TEXAS WOMAN ADMITS PLOT AGAINST HUSBAND

NEW DRY LAW RULE ATTACKED IN BACK FIRING

Senate Takes up Decision Of Coolidge on County Officers

TO DECIDE LEGALITY

Discussion Develops Into Sharp Tilts Between Congressmen

WASHINGTON, May 26.—(AP)—More back firing on the prohibition question was heard today in both houses of congress as the senate judiciary committee prepared to discuss tomorrow the legality of President Coolidge's order authorizing the employment of state and local officers as federal enforcement agents.

The order was defended in the house by Representative Swing, republican, California, in whose state it is first to be put into effect. He said it was not in conflict with the constitution, was not without precedent and added that he felt confident the people of California as a whole would be glad to co-operate with federal officials in enforcing the dry law.

In the senate, Senator Edwards, democrat, New Jersey, a leader of the wets, renewed his assault on the order, while Senator Caraway, democrat, Arkansas, a dry, delivered a general prohibition speech, assailing the wets for what he termed their propaganda and asserting that no one who believed in law enforcement wanted a national referendum on the prohibition question.

Decide on Legality.

While the discussion was developing into sharp tilts between wet and dry senators, Chairman Cummins of the judiciary committee, announced that it would begin informal discussion tomorrow under the senate resolution directing it to report as to the legality of the order.

He said that this was purely a question of law and that so far as he was concerned he would not favor any hearing, public or private.

"I have no doubt in my own mind that the order is without warrant at law," Senator Cummins said. "The president had no more right to issue that order than I did.

"I am not saying that the government cannot employ state officers in prohibition enforcement if the state and the individual officers are willing. Congress fixed the method by which they could be employed, however, that is either by the attorney general or the commissioner of internal revenue."

No Intrusion.

Representative Swing had a different view of the order, declaring in the house that it was not an intrusion on state rights and that California state officers had assisted in the enforcement of federal quarantine laws under an executive order issued in 1907. He also held that state officers helped enforce other federal laws.

"If California is unwilling for its officers to enforce the federal dry law, Mr. Swing added, its legislature, "can say so and stop it." Calling attention that California has a state dry enforcement code, he asked:

"Who can object to the executive order except the fellow who desires to avoid detection?"

The senate debate resolved itself into a fiery exchange between Senators Caraway and Bruce, democrat, Maryland.

Second Suspect Now Sought In Mysterious Slaying of Wealthy Woman Near San Antonio Park

SAN ANTONIO, May 26.—(AP)—Two men went with Mrs. Virginia Petty on the ride which ended in her death at a lonely spot on the bank of the Comal river last Saturday night, according to a mysterious tip received today by Lee Johnson, investigator for District Attorney Chambers. Johnson's informant also declared that jealously figured in the killing and named a man whom officers had not hitherto suspected.

Just what the tip will amount to officers had not decided tonight.

The two men left San Antonio with Mrs. Petty and one of them drove the car back to San Antonio, according to the information. Where the second man went after the tragedy could not be explained and it was not known if he accompanied the woman all the way to the place where her bruised body was found. If this information is found to be accurate, the second man, even if he left the other two in New Braunfels or somewhere else, will be an important link in the chain, as he can identify the man who continued on the trip with Mrs. Petty after he left them.

The information did not give the names of either of the men who left here with Mrs. Petty, but did name another man, whom officers had not suspected and who is known to them. The tip in regard to this man was little more than a suspicion, but the informant was well acquainted with events before and leading up to the trip to New Braunfels, it was declared.

Captain John Long, chief investigator of the district attorney and Johnson, investigator, and Constable Duke Carver still were working the theory that the slayer was a former convict who was figuring with Mrs. Petty on the purchase of a house. If there was another man implicated in the crime, he would be found to have been working with the former convict, they believe.

George Gillette of the Commercial Bank and Trust company, was appointed administrator of the estate of Mrs. Petty today by County Judge Augustus McCloskey and all her private papers were turned over to Gillette. The administrator will determine just what property was left by the dead woman and seek for relatives who may be her heirs. Mrs. Petty is known to have had relatives in Virginia but so far none have been heard from.

Officers estimated that the estate's value at $15,000.

LAREDO, May 26.—(AP)— A search yet fruitless is being continued unflaggingly for Conrad Braden of Laredo, mine owner, and a mining engineer named Gallagher, being held for six thousand pesos ransom by Mexican bandits who captured them May 18.

Such was the substance of a telegram received here today by Mrs. Braden from Dr. F. H. Lawrence of Mapimi, Durango, Mexico.

"We are doing all in out power to locate your husband and Gallagher," the telegram said. "Hope soon have some good news." It is the only information Mrs. Braden has had concerning the search.

Numerous telegrams sent to American consul Yost and others in Torreon have elicited no information.

Texas Bank Laws Revision Is Urged

GALVESTON, May 26.—(AP)—Texas banking laws need an entire rewriting, farmers must learn diversity and communities must realize that banks are business institutions and not charity organizations, the Texas Bankers association was told by speakers before the forty-second annual convention of the association.

Charles O. Austin, state banking commissioner, urged the revision of the banking laws of the state and praised the working of the new system of bond security banks which he says will replace entirely the old guaranty system. Col. P. L. Downs of Temple told the bankers that diversity in farming is the one hope for continuous prosperity in Texas, declaring that agriculture is the basic wealth of this state.

"The Northern church has too much faith in Rockefeller," said Dr. Stratton today, "and too little faith in the living God. When a course of action is proposed its leaders think first of what 26 Broadway will think about it rather than what God will think."

Standard Acquires Control Of Rich South Texas Field

WURZBACH MAN FOR GOVERNOR IS NOMINATED

E. P. Scott of Corpus Christi To Head Insurgent G.O.P In Texas

PLATFORM READY

Group Not Running Against Any Other Candidates They Assert

SAN ANTONIO, May 26.—(AP) As a means of fighting the republican state organization, E. P. Scott of Corpus Christi will be a candidate for the republican gubernatorial nomination and will have the support of the party faction led by Congressman Harry M. Wurzbach.

This announcement today by Wurzbach confirmed assertions of the congressman's intimates yesterday that the anti-Creager republicants would back a candidate with the object of forcing a republican primary in every county in Texas.

Wurzbach made it plan, however, that Scott, an attorney and strong Wurzbach adherent, would not run in opposition to any particular person, unless the state "machine", headed by National Committeeman R. B. Creager and State Chairman Eugene Nolte of Seguin, put a ticket in the field.

To Announce Platform.

E. C. Tobey of Freeport will aspire to the office of comptroller and will be supported by the Wurzbach men.

Scott, one of many republicans who have conferred with the congressman this week, said he would make announcement of his stand on "vital issues" within ten days. He has several times declared that Wurzbach will easily carry the 14th congressional district and expressed belief that "Wurzbach ticket" would carry the state against the organization's men.

Wurzbach adherents held a rally here tonight as the congressman delivered the opening speech of his San Antonio campaign.

Another condidate for state office who has been approached by republican leaders also will be backed by the same support if he decides to announce for the race of state treasurer, Wurzbach said. He is George C. Hollis, Eagle Pass banker.

Hollis has not consented to become a candidate but Wurzbach and his friends expressed the hope that he would decide to make the race. Other republican candidates also are expected to announce within the next few days for various state offices, it was indicated.

Life Long Republican.

"These men will be on the ticket for the republican nomination to the offices for which they run, and not in opposition to any one unless the Creager-Nolte party puts out a ticket," Wurzbach said.

Judge Scott declared that his choice for governor came as a complete surprise to him and entirely without the seeking.

"I had not the faintest idea that such a move was contemplated until Tuesday afternoon," Scott said. "If the republicans who feel Harry Wurzbach is the right man for his place, think that I might be able to carry his standard, it will be my desire to put forth every effort possible to win for the republican party.

"I have been a life-long republican and I believe in the right of free speech and action in politics as well as anywhere else, and I shall certainly be opposed to the control by a faction or clique of the affairs of the republican party in Texas."

Farm Relief Bill Proponents Hopeful

WASHINGTON, May 26.—(AP) Confident of their ability to get the McNary corn belt farm relief bill through the senate, agricultural leaders kept it before that body today as the dominating topic.

During a two-hour endorsement by Senator Cummins, republican, Iowa, of hte bill which is similar to the Haugen bill rejected by the house, not a voice of dissent was raised, although numrous senators interjected support to his argument.

The discussion will be carried on tomorrow by Senator McKellar, democrat, Tennessee, another supporter of the proposal, although the migratory bird bill is the unfinished business before the senate.

Men Vainer Than Women In Photography

Milord More Particular About Appearance And Pose

FORT WORTH, May 26.—(AP) Men are vainer than women, at least B. E. Grabill of Shreveport, attending the convention of the southwestern professional photographers association here, so declared today.

"Men are more particular about getting a flattering picture than are women," he said. "The funny part about it is that they want a picture that will flatter them, but won't admit it.

"Many a masculine patron enters a studio and tells the photographer that he wants a picture that will look exactly like him and that the negatives are not to be retouched.

"But we retouch them even before we let him see them once," Grabill says.

"If we let him see himself exactly as revealed by the camera, it would simply be a matter of 'no order.'"

'JIM' ACCEPTS MOODY'S ISSUE

Fergusonism as a Platform Declared What He Likes

WEST, May 26.—(AP)—Accepting "Fergusonism" as the issue of the governorship campaign, former Governor James E. Ferguson speaking at West this afternoon declared the people have already voted twice on it.

"That was the issue on which Felix Robinson ran," said Ferguson. "It is the issue upon which Dr. Butte ran. The people decided it both times the same way. Now Moody is trying to run on the same issue. If they could not win on it, how can Moody win on it?

"It will be a harder issue for Moody for they did not have to run against the first woman governor with a record of good administration."

With a little variation Ferguson redelivered his opening speech at Sulphur springs. Its homely phrase and denouncintions were given much applause by an audience of 1,800 gathered at Tourist park.

Ferguson's defense of the governor's pardon policy was highly effective, many wiping tears from their eyes as he told of typical cases.

Helen Shula, eight years, and Velma Janak, seven, presented flowers on behalf of the school children. Miss Shula delivered her formal speech prepared in expectation of the governor's attenedance.

At the end, she added, "Governor, you give these to Ma. Jim promised he would. "She would rather have this," he said, "than the golden crown of the grand gizzard of the ku klux klan."

"A tire blowout occurred in the race to catch a train at Waco after the speaking. By changing automobiles, the station was reached as the train arrived.

Mayor Rudolph Marak of West presided and introduced Ferguson.

Though Humble And Others Now Owns Majority Of Production

LOCKHART, Texas, May 26.—(AP)—The Standard Oil company has secured absolute control of both oil fields in Caldwell county through the purchase of holdings of the United North and South Oil company in the Luling oil field by the Magnolia Petroleum company, a subsidiary of the Standard Oil company. The nited North and South Oil company was the largest holder of leases and producing wells in the Luling field.

By the purchase at a cost reported at more than $30,000,000 the Magnolia Petroleum company becomes the largest oil concern operating in Caldwell county. The Humble Oil and Refining company, another subsidiary in Standard, also has large holdings here.

The Magnolia has been dickering with the owners of the United North and South for some time, it is stated, and finally a price was set and the trade made. No definite figures were given out as to the price paid but the consideration was understood to be around $30,000,000.

The United North and South has an income, it is said, of about $3,000 daily.

T. K. Irwin Avers Others Attacking With Mud Slinging

BROWNSVILLE, May 26.—(AP) T. K. Irwin, candidate for attorney general, speaking at the Cameron county court house here tonight, warned candidates in the governor's race against dragging him into "an orgy of vilification."

Irwin said that press reports indicate two of the gubernatorial candidates are trying to make him a "political football" on a field of "mud and rocks."

"Even in my own race," Irwin asserted, "I have said that my opponents are high class gentlemen." "I am not a candidate for governor—I am running my own race, and will not allow my candidacy to be involved in rock throwing and mud slinging of another race.

"It is my desire to maintain such a position in this campaign that I shall be able to work in harmony with the governor and other state departments.

Joyce Hawley Is Storm Center In Trial of Carroll

NEW YORK, May 26.—(AP)—Joyce Hawley, 17-year-old show girl who by her own testimony was the bath tub girl og Earl Carroll's party in his theater on Washington's birthday, continued the storm center of testimony at Carroll's perjury trial today. City Police Not to Frown On Semi-Public Love Making

FORT WORTH, May 26.—(AP) Park spooners will not be molested by city authorities here this summer. Chief of Police Lee says as far as he's concerned, the lovers are the rulers of the park. Even the city council was uninclined to frown upon the affectionate couples.

"Shucks no," said Lee when asked if he would patrol Lake Worth and the city parks this summer. "The spooner's got as much right to spoon as I have to flivver down Main street. There's no law against it and it would not be enforceable if there was."

"Some folks wait all year to be scandalized a little in the spring time," one cop said in paying his respects to Mrs. Grundy.

LEGION CLEARS MOODY RECORD

Post at Georgetown Says Dan's War Record In Perfect Order

GEORGETOWN, Texas, May 26. (AP)—Abe Harrison, post American Legion, Georgetown, has unanimously adopted a resolution "condemning as unwarranted and unfair," and not supported by the facts, the attack made on the war record of Dan Moody of Taylor, candidate for governor. The resolution quotes a telegram from Adj. Gen. Davis of the United States army that Moody's entrance into service was voluntarily and at his own request, and after he had been denied admission to a training camp.

It recited that Moody's comrades in the post of which he was the first commander, "express our confidence in Comrade Moody and assert without reservation his record as private and officer in the army is satisfactory to his comrades in the legion." The resolution declares it is no commitment to the legion or of individual members in the political campaign but is an expression of confidence in a fellow legionnaire irrespective of political issues and public questions.

The resolution said in part: "The authority quoted sustains our conviction, based upon facts of record, that Mr. Moody, of his own volition, waived deferred classification under the selective draft regulations, to which he was justly entitled, and applied for individual induction, which application was granted, and entered voluntarily the services of the United States army."

WIDOW TELLS OF NEGRO PLOT TO MURDER HIM

Black Proposed "Freeze Him Out" and She Agreed to It

CLAIMS INNOCENCE

Hearing Shot, She Declares She Thought It Was Lamp Explosion

LA GRANGE, Texas, May 26, (AP)—Admission that she had discussed with Pete Banks, negro, a proposal to "freeze out" her husband, Clarence P. Jones, slain Southern Pacific agent, was made today by Mrs. Ella Jones, the widow, testifying in the trial of the negro, who is charged with murder.

Mrs. Jones, who also is charged with murder in connection with her husband's death, said she and her husband had been married 12 years but were separated part of the time. She said the negro Banks had worked for her family and for her husband for nine years.

Some time prior to the killing, she said her husband dug up some flowers and threw them over the fence. She quoted the negro as saying, "why not freeze him out." "I would if I could," she responded, according to her testimony.

Would for $150.

"Give me $150 and I'll do it," the negro said, Mrs. Jones testified.

Her husband cursed her on the morning of the day of the killing, Mrs. Jones testified. Later, when she tried to catch an old horse, he ridiculed her. The negro came that morning and said he wanted money to pay for a car which was in the shop. Mrs. Jones told the negro, she testified, that she did not have any money and then reminded him that he "hadn't done what he said he would." The negro then said he would "get him," witness testified.

Mrs. Jones testified that her husband went to town that night to hear a speech over radio and returned home about 20 minutes to ten o'clock. She testified to the location of doors and windows in the house and then said that while her husband was reading a newspaper, she stepped out on the back porch and then went to her room. Shortly thereafter, she testified, she heard shots fired. She thought a lamp had exploded, she said and called to her husband asking what was the matter. When he did not answer she went to the room and saw him sitting in his chair dead.

On cross examination, she testified that her husband had objected to her going anywhere except to see her mother, that he never wanted her to have flowers and that she loved him, but on account of mistreatment, had begged him for a divorce.

Innocent of Shot.

She said that she did not know whether the defendant negro killed her husband.

The witness said she had never thought of her husband being shot, but that the negro had said he would "freeze him out."

Rubber boots worn by banks the day of his arrest were exhibited to the jury during testimony of Sheriff Will Loessin, who said they fitted tracks he traced from the Jones residence to a gravel pit where a broken shotgun was found.

Eddie Lewis, young negro woman, testified that Banks rushed into her house shortly after 10 o'clock the night of the shooting, apparently so excited he could hardly speak for 15 minutes.

States Attorney Bludell said late today that the state is nearly through with is case.

SECOND LOVE

Malcolm Duart

COPYRIGHT 1926 BY EUGENE MACLEAN

SYNOPSIS.

John Parrish and Audrey, his wife, have been married ten months and are having their first quarrel. She is rich. When he married her, he was poor. The dispute is over his attendance at a girlie revue without notifying her.

He leaves the house in a rage, and he invites Marcie Allen, dark, young, beautiful, to dine with her. Parrish returns in time for dinner, and Marcie tells him she believes women should do everything that men do, including indulgence in male vices. Audrey believes that Marcie has shocked Parrish, but as their guest leaves, he says she is "a mighty interesting girl."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.
(Characters and situations in this story are fictitious)

CHAPTER II.

It so chanced that Audrey received a letter from her father the next morning. It had been mailed in London. On the envelope was the name of the old, comfortable hotel that Harry Morton liked so well, on the bank of Thames.

"Dear Little Kid," the letter began. "It's about time for you and John to be enjoying your first quarrel. It's a rare woman who knows how to handle a man who's in a temper. There are no men at all who know how to deal with an angry woman. The old efficient system of hitting them with a club has gone out of use. Just remember this, though—you don't have to win ALL the arguments. Let him win one, too, once in a while. You'll both be happier.

"I'm all right, and having a pretty good time. How are you? Lovingly—Dad."

She dropped the missive in her lap. "He's a clairvoyant!" she exclaimed aloud.

"Mam?" asked the little housemaid.

"It's a letter from my father," explained Audrey. "He guessed something that really happened."

"He would," said the maid. "He's like that." She rested a moment on the handle of the vacuum cleaner. "It's a pity he ain't married again," she added.

Audrey tucked the letter into the bosom of her dress, and went about her morning errands.

Parrish had been gone an hour. Their breakfast had been a coldly polite one, each avoiding the other's eye, both making elaborate use of such phrases as "pardon me;" "if you please," and "would it trouble you too much to—"

Audrey, as she passed the hall telephone, hesitated, as if about to place a call. She went on, though, thoughtfully, and read her father's letter again as she ascended the stairs. In her dressing room was an extensive 'phone, and she sat down beside this. Once she reached out her hand and lifted the receiver, but immediately replaced it.

When afternoon came, she retired to her bed chamber, and took an hour's nap. Awakening at length, she bathed, and spent a long time arranging her light, thick hair. She tried the effect of her coiffure first in one mirror, then in another. Dissatisfied, she took down her hair and rearranged it, in another fashion.

After this, she deliberated a great while before the ranks of gowns that hung within her closet. This closet was as large as the bathroom that was visible at the other end of her boudoir, and the clothes that filled it were like the display in a well-stocked specialty store.

Notwithstanding the fact that there were gowns of every color and nearly every fashionable shape, Audrey was discontented with the array.

She lifted several of them, held them before her, and tossed them back.

At last she selected a pastel blue, and turned with it to the pier glass that stood between the windows.

Her dressing consumed more than an hour. When Parrish came home, at 6 o'clock, she had been waiting for him, cool and dainty in her porch swing, since 5.

He took off his hat, said "Good evening," and started into the house without his customary kiss.

She stopped him at the door, and lifted her face. He lightly brushed her cheeks with his lips, and went on into the hall. She did not follow him, but returned to the swing, where she waited, a troubled frown upon her brow, until dinner was announced.

Parrish held her chair for her at the table, and silently took his own place. She watched him as the maid served the thick Scotch broth that was his favorite. She had ordered it for him especially. He made no comment as he dipped into the plate.

"Did you have a nice day, dear?" she asked, brightly.

"Pretty good," he said.

There was a silence, as he finished his soup, and sat waiting for the fish.

"I bought some of those little flat fish that you like," she told him.

Her eyes were coaxing as she waited for a reply.

"That's good," he said, staring absently at the cloth.

She was quiet while he ate the fish, and tested the alligator pear the maid had set beside him. An expression of satisfaction crossed his face,

"It's about time for you and John to be enjoying your first quarrel," read the lteer Audrey received from her father, maile din London.

and she resumed: "I think you ought to be very happy, John."

He looked up quickly.

"Here's a dinner made up of everything you like, and I spent three hours getting rested and dressed, so I'd look all right when you got home," she told him. "If you're discontented, I'm sure it isn't my fault."

"I haven't made any complaint, have I?" he countered.

"No, but I was just saying I don't see how you can complain."

He was scowling as the maid entered with a platter of roast chicken. He took the carving knife and fork, and hacked off a supply of breast and thigh, put it on her plate with a spoonful of dressing and passed it to her.

She sighed gently.

"It's cruel of you to be angry with me, when all I did was to turn my whole fortune over to you to handle, and paid you a big salary for handling it." There was a little quaver in her voice.

He bent his face over his plate, without replying, but she could see his neck flush, and the veins on his temple stand out. She touched her napkin to her eyes.

The meal proceeded in glum silence. When it was done, he drew back her chair for her, and as she left the room he turned and went in the other direction. She found him shortly afterward, sitting on a stool on the back porch, smoking a cigar.

"Don't you want to come out in front?" she asked. "It's cooler there."

He shrugged his shoulders, and followed her to the wide portico that overlooked the street. She took her seat in the swing, and he settled himself on the step.

"I got a letter from daddy," she said.

His face showed interest. "Is everything all right?"

"He says he's having a 'pretty good time,'" she answered.

She studied his face attentively for a moment, and then went on. "Would you like to see his letter?"

He nodded. She went indoors and handed him the off-size English envelope as she returned.

He read the letter slowly, and then read it again.

"He's a wise old coot," he said with conviction. "Your father's a smart man."

His face had cleared, and he even smiled as he handed the letter back to her. "He always was great at noticing things," Parrish added.

The girl patted the seat of the swing beside her. "Come over here, dear, and sit down."

He obeyed, and she possessed herself of his hand. "Then you won't quarrel with me any more, will you, John?"

He checked the reply that came to his lips, swallowed hard, and patted her knee. "I don't want to quarrel," he told her. "I hate quarreling."

"Then that's all settled," she said, and sank against him. "It hurts me so when you're mean to me."

He made a resigned gesture with his left hand, and said: "All right."

Her head found a nood on his shoulder, and she twined her fingers in his.

"I always like to think of you as big and strong and manly—not spending the money I give you in running around vulgar shows," she proceeded.

His face twitched, and his lips were compressed as if he were forcibly restraining an angry retort.

"Let's not talk about that," he said, with an effort.

She nodded, her hair brushing his cheek in the movement. "Yes, let's bury it," she said. "I never want to hear about it again. If you had only told me where you were going? It was so hard, sitting here, waiting for you to come home, and then to learn later that you were out smirking at a lot of half-naked girls on the stage."

He arose suddenly. It was necessary for her to catch at the back of the swing to avoid being thrown out.

"Audrey, will you keep quiet about that?" he said, with fury. "If I've told you once, I've told you fifty times that I had those friends of your father's at the office. They were my guests. They wanted to go to the show. I had to take them. And that's that."

She arose and came to him. Her slim hand went up to his shoulder, and brushed it soothingly.

"There, there, John," she said. "Don't fly into a passion. You're not yourself lately, darling. Do try to compose yourself. Don't make our home unhappy, dear."

She pulled him to her and laid her head upon his breast. "Let's forget the cruel things you said to me, John. We'll go to the movies, or out riding, or some place tonight, and be happy!"

The flush of wrath had disappeared from his face, which now began to bear a cast of puzzlement.

"But I can't go out tonight, Audrey," he said. "I have an engagement at the office."

"Who with?" she asked, raising her head.

"With Miss Allen—Marcie Allen," he told her. "She wants me to be her business adviser—she called me up and said it was most important that she see me this evening."

HERRING AND MACK

CLYDE HERRING is a popular Iowa democrat and a man who has amassed wealth in a legitimate way. He is the Iowa member of the democratic national committee. Norman E. Mack is the publisher of the Buffalo Times Union, and for 30 years has been the outstanding democratic leader of the state of N. Y. Herring and Mack have been indulging in letter writing. Herring represents the McAdoo wing of the party. Mack is a personal friend and adviser of Governor Alfred E. Smith.

According to the newspapers or the the newspaper correspondents, Herring and Mack are cultivating very friendly relations, and now it is possible for them to confer together without brandishing their tomahawks or scalping knives. Indeed, it is plain that this representative of the western democracy, which is corn fed, and the representative of the eastern democracy, which is beef and cabbage or pork and beans feed, are ready to do business. That is, they are willing to harpoon the two-thirds nominating rule and the unit rule in the near future.

There are 48 states. Each state has two national committeewomen. There are 96 of these dignitaries of functionaries. They can recommend to the national convention in 1928 that a revision of the rule shall be made or the rules discarded snd this is as far as they are permitted to go. Notwithstanding this, if the national committee should recommend the abrogation of the two-thirds rule and the unit plan, it is more than likely tha' the delegates would take to the recommendation very kindly and make haste to discard these barbarians.

There are many able men in the democratic party. They are not candidates for presidential honor. That is they are not avowed candidates. They have not mentioned for presidential honor. They are two outstanding figures, just as there were two outstanding figures before the Madison Square Garden wrecking crew began their labor.

For 30 years William Jennings Bryan was the boss of a powerful minority, the Mussolini of disappointed ambitions and broken hopes. Bryan is dead. Many of his pet theories were buried with him. He left no successor behind him. There are no great issues uppermost, although there are signs in the heavens that two or three issues are coming to the surface.

Western farmers, mostly republicans, backed for the Haugen farm relief bill. It was not sent to its grave. Democratic knives and republican knives let the life blood out of the bantling, which was proposed by an Iowa congressman and was named for its author. Not every Coolidge measure that has gone over since congress assembled has been over by democratic vote. A Virginia democrat, Senator Swanson, lead the fight for the world court proposal. Republican senators voted for the world court faring badly. Those who are up for re-election are being put away. If the democrats of the United States wish to present a united front to their ancient enemy in 1928, they will demand of their national committeemen that a recommendation shall be made to the national convention that the two-thirds rule and he unit rule shall be thrown in the ash can and that a standard bearer shall be named who stands for constitutional liberty and constitutional government as Thomas Jefferson intended when he became the founder of the democratic party and preached the gospel of its faith.

Then every state should select the representative democratic men and women of the commonwealth and send them to the national convention to pick the most available men for first and second place on the ticket.

Smash the shackles and put away the bosses and their hand picked states. Texas should lead in the fight and Texas placed the hand of procession of states ready to battle for old time democracy—the faith of the fathers.

SPEAKING OF FIFTY-FIFTY BUSINESS

SENATOR JAMES W. WADSWORTH of New York is a republican who is opposed to the 50-50 business and over a powerful advocate of local self-government. In a recent address he said the 50-50 system of federal aid to the states congress enacted the Smith-Lever law, had its inception in 1914. In that year which had for its purpose the promotion of co-operative agriculture extention work. According to the New York senator the appropriation carried in the bill for the first year of its operation $480,000 to be divided equally among the 48 states on condition that their legislature appropriate an equal amount for carrying on the work of educating their citizens in agriculture and home economics.

This money was taken directly from the pockets of the American people, ta-from Paul and Handed to Peter.

The next step was the federal good roads bill of 1916, for which the first year's appropriation was $5,000,000. All the pork barrel members of congress from the south and the west fought for their little pieces of pork. Furthermore, the senator says, the ramifications of the 50-50 business have taken many different directions from road building to teaching mothers how to care for their babies, until today its inroads on the federal treasury have reached the enormous total $110,000,000 annually, which of course, required substantially an equal outlay from the states, so that the total cost of the system to the tax paying public over $2,000,000 a year.

Now a movement to get $100,000,000 annually from the federal government for the purpose of promoting education in the various states on the 50-50 plan has been launched. "A certain organization is placarding the nation with a slogan to stimulate a campaign for the construction and maintenance of 250,000 miles of good roads by the federal government," remarked the statesman from New York in his vigorous protest against the policy of taking from Paul to pay Peter.

In conclusion he said, "there are five main forms of federal subsidies—highway construction, act of July 11, 1916; agricultural extention Smith-Lever act of May 8, 1914; vocational education act of February 23, 1917; vocational rehabilitation act of June 3, 1920; and matetity and infant hygiene act of November 23, 1921." In speaking of the cost to the people of these subsidies, Senator Wadsworth said:

"During the fiscal year 1924, the last one for which completed figures are available, the department of agriculture, by authority of congress, of course, disbursed $98,790,790.19 in various forms of subsidies. The disbursements for road construction were approximately $90,000,000. Expenditures for vocational education were $5,412,143.40; for agricultural extention $5,820,216.89; for promotion and welfare and hygiene of maternity industry, $720,694.79. These disbursements, with numerous smaller doles brought the total for the year up to $110,377,443.68. No less than $80,000,000 is needed to carry out the highway construction plans for next year and still another $116,000,000 will be required to discharge additional obligations already incurred under the same head." In the Dallas senatorial district foxy Tom Love and big John Davis have made a paramount issue of the 50-50 business. Foxy Tom is for federal aid for roads and education and minor matters, but he is said to be against the principle thing. Big John Davis is opposed to the 50-50 business in its entirely and thinks it is time to call a halt on federal encrauchments of the rights of the state.

Well, Jones pays. Jones is a funny old chap. He never grunts when the federal government reaches into his right hand pocket and taxes him for the benefit of Smith, his neighbor; but he grunts all the time because of high taxes and the high cost of government.

Really, the federal government is a pauper. If it pays subsidies to other states the money must come out of the pockets of the taxpayers of the state. There is where Uncle Sam goes for his money.

WHERE THEY EDUCATE

NEW YORK spends more money for educational purposes than any other state. This includes the support of the rural schools as well as the support of the magnificiently equipped public schools in the cities and towns of the state. It was only the other day that Governor Smith signed one of his pet measures, a bill under which state financial aid for schools is increased $49,000,000 annually, and the state support quota for each rural school district employing more than one teacher, is increased from $450 to $500 a year.

This bill was passed by the legislature last year, and was one of the recommendations made by the governor in his message. It became effective July 1, 1926. He also signed another pet bill to include under the teacher's retirement system persons employed in the bureaus of compulsory education, school census and child welfare in cities of more than 100,000 inhabitants. New York is said to be a city of foreigners, largely controlled by the sons and daughters of foreigners.

Well, the colleges and the schools of the city of greater New York are magnificently supported by the appropriations made annually by those who make the laws for city and state.

Questions From the World of Love Answered by a Noted Authority

WHY BEING AN OLD MAID IS NO LONGER THE JOKE IT USED TO BE — THE YOUNG COUPLE WHO FEAR MARRIAGE BECAUSE THEIR PARENTS WERE DIVORCED.

Dear Dorothy Dix: What would you do if you were kidded continually about being an old maid and always having some one call you a manhater when you are not one at all? As long as I have a good job, what need is there for me to rush into matrimony in order that I may not be an old maid? C. M. R.

Answer: My dear girl, the sting in the old-maid gibe died the day the first woman got a good job in a business office.

Before then there may have been some stigma of reproach in the term "old Maid" because every woman married who possibly could, and for one to remain single showed that she was utterly lacking in all charm and that no man would have her at any price.

In those days a woman was obliged to marry whether she wanted to or not because a husband was her one and only meal ticket and her sole admission card into any sort of social life. No occupations, except the most menial ones, were open to her.

Therefore, unless she was one of the lucky few who inherited money she had either to marry or to eat the bitter bread of dependence. Furthermore, rich or poor, as long as she remained unmarried she was supposed to be an artless child, incapable of taking care of herself and in need of a chaperon. She was cut off from all freedom of action and most of the pleasures and gayeties of life, therefore a husband was a necessity.

Modern conditions and the emancipation of woman have changed all that.

Nowadays a husband is a luxury instead of a necessity. And a girl gets married because she wants to, not because she is compelled to. The term "old maid" is no more a stigma to a woman than is "old bachelor" to a man. It is merely descriptive, and shows that the particular woman, for reasons of her own, has not seen fit to marry.

For any one to attempt to tease you about being an old maid merely shows how mid-Victorian they are and how little they have kept up with the times. And you remember this, that their teasing is founded on envy.

Many a woman who spends her life trying to placate a grouch, sullen husband or to get money out of a stingy one or who has to stand the abuse of a foul-tongued one envies with all her heart the girl who is single, who has a good job and her own latchkey, and who can come and go as she pleases and spend her own money on herself.

Don't mind being called an old maid. If the term means anything, it means that you had sense enough to wait for the right man to come along and that you wouldn't marry just to be a-marrying.

And don't let anybody kid you into marrying to escape being an old maid. Remember that it is better to be laughed at for not being married than not to be able to laugh because you are married.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix: A young man and I are in love with each other. Curiously enough, both his parents and mine were divorced when we were very young and we were both thrown on our own resources when we were mere children, so that we have seen and learned a great deal more than other young people of our age. He has spoken of marriage to me, but frankly says that he is not ready to settle down for a while. He also says that he is afraid of life and is trying to beat it, and he feels that our parents' experience is a warning to us, but I don't see it that way. What can I do to make him to look at things from a different angle? TULSA.

Answer: If by "beating life" the young man means attempting to escape the responsibilities and the sorrows of life, he is trying the impossible. It can't be done. Every man's fate is written on his forehead, say the Arabs, and none escape.

I don't wonder that the children of divorced parents get a warped view of matrimony and see it only as a place of strife and bickering, and that they have small faith in a love that is able to endure the strain that domestic life puts upon it.

But because one's father and mother failed to make a success of marriage is no more reason for not risking it than it would be not to go into the grocery business because one's parents had failed in that.

Each marriage stands on its own feet. It is an individual matter and is a success or a failure as that particular man and woman make of it.

Our fathers and mothers are just as often a warning to us as an example, and the children who have escaped from the ruins of a wrecked home should at least have gained the wisdom that would teach them how to build the foundations of their own houses so solidly that they would stand.

POEMS THAT LIVE

"Is My Team Ploughing?" by A. E. Housman.

I like this as well—if not better—than anything in that glorious book, "A Shropshire Lad." All of rural England seems to be in it, and all of life.

"Is my team ploughing,
That I was used to drive
And hear the harness jingle
When I was man alive?"

Ay, the horses trample,
The harness jingles now;
No change though you lie under
The land you used to plough.

"Is football playing
Along the river shore,
With lads to chase the leather,
Now I stand up no more?"

Ay, the ball is flying,
The lads play heart and soul;
The goal stands up, the keeper
Stands up to keep the goal.

"Is my girl happy,
That I thought had to leave,
And has she tired of weeping
As she lies down at eve?"

Ay, she lies down lightly,
She lies not down to weep:
Your girl is well contented.
Be still, my lad, and sleep.

"Is my friend hearty,
Now I am thin and pine,
And has he found to sleep in
A better bed than mine?"

Yes, lad, I lie easy,
I lie as lads would choose;
I cheer a dead man's sweetheart,
Never ask me whose.

DINNER STORIES

A concert had been arranged by the workers of a certain factory, and all the local "stars" were booked ot appear.

Miss White, the favorite soprano, was announced to sing, and before she began she apologized for her cold. Then she started:

"I'll hang my harp on a willow tree-e-e- ahem!

Her voice broke on the high note each time. Then a voice came from the back of the hall:

"Try hanging it on a lower branch, Miss!"

A man who had run out of gas on the outskirts of a New England town saw a young boy coming along the road carrying a big tin can.

"Say, boy, I hope that's gasoline you have in that can!"

"Well, I hope it ain't," returned the boy with some heat. "It would taste like sin on ma's pancakes."

A professod of natural history, who was delivering a lecture on the chimpanzee, noticed that the attention of the students was wandering.

"Gentlemen," he said sternly, "if you expect to conceive of the appearance of this remarkable beast you must keep your eyes fixed upon me."

WHO'S WHO

MARSHAL JOSEF JILSUDSKI.

After remaining in comparative seclusion ever since the termination of the World war, Marshal Josef Pilsudski emerges from retirement to lead an army on Warsaw, the capital of Poland, and seeking it is thought to overturn the present government.

Pilsudski is a socialist, although at the time of his dramati entrance into Warsaw it was not clear whether he had the support of the fascisti and monarchists or of the radical socialists and communists.

He is regarded as a hero by many Poles and holds away over soldiers who admired him during the war.

He is an intense patriot and at present announces that he proposes to free Poland from corruption and institute "clean" government.

No man has had a greater part in freeing Poland from her oppressor, Russia, than Pilsudski, founder of the famous Polish legion and former commander-in-chief of the Polish army. His father was a revolutionist and he has spent practically all his life working for the education of the Polish people that they might intelligently seek their own independence.

For years Pilsudski was almost a fugitive, yet he managed to edit many books, printing them by hand on a small printing press hidden in a small village. With the literature thus created he traveled here and there spreading the revolutionary spirit.

In 1896 the printing press was at length discovered and Pilsudski was arrested. His friends helped him to escape. Until January, 1905, he refused to accept money from the Austrians, but necessity made him accept their help to fight the Russians. When his beloved country was finally cleared of the last Russian soldier, Pilsudski began to work out the task of forcing out the Germans and the Austrians. He landed in a German prison, where he remained for considerable time.

Military leaders of China are building roads with forced soldier labor in order to make profits from the motor passenger and freight business.

Lyrics of Life

By Douglas Malloch

THE COPPER COIN

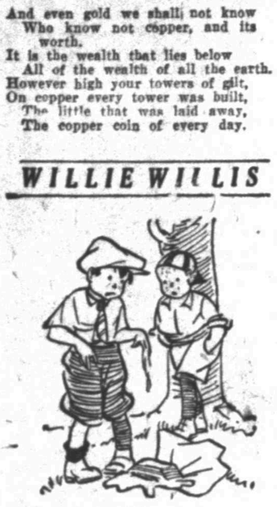

Men love the glittering gleam of gold
Even as men may fail to see
The worth that humble hearts may hold,
The coin of simple honesty.
Good people, I would have you join
A simpler song to humbler coin,
A little honor let us pay
The copper coin of every day.

It is the coin of childish hearts,
The treasure of our earliest years,
The currency of children' marts,
Where many a penny thing appears.
The copper coin will bring more joy
To some wee girl, some sturdy boy,
Than all the gold that you will gain
In all your years of toil and pain.

The copper coin, the beggar's friend,
When great, yet simple, is the need—
It is the little we spend
That does the greatest good indeed.
Gold is a wanton, is the frail
Companion of the scarlet trail,
But copper is the metal given
To do the very work of heaven.

And even gold we shall not know
Who know not copper, and its worth.
It is the wealth that lies below
All of the wealth of all the earth.
However high your towers of gilt,
On copper every tower was built,
The little that was laid away,
The copper coin of every day.

What Do You Know About It?

DAILY SCIENCE SIX

1. Why was longitude chosen to traverse the earth where it does?
2. What European capital is in the same latitude with Washington, D. C.?
3. If you dre wa straight line southward, through what part of South America would it pass.
4. What is the shady side of a house in the southern hemisphere?
5. What are the roaring forties?
6. What are the "tropics" as understood by geographers?

Answer to these questions in tomorrow's Record News.

SO-CALLED TEMPERATE ZONE

We think of the tropics as regions of excessive heat, and we are pleased to call our regions the temperate zone. As a matter of fact it might better be called the intemeprate zone. No such extremes of temperature are felt in either the tropics or the Arctic regions. The coldest region in the world, the North Pole not excepted, is a region in the interior of Siberia and the hottest region in the world, the deserts of Arabia, North Africa, and our own southwest are none of them actually in the tropics while the average summer temperatures of a large part of America are far in excess of the average temperatures of a large part of America are far in excess of the average maxima of the tropics. This is not to say that the heat is not "felt" more in the real tropics, but it is a matter of record that it gets both hotter and colder in the temperate zone, and changes more violently from extreme to extreme in the United States than in the tropics or the arctic regions.

Now what do you know about that?

Answers to yesterday's questions:

1. There is no geological evidence for a "great flood" at least in the time that man has dwelt on the earth, though just after the great glacier melted the ocean level must have been higher than before.
2. The great pleistocene glacier is the most recent event of importance in geological history.
3. The newest mountains of our continent are the volcanic mountains of Mexico.
4. The oldest mountains of America are the Appalachian chain and the Laurentian highlands.
5. Florida and Louisiana are the most geologically recent states of the union.
6. The middle west was under the ocean in Cretaceous times.

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

BY MARY BLAKE GERMINI

Today's planetary aspects are adverse until noon. Then they change and become exceedingly favorable. During the morning, and in the absence of sluggish vibrations, much thought and careful preparation should be given to any plan, involving initiative or originality, that you desire to put into execution. If this be done, and the ground work be properly prepared, no better opportunity for launching can be found than that furnished during the afternoon. All the signs of success are present. There will be sensed courage, hope and perseverance—all very necessary factors of success in any enterprise, either large or small, or related to the home or the office.

Children born today promise to pass through infancy without experiencing any serious physical set backs. This does not, of course, mean that they will never be sick, but the signs denote that their ailments will be of a slight nature, and never serious enough to cause disquietude or engender alarm. Their characters will be tractable, although they will very actively resent anything which, in their minds, savors of injustice. Their natures will be affectionate, without being effusively so. They will be truthful, sincere, and always loyal to those who are near and dear to them. They will not be very ambitious, nor anxious to rise. They will, however, be conscientious and painstaking.

If today is your birthday, your mental processes are not in keeping with your mental prowess. You possess exceptional ability, have clear vision and an alert mind. You, however, instead of devoting your time and energy to the solution of worth-while problems, occupy yourself with insignificant trifles that amount to nothing. You are a giant in the face of great difficulties. You are a weakling when little worries arise, and allow them to distress you to an extent not commensurate with the issue involved.

You are always impugning other peoples' motives. If you adopt the policy of giving your friends and associates credit for good intentions, rather than always seek a malicious object for their actions and utterances, life would be brighter for you, and you could then give the best that is in you—and it is "some" best—to the advancement of your real interests.

Mr. and Mrs. Keim Are Honorees at Party

Complimenting Mr. and Mrs. Frank Keim on the event of their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary, members of the Catholic Daughters of America and the Knights of Columbus in which both honorees hold high offices, arranged a surprise affair in honor of their silver anniversary.

About 50 couples were in the receiving line at the church all Tuesday evening, when Mr. and Mrs. Keim arrived, and dancing furnished the diversion for the evening. The hall was beautifully decorated for the event in cut flowers over which floated silver balloons. Music was furnished by an orchestra and dance steps of twenty-five years ago were enjoyed, while in striking contrast, was the Charleston danced by Paul Keim, 5-year-old son of the honorees.

A silver serving tray was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Keim by Mr. Duffy, in behalf of the two organizations when he spoke on their active and untiring service in the clubs. Both responded with a few well chosen words. After cutting the bride's cake, a buffet luncheon was served and all bade the happy couple best wishes for a continuation of their married life.

It's a richer coffee to start with—

There's no midnight or mystery about the economy of M·J·B. It's as simple as ABC! M·J·B is a richer coffee to start with. It has more body, more flavor, more concentrated strength to the pound right off. We blend it that way—always have!

This is why you can use less of M·J·B to the cup and still enjoy a rich, rare cup of coffee.

Isn't this, after all, sensible economy? You get much more in the way of coffee-contentment; and it costs you less in the long run.

STIR BRITAIN WITH LETTERS

Lloyd George And Earl Of Oxford Correspondence Brings Sensation

LONDON, Maq 26.—(AP)—A political sensation was created today by the publication of correspondence between the Earl of xford and Asquith and David Lloyd George.

The earl censures Lloyd George for his attitude during the recent general strike. Lloyd George characterizes Lord Oxford's letter as "a provocative document."

Political gossip of recent days had indicated that there was considerable tension between Lord Oxford, who is leader of the liberal party, and Lloyd George, the party's parliamentary chairman in the house of commons.

In some quarters it is maintained that Lloyd Oxford has never forgiven Mr. Lloyd George for ousting him from the premiership in 1916 and himself becoming Great Britain's war premier.

George Must Quit.

In these quarters Lord Oxford's letter is interpreted as meaning that either Mr. Lloyd George must resign the parliamentary leadership of the party or that Lord Oxford and Viscount Grey, Sir John Simon and other prominent liberals who are in agreement with the stand of Lord Oxford, will cut loose from the party.

Friends of Mr. Lloyd George contend that he is no answerable to Lord Oxford, but to the liberal members of the house of commons, who elected him their chairman, and they say that his attitude on the strike was taken only after he consulted them. Another view of the incident is that it is a counter offensive of the followers of Lord Oxford to Mr. Lloyd George's advances toward the laborites which, according to reports, laborites in no wise welcome.

In his letter Oxford justifies the policy of himself and other prominent liberals in opposing the strike and touches upon Mr. Lloyd George's refusal to meet the liberal members in a declaration against the strike.

Refers to Newspapers.

Lord Oxford also refers to articles written by Lloyd George for American newspapers deploring that such a presentation of the situation "should have been offered to the outside world on the authority of an ex-prime minister of Great Britain and chairman of the liberal parliamentary party."

Lloyd George writes that he intended no discourtesy when he refused to attend the party's meeting.

He says he deplored the governments' attitude that conditional surrender of the strikers should precede resumption of peace parleys. He recalls that during the Boer war and the world war the liberal party disavowed the policy of refusing to announce terms or engage in parleys for peace until there had first unconditional surrender.

As regards the articles printed in the United States Lloyd George suggests that Lord Oxford read garbled sentences.

"You complain that I predicted a long struggle unless the public and parliament interyened," says the letter. "Are you sure the industrial struggle even now will not be prolonged unless parliament takes a hand."

Kill Crazed Man In K. C. Gun Fight

KANSAS CITY, May 26.—(AP)—An unidentified man, believed by the police to have been mentally unbalanced was killed and a patrolman was shot in the arm in an exchange of shots between the man and two policemen near the general hospital here today. The patrolman had responded to calls for help from the hospital where the man had appeared a few minutes previously, flourishing a revolver and mumbling incoherently.

The shooting followed a chase of several blocks. B. S. Hankins, patrolman who was shot in the arm, out distanced the man and knocked him down with a shot that struck in the right shoulder. The unidentified man was killed by a shot from the revolver of the other patrolman W. J. Glass.

Unidentified Men Shoot at Residence

FOR WORTH, May 26—(AP)—Stopping their car on the southeast aside in a neighborhood where several houses have been bombed recently, six men drew revolvers and riddled a vacant house with bullets last night, neighbors reported to the police this morning.

No motive for the fusillade was assigned, but as the district is one in which negroes moving into it have been terrorized with bombings for six months or more, police believe it a part of the same campaign to keep them out of a section formerly occupied exclusvely by white persons.

SALESMAN SLAIN

Lubbock Man Found Shot to Death Near Amarillo.

AMARILLO, May 26. — (AP)—Homer Lyman Smith, 31, of Lubbock, a traveling salesman, was found dead near his motor car on the Amarillo-Panhandle highway early today, a bullet hole through his back. He apparently was the victim of hijackers, as evidences of a struggle were found.

Authorities have no clues as to the identity of the slayer. Early yesterday Arthur Wolf of Amarillo was held up near the same place by a lone highwayman, who had parked his car across the highway. Wolfe was robbed of $200 in cash.

WESTERN RAIL RATES FLAILED

Representatives of Cotton And Livestock Shippers Protest Them

WASHINGTON, May 26.—(AP)—Arguments against proposal by western railroads to increase freight rates generally in that territory were registered in rapid succession today in the Interstate Commerce Commission's western rate investigation.

One railroad representative appeared in support of the carriers' separate petition to raise livestock rates 20 percent.

The first bit of drama thus far in the real arguments was furnished in the appearance of Representative Hudspeth, democrat, Texas, who took the commissioners back to the hooping and wild cracking days, when cattlemen drove their stock long distances to market to emphasize what the present day stock raiser was up against.

Appearing, he said, not as a member of congress, but for himself and other growers recent experiences in resorting to the old trial driving method of shipping cattle to escape what he termed "exhorbitant freight rates." He challenged the railroads' counsel, whom he described as "cowologists," to show where any cattle growers in Texas had earned more than 3 1-4 percent in the last five years and urged establishment of the pre-war level of livestock rates and removal of discriminations in the movement of sheep in double deck cars.

R. S. Outlaw, of the Santa Fe, opposing a reduction in livestock rates, declared this traffic in the southwest was unprofitable and that a small percentage increase would have no material effect because where a grower had the disadvantage of a higher rate he would have an offset i na higher-priced market. He said present cattle rates in the southwest were 20 percent below the lowest possible lawful rate."

C. E. Elmquist, counsel for the Western Pine association, contended a percentage increase in lumber rates would "dislocate the whole traffic," while John S. Burchman, representing the Northern Hemlock and Harwood association and R. C. Fulbright, of the Southern Pine association likewise protested against any raise in lumber rates.

Mr. Fulbright also registered a protest o nbehalf of the Texas cotton grower through the Texas farm bureau cotton association declaring that present cotton rates were higher.

WARNER BAXTER AND ESTHER RALSTON IN THE SIDNEY OLCOTT PRODUCTION "THE BEST PEOPLE" A PARAMOUNT PICTURE

Star Denies Tears Make the Actress

Claims Facial Expressions Better Aid Than Weeping

A film star who can cry—but doesn't.

That is, not unless the director engaged to pilot her in some particular piece of "emotioning" to a triumphantly tragic climax decress that the tear ducts must open and flow.

This is Margaret Livingston. She of the pepful personality, the dynamic energy whose thick crop of ruddy, bobbed hair, despite her "skittering" screen presence, yet covers a level head. A head that works full time in thinking out the "business" for every scene she portrays on the silver sheet.

"I'm not of the crying type at all," explains the vivacious Miss Livingston, between scenes of B. P. Schulberg's "Capital Punishment," now at the Mission theatre.

"Not that I haven't served my time in sob contests. I can shed the crystal drops with the best professional wailer if need be. But I don't like to create my screen illusions that way.

"Most scenes of pathos and tragedy, I believe, can be 'put across' to the audience more effectively by other means than tears. The conveying of deep grief, of awful, stark tragedy, through facial expression, gestures, body movement, is, to my mind, far more skillful acting than to weep one's way through the picture.

"As you might guess," the sprightly Margaret concluded, favoring the interviewer with a dazzling smile, "all the tears I do shed are set. I haven't cried three times in my life, off stage. And I hope I shall not have to swim my way to fame through rivers of weeps, either."

Fine Comedy At the Olympic

"The Best People" From Popular New York Stage Hit

A dazzling success in the world of finance and dismal failure at rearing a family is the study in contrasts strikingly shown in "The Best People," Sidney Olcott's newest production for Paramount at the Olympic theatre today.

A husband learns that, after he has rolled up his millions, he has entirely overlooked the welfare of his son and daughter, until it is forcefully brought home to him by the daughter falling in love with the family chauffeur and the son with a chorus girl.

The mother of the children is more alarmed about the ensuing disgrace to her than she is over the future welfare of the children. Incidentally, the children, who have come to mock and scorn the authority of the parents, feel that they are able to choose for themselves.

How this tangle is straightened out makes a mighty interesting picture and gives its own answer to the problem "who are the best people?"

Featured in the production are Warner Baxter, as the chauffeur; Esther Ralston, the "different" chorus girl; Kathlyn Williams, as the mother. In the supporting cast are Edwards Davis, who plays the father; Margaret Morris, the daughter of wealth; Joseph Striker, cast as the son; William Austin, Margaret Livingston and Ernie Adams.

Bernard McConville adapted the story for the screen from the play by David Grey and Avery Hopwood.

Albania, which Rome hopes to bring within its sphere permanently; 6. Brenner Pass, where Mussolini has taken a strong stand against a possible invasion of German colonists; 7. New Pool Given a Proper Invocation

"Lake Beach," the inviting new swimming pool opened last Sunday at Lake Wichita, had a rather imposing opening as evidenced by the picture above.

The young lady is Miss Peggy Eastwood who, appearing in behalf of the W. B. McClurkan store, copped first prize in the bathing beauty revue staged as a feature of the opening day celebration. She wore an Annette Kellerman athletic swimming suit and evidently had little difficulty convincing the judges she was of first prize caliber.

Babes, Joined In Front, Unable To Walk, Are Happy

SOUTH BEND, Ind., May 26.—(AP)—The two girl babies, perfect in every respect save that they are linked together facing each other, who were born here Saturday, are being sustained by bottle feeding and gave every indication today of living and growing like normal babies.

"The babies are here; a doctor's duty is to do what he can for them," was the comment of Dr. Thomas A. Swants, attending physician for the twins. Lucy and Bessie Medich. He said an operation to separate them would prove fatal.

Mr. and Mrs. Nicholass Medich are deeply shaken by the strange birth. The mother, torn between mother love and the anguish of the handicap of her daughters, has expressed the hope that the babies will pass from the mortal scene to which they are so ill adapted.

Unlike the famous Siamese twins who were joined in such a way as to permit locomotion, these twins who are poined at the pelvic girdle, would never be able to walk or move in anything like a normal manner.

The babies seem to live separate lives. Sometimes one sleeps while the other is feeding. Physicians say that should illness come to one it would affect the other. Similar twins, however, have been known to survive for years.

X-Ray studies show that each child is complete as to heart, lungs, stomach and other internal organs except that they share one colon.

RIFFIAN WAR FINALLY ENDS

Abd-el-Krim Surrenders To French And Hostilities Cease

PARIS, May 27.—(AP)—The long colonial warfare in Morocco which Spain has been carrying on with various success for several years and which France has been experiencing since last year, apparently has come to an end with the surrender today of the doughty mountain chieftain, Abd-el-Krim.

Deserted by even his closest tribal followers, the Riffian chieftain has placed himself, his family and property under the protection of France.

The war with Krim has been one of the most costly colonial struggles in history as far as men and materials are concerned. Entrenched in his mountain fastness Krim's hardy warriors last year defied picked troops of France and Spain and caused the hasty summoning of no less a great military personage than Marshal Petain of France. Upon him fell the task of devising a method of stamping out Krim's insurrection and of freeing Morocco from the menace of his hostile bands.

France-Spanish prisoners who had been in Krim's hands—some of the Spanish for years—were first perceived by French avintors at daybreak today wending their way back from Krim's territory in the north.

The first group consisted of 40 men who were taken to Fez where they will be placed in hospitals. Their appearance has caused great rejoicing in the army and among the native population.

FOR Sour Stomach PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia

Hereafter instead of soda take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. Besides, it neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges this souring waste from the system without purging. It is far more pleasant to take than soda.

Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent and 50-cent bottles, any drug store.—Adv.

Boys Home Needs For Year Taken Up By Optimists

Needs of the boys home being maintained by the club and plans for its support and development in the coming year were discussed in some detail Wednesday by the Optimists club here. The club maintains a home at 2210 Ninth street where at present, 3 homeless boys are given care and attention.

The home has prospered in the past year and has done a great work, J. D. Bright, chairman of the home committee, told the club; but it now stands in need of some repairs and improvements. He recommended the appointment of some committees to confer more regularly with the keepers of the place and urged that every member of the club make the home a matter of personal pride and attention.

The financial report for the home was read by Floyd Friberg, treasurer, and showed that it was costing approximately $250 a month to maintain the place. At the close of the meeting, pledge cards for the coming 12 months were distributed and signed by the members.

A committee composed of Tom Glass, J. T. Stevens and Jerry Schaefer was appointed by President Solon Featherstone to represent the club in negotiations with other luncheon clubs of the city who are anxious to establish permanent club headquarters in the new Medical Arts building, now being erected at Eighth and Lamar.

Advertising by the state board of contral for bids on a $30,000 sewer line to connect the Wichita Falls state hospital for the insane at Lake Wichita with the Wichita Falls sewer system was started Wednesday, Senator J. DR. W. B. CALDWELL AT THE AGE OF 83

Women Need a Mild Laxative —Not a "Physic"

Countless girls and women now know how foolish and needless it is to "purge" and "physic" themselves to avoid sick headache, dizziness, biliousness, salow skin, colds, or sour, gassy stomach.

They have found that Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin helps to establish natural bowel "regularity" even for those heretofore chronically constipated. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but, best of all, it never gripes, sickens or upsets the most delicate girl or woman. Besides it is absolutely harmless and so pleasant that even a cross, feverish, bilious, sick child gladly takes it.

Buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine and just see for yourself.

Lemon Juice Whitens Skin

The only harmless way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle, and you have a whole quarter-pint of the most wonderful skin whitener, softener and beautifier. Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It cannot irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear, youthful skin and rosy-white complexion; also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach. You must mix this remarkable lotion yourself. It cannot be bought ready to use because it acts best immediately after it is prepared. —Adv.

Lovely! not a Pimple

"OH, what a beautiful skin! Not a pimple—not a blemish. Perfectly rounded shoulders and a venus-like back! No wonder she's popular.

"If I could only get rid of these ugly pimples, my skin would be clear and soft and dimpling, like hers—maybe people would call me lovely, too."

You're right! The only thing that mars your beauty are those unsightly skin blemishes. Clear them away and watch eyes full of admiration turn in your direction, wherever you go. "But how can I get rid of them?" you ask. What will drive the wretched things away so they won't come back?

Why, that's just exactly what S. S. S. helps Nature do. It's been clearing away pimples, blackheads and blotches for a century. S. S. S. helps Nature build up the blood to where it's pure and healthy—then these ugly things dry right up. And that's the only way you can keep the skin clear and unblemished. S. S. S. puts the blood back to where it can fight the impurities that get in your system and kills them off before they break out through the skin. You can't stop skin eruptions from the outside. You've got to get down underneath where the trouble is—down in the blood.

Begin taking S. S. S. and watch how quickly you get that skin beauty that belongs to you.

S. S. S. will charge your whole system so full of strength building, pure, healthy, red blood that you'll be simply brimful of new life and energy.

All drug stores sell S. S. S. Get the larger, bottle. It's more economical.

WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Mrs. Annie Kwinski of 526 1st Avenue, Milwaukee, Wis., writes that she became so weak and rundown that she was not able to do her housework. She saw the name Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the paper and said to her husband, "I will try that medicine and see if it will help me." She says she took six bottles and is feeling much better.

Mrs. Mattie Adams, who lives in Downing Street, Brewton, Ala., writes as follows: "A friend recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and since taking it I feel like a different woman."

With her children grown up, the middle-aged woman finds time to do the things she never had time to do before—read the new books, see the new plays, enjoy her grandchildren, take an active part in church and civic affairs. Far from being pushed aside by the younger set, she finds a full, rich life of her own. That is, if her health is good.

Thousands of women past fifty, say they owe their health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Hunt for Missing Religious Worker Shifts to Mexico

LOS ANGELES, May 26.—(AP)—Attention in the Aimee Semple McPherson case shifted to the Mexican border after it was learned by newspapers last night that an El Paso deputy sheriff and two federal operatives have been checking for the last two days on a tip that the missing evangelist and another woman crossed the b. order at El Paso several days ago.

Mrs. McPherson, pastor of Angelus Temple here, disappeared a week ago yesterday while surf bathing at Ocean park. An extensive search of the ocean in the vicinity of where she was last seen has failed to reveal her body.

According to information obtained by the newspapers, border officers noticed that of two women crossing the border recently in a car from California, one of them closely resembled descriptions of the missing evangelist. Deputy Sheriff John Buquer of El Paso, who was in Los Angeles at the time on another case, was ordered by his chief to make an investigation. A license plate number furnished him is said to have revealed that the car was registered in the name of a person known to Mrs. McPherson.

Slamming Shippers Shoot Stuff Away On Jakey Atz' Cats

Brainard's Bruisers Stop Mad Dash of Exporters To League Top by Beating 'Em

Big Jim Roberts Pitches Superb Baseball, Holding Gallowayites Well In Hand Through Pasttime

BY BLONDY CROSS.

BEAUMONT, May 25.—When Jeems Galloway's shocking Shippers slammed Fort Worth three straight, making it four consecutive victories by dent of boisterous bludgeoning in the series preceding the present, they built themselves a lofty perch in the native's eyes and climbed aboard.

But today Jim Roberts, the elongated fireball flinger, burned the pedestal from under Beaumont's walloping warriors, allowed eight bingles and in the twilight inning, two runs, daubing the exalted Exporters in the dust by an 8-2 count.

Roberts had all he needed and more, too. The Beaumonters made a couple of menacing moves in the first round but couldn't intimidate the stalwart speed merchant, who knocked over the entire enemy battle array in convincing manner for six frames. Then toward meal time and with the game socked in the bag eased up sufficiently for the Shippers to cross the rubber after there were two away.

Jim was the master of ceremonies, but it can be said Fitzgerald, the major league outfielder, Brainard, the Spudder's bopping boss and Query, the strategical hind ketch composed the initiating committee. Everybody but Jim boxed the ball to virgin pastures, James didn't need to hit, albeit he came through with a couple of sacrifice taps. Lamb pounded into a string of tough breaks. He tore the cover off the spheroid on a drive to third, but an unaccommodating official scorer tagged Paddy Reagan with an error.

Sensational Catches.

Twice did Joe Dunning gallop in and make ankle catches of rifts to port, adding a touch of the sensational to his bold, bad robbery. Lamb was the victim of both occasions. Fitzgerald's stick work of the day consisted of a breezy home run that stayed in the park simjly because the left field fence here really isn't here, but on the Louisiana boundary line, and a two-base drive over Beaumont's trick right garden wall that would have been a four-bagger any where else in the world, but Beaumont and San Antonio, the Tamaleville starboard protection, like Beaumont's left barricade isn't in the city limits, the right field fence here frowns down over first base, there's a sign on top that reads: "All base hits to the left of this notice are of the three sack variety, but to right, providing they clear the fence are labelled only doubles." Query poled three out of four. His majesty, the manager, connected for a homer inside the orchard, and a brace of well spanked bingles.

Suds Performs.

Harvey (Suds) Sutherland, the demon outer gardner, continues to perform miraculously. He fielded his position in impressive style and came through for an orthodox two-bagger and single. The same relentless scorer chalked errors in the domestic agony column on two of Suds' slams, the first miscored sock rifted out toward first with such gusto that it stabbed Jeems on the arm nearly breaking a leg. The second caromed off Galloway's shins as Jeems frantically endeavored to cover up, if for no other purpose than self defense.

Turgeon, the coy keystoner, fielded fluently and De Fate at short brought tears to the eyes of the patriots in this stand, coming up with a sparkling defense performance at the nervous stages that turned back several lusty larrups.

Wichita Falls took the lead in the opening chapter when Fits appeared with two out, the bases empty, and shoved his non-stop base hit to deep left center. Lambie got on in the third, when his torrid bounder caught Reagan in the clavicle and nearly floored the Beaumont infielder. Turgeon's single, a sharp shot to left, Fitz's double and an infield out by Bodie scored two more.

Bevey Scores Some More.

Bevy of singles biffed by Brainard, De Fate, and Query put another across in the fourth. Jim struck out indigantly, then Lamb registered another unkind break, firing to Dunning who doubled Tony off second with a perfect throw to Connolly. Bodie and Brainard lined up one-basers beside Galloway's "error" on Sutherland's surreptious swat to check a run in the fifth. All this damage was accomplished at expense of Big Ed Hovlik, who if you remember, tagged it on the Spudders at Wichita Falls in the first Shipper-Spud engagement of the season. They apparently are a vengeful lot, this Spudder crew, Ed, went out for a pinch hitter in the seventh and Sam Ross, the left hander, assumed chunking duties. In the eighth the Brainard Bludgeons punched Sam for a trio in the ninth. Turgeon led off with a loud liner to left. Fitz bunted him to second. Bodie rammed a comet over short, but Deviveros leaped into the clouds and knocked it down to throw Ping out at first. Suds followed with a clout that nearly cut off one of Galloway's lower limbs and Brainard produced his home run blow, a bullet drive to the same spot, in which Fitz deposited the first inning four-bagger. That just about tells the story. Reagan and Connolly touched Jim for singles in the first round but Fitz took Oliver's aviation to center and lined to third. De Fate grabbing the throw to stop Paddy on the slide, when he tried to advance following the catch. Davis bounced out to the box, after there were two out in the seventh, Jim passed Deviveros. Dunning and Boelzie singled, sending over a run. With two gone in the ninth Deviveros singled and scored when Dunning knocked a foul ball three bases.

Fussell is Brainard's tentative selection for hurling duties in the series' second Thursday afternoon.

Cubs Down Sports

WACO, May 26.—(AP)—In one of the best games of the season at Katy park, the Waco Cubs downed the Shreveport club here today by a score of 2 to 1. It was a pitching duel between Adkins and Hudlin, neither allowing a score until the seventh, when Taylor hit one of Hudlin's benders for a home run in Waco's half of the eighth, Hudlin singled, Novak, the Cub's new shortstop also singled, McNamara walked and West hit a long sacrifice fly scoring Hudlin. This ended the scoring until the Cub's half of the tenth, when West hit a home run, ending the game.

Novak, the shortstop received in the deal which sent Cohen to the Giants, played a bang-up game at short, figuring in four double plays and getting two singles. Score:

Tigers Take Tribe

CLEVELAND, May 26.—(AP)—After enjoying a lead of four runs, pitcher Karr weakened and allowed Detroit to tie the score, the Tigers then proceeding to win, 7 to 6 from Levsen, his successor. Cleveland could do but little with Whitehill after the third inning until the eighth when he was replaced by Dauss with the bases filled and one out. Dauss pitched one ball and a double play resulted. Catcher Bassler of Detroit injured his ankle in sliding to a base and had to be assisted off the field. Score:

Cats Win One

HOUSTON, May 26.—(AP)—The Fort Worth Cats defeated the Buffs 5 to 4 here today, making the winning run on Calvo's triple and Possum Moore's sacrifice. In the ninth, after a couple of extra base hits had driven Penner to his tub, Mahady retired two men and then proceeded to force in the tying run by issuing two walks.

Huck Betts pitched five innings of hitless ball but wildness and errors behind had given the Buffs an early lead. Manager Atzs benched Windle after his shortstop had made two errors, both of which were factors in Buff scoring. Score:

One of The Stellar Ones Tonight

NICK VELCOFF

Londos, Velcoff, Miyake And Savage All Set For Season's Best Tonight

The Place: American Legion arena, Eleventh and Ohio.
The Time: 8:15.
The card: Jimmy Londos vs. Nick Velcoff.
Steve Savage vs. Taro Miyake.

When Jimmy Londos, the Greek God tackles Nick Velcoff, the Bulgarian Lion in this evening's wrestling match, held under the direction of the Wichita Falls Wrestling association, the best all around card of the mat art will be presented to local fans. And to cap the climax, the preliminary, Taro Miyak and Steve Savage, is worthy of a leading place on any card.

Nothing the equal of tonight's bouts has ever been presented in Texas before and it is doubtful if even Promotor Ross will be able to give another like it. The men, all heavyweights and all topnotchers are the best in their line. Considerable wire pulling and diplomacy was exercised to get them all together for an evening's exhibition of the wrestling art.

There is much speculation as to the outcome of the Londos-Velcoff match. Velcoff, who has been wrestling just four years feels that he has his entire future at stake tonight and yesterday he declared that he was going into it for all it is worth. A victory tonight will put Velcoff in line to meet the heavyweight champion of the world, Joe Stecher. Mr. Ross has promised Velcoff a match with the champ.

Velcoff was a preliminary during the match last week and was able to watch Stecher at his best. He feels that a match with the champion will be his meat.

Londos is not only one of the greatest wrestlers in the game, but he is a credit to his profession, lying a clean-cut religious fellow. He is known as the Greek God who never mouthed an oath.

Promotor Ross issues a special invitation to the women of Wichita Falls to view this evening's card. It will be clean and while the work will be carried on along the best wrestling tactics, it will contain nothing to injure anyone's feelings.

Squeeze Play Is Deciding Factor In Refinery Win

Francis And Windham Put American Over With Securities

When Coyal Francis scored on a perfect squeeze play with the aid of Raymond Windham, it constituted the winning run in a see-saw hurling duel for Snipe Connally over Gabe Harris Thursday afternoon. The American Eagles won over the Security National bank team, 5 to 4.

Long hitting and timely drives defeated the game and no one had a good lead until the seventh when the Eagles overtook a one-run lead and changed it into one run margin in their favor.

Both Connally and Harris were working hard and had plenty of stuff on the ball. Connally whiffed three while Harris fanned eight.

Bob Riley led the hitters wit ha triple and two singles in three trips to the plate. McMahon and Glidewell collected two hits each; McMahon sent both of his for extra bases, one a double and the other a triple.

Glidewell batted for Rounsaville in the fifth and poled a home run into the deepest part of the left field. His single also scored one of the runs in the seventh inning.

A double by McMahon and a single by Pace scored the first American run. An error by Windham and triple by Riley tied the score in the first.

A single by Riley, a sacrifice and a line single by Clary gave the Bankers a one-run lead in the fourth. Glidewell tied the count in the fifth with a long drive to left for a home run.

A double by Christian and a triple by McMahon gave the American a 3 to 2 lead in the sixth inning.

The Bankers flashed back in the sixth to take a 4 to 3 lead by chasing over another pair. A single by Riley, a walk, a hit batsman and a single by Shipley chased over the first run. A beautiful double steal sent Clary over the plate with the other.

An infield hit by Medford, a stolen base, a fielder's choice, and a single by Glidewell tied the count in the seventh. Windham scored Francis with a sacrifice bunt to the pitcher for the winning run of the game.

Bears Literally Walk Into Lead Of Texas League

Slim Love Is Wild And Herd Bows Before Mitze's Bruins

SAN ANTONIO, May 26.—(AP)—The Bears literally walked into first place in the Texas league today when 11 passes aided them materially in downing Dallas 10 to 7 in the first game of the crucial series.

Slim Love allowed San Antonio only five hits and Darrough but one, but the many bases on balls and two Steer errors accounted for several tallies.

Frank Watt was touched for nine hits including two doubles, but he kept them fairly well scattered and had good fielding support. Watt fanned the home run hitter "Moose" Woeber, in the first inning as the 4,500 spectators howled. Score:

American Flag Is Evident On British Links

Golfers From Land of The Free And Brave, Carry On Quest

MURIFIELD, Scotland, May 26. (AP)—The stars and stripes was in evidence tonight at Murifield, scene of the battle for the British amateur golf championship, after three days of a links warfare that has seen some of the world's greatest warriors fall.

Today Chick Evans of Chicago, and Francis Ouimet of Boston, both former American open and amateur champions, went down, Ouimet being stopped by one of his own compatriots, Jess Sweetzer of New York. Sir Ernest Holderness, one of the greatest British golfers, was the victim of last year's 19-year-old boy champion.

But the day's play saw the American champion, Bobby Jones of Atlanta, flash through two rounds with a form that made the British partisans uneasy. Little Watts Gunn, Jones' bosom friend, who reached the finals in the American title tournament last year, also carried on as did the giant Jesse Guilford of Boston and James D. Standish of Detroit. Grant Peacock, of Garden City, N. Y., ousted Larry Lloyd of Greenwich, Conn., in the second American "fratricidal" match of the day, 4 and 3, while Donald Woodward of Washington was beaten by O. C. Bristowe 3 and 2. Harry Brower, former Princeton university player, defeated Samuel Turner of New Zealand, 2 and 1.

The Americans are well scattered through the three upper quarters of the draw without danger of encountering one another before Friday morning when Jones, if he defeats J. Birnie, Jr., of Inverness tomorrow morning and the defending champion, Robert Harris, in the afternoon, is likely to meet Sweetzer for the right to enter the semi-finals.

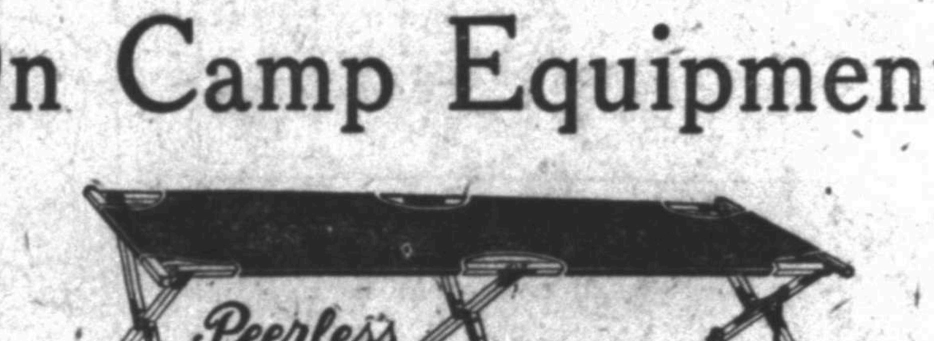

SANDE WINS

NEW YORK, May 26.—(AP)—J. E. Widener's Haste with Jockey Earl Sande in the saddle today won the 51st running of the Withers stakes at Belmont park. Crusader finished second and Espino third.

The famous event for three-year-olds drew a field of 15 starters, including the east's highly touted Pompey. The latter was never in the running, however.

SAND LOT SLANTS

The Twilight league race has been a hot chase all year and the outcome of the first half is not far off. The teams have been playing a great brand of ball through the first half.

The Water Department club has played victoryless ball throughout the first half, but they have not been playing bad ball. They have one of the most aggressive teams in the league, but they lacked the punch at the bat.

Scores against the Water Department as a whole have been low and 5 to 3, 5 to 1 and scores of this kind have been the brand of ball they have been playing, but losing.

With this kind of ball they are bound to break into the win column sooner or later. They took their worst beating Tuesday afternoon when the Panhandle Longhorns beat them 11 to 0 in a six inning affair.

Behind pitching of Jethro Speer and Gabe Harris, the Security Bank came from the bottom of the slush pit and present a formidable front in the race.

The Bankers lost their first few starts and then began to break into the win column and have been charging forward steadily. The game that really gave them their start was a loss, but not a loss that one would feel ashamed to lose.

This loss was the long 3 to 2 game with the Panhandle Refinery in which Gabe Harris and Henry Hatton worked for the full 13 innings. Both men were right that day and battled until a single by Don Faichney rang up the final counter.

This game seemed to put the life into the club and the following Sunday they hooked up with the Wichita Falls Electrics team and took both games. Since that day they have been thundering on and sweeping everything before them.

Another club that has been thundering along at a fast clip is the Texhoma club. With Lupher and Trout handling the hurling since the injury to Jimmie Parker, they have been doing some good work. Texhoma holds the distinction of being the only team in the league that has stopped the Panhandle Longhorns.

The Oilers will have a much strengthened infield for their next game with Hershell Johnson on second base. Johnson was last year recognized as the best second baseman in the Twilight league and is expected back in the lineup for their next game.

All six teams in the league have fallen victims of injuries and general hard luck. Many new faces are in the lineups and the starting lineup of each team can hardly be recognized.

Men that have disappeared from the league that were greatly counted upon at the first of the year are Garland Lile, Ray Martin, Speck Roberts, Paul Enloe, Vernon Farquhar, Homer Doke, Doc Allen, Slim Campbell, Harry Geyer, Ben Lyons, Currin Brown, Frank Howell, Luther Thurman and several others.

Some of this list have proven to be failures, others were injured, or sick, some have left town, and others had business matters that kept them from the ball field.

But with the league drawing the first half to a rapid close it is the big game for May 30 that all eyes were being turned on. This is the American Eagles and the Panhandle Longhorns. From the present outlook of the race this game will be the Eagles only chance for a tie in the first half race.

To lose this game would mean the cinching of the first half for the fast traveling Panhandle Longhorns. The Longhorns have been playing great ball all year and their pitchers have been at their best. McDuffy, Cannon, Hatton and Randolph have all gone a long ways toward the success of the club and they have the perfect right to win the first half.

There are six baseball teams in Wichita Falls that are confident of the last half of the season race. All six teams look to be in their prime for this part of the race and the last half should be contested hard until the last game.

Ooh! He Wants 2 Bad Ones In the Ring All At Once

Flaherty Will Take On Duke And Ryan Same Evening

Marty Flaherty, New England welterweight challenger, takes his opponents like a farmer sells turnips, not one at a time, but in bunches. He is to meet Harry "Dago" Ryan and Duke Trammel, six rounds each, with a 15-minute intermission between bouts next Monday.

This will be the first event of its kind ever held in Wichita Falls. Flaherty first asked for the winner of last week's battle, then suggested that he fight them both the same night, only stipulating that the bouts be arranged on a winner-loser percenage, thereby removing any doubt of his own opinion as to the outcome of the contests. Flaherty comes from real fighting stock. His father, the old time featherweight, was 126 pound champion of the world, knocking out Frank Erne at Carson City, Nevada, in 1898, after George Dixon had conceded the title to Erne. The elder Flaherty also fought Dixon five times, four of the bouts being 20-round affairs ending in a draw each time, while the other was a no-decision battle. He boxed the great "Elbows" McFadden, Terry McGovern, Dal Hawkins and every worth while man in his division from 1895 to 1902, one of his bouts being a 64 3-minute round contest with skin tight gloves that ended in the 64th when the seconds of both contestants agreed to a draw.

Runs Health Farm.

Flaherty Senior is at present running a health farm in Massachusetts, and it is there that his promising son got his first boxing experience. Eddie Shelvin, boxing professor at Dartmouth university is another well known instructor who assisted young Flaherty in his early boxing days. That was while Marty was a freshman at Massachusetts Agricultural college, where he attended two years before he decided to get a better knowledge of boxing from actual participation.

That is his object in wandering this far from his native heath, and his determination to gain the necessary experience as soon as possible was what prompted him to suggest two opponents in the same evening. Flaherty is an industrious worker, running from five to eight miles on the road every morning, which is by far the most obnoxious task asked of an athlete in training. After his early road-work, he prepares his own breakfast in a furnished apartment he has taken with his local representative. After a nap he spends from one to three hours at the Scott street arena, doing a little shadow boxing, rope-jumping and all the orthodox training stunts indulged in by men who consider their physical condition above everything else. In his boxing Marty does not use his feet as much as does Jimmy Owens or some of the nimble footed steppers seen here, but with his arms, wrists and body he is almost uncanny, catching and turning blows that are headed for vital spots with seemingly no effort whatever.

Weaving Defense.

It is his weaving body defense and his hitting that attracts the close observer more than anything else. None of his punches travel more than a few inches, but in that short space there is put every atom of energy and strength that his powerful body possesses.

Should the powerful-punching Duke Trammel, aptly termed the Texas knockout king, elect to trade wallops with Flaherty, fans should be treated to a spectacle worthy of Madison Square Garden or the best boxing arena in the states.

NEW SPUD MARRIES.

BOSTON, May 26.—(AP)—Tom Jenkins of Camden, Ala., Red Sox outfielder who was released yesterday to the Wichita Falls club of the Texas league, was married here today to Miss Margaret Rita Graham of Dorchester. A waiver of the five-day law was obtained so that the player might take his bride along when he leaves tonight to join his new club.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, May 26.—(AP)—The cotton market was quiet today with limited trading and very narrow price fluctuations. owing to the continued dry weather in The trend of prices was upward, however, the eastern belt and the high temperatures reported from the drought section of 100 to 102 degrees. A forecast for thundershowers in the western belt was also a sustaining influence. The advance during the day was gradual and at the highest gains of 7 to 9 points were shown. There was little tendency towards reaction and the close showed net gains for the day of 6 to 9 points.

Liverpool came in from 1 to 3 penny points lower than due but failed to influence the local market which opened 3 points up. First trades were at 17.66 for July, 17.10 for October and 17.12 for December or unchanged to 3 points above yesterday's close. These opening figures proved the low points of the day.

Prices soon started upward and the advance continued point by point during the day although there was at no time any real activity. At the highest of the afternoon July traded at 17.71, October at 17.17, December at 17.19 and January at 17.18 or seven to nine points above the close of yesterday. The close was practically at the top.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, May 26.—(AP)—The cotton market was generally steady today owing to continued drouth complaints from the eastern belt and apprehensions of unsettled weather with light showers or rains in the southwest. After selling up to 17.69, October reacted to 17.61 but closed at 17.64, compared with 17.59 at the close of the previous day. The general market closed steady at a net advance of 2 to 7 points.

The opening was steady at unchanged prices to an advance of two points on failure of overnight weather advices to show any rain in the eastern belt except for showers at a few points on the coast and covering of near month shorts by houses with Liverpool and continental connections. Offerings were comparatively light and prices showed net advances of about five to 12 points before mid-day, July selling up to 18.45 and December to 17.56.

These figures evidently attracted realizing, which was probably promoted by the more seasonable temperatures reflected in the detailed weather reports for the day. Otherwise selling was held in check by increasing complaints of drouth in the Carolinas and north Georgia, combined with the official forecast for showers in the southwest and unfavorable features in the weekly report of the weather bureau and the market steadied up again in later trading. The close was within a few points of the best.

Two private end-May crop reports pointed to a decrease of 2 per cent in the acreage, while one placed the condition at 73 and the other at 71, compared with end-May conditions of 76.6 last year and a 10-year average of 76.6. These figures were without apparent effect on the market.

Exports for the day 3,340 making 7,417,109 so far this season. Port receipts 6,283. U. S. port stocks 860,739 bales.

NEW YORK, May 26.—(AP)—Constructive forces were again at work in today's stock market, which moved to higher ground under the leadership of the oil, steel, chemical and railroad shares. One of the significant features of the day was the increase in public participation the day's sales of 1,327,300 shares being the largest since May 3.

Bullish sentiment was created by the lowering of call money rates, an advance of $2 a ton in the United States Steel corporations price for steel bars, the announcement that freight carloadings crossed the million mark for the first time this year in the week ended May 15, and the American Petroleum Institute's report of a decrease of 11,700 barrels in the daily average of gross crude oil production last week. The weekly steel trade reviews reported that May business continues to run ahead of the April figures. United States Steel common closed a point higher at 122½, after having touched 123. Gulf States, Sloss-Sheffield and Republic each advanced a point or more.

Pan-American "B" was again the leader of the oil group, closing nearly two points higher at 71⅝. Net gains of a point or so also were recorded by Associated Oil, Barnsdall "A," and "B" California Petroleum, General Asphalt, General Petroleum, Houston, Producers and Refiners, Pure Oil, Sun Oil and Standard Oil of California, the last named crossing 59 to a new high.

There was nothing in the day's news to explain the sudden spurt in the chemical issues. Commercial Solvents "A" and "B" soared five and 8 points to new high levels at 158 and 160, respectively, and Allied Chemical closed 2¼ points higher at 118. Considerable mystery surrounded spurt in the Central Leather issues, the preferred jumping five points to 52⅝.

Motors were again heavy despite the optimistic statement on conditions in the industry by John N. Willys, one of the leading manufacturers, who predicts record-breaking business for the first six months and no material falling off in the last half of the year.

Mack Trucks was one of the few strong spots in that group.

Specialties for which there was a good demand include American Zinc preferred, Colorado Fuel, National Distillers, Remington Typewriter, Southern Dairies "A" and U. S. Cast Iron Pipe.

Buying of the rails centered in such issues as New York Central, Erie first preferred, Norfolk and Western, Chesapeake and Ohio and Missouri Pacific preferred.

Call money renewed at 4 per cent and then dropped to 3½, closing at the low figure. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchanges were irregular, with a jump of 17 points to 14.79 cents in Spanish pesates as the chief feature. Demand sterling ruled firm around $4.86 and French francs ruled six points higher just under 3.30 cents. Italian lire and Belgian francs were slightly easier.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, May 26.—(AP)—Excited bidding for scanty offerings forced a jump of 5¾ cents a bushel in price today for May delivery of wheat. Closing quotations for the wheat market, as a whole, were decidedly nervous at the day's top figures, varying from ⅛ to 5¾ cents net higher. Corn up, and provisions showing 7 cents to 20 cents advance.

Larger offerings of corn to arrive here, chiefly from Illinois points, had a bearish effect on the corn market. Oats were relatively firm owing to need of rain in some sections.

Packers buying helped to life the provision market.

STOCK-A-DAY

The American Locomotive company, engaged in the manufacture of locomotives and snow plows absorbed the Railway Steel Spring company in April 1926, thus bringing under one head two sections of the railroad equipment business. The absorption plan, ratified by the shareholders of both companies at April meetings, provides for the issue of preferred American Locomotive stock for preferred Railway Steel Spring on a share for share basis and for the issue of two-thirds of a share of American Locomotive common for each common share of Steel Spring.

American Locomotive now has plants in Schenectady and Dunkirk, N. Y., Richmond Va., Peterson, N. J., Chester, Pa., and Montreal. For the 9 1-2 years ended with 1924, net profits of American Locomotive have been at an annual average of $7,431,942 of $11.40 a share on the common stock but in 1925 the company's output was the lowest in its history and a net loss of $843,321 before preferred dividends was recorded. For the 10 year period ended with 1924, Railway Steel Spring net income averaged $2,949,905 annually. In 1925 the net income was $2,348,244.

Capital stock of American Locomotive before the issue of new stock to pay for Steel Spring, consisted of $25,000,000 in 7 per cent cumulative preferred and 500,000 common shares of no par value. The company notified the New York Stock exchange it proposed to increase the common to 770,000 shares and the preferred to $38,500,000.

Funded debt consists of $432,000 in bonds of a subsidiary.

Dividends have been paid on the preferred stock without interruption and on the common at varying rates from 1915 to date. The present rate is $8 a share. An extra dividend of $10 was paid in 1925. Net working capital Jan. 1, 1925, was $37,061,785.

Designs Motor Worth Billion

Hans Weichsal, above, St. Louis, Mo., is the designer, along with Val A. Fynn, of a motor which it is predicted will be worth a billion dollars to the electric power industry. The motor, recently awarded the John Price Wetherill Medal by the Franklin Institute of Philadelphia, is said to make it possible to use electrical equipment to a greater extent.

Knock Down And Drag Out Fight Ends at Jail

An old-fashioned scrap between a man and his wife in a downtown rooming house put both in the city jail for a few hours Wednesday night. It was a real knock-down and drag-out affair, the officer making the arrest reported.

He was walking down the alley back of the rooming house and listened to the noise of the altercation for a minute, and then saw the male party to the affair isue from the door of the rooming house, evidently the worse for wear. If it had ended there, there would have been no arrest, the officer being a fir mbeliever in non-interference with domestic troubles, but the man went back for more and was just on the point of being ejected by his irate mate when the officer arrested them.

Both were booked at the city hall on an affray charge and released on a $10 appearance bond to be at the corporation court this morning.

Playground Classes Will Open Thursday

Miss Peery has had experience in playground activities and will have special work with volunteer supervisers, teaching playground work, story telling, health habits and other recreational subjects. She studied in the University of California, and Ward Belmont.

Mr. Frazee said about 25 persons had been engaged for volunteer playground work, and those persons over 15 years of age are invited to take part in the classes of instruction.

GUARD HEALTH DOCTORS AVER

Alertness Without Fright Requisite to Improvement One Says

HOUSTON, May 26—(AP)—Voicing a watchword for the public in the battle the medical profession is making against cancer, Dr. William Seaman Bainbridge of New York City, one of the most eminent surgeons in the country, in an address here today before the general session of the state medical association emphasized alertness of patients without apprehension; hope without neglect early and efficient treatment where doubt exists.

"Notwithstanding the possibility of underlying general factors," he said, "cancer may be regarded as local in its beginning and may be so thoroughly removed in its incipiency that the chances in favor of the no-reoccurence are excellent."

When it has advanced beyond cure, however, Dr. Bainbridge said, "suffering in many cases may be palliated and life prolonged by surgical and other means."

Question of Heredity

On the question of heredity he said that "while there is some evidence which suggests that heredity may be one of the factors determinig the susceptibility, or resistence to cancer, the congential acquirement of cancer still remains to be proved. Recent research which claims that predisposition or resistance of malignancy on the blood-group to which the individual belongs is a fertile but as yet unworked field of investigation."

Contagion from cancer, he said, is highly improbable with ordinary precautions. Such occupations, however, as working in pitch, tar, paraffine, analin, soot and X-rays "if not safeguarded, are conductive to the production of cancer," he asserted.

"Finally," Dr. Bainbridge told the convention, "pending the time when the causition and cure of the cancer shall have been estableshed, my own belief is that the most important elements in the control of cancer are periodic medical examinations; removal of all forms of chronic irritation and precancerous lesions and the concentration of every scientific effort toward exact diagnosis and early and adequate surgery."

Cancer was also one of the major subjects before section sessions of the convention. In women it being cured by early, scientific treatment, Dr. W. M. Sherwood of Temple told the Gyncology and obstretrics section.

Save Selves Fright

"Women could save themselves much fright," he said, "much mental anguish and much suffering from cancer if they would have a thoruogh physical examination at least once a year. Even though wome nmay believe themselves in perfect condition a competent examination may reveal conditions which forecast danger and which can be eliminated by prompt, scientific treatment."

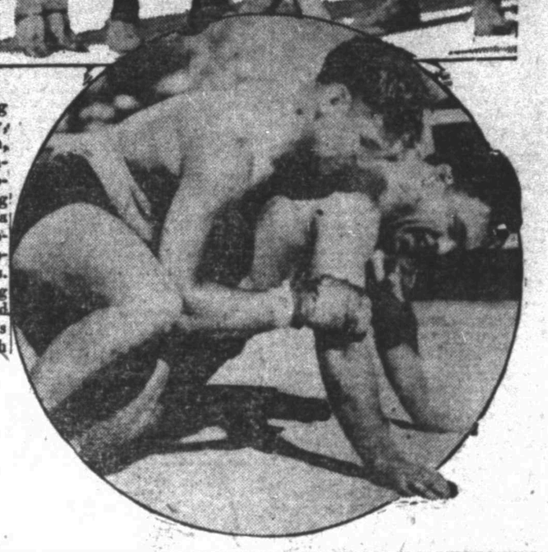

Dr. O. L. Norsworthy of Houston, reporting on five years work in cancer treatment in women gave the subject emphasis when he said that early treatment showed recovery in a large majority of cases with the opposite true when treatment had been delayed.

The president's reception and ball at one of the leading hotels tonight was one of the outstanding entertainment features of the convention.

FEDERATION IS NEAR REBELLION

Country Women Oppose Top-Heavy Organization of Clubs

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 26. (AP)—Under currents of the organization of the general Federation of Women's clubs broadened their channels today.

Mrs. Joshua Hodgings, of Marinette, Wis., reporting on the West Baden biennial council told the eighteenth biennial convention that the organization was top-heavy with city women, while leaders of the "Louisville rebellion," announced they had sent a letter to Mrs. John D. Sherman, national president, asking whether their minority voice against majority rule binding minority clubs would be heard.

Mrs. Attwood Martin, publicist and writr, who is a leader of the rebellious group, said the letter was sent after Mrs. Sherman this morning omitted from her report a paragraph stating the ruling that resolutions adopted by the federation, unanimously or not, should be considered the action of the general federation. The paragraph was re-inserted after Mrs. Sherman's attention was called to the omission and she stated that it had been passed over in an effort to shorten the time required for reading the report, advance copies of which were distributed to the press yesterday.

The Louisville delegation's resolution proposing a change in the federation charter is before the emergency committee. It would release opposing clubs from any responsibility for measures endorsed by a majority of the federation.

The "rebellion" may affect the success of the one Kentucky candidate for federation office. She is Mrs. H. G. Reynolds of Paducah, and her nomination as treasurer was announced as an unopposed candidacy. However, there is now a possibility, say women close to the federation's governing board, that the breach between Kentucky and the federation's controlling elements has gone too far for a Kentucky officer to be acceptable to them.

SHARON, Penn., May 26.—(AP) The Rev. Dr. R. A. Hutchinson of Pittsburgh was tonight unanimously elected moderator of the United States Presbyterian Church of North America at the 68th annual assembly in session here. Dr. Hutchison, who has been secretary of home missions of the church for 19 years, succeeds Dr. W. I. Wishart, also of Pittsburgh.

Cancer Doomed By New Serum France Believes

BRIDGE MATTER SMOTHERED OUT

Difficulties which presented themselves with reference to construction of the free bridge across Red river last week have been successfully ironed out and the proposed construction has now been given the governor's hearty approval. Senator J. D. Parnell stated Wednesday afternoon on his return from a conference with the governor and members of the attorney general's department at Austin. Mrs. Ferguson is in thorough accord with plans to build the bride, and has expressed a wish that work be started immediately, Senator Parnell said.

The one remaining issue of expenditure of federal funds for the construction of the bridge is expected to be clarified within a few days, he stated, but it is not believed that actual start of work will be withheld for that.

MOROS MENACE PHILIPPINES

American Control Threatened by Religious Fanatics

SAN FRANCISCO, May 26.—(AP) For the third time within a year the American authority in the Philippine Islands is at grips with the outlaw Moro bands of Lanao district, island of Mindanao, and a campaign is under way designed to wipe out the upland fortresses from which the Moros have harried the peaceful country around them.

Latest dispatches from Manila reported the destruction of two of five fortresses held by the Moros with 200 soldiers of the Philippine constabulary, under Colonel Luther R. Stevens, continuing operations against the remaining three centers of resistance. Two constabulary soldiers have been killed and eight wounded, while native reports place the Moro losses at 40 killed.

The latest campaign of extermination, like those preceding it, was ordered only after attempts to induce the outlaws to make peaceful submission had failed. Months of depredations and terror for the Lanao inhabitants preceded Governor General Wood's order to move in force against the outlaws.

The Moros of Mindanao and Sulu, intermittently at war with the island authorities since the American occupation, have been especially troublesome in the last 12 months, the Lanao country being the hot bed of strife. General Wood made two journeys to Lanao last year i nan effort to make peace wit hthe Moro chieftains. Both attempts failed and in late May, 1925, a campaign similar to the present effort was carried out with partial success. The chief Moro fortress was captured and destroyed, but the leaders escaped. Further fighting followed in June, when ten outlaws were killed. Again in December there was a general movement by the constabulary against the Moro centers, the principal forts were captured and destroyed and ten outlaws were killed.

Five native telegraph linemen were murdered by Moro outlaws in the Island of Sulu last January.

The Moros are Moslems, many of them extreme fanatics, and religious hatred enters into their hostilities toward the Christian Filipinos.

Cashion District Awards Work to Wichita Falls Contractor

Contract for the construction of the new Cashion school district brick school house was awarded to L. J. Gentry of Henrietta and Wichita Falls Wednesday afternoon in the office of Voelker & Dixon, architects, on a low bid of $22,930. The bid was offered in competition with seven others, the firms being Charles Bialkowski, C. E. Ashford, Taylor Brothers, Naylor-Collins, D. M. Darnell of Abilene; Ayles & Bain and J. D. Stephens.

Construction will start immediately, it was stated by the contractors, following the award of the bid, and will be completed in time for the opening of the new school term about the middle of September. The building will contain six class rooms, an auditorium and a gymnasium.

Funds for the structure were voted by the district recently in a $25,000 bond issue.

Westmoreland To Open Huge Pool To Public Today

The opening of the new Westmoreland park swimming pool will take place Thursday when every man, woman and child of Wichita Falls will be admitted free from the hours of 5 to 10 p. m. for a cool, luxurious dip in the reservoir which is one, if not of the largest in the state.

The pool is located west of Call Field on a graveled road. Bath houses and an open air pavilion are included in a two-story structure at the north end of the pool. All modern accommodations for swimmers have been provided.

The pool is 550x575 feet, more than seven acres of water. A portion of this is of concrete and covers an area of 180x200 feet, a giant pool in itself. A slide, springing boards and various other features have been constructed for the amusement of the bathers. In one corner a shallow pool for the little folks has been provided.

The water is continhously flowing making it pure and clean as well as cool.

Around the concrete pool is a board walk with railing to divide it from the rest of the reservoir. In the deeper portions high diving towers have been constructed and all depths have been marked off.

Tax Equalizers Complete Duties

Most of today is to be required by the county commissioners to complete their work of equalization for the tax assessor, it was stated Wednesday at the close of the second day's session as a board of equalization. All of Electra, Burkburnett and the rural districts of the county, had been completed then and Wichita Falls renditions were being worked over. These, however, comprise the large volume of the board's work and would involve another day at least, it was stated.

Cards notifying property owners whose renditions are to be changed, will be mailed out about the first of next week.

Plaintiff Wins

A verdict for the plaintiffs, Sam Francis, et al, was returned late Tuesday afternoon in the 78th district court to Judge W. W. Cook, in their suit against Dan Whatley et al, to try title for the patent to a fuel oil burner, the manufacture of which, testimony taken in the trial developed might be made a matter of considerable profit to the owner.

The jury was out less than an hour.
