One crop (wheat) is poor, but two (partly and oil) are pretty good in the Pampa territory.

Seems like we need a Panhandle council of something or other to prevent so much competition in July 4 entertainment.

Although the movement is unfair to faithful, long-tenured, and legitimate federal and public employees, the term "tax eater" is being applied in derision to thousands of persons who are now on the public "new deal" payroll.

If we keep fighting over the Constitution, maybe oldtime Fourth of July oratory will return.

The West Foster grouch says that one good thing about the cattle and hog reduction program seems to have been that some of the files also were "liquidated."

Musing of the moment: Drowning took a surprisingly large percentage of lives July 4. While this danger is rather small on the plains, the fact should not delay the movement to teach every child to swim. A little learning in swimming is sometimes safer than too much of the kind which engenders rashness.

Brevitorials

PAMPA'S 1936 Centennial, now a city-wide project, must and will take a more permanent form, with a plot of ground and a permanent exhibit hall. Frankly, we do not at the moment know how this goal can be reached. However, there are several ideas being considered by Fred Cullum and his committee. Some plan will be adopted and the public will be kept informed of its progress. Pampa must climax her patriotic programs with the plains' greatest event in 1936. That there is much work and worry in such an undertaking does not take our attention off the fact that Pampa can and usually does get things done.

MANY NEW garbage cans have appeared in back yards since the City made the request that no wet garbage be placed in trash barrels. The ruling was timely enough in that hot weather has really arrived. And, so it flies.

Flies multiply as warm weather comes to stay. A female deposits more than a hundred eggs at a time in organic material. The life cycle from egg to larva (maggot), to pupa, to adult male or female fly requires but ten days. A week later, fifty flies, under favorable conditions, are ready to deposit a total of 50,000 eggs. During the summer season, nine generations of flies may result from one female that laid the first batch of eggs in the spring. It is estimated that, if the offspring of a single overwintering female are to survive through nine generations, descendants in the fall would number over five and a half trillion.

Fortunately, modern sanitation and knowledge regarding the life history and habits of the house fly render possible control over the fly nuisance. Proper disposal of human and animal wastes in urban areas and on farms will prevent the breeding and multiplication of flies.

THE FIRST proposition to be found on the ballot in the August 24 special election on constitutional amendments is the so-called old age pension amendment. This year, for the first time, the amendments will be numbered, according to Secretary of State Gerald C. Mann.

The old age pension amendment proposes to give the legislature the authority to pay these pensions to persons over the age of 65, who are not habitual drunkards nor habitual criminals, nor inmates of any state supported institutions. Those who are eligible must have lived in Texas at least 5 years, during the nine immediately preceding application and in the state continuously for one year.

MELVIN PURVIS RESIGNS FROM FEDERAL POST

AGENT WAS NEMESIS OF DILLINGER AND FLOYD

CHICAGO, July 12. (P)—Melvin Purvis, head of the Chicago office of the department of justice's bureau of investigation and the man who directed the successful hunt for John Dillinger, announced today he has resigned from the justice department.

Purvis said that he was giving up his government job to take over new duties. His plans, he said, were too indefinite to disclose at the present time.

His resignation, he said, had been accepted by his chief at Washington, J. Edgar Hoover. He prepared to leave his office today.

Purvis said he would remain in Chicago.

Purvis, a normally mild-mannered southerner, was the most dangerous nemesis of the desperado.

A youthful attorney who turned sleuth, Purvis directed the final search that resulted in the death of Charles Arthur (Pretty Boy) Floyd in Ohio, and it was his men who shot down John Dillinger in Chicago.

Whether Purvis himself actually fired the shot that laid Floyd low last October probably never will be known—but he's a good marksman. He wouldn't admit that he fired the fatal shot at Dillinger in front of a North Side theatre on July 22, 1934 but who were there said he gun barked first.

Purvis hadn't been heard of much until the hunt intensified for Dillinger. In fact, if he had his way, but his work, and the labor of the men under him, made him a national figure.

He had been chief of the Chicago bureau of the department of investigation less than three years but during his tenure he has brought in—dead or alive—some of the most dangerous desperadoes of the decade.

He was credited with rounding up most of the hoodlums of the Midwest, including the capture of Vernon St. Roger Touhy and with sending Roger Touhy, himself, and his three lieutenants to prison for the kidnapping of John Factor.

Purvis engineered the raid on a North Side barber shop which resulted in the capture of Vernon St. Roger Touhy, himself, and his three lieutenants to prison for the kidnapping of John Factor.

Parking Banned On East Side of Cuyler at Park

City Traffic Officer Johnson took steps today to eliminate what has developed into one of the most dangerous traffic hazards in the city—the long string of parked cars next to the city park on North Cuyler.

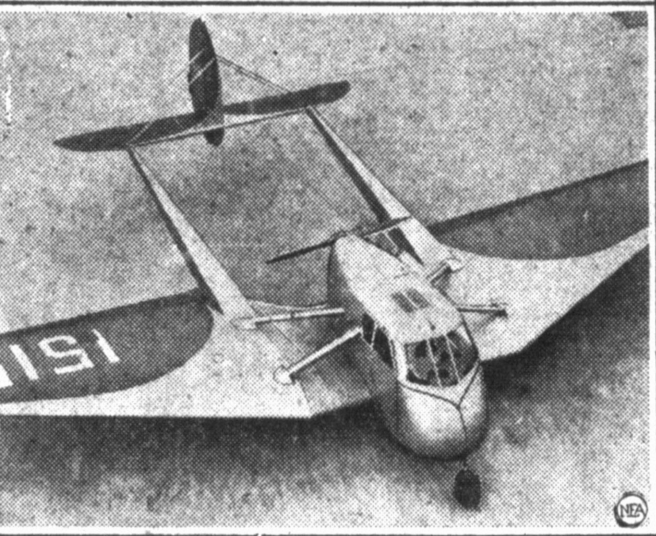

No parking signs have been painted on the curb that forms the west boundary of the park, and this order will be strictly enforced. Several children have narrowly escaped death or serious injury in the last few days when they darted from behind cars and attempted to cross the street in front of approaching vehicles.

Machines may be parked on the east side of the street but not on the east side where they have been parked, it was said. All cars must be headed south. The no-parking zone on the east side of the street has been marked off and will extend around the curve next to the park. Scores of cars have completely filled up all parking space next to the park each evening, and a serious traffic hazard was created. The park is a favorite gathering spot on hot evenings and the water and cool grass offer comfort.

I Heard . . .

Several Pampa citizens wondering what is to be done with juvenile vandals in Pampa who have been on a rampage lately. The latest depredations include the hurling of a stone and smashing of a bevel glass by the side of a door on North Frost street, the cutting in several places of a length of garden hose on East Kingsmill avenue, the cutting of a dog's tie rope on East Francis ave., and the throwing of a stone thru a garage window on West Kingsmill avenue.

A new "flier" monoplane, of the pusher type, which its designer claims cannot nose over, is shown here in two views, about to land at Wayne county airport, Detroit, above, and below in a closeup. Designed by Dean Hammond, of Ypsilanti, Mich., 15 of these ships have been built for the bureau of

DANCER ALLOWS RATTLESNAKE TO BITE HER TO PROVE DIET

Skeptics Not Permitted to Examine Hand but Most Agree She Was Bitten.

NEW YORK, July 12. (P)—Beebe de la Fontaine either was nursing a double rattlesnake bite today or else Broadway had witnessed one of the most exciting hoaxes in years. Most observers agreed that the slim brunette dancer actually was bitten when she thrust her hand before the gaping jaws of a six-foot Florida rattler last night in an effort to prove that vegetarian diet had made her immune to its poison.

But the skeptics, who were turned back when they sought to examine the girl's hand afterward, were not entirely convinced.

The performance, which kept a back of hundreds of spectators on edge for several minutes, came as the climax to a health lecture by Dr. Lloyd C. Shanklin in a West 48th street auditorium.

The dancer threw open a green wicker basket, grasped the rattler behind its head, and lifted it out. Several times she extended her bare right arm toward the snake, hesitated, and drew it back. Then she slowly moved her arm near the wide open jaws.

Suddenly she screamed, snapped back her arm and stood swaying with the rattler held at arm's length. She hurled it into the basket and slammed the cover down.

She was sobbing when Dr. Irene Austin, assistant to Dr. Shanklin, took her backstage. Persons who clustered around a closed door, heard two shrieks at long intervals, and then saw her taken out of the building, weeping and speechless. The third finger and thumb of her right hand were bandaged.

Dr. Shanklin, who said the snake was shipped up from his farm near Miami, said she would be on the platform with him tonight, alive and well, to demonstrate the efficacy of a vegetable diet.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Palmer of Longview are visiting with Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Gandy. Mr. and Mrs. Zack Griffin.

AMERICAN NUDE DANCER IS WOMAN OF HOUR IN PARIS

PARIS, July 12. (P)—Miss Joan Warner of Nazareth, Pa., became the woman of the hour in France today, awaiting calmly court judgment as to whether her nude dancing is damaging to Paris morals.

The judge, counsel for both sides, and famous witnesses vied in paying tribute to Miss Warner's high character and refinement in her speeches scintillating with Parisian wit. Everybody seemed to be her friend.

M. Bauverat, vice president of the National Association for the Increase of French population which brought the charges against the blonde dancer, alone bore heavily on her yesterday during her court hearing.

Utility Expense Uncovered

GROUP SPENT $300,000 TO DEFEAT BILL

SENATE HEARS UTILITY HEADS CHAIRMAN CITE FIGURES

WASHINGTON, July 12. (P)—Evidence that more than $300,000 had been spent by the public utility executives in an effort to defeat the provision in the utilities bill to abolish "unnecessary" holding companies in seven years was received today by the senate lobby committee.

It came from Philip H. Gadsden of Philadelphia, chairman of a committee of public utilities executives formed to oppose the abolition clause.

The fate of this provision desired by President Roosevelt, still is in doubt. The senate approved it by a one-vote margin and the house rejected it. A committee of representatives of the two branches will try to adjust the differences.

The house joined the senate today in sending the bill to conference after deciding to insist on the changes it had made.

The senate committee named to investigate lobbying in general took but five minutes to organize and then plunged immediately into the inquiry on lobbying for and against the utilities bill.

By the assessment of one half cent a meter of the companies, Gadsden said, the committee of executives raised about $200,000 of which $151,000 has been spent.

In addition, as related, the Edison Electric Institute of New York contributed $150,000.

Of this, he said, $75,000 each was paid to two law firms, Sullivan and Cromwell, and Richmond, Va., and Sullivan and Cromwell of New York.

Talk of postmaster nomination nominations dropped out on capitol hill as legislators discussed yesterday's administration victory on TVA. One high democratic chief, speaking privately, said he saw no direct connection between the house voting on TVA and 250 postmaster nominations made and sent to the senate for confirmation. But he added:

"If I were doubtful on the question, and if I were a politician, I would rather have the committee, and if a postmaster nomination in which I was interested went to the senate, I'd be inclined to think twice before I voted 'wrong'."

McLennan (D-N.Y.), a leading opponent of the TVA bill passed by the house, had this to say on the subject of postmasters:

"It's the same old game that has been practiced from the time of George Washington down. I'm not surprised. I expect its politicians to use every power he has. I would if I could."

Meanwhile, the house rules committee prepared to swing next Monday into an investigation of lobbying against the utilities bill. It has virtually completed its investigation of charges that Thomas Corcoran, RFC counsel, sought to intimidate Rep. Brewster (R-Me) into voting with the administration on the bill.

Halliburton Is Guarded After Dole Criticism

LOS ANGELES, July 12. (P)—Special police today guarded the home and properties here and in Dunsmuir, Calif., of E. P. Halliburton, millionaire oil man, who disclosed the lives of himself and family had been threatened because of his criticism of Dole recipients.

Halliburton said he had been warned his oil well cementing plant would be "blown up" and that an unidentified person called over his private telephone wire Wednesday and told him he had "better watch out for your children."

The oil man's two youngest children have been placed in a private camp under guard, and his home in fashionable Berkeley Square here is being patrolled.

Halliburton several days ago was quoted as saying he would not employ any person who had been on relief.

How To Stay Cool Tho Hot

How to keep cool though hot, or when coolest—that problem has kept many Pampans literally in a lather for the last few days. Those who keep busy and keep their minds on other things do not notice the heat so much—which after all may be the best way of keeping cool.

Those who get hot keeping cool (for heat awaits them in the end) do it in various ways.

Get Hot to Get Cool

Some, mostly the younger generation, play tennis with bare backs for a half-day and then sit in the shade and it's cool in comparison.

One could clean out the attic for an hour and it would seem cool in descending to a hot kitchen.

Some, including a few oldsters, will ride a bicycle during the heat of the day, and then consume a gob of ice cream, and that makes them feel cool, and arouses a thirst for ice water.

An hour at the skating rink will stir up a sweat which feels cool when one goes outside in the wind.

An electric fan is nice, but the electric bill will not be.

One can go down to the ice houses or the creamery and get in the huge refrigerators, but it will be just as hot when one gets outside again, so why go in the first place.

EXPLODES ONE HOUR BEFORE TAKEOFF TIME

HELIUM ESCAPES; ONE YEAR'S WORK IS LOST

RAPID CITY, S. D., July 12. (AP)—Disaster overtook the National Geographic society—U. S. army air corps stratosphere balloon here early this morning as the giant bag collapsed from an unexplained cause one hour before the scheduled takeoff at 4 a. m. (MST).

No one was injured, but five men working on the gondola preparatory to lashing the metal ball to the balloon were forced to jump to safety. Guards also scattered quickly to avoid injury.

The top of the mammoth bag burst open without warning, permitting 375,000 cubic feet of helium gas to escape and definitely halting the projected flight.

No Explanation?

Captain Albert W. Stevens, flight commander, said he had "absolutely no explanation" for the mishap. He added that an investigation would be made but that nothing would be done until later in the morning.

Spectators watching the preparations for the flight said the balloon ground ropes suddenly slackened and the top of the bag opened like a paper sack exploding.

Pending investigation the mass of fabric was left untouched in the middle of the big illuminated ring where the balloon was being prepared for the flight.

The flight staff as well as spectators massed on the cliffs, awaiting the balloon.

Best Wheat to Average About Twelve Bushels

Maximum wheat production per acre in Gray county appears to be about 12 bushels, and the minimum the smallest amount which can be out.

Several fields are reported to have made the top. Estimates of as high as 20 bushels per acre were shown erroneous after cutting. While the best fields were thickly set and the heads of good size, much of the grain was missing in the heads.

A survey showed that about a dozen train carloads of wheat had been brought to local elevators and one at Kingsmill. A much larger amount has gone into farm granaries to be held for seedling. Kingsmill residents recall that a few years ago thousands of bushels of wheat were dumped on the ground along the railroad waiting cars for shipment.

A few elevators in this territory have not opened for business and probably will not do so.

Charges Spying

Charging that Governor Paul M. Pearson used a spy system to check on the activities of enemies of the Virgin Islands administration, Paul Yates, his former administrative assistant, took the stand as the first complaining witness in the Senate investigation of charges against Pearson. Yates (above) wears tape over the injury suffered in a fist fight with Robert S. Allen, and his eye still is black.

HOARE SEEKING NEW SOLUTION OF WAR THREAT

League of Nations Official Called To Conference

ROME, July 12. (P)—The temporary arrest of the wife of the Italian consul at Gondar, Ethiopia, the arrest of some servants of the Italian military attaché in Addis Ababa, and a number of more minor incidents were reported tonight in a communique issued by the Italian government.

The official statement said that Ethiopian soldiers stopped the wife of the Italian consul as she was traveling outside of Gondar on her way to Eritrea, the Italian colony.

It was declared she was furnished with a regular Ethiopian pass but that she was not permitted to proceed on her journey for two days, until after protests had been presented by the consulate.

LONDON, July 12. (P)—The British government, persisting in its efforts to head off hostilities between Italy and Ethiopia, sought today another solution to the crisis.

Sir Samuel Hoare, foreign secretary, called Joseph A. C. Avenol, secretary general of the League of Nations, to a conference at which informed circles said some new way out of the impasse might be advanced.

The gray-haired Avenol, on a mission to avert war in East Africa and to bolster the league, also arranged a second conference with Anthony Eden, England's secretary for League of Nations affairs.

WHEAT ALLOTMENT INCREASED TO 33 CENTS FOR NEXT CROP

Start of Soviet Strato Flight

Straining at its anchor ropes, the giant Soviet bag, USS-3-Bis, is pictured above near Moscow a few moments before it was released and soared aloft, carrying in a comparatively tiny gondola its cargo of three scientists to a height of nearly 19 miles. Value of scientific data obtained during this stratosphere flight is believed to exceed that secured on all previous Soviet ascents.

PAMPA TOPICS OF OUR CITY

Sheriff on Trip. Sheriff Earl Talley is on a trip to Oklahoma. He will return soon with one or more prisoners wanted here.

Fund Grows Slowly. Additional contributions to the Boy Scout financial drive here have brought the total to $1,164. The new contributors are R. A. Selby, $5; T. B. Cobb, $15; and Frank Keim, $10. The only solicitations have been by mail. The goal is $2,000 for Pampa.

Secretaries to Meet. The 21st quarterly meeting of the Panhandle-Plains Secretaries association will be held in Shamrock July 14, according to W. J. Daugherty, manager of the Pampa Credit association, and president of the association. Current Reeves of Lubbock is vice president, and Mrs. Adella S. Drew of Plainview is secretary. Speakers will include Miss Blanche Adams, Shamrock; O. O. McCurdy, Vernon; C. C. Powell, Clarendon; R. E. Townsend, Amarillo; Arch Fitzsimmons, Childress; John W. Byng, Dallas; and Chas. T. Lux, Austin.

Prof. L. F. Sheffey of the history department and C. Stuart Johnston, professor of archaeology, both of West Texas Teachers college, were here today en route to Higgins. A collection of relics is being assembled by and for them at Higgins.

Postal Supervisors to Meet. Election of officers for the next year and naming of delegates to the state convention in San Angelo July 25, 26, and 27 and the national convention in Kansas City in September will be included in the program when postal supervisors of the National Postal Supervisors, branch 188, meet here Sunday afternoon. The business session will follow a noon luncheon in the Eagle Buffet. M. E. Dilday of Amarillo, president, will preside. About 20 assistant postmasters and supervisors will be here.

Field Supervisor Here. G. E. Harrell, field supervisor for the Texas Relief commission, district 16, spent this morning in Pampa. He is at present headquarters in Amarillo.

John Henry, injured in an automobile accident Tuesday afternoon, spent a comfortable night and his condition this morning was much improved at Pampa-Jarratt hospital.

Mrs. J. D. Cobb was able to leave Pampa-Jarratt hospital this morning.

Miss Helen Hamming of Floydada and Miss Carla Worsham of Henrietta are guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Buckler.

Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Tinkler of Tulsa, Okla., are guests of his sister, Mrs. H. O. Roberts.

With 57 of their 77 home games yet to be played, the Cincinnati Reds on June 1 this year were within 30,000 of equalling their whole 1934 attendance record.

Batters say Bucky Walters, Phillies third baseman converted into a pitcher, gets much of his effectiveness by scowling into the eyes of the batter just before letting fly.

The 1935 wheat adjustment payments will be at least 33 cents a bushel on allotments of cooperating farmers as compared with the 1934 minimum payment of 29 cents a bushel, the Agricultural Adjustment administration has written to Ralph Thomas, county agent. The payments for both years are subject to slight deductions for county administrative costs.

In making the announcement, Chester C. Davis, administrator, also stated: "This increase of 4 cents a bushel for the 1935 allotments represents additional income to cooperating wheat producers of approximately $14,000,000. Under the new payment schedule, producers will receive adjustment payments on their 1935 wheat allotments of at least $115,000,000, as compared with approximately $100,000,000 which they would receive on the 29-cent basis."

No change has been made for the present in the processing tax rate of 30 cents a bushel. The additional adjustment payments to farmers are made possible through reserves accumulated from the tax on wheat produced by farmers not under allotment contracts. This increased payment will not result in any deficit in the wheat budget since available funds are sufficient to cover the increase.

The 1935 adjustment payments will be made in two installments said George E. Farrell, director of the division of grains. The first, which is payable as soon as compliance with contracts is checked, will be at the rate of 20 cents a bushel on allotments. The final payment will be made when local administrative costs for the fiscal year 1935-36 have been determined and deductions made. The final payment will be at least 13 cents a bushel on allotments, less the deduction for local costs.

"The second installment may be increased above 13 cents if the difference between the average farm price and the wheat parity price for the current marketing year is more than 33 cents a bushel," Mr. Farrell said.

The rate of the minimum 1935 adjustment payments was established in a proclamation by Secretary Wallace today. Mr. Farrell pointed out that the schedule of payments announced today applies to the 1935 crop, which is the last one to be harvested under the original wheat contract, which covered the years 1933, 1934, and 1935. It has NO connection with the new wheat contract which is now being prepared and which covers the four years, 1936-39 inclusive.

Allotment Basis. The allotment of each producer is 54 per cent of his average production in the base period of the program, as set forth in his contract.

The adjustment payments for 1933 were originally established at 28 cents a bushel of allotment, and were increased last year to 29 cents. The 1934 payments were set last year at a minimum of 29 cents a bushel.

The wheat adjustment payments are paid out of the processing tax of 30 cents a bushel on wheat used for domestic human consumption. The Agricultural Adjustment act provides that the rate of the processing tax shall be based upon the difference between the parity price of wheat and that rate may be changed upon variation of the difference between parity and current average farm price. Available data on wheat and parity prices indicated that the difference on July 1 was not materially different from what it was when the tax was first announced.

Audit Reports. Work of auditing compliance reports, which is necessary before the final 1934 and first 1935 adjustments can be made, will begin next week, officials of the wheat section said. The work of measuring fields and checking compliance began this year considerably earlier than last year, and as field workers are now more experienced in this work it is expected that reports will come to Washington more rapidly than a year ago. The greater experience in making the reports should also result in more rapid disbursement of adjustment payments, officials said.

Defense Rests in Kidnaping Trial

TACOMA, Wash., July 12 (AP)—The defense in the Mrs. Margaret Thulin Waley kidnaping trial rested its case at 9:15 a. m. (PST) with Mrs. Waley the only defense witness placed on the stand.

With a brief government cross-examination of Mrs. Waley finished, John P. Dore, chief defense counsel, told the court the defense's testimony was ended. United States District Attorney J. Charles Dennis immediately began a summation of the testimony submitted by the government in its effort to prove Mrs. Waley guilty of kidnaping and conspiring to kidnap George Weyerhaeuser, 9-year-old Tacoma lumber heir, May 24. The sudden ending of testimony by both sides came almost as a complete surprise to the crowded court room, although Dore, while Mrs. Waley was being cross-examined, told newsmen that her husband, Marmion Metz Waley, would not be called as a witness.

CERNOCH EXECUTED. HUNTSVILLE, July 12. (AP)—Lewis Cernoch, Williamson county farm hand, paid with his life in the state's electric chair early today for murdering City Marshall H. J. Lindsey of Granger in January, 1934. Lindsey and Constable Sam Moore, also of Granger, were shot to death after they had arrested Cernoch on a minor charge. Cernoch was convicted of killing Lindsey but was not tried for the slaying of Moore, although he was charged in that case.

Chapter 41
Miss Daisy didn't know much about the route the Millards had taken but undoubtedly Mrs. Houghton would. If Mr.—what was it, Heather?—if Mr. Heather would wait until luncheon Mrs. Houghton would be back from Santa Fe and could give him the direction.

"At least I think she may be able to," added Miss Daisy conscientiously.

Michael had to be content with that. Margarita showed him to a narrow room and he washed his hands and brushed his hair and tried to control the raging impatience that tore at him. When he came down the cool salon was empty and he was left to amuse himself with the books and the parrot, hopping from his swinging glass perch and jeering openly at Michael. He stooped out into the patio. In the shade of a pepper tree Miss Daisy worked at her crocheting and gave him a welcoming smile.

"The Millards have been so interested in Miss Katharine," she said cheerfully. "She has real talent, they say. And young Mr. Frank has been so charmed with her. She's lovely, we all think."

Michael scowled at the thought of young Mr. Frank, whoever he might be, and Miss Daisy looked frightened. This handsome young man could be quite fierce. Perhaps she shouldn't have said that, but it was true and she meant no harm. And Miss Vincent had told her explicitly that Miss Strykhurst was not engaged to anyone.

Michael had to wait and make polite conversation until fat Mrs. Houghton, in dotted linen with a big, old-fashioned straw hat on her head, arrived.

"Can't tell you a thing about it, my dear boy," Mrs. Houghton wheezed, looking benignly at him. "Why not wait here until they return? We'll make you comfortable." Michael said that she was kind; he appreciated it a great deal but his business was urgent.

"Well then, after lunch I'll run you over to the Millard's place," said his hostess, fixing her dark eyes on him shrewdly. "They've a Chinese boy there who's made the trip and perhaps he can tell you something about the roads. That is, if you can get anything out of a Chinese boy."

"I've known a lot of 'em," Michael said. "Oh, really?"

Michael, pressed, told her about the ranch and what he remembered of his father. "Heather?" mused Mrs. Houghton. "There was a Francis Heather at San Diego about 1905, wasn't he? Knew him well, Good family."

"That was my father," Michael told her. "Not really?" Mrs. Houghton beamed. "How very interesting!" The man fairly ached to be on his way, but there was no hurrying this capable woman with the assured air and the twinkling eyes. Besides, he was more or less at her mercy. If she chose to drive him to the Millard ranch to interrogate the Chinese boy, he might feel himself very lucky. But he must not be discourteous enough to urge her to forgo luncheon.

So they lunched in the long, cool room open on two sides. Michael scarcely knew what he ate while Miss Daisy and Miss Roxane pecked chintily at their salads Mrs. Houghton took two helpings of everything, drank great cups of tea, and leaned back in her chair for a cigarette. Michael could have cheerfully killed her.

No one went out in the heat of mid-day here if he could possibly help it; he knew that. But the intrepid Mrs. Houghton put on the monstrous old straw hat again and while Miss Daisy and Miss Roxane went carefully enjoying their siestas, she and Michael Heather climbed into the roadster and took the road that led to the Millard place.

"This is really very kind of you," Michael said with some compunction. "Not at all," wheezed Mrs. Houghton. "Was young 'self once."

The Chinese boy had been asleep and came drowsily to the door at their summons. Yes, he knew the way. But he could not leave the place. He was in charge.

"We know that, Li," said Mrs. Houghton patiently. "The gentleman only wants you to tell him how to go."

Michael had a map in his pocket and the boy, with many nods and profound head-shaking, finally agreed on a route.

"You did that very well," said the woman admiringly to Michael as they left. "I can never get a sensible word out of him. Not that I'm at all certain the road is right. They'll admit anything just to be agreeable. I do think you're being rather foolish. They'll be back day after tomorrow in any case."

Michael shook his head stubbornly. Wait here for Katharine? He couldn't live through another day, not knowing how he stood with her.

They found a car for him. Margarita's brother had an ancient sedan which would go. Michael knew the make of car. He had driven it before. He started out in the full blaze of mid-afternoon with his stout member waving to him from the courtyard.

"Wild goose chase, Margarita," murmured Mrs. Houghton, sinking into a basket chair and fanning herself vigorously. "But that's what it is to be young, my dear. Bring me some limeade—there's a good girl."

Many times during that afternoon did Michael stop in order to let the burning engine cool off slightly. He raged at the delay, but there was no helping matters. When night fell he kept on his Montana days stood him in good stead at this juncture. He was used to empty roads and coyotes howling and the arched loneliness of the far-away sky. The desert held no terrors for this man.

Toward morning he rested a little so as to be fresh for the new day. As yet he had not passed a single car. The Millards did not travel at night. Mrs. Houghton had assured him, so he was certain not to lose them thus. By day he would have to be abnormally alert to scrutinize every vehicle which passed him. A touring car it was that Katharine was traveling in; a large gray touring car with green wheels.

Michael drank some of the coffee and ate a few of the sandwiches Margarita had prepared. He might have to go all the way to the mountains, in the event the Millards had delayed their start. He must be ready for that. His dress were shrouded from searching the horizon. Once some Mexicans passed him in a rickety chariot. And there was a shabby car with a California license, with some bedraggled children in the back seat and a shiftless looking couple in front. Typical dirties.

Long past noon he came in sight of three or four dots on the desert floor straight ahead and his heart leaped. But he reminded himself that it was idiotic to suppose that every sign of life he saw meant Katharine's party.

Besides, he he drew nearer, he could see that the dots were stationary. There was a car, but it was not moving. And there was a tent. No seasoned travelers pitched camp in the desert during the day. But the car was a gray touring car with green wheels. Michael drew up with a screech of brakes. A middle-aged woman in a camp clothes, with signs of agitation in her face, came around the corner of the car and stared at him.

"Is this Mr. Millard's camp?" "It is!" Amazement in her voice. "Is Miss Strykhurst here?" Michael's voice sounded cracked and harsh.

"Miss Strykhurst is—Hilda, come here!" called Evelyn Vincent. Michael paled. What mystery was this?

A blond woman of 40 with her hair in the wildest disorder, hys smart riding breeches torn and stained, appeared from the shadow of the car. "We're nearly distracted," she began volubly. "Katharine must have wandered off while we slept. My husband and his brother have looked and looked. It seems hopeless."

Michael said sharply, "Lost? Since when?" No one bothered to ask who he was or why he was there. They told him all they knew. Katharine had been gone since sunrise. Frank and Dirk had wandered about calling—

"My God," Michael struck his hands together. If he had only started sooner this dreadful thing would not have happened. He thought, in a agony of his hour at luncheon on the day before, of

SHEEP BUSINESS ON UPGRADE IN TEXAS; RAISERS ARE OPTIMISTIC

BRADY, July 12. (AP)—The three-day sheep auction sale held during the Brady July jubilee and race meet celebration July 3, 4, 5, showed, raisers declared, that the sheep business is on the upgrade and sheepmen are again in optimistic mood. Although the auction was arranged only 10 days before the celebration, an aggregate of 394 rams and ewes were sold for an average of $28 per head, which was $5 per head lower than the prices paid at the well advertised ram sale at Sacramento, California, in May.

W. S. Hansen of Utah, operator of the oldest registered Rambouillet flock in that state, purchased "Lazy Bones," Victor Pierce's champion yearling ram at the 1935 San Angelo fat stock show, for $500, the top price of the Brady sale. The Hansen flock dates back to 1893 when Hansens father, the late W. S. Hansen, Sr. in collaboration with Dwight Lincoln and J. H. Seely, wrote the articles of incorporation of the Rambouillet Registry association of the United States.

Hansen has 1,400 registered ewes. He had 929 head of his own ram flock in the Brady sale. "If I did not think this Texas ram would not be a credit to my flock I would not send it all the way to Utah, much less pay $500 for it," Hansen said. "And especially since I need a new dress, worse than he needs this buck," his young wife chimed in. A number of other rams in the Brady auction brought as much as $80 to $100.

A murmur of surprise ran through the auction ring when Nelson Johnson, auctioneer of San Angelo, sold two of Bullard brothers' top ewes for $105 each to J. W. Owens of Ocala. That sale constituted a top ewe price not duplicated in the past five or six years in the United States, sheepmen believe.

The Bullard family has specialized in raising purebred sheep since 1875. Their sheep ranch is located at Woodland, California. The foundation stock of a number of West the enforced waits during the afternoon as the engine cooled. "Good God!" he repeated. "We must do something. A plane—"

"That's what I said," Miss Vincent began, "but Frank wouldn't consent to going off with the car. He said she might come back and would think she'd been deserted—" "Poor child, I hate to say it, but I'm very much afraid we shan't see her again," said Hilda Millard. She began hopelessly to cry.

Michael shook her arm. "Where can I get a plane?" he asked harshly. "I must find one at once." (To Be Continued)

TEXAS REGISTERED RAMBOUILLET FLOCKS COMES FROM THE BULLARD PENS

Victor Pierce of Ocala, Texas breeder, topped the sale with the various flocks entered. His 18 rams averaged $77 per head, including the $500 top ram, and $52.50 per head excluding this ram.

R. F. Miller, a California breeder, averaged $34.50 for his group of 21 Rambouillets. Miles, a Texas A. & M. graduate, has for a number of years been connected with the department of animal husbandry of the University of California at Davis, California. He is known throughout the nation as one of the outstanding Rambouillet judges, having judged at the International Livestock show at Chicago and the Kansas City Royal Livestock show.

The Brady sheep sale is the only one to be held in Texas this year. The next sale will be at Salt Lake City in August.

ROAD RUNNERS WILL ENTER DENVER BASEBALL TOURNAMENT, AUGUST 1-13

MANAGERS TO ANNOUNCE NEW LINEUP SOON

TIGER JOE BERRY TO ARRIVE IN CITY TODAY

The Danciger Road Runners of Pampa will enter the Denver Post baseball tournament, greatest of its kind in the country, it was announced this morning by officials of the Danciger Refineries and by Road Runner managers.

The forfeit check and data on the team was to be mailed to Denver this afternoon, following a telegram informing Denver Post tournament officials that the Road Runners would be "in there" battling against the strongest semi-pro baseball teams in the west.

Strength will be added in several departments before the Road Runners make their trip to Denver. It was rumored that a pitcher now with a professional team in the middle west would be here to accompany the team to Denver. Tiger Joe Berry was scheduled to arrive here today. The little righthander pitched Ponce City to a 3 to 2 win over Muskogee on Wednesday night, getting 10 strikeouts.

A couple of members of the LeFors Coltecos and maybe a star from one or two other Panhandle clubs may be added to the club. Road Runner officials hope to announce a definite lineup within the next few days. Plans are now under way for a game between the Road Runner team which will go to Denver and a team of all stars from the other four Panhandle teams; the game to be played at Road Runner park.

Pampa will be the fourth team to enter the Denver tournament. The Eason Oilers of Enid, Okla., was the first team. Then followed the Humble Oilers of Houston. A team from Los Angeles, Cal., became the third nominee for honors. The three teams which threw their hats in the ring ahead of the Road Runners tied for third money last year, each collecting $1,211.02.

The House of David heard team won first money amounting to $6,458.25, the largest purse ever paid. Second place went to the Kansas City Monarchs, only negro team ever entered in the event.

The tournament will begin on August 1 and last through August 13. Teams winning games, but not getting in the "big money," will receive $50 for each game won.

Pampa baseball fans believe the Road Runners have an excellent chance to finish in the big money. The team won four out of six games from the Eason Oilers this year and the 1935 Enid team is said to be stronger than the nine which placed third in the Denver event last year.

With more strength in a few departments, especially the hurling staff, Pampa's entry will be watched with interest. The Road Runners will be the second Pampa team to enter the tournament. The Gulf Guns went to Denver in 1931.

The Phillips Oilers of Borger went to the tournament in 1933, winning two games. In 1932 Borger was also represented, the team taking third money.

Frankie Parker Will Play Hess

SPRING LAKE, N. J., July 12. (AP)—The east, south and southwest were represented today among the semi-finalists in the third annual Spring Lake invitation tennis tournament.

Frankie Parker of Spring Lake, the defending champion, and J. Gilbert Hall of South Orange, N. J., represented the east while the colors of the other two sections were carried by Wilbur E. Hess of Fort Worth, Tex., and Charles Harris of West Palm Beach, Fla.

Parker scraped through a 7-5, 8-6 victory over Harold Surface of Kansas City to gain the semi-final round.

Parker's semi-final opponent, Hess, gave a fast and convincing exhibition in disposing of Bernard T. Welch of Rockville, Md., 6-2, 6-4.

Harris won from Herbert L. Bowman of New York, 6-3, 6-4, but Hall was carried three sets before defeating William B. Reese of Atlanta, 5-7, 6-1, 6-3.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

By The Associated Press
Virgil Davis, Cardinals—His pinch double in ninth drove in runs that beat Phillips.

Lefty Groves, Red Sox, and Zeke Bonura, White Sox, drove in five hits and scored winning runs in opener; Bonura drove in five tallies in second game with two homers.

Augie Galan, Cubs—Led attack on Braves with homer and two singles. Johnny Allen, Yankees—Limited Indians to six hits, fanned nine and knocked in first two runs.

Red River League To Send Best Players Here Tonight

Wellington to Bring All-Star Nine To Pampa

A ball club composed of the cream of the Red River Valley league and playing under the colors of the Wellington team will be here tonight for a game with the Road Runners. Game time will be 8:45 o'clock with Road Runner park the scene of the encounter.

The Red River Valley league, composed of teams from Wellington, Childress, Memphis, Paducah, Shamrock and Hollis, has been exhibiting some fast ball this summer. The clubs have uncovered some classy ball players, and together, they should give the Pampa team a real battle.

The team will be brought to Pampa by Dick Morgan, former big league hurler, now with Wellington. Also with the team will be a young brother of Sammy Hale, manager of the Coltecos and a former major league star. Young Hale is playing with Childress, also the home of Hall, one of the most promising pitchers in this section. Memphis and Paducah boast a few players eligible for fast company, who will be with the all stars tonight.

Manager Freddy Brickell of the Road Runners had not made his pitching choice this morning. If Berry arrives in time, he may get the call. George Bull is also ready for mound duty. The little left-hander has not worked since Sunday when he defeated Colteco of LeFors.

On Sunday the Road Runners will go to Amarillo to meet the new Amarillo Shamrocks. Bob Winkler, owner of the Amarillo club, announced this morning that "Goofy" Dean, self-styled cousin of "Dizzy" Dean, has been signed and may take the mound against the Road Runners on Sunday. Young Dean, a slugging outfielder, is also scheduled to join the Shamrocks.

Should Dean be unable to "go" Sunday, either Pachak or Dorman, lefthanders, will get the call. Manager Freddy Brickell has not named his starter.

BROOKLINE, Mass., July 12. (AP)—Paul Guldberg, Dartmouth junior, entered the quarter-finals of the forty-third Longwood bowl tennis tournament today after upsetting the seventh-seeded Barry Wood, former Harvard athlete.

Wood's downfall yesterday left six seeded players in the round of eight. Henry Hill of Waco having previously eliminated the sixth-seeded G. Holmes Perkins.

These survivors are: Guy Cheng, Chinese Davis cup player; Wilmer Hines, Charlotte, N. C.; Gilbert Hunt, Washington, Norcross, Ill.; Princeton; Fred Bages, New York; and Henry Holden, Texas.

Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Payvan of Brookline, defending champion in the women's invitation tournament, dropped 17 games to Theodosia Smith of Pasadena, Calif., yesterday before gaining a place in the semi-final round.

Gracyn Wheeler of Santa Monica, Calif., defeated Mrs. Edith Cross Mabley of Providence.

INDIANS TAKE 8-1 DRUBBING FROM YANKEES

TWO HOMERS ENABLE DIZZY TO WIN GAME

By HUGH S. FULLESTON, JR.
Associated Press Sport Writer
The Cleveland Indians, still highly regarded as contenders for the American league pennant, are showing a strange lack of consistency for a club which has hopes of winning a world series berth.

Apparently safe in second place at the end of June after winning eight out of nine games, the Indians dropped eight in a row just as Detroit's Tigers got off on a ten-game winning streak. As a result the Tribe was plunged into fourth place and even that became somewhat shaky yesterday as the Indians took an 8 to 1 drubbing from the Yankees and the Boston Red Sox divided a doubleheader.

That loss, the ninth in ten games, left the Indians only two percentage points ahead of the Sox. The Yankees' five-hit fling, they were sunk 10 to 2 however, in the after-piece when Zeke Bonura hit his 16th and 17th homers to drive in five runs.

The Tigers tightened their hold on second place by rallying to beat Washington 7 to 6 in ten innings after Schoolboy Rowe had been hammered for six runs in the third. An error by Buddy Myer finally led to the deciding run.

The defeat returned the Senators to seventh place as the Athletics split a twin bill with the Browns, winning the opener 7 to 3 behind Whitey Wilshire but taking a 9 to 6 beating in the nightcap despite two circuit swats by Jimmie Fox.

The Giants, National league leaders, turned back the Pirates 4 to 2 as Roy Parmelee pitched four-hit ball for his tenth victory of the season. Mel Ott socked his 19th homer for the first Giant tally.

With Davey Dean in erratic form, the Cardinals kept in the running against the Phillies through two circuit swats by Joe Medwick and one by Ernie Ostrath, then won out in the ninth, 5 to 4, when Virgil Davis smacked a pinch double with two on base.

Tex Carleton, a particular "jinx" to the Braves, pitched Chicago's Cubs to a 5 to 3 decision over the cellar dwellers.

The Reds climbed back into sixth place ahead of the Phillies when Billy Sullivan's double with two aboard in the eighth gave them their second straight decision over Brooklyn, 5 to 4.

FEAR DISPUTE MAY DESTROY SECURITY ACT

CONFEREES UNABLE TO AGREE AFTER TWO WEEKS

WASHINGTON, July 12. (AP)—Administration men expressed concern today lest the Roosevelt social security program be "wrecked" by a dispute over exemption of private pension plans.

Conferees have been working on program, attempting to straighten out differences in the bill as passed by house and senate. For two weeks they have been tied up in a controversy over the senate amendment to exempt companies and workers covered by private pension plans from the taxes to be levied for the nation-wide old age pension system. They met again today in an effort to work out a settlement.

Informers have forecast that the conferees will fail to agree and the dispute will have to be carried back to the two houses for settlement. From the administration standpoint, however, this course presents some dangers.

The house has not yet voted on the private pension amendment. It probably would be called upon to vote first, and if the amendment should be approved at that end of the capitol it would be in the bill to stay.

Critics of the amendment contend it would endanger the entire program and might bring a presidential veto. They argue the amendment would permit private companies to keep their younger employees in their private system and leave the older workers for the government to carry.

On the other hand, those supporting the amendment argue that it would permit some existing private pension plans, which are more liberal than the proposed government system, to continue in operation. They suggest that without the amendment these private systems, some of which have accumulated millions of dollars, would be junked. Then, if the federal plan were declared invalid, the workers would be left unprotected, these legislators argue.

Some believe President Roosevelt may be called upon to intervene to settle the dispute.

Laura Ingalls Sets Mark for East-West Hop

BURBANK, Cal., July 12. (AP)—Laura Ingalls today dreamed of new aviation laurels after conquering the transcontinental skyways in the first non-stop east-to-west flight by a woman.

The brown-haired, 120-pound aviatrix made the grueling but uneventful trip in 18 hours, 19 minutes, 30 seconds—too slow for a record between the oceans.

As she rested after landing last night she mulled over tentative plans to attack anew the west-east flight which has balked her twice recently.

"I may try for a west-to-east flight for a record that way within a few days," she said. "I'll know definitely in a few days."

Miss Ingalls brought her new $40,000 black-cowled monoplane to a safe landing at Union Air terminal at 7:51 p. m. (10:51 p. m. Eastern Standard Time).

"Boy, what a long ride," she exclaimed, yanking a tiny beret off her head. "It was an ordeal and I'm glad I made it."

Leaving Floyd Bennett field at New York at 4:31 a. m. Eastern Standard Time, Miss Ingalls followed course over Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Chicago, Kansas City and on to the coast.

NIGHT CLUB BURNS
FORT WORTH, July 12. (AP)—The Sylvan night club on the Dallas-Fort Worth pike, one of Texas' best known night spots, was destroyed by fire early today. Most of the guests had departed and no injuries were reported.

NEW TAX PLAN ATTACKED BY U S CHAMBER

BUSINESS LEADERS OF NATION CONDEMN PROGRAM

BY CLARENCE M. WRIGHT,
Associated Press Staff Writer.
WASHINGTON, July 12 (AP)—A nation-wide offensive which business leaders are conducting against President Roosevelt's new tax plan, draw expressions of apprehension today from some democratic legislators considering the plan.

They foresaw a new shower of telegrams pouring down on capital hill as the result of a country-wide distribution by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States of a statement attacking the tax program as destructive, confiscatory, and a "perversion of the taxing power."

Such a result, they feared, might herald a furious new struggle centering upon a congress which has not yet finished with another titanic conflict—the one over the utilities bill.

Meanwhile, democratic leaders declined flying rumors that the president's plan for a "wider distribution of wealth" through high inheritance taxes, increased levies on gifts and large incomes and a graduated tax on corporate incomes would be delayed until a future session of congress.

They insisted that the plan would be pushed through this session, as agreed upon in two conferences between the president and legislators in charge of the bill.

The chamber will follow up its nation-wide action by sending representatives to a house ways and means committee hearing tomorrow to assail the bill.

"The urgent need at the present time," said a statement it sent to its 1,500 member organizations, "is not more taxes on income but more income to tax."

"More income means more purschasing power for consumers, and more revenues for the government.
Efforts to obtain restoration of the income that our people have enjoyed in past years are directly affected by the tax policies of government."

Surprise Move
In Islands Row
Is in Prospect

WASHINGTON, July 12 (AP)—A
"surprise move" by President Roosevelt to settle the deeprooted controversy over administration of the Virgin Islands was hinted today in authoritative circles.

Brewing for more than a year, the islands' trouble pot finally boiled over into a blazing feud between Secretary Ickes and Senator Tydings
(D., Md.), leading the president to intervene yesterday.

No official word came publicly,
but rumors persisted that Gov.
Paul M. Pearson and T. Webber
Wilson, federal judge on the islands, would step out of their posts. No official confirmation was obtained.

Pearson and Wilson were chief characters in the senate investigation of Pearson's administration, which was abruptly postponed yesterday. The postponement was announced after Tydings, chairman of the investigating committee, and Ickes had called at the White House.

TURN ABOUT

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 12 (AP)—Animals, long subjects of study in the improvement of human health, are benefiting by the sufferings of man. For example, Dr. Cassius Way told the New Jersey Veterinary Medical association, scientists discovered that scabies, housemaid's knee and pellicle's heel were forms of arthritis. Veterinarians went on to discover that ring bones, spavins, curbs, and splints in race horses are forms of the same disease.

Each year Van Lings Mingo, Brooklyn pitcher, has been in organized baseball—since 1929—he has scored a victory either on his birthday, June 8, or on his next pitching return following.

Spurs Congress to Lobby Probe

Charges made on the floor of the House by Representative Ralph O. Brewster (Rep., Me.), above, that he had been threatened with stoppage of construction of the $36,000,000 Panamaquoddy Dam work relief project in his district unless he voted for the "death sentence" provision of the utility holding company bill brought House approval for an investigation of lobbying for and against the measure.

WOMAN DENIES SHE HAD PART IN KIDNAPING

MRS. WALEY DECLARES MAHAN THREATENED HER

TACOMA, Wash., July 12. (AP)—Government attorneys today turned a determined attack upon Mrs. Margaret Thelma Waley's low-voiced defense that she took an active part in the $200,000 kidnaping of 9-year-old George Weyerhaeuser.

U. S. District Attorney J. Charles Dennis had ready a barrage of questions intended to shatter the 19-year-old defendant's testimony that fugitive William Dainard, alias Mahan, and her husband were solely responsible.

She pictured herself as being under Dainard's threats of death and obeying implicitly his curt orders. "I was scared to do anything else," she replied to a question of John F. Dore, chief defense counsel, on direct examination.

Mrs. Waley's story provided the climax to a swiftly moving chain of events at her trial yesterday, which included the kidnaping as described by the young victim and a futile defense attempt for a directed acquittal verdict.

She said she knew nothing of the abduction until some time after it happened May 24, and never saw the boy, who in his own testimony, failed to identify her as one of the kidnapers.

George said his captors were Dainard and Harmon M. Waley, the defendant's husband, who pleaded guilty and received a 46-year sentence in McNeil Island federal prison.

It was under fear of Dainard and the influence of her husband, Mrs. Waley said, that she acted after she discovered the pair had kidnaped the boy and were holding him for $200,000 ransom, paid for his release eight days after he was seized.

Mrs. Waley's direct examination ended a few minutes before court adjourned for the night. Cross examination was deferred until opening of court today.

Dainard's commands were blamed for her failure to expose the culprits. "He told me if I asked any questions, or if I let on like I knew what was going on, he'd kill me and kill the boy and kill Harmon. He showed me two guns," she said.

The three attempts she made to plead guilty to the kidnap charge were inspired, she testified, by threats of department of justice agents that if she did not they would try her under the Washington state law which provides hanging for kidnaping.

Her husband, former convict, listed as the next witness in her behalf, has been brought here from the McNeil Island federal penitentiary. Federal Judge E. C. Cushman refused to dismiss the kidnap count against Mrs. Waley or to order a directed verdict of acquittal on a count of conspiring to kidnap the boy.

Dore argued in behalf of his motion that George's testimony "wrecked the government's claim" he had been taken across a state line into Idaho, giving the federal government jurisdiction in the case. The boy identified pictures of Waley and Dainard, described how he was chained in two pits, tied to a tree, held in the closet of the

BIRTHDAY AND ANNIVERSARY IS OCCASION

MUSIC ENTERTAINS A LARGE NUMBER OF FRIENDS

About 200 friends of the Rev. C. E. Lancaster and Mrs. Lancaster gathered on the cool lawn of First Baptist church last evening, for a party celebrating Rev. Lancaster's birthday and the beginning of his tenth year as minister here.

All joined in singing "Happy Birthday to You," then a program of music was presented. Miss Eloise Lane played a piano solo and little Ernestine Holmes an accordion solo. A quartet, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Gatlin, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Price, sang.

Accomplishments of the past year under Rev. Lancaster's leadership were outlined by Fred Thompson, member of the board of deacons. E. C. Barrett presented to Rev. and Mrs. Lancaster, as a gift from the church membership, two beautiful rugs. The minister responded with thanks for the gift and for cooperation of church members and friends during his work here.

Teed punch and cake were served after the program.

New and Different Shirtwaist Dress

Easy to Wear!
Easy to Make!
And So Popular

By ELLEN WORTH

Shirtwaist frocks a-plenty this season—and here is a delightful pattern. All you will have to decide is simply the material.

For sport or town, it looks stunning in linen, navy blue, or white ground, repeating the navy in composition buttons and buckle. It's charming too in dimity or dotted Swiss, as fitted or Dubonnet red on white ground.

Again you'll find a dress for active sports with its soft bodice with action-back plaid and two generous skirt plaits. It's especially smart and so practical in striped crinkly cotton or plaided seersucker, that need no ironing.

Style No. 837 is designed for sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42-inches bust. Size 36 requires 3½ yards of 39-inch material.

Summer Fashion Book contains many more smart, cool vacation clothes.

Price of BOOK 10 cents. Price of PATTERN 15 cents in stamps or coin (coin is preferred). Wrap coin carefully.

Pattern Mail Address: N. Y. Pattern Bureau (your newspaper name) Mohawk Bldg., 21st Street at Fifth Avenue, New York City.

POLITICS at random

BY BYRON PRICE
(Chief Of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)

There are growing signs that from the standpoint of political strategy alone, the Roosevelt administration has arrived at a decisive moment.

Faced for the first time with stern opposition on many sides, the President must choose between two vastly different methods of combat. He can go on with the "whirlwind" style of campaign, piling attack on attack, or he can withdraw to new ground, reform his lines, and seek to outwit the enemy by guile and deliberation. Much many depend on his decision.

On March 4, 1933, Mr. Roosevelt assumed his new duties with a stroke of bold leadership which won him international admiration. In the words of the prize ring (used here because none other is quite so expressive) he came out of his corner fighting. The recognized courage and confidence of his dealing with the bank crisis changed the whole national atmosphere overnight.

Since then, however, many things have happened.

Opposition Dawns

It is unnecessary to review the story in detail in order to realize that since that first experience the administration has relied heavily on the power of swift, intrepid attack.

Momentum has been reckoned a prime factor in the "new deal," and the momentum from each success has been taken advantage of to help get this next succeeding venture under way.

There was no denying that for months this fast-moving assault had Mr. Roosevelt's political adversaries groggy and disheartened, and hanging on the ropes.

There was a time when even the most partisan republican, speaking privately, would not admit of even an outside chance that the President could be defeated for reelection in 1936.

Then opposition began gradually to revive, both in and out of congress; and the supreme court's NRA decision gave the opposition an entirely new courage which was reflected at once in many ways.

Plans Go Awry

The reply from the Roosevelt camp was a renewal of the attack. There is no doubt in the mind of any well-informed person in Washington that the President's press-conference remarks about a "horse-and-buggy-days" construction of the constitution were designed to give impetus to momentum once more to his policies.

Neither is there any doubt that the strong condemnation of those remarks from various quarters caused shocked surprise in some high places. A further surprise attack was planned; the tax message diverted attention and provided new momentum for a time. But within a few days the new tax policy, too, found administration plans bogged along a seemingly endless trail of controversy.

Next came the instant White House call for a rallying-round to save the utilities bill. The house responded by overwhelmingly rejecting the call.

Where is it all leading? Will the President decide to continue his swift offensive, or will he feel that the time has come to reserve his blows, and try to lead the opposition into openings from which it

Brighten up with ALL-BRAN!

You've had days when you've felt discouraged and low. Nothing seemed to go right. Frequently these dreary days can be traced to common constipation, due to lack of "bulk" in your meals.

Laboratory research shows Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to aid elimination. ALL-BRAN also furnishes vitamin B and food-iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN resists digestion better than the fiber in fruits and vegetables. It is gentle—and often more effective. Isn't this natural food better than taking patent medicines—often harmful?

Two tablespoonsful of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. With each meal, in chronic cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Brighten days with ALL-BRAN! Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

may be unable to extricate itself? If he does keep on, will he have the endurance to outlast his adversaries? And if he does not, will his adversaries be able to capitalize sentiment against him in any effective manner without seriously falling out among themselves? There are the prime political questions involved in the very complex situation which exists in Washington today.

POINT OF VIEW
SAN FRANCISCO, July 12 (P)—

Arriving by ocean liner from the Orient, a Chinese family displayed a cage. They said its inmate could sing as sweetly as a canary. But the inspector said "agricultural pest" and pronounced a death sentence for the cage's occupant—a cricket.

OUTSIDE JOB
TULSA, Okla., July 12 (P)—The city jail garden has been abandoned because of thieves. The garden, where petty offenders were put with a hoe this spring, can't operate at a profit because "squatters" in the neighborhood steal the vegetables. Police Chief Carr explained. He estimated the city spent $250 on the garden, harvested $5.15 worth of produce.

July Allotments For Relief Will Total 3 Millions

Allotments of general relief funds totaling approximately $3,000,000 will be made to Texas counties during July, according to Mrs. W. H. Davis, Gray county administrator.

Approximately half the amount will go forward at once, E. A. Bugh, assistant director of the commission, wrote to her.

The budget for July operations contains items and amounts as follows:

General relief, $2,619,412; non-relief administrative payroll, $244,888; non-relief project supervision, $136,064; hospitalization, $8,745.

The June budget made available $4,025,783 to the counties, but included $1,297,297 for capital goods and subsistence for rural clients. These items, this month will be provided by the Resettlement Administration, now separated from the relief commission.

Complete severance of rural rehabilitation work as a function of the Texas Relief Commission was effective as of June 30.

On July 1, work of the rural rehabilitation department was taken over by the Resettlement Administration, and all employees from the rural department of the Texas Relief Commission became federal employees.

Instructions from Harry L. Hopkins, federal emergency relief administrator, directed transfer of all funds and inventories of goods and chattels to Texas Rural communities, holding corporation for the rural department, together with all books of account, files and records pertaining to the rural program.

Plot Being Laid To Defeat Alien Bill, Says Dies

WASHINGTON, July 11. (AP)—Representative Dies (D., Tex.) said today he would demand that the house rules committee expand its current investigation to delve into what he termed attempts on the part of the immigration bureau and others to "intimidate" congress against his bill to deport aliens unlawfully in this country.

"I have in my possession a canned editorial sent to some of the newspapers of Texas by the Eastman service of Harrisburg, Pa.," he said in a statement. "I also have a letter written by the International Migration service, with headquarters at Geneva, addressed to all cooperating agencies and urging them to influence members of congress and to get favorable material in their respective newspapers."

In connection with what he termed "widespread propaganda inspired by foreign societies and the immigration bureau," Dies said propaganda had been placed in Texas newspapers under the name of Julian Coppers Jr.

"All of this propaganda is designed to raise the religious and racial issue so as to cloud a true economic issue involved in my bill," the Texan declared. "Colonel McCormack (Daniel W. McCormack, commissioner of immigration and naturalization) is working through the immigration inspectors and the foreign societies and apparently is working through such writers as Coppers. I have repeatedly stated that I have no sympathy with religious and racial intolerance."

James Roosevelt Heads Yeast Firm

BELLEVILLE, N. J., July 12. (AP)—The Roosevelt family boasted another president today — James Roosevelt, eldest son of the nation's chief executive, who is head of the National Grain Yeast Corp. of Belleville.

Roosevelt was enthusiastic about his new position when interviewed by telephone at his office. He said he has been on the job since July 1.

Asked how he liked the job, he said: "Very well, thank you. I'm working six days a week and probably it will be seven. Business is very good."

"Does it amount to prosperity?" he was asked.

Roosevelt laughed. "Well," he said, "that's rather hard to say but we're trying to make it that."

Roosevelt succeeded Samuel Brass of New York as head of the company. At a recent court action, it was testified Richard Cleveland, son of the former president, and David E. Bruce, son-in-law of Andrew Mellon, also are connected with the concern.

International Sunday School Lesson

By DR. J. E. NUNN

General Topic: Naomi (A Woman of Faith and Courage).
Scripture Lesson: Ruth 1:14-22; 4:14-17.

14. And they lifted up their voice, and wept again: and Orpah kissed her mother-in-law; but Ruth clave unto her.

15. And she said, Behold, thy sister-in-law is gone back unto her people, and unto her god: return thou after thy sister-in-law.

16. And Ruth said, Entreat me not to leave thee, and to return from following after thee: for whither thou goest, I will go; and where thou lodgest, I will lodge: thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God;

17. Where thou diest, will I die, and there will I be buried: Jehovah do so unto me, and more also, if aught but death part thee and me.

18. And when she saw that she was steadfastly minded to go with her, she left off speaking unto her.

19. So they two went until they came to Bethlehem. And it came to pass, when they were come to Bethlehem, that all the city was moved about them, and the women said: Is this Naomi?

20. And she said unto them, call me not Naomi, call me Mara; for the Almighty hath dealt very bitterly with me.

21. I went out full, and Jehovah hath brought me home again empty: why call ye me Naomi, seeing Jehovah hath testified against me, and the Almighty hath afflicted me?

22. So Naomi returned, and Ruth the Moabitess, her daughter-in-law, with her, who returned out of the country of Moab: and they came to Bethlehem in the beginning of barley harvest.

Ruth 4:14. And the women said unto Naomi, Blessed be Jehovah, who hath not left thee this day without a near kinsman; and let his name be famous in Israel.

15. And he shall be unto thee a restorer of life, and a nourisher of thine old age; for thy daughter-in-law, who loveth thee, who is better to thee than seven sons, hath borne him.

16. And Naomi took the child, and laid it in her bosom, and became nurse unto it.

17. And the women her neighbors gave it a name, saying, There is a son born to Naomi; and they called his name Obed; he is the father of Jesse, the father of David.

Golden Text: A woman that feareth the Lord, she shall be praised. —Proverbs 31:30.

"The Book of Judges, full of war and tumult; and the Book of Samuel, full of more war and tumult. Men hate and steal and lie and kill, until the heart is sick of the havoc which sin has wrought among men. But between these two books is a beautiful valley full of flowers and fertile fields, and with a gentle brook singing down through the meadows, as often found between two mountain ranges, is the Book of Ruth, a wonderful story of love and holy character, filling all that part of the Old Testament with its fragrance." —James Hastings.

The Message of the Book of Ruth. Moab occupied a part of the tableland east of the Jordan Valley. It lies at an elevation of more than four thousand feet above the Dead Sea.

"The Jews traditionally had only hatred and contempt for the Moabites. Bitter enmity existed between the two peoples (2 Sam. 8:2; 2 Kings 3; Ps. 108:9). As worshippers of Chemosh the Moabites were rank infidels to the Israelites. It follows that this story of Naomi, Ruth and Boaz is a fine lesson in the breaking down of three of the sharpest dividing walls between men and men: race, nationality, and religion. It is significant that for thirty centuries exclusive Judaism has regarded Ruth the Moabitess as one of their fondest heroines. Her splendid devotion to her lonely, widowed mother-in-law has offset her alien blood."

A Love Story. "Neither in the Bible nor anywhere else that I know of, is there another such story of love told as the love of Ruth for Naomi, the love of this Moabite daughter-in-law for her Hebrew mother-in-law. Ruth's love for her dead husband's mother is as pure as gold and as strong as death." —Alexander Whyte.

The Book of Ruth is sometimes called a love story. In a double sense it is. Leaving Boaz out of the picture, the love that we are here concerned with is the love that these two women had for each other; or the love that moved the people of Bethlehem to let Ruth be one of them. It is the same love that Jesus commanded us to have for our neighbor—who is everybody. This love it is that is the supreme force, to break down the barriers of race and religion.

Loveable Traits in Both. The one had become acquainted with the fine traits of character in the other; to have, also, a charity, begotten of understanding, for the faults of the other. Doubtless in the early years of the Elimelech family's sojourn in Moab there was not a little "rubbing in the wrong direction" on the part of both the Moabites and the Hebrew immigrants. Naomi was to them "That foreigner!" and they were to her "such queer people!" Presumably, also, there had been something of the proverbial mother-in-law, daughter-in-law friction. But as the two women journeyed Judeward they were truly mother and daughter; sisters in the finest sense of sisterhood; and the elder called forth from the younger words of devotion that have become devotion's classic formula.

The Attractiveness of Naomi's Religion. "What we are told of Naomi here makes evident enough that she was religious, and in an attractively appealing way. That Ruth, who so readily to make Naomi's faith her own shows that she had gotten a good impression of it. And Naomi must have been a lovable woman. Daughters-in-law don't usually love their mothers-in-law unless they are lovable. And nothing so adorns a woman as genuine religion. Naomi was unselfish and unselfishly generous. Regardless of her loneliness, she urges Ruth and Orpah to remain in their homeland where things will go better with them than in a new, strange country. She pleads with them not to spoil their lives by remaining with her, a poor old widow. Arriving in Judah, she thinks solely of Ruth's welfare and happiness."

The theme of the Book of Ruth is "the heroism of the loyalty of woman." It is one of the most marked and beautiful of female traits. Both Ruth and Naomi splendidly exemplify it. Rarely do you find heroic loyalty apart from loyalty to God. Chivalry is deceptive, and beauty is a breath; but a woman who reveres the Lord—she will be praised! (Prov. 31:31).

The Influence of Example, v. 16. "Thy people shall be my people." "Is our example such that some of those around us would be willing to say, 'Thy people shall be my people?' Let us bear in mind that, if we are not living unto Christ, if we are not showing forth in our lives the praises of him who hath called us out of darkness unto his marvelous light, then we are both bringing dishonor upon that worthy Name and are also being a stumbling-block in the way of some who might be seeking and finding peace." —Phillip Mauro. "And they God my God." Certainly a radical change had come into the life of this Moabite woman. Nothing is deeper in one's soul than religion, and nothing but the most powerful forces can change the heart of a strong character in the matter of religious faith. That which had made Ruth to know that the God of the Hebrews was infinitely superior to the false god whom she worshipped was the superior life which she had discovered in her mother-in-law, Naomi. Thus do we all become living epistles through whom Christ speaks.

"They Called His Name Obed." Ruth 4:17. The word Obed is an abbreviated form of Obadiah, which means "the servant of God." Thus does Ruth become the great-grandmother of Israel's great king, and, ultimately, an ancestress of the great kinsman himself, the Son of David, the Messiah of Israel, the Saviour of the world (Matt. 1:5, 6). It is not until Abraham went out from Ur of the Chaldees to a land which he knew not that he became the recipient of God's great promises and blessings; it was not until Joseph was sundered from his affectionate father by cruel brethren and sold into Egypt, that he became the mighty power which God intended he should be; it was not until Moses chose rather to suffer the affliction of his people than to enjoy the pleasures of and riches of Egypt, that God commissioned him to the mighty work of redeeming Israel from bondage; it was not until Ruth had made that great decision by which she chose, in love, to take part with Naomi in a strange land, among a strange people, that she was led into a place of greatest joy and blessing, and most of all honored by becoming one of that royal line through whom the Son of God was to be born.

6 Counties Hit Road Program in Canadian Meeting

CANADIAN, July 12. (AP)—Failure of federal and state highway officials to include U. S. highway 63 in a $2,000,000 highway building program recently announced for the Panhandle was protested at a meeting here of citizens of Hemphill, Ochiltree, Wheeler, Collingsworth, Childress and Cottle counties. A resolution was adopted urging the state highway commission to pave gaps in highway 63 this year.

W. B. Lamaster of Perryton, Judge W. O. Puett of Wheeler, and Judge W. L. Helton of Canadian were named members of a committee to direct the paving fight and to obtain the support of other counties.

The highway passes through Perryton, Canadian, Mobeetie, Wheeler and Shamrock and extends from the Canadian border to Laredo, Tex. It is known in Texas as state highway No. 4.

Speakers pointed out that the recently approved program included projects in only six of the 28 Panhandle counties and provided for paving of highways leading to Amarillo. Copies of the resolution were forwarded to the highway department, Congressman Marvin Jones, and Senators Morris Sheppard and Tom Connally.

Kenneth Loeffler, new head basketball coach at Yale, never had a team that finished lower than second in the strong Tri-State conference during his career at Geneva college, Beaver Falls, Pa.
