Complete Plans For County-Wide Day December 14

Old Timers Will Be Honor
Guests At Free Barbecue Banquet Here

Legion Auto Merchants To Offer Spe- cial In Merchandise At Big Event

As time neared for the county-wide celebration to be held here December 14, chairmen reported that all plans were being completed for the biggest day for Wellington in the year of 1933.

Old timers, who will be honor guests for the Co-Op Gin barbecue, which every farmer in Collingsworth County is invited to attend, gathered in groups occasionally to talk over old times and are looking forward to a real treat as they gather again.

Legionnaires, who are sponsoring the event and will give away an automobile as the final touch to the event Thursday night also reported that they expected an unusually large crowd.

Another feature of the county-wide celebration will include a parade to be held on the streets of Wellington at 10 o'clock. All floats in the parade will be fixed on wagons, which will be drawn by teams. The principal theme of the parade will be "King Cotton," and the entire parade will be led by King Cotton. The floats will include an N. R. A. float, a cotton float, "Three Little Pigs" float, "Big Bad Wolf" float, a negro minstrel float, and a float showing the first cotton gin. The parade will also include the band. The free barbecue banquet will be held just south of the Legion.

Tax Collections Reported Good

Payment of Collingsworth County taxes are coming in unusually well at the present time, according to the announcement of C. B. Anderson, tax collector, who stated that the most gratifying thing about the situation was the fact that the people are really trying to pay their taxes.

During the past three months, September, October and November, county tax collections for 1933 have amounted to a total of $13,974.66 as compared with $8,119.43 collected during the same three months of 1932, which gives an increase of $5,855.23 over the 1932 collections.

During the month of November, 1933, delinquent taxes were paid by 178 persons and 173 persons paid 1933 taxes. One hundred and forty-nine voting polls were also said to have been paid, which permits voting during the year of 1934. In order to vote in 1934, polls must be paid not later than January 1, 1934.

Dr. Milton Noss Now Located In A. Bailey Shop

Dr. Milton E. Noss announced this week that he had moved his office to the A. Bailey Dress Shop, where he would continue his practice as chiropodist and foot specialist and would also specialize in perfect fitting corrective shoes. Dr. Noss stated that many foot troubles might be attributed to the wear of poorly fitted shoes and many slight ailments could be remedied through correctly fitted shoes, while foot troubles already remedied might again be started through badly fit shoes.

Heads Teachers

J. O. Loftin, principal of Sidney Lavier high school in San Antonio, who has been elected president of the Texas State Teachers' association by a big majority over Mrs. Roy C. Owens of Tyler. Mrs. Owens staged a campaign on the grounds that a woman should head the teachers.

Funeral Services Are Held Tuesday For William Eads

Western Pioneer Was Member Arkansas Lodge To Stop Cattle Stealing

Funeral services for William Eads, 80, were held Tuesday afternoon, December 5, at 2:30 o'clock from the Eads home near Wellington with W. S. Deatherage in charge.

Mr. Eads was born April 23, 1853 in Muncie, Indiana, and at the age of five years moved to Iowa, and Northwest Missouri where he resided until he reached the age of 14 years, when he moved to Durham, Ark., and lived there until 1900, when he came to Tuttle, Okla. In 1909 he moved to the Aberdeen community and has resided in Collingsworth County since.

Mr. Eads died Monday and at the time of his death was 80 years, seven months and 11 days of age. He was married to Susan Clementine Mills on January 8, 1880 and to this union was born seven children, five boys and two girls all of whom are now living with the exception of Elbert Leroy Eads.

In the early pioneer days when Mr. Eads lived in Arkansas, he resided close to the border—and the settlers were frequently troubled with horse and cattle thieves.

Damron Returns From Christova

Rev. C. D. Damron, circuit pastor, returned here this week after spending three weeks in Christova, Texas, where his wife's father is seriously ill.

Mrs. Damron remained with her father, J. T. Crow, 77, who has undergone a lingering illness for the past month and Rev. Damron returned here temporarily to fill his pastorate. For the past weeks he has been here only at intervals to fill his pastorate.

Boarman Plans To Set Out Ten Acre Fruit Plot

B. W. Boarman this week made plans to set 10 acres in fruit trees on his farm north of here. Mr. Boarman stated that he planned to set out peach, apple, plum and pear trees. At the present time there are a few apple orchards over the county and the trees are reported to produce excellent fruit.

Allred Trial Holds Attention Here This Week

Courtroom Crowded As
Quail Man Goes On Trial
For Shooting Daves

Criminal Docket Jury Commission For Next Twelve Months Is Named This Week

With the courtroom crowded to capacity for the past three days, the trial of Fred Allred, charged by the state for shooting John Daves, of Quail, on February 22, has occupied the District Court for the last three days.

The case, which has attracted unusual attention from over the entire county, opened Monday and Tuesday evidence was closed. Arguments held the center of attention Wednesday morning and the case was expected to go to the jury Wednesday afternoon. Jurors for the case are W. C. Dollar, Henry Taylor, U. E. Kelly, W. E. Ford, W. M. Davis, J. F. Hiett, J. A. Dodson, J. R. May, J. S. Spear, W. H. Culwell, Roy Thompson and V. P. Finley.

Jury Commission Named
Following the death of Daves, Allred came to the jail here in Wellington, where he gave himself up to Mrs. V. L. Williams, the jailor's wife, on February 27, 1933, through a motion of the state and special agreement of the defense he was released on a $5,000 bond. His trial was set for the April term of court, but was continued to the November term from the April term.

The remainder of this week will be spent on the criminal docket, according to the announcement of Bill Goforth, district clerk, who stated that despite early indications he did not believe that the docket would be cleared this term.

The following jury commission has been named to select the juries in this county for the ensuing year: John B. Forbis, I. J. Self, Wood Coleman, M. P. Scott, and G. M. Thompson.

Church To Give Birthday Banquet

A birthday banquet will be held at the First Methodist Church here Tuesday night, December 12 at 7:30 o'clock.

The banquet will be unique in the fact that 12 tables will be arranged with suitable decorations to represent the 12 months of the year and persons attending will eat at the table representing the month in which they were born. Each table will also present a stunt in keeping with the month which it represents.

A general invitation has been extended by the Methodist ladies for the public to attend the affair and admission charges will be applied on the payment of the church pipe organ.

Game Warden Issues Warning As Two Face Charges For Hunting Here On Enclosed Land

As two Collingsworth County men faced charges this week for hunting on enclosed land without proper permission, Austin O'Neil, game warden, issued a warning against trespassing on property by hunters.

"It makes no difference whether the land is posted or not," Mr. O'Neil said, "persons who trespass are subject to charges if the owner sees fit to make them. Hunters must have permission from proper authorities before they hunt on the place."

Scores of hunters have gone out in this county since the season

First Auto Plates Issued For 1934

The first 1934 license plate for Collingsworth County was issued to C. M. Mimms and the number of the plate is 183-851.

Lee Minyard of Quail holds the honor of securing the first 1934 truck license plate and the number of his plate is 39-CM-701.

At the present time 25 plates for 1934 have been issued in this county. The plates cannot be put on the cars before January 1, however, but may be secured at the present time.

During the past year 2209 plates were issued to car owners of this county.

He Was Just A Feller A-Foolin' Around

By MRS. J. L. LIGHT
"Just a feller a-foolin' around."

That was his story and he stuck to it.

Last Wednesday night, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Walker of near the Aberdeen community were awakened by strange noises made from someone prowling around their home. When asked who he was, the man made no answer for sometime and finally in broken language told them he was "Just a feller a-foolin' around."

Several threats finally caused the man to leave and he was next reported at the Hobbs Hart home, nearby, where he made the same peculiar appearance. Deputy Ace Rainey was summoned by John Walker and the stranger was located in a car near the Hart home, where he was sleeping.

He was brought to Wellington by Deputy Rainey and placed in the county jail, where he remained until Monday night when he was released by local officers. During the time that he was in jail here, inmates said that the man refused to talk—and only grunted when questioned by.

Book Loans Reach 1,000 Mark Weekly In County Library

Book loans continued at the rate of 1,000 a week in the county library, according to Mrs. C. C. Ryan, assistant librarian, who stated that around 278 books were loaned on Saturdays and 750 were loaned out through the week days.

Both rural and Wellington people were reported to have taken advantage of the large assortment of books now offered through the library—and although no new books have been received during the past few days, the large assortment of books received several weeks ago have been exchanged at regular intervals.

Senator Small Enters Race For Texas Governor

Believes People Want A
New Deal; To Announce
Campaign Soon

No Factions

Small Says He Has No
Axe To Grind And Represents No Clique

Senator Clint Small is to be a candidate for governor.

Declaring the people of Texas, in his opinion, want a "new deal" in state politics, Senator Small stated Saturday that he will announce his platform at an early date.

He is getting his personal business affairs in shape now so that he can devote his full time after January 1, he said, to the campaign. He will not be the candidate of any faction in the state, Senator Small said, but will offer on a constructive platform which he believes will appeal to citizens of all classes and groups.

"I want my friends over the state," he said, "to know that I expect to offer for governor and that I will have some definite and pointed things to say later concerning the governor's race and affairs of Texas in general, as I see them."

"In recent weeks I have been busy getting my personal affairs in such shape that they will not interfere with my plans later on for discussing with the people of every section my ideas and proposed policies regarding our state government. These policies will be announced at an early date, probably by January 1."

"I want the people to know at this time, however, that my candidacy will represent no faction or clique and that I will have no axes

Local Men Bring Back Two Deer

Three local men returned here Tuesday after a three day hunt on the Mexico border at Sonora and Del Rio.

The party composed of L. Z. Cone, John Stovall and L. C. Jones stayed at a private ranch belonging to one of Mr. Stovall's old friends and returned home with two deer, one of which was killed by Mr. Cone and the other by a resident, who gave the deer to the local men. Mr. Cone left the head of his deer, which was an eight-point buck, to be mounted.

During their visit the three men also visited in Old Mexico, but did not hunt there because the short time they had to stay was prohibitive when compared with the expense of hunting there. They reported an enjoyable time and a wonderful trip.

For Governor

Senator Clint C. Small, who Saturday announced that he would be a candidate for governor of Texas in the gubernatorial election this year, is a former resident of this county and is well known over the entire section.

Rev. S. L. Wood Named Pastor Of Nazarene Church

Rev. D. W. Simpson, For- mer Pastor, Plans To Do Evangelistic Work

At the close of the Nazarene Assembly held in Cisco last week, Rev. S. L. Wood of Frederick, Oklahoma, was transferred to the Wellington Church. Rev. and Mrs. Wood and their three sons came this week, and Rev. Wood will deliver his first sermon here Sunday.

Rev. D. W. Simpson will do evangelistic work in Texas for several months before he accepts a pastorate. Rev. Simpson was leader of the Temperance Forces of Collingsworth County, and an active member of the Pastor's Association in Wellington.

The assembly held in Cisco which included this area was attended by the following from Wellington: Mrs. W. D. Aldridge, Ray Aldridge, Rev. D. W. Simpson, Earl Yarbrough, Ike Emmert, Clyde Emmert, Ruby Whittenberg, Denzil Duke, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fourmentin, Mrs. J. S. Driskill.

Negro Teachers Have AB Degrees

That the negro schools of this city would open Monday, January 1, was announced today following the employment of two teachers, by G. L. Farrar, city superintendent.

The negro schools are expected to have a total enrollment of 100 students and will continue for a five month term. Both instructors for the year have A. B. degrees. S. R. Hogan of Brenham will serve as principal, and Eleanor Harris of Galveston will have charge of the primary groups.

Duard Scott In Hardware Store At Dodsonville

Announcement was made this week that Duard Scott will be associated with his father, M. P. Scott in the hardware business at Dodsonville.

Mr. Scott comes to Dodsonville from Midland, where he has been employed with a newspaper and was forced to quit because his eyes gave away on him. He is well known in this county, having lived in Dodsonville and previously held the position as foreman of the Wellington Leader mechanical department.

Ruling Surprises Local Heads Who Attended Meeting

Officials Say Never Heard
Of Ruling; Believe It
Later Development

Other Counties

Reports Say Ruling Came
As Surprise To Other
Counties Over State

Civil Works Projects in Collingsworth County struck a snag this week when word was sent to Miss Katherine Boverie that the projects were being held up on account of materials or because the truck cost exceeded ten per cent of the amount of the project.

While some delay was expected in the projects where money for materials was asked, the ruling concerning the 10 per cent limit on trucks came as a surprise to local officials who attended the meeting in Austin week before last.

Clark Anderson, county chairman, stated that no mention was made in any of the meetings concerning a ten per cent limit on trucks and this statement also coincided with the opinion held by Miss Boverie, Luther Gribble and Deskins Wells, who also attended the C. W. A. meeting in Austin. It is thought that this is a later interpretation by Col. Westbrook. Other counties are finding themselves in the same predicament as Collingsworth since their applications for projects were sent in under the same instructions as those in this county.

Only one project calling for $800 has been approved for Collingsworth County, and this calls for no money for either materials or truck hire. Monday Miss Boverie sent a telegram to Austin concerning the local situation, and Wednesday received the following reply:

Engineers Work On New Bridge

Work on the bridge across Salt Fork, between here and Shamrock on the new highway, progressed at a rapid rate this week as 15 men were employed daily and continued preliminary construction.

At the present time a large portion of the piling have been driven and five of the 30 bents have been constructed. Five cars of steel were unloaded here a month ago and work on the bridge has been delayed until piling arrived. Grading and drainage work also moved along rapidly and although the road was rough traffic was turned into part of the new road.

Fear Of Shortage Banished By New City Water Well

Fear during recent months that the city water supply might become too low was banished this week after the new city well, which pumps at the rate of 175 gallons a minute, was turned into the mains, and the city water pressure again rose to a high level.

In addition to the new well, the four old city wells pump at a rate of 200 gallons a minute and the combined flow of 375 gallons a minute will easily take care of the city water consumption, according to Bura Handley, in charge of the water system, who said that the possibility of a shortage came from the increased consumption this summer, and large amounts used by the gins this fall. The city also plans to drill two more wells this spring.

WRONGFUL IMPRISONMENT

In spite of the man legal safeguards, which surround those accused of crime, a good many innocent persons suffer imprisonment, and even death, as the result of perjured or otherwise unreliable evidence. A few instances are related by Margaret W. Stewart of the Library of Congress in a recent article.

There is the case of William Wilson of Alabama, convicted in 1914 of the charge of murdering his wife and given a life sentence. After he had served more than three years of the sentence, the supposedly murdered woman was found living in Indiana, and Wilson was pardoned. He was given $3,500 by the state as partial recompense for his wrongful imprisonment.

Another victim, J. B. Brown of Florida served 12 years for a murder of which he was entirely innocent. The state gave him $2,492 in stallments, or about $200 for each year in prison.

Mississippi was not quite so liberal with Moses Walker, who served five years under a false charge but awarded him $500 upon his release.

These payments by the states concerned were made through the passage of special bills by their legislatures. Two states, North Dakota and Wisconsin, have permanent laws providing for compensation for wrongful imprisonment.

It is hard to imagine anything more tragic than the punishment of an innocent person. When such unhappily occurs, it seems that compensation should be made a fixed public policy in every state. No money payment can really compensate for the mental and physical suffering experienced by the victim of false imprisonment, but it would at least assist him in making a new start in life.

CARE OF THE EYES

Many persons become blind, or go thru life with impaired vision, because of neglect of the most ordinary precautions, according to Dr. Steelsmith of Iowa, who gives some good advice in a recent article.

He declares that the putting of a drop of silver solution into the eyes of an infant at birth is a most important matter, as five or six different kinds of germs which may cause partial or complete blindness are liable to gain access to the infant's eyes at that time.

It is also important to keep sharp or pointed instruments, such as scissors, pencils and dangerously shaped toys away from very young children, and any foreign body which happens to get into the eyes should be given immediate attention. No inflammation of the eyes, however slight, should be neglected. With respect to cross-eyes, Dr. Steelsmith advises that steps be taken to correct this condition very early, and he declares that a child no more than a year old may be taught to wear glasses for straightening the squint, which will in most cases effect a permanent correction. He warns against the use of tincture store glasses or any glasses not prescribed after expert examination of the eyes.

Reading in a poor light or in a bad position strains the eyes unduly, while glare is also harmful and should be avoided as much as possible.

Considering what a handicap poor eyesight places upon the individual, it is really strange that the simple precautions recommended by health authorities are so frequently neglected.

GAS DANGER IN GARAGE

We read frequently in press dispatches of someone meeting death from carbon monoxide gas from the exhaust of his automobile, usually in a closed garage.

Warnings concerning this danger have been issued by the Public Health Service. Especially in the colder sections of the country are these accidents likely to happen, where drivers sometimes let the engine run for a time to warm up, before driving out of the garage.

The smallest engine will give off enough carbon monoxide gas in two or three minutes to make the air of an ordinary garage dangerous, while larger engines will naturally contaminate the air in less time.

This gas is almost odorless and by a peculiar effect on the red corpuscles of the blood it causes death by paralysis of the respiratory organs. While the victim loses consciousness gradually, he may be paralyzed to such an extent that he is unable to escape, by the time he becomes aware of his danger.

The only safe plan is to avoid running an automobile engine at all in any place not well ventilated.

WORSHIP DEAD ACTOR

According to a London film critic, no man in history ever inspired such adoration from women as did Rudolph Valentino, the famed Italian-born film star who died in 1926 at the age of 31.

Five years ago his admirers among English women formed the Valentino Association, which now has branches in many countries. By these women, few of whom ever saw him except on the screen, he has been elevated to something like sainthood since his death, and his memory is kept alive among them by making gifts in his name, distributing his photographs, through correspondence and in other ways.

Valentino received a good education in his native Italy and came to the United States in 1913, first appearing as a dancer, then in musical comedy, and after being stranded in San Francisco he entered motion pictures at Hollywood, taking minor parts. He scored his first great success in "The Four Horsemen," after which his career until his death was a succession of triumphs. He was twice married and twice divorced. He died from peritonitis following operations for gastric ulcer and appendicitis.

OUR PAST

By C. C. BISHOP

The beginning of the trail drives of cattle from Texas to the northern states and markets was in 1866 and lasted until the later 80's.

This class of business was an outgrowth of the meat situation in the United States, at the close of the Civil War, beef cattle were selling from $3.00 to $4.00 per head, while beefsteak was selling in the northeastern cities from 25 to 40 cents per pound.

Men that had lost their slaves and other worldly possessions saw an opportunity to make some quick money with cattle.

Cattle were driven from South Texas to railroad points in Kansas and were sold there or shipped by the owner to eastern markets.

The first trail drivers had many calculations to make, such as watering places, how to keep peace with the Indians in the Indian Territory, weather conditions and numerous other things.

The herds generally numbered from 2500 to 3500 head of cattle and was known as an "outfit."

Each herd or outfit had with it a chuckwagon, cook, several cowhands, a horse wrangler; each cowhand had extra mounts, and the boss—who was the law and order of his survey.

When weather conditions were favorable the work of the cowhands was pleasant enough other than it was long hours of constant sitting in the saddle, at best he was on duty for 18 hours out of each 24.

The herds were on the drive from early morning until late at night and each man had to stand guard over the cattle for one half the night, but if the cattle were restless or the weather bad he had to stand guard all night.

While driving the cattle they were angled from the main course to graze but by night they were back or near the trail that was being followed.

The herd was bedded at nights, generally on low flat land and standing guard consisted of cowhands riding slowly around the herd to see that all was well with the cattle.

The chief diet was plain simple food, such as beef, beans, sourdough bread, black coffee and sometimes stewed fruits or syrup. These men were not all together without amusement or entertainment; very often some member of the outfit brought his French harp or fiddle, and the end gate of the chuckwagon afforded a platform for a jigger to perform on.

One new man with an outfit was told that his time of guard duty would be up when the north star went down, not knowing that this star does not set, stood guard all night.

One trail trip was started from South Texas with one time piece in the group, that being a watch, which was lost while fording a swollen stream.

It was the general rule that when fording a full stream that the men unbridled their horses and undressed, this was done in order that the horse would have free range and in case the animal went down the rider could swim to shore more easily.

Down where the "Heating" Begins

Natural Gas Heat furnishes comfort and convenience at small cost

At this season, when heat is frequently required to protect homes against cold and damp weather, a greatly increased use of that faithful servant—Natural Gas—is required. Without interruption to any other home services, such as cooking, water-heating and refrigeration, you are accustomed to expect and get immediate service from Natural Gas whenever you demand heat.

In cold weather the use of Gas for heating purposes frequently exceeds its combined use for all other home services. Yet so quickly and so effortlessly does Gas heat the home that the number of times it is called upon to supply this service is often lost sight of when the service bill arrives at the end of the month.

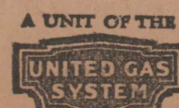

Consider your Gas bill not as a single service item, but as wages paid for a servant that has performed several duties daily during the period for which the bill is rendered. To assist you in determining the portion of the bill which represents heat for the home, the company maintains temperature charts at your nearest office, which indicate weather conditions for the period represented by the bill.

Natural Gas is most economical—but for best results your appliances should be kept in good working order, and they should be regulated to see that heat is not wasted.

The average amount paid by our residential customers in this city for all Gas used in cooking, water-heating, refrigeration and house heating for the past year, was . . .

LETTERS From the PEOPLE

(Editor's Note: The Leader will gladly publish any acceptable article which is submitted by readers, provided that the articles are signed by the readers and are free from libelous or malicious contents.)

It has been norated around Wellington that I was trying to quarantine this county over this Hog Cholera or an infection of swine in this county, and I will state we have men paid by the state and National Federal Bureau of Animal Industry to investigate these infections. I have been up against a snap here for several years in swine diagnosis, and I wanted a learned man, one who has done nothing but specialize in the disease of swine. I couldn't find what the infection was the reason I called one of the Livestock Sanitary Board for assistance and everything I did was under the direction of Lewis C. Crabb, State Veterinarian.

I have had to call on him before, and I am proud to say I always get assistance. I had many citizens of this county ask me about this so-called cholera, and it always happens that the public will claim it is hog cholera. There are 7 different contagious diseases in swine. What I did was for the citizens of this county and will admit I have had this same infection in lots of pens in Collingsworth, Wheeler and Gray Counties. I wanted to try and find out the truth. I am confident that the County Officials did everything to eradicate the infection, and I thank citizens of this county for their hearty co-operation.

Miss Cora Cocke Becomes Bride Of Alfred Emanuel

A wedding of interest of the past week was that of Miss Cora Cocke to Alfred Emanuel of Norman. The ring ceremony was read by Rev. Ed R. Wallace of Shamrock at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Cocke. The couple was married by Rev. Wallace who married the bride's parents thirty-five years ago.

Only a few friends and relatives were present for the ceremony. Miss Dorothy Margart Cocke played "Love You Truly," and was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. E. W. Cocke. Immediately following the wedding the couple left for Norman. The bride was dressed in a blue dress with gray accessories.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Cocke and has lived in Wellington all her life. She graduated from Wellington High School in the class of 1930. She later attended school at Lubbock Tech. Last year and this fall she attended school at Oklahoma College for Women at Chickasha. The bride is very popular in Wellington having taken an active part in Sunday school work and also in school activities during her high school years.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Emanuel of Anadarko. The groom and his family formerly lived in Wellington. He graduated in the class of 1930 and later attended school at Texas Tech at Lubbock. He is now living in Norman and has accepted a position as cashier of a Petroleum Company there.

Those attending the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Cocke, Mrs. W. O. Richards, H. F. Cocke, R. H. Cocke, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Royal, Mrs. Walter Watson, Mrs. S. E. Sherwood, Dr. and Mrs. G. M. Terry, Miss Effie Lee Richards, Mrs. Ed R. Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cocke, Miss Dorothy Margart Cocke, Clyde Drake, Floyd Boverie, Miss Nora Cocke, Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Cocke.

Kenneth Fink Marries Canyon Girl Thursday

Miss Minnie McCarty, of Canyon, became the bride of Kenneth Fink of Childress, Thursday morning, November 30, at 8 o'clock at the home of the mother of the bride, Mrs. Annie V. McCarty at Canyon.

The wedding was attended only by relatives of the couple. The only attendants were Mrs. Bryan Cammack of Navarisa, New Mexico, matron of honor, and Larry Holman of Canyon, best man.

After a wedding trip to Carlsbad Caverns, the couple will return to Childress to make their home.

Mrs. Fink is a graduate of Texas State College for Women at Denton, and has been teaching in the schools at Trinidad, Colorado, and at Canyon.

Mr. Fink is the son of Mrs. O. L. Fink of Clarendon, and a graduate of the University of Texas, where he was a member of Sigma Delta Chi, the journalistic fraternity. He is now a member of Fink & Story, publishers of the Childress County News.

The groom formerly lived in Wellington, leaving here with his family ten years ago. His father operated the telephone exchange in Wellington and the family has many friends here.

Wilma Jane McKinney Marries Recently At Mangum

Miss Wilma Jane McKinney of Dodsonville and Ross A. Swift of Dodsonville were married Saturday, November 18, at Mangum. They were married at the parsonage of the Church of Christ with Olin Farris as attendant.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Z. O. McKinney of Dodsonville and graduated in the class of 1930. She is very popular in the younger set of Dodsonville.

The groom is the son of Mrs. W. M. Swift of Dodsonville and has lived there all his life. He is employed as bookkeeper of the Reed and Allen Gin and has been with them several years.

The couple will make their home in Dodsonville.

Married

Mrs. Alfred Emanuel, who was before her marriage, Sunday, Miss Cora Cocke. Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel left immediately following the ceremony for Norman.

Helen Wesson And J. C. Howell Marry At Hollis

Miss Helen Wesson and J. C. Howell of Dryden, Oklahoma were married in Hollis, Wednesday, November 29. Mr. and Mrs. Hershel Boyd accompanied the couple to Hollis and were attendants at the wedding.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wesson of Dryden. The family formerly lived in Dodsonville and the bride is a sister of Preston Wesson of that city.

The groom formerly of Archer City was at the time of the marriage living in Dryden. Following the wedding the couple will make their home in Dodsonville where Mr. Howell will be in partnership with Mr. Wesson in the Wesson Grocery Co.

My Favorite Recipes

My Favorite Recipe will be a feature of The Leader each week with the good cooks of Collingsworth County contributing their favorite recipes. During November and December "Sugar 'n' Spice 'n' All That's Nice" is what everybody is thinking about. Holiday recipes for cakes, salads and all kinds of meats will be featured during the remaining days before Christmas.

All recipes are kitchen tested by the cooks of this county. Since holiday season is at hand the most talked of recipes are for good cakes. This week Mrs. Annie Wall has contributed a recipe for a Japanese Fruit cake which is cooked in layers. Mrs. Wall has used it for years and says that it is one of her prize recipes.

JAPANESE FRUIT CAKE
By Mrs. Annie Wall
4 eggs
2 cups sugar
1 cup butter
1 1-2 cups jelly
1 cup sweet milk
2 cups seeded raisins
2 cups chopped nuts
4 cups flour
3 level teaspoons baking powder

1 heaping teaspoon of cinnamon
1 heaping teaspoon of all spice
Cream butter and sugar, add eggs, jelly, sweet milk, raisins, nuts, spices, sift flour and baking powder together then add. Bake in layers.
Filling for Japanese Fruit Cake:
1 cup sugar
1 cup sweet milk
1-2 cup butter
2 tablespoon flour
1-2 lb. Stones dates.
Cream butter and sugar, add flour and milk and boil until thick. Add chopped dates while mixture is boiling hot. Flavor with juice of lemon. May take two lemons. Suit your taste.

The Leader's Recipe for HOLIDAY SALAD
This recipe is a very delicious and colorful salad which will add to any Christmas dinner:

Benefits By Pound Included In 1934 Acre-Cut Plan

Growers To Get Contracts Before End Of December In 800 Cotton Counties

Benefit To Be 3.5 Cents Per Pound On "Average Lint Yield"

$18 Maximum

Wallace And Peek Join In Statement Describing Complete Plan

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The tale of the 1934 acre-cut contract behind which lies as yet unrevealed the plan for its furtherance, was told in Washington, November 29, and the official account of it broadcast over the country by mimeograph sheet on Thanksgiving eve. The high points are:

- 25,000,000 acres total;
- Benefits by the pound;
- The rate of benefit 3.5 cents per pound of "abandoned cotton."
- Maximum of $18 per acre.

The Official Story
The 1934-35 cotton acreage reduction contract has been completed. It was announced today by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and George Peek, Administrator of the Agricultural Adjustment Act. Plans are under way to offer contracts to cotton producers in 800 cotton counties of the South before January 1.

Contracts and regulations are being printed and directors of extension in cotton states will have their organizations ready to begin the sign-up campaign early in December. No definite date has been fixed for opening the campaign. Cully A. Cobb, chief of the cotton production section, stated today that the signing of contracts would begin as soon as the forms had been distributed.

The Adjustment Administration is seeking to restrict cotton planting in 1934 to 25,000,000 acres. The producers will be offered a rental, based on the productivity of the land they agree to withhold from production, and a parity payment of not less than one cent per pound on their domestic allotment.

The rate of the rental payment for each acre rented to the Secretary of Agriculture will be 2 1/2 cents per pound on the average yield of lint cotton per acre for the farm in the years 1928-32, inclusive. A maximum rental of $18 per acre is provided in the contract. The rental payment will be made in two equal installments, the first to be paid between March 1 and April 30, 1934, and the second between August 1 and September 30, 1934.

Payments Staggered
The parity payment upon the "farm allotment" of not less than one cent per pound will be made between December 1, 1934 and January 1, 1935. The "farm allotment" is defined in the contract as "40 percent of that figure, expressed in pounds, which results from multiplying the annual average number of acres planted in cotton on this farm during the years 1928-32 inclusive, by the average yield (expressed in pounds) per acre during the said years.

Approximately 15 million acres will be rented by the Secretary of Agriculture under the 1934 program, at an estimated cost of around 125 million dollars. The program will be financed, under the terms of the Agricultural Adjustment Act, by a processing tax on raw cotton processed by domestic mills.

The program will be administered under the direction of the extension forces in the cotton states, the county agent being the representative of the Secretary of Agriculture in his county.

County Production Control Associations will be organized and charged with local administration of the program. Charter members of the associations will be the county committeemen who participated in the 1933 adjustment campaign and who are eligible to sign contracts for the 1934-35 program.

In announcing the terms of the completed contract Mr. Peek emphasized the necessity for continuing adjustment and made the following statement:

"I am advised that the cotton producers of the South are anxious to continue their efforts for a balanced supply of American cotton. I have said repeatedly that the 1933 adjustment program prevented a disaster in the South and am assured that the farmers who joined in this program realize that fact.

"In spite of the progress that has been made in adjusting cotton production and in spite of improved demand, the fact remains that we have too much cotton. Even with normal demand, producers could not hope to obtain a fair price for cotton with the large surplus.

"If the 1934 program succeeds, the beginning of the crop year next July should see a greatly improved situation, with the world supply of American cotton not more than 20,000,000 bales. But it is necessary that every cotton producer join in this program and co-operate fully."

Contract Terms
A contract has been designed that will give the co-operating producer a fair rental for his land. I urge every producer to study carefully the provisions of the contract and when it is presented to him, to sign it promptly.

"The South has taken a long step towards recovery in the 1933 cotton program, but the task is not yet completed. I have confidence that the producers of cotton will continue their co-operation and not sacrifice the substantial gains that have been made. It should be remembered that there still exists a large surplus of cotton. This program is designed to reduce that surplus and as a result bring more satisfactory prices for the producers."

Under the completed contract, three parties are eligible to sign the document. They are the landowner, the tenant who rents for cash, and the "managing share tenant," as defined in the contract. These classifications cover those who are considered "producers."

The first article in the contract, designated "Performance by Producer," can be summarized as follows:

1. Producer agrees to reduce acreage to be planted to cotton in 1934 on "this farm" by not less than 35 per cent and not more than 45 per cent below the base acreage, which is the average annual acreage planted to cotton during the years 1928-1932 inclusive and rent to the Secretary of Agriculture the acreage withheld from production. The producer agrees to reduce acreage to be planted to cotton in 1935 to an amount not more than 25 per cent less than the base acreage, provided the Secretary shall by proclamation not later than December 1, 1934, announce his purpose of continuing the adjustment program for 1935.

2. Producer agrees not to grow cotton in 1934 and 1935 on land owned, operated or controlled by him, unless such land is covered by a 1934 and 1935 Cotton Acreage Reduction Contract, except as provided in regulations or administrative rulings.

Good Acres Included
3. Producer agrees not to include on rented acres waste, gullied or eroded land. The rented acres shall be tillable land suited to the growing of cotton and shall represent in productivity a fair average of the cotton and on the farm.

4. Not to increase in 1934 the total crop acreage on the farm on the part of such acreage planted to basic commodities above that planted in 1932 or 1933. This provision also includes livestock or the product thereof designated as a basic commodity in the Agricultural Adjustment Act.

5. Use the rented acres only for soil improving crops; erosion-preventing crops; food crops for consumption by the producer on the farm; feed crops for the production of livestock or livestock products for consumption or use by the producer on the farm; fallowing; or such other uses as may be permitted by the Secretary of Agriculture or his authorized agent.

6. Permit access by any authorized agent of the Secretary to this farm or to any records, regardless where located, pertaining to the production and for sale of cotton on or from this farm and expressly waive the right to have such records kept confidential.

To Cause Least Labor
7. The producer shall endeavor in good faith to bring about a reduction of acreage contemplated in this contract in such a manner as to cause the least possible amount of labor, economic, and social disturbance, and to this end, in so far as possible he shall effect the acreage reduction as nearly ratable as practicable among the tenants on his farm; shall, in so far as possible, maintain on this farm the normal number of tenants and other employees; shall permit all tenants to continue in the occupancy of their houses on this farm, rent free, for the years 1934 and 1935, respectively (unless any such tenant shall so conduct himself as to become a nuisance or menace to the welfare of the producer during such years shall afford such tenants or employees, without cost, access for fuel to such woods lands belonging to this farm as he may designate; shall permit such tenants the use of an adequate portion of the rented acres to grow food and feed crops for home consumption and for pasturage for domestically used livestock; and for such use of the rented acres shall permit the reasonable use of work animals and equipment in exchange for labor.

Section 8 of the contract restricts the assignability of the benefit payments for the purpose of obtaining funds to carry on the current operations of the farm. Section 9 requires the producer to abide by regulations and administrative rulings that may be prescribed by the Secretary of Agriculture.

Tenant Payment Plan
Under the title "Performance by Secretary," Section 10 sets forth the amount and manner of payments. It is provided in this section that if cotton is produced on the farm by share tenants or share croppers, "the producer agrees that he will pay to each such share tenant and or share cropper upon such tenants' or croppers' share of cotton produced by him on this farm in 1934, a sum computed at the rate of such parity payment as is made to the producer." This provision requires that the parity payment be distributed as the interest in the crop may appear.

The contract contains two tables to be used as the basis for determining reduction in production, and rental and parity payments. The first table sets forth the number of bales of cotton produced on the farm in 1933; the total acres of all land on the farm; the total acres of crop land; cotton planted; cotton harvested and the other crops planted in 1932 and 1933.

Table 2 sets forth cotton acreage and production from the land on the individual farm, including shares of landlord and tenant, for the five years period 1928-32.

Local Authority
This table is preceded by a provision which gives the county committee authority to revise the producers' acreage and production figures. This provision reads: "The county committee shall, if necessary, correct producers' acreage and production figures. The county committee shall also adjust such corrected figures for the above-named county or parish to conform to the figures prescribed by the Secretary for such county or parish. Unless this is done, the Secretary will not accept the offer of the producer."

Title IV of the contract is "Participation of Owner and Managing-Share Tenant." The managing-share tenant is defined under this section as a share-tenant "who furnishes the work-stock, equipment, and labor used in the production of cotton and who manages the operation of this farm."

This section provides for an equal distribution of rental payments to the landlord and the managing-share tenant. The parity payments, it is provided "shall be divided according to their respective interests in the crop." The division of these parity payments must be stipulated in the contract.

The remaining section of the contract make provision for community committee certification of the contract, acceptance by the Secretary and a summary report of the county committee.

It is provided that the contract will not be accepted by the Secretary unless by January 31, 1934, "a number of acres of cotton land have been offered to him for rental under similar contracts sufficient in his opinion to make the Cotton Acreage Reduction Plan for 1934 and 1935 feasible."

A further provision in the contract states that a producer may rent not less than 35 per cent and not more than 45 per cent of his base acreage "provided, however, that the total reduction of all producers offering to enter into 1934 and 1935 Cotton Acreage Reduction Contracts within the above-named county or parish shall not exceed 40 per cent of the total base acreage of such producers."—The Cotton Trade Journal.

AN INVITATION

To Every Farmer In Collingsworth County And To Every Friend Of The Farmers Co-Operative Gin

Come To The Barbecue

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 14, LEGION GROUNDS

A cordial invitation is extended to our friends and neighbors to attend the Big Barbecue, which will be held in Wellington on December 14. . . Farmers, business men, professional men and their wives and children as well as anyone else who has contributed to making this celebration, and the event it commemorates, possible are invited. . . We want you to feel free to come and take part in the occasion and to enjoy yourself to the fullest.

Plenty of food has been provided and an interesting day has been planned. At 10 o'clock a parade will be held and a short time will be devoted to the program before the food is served by members of the American Legion. Something of interest will be going on at all times, and we feel sure that you will have an enjoyable.

While the occasion will be worthwhile in itself, we would like for the people of Collingsworth County to remember that it is the celebration of a more important event—and that is the spirit and co-operative work that has made it possible to keep the Farmers' Co-operative Gin in the hands of the men who built it.

We regard this as a step which is important to every cotton grower in this county regardless of whether you are a member of this association or not, for the influence of this gin extends over a wider field than its membership, and its continued existence does have a bearing upon the entire cotton industry of this county.

With these things in mind we once again extend to all of you a most cordial invitation to come to our barbecue. Your presence will be appreciated just as your assist-enjoyable time.

Anyone Interested in Entering Wagon and Team in Parade, Report to Mrs. Lee O'Neil, Chairman of the Parade Committee.

Funeral Services

Consequently, Mr. Eads joined the Horse Lodge, which was organized for the purpose of capturing the thieves. Frequently these law enforcement bodies would have to follow the thieves several days at a time before they caught them. In relating of the incidents, which were frequently of a dangerous nature for the lodge members, Mr. Eads told of how the group once shot 109 buck shot through the end gate of a thief's wagon in a conflict.

When the Civil War occurred Mr. Eads was only 15 years of age and due to the fact that his father was in the army he was detailed to remain at home with the family. Bushwhackers, rather than soldiers were the persons who gave the residents of his section the most trouble—and once he was said to have been hung up and suspended by his thumbs by these marauders, who sought to extract information from him.

Upon coming to what is now Grady County, Oklahoma, Mr.

Eads entered the Indian territory, and lived there for nine years. Indians, at the time he entered the territory, were peaceable however and caused the settlers little trouble.

Mr. Eads is well known over this county having lived here for the past 24 years and was one of the remaining few western pioneers who faced the rugged hardships of yesterday, which paved the way for the present day civilization which is known in this section of the state. An old timer in three states and the Indian territory, which is now part of Oklahoma.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. William Eads, of Wellington; four sons, E. H. Eads of Chickasha; B. F. Eads of Texline; R. H. Eads of Wellington and W. A. Eads of Texline; two daughters, Mrs. W. L. Grant of Mustang, Oklahoma; Mrs. F. T. Walker of Aberdeen.

Songs at the funeral service were, "Death Only a Dream," "The Old Rugged Cross," and "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere."

Pall bearers were: C. D. Somerville, J. G. Gardner, J. R. Savage, E. A. Box, T. E. Simpson, and A. G. Sisk.

Flower bearers were: Mrs. Alf Eads, Mrs. W. B. Berryman, Miss Gertrude Dillehay, Miss Iris Gulley, Miss Claudia Gulley and Miss Helen Simpson.

Interment was made in the Wellington Cemetery by Ellis Funeral Home.

Hall and the car will be given away at the Legion Dance Thursday. John Bonner, manager of the Ritz Theatre, has also announced an entire week of entertainment, beginning December 14, to be shown under the auspices of the Legion and will give a percentage of the gate receipts to the Legion post.

In addition to the many other attractions, which are being planned for the day, the merchants of Wellington are also going to cooperate with the organizations in offering unusual specials in every line of merchandise. Dry goods, groceries, hardware and many other items will be included in the list—and an entire line of Christmas merchandise will be placed on display for the inspection and approval of those who attend the unusual county-wide day.

of project road right of way clearance number 636-D6 stop Other applications of file are held because materials are asked for less truck costs over ten per cent.

Signed R. L. Taylor, asst. project Engineer. Upon receipt of this telegram, Luther Gribble, county judge, sent the following wire to Mr. Taylor: "Retel 5th instant Katherine Boverie Administrator. Do you mean that allowance will not be made for any materials and that truck hire will be limited to 10 per cent.

If that rule is adopted our county will be eliminated from participation because of lack of funds." Deskins Wells also sent a wire to E. A. Baugh, project engineer of the Civil Works Administration. It read:

"Ten per cent ruling on truck hire will eliminate all projects in City of Wellington. We raised money by private subscription to pay for materials, but no mention was made of 10 per cent limit on trucks at Austin meeting. Unemployed need work now."

No replies to the telegrams of the county judge or mayor had been received in Wellington late Wednesday afternoon. Local officials agreed at that time that they would endeavor to push the projects through on the basis of the instructions that were given them in Austin on November 21.

Christmas Seal Campaign Starts

NEW YORK.—Nine distinguished Americans, all of whom at one time or another have won a personal battle with tuberculosis, are sponsoring the twenty-seventh annual Christmas seal sale, which starts throughout the country on Thanksgiving Day with 2,084 local associations participating. The announcement was made here today at the office of the National Tuberculosis Association.

Members of the national committee are: Eugene O'Neill, playwright; Roger W. Babson, statistician; Harold Bell Wright, novelist; Professor Irving Fisher, political economist; Charles Wakefield Cadman, composer; Will Irwin, author; Hobart Bosworth, motion picture actor and director; and Dr. William Charles White, chairman. Dr. White is head of the medical research committee of the National Tuberculosis Association.

In consenting to act, several members of the committee accompanied their acceptance with personal statements.

Will Irwin: "Glad to act on your committee of ex-tuberculosis victims. I am proud of my victory."

Irving Fisher: "The financial loss from tuberculosis to the people of America, estimated at hundreds of millions of dollars a year, is a wholly inadequate measure of the cost of the disease in terms of broken homes, blasted hopes, poverty and pain. The twenty-seventh annual Christmas seal sale this year offers a chance for all to share in solving this community problem."

Roger W. Babson: "Despite the declining death rate from tuberculosis since the beginning of this century, the disease still kills more persons between the ages of 15 and 45 than any other. It is imperative that the preventive measures successful in the past be continued if the ground gained is to be held."

Hobart Bosworth: "The ten years I spent in fighting tuberculosis were the best investment I ever made. I am amazed when I think of the progress made in knowledge of prevention and cure, which the little Christmas seal makes available to everybody."

Harold Bell Wright: "As one who knows from experience what it means to come face to face with the White Plague, I am glad to give any help I can to the campaign to conquer the disease."

Charles Wakefield Cadman: "The years have proved that this work does inestimable good."

In announcing the formation of the committee to sponsor the Christmas seal sale, the chairman, Dr. White, said the members were outstanding examples that tuberculosis is curable, and that its prevention is a matter of great importance to society. "Tuberculosis is no respecter of persons," said Dr. White. "It still kills more persons between the ages of 15 and 45 than any other disease. This is true despite the reduction of the ravages of the disease to one-third what they were when the first Christmas seals were sold."

"What the world would have lost had the members of this committee been born a generation earlier, when the disease was almost universally fatal, is evident from the mere recital of their names. What it has actually lost in the premature death of others such as Robert Louis Stevenson, Elizabeth Barrett Browning and Frederic Chopin, will never be known. But there can be no doubt that the world has lost many scholars, dramatists, musicians, writers, and actors who never lived long enough to find their way to fame.

They Plan Big East Texas Party

Preparations for a party that is expected to attract about 8,000 visitors have begun at Lufkin, Texas, where the East Texas chamber of commerce will hold its sixth annual convention April 17 to 19. Here are George Buchanan (left) of the Marlin chamber of commerce going over plans with Jack McDermott, secretary of the Lufkin chamber of commerce. Buchanan is explaining how Marlin, host last year, gave a welcome that made history.

"There is hope that science sometime will provide a specific cure for the disease. But all we have, so far, is hope, and certain definite promise from some of the new knowledge that has recently been gathered. We are often disappointed by finding things happen to the germ in the laboratory that do not happen, unfortunately, the same way in the human body. Until the problem of tuberculosis has been solved, we need to redouble our efforts along the lines which have already achieved great success; early diagnosis followed by treatment based on rest, fresh air, sunshine, and nourishing food."

"The experience of the members of this committee," added Dr. White, "emphasizes again the need for preventive work with children. Most of the group had tuberculosis in their early youth. It is an interesting fact that their average age today is fifty-eight years."

The committee members are drawn from every section of the United States. Dr. White lives in Washington, D. C.; Mr. O'Neill lives at Sea Island, Ga.; Mr. Babson's home is at Babson Park, Mass.; Mr. Wright's at Tucson, Ariz.; Prof. Fisher, New Haven, Conn.; Mr. Cadman, La Mesa, Calif.; Mr. Irwin, New York City, and Mr. Bosworth, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Drivers Urged To Prepare For Safety

"The average car owner usually gives more attention to his clothing in anticipating winter than he does to his automobile," is the belief of L. Z. Cone and M. M. Kern, Goodrich dealers in Wellington.

"Nothing is more important than health and too many drivers are careless about preparing for safe and comfortable driving during the cold months.

"From a mechanical standpoint every automobile requires Fall checking to assure efficient winter operation.

"Cold weather protection for a car includes inspection of the battery wiring system, generator, radiator, water pump, tires, and the changing of oil and grease to winter grades in addition to numerous other points.

"Usually the cost involved is minor when compared with the satisfaction of being ready to meet all kinds of weather and road conditions without further concern.

"We urge every motorist to prepare for winter as early as possible and avoid the last minute rush to service stations after the first cold spell."

Giant Turnips Grown On A. J. Peters Farm

A. J. Peters brought in three turnips to The Leader office this week which weighed twenty-one pounds all together. The largest weighed seven and three-fourths pounds, the second six and three-fourths, and the smallest six and one-half.

The turnips were grown on sub-irrigated land which also produced this summer watermelons which weighed as high as seventy-five pounds and is producing a bale and a half of cotton this fall.

Letters Of Man Claiming To Be King George's Nephew Read In Hearing

LONDON, Dec. 4.—A public prosecutor read letters in Bow street police court today in an attempt to prove that Clarence Guy Gordon Haddon, 43-year-old engineer, sought to blackmail King George.

At the end of the hearing, Haddon, who claims to be the illegitimate son of the late Duke of Clarence and hence a nephew of the king, was remanded to jail until Tuesday.

From one letter the prosecutor read:

"It would only have taken a year's income from my late father to have made me the happiest and most contented man in the British empire. It would have meant so little to the royal family."

The prosecution contended the letters were written by Haddon to the king in an attempt to extort money.

From another letter, dated Nov. 8, the prosecution read:

"Within a few days, I am having made sandwich boards giving the particulars of my case. I shall personally carry this board about the streets of London in an attempt to secure justice."

In other epistles were mentioned a letter to the president of the United States and the preparation of petitions to the house of commons and the League of Nations.

Extracts from the letters claimed that Haddon had been followed by detectives and had been hounded about like a criminal for no other crime than that of being the son of the late Duke of Clarence.

Another mentioned "my backers" and a promise Haddon made "to get myself into the courts for the money they have spent on me and are still spending, in return for which I am to come before the eyes of the public."

In opening the proceedings, the prosecutor declared:

"There's absolutely no evidence at all to support his assertion."

One Crime Begets Next in Queer Case

A chain of events, each the motive of the one that followed, has resulted in two murders in San Antonio. To begin the weird series, Miss Mary Doolittle charged that Jimmy McCoy had attacked her. McCoy was no-billed by a grand jury. Shortly afterward Minos Doolittle, Mary's brother, shot McCoy to death. Claiming that he avenged his sister's honor, Doolittle was set free. Now Mrs. A. H. Bailey, McCoy's mother, has killed Doolittle with a shotgun, revenging her son's murder. She is held in the Bexar county jail, where the photo was taken.

Cotton From This District Spotted

Cotton from this district was predominantly spotted this week, according to reports from the United States Department of Agriculture.

The report showed that 57 per cent of the cotton from this district fell in that group and about 30 per cent was white middling and strict low middling. Eleven per cent was shorter than 7-8 inch in length; 56 per cent was 7-8 to 29-32 inch in staple length. About 33 per cent was 15-16 inch or longer. Fourteen per cent was undesirable on futures contracts.

Says Nation Needs Confederate History

FORT WORTH, Texas — What the nation needs is a "truthful" history of the Confederacy, believes Mrs. Oscar Barthold, of Weatherford, past president of the Texas division of the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

In making a talk here, Mrs. Barthold took her cue from the recent controversy at Rice Institute over the production of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" by the university dramatic club. The production was cancelled on objections of the U. D. C.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" was written to inflame the North against the South," she said. "The sons and daughters of the Confederacy will cease protesting against 'Uncle Tom's Cabin' when the G. A. R. ceases to exist."

National Cotton Parity Price Committee Issues Statement

The following statement was issued by Secretary Wallace, Administrators Peek, Davis and Cobb, members of the staff of the department of agriculture, concerning the national cotton parity price plan.

The national Cotton Parity Price Committee is made up of representative cotton farmers, farm paper editors, State Commissioners of Agriculture, Agricultural Extension Directors, the public press, bankers, cotton ginners, cotton seed crushers, merchants and other business men who deal with and are personally and as representatives of farmers, farm organizations and business men who deal with aid are dependent on our great Southern money crop for prosperity.

Purposely we have brought with us today our friends, the United States Senators and members of Congress from the Cotton States although almost without exception they have heartily endorsed the plan we present, for the reason that we want this meeting to be without political significance. We desire that the matter be presented purely on its business merits.

We scarcely need to remind you that the people of the South are not only loyal Americans, but intensely loyal and devoted to President Roosevelt, to his administration, to you and your great department in all the great programs for recovery. President Roosevelt and you have caused us to know that the Administration does not desire to impose any plans upon farmers which would work any unnecessary hardship or prove inadequate to accomplish a desired purpose. We know, on the contrary, that the Administration and you, yourself, desire to consult with farmers and especially with farm organizations regarding every feature of the program for their benefit. Unfortunately, there is no general class organization of farmers covering the entire South. Such farm organizations as there are in the South are supporting this program. The responsibility for representing farmers in the cotton states, therefore, falls heavily on the Cotton Co-operative Marketing Organizations with their more than a quarter of a million membership covering the entire cotton area.

It is the declared purpose of the Administration through the powers granted by the Agricultural Adjustment Act to restore the pre-war buying power of the basic agricultural commodities. To accomplish this purpose you desire to reduce the acreage in cotton to 25,000,000 acres. The suggestions we are making are for the purpose of making that program more certain and at the same time to secure for those who make the program possible the full benefit of their efforts. We ask for no new, unsound or untried methods of approach, but only that the existing machinery and powers be utilized to the extent necessary to make effective the objects and purposes of the national policy. We seek only to make certain the reduction of acreage to 25,000,000, and through this to see that the benefits accrue to those responsible for whatever improvement in price may naturally follow. We believe our suggestions are sound, reasonable and in keeping with the spirit and the avowed purpose of the Administration and the American principle of fair play. We seek to aid you by these suggestions to effectively tie financial benefits to production control.

Is this colossal effort of the government and the cotton growers to benefit the spectacular as much as the farmer? Someone will own the ten million bales of cotton in the carry-over next August, and whoever owns them will benefit by the increase in price brought about by the farmers reduction of acreage. It is of the utmost importance both for the success of the campaign for acreage reduction and for fair dealing with those who enter into the plan that the benefits, so far as possible, accrue to those who actually produced this added price, rather than to those who are merely fortunate enough to hold the cotton after it is forced from the producers' hands.

To make the campaign for acreage reduction certain to go over, we honestly feel from our contact with many farmers that you must strengthen the appeal so that it will secure the approval of as nearly all farmers as possible. Anything less than this invites difficulty and endangers the program. A considerable number of farmers failed to sign up in 1933, and yet they received the full benefit of the effort put forth by their neighbors. Unless they can be persuaded to come in there will be difficulty in 1934. Did we not believe sincerely that the situation demands attention and that it is a real serious problem, we would not be here.

The plan we propose has had much consideration in the South and has been endorsed and approved in editorials in the leading daily newspapers, by resolutions of farmers, farm organizations, the agricultural press and business men's organizations.

The suggested plan we propose will assure the success of the acreage reduction campaign by holding out to farmers a financial inducement which he can understand and which he will accept. It gives him now a chance to realize from this crop as well as from the next one an added material benefit from his agreement to reduce acreage. To bring results, ways must be found to make it more to the farmers' interest to co-operate than not to co-operate.

In the name of the Cotton South comprising one-fourth of the Nation's population and one-third of its farmers, we ask you to consider these suggested plans that we may set an example to all our people of full co-operation in a great undertaking to restore the buying power of a great section. The results benefit our great section and will likewise add immeasurably to the demand for products from other sections of the country and thus aid our whole people.

With the success of the campaign for acreage reduction assured and with the natural normal increase in price which will follow with that success, there will be a constantly lessening need for government funds and little probability of loss from these operations.

The four suggested steps set forth at length in the formal petition already mailed you are as follows:

(1) Loan 10.60c per pound on all cotton grown by and in the hands of actual producers, basis 7-8" low middling or better, or 8.60c per pound on similar grades with staples less than 7-8" at part or Group "A" mill points. This is in round numbers the natural price of cotton based on ten cents interior at points farthest from consumer markets, and makes equitable and without penalty to farmers the storage of cotton either interior or at ports.

(2) Advance four cents per pound on all "blow-up options." There are 2,400,000 bales of such options held by 660,000 farmers.

(3) The Government would enter into agreements with producers to increase the loan to 15.60c per pound, at ports or Group "A" mill points, (equivalent to approximately 15 cents interior) without recourse on the maker or any subsequent endorser, on all spot cotton grown and held by farmers, basis 7-8" low middling, with premiums and discounts according to grade, staple and character of cotton as determined by the average of ten spot cotton markets, as of July 1st, 1934 (all carrying charges and expenses against the cotton to be paid by growers to that date.)

(4) Bona fide cotton farmers who have sold a portion or all of their this year's production shall have the right to buy in the open market an equal number of bales to that which they produced and sold this season, and upon which the same conditions as to the ten cent and the fifteen cent loans would be applied to those who still hold their cotton. This would permit co-operating farmers the benefit of future price enhancement and contribute greatly to the success of next year's acreage reduction program.

Respectfully,
National Cotton Parity
Price Committee.

Tobacco Banned For Clergymen In Methodist Church

ATLANTA, Ga.—Enemies of tobacco have won their fight and Southern Methodist clergymen who have taken the cloth since 1914 must continue to deny themselves this privilege of smoking and chewing.

A group of Atlanta ministers sought recently to have the general conference of the church remove the tobacco ban that was invoked 19 years ago.

They contended it is antiquated and of no purpose and for a time it looked as if their efforts might be successful. They took the formal step of introducing a resolution before the North Georgia conference to propose abolition of the general conference.

A special committee saw things as did the Atlantans and recommended that the resolution be passed.

But all of that was without reckoning with the rank and file of the North Georgia delegation. The issue came to a vote before the conference and was tabled under an avalanche of anti-tobacco ballots.

The ban is not ex post facto in nature. Clergymen, who were using tobacco before its adoption, are permitted to do as they like about observance. Some voluntarily abstained as an ecclesiastical duty but many of the older preachers have continued to use tobacco wherever they chose, even at the annual conferences. And there was nothing the bishops could do about it but frown.

Those admitted to the ministry since 1914 have had to take a vow to abstain from tobacco in any form. And that factor furnished the principal ammunition for the Atlanta group in their fight for abolition.

They contended the rule causes many clergymen to practice habitual violation of their vow for the sake of a soothing smoke or a tasty chew. On top of that, they insisted, no serious, concerted effort is made to enforce the ordinance.

near Sandy Hook, a small summer resort on Lake Winnipeg, fifty miles from here.

An inscription on the weather-beaten boulder has been identified by an Icelandic scholar of Winnipeg as Scandinavian runic, and the stone is believed to be a marker set up by Norsemen who explored Manitoba and the Hudson Bay area in 1362.

One word already deciphered from the dim chiselings on the gray rock is "riki," ancient runic for "state."

The discovery lends credence to the previously doubted authenticity of the now famous "Kensington stone," found at Kensington, Douglas County, Minnesota, in 1889, which bore similar inscriptions.

It would take 213 states the size of Rhode Island to make one state as large as Texas.

"Think of it, Ted, WE HAVE BILLS... BUT ...WE'VE FORGOTTEN WHAT A CAR REPAIR BILL LOOKS LIKE"

Peggy: "You recall, Ted, the talk we had when you turned the car money over to me—how you warned me not to be too confident of oil and gas claims until I tried them out? It didn't take me long to learn what values an oil or gas had to have. Then I selected Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil because of its penetrative quality, for it was plain to see this was real motor protection. According to your cousin Paul, who buys it for his company's trucks, Conoco produces an oil as fine as anyone could, and then they Germ Process it—a patented method of adding oiliness that only Conoco can use."

Ted: "How does it work?" Peggy: "Drive three hundred miles after it is first put in your car. Check it and you will find about a quart of oil apparently missing—they call this the 'Hidden Quart,' for it stays up in your motor and never drains away. The oil has penetrated the metal, producing a continuously oily surface." Ted: "Peggy, that accounts for our not having repair bills! What gasoline do you buy?"

Peggy: "I buy Conoco Bronze, for it also proved itself better than others. Has cold morning starting bothered our car? Haven't you said, 'The old bus runs like a charm'—haven't you bragged of its pep? Well, thank Conoco for that, as well as for more miles to the gallon, more power and anti-knock. Both Conoco gas and oil are splendid—and unequalled for winter driving. And we certainly have saved money."

WELL, JACK THINKS EVEN GOOD GAS AND OILS ARE ALL ALIKE	I'LL TELL EDITH ABOUT CONOCO SHE'LL DO SOMETHING ABOUT IT I KNOW

Full motor protection, especially in cold motor starting, can be found only in Conoco Germ Processed (Paraffin Base) Motor Oil because of the penetrative oiliness, called "The Hidden Quart" stays up in your motor and never drains away. Conoco Germ Processed Oil is the highest grade motor oil obtainable... the paraffin base crude oil sources, the scientific skill and the most modern of refineries combine to make it so. Then it is Germ Processed with an exclusive Conoco formula.

Instant Starting and Lightning Pick-up can best be obtained with Conoco Bronze Gasoline, and without sacrifice of Long Mileage, Greater Power and Anti-Knock advantages. For cold weather starting it cannot be excelled—all the possible fuel needs of modern cars have been fulfilled at no increase in price.

It can be easily identified by its bronze color but you must be sure it is Conoco Bronze Gasoline for only in this way can its advantages of unusual performance and greater economy be obtained.

Give "Useful Electrical Helpers" for Christmas This Year

There are many efficient electrical helpers that will make each day brighter and happier, for years to come. . . And isn't that what you want to give for Christmas?

Electric appliances are economical to buy and surprisingly inexpensive to operate. Here are a few suggestions . . . sure to add to the Christmas joy of your loved ones:

	Electric Waffle Irons		Electric Heating Pads
	Electric Percolators		Electric Egg Boilers
	Beautiful Urn Sets		Attractive Lamps
	Electric Toasters		Vacuum Sweepers
	Electric Clocks		Electric Irons
	Electric Curling Irons		Electric Grills

You can purchase these essential appliances on convenient terms, and pay for them with your regular monthly light bill. Give electric appliances this Christmas and know that your gifts are truly and sincerely appreciated.

Do you know that your increased use of Electric Service is billed on a surprisingly low rate schedule . . . and adds only a small amount to your total bill?

D. C. D. SERVICE STATION No. 1—OPEN DAY AND NIGHT

War Against Termites Opened Here This Week By Terminix Company

Announcement was made today that the Terminix Company of West Texas will operate in Wellington.

Mr. Flood will be in charge of the work here and has a company crew, with a truck and inspectors here at the present time.

All work done by the company is absolutely guaranteed by the company, according to Mr. Flood, who stated that all work was guaranteed by a surety bond.

The company is also working in Shamrock and at the present time are treating the home of R. C. Lewis.

Pronounced traces of termites have been reported here at various times and several persons have stated that the insects have done much damage to their homes and property.

Open warfare is now declared here against the small insects which devour woodwork. The insects work in the dark and are seldom noticed by the casual observer. They eat out the insides of supports, sleepers, floor and walls of homes—until only the hollow shells remain.

Termites are described as insects with a $40,000,000 appetite as a national menace to woodwork. They are the most ravens, the most destructive and one of the most difficult to exterminate of all pests known to the property owner. Eradication and control of the pests in this city is the object of the Terminix Company.
