AMERICAN FLIERS REACH GREENLAND

Close Contest for Governor Expected By Leaders of Both Sides

EACH CANDIDATE CLAIMS VICTORY ASSURED HIM

Leaders of Factions Admit Majority Will Not Be Over 50,000

SITUATION ANALYZED

Political Statistician Tells What May Happen In Saturday Voting

Special to The Record News.

DALLAS, Texas, Aug. 21.—Within forty-eight hours of the final primary of Saturday both the Robertson and Ferguson organizations were claiming the governorship victory but neither organization was willing to issue figures or detailed statements of probable majorities.

Expect Margin Close

Privately leaders in both organizations admit they do not expect the majority to be over 50,000 either way. Each side has, of course, its theories of the total vote and how it will be split but the speakers in no case care to be quoted for the reason that within forty-eight hours they may appear ridiculous.

Business interests and probably comsions of each side reads about as follows:

Robertson with his 192,000 first primary vote is reasonably sure of having 180,000 of his primary supporters turn out for the second primary. His headquarters believe that he has the distinct majority, perhaps 80 per cent of the Barton and Collins vote, in spite of the fact that Barton and Collins both are in the Ferguson camp. If correct, this would add 40,000 to the Robertson first primary vote.

Whit Davidson's Vote.

The Whit Davidson vote of 124,000 is of course claimed by both sides but it is privately admitted that a majority of this vote is pro-Ferguson.

Of the Lynch Davidson vote of 141,000 there is much conflict in opinion. This original vote in the first primary was composed largely of busines sinterests and probably comprises many thousands of klan members who were voting their conviction of Lynch Davidson's ability as against an urge that the support the klan candidate. But with Lynch Davidson eliminated much of this vote, according to Robertson headquarters, reverts to Robertson as well as a very great percentage of this vote which refused to accept Ferguson because of his past record.

The pope vote and the Burkett vote are believed to be largely pro-Ferguson.

One who has surveyed the run-off primary from the side lines, but who has had four years training in connection with the state central committee today made this concrete prediction:

1. That Robertson will get 180,000 of his first primary votes as against 130,000 repeat votes for Mrs. Ferguson—a lead of 50,000 for Robertson before the first primary votes of other candidates is dealt with.

Ferguson and Robertson

votes as having been heard from, there will not be more than 240,000 more votes cast. This prediction is based on the fact that the supporters of the five other candidates will not appear in the second primary to the same extent as the Robertson and Ferguson original voters.

3. That these 240,000 votes, which were cast neither for Robertson nor Mrs. Ferguson will split roughly on a basis of two for one in favor of Mrs. Ferguson.

4. That if this ratio of two to one were held in a total of 240,000 Mrs. Ferguson would win by 30,000—That is she would overcome Robertson's initial 50,000 lead by a total of 80,000 majority from among those who voted for other candidates in the first primary.

5. That the unknown quantity, and one which makes the race an even bet, is the coming into the second primary of a considerable vote that did not appear in the first primary and which is apparently a pro-Robertson vote.

This is a vote of many women who have been aroused within the last ten days through missionary and aid society meetings and by many hundreds of talks by church leaders, some with and some without klan affiliations. If this vote amounts to as much as 30,000 or 40,000, or if the proportions of the two to one named above is

Germany Ratifies Dawes Plan

HERRIOT WINS ASSURANCE OF FRENCH ACTION

Chamber Defeats Move To Defer Treaty To Commission

SUCCESS CERTAIN

Premier Claims Great Victory for France In Negotiations

By The Associated Press.

BERLIN, Aug. 21.—The Reichsrat, consisting of members of the governments of the federated states, tonight adopted the legislative bills dealing with the Dawes plan. Before the vote was taken the representative of Mecklenburg-Strelitz declared that his government disapproved of the London pact and requested him to vote against the bill.

FRENCH PREMIER WINS APPROVAL.

By The Associated Press.

PARIS, Aug. 21. Premier Herriot tonight won assurance of a favorable vote in the chamber of deputies on the London agreement after he had read a long declaration defending his negotiations at the London conference. The danger of the senate taking action appears small.

The chamber sustained the government by a vote of 320 to 29 in defeating a motion to refer the London accord on the Dawes plan to a commission with the understanding that M. Herriot sign it first and then parliament would debate the question of ratification later on the theory that the agreement is a new treaty outside the Versailles treaty.

The premier proclaimed that never again would France have had a majority vote of the reparations commission for anything resembling the Ruhr operation, so he chose "realities" instead of "illusions" and felt that the keynote of arbitration was a triumph for the French. M. Herriot did not go deeply into the chances of the proposed loan's success, but intimated that there were movements behind the scenes in London which he would not characterize out of respect for other nations.

Mr. Franks today had a long talk with the boys who confessed they had written the letters demanding $8,000 or threatening death to Mr. Franks' wife and daughter. He told them they were misguided boys to seek money in such a manner to open a grocery.

The letters, Mr. Franks told them, had caused him much anguish but that he would recommend leniency for them and ask that they be released and given another chance to live straight lives.

Army Alone Will Listen For Radio Message From Mars As Suggested

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—Indications are that the government radio experts in charge of the various executive departments will find themselves in divided schools on the question of having their operators stand by and listen in for messages from Mars when that planet approaches nearest the earth.

Professor David Todd, formerly head astronomer of Amherst, believes that wireless operators on Mars may try to communicate with the earth and is seeking to have all sending stations of government and commercial control remain silent for brief intervals as the visiting planet approaches. He has requested the state department to seek cooperation from Latin-American and European governments, but has found officials there skeptical, while the navy department has declined to silence its stations as requested by Mr. Todd and the commerce department has decided to issue no instructions to commercial stations. The war department, however, has ordered its operators to keep quiet a few minutes each day and prepare to intercept anything in the air which in their opinion might be coming from Mars.

STATE DEMANDS NOOSE, DEFENSE MERCY FOR BOYS

Death Alone Will Expiate Crime, Prosecution Tells Judge

PLEAS DIFFER WIDELY

Attorneys for Boys Say Mental Disease Drove Them to Murder

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 21. An unprecedented plea that Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb hang as an expiation for their murder of Robert Franks, followed by a dispassionate discussion of mental disease as a measure of turpitude in determining the penalty, today marked the hearing before Judge John R. Caverly.

He Demands Gallows.

The former was given by Joseph Savage, assistant states attorney, who wound up a few hours effort with a direct demand that the slayers criminals be sent to the gallows.

The latter came from Walter Bachrach, junior counsel for the defense who stated the final summing up on behalf of the sons of the millionaire families.

Mr. Savage pictured Judge Caverly to himself as meeting the wishes of the community and of the world at large as upholding the majesty of swift and sure justice by decreeing that Loeb and Leopold die by the noose.

Compares Judge To Father.

Mr. Bachrach compared the judge to a just father, about to punish an erring child by first learning why the wrong had been committed that the punishment "might be less brutal than the wrong."

Mr. Savage referred to the defendants as "fiends." He declared they considered themselves "super men above the law of God and man."

Mr. Bachrach mentioned them only as "Leopold and Loeb."

The assistant prosecutor ridiculed the test many of defense experts, declaring that the [illegible] of children [illegible] was a shadow on the [illegible] of science.

Calls It Mental Disease

Mr. Bachrach asserted calmly that the analyses of the experts would show that the defense had in fact established a degree of mental disease less than insanity and that while the slayers might have been sane in the commission of the crime, such disease existed they [illegible] taken proper opportunities to examine their patients.

Mr. Savage sketched the scenes in the home of Bobby Franks and the heavy household as a result of the crime that is the very nature of [illegible] surroundings would [illegible] crime unless there was a wrong with them mentally. The defendants were not [illegible]

Mr. Savage moved back [illegible] a cleared space before the bench confronting vigorously or pointing emphatically with a short [illegible] held to the judge's bench. He used a powerful voice that ran the gamut in pitches. Mr. Bachrach [illegible] against the bench spoke in a conversational tone and used his [illegible] sparingly. GOVERNMENT AWAITS OFFICIAL WORD.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21. — Although no official word had been received [illegible] at either the war or navy departments concerning the progress of the American around-the-world aviators, press dispatches from Halifax conveying indirect word of their arrival at Greenland were taken as confirmatory of the belief held here from the first that the fliers would make the 825 mile hop successfully.

Difficulties in communications when the fliers were stationed in Iceland almost invariably meant a delay of several hours in transmitting messages and it was assumed that similar difficulties had been encountered [illegible] the absence of official advices.

Interest in the flight however, was at its height. Officers of both services were at their desks, awaiting word, while the general public besieged newspaper offices with a constant stream of inquiries.

The possibility of the fliers making slow time in the jump from Reykjavik, Iceland, to Frederickdal, Greenland, was recognized especially in view of the heavy fogs the planes were carrying and the probability of their encountering adverse weather conditions.

TEXAS PROGS FITE ELECTORS

La Follette Supporters Act to Get Names Upon Ticket

By The Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Aug. 21.—R. E. Curtis of Fort Worth, chairman of the independent progressive party executive committee, today filed with Henry Hutchings, acting secretary of state, a certified list of the party's electors who are pledged to vote for Robert M. LaFollette for president and Burton K. Wheeler, for vice president. The electors were chosen at the Waco convention of the party August 12.

The electors at large are Mrs. Genie Griffin DeWolfe of Tarrant county and L. L. Rhodes of VanZandt county. The district electors include:

E. R. Meitzen, Bowie; W. D. Johnson, Jefferson; J. L. Suggin, Wood; John L. Andrews, Grayson; M. A. Smith, Dallas; Jordan T. Lawler, Brazos; N. W. Murphey, Liberty; K. E. Shoats, Harris; Fred Brickenhoefer, DeWitt; N. A. Ladd, Travis; A. F. Von Blon, McLennan; Franklin Wolfe, Tarrant; John R. Evans, Cooke; Bernard A. Scheigman, Bexar; W. J. Bond, Hidalgo; M. H. Leibson, El Paso; H. J. Parker, Coleman, and Francis E. Bell, Carson.

This action completes one of the three ways which the convention considered getting LaFollette electors on the ticket at the November election. The other two included, if for any reason the state authorities deemed certification insufficient by petition and by certification of the electors named by the united republican party which also held its convention at Waco at the same time the LaFollette or independent progressive party held its state meeting.

EACH CANDIDATE

over generous for Mrs. Ferguson, Robertson will win.

The above of course is merely one man's analysis. This same analyst, who really qualifies more readily than any other, stated that he believed ten days ago that the Ferguson lead was so distinct that it constituted considerable adds in her favor, but that on the eve of the run-off he was puzzled by the possibility of many thousands of non-voters in the first primary reaching the polls Saturday.

Sex Equation

There has been much speculation around both headquarters as to the effect of the sex equation in this race. This was the query:

Would Robertson defeat the average woman of Texas who had shown the same personal strength as has Mrs. Miriam Ferguson, but who was not the wife of James Ferguson. In other words if the Ferguson name were eliminated and Mrs. Ferguson were Mrs. Brown would Mrs. Ferguson in the capacity of Mrs. Brown defeat Robertson? The answer of the majority was that there is sufficient habit prejudice regarding a woman in the governorship to act in Robertson's favor among the voters of both sexes if that were the only issue in the race. The majority questioned believed that the habit prejudice against a woman in the governorship would be stronger than the habit of the American public of trying most new things once.

On the other hand the more partisan of the Ferguson voters believe that the fact that Mrs. Ferguson is a woman adds to her strength, claiming that many tens of thousands of Texas voters are of a disposition to vote for "something different whenever you give them an opportunity."

Speculation of course is anyone's business before the actual voting Saturday but a census of all opinions gathered, representing citizens of the state from the panhandle down through the black belt and into the port along the gulf makes it anyone's race.

The average of the estimate total vote is between 550,000 and 600,000 for the governorship. A number of the estimators believe that the total vote on the attorney general will exceed the vote on the governorship. These men base their estimate on the fact that they believe there are 50,000 persons who will go to the polls and vote for all offices except that of the governorship. They believe that there are many conscientious voters who are so dissatisfied with either candidate that they do not care to express a preference, but will otherwise exercise their suffrage.

COOLIDGE FEARS TO MAKE DRIVE

Leaders Think Campaign Would Lose More Votes Than Gained

By Bascom N. Timmons
Record News Staff.

Special to The Record News.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 21.—When President Coolidge returns here from his Vermont vacation he must decide what kind of a campaign he is to make. Various republican campaign strategists are growing nervous over the effect on public sentiment when President Coolidge's opponents really swing into action.

Would Keep Coolidge At Home

It has been tacitly understood that Mr. Coolidge was to stay in Washington throughout the campaign, making as few speeches as possible and appearing to be too engrossed with affairs of the nation to give much attention to politics.

Virtually all republican leaders had agreed that this would achieve the best psychological effect. It had been proposed that Mr. Coolidge should occasionally appoint some committee or make some move to attract attention, but without forcing him to present himself in person to the public.

To this end the idea has been revolving for weeks to have him call a conference of governors or otherwise initiate a general movement for reduction of state and local taxes. This, it was felt, would be universally popular and would achieve greater benefits politically than almost any other enterprise.

Davis Strikes Fear

But the impression made by John W. Davis in his speech of acceptance, the interest shown in the Davis excursion into New Jersey this week and growing strength for Davis in New York and New England has begun to strike fear into the hearts of the plan-makers.

Campaign managers are already wondering whether the wheelhorse orators of the G. O. P. can effectively substitute for Mr. Coolidge in retrieving captured ground. On the other hand, they fear to let the president take the stump because of his defects as a speaker and in those attributes of personality that appeal popularly.

One veteran of old guard campaigning, for instance, remarks that "Mr. Coolidge would lose more votes than he'd gain."

One of the most active senators in Mr. Coolidge's campaign says the president would destroy the popular conception of him and his personality.

Committee Lacks Members

Concern of republican committeemen is increased by the difficulty in assembling the "advisory committee" invented after the Cleveland convention to appease Secretary Slemp and others who were threatening to revolt from Chariman Butler's czarism. It is more than a month since the committee was created and it has not yet found itself any members.

Will Hays was mentioned as one who would be immediately drafted for it, but he has declined, saying he was too busy. Some outstanding republicans have been invited but have discovered that business or prior engagements would prevent their acceptance.

A group of western senators is insisting that Mr. Coolidge make a real fight to keep the insurgent northwest from flocking to La Follette, but as yet nothing has been done about meeting the La Follette assault. Suggestions are coming from local republican organizations in the west that the president come out there for speeches. His advisers are finding it embarrassing to contrive plausible excuses for declining.

Reports keep coming in that Hiram Johnson is going to jump aboard the La Follette bandwagon and try to take California with him. Not a word has been extracted from Mr. Johnson, however, whose very silence has been growing more and more torturing to the Coolidge camp.

Outwardly all is peace and optimism around republican national committee headquarters. Every word uttered for publication radiates confidence and the assurance of easy victory, but underneath some of these annoyances are growing increasingly vexatious.

Big Crowd Listens To Attack on Robertson And Ku Klux

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Aug. 21. — Electrans turned out in goodly numbers again here tonight when Judge S. C. Paddelford of Fort Worth and Judge T. F. Hunter spoke to a large crowd, in the interest of Mrs. Ferguson's candidacy for governor.

As is the case in all campaign speeches nowadays, the ku klux klan came in for a goodly share of the talks, and Judge Robertson and his organization were bitterly arraigned by the speakers.

The meeting was held on "political square," fronting Main and Cleveland streets, and at times, police were compelled to move cars in order that the Wichita highway could be cleared for traffic.

MONEY At Work

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.

What are the commonest legal mistakes which cause money losses to the average man?

1 His apparent willingness to accept verbal modifications and assurances contrary to the provisions of the written contract which he has signed, when the rule of evidence is quite universal, that verbal or parole testimony cannot be given or received for the purpose of varying or changing the terms of a written instrument.

2 Failure to have title to property which he is buying examined by a competent lawyer or a title company.

3 To assume that ordinary "puffing" or seller's talk in the sale of personal property are warranties.

4 Extending the time of payment of note having endorsers thereon, at the request of the maker, without the knowledge and consent of the indorsers.

5 Assuming that the statute of limitations begins to run against a demand note from the day when demand note is made, rather than from the date which the note bears. The latter rule is the correct one.

Don't Give Half a Vote to the Klan's Puppet

When you fail to vote at all, or when you scratch both gubernatorial candidates, you are casting half a vote in favor of Klan domination of Texas politics.

The only reason such a weak, negligible character as Felix Robertson is in the race is that he is WILLING TO DO WHAT THE KLAN LEADERS TELL HIM TO DO.

They might have picked a forceful, able, brilliant man to carry their banner—but such a man wouldn't agree to do their bidding.

There Is Only One Way To Vote Against The Klan, That Is, To Vote For Miriam Ferguson

Robertson's speakers have urged you to vote against Mrs. Ferguson because her husband was opposed to the draft law.

Had Robertson forgotten, when he talked about that, that he too, opposed the draft law? If he would have you oppose Mrs. Ferguson for her husband's anti-draft views, how can he ask you to support him when he fought the draft?

In a letter to the Dallas News, April 7, 1917, Felix wrote in bitter opposition to the draft law. His letter follows:

Dallas, Texas, April 7, 1917. I desire to enter vigorous protest against the general staff conscript measure. It means that the boys of this land are to be 'drafted.' In other words, let the boys do the fighting and the men do the shouting. It's a militaristic measure jammed down our throats by bureaucratic regular army officers, whose business it is to create a great standing army like Germany's. They ask us to adopt the very system we are going to war to fight against and overthrow, if possible. We have had 'trained soldier' dinned in our ears by the militarist until we have lost our bearing.

"Don't the volunteer soldiers of England and Canada stack up rather well by the German machine-made article? And don't our own militia look as good to the naked eye as the regulars we had at the fair last year?

"If congress will direct the president to issue a call on each state for its quota of volunteer regiments, Gov. Ferguson will appoint Colonels, majors, and other officers. Militia companies will spring up over night; our ranks will be filled in a day. Thousands of men, mature men, will rush to the colors, and we will save ourselves the dreadful spectacle of American boys being drafted to fight the battles of our country. I want to bear a man's part in this war by fighting for my flag. I am a trained, experienced officer. Yet I am denied the privilege because I am not a boy. Is it fair to men? Is it fair to boys? This land of ours is as dear to me as it can be to any youth. And I hate the words 'draft' and 'conscript' as much as I do the words 'traitor' and 'slacker.'

"Wire each senator and congressman that you favor the old volunteer system, which produced soldiers like Lee and Grant commanded, and let them know you won't stand for a conscript act, because if they pass it, the people won't let their boys be torn from them, and it will result in a repeal any way, besides the national disgrace of conscripting men to fight for freedom. Give the men a chance.

Yours respectfully,
"FELIX D. ROBERTSON."

Nocona Minister Disabled In War Receives Government Attention As Result Of Record News Story

Special to The Record News.

NOCONA, Aug. 21.—An overseas man, a citizen of Nocona, and his friends, were made to rejoice recently on account of a nice fat check from Uncle Sam, being back pay for ten months and assurance he will receive his rgeular allowance in the future.

This man is Rev. Thurman Shackelford, who volunteered in the world war and while in service, had an attack of pneumonia, and a short time later was stricken with paralysis. He received a regular allowance or compensation from the government for a while, but from some cause this was discontinued. Rev. Shackelford now lies almost helpless in bed at his home here in the daily care of his wife. His funds were running low and this help from the government was a great relief.

Shackelford was reinstated and rated as "permanent" and "total" disability, by the government, and it is thought will very likely continue receiving his compensation in the future.

It is believed his case received attention as the result of an article recently published in the Wichita Falls Record News.

Judge John C. Marshall

Is the Leading Candidate for the State Senate

From the 23rd Senatorial District

Judge Marshall has lived in Quanah and West Texas for more than twenty-five years, has taught school, farmed, served his county as prosecuting attorney, county judge, two terms in the State Legislature, 10 years as chairman of Quanah School Board, 15 years chairman board of stewards of his local church, many years a bank director and wheat farmer and leading attorney of his town. He is strictly a self-made man.

Judge Marshall's opponent has circulated a statement that he favors and voted for a high tax on oil, but this statement is absolutely false. Judge Marshall never voted for a higher tax on oil than 2 per cent, the present law, and has always voted voted agianst any higher rate.

John C. Marshall is easily the outstanding candidate for the State Senate, and is so recognized by thousands of the best people of Wichita and the other counties of the district. He is not now and never has been a member of the Ku Klux Klan, and is under no promise to them or any other organization to support their measures. He will go to the Senate a free man, with a clean record, both private and public, and owing no man or set of men any unworthy obligation, and in a position by reason of his high character and outstanding ability to render faithful and efficient service to the whole people, and to give every man a square deal,

We therefore endorse him as the man best fitted to represent us in the State Senate:

POLITICAL SIGNS OF THE TIMES.

An astute politician in the city of Washington, after a survey of the field, predicts that John W. Davis will win if he carries New York and New Jersey. Maryland, Kentucky, Delaware and West Virginia are conceded to Davis by this political observer who is a newspaper man and independent in politics. He concedes to La Follette Wisconsin, Minnesota, the Dakotas, Montana and Nebraska and declares that Iowa, Kansas, Washington and Wyoming are doubtful states but strong for La Follette. According to his figures, La Follette will obtain around seventy-five electoral votes. He concedes all the southern and border states to Davis and contends that Coolidge has little chance of winning the election. Wall Street, he says, is for Coolidge, but while the street knows all about money, it knows very little about the political conditions in the forty-eight states of the union.

Samuel Gompers has forgiven Senator Robert M. La Follette for his war record. Samuel says war conflict is over and he is willing to forget differences of opinion. Samuel is a most forgiving person, if the person who needs forgiveness happens to be on his side of the political fence.

Samuel Gompers and his American Federation of Labor have placed Representative Nicholas Longworth and Representative Theodore E. Burton on the black list of organized labor. Senator Joseph E. Robinson of Arkansas and Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi have been placed on the labor roll of honor list. Senator Warren of Wyoming, republican and one of the best known of the reactionaries in the senate has been placed on the honor list by Mr. Gompers and his men. All this reminds this newspaper that Representative Eugene Black of the first district of Texas has never been on the honor list of any of the political blocs, yet he walked away with a renomination in July and boldly says he is going to continue to serve all the people and not some of the people.

Allen L. Benson of New York is one of the leading socialists of America and the world for that matter. He has announced for La Follette because Benson believes La Follette is the nearest to what he thinks is right; being a socialist he made a nasty fling at John W. Davis, saying that Davis is better known in England than in this country. As for Coolidge Benson brands him as an extreme conservative, "for the interests of the few as opposed to the many." This closes the list. All the leading socialists of America are for the Wisconsin senator.

It will require 266 votes, the majority of the electoral college, necessary to an election and on the inside republican leaders have figured out 199 electoral votes or 67 less than the necessary majority. Even with the electoral votes of New York 45, and New Jersey 14, Coolidge and Dawes would still lack 8 of the 266 necessary to the election of president and vice president. Wall street is betting three to one on Coolidge. Wall street bet three to one on Charles Evans Hughes and Hughes was defeated. Wall street bet on Theodore Roosevelt in 1912 and Woodrow Wilson was never a favorite among the gamblers of the street in that year.

Senator La Follette and his backers are claiming the earth. Their latest are California, Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota, the Dakotas, Montana, Wyoming, with a total of sixty-five electoral votes. Senator Hiram Johnson of California is expected to land his state in the La Follette column. Senator Hi is sulking. He lost his voice long before the Cleveland convention was held. He is a native son. California has another favorite son, an adopted one who is somewhere in Europe but is expected home in September. He is pledged to John W. Davis. Senator Hi is pledged to himself. There is no telling where he will land.

Henry Ford refused to take the republican hook. This hook was baited with a senatorial toga and Michigan republicans furnished the bait. They saw a chance to place Senator James A. Couzens out of the running and for this reason tempted Henry with a senatorial prize. He refused to go afishing in the political waters. He is going to continue to make flivvers, run railroads and coal mines, print the Dearborn Independent and pile up money which he says he is using for the benefit of mankind. Henry isn't a sucker this year. He threw away a presidential nomination and perhaps the office itself when he landed on the Coolidge band wagon.

In Massachusetts political candidates who use the radio to broadcast their speeches must be polite. Grand Old Massachusetts. If a speaker violates this rule, he is warned, he will suddenly find that the current has been switched off and he is talking into a dead microphone. Down here in Texas where a petticoated politician advises tar and feathers for those who are not on our side of the political fence, everything goes—so it appears to a man in the tree tops. And not many years ago ten million men died to make the world safe for democracy. And while the war was on a venturesome spirit let loose the thought that it was splendid to make democracy safe for the world first. Was he right?

HAVE YOU BEEN TOLD?—

That President Coolidge has completed his acceptance [illegible] and Colonel George Harvey was invited to the [illegible] to use the Harvey blue pencil on the same? [illegible] George Harvey is a republican this year [illegible] of the Washington Post?

THIS SCARECROW DOESN'T KEEP 'EM OUT OF THE PATCH.

A LOST LADY

By Willa Cather

Niel opened his eyes and looked wonderingly about the big, half-darkened room, full of heavy, old-fashioned walnut furniture. He was lying on a white bed with ruffled pillow shams, and Mrs. Forrester was kneeling beside him, bathing his forehead with cologne. Bohemian Mary stood behind her with a basin of water. "Ouch, my arm!" he muttered, and the perspiration broke out on his face.

"Yes dear, I'm afraid it's broken. Don't move. Dr. Dennison will be here in a few minutes. It doesn't hurt very much, does it?"

"No'm" he said faintly.

Suddenly she got up to take off her glittering rings—she had not thought of them before—shed them off her fingers with a quick motion as if she were washing her hands, and dropped them into Mary's broad palm. The little boy was thinking that he would probably never be in so nice a place again. The windows went almost down to the baseboard, like doors, and the closed green shutters let in streaks of sunlight that quivered on the polished floor and the silver things on the dresser. The marble-topped washstand was as big as a sideboard. The massive walnut furniture was all inlaid with pale-colored woods. Niel had a scrollsaw and this inlay interested him.

"There, he looks better now, doesn't he, Mary?" Mrs. Forrester ran her fingers through his black hair and lightly kissed him on the forehead. Oh, how sweet, how sweet she smelled!

"Wheels on the bridge; it's Dr. Dennison. Go and show him in Mary."

Dr. Dennison set Niel's arm and took him home in his buggy. Except for the fact that he was Judge Pommeroy's nephew, Niel would have been one of the boys to whom Mrs. Forrester merely nodded brightly as she passed. His father was a widower. A poor relation, a spinster from Kentucky, kept house for them, and Niel thought she was probably the worst housekeeper in the world.

CHAPTER IV
Passing Years

For the next few years Neil saw very little of Mrs. Forrester. She was an excitement that came and went with summer. She and her husband always spent the winter in Denver and Colorado Springs—left Sweet Water soon after Thanksgiving and did not return until the first of May. He knew that Mrs. Forrester liked him, but she hadn't much time for growing boys. When she had friends staying with her, and gave a picnic supper for them, or a dance in the grove on a moonlight night, Neil was always invited. Coming and going along the road to the marsh with the Blum boys, he sometimes met the captain driving visitors over in the democrat wagon, and he heard about these people from Black Tom, Judge Pommeroy's faithful negro servant, who went over to wait on the table for Mrs. Forrester when she had a dinner party.

Then came the accident which cut short the captain's career as a road-builder. After that fall with his horse, he lay ill at the Antlers, in Colorado Springs, all winter. In the summer, when Mrs. Forrester brought him home to Sweet Water, he still walked with a cane. He had grown much heavier, seemed encumbered by his own bulk, and never suggested taking a contract for the railroad again. He was able to work in his garden, trimmed his snowball bushes and lilac hedges, devoted a great deal of time to growing roses. He and his wife still went away for the winter, but each year the period of their absence grew shorter.

All this while the town of Sweet Water was changing. Its future no longer looked bright. Successive crop failures had broken the spirit of the farmers. George Adams and his family had gone back to Massachusetts, disillusioned about the West. One by one the other gentlemen ranchers followed their example. The Forresters now had fewer visitors. The Burlington was "drawing in its horns," as people said, and the railroad officials were not stopping off at Sweet Water so often—were more inclined to hurry past a town where they had sunk money that would never come back.

Niel Herbert's father was one of the first failures to be crowded to the wall. He closed his little house, sent his cousin Sadie back to Kentucky, and went to Denver to accept an office position. He left Niel behind to read law in the office of his uncle. Not that Niel had any taste for the law, but he liked being with Judge Pommeroy, and he might as well stay there as anywhere for the present. The few thousand dollars his mother had left him would not be his until he was 21.

Niel fitted up a room for himself behind the suits which the judge retained for his law offices, on the second floor of the most pretentious brick block in town. There he lived with monastic cleanliness and severity, glad to be rid of his cousin and her inconsequential housewifery, and resolved to be a bachelor, like his uncle. He took care of the offices, which meant that he did the janitor work, and arranged them exactly to suit his taste, making the rooms so attractive that all the judge's friends, and especially Capt. Forrester, dropped in there to talk oftener than ever.

The judge was proud of his nephew. Niel was now 19, a tall, straight, deliberate boy. His features were clear-cut, his gray eyes, so dark that they looked black under his long lashes, were rather moody and challenging. The world did not seem over-bright to young people just then. His reserve, which did not come from embarrassment or vanity, but from a critical habit of mind, made him seem older than he was, and a little cold.

One winter afternoon, only a few days before Christmas, Niel sat writing in the back office, at the long table where he usually worked or trifled, surrounded by the judge's fine law library and solemn steel engravings of statesmen and jurists. His uncle was at his desk in the front office, engaged in a friendly consultation with one of his country clients.

Niel, greatly bored with the notes he was copying, was trying to invent an excuse for getting out on the street, when he became aware of light footsteps coming rapidly down the outside corridor. The door of the front office opened, he heard his uncle rise quickly to his feet, and, at the same moment, heard a woman's laugh—a soft, musical laugh which rose and descended like a suave scale. He turned in his screw chair so that he could look over his shoulder through the double doors into the front room.

Mrs. Forrester stood there, shaking her muff at the judge and the bewildered Swede farmer. Her quick eyes lighted upon a bottle of bourbon and two glasses on the desk among the papers.

"Is that the way you prepare your cases, judge? What an example for Niel!" She peeped through the door and nodded to the boy as he rose.

He remained in the back room, however, watching her while she declined the chair the judge pushed toward her and made a sign of refusal when he politely pointed to the bourbon. She stood beside his desk in her long seal-skin coat and cap, a crimson scarf showing about the collar, a little brown veil with spots tied over her eyes.

The veil did not in the least obscure those beautiful eyes, dark and full of light, set under a low white forehead and arching eyebrows. The frosty air had brought no color to her cheeks—her skin had always the fragrant, crystalline whiteness of white lilacs.

If she merely bowed to you, merely looked at you, it constituted a personal relation. Something about her took hold of one in a flash; one became acutely conscious of her, of her fragility and grace, of her mouth which could say so much without words; of her eyes, lively, laughing, intimate, nearly always a little mocking.

"Will you and Niel dine with us tomorrow evening, judge? And will you lend me Tom? We've just had a wire. The Ogdens are stopping over with us. They've been East to bring the girl home from school. They want to get home for Christmas, but they will stop off for two days. Probably Frank Ellinger will come on from Denver."

"No prospect can afford me such pleasure as that of dining with Mrs. Forrester," said the judge ponderously.

"Thank you!" she bowed playfully, and turned toward the double doors. "Niel, could you leave your work long enough to drive me home? Mr. Forrester has been detained at the bank."

At the hitch-bar stood her cutter, looking like a painted toy among the country sleds and wagons. Niel tucked the buffalo robes about Mrs. Forrester, untied the ponies, and sprang in beside her.

TOMORROW—A Dinner Party.

Man lived in Florida 25,000 years ago, according to evidence found by Dr. F. B. Loomis, professor of geology at Amherst college.

Robert Raikes, a Gloucester (England) printer and publisher, in 1780 noticed some urchins playing in the street on a Sunday morning, gathered a number of them together and formed them into a class for private religious instruction. This was the beginning of Sunday schools.

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

VIRGO.

The early morning hours are fraught with adverse aspects, but later on, favorable conditions for business culminate. They, however, also indicate carelessness and extravagance, and, unless you "watch your step" differences and quarrels with the opposite sex. If poise and equilibrium are maintained, these besetting difficulties will be avoided.

A child born today will be very healthy in early childhood, but will be exposed to a serious sickness during the adolescent stage. Its character will be strong and its disposition both attractive and bright. It will also develop a high degree of mentality and will never need to be urged to study.

If today is your birthday, you are very intolerant of new ideas and rather pride yourself on your ultra conservatism. This is sometimes another name for ignorance and obstinacy.

Nearly every enlargement of the domain of knowledge, which has made us better acquainted with the heavens, with the earth, and with ourselves, has been established by the energy, the devotion, the self-sacrifice and the courage of the great spirits of past times—opposed and revealed by their contemporaries.

The unjust intolerance of the past—as revealed historically—should persuade you to be morbearant towards those who differ from you, provided they observe patiently, think honestly and give expression to their convictions freely and truthfully.

You also lack energy—the central element of which is will—and which produces the miracles of enthusiasm in all ages. Everywhere it is the mainspring of what is called force of character, and the sustaining power of all great action.

Energy of temperament with a moderate degree of wisdom, will carry you further than any amount of intellect without it.

HOW IT STARTED

Maps had their origin not in humanity's interest in the study of geography, but in the necessity for collecting the taxes of an ancient king! For the first map on record is one made in the reign of Sargon, King of Akkad, one of the states of Babylonia which existed before the formation of the Babylonian or Assyrian Empire. The date of this map is about 3800 B. C., and it is a topographical survey which was prepared for the purpose of taxation.

As early as 1300 B. C. map making became common in Egypt. These were still only local maps however, their object being the apportioning of land and adjusting of boundaries after the Nile floods.

The first map of the world was made in the 6th century B. C. by Anaximander, a pupil of Thales of Miletus, the first student of world-wide geography. And the real founder of scientific geography and map making as we know it today was Aristotle who, though he left no maps, proved that the earth is a sphere as it was thenceforth represented.

THROUGH A WOMAN'S EYES

By JEAN NEWTON

FRIENDS.

How some people do neglect their friends! In these days of rushing around and worrying about the high cost of living, real friends are forgotten and appreciation for past kindnesses is put off for too long.

I once read in a little song book a line that has impressed itself on my memory for many a year. "A friend is a gift you give yourself."

I am fortunate in having a wonderful woman friend. She is much older than I am, and far wiser in the ways of the world. I go to her for advice, because I respect the way she has worked out her salvation. Her home and family always seem to be in loving harmony, and she fairly radiates joy, and peace and love.

I always have to smile after I have heaped a load of troubles into her lap, and she has picked them up, one by one, and blown them away like one would the white top of a dandelion.

She always understands my side of everything.

I do not neglect this friend. I understand she is a gift I give myself, and when I have joys, she is the first one with whom I share them. When I have success, I rush to her and we "do the town."

I learned early in life that the reason there are so many "fair weather" friends is because we share our fair days with the wronk kind of people. We should give the fair days to those who shelter us on the stormy days and the healthy days to those who share our sick ones with us.

And we should, in this mad rush of life remember that a good friend can not be replaced.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

WHEN REASON TOTTERS

Time was I was fairly contented
With my health and my bed and my board,
Though the house that I lived in was rented,
And I hadn't so much as a Ford.
I followed life's twistings and turnings,
Unhopeful of fame or success,
And harbored no soul-racking yearnings
For things that I didn't possess.

But lately my longings outnumber
The hopes in an ambitious heart,
They rise in my mind as I slumber,
And always I wake with a start.
For sleep has no opiate fetters
For the brain which is struggling for words
Of five, ten or seventeen letters—
Meaning towns, chalk-marks, rivers or birds.

I can't think of business conditions,
I seldom know what I'm about,
For I'm busy with queer definitions—
And trying to figure them out.
I can't get my mind on my labors,
When home of an evening, because,
I've just got to call up the neighbors
To learn what a dithyramb does.

I fly into impotent rages,
As sternly but vainly I look
Through the tattered illusory pages
Of a fatuous synonym book.
And Tommy and Willie and Daisy
When Sunday comes, run for their lives,
For they know that their dad will go crazy
When the new cross word puzzle arrives.

Dr. Frank Crane's Daily Editorial

Fool Friends

The successful as well as the unsuccessful have reason to implore the Deity to deliver them from their fool friends.

This remark is occasioned by the action of some of Mussolini's friends in Italy who thought they were doing a service to the cause of Facism by removing Deputy Matteoti.

Any one who has studied any kind of movement knows that it is easier to start one than to stop it.

It is easier to get people excited than to calm them. It is easier to raise the devil than to lay him.

Everyone who has had much to do with popular movements is aware of this. In fact everyone who has ever attained any amount of conspicuity knows it. It is hard to be temperate and, at the same time, manage an affair which depends upon intemperance for its motive power.

If the people in the United States, for instance, are in favor of the abolition of the saloon with all its attendant evils, it would seem they have enough to do with fighting their enemies and the enemies of the cause, but probably as much harm has been done by the unwise friends of prohibition as by its enemies.

Extreme and injurious attempts to limit the liberties of their fellow men have seriously injured the efforts of those who are trying to put across a reasonable and rational reform.

The same thing is true of the labor movement. The effort to place the laboring men in a position where they can get justice is interfered with quite as much by their friends, the communists and socialists, as it is by their enemies. It would be much easier to secure justice for the working men if they could always restrain their intemperate and ill-advised friends.

Everybody almost, is convinced that the worker does not receive his share of the profits, at least that what his share is should not be determined by those who have control merely of the capital, but far from everyone is convinced of the radical attacks made by the socialists and communists and others, in favor of the working man as a class.

The legitimate of every party, to be of benefit to its country is injured quite as much by its fool friends who make extravagant claims that cannot be justified, as by others.

It seems impossible to secure a decent balance in the human system, just enough radicalism and just enough conservatism. In everyone some tendency seems to predominate.

CHARLIE BRYAN BUSY WITH STATE AFFAIRS

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 21.—Deferring for the present the task of buckling down to the preparation of the speeches he is to make in his campaign, Gov. Charles W. Bryan, democratic vice presidential candidate is giving his attention to matters at the state capital.

Thus far the vice presidential nominee has given little, if any thought to just what line of attack he will pursue in the present campaign, although in his speech of acceptance he made it plain that later on, he would discuss the issues that he did not dwell upon at the notification ceremony. His chief appeal, however, it is generally understood, will be directed to the agriculturists and the laboring elements.

DISCS ON BIKES ADVERTISING FAIR

Another unique advertising scheme has been adopted by officials of the Texas-Oklahoma Fair association. Thousands of yellow disc signs are being distributed over the city to boys owning bicycles and are being placed on the wheels. The disc has a few words on it advertising the Texas-Oklahoma fair and the date that it will be held this year.

R. E. Shepherd, secretary of the association, said that hundreds of boys were coming to the Texas-Oklahoma Fair association's office in the Kahn building and securing the discs. The advertisments are also made so as to fit a motorcycle wheel or a wheel of an automobile. The discs are of a glaring yellow hue and for that reason are attracting quite a bit of attention throughout the city.

Dorothy Dix' Advice

Have You a "Susan" in Your Family; Someone Who Goes Shabby in Order to Support Parents or Relatives Whom You, Too, Should Care For? —If So, You Should Divide Up With Her. Don't Be a Welcher a Minute Longer.

Have you a martyr in your family? If you have, don't pile any more faggots around the stake at which she is being slowly roasted. Don't give the thumbscrews another turn. Don't add to the burdens under which she is being crushed.

You don't know what I mean? Well, then, listen to the story of Susan, and perhaps it will enlighten you, and, as Captain Cuttle used to say, "the bearings of the story is in the application thereof."

Susan is a woman in her late thirties, but so tired and worn that she looks older. She is a competent stenographer and earns a good salary, but she is always shabby because it takes so much money to support her family that she never has any to spend on herself.

Susan is the youngest of a large family. All the other brothers and sisters are married and have established homes, with wives and husbands and children of their own. But Susan has never married, although she had many chances to do so in her youth, because somebody had to take care of mother. The brothers and sisters were quite horrified at the thought of mother being left alone in her old age with nobody to look after her.

But none of them volunteered to break up their own home and take on the job.

Mother had no money, and just as soon as she was out of school Susan went to work to support her and an old aunt who wished herself on Susan. Ever since Susan has been footing the bills. The other sons and daughters are so sorry they can't help, but are always building a new house, or buying a new car, or expanding their business, or sending their children off to college, or taking a trip to Europe, so really they haven't a penny that they can spare.

But they are very dutiful about coming to see mother, and paying her long visits when they are tired out and want to rest, and they often send the children to spend months at a time with grandma. In fact, there is hardly ever a time when there isn't some one of them staying there. And in the summer they make it a custom to have a family reunion in the old home. It is so nice for mother to have all of her children and grandchildren together with her.

That's the time when Susan runs into debt to the butcher and grocer, for it never occurs to the well-off sisters and brothers to pay board, although they are eloquent enough about the high cost of living when it touches their own pocketbooks. They ignore the fact that it is because Susan has had to feed them and their hungry children that she can't afford the new dress she needs so badly.

Susan's life is a dull, hopeless grind. All day at the office, and then back home at night to the society of two querulous, tiresome old women, who tell the same old stories over and over again, and who have a thousand whims and crochets that must be catered to.

The brothers and sisters say that it is just wonderful the patience Susan has with mother and Aunt Hannah while Susan goes away somewhere and gets a little much-needed rest.

Your mother is just as much the other children's mother as she is Susan's. Mother did for them just as much as she did for Susan. Their duty to mother is just as great as is Susan's. It is just as much up to them to help support her as it is Susan.

They have no right to dump the whole burden of mother's support on Susan, and to sacrifice Susan on the family altar. Still less have they the right to sponge on Susan's meager purse and force her to take care of their children. It is a beastly selfish thing they do, and they don't make amends by calling Susan a saint. It isn't a halo Susan wants. She desires a twenty-five dollar hat.

Nor does mother appreciate what Susan does for her. It takes every cent that Susan makes to feed and clothe mother, and keep a roof above her head and a fire in the furnace. Mother takes all of this for granted, with never a thank for it, but she has spasms of appreciation and gratitude for the five dollar bill that her sons occasionally send her, and the lace collar and the knitted shawl that Maud and Geraldine presented to her on her birthday.

It is the children that have gone out into the world and who have fine homes and go into society and who are successful in business of whom mother is proud. It is their exploits of which she brags, and she wants them to spend their money in making a splurge. Susan will take care of her. Poor Susan, who was never pretty or dashing or ambitious like the other girls.

It is the old, old story of the Prodigal Son, who has the fatted calf slain for him, while the good son never gets so much as a veal chop.

Have you a Susan in your family? If so, quit being a welcher. Divide up with her. It is just as much your duty to help take care of your parents as it is hers.

ROBERTSON For Governor

Vote for Robertson for Governor because—

(1) Robertson never has disgraced Texas.

(2) He has climbed steadily upward in positions of honor and trust to Judge of the District Court.

(3) HONOR is the main issue in this campaign, and it is not a question of Klan or Anti-Klan, Pro or Anti-Pro. Ferguson is only using Klan propaganda to screen his own record.

(4) Robertson has never filched the public treasury.

(5) He has not been convicted of bribe-taking.

(6) He does not scoff at religion.

(7) He is not a tool of the liquor gang, who have have always visibly and invisibly corrupted national, state and county politics.

(8) He was not a traitor to his country in time of war. The kaiser must have been pleased at Ferguson's war record.

(9) He is not opposed to woman suffrage.

(10) He is not against the church and things decent and good.

(11) He is not against the laws for preservation of fish and game.

(12) He has not betrayed a sacred trust nor defalcated.

(13) He never has bolted nor debased the democratic party.

(14) He never tried to form a party of his own.

(15) He never has said his pocket book was his principles.

(16) His name never has been outlawed from the state ticket.

(17) He does not have to be vindicated, as he has not embezzled any public funds.

(18) He has not tried to buy his way into the governor's chair.

(19) He has no slush fund nor hired rundown politicians, bootleggers, and people with axes to grind and who do not believe what they say.

(20) Robertson has not the old gang lined up who hope to bring liquor back in face of the 18th amendment.

(21) He has the interests of good government at heart, and all else good.

(22) He has not been of more detriment to his state than the war, the boll weevil, fake oil stock etc., like his opponent has.

(23) He is not without a record on which to stand.

(24) He is not unfit to hold office like his opponent and the paid howlers for Ferguson.

(25) He will win with the vote of the decent people, as no amount of prejudice can overcome honor.

(26) We cannot believe you lack self-respect enough to join the old visible-invisible wet gang who have always corrupted and still corrupt our politics to defeat electing clean, honest men.

ROBERTSON FOR GOVERNOR CLUB.

Robt. F. Farmer, Chm.

Chas. H. Smoot, Sec.

Let us turn to the war record of Jim Ferguson, so well expressed in the Dallas Dispatch of June 19th, 1918.

"Don't let the kaiser rule Texas by proxy." How anyone can support Jim Ferguson for governor in the face of his disgraceful record in that office and his worse connections with the out-law German-American Alliance is more than we can understand. The most charitable view that we can take of it is that his supporters do not know the real facts. If anyone sought to elect the head of the German-American Alliance governor of this state, he would be slain as a traitor. The public would resent such an attempt as being hardly short of a proposal to secede from the union and declare war on the side of the kaiser. Why, then in the name of all that is holy, should any loyal son of Texas consider for a moment the dangerous and preposterous proposition of making Ferguson governor again. He profited by German votes in the last election and his conduct showed that he was willing to serve the kaiser's interest rather than those of America. He wanted a German-loving pacifist for president of the State University. He turned the state library over to a man of German descent who couldn't speak English and permitted him to spend your money for books praising the Hun. He fought selective draft after we were at war. If the state of Texas is going to be ruled by the kaiser make the dirty old murderer of women and children come over here and do it at his own personal risk. Don't let the coward delegate, through the German-American Alliance, have any more power over free Texas."

Has he repented? In his recent speech at Dallas on July 18, reported on the 8th page of the Dallas Morning News he said: "I am not backing up on anything that I have said or done in the past." Can you take his word for it?

Americans, Texans, can you cast your vote for Ferguson with the memory of the men sleeping in France, who paid the supreme sacrifice, while Ferguson stabbed the men in the back?

If you refuse to indorse such a record then cast your vote for Felix D. Robertson for governor.

Jack Knight and Buffs Swamp Spudders

HOUSTON WALLOPS PAIR OF LOCAL HURLERS FOR 17 HITS

Turgeon Busts Homer Number 26 — McDonald Parks Pellet, Too—Herd Wins Tilt, 11 to 3

Jack Knight hurled superb ball Thursday at Spud park while his mates walloped Drake and Morgan of the Spudders for 17 safties. Houston evened the series with Wichita Falls at one and one by capturing the contest 11 to 3.

The contest was featureless with exception of the driving Buff attack which produced little of interest from a Spudder fandom standpoint. Drake hurled the first two innings in good form but was touched up for three markers in the third, one in the fifth, and then slipped into boiling water in the sixth, giving way to Eulas Morgan. Morgan stumbled against disaster at the start, and before the barrage stopped and the inning was over six more Buff tallies had been chalked up.

McDonald of the visitors poled a home run, and Turgeon of the homelings brought his total of non-stoppers up to 26.

The third and final tilt of the series is slated for this afternoon at 4 o'clock. Fussell is the probable mound selection for Wichita Falls. Barfoot will probably start for Houston.

Each Menace in First.

Compton led away in the opening frame with a sizzling one-baser to starboard, but McCarty and Monroe encountered naught but fresh air while swishing lustily at Drake's change of pace. Coombs romped back and made a sweet catch of drive to port by Gainer.

After Fitzgerald had made first when Knight muffed throw to the bag by Gainer, twin killing on bounder to second by Callaghan cut the Spud possibility of a score, Monroe to Kane to Gainer. Locker aviated to center.

Buffs Three in Fourth.

A walk, a bingle to right by McCarty, two-cushioners by Monroe and Gainer, and a Texas leaguer to right by Hafey tabulated a trio in the third for the Buffs. With runners on first and third and one away, Kane nipped a grounder to Wano who bulleted the pill to White on second, forcing one. White lined her back for the completion of a fast double play.

McCurdy started the Buff fourth with a single through the shortfield, but another double erasure by the Spud infield thwarted the Herd. Knight smacked a bounder to White who chucked to Turgeon at second and Turgeon threw to Wano on first for the enaction of the twin killing.

Riot in Sixth.

With one down in the fifth Monroe doubled to right center and scored a bit later when Locker jungle heaved to first in wild effort to chuck out McDonald who had bounced one off Drakes' shins.

Turgeon whopped a long drive to the weedy plot back of the left garden wall in the domestic fifth for the Spudders' first marker. The next three Spuds went out one by one.

Drake sadly passed away in the sixth and Eulas Morgan, alias Dick, entered the fray. Before the Buffs were quieted a sextet had passed through the scoring portals. Kane punched a single through short. McCurdy drew a four-balls ticket, and Knight poked a one-baser between short and third, tabulating Kane. Drake disappeared from view, and Morgan came out for punishment.

Compton bounced a lucky safety at short, scoring McCurdy. Sacrifice bunt by McCarty, a walk, sacrifice hoist to center by Gainer, and a home run over the left field fence by McDonald accounted for the remainder of the Houston runs of the inning.

Spuds One in the Seventh.

The Spudders counted one in the seventh. Wano drew a pass and checked at the platter in front of one-base bruises through short by White and Smith.

Double to left by Compton and single through second by McCarty put the Buffs over for a tally in the eighth.

Bingles by Coombe, Turgeon and White gave the Spudders a run in the ninth.

BLONDY CROSS

Why hasn't Wichita Falls a Y. M. C. A. or a first class gymnasium? That's a question asked locally quite often, and it's one which is a bit difficult to answer.

There should be at least a business men's athletic club of some nature. Every city of any size and prestige is equipped with at least one good gym.

To put the matter in the hands of city officials is impossible, we understand. Or in other words, the city exchequer is quite empty balking such a proposition from that angle.

But there is still the age old subscription plan to be tried. The writer has spoken to any number of local business men who have expressed themselves as willing to dig down into their pockets for gymnasium money.

The American Legion plans to either build a gym or equip a building with gymnasium apparatus. It would not be a bit difficult for non-members of the Legion to work in harness with the Legionnaires in raising the necessary coin. A plan could be worked out whereby all interested could team together and put over a modern up-to-date gymnasium at a minimum cost.

Then the so-called tired business man would have a place in which to loosen up the kinks, take off that surplus waistline, limber up in general, and enjoy handball, volley ball, wrestling, boxing, swimming, calisthenics, and various other healthful exercises.

Several amateur clubs over north Texas have been itching to get at a representative team from Wichita Falls lately. The Burk Magnolias for one have been calling for a game regularly. So Hunter Dempsey, president of the Sunday school league, intends to cooperate with his club managers in selecting a representative Sunday school league nine. And then it's understood that all challenges will be taken up.

GOLF CLUB TO STAGE TOURNEY

Qualifying Rounds in Art Trophy Competition Saturday

Following several weeks of inactivity in the way of real competition at the Wichita Falls golf club because of the absence of a number of the club members who are away on summer vacation, qualifying rounds in the Art tournament are to be played Saturday, said Club Professional Bill Strachan Thursday evening.

The best 32 score will qualify, said Strachan, and all of the qualifying round must be played Saturday.

The trophy up for competition has been presented the club by Joe L. Art.

"ALABAMA" JONES DRAWS SUSPENSION

By The Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Aug. 21.—"Alabama" Jones, Muskogee rightfielder, was indefinitely suspended from the Western association this morning by President J. W. Seabough for his alleged attack on Umpire Wilkinson during the last inning of the Hutchinson-Muskogee game at Muskogee yesterday. In addition, Jones was fined $10 and was ordered to pay the umpire's medical bill and reimburse him for the loss of salary which he will sustain due to his inability to umpire for several days.

According to Wilkinson, Jones kicked him in the leg after the umpire had ordered him from the game following an argument between two over a decision by the umpire. Jones was at bat in the last inning and Wilkinson had called two strikes the last one of which Jones protested. The umpire then ordered Jones from the field but Jones refused to go. At this point the alleged attack occurred.

Australians Play Kinsey Brothers In Tennis Finals

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 21.—The Australian Davis cup team of Gerald Patterson and Pat O'Hara Wood joined the Kinsey Brothers of San Francisco, as finalists for the national double lawn tennis championship today.

The Australians, overcoming the loss of the first two sets, captured the last three, to win 7-9, 4-6, 7-5, 8-6, 6-4, from the former national champions William Johnston and Clarence J. Griffin of San Francisco.

The Americans won the second set also 6-4. Again it was Patterson's unusually dominant service that was reversed to give Johnston and Griffin the break in the third game.

The Australians won the third set, 7-5, after it seemed that Johnston and Griffin had the match in hand.

National doubles championship, semi-final round incomplete:

Robert G. and Howard Kinsey, San Francisco, defeated Vincent Richards and F. T. Hunter, New York, 6-4, 1-6, 4-6, 6-2, 6-3.

National mixed doubles championship second round, incomplete:

Miss Katherine Porter, Boston, and G. E. Lott, Jr., Chicago, defeated Miss Lesslie Bancroft, Boston, and Louis Thalheimer, University of Texas, 6-4, 6-4.

Lina Motor On Top In Electra Twilight Loop

Special to the Record News.

ELECTRA, Aug. 21.—Lina Motor became more settled today in first place of the Twilight league when they took a forfeit game from Lebus Tools, who failed to show up.

The toppers had held first position during the entire second series of the league until last week, when Magnolia, first series winners, stepped into first position. Now Lina Motor comes back, and from all indications, they intend to hold it. This will mean a series of games between the two fast teams for the season championship, as soon as the present series is over. The last game of this series will be played on August 29, and after four postponed and tie games are played, local bugs will turn out en masse for the final series between these two nines.

RICH BY FAR BETTER THAN STOREY IN TAME TEN-ROUND EMBROGLIO

Carpenter Is Flattened in First, But Comes Back to Outpoint Lewis in Six-Round Go

By BLONDY CROSS.

Frankie Kink, Dallas featherweight, proved too experienced a battler for Wildcat Monte of Amarillo Thursday eve, and the popular Monte caught the most leather in a 12-round glove exchange.

Harmon Kid Rich, Wichita Falls welterweight, easily outclassed Floyd Storey of Ponca City through the greater portion of their 10-round tilt, although the decision seemed a bit unpopular with the packed legion arena.

Moko Carpenter, Wichita Falls light heavy, was flattened in the first round of a six-round engagement with Red Lewis of Galveston, but came back and captured the decision.

Rattlesnake and Kid Norfolk, two local dusky welterweights, scrapped four rounds to a draw.

There was an added attraction in which three negro youths, blindfolded and with a bell tied to each belt, fought several rounds.

Monte was game. Fink, too wise a head and a cleverer boy than the Wildkitten, socked the Amarillo youth on the jaw in the opening round with a right hook putting Monte to the canvas. Wildcat came up in two seconds, and carried on. Again in the twelfth, Monte went down momentraily more from exhaustion than from the power of a short flurry of rights landed to the head. There were other times when Wildcat mingled with the resin, but on these occasions he either tripped or slipped and fell.

Fink Aggressor.

Fink was the aggressor the greater portion of the route, and Fink was the more wily of the two. Round for round the fight could be called even up because Fink was the better in four sessions whereas Monte took a quartet on his own hook, the remaining four rounds being even with the possibility of a shade in one of these rounds going to Fink. But blow for blow, Fink did the most damage, led the most and outgeneraled his opponent at nearly every angle.

The best round of the battle was the final session in which the boys mixed it quite freely. Fink started the round as the aggressor and even bowled Monte over once, but Wildcat tore back strong and hooked the Dallas boy several nasty blows. The round was even with Fink possibly taking the shade.

Fink captured the first and second rounds by wide margins. Monte showed more in the third while Fink let up, and the round was about even Stephen. Monte uncorked one or two nice blows in the fourth and garnered an edge the better of the going. The fifth canto was as good a draw as could be asked for with neither scrapper landing any punch of a damaging nature. Monte broke out and won the sixth round on sheer aggressiveness, his best round of the fight. He outfought Fink during the infighting and landed several smacks from a long range.

Fink Wins 7 and 8

Fink outclassed Monte in the seventh and eighth. Monte wasn't in distress necessarily but Fink hooked and crossed his right to a shade in each round. Monte was the better in the ninth, although doing no material harm. Fink was too slippery for Monte to get over a very solid punch. The best Monte had was an occasional left jab; his right rarely ever landed, but missed cleanly. They fought on even terms in the tenth. Monte took the edge in the eleventh, but still failed to seriously injure Frankie. Fink was still the elusive one, and the rounds he lost were on points and not damage done. Occasionally Wildcat got Fink in the wind, and if he had been able to follow up a few more socks to the midriff he may have won the fight. As it was Fink was the victor by a slight edge, but it was easy to see that blows landed to the body jarred Frankie.

Rich Wins Easily.

The Storey-Rich embroglio was a walk-away for Rich, Harmon shaded the Oklahoman in the first six rounds for a lead too large to overcome. The greater part of the going was in close, and Rich was the better ring general, and the more accomplished infighter. The substance of the fight time and again was this: Rich led with a straight left to Storey's face. They came together with heads down and exchanged blows at close quarters with Rich scoring the more. Each round was but repetition.

The seventh and eighth rounds were even. Rich won a shade in the ninth. Storey caught Rich twice with a right cross to the head, and led on the infighting, the best work he accomplished during the course of the battle.

Lewis Drops Moko

Red Lewis completely outclassed Carpenter in the first round of their squabble, a slambang affair, and caught the local husky with a wild right swing which put Moko down for a couple of counts. Moko came out of it in the second and third, shading Red. The fight in the fourth round developed into a face-making contest with Lewis having an edge because he was the uglier. Strictly in regards fighting the round was a draw. Carpenter socked Red in the ribs enough in the fifth to win that round. The blows were telling on Lewis. Carpenter again outpointed Lewis in the sixth and last round, landing more right and left swings in several very heated exchanges.

Billy Whiskers

By FRANCES TREGO MONTGOMERY.

The officer of the dirigible had just discovered Billy hiding under the table.

At this moment Billy decided to come out and go through the door the officer was holding open.

When the officer saw a big, white goat rising from under the table he was so frightened that his legs shook together and he pulled the door shut. By this time Billy was going too fast to slow down, so when his head hit the door he simply went through it as if it had been made of paper.

The noise of the splintering door brought the officer to his senses, and he called for help, but no one heard him. He was about to go to see where everybody was when the swinging door to the kitchen flew open and in rolled a yelping ball of string. At the same moment he spied Button staring down at him. He simply turned and fled to his berth, where he covered up his head so he could not see things, for he was fully convinced he was seeing things not of flesh and blood.

When Stubby in his mad rolling came to the door Billy had butted through, he bounded through the hole as a rubber ball might, and went bounding down the long narrow passage until he came up against a wall in a dark closet, as he supposed. But in reality he had rolled through an open door into the stateroom of the officer who had fled from Button and Billy and had Stubby only known it at that very moment he was under his berth.

While all this had been taking place, the dirigible was fast descending toward its home hangar and in a few minutes they would be down to the earth again. And it was a good thing for the chums that they were for when Billy was discovered by the Captain he ordered him thrown overboard with the dog and cat. But if you think it an easy matter to catch as big and strong a goat as Billy with the fighting propensities he had and two lively animals like Stubby and Button, you are badly mistaken.

Two or three aviators tried to corner him and tie him up so they could pitch him overboard, but he butted and kicked so they could not lay hands on him. No more hands could be saper dfrom the crew to help, as it required all the rest to manage the ship. Stubby and Button also put up a stiff fight as the men chased them all over the dirigible from under chairs and tables in this state-room and that, where they upset things generally as the aviators tried to hit them with brooms, mops and whatever came handy.

(Tomorrow Billy and his two friends come down to the ground once more.)

Color Cut-Out

"Hey, bring the potato salad over here. Let's put the cake in this corner. Who brought the fruit?"

All the boys and girls at the Cut-outs' picnic were scurrying around unpacking the baskets and putting all the things out on a big tablecloth spread on the beach.

Three of the boys were sent off after water, while the rest built up the fire and got long sticks for roasting marshmallows, whittling the ends off to fine points.

When the fire was just right they put on the steaks they had brought along and soon everything was ready for the picnic.

Color the cake yellow, the bananas yellow, and fire oranges—well what color do you suppose? The picnic basket is yellow. Cut along the dotted line in the basket and the bananas can be made to fit into it.

Mothers

AND THEIR CHILDREN

Accustomed to Change.

One mother says:

At table I make it a point to have the children sit at different places frequently. When I change their places I write their names on plain little cards to avoid the confusion of telling them about the changes. I have several children and I find that this plan of placing different ones together keeps them a bit more interested in each other when they rush in from school at meal time and it also gets the smaller ones accustomed to being changed about, so that when company comes and they must change places they are not upset and confused.

TWO MEN KILLED "CHICKEN WAR"

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—Two men were shot to death today in what the police termed a resumption of the "chicken puller's" war which raged fiercely on both sides of the Hudson up to seven years ago, when the authorities brought temporary peace by sending several gang leaders to the electric chair after a series of particularly violent murders.

Today's victims marked the third murder of the resumed warfare in two days. They were Wm. Young, 23, and his friends, Edward Connelly, who were fatally shot by a band of men who operated from a taxicab in lower Eighth avenue. James Young, William's 27 year old brother, was shot to death at about the same place and hour and in a similar manner yesterday.

Consumption of Gasoline Growing Faster Than Refining Industry There

By BASCOM N. TIMMONS.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—The importation of petroleum products into Great Britain in 1924 bids fair to exceed 1923 if the figures for the first 26 weeks of this year may be taken as an indication of what the entire year will show, says Trade Commissioner M. M. Mitchell, London, in a report to the department of commerce. The first half of 1923 showed total import of some 574,000,000 imperial gallons, while the first half of this year has run well over 697,000,000 gallons. At present rate of importation the total for the whole of 1923 should range somewhere near 1,550,000,000 gallons as against 1,323,000,000 gallons for the whole of 1923.

Kerosene Imports Low.

The increased importation during the first half of 1923, amounting to 123,000,000 gallons, occurs in all the varieties of petroleum products with the exception of kerosene and gas oil, both of which commodities are below the 1923 figures, kerosene to the extent of some 20,000,000 gallons and gas oil to a little over 2,000,000 gallons. The other varieties all show large increases; in round figures they amount to about 8,600,000 gallons in lubricating oil, 35,000,000 in crude oil, 34,000,000 in fuel oil, and nearly 70,000,000 in gasolinge. Gasoline has shown the largest increase in the per centage which its importation bears to the entire petroleum import, as well as the largest actual increase in gallons brought in. This figure is indicative of the very great increase in consumption of gasoline in Great Britain, because the importation of crude has also grown, which means that much more gasoline is being produced within this country as well as imported.

One of the pertinent deductions to be drawn from the import figures is that the refining industry is still rapidly growing in Great Britain, the crude oil imports having increased 22.3 per cent in the first half of 1923 over the corresponding period of 1923. The chief participant is the Anglo-Persian Oil company, whose importations of crude oil for the first six months of 1924 increased from 135,000,000 to 176,000,000 gallons, an increase of some 30 per cent which was directly reflected in the percentage which the import of crude bears to the total import of that company. The large increase in its crude oil importation went to its refineries at Llandarcy and Grangemouth, which have turned out a large part of the gasoline sold by its subsidiary, the British Petroleum Company, Ltd.

Gasoline Imports.

Another conclusion is that while the total import into Great Britain of petroleum products, both crude and refined, is greatly increasing, and while the importation of crude oil and the refining in this country are on the increase, the consumption of refined products, particularly gasoline, is growing much faster than the refining industry, with the result that the increase in the percentage of import of gasoline has been twice as great as the increase in the importation of other petroleum products as a whole.

Gulf Production Company's No. 1, Whittenburg, Panhandle, Spraying Oil; Wilcox Well Flows 16 Minutes

Pan-Tex Pipe Layed And Storage Being Built; Plains Building "55"

The showing made in the last three days in the Gulf Production company's No. 1, Whittenburg, section 2, block X-2, Hutchinson county, is again attracting attention to the Panhandle fields. The well is located in the northwest extension of the so-called Panhandle field some distance from actual production.

An oil sand has been encountered at 2,998 feet and has been drilled into to a depth of two feet, 2,000 feet. Eight and a quarter inch casing is set above a gas sand about 100 feet higher in the well, the seat being around 2,550. There is said to be about 300 feet of caving in the hole, 6 5-8-inch casing being lowered now as the hole is reamed out. Since Sunday the well has been spraying oil as the fluid in hole rises to the height of the gas sand, and Tuesday by such spraying it is said to have made a quantity of oil somewhere between ten and thirty barrels.

Efforts are being continued to lower the small casing to the oil sand and drill in, with opinion divided as to just what the well will make.

Wilcox-Gray County No. 1.

Near Pampa, the Wilcox Oil and Gas company opened their No. 1, Worley, to obtain samples of oil for the Champlin Refining company at Enid last Friday. There was a large quantity of gas for a few minutes before oil started to flowing into an open-top 500-barrel tank with such force as to blow it practically all out of the tank which was already more than half full. No guage was obtainable on the amount which thus flowed from the well. The flow lasted continuously for sixteen minutes when it as suddenly ceased and the well was shut in again with no indication of how soon it would make another head.

About ten miles north and two miles west the Wilcox Oil and Gas company is drilling in what is believed to be the top of the big lime at 2,550 feet, this showing at least a 200-foot drop in the level of the lime in the ten miles distance from the south of Pampa well. This drilling well is located section 95, block 3, I&GNRR survey, section 95, and is known as the Wilson No. 1.

Marland No. 1.

The Marland Oil and Gas company is getting ready to start their well on the Burnett land, 450 feet each way from the southwest corner of section 107, and directly north of the Texas company's No. 2 well. This well of the Texas company's is reported to be making in the neighborhood of 90 barrels a day.

The Pan-Tex Pipeline company has finished laying their line and is erecting storage, while the Plains Pipeline company is erecting a 55,000-barrel storage tank at the Panhandle terminus to take care of oil which is not being handled by the Amarillo Refining company, account of their capacity being only 1,500 barrels a day.

Week Shows Gas Stocks Down 6 Million Gallons

Figures of the Western Petroleum Refiner's association's weekly summary for the week ending August 16, show a decrease in the nation's gasoline storage of nearly six million gallons of gas for that week, reducing stocks including tank bottoms to less than 108 million gallons for those 141 refiners. The percentage decrease is given as 5.2 per cent.

Crude run to stills for those refiners increased 6.9 percent, or 109,269 barrels, bringing the weekly figure to 1,692,892 barrels (crude only exclusive of "other oils" run to stills.)

Summary by states follows:

Crude run to stills, Kansas, 7.5 per cent decrease, gasoline in storage 9.9 per cent increase.

Crude run to stills, Oklahoma, 14.1 per cent increase, Gas in storage 7.2 per cent decrease.

Crude run to stills, north and central Texas, 8.9 per cent increase, Gas in storage 9.2 per cent decrease.

Crude run to stills, north Louisina and Arkansas 5.7 per cent increase, 0.8 per cent increase.

Gasoline run to stills, all 141 refiners), 6.9 per cent increase, 5.2 per cent decrease.

Total crude run to stills, 1,692,892 barrels last week—1,583,623 barrels, increase 109,269 barrels or 6.9 per cent.

Total gasoline storage, 107,983,829 gallons, last week—113,906,993 gallons decrease 5,923,164 gallons, or 5.2 per cent.

Oil Personals

Letters have been received here from N. H. Martin, Texhoma Oil and Refining company, from Alaska, telling of the cool nights he is enjoying while on a cruise of the coast of that country. He reports an enjoyable trip.

Guy P'Poole and L. A. Luecke, Texhoma Oil and Refining company, motored down yesterday to Dallas to spend a week end.

W. E. Campbell, sales manager for the Panhandle Refining company, will leave today for a three weeks stay with his family in Los Angeles, California. Mr. Campbell expects to return about September 15.

TEXHOMA NO. 5, K&K, COMPLETED IN 1,400-FT. SAND

The Texhoma Oil and Refining company and Staniforth are equipping their No. 5, Kemp and Kempner, north offset to the Humble Oil and Refining company's No. 1, B. Orton, west of Holliday, for the pump, with the expectation of making a small producer from sand at 1,484 90 feet.

PARKER WELL GETS PIPELINE

Texas Company Will Lay Connection to New 1,800-Foot Well

The Texas company will begin at once on the laying of a two-inch pipeline connection from their line on the Denny land to the new well of Parker Brothers on the Mrs. M. A. Love land, W. S. Kennard survey, abstract 171, southeast of Iowa Park, Wichita county. Arrangements were completed Wednesday and it was stated yesterday construction would proceed without delay.

This well was completed last week and is estimated as a 1[illegible]-barrel well from a very little sand, the bottom of the hole at 1,806 feet. There is said to be no water trouble and the well is said to have every indication of settling down to a nice producer, the discovery well for a new pool in Wichita county, undefined in any direction for more than a mile, except to the southwest where three dry holes cut it off from the Roberts and Hill-Murray district, with its 1,600 and 1,700-foot production.

The line to the well, it is understood will connect with the Denny line at the northeast corner of the J. M. McFall land, this spot being about 4,000 feet distance from the production.

The original well was drilled with cable tools and eight-inch casing is set above the sand. It has been indicated that a rotary will be moved on the land for another test.

Mooers and Gulf Make Locations W. Phillips Area

Two new locations have been made in the vicinity of the Waite Phillips producer on the Wilson land, Horrits survey, abstract 646, southwest of the Sunshine pool, and drilling is expected to start on both almost immediately. Both will be from a mile to a mile and a half distant in a northerly direction, neither so close to the discovery well as the Oil Investment company's test getting close to the sand about three quarters of a mile to the northwest.

The Gulf Production company will drill 150 feet north of the center of the south line of the T. B. Wilson land, SPRR survey, abstract 1,072, about a mile and a half north of the producer, while Clifford Mooers has a derrick up and is expected to get started soon on his test in the north thirty acres of the east 100 acres of the west 200 acres of the south 287 acres, S. P. Ellis survey, section 2, T. B. Wilson land.

If any other tests are drilled closer to the discovery well Waite Phillips must turn the trick himself for the well is in the center of more than a section of land, leases on which all belong to him.

Arrangements for water are reported to have been made with the Texhoma Oil and Refining company which has a line to the west and to the north of their Lyles lease.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 21.—The cotton market developed a mild reactionary trend, partially because of hedge selling, but mainly because of liquidating in advance of the government report due Saturday. Cables were better than due and Manchester reported expanding trade. As a result the local market firmed with October trading at 25.52 and December at 25.60, or 12 to 15 points above the closing levels of yesterday. As the weather in the cotton region was generally more favorable and as the tropical storm according to the latest indications will not reach the cotton belt prices gradually eased off although there was some moderate rallies. October traded as low as 24.93 and December at 24.97 during the afternoon, or 59 to 63 points down from the early highs. The nearer positions rallied slightly in the final trading, and the close showed net losses for the day of 36 to 50 points.

The selling of hedges furnished a good part of the contracts, although there was more or less liquidation of old long accounts in advance of the bureau.

The decline was accelerated during the afternoon by reports of rather liberal selling by big operators probably to even up before the bureau.

Cattle Receipts At Fort Worth Prove Light

By the Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Texas, Aug. 21.—Packers were not offered much of an assortment from which to make their selections today. Actual prices did not develop any quotable change. The calf market was in line with Wednesday's steady to lower trend. Receipts were estimated at 3,500 head of cattle and 1,000 calves.

The highest priced carload of beef steers in the yards was good enough to bring only $5.25.

Canners and cutters, representing more than three-fourths of the day's cattle receipts, cleared mostly at 1.75 to 2.75, the market showing a steady trend and being moderately brisk.

Light calves of good quality sold steady, or in line with any time this week. Heavies, which lost 25 cents or more Wednesday, remained about steady.

Generally steady prices were recorded in the hog division, where receipts amounted to 800 head. Most of the run cleared at a range of 9.75 to 10.00.

Pigs met with a good demand and the few drafts here sold on a fully steady basis. Butcher pigs brought 8.00. Some stockers went at 7.35.

Sheep sales were in line with yesterday's late decline of 25 cents, and the lamb deal remained unchanged. Receipts were small, only 500 head being estimated.

HOT WEATHER LOWERS CORN

Wheat Also Turns Down When Other Grains Grow Weak

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 21 — Widespread hot weather, highly beneficial for the corn crop, led to active general selling of corn today and brought about a sharp break both in the corn and oats market. The wheat market, too, sympathized. Corn finished 3 1-4 to 4 5-8 cents net lower, December 111 3-8 to 111 5-8, with oats 1 5-8 to 2 1-4 cents down. Wheat closed unsettled at 1-2 to 1 1-2 net decline, September 126 5-8 to 126 3-4, and December 131 1-2 to 131 5-8. In provisions, the outcome was 5 to 40 cents drop.

Wheat prices had a decided upward tendency until the weakness of corn became pronounced. Large receipts of wheat, though, as well as corn, proved finally to be a heavy blow to wheat bulls.

Provisions gave way with grain, despite an advance in the hog market.

REACTION RULES STOCK PRICES

Short Selling Results From Over-Supply Of Popular Issues

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—Reactionary price tendencies prevailed in today's stock market which was again called upon to absorb an unusually large volume of profit taking sales. Bullish demonstrations in Du Pont, Corn products and U. S. Cast Iron Pipe failed to stem the tide of selling in other standard rails and industrials, many of which dropped 1 to 3 points.

Some irregularity took place at the opening, due to the unusual evening up of speculative accounts after a brisk turn in either direction. So great was the supply of some of the popular shares that they could not be disposed of, except at concessions in quoted values. This encouraged a resumption of short selling in some of the volatile shores which was given added impetus by the stiffening of money rates and the announcement of a new stock offering by Mack Trucks and the circulation of unfavorable rumors regarding St. Paul earnings.

U. S. Steel closed more than a point lower at 109 7-8, while American Can showed a net loss of nearly two points at 134 7-8.

The Following Taken From

THE TEXACO STAR

Published by The Texas Company, Port Arthur, "illustrating real conservation, we send a photograph showing the type of steel gun-barrel tank in use on some of our leases in the North Texas Division.

"The tank is so constructed that from one inch to three inches vacuum is maintained. Vacuum regulator is also shown. We have seven of these tanks in operation, from which we conserve 200,000 cubic feet of gas daily, not conserved previously, which is taken to our Electra gasoline plant.

"This tank and others of like constructon pay us good dividends. On the present price of gasoline and residue gas sales, we figure that each three or four months these tanks have earned their investment. Also, they greatly reduce fire hazard on our producing properties."

The above tanks are manufactured by the Panhandle Refining Company's Boiler Shop department. For particulars call the following numbers: Day Phone 7125. Night, 2850 or 2225.

Political Rallies Tonight Bring Whirlwind Finish to Campaign Here

BASCOM THOMAS FOR FERGUSON

Harry Tom King And Judge Martin Also To Make Talks

With well-attended meetings at Iowa Park, Electra and Burkburnett winding up the Ferguson up-county campaign local Ferguson forces are completing preparations for the final meeting in this city, which will be held tonight at 8 o'clock on the Moore and Richolt lot.

H. Bascom Thomas of Dallas, former state senator, and central figure in one of the most drastic incidents in Texas legislative history, will speak for Mrs. Ferguson. Judge Harry Tom King of Abilene, one of west Texas best known jurists and a stump speaker of state-wide reputation, will also urge her candidacy. Judge P. A. Martin of this city will be the third speaker on the program.

Women Hold Rally

Friday afternoon at 3 p. m. at the Palace theater, the women voters will hold their final Ferguson meeting. J. Lee Zumwalt of Dallas, William Baldridge and R. E. Murphey of this city, will be the speakers.

H. Bascom Thomas, one of tonight's speakers was a member of the state senate from the Hopkins county section in 1909. Some charges that he made with reference to the activities and influence of lobbyists angered his colleagues to such an extent that they expelled him from the senate. Senator Thomas promptly became a candidate to succeed himself, and was re-elected by a large majority. In 1910 he was a candidate for lieutenant governor against A. B. Davidson, the latter winning by less than 1000 votes out of 500,000 that were cast. For some years Mr. Thomas has been practicing law at Dallas. He is a brother of Mack Thomas of this city.

Whole District Convened

The meetings tonight will bring the Ferguson campaign here to a close, after nearly a month of exceptional activity by the local committees. Speakers have been furnished, not only for Wichita county points, but for a number of meetings in northwest Texas in the Panhandle.

BARRY MILLER IN SPEECH HERE

Candidate Attacks Klan And Urges Economy In Government

Barry Miller of Dallas, candidate for lieutenant governor, was the chief speaker at a rally Thursday night in which he set out his position on the klan question and the matter of taxation. "The only danger of defeat of the democratic ticket at the hands of the organized klansmen," he declared, "lies in the indifference of the voters who may fail to go to the polls on Saturday and register their opposition to the klan candidates."

Aynesworth Introduced

Mr. Miller was introduced to a crowd of approximately 2,000 persons, J. H. Aynesworth, served as chairman of the meeting. Mr. Aynesworth's remarks were brief, Mr. Miller desiring to have as much time as possible in the less than two hours he had, being forced to make his speech shorter than he desired in order that he might make the train for Waxahachie where he closes his campaign tonight.

Mr. Miller, discussing his connection with corporations as a legal representative, said that when he first entered the practice of law he was appointed local attorney for one of the Texas railroads, lost most of his cases, grew disgusted and resigned. He declared that he was supported by the state federation of labor, the four railroad brotherhoods, union labor and the farm labor union, the membership of which composed 70 per cent of the citizenship of Texas and that his endorsement by these men was voluntary and only at their urging did he submit his name to the people as a candidate for lieutenant governor.

Discusses His Record

He discussed his record of 10 years service in the Texas legislature, six years in the house and four years in the senate, and his opposition to the state entering into any private business. He urged that economy be practiced by the next legislature that the deficit of nearly $8,000,000 be saved to the people upon which the tax is a lien, so that it may be possible two years hence to reduce the taxes exacted of the people.

The klan issue was discussed at length by Mr. Miller, who declared that a secret political organization was a menace to the freedom guaranteed the people of the state and the United States in the constitution of the state and the United States. He declared for the right of all people charged with offenses to appear in the court of justice and confronted by the accusers and tried by a jury of fair men who would give him justice. He condemned men, who took any man or woman and tried them in the river bottom without any witnesses or regular trial, declaring that no matter what the crime charged, the victim was better than he hooded men who inflicted punishment without hearing.

Mr. Miller asserted his loyalty to [illegible] Ferguson in her race for governor and eulogized her as one of the [illegible] women in the state, fitted [illegible] the office to which she aspired and that she would be a credit [illegible] state of Texas. The mention [illegible] name of Mrs. Miriam Ferguson brought cheers from the crowd [illegible] was followed by a eulogy [illegible] the country and [illegible] that women were fit [illegible] the highest public of-

BYERS WOULD STOP POLLUTION

Complains to State Health Department of Conditions Prevalent Here

Complaint that the water of the Wichita river is being polluted through emptying into the river of the sewage of the city has been filed with the state board of health at Austin, the complainant being submitted by Sam Householder, president of the Byers Community Service association, who asserts that the deposit is "to such an extent that the river here at this place is polluted to where it is a menace to public health."

Letter Sent Collier

This complaint resulted in the state health department, through State Health Officer Malone Duggan taking the matter up with the city of ficials of Wichita Falls, letter being addressed to Mayor Frank Collier asking that investigation be made into the complaint and some steps taken to stop this so-called nuisance, which, if true, is a violation of the state anti stream pollution law which has been in effect for some years.

This matter will come before the city council at its regular meeting to be held next Monday night and some action is expected to be taken, possibly a survey of the situation that will enable the council intelligently to take such steps as will meet the situation.

Advocate Disposal Plant

The state health department advocates the installation of sewerage disposal plants and the probable cost to the city would run into the neighborhood of $350,000 in addition to the cost of a site and the possible necessity of extending the sanitary sewer main to a connection on acceptable site.

From the beginning of use of sewers the sewage of the city has gone into the river and the only alternative is a disposal plant. To build this plant would require the employment of a skilled sanitary engineer for a survey covering the entire city and the logical location of the required plant after which plans would have to be prepared.

When the question of the adoption of the anti-stream pollution bill was up before the legislature representatives from this city were sent to Austin for the purpose of making request that this city be granted special permit to continue dumping of sewage into the river. Promise was made to give this request consideration but there is no record to show that it was given any consideration.

SOLICITS DEMOCRATIC SUPPORT FOR
Constable, Precinct No. 1

Official duties make it impossible for me to see all voters in person, and this is therefore published that all may know that I want the office and what I will do when elected.

I have never sought the organized support of any group or bloc; I ask the individual vote of all the people whose servant I want to be. I am seeking election upon my record as an officer and my qualification as a man.

For deputies I shall employ only citizens of Wichita county who will give all the people a square deal; and I shall personally see that every citizen gets a fair deal at the hands of my department.

To insure fairness to all men, I shall not allow my deputies a commission for arrests made but shall pay salaries. I shall instruct my deputies that they are only peace officers and that the guilt or innocence of any person arrested must be determined by the courts and not the time of arrest.

I will thank you for your support in Saturday's election.

BE SURE YOUR VOTE IS COUNTED

Many ballots have to be thrown out, in each primary, because they are not marked properly.

DO NOT mark your ballot with a cross-mark.

MARK OUT the names of the candidate you wish to vote against. Like this—

John Smith
~~William Jones~~

If you were voting for John Smith, and against William Jones, the above shows how your ballot should be marked.

Don't give election judges any opportunity to throw your ballot out.

Draw a line through the name of the candidate you are against. Do not make any mark on or by the name of the candidate you want to vote FOR.

He Declares Christ Is Now Cleansing The Sanctuary

"The cleansing of the sanctuary in heaven is attracting the attention of the entire universe," declared Rev. C. U. Taylor in his sermon at the Buchanan street tabernacle last evening.

Continuing, he said, "The work of cleansing the sanctuary began in 1844 at the close of the 2300 days, the longest prophetic period in the Bible. As the high priest in the earthly sanctuary entered into the Most Holy place once in the end of the year, so Christ our Great High Priest has entered once in the end of the world into the Most Holy place to perform the work of cleansing it from the sins which have been confessed by the sinner and sent before to judgment.

"Paul says, 'And almost all things are by the law purged with blood; and without shedding of blood there is no remission. It was therefore necessary that the pattern of things in the heavns should be purified with these; (blood of animals) but the heavenly things themselves with better sacrifices than these. For Christ is not entered into the holy places made with hands, which are a figure of the true; but into heaven itself, now to appear in the presence of God for us. . . . But now once in the end of the world hath he appeared to put away sin by the sacrifice of himself. And as it is appointed unto men once to die, but after this the judgment. So Christ was once offered to bear the sins of many; and unto them that look for him shall he appear the second time without sin unto salvation.'"

Rev. W. A. McCutchen of Dulworth Park, Texas, will speak at the tabernacle this evening.

Canadian Talks To Rotary Club Upon Friendship

Charles Eastwood of Victoria, British Columbia, a guest at the Rotary club luncheon yesterday in a short talk afforded some interesting sidelights on the United States from a Canadian viewpoint.

"We have a holiday in Canada for the fourth of July the same as for our own celebration days," he stated; "stores close and there is just as big a celebration as there is over a coronation.

"American farmers, American enterprises, and American capital are received with open arms in Canada," he added. "While our country is considerably larger in area than the United States its population is only slightly more than nine million. Needless to say we are interested in new people and improvement for the industries of the country."
