JIMMIE GILLETTE in Wellington Leader: Word has been received that an explorer has discovered an African tribe which is so heathenish that its members never try to reform their neighbors.

SAM BRASWELL in Clarendon News: Tammany is the regular democratic organization in New York. All good democrats presumably support it. Jim Farley, that sterling democrat and political prophet—did he support Tammany? No, he bolted. He advised democrats of New York to do likewise. Now, if some of us Texas democrats should do a thing like that, we would be called traitors to the party.

WILLIAM RUSSELL CLARK in Memphis Democrat: The Kingfish has had his say so long in Louisiana that it is the height of impertinence for anyone to inquire into his affairs. The entire nation has about reached the conclusion that something may be rotten in Denmark, but of a certainty there is a vile small along the Mississippi and its tributaries.

HONEST BILL MILLER in Spearman Reporter: Fans and football boys, let's all remember that Perryton treated us royally. There was not a single thing left undone to give us a hearty welcome—and a darn good whipping!

J. C. ESTILACK in Donley County Leader: What will be done with the surplus cotton left over this year is bothering some of the boys holding government jobs. That's easy. Make it up into "briches" and let the missionaries take them to the heathens. They might as well experience some of the incom-

Oldtimers, skilled in disputations with Amarillo oldtimers, are intensely interested in the football situation. But if they should find ineligible to finish the argument, there are even more newcomers fully as concerned.

We regret that newspapermen are barred from the debates on eligibility rules. We imagine that the round-by-round arguments and snappy comebacks would make rich reading.

For the most part, however, those most concerned have shown admirable self-control and have kept the discussion and their tactics on a high plane. The same may be said of the fans, and who is better able to judge than we who answer hundreds of telephone calls daily down here at The NEWS?

It is regrettable that a few incidents have left something to be desired in the relations anxiously investigating football rivals. We do not doubt that Coach Blair Cherry, for instance, is ordinarily a gentleman of courtesy and poise. But evidently much water will be "by the wheel" before a few local residents revise their present unfavorable impression of him in his agitated moments—as an investigator.

We can appreciate the interest of Supt. M. L. H. Baze of the Hopkins school in the Mackie protest. He is anxious to preserve the opportunities of his pupils to participate in Interscholastic League events at Pampa. So are we all, Mr. Baze.

FISHER PHONES AFTER TALKING TO HENDERSON

LEAGUE SECRETARY IN TELEGRAM FOR COMMITTEE

IT IS INADVISABLE TO DEFINE LIVING WITH PARENTS BY STIPULATING A DEFINITE NUMBER OF DAYS. NO COMMITTEE OR SCHOOL SHOULD HAVE DIFFICULTY IN DETERMINING UNDER A GIVEN SET OF FACTS WHETHER OR NOT A BOY IS LIVING WITH HIS PARENTS. A PUBLIC ROAD IS ONE BUILT OR MAINTAINED BY PUBLIC FUNDS.

(Signed) ROY B. HENDERSON.

THE prospect for maintaining the eligibility of Hazel Mackie, Pampa substitute linesman, was noticeably brighter today as Roy B. Henderson, Interscholastic League secretary, replied to queries of the district executive committee and heard Supt. R. B. Fisher explain certain aspects of the case.

Supt. Fisher, en route home from Austin, telephoned that the outlook was "hopeful" and that he was ready to place the fact once more before the district committee. He will arrive early tomorrow. Date of the committee's second deliberation on the protest has not been set.

Supt. Fisher was in Austin this morning for the conference with Mr. Henderson with reference to the protest of the eligibility of Mackie by Amarillo high school. He had asked Mr. Henderson to withhold an interpretation of the terms "living with parents" and "public road" as requested by the district executive committee, until he could furnish complete data. Amarillo high school officials maintain that because Mackie lives nearer to LeFors high school than to Pampa he is not eligible to play for Pampa in his first year at the local high school.

In answer to this argument, Supt. Fisher will show that the Hopkins school district contracted with the Pampa independent school district in 1932 to transport about 35 pupils, including Mackie, to Pampa high. In effect, the Hopkins district was attached to the Pampa district for high school purposes as an economy measure. Local fans and school men are joined heartily in this contention by Supt. M. L. H. Baze of the Hopkins schools, who holds that any other interpretation would constitute discrimination against his students.

The other Amarillo contention is that Mackie as a part-time fire department employee "lives" in Pampa. The facts are that he has spent only about one-third of his nights here since school opened and that while here he was working, not "living". Such an interpretation appears very logical to old field folk who often have to live in one place and work in another.

The exact status of Mackie's case had not been established today, since local newspaper records indicated that only one conference game would be lost if he were found ineligible. The protest could therefore end in a tie with Lubbock or, if more games were thrown out, give Lubbock the district title.

FORD AWARD PROTESTED
WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 (AP)—A protest against the award to a local Ford Motor agency of a government contract for Ford trucks has been filed with department of agriculture by Hugh S. Johnson, the NRA administrator.

Johnson contended the dealer, the Northwest Motor company of Bethesda, Md., had quoted a figure below the list price and therefore was in violation of the NRA retail code for automobile dealers.

GEORGE DULL'S HOME ROBBED HERE SUNDAY

Clothing and Other Items of Value Taken—Attempt to Pick Car Lock Fails

The George Dull home in the Cook addition was entered sometime between 4 and 8 o'clock Sunday, police were notified last night. A quantity of clothing, a shaving kit, and other small items were stolen. The burglary was discovered when Mr. and Mrs. Dull returned home soon after 8 o'clock.

Entry was made by tearing the screen over a bedroom window. The police are making an investigation and following clues found.

The handle was taken off Jimmie Wheeler's car while it was parked in front of the First Methodist church last night but the car was locked, and the men failed to pick the lock. The handle was found later by the police.

Three minor automobile accidents were reported to police Saturday night. One person received medical treatment at Pampa hospital but was able to go home after receiving first aid.

Police arrested eight persons on charges of intoxication and one for affray during the week-end.

Use of Proxies By Commissioners Again Criticized

AUSTIN, Nov. 27 (AP)—Objection to the use of proxies in meetings of the Texas relief commission was renewed today by R. L. Holliday of El Paso, commission member, who said he believed they were illegal. The commission met today to discuss the procedure to be followed in matching federal and state relief funds. Carl Estes of Tyler was represented by proxy by Earle Adams; W. A. Brooks Jr. of Dallas by Ed Hussion of Houston and B. E. Gierke of Austin by Robert Real of Kerrville. Adams, Brooks, and Hussion all are members of the commission.

Wounds Will Be Topic for Study

Wounds of all nature will be the subject of discussion at the Red Cross-Boy Scout first aid course in the cafeteria at the red school building tonight. Dr. R. M. Bellamy will be in charge and he will have a surprise for those attending. He has not made public the nature of his surprise.

Harry Walker, technician at Pampa hospital, will discuss infectious diseases during the evening. The full attendance is urged to be present on time because the meeting is of great importance.

County Residents Are Here to Urge Road Construction

A delegation of McLean and LeFors residents arrived this morning to be present when county commissioners consider hard-surfacing the Pampa-McLean road, at a meeting in the courthouse this afternoon.

The commissioners will have before them a proposal from E. A. Baugh, Texas Civil Works projects engineer, to pay costs of constructing the highway, except furnishing caliche and other materials. According to the plan, outlined in a telegram to Mrs. W. H. Davis, county administrator, the C. W. A. would furnish trucks and the only cost to the county would be for materials.

WOMAN IS BURNED

DEMANDS FOR MONEY ADDED TO WARNINGS

ARRESTS NOT MADE ON INDICTMENTS FOR PRODUCING

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 27 (AP)—S. D. Dunter, wealthy oil operator of Shreveport, today told the senate committee investigating the election of Senator John H. Overton (D., La.), that Senator Huey P. Long, who supported Overton, had sent him word that if he did not contribute $5,000 to the Overton campaign and cease his political activities against the Long organization he would be arrested and put in the penitentiary for over-production of gas and oil.

Hunter said he refused to make the contribution and sent back word that he would not support the Long-Overton faction and that after sometime, Senator Long sent word to him that the charges would not be pressed and for him "to forget it."

He said he was first approached by Dr. J. A. Shaw, in charge of the Shreveport office of the state conservation department. Dr. Shaw said he testified that Robert Maestri, a Long-Overton appointee as head of the conservation department, had ordered Hunter to cut down his output 75 per cent.

Cites Discrimination.

"I asked him if it was also applying to other operators," said Hunter, "and he replied 'no.'"

"I then called Senator J. A. Noe, a member of the Long-Overton faction but a personal friend of mine, and asked him to find out what it was all about. Senator Noe went to New Orleans and came back and told me that the state administration was incensed over my activities in politics and wanted them stopped and wanted me to make a $5,000 contribution for the Overton campaign and agree not to support Pike Hall for congress and not to take part in any campaigns in the future."

"I told Senator Noe that I had not decided who I would support in the senatorial campaign, but that I would continue to support Pike Hall for congress and expected to make a small contribution to his campaign."

Senator Regretful.

"Senator Noe said he hated to see me take that position and that the administration would file charges against me for over-production of gas and oil and I would be tried and sent to the state penitentiary."

"Senator Noe also told me that I was charged with 480 violations and that I was under many indictments in Morehouse parish, although I had never been arrested on any of the indictments."

Former Resident Dies In Houston

W. C. Smith of Houston, a former resident of Pampa, died Saturday night in Houston and the body is being brought to Pampa by the Stephenson Mortuary. He left here last June and had been in Houston since that time.

Before moving to Houston, Mr. Smith was connected with the Western Supply company as clerk for nearly five years. No particulars as to cause of death has been received here. Mrs. Smith was in Pampa at the time of death. Mr. Smith's parents live in Fort Worth.

HAND IS REMOVED

Jim Mount, employee of the Phillips Big Gray plant west of LeFors, received a hand injury in a compression explosion yesterday morning which necessitated the removal of the hand above the wrist. He is in Pampa hospital where his condition was satisfactory this morning.

Completion of the work of the Santa day finance committee this week will enable the planning committee of the big event of December 6, 3 p. m., to determine the exact date.

"Other Woman" In Murder Case

A petite auburn-haired clerk in a Chicago department store, Miss Priscilla Witt, was revealed as the "other woman" in the weird Wynekoop murder case. Earle Wynekoop admitted that he was with her the evening before his wife's body was found in the basement surgery of his mother's home. Miss Witt, 23, is shown above as she told police, "Earle and I were sweethearts. I didn't know he was married."

Finance Canvass for Big Day in His Honor Here to Be Finished This Week

As dry leaves that before the wild hurricane fly, When they meet with an obstacle, mount to the sky. So, up to the house-top the courtesies they flew, With the sleigh full of toys—and St. Nicholas, too.

POINT BARROW, Alaska, Nov. 27.—Old Santa Claus is safe! The jolly old fellow, very tired but still full of good cheer, came in early today, running behind his tiny sleigh.

And on that little sleigh lay Vixen, one of his eight little reindeer. Vixen slipped on the ice while trying to pull back on the harness so he wouldn't have to work much at drawing the sleigh. Before he knew it almost one foot was in a crack in the ice and his leg snapped—just like that!

Santa Claus' eyes popped with anger for a minute, but seeing Vixen's agony he took him out of the harness, wrapped up his leg, and placed him on the sleigh. Santa couldn't ride any more and had to move slowly. That's what made him late in arriving here.

"But I'll be away toward Pampa tomorrow morning very early," he said as he patted several children on their heads and went to his room in a hotel to get some much needed sleep.

Mrs. Edna Yearly returned from Elated, Kan., where she has been ill. She has recovered and is able to be back in her beauty shop.

"Cabbage Theater" Tonight

Clubs to Have Skits Offering Many Laughs—Article of Food for Admittance

At least a dozen city clubs will offer humorous skits at the city hall auditorium this evening when the Little Theater presents a "cabbage theater" for the benefit of the school cafeteria. The price of admission will be staple groceries, canned or otherwise.

It was originally intended to give the proceeds to Mrs. W. H. Davis to provide Thanksgiving dinners for the city's destitute, but the C. W. A. projects left so few on the relief rolls, the clubs participating in the entertainment and the Little Theater decided that the school cafeteria needed the groceries.

The acts will last one and one-half hours and the curtain will rise promptly at 8 o'clock. A contribution of food will admit a spectator.

AUSTIN, Nov. 27 (AP)—Harold L. Ikes, United States petroleum administrator, today telegraphed Ernest O. Thompson, member of the Texas railroad commission, that he would have a representative here tomorrow to attend this state's hearing of oil operators with reference to fixing the allowances for the various fields.

DAKAR, Senegal, Nov. 27 (AP)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh arrived at Porto Praia, Cape Verde Islands, at 3 p. m. G. M. T. (10 a. m. E. S. T.), today on their flight from Villa Cisneros, on the northwest coast of Africa. The distance was about 800 miles.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 (AP)—Senate investigators received evidence today that the Chase National bank lent $6,000,000 in 1930 to General Theaters Equipment, Inc., for market operations in Fox Film stock, designed to strengthen the market preliminary to large refinancing operations.

CHICAGO, Nov. 27 (AP)—Dr. Alcee L. Wynekoop, through her attorney, today repudiated her confession that she shot her daughter-in-law after chloroform had made the girl senseless. "The words were put into my mouth by those police," Attorney Frank Tyrrell quoted the 62-year-old woman after a conference with her.

Mrs. Edna Yearly returned from Elated, Kan., where she has been ill. She has recovered and is able to be back in her beauty shop.

CHEERING CROWD SEES BAND GO THROUGH TEAR GAS CLOUD AT JAIL PRIOR TO HANGING

BODY OF BROOKE HART, THEIR VICTIM, IS FOUND IN BAY—GOVERNOR REFUSES TO SEND NATIONAL GUARD

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 27 (AP)—Governor Rolph said today the lynching in San Jose last night of Thomas Thurmond and John M. Holmes, confessed kidnapers and slayers of Brooke Hart, should result in fewer kidnappings throughout the country, and that he would pardon any one arrested for the lynchings.

SAN JOSE, Calif., Nov. 27 (AP)—Thomas H. Thurmond and John M. Holmes, confessed kidnaper-slayers of Brooke Hart, were lynched here last night by a mob of 100 men who smashed their way into the county jail after a 2-hour battle to seize the pair.

A whooping, cheering crowd estimated at 6,000 persons looked on.

Thurmond, first to confess, was unconscious when dragged to St. James park, 100 yards from the jail, partially stripped and hanged to a tree.

Holmes, a powerful man, fought for his life in vain. Twice he wrenched his hands free and lifted the noose from his head, but the third time it was put there to stay and, still kicking, he was yanked into the air.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27 (AP)—Passage of a federal anti-lynching law as soon as congress convenes was urged today by United States Senator Hamilton F. Kean of New Jersey, in a statement issued in connection with the San Jose lynching of Brooke Hart's abductors.

"Law and order must not be replaced by mob violence," Senator Kean said.

In the glare of torches and flashlights the bodies jangled for half an hour or so—a macabre picture for the thousands who had assembled swiftly after the news of the lynching movement had spread through the city. Then the lifeless forms were cut down and there was no further attempt to interfere with officers.

Thurmond's body had been slightly burned by flames from blazing newspapers held up by the mob as torches during the hanging.

Hart's Body Found.

The lynching, occurring only a few hours after the torn body of young son of a wealthy San Jose merchant, had been taken from San Francisco bay, climaxed a spectacular battle between officers barricaded in the jail and the determined mob.

Sheriff William J. Emig, whose quick action had resulted in the arrest of Thurmond while making a ransom demand by telephone to the Hart home a week after the young victim had been put to death, was knocked senseless. Other officers were manhandled and brushed aside.

Posse Arrests Sooner Gunmen

BARTLESVILLE, Okla., Nov. 27 (AP)—A posse of seven Muskogee and Bartlesville officers surrounded a lonely cabin hideout in the Osage hills, 8 miles southwest of Bartlesville, at dawn today and arrested Jim Benge, 40, Cookson hills outlaw. Benge is a suspect in the murder of a woman on Bragg mountain, near Muskogee, in an attempt to hold up a bank robbery at Henryetta. Officers said he was a member of the Cookson hill gang which shot it out with a posse of officers some months ago. Four officers were killed.

The outlaw was taken to Muskogee immediately after his arrest. He offered no resistance when apprehended and told officers, "I know when I'm bested."

DEPUTY TELLS HOW LYNCHERS TOOK VICTIMS

Tear Gas Bombs Exhausted as Angry Men Overpower Jailers, Take Keys

SAN JOSE, Calif., Nov. 27 (AP)—Here is the story of Deputy Sheriff John Moore on the lynching of John M. Holmes and Thomas H. Thurmond, confessed kidnappers of Brooke Hart.

"The inside of the county jail was fogged with tear gas when the mob rushed in behind the baiting ram."

"I was standing on the stairs, inside the steel mesh door. With Deputy Sheriff Earl Hamilton and Howard Buffington. We had only a few gas bombs left and we knew they had us."

"The mob brushed past us to Holmes' cell on the second floor, and four men stood me against the wall, searched me and took my keys. They went in for Holmes, who was hiding in the lavatory of his cell."

"He came out crying 'I'm not Holmes, I'm not Holmes,' but one of the lynchers rushed up and grabbed him by the neck and told him to shut up. Another fellow cracked him in the jaw."

"Holmes went down and when he got to his feet another man hit him, and another, until he lay sprawled at their feet, unconscious."

Beaten With Fists.

"They pulled him to his feet and stood him against the wall, still unconscious, while others kept hitting him in the face with their fists. They finally put a rope around his neck and dragged him head first down the steps."

"Then they went upon the third floor and found Thurmond hanging by his hands to the iron grating of a high window inside the lavatory, where he thought they wouldn't see him."

"He didn't try to deny his identity but he came out sniveling and his face was very white. I have

INFLATION CLOUDS VEIL MOUNTAIN OF DEBT

Statements and arguments about the government's monetary policy are arising to heaven these days like a drifting fog about a mountain peak; and the peak which they veil—if you care to continue this metaphor—is that enormous mass of debts which we ran up back in the boom days.

That pile of debts, in other words, is, after all, the central fact in the whole matter. The long series of claims and counterclaims about the ins and outs of inflation, managed currencies and the like simply hangs over it, sometimes revealing it and sometimes obscuring it.

Up to a certain point the thing is fairly simple. Back in the boom times, when something that looked very much like money grew on every bush, we went deeply into debt. Farmers went into debt business houses went into debt, industrial concerns went into debt. A flood of paper covered the land, like a lava flow from a volcano.

This flood eventually congealed to form the mountain mentioned above. Meanwhile, money became scarcer. It ceased to grow on bushes; for a lot of people it ceased to grow at all. We found it necessary to conduct our business and personal affairs with fewer dollars than we had had before.

But the mountain of debt remained unchanged. It stands today, its crags gloomy and bleak, with chill blizzards, swirling about them. And in one way, or another we must whittle that mountain down to its size before we can stand up on our hind legs again.

What is being attempted at Washington today may look altogether too much like an effort to move mountains by faith alone to suit practical men. But the job has to be done, and if we disapprove of the way that is being tried, it is up to us to suggest another way.

Suppose we do not like the idea of reducing the mass of debt by monkeying with the currency. What do we want? A general scaling down of all fixed charges, from freight rates to utilities rates, coupled with a straight horizontal slash in all mortgages, all bonds, and all commercial loans? Now is the time for us to speak up.

For the load of debts is simply too great to be borne. It is easy to find good reasons for disapproving the way in which Washington is trying to reduce it; but in listing those reasons we are bound to suggest some other way of accomplishing the same end. And it seems reasonable to insist that the "other way" has to be one that the people would tolerate.

MARKET BRIEFS

STOCKS HEAVY

NEW YORK, Nov. 27. (AP)—Stocks rallied to work up an enthusiasm today as the domestic gold price was again unchanged, the dollar continued to move substantially higher in foreign exchange dealings and a number of highly untraded issues displayed a highly untended tone. Losses of 1 to 2 points predominated. The close was heavy. Transfers approximated 1,700,000 shares.

GOLD PRICE REMAINS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27. (AP)—On the return of Acting Secretary Morgenthau from his Warm Springs conference with President Roosevelt, the administration today held the gold price for the sixth day at $33.75 an ounce—well above the London figure.

On the basis of sterling opening at $5.24 to the pound, the London price was $32.83.

GRAINS ARE WEAKER

CHICAGO, Nov. 27. (AP)—Grain prices underwent decided new setbacks early today. In the main, selling with associated with absence of any official statement regarding the Washington administration's future financial policy. Opening unchanged to 1 1/2 lower, wheat afterward declined all around. Corn traded 1/4-1/2 off, and subsequently receded further.

COTTON IS EASY

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 27. (AP)—Cotton had an easier opening today. While Liverpool was about as due, sterling was weak. There was no change in gold. Trading which appeared to have shifted entirely to later months, was only moderate and first trades showed losses of 3 to 7 points.

The downward trend of sterling, rather indifferent stocks and lack of buying support caused prices to ease further after the start, March trading down to 9.93 and July to 10.23, or 11 points under Saturday's close.

never seen human being look so terrified as Holmes and Thurmond. "Don't String Me Up!" "Thurmond kept repeating 'don't string me up.' For God's sake don't string me up. And they hit him as they did Holmes and dragged him down the steps with a rope around his neck.

"They took both men across the street, threw the rope ends over tree limbs and jerked them roughly off their feet to die.

"There were women and children in the crowd and they saw what was going on in the park. Some of the children were babies in their mothers' arms.

"I heard a number of women laugh, even after it was all over, and say it was a good thing. 'That mob seemed to be insane. The tear gas never faded them. They came through it with eyes streaming and snorting but determined to get those men and lynch them—that was all that mob cared about.'

LYNCHING

The mob demanded Antone Serpa, recently convicted of manslaughter in the slaying of Leonard Ramonda, a ranch foreman, but deputy sheriffs persuaded the group to let Serpa alone and the invaders pressed on.

Not an arrest was made. The only shots that were fired, with the exception of the charges from tear gas guns and bombs, were the two that started the attack on the jail.

Sheriff Emlig, after recovering consciousness, stood by, helpless, until the crowd had weakened its vengeance. Then he went to a hospital for treatment. Howard Buffington, a deputy who was struck from behind while pleading with the mob, and State Highway Patrolman Nick Gladner, also received emergency treatment. Several persons were struck by flying missiles or burned by tear gas.

Earlier in the evening in Sacramento, when Governor James Rolph Jr. was asked if he would call out national guardsmen to reinforce the officers, the chief executive said: "What, call out the troops to protect those two guys? That's the sheriff's job."

Papa Pig Kills Big Bad Bear

TACOMA, Wash., Nov. 27. (AP)—And the little pigs were happy, because pap pig killed the big, bad bear.

Sheriff Jeff Bartell told the bedtime story today and the wasn't kidding—his hog did kill a big black bear, after hours of battling to save the lives of the three little pigs.

His children on the Bartell ranch told him a big bear with two little cubs had come to the pig pen, and was trying to eat the little pigs, and that the big papa pig, a 625-pound boar, was battling the bear hour after hour, and killed it. The claws and teeth of the bear cost the boar an eye, an ear and several gashes.

BAYLOR MAN IS NAMED TO BE ON GROUP

BROTHERHOODS HAVE OPPORTUNITY TO ANSWER

HOUSTON, Nov. 27. (AP)—The board of arbitration appointed to investigate the dispute between the Southern Pacific railroad and the "Big Four" railway brotherhoods is composed of Judge Walter P. Stacy, Raleigh, N. C., Frank P. Douglas, Oklahoma City, and Dr. L. W. Courtney of Waco.

Chairman Samuel Winslow of the United States board of mediation, who announced the membership of the board in telegrams last night to L. B. McDonald, manager of the railroad, and Fred W. Lewis, spokesman for the unions, said the fact-finding board would begin its deliberations here Wednesday.

A mass of data has been assembled by railroad officials and the brotherhoods for submission to the board on numerous issues involved in the dispute, which affected some 3,000 workers.

A strike had been called by the brotherhoods to begin at noon last Saturday but President Roosevelt averted it by ordering the emergency board of arbitration to see what it could do to settle the disagreement. The board has thirty days to work on the case and then submits its report for executive consideration for another thirty days.

It was pointed out that neither side will be required to abide by the recommendations of the board, which will hold open hearings.

Dr. Courtney is an English professor at Baylor university and a student of social and economic matters.

Judge Stacy, chief justice of the supreme court of North Carolina, was named in 1927 to serve as a neutral arbitrator on the board of mediation and later was elected as chairman to settle a wage dispute between the brotherhood of locomotive engineers and several railroads.

Dr. Douglas has been prominent in handling labor disputes in Oklahoma.

Forbidden Valley

—By WILLIAM BYRON MOWERY

Synopsis: On the trail of the Russian international crowd, Igor Karakhan, Curt Tennyson and Paul St. Claire have reached Russian Lake in the Canadian Northwest. They have rescued Sofia Nichols from a drunken half-breed, but Sofia and Curt have quarrelled because Curt has approved the downfall of the Romanoffs. At a poltch on the lake shore Curt plays an old Russian tune, and Sofia sings the words. At least, Curt is sure she is a Russian.

Chapter 14 SONIA APOLOGIZES

Sonia must be a Russian, exiled by the revolution and therefore bitter against it. That was why she had flared out at him when he mildly praised the Romanoffs. Her manners indicated that she had come from a well-to-do family, possibly from the aristocracy.

But what about her brother? Ralph didn't appear Russian, or an alien at all. His name was English and he seemed to be an ordinary Canadian citizen. Of course he could have changed his name, and it was possible that he had lived in the Dominion longer than Sonia; but even so they were vastly different people to be brother and sister.

Altogether there was something odd about the relationship of those two, something that he could not quite fathom.

Old John took the trout from the balsam slab, divided it; and an Indian girl handed the portions around on strips of birtchbark, with a colchian and piece of bacon to each portion. As Curt passed out his cigarettes and chocolate squares, he purposely stopped with Nichols, crouched down, and fell into talk with the entomologist.

"I understand you're not staying at Russian Lake much longer, Ralph."

"No, Mr. Higginbotham here has hired two guides for us and we're leaving tomorrow morning."

"Making a trip into the bush?"

"Yes, up the Lilliar."

A young trapper cut in bluntly: "Nichols, if you try to go into the Klooshees ranges, it'll be just to get shot."

"You may be a scientist, Nichols, but after nothing but harmless bugs, but they won't know you from a human being, and they don't have any more use for you than for any white man. You'll get to the pass all right, but if you go any further you'll float back down a dead log."

"They don't let whites in," old John corroborated. "They'll give a man fair caution, and if a prospector happens to stray inside, they'll take him out peaceably. I'm just meanin' to say they shoot snar' with a person at first, and then if he don't take warnin' they shoot straight."

The city sportsman winked knowingly at Sonia. "Scare talk, Miss Nichols. They've repeated it so much that they've got to believing it themselves. You'll find those Smokies as tame as baby cats."

Now Sonia and Ralph were going into that pot of trouble, with no protection except a pair of guides who would desert at the first real danger. For a city girl and man to venture into territory where experienced bush-lopers stayed strictly out of a very pleasant kind of suicide at that.

At eleven-thirty the first spatter of rain broke up the party. The Indians faded into the darkness; the factor ambled home; the missionary wrapped his black robe about him and left; the young trapper stuck a wolf cub in each jacket pocket and trotted for his tent.

Curt wanted to ask Sonia if he might walk up to Higginbotham's residence with her, where she and Ralph were staying; but he was afraid of getting snubbed. While he waited, Sonia said good-night to Mrs. Hodkins and turned to him.

"I've been wanting to apologize to you, Mr. Ralston." She was really sincere about it—so sincere, in fact, that she would not look him in the eyes but stared at a button on his jacket.

"Why, it was as much my fault as yours," he insisted, as they started up toward the factor's house. "I threw out a big wild statement, and you caught me up on it. But honestly—I was thinking of her javelin sharp words—'I'd hate to ever get into a real quarrel with you.'"

"Am I that bad?"

"Oh, you're positively formidable! To change the subject, there's something I'd like to say, if you won't bite my head off."

"Well, if you don't mind an unsolicited opinion, I believe you and your brother ought to think twice before you start north into Klooshees territory. I don't know anything about the Klooshees myself, but I do know that some of these northern tribes can't be judged by the hands closer in to civilization."

"But we've thought twice already, Mr. Ralston, and we've decided it's worth the risk."

She said it so conclusively that Curt dropped the subject. If he was to stop them, he would have to think up some way more effective than argument.

At the door of the residence they chatted a few moments about the party, and then Sonia bade him good night. Curt turned away reluctantly, looking back once for a glimpse of her as she stood outlined in the shaft of light from the door.

He told himself when the Karakhan hunt was over he was going to look her up, find out who she really was, and try for a better acquaintance. He would be a poor detective if he could not trace Ralph and her.

The rain came on in earnest shortly after he reached camp. A high wind lashed the pines, woke up the lake and tugged at their tent; rain fell in gusty sheets; flash after blinding flash of lightning banged into the timber and rolled bellying across the lake.

Sitting on their sleeping bags, he and Paul waited for the time when they could begin their work. Not long after the storm began, Curt felt a trickle of water on his hat brim. He reached for his torch and looked up. About two feet down from the ridgepole he saw a hole in the canvas. On the opposite wall and at the same height was another hole.

"Look Paul—how'd those get there? No stick would blow clear through both—"

A vivid white flash lit up the tent as plain as day. An instant later—kip-plang!—their nested set of aluminum dishes, lying on a box near the flap-front, suddenly exploded in a dozen directions, as though possessed of some diabolic magic.

In the rolling thunder Curt heard the half-muffled bang of a rifle. He sprang to his feet. "Hell! Somebody's shooting at our tent! It's that breed!"

They grabbed slickers and automatics, and leaped outside. Throwing themselves down behind the firewood, they waited for the next spurt of rifle fire to stab the darkness.

"Watch back in the timber, Paul. I'll watch down toward the fort. He's in one of those directions. He's not out on the lake or around the post anywhere."

A minute lengthened to three, five, Curt had never known it to so hotly as this. He was or to lighter so tremendously. One moment they were blinded by a dazzling glare; in the next the dark dropped like a pall.

"We might as well go back in," Curt suggested finally. "I ought to've taken your advice and left him over on the island. We saved him from a soaking and then got it ourselves."

"Sometime we're going to have a show-down with that slinker. He's going to kill us or we're going to kill him."

It was exactly Curt's own thought. (Copyright, 1933, William B. Mowery)

Curt and Paul go on a strange expedition tomorrow.

The PEOPLES COLUMN

Editor, The NEWS:

So the football fans of district 1 may know why and wherefore came the protests by Pampa and Amarillo, we make this statement:

The undersigned, being football fans living in Pampa, thought it was not right for Mr. Corbett to be permitted to participate in high school athletics against Pampa and other high school teams, after having four years of experience and training, feeling that such experience and training had given him a distinct advantage over other boys who had not had as much training. Pampa lost the services of Dick Sullins and Sammy Turner by reason of this very rule. They are both excellent players.

Without consulting anyone, we investigated the number of years Mr. Corbett participated in athletics and found he had participated in athletics for the years 1929-1930, 1930-1931, 1931-1932 and 1932-1933, representing the two schools of Amarillo. Without divulging this information we brought our findings to Mr. Gene Howe, better known as Tack, and editor of the Amarillo News, and asked him to submit this information to the school board, and if they found it correct, to annul the rule.

They were playing an ineligible player and were withdrawing from the race, just as we understood Temple and Ranger had done. They refused to do this and demanded that a contest be filed by the Pampa school, and we then submitted this information to Supt. Fisher and he complied with the request and filed the contest. Mr. Fisher, Mr. Sone and Coach Mitchell had nothing to do with our investigations and knew nothing of it until completed and turned over to them.

Now the Amarillo protest: Amarillo is protesting the eligibility of Hazel Mackie, who lives on a . . . about fourteen miles south of Pampa, in a common school district, known as the Hopkins school district, the school therein being an unaccredited school. The Hopkins school district, has contracted with the Pampa school district, to take about 35 of its pupils doing high school work, and Hazel Mackie is one of these 35. This boy goes home over week ends, and works on the farm on Saturdays, his mother keeps his clothes and does his laundry. He has stayed at the Pampa hotel, and has only played in Pampa out of the eighty-five nights since school started and the protest is that he does not live at home with his mother on account of these thirty-two nights. Mackie had never played football until this fall, did not play in the Pampa-Amarillo game, and has only played about eight minutes since being a member of the Pampa high school.

If Mackie is not permitted to compete in football, neither he nor any of the other thirty-five children or any children from the Hopkins school attending the Pampa high school, will play in Pampa out of the time, will be permitted to engage in any literary or athletic contest, because the high school at LeFors is nearer to them, as the crow flies, than Pampa. It should be borne in mind that Hazel Mackie had no say in the arrangement made by the Hopkins school district. This arrangement was made in 1932.

Respectfully submitted, Siler Faulkner, Ivy E. Duncan, Jno. V. Cebrowski, Dick Hughes, S. D. Stennis.

Editor, The NEWS:

Your editorial, "About School Curriculum," was one of the best. It is encouraging to note that there are some educators who realize that the present system is not infallible, as the majority of academic minds would have us believe. Supt. Baze is absolutely right in his contention that our present curriculum is behind the times. Truly, we have a static educational system in the midst of a dynamic civilization.

In James Truslow Adam's splendid work, "The Epic of America," will be found, I think, the keenest and most accurate analysis of American education, as well as of our entire civilization, that has ever been made. In the Epilogue of the above mentioned work, he says: "To clear the middle in which our education is at present, we shall obviously have to define our values. Unless we can agree on what the values in life are, we clearly can have no goal in education, and if we have no goal, the discussion of methods is merely futile. Once the frontier stage is past—the acquisition of a bare living and the setting up of a fair economic base—the American dream itself opens all sorts of questions as to values. It is easier to say a better and richer life for all men, but what is better and what is richer?"

In the chapter entitled, "The Age of Dinosaurs," he quotes Woodrow Wilson, who said in 1907, "You know that with all our teaching we train nobody; you know that with all our instructing we educate nobody."

Other parts of this book describe the origin of typical American modes of thought, such as the elevating of money making and "developing the country" to the level of a moral virtue, our mania for a hustling business life that winks at infractions of honesty and fair play, our disregard for any law that interferes with profits; all of which is more or less reflected in our educational system.

We should first decide what we desire as a goal in our system; whether it be the preparing of students for life or for another degree. The present system is a slipshod compromise between the two, the academic minds emphasizing the ancient scholarly subjects, and the modern encouraging utilitarian. Neither one appears enough to com-

Sevier on Duty As Chilean Envoy

SANTIAGO, Chile, Nov. 27. (AP)—Amid traditional pomp, Henry Hume Sevier, new American ambassador, has presented his credentials to President Arturo Alexandri at the presidential palace. Sevier succeeds Williams S. Culbertson.

The ambassador, who is from Corpus Christi, Texas, and his staff rode from the embassy to the palace in magnificent state carriages. Dario Ovalle, chief of Protocol, and the president's aides accompanied him.

Sevier is a man of many virtues, the instilling in the students minds of the "duties" of citizenship. Then, too, the moderns have within their ranks those who regard man as merely a consumer who is to be encouraged to spend all he makes for the glory of mass production and subjection of all to the dictates of business.

As long ago as 1921, when the writer was a high school junior, he began to advocate a liaison between school and life, to question whether the educational system was infallible, to champion the cause of the application of theory. That at least one institution has in a measure realized this need, is seen in Texas Technological college's course in "orientation." This is a step in the right direction, but, only one step.

With education adjusted to our present life, progress will be made in fulfillment of the "American dream," but only if we have a base of moral values. Important as is the application of theory and the proper preparation of students for life, this will be as inadequate as the academic ideal, unless with it we place paramount the teaching and practice of Christianity. The debacle of the mad decade (1920-30) will serve, I believe, to silence those who scoff at moral values.

Respectfully yours, Brownwood Emerson.

NEWEST TEXAS COUNTY WITHOUT CRIME, DEBT, CEMETERY, FARMS, RAILROAD, BUT HAS GOLF COURSE

MENTONE (Loving county.) Nov. 27. (AP)—A county without crime without bonded indebtedness and without a cemetery—that's Loving county, organized two years ago as the newest in Texas.

Born in the depression, the infant has not fed itself on the rich bounty of credit, even though oil fields are located on the edge of the county seat to furnish potential credit for bond issues.

The county built its steel-iron courthouse, 20 by 40, for about $3,000 cash. Its school district owes about $3,000 on its cream stucco school building.

Only one death has occurred in the county since it was organized—a cowboy named Shady Davis who had fallen off a horse in New Mexico died here.

There is not a minister and only one lawyer in the county. There have been 39 lawsuits filed, but no grand jury indictments have been returned since the county began functioning. There are 250 registered voters.

Mentone, the county seat, was founded three years ago by Jim Wheat who bought a 7,000-acre flat tract of land and drilled for oil where geologists said none possibly could exist. Wheat got the oil.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S WORK IS ORGANIZED AT M. E. CHURCH

Revival services at the Church of Christ were attended by crowds that filled the auditorium, and other churches also reported large attendance yesterday at Sunday school and preaching hours.

Organization of young people's activities for the year was accomplished at the Methodist church under the leadership of Mrs. Gaston Foote, wife of the new pastor. A junior congregation was organized for the morning hour, and leagues started their year's work in the evening. Sunday school attendance totaled 532.

Attendance Large.

While revival services conducted by Robert C. Jones of Amarillo in progress at the Church of Christ, the local minister, E. C. McKenzie, filled the evangelist's pulpit at Central Church of Christ, Amarillo.

CLUBS AGITATE FOR CHANGE IN SCHOOL SYSTEM

State Federation Wants Officials Appointed

AUSTIN, Nov. 27. (AP)—The Texas Federation of Women's clubs has renewed its agitation for the appointment, instead of election of the state superintendent of public instruction and county school superintendents.

A resolution endorsing the change was sponsored at the recent federation convention by Miss Annie Webb Elston, now connected with the department of education at the University of Texas. She served several terms as state superintendent and is familiar with conditions in the field of public education.

Politics Injected

Miss Elston said undesirable politics were injected into school administrations because officials were elective and that efficiency of the units was adversely affected through the dismissal of experienced employees. She would have the state board of education select the state superintendent, on the basis of qualifications rather than have the office filled by popular vote on political considerations.

The federation started a movement several years ago to bring about this change. In a few scattered instances, laws were passed to make the county school heads appointive, but the plan was not adopted generally.

Last Race Hot

The race for the state superintendency last year was one of the hottest of a campaign that exceeded the average in voter interest. L. A. Wood of Waco defeated C. N. Shaver of Huntsville by a few thousand votes. Many of the employees working under Shaver as state superintendent were discharged.

The federation passed a resolution barring use of federation titles or facilities in political campaigns and asked candidates for political office who were current or past officers of the organization to request the press to refrain from mentioning the connection.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK HANDLERS STRIKE FOR 1929 PAY SCHEDULE

NRA BOARD TO TAKE STEPS TO SOLVE CRISIS

FARM-SHIPING TO BE HALTED, CLAIMS STRIKERS

CHICAGO, Nov. 27. (P)—With the International Livestock Show opening this week-end, three stockyards labor unions, claiming 5,000 members, voted to go on strike today in an effort to obtain wage increases of about 50 per cent by forcing their employers to return to 1929 schedules. The strike was voted yesterday and was followed by the walkout of 300 stock handlers working on the night shift last night and the posting of pickets.

By midnight between 200 and 300 farm trucks loaded with livestock were waiting to be unloaded and officials of the striking unions said the city's meat packing industry would be tied up eventually.

Meanwhile, the Chicago regional labor board of the NRA took steps to prevent the strike and members said Senator Robert F. Wagner of New York, chairman of the national labor board, had attempted by long distance telephone to prevent the walkout.

They said Senator Wagner had been promised by both packers and union heads that he would negotiate with employees and that the latter would submit their claims to the local board before striking.

The board is headed by Robert Maynard Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, while Dr. John A. Lapp is secretary. Dr. Lapp last night said neither side had as yet submitted grievances.

O. T. Henkle, general manager of the Union Stockyards and Transit company, denied claims by the unions that the strike would tie up the industry because the organizations is composed of stock handlers.

He said the union known as local 517, comprised only about one third of the stock handlers and was formed about four months ago by professional organizers.

RUSSIA HOLDS KEY TO WHEAT PACT IN MEET

World Outlook Is Poor As Conference Opens—Crop Still Too Large

LONDON, Nov. 27. (P)—Russia's determination to play a lone hand in world markets, current distress selling, bumper European crops and the difficulty of getting accurate information on the operation of the new wheat pact were problems tackled with fresh vigor by the world wheat commission today.

At this meeting, Russia was expected to be less obdurate toward the effort to bring her into the gentlemen's agreement for the international control of wheat exports than she was two months ago when the agreement for the year 1933-34 was drawn.

There was no indication, however, that Russia would be ready to give up her demand that her quota of 37,000,000 bushels be doubled.

Wheat export quotas for other leading wheat producers as fixed last summer were Canada, 200,000,000 bushels; Argentina 110,000,000; Australia 105,000,000, and the United States 47,000,000.

Delegates representing the big four wheat growing nations were not worried because the price still is materially below the 63.08 gold cents a bushel figure when importers promise to ease tariffs. The current slump is described as seasonal and aggravated by the selling of Danubian and other crops. They asserted they never have counted on having the barriers lifted for at least a year.

The United States is represented by Ambassador Robert W. Bingham at London and John Van Antwerp.

GAME WITH BORGER BULLDOGS HERE IS CHANGED TO THURSDAY AT 3 P.M.

GROOM TITLE CONTEST WILL BE IMPORTANT

AMARILLO - LUBBOCK GAME TO CLAIM INTEREST

Principal L. L. Sone of Pampa high school announced this morning that the Harvesters' football game with the Borger Bulldogs would be played on Thursday at 3 p. m. instead of Wednesday. The original date was fixed before the protests of Class A players developed.

A class B district champion will be declared Thursday afternoon when the Dumas Demons invade Groom for a title game with the Groom Tigers. Dumas won bi-sectional honors in the north half of the Panhandle district a week ago and then looked on while Groom nosed out LeFors 7 to 6 Friday afternoon.

The game will be one of the outstanding affairs in the Panhandle Thanksgiving day despite the fact that Amarillo is playing Lubbock and Pampa is meeting Borger. All eyes are on the Class B race while the Class A teams in this area are under a fog of protests which will not be settled for several days.

Groom will have to stop a tricky, dangerous passing attack if the team hopes to stop Dumas, while the Demons' job will be to bottle the Groom running attack, led by Black James and L. Kuehler. Both elevens boast great punters and a wealth of substitutes.

Shamrock's Irishmen won the district championship by defeating Hereford 7 to 0 Friday afternoon. The Irishmen will meet the winner of the Groom-Dumas game with the winner going to the South Plains for the final game of the season. There is no state championship in Class B football.

The Class B race in the Panhandle was touched by protests and McLean, the team that was doped to "go the distance," was ruled out. Clarendon, another strong team, followed McLean out of the race. Canadian, the team that won sectional honors in this section, withdrew and LeFors was given the title. In the north section, Dumas contested but won the protest to be the only team in the state other than Greenville to win a protest this year.

No Fights Will Be Offered This Week In Pampa

No fight card will be staged by Promoter B. W. Kelly at the Pampa auditorium this week. Allen Whitlow, flashy little junior lightweight, is to arrive in Pampa this week and train for a fight next week. His opponent has not been named.

Whitlow left here several months ago and since that time has met some of the best lightweights and junior lightweights in the country. He has lost only one decision and that to Cecil Payne, who boxed Tony Canzoneri for the title last year. The referee awarded Whitlow the decision over Payne, but the two judges voted otherwise.

Promoter Kelly has several well known boys in line but has not decided whom he will sign to meet Whitlow. Fans can be assured that a good fighter will be brought to Pampa to meet the favorite. Whitlow will stop in Pampa for two fights before going to Phoenix, Ariz., where he is matched during the Christmas holidays.

"Necrophagus" Wins Spelling Bee For New York Woman

NEW YORK, Nov. 27 (AP)—The erudite of the town stumbled and fumbled among "mnemonics," "oplogramism," "perspicacity" and other assorted tongue-twisters at the annual town hall club spelling bee last night.

But when the last contestant rode an exhausted contestant over the finish line, a private secretary and a school teacher-writer stood victorious amid the shambles of "polyphony," "plagiarism," and "necrophagus" which had earlier dazed a university professor, an editor, a foreign correspondent, and a dozen other hardy dictionary warriors.

Miss Lou Helmut, the teacher, won the first of two spelling sections with a devastating flank attack on "polyphony" and "plagiarism."

Miss Ethel Kelley, the private secretary, administered the coup de grace to "necrophagus."

EASTERN FOOTBALL'S GREAT YEAR CLOSING THIS WEEK IN APPEALING LIST OF CLASSICS

THIRTY BIG GAMES IN TWO-DAY FARE FOR FANDOM

BY HERBERT W. BARKER, Associated Press Sports Writer. NEW YORK, Nov. 27 (AP)—Football virtually winds up its 1933 season this week with perhaps the biggest double-barreled finish in its history.

A program of more than 30 big-time duels, split between Thanksgiving day and Saturday, will polish off a spectacular campaign in fitting style. A few major outfalls will carry their seasons farther into December but it will be "laps" for most after this week.

Developments of the week will definitely settle two of the four sectional championships still undecided and will throw more light on the only remaining major aspirations of Army, Princeton, and Duke, the only remaining major undefeated and untied elevens.

So far five conference races have been decided with Michigan repeating in the Big Ten, Nebraska in the Big Six, and Oklahoma A. & M. in the Missouri Valley. Stanford, the Rose Bowl nominee, and Oregon finished in a tie for the Pacific Coast title, while Duke and the South Carolina have completed their Southern conference seasons without defeat or tie, Duke having won one more game than the Gamecocks.

The situation in the other four groups line up as follows:

East—Army and Princeton the only unbeaten, untied leaders.

Southeastern—Alabama and Louisiana State alone remain to carry on.

Rocky Mountain—Denver and Colorado Aggies survive.

Southwest—Arkansas has clinched the crown but may lose out through the playing of an ineligible player.

In that case, Baylor, Texas Christian, and Texas A. & M. still would have a chance at the title.

Outstanding features of this week's program:

East—Brown and Colgate, Penn and Cornell, Pitt and Carnegie Tech, West Virginia and Washington are the principal Thanksgiving day pairings but most of the excitement will be reserved for Saturday.

When Army plays Notre Dame at Princeton, Texas Tech vs. Baylor, and the same day Boston College and Holy Cross will renew their traditional rivalry while George Washington plays Kansas and Rutgers meets Villanova.

South—Alabama playing Vanderbilt on Thursday, will have a chance to clinch at least a share in the Southeastern title while Louisiana State, the only other contender, must whip Tulane Saturday and Tennessee December 9 to gain rating with the Crimson Tide assuming an Alabama victory over Vanderbilt.

Kentucky and Tennessee, Virginia and North Carolina, Virginia Poly and Virginia Military, and Centenary and Loyola complete the Thanksgiving day card while Auburn and South Carolina, Georgia Tech and Duke, Florida and Maryland, and Mississippi and Mississippi State square off on Saturday.

Far West—Southern California's inter-sectional tussle with Georgia Tech Saturday tops the program with St. Mary's playing Oregon and Washington State meeting U. C. L. A. Thursday.

Middle West—A slim program featured by the Big Six encounter of Kansas and Missouri and Nebraska's inter-sectional bout with Oregon State. Oklahoma and Oklahoma A. & M. get together for their annual battle while Tulsa plays Arkansas.

Southwest—The Texas-Texas A. & M. game on Thursday and the Texas Christian-Southern Methodist and Baylor-Rice duels Saturday all will figure in the championship if Arkansas' claim is declared invalid.

Rocky Mountain—The grand finale comes Thursday with Denver playing Colorado University and the Colorado Aggies facing Utah. Denver and the Aggies, tied one each, are the only unbeaten teams in the conference but Utah can slip into the title by beating the Aggies if Colorado overruns Denver.

Two Conservation Men Badly Hurt

STEPHENVILLE, Nov. 27 (AP)—The condition of Capt. Jim Kendrick of Waco and Jimmy Watson of Blanco, two of the sixteen Civilian Conservation Corps men injured in a truck wreck, remained extremely critical today.

Captain Kendrick's mangled right arm was amputated just above the elbow last night in an effort to halt a grave infection.

Physicians have little hope for the recovery of Watson, whose skull was fractured when the huge truck skidded in loose sand and overturned south of Stephenville last Friday night.

The sixteen victims were en route from their camp at Blanco to play a football game, scheduled for last Saturday, with a team from the Stephenville conservation camp.

Two of the injured men, J. E. Morris, 21, of Mercedes, and W. R. Lohse, 20, New Braunfels, died in a hospital of their injuries.

Tech Prepares For Bo's Team On Thanksgiving

LUBBOCK, Nov. 27—After a four day period of rest following the 13 to 0 victory over the Baylor Bears, the Texas Technological college Matadors began a light practice in preparation for the Thanksgiving game with Bo McMillan's Kansas State Wildcats on the Tech field. It is the first meeting of the teams, but will not require traditional rivalry to make it a football classic and bring ten thousand fans here.

"This will be by far our hardest game," Coach Pete Cawthon stated after his return from Manhattan, Kansas, where he witnessed the defeat of the Oklahoma Sooners at the hands of the Wildcats. "This will be the best football team ever to come to Lubbock. We'll be set for them. They may beat us, but they'll know they've had a battle."

To date the Techsters have lost only one game this year. That was the first game of the season with S. M. U. 14 to 0. Other games, which were all won, are: Dixie University, 33 to 0; Arizona, 7 to 0; Louisiana Poly, 40 to 10; Texas School of Mines, 12 to 0; Haskell Institute, 27 to 0; Simmons, 7 to 0; Baylor, 13 to 0.

The Kansas State game is the last of the season.

Attorney on Trial In Picnic Poisoning

BENTON, Ark., Nov. 27 (AP)—A tragic picnic lunch spread in a woodland setting near here last August at which four members of a family drank fatal draughts of poison, brought Mark H. Shank, 41-year-old attorney of Akron, O., into court today to face trial for murder.

From the surrounding hill farms and the town itself, Sheriff V. A. Rucker had ordered 100 veniremen to report for jury service.

Prosecuting Attorney Millard Halbert planned to ask the death penalty for Shank for the murder of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Colley, also of Akron, and their two sons, Clement, 11, and Clarence, 7.

Too young to testify, though what he could tell is considered of great importance by the prosecution, Clyde Colley, 4-year-old survivor of the picnic tragedy, was expected to attend the sessions with the Malvern family with whom he is living.

JURY IS DISMISSED

COMANCHE, Nov. 27 (AP)—Judge R. B. Cross today dismissed the jury in the trial of A. M. White, accused of murder in the slaying of Pink Melton here last January, after it failed to agree. The judge said the case probably would be called again this term.

Those who intend to make the trip will meet at the chamber of commerce rooms at 7 o'clock and leave from there.

Ward Schools' Game Thrilling To Local Crowd

Pampa football fans are still talking about the football game played Thursday afternoon at Harvester park between the teams of Baker Taber and Sam Houston school, despite the fact that a protest into the eligibility of an Amarillo football player was the chief topic during the contest.

Many future Harvesters were no doubt seen on the field Thursday. Little fellows weighing much less than 100 pounds gave fans a thrill that they will remember when the boys are wearing the green and gold. The little fellows charged, passed, punted, and carried the ball. They had a variety of plays and their execution was good.
