CHINESE QUIETLY GIVE UP SHANGHAI

Thousands To Watch Armistice Day Parade Thursday

'TALL TALES' WILL FEATURE VETS REUNION

More than a score of local organizations were rushing preparations for representation in the Armistice Day Parade here Thursday morning.

The parade is expected to be viewed by one of the largest crowds in ths history of Pampa parades because the city will be filled with excited football fans who will come from all over the Panhandle to see the hitsoric clash fought on the turf at Harvester park.

Today members of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars were arranging details for the parade. No floats have been planned as yet but they may be before Thursday morning dawns. The prospect of a record parade crowd is spurring clubs and organizations to make a worthy showing.

The parade will be the feature event of the two veterans' Armistice day celebration. A veterans reunion will be held at the Legion hut in the evening. Paul D. Hill, chairman, announced today that a Tall Tales contest will be held, with first, second and third prizes going to winners. The decisions will be made by three secret judges. A feed and a "dutch lunch" will feature the program. All vets, whether members of the Legion or VFW are invited and urged to attend.

An old-time dance will be held in the red brick building on the high school campus, and another dance for exponents of the modern dance will be held at the Southern club. The old-fashioned dance will begin at 7:30.

The parade will form on the east side of south Cuyler-st at the south side of Merrick and Boyd lumber company facing north. The parade will move promptly at 10:45 a. m. and all organizations are requested to be at their designated places promptly at 10:30 a. m.

The line of march will be north on Cuyler to Kingsmill; thence east on iKngsmill to Ballard; thence north on Ballard to Francis; thence west on Francis to Sommerville; then south on Sommerville to west Foster; thence on West Foster to the Legion Hut and disband.

Promptly at 11 o'clock the siren on the fire station will blow for one minute, the parade will halt and left face. At 11:01 taps will be blown and at the conclusion of taps the parade will right face and proceed. Following will be the positions in the parade:

National colors, post standards, Junior High school band, Marshall, Aide an dStaff, Spanish American War Veterans, World War Veterans, Sons of Veterans, Gold Star Mothers, Auxiliaries, Red Cross, Salvation Army, Boy Scouts, High School band, High School pep squad, county commissioners, city commissioners, fire department truck, civic organizations.

The several organizations will form at their designated places

EX-HARVESTERS FROM LAWTON VISIT HERE

Week-end visitors in Pampa included Denzil Sparling and Lewis Jones, two former Harvesters who are now playing with the Cameron Aggies at Lawton, Okla. Another former Harvester who is a star with the Aggies is Carl Smith.

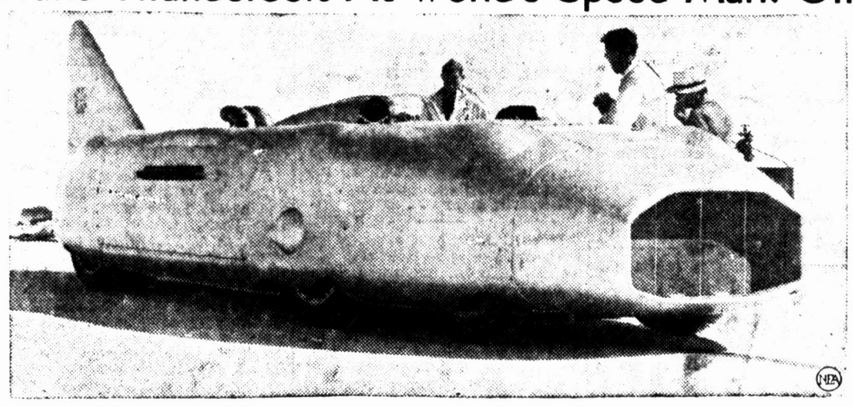

Sparling left here and enrolled at Lawton high school where he was elected captain. He also won an all state berth with the high school team.

All three Pampans are playing in the Aggie line and having a big season. Smith, the visitors said, is known as the "terror of the Aggies."

I HEARD - - -

Howard Neath telling one, said to be true, on City Secretary W. M. Craven. He revealed that Ernie Lain, Rice Institute's great passing halfback, is a nephew of Mr. Craven's. Anyway, it seems that Mr. Craven was varnishing floors at his home during the Rice-Arkansas game Friday afternoon the while he listened to the game over his radio. As the climax was reached—Lain's touchdown pass to win—Mr. Craven jumped up, yelled, and then sat down in the pail of varnish.

Hurls Thunderbolt At World's Speed Mark On Salt Flats

Aiming the nose of his 3,250-horsepower Thunderbolt at the 301-miles-an-hour speed record, held by his fellow-countryman, Sir Malcolm Campbell, Capt. George E. T. Eyston, British speed ace, right, above, hoped to attain speeds of from 310 to 350 miles an hour in his British-built mechanical monster, left, in test runs on Bonneville, Utah, salt flats. In a recent test the Thunderbolt was clocked at 309.6 miles an hour for the measured mile, but a burned-out clutch prevented a return run within an hour as required to establish a world's record. Specifications of the huge racer are closely guarded secrets.

TEMPLE BLAST MAIMS COUPLE

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 9 (AP)—Youthful pranksters were blamed by police today for a powder explosion atop Aimee Semple McPherson's Angelus temple last night which seriously maimed two Bible students and terrified 500 others.

A sheet of blue flame engulfed the temple dome. Windows were shattered in the adjacent Foursquare Bible college. Broken glass cut several girls attending class in a fourth floor room and three fainted.

Responsibility for the "bomb scare," which aroused the entire neighborhood, was placed by detective Lieutenant D. R. Patton on four students, working their way through Bible college as temple janitors.

Two of the quartet were seriously injured. Gordon Atwater, 16, of Albuquerque, N. M., suffered the amputation of his left hand and Edwin Bond, 16, was so burned about the face he may lose his sight.

Found hiding in a trapdoor on the roof, Norman McGrew and Robert Blanchfield, each 20, were charged with feloniously setting off an explosion to frighten or intimidate an assembly. Similar charges will be filed later against Bond and Atwater, Lieutenant Patton said.

Mrs. McPherson, out of the city, escaped the uproar.

BOSTON CAR, PARKED AT THEATER, STOLEN

"Take car keys with you even tho you leave your car for only a minute," is the advice of Police Chief Art Hurst. This morning about 10:15 o'clock Mrs. Carl Boston parked her car in front of the LaNora theater while she went in to look for her son's coat which had been left in the theater last night.

When Mrs. Boston returned, about two minutes later, she found her car gone, stolen while she was absent. The car was a 1937 gray Chevrolet coach, license No. 435-058.

City officers were immediately informed of the theft and began a search of the city which failed to reveal any trace of the missing car.

"The fellow who has a habit of taking the keys from his car no matter how long he will be gone or where he is parked keeps his car," Chief Hurst declared.

WEST AND NORTHEAST TEXAS RECEIVE RAIN

(By The Associated Press)

Grain-nurturing rains seeped into fields and rangelands over a wide section of northeast and west Texas today.

In the cattle country around Fort Stockton, extending westward toward the Rio Grande, southwest to Junction and east beyond Ballinger good rains average an inch. At San Angelo the fall was .7 inch. Rangelands and grain sections benefitted.

Better than 1.5 inches fell in the Fort Worth area, where grains and pastures needed moisture. Fall planting of wheat, barley and oats, already in fine shape, was helped.

Unemployment Facts Only Aim Of Census Set For Next Week

The unemployment census to be taken in the Pampa postoffice area beginning next Tuesday eventually will bring valuable information to Pampa, Mayor W. A. Bratton told a radio audience yesterday afternoon as he officially launched the educational campaign to interest everyone in cooperating with the Pampa postoffice in registering the unemployed and the partially unemployed.

AIR OFFICIAL SHOOTS PAIR

GLENDALE, Calif., Nov. 9 (AP)—Chief of Police E. B. Browne said today Paul Wright, 38, president of the Union Air terminal, confessed to him he shot and killed his wife, Evelyn, and then critically wounded John Bryant Kimmel, traffic manager of the airport, after he found them in an embrace in his palatial Verdugo Vista home.

The shooting took place at 4:10 a. m., a short time after Wright and Kimmel, for years close friends, had returned from Hollwood where they had participated in an invitation ceremony of the O. B. club, an organzation of aviators.

Kimmel was taken to the Burbank hospital for an emergency operation, but physicians said chances of surviving were slim.

Wright called police immediately after the shooting and made a complete confession, Chief Browne said.

He told Browne he had suspected his wife of "stepping out" for two years, "but I never thought it was with my best friend."

He told police he had gone to his bedroom for a short nap and when he returned to his living room he found Kimmel and his wife sitting on the piano bench in an embrace.

"Everything went white," he said. "I went to the bedroom, got my pistol out of a dresser drawer, and shot them."

The Wright's 3-year-old daughter, Helen, and a negro maid, were not disturbed by the shooting.

At noon today the first of a series of luncheon club addresses to be made this week was given by Walter Daugherty at the Chamber of Commerce meeting. The purpose of the census and how it will be taken was outlined by Mr. Daugherty.

Tomorrow R. G. Hughes, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, will make a similar explanation at the Rotary club meeting. Arthur Teed will explain the plan to the Lions on Thursday, and on Friday, J. M. Collins, president of the Board of City Development, will outline the program at a meeting of the Kiwanis club.

Message In Churches

Next Sunday all churches in the city will carry the census message to their congregations. Supt. R. B. Fisher, of the public school system, said today the census will be outlined in every school room of the city this week.

Recently Mayor Bratton appointed a committee of ten, headed by Tex DeWeese, to conduct a precensus educational campaign to acquaint the public with the unemployment census plan.

"Our job is to carry the information to the people," Mayor Bratton said, "and to assist the postmaster in any way possible to make the census-taking successful."

Next Tuesday the postoffice personnel will distribute registration cards in every mail delivery home and box in the Pampa territory, Postmaster C. H. Walker stated today.

Only For Unemployed

The census is to be taken not only of the unemployed but of the partially employed persons. Persons who have full-time jobs need not fill out a card. The cards are to be mailed (postage free) to the Pampa

JONES SHAPING BILL QUICKLY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 (AP)—A thin, laconic Texan and a South Carolina Senator of the old school will share the major responsibility for directing farm legislation in the special session of Congress.

They are Marvin Jones, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, and Ellison D. "Cotton Ed" Smith, who holds the same position in the Senate. Both, naturally, are Democrats.

Jones said today he still was hopeful that a broad crop control bill could be prepared in the early days of the session, which begins next Monday.

His committee voted yesterday to extend the tentative coverage of crops to such items as butter, cheese, powdered milk, flax, barley and rye, as well as major crops.

Some of Senator Smith's committeemen arranged, meanwhile, a conference with President Edward A O'Neal of the American Farm Bureau Federation, to get his group's reaction to legislative needs.

Jones, a vigorous but self-effacing man in his early forties, is one of the acknowledged farm experts in Congress. Little farm legislation has been passed during the last 12 years that doesn't bear his imprint in one way or another. He speaks with a drawl, lives quietly and goes hunting for recreation.

MAYOR PHILOSOPHIC AS SHANGHAI RUINS SEEN

SHANGHAI, Nov. 9 (AP)—Surveying the ruins of his once great Metropolis, Mayor O. K. Yui of Shanghai tonight compared himself with a man who had lost his riches, his wife and children and health, but happy because he had two teeth left.

One "tooth" represented Nantao. The other was Pootung where a few soldiers remained.

The mayor said, however, the Pootung withdrawal was still under way and that he may soon have only one "tooth."

The mayor denied the troops in Nantao were trapped, but said that they were ordered there to hold out as long as possible.

'Hold Hat or Hand Over Heart'--Rule Applies To Both Men And Women

Lou Roberts, district commander of the 18th district, American Legion, yesterday commended the current campaign to compel respect for the flag when it passes by in parades.

The movement was started by Sargeant of Arms John W. Crout of Kerley-Crossman post of the Legion. Mr. Crout has been colorbearer in many parades and he declared that he has grown "tired of seeing prominent citizens smoke cigarets, loll on fenders, wear their hats, jam their hands in their pockets, sit uncovered in cars," when the flag passes.

Commander Roberts declared that Borger, where he lives is as careless in its attitude toward the flag as Pampa is. He commended the campaign of education, "People will show proper respect for the flag when they know how to act," he said.

Local veterans organizations, the Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars, want respect for the flag to be 100 per cent Thursday in the Armistice Day Parade. Here are the things to do: When the flag is within 20 feet of you remove your hat and hold it with your right hand over your heart, keep other hand at side; if you are not wearing a hat, place hand over heart. Keep hands out of pockets, cigarets, cigar, chewing gum out of your mouth.

If you are sitting in a car, uncover your head. All these rules apply to women as well as to men. To stand at attention, put hand or hat over heart, put heels together, stand straight and face the flag; do not salute. You are responsible for yourself and your neighbor.

Football Edition For Breakfast On Thursday

It's Pampa vs. Amarillo again.

And, to mark the Panhandle's outstanding class A football event of the year, the Daily NEWS Thursday morning will give its readers an Armistice Day Football special edition for breakfast.

There will be many special features and photos about the players and stories of the two schools.

If you want one of these special Football Souvenir editions and are not now a regular subscriber to The NEWS, call 666 and have the paper sent to your home regularly.

If regular subscribers wish extra copies of the Souvenir edition, they, too, are requested to phone in their orders today.

It will be a bang-up edition with many special features—and will be a worthwhile souvenir of the big game of the year.

LITVINOFF TO QUIT PARLEY

BRUSSELS, Nov. 9 (AP)—Foreign Minister Maxim Litvinoff, Russian delegate to the Brussels conference seeking an end to the Chinese-Japanese war, announced suddenly today he is leaving for Moscow tonight.

Litvinoff's departure generall is regarded as a protest against a move which he thinks is under way to eliminate Russia from major conference activities, particularly from conferences of committees. Such a move to exclude Russiau presumably would be an effort to placate Japan.

Japanese unofficially have made clear here they would exchange information about the Chinese conflict with signatories of the nine power treaty, but not with outside 's. Russia, not a signatory to the treaty which pledges China's territorial integrity, was invited to the conference because of her important interests in the Far East.

The Litvinoff bolt is all the more sensational because British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden already has returned from London for continued conference sessions, and French Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos is coming tonight.

It was reported Litvinoff was incensed particularly over any plan to name Italy to membership on a proposed conciliation committee and to ignore Russia. (Russian resentment has been heightened by Italian adherence to the German-Japanese pact against Bolshevism.)

It was understood the United States delegation will insist upon including the Netherlands on the committee, if it is now decided to name Belgium, England, the United States, France and Italy.

Litvinoff leaves Vladimir Potemkin, Russian ambassador to France, to represent the Soviet nation.

Gates at Harvester field will be opened at 12:30 p. m. Thursday and not before, it was decided at a meeting of school officials, teachers and veterans last night at the high school. Veterans will have charge of the west grandstand and teachers of the east stand.

Pampa fans will enter the field at the west gate and Amarillo visitors at the east gate where new entrances are being constructed. Entry to the stands will be from the rear according to ticket numbers. All persons holding tickets between 1 and 65 will use the first entrance. Holders of tickets from 66 to 120 will use the second entrance, etc.

Fans are urged to hold their own tickets entering the gate and also at the grandstand. Those leaving the stands at the half are instructed to have their reesrve seat stub with them or they will not be readmitted to the stands.

Drinking will not be allowed at the game. State, county and city officers will be on hand to enforce the rule, announced by a member of the state liquor control board here.

No Fence Crashing.

Fence crashing will be taboo. Gene Shackleton and a band of mounted officers will patrol the fence.

Pampans holding tickets for seats inside the playing field will enter from the southwest corner of the field and Amarilloans from the southeast corner. Plenty of ushers will be on hand to guide fans to their seats.

More than 7,000 reserve seat tickets have been sold. Bleachers to accommodate about 4,000 more have been erected. Game time will be 2:30 p. m.

How to handle traffic at the Pampa-Amarillo football game on Thursday will be discussed and arranged at a meeting of city and county peace officers and school officials to be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the office of the chamber of commerce in the city hall building.

Among the questions the meeting

Ask Government To Approve Road

The Texas Highway commission today requested the federal government to make an additional 1,537 miles of Texas roads eligible for federal aid in future years. Included in the highways mentioned was 71 miles between Stinnett and Hartley via Dumas.

Last Friday the commission assured County Judge Sherman White and Garnet Reeves, manager of the Pampa Board of City Development, that aid on that particular portion of old Oil Field highway 41 would be asked and also that the portion from Wheeler east of the Oklahoma line would be included. That stretch, however, was not included in the list published.

Last week a contract was let for grade and drainage and bridges on 16.9 miles of the highway between the Gray county line and a point east of Borger. That left a stretch from Stinnett to Hartley unpaved.

The Pampans were also assured that the stretch of the highway between Wheeler and the Oklahoma line would be placed on the list but that section was not included in the list released today.

The new plea for federal aid includes about 1,537 miles of Texas roads, as follows:

Portions of thoroughfares the commission sought aid eligibilty for, by counties, included:

Fisher, Scurry, Borden, Dawson, and Gaines, 165 miles from Roby to New Mexico via Snyder, Gail, Lamesa and Seminole on highway 15

Van Zandt and Henderson, 33 miles from highway 15 to near

Poppy Sale To Be Held By Auxiliary Thursday

In memory of the 77,731 American soldiers and sailors who died overseas during the World War, Pampa Post No. 1657, ladies auxiliary Veterans of Foreign Wars of the USA will conduct its sixteenth annual Buddy Poppy sale in Pampa November 11th for the benefit of disabled veterans and their dependents and the widows and orphans of veterans.

The red Buddy Poppy, made by disabled veterans in government hospitals, is symbolic of the poppies of Flanders Field which blow today over the graves of more than 30,000 American boys and men who lie buried in the cemeteries of France, President Eva Bartlett, Pampa Auxiliary No. 1657 explained today. The name "Buddy Poppy", given to the flowers by the disabled veterans who make them, is copyrighted by the V. F. W. which first conducted a nationwide distribution of poppies in 1922.

"The entire proceeds of the nationwide Buddy Poppy sale is devoted to the widows and orphans of the World War and to the relief, welfare and service work which our organization supports among America's war veterans," President Eva Bartlett said.

"One cent from each Buddy Poppy sold will be sent to the V. F. W. National Home at Eaton Rapids, Mich., where it helps to maintain and operate this unique institution. Another two and one half cents from each sale of Buddy Poppies is used to maintain the state and national rehabilitation service which advises and assists thousands of disabled veterans in establishment of their equitable claims for government compensation and hospitalization benefits.

CITY FINALLY FALLS AFTER 88-DAY SIEGE

By JAMES A. MILLS

SHANGHAI, Nov. 9 (AP)—Shanghai fell into Japanese hands today with the retreat of Generalissimo Kai-Shek's Chinese warriors who held out 88 days against combined Japanese army, navy and air forces.

The city was asleep and unaware of its fate when, shortly after midnight, Chinese forces began an orderly, quiet retreat toward their "winter line" protecting Nanking, the nation's capital.

Japanese, apparently, did not learn of the retreat until 8 a. m. (6 p. m. Central Standard Time, Monday.)

The withdrawal enabled Japan to place a ring of steel around China's greatest port, cutting off the metropolis from the rest of the nation and bottling up three million Chinese residents, one million refugees and many thousands of Americans and other foreigners.

Railroads and highways in all directions were cut or blocked by Japanese, leaving only a few foreign and Japanese vessels as the sole connection with the outside world.

Breathing Easier

American and foreign communities breathed more easily, as if a long siege suddenly had been lifted. The plight of Chinese inhabitants and war refugees, was considered tragic, however, as they have no means of escape and must reconcile themselves to a long period of isolation surrounded by Japanese troops.

While the loss of Shanghai undoubtedly will affect China's morale, at least temporarily, Generalissimo Chiang declared that Shanghai operations were purely local and did not form a vital part of the nation's chief defenses, which he said were about the Yellow River region.

The warfare, the generalissimo said, will be transferred at present to the great delta lands of the lake region west of Shanghai where China has several so-called Hindenburg lines. These lines reach as far back as Ihangshu, Kashing and Soochow, some 50 miles to the west.

"We will fight with the same

PETITION ASKS 'STREET' AT SCHOOL BE CLOSED

A petition asking that the city commission pass an ordinance closing a street that does not really exist but that theoreatically divides the playground of Sam Houston school, was presented to the commission at its regular meeting last night.

The ordinance is requested, the petition states, "by owners of property abutting on Georgia avenue from east line on North Somerville to east line of lot 1, block 1, and east line of lot 3, block 7 of Buckler-Merten addition."

Reasons for the petition are that the "street" has never been open to public use, is not now used and has never been used as a street or road.

A further reason given is that the street divides property of the Pampa Independent School district, being used by Sam Houston school as a playground.

C. T. Hunkapillar and C. B. Buckler were signers of the petition.

POST OFFICE WINDOWS TO BE CLOSED AT NOON

All the windows at the post office will be closed at noon Thursday. Only one city delivery will be made Thursday, and that to residences only Thursday morning.

Special separations will be made of all business district mail, and it can be called for at the window between 8:00 and 12:00

All mail will be dispatched as usual, and all incoming mail will be distributed to boxes.

MIND your MANNERS

Test your knowledge of correct and social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. At a dinner dance, should a man ask his hostess or his dinner partner for the first dance?
2. If a girl is dinner dancing in a hotel, may she leave her wrap over the back of her chair, or must she check it?
3. Is it courteous to accept an invitation to a fancy dress ball if one does not intend to go in costume?
4. Is it ever correct for a hostess to rebuke a guest?
5. Which form is preferred on formal invitations—R.S.V.P. or R.s.v.p.?

What would you do if—

You are a chaperon at a dance and a guest is making himself obnoxious—

(a) Frown your disapproval?

(b) Inconspicuously call the attention of a member of the floor committee?

(c) Ignore him?

Answers

1. Dinner partner, and his hostess later.
2. She may leave it on her chair.
3. No.
4. No.
5. R.s.v.p.

Glorifying Yourself

By ALICIA HART,

"The oblong type of face frequently bespeaks a beauty-loving nature and a brilliant mind," says a well-known artist.

"Yet, because of the incorrect use of cosmetics, this type often is made to look hard and cold. The woman whose face is oblong, as are the faces of Loretta Young, Anita Louise and many other beautiful screen stars, ought to be especially careful to avoid effects which create an illusion of greater length between forehead and chin."

If you have a long face, do not dress your hair on your head, and don't part it in the middle. Wear it softly and loosely, thereby making your face seem wider. Fullness near the chinline is important, too.

Do not arch eyebrows. Pluck away the hairs which grow across the bridge of the nose. If you allow brows to grow too closely together in the center, nose as well as face will seem longer. Simply use your natural eyebrow line. Extending it will over-emphasize your forehead.

Do not put rouge too low or too far out on the cheeks. Rouge thus placed will accept light and create a hollow-cheeked effect. If your nose is long, keep rouge a reasonable distance away from it. Put rouge in a perfectly blended circle in the center of the cheeks. In the evening, it's a good idea to use a faint amount of color on the chin. This has a tendency to make the face seem a bit shorter.

When you apply lipstick, try to widen the upper lip and make the lower one full at corners. Do not use great quantities of lipstick, and be careful about making the mouth look too wide. Beware of cupid's bows. They tend to accentuate the vertical lines of the face.

GOVERNMENT TO CLOSE OIL CASE TOMORROW

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 9 (AP)—The government "marked time" today in nearing the completion of its prosecution of 23 oil companies, three trade publications and 46 individuals charged with raising and fixing gasoline prices in 1935-36.

Special Prosecutor Hammond Craffetz told the federal court he was prepared to conclude the government's case tomorrow with presentation of price tabulations by federal accountants.

Judge Patrick T. Stone diclosed he expected lengthy arguments after all the prosecution's evidence had been submitted. Defense attorneys will offer a motion for dismissal of the charges generally. Attorneys for a number of the defendants indicated they would present motions to dismiss the individual charges if Judge Stone denies the general motion.

Defense attorneys have estimated that presenetation of their case, if the trial continues, will require four or five weeks. The trial now is in its sixth week.

TEN MILLIONS IN GOLD SOLD BY UNCLE SAM

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 (AP)—Uncle Sam packed up $10,500,000 in gold for shipment to France today, and stuck a "for sale" sign on millions more.

The gold was purchased by the French stabilization fund, created a year ago when the franc left the gold standard. The transaction took place under the Anglo-Franco-American pact which seeks to prevent severe fluctuations in currency relationships.

It was the first time since March, 1936, that the United States had exported any of the metal.

Simultaneously, however, the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce reported $10,000,000 worth of gold bars had landed there from Japan in the last two days. The Japanese consul general in San Francisco said the shipments were not unusual.

For four years gold has poured into this country from other nations, building our store to $12,800,000,000 —more than half the gold in the world.

During those four years, the fixed price of $35 an ounce which the treasury paid for gold was the highest anyone in the world would offer. Yesterday, however, Europe was offering as high as $35.22 an ounce—a price exactly enough to cover the cost of the gold and of its shipment across the Atlantic.

For two or three weeks, the American stabilization fund has been selling a secret amount of gold which it owned in Europe. It could sell that metal at lower prices because it didn't have to be carried across the ocean. Secretary Morgenthau announced these foreign supplies now are exhausted.

To the public, he added, these transactions mean little. He explained that although the export of gold means the withdrawal of foreign money from our banks, credit will not be tightened. The outflow will be counteracted, he said, by the treasury's inactive gold (or sterilization) fund.

Experts don't agree altogether on what is causing this new flow of gold to Europe. The Federal Reserve Board says it is due partly to the fact that many foreigners are more confident about the financial condition of their own governments, particularly France.

Other experts say foreigners are worried about present business conditions and the stock market slump in this county.

At least part of the outflow is caused by rumors in Europe that the United States once more may decrease the gold content of its dollar. These rumors have gained little credence here.

515 VETERANS GETTING CONFEDERATE PENSIONS

AUSTIN, Nov. 9 (AP)—The hand of death is wiping red ink from the debit side of the state's Confederate pension fund.

Officials say the deficit, $4,946,212 on Oct. 31, will be cut about $2,000,000 in January and February and perhaps by 1940 will be eliminated. In another 25 or 30 years, some believe, the fund itself may die for want of pensioners.

Last fiscal year 216 veterans and 736 widows died and based on past experience 1,000 more will pass on this year, officials estimate.

There are but 515 veterans and 4,823 widows on current rolls, compared with a total of 18,000 in peak years. Last year the cost was $1,846,480 compared with $2,149,223 the previous year and $3,242,564 in 1933.

Soon the old soldiers of the south may be gone from the lists. Average age of then men in 90. The youngest is 88. Widows, somewhat younger, may outlive the remaining veterans.

Until 1931 income from the 7-cent ad valorem tax which finances the pensions was prorated among recipients. Then the legislature stipulated fixed payments. Married veterans living with their wives receive $50 monthly, single ones and widows of deceased warriors $25 and inmates of the state home $12.50.

Here's Something New—Rebus Crossword Puzzle

Solution to This Rebus Crossword Puzzle Will Be Found on Classified Page

Presenting a special treat for all dyed-in-the-wool crossword puzzle fans, and a half hour or so of fun for all other readers, young and old, of The Pampa Daily News! It's a rebus crossword puzzle; and the idea is to solve all the little rebuses, fill in the numbered blank with the answer, and try to make it all come out right.

Take No. 1, horizontal, for instance. You are instructed to name the rank of the chevron indicated, then subtract the letters "R" "O," and "R." A two-bar chevron is that of a corporal; take "R," "O," and "R" from "Corporal," and you have 'Copal." Fill in the horizontal numbered blanks from 1 to 5 with "Copal," then go on to the next rebus. Simple, isn't it?

Rebuses for horizontal words are given at left; those for vertical words at right. To see if you have solved the puzzle correctly, turn to the solution on the classified page.

ANTI-ALCOHOL EDUCATION DRIVE ADVOCATED BY TEXAS BAPTISTS

By DAVID CHEAVENS

EL PASO, Nov. 9 (AP)—Texas Baptist laymen and pastors today had before them a proposition to carry a vigorous anti-alcohol education program into every county after hearing an attack last night on the use of alcohol which was labeled as a "damaging narcotic."

The Rev. Carson Taylor of Hemphill assailed legalization of liquor as a revenue-raising measure and announced plans soon to be submitted Texas Baptists as a whole to renew their fight against liquor.

The pastors and laymen, meeting in sessions preceding the general convention of Texas Baptists which opens late today heard the Rev. Carroll Chadwick of Oglesby urge consistency in missionary enterprise.

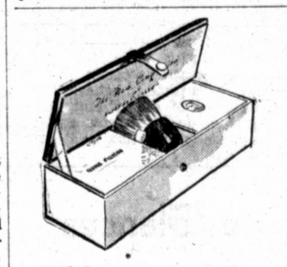

"As people with a missionary spirit it is useless for us to weep over the African if we are not willing to speak to the black man who mows our lawn, the man who calls for the garbage and the man who brings the milk," the young pastor said.

Speakers for today's session of the laymen included Rev. A. J. Holt of Waco; Bryce L. Twitty of Dallas, superintendent of Baylor University Hospital; Rev. H. H. Hargrove of Waco; Rev. W. C. Moffett of Greenville; Rev. R. L. Holmes of Dallas.

Mrs. B. A. Copass of Fort Worth, president of the Women's Missionary Union, was expected to report substantial progress in all branches of Women's work at closing sessions of the union. Also a preliminary to the general meeting.

Other speakers included Mrs. J. M. Dawson of Waco; Mrs. J. E. Leigh of Dallas; Mrs. W. A. Johnson of Fort Worth; Mrs. W. Eugene Sallee, missionary to China; Mrs. W. A. Wood of Waco.

Election of officers for the general convention and for the allied organizations were also on the program for today. Dr. J. B. Tidwell of Waco was expected to be re-elected president of the general convention for his third successive term.

HYSTERIA OF STUDENTS DEPLORED BY JENNINGS

WACO, Nov. 9 (AP)—Grey-thatched Morley Jennings stood before the students of Baylor University and pleaded with them to avoid the hysteria that accompanied the team's brilliant showing.

Jennings, 25 years a college coach, warned the student body that hysteria never won a football game and reminded that his players would be unable to do their best on the field if the same atmosphere surrounded them.

He indirtcely blamed the hysteria as a factor in the Bears' first defeat of the season Saturday to a Texas team they were doped to beat.

"We have never had a Rose Bowl team this year," said Jennings at chapel. "We have a good bunch of husky boys. When we can't win, forget it. Football is a game and must be taken as a game.

"Your midnight pep meetings hurt the team instead of helping. The fans, as well as the players, must remain calm and deliberate. Football has no place for hysteria such as has been demonstrated here. These boys are here first to go to school. That is the kind of athletes we want in Baylor."

INGRAM TAKES PLACE OF FIREMAN M'MURRAY

Pampa's zoning ordinance was passed for the second time by the city commission at their regular meeting last night.

With one more passage by the city commission the ordinance will then be ready for publication, next step in its being made official. The publication of the ordinance is to be made for 10 consecutive days.

Replacing A. C. McMurry, member of the Pampa fire department taking employment with the Danciger Oil and Refineries, the city has employed George Ingrum. The new employe will be placed on the probationary 90-day trial and paid the customary starting salary.

Sidewalks, garbage collection, plumbers and electricians licenses and peddlers, were topics of discussion at the meeting but no motions were made concerning any of these.

The regular monthly bills were approved.

Present at the meeting were City Manager C. L. Stine, Mayor W. A. Bratton, Commissioners Marvin Lewis and William T. Fraser,, City Secretary W. M. Craven, City Attorney John F. Sturgeon, and John I. Bradley, zoning commission member.

THREE OUNCES OF WHISKEY

How much whiskey makes an unsafe driver? Two jiggers.

Dr. Rollo N. Harger, professor of bio-chemistry and taxicology at Indiana University, gave that estimate to highway traffic experts at the National Safety Congress.

Based on studies made with a new type "chemical breath smeller" with which he seeks to replace the "policeman's nose test," Dr. Harger said that three ounces of whiskey was sufficient to fog the brain and render an automobile driver unsafe. This moderate amount of liquor increases an individual's reaction time—the time required before muscles obey the orders of the brain.

Police reports from various representative states indicate that liquor is a definitely proven factor in 10 to 20 per cent of automobile accidents involving fatalities and serious injuries. It is certain that liquor is an unseen factor in a much higher proportion of cases—cases where it is impossible to obtain legal proof of drinking.

One basic rule of safe driving must be the keeping of alcohol and gasoline far apart.

Dr. Harger describes successful experiments that have been made in developing chemical tests for intoxication. Every police department should keep up with the march of the times and take advantage of the new tests and machines that eliminate the human elements and make the determination of intoxication a scientific fact.

Eliminate the drinking driver and we will have taken a long step toward highway traffic safety.

Washington Letter

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—Three hurdles that congress already has jumped over many times, after much puffing and blowing, will have to be jumped again in the special session in any consideration of a farm bill.

The hurdles are; the currency problem, a subsidy for cotton, and the make-the-farmers raise their won vittles problems.

Senator Thomas of Oklahoma, who looks upon manipulation of the currency as the primary remedy for most national and many international troubles, has stated in advance that no fard bill can be considered complete without a provision for pumping newly minted or printed cash into the public jeans.

Three years ago he fastened such a provision upon a farm bill. Iit authorized the President to issue up to three billion dollars of currency to prime the prosperity pump. Senator Thomas wanted then to make it mandatory upon the President to push the money into circulation. Congress did not, and the President has not used the authority.

The handsome Oklahoman has regaled the senate with many hours of his arguments on the subject. Simplified, they are: the more money issued, the more spending; the more spending, the more business; the more business, the more employment; the more employment; the more spending; the more spending—well, you get the idea, it goes round and round, in theory, making everybody better off and fattening the public treasury from time to time with judiciously placed taxes.

But economists and administration advisors head for the storm cellars at the mention of using the power to manipulate money as the principal ingredient for achieving Utopia. Indeed President Roosevelt, in dedicating the new blazing white Federal Reserve building out near the gas works, suggested that:

"Much as they may contribute to the country's progress, monetary powers possess no peculiar magic. . . To be effective in performing their function, they must be closely co-ordinated with the other major powers and policies of government which influence the country's economic life."

So Thomas and his money plans apparently are in for trouble.

The cotton subsidy is another matter. Most earnest back of it are Senator Tom Connaly of Texas and Vice-President Garner, also from Texas. Connally's argument is that cotton growers have to sell their product on a world market and with what money they get must then turn about and buy American goods whose prices are pushed skyward by tariff walls. Such tariff protection, he says, amounts to a subsidy for the industries protected by it.

More than one member of congress and some administration figures, however, are becoming tired of this constant pressure to subsidize. If cotton is subsidized, perhaps cotton mills will insist on a bit of pap to help them survive the higher costs of raw cotton. And when the price of finished goods is pushed upward to take care of this increase, the users of the goods will need to be helped more—and so another cycle is started.

The third issue doesn't seem to make much of acycle. Senator Ellender of Louisiana has indicated that if any farmers, incluring cotton growers, are to get subsidies, or benefits, or anything else in the way of federal help, they must first promise to make themselves more nearly self-sustaining.

Let the cotton growers raise less cotton and spend a little more time raising a vegetable garden and caring for a cow. If they have no bread, let them raise corn. Ellender says he has seen small cotton farmers starving in the midst of potential plenty. All they lacked was a garden—and the incentive and knowledge to plant it.

Be it mentioned at this point, that the department of agriculture will back him there. The tenant relief program calls for household gardens, plus a cow, a pig and some hens.

Tex's Topics

This is not a sports column, but this is the one week in the year when almost everybody would rather read something about the Amarillo-Pampa football game here day after tomorrow, than any one other single subject you could dig up. . . The zero hour is not distant any longer. . . Soon you'll be out there listening to the starting signal, and very soon the game will be over and another annual classic between the Sandies and Harvesters will be history.

★ ★ ★

What's the advance dope? . . . Who will win? . . . Which team is the favorite? . . . These questions are riddles of the first water. Our good friend, Jerry Malin, sports czar of the Amarillo News, wrote yesterday that Pampa should, with everything considered, be a 3 to 1 favorite in the Armistice Day game. . . Now, I do not write sports and have the greatest respect for Mr. Malin's sport world deductions. . . but it appears to even a rank amateur that Malin has wolves in the woodpile when he writes like that. . . It looks like he's trying to keep the Amarillo "odds" money at home this year. . . It has been said of past Pampa-Amarillo high school grid contests that Amarillo wins the games and Pampa wins the money. . . Maybe Malin is trying to save his home folks some dough this year, who knows?

Malin warns his friends in Amarillo that they are suckers of the blackest category if they give even one point when they start out to bet on who will win Thursday's game out at Harvester stadium. . . Perscnally, I feel that Pampa will get in ther and whip the Sandies, possibly by one touchdown. . . But Malin is righter than seven rabbits when he says that a game of that type, where everyone concerned is at the season's highest pitch, is anybody's game until the final whistle has blown. . . Neither Amarillo ncr Pampa will have any walkaway victory Thursday afternoon. . . Malin wrote sweet words of praise yesterday about the Harvesters and their coaches. . . In so many words, he would like to have us believe that the Sandies are under-dogs of the Newfoundland variety this year.

The Harvesters and Sandies, as they practice this week behind curtains and away from the eyes of the curious, are very much like Greta Garbo, who says, frequently, "Ay want to be ay-lone, pliz!" . . . 'Well, Dearie--That's The Way He Is'

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—A novelist in New York has what appears to be one of the most extravagant apartments on record. However, it cost only a fractional sum, for most of its luxury is really stage settings. His cousin is a theatrical producer and from him he obtains the seemingly lavish fixtures of costly plays which fail to survive the reviews.

What appears to be a teakwood wall inlaid with silver is really beaverboard cleverly painted. A pipe organ is of the same material. Costly Italian book cases, and a mantle of Greecian origin are there, too, but they are only smart duplicates. Even the old masters on the walls are cleverly wrought phonies. He wouldn't swap them for the originals. "I am a fictionist," he explains. "I do better work in an atmosphere of make-believe."

Some people live in New York for years without seeing many of its treasures. The idea, of course, is: "Why rush; I will see it some day." However, that some day is a long time in coming. For instance, I have never been to the Statue of Liberty. I have seen it from shore and from passing ships thousands of times, but I have never been out to it and climbed its back-breaking stairway.

A fine example of how remote one may be in this town is the experience of Jim Crowley, the football coach, and Grantland Rice, the sports columnist. They are next door neighbors, but last year they saw each other only twice—in Berlin and in Los Angeles.

Music lovers rubbed their eyes when they read in their newspapers of the debut of a young baritone—Joe Smith by Name—in New York the other night. He seems headed for the Metropolitan stage, but his name would have stunned New York a generation or so ago.

When his teacher suggested he pursue his career under the name of Giuseppe Fabbro, its Italian equivalent, Smith declined. "It is outrageous to thing that American names and American teachers can not produce good singers.

So he billed himself under the honest but wholly unromatic name of —Joe Smith.

"If Americans must study abroad," he asks, "why is it that most of the best teachers come to America?"

And another thing: "It would be a good things for American prestige in the opera world if Americans would sing under their own names."

Note: Many famous "Italian" opera stars are really Americans, such as: Giuseppe Bentonelli, who is really Joe Benton of Oklahoma; and Rochard Bonelli, nee Richard Bunn of New York.

Edward Johnson was known as Eduardo Di Giovanni. Another Brooklyn boy, Fred Jagel, was once styled Frederico Jagelli.

Closer friends than Walter Word and Grover Lee Heiskell, two backfield players on the Guerilla team, you'll seldom see. Those two boys are inseparable when they're anyways near each other, and have been that way since Walter moved here from Higgins. This fall both went out for the football team. Well, Grover easily made the team, and Walter played as a reserve. In the 4th game of the season at Alanreed Grover got his arm broken,, and Walter took his place. He soon showed the the coach he could run with that ball, and he has played like a star in every game since then . . . But the night Grover discovered his arm was broken his mother began sympathizing with him because she thought not being able to play was as big a disappointment to him as it was to her. But Grover answered her, "Oh, well, I don't feel so bad about it . . . Somebody sitting on the bench will get a chance to play now . . . Of course I would like to play; I wouldn't want to sit on that bench all season," and his mother knew who he was thinking about. The coach admits that the accident gave Walter his chance, and he also admits that Walter has made good, and nobody is gladder of it than Grover.

How's Your Health?

By IAGO GALDSTON, M.D.

Opinion is greatly divided among the medical profession as to the value and effectiveness of bacterial vaccines for the prevention of colds.

The difference of opinion, however, centers more about the interpretation of "prevention" than about the effectiveness of the vaccines. For it is universally agreed that bacterial vaccines are not effective in really preventing colds. They do, though, appear to be effective in reducing the severity of the symptoms developed.

In judging the usefulness of these vaccines, one must depend upon basic facts in the science of immunity rather than upon statistical evidence, for here is the catch: If an individual is vaccinated against colds with a bacterial vaccine and he does not subsequently develop as many colds as he had in previous years, it does not necessarily follow that the vaccine he received can be credited with this improvement. He may have been less exposed to colds, or in better health.

Conversely, if an individual is given a cold vaccine and he has just as many colds as he did before being vaccinated, it can be argued that without the vaccine he might possibly have had even more colds.

We know today that the common cold is primarily due to a virus (not a germ) and that he cold germs are "secondary invaders." The bacterial vaccines used in vaccinating against colds contain only killed "cold germs," and none of the virus. Such a vaccine cannot, therefore, prove effective against the cold virus.

On the other hand, a number of studies have shown that the cold germ vaccines do raise resistance against the trouble-making cold germs in some persons.

And so the question of whether to be vaccinated against colds must be left to the judgment of one's physician. Those particularly prone to have several colds each year may perhaps be warranted in "taking a chance" on the cold vaccine. There is little likelihood of the vaccine doing any harm and it may do some good.

Around Hollywood

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Accent on youth: Executives 30 years old and younger, writers who were office boys a few years ago (like Norman Krasna), producers and associate producers just over the 30-line—they're common. And I've just met a director who's only 23, who has a co-director who's 27.

It's true that Billy Witney, the younger, and Jack English are co-directors in the comparatively inexpensive serial field. But what other business will entrust the handling of an investment between $80,000 and $100,000 to a couple of youngsters? They've pust finished 13 episodes of action and thrills called "Return of Zorro" and done it—26 reels—in 25 days. That's no longer than the serial-makers give the veterans to grind out one of their products—but then Billy and Jack are veterans.

Started at Bottom

Both used to be office boys. Both went through the mill. Billy had two years in the cutting rooms, served as script and then assistant director. Jack has worked in the film laboratory, camera department, film cutting; has been assistant and chief cameraman and assistant director. Both say it makes their present jobs easied—they've worked with all the boys that now are working with them, and there's no unpleasantness about who's in charge.

The serial field is where pictures are made fast and furiously. It may not be art, but it gets done. The day is wasted that doesn't see four reels of film exposed and canned, or at least one reel of edited film, ready for release. That's about 10 minutes of screen time—and on a major studio lot a director figures he's lucky if a day's work gives him four minutes.

"We don't have time for much rehearsing," Billy Witney explains. "We have to have people who know what's wanted and can go ahead and do it right the first time.

Close Figuring

A serial's time budget is estimated practically to the last minute, which means that every minute of production has to count. On location, where most serials are made, the director has to keep up with the sun. Not infrequently, if working in a canyon at noon, he has to climb the hill and shoot as he climbs in order to follow the sun.

Believe Tugwell Bill Might Have Prevented Sulfanilamide Deaths

By RODNEY DUTCHER,
Pampa Daily News Washington Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Nov 8.—Sulfanilamide elixir, supposed to have been responsible for the deaths of 60 persons at last count, drew wide public attention because so many people who took it died so quickly, resulting in a melodramatic race to get remaining supplies off the drugstore shelves.

But other drug preparations have killed more people than this one, though less conspicuously, officials of the Food and Drug Administration assert. And they couple the reflection with the question of whether the once-celebrated "Tugwell Bill" would have prevented the recent series of deaths. The particular sulfanilamide preparation which proved so deadly in the present case was distributed through regular channels, put out by an established firm, and administered by conscientious physicians.

Dr. E. Kennerly Marshall Jr., professor of pharmacology at the Johns Hopkins University, says passage of the Tugwell bill would have saved those who, in the present instance, died after taking the "elixir." Food and Drug Administration officials say the measure in its original form "probably" would have averted these tragedies as well as others.

Long Since Pulverized.

But the original Tugwell bill, prepared by these government txperts to protect consumers against dangerous or worthless drugs, cosmetics and foods, has long sinct been pulverized by dobbyists and their congressional sympathizers. And under present laws, the only charge that could be brought against the elixir manufacturers would be a technical one of "misbranding," which involves a $200 fine in case the violation should be established.

To experts of the Food and Drug Administration, the sulfanilamide affair is only the latest of a series of similar cases. The fault lies in the willingness of some drug manufacturers to distribute certain preparations without adequately testing their possible effects. Dinitrophenol used in "fat-reducing" preparations, cinchophen, and radium waters, are said to have shocking fatality records.

Even the original Tugwell bill, however carried no certain assurance that inadequately-tested drugs might not be sold. The most effective preventive would be a federal act requiring such tests.

"But we didn't have the political temerity to offer such a proposal," says a Food and Drug official. "We thought we would have trouble enough getting the less drastic provisions of the Tugwell bill adopted. And we did."

'Exceedingly Thoughtless.'

Friends of rigid food-drug supervision and backers of the Tugwell bill credit Senators Bailey of North Carolina, Clark of Missouri, and Vandenberg of Michigan with the final emasculation of such shreds of the Tugwell bill as remained when it was last heard of.

Dr. W. G. Campbell, Food and Drug chief, believes that in the current case the manufacturer committed "an excedingly thoughtless act" in marketing his preparation without adequate tests of all its possible effects. But there is apparently no question of legality, the law being what it is today. Whether the incident will stimulate a revival of some version of the Tugwell bill, or further drastic preventive and protective laws in the coming session of Congress, is questionable.

Sharing the Comforts Of Life

By R. C. HOILES.

Our economic trouble and unemployment is due to the fact that people believe the following statement made by Adam Smith 160 years ago is not now true. Adam Smith said:

"The demand of those who live by wages, therefore, necessarily increases with the increase of the revenue and stock of every country, and cannot possibly increase without it. The increase of revenue and stock is the increase of national wealth."

If the people believed this law were true now, we certainly would not restrict any man from producing wealth by taxing him. We certainly would not consume the capital of our country by taxation to support the government in its necessary expenses. We would support the government out of consumaable goods and allow the capital to increase so that wages could be higher and we could support more people at a higher standard of living.

If we believed this principle of economics, we certainly would not, by law, prevent any man from working and producing because he could not get as much for his production as other workers and employers would like to see him get.

If we believed this principle to be true, we would not permit any combinations for restraint of trade or restrictions of production.

If we believed this law to be true today, we would not be calling a session of congress to limit farm production and to limit the hours a man may dare work and the wages per hour, not per unit, he must be paid for producing wealth.

By some strange, hypnotic belief, the people have come to believe that this is a land of plenty and that this principle does not now apply. But it applies exactly now as it did when written.

Book A Day

—By ERUCE CATTON

"Lost Heritage," by Bruno Frank, is one of the most interesting German novels to appear this year, and as a sort of testament of exile it tsands as a mature and appealing work.

The story, which is made up of almost equal parts of romance, intrigue and adventure, centers around a young Germon nobleman of today. Most of the action takes place in Hitler's Germany and the reader hears one man's version of the life led by aristrocrat, bourgeois and intellectual in that ironbound state.

Small group of individuals who make up the story's dramatis personae are Prince Ludwig, the hero; Herr Wetzlar, a sort of contemporary Shylock from the "my daughter, my ducats!" point of view; Susanna and Ruth who loved Prince Ludwig; Dr. Steiger, a philogist and historian, and Professor Rotteck, who learned that scholarship is no weapon against the lust for power.

Th novel follows Prince Ludwig in his flight from Germany, his courageous return to save a friend, his escape to England and the new life he made for himself in London.

From one dramatic situation to another the book leaps, almost too frequently for complete conviction, but the credibility of the characters and the wisdom with which they speak compensates for the highly colored background against which they move.

"Lost Heritage" is rich in perceptions of character and thought, sympathetic and flavoed with that kind of imagination which adds dimension to a story.—E. M. T.

HARVESTERS READY TO PUT UP GREATEST FIGHT FOR VICTORY THURSDAY

REVENGE FOR PAMPANS NOW WITHIN REACH

District 1 still has three-top ranking teams left in the running and two of them will meet Thursday afternoon on the turf at Harvester field when the Amarillo Sandies come to Pampa at 2:30 o'clock. At the same hour, the Plainview Bulldogs will try to topple Borger's Bulldogs from the undefeated list in a Bulldog vs. Bulldog battle.

Except for J. P. Mathews, stellar guard, the Harvesters will enter the game in top shape. Over in Amarillo, it is reported that Captain King will be unable to start because of a sprained ankle and that Martin, giant back, is carrying a weight around to straighten out an elbow which has bothered him all season.

Captain King may be injured but Martin certainly hasn't shown any letup from sore arm or anything else. In fact, the big fellow came to the front a month ago and since then has outshone the flashy Thompson as a ball carrier. Other members of the Sandie lineup are in tip-top shape for the affray.

Mathews On Sidelines

Deep lines of worry could be seen on the faces of Coaches Odus Mitchell and J. C. Prejean as they out the Harvesters through a light but long workout on plays and defense. The reason—J. P. Mathews was missing from the lineup.

The boys, however, worked with vim and vigor after announcing that if Mathews was unable to get in the lineup they would play the game for him and Watch Out Sandies. Mathews reported at the field in a sweat suit and exercised for more than a hour in an effort to get his bad knee where it would bend.

Coach Mitchell took Mathews to Amarillo yesterday morning for a special treatment and mineral bath. The treatment was to be continued this morning and also tomorrow.

"We are hoping that Mathews will be able to start the game," coaches declared yesterday. "Stiles will get the call if Mathews is on the bench, and he is a mighty good boy. He charges low and hard and is a good defensive player. All he lacks is weight and Mathew's experience.

Both Teams Ready

Other members of the Harvester lineup will be the same as in past games: Reynolds and McMahan at ends; Brown and Coshow, tackles; Mathews or Stiles and Nelson, guards; Harding, center; Graham, quarter; Heiskell and Smith, halves; Karr, full.

Looking the situation over, the railbirds wind Amarillo with the superior record for the season, both offensively and defensively, Amarillo having scored 150 points to their opponent's 53 compared with the Harvester's 103 points on offense to 67 on defense.

Weight also will be on the side of the Sandies, especially in the ball toting department where the heaviest Harvester wouldn't balance the lightest Sandie. Height will also be with the Sandies, especially, again, in the backfield.

While the Harvesters feature the four ball-carrier system, Amarillo uses three ball toters and a blocker. Martin, Thompson, and Townley have been the ball carriers in past games with Linn doing the blocking. Word comes from the Sandie stronghold that Linn has been switched to fullback position and that four ball carriers may function against the Harvesters.

Thompson does all the passing for the Sandstorm, or has in the past, and has divided the punting, some, with Martin. Graham, Heiskell and Karr all pass for the Harvesters with Heiskell and Graham doing the punting. Pass snatching has been about equal in the season of play with the Sandies given an edge on pass defense because of tall line backers and tall backs.

Hearing Set For Port Arthur Case

BEAUMONT, Nov. 9 (AP)—The Court of Civil Appeals here will hear arguments November 18 in a case involving eligibility of twelfth grade students to play football for Port Arthur high school. The date of the hearing was set yesterday.

J. M. Combs, a member of the court, disqualified himself because he is board president of the South Park school, which is in the same district as Port Arthur.

Judges Daniel Walker and W. B. O'Quinn, the other two members of the court, will rule on whether a lower court, which twice threw out the suit, has a right to hear it.

PITTSBURGH RANKED AS NO. 1 TEAM OF NATION IN BALLOT

By ALAN GOULD.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 (AP)—Pittsburgh's football powerhouse, triumphant in the Rose Bowl last New Year's day and seemingly ambitious to try it again, displaced the University of California today as the nation's No. 1 team.

The combination of Pitt's emphatic victory over Notre Dame and Calofirnia's scoreless tie with Washington helped bring about the biggest shakeup so far in the national gridiron ranking poll conducted by the Associated Press.

Pittsburgh collected a majority of the first-place ballots, 31½ out of 55, and piled up a decisive margin on points while California dropped to second place after leading the procession for three weeks. Alabama received more first-place votes than California in this weeks' balloting but was not supported strougly enough otherwise to avoid dropping a notch to third place.

The marked swing of football's balance of power to the northeast, with five teams from this second in the "first ten," is indicated by the following tabulation:

(First places bracketed; points scored 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1.)

First ten	Pts.
1. Pittsburgh (31½)	509½
2. California (9)	449
3. Alabama (13)	422
4. Fordham (1½)	387½
5. Dartmuth	253
6. Yale	166
7. Santa Clara	166
8. Duke	159
9. Villanova	62
10. Minnesta	61

Second ten: 11. Nebraska, 55; 12. Louisiana State, 52; 13, Baylor, 43; 14. Auburn, 30; 15. Rice, 29; 16. Colorado University, 23; 17. Indiana, 13; 18. Notre Dame, 12; 19. Holy Cross, 7; 20. Arkansas, 6.

Minnesota, travelinb a surprisingly zig-zag course, bounced back into the first ten after one week's absence. Duke and Villanova also moved into the select circle, as the experts filled gaps left by Baylor, Nebraska and Ohio State. Baylor skidded from fourth place to 13th after its first defeat.

Only two of the top ten, Alabama and Santa Clara, have records clear of either tie or defeat. Seven others have nothing worse than a tie on their slates, including the now famous and third successive deadlock between Pitt and Fordham.

The ranking list, as a barometer on what may happen to the leaders this Saturday, indicates Pitt a heavy favorite over Nebraska, Notre Dame the choice over Army, and Louisiana State the likely winner over unpredictable Auburn.

Grid Queen To Be Crowned Tonight

By LOIS FICKE.

WHEELER, Nov. 9.—Using the coronation of George VI as a model, Wheeler high school students will tonight crown Dorothy Dixon as football queen, in a program to be presented in the local auditorium.

She will be attended by Alton Weeks, football captain, and the football team and pep squad will represent the royal family.

Others participating in the event will be Duchess Geraldine Lewis, junior class, attended by Herbert Green; Duchess Louelle Jaco, senior, attended by Amos Pillers.

Coach Stina Cain will be master of ceremonies.

Tapdancing, pantomime, folk dance, reading, a trumpet and a violin solo, are on the program for the coronation.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 (AP)—Looks like the New York Giant football team is going to be on (94 around) the top for a long time to come . . . Ginger Foran, crack British featherweight, was no sooner off the boat than he was offered $2,500 to fight Henry Armstrong on Ed Bang's Cleveland News Christmas fund show . . . Ginger turned it down right now . . . We don't blame him . . . The way to debut in America is not against Henry Armstrong . . . It's big news in the mid-west when Michigan State plays a game around home . . . This year the Spartans are booked for three games in the east, two in the "Big Six" and one on the Pacific coast.

Latest candidate for the "Red Face" club is Halbert J. (Buck) Blue of Aberdeen, N. C.—in the last 25 years he has played thousands of rounds over the golf courses at nearby Pinehurst, but never crashed Prof. Paul Cichelson's hole-in-one club . . . Last week he entertained Hampden H. Swift of the St. Louis Swifts . . . Imagine how Mr. Blue felt when his guest hit a No. 5 iron so perfectly it popped into the 14th hole . . . (Mr. Swift's first round at Pinehurst, too.)

Put down Garry Kline of the Emporia State Teachers' College as a candidate for the AP's "little all-America" . . . Besides being an outstanding defensive end, this bird carries the ball and does the bulk the punting . . . GARNER GETS READY TO LEAVE FOR WASHINGTON

UVALDE, Nov. 9 (AP)—Taciturn John N. Garner got his bags down today for another journey to Washington but wouldn't say exactly when he was leaving or what route he would follow.

The vice president, who will be 69 years old one week from next Monday, appeared in excellent health after three months spent mainly in tending his chickens and pecan trees with an occasional short fishing trip.

Uvalde's first citizen promised he would be on hand to preside over the Senate in its opening session Monday and would go from San Antonio by train but would not say anything more. He will be accompanied by his wife, who does much of his secretairal work.

Garner's secretary, Louis Friday, departed for Washington yesterday by automobile.

WARNER ASKS RULE CHANGES

By DREW MIDDLETON

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 (AP)—Pop Warner, the master of offensive strategist of college football, is ready for a rules committee move that will strip the defense of the edge he believes it holds over the attack in the modern game.

When the veteran coach of Temple got up at the meeting of the football writers association yesterday, and pleaded for rules changes to eliminate scoreless ties and raise scoring figures, the coaches and writers were listening to a man who has been a leader in building football attacks.

Since the turn of the century Pop has been an outstanding football figure; coach of the fabulous Jim Thorpe and Ernie Nevers, father of the Warner double wingback (or, as Pop calls it, two wingback) system, and originator of a dozen plays that have stood the tests of time.

"The defense has advanced this year to a much greater extent than the offense," said Warner. "This is due not only to the more general use of a five-man defensive line but to the many variations which an offensive team is up against."

The thought that his own Temple team has played three scoreless ties probably was in Warner's mind when he offered three suggestions to help the offense: (1) legislation to compel the defense to keep six men on the line of scrimmage; (2) adoption of the professional rule permitting forward passing from any point behind the scrimmage line (instead of the present five-yard limit); and (3) restore the goal posts to the goal line.

Lou Little, Columbia coach and chairman of the rules committee of the American Football Coaches' association, backed up Warner's views, and suggested a solution of current offensive problems; the abandonment of the huddle system of signal calling in favor of the old fashion quarterback method.

'BIG TRAIN' WINS DECISION OVER MAULERS

Ray "Big Train" Clements, the referee, won a decision at the Pampa Athletic arena last night when he forced Frank Wolff and Bill Cazzell to "wrestle" in the final fall of the main event after each had been disqualified for choking and slugging. Wolff won the decision in 35 minutes. The big fellow won with a straight from the shoulder tongue lashing given the two big maulers as they took to the mat for the third and deciding fall.

The big referee had the situation well under control and for 35 minutes the two gave one of the season's most colorful exhibitions of grappling of the season which proves that the roughsters can be scientfic if the referee makes them toe the mark. Only two blows were landed and they were by Cazzell. After the referee made him shake hands with Wolff.

The first fall went to Cazzell in 2½ minutes when Wolff was disqualified for choking. Cazzell lasted only a half minute longer in the second fall when he socked Wolff and had him out with a strangle hold before Clements gave Wolff the fall.

It was all wrestling in the last fall, each applying torturous holds which the other broke to come up with one even tougher. Time after time the crowd started to leave, believing the match over, but by sheer strength one or the other broke. And the crowd liked it. Each came out of inside toe holds, hammerlocks, splits, and once Cazzell came out of a surf board.

The end came when Cazell got a Japanese crab hold which Wolff broke, slamming Cazzell and pinningf him after 35 minutes.

Bob Cummings and Cyclone Mackie got nowhere with scientific grappling for twenty-five minutes in the semi-final. Tnen they "went to town" with nothing barred but the corner posts. The battle ended in a draw after Cummings had stayed in a headlock for five minutes and Mackie withstood the torture of a short arm scissor for nearly four minutes.

Otto Ludwig and Abie Freeman gave another exhibition of wrestling. They also went haywire in the closing minutes in an effort to win but the 20-minute gong got them.

TOURNEY DEADLOCKED

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9 (AP)—Willie Mosconi, Philadelphia, and defending champion Ralph Greenleaf, New York, were deadlocked for first place today in the world's championship pocket billard tournament with five victories and one defeat each.

Mosconi moved into the first place tie by defeating Marcel Camp, Detroit, last night, 125 to 14, to 12 innings.

Chicago's Best School Boy Player

Bill DeCorrevont, shown breaking with the ball, perhaps is the most besieged high school football player in the country. Playing with Austin High, DeCorrevont has broken all Chicago high school scoring records and is a remarkable punter and passer. He is 17 years old, weighs 172 pounds, and stands just under six feet. Bill Heiland is his third high school coach, and the third to call him the greatest high school player he's ever seen. The youngster also is considered an excellent major league baseball prospect.

Plainview's Bull Pups will come to Pampa for a return game with the Pampa high school Guerillas at 3:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. No admission will be charged to the battle at Harvester field.

Coach Bob Curry and his Guerillas won a 12 to 6 game from the future Bulldogs in Plainview after being soundly outplayed during the first half. Passes and some tricky running pulled the Pampa youngsters from behind.

The Guerillas looked much better than usual in downing Alanreed here last week. They are pointing to the Plainview game in the hope of downing the Bull Pups by at least as large a score as the Amarillo Yannignas—24 to 0.

Coach Curry has promised his youngsters a crack at the Yannigans if a game can be scheduled.

Unless there is a letdown, the same lineup that started against Alanreed will get the nod. Word will be at a halfback slot in place of the injured Heiskell. Aulds, passer, Saulsbury and Miller will round out the ball toting department. The Clemmons and Bailey brothers will likely make up the "big half" of the line along with Candler, Ripple, and Montgomery.

Substitutes who have been going strong in practice will likely get a chance to show their stuff.

PUNTS AND PASSES

(By The Associated Press)

FORT WORTH—Texas Christian's "that guy O'Brien" continues a menace to all and sundry in the Southwest. He is about 70 per cent of the Horned Frogs' activity. Davie carried the ball in 106 of T. C. U.'s 222 running plays in six games. He gained 320 yards. Plays from scrimmage (runs, passes and punts) have totaled 453 yards and Davis has accounted for 314 yards as either the runner, and passer or kicker. No wonder the war cry is "watch that guy O'Brien."

MIDDLETON, Conn.—The four oldest former Wesleyan University football captains returned for the Williams game last Saturday. Ranked according to age they are Jordan C. Wells, 76, of the class of 1888, who captained the 1886 team; Geo. E. Manchester, 75, of the class of 1889, leader of the 1888 eleven; Geo. D. Beatty 75, class of '85, captain in 1883, and the Rev. Harry H. Beatty, 73, member of the class of 1888, who captained the team of 1887.

PRINCEAON, N. J.—It's Fritz Crisler speaking with the emphasis that might be expected after the licking his Princeton team has taken from Harvard and Dartmouth.

"I don't know who is going to start aaginst Yale Saturday," Fritz told his team yesterday, "and as far as I am concerned all the positions are wide open. I'm going to be calloused and cold-hearted, so scrap it out among yourselves."

SAN ANTONIO—The Rattlers of St. Mary's of Texas are well named. They have travelled from coast to coast thus far this season and have a couple of more long hops to make before the season ends.

CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATIONS

The United States Civil Service Commission has announced an open competitive examination for the position of senior veterinarian (animal disease research), $4,600 a year, in the Bureau of Animal Industry. Applicants must have completed a ocurse leading to a degree in a college or university with major study in veterinary medicine, and in addition, must have had certain specified experience.

Full information may be obtained from the secretary of the U. S. Civil Service Board of Examiners, at the post office in this city.

JURY NOT CHOSEN.

HUNTSVILLE Nov. 9 (AP)—A jury for the robbery with firearms trial of Pete Traxler, Oklahoma and Texas bad man, was almost half complete as interrogation of veniremen entered its second day.

Wellington and Shamrock Prep For Grid Tilt

SHAMROCK, Nov. 9—It's like the calm before the storm in Shamrock this week as the football fans in the home of the Fighting Iirishmen anxiously await the invasion of the Wellington Skyrockets for the annual Armistice night gridiron classic. Dope by the bushel is being scattered here and there as the general conversations in business houses, homes and on street corners center around the most important games of the current season.

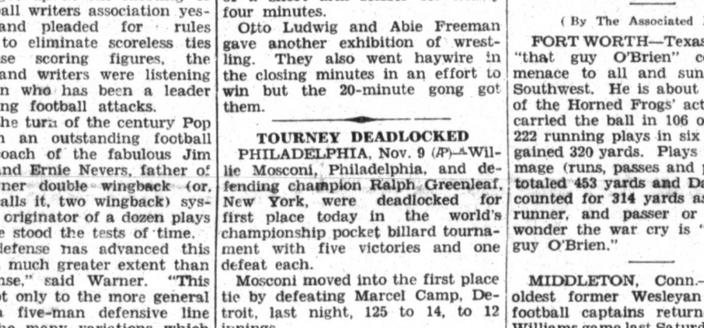

The Irish lads and the Memphis Cyclone are the only obstacles between Joe Coleman's Skyrockets and a district 3-B Championship, and since the local gridsters whipped the Hall county boys 39 to 0, it looks as though the Irishmen are the only ones the Rockets have to worry about.

Through the brilliant plays of Austin and Estes, aided by several other unusually good gridiron warriors, the Skyrockets have an undefeated record that the Irishmen have been unable to equal. The Skyrockets have run up several dozen scores this season to only a few for their opponents in rising to the top of the ladder in District 3-B standings, while the Irishmen have a 7 to 6 defeat to mar their otherwise unblemished record.

VINES ALSO PLAYS GOLF.

PASADENA, Calif., Nov. 9 (AP)—Ellsworth Vines, professional tennis star turned golfer, engaged Johnny Weismuller of swimming fame today in the opening match play of the Pasadena amateur links championship. Vines his putter working even as smoothly as his famous racket, shattered 70 for the first time in his life yesterday when he posted a 69 in the medal round.

Market Briefs

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 (AP)—Selected stocks pushed upward in today's market, apparently taking their cue from a brisk comeback in basic commodities.

Although it was a slow-motion session, with the ticker tape frequently at a standstill for a minute or so at a time, advances running to 3 or more points were registered. Lack of vigor on the forward tilt, however, brought in more offerings in the final hour and top quotations were cut down in many cases.

Coppers and utilities gave the best performamnce, and were trailed by motors, steels and specialties.

Helping put brakes on the recent slide, brokers said, was the realization of speculative forces that congress convenes in an extra session next week and that the administration, to stimulate lagging business and industry, may take some "reflation" step at any moment.

Transfers were around 1,100,000 shares.

CHICAGO WHEAT

CHICAGO, Nov. 9 (AP)—In a pronounced recovery movement, wheat values gained 2¼ cents a bushel maximum late today but profit-taking caused something of a reaction.

Helping the upturn were estimates that nearly 1,000,000 bushels of North American wheat had been bought today for shipment to Europe.

At the close, wheat was ⅝-1¼ above yesterday's finish, December 87¼-⅜, May 87¾-⅞, corn ⅜-1⅛ up, December 56¼-¼, May 58⅝, and oats ⅜ to 1 cent advanced.

COUNTY'S ROAD AND BRIDGE FUND AMENDED

Budget amendments and approval of the monthly bills was made at the regular meeting of the county commissioners yesterday.

The commissioners voted to amend the general road and bridge fund $4,290.22, specifying that this amount be distributed to the precinct funds according to 1938 budget positions.

Budget of precinct 1 was amended $2,000, general fund $39.25.

The commissioners authorized the county auditor to purchase a new calculator.

Bond of D. A. Davis, as public weigher of justice of the peace precinct 5 (McLean) for $2,000 was approved.

IT REALLY HAPPENED IN FOOTBALL!

BATTERED by Navy's powerful attack, Great Lakes Naval Training Station was pushed back to its own goal line in that famous game of 1918. With only a yard to go, Navy's Bill Ingram, later to be Midshipman coach, smashed through center and fumbled! From the pile of players emerged "Dizzy" Elleson, Great Lakes back, the ball in his hands as he dashed toward Navy's goal, 100 yards away. Not a man stood between him and a touchdown. Suddenly, as he reached midfield, an excited Navy substitute jumped from the bench, ran onto the field and brought Elleson down with a flying tackle. Navy's coach, Gil Dobie, immediately declared the touchdown should be allowed, and Great Lakes kicked goal, winning 7-6.

NEST ROBBER FOUND.

CLARENDON, Nov. 9. (AP)—When Bob Oliver, ranch employee, discovered a guinea's nest was being robbed mysteriously he laid poison bait and waited for something to happen. The nest filled, but again the eggs vanished with no trace of the marauder. Then he "loaded" ten with a deadly concoction, sealing the small punctures and placed them in the nest. Visiting the nest a week later all but three of the eggs were gone, but in the tall grass nearby he found a six-foot chicken snake gorged with seven unbroken guinea eggs, but very dead.

JILL

BY MARY RAYMOND
Copyright, 1937, NEA Service, Inc.

Yesterday: Jill's engagement to Milo is announced as Alan enters the Wentworth home. He leaves instantly, crushed, hating. A few hours later an unhappy Jill started out of the house to go to Alan, to tell him everything.

CHAPTER XVII

Alan had left Jill in a mood of despair, swept at times by cold fury and a burning jealousy.

It was all over. His love for Jill had changed to hate and contempt. Tonight Jill had pretended she loved mih in order to bring him to her announcement party. It had amused her to have a plodding painter witness her triumph and prestige. A lovely princess surounded by her court. And more than that, she had wanted to humiliate him fearfully because he had despised her favors.

Before he had left the Wentworth house, he had heard people talking about Jill and the man she was to marry. Even he, a comparative stranger in the city, knew the name of the society playboy.

He let himself into his studio with shaking fingers. It was still cozy and warm here, with embers from the fire stll glowing. Yet unutterably lonely.

He stood for a moment gazing down dully at a half-finished portrait on the easel. How cold and unappealing the lady on the canvas was, despite the lovely line of her throat and the graceful curve of her shoulder. A woman of the imagination. What he needed was reality. He had been a victim of illusions too long. Visualizing Jill as some sort of lovely, laughing saint. And attributing all sorts of devilish impulses to Ardath.

There was no doubt that a deep and dangerous fire glowed in Ardath. But she was a saint compared with Jill.

He laughed mirthlessly. Some day he would paint Ardath in a new light. And then he would do a companion picture of Jill, as a sort of Delilah. He would like to do it now.

On an impulse, he crossed to the desk and ran his hand into one of the pidgeon-holes. He stared down at the card and the telephone number. Ardath would come if he called her. Tonight she could lift him to feverish heights as an artist, even though she left him cold as a man. He would have to love a woman to be stirred by her. And he would never love any woman again.

He put the card back, wearily. It was ridiculous—indicating the disorder in his mind—to beleive Ardath could help him now. That had been only another illusion. He groaned.

The doorbell shattered his unhappy thoughts.

Alan went into the front room and opened the door. An icy draft of air, accompanied by a flurry of snow, greeted him.

A girl stood there, muffled against the weather. Her turban was spattered by the snow. The fur collar of her coat was turned up close about her face.

For a moment, his heart stood stil.

"You're letting me freeze," came a low, throaty voice. "Can't you make up your mind to invite me in."

Alan swung athe door wide The light fell on Ardath Holm. It was almost as though she had materialized from his thoughts. He smiled a little, thinking how useless his decision had been. Hhere she was.

"Surpried to see me, aren't you?"

Alan shut the door. "Yes," he answered.

Ardath took off her small, snow-powdered hat and tossed it on a chair.

"Please help me with my coat." She moved close to him and Alan slipped the coat from her shoulders.

What an amazing creature she seemed at this hour of night, and evidently was. Coming to a man's apartment evidently expecting to remain a while.

"I like this!" Ardath sank into a low chair near the fire. "Say, it really feels grand after that blizzard

Stiffness slid from Alan in a swift surge of sympathy. These girls who battled for a living had a rough time of it. No doubt of that.

"May I fix you something hot?" he asked.

Her lips parted in a wide, amused smile. "I don't mind. I'd like a cocktail, if you have the makings."

Alan had. He went back to his small kitchen, which was nothing more than an efficiency arrangement in an aleove, and mixed two drinks.

"This will fix me up," Ardath said, sipping her drink. Her eyes were searching his.

In her lap was a sheet of newspaper, closely closed. After a moment, she unfolded it and handed it to him.

Alan took the paper. Jill's face smiled at him.

"Did you come here just to show me that?" he asked roughly, pain in his voice.

"No. I came earlier and the place was dark. Then I went to a show. When I came out the newsboys were crying out something about her party, and announcing her engagement. I got a paper and brought it along."

"I'd rathed not talk about her," Alan said in a dull voice.

"So you'd rather not talk about her! With me, you mean."

Ardath's gray eyes were blazing. Fury had painted bright banners in her cheeks. Her lips had parted to reveal a flash of white teeth.

Alan was staring at her strangely. If he could only transform Ardath with a brush. Paint her with a softness and gentleness she had never revealed. And, paradoxically paint Jill with a cruel deception showing in her eyes.

"Look here. It's ridiculous to quarrel. I've a beter idea."

Instantly, anger disappeared. Ardath smiled. Have you? What is it?"

"Will you pose for me?"

She laughed. "So, that's what you mean. Of course I will. How do you want me? Without All or All together?"

"All together, if you mean fully dressed," Alan replied coldly.

She was brazen, but she was also beautiful and paintable. An artist couldn't afford to be squeamish or too conventional.

After all, he had painted nudes in the classrooms with profesional casualness and indifference. But at the light words of this girl, he had felt the blood rush to his face in revolt against her boldness.

Ardath followed him into the back room, where he arranged his easel and tubes with professional precision.

"Funny to see a man painting in ev ning clothes," Ardath said suddenly. A malicious note was in her voice. "Maybe you had planned to go to the Wentworth's and then changed your mind. It's not to late even now. Don't let me interrupt any plans."

"Will you please sit in that curved chair, turn slightly toward me. Now look at me, and don't talk." Alan's tone was like ice.

Ardath sat down, settled back gracefully and turned slightly, her strange eyes slanting to meet Alan's gaze.

She wouldn't talk. She would look at him!

Quite dispassionately, Alan wound about Ardath's shoulders a splendid scarf of ivory silk, shot through with shining silver threads, which completely covered the cheap green blouse she wore.

Ardath resented his cool composure, his casual touch. If only he were not so handsome, she could match his indifference with her own.

But there was something that pushed her aside; his strange absorption, his strained, white face.

She could have screamed out angrily. "You touch me as though I were a figure in a glass case. I'm human."

When Ardath's glowing eyes met his, Alan thought: That's the look! The femme fatale look. The devastating fire that burns men who come too near."

It was going to be difficult to change that sultry glow into a saintly gleam.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

THE STATE OF TEXAS,
County of Gray.

Notice is hereby given that by virtue of a certain pluries execution issued out of the honorable 31st district court of Gray county, on the 26th day of October, 1937, by Miriam Wilson, clerk of said court, for the sum of seven hundred nineteen ($719.00) dollars and costs of suit, under a certain judgment, in favor of Fred Cullum and F. H. Cullum in a certain cause in said court No. 4701 and styled Fred Cullum et al vs. L. C. Gomillion, by virtue of a pluries execution, placed in my hands for service, I, Earl Talley, as sheriff of Gray county, Texas, did, on the 30th day of October, 1937, levy on certain real estate situated in Gray county, Texas, described as follows, to-wit:

Two-thirds of the wheat crop now growing on the east one hundred acres of the Birdie E. McKinney farm in section 163 of wheat consisting of 100 acres more or less, being the east hundred acres of the tract leased to L. C. Gomillion by Birdie E. McKinney, in the west half of said section number 163; the same being two-thirds of the entire crop of wheat growing on the above described tract and which was owned by said Gomillion; said crop of wheat hereby levied upon, being one which will mature and be harvested during the harvest season of 1938 and is hereby levied upon as the property of L. C. Gomillion and that on the first Tuesday in December, 1937, the same being the 6th day of said month, at the court house door of Gray county, in the City of Pampa, Texas, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 4 p. m., by virtue of said levy and said pluries execution and judgment, I will sell said above described personal property and real estate at public vendue, for cash, to the highest bidder, as the property of said L. C. Gomillion.

And in compliance with law, I give this notice by publication, in the English language, once a week for three consecutive weeks immediately preceding said day of sale, in the Pampa Daily News, a newspaper published in Gray county.

Witness my hand, this 1st day of November, 1937.

"MORAL TURPITUDE" BARS FRENCH GIRL

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 (AP)—Magda De Fontanges today was barred from entering the United States by a board of U. S. immigration commissioners who heard her case at Ellis Island. They refused her entry on grounds of "moral turpitude."

The dark-eyed French girl, who shot the former French Ambassador to Italy, count Charles De Chambrun, after she said he ended her love affair with Premier Mussolini, was refused the right to enter the United States by a board of specal inquiry.

The formal decision was announced as follows:

"The board of special inquiry at Ellis Island, after a hearing, has excluded Magdeleine Jeanne Fontanges, a passenger on board the S. S. Normandie, because of an admission of a crime involving moral turpitude, to wit: assault with a dangerous weapon.

NEW FORM OF REPORT ASKED FOR UTILITIES

Utility companies operating in Pampa will be required to submit annual reports to the mayor, giving a detailed account of their business for the year within the city, the city commission decided at their regular meeting last night.

Forms for the report were handed to Mayor W. A. Bratton. The decision of the commission is in accordance with the state law on the subject. Reports are to be submitted in March.

Reports received by the commission from utility companies in the past have given information concerning their earnings for the district, including Pampa, in which they operate, but no detailed data relating separately to Pampa was contained in these.

42 MEMBERS OF CREDIT GRANTORS STUDY NAMES

Forty-two members of the Pampa Credit Grantors association, a new high, attended the regular meeting yesterday noon when the letters "D" and "E" and a portion of the letter "F" were studied.

On next Monday they will finish up discussion on "F" and take up "G." Lists of bad accounts of letters "I" and "J" will be filed at the meeting.

It all sounds like a study of the alphabet but the purposes of the meetings are to review bad accounts now held by Pampa merchants. Names are listed according to the first letter of the last name.

HELP 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

To Flush out Acids and Other Poisonous Waste

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 Miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the beginning of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 Miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

vigor and determination in the future as we did at Shanghai," the generalissimo said.

Although it was impossible to determine precisely the financial loss and casualties of the two belligerents, neutral observers summarized cost of the conflict in the Shanghai and North China areas thus far as, roughly:

Expenditures: Chinese, $250,000,000, Japanese, $600,000,000; property loss: Chinese, $200,000,000; casualties (dead and wounded): Japanese, 125,000; Chinese, 300,00; trade loss: aJpanese $250,000,000; Chinese, $100,000,000.

During the day, about 50,000 Chinese refugees entered the French concession and the international settlement. Many of them stormed barbed wire barricades while police struggled to handle distracted Chinese throngs.

After the Chinese army retreated from its western sector and the Japanese forces started taking over the territory, tens of thousands of Chinese refugees were sandwiched between the two forces. They rushed to the borders of the international areas, begging admittance.

Although Mayor O. K. Yui was virtually without a city to govern, he said his office would function as usual from the French concession and added he had no thought of running away.

His jurisdiction extended over a small area of the Nantao quarter.

Airplane Wins Wars

American and foreign observers said the principal lesson of the Shanghai war was that poorly equipped but numerically superior forces had little chance against a smaller, well-mechanized and well organized army.

As in the Italian conquest of Ethiopia, the airplane played a decisive part in Shanghai operations. Japanese also used numbers of tanks, armored cars, heavy guns and warships.

"It was largely a case of flesh against steel," said one American officer. "It was a miracle how China's nondescript army held out so long against the highly mechanized forces of Japan."

Approximately 6,000 Chinese soldiers, cut off on all sides by advancing Japanese, took up positions in the Nantao area adjoining the French concession. Barricading themselves, 600 of the isolated troops declared they would hold out to the death against invading Japanese.

They converted rows of Chinese shacks facing the boundary of the French concession into veritable fortresses and said only bombs or fire would force them out. If the detachment were attacked from the west or south, Japanese would be forced to fire into the French concession.

Bridges Blown Up

To prevent further Japanese penetration of the Nantao district, the Chinese blew up bridges spanning a network of creeks and canals and set fire to buildings which might be used for military purposes.

Japanese entering Nantao from the west after completing occupation of the Hungjao region reached the Chinese government's Shanghai bureau of foreign affairs at the southwestern border of the French concession.

Simultaneously, Japanese occupied China's great medical center, the Chungshan hospital, to which hte Rockefeller foundation has contributed.

Japanese invasion of the southwestern borders of the French concession precipitated the most exclusive foreign residential section of Shanghai into a war zone. The Shanghai American school, which houses at least 150 American children and refugee parents from other parts of China, is within a few hundred yards of the area occupied by the Japanese.

Continuing their advances, Japanese army units reached Lungwha, south of Shanghai. A Japanese spokesman asserted the vanguard of Japanese forces moving along Siccawei creek, which borders the French concession on the south, had reached a point opposite Pere Robert road.

PUPILS HEAR LEGIONNAIRE

Frank Culberson, member of the American Legion, spoke to Pampa Junior High school students at the assembly program at 9:30 o'clock this morning. Mr. Culberson was one of the speakers assigned by the local post to address students in connection with American Education week.

Parents who attended the program given last night at the school were served refreshments by the home economics department at the conclusion of the program.

A talk by Supt. R. B. Fisher on "Parents Place in Educational Training," and songs by the girls glee club and the girls sextet were included in the program which was directed by Miss Burl Graham.

Following the program given in the high school auditorium, parents of Junior high school students went to the "home rooms" of their children, where they went through 15-minute periods similar to those of students.

Insufficient reports submitted to the principal's office made an accurate check of the total registered unobtainable this morning.

CHARGES FILED IN VOTE TABULATION EXAMINED

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 (AP)—Four canvassers were in jail today and 4,500 ballots were impounded as officials pressed an investigation into charges of fraud in tabulating New York City's proportional representation election of city councilmen a week ago.

The canvassers—two Democrats and two Republicans—were ordered held for the grand jury by Sylvester Ryan, acting district attorney of the Bronx, who began his own inquiry into reports of sabotage in vote counting.

As 1,680 canvassers in fice Armories took up again the tedious task of sorting the 2,000,000 proportional representation—"P.R.—ballots cast last Tuesday they were watched by and army of 150 police and scores of investigators ordered out by Mayor Fiorello H. Laguardia and Paul Blanshard, commissioner of accounts.

The ballots were cast under a new charter which provides for a city council instead of the present board of aldermen.

Tues. Eve, – Wed Only

The year '18 . . We pause to remember those days though they not be pleasant memories. During the annual impressive tribute of silence honoring our soldiers and sailors, living and dead, let us re-dedicate ourselves to those ideals of peace that have long been our policy. And in commemoration of those brave lads that so valiantly and courageously defended this great country, we will not be open on November 11. We urge you to check these items and save on your food buying.
