Hijacker captured after killing man

By TONY CZUCZKA
Associated Press Writer

GENEVA — A man who hijacked an Air Afrique jetliner to Geneva today was overpowered by crew members and arrested after he killed a passenger, airport police spokesman Jacques Zweigert told reporters.

Zweigert said the drama came to an end after passengers in the rear of the plane managed to open a door and started fleeing by an emergency chute.

At that moment the hijacker, still holding a handgun, was subdued by crew members, Zweigert said. One of the crew was slightly injured, he said.

The hijacker was held until police arrived to take him into custody. Zweigert said the slain man was the only casualty among the passengers.

Earlier, officials had given the hijacker's identity as Hussein Ali Mohamed Hariri, but Zweigert said there were doubts that this was his real name. He said the man spoke fluent French with a "slight Mediterranean accent."

Earlier reports had indicated the plane was stormed by Swiss police and that the hijacker was overpowered by security forces.

Robert Ducret, head of the Swiss Crisis Unit at Geneva airport told reporters the victim was "probably a French national."

"He was executed with a bullet fired through his head," Ducret said.

He said the sky pirate, aged about 30, had said the hijacking was "linked to the problem of his brother held in Germany."

The identity of the brother was not immediately clear. Several Arabs are jailed in West Germany on terrorism charges.

The plane had been carrying 163 people when it was hijacked today on a flight from Rome to Paris. The hijacker had demanded to be flown to the Middle East after landing here for fuel, authorities said.

Geneva police spokesman Marcel Vaudroz had said the gunman had threatened to kill passengers if his demands were not met, but had not set a deadline. He said the hijacker had demanded to be flown to Beirut, Lebanon or Dhahran, Saudi Arabia.

Geneva Police Chief Bernard Ziegler told reporters at the airport the hijacker, speaking French, first demanded the plane be resupplied with food for a flight to the Middle East, then sent the supplies back when they arrived.

Ziegler had said the Swiss crisis unit was in touch with French and Lebanese authorities and with headquarters of Air Afrique in the Ivory Coast.

Asked about the passengers, he said he only knew the people aboard appeared to include "a number of French nationals."

Airport security had surrounded the plane on the tarmac at Geneva's Cointrin airport and one official boarded the green-striped plane and spoke with the hijacker, airport official Cyrille Bonhote said.

Behrman's is closing after 50 years here

By MARILYN POWERS
Lifestyles Editor

A landmark Pampa clothing store that has been in business for more than 50 years will close its doors sometime in September.

Behrman's, a women's apparel store, is holding a going-out-of-business sale for the next eight weeks, and Doug Coon, store owner, said he plans to have the entire $150,000 inventory, plus all store fixtures, sold by then.

The store was opened in 1934 by Leah and Bernard "Bunny" Behrman, who operated it until 1969 when they sold it to Louis Saied, Coon's father-in-law. Coon bought it from Saied in 1977. The building is owned by the Duncan estate, and Coon owns the contents.

"Times are too tough for me. It's been building for three years. I suffered a terrific financial loss from the tornado that hit in June of 1983. Then, when the economy went to hell in a handbasket, the recovery power just wasn't there. Recovery time is something I don't have any more of," he said.

The store's lack of business is due to three factors, Coon said.

"You gotta say oil, number one. You gotta say farming and ranching, number two. The third reason is non-participation of Pampa residents, not supporting their local Pampa merchants. 'I think you're seeing the beginning of the end, as far as I'm concerned, for Pampa merchants. This is the tip of the iceberg.'"

"I think with all of the bad press we've been getting as far as sales taxes being down, Cabot moving their offices and white oil producers, people haven't been emotionally geared to spend money," Coon said.

Behrman's customer Jake Griffin eyes dresses.

The expenses of keeping a full inventory in a store the size of Behrman's, along with slower rates of customer payment, added to the store's woes. At the height of its success, the store had an inventory worth a quarter of a million dollars.

"It would have come to this eventually, no matter the size of the store," Coon said.

Some Pampa residents' penchant for driving to Amarillo to shop without visiting Pampa stores first contributes to the lack of business for local merchants, he said.

"If the goods are not available or the price can be beat by quite a bit, they have a reason to leave. They don't have a reason to leave until they've checked the Pampa merchants."

"It's a mental attitude of so many small-town thinkers. They want all the advantages a small town has to offer, but they don't

Judge's court order would gag reporters

Ruling made in hearing to certify juvenile slaying suspect as adult

By PAUL PINKHAM
Senior Staff Writer

A county judge forbade the news media from reporting testimony in a juvenile court hearing Thursday in connection with a 1985 Halloween stabbing death.

Gray County Judge Carl Kennedy issued his court order prohibiting the media from reporting what he called "sensitive" testimony in the juvenile hearing of Jesus DeLeon, 17.

The judge waived jurisdiction in the case, clearing the way for DeLeon to be tried as an adult in the death.

Kennedy had admitted two Pampa reporters to the hearing "with the agreement of both counsels," Assistant District Attorney Harold Comer said. Juvenile proceedings normally are closed to the public.

Comer is prosecuting the case. David Holt of Pampa is DeLeon's court-appointed attorney.

DeLeon is charged in the Oct. 26, 1985 stabbing death of Pete Ontiveros, 20, at the Coronado Inn. DeLeon, who was 16 at the time of the slaying, was found guilty of murder by a jury last summer and sentenced to 30 years in prison by 223rd District Judge Don Cain. The verdict and sentence were overturned in April by the 7th Court of Appeals in Amarillo.

The appeals court ruled that former prosecutor David Hamilton had forgotten a key phrase in a summons notifying DeLeon of a previous hearing in which he was ordered to stand trial as an adult.

Even though DeLeon is now legally an adult, the appeals court ruled that the case had to start in the juvenile court again because he was only 16 when the stabbing occurred. Judge Kennedy is designated as the primary juvenile judge in Gray County.

Following Kennedy's order transferring the case to adult court, Comer planned to file a formal murder complaint against DeLeon today. The teen-ager remained in the Gray County Jail without bond today.

The fatal stabbing, in which two other Pampa men also were injured, occurred after numerous fights broke out at a Halloween party for Long John Silver's Seafood Shoppe employees, many of them teen-agers.

Former Long John Silver's manager Curt Luedtke testified during DeLeon's trial last summer that he had served two kegs and seven cases of beer and wine coolers to roughly 70 employees and guests who attended the party.

In Thursday's hearing, Luedtke testified that the party was his, and "Long John Silver's had nothing to do with it."

"It was my party," he said. "I just used Long John Silver's to keep party-crashers out — so they would think it was a company party."

Luedtke also repeated his earlier testimony that he saw DeLeon walk up behind Ontiveros and stab him roughly six times in the back. He said he later observed DeLeon trying to sit Ontiveros up, out-

Probation office gets new place

By PAUL PINKHAM
Senior Staff Writer

Gray County probationers can start preparing to report to a different office in September, but county commissioners stressed Thursday that the alternative is only temporary.

Commissioners approved renting space for the adult probation office in a building across the street from the courthouse. The action came during a special meeting Thursday morning.

Chief Probation Officer Jeane Roper said the additional space was needed because the state has ordered her to hire additional personnel Texas counties are required to house probation offices.

Currently the probation office is housed on the third floor of the courthouse, but Roper said that office is too small to accommodate more officers.

Under the agreement signed Thursday:

■ Roper and her staff will prepare to move into a building diagonally across the street from the courthouse at 119 N. Frost St. on Sept. 1. The building is owned by Merriman and Barber Engineers, run by former County Surveyor Gene Barber. The lease runs through Dec. 31, 1988.

■ The probation office will pay

U.S.-flagged oil tanker hits mine near Iranian-held isle

KUWAIT (AP) — A Kuwaiti tanker flying the American flag under U.S. Navy escort hit a mine in the Persian Gulf today as it passed an island fortified by Iranian Revolutionary Guards.

No injuries were reported among the 26 people on board the giant tanker Bridgeton, but the vessel took on water. After a brief delay, it proceeded toward Kuwait, its destination.

In Tehran, Iranian Prime Minister Hussein Musavi called the incident an "irreparable blow to America's political and military prestige." He said the mine was planted by "invisible hands."

Iran's Islamic Republic News Agency, monitored in Nicosia, quoted Musavi as saying he hoped "the wise men in the United States have learned a lesson and (will now) put an end to their tension-creating adventures in the Persian Gulf."

Worshippers at Tehran University responded to news of the mine blast by chanting, "Death to the U.S.A.," and "Persian Gulf of Iran, the graveyard of Reagan," and "We will fight, we will die, but we won't compromise." The chants were carried by Tehran Radio, monitored in Nicosia.

In Washington, White House spokeswoman Leslye Arshat said President Reagan was awakened at 2 a.m. EDT by national security adviser Frank Carlucci and notified of the explosion. She declined to characterize Reagan's reaction to the report.

U.S. officials have not said how they would respond to an attack on a vessel flying the Stars and Stripes, but have hinted that military retaliation is a possibility.

The convoy was about 120 miles southeast of Kuwait's Mina al-Ahmadi oil terminal when the 401,382-ton Bridgeton, formerly al-Rekkah, hit the mine shortly before 7 a.m. (midnight EDT). It was about 18 miles west of Farsi Island, where the Revolutionary Guards have a marine base from which they have attacked ships in recent weeks.

The U.S. ambassador to Kuwait, Anthony Quainton, told The Associated Press that the damage to the Bridgeton will be inspected upon arrival in al-Ahmadi, Kuwait.

"There are no major dry docks here in Kuwait," he said, adding that the ship's owner, the Kuwait Oil Tanker Co., will decide whether it will be repaired in Kuwait or moved somewhere else.

"It's a matter of considerable regret that the Bridgeton was hit, but I'm not in a position to

Fire report

The Pampa Fire Department reported no fire runs in the 24-hour period ending at 7 a.m. today.

want to spend their dollars in a small town.

"When my business was at its best, and it was good, my business was predominantly from out of town. My clientele list of 1,300 names had more from out of town than from in town. That's always kind of astounding me.

"I think a local economy such as Pampa is only as good as its fellow residents," Coon said.

He added that not everyone goes to Amarillo to shop, and he has "a lot of loyal Pampa shoppers." But some of those who go to Amarillo do so because they fear another local resident will buy the same dress they do if they buy in Pampa.

"They're afraid of running into themselves on the street. Every retailer in the area goes to the same market! If they would buy the dress available locally, they'd buy the only one available in Pampa. If they go to Amarillo, they may bring one back that's the same as here. We try not to carry the same things at different stores here.

"I'm a little bitter," he said. No bankruptcy has been filed, and no auction will be held at the store, Coon said. Nine employees will be out of jobs when the store closes, and the building will be for lease. So far, no one has shown any interest in the building, Coon said.

In addition to the employees and customers, the local economy is affected by the close of a business. Local merchants pay city, county and school taxes and support local charities and service groups.

"Any business that closes has an impact on taxes. Every business contributes to the community, I don't care how small the business is. I'm still amazed at people that come in for donations and I've never laid eyes on them before, and I've lived in this town for 18 years," said the Perryton native.

"I'm sorry to see that happen. Every time any business closes, it has a negative effect in many areas. There is a loss of outside dollars, plus the psychological effects of a store closing on other merchants," said Bruce Barton, manager of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce.

"It's too bad that after 54 years of business, they're going under. We're really going to miss the people that work in Behrman's. It's just heartbreaking," said Lyn Moulton, manager of Main Street Project, a downtown revitalization organization.

"I am just sick about it, but I can understand he just doesn't have the business. We will really miss them," said Behrman's customer Wanda Hudson of Pampa.

Mrs. Kirk Duncan, a customer of the store for the past 35 to 40 years, said, "I'm very upset that they are closing."

"I know Doug very well. I hate to see any business close, and I hate to see him close," said David McDaniel, Pampa mayor and owner of Hi-Land Fashions. Behrman's features day and evening dresses, furs, sportswear and accessories by such designers as Dalton, Da-Rue, Lorch, Ernst Strauss and Dattelio. The store has been known for its trunk shows, which are traveling fashion shows held by designers for a few days in each store on an agenda. Recent trunk shows at Behrman's, the only Pampa store to have them, have shown fashions by Lorch, Paige & Utah and Howard Wolf.

Behrman's also offered customer services such as free alterations and free mailing.

"When the economy suffers, service is one of the first things to be done without. Price is everything," Coon said.

When business was good, he had thought of opening a branch store in Amarillo, but "there wasn't enough of me to go around."

He said he has no definite plans as to what he will do next. He will continue as a sales representative for Lippin International furriers, for whom he takes trunk shows to several states including Kansas, Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana.

"Definitely not — no way" will he open another store in Pampa, he said.

"I do not have any definite plans at this point. Several things have been offered, but I'll take it a day at a time," Coon said.

"I will definitely be involved with fashion, either on a retail or wholesale level."

the proposal, despite objecting at past meetings to paying rent. Greene said he understood the probation department's dilemma — that additional space is needed immediately to comply with state orders.

"It's the only alternative we have right now," Greene said. "I think we ought to do it under the understanding that we're going to try to get something done, whether it be installing an elevator to utilize that fourth-floor space or whatever."

The courthouse's fourth floor contains several vacant rooms, but Judge Kennedy has expressed concern about citizens with courthouse business climbing a narrow staircase to the fourth floor. The only elevator in the courthouse — located inside the sheriff's office — opens up into the fourth-floor court jail.

Kennedy said Thursday that he hopes the county won't have to rent space for the probation office for more than two years and added that he hopes commissioners can find a "place for everybody" by then.

"I look at this as a short-term agreement to meet an immediate need," Kennedy said.

In other action Thursday, commissioners:

■ accepted a bid for Blue Cross medical insurance with Employee Benefits Associates of Lubbock at a cost to the county of roughly $8,600, despite the objections of Insurance Unlimited of Pampa;

■ agreed to assist in tornado cleanup efforts scheduled Monday at Coronado West Mobile Home Park in Pampa; and the monthly $1,059 rent until January 1988, when the county will begin picking up the tab. Although the county is required by law to house the probation office, district judges Don Cain and Grainger McIlhenny agreed to the plan allowing the probation department to pay its own rent through December.

■ met with Gray County Chief Appraiser Charles Buzzard to discuss his $372,000 budget for 1988, of which the county pays about 19.5 percent.

Commissioners will continue plans to either remodel or rebuild the courthouse to avoid paying rent in the future and to solve space problems faced by several officeholders.

Gray County Judge Carl Kennedy will decide how to utilize the space vacated by the probation department. Kennedy said he will seek input from commissioners and courthouse officeholders.

"He said, 'I did it, I did it,'" Luedtke testified. Kennedy issued his court order forbidding publication of statements made during Thursday's hearing, immediately after hearing Luedtke's testimony. The county judge called the testimony "sensitive."

The judge later said that this order was designed to ensure that DeLeon receives a fair trial.

Pampa News Managing Editor Jeff Langley said in an editorial today that Kennedy's order is unconstitutional.

Defense attorney Holt didn't argue against Kennedy's order requiring DeLeon to again stand trial as an adult.

"I think it was a mistake in the first instance to certify him as an adult," Holt told the judge. "I wish there was some alternative but there doesn't seem to be ...

"He's done a year in the penitentiary, and he's almost 18, and I don't see where it would accomplish anything at this point to call him a juvenile," Holt explained to reporters after the hearing. He said he plans to work for a shorter sentence if DeLeon is convicted again and is hoping for indictment on a lesser charge, such as manslaughter, if his client is indicted.

Comer noted in his closing statement Thursday that DeLeon came to the party armed and committed a "cowardly attack" against Ontiveros. He said he is confident that a grand jury will again indict the teen-ager for "some degree of homicide, (although) perhaps not murder."

Kennedy also forbade publication of the lawyers' opening and closing statements — and statements about evidence used in the hearing.

Among the evidence used in the hearing was a letter from a psychologist who examined DeLeon, and a juvenile case history compiled by the juvenile probation department. But Kennedy refused to allow a list of DeLeon's prior alleged juvenile offenses to be used as evidence, after Holt objected to them.

"It certainly wouldn't be proper if we were in a criminal trial," Holt argued.

Comer agreed, but said Thursday's hearing was not a trial.

"One of the most important things this court has to look at is the past criminal record," Comer told Kennedy. "That's what the law says. It's something the court should consider when deciding whether to transfer."

"It certainly wouldn't be proper if we were in a criminal trial," Holt argued.

Comer agreed, but said Thursday's hearing was not a trial.

"One of the most important things this court has to look at is the past criminal record," Comer told Kennedy. "That's what the law says. It's something the court should consider when deciding whether to transfer."

In today's editorial, Managing Editor Langley said Kennedy's order is unconstitutional because it amounts to censorship by a government official trying to halt the free flow of information to the public.

"We share Judge Kennedy's concern about DeLeon's right to a fair trial, but we are equally concerned that our readers get information they have a right to know," Langley wrote. "The law provides the courts a number of options to ensure that defendants get a fair trial. Those options do not include telling the media what to report about a criminal case."

Langley said the decision to publish despite the order was made after consideration of the judge's order "and reflects our position in the matter."

"It boils down to the notion that we are in the business of providing information to our readers, not withholding that information," he said. "Judge Kennedy must decide whether the article violates his constitutional court order and whether to take any action in the matter. We hope the judge will carefully reflect on the issue before trying to punish the media for doing their job."</

Texans' taxes are less than national average

AUSTIN (AP) — Thanks to a record $5.7 billion tax hike, the tax man will be taking a bigger bite out of Texans' incomes, but state residents will still be paying less than the national average.

Taxes will be higher for clothing, automobiles, cigarettes and hotel rooms, and there are brand new taxes on private club memberships, pest control services and yard work, among other items.

Come Sept. 1, the state tax bill on an average $12,500 car will go up $125. And Texans will pay $60 more for a $6,000 car.

The state sales tax rises three-quarters of a cent in October, but the motor vehicle sales tax goes up a full penny a month earlier. New license and occupational taxes for doctors, dentists and engineers go into effect Sept. 1, but lawyers don't have to pay them until January.

The new taxes are included in 72 pages of new laws passed earlier this week as the Legislature came within hours of the midnight deadline on a special session devoted to forging a budget for the next two fiscal years.

If the total tax burden were split equally among every man, woman and child in Texas, the bill would be $730 a person, up from $667 last year. The national average is $973.

While most Texans will be worrying about higher taxes, commercial anglers on the Gulf Coast may be delaying late September expeditions until early October to take advantage of a benefit of the new bill. After Oct. 1, any ice they buy will be tax-exempt.

In some cases, prudent buyers may need a scorecard on the effective dates to try to avoid the new taxes.

For other big-ticket items such as new cars, major advertising campaigns to remind potential buyers of the impending tax increases are certain.

"I certainly expect that dealers will be publicizing the fact that vehicles bought before Sept. 1 are subject to a lower tax," said Gene Fondren, president of the Texas Automobile Dealers Association.

Texas automobile dealers opposed the 1 percent increase in motor vehicle sales taxes just like any other group, Fondren said.

rate — up to 8 cents in some large cities — will make the Texas sales tax among the highest in the nation.

But with no corporate or personal income tax, Texas taxpayers will remain among the nation's least-burdened, even with the huge tax increase.

In 1986, the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics estimated that a Texas family earning $25,000 a year spent about $299 of its income on state taxes.

According to figures state Comptroller Bob Bullock released Wednesday, Texas ranked 48th last year in per capita taxes — higher only than South Dakota and New Hampshire — when all personal and business taxes were lumped together.

The tax increase Clements signed into law Tuesday will push the state to 42nd place.

Methodists will consider Oral Roberts' future status

DALLAS (AP) — The United Methodist Church is reviewing Oral Roberts' status in the denomination after complaints about his assertions that he raised people from the dead and that God would kill him if he couldn't muster $8 million from his flock, officials say.

The Memphis Conference of the United Methodist Church in Tennessee has called for Roberts' censure, and the United Methodist University Senate has dropped the Oral Roberts University seminary in Tulsa, Okla., from the list of schools it regards as suitable for Methodist ministers.

In addition, the Oklahoma Conference has asked that the church's highest legal body issue a ruling on Roberts' status in the church, the Dallas Times Herald reported today.

Church officials said Thursday the ruling by the United Methodist Judicial Council could set the stage for future disciplinary action against Roberts, a member of Tulsa's Boston Avenue United Methodist Church.

"I think he'll see we are concerned ... and we do have a mechanism in our church to hold all people accountable," said the Rev. Boyce Bowdon, director of communications for the United Methodist Church of Oklahoma.

Roberts, a television evangelist who began his career as an ordained minister in the Pentecostal Holiness Church, was named a local elder — a category of minister the church is phasing out — when he joined the Boston Avenue church in 1968.

He has never had full standing as a Methodist clergyman, but continues to be recognized as a local elder.

Church officials said the decision to review Roberts' status followed statements that he had raised people from the dead and that God would take his life if he failed to raise $8 million by last April 1, a deadline that was met.

The nine-member Judicial Council plans to consider in October whether Roberts and about 200 others nationwide who hold the local-elder title are members of the United Methodist clergy or laity.

Local elders may preach in their home churches, but it is unclear to whom they are accountable. If determined to be members of the clergy, they would be accountable to their bishops; as laity, they would be accountable only to their home churches.

Bowdon said he did not know what action might be taken against Roberts.

"As far as I know, this sort of thing has never come up in the Methodist Church before," Bowdon said. "We've never had an Oral Roberts before."

The Rev. Mouzon Biggs, pastor of the Boston Avenue church, said Roberts has never represented himself as a member of the Methodist clergy and that the news media has mistakenly referred to Roberts that way.

Biggs said there is no move afoot to oust Roberts from the Tulsa church but acknowledged that some members hope that placing the question of his status before the Judicial Council will serve as a moderating influence.

But Biggs said those who "hope this will restrain Oral in some way" will be disappointed. The Judicial Council "will not comment on his fund-raising tactics," Biggs said. "They will simply define who is a local elder."

Representatives of the Oral Roberts Ministries did not return The Associated Press' phone calls Thursday night.

Mayor owes property taxes

ODESSA (AP) — The city mayor owes more than $30,000 in unpaid local property taxes from his defunct sporting goods stores, and a suit is pending against him to collect some of it, officials say.

Ector County attorneys filed suit in January against Mayor Don Carter for almost $5,000 in back taxes, including penalties and interest, according to court documents.

The first-term mayor said Wednesday that he was president of the corporation responsible for the accrued debt, but "the bank took the assets of the corporation and we haven't done anything since."

Carter said he has discussed his former company's local tax dilemma with the various entities, but a payment plan has not been established.

He said he sees no conflict of interest in holding an elected position that often contributes to establishing city tax policy.

"I had this (debt) when I went into this (the mayor's job). I made no bones that I wasn't in good shape financially," said Carter, who was elected in April 1986.

The city of Odessa has become an interested party to the litigation for nearly $10,000 in delinquent property taxes, City Attorney Joel Roberts said Wednesday.

D&L Sports Center Inc., Carter's sporting goods

retail outlet, went out of business in 1985. Records indicate that D&L Sports Center owes the city $9,920; Ector County, $5,392; Odessa Junior College District, $2,363; and the Ector County Independent School District, $15,308, the Odessa American reported. Those figures include penalties and interest.

Carter, 58, has paid all property taxes on his home and his current business, D&L Trophy and Apparel, records show.

Some council members said they were surprised to learn of the debt, but said Carter should be treated like any other citizen who owes taxes.

"The mayor has done and is doing a good job," Councilman Dub Kennedy said Wednesday.

"He doesn't deny that he owes it. He's aware of it and when he's able to pay it, he will. I'm sure he'll do what's right," said Councilman Jim Perkins.

Vicki Gomez, president of the ECISD Board of Trustees, said school district attorneys attempt to collect delinquent accounts with all due haste.

The Odessa College district and the ECISD are in the process of intervening in the county lawsuit, said attorney Blake Hansen of the local law firm McMahon, Tidwell, Hansen and Atkins, which handles delinquent tax collection for the two districts.

Tips on grooming from Groom

Hooray for the Groom school board! Last week, the board voted to ban students from wearing T-shirts adorned with Spuds McKenzie's mug.

It's high time someone brought to death this insipid "Spuds" advertising campaign.

Not only is Spuds the ugliest dog in animal kingdom history, it is also the stupidest for agreeing to take part in Budweiser's ridiculous commercials.

The dog itself is bad enough. But the mere concept of the commercial is the most ludicrous example of Madison Avenue the American viewer has ever been exposed to.

Who would ever believe a commercial that features a group of bubble-headed bimbos saying to a dog, "Call me!" If my daughter ever told a dog to call her, I'd have her head examined and then I'd send her to an analyst.

I could go on and on about this pitiful poop pertaining to this prideless pup.

But, suffice it to say, the Groom trustees will come out smelling like roses following this banishment.

Things don't stop there, however, as school members also said they would no longer stand for other "fashion" trends:

✓ No more pants that end somewhere above the ankles. In the 70s, we used to call those "high-waters." Now, they are called "stylish." At my high school, we'd always say to the unfortunate soul who wore them, "Expecting a flood, or what?" Back then, we always thought whoever wore the high-waters had nothing else clean to wear and we cruelly passed him off as a nerd.

✓ Ear jewelry for boys. Probably the single most sensible revision the board came up with. Boys wearing earrings? Say it ain't so! If boys who went to my high school ever wore an earring, someone — and not necessarily a bully — would've ripped it out and installed it in the guy's nose where it belonged.

Besides, what kind of a girl would go out with a boy who wears an earring? His might be prettier than hers.

And, on the subject of earrings, why can't girls leave well enough alone? Remember when the earring was worn strictly on the earlobe? Now, for

Off Beat

By Jimmy

crying out loud, the girls are wearing it up on the "boney" part of the ear. That must hurt! ✓ No more mini-skirts. Presumably, this one is aimed solely at girls. I agree here, too. The part of the girl's legs that is revealed by wearing a mini-skirt should not be seen until after the groom says "I do."

One thing the Groom board missed, though: Spiked and/or layered hair worn by boys.

You've seen the new layered look on these boys. They're the ones who look like you could harvest a hillside wheat crop on their heads.

And the spikes? Don't get me started on that. I always want to go up to a guy with a spike, slap him on the neck and say, "Ooops! Sorry, thought it was a worm."

I guess you heard one about Pampa's finest ticketing a Red Cross vehicle. No joke!

To top it off, it was a Red Cross vehicle in town from Childress to help the victims of last Tuesday's tornado.

What must the Childress volunteers think of Pampa? When the police department could be out patrolling our neighborhoods or stopping drunk drivers, are they? No, they are punishing volunteers who came to help of their own free will.

Ticketing a Red Cross vehicle for overtime parking is like issuing littering citations at the Coronado West Mobile Home Park.

Workmen prepare to clean up spilled acid.

Truck spills nitric acid along 5-mile stretch of highway

AZLE (AP) — A leaking truck spread about 3,000 gallons of nitric acid along a five-mile stretch of highway, but no serious injuries resulted from the corrosive chemical's fumes, officials said.

"It was a pretty sizeable spill, and we had some runoff into the creek. We're trying to determine the environmental damage, and we've got some reports that it might be running quite high," Fort Worth Fire Department Butch Hall said Thursday.

The truck driver noticed the leak at about 10:30 a.m. when he stopped at a convenience store on the west edge of Lake Worth. The truck was being driven on Texas Highway 199 from LIKA Southwest, an Azle-headquartered subsidiary of the Tandy Corp., Hall said.

"He immediately called the LIKA plant and said he was bringing the truck back," Hall said. "As the truck headed back north again on 199, it continued to spill the chemical, and then it got off on an access road in Azle and spilled more acid on the access road."

At least five people, including a police officer and a firefighter, required medical attention after they breathed nitric acid fumes, but none were seriously hurt, Hall said.

"We evacuated an area of 750 to 1,000 feet perimeter north and east of the area of the biggest spill in Azle. There's an electric cooperative about 250 yards away, and three people were overcome by the fumes there," Hall said.

About a dozen people, who were exposed either by driving through the spill or by being in the immediate area, were treated at a local hospital, but none required hospitalization, he said.

The LIKA plant makes printed circuit boards for Tandy, and nitric acid is used to etch the circuit boards.

Hampering the cleanup effort was the fact that workmen couldn't use water to spray the chemicals off the roadways, Hall said.

"Nitric acid is pretty bad stuff. When it mixes with water it creates a very noxious gas," Hall said.

Hall said workmen were putting down a layer of soda ash on the nitric acid to neutralize it, then spreading a layer of sand.

Bob Buckel, publisher of the Azle News, said workers were at the edge of Ash Creek with a suction truck, trying to keep the acid from flowing downstream and into Eagle Mountain Lake.

Highway 199 remained open, but traffic was brought almost to a standstill in downtown Azle, a town of 5,800, because of the closure of access roads, officials said.

Lawsuit alleges huge title scheme

HOUSTON (AP) — A title insurance company has filed a $302 million lawsuit that claims 21 people — including the Galveston city manager — reaped more than $10 million through bribery, forgery and misappropriation of funds.

Ticor Title Insurance Co. of Los Angeles, in a federal suit that was filed Wednesday, named as defendants title company executives and several bank and loan officers involved with bankrupt developer J.R. McConnell.

Ticor also said Galveston City Manager Douglas Matthews "either knowingly and or negligently" gave McConnell stationery with Galveston letterheads that McConnell used to prepare fake letters used to obtain loans.

Matthews called the allegation "an outright lie."

Ticor said that as part of the scheme, Federal Title Co., one of its agents, issued hundreds of title policies that either failed to show prior liens or listed as owner someone who did not have an interest in the property.

"This case arises out of what is believed to be the largest title insurance fraud in the history of the title insurance industry," Ticor said in the suit.

Make patchwork gown, robe without pattern

By BETH COTTEN

What we used to call naughty underwear is now being sold at unbelievable prices as high-fashion lingerie.

Revealing sleepwear can be quite lovely — depending on what's being revealed! I long ago opted for soft, feminine gowns and robes that do a better job of hiding than revealing.

They don't have to be flannel granny gowns, though. They can be very attractive, even appealing.

The gown and robe that I made recently are good examples. They are made of soft cotton with patchwork accents. The full-length gown is gathered onto a patchwork yoke, and ties at the shoulders. The wrap robe has patchwork pockets and cuffs.

Our step-by-step plans for the gown and robe include full-size patterns and complete, illustrated instructions. For real patchwork fans, we also have plans for a unique lap quilt made of large, triangular patches, with zigzag edges.

To order plans for the gown and robe, specify Project No. 1560; or for the lap quilt, specify No. 1550. Send $4.95 for either plan, or save a dollar and receive both for only $8.90.

Mail to: Makin' Things, Dept. 79065, P.O. Box 1000, Bixby, Okla. 74008-1000. Add $2.95 for a catalog, featuring $16 worth of coupons.

To make the gown, I used 3 yards of 45-inch lightweight blue cotton fabric. You'll need four different coordinating fabrics, all lightweight cotton blends, for the patchwork and trim.

The front and back of the gown are fabric rectangles 45 inches wide by 1 1/4 yards long. Fold the two pieces lengthwise and stack them evenly, folds on the same side.

To accommodate the circular edges of the yokes, cut a wide, curved neckline and slightly curved armholes in the stacked pieces.

The semi-circular front yoke consists of a backing piece, a layer of lightweight batting, and the top patchwork layer. For the patchwork, cut two pie-wedge shapes from each of three fabrics.

Sew the six pie-shaped pieces together to form the semi-circle. Cut a triangular piece from a fourth fabric and hem the short sides. Topstitch over the center portion of the patchwork, along the top edge.

Stack the patchwork and backing wrong sides together with the batting between. Baste and then quilt by hand or machine along the existing seam lines ("stitch in the ditch").

Bind the edges of the yoke with bias strips cut from one of the fabrics or with purchased bias binding tape. Bind the armhole edges of the gown front in the same manner.

Gather the curved neckline edge of the gown front, so that it is just slightly shorter than the curved edge of the yoke. Adjust the gathers evenly and baste. Topstitch the yoke to the gown.

Cut strips from one of the patchwork fabrics for the gown straps. Sew four straps, and topstitch two of them to the gown front at the top corners of the yoke.

The gown back is identical to the front, except that the yoke is made from a solid piece of fabric rather than patchwork.

Stitch the gown front and back right sides together along the side seams. Reinforce the upper ends of the seams.

Try on the gown, tying the front and back straps together on each side. Mark the desired hemline and cut off the fabric along the marked line. Bind the lower edge in bias strips or tape.

Pretty gown and robe are inexpensive to make at home, and feature patchwork accents.

Record lineage data uniformly on charts

Pedigree Charts or Lineage Charts, different names for the same form, vary in shape and arrangement but contain the same basic information that should be recorded in a uniform manner.

Names should be written as if making an introduction — first name, middle names and surname or family name. The family or surname is the name that is common to each family member and in the United States is the last name. The first and middle names, often called the Christian names, should be written in both capital and lower case letters.

The last name should be all capitals. If a name is initials only, indicate this by placing the letters (i.e.) after the name. (NMN) is used to indicate "no middle name". Always use the maiden name for the women, and if they were married before, the option of the previous married name in parentheses is acceptable.

All dates should be written with the day, month and year sequence. The month may be abbreviated but never the year. Always use the four digits.

Places are recorded by the town, then the county, followed by the state. Often, in the older records the town is not known and a space should be left to add it later. Abbreviations are acceptable if standard enough so that anyone would recognize the abbreviated form.

Family group sheets should be completed the same way, but it is not necessary to repeat the family name after each child. Be as complete as possible. Include your permanent address on the form in the "compiled by" section and date when you recorded the information.

I will complete a five-generation lineage chart for anyone sending the information plus that magic self-addressed, stamped envelope. Send your information to: The Pampa News, P.O. Drawer 2198, Pampa, 79065.

Dear Abby

Abigail Van Buren

Freeloading card player irritates game participants

DEAR ABBY: I love to play the card game Pan. In our game, one of the eight players has turned out to be a freeloader. The last eight times when it was her turn to host, she was either "sick," or her husband was "entertaining a relative," or her maid missed coming this week and her house was a mess. However, she has not missed a game in a year!

Now she says her hands hurt (arthritis) so she can't shuffle the cards, but she has no trouble reaching for the chips or reaching for the cards.

Abby, you once wrote: "Nobody can take advantage of you without your permission."

The other women in our group are just as fed up with this woman as I am, but nobody has the nerve to call her on it. I told the others that I was going to drop out. So since I am always quoting you, they said, "Write to Dear Abby and see what she has to say." So I am writing. Should I stay with the group and ignore this woman's faults, or drop out and try to organize another game without her? The other women said they would all go along with your decision.

E.G. IN L.A.

DEAR E.G.: Freeloading is inexcusable, but arthritic hands can be painful, so give the offending woman a break. Confront her and state your complaint, and if she doesn't have the game at her house in the very near future, you would be justified to "reorganize" — and deal her out.

DEAR ABBY: My very good friend (I'll call her Terry) just found out that she is expecting twins. She gave me a baby shower last year, so now I'm going to have one for her.

Do you think I should mention on the invitations that Terry is expecting twins? It will mean that the guests will have to buy two gifts instead of one, which may make it kind of expensive for those who are on a rather tight budget.

DOUBLE TROUBLE

DEAR DOUBLE: Of course you should mention the double blessing in your invitations. Obviously it will mean bringing two gifts instead of one, but everyone knows that one pair of booties will not cover four little feet.

DEAR ABBY: Here's a beef I don't recall seeing in your column: Why does every young twit in a medical/legal office, from the doctor/lawyer down to the receptionist, call me by my first name?

I always introduce myself as "Mrs. Smith." I'm 43, mother of five, a professional person with more life experience than any three of them put together. Yet they're always Dr. X or Mr. X. I find it disrespectful and an unwarranted familiarity. I'm sure every self-respecting woman has at some time resented this condescension.

What is a firm but polite response to nip this habit in the bud?

MRS. SMITH, VANCOUVER, B.C.

DEAR MRS. SMITH: I recommend that you firmly, but politely, ask the offending young twerps, doctors, lawyers, receptionists, etc. to address you as "Mrs. Smith." And should they fall back into their old first-name habits, firmly but politely repeat the request.

(To get Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions," send a check or money order for $2.50 and a long, stamped (39 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Dear Abby, Letter Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054.)

Knights of Columbus to host Major Degree

Frank Keim Council 2767, Knights of Columbus, will host a Major Degree on Sunday at St. Vincent de Paul School, honoring His Excellency Bishop Leroy T. Matthiesen, bishop of the Amarillo Diocese, according to Pampa Grand Knight Daniel F. McGrath.

Sixty candidates representing the local Council and surrounding Councils of Perryton, Borger, Dumas and Panhandle will have the Major Degree conferred on them during ceremonies on Sunday afternoon.

The candidates will assemble at the school at 9:30 a.m. and parade to St. Vincent de Paul Church for Sunday Mass at 10 a.m. Celebrating the Mass and honoring the candidates will be the pastor of St. Vincent de Paul Church and Chaplain of the local Council, the Rev. Gary Sides.

Following the Mass, coffee and donuts will be served at 11:30 a.m. to the candidates and members of the Knights of Columbus, who will attend the ceremonies. Conferring of the degrees will begin at 1 p.m. Conferring officer will be William D. Cox Jr. of Dallas.

A social hour and dinner will follow at the Council Home, on the corner of Ward and Buckler Streets. Wives of members and of the candidates, along with widows of deceased members of the Council, will be honored guests, along with His Excellency Bishop Matthiesen.

All local arrangements for the Major Degree were made by District Deputy Lee Roy McBride of District 40 of the State Council, Knights of Columbus.

Garage sale to benefit Head Start program

A garage sale will be held from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. July 25 at 1809 N. Zimmers to benefit the Pampa Head Start program.

Profits from the sale will be used to fund some of the program's services, which include transportation to the doctor or dentist, shoes, Christmas gifts, field trips, food and classroom supplies for needy children and their families.

Head Start, a family-oriented program, has an advisory board and will elect officers from among parents after the school term begins. Other Head Start programs help parents learn how to teach their children and get parents in contact with support agencies.

The eight to nine meetings a year also provide information on nutrition, child abuse and other parental concerns. Spanish-speaking interpreters are available.

Donations of items for the garage sale would be welcome. Anyone who has a donation for the sale may call 669-3639.

Women honored as outstanding entrepreneurs

NEW YORK (AP) — Five self-employed women, who despite personal or professional hardships achieved business success, have been honored for demonstrating exceptional resourcefulness and determination as business owners.

The winners of the Women of Enterprise Awards program were chosen in a national search of more than 100 women's organizations, plus the general public.

The project was conceived by Avon Products Inc., in conjunction with the U.S. Small Business Administration. It is designed to recognize the growing entrepreneurial spirit of American women of all ages and socioeconomic backgrounds.

Winners were selected by an Advisory Council of business and community leaders, including some leading entrepreneurs.

Those honored were May K.Y. Yue, president, Financial Services Associates Inc., Edina, Minn.; Sharlyne R. Powell, president, Women At Large Systems Inc., Yakima Wash.; Marie Jackson-Randolph, president, Sleepy Hollow Educational Centers, Detroit; Heida L. Thurlow, president, Lentrade Inc., Houston; and Mary Ann Padilla, president, Sunny Side Inc.-Temp Side, Denver.

Gail Blanke, Avon's vice president of community affairs, said, "More women are choosing entrepreneurship as their life's strategy because they still face difficult economic and personal challenges."

According to government statistics, the number of businesses owned by women totaled three million in 1986, up from 700,000 a decade ago. Statistics show that women-owned businesses generated $56 billion in revenue in 1984. California, Texas, New York, Florida and Pennsylvania accounted for 37 percent of all new businesses owned by women in 1983.

First Light.

Dark night? Long, hopeless despair? At times like these, even a hint of dawn's first light seems like a miracle, because it brings a promise of sunlight. Hope.

No matter how dark your night of sin and guilt, Jesus wants to come to you like the dawn with hope for a new day — a new you.

You can't make the sun rise, you can't hold it back. You might shut your eyes and refuse to look. But the light's still there.

Open your eyes and look to Jesus. He'll be your First Light.

Take Your Children
To Church

Coleman Adv. Serv.

Parents would not dream of permitting their children to venture out on the waters without some protection. Yet, only too many of these same parents do not prepare their children for the dangers of everyday life. The Bible says:

"Wherefore take unto you the whole armour of God, that ye may be able to withstand in the evil day, and having done all, to stand."

Begin now, to safeguard your children by taking them to church.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

His Touch

By Charlotte Barbaree

Scripture: "I have told you these things, so that in me you may have peace. In this world you will have trouble. But take heart! I have overcome the world." (John 16:33 NIV)

I grew up in Oklahoma City and take pride in the city that emerged from the ignominy of the Great Depression to evolve into a beautiful, progressive city.

The Central Business District of the present in no way resembles the town I shopped till I thought my feet would fall off when I was a girl in the early fifties. With the invasion of shopping centers and malls, the C.B.D. became abandoned and neglected until modern office buildings replaced most of the dilapidated, multi-storied shops.

Pedestrians now walking the streets of the C.B.D. tread on squares of rose and black granite and see a myriad of their reflections winking at them from surrounding mirror, chrome and polished El Greco marble of ultra-modern building exteriors.

A lovely, open-air corridor of sculpture, memorials, fountains, pools and gardens bask in the sun-lasers which bounce off mirrored skyscrapers. In the summer, begonias, periwinkles, lantanas, hibiscus and salvia profusely bloom in rings around magnolia, pine, spruce and locust trees; the delicate blooms turn concrete and granite into elegant mountings for botanical jewels.

However, the photographic beauty of the C.B.D. of Oklahoma City is marred by the cacophony typical of all metropolitan areas. Automobile traffic, city buses, street cleaning tractors, sirens, honking horns, hoof beats of the horses of the mounted police, rushing fountains, passing aircraft, people noise—all sound is amplified by the highrise buildings to create an almost unbearable racket.

But above and interlacing the brain-bashing din, a soothing sound periodically intrudes itself. Carillon music floats in the air and becomes superimposed on the harsher music of the city. The rippling of the chimes softens the city glare and blare and reawakens the listener to the surrounding beauty.

Jesus Christ is the carillon music of Christendom. His presence is our peace in the midst of chaos.

He is our proper perspective when we are being bashed by trouble. He is our melody of victory and our surrounding beauty. He is our Lord!

Norman Goad

Norman Goad to play organ Sunday at First Presbyterian

Norman Goad of Arlington will be returning to his hometown Sunday morning to play the organ during the 10:45 a.m. worship service at First Presbyterian Church, 525 N. Gray.

A 1977 graduate of Pampa High School, Goad is the son of Doris Goad and Carrol Goad, both of Pampa.

Currently he is working for pipe organ builder Ross King in Fort Worth. He recently moved to Arlington from Lubbock, where he had been playing the organ at Second Baptist Church.

Goad, who has been playing the organ since he was in the seventh grade, received his master's in organ performance from Texas Tech University in May 1986. In April 1986, he received first place in the graduate division of the 16th annual William C. (Bill) Hall Pipeorgan Competition in San Antonio, sponsored by the Alamo Chapter of the American Guild of Organists, First and University Presbyterian Churches of San Antonio, and the Minnie Piper Stevens Foundation.

He has been playing the piano since age 5 and began formal study of the organ at age 15 with Jerry Whitten in Pampa. He played the organ at Zion Lutheran Church for two years while in high school.

His wife Diana is an orchestra instructor. Formerly a teacher in the Lubbock schools, she will be teaching this fall in the Highland Park School District.

His mother, Doris Goad, currently is the organist at First Presbyterian Church.

Glazemans to be speakers at Calvary Baptist service

Lyndon and Penny Glazeman of New Orleans, La., will return to Calvary Baptist Church, 900 E. 23rd, as guest speakers Sunday at the 11 a.m. service.

Penny grew up in Pampa and attended Calvary Baptist. Lyndon moved to Pampa when he was 17 and also is a former member of Calvary Baptist.

Employed by Cabot before entering the ministry, Lyndon holds a bachelor of science degree from Wayland Baptist University and a master of theology degree from New Orleans Baptist Seminary.

Besides being a seminary student, Lyndon is majoring in Biblical studies, Greek and Hebrew. He is pastor of the Calvary Baptist Mission at Lafayette, La.

The Glazemans have two children, Stephen, 8, and Jesse, 6.

The congregation invites for-

Lyndon Glazeman
mer friends of the Glazemans to come and hear them at the special Sunday morning service.

Recording artist to appear at Briarwood Full Gospel

Eddie Burton, recording artist for Genesis Records, will appear at Briarwood Full Gospel Church, 1800 W. Harvester, at 7 p.m. Sunday.

Burton, a Pampa resident, presents a program appealing to the entire family with songs ranging from beloved hymns to songs from his debut album, Heart of Praise.

His background as a minister of music and his having sung and ministered extensively locally has prepared him with a special word for the church, Pastor Gene Allen said.

"The Lord has given Eddie Burton a burden to reach the world with the 'Good News' of Jesus Christ through song," Rev. Allen said.

Allen invited the public to "come hear Eddie and the message he has for you today."

Eddie Burton

Continental Singers to be at Central Baptist Church

The Continental Singers, an internationally recognized Christian musical group, will present their new 20th anniversary program, "Let There Be Praise," at 7 p.m. Wednesday in Central Baptist Church, Starkweather and Browning.

Sent out from the Continental Ministries headquarters in Thousand Oaks, Calif., the group blends together the best of its past with an inspiring new musical, Rev. Norman Rushing, pastor, said.

"You'll experience a celebration that highlights two decades of praise and joy," Rev. Rushing said. "It's a program that will challenge your life and your heart."

The program features favorite gospel songs, hymn medleys and contemporary classics.

Rushing invited the public to attend the special program, with no charge for admission.

Reagan challenges new AIDS panel to use common sense

WASHINGTON (AP) — A diverse new AIDS panel has a challenge from President Reagan to use "a good strong dose of common sense" to help stop the spread of the disease.

The 13 appointees, whom Reagan introduced Thursday at the National Institutes of Health, range from an activist homosexual geneticist to a Roman Catholic cardinal who has denounced homosexuality as a sin.

Asked if such a diverse group would be able to agree on an AIDS policy for the nation, geneticist Dr. Frank Lilly said, "I can only say I hope so."

He said he didn't know most of the other panel members, adding, "Before I can make an evaluation of the commission, I have to sit through at least one meeting of it."

Reagan flew by helicopter to NIH in the Washington suburb of Bethesda, Md., where he signed autographs for child victims of AIDS and visited the laboratory that was the site of the first work on AZT, a drug used to fight the AIDS virus.

"One way or another, whether by breakthrough or steady progress, we will beat this disease," the president told an audience of about 250 at the NIH.

"What we need right now... is a good strong dose of common sense," he added. "It seems to be common sense to recognize that when it comes to stopping the spread of AIDS, medicine and morality teach the same lessons."

Reagan has asked the panel, among other things, to review AIDS education efforts; examine measures to stop spread of the disease; examine the needs of AIDS patients; identify areas for research; study related legal and ethical issues; and examine policies towards drugs and vaccines.

The appointment of Lilly, chairman of the genetics department at Albert Einstein Medical Center in New York City, capped a drive by gay rights groups for representation on the commission. Lilly has led AIDS education efforts at the Gay Men's Health Crisis group in New York and at the National Academy of Sciences.

Gary Bauer, Reagan's domestic policy adviser, denied that the president gave in to pressure on the homosexual issue. But Sen. Gordon Humphrey, R-N.H., accused Reagan of caving in to demands by homosexual groups that "society accept their sexual practices as normal."

Among numerous conservatives on the panel are Cardinal John J. O'Connor of New York and Penny Pullen, assistant GOP minority leader of the Illinois House.

O'Connor, who volunteered last month to work with hospitalized AIDS patients, says homosexuality is a sin. He takes the church position that homosexuals should prevent AIDS through sexual abstinence.

Reagan gave the commission 90 days to submit a preliminary report.

Shultz's tale begs question of why he gave in WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of the congressional Iran-Contra committee, astonished by what they have heard so far from Secretary of State George P. Shultz, still are asking why he did not mount stronger opposition to the covert sale of arms to Iran.

Shultz on Thursday directly accused at least two top administration officials — former National Security Adviser John M. Poindexter and late CIA Director William J. Casey — of misleading President Reagan to save themselves from the wreckage of a disastrous Iran policy they helped create.

Shultz said that on Dec. 7, 1985, when Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger raised legal questions about the arms sales, the president said, "Well, the American people will never forgive me if I fail to get these hostages out over this legal question."

The secretary said he told Reagan after the presidential news conference last Nov. 19 that he had made "many statements that were wrong or misleading," but Shultz said that afterwards he felt he "didn't make a dent" on the president.

In testimony that congressional investigators called the most blunt and dramatic to date, Shultz gave a public account of conniving, deception and backbiting among the president's top advisers over the policy of selling weapons to Iran to gain the release of American hostages. Shultz said he vigorously opposed the policy.

Shultz, the first cabinet member to testify before the House and Senate investigating panels, specifically named Poindexter and Casey as being on "the other side" in the internal bickering and the manipulating of the president by giving him incomplete information on which to base policy decisions.

"You are witnessing a historic presentation," Sen. William Cohen, R-Maine, told reporters during a break in Thursday's hearing. "He has taken you inside the eye of the storm."

"It's an astounding day," said Sen. Sam

Nunn, D-Ga. "The White House, the president himself, was being manipulated for the ends of a few people. ... I think his testimony was more important, profound and fundamental than that of all the other witnesses combined."

Shultz was particularly critical of those in the administration who repeatedly revived the arms-for-hostages deal after Reagan's top advisers on foreign and national security policy believed they had squelched it.

"I developed the clear opinion that the president was not being given accurate information," Shultz said. Those around Reagan "were trying to use his undoubted skills as a communicator... and in doing so, he would bail them out."

And in comments that seemed aimed directly at Casey, Shultz said the function of gathering intelligence should not be clouded with the function of formulating foreign policy. As a member of the president's cabinet, Casey wore both hats.

Pampa NL stars win title

By JIMMY PATTERSON
Sports Writer

Thursday night's All-Star Bambino tournament contest was one of those that left viewers spellbound after its completion.

The Pampa National League All-Stars defeated the Tulia All-Stars in an edge-of-the-seat thriller. The final score was 11-9 — but it wasn't that simple.

To say that the final play of the game was "absolutely unbelievable" is not too much of an exaggeration.

With the score 11-9, Tulia came to bat in the top of the sixth. In what would be its last turn at bat in the game — and in the season, for that matter — Tulia second baseman John Todd stepped to the plate.

Keep one important fact in mind: The bases were loaded for Todd, there was just one out and the winning run for Tulia was at first.

Todd sent a low Chris Poole fastball to short left field. As the ball made its way toward the outfield, everyone in the park thought for sure it would fall for a hit.

Leftfielder Brad Smilie thought otherwise. Like an Olympic sprinter, Smilie took off toward the sinking line drive and ball met glove at knee-level — two out.

Meanwhile, back at third base ... Tulia runner Alvino Martinez — one of those who thought for sure the ball was a single — started his trek toward home plate in what would have been Tulia's tenth run.

Smilie, though, after his catch, wheeled and threw to Pampa third baseman Kurt West who stepped on the bag for a double play. Martinez never had a chance to make it back to the base — three out.

End result: End of ball game. End of season for Tulia.

The victory, thanks largely to the Smilie-to-West heroics, means Pampa's NL Stars will find themselves in Plainview

Saturday, Aug. 1 in the first round of the Bambino State Tournament.

Chris Poole was the winning pitcher for Pampa. Poole allowed only two hits, struck out five and walked eight.

A shining defense was not the only plus Pampa had going for it Thursday night.

Despite a first inning strikeout, Tarin Peet was the offensive standout for Pampa. Peet drove in six runs, including four after a grand slam homer in the second.

Chris Gilbert went 3-for-4 and scored three runs and Kurt West also homered — his in the first — as he drove in two runs.

Pampa struck early and hard with three runs in the first and four in the second.

Pampa added another four runs in the third. Even though the inning garnered only two hits for Pampa, Smilie, Dennis Graham, Greg Moore and Gilbert also scored, which ran the score to 11-2.

Tulia made it a ball game again in the fourth when they scored seven runs.

Tulia picked up four hits in the frame; two Pampa errors and two walks did some of the damage, but a two run homer by Tulia second baseman Ryan Prater provided most of the hurt.

Tulia fans came alive and it appeared the momentum shifted in the fifth, but there were no more runs to be had for the visitors.

In the Tulia sixth, Johnny Diaz reached base on a walk and went to second on a wild pitch. Alvino Martinez also received a free pass as did Junior Garcia to load the bases.

Diaz attempted to score from third, but was thrown out at the plate in another hard-to-believe play by Pampa third baseman West.

With one out, Tulia still thought victory was just around the corner.

Bailey leads Tri-State

By L.D. STRATE
Sports Editor

Ken Bailey of Amarillo must have been a pretty good teacher. If Thursday's second round of the Tri-State Senior Tournament is any indication, he practices what he taught.

Bailey, a former West Texas University golf coach, got hot down the stretch to overtake first-round leader Jake Broyles of Lamesa. Bailey shot an even-par 71 yesterday for a two-day total of 144 and a three-stroke lead over Broyles and the rest of the tournament field.

Broyles, the defending Tri-State champion, had a one-stroke lead over the rest of the field going into Thursday's round at the Pampa Country Club course. Trees and bushes then got in Broyles' way as he slipped to a 75.

Five times Broyles landed in the rough and five times Broyles found himself behind an obstacle.

"It was one of those days if trouble was anywhere around, I would find it," he said. "Last year, if I got in the rough there wasn't anything in front of me. This round I had to try and get around a tree everytime."

Broyles bogied four consecutive holes and hit a shot out of bounds on No. 4.

"I just wasn't hitting the ball good. I was fortunate to get away with a 75," added Broyles.

Bailey, who was in a four-way tie for second after the opening round, started off Thursday's play like he was going to slip further back into the pack. Hampered by a double bogey on No. 3, Bailey had a three-over par 38 on the front nine. He recovered on the back nine to birdie Nos. 10, 15 and 18 and par the remaining holes.

Bailey just became eligible this year to enter the 55 and over tournament.

Broyles wasn't the only one who found the course difficult

Thursday. Plainview's Jack Williams, the 1986 runnerup and the '82 champion, fell into a three-way tie for third after shooting a 77.

"I should have birdied the last two holes," Williams said. "It was those little, dinky shots that really got me."

The final round of play is scheduled today. Golfers who shot 158 or below after the first two rounds make up the championship flight. The others drop into the president's flight.

CHAMPIONSHIP FLIGHT

1. Ken Bailey, Amarillo, 144; 2. Jake Broyles, Lamesa, 147; 3. (tie) Harold DeLong, Shawnee, Okla., Jack Williams, Plainview and Everett Gauldin, Vernon; 150; 6. (tie) Harvey Eschleman, Kemp, and Milton Kasch, Borger, 152; 8. (tie) Chester Darnell, Lubbock, 153; 10. (tie) Jack Bolt, Midwest City, Okla., and Myron Dees, Canyon, 154; 12. J.B. White, Lubbock, Jim Deaton, Missouri City, and E.V. Price, Childress, 156; 15. Buddy Grantham, Grandbury, 157; 16. (tie) H.E. Paris, Kemp, and Bob Roberson, Oklahoma City, 158.

PRESIDENT'S FLIGHT

1. (tie) Tommy Pletcher, Perryton, Bill Clemmons, Fritch, and Tom Morris, Pampa, 159; 4. (tie) Bob Kenney, El Paso, and Carroll Weaver, Sinton, 161; 7. Bernard Tomicki, Carrollton, 163; 8. (tie) Jim Sanders, Dallas, and Mel Shaffer, Grandbury, 163; 10. Don Riffe, Stratford, 164; 11. J.T. Webb, Miami, 165; 12. (tie) Jim Acklin, Sherman, and John Weathers, Amarillo, 171.

Tri-State Seniors

FURTHER EVIDENCING THEIR already obvious concern for mankind as well as the game of golf, members of the Tri-State Seniors Golf Association have approved a scholarship program. At the suggestion of retiring President Dr. Joe Donaldson, the plan was unanimously approved during the regular board meeting Tuesday afternoon. Full details of the program are to be worked out in the near future, but the plan for funding and agreement to rotate it among various colleges and universities in the Southwest was endorsed.

It is just another of the many, many examples of the care, concern and love within the ever-growing organization of senior golfing athletes and outstanding citizens who gather in Pampa to participate in the oldest seniors event, played annually at the Pampa Country Club.

With deep thanks to the membership of that Club, the Board also unanimously accepted the invitation to return again next year for the 54th tournament. Named president of the organization for the next year was John Sharp of Midwest City, Oklahoma. Carlton Freeman of Pampa was elevated to the first vice presidency and Vester Smith of Higgins moved into the line of succession as second vice president. Eleven new directors were also added, including Bob Curry and Norman Sublett of Pampa and Eldon Dudley of Perryton.

Dr. Donaldson, along with his invaluable secretary-treasurer Floyd Sackett, received unending praise from the board members and contestants for the best-run, best-planned, best-conducted tournament in the memory of most contestants. And special praise was articulated for the Pampa Women's Golf Association for providing exciting and interesting weeklong activities for the contestants wives. Those events conclude tonight with over 60 people riding two chartered busses to the Panhandle-Plains Museum for a style show of 19th and early 20th century clothing and concluding with a barbecue and trip to TEXAS in the Palo Duro Canyon. It is not difficult to understand why these visitors think that Pampa and its citizens are some of the very finest in the world.

A great big THANK YOU to all who helped.

bership now involves 11 states, stretching from Virginia to California, from Alabama to Ohio...L.W. McClendon of Childress holds the longest active membership, 31 years; Roy Stockton of Amarillo has 30 years, one more than fellow townsman Gurney Dodd. Former state legislator and Shamrock mayor Siebert Worley has 23 years, while Tom Price, with 21 years, heads the Pampa contingent...Another new director is Appellate Court Judge James Garrett of Oklahoma City.

Congratulations to J. Carroll Weaver of Sinton, honored last night as "Colonel Bogey" for his many contributions to the success of the organization. Six Pampans have been so-honored since it's first presentation in 1935; R.J.

Amarilloan Tom Morris, as a guest of The Honourable Company of Edinburgh Golfers, shot an 81 over the par 71 Muirfield, Edinburgh, Scotland course, site of last week's British Open, while playing there six years ago.

Most often heard refrain: "Your course is in the best condition I've ever seen it." Thanks Mickey Piersall and Clint Deeds and staff... "I'm going for it" one of the contestants promised me, meaning a run at the Texas state senate. He can make his own official announcement, but it was good news.

Former Pampans Aftergut, whose first tournament shot was a tremendous drive he'll be telling friends about in adopted hometown San Antonio, keeps Pampa at the tip of his tongue: his dentists are former Pampans Bill Walsh and Richard Newberry, dental partners in the Alamo City.

Incidentally, Weaver has shot his age 85 times already this year!!!

Perfectionist and competitor that he is, when former world calf roping champion Eldon Dudley of Perryton decided to take up golf the first move he made was to enroll in Bob Toski's School of Golf, and he has been an instant star player. Example: veteran Enid player Ray Hayes parred both front-side par-three holes in the opening match Wednesday, but Dudley won both with birdie 2's.

James (Hap) Edwards of Raton, N.M. and Wiley Reynolds were classmates at New Mexico Military Institute in 1933-35. "Hap was a brilliant, unstoppable basketball player" reveals Reynolds.

Forget about that timeworn phrase "touch of a surgeon." Tulia artist Kenneth Wyatt rolled in three consecutive birdie putts Tuesday; Oh! for the touch of that painter!

Their nicknames might be 'Red', but the hair color has changed.

As this goes to press, newcomer Ken Bailey is in the championship hunt. Among his clubs, a glass-headed driver. Bi-focaled?

Former sports official Stina Cain of Clarendon had to sit out this year's event with a whiplash injury sustained while working with his lawnmower.

"If I hadn't been wearing this (a pith helmet) I might be dead" said former WTSU athletic director Myron Dees. Pointing to a huge dent in the helmet, right over his right temple, Dees explained: "A fellow's drive hit me right there, on the fly, and bounced straight back about 50 yards. It buckled my knees and gave me double vision for several holes."

And in the small world dept.: seeing "Oklahoma City" on the nametag of Jack Bolt, Bob Robinson introduced himself explaining he owns a home in that city but lives most of the year in Palm Springs, Cal. "My son is a doctor in Oklahoma City," said Robinson. End result: Bolt and Robinson's son-doctor are next-door neighbors!

See y'all next year, Seniors and your Fair Ladies!!

Pampa girls trounce Borger

The Pampa girls' softball team advances into the finals of the District Senior softball tournament after a 40-3 trouncing of Borger Thursday.

Tara Hamby led Pampa at the plate with a home run and five doubles. Christy Plunk had four singles and a double.

Winning pitcher was Chastity Moody, who struck out nine, walked nine and allowed 11 hits.

Pampa meets Dumas tonight at 6 p.m. in the championship round at Claude. Pampa must defeat Dumas twice to win the title.

Court action is threatened over dog ban

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—A group of pit bull terrier owners have promised a court fight if the San Antonio City Council approves a proposed ban on the controversial dogs.

"We won't sit back and take it," Rebecca Shaw, president of the Austin-San Antonio Pit Bull Club, said Thursday.

A number of citizens and elected officials have asked for an ordinance barring pit bull terriers at San Antonio, according to Dr. Katharine Rathbun, director of the Metropolitan Health District.

A proposal drafted by Rathbun's staff concludes that American pit bull terriers and similar breeds originally were bred for fighting larger animals, such as bears and bulls, and are therefore dangerous to man.

The clause pertaining to pit bulls would make it illegal to keep or maintain a pit bull terrier, Staffordshire terrier, or any crossbreed of these two breeds, in the city limits.

Determination of the breed would be left to the city veterinarian, under the proposal.

The director of health could order the immediate destruction of any dog of a forbidden breed found within the city limits.

If the ordinance amendment passes, it will be tested in court immediately, Shaw said.

"Banning a breed is nothing but a canine holocaust," said Shaw, who, like other supporters of the breed, insists vicious dogs are made, not born.

Names in the news

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Actor Michael Caine has lost his attempt to have a California court hear his lawsuit accusing French film producers of breaking a promise to give him a leading role in the movie "The Name of the Rose."

The state Supreme Court refused Thursday to reinstate Caine's suit against Films Ariane, which produced the 1985 film in Europe.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Now playing, and playing and playing on pop radio stations everywhere is the first single released from Michael Jackson's first album in 4 1/2 years.

"I Can't Stop Loving You," a slow-to-medium-tempo duet with Siedah Garrett, is due in record stores Monday. The album, "Bad," will be released Aug. 31.

Top-rated KIIS AM and FM received about 50 calls per four-hour shift since first broadcasting the single at 10 p.m. Tuesday and is playing it 10 times a day, music director Jack Silver said Thursday.

Licia Torres, music director for KJLH, an urban contemporary station here, said "I Can't Stop Loving You" may have a short life on the top charts.

Heat exhausts concert-goers and threatens farm animals

By The Associated Press

Heat and humidity that overcame dozens of people at a Pennsylvania rock concert and killed thousands of chickens in Virginia lingered over much of the nation today, with only slight relief in sight.

Three deaths have been blamed on the heat since Monday, one each in South Carolina, Illinois and Nebraska.

The high humidity and temperatures in the 90s to near 100 began late last week, with a stalled high pressure system in the Southeast pumping hot, wet air up from the Gulf of Mexico.

The forecast today called for scattered showers and thunderstorms from heat-struck northern Iowa across Wisconsin and Michigan and in eastern New York state and northern New England.

Temperatures in the high 90s were forecast in Georgia today, after Thursday's 102-degree reading in Macon tied a 35-year-old record. Other highs were 100 in Albany, 101 in Augusta and Alma, and 102 in Waycross.

Columbia, S.C., and Charlotte, N.C., had highs of 101, and the temperature hit 100 as far north as Washington, D.C.

About 30 people were taken to hospitals and dozens more needed first aid, primarily for heat exhaustion, at an outdoor Bon Jovi rock concert attended by about 25,000 people at Hershey Park Stadium in Hershey, Pa., police said.

"It seems to have been very crowded, very hot. People were very excited. There was a lot of shoving and pushing going on. Apparently, in some places there wasn't very good control. Some of the kids were squeezed," said Hershey Medical Center spokesman John Vastyan.

At Pueblo, Colo., where the high Thursday was 105, a National High School Rodeo Finals contest-fairgrounds. She recovered by retreating to an air conditioned truck.

Business was up at Baltimore-area motels, where desk clerks said local residents were checking into air-conditioned rooms to beat the heat.

Canton, Ohio, bus drivers and mechanics threatened a wildcat strike over bus maintenance, with a prime complaint a lack of air conditioning. Fans were installed on some buses.

Farmers used fans and sprinklers to keep panting cattle and swooning chickens alive from Midwest feedlots to Dixie chicken farms.

Gordon Miller of Holly Farms, a chicken processor based in North Wilkesboro, N.C., estimated the company lost about 200,000 broilers this week, mostly in Virginia.

"The worst is yet to come, because the hens stop laying," he added.

The National Weather Service warned Nebraska and Iowa farmers to make sure animals in buildings or in transit have adequate ventilation and water.

"We've just come through the warmest first half-year in Iowa records—that's 115 years," said state climatologist Paul Waite. "June was a lot like July. Most of us thought we had July once already and now we're having it again."

Barge traffic on the Mississippi River remained blocked just downstream from Davenport, Iowa, because the channel wasn't deep enough. A 3,000-foot sandbar emerged because of meager water flow from tributaries.

Lake Ontario has been so warm that Niagara Mohawk Power Corp., which uses the lake water for coolant, said its Nine Mile Point 2 nuclear plant in upstate New York might have to shut down.

The American Electric Power System, which serves parts of seven states from Michigan to Virginia, broke a usage record Thursday that had been set the day before.

Mexico stops cattle shipments

EL PASO (AP)—Ranches and feed lots in Texas, New Mexico and the border Mexican state of Chihuahua may lose millions of dollars because Mexico is closing the border to cattle shipments, industry officials say.

The Mexican Commerce and Industrial Development Ministry closed the border to cattle shipments earlier this week, apparently because of a meat shortage in Mexico City, said Sigifredo Corral, head of the Chihuahua Cattlemen's Association.

The move came after "a decision was taken at the federal level ... to normalize a supply problem" in Mexico City, Lucila Dominguez Chica, assistant foreign trade representative at the commerce ministry office in Juarez, said Thursday.

The move stranded 2,500 calves in holding pens waiting to cross the border for fattening in U.S. pastures and feed lots, officials said.

Corral accused Mexico City butchers of trying to force ranchers in northern Mexico to sell beef on the domestic market for less than they can get from U.S. buyers.

"There's plenty of meat," Corral told the El Paso Times by telephone. "All you have to do is pay what it's worth."

He said cattle raisers in the northern Mexican states of Chihuahua, Sonora and Coahuila are calling for intervention by their state governments and the federal agriculture ministry to reverse the decision.

Corral said Mexico City consumers "don't even want our meat."
