American Fleet Is In Action Against Enemy Forces, Nation Told

President Promises Islands That Their Freedom Will Be Protected By The U. S.

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—President Roosevelt pledged to the war-scourged people of the Philippines today that "their freedom will be redeemed and their independence established and protected."

"The entire resources, in men and material of the United States stand behind that pledge," the president said.

At almost the same time that the short wave radio broadcast the president's personal message to the Filipinos, the Navy issued a statement saying the fleet was intensively engaged against the Japs.

"The fleet is not idle," the Navy said. "The United States Navy is following an intensive and well-planned campaign against the Japanese forces which will result in positive assistance to the defense of the Philippine islands."

Must Consider Distances

In connection with the president's message, Stephen Early, Mr. Roosevelt's secretary, commented that it might take time for ample aid to reach the Philippines on account of the long distances involved and remarked that in a military sense, distances many times are synonymous with time measurements.

In response to a question as to whether Mr. Roosevelt's use of the word "redeem" indicated that the chief executive felt that the islands might be lost temporarily, Early replied, "I shouldn't think so, no."

Japs See Victory

The president arranged a relatively light schedule for the day, making separate appointments with Dr. Alexander Loudon, the Netherlands minister, and Admiral Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the United States fleet.

As Mr. Roosevelt's message was made public, Domei already was anticipating victory. The official Japanese news agency reported

Blood Again Is Spilled On Old Battlegrounds

Luzon Island Rich Goal In Historic Pacific Struggles

(By The United Press)

The battle of the Philippines is a new chapter in an old story—the islands often have been a battleground for east and west since the west discovered them.

Since the days of Magellan, Spaniards, Dutch, Chinese, British, Portuguese, Americans, the Filipinos themselves—and now the Japanese—have warred for the land. Always the prime goal has been the island of Luzon.

Is Rich In Resources

The fight has been for an archipelago almost the size of the British Isles, rich in resources, hot, dotted with volcanoes and ribbed by mile-high mountain ranges.

Manila and its great bay are the key points and have been heavily fortified by all who have held the islands.

Founded in 1572, Manila is on the eastern shore of Manila bay at the mouth of the muddy Pasig river. Only a fraction of the capital's 623,500 inhabitants at the outbreak of the present war were Americans. Automobiles honked through the streets amid carabao carts and horse-drawn two-wheeled carromatas. On the river and Manila bay canoes and native sailing craft formed traffic with tugs and freighters.

Millions For Defenses

Americans poured hundreds of millions of dollars into the city's defenses. A naval station is at Cavite, eight miles southwest of the capital. Another is at Olongapo, 50 miles west. The fortress island of Corregidor stands at the mouth of Manila bay.

Nichols field, one of the chief targets of Japanese bombers, is the site of a great Army air base.

Luzon island is the largest, best fortified and most heavily popu-

Heavier Enemy Blows Threat In Luzon Area

Americans Grimly Battling Against New Jap Attacks

(By The Associated Press)

United States submarines have sunk two more Japanese vessels, one a transport and the other a supply ship, in the Far East, the Navy announced today as a new and possibly menacing phase developed in the grim battle of the Philippines.

The brief naval communique also acknowledged that a United States destroyer had suffered slight damage and minor casualties under enemy air attack but did not identify the vessel or give any other particulars.

Lines Reported Holding

Determined American and Filipino forces were reported in Manila to be holding their lines, even bettering them at one point, against steadily growing Japanese strength in northern Luzon but a war communique in Washington suggested that a deep American withdrawal was in prospect or already had been undertaken.

General MacArthur, it said, had shortened his lines and consolidated most of his troops in Pampanga province to face heavily augmented enemy infantry, cavalry and tank regiments "composed of veteran soldiers with modern equipment."

Fighting Near Manila

Although this meant a new line virtually mid-way between the Gulf of Lingayen and Manila, it indicated an American stand in terrain long envisaged as a battlefield against invasion and the scene of repeated peacetime defense rehearsals.

The northern border of Pampanga is about 55 miles above Manila. The southern border is only 25 miles distance.

War Theater Spreads

Time apparently was becoming a vital factor in the fierce battle of the Philippines as the Japanese, thus far unable to build up a crushing force despite their already overwhelming numbers, poured men ashore and the United States gave the beleaguered islanders hope that help was on the way.

Although the Philippines remained the focus of Japan's campaign in the Pacific, the enemy widened and intensified its offensive in the vast spaces of the Pacific.

In the ring of positions Japan apparently is attempting to draw around Singapore, Britain's prime Far Eastern defense bastion, Japanese were said to have:

Japs Gain On Other Fronts

1. Put parachutists ashore near Medan, on the east coast of the Dutch island of Sumatra, flanking Malaya across the narrow Malacca strait.

2. Captured Ipoh, the communications and tin mining center in Perak, about 20 miles north of Singapore on the Malayan peninsula.

3. Captured Kuching, the capi-

British And Russians Strike Severe Blows

Nations Reveal New Agreement Aimed At "Utter Defeat Of Hitlerite Germany"

(By The Associated Press)

Simultaneous British and Russian blows on Germany from east and west underscored the vulnerability of the Nazis' exposed, far-flung flanks today as Britain and Russia announced a new agreement aimed at "the utter defeat of Hitlerite Germany."

From the east, the Russians kept up their remorseless pressure, shoving the receding German line farther back from the environs of Moscow.

Surprise Is Uncorked

At the same time, on the west, the British uncorked a surprise stab on the German-held Atlantic coast of Norway and again sent their warplanes fanning over German territory from the 'invasion coast" of France to the great shipping ports of the Reich itself.

Chief targets of the RAF were the ports of Emden and Wilhelmshaven and the industrial areas of the Rhineland where, with the help of good weather, a communique said, heavy attacks were made.

Agreement Is Revealed

The announcement of the Allies' agreement came from London and from Moscow where, it was disclosed, British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden has been in consultation with Soviet Premier Joseph Stalin.

The Moscow talks, it was disclosed, dipped into post-war reorganization. They went on simultaneously with those in Washington between Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt. And the four men were said to have kept constantly in touch with each other.

More Than Coincidence

It may have been more than coincidence that while the British

Twelve Flee Prison Farm

(By The Associated Press)

HUNTSVILLE, Dec. 29.—Twelve convicts, several of them serving long terms, escaped today from the Wynne prison farm near Huntsville by sawing bars of a large cell and sliding down sheets.

One of them, Joseph R. Tucker, was captured by a Huntsville citizen whose name was not learned immediately.

Covered With Pistol

Tucker told Capt. R. H. Baughn of Wynne farm that he entered the man's automobile with a drawn knife but the man covered him with a pistol. The man took Tucker into his home and phoned the penitentiary. Tucker is serving life from Harris county for murder and burglary.

All available bloodhounds and guards from the farm and the main prison at Huntsville took up the trail. One group of dogs and guards was rushed to a point five miles east of town where several of the convicts were reported sighted.

The theft of a pickup truck in downtown Huntsville was attributed to the fleeing men.

The men who escaped were:

William E. Carey, Bell county, assault to murder, 20 years.

Lawrence Herrin, Jefferson county, burglary, 3 years.

Willard Scott, Walker county, murder, life.

Robert Deweese, Harris county, theft, two years.

William B. Cummings, Dallas,

Mexican Shot In Affray Here

Charges were being prepared this morning as outgrowth of an early Sunday stabbing and shooting in the Mexican quarter of Lubbock.

Ralph Brock, county attorney, said the state would maintain that Julio Ramos, 27, ran into a cafe operated by Ramon S. Ramirez at 208 Avenue K, burst in a closet door and shot Frank Sosa, another Mexican, through the left shoulder. Sosa was not injured seriously.

Ramos was cut in the left leg and stabbed in the left arm, police said.

Youth Slightly Injured

Juan Garcia, 25, was charged with unlawful carrying of a pistol. The gun that inflicted the injuries to Sosa was believed to have been owned by Garcia, Brock and police said.

The affray happened at 8:50 o'clock, police said, and was "pretty general for awhile."

Police reports said 17-year-old Bob Yokum of Wolfforth was treated for minor lacerations early Sunday after he had stepped in front of an automobile driven by Winton Kyle, who stopped, took the youth to Lubbock sanitarium and paid the emergency bill.

W. R. Alford reported $35 taken from the cash register of his cafe at 815 Broadway. A well-described suspect was being sought.

Private's Lonely Plea Brings Him Everything From A To Z

(By The United Press)

ROCKFORD, Ill., Dec. 29.—Pvt. Joe Everingham, 24, Clearwater, Fla., called himself "the loneliest specimen this side of the Mississippi," in a letter, which he sent to a Chicago newspaper Dec. 24.

"The regularity with which my name is skipped at mail call is getting monotonous," Everingham wrote. "I don't care if it's about the weather, the state of affairs in Blue island, or the price of eggs in Soerabaya. I'd surely appreciate hearing from somebody about something."

In five days he had received:

Hundreds of telegrams and Christmas cards.

About 40 packages containing a pants presser, sewing kit, dictionary, toothbrushes and food.

About 400 letters containing dinner invitations, a list of wealthy widows, pictures of girls and an offer from a grandmother to knit for him.

A new batch of mail was waiting for him at the post office today.

Capt. Colin Kelly, Jr., Rode To Flaming Death Near Home Base With Japs Spitting Fire

(By The Associated Press)

WITH THE U.S. STAFF IN CENTRAL LUZON, Dec. 29.—Field artillery officers of the U. S. Army told this story today of how Capt. Colin P. Kelly, Jr., met his death after bombing and sinking the Japanese battleship Haruna.

Kelly was within two minutes of his home field, his big bomber "sailing along prettily and getting ready to land," when two Japanese fighter planes dove through a bank of low-flying clouds, their cannon and machineguns spitting fire.

Kelly's plane staggered, righted itself and had gone another half-mile when flames suddenly broke out in the motors.

Five members of the crew bailed out and, as they neared the ground, the Japanese dove repeatedly to machine-gun them, but without success.

With the plane shrouded in smoke and flame, Kelly pulled back the stick and "got the nose straight in the air when the ship exploded in a blinding blast."

The explosion blew Lieut. Robbins from the plane. He

Navy Tells Story Of Heroic Wake Defense

400 Marines, With Four Planes And Few Guns, Battled Jap Invaders For 14 Days

(By The United Press)

HONOLULU, Dec. 29 — The Navy described today how 400 United States Marines on Wake Island, with four planes and a few guns, stood off for 14 days a Japanese fleet, more than 200 Japanese planes and a Japanese invasion army.

On the last day, Dec. 22, Japanese warships of all types, their guns blazing, closed in, their troop transports close behind, and Japanese planes swarmed over the island.

Against Great Odds

The two Marine planes remaining went up, the Marine gunners and infantrymen took their posts and the garrison radioed:

"Issue in doubt."

Both Marine planes were shot down after shooting down several Japanese planes. The ground guns grew hot as the Marines fired but the issue was no longer in doubt. The last radio came, that the Japanese had landed troops from several ships and that the transports were starting to move in. Nothing has been heard since but the jubilant Japanese announcements of their victory.

Victory Was Costly

Their victory over a handful of men cost them a cruiser, three destroyers and a submarine disabled or sunk, a transport badly damaged, many planes destroyed and uncounted men killed or wounded.

The first attack was made on Wake island at almost the mo-

Eight Dead In Mine Explosion

(By The United Press)

HARCO, Ill., Dec. 29 — An electric spark was believed today to have caused the "black damp" explosion which killed eight men in an abandoned shaft of the Peabody Coal Co. mine 47.

A crew of 10 had entered the mine at 3 a. m. Sunday to remove machinery from a shaft 400 feet beneath the surface. Because the work appeared dangerous, State Mine Examiner Harold Holden, 30, Harrisburg, was in the group.

Two Escape, Injured

The blast rocked the mine at 3:15 and eight men were trapped and killed behind a rock barrier. Frank Dietz and C. M. Feltz escaped but suffered serious injuries.

Robert Medill, state director of mines and miners, investigated the explosion and reported a spark from an electrical device apparently had ignited "black damp" gas.

Prisoners Are Seized; Ships Are Destroyed

Munitions Stores And Oil Supplies Also Are Blasted

(By The United Press)

LONDON, Dec. 29.—British land, sea and air forces in a dramatic raid on the Norwegian coast, wiped out two German garrisons, destroyed nine ships and valuable installations and captured 95 Germans and nine Norwegian fifth columnists, a communique said today.

British shock troops landed on two islands off the Norwegian coast Saturday under cover of a smoke screen laid down by their planes and a bombardment by airplanes and warships, while long range bombers blasted the nearest German air field, 100 miles away, to prevent the dispatch of rescue planes, it was disclosed.

Landings Are Made

Landings were made on the island of Vaagsoe, a key German convoy base, on the 62nd parallel of latitude, between Bergen and Kristiansund and on the adjacent island of Maaloy.

Oil tanks, ammunition dumps, a wireless station, an industrial plant and a lone German tank were destroyed during the six hours and 10 minutes the shock troops remained ashore.

A joint communique of the admiralty, War office and Air ministry described as a complete success a raid which appeared to be a "full dress rehearsal for the day when Allied forces take the war to the continent of Europe for the knockout blow against Germany."

Air Raids Staged

Following up the raid, in a newly-resumed offensive of its own, the Royal Air Force attacked Germany in force during the night, centering on Wilhelmshaven and Emden naval and submarine bases, Rhineland industrial districts, docks at Dunkirk, France, and German airdromes in Holland. Raids on the German territory targets were on a sharply intensified scale.

Coastal command planes, at the same time, hit two ships off the Netherlands coast and planes of the fighter command, racing across the English channel, bombed and machine-gunned airdromes

Texas Traffic Toll Is Heavy

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Dec. 29—Texas fought a losing war with traffic deaths in 1941.

The 11-months toll of human lives taken in street and road accidents, 1,739, is dangerously close to last year's complete list of 1,757 and December's gloomy, incomplete record indicates approximately 1,940 fatalities for the current year.

Second To 1937

This would be second only to grisly 1937's all-time record of 2,043.

The trend shows an 11 per cent increase over 1940.

The reasons are many—but they are not new.

In the first place travel increased 11 to 12 per cent.

This means all the normal hazards of driving, most of them created by the driver either wittingly or otherwise, worked longer hours and took a bigger toll.

There was more traffic on highways and byways. Lots of it was military traffic, an observation pretty well borne out by the fact that 10 per cent of this years accidents involved military personnel.

Usual Elements Present

Drunken driving, excessive speed, driving fatigue, pedestrians, unsound automobiles — all the usual elements whose field was widened because of increased travel—played stellar roles in 1941's traffic carnage.

Highway fatalities jumped 19 per cent over last year. City street deaths were up 9 per cent. Small towns substantially were unchanged. County road deaths were down 10 per cent, due only to the fact that 29 lives were lost in a single accident on a secondary road last year.

Big cities continued to show heavy loss of life.

High accident areas spotted the state's road map.

"Second Sergeant York" Helps Hold Off Philippine Invaders

(By The United Press)

MANILA, Dec. 29—Stories of heroic fighting against the first shock of Japanese invasion at Lingayen gulf were told today by eye-witnesses who described how an American lieutenant led the defense of a bridge with a .30 calibre rifle and how his captain went to his aid with a blast of hand grenades.

Soldiers were talking about the man at the bridge, Lieut. William Porter, as a "second Sergeant York."

Lieut. Thomas W. Spickerd of Princeton, Ky., one of the American commanders of the outfit, said "the enemy filtered between the regimental command post and our positions, cutting off our train as well as our withdrawal route to the division.

"Forced to take to the hills and make for the road to Baguio, Spickerd said, the company made an orderly withdrawal which was possible only by a "valiant" stand at the bridge by Lieut. Porter of Las Cruces, New Mexico, and

Week End Marriages Of South Plains Couples Are Announced Here Today

Church Scene Of Wedding

Before an altar decked with fern and white gladioli in St. Paul's Methodist church in Abilene, Miss Helen Swafford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Swafford of that city, became the bride of Charles H. Smith, jr., only son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Smith of 2209 Tenth street, in a service read Saturday night. Rev. J. O. Haymes, pastor, officiated with a single ring ceremony.

Tall tapers in pedestal candelabra lighted the scene.

Miss Aileen Hardin played the wedding marches and accompanied Mrs. H. A. Porter of Terrell as she sang "I Love You Truly."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a two-piece ensemble in pastel blue with black accessories and carried a white Bible with orchid, ribbon and lace fern corsage. "Something old" was a handkerchief and for "something borrowed" she wore a ring belonging to a friend.

Mrs. John H. Wilson of Roswell, N. M., sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor and Ted Boucher of Houston attended his cousin as best man.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents.

Out-of-town guests were the bridegroom's parents: Mr and Mrs. G. E. McCants and son, Ed, and Mrs. J. B. Boucher of Dallas; Mrs. Frances Smith of Denton, grandmother of the bridegroom and Daniel Steen.

The couple is on a short wedding trip and will be at home in Lubbock. Mr. Smith, a former Tech student, is a graduate of Lubbock High school. He is in agricultural work in Bailey and Hockley counties.

The bride was also graduated from Lubbock High school.

Loretta Ellis Is Wed To Jake Snodgrass

Miss Loretta Ellis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Ellis of Lamesa, and Jake Snodgrass, son of Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Snodgrass of Lubbock, were married Saturday afternoon in a double ring ceremony read at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Griffin, 1914 Fifteenth street, by J. D. Thomas, Church of Christ elder.

The bride wore a white wool jersey dress with matching hat, navy accessories and a corsage of white rosebuds. She wore a sapphire blue necklace for "something blue"; a ring for "something old" and carried a handkerchief for "something borrowed."

Mrs. E. D. Bowen, matron of honor, wore a brown wool dress and a corsage of pink rosebuds.

When the couple left for California to spend a honeymoon the bride wore a gray-plaid wool suit with gray blouse and black accessories.

Juanita Corley Marries W. E. Jaynes; Live Here

Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Corley of Wolfforth are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Miss Juanita Corley, to W. E. Jaynes, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Jaynes of 1627 Ninth street, which took place Dec. 20 in the home of Rev. Mr. McFarland, officiating minister.

A candlelight service was read before an altar banked with Christmas greenery.

Miss Genelle Corley attended her sister as maid of honor and E. T. Watson served as best man.

Miss Wanda Schwartz and Gene Gatlin were other guests.

The bride wore a navy blue dress with harmonizing accessories. She is a graduate of Texas Technological college. Mr. Jaynes is a former Tech student and is assistant manager of Thom McAnn store.

Unita Beaty Is Married To Ludwig Rieken

Miss Unita Beaty, daughter of Mrs. W. C. Beaty of Monroe, and Ludwig Rieken, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Rieken of Monroe, were married Saturday night at 7 o'clock in the home of Rev. W. G. Loesel, pastor of the Redeemer Lutheran church.

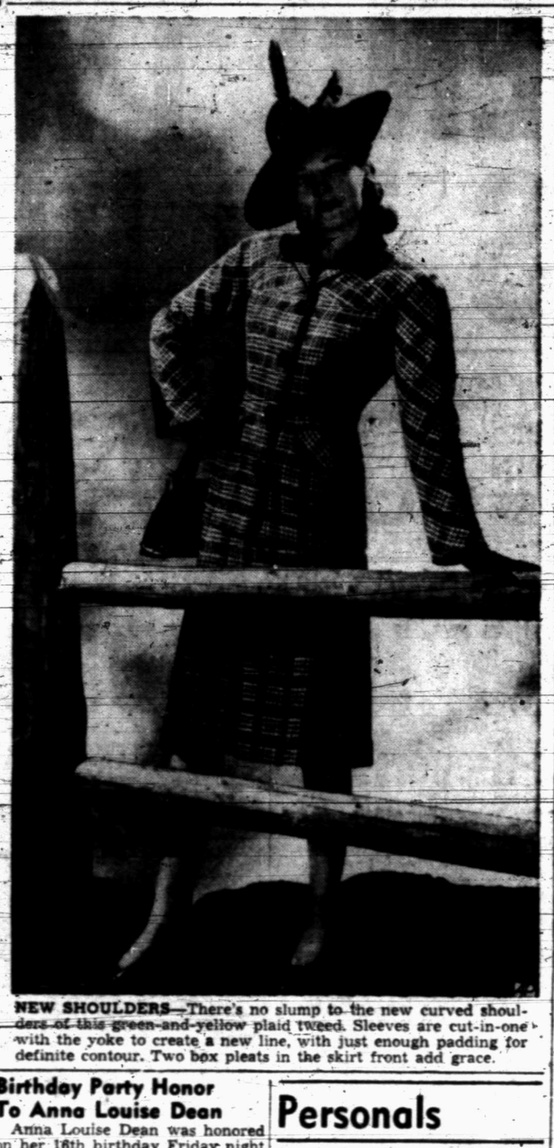

The bride wore a navy blue costume trimmed in white and black and white accessories. Her corsage was of gardenias.

She is a former student at Texas Technological college.

Guests for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Tony Rieken, Miss Madine Beaty, Aubrey Baker, Miss Edna Beaty, W. G. Walkup and Jack Beaty.

The couple is at home near Monroe.

Texas mules are carrying the equipment of a mountain battery in Burma.

NEW SHOULDERS—There's no slump to the new curved shoulders of this green-and-yellow plaid tweed. Sleeves are cut-in-one with the yoke to create a new line, with just enough padding for definite contour. Two box pleats in the skirt front add grace.

Birthday Party Honor To Anna Louise Dean

Anna Louise Dean was honored on her 16th birthday Friday night when a group of friends called at her home as a surprise.

Information Sought On Vehicles Here

Confidential information needed in planning for national defense was asked this morning of Lubbock county owners of trucks, truck-tractors, trailers and semi-trailer types of automotive vehicles.

County Judge G. V. Pardue was asked by the highway traffic advisory committee to advise owners of such vehicles to fill out cards that may be obtained in Judge Pardue's office, showing what kinds of vehicles they own and whether they would voluntarily hire or lease those vehicles to the government if such a move became logical.

Complete information is asked: age of the vehicle, mileage it has been operated, type of body on it, horsepower, manufacturer's rated capacity in tons, cubic capacity of bed, fuel tank capacity in gallons, type of fuel engine burns, number of tires, number of wheels driven, months when most needed by owner, months when least needed by owner, number of other vehicles owner has, and details of the business for which the vehicle presently is being operated.

Judge Pardue asked that all freight lines, wholesalers and others who operate trucks obtain blanks, fill them out and return them to him.

The cards will become confidential information to be filed with the War department.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. George Green have returned to their home in Wichita Falls after visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Green, 1917 Seventh street, during the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Barney Cockburn are visiting relatives in Oklahoma.

Mesdames Gladys Stokes of Lamesa, L. S. Mast, Leland Mast and W. O. Stevens spent the week end in Santa Fe and went to Madrid to see the Christmas lights.

We The Women

BY RUTH MILLETT

Every young, inexperienced wife ought to make it a point to get to know really well the most successful older woman of her community or social group.

The young wife will count as successful the woman who has already accomplished the things she wants to accomplish herself—and who is the kind of person she would like to become.

By studying an older woman who has made good at the job of being a woman, wife, and mother the younger woman can learn a lot.

As she gets to know her better, she will realize that the capable, poised woman of fifty who seems to take life in her stride and to be afraid of nothing was once as young and inexperienced as she.

With that realization the young wife is apt to become less jittery about her own efforts to make a comfortable home for her husband, take good care of her children, and make a place for her family socially.

TRICKS OF SIMPLIFICATION

Studying the older woman, the younger one will also pick up many tricks to simplify her life.

For instance, she'll probably see that the reason Mrs. Older Woman entertains so effortlessly — apparently — is because she begins her preparations for a party several days in advance, and leaves nothing to the last moment that can be done sooner.

She'll also see that the reason Mrs. O. W. always seems so at ease is that she has learned how foolish it is to try to present a perfect front to the world. She offers her friends, old and new alike, the best that she has to offer — and trusts them to appreciate it, without criticism.

She may even learn that the older woman's marriage, which seems such a happy one, has had its ups and downs, and that it worked out well because the woman was determined that it should.

"SWAP" FOR OLD AND YOUNG

There is no end to the things a young, inexperienced wife and mother can learn from an older woman who had enough sense, judgment, and kindliness to lick her troubles as they come along.

And the younger woman won't be taking all — and giving nothing in return. For as women grow older they value the friendship of the young. It helps to keep them young themselves. So what the eager young woman and the successful older one have to offer each other is about an even swap.

Try Fitting Your Figure To War Work

BY BETTY CLARKE
Associated Press Feature Service

You can fit your figure to war work by perfecting posture and by a daily strengthening system for the three parts of your body most apt to benefit when you take quicker action and do heavier lifting than you've been used to.

That's advice from Catharine Van Renneselaer, contour corner director in charge of the physical fitness program for the New York area of the American Women's Voluntary Services.

Here are three things she recommends for home routine:

1. For better balance—stretch the thighs with a high scissors kick.

2. For flat front—bicycle on your side at high speed.

3. For the back—bend the head, and spring the back.

Pork To Be Plentiful In Texas During 1942, Market Survey Reveals

AUSTIN, Dec. 29 (U.P.) — Pork will be plentiful in Texas in 1942 to judge from the pig crop report issued here today by the Federal Agricultural Marketing service.

More sows were farrowed in the state this fall than had been indicated by breeding intention reports gathered last summer, V. C. Childs, principal agricultural statistician, reported.

The number now is estimated at 207,000 compared with 167,000 for the preceding fall.

This was the first time noted in records going back to 1924 that the fall farrowing exceeded that of spring. The fall record, however, was still below that of the fall of 1939.

The number of pigs saved from fall farrowing this year was 1,242,000 compared with 1,002,000 a year before.

Childs reported that if 1942 spring farrowing intentions are realized there will be an increase of 47 per cent above the spring of 1941, and the high record made in the spring of 1939 will be exceeded by 12 per cent.

Japan's Attack While Talking Peace Tops Year's 10 Best Stories

War, Defense Take First Nine; Daffy Dodgers In Tenth Spot

BY CHARLES HONCE
Associated Press News Editor

The United States is at war with Germany, Japan and Italy.

That is the thunderous fact for 133,000,000 Americans as 1941 ends in a rage of conflict on every continent and the Seven seas.

The battle lines now are tightly drawn for the first genuine World war in history. The sides have been chosen. The issues are clear-cut.

It is Germany, Japan and Italy, and a handful of puppets against virtually all the rest of the world.

Of the sundry war declarations against Uncle Sam, that of Germany, potentially, if not immediately, will have the broadest effects, but it came almost as an anti-climax to a spectacular Japanese assault.

1. JAPS TALK PEACE—START WAR

"Remember Pearl Harbor" is America's bitter battle cry in a grimly avenging war against Nippon. A fateful and severely punishing bomber attack on this Hawaiian stronghold came without warning on the quiet Sunday of Dec. 7 at the very moment two Japanese envoys were conferring with Secretary Hull about peace, and on the heels of President Roosevelt's direct appeal to "the Sons of Heaven."

As Congress declared war the whole country pitched tight-lipped into the stern task ahead, for which every able-bodied man and woman in the country will be called to the colors.

2. A WORLD WAR OPENS

"The shooting has started," President Roosevelt declared on Oct. 27 soon after the U. S. destroyers Greer and Kearny had been attacked by German subs and just four days before the Reuben James went down with 100 American sailors.

This undeclared war, marked by American occupation of Iceland, the use of convoys, and the President's warning that Axis ships would be attacked on sight, became official Dec. 11 when Italy and Germany followed Japanese action.

The U. S., with Latin America signing up for the duration, accepted the challenge in record time. Fifty declarations at the year's end put 90 percent of the world at war.

3. RUSSIA STEMS NAZIS

When Nazi Germany suddenly turned on Soviet Russia on June 22, many believed it would be over in a few weeks. They had forgotten that the USSR had been preparing for 20 years and had guarded secrets well. Germany conquered vast territories, but not the Russian spirit.

After 25 weeks of titanic struggle, the Nazis cryptically called it quits for the winter, but not the Russians. Stalin launched a savage attack all along the line to bring the first stunning reverse to German might.

4. LEND-LEASE HEARTENS ENGLAND

A momentous early highlight of American action against the dictators was the signing of the lend-lease bill by which billions of dollars for the sinews of war were promised to those opposing Germany.

This event, on March 11, was of vital moment because it helped tide England morally and physically through one of her darkest hours when she had no place else to turn. And almost certainly it was one of the factors that impelled Hitler to his costly Russian adventure.

5. FIGHTING BILLIONS MOBILIZED

America went all-out for preparedness (and now, war) as Roosevelt early in the year proclaimed an unlimited national emergency. By December the cash and contractual authority provided for defense and the lend-lease program reached 70 billions. Today, a "Victory program" has been mapped calling for an additional 150 billions.

All American pocketbooks were hit and taxes sky-rocketed, but the material of war came pouring down assembly lines.

6. THE ATLANTIC CHARTER

Through 10 days in early August the world speculated on the whereabouts of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill. When the mists cleared, it turned out that they had met at sea and formulated an eight-point declaration of general principles and post-war aims as a basis "for a better future for the world," and encompassing the "four freedoms."

7. SIX DREADNAUGHTS SUNK

Six capital ships were sunk in 1941. Probably the most spectacular (if not the most important) battle was that of the Hood, England's mightiest warship, and Germany's Bismarck.

The Bismarck sunk the Hood by shell-fire and three days later went down herself under torpedo, shell and bomb attack after the shortest career of any capital ship.

Later two more British sea aces—the Prince of Wales and the Repulse—succumbed to Japanese air torpedoes and bombs, and an American battleship suffered the same fate in Pearl Harbor. It remained for the U. S. to sink a Japanese battlewagon, apparently by bombs alone.

8. THE MYSTERY OF RUDOLPH HESS

On a soft spring day in May, when news momentarily was at a premium, Rudolph Hess, Hitler's close friend and No. 3 Nazi, dropped out of Scottish skies to provide the world with a first-class mystery—still publicly unsolved.

Some speculated that he fled a Nazi purge; others that he brought a peace proposal. Stalin said he tried to line up Britain for war on Russia.

9. ARMY ACTS IN DEFENSE STRIKES

Defense production felt the hampering effect of labor strife, which reached a climax with John L. Lewis's challenge in the captive mine walkout.

As early as June 9 the Army took over the great strike-bound North American Aviation works at Inglewood, Calif., and stepped in elsewhere when mediation failed. Then the Japanese war brought labor peace.

10. BROOKLYN WINS A PENNANT

Anything can happen in Brooklyn, it has been said. Just the same it took "them bums" 21 years to win a National league pennant, but in clinching it New York's largest borough almost reached the psychopathic ward stage.

When Dodger Catcher Mickey Owen dropped that third strike, even Brooklyn had to rub its eyes to be sure that it happened there. It did happen and the American league Yankees won the World series.

Private Matthews' home town friends sent him a total of 22 boxes of assorted sweets for Christmas.

The boys in the barracks, he said, were very glad to help him reduce the surplus.

Rubber Tires Made From Ohio Dandelions May Be Put In Use Two Years From Now To Keep America's War Machine Rolling

BY WILLIAM STRINGER
United Press Staff Writer

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 29 — America's war machine may be rolling along two years from now on rubber tires made from Ohio-grown dandelions.

The National Farm Chemurgic council announced today that it had discovered a rubber-bearing dandelion, known as kok-sagyz, which will produce synthetic rubber at approximately one-third less than the present cost of making synthetics.

Found Only In Russia

"The plant, found so far only in Russia, may turn out to be a gigantic industry for the midwest," said Dr. Paul J. Kolachov, director of research and development for Joseph E. Seagram & sons, inc., Louisville, Ky. "It is readily acclaimed and could be grown easily in the climate of the midwestern states."

Dr. Kolachov said that the plant requires a highly fertile soil and heavy rainfall. In Russia the Soviet government has more than 175,000 acres of kok-sagyz under cultivation, rainfall averages approximately 20 inches a year, he added.

"In Ohio, of course, we would not be bothered by the rainfall problem because the average annually is well over 30 inches," Dr. Kolachov said.

The chemurgic council said that there have been no exports of the kok-sagyz from Russia and that no seed are available yet outside Russia.

Dr. Kolachov said the kok-sagyz plant would be "much more practicable" as a basic ingredient for synthetic rubber than guayule, milkweed or any of the other plants on which experiments have been made.

He said rubber made from guayule and milkweed does not have the wiry, yet elastic, quality that kok-sagyz rubber has.

The chemurgic council announced that if kok-sagyz seed were planted within the next few months the United States would have its first crop of "dandelion rubber" within a year. The first year's yield would be "fair," it was said, but at the end of two years the yield would be "excellent."

BANKS CAUGHT SHORT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 (AP) — The war time rush to buy defense bonds caught many banks short on supplies, a Treasury spokesman said today, but shipments are rapidly making up the deficiencies.

Defense bonds are being turned out on a 24-hour basis at the bureau of engraving, and stocks in Washington are regarded as ample to meet the nation's demand.

THANK YOU!
YOUR THOUGHTFULNESS HELPED A LOT

Thanks to your patience and co-operation, we Southwestern Bell operators handled more than half a million long distance calls on Christmas Eve and Christmas Day.

As we feared, many of the longer calls were delayed. Ever since our country became involved in this World War, we have handled thousands of messages vital to defense. These, plus the bigger volume of Christmas calls, caused delays in some cases of as long as several hours.

We are grateful for your patience. In these critical days we are doing our best to serve the nation ... and you.

A NEW SERVICE TO HELP KEEP THE OLD CAR ROLLING

Repairs and Accessories on Convenient Payments

We might as well face facts. To facilitate war production, you're going to have to make your present car last and last and last . . . The national welfare requires that existing automobile transportation be maintained at the highest efficiency possible without interfering with the war effort.

In order to help you keep your car in good order; to help you maintain its even operation—General Motors dealers who utilize the GMAC services, are now equipped to offer you a special plan whereby you can finance repairs on your car—whatever the make or the model—and pay for them on regular, convenient monthly payments.

Bring your car now to your General Motors dealer. He will give you an estimate on necessary repair and maintenance costs, and he is in a position to finance the complete job for you through General Motors Acceptance Corporation.

There are GMAC financing services ready for almost any car financing problems you may have—either in getting your car, in paying for it, or in keeping it running; and to ask about them will probably save you money.

OTHER GMAC PLANS

ACCESSORIES. If you need some new accessories on your car—a radio; a heater; fog lights or the like—your General Motors dealer can sell them, too, on a convenient instalment plan.

USED CARS. If you are considering a used car, it can be purchased on the economical General Motors Instalment Plan.

FARMERS. If your income depends on crop returns, you'll find that the GMAC Seasonal Income Plan will fit your needs.

TEACHERS. There is a special GMAC plan for teachers so that they do not have to make payments during the vacation months.

NEW CARS. To the extent that they are available, new cars, of course, can always be purchased on the low cost General Motors Instalment Plan.

Tech-Tulsa Sun Bowl Classic Seen As "Toss-Up"

Tech's Speed All-Important

Raiders Among Top Defensive Teams

(By The Associated Press)

EL PASO, Dec. 29 — Seldom have the so-called experts been forced to resort more freely to the ouija board and celestial portents than they have in backrooming this year's Sun Bowl game between Tulsa university and Texas Tech.

Probably no more closely matched elevens have ever had the nod to the Sun Bowl, and certainly no teams in the past have ever had more power and brilliance than that displayed individually by the Red Raiders and the Golden Hurricane of Tulsa.

Near Top In Nation

Tulsa is rated one of the finest lines in the west, Tech one of the flashiest and roughest backfields. Just to make it more confusing, final statistics of the American Football Statistical bureau today showed up Tech as fifth in the nation in total defense and third in rushing defense.

Tech's high-voltage backfield has Charlie Dvoracek, Associated Press all-America nominee, Tom Douglass, Roger Smith and Captain Ty Bain at quarter.

Reports from Tulsa paint Coach Henry Frnka shedding pounds under the strain of worrying over the spectacular Tech attack from its "T" formation.

Frnka was reported to be paying his customary attention to the line with special emphasis on the center post and Centers Dick Morgan and Charlie Spilman, both rated top key men. Morgan for the past two years has been All-Missouri Valley conference center and is regarded a pass defense expert.

Tulsa has a great smashing line, offensively and defensively. Tech has a bevy of battering 10-second backs, specialists in long stabs through a broken field, and a passing attack that goes for 50- and 60-yard touchdown passes.

Both squads will polish off practice over the week end and leave Tuesday for El Paso.

Tulsa Is Reported Hampered By Flu

TULSA, Okla., Dec. 29 (AP) —A discouraged University of Tulsa football squad, weakened by a flu epidemic that disrupted practice through the holidays, completed preparations today for its New Year's Day game with Texas Tech in the Sun bowl.

Many squad members, including several regulars, have been ill and Coach Henry Frnka was forced to schedule scrimmages at dawn to accommodate others who have been working at vacation jobs.

Since Christmas, the team has worked in extremely cold weather.

"We are not going to be ready for this game," declared Frnka. "I think it is safe to say that we worked under worse conditions than any other bowl team."

Hardest hit by influenza was Joe Gibson, No. 1 blocking back, who spent two weeks in a hospital. Les Moore, first string fullback, and Captain Charlie Greene, tackle, also have been seriously ill but now are back in uniform.

Louis Tops Boxing; Conn, Cochrane Next

NEW YORK, Dec. 29. (AP)— Surprising no one, heavyweight champion Joe Louis for the fourth time was named "fighter of the year" in the Ring magazine's annual ratings released today.

The ranking of Billy Conn and Welterweight Champion Freddie Cochrane in second and third place, respectively, may cause comment.

Louis, by virtue of his seven title defenses during 1941, won the fighter-of-the-year award with 98 votes from the 202 boxing experts who balloted in the United States, Canada and Latin America. Conn received 36 and Cochrane 23.

Sugar Bowl Tennis Play In Semi-Finals

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 29 (AP)— A local surprise package, a good neighbor from Ecuador, South America, and two seeded players went into the semi-finals of the Sugar Bowl tennis tournament today.

One match pairs Francisco Segura, and Earl Bartlett of New Orleans, who has upset second-seeded Wayne Sabin and the Irish Davis cupper George Lyttleton-Rogers.

The other place in the finals will be decided by top-seeded Ted Schroeder of Glendale, Calif., and third-seeded Ted Mulloy of Coral Gables, Fla.

Chick Harbert Captures Beaumont Meet

ANOTHER DOBBS—If you meet a guy named Dobbs, you can bet he plays football for Tulsa university. You can also bet he's one of the best football players you'll see in any given season. Pictured above is Bob Dobbs, sophomore brother of the better known Glenn, Bob, 183 pounds of crashing fullback, ousted L. D. Moore from the starting fullback post this season—and last year Moore won all-conference honors. Bob is considered one of the hardest blockers and tacklers on the Hurricane squad and is the team's best pass defender. It was his all-round ability that gained him a starting berth over Moore.

A Good Year—One Rich In Every Way—

Memorable Year Of Sports In Passing Parade; Thrills For Season Reviewed Once More

BY JACK GUENTHER
United Press Sports Writer

En route to "Rose bowl" game at Durham, N. C., Dec. 29.—With every click of the train wheels another sports season is ticking away and it may be a long, long time until we will be able to enjoy the thrills of another like it. A good year it was, one rich in every way, and one I'll remember because it was the year . . .

I saw Charlie O'Rourke, his stubby legs pumping like pistons, carrying Boston college 80 yards in the last four minutes of the Sugar bowl football game to the touchdown which defeated Tennessee . . . The fair grounds, dark and lonely, standing idle for the first time in years and years . . . Johnny Bulla winning the $10,000 Los Angeles Open with a 25 cent ball . . .

Races In Spotlight

I watched Porter's Cap cakewalking in the Santa Anita Derby . . . And the despised Bay View, a 50-1 thing, out-gaming Mioland in the mud of the $100,000 handicap . . . I stood by while the body of little Earl Dew was brought across the border from Agua Caliente after his last race . . . And watched rain pelt the window of a tiny California hotel while Connie Mack talked about the Yankees and his teams of the past.

I saw Bob Pastor, down six times in the first round at Hollywood, climbing up time and again to out-point Turkey Thompson. . . . And watched Our Boots humbling Whirlaway at Keeneland . . . And an unknown named Market Wise roaring home in the Wood memorial in New York . . . Then Whirlaway again, this time winning the derby by eight lengths and a week later taking the Preakness by almost as many . . .

Conn's Feat Big Thrill

Bob Montgomery, head down and fists flailing, pounding Lew Jenkins' ribs until they were redder than the stripe of his trunks. . . . Mauri Rose climbing into Floyd Davis' hot little car to win the Indianapolis speedway race that sultry Memorial day . . . And Whirlaway again, sweeping the triple crown in the Belmont . . . Billy Conn, sending thousands into sheer delirium before Joe Louis caught him in the unlucky 13th round . . .

The small boats crawling across the Hudson at dusk after Washington won the Poughkeepsie regatta . . . And the crowds cheering Joe DiMaggio to his new batting record . . . Big Pebble closing in the stretch to win the Hollywood Gold Cup out in Inglewood. . . . Mike Jacobs heckling Billy Conn as his cheeks heavy with make-up, he emoted for the Hollywood cameras . . . And watching Whirlaway failing to catch Attention in the classic at Chicago. . . .

I saw Bill Gallon mincing home in the Hambletonian at Goshen. . . . And Billy Soose lolling like a gentleman of leisure at his camp in Wallenpaupack, Pa. . . . The rain falling at Saratoga as Devil Diver won the Hopeful . . . Frankie Kovacs holding hands with his new wife after he won the grass courts title at Rye . . . And being beaten, but badly, by Bobby Riggs in the nationals . . . I heard the boys boot War Relic home in the Narragansett special to the shock of Ben Jones . . .

Ooooh, that punch with which Louis knocked out Lou Nova . . . I could feel that one myself . . . The World series and the look on Mickey Owen's face in the dressing room after he dropped the third strike . . . The jubilation of the Yanks after the last one . . . Then football . . . Jock Sutherland and Tulane and Fordham . . . Angelo Bertelli, Pennsylvania and the Navy . . . Cornell and Princeton and Philadelphia and Baltimore . . . Army versus Navy and the young officers marching together . . .

I heard Wallace Wade saying, "Well, now" after being told Duke had been invited to the Rose bowl. . . . And heard the news from the press box between halves of the Giant-Dodger football game that Pearl Harbor had been attacked. . . . And Jenkins saying, "it's a taxi driving job for me now" after he lost the lightweight title to Sammy Angott . . .

These were the things, along with many more, I'll carry through the years from 1941. But pardon me now, the train is pulling into Durham and it's Carolina, here we come . . . .

Hogan Second With Runyan

Veterans Defeated In Year's Finale

(By The Associated Press)

BEAUMONT, Dec. 29 — Chick Harbert, an unknown who failed even to place among golfdom's twelve top money winners of 1941, ran away from the veterans and won the $5,000 Beaumont Open with a 276, eight below par for the 72 holes.

The youthful Battle Creek, Mich., pro never was over par.

He coasted in yesterday with an even par 71 to win by seven strokes over wee Ben Hogan and Paul Runyan, who tied for second place at 283.

Snead, Nelson High

Harbert was pocketing a check for $1,000, Hogan was salting away $650 to finish out the year with total earnings in tournament play of $18,358. Sam Snead hit $19,600 in 1938.

Snead closed out the campaign with $12,848 with Byron Nelson in third place with $12,025 and National Open champion Craig Wood fourth with $9,364.

Harbert stepped out with a 70 on his first round, 68 on his second and then got a rousing 67 on the first 18 yesterday.

Hogan Gets "Hot"

They were counting Hogan out of the race after the first two rounds, but the Hershey, Pa., half-pint with the million-dollar swing, turned in scores of 69 and 70 on the final day to clinch a share of runner-up honors. Runyan faltered on his final rounds, being over par on both.

Jim Turnesa of Elmsford, N. Y., was fourth with 284, receiving $450.

Others finishing in the money: Henry Picard, Oklahoma City, $337.50; Ky Laffoon, Miami, Okla., $175; Jimmy Demaret, Detroit, $118.75; Jack Burke, sr., Houston, $118.75.

Aerial Battle Hinted For Sugar Bowl Tilt

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 29 (AP)—The Orange Bowl's air-minded football opponents planned stiff workouts today within a few blocks of each other.

Texas Christian's 38-man squad, which had a first practice at Miami late yesterday, was called to an early afternoon drill at the Miami High school field.

Georgia's 41 players were ordered to the Orange bowl to get accustomed to the field and the surroundings.

Both teams have been throwing the ball freely in practice. First on the scene, Georgia has devoted part of the time to rigging up a defense against the deadly Horned Frog aerials.

T. C. U. managed to get in only a brief session after a late arrival yesterday, but most of the time was spent throwing and catching.

Sports Roundup— On Field, In War—Yanks Are Tops!

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Wide World Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—There's been a lot of talk about whether a nation geared for war will have any time for sports . . . Maybe this yarn will help settle the argument: A couple of weeks ago Amby Gilligan, Whitehall, N. Y., High school coach, heard how two of his former pupils, Francis (Hackett) Conlon and Gerald (Barney) Ross, who are in the navy at Hawaii, had helped win their division baseball championship . . . Big news was that Ross had busted up the deciding game with a triple . . . After the Pearl Harbor bombing another letter came through from Ross. It said: "Well, the first battle is over and Hackett and I came out o. k. I was only scared for a second and then it was like some high school sport." . . . You can draw your own conclusions about what those kids learned on the playing fields of Whitehall.

Techsans Play Again Tonight

Team Also On Card For Tuesday Tilt

(Special To The Journal)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 29 — Texas Tech's Red Raiders dropped out of the championship bracket of the All-College tournament Saturday night, but the Scarlet Speedsters are still highly regarded by the fans and matchmakers.

That was evident with the assignment of the Raiders to play in the opening game of tonight's three-tilt program. Coach Berl Huffman's Techsans will battle Baylor in a losers' bracket contest at 7 o'clock as a preliminary to the semi-final games in the championship bracket.

Also Play Tuesday

Win or lose, the Raiders will return Tuesday for a final game. Then they'll return home — all but Huffman, Forward Garland Head and Center Byron Gilbreath, who'll catch a quick train for El Paso and the Sun Bowl football game.

Both Head and Gilbreath are valued reserves on the Tech football team which meets Tulsa Thurday afternoon. Head plays center, Gilbreath end.

The Red Raiders got by the first round by eliminating a favored Washington university team from St. Louis, 42 to 37, but fell by the wayside before the accurate shooting of the University of Texas five, 55-45.

Tournament To Enter Semi-Finals Tonight

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 29 (AP) —The old basketball argument of defense vs. offense will be renewed tonight in the championship semi-finals of the sixth annual All-College tournament.

The third day of the tournament, crowded with losers' bracket games, opened today while fans speculated on the outcome of the two sultry semi-final tilts. They were:

Oklahoma A. and M. vs. Texas at 8:15 p. m.

West Texas State Teachers vs. Pittsburg (Kas) Teachers at 9:30 p. m.

Texas In Form

The first one will see a slambang high scoring aggregation going against the smoothest defensive ball club in the tournament.

The Longhorns of Texas, who have piled up 104 points against two opponents so far in the court marathon, shoot at the basket from all over the court and their record indicates they are fairly accurate.

On the other hand, Coach Henry Iba's Oklahoma Aggies, have scored only 72 points but have held the opponents to a meager 54. The Cowboys specialize in such tricks as holding to a single field goal. Dwight Parks, Baylor guard who is a tournament high scorer with 68 points. Guard Bud Millikan did that in the quarter-finals.

The Texas offense here has been led by big Les Sanders, who is 6 feet, 5 inches tall and who weighs 200 pounds. He may prove more of an obstacle to the Cowpokes than did diminutive Parks.

The other semi-final tilt pairs the pre-tournament favorite against the defending titlist West Texas State Teachers, "the world's tallest basketball team," are favored over Pittsburg, the 1940 champions.

West Texas State Teachers scored 124 points in the cage meet, holding all opponents to 78. The score for Pittsburg has been 193 to 75.

Another top-notcher on the night program pits two Texas teams against each other—Baylor and Texas Tech. Meanwhile however, the losers' games were going full blast.

Fordham Gains Drill On Missouri Squad

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 29 (AP)— The Fordham Rams gained a practice session on their New Year's Day Sugar bowl opponents, but both went back at their drilling today.

The Tigers, taking the day off, came here from their Edgewater Park, Miss., headquarters to be entertained at a party by Sugar bowl Vice President Joseph B. David.

Majority Of All-State Players Favor Texas

Lubbock's Nabors Likely To Pick Tech; Bible May Get Temple And Sunset Aces

BY HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

The Bible plan scores again.

A majority of the Associated Press All-State football players who have announced their preference will go to the University of Texas under present plans.

Of course, much can happen between now and September and often high school boys change their minds during the summer "scouting period," but these five have indicated they are leaning toward Texas:

Kenneth Baker, 167-pound end from Temple.

John Hamberger, 188-pound tackle from Sunset (Dallas).

Ed Heap, 183-pound tackle from Temple.

Bill Blackburn, 164-pound back from Sunset.

Wayland Hill, 167-pound back from Temple.

Others who made the All-State team are: Troy Stewart, 179, Wichita Falls, end; Joe Meissner, 161, Wichita Falls, guard; Jack White, 196, Paris, guard; Roland Nabors, 170, Lubbock, center; Gene Hill, 143, Wichita Falls, back; Ray Borneman, 194, Lamar (Houston) back.

Stewart is too old to play any more high school football but will not finish school for another year.

Baylor May Get Paris Star

Meissner is undecided. He has another year in high school football if he wants to take it.

White is leaning toward Baylor. Nabors has made no definite choice but is reported favoring Texas Tech where his brother, Rafe, starred and is now assistant freshman coach.

Hill is undecided.

Borneman has another year in high school.

Hill Bottled Up

Except for Wayland Hill, the All-State pickers found their stars living up to expectations in the championship game between Wichita Falls and Temple at Fort Worth Saturday.

Hill was pretty well bottled up as Wichita Falls beat Temple 13-0 but in the case of the Temple youngster there is a very legitimate excuse. He played part of the game with a knee injury.

He was injured in the last two minutes of the first quarter but continued to play, mistaking the pains for a charley horse that had been bothering the same leg.

Masons Near Top

Gene Hill was the star back of the game, Stewart and Baker stood out at the wing posts, Meissner at guard and Heap at tackle.

The All-State squad was selected by vote of coaches and sports writers from every section and was quite representative with 21 schools landing players on the first, second and third teams.

In fact, several of the second team selections came within a few votes of crashing the first team, such as Brownie Lewis, Masonic Home tackle; Lewis Holder, Woodrow Wilson (Dallas), end; Jack Allison, Austin, end, and Gordon Brown, Masonic Home back.

RACE IS SUSPENDED

NEW YORK, Dec. 29 (AP)—The internationally famous 500-mile automobile race which has been run each May 30 over the Indianapolis motor speedway has been suspended for the duration of the war, Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, president of the speedway, announced today. The only other interruption in racing at Indianapolis occurred when America was at war during 1917-18.

Rose Bowl No Cinch—Wade

(By The Associated Press)

DURHAM, N. C., Dec. 29.—The governor of North Carolina may have told the governor of South Carolina the answer, and a couple of hundred thousand Dixie fans probably agree, but to Coach Wallace Wade this rambler Rose bowl game is all a mystery.

In fact, the slim soft-spoken sage of the south wouldn't feel at all hurt right this minute if a competent swami gave him the low-down on the collision of his Dukes and Oregon State's Beavers in Duke stadium Thursday.

Capacity Throng Seen

To Dixie partisans who figure Duke goes long with death, taxes and fried chicken as sure things, this stand of Coach Wallace is just so much of that stuff you slice thin and put between two pieces of bread, but Wade says the whole picture just doesn't add up.

"I don't see how I can be anything else than a mystery," he pointed out today as the vanguard of a sell-out crowd of 56,000 poured into tobacco town. "After all, whatever we know about Oregon State, and whatever they know about us is all second-hand information. We're both playing a guessing game."

No one around this football-wacky belt shares Coach Wade's mystification, and those who saw this Duke team sweep its season point out that the chief reason the Blue Devils are a cinch is because of their ends. Of course there's Steve Lach carrying the mail, but the local experts talk about the Duke end-around plays that hit the jackpot—and the enemy defenses—in game after game this year.

Airplane engines used in front of movie theaters in Belfast, Northern Island, to advertise an RAF picture have been taken by the government to be installed in and RAF bomber.

Merry Christmas For Texas Merchants As Cash Registers Jingle

Holiday Trade Best In Years

BY RICHARD WEST
Associated Press Staff Writer

It was a merry Christmas for Texas merchants.

Their cash registers jingled merrily in a Yuletide trade that was the heaviest since boom years.

As a consequence, their books will show a bonanza business for 1941 — the best, for many of them, since 1929.

General Boost For 1941

These are the conclusions of an Associated Press survey in every section of Texas showing Christmas gains in business over last year from 5 to 20 per cent and a general increase for 1941 of 15 per cent.

Dallas — leading retail and wholesale center — reported a Christmas business 8 per cent greater than last season and to date the city's department store sales are 6 per cent over a year ago.

The Federal Reserve bank said that in the week ended Dec. 20 Fort Worth's department store sales were 8 per cent over the same 1940 period, San Antonio's 9 and Houston's 3.

Several Factors Cited

Attributing the boom to higher farm prices, defense plants and good wages, the East Texas Chamber of Commerce estimated Christmas business in its 70-county region was 8 per cent over 1940.

Texarkana — where $491,000 weekly is being paid at the Red river ordnance depot and Lone Star ordnance depot — reported an "orgy of spending" during Christmas, with many stores showing 100 per cent gains over 1940.

Sherman's stores were crowded with Christmas shoppers, trade gains averaging 17 per cent over last year.

San Angelo Thriving

The gain in Longview was 12 per cent, in Corsicana 15, in Beaumont 40, in Tyler 10, in Waco 20.

San Angelo merchants — thriving as a result of good farm and ranch conditions — predicted that when totals were figured this year's Christmas business would top them all.

"I don't know yet about the total receipts, but the volume—you just can't believe it," Amarillo's postmaster W. D. Degrassi said during Christmas week. The city's merchants said their Yuletide trade was easily 10 per cent better than a year ago and 10 per cent better for the whole year.

With copper smelters running full blast, money pouring in from soldiers, El Paso did a 15 per cent better business during the holidays.

The war had a general but momentary effect. In every city a few days after the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor there was a slump in shopping.

But in succeeding days before Christmas heavy buying was resumed — as if nothing had happened.

JAP BOMBS SMASH INTO OPEN CITY OF MANILA—Here is the walled city section of Manila which was heavily bombed by Japanese fliers Saturday and Sunday even though it had previously been declared an undefended, open city. Many were killed or injured in the furious aerial attacks. Today angry residents of Manila were crying for vengeance against the Japs by air assaults on cities of the invading forces.

O. A. Strange Dies At Home Sunday

Funeral services for O. A. Strange, 82, who died at his residence, 512 Fourteenth street Sunday morning, will be held Tuesday afternoon at Rix chapel, it was announced this morning.

Dr. E. N. Lipscomb of Plainview, former Methodist pastor here; Rev. H. I. Robinson, pastor of First Methodist church, and Dr. C. E. Hereford, pastor of First Baptist church, will conduct the services. Burial will be in Lubbock cemetery under direction of Rix Funeral home.

Mr. Strange came to this section six years ago from Marlow, Okla. He is survived by his wife, a son, O. W. Strange of Casper, Wyo.; a daughter, Mrs. J. F. Woody of Littlefield; five grandchildren and four great grandchildren. He had been ill since March this year.

Pallbearers will be J. F. Woody and Oscar, Harry, O. A., Glenn and Harry Frank Woody, grandsons.

Utter Defeat

were announcing the Moscow conference aim of "utter defeat of Hitlerite Germany". President Roosevelt messaged the Filipinos that the resources of the United States, Britain, Netherlands East Indies and China "have been dedicated . . . to the utter and complete defeat of the Japanese warlords."

On the Russian war front the Red army troops were reported to have shattered a division of German fledglings of 17 to 18 years of age on the Kalinin front; ripped through the German lines south of Moscow to Likhvin, 50 miles west of Tula, and Belev, 50 miles southeast of Kaluga, menacing the German retreat to Smolensk; and captured Novosil, 100 miles south of Tula in a drive on Orel, 40 miles to the west.

Many Towns Recaptured

Reports reached Moscow of the recapture by the Russians of more than 450 towns and villages.

British soldiers, sailors and fliers uncorked a surprise landing raid against German shipping at two, unnamed points in occupied Norway Sunday as the RAF took the week-end offensive with Saturday night raids against the Rhineland manufacturing city of Dusseldorf, the Soesterberg airfield in German occupied Netherlands, and the channel ports of Brest and Boulogne. Extent of the damage inflicted on the Germans was not immediately announced.

lated unit in the China sea.

It is the size of the state of Virginia. Its steep mountains rise from a shelf of coastal lowlands. On the west, the Sierra Madre mountains wall out invaders, but the east coast is carved into highly strategic bays—such as Lingayen gulf, with a 20-mile wide mouth through which the Japanese have struck in force.

Christianized By Spaniards

All told the Philippines have 12,500 miles of coastline to defend.

The chain of islands large and small stretches from 20 miles east of Borneo on the south to Y'ami on the north, within 65 miles and in sight of the Japanese island of Formosa.

The natives are descendants of the Malays and were Christianized by the Spaniards.

Adventurers from Spain were the first Europeans on the scene after Magellan's visit in March, 1521. Defying the Portuguese, the Spaniards eventually won the islands and then settled down to recurrent wars with the Moros.

Exports Vital Industry

Piratical raids on the islands continued until 1837. In Sept., 1762 the British invaded Luzon and occupied Manila. The country again was restored to Spain in the treaty of Paris in 1763.

Boiling native resentment against Spain broke out in 1896 in an insurrection which figured eventually as part of the United States war with Spain.

In Manila bay Admiral George Dewey defeated the Spanish fleet. Then American troops encountered trouble with native insurrectionists, took over Luzon island—and eventually control of the Philippines.

Foreign trade of the islands—with exports of sugar and the rope fibers hemp and abaca outstanding—reached 5,495,482,000 pesos in 1927, with the peso valued at 50 cents in American money.

The "world's hemp capital" of Davao in the southern Philippines became a center of Japanese settlement. With a nestimated Japanese population of 25,000 to 30,000, the port province has Japanese schools, stores, hotels, plantations and shipping lines.

that the mikado's expeditionary forces on Luzon were concentrating their main efforts on capturing Manila "before New Year's."

The Domei announcement occasioned no great surprise here, for it is well known that the Japanese seek to have their victories fall on important festivals — and New Year's is Japan's greatest holiday.

Tokyo Propaganda Plot

It was noted that the Japanese were able to time their conquest of Hongkong to coincide with Christmas — the day which marks the anniversary of the present emperor's accession.

The Navy department announcement, which was made public a short time after President Roosevelt's message last night, carried an encouraging ring and aroused all kinds of conjecture.

"The Japanese government," the announcement noted, "is circulating rumors for the obvious purpose of persuading the United States to disclose the location and intentions of the American Pacific fleet. It is obvious that these rumors are intended for and directed at the Philippine islands.

Enemy Fleet Scattered

"The Philippines may rest assured that while the United States Navy will not be tricked into disclosing vital information, the fleet is not idle."

This was the first official statement on the fleet since the week after the Pearl Harbor attack of Dec. 7. Then Navy Secretary Knox disclosed that the main body of the fleet with its battleships, cruisers, aircraft carriers and submarines was "at sea seeking contact with the enemy."

At first glance, the Navy announcement last night was interpreted in some sources as a hint that it still might be possible to strike a telling blow which would put an entirely new aspect on the situation in the Philippines. They noted, in passing, that Japan's widely scattered invasion thrusts in the South Pacific required substantial naval support, forcing a reduction in the strength of the main enemy fleet.

There was no disposition here to believe that the U. S. Pacific fleet intended to play into the enemy's hands and enter the South China sea, which is rimmed thickly with Japanese air and sea bases. However, the Navy's announcement seemed to hold out the possibility of action soon.

News Briefs

No Fire Damage—City firemen said they had made two runs Sunday but there was "no damage to speak of." Gasoline used to clean a grease rack at a filling station at 1601 Avenue Q caught fire at 3:15 o'clock Sunday afternoon and a fire was noticed in a trash barrel in 1200-block Avenue J.

Bail Set—Bail of $200 was set this morning by Judge G. V. Pardue of county court for Pablo Cortez, Mexican who pleaded innocent of the knifing of Eugene Montano. The charge was filed Dec. 21.

Dupree Talks To Jaycees—George W. Dupree, Lubbock attorney and chairman of the 19th Congressional district for the sale of defense bonds, spoke to the Lubbock Junior Chamber of Commerce in its luncheon at the Hilton hotel today noon. Dupree's talk stressed the importance of purchase of stamps and bonds so that the nation's armed forces might have mechanical devices with which to protect their lives and those of the American people. Joe H. Bryant was program chairman and introduced Dupree. George Zarafonetis of Corpus Christi, former Lubbock resident, was a visitor.

Suit Is Filed—The Fort Worth & Denver City Railway Co. has filed suit in U. S. district court against Lubbock Cotton Oil Mill Co. asking $4,534.97 in alleged underpaid freight tariffs on cottonseed linters shipped over the lines. Ninety-two counts are cited in the petition, filed by E. L. Klett, attorney for the company here. Payments were asked on shipments of linters from Lubbock during the past several years. Claim was made that the defendant did not pay the full tariff rates.

Selectees Report—Fifty-four men from Northwest Texas reported this morning at the district Army recruiting office in the federal building for examinations before being inducted into selective service, said Major Leland H. Wasson, in charge. Three more men were to report this afternoon. A medical examining board headed by Major O. W. English of the medical reserve, assisted by Capt. G. D. Funk, Army medical officer, gave the tests.

Nine Men To Enlist—Nine men, including five for the regular Navy and four for the reserve, will leave tonight for Dallas to take physical examinations for enlistment, J. E. Calloway, chief quartermaster and recruiting officer, said this morning. For the regular Navy were Carroll B. Cox, Abernathy; Otis L. Old, Plainview; F. J. McNeely, Floydada; Loyd L. Turner, Olton and Kenneth A. Gordon, 601 Fourteenth street, Lubbock. Reserves were Mel Baxter Jowell, Sudan; Jonnie Cummings, Abernathy; Orie V. Brooks, Levelland and Marvin F. Rose, Rowena.

Charges Filed—Charges of child desertion and of theft over $50 were filed this afternoon in the court of J. T. Inmon, justice of peace. Defendants had not been reported arrested.

Commissioners Meet—Purchase of a grader equipped with tools, for $6,250, and a scraper combined with a power unit, for $2,000, was authorized this morning in a meeting of Lubbock county commissioners court. Freight charges for the machinery, up to $200, will be paid, it was voted. Alterations and supplements to the county budget were being voted this afternoon, constituting merely a transfer of monies from some funds to others. All commissioners, G. K. Horton, Ben Mansker, Edgar Gray and Newton Stokes, were present. County Judge G. V. Pardue presided.

Allens Improved—Louie, F. Moore, deputy county clerk, said he had been informed today that Ed D. Allen, jr., son of the Lubbock county clerk, and his son, Ed 3rd, were much improved in an Edinburg hospital. The county clerk and his wife are expected to return to Lubbock sometime this week.

Thefts Reported—Police this afternoon said they had been informed of the theft of a bicycle from J. J. Modrall of 2208 Monroe avenue and of two gasoline hose lines valued at $15 from Ohlenbusch Oil Co., at 2408 Avenue H.

Damages Action Transferred—The damages action of Mrs. B. L. Liles against S. H. Kress company was ordered transferred this morning from the 99th district state court to the federal district court here. Mrs. Liles seeks $17,000 damages alleged to have been suffered through false arrest and imprisonment by agents and employes of the store, Dec. 3, 1939.

Defense Of Wake

ment Pearl Harbor here was attacked, Wake, however, is across the international dateline in the far Pacific, and it was Monday instead of Sunday morning there.

Five days before the end, practically every defense work on the island had been damaged or destroyed.

Fought With Great Effect

In its statement of the fight the Navy said:

"Official reports indicate that probably no military force in American history, not even the defenders of the Alamo, ever fought against greater odds or with greater effect in view of those odds."

As many as 40 planes at a time, some of them great four-motored flying boats, attacked the island.

Eight Marine planes were destroyed in the sneak attack of Dec. 8. Another was lost soon afterward. Two more were lost Dec. 14 but one was patched up during the night. At no time did the Marines have more than four planes in action, and these had to be patched in darkness. During the closing days there were two planes.

25 Dead In First Raid

Twenty-five men were killed and many wounded in the first raid.

For three days the Japanese contented themselves with aerial attack. On the fourth day, they attacked with a fleet, and the Marine guns sank a light cruiser and a destroyer and shot down six planes.

The Japanese were using land-based as well as aircraft carrier planes, the four-motored bombers, two-motored bombers and swarms of fighters. It was believed the land planes might have been based on the Japanese mandated islands southward.

"Even in the final phase, the batteries blasted away to great effect," the Navy said. "The last phase of the last message was the statement that two more enemy destroyers had been disabled."

Raid On Norway

and other targets in occupied France and Holland.

Loss of seven planes in the night attacks was admitted.

Casualties Very Light

The joint communique said that warships engaged in the Vaagsoe-Maaloy raid suffered only superficial damage and that British military casualties were exceedingly light. Loss of 11 British planes was admitted but it was asserted that four German planes were destroyed.

It was asserted that the raid was carried out from start to finish on an exact time table.

British forces landed first at 8:30 a. m., and the last men left at 2:40 p. m.

Vaagsoe's importance, it was noted, lay in the fact that it is a German convoy assembly point for troops and supplies for the Russian-Aretic front.

Taken By Surprise

The communique implied that the Germans and Quislings were caught completely by surprise.

Eight ships were caught in harbor, the communique said. Five of them, merchantmen, ran themselves onto the beach. The British destroyed them and sank two armed trawlers and a tug.

The coastal command provided Beaufort fighters and Blenheim fighters, which shot down four Heinkel-111S with a loss of three Blenheim bombers. The Blenheim formation surprised a German convoy, down the coast, and racing in at low altitude sank at least one ship, it was asserted.

Laid Down Smoke Screen

The bomber command supplied Hampden long range bombers, which laid down a smoke screen to cover troop landings, and also bombed an airdrome at Herdla, 100 miles to the south near Bergen—the nearest spot from which German air support could have been sent.

The five ships destroyed at Vaagsoe totaled 15,650 tons, the communique said.

More than 120 Germans were killed, a lone German tank was put out of action, and oil tanks and ammunition stores were destroyed, it was added.

"A wireless station and a certain industrial plant owned by a Quisling and known to be operating for the Germans was destroyed," the communique said.

Batteries Are Silenced

Light forces of the home fleet made the first landing on Maaloy island, a small bit of land off the southeast corner of Vaagsoe island, under cover of the airplane smoke screen.

Warships and bomber planes in a combined bombardment silenced one German battery on Maaloy island and a 5-inch battery at another point.

"The entire garrison of Maaldy were either killed or made prisoner," the communique said. "Military store houses and ammunition dumps were blown up."

Charles M. Griggs Dies This Morning

Charles M. Griggs, 66, of 1401 Twenty-fourth street died at his home about 1:30 o'clock this morning, after a month's illness.

Funeral services will be conducted at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at Central Baptist church, with Rev. Jeff D. Welch, pastor, officiating. Sanders Funeral home will direct burial in a Lubbock cemetery.

Mr. Griggs had lived in Lubbock since 1920 and had worked for the Lubbock Compress company until he became ill.

He is survived by his wife; one son, C. V. Griggs of Madera, Calif., three daughters, Mrs. Nona Adams and Virgie Mae Griggs of Lubbock and Mrs. Ona Baxtley of Amarillo; one sister, Mrs. J. D. Rimore of Palestine, and five grandchildren. He was an uncle of L. O. Griggs of Lubbock.

Damage Suit Echoes Oil Test Near City

Judgment for $7,912.50 in damages was asked this morning in a suit filed by A. G. Bedner against L. C. Harrison and Tobe Foster in the 72nd district court of Judge Daniel A. Blair.

Action was represented to have grown out of a written contract entered into Sept. 23, wherein, it was set out, Bedner agreed to drill a well out of the southeast quarter of section 7, block A in Lubbock county, to be known as Harrison and Foster No. 1 Steck a wildcat.

Judgment asked $10 an hour for 10 hours employed as day work in circulating tools in the hole to extract cuttings off bottom; $1,250 for five cores; $150 for hauling three loads of casing from Graham; $70 for unloading two carloads of casing in Lubbock; and $16,530 for drilling the hole at the rate of $3 a foot, less a credit of $10,000 said to have been paid by Harrison and Foster, and less $187.50 in oil furnished to plaintiff by the defendants.

Interest on the alleged debt and other relief also is sought.

November Permits For Nation Show Decline

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29. (AP) The total valuation of building permits in the United States dropped 23 per cent in November from the same month a year ago, Secretary of Labor Perkins announced today.

This was the second consecutive month that valuations were below a corresponding month of 1940.

Non-residential construction fell off 45 per cent in permit valuations during November 1941 while residential building declined 6 per cent.

Grain Market

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Dec. 29 (AP) — Grain prices have elevated fractionally today in a continuation of more active trade but the market remained in a hesitant holiday mood awaiting developments affecting price control and the government's wheat and corn selling programs.

Processing interests were understood to have taken a considerable amount of government corn to be moved out of steel tanks in the country at prices slightly above the market. Traders regarded purchase of such a quantity as indicative of a good industrial demand as well as limited open market supplies.

Wheat closed ¼-½ higher than Saturday, May 81 26/8-3/8, July 81 27/8-28/8; corn ½-¾ up, May 84½-⅝, July 86⅛; oats unchanged to ⅛ up; rye ¾-⅞ higher; soybeans unchanged to ⅛ higher.

Stock Market

MARKET IRREGULAR, BUSY

NEW YORK, Dec. 29 (AP) — In the speediest session for more than 18 months, the stock market today moved over a notably uneven route with gains a shade in the majority at the close.

Steels and rails enjoyed year-end recoveries of fractions to 2 points or so, while rubbers, oils, tobaccos and motors finished with losses of as much.

Heavy tax selling was fairly well absorbed but it was sufficient to put brakes on many issues and offset to a certain extent replacement demand which in many instances was more or less urgent.

The ticker tape hummed from the start and transfers for the full proceedings were in the neighborhood of 2,700,000 shares, best turnover for any session since May, 1940.

Two Jap Ships Reported Sunk

tal of Sarawak, on the British part of the island of Borneo.

Ipoh is on the line of the direct Japanese thrust toward Singapore and Tokyo declared that its capture opened to the invaders "modern roads and methods of transportation for a power drive toward Singapore."

Dutch Continue Successes

Although the fall of Ipoh was not specifically announced in Singapore, the British acknowledged that the Japanese had swept south of it, saying only that their forces were "in close contact with the enemy."

Elsewhere in Malaya, a communique said, the situation is unchanged.

Dutch forces, flying American-built bombers, scored again in their ship-a-day schedule against the Japanese, announcing a direct hit on a large Japanese transport and the probable destruction of 12 Japanese fighter planes at Miri, where the Japanese also have invaded the realm of the white rajah of Sarawak.

Tokyo Admits Losses

That the Dutch communique omitted mention of the air-borne Japanese invasion of Sumatra suggested that the invaders either had been repelled or had failed, at least, to win a secure foothold.

The Japanese themselves admitted that the invasion of Borneo had cost them a destroyer and a minesweeper, but they claimed to have destroyed 10 big warplanes and two submarines.

Defenseless Manila, bombed at will for two successive days after it had been proclaimed an open city, apparently had been spared further devastation today although Japanese planes pounded the island fortress of Corregidor, at the entrance to Manila bay outside the city.

The city's 625,000 inhabitants had another scare, however.

Demands for retaliatory bombing of Japanese cities swept the capital's population tonight after the first bombless day since Christmas eve.

The Japanese apparently were concentrating their air attack on the fortress — known as the Gibraltar of the Philippines — that lies about 30 miles from Manila in the center of the wide entrance to the bay.

Angered but undismayed by two days of aerial attack on civilians and historic old buildings in the walled city, the Filipinos were now confident that they "can take it" but they are eager to strike back at the enemy. Hope that American bombers can strike at Tokyo and other Japanese cities in retaliation was expressed by all sections of the Manila population.

FDR Promises Aid

President Roosevelt hinted at the possibility the Philippines might be overrun when he sent a wireless message to the Filipino people pledging that the United States would "redeem" their freedom and protect their independence.

In southern Luzon, the Japanese continued landing reinforcements today and it appeared that the most serious threat to Manila might be developing from that direction.

There was a Sunday Japanese air raid against Sorong on the north coast of Dutch New Guinea. Dutch authorities warned their people against running after leaflets dropped from Japanese planes. They said 128 persons were killed in Dutch West Borneo December 19 when Japanese pilots tricked and machine-gunned them this way.

EDITORS of newspapers published in cities experiencing black-outs have devoted considerable space in wondering how deaf mutes best could be appraised of the time of turning out lights.

Every city of any size has a few deaf-and-dumb residents, and, of course, these unfortunate people cannot hear the sirens which universally are used to inform people of black-outs, as well as to inform them when everything is "all clear" again.

In most cases, neighborhood fire or air raid wardens have been ordered to proceed to residences of deaf mutes at the first warning siren and pass the word on to those who cannot hear.

Jimmie Roberts, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Roberts, of 2415 Twentieth street who, with his wife and child have just returned to Lubbock from Sitka, Alaska, tells of a near tragedy there in connection with a deaf mute and a black-out sentry.

Sitka, near where there is a huge U. S. Naval base, has black-outs every night and has had since the beginning of hostilities with Japan.

Hard-bitten Marines, carrying full equipment and bayonets on their rifles, do the police duty and have been ordered to shoot any individual who refuses to halt when called upon to do so.

During one of the first black-outs in Sitka, a Marine called upon a pedestrian to halt and the pedestrian continued on his way as if nothing had happened. Perhaps because of a presentment, or a plain "hunch," the Marine held his fire but ran and caught the pedestrian by the shoulder to demand why he hadn't halted when called upon to do so.

The pedestrian was entirely innocent. He was a deaf mute.

MR. Roberts who was a civilian engineer at the Sitka Naval base, says there's "no foolin'" about the black-outs in the Alaskan city.

Both civilian and naval authorities there expected air raids immediately after the war began and continue to expect them at any time.

The general belief along the Alaskan coastline is that bad flying weather and 20 hours of darkness daily are the only reasons why the Japs haven't released any bombs there to date.

The average American is no sour puss, neither is he found quavering in time of difficulty. Therefore, morale in this country is less likely to break than anywhere else in the world.

Take the black-outs on the West Coast, for instance.

Everyone knows that there is a decided possibility of "token" bombings along the Pacific. And everyone also knows that in the case of such bombings, explosives are bound to rain in the vicinity of San Pedro, where there are extensive defenses.

But after the first black-out in the San Pedro area, were people talking about the dangers which may come, or of the inconveniences of the black-out?

Not on your life!

They were chuckling over the fact although every other light in the community was "doused," there still remained burning at one highway entrance to the city a chamber of commerce sign reading:

"Welcome to San Pedro!"

A PUBLICITY blurb from Hollywood made us see red the other day—and if we were the president of the offending film concern, and could read English, we'd fire the "public relations" expert who sent it out.

It had to do with plans for a forthcoming picture starring Marlene Dietrich, a foreign film import of several years back, whose chief claim to movie glory seems to be in the fact that she possesses an extremely graceful pair of legs.

According to this publicity release, her film company has laid away $1,000 worth of silk hose for use by Miss Dietrich in the picture, because of the possibility that silk hose soon will become impossible to get in this country. "Miss Dietrich," said the blurb, "is perfectly willing to wear cotton stockings, but the company decrees otherwise."

If Miss Dietrich's acting prowess depends upon her legs being encased in silk, instead of a substitute, she's not much of an actress and her company might just as well bow to the ineyitable now, instead of later.

And if the rank and file of American women—all of whom like silk hose as much as Miss Dietrich or her superiors—have to go without the product, it won't hurt the film star to join in with them and do the best she can.

If we read public sentiment correctly, the American people aren't going to have much patience with those who are unwilling to take their share of whatever readjustment must be undergone in connection with the war.

And we can't think of any surer way for the film company, or Miss Dietrich, to lose prestige than in declining to take on the chin—or in the legs—whatever is to come a little further down the line.

Lady By Request

By HELEN R. WOODWARD
Copyright, 1941, NEA Service, Inc.

THE STORY: Pretty, fiery Diana Tucker's farmer father has given his consent to her marrying Stephen Curt, famous writer and commentator, even though he knows that it is a temporary marriage that will pay Diana $10,000—her renumeration for saving for Stephen a $2,000,000 inheritance he will lose if he does not marry before he is 35. Diana accepts the offer for two reasons: Stephen has told her the woman he loves is married to another man; she does not want to go back to the farm and marry childhood sweetheart Bill Jackson, and has lost her job in a law office in the city because she resisted the advances of Richard Thorpe, her employer. Too, she likes Stephen's stepmother, Ellen Curt. A temporary six months' marriage—how will it work out for the beautiful, excitement-seeking girl?

DIANA MEETS PHIL

CHAPTER VIII

Two days later Diana and Stephen were married. They had planned it all on the trip back up to the city. He insisted on taking her to the Clarendon, rather than back to her rooming house.

"You'll be more comfortable," he said. He gave her a generous check "for expenses" and said, "We'll call it an advance if you like," when Diana protested.

She had never had so much money of her own in her life. Five hundred dollars! She would have laughed if she'd known that Stephen feared it might not be enough, but was diffident about offering her more. The hotel room with its shining bath was the last word in luxury. She put herself in the hands of the hotel beauty experts and emerged with her red-gold hair done in a new, slightly more sophisticated manner as would be becoming to the wife of Stephe Curt. A pompadour in front with soft curls behind in the Gibson girl manner. Then she went shopping for a wedding outfit.

She finally decided on a Como blue coat in needle-point fabric, very slim and elegant, with a full-length banding of tipped skunk. A simple blue shirt-waist frock, beautiful accessories in a deeper blue. The kind of things she had always longed to buy. She also found a black dress in sheer woolen with a softly-draped, criss-crossing bodice. Filmy underwear, hose and cosmetics.

On their wedding morning a bleak wind blew steadily and sudden flurries of wet snow fell frozen and treacherous with hardened lumps of dirty snow at the corners. Dressing, Diana reflected that if the old saying "happy is the bride the sun shines on" were true, there were indeed stormy days ahead for her and Stephen Curt. But then this wasn't a real marriage. She had to keep telling herself that.

She knew she looked dashingly beautiful in her new outfit and that helped. She wished suddenly for her mother and father, but it had been agreed to keep the wedding quiet. Stephen was not even bringing his sister, Adela, and old Ellen Curt was not coming. Stephen had asked a friend—one whom he could trust, he explained.

They were waiting for her in the lobby when she went down—Stephen and his friend, Philip Bruce. They'd been boyhood chums, college mates and were closer than brothers. It was easy to see the quality of friendship that existed between them—it was apparent in their affectionate banter, their disparagement of each other.

"I know him better than anyone, so consequently think less of him," Phil laughed, and Stephen growled, "I'd hate to tell you what I think of him!"

Diana wondered what she was going to think of Phil Bruce, for he was looking into her eyes with a strange intensity. He wasn't quite as tall as Stephen, but so straight that he gave the appearance of height. Broad shoulders, slim waist, unruly brown hair, laughing brown eyes. His clothes were beautifully tailored and worn with an air of extravagant carelessness. He had opened his eyes very wide when Stephen introduced them and his fingers closed over Diana's warmly.

Then they whisked her out to a taxi and soon reached the city hall. Stephen had made all arrangements and Judge Cavendish was waiting for them, but Phil dashed away and they had to wait for him. He came presently carrying a small florist's box.

"I had to see the bride before I knew what flowers to buy," he said.

"Damn!" said Stephen crossly. "I never even thought of it. Forgive me, Diana."

"Oh, well, you've never been married before," said Phil airily, throwing tissue paper right and left. "Now at my last wedding—" he broke off, having brought into view a tiny, adorable, old-fashioned bouquet, lace trimmed. Roses and valley lilies and mignonette. Sentimental and silly and very lovely. Like a dear, remembered valentine from childhood.

"Nothing garish or flamboyant for you, darling," he said, "something sweet and dainty and lovable!" His brown eyes met hers as he placed the flowers in her hands. She thanked him, a lump in her throat which she strove valiantly to swallow.

"Well, let's get going," said Stephen a little brusquely.

The ceremony was simple and soon over. Diana, listening to those matchlessly beautiful words, trembled a little. People should be punished for making a mockery of them. Would she be punished?

Stephen's hand was strong and reassuring. Her eyes met his intense blue ones—there was nothing to fear. He was trying to tell her that with a look — and that he wanted to thank her for what she was doing for him.

He told her so in words after the ceremony—when he drew her aside from the others. "You'll be safe," he said, smiling, "and I hope happy. And it needn't be for long."

He was in love with another woman. He wouldn't mind having Diana about, they'd be friends, but he wouldn't feel badly at parting. She saw herself through the years, going to Stephen for advice, still being friends. When she went into her little business, he'd help her get started.

It wouldn't be like that with Phil Bruce. It wouldn't be safe to marry him for convenience. You could tell that by looking into his deep, ardent eyes.

Phil took them to the Savola for a wedding luncheon. Diana laughed a lot and talked a little feverishly. Stephen remembered

NOT A HAPPY DECISION

The circumstances under which the recent labor-industry conference finally agreed that strikes and lockouts will not be permitted to interrupt the nation's war effort left a bad taste with many people.

True, the agreement finally was reached. It was the sort of agreement that the nation expected—that it would have had to demand had compulsion become necessary.

But the conference was disappointing. Most people expected that a very few days, at the most, would be required for the understanding that none would do anything that might hamper the war effort. Instead, the meeting dragged along. There were times when those participating acknowledged that the outlook seemed discouraging. Not until widespread criticism was being voiced on every hand, not until demands were being voiced in the Senate for action on anti-strike legislation, was the agreement finally reached.

Undoubtedly, most of those in the conference and most of those they represented could have reached an understanding speedily and without difficulty. But, quite obviously, there must have been some who were willing to fiddle while Rome burned, who would argue while the patient lay dying.

If so, then they should be made to understand by whatever means are necessary that the days are past when people of this nation will tolerate coddling of saboteurs of their stripe.

THE Ramblings of a Colyumist: Why are producers in a dither about the type of shows they should give in wartime? Don't they know comedy and girly shows always click in times like these? . . . Why compliment the Axis by calling them rats? Rats only invade walls—not countries . . . The alerts on both coasts have hurt theater business. But wouldn't it be wonderful if that was the only thing it would hurt? . . . Now that the networks are on twenty-four hours a day, why do they persist in dishing out so much harsh swing music during the wee hours? Why not some soothing music to balance the stern reality of the news bulletins? . . . Remember the good old days when all we had to worry about was a movie probe? . . . Do you know that there's a sidewalk commentator who analyzes the bulletins as they are flashed by the Times Square newsribbon?

Don't they know "The Mikado" is a rap at the Japs—it depicts them as being deceitful! . . . How can any nation that wears kimonas be a good fighting nation? . . . Do you think more defense bonds would be sold if people would remember that every bond you buy from America—means one more bomb against those Bums? . . . Thomas is demanding that civil liberties continue. Why does he try to hurt the Government that is fighting a life-and-death battle to preserve those liberties? Do you know that before Hitler attained power in Germany he was also yelling about his civil liberties?

U. S. Raw Materials Life Lines Difficult To Keep Up

Pacific Distances Are Another Worry Of War

BY PETER EDSON
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29—Eight thousand seven hundred and one miles southwest of San Francisco is the port of Batavia, capital of the Netherlands East Indies. Five hundred and twenty-five miles farther on is Singapore. And the sea lanes to these two ports now become among the most important of all life lines for raw materials into the United States.

EDSON

The sea caravans must be kept coming with cargoes of rubber and tin and manganese and items like quinine for tropical malaria fighting, kapok for life preservers of the new ships in the two-ocean Navy and merchant marine, sissal for ropes and lines, tapioca for starches and pastes and sizings, palm oil for treating metal plates. It is no military secret to mention these things now, for the world in general and this country in particular have known them since the defense effort began.

Talk about convoying! From Singapore and Batavia to San Francisco across the Pacific is just as far as it is the other way around from Batavia and Singapore to London, across the Indian Ocean, up the Red Sea through the Suez Canal, across the Mediterranean to Gibraltar and up the coast of Portugal and occupied France to the channel ports.

The routes are about equally hazardous, now that Japan is in the war and on the loose. Direct routes from Singapore and Batavia to the United States, across the China Sea towards Manila and on past Guam and the Hawaiian Islands are of course closed, for there lurks the Japanese fleet. North of New Guinea, easternmost of the Dutch East Indies, are the Jap mandated Caroline and Marshall islands, with half a dozen or more bases from which commerce raiding submarines and bombers can operate like the 20th century pirates that they are.

THOUSANDS OF ISLANDS

THIS whole vast area of the western Pacific—6,000 thousand miles of it from Singapore to Honolulu — is as dangerous a theater of naval warfare as the Atlantic, and it is from two to three times as big. From New York to London is a mere 3,000 miles, but from San Francisco to Singapore is 9,000. And this western Pacific is dotted with 10,000 islands and reefs which make the crossings all the more hazardous. You have to travel this area to get a real appreciation of its distances and times.

In spite of these hazards, it is important that the sea lanes to the south seas be kept open. Next to Great Britain and Russia, these Netherlands East Indies and the Malay peninsula are as important as any ally the United States may have in this war. For from this area there comes more strategic materials than from any other single country.

Malaya, the peninsula north of Singapore, has furnished the United States with 40 per cent of its raw rubber and 65 per cent of its tin. The Dutch East Indies have furnished another 40 per cent of the rubber and another 20 per cent of the tin. On top of that, the Netherlands Indies supply 90 per cent of the world's quinine, 85 per cent of its spices, 66 per cent of its kapok. Putting the picture another way, the United States in 1940 took over a third of all the exports from the Indies, and for 1941 the figure will be even higher. U. S. investments in rubber plantations alone total more than $40 million.

FIGHTING DUTCHMAN

THESE Indies will punch their weight in any fight, too. Sinking of numerous Japanese troopships by Dutch submarines in the opening weeks of the war is just an indication of what these Dutchmen and their 60 million native populaton can do. Nearly all the Dutch fleet escaped the fall of the Netherlands in May, 1940, and has been based in the Indies. Also, it has been augmented by the construction of a home fleet of mosquito boats, sub chasers and mine sweepers, manned by Indonesian sailors trained to give an account of themselves in the best traditions of the Dutch "sea beggars" who licked the Spanish in the hundred years' struggle with Spain.

This embryo fleet of light cruisers and destroyers and submarines is the offensive arm of the Indies force, backed of course by squadrons of patrol bombers that cover the 3,000 miles of water in which its islands lie.

The army of the Indies is its defense. There is compulsory service for all men between 18 and 46, whether native or European. There is a motorized force of some 6,000 vehicles and a combat air force of American planes.

In May, 1940, when the Nazis invaded the low countries, Amsterdam flashed just one code word to the Netherlands Indies. It was "Berlin." That one code word set the colonial government in action. Every German ship in a Dutch port and every German was seized. It would take only another code word to put the whole Netherlands East Indies into even more drastic action now.

WASHINGTON TAG LINES

THE Army may issue a ban against "pink" pants — the separate slack trousers which don't match the tunics and which some officers and soldiers affect for semi-dress. . . . Commissions of new Army officers have to be signed personally and individually by Secretary of War Stimson, which accounts for some of the delays. . . . A jittery theater executive in Washington got so mad at the Japanese he tried to cancel billing of "The Mikado," Gilbert and Sullivan opera. . . . Watch out for a run — and a resulting price control order — on once thinking she'd be like a child when she was happy. She was happy now and very much excited. Her face was exquisitely flushed and Phil Bruce could not take his eyes off her. Stephen saw that, too. What a couple they'd make, he was thinking—young, gay and warmly ardent. But Diana was his, Stephen's wife for a time at least. She'd have to remember that. Even Phil Bruce mustn't interfere.

He rose when they had finished luncheon and took Diana firmly by the arm, bundled her into her coat, led her gently from the room, Phil trailing behind.

"Now you run along," Stephen said to Phil. "Your part of the ceremony is over. We'll be seeing you."

Diana barely had time to call, "Thanks for everything!" before Stephen whisked her away. "Where do we go from here?" she demanded, a little giddily.

"I'm taking you home," he said. "I want you to get settled and meet my sister, Adela." Inside the cab he turned to her, "I could see that you and Phil were attracted to each other. That will be all right — after the divorce. I'll give you both my blessing. But I must remind you that while we are married you must to all appearances be truly my wife."

Diana sat back with a sudden swift jolt. Anger flashed into her eyes. "Don't be absurd! You know I only met the man this morning!"

"I know Phil," Stephen said dryly. "He's always going off the deep end about some woman. Just keep him in his place!"

"Thanks—for the warning," she said stiffly, humiliated. Was he protecting his friend, or her? The thought flashed through her mind that if Stephen Curt had really wanted a wife, he would never have selected Diana Tucker for any reason. A girl who would accept such a business proposition as he had offered her would not be really acceptable to him as a wife! She had never thought of it in that light before. She felt a slow, burning anger.

"You needn't worry about me," she said fiercely. "I'll remember that I'm being paid for this."

There it was—that flashing fire that had so appealed to him. Amusement tugged at the corners of his lips. Poor kid — he musn't make it hard for her. And ruefully admitted to himself that he had been sounding exactly like a jealous husband.

Position Of The Philippines Is Grim And Grave

Navy Promises Help On Way

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
Wide World War Analyst

The position of the Philippines is increasingly grim and grave, but while we shouldn't seek refuge in dim hopes, we are not yet forced to final conclusions regarding the outcome, especially since the United States Navy promises "positive assistance to the defense of the Philippine islands."

Of course we can accept it as certain that unless "positive assistance" does arrive, the islands will be temporarily lost. The Japs are continuing to land troops in southern Luzon, the menace to Manila increases, and in due course the invading weight will become unbearable if it isn't halted.

Have Great Burden

Obviously much depends on the nature of the aid and how quickly it arrives. The immediate burden rests on the broad shoulders of General MacArthur and his magnificent little army, that is, the problem of hanging on until help comes over the horizon of the vast Pacific. That burden is great, for the Japs are going all out in an effort to make a quick killing—and they are doing it without regard to the laws of humanity.

The slaughter of civilians in the city of Manila by Japanese bombers gives fresh point to a threat made just before Christmas by Nazi Propaganda Minister Goebbels. He declared that Germany, Italy and Japan are "going all the way" in the war and, being forced to defend their lives, "they will do it in a manner which knows no sentimental considerations."

Seek To Shatter Morale

Now the Japs have interpreted his meaning in a bloody holocaust of innocents. They have staged a studied exhibition of frightfulness, after a careful survey of Manila from the air to make sure that it was indeed without defense. The purpose of this was to shatter the morale of the civilian population and thus cause a collapse of Filipino resistance. What the ordinarily soft-spoken Secretary Hull describes as the same practices of fiendishness have been employed against the Chinese, in defiance of numerous protests by our state department.

However, it isn't surprising that this should be so, and it seems to me that we should adjust our outlook to a situation which is likely to intensify. In this connection we have the sensational statement made in Istanbul by George H. Earle, American minister to Bulgaria, who was rushed out of Bulgaria because of rumors of a Nazi plot against him.

Destruction Planned

Earle asserted that "German fortunes definitely are declining but the death throes may be unprecedentedly violent." He added that there is some evidence the Nazis are planning to destroy everything in any of the occupied countries which they are forced to leave — the "biggest vandalism in history."

So far as concerns the Japs, there have been constant reports of barbaric practices in China. For example, quite apart from charges of massacres and use of poison gas — which might conceivably be Chinese propaganda—on October 13 last we had a dreadful story from members of American missionary families at Changsha regarding the Japanese occupation of that city from September 27 to 30.

These Americans stated that the invaders carried out executions, looted and burned. They said the Yale-in-China hospital treated Chinese with deep gashes in their necks, inflicted by Japs trying to behead them with long swords.

Nasty Developments Due

Well, that's the sort of people we are up against and we might as well steel ourselves for nasty developments. After all, we mustn't overlook that the Japanese have partaken only slightly of western civilization. Their impulses are primitive — those of a thousand years ago.

They are pagans, and it's well not to forget that many of the fanatical Nazis also have embraced paganism. In other words, we are at grips with forces from out of the dark past — an almost unbelievable adventure in the world of centuries ago.

Thus we must prepare ourselves for the shock of further atrocities of all sorts.

Profiting by experience of World War I in the importance of beer to morale of the troops, Army officials now make it a regular part of rations for armies in the East and in Northern Africa.

Chislehurst Caves in England are now the headquarters of a new Scout Troop and Wolf Cub Pack, formed by boys who are among those using the caves as air raid shelters.

Mother Refused To Believe Son Dead

FORT WORTH, Dec. 29.—Three weeks ago the Navy notified Mrs. W. L. Stewart that her foster son, Carl Frank Stewart, 19, had been killed in the Pacific war.

She went to bed grief-stricken. She dreamed of her son, and spoke to him.

She awoke so convinced he was alive that she refused to accept the proceeds of a life insurance policy.

Yesterday she received another message from the Navy. Carl was wounded seriously, but will recover.

General Closing Is Planned Thursday

Reminder that Thursday will be a day of general closing in Lubbock for New Year's day was given in several places this morning.

It will be one of the five days of the year observed by member firms of the Retail Merchants association, according to Mrs. Gladys Workman, secretary.

Banks will be closed. So will city, county and federal offices. It will be one of the five week days of the year when deposits will not be required in parking meters.

The full holiday will be observed at the postoffice. Postmaster Amos Howard said that mail collections will be made, but there will be no deliveries of anything except specials and box mail.

City schools and Texas Technological college are not to resume sessions until next Monday morning.

Blood Tests To Be Given

Lubbock has been designated one of five Texas cities in which blood tests are to be given as part of the final physical examination for registrants under the national selective service act, according to information given at the city hall this morning.

Notification of the designation of this city was received by Dr. J. W. Rollo, city health officer, from Dr. S. W. Bohls, director of state laboratories in Austin.

Other Cities Designated

The other Texas cities similarly designated are El Paso, San Antonio, Dallas and Houston.

Blood samples of the registrants have been sent heretofore to the state laboratories for tests to determine whether they contain evidences of venereal diseases.

In the future, the tests for this area will be made in the Lubbock city laboratory by Gerald E. Jarvis, city bacteriologist, and Mrs. Margie Scott, his assistant. Although the tests will average approximately 150 per day, officials said, the work will be done without any additions to the laboratory personnel except a dishwasher who already has been employed at $50 per month.

To Enlarge Quarters

However, the work is to hasten the enlargement of the laboratory which is located on the second floor of the city hall, to approximately double its present size at a cost to the city of about $1,000. This is something that would have had to be done anyway because of the increasing work that has been thrown upon the laboratory by the growth of the city and by new laws designed to guarantee the safety of food, water and personnel service offered to the public.

Some of the work that is done in the laboratory as a matter of fixed routine, it was explained, is the making of blood tests at six-month intervals of waiters, barbers, beauty parlor operators, food handlers and the like; tests of milk samples from all milk handlers twice monthly, and tests of water samples from each of the city wells several times monthly.

Annual Banquet Of Scouters Is Held

Owen Taylor of Lamesa was elected chief of Nakona lodge of the Order of the Arrow, Boy Scout camper's organization, at the annual banquet in Mexican Inn here Sunday night. He succeeds Howard Schmidt of Lubbock.

Other new officers are Robert Arnold of Floydada, who succeeds Emmitt Hensen of Floydada as scribe, and Billy Crawford of Lubbock, successor to Fike Godfrey of Spur as treasurer.

New members of the adult advisory board are Rev. John A. Winslow and Dr. C. C. Schmidt, both of Lubbock, to replace Dr. R. B. Parish of Brownfield and Paul Eubank of Matador. Holdover members of the board are J. N. Spikes of Lamesa and Dr. E. L. Reed of Lubbock.

George W. Dupree, Lubbock attorney, was principal speaker at the banquet, which was attended by 39 persons.

'Merit' System For Army Officers Will Speed Up Advances

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29. (U.P.)—The War department today adopted a unified "merit" system for temporary promotions of officers in an effort to speed up advances in rank.

The policy is similar to that used in the first World war. It will apply to all branches and arms of the service, including the air force, and will eliminate such restrictions as length of service, existence of vacancies, and other differences in the three components of the army.

Officers promoted temporarily, officials said, will get the full pay of their new rank.

Beginning Feb. 1, field commanders will recommend 60 per cent of the officers needed to fill their requirements. The remaining 40 per cent will be "held" by the war department, which will fill the vacancies by calling up officers to active duty from the reserve corps, and reassigning to field work other officers now working in administrative jobs.

The "merit" system, which will permit "skip" promotions, if necessary, will allow a flexible supply of officers needed to meet increases in strength of the army or to fill gaps caused by casualties in combat, it was said. It will be possible to advance a man more than one grade to any post his commanding officer thinks he should fill.

'Skeleton Solution' In Mexico Proves False

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Dec. 29. (U.P.) — The second "skeleton solution" of the disappearance of two middle-aged Illinois couples six years ago in New Mexico proved today to be as false as the first.

Discovery of skeletons of three men and a woman and a portion of a fifth led to the theory that four of them might be Mr. and Mrs. George Lorius of East St. Louis, Ill., and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Heberer, of Duquoin, Ill., who disappeared in New Mexico in May, 1935.

The skeletons were found in an abandoned mine shaft in the mountains east of Albuquerque. The bones were identified as those ed by University of New Mexico atomy students in class experiments.

Milwaukee Greek Buys Four $1,000 Defense Bonds; Makes Wish

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 29 (AP) —"Give me four $1,000 defense bonds," said Sam Mavrogenis, parking station operator, to a clerk in the postoffice today as he presented three $1,000 bills.

"And here's hoping they will help beat Hitler and that Greece, my homeland, will be freed before long," he added.

Mavrogenis explained that the money was a Christmas gift to his son, Dimitrios, 2, from four uncles.

Penny-A-Day Club Is Organized By Jaycees To Purchase Arms

GOOSE CREEK, Dec. 29. (U.P.)—A penny-a-day club was organized today by the Tri-Cities Junior Chamber of Commerce to collect donations for the federal government to purchase armament.

Articles of incorporation have been filed in Austin for a statewide charter and the name of the organization has been copyrighted in hopes of establishing the movement on a national basis.

J. E. Rutter, president of the chamber, said that milk bottles to collect pennies will be placed in all schools and public and private buildings. The club will be a nonprofit organization and will have no capital stock.

Incorporators will be Rutter, Shannon L. Morris of Pelly, member of the Texas Junior Chamber's committee on Inter-American Relations, and A. M. Goul, of Goose Creek.

Woman In Honolulu Writes Parents Here

First word from their daughter, Mrs. Albert Mangelsdorf, who lives in Honolulu, since the beginning of the war, was received this morning by Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Ellis, 1620 Avenue L. The letter, sent by clipper ship, had been censored.

Mrs. Mangelsdorf wrote that the schools had been closed and that they were learning to grope their way in homes blacked out nightly.

WHY THE MANUFACTURE OF MEDICINE IS ESSENTIALLY A LOCAL MATTER
The most individual thing on earth is the human body—the sum total of the influences of thousands of individual bodily processes make it so, particularly in sickness.
A ready-made medicine, for this reason, can no more be expected to fit the exact needs of an individual than a length of ready-cut pipe will exactly replace a damaged section in your heating or water system.
The scientific treatment of the ills of the human body is not a set procedure against a set condition; medical science perceives that no two conditions are ever exactly alike, and that the medical treatment must vary accordingly.
Thus is required the services of two specialists, both right on the home ground with the patient and their services immediately available: one a specialist in diagnosis and in designing medicine to fit the diagnosis; the other, a specialist in compounding from his stock of modern scientific ingredients medicine to individual specifications.
Remember, it is your living body that is sick. If life is precious to you, medical treatment cannot be too exact. Take your bodily ailments to your doctor—if you need medicine, his prescription is specifications for it to be made up to fit your specific needs—neither too much of the active ingredients to cause you harm, nor too little to do you good.
Here in our modern prescription laboratory we compound it just as your doctor ordered it right now.
