Demos Seek To Outbid GOP In Tax Showdown

Rationing Of Meat Scored

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—An array of meat packers and distributors lined up solidly today against a return to meat rationing. They argued it would bring back black markets.

And Senator Wherry (R-Neb) said that "confusion" in the administration about the return of controls will mean less meat and higher prices.

Black Market Seen

A Senate Banking subcommittee heard spokesmen for various parts of the meat industry declared that black markets would surely follow rationing.

Also, Jay C. Hormel, chairman of the board of the George A. Hormel and company meat packing firm, said in a letter to Senator Flanders (R-Va):

"Already we find potential black market operators negotiating for facilities and for livestock supplies."

Plant Buying Efforts Reported

This was echoed by R. J. Eggert, spokesman for the American Meat institute, a trade group of big packers, who told the subcommittee headed by Flanders:

"We have had reports . . . that black market operators are trying to buy back plants they sold after the war. Prices were so high that just the anticipation (of rationing) has stirred up a lot of interest."

Shortage Again Forecast

Secretary of Agriculture Anderson repeated today his forecast of a serious meat shortage this spring. He told an audience of women broadcasters he had seen a headline reading: "Meat Institute Says Meat Shortage Fears Unfounded."

"Paste that on your calender for May day," Anderson suggested. "Then read it when May day comes and see if my fears of a shortage are unfounded."

The subcommittee is considering Flanders' bill which would authorize the Department of Agriculture to set up meat rationing machinery on a standby basis.

Sale Of New License Tags Starts Monday

New 1948 license plates for all types of vehicles will go on sale Monday, Feb. 2, and can be attached immediately, J. B. Johnston, county tax assessor and collector, has announced.

In the past, it has been illegal to attach license plates before March 1, but the change in attachment date is an effort on the part of the State Highway department to ease the rush and confusion that usually resulted from the 60-day period between beginning of sales and the deadline for wearing old plates, which is unchanged from April 1.

Two new vehicle types are added for license series this year, Johnston said. They are farm truck-tractors and house trailers.

The new license plates, made by inmates of the Texas prison system, have orange numerals and letters on a black background. They come in pairs, to be attached to front and rear of vehicles.

NEWSPAPER BOMBED

Committee Is Named To Study Project

Crippled Children's Center Sought Here

By A. B. SLAGLE
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

FIRST step toward establishment in Lubbock of a treatment center for crippled children, with specific emphasis on cerebral palsy cases, was taken by appointment of a committee to study the project, as the concluding part of a luncheon at the Hilton hotel yesterday when the Lubbock Crippled Children's council was host to officers and directors of the Texas Society for Crippled Children.

The luncheon was part of a two-day program sponsored by the Texas society in efforts to expand the society's program throughout the state.

By unanimous agreement of the Lubbock council, the committee was named by R. L. Thomas, of Dallas, president of the Texas society. Named on the committee were Alex McDonald, Retha Martin (both directors of the Texas Soceity), Neil Wright, Mrs. A. E. Jones, Mrs. James Postlewaite, R. F. Hinchey, John W. Broome (vice president of the Texas society), and Dr. M. H. Benson, who is to be chairman of the committee's medical relations group.

The committee is to study the project, and if establishment of the center is decided upon, is to outline procedure and exercise general supervision over it.

The action followed explanation by Thomas of the need for such a center in this area, and work of the treatment center at Dallas which was opened about a year ago.

Challenge To State

Asserting that cerebral palsy, which he described as a brain injury, presents a tremendous challenge to Texas, Thomas said that only recently have people come to the realization that something can be done about it. He said Texas has 10,000 victims of the affliction, and that there are more than 300,000 cases in the United States.

Thomas briefly reviewed work of the Dallas treatment center, saying that since last April the center has examined more than 200 children from six months to eight years of age, and has about 100 children under treatment now. Of the 100 now under treatment, 15 are negroes, he said, and among the 200 examined 15 were aphasia (speech handicap) cases.

Stressing medical findings that in most cases the malady is an injury, and not a disease about which nothing can be done, as has been so long accepted, Thomas said only one of the 200 cases examined by the Dallas center showed sub-normal intelligence.

He said no charge is made for work by the center, and feels that "if the people see results and know you are doing something," they

Volunteer Curb On Grain Asked

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—President Truman today called on whisky makers to limit their use of grain voluntarily to the rate of 2,500,000 bushels a month established for January.

The government's power to allocate grain to distillers expires at midnight tonight.

Mr. Truman asked Congress last Thursday for a nine-months extension, saying the shortage of grain "jeopardizes the national security."

Hopes Congress Will Act

In calling on distillers to limit their use of grain voluntarily, Mr. Truman expressed regret in a statement that Congress had failed to "act in time" to extend his allocation powers.

He said he hopes Congress will take favorable action as soon as possible.

Mr. Truman continued:

"It is unthinkable that at this time, when the need for grain as a food is so great, the distillers in this country should choose to use unlimited quantities of grain in the manufacture of whisky.

"Therefore, I now call upon all users of grain for the production of ethyl alcohol, including both distilled spirits and neutral spirits, to observe temporarily, the same controls established by the grain conservation order of the Secretary of Agriculture dated Dec. 30, 1947.

"Specifically, I ask them to use no wheat in the making of whisky. I ask them to use as a monthly basis of consumption those limited quantities of grain set forth by the secretary's order as a quota for the month of January. I ask them not to disturb grain markets by rushing in and purchasing large quantities of cereals."

Five Amarillo Prisoners Are Recaptured After Jail Break

AMARILLO, Jan. 31. (AP)—Five prisoners were back in their cells and another was still at large today after a break at the Potter county jail last night.

The prisoner still at liberty was Marvin C. Riley, 34, of Emory, Tex., who had been held for trial on charges of forgery. Officers throughout this area have been alerted.

The six prisoners gained their freedom by overpowering jailer Dick Ruffner. Ruffner said they hit him over the head with a piece of steel sawed from jail bars. He said he fought his assailants for half an hour before they made good their escape. The inmates used the jail elevator to reach the ground floor, but two hours later all but one of them had been returned to the jail.

Aid Program Organization To Require Months, Experts Say

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 — Two top-ranking Senate supporters of the four-year European recovery program agreed publicly today that its real test will come "in the second year."

Senators Vandenberg (R-Mich) and Connally (D-Tex) joined in this opinion today as the Senate Foreign Relations committee ticked off its fourth week of public hearings. Hearings will continue next week with critics getting most of the time.

Two industrialists estimated that it will take from six months to a year just to set up an organization able to handle the vast recovery plan.

Vandenberg agreed. He added that the first year must stress aid in the forms of "food, fuel and fertilizer" until the "organization is intact."

This could be an indication that Vandenberg may support some of the Republican demands for a cutback in the $6,800,000,000 asked for the first 15 months. He has said this is a debatable point.

Connally, who headed the foreign relations group when Democrats were in control, agreed that

City Officials Shot To Death

(By The Associated Press)

DULUTH, Minn., Jan. 31—Three members of the town board of Elmer, Minn., meeting in formal session, were shot to death late today by a man who had just been denied a beer tavern license. The assailant then went to the home of a friend nearby and killed himself.

A fourth member of the board was wounded and is in serious condition. Another board member escaped.

One In Serious Condition

Slain were Frank Svoboda and Emil Makela, each about 35, and Albert Dupac, about 65. Louis Ringhoffer, 60, was struck in an arm by a bullet as he fled through a door. He was in serious condition from heavy loss of blood.

Albert Bernsdorf, 35, fifth board member escaped.

Deputy Sheriff Ed Anderson of St. Louis county identified the slayer as Joe A. Contanzi, about 32, Elmer storekeeper who had been denied the beer tavern license.

Had Rifle Under Coat

Deputy Anderson said that Bernsdorf told him the board had argued all afternoon over Contanzi's request for the license. As they prepared to vote, Contanzi left the room. Returning a few moments later by a side door he asked what the vote was.

Informed that the license had been rejected, he pulled a 30-30 caliber deer rifle from under his overcoat and started shooting.

Bernsdorf said he ran for the door. As he reached the exit he said he saw Makela grasp his chest and fall dead. Other shots rang out. Ringhoffer fled into an ante room and slammed the door. A shot fired through the ante room door struck Ringhoffer in the left arm.

Message Left

Anderson said Contanzi ran from the school house where the meeting was being held, jumped into a truck and sped away.

Contanzi drove to the home of a bachelor, Hjalmer Carlson, living three miles from Elmer. Carlson said Contanzi told him of the Hope Fades For Missing Plane

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Jan. 31 (AP)—Thirty planes fanned out today in an ever-widening search for a British aircraft feared lost in a stormy Atlantic with 29 persons aboard.

Bucking strong headwinds, U.S. Army and Navy craft from Kindley field scoured tens of thousands of square miles of the ocean off Bermuda, but no trace was found of the "Star Tiger," missing since Friday.

Seas In Area Stormy

The British ministry of civil aviation in London said the plane was "presumed lost," but officials of the British South American airways, operators of the ship, said they still had hope some of the 23 passengers and six crewmen would be found. Air Marshall Sir Arthur Coningham, RAF hero of World War II, was among the passengers.

The sea in the search area is stormy, with waves up to 40 feet high, search pilots reported.

Indian Army On Guard; Government Thrown Into Confusion

Rioting Continues In India As Gandhi's Cremation Completed

By G. MILTON KELLY
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW DELHI, Sunday, Feb. 1—Indian military authorities announced early today that the cremation of Monhandas K. Gandhi's body was complete.

The flickering light of the assassinated Hindu leader's funeral pyre was allowed to die out during the night. Previously it had been expected to burn for 36 hours.

Embers Are Stirred

At 10 a. m. (10:30 p. m., CST, Saturday), Gandhi's son, Devadas, will return to the burning ground to decide whether the ashes will be preserved or cast into the holy Jumna river or the Ganges river.

As the fire of the fragrant sandalwood logs of Gandhi's pyre burned low, an Indian soldier occasionally stirred the embers with a long bamboo pole.

Worshipers Visit Scene

Throughout the night groups of worshippers visited the scene of the cremation. But the huge crowd which witnessed the solemn ceremony yesterday had gone.

Troops of the fourth batallion of the Madras regiment stood guard around the pyre. With rifles at ready they will remain until the ashes of Gandhi are removed.

Indian Army Alerted

Yesterday, amid mob scenes of hysterical grief, Devadas Gandhi placed the coals to the four corners of his father's pyre. Police and soldiers swung sticks and rifle butts to keep back tens of thousands of devoted followers who shoved forward trying to see the ceremony. There were numerous casualties but no deaths.

The Indian army was alerted throughout the country as tight-lipped government officials remained in a high state of confusion. They did not know whether Gandhi had been cut down by an assassin's bullets because of hatred for the teacher's non-violence beliefs or for more sinister reasons.

Possible Plot Studied

There were widespread beliefs that the assassination yesterday was part of a deep-laid plan of extreme leftwingers to overthrow the old guard of the Congress party now in power. It seemed certain there would be a reorganization of the cabinet, if for no other reason than complaints of insufficient protective measures about Gandhi.

Rioting, most of it among Hindus themselves, continued in Bombay province where five more were reported killed today, but the disorders were waning. Anti-Gandhists were attacked, particularly the supporters of the Hindu Maha Sabha, a militant party which has not subscribed to Gandhi's non-violence teachings.

Police said they were holding 10 members of Mahasabha. In limited localities of Bombay, police imposed a curfew to be in effect for the next week. Processions and public assembly were banned in greater Bombay. A curfew also was imposed in Poona where police opened fire and injured one when crowds attacked anti-Gandhists.

The 25-year-old Hindu from Poona who was seized yesterday after pistol shots ended Gandhi's life, was arraigned secretly under the name of Narayan Vinayak Gadse. He was held without bail for investigation of murder without entering a plea.

Among the crowd which formed a circle half a mile wide about the pyre were those who had stood in night-long vigil about Gandhi's quarters and jammed their way through the crush along the five-mile funeral route.

Hindu priests in white and women chanted Hindu hymns and

NEW RECORD SET IN COUNTY

More Than 22,000 Obtain Poll Taxes, Exemptions

WHEN the Saturday midnight deadline for payment of poll taxes and ad valorem taxes was reached last night, J. B. Johnston, county tax assessor and collector, announced that more than 22,000 poll taxes and exemptions had been issued, establishing an all-time record in the history of Lubbock county.

With the addition of those poll taxes and exemptions which are expected to be received in the mails, the total may easily reach between 22,500 and 23,000, Johnston said early today.

Many Still In Mail

Of the total announced early this morning, Johnston said that 19,267 were poll tax payments and more than 3,000 were exemptions. For a total of at least 22,267. The figures are not exact because a few hundred poll taxes may yet be in the mail, valid if postmarked before the payment deadline. Also, the office ran out of exemption certificates after 3,000 were issued and was forced to use forms on hand until such certificates can be received and filled out.

The new record, which will probably place Lubbock county among the top 10 or 15 counties in the state in voting strength for the coming elections in 1948, surpassed the previous record of 13,398 poll taxes issued in 1946 by several thousand. The 1946 figures do not include poll tax exemptions. In 1944, the last time a presidential and gubernatorial election came in the same year, poll taxes issued in Lubbock county totaled 11,422 exclusive of exemptions.

Sub-Stations Boost Total

Of the total number of poll taxes and exemptions issued this year, two poll tax sub-stations operated by Lubbock 20-30 club at Mark Halsey's Drug Store No. 1 and Wylie's Drug store issued 2,444 poll taxes and approximately 500 exemptions, Johnston said. Another sub-station sponsored by the Lubbock Jaycees at Senior High school, closed for two days during the recent gas shortage, issued

County Cotton Crop For Past Year Is Largest On Record

Lubbock county produced the greatest cotton crop in its history during the 1947-48 season, ginning a total of 177,976 bales prior to Jan. 16, the report of A. L. King, special agent of the Bureau of Census, Department of Commerce, revealed Saturday.

The record total compares to 51,584 bales for the 1946-47 crop and surpassed the previous high mark of 163,500 bales set in the 1937-38 ginning season.

Cotton men and ginners estimated Saturday that the final figure would easily go beyond the 180,000-bale mark. It was estimated that 97 per cent of the crop had been ginned up to Jan. 15.

Oklahoma Again Bars Negroes

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 31 (AP)—Attorney General Mac Q. Williamson late today ruled it would be "unlawful" for the University of Oklahoma regents to admit six negroes who seek graduate work.

Williamson made his "hard-and-fast" ruling at the regents request. On Wednesday he had said the regents "were justified in refusing" admittance. This did not satisfy the regents, however, and they demanded a "yes or no" answer.

Law Should Be Enforced

Williamson's argument was that the racial segregation laws for public schooling were made by the people of the state, and that until they were changed by the people—or other high authority—it was the duty of state officers to enforce them.

Meanwhile, Oklahoma decided today a white man cannot attend a school set up for negroes, but still left unanswered the more serious racial segregation problem, "can negroes attend schools for whites?"

White Applicant Refused

Dean Jerome E. Henry of the newly created law school for negroes at the state capitol here rejected the enrollment application of Walter M. Harrison, 57, Oklahoma newspaperman and ex-Army officer.

Hemry indicated Harrison's ap-

UN Partition Group May Ignore Warning

LAKE SUCCESS, Jan. 31 (AP)—The United Nations Partition commission will enter Palestine in March or April, informed quarters predicted today.

The exact date depends on negotiations with the British and the outcome of Security Council debate on providing international military force.

Sources close to the commission stressed that the five-nation body was not ready to accept the British warning that the UN should stay out of the Holy Land until two weeks before the end of British rule. Britain has set May 15 to end her old League of Nations mandate.

The commission planned to pursue this point vigorously with the British delegation here and even carry an appeal directly to Foreign Secretary Bevin if necessary.

Insistence of the delegates on getting to the scene early is based on their belief much of the work can be done best on the spot.

The commission will begin drafting a specific report to the council Monday on the need for military help.

SPECIAL SESSION ASKED

AUSTIN, Jan. 31 (AP) — State Rep. James C. Spencer of Athens, Henderson county, today asked Gov. Beauford H. Jester to call a special session of the legislature. "Owing to the apparent deficit in the teacher salary fund, the shortages in the penitentiary food fund, the need of the emergency junior college appropriations, as well as urgent matters which have arisen and may arise owing to the severe cold weather in Texas, I renew my request for the immediate calling of a special session of the legislature," Spencer wrote the governor.

Groundhog Stands Good Chance Of Seeing Shadow Here Monday

IF there is a groundhog on the South Plains, and if he follows tradition and emerges from his hole Monday, he stands a good chance to see his shadow.

For the weatherman at midnight predicted partly cloudy skies both today and Monday, without much change in temperature.

If the groundhog sees his shadow on Feb. 2, according to legend, he becomes frightened and returns to his hole, and by that token six weeks of bad weather are due to follow.

Asked whether a prairie dog's shadow would have the same effect, the weatherman said that wasn't among the information on file at the bureau station at municipal airport.

Meanwhile, the weather in January proved capricious, with a 79-degree range in temperature, figures compiled shortly after midnight revealed.

The low temperature for the month was 1 degree on Jan. 29, the high was 80 degrees on Jan. 8, said Victor H. Halliburton, weather observer. In 1947 there was a 114-degree temperature range in Lubbock.

The month's mean temperature was 34.8 degrees, or 5.2 degrees

House Vote Is Set Monday

By JACK BELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—House Democrats proposed a $200 additional personal exemption today for every income taxpayer.

There was every indication, though, that their bid was too low to offer serious competition with the $6,500,000,000 Republican tax cutting bill slated for House passage Monday.

And in the Senate, where tax bills generally get a thorough reshaping, Republicans were hot after Democratic votes which they will need to override an expected veto.

Demo Deflection Possible

Senator McClellan (D-Ark) told a reporter he will vote to override such a veto if the Republicans will agree to hold the federal revenue loss to $5,000,000,000.

The whispered-hope substitute which a group of Democrats worked out in ex-Speaker Sam Rayburn's office would do three things:

1. Raise personal exemptions and credit for dependents from $500 to $700. The revenue loss from this would be about $3,000,000,000.

Income Split Drafted

2. Put back an excess profits tax on business, recapturing the $3,200,000,000 relief granted to individual taxpayers.

3. Let husbands and wives in all states split their incomes for tax purposes. This would reduce their obligations in most instances. The treasury loss from this provision was estimated at $800,000,000.

The Republican bill contains the income split provisions for married couples and a $100 increase in personal exemptions. In addition, it would offer percentage cuts ranging from 30 per cent for those at the lower end of the tax ladder and 10 per cent at the top.

Plan Faces Vote

Rayburn said the $200 personal exemption boost proposed by the Democrats would take 10,000,000 persons off the tax rolls. Republicans claim their $100 increase would take out 7,400,000 persons.

Italy Protests Soviets' Action

ROME, Jan. 31 (U.P.)—The Italian government, aroused by a Soviet protest about the presence of American warships in Italian waters, bluntly told the Russians today to mind their own business and announced a permanent Italo-American treaty of friendship, trade and navigation will be signed Monday.

It will be the first such pact signed by the United States with any European country since the war.

The Italian government warned Russia that "sovereign" Italy "is the only one to judge if there is any reason to raise objections" concerning United States ships in Italian ports.

The Soviets had protested to Washington that the presence of the warships was a violation of the Italian peace treaty. Announcement of the complaint was made in a Moscow broadcast, and the Italians said they never had been informed formally of the move.

U. S. naval headquarters in London subsequently announced there were 14 American war vessels in Italian waters and small contingents of Marines aboard several of them.

The Italian foreign office communique pointed out that visits by such ships occur in Mediterranean ports outside Italy after the usual diplomatic arrangements have been made. It added the same port privileges will be extended to visiting ships of other nations.

Steer Owned By Tech Student Wins Award

The 1,060-pound calf, owned by Vernon Wolf, 18, had won championship honors in the Hereford division of the show before it was judged Grand champion.

T. O. Win, another 11-month old Hereford, won the reserve champion title for his owner, Ronnie Fee of Colorado City.

Wolf, whose home is at Big Spring, said he named his prize steer after Ernest Grissom, Fort Worth breeder from whose herd the animal came. The youth said he would use his prize money and the money from the stree's sale at auction for continuing his education and buying more steers.

Chicago Papers Use New Methods To Publish During Long Strike

CHICAGO, Jan. 31. (AP)—One newspaper calls it "Operations Musk Ox"—this job of getting out papers without printers.

Papers More Readable

But getting out Chicago's six major daily newspapers currently is not nearly as slow and cumbersome as it was in the days immediately following a walkout of union printers last Nov. 24.

With the strike beginning its third month, the Chicago dailies—The Daily News, The Tribune, Journal of Commerce, Herald-American, Sun and Times—continue to roll from the presses.

Readers generally agree the papers are more readable than when typewritten copy, reproduced by the photo-engraving process, first was introduced at the start of the strike.

Another thing—it's taking less time to get late news into the papers.

Methods used by the various newspapers differ in details but generally this is how it's done in each plant:

Instead of being sent to the composing room, news stories and advertising material, prepared in the usual manner, are routed to a battery of typists.

Some ordinary typewriters are used but most now are electric, use a ribbon of carbon paper and offer a variety of type faces.

How It Works

They copy news item or piece of ad copy twice to make the lines come out even along the right hand margin. Headlines for the news stories are made up in the art department. The letters for the heads are pasted up one by one. After the headlines are assembled, transparent tape is used to fasten them in place.

Before a newspaper can be published the rotary press cylinders must be supplied with curved metal printing plates. These are made from matrics—page size sheets of a cardboard-like material baked to a crisp hardness and containing impressions of everything that is to go on the newspaper page.

Under normal conditions, the matrix, commonly called mat, gets its impressions from the type matter composed on the linotype machines.

However, the men who run the linotype machines are out on strike in dispute over a new contract. They are about 1,500 members of local 16, AFL International Typographical union.

So now the impressions on the mats come mostly from zinc engravers and halftones.

A makeup editor matches each typewritten story with its headline and pastes them on a sheet of cardboard the exact size of a newspaper page.

Then the whole thing is photographed. A zinc engraving is made from the negative. The mat is taken from the engraving.

But engraving takes considerable time. One paper figures that to get an engraved story in the paper requires three hours and 40 minutes. This is what is called a line engraving.

A modification of this process is the halftone engraving, which is the way pictures ordinarily are reproduced. It saves perhaps an hour to an hour and one-half. In the paper, a story in halftone appears as black lettering on a gray background.

However, a still faster method has been devised for news bulletins.

This involves use of an addressing machine, which stamps out embossed, or raised letters on a small metal strip.

After a bulletin has been stamped on it, the thin metal strip, supported by a cushion of plaster of paris or similar material, is inserted in a place which has been sawed out for it in an engraving. A mat is then taken of the engraving, as before.

By this means, an editor can get a bulletin on a late-breaking news story in the paper within 30 minutes after he receives it.

The newspapers report considerable interest by newspaper executives from other cities in the new methods.

Good News For Folks Who Suffer From

✔ STOMACH GAS
✔ ACID INDIGESTION

Do you feel bloated and miserable after every meal, taste sour, bitter food? If so, here is how you may get blessed relief from this nervous distress.

Everytime food enters the stomach a vital gastric juice must flow normally to break-up certain food particles; else the food may ferment. Sour food, acid indigestion and gas frequently cause a morbid, touchy, fretful, peevish, nervous condition, loss of appetite, underweight, restless sleep, weakness.

To get real relief you must increase the flow of this vital gastric juice. Medical authorities, in independent laboratory tests on human stomachs, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in increasing this flow when it is too little or scanty due to a non-organic stomach disturbance. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps build-up non-organic, weak, watery blood in nutritional anemia—so with a good flow of this gastric digestive juice, plus rich red-blood you should eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better.

Avoid punishing yourself with overdoses of soda and other alkalizers to counteract gas and bloating when what you so dearly need is SSS Tonic to help you digest food for body strength and repair. Court Denies Writ Of Error In Belt Vs. The Texas Co.

A writ of error has been refused by the Supreme Court of Texas in the case of W. D. Belt, jr., and others against The Texas Co., Sue Alice Slaughter and husband R. L. Slaughter, jr., Sabine Royalty Corp., Sid Richardson and others, it was learned Saturday.

The Texas Co. held leases to approximately 1,000 acres, Richardson to 300 to 400 acres. Belt claimed deeds by R. L. Slaughter, sr., and Dr. and Mrs. G. T. Veal in January of 1932, conveying a large number of tracts in the Bob Slaughter block, had been made in fraud of creditors, among which was W. D. Belt, jr.

A jury in the 72nd district court of Hockley county, Judge Dan Blair presiding, found the deeds were not executed in fraud of creditors. Appealed by Belt and others, the court of civil appeals, of Amarillo, held there was sufficient evidence to support a jury finding on that issue, and held that other errors assigned by Belt were not sufficient to justify reversal of the verdict and judgment.

The supreme court noted there was "no reversible error" in the case.

Numerous counsel was employed in the case. The firm of Crenshaw, Dupree, Milam and Crenshaw, of Lubbock, represented Sabine Royalty Corp., and numerous royalty owners. H. S. Garrett of Fort Worth and Durwood Bradley and W. D. Wilson represented the Texas Co., and Bradley and Wilson also represented several royalty owners. John Kilgore of Dalls represented Sue Alice Slaughter and her husband. Lawrence Tarlton of Fort Worth represented Sid Richardson. E. L. Klett of Lubbock, member of the firm of Klett, Bean, Evans and Justice, and Allen Wight of Dallas represented the plaintiffs.

Rep. Olin Teague Announces Candidacy For A Second Term

HILLSBORO, Jan. 31 (AP)—Rep. Olin E. Teague of College Station, congressman from the sixth Texas district, will be a candidate for a second term.

Glenn Marshall of Hillsboro, chairman of the Hill county Democratic executive committee, received a filing fee yesterday from Teague with a request that his name be placed on the ballot.

Teague filled the unexpired term of Luther Johnson of Corsicana in 1946 after Johnson resigned to take a seat on the U. S. tax court.

In a special election that ran concurrently with the run-off primary, Teague found himself without an opponent after Tom Tyson, Corsicana attorney, who had led the primary field of five office-seekers, withdrew.

Teague is a native of Woodward, Okla., and formerly lived at Mena, Ark., where his mother, Mrs. Ida Teague, still resides.

White Student And His Wife Accepted Into Negro Church

MACON, Ga., Jan. 31. (AP)—A 25-year-old white divinity student said last night he and his wife had been accepted into membership of a negro Baptist church here.

The student, Jack Singletary of Meigs, Ga., said his application and that of his wife for membership in the Tremont Temple Baptist church had been accepted "very cordially" last week.

The Rev. L. M. Moore, pastor of the Tremont church, confirmed that Singletary and his wife, who is also of Meigs, had transferred from the Tattnall Square Baptist church for white persons.

Singletary's only comment was "we try to do whatever we do in the best interests of God." He is a ministerial student at Mercer university, a Baptist institution.

Negro Scholarship Program Proposed

JACKSON, Miss., Jan. 31 — The board in charge of higher education in Mississippi is planning a possible scholarship system to give graduate training outside the state to Mississippi negroes.

E. R. Jobe, executive secretary of the board of trustees of state institutions of higher learning, said:

He added that the board has approved "only the principle," and that his office is working on details of the plan.

"It may be modeled after similar programs in other states," he asserted.

He estimated that an appropriation of approximately $50,000 for a two-year period would be needed to finance the program.

At present Mississippi has no provision for educating negroes in graduate work except aid to certain medical students.

City Commission Holds Session

Members of the City commission met with Mayor C. A. Bestwick in an 'informal' session Saturday afternoon at which a discussion of proposed amendments to the city charter was held and representatives of the West Texas Gas Co. submitted a letter to Mayor Bestwick.

No definite action was taken on the various proposed amendments to the city charter, according to Homer Hunter, retiring city manager, who attended the meeting, other than to further crystalize opinion regarding the amendments. Such informal meetings are held by the commission in an effort to thrash out various problems and save time during regular commission meetings when definite action may be taken, it was explained.

The letter submitted by the gas company was another matter, however.

Letter Given Group

Upon hearing that the City commission would be in session, the gas company officials delivered the letter to the group, according to Ray F. Hinchey, vice president and general manager of the West Texas Gas company. No newsmen were present at the time.

When questioned by an Avalanche-Journal reporter late Saturday afternoon after the meeting, Mayor Bestwick said "there wasn't much to it (the meeting). We just had some discussion of a bunch of matters. We discussed some proposed changes to the city charter. Then some people from the gas company came in and we discussed the gas situation."

Pressed for details concerning the discussion of the gas situation, Mayor Bestwick, although quite vehement in a statement concerning the "crisis" faced by the city over the gas shortage the past week, said that he was "tired," and refused further comment.

A call to Mr. Hinchey confirmed that a letter setting forth the gas company's stand in the matter had been delivered, but he also declined to reveal the exact nature of the letter or its contents.

Examination Will Be Held For Welfare Workers, Examiners

Open competitive examinations for welfare workers and examiners, and to fill clerical and stenographic posts, with Feb. 7 set as deadline for applications, have been announced by the Merit System council in Texas.

Places to be filled are mostly with the Texas Employment commission and the state department of public welfare.

Examinations are to be held at Lubbock Senior High school building starting at 9 a. m. Feb. 28, but it was stressed the applications must be filed by or before Feb. 7.

Application blanks may be obtained from the Texas Employment commission office at Tenth and Ave. K, from the department of public welfare office located at 1411 Thirteenth, or from the Merit System Council, 808 Tribune building, Austin.

Funeral For Clifford Dozier Will Be Conducted At Ralls

RALLS, Jan. 31. (Special)—Funeral services for Clifford W. Dozier, 43, who passed away in Birmingham hospital at Van Nuys, Calif., after a lengthy illness, will be conducted at Ralls Methodist church Sunday at 3 p.m. Rev. W. R. Beaird, Methodist pastor will officiate.

American Legion Post No. 255 will have charge of services at the cemetery, with Morris Funeral home conducting burial arrangements.

Survivors are the father, A. J. Dozier; two brothers, Chesley and Fred, of Ralls; two sisters, Mrs. L. E. Crutchfield, Amarillo, and Mrs. C. H. Jackson of Phoenix, Arizona.

Pallbearers are Tip Williams, Bedford Lewis, A. W. Watts, Frank Pearson, Jeff Moore, and Robert Cathey.

If we could see into the boiler of a steam engine, the vapor above the water would not be visible and it would become visible only when released into free air where droplets are formed to produce visible steam.

Minor Offenses Reported Here

Comparative quiet reigned among law enforcement officials Saturday.

Roy Eugene Orsborn, 24, a negro charged with drunk driving, pleaded innocent of the county court charge. Judge Walter Davies set bond of $600. The negro arresting police said, ran his car into a ditch and, when arrested, told them he was en route to the police station at the time of his mishap. He said he understood someone there wanted to question him.

J. C. Lacey, a Queen City negro, said two negroes, one of them a relative, had entered his home and taken a gun, a .32 automatic pistol. One of them was arrested and held for questioning, but the other had not been reported found.

The negro sought also is wanted for questioning in connection with another reported burglary, perhaps two, officials said.

In one burglary, the residence of Tom Jeffery in the Seborn addition was entered, and a suit, a carton of cigarets and a pair of glasses taken, officials were told. The suspect allegedly left the suit, cigarets and two five-pound sacks of sugar at another negro's residence. Officials searched and found cigarets there, but no glasses.

A radio stolen Jan. 3 from the 204 East Nineteenth residence of Coleman Steen, a negro, had been recovered, Capt. Pat Davidson of the police detectives said. Two ties and a camera were sought. A negro in custody in connection with another case is a suspect in that burglary, officials said.

Suspects Described

P. D. Wright of Pampa told police his brief case had been lost or stolen in 1300-block Ave. H.

The sheriff's department was informed Saturday night that vandals had broken window panes and door glasses in a residence at Forty-sixth and Ave. U.

N. G. McCalla, complainant, gave sheriff's deputies descriptions of three boy suspects and of the car they were driving. The destruction was done about 10:30 a. m., McCalla said.

Andy Fain, 27, of Lubbock was held in county jail after his arrest on an Oct. 31 complaint charging check law violation. He was arrested Saturday night.

Bids To Be Opened For Hospital Annex

Bids for construction of an annex to Lubbock Memorial hospital for use by the obstetrical department will be opened Wednesday afternoon.

The annex—which was described as not affecting plans for the complete new hospital to be built later—is to be constructed because of need for additional space. It will have a 20-bed capacity, nursery and delivery rooms and storage basement.

Bids are to be received until 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon in the office of Haynes and Kirby, architects.

The annex will be located south of the hospital on the Avenue M side of the block. The hospital covers the north half of 1300-block Broadway, between Ave. L and Ave. M. The annex will be 52 feet north and south and 125 feet long, east and west. It will be brick and stucco and will be joined to the hospital proper by ramps.

The structure will have a full basement for storage, with one story above. It will cover part of the space presently used as a hospital parking lot.

The hospital management anticipates that the annex will be converted into a store building after the new Memorial hospital is constructed.

Indian Ocean Storm Kills 300, Leaves Thousands Homeless

PORT LOUIS, Mauritius Island, Jan. 31. (U.P.)—At least 300 persons were killed and tens of thousands were left homeless by a 10-hour cyclone which struck Reunion Island Monday night, according to the first definite reports reaching here today.

Cables from residents of Reunion, an Indian ocean island 90 miles southwest of here off the east coast of South Africa, to personal friends here said meteorologists recorded winds up to 190 miles an hour during the storm before their instruments were rendered useless.

After the cyclone blew itself out, a drenching rain poured down on the ruins, and did not let up until yesterday.

Former Lubbock Man Aids In Taking Food To Indian Groups

A former Lubbock man, James L. Ayers of Burbank, Calif., whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Ayers live at 1614 Merritt street in Lubbock, has aided in taking food and clothing to Indian reservation villages in Arizona and New Mexico, according to information received here the past week.

Ayers aided in obtaining and transporting the food to desert villages where he reported the Indians were in serious condition because they were unable to raise enough food on their desert land.

The drive was sponsored by a California AMVET chapter.

Men, Regain Youthful Vigor

Here Is a Vital Message to Men of 40, 60 or Older Men Who Feel That The Years Have Let Them Down

If life apparently has lost its zest, you again may be able to enjoy life as you did in your youth. If added years have slowed down your vim, vitality and youthful pleasures, here is a simple method that may change your whole outlook on life. Don't feel old and worn out at 40, 60 or more. Why not try to regain the pleasures of living you once enjoyed; why be discouraged? Regain the verve and zest of a much younger man. Just ask your druggist for Caltron stimulating tablets. Take as directed on label. There is nothing harmful in Caltron tablets. Take as long as you feel you need them. Added years may no longer deprive you of desired enjoyments. Why be the victim of the "older" years?

Don't Be Discouraged

Goethe finished Faust at 82; Connie Mack is still managing the Athletics at 85; Titian painted masterpieces between 96 and 99; Clara Barton was an active president of the Red Cross at 83; Verdi was composing, Victor Hugo was writing, Corot was painting long after 80.

So don't let the added years get you down. Why not try Caltron tablets today? Available at all druggists.

If you win any one of the monthly prizes, you will receive 100 additional Treasure Certificate points.
4. All entries received during each calendar month will be judged in that month's contest. Entries from each state (and from the District of Columbia) will be judged separately, and will compete for the monthly state prizes only with other entries from that state.
5. Monthly cash prizes as listed on this page will be awarded on the basis of aptness, originality and interest of the statements submitted (see Rule 1.) Each month's national prizes will be awarded to the three best entries of the 49 state first-prize winners in each monthly contest. All entries will be judged by the impartial judging staff of The Reuben H. Donnelley Corporation, an independent, nationally-known contest judging organization. Decisions of the judges will be final. Names of winners will be published.
6. All entries must be prepared by the contestant. Elaborate or fancy entries will not count extra. All entries and statements become the property of the Pepsi-Cola Company and none will be returned. In case of ties, the prize tied for will be awarded to each tied contestant, except for the sweepstakes prizes, procedure for which is listed under Rule 8.
7. Only contestants living within the 48 states or the District of Columbia will be eligible. Anyone may enter these contests except the employees of the Pepsi-Cola Company, Pepsi-Cola bottling companies or their advertising agencies. Members of the families of these employees are also excluded.
8. HUGE NATIONAL SWEEPSTAKES PRIZES WILL BE AWARDED AS FOLLOWS:
(a) Each Treasure Certificate received by you or members of your family (see Rule 3) counts 100 Sweepstakes Points for your family. Save them! (For the purpose of this contest, a "family" shall be considered as only persons related by blood, marriage or adoption living in the same household under one family head.)
(b) The 100 families, plus families tying with any of them, who have received the greatest number of Sweepstakes Points in the competition, qualify for the Sweepstakes Finals. Each family thus qualifying must be prepared to show the total number of Treasure Certificates received by the family and also to show the total number of "Treasure Top" designs reported in the family's entries (see Rule 1). Both the number of Treasure Certificates and the number of "Treasure Top" designs must agree with official contest records of the judging staff and these records will be considered final where any discrepancy occurs.
(c) The qualifying families will then be promptly notified and each family will be required to submit one statement of fifty words or less on the subject "How the Sales of Pepsi-Cola Can Be Increased". They must get the help of their Pepsi-Cola dealer in preparing this statement and must submit that dealer's name and address. The Sweepstakes Prizes will then be awarded by the impartial judging staff, mentioned in Rule 5, on the basis of aptness, originality and sincerity of the statements thus submitted.

These contests are subject to all state and local laws and regulations.

Leaders Throughout World Join In Mourning Passing Of Gandhi

LONDON, Jan. 31 (AP) — Before an altar crowned with a life-size portrait of the fallen Mahatma, hundreds prayed today for the peace in India espoused by Mohandas K. Gandhi.

India House was crowded to the doors for a memorial service. Thousands more outside heard the service over loudspeakers.

Condolences Pour In

Prayers were said from all the varied religions of the subcontinent — Hindu, Parsee, Sikh, Mohammedan and Christian.

Krishna Menon, Indian high commissioner in London, in a solemn address, referred to Gandhi as "the greatest man of all time."

High officials throughout the world joined in tribute to the slain spiritual leader of 300,000,000 Hindus.

A Vatican news service dispatch said the assassination had caused great sorrow at the seat of the Roman Catholic faith. Gandhi was mourned there as an apostle of Christian virtues.

King Farouk of Egypt, a Moslem ruler, sent Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru his "sincere condolences" and hailed Gandhi's struggle for humanitarian ideals.

Secretary General Trygve Lie of the United Nations, in Norway, said "The message of Mahatma Gandhi's death by a murderer's hand will shake every peace-loving person in the world."

In Italy, Giuseppe Saragat, leader of the non-Communist Socialists, declared a world in which "a killer's hand can be lifted against a Gandhi is a world profoundly rotten and sick."

But the Communist press in Italy and France declared Britain was responsible for Gandhi's death. the Paris L' Humanite said the assassin was armed by a British Intelligence agent, and Rome's L'Unita said the assassination was the "fruit of imperialistic provocation."

Prime Minister Attlee appealed to the Dominions of India and Parkistan to seek peace.

Truman Pays Tribute

"I am certain his spirit will continue to animate his fellow countrymen and will plead for peace and concord," Attlee said last night in a radio tribute to the famed Hindu spiritual leader.

In Washington President Truman paid tribute to the Hindu leader.

In South Africa Premier Jan Christiaan Smuts described Gandhi as "one of the great men of my time."

In China Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek voiced profound sorrow. "A great spiritual leader has been taken away from a world which can ill spare him," he said.

In Singapore the regional Indian Congress asked Malayan Indians to observe a 24-hour fast as a mark of respect.

In Panama local Hindus announced that they would wear mourning for a full month.

Britain's press eulogized the Indian leader in terms of reverence.

Gunman's Curiosity Leads Him And Accomplice To $1,500 Loot

CHICAGO, Jan. 31 (AP)—Raymond Pozulp, 26, manager of the Cherry Meat packers, insisted to two gunmen that he did not know the combination of the safe. They argued as four other employes listened.

Apparently convinced Pozulp did not know the combination, the two started to leave. One gunman stopped and yanked at the safe door. It was unlocked.

The gunmen took $1,500, city police said Pozulp reported yesterday.

Two Men Held In San Antonio On Charge Of Armed Robbery

SANTA FE, N. M., Jan. 31 (U.P.) Two men are being held in custody in San Antonio, Tex., charged, with armed robbery in Santa Fe, it was reported today by District Attorney Marcelino Gutierrez.

The pair are accused of holding up Tony Lujan of Santa Fe earlier this month during a taxi ride and taking $270 from him at the point of a gun. The cab driver is under bond of $1,000 on the same charge.

The so-called "wailing wall" in Jerusalem is believed to be a remnant of King Solomon's temple.

JOIN WAYLAND STAFF—PLAINVIEW, Jan. 31. (AP) — Dr. S. E. Cranfill will become academic dean of Wayland college here Monday and his wife will head the college's sociology department, President J. W. Marshall has announced. Cranfill has been head of the economics department at Baylor university.

Oklahoma University Irish, Lampooning Campus Outbursts, Protest Law Of 1872

NORMAN, Okla., Jan. 31 (AP) — One hundred Irish students at the University of Oklahoma, lampooning campus meetings of the past two days on the racial segregation laws of the state, today demonstrated for the rights for the Wearers of The Green.

Ferrill Rogers, student senator from Stillwater, Okla., told the campus meeting, "Sure, and 'tis true, Oklahoma has a law school for negroes in Oklahoma City, and one for whites here, but there is no school for the Irish.

The Irish Flunk

"That's not all, it 'tisn't," he added in the very best Irish manner. "Students of other races make A's and B's on the campus. The Irish are being discriminated against. They made F's."

The group, mimicking the burning of the 14th (Civil Rights) amendment by students protesting racial discrimination burned a copy of the hated Railroad act of 1872, put the ashes in a can and mailed them to the janitor at the University of Oklahoma Student union. The ashes of the 14th amendment were mailed to President Truman.

In a serious vein, Clee Fitzgerald, Caddo, Okla., told the assembled the real purpose of the meeting was to point out campus demonstrations were raising hatred on the campus.

"Students can't do anything about the segregation problem," Fitzgerald said. "It's up to the state officials. Students are just stirring up trouble by demonstrating."

One Dancer Hurt, Opponent Is Jailed In New Mexico Affray

SANTA FE, N. M., Jan. 31. (U.P.)—A dance last night at Chimayo ended in a fight, but Capt. A. B. Martinez of the state police was expecting same and was waiting outside.

Martinez brought one of the dancers to jail and took another to a doctor's office in Espanola.

The casualty was Ricardo Vigil, who suffered a scalp wound inflicted by a blow from a bottle. Ceveriano Martinez was held here today, charged with wielding the bottle.

Captain Martinez said that it seems someone danced with somebody's wife, but he was unable to learn all details.

Negro Freed After Extradition Fails

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., Jan. 31. (U.P.)—Clarence (Baby) Johnson, 42-year-old negro described by Little Rock, Ark., prosecuting Attorney Edwin Dunaway as "The Little Rock Policy King," was a free man today after failure of the second attempt of Arkansas authorities to extradite him.

City Judge Joseph Troy, declaring "we're long past the days of Dred Scott," issued a writ of mandamus, freeing Johnson.

Charged With Felony

The negro had been sought on a four-year-old felony charge as a means of securing his return to Little Rock, where he was convicted last September of operating a gaming house and fined $1,200. While free under $1,000 bond to raise the fine, Dunaway said, Johnson jumped bond and moved here.

First extradition proceedings were dismissed on grounds the gaming charges constituted a misdemeanor and were not subject to extradition. Arkansas authorities applied again, citing Johnson's guilty plea in October, 1943, to a charge of receiving stolen property (a case of whisky) and the fact court had deferred sentence to a later date.

Judge Troy declared yesterday that "holding a sentence over this man's head, possibly for a lifetime, jeopardizes the rights of an American citizen. The court sees no conviction in the 1943 case and therefore holds the order revoking Johnson's probation is out of order."

The United States had about 18,000 inter-city busses in 1940.

State Issues Ruling On County Group Insurance Premium Plan

AUSTIN, Jan. 31—Group health and hospitalization insurance premiums may not be deducted from county employes' paychecks, according to attorney general opinions.

Two opinions issued yesterday said that county employes are entitled to participate in group insurance under an act of the 50th Legislature, but that county funds may not be used to pay premiums or incidental expense for such insurance and that county auditors may not collect and pay premiums for a group consisting solely of county employes on a group insurance plan.

The opinion also held that counties are not authorized to obtain workmen's compensation insurance for county employes.

The holdings were the result of separate requests for opinions by Brazoria County Attorney Sam Lee of Angleton and Bexar County Auditor E. G. Garvey of San Antonio.

BOUQUET MADE PRACTICAL

KOKOMO, Ind. (U.P.)—Mrs. Clifford Lineback put a new twist to "saying it with flowers." When her husband took over the county clerk's office, she sent him a huge bouquet. Scattered through the bouquet were several sticks to which were tied cigars, cigarettes and chewing gum.

50 POUNDS LOST WITH BARCENTRATE

Many people have reported amazing results with this home recipe. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Barcentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take just two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it.

If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back.

Here is what Mrs. C. M. Earsh, 305 N. 12th St., McAllen, Texas, says about Barcentrate: "I want to tell you that I have lost 50 pounds since taking Barcentrate. I still want to lose 20 more pounds as I now weigh 167, a reduction from 217 pounds."

To lose weight the grapefruit juice way, get Barcentrate from your favorite druggist today.

Liquor Board Map Shows South Texas Wet, North Texas Dry

BY LLOYD LARRABEE
United Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, Jan. 31 — It's a North Texas versus South Texas affair as far as Wet and Dry status under local option liquor laws are concerned.

A state map published as part of the Texas Liquor Control board's 1947 annual report of the governor shows that clearly — in colors.

Dry As Sahara Desert

But except for blotches in the Dallas-Fort Worth and Amarillo areas and a few isolated points, the North half of Texas is white and would look on the map to the imbiber as barren as the Sahara desert.

Dry forces continued a strong battle in 1947 to wipe out liquor in Texas county by county, while the "Wets" barely held their own.

Of local option elections during the year, the "Drys" won 16 hands down, the "Wets" took three clear-cut decisions and prevented 11 already-wet counties from going dry.

However, only nine of the 30 were county-wide elections — the rest covered individual precincts. Of the county-wide polls, the "Drys" took seven into their fold, and two counties decided to remain wet.

The "Dry" can now list 140 counties in which there is not a single legal drop to drink. That's a majority of the 254 Texas counties, but the heavily populated areas such as Dallas, Fort Worth, San Antonio and Houston permit liquor and beer sales.

Counties in which distilled spirits are legal total 93, four per cent beer is legal in 19 counties, and the remaining two counties permit sale of 14 per cent beverages.

Fines Assessed

Agents of the liquor control board cracked down in dry as well as wet counties in 1947 to the tune of $597,468 in fines. The state's action brought 3,971 convictions, including 30 jail sentences.

During the year 55 stills were seized, and 6,500 gallons of mash and 227 gallons of moonshine liquor were destroyed on the spot. The state figures that the destruction prevented the potential evasion of $63,864 in state taxes.

For its whole operation in 1947, the Texas Liquor Control board brought in revenues totaling $14,902,391. That still couldn't match, however, the record year of 1946 when the state received $17,377,246.

But that doesn't mean necessarily that Texans drank less last year than in 1946.

John Lawhon, administrator of the Liquor Control board, pointed out that dealers had trouble filling all their customers' needs during the war and after liquor became plentiful again, many held onto their stocks and sold what they had. Consequently, said Lawhon, they didn't bring as much liquor into the state and didn't buy as many tax stamps.

HEARING POSTPONED

AUSTIN, Jan. 31. (AP)—The railroad commission today indefinitely postponed hearing on the application of Tom Graham for discovery oil allowable rights on his Cole well No. 59, West Cole field, Webb county.

W. M. Yates To Head Dawson County Fair

LAMESA, Jan. 31—The Dawson County Fair association named a new slate of officers and began laying plans for the 1948 county fair at a recent meeting of the board of directors of the organization.

W. M. Yates, land-holder and former county judge, was re-elected president of the association which staged the county's first fair since 1941 last year. He was in Dallas Jan. 29 to attend a meeting of the State Association of Fairs.

Other officers named at the meeting included D. L. Adcock, secretary, and W. K. Crawley, treasurer.

Plans for this year's fair were broached and a tentative date for the week of September 26 was named.

A bigger and better fair, with many more attractions and interests and a corresponding jump in attendance, is the aim of the organization this year, President Yates stated.

Mexican Industrialists Asked To Aid In Government Program

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 31 (U.P.)—The Mexican government has asked the co-operation of private industry in setting up national experimental laboratories to aid in developing President Miguel Aleman's industrialization program, it was revealed today.

Secretary of National Economy Antonio Ruiz Galindo said the laboratories would study the physical and natural resources needed by domestic industries, seek new uses for natural resources and act as a "testing" laboratory for Mexican industrial inventions.

The laboratories would also act much in the same as the Bureau of Standards in the United States and would be supported financially by the government and private industry.

Four Men Injured In Refinery Explosion

WICHITA FALLS, Jan. 31. (U.P.)—Four men were being treated in a hospital today for injuries suffered last night when an explosion, believed caused by accumulated gas, wrecked a cooling tower at the Panhandle Refinery Co., north of Wichita Falls.

Most seriously injured was Charles S. Borland, Panhandle transportation superintendent. He received a broken collarbone and concussion injuries when hurled backward by the blast.

Hospitalized with minor injuries were George Stearn, yard foreman; Mc Havey, welder, and J. M. Lloyd, a laborer.

All of the men had been working near the 18-foot frame tower, mounted on a concrete water tank. Borland was attempting to start a gas engine at the base of the structure.

Plans Superintendent W. F Sims said he believed sparks from the gas engine ignited the imprisoned gas. The tower had been shut down for three days because of the cold weather.

Unidentified Man Killed, Six Hurt In Rail Crossing Mishap

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 31 (AP) — An unidentified man was killed and six other persons suffered minor injuries today when a switch engine left the track and overturned on two automobiles halted at an East Side crossing here.

Police Lt. Dulin Judd said that after leaving the track the Pennsylvania railroad engine missed the first auto stopped at the crossing, grazed a car behind it and toppled onto the next two machines. The dead man was pinned in the werckage.

Judd said the engineer, N. B. Rees, rejated he was traveling 10 miles an hour at the time and "didn't know why the engine jumped the track.

The injured were the fireman, Darrell Fowler, and five occupants of the automobiles.

River And Harbor Projects Are Sought By Group Of Louisianans

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31. (AP)—Congress was asked by a group of Louisianans yesterday to approve President Truman's budget recommendations for flood control and river and harbor projects in their state.

They asked also for $2,000,000 to start construction of the Overton Red river valley ship canal from Shreveport to the Mississippi river. President Truman recommended $50,000 for planning the project, but no construction funds.

Rep. Patman of Texas joined the Louisianians in appearing before a House subcommittee.

Brooks told the subcommittee that the canal, to cost $42,500,000, will provide navigation along the Red river from near Shreveport to the river mouth. Oil and gasoline from the big fields in that area could then be transported to the east by water, he said.

The congressman told a reporter there is "not too much chance" of getting committee approval this year, but he said "we have laid the ground work for next year."

DIES OF BURNS

ATHENS, Jan. 31. (AP)— Mrs. Minnie Lee Ware died yesterday of burns received when her gown caught fire Thursday night.

No Plans For Purchase Of Eggs To Support Prices Are Mapped

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31. (AP)—The Agriculture department has indicated it plans no immediate purchase of eggs to support prices.

The department wrote Senator Kem (R-Mo) that before announcing any price support purchase program, it feels it will be desirable to determine fully at what level supply and demand conditions will establish egg prices after a present market adjustment period.

Kem had sent it requests that a price support buying program be started because eggs in Missouri had dropped to 35 cents a dozen to farmers.

The department expects to follow a policy of buying eggs when necessary to assure that producers will receive an amount equal to 90 per cent of parity for the year as a whole, he said.

BERGERE 'BURNS UP' CITY STREETS

Famed Speedway Racer Proves Wild Driving Poor Time Saver

Suppose you want to "make better time" in Lubbock traffic.

You'd naturally think the way to do it would be to violate every ordinance consistent with getting to your objective without being arrested.

You'd be wrong in that assumption.

One of the most famous of all drivers—Cliff Bergere, internationally famous Indianapolis speedway racer—tried it over a two-and-a-half-mile distance Saturday afternoon, first driving carefully and observing every traffic ordinance and then retracing the route when driving like a typical road hog.

CLIFF BERGERE

Makes 37 Violations

Accompanied by police and press, Bergere made a second run over the same course in which he exceeded the speed limit, cut corners illegally, wove in and out of traffic, blocked pedestrian lanes at stop signs he didn't disregard entirely, and altogether ran up 37 violations that would have added to fines of $208.

And, in doing so, he required eight and one-tenth seconds longer to make the route than when he had driven over it by observance of what police called "every ordinance attaching."

Test Is "Proof"

Police said the test was "conclusive in proof," and newspapermen agreed. Naturally, Bergere did not run cars off the streets or drive in any manner suggestive of peril to those in his flashing yellow car—the most expensive machine manufactured in this country—or pedestrians and other motorists; but he took every advantage in threading traffic short of that.

He ran three stop signs, cut five corners, blocked five pedestrian crossings, drove on the wrong side of the street five times, failed to make 10 hand signals, wove in and out of thick traffic, "jumped" red lights, passed other cars at intersections, passed automobiles on the wrong side, made turns from wrong lanes and, in general, thumbed his patrician nose at what he liked.

Lost Time In Rush

And it cost him .08.1 seconds, as mentioned.

There was reason for the penalty, as those in the car summarized after checking their notes.

When one gives hand signals, other motorists appreciate it and are more likely to concede some of the road.

When one hogs the road, or winds in and out of traffic in careless fashion, some fellow ahead sees it in his rear view mirror, clamps his jaws tightly shut and moves over to block his passage.

All that takes time—and it cost Bergere, just like it would the next motorist.

In other words, as Lewis Kittrell, chief of police, put it: "A straight line still seems to be the shortest distance between given points." He and Capt. Bill Lamb of the police traffic department checked stop watches against the two runs, route of which was "called" spontaneously by Sgt. Harold McInroe during the ride. City Recorder J. Solon Lea, presiding magistrate of the corporation court, charted infractions of ordinances during the drive.

Bergere Is Expert

Bergere is an authority on driving, aside from his having driven 16 times in the big Indianapolis races. He has smashed 400 cars in his time, turned over 47 times when going at a terrific clip, and driven countless thousands of miles at faster speeds than the wild highway driver has imagined in his wildest dreams. He has driven the fastest of all on the famed backstretch at Indianapolis—170 miles an hour with racing cars all around him—and has been an automobile, airplane and motor boat stunt man for the movies.

Just don't ask Bergere how to speed and cut up on crowded highways or city streets. He has no patience with such persons. "The highway is more dangerous than the Indianapolis speedway when a crank, a drunk driver or some other incompetent gets loose on it," he says.

Lectures, Movies Planned

Bergere is a representative of the Champion Spark Plug company and is here in interest of a safety campaign, at invitation of Preston Johnson, sales manager of Lubbock Auto company. His Saturday run through Lubbock streets was in interest of that campaign to make driving safer.

At 7:30 p. m. Monday, at Lubbock Auto Supply company, at 1820 Texas Ave., he will show 16 mm sound motion pictures and will lecture. The public is invited to attend and see racing film, Thompson Trophy airplane races, Hollywood stunt crashes, and the like. Bergere weaves safety throughout his lecture.

March Of Dimes Gets New Contributions

A $75 contribution was received from Frenship High school for the March of Dimes fund Saturday.

The 'wishing well' will remain in front of Bowen's Drug store this week, with different civic clubs in charge. Posters and receptacles for donations will remain in business houses in which they were placed when the drive opened.

Those parts of the drive were extended because of bad weather during the last week. The campaign originally was scheduled to end Saturday.

Contributions given at Texas Technological college were submitted by Alpha Phi Omega Saturday and were to be counted later to determine the total.

Numerous contributions were given Saturday at the "Wishing well." The Jewish Ladies auxiliary had charge.

Marion T. Key, co-chairman of the campaign with Waggoner Carr, announced that the 20-30 Club would be in charge of the "Wishing Well" on Monday.

Chicago Man Finds Shabby Stranger Is Long Lost Brother

CHICAGO, Jan. 31 (AP)—A Chicago salesman walked into the Wrigley building lobby Wednesday and noticed a tattered stranger who resembled the brother he had not seen for 15 years.

Vance K. Timberlake, freight lines salesman, said the man was wearing ragged clothes and had "evidently come in to get warm."

"He looked somewhat like my brother," Timberlake said, "but I went on about my business. On my way out of the building, he was still there, so I questioned him."

The stranger showed Timberlake his Social Security card bearing the brother's name, Cader Pitt Timberlake, 42.

Vance took the man, who was in an injured and dazed condition, to his home and then to the county hospital.

He died there today of a skull fracture. Vance said he did not believe Cader ever recognized him.

Hotel Association Opposes Federal Recontrol Of Rents

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP) — Federal recontrol of rents in hotels was vigorously opposed today by the American Hotel association.

Spokesmen for the organization, who said it represents 75 per cent of the hotels in the country, stated their case before a Senate Banking committee.

It has under consideration a rent control extension bill which, among other things, would put rents in residential hotels back to their June 30, 1947 levels.

Cadillac
ATTAINMENT

Cadillac's attainment in the world of motor cars is the fruition of almost half a century of unwavering adherence to the most exacting standards. Throughout all this time, Cadillac has been concerned only with quality—with raising the standards by which motor cars are judged. Small wonder that Cadillac has long been recognized as the world's supreme automotive creation—the universal symbol of all that is good and fine.
If you are waiting for a new Cadillac—please be assured that every effort is being made to further production. Demand is so great, however, that some delay in delivery is still inevitable. But hold to your purpose! There is no substitute for a Cadillac.

Martin Warns Of Attempts To Discredit Congressional System

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—Speaker Martin (R-Mass) said today that saboteurs could "execute a sudden coup and take over the government" if what he described as a powerful campaign being waged to destroy confidence in Congress is successful.

Martin made the statement in an address delivered to the National Association of Women broadcasters.

Campaign Cited

The speaker said America for years has harbored thousands of people who would "sabotage our American system of freedom and bring our people and our government under the sway of an alien ideology and a foreign clique of rules."

"And for years," he continued, there has been "a very powerful, highly - sustained, well-financed and cleverly-managed campaign of sabotage in some of the press, over some radio microphones, and on some public rostrums, to destroy the confidence of the people in the Congress as an institution."

If this confidence can be destroyed, so that people put their faith in "powers of control, regimentation and restriction concentrated in the executive department," Martin said, then the people will have been defeated and free government shackled.

Disagreement Normal

"When that has been accomplished, it would be simple for the saboteurs to carry out a campaign of destruction against the executive department, execute a sudden coup and take over the government," he continued.

Martin urged the women broadcasters to combat the "sinister forces which cook up these canards," distort facts and "feed them out for the very specific purpose of discrediting the Congress in the opinion of the people."

The speaker said Congress can, does and should take issues often with the executive branch of expenditures, taxation, powers and restrictions.

"The very essence of Americanism," he said, "is proposal, disagreement, discussion and compromise. Whenever anyone, or any two, branches of the government can put a stop to that kind of system, free government is gone, and individual liberty will be dead."

Denton Record-Chronicle Plans Open House In New Building

DENTON, Jan. 31. (AP)—The Denton Record-Chronicle will show its modern new home Monday and Tuesday. The formal opening climaxes a three-year program of improvements by Publisher Riley Cross since he purchased the newspaper in April, 1945

The page volume of the newspaper and the number of employes have more than doubled in the last three years.

Tomorrow, in a 92-page open-house and progress edition, the Record-Chronicle will present stories and pictures of the concrete and steel plant along with news of Denton's industrial, educational, agricultural and civic progress.

The exterior of the building is of buff-colored brick and glass blocks. The structure, air-conditioned throughout, will be equipped with new furnishings, a 24-page Goss straightline press with color unit, a modern photographic darkroom and a new model-32 72-90 channel Linotype machine.

Former Gov. Coke Stevenson will be a guest at the open house, along with newspapermen from North and East Texas.

Young Mexican Girl Says Her Marriage To Suitor Forced

TIJUANA, Baja Cfa., Mex., Jan. 31 (U.P.)—A 15-year-old heiress testified in court today she had been "married by force" to the youngest of five brothers who allegedly kidnaped her two months ago, the girl's mother reported to United Press by telephone from Mazatlan.

The mother, Senora Conseulo Capaceta, said her daughter, Maria Jesus Yolanda Escobar, appeared in Mazatlan court today with her kidnapers and told the court she "wants to go back home with mother."

Senora Capaceta, wealthy Tijuana land-owner, said she would return to Tijuana by plane tomorrow with her daughter, and that police were guarding both mother and daughter at the Mazatlan hotel where they are staying.

Kidnappers Not Charged

The daughter claimed she was kidnaped by the five sons of Nazario Moran, sr., 73, from a malt shop in Mazatlan more than two months ago. She said she was forced to marry the youngest son, Nazario Moran, jr.

A search by police and soldiers throughout the rugged mountains around Mazatlan was fruitless. The Moran sons brought the girl into court with a suit claiming Senora Capaceta was not her true mother and filed for a writ of habeas corpus.

The girl was returned to the mother but no immediate action has been taken against the Moran family.

Forecasters Get Plenty Of Fan Mail When Predictions On The Weather Not Correct

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—The weather man is a smart cookie. But there are a few things he doesn't know.

NICHOLS

He can look at the fleece in the clouds and say in the papers that a cold wave is bearing down from the Arctic. He can see a hurricane coming and warn Florida and Texas to batten down.

He Gets Fan Mail

But the head weather man Francis Reichelderfer, a pleasant, muscular former navy officer, is the first to admit that the forecasters don't know everything.

What do sun spots have to do with the weather Mr. R. says he's doggoned if he knows. As for the atom bomb, which has been blamed for everything from the poor pea crop to Mr. Pauley's fuss with Harold Stassen,—well, the idea that the bomb has affected the weather is too silly for scientists like Reichelderfer to talk about. A 20-year-cycle? Posh! The weather bureau has looked into 90 different supposed cycles and still can't find a pattern.

The Chief claims an accuracy record of between 80 and 90 per cent for his forecasters, which is pretty good slugging, even in the big league. But brother, does he hear about the other 10 per cent!

Mr. Reichelderfer admits that his ulcers bother him less than his fan mail. For instance, his men looked at the maps on Christmas day and said that New York City would have a fluff or two of snow next day. The 25-inch snowfall next day didn't weigh half as much as the mail Mr. R. got from irate New Yorkers. Mr. R. said it just happened, that's all, and actually it might happen again. A disturbance was kicking up off the East Coast and the wind switched. To say there was a sudden change in the weather is putting it-er-mildly.

They Make Mistakes

Mr. R. knows some pretty good ones on weather men and doesn't mind telling them. About the Oklahoma weather man who predicted "continued warm" and went home that night, wearing earmuffs, to find that the pipes in his cellar were frozen.

Then there was the St. Louis weather man, still beloved, who used to predict a cold snap and then take the next plane for Florida, from where he'd send post cards of lovely gals to his newspaper friends back home. He got his comeuppance once when both the St. Louis and Florida forecasts backfired. It was nice and warm in St. Louis and cold like an icicle in Miami. His newspaper friends sent him cards. "Wishing you were here! etc."

Once the bureau sent a northerner to Macon, Ga., which probably was a mistake. There the farmers used to depend on the weather bureau to tell 'em when the first freeze was comin' so they could slaughter their hogs. Well, one farmer called the first day the new weather man was on the job and asked if it was "hog killin' time." The new man didn't understand and said it could be around 31 or one below freezing. The next day the farmer said he didn't know about that, but was it cold enough for the kill?

Our northern man got his dander up and said that if the man's pigs weren't husky enough to stand 31 degree temperature, they weren't husky enough to be killed. And hung up.

Going back to the fan mail department: Mr. R. is awful proud of the only nice letter he ever got. It seaid: "We've been having awful nice weather. Thanks, and God bless you."

Mrs. Mattie Randolph, Former Lubbock Resident, Is Claimed

Mrs. Mattie Randolph, 70, formerly of Lubbock, died about 8:30 o'clock Friday morning in Gladewater at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Ewell Oliver, Rix Funeral home announced.

Her body, scheduled to arrive in Lubbock at 7:30 o'clock this morning, is being shipped here for burial beside her husband, J. A. Randolph, who died in September, 1946. Funeral arrangements are pending arrival of relatives.

Survivors, in addition to Mrs. Oliver, are another daughter, Mrs. Roy Kimper, Lamesa; two sons, Hall Randolph of New Mexico and Maurice Randolph, Stephenville; and a sister-in-law, Mrs. M. E. Witt, Lubbock.

Local Projects Due For Bids

AUSTIN, Jan. 31 (AP)—Thirty-six Texas road projects estimated to cost $7,550,000 have been scheduled for contractors' bids Feb. 25 and 26, the state highway commission announced today.

The projects call for improvements to a total of 350 miles of road.

The project list includes 142 miles of new farm-to-market construction, along with 60 miles of asphalt surfacing on grading and structures previously built under the state's $60,000,000 three-year farm road program.

Highway department officials reported a continued downward trend in average road construction costs. Average unit prices bid in January were 40 percent above pre-war averages of 1940.

Price Is Downward

The construction price index curve was said to have shown a steady rise until July, 1946, when it leveled off for several months and satrted downward later that year.

Projects scheduled for Feb. 25 bids include:

LUBBOCK—U. S. Highway 87 and 84 and spur, 6.69 miles, grading, structures, flexible base and hot mix asphalt concrete pavement, from traffic circle on U. S. 87 to 17th street and Ave. A; from traffic circle on U. S. 87 to Ave. Q and 34th street; and from 4th street on Ave. Q to U. S. 84 at east end of College Ave.

BORDEN—Farm highway 699, 10.06 miles, grading, structures, flexible base and prime coat, from Gail to 10 miles south.

Bids scheduled for Jan. 26 include:

LUBBOCK—U. S. highway 87 (loop) 0.56 miles, railroad underpass and approaches, grading and structures, north of Lubbock.

Texas Drys Won More Than Half Of Local Option Votes In 1947

AUSTIN, Jan. 31 (AP) — Beer consumption in Texas last year averaged 15.80 gallons per person, the Liquor Control board's 1947 report showed.

Per capita consumption of hard liquor was one gallon plus, wine a little more than a third of a gallon.

The board's annual report also showed that Drys had a slight edge in the number of local option elections won.

There were 30 such elections in counties or precincts. Drys won 16 of them, wets won 14. These figures make no distinction between countywide or precinct elections.

More than 8,000 cases of beer found to be unfit for human consumption or midlabelled went down the drain or were exported, the board said.

Its officers seized 55 illicit stills representing a tax evasion potential of $63,864.

PHARMACOLOGIST PERFECTS AN AMAZING FORMULA FOR SICK PEOPLE

Works Quickly To Overcome Conditions Which May Have Been Causing Untold Misery Over A Long Period Of Time

Man's greatest blessings have come as a result of painstaking research. For years researchers have been finding new alleviation for the ills of mankind; new hope for the miserable.

Pasteur, Koch, Lister, Madam Curie and many other great medical minds, since the time of Hippocrates, "Father of Medicine," have contributed their share to science, that we may live longer and in greater comfort. Since the time that medical history was first recorded, research has discovered new diseases and the way to control them.

Pharmacology, too, has contributed its share to scientific advancement and proprietary medicine has aided many people back to better health.

It has been found by researchers that many physical discomforts often arise from the accumulation of poisonous waste matter in the system and from the lack of certain health-giving elements supplied in plants by nature.

Penicillin is made from mold, a plant growth; serums are made from animals raised on grass grown in mineral rich soil.

A pharmacologist has now perfected an amazing formula for sick people which contains 25 ingredients — mostly herbs, roots and other plant growths of mother nature. This medicine, called Mertox, gives you the needed ingredients to help tone up your system, eliminate poisonous waste matter and supply the health and energy giving ingredients so necessary to your well-being so that you can go about your daily tasks with a new feeling of energy.

This medicine goes to work quickly to help overcome the torturing pains of rheumatism. It tones the bowels into a more rhythmic action. Gas and bloat, indigestion, sour stomach are quickly relieved. Kidney and bladder troubles are helped so that the annoying, broken rest from having to get up frequently at night is lessened. Dizziness and run-down feeling is overcome quickly. Mertox can be taken by every member of the family. It contains no narcotics, opiates or calomel and will not make you sick or nauseate you in the slightest degree. You can now get Mertox from all well stocked druggists in Texas in 8 ounce bottles.

THANKS—

We want to thank all those who cooperated with us to conserve natural gas during the recent severe cold spell.

We think our customers are entitled to know why supplies of natural gas ran short.

The emergency was not due to any mechanical or human failures. All the pipe lines, and all the machinery in our compressor stations functioned properly. All employees discharged their duties faithfully throughout. We received good cooperation from those who supply us with natural gas.

The emergency shortage of gas was due largely to the simultaneous occurence of two circumstances, either of which is most unusual in West Texas. The first of these situations was that temperatures dropped to sub freezing and to near zero and stayed there for about a week. Ordinarly, such cold spells do not last more than three or four days at the most. The second situation was that the severely cold weather prevailed throughout our entire system at the same time. Ordinarily, a cold spell will move across our system from north to south or from west to east, with extreme temperatures prevailing in only a portion of the system at any one time.

Therefore, it was the combination of these two factors that caused the emergency—first, that the severe cold spell was so prolonged; and second, that the cold spell prevailed throughout our entire system at one time.

We added more horsepower to the capacity of the compressor stations in our transmission system in 1947 than in any year in the company's history. This was done in anticipation of heavy demands for gas during the winter of 1947-48. What we did not anticipate was the above unusual combination of circumstances. Even if we had been able to anticipate these circumstances, we could have done nothing about it, due to the difficulty of obtaining steel pipe.

The only community in which there was any interruption to residential gas service was Levelland, where about half of the homes were temporarily without gas. For two years, we have sought to build a larger-size pipe line to Levelland, but have been unable to get anyone to accept an order for the pipe.

Through your cooperation, you have helped us and yourselves. Except in the case of the short interruption at Levelland, you have made it possible for residential gas service to continue without interruption.

Thank you again for your cooperation and understanding.

Printer Who Didn't Expect To Stay Marks 33 Years In City

By C. W. RATLIFF
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

Thirty-three years ago today, a spindled-legged young man carrying a shoebox suitcase climbed down from a Santa Fe train in Lubbock to face a biting dust-storm.

He could barely see the outline of the depot as he alighted from the train. Heading west, he lost his hat in the storm.

Three blocks away, he could make out a small clump of buildings through the dust. Inquiring of the first man he met how far it was to town, he was told "You're already there."

A few minutes later he found his way to a small frame building in the vicinity of Fourteenth street and Texas avenue and started to work at a job he's held ever since.

Starts 34th Year Monday

So again tomorrow, William Clint Edwards, now gray around the temples but with the same sprightly gleam in his eyes, will sit down at a Linotype machine in the Avalanche-Journal composing room and light up his trusty pipe.

A few seconds later, nimble fingers will start dancing across the keyboard of the typesetting machine as "Ed" starts his 34th year with this newspaper as its oldest employe, both from the standpoint of service and age.

Didn't Expect To Stay

Since the time he answered a classified ad for a "general printer" in the Dallas News back in 1915, "Ed" has qualified for steady employment in Lubbock, first on the old weekly Avalanche and for the past 26 years on the daily newspaper.

"I didn't think I was going to stay here very long," Ed said the other day as he recalled his first day in Lubbock. "When I read that ad in the Dallas News, I didn't know where Lubbock was and I couldn't even find it on the map. But I went down to the post-office and the postmaster told me where Lubbock was, so I decided I wanted to come west."

"Ed" Was The Back Shop

Edwards was then living at McKinney, where he had started in the printing trade as a "printer's devil" on the McKinney Examiner at the age of 12 years, Oct 5, 1900. He worked there and on newspapers in nearby towns for the next 15 years. A brother, the late Wm. T. Edwards, was an employe of the Examiner for more than 50 years.

Jas. L. Dow, now business manager of a Seminole hospital, was then editor and publisher of the Avalanche, and "Ed" was the back shop. He operated the Linotype machine, an old model I, and "put the paper together" and finally acted as pressman for a hand-fed cylinder press. In the meantime, he answered calls in the front office, sold classified ads and took news items and subscriptions while the "boss" was out.

Many Changes Made

Service in Uncle Sam's Army in World War I, a year of which was spent in France as a machinegunner in the 36th Division, was the only interruption in Ed's service with this newspaper with the exception of six months spent in a job shop which was owned by the newspaper management about 24 years ago.

Edwards' "stretch" with this newspaper has been the passing of many of the practices of former years. Gone is most of the hand-set heads and ads, the hand-fed press and other tedious tasks of newspaper printing.

Ed has seen the composing room's battery of Linotypes increase steadily throughout the years from the time when two machines with three shifts of operators were setting all the type for a daily issue. He has seen the newspaper's press expand from an old flat-bed into the battery of modern high speed tubular presses which turn out papers today at the rate of 42,000 an hour.

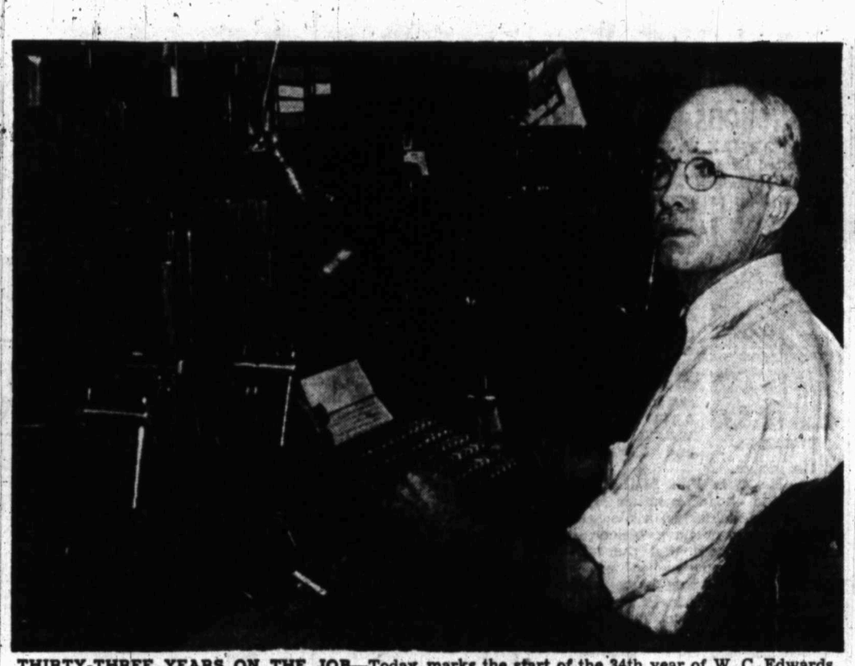

He has witnessed the passing of the Morse telegraph operator when 'copy' from the AP and UP was copied laboriously by an operator listening to the click of the telegraph key. Now in his stead is a row of teletype printers which bring in thousands of words per hour from all over the world.

A dozen of the 33 years Edwards has spent here were in the capacity of superintendent, a job he relinquished because of its everyday pressures of deadline worries.

Edwards stands at the head of a group of composing room employes who have served more than two decades with the Avalanche-Journal. They include: A. L. Borho, superintendent; Leroy Davis, pressroom superintendent; Tim Stovall, A. E. Jones, Will White, Ed Whitacre, A. M. Eubanks and N. L. Ball.

Oh, yes, another reason he "stayed on" in Lubbock back in the early days was that he met and married a Lubbock girl, the former Velma Porter, daughter of the late N. R. Porter, Lubbock pioneer.

They have two children, Wm. C., Jr., manager of Lubbock Auto company No. 2 and 3, who lives in the duplex with his parents at 1625 Seventeenth; and Mrs. C. E. Davis of San Angelo. Each of the children have two sons, and each one of them is the apple of their grandfather's eyes.

THIRTY-THREE YEARS ON THE JOB—Today marks the start of the 34th year of W. C. Edwards, pictured at the Linotype machine above, on the composing room staff of this newspaper. On Feb. 1, 1915, Edwards reported for work on the old weekly Avalanche in answer to an ad for a "general printer." He's been on the job ever since. (Staff Photo).

Youth Week Program To Be Resumed Here

Herbert Puryear, ministerial student at Baylor university, will re-open the Inter-Religious council-sponsored group of National Youth week programs, it was announced Saturday night.

These programs, theme of which is "Youth Seeks an Understanding," were postponed because of the gas shortage last week. These programs had been given — last Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Those appearing on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday programs will include Puryear, representing the Baptist denomination, Carolyn Lipshy, Jewish; and Cecil Eugene Matthews, Methodist. They will speak in the First Methodist church chapel at 7:30 p.m.

Those who appeared last week included Harvey Pruitt, Church of Christ; Betty Carraway, Catholic; and Dick Schmidt, Presbyterian, presenting basic beliefs of their churches; and panel members, Bruce Brown, Catholic; Fred Stanley, Protestant; and Ann Erkin, Jewis. Charles Carter served as panel chairman.

At 5 o'clock this afternoon the panel, along with George Young president of the sponsoring organization, and Rev. James T. Carter, assistant pastor of Asbury Methodist church, will present a 15-minute panel discussion over station KSEL. The discussion will show some of the conclusions already reached.

Funeral For Orville Wright Will Be Conducted Monday

DAYTON, O., Jan. 31 (AP)—Orville Wright will go to a final resting place Monday beside his brother, Wilbur, who helped him build and fly the first successful airplane.

Funeral services for the pioneer aviator will be held at 2:30 p. m. in the First Baptist church, of which Wright was a member. Burial will be in Woodland cemetery here.

Wright, 76, died in his sleep at Miami Valley hospital Friday night of a lung congestion and heart ailment. He had entered the hospital Tuesday after a heart attack, the second in recent months.

Wilbur Wright, the older of the two famous brothers, died in 1912. The 12-second flight of their plane at Kitty Hawk, N. C., Dec. 17, 1903, led to development of the modern airplane.

FRANKLIN, Ind. (UP)— A Franklin College fraternity dance turned out to be a slick affair when an absent-minded janitor covered the dance floor with oil instead of wax.

Rites For Lubbock War Vet Set Tuesday

Funeral services for Sgt. Elbert D. Scott, who was killed in the European theater of operations during the war, will be conducted Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in Arnett-Benson Baptist church, with Rev. Cecil Ray, pastor, officiating. Burial will be in Lubbock cemetery under direction of Rix Funeral home.

Sgt. Scott was among the 1,753 war dead aboard the U. S. Army transport Corporal Eric G. Gibson when it docked on January 21 in New York, the third group of war dead to be returned from Europe since the start of the Army's Return of War Dead program.

The body is scheduled to arrive in Lubbock from the Fort Worth distribution center Tuesday morning by Santa Fe railway. The American Legion will have charge of the military funeral to be conducted at the graveside.

Survivors include the parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Scott, Lubbock; the maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Butler, Lubbock; the paternal grandmother, Mrs. W. T. Scott, Carlsbad, N. M.; five brothers, Ardis of Glenwood, Calif., Capt. B. M. Scott of Kelly Field, San Antonio, James T., Buster and Roger Scott, all of Lubbock; and three sisters, Mrs. W. F. Wilkins, California, Mrs. Wendell Cromer, Lubbock, and Inez Scott, Lubbock.

Correspondent Presents Facts About Governmental Agencies

BY JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31— Here are some questions and answers about your government. They may be useful. Or maybe you've wondered about them.

Q. Does the Library of Congress have a copy of every book printed in the United States?

Many Volumes Kept

A. No. The Library was never intended to have all the books printed in this country. But—

By law two copies of all published material that is copyrighted must be sent tothe Register of Copyrights. Not all are work keeping.

And many books published without copyright are not worth keeping.

Q. Where is the Library of Congress and who can use it?

A. It's here in Washington, right behind the capitol. It's for the use of members of Congress and the public.

Q. How many volumes does the Library contain?

A. More than 7,304,000 books and pamphlets, 1,500,000 maps, 1,660,000 volumes and pieces of music, 570,000 prints, and 7,790,000 manuscripts.

Q. What is the Congressional Record?

A. It's a record of what's said on the floor of the House and Senate every day those Houses are in session. It's printed every night after a session.

Everything said is taken down by male stenographers. In the back of the Record, in a section called the "Appendix," are all kinds of things which Congressmen can get printed in the record free.

Such as speeches they made elsewhere, speeches some of their friends made, newspaper stories, radio broadcasts, poems, and so on.

The Record shows the way Congressman vote when their names are called. (They don't always vote by name so in such cases there's no record of who voted on what.)

Copies Available

If you want to keep a full, daily check on what Congress does when it's working on the floor, the Record has it. It does not have records of what the Congressional committees do.

Q. How can you get a copy of the Record?

A. Every Representative and Senator gets a copy delivered to his office every morning.

If you want a copy, ask your Congressman to have your name placed on the mailing list for a record. You can get it free that way.

But there's a limit to the number of copies a Congressman can have mailed free by the government to anyone who asks him for one.

If your Congressman has used up his quota and can't get you a record mailed free, then you can do this:

You can subscribe for it. You pay $1.50 a month. Send your subscription to the Congressional record clerk, Washington, D. C.

Funeral Services Conducted For Mrs. Lillie Jane Greaves

LAMESA, Jan. 31— Funeral rites were conducted at the Bryan Street Baptist church here for Mrs. Lillie Jane Greaves, 65, with Elder E. L. Jones officiating.

Burial was in the Five-Mile cemetery south of Lamesa with arrangements under the direction of Higginbothan Funeral Home.

Mrs. Greaves, a native of Coleman county, died at her home on Motor Route B, Lamesa, Tuesday. She had been a resident of Dawson county for 31 years.

Survivors include her husband, H. A. Greaves; four brothers, G. W. Lobstein, Hamilton, Charlie Lobstein, Brownwood, and J. E. and W. M. Lobstein, both of Cole-Howard Moore, Mrs. Frances man; and sister, Mrs. Sarah Bessengale, Dale; four children, Mrs. Brown and Mrs. H. B. Everheart, all of Lamesa, and J. L. Greaves, Spur; eleven grandchildren and seven great grand children.

Ban Against Negro Students Removed By Delaware School

NEWARK, Del., Jan. 31. (AP)—The University of Delaware's board of trustees announced today it is lifting its barriers against negro students.

Dr. William S. Carlson, president of the university, said that Delaware thus became "the first among 17 southern universities to lower voluntarily" admission barriers against negro students.

TO APPEAR HERE—Carroll McComas, famous broadway star, was persuaded by Robert Porterfield, founder of the Barter Theater, to come out of retirement and join his winter tour. Her characterization in "The Importance of Being Earnest" will add to the humor of this comedy by Oscar Wilde when it comes to Lubbock on February 10.

Famous Actress Cast In Oscar Wilde Play Slated For Lubbock

On February 10 when the Barter Players come to Lubbock to present Oscar Wilde's "The Importance of Being Earnest" at the Senior High school auditorium they will bring as a member of the cast Carroll McComas, grand actress who has come out of retirement to join the famous group of Abingdon, Virginia, players. Miss McComas had refused to accept enticing offers to return to Broadway after her retirement ten years ago, but Bob Porterfield, founder of the Barter Theater was able to persuade her to join his company for its winter tour.

It all happened this way. When Barter Theater played in Miss McComas's home town last year the famous actress was in the audience. After the performance she told Porterfield she had decided to return to the theater with his group because she wanted to personally contribute toward a project in which she believes profoundly, the decentralization of the American theater. As Porterfield puts it, his purpose is to bring the theater back to "Main Street, U. S. A."

One Performance Set

When the Barter Theater players make their debut in Lubbock they will be sponsored by the American Association of University Women. Mrs. Walter Wilson, dramatic chairman for the local AAUW is general chairman for arrangements for this production. Association members will begin this week a personal ticket-selling campaign, but tickets may be obtained at Lattimore's, 1706 Broadway, Mrs. Wilson said.

There will be only one performance of "The Importance of Being Earnest" in Lubbock, Tuesday evening, February 10, at 8 p. m. in the Senior High School auditorium. Adult tickets are $1.20 and student tickets are $.60. There are no reserved seats for the production.

Russia Slashes Defense Budget

LONDON, Jan. 31 (AP)—Soviet Russia's 1948 appropriations for armed forces will be 2,500,000,000 rubles under the 1947 figure, the Moscow radio said tonight. It said the Soviet finance minister told the Supreme Soviet the total expenditure will be 66,000,000,000 rubles.

The 66,000,000,000 rubles is equivalent to $12,452,000,000 at the exchange rate officially proclaimed by the Soviet union. There is no free exchange of rubles and dollars, however, and the official exchange rate (5.3 rubles to $1) is considered in western countries to favor the ruble.

Eleven Billions Asked

President Truman has asked the U. S. Congress for $11,025,000,000 for national defense in the next year.

Washington experts in the past have contended the Russians do not include in their military budget many items that are carried as national defense expenditures in the United States.

The Soviet minister of finance, A. G. Zverev, said the Soviet Union exceeded its 1947 budget for the armed forces. The budget announced last February called for 67,000,000,000 rubles. Zverev's figure of a projected 2,500,000,000-ruble reduction in 1948 indicates the Russians actually spent 68,500,000,000 rubles in 1947 on defense.

Fishing Craft First Reported Lost In Gulf Out Of Danger

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 31 (AP)—Two fishing craft which last night radioed they were in distress in the Gulf of Mexico are in no danger and are proceeding towards Brownsville, Texas, the Coast Guard reported today.

Search and rescue headquarters in New Orleans said the cutter Triton, which put out from Corpus Christi yesterday, arrived near the two vessels about 7 a. m. today.

"Alamo and Don Manuel state at 7 a. m. in no trouble, speed six knots, heading for Brownsville," the Triton's message said. The Alamo is towing the Don Manuel. Their position was about 100 miles southeast of Brownsville at the time.

Several vessels were reported in distress and one, the George C., was reported sunk. Crewmen from the George C. are reported safe aboard the Alamo.

Chairman Of Atomic Casualties Commission Will Inspect Japan

TOKYO, Jan. 31 (U.P.)—Dr. Philip S. Owen, of Washington, D. C., executive director of the National Research National Council' Commission on Atomic Casualties, arrived here today for a tour of bombed Japanese cities.

He was accompanied by Homer F. Pfieffer, Gila, N. M.

Meantime, atom-bombed Hiroshima was opened as a trade port today with formal ceremonies. It was one of the most important Japanese army transport bases until the end of the war.

Telegraph Workers End Strike Threat

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31. (AP)—The threat of a nationwide Western Union telegraph strike has ended.

Forty-five thousand telegraphers voted to accept a raise of 8 cents an hour, effective April 1, 1948. This was announced today by Adolph Brungs, president of the Western Union division of the Commercial Telegraphers union, AFL.

Brungs said merely that the agreement was ratified in local meetings by "the necessary majority." About three-fourths of the 45,000 belong to the CTU and the rest to two local AFL affiliates.

A strike in December was averted when mediation director Cyrus S. Ching appointed a fact-finding board. It has not made its recommendations, but meantime Ching had asked the parties to talk some more. They did, and readied the eight-cent settlement.

"Jill," Tahoka Mule, Develops Maternal Instinct For Calves

Jill, 27-year-old mule on the R. W. Allen farm on Tahoka route 4, has developed a "mother instinct" as far as a young calf on the farm is concerned.

Farmers frequently have to watch mules to keep them from killing calves, but Jill goes around after the calf and watches over it closely.

When the calf was smaller and was turned out "the mule was inclined to take the calf away from its mother," said Allen, who visited in Lubbock Saturday.

When Allen opens the lot and the calf goes out, the mule nearly always is there waiting. The calf now is six months old.

French Premier May Gain New Backing With Monetary Program

By ROBERT EUNSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, Jan. 31—Premier Robert Schuman may have assured himself another six months in office if his surgery on the French monetary system is successful. That was the opinion today of many members of the National Assembly.

Schuman, a Popular Republican, became premier during the crucial days of the November riots and strikes. At that time the same Assembly sources predicted his middle-of-the road coalition government would not last two weeks.

Program Instituted

It was believed then he would be succeeded by either Maurice Thorez, the Moscow-trained Communist leader, or Gen. Charles De Gaulle, head of the Rightist rally of the French people (RPF).

But Schuman broke the strikes and then pushed his monetary program through the Assembly. Both moves are believed to have dimmed the chances of either Thorez or De Gaulle.

There is talk now that if Schuman steps down in six months he will turn the premiership over to his finance minister, Rene Mayer, a member of the Radical Socialist (conservative) party. Mayer gained stature by the way he presented the government's monetary program.

The program provided for:

1—Devaluation of the franc from 120 to 214 to the dollar. This step was designed to increase exports and encourage manufacturing.

2—Calling in all notes of 3,000-franc denomination in an effort to demolish the black market that has been inflating prices.

Hoarding Is Target

Opening of a free gold market is one of the first steps toward abolishing all rate controls on the franc, just as the country did after the war of 1871 and the first world war.

According to the United States Council for international and monetary problems, France only has about $700,000,000 worth of gold. The U. S. leads with $22,000,000,000 and Russia and Britain are estimated to have about $2,000,000,000 each.

It is easy to see that if enough gold comes out of hiding the French government could, if it wants to, buy up enough of the metal to go near the top of the list.

There have been rumors since the war ended that France herself was buying gold secretly on the black market. A tall handsome former newspaper columnist is reported to be the agent.

However, the real reason for getting the gold out of hiding and back on the market is to get some of the hoarded fortunes invested in manufacturing and other production.

Schuman and Mayer believe a free gold market plus the Marshall plan will give France just the boost needed for recovery.

Every effort will be made to entice the gold out of the closets and the boxes buried under the apple trees in Normandy.

The calling in of the 5,000-franc notes also will tend to draw out hidden reserves because in many instances private fortunes have been added in both notes and gold.

The largest fortunes since the war have been made by the BOF men, the butter and egg men of France. The initials stand for "Beurre, Oeufs et Fromage" (butter, eggs and cheese).

The first effect of the devaluation of the franc was to raise prices again.

Woman Finds She Can Talk For First Time In 15 Years

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 31 (AP)—Mrs. Edna Beeler, 21-year-old redhead from Knoxville, Tenn., opened her mouth today—and found she could talk for the first time in 15 years.

From the time she contracted a bad cold at the age of six, she had been able to speak only in a low whisper. Plus recapturing her voice, Mrs. Beeler regained another capacity, the ability to sneeze aloud.

Mrs. Beeler underwent two operations this week at Jefferson hospital for the removal of a growth from her vocal chords.

New Machine To Record Quakes Is Reported

CAMBRIDGE, Ma... (AP)—The earth goes its ups and downs just like the stock market.

Harvard seismologist L. Don Leet reported today a new seismograph which records earthquakes in the form of three ink lines on inexpensive paper which comes out like ticker tape."

The new machine, Dr. Leet said, "permits observation at any time and eliminates costly and troublesome photographic processing required by other modern instruments."

And, he says, the new ticker can be placed in the seismologist's office to save him frequent trips to the dimly-lighted cellar which house the earth recorders.

"Now from his own office," he added, "a seismologist can get a running picture of what is happening inside the earth."

The seismograph was designed by Roland K. Blumberg of Seguin, Texas, a graduate student in geology at Harvard.

Dr. Leet reported that the new machine's first test Jan. 24 brought a startling "signature"—the major quake which spread destruction in the Philippine islands.

How Much Did You Make Last Year?

That's not an easy question. Profit can't be determined by arithmetic — but only by accounting. And accounting requires informed and expert judgment. It means sorting and arranging all the complex transactions of business, and presenting them in an orderly manner to show the results fairly.

But even experts can honestly disagree on the amount of profit for a year. Optimism or conservatism can influence their judgment.

That's why the Certified Public Accountant was born. As an independent, professional auditor, he brings to the job a disinterested judgment, and a sense of responsibility to everyone who may rely on the opinion he attaches to financial statements.

DEFENSE AGAINST WAR URGENT

Decentralization Of Military Forces Studied By Officials

By JOSEPH L. MYLER
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—Sen. Alexander Wiley, R., Wis., reported tonight that Defense Secretary James Forrestal and the joint chiefs of staff are studying decentralization of the armed forces and the federal government for security against atomic attack.

Writing in "The Reserve Officer" Wiley said atomic war with Russia could turn this capital instantly into a "death trap" for American liberty." Asserting that "we are now living in a fool's paradise of apathy and inertia," Wiley added:

"We must decentralize or risk a destiny of national extinction."

Wiley has introduced l slation embodying his ideas—including long distance law-making by television—for preparing for an atomic assault which might wipe out Washington and other large cities, including state capitals.

Committee Appointed

He also wrote to Forrestal, he disclosed in the official publication of the Reserve Officers association, "urging him to influence his colleagues in the cabinet to make the necessary plans f[illegible] centralization for purposes of national security."

He said Forrestal replied:

"I heartily agree with you that decentralization of federal activities is advantageous from the viewpoint of national defense."

Forrestal added, Wiley reported, that he has discussed the question many times with various advisers. And the defense secretary also told him, Wiley said, that he has appointed Air Secretary W. Stuart Symington "chairman of a small committee to work with the joint chiefs of staff and with the National Security Resources board on the broader aspect of the problem."

Inaction Indicated

"For the past 15 months," Wiley quoted Forrestal as saying, "the joint chiefs of staff have been studying the dispersion and protection of military facilities and other national agencies contributing to our national defense in the light of new developments in weapons and operational techniques.

Despite these assurances, Wiley said there was "disturbing evidence" that the U. S. high command "may be preparing for the last war—not the next war." he said he could find "very little if anything" to indicate that the military has any real plans worked out for decentralization.

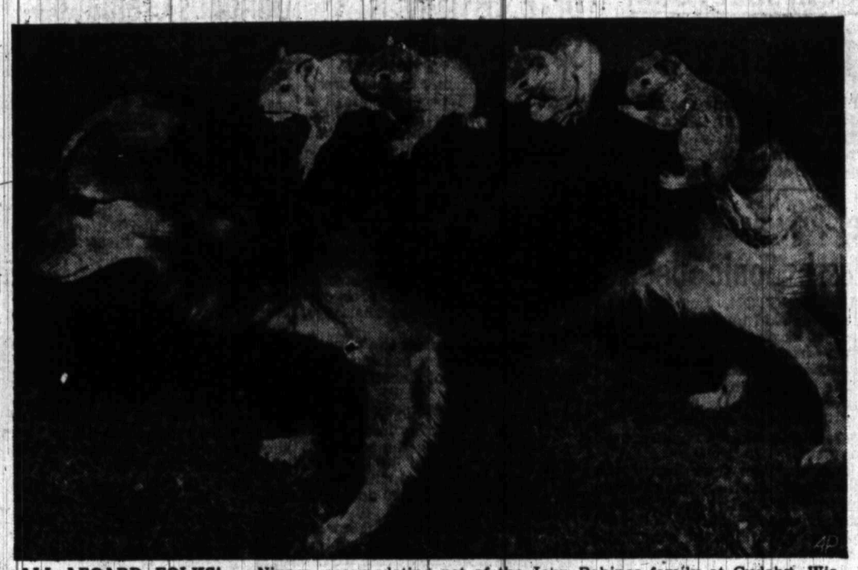

The Army's official view, it was learned, is that it already has done a lot toword decentralization. On June 11, 1946, for example, it set up six Army areas, each of which could function independently even if the high command here were destroyed.

Time Important

The Air Force similarly is cut up into six dispersed air defense commands, and the Navy has its far flung fleet-task force organization.

The Army said the Pentagon building here still is the center of top level strategic planning and procurement. But more and more functions, it added, are being put into the hands of the six Army areas.

Wiley said a trans-polar atomic war with Russia is not inevitable and he hopes it won't happen. But if it does, he said, it could be over in "a matter of minutes or hours." And because "America is almost completley unprepared" to defend itself against a surprise attack with atomic or bacteriological weapons, it might well be defeated, the senator said.

Woman Succumbs In Ranch House Fire

ABILENE, Jan. 31 (AP) — Mrs. Cliff Clary was burned to death today in a fire that destroyed her ranch home, 15 miles west of Ballinger, Tex., after a rescue attempt by her husband failed.

The blaze was blamed on a bottled gas leak.

Sheriff J. L. Moreland said Clary told him he awakened today suffering from severe headache. He went into the kitchen and struck a match, and flames burst forth and billowed over the room. The fire forced him out the back door and he ran around the house and attempted to tear off the screen, he said, and get into the bedroom window to rescue his wife. The fire, he stated, drove him back.

Clary was hospitalized, suffering severe shock.

Postmaster Nominations For State Sent Senate By Truman

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP) — President Truman has sent to the Senate these postmaster nominations for Texas:

Glenn H. Henderson, Bryson; Walter G. Marek, Burlington; James R. Brown, Denison; Charles H. Yowell, Dodd City; Frederic E. Edgar, High Island; Granville W. Elder, Houston; Harold Sparks, La Villa; John C. Groce, League City; Charley J. Nichols, Mansfield; Isaac E. White, Markham; Otis Avary, Seymour; Joe R. Christian, Tenaha; Wallace Fred Cannon, Thornton; Ralph W. Palmer, Tornillo.

Although the exact boundaries of Saudi Arabia are indefinite, the country contains more than 800,000 square miles.

Honey Grove Man Found Guilty Of Assault, Given Sentence

BONHAM, Jan. 31. (AP)—Woodrow W. Pritchett of Honey Grove, was found guilty of assault to murder by a sixth district court jury here today. The charge was in connection with an attack on Mayor Dick Self of Honey Grove May 29, 1947.

Pritchett's punishment was set by the jury at two years in the penitentiary. A motion for a new trial was filed by the defense.

LONGEST R.F.D. CUT

BEND, Ore. (UP)—The Bend post office lost the distinction of having the longest rural mail route in the United States when it added a new R.F.D. Route 2, which was 102 mlies long, was cut to 72 miles and the difference added to the new route.

Murray Says CIO Not Backing Third Party

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 31 (AP) — Phillip Murray says the CIO is definitely opposed to a third party, and is committed to no one in the 1948 presidential campaign.

The CIO and United Steelworker president declared in a nationwide broadcast last night "the only thing that the CIO is committed to is the welfare and security of its members and the entire American people."

Noting that he spoke on the birthday of the late president Roosevelt, the white-haired CIO leader said, "The men and women of organized labor . . . are sick and tired of the 'raw deal' they have been receiving in recent months. They want, and must have, another 'new deal'."

The means of securing this, he said, is the CIO's Political Action committee which Murray promised will be "more active than ever" in 1948.

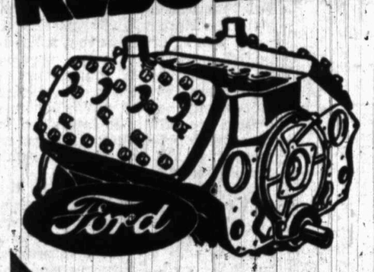

The PAC program, as Murray outlined it, includes price control and rationing, a substantially higher minimum wage and broadened social security program, an adequate housing program and a national health program based on insurance principles, and progressive taxation "with real relief for those who most need it—the low income groups."

Jester Revokes Lisby Parole

AUSTIN, Jan. 31. (AP)—Revocation of Grady Howard Lisby's 15-day emergency parole was ordered today by the governor.

Lisby, convicted in the district court of Tarrant county on a charge of murder with malice and sentenced July 18, 1947, to 10 years, was paroled five days ago.

The emergency parole was to Titus county in order that he might visit his brother, reported critically ill.

Actions Explained

Gov. Beauford H. Jester's proclamation revoking the parole said:

"In the report on file, it is stated that the subject has been seen in Tarrant county, without permission of his parole advisor; that he has been bragging of his status, and claiming that he will probably never have to go back to the penitentiary.

"It is therefore evident and I do hereby find that . . . Lisby has not proved himself worthy of the trust and confidence placed in him when he was released . . . "

In other actions based on recommendations of the board of pardons and paroles, the governor:

Granted the out-of-state conditional pardon to Alvin Nelson Dionne;

Granted a 10-day emergency parole to Cornelius Hubbard;

Granted remission of Ponciana Garcia's 30-day jail sentence.

Assault Said Justified

Hubbard was given emergency parole to attend the funeral of his mother at Abilene. He is serving a 30-year sentence for murder with malice aforethought. He was convicted in district court, McCulloch county, in October, 1941.

Garcia received remission of a 30-day jail sentence assessed June 13, 1947, for the offense of aggravated assault. Officers and citizens in Jim Wells, Bee and Nueces counties wrote the board of pardons and paroles expressing their belief that the assault was justified.

They said Garcia's presence as a law enforcement officer is needed in the community. There was no remission of his $500 fine and court costs.

Groundhog Day

colder than the January normal mean of 40 degrees.

The prediction for partly cloudy and slightly warmer conditions was general for both West and East Texas. No rain, snow, sleet or other uncomfortable weather was forecast, the Associated Press reported.

Yesterday's maximum temperatures ranged above the freezing mark throughout the state except at Pampa where the mercury rose from a low of 14 degrees to only 31.

Other highs for Saturday included:

Midland 60, Wink 58, Wichita Falls 40, Dallas 40, Clarendon 56, Alice 65, Childress 37, Texarkana 39, Beaumont 52, Brownsville 66, Corpus Christi 60, Austin 55, Waco 46, Fort Worth 39, Lufkin 51, Galveston 47, Houston 57, Laredo 66 and Del Rio 64.

Early Saturday some fog was reported along the coast at Galveston and Houston. There were no rain reports.

270,000 IDLE IN EAST; COAL SHORTAGE FEARED

Chicago, Jan. 31 (AP)—A new severe cold spell over a wide strip of the eastern half of the country cut further into industrial production today and threatened Pittsburgh with a coal crisi.

The number of workers made idle by industrial gas curtailments or shutdowns attributed to the severe weather rose to nearly 270,000 across the nation when 10,000 more western Pennsylvania miners were sent home. Ice in the Monongahela river has prevented barge deliveries of the mined coal.

Milder Weather Seen

The cold air mass from the Hudson bay region brought temperatures of more than 25 degrees below zero to northern New York, Pennsylvania, and Michigan.

New York City recorded zero, the lowest of the year, and hundreds of families were without sufficient fuel. The city asked 86 oil terminal dealers to remain open over the week end to supply hardship cases.

There was a ray of hope, however, for most of the nation that has been buffeted by recurring cold waves, blizzards and sleet in one of the worst winters in years. Forecasters said slowly rising temperatures were in prospect for virtually the entire country after tomorrow and no new cold waves are in sight.

Light Snow Forecast

Employes at the U. S. Weather bureau's Washington office said official figures are not ready but there are indications that in many localities scattered over the eastern two thirds of the country January was the coldest since 1940.

The first two weeks of the month were unusually mild, but then winter really began bearing down. However, west of the Rockies, temperatures generally averaged about normal.

Meanwhile, temperatures were below normal in virtually all sections of the country except southern Florida. Light snow was forecast for the eastern coastal regions, from the Carolinas northward to the Washington area.

the second year will be most critical.

By then, Connally said, the ERP would have benefit of experience and a far better estimate on what the 16 European nations and western Germany can do to help themselves.

Estimates on the time required to set up operating organizations here and abroad came from William L. Batt, president of SKF Industries, Inc., of Philadelphia and veteran of six years in key government jobs dealing with wartime production, and Lewis H. Brown, chairman of the board of Johns-Manville corporation.

Center Sought Here

will support the work voluntarily. He said the Dallas center's financial needs are met through sale of Easter seals and through major voluntary contributions.

Another luncheon speaker was Martin M. Ricker, executive director of the Texas society, who said treatment centers are now in operation in several cities in Texas, including Port Arthur, Houston, Waco, Corpus Christi (with 45-bed hospital and operating rooms), Greenville (just started), Dallas, and Wichita Falls. Centers are planned, he said, at El Paso, Abilene, Texarkana, Tyler, Paris, in the Rio Grande valley, and "I hope Lubbock will accept the challenge."

He said the big problem is trained technicians, adding that Texas colleges, notably the state teachers college at San Marcos, are planning to set up training courses for technicians. Dr. John G. Flowers, president of the college, was introduced as a luncheon guest.

Others who spoke briefly included: Sidney Gaines of Wichita Falls, who said the Kiwanis club there was supporting the project; and Mrs. Guy Rogers of Wichita Falls. Both invited the group, or anyone else interested to hear Dr. Temple Fay of Philadelphia, who is to speak at Wichita Falls Feb. 23.

Others Attend Meeting

Other out-of-town guests at the luncheon included Mrs. Juliette B. Gratke, director of the Dallas treatment center and speech and cerebral palsy therapist; J. J. Gibson, of Dallas, treasurer of the Texas society; T. B. Ewing, of Mercedes, Texas society director; Mrs. Elizabeth C. Barnett and Mrs. Margaret Crabtree, both from the special education division of the state department of education, Austin; Dr. Margaret Watkins, orthopedist and chairman of the medical consultant staff of the Dallas center; Dr. Herbert E. Hipps, orthopedist and chairman of the medical consultant staff of the McLennan county center, Waco; H. E. Robinson, of Austin, director of the special education division of the state department of public instruction; and Phoebe J. Campbell, public health nurse in Hockley county.

The luncheon, at which John W. Broome presided, was part of a two-day meeting of the Texas society with the local council, which continues today after an 8 o'clock breakfast at the Hilton that will embrace a meeting of the executive, committee and directors of the state society.

At a clinic session yesterday morning and again in the afternoon, demonstrations of treatment, and explanations of the affliction were given by Drs. Watkins and Hipps. More than 20 victims of the malady were present, and "we could have had 150 or more" according to Mrs. A. E. Jones, president of the parents' group of the local council.

Program Is Given

Meetings were held in the Activity center of the First Baptist church, and a night session brought addresses by Drs. Watkins and Hipps. Alex McDonald, a director of the Texas society, presided.

Today's program of addresses, starting at 10 o'clock, with Thomas presiding, includes:

Dr. Bill Gordon of Lubbock Memorial hospital, on "The Rheumatic Heart Child"; Mrs. Gratke, on "The Cerebral Palsy Child in the Family;" J. L. Tenney, administrative assistant, crippled children's services of the state department of health, Austin, on "A Public Program for Crippled Children"; Imogene Smith, chief orthopedic nurse, crippled children's services of the department of health, on "Orthopedic Nursing"; H. E. Robinson, director of the state's special education division, on "Education for the Cerebral Palsy Child"; and Mrs. Barnett, on "Therapy in the Public Schools."

Planes For Training Will Be Available To Air Reservists

Lubbock Air Reserve fliers will have another opportunity to train in AT-6 and AT-11 training planes this weekend at Lubbock Army Air field, Capt. Cecil Jennings of the 707th bomb squadron said Saturday night.

Planes will come to Lubbock from Hensley field, Dallas, for use of Lubbock Reservists in making local flights all day Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Approximately 50 reservists participated in the last flight training recently, Jennings said.

South Plains Given National Publicity On Soil Program

The South Plains area has received national recognition in the February issue of the Country Gentleman.

Under the section Country Correspondence, writer Russell Lord, who was a member of the recent soil conservation tour through Texas, sponsored by Friends of the Soil and the Burlington Railway Lines, describes the conditions of the land as he saw them.

"To my eye," he says, "the most to see and admire greatly was around Lubbock, cotton capital of the Panhandle. I hadn't been that far west in Texas since 1935. The dust was blowing hard then. New 'nesters,' or cottonland squatters, were coughing their lungs out in sodded dugouts while the thin, remaining buffalo grass was still being plowed under for semiarid cottonland just west of town."

Trees Noted

"That soil is lashed down now. Lubbock is a new, delightful throbbing and thriving city, with wide streets, clean high skyscrapers, and great new parks and playgrounds for young and old. In the city and all along the adjacent highways are thousands of trees, planted since I was there, and thirty feet tall or taller, most of them now."

"Practically all cotton and truck farming out from Lubbock has swung over to the contour. This, together with trash-culture tillage, holds that nearly virgin soil there where it belongs, intact."

North Plains Threatened

"At Amarillo and elsewhere, much land that we saw is almost certain to blow this winter, or later, when it thaws. I doubt if any of the land we saw near Lubbock blows or washes. They did have a right nasty dust storm in those parts the Sunday previous, but that one blew in from unregenerate Kansas."

"It was at Lubbock that a hard-boiled local businessman, serving as one of the 167 guides for us Easterners, revealed in a few crisp words why he and other business people are getting so interested in conservation farming: 'It means money, and if the farmers don't get it, we won't'."

The remarks, published in the nationally circulated magazine, means a good boost for Lubbock and the surrounding area among readers who are most interested in the type of farming and industrial opportunities that abound in the area, it was agreed.

Poll Taxes Set Record

approximately 422 poll taxes and about 75 exemptions.

Johnston, in citing the figures, expressed his thanks to all those persons and organizations who aided in bringing the importance of payment of poll taxes before the public, and expressed appreciation to those persons who greatly facilitated the handling of late crowds at the sub-stations.

More than 8,000 poll taxes and exemptions were issued the past week when the city and county experienced one of the worst subfreezing cold waves of the past ten years. Approximately 6,000 poll taxes and exemptions were issued the past two days of the week, Johnston pointed out.

Interest among potential voters apparently is at an all-time high, observers agreed, as the city, county, state and nation planned elections during the year.

Among the elections which persons paying poll taxes will be privileged to vote on during the year are the election of at least two city school trustees on April 3, election of a mayor and at least two city commissioners on April 6, first and second state Democratic primaries on July 24 and August 28, and the general election and state constitutional amendment election on November 2.

Several special elections could be called in the county, including the possibility of one involving amendments to, or complete revision of, Lubbock's city charter.

Tax Showdown

In contrast to the Democrats, the Republicans called for no tax increases, but only cuts.

The Democrats' plan will be laid before the House Monday, shortly before the vital vote which is expected to send the Republican measure to the Senate.

Senate Situation Different

But this may be only waste motion unless the Senate later trims the revenue loss. House leaders said they can pass their bill by a 2 to 1 vote here. They add that they can muster the strength to ride down a veto.

The Senate prospects are different. Republicans there concede they need the support of such Democrats as Senators McClellan, George of Georgia and Byrd of Virginia to round out the necessary two-thirds to beat a veto. They already have the backing of some Democrats, including Senators Edwin C. Johnson of Colorado and O'Daniel of Texas.

Heart Attack During Football Chat Claims Dallas Resident

DALLAS, Jan. 31 (AP)—John A. Monroe, 46, Dallas insurance man and former member of the Southern Methodist university football team, died of a heart attack today while chatting about football in the office of Coach Matty Bell at SMU.

Monroe was to have been honored as president of the Great National Life President's and Leaders club Tuesday on the insurance company's 20th anniversary. A meeting will be held in memorium.

He was national committeeman of the Texas Association of Life Underwriters.

Monroe was born in Roxton, Lamar county, in 1901, and spent his boyhood in Paris, Texas, where he was graduated from Paris High school.

Jet-Powered Engine Passes Sonic Speed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (U.P.)—The Navy said tonight that a new ram jet engine—the largest ever flown—has gone "far into the supersonic" speed range.

The new "flying stovepipe" has power "considerably in excess" of the 14,000 horsepower of the largest four-engine planes, the Navy said.

This was the first formal announcement the Navy has made on the ram-jet engine developments since it sent a "small" 70-pound model hurtling into the supersonic range at 1,500 miles-per-hour in June, 1946.

Pound for pound, the new model delivers 25 times the power of the best conventional engine which is a 5,000-horsepower one belonging to the Air Force.

The new ram jet, a duct shaped like a stovepipe and open at both ends, completed its successful test flights at the naval ordnance test station, in Yokern, Calif., the Navy said.

The ram jet is intended ultimately to power guided missiles. Because it has no moving parts and can be produced rapidly and cheaply, it is considered especially suitable for expendable missiles.

Search Continues For Gunmen Suspected In Sherman Robbery

SHERMAN, Jan. 31. (AP)—A search continued today for two gunmen accused of robbing a Sherman family of $12,000 in cash and jewels.

Reid Galbreth, Sherman automobile dealer, told police the men took $7,000 in cash and $5,000 in jewelry from his house last night. He said they left him, his wife, and two small children, tied up on the floor.

Shotton, Greenberg Mentioned Among Successors Of Pennock

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 31 (U.P.)—Burt Shotton and Hank Greenberg both were mentioned prominently as possible successors to Herb Pennock as general manager of the Philadelphia Phillies today following the sudden death of the one-time Yankee pitching star.

Pennock died yesterday of a cerebral hemorrhage two hours after he collapsed in the lobby of the Waldorf-Astoria hotel in New York, where he was attending a National league meeting. National League President Ford Frick was at his bedside when he died.

ARCADIA, Calif., Jan. 31 (AP)—Flashco won the $100,000 Santa Anita Maturity today before 57,500 fans at Santa Anita park.

Dr. E. H. Ijams Is Speaker At Church

Dr. E. H. Ijams, former president of David Lipscomb college at Nashville, Tenn., presented the second in a series of lectures on "Training For Christian Parenthood" last night at Broadway Church of Christ.

Speaking on "Life's Center," Dr. Ijams said that "the home is the real index to the strength and stability of a nation. You cannot judge a country by its banks, factories, schools, churches or armies, but you can judge its prospects by its attitude toward marriage, home and family."

He pointed out that the population of our country has increased about 300 per cent since 1870 and, during the same time, divorces have increased 2,000 per cent.

"The youth of today have a God given right to know the sanctities of home and family," he stated.

Dr. Ijams will speak this morning at the church at 8:30 and 10:45 o'clock on the subject of "The Home As a Career for Men As Well As For Women." His subject for tonight's lecture at 7:30 o'clock will be "You Can Have A Happy Home If—."

Missing Plane

when his plane—a B-17 Flying Fortress—burned. He was found by Horst Kupski, former German air force pilot, working for a French farmer on the mountain. The German removed his own shoes, coat and hat and put them on the American.

Condition Is Fair

The fortress crashed yesterday just after its crew had sighted the wreckage of an air force C-47 transport which went down Tuesday. Twelve Americans, including three women and five children, died aboard the transport.

Doctors described LaSalle's condition as fair. When his condition improves he will be flown to the American Army hospital in Frankfurt, Germany.

Most Of Bodies Removed

There were 10 crewmen in all aboard the fortress which crashed near the summit of 6,000-foot Mount Cheval Blanc. Searchers said another fortress crewman lived through the crash but died en route to the hospital at Digne, 75 miles northeast of Marseille.

All bodies of the fortress victims have been recovered. Three bodies still remained in the wreckage of the transport which crashed while on a flight from Istres airbase, near Marseille, to Udine, Italy. The women and children passengers were on the last leg of a trip from the United States to join their soldier husbands and fathers in Trieste.

Victims Identified

Air Force headquarters in Frankfurt identified the transport passengers as:

Mrs. Rosaline Moak and her children, Gifford, jr., 5, Mark K., 2½, and Verna E., 1, of Worcester, Otsego county, New York. They are the family of Chief Warrant Officer Gifford E. Moak.

Mrs. Garnette B. Sanders and son, William M., 3. They are the wife and child of S/Sgt. Welch Sanders of Memphis, Tenn.

Mrs. Shirley G. Martin and son, Benjamin, jr., 1, the wife and son of T/Sgt. Benjamin Martin, Princeton, N. C.

Four crewmen lost their lives in the transport crash. The radio operator, who was not previously identified, was listed as Cpl. Robert M. Hermanoski of Manticoke, Pa.

FLIGHT ASSISTANT DIES

NORFOLK, Va., Jan. 31 (AP)—Capt. John T. Daniels, 74, of Manteo, N. C., who assisted the Wright brothers in the first successful airplane flight at Kill Devil hill 44 years ago, died tonight in a local hospital. It was Daniels who held down one of the wings of the Wright plane on Dec. 17, 1908, until the proper time for the craft to be freed for flight.

Gandhi's Cremation

prayers. Rose petals, garlands and blossoms fell like a shower amid the commotion as people fought to get closer.

Many times panic threatened, and police and the military used rough measures to keep back the throng.

Close friends and Devadas poured gallons of ghee, an oil made from purified butter, on the logs piled on a three-foot-high brick platform.

True to Hindu tradition, Devadas then walked about the pyre three times to symbolize the final cutting of mortal ties between father and son.

Flames Leap Brightly

With tears flowing freely, Devadas then applied the coals.

He was spared the ordeal of some Hindu funerals of placing the fire directly on his father's chest above the heart.

More ghee was poured from earthen and brass vessels, and the flames leaped brightly. More logs were heaped over the body, which from then on was hidden from view.

The crowd pressed to within two feet of the flames, seeking to grab bits of ash and charred wood as souvenirs. This was stopped by the military who feared the nearest would be pushed into the flames.

Officials Attend Cremation

After the fire had burned down, Devadas and a brother, Ramadas, a business man at Nagpur, bathed in the river as required by their religion. They had fasted since the hour of death but now could eat.

At the cremation were the entire cabinet and Governor General Earl Mountbatten and Lady Mountbatten.

It was 11:30 a. m. when the body was borne out of the mansion of G. D. Birla, millionaire business man where Gandhi died, and the procession began its slow march along the five-mile circuitous route to the burning grounds.

A large force of Gurkha infantry marched at the head with eight of the governor general's armored fighting vehicles.

Contanzi then went outside of Carlson's cabin, walked 100 feet and killed himself with the deer rifle, Anderson said. Contents of Contanzi's note were not available.

One Killed, Three Injured In Flames

HOUSTON, Jan. 31 — Four members of the Joseph Pellet family were burned, one fatally, when fire of undetermined origin destroyed their two-story brick home shortly before 8 a. m. today.

Carlton Pellet, 8, a son, died in the fire. His mother and father were critically burned but are expected to recover, while a second son, Andrew Pellet, 3, was burned slightly about the right hand and back. Another child, 14-months-old Beta Jo, escaped injury.

The father, mother and two children were forced to jump or be dropped from the second floor where the family were sleeping.

Carlton's body was not found until the fire had been extinguished.

It took about 45 minutes for firemen to extinguish the blaze after which the eight-year-old son's body was found. Justice Ragan said the youth died of burns and suffocation.

Rerouting Of U.S. Highway In New Mexico To Be Reconsidered

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—The Public Roads administration agreed today to reconsider its plan to reroute Highway 66 in eastern New Mexico between Tucumcari and the New Mexico-Texas border, Senator Chavez (R-NM) said.

The New Mexico Highway commission opposes the proposed new route, which would mean bypassing San Jon.

Chavez said he felt that "final determination will be made within the near future and that San Jon will not be by-passed."

Reconsideration was agreed on at a meeting between U. S. Public Roads commissioner Thomas McDonald, Henry Eager of Tucumcari, New Mexico state senator, and M. R. Prestridge, the New Mexico Highway commissioner.

No Trace Of Large Plane Found After Crash Report Is Made

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 31 (AP)—The Tennessee highway patrol tonight said it heard a large plane had crashed in flames near Tiptonville, Tenn., but three hours later no wreckage had been found.

No commercial or military planes were reported overdue in the area.

Capt. Ben (Red) Gore of the U. S. engineers said he saw a plane in trouble in that area late this afternoon. It was a small one, he said.

Two search parties from the Lake county sheriff's office scoured the isolated area where the crash was reported and found nothing. Their search was abandoned at 9 p. m. (CST).

No other applications have been received for the school, which was set up to comply with a United States Supreme court decision ordering Oklahoma to grant equal and immediate educational opportunities to Mrs. Ada Lois Sipuel Fisher, 23-year-old negro.

Special Session Asked

Mrs. Fisher refused to enroll and has taken her fight back to the Supreme court where Monday the high tribunal is expected to consider her latest petition requesting the University of Oklahoma be forced to admit her to its law school.

State Representative Harold R. Carey, Oklahoma City, today asked Gov. Roy J. Turner to call a special session of the Oklahoma legislature to consider the negro educational problem.

Carey claimed the board of regents for higher education "cannot cope with the negro school segregation problem" and the attorney general "has tossed in the sponge."

Six Men Killed In British Air Crash

LONDON, Jan. 31 (U.P.)—A Royal Air Force Lancaster on a routine training flight from the Middle East crashed near Marseille today and six of the 14 men aboard were killed, the air ministry announced.

The big plane crashed just outside Istres airport, in southern France, the ministry said it had been advised.

In addition to the six killed, one man was injured seriously and three slightly. The others were unhurt.

Prominent Houston Attorney Dies At Home After Illness

HOUSTON, Jan. 31. (AP)—Cleveland W. Croom, 64, prominent Houston attorney and former president of the El Paso Bar association, died at his home here tonight after a long illness.

A member of the law firm of Croom and Croom, he had practiced law for 30 years in El Paso before moving to Houston in 1939. He was El Paso county attorney in 1912-13.

He was a graduate of the universities of Arkansas and Virginia.

Croom is survived by his widow; three sons, John A. Croom, C. W. Croom, Jr., both of Houston, and Wilber C. Croom, Reno, Nev., and two brothers, Sam G. Croom, Houston and John Croom, Columbus, Miss.

Funeral arrangements are pending.

Final showing of the W. G. McMillan African film was held in Senior High school auditorium last night with approximately 1,200 persons attending, bringing total attendance for the series of showings to approximately 7,000. W. C. O'Mara spoke briefly and introduced L. E. Davis, president of the Kiwanis club, sponsor of the show. Funds derived go to the Kiwanis Boys and Girls fund. W. G. McMillan, sr., gave the commentary as the color film was shown.

Mrs. R. E. Smith, 20, of 3920 Twenty-second street suffered painful injuries early Saturday night when she fell from a car in motion. She was admitted for emergency treatment at West Texas hospital at 6:30 p.m. received treatment for bruises and abrasions of the face, hands, arms and right shoulders, and was released.

Police said this was one "for the book." They entered in their official record this notation: "1:37 a.m., Saturday—Found suspect asleep in lobby of ____ hospital; nurse said he had caught on fire; suspect jailed as a vagrant."

The sixth showing of the W. G. McMillan family's African adventures motion picture, postponed from Wednesday due to the gas shortage, was shown last night to an estimated crowd of 1,300 persons, L. E. (Jack) Davis, president of the Kiwanis club which is sponsoring the shows, announced.

At the election held on December 2, 1947, an aggregate amount of $4,924,000.00 Revenue Bonds were authorized by the voters for the purpose of improving, enlarging, extending and repairing the City's Electric Light, Water and Sewer System, as follows:

$2,185,000.00 for the City's Electric Light System.

$2,313,000.00 for the City's Waterworks System.

$426,000.00 for the City's Sanitary Sewer System.

However, the election order and notice specified that if the bonds for the above three purposes were approved by the voters, the bonds will be issued as one series to be known as "City of Lubbock, Texas, Electric Light System Revenue Bonds", and that the principal and interest on the bonds are to be payable "solely from the revenues of the City's Electric Light System." The bonds, so voted, were authorized under the General Laws of the State of Texas, particularly Articles 1111 et seq., Revised Civil Statutes of 1925, as amended, and will be "an exclusive first lien on and pledge of said revenues of the City's Electric Light System after deduction of the reasonable expenses of operating and maintaining said Electric Light System as said expenses are defined by statute." That aggregate amount of $4,924,000.00 Electric Light System Revenue Bonds were so voted to mature over a period of years not to exceed twenty years from their date.

The funds from the sale of the $1,850,000.00 "City of Lubbock, Texas Electric Light System Revenue Bonds", being offered for sale on February 26, 1948, will be used as follows:

$650,000.00 for improvement of City's Waterworks System.

$300,000.00 for improvement of City's Sanitary Sewer System.

$900,000.00 for improvement of City's Electric Light System.

The additional bonds of this series, in the amount of $3,074,000 will be issued in an orderly manner over a period of years as the funds may be needed. The bonds will be issued so that the net revenue from the Electric Light System will at all times show at least one and one-half times coverage after deducting the principal and interest requirements of the bonds, then outstanding.

CONDITIONS OF SALE

Sealed bids should be addressed to Miss Lavenia Williams, City Secretary of the City of Lubbock, Texas, and must be in the hands of the City Secretary not later than 2:00 o'clock p. m. on February 26, 1948.

The bonds will be sold in one block, requiring the bids submitted to be for all or none of the bonds.

Bidders are requested to specify the rate of interest the bonds will bear, but split rate bids involving more than two coupon rates on either one of the issues of bonds described above will not be considered. Coupon rates must be in multiples of ¼ of 1%.

No bid involving a coupon rate of more than 3½% on the $445,000.00 General Obligation Bonds will be considered, and no bid involving a coupon rate of more than 3¾% on the $1,850,000 issue of Electric Light System Revenue Bonds will be considered. The above rates are the maximum set out in the election order.

All bids must be submitted on a form provided by the City, which form may be obtained in the office of the City Secretary; and each bid must be accompanied by a Certified or Cashier's Check on a Texas Bank, payable to the City of Lubbock, Texas, in the amount of $45,900.00. This check will be considered as a Good Faith deposit and the check of the successful bidder will be retained by the City pending delivery of the bonds.

The bidder must agree to accept delivery of and make payment for the bonds at the American National Bank of Austin, Texas.

The City will furnish the successful bidder a complete certified copy of the entire proceedings had in connection with the issuance of the bonds, together with the final, unqualified, approving legal opinion of Dumas & Huguenin, Attorneys of Dallas, Texas. Any other opinion desired by the purchaser will be obtained and paid for by him.

The City reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

MARKET IN SMALL GAINS

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (AP)—The stock market today emerged from a good recovery week and its first losing January since 1941 with considerable hesitancy in evidence.

Buying throughout the week, still mainly professional, was based partly on the belief that the list was entitled to a substantial technical comeback after its lengthy retreat. Doubts regarding the course of business later in the year caused numerous customers to hold aloof or trim accounts.

In the final sluggish session The Associated Press 60-stock composite was up .1 of a point at 63.8. For the week there was a gain of 1.3 points and for the month a loss of 1.9. The number of issues registering during the day was 660, the same as last Saturday which was the narrowest performance since last Nov. 15. Of the total, 235 rose, 217 fell and 208 were unchanged. Volume for the short stretch was 290,000 shares, a minimum since Nov. 3. It compared with 300,000 a week ago.

The week's turnover was 4,754,640 shares, a 6-day low since last May, against 5,143,720 the week before. For January the figure was 20,217,606 shares versus 27,606,272 in December and 23,556,803 in the initial 1947 period which was a bottom for that month since 17,811,606 in 1944.

On the day Dupont added a point at 180½. Western Union ¾ at 20¼ (on hopes a spring strike had been averted). Firestone Tire ¾ at 48¼. City Stores ¾ at 19¼ and Elastic Stop Nut ⅜ at 6 (a 1947-48 peak) on an extra dividend. Oils, steels, rails and motors were narrowly uneven.

Bonds were fairly steady.

AVERAGE PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 31 (AP) — The average price of middling 15-16ths-inch cotton today at ten designated southern spot markets was unchanged at 34.65 cents a pound; average for the past thirty market days 36.30; middling 7/8ths-inch average 32.58.

PIONEER DAYS RECALLED

RAWLINS, Wyo. (U.P.)—A model of the old Wyoming town of Saratoga as it was in 1879 has been presented to the Carbon County museum. The contributor, Joseph Wagoner, Platte Valley pioneer, sent an account of life in the old town at the time of the Meeker massacre across the state line in Colorado along with the model.

In 1916, one of the most serious causes of U.S. auto accidents was "cranking."

Decrease In Amount Of Money In Hands Of Public Sets Record

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31. (AP) — The amount of money in the hands of the public has dropped by more than a billion dollars since Christmas, officials said today. They called it the biggest drop of the kind ever to occur in so short a period.

Government economists said it may indicate that rising costs of living are forcing people to take money from "hiding places"—bureau drawers, mattresses, socks, etc.—for current spending needs.

But they added that it also might reflect only an unusually large decline of the "seasonal nature which normally follows after Christmas. At this time, every year people have paid large sums to merchants and the latter have returned them to the banking system, putting the funds temporarily out of circulation.

To Continue Study

If the decline continues through February, it will be evidence that the pinch of higher living costs is the dominant cause of the drop, the economists said.

Official reports show there was a $125,000,000 fall during the week ended last Wednesday in the amount of "money in circulation." This term includes all money outside the central banks, whether it actually is "circulating" or is "hidden" or even "lost." That left the total amount in the hands of the public $28,086,000,000.

Significantly, that is $179,000,000 less than the amount outstanding at the same time last year. The significance arises from the fact that there has been a big rise in current employment, wage rates, production and prices—all factors which normally increase "circulating" money.

The fact that the total has decreased in the face of these factors is further evidence that many people have had to turn loose at least part of the money in their "hiding places," say the economists.

Ceremony Will Mark New Era For Warship

NORFOLK, Va., Feb. 1 (AP)—The celebration of San Jacinto Day, April 21, in Texas this year will bring to an end the sea-faring life of the last of the old class battleships still in active service with the United States Navy.

Not like the unglorified endings of other battleships, such as the Idaho, Wyoming, New York, New Mexico and Nevada, which were sold for scrap, the USS Texas will be decommissioned and made into a historical relic for thousands of Texans to visit in the years to come. Through the efforts of these people, sufficient funds were obtained to convert the ship and place her on the historical San Jacinto battlefield park within the shadows of the San Jacinto monument and museum.

The USS Texas is the first vessel of the U. S. Navy to be purchased by a state to be used as a memorial. Several months ago the Navy offered to convert the USS Mississippi, now an auxiliary gunnery training ship with the Atlantic fleet, into a similar war memorial for display at Biloxi, but some quick figuring added up to a large sum, and Mississippi state officials turned the offer down.

A symbol to the men who have served in her during 30 odd years of commission, including two world conflicts to maintain freedom, the Texas will be placed at the battlefield where the union's largest state won her independence from Mexico during the battle of San Jacinto, April 21, 1836.

New Baylor President To Attend First Baptist Church In Waco

WACO, Jan. 31. (AP) (U.P.) — Dr. W. R. White, new president of Baylor university, said today he had reached a decision on the first problem that confronted him after he accepted the school job.

He announced that he and Mrs. White would join the First Baptist church of Waco at services Sunday morning.

All of Waco's Baptist churches had bid actively for the Whites' membership since the churchman-educator left an Austin pulpit to take over as Baylor prexy.

Dr. White said he had reached the decision on a basis of precedent. Every president of Baylor since the university moved here in 1881, he noted, had been a member of the First church.

Trustees and faculty members will confer Monday on plans for formal inauguration ceremonies for Dr. White.

Meanwhile, he told an informal press conference today that the teacher shortage is the most critical facing Baylor now.

"We're paying for the period when other professions offered more opportunity than teaching," he said.

Woolworth Heiress Improved After Abdominal Operation

BERN, Switzerland, Jan. 31. (AP) —The condition of Princess Igor Troubetskoy, the former Barbara Hutton, became critical today and she underwent a second abdominal operation. Her doctors said she then showed some improvement.

A sharp rise of temperature last night caused her doctors to express anxiety. They said her first intestinal operation apparently had not been "entirely successful" and that as a result a second minor operation was performed.

The physicians said tonight she was in no "immediate danger" but another major operation might have to be performed. The Woolworth heiress became seriously ill last week from an intestinal complaint.

Tech Students Design Outdoor Theater For Park In Contest

An outdoor theater and acousticon in Mackenzie state park may eventually result from a contest sponsored by the Lubbock Building Construction Trades council seeking the best design.

Entries in the contest are on display on the second floor of the engineering building at Texas Technological college, with 18 drawings having been submitted so far, C. J. Lightholder, business agent for the council, said Saturday.

All of the drawings are by architecture students at the college and some of them show a great deal of skill and ingenuity, Lightholder said. The contest started about a month ago and will terminate within two or three weeks, but as yet no date has been set for judging the designs and awarding prizes. The council is offering three prizes for the best work. First prize will be $50, second prize $25 and third prize $10.

Site Described

The entries will be judged by a jury consisting of two members of the trades council, one professional architect and two members of the college faculty. Some of the points to be considered are simplicity, economy, durability and the best use of the space provided.

Site for the proposed pavilion, which has been approved by the park board, is centrally located in the park, adjacent to the roadway on the northeast side of Yellow House creek, and bounded on the north by a natural bowl formed by the north bank of the canyon. The site has as much land as is necessary to provide for large audiences and a careful study will be made to utilize the space for its maximum capacity of approximately 30,000 people together with ample parking space for automobiles.

Labor Furnished

The contest grew out of the wish of the Lubbock Building Trades Council to provide as a gift to the City of Lubbock and the State Park Board an outdoor theater and acousticon for use by town and area residents. The council will furnish all of the necessary labor free of charge. In line with their policy of keeping the cost to a minimum, the contest was sponsored in an effort to obtain the best possible design at the lowest possible cost. One stipulation is that each designer shall provide an estimate of the quanities of each type of material contemplated in his drawing.

Members of the committee in charge of the contest and who will have a part in selecting the most suitable design include Mr. Lightholder, A. H. Kilpatrick, business agent for the carpenter's local union and Jerry R. Holeman, business agent for the electrician's local union.

Houstonians Oppose Enactment Of Zoning Law In Straw Vote

HOUSTON, Jan. 31. (AP)—On the basis of unofficial and incomplete returns from a special "straw vote" election, Houstonians voted approximately 2 to 1 against the city council's adopting a zoning ordinance.

Returns from 57 precincts at 7 p. m. gave 2615 votes against the plan and 1120 for.

Houston is the only city of 100,000 or more population without a zoning ordinance.

Four other issues held comfortable margins on the basis of incomplete returns.

Approval of the recently enacted state civil service regulations for city firemen and policemen was leading 2779 to 1538, while a $3,000,500 Harris county bond issue election to supply additional funds for construction of a vehicular tunnel beneath the Houston ship channel at Pasadena held its necessary two-thirds majority, 2,906 to 1626.

The couple is to be at home in Lubbock.

The Woman's Angle
By Margaret Turner

HOW fresh can a young person be over the telephone without being considered disrespectful and what can be done about it?

One of the new recreational rackets in town seems to be for a gang to get together and call a housewife, asking impudent questions and calling again and again if she says she is busy and has no inclination to carry on the conversation.

The reader who telephoned about it says from their voices the young persons are between 16 and 18 years old, not the junior high school set which had a field day over the wires several years ago.

Service Read In Lorenzo For Couple

THE marriage of Miss Norma Jean Schuler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Schuler, and R. P. Nicholson, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Nicholson, all of Lorenzo, was solemnized at the Schuler home Tuesday night at 6:30 o'clock. Rev. George H. Bryant, pastor of the Lorenzo Methodist church, read the ceremony before an altar of candelabra, gladioli trees and fern.

Mrs. Aubray Smith played "All My Love" and "Ah Sweet Mystery of Life" and offered "I Love you Truly" during the ceremony. Candles were lighted by Ted Schuler, Jr., a Tech student, and Warren Schuler, brothers of the bride.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an off white two piece faille dress with white and spring green accessories. Her short fitted jacket was fastened down the front with self covered buttons and was styled with a two tiered tunic over a swirling circular skirt. She carried a white Bible topped with orchids surrounded by split carnations and showered with white satin streamers.

Carries Out Traditions

For something old, the bride wore a cameo pin which had belonged to her maternal great grandmother; for something borrowed, she carried an aunt's lace handkerchief; for something blue, she wore a dainty blue satin garter made by an aunt; and for good luck, an aunt of the bridegroom placed a coin in her shoe.

Miss Carleen Clary, a club sister of the bride at Texas Technological college and maid of honor wore an aqua crepe dress and carried a colonial bouquet. Wayland Catching of Lorenzo attended the bridegroom as best man.

At a repection which was given for a few friends and relatives, the bride's table was laid with a handmade cross stitched linen cloth and centered with an arrangement of yellow carnations and tapers. Mrs.

Templeton Will Play Concerto

WEEKEND SWANK . . Sheer crinkled Swiss cotton makes this summer dress and jacket, by Muriel King.

Alec Templeton, pianist and composer and star of the radio and concert stage, will make two guest appearances with the Lubbock Symphony orchestra on Feb. 12 and 13, at the Lubbock High school auditorium.

With the symphony orchestra, Templeton will play Greig's Piano Concerto in four movements. After intermission he will give piano impressions and improvisations.

Tickets will go on sale Monday at the Varsity bookstore, South Plains Music store, and Adair Music store. If a stamped and self-addressed envelop is enclosed with a check for tickets, they may still be ordered by mail. Symphony ticket holders will be admitted by season membership cards on Thursday night only. These cards sell for $2.40 and $1.80. Tickets for the center section, downstairs and balcony, for the second night will be $2.80; for the side sections, $2.40, and under the balcony $1.80.

Mail orders are to be addressed to Lubbock Symphony Orchestra, P. O. Box 894.

Mr. Templeton, who was heard first in the United States by radio in the early Thirties, built up a national following before appearing on a concert stage. The blind composer was born in Wales and studied and lived in London. He has toured successfully in England, France, Holland and Germany, but has become so popular in this country that he is considered by many to be an American entertainer.

Lubbock Symphony orchestra will rehearse Monday night at 7:30 o'clock in the First Methodist church parlor. During rehearsals Miss Carolyn Cole, Mrs. James Vickers and Mrs. Bailey Ireland have taken the piano parts which Templeton will do.

Superintendent Will Be Speaker At P-TA

Guest speaker for Thirty-Sixth Street Parent-Teacher association Thursday at 3:45 o'clock at the school will be Supt. R. W. Matthews.

Through the Coral Doors

Howdy folks,

Things looked pretty warm this week behind those Coral Doors on Broadway and N — and sure enough, they were. Everybody was petting that good old reliable coal furnace. The girls even begged to shovel coal into its beautiful throat. In fact, I doubt if it will even be as much trouble to keep a fire any more.

Guess Bill is in New York by now seeing the sights or most likely, looking for a place to live. The girls all say he has to act as resident buyer; so you may see new things in Lubbock amost before New York sees them.

James who is taking Bill's place is also leaving for a flying trip to Florida. No, the Decorators Studio won't be paralized. The girls did a bang-up job of it during the war without any help from the men and they can do it now. However, both Bill and James will be very welcome home and, the girls are just hoping that during this week a certain Tech professor can be drafted into doing some of the harder jobs — could be.

Between stoking the furnace, everybody has had fun this week hunting up items for Dollar Day. It's sort of a game and you'll have fun, too, Monday on your visit to Corner of Broadway and N.

We may run out of gas and yelp about the taxes, but I've a feeling we have more freedom, live better, do more griping, and pay less taxes than any other nation. So I'm still for Uncle Sam—taxes and all. See you Monday morning at the Decorators Studio on the Corner of Broadway and N.

company's products were named was re-told. The late Mr. Pinkney had tried unsuccessfully to find a day he was talking to someone already had laid claim to it. One day he was talking t osomeone about his son, of whom he was very proud. "My son, Ray . . ." he began. His wife interrupted him with "That's it; Son Ray, only we'll change the O to U and make it Sun-Ray." And thus was born a name to become famous over the Panhandle . . . If the young woman who wanted to know the name of the National women's tennis champion will get in touch with us, we can tell her now . . . Wedding ceremonies may be recorded now and brides and bridegrooms may later hear their "I do's" as placed on discs. It seems that a recording van and microphone will be as much a part of a wedding "must" as a photographer.

THIRTY FOR EUBY

IN thinking this would be the last Sunday column of type our longtime friend, Alfred M. Eubanks, would place in the page, we had a tinge of sadness that one invariably feels when an agreeable, conscientious worker leaves an establishment. You see Euby has been working at the Avalanche-Journal composing office during the entire time of our connection with the editorial department, and week in, week out, year in, year out he has been on the job when we checked the society pages.

He's a mild, quiet sort of a little man and as acting foreman Euby has seen us through different phases of growing up and growing older with the same degree of indifference and lack of temperament for each era. A number of years ago when it required dozens of telephone calls, cajoling of hostesses and sweat from the brow to get enough copy to fill one Sunday page, Euby met our anxiety with the same attitude that he did during last June when we discovered that writing and editing dozens and dozens of weddings each Sunday left us a little shaky.

Perhaps he seemed quiet to us because we did most of the talking, but we'll always remember that his answer to most of our profound philosophy was "Oh yeah?" followed with a light laugh.

Not being a haywire type of individual, Euby didn't scold when we lost a headline or failed to check an error on the matrix and it had to be re-rolled. He didn't laugh when we raised our head too suddenly when leaning under the light frame and bumped the stars out of our eyes or stumbled over the hell box at which he was chunking type slugs.

"We've gotten this section out before, we'll do it today" seemed his attitude and he was always right about that.

Betty Jean Parr Is Wed In Home Vows

Miss Betty Jean Parr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. O. Parr of Meadow, became the bride as A. C. Fillingim, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Fillingim of Tahoka, in a double ring ceremony read Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the home of the bride's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Russell of Rt. 4 Lubbock. Rev. C. E. Strickland, pastor of the First Baptist church of New Home, performed the service before an altar of pink gladioli and fern.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a dress of winter white wool with black accessories and carried a white Bible with a bouquet of orchids and carnations. For something old she wore a ruby belonging to an aunt. Something borrowed was a gold and onyx necklace belonging to the bridegroom's sister. For something blue she chose the traditional blue garter. A penny was worn in her shoe for good luck. Miss Patricia Parr, sister of the bride and maid of honor, wore a brown wool dress with gold accessories and a corsage of white carnations. Bobby Fillingim, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man.

Reception Honors Couple

Thirty-seven close friends and relatives attended the reception held in the home immediately after the ceremony. Fruit punch and a two-tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom, were served from a table laid with a lace cloth and centered with yellow and white carnations. Mrs. Joe Simmons, aunt of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Doyle Roberts assisted in serving.

The bride is a graduate of Eunice, N. M., High school and was formerly employed in Lubbock. Mr. Fillingim graduated from New Home school and attended Wayland college in Plainview.

After a wedding trip to Austin, the couple will be at home on a farm near New Home. For traveling the bride wore a gray wool suit with black accessories.

Lorenzo Wedding

Leon Keene and Mrs. Joe Jennings, aunts of the bride, served punch and individual bell shaped cakes. Judy Altman, niece of the bride, presided at the guest register.

For a wedding trip, the bride wore a cinnamon gabardine suit with brown accessories and an orchid corsage. The couple is to be at home in Lorenzo where Mr. Nicholson is associated with the Jennings Dry Goods store.

Both the bride and bridegroom are graduates of Lorenzo High school. Mrs. Nicholson attended Texas Technological college where she was a pledge of Las Vivaranchas Social club and Mr. Nicholson is a graduate of Tech, where he was a member of Center social club. He served three and one-half years with the United States Marines.

Prof. Emmy Zweybruck, Artist, To Direct Workshop On Fabric And Paper Design

Professor Emmy Zweybruck, teacher, designer and artist, will direct a lecture, demonstration and workshop program on fabric and paper design at Texas Technological college Monday and Tuesday.

The public is invited to attend her two special illustrated lectures, which will emphasize local needs. "Pattern and Design in Nature and the Arts" will be her subject Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Aggie Memorial auditorium on the Tech Campus. Miss Claudia Neelley, art instructor at Lubbock High school, will be in charge of arrangements for the address to be given by Prof. Zweybruck Tuesday at 4 p. m. in the Lubbock High school auditorium.

Special classes, which will be conducted both nights for a limited number of students, have already been filled. Classes will meet in Building 26, north of the home economics building, from 7 to 9:30 o'clock. Instruction will be offered in modern stencil and professional silk screen techniques for fabric and paper decoration. Newly discovered, quick methods for silk screen instruction in the short school art periods will be discussed, and techniques suited to art education will be stressed. Individual character in composition and application of design will be emphasized, and the employment of these methods in school, college and adult group art programs will be explained. Workshop kits for both stencil or silk screen classes, designed by Prof. Zweybruck, which will be used contain all essential materials.

Is On Tour

Miss Elizabeth Hawley, assistant professor of applied arts at Tech, studied with the professor this past summer in Estes Park, Col. Before Christmas Miss Hawley instructed an art workshop composed of applied arts majors in the technique of screen printing greeting cards.

Professor Zweybruck is making her present tour under the sponsorship of the American Crayon company. The applied Arts department of the Division of Home Economics of Tech is sponsoring the workshop, under the direction of Miss Martye Poindexter, head of the department of applied arts.

A graduate of the Vienna State School or Arts and Crafts, Prof. Zweybruck has been consultant to the art departments of manufacturers of textiles, wall paper, leather and paper products in Europe and the United States. After practicing at the Vienna Workshop with Joseph Hoffman, she founded her own school of Arts and Crafts to train students for creative work and professional careers in the field of applied art.

In 1931 Prof. Zweybruck came to this country for the first time, and for the next nine years spent most of her time traveling from the United States to Europe for a few months stay. While abroad she worked for large textile manufacturers in Switzerland, Sweden, France and Germany. In 1939 the designer made New York her home and joined the educational department of the American Crayon company. Through their new textile designing techniques, she discovered many new approaches to applied art. She lectures, instructs and gives demonstrations at American Crayon, Columbia university, the Universities of Southern California and Texas, many state colleges, boards of education and professional art schools. She still free lances for department stores, candy concerns and paper companies.

Design Is Modern

Professor Zweybruck describes her designs as "modern or abstract and quite independent from nature." Her original designs are done in water-color and her colors are clear and pure. She finds little use for mixed colors and rarely uses greys or any of the greyed tones. Magneta and orange are among her favorite colors.

In her book, "Hands at Work," Prof. Zweybruck says, "Every good work of art is the result of the personality of the artist and the character of the technique and material. As the old Chinese story says: 'The heavenly soul of the material and the heavenly soul of the artist meet and become fused'."

Phyllis Jeanne Reno, Mr. Barr Are To Wed

Miss Phyllis Jeanne Reno, a junior in the home economics division, Texas Technological college, is to become the bride of W. E. Barr, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Kenneth Barr of Chama, N. M., Feb. 22 in a ceremony to be head at Phillips First Baptist church.

The betrothal and approaching marriage were announced last week by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Reno.

Mr. Barr, a graduate of Cornell university, is employed as an engineer by the Phillips Petroleum company at the Borger refinery.

Needlers Present Gifts To Hostess

Present were Mesdames D. D. Stacy, G. L. Catlett, Lewis Akins, J. W. McWilliams, O. B. Wright, Floise Drake, Will Stacy and Garland Stokes.

The next meeting will be Feb. 11, with Mrs Wright.

Date Slated For Music Festival

Junior Music festival, sponsored by the National and Texas Federation of Music clubs for the seventh district, will be held March 20, in Quanah, Lubbock and Hereford. It has been divided into these three sections in order to accommodate all juniors who wish to enter.

Mrs. A. C. Bowden, District Junior counselor, will be in charge of the Junior festival in Lubbock. Approximately 150 juniors are expected to enter from cities in the southern part of District seven.

Music teachers, who have junior club members in their studios, and counselors of Junior Music clubs are urged to encourage young musicians to enter the festival, which will be open to all juniors under six through 18 years of age for vocal and instrumental solos, ensemble groups, hymn playing and memory.

Federation festivals are provided by the National Federation of Music clubs for its Junior membership under a system of Rating according to Merit as an incentive toward higher musical standards. "Not to earn a prize, nor defeat an opponent, but to pace each other on the road to excellence," should be the goal of the participants.

Persons desiring further information should write Miss Mattie Mae Swisher, Director of Junior Festivals, 123 West Fifth street, Hereford. Application blanks, properly filled out, and entrance fees should be mailed to Miss Swisher by March 12.

Afternoon Wedding To Take Place In Methodist Church

Miss Syble Vanlandingham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Vanlandingham of Enochs, and A. J. Becker, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Becker of Southland, will exchange wedding vows this afternoon at 3 o'clock at First Methodist church. Rev. David Seiberg, Lutheran minister, will read a double ring ceremony before an altar of white Gladioli, greenery and tapers burning in candelabra.

Mrs. Sieberg will play "Because" and "Always" as candles are lighted and during the ceremony and will accompany Rev. Sieberg as he sings "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride will wear a sand colored gabardine suit with brown accessories and a corsage of pink and white rosebuds. For something old and borrowed, she will wear a gold bracelet worn by her mother at her wedding; for something blue, she will wear a blue blouse.

Miss Tressie Lebow of Tulia is to be maid of honor and Bill Becker will serve as best man. Candlelighters are to be Miss Ruby Becker and Miss Margery Becker.

Following the ceremony, a reception will be given in the home of the groom's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Burnell Mueller at 902 Ave. L. The bride's table is to be laid with lace and decorated with an arrangement of daffodils and acacia and a wedding ring cake.

After a wedding trip to New Mexico, the couple will be at home at 1622 Tenth.

Presenting Cherry Meringue for Valentine's Day

Grace Valentine Party With Cherry Cake That's Easy To Make And Good To Eat

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

Cherry Meringue Cake
(Serves 6)

Cake: Two eggs, ½ cup sugar, 2 teaspoons water, ⅛ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon grated lemon rind, ½ cup sifted cake flour.

Separate the eggs; beat the yolks until lemon colored and add the sugar and water slowly. Add the salt to the egg whites and beat until stiff but not dry; fold into the egg yolk mixture. Fold grated lemon rind and sifted flour slowly into the other ingredients.

Pour the batter into an ungreased round, nine - inch heat-resistant glass cake dish. Bake in a slow oven (300 degrees F.) about 45 minutes or until the cake springs back into place after being lightly touched with a finger tip.

Filling: Four tablespoons sugar, 2 tablespoons flour, ½ cup cherry juice, ½ cup water, 1½ cups flour; add the cherry juice and water, stirring until well blended. Cook over direct heat, stirring constantly until thickened. Continue cooking about 7 minutes or until no starchy taste remains. Cool and add the cherries. Place the cherry mixture on top of the cake in the cake dish.

Meringue: One egg white, 2 tablespoons sugar.

Beat the egg white until light and fluffy, add the sugar gradually until the egg white is stiff enough to stand in peaks. Pile the meringue into six mounds on top of the cherry mixture, making an indentation on top of each one in which one or two cherries are placed. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 15 minutes until meringue is lightly browned. Serve at once.

Square And Old-Time Dance Instruction To Be Offered By Lubbock Federation

Lubbock Square Dance federation will offer instructions in square day night at the American Legion and old-time couple dancing Wednesday night at American Legion hall, 910 Texas. The session will begin at 7:30, with couple dances being taught and practiced the early part of the evening. Square dance instruction will follow, along with couple dancing, until 10 o'clock. Tickets are $.25 per person.

The public is invited and it is not necessary to have a complete set to participate, although it is better to come with a partner. Beginners can start at any time, and further instruction will be provided for those who have attended previous classes. Persons desiring additional information should telephone the City Recreation department, 9346.

Instructors this week will be A. D. Montgomery and J. M. Harper, who has recently returned to Lubbock from Abilene, where he and Mrs Harper were members of the Bob Sumrall square dance team.

The dance scheduled for Tuesday night last week was cancelled because of the weather, but the Federation will resume its scheduled dances at the Playmor dance hall on the Slaton highway on Feb. 10, at 8:30 p. m.

Ninety-two persons registered at the last session. Out of town members were from Idalou, Slaton, Tahoka and Post.

The purpose of the Federation is to serve all square dancers and would-be square dancers in Lubbock and nearby towns in every way possible. Inquiries and suggestions are requested.

Continental Air Lines Show Boost In Net Income For 1947

Continental Air Lines realized a net income of $116,411.01 for 1947, equal to 43 cents per share on the 271,905 shares of common stock outstanding, conpared to $17,939.-07, equal to 15 cents per share in 1946 it has been announced by Robert F. Six, president.

Operating revenue reached an all time high, but expenses kept pace, the report showed, and although passenger traffic and revenue dropped 13.98 and 19.10 per cent, respectively, compared to 1946, the company set a new record for air freight and express carried in one year. A total of 175,976 passengers were transported 58,924,510 revenue passenger miles compared to 204,560 who fley 75,618,738 miles in 1946. The company operated a total of 5,320,426 plane miles during the year, continuing its perfect safety record with 14 years of operation without loss of life or injury to passengers while carrying more than 700,000 air travelers during its history.

Continental is to take delivery in March of the first of five 40-passenger, 300-mile-an-hour Convairliners to augment the present fleet of 21-passenger Douglas Skystreamers, Six said. Application has been filed with the CAB for new routes, including transcontinental service between New Orleans and Los Angeles via the present San Antonio-El Paso segment. This would increase the present six-state, 2,911-mile system of 26 cities to a 10-state system totaling 5,886 route miles and serving 43 cities, the report showed.

When excited, or in pain, the hippopotamus actually sweats blood.

AAUW STATE HEAD—Dr. Pearl Ponsford of El Paso, president of the Texas division, American Association of University Women, will pay an official visit to the Lubbock branch Tuesday and will be honored at a tea, with cabinet members as guests. She is past state parliamentarian. A graduate of Wellesley college, Dr. Ponsford is on the faculty at the Texas School of Mines at El Paso.

Two Tentative Dates Set For ABC Rodeo

The American Business club's benefit rodeo for the Lubbock Boys' club, previously scheduled for June 9-12, now has two tentative dates, A. B. Watkins, ABC president, announced Saturday.

The two tentative dates are: June 16-19 or June 23-26.

Last Dec. 12, Alton Taylor, rodeo chairman, had announced that the rodeo had been scheduled for June 9-12, but since that date Post, with whom there was a conflict last year, has announced conflicting dates again.

"We heard there was a lot of hard feelings over the conflict with Post's rodeo last year, therefore we changed our dates so as not conflict with them, even though we had announced our dates prior to Post's announcement," Watkins said. Announcement of the dates were publicized in the Evening Journal, Dec. 12 and Morning Avalanche, Dec. 13.

"We are therefore announcing the two tentative dates for our rodeo so there won't be others conflicting with it over the area," Watkins said. "As soon as final bookings can be made, we will announce a definite selection of one of the two dates."

CONVOYS ORDERED

MANILA, Jan. 31 (AP)—The U. S. Army has ordered its military and civilian personnel to travel in convoys of no less than three jeeps after dark because of the increasing number of robberies, it was learned today.

Texas Seeks Solution To Fuel Shortages After Winter Blast

By MAX B. SKELTON
Associated Press Staff Writer

HOUSTON, Jan. 31.—Texans last week received a good taste of mid-winter fuel shortages, a problem that midwestern and eastern residents anticipate and dread with each approaching winter season.

Texas' most severe cold spell in several years came at a time state officals and oilmen already were worrying over a puzzling shortage of butane and other heating fuels.

But the prolonged stay of ice, snow, sleet and freezing temperatures was too much in many areas for even the state's gigantic natural gas industry and many schools, industrial plants and business houses were closed down to permit a maximum of relief to households.

Outlook Said Hopeful

There were notes of optimism, however, accompanying the situation.

In Washington, Attorney General Tom Clark announced that oil producers and dealers can allocate suppliers during the nation's fuel shortage and that the Justice department will not look on it as breaking anti-trust laws provided there is no "fixing of prices."

In Austin, Governor Beauford Jester said 3,000,000 gallons of butane gas had been released to help solve the acute shortage caused by the Texas cold spell.

In Houston, Humble Oil and Refining company officials announced that the Baytown refinery facilities are being "rearranged" so as to permit the company to make available approximately 1,000,000 gallons of butane and propane as an emergency fuel measure.

Earlier the National Petroleum council had called for increased production of heating oils during the next 60 days, even at the expense of gasoline output.

To Cut Gasoline Output

Humble's announcement pointed out that "as a consequence" of the butane and propane move "a smaller amount of gasoline" would be produced at Baytown.

Clark made his ruling in a letter to Interior Secretary Krug who had advised Clark the petroleum industry has worked out a plan for allocation agreements.

Jester said the 3,000,000 gallons of butane gas being diverted is not from "surplus supplies," adding that there is no surplus and that the "diversions must be made at the sacrifice of industrial users, and in any instances of fuel oil and gasoline used for motor fuel."

The governor named an emergency fuel commission, including Railroad Commissioner William J. Murray, (credited by Jester with having obtained release of the gas), J. H. Winters, state director of public welfare; Col. Homer Garrison, jr., director of public safety, and Dr. George W. Cox, state health officer, to see that the gas is distributed to the place of greatest need.

In Amarillo, Ernest O. Thompson, chairman of the Texas Railroad commission, said Clark's ruling "has made it possible for the oil industry to pool its resources to meet emergency heating oil needs and I feel the industry will meet this challenge for free enterprise to do the job for which free enterprise is best suited."

Texas Production Noted

Texas' oil industry figured prominently in the Oil and Gas Journal's annual review and forecast of the nation's petroleum industry.

Statistically speaking, the report included:

Total U. S. crude production in 1947 was 1,896,679,000 barrels, 7.8 per cent above 1046.

Texas wells produced 848,290,000 barrels in 1947, an increase of 10.9 per cent.

There were 106,159 wells in Texas on Jan. 1, with an average daily production of 21.6 barrels.

Reports from individual operators show that 1948 drillings in Texas will total 11,503 new wells, 2,202 over 1947. Included will be 2,312 wildcats, (417 over last year), and 9,191 development wells (1,785 over last year).

A total of 9,301 new wells were completed in Texas in 1947, including 1,895 wildcats.

The average depth of all wells drilled in Texas last year was 4,411 feet.

The volume of recoverable crude oil known to lie under Texas represents 56.7 per cent of the nation's proven reserves.

State's Reserves Boosted

During 1947 Texas increased its reserves by 1,664,838,000 barrels, having started the year with 11,800,162,000 and ended the year with 13,465,000,000 barrels. During the year 45,180,000 barrels were discovered in new fields, and 2,467,948,000 were discovered through extensions and revisions of old pools. Production totaled 848,290,000 barrels.

Last January 1, Texas' natural gas reserves totaled 95,500,000,000,000 cubic feet, an increase of 9,137,000,000,000 cubic feet over Jan. 1, 1947.

Atty. Gen. Tom Clark has asked the Supreme Court to clarify state and federal jurisdictions in a portion of the oil-rich California tidelands, the court's historic October decision having left to a later date the determination of the exact boundary dividing state and federal jurisdiction . . . For the third week in a row, the nation's daily crude oil production hit a new high level for the week ending Jan. 24, jumping 10,150 barrels to 5,336,287, as compared with 4,671,550 a year ago . . . Texas fields remained unchanged at 2,385,700 barrels daily . . . Contract has been awarded to Morrison Brothers Construction company, Odessa, for laying of 90 miles of 20 inch pipe from Jal, N. M., to Midland, the line being a leg on the Jal-Cushing, Okla., crude oil carrier constructed as an undivided interest by Shell Pipe Line Corp., Empire Pipe Line company, Sinclear Refining and Texas Pipe Line company . . . A new oil field six miles northeast of Woodson, Throckmorton county, is indicated in Cities Service Oil's No. 1 Schlittler which flowed 39.6 gravity oil in seven minutes at a rate of 20 barrels hourly on a drill stem test at 3740-53 feet . . . Oil well completions in Texas for the week ending Jan. 23 totaled 107 to bring the new year's total to 399 as compared with 300 for the same period last year . . . Gas well completions totaled eight for a 1948 total of 41 as compared with 33 last year.

AT 100, HE'S STILL A CRACK SHOT—Although 100 years old, Joseph Bernhard, lifelong small arms expert, is still a crack shot and takes an active part in running his Noe Valley, Calif., gun shop. His eyes are giving him a little trouble and he has put telescopes on several of his favorite rifles, but he can still outshoot many younger rivas. Born in Posen, Poland, in 1848, Bernhard became an expert marksman after being drafted into the German army. He is shown at right, aged 21, after King William of Prussia gave him a medal for outstanding marksmanship. Leaving Germany just before the Franco-Prussian war, 1870, he settled in Canada, then moved to California.

India Leaders Decline Comment On Reasons For Gandhi Slaying

NEW DELHI, Jan. 31 (AP)—Many persons here believe the assassination of Mohandas Gandhi was the work of underground Leftwingers who opposed his efforts to halt Communal bloodshed.

A Cabinet shakeup may come in the wake of complaints from Gandhi's followers that he should have been afforded better protection. Gandhi himself declined such protection.

Nephew Closely Guarded

Government officials are tight lipped on what forces might have been behind the assassination. At this writing they apparently do not know whether the slaying was the result of a highly organized plan which possibly has others marked for death, or was carried out by persons opposed only to Gandhi.

The government appears not to know whether the assassination was the culmination of smoldering resentment among Hindu refugees from Pakistan over efforts to protect Moslems in India, or part of an organized plot to overthrow the "old guard" now in power in the all-India Congress party.

Such a plot might be aimed at the section of the party which followed Gandhi the closest.

The man in the government who was closest to Gandhi is Prime Minister Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru. Gandhi once said Nehru was heir to his leadership in the Congress party. Nehru will be closely guarded until the situation clarifies.

The Indian army has been alerted throughout the country while government officials get their bearings and learn with what forces they have to deal.

Of possible significance is the fact that the Hindu arrested as Gandhi's slayer was not a Hindu refugee from Pakistan and had no known connection with that embittered section of the Indian population.

The Hindustan Times identified the slayer as a member of the Left Wing Hindu Mahasadha party at Poona. Police declined to confirm or deny the story. Gandhi's son, Devadas, is managing editor of the Times.

Gandhi's death leaves the Congress party leadership divided between Nehru and Deputy Prime Minister Vallabhai Patel, known as the Congress' strong man because of his severe policies.

Nehru and Patel have clashed frequently. Gandhi was a buffer between them. But both men say there is no animosity between them.

Gas Consumers File Protests

LAS VEGAS, N. M., Jan. 31. (U.P.)—The city of Las Vegas today held an alternative writ of prohibition against the State Public Service Commission from conducting a scheduled Feb. 3 hearing in Santa Fe on a rate increase application by the Las Vegas Gas Co.

The writ was granted yesterday by Dist. Judge L. E. Armijo, who also ordered the commission to show cause in district court here by Feb. 17 as to why the writ should not be made permanent.

They Represent Users

The writ was sought by the city of Las Vegas and three gas consumers, representing a group of users. Two major contentions were that the gas franchise was granted in July, 1939, and provided for renegotiations at five year intervals. The second was that the PSC was not set up until two years after the franchise was granted.

Prior to receiving the writ, the council rejected an offer of the utility in which is offered to cut its requested increase by the amount of allowable profit under state statute. That would be 7 per cent of the depreciated investment. It was unofficially calculated that under this offer, negotiated through Mayor Alfred E. Rogers, that the utility would have operated without profit for one year during a so-called trial period.

Protest Is Planned

Meanwhile, Public sentiment appeared to be increasing among gas consumers here with the calling of a special protest meeting against the rate hike for Monday night.

Application for the writ was made under provisions of the federal constitution which provide that no legislature can pass a statute which would impar the validity of an existing contract. It was explained that the franchise was executed and in force before the PSC was established by New Mexico law, and in effect, would be in violation of the U. S. Constitution.

In Santa Fe, PSC Commissioner L. R. Conarty said he had heard nothing about the matter, and that the writ had not been served on the commission. He added that the commission had expected some protests, but was not informed that a writ of prohibition would be filed. PSC Chairman W. W. Nichols was in Tennessee, called there by the illness of his sister. He was expected back Monday.

SENTENCED TO LIFE

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Jan. 31. (AP)—James Townsend, 21, caretaker who pleaded guilty to killing his young bride of three months "to scare her to bring back her affection," today was sentenced to life imprisonment.

A new plant-killing chemical known as INBA—2-iodo-3-nitrobenzoic acid—belongs to the same chemical family as 2,4-D.

Government Dispatches Report Red Threat To Railway Erased

PEIPING, Jan. 31 (AP)—Government military dispatches reported today the Chinese Communist threat to the Peiping-Jehol railway in North China had been erased by forces sweeping through the Great Wall.

Nationalist troops from Jehol province were described as hitting the Reds' eastern flanks, particularly in the area between Tunghsien, 12 miles east of Peiping, and Miyun, 35 miles to the northeast.

From Manchuria, pro-government dispatches predicted a large scale battle in the vicinity of Sinlitun, strategic rail city 70 miles west of Mukden. Sinlitun was captured by the Communists Monday.

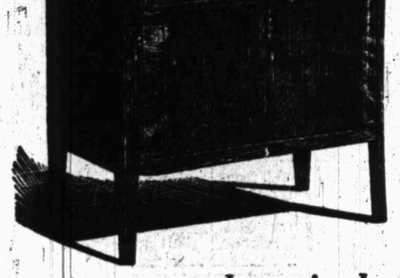

THREE ARE KILLED

MONTERREY, Mexico, Jan. 31, (U.P.)—Three persons were killed and eight others injured when a gas explosion followed by fire levelled a house here yesterday. The explosion occured in a house at 717 Lerdo De Tejada street.

Prior to the war 1,310,000 people were employed in automotive sales and servicing activities, more than three times the number holding auto factory jobs.

Lubbock Public School Teachers Active In Professional Groups

Lubbock public school teachers are active in teachers organizations, figures given by A. B. Reese, president of the Lubbock Classroom Teachers council, prove.

One hundred per cent of the 268 classroom teachers belong to the Classroom Teachers council, which is affiliated with the Texas classroom teachers organization.

Represented In NEA

One hundred per cent of teachers and administrators of the Lubbock system belong to the West Texas Teachers association, of which Floyd Honey, Lubbock High school principal, is president, and to the Texas State Teachers association.

Of the 268 members of the Lubbock Classroom Teachers council, 210 are members of the National Education association, the professional organization of educators.

Figures received by Reese show the NEA national membership has reached a new all-time high, with 393,468 paid memberships as of Dec. 31, 1947. The national total is an increase of 50,510 over the same period last year, as revealed in a mid-year membership report to the profession received by Reese from Willard E. Givens, executive secretary of the NEA.

"This increased membership indicates," Dr. Givens explained, "that the school people of the nation are uniting in their efforts to reach the goals of the Victory Action program, which was adopted by the Representative Assembly of the NEA July 5, 1946. All of these are aimed toward the development of higher professional standards, and to the attainment of equal educational opportunities for all children throughout the nation."

Two of the points in the Victory Action program, which has 1951 as the achievement year, include a larger and more aggressive national educational association, and a membership of at least 90 per cent in local, state and national professional organizations, Dr. Givens' announcement stated.

To Meet March 12

"These points are being stressed, among numerous others, because membership and active participation in professional orgahizations, local, state and national, are needed to raise the standards of the teaching profession, and to bring relief from the critical situations, such as the shortage of qualified teachers, which confront American education today," information received here continued.

The annual meeting of West Texas Teachers association is to be conducted in Lubbock the afternoon and night of March 12, Floyd Honey, president, has announced. The meeting will open at 1 p. m.

Jaycees To Present "Fun For All" Show At High School Auditorium Thursday, Friday

Seeking to augment their fund for health and welfare projects here, Lubbock's Jaycees are going through closing rehearsals for their home talent rendition of "Fun For All," a program of impersonation, mimicry, and fashions, to be given at the high school auditorium Thursday and Friday nights.

The show, designed as a funfest from beginning to end, includes the rendition of a number of widely known radio fun and educational shows, such as Breakfast in Hollywood, Dr. I. Q., the Quiz Kids, Duke of Paducah, Uncle Ezra and Minnie Pearl and others, fashion impersonation of top female movie stars.

All-Male Cast

The cast will be all-male, and all local talent. One of the "trim, young Jaycees," for instance, will impersonate Mae West, another Merelene Dietrich, and others will demonstarte their version of other noted movie and radio stars.

The audience is to participate in the show in the same way they take part during regular broadcasts, and prizes and other awards are to be made in connection with skits of that type.

Good Neighbor Sought

And to that end the public has a task to do also in advance. The Breakfast in Hollywood skit, which will track the original, will make an award to the one chosen as good neighbor. Those wishing to submit candidates for this selection are asked to mail the name, address and other information to Room 818, Hilton hotel here. This is open to any candidate on the South Plains.

Advance ticket sales have started, and those planning to attend can save some money by buying in advance. Tickets are available at the Junior Chamber of Commerce (Jaycee) office in the City hall, or from any Jaycee, on the basis of $1 for adult and 50 cents for child, if bought in advance. At the box office on show nights tickets will be $1.50 for adult and $1 for child.

QUARRYVILLE, Pa., Jan. 31. (AP)—Declaring that it will never tolerate the "weather meddlers" who created "this chaotic winter," the Slumbering Lodge of Groundhogs today mapped plans for its annual forecasting ritual.

The lodge's bondless treasurer, William U. Hensel, 30, summoned his fellows for the 40th annual pilgrimage to the hole of their patron saint with a vigorous denouncement of "artificial weather makers.

"Imagine, my brothers," said the bondless treasurer, "The chaotic conditions these weather meddlers would produce. Already they are credited with having caused the hurricane in the southern states and the never-to-be-forgotten New York snowstorm."

According to tradition, the "nature forecasters" of the lodge will march out in top hat and false whiskers to the hole of the groundhog for observations Monday.

If the woodchuck spots his shadow, he'll go back underground and there will be six more weeks of winter. If not, Hansel declared, you can put away your red underwear and be sure that the winter is at an end.

New Mexico's Exclusion From Oil And Gas Plan Questioned

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Jan. 31 (AP)—The U. S. Bureau of Mines was asked today why New Mexico has been excluded from a list of possible sites for the construction of plants in the proposed $9,000,000,000 synthetic oil and gasiline program.

Gov. Thomas J. Mabry wired the Bureau director, James Boyd, and pointed out that New Mexico has "more coal easily available than Pennsylvania and one or two other states combined." Mabry added that if New Mexico were included in the proposed program, the state would be ready to cooperate to the fullest.

The program as recommended to Congress by Interior Secretary J. A. Krug calls for the construction of from 75 to 100 plants throughout the United States.

FLIES TO HAVANA

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 21. (AP)—Secretary of Treasury Ramon Beteta flew to Havana yesterday to take over as head of the Mexican delegation to the United Nations trade and employment conference.

"Dynaflow Drive" Features New Buicks To Be Displayed Monday

Scoggin-Dickey Motor company, 1007 Ave. J, will display two models of the new 1948 line of Buick cars—comprising ten distinctive models featuring "Dynaflow Drive," a unique new transmission embodying Buick's answer to "no-shift, clutchless" driving and 30 other important engineering advances and improvements.

Dynaflow, on which Buick has spent several million dollars on machinery and tools, represents a major achievement in automotive design and construction. It will be offered initially as optional equipment on Buick's 1948 Series 70 Roadmaster cars.

Other New Features

Buick's style-leading 1948 models, feature new colors, trim and trim styling, the new "controlled frequency" engine mountings to control vibration frequency, a new oil control ring to provide greater oil economy, a new oil filter to keep engine oil clean, new springs on series 40 and 50 cars, and a new, three-spoke flexible steering wheel with semi-circular horn ring.

Driving a Dynaflow-equipped Buick is "simple."

Positions Are Explained

"P" for parking and starting the engine. "N" for neutral and starting the engine. "D" is the "Driving Range" position. After the engine is started the lever is moved to "D" and is left there for all normal forward driving. "L" is for "Emergency Low" and the shift can be made any time under 40 mph simply by moving the lever.

By providing an "emergency low" Buick enables the driver to cope with the occasional bad spots in traffic such as driving behind a line of slow-moving trucks on heavy grades. It also offers a ready means for getting out of sand or mud or soft snow without outside help. One can also "rock" the car out of a mud hole or snow rut. This is done by moving the select. or lever first into emergency low, then into reverse and repeating the process until the car is out of trouble.

Just Move The Lever

"R" is the "Reverse" position. For the sake of safety the lever must be lifted before moving into "R" or "P" to prevent accidental shifts into these positions while the car is in fast forward motion.

Actually all the driver has to do is move the lever into "D" position, step on the accelerator pedal and watch the road. Dynaflow then provides the smooth effortless power — much like a steam engine — from a standing start, through acceleration and up to any speed.

With Dynaflow the left foot may now do the breaking. The brake pedal has been enlarged and moved to a more convenient location to facilitate braking with the left foot. The right foot remains on the accelerator pedal ready to pick up speed at any time.

Another outstanding feature of the 1948 Buick is the development of the "controlled frequency" engine mountings adopted on all series—the 40 Special, the 50 Super and the 70 Roadmaster. The engine mounts, stemming from extensive research by Buick engineers, are designed so that the frequency of the engine on its mountings does not get "in tune" with other vibrations whether they are induced by the engine or by road irregularities. The new mounting is a three-point system with two front mounts; and a rear mount, composed of two pieces located at the torque tube ball joint. Synthetic rubber of the GR-S composition is used because of its inherent frictional qualities.

The result of the new Buick "controlled frequency" engine mountings is to shield car occupants against tiring pulsations, cut road noise, make engine sensation almost imperceptible,

Wide Rims Retained

Buick retains the wide rims first introduced in 1941, but offers new tires on the Series 50 and 70 cars which will permit operation at a pressure as low as 24 pounds on the former, 22 on the latter. Series 50 cars will be equipped with 7.60-15 and the 70 with 8:20-15. Both sizes are mounted on 6½ inch rims, which enable Buick to maintain consistently lower pressures than are recommended for the narrower so-called standard rims ordinarily used with these tires.

There are four engine power ratings in the 1948 Buick cars. The 40 Special has a rating of 110 HP; 50 Super, 115 HP, the 70 Roadmaster with standard transmission 144 HP; and the 70 Roadmaster with Dynaflow transmission 150 HP.

New Steering Wheel

The 1948 Series 50 and 70 Buicks carry model designation on front fenders above the side moldings. The new Buick steering wheel, leaving the upper half of the wheel entirely unobstructed, carries a newly-designed monogram bearing the series designation as well as a new semi-circular horn ring. The dash instruments are completely new in appearance, having a scratch brushed aluminum finish and aluminum targets. The interior beauty is further enhanced by the addition of handsome new fabrics in all three Buick series cars.

Buick's exterior beauty again is highlighted by the neat, flowing lines of sweeping airfoil fenders, a massive front end with handsome grille, and the low, roomy body by Fisher. Enhancing its lively performance, easy handling and smooth ride are scores of proved Buick engineering developments, including the powerful "fireball" valve - in - head straight eight engine, full-length torque-tube drive, all-coil spring-ing, and broad-rim wheels.

Other outstanding Buick features include "silent zone" body mounting, a venti-heater which produces cool air in summer and thermostat-regulated warm air and windshield defrosting in winter, noiseless windshield wipers, wrap-around bumpers, flashway direction signals, sealed beam headlamps and dual air trumpet type horns.

Here are the 1948 Buick models:

Series 70 Roadmaster, 129-inch wheelbase; six passenger, four-door sedan, available in regular trim and custom; six-passenger two-door sedanet; six passenger convertible with hydraulically operated top, front seat and window controls; and six-passenger Estate Wagon.

Series 50 Super, 124-inch wheelbase; six passengers, four-door sedan; six passenger, two-door sedanet; six passenger convertible coupe with hydraulically operated front seat, top, and window controls; and six-passenger Estate Wagon.

Series 40 Special, 121-inch wheelbase; six passenger, four-door sedan; six passenger, two door sedanet.

The Bear, he ship which Byrd took to the Antarctic on his first expedition, was first used by the U. S. Navy to go to the relief of the Greely Artic expedition in 1884.

BUICK ANNOUNCES NEW MODELS—Postwar engineering developments featuring a new oil turbine transmission called "Dynaflow Drive," controlled frequency engine mountings, airfoil styling and other advances are offered in the new 1948 Buicks to be on display Monday and Tuesday at Scoggin-Dickey Motor company, 1007 Ave. J. Pictured above is the Dynaflow Roadmaster Series 70 sedan, one of the 10 models in three models now being introduced. It has a 150 horsepower engine (144 with standard transmission) and is mounted on a 129-inch wheelbase chasis.

Starving Six-Month-Old Dog Rescued From Deserted Home

MASON, Mich., Jan. 31 (AP)—A starving cocker spaniel puppy was rescued from a deserted home today after it had chewed its way thriugh the side of the building.

Dog Warden William Disler said the six-month-old dog chewed a hole in the gable end of the second floor and made an opening large enough to get its head out. Its whines brought rescuers.

The former owners of the house said they knew nothing of the animal and it apparently had wandered in after they had left.

SOUTH PLAINS OIL DEVELOPMENT NEWS

Operations In Area Slowed By Cold Weather Past Week; New Producer, 2 Locations In Anton

PRACTICALLY all oil development operations on the South Plains were slowed down during last week on account of the bad weather and bad roads. Several wildcats were inactive for as much as three days on account of frozen water lines and the inability to get butane fuel into the locations for the power units on the drilling rigs

Sun Oil Company No. 1 Herring, wildcat to 10,000 feet, in southwest Castro county, about five miles south of Dimmitt, and 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 46, block T-4, T. A. Thomason survey, had reached 7,489 feet in lime and chert and was continuing.

Contracted To 7,000 Feet

Anderson-Prichard Oil Corporation No. 1 Jones, about 25 miles northwest of Seminole, in northwest Gaines county, and 2,200 feet from south and west lines of section 21, block A-7, psl survey, had progressed below 7,035 feet in middle Permian lime, and was drilling ahead.

It is contracted to go to at least 7,700 feet, to test into the lower Permian, unless it gets production at a higher point.

No Signs Of Production

Honolulu Oil Corporation No. 2 White, et al, about 13 miles west and slightly north of Seminole, and one quarter of a mile south of the initial producer from the lower Permian, in the North Riley field, had reached 6,057 feet in Glorieta, middle Permian lime, and was continuing.

It is checking about level with the discovery. The project will go to around 7,500 feet. So far no signs of production have been encountered.

Dawson Test Drilling Ahead

Stanolind Oil & Gas company No. 1-A Graves, southeast Dawson county development, about one and one-half miles north of Ackerly, and 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 48, block 34, TP survey, T-4-N, had reached 7,768 feet, in lower Permian lime, and was drilling ahead.

Sun No. 1 Hale, in extreme northeast Martin county, and a short distance south of Ackerly, had reached 7,385 feet, in dry sand, shale and lime, and was drilling ahead. It is 1,980 feet from north and east lines of section 36, block 35, TP survey, T-3-N.

Progress In Other Tests

In central Borden county, nine and one-half miles south of Gail, Tide Water Associated Oil company No. 1 Clayton & Johnson, slated 9,300-foot wildcat, had reached 8,820 feet, in an unidentified lime and chert section.

This exploration is 660 feet from north and east lines of section 47, block 31, TP survey, T-4-N.

Humble Oil & Refining company No. 1-G Humble fee, four miles east of Justiceburg, in southeast Garza county, and 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of section 136, block 5, H & GN railway, was drilling ahead below 6,156 feet in lime and shale. It was down several days during the week on account of the weather.

Other Garza County Projects

The Ohio Oil company No. 1 Swenson Land & Cattle company, northeast Garza county development to 7,500 feet, located 2,307 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 26, block 2, H&GN survey, had penetrated past 6,241 feet in dry shale, and was making more hole.

Union Oil Company of California and Cities Service Oil company No. 1-A Davies, seven miles northeast of Post, in northeast Garza county, and 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of section 7, block 4, K. Aycock survey, plugged back from 8,855 feet granite to 6,160 feet and tested the zone between that point and 5,870 feet.

Project Is Plugged Back

Swabbing, both before and after treating with acid, failed to develop any oil or gas. The venture is now plugged back to 5,455 feet, and tests on slight shows of petroleum above that level, will be run during the next few days.

Continental Oil company No. 1 Swenson Land and Cattle company, 17 miles southeast of Crosbyton, in southeast Crosby county, and 1,980 feet from south and 660 feet from west lines of section 75, block 2, H&GN survey, had progressed under 7,987 feet in lime and shale, and was making more hole. It is contracted to 9,500 feet —or oil or gas above that point.

Drillstem Test Is Run

Ohio No. 1 Jones, nine miles southeast of Crosbyton, and 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 140, block 2, H&GN survey, had reached 5,335 feet in lime, and was drilling ahead.

This project ran a 20-minute drillstem test at 4,820-5,020 feet. Recovery was 120 feet of drilling mud, with no shows of oil, gas or water. The wildcat is due to go to about 8,200 feet.

Seaboard Oil Company of Delaware and Shamrock Oil & Gas Corporation No. 1 Tapper, six miles south of Paducah, in south-central Cottle county, and 467 feet from south and east lines of the northeast quarter of section 6, AB&M survey, had drilled below 5,953 feet in dolomite and lime and was going ahead toward its objective of 7,500 feet.

Tests In Hale County

Standard Oil Company of Texas No. 1 Joe Kelioher, 16½ miles southeast of Hale Center, in southeast Hale county, and 1,980 feet from north and 3,720 feet from east lines of league 3, Callahan county school lands, had reached 7,447 feet in an unidentified shale, and was boring ahead. It is slated to continue to around 10,500 feet—unless it gets production at a shallower level.

Humble Oil & Refining company No. 1 Lutrick, south central Hale county, discovery from the Cisco section of thbe Pennsylvanian lime, six miles northeast of Abernathy, and 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 14, block D-8, EL&RR survey, was continuing to test, preparatory to completion from the pay section at 7,908-7,987 feet.

Flowing By Heads

On the last tests reported the new field opener had produced at the rate of eight and one half barrels of oil per hour—flowing by heads. The pay section had been treated with a total of 8,500 gallons of acid.

In the Irish Anton field in Southwest Hale and Southeast Lamb County, Stanolid No. 2-B Lee Irish, was testing above total depth of 6,065 feet in lime.

It treated the lower section with 10,000 gallons of acid and swabbed and flowed 88 barrels of oil and 88 barrels of water in eight hours. In the last two hours of that eight hour period it swabbed 45 barrels of oil and five barrels of water. It appeared at that time that the water cut was decreasing. The well is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 14, block DT, HE&WT survey.

Other Tests Drilling Ahead

Stanolind No. 2-A Harral, 660 feet from north and east lines of section 13, block DT, HE&WT survey, had reached 5,949 feet and drilling ahead.

Stanolind No. 2 Arnold, 660 feet from north and east lines of section 14, block DT, HE&WT survey, was making hole past 4,512 feet in lime.

Stanolind No. 1 C. A. Rice, 660 feet from north and east lines of survey, was drilling ahead under 3,095 feet in shale and anhydrite.

Low to Nearest Producer

Hunt Oil Company No. 1 Emery, on the northeast side of the Irish sector in southwest Hale county, and 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from west lines of the south 200 acres of section 9, block DT, HE&WT survey, had reached 5,890 feet in Permian lime and was drilling ahead.

This project picked the top of the Tubb sand at 5,785 feet, on an elevation of 3,426 feet. According to some geologists that puts the No. 1 Emery 340 feet low to the nearest completed producer — Pure No. 6 Preston.

The Hunt exploration will drill ahead to 6,100 feet and will run a drillstem test to that bottom.

New Locations Made

Locations for two new ventures in the Anton side of the field, in southeast Lamb county, have been reported. They are:

Anton Oil Company No. 2 G. H. Hufstedler, to be 660 feet from east and south lines of the southeast quarter of section 33, block 1, R. M. Thompson survey.

Anton No. 4-A J. R. Leftwich, will be 660 feet from south and west lines of the west half of section 32, block 1, R. M. Thompson survey.

Both the above developments are slated to start drilling in the near future, and they will use rotary tools to go to about 6,100 feet to test the Anton-Irish pay section in the lower Permian.

New Anton-Irish Producer

A new producer has been reported for the Hale County section of the Anton-Irish field. It is Anton Oil Corporation No. 2 Lusk, located 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 15, block DT, HE&WE survey.

The well was completed for a 24-hour flowing potential of 446.76 barrels of 31 gravity oil. The pay section at 5,442-6,070 feet, had been treated with a total of 8,000 gallons of acid. Gas-oil ratio was 300-1. The completion test was taken through open 2½-inch tubing.

Disaster Preparedness Meeting Scheduled To Open Here Monday

Maurice Reddy of national Red Cross headquarters, who directed Red Cross relief operations at Texas City in the disaster following explosions there last spring, is to lead the discussion at a Disaster Preparedness district conference Monday and Tuesday in the Navajo room at Hilton hotel.

The meeting will open at 9:30 a. m. Monday and will close at 3:30 p. m. Tuesday, W. C. O'Mara, Lubbock county Red Cross chairman, announced.

The conference, which will be the first Disaster Preparedness district conference held in this area, is to be attended by field representatives of the Red Cross serving New Mexico and western areas of Texas and chapter delegates from as far as the Panhandle and southwestern part of the state.

The conference will deal with specific problems which arise for chapters within the Lubbock county chapter jurisdiction and in neighboring chapters.

Miss Edith Olsen, disaster nursing consultant, and Malcolm Lockhart of the disaster services of the midwestern area of the American Red Cross, will attend.

Lubbock county representatives invited to attend were announced as J. V. Beauchamp, disaster chairman of the Lubbock county chapter, and Max Tidmore, co-chairman; Dr. R. C. Douglas, Dr. Emerson Blake and Dr. M. M. Ewing of Lubbock and Dr. Glenn Payne of Slaton, medical advisors; Ernest F. St. Clair, chairman of first aid, and Mrs. Edith Wright, director of nursing services for the Lubbock county chapter. Miss Lula Mae Cravens, chairman of volunteer workers, has charge of arranging for receptionists and canteen workers to assist in hospitalities.

Adventure-Seeking Ex-GI Says Ten Yankees Could Take India

RUSSELL HAIGHT, JR.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31. (U.P.)—Russell Haight, adventure-seeking ex-GI just returned from fighting with the Moslems against Hindus, said the assassination of Mohandas Gandhi could well touch off a full-scale civil war in India.

Bedecked in a baggy jungle uniform and a turban, Haight, 28, of Denver, Colo., arrived by plane from India to learn that the country had been thrown into even greater turmoil by the slaying of the revered Hindu Leader.

Just A Good Excuse

"That's just a good excuse for the Hindus to blame it on the Moslems and start a full-scale war," he said. "They're just waiting for an opportunity to take over Pakistan."

Haight was carrying his Stetson hat and dsiplaying a hole in the crown which, he said, was made by a bullet. Although he "took care" of his would-be killers, he said, that incident persuaded him he should get out of India and return to his wife and 15-month-old daughter in Denver.

Haight said he got into the Moslem-Hindu fighting "just for the hell of it," thought Americans should stay out of the fracas and, as for the principles involved, "couldn't care less."

He said he was persuaded to help the Moslems by Sadad Ibrahim Khan, president of the Azad Kasmir government, who "cried on my shoulder," asked Haight to help and promised him a good job when the war was over.

While he was fighting with the Moslems, his company "knocked off a hundred Sikh and Hindu outposts," he said. Then he had an argument with the commander about stategy and Ibrahim then made him a brigadier general commanding more than 2,000 men.

"My men were all good soldiers but they had no imagination," he said. "If I had two bazookas and 10 American army men I could take all India."

The war is certain to spread, Haight said.

"They're all trigger happy," he said. "They are slaughtering each other and having fun so let them alone."

News Picture Results In Aid For Indigent Dallas Family

DALLAS, Jan. 31. (AP)— Food, clothing, bedcovers, wood and $150 in cash were given a West Dallas family as the result of an Associated Press photo published in the Dallas News Friday.

Carl Linde, Associated Press photographer, made the picture of three of the family's seven children, as they huddled around a fire in their cardboard-and-steel-metal home.

Approximately 100 telephone inquiries were referred from the News to the West Dallas Social center.

Valley Booster Fixes Weather Thermometer To Curb Sarcasm

EDINBURG, Jan. 31 (U.P.) — Harry Cook, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, became tired of winter tourists dropping in to ask, sometimes sarcastically, how cold it was.

So he hung a large thermometer outside his office door. And, he fixed the red liquid so it will always read 92.

Western Retreat Is Planned At Church This Afternoon

A Western Retreat is to be observed by the Junior High school department of the First Christian church at 2 o'clock this afternoon to plan the class's spring quarter of Sunday school and Christian Youth fellowship work.

The following persons are in charge of different phases of the meeting: Joe Holmes, Ronald Canady and Mrs. Mary Hinton, recreation; Rev. Dearl Richardson and Mrs. P. M. Porter, enlistment; Mrs. Fred Childress and Mrs. Dave Leaverton, worship; Mrs. H. G. Gantz and Joe Christian, service. Young people of the department will serve on the committees under the guidance of these adult leaders.

A movie will be shown as part of the program, and a western snack will be served at 6 p. m. in the Junior High school department room.

Polio Victim Dies Before Gifts From Radio Show Arrive

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Jan. 31 (U.P.)—A school pal of Phyllis Moyer, 17-year-old invalid, liked to listen to the "Heart's Desire" program broadcast daily from Hollywood.

The show gave away all sorts of gifts, things that Phyllis would like. So a few weeks ago the friend wrote a letter to the program.

The letter told how Phyllis needed clothing because after months of being in an iron lung with infantile paralysis she planned to make a trip to a sanitariun.

Today, on a nation-wide hookup, the "Heart's Desire" show announced Phyllis would receive a spring dress, skirt and sweater outfit, leather handbag, electric comforter, wrist watch and luggage.

But Phyllis was buried yesterday. She died of a heart attack last Tuesday, ending a 79-day fight against polio.

India Stands On Brink Of Great Perils After Slaying Of Gandhi

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Staff Writer

With Gandhi dead at the hand of an assassin, observers are anxiously seeking the significance of this shocking event not only to the Indian peninsula's four hundred millions but to the world at large—for what affects that vast subcontinent in a major way must also affect other nations.

Gandhi was dead in Delhi, and half a world away America was deeply stirred.

Our first thought, of course, is that the Mahatma's murder has created a terrible threat to the already troubled peace of his country, for it comes at a moment when politico-religious feelings are running high. It could cause a mighty explosion and precipitate the most terrible fratricidal conflict of history.

Killing Has Started

The fact that it was one of Gandhi's own people—a Hindu—who slew him may serve to keep passions in hand—but unhappily that doesn't necessarily follow, as witness the killing which already has taken place in Bombay.

Bitterness is strong between the Hindus and the Moslems in many areas, and each side is quick to other.

The London Daily Express comments: "Now truly India stands on the brink of fearful perils." And the London Daily Mail says: "Deprived of their pilot, the Indian government now are faced with a crisis which excels by far anything that they have yet had to cope with in their short but lurid history."

Have Strong Influence

Still the fact that Gandhi died, as he would have wished to die, while at prayer, will have a strong influence on his followers, and apropos of this thought British Prime Minister Attlee says:

"I am certain his spirit will continue to animate his fellow countrymen and will plead for peace and concord."

But what of the future?

It is difficult to analyze the position dispassionately, for our troubled world could ill afford to lose this great and saintly man. However, taking it by and large, the 78 year old Gandhi had performed the task which fate had assigned him. That was truly Herculean, for it included these achievements.

1. His great social labors among his people in South Africa—a work so notable that it evoked tribute from none other than Tolstoy himself.

Millions Rehabilitated

2. The foremost part in the winning of independence for India.

3. The moral and spiritual rehabilitation of untold millions of Indians.

4. Living what he taught (and he told me that the greatest inspiration of his life came from Christ's Sermon on the Mount) he did much to better the condition of the world's most tragic people—Indian's 60,000,000 untouchables.

And so perhaps the Mahatma's martyrdom may be the greatest final contribution which he could make to the world, for it will immortalize his needs and teachings.

THAT'S GRATITUDE

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 31. (U.P.)—Cab Driver Charles Ford drove to a woman's home today and returned a purse containing $115 she had left in his cab. He asked her for a 30-cent fare for his trip, but she refused to pay him.

Lubbock And Amarillo Pastors Exchange Pulpits This Morning

Dr. R. C. Snodgrass, pastor of First Christian church in Amarillo, will be guest minister of the Lubbock First Christian church today in the observance of Ceta Glen Camp Day throughout the Panhandle and South Plains.

Snodgrass will speak at the morning church hour, and Judge E. L. Pitts, also of Amarillo, will speak before the general church assembly during the Sunday school hour.

Dr. H. G. Gantz, pastor of the Lubbock church, has exchanged pulpits with Dr. Snodgrass in observance of the special day. G. P. Kuykendall and Mrs. Jack Light have accompanied Dr. Gantz to speak at the Amarillo First Christian church. The group will be back in Lubbock for the evening church service.

Other workers from the Lubbock church who will speak at near-by churches are: J. E. Hartley at Post; B. C. McCasland at Plainview; and H. T. McKissack at Brownfield.

Two-Story Trees Shown In Russia

LONDON, Jan. 31 (U.P.)—A Tass dispatch heard on the Moscow radio reported that "two-story" trees were on display at a Soviet ministry of agriculture exhibition in Moscow.

These trees, the dispatch claimed, grow either lemons or oranges at the top and tangerines on the lower branches.

BIDS ARE OPENED

GALVESTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—L. P. Reed, Inc., of Meredian, Tex., was the apparent low bidder for the Whitney Dam project with $15,995,498. Col. B. L. Robinson, U. S. Army district engineer, revealed Friday after bids were opened in his office. Government estimate for the dam across Brazos river in Hill county was $13,485,547.82. The dam has been under partial construction since spring, 1947, and the contractor will be given 1,200 days to complete the project, Col. Robinson declared.

Richard Won't Open The Door So Man Sues Trolley Company

CHICAGO, Jan. 31 (U.P.)—Bernard Greenfield, 23, New Rork, filed suit for $20,000 in Superior court today, charging that a street car motorman had punched him for singing out "Open The Door, Richard."

The suit, filed against the Chicago Transit authority, said that Greenfield attempted to board a street car at a Chicago "Loop" intersection last Sept. 13, but the motorman would not open the door.

Greenfield said he pounded on the door and yelled, "Open The Door, Richard." He said the motorman opened the door, but punched him in the nose, and drove away.

Greenfield said he was left "bleeding profusely" in the street.

He stands guard at our Prescription Department

● Actually, of course, Oswald is the little dragon who isn't there. We wouldn't know what to feed him. And, anyway, the Fire Marshal would probably have something to say about his presence on the premises. But, symbolically, Oswald is right there, to intimidate would-be intruders, and to assure our Registered Pharmacists an atmosphere of quiet serenity in which to do their work.

If you join us in believing that this freedom from interruptions is an important factor in insuring the accuracy of our professional services, then, we suggest that you act on that conviction and bring your Doctor's next prescription—and all others—to us for careful compounding.

Radio Stations Cannot Censor Previously-Approved Programs

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (U.P.) — The Federal Comunications commission has proposed a rule holding that once a radio station has scheduled a political speech it cannot censor the broadcast, either by cutting the script or cancelling the broadcast, it was revealed today.

The commission said it could make such a rule because the Communications act appears clearly to relieve a radio station of responsibility for libelous matter broadcast by political candidates.

Probe Conducted

It said the act's ban on censoring political speeches is "absolute" and that no exception exists in the case of material which is libelous and might involve the station in an action for damages.

The ruling is set forth in a proposed decision by the commission tentatively granting a license renewal to Station WHLS, Port Huron, Mich.

For two years, the commission has been investigating complaints of censorship by the station. WHLS cancelled all political broadcasts scheduled in connection with the 1945 election of a city commission.

The station's action amounted to censorship, the commission says in its proposed decision, but it added that there was no evidence of "deliberate or wilful attempt" to violate the Communications act. Therefore, the commission proposes to renew the station's license.

The commission said the principles of law involved in the use of censoring political broadcasts have been "the subject of the commission.

Court Ruling Cited

It said the Communications act "appeals clearly to constitute an occupation of the field by federal authority which, under the law, would relieve the licensee of responsibility for any libelous matter broadcast . . . irrespective of the provisions of state law."

The commission cited as a precedent for its ruling a Supreme court decision which held that the Western Union Telegraph Co., was not responsible even though it transmitted a libelous message.

IN THE CHIPS — Staff Sgt. Willard Uthman, above, of Wheeling, W. Va., was surprised to find himself heir to an estate valued at $80,000. But he reaffirmed his intention of becoming a 20-year-Army man by planning to re-enlist when his present hitch is over. He's pictured holding $14,000 in U. S. Savings Bonds.

Jester's Popularity In Gradual Decline,- Latest Survey Shows

(By The Texas Poll)

AUSTIN, Jan. 31.—Although Governor Beauford Jester's popularity index has declined during his first year in office, it still remains at a high level.

Two months after the governor's inauguration, about nine out of every ten eligible voters with opinions approved of the way he was handling his job as chief executive; in the fourth quarter of his first year, eight out of every ten approved.

At five different times during the governor's first year in office, interviewers of The Texas Poll asked the eligible voters of the state the following question:

"In general, do you approve or disapprove of the way Beauford Jester is handling his job as governor of Texas?"

	Approve	Disapprove
After 2 months in office	92%	8%
After 4 months in office	81	19
After 6 months in office	81	19
After 8 months in office	83	17
After 11 months in office	80	20

The above table includes only eligible voters with opinions. The undecided element is eliminated, 23 per cent of the voters on the last survey.

On the last survey, analysis shows that the governor's greatest degree of public approval comes from people living in the small towns and medium-sized cities. More people disapprove in the large cities than do people in smaller towns and rural areas.

The drop in Governor Jester's popularity during his first year follows what appears to be a normal pattern. Public opinion polls often have shown that chief executives lose in public esteem when they begin acting officially on controversial public matters.

West Coast Bartender Accused Of Taking Part Of Bank Loot

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 31 (AP) Leon B. Hoppe, San Francisco bartender, was arrested yesterday by the FBI, which accused him of receiving $1,000 in loot from a Texas bank robbery.

The FBI said the $1,000 came from Francis Marion Hooper, arrested in Los Angeles last week and charged with robbing the Bremond, Tex., bank of $12,500.

Corner Drug Store Purchased By Mr. And Mrs. A. M. Eubanks

Purchase of the Corner Drug store, Thirteenth and Ave. H, by Mr. and Mrs. Alfred M. Eubanks from Wm. G. Dingus was announced Saturday.

Dingus has operated the store the past 17 years.

Eubanks, who has been a composing room employe of the Avalanche-Journal the past 26 years, and Mrs. Eubanks, who has been a waitress at the Hilton hotel the past 18 years, took over operation of the store last week.

A complete renovation and redecoration of the store will be made in the near future, Eubanks said. He said a complete stock of drugs and sundries will be carried and fountain service will be a feature.

Father Who Denied Medical Aid To Daughter Calls Physician

GREYBULL, Wyo., Jan. 31 (U.P.) Prayerful Orvil Baker, who denied medical aid to his dying daughter last fall, did an about-face and held the door open today for the doctor to attend another ailing child.

Baker, who quit his oil refinery job and sprouted a flowing mane to answer a "call to preach the gospel," had relied on prayer to save his little daughter from spinal meningitis. She died without medical aid.

The other night Dr. Anthony S. Rogers was called to the Baker home to examine a child. The doctor found the Baker youngster had a case of measles. Baker said nothing about prayer this time.

Fourteen Vets To Be Honored

TOKYO, Feb. 1. (U.P.) — Philippine Defense Secretary Ruperto Kangleon today announced the names of 14 combat veterans of the U. S. First Cavalry division to be decorated by the Philippine government during the division's Manila Day celebration next Tuesday.

The 14 officers and enlisted men slated for decoration were all members of the First cavalry's "Flying Column" which made a daring penetration into the Philippine capital three years ago to liberate 3,700 allied internees held in Santa Tomas prison camp.

They include:

Maj. Gen. Verne D. Mudge, El Paso, Tex., former commander of the division; Maj. Gen. William C. Chase, Providence, R. I., present commander of the unit; Brig. Gen. High F. T. Hoffman, San Antonio, Tex., former commander of the division; Lt. Col. Hasket L. Conner, Jr., Woodrow Wilson hospital, Staunton, Va.; Lt. Col. William E. Lobit, Galveston, Tex.; Capt. Clark O. Irving, Gastonia, N. C.; 1st Lieut. Bernard Turk, Long Beach, Miss.; 1st Sgt. Roy K. Moffett, Ruby, Tex.; 1st Sgt. John T. Guinn, Englewood, Fla.; 1st Sgt. Donald D. Kennedy, Sentinel, Okla.; 1st Sgt. Robert R. Hutsell, El Paso, Tex.; Master Sgt. Dale E. Mitte, Brownsville, Tex.; Tech. Sgt. Mike C. Pena, New Gulf, Tex.; and Pfc. Herst W. WAYLAND

However,

We Suggest You Not Apply For Entrance—

UNLESS you stand one hundred percent for the Christian principles on which Wayland was founded and under which it is going forward. Each student must meet high standards and have a serious life purpose.

UNLESS you have a pioneer spirit. Many of our facilities are inadequate. Our new dormitory for boys is as nice as any within the state, but the dorms for girls are as poor as the worst to be found anywhere. Classrooms are old and facilities in some departments inadequate.

UNLESS you have a determination to work and serve unselfishly. We are on our way up because both the faculty and student body have that spirit. A great faculty is not enough to build a great Christian college . . . a great student body is essential.

UNLESS you understand that Wayland is accredited and has been for several years as a junior college. We are now in transition from junior to senior college status. When we become a senior college and have met all requirements, we will apply for accreditation as a senior college. We have faith to believe that the goal is in sight.

UNLESS you plan to cooperate with us to the fullest extent in fulfilling our dreams for Wayland . . . our plans to make of it a great Christian college with a world-wide vision and scope, which will be equipped to train diplomats, teachers, agriculturists, preachers, journalists, missionaries, for service to their profession and to their Christ at home and abroad.

Though we are over-crowded . . IF . . you are challenged by our pioneer spirit, and you wish to be a part in the building of one of the greatest Christian colleges in the world, we will try to make room for you.

School Library Improvement For Texas Sought In Demonstrations

BY DAVE CHEAVENS
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, Jan. 31—School administrators in all parts of Texas will have an opportunity this spring to have a first hand look at how their library facilities may be improved in the fact of limited resources.

Under the direction of Miss Mattie Ruth Moore, director of the department of education's school library division, eleven demonstration centers will be spotted strategically over the state in schools of 300 enrollment or under.

Long-Range Plan

This is part of a long-range plan to improve the library facilities of Texas schools to meet the demands of modern "personalized" educational methods and to satisfy nationwide recognition standards that are becoming increasingly rigid.

The plan has actually been under way for two years under a grant to the state department of education from the General Education Board. Texas was the eleventh state to receive such a grant.

Originally, the grant was made to run through August, 1947, and an effort was made to shift the financial responsibility for the program to the state. An item for it was eliminated in conference committee during the 50th session of the legislature, but the General Education board extends its grant for another year to keep the plan alive. The effort to obtain state financing will be renewed before the 51st legislature meeting a year hence.

Had To Be Warned

Figures in the department of education show that of the state's approximately 1,300 high schools, only 300 had trained librarians on their faculties. Forty-seven of the 270 schools holding membership in the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary schools had to be warned by the Texas committee because of this lack of adequately trained librarians.

This association is an accrediting agency. To meet the emergency thus presented, the library division went to work to step up teacher-training programs for the instruction of librarians, and to inform schools of what steps they must take to maintain their standards.

Miss Moore noted in a talk before an educator's conference here recently that the problem had not only to do with meeting such standards, but it was related directly to the newest conception of education.

Each An Individual

"In a progressive school, each pupil is looked upon as an individual having capacities and interests that do not fit into a pattern tha tcould be cut out for all the boys and girls of his class," she said.

"Changing teaching methods are making libraries an indispensable part of our school organization. No longer do we consider that a teacher has taught well when she has imparted to her pupils all of the essential facts of a subject. A good teacher stirs the curiosity of the pupils . . . Good teaching demands good materials for investigation and the better the materials the better the teaching."

Miss Moore said she soon found out that Texas was too big for one person to visit each school and study its library needs.

tern that could be cut out for all up the library demonstrations. The plan was to spot them so that all schools in the general vicinity could come and see how it should be done.

Special Training Given

"Each school chosen was one with an enrollment of 300 or under, one where there was no qualified librarian but where there was an alert and sympathetic administration and the kind of instructional program that needed good library service," Miss Moore explained.

A teacher was chosen from each school to take special training in library work, and other plans were made for making the best possible use of facilities at hand to improve library service.

The demonstration schools which will be ready this spring to show how it can be done, how special financial aid can be obtained and how the new standards may be met, will be at Cleveland, April 10; Holiday, April 29; Kermit, April 24; La Grande, March 24; Lytle, May 8; Pilot Point, May 1; Seagraves, April 22; Talco, March 20; Tulia, May 15; Valley Mills, May 7; Woodhouse, May 22.

February Programs Announced For Methodist Men's Meetings

Programs for the month of February for Methodist Men have been announced by Russell Hardin and Sam Liefeste.

The choir of First Methodist church will be guests of the club on Monday noon at Hotel Lubbock. A sextet of women from the choir will sing and Dr. Robinson, pastor of First Methodist church, will speak on "And The Choir Died."

Monday, Feb. 9, will be Boy Scout Day, and the Boy Scout troop of First Methodist church will be guests. Scoutmaster Bill Sasser will be in charge of the program.

On Feb. 16, Rev. E. H. Crandall, associate pastor of First Methodist church, will talk on "The Methodist and Communion," another in a series of messages on the doctrines of the Methodist church.

On Feb. 23, Woody Jackson, high school student and honored member of Future Farmers of America, will address the club.

Leading Lady Is Bing Crosby Fan

By PATRICIA CLARY
United Press Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 31.—Bing Crosby's newest leading lady has become his newest and strongest fan.

RHONDA

Now, after working with Crosby for a few weeks, Miss Fleming is voting him the nicest actor in Hollywood.

"I'd stuff the ballot box for him in any popularity poll," the green-eyed beauty said. "I've got to watch myself, or I sound like a press agent when I talk about Bing.

"Working with him has been a revelation, to put it mildly. For instance, I half believed those stories that he was lazy. Well, he isn't. He's just casual. But he knows everything that goes on. That man must have eyes in the back of his head."

Saves Energy

His casual demeanor saves his energy, Miss Fleming explains.

"He doesn't strain himself during a rehearsal, but when the camera is turning he gives everything," she said. "In that way he's fresh and relaxed for the real work. I used to rehearse so hard that by the time we were ready to shoot I was all worn out. I think Bing's got the right idea."

Miss Fleming found that you can't be a shrinking violet or a prima donna when you sing with Bing. A Crosby set without visitors is a unheard of as a Crosby horse coming in first.

"He likes to have people around him and he loves an audience," Miss Fleming said. "He's never disturbed no matter how many people stare at him. I guess that makes him a natural entertainer."

Crosby has a way of making light at tense moments which relieves the strain for everybody.

"When we did one of our love scenes in 'Connecticut Yankee' I finished in the romantic daze the script called for," Miss Fleming said. "But not Bing. As soon as the scene was over—and while the camera was still turning—he said, 'O. K., kid, snap out of it.'

"His ad libs are always entertaining in the daily rushes."

Crosby sometimes delights in trying to break up his fellow actors during rehearsals. When he, Bob Hope and Dorothy Lamour team for a "Road" picture it's a tossup as to who will convulse whom first.

"Once practically everybody in the picture was sitting in the royal pavilion on the tournament field," Miss Fleming said. "Bing was facing us with his back to the camera. He began making faces, rolling his eyes and twisting his mouth without making a sound. It took all our strength and control not to break out laughing."

Hollywood On The Loose...

Filmtown Facts And Fancies

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 31 — Producer Hal Wallis is the latest bidder for the sequel to "The Jolson Story," if the MGM deal goes sour. Hal wants to be novel about it and let Jolie play himself . . . Joan Crawford wants a change of pace, and now it looks as if she will play a fiery Spanish gal in Jack Chertok's production of Scott O'Dell's novel, "Hill of the Hawk." Background is the early days of California . . . Greg McClure, who played John L. Sullivan, is being tested to replace Johnny Weissmuller in the Tarzan series.

JOHNSON

I'm glad to report that Barbara Stanwyck has turned down the "new look." Husband Bob Taylor just doesn't like those long skirts and padded hips. Barbara told Edith Head:

"I would rather please my husband than some designer."

HORSE D'OEUVRES

APROPOS of the Hollywood employment slump, a friend asked Michael O'Shea how many horses he has now. "Two," replied Mike. "We ate the others."

I said it a year ago, when Laraine Day was making headlines with Leo Durocher. And I say it again. The front page never hurt anybody in Hollywood. Headlines are happy lines for Hollywood stars, and it doesn't make any difference about the subject matter. The escapades of th stars increase their value at the box-office.

Despite Lana Turner's current suspension at M-G-M and her romantic headlines with Bob Topping, still not divorced from Arline Judge, you can bet the Lana will be a bigger draw at the box-office this year. A footnote to this might be: You can beef all you want about what goes on in Hollywood, but as long as you pay at the box-office, it goes on.

Lovely People Department: Before a recent movietown marriage, the husband-to-be wanted to buy a honeymoon home. But the bride-to-be insisted that he buy the place after the ceremony. Both had the same idea. He wanted the house to be in his name only in case of a divorce. She wanted both names on the papers to qualify the house as community property for the same reason. She got her way.

Another highly touted romance (not Ty Power or Lana Turner) didn't reach the altar because the gal, konwing the marriage could not last, insisted upon a $250,000 pre-marital settlement. The guy, madly in love, tried desperately to raise the money but was $50,000 short. The gal walked out on him. He has since married another girl and, I'm glad to report, is very happy.

VIDEO PLUGS

SIGNS of the Times: Enterprise studio will use television trailers to plug "Arch of Triumph." . . . More miscasting: Jimmy Ames, a night club comedian, played a killer in his first movie, "Forever Amber." Now, in "The Fighting Terror," he beats up a couple of gents.

Not in the script: William "Wild Bill" Elliott says, "All a man has to do to make his wife happy is to treat her the same as a cowboy treats his horse."

After the first showing of "Another Part of the Forest," Eddie O'Brien observed to Fredric March that their co-player, Dan Duryea, had stolen a few scenes.

"A few scenes?" yelled March. "That guy stole so many scenes I'm swearing out a warrant for grand larceny!"

DICK JURGENS

Dick Jurgens Band Playing At Cotton Club Monday Night

Dick Jurgens, who combines his talents as a band leader with those of a composer, will appear at the Cotton club with his band Monday night.

Theme song of the band is "Day Dreams Come True at Night," which Jurgens composed back in his college days as a term paper in a music course.

"Elmer's Tune," which first was played by the Jurgens band during an engagement at the Aragon ballroom in Chicago, was a joint accomplishment of Jurgens and Elmer Albrecht, an embalmer who frequently dropped in on the band's rehearsal sessions during the Aragon engagement and would practice two-finger arrangements on the piano. He seemed to concentrate on one cimple ditty and finally Jurgens wrote an elaborate score for it, which met with success before Aragon dancers. It was called "Elmer's Tune." It was later recorded and because of continued popularity, lyrics were written by Sammy Gallup.

Among other numbers on which Jurgens collaborated are "Careless," written with bandleader Eddy Howard when he was a vocalist with Jurgens' band; "One Dozen Roses," dedicated to his brother-in-law, who is a florist; "A Million Dreams Ago," "I Do, Do You," "If I Knew Then," "It's a Hundred to One I'm in Love," and "I Won't Be Home Any More When You Call."

Admission for the dance will be $2, tax included.

Candidate With Nine Children Campaigns For More Play Space

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 31 (U.P.)—Bandleader Jimmy Downey, who has nine children, announced his candidacy as a non-partisan today for mayor of suburban Richmond heights (pop. 10,000).

He said he'd run on a platform of bigger and better playgrounds.

His daughters are Mary Lou, Mary Ann, Mary Virginia, Mary Delores, Mary Jane and Mary Eileen. His sons are Jimmie Joseph, jr., Jimmie Francis and Jimmie Martin.

He said the same first names for the boys and girls was confusing for outsiders, but he has a solution.

Program Set At Tech On Lamb Feeding Results On Feb. 14

Sheep ranchers and others interested in the 1947-48 lamb feeding research are invited to visit the college Saturday afternoon, Feb. 14, when this year's experiments will be concluded and the lambs will be available for observation, according to Ray C. Mowery, head of the animal husbandry department and director of the experiments.

Observations and discussions of the research will begin at 1 p. m., Mowery stated.

The feeding project, which has also been conducted during two previous years, is directed toward determining the relative values of Plainsman milo and Martin milo for fattening lambs, finding the value of shelter during the fattening period, and determining the value of allowing fattening lambs to harvest Plainsman milo.

The current project was started last Oct. 31.

Market Week Set By Amarilloans

AMARILLO, Jan. 31 (Spl.)—Retail merchants from Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Colorado are expected to be here in large numbers for Market Week, beginning on February 22 and running through February 24.

Organization Of Dawson Duroc Swine Raisers' Group Planned

LAMESA, Jan. 31. (Special)—The organization of a Dawson county Duroc swine raisers' association was begun here recently at a meeting in County Agent T. A. Barfield's office.

Officers elected to head the association, whose chief aim will be to raise bigger and better swine, included Noel Cooper, president; Joe Peterson, vice-president; Duard Schmidt, secretary; and R. D. Spruill, treasurer.

A committee was named to draft the constitution and by-laws for the organization. Named to this body were the officers and Raymond Carr, H. W. Derstine, W. T. Pomroy and T. A. Barfield. The group will meet again as soon as the committee has completed its work.

Human Goodness, Like A Pump, Only Needs A Little Priming

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 31—The headlines scream:

"Man shoots wife, says lover."

"Rich hubby trapped in love nest with blonde."

"High-living bank cashier flees with $85,000."

"War looms in Balkan friction."

And some readers get the idea that there is little in life except chaos and disorder. They overlook the fact that it would be a terrible world indeed if it became a matter of page one news every time someone found a man living a good life.

Didn't Need Lantern

Old Diogenes didn't need a lantern to find an honest man. All he needed was to wipe the windshield of his own cynicism.

The world is full of people who are basically good. If it weren't the bad ones would lock up the good ones and murder and mayhem would be about as newsworthy as a scratched finger is today.

Philanthropy is as natural to man as hunger or toenails or sleep. If the ordinary man is only a two-bit Andrew Carnegie in the field of giving—why, it's because that's the best we can do. A newspaper doesn't print all the neighborly acts of kindness and anonymous deeds of good will that go on in its community every day because—among other reasons — there simply wouldn't be space for them.

Story Comes Along

But occasionally a story comes along illustrating the age-old goodness of people that is so dramatic it becomes news.

And such is the story of 15-year-old Marilyn Losby of St. Paul, Minn., and the townspeople who helped her to live.

Marilyn suffered from a rare disease called "coarctation of the aorta." This is an ailment which constricts the main arterial trunk line. Seeking to force the blood through, the heart becomes enlarged. Unable to carry on, it surrenders to death.

The girl was told only two doctors in the United States could operate and cure her. One was a surgeon in the children's hospital in Boston. He agreed to perform the delicate operation—which consists of removing the small constricted section of the artery and sewing the two loose ends together again.

They Lacked Money

But Marilyn and her widowed mother lacked money.

Marilyn went to work as a baby sitter. But the fund grew slowly, and each month of delay made her risk greater.

Then Paul Light, a columnist on the St. Paul Pioneer Press, learned of her case and published the facts.

"I don't know what's to be done about it," he told his readers. "I've merely given you the story. I thought it might interest you."

It did. By nine o'clock next morning more than $2,000 for the operation fund had been contributed. The Elks lodge wanted to assume the whole costs. A trust fund was established, and Paul Light wrote later:

Five-Hour Operation

"The hardest part of our job was shutting off donations. I could easily have collected $10,000."

Marilyn went to Boston. She needed the courage she brought with her. For one so nearly grown it was a particularly difficult operation. It took five hours.

But she is alive and well today. She owes her life to unknown friends who needed only to hear of her plight to come forward with her help.

And they weren't even asking for first call on Marilyn's services as a baby sitter.

McAllen Beer Sale Ordinance Invalidated By State Ruling

McALLEN, Jan. 31. (AP) — A local ordance pertaining to the sale of beer and liquor has been declared invalid by the State attorney general's office.

The ordnance prohibited the sale of beer or other alcoholic beverages within 450 feet of a church or school. The state's ruling said this conflicted with a state law prohibiting such sale within 300 feet of a school of church.

Civil Service Commission Is Well Chosen; HST Dislikes Being 'Hard'

WORK ENTAILED

Its Task Difficult

MOST Lubbock citizens will approve, unreservedly, the choice of the mayor and City commission for membership on the new City Civil Service commission authorized at a City election last Dec. 2.

The members are Harry Morris, auto company executive, chairman; Marion Sanford, insurance man, and George W. McCleskey, young attorney. Mr. Morris and Mr. Sanford long have been active in community affairs. Mr McCleskey has a background of four years' naval service in World War II, which is sure to be of special value to the group in its necessarily frequent dealings with veterans.

The primary purpose in creating the new commission was to take the Police and Fire departments out of politics as much as possible. This protection in Lubbock probably will be extended to all city departments. The board concept of the plan is to get better workers through competitive examinations, apply merit as the basis for promotions and protect employes against unjust suspensions, discharges, or other penalties.

It remains to be seen how well the plan will work in practice. But if it can be made to work, as certainly it should be, we believe the three men selected are eminently qualified for the job.

This does not suggest their duties will be easy. There will be much plain, hard work. Worse, the commission's rulings will involve human factors on occasions to distress men impelled by a sense of duty to forego compassion in the discharge of unpleasant tasks. They will take their worries home with them many times. Criticisms may be frequent, praise rare.

But this also is an opportunity for real community service. The commission, as constituted, has all the qualifications to take full advantage of that opportunity, and to make the most of it.

We congratulate the new commissioners on the spirit which inspired their acceptance of this call to community service.

Gandhi's Murder

REALISTIC people cannot blind themselves to the threat to world peace which has resulted from the assassination of Mohandas K. Gandhi. The danger is serious. No one can pretend to say immediately just how serious it may be.

The most apparent of the immediate dangers is that of full scale and chaotic civil and religious war among India's 400,000,000 people. A possibility which cannot be ignored is that the assassination may inflame that unfortunate land in one of the bloodiest reigns of terror the world ever has seen.

If that should happen, world peace will hang in a balance even more perilous than at present. It would provide a temptation to take sides which some nations, covetous of India's riches, might not resist. If other nations should begin taking sides in an Indian civil war, only an optimist can hope that a global conflict could be postponed long.

The hope is that swift action by responsible authorities may be able to save divided India from becoming the victim of mob law. Perhaps the United Nations organization may be able to do something for peace, which would justify its existence. Surely some of the followers of this great man, whose whole life was dedicated to peace, will do what they can to keep his death from plunging his people and the world into the violence and bloodshed he hated above all things.

For the present, about all the world's millions can do is to pray and hope that world catastrophe will not be the price exacted for the life of a man who, in the opinion of many leading thinkers, will be ranked by future historians among the greatest of his century.

An old-timer is a person who remembers when the doctor consulted a half-pound watch and counted the patient's pulse for a full minute.

The statement by a surgeon that every human being has two distinct brains is doubly flattering to many persons.

"Who's Your Friend With The Hatchet?"

LESSON PERTINENT FOR POSTWAR WORLD OF TODAY

Colonies Faced Same Problem Confronting The UN

"THE GREAT REHEARSAL: THE STORY OF THE MAKING AND RATIFYING OF THE CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES," by Van Doren; (Viking); "THE ENDURING FEDERALIST," edited and analyzed by Charles A. Beard; (Doubleday).

THESE distinguished scholars have turned back to the crucial months of the Constitutional Convention in Philadelphia for a lesson pertinent in these first years of the postwar world.

Thirteen independent sovereign colonies, big and little, rich and poor, strong and weak, with and without slavery, and practicing democracy at different levels, faced somewhat the same problem which now confronts the independent and sovereign countries joined loosely in the United Nations.

CARL VAN DOREN

The Colonies had their Articles of Confederation, and having learned through war how inadequate a governmental foundation they were, they sent delegates to Philadelphia to improve on them. The delegates were instructed to "revise," not to form a new system, but they almost at once felt impelled to start afresh.

Van Doren's book, with a title that presages today's great question, takes us back to Independence Hall and invites us to sit in on the momentous deliberations which began in May and continued into September. He wrote at a disadvantage, for the records are incomplete. The delegates, wary of "licentious publication," insisted on secrecy; "covenants openly arrived at" would have been news to them, and it required an amendment to their historic document to secure freedom of the press. "The arguments are the story," the author says, and the Great (Connecticut) Compromise is the climax. The book deserves the wide reading which Book-of-the-Month Club selection assures it.

Beard has chosen from "The Federalist," which was the masterly defense of the work of the Philadelphia convention, the passage which seem to him most pertinent to the needs of people today. In an admirable foreword to the writings of Hamilton, Madison and Jay, he calls their work the "indespensable book" on the American system. No better man could have done this job.

Capital Cavalcade

"WASHINGTON CAVALCADE," by Charles Hurd; (Dutton).

HERE is an entertaining chronicle of the doings of society in the capital from Dolly Madison to the late Evalyn Walsh McLean of Hope diamond fame.

Hurd, in the New York Times Washington bureau for 18 years and a member by marriage of an old Washington family, has had what Dutton describes as "a unique opportunity to observe Washington society in exactly the right proportions."

He gives the reader a sizeable goulash of gaudy and sedate soires, famous romances, quaint fashions and gargantuan menus of the old days and some mildly spicy gossip.

Discussing the greatly-enlarged news coverage of Washington since the beginning of the New Deal, he says that "the news columnists have flowered in the past decade to a point where some are the most powerful figures in Washington."

While appreciating his plug for members of his profession, seasoned capital newsmen will feel he has strayed a bit from "exactly the right proportions" in that appraisal.

Newspaper Book

"LATE CITY EDITION," by Joseph G. Herzberg and members of the staff of the New York Herald-Tribune; (Holt).

THE experts who tell in this very readable book how a metropolitan daily newspaper is made have some sound advice:

Whatever you aspire to be in the editorial side of a newspaper, son, get your training in straight reporting.

Says the sports writer: "If you really want to be a sports writer go hound the city editor for a job chasing fire engines."

Says the arts critic: "There are occasional experts who come to journalistic criticism without any preliminary training in newspaper work, but many of the most celebrated have put in their apprenticeship on three alarm fires or police courts."

And the reason, says Herzberg, young city editor, is that the good reporter has a devouring curiosity for the facts, which keeps him alert.

Looking At Life ----- By Erich Brandeis

DON'T write about religion," said my wife to me when I told her I was going to write this column. "You know darn well that every time you do, a hundred people write you and give you arguments."

Well, I don't care.

To me religion is something living and vital. It's part of my life and I am perfectly willing to argue with all comers about it.

I am not a churchgoer, mind you.

I don't believe that I must get up early in the morning on Sunday to worship God.

If God does not live with you in your own home, if his teachings and his word are not in your heart — then you have no religion even if you go to church fifty-two Sundays a year and twice every Sunday.

So here goes.

Out of Covington, Ind., comes a story that they had a "Bible consciousness" marathon consisting of the reading of the Old and New Testaments from beginning to end and that the job was completed in seventy-four hours.

Conducted in the County Courthouse with 175 volunteers reading in half-hour relays, says the story, the job was carried through despite a power failure which necessitated the use of oil lamps and cigar lighters for illumination.

A new record has been established and Covington, Ind., now has the proud distinction of having read the Bible faster than it has ever been done before.

Congratulations, Covington, Ind., and now I ask you "So what?"

WHAT have you accomplished by this Bible marathon?

Has it made you better men and women?

Has it made you kindlier, more tolerant, has it made better Christians of you?

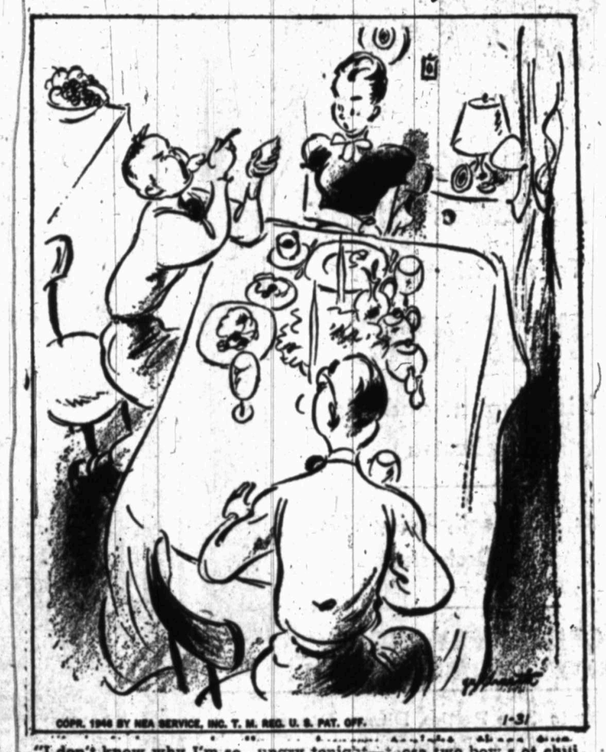

I have read the Bible ever since I was a child. I am not finished with it yet, and I hope I shall never be finished with it.

To me the Bible is not an instrument of torture or of endurance, but a treasure of solace, companionship and wisdom.

I don't give a fig for dogma

OFTEN DODGES TASK

Eccles A Good Sport

By DREW PEARSON
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON. — President Truman has fired a lot of people lately, but he hates to do it face to face. Frequently he delegates the unpleasant job to others.

The demotion of Marriner Eccles as Federal Reserve chairman — which cost Truman a lot of resentment both in the south and among FDR's old friends—was left to presidential assistant John Steelman.

PEARSON

Eccles, one of the few surviving Roosevelt executives in the administration, was struck speechless by the news. And like Francis Biddle, who was fired as attorney general through a phone call by Steve Early, Eccles felt the President owed him a personal explanation. So he asked for and obtained an interview.

It was not a happy session.

"I give you my word, he did not," replied Truman.

"Well, who did?" persisted the Utah banker who has guided Federal Reserve policies for so many years. "You yourself say you have complete confidence in me and are satisfied with my record."

Insurance Companies Meat-Ax

Truman admitted that someone else had tipped the scales against Eccles but refused to tell who it was. Later it was reported that Lewis Douglas, U. S. ambassador to Great Britain and head of the Mutual Life Insurance company, had put in the final stab, while the knife was turned by George Harrison, president of the New York Life Insurance company.

The insurance companies have long bucked Eccles' policy of keeping up the price of government bonds through his "open market committee," which stands ready to buy government bonds if the insurance companies and other big buyers lay off buying in order to force prices down.

Truman was nervous throughout the conference and obviously wanted to get it over. He recalled that when he took office, Eccles had offered to resign.

"I can't understand you, Mr. President," shot back Eccles. "I can't reconcile your statements of confidence in me with the action you have taken. Also, I don't like the abrupt way this has been handled. The least you could have done would have been to inform me of your wishes sooner. Had you done so, I could have retired gracefully."

Eccles left the meeting in a huff.

His anger subsided, however, after conferring with friends, who urged him to pocket his pride and accept the vice-chairmanship. The big bankers, stockbrokers and insurance companies wanted to get him off the board, these friends advised. He owed it to his country to stay on the firing line against the inflation interests.

So, when Eccles walked into Truman's office for a second interview, he exuded cheerfulness.

"I'VE decided to accept your offer, Mr. President, and continue in the capacity as vice-chairman," he said brightly. "I feel I am doing the best thing. I suppose it is easy to fly off the handle in a situation like this and get your name in the papers, but I prefer to buckle down and help carry the load."

"I'm glad to hear it," responded Truman. "To show you that I've got nothing against you, I'll write you a letter so that the public will know the confidence I have in you."

"I'm still a little curious about several things," Eccles interposed. "One is—why I wasn't notified of this sooner. Had that been done, the chances are I would have arranged my affairs and left the board. Also, I'm a little surprised about Tom McCabe not telling me that he had been offered my job. I know him quite well."

Truman replied that the answer to the first question was that he didn't "definitely" make up his mind until recently.

"I decided about a week ago, and this is the first chance I've had to talk to you. As for Tom McCabe—maybe he was requested not to tell."

"Well, I wouldn't be trustful if I told you I liked the way this had been handled," Eccles repeated. "However, I understand your position. And I agree with you that it is a good policy to rotate the board chairmanships. I said so as long ago at 1935.

"Then, again, I guess I've become a symbol that proves embarrassing to you at times. Certain groups are for me and certain others against me. There seems to be no middle ground. That isn't my fault. I've given the best of my ability to doing a job as I think it should be done. So if you think my stepping down will help matters, I'm willing to abide by your decision."

Note—Democratic national committeemen wrung their hands over the appointment of conservative Republican Tom McCabe to take Eccles' place. "Every appointment like this," moaned one official, "makes Truman look more like Taft. It wins no Republican votes and loses a lot of Democratic votes to Henry Wallace."

Will South Take Douglas?

Sniffing the political wind from up north, Mississippi's hard-shelled Senator James Eastland hoisted a storm warning the other day and gave notice that he would oppose Justice William Douglas as President Truman's 1948 running mate.

"I think it is a shameful thing," opined the gentleman from Mississippi, "that politicians . . . would attempt to put the Supreme court of the United States in politics. (It) will cause the people to think that every decision of Mr. Justice Douglas is swayed by political considerations."

He was referring to a news report that Douglas had already been picked for vice president by the New York politicians.

"Our people are tired of politicians who plan and plot and politicalize the highest court of this country," Eastland roared on.

Whereupon a Republican senator, Wayne Morse of Oregon, quietly rose and asked unanimous consent to insert in the Congressional Record a "great speech delivered by a great American."

"The speech," Morse explained, "was delivered by a great justice of the United States — Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas."

DEWEY, MACARTHUR, STASSEN GAIN

Effect Of 'Ike's' Stand Studied

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director
American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, Jan. 31—What Republicans gain most in popularity, in the race for the G.O.P. nomination, by General Dwight D. Eizenhower's bowing out?

An analysis of the second choices of Republican voters who wanted to see General Eisenhower run indicates that Governor Thomas E. Dewey, General Douglas MacArthur and Harold E. Stassen receive the largest number of Eisenhower second choice votes.

GALLUP

However, the three men do not make impressive gains by the General's bowing out because Eisenhower's strength was never as extensive among regular party members as it was among independents. It was largely because of support from independents, and from wavering Democrats, that Eisenhower ran well against President Truman in trial heats recently reported by the Institute.

Had Led Surveys

Regular Republican voters never showed much enthusiasm for the nomination of the General. Out of party loyalty they were ready to support him against Truman, the Democrat, if the race narrowed down to those two. But only about one-fifth of the regular G.O.P. voters favored the General's nomination in preference to other party leaders more cleanly identified with the Republican cause, and actively seeking the nomination.

A popularity poll on the nominations was completed by the Institute just before the General took his name out of the nomination race. A list of eight Republicans who have been talked about most frequently in the press as possible nominees was handed to voters, and they were asked to indicate their first choice and second choice today.

General Eisenhower had 19 per cent first choices among Republican voters. For second choice these 19 per cent divided: 5 per cent for Dewey, 4 per cent for MacArthur, 3 per cent for Stassen, 2 per cent for Taft, 1 per cent for Vandenberg. Two per cent expressed a preference for a Democrat as second choice, chiefly President Truman and Secretary of State George Marshall, and 2 per cent said thy were undecided about their second choice.

	Including Eisen.	Excluding Eisen.
Dewey	33%	38%
Eisenhower	19	—
Taft	13	15
Stassen	12	15
MacArthur	10	14
Vandenberg	5	6
Warren	5	5
Martin	1	1
Name a Democrat	—	2
No choice	2	4

It should be borne in mind that presidential nominees are picked by the party convention delegates and not by a vote of the people in polls or other types of popular expression.

New Plan Explained

In conducting today's survey the Institute is following the pattern of the so-called "Nebraska Plan" of presidential primaries initiated recently by leaders of both parties in Lincoln, Nebraska.

A state-wide bipartisan committee has been formed, headed by Raymond A. McConnell, jr., editor of the Journal newspapers of Lincoln, to put the names of all people importantly mentioned for the Presidency on the official ballot which will be handed to Nebraska voters in the primary April 13.

The list used in today's Institute survey was taken from the Nebraska list, and the purpose of the survey was to give Republican voters throughout the whole nation the same chance to express their views on possible nominees as Nebraska Republicans will have in April.

MR. McConnell in describing the intent of the Nebraska committee said:

"The committee is endorsing one thing only, and that is the principle of encouraging broader popular participation in the Presidential primary. We are simply trying to see that the voters have a full and genuine choice and a real opportunity to register their sentiments in advance of the national conventions."

As historians are aware, that was the original purpose of presidential primaries. In recent decades, however, such primaries have lost much of their meaning because many aspirants for nomination have refused to enter them, or have entered only a few, thus making it impossible to get any real official test of popularity throughout the nation.

Thirty-Fourth Street Chapel To Celebrate Anniversary Today

The first anniversary of the Thirty-fourth Street chapel, a mission of the First Baptist church, will be celebrated today with special services this morning, this afternoon and tonight, and a dinner on the grounds at Adams avenue and Thirty-fourth at noon.

John Baker, pastor, reported the chapel has a congregation of 121 members and a Sunday school enrollment of 194. Sunday school attendance during January averaged 124, he said.

A group of young people from the First church, including several who joined in opening the mission a year ago, will conduct the morning services. Jerry Smyth will preach. The program tonight will include speaking, singing and motion pictures of the vacation Bible school, Sunday school and chapel. A film titled, "American Mission" also will be shown.

The program for the afternoon service, starting at 2 o'clock, follows: congregational singing, led by Bob Rose; prayer, the Rev. George Dale; welcoming of visitors; selections by the Brotherhood chorus of the First church, led by Rex Webster; address by Merritt Clark, chairman of the chapel committee; introduction of leaders and recognition of members of chapel organizations; congregational singing; saw solo, Paul Willis, accompanied by Roy Bass; sermon, Dr. J. Ralph Grant, pastor of the First church; selection by the oung People's quartet of the First church; violin solo, Mrs. Jerry Horton; sermon by the Rev. Franklin Swanner, district missionary.

Dr. Kemp To Speak At Temple Baptist Church Here Today

Dr. Roy A. Kemp, nationally known speaker and teacher on Bible prophecy, is to speak twice today, at the regular morning and night services, at Temple Baptist church, Washington and Edna streets (Arnett-Benson addition), it was announced yesterday by Rev. Ralph G. McCoy, pastor, who is to preach at Electra.

Dr. Kemp, who has spoken here before, is to conduct a Bible school from Feb. 8 to 22, teaching the book of Revelation, the announcement said. The speaker, who has made a long study of prophetic Revelation, teaches the book from memory, quoting any part of it, along with many other Scripture references without using his Bible. He is former dean of the Bible Baptist seminary at Fort Worth, and has spoken throughout the nation.

Growth of the host church has been remarkable, the pastor believes. Organized two years ago in a cottage, with six charter members, the church now has 200 members, two nice buildings, and what was described as a pressing need for an auditorium. Church leaders are seeking to rent a business or school building in the vicinity for use by the Sunday school each week until adequate room can be provided.

Survey Shows Some Rio Grande Valley Crops Damaged By Cold

HARLINGEN, Jan. 31. (AP) — Tomatoes, carrots and beets were damaged by recent severe cold weather in the Rio Grande valley, but citrus fruits and cabbage came through unscathed.

Hart T. Longino, chief of the Federal-State Inspection service here, said a survey indicated the tomato crop was hurt the most.

INK IS FROZEN

MAYVILLE, N. Y., Jan. 31 (AP) —A Chautauqua county court trial was suspended temporarily when Clerk Lucian Nowak found his ink had frozen.

Contrary to popular belief, radar probably will be of little value in locating hidden minerals in the crust of the earth. Microwaves have practically no depth penetration.

TO SPEAK HERE — Joseph Goldberg, above, of Worcester, Mass., will speak at a meeting of Lubbock Zionist district at Congregation Shaareth Israel at 8:15 o'clock Tuesday night. He is national chairman of the membership committee of the Zionist Organization of America, honorary president of the New England Zionist region, was president of the New England Zionist region in 1939-41, has been president of the Worcester Zionist district the last 17 years and was formerly a member of the national administrative committee of the Zionist Organization of America. He will attend the State Zionist convention today in San Antonio. Rabbi Julius Kerman of Congregation Shaareth Israel will attend the state meeting.

Church Notes

A Youth Revival, starting this morning at Calvary Baptist church and continuing through next Sunday, will feature young preachers and mission work volunteers in the sermons and directing of music. No morning services will be held on weekdays, but services will be held each evening at 7:30 p. m., it was announced.

Looking At Life

I don't care whether that Bible of mine is the Bible of Presbyterian, Methodist, Catholic or Jew.

That Bible of mine contains more sound philosophy of life than any other fifty books or a thousand books.

When I am puzzled about something, when I have reached a dead-end street, I look at my Concordance to my Bible and look up the problem that vexes me.

So far, I have never yet failed to find the answer in my Bible.

It is divine, and because it is devine, it is human.

Family Nights Set This Week

The series of farm family nights, sponsored by various agencies interested in promotion of better living on the farm, will be continued this week with meetings at Idalou Monday night and at Shallowater Thursday night, it was announced yesterday by Dave Sherrill, county agent.

Meetings have been held previously at Slaton, Roosevelt, Cooper, Wolfforth (Frenship), and Monroe, and others are planned until every community in the county has been reached, Sherrill said.

Explanation Given

The meetings were explained by Sherrill as get-acquainted sessions, and an effort to acquaint the people with the services offered by various agencies. Starting at 7:30 o'clock at each place, the meetings usually last about one hour and a half, including 30 minutes of entertainment sponsored by the Lubbock Junior Chamber of Commerce. Balance of the time is used by representatives of various agencies in explaining briefly the functions of his or her agency.

Refreshments are served by the Farm Bureau and the Lubbock National bank.

The Monday night meeting at Idalou is to be held at the club house, and Thursday's Shallowater meeting is to be at the school gym. Sherrill said he was pleased with attendance at past meetings, but hopes more will participate in future sessions. Invitation was extended also to business men and others in Lubbock to attend any or all of the meetings.

Last Rites Pending For Former Weatherford News Publisher

WEATHERFORD, Jan. 31. Funeral services were pending today for Robert Kerr Phillips, 70, postmaster here since 1934 and a former newspaper publisher.

Hubert Phillips Assessed Five Years By Wichita Falls Court

WICHITA FALLS, Jan. 31 (AP) Hubert Phillips, 35, last night was assessed five years in prison by a jury which convicted him of murder without malice in the slaying of Leroy Farabee, 33.

Defense attorneys during the trial attempted to show that Phillips struck Farabee only once with his fist and then in self defense when the two men fought Sept. 23.

Hard metals for bearings, pistons, cylinders, dies and machine tools can now be obtained by a new process of depositing, in an electrlytic bath, tungsten alloys on metal surfaces.

YOU'RE ALWAYS WELCOME

NORTH LIGHT ON EVERY SIDE OF YOUR HOME WITH SLATS-O-WOOD

TIME was when you either stood the glare of direct sun, or put up with darkened interiors, depending on whether you had no awnings or awnings that admitted almost no light. Now, Slats-o-wood — graceful, colorful, individual in style and appearance—filter direct sun and glare through a staggered slat arrangement, giving a soft, diffused light throughout every room. Not only that, but Slats-o-wood—made of fine, light, top-grade, permanent wood, from West Coast forests—need never be taken down. With merely an occasional coat of paint they will maintain their good looks for the life of your home.

For these and other reasons, home owners in every part of the South are now installing permanent, year-round Slats-o-wood. Budget plan available. Please phone us today for free literature about Slats-o-wood, and an estimate if you wish. You will be under no obligation, of course.

The CHIROPRACTOR-and You

SHORTNESS OF BREATH SWELLING OF FEET AND LEGS

Case History No. 1585; Man; Age 63; Symptoms: Swelling of feet and legs advancing upwards to chest; Shortness of Breath; Legs hard and reddish discoloration of skin; Severe weakness and unable to work.

CAME TO STEPHENS CHIROPRACTIC CLINIC

After taking various forms of treatment methods he decided to come to the STEPHENS CHIROPRACTIC CLINIC where THE SO-CALLED HOPELESS DO GET WELL, to see if something different could not be done for him. X-Rays were made of his spine which has shown that the vertebrae in his spinal column were misaligned. The Neurocalometer proved the degree of nerve interference coming from his spinal column and leading to the affected region of the body. He took a course of SPECIFIC CHIROPRACTIC SERVICE.

What Chiropractic Has Done For Him

After a course of Scientific Chiropractic this man is now well and happy. His shortness of breath is gone; His feet and legs do not swell anymore; His legs are back to normal and the reddish discoloration is a thing of the past; His strength is back to normal now and last but not least he is working every day. He says, "I think Chiropractic is the greatest of all healing sciences because it has saved my life. I would not have been here had it not been for chiropractic stepping in as a last resort and correcting the cause of my troubles, even after everything else I tried had failed."
