PLANT CONSTRUCTION CONTINUES

Construction of the city water plant at Avenue M and Thirty-second Street is continuing at a rapid pace. Yarborough Is Talking About Running Again

AUSTIN, April 24 (AP)—Ralph Yarborough said today he has been petitioned by thousands of persons to run for governor since Gov. Allan Shivers announced for a third elective term.

"Many express a desire to see at least one Democratic candidate for governor in the Democratic primaries, while others are opposed to third and fourth terms for the present governor," Yarborough told a meeting of the Texas Democratic Women's state committee.

The committee, headed by Mrs. Jud Collier, Mumford, is made up generally of persons who identified themselves as loyal Democrats and supported Adlai Stevenson in the 1952 presidential race.

Yarborough said he had many personal and family problems to consider before deciding to make another race against Shivers. He lost to Shivers in the first primary two years ago.

His statement concerning family considerations was similar to that made by Shivers prior to the latter's announcement that he would ask reelection.

Another potential candidate for the governorship, House Speaker Reuben Senterfitt, left the question of whether his name will be filed still unanswered this weekend. He said he probably would have a statement next week. Originally he said he probably would have something to say this weekend.

The filing deadline is May 3.

Yarborough's reference to opposition to a fourth term for Shivers was based on the fact Shivers served the remainder of the late Gov. Beauford H. Jester's term when Jester died in 1949 and has won two elections since then.

Emphasizing party loyalty, Yarborough sniped indirectly at Shivers' support of Republican Dwight Eisenhower in the 1953 presidential election.

"The state political machine has sought to have people fired from jobs for being Democrats, and in some cases the machine has succeeded," said Yarborough. "To free ourselves from its tentacles and its coils, the united efforts of many of our people will be required."

Dulles Hopes For Best In Meeting With Reds

Aggression Mood Is Key To Success

GENEVA, April 24 (AP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles arrived tonight on what he called a "mission of peace made necessary by Communist aggression in Asia."

"We hope to find that the agressors come here in a mood to purge themselves of their aggression," Dulles said.

He arrived for the East-West conference, opening Monday, a few hours after Soviet Foreign Minister V.M. Molotov and Communist China's Premier-Foreign Minister Chou En-lai landed.

Molotov and Chou had limited themselves mostly to expressing hope that the conference might lead to peace in Indochina and unification of Korea.

Molotov said Russia believes that the most important job of the Geneva conference is to bring about peace in Indochina and establish a unified Korea.

Molotov said in a statement:

"The important fact cannot be overlooked that for the first time in a number if years representatives of all the great powers—France, Great Britain, the United States, the Chinese People's Republic and the Soviet Union—will take part in an international conference."

The Western powers are against granting Red China recognition as a major power at the conference. The United States is the leader in opposing such recognition to the Peiping regime.

Molotov said it was Russia's intention to work for peace in Indochina and unification of Korea. Chou, also in a statement distributed to newsmen, declared there was a possibility for settling crucial Asian issues at the conference.

Both statements were in general terms. Neither Chou nor Molotov made any oral comment.

In Paris, the three Western foreign ministers—U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, Britain's Anthony Eden and France's Georges Bidault—held last minute strategy sessions before leaving for Geneva.

Molotov declared that the Soviet delegation "will exert all its strength to bring about, in a peaceful way, the unity and independence of a democratic Korea which is required in order to strengthen the peace in the Far East and in the entire world. Also, the Soviet delegation believes a most important job of the Geneva conference will be to bring about peace in Indochina by giving liberty, freedom and national rights to the people of Indochina.

"The Geneva conference must struggle in an effort to lessen international tension and to strengthen world peace. It will then achieve solid results."

Chou, who is both Premier and foreign minister of Red China, landed on soil outside the Iron Curtain for the first time since the Communists won power on the Chinese mainland five years ago.

Chou was greeted by Gen. Nam Il, the North Korean foreign minister. A host of Swiss officials and Chinese, North Korean and Russian delegation members were on hand to watch the arrival of the drab Soviet military plane which brought Chou from Moscow.

There were these additional developments as world attention focused on the meeting to open at the palace of Nations on Monday:

1. Russia gave her formal reply in Moscow to the latest Western note on the role Red China will play at the conference here. The contents were not disclosed, but the Soviet Union was expected to refute once more the Western contention that Red China must be content with the status of an invited participant and not a major power along with the Big Four.

2. The French cabinet outlined to Bidault how much of a free hand he will have at the conference table. Bidault was not required to consult with the Cabinet on every conference move, but to operate within the stated policy of Premier Laniel's government on Indochina. Laniel has stated France's aim as a peaceful settlement but without danger to the security and independence of Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia, the Associated States of Indochina.

3. India's Prime Minister Nehru called for a four-power non-intervention pact on Indochina by the United States, Britain, Russia and Red China together with a cease-fire accompanied by "very strict conditions." India will not be represented at Geneva.

One Solution To Problem In Korea: Rhee

SEOUL, Sunday, April 25 (AP)—President Syngman Rhee said today South Korea can accept only one solution at the Geneva conference, starting tomorrow—withdraw Communist troops from North Korea, then hold a nationwide spring election under U.N. supervision.

He doesn't expect the Communists ever to agree to this, thinks they must be driven out by force.

He counts on the United States joining with South Korea in walking out of the Geneva conference if 90 days of efforts fail to bring progress on unification. But South Korea will not "adamantly oppose" any raising of the Indochinese question before the 90 days are up.

South Korea will, however, fight any move to link the South Korean and Indochinese questions in a barter deal.

Rhee gave his views in a 10-page typewritten reply to questions from the Associated Press.

"Communism has never yielded a square inch of soil anywhere except as the result of armed force and there is not the slightest hint that there is, or ever will be, any change in the policy," Rhee said.

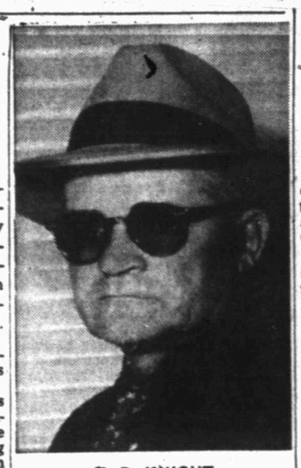

"The Soviet is bent upon world conquest and will never willingly sacrifice its hold on such a strategically useful territory as Korea."

Rhee expressed confidence that South Korea's "allies will stand behind us in the event of further hostility."

But he said if South Korea were abandoned, it could only try to fight on alone since "every Korean prefers the choice of death to that of continued division."

Rhee warned against any "fake withdrawal" of Communist troops from North Korea. He said this might be tried in order to lure U.N. troops into leaving South Korea and opening the way for a new attack.

He said unification of the divided peninsula could have been achieved "long ago had not some of our friends arrived at the erroneous conclusion that communism can be dealt with in a gentlemanly way."

T. B. KNIGHT
. . . seeks precinct 1 post

Former County Commissioner Is Candidate

T. B. Knight, 52, former county commissioner of precinct No. 1, announced today that he will be a candidate for that office in the July primary.

Knight is the second person to announce for that office. Clarence Wade, present commissioner, has said he will be a candidate. Wade was appointed to the office to fill the unexpired term of the late Walter Grant.

The new candidate was born in Arkansas March 20, 1902. He has been in Scurry County since 1914. His occupation is farming.

When announcing for the office, Knight said his platform includes "To do what I think is right and do what I think best for the county at large at all times."

Knight held the commissioner's post for eight years from 1943 to 1951. In 1950, he was a candidate for re-election. In the July primary, he polled 125 votes to Grant's 203 and Wade's 182. Grant defeated Wade in the second primary.

Knight is married and has two sons, Charles Scott Knight and Ray Gene Knight, and one daughter Mrs. J. B. Davidson, Jr.

MUNDT CALLS FOR ALL PHONING TRANSCRIPTS

WASHINGTON, April 24 (AP) — Sen. Mundt (R-SD) signed subpoenas today directing principals in the dispute between Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) and top Pentagon officials to submit notes of any monitored telephone conversations relevant to the controversy.

At the same time, he said, he has asked the special staff of lawyers hired by the Senate Investigations subcommittee to prepare recommendations on whether transcripts of such conversations could legally be offered in evidence without the consent of both parties.

Mundt, the acting chairman of the subcommittee, said he was also seeking advice from outside lawyers on the legal issues involved.

He told newsmen the subcommittee did not want to do anything that might "jeopardize the legality" of the televised public hearings it started Thursday in a search for the truth in the charges exchanged by McCarthy and top Army officials.

Mundt said he thought it would be possible for the subcommittee to "develop the facts" in the dispute in other ways if its lawyers should decide that "it might destroy the legality" of the hearings to make public monitored telephone conversations.

He said both parties to such conversations could be questioned about the recollection of the conversations. Other members of the subcommittee also said they felt notes on monitored conversations could be used by witnesses to refresh their memories.

The legal hassle over the phone records broke out at the subcommittee's hearing yesterday after Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens told of a call he received from McCarthy last Nov. 7.

The Army secretary quoted McCarthy as telling him that he thought a few weekends off might be arranged for Pvt. G. David Schine "perhaps for the purpose of taking care of Dave's girl friends."

Schine, who had been inducted into the Army only a few days earlier, had been an unpaid consultant of McCarthy's investigations subcommittee.

The controversy under investigation centers on charges by Army officials that McCarthy and two of his subcommittee aides exerted "improper pressures" to win favored treatment for Schine.

McCarthy, denying this, flung back the countercharge that Stevens and Army Counselor John G. Adams had tried to discredit the subcommittee and halt its probe into what McCarthy has called Army "coddling" of Communists.

Stevens said that his telephone conversation with McCarthy on Nov. 7 was monitored by his appointment clerk, John J. Lucas Jr.

McCarthy angrily denounced this as "completely improper . . . indecent and illegal under the laws" because he had not been advised that Lucas was taking notes on the conversation.

After lengthy argument, the subcommittee unanimously approved a resolution to subpoena "all memoranda, all documents, all notes of monitored conversations as between parties in this controversy and all others that are relevant" to be presented for introduction as evidence.

Mundt said he had instructed the staff of the subcommittee to serve the necessary subpoenas to carry out the purpose of the resolution, adding he assumed they would be served during the day on all the principals who could be reached.

Schine Given Assignment At Ft. Myer, Va.

WASHINGTON, April 24 (AP)—Pvt. G. David Schine, a central figure in the McCarthy-Pentagon investigation, has been assigned temporarily to nearby Ft. Myer, Va., so he can be available when needed by the Senate investigating subcommittee.

Schine's permanent station is at Camp Gordon in Georgia.

Lt. Col. H. J. Michau, provost marshal at Ft. Myer, said today Schine was assigned to him two days ago, when the McCarthy hearings began, only for the purpose of making him available to the investigating group when needed.

Army officials charge that Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) and members of his investigating staff repeatedly sought favors for Schine both before and after he was inducted into the Army. Schine was an unpaid consultant to the subcommittee before he became an Army private.

McCarthy and his assistants have denied any improper pressure. They have countercharged that Army officials tried to "blackmail" them into dropping their investigation of alleged "coddling" of Communists in the Army.

Col. Michau said Schine is denying himself to reporters and wishes to continue the no-interview policy he followed at Camp Gordon.

The colonel said the son of a wealthy New York Hotel and heater owner had spent little time at Ft. Myer since he arrived because he has been tied up on subcommittee business.

State Candidate Hits Telephone Company In Campaign For Office

SAN ANTONIO, April 24 (AP)—C. T. Johnson, candidate for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor, said here today in a speech the telephone rate request here became so serious that the San Antonio city council recently invited other cities to join it in a league to assure proper regulation of telephone rates.

Johnson said the city recently passed a resolution inviting other Texas cities to join in an investigation of "the systematic rate campaign being waged by Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. in Texas."

Johnson, who advocates a statewide commission to regulate phone rates, said 45 states now have such commission to regulate telephone companies.

NEHRU'S ATTITUDE CITED

Closer Watch On Aid Going To India Sought By Bridges

WASHINGTON, April 24 (AP)—The Senate Appropriations Committee today criticized the handling of U. S. aid to India, and Chairman Bridges (R-NH) said, "Recent actions on the part of Prime Minister Nehru are not calculated to improve understanding between the two nations."

Bridges referred to Nehru's refusal to permit U.S. planes to cross India while airlifting French troops to Indochina to combat Communist attacks there.

"The question comes to mind," Bridges said, "what would Prime Minister Nehru's attitude be if the attack were made on other nations in the Asia area such as Saudi Arabia, Pakistan, Thailand, or even Australia, the Philippines, Formosa or Japan?"

The Air Force has said U.S. planes are detouring around India.

The committee report, written before Nehru's stand was made known, said it did not aim its criticism at India. But Bridges said that in view of Nehru's attitude about the planes and the committee's criticism of the handling of a 186-million-dollar aid for India program during the last three years, a "close review" will be kept on future aid.

The senator said, "It should be recognized that aid funds do not come from a ready and unearned store of money but rather from the hard-earned money of American citizens and even from the earnings of future years and future generations.

"If the money appropriated for India during the last three years were totaled, it would require the income tax payments of 465,000 average American taxpayers in 1953 to cover the amount," he said.

The committee report criticized the way the Indian aid program was presented to congress and said that the Foreign Operations Administration had surrendered effective control over much of the program to the Indian government.

It also said that contracts under the program had been drawn in such a way that American private business firms were practically frozen out.

Specific criticisms in the report included:

FOA made extensive revisions of the program without consulting Congress. For instance, it said, a 20-million-dollar Indian railroad rehabilitation item was inserted four months after the 1954 program had been presented to Congress; it never was mentioned in the hearings.

The program "has deviated widely from the Point Four concept and become a heavy investment, mutual security type of operation with a tendency to lose . . . all its psychological advantages and its universal acceptability."

Rita And Dick Unaware That Charges Filed

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. April 24 (AP)—Movie star Rita Hayworth and her singer husband Dick Haymes were believed motoring toward New York today unaware of child neglect charges involving the actress' children.

The couple was reported to have left Miami by auto two days ago, before the neglect action was filed here.

Miss Hayworth's New York attorney, Bartley Crum, expressed belief she and her husband still were unaware of the situation, inasmuch as he had heard nothing from them.

He indicated their first knowledge might come during a stop in Washington, D.C.—at a "private home." He did not elaborate.

Miss Hayworth left her two daughters, Rebecca Welles, 8, and Yasmin Khan, 4, in the custody of a governess, Mrs. Dorothy Chambers, while she and Haymes went to Florida on a vacation.

Yesterday, the Westchester County Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children filed a petition in Children's Court alleging that the children were being neglected and mistreated.

Judge George W. Smyth placed the children under protective custody of the court but left them in the care of Mrs. Chambers pending a hearing Tuesday.

Attorneys for both Miss Hayworth and Mrs. Chambers angrily denied the charges in statements issued quickly after filing of the charges. Crum termed them "ridiculous" and "cruel."

Knife Stuck In Man's Head Is Taken Out

SAN FRANCISCO, April 24 (AP)—A victim of a Skid Row pool hall attack was brought to Emergency Hospital last night with a three-inch knife blade driven into his head.

The skull of the victim was cut open and the knife blade removed by hospital surgeons who reported the operation "successful."

Shivers, Ike Praised By State Demo Leaders

DALLAS, April 24 (AP)—Texas' Democratic leaders today declared war against Republicans on the state level, but warmly applauded a speaker who praised Dwight D. Eisenhower for doing an "honest, earnest and outstanding job" as President.

They shouted and stomped the floor when Wright Morrow of Houston predicted the re-election of Gov. Allan Shivers.

Then the State Executive Committee interrupted Shivers with handclapping when he said he wanted the Texas Democratic party to grow so strong it could never again "be counted in anybody's basket before any convention."

Shivers, in his first appearance before the party's top leadership since he announced for a third elective term, said he read "with amusement" Republican claims they would win some state offices this year.

REPUBLICANS BARRED

Earlier, the committee unanimously passed a resolution to bar from the July 24 primary ballot the name of any person who has applied for a place on the Republican ticket. There have been signs some Republicans may challenge this position and a court battle may settle the question.

Morrow, recognized as national committeeman from Texas by the state committee but rejected by the national group because he backed Eisenhower in 1952, said that the President had done an outstanding job for national unity "without sacrificing the rights of the states and individuals."

Shivers, Morrow and other top party leaders led the state organization in revolt against Adlai Stevenson and supported the GOP nominee two years ago. The same year, Republicans nominated Shivers and other state officials whose names appeared on the general election ballot as nominees of both parties.

SAVAGE RESIGNS

Today's resolution against cross-filing argued that while cross-filing is legal in general elections, it is not legal in party primaries.

In other action today, the committee:

1. Accepted the resignation of Wallace Savage, Dallas, a chairman and promoted George W. Sandlin, Austin, to the post. Sandlin, 42, is chairman of the Texas Real Estate Commission and a close associate of Shivers. Sandlin has been committee secretary for two years. Savage resigned to run for Congress.

2. Empowered its legal Committee to study the question of how to apportion convention strength.

3. Endorsed the Mineral Wells Young Democrat organization which is at odds with a rival group backed by the liberal wing of the party.

4. Provided that candidates for the 10 new district courts established by the Legislature be nominated at the state convention Sept. 14 upon recommendation of caucuses of the counties and districts involved.

SHIVERS EXPLAINS PLAN

5. Named Mrs. Harold Hendrix, McAllen, to take the committee place vacated by Mrs. Leon Brown, Mission, and named Mrs. E. L. Green Jr., Pampa, to succeed Mrs. John R. Powell, Dumas.

6. Gave its nominating committee authority to name a successor to Sandlin as secretary.

7. Passed a resolution praising Shivers' service as governor in "preserving individual liberties and constitutional government."

Air Force Plane In Crash, No Injuries

CHEYENNE, Wyo., April 24 (AP)—An Air Force B17 crashed at the Cheyenne Airport today when one of the wheels collapsed as the plane touched the runway to land. No one was injured.

Capt. Melvin Connie of the Wyoming Air National Guard said he did not know how many men were aboard the plane.

Elections Set In Argentina

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, April 24 (AP)—Argentina will hold national elections tomorrow which afford a direct test of the popularity of President Juan D. Peron although he is not a candidate.

The balloting by over nine million registered voters will be for a Vice President, half the membership of Congress and various other officials. Opposition leaders concede privately the Peronista party will win the vice presidency for Peron's candidate, rear Adm. Alberto Teissare, but they claim they will make inroads on the big Peronista majority in Congress.

The campaign took a stormy turn last night when six persons were shot—one fatally—in a street battle near the center of Buenos Aires. Twelve policemen were reported injured trying to halt the fighting between Peronista and Radical party supporters. The Radical party, which is not leftwing despite its name, has been the chief opposition party to Peron.

Unemployment Frauds Said Widespread Throughout States

WASHINGTON, April 24 (AP) — Congress was told in testimony released today that state investigators have stepped up a probe of unemployment insurance frauds that might show public treasuries were bilked of millions of dollars.

Robert C. Goodwin, director of the Bureau of Employment Security, said a spot check of California and four other unspecified states uncovered fraudulent claims and overpayments made through error. If the same percentage of cases exists on a national scale, he said, the total could reach 23 million dollars.

Unemployment insurance is a joint federal-state undertaking.

Goodwin asked a House appropriations subcommittee for authority to advance the states ¼ million to 2½ million dollars to carry on the investigation.

A preliminary inquiry, he said, disclosed a "serious problem," with the percentage of fraudulent and overpaid claims rising in California and other states.

Testifying in March, Goodwin said "known improper payments" in the nation as a whole during 1953 totaled 6½ million dollars. These included payments to 39,473 persons who received benefits "through deliberate misrepresentation" and another 106,259 who were overpaid by error.

In an effort to determine how many undetected cases are outstanding, Goodwin said, some states made a spot check.

Out of 950 cases investigated, 42 or 4.4 per cent were fraudulent and 63 or 6.8 per cent showed overpayments, he said.

Goodwin said the survey was too restricted to be reliable but estimated that, if the same percentages applied nationally, the result would be more than 13 million dollars in fraudulent claims and 9⅛ million dollars in overpayments.

"California has been going after this problem very vigorously," Goodwin said.

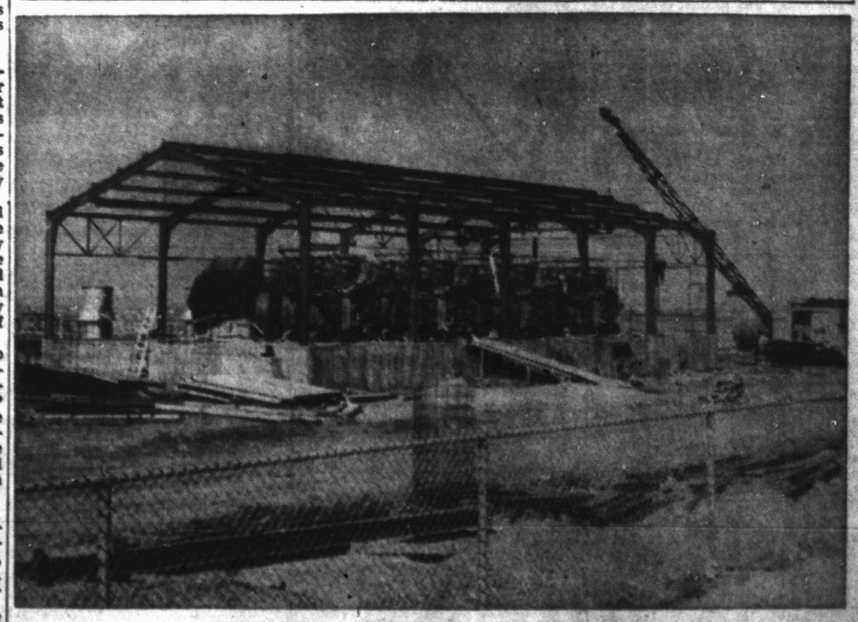

He appeared before the subcommittee to testify on the Labor Department's over-all budget of $340,635,000 for the year ending in mid-1955.

Goodwin said the employment-security program now covers nearly 37 million workers and last year paid out over 900 million dollars to 4 million workers.

He predicted an increase next fiscal year of short-term layoffs, with reduced military output for the free world and industrial adjustments.

The bureau, he said, expects to make unemployment insurance payments to a weekly average of 1,200,000 workers.

"This average is about 28 per cent above the very low average of fiscal year 1953 (ending in mid-1953) but 40 per cent below the average of fiscal year 1950 when industry was also engaged in adjusting to new price-demand situation," he said.

U. S. Chamber Urges Industry To Insure Against H-Bomb

WASHINGTON, April 24 (AP) — Policy leaders of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce today urged on industry a nationwide program of plant dispersion and protection against atomic and hydrogen bomb assault.

The Chamber is expected to approve the resolution at the close of its three-day annual meeting opening here tomorrow. Several thousand delegates, representing 1,600,000 businessmen, began assembling today.

The committee on policy, headed by Clem D. Johnston of Roanoke, Va., was ready with a resolution calling on industrial firms to:

1. Duplicate vital records and plans and store them in safe caches for possible use in rebuilding bombed-out defense plants.

2. Develop plans for dispersal of workers protection of machinery, prompt evacuation, and the transfer of munitions production from damaged plants to undamaged ones.

3. Screen employes to prevent Communist agents or sympathizers from committing sabotage or obtaining secret data on weapons.

This resolution was one of more than 30 proposed positions on domestic and foreign policy awaiting action. Johnston's committee planned an all-day, closed session tomorrow to prepare additional recommendations, including one on federal tax policy.

At Monday's opening session in Constitution Hall President Eisenhower will greet the delegates and Secretary of Defense Wilson will report on the defense program.

The policy proposals would put the Chamber on record as:

1. Reaffirming support of the United Nations and such regional pacts as the North Atlantic and proposed Asiatic Alliance, and favoring ratification of the European Defense Community.

The declaration holds it to be of "utmost importance" that Communist efforts in Southeast Asia be thwarted, and supports "a program of assistance to non-Communistic forces in Indochina."

2. Calling for a flexible farm price support policy, to be used only in emergencies. It should protect farmers against "undue" price drops, the resolution states, but should not encourage "unmanageable surpluses."

3. Urging on the building industry an intensive "fix-up" program of homes and other buildings, to conserve property values and help stabilize the construction industry.

4. Calling for a balanced budget as the "normal procedure" of government, and for systematic reduction of federal spending to permit "equally systematic reduction in federal taxes."

5. Endorsing the policy of maintaining U. S. leadership in atomic development, commending the government for its proposal of an international program for peaceful utilization of atomic power—but recommending that the sharing of atomic information be considered only with adequate safeguards of our national security."

6. Recommending that the Taft-Hartley Act be amended to forbid all strikes or picketing to compel recognition of a labor union.

7. Strengthening the Taft-Hartley Law and federal agency regulations to "expose and eliminate Communists holding office in labor unions and governmental agencies."

'Junk' Sales Put Youth On Probation Here

A 15-year-old Snyder youth is to be placed on unofficial probation, under the supervision of the county juvenile probation officer, Bill Ballard, because of theft of lead sold to a Scurry County junk dealer.

No charge is to be filed in the matter, Ballard said, if the supervision basis proves successful. The theft concerned a dealer in second-hand goods and junk. So far, three charges have been filed in the last two years against junk dealers who purchased stolen articles.

The dealer in this case, however, co-operated with law enforcement officers in recovery of the property, which was returned to its owner, the Snyder Daily News.

The property stolen was five 22-pound "pigs" of lead — long bars for use in Linotype machines. The bars were sold to the junk dealer for a grand total of $5.50, which the youth says he will repay the junk dealer.

The theft was discovered when the dealer attempted to sell the lead back to the Daily News for 34 cents per pound, making a total price of $38.50, which would be $8.80 more than the newspaper paid for the lead when it was originally purchased at about 27 cents a pound.

The youth told Ballard he also sold the dealer some pipe protectors which he thought were junk. He said if it were learned they were not junk, he would also buy them back from the dealer and return them.

City Manager Going To Convention Monday And Tuesday In Austin

B. J. Shelley, city manager, and two officials from other West Texas cities will leave here tomorrow to attend the two-day Texas city manager's convention in Austin Monday and Tuesday.

C. A. Taylor, city manager for Lamesa, and Bob Brown, administrative assistant to the Lubbock city manager, will join Shelley here and the three will go to Austin together.

At the convention Shelley will be leader of a round-table discussion of "policy of cities of less than 15,000 persons in promoting industrial development."

There are 64 city-manager cities in that category in Texas and a total of 98 city-manager cities in all brackets in Texas.

Taylor, city manager for Lamesa, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Taylor, 2208 Twenty-seventh Street.

INVESTIGATION STARTED

Woman Says She Was Beaten By Japanese Cops, Cabbie

TOKYO, Sunday, April 25 (AP)—A 28-year-old St. Louis woman last night accused a Japanese policeman of beating her while her hands were handcuffed behind her and a Japanese cab driver of kicking her in the street.

Mrs. Jeanette Sponik, a civilian Army employe, said U. S. military police were not notified until she was spat on and kicked by the cab driver, and beaten by the policeman until her face was swollen, her glasses broken and her clothing torn.

A formal U. S. Army announcement said Mrs. Sponik was scratched and bruised, did have trouble with the cab driver, was arrested and handcuffed. But no mention was made of a police beating.

The Army announcement said military police were not notified until Mrs. Sponik reached the police station but they now were investigating as were Japanese police.

A Japanese police officer said the policeman Mrs. Sponik accused would be able to explain the Friday affair.

It began when the taxicab of Kisuke Watamiya, 25, cut in front of Mrs. Sponik's car, clipping her right front fender. At the next traffic light she started telling him off in what Japanese she knew.

She said he spit in her face. The Army announcement quoted him as denying it.

With her gloved hand she pushed him in the face.

"Watamiya became angry and, in coming out of the taxi, struck his head on the door frame," said the Army's version.

"Mrs. Sponik stated he then kicked her and she returned to her car realizing the situation was getting out of hand. The driver followed her and attempted to open the door of her car several times.

"She got out and went to the trunk and got a hammer and told the driver she would use it if he molested her further.

"He took the hammer away from her and threatened her with it.

"The Japanese police arrived at the scene and stated that they were going to take her to the police station. She requested they get military police which they said they would do. After an approximate half hour wait, the Japanese stated they were going to take her to the station and attempted to handcuff her. She resisted and they came into the car, handcuffed her hands behind her back and took her to the station."

Prison Must Fatten Up Prisoner Before Bread And Water Diet

CANON CITY, Colo. (AP) — State prison officials have to fatten up Ferman Espinosa, 33, before he can be put on a bread-and-water diet as punishment for escaping.

Espinosa, serving a life term for the Denver murder of his common law wife, climbed over a fence last Friday and eluded guards for five days—days in which he didn't have anything to eat.

Espinosa has been placed on a soft food diet in solitary. Guards said they'll give him solid foods before he has to go on the bread-and-water diet.

Texas Cities Have Increase In Crime

By TEX EASLEY

WASHINGTON, April 24 (AP)—Major crime increased in Texas cities by 7.2 per cent in 1953 compared with 1952, the Federal Bureau of Investigation reports.

The jump was almost double the national average increase of 4.5 per cent in urban crime.

The Texas statistics were based on reports of known offenses submitted to the FBI by police in 67 cities with a total population of 2,886,857.

The report showed there was an increase in every type of major criminal offense in Texas urban areas with the exception of murder-non-negligent manslaughter, and aggravated assaults.

Murders and non-negligent manslaughters in the 67 reporting Texas cities totaled 340 last year as compared with 352 in 1952. There were 2,852 cases of aggravated assault in the same cities compared with 2,967 in 1952.

Reports on the number of cases of other major offenses in the Texas urban centers for 1953, with comparable figure for 1952 shown in parentheses:

Manslaughter by negligence, 121 (112); rape, 324 (318); robbery, 1,484 (1,504); burglary-breaking or entering, 18,389 (16,481); larceny-theft, 41,545 (38,500); auto theft, 8,963 (8,895). Total of all offenses 74,018 (68,929).

The report lists the number of offenses known to police in Texas cities of more than 25,000 population in 1953, in the order of murder-non-negligent manslaughter, robbery, aggravated assault, burglary-breaking, entering, larceny-theft of $50 and over, larceny-theft under $50, and auto theft as follows, with 1952 figures in parentheses:

Local Officials To Meeting In Waco Monday

Three county officials are planning to attend the state attorney general's fourth annual conference on law enforcement, which is to be held at Baylor University in Waco tomorrow, Tuesday, and Wednesday.

Renal B. Rosson, district attorney, and Wayland G. Holt, county attorney, said they planned definitely to attend the convention, and Homer Whisnand, sheriff, said he intended to go if possible.

John Ben Shepperd, attorney general, called the meeting to discuss problems and new methods of prosecutors, judges, and peace officers of Texas, a memorandum from his office stated. The conference is sponsored jointly by the attorney general's office and Baylor's school of law.

Texas statutes authorize the attorney general to convene law enforcement officials to determine law enforcement practices and policies, Sheppard said.

More than 400 law enforcement officers are expected to attend from every part of the state, including justices of the court of criminal appeals, district and county judges, district and county attorneys, sheriffs, police chiefs, justices of peace, and constables. Last year's meeting held in Austin was attended by 315 officials.

Speakers will include William J. Jameson, president of the American Bar Association and Erle Stanley Gardner, attorney and novelist, who specializes in writing detective and court stories.

Another speaker will be O. B. Ellis, general manager of the Texas Prison System, who will discuss methods and value of rehabilitating convicted criminals. David B. Irons of the U. S. Department of Justice will discuss federal control of subversives.

Texan In Washington Sets Good Record, Gets Promotion

WASHINGTON, April 24 (AP) — There's a young sailor who will never forget the first Sunday Robert B. Anderson took off after he became secretary of the Navy.

Anderson—nominated by President Eisenhower to become deputy secretary of defense next week—had been tied to his desk without a break for weeks on end. That Sunday he put on old togs and set out to fish. He and his family steamed down the Potomac on the USS Sequoia, the yacht assigned to the secretary of the Navy. The ship anchored, and the Navy—always mindful of its good manners—assigned the young sailor to row the secretary to a likely fishing spot.

Returning to the ship, Anderson took the oars.

"Sir, what am I to do?" asked the proper young seaman.

"Just sit," grinned Anderson as he hauled on the oars.

There was a silence. Then the sailor asked:

"Sir, may I write my family about this?"

That is Anderson's favorite Navy story. Fresh from the informal friendliness of ranch life around Vernon, Tex., he wasn't ready for such deference.

When he was asked to leave the plains for the Pentagon as Navy Secretary, he chuckled: "Remember, the biggest boat I ever piloted was a 28-foot power boat. Why, it doesn't even rain in Texas."

When he takes over Saturday as second man in the American military establishment, he must add to his responsibilities the problems of the Army and the Air Force.

He told a press conference "I'm going to spend two months studying."

Anderson, a Texas Democrat-for-Eisenhower in the 1952 presidential campaign, is 43, and quiet-mannered. His smile is boyish. He wears rimless glasses. His blond hair recedes at the temples. He still has a slight limp from a polio attack he suffered when he was 3.

Riding herd on Navy personnel and production problems and watching the complicated Navy budget, he had the traditional brush with "the admirals" which falls to the lot of every civilian secretary of the Navy.

However the difference was this: Anderson's brush didn't hit the front pages. He is much respected in Washington for keeping out of explosive trouble, a talent which played a large part in his current promotion.

The test with the admirals came last summer when one brass hat

ROBERT B. ANDERSON
. . . No. 2 in defense

as much as told Anderson to stay out of his division.

"Well," laughs one old Navy hand, "the next thing we knew this brass hat announced that he very much wanted to command a certain unimportant naval base. He got it. The whole Navy knew then that Anderson would run his own job."

Anderson will be remembered in Navy records for the support he gave Adm. H. G. Rickover, the advocate of atom-powered submarines. Rickover was about to be retired when Anderson reached over some customs and many heads to promote him instead. The first atom-powered submarine was launched last January.

Anderson has also had the ticklish problem, under the law, of doing away with segregation of Negroes in the Navy—a task unusual, to say the least, for a Texan. After only a year, segregation is almost gone in the Navy's civilian force, and it's moving ahead in the uniformed ranks.

Anderson spent his childhood on the family farm in Johnson County, Tex. He had to work his way through college. He was graduated from Weatherford (Tex.) Junior College when he was 17 and then took off three years to earn money, teaching at the Burleson, Tex., high school.

He was hired to teach Spanish, history and mathematics. Then he was asked to coach the football team too.

He had never handled a football, but he bought a rule book, laid out plays on paper and coached the team through an undefeated season.

Then came two years at the university of Texas Law School. He graded papers and acted as quizmaster to earn his way.

Anderson was graduated from law school and elected to the State Legislature on the same August day in 1932. He was 22. He had earned the highest grades of any Texas law graduate up to that time.

He opened a law practice in Fort Worth in 1932. The next year he became an assistant state attorney general. He also taught law at the university.

In 1934 he became state tax commissioner and in 1936 he was named director of the Texas Unemployment Commission. By that time the federal social security law had been passed, and Anderson was responsible, at 24, for setting up the Texas unemployment compensation law and machinery to meet the federal law.

He had an idea as unemployment commissioner which was rejected at the time but which years later was put into effect.

He wanted to build a 60-inch pipeline from the Texas Panhandle to Detroit to carry to market the gas that was just being blown off at oil wells. The Legislature voted the plan down.

During World War II the federal government built both the Big and Little Inch pipe lines.

Anderson still thinks it was a good depression idea:

"It would have created jobs more economically feasible than those the WPA provided. In addition, casting the pipe would have opened some of the steel mills which were closed."

As tax commissioner Anderson met the heirs of the great Waggoner estate, which owns land stretching 100 miles across six counties in north Texas. It includes oil fields, great cattle herds, wheat fields and much city real estate.

Anderson went to work for the Waggoners as general counsel in 1937, when he was only 27. In 1941 he became general manager of the vast holdings.

Cowmen across the plains talk about the way he introduced the helicopter to herd cattle. Anderson comments: "Mesquite on the range makes it difficult for men on horseback to see and handle the cattle. But the helicopter can move in any direction, and the cattle are easy to see and to herd."

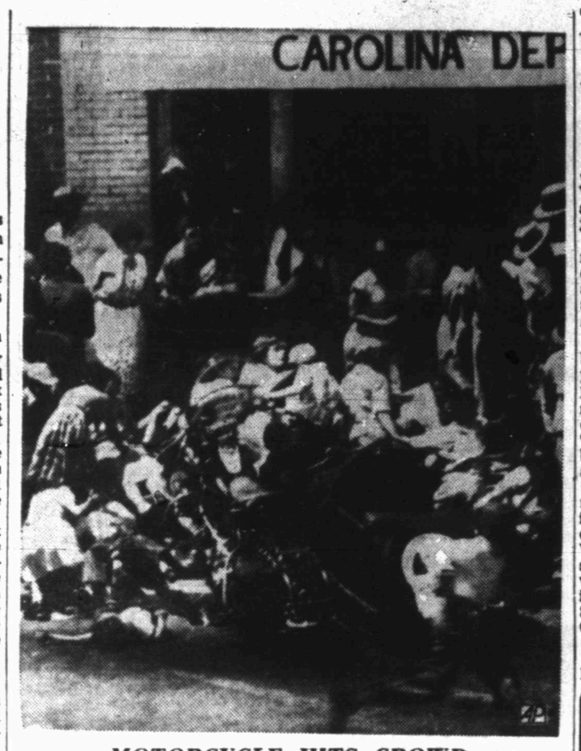

Anderson is now on leave from his job with the estate.

His permanent home—with his wife and two sons—is a huge, pink brick Texas ranch house in Vernon, designed by Mrs. Anderson. He met her at the university. Their sons are James Richard, 17, and Gerald Lee, 13.

The boys inveigled Anderson into what is apparently the only hobby he has. They collect guns.

"I couldn't qualify as a good shot," he says, "but my boys could." Jim also talks him into chess on occasion.

His other main interests are the Boy Scouts, and two small colleges, McMurry in Abilene, Tex., and Texas Wesleyan at Fort Worth.

USEFUL HOME ADDITION—Here is a modern shadow box shelf that you'll want to use in almost every room. With Bill Baker's new do-it-yourself pattern, this decorative and useful item can be built with very little cost and practically no effort.

DO IT YOURSELF

Shadow Box Display Shelf Made From Baker's Pattern

By BILL BAKER

Here is a shadow box display shelf that can be put to work in every room in your home. If you want a whatnot cabinet in the living room, more storage space for toys, a place in your dining room to keep your fancy china cups, or more book shelves in the den, this one piece of furniture is your answer.

Originally I designed the shadow box shelf at the personal request of a famous motion picture star. He wanted a place to store and display his golf trophies. When I delivered the finished product to the actor, a television producer was at his home — and he ordered one just like it as a cabinet for his daughter's collection of storybook dolls.

Later I built another for a neighbor who needed a place to keep a prized collection of miniature ceramic animals. Another neighbor built four for himself — he has one hanging in the living room as a whatnot, another in the dining room for some rare dishes, and two of them, standing on the floor, are in his den. They hold records, books, flowers and art objects.

In your home the shadow box shelf can be used in these and other ways. One good idea is to place small paintings or treasured prints in some of the 10x10 inch openings. Photographs, too, look wonderful in this cabinet for the lines of the shelves help to accent the item.

This practical piece of furniture is very easy to build. The amount of wood required costs next to nothing. And you'll probably be able to build it in less than an hour in your home. Needless to say, no special tools are required either to prepare the wood or to put the shelf together.

A smart feature of the shadow box shelf is its interlocking construction. Whether hung on the wall or placed on the floor, it will prove to be very firm and substantial.

Another way of using the shelf is to add iron legs to it. This gives a new, different appearance that is very attractive.

The first step necessary to add a shadow box display shelf to your home is to order the pattern. Just send your name and addres (clearly printed) together with only 50 cents in cash or money order to Bill Baker, Snyder Daily News, P. O. Box 1111, Los Angeles 53, California. Ask for Bill Baker pattern No. 113. Other Bill Baker patterns available: No. 111, Sewing Cabinet, $1; No. 106, Fishing Box, $1; No. 109, Bridge lamp-end table, 50 cents.

Highway Deaths In This Area Over Last Year; Speed Leads

Were it not for the danger to innocent persons, the Texas Highway Patrol's advice to determined law violators would be: "Go ahead and drive fast or while drinking—the cemeteries are not full yet."

That was the phrase with which the Abilene district headquarters began its latest press release, in which it was also stated that 13 persons in this 13-county district died in traffic accidents last month.

Captain G. L. Morahan, head of the district, said the sudden mania for motorcide was keeping him and his patrolmen busy searching for ways to reduce the rate of deaths.

The number-one killer remains the same as in previous years—speed. The second highest killer was listed as liquor. These ratings were clarified, however, by stating that these causes often overlap. Many times speed which is responsible for an accident is caused by a drinking driver.

The 13 deaths last month were victims of eight accidents in the district. In the three-month period since Jan. 1, this district has had 24 persons killed in traffic accidents, more than three times the seven killed in the first quarter of last year.

Last month's 13 deaths is an increase of 650 per cent over the two March traffic fatalities last year, Morahan said.

"Arrests made last month of motorists who lived to tell their tales supported the contentions of our patrolmen that speed and drinking are the predominant causes of highway deaths," he added.

Bill Zimmerman, highway patrolman stationed with E. W. Green in Snyder, said that although drinking was responsible for much of the speeding, there were also other related factors such as "daydreaming, willful carelessness, and smart-aleck driving."

The patrolman said there would be far fewer highway deaths if people realized the danger of not keeping their minds on their driving. He said he once arrested a woman on the Roby highway who was clocked at more than 90 miles an hour, and she said, "I didn't realize I was speeding."

Commenting on the woman's remark, Zimmerman said, "It must be hard for some to believe, but I don't think she did."

Then there are those who realize they are speeding but think all the accidents always happend to others, not to them. They aren't necessarily smart-alecks, he said. Many of them are very nice persons who sincerely believe they are considerate and safe drivers but who also believe that because they are skillful drivers and have good cars with excellent brakes, etc., all is well. "A look at the number of nearly new cars in the wrecking yards should prove that speed is dangerous even with skilled drivers and excellent cars," he aid.

Concerning "show-offs," the patrolman said, "Many of them are likeable fellows—outside of automobiles. And they would be likeable drivers if they could realize that the majority of motorists despise a smart-aleck."

In March, patrolmen in this district made 277 arrests in connection with hazardous driving. Speeding led the field with 174. Driving while intoxicated was second with 20; improper passing was next with 17; disregard of stop signs and signals was fourth with 15; and 12 were arrested for driving with defective lights.

The patrolmen last month made 101 arrests for non-hazardous violations, 64 of which were for driving without valid license. Getting back to speed as the number-one cause of death, officers warned 300 speeders. They also ordered drivers to correct 293 cases of deficient lights.

Of the month's arrests, fines assessed in the 13 counties totaled $6,610.10. This does not include arrests by city and county officers. A breakdown of the fines by counties shows Scurry $702.50, Callahan $801.60, Eastland $542.50, Fisher $292.50, Haskell $410.10, Jones $438.80, Mitchell $859.10, Nolan $124, Shackelford $499.40, Stephens $523.20, Stonewall $39.50, Taylor $1,060.10, and Throckmorton none.

FBI Brought Into Mystery Of Glass Pox

WASHINGTON, April 24 (AP)—The FBI has been brought into the great "mystery of the pockmarked windshields"—but so far without any clear-cut results.

The agency told a reporter that a police department in the State of Washington—one of a number of states from coast to coast where citizens have reported a rash of pitted windshields—had requested FBI scientists to analyze "scrapings and materials" which the FBI presumes came from affected windshields.

"We've already told them we couldn't offer any conclusions other than that the material appeared to be wood-ash," said an FBI spokesman, "but we also told them we'd be glad to examine some windshields if they wanted to send them along. So far, however, we haven't received any windshields."

The FBI said the original request came from the cops in Everett, Wash.

Meanwhile, no completely firm explanation has been offered in any state by scientists. One group at the University of Washington has declared "the most likely" explanation is that the windshield pox is just the result of "normal driving conditions in which small objects strike the windshields of cars."

A representative of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., after examining some pocked windshields in Mt. Pleasant, Mich., last week, said they resulted from flying sand, gravel, cinders and other objects.

But since then, scientists of the company's home laboratory at Creighton, Pa., have launched a more extensive investigation of some windshield samples from Seattle. No report is expected for at least a week.

Unofficial theories throughout the country have been a dime a dozen—ranging from H-bomb radiations to vandalism, and from "mystery dust" to the tongue-in-cheek concept of a Washington state man who suggests that sand fleas are being hatched in the silica glass and then are popping out through the panes!

Reform School Is Trying New Work Methods

STRINGTOWN, Okla., April 24 (AP)—Dub Wheeler turned loose almost every kid in the Oklahoma reform school for a visit home last Christmas.

They scattered, unsupervised, throughout the state—125 youngsters, some convicted burglars and car thieves, who had proved too tough for their parents, schools and juvenile authorities. They had been sent here as incorrigibles.

For the boys it was a golden opportunity to run away; for Dub Wheeler it was the biggest gamble of his life.

But when the roll was called on New Year's Day not one of the 125 was missing. All had returned.

Why?

The man who runs the school has the answer:

"They wanted to come back."

The explanation is the story of big, jovial J. W. (Dub) Wheeler, star Big Six tackle for the University of Oklahoma 29 years ago, one-time state trooper and Norman police chief.

Three years ago, when Wheeler took charge, a group of rundown buildings and a surly gang of youths made up the State Training School for Boys.

There was no playground. The plumbing didn't work. There was no place to swim, play baseball or football. Living quarters were inadequate. There wasn't nearly enough to occupy a lively boy's mind and keep him from going over the hill. And many did just that.

Today the school has modern living facilities, a full-time academic and vocational training program, a 90-acre lake well-stocked with bass and a complete sports program including a basketball team that has won two high school tournaments this year.

In three short years he has carved a new home for the boys out of the foothills of the pine-dotted Kiamichi Mountains of southeastern Oklahoma.

The most eloquent testimony of the program here is offered by the boys themselves. Two of them, released recently, returned in a few days.

By their choice, Wheeler says, they will live here—at the once-hated reform school — until the time comes for them to go out in the world on their own.

More Research In Petroleum Sought

By CHARLES HASLET

WASHINGTON, April 24 (AP)—The margin between the country's petroleum productive capacity and the increasing demand for petroleum products is narrowing and therefore a long - range program research must be continued, says John J. Forbes, Bureau of Mines director.

"In order to postpone the day when domestic production will be inadequate, research to develop both immediate and long - range improvements in supply is essential and is being undertaken by both industry and the bureau of mines," he told a Senate subcommittee which is studying a national fuels policy.

"Historically, well over half of the oil originally contained in the known reserves was not recovered because production techniques were not developed to the degree necessary for higher recovery."

In an effort to better the rate of recovery, he said, the bureau's research is being directed toward improving primary production practices and developing secondary recovery methods.

He added that the bureau also is developing basic information on the properties of petroleum products, trying to improve refining methods and "developing synthetic liquid fuels from oil and coal to insure against the day when production of natural petroleum will not meet our needs."

H. J. Barton, petroleum economist for the bureau, told the committee that "over a period of time excessive imports undoubtedly would tend to decrease our known reserves, because they would decrease the incentive to go out and hunt for oil."

R. A. Cattell, the bureau's specialist on natural gas and petroleum affairs, said in reply to a question that he does not see how the United States could run out of oil and substitutes for petroleum "if we use foresight." But he suggested that costs might increase.

The Geological Survey in a statement placed in the record of the hearing, said geologists have estimated the petroleum reserve potential of the continental shelf off the Texas and Louisiana coasts may total approximately 13 billion barrels and the potential reserves of the shelf area adjacent to California some two billion.

TIRPO Wants Delay In Expanded Use Of Underground Storage

AUSTIN, April 24 (AP)—The president of the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association has asked Texas congressmen to help delay legislation which would encourage enlarged underground storage of natural gas.

The association head, Jack Woodward, said he has sent letters to all Texas members of Congress urging delay pending a study of the degree to which such storage projects "result from artificially depresed wellhead prices in Texas."

Woodward said gas pipeline companies have proposed the legislation on grounds that it is necessary to accommodate peak load requirements at points distant from producing areas.

Woodward said TIPRO is studying the problem and plans to lay its report before appropriate congressional committees early in 1955.

Players Assigned To Teams; Games Scheduled For May 17

Forty new players have been chosen to teams in the Little League here by managers for the six league squads.

These 40 players were added to 50 players who remained on the teams last year. The new players are replacements for those who moved away from town, became too old to play in the league, or for some other reason left league teams.

The league is scheduled to open play on May 17. Starting right away, the managers will get their teams together to begin workouts before the schedule begins. The league will play on Monday, Thursday, and Friday nights, with two games played each night. Games will be played on the high school baseball field.

Before players can start in the league, they must have birth certificates or the equivalent.

With the beginning of Little League operations for this year, the third year since its beginning in Snyder, the Little League mothers club has scheduled its first meeting of the year for 3:45 o'clock Wednesday afternoon in the Central Elementary School cafeteria. At that meeting, the women will elect officers for the year. The mothers have been operating concessions at games, aiding in scoring the games, and helping with league functions in other ways.

Also getting ready to start here is the Pony League. While the Little League has boys 12 years old and younger, the Pony League includes those 13 and 14 years old. That league has scheduled its players selection for its regular meeting tomorrow night. It will begin play on May 17 and have games on Tuesday and Thursday nights on the county baseball field.

Each Little League team has 15 members, with five of them 12 years old, five 11 years old, and five 10 years old and younger.

SPORTS

TENNIS TOURNEY HERE IN JUNE

A city-wide tennis tournament will be held here this summer, according to members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, who voted last week to sponsor the tourney.

The tournament would start sometime in June, lasting as long as is required to declare champions in each division. The Jaycees appointed Bill Ballard and Charles Hoosier as heads of a committee to head up the tournament.

Ballard said at least eight divisions are planned. They will include singles and doubles division for men and women over 18 years old and for boys and girls under 18. He added that any adjustments to these divisions needed will be made after entries are received in the tournament.

There is a possibility of a class for beginning tennis players, Ballard said, with a small tournament for those beginners.

Awards in the tourney will be ribbons.

Ballard said the tournament will require many workers, including umpires and linesmen. He asked that any persons interested in the tournament contact him or Hoosier. Entries in the tourney will probably be taken before school is out for high school students and early in June for adults.

Preliminaries, Ballard said, will probably consist of three sets. Finals will probably be a best-four-out-of-seven series.

Ballard said several tennis enthusiasts here have expressed an interest in forming a tennis club. He asked that persons interested in such an organization contact him.

This is the first time a full tennis tournament has been scheduled here. For many years, only one tennis court was available in Snyder, the one now at the junior high school. Now, in addition to that court, there are three at Towle Memorial Park and three at the high school. The school is now in the process of improving the high school courts, adding 10 feet of concrete to each end.

Rookie Shuts Out Yanks In 1-0 Thriller

PHILADELPHIA April 24 (AP)—Bob Trice, 25-year-old rookie right-hander today shut out the New York Yankees with 6 singles as the Athletics won a 1-0 thriller on Joe Demaestri's fifth-inning home run off Harry Byrd.

Eddie Joost, the only playing manager in the majors, made his first appearance of the season at third base for the Athletics, who opened a three-game series with the Yanks.

Joost, 37, apparently had no choice but to play. Both his available third basemen are on the injured list—Peter Suder with a pulled leg muscle and rookie Jimmy Finigan with a chipped finger.

Trice, pitching steady ball, kept the world champions at bay throughout the game.

Don Schlundt of Indiana set a 27.1-point-a-game record average in the Big Ten during the recent basketball season.

Prizes For Opening Day At Lake Listed By Committee

Prizes have been set up by the chamber of commerce recreation committee for its catch list for competition on the opening of fishing at Lake Thomas May 1.

Large numbers of persons from West Texas are expected to try the lake for fishing when the lake opens. For opening day, the Colorado River Municipal Water District has waived all fees on boating and recreation at the lake.

Only a state fishing license is required on opening day for persons who fish outside their home county. Since the lake is in both Scurry and Borden Counties, residents of the two counties who fish at the lake without license must watch where they fish.

The lake, which now has more than 50,000 acre-feet of water, covering more than 3,000 surface acres, is about one-fourth full. The lake was stocked with about half a million fish, most of them bass, but some cat, crappie, and bream.

While the district has lifted its fees for the lake on opening day, it has other regulations sportsmen must observe, such as the required wearing of a life preserver while in a boat. National Guardsmen from Snyder will assist the district in policing the area, directing traffic, and giving directions to visitors.

The contest being sponsored by the chamber of commerce, which also has the participation of several Snyder merchants, is open to any fishermen, whether they are from this area or not. Expected are many participants from Snyder, Big Spring, Odessa, Lamesa, Colorado City, Midland, and other nearby cities. Forrest Beavers heads up opening day activities.

Sixteen different winners will be declared on opening day. To be eligible for prizes in the contest, participants must take their catches to the Ned Snaders store, located on the south side of the lake near the dam, by sundown.

The prize list set up by the chamber committee: largest bass caught, by weight, camping lantern; largest channel cat, by weight, fish net and minnow seine; largest crappie, by weight, reel and stringer; largest string of cat, by weight, fish bag and trot line; largest string of bass, by weight, rod, stringer, and life jacket; largest string of crappie, by weight, minnow bucket, stringer, and rod; largest string of bream, by weight, fish chain, minnow bucket, and five snap-on floats; largest combination of bass, crappie, and cat, by weight, reel and fiberglass rod; youngest girl to catch the largest fish, casting reel and stringer; youngest boy to catch the largest fish, casting reel and stringer; oldest man to catch the largest fish, big beam light; oldest woman to catch the largest fish, gallon thermal jug; largest fish caught with artificial lure, trot line, 20 hooks, staging, swivels, and stringer; man who comes the longest distance to fish, tackle box, two boxes of lures, and fish chain; woman who comes the longest distance to fish, tackle box, two boxes of lures, and fish chain.

Several merchants have set up additional prizes for the catches, to be awarded at their stores: Western Auto, spinning rod for largest bass; Denson Service Station, reel for largest channel cat; Phillips Bros. Hardware, two-burner camp stove for largest crappie; Mixon Tire & Supply, $10 in fishing equipment for largest string of cat; C & S Sporting Goods, fly rod for largest string of bass and cooling box for oldest woman catching largest fish; Roe Home & Auto, $10 in trade to largest string of crappie; Fish & Newton Hardware, casting rod to youngest girl catching the largest fish; Phil's Auto, prizes of $15, $10, $7.50, $5 and $2.50 to the five youngest boys catching the most fish, by weight. The Lake Thomas Marine Supply, on opening day, will give a dozen minnows to each of the first five men in the store.

All catches in the contest, Beavers said, must be within the catch limit of the State Game, Fish & Oyster Commission and laws governing the lake.

Pirates Shut Out 3-0 By Dodgers Saturday

PITTSBURGH, April 24 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers shutout the Pittsburgh Pirates 3-0 today behind the three-hit pitching of Carl Erskine.

It was Erskine's first victory of the season. He struck out eight and walked three.

Cal Hogue was the losing pitcher. Erskine, a 20-game winner last year, permitted only one Pirate to reach second base. He faced only 32 batters.

The Dodgers got eight hits off the three Pirate hurlers—Hogue, Vern Thies, and Len Yochim.

The Dodgers scored one run each in the first, second and eighth innings.

Cleveland's Al Rosen, who led the American League in 1953 with 43 home runs, hit 25 in the Indians' home park.

Playoff Slated In Fem League

Modern Beauty Salon and Friendly Flower Shop tied up last week in the final week of the women's bowling league.

The two teams each have 85 points, far ahead of the remainder of the league teams. Closest behind is D&H Super Market with 63.

The two top teams will bowl off the tie tomorrow night for championship of the league.

Last week, Modern rolled 2,536 to down Evans Service, which had 2,153. The Friendly team beat Yucca Construction 2,590 to 2,397. D&H defeated Harris Pharmacy by a bare score of 2,451 to 2,441.

Jean Green of the Modern team led bowlers last week, rolling high line of 172 and high series of 461.

The Yucca team is fourth in the league with 55 points, while Harris has 43 and Evans 29.

COUNTRY CLUB TOURNEY IS SCHEDULED TODAY

Teams, pairings, and foursomes have been made in the Country Club's membership golf tournament, which will be held today, by the two top golfers in last year's city tournament.

Manning Davis, city champion last year, and Donald Scott, runner-up in last year's tourney, ave divided entrants in the tournament into 27 members to each of the two teams.

Foursomes may tee off at any time today in the tournament. In scoring the tournament, officials have set up rules this way: each golfer is playing his opponent two nine-hole matches and one 18-hole match for a total of three points possible; each team is playing the opposing team two nine - hole matches and one 18-hole match. This makes a total of nine points possible for any one team to win in any one foursome.

The following are the foursomes set up in the tourney. The first two named in each foursome are members of Davis' team, while the last two are on Scott's team. The first person named in each foursome is playing an individual match against the third person named, while the second is playing the fourth:

Manning Davis, Joe McLaughlin, Don Scott, and Junior Smith.

Max Milam, Earl Horton, Clyde Hall, and Earl Fish.

Ike Snead, Joe Dorsey, Wayne Boren, and R. J. Kidd.

Richard Brice, Cecil McClatchy, Rolen von Roeder, and Russell Yorgesen.

John Lynch, Jr., Max Dyer, Guy Stoker, and Ray Taylor.

George Crabb, Dick Anders, Marshall Erwin, and G. B. Clark.

Ross Carroll, Leon Younger, James Rosser, and O. K. Fletcher.

John Pickering, Nolan von Roeder, Tony Holcomb, M. M. Keeble.

Jerry Young, Dr. D. K. Ratliff, Howard Crenshaw, and Theo Lamb.

Jack Winters, Ken Hought, Rex Miller, and Leland Herod.

Bryan Jordan, L. H. Shoopman, T. C. Abshier, and Tommy Hensley.

Audry Anders, Mabel Younger, Euna Yorgesen, and Rachel Rosser.

Mary Dyer, Lou Keeble, Viola Hammett, and Opal von Roeder.

Two players, Fritz Smith and Tommy McClatchy, were set up as a twosome, matching each other.

The losing team will be hosts to the winning team in a barbecue tonight when the play is finished.

AGED ROOKIE SIGNED

Believed to be the oldest "rookie" ever signed to a professional baseball contract, Charley Rascher Sr., 63, is given a good luck head rub by Rusty Ross, 19, left. Rascher, a club house attendant and a director of the St. Petersburg, Fla., Saints were signed to contracts with the team to conform with a Florida International League ruling that each team must carry four rookies. The Saints had only one.

Mickelson In Texas League Batting Lead

By The Associated Press

Ed Mickelson, keyman in Shreveport's front-running surge in the Texas League's first two weeks, has taken over the batting leadership with a solid .440.

He replaced Vic Marasco, Fort Worth outfielder who led in the first week, by hammering 14 hits in 32 trips to the plate. His season record is 26 hits in 58 tries.

Moving up with him and into second place was Jim Clarkson, Beaumont shortstop, who batted .396 with 21 hits in 53 times.

Mickelson also tops the league in hits and in runs batted in with 20, but Howie Bowles, the Oklahoma City hammerer, is quite close in RBIs with 18. Bowles leads in home runs with seven—two more than Marasco and Harry Heslet of Shreveport.

Les Fleming, Beaumont manager and first baseman, is second in hits with 24.

Donald Spencer of Shreveport leads in doubles with seven and Howie Phillips of Houston in triples with two.

Three pitchers have 3-0 records —John Andre of Shreveport, Joe Kotrany of Dallas and Karl Spooner of Fort Worth. Spooner tops in strike-outs with 26.

Ev Joyner of Shreveport, who leads in runs with nine, also is tied for the lead in stolen bases with teammate Ed Barr with four.

Twenty players are hitting .300 or better.

Shreveport leads in club batting with .290. Beaumont is second with .270.

Relay Team Is Third At Meet

The track season ended for Snyder high school cindermen yesterday afternoon.

The Snyder mile relay team, running in regional track events at Stephenville in an attempt to qualify for the state meet, ran third in the race.

The squad is made up of Bob Rodgers, Tommy Ivison, Naxey Davis, and Reagan White. Taking first in the mile relay was a team from North Side of Fort Worth with a time of 3:26.3, while Arlington ran second. Abilene, which had beat Snyder in the district meet on the mile relay, ran behind Snyder this time.

Jack Dillon, track coach, estimated Snyder's time in the relay event at 3:26.8, which is not its fastest time of the season.

White, 440-yard sprinter, who gained admission to regional by running second in district, was out of the running yesterday.

The team has taken several firsts and other places in meets this season.

City Baseball League Meet Called Tuesday

A meeting of the city baseball league has been called for Tuesday night by C. G. Fisher, president of the league.

Fisher said the meeting will be held at 7 o'clock Tuesday night in the office of Forrest Beavers in the courthouse. Managers of the seven teams in the league and umpires contacted by the league will attend to discuss plans for league play.

The league is scheduled to begin play on the baseball field at Towle Memorial Park on May 10. The teams in the league are now recruiting players and holding practice sessions in preparation for the opening of the league.

Teams entered in the league are Sunray, Standard of Texas, Hermleigh, DeMolays, Sun, Magnolia, and Texaco. The seven teams will play a regular schedule, then the top four teams will go into a best four-out-of-seven series for championship.

This is the first time in a number of years Snyder has had a baseball league. A city softball league was in operation for the past few years, but most of the teams participating in softball have now gone into the baseball league. There has been no report of a softball league being organized this year.

Vernon Takes Game Saturday, Beating Tigers By 5-3 Score

The Snyder Tigers are still without a district win in baseball after losing yesterday afternoon to the Vernon Lions 5-3.

The Tigers, who are still at the bottom of the district with an 0-3 record, will be in their next game at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon when they play host to Wichita Falls, the only district team they have not yet played.

Yesterday's loss brought the Tiger season record to 8-9 and that of Vernon to 7-10. Vernon now holds a 2-1 district record, with both of its wins over Snyder and its one loss to Wichita Falls.

Dwayne Prince, a freshman, was losing hurler. Prince went the whole game. He gave up five hits, while Bobby Bryant, the winner, allowed the same number. Prince walked two and struck out two, while Bryant walked one and fanned seven.

Scoring got underway by Vernon in the first inning, when the first man up got on base on an error by shortstop Alan Snead. The second struck out, and the third flew out to Jerry Taylor in center field. The fourth man up got a single to bring in the first, while the next batter singled to drive in another run.

Vernon got another run in the second inning to lead 3-0. With two outs, a Vernon batter got to first when Taylor dropped his fly ball. He went around to third on a wild throw, then he scored on a wild pitch.

In the fifth inning, Snyder began to score. Ray Courtney went to the plate when the Tigers already had two outs and slammed a double, his third of the season. Don McNew batted past the Vernon third baseman and got to first, while Courtney went home.

In the same inning, Vernon chalked up two more runs when one batter singled, another walked, and the next singled to drive in one run. The next runner scored on a catcher's error.

Tommy Williams walked in the fifth inning. Price, next up, sacrificed to advance Williams, then Williams came in on a wild throw in field. In the sixth, with two outs, Jimmie Rodgers got on base on Bryant's error, then Williams stepped up to triple and bring in Rodgers. That was Williams' first extra base hit this season.

Williams and Courtney got the only extra-base hits in the game.

Score by innings:

Snyder	000 101 0	3-5-3
Vernon	210 200 x	5-5-4

White Sox Ease By Orioles In 14-4 Game

CHICAGO, April 24 (AP)—The Chicago White Sox hammered out a 14-4 victory over Baltimore before 9,038 fans today to spoil Vern Bickford's first start in the American League. Big Bob Keegan was tapped for seven of the Orioles' nine hits but won his second victory in as many starts, blanking them until the eighth inning. He had to have help from Al Sima in the ninth, however.

It was the Sox first victory in three games with Baltimore this season—or in 52 years for that matter.

Selling Heavy Last Week On Stock Market

NEW YORK, April 24 (AP)—The stock market ran into a lot of selling troubles this week, but it had the strength to snap back with vigor.

Douglas Aircraft was a key issue in the drive head. During the week it reported doubled earnings in the quarter ended Feb. 28, and directors voted increased dividend payments. On Wednesday the stock was up 4¾, on Thursday it added 5 points, and on Friday it surged ahead 8 points to close at 129¾—a net gain on the week of 15⅛.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost 20 cents on the week and closed at $119.80, only 20 cents under the 1954 high attained last week. The fall followed three straight weeks of advancing prices.

The market on Monday weakened and encountered such selling that the tape was swamped in trying to keep up with reporting actual floor transactions. A lot of issues were drawn into the market that day, and it expanded out to the fourth broadest market on record with 1,245 issues traded.

The selling didn't spread the next day, and the market fell back only a short distance. It steadied still more on Wednesday when Douglas came through with its earnings report.

By Thursday, the market put on a rally of sorts and managed to close higher on average, although there were a few more losers than gainers that day.

Friday's market made an excellent showing with the aircrafts exceptionally strong and the railroads firm. Stability in the latter class encouraged additional buying in other areas. In sum, the market on Friday regained on average just about what it had lost in the big Monday break.

The five most active issues this week on the New York Stock Exchange were: U. S. Steel up ⅛ at 45⅜ on 162,700 shares; Studebaker off 1¼ at 16½; Socony-Vacuum up 2⅛ at 45; American Radiator off ¼ at 18, and Pan American World Airways up ½ at 11¼.

Japanese Cite More Dangers Of H-Blasts

TOKYO (AP)—A Japanese weather expert said today United States hydrogen bomb tests in the Bikini area may cause "a big climatic change bringing on an unseasonable cold spell ruinous to crops."

The new Japanese blast at the American H-bomb experiments came at a meeting sponsored by the Meteorological Research Institute of the Transportation Ministry.

Hidetoshi Araki, chief of the institute's forecast section, said hydrogen bomb blasts are "somewhat similar to volcanic explosions and minute particles of dust in the stratosphere as a result of the (hydrogen) explosions, may bring about a drastic drop in temperature which would cause frost damage to crops."

Araki said large volcanic explosions had damaged crops in Japan in 1883, 1902 and 1913.

It was the latest in a series of predictions which included a Japanese scientist's fear that radioactive rain would spoil crops and that livestock would be poisoned by eating affected grass.

The Japanese have been aroused over the hydrogen bomb tests since it was learned that a fishing boat with 23 men aboard was dusted with radioactive ash from the March 1 hydrogen bomb test.

The 23 fishermen still are hospitalized with radiation sickness. Japanese doctors say their condition permits "no optimism."

Some Japanese scientists have expressed fear that the hydrogen bomb tests may have poisoned the Pacific Ocean for 3,000 miles from Bikini. A government survey ship will tour the area next month to test the water and fish in the area.

2 Committees Set Meetings

Two chamber of commerce committees have scheduled meetings for Monday afternoon, according to Bob Crowell, chamber manager.

The meetings are the first of this year for either of the committees.

The civic affairs committee, headed by the Rev. Ronald Hubbard, will meet at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. That committee's program for the year includes work toward the establishing of a public library, beginning of a united fund here, and work with city officials in efforts to beautify the city and study residential and industrial zoning.

The health and sanitation committee, headed by Dr. Wilton N. Jones, is scheduled to meet at 4:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

That committee will study city sanitation ordinances and help the city to inform residents on ordinances now in force and those needed here.

Authors Of Bill Ask Shivers To Veto It

AUSTIN, April 24 (AP)—Gov. Allan Shivers has vetoed, at the request of the authors, a bill that would have declared the upper portion of the Sabine River not to be a navigable stream insofar as hunting and fishing were concerned.

Property owners along the river would have had jurisdiction to the middle of the stream and anyone who hunted or fished on the river would have been trespassing.

A number of people in the area, particularly in Lindale, joined Reps. Joe Chapman, Sulphur Springs; George Hinson, Mineola; and Edgar Hutchins Jr., Greenville, in asking the governor to veto the bill.

Bill Chauncey and Son, Ronnie

Bill Chauncey, lubrication expert at McCormick's Phillips 66 Super Station on the East Highway, has had ten years experience in the service station field.

He feels that every automobile or truck is as important as his own and gives it the careful attention that it deserves when it is left in his care for service.

To lubricate a car or truck properly the first requirement is to know where to find every grease or oil recepticle and it requires continual study because every change in model comes up with new or different recepticles. According to Bill, the knowledge gained by experience is important to you for this proper lubrication.

Bill has been with the McCormick Phillips 66 Super Station for the past 3½ years, prior to that time he owned a service station at Kermit, Texas

MISS MAUD . . . Still going strong at 80.

Ozark's Oldest Newswoman Puts Out Paper All Alone

By The Associated Press

WINSLOW, Ark. — The little lady sits huddled at the type case, meticulously assembling the weekly Winslow American with a dexterity belying her 80 years.

Outside a raw wind blows across the face of Boston Mountain, rattling the sideboards of the tiny print shop. A scant 50 feet away U.S. Highway 71 curls northward to Fayetteville, 20 miles away.

Here on the "top of the Ozarks," highest mountain range between the Alleghenies and the Rockies, twice-widowed Mrs. Maud Duncan has for more than 35 years been publishing "as respectable a paper as possible."

The decision wasn't too difficult to make, she recalls, but circumstances rather than choice resulted in her becoming an editor and publisher.

Mrs. Duncan's husband, who founded the paper, died Nov. 18, 1918. She wrote his obituary and took over as editor, publisher, printer, circulation and advertising manager and "newsboy."

"Sometimes I think of giving up the paper," she says, "but folks say 'Oh, Miss Maud, don't give up the newspaper. We need the paper.'"

The circulation list numbers about 500, paying $1 a year.

The sprightly Miss Maud interrupts her type setting long enough to throw another stick of wood into the pot-bellied stove. Nearby stands the ancient, foot-pedaled job press on which the four to six-page tabloid is printed. She says:

"Mr. Duncan was my second husband. He started the paper Sept. 1, 1908. I was a registered pharmacist. He was a newspaperman. We used to joke that he was a flunky in the drugstore and I was the printers' devil on the paper.

"When he thought things were wrong, he did something about it.

"Any murders? Mountain feuds? Oh, no!" she says. "There's been nothing really distressing except sickness and death to write about."

Mrs. Duncan and the Winslow American have become quite a tourist attraction. On days when a warm summer sun bathes the Ozarks, the great and just average citizens stick their heads in the door, sign the register and marvel that so much can be done with so little.

How does an 80-year-old woman editor feel about any attempts to harness freedom of the press?

"My oh my, it wouldn't do at all! It would be Russia over here. We don't want anything like that in these United States of ours. It just wouldn't be a free country."

New Dramatic Roles Given To Sinatra

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Frank Sinatra, the Oscar winner, is playing his most dramatic role to date, but he says he won't give up crooning.

The wartime flutterer of teen-age hearts is portraying a would-be presidential assassin in a thriller called "Suddenly." He plays a war hero who has learned to kill by wiping out 27 Germans in battle. He is hired by unknown parties to kill an unidentified United States president for the sum of a half-million dollars.

That sounds like a heavy hunk of acting for a guy who used to sit on a bandstand all night. But Sinatra is approaching it with the same confidence that netted him an Academy Award for his Maggio in "From Here to Eternity."

"I don't aim to give up singing," he said. "'From Here to Eternity' was the greatest thing in the world for me because it opened up a whole new field. I never would would have been offered this role if it hadn't been for 'Eternity.' And I never would have been considered for 'Not as a Stranger,' which I will do in the fall.

"But before that, I hope to do a musical with Gene Kelly. I'd love to work with that man again; he's such a great talent. They're sending me a script this week, and I hope we can do it. Comden and Green did the story, which concerns two wartime pals who meet 10 years later and find they have nothing in common.

"The main thing is to have a change of pace. A fellow I admire greatly is Alec Guinness. This man can do anything. I've never met him, but I think he must have a great zest for his work. The reason must be because he does something different every time.

"I feel that is the way to make a career last for 20 years or more. At least that's the way I'm happiest."

Dish-washing time will be lightened if you make a habit of rinsing and stacking mixing bowls and other preparation utensils as soon as you are finished with them.

MR. AND MRS. GORDON TAYLOR
. . . married Sunday afternoon

Miss Bettie Estes Marries Gordon Taylor Here Sunday

Miss Bettie Gena Estes became the bride of Gordon Wayne Taylor in a ceremony read at 2 o'clock last Sunday afternoon in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Estes, 3001 Thirty-ninth Street.

Mr. Taylor is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Taylor, 3765 Avondale.

The Rev. Ronald Hubbard read the double-ring ceremony as the couple stood under an archway of phodendon. The arch was banked with baskets of white chrysanthemums and pink gladioli.

Mrs. James Rosser, organist, presented a selection of pre-nuptial music which included "I Love Thee" by Grieg. Miss Patricia Raye Taylor, sister of the bridegroom, was accompanied by Mrs. Rosser as she sang "The Lord's Prayer." "Indian Love Call" was played softly throughout the ceremony. Other music included the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin and Mendelssohn's Wedding March.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an heirloom wedding gown of white slipper satin belonging to an aunt, Mrs. John Fielder of Abilene. The fitted bodice featured a yoke of illusion with an outline border of seed pearls and a ruffle of lace. The long sleeves ended in points over the hands. The full skirt, gathered onto the elongated bodice, swept into a full-length train.

The bride's headdress was a tiara fashioned of white novelty rosebuds. The bridal bouquet, carried atop a white Bible, was of a white orchid and white roses which matched those in the tiara, all bound with white satin ribbon.

For the reception which followed the wedding, the bride's table was covered with a white Irish linen cloth and centered with a bouquet of white iris. Table appointments were of crystal and silver. The three-tiered cake was served by Mrs. Taylor Black of Abilene, Mrs. Paul Griffin of Childress and Mrs. Bert Van Horn of Iowa Park. They were assisted by Miss Margaret Jennings of Abilene, Miss Helen Hull of Decatur, Miss Mary Jim Stinson and Miss Charlotte Colley, both of Snyder.

Mrs. John Fielder greeted the guests as they arrived, and Mrs. J. M. Caraway of Decatur presided at the guest register.

When the couple left on a wedding trip to San Antonio and the Gulf Coast, the bride wore a lavender suit of light-weight wool. The cardigan neckline and three-quarter-length sleeves were banded in a matching windowpane check. Her white pique blouse and hat were trimmed with beads, and her corsage was a white orchid.

The bride is a senior student at Snyder High School, where she is a member of the Lucky 13 Sports Club. Mr. Taylor, a graduate of the school, attended Texas Technological College and is employed by Industrial Supply Co. here.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding in addition to members of the wedding party, included Bert Caraway of Decatur, Miss Joyce Jones of Justin, Tex., Mason Kearby of Decatur, John Fielder and sons of Abilene, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Black and family of Abilene, Dr. W. D. Black of Barstow, Mrs. Gena R. Estes of Iowa Park, Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Short of Iowa Park, Bert Van Horn of Iowa Park, and Jim Estes of Wichita Falls.

25 YEARS AGO

(Taken from the files of THE SCURRY COUNTY TIMES for April 25, 1929.)

Scurry County rural schools will receive a total of $16,456 state aid. This is the happy news received this week by County Supt. A. A. Bullock.

The amount of $11,456 for 25 schools has just been received, and with $3,000 yet to come for special aid in vocational and home economics work and $2,000 previously granted for high school aid, Scurry County feels highly elated over the aid granted by the State Board of Education.

Company "G" 142nd Infantry, Snyder's National Guard company and the pride of Scurry County, received their annual federal inspection last week when Capt. W. A. Murphy of the regular army was here.

The Snyder company, under the able leadership of Capt. John E. Sentell, has long been a leader in every phase of the work. In fact, back in 1927, of 21 units inspected in the state, Company G headed the list. In 1928 the units were not so listed, but Snyder received a rating of VS, meaning very satisfactory, the highest rating that could be given. Although the official rating for this year has not been received, Sentell has been assured that the company has nothing to worry about.

Mrs. O. D. Carter's Sunday School class of girls had planned a picnic for Tuesday evening, but just as the jolly group was about to start the rain drove them indoors at the home of their teacher. The picnic lunch was spread in the dining room and served in outdoor style to about 20 members and guests. After the "eats" many interesting games were played until a late hour.

New Super Highway

AUSTIN (AP)—The Highway Commission yesterday approved "ultimate development" of U.S. Highway 75 from Dallas County line to Richland as a four-lane controlled access highway.

The commission said the approval was to permit advance planning and to protect right of way along the 49-mile route in Navarro and Ellis counties.

It was pointed out that funds are not presently available for construction.

Imagine The Surprise

DENVER (AP)—Grandma Pokey is blind in one eye and her black spots are turning white with age.

At 25 years of age she's a centenarian—by human standards.

So you can imagine Mrs. Edwin L. Meim's surprise yesterday when she looked out the window and saw Grandma Pokey, a feeble Shetland pony, helping a newborn filly take its first steps.

MRS. ALFRED W. WEATHERS, JR.
. . . married in Little River

Johnson-Weathers Vows Are Repeated In Church Rites

In a candelight ceremony read April 15 in the First Baptist Church in Little River, Tex., Miss Georgia Lee Johnson became the bride of Alfred Wyatt Weathers, Jr.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Johnson of Little River. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Alfred Wyatt Weathers, Sr., and the late Mr. Weathers of Snyder.

The Rev. T. D. Taylor of San Antonio read the double-ring marriage vows before an alter decorated with palms, calla lillies, fern, white stock and other flowers. Candelabra held white tapers which were lighted by Charles Ray Johnson of Belton and Scotty Heiber of Haskell, ushers.

Pre-nupital music was played by Miss Shirley Ann Huckabee, a cousin of the bride. Miss Huckabee also accompanied Mrs. Ruby Lee Ray who sang "Always," "Because," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white Chantilly lace and satin. The lace bodice was fashioned with an appliqued, scalloped neckline. The full, tiered skirt of tulle over satin extended into a chapel train. A fingertip-length veil of French illusion fell from a lace Juliet cap adorned with pearls.

The bridal bouquet was a cascade arrangement of white orchids and lace leaves.

Mrs. Robert Ligon of Austin and Miss Nancy Johnson of Little River, sisters of the bride, served as matron and maid of honor respectively. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Anna Sue Hargrove of Heidenheimer, Miss Janice Edds of Academy and Miss Marie Davis of Itasca.

Dresses for the bride's attendants were waltz length, fashioned of pink and aqua shantung taffeta with deep V necklines and bouffant skirts. Their headdresses were of tulle, and they carried pink ranunculas.

Susan Henry of Dallas was flower girl, and Carl Henry of Dallas was ring bearer.

Dick Russell of San Angelo served as best man. Groomsmen were Elwyn Weathers, brother of the bridegroom, and Robert Ligon of Austin, a brother-in-law of the bride.

A reception in the home of the bride's parents followed the wedding. The bride's table was spread with a linen cutwork cloth and centered with the bouquets of the feminine attendants. The three-tiered cake, embossd with white flowers and topped with a miniature bridal couple, was served by Mrs. Virginia Lee Umberhagen. Miss Huckabee presided at the punch bowl.

Other members of the houseparty were Mrs. Clara McCrary, who registered the guests, Mrs. Lesslie Huckabee and Mrs. Logan Adams of Medina.

When the couple left on a wedding trip to Monterrey, Mexico, the bride wore a brown silk linen suit with a corsage of white orchids. Upon their return, the couple is to be at home at 1704 McCall Road, Austin, and will continue their studies at the University of Texas.

The bride was graduated from Academy High School with honors. Mr. Weathers is a graduate of Snyder High School and is a member of Alpha Theta Omega at the university.

Among the out-of-town guests for the wedding were Mrs. Weathers and Elwyn Weathers and Mrs. J. L. Weathers of Snyder; Mr. and Mrs. James Weathers; Mr. and Mrs. Harley Smith of Cranfills Gap; Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Damron and family of Cameron; Mr. and Mrs. Holly Hillyard and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Gray and daughter of Temple; Mr. and Mrs. A. C. For large or small parties, indoors or out, shish kebabs will make the food a special highlight.

If you don't already know, shish kebabs are chunks of marinated meat alternated on a skewer with vegetables and broiled until well done and crispy brown. This type of cookery originated centuries ago in the Near East when Armenian shepherds impaled their food on sticks and cooked it over open fires. Specialty restaurants, principally the Pump Room in Chicago, helped spread its fame in this country by serving a flaming version on long swords tipped with cotton and carried to the dining table with pomp.

Lamb is the traditional meat for shish kebab, but beef is good, too. The most important consideration is tender meat to begin with, because it gets only a quick cooking. Tiny new potatoes are fine to string on the skewers, but they must be boiled ahead of time because of the quick cooking.

Get metal skewers at your hardware or department store. For outdoor cooking, you may be able to use green sticks if they are stiff enough to hold the weight.

Here are the ingredients you will need for a shish kebab for two:

2 lamb shoulder chops, cut 1½ inches thick
1-3 cup French dressing
1 clove garlic
1 green pepper
3 small onions
Salt and pepper

Cut the lamb into 1½-inch chunks, removing bones and most of fat. Place in a bowl, add a peeled chopped garlic and cover with French dressing. Cover and let stand in refrigerator at least an hour. Overnight is better.

Wash green peppers and cut into 1½-inch squares. Peel onions and cut in halves. Alternate marinated meat chunks, green pepper and onions on two metal skwers. Brush meat with liquid smoke, if you like, and brush vegetables with melted butter or olive oil. Sprinkle with salt and pepper.

Place three inches from source of heat and broil 15 minutes, turning to brown evenly.

To eat a shish kebab, simply push the food off the skewer onto individual plates, add whatever accompaniments you like, and your meal is before you.

If you are preparing kebabs for a larger group of people, add vinegar, freshly ground black pepper, crushed rosemary, thyme and oregano to your marinating solution. You might also like to use whole mushrooms and pineapple chunks along with the meat and other vegetables on the skewer.

Pineapple-filled biscuits will take only a few minutes to make, and are a big lift to a budget-menu.

To make them, roll a recipe of biscuit dough one - quarter - inch thick, brush with melted butter and spread with:

½ cup crushed pineapple
1-3 cup sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon

Roll lengthwise and slice in 1½-inch slices. Bake in greased muffin tins for 15 to 20 minutes.

SOCIETY SCRIBBLINGS

A collection of outstanding speakers plus a carefully planned program made a noteworthy success of the Seventh District Convention of the Texas Federated Women's Clubs in Dalhart Thursday and Friday.

Well over 300 women assembled for the convention, which opened Thursday morning in the high school auditorium. The Rev. Harry Vanderpool, pastor of the Littlefield First Methodist Church, Mrs. L. E. Dudley of Abilene, state federation president, and Mrs. J. W. Walker, candidate from Texas for second vice president in the General Federation of Women's Clubs, were featured speakers at this session. Among club women giving reports at this meeting was Mrs. RENAL ROSSON of Snyder, who reported on public education.

Mr. Vanderpool spoke on the convention theme, "Forward With Knowledge and Understanding."

"With the knowledge that God is an ever present power in our daily lives, we must learn to understand that we exist for the purposes for which God created us," Mr. Vanderpool said. "We all live under one law, one mind and one spirit.

"America is great because we have refused to be pushed around. It is our responsibility to transform our lives by re-newing and educating our minds. It is God's will that when in the presence of greatness, we become great ourselves."

Mrs. Walker, who will seek election to the general federation office at the convention in Denver June 1-4, dwelt heavily on the duty of the Texas Federation to the General Federation. Texas must uphold its responsibility to provide leadership in the general organization, she stressed.

Mrs. Dudley complimented Dalhart on its growth and reviewed some of the history of the TFWC. Among the accomplishments cited was the fact that 85 per cent of Texas public libraries were established through the efforts of the federation.

Another strong point of Mrs. Dudley's review was the federation's Americanism program, which strives to combat communism.

Judge Philip Gilliam, a juvenile court official in Denver, Colo., for 18 years, was the principal speaker for the afternoon session. Judge Gilliam, who has tried 100,000 cases, set down as the basic requirement for good living "simplicity, friendship with people, believing in what you are doing, being capable of loving and being loved, and giving to others."

A fine arts program at the Dalhart Country Club was sponsored by Dallam and Hartley County federated clubs following the early afternoon session. Mrs. JOHN CASEBIER of Snyder presented two readings on the program. She was introduced by her sister, Mrs. Robert Sexauer of Memphis, district fine arts chairman.

"The Story of Texas Enterprise" was the topic of a forum presented Thursday night. Speakers, who represented various phases of enterprise in the state, were Kenneth Kendrick, mayor of Stratford and president of the National Wheat Growers Association; Ralph W. O'Neil of Phillips, production supervisor of the Panhandle District of Phillips Petroleum; Johnny B. Linn of Amarillo, a staff member of KGNC-TV; Mason King of Amarillo, Robert E. Clements and Ray Koehler of Dalhart. Floyd Hemphill of Amarillo served as moderator.

Mrs. Albert Palmer of Boulder, Colo., president of the Colorado Federation of Women's Clubs, was speaker at the Awards Breakfast at the closing session Friday morning. Business at this meeting included the acceptance of Snyder's invitation to be host for the 1955 convention.

Snyder club women attending the convention in addition to Mrs. Rosson and Mrs. Casebier were Mrs. Charles McCaleb, Mrs. John Hamblen, Mrs. H. J. Brice, Mrs. F. G. Sears, Mrs. Wayne Boren, Miss Myrtle Harrell and Miss Fay Harrell.

A benefit bridge, sponsored by the Acacia Study Club, will be held May 8 at 2 o'clock in Ballard's banquet room with the proceeds to go to charitable projects.

Canasta players are also welcome, said Mrs. CHARLES McCALEB, and may make up their own groups. Bridge players are to make up their foursomes.

Prizes donated by local merchants will be given away at a drawing during refreshment time, Mrs. McCaleb said.

Tickets are one dollar each and those wishing to attend are asked to make reservations not later than noon on May 7 by calling Mrs. CARL DILLAHA, 3-4104, or Mrs. EARL BRITE, 3-4830 for bridge reservations and Mrs. FRED KIZER, 3-5052, for canasta reservations.

Among early vacationers this year were Mr. and Mrs. CHARLES R. LYONS and daughter, Toni, who spent last week in San Antonio, Corpus Christi and Houston. While in Corpus Christi they visited Mr. and Mrs. Glen McCowan, former Snyder residents. Another sister of Mrs. Bolger and Mrs. Carson, Mrs. Leo Haney, and Mr. Haney were also among the guests.

Mrs. Bolger returned home to find herself playing hostess to an old acquaintance from Allen, Eros Brown. Mr. and Mrs. Bolger and Mr. Brown visited another friend who is in the Big Spring veterans' hospital before Mr. Brown returned home Thursday.

The quilts are to be sent to Mrs. Maggie Sawyer and Mrs. Pat Millhollen in Brownwood, who recently lost all their household possessions in fire which destroyed their dwelling. Four quilts have already been sent by the Good Neighbor's Club.

Shampoo Time For Babies Is Time For Them To Coo

By The Associated Press

Give your baby a head start with shining, healthy locks.

Some youngsters scream in anguish every time they are shampooed. Often that is because Mom fails to make the head-washing a relaxed session and junior builds up a distaste for the performance. Soap in the eyes and an overly-energetic Mom who massages the scalp a bit too briskly are likely to be baby's chief objections.

But hair cleanliness must go on no matter how the junior member of the family feels. Baby is outdoors more in spring and summer, perhaps, and he may need more frequent cleansings than a once-a-week shampoo to rid his little scalp of accumulated dirt and scale.

Brush baby's hair every day to help aerate the underneath layer of the hair and polish it into a healthy luster. Brushing is stimulating and aids the circulation which feeds hair roots and helps hair to grow. Use a brush with strong bristles that are not too stiff for tender scalps.

Use one of the new baby shampoos designed for tear-free hair washings. The liquid is formulated so that it does not burn or irritate the eyes. When youngsters discover this new magic, temper tantrums should cease.

If Mom dreams of a curly-haired baby, she may help train her tot's locks by brushing hair gently around her finger as it is drying. In between curls she will need to use a good absorbent towel to blot baby's hair dry. The just-before-dry stage is the ideal time to set curls or ringlets.

A good time to wash baby's hair is after the bath. If hair is shampooed first, baby is likely to shiver through the bath session. It is important, too, to make sure that baby is not in a draft and is kept happy during the entire performance.

LOOK, NO TEARS . . . Baby's new shampoo doesn't make his eyes water or smart.

Snyder To Be Meeting Site

Snyder has been named host city for the 1955 Seventh District Convention of the Texas Federated Women's Clubs.

Selection of the 1955 site was announced Friday morning at the closing session of this year's convention in Dalhart. Invitations were extended on behalf of Snyder federated women's clubs by Mrs. F. G. Sears, and from the Snyder superintendent of schools, Dr. Cecil Yarbrough, by Mrs. Wayne Boren. It is through the cooperation of the schools, whose facilities will be used for the convention here, that Snyder will be able to entertain the convention visitors.

Bob Crowell, manager of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce, and Herbert Feather, a member of the board of directors, added the invitations of Snyder service clubs and the chamber of commerce.

YOU COOK FOR PENNIES...

WHEN YOU
COOK ELECTRICALLY!

We've talked to literally hundreds of women who cook electrically. They all agree it costs only pennies per meal to have all the advantages of modern cooking on an electric range.

Cooking electrically, for the average family, amounted only to about three cents a meal.

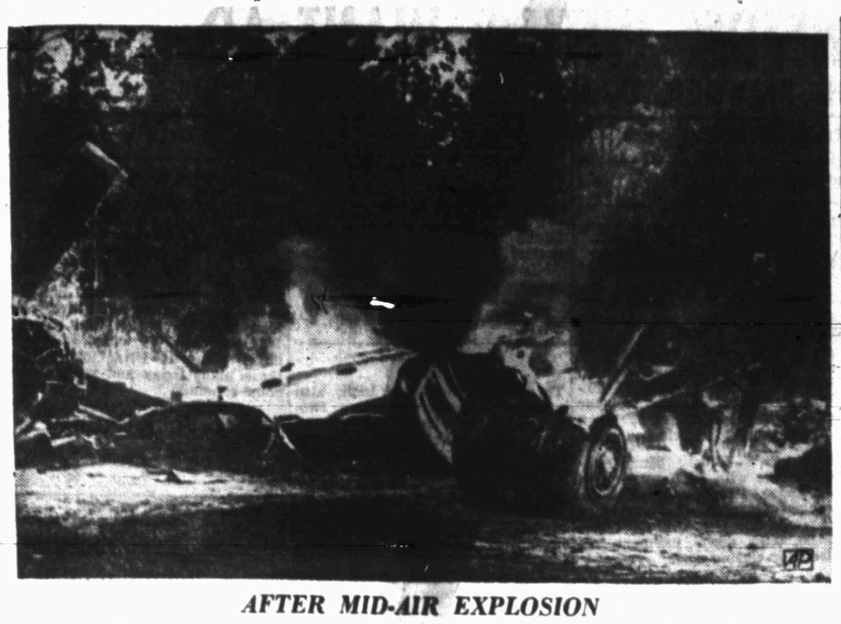

You, too, will find how little it costs to enjoy the cleanliness, convenience and economy of cooking electrically. See your electric appliance dealer for a modern electric range this week, for sure.

MRS. TRUMAN BLACK, 3109 40th Street, thinks that one of the best features of her electric range is its dependability. She can always depend on good baking results or turning out a perfect meal every time.

CASE OF UNCOMMON COLD

Nation Is Becoming Place Of Medical Social Climbers

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Heard any good sneezes lately?

If we labeled our years as the Chinese do, this one should go down as the "year of the big kerchoo!"

I can't remember a spring, offhand, in which more people complained of having colds, laryngitis, grippe, flu, strep throat, bronchitis, snuffles, sniffles and the more popular virus infections.

Every year the common cold seems to get more uncommon and fewer people will admit that is what they have. We have become a nation of medical social climbers, and if we can't be stricken with a malady that carries with it a sense of mystery and has a fascinating name we would almost as soon stay well.

The man who used to grumble at the first sneeze, "must've gotta bug somewhere," now has a son who announces with doleful bravery, "guess I picked up a virus."

Whatever people pick up—a bug or a virus—they end up with one of the 57 varieties of the common cold. Perhaps, if you work in an office or factory, you have run into one of the following general types of runny-nosed heroes:

The tragedian—Camille, racking her life out from her lungs, was a gay soubrette compared to this ham actor. His sepulchral cough booms through the office very hour on the hour until the boss says, "Joe, you better take that cough home and put it to bed." Joe looks up gratefully through glazed eyes, plods home, spends a month in bed rewriting his will, and comes back to work 20 pounds heavier.

The chin-up minimizer—"You can't led a liddle thig like a virus ged you down," he say through thickened tongue. He refuses to do a thing about it, sneezes all over the place for four days and is well. But by then 12 other people who work near his desk are sneezing.

The try-everything hypochondriac—This boy enjoys colds so much he starts sneezing Oct. 1 and keeps it up, as a matter of principle, until the 4th of July. His desk is a small drug store stocked with lozenges, pills, bromides, and nose sprays. Whenever there's any work to be done, he's out in the men's room gargling.

The alarmist—"You know what I think is causing this epidemic of colds?" he asks every victim. "It's dust from the hydrogen bombs. Don't you feel more radioactive than you used to? Why don't we all chip in and buy a Geiger counter?" When you tell him you remember having a cold back in 1938 before there were any hydrogen bombs, he says, "all right, wise guy, but remember—they laughed at Thomas A Edison, too."

Ship Grounded In Fashionable Part Of Dallas

DALLAS (AP)—A once proud queen of a make-believe sea appeared headed for rocks and shoals today.

The separately - incorporated, fashionable township of Highland Park, completely surrounded by greater Dallas, doesn't care for imitation yachts.

Especially is it not fond of the S. S. Miramar, a mock cruiser several miles from shipworthy water, located in the back yard—so to speak—of Dr. Cosette Faust Newton and her husband, Dr. F. H. Newton.

A district court jury in Dallas ruled Friday that the $60,000 play ship surrounded by a $5,000 barb-wired entanglement, which is the real thing, was a nuisance and a fire hazard.

But the jury did not agree with the township that the make-believe ship, a real dreamboat when it was erected in 1941, was a health menace.

The verdict followed a full week of testimony, much of it given testily by Dr. Cosette Faust Newton from a wheel chair, in the suit by which Highland Park is attempting to force the Newtons to clean up their premises and tear down the once proud Miramar.

The Town claimed that the one-time site for plush parties had been allowed to fall into disrepair. Intervening neighbors of the Newtons also protested against high brick walls surrounding the house, a dozen metal beach umbrellas which almost cover the yard, and warning signs posted around the property.

But Dr. Cosette Faust Newton, 64, holder of 12 university degrees "including those in law and medicine," said the walls, signs and umbrellas were for protection against vandals and intruders.

Dr. Newton said dead animals, stink bombs and debris had been thrown onto her property and that Highland Park authorities refused to protect the property.

Dist. Judge Charles E. Long Jr. said he would decide next week what actions must be taken in regard to the jury's verdict.

Barber Wants Office

Local Builder Gets Contract On City Plant

Norcross Construction Co. of Snyder has been awarded contract for construction of a water filtration plant for the city of Hamlin at a contract price of $65,699.

Mrs. L. T. Norcross, wife of the contractor, said last week that the contract called for completion of the project with in 130 calendar days. She said also that work was to begin within 10 days after contract signing, which was expected within this week. This should place date of completion about the middle of August.

Capacity of the filtration plant will be 1,400,000 gallons daily. This is twice the city's present capacity.

Funds for the project come for a portion of a bond issue of $625,000 voted in April, 1952. Of this bond issue, $102,000 has already been used from retirement of revenue bonds.

The new plant is to filter water from a lake near Hamlin.

PRESIDENT SPEAKS

President Eisenhower asks the publishers of the nation's newspapers and other news media for an American crusade against "the poisonous propaganda of the Soviets." In making a major address before the advertising bureau of the American Newspaper Publishers Association in New York he cautioned: "Either the nations will build a cooperative peace or, one by one, they will be forced to accept an imposed peace, now sought by the Communist powers, as it was by Hitler."

Gasoline Plants Are An Important Part Of The Scurry County Oil Development!

Four gasoline plants located in Scurry County add one of the largest payrolls of any industry in the county.

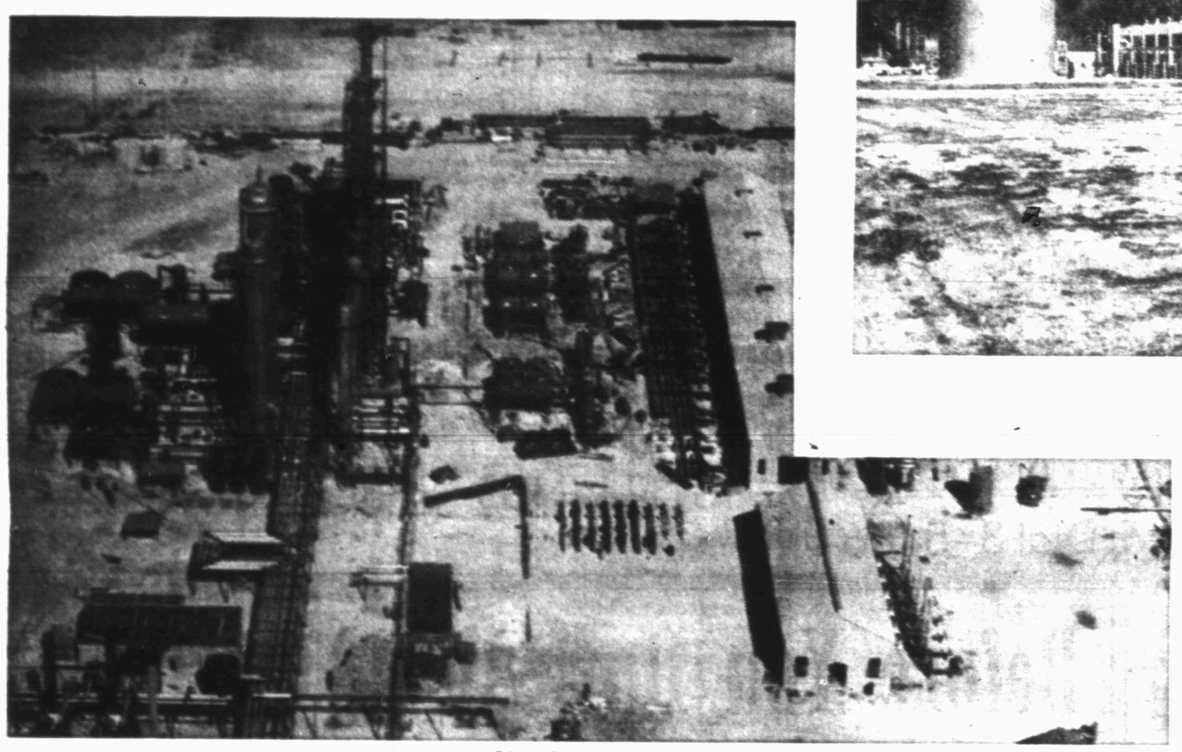

These plants, constructed at a cost of over 30 million dollars, collect and process casinghead gas, which, before their construction, went up in waste through flares.

Approximately 250 million cubic feet of natural gas, millions of gallons of gasoline, butane, propane and isobutane are extracted daily through the operation of Scurry County's gasoline plants.

The royalty holders receive 10 to 15 per cent extra income for each well from which casinghead gas is collected by these plants.
