4 Million Set As Limit On Men In Service

WASHINGTON, March 15. (AP) — The House Armed Services Committee today knocked out its military manpower bill the 4-million-man limit on the size of the armed forces.

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) said the vote was 18 to 15 in support of a move made to strike the ceiling from the committee's bill to widen the draft and set up universal military training.

The action was taken in closed session.

Any limit on the size of the armed forces has been opposed by President Truman and military leaders, but the 4-million man ceiling was passed by the Senate.

Vinson said the House committee rejected, 9-24, an earlier amendment by Rep. Short of Missouri, ranking Republican member, to impose a 3,200,000 man ceiling.

The committee also rejected an amendment by Rep. Norblad (R-Ore) to limit the size to 3,500,000.

The No. 1 Harris indicated as a discovery from the Spraberry at 8,110-8,137 feet, but no shows of oil or gas were made on a later test at 8,505-75 feet. Drillsite is in labor 2, league 268, Moore County School Land survey and 11 miles southwest of Lamesa.

Mid-Contonent Petroleum Co. No. 1 Moore, in Central Dawson County, is bottomed at 7,920 feet and trying to run a drillstem test. The well is two miles south of the southwest side of Lamesa and in the Huddle-Manning field.

Loan Seekers Afraid To Ask RFC For Fear Of Publicity

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 15. —The Reconstruction Finance Corp. (RFC), denounced in Congress and subject of a grand jury investigation, reported today borrowers now fear to approach it for loans.

"The RFC is like a morgue," said C. Edward Rowe, a member of the huge government lending agency's board of directors. He told a reporter businessmen are evidently afraid to apply to RFC for loans lest, somehow, they find their names in headlines.

MORE CHARGES

He spoke amid growing charges in both houses of Congress that the RFC has fallen prey to an influence ring with White House roots, and that it should be abolished.

Rowe himself is one of those under fire. A Senate banking subcommittee headed by Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) announced it would reopen public hearings, probably Monday, to hear his testimony and that of another director, Walter Cosgriff. The subcommittee has accused Rowe of subservience to outside influences, but has made no accusations against Cosgriff.

NO NAMES

Meanwhile Rep. Hays (D-O) declined to repeat before the Fulbright subcommittee charges he had voiced in a House speech Tuesday that two senators he did not name exerted influence to help get $18,500,000 of RFC loans for a company headed by Guy Gabrielson, Republican national chairman.

Senate Republicans put their shoulders behind a drive to (A) put the RFC out of business, (B) block a White House move to reorganize the agency, and (C) keep alive the Fulbright subcommittee's investigation.

Truman Tells Soviets Why U. S. Is Arming

By The Associated Press

KEY WEST, Fla., March 15. — Russia had notice today from President Truman that the United States is rearming primarily to prevent war but also "to meet such a conflict if it is forced upon us.'

He again challenged the Communists to agree upon a foolproof control of atomic and other weapons to enable the world to find peace.

Until this is done, he said, "it is essential to our national security that we build up our defenses as quickly and vigorously as possible."

Mr. Truman gave this definition of the United States' rearmament program in a letter made public at the little White House here last night:

"It is, above all, an effort to prevent a world conflict, while at the same time it is an effort to prepare our defenses to meet such a conflict if it is forced upon us. What we are striving for is peace and international order."

The letter was addressed to Sen. Flanders (R-Vt) and a bipartisan group of senators and representatives who wrote him Feb. 26 suggesting he propose the lifting of the Iron Curtain, complete disarmament under the United Nations and immediate establishment of a UN police force.

Mr. Truman may have something further to say on the tense international situation at a news conference late today.

Price Stabilization Meeting for Retailers Of Area in Abilene

An Office of Price Stabilization meeting for retail merchants of this section will be held in Abilene next Tuesday at 10 o'clock, Harold Bennett, Chamber of Commerce manager, said today.

Bennett wired Ellis H. Boyd, OPS director for this area yesterday requesting a meeting here, but received an answer from Boyd stating that a meeting here would be impossible at this time.

Boyd's office of the OPS covers a 52-county area in this part of West Texas with headquarters in Fort Worth.

"There is a probability that within the future we will be able to have a meeting here, but not any time soon," Bennett said.

Tighter Security Check

TOKYO, March 15. (AP)—Army authorities announce today that news stories from Korea will be given a double security check.

Rites Pending For Child Run Over by Car

Mildred Ann Gudgell, two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Clarence Gudgell, died here shortly after noon yesterday of head injuries suffered when a car driven by her father ran over her.

The accident occurred about noon beside the family's house trailer at the D&D Trailer Courts, 1412 Avenue R. Gudgell said this morning that he and a neighbor, Mack Gray, were in the car and were preparing to leave the courts for the hospital where Gray's wife was expecting a baby.

NEAR TRAILER HOME

Both men said the car, a 1941 Ford club coupe, was backed from its parking place about five feet when they heard a thump and a faint cry.

"We jumped out of the car and ran behind it," Gray said. "When we didn't see anyone behind the car, we ran to the front and found her lying under the radiator with the print of a tire across the side of her face."

Gudgell said none of them knew whether the child was under the car or ran into its path. He said he ordinarilly looked around the car before driving and that he usually called the girl to take her with him or to assure himself of her whereabouts before moving the car.

"We failed to look this time," he added, "and I thought she was in the trailer." There were no other witnesses to the accident.

Gudgell and Gray said they rushed the girl to the hospital, where she lived about 15 minutes. Physicians there said the child was dying when admitted. Her head was crushed on the left side causing paralysis of her respiratory system, attending physicians said. She was Gudgell's only child.

PARENTS IN SHOCK

Both the mother, Mrs. Mary Gudgell, and the father were treated at the hospital for shock shortly after the accident. The family moved to Snyder about six weeks ago from Clinton, Ark. Gudgell was employed here by the Rowan Drilling Co.

The child was born at Bakersfield, Cal., Dec. 24, 1948. She was to be taken today to Dennard, Ark., for burial. Funeral arrangements there were not complete.

Besides her parents, she is survived by her paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Gudgell, of Dennard; and her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Ledbetter, Kimberly, Idaho.

Narcotics On Increase Since Luciano Exile

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 15. — Narcotics smuggling into the U. S. increased one year after Vice King Charles "Lucky" Luciano was deported to Italy, Senate crime probers were told today.

Samuel Levine, an agent for the U. S. Bureau of Narcotics, testified that the flow of illegal drugs from Italy began rising sharply in 1947.

"Was this one year after one Luciano was deported to that country?" the witness was asked.

"Yes," he said.

Levine, the first witness on the fourth day of the committee's New York hearings, did not give Luciano's full name. But the one-time U. S. underworld power for years has been connected with the narcotics traffic.

The committee recently named him as the long-distance czar, or intermediary, between a Chicago crime syndicate and a New York-New Orleans crime axis ruled by Gambler Frank Costello.

Tracing narcotics operations in the U. S., Levine said 1936 bureau records showed that a "mob' headed by Thomas Luchese controlled distribution in this key port city.

The mob, he said, had sources of supply in Mexico and California. Mass arrests here and in Arizona partially cracked this operation in late 1941, he said. Luchese escaped.

Johnston Needs More Support

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 15. —Eric Johnston has told government leaders that the anti-inflation program is in distress and could flounder unless they give it stronger support.

Well-placed officials reported today the economic stabilizer pointed his finger at one cabinet officer after another in a top-level meeting yesterday, and accused each in turn of giving less than all-out backing to the stabilization program.

Johnston was quoted as saying that unless there is stiffened support from the White House and the cabinet, in Congress and in the mobilization command, the government might as well abandon its effort to stabilize prices and wages.

The ESA chief made his impromptu appeal at a meeting of the defense mobilization board. It is headed by Charles E. Wilson, mobilization director, and is made up of six cabinet officers and the heads of five important agencies.

Deploring what he called unwillingness of any big segment of the economy — farmers, labor, or industry — to accept the sacrifices which the defense program demands, Johnston listed some specific problems besetting ESA.

American Jet Bomber Refuels In Flight

WASHINGTON, March 15. (AP) — The first successful aerial refueling of an American jet bomber was announced today by the Boeing Airplane Co.

The announcement, approved by the Air Force, disclosed that refueling tests on the B-47 have been conducted and found "satisfactory." The B-47 is this country's fastest jet bomber, an A-bomb carrier which holds a cross-country speed record of 607.8 miles an hour.

County Youths Stock Show To Open Friday

Everything is in readiness for the 1951 Scurry County Junior Livestock show, which opens its gates at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning at the rodeo grounds, according to H. O. Beard, general superintendent of the show. There will be no admission charge for the exhibition.

About $1,300 in cash prizes and several trophies await the contestants, who will exhibit the county's best in calves, both dairy and beef, sheep, swine and capons, Beard said.

All members of the Future Farmers of America and the 4-H clubs of the county will vie for cash and honors in what leaders say will be the biggest and best show of its kind ever seen in Snyder.

Livestock will be weighed in from 7 o'clock to 9 o'clock tomorrow morning at the Snyder Co-Op gin.

Judging of sheep will get under way at 9:30 tomorrow morning. At 1 o'clock in the afternoon swine judging will begin and is slated to end in time for the capon contest.

Saturday morning at 9 o'clock judging of both beef and dairy calves will be held. The auction sale is scheduled for 1 o'clock in the afternoon.

The judge for all classes of livestock will be Stanley E. Anderson, of Texas Technological College, Lubbock.

Assisting Beard as superintendent will be Buford Browning, in charge of the sheep division; Gerald Gordon, swine show supervisor; James Aaron, of Fluvanna, head of the calf division; and O. M. Fowler, county agent, who will aid the show officials. Frank Patterson will be in charge of the capon display.

Starting at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night, a barbecue will be held for all members of the F. F. A., Scurry County Livestock officials, and all boys who participate in the show. Charlie Thompson, Colorado City, chairman of the board of regents, Texas Technological College, Lubbock, will speak. Fathers of all F.F.A. youths, have been especially invited to attend, said Browning. The event will be held at the Northwest Ward school building.

All officials of the livestock show will be guests of the Snyder Kiwanis Club at a luncheon, at 12:15 o'clock tomorrow noon at the Village.

Test Will Be Made On New City Water Well

A test on city water well No. 27 is being made today and tomorrow, W. J. Ramsey, city superintendent, said.

A preliminary effort to bail the water from the well failed to lower it any, he said. The bailer was taking 90 gallons per minute from it.

However, he said the bailer operation could not be considered an accurate indication of the well's capacity.

It is located about 700 feet west of the city's 400-gallon-per-minute well on Twenty-third Street in Northwest Snyder.

Wild Geese Cries Are Sign of Spring

If the cry of the wild goose means anything, spring is not far away.

A flock of possibly 40 or 50 wild geese were seen about 10:30 this morning by Mrs. W. W. Nelson, 2701 Avenue U. The geese were winging back north, Mrs. Nelson said, and accompanying their flight with plenty of crying.

Washington Not Optimistic On Korea War Ending Very Soon

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 15. — So far as official Washington can judge, there is still a lot of hard fighting ahead in Korea.

The Chinese Communists have not yet taken sufficient punishment to show any interest in making an acceptable political settlement.

Furthermore, despite frontline reports of Communist retreats and the reconquest of Seoul, some bitter battles may have to be fought by the United Nations forces before they come up to the 38th Parallel across the peninsula.

MAY STOP

If and when they do reach the parallel the UN command has ample authority to push on across in accordance with military requirements. However, the generally accepted view here is that the area of the parallel, either a little north or a little south, probably is about as far as the UN forces will try to go in great strength.

Responsible officials discussed the situation today in the light of reports, which have been agitating stock market circles in New York, to the effect that with the capture of Seoul the Korean war can be expected to end in a few days.

NO BASIS

State Department Press Officer Michael McDermott says "there is no basis whatever for any such reports," and adds:

"There is no indication whatever that the other side has given up its thought of driving us out of Korea."

This clearly means the State Department has had no indication through the UN's Good Offices Commission or through other nations that the Reds are now interested in a settlement.

Texas Electric Asking Power Rate Increase

The Texas Electric Service Co. has asked the city council here for a hearing on higher rates, Mayor Forest Sears said this morning, and the hearing will probably be arranged within the next few days. Sears said he understood that the proposed raise would amount to about 10 per cent.

BRECKENRIDGE, March 14 — The Breckenridge City Commission Wednesday received an application from the Texas Electric Service Co. for an increased rate schedule.

The new schedule would mean an increase of 10 per cent. W. W. Rogers, company manager in Breckenridge, said similar rate increase requests are planned in other areas served by his company. Rogers reminded the commissioners that it was the first general rate increase asked by the company in more than 30 years of operation in Breckenridge and that the rates had been reduced many times. The last reduction of 11 per cent was made in 1946.

BIG SPRING, March 15.—(Spl.) Approval of a new schedule of electric service rates for Big Spring was asked of the city commission at its session Tuesday afternoon, Texas Electric Service Company submitted a proposal representing an increase of about ten per cent.

The commission instructed City Manager H. W. Whitney to examine the matter further and indicated that action would be taken at next week's meeting. The officials said they felt the public should be given opportunity to consider the TESCO proposal.

The new rates would affect all electric service—residential and general service—except power sold for resale.

Acting Manager R. L. Beale presented the request, pointing out that this is the first general rate increase the company has asked for since it has been doing business in Big Spring.

He submitted average rate breakdowns showing that the average household bill would be raised about 42 cents a month.

Big Casualty Increase Noted

WASHINGTON, March 15. (AP) — Announced U. S. casualties in Korea increased 2,201 over a week ago to a total of 54,649.

The cumulative summary through March 9, issued yesterday by the Department of Defense, listed 8,101 killed in action, 36,108 wounded and 10,440 missing in action.

The wounded total includes 937 who later died. Also 85 among the missing are known dead, raising total deaths to 9,123.

Of those listed as missing, 1,011 have since returned to U. S. military control and 110 are known prisoners of war.

Total Army casualties increased 1,952 during the week to 45,440. The Navy total rose by 10 to 606; the Marine Corps 231 to 8,069, and the Air Force, eight to 424.

Owners of D&R Will Open New Grocery and Market Tomorrow

The doors of Snyder's newest grocery store will open tomorrow morning at 7 o'clock when Doc Griffin and Rex Miller will hold open house at Everybody's Cash Grocery, two blocks south of the square on the Big Spring highway.

Griffin and Miller, owners of the new store, said today that the firm would open with a stock of about $15,000. They also own and operate the D&R Grocery on the east side of the square, which they opened here five years ago when they first began their partnership. They will continue to operate the store on the square.

The new store will be housed in a concrete tile building just completed for Hiram Parks, of Lubbock. The buff building, measuring about 34 by 76 feet, provides warehouse space of 34 to 20 feet and the remaining 1,904 square feet will be used for merchandise display and market. The inside walls are finished in four pastel colors.

Griffin said the firm had obtained a 10-year lease on the property. Miller will manage the new store, Griffin said, and Howard Crenshaw will be transferred from the other store to be assistant manager. Griffin will remain at D&R.

The meat market at the new store will be managed by E. P. Ketner, assisted by Joe Browning, and Tommy Davidson will be head stocker.

Hours of the store will be from 7 o'clock in the mornings until 9 o'clock each night. The store will remain closed all day on Sundays, Griffin said.

SPEEDS SHOPPING

"The store is so arranged that everybody can do his shopping in a very few minutes without unnecessary steps or any other sort of inconvenience. We will have two streamlined checking stands and the newest types of self-service refrigeration equipment and display fixtures to avoid loss of time," Griffin said.

The store will have a sundry department, featuring also magazines and other periodicals; a produce department stocked with a large variety of fresh fruits and vegetables, a regular meat market, and also refrigerated self-service meat counters.

Griffin said he would continue to manage the D&R store, and Bob Hill will manage the meat market, assisted by Kenneth McGrew. Mrs. Sterlene Morgan will be bookkeeper for both stores.

Big Force In To Liberate Old Capital City

Red Anti-Aircraft Fire Brings Down 3 U. S. Planes; 1 Pilot Dead

By The Associated Press

TOKYO, March 15. — United Nations troops returned in force to Seoul today and searched the rubbled streets of the old South Korean capital for hide-out Communist soldiers.

The capital's remnant population of old folks and children cheered the return of the allied fighting men. Communists had held the city since Jan. 4, their second occupation of the war.

All along the Korean front, allied troops surged northward on the heels of retreating Reds. At some points allied troops were less than 18 miles from the old Parallel 38 border to North Korea.

American assault troops stormed into Hongchon Thursday and found the former main Communist supply base on the central front in ruins.

GI's rode tanks across the Hongchon River to reach the onetime city of 15,000. Only five civilians and one mangy white horse greeted the U. S. column.

The Americans met only light arms fire when they first entered Hongchon. Later mortar fire fell in the town.

Hongchon, a vital road junction 20 miles south of the 38th Parallel, had been a major supply center for at least one Chinese army in recent days.

The big push was rolling toward Chunchon, Chinese stronghold eight miles south of the border in central Korea.

The Red radio at Pyongyang reported fierce fighting inside Seoul. Allied reports said it fell without a shot being fired.

The Pyongyang radio, in a broadcast heard in Tokyo, said 100 allied troops were killed and two tanks were destroyed in the Seoul "battle." It also claimed that six American aircraft were shot down over the city.

AP Correspondent Jim Becker reported that Red anti-aircraft fire knocked down three U. S. planes and killed at least one jet pilot Thursday in western Korea.

The F-80 flier was killed when his speedy craft was knocked out of the air.

On the east-central front, U. S. Seventh Division troops won a day-long battle with Reds after ambushing the Communists in their own trap set up to wipe out the doughboys.

A preliminary count showed the Second Division troops killed 350 Communists, wounded 250 and captured eight in a single skirmish north of Yudong.

A spokesman for the U. S. 10th Corps said that despite the stiff Red resistance "all signs — existence of mines, roadblocks and delaying tactics — point to a continuing enemy withdrawal toward the 38th Parallel."

Minimum of 29 Degrees Recorded This Morning

Mild weather returned to Snyder yesterday following an unseasonable cold spell. The maximum recorded here was only 58 degrees, but the minimum of 29 degrees was warmer than on the previous three mornings.

Weathermen see more warming this afternoon, with the high expected to rise over 70 degrees. The minimum will probably not be below freezing, although it is expected to drop to the mid 30's.

Nolan von Roeder said today he had made a check of freeze damage at his orchard on the Roby highway about 14 miles east of the city. He reported that several early blooming varieties of trees had been damaged considerably. He was to check his orchard near Knapp today for damage due to the freeze.

Single Ballot System In French Election

PARIS, March 15. (AP)—A single ballot system of voting in France's next general elections—possibly in June—was approved today by the lower house of parliament. The vote in the national assembly was 318 to 282.

This issue has divided parties in the middle-road coalition government for weeks and resulted in the last cabinet crisis.

2 Families In Trouble Here

Two destitute Latin - American families have made an appeal for aid through the City-County Health Unit here.

The families, which include four children, are now living in a four-room frame house 12 miles out on the Roby highway. They are Mr. and Mrs. Bill Gonzales and their three children, ages 10, 9, and 9 months, and Mrs. Frank Gonzales and her daughter, 9. Frank Gonzales, the father of Bill Gonzales, was severely injured three months ago and has been returned to a Rotan hospital for further treatment. He was in the hospital for a month immediately after being injured, and has developed complications from the injuries.

Miss Leah Davis, county health nurse, visited the families this morning. She described the house as being in a "ramshackle" condition. The furniture in the house consists of two beds with no linens, a heating stove made of a converted oil drum and a two-burner cooking stove. There are no chairs or tables.

The family has no food, Miss Davis said, and the children are poorly clad. None of the children are attending school.

The families came here about two months ago. They are farm laborers but have had no employment.

Donations for the families will be received by the Rev. R. E. Hubbard at the First Presbyterian Church.

Election Law Tightening Drive Opens

AUSTIN, March 15. (AP) — A drive for tighter election laws to combat crooked voting was under way today in the Legislature.

The House Committee on Elections began public hearings on a bill urged to eliminate "local rotten spots that affect statewide races."

That suggestion came from Dean Abner V. McCall of the Baylor University law school, hairman of the state election law commission. The House committee's first hearing yesterday indicated a fight is ahead for a provision giving the attorney general power to investigate election frauds.

The committee began study of the 97-page recodification of the election laws. It include approximately 90 changes in the present laws, including one that would take the ceiling off campaign spending but require candidates to publish names and amounts given by contributors.

The revision was the combined product of the commission headed by Dean McCall and of House subcommittees. The elections committee will continue public hearing on it next Wednesday.

Brotherhood Meeting At Westbrook Church

The Mitchell - Scurry County Association of the Baptist Brotherhood will hold its regular bi-monthly meeting tomorrow night at the Westbrook Baptist Church, 10 miles west of Colorado City, C. E. McGaw, president, announced today.

Guest speaker at the meeting will be Ivy Boggs, of Dallas, president of the Baptist Brotherhood of Texas. The program will also include reports from Brotherhood groups throughout the association, special music, and a business session. Snyder members will meet at the First Baptist Church Friday afternoon at 6:30 o'clock and leave together.

Rites Today for Infant

Graveside rites were held at the Snyder Cemetery at 11 o'clock this morning for Thomas Jay Metcalf, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Metcalf, of Snyder.

Born March 3, the child died yesterday at the Snyder Hospital. Services were held under the direction of Bolger - Barnes Funeral Home with the Rev. O. C. Floyd, pastor of the Primitive Baptist Church, officiating.

Besides his parents, he is survived by three brothers: Edgar Lee Metcalf, Juneau, Alaska; Richard Terry Metcalf, Snyder; and Ronald Allen Metcalf, Snyder; and three sisters: Patsy Ruth Samford, Margaret Ann Metcalf, and Jayne Metcalf, all of Snyder.

Man Being Held Here On Forgery Charge

Snyder police yesterday arrested Thomas Grady Malone, 42 who gave his address as a hotel in Snyder, on a felony warrant sent here from Dallas County.

The warrant said that Malone and another man not yet in custody, were wanted in connection with forgery and passing a forged instrument, Chester Bairrington, police chief said.

Both Malone and the other man named in the warrant have been in Snyder, but it is thought that the other man has left here, Bairrington, said.

Malone is being held in city jail awaiting officers from Dallas.

Report McCabe Resigns

PHILADELPHIA, March 15. (AP)—Thomas B. McCabe has resigned as chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, the Evening Bulletin said today.

The newspaper reported McCabe's resignation "is in President Truman's office awaiting action."

McCabe plans to return to private life in his old post as president of the Scott Paper Co. of Chester, the Bulletin said.

Legion Post Cites Progress On Organization's Birthday

Thirty-two years ago today, a special order went out of Gen. John J. Pershing's headquarters at Chaumont, France, permitting the formation of a veterans' organization for World War I.

Delegates from practically all units of the American Expeditionary Force met in Paris, and following the first caucus, the birth of the American Legion was formed

MARK DATE

Today throughout most parts of the world, Legionnaires are celebrating the thirty - second anniversary of the Legion with banquets and membership drives.

No celebration has been planned for Layne-Kite Post, No. 181, in Snyder, according to Hilton Lamfirst post commander.

"But we are enjoying the distinction of having the largest membership since our post was formed here in 1920, with 306 paid up 1951 members," said Lambert.

Following World War I, veterans in Scurry County banded together and elected Harrie Winston as the first post commander.

Through the courtesy of Harry Lee, long-time member of the American Legion, a list of the charter members of the Snyder post was obtained. They include the following (several deceased):

Clyde Boren, Wayne Boren, P. M. Bowden, James V. Curnutte, Will Cooper, Frank Darby, Clifton Doak, Fred Doak, Lawrence Godley, Ralph Henderson, Carol Henderson, Mark Johnston, Porter King, Victor Longbotham, Milton Merrill, LeRoy McMillan, A. C. Preuitt, Lee Stinson, J. N. Patterson, Loy Ramsour, Eugene Roberts, Robert Strayhorn, Roy Strayhorn, Cliff Smith, Glen Smith, Jim Templeton, Rankin Thompson, C. M. Williams, Bennie Waskom, Mr. Harrington, W. H. Morrow, Willie Wilson, George Johnson, and Tate. Walter Lockhart, and Winston.

Other early members of the Legion included Frank Arnett, Harry Lee, Bill Nichols, J. E. Senteil, Jess Rogers, Boss Baze, Fowler Mathis, J. E. Shipp, George Brown, Forest Sears, and Sam Nation, according to Stinson.

PRAISES ROLE

"The American Legion has always played an important part in the betterment of the community since it was organized," said Stinson, who has been post commander twice.

The post was named Will Layne post following its organization, as he was the first Scurry County man to die in the service of his county in World War I.

It was not until July 21, 1949, that the name was changed to Layne-Kite Post, in honor of T. J. Kite, who was the first Scurry County man to die in service in World War II.

Names of post commanders, except that of Winston back to 1938, were not available from the post records. Commanders since that year include the following: From 1938 to 1940, A. B. Baze; 1940-41, Henry Rosenberg; Boss Baze, re-elected, 1941-42; J. J. Dyer, 1942-43; Lee Stinson, 1943-44; Elmer Taylor, 1944-45; Walla Fish, 1945-46; O. L. Hammitt, 1947-48; Joe Robinson, 1948-49; Dr. Donald K. Ratliff, 1949-50.

The present officers of the post are Hilton Lambert, commander; Marvin Hanback, vice-commander; George Killam, Jr., adjutant; Wilbur Ellis, finance officer; Bill King, chaplain; Porter King, historian; Lewis Gore, sergeant-at-arms, and Marcel Josephson, service officer.

The post was incorporated under the state laws of Texas, on Dec. 13, 1939, as the Will Layne post, No. 181, by the following directors: Henry Rosenberg, Warren Dodson, C. M. Boren, Ernest Taylor, Elmer Louder, C. Wedgeworth, and C. V. Thompson.

CLUBHOUSE

Today the post owns its own beautiful clubhouse jointly with the V.F.W. post, and this spot is the center of all veterans activities in this area.

At the post meeting Monday, it voted to lease a portion of its plot of ground to the Scurry County 4-H club for housing its livestock exhibits, at a nominal sum, as one of its community projects, according to Killam.

Silver stars for signing up 11 members before last Nov. 11 have been awarded to the following members by the Texas Department of the American Legion: Wilbur Ellis, Hilton Lambert, George Killam, Jr., Marcel Josephson, Jim Norred, Frank Stephenson, and Ben F. Brooks. Ellis was also given a gold star for signing up 50 members prior to Dec. 31.

The post yesterday received a Distinguished Service Citation, awarded by the national department organizations, for having enrolled on Nov. 30, 1950, a 1951 membership exceeding the average membership of the post for the previous four years.

Jet Scientist Faces Perjury

NEW YORK, March 15. (AP) — A jet propulsion scientist was accused of perjury today in connection with the atom bomb spy case on trial in federal court.

The expert, William Perl, 32-year-old Columbia University physics instructor, was called to face a federal indictment.

The government charged he lied when he told a grand jury that he was not acquainted with two of the spy trial defendants and other persons connected with the case.

The indictment was connected with the case of three persons accused of wartime conspiracy to spy for Russia.

The defendants, who could be sentenced to death if convicted are: Julius Rosenberg, 32, electrical engineer; his wife, Ethel, 35; and Morton Sobell, 33, radar expert.

The principal witness against the Rosenbergs and Sobell has been Mrs. Rosenberg's brother, David Greenglass, 29, who was an Army sergeant at the Los Alamos, N M., atomic bomb project.

Iran To Take Over Nation's Oil Resources

TEHRAN, Iran, March 15. (AP) — Iran's parliament unanimously approved today a proposal to nationalize all the nation's oil resources including the wells of the huge British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Co.

By a standing vote the majlis (parliament) confirmed them, decision of a special parliamentary oil commission endorsing nationalization and gave the commission another two months in which to work out specific details.

Some deputies said there still was a slim possibility that actual nationalization might be averted by negotiations between the Anglo-Iranian Co. and the government. But the vote today put parliament on record as approving the take-over.

(A British foreign office spokesman in London, noting the oil commission had been given two months to work out nationalization details said "nothing is likely to happen immediately." He indicated Britain feels Iran does not have the skilled technical men needed to operate the company. A spokesman for the oil company in London declined immediate comment.)

The vote was the climax of growing anti-British demonstrations in recent months. It came one week to the day after Premier Ali Razmara, who opposed nationalization was assassinated by a Moslem fanatic who accused the premier of selling the country to foreigners.

(A British government spokesman in London yesterday told the house of lords that the Anglo-Iranian's present agreement with the Iran government does not expire until 1993. The British government, he said, had been advised that under the agreement's terms, the company's operations "cannot be legally terminated by the unilateral action of the Persian government.)

Winter Still In East

By The Associated Press

The winter season was in its final week and still kicking up a fuss over the eastern half of the country.

Snow had ended in most of the midwest — after five days—but there were light falls around the Ohio Valley and the lower Great Lakes region. Rain doused areas in the North Atlantic states.

Car Turns Over North Of Here Yesterday

Keith McFall, 24, Lubbock, had a narrow escape from death yesterday afternoon, when a wheel of a 1938 Plymouth, which he was towing to Abilene, came off about four miles out of the Post highway.

The Plymouth was demolished, and the 1949 Ford McFall was driving was damaged considerably, according to Charles Youngblood and O. O. Devers, deputy sheriff, who investigated the accident.

The Plymouth turned over several times, said the officers. McFall was badly shaken up but did not need hospital attention.

Pinkie Chase Is Instigated

By The Associated Press

AUSTIN, March 15. — House members today demanded an investigation of a University of Texas economics professor accused of advocating socialism.

They adopted a resolution demanding the check by a 130-1 vote after almost two hours of debate. Rep. John Barnhart of Beeville voted against it.

Rep. Marshall Bell of San Antonio named the professor as Dr Clarence E. Ayres. He called him "an educational termite."

Bell introduced a resolution asking the chancellor, president and board of regents of the university to check on the charges and advise the House within 10 days if they intend to continue Dr. Ayres' contract.

Bell read from articles in the Daily Texan, University newspaper which he said reported speeches in which Dr. Ayres said that the system of free enterprise was decadent.

Members crowded around the microphone to support Bell.

Some said privately that the long questions and speeches were delaying tactics to prevent two bills from coming up today. They are a measure giving the state banking commission broader powers and one providing that surplus highway funds be used to issue bonds to finance farm-to-market roads.

Dry Hole in Runnels

Hill & Hill, Inc., of Fort Worth have plugged and abandoned its No. 1 D. J. Kirkman, West-Central Runnels County wildcat.

It drilled to total depth of 5,515 feet in an unreported formation No. shows of possible production were reported.

Location was 467 feet from north and 3,100 feet from west lines of Burnet County School Land survey No. 271. That made it 11½ miles southwest of Winters.

5 Per Centers In Spot Light

WASHINGTON, March 15. (AP) — Sen. Nixon (R-Calif) declared today a federal employee described as President Truman's very good friend apparently "used his White House entree" to push a bid for a government loan.

Nixon said he will continue to insist that a Senate committee investigating "influence peddling" get to the bottom of the matter. The government worker's boss promised to help.

The committee, meanwhile, took behind closed doors for a few days its inquiry into the activities of "five percenters" who trade on influence in the defense contract field. Sen. Hoey (D-NC), the chairman, said the committee staff needs time to study "several tips and leads" regarding such activities.

The five percenter term has come to be applied to influence men who charge a fee, often five per cent for help in getting government contracts for others.

The federal employee to whom Nixon referred is Joseph Major who works for the General Services Administration (GSA). That is one of the government's biggest purchasing agencies.

Officers Attend Meet Held in Midland

Lloyd Merritt, sheriff, and Bill Zimmerman, highway patrolman, attented the West Texas peace officers conference held at Midland yesterday, which attracted about 150 officers from the Southwest.

Chief features on the all-day program were talks by Glenn McLaughlin, identification officer for the Texas Department of Safety, and Jack Ellington, chief of police, Midland.

Training Camp Notes

By The Associated Press

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 15. — Casey Stengel, manager of the New York Yankees, is impressed with the play of Rookie Third Baseman Gil McDougald.

McDougald, most valuable player in the Texas League last season has played every inning in the Yanks four exhibition games. He hit safely in every game for a .325 average.

Stengel is looking at the youngster with much concern, since one of his regular third basemen, Bobby Brown, may not be available this season.

BRADENTON, Fla., March 15. — Warren Spahn seems to be recovering from his first sore arm. The Boston Braves' lefthanded pitcher hurled 10 minutes of batting practice yesterday.

Today the Braves play a "home game" against the St. Louis Cardinals. Manager Billy Southworth list his pitchers as Charlie Gorin, Art Fowler and Bob Chipman.

ORLANDO, Fla., March 15.—The Detroit Tigers would like very much to forget a game they won from the St. Louis Cardinals yesterday.

Moving here today for a contest with the Washington Senators, the Tigers couldn't find much cause for elation over their 10-8 victory at St. Petersburg.

Although victorious, the Detroiters did just about everything wrong—made misplays, hit into three double plays and saw pitchers Hank Borowy and Earl Johnson pummeled for 10 hits and eight runs in five frames.

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 15. — The New York Giants will send Larry Jansen against the Philadelphia Phillies today in a bid to even the spring training series with the National League champions.

Opposing Jansen will be Ken Heintzelman, the Phils lefty.

The Phils beat the Giants yesterday, 7-6, on successive home runs by Eddie Waitkus and Richie Ashburn.

PASADENA, Calif., March 15.—Bob Feller, the No. 2 Bob in terms of money on Cleveland's roster, will try to show Manager Al Lopez today that he's worth his fancy salary, too.

The Indians' No. 1 Bob — Bob Lemon—put on a pretty good show for Lopez his first time out yesterday. Against the Pittsburgh Pirates, he hit a two-run homer to make up for the two runs he allowed in four innings.

Feller, who, like Lemon, makes around $50,000, pitches his first game of the season this afternoon against the Chicago White Sox.

MIAMI, Fla., March 15. — Manager Luke Sewell hasn't started chewing his fingernails in desperation yet, but it may come soon—the Cincinnati Reds' batting punch is getting weaker by the game.

Joe Hatten and Carl Erskine held the Rhinelanders to four hits last night as the Brooklyn Dodgers licked them, 3 to 2.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., March 15. —The St. Louis Browns planned another long workout today in the hope of breaking their losing streak.

The Browns face the Chicago White Sox again Friday at Los Angeles. The Sox worried over St. Louis pitching for a 10-2 victory yesterday.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla, March 15. — Talk of the possible sale or trade of St. Louis Cardinal Pitcher Howard Pollet cropped up again today.

Pollet won't come here to meet with Club Owner Fred Saigh. He said he will stay in Houston, Tex., until he gets terms that are satisfactory.

Saigh said previously he won't change his mind about cutting Pollet's salary for last year by 25 per cent.

SAN BERNARDINO, March 15. —It would be a fairly safe bet today that Ralph Kiner has seen the last of the outfield.

He's just a natural born glove man, that's all," beamed Manager Billy Meyer after watching the big star scoop a low throw out of the dirt.

"I've said all along that if Zeke Bonura could lead the National League in fielding at first base, Ralph can play it good enough to suit me," Meyer added.

"We need badly to move him over there so we can get some more power into the outfield, and Ralph is willing to do anything that will help. He's a team man."

Kiner is going to try it for at least two weeks in exhibition games, and then a decision will be made.

Texas History Written in Brands

BY JOHN M. HENDRIX

The 66 was used by C. W. Word in Clay, Archer, and Wichita Counties from 1886 to 1898. Word was associated with Val Dickey and Luke Wilson in a ranch of 100,000 acres with about 25,000 head of cattle. Word was prominent in early days on the Panhandle ranches and was also associated with James Bugbee and others in several Colo Rock ranches and was known as a big operator throughout the '70's.

The 66 brand was also used by J. G. Mabry in Caldwell and other counties before the Civil War. The brand has also been used by a number of old-time South Texas cattlemen, and in 1936 was still in use by E. A. Roebuck of Lockhart, Texas.

Princess Elizabeth's Audience With Pope Fought By Protestants

LONDON, March 15. (AP)—A Protestant group campaigned today to prevent Princess Elizabeth visiting Pope Pius XII when she goes to Rome next month.

A similar campaign by the same group—the National Union of Protestants, numbering some 20,000 members — did not deter Princess Margaret from calling on the Pontiff when she went to Rome in 1949.

There has been no public announcement that Elizabeth would visit the Pope, but reports predicting such a call have been carried in the British press.

The Protestant union drew up a resolution yesterday declaring that it would be "dangerous to the safety of the British empire" if the princess were to visit the Pope.

"The union believes it is unconstitutional for a prospective British monarch to have an audience with the Pope," the resolution said.

Price Of Eggs Up 1-4 Cents

By The Associated Press

Retail egg prices rose one to four cents a dozen in many stores this week, while several fresh vegetables were a little lower as shipments from southern and southwestern growing areas increased.

Otherwise the general food price level appeared to be holding about unchanged from last week end. Most meat, poultry and dairy products were steady.

Spokesmen for large egg distributors attributed the slowly rising egg prices to lively consumer demand.

MORE EGGS

"People must be buying more eggs because of high meat prices, for there certainly are plenty of eggs around," one market authority said.

Heavy buying of poultry, particularly broiling and frying chickens, also was said to reflect the competitive price situation.

Lower-priced in most produce bins this week are grapefruit, lima beans, beets, cabbage, carrots, onions, squash, sweet potatoes and tomatoes. Grapes, pears and celery were generally a little higher.

RESTAURANTS

The Office of Price Stabilization announced this week that restaurant prices will go under a new control order at the beginning of April. Eating places must then base their menu prices on food costs per dollar of sales during one of two base periods — either the calendar year 1949 or the 12 months ending last June 30 (the restaurant may choose which one).

The Agriculture Department reported that consumers spent an average of 5.6 per cent of their disposable incomes (after charges like taxes) for meats in 1950. If consumers follow that same general spending pattern this year, and don't try to buy a lot more meat because other goods are scarcer, then meat prices may drop below ceiling levels during periods of heavy seasonal supply, the report indicated.

Fish Killing Red Tide Is Reported To Be Nearing Florida Again

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 15. (AP) — The "red tide" which killed millions of fish along the lower Florida west coast four years ago has been reported again.

This time the site is near the lower Gulf coast of Mexico, however, several hundred miles from Florida.

Early Wiggins, veteran Fort Myers commercial fisherman, said he saw a 35-mile wide stretch of the reddish water about 70 miles northeast of Yucatan.

Scientists said the "tide" was a host of tiny organisms which choked fish to death by using up all the oxygen in the water. They are still trying to find why these organisms, always present in small numbers, suddenly appeared in such multitudes.

Rhumba Romeo Asked To Duel

CALI, Colombia, March 15. (AP) — Xavier Cugat, Romeo of the rhumba circuit, has been challenged to a duel by an irate Colombian journalist.

The newsman, Herman Mateus Becerra of the Bogota newspaper El Tiempo, declared his honor has been impugned because Cugat denied a story he wrote declaring the band leader and his current heart theme, Singer Abbe Lane, were off the beat.

The dispatch also gave details of the divorce suit which Cugat's present wife has brought against him.

Cugat, ruffled by the story, wired El Tiempo that Becerra had disgraced the newspaper profession. He added that he and Abbe were still in close harmony.

The journalist promptly telegraphed Cugat that the denial was an aggravation that requires satisfaction on the field of honor" and would the band leader please name his seconds.

There has been no response from Cugat yet, nor has anything been said about what weapons would be used.

The HIT was designated by William Hitson in 1860 and was used in Palo Pinto, Stephens, and Stonewall Counties. In 1886 there were 40,000 cattle under the HIT brand on 160 sections of land. The brand was also used by Jess Hitson in Stonewall County in the '80s and '90s. The Hitsons were among the first to ranch in the Double Mountain country in 1877.

The brand was also registered in Comal County in 1883 by George Reininger and was later used by him in Brewster County on San Francisco Creek.

Training Camp Notes

By The Associated Press

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 15. — Casey Stengel, manager of the New York Yankees, is impressed with the play of Rookie Third Baseman Gil McDougald.

McDougald, most valuable player in the Texas League last season has played every inning in the Yanks four exhibition games. He hit safely in every game for a .325 average.

Stengel is looking at the youngster with much concern, since one of his regular third basemen, Bobby Brown, may not be available this season.

BRADENTON, Fla., March 15. — Warren Spahn seems to be recovering from his first sore arm. The Boston Braves' lefthanded pitcher hurled 10 minutes of batting practice yesterday.

Today the Braves play a "home game" against the St. Louis Cardinals. Manager Billy Southworth list his pitchers as Charlie Gorin, Art Fowler and Bob Chipman.

ORLANDO, Fla., March 15.—The Detroit Tigers would like very much to forget a game they won from the St. Louis Cardinals yesterday.

Moving here today for a contest with the Washington Senators, the Tigers couldn't find much cause for elation over their 10-8 victory at St. Petersburg.

Although victorious, the Detroiters did just about everything wrong —made misplays, hit into three double plays and saw pitchers Hank Borowy and Earl Johnson pummeled for 10 hits and eight runs in five frames.

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 15. — The New York Giants will send Larry Jansen against the Philadelphia Phillies today in a bid to even the spring training series with the National League champions.

Opposing Jansen will be Ken Heintzelman, the Phils lefty.

The Phils beat the Giants yesterday, 7-6, on successive home runs by Eddie Waitkus and Richie Ashburn.

PASADENA, Calif., March 15.—Bob Feller, the No. 2 Bob in terms of money on Cleveland's roster, will try to show Manager Al Lopez today that he's worth his fancy salary, too.

The Indians' No. 1 Bob — Bob Lemon—put on a pretty good show for Lopez his first time out yesterday. Against the Pittsburgh Pirates, he hit a two-run homer to make up for the two runs he allowed in four innings.

Feller, who, like Lemon, makes around $50,000, pitches his first game of the season this afternoon against the Chicago White Sox.

MIAMI, Fla., March 15. — Manager Luke Sewell hasn't started chewing his fingernails in desperation yet, but it may come soon—the Cincinnati Reds' batting punch is getting weaker by the game.

Joe Hatten and Carl Erskine held the Rhinelanders to four hits last night as the Brooklyn Dodgers licked them, 3 to 2.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., March 15. —The St. Louis Browns planned another long workout today in the hope of breaking their losing streak.

The Browns face the Chicago White Sox again Friday at Los Angeles. The Sox worried over St. Louis pitching for a 10-2 victory yesterday.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla, March 15. — Talk of the possible sale or trade of St. Louis Cardinal Pitcher Howard Pollet cropped up again today.

Pollet won't come here to meet with Club Owner Fred Saigh. He said he will stay in Houston, Tex., until he gets terms that are satisfactory.

Saigh said previously he won't change his mind about cutting Pollet's salary for last year by 25 per cent.

SAN BERNARDINO, March 15. —It would be a fairly safe bet today that Ralph Kiner has seen the last of the outfield.

"I've said all along that if Zeke Bonura could lead the National League in fielding at first base, Ralph can play it good enough to suit me," Meyer added.

"We need badly to move him over there so we can get some more power into the outfield, and Ralph is willing to do anything that will help. He's a team man."

Kiner is going to try it for at least two weeks in exhibition games, and then a decision will be made.

Texas History Written in Brands

BY JOHN M. HENDRIX

The 66 was used by C. W. Word in Clay, Archer, and Wichita Counties from 1886 to 1898. Word was associated with Val Dickey and Luke Wilson in a ranch of 100,000 acres with about 25,000 head of cattle. Word was prominent in early days on the Panhandle ranches and was also associated with James Burchee and others in several Cow Creek ranches and was known as a big operator throughout the '80s.

The 66 brand was also used by J. G. Mabry in Caldwell and other counties before the Civil War. The brand has also been used by a number of old-time South Texas cattlemen, and in 1906 was still in use by E. A. Roebuck of Lockhart, Texas.

Princess Elizabeth's Audience With Pope Fought By Protestants

LONDON, March 15. (AP)—A Protestant group campaigned today to prevent Princess Elizabeth, visiting Pope Pius XII when she goes to Rome next month.

A similar campaign by the same group—the National Union of Protestants, numbering some 20,000 members — did not deter Princess Margaret from calling on the Pontiff when she went to Rome in 1949.

There has been no public announcement that Elizabeth would visit the Pope, but reports predicting such a call have been carried in the British press.

The Protestant union drew up a resolution yesterday declaring that it would be "dangerous to the safety of the British empire" if the princess were to visit the Pope.

"The union believes it is unconstitutional for a prospective British monarch to have an audience with the Pope," the resolution said.

Price Of Eggs Up 1-4 Cents

By The Associated Press

Retail egg prices rose one to four cents a dozen in many stores this week, while several fresh vegetables were a little lower as shipments from southern and southwestern growing areas increased.

Otherwise the general food price level appeared to be holding about unchanged from last week end. Most meat, poultry and dairy products were steady.

Spokesmen for large egg distributors attributed the slowly rising egg prices to lively consumer demand.

MORE EGGS

"People must be buying more eggs because of high meat prices, for there certainly are plenty of eggs around," one market authority said.

Heavy buying of poultry, particularly broiling and frying chickens, also was said to reflect the competitive price situation.

Lower-priced in most produce bins this week are grapefruit, lima beans, beets, cabbage, carrots, onions, squash, sweet potatoes and tomatoes. Grapes, pears and celery were generally a little higher.

RESTAURANTS

The Office of Price Stabilization announced this week that restaurant prices will go under a new control order at the beginning of April. Eating places must then base their menu prices on food costs per dollar of sales during one of two base periods — either the calendar year 1949 or the 12 months ending last June 30 (the restaurant may choose which one).

The Agriculture Department reported that consumers spent an average of 5.6 per cent of their disposable incomes (after charges like taxes) for meats in 1950. If consumers follow that same general spending pattern this year, and don't try to buy a lot more meat because other goods are scarcer, then meat prices may drop below ceiling levels during periods of heavy seasonal supply, the report indicated.

Fish Killing Red Tide Is Reported To Be Nearing Florida Again

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 15. (AP) — The "red tide" which killed millions of fish along the lower Florida west coast four years ago has been reported again.

This time the site is near the lower Gulf coast of Mexico, however, several hundred miles from Florida.

Early Wiggins, veteran Fort Myers commercial fisherman, said he saw a 35-mile wide stretch of the reddish water about 70 miles northeast of Yucatan.

Scientists said the "tide" was a host of tiny organisms which choked fish to death by using up all the oxygen in the water. They are still trying to find why these organisms, always present in small numbers, suddenly appeared in such multitudes.

Rhumba Romeo Asked To Duel

CALI, Colombia, March 15. (AP) — Xavier Cugat, Romeo of the rhumba circuit, has been challenged to a duel by an irate Colombian journalist.

The newsman, Herman Mateus Becerra of the Bogota newspaper El Tiempo, declared his honor has been impugned because Cugat denied a story he wrote declaring the band leader and his current heart theme, Singer Abbe Lane, were off the beat.

The dispatch also gave details about the divorce suit which Cugat's present wife has brought against him.

Cugat, ruffled by the story, wired El Tiempo that Becerra had disgraced the newspaper profession. He added that he and Abbe were still in close harmony.

The journalist promptly telegraphed Cugat that the denial was "an aggravation that requires satisfaction on the field of honor" and would the band leader please name his seconds.

There has been no response from Cugat yet, nor has anything been said about what weapons would be used.

HIT

BY JOHN M. HENDRIX

The HIT was designated by William Hitson in 1860 and was used in Palo Pinto, Stephens, and Stonewall Counties. In 1886 there were 40,000 cattle under the HIT brand on 160 sections of land. The brand was also used by Jess Hitson in Stonewall County in the '80s and '90s. The Hitsons were among the first to ranch in the Double Mountain country in 1877.

The brand was also registered in Comal County in 1883 by George Reininger and was later used by him in Brewster County on San Francisco Creek.

Rescue Six On Iceberg Base

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, March 15. (AP) — Six Air Force men were snatched to safety from their floating camp site 130 miles north of the tip of Alaska in the Arctic Ocean Monday, the Alaskan Air Command disclosed today.

A big grinding iceberg which looked like its nickname — Cathedral — was blamed.

The huge floe on which the experimental air rescue station had been established on Feb. 20 was threatened as the iceberg started breaking away ice at the rate of a foot an hour.

HUTS DAMAGED

Some of the Jamesway huts used as homes on the floating island had been damaged before a ski and wheel equipped C-47 transport plane picked up the men and took them to Barter Island, on the North Alaska coast, thence here.

Capt. M. F. Brinegar, commander of the experimental station said Sunday the icepack and the iceberg began to overlap, with huge chunks being broken off.

TWO EARLIER

Two of the eight stationed there had been flown out earlier on a resupply mission. Personnel stationed at the "Polar Air Force Base" included:

Brinegar, from Falls City, Neb. and Houston, Tex. and Lt. Jesse F. Charbula, Port Lavaca, Tex.

The Air Force did not disclose which six were the last to be plucked from their frigid floe.

The station was not primarily for weather observation but an experiment to determine the feasibility of establishing a semi-permanent rescue station in the polar area.

City Still Seeking 3 Full-time Firemen As Volunteers Man Trucks

Several persons have inquired about the positions open in the city fire department, but no one has been hired, W. J. Ramsey city superintendent, said today.

Bill Brown and E. L. Cole, two volunteer firemen, manned the station last night, but did not receive any fire calls, G. L. Autry, paid fireman, said.

Autry and Albert K. Smith are scheduled to man the station tonight, and Joe Watson is scheduled to be on duty with Autry Friday night.

Ramsey said that delivery of a new fire truck ordered about three months ago is expected within the next 90 days.

With its arrival and with the completion of a new sub-station and an addition to the present fire station at the city hall, at least five paid firemen will be necessary, Ramsey said.

"But we plan to hire only three now, making a total of four paid firemen," he said.

Bratton Gets By Fusari With A Split Decision In Chicago

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, March 15. — The NBA's brand new welterweight champion, Cinderella Kid Johnny Bratton, has a tentative May 4 date to defend his title against Cuba's Kid Gavilan at New York's Madison Square Garden.

But it will be a long time before clout-and-cruise Bratton forgets the bloody 15-round battle with game-to-the-core Charlie Fusari which gave him Sugar Ray Robinson's vacated crown at Chicago Stadium last night.

SPARSE CROWD

A sparse stadium crowd of 6,954 and millions who viewed it on television saw Bratton gain a split decision over Fusari.

The fight appeared finished when Bratton, a cute clipper who fights in spurts, whistled a right that knocked Fusari flat on his back in the 10th round. But Fusari rolled over, clutched onto the referee's shirt and hauled himself to his feet at the count of nine.

The gross gate was $42,021.90. The crowd was held down by rain and snow — as well as television. Of the net take of $32,325.52, Bratton and Fusari each collected 27½ per cent, or $8,899, plus $1,500 television fee.

Although Bratton ran out of gas after flooring Fusari in the fourth round for a four count and almost ending the fight in the tenth, it was a great night for the 23-year-old Chicago Negro.

Twice previously, in the same ring, Bratton had his jaw broken—by Beau Jack and Ike Williams—and until late last year appeared headed for boxing's limbo.

BAD TIMING

Fusari paid dearly for five months of idleness. It was his first bout since he had stopped Tony Pellone at the Chicago Stadium last October. His timing was bad, and although he had Bratton in trouble frequently, he never could get a left-right combination going.

But on gameness the 25-year-old Irvington, N. J. fighter was the champion of the evening. It was sheer courage and grit that enabled him to carry the fight to Bratton in the closing rounds.

Both men weighed 146¼ pounds.

Although the sponsoring International Boxing Club must await the outcome of the Gavilan-Gene Hairston fight at New York March 30 before setting the Gavilan-Braton title affair will be held at Madison Square Garden on May 4.

Elliott Plans To Wed Today

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 15 (AP) — Elliott Roosevelt, second son of the late president, takes Mrs Minnewa Bell Ross, California heiress, as his bride today.

Dade (Miami) County Circuit Judge George E. Holt will perform the brief ceremony at 10:30 a.m (EST) in Mrs. Ross' home on fashionable Sunset Island. It will be the fourth marriage for each.

Mrs. Ross, 39, was divorced Monday in Key West from Dr. Rex L. Ross, Jr., physician and surgeon of Santa Monica, Calif.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt is not expected to attend the ceremony Guests are expected to be only Mr. and Mrs. John Roosevelt; Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Karden, Elliott's hosts and Mrs. Red L. Ross, the bride's mother-in-law until her divoree.

CUBAN HONEYMOON

The couple will leave Miami at 3:50 p.m. (EST) for the one hour flight to Cuba where they will spend a three-day honeymoon. Mr. and Mrs. John Roosevelt will accompany them.

Mrs. Ross is the daughter of the late Alphonzo Bell, millionaire founder of the Bel-Air district and original developer of the Santa Fe Springs oil fields in California. The family has considerable property in Southern California and Colorado.

Mrs. Ross is a graduate of the Marlborough School for Girls and the Sarah Lawrence College in New York. Her first husband was Miles Robert Gray, head of a shirt manufacturing company, whom she married in 1932. They separated two years later and in 1938 she married William Hamilton Burnside, British-born film agent.

Barbara Hutton Not Divorced

MEXICO CITY, March 15. (AP) — Barbara Hutton, wan and disappointed, arranged to leave Mexico tonight after losing her try for a quick divorce.

Whether she will keep on trying to divorce Prince Igor Troubetskoy, or will seek some other solution to her troubles was a question. Friends reported she had not decided on her next move.

She appeared to have three choices — to continue the fight in Cuernavaca court, to file suit in some other country (her husband's lawyers say that is impossible while the Cuernavaca action is pending), or to arrange with the prince for an uncontested divorce.

It was Prince Igor's objection which blocked her efforts to divorce him — her fourth husband — with speed and secrecy. He was notified by posting of the divorce plea on the courthouse bulletin board. His attorneys learned of the plea and attacked the validity of the suit.

Industrialist Believed Dead

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., March 15. (AP) — David Roth, a leading Benton Harbor industrialist, was believed trapped early today in the fire that destroyed his palatial lake shore home and killed his seven-year-old daughter.

Roth, 54-year-old president of Progressive Industries, Inc., dashed back into the burning house to find the child, RuthAnne. Later the Firemen brought out the little girl's body.

Two other daughters, a son, and Roth's housekeeper escaped by leaping from the house. They were Naomi, 13; Mochah, 11; John, Judah, 10, and Mrs. Sevilla White, 57.

The large and impressive stone and wood house was located on a bluff overlooking Lake Michigan about two miles north of here.

Several other big homes are located on the bluff, but the wide expanses of lawn between them kept the flames from threatening.

There was no early explanation of the origin of the fire.

Roth has been a leader in the Zionist movement in Michigan.

Kline Predicts Blacket Market

GREENEVILLE, Tenn., March 15. (AP) — Black markets on a scale never before known may be expected under present price control plans, says a top farm leader.

Allan B. Kline, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, told the Tennessee Burley Tobacco Growers Assn. here yesterday that "you cannot control the millions of prices in a free economy."

A free economy is needed, the Iowa farmer said, for that steady rise in production which hits inflation at its source and at the same time discourages aggression.

"It is the production of the United States and not our Army and Navy which is our first defense," he said.

3 Are Killed In Train Crash Near Detroit

DETROIT, March 15. (AP) — Three persons were killed and more than 30 injured when a southbound New York Central passenger train cracked up at midnight in Suburban Trenton.

An open switch apparently caused the tragedy. Two cars turned over on their sides and three others, including a baggage car, went off the track.

A Michigan State College student's wife and year-old daughter were crushed to death when the cars overturned. They were Mrs. Grace Allan, 25, East Lansing, Mich., and her daughter, Janet. The husband, R. S. Allan, suffered minor injuries.

Rescue workers reported they heard Allan crying, "Grace, Grace, where are you?" And "my wife, my baby, they're under here.

The other person killed was not identified immediately.

Two and a half hours after the crash, state police reported all the injured had been taken to hospitals. About a dozen ambulances and police squad cars were dispatched to the scene.

Police used torches to cut through the twisted wreckage to free the victims.

Assisting them were a carload of enlisted Marines headed for induction. All were on one car and escaped injury. They worked with police and hospital employees. Operations were hampered somewhat by fast-falling rain and snow.

Soldier Tells A Sad Story

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 15. (AP)—Here's the tale of woe Pvt. John Sorensen, a 17-year-old rookie from Duluth, Minn., told the court of general sessions yesterday:

First, he was AWOL from Camp Campbell, Ky. He took a car to drive back to camp, but headed west instead of northeast. Then he drove back to Memphis from Arkansas to get his bearings for another start — and headed south.

When he discovered his error, he returned to Memphis a second time —and ran out of gas looking for a highway leading north.

A man came up to the stalled car, and —wow!—it was the man who owned it, Will H. Medling, who had reported it stolen a few hours earlier.

Medling called police.

Sorensen was charged with larceny of a motor car.

Going In Korea To Be Tougher As Weather Turns For Worse

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON.—Nobody seems to know what the next step is in Korea though within the next four or five weeks the situation there will bring a new climax.

With flying conditions bound to be as bad as the weather takes its seasonal turn for the worse, U. N. ground forces, which have up to now been sufficiently mobile to maneuver effectively against Communist operations, will be handicapped in obtaining supplies by air.

The Communists are building their offensive strength steadily for an expected push that may exceed in intensity anything they have tried thus far. The real tussle is between two methods of supply. The U. N. forces with motor vehicles and planes to supply their needs from day to day can take care of a much larger enemy force by means of superior firepower. But the Red Chinese, re-enforced now by Russian supplies and munitions, are going to find it easier to move southward because of the diminishing effectiveness of our air attack.

U. N. WILL STAY

Well-informed officers returning from Korea will say it is almost impossible from the air to detect the presence of enemy supplies because of the use of camouflage and the fact that most movements are at night. While they are pessimistic about the time it may take to defeat the enemy—some say it is a matter of years rather than months—they are equally positive that the Red Chinese cannot push us off the peninsula.

The general feeling is that a defense line will be stabilized either somewhat north of the 38th Parallel or not far distant from it on the south side. The public prediction by General MacArthur recently that only a "stalemate" can be expected has more significance than was attached to it at the time it was made.

It will be noted that the supreme commander went to the Korean front and there released his prepared statement. He made it clear that unless U. N. troops are permitted to bomb Manchurian bases there was no sense in attempting any further offensive on a large scale to try to drive the enemy back to the Yalu River. He did point out, on the other hand, that the U. N. forces were expecting a terrible toll and that the enemy could not go along indefinitely with heavier and heavier losses and useless destruction of human life.

What the general undoubtedly was hinting at perhaps was the need for some further move to cause the Red Chinese and the Russians to reappraise the situation and prepare to accede to U. N. terms. These must necessarily include the liberation of all Korea and the payment of an indemnity or some other form of penalty for the aggression itself. General MacArthur himself carefully refrains from commenting on what he regards as "political" or "policy" decisions being content merely to point out that the Korean war can go on as it is without achieving any particular military objective unless on some other level the diplomats can persuade the Communists that the adventure is hopeless and might as well be ended now.

VALUABLE LESSON

From the viewpoint of our military leaders, Korea has been valuable in teaching all branches of the armed services some much needed lessons. It has furnished combat training for many new officers and troops who did not see service in World War II. It has awakened the American people to the neglected state of their defenses. It has served notice on Russia that aggression will be resisted anywhere in the world as an obligation of the United Nations charter. It has emphasized, too, that while American resources were drained somewhat in the Far East so also can the Communists be subjected to a heavy drain in materials and supplies—something they cannot as readily afford as can the other members of the U. N.

If the coming offensive should be turned back by midsummer with heavy losses or if the enemy succeeds in pushing our forces back only a few miles and then finds itself stymied until better weather enables U. N. forces to press back the enemy, the hour of decision on a policy basis will be at hand. Again it is far more likely that the Communists will stick it out and that the Korean war will go on indefinitely. As one officer remarked the other day: "It's another Spain."

Chapman Urges Steel Saving In Oil Drilling

WASHINGTON, March 14. (AP) — Secretary of the Interior Chapman has recommended that new oil wells in crowded fields be drilled farther apart in order to save on steel used in drilling equipment.

Chapman, in a statement, listed this yesterday as the key proposal in a four point program for increasing oil and gas yields with a minimum use of tubular goods.

Chapman urged state regulatory bodies to re-examine existing rules governing the spacing of wells, "with a view toward revision to permit drilling new wells farther apart, where practical, and producing more from each well."

Bruce K. Brown, deputy administrator of the Petroleum Administration for Defense (PAD), said state regulatory bodies also will have to adjust the allowable production quotas from individual wells in order to assure operators of fair treatment in the production totals.

Chapman also urged:

1. Increased use of pressure maintenance and re-pressuring operations in oil and gas reservoirs, through operation of reservoirs as single units. He said this would help maintain maximum efficient rates of production and thus would increase ultimate recovery.

2. Careful examination of field rules and existing drilling practices, to reduce requirements for surface and other casing by shortening or eliminating sections of large-diameter pipe; and substituting smaller, lighter pipe.

3. Greater use of so-called dual completions—the tapping of two or more petroleum reservoirs with a single well bore.

The National Production Authority (NPA) Monday issued order M-46, setting up a priority system for materials for the industry, and authorizing PAD to regulate the distribution of tubular goods.

NPA has ordered the production of 157,500 tons of oil-industry tubular goods during April.

Nat King Cole's House Seized By Government For Delinquent Taxes

LOS ANGELES, March 15. (AP) — Internal revenue agents have seized Musician Nat (King) Cole's $85,000 residence for non-payment of $146,000 in taxes covering 1947-48-49.

The seizure was effected yesterday, and the agents also confiscated Cole's big sedan.

Internal Revenue Collector Robert A. Riddell said Cole had been given numerous extensions of time to pay the delinquent taxes. Cole in Philadelphia, said he is coming to Los Angeles next Monday and hopes to straighten out the matter after conferring with his lawyer, Joseph N. Ross. He said he needs more time to pay the entire amount.

Neighbors protested when Cole bought the house in the Hancock Park region in 1948, but when the U. S. Supreme Court outlawed race-restricting covenants the protests died.

Everybody Has Stake in Fight Over Government Securities

By SAM DAWSON
(Associated Press Staff)

NEW YORK, March 14.—Peace scares in the stock and commodity markets and deflation jitters in the government bond market have the financial community on edge this week.

But even if you own no stocks, sell no grain, and own no marketable government securities, you have a stake in the inflation-delfation struggle these markets reflect.

Your stake in the jockeying to see what will be the new price and yield for treasury bonds is this: The government securities involved are those in which are invested portions of the funds of insurance companies, workers pension funds, and bank deposits. It may be your money that is being invested.

ALL HAVE STAKE

Indirectly, holders of government savings bonds are involved, too. These bonds are not marketable and their market value is not at stake. But if inflation can be halted, the purchasing-power value of these "E" bonds will be enhanced. Their dollar value remains the same, and is not involved in the price drop of other government bonds.

In recent days the pegs have been pulled out from under the marketable treasury bonds. They have been allowed to fall below par for the first time since 1939. The avowed purpose of the federal reserve board in pulling out the pegs is to curb inflation and reverse the trend that has been trimming buying power from your dollar.

The very existence of these treasury bonds has been a main cause of inflation. They represent the huge national debt, and on these government securities has been built a pyramid of credit.

FRB ARGUMENT

The federal reserve argument is this: As long as it pegged these government securities at par or better, the banks, trust funds, insurance companies and other holders always knew that they could unload at a high price a large part of their bond holdings any time they wanted to do some large-scale lending to business and individuals at higher interest returns.

Now the federal reserve is not saying at what price it will buy these bonds, although it is pledged to support the treasury securities if necessary to maintain an orderly market. The federal reserve wants to keep people guessing. It doesn't want holders of government bonds to know what price they can depend upon if they want to unload U. S. bonds and make business loans.

ONE WAY

So traders are doing their own guessing. Here is one way some of them figure it: The treasury has offered to exchange its forthcoming 2¾ per cent issue for outstanding 2½ per cent treasury bonds. Investment houses figure that to equal the 2¾ per cent yield the new bonds will offer, other outstanding long-term treasury issues would have to fall to $97 or below. That is, if you bought one of the olds bonds at that figure its interest rate would mean a yield of 2¾ per cent.

Traders are busily testing out their theories now The federal reserve isn't telling at what point it will support the treasury bonds, but apparently it no longer considers par value as a sacred limit which cannot be crossed.

Cohen Claims He Is Broke

LOS ANGELES, March 15. (AP) — Mickey Cohen won't name names, but he says his one-time associate, Frank Niccoli, was slain in 1949 by a Cleveland gangster.

This was Cohen's follow-up after losing in the appellate court his fight to keep from paying the $50,000 he guaranteed for Niccoli's appearance at an assault conspiracy trial here.

Cohen told newsmen he'll have to sell his "radar-controlled" Brentwood home to make good the bond. He says he has been "cleaned out" and that he had more money when he was a youngster selling papers.

Cohen lost another $25,000 when Dave Ogul, also an associate, disappeared and didn't stand trial. He's still missing.

Cohen told a reporter that Niccoli was "set up" for the killing by "one of his very good friends."

Texas History Written in Brands

BY JOHN M. HENDRIX

The T Fork was run on a ranch in Baylor County and possibly extended into Archer County. It was the property of the Stone Land and Cattle Company whose offices were at Gainesville, Texas. Their acreage was from 400,000 to 500,000 acres The ranch was closed out in 1885 or 1886.

In those years John and Bill Stone of Gainesville were large operators and had cattle and ranches throughout West Texas and the Indian Territory. They were good cattlemen but probably not very conservative in view of the straits the cattle business fell into the ensuing years. Their activities as cattlemen ceased about 1898 or 1900.

Texan Prefers To Talk About Another Hill

By The Associated Press

WITH U. S. SEVENTH DIVISION, Korea, March 14. — The battalion commander said reluctantly "sure, I'll tell you about our little fight on top of Taemi, but . . ."

Maj. Edwin M. Sayre of Breckenridge, Tex., was standing on Hill No. 817. Across the valley in the distance was Mt. Taemi.

"We had a pretty tough fight up there, all right, bu let me tell you about how we took those three hills over there to our left," he said.

"But how about Mt. Taemi? The First Battalion got into quite a scrap up there. You led a bayonet charge on Taemi, didn't you?"

"That's right!" acknowledged the major, "but that wasn't anything compared to the way we handled the Gooks on those hills over there on the left."

"But how about Taemi?"

"All right," the major said, "we were trying to run the Gooks off Mt. Taemi. They were dug in on top good and proper. We got within 100 yards of the top. They kept shooting at us but over on those hills on our left we knocked them off slam bang!."

"But how about Taemi? What happened next?"

"Oh," the Texan drawled. "Well things were getting pretty rugged I told my men 'fix bayonets!'

"We started up the hill but over on those other mountains there. . well, we slapped them around one two, three."

"Yes, but what happened after you fixed bayonets on Mt. Taemi and started up after the enemy?' he was asked.

"Well, I'll tell you — they stopped us cold. But dammit, that was the first hill our batallion ever failed to take."

He looked up and grinned at the hill and said "well we will take her tomorrow."

The next day the battalion did.

Put New Plant At Greenville

DALLAS, March 14. (AP)—Officials of Texas Engineering and Manufacturing Co. (TEMCO) are looking over a site in Greenville with the idea of possibly moving TEMCO's overhaul operation there.

If new business from war contracts continues to increase the entire present plant at Grand Prairie will be needed for manufacturing, officials said yesterday. In that case, the company must find a new base for its overhaul division, one of the largest in the nation.

"There is nothing definite about TEMCO's acquiring the majors field site in Greenville," a spokesman said, "but we have inspected it and have conferred with the people up there about the field's possibilities."

Coast Guard Said To Be Too Short-Handed To Protect Harbors

WASHINGTON, March 14. (AP) — An enemy attack on New York would find the Coast Guard shorthanded in protecting the harbor against vessels which might try to sneak in with atomic bombs and weapons.

This was disclosed today when the House Appropriations Committee made public testimony from the Treasury Department in support of its request for operating funds for 1952. In peacetime the Coast Guard is under jurisdiction of the treasury.

Freight Rate Hikes Granted to Railroads

WASHINGTON, March 14. (AP) — The Interstate Commerce Commission today authorized the railroads to make a quick increase in freight rates ranging from two to four per cent.

Acting on the rail carriers' plea that they require immediate higher charges on account of advancing operating costs, the Commission issued a permit for a four per cent hike in Eastern territory, and two per cent in Southern and Western territories.

The order stipulates that freight moving between these territories will take a two per cent rate advance.

The emergency action permits the increases to be made effective in 15 days.

Use Common Sense to Take Off That Ugly Fat

Overweight can be a menace to health, but common sense should be the watchword to get rid of the extra poundage. A rigid diet over a protracted period of time, can also do harm. It is advisable that you seek your physician's advice before trying to take off weight via the diet route.

Possibly one bulgy person in 100 has some glandular disturbance and that is truly a case for the physician. But for the other 99 per cent, judgment should be used in deciding the "plan" decided on to reduce.

Overeating is one of the main contributing causes of excess fat. You may say you do not overeat—that you only eat enough to satisfy your hunger. But your intake of food may be greater than necessary for the energy you spend. Thus, the excess food turns into fat. You can eat all you want—enough to satisfy your hunger—enough to maintain bodily requirements and still eat LESS. Sounds like double talk, but it isn't.

A recent survey among Texas druggists has shown that there is one outstanding reducing aid on the market that definitely curbs the appetite. At the same time it dehydrates and eliminates. This product contains no harmful drugs. On the other hand it does contain ingredients to make you feel better — more alive, active and peppy. Nearly four million bottles of this preparation have been sold in Texas in the past eight years.

This reducing aid is called Barcentrate. You can get a four ounce bottle of Barcentrate from your druggist. Four this in a pint bottle and add 12 ounces of canned grapefruit juice. Then just take 2 tablespoonful twice a day. If the very first bottle doesn't show you the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back.

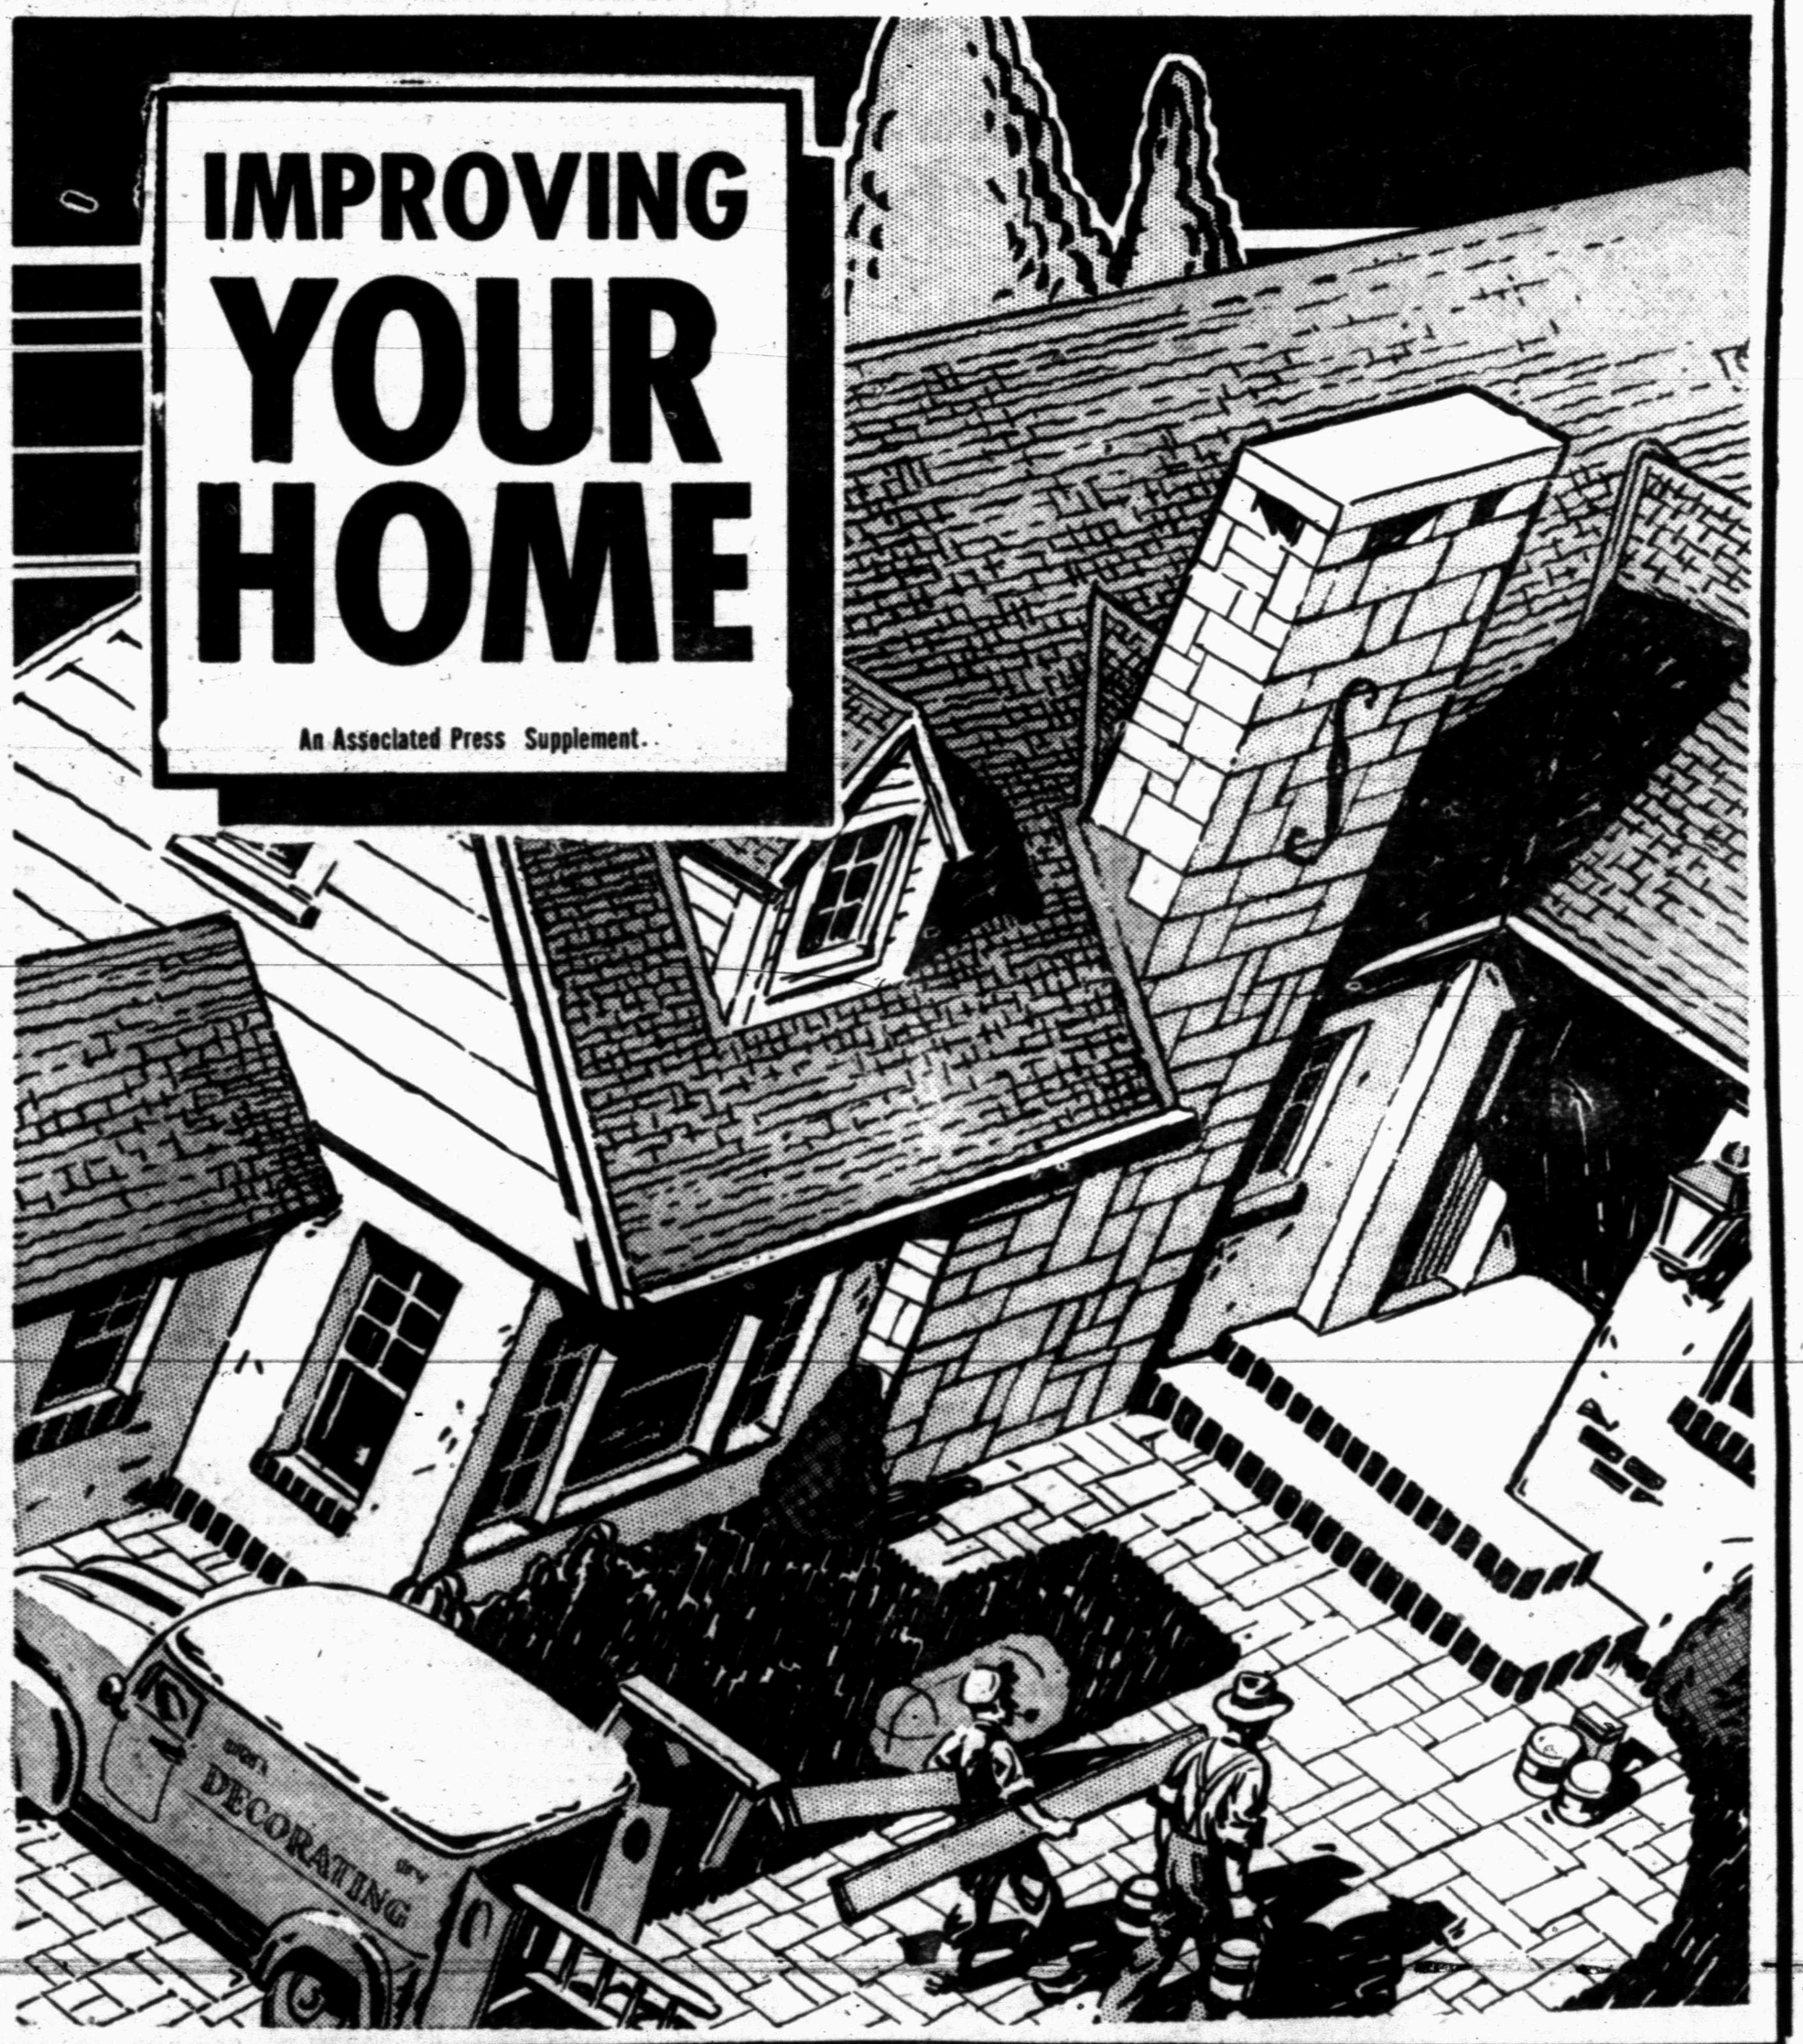
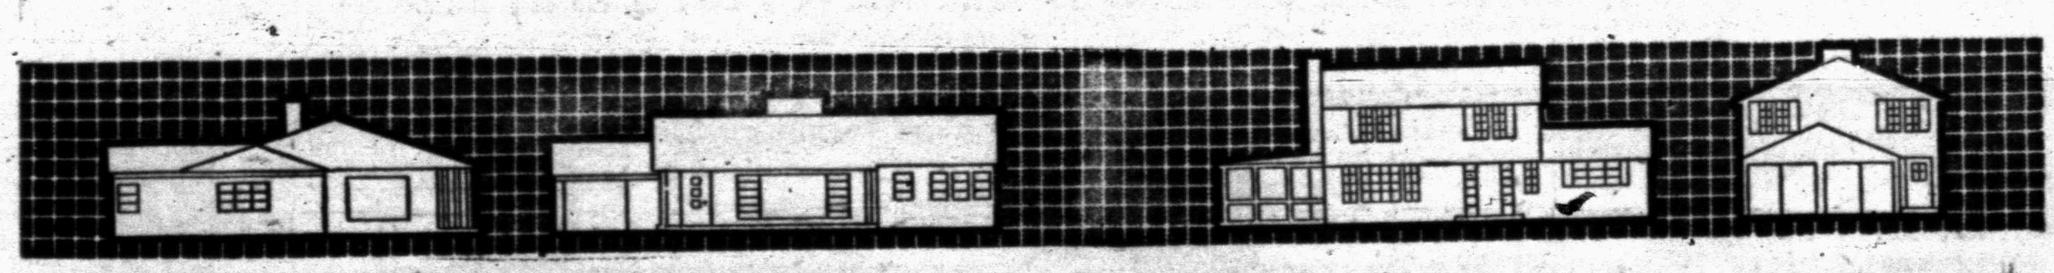
IMPROVING YOUR HOME

An Associated Press Supplement





ADD NEW LIFE TO OLD HOUSES

It's Wise to Modernize In Sound Neighborhoods

MODERNIZATION of a home is generally recognized as one of the soundest investments a family can make.

By improving on the comfort and livability of a house, the average modernization project enhances the value of the property beyond the actual cost of the work involved. At the same time, remodeling in most cases requires less financing and fewer materials likely to be in short supply than construction of a new house in the same neighborhood would require.

The field for modernization is constantly growing as more houses become older and in need of rejuvenation. There are more than 23,000,000 homes over 30 years old in the United States and Canada. In recent years $1 out of every $6 advanced in home loans has been earmarked for repair, alteration or other improvement. The average modernization loan for single-family dwellings has been ranging around $353 with a maturity in 36.4 months.

• • •

THERE are many advantages in older houses. Usually they are solidly built on good foundations and have more rooms than could be afforded in new construction by the average buyer. They are mostly in built-up residential areas, where landscaping is matured and environment is established. They lend themselves to modernization.

Very often a double door or colonnade between living and dining rooms can be removed to create the open plan of modern L s T layouts. If there is a bearing partition it may be replaced with a hanging boxed beam entirely in keeping with modern ideas. Or if there is an old-fashioned parlor it may be merged with the "sitting" room to produce the spaciousness expected in modern living rooms.

Sometimes a house without a fireplace will have a chimney with an extra ventilating flue. This frequently is convertible to a fireplace flue.

A bonus in many old house buys is the oversize kitchen. It usually affords space galore for combining kitchen and breakfast nook, or kitchen and laundry. Today's electrical kitchen equipment can be fitted in along the most efficient lines—dishwasher, food freezer, range, refrigerator—and if you include laundry, a washing machine, clothes dryer, mangle and built-in ironing board.

• • •

COMMON among faults of old houses are lack of insulation and need for more economical heating plants—both of which can be readily remedied.

One of the most effective places to install insulation is over the top floor ceiling. Batts of mineral wool can be laid between the ceiling joists or loose insulation material can be poured into the spaces to a full depth of four inches. Various materials can be used, including rock wool, glass wool, mica pellets known as vermiculite and even wood fibers or cotton. Fire-safety usually favors mineral products.

Highly effective are the metal foil types of insulation which reflect heat waves in both directions.

• • •

THE next point of vulnerability in heat loss is around windows and doors. Dust smudges on walls around frames reveal the need of caulking. Loosely fitting sash and doors can be weatherstripped at comparative little cost and thereby cut fuel bills noticeably. Hardware stores and building supply houses stock various types of weatherstripping materials.

The insulation of sidewalls forms a controversial subject in architectural and building circles. Admittedly desirable, and easily accomplished in building a new house, it is more difficult in older structures. Mineral wool can be poured into the spaces between studs by removing small portions of siding at the top of walls and cutting through sheathing.

However, some critics argue against this on the grounds that excessive moisture passage through walls might destroy insulating value if the material becomes wet, and cause rotting of structural members. They say a vapor barrier should be provided on the inner wall surface, as provided on the interior face of insulating batts. They also cite the likelihood that loose insulation may pack down and leave an uninsulated border around the tops of walls.

• • •

ON the other hand, the mineral wool industry contends that condensation dangers are over-emphasized and that satisfactory jobs testify to the efficiency of the method. Also the National Board of Fire Underwriters endorses the blowing of non-combustible insulation between studs for its fire-stopping value.

New heating plants are more difficult to install in older houses. Because of this, modern types have been developed to make installation easier. High speed circulated warm air systems, for instance, can be had with three-inch round conduits eliminating the need for large ducts to be placed in walls.

The enlargement of old style windows to meet modern preferences for more sunlight usually involves more or less minor structural alterations.

Why Blinds Flank Some Front Doors

Modern building costs have made elaborate doors and front entrances for new homes expensive.

A tip for achieving the effect desired without a large cash outlay is offered by the National Association of Home Builders. It points out that a pair of blinds on each side of stock door and frame can produce an imposing decorative effect. The blinds are not hung on hinges, but fastened directly to the house with lag screws.

Some Advantages Of Storm Sash

The 1½ to 2 inches of dead air space between tightly fitted storm sash and weather-stripped windows is hard to duplicate in insulating value.

Another advantage is indirect ventilation. Without storm sash, a direct blast of cold air pours in when you ventilate a room. With storm windows you can open the outer window in one place and the inner window in another place to break the wind.

HERE'S HOW TO GET OUT OF BAD JOBS

TO BORE a larger hole directly over a smaller hole isn't an easy job. Here's how a careful worker does it: Make a wood plug to fit tightly in the small hole. Center the screw of the large bit in the center of the plug. Then drill the hole as you would any other. The diagram shows a 1-inch hole being centered on a ⅜-inch hole.

• • •

A SIMPLE LEVEL

IF YOU don't have a spirit level, take a 2 by 4 that is four feet long and nail two three-foot lengths of 1 by 4 boards to it as shown in this diagram. Mark the center of the 2 by 4 with a pencil and suspend a plumb bob from the exact center of the cross pieces. Care must be taken to make the 1 by 4s identical in length. The plumb bob serves as a spirit bubble.

• • •

A SCREW EYE TIP

TO DRIVE large screw eyes into hardwood, drill an undersized pilot hole to start. Then secure the screw eye in the chuck of a brace and the rest is easy.

• • •

SEALING TILE JOINTS

A CAKE decorator comes in handy for filling in joints between tiles on vertical wall surfaces. It puts the adhesive in the right place, keeps the tile clean and results in a neat job.

Lay New Roof Over Old To Get the Best Results

IF YOU need a new roof on your house, there are definite advantages in laying it right on top of the old roof.

Removing an old roof costs money, creates considerable dirt inside and outside the house, and deprives you of the rigidity and added insulation value to be gained by a double roof.

Prepare your old roof carefully before you start to lay new shingles. Replace any missing shingles. Nail down all loose shingles. Split and flatten down all warped or curled wood shingles.

Cut away about two inches along all edges of the old roof and fill the spaces thus created by nailing strips the same thickness as the old roof. This will give you solid nailing surfaces along the edges and will result in a neat trim.

Feathering strips, which are slightly beveled strips of wood, are then nailed along the butts of the old shingles. This provides a smoother and more even surface.

THE choice of fire-resistant roofing materials is important. These may be asphalt shingles, asbestos shingles, tile or slate—if you can afford the latter.

Slate has become a luxury roofing material. It is almost prohibitive for low and medium cost homes in most sections. A slate roof for a one-story six-room house of average size often is quoted at more than $3,000. But of course it is virtually a permanent roof. Patching is the most it will ordinarily require. So many pre-war homes enjoyed slate roofs that the know-how of patching is much in demand.

Any broken or fallen slate can be replaced by using a sheet of copper about six inches long and three or four inches wide. Slip the copper sheet into the space vacated by the old shingle. Nail the copper firmly to the sheathing and as near the bottom as possible. Then slip the new slate up under the course above and fold up the lower edge of the copper to hold the slate in place.

• • •

IN MOST parts of the country, the most economical fire-resistant roofing is the asphalt shingle. This type, according to the Department of Commerce, is now used for more than 80 per cent of all house roofs. It is manufactured with a top surface of embedded mineral granules. This gives it a good Underwriters' Laboratories fire-rating against chimney sparks and flying fire-brands.

Asbestos shingles are more fire-proof, of course, but more expensive.

One of the big advantages of either asbestos or asphalt shingles is the lightness of color available. Asphalt shingles can be obtained in a wide range of colors.

The color of a roof has a lot to do with its insulating value in summer. A light colored roof will reflect more heat. A black, or dark colored roof, tends to absorb heat.

Proper nailing is vital to the life of almost any roof. Six nails are specified for each three-tab square butt asphalt shingle. If enough nails are not used, or if they are not put in the right places, wind can get under the shingles and cause real trouble.

Additional wind-tightness is obtained by cementing down asphalt shingle tabs. Quick setting asphalt cement, applied with putty knife or caulking gun, holds down the center of each exposed tab.

• • •

THE length of nails also is important. In laying wood shingles over an old roof, for example, five-penny nails (about 1¾ inches long) are used in order to pass through the old roof and down into the sheathing or shingle lath. Some will protrude through interspaces, but the most will enter the sheathing. Cut-nails hold more firmly than wire nails. In either event they should be the hot-dipped zinc-coated type if copper nails cannot be afforded.

The use of nails that are not rust proof is one of the major causes of failure in wood-shingled roofs. When nails rust they destroy the wood, loosening the shingle and allowing it to blow off.

• • •

IF YOU prefer wood shingles, or live in an area where they still are economical and are permitted by your local building code, be sure to specify a vertical or edge-grain shingle. They are much less vulnerable to fire than flat grain shingles and burn more slowly.

An edge-grain shingle, cut from heart wood, and fastened down with rust-proof nails, will not curl. Roofs of this type have been known to last until worn down only by sleet and sand storms. Red cedar is the most common of durable types. Cypress is usually more expensive but practically everlasting.

Asphalt's Been Sticking Around For 5,000 Years

Its resistance to water, which caused it to be used 5,000 years ago in sealing temple baths in ancient Mesopotamia and in preserving the mummies of Egyptian kings, has won asphalt numerous uses in American homes.

If forms the base of membraning paints to seal the outside of basements and foundations. In emulsions it waterproofs basement floors. In paints it rust-proofs screens, roof gutters and downspouts. It is used in caulking and weatherproofing.

The widest use of asphalt today is in roofing. Although flammable in itself, its use in composition shingles has won the approval of the Underwriters' Laboratories through surfacing of mineral granules in varieties of colors.

According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, the cost change in asphalt roofing materials has been one of the lowest in the construction field. The wholesale price of asphalt strip shingles is listed at about 6 per cent above the 1926 level.

Easy Chimney Sweep

To sweep a chimney, stuff a burlap bag with excelsior, put a couple of bricks in the bottom for weight, attach a rope and drop the bag down the chimney. Clean chimneys cut fuel bills and reduce fire hazards.

DESIGN FOR PUSH-BUTTON LIFE

NOW you can have a push button house.

You can touch a button at your bed side on a cold morning and automatically close the window, turn up the heat, start the coffee percolator in the kitchen and operate as many other electric appliances and conveniences as you care to install.

It's economical and you don't have to build a new home to have a push button house.

Arranged by wiring electric switches with ordinary bell cord instead of expensive heavy cable, the system can be installed in existing houses virtually as easily as in a house under construction.

It works by stepping down the standard 110 or 120-volt house current to a harmless 24 volts between switches and outlets. This makes it possible for an electrician to pull light weight bell wire through partitions instead of ripping walls open to connect heavy conduits that must pass fire inspection.

The low voltage adds new safety to all electric switches. A child with a wet hand is not in danger of shock. The low voltage at the switch trips a relay in electrical outlet boxes allowing current up to 1,650 watts with no direct connection at the switch.

The result is a far greater variety of controls than ordinarily could be afforded with regular electrical wiring.

Master switches and three-way switches can be located throughout the house. After you are in bed at night and wonder if you have left lights burning in the basement, on the porch, or in the garage you don't have to get up to make an inspection. A master switch at your bedside will turn off every light in the house.

If some member of the household comes home later he can turn on lights ahead of him as he passes through the house, turn them out behind him, and double check by turning off a master switch at his bed.

When a family returns from the movies, a master selector switch in the garage or kitchen will turn on all lights in the house, or lights in all selected rooms.

If during the night you think you hear a prowler, a flick of your master switch will flood the entire house with light, flood light the yard and turn on garage, barn or basement lights.

When loud playing of radio, record player, or television interferes with your telephone conversation, a switch at the phone turns off the broadcast.

The ease of striking light weight wires makes it possible to have switches at every doorway, eliminating the need of crossing a room to turn lights on or off. Each switch is continually out of the circuit except for the instant it is touched. After "on" or "off" is touched, the switch returns to neutral. This eliminates the question involved with conventional three-way and four-way switches which cannot indicate whether a circuit is on or off.

Known as a remote-control system, the cost of complete installation has been estimated by General Electric engineers to amount to about two-tenths of one per cent of the cost of an average six-room dwelling. With ordinary heavy cable wiring a control system of equal flexibility has figured up to an increase of about 35 per cent in the electrical contract for a six-room house. The remote-control system has cut that added cost of wiring to five to ten per cent.

The safety factor of this push button arrangement is enhanced by a high resistance winding of the transformer used. Even a direct short at the switch on the 24-volt line causes no overloading or fire hazards, according to the engineers.

TV's Place in the Home Has Architects Guessing

WHAT television will do to homes of the future is stirring up one of the biggest architectural controversies of modern times.

Some observers predict that homes now being built, as well as those in the blueprint stage, may be in danger of being called obsolete before they are "house-warmed" unless provisions are made for television. They argue that the viewing screen will become as essential a home utility as an automatic washer—and subject to much more frequent use.

This has led to homes designed with living rooms arranged to make the TV screen the center of interest, even to the point of eliminating the fireplace. Turntables have been centrally located to permit a video set to be focused into any room.

On the other hand, some critics contend that a separate television room will be the solution. They point out that a viewing screen in a living room prevents any other activity in the room while a program is on. They say that it is possible for some members of a family to read or write in the same room with a radio, but it can't be done with a picture show going on.

This involves conversion of a small bedroom into a den, and in some cases is responsible for a comeback in basement recreation rooms.

However, the consensus seems to be that the time will come when television sets, like radios, will find places in kitchen, dining room, bedrooms and playroom, as well as in the living room. A video outlet also will be provided on the porch or terrace.

• • •

ONE of the first things to figure in planning for television is the size of screen that may be used for various locations. Some experts now say that TV pictures can easily be too large for the size and shape of a room. But it is good forsight to have a screen too large rather than too small.

A rough rule is that the diameter of the viewing tube should be about one-eighth to one-tenth the average viewing distance. Thus, a 16-inch tube would serve well in any living room larger than 15 feet on a side.

In practice, the ideal viewing distance varies with the eye comfort of the viewer and so varies with individuals. This simplifies seating problems

The size of the cabinet is important in planning furniture arrangement. A table model is easily placed. A large console, containing a combination radio for AM and FM and a three-speed phonograph in addition to the TV set, becomes a heavy piece of furniture, not easily moved, and therefore to be reckoned with in the room plan.

The problem of room illumination has been ironed out by improvements made in modern receivers. They can be operated in a brilliantly lighted room, which overcomes some objections by non-viewers who want to be doing something else.

• • •

THE antenna is a vital part of good television reception. Usually the higher the antenna is, the better reception you'll get. If your house is on a hill and fairly unobstructed, a built-in antenna may work as well as a rooftop one down in the valley.

The tape which conducts the signals from antenna to set can be fastened to the house wall where it is scarcely noticeable. Also it can be drawn in through the cellar and up to the set so as to create no problems with window openings.

Above all, see that an approved lightning arrester is included in your antenna setup.

When table models are likely to be used in different parts of the house, arrangements must be made for additional antenna lead-ins and outlet switches. Switches are advisable and prevent unused lead-ins from affecting the quality of the pictures. In case multiple outlets require multiple antennas. This can be determined best after tests.

The most important requirement for built-in television sets is adequate ventilation. A TV set with 20 or more tubes gives off considerable heat. This must be vented

Another problem is access for servicing. The best arrangement is a false wall where a chassis can be removed from the rear without touching the tube screen.

FUN FOR A DUB WITH A HAMMER

By JOHN L. SPRINGER

"THE average man does not know his own strength with a hammer."

This is the candid comment of a professional wood craftsman who has watched rank amateurs fashion furniture of genuine professional quality after only the simplest instructions.

One man, described by his wife as an absolute dub in all matters pertaining to household repairs, put together in a few hours a pair of bookcases, which were indistinguishable from those made by a professional carpenter.

Secret of the dub's success? He used pre-cut lumber.

Most local lumber yards and millwork firms are equipped to make all the cuts necessary in carpentry—jig saw cuts, cross cuts, bevels, mortises, etc.

This dub merely brought his plans to a nearby wood-working shop. There, a carpenter cut each piece of wood to the exact requirements. Then the amateur picked up all the wood, carried it home, and erected his bookcases—at a saving of one-third over the cost quoted him by a cabinet maker.

Anyone can drive nails, and by driving nails himself the amateur saved the labor costs of a professional. Then he saved himself the additional transportation costs of delivering the bulky bookcases from the carpentry shop to his home—all because he assembled the pieces in a place only a few feet from where they would be installed.

More and more persons are learning the fascination that lies in putting together prefabricated pieces at home. A lawyer, who had never considered himself capable of even the most elemental household repairs, spent a week-end assembling an elaborate bed headboard with side cabinets. A carpenter had quoted him a price of $300. By using lumber cut at a nearby wood-working shop to his own specifications and nailing together the pieces himself, the lawyer saved $125.

An accountant in one evening pieced together a radio-phonograph combination cabinet and pocketed $45 in savings.

If no wood-working shop is nearby you can also have lumber cut to your specifications by mail. Al Grossman, owner of the Wood Market of Mount Vernon, N. Y., says that amateurs in all parts of the country have turned out high-quality pieces through "mail-order" millwork. He estimates the cost of prefabricating lumber from drawings sent in by amateurs and even from illustrations clipped from newspapers and magazines.

Whether it be tables, wall cabinets, bookcases, breakfronts or movable closets, it is likely that you can save considerable amounts by doing some of the work—the simplest parts—yourself. Remember that the professionals often must spend the same amount of time as you do on these simplest of chores, and that, in addition, you save yourself the high shipping charges that often are involved when a bulky piece of furniture is transported.

The next time you have a wood job to do, at least get an estimate on prefabricated parts from a wood-working shop. You may be surprised at the savings—and satisfaction—that come from doing some of the job yourself.

Build It Yourself But Watch That Door

WATCH your ambition when building your own furniture. Figure carefully on whether you can get the finished product through the door and around hall corners.

Many a triumphant Make-It-Yourselfer has discovered after sanding, staining and polishing his masterpiece that he could not move it from his basement workshop to the bedroom it was planned for.

One amateur had to saw his bookcase in half. Another had to cut the legs off a desk and dowel them back on again, leaving telltale blemishes.

ASSURANCE IN INSURANCE

If you are having your house built, you will want protection even before the structure begins to take shape. If you are not certain about the financial status and past experience of your home builder contractor, you can require him to post a performance bond which will assure you that an insurance company will supply funds to complete your home if the builder goes bankrupt and cannot finish the job.

The National Board of Fire Underwriters points out that there are several broad coverages to protect the new home owner. For example, "building-in-course-of-construction" insurance covers fire, supplemental perils, liability and vandalism.

• • •

THE average small house buyer, carrying a maximum mortgage, seldom needs additional fire insurance on his house aside from that required by his bank or other mortgage lender. If you borrow $8,000 to finance the purchase of a $10,000 house, the mortgage will require an $8,000 fire insurance policy to protect his loan. Your $2,000 equity will be covered by the land and foundation. But keep reproduction costs in mind.

This policy need not be purchased as part of the mortgage transaction. If it is bought separately, the home owner saves a little money by not having to pay mortgage interest on his fire insurance premiums.

In any case where the amount of a mortgage is proportionately less than the sound value of a house, the owner should carry additional insurance. In some places if insurance does not equal at least 80 per cent of the sound value, a penalty develops in the case of partial loss. Insurance adjusters can hold that because of the lack of full coverage the owner was carrying part of the risk and therefore bears part of the loss.

• • •

FOR a small additional cost, extended coverage or supplemental endorsement will protect a home owner against windstorm, hail, tornado, aircraft, vehicles, riots, smoke damage and explosion (other than boiler or steam piping).

The importance of extended coverage is constantly demonstrated. In the one month of May, 1950, for instance, insurance companies paid nearly 330,000 claims under such endorsements. Most of them were the result of violent windstorms in the midwest and southwest, and 15,000 were from the South Amboy, N. J., munitions blast.

Personal property fire insurance to cover furniture, clothing and all the other contents of your house is highly important. Where personal property has a larger than normal value, a personal property floater is carried to protect all items whether in the house or away from home. Otherwise, it is prudent to have burglary, theft and larceny insurance.

Boiler explosion insurance and water damage coverage are among other forms advisable. Rental value insurance will pay for temporary quarters during reconstruction if your house becomes uninhabitable in whole or in part. A liability policy will protect you in the event of lawsuit by any person injured on your property.

Prefabricated Chimneys Cut Down Costly Masonry

PREFABRICATED chimneys have won wide use in modern home building and remodeling.

They eliminate the expense of masonry work, can be installed in midwinter when bricklaying is impossible, and they introduce new speed in construction.

Sectional, they can be set up by two men in about an hour and a half in contrast to three to four man-days required to build the average brick chimney. Complete cost is quoted from 20 to 50 per cent less than that of a conventional masonry chimney.

• • •

KNOWN as package-type chimneys, they have been approved by the Underwriters Laboratories, the FHA and by building officials in more than 1,000 communities.

Sections are 14½ inches in diameter and of two lengths—12 and 24 inches. They weigh about 27 pounds per foot, which is approximately a tenth of the weight of a masonry chimney. These sections are aluminum-encased and contain a 7-inch fire-clay flue surrounded by 3 inches of expanded vermiculite, a lightweight mica product, for insulation.

• • •

IN INSTALLING the sections, carpenters or sheet metal workers, depending on which trades decide on jurisdiction, cement the sections together permanently with acid-proof cement to form gas-tight, fireproof joints. The chimney can be suspended from ceiling or floor, or supported on a basement foundation of concrete block, brick or steel post.

Since this type of chimney is round, the part that protrudes above the roof is enclosed in a square roof housing, flashed according to roof pitch and equipped with fire clay chimney pot and rain cap.

According to Chester A. Pynn, vice-president of the Van Packer Corp., more than 10,000 of these pre-cast chimneys are now in use in the New York area alone.

Bridging Lets Entire Floor Share Weight

THE cross pieces you will notice between joists, when looking up at floor construction from a basement, are now often made of steel.

The function of such bridging is to make floors more rigid and to distribute weight, so that a grand piano or other heavy pieces of furniture are not supported solely by the part of the floor they occupy.

Without bridging, a floor can spring when you walk across it. Wood braces arranged in criss-cross fashion between the joists transfer the weight horizontally as well as vertically. Such wood braces are sufficient, but it takes time to install them.

A new form of steel bracing is said to cut bridging costs in half. These steel pieces, rust-proofed and ribbed for extra strength, have prongs that are driven into the joists and are countersunk with one hammer blow. Each bridge involves only two nails—saving six nails in the average installation.

Ends of the steel braces are doubled back over the opposite side of the joist to cleat them and reinforce their hold. The manufacturer claims a strength in tension of 2,000 pounds, considerably stronger than wood bridging.

Working Plans For the Handy Man

If you're handy with tools and like to make things yourself you can get working plans for various useful accessories by writing to the Western Pine Association, 510 Yeon Building, Portland 4, Ore.

Among instruction sheets available is one for a rod and gun cabinet. Another that fills many household needs shows how to build a knotty pine chest for storing sweaters, T-shirts, blankets and swimming trunks out of season.

A colonial bookcase and cabinet for living or den that can serve for dishes and table linen in a dining room, or for books, clothing and knicknacks in a bedroom, is among other plans available without charge.

Small Lifts Change House To Apartments

THE remodeling of large old houses into apartments, residence clubs and rooming houses has stimulated the installation of personal service elevators.

Simplification in the design and safety of automatic elevators has brought the installation of this convenience down below the cost of the average automobile.

Many private home elevators are installed in stairwells. Others are placed where closets are directly in line. A two-passenger car for a private home requires a clear space of 4 ft., 2 in., by 3 ft., 11 in.

Fred Kuehl, Otis elevator engineer, points out that new designs for hoistways require no special construction for vertical supports. Penthouses, previously required for elevator machinery, have been eliminated by installing such mechanism in the basement.

Cars are automatic, operating by push-buttons. Doors swing on hinges like other doors of a house, and they cannot be opened unless the elevator is at the landing.

Your Building Inspector Fills an Important Role

MANY thousands of persons throughout the country owe the safety and workability of their homes to an individual they have never seen or, possibly, never even heard about. He is the unsung public servant—the building inspector.

To guard against the erection of homes which are structurally unsound or unsanitary, most communities have set up building codes—a set of rules covering what materials must be used, and how. The job of administering the code falls to the building inspector.

Often he is your only protection against an unscrupulous builder. For example, he will make certain that the concrete footings upon which the house will rest are placed on solid earth, and that the foundations will be strong enough to carry the weight that will be placed upon them.

He also examines such structural factors as the floor beams and joists, and how they are nailed; the electrical wiring, to make sure that it conforms to safety standards; the interior wall covering (usually plaster or plaster-board) to see that it is properly fire retardant.

Without the services of the building inspector, disease probably would run rampant in modern cities. For example, he guarantees against pollution of the water supply and checks against sewage which may contaminate. In homes he also makes sure that the plumbing fixtures are properly trapped and vented, so that they will not cause possible disease-breeding backflows.

Most building codes specify that the inspector must also be consulted when home owners plan major repairs. To cut corners, some home repairmen decide to do things in a way the inspector would not approve and they neglect to notify him of their plans. This is unwise. The inspector's seal of approval is your almost-certain guarantee that you have a home that is safe and sound.

Aluminum Frame For Screen or Storm

A combination storm and screen door, made of aluminum with interchangeable screen and window panels, is manufactured hung in an aluminum frame which fits into a door-frame and insures trouble free action without planing or refitting.

Designed for both front and rear doors, this equipment is left in place the year-round, with panels changed for the seasons. Its makers claim that although it is lightweight, it is strong enough to resist the abuse of growing children.

Red-Brown Finish For Pine Paneling

Sponge the wood with clean, clear water, allow to dry and sand the raised grain with fine sandpaper or steel wool. Stain the wood with chloride of iron in water. Sand when dry. Shadow glaze with burnt sienna. Follow with pure white shellac and then wax.

The Western Pine Association in recommending this finish says it's fine for overly-large or high ceiling rooms, or areas where the sun doesn't often reach.

IMPREGNATED WOOD

Wood for use near or in contact with the ground, such as porch columns, sills, sheathing, studs and subflooring, can now be obtained treated with chromated zinc chloride to resist decay and termites and also to retard fire. This chemical is said to prevent the growth of fungi and also to render the wood difficult to ignite. It is paintable and odorless.

ITCHIN' FOR A NEW KITCHEN?

THE first room modernized in most homes is the kitchen.

This forms one of the most satisfying projects and also can be one of the most painless as far as the family budget is concerned.

You don't have to buy a lot of new equipment all at once and pay for the moving of windows and doors and tackle a major redecorating job at the same time. You can do the work a step at a time.

In fact, kitchen planning experts of the General Electric home bureau in Bridgeport, Conn., who design thousands of kitchens every year, point out that you can achieve the same results in remodeling a kitchen over a period of years buying new equipment as you go.

• • •

THe main thing is to have a detailed plan of what you want your kitchen to be.

The most efficient layout for a kitchen has been found to be one where work flows smoothly over a work surface from refrigerator to sink to cooking area around the range. Each work surface should have ample storage space in the form of base and wall cabinets.

Many old-fashioned kitchens were unconsciously arranged in a workable order with the exception of work surfaces and storage space. A kitchen table usually provided the only work surface and a pantry, many steps from sink or stove, contained all dishes and condiments.

Nowadays it is not enough to have a rough idea of where you want each of the important departments of your kitchen. You should know down to the last inch where every appliance and piece of furniture will fit in your finished plan. Then when you buy any appliance, you can have in mind both your present kitchen and the place that appliance will occupy in the kitchen you hope to wind up with.

• • •

FOR example, if your plan calls for placing the refrigerator at the far left of your layout, you will want a left hand door. Otherwise you will have to walk around the open door on your way to sink or range.

When you buy cabinets, buy them for permanence, so others can be added to give complete unity.

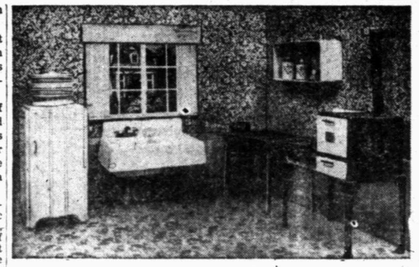
If you have any doubts about planning your kitchen — and there is much skill and experience to be involved—your best bet is to consult your local appliance dealer, who can have your kitchen planned for you in miniature, according to scale. He can help you to measure your space and plan an attractive, efficient kitchen. Appliance manufacturers maintain such service.

Dresser Drawers That Won't Stick

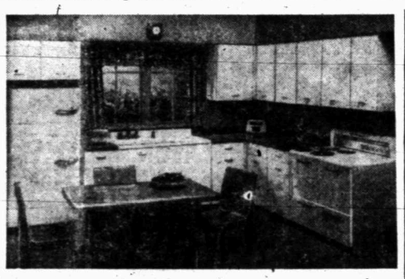
Dresser and cabinet drawers usually are made out of soft wood and often left unfinished. In damp seasons they may stick and bind because of swelling of the wood.

One way to prevent this is to thoroughly seal all surfaces with shellac or other sealer during dry periods while the wood is shrunken. Then rub the bottom edges and the running surfaces with paraffin.

In severe cases, sanding, filing or planing may be necessary. This always should be done to the bottom edges only and done carefully to avoid looseness. Follow with thorough paraffin rubbing.



STEP-BY-STEP an old-fashioned kitchen can be transformed if you plan your program. Here is how you can budget the modernization. The steps shown here can be divided into more. Lower picture shows the result.



White Kitchen Is Giving Way To Warm Colors

THE spreading use of color, in the home and out, is bringing striking changes in bathrooms and kitchens.

Both of these rooms, formerly sterile white, are beginning to blossom in bright hues.

Tile manufacturers are working closely with the makers of bathroom fixtures to give home owners exactly matching colors, as well as pleasantly blending or contrasting shades.

Cheerful wallpapers have been developed incorporating deep-sea and floral designs for bathrooms, still life and barnyard patterns for kitchens.

Kitchen cabinets made of steel, wood or composition products are available in wide varieties of colors. Apple green, jade green, powder blue, jonquil yellow, being among them.

Manufacturers of refrigerators and ranges are now following the parade. A two-year survey of color preferences was made by the Chambers Corp., of Shelbyville, Ind., before it changed its all-white finish on gas ranges. It found that 31 per cent of its customers were waiting for special fints.

A short cut in this trend is open to householders who would like to change the color of their present white fixtures. The most satisfactory way to do it is to remove the fixture and take it to an automobile spray painting firm where you can select the exact shade you want. This finish dries quickly and gives you a result like that of a new car.

CLUES TO HUES FOR YOU

IF YOU want a guide in choosing colors for a paint job or interior decoration, it's easy to make a color wheel. It will show complimentary colors and also how to mix colors.

Draw a circle. At the point where 12 would appear on a clock, write "Red." At the 4 o'clock point write "Yellow." For 8 o'clock write "Blue."

These are the primary colors. Mixing them produces the secondary colors. Red and yellow make orange, so at the 2 o'clock point write "Orange." Red and blue make purple, which falls at 10 o'clock on this dial. Blue and yellow make green, which is labeled at the 6 o'clock point.

Draw arrows to connect colors which are opposite on the dial: From red to green, blue to orange, and purple to yellow. The arrows will show the complimentary colors—hues that are pleasing when used together.

For tertiary colors draw another circle around this wheel and extend only the secondary colors, orange, green and purple to the outer edge. Since mixing orange and green produces "Citron," that label is placed on the outer edge beyond yellow. Green and purple make "Olive," which is written out beyond blue. Purple and orange produce "Russet," at the point above red.

Citron, being a greenish yellow, or yellowish green, embraces the variations commonly known as chartreuse, lime, pistachio, olive yellow and apple green.

Olive embraces the deep neutral greens often termed evergreens.

In mixing paint try small samples first.

Here are some tips on getting other shades:

If You Want This	And Have This	Add This
Brown	Red	Green
Brown	Orange	Blue
Olive	Green	Blue and Red
Dark Blue	Blue	Black
Light Blue	Blue	White
Dark Red	Red	Black
Light Red	Red	Orange
Deep Green	Green	Blue or Black
Light Green	Green	Yellow or White
Dark Yellow	Yellow	Orange
Light Yellow	Yellow	White

Bright Colors Pep Up Basements

When turning a basement into a family recreation center, make full use of gay color and bright light. Bright yellow walls put sunlight into a dark basement. Ivory or white cabinets and shelves with interiors painted in salmon tints add light and contrast.

An asphalt tile floor in gray and salmon red squares with pictorial insets can give such a room added distinction.

Taking Music Out Of Squeaking Floors

A squeaking floor often can be fixed easily it if is over a basement that has no ceiling.

While someone steps on the squeaking board find the location on the subflooring between joists in the basement. Drive a thin wooden wedge between the joist and subfloor. A piece of shingle will do. Then drive a finishing nail through the floor from above to hold the wedge on the joist. Counter-sink the nail.

SMOKING FIREPLACE

If your fireplace smokes and you know it is properly constructed and has no obstruction in the flue, such as a swallows' nest or fallen brick, hold a board across the top of the opening to see if that corrects it. If so, a permanent metal hood can be installed to reduce the height of the opening.

Free and Clear Ownership Is The Best Goal

HOW much of a mortgage should you carry?

Ordinarily this depends on how the monthly carrying charges fit your budget.

But there are times when a home buyer is prepared to invest more than a minimum equity. Sometimes he has a nest egg of bonds and other securities he can liquidate and thereby reduce the amount of debt on his house.

Some people will argue that to do this would be bad business. They will tell you that you can get a greater return on your money in investments than the amount of interest you can save on your mortgage.

They also argue that if you want to resell your house it will be easier to find a buyer if you have a sizable mortgage. The buyer will not need so much cash to meet your price and merely takes over the remaining payments on the mortgage.

Whether this is good or bad business depends on various factors and ultimately on you. For the average person it is easy to find bugs in those arguments.

1. Can you be sure that securities will remain as stable in value as residential real estate?

2. Will any net profits between dividends and mortgage interest amount to more than chicken feed?

3. Will you expect to resell your house, or like most homes will it be your permanent dwelling?

4. With money subject to depreciation in value under inflationary trends, while desirable real estate usually rises in value, which will you choose?

5. What price can you put on the security of your family and your own peace of mind in later years?

And there are many other factors you can think of.

The time-tested rule is to pay all you can in cash, carry as small a mortgage as possible, and pay it off as soon as you can. Free and clear home ownership, with no fixed expenses beyond taxes, maintenance and operation has always been considered the ideal goal for the average family.

TEETER-PROOF LEG

An adjustable furniture leg has been developed to stop teetering on uneven floors. It can be used to change the height of chairs to comfortable positions as well as to vary the pitch of the seat. It works on a fine thread which provides for easy tightening and reduces chances of loosening.

LUXURY VIA PACKAGE MORTGAGE

EVER notice how many new home owners start right off with a kitchen full of modern electrical equipment? How do they do it?

The secret is in the package mortgage.

This is an arrangement under which the mortgage lender considers complete modern equipment as part of the house—the same as bathroom fixtures, heating plant and hot water heater. It's all included in the appraisal and the loan, so the home buyer pays very little more per month. This eliminates short-term, high interest-rate installment financing.

It used to be that a new home owner frequently apologized for his kitchen. He'd explain:

"We wanted to get a new range and refrigerator, but you know how many places there are for your money when you move into a new house. We'll just have to use these old appliances until we can afford to take on any more expenses."

• • •

THE package mortgage has changed all that.

Local limitations on the appliances that can be counted in this set-up are being liberalized rapidly. Most of the FHA district offices are permitting ranges, refrigerators, dishwashers, garbage disposal units, washing machines and clothes dryers to be wrapped up in an FHA-insured mortgage.

Home food freezers, ventilating fans, room air-conditioners, storm windows, screens and venetian blinds have been included in many parts of the country.

Even wall-to-wall broadloom carpeting has been covered by some package mortgages. The trend indicates that the time may come when all furniture will be included.

• • •

EVERYONE seems to benefit. The home owner gets what he wants, when he wants it with payments stretched over the whole term of his mortgage.

The bank lends more money covering new fields.

The home builder finds his houses in greater demand and selling faster.

And the equipment manufacturer finds his market suddenly expanded.

I. P. Pruitt, manager of the General Electric Home Bureau in Bridgeport, Conn., reports that the adoption of the package mortgage idea in one section of the country resulted in the sale of more than 8,500 complete electric kitchens to merchant builders in 45 days.

A St. Louis builder — John Bogdonor of the Schuermann Building & Realty Co. — said after building 600 low-cost homes with complete kitchens: "Houses are getting to be like automobiles. No one would buy a car today that didn't have bumpers and windshield wipers."

• • •

AN interesting test was made by Massachusetts builders—the Valley Johnson Homes Co., of South Hadley Falls. Planning 50 houses, they built two sample dwellings exactly alike, except that one had a kitchen equipped with only cabinets and sink, while the other included electric sink with garbage disposer, electric range, refrigerator, steel cabinets and clock.

The house with the bare kitchen was offered at $8,950 with monthly payments of $42.24 on a 30-year mortgage. The other with complete kitchen was priced at $9,490 with monthly payments of $44.81. Within two weeks all orders had been taken for the 50 houses and 48 of the purchasers chose the complete electric kitchens—only two taking the cheaper set-up.

Credit restrictions requiring arbitrarily higher down payments in home buying increase the value of having a package mortgage. When cash reserves are needed to meet down payment rules, the pinch of buying additional equipment becomes greater. One of the biggest home developments — the 2,200-dwelling operation of Murphy Brothers at Sacramento, Calif.—includes complete electrical kitchens.

If a house is resold in the future, the seller can take his package mortgage electrical appliances along with him, so long as the new buyer's financing arrangement is ample to pay off the seller's mortgage loan.

OLD-FASHIONED CHARM is blended with the modern kitchen when a fireplace is added to the breakfast corner.

Wall Board and Concrete Call for Paint Pointers

The spreading use of dry wall construction has been a boon to the wallpaper industry because few people know how to paint such walls and ceilings satisfactorily.

At the same time the increasing use of basements for play rooms and hobby spaces has created a new demand for concrete paints.

It is easy to paint all such surfaces in any color you prefer. Your paint job will be very successful if you do it in the right way.

Charles G. Oswald, technical director for the Keystone Paint and Varnish Corp., one of the leading producers, has made extensive research in those fields. He directed the development of odorless paints for interior work.

"There is no difficulty in applying paint to dry walls or to concrete," he says, "but care must be taken to prepare the surface properly to take the finish coat.

"Sheet rock walls differ from ordinary walls in that the surface to be painted is paper rather than finishing plaster. Concrete and stucco walls, on the other hand, should be allowed to age for a year to eliminate free acids."

This expert points out that the paper finish on gypsum boards is much more porous than plaster and absorbs more paint. Therefore a sealer coat is very important.

• • •

THE best and most permanent sealers, according to many experienced painters, are shellac or aluminum paint. Aluminum paint has the added advantage of reflective insulation even when covered.

One householder, troubled with a chilly bathroom, used aluminum paint for an undercoat when he was redecorating. After the job was finished, he was surprised to find the bathroom the warmest room in the house.

Sealing the surface is important to obtain a final finish that is uniform in color and texture.

Expert Oswald recommends a priming coat for wallboards consisting of a mixture of equal parts of a primer sealer and of finish coat. After 24 hours for drying he follows with a second coat of the same mixture.

"Over this surface," he says, "apply your final coat of paint in your desired color or texture, a gloss, semi-gloss or dull finish."

• • •

ONE difficulty likely to arise in painting wallboard is that hairlike constituents of the paper surface may be raised as soon as paint is applied. This is easily remedied. A very light rubbing with medium fine sandpaper or steel wool, with no more effort than wiping the surface, will remove such roughness.

• • •

THE painting of concrete in a basement, however, calls for a different technique. On an unpainted concrete floor all dust should be scraped away with particular attention paid to grease spots. Then a layer of sawdust soaked in a lye solution is spread over the floor. The solution is made by mixing a pound of lye in a gallon of water.

After soaking the floor for 12 hours, scrape off the sawdust and repeat the process until all spots are removed. Watch out for your hands.

Painted floors should be prepared in the same way if they are in bad condition.

The floor then should be thoroughly washed with water.

Following this, the floor should be etched with muriatic acid. Make a working solution by mixing a pint of acid to a gallon of water. This is applied with a rag or sponge (while wearing rubber gloves) and is flowed on the floor until all effervescent action stops.

The floor then should be flushed with water and permitted to dry. When thoroughly dry, it can be painted with a top quality floor paint or deck enamel. It is best to apply two or three coats so that the color will stand up under heavy wear.

It is wise to allow all concrete about a year to age before painting it. After aging, outside concrete and stucco walls may be given a coat of concrete sealer and then concrete paint. If a gloss finish is desired, house paint is used.

PICK BATHROOM COLORS EARLY

Other rooms may be painted, papered and furnished after the carpenters move out and the family is ready to move in. But the bathroom must be planned and its fixtures chosen months before a house is ready.

Many a hopeful home owner gets a shock when the contractor, finishing the foundation, asks:

"Have you selected your bathroom tile and fixtures?"

You probably thought there was plenty of time for that, but he replies that it takes weeks and sometimes months to obtain certain colors.

You'd better get going.

• • •

IF YOU have your own architect, he will help make bathroom color selections. Your tile and plumbing contractors will refer you to their respective manufacturers' showrooms. Some makers of clay tile cooperate with manufacturers of plumbing fixtures in matching colors exactly. As soon as you decide on the shades desired, see that the sub-contractor places his order immediately so you'll have the fixtures when needed.

If you are having a house built in a development, you ordinarily will have a choice of tile colors, provided you have ordered well in advance.

Colors cost very little more than white in clay tile. Colored plumbing fixtures may run 10 to 25 per cent more than white. But white fixtures work well with all colors.

Usually blended colors wear better than contrasting hues. Coral fixtures, for example, look well with gray tile wainscots and floors. Choice is entirely in accordance with individual tastes.

• • •

IN ONE new house a small bathroom off a blue bedroom was finished in coral pink fixtures and tile with no contrasting trim. A second bath, serving two other bedrooms was finished in a Persian brown, or buff color for fixtures and tile, with a cocoa brown trim. Both sound nice, but the housewife says the only mistake in the house was the brown trim. She would prefer the monotone. Such details must be decided before tile is set.

Usually it is safer to choose such accessories as towel bars, toothbrush holders and bathtub grab bars in the same color as the wall tiles. If they contrast too sharply they stand out like proverbial sore thumbs.

It is economical in the long run to tile as much of a bathroom as possible. Paint and wallpaper over a tub are easily marred or blistered by steam. With a combination tub-shower it is wise to tile the wall to the height of the shower curtain bar, or to the ceiling. In some homes, even the ceiling over a shower is tiled.

When having a bathtub installed, insist that the carpenter brace studs and joists properly and have the plumber hang the tub on angle irons from the studs. This will go a long way in preventing the loosening of cement in the joint between tub and wall tile.

However, a certain amount of settlement of the house and shrinkage of the bathroom floor is inevitable and not a fault of installation. When it occurs, get a caulking compound made for such repairs from your tile dealer or hardware store. An easy way to squeeze this into the joint is to use a cake decorator.

• • •

CLAY tile colors are permanent, but dirt films will dull their appearance. The best way to clean tile is to apply a solution of warm water and any first grade liquid or chemical cleaning solvent that is not strongly acid or alkali. Allow this to remain for several minutes and then rinse the tile with warm water.

Don't use soap or soap powders for cleaning tile. It will leave a sticky film that will collect dirt quickly.

Never use abrasive powders on glazed tile. They will scratch the glaze and damage the surface.

Here's a Formula For Pickled Pine

Pickled pine means many things to many persons. The term comes from the color of weathered wood in vinegar and pickling vats. It offers a different and pleasing tone for pine-paneled walls.

The actual color may range from olive-green-gray to driftwood gray. You can buy prepared finish in this shade from your retail lumber dealer or paint store. Or you can mix it yourself.

The Western Pine Association suggests this method: Bleach the surface with a commercial bleach. Then antique the surface with a coat of paste white tinted with raw umber and drop black. Wipe the surface carefully to leave a dust-like coating. Then shellac and finish with liquid wax.

Green Ranks High In Bathroom Colors

WHAT are the most popular bathroom colors?

Green, white, and blue-green, in that order, according to a national survey by the Tile Council of America.

White, once used almost universally in bathrooms, still leads in the middle west and north central states.

WHEN YOUR LAND BECOMES A SITE

Avoid Carving up Land To Fit Your House Plans

FIT your house to its site, instead of trying to fit the land to a house.

Any architect will tell you this. And if you follow that advice you will save a lot of money, a lot of headaches, plenty of heartaches and you'll come out with a better home.

Grading is costly and where much of it must be done the results often are disappointing. It means changing the contour of the land, necessitating new drainage courses, and it can be a tricky job to keep water from running into your basement.

Orientation is important. It means you will have, or not have morning sunshine in your bedrooms and dining area, a living room with a cheerful southern outlook and still cool in late summer afternoons, a kitchen and laundry away from the hot sun when work must be done.

These factors and others form one of the biggest problems in building a house from stock plans. Unless you own a comparatively flat lot with a frontage facing in the direction for which the plans were drawn, it is well to study the plan you like in relation to your lot.

Here are some things you can do:

1. Find out what local regulations require in setting a house back from the road.

2. Determine how far your house must be from each side boundary. If zoning or other restrictions call for 25 feet on each side of your house to insure 50 feet between neighbors, a 75-foot frontage will only allow for a house 25 feet wide. Plans for a so-called ranch house, spreading 65 feet wide, naturally cannot be built on such a lot, unless it can be turned sidewise.

3. Visit the lot in the morning, at noon and in late afternoon to see how shadows fall.

4. If the lot slopes, look for ruts, gullies or ravines cut by rain water to determine drainage directions. If these run in the direction of a neighbor's property he has a right to ask you to keep water from your property running over his, washing out his lawn, or flooding his cellar.

5. Notice what trees you will have to cut down and those you will want to save. It takes 30 to 50 years for some trees to grow to a good size and then they may stand for 50 to 100 years more.

6. Look for rock outcroppings. Rock conditions may determine whether you will build with or without a basement.

7. Figure on where your driveway will be; how much snow shovelling or drainage it will involve. If you must curve it to spare a big tree, consider the problem of backing out.

• • •

ONE couple found the house of their dreams. The plan was perfect for their needs and preferences. They decided to build it on a hillside plot, heavily wooded and commanding an unobstructed distant view.

The land was on the south side of a road, where the plan would be naturally oriented without changes. It allowed for large window walls on the rear to face south into the woods. A knoll part way up the slope seemed to be an ideal spot for the house. Of course, some grading and clearing of the woods would be necessary.

The placing of the house was studied carefully. It seemed to fit the land, all right, and certain large trees in front and at the sides could be spared.

The cost of using a bulldozer in that area was $90 a day. It was estimated that a day or two of bulldozing would do it.

• • •

WORK started. And reality took the place of dreams. By the time the site was ready, the bulldozer had worked for seven days.

The front of the property was nearly denuded of trees. The bulldozer had to have elbow room and trucks and a concrete mixer had to get in.

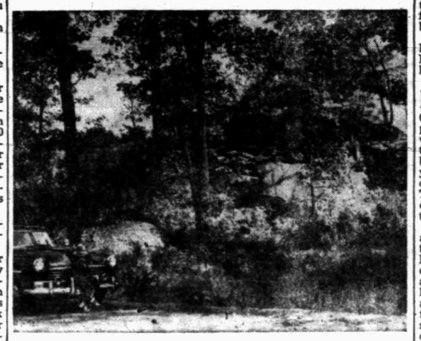
Leveling the house site gouged out the hillside to a point where the large picture windows on the rear would face a sandbank some twenty feet high—instead of the forest primeval the owners had bargained for.

Grading had buried the trunks of the few remaining big trees in front to a depth of three to four feet. This meant tree wells had to be built.

Water in the basement before the house was entirely completed called for more grading. When this was finished heavy rains demonstrated that much of the hillside water would flow nicely down on a neighbor's yard. This meant an elaborate system of drainage tiles.

The driveway turned out to be so steep that a costly hard surface became a must.

The story turned out to have a happy ending, but it took close to $2,000 to achieve it—half of that going into landscaping a property chosen for its natural beauty.



DIRT CHEAP—Real estate with rock outcroppings offers a bargain for the home planner with ideas. Unusual homes can be planned to exploit the natural beauties of land.

Fitting Plans to a Lot Opens Way for Bargains

Many desirable properties near large cities are standing idle today because they are generally believed to be too expensive to build on. These include lots in hilly or rocky locations.

One couple spent more than a year looking for a homesite in one of the most picturesque residential areas in an eastern state. Every plot they found on level land turned out to be too expensive for them, or too far from schools, markets, church, transportation and work.

Finally they found a large wooded lot, an acre and a quarter, in size, on a corner of paved streets with sewers and all utilities, convenient to everything —and it was cheap! The only drawback was a 25-foot rock ledge rising through the middle.

The real estate man who showed them the property told them frankly it was undesirable from the standpoint of the builder.

"You'd have to blast out that ledge to get a Cape Cod or Early American house in there," he said.

• • •

BUT it was a beautiful spot with 55 large oaks rising 60 to 75 feet in height. The price of the acre and a quarter was $2,000. Smaller lots across the street were selling for $7,500 because they were flat. The young couple saw possibilities of building without a basement. They would perch their house on top of the ledge and watch the world go by.

Before buying they consulted architects and builders. Some tried to discourage them. Finally they turned up in the office of Edgar Tafel, a New York architect specializing in problem sites. Tafel, who had been a student of Frank Lloyd Wright, famed functionalist, saw the same advantages in the rocky cliff that the young couple saw. He took the job.

"Today's generation of architects has a more difficult time earning a living than their predecessors," Tafel said. "Most of the level land around cities has been built on. We are called upon to design homes for lots that have not been built up for the very reason that they are hard to build on."

• • •

BUT there are definite advantages in building on a hill, he contends. The home owner gets better air and ventilation, a better view, and more privacy. Usually, except in southern California where hillside lots are considered the choicest locations, he can get his lot for less money. If he is lucky he can save on excavation costs, using the natural slope as part of his excavation.

So Tafel's clients fitted their house to the land. He designed a completely functional house of the solar type, exploiting the hilltop's southern exposure with vast window walls to capture the heat of the sun in winter and shading them with wide roof overhangs for summer months.

The garage entrance was placed on the lower level, where enough basement space could be provided for a recreation room, heating plant and laundry. Almost all of the house was unexcavated. Walls facing toward the bleak northwest were solid masonry. Walls favored with sunlight were devoted to windows — double-glazed with sealed interspaces to provide insulation.

Because the house was situated on high ground, a flat roof was especially becoming and saved considerable cubage that might have been involved in gabled construction.

However, this architect warns that hilly or rocky sites should be studied carefully before being purchased. They may require more excavation costs, more landscaping and filling to suit individual whim than conventional lots.

• • •

THE first step a prospective cliff dweller should take on finding his lot is to get the viewpoints of architects and builders. If they say building will be feasible and not too costly, and the lot has good location, good drainage and utilities—buy it.

But be sure to get information from the town engineer or local building officials on setback lines and zoning requirements. A setback line may compel you to build your house over the cliff.

When the lot is acquired have a civil engineer make a topographical survey. This may cost around $70 or so. From this, the architect will be able to make a contour map of the property. The contour map is necessary for locating the house, not only in relation to setback lines, but also in accordance with the slope of the land. It helps in orienting the house to take advantage of the best sun and the best view, as well as to avoid exposure to chill north winds.

Building jobs on odd lots call for courage on the part of the owners and ingenuity on the part of the architect.

WHY NO ONE REALLY OWNS LAND

A LAWYER will tell you that no one really owns land.

What you own is a title to a certain piece of land.

This title is passed by deed from seller to buyer, by will from testator to legatee, by foreclosure from mortgagor to mortgagee, and so on.

When you buy real estate you have this title searched. This involves tracing the chain of ownership to its origin, or to an unquestioned good source of title, to make sure that no claim is likely to turn up against your right to that land.

If your land was first acquired from the Indians by right of conquest and granted by a king of England, Spain or France to an early settler—or if it was part of the Louisiana Purchase, or a tract homesteaded from the public domain—that is the beginning in your chain of title.

A slip-up or error at some point in this long and complicated chain can cause trouble. Among such possibilities are a rightful heir not mentioned in a will, an abandoned wife deprived of her dower rights, a deed that was lost, forged, or signed by a minor or insane person, an incorrect description of boundaries and plain human mistakes.

• • •

YOUR lawyer can make a careful title search for you. And in some states you can obtain a state certificate showing that your title is clear. But if a claim arises and the court finds that the claimant is entitled to some part interest in your land, you must settle. Even if the claim is invalid, you are faced with the nuisance and expense of fighting it in court.

Because of this, title insurance has developed.

Under this system a title guaranty company searches the chain of ownership. It states any objections or flaws that may be found. It issues a policy insuring your title for as long as you hold the property. This is paid for in one single premium.

Any claim that may arise is then fought by the company and any loss that may occur is paid by the company.

• • •

AN INTERESTING example of how this works turned up recently when an owner, who held a title policy, was about to sell his property. It was then discovered that before he bought the property there had been a foreclosure action that was not properly carried out.

A process server had served the wrong man in that foreclosure case. The man served had the same name as the rightful owner at that time.

When the process server asked him if he was John Doe, he said he was. That was his name all right. Upon being served, he apparently saw a chance to make some money. He said it would not be necessary to go through the expense of completing the foreclosure, that he would give a deed to the property in return for a certain sum. This offer was accepted, the deed was given in lieu of foreclosure—a common procedure—and the man was paid off.

The result was that the subsequent owner, about to resell, did not have a clear right to the land. But his title to it was insured.

To clear the matter up—to perfect the title, as lawyers say—the title company reopened the old case, reforeclosed, and of course, paid all costs.

• • •

BUT in the meantime the prospective buyer for the property got tired of waiting and the pending sale fell through. The owner, now holding a clear title, had lost an opportunity to make a profit he might have made had his title been clear in the first place, as guaranteed by his title policy.

So the title company paid him the difference between the price he had originally paid for the property and the price he was ready to sell for when the flaw was found. It amounted to several thousand dollars.
