Rogers, the Great—Trayler, Big Banker—And He's a Texan.

By H. N. Fitzgerald

TEXAS is ever on the map. Roger Hornsby, king of the Cardinals, winner of the first great victory in baseball for St. Louis in 40 years, is a Texan and is as proud of the fact as it is possible for mortal to be. He holds the center of the stage as the idol of the fans of the world, the exponent of the cleanest sport of the world and a sportsman who ever plays the game like a gentleman.

In the world of sport Rogers Hornsby is king. In the world of sports, he is the beau ideal of the multitude.

MELVIN A. Trayler is the president-elect of the American Bankers' association. He is 48. He is the head of a great bank in Chicago. He worked in a grocery store in Hillsboro as a youth and studied law at night.

He was admitted to the bar and he was almost heartbroken when a newly elected county attorney refused to yield to the pleadings of his friends and make the youngster one of his assistants.

HE pursued the law for a very brief period and then he became a bank clerk at Malone, having bade farewell to musty law books and the song of "swifter justice and fewer technicalities."

He moved from Malone to Ballinger. Finance appealed to him, and he marked the ladder step by step. His progress in Texas was not swift enough so he jumped from Texas to East St. Louis, Ill., where he made a record as a banker and then the big fellows called him to Chicago.

All the remaining rungs of the ladder were mounted in the windy city by this former grocer clerk of Hillsboro county, Texas. Now he is nationally known as a financier and is just as proud of Texas and Rogers Hornsby, the king of the baseball world.

MELVIN A. TRAYLER did a wise thing when he abandoned the law books. If he had been appointed an assistant county attorney in his youth, the chances are that he would have continued to have been a citizen of Hill county, pdreuing the law and this too, without any great degree of success.

As a lawyer, no doubt, he realised that he was a square peg in a round hole and he extracted himself from his perilous position before it was too late. At 48 he is one of the successful bankers of America and president of the American Bankers' association.

TRAYLER must have been awake when opportunity knocked at that Hillsboro residence not many years ago. He was not only awake but he grasped opportunity by the hand, and now he is sitting at the top of the banking world as the president of the organized bankers of America.

Score two for Texas. Of course, this scoring work must be done daily in order to keep the records straight of Texas' boys who have pushed their faces into the national picture gallery.

Searchers Unable To Locate Body Of Frederick, Okla., Youth Who Drowns While Attempting To Swim Red River

FREDERICK, Okla., Oct. 13.—Efforts continuing over 20 hours have proved unavailing to rescue the body of Jake Barber, 19, Friendship community, Jackson county, who was drowned in an attempt to swim the North Fork of Red river, near Tipton, Tuesday night.

Returning from Oklahoma City, where he had been for a load of cotton pickers, Barber found the bridge across the river out and decided to swim the stream, telling a friend that affairs at his home demanded his return. He telephoned his family to have dry clothing waiting for him on the opposite bank and plunged in, seemingly making his way through the water with ease. Within a few feet of the home shore a current swept him under and he became frantic in his efforts to cross the few remaining feet of water. His efforts failed and a search begain immediately for his body.

The searching party is doing its work thoroughly holding to a rope stretched across the channel of the river and treading every foot of the stream.

Bloodhounds Put On Trail Slayers Of Pretty Borger Maid Who Is Shot To Death During Oil Field Hold-Up

Captain Roy Nochols and Three Other Texas Rangers On Way to Panhandle Oil City to Aid in Solution of Latest Crime in Vice-Infested Community

BORGER, Texas, Oct. 13. (AP)—With a full company of rangers on their way here and a number of substantial clews in the hands of the officers, prospects of finding the slayers of Miss Mildred Toothman, 16, shot to death on the outskirts of this place last night, were apparently favorable tonight. Miss Toothman met her death in a railway cut while her sister and a man companion looked on. The latest version of the slaying tonight was that Miss Toothman, with her 14-year-old sister and Allen Kendall had been to get Kendall's paycheck at a nearby office. It was on their way back that two men stepped out and presented pistols. One forced Kendall to turn his back and went through his pockets, while the other kept him covered.

Screams To Mother

The gun of the man making the search was discharged and Miss Tootham fell to the ground with a cry. The younger girl screamed so loudly that her mother, three blocks away, heard her, and the bandits fled. Two coats and a pistol found near the slaying today are believed to have been dropped in their flight.

The elder Toothmon girl had worked in a cafe. Her father, Herbert Toothmon, is a driller in the oil fields.

A ranger company consists of four men. Those on their way to Borger, where a wholesale clean-up recently was ordered by the federal government, were Captain Ray Nichols, Sergeant Wheatley and Privates Glasscock and Enzell, of company C. They were ordered to "enforce the law."

All county and city officers here are engaged in the search and bloodhounds also were being used.

OFFICERS TOLD OF BATTLE ON HOLLIDAY ROAD

Morgan Hit Over Head With Tire Pump Witnesses Tell Police

DEAD MAN IS BLAMED

He Swore Before Woman And Was Angry When Cautioned, Claim

Grady Morgan, local truck driver who died in the general hospital early Wednesday morning after lying unconscious for 30 hours, was a victim of an attack on the Holliday-Lake-Park road early last Saturday evening in which he was struck over the head with an auto tire pump.

This was the statement made public by Chief of Police George H. Hodgins yesterday following extensive questioning of two men, brothers, and the wife of one, who assert they were eye witnesses of the affair and who have named the man alleged to have wielded the pump in an altercation with Morgan. The man actually blamed for the attack has not been arrested and no charges have been filed, but police expresse belief yesterday that an arrest would follow in a short time.

Mystery Solved.

The apparent solution of the case came yesterday a few hours after Morgan's death and when it appeared that his injury might go down as an unsolved mystery. The man was found unconscious at the side of the paved road near the country club about 8 o'clock last Saturday night. His truck was sitting partially in a ditch and in such manner that it might have been struck by another car. There was no damage to the machine, however. Morgan's felt hat, with two deep creases in the top, was found nearby. His skull had been fractured and he sustained deep scalp wounds.

Events leading up to the investigation by the police started last Sunday when Chief Hodgins received an anonymous telephone call from a man who said he could probably give some clues in the Morgan case. This followed publication of reports Sunday morning that Morgan was in a critical condition.

Truck on Road.

Hodgins arranged an interview with the telephone caller and learned that Morgan's truck had stopped on the road where it was later found. This was about 6 o'clock Saturday evening. A short time later, he was told, a small sedan passing on the road ran out of gas near the truck. It contained five people.

From descriptions and other data furnished the police, Detectives Luke Hart and Luke McCoy traced down the sedan and eventually found the owner in the oil fields near Olney. This man, his brother and the latter's wife were brought to Wichita Falls where they talked willingly and made a complete recital of facts to the officers.

They Knew Morgan.

One of them, they said, had known Morgan for about a year and when their car ran out of gas near his truck, Morgan was induced to drive into a filling station after gas. This he did, returning a little later.

The statements made to the police declared that Morgan became abusive, used abusive language and that an argument started between him and one of the men over this. In the altercation that followed, it was declared, Morgan was struck twice over the head with the tire pump. Morgan was not knocked out, the statement went on, and he was quoted as having said he could drive his truck on home.

The party in the sedan then drove away, the statement continued.

Man Not Located.

It was declared the man who struck Morgan left town the next day, presumably for the Archer county fields where he expected to find work. A thorough canvass of this territory, however, failed to find any trace of him. His wife is now in Wichita Falls but disclaims knowledge of his whereabouts.

Grand jurors now in session have heard the story as related to Chief Hodgins. It has also been detailed to the district attorney's office.

Just what charges will be filed is problematical. Morgan died, presumably from the effects of the blow, without regaining consciousness and did not make a statement. Three persons who claim to have been eyewitnesses, testify that a certain man did the striking, but also testify that he was aggravated

Washington Called "Big Blundering, Bewildered Giant" By Rupert Hughes Who Writes Last Story Of President

NEW YORK, Oct. 13. (AP)—George Washington as a young man who was unlucky at cards, love, war and politics is the figure pictured by Rupert Hughes in "George Washington, the human being and the hero," a new biography out today.

"The father of this country was a swell from his sixteenth year on," says Hughes. "He rode to hounds, learned to love foppery and all the elegancies, became a past master of dancing, gambling, polite drinking and exquisite flirtation."

The loves of Washington form a large part of the volume.

"No youth of such after fame ever took his puppy loves more seriously, or was more inconstant or more unlucky than George Washington," writes Hughes.

Loved Friend's Wife.

"It began, says Hughes, with a girl he romped with at school. By early manhood Washington had loved and lost with consistent regularity. There was the girl known only as "the lowland beauty." Then came 14-year-old Mary Cary; next followed her sister, Sally Fairfax, wife of his best friend and said to have been the great love of Washington's life, and still later followed an infatuation for Mary Philipse of Yonkers.

Washington's love affair with Sally Fairfax was the most serious and longest. She was two years his senior, wife of George William Fairfax, who gave Washington his first opportunity as a surveyor when they went together into the unknown lands of the Shenandoah valley.

Washington was 22 years old and had just returned from his disastrous expedition to the Ohio river in which he had surrendered Fort Necessity to the French and also was being accused by the French of the "assassination" of a "party of ambassadors," who Washington claimed were members of an armed spying expedition.

Needed Kindness.

"If ever a man had need of a woman's kindness, Washington needed it now," writes Hughes. "He was disgusted with the world of men. He had finished with "the art military."

"It is no longer questionable that at this time Washington began to yield his heart to the love of life, who was the wife of his best friend—unless she herself had been his best friend.

"When the infatuation overcame him, how far it carried him, there is no knowing. There is no proof, and no reason to assume, that it went beyond wretched courtship on his part and teasing yet tyrannical evasion on hers. But that it went that far is mere obstinacy to deny.

"Sally Fairfax cannot be ignored in Washington's life story. She ought not to be. She deserves the honor of having a profound influence on the formation of his character. She stirred his heart

Borger, City Of 4,000 Souls, Born Of Oil, Unlovely To Look At, Now Reeks With Vice But Seeks To Shake Scum

(The following pen picture of Borger is printed at this time by the Record News because of the recent decision of Borger citizens to clean up the town. This article was written before the crusaders took action.)

BORGER, Oct. 13.—Borger is no pretty name. Nor is Borger a pretty town. It is ugly, but it was not made for looks; it was made for service—quick, rough service for quick, rough men.

Borger is the newest oil town in the world's newest oil field in the Panhandle of Texas. It stands now several thousand strong, where a few months ago the sun's morning rays felt their way across the sparse marsh grass of the plain. A railway but no dirt road crossed it. No visitor came except an occasional range cow and her furtive calf, nibbling withered provender and tail-lashing their sides to drive away the flies.

But men were busy off there at an oil rig, their lonesome talk and their sluggard songs coming back to them as if fearful of the infinite, silent stretch of level space.

Born Of Oil

A canny merchant in a plains town watched, used to the mirage yet, believeing in it. The moment oil spouted up from that derrick, hooking itself in the blue sky and drenching the drillers, the merchant, Borger, prepared to found a town.

Soon many roads criss-crossing located Borger for Borger. The country began filling with men and oil derricks. In came great trucks hauling timbers, rigs, drilling tools, nitro-glycerine, camp equipment. In came men afoot, in buggies, wagons, automobiles. Full-fledged, Borger sprang from Merchant Borger's mind and teemed with working men, storekeepers, gamblers, fakers, prostitutes—crooked people honest people.

Fires Only Tents

First there were only tents, red and blackened with service in other oil fields, many of them, for here came veterans from everywhere in an instant. There was no time for city planning. One street laid itself out along the railroad; wooden shacks replaced the tents, while men dug foundations for brick buildings. Days, excited days, came swiftly and passed, while even more days crowded up-

'S All a Mistake, Ellin Mackey's Pa Still Sore At Her For Marrying Irv'

BOSTON, Oct. 13. (AP) Reservations for Mr. and Mrs. Irving Berlin made by Al Jolson today at the Copley Plaza at about the same time as one by A. S. Mackay gave rise to a report that a reconciliation was in prospect between Mrs. Berlin and her father, Clarence H. Mackay, head of the Postal Telegraph company.

The hotel management had refused to discuss the matter and it was not until Mr. Mackay arrived that it was established that he was not the father of the song writer's wife.

Additional strength was lent to the early report by a statement that a reservation had been made at the Massachusetts General hospital for Mrs. Berlin for the expected birth of a child.

This went undenied by the hospital, although they also refused to confirm it.

POLICE GUARD PLOT WITNESS

Mrs. Wiseman Continues Story of Aimee McPherson's Subterfuge

HALL OF JUSTICE, LOS ANGELES, Calif., Oct. 13. (AP)—A squad of private detectives guarded her and a bevy of motion picture stars stared at her as Lorraine Wiseman - Sielaff resumed the stand late today as prosecution witness in the preliminary hearing of Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist, accused of criminal conspiracy to defeat justice.

The detectives were on hand as the result of several letters threatening Mrs. Wiseman, who has confessed her part in an alleged conspiracy with the religious leader to bolster the latter's story of having been kidnaped last May.

The film luminaries so often the object of stares, today were interested spectators.

She Tells Story.

Mrs. Wiseman resumed her narrative of the "coaching" she said she had received at Angelus temple, Mrs. McPherson's headquarters, to play the role of the woman in a cottage at Carmel last May and thus refute charges that the evangelist lived there several days with her former radio operator, Kenneth G. Ormiston, now a fugitive from justice.

Mrs. Wiseman testified that on August 9, Mrs. McPherson called attention to the similarity in appearance between herself and Mrs. Wiseman. She told her if she would put her hair up high on her head, people would mistake her for the evangelist.

At District Attorney Asa Keyes' request Mrs. Wiseman removed her hat and exposed her hair which was light brown with a reddish tinge.

Mrs. Wiseman then said she met Bernice Morris, secretary to the late R. A. McKinley, blind Long Beach attorney also an accuser of the evangelist on September 10. At that time the evangelist and her mother were present.

Accident Doubted.

Mrs. McPherson introduced her as the "little lady with Ormiston at Carmel." Miss Morris said she wondered about Mr. McKinley's death—whether it had been done on purpose (the lawyer was killed in an automobile accident recently near Long Beach.)

Mrs. McPherson asked who was in the front seat of the car when the lawyer was killed. Miss Morris said his body was in a standing position when she viewed it.

Miss Morris told them the witness said that the kidnapers wanted $1,500, for a map showing the location of the shack where the evangelist claimed she was held.

FATHER, 90, AND HIS SON, 50, SEE EACH OTHER FIRST TIME

PALERMO, Sicily, Oct. 13. (AP)—Father and son, aged, respectively, 90 and 50, who had never seen each other, have met for the first time. The meeting was coincident with their release from prison.

Fifty years ago a peasant from the interior of Sicily was sentenced to life imprisonment for murder. He was told that on the same day his wife had given birth to a son.

When the convict's son was 20 he learned that his father had been convicted on the false testimony of two witnesses. These the son promptly waylaid and shot. For this crime the son was sentenced to 30 years penal servitude. On the day of the son's release the father received a pardon and for the first time father and son met and embraced.

MACHINE GUNS TRIAL FACTOR

Chicago Slaying Enters Into Beer Baron's Trial At Chicago

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.(AP)—The machine gun slaying of Hymie Weiss, gangster over-lord, became a factor today in the trial of Joe Saltis and a lieutenant for the killing of a beer war rival.

In spite of the wounding of W. W. O'Brien, chief defense counsel, by the gun that ended Weiss' reign the trial of Saltis and "Lefty" Koncil went ahead today, and jurors were asked by the court before submission of evidence began whether any of them had been approached with a view to influencing their verdict.

All Say "No."

All of them answered in the negative to the question propounded at the state examination for a list of jurors had been found on Weiss' body.

While the state set out to show that Saltis and Koncil slew John "Mitters" Foley as the outgrowth of a dispute over the south side's beer trade, a coroner's jury deliberated over the bodies of Weiss and Paddy Murray, an aid, killed Monday, when machine gunners opened fire on them on State street.

A dozen witnesses described the killers and their flight, but there was no names mentioned, and no promise of any.

O'Brien, who was wounded with two others as he stood talking, according to the police version, to Weiss, in front of the gangster's office, suffered a relapse today and fear was expressed for his recovery.

Defendants Protest.

His associates in the defense of Saltis and Koncil protested strenuously today against interrogation of the jurors about possible tempering, but the court insisted that such questions were proper in view of the finding on Weiss' body of the list of jurors and witnesses, and the report that Weiss was custodian of a large fund raised for the Saltis-Koncil defense.

Ben Jacobs and Sam Pellar, who were among the Weiss sidewalk group and were wounded in the machine gun firing, were brought to the coroner's inquest today on stretchers but declined to talk until they had seen counsel.

They Disagree Over Methods To Relieve Troubles In Cotton Crisis

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 13.(AP) A vigorour fight over means of relieving the existing cotton market depression was precipitated here late today in the south-wide sion of a proposal endorsing legislsion of a proposal endorsing legislative aid for the farmer.

The proposal embodied in a resolution presented by Walter Sillers, Jr., Rosedale, Miss., would advise the resolutions committee at that time in session that the convention wanted a resolution calling for remedial action by state legislatures.

Resolution Voted.

The resolution as proposed said:

"Be it resolved, that the resolutions committee be advised that it is the sense of this convention that said committee evolve a plan and report same to this convention whereby appropriate legislation by the various states be enacted to accomplish acreage reduction for 1927 and future years."

$7,000 Subscribed.

Borger, City

on one another to get to Borger, even as human beings surged in feverishly.

Borger still is no metropolis. It is only an oil-digger's town—the hang-out for the men who do the actual drilling and incidental labor. It boasts no offices for administrative and promotion purposes; those you find 60 miles away in Amarillo—Amarillo, congested with traders, clanking silver in their hands, filling hotel lobbies with talk and tobacco smoke and dreaming of a world full of people ready to risk their all in a "field where they've never sunk a 'duster,' a dry hole."

Amarillo is to Borger what a striped silk shirt is to a jumper, and set off at so great a distance, it is like the tail wagging the dog. Borger is the dog itself and, in its own esteem, capable of wagging itself, for these men who man the rigs and trucks and lay the pipe lines, who know these holes in the ground too well, and when they invest see what they get and get it quickly—a dance, a kiss, a drink of liquor, a farm or a good bond.

Time passed in Borger. A dance hall was opened—two, three, four, half a dozen dance halls. The girls were bound for Borger before the first nail was driven. Liquor was obtainable right over bars. Alongside, whoever wished could be dealt a hand of stud poker or blackjack.

The town, accumulating 3004 inhabitan. and few modern conveniences in three months, naturally was no prettier to smell than to see. It was no New York with trunk sewers and "white wings" to wash the streets. Borger was as innocent of sanitation as a baby. It had to haul its water five, 10, 15 miles. Children, dogs, pigs, ran on the one street. Resaurants were like a rush-hour subway train with all the passengers eating or waiting for a chance to eat. And when it rained two days on end—!

Yes, Borger grew without rhyme or reason. But the liberty of the kind was sweet. Folks did about as they pleased.

Then law-abiding men arose to tame the wildcat. They improvised a jail in an old clasned tent. They sunk either end of a log chain in the ground and chained miscreants to it by the ankle, sometimes by the neck. If the prisoner had a laceration from a revolver butt, there was no Nubian slave to shoo away the droning flies which buzzed and bit while the June sun baked. If women offended beyond the standards of Borger, they too found their places along the leg chain.

"If they get drunk, rap 'em up and throw 'em in the hoosegow!" was the order. "If they gamble and dance, let 'em do it like gents and ladies!"

It was along about the third month of Boger's history that its first big problem came, a problem, however, which called not for a jail but for an undertaker. Oklahoma thugs, coming over, inspired the competition of jealous Texas hijackers, and things got dangerous for a while. These "hop heads" and "jake garglers" stopped people at night on the highroads, asked for a ride or a match and then killed if necessary—for money, which always seems so free, so inexhaustable in a new oil field. Citizens began buckling on their own six-guns, and the situation righted itself automatically.

Peddlers came, and beggers—no legged, one-legged, two legged—selling pencils. Two blind musicians came one day and stayed an hour and left beauty.

Down the long street they went slowly, a tall man behind a shorter man, the two joined by a sort of harness, their blind feet shuffling in a lock step. First, the tall man, sun-burned, stalwart, self-sufficient, shrewd, playing his guitar and singing in a full, winning voice:

"Let me call you sweetheart, I'm in love with you;
"Let me hear you whisper that you love me true."

Then the smaller man, young, with full, bronzed cheeks and a wide Texas hat, bent his impassive face over his fiddle, and, as he sang plaintively, sweetly, putting into the air of the love song the unruly "runs" of the "breakdown" the guitar answered with brusque, unpolished chords.

"Let me call you sweetheart," sang the two blind men, feeling their way along, and the "roughnecks," the gamblers, the hangers-on and roustabouts, as if ashamed a little but not ashamed too much, inched their way along behind. Girls, tough girls, with quickly rouged lips, looked out from doors. They too dropped in coins and listened wistfully as the singers moved on—hera you whisper.....love me true——"

"Let me call you sweetheart....

There went the singers, one behind the other, the sheepish crowd after them and about them. Over and over the same refrain.

Borger was having its moment of beauty, and it was not ashamed.

Here's Your Diet For Weight Reducing Drive

How to reduce weight without exercise or dieting and how to reduce weight with dieting were brought before The Record News Beauty School Wednesday morning by Mme. Ida Chernoff in the third of her lectures this week. The group of women learned that perseverance and rigid adherance to tried rules were among the things necessary to lose pounds of surplus flesh. To drink lemon or grapefruit juice immediately on arising, avoiding all sweets and starchy foods, living on a diet of fruit, salt herring, hamberger steak, or perhaps a tenderloin without any fat, tomatoes and juicy raw vegetables, and taking gluten bread—such are some of the rules for reducing the weight by diet.

Bathing in warm water with Epsom salts dissolved; rubbing the neck, arms and ankles with the "shot bag" and other methods of reducing were told by Mme. Chernoff in her lecture.

"If a woman wishes to reduce, makes up her mind to do so, and is sincere in her efforts, she will succeed, so said Mme. Chernoff. Over 500 women attended the Record News Beauty School, talking on the subject, "How to Reduce."

It is a long drawn out process of losing that surplus flesh, but with the will, there are several ways in which it may be taken off gradually, Mme. Chernoff said.

Must Eat Fruits

"Eat a half-pound of figs, raisins, dates, honey or prunes every morning," she said in her diet instructions. "Fat people have a craving for sugar, and these fruits give all the sugar that is needed. Eating the same fruits in such quantities daily reacts to turn you against sugar, getting tired of them but that is well," Mme. Chernoff declared.

Starting with the fruit and continuing its use, the other part of the diet for reduction includes the eating of salt herring, over a period of three days. "Buy the herring, but do not soak it, for it contains salt that will create a terrible thirst. Do not drink water, though to quench this thirst.

"Buttermilk is to be drunk, and it is found that buttermilk, when taken by itself is not fattening, but when taken with foods is fattening. Eat the herring and drink the buttermilk, and at the end of the three days, you will have lost four pounds." Gluten bread may be used along with this diet.

The diet continues, and again the lecturer urged the women not to attempt to reduce too quickly, because of lowering the vitality.

Other Diets, Too

Continuing the diet, lamb chops and pineapple should be eaten for a week, and that allows one to reduce 8 pounds in seven days. "Then you may start on another diet, that of hamburger steak. No onions, bread crumbs or eggs should be used, and the steak should be broiled, with no oil or fat used."

With this meat, tomatoes, either raw of cooked may be taken, the speaker said and told also benefits that might be derived from tomato and raw vegetables including lettuce and celery.

Mme. Chernoff divulged a secret when she told how a short handled sink plunger used about the hips and abdomen would reduce the weight. A small bag filled with six pounds of shot used on the ankles, arm and back of the neck in massaging motion reduces those portions of the body.

For external use, bathing in Epsom salts is a help to reduction, the specialist pointed out. One pound of salts to a full tub of warm water with the warm water running in is sufficient, and the body should be kept in this solution for only eight or ten minutes. This bath should always be taken before going to bed. Then without drying the body wrap a blanket around it, and go to bed, and take a cool sponge bath in the morning, she pointed out.

Mme. Chernoff will speak this morning at the Olympic theatre at 10:30 o'clock on how to remove pimples, oily skin, enlarged pores, blackheads, whiteheads and treatment for broken veins in the face; care of the hair and scalp. A surprise which has been kept a secret is to be one of the features of Thursday morning's session, it was announced.

On Friday morning, the school will be conducted for women only.

Group Organized.

A group of Camp Fire Girls, under the leadership of Mrs. R. E. Davis, is being organized with the assistance of Thelma Bridges who is working on her "Torch Burner's" rank and majoring in leadership. The girls met at the home of Mrs. Davis, 2162 Avenue H and discussed plans for the group.

How to stop BOILS!

There's only one way to stop boils. Stop the cause of boils! That's common sense—isn't it? All right. Boils thrive because the blood gets so weak in, healthy, red cells that it can't throw off the impurities that get into the body. There's not enough rich, red blood to purify the system.

Now—S. S. S. builds back the blood to fighting strength. S. S. S. builds red-blood-cells—builds them by the millions! Boils dry up!

S. S. S. is the thing. Impurities that cause boils and other skin eruptions can't stand up against the rich, healthy, red blood that S. S. S. builds. That's all there is to it.

Stop boils with S. S. S. It's the way. Get it at any druggist. The larger bottle is more economical.

Why Should Girl of 20 Be Forced To Marry?

Why Is The Whole World Bent On Marrying Off the Bachelor Girl?—Why a Doormat Mother Is Really to Blame for Her Selfish Daughter—Why "Free" Love Is Not Possible.

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Dorothy Dix—Why is it that the whole world seems in a conspiracy to force a girl into marriage? I am 20 and am earning a good salary. I love my work. But am I allowed to enjoy my life in my own way? Ah, no. My little world holds up its hands in horror because I am not married nor thinking of marriage. My grandmother is shocked when I say that I do not want to marry. My girl friends who are married hand me out dirty digs because I am single. Three old-maid aunts stand as grim warnings of my fate if I do not change my opinion. I can't even go to the movies without having matrimony held up as the be-all and end-all of life.

Is marriage indeed the only happiness? Am I laying the foundation for a lonely old age? What about it?

CATHREINE.

Answer: A clever old maid said once that it was better to be laughed at because you were not married than not to be able to laugh because you were married. And that about sums up the situation, Cathreine.

Undoubtedly an ideal marriage, in which a man and woman find their real mates, in which love and peace reign, comes nearer to being a bit of heaven on earth than anything else in the world. But the reverse of this is equally true and there is no other such understudy of purgatory as a mismated couple finds in an uncongenial and unhappy marriage. So there you are, and take it depends upon how much ing blood you have whether you sporting a chance on the greatest gamble ever devised.

As for your family and friends thinking that you are missing all the worth-while things by not marrying, that merely shows how archaic their ideas are. Nobody pities the unmarried woman in these days. On the contrary, she is an object of envy. And it is oftener the poor, harrassed, worn-out wife and mother who weeps out her troubles on the spinster's breast than it is the spinister who asks for a vote of sympathy from her married friends.

In olden days it was a forlorn thing to be an old maid, because a woman's meal-ticket and her social position depended upon her catching a husband, and, so, for her to remain single, was a confession of failure and a badge of defeat.

But nowadays the world is full of such a number of things besides a husband that for a girl that marriage is optional, not compulsory, and she is left to follow her own inclinations in the matter.

Nobody is foolish enough to think that a woman who is single failed to marry because she couldn't marry. No one is silly enough to believe that she spends her time in vain repining because she isn't cooking some man's dinner or pushing a preambulator.

The bachelor girl is on the same plane of the bachelor man, with pretty much the same rights and privileges. She has her own professions, her own independence, her own latchkey, her own money, her own home, and these bring to her just such happiness as they bring to him.

And such penalties. We cannot have out cake and eat it too, and if we play safe and refuse the burden of family life we also miss the companionship of family life.

But at 20 a young woman is not called upon to decide this question of whether to marry or stay single. She has about fifteen more years in which to debate it, and during that time some man is pretty sure to come along and turn all her arguments in favor of single blessedness into nonsense.

DOROTHY DIX.

COFFEE CONTENTMENT

Win or lose— here's a "victory cup" for everyone!

THERE'S a Happy Brotherhood of those who keep their "place in the sun"—no matter what! Their team may win or lose; their "bets" may go right or wrong, they may or may not outshine and outshout the rest of the "rooters" in the Grandstand of Life—but this much they know:

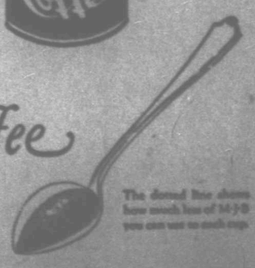

There's always a "victory cup" waiting for them in M·J·B!

For sheer coffee-contentment, nothing scores day in and day out like M·J·B. And it's all because of a flavor—a rich, full-fledged flavor that gives you the "contented feeling" you expect from coffee. A flavor that belongs to M·J·B—to M·J·B alone.

What's more, this flavor isn't fickle or fleeting—it's constant! It's always there to match your mood, no matter how you make your coffee, no matter how you like it—strong, medium or mild.

M·J·B meets every taste in Coffee

BORGER CRUDE BRINGS 50 CENTS PER BARREL UNDER VALUE

EXCESS OUTPUT MID-CONTINENT FIELDS CAUSE

Oil Men Confer At Amarillo To Discuss Situation In Oil Market

PRICE BREAK CERTAIN

Borger, Spindle Top, California Fields Already Feeling Strain

Special to The Record News.

AMARILLO, Oct. 13.—Borger crude is selling for 50 cents a barrel less than its comparative value, it was brought out at a meeting last night of W. S. Farish, president of the Humble Oil and Refining company, and R. G. Barnum, president of the West Texas Oil and Gas association.

The meeting was also attended by Amarillo independents and representatives of the Federal Trade commission and the department of justice.

$1.25 a Barrel.

Farish said that the Humble is paying only $1.25 per barrel for Borger crude because it is not worth more than that to the Humble. He stated that the purchases of his company are being stored where they will probably remain for two or three years. He said that his company must receive $2.40 per barrel for this crude in order not to lose money, that price allowing for the cost of storage, loss by evaporation, and six per cent interest on the money invested.

Sulphur content lowers the value of the Borger crude 35 cents per barrel, according to Mr. Farish, although it is selling for 85 cents less than other mid-continent oil of the same gravity. He expressed the opinion that this was too great a differential but that the buyers would naturally take advantage of it.

Producers Suffer.

The major companies as well as the independents are suffering from the low markets, Mr. Farish declared. Their profits are realized on high and steady prices.

The price of crude is shaky all over the mid-continent due to the increased production of nearly all fields, and it has already broken at the points of greatest pressure, Borger, Spindle Top and California, the Humble president asserted.

LOOKS TOO CLOSE

Bexar County Deputy Attorney 'Looks' Self Out of Job.

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 13.(AP)—Fred Cowen, Bexar county's official who looked himself out of a job, Wednesday ended his tenure of office as an assistant district attorney.

Cowen "lost his job" when he discovered a law passed by the last legislature which prevented the employment by the state of an assistant district attorney in districts comprised of but one county. Cowen's salary since his appointment had been paid by the state.

ACCIDENT FATAL.

Wife of Clarkesville Merchant Killed In Wreck.

CLARKESVILLE, Texas, Oct. 13. (AP)—Mrs. Frank Miesch, wife of a Clarkesville merchant, was killed in an automobile accident, two miles west of Avery Wednesday, enroute from Clarkesville to Texarkana with a party of friends. Others in the car were slightly injured.

THE RAILS LOSE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13. (AP) Mrs. Coolidge selected a White House automobile rather than a train for a trip today to Mercersburg academy, in Pennsylvania, where she will dedicate a new $600,000 chapel.

The two sons of President and Mrs. Coolidge were students at the academy several years ago.

HE GETS TOO RECKLESS

WICHITA, Kan., Oct. 13. (AP)—Gus Flemming, negro, is in the city jail here charged with reckless driving with his horse and wagon.

Flemming ran over Jimmie Bolster, 7-year-old, and injured the lad's foot.

This is the first time in years that a man has been arrested here for driving a horse and wagon recklessly.

DO YOU KNOW AS MUCH AS YOUR CAT?

She's a knowing cat.

She asks for little—just her meals, a saucer of milk and a place in the sun. She gets plenty of sleep and exercise. She never worries, never frets. What is the result? Such vitality and resistance that we say, "Cats have nine lives."

What does your cat do when she is not well? She eats catnip, if she can find it. She eats grass and certain green plants to which her instinct leads her.

Your cat takes herbs for a tonic.

Did you ever stop to think that Old Mother Nature, who supplies the herbs necessary to your cat's health, has also provided the herbs necessary to your own well-being?

You don't have to hunt for them as the cat does. The herbs you need are skillfully blended and compounded in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, an old-fashioned tonic that will help to restore your energy.

Feels Better Now

Mrs. Gust Green of 401 Lincoln Park Boulevard, Rockford, Illinois, writes: "I was weak and run-down but the Vegetable Compound has helped me and I feel better now. I recommend it to all women who need more strength."

For more than fifty years this medicine has been taken by women with very satisfactory results.

Claim Compressed Air Can Increase Output

Oil production in the United States can be increased from 5 to 400 per cent by the application of compressed gas or air to wells, it is claimed by the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers in session at Tulsa.

The discussion showed that this method of increasing production is used in the fields of California and other parts of the United States including the mid-continent as well as in Venzuela.

Any reduction in the gravity and gasoline content of the oil due to the use of this method is more than overcome by the greatly increased output, it was pointed out, making the method profitable. This means of oil recovery may become a feature of the Panhandle fields owing to the fact that the greatest gas pressure there is found above the oil production level and must be cased off before penetrating the pay formation. The amount of gas found with the oil in that district is insufficient to adequately flow the oil, hence the method would be particularly adaptable to that area.

Companies having holdings in many parts of Texas and Oklahoma paid close attention to the discussion and it may be that the practice will become widespread in the mid-continent field.

California operators declared that wells in that state have been held up for two years practically at their initial output by the use of compressed air.

Those of you who listened to Mme. Ida Chernoff's lectures at the Health and Beauty School this week have doubtless been impressed by the soundness of her views on cleanliness and its relation to health and beauty. Ivory has few staunchier friends than Mme. Chernoff.

Skin-beauty ~ the result of simple cleansing

A normal complexion has both beauty and remarkable powers of resistance—if properly cared for.

But proper care is a simple matter.

To medical authorities, proper care chiefly means daily washing with lukewarm water and a pure, mild soap. If this simple care fails to keep your skin healthy and attractive, you probably need individual medical advice.

Don't rely upon your soap for any purely medical purpose. The very best medical authorities say, "Medicated soaps are unnecessary, and usually harmful to the normal skin."

Don't rely upon the application of soaps which promise magical beauty from complicated "methods," for no soap can keep such promises.

Use soap to keep the skin clean—to clean is soap's only duty. Cleanliness is the only desirable result of its use. Cleanliness is beauty's best ally.

In supplying Ivory Soap for the gentle cleansing of the skin, we are supported, not only by the highest medical authority, but by the results of forty-seven years of experience in the manufacture of this pure, mild soap which has been the safe beauty soap of millions of women.

Ivory Soap has but one purpose—to cleanse safely. It promises no magic except the magic of healthful, refreshing cleanliness. And, cost what it may, soap can provide nothing more desirable. You can buy Ivory in all its forms at the nearest grocery, drug or department store.

For your "crowning glory"

After all, the scalp from which the hair emerges is but part of your skin. It, too, must be kept clean and healthy, if you are to possess the kind of hair that deserves to be termed—"woman's crowning glory." Keep your hair clean and fluffy with frequent Ivory shampoos—two or three times a month is considered desirable. Ivory's rich lather cleanses thoroughly and safely and rinses easily. Millions of women are indebted to Ivory for retaining the soft loveliness of their hair.

Ivory Soap Flakes is the most convenient form for this purpose because the snow-white, tissue-thin flakes dissolve so readily.

ACIDS MAKE KIDNEYS HURT

Drink Water Freely and Often, and if Bladder Bothers Take Salts

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble because we often eat too much rich food. Our blood is filled with acids which the kidneys strive to filter out; they weaken from overwork, become sluggish, the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in helaht.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache, or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or if you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, begin drinking lots of good soft water and get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.—Adv.

Vast Numbers Are Slowly Poisoned!

The human race is being slowly poisoned! Authorities declare that nine out of every ten persons are victims of intestinal stasis (CONSTIPATION). This is producing self poisoning! And the startling disclosure is that few people realize it!

They know they suffer from headaches—they feel grouchy and dull—with no appetite and a bad taste. # NATURAL GAS

An Aid to Beauty

When you are counting up factors for good health and the care of beauty, don't forget natural gas.

It has done away with the drudgery of coal and wood fires, and cooking has become a quick, pleasant part of the day.

Natural gas has enabled women to have plenty of hot water, even, comfortable temperature in the house and not a particle of soot or ash to dirty the house.

FIRES AND FIREPROOFING

THE PRESS of the country has devoted a generous amount of space this week to the subject of fire prevention. If the toll of 20,000 lives and the property loss of $550,000,000 or more continues year after year, it's not because of any lack of publicity given in the facts. The newspapers are doing their full share in the shape of warnings, cautionary advice and rules of action. The school teachers of the country are showing deep interest in the matter as well, and the instruction they are giving their charges as to fire hazards will doubtless bear much wholesome fruit. Especially of much permanent practical value are the school fire drills—a child has learned a great deal when it knows how to conduct itself with composure and avoid stampedes in time of emergency.

No doubt there will continue to be fires as long as so much inflammable material is in the world to burn. With a sort of Dean Inge gloom the Cincinnati Enquirer observe "what civilization must learn—else the fire demon is to be loosed upon the world indefinitely—is that all the care in the world, under present conditions of building, cannot safeguard it against danger and loss from this cause. Perhaps the succeeding generation will be wiser than the present, though much progress has been made in the direction of building construction impregnable to fire assault. In the last analysis, the only security society confidently can rely upon is that provided in the construction of buildings that will not burn."

Of course, an absolute fireproof civilization is no more to be hoped for than a sinless world, but that's no reason why society's efforts to minimize fire and sin should be relaxed. What if 100 per cent perfection is beyond society's reach. Society should aim high and so act as to make itself as nearly as possible fireproof in both this world and the next.

MYSTERY SOLVED

WHAT seems to have totally mystified the police of Chicago in the constant recurrence of murders and other crimes of violence there was never so mysterious to the people who had no connection with law enforcement. Those people, of course, did not know, nor did they even pretend to know the identities of the different gunmen and gangsters who actually shot and killed other gangsters, but they had a very good idea about the inspiration for such killings. Nor were the people deluded into believing that the refusal of the wounded men to name their slayers before death came rendered the police absolutely impotent.

If there was anything mysterious to the general public about the continuance of gang and rum running killings it was the why of the police failure to make arrests. And that was not very mysterious. Those having no connection with the enforcement of the law felt reasonably certain that there was another reason other than the sealed lips of the wounded gangsters why the police were never able to detect and arrest the slayers. And that feeling has been given strong support and confirmation through the recent confession of one of the gang leaders.

Federal authorities apparently, have succeeded in breaking the silence that sealed so many lips. One of the Genna gang has confessed that the lawless operations of his gang in violation of the prohibition law were made possible through the connivance of the police. That lawbreaker has admitted that his gang manufactured 500 gallons of illegal alcohol daily for which $8 a gallon was received. All of this work, he says, "was done with the full knowledge, consent and approval of the police of Chicago, insofar as the police were in touch or in the neighborhood, or had said business under their jurisdiction." Naturally the Genna gang was paying for this protection and its payments, according to the leader's confession went as high as $6,500 a month.

The federal authorities who have been able to pry open the lips of gangdom declare that at least five police captains, and possibly other officials, will be indicted in the lawless conspiracy. When the proof against them is made conclusive there should be no mercy extended to a single one. Every law enforcing officer found to have been traitorous to his duty should be punished to the limit. If they are, then the mystery of the unsolved crimes will work about to its solution. Murders and other crimes of violence have been common in Chicago and elsewhere because enforcement of other laws against the murderers was never carried out. And law enforcement never was carried out not because the law enforcers could not do so, but because they refused to do so.

The veil has been turned from a supposed mystery that never was in any way mysterious.

LICENSES FOR FOREST TOURISTS

THE Canadian forestry association's proposal that travelers in the Dominion's forests be required to take out licenses seems rather harsh; yet action scarcely less drastic has been taken at times in the United States to protect the timberlands. The Canadian plan has for its object safeguarding of the woods from fire. Here in Pennsylvania several years ago the governor suspended the opening of the hunting season for a few days during a period of drought, fearing that gunners might set the forests on fire. In the national forests smoking has occasionally been forbidden when the fire danger was great.

Whether licensing forest tourists would assure that none but prudent persons would visit the timberlands is doubtful. If a fee should be charged for a license, a fund could be raised, adequate, perhaps, for the employment of additional fire wardens or the adoption of other protective measures. In principle it would be more unfair thus to tax campers and tourists for the use of the forests than to exact license fees from hunters and fishermen for the privilege of utilizing the state's natural resources.

However, it is extremely doubtful if public sentiment will sanction the Canadian forestry association's schemes. It is interesting chiefly as showing how serious is the situation when such a drastic remedy is suggested. Flames are one of the big factors in consuming our supply of trees, which are disappearing more rapidly than a new supply of wood is being produced. If a timber famine comes, forest fires will be mainly responsible. Therein will lie the justification for radical procedure such as the proposed requirement that forest users shall be licensed.

GOD WITHIN NECESSARY

Rev. Holland Gold is a famous pulpit orator and author of bedtime Bible stories for children. He has given to the world his most recent conviction, "God within is more effective than law without." In other words, if a man be righteous within he will be righteous without, regardless of man-made law and its enforcement.

SOMETIMES THEY KICK

A man announcing himself as a minister of the gospel came in the other day with four typewritten pages of discussion on the question of whether or not Sunday is the Lord's day—and why.

Of course he proved by scriptural quotation and abstract reasoning that Sunday is a day to be devoted to prayer and worship; that it is a period set apart and that all those who deign to gather pelf are headed for Hades with the bridle off. In the end of his dissertion wound up with a rather heated indictment of fair associations, movie houses and other iniquitous enterprises as may compete with the church for public patronage.

The gentleman was not only chagrined but wrathful when his offering was declined with thanks at being unsuitable for publication. He very plainly intimated that had it been a contribution from a movie show or something else equally diabolical, it would get preferred position.

In taking this stand he hurt no one's feelings and accomplished nothing but a demonstration of human frailty every one exhibits sooner or later. Because he was sincere and felt deeply on the matter he thought that any one refusing to agree with his view of a question was in league with the foe. It is a natural inclination to impute to others a reactionary and impartial attitude on debatable questions. And few people seem to learn that in assuming such a stand, they only intensify whatever hostility they may have previously engendered. Aggressiveness and combativeness has a place, but sometimes its recoil is greater than its proper kick.

IN CAPABLE HANDS

Wichita Falls religious leaders generally are highly elated at action taken in Dallas Tuesday appointing Rev. E. V. Cole, popular and capable Electra minister, as editor of the Texas Christian Advocate.

Rev. Cole through an extensive residence in North Texas has built up a solid and enduring reputation as a theologian, student and man. Materially, his church at Electra has prospered; but what is more important, it has advanced steadily and sanely in its religious program. It holds an enviable place in the councils of North Texas Methodism and is a recognized factor in the civic and religious life of the community it serves.

This, of course, is not due entirely to the efforts of its pastor. Others have worked and labored unstintingly. But it is a truism that all great enterprises are usually the reflection of the thought and activity of a leader.

As he goes to Dallas after the North Texas Methodist conference in Wichita Falls next month, Rev. Cole will take with him the sincere wishes for success of his many friends in this section; and he will go, too, carrying the confidence of these same friends in his ability to build of the Advocate a publication that may serve even more admirably than it does at present the ends of Texas Methodism.

Lyrics of Life

RATHER A ROSE

Rather a rose from hands we love
Than gold from hands we hate.
We dream so much of money, of
A purse, a proud estate,
And yet some day some hour may be
(Our saddest hour, God knows)
Though hands may give us gold, when we
Would rather have a rose.

Ah, I would rather have a flower
Some simple shepherd gave
Than be a princess in a tower,
My heart within a grave.
The flower will fade, yet not as fast
As gold will fade, God knows;
I know some hour would come at last
I'd rather have a rose.

And, choosing joys, remember this,
Whether a man or maid:
When love you want, when love you miss,
The brightest gold will fade.
Make sure of love. The rich alone
Are poor indeed. God knows.
If only one thing I could own,
I'd rather have a rose.

If both I have, and one must lose,
They let my gold depart;
An empty purse I'd rather choose
Than have an empty heart.
If neither one is left to me,
I'd rather have, God knows,
If only just a memory,
The memory of a rose.

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

By MARY BLAKE

LIBRA

Today's planetary aspects show a continuation of yesterday's adverse conditions until after noon. They then abruptly change, and become exceedingly favorable, remaining so for the balance of the day. Under such conditions, it would be folly to attend to anything, during the morning, that is not of a routine character. Thereafter, however, there can only be good attained by releasing your pent-up energies, and putting into immdeiate execution those plans which you have been holding in leash. During the evening, there will be evidenced very stimulating vibrations ;these will conduce to success of all social or family gatherings.

Children born today will, during infancy, suffer more than is usual from the ailments of early childhood. If care be given to proper alimentation and plenty of fresh air environment provided these illnesses—none of which will be organic—ned cause neither alarm or anxiety. The signs denote that they will attain a normal adulthood. Their characters will be strong, although not attractive. They will lack sympathy or consideration for others. They also, will be very unforgiving and disposed to nurse alleged wrongs. Not fired with much ambition, and their thoughts occupied w.. petty things, they will not be very happy or successful.

If today is your birthday, you are very often precipitous in your actions, and this, on many occasions, has got you into serious difficulties. You do things impulsively, at times, that serious consideration would preclude. It is also to be regretted that you are so positive, and so "cock-sure" of yourself and your opinions, and it would be a godsend to you if you could find a mirror, in which you could view reflected, not yourself as you think you are but yourself as others, who know you, see you. You are abrupt in actions, as well as in speech, and have frequently, thereby, earned for yourself the character of being rude. The most efficacious remedy for your condition is a balance wheel. If you have a mate who can act in this capacity, it will be much to ameliorate ... is incompatible with peace, harmony, and good fellowship. You are capable of a great, strong love, and you should find someone else, other than yourself, on whom to bestow this.

What Do You Know About It?

DAILY SCIENCE SIX.

1. What are the advantages of water power over coal power?
2. Is Niagara Falls being used for water power as much as it might be?
3. What country makes the most use of its water power?
4. Where are the tides used for water power?
5. What are the disadvantages of using the tides for water power?
6. What is the only form of power that costs nothing and involves essentially no property rights?

Answers to these questions in tomorrow's Record News.

THE COST OF WATER.

Water seems to be free for everybody, at least in cities, because the cost of supplying it is included in general taxes; as a matter of fact, it is one of the biggest industries in America to supply fresh water to our endless cities. In some places like Key West there is not a drop of fresh water, and it has to be sent down the railroad that crosses the keys in great tank cars and must be used sparingly. Where a dense population in the East Indies demands intensive agriculture, rice is grown on mountain terraces. To keep the fields saturated with water, men, women and children spend their lives carrying water up in vessels on their backs and pouring the precious fluid out on the thirsty mountain side.

What do you know about that?

Answers To Yesterday's Questions.

1. A mountain cannot be precisely defined, as in flat countries lower hills are called mountains; it can only be said that it is an elevation which compared with a plateau has a small summit area.
2. An alp is an upland meadow.
3. La Paz, capital of Bolivia, is the highest capital in the world, at some 13,000 feet altitude.
4. The symptoms of mountain sickness are nausea, nosebleed, difficult breathing, weak fluttering heart, and great weariness under exertion.
5. The Ozarks and the Black Hills are mountain ranges found in the middle west.
6. The Catskills and the Adirondacks are two mountain ranges found in New York state.

Farmers to Cut Down On Cotton Picking Price

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Oct. 13.—Reduction of wages 20 per cent by county farmers for cotton pickers is in prospect here this week, following the continued slump in the price of the staple on the large markets. Two meetings have been held in the county, one at Tipton another at Frederick, at which it was proposed that the farmers pledge themselves to pay only $1 per hundred for picking. They are now paying from $1.25 to $1.50 per hundred.

A mass meeting of county farmers has been called to be held at the courthouse at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, at which time an effort will be made to organize and pledge them to maintain this wage scale.

Important Step.

With thousands of imported laborers in the country for the cotton harvest the step will have an important hearing on the prosperity of all the towns of the county, as well as on the gross receipts of the farmers. On an average a picker will gather two hundred pounds of cotton. The harvest season will average at least one rainy day a week during which time the pickers cannot work. With an average earning of $10 a week pickers point out that they can barely subsist, as they board themselves for this wage.

Hundreds of the pickers in this county are destitute. The continued rains of the past two weeks have kept them out of the fields and what money they brought with them is spent. Farmers, in many instances have been boarding them to hold them for good weather, and for this reason have the whip-hand over the pickers, who for the most part do not realize that a mild form of peonage is being practiced when the farmer tells them they cannot leave him until their "debt" is paid.

Transportation being partially crippled also plays into the hands of the farmers at this time as men here in cars are practically marooned on account of bridges being out and unsafe.

Pickers Leaving.

Scores of pickers, however, are leaving, some walking, others paying their last few dollars for railroad tickets, rather than submit to what they believe an injustice.

At the Tipton meeting there were threats made to "wait on" any farmer who exceeded the wage scale, but no means other than primitive ones were suggested to keep outside labor agents from luring the fast dwindling number of pickers away from the county.

The farmers' project seems doomed to disaster as long as adjoining counties and the counties in the Texas Panhandle continue to pay a fair price for picking.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's receipe and folks are again using it to keep a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product for 75 cents, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphus Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.—Adv.

TEXAS WINS IN MAJOR POINTS

Oklahoma Boundary Decision Classed Big Victory By State Counsel

S. RAYMOND BROOKS
Staff Correspondent.

AUSTIN, Oct. 13.—Texas won not only all it asked, but more than claimed, in the supreme court decision on the hundredth meridian boundary suit between Texas and Oklahoma, handed down this week, according to former Attorney General W. A. Keeling, who represented the state when the case was made.

The victory was complete for Texas, General Keeling said. In company with A. A. Stiles, one of the United States boundary commissioners in the Red river boundary case, he discussed the hundredth meridian suit and pointed out that while Texas was accepting the "Kidder line," the federal court held the true hundredth meridian must be established, which moves the starting point of the new boundary over several hundred feet, adding considerably to the wedge-shaped slice of territory which Texas won by the decision.

Cureton Filed Case.

The Texas suit for establishing the true boundary was prepared and filed by Attorney General C. M. Cureton, now chief justice of Texas supreme court, it was pointed out. General Keeling succeeded him as attorney general, and carried the case through.

Arthur D. Kidder, who several years ago established the tentative ground-marks of the hundredth meridian boundary, was one of the two commissioners who established the new Red river boundary line in the first of the two big suits between Texas and Oklahoma, Major Stiles of Austin being the other.

The boundary litigation with Oklahoma was begun in the Hobby administration.

Many Acres Involved.

The victory at Washington this week adds a strip beginning at several hundred feet wide at the point of the wedge, along the east side of Childress county, the slice of newly-acquired territory growing wider as it extends up the east side of Childress, Collingsworth, Wheeler, Hamphill and Lipscomb counties. Thousands of acres of land was added to the Texas counties by the decision.

MEDDLESOME MOLLY THE BAD LITTLE DOLLY
BY MARTHA HART

At last the dolly's [doll] was dry and she was ready to leave the [sand] and the pond. It was hard to get away, for the [fish] thought she was so beautiful that he begged her to stay always.

"I like to look at your pretty [face] and your pink [dress]," he said.

"But I don't like the pond," answered the [doll]. "I don't like [sand] and I don't like [fish], and to tell the truth, I don't like [sand] either."

The poor [fish] gave such a big sigh that he swelled to almost twice his natural size.

LONG RANGE INTEREST WILL CENTER ON QUANAH'S GAME IN CHILDRESS LAIR FRIDAY

Brewster's Iowa Park Eleven Hooks Up With Electra Tigers—Chillicothe Goes After Crowell

BY BLONDY CROSS

When Coach J. O. Morgan's Quanah Indians sally up the line Friday afternoon and attack J. O. Mitchell's Childress Bobcats on the Jungaleers' home grid quite a bit of long range interest will be centered on the game. For this meeting stands as the first real test of 1926 the Indians, new class A entries, have carded.

Vernon, Electra and Wichita Falls coaches and players have their sights leveled on Morgan's crew. Not many days from now each of the north Texas "big three" will do battle with the Tribe. Heretofore, Wichita Falls, Vernon and Electra have been unmolested in their fights for the class A title of the section but this year Quanah was raised from class B ranking and scheduled with the original "big three."

Childress although a class B team, stacks up as formidably as any eleven in the section. In the giant Captain Sport, fullback, Dowis and Bybe, also backfield man, Nichols, Greer, Baggert and Sullivan, first class linemen, Coach Mitchell has a nucleus around which he has developed a comparatively well-balanced, moderate weight and hard-fighting machine.

Indians Lighter.

Quanah probably will be outweighed and perhaps outplayed by a more experienced team, but if Morgan's outfit gives a good account of itself and especially should it win, then the storm warning is out for Wichita Falls, Vernon and Electra. However, it is hardly within reason to expect the Indians to come through victorious. Morgan's lads are light and many of them lacking in experience very much.

Morgan has but a shell of the 1925 Quanah team unless he is fortunate enough to find it possibly lately to straighten out a host of ineligibilities. Jess Frazier, 140-pound quarter, is his most experienced player. In Bill Cook and Bill Crawford he has a couple of 160-pound linemen who are fighters and show promise of developing.

Lacks Material.

Morgan remarked while the writer was on a recent visit to Quanah: "I'll be tickled to death if I could rake around and find enough men to develop a team that will weigh as much as 145 pounds average." That in a nutshell is the situation confronting Quanah's coach. If in recent days he has been able to make a number of radical changes for the better, then Quanah may give Childress a real battle tomorrow. And in doing so serve notice as a threat to the "big three."

HAWKS PRIMED FOR INVASION

Brewster's Hawks, in a last-minute shift of arrangements, have changed from their schedule game with Bellevue and billed a game with Reese's Electra Tigers at Iowa Park Friday. The Birds are planning a warm reception for the Bengals, starting at 4 o'clock.

The class A Tigers evidently don't look very dangerous to the class B Hawks, for last night Coach Brewster declared, "We expect to make Jim Reese's 'four horsemen' look like a quartet of burros before we get through with them."

The Parkers will be outweighed but they are fairly confident of victory, optimism caused by that 79 to 0 licking handed Fairview last week.

On the other hand, Reese isn't expected to open up at his hardest, fearing injury to players and the conference opener with Wichita Falls but a week off.

The Parkers have not been any to successful so far this season, playing three games against heavier adversaries and losing two, but the clubs in tomorrow's tilt are expected to be more evenly matched.

Brewster's boys are hard-fighting little fellows. In Filmore, Creaves, Enloe and Beasley he has as classy a set of backs, considering their lack of weight, as can be found in the section. This quartet probably will carry the bulk of the attack.

D. Smith and Penn are selected for the wing positions. Wigley, Fields, Fitzgerald and Moorshead will start in the line.

Denny, Corridor, Thompson and Wylie have been on the casualty role but it was said yesterday that any one or perhaps all four may be in good enough condition to enter the game at some stage.

"POLICE" READY TO DO BATTLE

Cowden's Chillicothe youngsters tackle the hardy Crowell outfit Friday. The Chillicothe boys probably will get beat but you can lay your last nickel they will be in the game fighting to the limit all the way.

Cowden has stuck together a little club that, as remarked here before, doesn't expect to win any championships this year, but always does expect to give a good account of itself. And the "Police" have been doing exactly that. They gave Quanah a couple of mighty tough battles, although outweighed and outnumbered in that they ran far short of substitute material. Last week they went down to defeat before the heavy Electra eleven but waged a noble fight all the way.

In White, Kilgore, Stevens, Nuckles, Word, Tabor, Price, Davis, Creighton and Hansard, Chillicothe has a gang of battlers who are little but loud. If sheer fight and nerve, not brawn, speed and experience, augured victory, then the "Police" would never lose a game.

Oh, For Career Of An Athalete!

Second, Third and Fourth Places Cleanup On Series Coin

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.(AP)—Distribution of players' pool money from the world series which goes to second, third and fourth place clubs in each major league was announced Wednesday from the office of K. M. Landis, baseball commissioner.

The second place club, the Cincinnati Nationals and the Cleveland Americans, each were given $21,932.54 after the pennant winning Cardinals and Yankees had gotten their share. Cleveland divided its award into 25 shares of $821.25 and three one-third shares at $273.75. Cincinnati split its money into 23 full shares of $1,034.17 and made six half shares and three one-third shares of the balance.

Third place money was divided between the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Philadelphia Athletics, each receiving $18,615.03. Pittsburgh made 22 $725.36 shares and distributed the remainder among players who have been with the team only a short time, club house attendants and club officials. Connie Mack's club cut its purse into 26 shares of $712.12 and gave $50 to two players who joined the club late in the year.

The Chicago Cubs and the Washington Senators, fourth place teams, each got $9,307.52. The Cubs made 27 shares of $344.72 out of their pot. The Senators have not announced their division.

The Cubs received, in addition to their world series money, $16,-332 as the losers' share of the city series gate, while the White Sox, one notch too low in the standing to share in the world series pool, received $24,488.01 as the winners' earnings from the city series.

A GREEN MENACE'

Tulane Invades New York Followed By Ohio State Eleven

NEW YORK, Oct. 13. (AP)—A green-clad figure from the far south and a battering ram from the middlewest, with a touch of scarlet in his football costume, loomed tonight as distinct menaces on the football horizon for two New York elevens Saturday.

Tulane university was moving north from New Orleans and Johnny Menville, a back with good control, prepared to attempt to throw bullet-like forward passes past the New York university defense. At the same time Columbia university viewed with alarm the towering figure of Marty Karow, who showed a blue and white team one year ago how bucking can be utilized to the best advantage when Ohio State was at Columbus.

The Greenbacks from Tulane may be expected to depend on their passing attack in any and all emergencies. Clark Shaughnessy, former Minnesota star, for seven years has been teaching Tulane teams to pass and last spring signed a new contract to continue his instructions for ten years longer.

DANA DISAPPOINTED

Aggies Drill on Punts and Passes for New Mexico Game.

COLLEGE STATION, Oct. 13. (AP)—Coaches Bible and Rothgeb of the Texas Aggies have utilized the first part of the week in attempting to correct the errors that cropped out in the Sewanee game. Punting and forward passing have received special attention. Disappointed with the kicking in the Sewanee game, the coaches have been practicing four punters, Joel Hunt of Waco, J. V. Sikes of Leonard, E. W. Bartlett of Marlin and W. D. Wills of Dallas. Sikes and Bartlett showed to the best advantage in the try-outs.

Coach Bible announced today that W. R. Bodine of Temple, will replace Recktorik at guard in the University of New Mexico game here Saturday; J. A. Simmons of Denton will be used at full in place of Burgess. Burgess and Rekeorik were hurt in the Sewanee game.

HUNTERS ALL SET

Point Breeze, Hunting, Fishing and Boating Club Chartered

Charter of the recently organized Point Breeze, hunting, fishing and boating club at Lake Kemp, was received from Austin yesterday said Mrs. N. M. Marshall, club manager.

The new lodge, located at a point of vantage on the big lake, is composed in membership almost solely of Wichita Falls sportsmen but will not begin functioning as a club enterprise until November 15, said Mrs. Marshall.

However, members will be allowed to use the lodge in the meantime, it is said, but not to the public for the next 30 days.

Quite a number of geese and ducks have been seen at the lake already and many sportsmen are going to consider the season opened. The old will be all Saturday and all hopes of a big congregation of hunters to the lake over the week-end is expressed by those who have been to the lake and found good conditions.

MRS. HORNSBY LAID TO REST

Cardinal Leader Breaks As Reaction Begins To Set In

AUSTIN, Oct. 13. (AP)—In a tiny graveyard, tucked away in a bend of the Colorado river, tender hands Wednesday laid to rest Mrs. M. D. Hornsby, mother of Rogers Hornsby, manager of the world champion St. Louis Cardinals.

She died here September 29, her last wish being that "her baby," Rogers, should stay with the Cardinals and lead them against the New York Yankees in the world series. He consented to this, only after relatives here had agreed to defer the funeral until conclusion of the diamond classic.

Scene of Pathos.

A death bed scene of pathos in which Rogers Hornsby, his mother, Mrs. M. D. Hornsby, and his father figured was sketched Wednesday for the Associated Press by Mrs. H. C. Schaefer of Austin, sister of Mrs. Hornsby.

Ed Hornsby, father of the St. Louis Cardinal baseball manager, and the central figure in the scene died more than 25 years ago.

"Rogers was about three years old when his father died," Mrs. Schaefer related. "The family lived on a farm about 12 miles from Austin.

"On his last trip to town, Rogers' father had bought the boy a ball and bat, possessions of which Rogers was most proud.

Rogers Playing In Yard.

"Well do I remember that Rogers was out in the yard playing with his ball and bat, when his father took a turn for the worse.

"My sister went into the yard and carried to the bed her boy, clasping in his hands the ball and bat. She cried to her husband to look at their baby, but Ed had lost consciousness.

"He died a few hours later."

Mrs. Hornsby, an invalid for 11 years, died September 29, her dying wish being that her stalwart son should stay with the St. Louis Red Birds in the world series fight against the New York Yankees. He agreed not to come immediately to his mother, only after relatives here had consented to defer the burial until after the baseball classic.

Dodged Throngs.

Hornsby arrived Tuesday night, alighted from the train half a mile from the station to avoid the curious who thronged the station. He went to the home of his aunt, Mrs. Knox Johnson, where his mother died, and into seclusion, refusing to see newspaper men. Relatives said that with his arrival the leader of the world's championship team began to realize the extent of his loss.

During the world's series play, Hornsby was keyed almost to the breaking point, fortified and solaced by the knowledge he was carrying out his mother's dying wish, and now the reaction has set in, his relatives declared.

Ludgate's Crew Returns To Grid

Tribe Preps For Conference Opener At Arlington Next Week

Thudding molesikins again furnished the music Wednesday on Junior college field as the Indians resumed practice after two days' cessation to make up studies.

Coach Ludgate put his Maroon and Gold warriors through a vigorous workout, with emphasis on weaknesses uncovered in the Randolph set-to of last week-end. Signal drill and scrimmage furnished the gang plenty to do for a couple of hours. There is no loafing in Ludgate's bunch if he can help it.

No game has been matched for this week in order to get the Tribe in order both physically and scholastically for the opening of the conference season with North Texas Aggies next week at Arlington. Following the Aggie game the Indians will play three in a row at home with Cameron Aggies, Tarelton and Decatur in succession. There is some possibility of a fourth game being matched for the open date the second week in November but Ludgate has no definite decision to announce yet.

BULLDOGS PRIMED

Clarendon College Plays Fast McMurray Outfit Friday

CLARENDON, Oct. 13. — The Clarendon college Bulldogs are ready for their go with the McMurray college Indians Friday. Both elevens are fresh from victories where dope was upset.

McMurray defeated West Texas State teachers college last Saturday in which Canyon was figured to win easily, but the Indians gained a decisive victory, running up a score of 21 to 0.

At the same time Clarendon won from the New Mexico Military Institute in a game in which the soldiers were favored to win. Clarendon won with a count of 20 to 0 and carried on a superb game of forward passing.

However it appears that McMurray college has a slight edge on the Clarendon team. In defeating the West Texas State teachers college they are at least 23 points stronger than the Clarendon eleven which the Buffaloes defeated 2 to 0 in the opening game of the season. Much improvement has been noted in the Bulldogs since their initial tilt and their victory over N. M. M. I. makes them at once a strong contender for honors in the contest Friday.

Navy's Grid Crew "Shapley" As Ever

ANNAPOLIS, Oct. 13.—Bill Ingram, Navy coach, has Allan Shapley with him again this year—the fourth year of varsity play for the big backfield hero. All of which means that once more Navy has a team to be reckoned with. But it isn't so much the fact that he has Shapley as it is the fact that he has unearthed one who appears to be a great running mate for the vet that pleases Ingram and Annapolis adherents.

For three seasons Shapley has carried the major portion of the burden in the Navy rear line. Whenever the team has found itself fighting with its back to the wall, Shapley has been the one called upon to carry the ball and team out of danger. His ability to break away for a good run has saved many a day.

Now, however, in a newcomer called Ransford, Ingram believes he has unearthed a backfield man who possesses the same uncanny ability to arise to the occasion when needed most. Ransford is a little fellow, weighing but 150 pounds, but he is well knit, fast on his feet and a safe man with the ball. Hamilton, a letter man of last year and Hannegan will complete the backfield quartet.

While Wickhorst and Eddy, at the tackles, are the only recognized "vets" for the line positions, Lloyd, Williamson, Born, Warren and Cross are experienced players, having played in important games last season. Lloyd and Williamson are counted on to hold down the ends, Born and Cross the tackles and Warren the center post.

Osborne, center for two years, may find himself filling a utility role this season and an odd one at that. He has proved himself a capable back and may be thrown into the breach there as well as at center.

SPORTS DONE BROWN

Day by day the football aspects and prospects at Harvard are drawing more and more attention. The debut of Arnold Horween as coach was enough to arouse early interest in the team. The unexpected defeat at the hands of Geneva increased the interest—if not the respect—for the team.

And now we find Crimson adherents in a rather bitter mood toward the faculty over what is termed rather harsh measures used in disciplining two members of the team—men who were counted on to help lift Harvard higher in the game.

Ted Crosby and Jake Turner, two regulars, have been disqualified for failure to pass an examination in French. Harvard adherents do not ask the faculty to turn a blind eye to deficiencies in studies. Their attitude is, however, that such drastic action wasn't necessary.

Turner played center last season and is given credit for having saved the day for Fair Harvard against Yale. Crosby is a beautiful defensive player.

The loss of these two men is a severe blow to Horween, who, of course, isn't saying a word.

* * * *

The interest aroused in the recent Dempsey-Tunney fight and the creation of a new champion has revived interest in the heavyweight game, there can be no doubt. The Wills-Sharkey affair can be listed as the first of a series of heavyweight battles that will be shoved at the public this winter, including the series Tex Rickard has in mind.

Our only hope is that those putting on the heavies (no references to underwear) will have the good judgment to cross off their lists the boys who fall by the wayside early in the rush and not foist on the public a lot of mugs who never will get anyplace.

* * * *

Speaking of heavies. Gene Tunney is bound to be a popular champion despite whatever cool opinion some critics may hold regarding his ability. He is a gentleman first, last and always. The more one looks back over Dempsey's career the more one is impressed with the knowledge that the brightest pages in his reign, in a way, were those in which he showed a serious desire to absorb some of the finer things in life. These desires did little to satisfy the boxing fans yet they were natural ones for Jack. He spoke a different language the night he collected his pay for his battle with Gene Tunney than he did the day he entered the east as a two-fisted hard guy, living on haymakers and the biggest steaks money could buy.

PESEK CHAMPION?

Nebraska Tiger Man Claims Stecher's Title on Technicality

RAVENNA, Neb., Oct. 13.(AP) John Pesek, Nebraska "tiger man," today claimed the heavyweight wrestling championship of the world, claiming he was granted the winner's share of the purse for his recent match with Joe Stecher, title claimant, at Los Angeles last Wednesday night.

Pesek's manager, Oscar R. Kirschke, said Pesek was forced to score several falls on Stecher in that match before Tom Travers, referee, would award any one of them to him. After the match, he said, Tony Stecher, brother-manager of Joe, rushed to the center of the ring and forced Travers under threats to award the match to Stecher on a foul. The California commission, Kirschke said, awarded the match to Stecher on a foul, but gave Pesek the winner's share.

LAST OF DARK WAVE ERASED

Sharkey Perches On Door-Step of Pugilistic Fame

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.(AP)—Jack Sharkey, of Boston tonight sat on the door step of fistic fame as Harry Wills passed into the background of the heavyweight picture with ring earnings estimated by boxing men as nearly half a million dollars.

"I guess I'm through," the big stevedore said blaming his unexpected defeat last night by Sharkey on a strained back coupled with his long absence from the ring. His friends, however, pointed to the fact that he would be able to retire as the second richest man in American pugilism, yielding only to Jack Dempsey in the matter of accumulated wealth.

For what was probably his last big bout, the senegambian received $50,000, slightly more than twice the purse of his conqueror, Sharkey. Total receipts of the fight were announced today as $133,-514.70.

Wills Cleans Up.

Wills' biggest purse came from his match with Luis Firpo of Argentina. He was estimated to have received more than $150,-000 for his bout with the "wild bull of the pampas." He also fattened his purse generously by outstanding battles with Charley Weinert last year and with Bartley Madden two years ago. The removal of the Wills threat by Sharkey's sensational victory takes the last of what was probably the greatest group of negro heavyweights in the history of American pugilism. Coming to the front in the dark wave which swept Jack Johnson to the top, Joe Jeanette, Sam McVey, Sam Langford, Kid Norfolk and Wills for years almost completely dominated the heavyweight field.

Even with the triumph of Jess Willard over Johnson as the outcome of a long "white hope" campaign, the dusky skinned band loomed as the most formidable group in the class.

Jack May Box Delaney.

The defeat of Wills elevated Sharkey to a place alongside Jack Dempsey the dethroned champion who says he still entertains hopes of regaining the sceptre and Jack Delaney, of Bridgeport, Conn., the new light heavyweight title holder.

At least, Herbert J. Fugasy, who promoted the Sharkey-Wills bout today reviewed the situation, announcing he would bend efforts toward bringing Delaney and Sharkey together in his next big fistic venture.

Sharkey however, will go gunning for Tunney immediately. As the Boston fighter left for his home in Boston today he announced that he would go before the New York athletic commission next Tuesday and seek to be elevated to the chair of "legical contender" vacated by Wills.

Mantell Gunning For Mr. Kanthe

Dutch Would Avenge Rough Drubbing Give Yaqui Joe

Dutch Mantell, the wrestling world's ball room idol, will be imported next week to avenge Dick Kanthe's roughouse defeat of Yaqui Joe, the Indian favorite, declared A. B. Rose, wrestling association matchmaker, last night.

Can you feature a break like that? Dutch Mantell, who almost murdered the aborigine on one occasion months ago in Amarillo and who not long ago was almost strangled into submission by the same wiry Redskin in the local arena, taking up the gage with sole purpose of punishing Kanthe for his treatment of the Indian—that's a scream.

But such has been the arrangement, says Ross.

The promoter called Mantell in Amarillo by telephone. Told him, "Yaqui Joe got roughed up and beat here pretty bad last night."

"So the savage got a licking," replied Dutch, "haw! haw! haw!"

"Yeah, the fellow was too big for him so I want you to come down here and rough him up," Ross said.

"Yeah, he beats your pet and then want me to come down and put it on him, huh? I'm not taking care of your menagerie for you," came back over the wire.

"Yes, but he's rough and thinks he's mean," Ross said he replied "and when I told him I'd get you down here to trim him he laughed at me. Said he'd make 150 pounds any day for you."

"All right, all right I'll come and clean his clock for him. Yuh can't get that Jap in the ring, too, can yuh?" Dutch answered, "a-uh, by the way, what's his name? Wha-a-at, never heard of the tramp."

So Dutch, peer of the Marquis of Packing House crew, exchanges socks with Dick Kanthe, the boisterous bimbo who has drawn the fire of Wichita fans two weeks running, in finish battle Tuesday night.

BOBCATS IN ACTION

Childress Tackles Quanah Indians in Felines' Lair Friday.

CHILDRESS, Oct. 13.—The Childress Bobcats and Quanah are scheduled to play here Friday afternoon on the Fair park gridiron. Quanah is playing class "A" football this year, by election, so the game will be a non-league tilt as Childress is in class "B." However, there is much rivalry between the two teams and a good game is assured.

COLLEGE STATION, Oct. 13. (AP)—Saturday, October 16, has been designated as "Walter Camp Day," at A. & M., Coach Dana X. Bible has announced, and the quota for the Camp memorial is $1,000.

BURNS ENTERS HALL OF FAME

Veteran Unanimous Choice As "Most Valuable" Player

CHICAGO, Oct. 13. (AP) George H. Burns, first baseman on the Cleveland baseball team of the American league was designated today as the most valuable player in his league during 1926.

A veteran of 13 years of service in major league baseball, Burns was practically the unanimous choice of the committee of eight baseball writers who made the award. He obtained 63 points in the balloting out of a possible 64 for inclusion on the American league honor roll where stand already the names of Cobb, Speaker, Collins, Sisler, Ruth, Johnson and Peckinpaugh.

Mostil Second.

Second, but with scarcely half as many votes as Burns, the award committee placed Johnny Mostil, of the Chicago White Sox with 33 votes, while only one vote behind him ranked Herb Pennock, pitcher for the New York Yankees.

Burns capped his brilliant 1926 performance with a major league record for two base hits, knocking out 64 to break the mark formerly held by Tris Speaker, his team's manager. He batted .358 in 151 games and had three triples and four home runs among 216 hits for a total of 293 bases. He batted in 114 runs, ranking second to Ruth; took part in 122 double plays and had 1,429 put outs, 99 assists and but 19 errors. He scored 97 runs himself.

Major League In 1913.

The Cleveland first sacker broke into the American league with Detroit in 1913, served two years with Philadelphia and went to Cleveland, which sent him to Boston but got him back in 1924. For six years he has batted well over .300, his best mark being .361 in 1921.

Peckinpaugh won the honor last year with 45 points. The only player ever to be the unanimous choice for the honor was Ruth, chosen in 1923. Twenty-six players were named in the balloting in which playing managers and players already chosen for the "hall of fame" are not eligible to consideration.

THAT'S EASY

And why is it Alex Metzler, the Spud outfielder who batted .332, was sold to the Athletics last summer and reported before Tom Jenkins, the Texas league's leading hitter and Spud outfielder who batted .374, asks quizzical fan after looking over recent release of averages. How come Connie to like Alex first and then tag along after and cop Tom?

* * * *

That question is deeper than it sounds. Here's one for you to mull over during the winter: Bet Alex sticks with the A's and Tom doesn't.

* * * *

Give 'em Time.

Wha-a-at! do you ask. A weaker hitter given preference over a league leader? Impossible!

Nope, she's not—not in this case. Jenkins is potential major league material and he may make the grade, but not next year, not after Tom has participated in sufficient exhibition and spring practice games for the Athletic coaches to check up on his good points and bad points alike.

* * * *

Intelligence Wins.

Both Metzler and Jenkins are hustlers. Both are fighters. Both are fairly good fielders, although nothing like the polished product, Alex is the better fielder. Alex has the better arm. And Alex is smarter, if at all, on the bases.

* * * *

In the official average one will find statistics on batting, statistics on fielding but there is not included a column on poor base running other than the "out-stealing" and "base stolen" figures. Jenkins is a slugger of the first-water. And as a slugger he has not shown the offensive smartness required in major league talent. His idea is wham the ball and get on first, second or third. But once on base Tut is dangerous only to the home team's cause.

* * * *

When a heavy hit is needed in a pinch with a runner on Jenkins likely will come through. But with Jenkins on base and in a tight game, a run needed, Tut's erratic base running many times will spill the home team for a loss.

* * * *

On the paths, Tom runs wild but gets no where. He has stolen bases with runners already attached there. He has been held to third on a two-base hit with two men out when he had started at second, hesitated, run backwards and forwards and then finally headed for the plate.

* * * *

Jenkins has the earmarks and natural ability which when groomed and polished may make him a great ball player. But he's not ready for the big show yet. In event he does not make the grade with the Macks Spudder Prez Gardner no doubt has stipulated in the contract that Wichita Falls gets first crack at buying him back. And will Wichita Falls do it? Just give Gardner a chance. So if the dope reads right Tut will be with us again next summer, sometime. He's a great class A ball player, but a major leaguer—not yet. Give him time.

Speaking of Fouls.

There are some episodes which occur in a wrestling match even the referee does not see. The world, or rather that part of it crammed in the fight arena the other night, saw Jack Gorman strangle Matty Matsuda with no effort to "cover up" the foul and it saw Gorman disqualified and the match awarded Matsuda. But—

* * * *

Jack Gorman later that night and the next day was in far more serious condition than his Nipponese opponent. Wrestlers are more susceptible to fouls than boxers and wrestlers if they wish to foul can do so without running the risk that a "fouling" boxer incurs of being seen.

* * * *

Many a wrestler has been put out of commission while down on the mat and tied up with his opponent and ringsiders wondered how. Boxers wear protection into the ring against fouls that wrestlers because of their different method of battling cannot afford to do so—would be hampered by. Gorman wore no cup. No wrestler does. As a result, whether or not accidental on the part of Matsuda (the damage was done "under cover") Gorman today is limping around, hardly able to walk and under a doctor's advice to undergo an operation. Mantell is said to have been fouled in the same manner by Hitty—whether accidental or not, doctor's inspection showed.

HOLSTEIN'S INJURY PROVES HEAVY BLOW TO COYOTES' CHANCES WITH GRANDFIELD

Giant Linesman May Be Out of Game At Electra Next Week—Lynch Rounds Into Shape

Coyote stock took a decided drop for this week's game and possibly for the Electra contest next week when Holstein, backbone of the Coyote defense and chief hope for the line among the new material, hurt his knee seriously enough to put him out of commission for at least a week or more. In order to keep down all chances of injury now before the crucial league series inaugural, Coach McCallum has been very careful to avoid putting valuable men into too hard scrimmage. Holstein was merely running in signal drill when he stumbled and fell, with a teammate coming along closely behind him tumbling onto his leg and pulling the ligaments of his knee.

Looked Well Against Decatur

This accident will especially put the blink on Mac's latest plans of team re-arrangement, in all of which the big boy-figured heavily. Mac has been figuring for some time on making a center on defense out of the big boy and the plan worked well in the game with Decatur last Saturday. In order to eliminate much shifting on offense and defense, Holstein in practice this week was run at offensive center too, with Pinney moved to defensive half and offensive end.

Pinney's ranginess makes him valuable for pass receiving or for defense against passes and his experience at end was counted on to put strength into the offense of the line, a department of play in which the Pack has been relatively lacking thus far. With Hobbs still bothered by a bad foot and with Holstein out of it Pinney remains the only center ready for duty Friday against Grandfield.

Lynch Adds Speed.

Getting all injuries attended to in time for the opening of the league schedule has been one of the big problems of the team all season. Lynch may be seen in action Friday for the first time since the opening game with Walters. Much speed will be added to the offense of the Pack if this back can get back into the line-up. However, Mac intends to take no chances with partially healed injuries in order that the Red and Black aggregation may gain its top strength by the time of the whistle at Electra next week.

Tramel Loses To Whittington

Willis Wins On Foul Over Deibel After Being Outpointed

Fred Whittington, the rangy Wellington welter, was substituted for Willie Jackson, the Oklahoma City scrapper, originally billed with Duke Tramel, in Wednesday's American legion main event, and outpointed the Cowtown mauler in every round of a 10-rounder. It was announced that Jackson had been injured and could not fulfill his engagement.

Tramel forced the fight but was made to miss flagrantly and was outscored with counter punches by the elusive Wellington biffer.

The battle was hard-fought throughout with Whittington scoring effectively with a rapier left and an occasional right cross.

At several stages the two stood toe to toe and swapped punches hooking both rights and lefts.

Sergeant Willis, Fort Sill middleweight, won on a foul in the seventh round of a scheduled eight-rounder with Leo Deibel, Kansas light heavy.

Deibel was the aggressor and had the better of the fight up to the untimely finish.

Joe New, Fort Sill junior middleweight, copped the decision with a straight left over Jack Frost of Wichita Falls in a four-rounder.

Fighting Vassie, featherweight, beat Young Turk out in the second round of a scheduled four-rounder.

LOTS OF FOOTBALL

Frederick Plays Erick While Grandfield Tackles Wichita Falls.

FREDERICK, Okla., Oct. 13. Interest in Tillman county football this week centers in Frederick's game with Erick at Erick and Grandfield's game with Wichita Falls high, at Wichita Falls, Friday. Frederick is doped as an easy winner in the Erick game, having piled up over 100 points against this aggregation last year. Despite the fact that Grandfield's showing is good, three wins and a tie so far this year, Frederick wise guys are predicting an overwhelming defeat for the Big Pasture team at Wichita Falls, although the dope bucket may be kicked to smithereens as to the Wichita Falls team.

where he is serving a life sentence for murder, appeared for an hour before the Marion county grand jury, later refused to testify in a civil suit in superior court and was whisked back to the prison at Michigan City before night fall.

In the absence of information as to what happened in the grand jury room the brief duration of Stephenson's stay there is regarded by persons following the case as indicative that he volunteered little if any confirmation of allegations of misconduct by public officials which have been made by the Thomas H. Adams, publisher of Vincennes, Ind., Commercial.

Coincident with Stephenson's return to the prison Adams issued a statement in which he quoted Floyd Christian, an attorney who was of defense counsel in Stephenson's trial for the murder of Madge Oberholtzer as saying that he had seen in Stephenson's cell a check which was "payable to Ed Johnson for $5,000." The check was issued by Stephenson, he said.

Adams has recently declared that from Stephenson would come evidence in support of the corruption charges, however, when Stephenson was brought here today from the state prison where he is serving a life sentence on the murder charge he made no revelations when he appeared as a witness in a civil suit and he was before a grand jury for one hour during which it was indicated the prosecutors did most of the talking. He had been ordered brought before the grand jury which is investigating the charges that Adams had maintained could be supported by Stephenson's evidence.

Goes Back to Pen.

Stephenson was brought into the city at 3:35 o'clock this morning and was on his way back to the prison at 3:35 p. m.

Christian himself verified the quotation attributed to him regarding Stephenson's check to Governor Jackson. He added that Stephenson had told him he had spent something over $200,000 in Jackson's campaign for governor in 1924. Governor Jackson was out of the city and could not be reached for comment on Christian's quotation. In addition to the $5,000 check Christian said there also was another check payable to Jackson, the amount of which he did not remember.

more deeply than any other woman ever did. It was the tragedy of all his tragedies that in a youth crowded with brave deeds that came to naught, and desperate endeavors that brought only defeat, his wandering heart should finally have settled upon the woman who had been his familiar counsellor for years, and whom he could not make his own because she belonged to his best friend, and would not, could not, give her life to him."

Many Angles Revealed.

Other chapters are devoted to Washington's marriage at 26, to Martha Curtis, the wealthy young widow; the "centinel X" attack on Washington's Virginian troops as "dastardly debauchees;" the Jumonville affair," when the French accused Washington of the "assassination" of an ambassadorial party; Braddock's campaign, in which Mr. Hughes asserts that contrary to general belief Braddock took Washington's advice and was neither surprised nor ambushed, but lost because of the strategy of a Frenchman and the stampede of his own men.

Hughes in an "afterword" says the purpose of the volume is "to find out as far as possible and to report as faithfully as possible just what George Washington was, did, said, wrote, thought and why and how."

No other man in history has suffered so much from malfeasance in office by historians" says Hughes. "Nearly all of Washington's biographers have felt it their duty not only to correct his writings but to blue-pencil, prettify and falsify his character.

Blundering Giant.

"In their frantic zeal for denaturing this big, blundering, bewildered giant they have done a further injustice to all his contemporaries, of whom they have made either dwarfs or accolytes and of his sincere adversaries demons of malice and envy.

"It is poor patriotism, ridiculous idolitary, and rank dishonesty to rob the host of other struggles for liberty and progress of their just deserts and to perpetuate old standards against his enemies at home and abroad in order to turn Washington into a God. As a God, Washington was a woeful figure; as a man he was tremendous."

Mr. Hughes stirred up a storm of controversy some months ago when in a public address he attacked the school book conception of the first president.

EXCESS RAINS RUIN COTTON

Texas Crop Estimate Lower Than Government Mark Is Estimate

FORT WORTH, Oct. 13. (AP) Excessive rain in north Texas, insect damage in nearly all sections are cited by the Rock Island railroad's final cotton report of the season as reasons why the government estimate of 5,350,000 bales is 'too high" for Texas.

The railroad thinks these detrimental factors have more than offset this year's large acreage.

Rains, however, the report says, have greatly benefitted winter wheat already sown, but is retarding further seeding of the grain. Kaffir and maize is being harvested and the production is large. Sorghum has the largest crop on record in the Panhandle.

Indications are that the wheat acreage for the coming year will be as large or larger than last year's. Heavy production of the past season together with the splendid condition of the soil for planting has encouraged the farmers to again try for a record crop.

Ranges are reported in fine shape and cattle in good condition.

Today she is in Wichita Falls for a two-day appearance at the Majestic theatre where she is a headliner on the current vaudeville bill.

LOVE TRIANGLE ENTERS COURT

Wife Seeks Injunction Order Against "Other Woman" In Case

The injunction suit as a corrective factor in domestic difficulties was invoked in Wichita Falls Wednesday in a suit filed by a Dallas woman naming her husband, a Wichita Falls woman and four prominent Wichita Falls business men are included simply by reason of the fact that they have in the past sold expensive automobiles, motor boats, real estate, furniture and diamonds to the arrant Dallas hubby who, in turn, has lavished them on the "other woman."

She Recites Troubles

The plaintiff's petition recites that she is a resident of Dallas county and that up until a few weeks ago her husband also resided there. He came to Wichita Falls on business, it is alleged, met the local woman, and since that time has totally ignored his wife. The Wichita Falls woman, the petition states, has secreted the man, denied his friends knowledge of his whereabouts and has induced him to make expensive purchases for her. These include one of the most costly coupes a high priced automobile manufacturer builds, a fast motor boat; $8,000 worth of furniture; Floral Heights real estate valued at $14,255; two diamond rings with an aggregate value of $2,500 and other incidentals.

Orgy Of Spending

Furthermore, the petition recites the local woman is attempting to gain possession of keys to a Dallas bank's safety deposit box where $10,000 worth of valuables are kept. Two Dallas banks are included in the plea, it being asked that they be enjoined from paying out any more money. A short time ago, the plaintiff contends, she and her husband had a community deposit of approximately $59,000 in the two banks.

"The Kick-Off" At Mission Today

"The Kick-Off" is featured on the new bill at the Mission theatre today.

You will know from its title what kind of picture it is, but you cannot estimate its thrills without seeing it.

This is not the first football picture, nor yet the last, but for pure, sustained interest, capped by a star's sprint of tremendously courageous success, it is incomparable.

George Walsh is the star who brings to this fictional photoplay all the realism of the college gridiron. He is the very picture of the undegraduate hero. As a football star, he recreates all the emotions that mark an autumnal holiday in sport; the courage and fear, the cheering and wailing, the hopes held high and dashed-down; all the play of the various phases of human nature that mix so riotously among the thousands who gather in the great college bowls to watch their favorites and enemies clash.

The very nature of the story makes the star stand head and shoulders above the rest of the cast. His part is the choicest and he makes the most of it. But all of the actors and actresses do their share well; the mother role and that of the girl, sought after by two rival players, being particularly well done.

Jamail was the chauffeur for the late Col. J. A. Herring, chairman of the board of prison commissioners, and since the death of Col. Herring he drove for Commissioner S. G. Granberry. He was the trusty who fought his way through flooded lowlands near Huntsville to reach Governor Ferguson when she and her party were stranded at Phelps, a small station where bridges had been washed out on the railroad.

Among those who recommended Jamail's pardon were Col. Herring, Commissioner Granberry, Mrs. Ouida Ferguson Nalle, Warden N. L. Speer, Frank O'Rouke, secretary of the prison commission, and Henry Dudley of Houston.

"Dancer of Paris" On At Olympic

Tearle's performance as Noel Anson, the American infatuated with "The Dancer of Paris," is reported to be one of the finest that he has thus far contributed to the screen. He plays with a facility and grace that, combined with the other attributes, results it is said in a most delightful character.

Sharing stellar honors with Tearle is Dorothy Mackaill who assumes the title role of the production. She, too, is reported to give performances of unusual distinction. Robert Cain completes the cast.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 13.(AP)—The cotton market following a moderate early decline of 15 to 19 points, due to an accumulation of hedge selling orders over the holiday developed a decidedly firmer tone and was on the upgrade most of the day. Around the middle of the afternoon values were 42 to 46 points above the early lows and 29 points above Monday's close.

The advance was attributed to liberal trade buying, price fixing by spinners and covering by shorts. Although the weekly weather and crop report was regarded as generally favorable, it had little effect on the market after the early selling was absorbed. The later advance was greatly helped by the favorable attitude of the government towards financing the balance of the crop. The agitation in favor of radically reducing cotton acreage next season was also a stimulating influence. The market eased off in the late trading on profit-taking by earlier buyers, losing 17 to 23 points from the top and the close was steady, showing net gains for the day of six to 14 points.

Liverpool came in nearly as due and first trades here were unchanged to two points up. The market soon eased off, however, owing to an accumulation of selling orders, mainly hedges, over the holiday and by the end of the first half hour of trading December dropped to 13.09, January to 13.17, and March to 13.31, or 15 to 19 points below the opening prices. These prices proved to be the lows for the day.

The market then turned firmer on good buying and absence of further hedge selling and by the middle of the afternoon December traded up to 13.52, January to 13.59 and March to 13.77, or 42 to 46 points up from the lows and 29 points above the previous close.

In the late trading prices eased off moderately on realizing declines to 13.35 for December, 13.42 for January and 13.56 for March, cutting down the earlier gain, 17 to 22 points. Sales.

Exports for the day totaled 17,519 bales.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.(AP)—The steadier undertone which developed in the cotton market after the break to 12.38 for December contracts last week, was in evidence again today, selling up to 13.52, or 34 points net higher. December broke to 12.52 in late trading under renewed hedging, however, and the market was barely steady at the close, prices showing net advances of 11 to 14 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of one point to a decline of three points. Prices eased off a few points under overnight selling from the south and liquidation by recent buyers who appeared to be influenced by relatively easy cables from Liverpool and a favorable interpretation of the weekly weather report. December declined to 12.08 and March to 12.41, but at these figures there was considerable buying combined with considerable trade and investment buying.

The early offerings from the south were smaller than previously, and when they had been absorbed, there did not appear to be much pressure against prices. The trade the market more sensitive to buying orders and prices worked up to 13.63 for January and 13.86 for March during mid-afternoon which was 20 to 35 points net higher, and over a cent above the low levels of last week.

Thereafter there was a reaction of 22 points in the last half hour under a renewal of southern hedging and profit taking by early buyers.

The first report of the government's cotton commission, emphasizing the opportunity of the spinner to help himself and the producer by buying freely appeared to have a stabilizing influence during the early trading. There was much talk of southern holding movement, which was colored by the comparatively small volume of hedging during the forenoon. A good deal of trade buying was reported during the day, with the dips meeting increased orders of that character, but much of the buying was attributed to further covering by shorts.

Private cables said trade calling had absorbed hedging and continental liquidation in the Liverpool market.

Exports today 17,519, making 1,861,762 so far this season. Port receipts 93,962. U. S. port stocks 1,817,001 bales.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.(AP)—Rallying tendencies predominated in the stock market today as control of the price movement was wrested from bear traders who had conducted an aggressive selling campaign for more than a week. Occasional flurries of profit taking and bear selling continued, but support liquidation of speculative issues appeared to have run its course, leaving the market in a strengthened technical position.

Although fluctuations in many of the active shares were erratic and confusing at times, impressive buying of representative railroad and industrial issues was in progress at the close. The demand embraced such stocks as Allied Chemical, U. S. Steel, Pullman, General Motors, DuPont, Timken Roller Bearing, Atchison, Nickel Plate, Chesapeake and Ohio and Union Pacific, in which the gains ranged from two to 7⅛ points.

Offsetting the restrictive influence of a 5½ per cent rate for call money were several constructive developments, including the formation of a wood-wide export association for the co-operative marketing of copper, favorable dividend announcements by the Woolworth and Gillette Razor companies and the maintenance of steel operations at their high level despite a lessened demand from automobile manufacturers.

With these factors working the market it was soon apparent that prices had reached resistance levels on the decline. Drives against U. S. Steel, General Motors and other prominent issues met with good offerings of stock but these were readily absorbed. Closing prices represented a net gain of 2¼ points for steel and 3⅝ for General Motors.

Two of the outstanding strong features were Timken Roller Bearing and Colorado and Southern, both of which were elevated to new high prices for the year. Reports that important railway equipment contracts were about to be closed sent Timken up 7⅛ points to 71. Colorado and Southern touched a new peak at 96¾ and closed 11⅝ point net higher at 94½, on buying credited to Burlington interests and to purchases looking forward to an early resumption of dividends.

Trading in the foreign exchange was featured by a rally of more than a cent in Norwegian kroner to around 23¼ cents, the highest point in several years. The advance followed a revision of stabilization plans under which the Bank of Norway probably will undertake to carry the currency gradually back to parity above 26 cents. Italian lire fell back to the four cent level and other exchanges showed little variation.

Call money renewed at 5 per cent but the rate was advanced to 5½ after banks called some $115,000,000 of the outstanding loans. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

NATURE SAVES

Babe Which Swallows Coin May Escape Disaster.

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 13.(AP)—Nature aided by medical science, has probably saved the life of little 2-year-old Vivian Genevieve Dawson, who has been near death from suffocation for a week due to her swallowing a coin which lodged in the child's throat.

A delicate operation was at first thought necessary to save the tot's life but intense swelling prevented surgeons performing one to remove the coin. It is now believed an operation will not be necessary, because the swelling is subsiding and the coin will probably pass down the little girl's throat.

Duck Season Opens Next Saturday

Next Saturday, Oct. 16, you won't find me on the job. No sir! I've got to get out and help open up duck season. I am all set with a high powered used car. And that is just what you ought to do. Come down here and pick out one of our cars so you can go where the ducks are.

We've just naturally got a fine assortment, and there are no decoys in the bunch. A little dab of bright paint and some shiny fixings don't add anything to the actual condition of the car. We tell you the facts. And every car is priced according to the condition. That's why so many used car buyers come to McFall Brothers for their next used car.

"HONEY LOU" By Beatrice Burton

AUTHOR OF "LOVE BOUND," "HER MAN," ETC.

READ THE FIRST:

HONEY LOU HUNTLEY is private secretary to old "GRUMPY" WALLACK, head of the Wallack Fabric Mills.

Everybody at the mills likes Honey Lou, from the office vamp, ANN LUDLOW, to JOE MEADOWS, the shipping clerk. But Honey Lou is afraid of Joe Meadows, without knowing why exactly.

JACK WALLACK, son and heir of old "Grumpy," starts work at the mills after a year or so on the road, traveling for them. He falls in love with Honey Lou, and she does with him, almost the minute they see each other. But when he tries to kiss her, she flies into a rage and slaps his face. Later he apologizes, when Honey Lou explains to him that her old-fashioned mother has brought her up to believe that a girl lets only one man make love to her—the man she marries.

One night, when Honey Lou and Jack are leaving the office, they meet ANGELA ALLEN, Jack's next-door neighbor. Honey Lou is sure that Angela is in love with Jack and tells him so. But he laughs at her.

A week later Angela writes to Honey Lou to ask her to dinner at her home on the night of Jack's birthday. Honey Lou can't make up her mind whether she wants to go or not.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

Chapter VI

In the end, it was worldly-wise little Ann Ludlow who settled the question of the party for Honey Lou. Little Ann, who poked her snub nose into everybody's business, and was born newspad, besides!

On Monday morning, Honey Lou took the unanswered letter of invitation with her when she went to the office. She left it lying on her desk with her handbag and her gloves while she ran down to the dressing room to hang up her hat and coat. And when she came back, she found Ann sitting on her desk, calmly reading it. She went up to her and took the sheet of heavy cream-colored paper out of her hands.

"That's my letter, Ann," she said frowning. She was furious frowning. She was furious with Ann for prying into her affairs.

"Now she'll tell it over the office that I'm going around with Jack Wallack," she said to herself, tucking the letter into her handbag.

Ann had the grace to blush. "I shouldn't have looked at that letter, I suppose," she giggled. "But you shouldn't have left it lying open on your desk, either. You know my fatal

POLICE FILE LIQUOR CHARGES FOLLOWING WEDNESDAY RAID

2 JAILED AND BOOZE SEIZED

18 Whiskey Cases Filed In Local Courts In Last Eighteen Days

An alleged bootleg whiskey station operated within a few doors of the city hall was broken up Wednesday when city officers Carmichal Perskey, Kirsey and Lay arrested W. E. Prim, 903 Ohio avenue and seized about five quarts of liquor. Charges of possession and transportation of liquor were later filed against him in the federal courts. Bond of $750 was set, which was perfected and he was released.

A second man, arrested with Prim, was in jail Wednesday night. His bond had not been perfected.

A coupe was confiscated along with the liquor, all of which was turned over to John Bartlett, deputy U. S. marshal for this district.

Wednesday's arrest makes 18 cases which have been filed in federal and state courts in the city in the last 18 days as the result of activity by the local police department against illicit liquor traffic. Most of the cases have been filed in duplicate, one in the state and another in the federal courts. One still in active operation was caught by the police in one of their raids.

SCHOOLS INCREASE

Enrollment Gains 819 Over Previous Years, Is Report.

An increase of 819 over the enrollment at the same time in 1925 is the boast of the public school system of Wichita Falls at the end of the first scholastic month. 8,096 students as compared with 7,277 at the same time last year constitutes a gain of approximately 8.35 percent, the largest recorded in several years for the local schools. More students are in the Junior college than in any other building, the total being 1,246. However, the Junior high and the annex are the most crowded, 1,338 being enrolled in the two buildings. Alamo is leading Austin a close race for first in the ward schools, their respective enrollments being 813 and 812. Some schools show a decrease, due to the addition of two new buildings during last year, but most show a gain, and one, Bowie, has the same total number, 129. Complete figures for the enrollment at each school for the end of the first scholastic month, both 1925 and 1926 follow:

CAN YOU AFFORD A YACHT?

A PROMINENT New York business man once asked the late J. P. Morgan's advice as to whether he could afford a yacht.

"If there is any doubt in your mind, you can't afford it," replied Mr. Morgan.

That might be a good test for all of us to apply in finding out whether we can afford something we want.

And while it may be quite a while before you can afford a yacht, if you will be thrifty and save regularly, you'll soon be able to afford most of the other things you have set your heart on.
