

Food, fun family featured in SeaFair VIII

By PAT BLAIR
Staff writer

Food, fun and family will be the order of the day — or rather two days — this coming weekend when Rockport's eighth annual SeaFair gets under way.

Several new events, as well as the traditional favorites, will highlight this year's festivities which will begin, as always, at 11 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 9, with a parade through downtown Rockport. More than 40 entries, from marching bands to floats and vintage cars, are lined up for this year's parade which will be led by Parade Marshal Tim Gilles.

At noon Saturday and Sunday, the more than 100 exhibitors' and food booths will open on the SeaFair grounds on Rockport Beach between the Ski Basin and Little Bay. Three bands will provide music throughout the two days of the event.

A big attraction at every SeaFair is the exhibitors' booths and SeaFair VIII will be no exception. Exhibitors from throughout Texas and neighboring states will be showing and selling a variety of art and craft items. The exhibitors always include a number of Aransas County craftsmen, artists and organizations.

For SeaFair-goers who want to spend the day — or both days — looking and listening, food booths sponsored by local civic organizations will be serving a variety of seafood, beverages and desserts and beer and soft drinks will be available on the SeaFair grounds.

Menu items will include shrimp in a variety of forms from gumbo to tacos, crab burgers and — for the adventurous — shark, and one booth will be selling cakes, pies, coffee and lemonade for dessert.

Special events will begin at noon Saturday with the sailing regatta. Two new boating events are scheduled this year — catamaran races and an "open-class" race from Corpus Christi to Rockport. This first annual Rockport Cup race will start at 9:30 a.m. Saturday from the Lawrence Street T-Head in Corpus Christi.

A perpetual trophy, the Rockport Cup, has been donated by the Rockport SeaFair Committee for the winner of the race and all entrants will receive Rockport SeaFair T-shirts.

Another special event that's new this year is the Rockport Tennis Association SeaFair Doubles Tournament on Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 9-10. The tournament consists of five events including men's 39 and under doubles, men's 40 and over doubles, women's 39 and under doubles and mixed doubles for all ages.

Players in the tournament must register [See SeaFair, page 14]

A special SeaFair VIII section will be included in this weekend's, Oct. 6, issue of the Rockport Pilot.

Second car blamed in Jim Anderson's accident

An unidentified car traveling in the wrong lane has been blamed as the cause of the accident in which Aransas County Attorney Jim Anderson sustained a broken neck last week.

Rockport Police Chief Joe Hinojosa said he talked to Anderson Friday in the intensive care unit of Spohn Hospital, Corpus Christi, where Anderson was taken by ambulance following the collision.

Hinojosa said Anderson told him the accident occurred as a result of another car that came into Anderson's lane as the county attorney was driving south on Fulton Beach Road about 3 a.m. Thursday, Sept. 29.

Anderson told the police chief he swerved to avoid the car and his car side-swiped one tree then collided head-on with another. The accident occurred at the curve near the Canoe Club.

Anderson could not identify the car that allegedly caused the accident, telling Hinojosa all he could see at the time were the vehicle's headlights.

As of early this week, Anderson was still in ICU and was not allowed to have visitors. Hospital officials said they could not report on his condition to anyone except members of the attorney's immediate family.

The Aransas County commissioners' court in a meeting last Thursday morning a few hours after the accident agreed to consult the Bar Association before making a decision on a temporary replacement for Anderson.

Rockport area pharmacists pull Tylenol

Local pharmacists have reported that none of the Extra-strength Tylenol lot numbers suspected in the cyanide poisoning deaths of seven people in the Chicago area have turned up here. Area concern arose after reports in the news media Sunday that suspect lot numbers had turned up in the Corpus Christi area.

All Rockport area pharmacies have removed Tylenol products from store shelves until further notice. Suspect lot numbers in the case are MC2880, 1910MD and 1801MA. Anyone with questions regarding the product is advised to call the pharmacist at Johnson's Drug Store at 729-5422.

Evaluation sought for ACND property

By TED NORMAN

In an interview at the Rockport Pilot office Monday morning, Aransas County Navigation District Commissioner Kirk Holman said, "You can't bring a supply boat down the Intracoastal Waterway from Port Aransas to Rockport's Cove Harbor because the channel isn't marked properly or the water depth is insufficient."

Talking about several items he had placed on the agenda for the ACND meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 5, Holman said it is imperative that the Intracoastal Waterway be dredged so supply boats can get to Cove Harbor or all the boats will move to facilities in Ingleside.

He said no money has been allotted for dredging of this waterway and he said, "The district is going to have to affect the dredging of the channel or Cove Harbor isn't going to be a viable port."

Holman said he didn't know how many supply boats are still using Cove Harbor but he said he suspects that only one boat is still using the facilities.

Holman said, "We don't have enough revenue to do anything and we need to do something right now."

During the interview Holman also spoke about the new proposed boat ramp scheduled to be built in Fulton Harbor. "We

On city council

3 consecutive absences give grounds for removal

A council member who is absent from three consecutive city council meetings "without explanation acceptable to a majority of the remaining councilmen" will be removed from the council under terms of Rockport's proposed city charter.

The provision for removal of a council member was tentatively approved at a meeting of Rockport's charter commission at 5 p.m. Monday, Oct. 5, in City Hall.

Commission members also heard from City Administrator Herman Johnson during the meeting and appeared to respond favorably to two of Johnson's suggestions — that three readings not be required for adoption of an ordinance and that the city charter provide for an "alternate" municipal judge to be named.

The 11 charter commission members at Monday's meeting adopted the first 10 sections of proposed Article III of the charter which will deal with the city council. Included in these provisions is the one providing for removal of a council member by the council itself for three "unexcused" absences.

The one dissenting vote against the provision as it was adopted Monday was cast by commission member Pat Brown who suggested at the commission's Sept. 27 meeting that council members be required to attend at least 75 percent of the council meetings.

At this week's meeting, the provision as originally presented to the council would have provided for removal of a council member who "is absent from three consecutive meetings or 25 percent of the meetings within a year."

Commission member Richard McMakin, who had raised objection to a percentage-of-meetings requirement at the Sept. 27 meeting objected again at Monday's session and was joined by Mary Lou Tiner who said, "You don't want your council members having to figure percentages."

Marty Renfro, chairman of the subcommittee charged with working on Article III, moved that the reference to a percentage be deleted from the provision. The motion was seconded by J.C. Harlan and approved 10-1.

Other provisions adopted in Article III at Monday's meeting set up a five-member city council (four councilmen and a mayor) with two aldermen elected from each city ward. This is the system under which the council is presently elected.

The charter will limit the tenure of council members to no more than four consecutive terms as either councilman or mayor with no more than three consecutive terms (six years) in any one position, and "Alligator Man" Warren Lynch was out on $5,000 bond this week after he was arrested by two Texas highway patrol officers last Thursday, Sept. 30, on a two-year-old warrant.

Bond was set by Justice of the Peace Bonnie McCarty in Aransas Pass Friday after he was taken in custody Thursday afternoon by DPS officers Steve Miller and Jerry Richardson.

The officers were reportedly on routine patrol about 5:15 p.m. when they saw Lynch on a motorcycle pulling out of his alligator farm onto Hwy. 35 and heading south.

The officers, who were northbound on 35, recognized Lynch — a fugitive since November, 1980 — and turned around and pursued him to the Big Fisherman where he was stopped in the parking lot.

Lynch had been a fugitive since Nov. 7, 1980, when the then-49-year-old Aransas Countian slipped through a surveillance around his alligator farm and made his getaway.

Lynch was being sought at that time as a result of the discovery of 12 stalks of marijuana growing on a 25-by-30-foot clearing about 25 yards behind his house. The marijuana was discovered through an aerial survey conducted by County Investigator Ricky McLester acting on a tip to the sheriff's department. Estimated value of the stuff was $2,000.

State and county officials at that time surrounded Lynch's farm but the "alligator man" managed to slip away.

According to Sheriff Bob Hewes in an interview last week, Lynch told Miller and Richardson he was in Mexico for a while after his escape in 1980 and later worked in the oil patch at Giddings. But, Lynch said, the work played out and he returned to the alligator farm.

Lynch and his 'gator farm first gained attention from law enforcement officials in 1976 when, in an effort to evade arrest on a marijuana charge, he took refuge on a small island in the middle of an alligator pit on the farm.

In that incident, law enforcement officials opted to outwait him and Lynch surrendered to Sheriff Hewes after 18 hours. He was imprisoned for two years, until 1978.

Lynch allegedly told authorities last week he had come home "not long ago" because he thought officials would have forgotten about the two-year-old warrant for his arrest.

Lynch released on bond

County judges' conference set

COLLEGE STATION — County judges and commissioners from across Texas will be attending their annual conference at Abilene Oct. 13-15.

Registration will begin at 1 p.m. Oct. 13 at the Abilene Civic Center, said John Gilmartin, coordinator of the V.G. Young Institute of County Government for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Norman Troy, Jefferson County commissioner and president of the County Judges' and Commissioners' Association of Texas, will call the first session to order on Thursday morning, Oct. 14.

Speakers slated for Thursday will be J. Robert Brown, director of the Texas County and District Retirement System; Robert O. Viterna, executive director of the Texas Commission on Jail Standards; Sam E. Clonts, executive director of the Texas Association of Counties; and Haskell Monroe, president of the University of Texas at El Paso.

Winston Reagan, Henderson County judge and first vice president of the association, will preside at the Friday morning session.

Speakers during that session will be Jim Allison, assistant attorney general; Henry W. Hise, executive director of the Texas Council of County Mental Health and Mental Retardation Centers; Steve Bickert, attorney at law and general counsel for the Texas Association of Counties; Pat Coursey, publisher and editor of the County Progress Magazine; and Gilmartin.

The closing session Friday afternoon will feature an address by State Attorney General Mark White at 2 p.m. Presiding will be Bernard Eads, Dallam County commissioner and second vice president of the association.

The conference will conclude with a banquet Friday evening at which time new association officers will be installed, said Gilmartin.

Dog stolen from yard

R.D. Scrivner of 1032 N. Magnolia reported someone had stolen his dog from the fenced-in yard of his residence last Thursday evening, Sept. 30.

The dog, a small brown female dachshund, was taken about 8:30 p.m.

Burglars put in a busy few days, according to Rockport police who received a call from Warren Duck on North Allen this weekend after someone broke into his residence and took his wallet.

Duck told police the wallet contained $285 in cash along with other personal effects. The burglary occurred between 10:30 p.m. Friday, Oct. 1, and 6:30 a.m. Saturday.

Thomas E. Holdsworth of Houston reported burglars took a bag of quarters from his vehicle around 2 or 3 a.m. on Sept. 26 while the vehicle was in the parking area of Bay House Condominiums.

Police were called to H.E.B. Food Store twice on reports of shoplifters. The earlier incident occurred about 2:30 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 30, when three packs of cigarettes were taken.

The second incident occurred this past weekend. Bobbie L. Brown called police to report someone threw egg on the trunk of her car between noon and 6 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 29.

In other action during the weekend, police made one arrest on a charge of driving while intoxicated and one on a dual charge of public intoxication and resisting arrest.

Rule proposed to aid in transport of elderly

AUSTIN — The Railroad Commission had approved for public comment a new rule that would exempt motor bus companies carrying elderly, disabled or handicapped persons under certain government programs from some Commission regulations.

The proposed rule would also allow the Commission to provide a certificate of exemption to a motor bus company that carries people to and from medical facilities, or where a governmental body pays for the transportation service.

Specifically, the rule would allow a motor bus company to provide these services without a Commission certificate of convenience and necessity, Commission-authorized routes or schedules, or a tariff of Commission-prescribed rates.

However, the proposed rule would not exempt any motor bus companies from current insurance or safety requirements.

Comments on the proposed new rule should be submitted to Rory K. McGinty, Assistant Director, Transportation Division, Railroad Commission of Texas, P.O. Drawer 12967, Capitol Station, Austin, TX 78711.

Washer, dryer taken

A washer and dryer, valued at $300 each, were reported missing after a trailer behind Dodge Town 2 was burglarized sometime last Monday, Sept. 27.

The trailer belongs to Jimmy Tatum of Ingleside.

In an earlier burglary, Audwin W. Reed reported someone took a wallet containing $80 in cash and miscellaneous papers from his car while it was in the Key Allegro Marina parking lot between 8 a.m. Monday, Sept. 20, and 3 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 23.

Re-elect Bill Hobby Lieutenant Governor

Dear Citizens of ARANSAS COUNTY:

ARANSAS COUNTY, and Texas as a whole, are facing some difficult times. Recent layoffs in our oilfields and other major industries and the problems confronting our farmers, ranchers and older Texans must be addressed without delay.

These major problems, combined with federal budget cuts and the demands of our growing population, are affecting state spending and will require careful decision making on the part of your government leaders. In these times, you need leaders who have the strength and experience to make the difficult decisions and the compassion to guard your interests.

There are no instant solutions to the national recession, but I will help insure that we strengthen job opportunities by maintaining a healthy economic climate that encourages business development. This can be accomplished only by continued prudent state spending and keeping our tax burdens low.

Our educational system has advanced significantly in the past nine years, but there is still room for improvement. My efforts to improve the quality of public education for your children and grandchildren will begin in the classroom -- by improving teacher salaries and benefits and by giving more control to local school districts.

Our past approach to crime has won us many battles but now is the time for a new approach. For this reason, I will ask the 1983 Legislature to approve a comprehensive strategy that attacks crime on all fronts - police, courts and corrections.

It has been a privilege and an honor to have served you as Lieutenant Governor for the past nine years. I am asking for your support on November 2 so that I can use my experience and leadership to help face the important challenges confronting you and all other Texans.

Sincerely,

Bill Hobby

Pirates ambush Robstown, 26-18

Coach Brian Connolly pieced his team together Friday night and came away with a 26-18 win over Robstown in a thriller in Rockport Friday night.

With a good portion of the Pirate starting line-up out of the game, the Pirates pulled from the ranks of the Junior Varsity and the effort for the win was outstanding.

The Pirates opened the contest Friday night with a 71-yard drive climaxed by a 5-yard run by Peter Nichols, getting his first call of the season to carry the football in that march for six points. Regular fullback Ramon Romero, injured in each of the last two games, came off the bench to run the football on just one play before his leg injury flared-up again, but that run could have been one of the keys to the outcome as he ran 24 yards for a first down on a second-and-17 situation at the Cottonpicker 32-yard line, setting up the Pirates at the 8-yard line.

Robstown rolled up 324 yards in the air during the game on the 25 completions by quarterback Peter Alaniz, and following the Pirate TD, the Pickers went to the air and Alaniz found David Guy behind everyone for a 29-yard touchdown play. Tom Weaver made a monumental play for the Pirates as he took advantage of a slow snap to the holder on the point-after kick attempt and blocked the kick to keep the game knotted at 6-6.

Defensive tackle Mark Pruitt had his most productive game of the year so far, getting two fumble recoveries to go with his seven tackles, but one of his recoveries on Robstown's next possession gave the Pirates the ball near midfield. From there Rockport moved the ball down the field and then on a third down at Robstown's 17-yard line, quarterback Bobby Dingenary flipped a touchdown pass to David Cochran who was just called up from the JV. When the Pirates went for two, they failed.

When the Pickers got the ball again, they again got on the move, but a lick by linebacker Shawn Johnson, also up from the JV, broke the ball loose, and Bill Mott made the first of his three recoveries for the night. Mott was also called up from the JV.

Although Dwayne Walls was not dressed for the game, Nichols and Trinelle Walls amply filled in as Nichols ran for 105 yards and Walls had his best output with 143 yards gained, including a 47-yard ramble for a touchdown following Mott's recovery. After the touchdown, the Pirates picked up another point on Dingenary's kick, making the score 19-6.

Robstown made things tough on the Pirates by getting the ball to the Pirate 12, and two fine defensive plays in succession by Pruitt and Weaver held them away. Then Pruitt got the ball for the Pirates when the Pickers fumbled, and the Pirates had a decision to make. With less than a minute remaining, and the ball on their own 22-yard line, the Pirates chose to go for more, and that decision backfired. The Pirates tried a trick play as substitute quarterback Rudy Soliz took the ball from center and threw a long lateral to Dingenary who then arched a pass trying to catch the Pickers asleep. The pass was intercepted and the Pickers had the ball at their own 45-yard line. When they tried to go for a score, Soliz intercepted for the Pirates, but the fine defensive effort was wiped out on a penalty to the Pirates. With no time remaining in the first half, David Guy caught his second TD of the night to cut the margin to 19-12. A good pass rush kept Alaniz from connecting for two points to cut the margin more. Instead of a 13-point Pirate lead at the half, the margin was only seven points.

Robstown got the ball early in the second half, and the same combination which had teamed for the two previous scores did it again and the game was 19-18 in favor of the Pirates. The Pickers went for two, and a great saving tackle by Dominic Dominguez denied the runner, and the Pirates held on to the slimmest of leads.

On the kickoff following the Robstown score, the Pirates got a tremendous break as Trinelle Walls fumbled the football, but he managed to scramble in the pack and get it back. The Pirates used good runs by Dingenary, Steve Arkell and Walls to get to the 19-yard line of the Pickers. Nichols took the handoff and squirted into the secondary and raced to the end zone for a Pirate TD. Dingenary hit the kick to end the scoring for the night at 26-18.

Robstown kept coming back through the air to eat up the yard-markers and got inside the Pirate's 20-yard line on two occasions, but the Pirate defense made some big plays to halt both drives. Great efforts by Cochran and Nichols, and then Bill Mott stopped the first drive. Then Doyle Parr made a touchdown-saving tackle on a play, and the Pirates responded by keeping the Pickers away from the goal line.

After the Pirates had taken over deep in their own territory, Dingenary got off a rushed punt, which traveled only 19 yards out to the 32-yard line of the Pirates. As the Pickers got ready to threaten again, another JV player, playing football for the first year, Demetrius Lewis, made a key hit to shake the Robstown ball carrier loose from the ball. Mott came up with the ball, and the Pirates seemed to be out of the fire with just over a minute to go.

Robstown blitzed a line-backer and knocked the ball to the ground in the Pirate backfield and Robstown had the ball again. Robstown went to the air for the 38th time, and Joe Wyatt made his 11th catch of the night and zoomed down the sideline. A host of Pirates met Wyatt, and in an effort to get more yards, Wyatt was hit by a Pirate and the ball was jarred loose. James Tumlinson and Mott were there for the Pirates, and the game was history as the Pirates ran out the clock.

The Pirates, playing with make-shift lineups, are to be commended for their gigantic effort. The JV players came to the varsity last week and did what they had to do. Bill Mott, Demetrius Lewis, David Cochran, Guy Haskell, Shawn Johnson and Rudy Soliz came through. Then Nichols and Walls produced so well, and Dingenary ran the offense in the absence of Mark Cory. Deep in the trenches, Greg Shellenberger, Tom Weaver, Toss Stubbs, Charlie Ochoa, Phillip Ochoa, Darren Gurley and James Thomas provided the blocking necessary to allow the Pirates to collect 319 yards on offense.

Robstown picks on R-F frosh with 34-7 victory

Rockport-Fulton's freshmen were picked clean by the Robstown Cotton-pickers in Robstown Thursday night by a 34-7 win with a little help of the officiating crew being one man short.

Robstown started the game off with determination as they marched the ball from their own 36 to inside of the Pirates 25-yard line before Chuck Ponton, Terry Palmer and John Hattenbach combined to make a key stop on a big fourth-down play.

The Pirates' joy was short-lived because the ball came loose in the backfield and the Pickers took over at Rockport's 14-yard line. The Pirate defense did a fine job for three downs, forcing the Pickers into a fourth-and-14 play, and the Pirate defenders were caught napping on a pass play which went for 18 yards and a touchdown. A pass for two points gave the Pickers a quick lead of 8-0.

Murphy's Law about everything that could go wrong, held true. As the Pickers kicked off, the ball went like a bullet at one of the Pirate linemen and the ball bounced off the man and right back to Robstown for an unplanned onside kick. The Pickers made short work of that break as they went 50 yards in seven plays for their second touchdown, only this time the attempt for two points was stopped, making the score 14-0.

Rockport continued with their string of luck. When they got the ball, two consecutive penalties started them on a retreat which never really stopped before they had to turn over the ball. When the Pirates tried to counter the defense of the Pickers with a reverse, Brent Boone was nailed as he took the handoff about 8 yards deep in his own backfield.

The Pirates were victimized by the fact that only three officials were on hand to call the game. Just as the Pirates were seemingly in a position to stop the Pickers and get back in the game, Robstown would run a play to the side where there was no official. Robstown sent a man in motion on almost every play, but on one long gainer there were two men moving, but it went undetected. When the Pickers got down to the Pirates 20-yard line, they threw a long pass down the right sideline. The player clearly caught the ball out of bounds as seen by everyone on the Robstown home side, but no official was in position to call the play, and from the middle of the field came the signal of touchdown, and at that point, the Pirates were more-or-less out of the contest at 22-0 after the two-point run. The play for the six points was on a fourth down, and an official on the play would have called the ball incomplete, giving the Pirates the ball.

The Pickers caught the Pirate linebackers and secondary in tight and broke off a 55-yard run which took the ball to the Pirate 1-yard line. The Pickers pushed the ball in for the touchdown with just 56 seconds to go in the half.

Like a different ballclub, the Pirates came back the second half and, if games were played in halves, would have won the second half 7-6.

Rockport got their offense in gear again in the third quarter and had another excellent chance to score. Mark Garcia got loose on a quarterback keeper for 18 yards, and then Garcia found Ponton inside the Picker 40-yard line on a pass play. That drive was shut down.

Robstown kicked off to open the second half, and the Pirates made a serious threat to cut the score. After moving the ball to midfield, the Pirates called on Terry Palmer to carry the ball for the first time this year, and he responded with a 43-yard romp before the speedier Pickers hauled him down from behind at Robstown's 9-yard line. Following that play, the Pickers caught the Pirate linebackers in close and blew a back into the secondary and he raced for 99 yards and a touchdown.

The Pirates finally got on the scoreboard in the fourth period on a drive which featured two passes from Garcia to Boone and then the scoring strike to David Cantu. John Solis calmly kicked the ball through the uprights for the seventh Pirate point.

The Pirate defense made two key take-aways in the fourth quarter to stop the Pickers from getting more points. Andy Logan picked

R-F frosh to meet Flour Bluff

Rockport-Fulton, fresh off a 26-18 victory over Robstown, will travel to a real Hornets' nest Friday night to try and get rid of the high-flying Flour Bluff Hornets on the Hornets' home turf.

The Pirates worked hard for their narrow victory over Robstown last week, piecing together a team which fought well together after so many Pirates fell in Refugio the previous week. This week the Pirates will have to band together again when they take on the Hornets, a mystery team in District 15-4A. The Hornets were highly rated at the season's beginning, and yet they still haven't assumed the caliber expected of them. As they enter the contest Friday night after a week off, the Bluff holds a 2-1-1 record, winning over Donna and West Oso, gaining a tie with Falfurrias, and then dropping a game to powerful Gregory-Portland.

To test the Pirate defense will be an offense which is rolling up more than 350 yards a game. The Hornets feature a stable of runners in Todd Sells, Keith Campbell and Chris Reynolds. Sells can throw the ball well and his favorite target has been Kevin Washington. A year ago the Hornets treated the Pirates very rudely, and the Pirates will be out to see that the outcome is different this season.

The Pirates will come into the game with a 3-2 record and a desire to turn this year into a winning season despite the physical problems they've had.

New records forecast

GOLIAD — The 1983 Spring Stake Schedule for Goliad's La Bahia Downs will offer three exciting feature stakes with a battery of supporting features. New purse records are forecast for the Texas Futurity and South Texas Derby, while the all-new Great Texas Maturity Championship should produce the state's richest maturity. The 1983 Spring Meet will be run March 19, 20, 26, 27 and April 2 and 3.

The 1983 Texas Futurity, which in 1982 produced the richest race in Texas history (total gross $281,050), will again be run at 330 yards and has an estimated purse of $300,000. The South Texas Race Association will add $25,000 to the purse. The 1982 Texas Futurity drew 329 entries from throughout the nation and was won by Ima Jody, owned by Bar Anna Farms of Victoria. The trials are scheduled for March 26 and finals and consolations on April 3.

The South Texas Derby is run at 350 yards and has an estimated gross purse of $125,000. The South Texas Race Association will sponsor the race with $12,500 added money. In 1982 the gross purse was $117,650 and was won by Miss Mighty Moon, owned by George Krchnak of Sealy. The Derby trials will be run March 20 and the finals and consolations on March 27. The South Texas Derby is the world's richest non-mutual derby.

BILL PATMAN IS THE WINNER WE NEED IN WASHINGTON.

Now more than ever, we need a Representative who can fight our battles in Washington...and win. Thank goodness, we've got one. Bill Patman. For 22 years, he's been our effective friend in government, and his record proves it.

Fighting high interest rates.

- In the Texas Senate, Bill Patman stopped six different bills that would have raised our interest rates.
- In Congress last year, he killed a bill that would have erased state control of interest rates and sent rates even higher.
- He wrote and sponsors the bill that makes the Federal Reserve Board accountable to Congress when it hurts us all by jacking up interest rates.

Strengthening national defense.

- Bill Patman wrote and will push next year an important bill to keep worldwide control of strategic minerals out of the hands of our enemies.

Helping older Texans.

- Bill Patman successfully fought to restore Social Security benefits that had been taken away from 2 million older Americans, largely poverty-stricken women over 70.

Responsiveness to our needs.

- During the Hallettsville flood, Bill Patman was on the scene in 24 hours, helping to get relief for victims in five counties.
- During his first term, he has held 37 town meetings in local communities throughout the district, and helped 1,432 individuals and communities cut through red tape to solve problems with the Federal government.

Bill Patman's record as an effective, responsible Congressman is proven. Now he's ready to go back and fight even more important battles for us.

If you really want to do something to bring effective government to Washington, you'll have your chance November 2nd.

Re-elect Bill Patman to Congress.

Administration hours extended

CORPUS CHRISTI — Beginning Sept. 14, all administrative offices at Corpus Christi State University will be open until 7 p.m. every Tuesday.

According to Dr. B. Alan Sugg, president, the extended hours are being instituted for the benefit of the evening students.

"Since nearly 50 percent of CCSU's students attend classes in the evening," Sugg said, "we are keeping the offices open to better serve them."

Lee Baker, acting dean of students, added that "a large percentage of those evening students work until 5 p.m." and the extended office hours will prevent them from having to take off work to take care of university business.

Offices whose hours will be extended until 7 p.m. on Tuesdays include all offices in the Administration Building and the offices of the academic classes.

Accident injures one

One person was reported injured in Rockport this weekend as city police were called to investigate three traffic mishaps.

The one injury was suffered by Allen Lee Frost of Berkeley, Calif., who reportedly suffered a fracture of the lower left leg and multiple abrasions after his motorcycle was in collision with a pickup truck about 1:22 a.m. Sunday, Oct. 3.

Frost was ticketed for failure to control speed to avoid an accident and no liability insurance following the accident at the Market-Austin intersection. Driver of the truck was Lellis C. Alexander of Hot Springs, Ark., currently staying in Rockport.

Dolores Theresa Canchola of Rockport was ticketed for failure to leave required information following an accident about 6 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 2, when her car was in collision with a parked pickup belonging to J.C. Harlan of Rockport.

The accident occurred on Navigation Circle about 150 feet west of Chamber Drive. Canchola reportedly left the scene and was located later at her residence.

Patrick J. Walsh of San Antonio was ticketed for failure to yield right-of-way at stop intersection after an accident about 7:22 a.m. Sunday when Walsh's car was in collision with a vehicle driven by Loraine Smith Dennis of Rockport at the intersection of North Church and Concho.

Weigh 'investment costs' when buying clothes

COLLEGE STATION — "Investment dressing" is a term found in most fashion magazines and dress-former success articles, explains Becky Saunders, clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. A clothing shopping trip often convinces the potential buyer that purchasing a new wardrobe can be a major investment. Therefore, clothing items selected need to have good performance, versatility and durability, Saunders emphasizes. "Instead of completely disregarding a garment — such as a wool blend — which may be higher priced initially, consider the cost of each wearing as an investment. Buying a better quality garment that will be comfortable, resist wrinkling, be durable, attractive and versatile may be a much wiser purchase," she says.

how many times you might wear the garment. Then divide this figure into the total price of the garment.

"It may well be that a more expensive garment will be the best purchase, when compared in this manner," Saunders says.

Consider how long you think the garment will be fashionable or wearable, and the total cost of upkeep. Multiply this by High quality clothing that lasts for more than one year can easily be updated seasonally with new accessories, she adds. Accessories are usually less expensive than a replacement garment.

"With fashion emphasis returning to looks that were popular in the past and much interest in natural fibers, we see more emphasis fashionwise towards fabrics that are made of natural fibers or natural fiber blends. Thus, consider the cost each time the garment or garments may be worn," she says.

Jobs shift to public sector

The government share of the national pie — and jobs — keeps getting larger and larger. Don't be misled by the often-heard apology that the blame for skyrocketing public payrolls should be placed on state and local governments, rather than the federal government. Federal payrolls, it is claimed, have remained relatively stable.

It is true that state and local agencies have been building billets faster than

Washington — but only under Washington's masterly tutelage and with money distributed from Washington.

According to Martin Lefkowitz, senior economist for the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, total federal, state and local government expenditures now account for 33 percent of our national income, and government or public jobs account for 16.4 percent of all employment — public and private.

The government share of the Gross National Product — the value of our output of goods and services — has risen 55 percent since 1950. But federal, state and local governments have increased their payrolls even faster — by 60 percent since 1950.

Twenty-three percent of state and local expenditures are paid for by the federal government under the countless federal grant, loan, regulatory and matching programs that redistribute funds among states and local units of government — making thousands of the state and local workers indirect employees of the federal government.

"So if people ask where have the jobs gone," Mr. Lefkowitz muses, "it's obvious that many of them have simply moved over to the public sector. This is quite a shift in public policy but taxpayers as such never voted for it one way or the other."

B & PW honoree

Ogle named Woman of the Year

The Business and Professional Women's Club, Rockport chapter, recently named Loyce Ogle "Woman of the Year" for 1982-83. Ogle is a legal secretary for Attorney Jim Anderson and a real estate closer for U.S. Life Title Agency of Rockport.

A graduate of Wharton County Junior College in Wharton, Ogle has held offices in many community service organizations. She has served as executive secretary to the Rockport Rotary Club, soft-drink chairman and treasurer during previous SeaFairs, secretary-treasurer for the Texas Maritime Museum, director to the Rockport Area Chamber of Commerce. In addition, Ogle has served as past president of the Business and Professional Women's Club, and has held all offices except treasurer.

The "Woman of the Year" award is given by the B&PW to honor an outstanding businesswoman who has distinguished herself in her career field and in her community. Criteria include display of community leadership efforts, work on behalf of the Equal Rights Amendment and the provision of a role model to working women and/or young women about to enter the work force.

As the recipient of the local award, Ogle will now compete within the district for the district title of "Woman of the Year," the winner of which will then advance to the state competition. Judging is done on a point system at both the district and the state levels.

Texas teachers are joining forces

Texas college and university faculty and public school classroom teachers have joined forces to launch a major effort to organize and strengthen the voice of Texas professors.

The new, formal alliance was formed when the Texas Conference of the American Association of University Professors (TCAAUP) agreed to enter into a "preaffiliation" agreement with the Texas State Teachers Association and the National Education Association (TSTA/NEA).

The agreement, approved by delegates to the Sept. 24-25 fall Conference of TCAAUP held in Fort Worth, is intended to lead toward permanent affiliation in two years with TSTA/NEA, respectively the largest teacher organizations in Texas and the nation.

In a joint statement, TCAAUP President Leonard Giesecke of Southwestern University in Georgetown and TSTA President Barbara O'Neal, a classroom teacher from Waco, said:

"This agreement, which we hope will lead to the full and permanent affiliation of our organizations, is a significant action that will enable us to present to the legislature and the public one united voice for all levels of education, from kindergarten to college."

The agreement blends the academic expertise and higher education experience of the prestigious TCAAUP with the political strength and classroom teacher perspective of TSTA/NEA.

According to the joint statement, "The Texas professorate must combine its energies and talents in a single, vastly more powerful and persuasive organization and this agreement marks a dramatic step in that direction."

The two presidents also said the new alliance will actively pursue similar agreements with the independent Texas Association of College Teachers and other organizations representing higher education faculty members.

In their joint statement, the two leaders said, "Higher education professors and kindergarten through 12th grade teachers and their respective organizations have historically worked largely independently of each other, including in the legislature. This new agreement represents our mutual recognition that our common concerns in the legislative process and, certainly, in quality education at all levels far outweigh any differences we may have."

They also explained that TCAAUP and TSTA/NEA will work together to strengthen existing TCAAUP chapters' ability to assure academic freedom and faculty participation in governance at the campus level.

TCAAUP represents members at junior and senior colleges and universities, both private and public. TSTA/NEA represent the majority of public school classroom teachers throughout Texas.

Sheer fabrics require special care

COLLEGE STATION — Popular sheer fabrics require special care and planning for creative and professional sewing.

"Always preshrink the fabric before making the garment," says Becky Saunders, clothing specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. "Preshrink the fabric in the manner the garment will be cared for later."

When hand washing, always avoid harsh treatments such as chlorine bleach, wringing or twisting the fabric, she suggests.

"Select a simple design when sewing sheers because construction details will show. If possible, use sheer interfacing compatible with the fashion fabric. Facings and details such as seam pockets should be avoided," Saunders says.

Curved or straight edges require narrow seams or seam finishes. French seams are especially suited for straight edges. Raw edges should be enclosed to prevent unraveling.

False French seams are similar to French seams and should also be used on straight edges. False French seams have an additional row of outside stitching, she explains.

Double-stitched seams are ideal for curved seams, says Saunders. The raw edges are finished with a fine zig zag stitch.

A self-bound seam also produces a narrow, neat unraveling seam. Self-bound seams should be used on straight edges, Saunders says.

Collins earns 'Guardian Award'

WASHINGTON — Rep. James M. Collins has earned the "Guardian of Small Business" Award from the National Federation of Independent Business (NFIB) for his outstanding voting record on small-business issues.

The nation's largest small-business group presented Collins with the award because he voted with a majority of NFIB members 89 percent of the time.

On announcing the award, NFIB President Wilson S. Johnson said, "The voting record of Rep. Collins in this Congress demonstrates that he is responsive to the needs of his state, because small businesses create the majority of new jobs, and if left to flourish will be a major factor in restoring economic growth."

House members were rated on 22 recorded votes during this session of Congress. Issues ranged from cutting the budget to raising unemployment taxes and forcing the government to pay its bills on time. Those members of Congress who did not have recorded votes on at least 70 percent of the issues included in the ratings were not eligible for the award.

NFIB is a non-profit, non-partisan organization representing 45,622 small-business owners in Texas and more than a half-million independent businesses across the country.

V.A. has low payment mortgages

HOUSTON — Veterans Administration - guaranteed Graduated Payment Mortgages (GPM) now are available in Houston with lower down payments for new home purchases.

The new program is part of the Veterans' Disability Compensation, Housing and Memorial Benefits Amendments passed by Congress last year, said R. L. Cobb, VA loan guaranty officer for Houston.

Under the GPM, monthly payments are lower for the first few years than the corresponding monthly payments on a traditional mortgage for the same amount. In a GPM mortgage a portion of the interest due on the loan each month is deferred and added to the principal balance of the loan. This is done during the early years. In a traditional mortgage all the interest and a portion of the principal are scheduled to be paid each month, Cobb explained.

After a set number of years the payments become a constant amount for the duration of the loan. From that point on each scheduled loan payment includes all of the interest due, plus a portion of the principal, as in a traditional mortgage.

The VA will guarantee only those GPMs which feature annual payment increases of 7.5 percent, implemented on each annual anniversary date of the loan for the first five years, Cobb said.

On new homes the down payment with a VA GMP may be as low as 2.5 percent of the sales price or reasonable value of the property, whichever is lower.

Texas alligators to be reclassified

AUSTIN — Federal officials have notified the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department they are proposing to reclassify the alligator in Texas, a move which eventually would give the state management authority over the reptiles.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service said alligators are variously classified as endangered or threatened in Texas. The proposal would change the species' legal status to the less restrictive category of "threatened due to similarity of appearance."

Public comments on the proposal may be directed to the Regional Director, U.S.

Fish and Wildlife Service, P. O. Box 1306, Albuquerque, NM 87103.

A Parks and Wildlife Department special report on the status of the alligator in Texas published in 1981 estimated that more than 90,000 of the animals inhabit Chambers, Jefferson and Orange Counties in Southeast Texas. The report said populations have increased significantly throughout the coastal marsh habitat in recent years, and increases also have been noted over a wide inland area.

Department officials said if the proposed reclassification is approved by the USFW, limited hunting may be authorized in certain areas of Southeast Texas by fall 1983.

Agreement should help redfish

AUSTIN — Redfish populations in Texas' coastal waters should increase in the future because of a unique agreement finalized last week in Austin.

Officials of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission, the Gulf Coast Conservation Association (GCCA) and Central Power and Light Co. (CP&L) of Corpus Christi signed a lease which will allow the Parks and Wildlife Department to start operating the $1.2 million saltwater fish hatchery now in the final stages of construction at Flour Bluff near Corpus Christi.

The GCCA raised money through donations to fund the hatchery construction, the CP&L donated 30 acres of land and access to warm discharge waters from their power plant and the department will provide the personnel for day-to-day operation of the hatchery.

When fully operational in November, biologists will begin the redfish propagation program they have pioneered in the last several years, using light and temperature manipulations to induce captive redfish to spawn in indoor tanks. They hope to produce between six and 10 million fingerling-sized redfish annually for restocking Texas' bay systems.

Officials said the light/photoperiod sequences will be timed differently for each tank, thus allowing several spawns each year.

When the redfish brooders spawn, the buoyant fertilized eggs float out of the tanks and are collected in special filter boxes. They are placed into incubator tanks where they remain for about three days while developing mouth parts.

The fry then are transferred to rearing ponds where they grow to fingerling size in about 45 days. Availability of warm discharge waters from the plant will allow fry stockings to continue through the winter months. Biologists who utilized the redfish spawning technique at the department's research facility at Palacios were not able to conduct year-round pond stocking activities because warm water was not available.

New quail habitat booklet offered

AUSTIN — Landowners interested in improving quail production on their property can obtain an excellent booklet on the subject from the Parks and Wildlife Department for only $1.25.

The booklet, authored by noted quail biologist A.S. Jackson, is entitled "Quail Management Handbook for West Texas Rolling Plains."

Although Jackson's studies concentrated on West Texas, the management techniques described in the booklet can be applied throughout the state, officials said.

To obtain the booklet, send check, cashier's check or money order for $1.25 (tax included) to the Information - Education Division, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, 4200 Smith School Road, Austin, TX 78744.

Fall colors of mother nature

By Ted Brice
The Garden Editor
This is the time of the year that Mother Nature displays all her beautiful colors for us to enjoy. It is truly amazing to see this beautiful display of color and remember back to those high temperatures of the summer and the times we needed rain as well as those times when we had too much rain. It must be true, the old saying "It is not nice to mess with Mother Nature." This is a beautiful time of the year to visit the rural countryside of our great country.

Of course the stately pine trees stand tall and green over other trees as though they were standing watch over them. You can see trees of many colors from light pinks to a fire engine red with a sprinkling of orange and yellows.

There are many combinations of all the colors: red, yellow, pink, orange and the green of the stately pine in groves that would be a photographer's paradise. I remember a tree standing alone on a hilltop that had red leaves on the north, pink leaves in the center with orange/yellow on the south side. You could almost see exactly where the frost line came several weeks earlier.

I have already mentioned the pine tree for the green color, but in addition to the pine there are Red Oaks, Live Oaks, Pin Oaks, Sweet Gums, Maples, Sycamores and many others. Some people think the spring bloom of the flowering trees as well as the spring budding of the trees is fantastic. But in the spring you do not have the combinations of as many trees with the varieties of colors.

This is the time of the year you can see very readily the hand of Mother Nature at work, displaying some of her most fantastic works of art and color. Let me urge you to take time this year to enjoy this fall show of color.

Good gardening until next week from your garden editor, Ted Brice.

Services ease test interpretation

Three new services to help students and school officials better understand and interpret scores on the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (PSAT/NMSQT) have been introduced by the College Board to coincide with this year's test date of Oct. 19, according to Claudia Nelson, Rockport-Fulton High School Counselor.

The three services are:

- A Summary of Answers Report, which indicates how many students in each school, district or state chose each answer to each question on the test, as compared to all students taking the test nationally.

- State Summary Reports of Sophomores, which show career choices, intended college majors, ethnic background, and similar demographic data identical to information currently provided for juniors.

- "A Counselor's Guide to Helping Students Learn from the PSAT/NMSQT," a new publication designed for counselors to help students more clearly grasp the general nature of the tests and the implications of their test results.

Students also receive, before taking the test, a "Student Bulletin" containing a complete test with an answer key and scoring instructions; a "Report of Student Answers," in December, including the corrected answers and their own responses and scores; the test booklets so that they can review the original questions; and a booklet, "About Your PSAT/NMSQT Scores," that helps them to interpret their test results and to plan for college.

The PSAT/NMSQT is cosponsored by the College Board and the National Merit Scholarship Corporation. Since 1959, more than 25.5 million students have taken the test, which measures verbal and mathematical abilities.

By taking the test, students discover how they rank among juniors (or sophomores or seniors) across the country. It also provides a preview of the College Board's Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT), which many seniors take when they apply for college. The PSAT/NMSQT is also the qualifying test for students wishing to participate in competitions of the National Merit Scholarship Corporation.

Boy Scout troop 49 holds Court of Honor

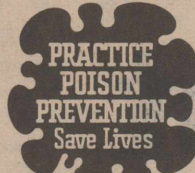

Several members of Boy Scout troop 49 earned awards at the troop's Court of Honor, held at 7 p.m. Monday, Oct. 4, at the First Presbyterian Church in Rockport. In addition, 13 new scouts joined the troop since the last Court of Honor Aug. 28.

John Simmons and Danny Cox earned the rank of Tenderfoot. Stephen Clark earned merit badges in the areas of geology, sports and emergency preparedness. Dustin Wright earned a merit badge for citizenship in the world.

Stonewall Van Wie, an Eagle Scout who recently moved to Rockport from Corpus Christi, was made a junior assistant scoutmaster.

In addition, 12 boys earned swimming skill awards during Aquatics Day Sept. 26.

Visitor at Rockport school

The average summer temperature is 54 degrees. If one were playing jeopardy, the question would be, "What is the average summer temperature of the state of Alaska?" This is just one of the many interesting facts that fifth graders at Rockport Elementary School were enlightened upon on Sept. 28.

Martha Graumann, a resident of Nome, Alaska, spoke to the students about the history of the Eskimos, the Eskimo way of life and living in Alaska. After sharing interesting information with the students, Graumann answered questions from the audience. One interesting fact learned during the question and answer period was that the Eskimo people are a very polite people as well as a people of few words.

Graumann is the regional director of social services of the northwest, district of the state of Alaska. She is a native Texan, but has lived in Alaska for over 10 years.

The students enjoyed the program immensely, and were receptive to their newly acquired knowledge.

Title I meeting will be Oct. 13

The Title I Reading Improvement Program of the Aransas County Independent School District is off to a good start this year. Approximately 275 pupils are being served by this federally funded program.

Parents and other persons interested in this program are invited to attend a meeting at 2:30 p.m., Wednesday, Oct. 13, at Rockport Elementary School.

Water Reform Act clears Congress

A longstanding dispute over the pricing and availability of water from U.S. Bureau of Reclamation projects located throughout the 17 Western States was resolved Sept. 29 when a compromise Reclamation Reform Act cleared Congress, according to Secretary of the Interior James Watt.

"A few short years after the passage of the initial act, President Theodore Roosevelt noted that there were problems with Reclamation Legislation that would need to be resolved in the future. That time has certainly come. The economic realities of farming in 1982 are much different than the problems which faced the American farmer in 1902. This Administration is proud of the contributions of the Reclamation program and has strongly supported legislative efforts to resolve the many complex problems associated with the Reclamation Act of 1902. We are pleased that Congress has passed a new bill," Watt said.

The Bureau of Reclamation will hold a public hearing in Salt Lake City on Oct. 28 to explain the new legislation and take suggestions on the content and focus of the new rules. The meeting will be held at the Salt Palace, Room 220, 100 South West Temple, at 9 a.m.

Provisions of the bill expand the limitation on irrigable acreage set by Reclamation legislation drafted in 1902 from 160 to 960 acres. Since the inception of the Federal Reclamation program, western water users have repaid, without interest, the Federal investment in irrigation works, Watt noted. Under provisions of the new bill, interest will be charged on water delivered to large operations and corporately owned farms which exceed the land-holding limits set by the act.

Owners of lands termed excess by the provisions of the new bill will have the opportunity to enter into contracts with the Secretary of the Interior which allow for sale of these lands within a set period. Districts containing less productive lands will be allowed to request adjusted acreage limitations for those lands.

Other measures of the bill repeal residency requirements for landowners, exempt Corps of Engineers projects from the conditions of Reclamation law and clarify the status of tax exempt religious and charitable organizations.

The bill also calls for the implementation of water conservation plans developed by individual irrigation districts and requires a special report to Congress from the Secretary of Agriculture regarding the production of surplus crops on land receiving Reclamation water.

Controversy over different sections of Reclamation law has been commonplace throughout the 80-year history of the Bureau of Reclamation. The problems came to a head in 1976 when National Land for People Inc. sued the Department of the Interior.

A California irrigation district proceeded with additional litigation in 1977. The suits resulted in the preparation of proposed rules and regulations enforcing the acreage limitations set by the 1902 Act and an environmental impact statement on the effect of the proposed rules.

Hearings on the proposed standards were set by the Department early in 1982 but were postponed when the U.S. House of Representatives began to take action on reform measures.

The Department of the Interior is now in the process of creating a new set of rules and regulations to implement the new bill.

Further public meetings on the new regulations will be scheduled.

Cotton classing confrence set

CORPUS CHRISTI — Classing cotton by instrument rather than by manual examination has the potential for improving cotton's marketability. So cotton growers and ginners in coastal and southern areas will be getting a closer look at cotton instrument classing at a conference in Corpus Christi.

Cotton instrument classing, specifically high volume instrument (HVI) classing, can provide some incentive to growers to produce better quality cotton, said specialists with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. It can also improve the marketability of cotton because it gives textile mills a better description of the type of product they are getting, said Dr. Bob Metzger, agronomist and Dr. Carl Anderson, economist.

The Instrument Cotton Classing Conference will be at the Hilton Inn with registration beginning at 9 a.m.

The program starts at 9:30 a.m. with opening remarks by Lin Wilson of Corpus Christi, district extension director. Homer Easterwood of Sinton, president of the South Texas Cotton and Grain Association Inc. and Texas Association of Cotton Producer's Organizations, will moderate the program.

Featured will be Dr. Zerle Carpenter, extension service director, College Station; Jesse Moore, director of the cotton division, USDA Agricultural Marketing Service, Washington, D.C.; Paul Dickson, head of the cotton grading section, USDA AMS, Memphis, Tenn.; Jerry Harris, past president of Lamesa Cotton Growers Inc.; Chessley Howard, vice president of fiber purchasing, Graniteville Co., Augusta, GA; and Donovan Phipps, Motion Control, Welch.

Carpenter will discuss opportunities for the Texas cotton industry while Moore will talk about classing with instruments. Dickson will describe his experience with instrument cotton classing, and Harris will tell about producers' experience with this type of classing. Howard will discuss the use of instrument classing values for spinning and weaving, and Phipps will talk about the performance of cotton classing instruments.

Andersons will moderate a panel discussion that will conclude the day's program.

The $5 registration fee includes printed proceedings and lunch.

The conference is sponsored by the South Texas Cotton and Grain Association and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Pollution suits sought against two

AUSTIN — The Railroad Commission has asked the Texas Attorney General to file suit against B.F. Smith of Spring and E.C. LaQuey of Refugio for salt water pollution violations of the Texas Natural Resources Code and the Texas Water Code.

Commission field inspectors discovered an illegal three-inch pipeline running from the Miller Vidor Lumber Company oil lease in Orange County into Tiger Creek. Smith is the operator of the lease according to documents filed with the Commission. The inspectors witnessed discharges of salt water through the pipeline into the creek on Aug. 30 and Sept. 8. The August discharge caused a fish kill extending one and a half miles downstream.

A field test of that discharge indicated a chloride content of approximately 52,000 parts per million. Drinking water normally contains 250 parts per million of chloride or less.

Both Railroad Commission and Parks and Wildlife Department investigators documented salt water discharges into Dry Creek through an illegal six-inch pipe running from the D.M. Kelly oil lease in Refugio County operated by LaQuey under the business name Industrial Semco. Dry Creek flows into the Mission River and then into Mission Bay.

Bank observes anniversary

The First National Bank of Rockport celebrated its 92nd anniversary Friday, Oct. 1. To mark the occasion, a staff gathering was held Friday morning, with cake, punch and cheeses served.

John P. Mitchell Jr., senior vice president, marketing, addressed the gathering and recognized the contributions of five long-term bank employees.

"The occasion we are celebrating this morning is not only a happy and significant one, but a very unique one. Few of us can call to mind other business organizations that have survived and progressed for 92 years. The First National Bank of Rockport has successfully withstood the shock of hurricanes, world wars, depressions and more recently, aggressive competition. First National has been growing stronger each year," Mitchell remarked.

"The secret of this remarkable achievement has been people. People of First National who have been competent, accurate, friendly, taking a keen interest in the affairs of the bank and the community, people of good character and strong vision: the employees, stockholders, directors and management who have dedicated themselves to putting First National first in Aransas County."

He called attention to the following five people who together aggregate 128 years of service: James H. Sorenson Jr. — 37 years, chief executive officer; Elsie Hawes — 29 years, operations; Charles LaBounty — 25 years, executive officer; Margaret Touchstone — 20 years, cashier and vice president; and Jeannie Rozzell — 17 years, operations.

Salt buildup increasing problem

COLLEGE STATION — Salt buildup in the soil due to saline seeps is becoming a growing problem in Texas farms and is affecting crop production.

"The problem has been with us for some time but continues to become worse," said Dr. Ed Colburn, regarding the gradual buildup of salt in farmland. "It's basically a result of certain farming practices and the natural movement of water through soil."

As water moves through the soil, it dissolves salts that are present and moves them down to a compacted layer, explained Colburn, an agronomist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. The water then moves laterally to the lowest possible level, where it comes to the soil surface carrying all the concentrated salt that has been leached down.

"Farming practices that have made Texas agriculture successful are contributing to the salinity problem," said Colburn. "These include soil and water conservation practices such as terracing, contour farming and maximizing crop residues on the soil surface."

The agronomist noted that salt buildup was not a problem years ago when perennial vegetation covered much of the land and used moisture throughout the year. Thus salts did not have much opportunity to leach down and concentrate in the soil. Now, with land in field crops only 120 to 150 days or so out of the year and remaining bare the rest of the time, moisture is not used up so it leaches downward, carrying salts along. After 20 to 40 years of such cropping patterns, particularly on marginal land, saline seeps often develop.

Colburn said that the problem of saline seeps is evident over much of Texas, particularly in the Rolling Plains, North Central Plains, Rio Grande Plains, Trans - Pecos, Coastal Bend and claypan areas. The problem also exists in all the plains states, especially in the Dakotas, Montana and Wyoming.

"Saline seeps causing loss of crop production may range from just a few feet in diameter to several hundred acres," noted Colburn. "In smaller areas, subsurface drainage using an underground tile system would help solve the problem."

But for the most part, there is no easy answer, said the agronomist. While there has been much research on the effect of salinity on crops, little work has focused on saline seeps. It is not an easy problem for researchers and will likely call for an interdisciplinary approach.

Eating certain foods may reduce the risk of developing cancer

Although we have heard plenty about foods that appear to increase the chances of getting cancer, a recent study also cites foods that seem to reduce the odds, says the Texas Medical Association.

A scientific committee of the National Academy of Sciences says in a report that diets rich in fruits, vegetables and whole-grain cereals seem to reduce the chances of getting certain kinds of cancer. The panel specifically urged daily consumption of produce high in vitamin C and carotene, which the body changes to vitamin A.

The committee noted that vitamin C in foods can inhibit the formation of cancer-causing substances. It said foods rich in vitamin C, such as citrus fruits, tomatoes and peppers, appear to lower the risk of stomach and esophagus cancer.

Foods high in carotene are associated with a reduced risk of many cancers, including lung, breast, bladder and skin. These foods include dark-green leafy vegetables and deep-yellow fruits and vegetables, such as carrots, spinach and broccoli.

The study also cited vegetables in the cabbage family — cauliflower, kale and brussels sprouts — for their natural cancer-inhibiting substances.

But the committee advised against taking large doses of vitamin and nutrient supplements. It cited a lack of proof that this is healthful and noted possible toxic hazards.

The study also urged people to cut back on foods that may increase the risk of getting cancer. They include:

— Salt-cured and smoked foods such as bacon, bologna, smoked fish and ham, sausage and hot dogs.

— Foods high in fat such as fatty cuts of meat, cooking oils and whole-milk dairy products.

Finally, the report urged moderation in drinking alcoholic beverages. It noted that heavy drinking has been associated with an increased risk of cancer of the upper gastrointestinal and respiratory tracts, particularly when combined with smoking.

Nimitz the subject of new book

BURNET — "Admiral of The Hills" — the first in-depth book dealing with the Texas Hill Country and how it affected Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, a native son who was commander in chief of the Pacific Forces during World War II — will be published by Eakin Press of Burnet, the largest publisher of Texana material in the state.

The authors, Frank A. Driskill of Round Rock and Dede W. Casad of Dallas, both experienced writers, are working with Douglass Hubbard, the executive director of the Admiral Nimitz Center in Fredericksburg, to produce a book for the lay reader that will be available at the dedication of the Museum of the Pacific on Feb. 26, 1983, two days after the Admiral's birthday.

This unusual museum, a cooperative endeavor which involves the state of Texas and the Admiral Nimitz Foundation, is being handled by the same New York firm that planned the restoration of King Tut's tomb. When completed it will attract world-wide attention and enlighten many Americans who still view the quiet, unassuming Texan who was selected by President Roosevelt and Navy Secretary Frank Knox over 28 senior officers, to assume the role of commander in chief of the Pacific Fleet after the Pearl Harbor disaster.

Harbor is supporting the two smaller harbors. He said that all of the $7,000 lease income from Cove Harbor for the month of August was used to support Rockport and Fulton Harbors.

He said the only money used to maintain Cove Harbor is the money received from the fuel maintenance tax on all fuel pumped at Cove Harbor.

Holman said he feels the district must do something about the problems facing it very soon.

Charter

council members elected by ward must live in the ward which they seek to represent.

The charter provides for compensation of the mayor and council members with the amount of compensation to be determined by ordinance.

Left for discussion at next week's charter commission meeting were provisions of proposed Article III dealing with ordinances, including a question of how many readings to require for an ordinance before adoption.

The 1979 charter which failed to be adopted by Rockport voters followed the Corpus Christi city charter in this provision and required three readings of an ordinance before passage.

However, at the Sept. 27 charter commission session, commission members appeared in favor of requiring only two readings of an ordinance on the basis that three readings were not necessary.

At Monday's meeting, Johnson pointed out that a three-reading requirement for ordinance passage would mean a delay of at least two months before most ordinances could be adopted. He said in the case of zoning changes in particular, this could work a hardship on property owners. "A property owner doesn't want to wait two or three months to get a zoning change," Johnson said.

He emphasized he was not making a need a new boat ramp. We need to either overhaul the old ramp at the south end of the harbor or build a new one."

The commissioner said it is not possible to rebuild the old ramp because of insufficient parking. He said that commissioner Hal B. McKnight and Harbor Master Bernie DeForest came up with the idea for a new boat ramp at the north end of Fulton Harbor.

Holman said it is impractical to put a new boat ramp at the north end of the harbor where the ACND proposed to build one because eventually the north seawall of the harbor is going to have to be either rebuilt or moved.

According to the commissioner the north seawall of Fulton Harbor was left as a wooden wall for the purpose of moving it in harbor expansion program.

Holman says the north seawall is in such bad condition that the next storm to hit the area will take the seawall.

During the interview Holman said the most important thing for the ACND to do is to do a re-evaluation of all Aransas County Navigation District property and raise the districts rates and generate more revenue.

Holman said that the ACND is hurting so badly financially that after doing the proposed electrical work at Rockport Harbor, repairing two bulkheads at Cove Harbor and building a new finger pier in Rockport Harbor the district will be broke. Holman said that revenue from Cove

New construction values near $200,000 in Rockport

New construction in Rockport during this past month neared the $200,000 mark, according to permits issued at City Hall, with two of the larger permits issued on Sept. 30, both for commercial construction.

A permit was issued to J&E Oil Co. of Elsa for installation of a gas pump, tanks and 24-by-30-foot steel canopy at Rick's Quick Mart, 210 Bronte. Value of the new additions is shown as $25,000. Owner is R.M. Hoover, according to the permit.

Also issued on Sept. 30 was a permit for remodeling of the existing building and bathroom at Kim's Bar-B-Que, 801 Liberty. Owner is D.M. Kimbrough, contractor is Jerry Kissling and value of the new construction is estimated at $14,000.

Total value of new construction in September amounted to $192,385, according to the permit book at City Hall. This figure included two new residences, a $79,160 four-room, two-bath house in Harbor Oaks Unit 7 and another residence on Magnolia to be constructed at a cost of $24,000.

Other permits during the month included $7,000 for an addition to Whitney Vaky Insurance and $18,000 for an addition to C Cushions. Both these permits were issued on Sept. 29.

Only one permit was applied for during the first half of the month: for construction of a $4,600 utility room at an existing residence.

The remaining 11 permits issued during the month were applied for on Sept. 22 and after. One permit was issued for a swimming pool at a residence, an estimated $5,000 in value and one for conversion of carports to motel units valued at $9,000.

Also issued during the month was one permit for installation of a 20-by-10-foot sign, valued at $125, at the Texas Independent (Uni Oil) station on Liberty.

Imagination aids in migraine relief

DENVER — A Veterans Administration clinical psychologist is proving that a patient's imagination is as effective as medication or surgery in dealing with the crippling pain of migraine headache.

Dr. John Roitzsch's patients use their own minds to combat the severity and duration of migraine pain. One imagines herself floating through her own blood vessels; another envisions an ever-narrowing river. They are using biofeedback, a self-control and relaxation technique, to naturally relieve migraine attacks.

Roitzsch reported at a recent meeting of the Southeastern Psychological Association that he has noted a long-term success rate in biofeedback treatment of migraines caused by constriction of the temporal arteries. The procedure, he says, has proven highly effective in reducing the frequency, severity and duration of the headaches.

Roitzsch, of the Charleston, S.C., VA Medical Center and Medical University of South Carolina, explained that biofeedback is simply a method of letting the patient know what his body is doing so he can respond to it and control it. Changes of blood flow patterns through the temporal arteries cause migraine. Those changes cause constriction and dilation of the arteries. Roitzsch shows patients how to avoid the migraine by controlling the blood flow through biofeedback techniques.

The process involved placing a sensor on the patient's head over the temporal artery to measure skin temperature, which reflects blood flow through the artery. The sensor connects to a computer which buzzes to tell the patient when pain-producing contraction or dilation occurs.

The patient's job is to keep the buzzer from sounding and, as a result, to control the flow of blood through the artery. The therapist increases the patient's control by gradually narrowing the flow change the computer will allow.

Roitzsch says that each patient uses the control technique that works best for him or her. The common denominator is the mind's eye — imagination. It may be thinking of a calm water scene on a sunny spring day to relax a constricted artery or peering down a narrowing tunnel to constrict a dilated artery.

"We don't know how it works," he explained, "but we see results. The artery diameter can be changed at will and headaches averted."

Roitzsch notes that several biofeedback procedures for migraines have been reported, but few contain long-term follow-up data. His study followed eight patients, some treated five years ago and some one year ago. The patients were asked to indicate the rate, intensity and duration of the headaches on rating sheets for four weeks. Having this same information on file for the patients prior to treatment, Roitzsch was able to make long-term comparisons before and long after biofeedback treatment.

In averaging the results of all patients, he found that the average number of headaches per year decreased from 103.2 before treatment to 10.2 afterwards; the duration of the average headache was reduced from 129.4 hours to 12.9; and the average severity — measured on a scale from one to five with one being no pain and five being intense, incapacitating pain — was reduced from 4.75 to 2.63.

Roitzsch's co-investigators on the study were Dr. William C. Miller Jr., professor of psychiatry and behavioral sciences at the Medical School of South Carolina, and Joseph Giacinto, technician in charge of the biofeedback laboratory, Charleston VA Medical Center.

New 4-H year begins

CORPUS CHRISTI — Another 4-H Club year has begun for youngsters age 9 to 19. County Extension agents in South Texas are in the process of starting new 4-H activities for this youth program sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Participation is grouped into two age classifications: seniors, age 14 to 19; and juniors, 9 to 13. Age groupings vary between counties. Senior participants must have passed their 14th but not their 19th birthday before Jan. 1, 1983.

Those participating in 4-H have the opportunity to become involved in any of about 80 different projects, enter a wide range of learning activities and contests, or even travel to foreign countries under the sponsorship of 4-H according to Nelson Jacob, extension 4-H and youth specialist.

"All young people 9 to 19 are urged to contact their county extension office now for 4-H enrollment forms," says Jacob. "This can also be done by parents."

Each member is required recommendation. This is merely a suggestion, something to be considered," he said.

Johnson also suggested that when the charter commission begins considering Article IV of the charter which deals with appoint officials, the commission consider providing for the appointment of an alternate municipal court judge.

The alternate judge would be sworn in at the same time as the municipal judge and would be available to preside over municipal court in the municipal judge's absence.

Johnson also suggested that the commission take a close look at a provision that had been required in the 1979 charter, requiring a certified list of registered city voters to be "maintained current by the city secretary," before including this provision in the charter now being written.

Johnson said that, under the present system set up by state law, in which maintenance of voter lists is under the county's charge, "There is no way" this provision could be followed.

"You will never have a current list," Johnson said, adding there is a problem of identifying which voters are inside and which are outside city limits. "Probably half of the voters have a box number," Johnson said, and others use a business address — which may be in the city while the voter's residence is outside the city. Under state law, the voter must live in the city in order to vote in the city.

"I'm not against this provision," Johnson said. "I think it's the best thing in the world — if you can do it."

Commission Chairman Ed Armstrong said he would talk to County Clerk Val Jear Eaton to see whether such a provision would be enforceable. "To have a provision in the charter that cannot be enforced would open to trouble," he said.

The charter commission will consider remaining provisions in Article III, Article IV and proposed Article V during next Monday's, Oct. 11, meeting. That session will be moved to the district courtroom in the Aransas County Courthouse since Rockport's city council will be having a workshop meeting in city hall at 5 p.m.

Goldenrain easy to grow

By Ted Brice

Koeleruteria paniculata, the goldenrain tree, was first described by the Reverend Eric Laxmann (1737-1796) of Sweden, who was for a time the pastor at Kolywan, a town near Tomsk on the Ob River in Midwest Siberia. He published his description in "Nova Commentarii: Academiae Imperialis Scientiarum Petropolitae" in 1771 and 1772. This is one of the oldest scientific journals.

Laxmann dedicated his new genus to Joseph Gottlieb Koeleruter (1773-1806), who was professor of natural history and curator of the botanical garden at Karlsruhe in Southwest Germany. Koeleruter is remembered for series of publications recording experiments and observations on sexual reproduction in plants.

Koeleruteria is a small genus of four species that range from the Fiji Islands to Taiwan, China and Korea. The family Sapindaceae, to which Koeleruteria belongs, is large, with about 140 genera and 1,500 species spread throughout the tropics and sub-tropics of both the Old and New World. Two species, Koeleruteria paniculata and Xanthoceras sorbifolium, are woody ornamentals and very hardy. Several of the tropical and sub-tropical species are of at least local importance as sources of edible fruits.

Koeleruteria paniculata is a small, twisted tree that grows 45 feet high in its natural habitat, but usually somewhat less in cultivation. It is native in Northern China from Shanxi, just west of Beijing, southward and westward. It flowers in July and August, and there is a clone in cultivation that flowers as late as September. The tree was often planted about the tombs of Chinese feudal princes. The flowers have been used medicinally, and the plant yields a yellow dye. The hard, pea-size seeds have been used as beads. It was introduced into cultivation in England in 1763.

The plant is easily grown from seed. Nick the seed coats with a file, then place in pots and cover with one-fourth inch of soil. Enclose the pots in a plastic bag, seal and keep in a refrigerator at 35 to 40 degrees Fahrenheit for two or three months. Remove from the refrigerator and place in a warm, light (but not sunny) spot. Open the bag when the seedlings appear.

Koeleruteria paniculata is very hardy in the South.

In the southernmost regions of the United States two other species are cultivated. They are both larger trees (up to 60 feet high) with long trunks, and make good street and shade trees. Koeleruteria bipinnata, from Southwest China is the hardier of the two, growing in to the Northern states.

Good gardening until next week from your garden editor Ted Brice.

Economic Development Center receives grant

An open house and formal announcement of nearly a half-million dollar grant from the Department of Commerce will be held at UTSA's Center for Economic Development in HemisFair Plaza on Tuesday, Oct. 12.

The center was awarded a $479,700 grant from the Minority Business Development Agency (M.B.D.A.) of the Department of Commerce. Grants in varying amounts were awarded to 100 business development centers across the country. The UTSA Center for Economic Development was the only such center associated with a university and received one of the larger grants.

Official ceremonies will begin at 10 a.m. in the center's new office, now located directly southeast of the Tower of the Americans in HemisFair Plaza. Dr. Jude Valdez, director of the center, will open with a welcoming address, followed by comments from Victor Rivera, director of the M.B.D.A., and Dr. James Wagener, president of UTSA. The open house will extend until 1 p.m.

Under the grant, the Center for Economic Development will promote new minority-owned business start-ups, expansion of existing minority-owned business firms, and provide assistance to minimize failures. The service area covered by the grant includes Bexar, Komal and Guadalupe counties.

The center will also provide help in obtaining financial assistance loans, loan guarantees, bank lines of credit, and assistance in accounting, marketing, inventory control, sales promotions and personnel management.

The assistance to be offered to minority-owned businesses under the M.B.D.A. grant falls closely in line with services previously offered by the center. The UTSA Center for Economic Development was established in March of 1980 as an organization devoted to public service in an effort to mobilize the resources of the university in an effort to impact the economy of this area.

The center offers management and technical assistance to small and intermediate size business firms, as well as to local, regional and state agencies in South Texas. An important objective has been to help create jobs and business opportunities to improve the quality of life in South Texas.

Dr. Valdez stressed that the services offered to the business community by the center will remain largely the same. Receipt of the grant, however, provides financial assistance to small, minority-owned businesses so they may avail themselves of the services.

to the World*

THE FAMILY OF RAULIE L. Irwin would like to take this opportunity to send our heartfelt thanks and love for the many lovely floral tributes, Memorial tributes and all the beautiful cards and notes from so many thoughtful friends. For the many thoughtful friends and neighbors who brought food, and special thanks to the lovely ladies of the First United Methodist Church that so graciously furnished lunch on Monday. Love and thanks to Rev. Barrett Renfro for the many visits during Raulie's long illness and help and support at the time of his death. May God Bless each and everyone of you.

IN BEHALF OF OUR BELOVED wife, mother, daughter and sister, Amelia Munoz, we would like to extend our most sincere gratitude to the many relatives and friends who showed their sympathy during her illness and death. For the prayers, flowers, food and other innumerable things that were done to help us. May God Bless each and everyone.

WORDS CANNOT ADEQUATELY express how deeply we appreciate the many kindnesses shown Yvette by the members of the RFHS Choir during her mother's illness. We wish to thank each and everyone from R-F High School, students and staff alike, who donated blood to the blood bank. We wish very heart-felt thanks to the RFHS Choir members who made Yvette's choir trip to Vienna a reality.

THE KINDNESS AND SYMPATHY of neighbors and friends in our recent sorrow, the illness and death of Molly Munoz, will always remain with us as a precious memory. Our sincere thanks and gratitude for all those comforting acts.

Advice free at Country Store

Jean Acree

The Country Store offers about as wide a variety of merchandise as one could imagine in a small store. Run by Jean Acree, the Country Store - formerly Wine & Home Brew by You - offers everything one needs, as far as equipment and instruction, to make beer and wine in the home, as well as a variety of handmade crafts for the kitchen and the home, to handmade clothing.

Acree, who has had the store approximately three months now, changed the name because too many people thought it was a liquor store. Not so, says Acree, who only sells the supplies and instruction for making alcoholic beverages.

"You can make wine from anything as long as you get the acid balance right and the sugar balance right. That's what I teach people to do," she says. Different types of wine Acree has knowledge to make include dandelion, currant, corn, jalepeno, grapefruit and blackberry. Getting started costs approximately $20-30 for basic equipment, much of which can be used to make either beer or wine. In addition, the Country Store has books available to aid the beginner or experienced brew-maker. And Acree herself will offer any help she can.

Acree also offers all kinds of handmade crafts - most which she herself has made and others which have been done on consignment with the artist. The store carries breadbaskets, handmade covers for almost anything imaginable, purses, caftans, handknitted sweaters, pictures, leaded glass and night-lights made out of shells. "I've got all kinds of different ideas," says Acree, "but I just don't have that much time to do things with."

The Country Store is located at 105 N. Austin St., Suite 108 - down the mall from Kitty's Fashions. The phone number is 729-7321.

Living unicorn to be at Texas Renaissance

PLANTERSVILLE — One of the five known living unicorns will appear at the 1982 Texas Renaissance Festival during Oct. 9 and 10.

The Living Unicorn organization presents the theory that unicorns did in fact exist. They discuss, illustrate and show examples of the legendary unicorn as seen throughout 4,000 years of recorded history.

Otter Zell and his wife Morning Glory are naturalists who have dedicated time and effort to studies of esoteric zoology, mythical creatures and, most recently, the truth about unicorns. For five years they tracked and sifted through centuries of myths, legends, traveler's tales and anatomical and anthropological studies, discovering the reality behind the fantastic.

An interpretation of their findings leads us to note that until European renaissance times unicorns were depicted as cloven-hoofed animals, often single-horned rams, goats and antelope. Unicorn, by ultimate definition, means "single horn (uni-cornus). Their thesis suggests that unicorns were both practical and artistic creations. A unicorn's early use and purpose was likely to be a herd leader, loyal and dependable, with a superior appendage (the single frontal horn) which could be used as a tool of defense. The Zells go on to note that many of the legends (such as unicorn vs. lion) and glorifications of the unicorns may have root in the special role the animal played as herd leader (symbol of leadership).

The horse with the horn, or "equine" unicorn is likely, to their thinking, the result of Renaissance period armor makers putting horned helmets on horses for fierce image, and artists then taking license to glorify those images in painting and song.

It appears that the real unicorn, as a practical herd leader or as an artistic pet of royalty, fell out of favor and was not commonly seen nor utilized in more recent times.

The Zells are both serious and sincere in their discussion of this thesis and have a great deal of information to discuss and share during their visit to the Renaissance Festival.

The first of their five unicorns was born during the spring of 1980 on a ranch in the western mountains of northern California. Its coat is iridescent white, with tufted beard, wise eyes and golden horn and hoof. These unicorns are bred to resemble the most famous unicorn image in the world — the "Unicorn in Captivity" tapestry woven in 1500 A.D., which now hangs in the Cloisters of the New York Metropolitan Museum. This is the traditional, medieval, caprine unicorn.

Since that time several other unicorns have been born, disputing the conjecture that the first was an anomaly or fluke. In fact, a long list of conjectures as to the specifics of the process exists with very few of the debunkers taking time to personally review or discuss the issue.

The specific process is, as yet, not disclosed. A patent application has been filed and is pending. Until that is resolved, the Zells say no decision will be made as to the proper scientific forum for revealing the process.

As much as the unicorn presenters can discuss the pragmatic issues surrounding the existence of unicorns, they equally enjoy presenting and sharing the ideas of the various myths and legends — the unicorn as a symbol of royalty, a symbol of peace and beauty.

Certainly one must make their own choice to believe whether this presentation illustrates the truth about unicorns. Keep in mind that the fabled "City of Troy" was considered by scholars and the public of the 19th century to be a mere myth, that is until its discovery and excavation in 1871 by Heinrich Schliemann. Like Troy and many other wonders which have become reality, the unicorn is not a myth but a legend. A myth is pure fantasy, but a legend has a grain of fact like the grain of sand in the heart of a pearl.

The Renaissance Festival is located approximately 40 miles north of Houston. Take I-45 north to Conroe, turn left on 105, turn left on FM 1774 at Plantersville and drive six miles to the Festival site. No pets are allowed.

Suicide second only to accidents in 15-24 age

COLLEGE STATION — Suicide is second only to accidents as the leading cause of death in 15 to 24-year-olds, says Cindy B. Wilson, family life education specialist with Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

The Suicide Prevention Center in Los Angeles, Calif., estimates 50 percent of teen suicides are disguised as accidents. Adolescent females make 15 to 20 percent of all suicide attempts. Since there are many more attempts to commit suicide by adolescents than by adults, experts see this as a cry for help, Wilson says.

Many suicides can be prevented if parents, families, peers, teachers, school counselors and children themselves take some preventive measures, she adds.

Research indicates the following factors are involved in the teen suicide problem:

- A home environment in which the teen feels unloved, unwanted and a burden on parents and the family.

- Parent/child difficulties which result in a loss of love and parental approval.

- Some research reports that a confusion of role identity caused by the current blurring or blending of roles by males and females and divorce of parents plus the blending of several families to form stepfamilies are influences on potential teen suicide.

- Loss of someone — especially a parent — through death, divorce, separation, or the break up of an adolescent romantic relationship precipitates suicide.

- Stress of school competition and actual or anticipated failure contributes to suicide.

- Depression and problems in dealing with sexual identity.

- The normal process of growing and developing through the adolescent life stage can sometimes be so stressful that teens will try to commit suicide. However, most suicides are due to multiple factors, not just being an adolescent.

Prevention of teenage suicide should begin early in the child's life, Wilson says. Families can provide opportunities for gradual acceptance of responsibilities and experience in making decisions and solving problems so teens are not overwhelmed with suddenly learning to do these things while going through one of the most stressful life stages.

Establish positive lines of communication, encouraging the child or teen to talk with you about anything, especially their feelings, values and problems.

Provide healthy opportunities to deal with death so the death of a parent will not be quite as stressful.

Encourage children to do well in their school work, but refrain from stressing the competitive aspects. Let children and teens know you accept them and not just their grades.

If there is a divorce, assist the child in having as stable a home life as possible. Provide the child with experience in having an opposite gender parental figure. This may be accomplished through a relative, volunteer organization, church or remarriage.

Understand your child/teen well enough so that you become aware of any noticeable changes in behavior, moods, grades, emotional and peer relationships, eating, sleeping and personal hygiene habits. A combination of these changes can indicate depression, a prime factor in suicide.

"Teen suicide is probably one of the most difficult crises a family can experience. Prevention is a key and the family is the most important factor in providing an environment in which a teen can develop in ways which will lead toward their desiring life, not an escape from it through death," Wilson says.

Child Labor Law to be revised

FORT WORTH — National administrators are looking to revise child labor legislation which has its roots in 19th century sweat shops.

Restaurateurs and amusement park administrators applaud the revisions in the Fair Labor Standards Act proposed by Labor Secretary Raymond J. Donovan, but a social work professor at Texas Christian University thinks it is "a socially regressive policy which takes us back a century."

"While there are still a number of protections contained in the legislation which would prevent youths from working in hazardous industries, I think modifications for particular industries (i.e. cooking, baking, transportation and warehousing) are reasonable. However, I have objections to the increase in the number of weekly hours that youth are going to be permitted to work," said Randall Kahan, assistant professor of social work at TCU.

Under the revisions, 14- and 15-year-olds would be permitted a change from 18 to 24 hours per week during the school year. Closing hours could be extended from 7 to 9 p.m.

Kahan, like many other educators, agrees that the quality of the children's education will be affected by "depriving them of the time investment they need to do home assignments and of their ability to perform in the classroom."

In addition, he said the revisions would "take the 14- and 15-year-old out of immediate supervision of the parent for several extra hours each evening. It would also provide that child with additional income, and that leaves a fairly dangerous mixture, not only during the hours that he is away from home but also on weekends.

Several groups have gone on the legislative record in opposition to the proposed change, said Kahan. They include the American Federation of Teachers, the National Education Association, the National Association of Social Workers and the AFL-CIO.

Due to overwhelming opposition to Labor Secretary Donovan's proposals, the department had extended the period of comment from 30 to 180 days. Some final conclusions will probably be reached after the November elections, said Kahan.

State Arts and Crafts Fair scheduled

KERRVILLE — The 12th annual Texas State Arts and Crafts Fair, to be held in Kerrville May 28-29 and June 4-5, 1983, invites resident Texas artists and craftsmakers to apply for jurying. The official state event is sponsored by the Texas Arts and Crafts Foundation.

Deadline for application is Dec. 1. Applications must be accompanied by up to five color slides representative of work to be presented at the Fair. A slide showing booth display also is requested. An official entry blank and full information can be obtained from the Texas Arts and Crafts Foundation, P.O. Box 1527, Kerrville, TX 78028.

A brochure entitled "Slide Preparation for Juried Arts Events" written by foundation executive director, Audie Hamilton, also is available. The brochure is free of charge, but those requesting application forms must specifically ask for it.

The Texas State Arts and Crafts Fair has long been a favorite art exhibition for visitors, buyers for galleries and shops, and for the creators of hand produced fine arts and crafts. Art sales have neared the million mark since 1980 and went well over the million mark since over the million dollar milestone in 1982.

A country fair atmosphere, professional entertainment and good food enhance a leisurely weekend. The four-day format of Saturdays and Sundays of consecutive weekends provides an excellent showcase for the variety and quality of arts available in Texas.

versity, where he played football. After graduation while practicing law he coached football at small colleges. Mr. Reed served in Korea as a Lieutenant in the Army. His education includes a B.S. degree in Speech, L.L.B. and a Juris Doctor's degree in Law.

Named changed at Victoria campus

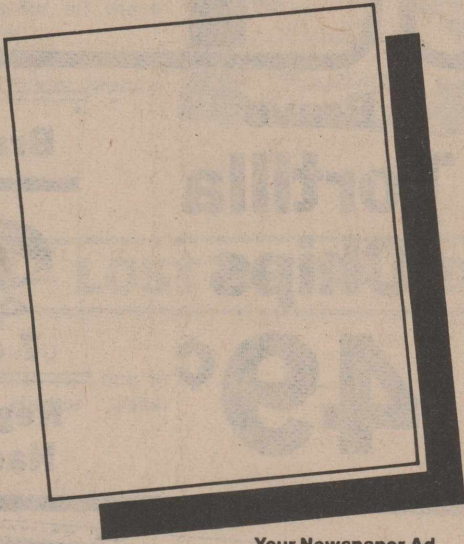

VICTORIA — Chancellor Martha Piper of the University of Houston Victoria Campus has announced that the name of the university has been changed to the University of Houston at Victoria.

"It is simpler. It is shorter, and it emphasizes our affiliation better with the University of Houston System," the chancellor said. "We would like people to be more aware that our fine educational facility is one of the four campuses of the system."

She pointed out that there often is a confusion of identity between UHVC and VC, the Victoria College, a long established two-year junior college here, and that "people do not really understand that they are two separate institutions, even though they are together on the same campus."

You're right! The space is empty. There isn't any ad. If you operate a business and don't advertise, the silence is anything but golden. Advertising is really extending an invitation to your prospects and asking them to buy your products or use your services. If you aren't advertising, you aren't selling.
