhouse court hearing, Brevard County Judge Kerry Evander found probable cause to hold the student for trial in late October. Humphrey asked the judge if he could say something.

Evander told him to ask his attorney, Public Defender J.R. Russo, but the stocky youth blurted in a clear, emphatic voice: "Innocent 'til proven guilty."

Humphrey had been under surveillance since Tuesday when the latest two victims were found at the Gatorwood apartment complex. Humphrey had lived at the Gatorwood over part of the summer before being evicted. The Orlando Sentinel reported.

A Florida Department of Law Enforcement plane followed Humphrey as he drove Wednesday from Gainesville to his grandmother's home. Neighbors said he had experienced emotional problems since suffering a severe head injury in a traffic accident more than a year ago.

Columbia launch date hinges on repair time

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — An increasingly frustrated NASA will try again to launch Columbia on Wednesday if a broken electronic part used for one of the telescopes aboard the shuttle can be repaired easily.

Workers entered the shuttle cargo bay Friday to try to find what's wrong with an electronic box at the base of an X-ray telescope, one of four in the mission's $150 million Astro observatory.

The space agency late Thursday called off a scheduled Saturday launch after spending the day fruitlessly trying to communicate with the telescope inside the shuttle's cargo bay. The broken part is believed to have caused the loss of contact.

It was the second time the Columbia countdown had been halted. The first launch attempt, in late May, was scrubbed because of a hydrogen fuel leak.

The latest problem appears to involve a line driver, a component of the electronic box, which routes electrical power and telemetry between the orbiter and the X-ray telescope, said Lennard Fisk, NASA's chief scientist. If that is the case, a cable can be easily installed to a second line driver in the unit, he said.

The launch will be delayed until Friday or Saturday, however, if the entire electronic box has to be replaced, Fisk said. NASA expects to know the extent of the problem by Saturday afternoon.

Secret records sold with surplus computers

PIKEVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A federal prosecutor's secret computer files, including sealed in dictments and pending FBI investigations, mistakenly were sold for $45 to a businessman who thought he was buying only a broken computer system.

"This is the worst case of bureaucracy I have ever seen," said Charles Hayes, who acquired the computer system and its data on Aug. 3. "If it is this loose, I wonder what else is missing up there."

The U.S. Justice Department, in a lawsuit filed Thursday, demanded that Hayes of rural Pulaski County return the computers immediately. The government also wants him to tell who bought the equipment or had access to the data.

Court documents said a technician failed to erase the memory of the computer at the U.S. Attorney's office in Lexington before the government sold the system in July to Hayes. Hayes sells government surplus equipment.

According to the lawsuit, the computer's memory and backup storage tapes contain sensitive details about FBI informants, federally protected witnesses, sealed indictments and personal information about employees in U.S. Attorney Louis DeFalaise's office.

"The U.S. Attorney's office used some or all of the computer equipment ... to prepare and store virtually every document and record generated by both the civil and criminal divisions of the office from 1983 to 1988," the lawsuit said.

If made public, the files could ruin criminal investigations and cause "great harm and irreparable injury" to the work of U.S. prosecutors. "The seriousness of the injury to the United States of America cannot be understated," the lawsuit said.

Within hours of the lawsuit's filing, U.S. District Judge Eugene Siler Jr. ordered Hayes immediately to return the computer system to the government and not examine, copy or distribute the data. A hearing was set for Sept. 4.

Hayes said the government told him the computers' memory had been wiped before he obtained it. He said a customer bought a computer storage device and several tapes presumably containing the secret files.

He said he has asked the customer to return the items.

In Washington, Justice Department spokesman Michael W. Robinson declined to comment on what effect, if any, release of the tapes would have on past and pending litigation or informants.

"We can't be sure what is on there until we see it," Robinson said.

A technician for Harris-Lanier Corp., the computer's manufacturer, thought he erased the computer's memory in January, the lawsuit said.

NATION IN BRIEF

Holiday wrecks could kill 500

CHICAGO (AP) — As many as 500 people could die in traffic accidents over the three-day Labor Day weekend, the National Safety Council says.

The council expects 400 to 500 fatalities on the nation's streets and highways between 5 p.m. Friday and 11:59 p.m. Monday, local time, said spokeswoman Lisa Grady.

Between 16,000 and 20,000 people could suffer serious injuries in traffic accidents, she said.

Christmas colors stay

WASHINGTON (AP) — Postal officials are red-faced about reports that they want Americans to have a white Christmas.

Not so, says Richard J. Strasser, senior assistant postmaster general for marketing and customer service. Strasser's comments came after postal officials in Kansas City told area residents earlier this week that they should "never use red, green or any dark colored envelopes."

If people buy Christmas cards that come with envelopes that are red or green or some other color, the Postal Service will deliver them happily, Strasser said Friday.

White envelopes are easier for the agency's automated machinery to handle, Strasser admitted. Dark-colored backgrounds can make the addresses written on them very hard to read.

"They are a challenge, but we can handle it," he said.

How did the misunderstanding start? Some postal workers may have been too enthusiastic in discussing the benefits of the new automatic letter sorting equipment, Strasser said.

Strasser said the postal service and the makers of greeting cards have been working together to develop envelope colors that are attractive but can easily be handled by automatic sorting machinery. But in the meantime, no envelope that is sold will be rejected, he said.

Neil Bush files motion

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush's son Neil has asked an administrative law judge to dismiss the government's case against him for alleged conflict of interest in his role as a former director of a failed Colorado S&L, according to documents made available Friday.

Bush, 35, was an outside director of Silverado Banking, Savings and Loan Association, a Denver thrift that collapsed in December 1988 at a cost to taxpayers estimated at $1 billion.

In written arguments submitted to Judge Daniel J. Davidson, Bush said there was no possibility that he could continue the alleged abuses since Silverado already has been taken over by the government.

"Silverado is in receivership," his brief said. "No 'intermediate step' taken now will prevent that, and nothing Bush could ever do in the future could pose abnormal risk, loss or damage to Silverado or its insured" deposits.

The Office of Thrift Supervision has accused Bush of conflict of interest for not disclosing his business ties to two big Silverado borrowers. The thrift agency is seeking an order against Bush which effectively would bar him from working for banks or S&Ls.

School takes activist

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — A girl expelled from the Catholic school system four years ago because of her support for abortion rights has re-enrolled in a Catholic school.

Sarah Beth Eason, 15, said Thursday she has no plans to make her views on abortion known at St. Ursula Academy.

"I'm tired of being this figure that everybody sees. This has gone on too long. I need three years so I can graduate at least, just with peace. ... People don't realize how it is to be in the spotlight for so long," she said.

Vaughan buried in Dallas

By Charles Richards

DALLAS (AP) — They wore T-shirts from his concerts, they dressed in black, they wore replicas of his trademark black felt hat, and they stood in sweltering Texas heat for up to three hours on Friday to bid a tearful goodbye to blues guitarist Stevie Ray Vaughan.

Vaughan, 35, died Monday in a helicopter crash in Wisconsin after headlining a concert Sunday night with Eric Clapton near East Troy, Wis.

More than 1,000 people showed up Friday for a public graveside service.

Stevie Wonder, Jackson Browne and Bonnie Raitt led the mourners in "Amazing Grace."

Vaughan's mother, Martha Vaughan, was flanked during the graveside service by her older son, Jimmie Vaughan, the founder of The Fabulous Thunderbirds, and by Stevie Ray Vaughan's fiancée, Janna Lapidus.

Two cooling fans about 4 feet in diameter were situated behind and to one side of the graveside, cooling off the immediate family and friends in the 99-degree temperatures.

Across a road, some mourners used fans to ward off the heat. Many had handkerchiefs to dab away tears and perspiration.

Mourners began arriving before 10 a.m. for the noon graveside service, and their numbers swelled steadily. By the start of the service, fans were lined up 9-and-10 deep outside restraining barriers across a roadway from the burial site. The proceedings were beamed over a public address system.

Ringo Starr was there, as were members of ZZ Top.

Stevie and Jimmie Vaughan had just completed an album, "Family

Conoco donates island to Texas

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission has accepted a 152-acre island, located near the Houston Ship Channel, from Conoco.

Groups such as the Audubon Society and Galveston Bay Foundation are expected to make use of Atkinson Island as "natural classrooms."

The island has seen its share of Texas history.

In 1836, Mexican Gen. Santa Anna burned homes and a warehouse there but failed to capture top-ranking Texas officials. Santa Anna's forces then proceeded to San Jacinto where he was defeated by Texas forces in the fight for independence.

Reserve pilot keeps returning to Mideast

By Stephanie Glass
and Usha Lee McFarling
Hearst News Service

SAN ANTONIO — Despite the grim news that 13 of his colleagues were killed when a C-5 transport plane loaded with supplies for military forces in the Persian Gulf crashed in Germany, reserve pilot Ken McClure did not hesitate to volunteer to return to the gulf.

Amid bleak headlines and news reports, Lt. Col. McClure donned his flight suit to undertake a mission similar to the one that claimed the lives of a crew from Kelly Air Force Base in San Antonio.

McClure is one of 200 local reservists who have volunteered since Aug. 8 to man the stream of cargo planes deploying the troops and supplies for Operation Desert Shield.

McClure, 42 and a vice president at USAA, volunteered for duty and spent Aug. 10-17 on grueling missions between here and Saudi Arabia. Wednesday, he left for a second mission.

"It makes it very hard when you say goodbye," said McClure's wife, Beverley, speaking of the fatal crash. "It's one of those ugly reminders that there is danger. It could have been him."

In an interview last week, McClure told a reporter he did not consider his mission dangerous because C-5 planes land well behind front lines.

"I consider our mission no more dangerous than it would be in regular times," McClure said. "I'm not scared."

Although the pilots work 27-hour shifts when flying to the Middle East, McClure said duties are divided between several pilots to minimize fatigue.

Following the lift of a lid on military information, reporters this week were permitted to tour one of two C-5s not currently involved in Operation Desert Shield and speak to reservists who had flown missions to the Middle East.

Reservists talked of searing heat, long hours and little sleep but said they derived much satisfaction from serving in the operation.

Maj. Dennis Means, a pilot for Southwest Airlines, said, "You spend years learning the job and all of a sudden your country needs your skill and you have to go."

Sitting at a booth in the galley of the aircraft, Means reflected on his three round-trip missions to Saudi Arabia between Aug. 12 and Aug. 21.

"I was surprised at how desolate the countryside was," Means said. During two five-hour stopovers, Means said he discovered that the desert heat was dry but stifling and that the wind was gritty with sand.

"When you got there, all you wanted to do was wash out your flight suit, grab a fresh shirt and pair of shorts and get back on duty," Means said.

Reservists said the soldiers they were carrying appeared upbeat, eating box lunches of sandwiches and chips and reading or playing cards to fight boredom on the long trip.

Everyone agreed that the San Antonio employers who released volunteer reservists were the real heroes.

"I had already used my military time earlier in the year, but they were very kind," Means said of Southwest Airlines. "I said I needed 10 days off and they said, 'You've got it. When you get back, just tell us how it was.'"

Master Sgt. R.G. Rodriguez, a patrolman with the San Antonio Police Department and a flight engineer with the 433rd Military Airlift Wing, stood in his green flight suit on the edge of a ramp extending from the front of the plane.

The aircraft's nose was lifted to expose the inside of the camouflage-painted plane that can fly loads weighing as much as 769,000 pounds.

"I figured I wanted to do my share," said Rodriguez, who used eight vacation days to participate.

"My 7-year-old son asked me if I was going to war," said Rodriguez. "I told him, no, there's not going to be a war."

CRISIS: U.S. general talks tough

(From 4A)

Iraq.

Coupon books were issued and food distribution centers were set up, the sources said in telephone interviews. Long lines formed at bakeries in the capital, and similar queues were reported outside food shops in smaller towns.

In Washington, the White House said President Bush telephoned Saudi Arabia's King Fahd, British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher and French President Francois Mitterrand on Friday on the crisis.

Bush wants wealthy allies to help foot the $1 billion-a-month cost of deploying U.S. forces in Saudi Arabia and the gulf region.

About 60,000 U.S. combat troops have moved to battle stations and their number is expected to hit 100,000 soon, facing an estimated 265,000 Iraqi troops stationed in and around Kuwait.

Japanese Foreign Ministry officials said a government-chartered passenger plane left Saturday for Amman to airlift Japanese women and children from Iraq. An official, speaking anonymously, said 80 Japanese, mostly women and children, will be flown home.

More foreign men have been taken to potential military targets all over Iraq, al-Hadithi said.

"We're relocating the foreign men all over the country at airports, air bases, military bases, industrial plants, communications centers, power centers and oil refineries — wherever Iraq considers it has a vital installation, one exposed to the American threat in Saudi Arabia," he said.

Proposal stuck in Germany

RHEIN-MAIN AIR BASE, West Germany (AP) — Somewhere out there is a woman named Kathy who has an important question to answer. And somewhere, probably in Saudi Arabia, there's a U.S. soldier hoping it will be yes.

But a postcard with the question for Kathy is stuck at Rhein-Main Air Base in West Germany. The soldier, whose name appears to be Chris, had to rush away just as he was scribbling her a proposal, Stars and Stripes newspaper said Friday.

"He slapped a stamp on the postcard, handed it to a woman working at the store where he bought it and asked her to mail it for him," the newspaper said.

Then he ran away. He was gone before the woman could tell him there was no address on the card. Just a message that said:

"Hello, sweetheart! I love you!"

"Just a little note to say howdy and let you know I'm OK. So, now you know one of the spots I stopped at on my way to this little adventure."

"How about getting engaged when I get home? I'm serious and I'll write more later. Take care!"

"Kathy, we think you should say yes," Stars and Stripes wrote.

German leaders sign treaty bridging nations

EAST BERLIN (AP) — One day before the anniversary of the war that drove them apart, the German states signed a sweeping treaty Friday meant as a final blueprint for bringing them together.

German leaders met in a 17th century palace of German princes to sign the document, which seeks to reconcile the stark differences between two societies that will form one nation Oct. 3.

The pact will allow East Germany to retain its liberal abortion law and gives Western investors more rights to buy East German land, a measure economists say is necessary to rescue the nation's dire economy.

It also calls for Berlin to become the capital of a united Germany, guarantees some social programs for jobless East Germans, and recognizes the five states East Germany will become in a united nation.

The treaty leaves many crucial decisions on uniting the nations to the new government that will be elected to lead both nations Dec. 2.

The 900-page document was signed by West German Interior Minister Wolfgang Schäuble and East Germany's top unity negotiator, Guenther Krause.

Earlier, the cabinets of West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl and East German Prime Minister Lothar de Maiziere formally approved the pact.

"Today we are fulfilling one of the last remaining hurdles to German unification," de Maiziere said.

The parliaments of the two nations likely will approve the treaty next week.

The signing took place on the eve of the 51st anniversary of World War II. On Sept. 1, 1939, Hitler's forces invaded Poland, and France and England declared the war that eventually split Germany.

The treaty promises that the new united Germany will respect the borders of its European neighbors.

The pact reconciles some fundamental legal and political differences between two nations that followed vastly different paths after they were carved from the conquered Nazi empire.

Schäuble said the goal of the broad accord "was to again standardize what had been 45 years of developing separate systems of laws and differing economic and living conditions."

The treaty was the product of intense negotiations between West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl's conservative Christian Democrats and the left-leaning Social Democrats, who are campaigning to win the Dec. 2 elections.

Key aspects of the treaty — particularly the differences between East Germany's liberal abortion law and West Germany's strict one — were held up by intense politicking that threatened the accord.

The treaty itself was not necessary to German unification because East Germany already has voted to merge with West Germany.

But failure to approve it would have meant that West German laws would have become the law of both lands without accommodating the vastly different society reared on socialism.

■ Midland Lee coach Earl Miller still has many questions after the Rebels' scrimmage performance against Lubbock Monterey earned mixed reviews.

By Terry Williamson
Sports Editor

In other words, there is some good news and some bad news.

"It wasn't as bad as last year when we scrimmaged El Paso Jefferson, but we are a long way from being good," was the way Lee coach Earl Miller put it.

"We had a number of people hurt and that has to be because of the lack of two-a-days. The kids aren't in the shape they should be. When we missed a lot of two-a-day workouts because of in-service, you could expect this kind of performance."

Here's a list of perceived positives and negatives for the Rebels as they now head into regular season play next week at El Paso Andress.

OFFENSE

P'S TIVES: Miller said last spring that there was a definite lack of receivers, but Jeb Honeyman, Joe Martinez, Demond Robinson, Kyle Sullivan and Aaron McMaryion all caught passes. Robinson, a sophomore, caught three passes for 51 yards, including a 35-yard TD from third-string quarterback Jimmy Patton and a 35-yard scoring strike from second-string quarterback David Sullivan. McMaryion is also a sophomore.

Bruising 250-pound Jovan "Chico" Tellez rushed for 58 yards on 10 carries and was the thrust of the Lee offense.

NEGATIVES: Lee showed little of its famous Wishbone option, but Miller said, "We were trying to run at people and toughen up our kids. We need to get tough."

Other than Tellez, Lee running backs produced little other than a 30-yard run by David Sullivan and a five-yard TD run by Brett Sullivan.

Junior center and returning starter K.C. Jones received a knee injury and the extent of that setback will not be known until after a doctor's visit today. Quarterback David Sullivan also had his

■ The Midland High defense did a number on El Paso Jefferson star Andre Sessions, while Bulldog running backs James Lee and Thomas Acrey ran wild.

CARLSBAD, N.M. — After Midland High's football scrimmage against El Paso Jefferson here at Ralph Bowyer Cavenem Stadium Friday, the Bulldog defense was probably wondering "Andre Who?" as MHS outscored Jefferson 4-2.

That's because the 'Dog defenders contained Andre Sessions, last year's state rushing champion, to 40 yards on 10 carries. Not only were Sessions and his inexperienced line — the star back is the only offensive starter returning from last year's playoff team — shown up by the MHS defense, but by James Lee as well.

The Bulldog tailback shredded the Silver Fox defense (with two returning starters) by gaining 137 yards on eight carries and scoring on jaunts of 39 and 48 yards. Thomas Acrey also put in an eye-catching performance by dashing for 64 yards in eight totes.

Despite holding Sessions to minimal output, though, MHS did allow a pair of 40-plus yard runs and blew a couple of costly coverages, according to 'Dog head coach Davis Corley.

"We just haven't been working on the wing-T so we had a couple of times where we lined up out of position. But we still have to play better defensive techniques," Corley said.

"Session's line isn't that good. They're young and small. It's just not a very good football team and we have to be a little smarter when we're lining up."

Having said that, however, Corley was pleased with the performance of his offensive line, and Lee and Acrey.

"James has been solid for all spring and early this year. Thomas played junior varsity last year, but he has good quickness and good speed. It's going to be good to have him backing James up," he said.

The scrimmages started with each team's first and second teams getting the ball for 15 plays apiece. The 'Dogs drew first blood when Lee broke his 39-yarder. The Foxes came back however, and cut the lead to 7-6 after blowing a two-point

Astros deal vets

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Astros traded veteran second baseman Bill Doran to the Cincinnati Reds on Friday in exchange for three players to be named later.

Astros general manager Bill Wood also dealt middle reliever Larry Andersen to the Boston Red Sox for minor league third baseman Jeff Bagwell.

Wood earlier had worked out a deal that would have sent Doran to the New York Mets.

But Doran rejected that trade, saying he didn't have enough time to consider the implications.

"You don't do things at the last minute like he's done and then ask somebody to make a decision within a few hours."

UT in the clear

AUSTIN (AP) — The NCAA will take no action against the University of Texas based on the school's investigation into allegations of gambling by UT student-athletes, it was announced.

The NCAA said the investigation turned up "minor violations" and that no penalty would be assessed and no player declared ineligible, according to UT officials.

Williams nabs Volvo net honor

Staff Report

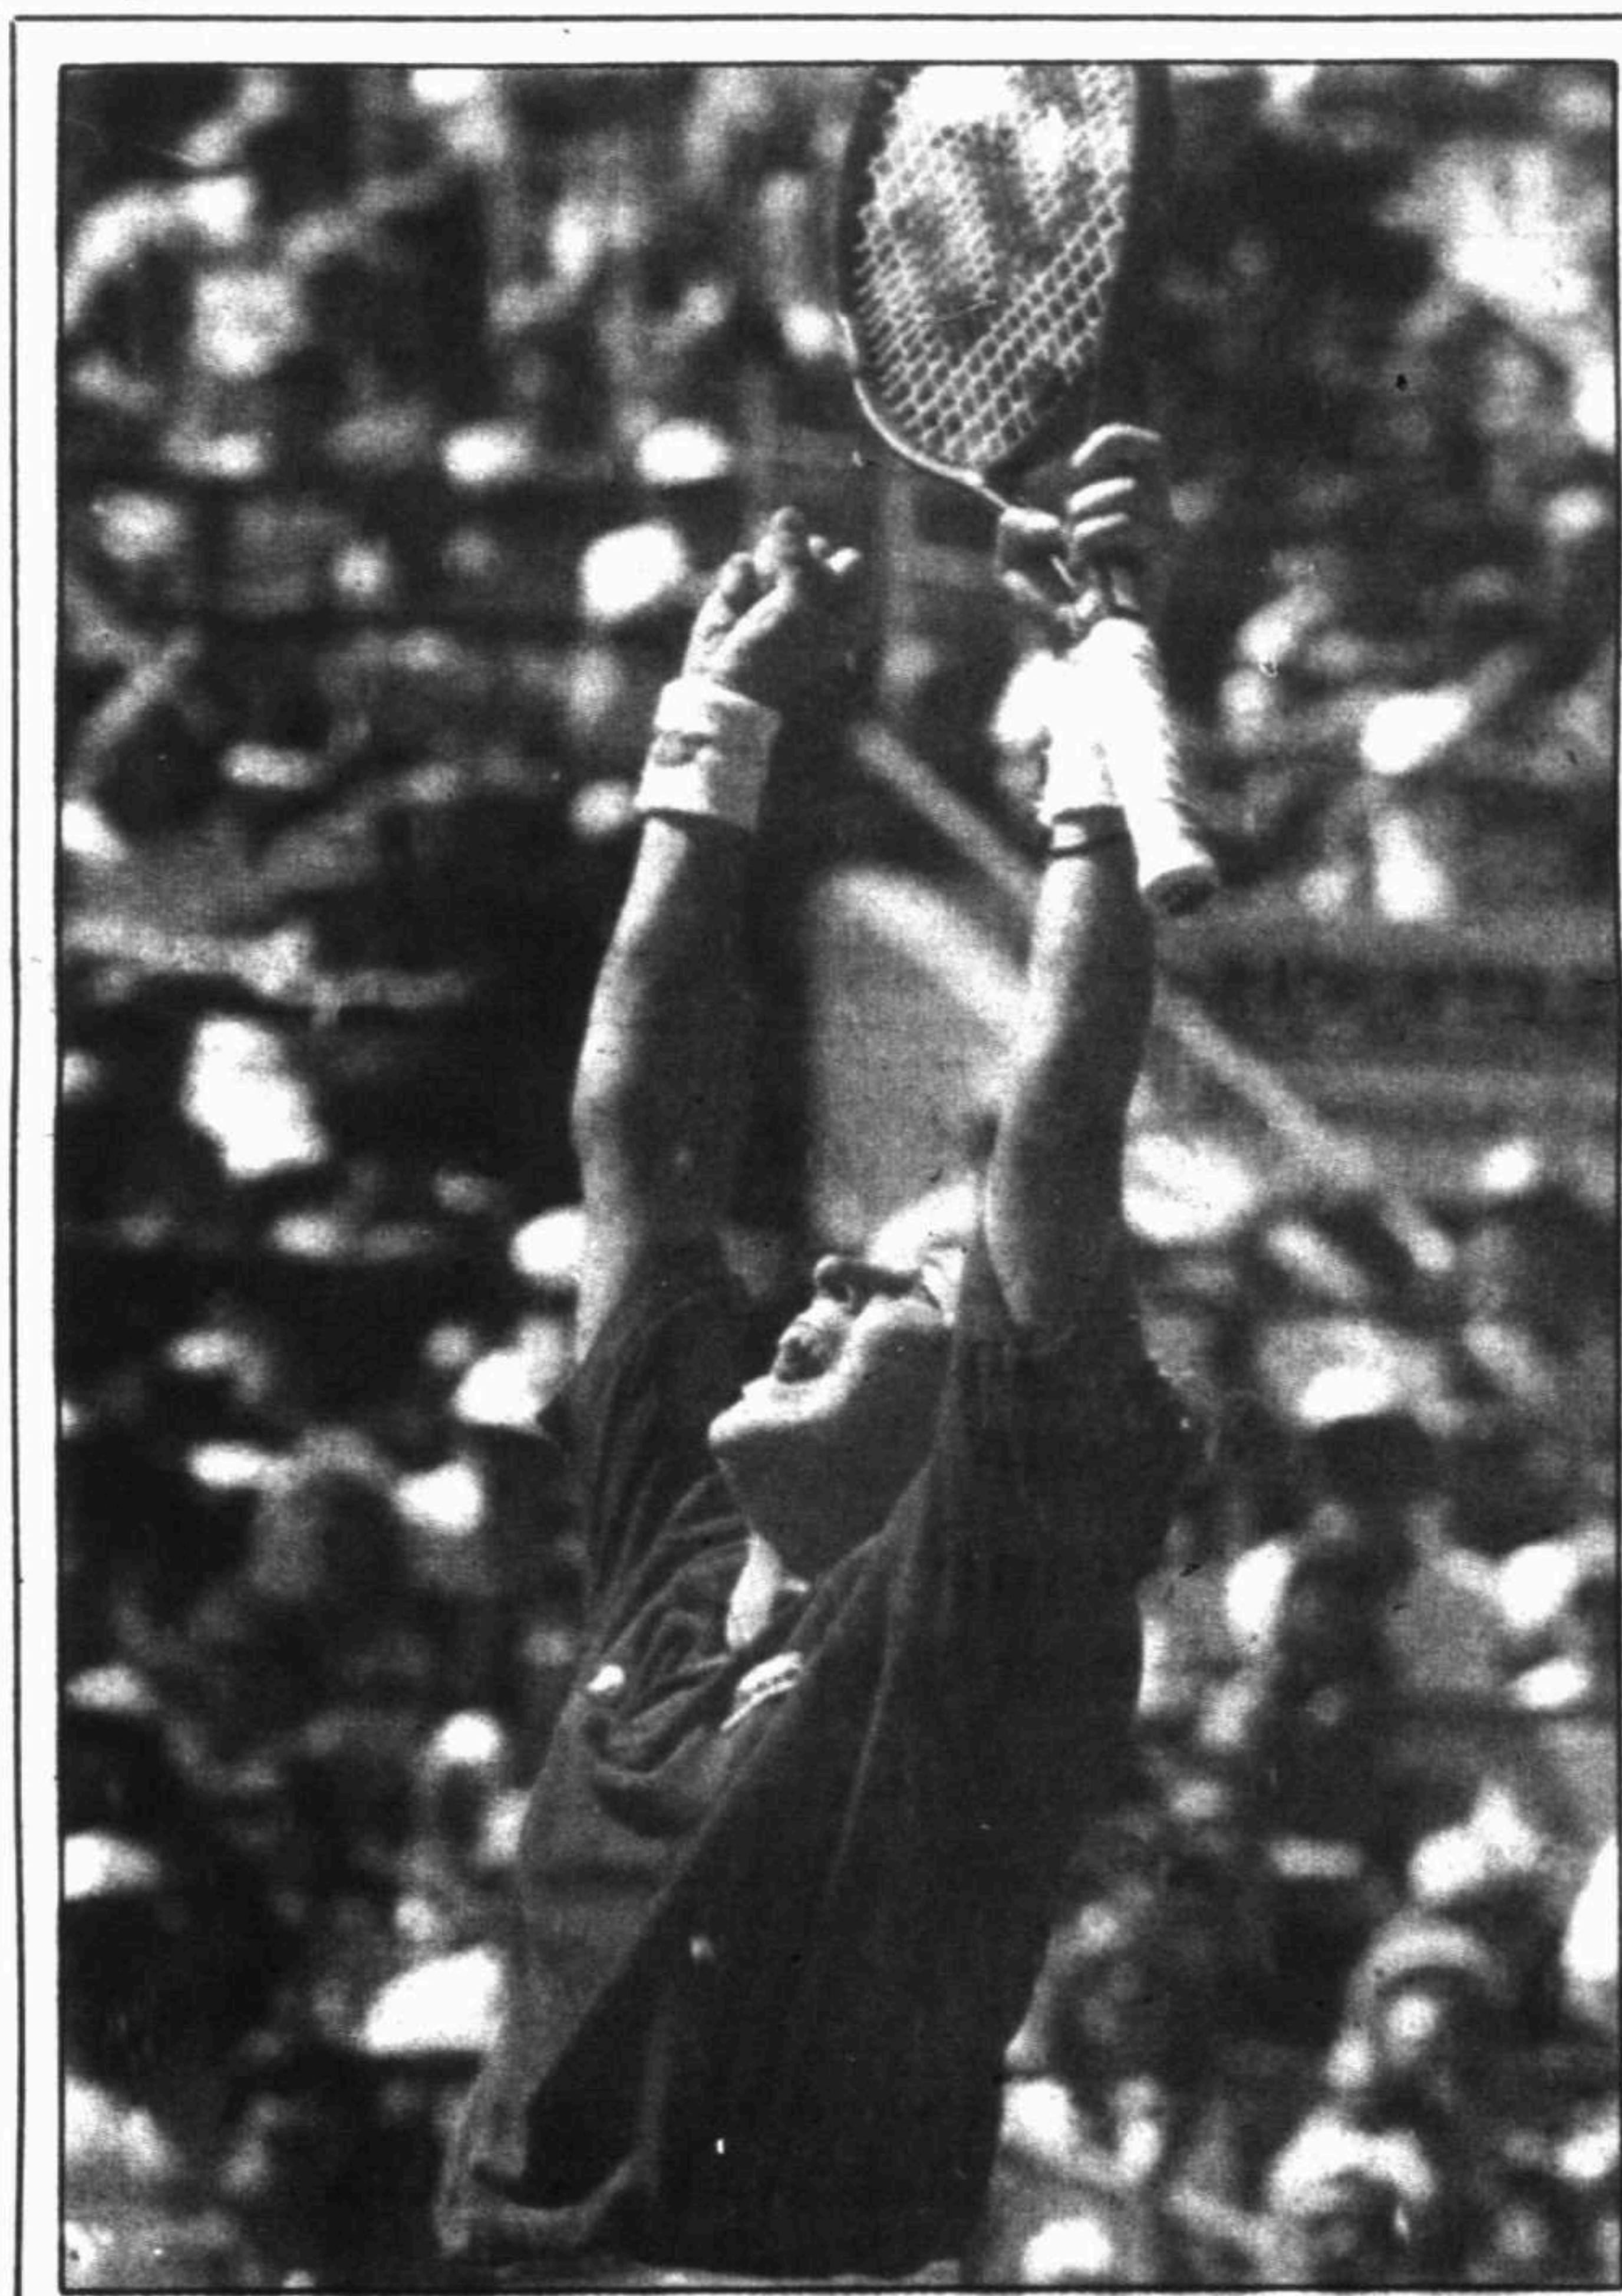

Midland College tennis coach Joe Williams has been named to receive the 1990 Volvo Tennis Coaches Community Service Award for Region VI men's coaches, the Intercollegiate Tennis Coaches Association (ITCA) announced today.

Williams was selected by a special committee from the ITCA, Volvo Tennis, and the United States Tennis Association. The committee selected one men's coach and one women's coach from each of the ITCA's eight regions. He was the only community college coach named as a regional winner.

Williams was cited for his involvement in a wide range of activities in the Midland tennis community. He helped the USTA women's circuit tourney in Midland, participates with his team at local functions, donates time and equipment to area high school and junior high programs, and serves as an advisor to the Women's Tennis Association of Midland.

Midland College won the 1990 women's NJCAA title, finished fourth in the 1990 NJCAA men's tournament, and won both the women's singles and doubles title at the 1990 Rolex ITCA National Indoor Small College Championships.

One women's coach and one men's coach will be selected by the USTA from the eight regional winners in each division to receive the 1990 national USTA/Coaches Community Service Award, which also carry $1,000 cash awards for each of the two winners. Williams and the MC tennis programs earlier this year were named to receive $2,000 from the Volvo/ITCA Awards programs for outstanding community involvement in both men's and women's programs.

Italy's Linda Ferrando exults after beating Monica Seles in the third round of the U.S. Open.

Mac attacks for big win

NEW YORK (AP) — John McEnroe's biggest victory in a year of frustration stamped him as a legitimate contender for the U.S. Open crown on a day when Monica Seles became the latest high seed to get ambushed early.

McEnroe played stylishly, his combustible temper mostly under control, as he beat 10th-seeded Andrei Chesnokov of the Soviet Union 6-3, 7-5, 6-4 on Friday night.

Deft touch volleys, leaping backhanded overheads, and blazing serves all were part of McEnroe's repertoire right up until his final backhand volley gave him the last game at love and a pass into the fourth round against No. 7 Emilio Sanchez.

McEnroe roared back from an 0-4 deficit in the second set, gave up only seven points while winning the next four games, and took the set by four points and the spirit out of Chesnokov.

Once, McEnroe, a four-time U.S. Open champion, would have been expected to beat a player of Chesnokov's ability, but after sinking to a 20th ranking and coming in here unseeded, his victory was surprising for its completeness.

McEnroe, who hadn't beaten a player in the top 20 all year, played his best tennis in a Grand Slam event since he reached the semifinals at Wimbledon last year. Since then, he got knocked out of the U.S. Open in the second round last year, was thrown out of the Australian while losing in the fourth round and lost in the first round at Wimbledon.

■ Texas A&M and Baylor face tough opponents as several Southwest Conference football teams begin their season today.

Associated Press

Never let it be said Texas A&M and Baylor pick on any gimmies for their collegiate football openers.

Although Texas A&M was a six-point favorite over Hawaii on Saturday, the Rainbows are known for playing at their best on the island.

Baylor, with an untested sophomore at quarterback, were 16-point underdogs to Nebraska.

In other games involving Southwest Conference teams, Rice was a two-point pick over Wake Forest and Washington State was a four-point choice over Texas Christian.

Texas A&M has a 3 p.m. (CDT) national television (ESPN) appearance in Honolulu against the Hawaii Rainbow Warriors, who are coming off their first-ever bowl appearance in last year's Aloha Bowl against Michigan State. The Aggies, who have captured three SWC football titles since 1985, notched a 8-4 mark last fall and battled Pittsburgh in the John Hancock Bowl.

Baylor coach Grant Teaff and his green Bears meet the Nebraska Cornhuskers in Lincoln on ESPN at 6:30 p.m. (CDT).

The Bears return to the veer offense, which was one of the prime forces in Baylor's rise to the 1974 and 1980 SWC football championships. However, senior quarterback Brad Goebel is injured and Steve Needham, a sophomore, will start. Needham took Plano to a Texas Class 5A title three years ago.

The Rice Owls become the first SWC team to play at home, hosting the Wake Forest Demon Deacons of the Atlantic Coast Conference at 6 p.m. in Rice Stadium.

Texas Christian, starting its eighth season under head coach Jim Wacker, has a 7 p.m. lifter at Amon Carter Stadium against the Washington State Cougars of the Pacific-10 Conference.

Next week, Texas visits Penn State. TCU travels to Missouri of the Big Eight. Texas Tech journeys to Ohio State for a split-national (ABC) telecast matching the SWC and Big 10. Houston hosts UNLV of the Big West. Southern independent Tulane visits Rice. SMU opens at Ownby Stadium against Vanderbilt of the Southeastern Conference, and Baylor travels to Arizona State of the Pac-10. Arkansas is the last SWC squad to start

■ The Dallas Cowboys and Houston Oilers meet in their annual exhibition contest tonight.

Associated Press

IRVING — Jack Pardee is still looking for his first victory as a Houston Oiler coach.

And it couldn't give him any greater pleasure than to get it on Saturday night when the Oilers tangle with the Dallas Cowboys in an NFL preseason extension of their training camp scrimmages at Austin and San Marcos.

Pardee was an All-Pro linebacker for the Washington Redskins and played against the Cowboys. Later, Pardee was head coach for the Redskins, matching moves with Tom Landry.

Houston is 0-3 in the preseason under new coach Jack Pardee having dropped games 34-10 to Detroit, 13-10 to the New York Giants, and 22-21 to the Minnesota Vikings.

"I'd like to have won all three but what we are doing is trying to get ready for that first Sunday and that's what we want to be ready for," Pardee said. "I hope by then we will have a win (over Dallas)."

Pardee added, "I've had some good battles against the Cowboys. It was always fun to go against them."

Dallas is 1-2, losing to San Diego 24-16 and the Los Angeles Raiders 16-14 before defeating Pittsburgh 20-9 last Saturday.

Coach Jimmy Johnson said he planned to use a wide variety of players for the game.

"We want to win every time we go onto the field but we will not do a whole lot of different things in preparation for Houston's offense," Johnson said. "We are still very much interested in evaluating the people we have on our roster. Our game plan for Houston will not be nearly as complex as it would for a regular-season game against the run-and-shoot."

Timmy Smith will start at running back for the Cowboys, who have been hard-pressed to average three yards per carry.

"We want to take a good look at Timmy," Johnson said. "Our starters will probably play only about half the game."

Johnson said the training camp scrimmages should help the Cowboys.

"We'll have to spend less time this week getting ready for the run-and-shoot," Johnson said.

In two controlled scrimmages this summer, one ended in a 24-all tie and the Oilers outscored Dallas 23-16 in the second scrimmage.

This is the 24th preseason game between the two teams dating back to 1967.

Rivera helps Bosox win

Associated Press

Luis Rivera hit Boston's first grand slam of the season and drove in five runs as the Red Sox won their eighth straight game Friday night, beating the New York Yankees 7-3.

Opening a 12-game homestand after a 7-1 trip, the Red Sox tied Chicago for the longest winning streak of the year in the American League. Boston began the evening with a 6½-game lead in the AL East over Toronto.

Greg Harris (12-5), trying for his first nine-inning complete game in the majors, left after Roberto Kelly led off the ninth with his 14th home run and Steve Sax followed with a single.

Harris gave up four hits, struck out six and walked one. He retired 17 straight batters in between a two-run homer by former Midland Lee stand-out Randy Velarde in the third and Velarde's double in the eighth.

Rob Murphy relieved Harris and walked Steve Balboni with two outs. Jeff Gray got the last out for his eighth save.

Rivera's RBI grounder put Boston ahead 3-2 in the fourth. He hit his first career slam in the eighth off Jeff Robinson after Boston loaded the bases with no outs on singles by pinch hitter Tom Brunansky, Mike Marshall and Tony Pena.

Dwight Evans gave Boston a brief 1-0 lead in the second inning when he hit his 13th homer of the year and 379th of his career, tying him with Tony Perez and Orlando Cepeda for 28th place on the all-time list.

Mariners 5, Royals 2

The Griffey — 20-year-old Ken Jr. and his dad, Ken, 40 — made major-league history and magic moments for the Mariners.

The Griffey was the first father and son to play together in the big leagues, and they didn't disappoint. With one out in the first inning, Griffey Sr. singled and Griffey Jr. followed with another single, and both wound up scoring.

Then, in the sixth inning, the elder Griffey threw out Bo Jackson trying to stretch a single into a double. He cleanly fielded the ball off the bullpen wall in left field and threw a strike to second baseman Harold Reynolds.

Brewers 4, Orioles 1

Ron Robinson pitched an eight-hitter for his third complete game in his last six starts and Greg Brock drove in two runs with a tie-breaking sacrifice fly and a home run for Milwaukee.

Robinson (8-3) struck out three without issuing a walk in throwing his fourth complete game in 16 starts this season. He is 4-0 in his last six starts.

The Brewers overcame a 1-0 deficit with a three-run fourth. Robin Yount and Dave Parker opened the inning with singles and B.J. Surhoff laid down a sacrifice bunt. Baltimore pitcher John Mitchell fielded the ball and threw it over the head of first baseman Mickey Tettleton. Yount scored on the play and the Brewers had runners at second and third.

Rob Deer walked to load the bases and Brock drove in Parker with a sacrifice fly to center. A sacrifice fly by Greg Vaughn made it 3-1.

Blue Jays 12, Indians 8

Toronto rookie Luis Sojo replaced the ailing Tony Fernandez in the second inning and atoned for three errors by driving in five runs with his first career home run and a double.

Toronto overcame a 4-0 deficit and won its second straight after a five-game losing streak. The Blue Jays remained 6½ games behind first-place Boston in the American League East.

Cleveland has lost five in a row, four to Boston and one to Toronto.

Tigers 12, Twins 6

Lou Whitaker and Larry Sheets each drove in three runs for Detroit.

The Tigers led 9-1 after three innings in a game that featured 13 extra-base hits, including four home runs and three triples. Detroit won for the ninth time in 12 games.

Ken Griffey, Sr. chats with son Ken, Jr. during a recent game. The Griffey was expected to make baseball history Friday by playing alongside each other in the Seattle Mariners' outfield.

Father and son, side by side

SEATTLE (AP) — Ken Griffey Sr. and Ken Griffey Jr. made baseball history Friday night by becoming the first father and son to play together in the major leagues. And, they made it work — each singled and scored in the first inning for the Seattle Mariners.

With one out, Griffey Sr. singled to center off Kansas City's Storm Davis and took second on Griffey Jr.'s single to center. Each time, the ball was taken out of play.

Later, Alvin Davis singled home the 40-year-old Griffey and the 20-year-old Griffey scored on a wild pitch. Neither Griffey Sr., the left fielder, or his son in center field got any plays in the top of the first.

A big crowd, swelled by seeing the Griffey together, cheered loudly throughout the opening inning. Among the fans was Alberto Griffey, who watched her husband and son in the same lineup.

Before the game, the fans watched on the video scoreboard as Craig Griffey, 19, a cornerback at Ohio State, talked to his brother and father.

"I'm very nervous," Griffey Sr. said before the game. "Ken Jr. wasn't as hyper as he usually is. I think he was nervous, too."

"For the last year and a half, this is something that has been in the back of my mind," Griffey Sr., a veteran of 18 seasons, said recently.

At 19, Griffey Jr., top draft choice in the nation in 1987 from Cincinnati's Moeller High School, arrived as a rookie for the Mariners.

Against the odds, Griffey Jr. overcame his youth and inexperience and stuck. At 20, when most young players are in Double A ball, he blossomed and became the first Mariners player elected to the All-Star game. He was the American League's starting center fielder at Chicago's Wrigley Field on July 10.

Now, Griffey Sr. and his son are together on the Mariners for the final month of the 1990 season.

On Aug. 18, Cincinnati general manager Bob Quinn gave Griffey 15 minutes to decide among three options: To retire, accept his release or go on the disabled list.

Initially, Griffey chose retirement, thinking the Mariners would be able to pick him up, allowing him to play with his son for a month.

However, National League rules required a 60-day waiting period before a "retired" player could be signed by another team. Griffey said he didn't understand the 60-day rule at first.

So Griffey "unretired," and the Reds released him last weekend. Wednesday, he cleared waivers and was signed by the Mariners.

Griffey didn't play in Seattle on Wednesday and Thursday nights against Detroit.

"This is the pinnacle for me, something I'm very proud of," Griffey said. "You can talk about the '76 batting race, the two World Series I played in and the All-Star games I played in. But this is No. 1. This is the best thing that's ever happened to me."

Griffey, a .296 lifetime hitter, finished second in the 1976 batting race with a .336 average.

Griffey said he hasn't ruled out playing next season, but he was concentrating on this season. The Mariners signed him for the remainder of the 1990 season.

"This all happened because of what Junior has done," he said. "I never thought he'd make it to the big leagues as quickly as he did."

And he never thought he'd play for 18 years, either. "I thought I'd have 10 good years and that would be about it," said Griffey, a key member of Cincinnati's "Big Red Machine" during the 1970s. He played on two World Series winners.

Astros whip sliding Bucs

Glenn Wilson's RBI single capped a three-run, two-out rally in the ninth inning as the Houston Astros stunned the Pittsburgh Pirates 3-2 on Friday night.

It was the Astros' first game without longtime second baseman Bill Doran and reliever Larry Andersen.

Zane Smith allowed seven hits, struck out four and walked none in eight innings, but lost a chance for his fourth straight victory since being traded to Pittsburgh on Aug. 8 when the Astros rallied with five straight two-out hits.

Craig Biggio singled off Stan Belinda and scored on a pinch-hit double by Casey Candaele. Franklin Stubbs' RBI single off Bob Paterson (8-5) tied the game and Dave Rohde singled to left, sending Stubbs to second. Wilson, a former Astro batting for reliever Juan Agosto, lined a single to right and Stubbs scored without a throw.

The loss cut Pittsburgh's lead in the NL East to a half-game over New York. The Mets staged their own three-run, two-out rally in the ninth to beat San Francisco 4-3.

Agosto (6-7) pitched a scoreless ninth for the victory. The Astros' rally got starter Mike Scott off the hook. Scott allowed two runs on five hits in eight innings. He struck out three and walked two.

Pittsburgh took a 1-0 lead in the second. Barry Bonds led off with a single, took third on a single by Sid Bream and scored on a single by Mike LaValiere. Jay Bell made it 2-0 in the third when he hit sixth home run of the season, a drive over the center-field fence.

Smith has a 2.0 record and an 0.82 earned run average in four starts against the Astros this season.

Mets 4, Giants 3

Howard Johnson's bloop RBI single in the ninth inning capped a dramatic two-out, three-run rally as the Mets scored their fourth straight victory.

The Mets entered the night 1½ games behind first-place Pittsburgh in the National League East. The Pirates played the Astros at Houston.

New York tried to bolster its postseason hopes by acquiring second baseman Tommy Herr and catcher Charlie O'Brien before the game.

But when the game started, Don Robinson was in control until the ninth inning. Robinson was one out away from a six-hit victory before Dave Magadan kept the Mets alive with a single.

Greg Jefferies followed with a run-scoring double and Steve Bedrosian (6-8) relieved. The Giants walked Darryl Strawberry intentionally but Kevin McReynolds ruined the strategy with a game-tying single up the middle. Johnson won it when he dumped a single that landed just in front of right fielder Mike Kingery's dive.

The Mets' 17th victory this season in their final at-bat made a winner of Frank Viola (17-9).

Expos 5, Dodgers 2

Rookie Chris Nabholz allowed one hit in seven innings and Delino DeShields homered and drove in three runs as Montreal snapped Los Angeles' five-game winning streak.

Nabholz (3-0) struck out five and walked six in his fifth major league start. The only hit he allowed was a broken-bat opposite-field single by Kirk Gibson in the fourth.

The loss kept the Dodgers 5½ games behind first-place Cincinnati in the National League West.

Braves 4, Cardinals 1

Atlanta's John Smoltz allowed seven hits in 8 1/3 innings for his third straight victory.

Smoltz (12-9) struck out five, walked four and allowed only one runner past second over the first eight innings. He left with one out and the bases loaded in the ninth.

Kent Mercker allowed Terry Pendleton's RBI single but got Vince Coleman to pop out and struck out Rex Hudler for his fourth save.

Jose DeLeon (7-14) allowed only three hits and one run in six innings but lost for the eighth time in nine decisions.

Phillies 4, Padres 2

John Kruk's tie-breaking two-run double in the eighth inning gave Philadelphia the win.

Randy Ready led off the eighth with a single off Altee Hamaker (4-6) and Von Hayes drew a walk. Gregg Harris relieved Hamaker and got Dale Murphy to pop out, but Kruk doubled to right-center, scoring both runners.

Angels down San Antone

Staff Report

SAN ANTONIO — Midland's Johnny Monnell smashed a three-run homer in the first inning as the Midland Angels defeated the San Antonio Missions, 6-1, in the next-to-last game of the 1990 Texas League season Friday night.

The three run smash was a shot into the wind and over the left-center field fence.

Leadoff hitter Wiley Lee had reached base earlier in the first although striking out to open the game. Missions' catcher Lance Rice mishandled a Dennis Springer fastball and Lee raced safely to first.

Lee stole second — his 44th steal of the season — and Scott Cerny walked to set up the three-run blast by Monnell.

Robert Moore — pitching his first start for the Angels — raised his record to 4-1 and allowed just six hits — three each to Henry Rodriguez and Steve Finken.

The Angels are 30-38 on the second-half of the Texas League season, tied for third place with Wichita.

The Angels close out the season today at 7 p.m. in San Antonio.

The broadcast on KCRS (550-AM) will be carried on a tape-delay basis following the Dallas Cowboy-Houston Oilers preseason game.

Texas League awards were handed out this week. Five Missions were named to the team, including Rodriguez, the league MVP.

No Angels were named to the team. Surprisingly to some, Jeff Barns was not named as the utility infielder on the team. Chosen instead was Dave Patterson of the playoff-bound Shreveport Captains.

Mitchell matches Clark with $15 million contract

NEW YORK (AP) — Kevin Mitchell took his place among baseball's financial elite Friday when he agreed to a four-year, $15 million contract with the San Francisco Giants.

Mitchell, the National League MVP last season, will get a $1 million signing bonus and $3.5 million from 1991-1994 for an average of $3.75 million per season. His deal matches that of teammate Will Clark, who signed for $3.75 million for each of four years.

"I'm very happy about this situation," Mitchell said before Friday's game against the New York Mets, his former club. "It's good to be around people like Al Rosen and Roger Craig."

Mitchell, 28, can also make $100,000 for being selected MVP, $50,000 for playoff MVP, $50,000 for World Series MVP and $25,000 for making the All-Star team in each of the four years of the contract.

Gagliano steals the show

Associated Press

It was Andre Ware's professional debut, and turned into Bob Gagliano's big night.

Gagliano, entering his sixth NFL season, threw for two fourth-quarter touchdowns Friday night as the Detroit Lions completed an unbeaten pre-season with a 26-24 victory over the Cincinnati Bengals.

Cincinnati (1-3) led 24-10 late in the third quarter after Boomer Esiason threw his second touchdown pass, set up by Ware's first pro interception.

After Ware was ineffective in his two series, completing two of seven for 15 yards, Gagliano relieved him and completed eight of 10 passes for 129 yards to give the Lions (4-0) their first unbeaten pre-season since 1954, when they won six games.

Gagliano threw a 1-yard touchdown pass to Jeff Campbell, a 3-yarder to Willie Green, then hit Campbell with a 26-yarder to set up Wilson Hoyle's winning 19-yard field goal with 3:39 left.

Ware, the Heisman Trophy-winner who signed Monday night, came on in the second half and had his fifth pass intercepted by Barney Bussey at the Lions' 45-yard line. Four plays later, Esiason lofted a 37-yard touchdown pass to Stanford Jennings for the 24-10 lead.

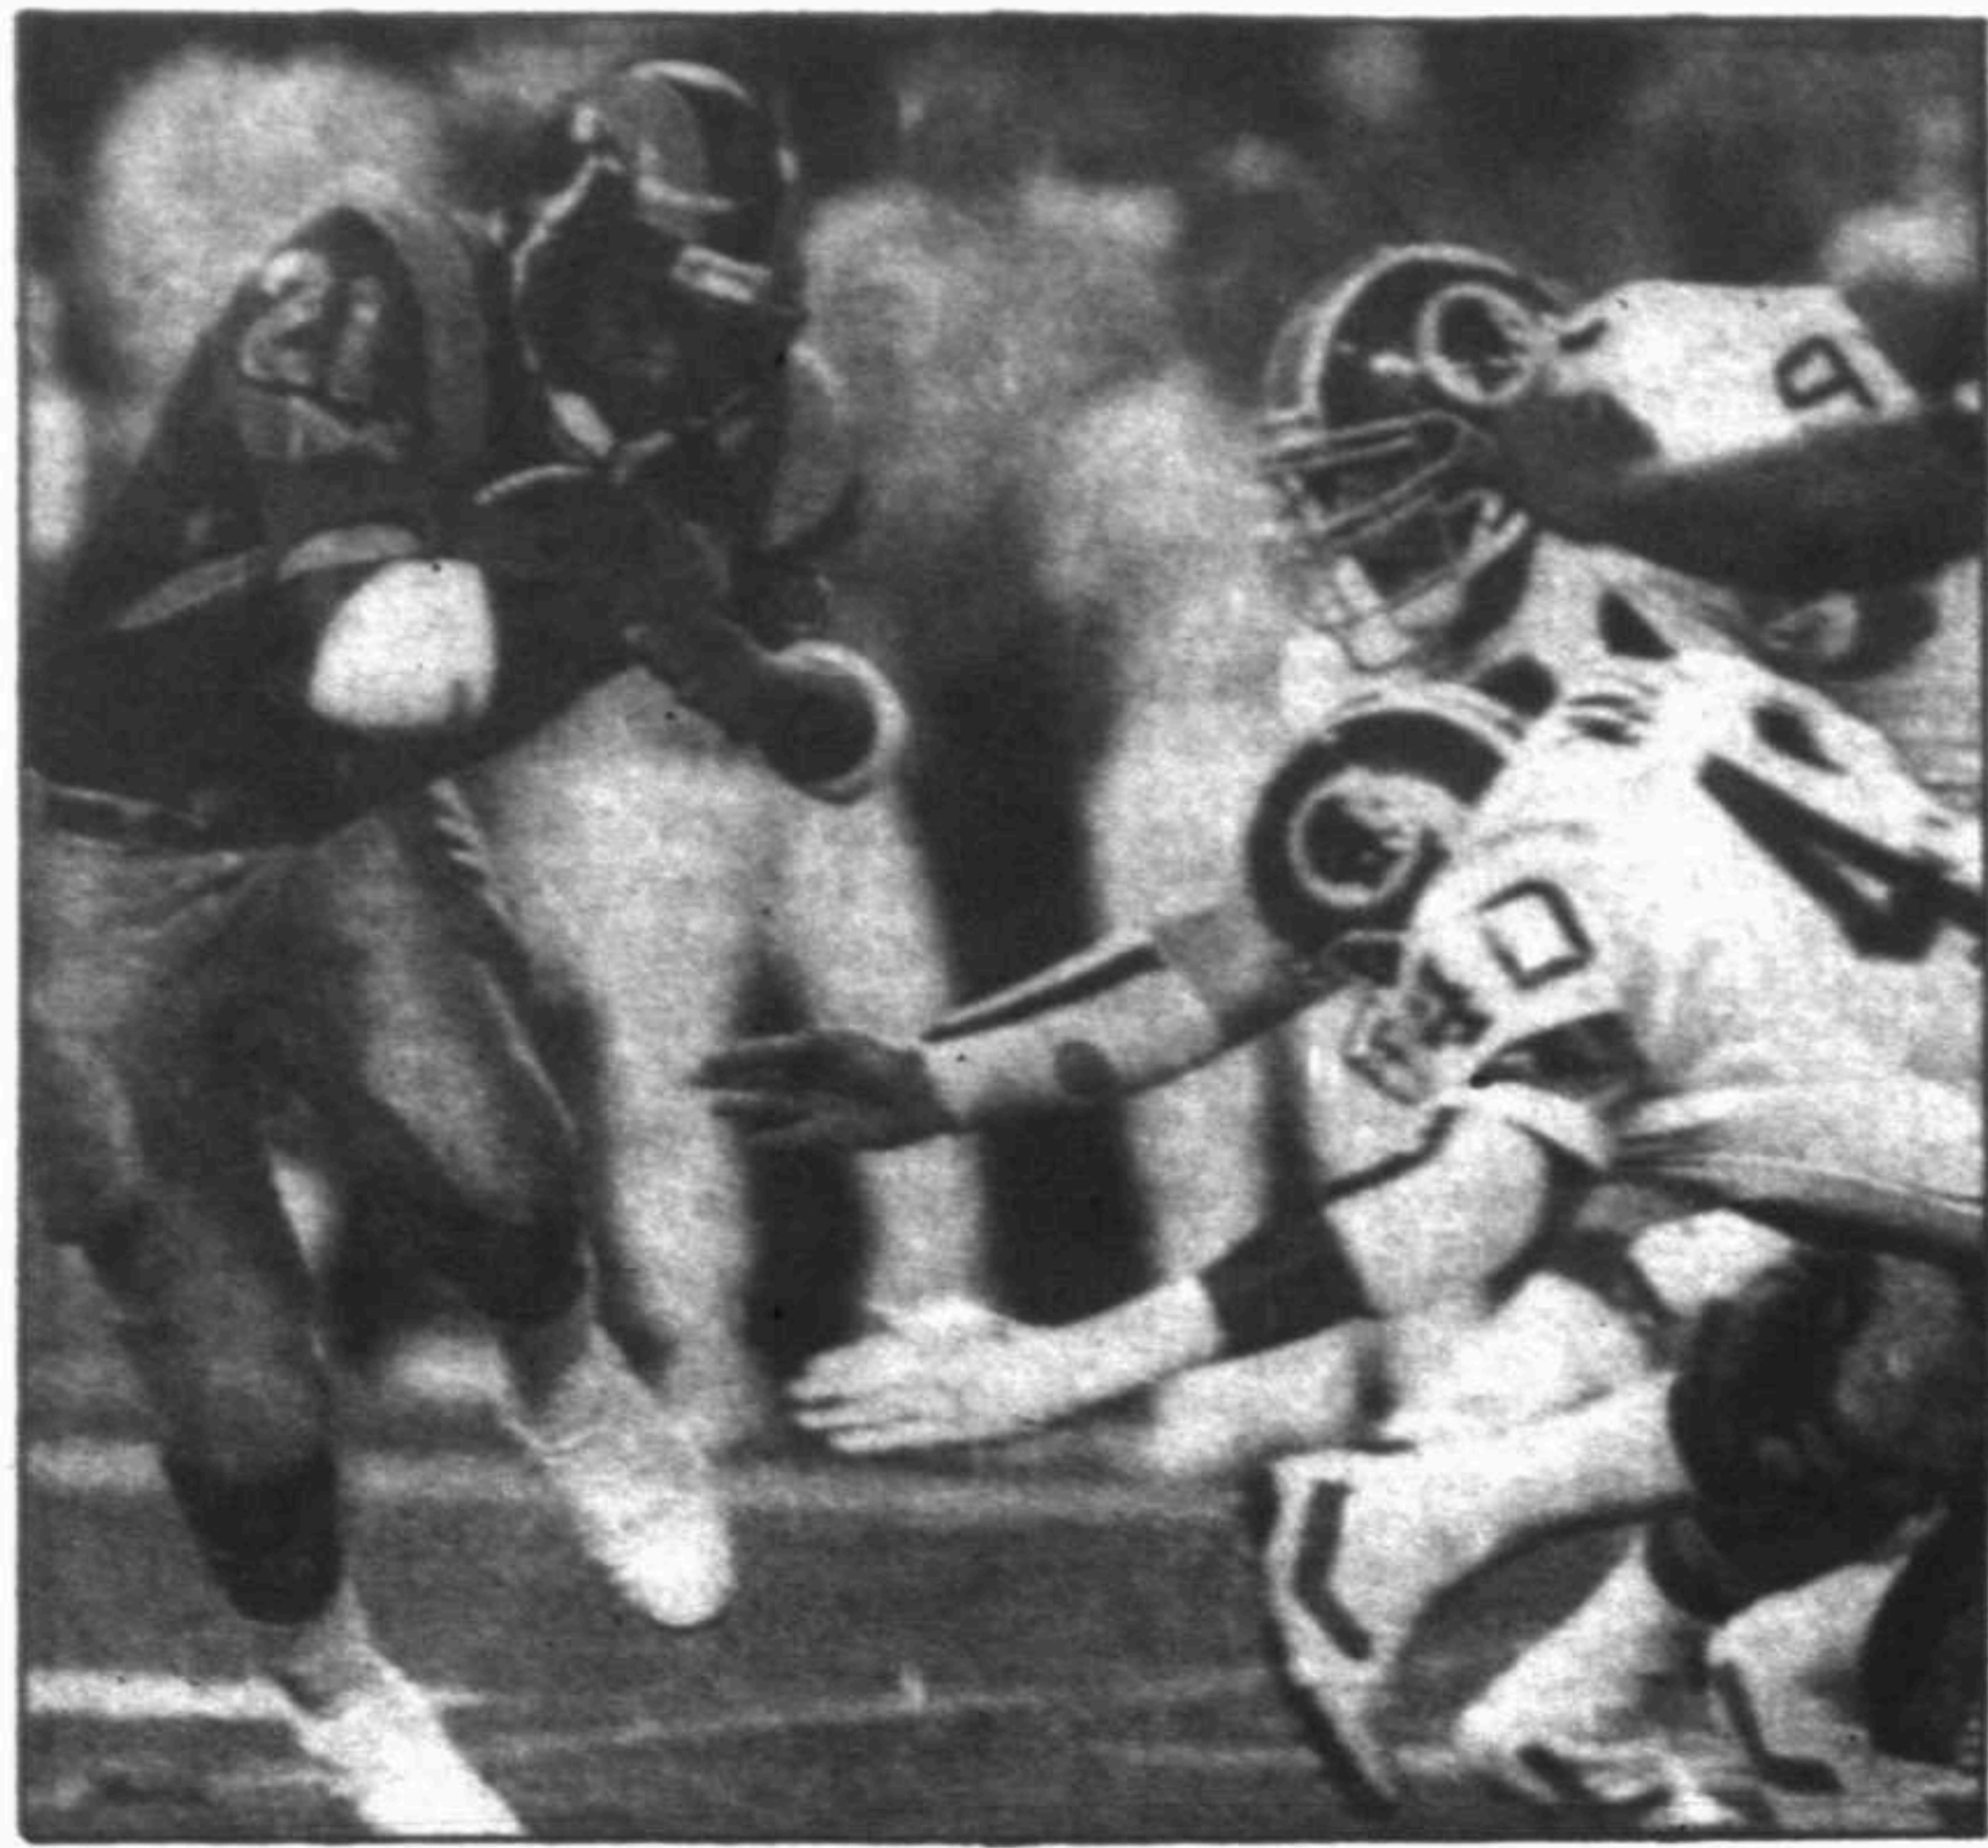

Lions starting quarterback Rodney Peete had an erratic first half, completing 13 of 24 with one interception and one touchdown.

Also Friday night, it was Washington 37, the Los Angeles Rams 10; Atlanta 45, New England 14; Kansas City 27, Green Bay 14; New Orleans 17, Indianapolis 14; and Minnesota 20, Miami 17.

In late games, Phoenix was at Denver and Seattle at San Francisco, where Joe Montana was sidelined with a deep forearm bruise on his right arm.

The last weekend of the exhibition season began Thursday night, with Tampa Bay beating the New York Jets 23-14 and Chicago routing Buffalo 35-7.

Saturday's schedule includes Cleveland at the New York Giants; Houston at Dallas; San Diego at the Los Angeles Raiders; and Philadelphia at Pittsburgh.

L.A. Rams running back Curt Warner avoids Washington defenders Alvin Walton and Greg Manusky.

Redskins 37, Rams 10

Mark Rypien threw three first-half touchdown passes and the host Redskins held the crippled Rams to eight first downs. Rypien, whose third pass of the game was intercepted by Jerry Gray and returned 62 yards for a touchdown, rebounded with scoring passes to Ken Whisenand, Art Monk and Terry Orr.

Los Angeles played without injured wide receivers Henry Ellard, Aaron Cox and Flipper Anderson and used quarterback Jim Everett for only six plays of the first quarter.

Kansas City 27, Green Bay 14
At Kansas City, Derrick Thomas, Chris Martin and Leonard Griffin scored second-quarter touchdowns off Anthony Dilweg's turnovers.

Dilweg, starting in place of hold-out QB Don Majkowski, had his nightmare start when Thomas stripped him of the ball on the third play of the second period. Thomas, the 1989 AFC defensive rookie of the year, picked up the ball on the Green Bay 13-yard line, circled left and sped to the corner of the end zone for a 10-0 lead.

Later in the quarter, Martin sacked Dilweg for a 14-yard loss and knocked the ball free. Griffin, a 272-pound defensive end, scooped it up and rumbled 45 yards as Thomas made a key block near the goal line.

Dilweg tried another pass on the second play of the ensuing drive. But Martin, an outside linebacker, stepped in front of intended receiver Darrell Thompson and ran 29 yards untouched for the third touchdown by the defense.

Falcons 45, Patriots 14
Chris Miller and Hugh Millen each passed for two touchdowns, the defense ran back two second-half fumbles and the visiting Falcons completed their first unbeaten exhibition season.

Within a 1:43 span of the third quarter, the Falcons increased a 17-14 halftime lead to 31-14. At 10:50, defensive end Rick Bryan ran 56 yards with a fumble recovery following Marcus Cotton's sack of New England's Marc Wilson.

It became 31-14 when Millen, taking over from Miller, hit Stacey

NFL

Bailey for an 11-yard touchdown, set up by Charles Dimry's interception.

In the fourth quarter, Shawn Lee grabbed another fumble forced by Cotton and returned it 65 yards, making it 38-14.

Miller earlier hit Andre Rison on scoring passes of 26 and 55 yards.

Saints 17, Colts 14
At New Orleans, the Saints scored all of 17 points off turnovers. Dalton Hilliard and Gill Fennerty both ran for touchdowns as Indianapolis ended the exhibition season 0-4. The Saints were 4-1.

Alan Grant fumbled the opening kickoff, leading to New Orleans' first score, but he later had two interceptions.

James Williams knocked the ball out of Grant's grasp and recovered at the Colts' 18, and Hilliard ran it in from a yard out

Vikings 20, Dolphins 17

At Miami, Wade Wilson threw two early touchdown passes, overcoming an early interception by Tim McKyer that set up Miami's first score.

Wilson's second pass was underthrown and intercepted by McKyer, who ran 55 yards to the 1. But Wilson bounced back to lead the Vikings on touchdown drives of 65 and 60 yards, capping the marches with scoring passes of eight yards to Herschel Walker and 12 yards to Leo Lewis.

The Dolphins had the ball in Minnesota territory without scoring six times. Dan Marino, who played the first two quarters, constantly was harried by the Vikings' pass rush. Marino completed six of 15 passes for 127 yards.

Seahawks 30, 49ers 10

Derrick Fenner ran for two touchdowns on and Seattle took advantage of San Francisco turnovers for its fourth consecutive exhibition victory.

Seattle (4-1) converted an interception of Steve Young and a fumble by Roger Craig into Fenner's two touchdowns as the Seahawks scored 20 points in a 4:58 span in the second quarter.

OPEN: Seles shocked by unheralded Italian Ferrando second round in nine previous Grand Slam tournaments, ranked as no less a shock than the first-round bushwhacking of Wimbledon champ Stefan Edberg by Alexander Volkov.

Ferrando, who fought off painful leg cramps in the final set, looked as stunned after her gutsy 1-6, 6-1, 7-6 (7-3) victory as Seles, neither of them quite sure how it happened.

Around the No. 3 Seles and top-seeded Edberg lay the other fallen seeds: No. 5 Andres Gomez, the French Open champion, No. 14

Jim Courier, No. 16 Martin Jaita, and women's No. 14 Natalia Zvereva.

Andre Agassi, No. 4, came close to joining them before he pulled out a 7-5, 5-7, 6-0, 6-4 victory Thursday night in a heated match against Petr Korda of Czechoslovakia. Agassi flirted with default when he cursed and spit at the umpire during the second set, and was fined $3,000 on Friday. If Agassi, who was fined $1,000 for breaking his racket at the French Open, accumulates another $3,500 in fines he would be banned from the next Grand Slam event.

Meanwhile, Ivan Lendl, unrufled by the chaos around him, slipped on his legionsnaires hat again and calmly beat Alex Antonitsch 7-6 (7-4), 6-1, 6-2.

Women's top-seed Martina Navratilova was lucky to have an easy opponent in her third-round match. Navratilova played sloppily, double-faulting seven times, but beat Halle Cioffi 6-2, 6-2.

"I never felt comfortable. I don't know why," Navratilova said. "I never got into a rhythm. I never felt free to hit the ball. I served lousy for the most part."

She said she was thrown off waiting for her night match after watching the Seles match in the afternoon and "getting all excited" by it. Navratilova was seeded to meet Seles in the semifinals, but now is more likely to meet No. 5 Gabriela Sabatini.

Sabatini also advanced easily, beating Sabine Appelmans 6-2, 6-4, and No. 8 Mary Joe Fernandez beat Robin White 6-1, 6-2.

After a shaky first set, Ferrando, ranked No. 82, overcame the jitters of playing her first center-court match at a Grand Slam tournament and successfully used the same serve-and-volley strategy against Seles that Zina Garrison did in beating Seles at Wimbledon.

SWC: Aggies, Bears face tough foes play in the 1990s with a Sept. 15 battle in Fayetteville against independent Tulsa.

The Aggies, who had the third-best record (71-44-1) in the SWC in the 1980s behind Arkansas and Texas, have to cross five time zones and to overcome a wealth of friendly distractions in their 1990 opener. Hawaii battled for the Western Athletic Conference title for much of 1989 before finishing 9-31 overall.

Rice, which posted a pair of SWC wins over the Mustangs and Baylor at Waco, seeks more defensive continuity in 1990 and wants to settle the score with coach Bill Dooley's Deacons, who booted a last-second field goal in 1989 at Winston-Salem, N.C., to tie the Owls 17-17 last season.

At Lincoln, Baylor faces one of the toughest season-openers in its history against the 1990 Sunbelt Fiesta Bowl participants. Nebraska has an imposing, 17-6-1 mark against SWC football opposition and downed Texas A&M 23-14 in the 1988 Kickoff Classic at the Meadowslands, N.J., when it last faced a SWC opponent.

TCU owns victories over Boston College, Brigham Young, and Air Force in recent non-conference contests.

Baylor coach Grant Teaff said Needham could surprise everyone.

"A couple of schools tried to recruit him as a defensive back but I wanted him as a quarterback because he's the kind of player who can get things done," Teaff said. "I feel very comfortable with him. It will be a great challenge for him."

A&M coach R.C. Slocum will take his team to Pearl Harbor to remind them of what can happen against an unprepared opponent.

"Hawaii has won nine games in each of the last two seasons," Slocum said. "This game will have a bowl-type atmosphere and we have a very difficult task."

This will be the sixth consecutive year for A&M on national TV. The Aggies are 1-4 the last five years in TV openers.

State hunt season begins today

Staff Report

It's time to dust off those shotguns, longbows and bird calls, for today marks the opening of migratory game bird season in Texas, where three distinct zones place varying regulations on the times and taking of doves, rails, gallinules and teal.

A fourth zone, which snakes through the Central and South Zones in the state (see accompanying graphic) is a special white-winged dove sanctuary, some of which is open to hunters of the white-winged birds Sept. 1-2.

Because Interstate 20 serves to divide the North Zone from the Central Zone, Midlanders enjoy the availability of two very large and separate hunting areas close at hand. But since each zone has its own set of rules regarding white-winged and white-tipped birds in season, hunters need to determine which fowls may be taken when and where before opening fire.

Mourning Doves

The season for mourning doves runs from Sept. 1 through Nov. 9 in the North Zone, from Sept. 1 through Oct. 29 and from Jan. 5 through Jan. 20 in the Central Zone and from Sept. 20 until Nov. 12 and Jan. 5-20 in the South Zone. Also in the South Zone, the season ends Nov. 10 in the special white-winged dove area.

Shooting hours are one-half hour before sunrise to sunset.

Daily bag limits are 12 mourning, white-winged, and white-tipped doves in the aggregate to include not more than two white-wings and two whittips. Possession limit is twice the daily bag limit.

White-Winged Doves

The season for white-winged doves is restricted to Sept. 1-2 in the special area in the southwest portion of the state, with shooting hours from noon to sunset. The daily bag limit is 10 white-winged mourning and white-tipped in the aggregate, and the possession limit is twice the daily bag limit.

A special $6 stamp is required of all white-winged dove hunters this season.

King and Clapper Rails

September 1 through Nov. 9 marks the season for king and clapper rails in all zones. Shooting hours are one-half hour before sunrise until sunset, and daily bag limit is 15 with a possession limit of 30.

Sora and Virginia Rails

These rails may be taken, between Sept. 1 and Nov. 9 with a daily limit of 25 in the aggregate and a 25 possession limit. Shooting hours are from one-half hour before sunrise until sunset.

Moorehens and Gallinules

The daily bag limit is 15 with a possession limit of 30 for moorehens (common gallinules) and purple gallinules. The season is from Sept. 1 through Nov. 9 in all zones, and the shooting hours are from one-half hour before sunrise until sunset.

Regulations

Shotguns not larger than 10 gauge, fired from the shoulder and incapable of holding more than three shells are acceptable for migratory bird season in Texas. Hunters may also utilize longbows and arrows (no crossbows), falconry, dogs, artificial decoys and manual or mouth operated bird calls.

All hunters of migratory game birds are required to possess a valid hunting license.

More information about hunting regulations in Texas can be obtained by calling the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department at its toll-free number: 1-800-792-1112. The Midland office number is 699-4649.

To obtain the new Texas Parks and Wildlife magazine, which keeps hunters up to date on all the happenings of the Wildlife Department, call 1-800-973-9393.

Canadian Stewart maintains lead

FRANKLIN, Wis. (AP) — Ray Stewart followed an opening-day 63 — which was bettered by one stroke in the second round by Scott Verplank — with a 2-under-par 70 on Friday for a one-stroke lead halfway through the Greater Milwaukee Open.

Stewart, who was tied for the lead with Jim Thorpe after one round, had two bogeys and four birdies on Friday, giving him a 36-hole total of 133, 11 under par and one stroke better than Ken Green.

Verplank strung together seven straight birdies for his 62, one stroke off the course record set by Green when he won the tournament in 1988.

Verplank started the day at two over, then went to work on the back nine with birdies from 11 through 17.

"I can't explain it. I made a lot of good shots. I never made a long putt. On No. 17, I was wondering what the (birdie) record was," Verplank said.

The PGA record is eight straight birdies held by three players. Verplank's attempt at tying that mark ended with a par on No. 18.

Verplank had four more birdies on the first seven holes of the front side but misjudged the par-3 8th, hit over the green and took his only bogey of the round.

Was the course record on his mind?

"I was thinking more about trying to shoot 59 when I was standing on the sixth hole," Verplank said. "I didn't put a lot of pressure on myself to do it, but I was thinking if I hit a couple more good shots I'll have a chance. But a split-second decision on No. 8 killed me."

Green shot a 69 Friday in a round that included five birdies

Magic lands first in Lubbock

Staff Report

Magic, an area women's soccer team, recently took first place in the Pre-Labor Day tournament in Lubbock.

Magic didn't lose a game on the way to the crown.

Magic tied their first game, 1-1, and then followed with 2-1 and 5-0 victories for the title. Lisa Repman scored five of the eight goals scored with Laura Serrano scoring two and Becky Stanford one goal.

The team was a combination of players from several area teams which was put together specifically for the Lubbock tournament. The players were Sharon Hindman, Frankie Stanley, Linda Hawthorne, Lisa Repman, Donna Mason, Debbie Corey, Carolyn McCollum, Becky Stanford, Dawn Wileman, Linda Castrasana, Cathy Richmond, Jenia Lewis, Belinda Rubio, Becca Stevens, Laura Serrano and Marilyn Sirtua. The coach was James Hindman.

THE FRUITS OF OUR LABOR

As we anticipate Labor Day, we look forward to a well-earned day of rest, a day in which we may enjoy the fruits of our labor.
Perhaps a picnic in your plans, or possibly a final trip to the lake to end this summer season. Whatever your plans, have a satisfying day, for you, the laborers, combine all occupations, both professional and nonprofessional, in order to keep the gears of our economy running smoothly, so that we might take pleasure in living in this great nation of ours.
This Sabbath Day, may we take the time to thank God for the strength of body and mind which he so richly bestows upon us each day. 1 Peter, 4:11 tells us that whoever renders service "renders it by the strength which God supplies."

RELIGION

RELIGION IN BRIEF

Brown to appear at Cornerstone

Betsy Brown will minister in word and music at Cornerstone Christian Fellowship, 1610 W. Wall Ave., at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Sunday.

Miss Brown recently completed nine months of ministry in Europe. In October, she traveled to West Germany to work with the U.S. military and their families stationed in Western Europe. Since that time, she has presented the Gospel more than 220 times to about 20,000 people.

As a result of her ministry among the military, Miss Brown has traveled to many small outposts in Germany, Switzerland, England, Hungary, Romania, Holland, Italy, Greece and East Germany.

During the Sunday worship services, Miss Brown will share slides and stories of her experiences in Europe. She will sing and discuss her life commitment to return to Europe this fall for a full-time ministry in gospel music.

The public is invited to attend.

Bethel UMC buys land

Bethel United Methodist Church has purchased land for its future home. The land is located on the southeast corner of Loop 250 and Preston.

Bethel UMC currently is meeting at the Alamo YMCA, 901 N. Midland Drive. Sunday services begin at 10 a.m. and 6:30 p.m.

Sunday morning services include children's church. The church recently started an evening children's program, called Luminarios, for ages 5 through sixth grade. This program is similar to children's Sunday School.

This Sunday, Bethel UMC will hold its evening service in the parking lot of the Alamo YMCA. This will be a singing service to be followed by a watermelon and ice cream fellowship.

The church's pastor, the Rev. K.C. Blackletter, invites the public to attend any services.

'Adventures' to begin

First United Methodist Church is beginning its "Adventures in Living for Adults" program Sept. 11. The semester runs to Nov. 27.

Pre-enrollment is necessary and may be done in the Gallery Area of the Fellowship Hall from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday and 8:30 to 10:30 a.m. Sept. 9.

The fee for registration is $15 and entitles a person to attend as many classes within the 12-week semester as desired, as well as use of the Activities Center. A fee of $2 per class will be charged for those opting to take only one course. Some classes will have additional fees for books or supplies.

"Adventures in Living for Adults" will be held on Tuesdays and include a variety of options, from favorite Bible passages to Clowning.

For more information call the church, 682-3701.

Odessa Aglow to meet

ODESSA — The Odessa Women's Aglow fellowship will meet at 10 a.m. Wednesday at Holiday Inn Parkway.

Guest speaker will be Claudine Chaney of Colorado City. Mrs. Chaney is a widow with three children. She was a minister's wife for 25 years. She is still a teacher and leader in the Christian Fellowship Church Academy. Mrs. Chaney has been involved in Christian education for 10 years. She has a full-time counseling and deliverance ministry and also teaches two Bible classes each week.

She has traveled throughout the United States, Jamaica and India sharing her testimony.

All women are invited to attend. For more information call 684-6405 or 694-2896.

Bible study resumes

The Downtown Bible Study will resume its fall schedule Wednesday with Betsy Brown sharing in testimony and song.

Then on Thursday, a get-acquainted fellowship will be held with light refreshments being served.

Bible Study will begin Sept. 19 with Bunny Becker teaching "Running To or Fleeing From God's Presence?"

Each meeting begins at 11:30 a.m. at 312 E. Illinois Ave., and is structured to accommodate an 11:30 a.m. or noon lunch hour. For more information call 682-3415.

Betsy Brown in concert

An evening in concert with Betsy Brown will begin at 7 p.m. Thursday at 312 E. Illinois Ave.,

Suite 6.

Miss Brown recently completed nine months of ministry in Europe. Last October she traveled to West Germany to work with the U.S. military and their families stationed in Western Europe. Since that time, she has presented the Gospel more than 220 times to about 20,000 people.

Brown

Brown to speak at Aglow

Betsy Brown will minister in testimony and music to the Midland Outreach Aglow Tuesday at the Royal Inn, 3601 W. Wall Ave.

Miss Brown has ministered recently to the U.S. armed forces in Germany.

Women's Aglow is a non-denominational group. The women meet at 6:30 p.m. for dinner. Cost is $6.50. The meeting starts at 7:15 p.m.

For more information call 682-8386 or 1-745-3688.

Church bazaar today

Greater St. Luke AME Church, 401 S. Adams St., is holding its annual bazaar at the church from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. today.

Sales will feature an old-fashioned wardrobe trunk, antiques, aquariums of all sizes, aquarium stands, clothes, pieces for quilts and other items.

Hot dogs and soft drinks will be sold. The stand will be set up on the parking lot of the church. For more information call Bobbie Gilbert, 684-8558.

Youth choir performs

The Southern California State Youth Choir will perform in concert at the Faith Temple Church, 1605 N. Terrell St., at 8 p.m. today.

The choir is directed by the Rev. Emmanuel Collins. The Youth Spiritual Enlightenment Choir and other groups will be on the program.

The church's pastor, the Rev. W.C. Kenan, invites the public to attend.

Orthodox Judaism rising

SPRING GLEN, N.Y. (AP) — A Jewish scholar says Orthodox Judaism, one of three major branches of the faith, is on the rise despite "Orthodox-bashing by its detractors."

Rabbi Norman Lamm, president of Yeshiva University, told a recent convention of the Rabbinical Council of America, representing Orthodox rabbis, that "Orthodox-bashing appears to have abated, but it is still powerful."

The West Texas Extension Program of Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary (APTS) will be offering Introduction to the New Testament in Midland this fall, Sept. 16 through Dec. 9.

Pre-registration has started and will continue through Sept. 7.

Philip L. Shuler, professor of religion, McMurry University, will teach the course. Shuler, a Methodist minister, is a graduate of Southern Methodist University, Perkins School of Theology, Claremont Graduate School and McMaster University. He will be serving as adjunct professor for the Austin seminary.

This course will address the world, content and literary context of the New Testament. The New Testament canon will be ex-

Grief group meeting in Texarkana

The THEOS Chapters of the Ark-La-Tx area are hosting the 1990 International Conference at the Sheraton Inn, Texarkana Oct. 12-14.

THEOS is an international organization dedicated to serving the needs of widowed individuals and to educating the general public about grief and the grief process. Chapters of mutual self-help allow individuals to share common experiences and to find the courage to grow through the various stages of grief, adjusting to single living, keeping your self-esteem in crisis, and ways to develop and improve THEOS support groups.

The registration fee for the conference is $55. This will include Friday night dinner, Saturday breakfast, lunch, and Sunday morning breakfast. Each person will be responsible for making his or her own hotel reservation. This cost can be found on the enclosed registration form.

Friday is designed as Louisiana night, with all the elegance of plantations, magnolia blossoms, and Cajun cooking. The keynote speaker will be Elizabeth Ward Neeld, Ph.D., author of "Seven Choices" — a book on coping with widowhood.

Arkansas Day will be enhanced by guest speaker, Robin Decker Morris — daughter of THEOS founder.

The conference will close with a Sunday morning prayer breakfast, and gospel music.

For more information please call Quinnie Colby (214)792-4674 or Gordon Huddleston (214)838-4808.

African people found in Bible, minister says

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — African places and people are involved throughout the Bible, a United Church of Christ minister told a conference of black Christians, saying they should take pride in that heritage.

"Christianity is not just something we learned in slavery in America," said the Rev. G. Wesley Raney of Daytona, Beach, Fla.

"We were present from the very start, in biblical times."

He said African references occur from start to finish — from the Garden of Eden linked to a river around the land of Cush, which means "black" and represents Ethiopia, to African church leaders who ordained the apostle Paul.

Presbyterian seminary offering program amined in the context of the historical Christian community set within a Jewish and Greco-Roman environment.

Problems that present themselves to the contemporary biblical historian will be openly examined and discussed. A reconstruction of the dynamic development of the Christian movement also will be addressed.

Each participant will further develop skills of interpretation and dialogue with the biblical text. Students will be expected to work firsthand with these crucially important texts and will be expected to read relevant secondary materials. The class will be conducted in a seminar format with student participation.

This is a six-credit required course of the master of divinity program of APTS. The class will meet at First Presbyterian Church, 800 Texas Ave., from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. Sundays Sept. 16 through Dec. 9, for a total of 30 class hours.

APTS is a seminary of the Presbyterian Church, USA. The seminary has been educating people for the Christian ministry since 1902.

It is fully accredited by the Association of Theological Schools of the U.S. and Canada and by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools.

For more information, call Dr. A.J. Moreau, director of the program, 682-2514, or write P.O. Box 5111, Midland, 79704.

Texas Baptist director to preach at Ranchland Heights Baptist

The Rev. William M. Pinson Jr., executive director of the Baptist General Convention of Texas, will preach at a special evening service of Ranchland Heights Baptist Church at 6 p.m. Sunday.

Pinson, a graduate of Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth, also holds honorary degrees from California Baptist College, University of Mary Hardin-Baylor and Howard Payne University.

Pinson has served as president of Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary, California; as pastor of First Baptist Church, Wichita Falls; and as professor of Christian Ethics, Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary. He has written numerous books, contributed to various publications, traveled worldwide and received recognition for service from Christian and civic groups around the country.

The church's pastor, Lucian Rudd, invites the public to attend. For more information call 684-6544 or 683-1947.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 1, 1990

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Be more tolerant of other people's shortcomings. Curb a tendency to be overly critical in November. Love and marriage can be more rewarding than ever if you follow your heart. Go ahead and do some traveling in early 1991. Family members continue to play a prominent role in the career decisions you make. Spring is the time to investigate new employment opportunities. First, seek that raise or promotion you deserve.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: actress Yvonne DeCarlo, singer Barry Gibb, comedian Lily Tomlin, country singer Conway Twitty.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Someone very attractive responds to you in an interesting way. Do not feel guilty about spending more time on personal matters. People who understand will lend a helping hand at work.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Happily, you are able to complete a pet project without the threat of interruptions. Perform more home services yourself. Be ready for someone who seems to know all the answers. Speak up!

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): A good day to make repairs around the house. Singles find that marriage is in the spotlight. You could forge an alliance that will lead to a permanent commitment. Business partners ask questions.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): A cash-flow situation improves. Emphasize your versatility and willingness to experiment. Answer all invitations promptly. Distant developments mean a substantial profit.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Continue to handle financial affairs with caution. You may get to share in a windfall or legacy if you play your cards right. Enlist the help of family members. Teamwork pays off.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Spend some money to make your loved ones happy. Entertaining need not be elaborate! A positive attitude is vital for success. Traveling today gives you an opportunity to meet someone special.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Enjoy today's relaxed pace. A trip to the beach or pool is favored. Motivate a young person to do his best. A chance encounter puts you in touch with fascinating new people.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You enjoy being on the go. Prophetic insights help you predict new business trends. Others look up to you; do not let them down! If single, marriage may dominate your thoughts this evening.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Your career is in better shape than you think. Look forward to positive developments in a close relationship. Romance heats up! Give more thought to providing for your security.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Give your children an opportunity to grow up by assigning them more responsibility. A message makes you rethink your priorities. A personal relationship becomes more fulfilling.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Activities with young people are particularly important today. Be wary of becoming financially entangled with your friends. Your optimism lets you meet a challenge successfully.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Pay more attention to details. Once you crystallize your ideas and institute commonsense procedures, you will make rapid financial progress. Share secrets with trusted loved ones.

TODAY'S CHILDREN are intellectual, precise and eager to learn all they can about world events. Count on them to do especially well in social studies, mathematics and science. Born perfectionists, these Virgos often seem impossible to please. They work tirelessly to achieve their goals. They are very concerned with cleanliness and keep their homes as neat as a pin. They enjoy formal entertaining, particularly small but elegant dinners.

Judgment day comes for Coe following 'rocking' good time

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Federal marshals waited for the show to be over before giving a real show stopper to country singer David Allen Coe, picking him clean down to his earring.

The marshals Wednesday night confiscated Coe's guitar, $150 in cash, his silver and turquoise belt and some jewelry, including the earring, to help satisfy a 1988 court judgment against him from Florida.

"He was very cooperative," said Don Benson, chief deputy marshal. "We had no problems out of him."

Coe, who lives in Missouri, was sued for breach of contract on a lease he had guaranteed on a building in Florida, said Herbert Moncier, the plaintiffs' attorney.

The building apparently was owned by a company in which Coe has part interest, Moncier said. The judgment is about $152,000 including interest.

Benson said the marshals waited for the end of Coe's show at the nightclub in the World's Fair Park before they moved in.

The nightclub was "really rocking. They were dancing on the tables," Moncier said. "We heard he put on a good show," Benson added.

Winston the Wonder Dog, who traveled the comedy club circuit with comic Earl Burke, right, for six years has died. The sheepdog could do impersonations of such notables as Barbara Bush and Zsa Zsa Gabor.

NEW YORK (AP) — "Today" co-anchor Joe Garagiola will be off the NBC show for four weeks to have elective surgery for a problem that is "not life-threatening," a spokeswoman for the show said Friday.

Garagiola, 64, declined to disclose the nature of the surgery, said spokeswoman Mary Neagoy, and his medical leave from the program starts Tuesday.

After changes that led to Jane Pauley's exit from "Today" after 13 years, NBC hired Garagiola, a former "Today" co-host, to return to the show as a third co-anchor with Deborah Norville and Bryant Gumbel.

The gregarious former baseball catcher returned to the show in June, and has been appearing on it on Tuesdays through Thursdays.

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Singer-songwriter Harry Nilsson pleaded innocent to misdemeanor counts of drunken driving and driving without proper insurance.

The Grammy-winning singer of "Everybody's Talkin'" and "Without You" entered the pleas Thursday in Municipal Court. A hearing was scheduled for Sept. 26.

Nilsson, 49, was stopped by the California Highway Patrol at 3:40 a.m. July 6. Authorities said his blood alcohol level was three times the legal limit of 0.8 percent. Nilsson, whose real name is Harry Edward Nelson III, won the male pop vocalist Grammy in 1972 for "Without You" and he sang "Everybody's Talkin'," the theme from the Oscar-winning film "Midnight Cowboy."

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Former ABC News correspondent Sylvia Chase says she will return to the network in New York as a correspondent for "Prime Time Live," the magazine show anchored by Sam Donaldson and Diane Sawyer.

She said her interest in returning to reporting was sparked by last year's events in Tiananmen Square and later, the reunification of Germany.

"I felt almost this pain of wanting to be involved as a reporter every morning when I picked up The New York Times," said Chase, 52, who came to KRON-TV about five years ago from eight years on ABC's news program "20-20."

Though no specific dates were given in her announcement Thursday, Chase is expected to leave her job as 6 p.m. news co-anchor at KRON this fall.

Last year, KRON won the broadcasting's prestigious Peabody Award for Chase's report on homeless children.

Evangelist couple leads revival at local church

Calvary Assembly of God Church, 908 S. Johnston St., is holding its revival Sept. 8 through 12.

Evangelists for the special services are Paula and Ron Kelley. Kelley is a graduate of Central Bible College, Springfield, Mo., with a bachelor of arts in Bible. He was in three musical groups at college, the last of which he organized himself.

Mrs. Kelley is a graduate of Southwestern Assemblies of God Junior College, Waxahatchie, with a major in music. While there, she was a member of the Harvester's choir. She is a songwriter.

"Evangelists Ron and Paula Kelley believe that music and the preaching of God's word go hand in hand," says a release from the church. "However, the preaching of God's word is top priority. Having a natural love for music, it is appropriate that Nashville, Tenn., would be their home. Their style ranges from contemporary to country and traditional gospel."

The public is invited to attend.

Seventh Day Adventist Church adds new building

The Seventh Day Adventist Church in Midland is adding a Community Service Building to the existing complex.

Dick Karmy is contractor for the building, which will have 2,500-square-feet of floor space, adequate for a kitchen/dining area, a community service room with supplies on hand for use in times of disaster, a multipurpose room for conferences, stop-smoking clinics, social activities, nutrition classes, cooking schools, marriage seminars and youth rallies.

The original Seventh Day Adventist Church in Midland was built in 1938 after Lee Carter and his wife, Ellen, held a series of evangelistic meetings in a large tent on South Main Street.

Mrs. Carter was the pianist and Alvin Stewart was the music director.

Already there was a small nucleus of Seventh Day Adventist worshipping together in their homes. The Hoeckendorf brothers, Emil, Harry, Ed and Richard, who were carpenters, moved here from Kansas. Within a few weeks the white stucco structure at the corner of south Loraine Street and Pennsylvania Avenue was ready to be occupied. The church was organized and dedicated with about 50 members.

Carter served as the first minister.

Growing pains in the church were felt by 1951, and the small building was no longer adequate. Land was purchased on Travis Street where a new church and a school building were erected. Ten grades were taught there in the fully accredited school into 1968 when it became an eighth grade school. This status remains to the present time with Randy and Joyce Ann Yates as returning teachers.

The first minister for the new church at 3114 Travis was Elder W. K. Mansker. Elder Eddie Card is the current pastor.

Franciscan ads appeal to Catholics

CINCINNATI (AP) — Appealing to alienated Roman Catholics to "Come Home" to church, Franciscan friars in New York and New Jersey run periodic newspaper ad campaigns. A report says the program in five years has drawn 2,000 back into church life.

"Too many alienated Catholics have heard only the voice of authority," the Rev. Flavian Walsh says in an article about the program in St. Anthony Messenger, a Cincinnati-based monthly.

The ads, inviting telephone calls and participation in group sessions, stress the gentler, compassionate side of the church. Similar programs have also been used in Boston and Cincinnati.

Of 15 million non-practicing Catholics in the country, 40 percent of them would like to mend fences and return to church activity, according to a Gallup Poll, the article says.

Need A Hiding Place?

Everybody needs a hiding place once in awhile. A place to be refreshed and revitalized. It's important to get away. Unfortunately, too many people run away instead. But that's not a solution. Life isn't a sophisticated game of hide 'n' seek. It's real. The difficulties and dilemmas are real. The challenges at home and work are real. So we need a real refuge. If you're a "homeless" Christian, a church like ours can be your refuge. We're in touch with the real world but not overcome by it. Visit with us. We've got a place just for you.

Cambodia accepts U.N. peace plan

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — In a major breakthrough in Cambodian peace talks, that country's government said Friday it is ready to accept as a basis for discussion a U.N. proposal already approved by the guerrilla resistance.

The announcement capped four days of progress in efforts to reach a settlement of the 11-year-old civil war. Tuesday, the United States and four other permanent members of the U.N. Security Council proposed a U.N. interim administration with five key Cambodian ministries placed in its hands during the transition.

In New York, U.S. officials tried Friday to win Vietnam's approval of the U.N. plan. However, Vietnam, which installed the Cambodian government in a 1978 invasion and remains its main backer, was noncommittal.

The State Department has said it is linking Vietnamese cooperation on Cambodia with the possibility of normalizing relations with the United States. In July, the United States, nervous about battlefield gains by a Communist rebel faction, said it was ending diplomatic recognition of the guerrilla alliance and opening talks with Vietnam on ending the war.

Friday, a Cambodian official said his government "accepts a major role played by the United Nations during the transitional period, notably the right to organize free and fair elections."

"I think that it (the U.N. plan) could constitute a basis for the discussions among the Cambodian parties," said Hor Nam Hong, the deputy prime minister in charge of foreign affairs, in remarks carried by the official Cambodian news agency and monitored in Bangkok.

The five permanent U.N. Security Council members have said up to 20,000 U.N. employees would be sent to shore up the truce and guide the Southeast Asian nation to democracy.

The Communist Cambodian government of Prime Minister Hun Sen is battling a guerrilla coalition composed of the Communist Khmer Rouge and two non-Communist groups, one headed by Prince Norodom Sihanouk and the other by Son Sann.

The United States has supported the two non-Communist rebel groups and China has armed the Khmer Rouge.

When Vietnam invaded Cambodia in late 1978, it ended a nearly four-year Khmer Rouge reign in which hundreds of thousands of people died in execution chambers and slave labor camps.

Hor Nam Hong said his government was ready for peace talks anywhere, anytime. He said talks scheduled to take place soon in Jakarta, Indonesia, should finalize the composition of a Supreme National Council, establish where and when it will meet, and discuss the U.N. peace plan.

However, Indonesian Foreign Minister Ali Alatas said Friday in Jakarta that he was unsure if the session would occur because of unclear signals from the Cambodian government. He said he expected a definite answer from Cambodia within three days.

Alatas said the Jakarta meeting, if held, should take place in the first two weeks of September.

In June, Hun Sen and Sihanouk agreed to form a Supreme National Council to arrange a truce and play a role in the period before elections. But the Khmer Rouge has rejected the agreement, demanding that it be given the same number of seats on the council as Hun Sen's government.

The guerrillas want either the council or the United Nations as the interim government, while Hun Sen wants to retain power during the transitional period. He had said earlier the U.N. role generally should be limited to organizing elections.

In his remarks, Hor Nam Hong said his government agreed that "certain important ministries" could be temporarily supervised by the United Nations.

The United States has supported the two non-Communist rebel groups and China has armed the Khmer Rouge.

The Security Council plan would entail the United Nations' most extensive peacekeeping effort.

The plan covers arrangements for running Cambodia during the pre-election period, a temporary military setup, elections under U.N. auspices, human rights protection, and international guarantees that Cambodia will be non-aligned and democratic.

'Where is my father?'

A young Salvadoran boy marches with a sign that reads, "Where is my father?" No more disappearances," during a protest march Thursday in San Salvador organized by COMAFAC, the Committee of Mothers and Christian Families of Prisoners, Disappearances and Assassinations. The group marched to the National Assembly building without incident. During the 10 years of civil war, thousands of Salvadorans have been abducted, tortured and murdered by right-wing death squads, many of which have been linked to Salvadoran military and government units.

South African leader proposes opening his party to blacks

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — President F.W. de Klerk called Friday for the governing National Party, which implemented apartheid four decades ago, to accept non-whites as members.

De Klerk said the all-white party's restrictions were at odds with its goal of creating a democracy free of domination by any race or group.

"The new South Africa demands that those who belong together through inner conviction should come together," he told a party provincial congress in Durban.

The African National Congress and other anti-apartheid groups called de Klerk's proposal welcome but overdue. The leader of the right-wing Conservative Party denounced it.

The government is looking for political allies among black political groups to buttress its position in negotiations with the ANC, the main black opposition movement, on sharing power.

The ANC seeks a one-man, one-vote system, virtually guaranteeing a black majority government. De Klerk wants protection for whites and other minority groups, a free market economy and guaranteed rights, such as the right to own property.

The congress and three other upcoming provincial meetings are expected to approve accepting non-whites. Even with the change, black party members would not be able to vote for the party's candidates in national balloting because apartheid bars them from voting in national elections.

"Better late than never," ANC spokesman Pallo Jordan said of the proposed change. "I'm sure there are some blacks who would join, but I can't imagine why."

Conservative Party leader Andries Treurnicht, an opponent of power sharing, said the National Party had committed political suicide because, he said, people want nationalism, not integration.

Accepting blacks and other races would reverse the National Party's heritage as the architect of apartheid. It won power in 1948 on a platform of white dominance and has been the main voice of Afrikaner nationalism, representing whites of mostly Dutch descent who dominate South African politics.

Under apartheid, the country's 5 million whites control the government and economy while the 30 million blacks have no voice in national affairs.

Since replacing P.W. Botha as president in 1989, de Klerk has pushed for repeal of apartheid laws and held talks with the ANC. His efforts have caused more whites to leave the National Party for the right-wing Conservative Party and extremist groups.

In his speech, de Klerk accused Treurnicht of advocating violence to prevent change in South Africa. He said the Conservative Party sought continued policies of oppression, which would bring the country "to its knees."

"Racism and discrimination in South Africa is gone forever," de Klerk said.

"The National Party accepts there will be an inevitable realignment in the party political sphere in the new South Africa it is building," he said. It also believes "the basis for future cooperation should be laid now; otherwise, valuable opportunities will be lost."

In an earlier speech to the congress, Law and Order Minister Adriaan Vlok said fighting between black factions could resume at any time and push South Africa into a spiral of violence.

Vlok, who heads the police, also said rising crime could trigger violence between whites and blacks.

Fighting erupted Aug. 12 in black townships near Johannesburg and raged for almost two weeks.

Liberian rebels accused of killing 200 foreigners

FREETOWN, Sierra Leone (AP) — Liberian rebels have killed 200 foreign civilians from the five nations that make up a West African task force in Liberia, the Ghana News Agency said Friday. The killings came in retaliation for the force's presence there, the agency said.

A Ghana News Agency correspondent with the West African force said rebels loyal to Charles Taylor, began attacking the civilians shortly after the troops debarked in Monrovia on Aug. 25 to try to end the 8-month-old civil war.

Taylor opposes any intervention in the conflict. No immediate response came Friday from Taylor, who confirmed Thursday that he was holding thousands of foreign citizens.

The task force fought its way to the eastern edge of Monrovia and took control of the capital's airport, diplomatic sources said in Freetown, speaking on condition of anonymity.

The air strip is big enough to handle military transport planes. Controlling it will make resupplying the force much easier.

About 3,000 soldiers from Ghana, Nigeria, Guinea, Sierra Leone and Gambia are under orders to end the conflict, which turned into a tribal war.

The Spriggs Payne Airfield had been in the hands of President Samuel Doe's troops but was under fire almost daily from Taylor's rebels, camped less than a mile away.

The British Broadcasting Corp. said a spokesman for Prince Johnson, who broke with Taylor and leads a rival rebel group, called Friday to report Doe's troops broke an informal truce and attacked Johnson's men, killing 21 of them.

Doe and Johnson had both welcomed intervention by the West African force and declared a truce more than a week ago.

The task force pushed eastward toward the embassies of three member states — Guinea, Ghana and Nigeria — which lay just behind rebel lines. The rebels had rounded up thousands of Guineans, Ghanaians and Nigerians who had taken refuge at their embassies, saying they were being held for their own protection.

The Ghana News Agency quoted Ghanaians who said escaped the attack, and said thousands more were waiting outside Monrovia's port for a ship that would take them home.

Ghanaian teacher Kwasi Kwatteng, 36, said rebels attacked a community of 2,500 Ghanaians living in Barnesville, about 3½ miles from Monrovia's port.

Peace prize established

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — A committee to award a Polish peace prize has established an office with Solidarity leader and Nobel Peace prize winner Lech Walesa as its chairman.

"In reference to the Polish tradition of tolerance, reflected in Solidarity's ethics, and in view of the contemporary threats stemming from nationalism and chauvinism, we are establishing a Polish Peace Prize," Walesa's committee said in a statement.

The statement apparently referred to a recent surfacing of nationalism and anti-Semitism in Europe.

The Polish Peace Committee will be based in Lublin, in south-eastern Poland.

WORLD IN BRIEF

144 Buddhist monks test positive for AIDS

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — More than 140 Buddhist monks recently tested positive for the AIDS virus in Thailand, according to officials here.

"If you checked all the temples, I'm sure you'd find a lot more," said Mechai Viravaidya, head of the private Population and Community Development Association, in a telephone interview Friday.

Monks take vows of celibacy, and Mechai said he did not know how the monks contracted the virus or if they were in the religious order at the time.

Dr. Teera Ramasoota, director-general of the Communicable Disease Control Department, told a conference of government officials on Aug. 15 that 144 monks have tested positive for the virus that causes the deadly disease.

By Aug. 15, according to the Ministry of Public Health, 20,716 people in Thailand had contracted the AIDS virus since the first case was reported in 1984. Only 45 had developed symptoms of the disease.

AIDS, or acquired immune deficiency syndrome, is spread mainly by sexual contact, needles or syringes shared by drug abusers, infected blood and blood products, and by pregnant women to their babies.

Garbage trucks guarded

NAPLES, Italy (AP) — Police have taken to escorting garbage trucks in the Naples area because of what they say appears to be a Mafia-style campaign to intimidate private collectors into paying protection money.

Officials in the anti-terrorist police squad in Naples said Friday they were investigating a string of attacks to see if they are linked to the Camorra, a crime syndicate based in the Naples area that is compared to the Sicilian Mafia.

Thursday, two hooded youths on a motorcycle stopped a garbage truck at gunpoint in Portici, a township on the outskirts of Naples.

The youths forced the driver and his partner to leave the truck and shot eight times at it, damaging the windshield and hood. The youths sped away, shouting threats at the trash collecting company.
