Thin Clue Found In Train Robbery

By RAYMOND E. PALMER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON (AP) — A thin clue turned up today in the great train robbery — an unusual pair of handcuffs.

Detectives disclosed that the handcuffs used on the engineer and fireman in the $7 million Glasgow-London mail train holdup Thursday were of a type made by only one firm in Britain.

The company keeps records of all sales, a police spokesman said, "and in few days we shall be able to track down where and when these handcuffs were sold."

"It could be a very important clue, perhaps the biggest break we've had since the robbery," he added.

A stolen truck discovered in Ranby, about 150 miles north of the robbery, caused a flurry of excitement. At first it was reported that the truck contained empty mailbags. Later a detective said there were no bags aboard and, "There's nothing in it for us."

However, a police officer in Nottinghamshire — the county where the truck was found—insisted there was some evidence to connect the truck with the robbery. This apparently consited of some maps found in the cab.

London police made raids before dawn on homes of known criminals. A massive hunt was also organized in a 30-mile radius of Cheddington, where the train was raided.

Most of the loot, valued at 2,525,100 pounds — $7,070,280 — was in dog-eared but easily spendable paper currency that banks were shipping to London for repulping.

Scotland Yard described the suspect as a master planner who would be able to maintain almost military discipline in his gang.

Detectives said the man has not been seen in any of his usual haunts. They believe he may have sought to establish an alibi by leaving Britain several days before the Glasgow-London mail train was robbed Thursday at a lonely spot 40 miles northwest of London.

Interpol, the internatinal police organization, has been asked to search for the suspect in the holiday resorts of southern France and Spain.

SNYDER AREA OIL

Locations for three wildcats have been reported for the Snyder area. Two are in Stonewall County and the third is in Nolan County. A re-entered dry hole in Stonewall has been completed as a discovery.

James G. Brown & Associates of Midland No. 1 Covington is a 5,600-foot Strawn sand prospector, 20 miles north of Aspermont in Stonewall.

The drillsite is 467 feet from north and 2,250 feet from west lines of section 62, block F, H&TC survey. It is one mile northwest of the Bissett (Strawn) area, but separated from it by deep dusters.

Armour Properties of Wichita Falls plan No. 1 Thomas as a 7,300-foot Ellenburger exploration, four miles southwest of Maryneal in Nolan County.

It spots 1,190 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of section 99, block 1-A, H&TC survey and is four miles east of the Nena Lucia pool and 3¾ miles west of the Group, (West) Strawn area.

J. W. Hastings of Wichita Falls and others No. 1 Oscar Vanderworth is planned as a 5,100-foot project in Stonewall County, three miles northeast of Old Glory.

The drillsite is 1,080 feet from north and 2,520 feet from east lines of section 12, BBB&C survey and a north offset to the discovery of the two-well Mariann (5,050-foot Strawn sand) pool.

C. C. Parfet of Wichita Falls has completed No. 1 Leslie N. Brown as a Strawn sand discovery in Stonewall County, 16 miles north of Aspermont.

It pumped 127 barrels of 40-gravity oil per day from perforations at 5,443-49 feet. No stimulation was reported.

The location is 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 63, block F, H&TC survey. It is a re-entry of the former LF Oil Company of Houston No. 1 Brown, which was abandoned at total depth of 6,357 feet in May, 1952.

Parfet cleaned out to 5,520 feet and set 2⅞ - inch casing at that point for the Strawn completion.

The strike is one mile northwest of the Bissett Ranch (Strawn sand and conglomerate) field, but separated from it by dry holes.

T. D. Humphrey Jr., Dallas, set 4½-inch casing at 5,600 feet, five feet off bottom, for completion attempt in the Strawn sand through perforations in No. 1-C. W. F. Martin, section 2, block U, T&P survey, indicated location southwest extension and third producer in the Davan Strawn sand pool of Stonewall County.

Two-hour drillstem test of the Strawn at 5,4008½ to 5,413 feet returned 521 feet of gas and 80-feet of heavily oil-cut mud. Test of the same length at 5,431 to 5,451 feet recovered 1,600 feet of gas and 85 feet of oily mud.

President Attends Mass For Infant

BOSTON (AP)—President Kennedy attended a private Mass of the Angels today for his infant son, Patrick, in a chapel at the residence of his friend, Richard Cardinal Cushing, archbishop of Boston.

The President flew up this morning from Otis Air Force Base where Patrick was born Wednesday. The child died early Friday.

The cardinal said the special Children's Mass. He wore white vestments, unlike a regular funeral Mass when black vestments are worn.

The main theme of the Roman Catholic ritual for the mass of the Angels is: "Everlasting life to all children."

The ritual was established particularly for children who die before the age of reason — about seven years.

With the conclusion of the Mass the cardinal said: "This child shall receive a blessing from the Lord, and mercy from God, his salvation, for this is the grace of those who seek the Lord."

Later, solace could be found in the prayer: "Because of my innocence You have received me, and given me a place in Your sight forever."

The closing prayer reaffirmed the reassurance for the bereaved. It said: "Almighty and most loving God, for no merits of their own, as soon as they leave this world, You give everlasting life to all little children reborn in the font of baptism., as we believe that You have given it today to the soul of this little child."

Patrick was baptized shortly after birth.

Jacqueline Kennedy, 34, the First Lady, who gave birth to the premature baby by Caesarean section, did not accompany the President from Otis Air Force Base. She is still in the base hospital but is resting comfortably.

Accompanying the President were his two brothers, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and their wives; his three sisters and their husbands, Eunice and Sargent Shriver, Jean and Stephen Smith, Patricia and Peter Lawford; Mrs. Kennedy's mother, Mrs. Hugh D. Auchincloss and her husband, and Mrs. Kennedy's sister, Princess Lee Radziwill.

Rusk Hopes To Ease Tension In Germany

BONN, Germany (AP) — U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk arrived today to rally West German support for the limited nuclear test ban treaty and for the further East-West talks to ease cold war tensions.

West German Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder greeted Rusk here.

Rusk scheduled the 20-hour stopover partly to soothe West German apprehension over the limited test ban pact which Communist East Germany plans to sign. Bonn fears the treaty could be manipulated to force recognition of East Germany and seal the division of Germany.

West Germany wants assurance that the test treaty will not be used to jeopardize the freedom and security of West Berlin.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder were expected to insist to Rusk that the West receive such a guarantee before West Germany adheres to the treaty.

They were expected to make similar demands in considering Khrushchev's proposals to ease cold war tensions — an East-West nonaggression pact, reduction in military spending, and ground inspection teams on both sides of the Iron Curtain to guard against surprise attack.

Rusk planned to brief the West German leaders on his week of talks in the [illegible] returning to Washington Monday to drum up support for Senate ratification of the test ban treaty.

Rusk conferred with Khrushchev for 2½ hours Friday at the Soviet premier's lavish Black Sea retreat in a relaxed meeting followed by a fast game of badminton.

Khrushchev, 69, claimed victory over Rusk, 54. "Practice," Khrushchev said when Rusk told him, "You play well."

Among other things they discussed Germany, Berlin, trade, Laos, Cuba, and the nonaggression pact. Rusk said that no conclusions were reached and that negotiations will continue through normal diplomatic channels.

There evidently was no talk of a summit meeting.

Underscoring the relaxed mood, Khrushchev permitted western newsmen to enter his summer mansion for the first time. They got an eyeful.

The sun-drenched villa, obscured by an ugly 10-foot high concrete block wall, contains the latest in conveniences including an indoor swimming pool, a glass-enclosed gymnasium with oriental rugs on the floor, and an elevator on the outside of the two-story main house up to a sun roof.

Services Set For Mrs. Gill

Funeral services will be held at 4 p.m. Sunday in Bethel Baptist Church for Mrs. Lela C. Gill of Union. Mrs. Gill died at about 4:30 p.m. Friday in Snyder Hospital.

Rev. Marvin Rogers will officiate at the services, assisted by Rev. Thomas L. Nipp. Burial will be in Snyder Cemetery under the direction of Bell Funeral Home.

Mrs. Gill was born February 16, 1899, in Bell County, Texas. She was married to Harley O. Gill Aug. 12, 1922 in Belton Texas. They made their first home in Belton, and lived there until moving to Borden County in 1932. They have lived in Scurry County since [illegible]

Mrs. Gill is survived by her husband, Harley O. Gill of Union; three daughters, Mrs. Lela Louise Hembree, Mrs. Cherry L. Hembree, and Mrs. Bessie McCauley, all of Snyder; three sons, Ed, Leslie, and James, all of Snyder; one sister, Vern Gill, Cottonwood, Texas; two brothers, Loren W. Wisemen, Villeplatte, La., and Faye Wisemen, Florence, Texas; and 13 grandchildren.

Solons Pass On Most Of Tax Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — House writers have now passed judgment on most of President Kennedy's tax revision proposals, though their decision on the major tax cut part of his program still lies ahead.

The Ways and Means Committee has gone at least part way with Kennedy on most of the suggestions he made in the name of reducing inequities and bringing more income under tax so that rates could be cut more deeply.

But in terms of revenue, the committee has provided for only about one-third of what Kennedy proposed — about $1 billion, instead of more than $3 billion.

It still is expected to recommend a tax cut approaching Kennedy's net $10 billion-plus proposal. But because it has not broadened the tax base in the way he suggested, it will not be able to recommend the kind of rate reductions he advocated from the present range of 20 to 91 per cent. He proposed 14 to 65, but apparently both the bottom and the top levels, as set by the committee, will have to be higher.

For the offsetting revenue it sought, the administration relied heavily on one provision which never got off the ground in Congress: a proposal to cut down itemized deductions — for local taxes, interest, charity and the like—by allowing only the amount in excess of 5 per cent of a taxpayer's income.

The Treasury said this would bring in $2.3 billion a year, more than two-thirds of the total pickup it wanted.

This proposal proved almost universally unpopular among the legislators. The closest the committee came to it was to recommend disallowing deductions for state gasoline, liquor and cigarette taxes — although real estate, income and sales taxes still would be deductible. This is tagged for $500 million additional revenue.

Kennedy, while not suggesting any change in the 27½ per cent depletion allowance in the petroleum industry, called for changes in the factors on which depletion is calculated and other tax tightenings in the field of oil operations.

Unofficially, his recommendations were estimated as costing the industry up to $280 million a year in taxes. The committee approved a fraction of the package, estimated at $40 million.

Mid-Texas Gets Rains

By The Associated Press

Scattered thunderstorms dampened the Panhandle - Plains Saturday after good rains fell on Texas midlands Friday.

Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler claimed credit for the Central Texas rains after seeding thunderheads with dry ice.

The Weather Bureau predicted widely scattered thundershowers for every section Saturday with temperatures still in the torrid zones.

Except for the thundershowers in Northwest Texas Saturday, most of the state was clear to partly cloudy. Even where rain had not begun falling at 4 a.m. the Panhandle - Plains country was mostly cloudy.

Friday temperatures ranged up to 103 at Presidio with several points at the century mark and above. Precipitation reported to the weather bureu was topped by 1.79 inches at Junction.

Well-Known As Prober

SEN. ESTES KEFAUVER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Estes Kefauver, the ~~tall,~~ folksy Tennessean who campaigned in a coonskin cap and once nearly won the Democratic presidential nomination, died today of a ruptured heart vessel.

Death came in the predawn hours at Bethesda Naval Hospital and followed what doctors had described earlier as a "mild heart attack" after Kefauver left the Senate floor Thursday evening feeling ill.

Kefauver had observed his 60th birthday on July 26.

The death was announced by his administrative aide, Charles Caldwell.

Mrs. Kefauver and two of their three daughters, rushing back from a Denver vacation to be with him, arrived too late. Their plane landed just about the time the senator died at 3:40 a.m., an aide said.

Kefauver, Tennessee's senior senator serving his third straight six-year term, was as well known for his Senate investigations of crime, the drug industry and boxing as he was for his two unsuccessful campaigns for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1952 and 1956.

A big, friendly man, he had a wide campaign grin and reached out to shake any hand in sight. His softspoken voice seemed almost surprising, coming from his 6-foot-3, 200-pound frame.

"My name is Estes Kefauver," he would say in that soft voice. "I'm running for president of the United States. I hope you'll help me."

In 1952 he swept 14 of the 17 Democratic presidential preferential primaries.

At the national convintion in Chicago, Kefauver led on the first two ballots, but Adlai Stevenson, now U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, overtook him in the third and went on to win the nomination.

Kefauver tried and lost again to Stevenson for the 1956 nomination, but wound up winning the vice presidential spot on the ticket by defeating a rising young Democratic figure, Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts.

The Stevenson tickets lost both times to Republican Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Before entering the Senate, Kefauver had served more than nine years in the House.

Noted as a liberal on many matters, including civil rights legislation, he was one of the few Southerners in Congress to refuse to sign a manifesto attacking the 1954 Supreme Court school desegregation ruling.

Race In Britain Turns Into Farce

STRATFORD-ON-AVON, England (AP)—A five-way fight for the parliamentary seat vacated by disgraced War Minister John Profumo next week has elements of tragedy and farce.

The tragedy is the cause of Thursday's special election. Profumo resigned his cabinet post and parliamentary seat June 5. He admitted he had lied to the House of Commons when he said that he and call girl Christine Keeler were just good friends. The big lie left Profumo's promising career in ruins.

The farce is provided by a pop singer with shoulder - length hair who performs wearing leopard skin and buffalo horns and rejoices in the name of "Screaming Lord Sutch."

Four other candidates are a farmer, a journalist, an actor and an editor.

The farmer is Miles Blair, candidate of the British and Commonwealth Party which he founded last November.

The journalist is Angus Maude, [illegible] Conservative.

The actor is Andrew Faulds, Labor.

The editor is Derick Mirfin, 33, Liberal.

"Screaming Lord Sutch," real name David Sutch, 22, calls himself the national teen-age candidate.

Profumo, a Conservative, represented this constituency more than 13 years. In the last national election, in October 1959, Profumo polled 26,146 votes to 12,017 for the Labor candidate, his only opponent.

Thursday's voting will have little effect on Parliament. Conservatives and their supporters have 362 seats, Laborites and their supporters 256, and the Liberals 7.

But the balloting here might provide an indication of how voters are reacting to the Profumo sex and security scandal that rocked the government two months ago and still rumbles along.

COLORFUL CANDIDATE — "Screaming Lord Sutch," real name David Sutch, 22-year-old plumber, wore leopard skin and buffalo horns to attract attention in Feb. 1961, in Wembley, Meddlesex, England. Sutch, a pop singer who calls himself the national teen-age candidate, is one of five whose names appear on ballot for next Thursday's special election to fill the parliamentary seat vacated by disgraced War Minister John D. Profumo. (AP Wirephoto)

Eight Left Dead By Typhoon Bess

TOKYO (AP)—Typhoon Bess, the second to hit Japan this year, slipped out to sea today, leaving eight persons dead and an undetermined number of others missing.

The typhoon roared across southern Japan Friday, leaving havoc in her wake. A total of 29,378 persons were left homeless, police said, and 18 ships were sunk.

CERTIFICATE PRESENTED—Milam Fowler, right, was presented a certificate of merit by H. W. Cargile, president of West Texas State Bank and chairman of the district bankers committee of the Texas Bank and Trust Co. of Dallas. The award was presented to Fowler as the outstanding supervisor in the Upper Colorado Soil Conservation District for 1962. The presentation was made during the program at the Kiwanis Club luncheon Wednesday.

M. A. Fuller in the Fullerville (Strawn) Field of Scurry County.

The project, located 17 miles northwest of Snyder on the 18,799-acre lease, is spotted 467 feet from north and 1,793 feet from west lines of section 659, block 97, H&TC survey.

Permit depth is 7,650 feet.

Location in the Westbrook Field of Mitchell County has been staked by Coastal States Gas Producing Company of Abilene, No. 1-A L. E. A. Smartt is located four miles northwest of Westbrook.

Drillsite is spotted 467 feet from north and east lines of the southwest quarter of section 16, block 28, T-1-N, T&P survey.

Located on a 120-acre lease, proposed depth is set at 3,200 feet.

R. S. Anderson No. 2-36-A Morrison, section 35, block 29, T-1-N, T&P survey, has been completed in the Turner-Gregory (Clear Fork) Field of Mitchell County. It is located six miles west of Westbrook.

Daily pumping potential was 24 barrels of 27-gravity oil, plus 70 per cent water.

Producing perforations are from 2,419 feet to 2,825 feet, after treatment with 60,000 gallons.

Casing is set at 3076 feet, with the well bottomed at 3,077 feet.

• • •

Pan American Petroleum Corporation No. 5-A W. C. Weir, section 17, block U, T&P survey, has been gauged in the Frankirk (Canyon Sand) Field of Stonewall County.

Located five miles south of Aspermont, the well had a daily potential of 163.06 barrels of 41-3-gravity oil, pumping through two perforations per foot in the interval between 4,564 to 4,600 feet.

The producing zone had been treated with 500 gallons of acid, with pay topping at 4,467 feet.

A 4½-inch casing was set on bottom at 4,894 feet.

Gordon Oil Company of Abilene has filed application to drill a 5,500 foot rotary project in the Claytonville (5-200-foot Canyon sand) Field.

No. 1-C J. H. Morris is spotted 660 feet from north and east lines of section 190, block 3, H&TC survey.

It is located on an 80-acre lease eight miles southwest of Roby.

Weldon Guest and Herbert T. Moller of Wichita Falls, reperforated opposite the Noodle Creek lime at 4,272 to 4,280 feet, washed the section with 500 gallons of mud acid, treated it with 1,000 gallons of regular acid and resumed swabbing tests in No. 1 Harbacek, section 53, block 23, T&P survey, a former 7,402-foot Nolan County failure one mile west of Roscoe.

It originally was drilled by Keith Wells, Abilene, and plugged August 2, 1961.

Burk Royalty Company of Wichita Falls No. 1-B Hodnett is planned as a 7,600-foot Pennsylvanian exploration, 10 miles southwest of Ira in Northwest Mitchell County.

It is 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 89, block 97, H&TC survey and ½ mile east of the same concern's No. 1 Hodnett, an active wildcat which drilled to 7,560 feet and set 4½-inch casing at 7,488 feet for an attempt to complete a discovery from the Pennsylvanian.

No. 1-B Hodnett is a re-entry of the former Hunt Oil Company No. 1 Lucy K. Hodnett which drilled to 8,050 feet and was abandoned as a failure in July, 1952. Burk plans to clean out to 7,600 feet for a try to make a well.

C. L. Norsworthy, Jr., of Dallas completed No. 1-D Frost as a one-mile west extension to the north side of the rough Draw, North (Noodle Creek) pool in Kent County, 12 miles southeast of Clairemont.

On the 24-hour potential it flowed 292 barrels of 40-gravity oil through open two - inch tubing from casing notches at 4,128 and 4,131 feet. No stimulation was reported. Gas-oil ratio was 280-1.

The location is 1,980 feet from south and west lines of section 364, block 2, H&TC survey.

No. 1-D Frost was drilled to 6,700 feet as a Pennsylvanian wildcat. All horizons below the Noodle Creek were barren and it plugged back and set 4½-inch casing at 4,444 feet for the completion.

A ½-mile south and west extension to the Rough Draw, North (Noodle Creek) field of Kent County was virtually assured with the swabbing of 69 barrels of new oil and four barrels of load water in 11 hours at Texaco Inc., No. 1 Kent Fee, in section 41, block V, T&P survey, 15 miles southeast of Clairemont.

Recovery was through new casing notches at 4,102 and 4,106 feet. Testing continued.

Earlier it tested through perforations between 5,089-97 feet.

Gould Drilling Company has plugged and abandoned No. 1 Mary E. Goodwin, a re-entered wildcat, total depth 3,892 feet, it is 4½ miles south of Rotan, 1,980 feet from north and 2,650 feet from east lines of section 38, block 2, H&TC survey.

• • •

Robert Donnell No. 1 Fufus Herbst, Fisher county wildcat has been plugged and abandoned at total depth of 3,600 feet. It is four miles southwest of Sylvester, 550 feet west, thence 2,360 feet north of the southwest corner of section 42, block 1, H&TB survey, but in Noah Dees pre-emption survey (shown on some maps as J. Turnbough survey).

Standard Oil Company of Texas No. 1-13, Dell Barber, Mitchell County outpost, plugged at total depth of 1,600 feet, four miles northwest of Colorado City.

It is 1,980 feet from south and west lines of section 13, block 27, T&P survey.

LS&R Petroleum Company No. 1-23 R. H. Jordan, Nolan county wildcat, plugged at total depth of 4,023 feet, five miles northwest of Blackwell 660 feet from north and 710 feet from west lines of section 23, block 1-A, H&TC survey.

Scurry County outpost, John W. Ruwwe No. 1 Connie Longbotham, total depth 6,951 feet was plugged and abandoned. It is three miles north of Ira, 1,980 feet from south and west lines of section 155, block 97, H&TC survey.

Disturbances In Two Tributaries

By DARDEN CHAMBLISS
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The mainstream of American commerce flowed smoothly during the week but there were disturbances in two important tributaries—Wall Street and world trade.

Wall Streeters received the third and final instalment of the Securities and Exchange Commission report on market activity, finding some things they liked but others they considered controversial.

In world trade the threat of back-and-forth tariff retaliation was raised at the same time that debate continued over the problem of assuring that there is enough money-credit to support growing commerce.

Domestic business sentiment was cheered, meanwhile, by the way major indicators keep pointing upward.

Also, new assessments suggest that two domestic problems may be easing. The threat of a nationwide rail strike Aug. 29 continues, but meetings by union leaders over contract proposals are slated for Tuesday and some drew hope some hold-off plan could emerge. Also, though steel production continued to fall, encouragement grew that this decline will be reversed soon to meet construction and fall auto demands.

The SEC report on the stock market didn't cause a big initial stir. Wall Streeters welcomed its comments that there was apparently no manipulation or illegal activity in the big market break of May 1962. Still, some frowned at the idea of tighter control of mutual funds and at the closer supervision requested for other areas.

International trade circles were set abuzz by the U.S. announcement that it would retaliate against European Common Market imports if the markets persists in its refusal to lower levies against U.S. poultry. Some thought this hard line by the United States might shake loose concessions from the Common Market and actually improve trade prospects. Many others feared, however, that this would spark a retaliatory mood in Europe that could complicate tariff negotiations.

Domestic business, meanwhile, continues to reflect the glow cast by the automotive industry even as it shuts down for model changeover. Reports list sales of new cars in July at 603,000, against 511,700 a year previous and close to the all-time July record of 624,000 set in 1955.

Construction outlays didn't take the customary July drop, continued at June's high level for a seven-month total of $34.8 billion. That's 4 per cent higher than the same 1962 period.

Consumers boosted their installment debt in June again by almost exactly the same amount—$433 million—that they increased it in May, the Federal Reserve Board said.

Earnings and sales figures continued to disclose many records. Sears, Roebuck & Co. listed a 14.8 per cen trise in sales in the first half to a total of more than $250 miliion, a new high.

The steel industry continued as an equivocal element in business evaluations. Latest weekly production figures were the lowest for a nonholiday period since November at 1,782,000 tons, off 4 per cent. However, trade sources say an upturn should come soon as buyers deplete stocks they had built up against a strike that didn't come.

Briefly around the business scene: Price increases were posted for several aluminum products, including home siding, and for some brass items, while prices turned down on sugar and Midwestern gasoline. . . Congress continued to work out revisions of tax exemptions in preparation for a tax-cut proposal.

Leaking Chlorine Hospitalizes 350

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Dense clouds of chlorine gas escaping through a broken pipe from a railroad tank car billowed through a densely populated section of Northeast Philadelphia Friday, sending more than 350 persons to hospitals. There were no fatalities.

Many persons, some vomiting and screaming because of the searing fumes, tried to flee on foot and were overcome. Many of those stricken were unprotected firemen and policemen who went into the area on mercy missions.

Police said the chlorine, stored in liquid form in the tank car, started escaping when a pipe broke.

The car, a Pennsylvania Railroad tanker, apparently was rammed by another car, investigators said.

The leaking chlorine turned to a thick, yellow gas. Heavier than air, it was nudged through the neighborhood by a 10-mile-an-hour wind.

It was the second chlorine gas leak in Eastern Pennsylvania in two weeks. A leaking chlorine valve in a Reading swimming pool sickened 59 bathers July 26.

When unmasked firemen and police rescuers tried to enter the stricken area in Philadelphia, many fell in their tracks. William J. Eckles, deputy fire commissioner, said the gas was very toxic.

The leak started about 1:35 p.m. at the Wonder Chemical Co. the owner, Arnold Lanza, 50, was in his office when he smelled what he immediately recognized as escaping chlorine gas.

"I grabbed a mask I keep just for such emergencies, called for my 25 men to leave the plant and ran outside," he recounted.

Lanza said after he detected the escaping gas he saw that a one-inch copper pipe connecting the car and a vat had snapped at both ends. The chlorine was spilling onto the tank car, over the track and into the plant, which makes laundry bleach and detergents.

Shouting warnings as he ran around the plant, he scrambled up an embankment and turned off the valve.

Residents poured from buildings, including mothers carrying crying babies and searching for children at play.

The fumes grazed over a nearby swimming pool. "It burned us like fire," said one little girl. "When we jumped into the water, it hurt even worse."

Hospital emergency rooms soon were overflowing. About 70 persons were admitted.

A hospital spokesman said the gas vistims suffered shortness of breath, chest pains and sore throat.

Leaflet Drop Due In Plane Search

SEOUL (AP)—The U.S. Army plans to drop 50,000 leaflets over South Korea urging villagers to be on the lookout for any sign of an American plane missing since Sunday.

The plane was carrying five U.S. Army captains and one sergeant. It left Kansong on the east coast, 90 miles east of Seoul and was presumed to have headed southwest.

Shot Fired Into Home Of Estes

PECOS, Tex. (AP)— Someone shot into the living room window of the Billie Sol Estes residence late Friday night while the ex-promoter was in the room, officers reported today. Estes and his guests were not injured.

Ed Hersha of the Pecos police said the window has double panes and the bullet went through the outside pane but not the inner pane. It lodged between the two pieces of glass.

Officers said the bullet apparently was from a .22 caliber pistol.

In the room at the time were Estes, a brother, Bobby Frank Estes, and two out-of-town guests.

Bobby Frank Estes reported the shooting to police at 11:41 p.m. Friday.

Bobby Frank's residence is three or four blocks from his brother's.

Police and sheriff's officers said they believed the shot came from a stop sign some distance from the Estes home.

Billie Sol Estes is under two prison sentences totaling 23 years involving fraud in the sale of mortgages listing fertilizer tanks as collaeral when the tanks do not exist. His operations involved many millions of dollars in worthless mortgages. He was the subject of extensive congressional and state investigations.

Houston Vote Set On Pay Increase

HOUSTON (AP)—Voters decide Thursday whether city employes get the 8 1-3 per cent pay increase they asked.

The Tax Research Association says a pay increase will mean added taxes or limitation of city services.

The report agreed with one issued earlier by Mayor Lewis Cutrer.

The City Council had voted a 5 per cent pay raise for the employes.

Stillwater Logs 138 MPH Winds

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — Winds clocked at 138 miles per hour ripped through Stillwater Friday and left damage across the city.

Roofs were ripped from several houses, trees were torn from the ground, auto windshields were smashed by gravel and airplanes were tossed around at the airport.

Two minor injuries were reported.

Police Investigate 2 Traffic Mishaps

The Snyder Police Department investigated two traffic accidents Friday. A mishap occurred at 8:15 a.m. at Avenue Q and Twenty-sixth Street between a 1959 Chevrolet pickup driven by Henry Wenetschlaeger of Snyder, and owned by Lone Star Gas Company, and a 1957 Dodge, driven by John C. Ezell of Snyder. There was about $75 damage to the pickup and $150 damage to the Dodge.

An accident occurred at 7:48 p.m. at Avenue G and Twenty-fifth Street. Involved were a 1957 Chevrolet driven by James E. Neblett of Hermleigh and a 1963 Chevrolet driven by Charles Edward Pace, Snyder. About $100 damage was done to both cars.

Dear Abby...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: A person goes to a physician. First comes the examination, then the diagnosis. Then the physician writes out a prescription for medication. Right? So why does the patient take the prescription to the druggist and ask, "What is this prescription for?" Doesn't he know WHY he went to the doctor? Doesn't he know that most M.D.'s prefer that the patient ask HIM what the medication is for? And that most medication has a wide range of application? And that pharmacists aren't supposed to give medical advice? Also, why do some patients ask the druggist, "Can't you give me HALF a prescription, and if I need more I'll come back"? They don't ask the doctor for half an examination, do they? Or the shoe clerk for one shoe, saying if it satisfies him he'll be back to get the other one? Please tell your readers that the physician prescribe the amount HE thinks the patient should have. Thanks a million.

HENRY THE DRUGGIST

DEAR HENRY: All right: Confidential to everybody: "Rx—PRN" which means, "Take this advice when needed."

DEAR ABBY: I have a very good friend who is cray about BINGO. She always asks me to go to Bingo games with her, and I go, but I don't enjoy it. You see, she is a highly emotional woman, and she beats on me, pounds on me, yells and plays four cards at once. She causes such a big racket in the place and makes us both conspicuous. How can I get out of going to Bingo with her? I enjoy her company everywhere else. I wouldn't hurt her feeling for the world.

A. A.

DEAR A. A.: You don't have to tell your friend WHY you don't want to go to Bingo games with her any more. Just tell her you don't want to go.

DEAR ABBY: What do you do with a man who refuses to eat store - bought bread? Meet my husband. His mother lived for her family. Her whole life was cooking and baking and she spoiled them all so bad nobody could match her. (She died at 38— worked herself to death.) My husband says storebought bread tastes like wallpaper paste. I've tried different bakeries and even the frozen kind, but if it came from a store my husband turns up his nose at it. Am I wrong for refusing to stand and bake bread when you can buy it in the bakery?

BUSY

DEAR BUSY: Some bakery breads are far better than what mother used to make, but that's not the point. Your husband undoubtedly has the nostalgic aroma of freshly - baked bread, the security of his childhood and the taste of Mamma's goodies all mixed up in his memories. Just for the fun of it, try to bake bread. And after that your husband might beg you to buy it.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: My husband thinks I am deaf, dumb and blind. Last week he forgot to turn the mileage back on his car and he went over 100 miles in one day. It was his day off and I am sure he didn't go alone. I haven't said anything to him about it yet, but his birthday is coming soon and then I am going to give him the surprise of his life.

NO FOOL

DEAR NO FOOL: Why wait until his birthday? Lower the boom while the facts are fresh. If you wait, YOU could get the surprise of yours.

OUR VIEW

Effects Of Science Still Growing In Farm Industry

Science has become an integral part of just about every type of endeavor and few of them more so than farming.

Here in Scurry County a soil survey has been underway for many months. When it is completed, agricultural interests will have access to valuable information to bolster a scientific approach to land use.

Now, there is word from the Texas A&M College Extension Service that a much quicker method is in sight for determining the extent of salt accumulation in cotton fields. The new system will involve aerial photography, using infrared film and a dark red filter. It is said that saltiness of cotton fields to a depth of four feet can be recorded in such photos. This will eliminate laboratory tests on large numbers of soil samples.

On another front, science has developed a new industry in connection with cotton harvesting. A bare 15 years ago about 2,000 farms in 50 Texas counties used defoliants or desiccants to facilitate mechanical harvesting of cotton. Last year, such aids were used on 82,219 farms in 164 Texas Counties. This represented 4,750,000 acres of cotton and cost of the defoliants and desiccants was estimated at more than $17-million.

The mechanical or scientific trend in the cotton harvest has decreased the number of laborers needed for such chores, but at the same time has created a demand for machinery and chemicals.

The rapid change is characteristic of our era as man continues to seek more efficient and more profitable methods of production.

Globke's Disputed Career Near End

By CARL HARTMAN

BONN, Germany (AP) — Hans Globke, who helped shape Nazi rules against the Jews and then became Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's right-hand man, is nearing retirement. His has been one of the most disputed careers in postwar Germany.

Globke is a Roman Catholic who saved some Jews. During the Nazi period he had to face the agonizing decision: Should I stay on in my job or let some fanatic Nazi take my place? He stayed on. He says he thinks he did right.

The East German Communist regime sentenced Globke to life in prison in July. There was no question of his appearing for the trial; in Bonn it was considered a propaganda show.

To many critics who are not Communists, Globke represents a shameful tolerance of men compromised through service to Adolf Hitler. Adenauer's defenders say Globke and others like him did their duty under the Nazis and are innocent of crime.

Globke is a chubby, unobtrusive-looking bureaucrat with a receding hairline, rimless glasses and a double chin.

"I'm not as important as people think," he likes to say.

Germans disagree. He reaches the retirement age of 65 Sept. 10 after holding West Germany's top civil service job for over a decade. It is roughly like the job Sherman Adams held under President Eisenhower, a sort of assistant chief executive.

When the Nazis took over in 1933 Globke was a bright young man in the Prussian Ministry of the Interior. He became a specialist in nationality questions.

He helped draft enforcing regulations for laws that denied Jews citizenship and many other rights. His enemies say this helped lay the legal basis for the Nazi extermination program.

Globke says he did everything he could to ease the laws. Many witnesses, Jewish and non-Jewish, back him up. Konrad Cardinal Preysing, the late Roman Catholic bishop of Berlin, wrote that Globke risked his own life to help the persecuted. To the cardinal, he was a valued agent of the church inside the government. He never joined the Nazi party.

Retired Colonel Is Honored In Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Retired Col. Larry Dennis of Dayton, Ohio, was presented a medal and made an honorary member of the Mexican Air Force Friday for saving a Mexican pilot.

Dennis received the honors from Minister of Defense Agustin Olachea Aviles; A U. S. Air force Sec. Eugene Zuckert watched.

The man Dennis saved, Guillermo Garcia Rambis, embraced Dennis and said repeatedly "Gracias, Gracias."

The Mexican pilot had parachuted from his plane during a storm after running out of fuel on returning from a Phillipines mission in 1945. Dennis landed his amphibious plane to pick him up.

Oilmen Will Seek Stricter Control

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP) — A group of Texas independent oil operators plan to take a 16-mile trip by charter bus next week while seeking stricter federal controls for oil imports.

A system under which up to 30,000 barrels of oil are imported daily from Mexico long has irritated the 6,500-member Texas Independent Producers & Royalty Owners Association.

Next Saturday's bus trip has been designed to permit policy makers of TIPRO to make an on-the-spot check on a unique combination of tanker and truck transportation which permits Mexican oil to enter the United States without being affected by federal controls.

Association officials describe the tanker-truck combination as "subterfuge" and "circumvention."

The oil is shipped by tanker from Tampico to Brownsville. Trucks carry the oil eight miles from Port Brownsville to Matamoras. Once in Matamoras, however, the truck drivers simply turn around, drive back across the Rio Grande and unload their cargo in Brownsville.

The return trip across the Brownsville-Matamoras bridge qualifies the Mexican oil for exemption from federal controls. The mandatory oil imports control program imposes no quotas on imports received overland from Canada and Mexico.

Johnny Mitchell, TIPRO president from Houston, says the U-turn truck traffic in Matamoras plugged by administrators of the controls program.

The association executive committee and policy committees begin a three-day meeting Thursday in Brownsville. Mitchell added the Brownsville-Matamoras bus ride to the Saturday program.

"We want to witness first hand one of the more glaring loopholes in a still unsuccessful oil imports program," Mitchell said.

W. E. Turner, association executive vice president from Austin, said the Mexican shipments typify loopholes which the administration should review and correct.

The association is more concerned about the system being used for the Mexican shipments than the amount of oil involved. Total U.S. crude oil imports averaged 1,126,000 barrels a day last year, including 233,000 a day from Canada and only 10,000 daily from Mexico.

Hot Checkers To Face Jail Terms

AUSTIN (AP) — Hot check passers; A jail sentence is waiting for you.

On Aug. 23, the Texas law changes with a tightening up on merchants and hot check passers.

The legislature changed the law to provide that a persona passing a "hot check" will receive a mandatory jail sentence. If convicted the easiest a person convicted of passing a hot check can get off is with a $1 fine and a day in jail. However, first offenders could be given up to two years in jail and a fine of $1,000. Penalties apply to all checks less than $50.

The passing of a check of more than $50 comes under the state's felony laws.

Merchants will also share some expense because of the new law.

Under present statutes, a merchant could say he gave notice to the check passer by telephone or in a letter. The new law says he must have notification of at least 10 days that the check is not good. Then he must send a "registered" letter to the person notifying him of the hot check. If payment isn't made and the person is convicted, then comes jail.

Second and third offense convictions for checks less than $50 remains the same as the present law. Another change takes away jurisdiction of justice of the peace courts for bad checks less than $5.

Justice courts will no longer have any jurisdiction in bad check cases.

Rep. Willis Whatley of Houston wrote the bill. The measure first provided that $25 checks would come under the felony provisions of the law, but the legislature refused to pass the bill in this form.

Travis County Dist. Atty. Tom Blackwell said the registered mail provision may add some expense to merchants, but so far he has not had any complaints.

"We have had some education programs here, and merchants are cooperating by requiring better identification of check writers," he said. "But the bad check problem is still one of our biggest headaches."

Perry Mason Gives Advice To Judges

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Association of Municipal Judges got some advice and suggestions today from attorney Perry Mason — and in no uncertain terms.

Speaking "only as layman — and as a citizen, television actor Raymond Burr told the third annual conference of the association that "the courts are not the exclusive property of the bar, or of the bench."

"Without our (laymen's) understanding and acceptance, the laws which you apply and the courts in which you preside cannot continue to exist."

Burr spoke to the judges on "my interest in good courts" and said "it is as Raymond Burr—not as Perry Mason—that I am here today." He said "this must be stated clearly since Perry's 'interest in good courts' is substantially different from my own."

The actor said that "every defendant appearing in your municipal courts should be represented by counsel."

He repeated a proposition made in November 1959 to a regional meeting of the American Bar Association in Memphis:

"That the Bar should provide counsel in every court in this land for persons charged with traffic offenses."

"If you are vigilant in protecting the rights of the people of your communities, then the rights of all Americans are safe indeed."

Burr said he has had "many experiences in courthouses and courtrooms which disturbed me and undermined my respect for you as judges. These experiences may not have occurred in your courtrooms, but to the extent that my respect for any judge is destroyed, my respect for all judges is lessened."

"I may sympathize with him, but I find it difficult to respect him. I keep wondering how the situation developed and why he permits it to continue."

Burr explained "the process of judging the judges:"

—"Do you show respect for human dignity? I have seen courtrooms which resemble the production line in a packaging plant. There is no respect for human dignity on the production line."

—"Like other citizens, I resent harshness and brusqueness, particularly when displayed by a judge."

Johnson To Speak

HOUSTON (AP) — Vice President Lyndon Johnson will be among the speakers when 2,000 mayors and city councilmen meet in Houston the next four days to discuss economics and new ideas for cities.

Committee meetings for the American Municipal Association began Saturday.

Johnson is to speak at a Tuesday luncheon. The Chamber of Commerce will honor the vice-president at a Monday luncheon.

Mayor Lewis Cutrer of Houston is president of the municipal association that represents about 13,000 towns.

Cutrer and Gov. John Connally are to speak at Monday's opening session.

Uncharted Area Of Peru Is Explored

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Americans have been dropped by parachute onto Peru's wild Vilcambamba plateau to spearhead exploration of the uncharted region 10,300 feet high in the Andes mountains.

The National Geographic Society, which has joined with the New York Zoological Society to sponsor the expedition, said it received a brief message Friday from the two chutists — G. Brooks Backeland, 42, and Peter R. Gimbel, 35, both New Yorkers.

Backeland and Gimble hope to find a place that can be used as a landing strip so other members of the party can fly in to the plateau, about 250 miles east of Lima.

Pre-Release Centers For Convicts Due

By ANITA BREWER
Austin Statesman Staff Writer

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — To a man kept apart from the world for 10, 15 or 20 years, the little things in life can be frightening and confusing.

Chances are he has forgotten:

How to dial a telephone.

How to drive a car or maneuver it in heavy traffic.

How to buy a car or a washing machine on installment payments.

How to understand babies he left at home who now are teenagers or older.

That is why the Department of Corrections is setting up pre-release centers for convicts.

"We are already moving men into the centers — men who will be going home in six months," says Dr. George Beto, director of the department. The centers will be in full operation in another three weeks.

Harlem, Ferguson and Goree prisons will be used for the pre-release centers.

For six months before a prisoner is released, he lives in a relaxed atmosphere. Security is less stringent — fewer guards and more visiting privileges.

When families visit the prisoner who is about to be freed, they may sit around picnic tables together. No longer must every conversation be conducted in a prison setting.

The last two months before release, the prisoners will hear lectures on how to get a job and how to keep one, how to borrow money, how to lick the alcohol problem, how to rejoin church and community, how to rejoin a family or how to buy a car.

Tips will be given on manners and courtesy, personal health habits, how to dress reasonably and attractively when they leave behind forever the starched prison whites.

"The idea," says Beto, "is to give the prisoners more than $50 and a suit of clothes when they leave here. The aim is to give them a preview of the world outside so they won't walk in it as strangers."

Grand Jury Returns 30 Indictments

The Grand Jury, in session most of the past week, returned a total of 30 indictments against 16 persons.

Joe Arther Phillips was indicted on seven counts of forgery and passing a forged instrument, and two counts of forgery. Margaret Boyd was indicted on five counts of forgery and passing a forged instrument. Bonnette M. Turland was indicted on forgery and passing a forged instrument, and forgery and possession of a forged instrument.

Dale Kelly was indicted on one count of theft of property over the value of fifty dollars, and one count of contributing to the delinquency of a minor. The latter case was transferred to County Court.

Ohter indictments and defendants: Andres Trevino, assault with intent to murder; Juan Sachez, assault with intent to murder; Oscar Cecil Simmons, assault with intent to murder; Charles Climmer, kidnapping; Johnny D. Mills, burglary; Cecil Wayne Simon, burglary; Bill Bryan, burglary; Raymundo Medrano, attempted rape; Riley Austin, driving while intoxicated (second offense); and Ira Luther Pinkerton, driving while intoxicated (second offense).

Two other indictments were brought for swindling by worthless check and removal of mortgated property, but the defendants are not yet in custody.

The Grand Jury consisted of Bill Brown, Jimmy G. Cornett, Joe Grover, T. C. Herrera, Daniel Johnson, H. A. Johnson, Jr., Frank LeFeuvre, H. B. Lemons, James W. Mathis, Martin Murphy, Morell Roggenstein, and Cullen Toombs.

Boycott Of Motel Is Urged By Union

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas AFL-CIO has urged a national union boycott of a swank Austin motor hotel that formerly employed Booker T. Bonner, a Negro who led demonstrations here.

Publicity man Lyman Jones wrote a letter to the manager of the Capri Motel Friday saying the union was cancelling an Aug. 16 reservation and it will "make no further reservations."

The action was taken, the letter said, because of the dismissal of Bonner, a part-time waiter there. Bonner sat in the governor's office, demanding a showdown on civil rights.

Tortilla Makers Eye Automation

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Automation is threatening the jobs of 150,000 woman who make tortillas, and a union is asking the government to ban any more machines which produce this basic food item.

The Confederation Nacional de Organizaciones Populares has appealed to the Ministry of Industry to order agents throughout the country to ban any more tortilla machines.

Si Steinberg Is Reopening His Realty Business Here

Back in July, 1954, S. S. (Si) Steinberg opened the Highland Realty Co. on the Big Spring Highway.

And again this week, Steinberg is reopening the office. It has been closed for about two years because of Steinberg's inability to remain as active as he would want to be in the business. Personal business, including some deaths in the family, made it imposible for him to be here for a time, but now Mr. Steinberg is back, and is once again able to devote full time to the business.

As one would expect, the realty office is located on the Big Spring Highway. Steinberg's faith in that area was demonstrated back in 1950 when he and Mrs. Steinberg came here from Missouri and purchased 100 feet of land on the road. At that time there was not a single business south of the Twenty - eighth Street bridge on the Big Spring Highway.

Their first business venture on the highway was Highland Park Cleaners, and the original cleaners and grocery building were later enlarged and unified into a larger supermarket building.

The cleaners and grocery building was leased to two partners later that year. About the same time, the late Jack Terry built a service station at Thirty - seventh Street on the highway, and Gordon's Highlander restaurant, which recently burned, was built.

Also about this time, the highway was paved for the first time. "That was the beginning of a fast-growing business area," Steinberg said.

Later Steinberg purchased more land on the highway and built another building for Highland Park Cleaners, and the firm moved from the original location into the new quarters.

Steinberg also purchased land on the east side of the highway from the late Dr. and Mrs. J. O. Broaddus, who had dreamed of someday establishing a clinic on the site.

"In keeping with the dream of Dr. Broaddus, we did the next thing to putting a clinic out here when we built a drug store and dentist office building, Steinberg said.

Development of the Big Spring Highway business section was not always smooth sailing for the Steinbergs.

"We didn't even have any sewer, water or gas lines to this area, and it wasn't in the city limits when we started our first building," he said.

"Many persons told us when we started our first building that we were really sticking our necks out, and that we would have a hard time making a go of it way out here in the country," Steinberg said.

But now as proof of his vision, more than 70 business firms are located on the Big Spring Highway, "way out in the country."

In 1959 Steinberg served as president of the Snyder Real Estate Board.

13 Persons Perish In 3 Mishaps

By The Associated Press

Thirteen persons perished in three auto collisions on West Texas highways Friday night. Seven died in a single crash near Levelland.

A head-on collision near Slaton killed three women. Three men died in another near Pampa, Texas.

Six of those killed in the Levelland accident on 116 were in one car. The lone occupant of the other car was also killed. A girl, 11, was the only survivor.

The two-car crash occurred just before dark.

Killed were J. C. Reed, 52, of Levelland and six residents of Post.

The other victims were John Nelson, 45; his wife, Vivian, 44; two Nelson children, Nancy, 5, and John Jr., 3; Mrs. Coda Parrish Cook, 64, and one of Mrs. Cook's daughters, Coda Lee.

Charlene Nelson, 11, was listed in extremely critical condition at Lubbock.

The Slaton accident occurred within minutes of the one at Levelland.

Killed in the pileup a mile north of Slaton on U.S. 84 were Alice Lester Buck of Lubbock, Nancy Lee Thatcher, 18, of Spur, and Mrs. Gay Thatcher Atkinson, 22, also of Lubbock.

All the dead were in one car. Three men in the second auto were not seriously injured.

A Pampa couple and a man from Panhandle died in the wreck at Pampa, which is about 120 miles north of Lubbock.

They were Ward Kelley, 32; his wife, Joan, 32, and Carroll Cleo Lisenbee, 38.

New Boston Man Is Killed In Mishap

BROWNWOOD (AP) — Jimmy Williams, 53, of New Boston in Northeast Texas died Saturday of injuries suffered last night in a collision three miles east of here on U.S. 67.

Larry Eustace of San Angelo, the other driver, suffered cuts. His mother, Mrs. Lydia Flynn, had a broken foot and ankle.

VISITORS TO THE OPEN HOUSE Sunday afternoon at 2902 Denison will especially enjoy this modern kitchen. The house is offered for sale by S. S. (Si) Steinberg and the Highland Realty Co. The Realty office, located at 4006 Big Spring Highway, is being reopened by Steinberg this week.

North Wins In Defensive Battle

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

HOUSTON (AP)—A tumultuous 38 seconds during which three touchdowns were scored as the North won over the South 15-7 pulled the annual all-star football game of the Texas Coaching School out of the "worst" category Friday night.

A thrilling 53-yard touchdown run with an intercepted pass by Terry Southall of Brownwood—considered the big play of the game—and a subsequent 94-yard scoring jaunt with the kickoff by mighty Jim Helms of San Benito made the 29th meeting of the storied series one to be remembered.

The crowd of 20,000 would have been witnessing probably the poorest game of them all had not those things happened.

It was a great occasion for Gene Mayfield of Borger. He was elected president of the Texas High School Coaches Association, which sponsors the coaching school; his North team won the game, and his tackle, John LaGrone, was voted outstanding lineman of the contest.

The North was staging an upset although it leads in the series 16 games to 10 with 3 ties.

For 37 minutes, the teams struggled to a scoreless deadlock with neither posing a serious threat to score. Just as the third period was ending, Mike Jordan of Denison, voted outstanding back of the game with 61 yards rushing and fine defensive work, intercepted a pass from Dennis Gann of Bay City and ran it back 22 yards to the South 45.

Mike Love of Odessa Permian and Bob Leach of Jacksboro pounded to the South 29. Here, Malcolm Lewis of Marshall passed to Bobby Goodrich of Dallas Woodrow Wilson for 20 yards and Love swept left end to the one. The South was penalized to its 1½ foot line for offside. Then Lewis rammed left guard for the touchdown.

Southall missed the try for point but just 21 seconds later he intercepted a pass from Vic Castillo of San Antonio Brackenridge and ran it back 53 yards to what proved to be the deciding touchdown.

Then came Helm's great scoring kickoff return—the first in All-Star game history—and the game was pulled out of the doldrums in a flash.

The North dominated the game but found the massive South line tough to crack in the clutch. The North rolled up 220 yards total offense to only 27 for the South. The latter could gain only five yards rushing.

Rains Needed To Save Texas Deer

By The Associated Press

"There is better than an even chance we will come out all right on our deer crop," says Eugene Walker of the game commission.

Walker stressed that unless a good general rain falls before Sep. 30, there could be a serious die-off of Texas deer and other wildlife.

"But we usually get some good rains in September," he says.

"Game is holding up pretty good in the dry areas, particularly in the deer country where there was a good persimmon crop. In other areas the deer have a good crop of mesquite beans. There was a good fawn crop and the old does are still nursing them pretty well."

Walker, a top game man, said drying up creeks and stock tanks may cause some deer to move out of their home range. "Some farmers will begin seeing deer around their windmills looking for water," he said, "but most of them will find water somewhere."

Late hatches of quail may find rough going.

Wild turkeys probably will fare all right, Walker said, because they are big enough to travel considerable distances looking for food and water.

There's another angle this year that may have considerable effect on the deer crop, Walker says. The screwworm fly eradication apparently is working successfully in cutting down wildlife losses as conservationist predicted. In previous years large numbers of deer fall victim to screwworm infestation.

"Then this dry weather helps control the screwworm flies," Walker said. "Wounds heal faster, flies can't find a harboring place, and flies just reproduce faster and better in wet weather.

"So far we have had no serious losses reported either from drought die off or screwworm," Walker said.

The Game Commission official said that the Llano area, which had an unusually large die-off last year, apparently is bouncing back this year. "There was a big fawn crop and I hear they are going fine. Of course there may not be many big bucks this year but if they last through this next season, that means they will be big bucks next year."

The East Texas Wildlife Conservation Association says it is making rapid progress toward making wild game once again plentiful in the East Texas woodland. "We can all remember when we started out with no deer. Today the estimate is more than 2,000 head on our protected leases," says Nick Mitchell, president. "When we started out wild turkeys were only a memory. Today, they are real and while they cannot be hunted, they are all over our leases, numbered in the thousands. There are squirrel and other game and the natural habitat to lure an increasing number of game birds."

The Sportsman's Clubs of Texas says that 11,000 acre Dolores ranch near Laredo will be open for bow-hunting of Deer Oct. 10-31. The regular gunning season opens Nov. 16.

Sikeston Leads In Connie Mack Tourney

BRYAN (AP)— Sikeston, Mo., appeared headed for the championship of the Southeast Region Connie Mack Tournament after it captured two victories Friday night.

Sikeston downed Hearne 1-0 and Corpus Christi 3-2 to remain unbeaten in the double-elimination tournament.

The boys from Missouri will play the winner of the Fort Worth-Hearne game today. Both Fort Worth and Hearne have lost one.

Fort Worth stayed in contention with an 8-5 victory over Pine Bluff, Ark., in a 14-inning affair. The loss was Pine Bluff's second.

Jockey Wayne Chambers, who rode 172 winners during 1962, will ride out the summer at the Atlantic City, N.J., racetrack.

Close Conference Race Predicted

HOUSTON (AP)—A closer race than last year when Texas and Arkansas dominated was forecast Friday when Southwest Conference football coaches were interviewed at the Texas Coaching School.

Texas Coach Darrell Royal and Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles didn't think their teams would be any better than last season, if as good, but the other coaches all indicated they expected to be stronger.

Royal said he would miss his two linebackers, Pat Culpepper and Johnny Treadwell, and that he had six boys on the injury list.

Broyles said he would have to do a lot of coaching both ways as a result of the new substitution rule. Last year, he declared, only three boys were used on both offense and defense.

Coach Hank Foldberg of Texas A&M said he would have a better team because he knew his personnel better now that he was in his second year.

"We will be stronger in all departments," he declared.

Coach Abe Martin of Texas Christian said "we feel real good about our football team. We have no great breakaway runner nd we do not have extra good speed but it's a team of good football players.

"It will probably be a better running team than last year," Martin declared.

John Conley, assistant coach at Texas Tech, said the Red Raiders would be better because of more speed and more experienc although they still would be quite young compared to other college teams. A dearth of interior linemen is the principal weakness, Conley said.

Hayden Fry, coach of Southern Methodist, said his team would be faster but would lack depth. He added that while he had made 17 position changes last year he would make only five this season, indicating his team would be in better position to open the campaign.

Coach Jess Neely of Rice said his team would be big enough, not as fast as desired but not slow, the passing would be better with Walter McReynolds at the throttle, there would be good receiving, there would be no breakaway runner but still "we'll have strong running," and that his No. 1 problem was to improve the over-all defense.

Coach John Bridgers of Baylor said the team "would be a whole lot different" and that "we have a chance to have a good football team." He praised his passing quarterback Don Trull as "one of the smartest boys I've ever coached."

Borger Loses In Baseball Tournament

LUBBOCK (AP) — Houston defeated Borger 1-0 and Edinburg whipped Lubbock Stressers 6-2 here Friday night in the State National Baseball Congress Baseball Tournament.

Houston's victory eliminated the Borger entry, and Edinburg will not play again until Monday's championship finals. Other teams play tonight and Sunday in the losers' bracket.

Houston plays Seminole at 2 p.m. today before Lubbock's Hubbers play the Lubbock Stressers at 8 p.m.

Both losers in today's games will be eliminated and the winners will play at 7:30 p.m. Sunday for the right to play Edinburg in the championship finals.

Reliever Bob Cleboskie was the winning pitcher in the Houston-Borger clash when a double by Harvey Angelo produced the winning run in the bottom of the ninth.

Marshall Ott, the Houston starter, struck out 13 men and allowed only 5 hits before Cleboskie took over in the ninth.

Edinburg pitcher Lupe Canul won his own game with a homer and two-run double to make the difference. Edinburg scored four runs in the eighth inning on two hits and three errors by the Lubbock Stressers.

Houston All-Stars Little League Champs

EL CAMPO (AP)—The North Houston National All-Stars became the Little League champions of Texas Friday night when they defeated Waco 1-0.

The win enables the Houston team to compete Aug. 16 in the Southern Region Tournament at Norfolk, Va.

The victory came on the no-hit pitching of Mike Smithey and the batting of Nolan Anderson.

San Antonio defeated Pecos 4-3 for third place.

Fort Worth Wins In Pony League Action

FORT WORTH (AP) — West Side Lions of Fort Worth took the opening game of Pony League Regional doubleheader Friday night 7-6 over El Paso.

Fort Worth's East Side Lions dropped the second game 4-2 to Tulsa.

Tonight, El Paso plays East Side with Tulsa and West Side playing later.

Underwood Wins Golf Championship

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Hal Underwood of Del Rio, shooting one under par in Friday's State Junior Golf Championship, won the tournament with a 4 and 3 victory over Vincent Glowacki of La Marque.

The 37th annual Texas Junior Golf Tournament was held at Brackenridge Park.

Finals Set For Babe Ruth Tourney

EL PASO (AP)—Roswell, N.M., meets Tulsa, Okla., tonight for the championship of the Babe Ruth Regional Tournament here.

First-round loser Roswell stayed alive Friday night as Mike Newsom pitched a one-hit shutout to whip Opelousas, La., 4-0.

The University of Arizona basketball team leads its long series with Arizona State, 81-38.

Snyder Eagles Will Play Lubbock Today

The Snyder Eagles will meet the Lubbock Hubbers in a baseball game Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in Winston Park. This is the first time that the two teams have met this year.

Archie Thompson is scheduled to start on the mound for the Eagles and Jerry Williams will be the starting catcher.

This will be the sixth game of the year for the Eagles. They have won three and lost two.

Cleveland Williams To Meet Kirk Barrow

HOUSTON (AP)—Big Cleveland Williams of Houston, third ranking heavyweight, tangles with quick Kirk Barrow of Spokane, Wash., in a 10-round boxing match Tuesday night.

Barrow is expected to weigh 188, Williams 215.

Barrow has a 27-9-1 record since turning pro in 1958.

Williams has one of the best knockout records in boxing, 46 knockouts in his 56 fights. He has lost only four bouts and two of those were knockout losses to champion Sonny Liston.

San Antonio To Meet El Paso In Colt Game

HOUSTON (AP)—South San Antonio advanced to the Southwestern Region Colt League Tournament Friday night, defeating Galveston 8-4.

San Antonio will meet El Paso Monday in Abilene. The winner will be the champion of the Southwest area.

Everything New Except The Results

By The Associated Press

The New York American Football League club has a new name, a new owner, a new coach, and a considerably shuffled roster. Only the result remains the same.

The Jets, making their new-name, new-look debut under Coach Weeb Ewbank, took a 17-0 lacing from the Houston Oilers Friday night at Shreveport, La., in one of two exhibition games on the pro football schedule. While the Jets were acting like the old Titans, the defending AFL champions, now the Kansas City Chiefs, whipped the Buffalo Bills 17-13 in the other game.

Ten of the 14 National Football League teams swing into action today in one day game and four night games. The American League winds up its second weekend of exhibitions with Boston at San Diego today and Denver at Oakland Sunday.

Fans will be paying special attention to the Green Bay Packers in their Miami game with the Pittsburgh Steelers to see how the Packers react from their upset by the College All-Stars last week. With Ray Nitschke back in action and another week of practice, the Packers are expect to show fast improvement. It will be Buddy Parker's first look at his new Steelers under fire. Among Parker's problems are finding the right replacement for the late Daddy Lipscomb.

Rotation Plan Used In Texas League

By The Associated Press

Dallas-Fort Worth and Oklahoma City operate the Southern Division of the Pacific Coast League on the rotation plan.

Friday, the Texans decided their friends across the border had held the lead long enough, almost a week, and so Ray Jablonski and company battered the 89ers 8-2 to move back into first place.

Autocracy is the rule in the Northern Division and the Spokane Indians continued to make everyone else eat dust by edging Salt Lake 5-4 on a 10th inning bunt. Elsewhere, Northern cellar team Seattle showed it still has some teeth by biting Denver, it's Southern section counterpart, 13-1; San Diego topped Tacoma 3-1 and Hawaii edged Portland 4-3.

Houk May Get Gray Hairs, But Yanks Keep On Winning

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Oh, how Ralph Houk suffers.

First Mickey Mantle gets mangled, then Whitey Ford gets mauled. And the New York Yankees play catch-me-if-you-can with the rest of the American League.

Since Ford was bombed out at Washington and became Houk's latest problem, Stan Williams has pitched a one-hitter, Al Downing a three-hitter, Ralph Terry a six-hitter and Jim Bouton a five-hitter. The opposition has scored two runs—one earned.

It's enough to turn Houk's gray hairs brown.

Bouton's 1-0 victory over the Los Angeles Angels Friday night was his 15th triumph and fourth shutout. It increased the Yankees edge to 8½ games over the second-place Chicago White Sox.

The White Sox won the opener of a twi-night doubleheader with Detroit 2-1 on Camilo Carreon's tie-breaking single, but the Tigers stumbled to a 3-1, 10-inning nightcap victory although two Detroit runners were thrown out at the plate and another was cut down at third during the winning rally.

Jim Perry's four-hit pitching and three home runs gave third-place Minnesota a 5-3 decision over Boston and dropped the Red Sox into sixth place with their seventh consecutive defeat. Russ Snyder drove in three runs in Baltimore's 7-1 victory over Washington and Kansas City defeated Cleveland 5-1 behind Moe Drabowsky's three-hitter.

In the National League, Cincinnati knocked off the leading Los Angeles Dodgers 8-4, San Francisco shut out Philadelphia 4-0, Milwaukee downed St. Louis 6-3, the New York Mets whipped Chicago's Cubs 7-3 and Houston and Pittsburgh split a pair of 7-6 games. The Colts won the opener in 15 innings, the Pirates took the nightcap in 11.

Bouton, now 15-5, got the only run he needed in the second inning when Joe Pepitone raced home on John Blanchard's sacrifice fly. That tagged Don Lee with the loss. The victory was the Yankees fourth straight and dealt the Angels their fifth consecutive defeat.

Carreon singled home the decisive run for the White Sox in the fourth inning of the opener. Eddie Fisher got the victory, allowing only two hits after taking over when Joel Horlen suffered a back injury in a collision at first base with Detroit's Norm Cash in the fourth inning.

Rocky Colavito, who homered in both games, got the Tigers started with a walk in the 10th inning of the nightcap but wound up thrown out at the plate as he tried to score on Don Wert's grounder. Cash, who had singled behind Colavito, was tossed out at home on Bill Freehan's bouncer before Bubba Phillips stroked a two-run single and was cut down trying to reach third.

Don Mincher, Zoilo Versalles and Rich Rollins provided home run support as Perry brought his record to 9-8 with his first victory in five decisions since June 27. Dick Stuart and Carl Yastrzemski homered for the Red Sox, who absorbed their 17th loss in 21 games.

Snyder did most of the damage for the Orioles, forcing in a run with a bases-loaded walk in the sixth inning and cracking a two-run triple off Senators' reliever Ed Roebuck in the eighth. Dave McNally got credit for the victory, although he needed Dick Hall's relief help when Washington threatened in the seventh.

The only run off Drabowsky, 4-8, was Max Alvis' homer that gave the Indians a tie after Bobby Del Greco had homered for the A's. A walk, a fielder's choice and a single by Doc Edwards put Kansas City ahead to stay in the fourth.

Sports Car Rally Set

The Snyder Sports Car Club is sponsoring a rally Sunday afternoon. Local cars as well as cars from a number of neighboring cities including Abilene and Lubbock are expected.

The cars will meet at the Piggly Wiggly parking lot at 2 p.m. At that time, just moments before the rally will begin, each team will be given a sheet of instructions to follow. The sheet will give the route to be followed, and the schedule to be followed.

The Snyder Citizens Band Radio Club will be assisting with the rally with members of the club manning the check points along the route. Drivers will be chec'ed at these points to determine how closely they are adhering to the pre-determined timing.

The winners of the rally will be those with the least amount of error all down the line.

A rally is not a race, but rather a test of good driving, and winning drivers are those who can make a fine art of following an unrehearsed route on a split second schedule.

Extra Inning Games In Texas League

By The Associated Press

One game was postponed by rain and the other two went extra innings Friday night as Texas League teams battled toward the home stretch in a close baseball campaign.

Rain at Tulsa forced postponement of the Oilers' game with El Paso. Albuquerque whipped Austin 2-0 in 10 innings and Amarillo downed San Antonio 5-4 in 11 innings as the two tail-end clubs fough for survival.

The night's work left San Antonio leading Austin by one game with El Paso in third place, four games back of the leaders. Tulsa was 5½ games off the pace, Albuquerque 10 games back, and Amarillo deep in the cellar, 19R games away from the leaders.

Lefty Larry Staab limited Austin to five hits and his Albuquerque Dukes won their eighth victory in nine starts. Finally solving Austin's Jim Flynn for an extra-base hit, Jeff Torborg doubled for the Dukes in the 10th, advanced on Staab's sacrifice and scored on a single by Wes Parker. Parker scored later on an error to make the 2-0 margin.

Ken Fruchter's 11th inning home run was the difference at Amarillo as the Gold Sox won the squeaker over the league-leading San Antonio Bullets. The Gold Sox made only six hits but four of them were over the fence.

Craig Breaks Hex; Wins With No. 13

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

A combination of knitting, hitting and hexing did the job for Roger Craig.

Roger's missus tended to her nervous knitting, Jim Hickman tended to the hitting and Manager Casey Stengel tended to the hexing. The end result was enough to have Craig chortling:

"It's over. Oh, man, it's over."

That was the veteran righthander's grateful comment Friday night after the New York Mets had pulled out a 7-3 victory over Chicago in the last of the ninth, snapping Craig's personal 18-game losing string that stretched back to April 29. The streak equaled the National League record and was within one of the major league mark of 19.

To escape that dubious record, Craig traded his regular uniform number 38 for No. 13.

His biggest assist came from Hickman, who hit a grand slam homer on a 3-2 pitch with the score tied and two men out in the bottom of the ninth.

Casey got his hand in, too. When Cub relief pitcher Lindy McDaniel was winding up for the climactic 3-2 pitch, Ol' Case gestured wildly in the Met dugout, waving his crossed fingers at the pitcher in the classic baseball sign of "putting on the hex."

And while it was all going on Mrs. Craig sat in the stands, nervously knitting away at a furious rate.

"I knew I couldn't sit still," she said. "I had to have something to occupy me. So I brought my knitting along."

Elsewhere, Cincinnati chased in five unearned runs and beat the first place Los Angeles Dodgers 8-4 while second-place San Francisco blanked Philadelphia 4-0, cutting the Dodger margin to 4½ games. Milwaukee beat St. Louis 6-3 and Pittsburgh and Houston split a doubleheader that lasted more than 7½ hours and ended at 2:30 a.m. Pittsburgh time. The Pirates won the second game, 7-6 in 11 innings after Houston had won 7-6 in 15.

In the American League, the New York Yankees edged Los Angeles 1-0 while the second-place Chicago White Sox split a pair with Detroit, winning the first 2-1 and losing the second 3-1 in 10 innings. Baltimore bombed Washington 7-1, Kansas City beat Cleveland 5-1 and Minnesota drubbed Boston 5-3.

Craig, the victim of seven shutouts and loser of eight one-run decisions in his 20 losses this season, had a 3-2 margin going into the eighth, but a triple by Billy Williams and a sacrifice fly by Ron Santo tied it.

In the ninth, Joe Hicks started it off for the Mets with a one-out single and Al Moran doubled him to third with two out. Tim Harkness, batting for Craig, walked.

Then followed Casey's hex and Hickman's hit. The loss was tagged on Cub starter Paul Toth, who became a father for the first time just a few hours before the game.

Two errors by Dodger third baseman Jim Gilliam opened the way for six Cincinnati runs in the sixth inning, five of them unearned. Gene Green doubled in one run after Gilliam had booted a potential double play grounder and Leo Cardenas singled in another. Another Gilliam error let in two more and Vada Pinson singled in the last two. Joe Nuxhall was credited with the victory, but needed relief help from Al Worthing when the Dodgers rallied for three in the ninth.

Juan Marichal limited the Phillies to seven hits and posted his 18th victory and fourth shutout as the Giants closed up. Orlando Cepeda drove in three runs on a single and double and scored the other one.

Denis Menke stroked a three-run homer and Bob Hendley spaced five hits in pacing Milwaukee past the Cardinals.

Houston won the opener at Pittsburgh when Howie Goss slid under Bill Mazeroski's high throw with the tie-breaking run in the 15th. Hal Woodeshick, who allowed only three hits after coming on in the eighth, was the winner. Bob Clemente's bases loaded single broke up the second game and gave reliever Al McBean his 12th victory in 15 decisions. Only about 500 fans remained in the park when the doubleheader finally ended.

"It's All Over" Said Roger Craig

NEW YORK (AP)—When Roger Craig rushed from the New York Met dugout toward the plate Friday night, he didn't do it to congratulate Jim Hickman on his game - winning, streak-ending, ninth-inning grand slam homer that beat the Cubs 7-3.

"The first thing I had in mind," Craig said, "was to make sure he touched home plate. I'd have tackled him to make him do it if I had to."

Hickman's homer, a soft fly that glanced off the scoreboard in left field, came on a 3-2 pitch from Chicago Cub relief man Lindy McDaniel with the bases loaded, two out and the score tied in the bottom of the ninth.

It gave Craig, who went the distance, his first victory since April 29 and ended his 18-game losing string, which had matched the longest in National League history. He was just one away from the major league record of 19, set by John Nabors of the Philadelphia A's in 1916. Craig is now 3-20 for the season.

"I didn't think Hickman's ball had a chance for a homer," Craig said, a big smile wreathing his usually dour countenance. "But when I saw it hit the scoreboard, I said. 'It's all over. Oh, man, it's all over.' "

Craig, who had been sweating out the ninth in the Met dugout, rushed out to meet Hickman at the plate and told him, smiling, "It's about time you did something big."

Craig changed from his usual number, 38, to No. 13 for the game and may have received an assist from Manager Casey Stengel. When the 3-2 pitch to Hickman was coming up, Ol' Case gestured wildly toward the Chicago pitcher, waving crossed fingers at McDaniel in the classic baseball sign of "putting on the hex."

"It's hard to believe," Craig said after the dismal losing string had been broken. "I figured that was the way it had to be to win a ball game—a 3-2 count with the bases loaded, right down to the wire.

"All that publicity had put extra pressure on me. This game was like pitching in a World Series. It's hard to believe I got that many runs."

Not Records, Just Wins In Swim Meet

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—"People think we should set a record every time we get our feet wet, but I think it's a good thing we aren't."

That's the view of Jim Counsilman, veteran Indiana University swimming coach whose squad, representing the Indianapolis A.C. is powering its way to the team title of the National AAU Outdoor Men's Swimming and Diving Championships.

Conspicuous by their absence are records in the meet, which opened in the new 50-meter Ridgeland Common pool at suburban Oak Park Friday.

After five swimming events out of 14 to be contested in the three-day affair, the only record of sorts was by 17-year-old Don Schollander of the Santa Clara, Calif., Swim Club.

He churned the 400-meter freestyle in 4:17.7, compared to the 4:17.2 meet record set last year by Australia's Murray Rose.

Schollander's effort goes into the AAU books as an American citizen's mark, topping the previous such listing of 4:19.2 by Indiana's Alan Somers in the 1960 Olympics at Rome.

Schollander is featured in today's schedule of five events. He will try for an AAU mark in the 200-meter freestyle as defending champion.

Record Attendance In Coaching School

HOUSTON (AP) — The Texas Coaching School became history today as 3,826 coaches departed for their homes.

The number that registered here was a new record by 493 and L. W. McConachie, executive vice president of the Texas High School Coaches Association, said he was absolutely amazed.

Gene Mayfield of Borger was elected president of the association with Theo Rigsby of Fort Worth Richland succeeding Mayfield as vice president.

The coaching school next year will be at Fort Worth and in 1965 it will go to Dallas. In December, the 1966 school will be picked.

Chairmen of the all-star committees have been named, with Tom Gilley of Amarillo Palo Duro for the North and Murray Stephenson of Sinton for the South.

A record attendance for the all-star basketball game was set Thursday night with 7,222 turning out to see the South win 81-71.

The last event of the big school came Friday night when the North beat the South 12-7 in the annual all-star football game. Whether a record was set in attendance wasn't determined pending a checkup. An estimated 20,000 turned out. The record is 20,408 set here in 1958.

Oil Bowl Teams Add New Players

WICHITA FALLS (AP) — An Angleton center and defensive guard, Wendell Beene, was named Friday to the Texas Roster for the annual Oil Bowl charity game here Aug. 16.

He was the 21st player for the Texas team.

Two other players were also named. They are guard Dennis Adams of Harding High School in Oklahoma City and center-linebacker Doug Kemper of Lawton.

There are 12 other players to be named to the Oklahoma team.

The game is to be played at Midwestern University Aug. 16. The game matches high school football graduates of last season from Texas and Oklahoma.

Each team is to have 24 members.

Batting Race Close In Texas League

By The Associated Press

El Paso's Dick Dietz and Tulsa's Jim Beauchamp are neck-and-neck in the Texas League batting standings.

Dietz now has a .366 average with the Oiler star at .353.

Both have rapped 140 hits, but Dietz has officially faced the firing line 15 less times. Dietz leads in runs with 110 and has drawn the most walks, 75.

Arlo Engel of El Paso rules in home runs—34—total bases with 273 and RBIs with 108.

Joe Patterson is the base stealing leader with 37.

Cliff Davis of San Antonio outfielder heads pitchers with 12 wins.

Giant Camp Is No Picnic

By FRANK ECK
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

FAIRFIELD, Conn (AP) — Those who play football for a living say it's a sport for men. They call baseball the "round ball game" for boys. They may have something there — even before the season starts.

Both sports emphasize preseason training. But the resemblance ends there. Compare, for instance, the training routines of the New York Yankees in sunny Florida and the New York Giants here at Fairfield University.

Last spring, those Yankees who didn't stay with the main contingent at Fort Lauderdale, lived with their wives and kiddies at rented resort homes for six weeks.

There was time for fishing and golf. Workouts lasted four hours (10 a.m. to 2 p.m.) for each of 10 official training days before the exhibition games start.

They played 30 exhibitions, doing considerable traveling by bus. Those players who were not taking part in the exhibitions remained in camp for three - hour morning workouts.

A Giant football camp is vastly different.

Wives are banned. There is no card - playing, no blaring radios. The players are secluded like monks. They sleep and take three meals a day in the same building. There is a strict 11 p.m. curfew.

Football players put in a full day from 7:15 a.m. rise and shine until the 6:15 p.m. steak dinner. Often there are meetings or film showings of plays until 9 p.m. There are five interruptions of routine for exhibition games. In camp, the players are off Saturday afternoon and Sunday. Those who leave camp must be back by midnight Sunday.

Here's a rundown on a typical day at a football camp:

7:15 a.m. — First and last call to rise.

7:45 — Breakfast.

9:15 — Meeting in gym, get taped and suited up. In the interim coaches hold their own meeting on plans for the day.

9:30 — Squad reports for practice until 11.

11:00 — One hour break for nap or personal business.

Noon — Lunch of soup, cold cuts, fruit and iced tea.

1:00 — Cat nap.

2:00 — Second meeting. For some, individual instruction.

3:00 — Ankles or wrists taped in groups of threes; some have whirlpool treatment.

3:45 — Second workout of 75 minutes.

6:15 — Dinner, followed by a third meeting or showing of game films or specific plays.

Everything is run to the minute under Sherman, who has won two Eastern Division titles in his two years as head coach, and he has strict rules. Breaking them is costly. There is a fine of $50 to $100 for missing a scheduled appointment; $250 for not being taped up and $500 for losing a playbook.

The playbook is a player's most important possession for it contains as many as 100 variations of game plays.

Practice is divided into groups, each handled by an assistant coach.

Practice often ends with 60 squadmen getting together and forming 11 - man units for a 10-minute scrimmage.

Veterans such as Robustelli, Patton, Frank Gifford, Y. A. Tittle and Alex Webster, among the 10 over 30 in age, know how to prepare for the long season and they pace themselves in summer workouts.

Ken Strong is the only man at Fairfield who has had a taste of baseball and football camps. He came out of NYU with a chance to make the Detroit Tigers as an outfielder but broke his wrist. He made fame kicking and running with the Giants of 30 years ago and now helps Giant place kickers. Says Strong:

"Football is a lot rougher. In baseball they try to loosen muscles. In football they train to toughen muscles."

If you make the grade, the pay is good in either sport. But football costs more in sweat — especially in training camp.

Butts Testifies In Libel Trial

ATLANTA (AP) — Wally Butts, former athletic director at Georgia, climaxed the first week of his $10-million libel trial with repeated denials of charges that he helped rig last year's Georgia-Alabama football game.

Butts, 58- who will return to the stand next week, testified Friday he never betrayed his school and denied any knowledge of alleged gambling activities of two friends.

On the stand for about three hours, Butts denied charges in a March issue of the Saturday Evening Post which said he gave inside information on Georgia's team to coach Paul (Bear) Bryant of Alabama.

His suit against Curtis Publishing o., owner of the Post, resulted from publication of the article and accompanying editorial notes.

Attorney William H. Schroder said Butts might resume testimony Monday.

But Schroder said he intended to call former Georgia coach and player Charley Trippi, a St. Louis Cardinals coach, and professional player Lee Roy Jordan, All-America center at Alabama last season.

Butts testified he did not know what Georgia's game plan was for the encounter with Alabama last year. Alabama won 35-0.

He said he had tipped off a Georgia defensive coach that Alabama probably would stress a certain formation. Errors by Georgia's sophomore players were costly in that game, he said.

Diagramming one Alabama touchdown play on a blackboard, Butts said:

"That is an easy touchdown. There's not any way that could be arranged because I was up in the press box."

Alabama, Butts told the jury, "got some easy touchdowns."

"Were you or were you not familiar with the University of Georgia game plan?" he was asked.

"No. And I would like to enlarge on that. I have never seen a game plan since I resigned as head coach (at the end of the 1960 season)."

"Did you know what formations Georgia had planned to use?"

"No.

And I would like to add that I was amazed and surprised they didn't do some of the things they do well."

"Did you know anything about what plays Georgia planned to use?"

"The answer is no."

'Pop Art' Exhibit Puzzles Visitors

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Is it art or—just what is it?

Visitors at the Los Angeles County Art Museum are puzzling over the current exhibit of what has become known as "Pop Art." This is said to be a reaction against the hurly-burly of abstract art and back to the painting of recognizable subjects.

The results: Massive oil reproductions of comic strips, soup cans, dollar bills, etc.

The exhibit was assembled by Lawrence Alloway, curator of New York's Guggenheim Museum from works of six eastern and six western artists. It has to be seen to be believed, and so I journeyed to exposition park to see it.

The gallery visitor is first greeted by the works of Wayne Thiebaud, obviously a gourmet. His canvases, in stark detail, reproduce a delicatessen counter, a jawbreaker machine, a box of cold cereal, a cake counter and a row of cream soups, which seems to be four tomato and four split-pea. Another subject: Four rows of yo-yos.

Then comes Melvin Ramos, who seems to be intrigued with comic-book covers, especially of the girly variety. Phillip Hefferton's forte has landed some artists in trouble, but he appears to have achieved some success at reproducing currency.

His bills have a gimmick. "Sinking George" shows Washington on a one-spot with only the upper half of his face showing and his Delaware River boat unmanned. "Winkin' Lincoln" is doing just that on a five-dollar bill.

Then there are Edward Ruscha's words. That's all, just single words like "Ace" "Boss," "Honk" and "Annie" in bright signboard letters against contrasting backgrounds.

Three teen-age girls were admiring another canvas—38 identical portraits of Troy Donahue.

The reaction of my fellow viewers ranged from bewilderment to ridicule to amusement. The critics were not amused, however.

Arthur Millier of the Herald-Examiner said he saw much better art on billboards as he drove home from the exhibit. "The images that pop artists glorify are kid stuff," he wrote.

Henry J. Seldis of the Times commented: "Since pop art takes off from advertising art and admires the attitudes of crass commercialism, consumers of these paintings might well heed the ancient warning of 'the buyer beware.' I suspect that these canvass come complete with built-in obsolescence."

Network Finds Movie Reruns Are Popular Fare For TV

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The National Broadcasting Co. recently was almost apologetic about dedicating four or more precious evening television hours a week to motion picture re-runs. Now it has assumed a more positive stance. It is actually boasting about the painstaking way it selects the features, edits them and slips in the inevitable commercials and station breaks.

The network is frank to explain why it elects to run movies on Saturday and Monday nights. The public likes them.

Last season, when two of its Monday night series died from lack of public interest, NBC slipped in a two-hour feature as a stop-gap. It proved so popular that "Monday Night at the Movies" will be continued through the new season.

NBC, however, does not just pick any old movie.

The network purchased two expensive packages of features from two top studios, about 79 pictures. Donald Bays, program manager, and his assistants saw all of them, sometimes more than once, and chose the best 30.

Several yardsticks were used. One, of course, was the boxoffice popularity of the star (Marilyn Monroe, Cary Grant, Robert Mitchum, William Holden — and undoubtedly Gable, Bogart and Elizabeth Taylor—are sure-fire.)

"We are always looking for a big outdoor action picture," said Bays, "because it attracts the family audience."

Much of the criticism about old movies on television concerns careless cutting. Bays says that the average movie with commercials is almost perfect for a two-hour-period. Sometimes, however they run as long as 140 minutes, which means surgery if the film is to be used on Monday nights. The Saturday night movies often run past 11 p.m. to avoid the necessity of editing.

"When I watch the films, I'm always looking for natural breaks, the ends of acts or scenes," Bays continued. "There are logical spots for commercials. And, if the film runs long, I'm watching for scenes to cut out without injuring the whole."

Bays said musicals have proved less popular.

Next season, about 75 of the shows will be in color, with star names. And some of the films are only two or three years old.

ABC is covering the recently ended national contract bridge championships for its Aug. 17 "Wide World of Sports" show. Showing the play of the hands is done with charts and mirrors.

Big Tourism Gain Is Seen

AUSTIN (AP)—The Texas Highway Department said today that Texas may have its best tourist attraction year since 1957 during 1963.

Studies for the first six months of 1963 show 30,898 out of state tourists are crossing into Texas daily, an increase of 4,411 each day over last year.

D. C. Greer, state highway engineer, said 99,537 out-of-state visitors stopped at the department's eight tourist bureaus during the six-month period.

Californians led the visitors to the bureaus with 15,708 followed by Louisiana, Florida, Illinois, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Michigan, Arizona and Ohio in that order.

Greer attributed the increased travel to a more intense publicity campaign by tourist-oriented groups across the state.

Peak year for the Texas tourist industry was 1957 when 10.3 million persons spent $531 million. It was followed by four years of a constantly declining market, not countered until last year when 9.7 million tourists spent $471 million.

New Record Is Claimed

PASO ROBLES, Calif. (AP)—The National Aeronautics and Space Administration claimed Friday a record for the greatest surface distance ever spanned in communications via a satellite.

The distance was 7,700 miles, between a NASA station near here and a ship off Lagos, Nigeria, via the Syncom 2 communications satellite.

Scientists used both voice and teletype messages to exchange messages for an hour, beginning at 11:43 p.m. Thursday. Syncom 2 at the time was orbiting 22,000 miles above the South Atlantic.

The previous distance record was 5,922 miles between Liverpool, England, and Rio de Janeir, Brazil, last spring, via NASA's Relay satellite.

Bright Future For Insurance Is Seen

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. John Connally predicted a bright future for insurance companies in Texas during coming years.

"Texas is growing as never before," Connally said. "Our population explosion is bringing severe problems and straining our capability to provide essential services for people."

Connally said Texas during 1962 had $33.6 billion of life insurance increase over 1961. He said this year should show another increase.

Connally said the insurance industry is the second largest in Texas, and with the state growing about 25 per cent each 10 years, should continue to thrive.

Joan O'Brien Files Suit For Divorce

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Singer-actress Joan O'Brien, who two days ago told police that her husband of four months beat her and destroyed her clothing, sued for divorce Friday.

She charged actor Harvey Allen, 31, with extreme cruelty and asked the court to enjoin him from annoying her.

Miss O'Brien, 27, and Allen were married in Las Vegas last April 12. They separated July 29.

Hillbillies To Battle Ben Casey

By BOB THOMAS
Ap Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—In this corner, the champions of the television ratings, those cotton-picking "Beverley Hillbillies."

And in this corner, the undefeated star of the neurosurgeons, "Ben Casey."

The television trade is anticipating this match with delight. It will be taking place on Wednesday nights at 9, and everyone in the industry will be watching the ratings.

Why are two such popular shows pitted against each other? Obviously ABC thinks its grim doctor can outpoint CBS' cornfed comedy show or it wouldn't have moved "Casey" from his invincible Monday at 10 position.

Vincent Edwards, Casey himself, thinks his show has a chance of licking the "Hillbillies," No. 1 in last season's ratings.

"We might be able to pick up a whole new audience, coming on an hour earlier," said Edwards. "The Monday spot was too late for a lot of kids and a lot of working people, too. Now we might be able to attract some of them, as well as the younger kids who have watched the Hillbillies."

Judging from the history of Ben Casey," Edwards optimism is well placed.

"It's a miracle that the show ever went on the air," he said. "Recently I heard the story of how it was put on the schedule with only one minute of time sponsored. On our first show we had 14 promos (the non-paying commercials for other network shows). If sales hadn't picked up, the network could have sustained a loss in the millions."

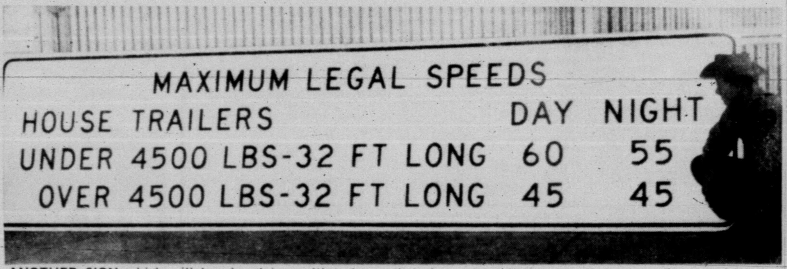
NEW SIGNS READY—Maintenance construction foreman Joe Middleton poses with two of the new highway signs which his department will be placing on Aug. 23, the date the new speed limits go into effect. The full 18-man crew stationed at Snyder will be busy from early until late that day placing the signs as will similar crews all over the state. It is believed that remarking all of the state's highways can be done in that one day. The sign at right applys to cars; the one at left to trucks.



MAXIMUM LEGAL SPEEDS
HOUSE TRAILERS DAY NIGHT
UNDER 4500 LBS-32 FT LONG 60 55
OVER 4500 LBS-32 FT LONG 45 45

ANOTHER SIGN which will be placed in position Aug. 23 is this sign which applies only to house trailers. Highway Patrolman Pat King, shown inspecting the sign, said that the present limit on trailers, regardless of size or use, is 45 miles per hour.

Most Area Roads Going To 70 MPH

All but a few miles of state-maintained highways in Scurry County will come under the new 70-miles-per-hour daytime maximum speed for passenger cars on Aug. 23.

The Texas Highway Department has reported that more than two-thirds of the Texas Highway system will come under the new speed limit, which is 10-miles-per-hour faster than the present limits.

In Scurry County, only FM 1606 from U. S. 84 to Ira, and FM 612 from U. S. 84 west to Borden County and on down to U. S. 180 will be restricted to the lower speed.

Under the speed control law passed by the Legislature this spring, all highways not zoned down by the Commission will automatically go to the new 70-mph speed August 23. This means that some 41,500 miles of the state-maintained highway system will be allowed to come under the higher maximum speed.

The Commission passed a Minute Order which zoned some 18,640 miles of the highway system at a maximum of 60 miles per hour daytime and 55 miles per hour at night for passenger cars, effective Aug. 23. These highways will be restricted to the lower speed limit because engineering studies indicate they are inadequate to accommodate a 70-miles-per-hour maximum.

The Commissions' action followed a series of engineering traffic studies conducted throughout the state by the Highway Department's 25 highway districts.

A large percentage of Texas' vast Farm to Market Road System will come under the 70-mph maximum, although some of these roads (and some of the older primary routes) will be restricted to the lower 60 mph maximum where conditions warrant.

204 New Oil Wells Completed In Week

AUSTIN (AP) — The Railroad Commission says 12 wildcat oil wells were brought in for the week ending Friday. There was no gas wildcat and 42 wildcats were dry holes.

During the week, 204 oil wells were brought in, raising the year total to 5,182 compared to 6,453. Gas completions totaled 40, bringing this year total to 1,522 compared to 2,134.

Wells plugged totaled 146, including 89 dry holes.

The total average calendar day allowable was 2,863,009, an increase of 8,373.

Fellowship Is Awarded

ABILENE — Mrs. La Verne Taylor of Snyder is one of 45 teachers who received fellowship in the American Studies Program for the second six-weeks of summer session at Abilene Christian College.

The fellowships pay room, board, tuition and other fees for the term and enable the teachers to study courses in English, education, history and speech — all emphasizing the American heritage.

ACC began its American Studies Program in 1957 with the aid of a grant from the Coe Foundation of New York City. This grant provided fellowship for summer study to 50 teachers. In 1958 the program was expanded to include 100 teachers over both six-weeks terms. The latter program was made possible by grants from the Coe Foundation and the Texas Educational Association of Fort Worth.

Six Navy Men Rescued From Sea

NAPLES, Italy (AP) — Six American servicemen, their plane forced down in choppy seas, were rescued and reported in excellent condition today despite more than six hours exposure to thunderstorms and high winds.

An Italian intercoastal vessel, the Partenope, found the men huddled in a life raft which they launched from their twin-engine U.S. Navy reconnaissance plane after ditching it Friday night off the Amalfi coast during a thunderstorm.

The Partenope transferred the Navy airmen to the U.S. destroyer Barton, which took them to Naples.

The Barton radioed the North Atlantic Treaty Organization command here that the men were in good condition with no injuries.

A NATO spokesman said that 12 men, four crewmen and eight passengers, were aboard the C117 Dakota when it took off from Capodichino Airport outside Naples on a routine flight to Catania, Sicily. A later communique said eight were aboard the plane. Finally the figure was changed to six.

The Dakota radioed within a hour after takeoff that it was running into trouble. Thunderstorms were brewing in the area when radio contact was lost.

Italian military and commercial vessels, American ships and planes, and helicopters of both nations sought the plane.

Search planes spotted flares near Li Galli islet, about seven miles off the Salerno peninsula south of Naples. Vessels concentrated in that area until the men were picked up.

NATO headquarters here said the Barton identified those aboard the C117 as:

Lt. Cmdr. Harold Hamilton Kelly, pilot; Lt. Wayne Milo Matson, co-pilot; Machinist Mate 1C Clarence Edward Lawton; Machinist Mate 3C James Murray Lentini; Electronics Technician 1C William Hilmar Volkman, radio operator.

Homes Are Needed For Child Care

Homes that are able to care for children are needed here, Alan Holmes, unit caseworker of the Scurry County Child Welfare Unit, has announced.

The unit from time to time has children in its custody for whom temporary care is necessary while more permanent plans are being worked out.

Families with extra rooms, who are interested in taking temporary charge of such children are requested to contact the local Child Welfare Unit which is located in the Scurry County Health Building, 911 Twenty-sixth Street.

Rural homes are needed as well as urban homes, Holmes said. Homes that can accept groups of children, older children, and handicapped children are especially needed, he said.

Applicants who meet requirements as set forth by the state Department of Public Welfare will be issued a license to care for children, Holmes stated. He emphasized that these requirements deal mostly with the family's ability to love and understand children rather than the family's economic status.

All child care expenses are paid by the agency. However, Holmes noted, there is little financial profit, if any, to be gained from keeping foster children. The greatest benefit to the foster parent is measured in knowing that they are helping helpless children, Holmes said.

Child Welfare is a division of the Department of Public Welfare which has the legal responsibility for protecting children from neglect, cruelty, or depravity. The agency receives and investigates complaints regarding the care of children. In the event that a child is deprived of his own home, the foster parent may be called upon to give temporary care until plans can be made for the child to be placed in a relative's home, adoptive home, children's home, or possibly returned to his own home.

Gear Shift Pierces Neck

KAPUSKASING, Ont. (AP) — The man who walked through the doors of Sensenbrenner Hospital looked like any other — except for the gear shift protruding from both sides of his neck.

Half an hour later an emergency operation had removed the nine-inch shaft from the neck of Ronald Bisson, 29, of Kapuskasing. He was off the critical list and resting comfortably Friday. Doctors said the steel shaft just missed the neck arteries.

Bisson was in a car accident Tuesday night. He said everything happened so fast he didn't know how the gear shift pierced his neck or how it snapped off the car.

Bisson's wife, a nurse, was on duty at the hospital when he arrived. Of his condition, she says now: "His voice is a little hoarse."

San Antonio Man Kills Wife, Self

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—A Bexar County medical examiner said Saturday a husband shot his wife to death, tried to kill her companion and then shot himself.

Killed were Maurice Wogan, 48; and his wife since June, Josephine Rebecca Wogan, 49.

Charles Riggs, 54, of Austin was wounded in the shoulder.

Dr. Robert Hausman, the examiner, said the shooting occurred about 4:30 a.m. when Wogan arrived home in a new San Antonio apartment complex and found Riggs sleeping on a living room divan.

Hyaline Membrane Disease Claims 25,000 Each Year

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hyaline membrane disease, which took the life of Patrick Bouvier Kennedy, appears on the death certificates of an estimated 25,000 infants in the United States each year.

Virtually all of them were born prematurely, as was the son of President and Mrs. Kennedy.

Derived from the Greek word "hyalinos," meaning glass, hyaline may be used to describe anything that is glassy in appearance, transparent and homogeneous. Thus, the poet John Milton wrote of "the clear hyaline, the glassy sea."

But to doctors, hyaline refers to a thick, viscous, glassy film that often forms on the inside of a lung or lungs of a premature baby, especially those delivered by Caesarian section as the infant Kennedy was.

The membrane, which may involve an entire lung or only part of it, tends to block or impair the passage of life-supporting oxygen from the lungs into the blood stream.

The malady can range from mild to fatal.

In a mild case the patient may recover completely within 24 hours. In a severe case, death can occur anywhere up to about the fourth day after birth.

But, over-all, there is less than a 50-50 chance of survival.

"Usually, when they get past the first 48 to 72 hours, everything is okay," a Washington pediatrician told a reporter.

The affliction is sometimes a fellow traveler with other stealthy killers.

As Dr. Alexander J. Schaffer of Johns Hopkins School of Medicine, one of the nation's leading authorities on the disease, describes it in a book entitled "Diseases of the Newborn":

"Approximately half or more of the afflicted infants succumb. Some of the deaths are due to the disease itself, some to conditions associated with prematurity, such as intracranial hemorrhage, from which these infants are not exempt, or to pneumonia which may be concomitant but independent of the hyaline syndrome. In general, the smaller and more immature the infant, the worse the outlook."

The cause of the ailment is still unknown, although various theories have been advanced to explain it.

The hyaline membrane consists primarily of a material called fibrin — a sticky substance that plays a key role in the normal clotting of blood. Doctors are convinced the fibrin comes from the infant's own blood, and one theory as to its role in forming the unwanted membrane is that there may be a deficiency of a certain enzyme in the afflicted baby, or an inhibition of this enzyme.

One theory why the membrane sometimes clears up quickly is that the untouched parts of the lung may gradually compensate for the trouble elsewhere in the lung.

In addition to the enzyme-deficiency theory, another concept of the cause is that it's due to heart failure. One of the treatments that may be used is digitalis, a heart stimulant. Antibiotics may be employed, and so also may be certain chemical enzymes which are designed to destroy the membrance.

But a specific cure still eludes science.

Say Taxes Go To Dogs

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Three taxpayers have filed suit claiming that tax exemptions worth $612,000 a year are going to the dogs—greyhounds, that is.

The taxpayers — Frank P. Willis and Gilbert B. Dickey Jr. of Pompano Beach and George Guest of Lauderdale-By-The-Sea — filed suit in Circuit Court Friday asking that the Florida State Racing Commission be ordered to collect full taxes from Broward, Biscayne, West Flagler and Miami Beach kennel clubs.

The suit claimed each track gets $170 operating expense exemption for each of 900 races a season.

29th Annual Angel Reunion Held In Towle Park Here

The Pavillion in Towle Park, was the site on which assembled a group of over 100 Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 3 and 4, known as the Angel Reunion, meeting for their 29th annual meeting. This group was organized in Snyder at the old Wolf Park in 1934.

They began to arrive Saturday morning and enjoyed seeing each other, gossiping, eating, and various games. The gossiping varied from politics to who married who, and where did they move and where do they live now, how many children, etc.

The various committees carried out their duties and those attending enjoyed playing many kinds of games, and a nice program was presented Saturday night by several of the group, acting, readings, singing, string band music, etc. Many spent the night in the park. Sunday more came and many friends came by for a visit.

Lon Archer of Buffalo Gap, who has barbecued the meat for many years, had the same job this year. A real noon meal was ready at the proper time, after which the Memorial Service was held. That concluded the meeting for this year.

The Angels began to depart for their various places and many had come a long way. Those attending this meeting in addition to the many friends were: Warnie Angel, San Bernadino, Calif.; Edgar Angel, Rèdonda Beach, Calif.; Arlie Angel, May, Tex.; J. M. Angel, Enoch, Tex.; Marvin Angel, Brownwood, Tex.

Those attending from Stanton, were Jess Angel, Tom Edd Angel, Mrs. L. D. Stripling, and Melroe Angel.

From Plainview came Rickie and Gay Grant, and Mr. and Mrs. Alton Leach and family. Also attending were Nell Barnes of Dallas, Mrs. Ethel Barnes of Rising Star, Mr. and Mrs, O. T. Venable and family of Irving, an Mr. and Mrs. Mac Casey, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Barnes and sons, and Johnny Wood, all of Ft. Worth.

Also present were Mr. and Mrs. Miller Price and daughters, and Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Pinkerton and family of Midland; Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Clements and family and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Pinkston and family of Andrews; Burton Rhodes of Monahans; Mr. and Mrs. Lon Archer of Buffalo Gap; Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Autry and family of Pratt, Kan.; O. J. Martin of Vinita, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Martin of Big Spring, and Mrs. A. A. Baggett of Sundown.

From Wichita Falls came Mr. and Mrs. John Scott, Mrs. Mary Scott Evans, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Page and Mr. and Mrs. Milton Evans. Mr. and Mrs. Don Wills and Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Martin of Fluvanna were also present.

Those attending from Snyder were: O. M. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Miller and La Verne, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Miller, Mrs. Orville Moore and Phil, Don Flynn, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Price, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Foree and Jane, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Howell and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jess Green, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Fisher, Mrs. Rex Robinson and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Rae Falls, Mrs. J. A. Leach, Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Autry, Jr., Mrs A C Martin, Mr and Mrs. N. W. Autry, and Mr. and Mrs. Leon Autry and family.

Also from Snyder were Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Williamson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Yeilding and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Martin and family, Mrs. R. A. Hardee, Mrs. Buford Sterling and Debbie, Sheila Hardee, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Haynes, and Mrs. Bessie Gale.

Cosmorama Club Has Benefit

The ranch home of Mrs. Wilson Connell was the setting of a Cosmorama Study Club benefit luncheon and bridge party Tuesday, Aug. 6.

Hostesses were Mrs. Ray Courtney, Mrs. Billy Wayne Williams, Mrs. W. W. Park and Mrs. Woody Forrester.

White daisies and orchid and purple asters were used in decorating the dining and living rooms. The dessert of fresh fruits was artistically arranged in the indoor fountain.

Luncheon was served to 28 guests including houseguests of Mrs. Connell who were Mrs. Barbara Cockrell, Mrs. Lucy Yeamon, Mrs. Weldon Johnson and Mrs. Ted Garrett.

High score in bridge was won by Mrs. Tom Hartley.

The benefit luncheon was the first of a series to be sponsored by members for the benefit of the club's scholarship fund.

The Gardeners Corner

BY EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

Just as there are standards to guide your selection of plumbing fixtures, so are there standards in rose plants.

What should you look for in buying roses?

To qualify as Grade 1, hybrid roses should be at least two years field grown and have well-developed root systems before they are sent to the garden store. They should have three or four strong canes, two of which are at least 18 inches tall. Floribundas should have three or more canes, two of which are 15 inches high, and climbers must have three strong canes 24 inches or higher.

The branches, the American Association of Nurserymen advises, should not be more than three inches above the budunion, or graft.

Bushes that do not meet these requirements drop into Grade 1½ or Grade 2 classes.

There are exceptions, among them so-called "light - growing" varieties with variable growth characteristics for different parts of the nation. Listed among these are hybrid teas such as Rex Anderson, McGredy's Ivory, Etoile de Holland, The Doctor, and Countess Vandal.

Standards for other species of plants include such items as balling and burlapping specifications. Sizes are involved in evergreens, tulip bulbs, vines, trees and shrubs.

Gardeners should judge spreading-type rhododendrons and azaleas by width, not height. The opposite is true for spruce, pine and fir trees.

* * *

The dry spring weather should have one summer benefit - fewer mosquitos. This should hold true in areas where there was little moisture last fall when the ground froze and precipitation was light this spring or has run off or soaked into the ground to eliminate woodland pools.

You may help reduce the summer crop of mosquitos by backyard sanitation. Mosquitos lay eggs in standing water tubs, buckets, old tires, tin canes or other containers. If you get rid of water-holding items there will be fewer mosquito eggs nearby to provide future harrassment.

* * *

This is cut flower time. If you are concerned about color harmony in bouquets of mixed flowers, add a few white ones to make the colors blend. White softens bright colors. The largest and darkest flowers should be placed at the lowest point of your design.

If you use a tall container, the longest flower stems should be 1½ times the height of the vase. For a low container, the longest stems should rise twice the diameter of the container. The other flowers should have shorter stems of varying lengths. The largest and darkest flowers should have the shortest stems for they appear heaviest in arrangements.

Waffled Toast

4 eggs beaten
½ cup milk
Non-caloric sweetener to taste
8 slices enriched bread
4 teaspoons grated orange rind

Combine beaten eggs, milk and sweetener in a pie plate. Dip each bread slice into egg mixture, turning it to coat both sides. Brown in a preheated waffle baker. Serve with grated orange rind sprinkled over top.

Yield: 4 servings - 2 slices toast per serving

Yeast bread should be cooled on a wire rack, just as cake and cookies are cooled.

ALL ABOUT BABIES...

A Public Service of the National Baby Care Council

HOW TO DISCIPLINE BABY—
C. Robert Gruver
Editor, All About Babies

When it comes to disciplining children, the questions most often asked are: "Should I be strict with my child? Or should I let him have his own way?

Many parents faced with this problem take the middle road. They try to remain moderate in their actions — neither favoring old fashioned firmness or more modern permissiveness.

Dr. Ronald Lippitt of the University of Michigan Research Center for Group Dynamics, in a statement to this column, says numerous studies over the past 25 years show that moderation is not the answer. The studies show that moderation will not bring about the best result.

Instead, Dr. Kippitt says, parents should combine warmth of affection with firm, consistent discipline in rearing their children.

"In character building," says Dr. Lippitt, "it is necessary to distinguish at least two dimensions. These are firmness or consistency of dicipline and warmth of affection, which is not consistent with harsh, over-severe, practice such as whipping.

"On neither of these is a midpoint best. Instead, the ideal involves going rather far toward one extreme in firmness or consistency and very far toward another extreme in warmth of affection."

Dr. Lippitt explains that among the things that have been learned from discipline studies of children is that "conscience building" is associated with firmness "only when there is consistency and not when it is accompanied by severe punishment."

"If anything," sayd Dr. Lippitt, "Boys who undergo severe punishment in their homes are on the average less conscientious than those who do not. Perhaps, this is because severe punishment creates a psychological gulf between the parent and the child. The parent's approval may no longer be so greatly desired. Feeling rejected, the child may in turn reject the parent, and rejoice in thwarting or circumventing the parent's will.

"Once firmness is purged of over-severity, however, there is apparently a conscience building value in the child's knowing just how far he can go. When the limits are clear, the child has a tendency to put out of his mind those things which he is sure will lead to trouble with the parent.

To put it briefly, according to Dr. Lippitt, when it comes to discipline, the best results are accomplished not by one word, "moderate" but by two words, "firmness and warmth".

When you are using a slightly beaten egg as an egg wash for pastry that needs a brown glazed look, you can add from one to three teaspoons of cold water to the egg. These same proportions of egg and water may be used when you are dipping food in the mixture before coating with crumbs.

Plot Told In Hospital Shop Talk

ALL THE GODS AND GODDESSES. By Kay Martin.

Theme — a Great Surgeon goes to pieces, but insists in continuing his career.

One result, naturally, is that his blunders kill several patients. But things happen also to the people around him, and it is this effect that is the major thread of Miss Martin's "hospital novel."

The legendary surgeon is Dr. Phil Burnett, and he is not altogether a sympathetic character, even before his strange lapses cause a crisis in the hospital.

First to be affected are the members of his operating team, who realize there is something radically wrong. But the self-centered Dr. Burnett does not have the sense to face his own problem.

The surgical nurse Laura, a hero-worshipping girl who has fallen in love with Burnett; the anesthetist, and a young resident surgeon are the first to suspect that Burnett has gone wrong. Then the psychotic old maid who runs the pathology laborabory covers up one of Burnett's blunders, and a fatuous old administrator — Burnett's father-in-law — blindly refuses to listen to any warnings.

Things finally reach the point where the young resident, risking his whole career in bucking the self-protecting medical hierarchy, tries to prevent the Great Surgeon from killing patients.

The story is filled with hospital talk and medical lingo, with sidelights on the rugged life of the interns, considerable byplay on the sexual side and some operating room passages that are almost too detailed.

Holman-Martin Vows Solemnized In Colorado City First Methodist Church

Miss Sarah Annelle Holman of Snyder and Colorado City, became the bride of George T. Martin Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the First Methodist Church of Colorado City.

Dr. J. E. Shewbert, District Superintendent, Plainview District, performed the double ring services before an archway entwined with greenery flanked by candelabra and baskets of white stock. White pew bows marked pews of the parents and grandparents.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Holman, Route 3, Colorado City, and Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Martin, Route 1, Rule.

Miss Pamela Baird of Haskell, cousin of the groom, was organist. Mr. Bobby Gruben of Rotan, soloist, sang "Whither Thou Goest", and "The Wedding Prayer."

Guests were seated by Charles O'Pry and Walter Rinehart, both of Lubbock.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor - length gown of satin peau de soie. The bell - shaped skirt ended in a modified train; the Chantilly lace bodice was fashioned with a scalloped neckline and sleeves which came to points over the hands. Lace appliques accented the skirt. Tiny buttons accented the bodice back and sleeves.

The bride's veil of silk illusion fell from a tiara of pearls. Her heart - shaped bouquet was of white roses and Frenched carnations atop a white Bible. As she entered she presented her mother a long stem white rose, and as she returned up to aisle she presented a long stem white rose to the mother of the groom.

Miss Barbara Holman of Snyder attended her sister as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Edris German of Kidder, Mo., and Miss Jo Ann Hudson of Coleman.

They wore dresses of yellow peau de soie, fashioned with rounded necklines and bell skirts. White gloves and pearls, and headpieces of yellow tulle accented with pearls and centered with yellow bows completed their costumes. They carried heart - shaped bouquets centered with yellow daisies.

Monty Martin of Rule, brother of the groom, was candlelighter.

Dick Sherrill of Abilene served as best man.

A reception was held in fellowship hall following the ceremony. The table laid in white linen was centered with a three tiered cake topped with a miniature bride and groom with heart - shaped background. The bridesmaids bouquets also graced the table.

Andrea Baird of Haskell, cousin of the groom, ladeled punch, Mrs. Mac Hamilton of Abilene served cake, and Mrs. Billy Hertel of Sagerton, sister of the groom, registered guests. Other houseparty members were Mrs. Leonard Morris, Miss Delores Holman, Miss Mary Ann Merritt, all of Colorado City, and Mrs. Bobby Gruben of Rotan. Miss Sue Cross of Abilene, presented soft background music on the piano.

For traveling to New Mexico, the bride chose a blue silk dress with matching jacket, black accessories, and a corsage of white roses.

The couple will make their home in Slaton.

The bride is a 1958 graduate of Colorado City High School; 1962 graduate of McMurry College; and a member of Delta Beta Epsilon social club. The groom is a 1956 graduate of Rule High School; 1962 graduate of McMurry College; and a member of Chi Omicron social club. The couple will teach in Slaton Public Schools.

Out - of - town guests were from Snyder, Lubbock, Brownfield, Sweetwater, Rule, Abilene, Rotan, Anson, Haskell, Coleman, Abernathy, Plainview and Sagerton.

Best-Known Soviet Poet Tells His Origin, Beliefs

A PRECOCIOUS AUTOBIOGRAPHY. By Yevgeny Yevtushenko.

Hindsight adds interest to the reading of Yevtushenko's statement of his position and beliefs. For it was the publication of this book (in Russian) during a Soviet "thaw" that led to his present doghouse troubles.

In the outside world, Yevtushenko is the best known of the Russian poets - doubly interesting because he dared to raise some political questions in such poems as "Zima Junction," and to attack anti-semitism in 'Babi Yar.'"

But last spring the Russian bear, Premier Khrushchev, began cuffing around intellectuals, "writers' and artists. One of his targets was this poet, principally because of this book. Yevtushenko's plans for a 1963 trip to America suddenly evaporated.

In this short autobiographical sketch - he was only 30 this summer - Yevtushenko describes his origins, his experiences, as a teenage rebel, his apprenticeship as a hack poet, and his sudden conversion to more serious themes.

Western readers will feel a certain sympathy with his vigorously asserted claim that a poet is a truth-seeker, regardless of the political consequences. His posture is appealing. He likes some modern art in preference to "socialist realism." He has only contempt for entrenched bureaucracy. He soaks up the attention of the "little people."

But Western readers are likely to reflect that Yevtushenko also is a little slippery, ideologically speaking. He says he was shocked at Stalin's excesses even before the party line swerved abruptly to a denigration of Stalin. Well, maybe.

He professes to a complete dedication to Leninism, but says Soviet politicians have betrayed the "real" Leninism.

You'll have to credit him with saying some sharp things about the very people who have put him into eclipse since this book was written. He calls them "dogmatists," and pictures them as blind theorists unaware of human realities.

It is an interesting and valuable experience to listen to what this man has to say. If nothing else, American readers can get from a careful study of his book some enlightening information on what it means to be an individualist in a regimented socety.

A Novel For The Ladies

JOY IN THE MORNING, By Betty Smith.

There's an engaging youngster in this book named Annie, and she is persistent, striving and self-sacrificing but determinedly righteous personality to be memorable.

The time is 1927. Carl Brown and Annie McGairy have fallen in love in Brooklyn. (Some will remember that Betty Smith once wrote a very popular novel called "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn.")

Carl has been pushed scholastically by an overambitious mother, so that at the age of 20 he is entering law studies at a Midwestern University. Annie, having just turned the legal age of 18, escapes a dull mother and ominous stepfather, follows Carl to the university and marries him. On both sides, the in - laws are stern.

So the narrative is about young love and the economic struggles of a college student and his worshipping young wife. Carl works desperately at various odd jobs. Annie, with pathetic attempts to make herself into the image of a coed, finds herself intrigued as an auditor in college courses, and almost becomes a writer.

New Releases Are Rich On Maurice Ravel's Work

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

RAVEL on two pianos, the instrument for which he wrote many of his compositions; Ravel performed with the orchestration at which he was a genius; Ravel sung — three new classical releases are a veritable treasure for the listener who loves Ravel.

Most impressive, in sound and scope, is "Ravel, the Complete Orchestral Works," a handsomely cased, four - record set on Angel. Andre Cluytens conducts the Paris Conservatoirs Orchestra for "Bolero," "Rapsodie Espagnole", "La Valse," "Daphnes et Chloe" (the complete ballet, with the Rene Duclos Choir), "Ma Mere l'Ove," "Valses Nobles et Sentimentales," "Le Tombeau de Couperin," "Menuet Antique," "Alborara del Gracioso," "Une Barque sur l'Ocean" and "Pavane pour une Infante Defunte."

Sound reproduction with this set is magnificent. Intend to play only one or two sides and you may find that, like deciding to read only one chapter in a good book, you become too absorbed to stop.

Misconceptions swirled around Maurice Ravel's work which the composer tried to set straight. Though Ravel wrote in the 20th Century (he died in 1937), he said, "I am not a modern composer." He didn't like strident dissonance and said, "Music, I insist, must in spite of everything be beautiful."

Listeners could recognize the beauty, but a frequent, unfamiliar mood of mystery caused them to call Ravel's music Impressionistic and to liken him to Debussy.

Ravel insisted he was not an impressionist. He worked in long-established forms instead of creating new ones, and said, "I have never ceased studying Mozart."

If your interest in this modern — not - modern composer of beautiful music, or your finances, incline you to one Ravel record instead of a set of four, a good new one is "The Artistry of Ferante & Teicher," on ABC Paramount.

The duo pianists play "Bolero," "La Valse," "Mother Goose Suite" and Ravel's arrangement of Debussy's "Nuages" and "Fetes."

Two pianos are satisfactory for "La Valse" and "Mother Goose Suite," which Ravel whote as a piano duet in 1908, then orchestrated in 1911. However, "Bolero," with its crescendo, is more effective when done by all the instruments of an orchestra.

"Ravel Bolero" by the Boston Symphony under Charles Munch, released three months ago by RCA, is one of the best orchestral versions. Side two presents "La Valse" and "Pavan for a Dead Princess."

Here you have to decide whether a full - bodied "Bolero" is worth exchanging the enchanting "Mother Goose" for the sweetly sad "Pavan."

Victoria de Los Angles sings Ravel's "Sheherazade" and seven folk songs Ravel orchestrated on "Melodies de France" (Angel).

The soprano also sings two songs by Duparc and one by Debussy, accompanied by the Orchestre de la Societe des Concerts du Conservatoire, George Pretre conducting.

Still in a French mood, Angel presents "Micolai Gedda Sings Great Tenor Arias from French Opera."

Gedda, who made his Metropolitan Opera debut in 1958, also sings frequently in New York for the Friends of French Opera. (Gedda is Swedish.)

He sings eight arias, from Adam, Massenet, Thomas, Berlioz, Gounod and Lalo. George Pretre conducts the Orchestre National de la Radiodiffusien Francaise.

Pineapple Toast

1 egg beaten
1-3 cup pineapple juice
Dash, salt
6 slices enriched bread
Cinnamon-sugar

Combine beaten egg, pineapple juice and salt in a pie plate. Dip each bread slice into egg mixture, turning it to coat both sides. Brown bread on both sides on a hot greased grill. Serve hot with a little cinnamon-sugar sprinkled over top of each slice.

Yield 3 servings - 2 slices toast per serving.

It's perfectly all right to hard-cook a dozen eggs at a time and refrigerate some of them for use over several consecutive days.

A VISITOR IN THE VIRGIL MOTT HOME this week is Stanley Norsworthy, left, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Norsworthy of Vernon. With him are Kathleen Mott and her father, Virgil Mott. Norsworthy graduated from Baylor University where he studied voice under Prof. Tina Piazza. He plans to leave in two weeks for Italy where he will study for two years under a private opera coach. His trip is largely financed through his winnings in various contests, the latest of which was a $1,000 first place prize from the Ft. Worth Opera Guild. Norsworthy will sing at the First Baptist Church Sunday.

Tomato Juice Dressing

½ cup tomato juice
1 tablespoon salad oil
1½ teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
1 tablespoon cider vinegar
2 tablespoons minced onion
1 tablespoon minced parsley
Salt and pepper to taste

Shake all the ingredients together thoroughly; chill. Shake well again just before serving. Makes about 2-3 cup.

Nice for that evening get - together: skewers of baked ham cubes alternated with cocktail onions, pimiento - stuffed olives. Serve with party - size slices of buttered rye bread, or make sandwiches of the bread using a mustard - butter filling.

Put that chocolate in the refrigerator before grating it. Chilling helps the grating process and so does a rotary-type hand-operated grater.

When you are using browned flour in a gravy, remember that the flour has lost a portion of its usual thickening power in the browning process.

When is a vacation home not a vacation home? When is a mobile home not a mobile home? When is a retirement home not a retirement home?

One answer at a time, please.

Vacation — Or second — homes began to grow in popularity as people found themselves with more and more available leisure time. Instead of a day out with the kids, it became a weekend away at a second home in the woods or mountains or by the water. Which was fine, until the lady of the house discovered that she spent a considerable part of the weekend working instead of vacationing, principally because she had none or few of the maintenance conveniences available to her in her regular home. Pop, too, found that the rustic way of life might have its advantages but cut into the loafing or sports activity time, since something always seemed to need fixing.

The result? A definite trend toward vacation homes which are complete, modern and maintenance - free. In other words, the second home is becoming more and more like the first home except that it's smaller.

Mobile homes, the kind we think of as being pulled by family cars, are undergoing a somewhat similar transformation. They used to be small and rather basic in design and content. Now they are getting larger and larger, with high fashion interior design and furnishings. In many cases, they aren't even mobile, being far too big to be pulled around by anything less than a herd of elephants.

There must be many thousands of so - called mobile homes which were brought to particular sites by the sellers and haven't moved an inch since the buyers took over. These people are thus buying homes of this type for reasons other than their mobility. One factor is price. Another is psychological. When you live in a mobile home, you always have the feeling that you can hitch 'er up any time you please and head out for the wide open spaces.

Developments of retirement homes, tremendously proular at the start, are meeting resistance in some areas of the country. Builders have discovered that like the idea of living in a community peopled entirely by senior citizens. One major developer of retirement homes wouldn't allow any couples in one particular new neighborhood unless they were at or close to retirement age. He recently lowered the age limit for new residents to forty, which is where life is supposed to begin anyhow. Despite this, other retirement communities have prospered. There apparently is no pat answer to this seeming contradiction, as you'd discover if you heard a group of builders and housing authorities debating the issue and attempting vainly to find a solution.

QUESTION: We soon will be doing over the hardwood floors in our living room. A friend has recommended what he calls a synthetic resin finish. I believe I have heard of this product being used in commercial establishments. Is it practical for home floors?

ANSWER: The type of floor finish which falls into the synthetic resin category is excellent for floors in the home. It is a surface coating with a tough, durable film that wears well, even under heavy traffic. It can be applied by brush or roller and dries quickly. A second coat can be applied in an hour, a third coat should be applied after overnight drying. The manufacturers of this type of finish often point out that it can be kept bright and clean by dusting with a dry mop or wiping with a damp cloth, dispensing with constant waxing. One point we'd like to make: no matter what kind of finish you use, the success of your job will depend to a large degree on how much care and effort you put into the removal of the old finish and the preparation of the wood for the new finish.

An Expert Spins In Every Circle

EXPERTLAND. By Robert Sommer.

Wherever men work, whether in a sausage emporium, or a literary brain foundry, the "expert" has come in for some ribbing over the years.

As in the old saying, "An expert is a guy from out of town." (In the King James version, "A prophet is not without honor, save in his own country . . . .")

But of late a whole new swarm of button-down collar experts has buzzed out from the campuses, and it is this world of seers that Sommer is treating in his opus.

We've had some lively debunking of the business and advertising "games," from such snipers as Parkinson and Packard. Here we have something similar about scientists, professors, researchers, consultants, foundations, learned journals and the "little people" - assistants, technicians, secretaries - who support the dizzy gyrations of the experts themselves.

Sommer has combed his subject thoroughly. He has laid out a painstaking exposition of the now familiar campus fetish for publishing articles, with all the accompanying abuses and nonsensical results.

He also presents elaborate notes on the necessity for an expert to keep moving from one job to another. He delves into the status symbols of the trade, and outlines the ground rules for the care, feeding and delousing of this breed.

In the midst of his fun-poking, he has a serious theme. It is the increasingly stubborn insistence of the experts that their contributions to productivity - results - cannot be evaluated because there are no "real" yardsticks - and experts refuse to measure each other's intangible boondoggling.

The reader may be puzzled over the author's wordy and repetitious style, until it dawns on him that most of this manuscript must have been "dictated but not read." And the book jacket is strangely vague about the author's own field of expertness.

But the over-all effect is an interesting study of a modernized version of an ancient phenomenon.

Oven Orange Toast

2 eggs, beaten
3 tablespoons confectioners' sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
2-3 cup orange juice
2 teaspoons grated orange rind
10 slices enriched bread

Combine beaten eggs, confectioners' sugar, cinnamon, orange juice and orange rind in a pie plate. Dip each bread slice into egg mixture turning it to coat both sides. Place slices on a well-greased baking sheet. Bake in a hot oven (450 degrees) for seven minutes. Turn toast and continue browning. Serve hot with honey or confectioners' sugar.

Yield: 5 servings - 2 slices toast per serving

To glorify a salad of summer fruits blend equal parts of Honey, lemon juice and salad oil and salt to taste. Prepare just before serving.

Michener Adventure In Asia

CARAVANS. By James A. Michener.

Why did Ellen Jaspar, a bright young Bryn Mawr student, so vigorously and contemptuously scorn her middle - class, country - club background in Dorset, Pa.?

And why did she make her way to Afghanistan to become the second wife of Nazrullah, the ambitious student she had met in Philadelphia?

The American embassy in Kabul back in the year 1946, was faced with these questions in trying to trace what had become of Ellen. The assignment of finding her was given to a young foreign service officer, Mark Miller.

Ellen's associates had thought her a normal student. One professor, however, felt she had "disaffiliated herself from the beliefs that gave our society its structure in the past," but had "found no new structure upon which she can rely for that support which every human life requires."

Professor, you would have been surprised at the affiliations and marching disaffiliations Ellen managed to achieve in the high, exotic reaches of central Asia. Once found, she proved to be the perennial unmitigated sophomore.

In 1946, Afghanistan was practically as primitive as in the days of Ghengis Kahn. The story of Miller's spooky adventures in ancient cities, the burning desert, and at a remote caravanserai, and his long ride with the nomads to an age - old rendezvous in the mountains make exciting reading.

You always can count on a rattling good narrative from Michener. He also likes to delineate the changes that in our day are overtaking a remote and historic place.

In writing about Afghanistan he has blended the ancient, ominous forces of the centuries with the modern significance of the Cold War. This book may not have the panoramic scope of his recent "Hawaii," but it contains the sharper urgency of adventure.

There are many characters who intrigue the mind — such as Moheb Kahn, the Western - educated diplomat with the harsh, traditional cunning and cynicism of his race; Dr. Stiglitz, who had a price on his head because he "cooperated" in the Germans' racial "experiments;" and Mira, the pixilated little daughter of a nomad chieftan.

Michener's new book is filled with lavish color, excitement and the one electric ingredient essential to a real novel — the feeling that you are taking part.

Red Jeweled Casaba

1 6-oz. can raspberry - lemon punch concentrate
3 cans cold water
1 package plain gelatin
dash of salt
1 casaba melon

Dilute punch concentrate with three cans of water. Measure two cups of raspberry-lemon punch. (One cup punch will be left over) Use ¼ cup of the punch and add gelatin. Place over boiling water to dissolve. Cool. Add dissolved gelatin to the punch with dash of salt.'

Wash casaba melon. Place on side. Cut a slice off rind if the melon tends to roll. Cut a crescent wedge just wide enough to remove seeds from center. Fill cavity with gelatin mixture. Replace cut wedge. Wrap tightly in transparent saran. Put emlon in refrigerator and chill until gelatin mixture is firm.

Cut casaba into wedges with red jeweled center. Makes 6-7 servings.

NOTE: Two cups of gelatin mixture just filled the cavity.

Hand-Cranked Vanilla Ice Cream

¾ cup sugar
2 tablespoons corn starch
½ teaspoon salt
2 eggs, slightly beaten
3 cups milk
1-3 cup light corn syrup
2 teaspoons vanilla
1 cup light cream

In the top of a double boiler, mix together the sugar, corn starch and salt. Stir in slightly beaten eggs, milk an corn syrup. Cook over boiling water, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens slightly - about 10 minutes. Cool thoroughly. Add vanilla and light cream. Fit dasher into 2-quart can of ice cream freezer. Pour mixture into can; cover and set into tub. Pack tub with alternate layers of cracked ice and rock (ice cream) salt, using 8 parts ice to 1 part salt. Use about a 3-inch layer of ice in the bottom to start, then alternate. Hook handle into position and turn until crank no longer turns easily, 15 to 20 minutes. Drain off water and add more salt and ice if needed to keep tub filled. Mixture should be thick but soft. Remove dasher; plug hole and fill freezer to top with 4 parts ice to 1 part salt. Cover with large cloth or towel and let ripen 2 to 3 hours. Makes 1½ quarts. Double recipe for a 4-quart freezer.

Doc Puts Flavor In Old Tale

SUMMER DOCTOR. By Charles H. Knickerbocker.

Dr. Knickerbocker has combined two elements in his amusing novel.

One is the interplay between the rugged and traditionally individualistic fishermen of a Maine isle and the "summer people" — traditionally giddy — who flood the island for 10 weeks each year. The situation has been used a good many times, and this version containes more flavor in most cases.

The other theme is the attempt of a young physician, Dr. Daniel van Dine, to find himself as a person and as a medic.

It seems the good doctor has been uncertain about the integrity of city and suburban life, whether it relates to his profession or to his romantic interest in a fashion editor named June.

So he establishes a practice on Juniper Island, where he is very busy with the vacationers in the summer, earning enough money to keep afloat during the rest of the year, when his practice lies more on the humanitarian side.

There is a lot of witty dialogue about love, the participants including such contrasting characters as a frustrated librarian and a summertime millionaire. There also are some sentimental incidents with the island people, ranging from a precocious adolescent to a manic depressive painter.

The author is a Maine physician himself, and apparently he has observed the human comedy at first hand in those parts, for his portraiture has a convincing air about it.

There have been some fine contributions to literature, over the years, by writing physicians — usually on the serious side. Dr. Knickerbocker's view of life is from the light side, and he is quite adept.

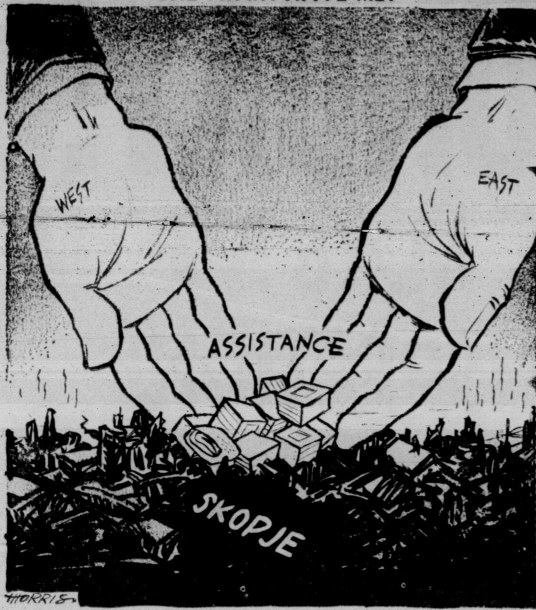
THE TWAIN HAVE MET



Rugged Echo I To Observe Its Third Birthday Monday

By RAYMOND HOLBROOK

DALLAS (AP) — Echo I, the balloon-satellite that has been America's silvery star in the sky, marks its third birthday in space Monday.

The rugged little plastic balloon has an endurance that amazes scientists.

When Echo I was launched Aug. 12, 1960, experts predicted it would stay inflated for about two weeks and might orbit for a year or two.

By the third birthday of Echo I, it will have made 13,500 orbits and traveled 425 million miles.

It is wrinkled and battered and only half of its original 100-foot diameter in size, but Echo I is still capable of bounding radio signals.

History was made Aug. 13, 1960 when Collins Radio Co. space tracking antennas at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and at Richardson, Tex., locked on Echo I for the first two-way voice radio transmission via a man-made satellite.

A week later Collins Engineers and Associated Press men, utilizing AP wirephoto equipment, "bounced" a picture of President Eisenhower off Echo I for the first facsimile transmission in space.

Collins engineers since have used Echo I for radio and teletype transmissions. In their constant checks, they may have found the reason for its unexpected long life of Echo I.

When Echo I was put into orbit, it had an apogee of 1,036 miles and a perigee of 958 miles. As was expected, Echo I started settling toward the earth.

When its perigee — the lowest point in its orbit—reached 515 miles, Echo I surprised the scientists by climbing again.

Since then its apogee—the high point of its orbit—has reached 1,300 miles. Now it is sailing along with an apogee of 1,152 miles and a perigee of 664 miles.

Echo I's up-and-down traveling appears to have a regular cycle with about one year being required to complete that cycle.

"The best explanation we have for Echo I's long life is that the sun apparently gives it life," Richard Kaiser of Collins says. "Because of its comparatively large surface in relation to its weight of only 136 pounds it appears to be able to utilize solar energy and what is called 'a solar wind' helps push Echo I around."

Echo I rotates as it orbits. When it's rounded side is toward the earth it appears as a bright star because of the reflected rays of the sun and its surface provides a good sphere for "bouncing" radio signals. When it's crumpled side faces the earth its brilliance is lessened and its ability to reflect radio transmissions diminishes.

The satellite makes about 12 orbits a day, six in the range of the Iowa and Texas tracking stations.

Far less sophisticated than the newer Telstar satellite which contains complicated electronic equipment, Echo I is a "passive" satellite, consisting only of a gas filled balloon with a .005 inch thick plastic skin on which aluminum has been deposited.

Echo II, a larger balloon satellite with a diameter of 135 feet, is to be launched this fall.

Collins engineers say "bounce" communication off a passive satellite offers advantages. The use of a passive satellite is not affected by atmospheric interference, the entire microwave frequenty band can be used, an unlimited number of transmitters can use the satellite at the same time without interfering with each other, and many methods of communication can be used — radio, television, data communications (multiple messages) and wirephoto facsimile transmission.

Warsaw Is A Frisky Young City

By JIM BECKER

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Warsaw is like a frisky puppy on a long leash.

The city is young. Although there was a Warsaw when the ancient Romans came this way, the present city is almost entirely new, lovingly reconstructed on the twisted stacks of broken brick left by the war.

It is frisky. There is more hand-kissing than in a Viennese operetta, and plenty of painted toenails, hennaed hair, and Count Basie records on the radio.

And it is on a leash, a loose one, but one that Communist authorities yank from time to time to remind the puppy that there is still someone on the other end.

But despite the government, the bureaucratic snarl of the system and an appalling rebuilding task, the Poles have put a city back together from the hideous wreckage. They are very proud of it.

Their proudest boast is that it is so much better as a place to live than Moscow, the capital of the Communist bloc.

"Moscow is Asia, Warsaw is Europe," the Poles say.

Warsaw does have a European flair for style and chic that is totally lacking in the Soviet Union.

There are adding machines in the offices instead of the wooden-bead abacus contraptions in the Soviet Union, typewriters instead of leaky fountain pens, and churches on almost every corner.

The women wear crisp print dresses in the summer, with bright ribbons in their tinted hair, and they swing their hips when they walk. None swings a pick along the streetcar tracks as women in Moscow do.

The people chatter and fling their hands as they walk down the street. They smile and help each other in trouble.

The people in Warsaw tell jokes, some about the Russians.

The very air seems clearer and cleaner. The lethargy that is built into the Communist system has not completely infected Warsaw as it has Moscow.

The Warsaw reconstruction is proof of that. The Germans set out to ruin the city in 1944. They blew apart almost every building in a city of a million people, ripped the electric cables out of the ground, even wrecked the sewers.

The Poles built their city back just the way it was, with a jagged skyline of gabled roofs and pastel plaster houses.

But the leash is still on.

The newsstands sell the American Ladies Home Journal but few newspapers except censored ones, which are out of touch with reality.

A petty Communist official sits in every office, watching. From the squat, square concrete party headquarters comes a stream of directives on where to work, when to work, where to live.

Most Poles laugh at it.

Right now, the Poles take out their resentment by painting blotches of abstract art and selling them on the street and by sitting around in night clubs listening to bands imitate old Tommy Dorsey records.

When the music is fast they all get up and do the twist. They even twist to tangos.

It looks silly, but it must feel good.

Chess is believed to have originated in India at least 13 centuries ago. It was called chaturanga, or "four arms," after the components of a contemporary army — elephants horses, chariots and infantry.

Junior Editors Quiz on BUDDHISM

SIDDHARTHA GAUTAMA SITS UNDER THE FIG TREE

QUESTION: Why, in all the statues of Buddha, does he look so quiet and calm?

• • •

ANSWER: Siddhartha Gautama was a high caste Indian prince, born about 563 B. C. The young man became troubled because there seemed to be so much suffering and sorrow in the world. At 29, he renounced his palace and wealth and began to search for some answer to the problems of life. Finally, while sitting meditating under a fig tree, he suddenly became convinced that he had found the answer. Indians believe people are reborn—but Gautama, who from this time on was called Buddha, or "enlightened one," felt that he would be able to escape from this rebirth into an ideal mental state called "nirvana." Buddha formulated a set of rules by which he felt people could reach nirvana and then started to teach them. He preached moral virtues, such as unselfishness and kindness. This teaching became the great Buddhist religion which spread to many parts of the East.

Buddha's followers made many statues and pictures of him, usually in a seated pose, because this suggests the meditation under the tree. The expression of quiet and calm always shown is because Buddha taught that only by stilling violent feelings and passions could man attain the inner wisdom which would enable him to reach nirvana.

FOR YOU TO DO: Look up "Chinese art" or "Chinese sculpture" in an encyclopedia and you will find many more versions of Buddha. Some are very grotesque, but notice that the faintly smiling, quiet expression is always there. 8-10

Housewife Stars In Politics

EDITORS NOTE: You may never have heard of Mme. Pung Peng Cheng, but she's typical of the women emerging as leaders in the developing countries of Asia. And when you read about this dynamic little housewife, you're not likely to forget her.

MME. PUNG PENG CHENG

PHNOM PENH, Cambonia (AP) — In her sarong - like sampot and bright flowered blouse, Mme Pung Peng Cheng, plump, dimpled and 43, looks about as little like a movie star as you could find.

Yet she's made it — in her first and only picture.

And she's one of the few who can say — in either the jungles of Hollywood or Cambodia:

"I did it for the good of my country."

The movie, now on a run in United States art houses, is a Franco - Italian production called "Your Shadow is Mine."

Filmed among the famed ruins of Angkor Wat in the Cambodian jungles, it has been praised for its photography and panned for a few dozen other reasons. Or as one New York critic put it:

"Indeed, it is so amateurish — so crudely directed and played — that it has the look of a hapless home movie that was put together by a local cine club on weekends and holidays."

She's Not Bothered

The criticism doesn't disturb Mme. Pung Peng Cheng. She has already accomplished her objective — putting this little Southeast Asia nation on the cinematic map.

When not performing among the ruins, Mme. Pung Peng Cheng is a member of the National Assembly. She was the first woman member when elected five years ago, and is one of only two in the Assembly today.

"When women were given the right to vote in 1958, I ran because I decided they should have a woman representing them in the Assembly," she explains.

Mme. Pung Peng Cheng is a good sample of the women emerging as leaders in developing Asia. Packing more power than their U.S. counterparts, they pull along their retiring sisters who often clamor for women's rights — then aren't certain how to exercise them.

How did she land in a motion picture?

"I was at a reception," she says, "when the producer of the film approached me and said I would be the perfect type to be cast as the mother, Mate.

"I explained that I had never had any acting experience. But he said it wasn't necessary. They did give me a screen test. I was still reluctant. But I was told it was a motion picture which would show the world Cambodia and it was my duty to perform in it.

"It wasn't very pleasant — working in the jungle under those hot lights."

It's Missouri-Size

It was the kind of situation that could crop up in Cambodia. The size of Missouri, it has 5.7 million people and perhaps the most unpronouncable capital city in the world — Phnom Penh (phonetically, P-nom Pen).

It suffers from national paranoia about the imagined agressive intentions of its Communist - threatened neighbors Thailand and South Viet Nam, brought on by a history of invasions by both countries. Cambodia sought French protection from its neighbors in the 1860s. It ended only with the close of the Indochina War in 1954.

The nation has one - man rule in popular Prince Sihanouk. A Fiorello LaGuardia type he toes a neutralist line in foreign affairs and a hard line against any internal Communist threat, borrowing time for his country to develop.

Women's Rights Primary

It is also a country where, when you call for a taxi, a man pedals up in a bicycle - propelled sedan chair. And its postal system can speed an airmail letter to Saigon, a 40-minute plane ride away, in about a month.

In this setting, Mme. Pung Peng Chemg pursues her modest goal— promoting women's rights.

She sipped a soft drink beside her swimming pool recently and told a visitor:

"There is a lot to be done. Matrimonial laws and the laws of inheritance and property rights still are very much in the husband's favor. Women have never really had any property of their own.

"We're writing a law to remedy that.

"We need to do more for the poor and for the education of children.

"But what we really must have — and we don't need laws for that — is more women going to work.

"So much is needed in our country. Everyone must work. Husbands don't always understand. They want their wives to stay at home."

Husband Agrees?

Mme. Pung Peng Cheng's husband, who is director general of the education ministry, agrees — and disagrees.

"I don't object to my wife's activities. But our two daughters are grown. And we have only two children. Most Cambodians have large families. Who's to take care of the children?"

Their elder daughter, Pung Chhiv Hieng, 20, a slim girl with hip - length dark hair, feels the pressures, too. A pre - med student, she says:

"The old women don't approve. They say it isn't right for a young women to be going to school with all those young men. But the boys accept me."

She is training to be a gynecologist because, she says, "too many women in Cambodia die because they are too shy to see a male doctor."

Women are clamoring for legislation to end polygamny.

"They want these rights immediately," she says. "They don't understand that sometimes it takes time."

She doesn't add that a possible barrier to its immediate passage is Prince Sihanouk who has several wives himself, as permitted by the country's predominant Buddhist faith.

"It's primarily a complaint of women in the city, where husbands have enough money to afford more than one wife," says Mme. Pung Peng Cheng. The problem doesn't exist in the villages. People are too poor."

Studied To Teach

Besides, she objects to trying to legislate morality like the controversial Mme. Ngo Dinh Nhu of South Viet Man. Wrinkling her nose in disapproval, Mme. Pung Peng Cheng says:

"She is too rigid. Cambodians are more easy - going."

Mme. Pung Peng Cheng is Born in a southern province, she studied in Phnom Penh and Saigon to become a primary school teacher. While teaching, she met her husband, also an instructor. They were married in 1939. Before entering politics, she was principal of an elementary school. They have two daughters, Pung Chhiv Kek and Pung Chhiv Hieng, 16.

The family lives in a well - todo section of Phnom Penh in a house with one of Cambodia's few swimming pools.

After entering the assembly, Mme. Pung Peng Cheng started a column for women in a local newspaper. She abandoned it after a year "because it took up too much time."

She also helped organize the International Women's Club in Phnom Penh, made up of wives of foreigners attached to missions here.

Characters Turn Up At Tower

POWERS OF ATTORNEY. By Louis Auchincloss.

Pull up a comfortable chair and settle down for a pleasant bit of yarn-spinning.

Auchincloss, an attorney who writes polished novels about old New York families, has departed from the usual form of the novel this time. He presents a dozen episodes, each a story in itself, about the people who make up the hugh Wall Street law firm of Tower, Tilney and Webb.

Some of the characters keep popping up in different episodes, so the over-all effect is that of a novel about the firm itself.

A major figure is the boss man — ahem, chief partner — Clitus Tilney. In the first episode we find him pulling a swifty in helping an old lady to outwit a foundation, and at the end we find him tempted to retire into the academic dells.

There are portraits of an overtly ambitious man, and a covertly ambitious one; there are office fueds, office sex and office politics, along with the caste system of a large organization. There is a bouncing opportunist who uses his law job to latch on to a big bank position; a man whose whole narcissistic life is cnetered around a diary. There is a savage little piece about old Mrs. Abercrombie retiring after 40 years, that dissolves into poignancy.

The author knows his law to well that he guides you easily into the legal battlefields, without getting technical. But he oviously knows people too, and it is the people you will remember.

Auchincloss' world is a special one, populated rather heavily with well-heeled men and women who have attended the right schools. A good many of them are salty characters, and the author limns them so engagingly that you feel you know them.
