Violent Nazi Attacks Fail

Forces In Italy Ordered To Check Allies "At Any Cost"

By EDWARD KENNEDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Nov. 10.—Under orders to hold their present Italian line at all costs "for at least eight weeks," German forces are launching savage counterattacks against American infantry and massed artillery in the mountainous Venafro area, the Allied command announced today.

The reinforced Nazis hurled nine furious but unavailing charges against the frostbitten Americans within 24 hours in a desperate effort to check the Allied advance on their new Garigliano river-Sangro river positions. Each time they were thrown back with heavy casualties by Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's fighting doughboys and by terrific artillery barrages that ripped up the mountainsides.

Snow Already Falling

Snow already had begun to fall in the Apennines, and conditions were the worst under which the Allies had fought since they invaded Italy.

The weather seriously cut down on the activity of Allied fighters and fighter-bombers over the battle front, but heavy Flying Fortresses and Liberators of the new 15th Army Air force battered a ball and roller bearing works at Villar Perosa, near Turin in northern Italy, and the Ansaldo steel works, docks and railways at Genoa, Italy's leading port. The Villar Perosa plant was thought to be the last in Italy turning out bearings for the Nazi war machine.

Documents taken from captured Germans confirmed that the enemy has picked his present front across Italy, some 70-80 miles from Rome, as a "winter line" and has ordered it held at all costs for "at least eight weeks."

Eleven Nazi Divisions

The eleven Nazi divisions entrusted with the task were putting up stiff resistance everywhere. Their infantry was supported by heavy artillery concentrations on dominating heights and by squadrons of tanks held in reserve for sorties at threatened points. Every niche in the mountainsides concealed a machine-gun to sweep the approaches.

Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's Eighth Army further consolidated its positions on high ground overlooking the Cangro river near where it empties into the Adriatic and occupied the towns of Castiglione, Carovilli and Forli to put the main lateral road inland from Vasto completely under Allied control.

Major Demonitions

In yesterday's advance the Eighth Army reported encountering 45 major demonitions. The push took them through a dozen villages, including Macerona, Vallepiccola, Roccasicura, Montalto, Monticello and Segiana.

Control Board In Italy Named

Nation Must Help Allies To Fullest

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Nov. 10 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower announced the formation of a control commission for Italy "wihch today has assumed the duty of carrying out the terms of the armistice and of aligning Italian economy in complete support of the United Nations' fight against Germany."

Maj. Gen. Kenyon A. Joyce, former commander of the U. S. Ninth Service command, was appointed acting deputy president of the commission and its active head directly responsible to Eisenhower.

Replaces Military Body

The commission replaces the military mission headed by British Lt. Gen. F. W. Mason MacFarlane, which Eisenhower said had finished its work. MacFarlane is returning to his post as governor of Gibraltar.

An advisory council composed of representatives of the United States, Great Britain, the Soviet Union and the French committee of national liberation will work with the commission pursuant to a Moscow announcement. Representatives of Greece and Yugoslavia will be added to the council later.

Eisenhower announced that AMG gradually will be replaced in Italian territory by an Italian administration under the supervision of the new commisson. He added with blunt emphasis: "We look to the Italian government to broaden its political composition and to strengthen its administrative structure and the transfer from Allied military government to Italian administration will keep pace with this development. This does not mean the return of Italian territory to unrestricted Italian control."

Must Use Resources

Eisenhower's statement said Italy's new role is "to fight the common enemy—Germany" and made it plain the commission's job will be to dictate precisely how resources must be used to that end.

This type of control would effectively prevent any group inside or outside the Italian government from attempting to use troops to gain or retain power within the country.

There is a common belief in this theater that Italian manpower will be diverted primarily to the tasks of rebuilding the country's crippled railways and highways.

Newton Lawyer Seeks Records

PLAINVIEW, Nov. 10. (Special)—Bob Lyles of Angleton, who recently was employed by Dr. W. R. Newton of Cameron as an attorney, was in Plainview today in connection with perfecting an appeal of Dr. Newton from a seven-year penitentiary sentence.

District Attorney Harold M. LaFont of the 64th judicial district explained in reply to questions of telephoning newspapermen that, as required by Texas procedure, Lyles had come into this section to get signatures of state's attorneys on the statement of facts—the complete record of trial testimony in the case.

Records Are Required

The statement of facts, together with the transcript—a file of all instruments pertaining to the case—and bills of exception—which would be prepared by counsel for the defense and approved by the trial judge—are required for perfection of appeal to the state court of criminal appeals.

District Attorney LaFont, asked again whether he expected the trial of Mrs. Newton to proceed as scheduled Monday in Olton, county seat of Lamb county, repeated what he had said several times before, a statement which had been pronounced as often by District Judge C. D. Russell:

Case To Be Called

"It still is premature to answer that. The case will be called for announcements, just as planned."

Dr. Newton was convicted of assault with intent to murder the

Nimitz Says Means Held To Blast Japs

PEARL HARBOR, Nov. 10. (AP)—Adm. Chester W. Nimitz said today "we now have the means to take the offensive and to blast the Jap out of his island strongholds."

"We propose to do this in the most direct manner," said the commander in chief of the Pacific fleet, "and when that time comes the Leathernecks will be in the thick of the fray."

Nimitz spoke at a celebration of the United States Marine corps' 168th anniversary.

Armistice Day Again Finds World In Fearful Struggle

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Staff Writer

ARMISTICE — the intoxicating news of peace—came to Europe just a quarter of a century ago today, hushing the guns of bloody world conflict that snuffed out the lives of 8,538,000 men, wounded 21,219,000, spread inconceivable anguish, pain, ruin, and scars.

It came Nov. 11, 1918, at the 11th hour, on the 11th day, in the 11th month, after 65,000,000 men had been mobilized, after more than half — 37,500,000 counting prisoners and missing—were casualties.

It found 4,000,000 Americans under arms, half of them in Europe.

At that hour Germany surrendered, and fearfully-bought victory came to the four major powers — the United States, Britain, France and Italy. Across the Pacific, Japan shared too in the triumph after near-costless aid in the Orient, winning as spoils island bases later to become fortresses spawning new aggression.

Germany was the last of the Central Powers to topple. Austria, listing 90 per cent of her Army among the casualties, had capitulated Nov. 4, Turkey on Oct. 20, Bulgaria on Sept. 29.

Fallen from Allied ranks was Russia, czardom overthrown by revolution, which surrendered to Germany March 3, 1918.

Today, riding irresistably on the road to victory, Allied peoples look hopefully to another armistice ending a greater war.

But it appears still stern, hard months away. Prime Minister Winston Churchill predicts the climax in Europe in 1944, after bloody invasion, after battles more terrible than Waterloo and Gettysburg.

Continuing conflict in the Orient is likely—perhaps for long—after armistice comes again to all of Europe.

Casualties again total millions—estimated at 25,000,000 thus far—but more exact figures will not be available until after the war. The figure includes some civilians killed, but does not include millions wounded, more homeless, or starving and ill.

Today the big four Allied powers are the United States, Britain, Russia and China, with troops from the British Commonwealth, 400,000 fighting Frenchmen, Poles, Cechs, Dutch, Belgians, Norwegians and others in active combat. (There are 33 nations in the United Natins pact.)

Opposing are Germany, Japan and their satellites, including Hungary, Rumania, unhappy Finland, Bulgaria and smaller contingents

Quiet Day Is Scheduled Here

Observance of the 25th anniversary of the end of World war 1 will be without the elaborate fanfare of former years in the city today with most business and official activities closed, the only exceptions being the "business as usual" orders of the day at Lubbock's three big air training units.

One of the highlights of the day will be the traditional grid classic at Amarillo between the Golden Sandies and Lubbock High's Westerners in a game which likely will decide the District 1 championship. The Sandies are heavy favorites. KFYO will broadcast a play-by-play of the game starting at 2 p. m., Manager DeWitt Landis announced.

SPAAF Broadcast

This morning at 9:30 o'clock, South Plains Army Air field will be the scene of a 30-minute broadcast over KFYO featuring World war 1 veterans, officials of the post and the SPAAF band. At 11 o'clock, all activities on the post will cease for one minute as the field pays silent tribute to the dead of World war 1.

Appearing on the broadcast will be Lieut. Col. E. V. Robnett, jr., director of training at SPAAF, Lieut. Eleanor Kemble, commanding officer of the WAC detachment at the field, three veterans of eight major battle in France now at the field, the band and a WAC quartet.

A large number of Lubbock fans are expected to follow the Westerners to Amarillo for the annual tussle.

Methodists In Northwest Texas Conference Set New High Mark In Collections

By EDWIN WATSON
Avalanche Staff Writer

The Northwest Texas conference set a new high record for conference collections during the past year, according to the financial reports from the nine districts of the conference Wednesday.

A total of $1,294,544 was raised during the year for all purposes and a total of 7,076 new members were received into the church.

Lubbock district led the entire conference in both finance and new members received. During the year the Lubbock district, as reported by the outgoing superintendent, Dr. O. P. Clark, funds raised for all purposes was $266,524. New members received totaled 1,548.

Amarillo Is Second

Amarillo district was second to Lubbock with $209,388 raised for all purposes and 1,039 new members received into the church.

Other district reports are as follows: (First figure money raised, second new members):

Perryton district: $125,780 and 559.

Stamford district: $81,653 and 463.

Sweetwater district: $144,313 and 797.

Abilene district: $145,818 and 928.

Vernon district: $104,093 and 563.

Clarendon district: $99,025 and 553.

Plainview district: $118,206 and 626.

All of the districts of the conference reported out in full in their financial statement. Several of the districts were above their quotas and only two districts reported any indebtedness.

Texas Gets Largest Farm Purchase Sum

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10. (AP)—The War Food administration announced today the allocation to states and territores of $30,000,000 authorized by Congress for tenant purchase loans this fiscal year.

Administered by the Farm Security administration (FSA) under the Bankhead-Jones farm tenant act, the funds are allotted on the basis of farm population and the prevalence of tenancy. WFA said that approximately 5,300 families could be assisted in purchasing farms with this year's appropriation.

The largest allocation, $2,565,70, went to Texas.

Marines Kill Half Of Jap Reinforcements

More U. S. Army Troops Landed

Bougainville Japs Decisively Beaten

By WILLIAM F. BONI
Associated Press Staff Writer

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Thursday, Nov. 11.—United States Marines have killed an estimated half of the Japanese force which landed from barges north of their Bougainville beachhead and United States Army troops have put ashore without loss, despite a big enemy air attack, to reinforce the northern Solomons position.

The Marines, employing tanks, decisively defeated the Japanese Tuesday, four miles north of the original Marine position on Cape Torokina, General MacArthur's headquarters reported today.

Large Force Lands

From the South Pacific headquarters of Admiral Halsey came reports that a large force of Army troops landed at Empress Augusta Bay Monday without loss of a man. Subsequently, approximately 60 Japanese divebombers and fighters swept in for a raid, damaging one ship.

Allied planes intercepted, shooting down at least 13 divebombers and 13 fighters against the loss of eight of their own. After dark Monday, Japanese planes attacked again, hitting a combat task force screening transports. The task force's anti-aircraft accounted for esveral Jap planes, Admiral Halsey's headquarters said.

General MacArthur said the Marines killed 150 Japanese in the Tuesday clash.

300 Estimated Killed

Since the Marines first invaded Bougainville, last big enemy Solomons base barring the eastern approaches to Rabaul, they have killed an estimated 300 Japanese including some on the south end of the beachhead.

The positions of the barge-landed Japanese at the mouth of the Laruma river, four miles north of the Marine position on Cape Torokina, were blasted by Mitchell medium bombers and fighters and a number of barges were destroyed.

The Japanese air attack was delivered by 20 divebombers and 40 fighters. The enemy losses were divided equally between the bombers and fighters.

Four other bombers and three fighters probably were bagged.

Enemy planes also made a light raid at night on Cape Torokina.

The Bougainville action was on

Baptists Report All Debts Paid

DALLAS, Nov. 10. (AP)—Texas Baptists learned tonight that the Texas Baptist convention was free of debt for the first time since it was organized in 1903.

Five bond issues that have been liquidated were burned in a climax to the second days sessions of the convention in the First Baptist church here, when Treasurer R. A. Springer officially announced the healthy condition of the organization.

Only ten years ago, Springer said, the convention was $2,000,000 in debt. But voluntary cooperation by all but 180 of 3,040 Texas Baptist churches had aided in the liquidation, he added.

Million And Half Income

Income to the convention from all sources this year will be $1,572,000, a 500 per cent increase over the $310,000 in 1933, Springer said. Total valuation of the convention and institutions exceeds $12,000,000 in physical property—a gain of $5,000,000 in the last decade.

In a continuation of rosy financial outlook for Baptistdom, the Rev. Lacy R. Keele, manager of the Baptist Book store, reported sales this year would total $500,000 against $63,000 seven years ago when he became manager.

Nelson Promises Speedup In Civilian Goods Output

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (AP) — Congress received assurance today from Donald M. Nelson that production of essential civilian goods will be permitted on an increasing scale as fast as military requirements allow the release of war plants and vital materials.

The War Production board chairman told a Senate Military subcommittee that prime consideration would be given to civilian needs for transportation equipment, farm machinery and tools, washing machines, refrigerators and other household essentials.

In order to meet war and civilian needs, he declared, it is essential that production of copper, lead, steel, zinc and other metals be "kept going at peak."

Nelson praised plans of the subcommittee, headed by Senator Murray (D-Mont), to draft legislation to expedite settlements with war contractors who have finished their tasks.

"This is not merely a post-war problem," he emphasized. "More contracts have been called to date than were cancelled after the last war."

While plants or materials released by one military agency have been transferred largely to other military agencies, Nelson said, the time is approaching when "more and more can be released for essential civilian production."

Meantime, he said it was imperative to provide a uniform procedure for cancellation of contracts to guide federal procurement agencies and to protect in-

Russians Surge On Despite Cold, Fog

Gunbarrel "Every 20 Yards" Pounds At Sagging Nazi Lines As Winter Moves In

By JUDSON O'QUINN
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Russian forces surging west and south of captured Kiev swept into 60 more towns and hamlets to reach within 40 miles of the rail city of Zhitomir today as their massed artillery, with a gunbarrel every 20 yards, pounded the sagging German lines.

Despite rain, cold and fog, the Russians drew 66 miles from Kiev to capture Khorlyevka, 35 miles southeast of Zhitomir, while another force swept into Komarovka, 48 miles southeast of strategic Korosten and 40 miles northeast of Zhitomir, Moscow announced tonight.

Driving For Junction

Khorlyevka was only 31 miles east of Berdichev, another important target for Russian guns.

To the south Gen, Nikolai Vatutin's forces smashed to vasilev, 33 miles south of Jiev and only 20 miles northeast of the rail junction of Byelaya Tserkov. This column appeared to be aiming at a junction with the Russians west of the Dnieper near Pereyaslav, and it was possible the two forces already had met.

The German high command admitted withdrawals in the Kiev area after continuous attacks by superior Russian forces.

The Moscow communique gave few details of the fighting on other fronts but told of continued engagements to widen the Kerch bridgehead on the Crimean peninsula where German forces were hemmed in from all possible escape by land. To the north the Russians reported capture of several populated places in the Nevel area, where Russian spearheads were approximately 50 miles from the Latvian border.

Concentrated Fire

The German reporter Lothar Schurz, in a Berlin radio broadcast described a visit to the Kiev sector with the echo of Russian guns still ringing in his ears.

"It is the concentrated fire of two artillery divisions and one grenade thrower division consisting entirely of salvo guns," he said. "This may be estimated to represent at least 500 barrels concentrated on the narrowest space—one barrel for each 20 yards. Behind this belt of fire there were seven rifle divisions and huge armored forces in readiness. And then there appeared on the horizon packs of battle planes which dropped their bombs over our positions. All hell broke loose."

Nazis Lashed In Northern Italy

Remnants Of War Industry Destroyed

By NOLAND NORGAARD
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Nov. 10—Methodically destroying what little remains of northern Italy's war industries, heavy Liberators and Flying Fortresses of the new 15th U. S. Army Air force made precision attacks yesterday on a ball and roller bearing factory at Villar Perosa, 25 miles west of Turin, and on the Ansaldo steelworks, docks and railroad yards at the big port of Genoa.

Liberators protected by Lightning fighters struck at the Villar Perosa plant, which is believed to have been the last one in Italy producing bearings, an absolute essential for the Nazi military machine. Fortresses made the assault on Genoa, which was described as successful despite bad weather.

Not A Bomber Lost

Not a bomber was lost in the two destructive daylight raids, though the Germans sent up 15 of their crack Focke-Wulf-190 fighters to protect the Villar Perosa works, near the Swiss border. One was shot down and was seen to crash in the mountains.

No assessment was made of damage either to the bearing works or at Genoa, but a Fortress pilot said the attack on Genoa was carried out wtih accuracy and dispatch and "I think we covered the steel factory" with bombs.

Genoa is an important link in the Germans' west coast line of communications with France, and any heavy damage to its rail yards would be felt by Nazi forces defending Rome.

Turin Plant Wiped Out

Only the previous day Flying Fortresses virtually wiped out Italy's largest bearing plant at Turin, and with yesterday's assault at Villar Perosa the Nazi's supply of this vital war commod-

Naziland Pounded In Widespread Forays

LONDON, Nov. 10. (AP) — U. S. Marauder bombers streaked above the heart of Belgium today to pound the Nazi air base at Chievres as more than 500 British-based warplanes fanned out over Hitler's Europe in one of the biggest Allied daylight aerial offensives in weeks.

Hour after hour, formations of medium and light bombers and fighters thundered back and forth across the English channel in a dozen attacks. Only one Allied fighter was reported missing.

The American force which blasted the Chievres base, just 30 miles southwest of Brussels and 115 miles from Dover on the English cast, lost no planes.

Spain Makes Bid For American Sympathy

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10. (AP)—General Francisco Franco's government has declared its "manifest good will" toward the United States in what was seen here today as a Spanish bid for American sympathy.

In a note delivered to the State department yesterday by Ambassador Juan Francisco De Cardenas, Spain asserted that she has not recognized the Japanese puppet government in the Philippines.

The message, couched in diplomatic eloquence, said it was prompted by "the erroneous interpretation ascribed to the cablegram of courtesy" sent by the Spanish government to Jose P. Laurel, president of the Manila puppet regime.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10. (AP) — Checks amounting to $420,000,000 will be distributed to approximately 7,500,000 Christmas club members throughout the country during the week of Nov. 29, it was announced today by Herbert F. Rawll, president and founder of the savings organization.

Japs Claim U. S. Navy Destroyed

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (AP) — A Japanese domestic broadcast declared tonight that 96 Allied vessels had been sunk or damaged and "more than 268 planes shot down" in the Pacific in the last 10 days.

Japanese losses were given in the broadcast as "one destroyer sunk, one cruiser slightly damaged and 56 planes that have either destroyed themselves or have not returned."

Another broadcast said that Premier Hideki Tojo and Tadahiko Okada, speaker of the Japanese House of Representatives, had cabled congratulations to Admiral Mineichi Koga, commander in chief of the Japanese fleet, and other naval commanders on the "overwhelming sea and air victories."

Enemy Press Dumfounded

These "successive great war results," the radio said, "startled the enemy camp and the enemy press is literally dumbfounded and does not know what to do."

Vice Admiral Ichiro Sato, managing director of the Scientific Mobilization association, was quoted as saying that "American and Britain are no doubt again paralyzed with fear by the might of our naval air force."

The Japanese press was said to carry "sweeping banner headlines hailing the greatest naval victory since Pearl Harbor."

A group of retired admirals at the Suikosha naval club was quoted as saying "that the news of the latest disaster, when fully made known to the American public, will send the morale of the Americans crashing. And we doubt very much whether such a powerful fleet can be built again."

ALLIED OPERATIONS

LONDON, Nov. 10. Farm Leader Urges Tax Law Revision

By OVID A. MARTIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Nov. 10.—Albert S. Goss, master of the National Grange, asked a convention of his farm organization today to go on record for a combination income tax and postwar savings plan which would reduce the wartime spending power of the average man.

Addressing the opening session of the 77th annual meeting of the nation's oldest farm group, Goss put much stress upon a contention that the country is headed toward disastrous inflation unless "surplus spending power is reduced" through taxation.

Laws Said Inadequate

While advocating the income tax, the farm leader declared existing tax laws are inadequate in that they are not producing enough money are are not effective in reaching extra income created by the war.

"With taxes taking 90 per cent of high incomes, there is not much chance of increasing the 'take' very much from the source," he said.

"The big increase in income has come in the middle and lower brackets and how to reach it there presents a very practical problem in human relations."

Congressional consideration should be given, he said, to some combined method of income tax and savings plan under which income levies are substantially stepped up, especially in the middle and lower brackets and a substantial portion of the tax levied be placed to the credit of the taxpayer for repayment after the war.

Deductions Proposed

Goss suggested that under this system taxpayers should be allowed to make deductions for insurance premiums, interest payments and other fixed obligations contracted before enactment of higher levies.

"We should pay currently as large a portion of the war bill as possible," the Grange leader said.

Asserting that the government was wasting much money, he told the convention that an important part of any tax program should be to weed out all unnecessary expenditures.

"This best can be done," he said, "by a consistent plan for decentralizing government."

Dr. O. P. Clark To Get New Assignment

Dr. O. P. Clark, district superintendent for the past six years of the Lubbock district, will receive a new appointment at the close of the annual Methodist conference now in session at the First Methodist church here, it was announced yesterday.

Dr. Clark spoke before the conference yesterday afternoon and reported that during his six years in the district the churches had raised for all purposes $1,059,493.

The preachers' salaries had been paid in full with 12 per cent over.

A total of 11,859 new members had been added to the church rolls and the property value of the churches is $718,480.

Bishop Ivan Lee Holt, presiding officer of the conference, paid Dr. Clark a tribute before the delegates for the outstanding work that the Lubbock district had done during his tenure of office and remarked that he was sorry that the laws of the church forced him off of the district after spending the required time.

Dr. Clark's successor will be named at the close of the conference this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Gallant Fight By Borie Recounted

By HAMILTON W. FARON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Battling with shotguns, pistols, empty shell cases and even knives at ranges down to ten feet, the men of the destroyer Borie fought a Nazi U-boat crew to the death while their ship pounded the submarine to pieces.

Then, her aged plates overstrained in contributing more than one ship's share to a brilliant new chapter of American naval history, the Borie limped away in a heavy storm to carry her crew to safety before she quit the fight. Beyond salvage, she was sunk by American planes.

Had Sent One Down

The Borie already had depth-charged one U-boat to the bottom before her last fight, in a campaign that won for her task force a presidential unit citation for having destroyed "more submarines than any team in naval history."

The skipper of the Borie, 30-year-old Lt. Charles H. Hutchins, Terre Haute, Ind., told today of what became at times almost a hand-to-hand fight somewhere in the Atlantic after his ship, trying to ram, rode up and over the submersible.

"We held him there and started shooting with everything we had," said Hutchins. "Some men fired shotguns; the executive officer grabbed a tommy-gun and started shooting from the bridge; others used pistols, one boy even took a signal pistol and fired at the sub."

The action with "the biggest sub I've ever seen," Hutchins said, lasted about 10 minutes before the U-boat broke loose and attempted to flee.

"He went into a tight turn and we couldn't turn close enough to bring our guns on him," Hutchins continued. "We attempted to ram again even though we'd been damaged pretty badly when we ran up over him. He turned the tables and tried to ram us, but we fired a salvo of depth charges and stopped him about six feet from our side."

Hutchins then told of continued fire at the submarine—one crew man operated a big gun alone, getting the ammunition, loading the gun, then firing; another gun captain, when mechanism failed, pulled the latch by hand to fire his gun repeatedly despite a recoil that battered his arm "until it was big as his leg."

Sinks And Explodes

Then the sub "sank right in front of us and exploded," Hutchins said.

None of that appeared in the brief communique on the sinking, issued today, which only recounted that the Borie, built in 1920, depth-charged one submarine to the bottom and, when another appeared, rammed it.

Loss of the Borie was announced along with that of two other destroyers, the Henley and the Chevalier, both sunk in the South Pacific.

The Navy announced that the report on those two vessels brought up to date the list of fighting ships lost in the war against the Japanese, giving the direct lie to fantastic Nipponese claims of destruction wrought among U. S. naval forces in recent weeks.

Sunk In South Pacific

The Henley, a 1,500 tonner skipped by Commander Carlton R. Adams of Wilmington, N. C., was announced only as having been sunk in the South Pacific in October.

The Chevalier, a bigger ship, was damaged in the night battle of Vella La Vella Oct. 6, and collided with another vessel of her force, breaking in two. She was commanded by Lt. Comdr. George R. Wilson, Long Beach, Calif.

The Borie was part of the submarine-fighting force which included the baby aircraft carrier Card and the destroyers Goff and Barry. Their score was not given in detail in the unit citation, but previously the Navy had announced that a force including an unidentified baby flattop had made 11 attacks on submarines, with two definite sinkings and eight more possibles.

Described As Sea Saga

The Navy, departing from its usual restraint of language, described the exploit of the Borie as a "saga" of anti-submarine warfare in a statement accompanying the communique.

"It is a tribute to the seamanship of the crews of the Goff and Barry that all but 27 of the Borie's crew were saved," said the Navy statement after telling of the storm.

"It was a stormy night with the Atlantic rolling up huge waves, a night that would cause concern to the most modern, water-tight ship, let alone an overage destroyer with her hull bashed in."

Hero's Medal Is Given To Seaman's Widow At Ship's Launching

HOUSTON, Nov. 10. (U.P.) — A small, dark-haired widow today received the First Distinguished Service medal to be awarded a merchant seaman in this Gulf coast area, and then, through tear-dimmed eyes, watched the launching of the SS Oscar Chappell, a Liberty type freighter that bore the name of the heroic seaman from Normangee, Tex.

The ship was the 96th of its type to be launched at the yards of the Houston Shipbuilding corp.

Mrs. Chappell, a worker in a Houston war industry, stood tight-lipped as she received the medal from Comdr. B. M. Dodson, commanding officer of the U. S. Merchant marine school at Pass Christian, Miss.

Then, with tears streaming down her cheeks, she turned and showed the award to Bobbie Jean Chappell, the eight-year-old daughter of the honored seaman.

The presidential ciatation, read by Cmdr, Dodson, recounted how Chappell remained at the helm of his torpedoed and blazing ship, help safe the lives of his shipmates, and became one of 25 heroes to win the merchant marine distinguished service medal so far in this war.

A Methodist family at Escola, Trent circuit, in the Abilene district, did their part to make a success of the Thirty-fourth Annual Methodist conference now in session at the First Methodist church in Lubbock.

Fearing that there would be a shortage of grape juice in Lubbock Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Johnson sent to Dr. H. I. Robinson, pastor of the host church, a large quanity of grape juice which will be used in the Holy Communion tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock.

Bishop Holt said the conference would send the Johnson family a vote of thanks for their gift.

Marine To Be Honored In Ship's Launching

ORANGE, Nov. 10. (U.P.) — The USS Daniel, the first destroyer escort vessel built at the yards of the Consolidated Steel Corp., Ltd., to be named for a member of the U. S. Marine corps, will be launched Nov. 16, the public relations office of the Eighth Naval district announced today.

The ship wil lhonor the late Pfc. Hugh Spencer Daniel, Chattanooga, Tenn. Daniel was awarded the Navy cross posthumously for service on the USS Hornett off Santa Cruz island on Oct. 26, 1942. The vessel will be sponsored by his mother, Mrs. Cecilia E. Daniel of Chattanooga.

Abilene Man Drafted On Typewriter Miscue

SHEPPARD FIELD, Nov. 10. (AP) — Pvt. John C. Clinton, stationed at Sheppard field for two months, this week received a notice to report for induction Nov. 17.

A little startled, Private Clinton investigated to find that his draft board at Abilene, drafted him into the armed forces because of a typographical error. For nearly three months, since Aug. 13, he has been serving in the place of J. C. Clinton.

But Private Clinton says he doesn't mind. "I like it at Sheppard field—I may get to be a drill instructor."

Throw away a tenth of all the food I buy?

NOT ON YOUR LIFE!

You don't believe you're wasting almost one tenth of the food you buy? Well, maybe you aren't.

Most American women are doing everything they can think of to make food go farther these days.

But you have it—straight from your government—that American families waste enough food annually to feed the larger part of our armed forces at home and abroad. That waste is mostly habit. We've all had so much, for so many years, that we waste without even realizing it.

We've got to change that habit. Food means too much in wartime.

Think for a minute of the foods you buy under the Del Monte label alone. It took thousands of farmers months to grow them. It took thousands of workers to pack them. It takes hundreds of thousands of grocers to make them available to housewives all over the country.

And that's just Del Monte, remember. Every food you buy—bread, potatoes, meat, sugar—represents work and time and materials that are far too precious to waste.

That's why we've got to stop waste before it stops us. And it's got to be done right in the kitchens of America. Think it over. Is there something else you can do, or do without, or do better, to cut waste in your kitchen? Take a few minutes to read the questions below. Then decide for yourself.

HERE'S WHAT YOUR GOVERNMENT SAYS:

"Enough food is wasted annually in the home to feed the larger part of our armed forces at home and abroad."

The War Food Administration shows this waste in the home as over 8%. That's the equivalent of almost one tenth of all the food bought by housewives.

Some isn't selected intelligently—some isn't stored correctly—some isn't prepared right. Some is just left on our plates.

But it's all a waste of food, and food is a weapon of war.

Check yourself against these 9 points to be sure all your food "Fights for Freedom"

SAVE TIN CANS. The need is more urgent than ever before!

1. Do you plan your buying ahead?
Haphazard shopping's out—particularly for perishables. You'll avoid having so much left over your family won't eat it, or so little you can't use it.

2. Do you buy only what you need?
You know how much your family eats—why buy more? And "point-shop" early in the ration period, for best chances of finding foods or brands your family will finish up.

3. Do you buy brands you know?
A wise precaution against waste any time. For instance, with both points and cash at stake, it is doubly wise to check the Del Monte varieties your grocer has.

4. Do you store foods correctly?
Prompt and proper home storage helps prevent spoilage and vitamin loss. Be sure you know the right place and the right temperature for storage of each type of food you buy.

5. Do you serve healthful meals?
Plan to serve the "Basic Seven" food groups every day. In groups 1, 2 and 3 there are many Del Monte Foods. Those your grocer has can make meal planning easier.

6. Do you prepare foods carefully?
Be a pot-watcher! Burned food is wasted. Save health values by quick-cooking fresh vegetables, slow-roasting meats. Merely heat (don't boil) Del Monte Vegetables.

7. Do you "lick the platter clean"?
This is no time for your eyes to be bigger than your appetite. And to urge second helpings on other folks when they're not hungry isn't hospitality, it's waste!

8. Do you use up all leftovers?
A few Del Monte Peaches, for instance, saved out today can brighten a pudding tomorrow. Del Monte's genuine goodness will bear a world of "working over."

9. Do you turn in your waste fats?
Maybe you think what you have won't help—yet a tablespoon saved every day for a month makes enough nitroglycerine for a hand grenade. Turn them in to your butcher.

ARMISTICE DAY

WHEN we think of Armistice day we always remember two incidents connected with it; a visit one late summer day to the tomb of the Unknown Soldier and a remark made by a neighbor woman. Each is rather significant to us.

When we stood there looking in Arlington cemetery at that white monument and read the inscription "Here Lies in Honored Glory an American Soldier Known But to God" we were thankful that the war was over and proud of the promise for which that soldier' life was given, that there should be war no more. And yet today, 25 years after the first Armistice day, we find ourselves in a worse conflict than dreamed by the service men in World War 1. Doesn't this day seem a hollow occasion when we recall how the promise of war no more has been broken?

We were neighbors to a woman of whom the writer was fond. After the Armistice was signed and people learned that the war had ended, everyone was giving his reaction to the news. "Well I'll tell you what I did," she said in a low voice. "I had just hung out a line of sheets and I just hid my face in one of them and cried until I though my heart would break. Somehow I couldn't believe that wars were really over."

And now today as we look back to what Armsitice day should mean we think of that young soldier in his last long sleep by the quiet Potomac and of that weeping neighbor who couldn't believe that wars were "really over."

ONE BOY'S THOUGHTS

THERE have been many letters written and much talk about what soldiers think they are fighting for but we especially like these words penned by a Lubbock boy who is somewhere "down under."

He writes in part:

"Our flag is no mere rag but it exemplifies all that I and millions alike are willing to fight for. It exemplifies the rights of the individual to live in peace and comfort, to control his own affairs, to govern himself and to make himself heard when he is dissatisfied. It stands for all the ideals men have fought and bled for since 1776, 1812, 1836, 1864, 1918, 1941. We have a part to live up to and a future to build. In short our flag exemplifies all that is good and in serving our country we serve God and the rights of free men in all countries.

"When we consider how we may serve God more we will in the end be serving ourselves more. As much as I would like a furlough home, so long as I consider that as an objective worthy of my efforts then so long I am forgetting my duties to others. This war cannot be won on a furlough and until this war is won all personal desires and feelings should be and will be subordinated to the greater effort."

If there are enough men in the Army, Navy and Marines with attitudes like that youth's, and we feel sure there are, this war we are fighting today will be won and the peace that follows also will be ours.

ANGELUS BELL

BEGINNING at 6 o'clock this evening and continuing daily, the bell at St. Paul's Episcopal church will be tolled for a minute as a young people's angelus. The Young People's Service league of the church is sponsoring the minute of prayer and they are hoping that the youth of the city will join them in their act.

Here is the angelus prayer which they are going to offer:

UNTO thee, O God, be praise and thanksgiving for every splendid deed of sailors, soldiers and airmen, for every act of devotion of workers at home. May Thy blessings rest upon them and keep them in all their ways. More especially we praise and bless Thy Name for those who have been aithful unto death. Into Thy holy keeping we commend their souls, beseeching thee to grant unto all of us, for whom they died, that their love and devotion may bear fruit in us in more abundant love for others; for the sake of the Great Captain of our Salvation, Jesus Christ, Amen.

To Promptly Relieve Coughing and Make Breathing Easier
At the first signs which may warn of a cold—the Dionne Quintuplets' chests, throats and backs are rubbed with Musterole—a product made especially to promptly relieve coughs and sore throat due to colds, to make breathing easier and break up local congestion in the upper bronchial tract.
Musterole brings such wonderful relief because it's MORE than just an ordinary "salve." It's what so many Doctors and Nurses call a modern counter-irritant. Since Musterole is used on the Quints—you can be sure it's just about the BEST cold-relief you can buy!
IN 3 STRENGTHS: Children's Mild Musterole for children and people with tender skin; Regular for ordinary cases and Extra Strong for stubborn cases.

Methodist Churches Honor Mrs. I. Holt

Women's Societies of Asbury Methodist, First Methodist and St. John's Methodist churches entertained Wednesday afternoon with a tea honoring Mrs. Ivan Lee Holt of Dallas, wife of the presiding bishop of the Northwest Texas Methodist conference in session here this week. Approximately 275 guests called between the hours of 3 and 5 o'clock at the parlor of the First Methodist church.

A green and white color scheme was carried out in table and room decorations of yellow chrysanthemums and greenery. In the receiving line were Mesdames Holt, wives of district superintendents of the conference, Mesdames W. M. Pearce, Vernon; C. A. Bickley, Abilene; W. C. House, Amarillo; G. T. Palmer, Clarendon; C. A. Long, Sweetwater; J. B. McReynolds, Perryton; L. N. Lipscomb, Plainview; S. H. Young, Stamford and O. P. Clark, Lubbock.

Also Mesdames H. I. Robinson, Alsie H. Carleton and W. C. Hinds, wives of Lubbock Methodist pastors; Mrs. Cecil Matthews and Mrs. W. E. Hamilton.

Mesdames M. B. Hilburn and B. L. Cogdill presided at the tea service.

Assisting in hospitalities were Mrs. D. C. Cross, chairman, and Mesdames J. P. Giles, Vernon Brown, Allen T. Stewart, J. W. Day, Floyd Beall, E. L. Lansford, J. E. Walter, G. C. Beard, O. C. Kyzer, Ben Cole, W. R. Hedrick, Fred W. Sparks, Wayne Martin, C. C. Chambers and A. H. Suiter.

Criswell-Mincey Vows Are Read In Ralls

Miss Sarah Criswell of Lubbock and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Criswell of Ralls, became the bride of Cpl. Arnold F. Mincey, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Mincey of Somerset, Ky., of Lubbock Army Air field in a double ring ceremony read Sunday in the home of the bride's parents.

Rev. H. H. Bratcher of Ralls officiated. Pfc. George Caudle of LAAF was best man and Miss Margery Richards of Ralls served as maid of honor. The bride wore a twopiece black crepe dress trimmed in matching lace. Her nosegay corsage was of red rosebuds tied with white satin ribbon.

Miss Richards wore a soft green wool dress and carried a corsage of cream rosebuds. A reception followed the wedding with Miss Gertrude Schoolcraft of Post and Miss Marjorie Schoolcraft of Lubbock serving the wedding cake and punch to 30 guests.

Out-of-town guests were Sgt. Carle McCarty of LAAF, Misses Dora Ratliff, Mollie Lee, Dorothy Carrell, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Robertson and Doris Faye, all of Lubbock; Mrs. A. L. Schoolcraft of Post; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Criswell, Eunice and Rose Marie of Swenson; T/Sgt. J. W. Criswell, jr., of William Northern Army Air field, Tenn.; and Mr. and Mrs. John J. Criswell, Sandra and Donna of Alpine.

After a short wedding trip to visit with the bridegroom's parents the couple will be at home in Lubbock and will resume their duties in the guard squadron and signal office at LAAF.

Federation To Furnish Wedding Gowns

AUSTIN, Nov. 10. (AP)—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt personally will provide the first of about 50 wedding gowns American club women will buy for British service women brides.

Mrs. John L. Whitehurst of Washington, D. C., General Federation president, informed the Texas Federation of Women's clubs in 46th annual convention here today of Mrs. Roosevelt's gift which will supplement a gown to be supplied by each State Federation.

The project is a result of a visit by Mrs. Whitehurst to England where she found the clothing situation often compelled British service women to marry in uniform.

The American gowns will be rented at $2 each, to cover handling and cleaning charges.

Speakers Appear On Patriotic Program

Second grade pupils under the instruction of Mesdames Mildred Taylor and D. M. Hopper presented a patriotic program consisting of songs and dances at the Wednesday afternoon meeting of Sanders P-TA.

George R. Bean spoke on children's possible contributions to the war effort and Sgt. A. Webb of the WAC recruiting and induction center told of the work being done by that corps. Approximately 65 members attended.

Tough Battling For Rabaul Is Expected

By LOUIS F. KEEMLE
United Press War Analyst

The ability of the Japanese to land a fairly sizeable force on Bougainville island in the Solomons is indicative of the tough fighting that must be expected before they can be pried loose from their foothold in the southwest Pacific.

The Japanese reaction to the stepped-up drive for Rabaul, their key air-naval base in the area, was not unexpected. They are fighting a strong delaying action and obviously are prepared to accept considerable losses to hold off the American advance as long as possible.

Unwilling For Showdown

That does not alter the fact that the Japanese are unwilling to a showdown to hold these islands. They are exposing some of their cruiser strength with results gratifying to us, as Secretary of Navy Knox pointed out at his press conference yesterday.

They are likewise taking heavy air losses as they continue sending in reinforcements to combat our superior strength. They have not, however, shown either the desire or ability to send in enough to offset this superiority.

Decisive Battles Later

They are, so far, holding their battleships and carriers and presumably the bulk of their air strength for the decisive battle which will come much later, probably in the Caroline islands.

There is no doubt, however, that the Japanese do not intend to withdraw voluntarily north of the equator in order to conserve their strength. They must be assumed to have weighed the consequences and judged approximately what they can afford to lose in relation to what they can gain.

What they can gain is to delay seriously the application of the Allied broad strategy, of which the Rabaul area is an important part. This strategy is aimed ultimately at the Gilbert, Marshall and Caroline islands.

Truk Is Defense Keystone

The air-naval base of Truk in the Carolines is the defense keystone of this sprawling island system which forms the outward bulwark of the home islands. To protect it, the Japanese very likely would risk the decisive battle which the American navy so ardently desires and which would be the turning point of the war in the Pacific.

The importance of Rabaul lies in the fact that when it is in American hands, Truk would be flanked from the south and our bombers would be less than 800 miles away from it.

That would be of paramount importance when the Pacific fleet begins its westward offensive through the Marshall and Gilbert islands towards the Carolines.

Rotary Members Hear Program By School

With visiting clubmen here for the Methodist conference increasing attendance, members of the Lubbock Rotary club were entertained at their luncheon Wednesday noon by the choral club from George R. Bean school and a relation of experiences of World War I by Ellsworth J. Parsons.

Eighteen members of the Bean school organization, presented by Principal Kary Mathis, Mrs. Dave Foreman and Miss Doris Kolb, teachers, sang patriotic songs of the last war and the current conflict. Little Miss Barbara Ann Ingram, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Ingram, 1304 Twenty-seventh street, was mistress of ceremonies. Bobbie Jean and Billie Dean Bryant, twin daughters of J. H. Bryant, 1514 Arnett, did a Mexican hat dance.

Former Governors Present

Among the guests present were three Methodist lay leaders who formerly served in the office of Rotary district governor in this area. They were Bernard Bryant, of Stamford; Jim Willson of Floydada, and Ray Nichols, of Vernon.

Parsons, a sergeant in the AEF during World War 1, was introduced by J. A. Raley, jr. He detailed a personal experience in France in 1918 which he said was the highlight of the war as far as he was concerned.

Cecil Cale was in charge of the program and President Wallace Rix was in the chair.

Members of the Bean school chorus included, in addition to the Bryant twins and Barbara Ann Ingram:

Billie Louise Bourald, Tom Cheatham, Bob Church, Arlen Harris, Janet Mauldin, Kenneth Pinchard, Jo Fern Seale, Wayne Schuman, Billie Marie Smith, Billie Jean Sullivent, Bobby Terrell, Dorothy West, James Witt, Shirley Winters and Roy Ward.

School's Honor Roll Announced

Mrs. Dick Cozby, director of publications at Lubbock High school, announced Wednesday that seventy-five students of high school were on the honor roll the first nine weeks of the school term.

Honor roll students are those making at least one A and making no grade below B. Students qualifying the first nine weeks, which ended November 5, was a decrease of 35 as compared to those qualifying the first nine weeks of last year. However, total enrollment in the school is about a hundred less than it was this time last year, Mrs. Cozby said.

All-A Students

Billie Puryear, Billy Slagle and Pat Williamson, all made five A's, leading the honor roll, and those making four A's and a B, included Elizabeth Craig, Mary Lois Findley, Sam Henly, Mary Bell Richards and Mike Sellen. James Allen, Coleman Archer, Betty Bomar, Irene Crim, Willa Farris, Billy Masters, Herbert Puryear, Alice Sweet, and Louise Battin, all made four A's.

Ted Forsythe and Zackie Reynolds were the only two students rating three A's and two B's.

Students rating three A's and a B were Ellen Ann Alford, Martha Bucy, Billye Jo Cantrell, Rose Mary Dawkins, Robert Griffin, Patricia Groves, Curry Hope, Elizabeth Howard, Wesley Joosten, Daisy Kilpatrick, Marinelle King, Barbara Leonard, Charles Luling, Gene Malone, Olive Matthews, Hazel Merideth, Jewell Alice Pharr, Norma Grace Reid, Gene Stephens, Jean Van Meter and Joyce Yocum.

293 F's Reported

Two A and three B students were Charles Kelley and George Wray.

Making two A's and two B's were Billy Adair, Madine Bell, Hermaneh Bray, Nelda Chapman, Margene Fry, Frances Groce, Jeanette Hamilton, Bob Hassell, Don Holt, Lomar Jackson, Richard Kelishy, Jackie Lewis, Russell Logan, Venita McCleskey, Louis Ray Mills, Dwain Parrack, Floyd Rector, Earnestine Snider, Oleta Stewart and Slenna Waldena.

Students making one A and three B's were Pat Allgood, Dorothy Brown, Ralph Bucy, Margy Bullen, Giles Carter, Eleanor Ferguson, E. T. George, Russell Lawrence, Jerry Lemond and Peggy Strickland.

Two hundred and ninety-three F's out of forty-eight hundred grades were reported by teachers.

Letters To The Editor From Readers

SUPPORT NEW DEAL

Editor, The Avalanche: I presume you write most of the editorials and all of The Plainsman column. I enjoy some of this material, but a large portion of it fills me with indignation. I take it you are Anti-New Deal and Anti-Roosevelt. Some of your criticism is constructive, but some of it is destructive. I think the quiz on Julius Caesar in The Plainsman column is an example of the latter type. I took this article to be a satire on President Roosevelt. If this surmise is correct, I maintain that the majority of these statements are incorrect if applied to Mr. Roosevelt. I think I can produce sufficient evidence to prove that they are incorrect

I feel that Mr. Roosevelt is one of the greatest statesmen, if not the greatest statesman, our country has ever produced. Time will verify this statement. Few really great men receive acclaim until after death. He will at least be on par with Lincoln, Wilson, Washington, Webster, and his illustrious namesake, Teddy Roosevelt. Some of things that President Roosevelt has done to earn this title are as follow:

(1) The establishment of a workable Social Security program. Our President is a humanitarian. Ours is only the beginning, but it will help gain our "Four Freedoms" at home.

(2) His realistic, farsighted foreign policy, before and during World War II, helped save our country from its enemies.

(3) His alertness, along with his global views, prepared our country for the war, when many of our citizens and congressmen were still isolationists.

(4) His New Deal program, with a few exceptions, did help the common man.

(5) His liberal views regarding labor and the working man. He has consistantly favored legislation to help labor. Most of his Republican predecessors have been affiliated with big business and did little to better the lot of the working man. Don't get me wrong, I don't believe in coal miners striking for higher wages in wartime. FDR is the best friend those miners had in our national government, even though I doubt if he was in favor of increasing their wages.

Probably there are other things he has done that will help earn him a niche in our hall of fame; say three "or maybe four" terms as President of the greatest country on earth. Or things that he will do like winning the peace that follows this great war. President Roosevelt may be able to do it, with the aid of Congres. He has a wonderful personality, a good radio voice and tremendous influence abroad. Here is hoping we can win that peace for keeps, and it is my opinion that FDR is the only man we have who could swing the deal.

Leo J. Warren,
Whitharral.

(Dear Mr. Warren: Thanks for your letter. I am sorry I had to cut it short, but our limit for letters—published—hundreds of times in recent years—is 500 words. As to my opinions regarding Mr. Roosevelt as President, and his philosophies of government which we call the "New Deal." I think he and some of his philosiphies have brought good to the nation. However, I think both Mr. Roosevelt and his philosophies have long since served their purpose; that every passing day adds to a terrible domestic muddle for which his theories and the administration he is built are responsible. I favor substitution of a Chief Executive and on administration which will return the nation to government by, or and for the people, instead of continuing the present theories of a people dominated by the government and for the benefit of the clique in power. Unlike some, I am not disrespectful of the President as the President, or as an individual. I have been in his press conferences many times; have seen him rather frequently ever since his appearance at the Chicago convention in 1932, and no one admires his remarkable personality more than I. But I cannot go along with his political philosophies, simply because I feel they are detrimental to the country, which is my country as much as it is his. Cordially yours, The Editor.)

Mecham To Speak At Meeting Of Teachers

"A practical Approach to Teaching Problems" will be the subject of an address to be given by Dr. George P. Mecham, director of field studies in education at Texas Tech, when the Lubbock County Teachers association meets at 7:30 o'clock Friday night in the high school auditorium.

Other entertainment will feature musical numbers by the boys' and girls' glee clubs of Junior High school under direction of Mrs. Elois Elliott, coordinator of music in Lubbock schools and a teacher in Junior High school. She will be assisted by Mrs. Mary Lou Kelley, also a Junior High school teacher.

Numbers to be presented include "God of Our Fathers," Warren; "I'm a-Rollin'," a negro spiritual; and "Love Divine," Zundell. Bob Scoggin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Scoggin will be accompanist and Jerry Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe B. Davis, will be announcer.

During the business session an election of local officers will be held and votes for state president and vice president of Texas State Teachers Association will be cast. Polls for election of state officers will open at 6 p. m.

Why You May Be

HARD of HEARING

The position tells why thousands are HARD OF HEARING, annoyed by BUZZING, RINGING, HISSING HEAD NOISES, CLOGGED UP FEELING IN EARS, DIZZINESS.

Hard impacted wax plugging up ear canals, and pressing on sensitive ear drums keeps out sound waves, makes your hearing bad.

To remove this wax obstruction that interferes with normal hearing and may cause severe irritation use Orotone Ear Drops as directed. They contain an ingredient especially recommended for this purpose.

A. M. Bentchensen, Newark, N. J., writes: "Before using Orotone Ear Drops, I was so deafened that I could not hear the clock tick. After using Orotone, I can now hear the clock tick with both ears."

Overweight Motor Oil Proved Non-Essential

See how safe and economical a surprisingly Light grade can be with your engine Winter OIL-PLATED

A motorist who kept a record for a month averaged only 2.7 miles between stops. Maybe you average twice that. Yet the "coupon shortage" means short runs—lots of stopping and starting. That's extra bad for your oil. The first hardships of Winter will find it unfit. This year, of all years, the height of economy is to change your oil promptly.

The lightest suitable oil you can use is best for your engine—your battery—your gasoline economy... best for lengthening your car's future! You needn't risk any overweight grade...not when you have your engine OIL-PLATED for Winter by changing to economical Conoco Nth motor oil.

The "magnetic attraction" that seems set up by a certain synthetic in patented Conoco Nth oil enables it to OIL-PLATE. Now all good plating forms a staunch protective surface, and that gives you the idea of OIL-PLATING. Now think of any OIL-PLATED part in your engine facing another OIL-PLATED part...double OIL-PLATING in between—plus Conoco Nth oil's regular-type liquid film that's extra strong! You can't get more protection than that, while with overweight oil you'd only invite needless drag and dangerous "absentee" lubrication in starting cold. Don't risk it. Consult Your Conoco Mileage Merchant for your lightest grade of Nth, and face Winter fully confident, with your engine OIL-PLATED. Continental Oil Co.

Dread Engine Acid Fought by OIL-PLATING

Normal combustion always leaves acids inside of your engine when it stops. Formerly it seldom stood idle long. Soon mileage and speed heated your engine enough to oust acids.

But nowadays rationing may force long rests, while corrosive acids gnaw. To combat corrosion, metals are plated. You combat acid corrosion with your engine OIL-PLATED.

Have a Coca-Cola = What's the good word?

...or how to get along with folks

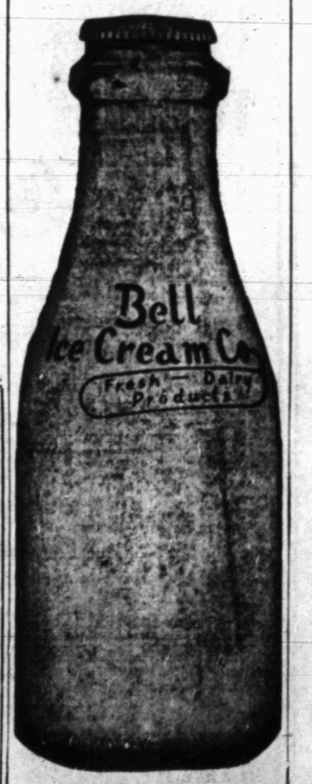

Your American soldier carries the keys to comradeship wherever he goes. Have a "Coke", says he to the eager youngsters at home, and it's like saying, What's the good word? It's a phrase that's understood in New Zealand or Newport, at home or in far-off places. Around the world Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes,—has become the gesture of good will, saying Let's be friends.

It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called "Coke"

Westerners, Sandies Meet In Annual Classic Today

Game In Amarillo Is Dedicated To Reiger By Mates

Jim Joe Reiger will be with the Lubbock Westerners in Butler Field today, but in spirit only.

The popular co-captain and star wingman was stricken over the week end with pneumonia and will miss the Amarillo game, the one game that Reiger had looked forward to.

Just before leaving Lubbock by bus Wednesday afternoon, the Westerners announced that they were going to dedicate the game in Amarillo this afternoon, with the nationally famous Amarillo Golden Sandies, to Jim Joe Reiger, who will be back in Lubbock listening to the ball game from the his sickbed radio.

FAIR WEATHER FORECAST
The Weatherman indicated that today's Lubbock-Amarillo game would be played on a dry field with warmer temperatures prevailing. Forecast for the area last night was fair and warmer.

Moyer May Play

R. W. Moyer, the other doubtful member of the team, was out of the hospital Wednesday afternoon and suited up, but he took no part in the brief workout on Chapman Field as the team polished up their plays for the big game. Moyer will not start the game, but if his injured knee is better, he may be able to see some service.

All other players are in good shape.

The game gets under way at 2 o'clock on Butler Field.

A holiday crowd of some 10,000 persons is expected to be in the stands, hundreds of them from Lubbock.

Game To Be Broadcast

The game will be broacast direct from the field over Station KFYO, starting at 2 o'clock.

The team will take the field in Amarillo with the intentions of giving the college sized Sandies the battle of their young lives. The team is ready to scrap all the way, and are conceding the Look magazine no edge in the ball game.

Some Tickets Available

E. J. (Pinkey) Lowrey, business manager of athletics at Lubbock, said late Wednesday that he would have a few more student tickets for sale in the lobby of the Capitol hotel in Amarillo where the Westerners are making their headquarters.

The team left by bus Wednesday for Amarillo to get a good night's rest before going into the game. They hope to avenge the 20-0 loss suffered at the hands of Amarillo last year.

The light, but scrappy Westerners will be a decided underdog in the battle, and will enter the game at a heavy weight disadvantage.

Sandies Heavily Favored

The Sandies, who are already counted "in" by the downstate schoolboy experts, will enter the fray with an average weight of 173 pounds per man, 21 pounds more per player than the Westerners.

The Amarillo backfield will tip the scales at an average of 174 pounds per man in comparison to Lubbock's 153. The Sandie line averages 172, the Westerner forward wall 151. Add to these overwhelming odds the fact that Amarillo has managed to escape serious injury, with the possible exception of Billy Lynch in the backfield, and the locals' chances for a victory are definitely slim.

"Ripe" For Upset?

However, odds have meant little to the Westerners in past seasons and often as the underdog the Gold and Black clad aggregation has startled the state's schoolboy circles by pulling a major upset. Today may be the day for it.

On the basis of season's records, the Sandies have one of the best in the entire state, having won seven consecutive games and having amassed 202 points against the opposition's 44. Lubbock has won six of seven games, running up 127 points to their opponents' 61. San Angelo accounted for 40 of those points in one game, however, in handing Coaches Mule Davis' and Dixie White's boys their only setback.

SOUTHERN CAL'S GAIN — Joe Day, an outstanding fullback who transferred from Oregon State college, filled a gaping hole for Southern California. Other Trojan backfield stars include Mickey McCardle, Howard Callahan, and Jackie Fellows.

Old Law Against Sale Of Liquor Is Dug Up

DENVER, Nov. 10 (AP)—A Colorado liquor law enacted in 1861 and contained in the compiled statutes published in 1936 makes liquor store owners and tavern operators who sell liquor to persons in the armed services liable to a fine of $50 or three months in jail, Goddard Shackelford, state veterans service officer, discovered today.

State Liquor Director Donald said the law "undoubtedly is not in effect," but its existence "creates an interesting situation."

Further investigation is planned by state officials.

Crucial Games Are Set; 10,000 May See Amarillo Tilt

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

Eighteen battles Thursday open the most crucial week-end of the Texas schoolboy football race with at least four district championships due to be determined.

Top struggle will be at Amarillo where Lubbock's once-beaten Westerners attempt to halt the surge of Amarillo's Golden Sandies toward another state championship—a fifth in ten years if the Sandstorm blows according to some forecasts.

Big Crowd Expected

The winner will be counted "in" and 10,000 fans are due to crowd Butler Field to see if Amarillo is as good as they've been hearing.

There are also crucial tilts in District 9—the Old Oil belt—and in district 11 where Longview and Marshall have been setting a merry pace but where Tyler's Lions also are unbeaten in conference play.

Breckenridge Favored

Breckenridge and Brownwood play at Brownwood with the District 9 title on the line and with Breckenridge an overwhelming favorite to win it.

Tyler tackles Longview Thursday, the winner to become Marshall's foe for the District 11 crown.

Friday's schedule is fully as important with the Galveston-Goose Creek battle at Goose Creek as the top tilt. This game, pretty much a toss-up but with Goose Creek given the favorite's nod in most quarters, will determine the title team of District 14.

Goose Creek "Hot"

Goose Creek is one of the state's nine undefeated, untied teams and with little George Walmsley burning up the gridiron long has been favored to represent this district in the state playoffs the week after Thanksgiving. But Galveston has shown the most marked improvement of any team in the district and now represents quite a barrier for the Ganders.

North Side's Steers, undefeated but once-tied, will be able virtually to clinch the Fort Worth district crown if they hurdle Amon Carter-Riverside. This is the final tough team in the road to District 7 honors.

McKinney and Highland park (Dallas), two of three teams undefeated in conference play, meet in an important game of District 6, while down in District 10 Waco plays Temple, the winner to meet Bryan for the title.

Pampa Meets Plainview

Paris plays Sherman in a top District 5 title but the winner will not clinch the title as there still will be Denison in the way, provided the latter hurdles Gainesville Thursday—which Denison is highly favored to do.

Another conference game holding interest in District 1 is the Pampa Harvester and Plainview game to be played this afternoon in Plainview.

Versatile Cage Card Is Set For Garden

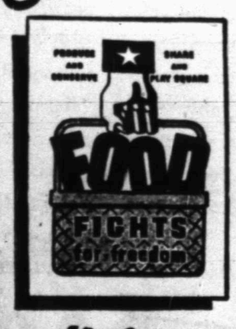

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (U.P.)—Ned Irish, acting president of Madison Square Garden, announced a 32-game basketball program for the Garden this season.

Irish said the program, comprised of double-headers, had been deigned to bring teams using every style of play into the arena.

Included in the list are teams from 12 states, Washington, D. C., and Havana, Cuba.

Redskins, Packers Suffer Blows—

Chicago Bears Leading Pro Elevens On Ground, In Air

By DAVE HOFF
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO, Nov. 10. — It was bound to happen sooner or later—and last week-end it did. The Washington Redskins took a setback in their passing game and the Green Bay Packers suffered likewise in their ground attack. But the Chicago Bears had another field day and for the first time this season emerged supreme as pro football's top offensive team.

Nudged out in one statistic or another by the Packers or Redskins all fall, the Bears today are No. 1 in total offense—rushing and passing—with 382.1 yards a game, first in rushing with 167 yards a game, and foremost in passing with 217.1 yards each contest.

Green Bay Next

Thus for the fourth time since the National football league's team figures were first compiled in 1932, the Bears are on the way to total domination of the circuit in yardage gained. Green Bay is the runnnerup in total offense with 335.4 yards and in rushing with 158.3 yards, while the Redskins tag along back of the Bears with 198.4 yards a game by passing.

But the reason the championship Washington team is holding the whip in the eastern division is its excellent defense. The Redskins are first in total defense and passing defense, limiting foes to 182 yards a game by all methods and to 104.6 yards a contest via aerials. And their rushing defense mark of 77.8 yards for the opposition is second only to Phil-Pitt's amazing 64 yard average.

Washington Holds Edge

Washington still led in per cent of passes completed with a .523 mark and in average distance of punts with 42.8 yards.

The team leaders:

Total yards gained per game—Chicago Bears 384.1; Green Bay 335.4.

Yards rushing per game—Chicago Bears 167; Green Bay 158.3.

Yards passing per game—Chicago Bears 217.1; Washington 198.4.

Per cent of passes completed—Washington .523; Chicago Bears .220.

Opponents' yards gained per game—Washington 182; Phil-Pitt 199.7.

Opponents' yards by rushing per game—Phil-Pitt 64; Washington 77.8.

Opponents' yards by passing per game—Washington 104.6; Chicago Bears 109.3.

Punting average — Washington 42.8 yards; Detroit 41.2 yards.

Batting averages may be computed by dividing the total number of base hits by total times at bat.

Army-Navy Tussle Has "Experts" Wondering

NEW YORK, Nov. 10. — Now that his job's safe again—for a while, anyway—Leo the Lip Durocher is packing a bag to go overseas and entertain the troops this winter. . . . He and his pal, comedian Danny Kaye, have a skit worked up in which Danny is an umpire and the Lip is an ump-baiter. . . . Gonna act your old self, eh, Leo? . . . 'Tis said Alsab will never fully recover from what ails him. . . . Some of the officers running Army boxing shows in England are working on a light heavyweight title tussle there between Champ Gus Lesnevich (who's in the Coast Guard) and Freddie Mills, the most touted British beak-buster in years. . . . Three Texas Players Back Among Eligibles

AUSTIN, Nov. 9 (AP)—Official semester grades put three players back on the eligible list as the University of Texas Longhorns prepared today for their Southwest conference football game with Texas Christian university here Saturday.

The three, first believed ineligible, are Gerald Owens of Dallas, fullback; Harlan Wetz of New Braunfels, guard; and Albert Suckut of Shafter, Calif., tackle.

A London track meet for soldiers was delayed because the Army couldn't find a pistol to start the races.

Techsans Bear Down For NTAC

Texas Tech's Red Raiders turned on the cookers and poured on the gas Wednesday afternoon as Coach Delicate Dell Morgan prepared his team for Saturday's Homecoming encounter against the North Texas A. and M. Aggies in Tech Stadium.

Mapping ways and means of stopping the reinforced NTAC juggernaut, the Crimsons polished up their defense against what is expected to be a powerful Aggie running attack. At the same time, the Raiders gave indications that they would continue to use their potent passing game to advantage with a snappy session on aerials. Punting also came in for its share of attention, poor kicking putting the Techsans in more than one hole this season.

Big Crowd Expected

Indications that Saturday's game would attract one of the largest crowds of the season continued as demand for tickets was reported brisk. Reserved seats are $2.20, the north end seats selling for $1.65. Soldiers and wives will be admitted for 50 cents each.

The game marks the annual Homecoming and Parents Day celebration at the college and will attract many exes as well as a large local following.

Face Veteran Team

Not only will the Raiders be facing veterans who once wore the scarlet and black but a host of other stars sent to NTAC through the Navy's training program. There will be James Reid who played guard for Tech in 1941 and 1942, now holding down a right guard slot for the Aggies. He now tips the beams at 196 pounds.

James "Baldy Jim" Woodfin, All-Southwest conference standout with TCU for three years, will be another veteran in the visitors' lineup. Another stalwart to face the Techsans will be Jack B. Batchelor, who has played two years with Texas, Donald Hughes, quarterback with NTAC and former Frog star.

Wayne Cobb Suffers Broken Collar Bone

Wayne, praised by Coach Russell Wimberly as "one of the best backs on the club," was injured while carrying the ball. He likely will be out for the remainder of the season. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Cobb of 2115 Tenth street.

The Cowboys have made tentative plans to play Petersburg again here a week from this afternoon.

The Sports Trail

Majors Shun Night Tilts

By WHITNEY MARTIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Sports trail detours:

When Ohio State smothered Pitt, the Detroit Free-Press carried an eight-column streamer: "Ah! Shades of Francis Schmidt: Ohio State 46, Pittsburgh 6." The headline artist saw in the score a throwback to the days when Francis "show 'em no mercy" Schmidt was walloping weaker squads with his Ohio State powerhouses. We understand, though, that Paul Brown swept the bench of everything but the splinters and was making no attempt to run up a score. And, when little Hal Hamberg was the big noise in Navy's defeat of Penn, a Cleveland Plain-Dealer headline read: "Penn Chokes On A Hot Hamberg."

Ray Scussel, Yale's fleet back, was observed by teammates running up and down a ramp in a tunnel leading to the field. Finally curiosity got the best of one of his fellow-players, who asked what was the big idea. Scussel explained that at the University of Connecticut, from which he was transferred to Yale, the team always practiced uphill. It was the theory that on Saturdays, when the boys got on level ground, it would feel like they were running downhill.

For those who vision a splurge of night baseball in the majors after the war, with the teams playing about half their games under the arcs, it is worthy of note that the National league club owners are committeed to return to the seventh-night-games a year system when peace arrives

Ward Cuff, veteran New York Giant back, gives a personal experience to show how Don Hutson, Green Bay Packer pass-grabbing wizard, gets that way.

"He loafed down the field on a play," Cuff explains, "and I wasn't going to let him get between me and the goal so I kept ahead of him. Suddenly he turned and started to retrace his steps, just as casually. Well, I couldn't let him get too far from me as he would have room to maneuver after he caught the ball, so I kept close to him. Then, very suddenly, he did an about face, turned on the gas and shot by me before I had a chance to turn. He caught the ball for a walkover touchdown.

Mr. Hutson seems to go the double cross one better. He gives them the triple X.

Owls Optimistic For Aggie Game

(By The Associated Press)

HOUSTON, Nov. 10 — Dour Jess Neely, who customarily lugs a crying towel to Rice practice sessions and games, perked up following a long, successful scrimmage today and muttered: "We'll play the Aggies a good game Saturday."

Neely, indicating that the Owls after two straight wins would be ready for their best effort of the season, rates the speed merchants from Aggieland about as tough as 1943 teams come.

Neely said he was undecided whether to use a five or six man line against the Aggies, who run frequently from the double wing. He will field last week's starting lineup except that Joe Kucera may break in at tailback or fullback.

Arkansas Bears Down For Game With SMU

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 10 (AP) — University of Arkansas football players worked out for the second time on local soil today and Coach John F. Tomlin announced he was well pleased with the spirit of his Razorbacks as they prepare for their Southwest conference grid game with Southern Methodist University here Saturday afternoon.

Nineteen of the 76 National League managers who graduated from the player ranks were catchers.

The Reminder Of This Day

TODAY'S appropriately solemn observance of Arimistice Day could not be made to serve any purpose more important than as a tragic reminder of past mistakes which must not be repeated after this war.

Perhaps it was too much to expect after the other war, or after this one, that any peace which could be designed would be perpetual. Any realistic planning for the future must recognize that wars are an evil which will continue to plague the world from time to time and for as far in the future as the most far-sighted can see. The most that realistic mankind can hope to accomplish now is to minimize the evil as much as possible by separating the visits by the plague of war as widely as possible.

Thus, it need not be expected that any peace which may be framed after victory will endure perpetually.

But certainly, with the horrible mistakes of the "peace" of 1918 before them, the nations and the peoples of the earth surely should be able to do better this time. It is unlikely to the point of impossibility that they might bestow upon mankind the blessings of an eternal peace. But surely they can improve upon those terms of 1918, of which this Armistice Day brings bitter reminder, that made this war inevitable and inescapable.

Probably as bad as any of the mistakes for which Arimistice Day is the symbol was the failure to impress, in a manner that could not be forgotten, the fact of defeat upon the defeated. So poorly did they learn their lesson that the militarists of Germany began laying the groundwork for this war before the struggle of 1914-18 ended. The crimes they committed in the name of war were forgotten when the war ended.

This must not happen again. Crimes committed by nations and individuals must not be forgotten when the war ends. The guilty must be pursued and punished in such a way as to provide a suitable object lesson to restrain other ambitious makers of war in the future. Those potential criminals must be made to realize, by the lessons after this war, that the crime of war does not pay. Such a knowledge won't restrain all of them. But it will restrain some, just as fear of the law restrains lesser criminals now.

Thus, even though the end of the war may not mark the dawn of an eternal peace, it can be made the dawn of a longer day of peace than mankind ever has known. This is the least of the blessings that can result if men will take to heart the lessons of which Armistice Days bring reminder.

Just A Temporary Situation

TWO basic reasons are apparent to the most casual observer as to why the organized workers in coal mines and other essential industries are able to win their most fantastic demands with strikes and threats of strikes.

One reason is that their work is essential. The other is that, when they choose to lay down their tools, no one is available to pick them up. Thus they win because the work must go on regardless of cost.

But some re-assurance and satisfaction will be derived by most Americans from their knowledge that the existing conditions are temporary. The day almost certainly will come when many hands may be eager to pick up the tools that any workman may choose to cast down.

The speculation is interesting as to what may happen then. Those who throw the tools aside will, of course, attempt to forbid anyone else to pick them up. Experiences of the past support the prediction that some hoodlums will not hesitate to employ violence, even murder, to keep the tools in idleness. They doubtless will say, as they have said so often in the past: "I will not work, and I will not allow you to work."

They may succeed in the enforcement in this sort of dictatorial rule. They have succeeded in the past. But their task will not be easy. They may discover that the hands that are eager to pick up fallen tools can be doubled into fists ready to defend the right to work.

"Why is a man afraid of a woman who is more intelligent that he?" asks an editor. We don't know. Why is he also afraid of a women less intelligent than he, or one equally intelligent?

"You believe the earth is round, don't you?" asks a psychologist. No. We believe it is almost spherical.

LUNCHEON PARTY
CHAPTER XVIII

When Nancy Hale came in at 10 this Tuesday morning, Blythe prepared at once to leave. She couldn't trust herself to stay here and face the other girl, even with Pop.

"I'll let go of myself and say something before I'm ready!" she half whispered, ducking into a sweater.

"Leaving, darling?" Nancy asked, sweetly.

"Yes." Bly avoided her eyes.

"I'm sorry you must. Seems like I hardly ever see you much now."

Blythe let that pass unanswered. She looked out a window. Pop spoke up heartily.

"Whyn't you two girls take off this afternoon and go to a movie, mmm?"

Doggone Pop! It was just like him, Blythe knew; trying to be generous, cordial, kind. But he didn't know the score here.

"We'll all be together at noon anyway," he went on, genially. "Mom's having us all for lunch."

"She is?" Blythe hadn't known that.

"Oh, yes!" Nancy appeared happy about it. "Mrs. Miller phoned. With Norman and Duane!"

That really messed up things, to Blythe's thinking. But she'd have to go through with it. Have to sit there in her own home, entertaining Nancy Hale and feeling like a hypocrite all the while! But, then, on second thought, it might be just as well to stay near Nancy as much as she could. She might learn something further. If Nancy had promised the gamblers' agent to drug Norman and Duane on Wednesday night, the more she stayed with them now—

"I'll shoot home and help Mom," she announced, and departed.

Out in the cold air waiting for the trolley, she thought it all over again. Since Heavy Underwood is out of Thursday's game, and the team weakened by that, I must do everything I can not only to trap Nancy but to keep Norman and Duane in fighting spirits. They've got to work harder than ever against State U. Just got to!

She had to swallow to down a tightness in her throat. Every time she thought of Nancy, she wanted to cry. Cry for the sheer shame of it. Her first quick hatred of Nancy, her first surging desire for revenge, had long since passed; all she felt now was an abiding sense of tragedy and shame. Shame for the pretty widow, and sympathy for her baby son.

"I'll go get him and take him with me!" Blythe suddenly whispered. "Bless his heart!"

She went back to the office and told Nancy, then ran upstairs to gather in baby Scooter and his coat and his beloved puppy, Link. At home, later, Mom Miller baked a special little "private pie" for Scooter alone at lunchtime.

While the family and the four guests ate their luncheon, Blythe noted that Nancy seemed utterly without regret or worry. She marveled that the other girl could be so wholly brazen about her plotting.

"I would be jumpy as heck," Bly told herself, watching Nancy closely. Norman was watching Nancy, too, she noted. Well, that much was all right. Undeniably Nancy was pretty. And usually Norman Dana made a pest of himself paying attention to Blythe. Big Duane just smiled all the while and said little.

Maybe—yes!—Blythe suddenly felt that she understood. Tomorrow night, Wednesday, Nancy would have to have both Nroman and Duane as dinner guests in her own cute upstairs apartment. This was essential to her scheme. And so, Nancy was "playing up" to Norman now! Laughing and talking with him in pretended friendliness, just to be sure he was flattered sufficiently to come. She would already feel sure of Duane . . . Blythe was appalled more than ever at the widow's calculating, conscienceless nerve.

"It's just like some of the early troubles the Japs and Germans handed us," Pop was saying, between forkfuls. "We have to expect the unexpected, the setbacks. We have to weave with 'em, and come back scrappier than ever before, lads. It's the only way to triumph in the end. The only way."

Blythe understood that. Good old Pop, softening the psychological blow of losing. Heavy Underwood from the lineup Thursday. Putting new confidence and assurance in the two stars' minds. Norman especially was given to quick flareups, emotional streaks and such, in addition to what people thought was conceit in him. She, Blythe Miller, knew now that Norman wasn't as conceited as he sometimes appeared. On one memorable occasion he had proved it. She would always respect him for that.

"Anybody tell you how cute you look in a red dress, Nancy?" Norman himself said that, beaming.

"Why—no! How nice!"

"Sure do. People say blonds shouldn't wear red. You corrected that. Mind if I stare?"

Mom Miller put in genially, "I'm sure Nancy is sweet in any color, boys. I have never seen a prettier girl."

"Umph," Pop grunted, mouth full, nodding.

Blythe said nothing. She might have said that the red dress was once her own. Given to Nancy after the car wreck, when Nancy was penniless in the hospital. Oh, to be sure, Nancy had since remembered to pay the asked-for $10, for all that big suitcase of clothes, but that was only a token to save pride; the dress was still a hand-me-down.

Suddenly ashamed of her thoughts again, then, Blythe forced a cordial smile. "You take all the men's eyes, Nancy. Makes me horribly jealous!"

They all laughed at that—and only Blythe herself knew that it stung a little. Her sally hadn't been wholly untrue!

"Imagine!" said big Duane. "You, being jealous! Or anything else not . . . well, not perfect!"

Blythe was astonished. Duane Hogan didn't say such things; it amounted to an epic, from him! Never, never in their two years of rather close friendship, had he said so much of her and to her. He had called her, Blythe, perfect! True, he had gone right on eating, just as if it were casual and therefore inconsequential and soon to be forgotten. But he had said it, even so. He had!

"You know," Norman was teasing again, "this business of inviting cadets to eat is a wonderful invention. Great institution! Why don't more ladies do it? Why don't you, for instance, Nancy, take lessons in it from Mom Miller, hmm? Or maybe I should talk to her myself. Look, Missus Hale, as a hint to get some of your home cooking later, will you and Scooter go to dinner downtown with me tonight?"

Nancy jumped at the chance.

"If you'll come to potluck with me tomorrow evening, Norman! You and Duane. I can feed homesick soldier boys! We'll have a little dinner party, just we three!"

Blythe felt her pulse leap. There it was, exactly as planned.

But, then—she had a new whirring sensation, too. Nancy had been openly dated by Norman — but it was Duane who had complimented her, Blythe! Big bashful, handsome Duane.

"Buy A War Bond TODAY"

Looking At Life - - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

DID YOU ever have an experience like this?

There was an awful rainstorm outside.

It awoke me. I looked at the clock. Two a. m.

It was pitch dark, the wind was howling, the rain beating against the windows.

I couldn't go back to sleep.

I was all alone.

True enough, my wife was lying in the bed next to mine, but she was asleep, thousands of miles away.

There I lay, thinking, with nobody to keep me company but myself.

A great fear befell me. All the tinsel, the glamour, the false faces of the day—gone.

What had I made of my life?

What would tomorrow bring?

What had I done to establish security for old age?

How long would my job last?

What did my wife, my friends, my boss really think of me?

Was I just trying to fool the world?

Was I really such a big guy as I tried to make people think I am?

Gosh, what an experience!

I felt so fearsome, so unsure, so humble, so absolutely insignificant.

THEN, fortunately, I fell back to to sleep, but when I woke up this morning I felt as if someone had pulled me through a wringer.

And when I got to my office and back into the swing of daily life, I was soon my usual cocksure self again, and since the sun was out, I whistled "Oh, What a Beautiful Morning."

I bet you know just how I felt. You must have gone through that same all-alone-in-the-night ordeal, some time or other.

You see, all human beings are haunted by fear.

Life is a constant fight with fear, with worries and doubt.

The Strong overcome it, but even they succumb to it occasionally.

And I wonder whether fear isn't a rather wholesome checkrein, whether we wouldn't become too sure of ourselves and too conceited without a modicum of it.

Powerful as we may be, successful and wealthy, we all know that there is a greater power that guides us and determines our destiny.

Therefore, a little night session with yourself every now and then may be a wholesome sedative when things have gone too much your way.

Try to meet yourself some night at 2 a. m.

You'll be surprised how much you'll learn about yourself!

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

THE entrenched Democrats worked every trick in the bag to stem the Republican tide on the Nov. 2 Election Day. They advanced a different brand of candidate in each contest. But everywhere President Roosevelt's proxies were knocked down.

In New York the New Deal faction named a military figure, Lt Gen. William N. Haskell, retired. He was defeated badly by Joe R. Hanley, an Albany hack politician.

In New Jersey the Democrats picked as their leader an American Federation of Labor official. He was whipped in the gubernatorial race by wealthy Walter E. Edge, Herbert Hoover's ambassador to France and an extreme reactionary.

In Philadelphia the Roosevelt crowd put up William C. Bullitt, FDR's first emissary to Russia after World War I and subsequently ambassador to France. Bill thought he deserved well of the populace but he came in a poor second in the mayoralty race.

In Kentucky the Democrats got down to bread-and-butter politics. For governor they nominated J. Lyter Donaldson, state roads commissioner, an official who can dole out jobs and contracts to the right kind of partisans. Even a photo finish amounts to a GOP triumph in this border state.

CONFRONT: Every farsighted official in Washington admits that, next to crushing the Axis, the most important task facing this country is postwar planning. Yet there is no field of inquiry which has provoked so many wise words and such meager action. It is the nation's No. 1 scandal, even though nobody may go to jail for it.

More than a score of government and private agencies are nibbling at the subject. Harvard professors were drafted by the Federal Reserve board to discover ways of spending money on vast public works—another PWA. Harry D. White of the Treasury has hatched several revolutionary monetary schemes.

Commerce Secretary Jesse H. Jones has assembled a group which will attempt to arrange a program to provide continuous employment. It is headed by Paul G. Hoffman of Studebaker. Brookings Institute experts, at the behest of the Senate Finance committee, are attacking the situation from another angle.

The U. S. Chamber of Commerce elected a score of industrial bigwigs whose assignments coincide with those already mentioned. Numerous other organizations, including those made up of manufacturers, bankers and insurance men, are perspiring over the problem.

It is charged here that not a single unit has done a tap of realistic work. Members have compiled charts and statistics which simply emphasize the gravity of future conditions. They have not yet begun to find the answers.

Publicly they boast of the time and thought they are devoting to financial, trade, transportation, industrial and labor difficulties that the U. S. will confront a few years hence. Privately they concede that almost all their proposals so far are not worth the paper on which they are blueprinted.

STUDY: President Roosevelt's apparent indifference to the issue appalls his advisers. They are prodding him to begin action on this front before it is too late. Even if he quite at the end of his present term, they think he should hand over the outline of a recovery program to his successor, if only for his own sake historically.

Inside reason for Mr. Roosevelt's attitude is his resentment against Congress for abolishing the National Resources Planning board, of which Uncle Fredric A. Delano was chairman. FDR had hoped to make this agency the central repository of all plans for the future. He took it as a personal slight when the legislators killed its 1943 appropriation.

Latest reports suggest that the Chief Executive will dump the matter in the lap of private interests, free of federal supervision. This may be smart politics, for if they fall down, they—not he—will be held responsible by the victims of the mistakes. It may also be excellent economics, for industry, agriculture and labor can provide more and better experts than can Washington.

Mr. Roosevelt may not sense it, but his gingerly handling of this topic has alienated liberals more than anything else he has done—or failed to do. Several years ago two of his greatest admirers, Sen. Robert F. Wagner of New York and Rep. John M. Costello of Hollywood, introduced a measure that won general acclaim.

It provided for Presidential appointment of a committee of 15—five from Congress, five from the executive departments, five from outside—to study postbellum possibilities. On Mr. Roosevelt's order their proposal was pigeonholed in committee. And there it is still, accumulating parliamentary dust.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

THERE may be general mystification as to why the Moscow Declaration should single out Austria for special consideration, promising liberation in return for active resistance. There are several pre-eminent reasons.

U. S. Army officials, diplomats and economists look upon the tiny state as the key piece in the European jigsaw map. A large segment of Nazi industry, removed from the Ruhr target belt, is concealed in its sheltered valleys. Anglo-American bombers obliterated the Weiner Neustadt Messerschmitt factory near Vienna on Wednesday. Other new shops, such as the Goering Works and the Ostmark Aircraft Company in Linz, are operating.

Should the Austrians sabotage this whole arsenal—or surrender it—the collapse of Germany would be a matter of weeks.

DESERTERS: Excellent highways through Hitler's former homeland link Skoda munitions with the Rome battlefield. The Wehrmacht's strategic reserves are massed between the Danube and Switzerland; reinforcements can be sped along the surfaced bouleyards to any threatened bastion of the continent.

All railroads suitable for troop movements to Italy and the Balkans cross Austria. Here, too, is the famous Brenner Pass and its 22 tunnels. For several months French war prisoners have been widening the single track and building sidings.

The lines are powered by the gigantic Ill hydroelectric plant in Vorarlberg. This energy supplies not only Austria's normal industries and the evacuated manufacturing units but also distributes surplus current to the distant Ruhr. If an Allied expedition, like that which blew up the Moehne and Eder dams, could destroy this generating center, it would mean catastrophe for Germany.

Many shortsighted Austrians welcomed Herr Schicklgruber in 1938 as a deliverer who would end the economic miseries of the Schuschnigg and Dollfuss days. But the home town boy failed to make good. He saddled his old neighbors with even heavier loads. Now they are utterly fed up with their discredited native son.

The Viennese openly show dislain for the families of Brownshirt party moguls who flock to the once gay capital to spend their graft money—safe from bombs. In the Tyrol deserters are hidden by mountaineers until they can join the Yugoslav guerrillas. Austrians captured by Yanks in Italy readily admit that they fight under compulsion and, at the first opportunity, cry "Kamerad."

DEADLY: Concealed beneath impressive statistics in a speech delivered privately to leading industrialists by Brig. Gen. Harmon F. Safford of the Ordnance department, is the forecast that next year's demands for battle mines are tremendous. The significance of the stepped-up program is that the United States Army has learned a lesson from Rommel.

At the time that Berlin was seeking ways of breaking the Versailles Treaty and rearming secretly, a brilliant German tactician suggested that the weak Reichswehr should employ mines on a large scale as substitutes for costly artillery.

Here And There In Texas

By GORDON SHEARER
United Press Correspondent

AUSTIN, Nov. 10 —Armistice Day will set many a man in the Army and Navy and many a civilian to thinking about the conditions service men will find when they take up their "after the war" occupations.

Adjustments that will be needed in industry, commerce and agriculture already have been visioned and a post-war planning committee named.

Changes will be faced also by the professional men who return from military duties to civilian life. Doctors may come back to socialized medicine. Lawyers already are certain to come back to a law practice with a number of changes.

New Legal Rules Drawn

The lawyers will find that in their absence the State Supreme court has put an additional curb on the opinions to be handed down by the state's 11 courts of civil appeals.

Already a rule has been put into effect directing that the opinions of these 11 courts shall not be published when they present no question or application of any rule of law of interest or importance to the jurisprudence of the state.

The new rule, to be effective Dec. 31, will further curb the authorship of appellate judges. It directs the opinions of the courts of civil appeals to be as brief as practicable and to avoid as far as possible lengthy quotations from other decisions or texts.

It directs also that where the issues have been clearly settled by authority or elementary principles of law, the court shall write only brief memorandum opinions.

THE new rule is one among 43 changes in procedure that will be followed in Texas civil courts next year. Some of the changes affect only the wording of existing rules, to correct errors or make the meaning explicit.

Among the others, a principal change carries on, uninterrupted by a term end, the work of a court whose judge dies or is otherwise unable to act until the end of the term. Much difficulty was experienced under present rules when many district judges were resigning to take up immediate military duties. In some cases the difficulties were met by laws providing continuous terms of those courts.

Difficulties Ironed Out

The new rules will iron out such a difficulty that may be experienced now when there are separate sureties on a bond for different periods of time, and it is uncertain when a default occurred. Under new rules both sureties can be made defendants, and each held liable as the evidence discloses.

Under another change, it will be necessary for a defendant who claims a right to be sued at some other place than where the case has been filed, to give his postoffice address or that of his lawyer. Then notice of a hearing contesting his claim may be sent by registered mail.

ANOTHER simplification will permit appeals in suits to go ahead under the same titling although some of the parties may die after judgment in the litigation by the trial court.

A directive rule calls for the date of a judgment to be stated in the judgment of a court, but provides that failure to give the date shall not make it invalid.

One rule that seems to disturb many lawyers says that a judge may, on his own motion, and shall upon motion of either party to a suit, take judicial notice of the statutes and court decisions of every other state. The party asking the judge to take such notice must furnish sufficient information to make compliance and must give his opponent adequate notice.

Divorce Bonds Optional

Under other new rules, a court may dispense with a bond in divorce proceedings where an ancilliary injunction is issued at request of either wife or husband. Notice of receivership for immovable property of a non-resident whose whereabouts is unknown may be posted in a conspicuous place on the property.

Local bar meetings have discussed the changes in many parts of the state. Most of the local bars, however, are more disturbed about proposals put out by the American Bar Association. In some places, these proposed changes meet with little favor.

One of them, worded innocently enough, would open the way for testimony by a wife against her husband, lawyers say. The rule would provide that any person was competent to give testimony who understood the significance of the oath taken by witnesses.

Another of the rules proposed by the American Bar would permit judges conducting jury trials to comment on the weight of the evidence presented. At present, Texas juries are charged as the sole judge of the truth or falseness of testimony, and the weight to be accorded it.

Today's Chuckles

Kay Francis reminds us of a cold and efficient school teacher from whom we once took mathematics and melancholia.

Today's couplet: Please, Emily Post, will you tell us how, to the inevitable to make a graceful bow?

"The true index to intelligence," says a professor, "is the extent of one's vocabulary." We don't believe it. We hear a lot of ignorance exposed in polysyllabic words.

Sometimes after reading the daily news of the doings of the human race, we derive a small crumb of comfort out of reflecting that we didn't voluntarily become a member of this strange race.

Texas Paper Plant May Be Enlarged

HOUSTON, Nov. 10. (AP)—Chairman Lyle Boren (D-Okla) disclosed today that the special congressional committee investigating the newsprint industry would consider the possibility of hiking production at the Southland paper mill in Lufkin by 20 times.

Arriving here from Oklahoma City with other members of the committee, Boren left immediately for Lufkin to inspect the paper mill. The committee will return here tomorrow night for a dinner sponsored by Houston newspapers.

At that time they will summarize their findings in Lufkin.

With Boren were Reps. Lindley Beckworth (D-Tex), Oren Harris (D-Ark), Pehr G. Holmes (R-Mass) and Charles A. Halleck (R-Ind).

Dependent On Canada

"We are interested in paper production possibilities for both war and peace," Boren said, "in order that we might not be so dependent on Canada for our newsprint and paper needs."

The United States imports 72 per cent of its newsprint and 76 per cent of its total paper needs from Canada, he said, adding.

"If we can make the Lufkin plant 20 times as big as it is, we'll have a start toward breaking our dependence on Canadian paper."

Boren refused to speculate on the possibility of enlarged paper output by new or established Texas plants, stating: "We're on a fact-finding mission and won't know anything until we've looked over the ground."

The committee was met by R. W. Wortham, vice president of the Lufkin mill, M. E. Kurth, a director, C. D. Edwards, secretary, and S. W. Slater, general manager.

Visited Other Plants

Explaining that the committee had visited 10 or 12 paper mills, including several in Canada, Boren said that one possible solution of the nationwide paper shortage was construction of more newsprint mills in the south.

The Southland mill manufactures newsprint from East Texas pine.

"This committee has recommended that the government cut its use of paper by 40 per cent and much has been accomplished toward that goal," Boren said.

"We plan to make a complete study of the Lufkin paper mill. This plant was started as an experiment and now is a success. We want to find out if it can be further developed."

Pacific Fighting

the west central coast of that island which the Marines invaded Nov. 1.

Today's advices from MacArthur's headquarters listed losses of 677 Japanese planes in all sectors of the southwest (MacArthur) and South (Halsey) command areas.

Rabaul, the New Britain sea-air stronghold on which Japan relies heavily to preserve its Bougainville position, was raided at night by Mitchell medium bombers, the communique said.

The bombers attacked Vunakanua, one of Rabaul's five airdromes, causing fires and explosions.

35 Planes Wrecked

MacArthur's air arm hit the Japanese at Alexishafen in the Madang area of New Guinea, destroying 21 planes on the ground and downing 14 of between 20 and 30 enemy interceptors. The Jap units were reinforcements moved in from the north.

Other grounded planes were damaged and two additionel enemy interceptors were listed as probable losses. Three of the raiding fighters were lost. The fighters escorted attack planes and medium bombers on two coordinated bombing and strafing missions which were made at low altitude.

Presumably the Jap force which moved down Bougainville's west coast from Buka in the barges had intended to join with bypassed Japanese on the south end of the Marine beachhead in exerting a pincers against Empress Augusta Bay.

Marine Casualties Light

The Marines threw tanks and artillery against the northern force. Marine casualties in Tuesday's fight were characterized as light.

The Japanese airforce which made Monday's attack was believed to have come from Rabaul, possibly making one stop at Buka on the way.

The MacArthur air smash at Alexishafen, a staging area for planes based at Wewak, was made early Tuesday by Mitchells, a-20s, P-477s and P-38s. The lightning fighters in the group were stronger in force than the intercepting Japanese.

Three Convoys Sighted

In the vicinity of Kavieng, New Ireland, three convoys were sighted and attacked beginning Monday night, indicating the Japanese still are reinforcing Rabaul, where enemy plane and ship losses have been heavy. A 10,000 ton merchantman, under escort of destroyers and possibly a light cruiser, was sunk by bombs of a Liberator.

About the same time Monday night, a United States Navy Catalina attacked a group of ships 95 miles northwest of Rabaul which included a destroyer, sub chaser and two merchantmen.

Tuesday morning, a Liberator bomber a convoy of one destroyer and two large freighter-transports near Mussau island near the northwestern tip of New Ireland.

Results of the attacks were not reported.

A single army motorized division requires 400 tons of supplies daily.

ity probably was choked off almost completely.

It was officially announced that the 15th Air force's Fortresses and Liberators destroyed 56 enemy fighters during their inaugural attack on the Messerschmitt plane factory at Wiener Neustadt Nov. 2, a record for planes from this theater. The largest previous total was 45 shot down by Fortresses over the Gerbini airfields in Sicily in July.

Enemy Shipping Bombed

While falling snow and low clouds prevented extensive flying over the Eighth Army front near the Adriatic yesterday, many Allied fighters and fighter bombers whipped across that sea to attack enemy shipping off the Albanian coast and to shoot up German installations near Durazzo and Kavaje.

RAF Kittybombers hit a medium merchant ship in Split harbor with three bombs and set fire to railway cars near the docks.

Transport arteries over which the Nazis have been moving reinorcements to the Italian front were hammered by fighter bombers. A locomotive and four cars exploded when American A-36 Invaders strafed two trains near Rome.

Bernard M. Baruch, he said, had already started meetings with procurement officials looking to a solution to the problems of contract termination, reconversion of plants to civilian production and removal of government equipment.

"The government has a strong moral responsibility" for protecting subcontractors against loss, Nelson added, in recommending establishment of a central agency to adjust differences between prime and subcontractors.

Direct government loans may be advisable to provide working funds for subcontractors whose contracts have been cancelled, the WPB chief asserted.

GREETINGS FROM INDIA

Greetings cabled from Bishop Mondal of the Indus River conference in India, were read by Bishop Ivan Lee Holt at the Wednesday session of the Northwest Texas conference here. Bishop Mondal conveyed his best wishes to the session here, and said that Rev. Melvin Rankin, former pastor in the Northwest Texas conference, now a chaplain in the Army, who was attending a similar meeting in India, also wished to convey best wishes to friends "back home."

to he general conference in Kansas Ciy, Mo., next April. The other three delegates had been announced earlier. They are: Dr. O. P. Clark, Lubbock; Dr. J. O. Haymes, Abilene, and Dr. L. N. Lipscomb, Plainview.

The four lay delegates to the conference included Ray Nichols, Vernon; J. M. Wilson, Floydada; R. B. Bryant, Stamford, and Mrs. C. A. Bickley, Abilene.

During the afternoon business session five clerical delegates and five lay delegates to the jurisdictional conference were elected. They were:

Clerical: W. C. House, Amarillo; O. W. Carter, Childress; W. M. Pearce, Vernon; Cal C. Wright, Stamford, and E. D. Lanreth of Lamesa.

Lay delegates: C. B. Breedlove, Haskell; A. B. Crowder, Sweetwater; G. E. Hamilton, Matador; Tom Ellzey, Perryton and Mrs. C. M. Randall, Seymour.

Delegate Reserves

Two lay delegates reserves had been elected at the close of the business session yesterday. They included Mrs. Nat G. Rollins, Abilene and Fred Storey, Childress.

Edward Delor Kohlstedt, executive secretary of the Board of Missions and Church Extension of the Methodist church with headquarters in New York City, spoke before the conference body Wednesday.

Kohlstedt reminded the delegates that, despite current chaotic conditions throughout the world, the laws that govern our spiritual universe are still intact; that there are basic assurances with which to undergird a functioning faith: "moral and spiritual values are changeless; Jesus Christ is the same, through time and eternity; the love of God is unalterable; the scriptural steps to salvation are as solid as they were twenty centuries ago."

Mission Work Stressed

Stressing the mission work at home and abroad, the speaker continued:

"Christianity's missionary enterprise, at home and abroad, is a superbly selfless undertaking; through the media of her missionary agencies, the Christian church ensures to underprivileged areas of life, social, spiritual, and cultural ministries that make home and community conditions increasingly worth while to humanity."

The conference will close this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock with the reading of the appointments by Bishop Ivan Lee Holt.

Holy Communion will be observed at 9 o'clock this morning in the main auditorium of the church with Bishop Holt in charge.

The final business will be taken up during the sessions at 9:30 a. m. and at 2:30 p. m.

late Dr. Roy Hunt, physician-surgeon of Littlefield, May 21, 1942. Mrs. Newton was indicted on a similar charge. Dr. and Mrs. Hunt were discovered slain and bound in their bed the early morning of Oct. 26.

Removal of Dr. Hunt through death naturally would deprive the state of its principal witness.

Testimony Inadmissible

It has been pointed out that under the rules of procedure, testimony given by Dr. Hunt at the trial of Dr. Newton would probably be inadmissible in the trial of Mrs. Newton, since Mrs. Newton had not been accorded the privilege of cross-examination of Dr. Hunt.

However, spontaneous expressions of Dr. Hunt made immediately after the 1942 assault—might be admissible without reference to whether they had been previously testified to or not, court attaches explained.

Others must arrange their own transportation, in which they have been helped by the response to share-the-ride appeals, the principal said.

Classes are to be resumed in city schools Friday.

The accelerated war program will not permit Texas Technological college to observe the holiday, President Clifford B. Jones said.

To be closed are banks, First Federal Savings and Loan association, member firms of Retail Merchants association and city, county and federal offices. At the postoffice, the general delivery window will be open from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m., Postmaster Amos Howard announced.

Reunion Breakfast Set

A reunion breakfast for all veterans of World War I in Hilton hotel at 6:45 a. m. is the only event scheduled downtown. Stanton Rhea and J. A. Raley, jr., cochairmen of a joint arrangements committee for local posts of Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion, announced a program to include songs by a WAC quartet from LAAF and talks by WAC Lt. Dede Cook and George W. Dupree, who has two sons in the armed forces. There will not be a parade.

An open house program sponsored by Texas State guard units at the fairgrounds will include a flag ceremony at 2 p. m.; review and inspection of troops; demonstrations of training by members of headquarters detachment; introduction of guests by B. C. McCasland, major and commanding officer of the 39th (South Plains) battalion of TSG; demonstrations of training by a rifle company; and inspections of equipment and headquarters. Retreat, with lowering of the Flag, is set for 4 o'clock.

Observing Armistice day, members of Yellowhouse Masonic lodge will gather at the lodge hall on the third floor of the Citizens National bank building Thursday night at 6:30 for conferring of a Master's degree on a service man by an all-service men's degree team, Burl Ham, worshipful master, announced Wednesday morning.

Dinner will be served at 6:30 and conferring of the degree will follow.

Chaplain Randall T. Miller of Lubbock Army Air field will make the principal address of the evening.

All Master Masons are urged to attend the affair, Ham said.

Under sponsorship of the VFW auxiliary, Victory Stars on parade will present two performances, one at 8:15 and the other at 10 o'clock tonight at Lubbock High school auditorium.

Kingdom of God because some 'little' Methodist college within the boundaries of this state opened its doors to let us in. Many of us worked our way, but the Christian leadership that we received in that little Methodist college put us on the right track that so many of he boys and girls of today are missing altogether," the speaker declared.

"Many of the fathers and mothers in this state today say when they are ready to send their boy and girl to college or university, 'oh, we are going to make a fine doctor, a fine teacher, a fine business man of John or Mary,' but they, my friends, are not interested in what kind of a character John or Mary will have. Without character the best scientific training in education cannot make a man," the speaker said.

Little Alumni Support

Speaking of the many alumni of the Methodist colleges in Texas, Dr. Score said that at Southwestern university there are on the rolls there 25,000 alumni members and last year that alumni association paid into the university to aid in its support just a small fraction over $200."

"I am thinking not only of this campaign to raise $1,750,000 to endow McMurry college at Abilene so that it can continue to produce leaders in the work for the Kingdow of God, but I am thinking of it in terms of boys and girls. Our boys and girls have a tough and long road ahead of them and for the generation to come and it is 'high' time that we get more and more interested in the character of these boys and girls and prepare them for what lies ahead."

In closing, Dr. Score remarked, "What would we gain if we gained the whole world, and lost our boys and girls?"

Music for the night's service was furnished by the McMurry Chanters under the direction of Mrs. Robert Wiley of McMurry college of Abilene.

Methodist Minister 60 Years Dies Here

Rev. T. H. Davis, 84, of Shallowater, a Methodist minister 60 years, died about 8:30 o'clock Wednesday night in Lubbock General hospital where he had been a patient for several weeks.

Funeral services will be conducted at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon in the Shallowater Methodist church, with Rev. J. E. Peters, pastor, officiating.

Mr. Davis, who had lived at Shallowater for the past six years, was widely-known throughout the Northwest conference of the Methodist church.

The Shallowater chapter of the Masonic lodge will have charge of special graveside services for Mr. Davis, who was a Master Mason. Burial will be in Lubbock cemetery.

Survivors include his wife; three daughters, Mrs. George Smallwood of Lubbock, Mrs. L. E. Baker and Mrs. L. B. Rice of Shallowater; eight grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements are under direction of Rix Funeral home.

Lubbock Woman Is On Club Committee

AUSTIN, Nov. 10. (AP)—The real solution to the juvenile delinquency problem lies in the home but co-ordination in the efforts of all agencies concerned wil produce fruitful results, state Police Director Homer Garrison, jr., today told members of the Texas Federation of Women's clubs meeting here.

The federation at its opening session elected Mrs. Opal Lois George of Austin, formerly of Corpus Christi, as general secretary and appointed a post-war committee to co-operate with the planning commission named by Gov. Coke Stevenson.

Committee members include Mrs. Florence Johnson Scott of Rio Grand City, Mrs. W. R. Potter of Bowie, Mrs. Goedeke of Lubbock and Mrs. W. H. Moore of Deport.

British Refuse To Ease Food Blockade

LONDON, Nov. 10. (AP) — The Churchill government turned down today suggestions that it relax the blockade and send food to German occupied Europe, asserting that such an action would lead the Germans to create more starvation and shortages.

Dingle M. Foot, parliamentary secretary of the British ministry of economic warfare, declared in the House of Commons that the British government had no intention of repeating the Herbert Hoover plan of the last war, when food was shipped to Belgium.

"We know by experience" that the Germans would not hesitate to create more starvation and shortages if such a program was followed, Foot said. He added that the British do not propose to lay themselves "open to this particular form of German blackmail."

dowment secretary, announced that a $2,000,000 endowment program would begin Jan. 1 for Texas Baptist institutions—hospitals and schools.

Steering Committee

The following steering committee on the endowment campaign was named: Dr. C. E. Matthews, Fort Worth; Charles Moore, Dallas; Charlie Roberts, Dallas; the Rev. Kearnie Keegan, Longview; Dr. H. H. Hargrove, Waco. Advisory members named were, Cliff Caldwell, Abilene; William Fleming, Fopt Worth; Dr. Wallace Bassett, Dallas, and Dr. George W. Truett, Dallas.

Dr. Hal F. Buckner, President of Buckner's Orphans home in Dallas, said that during the fiscal year ended Aug. 31. Contributions totaled $272,868 and that a sum had been laid aside in war bonds for post-war expansion of the institution. Enrollment is 736.

Discussing the effects on the church of the war, Dr. W. W. Melton, executive secretary of the convention, said that the shifting of populations in rural areas had created a manifold problem.

300 Pastors In Chaplaincy

Some 300 pastors, he said, have gone into the chapliancy and like number into work in defense areas. "These have come largely from the smaller churches and rural communities, it is in this bracket where we are suffering our greatest loss."

During the afternoon, Walter H. McKenzie, executive secretary of the United Texas Drys, charged that the repeal of prohibition laws "never has and never will stop bootlegging."

"The liquor control board of the state of Texas confiscated seventy-four illicit stills in the first seven months of 1943. Bootlegging is by no means confined to counties that are legally dry," he added.

Church Gifts Low

Willis J. Ray of Dallas, superintendent of rural evangelism of the convention, declared that tobacco interests last year collected an average of $11.70 from every person in the nation; that an average of $40 per person was spent on sports.

"But total gifts to churches averaged $6.50. America needs a revival of values," he declared.

Earlier announcement was made of the retirement after 16 years' service of Dr. F. M. McConnell, editor of the Baptist Standard. He received a leather-bound volume of letters of appreciation from leaders throughout the south.

The paper under his leadership, it was declared, had reached the largest circulation in the world of any religious sectional paper.

The convention's annual sermon was delivered at the morning session by Dr. J. M. Dawson, pastor of the First Baptist church in Waco.

Snows Portend No Good For Germans

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press War Analyst

The first snows of a more terrible winter for German invaders have fallen in west central Russia to indicate that the moment for which Moscow has been waiting is close at hand.

The all but incredible Red army offensive which began at Stalingrad just a week less than a year ago is reaching its climax. Its first major objective, ejection of Nazi foes from Russian soil or their annihilation all the way from the Baltic to the Black sea, is almost in sight.

SIMPSON

Early snows in the critical Kiev sector where the Red army bulge west of the Dnieper holds a terrible menace for all Nazi forces south of its path might slow up that Russian drive. Northward, however, above the Orsha bend of the Dnieper to the Russian-broken Nazi siege ring about Leningrad, Russia's greatest ally, winter, is only now deploying his forces for attack.

There is little doubt that the first skirmishes of the Berlin-dreaded 1943 Russian winter offensive are in progress there now, and destined to swell very soon into a new mighty effort to clear all northwestern Russia of the invaders.

Retreat Rumored

Except for Russian recapture of Nevel junction in the lower Lovat triangle, Russian operations along the northern front have been on a minor scale for months. Yet all local thrusts have had clear portents of preparation. Day by day the marshes of the Lovat which guard the Nazi defense front from north of Nevel to Lake Ilmen are losing their protective character.

As winter sets in in northwestern Russia, there are unconfirmed reports from neutral capitals in Europe that a wholesale Nazi retreat in the north to the shelter of the Peipus lake chain along the Russian-Esthonian border is already in motion.

Gigantic Trap Possible

It would not be surprising. With the Dnieper line in the south fatally ruptured, the Vitebsk gateway half encircled, even the Polotisk communications key for the whole south segment of the northern front threatened by a Russian advance from Nevel, there seems no good military reason for attempting a winter stand in so exposed a position although political considerations tend to invite it.

A trap for all Nazi forces in northwestern Russia, Esthonia and much of Latvia deadlier than that developing southwest of Kiev and on the lower Dnieper could be Russian-fashioned with the aid of winter in the north.

Girl Beaten To Death And Another Chained

LAREDO, Texas, Nov. 10. (AP)—Justice of the Peace Manuel Cruz said today Pablo Rodriguez, 36, garage operator, had confessed that he beat his niece, Guadalupe Flores, 10, until she fell to the floor unconscious. The girl was found dead in the Rodriguez home yesterday.

Justice Cruz also said another girl, Beatriz Nurmi, had been beaten and chained in the backyard of the home but was later released. He added witnesses told him the girl had been chained through Monday night.

A charge of murder was filed against Rodriguez in the death of Guadalupe Flores.

Justice Cruz and Chief of Police Dave Gallagher said they had not completed their investigation of the alleged chaining incident.

Aged Wrestler Gives 1,000th Transfusion

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 10. (AP)—Spike Howard, 66-year-old wrestler and strong man, has looked forward to his 1,000th blood transfusion for years, so when he gave it last night he invited 250 guests to the ceremony at the Elks club.

Spike—his real name is Edward but his best friends wouldn't know it—says he has "never sold a drop and never lost a case." He once gave more than five pints in three days, and during an epidemic, submitted to transfusions every day for six weeks.

Dr. Samuel H. Burgin, 72, prominent Methodist churchman, who died of pneumonia Tuesday night at a McKinney hospital, was the father of David Burgin, former instructor in the journalism department at Texas Technological college. Dr. Burgin resigned as superintendent of the McKinney Methodist district in 1942 and had served as pastors of churches in Fort Worth, San Antonio, Miami, Fla., and Atlanta, Ga.

The Marryin' Justice, J. T. Inmon, performed his 382nd civil wedding ceremony Wednesday and said he had been informed No. 383 would have been read before he reports to his desk this morning.

Members of Lubbock Kiwanis club related their personal experiences in World War I and on that Armistice day 25 years ago, at their luncheon in Lubbock hotel Wednesday noon. Recognition also was given to parents of men in service today and each parent told where his son was serving. George Berry was program chairman.

A burglary conviction of Frank King, jr., a 21 year old negro who was sentenced to 15 years in the penitentiary April 22 by Judge C. D. Russell of Plainview, was affirmed at Austin Wednesday by the court of criminal appeals. Judge Russell sat as magistrate that week in 99th district court at Lubbock. The negro gave notice of appeal but failed to perfect appeal, never preparing a statement of fact or bills of exception. King broke and entered several Lubbock residences, the state, through Burton S. Burks, district attorney, said.

U. S. Engineers Set Record On Airdrome

LONDON, Nov. 10. (AP)—Working a 24-hour day under constant threat of air attack, U. S. aviation engineers set a record for airdrome construction in Great Britain when they completed an assignment in 10 days—two under the goal set.

European theater headquarters of the U. S. Army said the engineers had done an unusual job of resurfacing while the airdrome was being used.

Fifteen men were singled out for commendation including: First Lt. Jerry A. Rea, Houston, Texas, and Pvt. Clyde Leverette, Menard, Texas.

TERRORIST TAKEN OUT

BARCELONA, Nov. 10. (AP)—A Toulouse newspaper asserts that 195 "terrorists" have been arrested, executed, killed or wounded throughout France in the last two months. The "terrorist" label is used by the Vichy press to describe anyone who attacks representatives of the Vichy government.

Latin Program Given By Students As Part Of Education Week

To rhythym of the tick of castanets and soft spine-tingling Spanish music chimed on the organ by Ned Hardin, gaily dressed "senoritas" and "seniors," composed of students of the third year intermediate level of Room 206 in Dupre School, presented South American musical numbers and a Market Day fiesta scene at the school Wednesday afternoon.

Approximately 60 parents and guests enjoyed the program, which evidenced students' interest and desire to learn more about and to appreciate our pan-American neighbors.

The classroom where the program was given was lined with cut-outs and drawings of Latin-American peoples and scenes, prepared by students, under direction of Miss Ruby Nell Smith, teacher, and forming the background for the stage setting was the display of a large United States flag flanked with smaller flags of all Pan-American countries.

Setting for the playlet, which was given entirely in Spanish by students who have studied the language either one year or just since school started this year, was a Mexican market complete with various foods, rugs, serapes, sombreros, pig banks, straw baskets and other typical articels.

The program, which was in observance of National Education week, included Bienvenido by Joyce Worrell; Welcome, Jack King; "Quierme Mucho," a song, by the class, accompanied by Ned Hardin at the organ; a quiz program, "Senorita Professora," with Janice Duncan as Senorita and Jimmy Richards and Elizabeth Stanley assisting; "Amapola," sung by the class; Market scene; a discussion of Mexico by John R. Nelson; hat dance by Jan Casady; "El Rancho Grande," sung by the class and the "Adios" address given by Betty Armstrong.

Texas Well Along On War Fund Campaign

HOUSTON, Nov. 11. (AP)—Texas has raised 69.5 per cent of its goal of $6,641,492 for the National War fund, George A. Butler, president and campaign chairman of the United War Chest of Texas, said today in announcing that 77 counties have now gone over the top in their drives.

Of the total to be raised, $3,-[illegible]0,049.77 has been succsribed in the greatest war appeals program ever carried out in Texas, Butler said.

The campaign is being conducted to raise funds for the USO, war prisoners aid, United Seamen's service and the 14 other agencies of the National War fund.

Governor Coke Stevenson, honorary chairman for Texas, has described the program in this manner: "The United War Chest of Texas offers the kind of investment that affords a comfort to that boy of yours who is out there fighting for your and my liberty and democracy."

Shoe Production Is At Rate Of Two And Half Pairs A Year Now

CLEVELAND, Nov. 10. (AP) — Present production figures point to about two and one half pairs of shoes a year for civilians, W. W. Stephenson, the Office of Price Administration's national shoe rationing chief, declared today.

"If an individual is allowed three pairs a year, production totals of 300 million a year, would have to be stepped up to 378 million," he told a press conference. "Manpower and material shortages are obstacles to this, but if the supply is increased, the life of No. 1 airplane stamp in book 3 will be shortened. . . .

"The children's shoe supply is about three pairs a year with parents clamoring for four."

Negro Kids Want To Stay Here With Mama

"Maybe "Dallas is a great big-town" as jailers tried to explain to two little negro girls, who claim they are 3 and 4, but they don't want to go there—they'd rather stay here with their mother and an aunt.

They emphasize this by bursting out crying occasionally while they are held in the juvenile ward of county jail because a Dallas court judge ordered them held for delivery there to their father.

What happened, according to Parum Posey, chief deputy sheriff, was this: The father, who allegedly had deserted the mother when one of the children was 3 days old, and never had contributed to the support of either from that moment, went into court and asked their custody. The mother was ordered to produce the children in court, but she, hard put to make enough to feed them, didn't have the money to make the trip. So the children fell to custody of the father by default. Confused over the turn of procedure they couldn't be expected to understand, they try to play in their cell, just as sympathetic officials tell them—but they remember every once in a while.

Then they cry. Jail officials go out and buy them fruit and candy and gum—but that doesn't really satisfy them. They want their mother—and they definitely don't understand why they have to be yanked away from her.

A move is afoot by various persons here to assist the children's mother by presenting affidavits to the Dallas court, "so that the real picture of this case can be presented."

PRICE SETTING DELAYED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10. (AP) — Announcement of sugar beet prices had been postponed by the agriculture department until the House acts on the Commodity Credit corporation bill involving food subsidies, Representative Outland (D-Calif) told the House today.

Play Marks Education Week At High School

The Thespian Club's one-act play, "Let Me Come Back," and a choric drama, "The Voice of America," marked observance of American Education week and Armistice day at the high school Wednesday afternoon.

Several parents and other visitors attended.

Education week posters appearing at Cloverlake on Avenue Q, and Groce Furniture Co., on Broadway were made by Polly Ann Gossett and Marcell Eakin.
