(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—The Radiomarine Corporation tonight intercepted an SOS call from the steamer Karmoy grounded 15 miles south of Nantucket. She said she was sinking. The S. S. Gulf Stream 45 miles away, radioed she was going to the assistance of the Karmoy.

The Karmoy is a Norwegian freighter of 2,439 tons net. She was built at Forth in 1920. Her home port is Haugesab, the owners are D. S. and A. S. Karmoy.

Heavily Loaded.

A later message from the Gulf Stream said she was heavily loaded and would not be able to get near the Karmoy until "some time in the morning."

The disabled freighter radioed she had two passengers aboard, one man and one woman.

Further radio advices said the coast guard cutter Tuscarora, from the Nantucket Coast Guard Station, was hastening to the rescue of the Karmoy.

The Karmoy has a crew of 27 aboard.

The Gulf stream is a tank steamer, owned by the Gulf Refining company.

Xmas Fire Brings Tragedy To Woman

Ten-Year-Old Daughter Is Burned To Death; Sister And Parents Perished In Blaze Three Years Ago

(By Associated Press)

DALLAS, Dec. 23. — Disastrous fire at the Christmas season, for the second time in three years, brought tragedy to Mrs. Fred Orr.

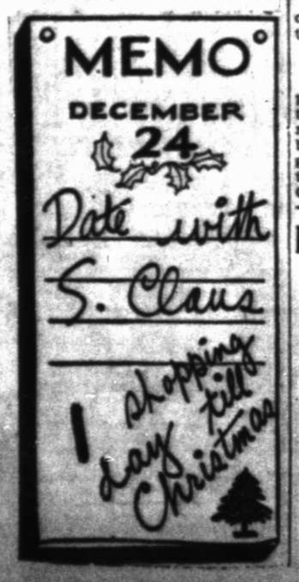

Today her 10-months-old baby girl burned to death in flames which destroyed the old Taylor homestead near Lancaster, in which Mr. and Mrs. Fred Orr were living with their mother, Mrs. P. B. Orr.

Three years ago, on December 16, Mrs. Orr's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Clarence Coutant, and her sister, Miss Eva Coutant, were burned to death near San Antonio when their automobile was struck by a train and burst into flames.

The baby was asleep in its crib, upstairs, when the fire broke out. The family, eating breakfast, was unaware that their house was in flames until neighbors rushed in. The grandmother and an uncle, Perry Taylor, were badly burned in trying to save the baby.

Hopes For White Christmas In Texas Melt With Brilliant Sunshine Monday

Tepmerature Remains Around Freezing Point in State

(By Associated Press)

HOPES for a white Christmas melted with the snow today as Texas brilliant sunshine reasserted itself after the worst snow storm in years.

Brightly shining sun today and Sunday melted all but traces of the snow in the majority of cities visited by Saturday's norther. Some cities, however, notable among them Hillsboro with its 26 inch fall, still had temperatures that insured another day or so of snow.

Farmers Jubilant

A check up disclosed the snow did more good than harm. Farmers throughout the snowed-under regions were jubilant, believing snow presages good crops the following year. Some cattle loss was reported, but benefit to ranges made up for this. In the Rio Grande valley a minimum of damage was done by a heavy frost to vegetables and citrus fruit, while the frost helped destroy the insect pests. Tomato plants were destroyed but few had been planted, while other vegetables generally escaped.

Freezing weather still prevailed over most of the state from Amarillo to El Paso.

CHICAGO, Dec. 23. (AP)—Extra planes have been required to handle the last minute Christmas air mail rush, which has been aggravated by delay resulting from the week's general snow storm, it was revealed today by lines operating out of Chicago.

Ford's body was in bed in night clothes, and Mrs. Ford's body was found in a sitting posture on the floor by the side of the bed, dressed in a light house dress. Gas stoves in the bedroom and in the living room were found still burning.

They are believed to have died Saturday night.

Assassination Is Narrowly Escaped

Bomb Explosion Under Train Fails To Kill Viceroy Lord Irwin Of India En Route To Conference

(By Associated Press)

NEW DELHI, India, Dec. 23. — Viceroy Lord Irwin of India narrowly escaped assassination today when a bomb exploded under the train in which he was travelling to New Delhi for a conference with Indian nationalist leaders on the political future of India.

Little damage was done. No one was seriously hurt, though the explosion blew out two feet of rail. The cars behind the diner, under which the bomb went off, jumped the gap and the train did not even stop on its run to New Delhi. One trainman was injured slightly.

Carefully Concealed.

The bomb had been carefully concealed and was set off by an electric charge conveyed through two long cables.

Lord Irwin proceeded to the city, where an hour later he cooly replied to an address of welcome from the municipality and then opened the conference as though nothing had happened.

Harsh Years Fail to Cool Devotion Of 11-Year-Old Girl to Santa Claus

IS THERE a Santa Claus? Somewhere in the city of Lubbock is there someone who will keep the faith and love of that old mysterious gentleman in the hearts of two little girls who have so pitifully appealed to him through letters.

Helen Woodell, 11, of 803 Avenue D, and Eva Bostick, 13, 402 9th street, have not lost their devotion for Santa even though the year has dealt with them harshly.

"Daddy has gone off to work," Helen writes. "He has not worked but two and one-half days in two months. Mother is sickly. Has been for 16 years. Dr. Rollo and Miss Smith, the health lady, said we all but daddy had the smallpox two weeks ago."

The child has asked that "Santa bring the family some coal that they might be kept warm. She also wants toys, and some clothes for "us six children." Five of us want to go to school," she wrote.

Eva writes that anything

Chain Of Evidence Ended After Suspect Shoots Traffic Officer Down In St. Joseph, Mich.

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Dec. 23.—An assassin disguised as a policeman who marched with a band of killers into a north side garage last St. Valentine's day and slaughtered seven

CHICAGO, Dec. 23. —(AP)— Lieutenant Richard Barry of the detective bureau stated tonight that he had been told, through underworld sources that Fred Burke, sought for the recent slaying of a St. Joseph, Mich., policeman and for implication in the St. Valentine Day massacre in Chicago, had been killed at Clyde, Ohio, Saturday during an attempted robbery.

gangsters, was named as Fred Burke by a coroner's jury today.

He was the same Fred Burke whose quick trigger ended a traffic argument by killing a St. Joseph, Mich., policeman last week, and it was the trail of the St. Joseph killer that led to a closet in Burke's home where officers found the two submachine guns identified today as the weapons which were used to kill the seven clansmen of George Moran ten months ago.

Identification of Burke's machine guns as the massacre weapons was the last link Coroner H. N. Bundesen, needed, he said, for bringing together his chain of evidence against one of the killers. Burke previously had been suspected, witnesses having pointed out his rogue's gallery picture as that of one of the assassins.

Col. Valvin Goddard, firearms expert, forged the final link by testifying under oath that the submachine guns found in Burke's St. Joseph home were the ones

Huckins Mystery Nearer Solution

Man Wanted On Fraud Count Surrenders On Warrant Of "Fugitive From Justice"

(By Associated Press)

WAUTOMA, Wis., Dec. 23.—The mystery surrounding the financial activities of Elmer S. Huckins presumably was one step nearer solution today with his surrender here on a fugitive-from-justice warrant.

He was released on $5,000 bond after accepting service on the warrant, based on a criminal warrant from Linn County, Iowa, charging him with obtaining money by false pretenses.

R. S. Milner, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Huckins' attorney, carried out the promise he made yesterday that his client would appear in court here. Huckins, charged jointly with his son and associate, George was sought for a week. George Huckins was arrested in Excelsior Springs, Mo., last week.

The failure of a Hancock, Wis., bank to redeem notes two Iowa investors held in the Huckins enterprise resulted in the fraud charges and the arrest of the Huckinses. In addition to the fraud charges they will face civil suits for $13,000, instituted by the two investors.

Simplicity Marks Wedding Of Helen Wills And Moody

Tennis Queen Who Captured Hearts Of Two Continents Marries Bond Salesman At Berkeley, Calif.

(By Associated Press)

BERKELEY, Cal., Dec. 23.—Helen Wills, who won the women's world tennis championship, captivated the hearts of two continents, painted pictures that won praise in London galleries and was presented to the British king and queen, married a young bond salesman here today because she loves him and tonight her name is Mrs. Frederick S. Moody, Jr.

The Moody's were married shortly after noon at St. Clements Episcopal church, a modest little chapel that nestles at the foot of the Berkeley hills.

Ceremony Simple

The ceremony was characteristic of the bride's career, simple and sincere, but with a cheerful overtone. The church had been decorated for Christmas. There was holly, evergreen, a bit of tinsel and over all a star. At the alter beneath these decorations Miss Wills and Mr. Moody knelt quietly while Rev. Lindley H. Miller, rector, read the new Episcopal service which does not require the bride to "obey" her husband or the husband to "endow" his wife with all his worldly goods.

Beauty Praised.

There was no music and no flowers, except the golden chrysanthemums interwined in the decorations. Miss Wills wore a gray Brown suit, with accessories of crimson and blue. Moody wore a dark business suit.

Name Of Marlin R. Smith Is Alleged To Have Been Placed On Instrument At Citizens National Bank

H. L. ROWLEY, 1611 15th street, employe of the city of Lubbock, late Monday was arrested and lodged in the city jail on a complaint charging forgery by endorsement of a check made out to Marlin R. Smith for $123.80.

The check, given by the city of Lubbock, was alleged to have been cashed at the Citizens National bank. The complaint was filed by Ralph Bedford, of that institution.

According to employes of Mr. Smith's office, the check, together with another for $61.30, was placed in a drawer Friday afternoon to await Smith's return to the city. Blame Revenge In Slaying Of Three

Farmer Runs Amuck Monday To Kill Two Men Before Being Shot Down By Armed Citizens In Battle

(By Associated Press)

CAMERON, Dec. 23.—Running amuck with an automatic rifle, Anton Huebner, Cameron farmer, killed two men and wounded a third today before he was slain by an armed citizen who rushed to the scene.

Apparently seeking revenge for a previous difference with a salesman for a motor company, Huebner appeared at the door of the motor company at the lunch hour and started shooting. Hubert Hefley, Ford dealer, and Constable Charles Sens were killed and Sheriff Blaylock wounded before the rifle was silenced.

For twenty minutes Huebner ruled the downtown street after killing the two men, shooting at every one in sight. Three times he emptied and filled his rifle.

Two years ago, Huebner was hit over the head with a heavy stick in a fight with a salesman for the motor company. His skull was fractured. The difference was finally adjusted in the courts. Police believed that brooding over it led Huebner to seek revenge.

Scores of workers, going for luncheon, were endangered by the promiscuous firing of the crazed man.

Old Saint Nick Will Honor Lubbock And Plains In Annual Visit Tonight

BY CHARLES C. WATSON
Avalanche Staff Writer

SANTA CLAUS will make his annual visit to Lubbock and the South Plains tonight, filling stockings of hundreds of youngsters and then scurrying back to his legendary home at the North Pole. The kiddies whose hearts will leap with joy and surprise tomorrow morning will picture his return as a date so far away in the distant future that it is almost impossible for them to make accurate calculations.

To the parents of the youngsters, Christmas is just another milestone that has been passed, each coming closer and closer until after so long a time the event drops in without warning.

The little tin soldier which will peep over the top of a stocking tomorrow morning will lose its brightness with the wear and tear it will receive for a few days, some of the games will be played over and over again until they lose the charm. Dolly will be lugged around the neighborhood by the young mother until her new frock becomes frayed and tattered and then she will be placed in the discard until a notion strikes the child to dress her anew. Fruits and candies will all be

The WOMAN'S DAY

The weaker sex is quite strong in aviation — so strong, in fact, that 26 of its licensed women pilots have joined to form a national airwoman's association.

Appropriately enough, they did not draw up their rules and regulations over the tea cups at a smart hotel, but in a hangar at Curtiss Field, Long Island.

All the preparation that was needed was just for the mechanics to throw out the chisels and bracing bits, and other paraphernalia pertaining to mechanics, and dust off some benches, and the women went into executive session.

The membership is to be limited to licensed women fliers and will be composed of pilots from different sections of the country. Since there must be a purpose to everything in these serious days, theirs will be to encourage interest in aviation and to interest women particularly in taking wings both for pleasure and business.

They also will assist each other in securing positions as pilots, and do good deeds for each other generally.

Four women came to the meeting in their own planes. There were five National Air Derby fliers, and Amelia Earhart presided.

Ellen Wilkinson, British member of parliament, in discussing women and careers in the London Daily Mail, said:

"Hard work alone cannot produce successful women or those conscientious burrowers in the British Museum library would all be great writers. But it is the essential quality.

"Hard work and beauty may produce a successful actress. Hard work and the power of oratory, a politician. Hard work, courage, and a dash of that strange quality called charm will carry a woman anywhere.

"Courage I rank next to hard work because women need it much more than men. I wonder how much fine work has been lost to the world because women hated to be conspicuous, they having been taught for so long to keep carefully in the background?

Two Hundred Fifty Present For Cowboys' Christmas Ball Given By Mr. And Mrs. C. A. Sheffield

Two hundred fifty guests attended a Cowboys' Christmas ball given by Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Sheffield Saturday evening at the Hotel Lubbock. The old fashioned square dancing furnished the evening's diversion.

Invitations to the dance were signed by Fred Spikes as secretary of the "Gully Jumpers," and closed with the words, "This is a private party in a public place. You are indeed lucky to be one of the number to receive a cordial invitation."

The host and a number of the guests wore cowboy boots, and both young and old joined in dancing the "figure eight," "right, sachet" "ocean wave," "right hand across" and how do you do," and other old favorites interspersed with the waltz, two-step and shottisches.

Old Time Music

J. A. Whittington and his orchestra from Tahoka furnished the music for the evening, including "Sally Goodin," "Tom and Jerry," "Waggoner," "Billy in the Low Ground," "Ladies Fancy" and "Arkansas Traveler."

At 10 o'clock Mr. Sheffield called "Chuck! Come and get it or I'll throw it away, and all made a rush for the chuck wagon, where they were served cowboy style from tables covered with oil cloth and with tin cups and plates. The meal included son-of-a-gun onions, red beans, sour dough biscuits and black coffee.

Lanterns hanging from the ceiling, and a campfire made a realistic scene.

The dances were directed by C. A. Sheffield, Fred Spikes, Walter Myrick, George Bowles and Lem Chesher.

Dean Williams Of Missouri U. Will Address Students

Head Of Journalism School On Program During Tech College Commencement Exercises May 26

According to an announcement yesterday by Dr. Paul W. Horn, president of Texas Technological college, Dean Walter Williams of the University of Missouri, will deliver the commencement address here on May 26.

A figure of note, both in this and and other countries, Dean Williams holds a singular position in the newspaper fraternity, and as a builder of journalistic leaders, he stands at the head of the list.

A man of endless wit, despite his declining years, the Missouri dean is recognized as one of the country's leading inspirational speakers. At the university, where he founded the school of journalism, Dean Williams is still active, holding the same class that he has taught for two decades.

Of added interest to Dean Williams' appearance here is the fact that he and Dr. Horn in their younger years knew each other when they lived in Boonville, Mo.

Officials Probe Fatal Air Crash

Attempt To Find Cause Of Plane Mishap Which Took One Life And Seriously Injured Two Others

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Dec. 23. (AP)—Officials of the Transcontinental Air Transport lines began an investigation here today in an effort to establish the course of the crash of one of its tri-motored passenger planes here last night which brought death to one passenger and serious injury to two others.

D. C. Law, 47, of Philadelphia, member of the technical staff of Warner Brothers, Inc., motion picture producers, was fatally injured.

Arm Broken

C. Mahlon Kline also of Philadelphia, president of Smith, Kline French and Company, druggists, suffered a broken right arm. The other injured was Miss Mary Fearnow, secretary to Donald Bartlow, assistant manager of the T. A. T. She suffered from a sprained back and shock.

The plane flying from St. Louis to Columbus, Ohio, reached Stout Field, Mars Hill Airport, shortly after five o'clock.

Pilot D. W. Burford planned to remain overnight because darkness and snow.

Speed Misjudged

He circled the field and as he attempted to set the ship down it was thought he misjudged the speed of the ship, and that, added to the icy condition of the field, caused the plane to coast to the extreme end of the landing area. The ship struck a stump, the impact ripping through the fuselage.

The plane rebounded and skidded down the field on the base of the cabin, finally coming to a stop near a haystack.

Eight passengers were injured.

Consolidation Of Railways Is Under Washington's Eye

Capital Pokes Into Future In Effort To Forecast Outcome Of Proposal Of I. C. C.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23. (AP)—Washington today poked into the future in an effort to forecast the outcome of the Interstate Commerce commission's plan for consolidating the nation's railroads.

The commission's proposal has in itself no binding effect and was intended for the guidance of the carriers in taking voluntary action. It is believed in many quarters that, lacking cooperation of the rail lines, additional legislation must be enacted by congress if the plan is to be made operative.

Attitude Watched

For this reason, there was a particularly sharp watch for any indication of the attitude of the roads, attended by much speculation as to what their reaction might be, in the course of which, it was pointed out that the commission's proposals fell short of the previously expressed wishes of a number of the carriers.

Plan of the commission would establish nineteen competing transportation units, with five trunk lines in the eastern section, two in New England, three in the South and nine in the West.

Among proposed key lines were the Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio, Chesapeake and Ohio, New York Central and Wabash in the East; Boston and Maine and New Haven in New England, Atlantic Coast Line, Southern and Illinois Central in the South, and Great Northern-Northern Pacific systems, Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific; Burlington, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Santa Fe, Missouri Pacific, Rock Island and Chicago and Northwestern in the West.

Fess Is Author

Senator Fess, republican, Ohio, is the author of a bill making consolidation compulsory. He plans to confer with members of the commission to determine what they consider necessary from congress.

Senator Watson of Indiana, republican leader, believes additoinal legislation must be enacted and is of opinion it should be considered in the near future.

Opposition to some of the unifications has been heard from democratic members of the senate. Wheeler of Montana disapproves of the consolidation of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific, declaring it would be a "great calamity" to the West. Pittman of Nevada is not in favor of this combination.

WILL BILL BE LUCKY AGAIN?

Among the old friends gathered recently at the major league meetings in New York was "Lucky Bill" McKechnie, the new manager of the Boston Braves. Bill has a habit of being followed wherever he goes by pennants, and your correspondent looked around all over the lobby in Bill's neighborhood to see if a pennant could be lurking near, but failed to see any.

Bill, you may remember, took over a tough job at Pittsburgh and guided the Pirates to a pennant. He took over a tough job at St. Louis, too, and brought Mr. Breadon's Cardinals in under the wire first. Then, after losing four in a row to the Yankees in the World series of 1928 Bill was sent to Rochester to recuperate and Billy Southworth placed at the helm of the Cards. In midseason during the 1929 season, the Cards slumped and Bill was brought back from Rochester to see about it. He decided to settle down to something permanent and performed an act of real kindness when he took the worries of the Braves off the shoulders of Judge Fuchs.

HE SHOULD HOLD A SALE

He came to the meeting prepared to do some business in a big way.

"Are you going to trade anybody?" he was asked.

"Yes," Bill replied, "anybody."

By which he meant that any and every Brave was available in return for old straw hats, tomato cans, good will or what have you.

The first thing Bill plans to do in rebuilding the club is to get rid of the old Boston hallmarks. Hank Gowdy and Johnny Evers are through as coaches, and McKechnie is ready to sell Joe Dugan to anybody who wants him. Maranville is fading, though he played a good game part of last season. George Sisler is washed up, but will be kept as a utility man if he cannot be sold or traded.

WILL HIS LUCK HOLD OUT?

Bill figures he can finish behind the eight ball with any kind of a ball team, even the present one, so there is no harm in trying out young talent as there is nothing to lose beyond last place. The team of last year was impossible. Throughout the league it was regarded as a joke and a subject of sports writers' jibes. McKechnie faces no easy job in building this crew of tatterdemalions into a respectable team. But Bill has courage and a good baseball brain. If it is also possible his luck may hold out for a few more years. At any rate the Braves will be an interesting team to watch.

The Phils were that kind of a ball team a few years ago—regarded as just a prank in the National league. But Burt Shotton has gone along patiently working, trying out new talent, taking all kinds of chances on young ball players and now he has a club with real power, both on attack and defense.

McKechnie, however, hasn't been so lucky to date in getting rid of the old boys. Everybody he asks about a trade asks him if they still bake those wonderful beans down there in Boston.

1 MINUTE INTERVIEW

With Jack Dempsey

Who is the best of the present crop of heavyweight fighters?

On the train going to New York where Jack Dempsey was to referee the Von Porat-Scott bout that question was asked the old Manassa Mauler as we felt that no one in all the world was better qualified to answer.

"I would say that Jack Sharkey should be able to whip the present crop of heavyweights and take over Tunney's title," he replied.

"You are excepting yourself, of course, in the list of fighters you figure Sharkey can trim," was the rejoiner.

Dempsey didn't reply to that one, merely smiling, and what a smile it was. It seemed to say that he thought he could still outclass the field.

"Sharkey is fast for a big man, clever, and while he hasn't the punch of a knocker-out, there is plenty of sting behind his jabs, swings and uppercuts. I think he knows too much for the rest of the heavyweight field."

While Dempsey didn't commit himself, it was apparent that he wasn't over-enthusiastic about the heavyweight contenders.

"Possibly some of the youngsters now in the second and third rate class's soon will be ready to put a thrill in the heavyweight division, but as it stands, most of the contenders are in the veteran class, with their ability pretty well known," he concluded.

"None appears to have all the attributes necessary for a real champion. Some have the courage, others have the ability to take punishment, and a few have the cleverness and punch, but on the whole, there is something lacking in most of the present day contenders."

While Dempsey again smoothly laughed when someone asked him why he didn't come back and once again win the title that he really won from Tunny, it is our belief that he has no intention of returning to the ring.

Army Eleven Out To Avenge Defeat By 1928 Cardinals

Year-Old Feud Between Stanford And Army To Draw One Of Year's Largest Grid Gatherings

By RUSSELL J. NEWLAND.
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 23. (AP)—Down in Stanford Stadium, December 28, Army and Stanford will renew a year-old, long distance football rivalry.

These two always colorful teams will play to one of the large crowds of the season, probably upward of 70,000 persons.

Mr. and Mrs. John Public and all the rest of the family out on the Pacific coast have heard much of Uncle Sam's future generals but not many have seen them in action on the football field. It will be the first appearance of the cadets west of the Rockies.

Cagle Is Attraction.

The big attraction, of course, is Christian "Red" Cagle one of the best backs ever turned out at West Point.

In the first meeting last year the Cardinals romped to a one-sided victory that saw Cagle and company stopped on the ground and out-dazzled with an aerial bombardment that piled up winning Stanford touchdowns. Pop-Warner's attack this season is more open than ever. Intricate and closely timed however, it has functioned properly but twice thus far on the occasion that Oregon and California fell victims.

Powerful Backfield.

Against Army, Coach Glenn "Pop" Warner intends to start his powerful backfield, composed of Rothbert and Prentrup halfbacks, Smalling, fullback, and Fleishhacker 210 - pound quarterback. This quartet of line crashers had much to do with Stanford's return to form in the "big game" when it shattered California's hopes for the coast conference title.

For two of Army's headliners, the game will be a football finale and each confidently expects to pass out of the picture at West Point on the crest of abrilliant victory. Cagle will end his college gridiron career on the green turf of the Far West's largest stadium.

So, too, will Captain Lawrence "Biff" Jones finish his coaching job at the United States Military Academy and return to active duty at Fort Sill, Okla.

Records About Even

Comparative records in this year of upsets mean little but in wins and losses and in points scored for and against the teams tack up on about even terms.

Army has won six games, lost three and tied one. Stanford has won eight and lost two. The Cadets have scored 263 points and yielded 98. The Cardinals have piled up 254 points and allowed 40. Only five teams have been able to cross Stanford's goal line whereas nine opposing elevens have reached the scoring ground of Army.

Port Arthur Not To Play Off Tie Authorities Say

School Board Unanimously Votes Against Game With Breckenridge Buckaroos For State Championship

BEAUMONT, Dec. 23 (AP)—Port Arthur school board tonight voted unanimously not to play off the tie with Breckenridge for the state interscholastic league championship. This information was given the Beaumont Enterprise by George M. Sims, superintendent of Port Arthur schools following a meeting called tonight to consider Breckenridge's offer to play off Saturday's scoreless draw on Port Arthur's field.

"The school board feels that Port Arthur fans have been given a rich football program this fall," said Sims, "and that neither the team nor the school should be asked to make further sacrifices. Considering the lateness of the season and the scholastic handicaps the players have already suffered we believe it for the best interest of all concerned that no more games be played. After all, the purpose of our schools is to educate boys and girls and not pursue athletics beyond a reasonable degree."

Sims said he spoke for the entire school board, which voted solidly on Breckenridge's offer. He said Buckaroo officials would be informed of the decision Tuesday.

BRECKENRIDGE, Dec. 23. (AP)—Final decision on the playoff of the Port Arthur-Breckenridge state championship tie game of last Saturday on a snow-covered field at Waco is expected tomorrow morning from Port Arthur officials, according to W. L. Slater, president of the Port Arthur school board.

Breckenridge school officials today issued a formal challenge to Port Arthur, offering to play the game in Port Arthur and on any date suggested by the latter school. Coach Tom Dennis and his Yellow Jackets of Port Arthur are said to be ready to play another game, but school board officials of that city have opposed the playoff.

Gridiron Pastime Dies Hard As King Winter Invades Dixie Land

Close Of Season Is Sad Business

Enthusiasm For Football In South Grown To Be Quite A Big Boy Since Section Has Come To Front

ATLANTA, Dec. 23. (AP)—Football in Dixie dies a lingering, wistful death every season. The weather here is generally sweet and mellow about the time northern cooncoats are wondering if they don't look a little silly freezing onto a coneress buff.

Dixie's enthusiasm for football has grown to be quite a big boy since the South started turning out teams of national caliber, and taking up the old pastime is just like burning down cane. Vern Rad burning, the steam wrath, everything south of the Ohio.

Usually there has been an intersectional clash to taper off with and when the climax for one seemed under the season the conference decided to choose sides and play its own.

Teams representing the two divisions of the conference are scheduled to hold a post-season convention on Grant Field here New Year's day, when 1929 football in Dixie will give up the ghost with great whoop.

Fifty players in all will attend. Conference coaches are balloting for the teams and will select four players for each position. That means plenty of stars.

Yanks Will Play 32 Exhibitions

NEW YORK, Dec. 23. (AP)—From March 5 to April 13, the New York Yankees will play 32 exhibition games, including a visit to Texas and a trip through Southern association territory. The exhibition season will open with the Boston Braves at St. Petersburg and close with Brooklyn at the Yankee Stadium. One college team, the University of Texas is listed among the opponents.

Sharkey May Get Shot At German Fighter In March

Boston Gob Will Be Free To Meet Schmeling After Second Annual Heavyweight Show At Miami

NEW YORK, Dec. 23. (AP)—Jack Sharkey will be free to box Max Schmeling in Atlantic City in March after headlining the second annual heavyweight show in Miami February 27, as far as his present contract with Madison Square Garden is concerned.

The Garden, sponsor of the winter show in the South, has only an option on the Boston heavyweight's services for that one bout, Frank Bruen, general manager, said today. If Sharkey is willing to box again within a month he will be free to oppose Max Schmeling for the rival promoting syndicate, headed by Herman Taylor and Bobby Gunnis, of Philadelphia, that is seeking to stage a major attraction in the mammoth convention hall at Atlantic City.

The Garden recently purchased the only contract under which the New York State Athletic commission will permit Schmeling to box in this state. The German heavyweight now visiting his homeland, already has agreed to meet the best available opponent in the New Jersey resort on March 29.

NEW YORK, Dec. 23. (AP)—Ben Chapman, recruit infielder of the New York Yankees, underwent an operation for appendicitis at a New York hospital today. Bob Shawkey, manager of the Yankees, who was at the hospital when the operation was performed, reported he stood the ordeal well.

Chapman, whose home is at Ensley, Ala., will be 21 years old Christmas day.

Co-Operation Of Hoover Leads To Week-End Battle

Whether President Lent Aid To Opposition For Increased Sugar Tariff Causes Controversy

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23. (AP) — Whether President Hoover lent the cooperation of his office to Cuban interests opposed to an increased sugar tariff brought on a wordy week-end battle between the national republican congressional committee and the publicity bureau of the democratic national committee.

Representative Wood of Indiana, chairman of the former, staunchly defended the chief executive, while Representative Garner, of Texas, democratic leader of the house, took the view that a statement from Mr. Hoover was necessary and for the second time called for such a pronouncement.

Testimony Crossed.

The controversy grew out of the testimony of H. C. Lakin, president of the Cuba company before the senate lobby investigating committee. He said he had employed Edwin P. Shattuck, attorney, to assist him in the campaign against a high sugar duty because Shattuck was a friend of President Hoover. Other testimony was that Mr. Hoover directed his secretary, Walter Newton, to bring about a contact between the Cuban intrests and the senate finance and means committee when dealing the tariff bill.

Would it did that even supposing it were true that Mr. Hoover had discussed the sugar tariff with opposing an increased duty, he could see nothing reprehensible in that fact. He went on to say, that for the president to give audience to men of personal repute who see any opportunities of mutual business interest, does not constitute a prior to a conversation between the two a connivance.

Garner Reproached.

He reproached Garner for his first statement with the assertion that it had sought by innuendo and implication to impugn the motives of the president. He declared the "chairman of the democratic national committee" but not of Garner, and asserted the committee had hid behind Garner's name.

Garner again called upon the president to issue a statement setting forth his side of the controversy with the assertion that in a pronouncement from the White House many people would not take a kindly view of the episode.

Testimony Reviewed.

He reviewed the testimony laid before the lobby committee and asserted that since there is no way of bringing the president before the committee the latter is "handicapped in getting at the facts."

He asserted many statements made before the committee have not been denied and furnish the inference that they indicate a conspiracy "to inform the president of Cuba" that the sugar lobbyists had the direct influence of the president of the United States at their command and that he was actively putting the machinery of the White House at their disposal.

Harvard Professor Opposed New Plan

"Father" Of Consolidation Plan Denounces Proposal Given Senate; Financial Equality Lacking, Claim

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 23 (AP)—The "father" of the Interstate Commerce Commission's railroad consolidation proposals in 1921, Professor W. Z. Ripley of Harvard university, economist and transportation expert, today denounced the new plan submitted to congress as failing to provide either "operating efficiency or financial equality."

Prof. Ripley, who, as special examiner on consolidation for the commission, drew up the preliminary plan which essentially made up the 1921 proposals, declared his belief that "economic philandering rather than statesmanship" had characterized the commission or consolidation.

Competition Not Embodied

The principle of "even handed competition at as many points as possible" was not embodied in the plans, Prof. Ripley said. "It is inconceivable," he continued, "that the Wabash, which is a string line anyway, could be built into anything like an even handed competitor with the powerful Pennsylvania New York Central, Baltimore and Ohio and Van Swearingen systems."

Prof. Ripley said another fundamental principle disregarded was the attempt "to confine each system to a definite rate territory."

The New England roads," he explained, "are projected into trunk line territory, the Illinois Central is extended far to the north and into the southwest, the Burlington reaches Canada to Mexico, and so it goes, disregarding boundaries which with more and more distinctiveness have been set to these rate adjustment territories."

FORGERY CHARGED

Giving his name as M. A. Brown, a man was arrested and lodged in the Lubbock county jail yesterday on charges of forgery and passing a forged instrument.

He was retrieved and later arrested after he had presented a $57.10 check, which was forged against the West Texas Gin company, at J. C. Penney company's store, after purchasing a suit.

Definite arrangements had not been made last night.

Survivors are two daughters, Mrs. Lewis Rutledge, of Ralls; Mrs. Stewart Garmon, of Lorenzo, and two sons, J. E. McSpadden, of Lamesa, and L. McSpadden, of Colorado City.

The two largest national forests in the United States are the Tongass and the Chugach in Alaska, with net areas of 16,546,242 and 4,799,583 acres respectively.

BULLETS IDENTIFIED

CHICAGO, Dec. 23. (AP)—Major Calvin H. Goddard, ballistic expert asserted today that markings found on bullets taken from bodies of the seven vitcims of the Moran gang massacre last February were identical with markings on bullets fired from the sub machine guns found in the St. Joseph, Mich., home of Fred Burke, notorious killer and bank bandit.

NEW DELHI, India, Dec. 23. (AP)—Negotiations on India's political future between the viceroy and the Indian nationalist leaders, including Mahatma Gandhi, were stated today to have broken down on the main question on dominion status.

After a conference lasting some hours, Motilal Nehru, Indian leader, said no agreement had been reached.

No less than 100,000 visitors from all sections of the southwest will flock to Lubbock during the coming year, according to an estimate made from the 1930 program at hand.

Besides the regularly scheduled meetings and pow-wows, hundreds of other visitors will be in the city on an inspection tour of the territory as a result of the second year's advertising campaign conducted by the South Plains, Inc., of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce and the Board of City Development.

The annual Panhandle-South Plains Fair will continue to hold the lead as the greatest drawing card. More than 50,000 out-of-town visitors are expected to attend the 1930 exposition.

Three state conventions are to be held in Lubbock during the coming year and one bi-state affair is scheduled for the city, that of the Texas-Oklahoma district of the Kiwanis International. Between 1,500 and 2,000 are expected here for the Kiwanis confab. The other state conventions are: the Texas convention of Postal Workers; the Texas Associated Press managing editors and the West Texas Historical association. After a year of inactivity, the International Relations conference will be revived this year and is scheduled to take place in April. Over 500 scholars of the section are expected to attend. The sessions will be held at Texas Technological college.

ONE MINUTE PULPIT

Tremble, thou earth, at the presence of the Lord, at the presence of the God of Jacob.

Which turned the rock into a standing water, the flint into a foundation of waters.—Psalm cxiv. 7, 8.

THE GREAT DRAMA HERE

THE WORLD'S greatest drama of human emotions is now being staged in Lubbock.

Its poignant appeal of diverse attractions touches poverty and riches alike, for it is essentially sentiment and it is to be found in every human heart.

"Christmas" is the title. It portrays friendship, love, happiness and good cheer. Alas, interspersed in its characterization of life's complexities is languid sentimentality, produced by financial despair and almost hidden by the sweeping glamour of joy.

It is a story as old as the Bible. But each year it returns to this city to stir anew all the warmth of emotionalism.

The curtain rolls up and we view a heterogeneous mass, actuated in spirited movements by seasonable thoughtfulness of friends, lovers and relatives. Spotting the stage with their clever suggestiveness are Lubbock stores, and in those stores the student of drama finds all the elements in the transition from Autumn lethargy to Yuletide exaltation.

A benign, bewhiskered and red-clothed old gentleman called Santa Claus, who lives only in the heart, injects into each of his subjects a spirit of unselfishness and the multifarious activities which follow weave into the superb play.

Stores of the city are literally stages upon which comedy and drama play. Alert and lackadaisical clerks suggest what the husband, the sweetheart, the wife, the mother, the father, and the friend would like. What an insight to the human heart! All the desires of those who give are revealed.

EVERYDAY PSYCHOLOGY

It is interesting to observe the increasing application of the principles of psychology to the solution of problems of everyday life. The science of the mind, once looked upon as a frill of education, now plays an important part in affairs of business. Recourse is had to it, just as to psychics, chemistry, mathematics, economics and other sciences, in smoothing out all sorts of difficulties. In the army during the war psychologists were employed to test the intelligence of recruits, so that the right men might be fitted to the multifarious jobs to be done. Psychology is now being similarly applied to the world of commerce. Business men have faith in what they are told as to how psychology will help them to improve the personnel of their employes by making it possible for them to avoid the mistake of putting square pegs in round holes.

The importance of the study now being made of the mind will be more appreciated in later years, for as yet researchers have done little more than scratch the surface. Up until the last century there was little accurate knowledge of the processes of the mind. The phenomena of memory, dreams, somnambulism and hypnotism had been observed but either ignored or attributed to supernatural agencies. It was only recently that there was put forward the hypothesis of "the subliminal consciousness" to account for faculties sometimes exhibited by persons while in an abnormal condition which were beyond their power while in a normal state. The theory, now generally accepted, is that there is present in all persons a region of the mind which, though the dominant or controlling part, usually lies hidden or submerged beneath more commonplace mental activities. This has been hailed as one of the greatest discoveries of modern science, and is the basis of which faith healing, the power of suggestion and hypnotism rest.

Psychology is teaching now how to educate the will, stimulate the imagination, improve the memory, form good habits and get rid of bad ones. As man learns more of the operations of the subconscious part of the mind, he increases his mental powers.

There is another department of psychology which has been brought into undeserved disrepute by the frauds of charlatans but which is the most fascinating of all branches of the science in the possibilities that it seems to hold. This is the branch which Sir Oliver Lodge calls "psychic science." It is concerned with investigation of the thesis that mind may exist apart from matter. Without prejudice and without superstition scientists have been engaged for a number of years in critical examination of facts which have been bearing on the question.

Psychology is the big science of the Twentieth century just as biology was dominant in the Nineteenth; and it is encouraging to find business men interested in it because of the help that it offers in the solution of their problems, and the public turning an attentive ear to the teachers because of the aid that knowledge of the mind's workings gives in acquiring mental and physical health; for with the people showing an interest in these branches of the science they may be led to appreciate the part that psychology is playing in the solution of still more important problems.

DANGEROUS DAYS

Lately there has come cheerful news of progress in the fight against influenza, pneumonia and other winter ills. Patient investigation has apparently driven the offending germ into a corner at last, and there is now some hope of dealing with him as he deserves.

But in the meantime the hazards of winter are not diminished and there is no less need for every reasonable precaution against these common miseries. A microscopic germ may be scientifically accused of all the crimes of coughs and colds and congestion, but he had a formidable and obvious ally in a climate of infinite varieties, most of which are at this season bad. If the weather man had set out to ring the changes on his offerings, he could not have done much more in so short a time.

The doctors say that plenty of sleep, fresh air and sensible eating are safeguards against the treachery of the season.

Not that we are in the position of having to know, but what ever became of coffee ice cream?

What mystifies a local cynic not a little is how they determined that Iowa was the bad egg in the [illegible]

On the Firing Line at the Nation's Capital

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

ASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—Driven desperate by his inability to find a satisfactory office boy (business men all know how scarce such lads are; sometimes it seems as if high-powered executives are more readily to be had), behold the mighty Joseph R. Grundy, of Pennsylvania, actually attending to this menial but necessary work for himself!

Old Joe a mere United States senator!

Answering roll calls!—instead of telling his underlings how to vote.

Present in person at committee meetings!—where any bright $10,000-a-year subordinate (if only a bright one had been available when old Joe advertised) could represent him just as well.

Mixing on an equality with solons he has ordered around for years!

Isn't it rich?

Old Joe has had trouble with that office boy's job for a long time.

It began with William S. Vare's ambition to come to the senate from the Keystone state in 1926; but he did not want to come as old Joe's office boy. Vare had big ideas—wanted to be a boss on his own account and give orders to other office boys.

Old Joe naturally considered this rank impudence.

He and his friends fought Vare all over the lot, but Vare won his senatorship for all that — or thought he had.

The only thing old Joe's ticket won was the governorship of Pennsylvania for the Grundy-ite candidate, John S. Fisher; and it cost the Grundy crowd three times as much as Vare spent to do that.

Vare was satisfied; all he wanted was to be senator.

The best of the joke was yet to come.

When Vare appeared, to don his toga, the senate decided he was not entitled to it; the expensiveness of his victory had "tainted it with fraud."

Thus a vacancy was created. The Grundy-ites (who lost to Vare, at thrice his expenditures) having filled it, by their Governor Fisher's appointment of old Joe, the senate pronounces this latter transaction o. k.

However, a majority of the senators deny any inconsistency. They admit that the Grundy-ites spent a lot; still, it was spent by Pennsylvanians on a Pennsylvania candidate, which the senate has no license to inquire into; it would be subversive of the states' right principle.

"Then how about inquiring into Vare's expenditures?" cried Senator Schall, of Minnesota, who could not seem to see the difference.

This query the senate sternly frowned down.

Senator Wheeler, of Montana, also raised a naive objection.

He had heard somewhere, he said, that U. S. senators were supposed to be elected; not appointed.

Inasmuch as a Pennsylvania election certainly was held and there were only two candidates (William S. Vare for the G. O. P. and W. B. Wilson, Democrat), if Vare remained unelected, why was not Wilson the victor?—Wheeler wanted to know.

He was frowned down, too.

To a man up a tree it looks—

As if the senate had gotten into a terrible jam over the Vare case and did not mean to get into another one over old Joe Grundy.

Anyway we now have with us Senator Joseph R. Grundy, of Pennsylvania.

Joe Grundy personally is a more amiable old man than folk in states which he has termed "backward" may think.

Indeed, he is extremely genial and kindly.

In the manufacturing business all his life, it honestly is his judgment that the national welfare depends on millions of money for manufacturers. It is not greed on his part. He sincerely believes that the big industrial states make the backward states prosperous in spite of themselves; they may not think they are prosperous, but they are.

I am sure no one can talk with Senator Grundy for even a few minutes without realizing that he genuinely means what he says.

In a way the senator is not grasping at all.

That is, he is no tightwad. On the contrary—he is generous.

It simply is his theory that he and a few others like him, know how money ought to be spent; but most people do not.

They say he has been very liberal with his home town of Bristol (Pa.). He is its biggest contributor to hospitals and libraries and all sorts of charities. He treats the workers in his woolen goods factory well. They like him.

He feels a keen sense of duty to the hoi polloi.

There are not as many of his kind in the senate as there used to be, but there is no doubt he will bolster up the dwindling group of them all he can.

YES, SOME HUMAN BEINGS CHEW THEIR CUD, JUST LIKE COWS

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

Chewing the cud is usually a feature of the life of the cow and of other grass-eating animals. Occasionally human beings regurgitate hastily eaten meals, resalivate the food, rechew it and swallow it. This process is called rumination or merycism.

Dr. Charles Francis Long has described a number of cases which are of great interest. In most instances, regurgitation of the food is uncontrolable and is associated with gastro-intestinal disturbances. However, an Egyptian actor, Hadji, can swallow 50 glasses of water and without apparent effort bring it right up again. He swallows 30 hazel nuts and one almond, and brings up as many hazel nuts as may be requested before bringing up the almond. This is probably a trick with the almond held in the mouth and the hazel nuts regurgitated.

He swallows three handkerchiefs of different colors and brings up the colors selected in order. The investigators are convinced that he holds these in his mouth and that they are differently flavored so that he swallows them in the reverse order of the requested regurgitation.

He also swallows a pint of water and a half pint of coal oil, stands six feet from a burning candle, and then regurgitates the coal oil which bursts into flame as it approaches the candle. Finally the water, which is heavier than the coal oil, comes along and puts out the fire.

Infants regurgitate or ruminate easier than do adults. The process is probably brought about by tightening the muscles of the abdomen and of the stomach. There does not seem to be any special shape or character of the stomach which permits this process.

Obviously this is one of those tricks of development of musculature, such as is accomplished by those who learn to wiggle the ears or do other muscular performances which are easily performed by lower animals, but which have been lost in the human.

Bank Is Held Up, Robbed by Yeggs

PITTSBURGH, Kan., Dec. 23. (AP) The Hiattville State bank, of Hiattville, Kan., 35 miles north of Pittsburg, was held up and robbed of an undetermined amount of money this afternoon by three young unmasked men who escaped in a blue sedan.

C. W. Thompson, president of the bank, and Ray Allison, customer, were in a room when two of the holdup men entered. The third robber remained at the wheel of the automobile.

Displaying revolvers the men forced the two occupants of the bank to hold up their hands and gathered up all money in the cashier's cage. Then they backed from the door, entered the waiting automobile and hurried away.

Thompson jumped into his automobile, parked nearby, and trailed the robbers for some distance, but was outdistanced.

TO REPLACE GIN

Razed Plant To Be Built Again, Lance Says

George Lance, of Morton, editor of the Cochran County News, while in Lubbock for Christmas shopping today, announced that construction work on the new gin to replace the one burned several weeks ago at Morton will start some time during February. Another gin is to be built in Cochran county, also, at Enoch, by G. W. Howell, Lance states.

Drilling is scheduled to be resumed at once on the Westbrook-Slaughter well, three miles south of Morton, Lance said, as cable tools have arrived from Tahoka. The well has been shut down for about two weeks and stands at 2,775 feet. W. L. Brandon, of Fort Worth, is contractor on this well.

The Lehman-Marland well, five miles southwest of Lehman, Cochran county, has been abandoned and casing pulled, according to Lance. It is understood that another location is to be made on the same tract of land.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

Mrs. Emma Hogarth, inmate of Mrs. Rhodes' boarding house, is strangled to death. Bonnie Dundee, "cub" detective, assists Police Lieut. Strawn. Emil Sevier, former boarder whom Mrs. Hogarth accused of trying to rob her, is sought.

Cora Barker, boarder, thought to have had an affair with Sevier, is arrested as a material witness but is out on bail. Other boarders under suspicion are: Henry Dowd, Norma Paige, Walter Styles, near bankrupt, who had quarrelled with Mrs. Hogarth; Bert Magnus, amateur scenario writer who was heard typing in his room until 12:15, and Daisy Shepherd.

Dundee learns from papers in Sally Graves who wrote her once a month was her daughter, and that she lived in dread of Sally's husband, Dan Griffin, sought for embezzlement. Bonnie, recalling the mysterious details of Sally's murder in New York June 2, concludes Dan murdered both women and that he is or has been living at the Rhodes' House.

An old rail-ticket envelope with Dowd's name on it, showing it left New York June 3, increases suspicion against him. Sevier denies killing the woman and implicates Cora. Dundee goes for Cora and finds her dead, strangled with her hair braids. At the inquest Magnus tells of the love between him and Cora and of her fear that Sevier would seek revenge for what she had told police. Sevier is being quizzed when a girl dashes in. She confesses she hid Sevier and insists he did not kill Cora Barker. The girl who hid him while the police searched for him comes forward with her father and gives Sevier a perfect alibi for the Barker murder. Baffled, police allow Dundee until Monday to work on his theory regarding Griffin. Bonnie concentrates his attention on Dowd, whose information about himself has been proved false.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XLIV

Bonnie Dundee fully intended to devote at least two hours of hard thinking that Monday night to the [illegible] mysteries which he had so [illegible] promised Lieutenant Strawn to solve by Monday evening or confess failure. But when his telephone rang at 8 o'clock it startled him out of a gorgeously satisfactory dream—a dream bristling with fantastic [illegible] secret passages, disguises—

"H[illegible] Who is it? . . . . Oh, hello, Uncle Pat!" he cried.

"Lieutenant Strawn's just been here, Bonnie," the police commissioner told his nephew, "and I've asked him to give you a free hand. [illegible] some sort of [illegible] it seems he has none at [illegible] about the Barker murder. I told him I'd pull you off the case and let him handle it any way he saw it, but he confesses himself stumped and seems to be willing to give you a chance. Maybe he thinks you'll make a fool of yourself and that the 'old man' won't interfere with his department again. You've got to uphold the honor of the family, boy!"

"I'll do my best," Dundee assured his uncle gratefully. "It's awfully decent of both of you—"

"You realize, of course, that you're working under Strawn, and that credit for anything you may discover goes to him, as chief of the Homicide Squad."

"I don't care anything about the credit," Dundee retorted. "All I want is a chance to play my hunch. And if Strawn or Turner or anyone else gets hold of a better theory I'll be tickled to death to do anything I can to help him prove it."

"Good boy!" his uncle applauded. "Just one warning, Bonnie. Don't get so crazy about this hunch of yours that you'll be blind to other possibilities. I'd rather not speak more plainly over the phone, but I think you know what I mean. Don't twist and bend facts simply to make them fit your theory, and don't let any apparently insignificant facts slip past you, because they don't fit your theory."

"Right!" Dundee agreed hastily.

"One more thing," his uncle went on. "Strawn has detailed two men to guard the Rhodes House night and day, as unobtrusively as possible, and has detailed one of our best men to shadow Dowd. It seems that Dowd has a job soliciting subscriptions for The Morning News."

"Good! That makes it easy to get a specimen of his real handwriting," Dundee replied. "He printed his name in the Rhodes House register —and very amateurishly; an obvious attempt to disguise his penmanship."

"Well, boy, if you get anything definite on him, don't give him too much rope. He might use it on you," his uncle advised with a laugh which was not exactly mirthful.

Dundee hung up the receiver. "Good old Uncle Pat! He's certainly giving me the breaks. . . . . Now what the devil was that dream? . . . . . Oh, yes, secret passage!" He grinned. "That loosened board in Dowd's closet has been clapping hard against my subconscious, all right. . . . . But it was a swell dream. Wish I could remember all of it. Had a great kick in it—Let's see: Daisy Shepherd was Dan Griffin, disguised as a woman, and she, or rather he, had hidden the loot in the flour bin! But where did that secret passage come in?"

Suddenly he struck his rumpled black hair with a disgusted fist. "Lord! What a fool I've been! No wonder my sub-conscious had to step in and help!"

For the belated brain wave was simply this: If Henry Dowd was Dan Griffin, and he had used the loose board of his clothes closet to effect an entry into Mrs. Hogarth's room, why in the name of all that was reasonable would he not have used the same means of entry to make a further search of Mrs. Hogarth's room on Tuesday night instead of prowling about on the upstairs porch so that Cora had heard him and had made it necessary for the prowler to murder her to protect himself?

And what other possible explanation of Cora's murder could there be, provided of course his theory of Dan Griffin's being responsible for both murders was the correct one? Certainly Cora Barker had finally told the police all she knew would stake his hope of enternal happiness about the first murder. Dundee would stake his hope of enternal happiness on that!

"Well, I'm glad I thought of it before Strawn did," the chagrined young detective told hismself. "Of course there's just a chance that Mrs. Rhodes sicked Dusty onto the job of nailing the loose board back into place before Cora was murdered. In that event, Freind Henry — if he is Dan Griffin — would have had to use the windows Tuesday night. But why would Cora have gone to her east window instead of her south window, which is nearer to Mrs. Hogarth's room? If it was Dan Griffin, alias Henry Dowd, that Cora saw trying to get into Mrs. Hogarth's room, he would have had no business at all on the east side of the porch. . . . . Guess I'd better get me a job of soliciting newspaper subscriptions, same as good old Henry. I seem to be a perfect dub at this game!"

His tangled reverie was broken by a knock upon his door. Jerking on a dressing gown he padded across his little room barefoot to answer it. It was Mrs. Rhodes, fresh towels on her arm, her austere face dark with trouble and anxiety.

"Just the person I most want to see!" Dundee cried heartily. "Come in."

"There's a dozen things I ought to be doing," the landlady reproached herself and him as she sank into the only armchair the room boasted. "Lord, what a day this has been! New locks on all the doors, screens put up—after it's too late to help poor Cora! Any other time I'd have got a sight of pleasure out of seeing Dusty June-around like he's done today. Lieutenant Strawn said there wasn't any call to change the locks, but I thought the folks might feel better—and safer." She sighed heavily, as she handed towels and key to her newest boarder.

"Thanks, Mother Rhodes! It was kind of you to go to all that trouble and expense," the boy said sincerely. "By the way, I suppose that loose board in Dowd's closet has been nailed down?"

"I made Dusty 'get around' to that yesterday," Mrs. Rhodes said, smiling wryly as she quoted her husband's favorite expression.

"So that's that!" Dundee said cryptically. He did not explain that half the mystery which had been tormenting him had been solved. Granting that Dowd was Dan Griffin and the murderer, he would have been forced to leave his room and enter Mrs. Hogarth's by windows. But there still remained the puzzle of why Cora had been murdered at her east window instead of at the south one.

"I ought to be getting back downstairs," the landlady sighed again. "Mrs. Barker, poor soul, is resting in my room now. She's all worn out, what with reporters around and that Lieutenant Strawn pawing over Cora's things before he'd let her pack 'em. I guess he didn't find any clues, because he said it would be all right for her to take them away with her. She's taken a great shine to Bert Magnus. Says Cora wrote her how much she thought of Bert, and poor Mrs. Barker was counting on Cora being happy at last . . . . . "Oh, dear!" she sighed again as she started to rise.

"Just a minute, please, Mother Rhodes!" Dundee detained her apologetically. "I can't ask anyone else, and I must know just what sort of man Arthur B. Wheeler is. What he looks like, I mean."

"You are hard up for somebody to suspect, aren't you?" Mrs. Rhodes gibed, as she sank back into the armchair. "Well, I guess you know your own business . . . . . Arthur Wheeler is about 27 years old, more'n six feet tall, skinny as a snake, and so light-complected he just misses being an albino. His eyes are so blue they look like a new-born baby's, and I guess they're about a strong as a baby's too, because he wears glasses with lenses nearly half an inch thick. They make him look like a scared rabbit—"

"Then it wasn't Wheeler who broke his glasses not long ago," Dundee interrupted, memory flashing back to that broken lens he had found in the trash bag in the basement.

"It was Bert Magnus that broke his glasses," Mrs. Rhodes informed him, "though it beats me how you know. Jewel was frolicking around hi mat breakfast one morning about two weeks ago, and knocked his nose-pinchers off. Mr. Sharp recommended him to his own oculist and Bert had a new lens by dinner time."

"Thanks, Mother Rhodes," Dundee said cheerfully, but mentally he chalked up another disappointment. "Tell me more about Arthur Wheeler, like the lamb you are!"

"Lamb!" Mrs. Rhodes snorted, but she was not displeased. "He's got a funny little pug nose, and a mustache about the size and color of a toothbrush. All the girls laughed at him, he was comical-looking, and I guess Daisy was the only one that ever spoke a kind word to him."

"And Daisy is probably wishing now that she had been as hard-hearted as the other girls," Dundee smiled. "I can understand why she

Laredo Business Men See Hopeful Signs On Border

New Mexican Customs Law To Become Effective In January Seen As Savior After Consulate Closing

LAREDO, Dec. 23. (AP)—The most hopeful sign since closing of the Mexican customs law which becomes effective in January.

Under these regulations, the consulate no longer will be the clearing house for American exports, this business reverting to hte customs house. The 10 per cent consular fee is eliminated.

To Laredo commercial interests it appearde the consulate would again take up the duty of issuing passports and other business handled prior to the time the export business was assumed. If this is done, business men said, closing of the consulate will not affect export and import business through the port of Laredo.

An average of $3,000,000 worth of American goods had been cleared through the consulate here monthly the fee amounting to approximately $500,000 monthly. Hereafter any fee will be collected at the customs house.

Shippers regard the new law as an improvement.

so resented the coroner's asking her if she was romantically interested in Arthur Wheeler . . . . Well, again — that's that!" he added, dismissing the homely inventor as a possible Dan Griffin.

He expected Mr. Rhodes to burst away then, but unaccountably he lingered, her fingers nervously pleating the lace ruffle of her jabot. Finally she flung up her head and demanded defiantly, "Listen here, young man! Have you got sense enough not to go off half-cocked if I tell you something I ought to have told at the inquest this afternoon and didn't?"

Dundee's heart leaped, but he answered quietly, "I think I have."

"Well, I don't supose it amounts to a row of pins, and to tell you the truth I forgot all about it last night when Sergeant Turner was putting us all through the third degree, trying to find out what we knew about poor Cora's death."

"Yes?" The boy was trying hard not to appear impatient.

"Well, last night, when all you folks were in the parlor, with Cora playing and Bert singing, I called Jewel to the phone, and then I stood in the doorway for a while listening to the music. Then Cora stopped playing and she and Bert talked real low, and it looked to me like they were getting engaged or at least coming to an understanding. I haven't kept a boarding house for 15 years for nothing!"

"And you were right, as Bert admitted at the inquest this afternoon."

"But I wasn't sure then, and I thought if I dropped into Cora's room after she'd gone upstairs she might tell me about it, if there was anything to tell. I was mighty fond of Cora, and I wanted her to be happy . . . . . Well, it must have been about 11 o'clock when I went up, but I didn't knock on Cora's door, for I heard her and Jewel quarreling, and since I didn't want to have anything to do with it, I went back downstairs."

"Quarreling?" Dundee echoed startled, "Are you sure you recognized Jewel's voice?"

"Of course I am! You know how shrill her voice is! Besides, the door was ajar, and I could see her as well as hear her, though neither of them saw me. She was sitting on the edge of Cora's bed, and Cora was standing at her dresser, braiding her hair." The landlady shuddered as she recalled to what horrible use those braids had been put just a few hours later.

"Did you catch any of the actual words spoken?" Dundee urged.

Santa Claus

gone and Christmas will be just a memory to the children.

The older folks of Lubbock have enjoyed themselves during the past few weeks, planning surprises for the giddies, for their friends and acquaintances—no one has been forgotten, not even the cook. Many will awaken on the South Plains Christmas morning to find that Santa indeed found his way from the far away north.

The poor of Lubbock have not been forgotten through various charity agencies of the city. The Salvation Army today is delivering large baskets to penniless homes over the city—a program will be held tomorrow. Other organizations have singled out poverty stricken homes and Lubbock in its hurry and bustle of Christmas giving will have made the humblest home radiate with the spirit of the day.

DIVIDEND DECLARED

PLAINVIEW, Dec. 23. (AP)—Directors of the Plainview National bank have declared a dividend of 12 1-2 per cent. The recently organized subsidiary, the Plainview Securities corporation, in its sixth month of existence, declared an eight per cent dividend. The bank has set aside $9,500 for profit sharing by employes.

Cotton Mart Dull; Stocks On Decline

Usual Pre-Xmas Dullness Marks Monday Session

Prices Decline Following Easy Opening; Technical Rally Staged By Market Late In Session

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 23. (AP)—Pre-Christmas dullness characterized cotton today and, although the opening was easier and prices declined slightly after the start, the market experienced a sharp technical rally later in the day which was helped by a fair trade demand and some covering. The rally did not hold and January which had sold up from 16.85@17.06, closed at 16.94, or one point net down. The general market closed steady net one point up to one point down.

Liverpool cables were unfavorable and influenced an opening decline here of 4 to 5 points. The market continued to recede in early trading under pre-holiday liquidation, March hit 17.13 and May 17.59, or 9 to 13 points down.

Later the market steadied, March advanced to 17.36 and May 17.59, or 21 to 23 points above the lows.

NEW YORK, Dec. 23. (AP)—A slight opening decline was followed by advances in cotton today on trade buying and pre-holiday covering promoted by recent more favorable reports from the cotton good markets and a feeling that last week's declines had improved the technical position of values. The advance was checked by southern selling at 17.14 for January, however, and prices later reacted under realizing. January closed at 17.00, with the general market closing steady at a net advance of 1 point on July but generally 3 points lower. The opening was steady at unchanged price to a decline of 5 points with the active months selling about 3 to 6 points net lower during the first few minutes in response to relatively easy Liverpool cables and some overnight selling orders from the South. Offerings were light. Prices soon turned steadier.

There were comparatively few contracts for sale after the early offerings had been absorbed, apparently, and the market developed considerable strength during the middle of the day with December advancing to 17.10 and May to 17.68 making net gains of about 9 to 16 points on the more active positions.

Decorations

the contest. The out-of-town people complimented Lubbock highly for the beautiful Christmas decorations not only in the residence district where so many homes were decorated, but also complimented the town highly for the colored light that are found at most every down-town street intersection and for the many attractive store windows.

"Members of the Christmas decorations committee of the Lubbock Retail Merchants association are well pleased with the results of the first contest," Sam Lightfoot, chairman, stated last night. "We feel that this contest has played a prominent part in making home decorations the most extensive and the more attractive than any previous year.

"We hope to continue the contest from year to year and that it may develop into a bigger contest each Christmas season."

Other members of the committee are A. G. Hunt, E. J. Parsons, H. H. Jons and Carl Patton.

"Bring me and my little brother some toys or anything you have to spare. I have little brothers aged eleven, nine, seven and three. I would like to have a doll and doll buggy. Please remember us if you can and we'll appreciate anything you bring."

An appeal is being made to the Santa Claus who lives in the minds and hearts of those who share happiness for Helen and Eva. The Yuletide philanthropist, gray-whiskered and benign, is their hope for a brief respite from poverty's depression.

BURNS TO DEATH

One Dead, Another Injured In Houston Fires

HOUSTON, Dec. 23. (AP)—One man was dead and a woman was in a critical condition here today from burns.

Louie McKenzie, 24, of Little York, received fatal burns. He lay down near a camp fire about 10 miles out on the Little York road and his clothing became ignited.

Mrs. Willie Lee Collins, 40, was seared when a pan of gasoline, which she was using to clean garments, exploded.

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 23. (AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—Curtailed receipts and some improvements in prices at eastern dressed beef markets were bullish factors in the trade on killing classes of cattle around the 11 market circuit. Although the run was comparatively light, beef steers and yearlings were offered in fairly liberal numbers. Trade on killing classes was moderately active, firm to 25c higher. Chicago had a top of $16.25 on yearlings, while choice 10-month fed 1411 lb. beeves at Kansas City made $14.25. There was a fairly broad demand for replacement stock.

Offerings 44,000, a decrease of 26,000 from a week ago, but 25,000 more than a year ago.

Market Slow

Shippers purchased hogs 20 to 25c higher but the close to packers at several markets was slow at only 10 to 15c higher than last week's close. The top of $9.75 was paid at St. Louis and Chicago. Receipts 104,000 against 186,973 last Monday, and 68,443 a year ago.

The sheep supply approximated 56,200, a decrease of 33,000 from a week ago and 22,000 heavier than a year ago. Fat lambs unevenly steady to 25c higher. Aged stock mostly steady. Closely sorted lambs in Chicago made $13.90. Bulk choice natives and fed westerns $13.00 to $13.60.

Wheat Values In Rally On Monday

Prediction Of Alaxander Legge For Boost In Wheat Exports Causes Prices To Recover

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN,
Associated Press Market Editor.

CHICAGO, Dec. 23. (AP)—Wheat values showed brisk rallying power today at the last, after having averaged lower most of the time earlier. Price recoveries were due largely to buying because of talk current that Chairman Alexander Legge of the federal farm board had said he looked for a better export trade in wheat. Preceding downturns of what values came about chiefly as a result of selling pressure ascribed to eastern sources and having relation to stop exchange weakness.

Closing quotations on wheat were irregular at 3-8c net decline to 1-4c advance, with corn 3-8c down, oats a shade off to 1-8c up, and provisions varying from 2c setback to an equal gain.

New export business in wheat today from the United States and Canada was said to total but 200,000 bushels and there were reports that Kansas, the banner wheat producing state, besides having an increased acreage this season shows a crop condition 12 per cent better than average.

which fired the bullets taken from the slain gangster. Microscopic measurements and peculiarities established that fact, Col. Goddard said.

Thought Hired

Authorities, redoubling the search for the fugitive killer, have only to arrest him to establish a motive for the wholesale murders. Burke was not known as a liquor racketer, so if he killed the Moran liquor gangsters it was because he was hired to do it, the authorities believe.

Burke's reputation pictures him as a bank robber and gunman who knows guns and is not afraid to use them, although in St. Joseph he was a quiet appearing man.

Steamer Sinking

val communications that the captain of the Karmoy radioed that he could remain afloat until morning.

The Mackay radio received a message from the Karmoy saying she was aground and that heavy seas were breaking over her.

BOSTON, Dec. 23. (AP)—The Tropical Radio station here said that several vessels were trying to communicate with the sinking Karmoy to determine their nearness to her.

The station said the coast guard cutter Mojave was endeavoring to check the positions of the boats although it was difficult because of the jumble of messages.

The last message from the Mojave was that she would go immediately to the Karmoy's assistance unless some other ship was nearer.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 23. (AP)—Five busses and four other motor cars were destroyed by fire today at a brick garage of the Atlantic & Pacific stages, intercity bus line. Loss was estimated at $70,000.

Lubbock High School Students Sing Christmas Carols to Inmates of Jail

"Si-lent Night, Ho-ly night—"

And as the soft strains of the age-old Christmas carol rang through the halls, echoing and re-echoing against the steel walls of the prison, men whose faces have hardened with time behind prison bars, whose hearts have grown bitter with the passing days—turned in amazement and peered through those bars at a smiling group of boys and girls as they sang.

Even behind barred doors and windows the spirit of Yuletide has not been forgotten and the teachings of former years are brought back in a flood of memory.

"Round yon virgin, mother and child —Holy infant so tender and mild—" A clear tenor voice from a corner of the cell—catching the spirit of the occasion a young man silent with the first few opening bars of the song, swung into the latter portion with the joy of abandon, seeming to forget the days of the jail sentence yet to be served.

A group of Lubbock high school students, led by Mrs. Von Tungeln, last evening visited the county jail, the shut-ins at local hospitals and older people—singing to them the carols of the Christmas season.

Apathy Features Monday's Session Of Stock Market

Rare Spectable Of Christmas Week Being Ushered In With Declines Seen In Wall Street

BY CLAUDE JAGGER,
Associated Press Financial Writer.

NEW YORK, Dec. 23. (AP)—Wall street today witnessed the rare spectacle of a declining stock market ushering in Christmas week. Apathy rather than gloom pervaded the financial district. The majority of shares closed 1 to 10 points lower, but trading slackened up considerably on the decline, only 3,491,770 shares changing hands.

Not since 1920 has the stock market failed to provide some sort of a bullish Christmas cheer.

Holiday currency demands, and withdrawals to meet year-end payments, were reflected in firmer monetary conditions. Call money renewed at 5 per cent for the first time since Nov. 21, and subsequently advanced to 5 1-2, the highest figure since Nov. 18. Rates for other credit accommodations were unchanged.

Rails were notably heavy, reflecting uncertainty over the reception to be accorded the Interstate Commerce Commission's consolidation plan. New York Central, Lackawanna, Wabash, Delaware and Hudson, Atchison, and Chesapeake and Ohio were among issues closing 3 to 5 points lower. Pennsylvania sagged to 74, only 1 1-2 points above the year's minimum.

ASK "GOLDEN RULE"

Leniency For Celebrants In Canada Sought

DETROIT, Dec. 23. (AP)—Police of Canadian cities across Detroit river have been instructed to follow a "golden rule" policy toward visiting celebrants who may become more or less helpless but refrain from unruliness between now and January 2.

The police on ordinary days in border cities arrest on charges of drunkenness those whose condition attract the attention of policemen. For the next 10 days, however, chief constables of Windsor, Walkerville, East Windsor, Sandwich and Riverside have instructed their men to be more lenient.

Policemen in most instances were told that they should give service in helping those who need it to find their homes.

CLOSE FOR XMAS

State Departments Prepare For Annual Holiday

AUSTIN, Dec. 23. (AP)—All state departments closed tonight until after the holidays. Some will reopen on December 30, but most of them will remain closed until Jan. 2, 1930. Many state officials and employees had departed for their homes to spend Christmas.

Home Ec Club Is Sponsor of Tree

Continuing the charity work of several organizations in the city, the Home Economics club of Texas Technological college last Friday night sponsored a Christmas tree for the poor of Lubbock. The tree was held in the hall of the home economics building.

At the foot a large basket was placed and every member of the club contributed groceries, clothing, toys or money. The proceeds of the tree went to a destitute mother of four small children. Christmas morning the tiny tots will awaken to find that old Santa did not forget them.

ASK JUDGE REMOVAL

"Dry" Senators Opposed To Hoover Commission

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23. (AP)—The opposition of a group of dry senators to the way the Hoover law enforcement commission is working crystalized today into a demand by one of them for the removal from that agency of Paul J. McCormick a federal judge.

Senator Harris, democrat, Georgia, took this position as a result of McCormick's statements in Los Angeles last night that he and his associates had agreed that prohibition enforcement and "governmental lawlessness" were two major problems. He disclaimed speaking for the commission.

In a formal statement, Harris contended McCormick's expressions showed him to be "such a partisan against the prohibition enforcement law that, however honest he may be, he is unfitted to hold office on the commission."

CLOUDY WEATHER FORECAST

DALLAS, Dec. 23. (AP)—Partly cloudy weather was forecast for Christmas day in Texas by the United States weather bureau here today. Relief from the bitter cold of the past few days also was promised.

Road Bonds Vote Canvass Is Made

A canvass of returns yesterday by the Lubbock county commissioners' court showed that with all but one precinct reported, 31 poll boxes of the county showed 3,401 votes for and 835 against the $991,000 road bond issue, which was determined last Tuesday.

The only precinct in the county not reported at this time is Estacado.

The commissioners announced that several weeks of routine procedure would be necessary before date for the bond sale could be announced. The bond transcript must be approved by the attorney general and opinion of a bond expert will be sought.

Death, Accidents Caused by Storm

SEATTLE, Dec. 23. (AP)—The Pacific Northwest was recovering today from storm which caused many accidents and possibly four or more deaths.

Grays Harbor cities and the Pudget Sound region near Bellingham were hardest hit. Heavy rain flooded the lower business district of Aberdeen, and the coastal ships Prince Rupert and Pacific Hemlock were held outside the harbor awaiting abatement of the storm.

Two Missing.

Dr. Eugene Graves and Allie Wright, both of Sumas, Wash., were last seen bailing out a boat in which they ventured out on Bellingham Bay. Three boats were searching for them.

Thirty feet of guard railing was torn off Mercer Island bridge and iron posts were bent, leading police to believe a car had plunged into Lake Washington here, carrying one or more persons to their death.

EMPLOYEES HURT

OMAHA, Nebr., Dec. 23. (AP)—The firemen and the engineer of Union passenger train No. 128 were injured in a wreck at Gorman, Kas., today, Union Pacific headquarters announced. The train baggageman of No. 128 was also injured. Westbound passenger Train No. 21 for Los Angeles hit the other train at a switch at Gorham. The latter train, going into the "clear" came too close to the main line, and No. 21 hit the engine of No. 128.

Moscow, Murkden In New Agreement

MOSCOW, Dec. 23. (AP)—Moscow and Mukden have made peace and signed a protocol putting finis to hostilities between the soviet Russian government and the Manchurian Chinese provincial government.

A Soviet communique announced today said the soviet plenipotentiary, M. Karakhan, and Tsai Yun-Shen, Chinese representative of the Mukden provincial government signed at Khabarovsk, Siberia, a protocol which restores the status quo ante on the disputed Chinese Eastern railway and consular and commercial organizations.

To Resume Relations.

Formal resumption of relations will not be arranged until a further conference January 25, but meanwhile troops will be withdrawn from Russian and Manchurian borders, all persons arrested in connection with the dispute will be released and White Guard Russians will be disarmed and deported by the Chinese.

The protocol, it appeared, ends a chapter of conflict between China and Russia, growing out of Manchurian seizure of the Chinese Eastern railway, which traverses that province.

Fifty per cent of the sales at a roadside stand are likely to be made on Sunday, a survey has shown.

The total of 91 nations reached $32,914,000 in 1928 while the 1929 figure is estimated to be about $3,500,000,000 ahead of that figure.

"It's Wonderful To Feel Like I Do"

"I Owe My Present Health To Orgatone After Suffering 20 Years," Says Brownwood Contractor

"For more than twenty years before I began taking Orgatone I was in a very bad condition and got to where my work was nearly a dread to me," said Harry Alderson of 501 Victoria, Brownwood, Texas, who is very well known and prominent citizen of this section and is a gravel contractor.

"When I began taking Orgatone," Mr. Alderson continued, "my system seemed to be all run down. I had no appetite and couldn't eat much of anything and was getting weaker and losing my strength every day. I would have a puffed up, bloated feeling, and gas would bother me so bad at times, I could hardly get my breath. My nerves were simply shattered to pieces and I had awful headaches and was almost a complete physical wreck. I felt tired and worn out all the time and never had any energy. My liver was in a very bad condition and this caused pains in my back and sides. I had a bad case of constipation and had to take something most all the time.

"A relative of mine recommended Orgatone to me, and I have been taking it ever since. I feel much better than I have in years and have more energy and life about me. I enjoy what I eat and do not have that full, bloated up feeling and the gas has quit forming on my stomach. I am entirely relieved of my constipation and in fact, I just feel rejuvenated all over. Orgatone is such a good medicine I take great pleasure in recommending it to anyone for I owe my present good health to it."

Genuine orgatone may be obtained in Lubbock at Bowen's Drug Store.—Adv.

Three Jailed for Liquor Violation

Deputy United States Marshal Oscar Brothers arrested three men during the week end on charges of violation of the prohibition laws.

Joe Kleiber, who lives on a farm 17 miles southwest of Littlefield, charged with manufacturing whiskey, was arrested Sunday.

J. C. Lawson and Preston Hepstentall, both of Amherst, charged with transportation of intoxicants, were arrested Saturday. Thirty gallons of whiskey were confiscated.

All are being held in the Lubbock county jail.

WHITE CHRISTMAS

Middle West Promised Snow For Yuletide Season

CHICAGO, Dec. 23. (AP)—There is virtually no question about its being a white Christmas in the Middle West this year. Early today it was getting whiter and whiter.

Railroads, bus lines, street car companies in many cities had hardly gotten their heads above the snowdrifts resulting from last week's blizzard when the Chicago weather bureau warned of more snow. It began falling last night, sifting at first then heavily, but it was only of a few hours' duration.

At St. Paul, Minn., it was four below zero, but in the Middle West temperatures ranged higher, from 12 above at Omaha to 30 at Milwaukee.

DEFEAT SUFFERED

German Nationalists Party Downed By Votes

BERLIN, Dec. 23. (AP)—German nationalist parties today had suffered a crushing defeat. Tabulation of yesterday's referendum on the bill "against enslavement of the German people" showed but a bare one-fourth of the votes necessary to give it effect.

The nationalist bill would have rejected the young reparations plan. Provisional returns showed 6,231,000 votes cast of which 5,782,000 favored the bill. Since the electorate is composed of 41,000,000 odd voters, nearly 21,000,000 votes were needed to pass the measure over the Reichstag veto last month.

But 13.5 per cent of the electorate voted indicating the general apathy to the poll.

The mayor of Chicago receives a yearly salary of $18,000.

Great 2 Minute Cold Reliever Takes Country

The sensation of the drug trade is Aspironal, the two-minute cold reliever, authoritatively guaranteed by the laboratories; tested, approved and most enthusiastically endorsed by the highest authorities, and proclaimed by the people as ten times as quick and effective as whiskey, rock and rye, or any other cold remedy they have ever tried.

To get rid of that cold, step into the nearest drug store, hand the clerk 60c for a bottle of Aspironal, the liquid cold remedy, and tell him to serve you two teaspoonsful. With your watch in your hand, take the drink at one swallow and call for your money back in two minutes if you cannot feel the distressing symptoms of your cold fading away. Don't be bashful, for all druggists invite and expect you to try it.

Take the remainder of the bottle home to your wife and children, for Aspironal is by far the safest, most effective, easiest to take and the most agreeable cold remedy for children as well as adults. Quickest relief for catarrhal croup and children's choking up at night. All druggists carry and guarantee Aspironal, the largest selling liquid cold remedy in the world. (adv.)
