The Library Corner

"Lives of great men oft remind us of our own." Abraham Lincoln once walked twenty miles to obtain a book. You don't have to. You may stroll down to the free public library and select any one of about a thousand books placed there for your pleasure.

But have you been to the library lately? Despite the fact that nearly seven-hundred names of users are recorded there one is surprised in looking over the list to discover that some of the people are that have not taken advantage of this institution.

If this fountain of look-lore were not present in our city there are many using its facilities who would regret it tremendously, and there are others who would then probably complain of the fact that we had no public library.

Andrew Carnegie told how important the library was in his education and vowed that if he ever made his fortune he'd see to it that other folks had the same privilege. Thus it was that the idea of founding thousands of libraries throughout this country was born in the mind of Carnegie.

Thomas Edison admitted that a great proportion of his scientific knowledge was gleaned from library shelves and hoped the time would come when everybody could enjoy the same opportunity.

The Wright brothers, DeForrest, Morse, college professors, students, and countless others, famous for one thing or another, have relied upon library collections for their mountains of information, for, to buy the necessary books personally would have been prohibitive.

If you wish to write on some unfamiliar subject—or to look up information—or to find the answers to some of those puzzles, the library shelves hold the references you need.

Don't overlook the fact that you have a library in town and that it belongs to you.

We're All in the Same Boat

The recent announcement of a plastic automobile suggests that the time may not be far distant when cars will be made entirely of products grown on the farm. When that happens, harvest time may come to mean a bumper crop of limousines.

The idea is not so fanciful as it might at first appear, for already many farm products are changed into industrial articles. Through the magic of research casein from milk becomes wool and also a plastic material. Corn is used in making glycerines and dry ice, cornstarch in making paper. Sugar cane goes into building boards; soy beans into paint, enamel and linoleum. One large chemical company alone buys 166 millions lbs. of cotton, 36 million pounds of cotton lint, and 36 million bushels of corn from farmers each year. As industrial research finds new uses for farm crops, industry will depend more and more on agriculture as a source of raw materials.

And agriculture, in turn, will depend on industry for more inventions like radios, telephones and labor-saving machinery that have made the farm a much pleasanter place to live than it was a generation or two ago.

Because the two groups provide markets for each other's products, the prosperity of the one depends on the prosperity of the other. Past experience has shown that when industry is making money, agriculture is making money, too.

Facts like these prove that here in America, we've all got a stake in each other's future. We may work in different parts of the country at different jobs. We may have different likes and dislikes. We may be divided into various groups—industrial employees, farmers, doctors, lawyers—but in the long run we're in the same boat.

And today we've all got to work together to solve our common problems. We've got to work together to check inflation, finance defense—in short we've all got to work together to insure our prosperity in the years to come.

Prize Winning Themes in the Defense Savings Bond and Stamp Contests

Kathleen Pinkerton won first place on her theme in the Perryton schools contest during Defense Savings Bonds and Stamp Week, November 3-11. For having the best theme, Kathleen Pinkerton was awarded a $25 bond. Second and third place winners were Cleo Paye Turner and John Lilly who were awarded $10 and $5 books of stamps, respectively. The three prize winning themes are as follows:

In Defense of Liberty

KATHLEEN PINKERTON

Every loyal American citizen today is aware of the vital importance of National Defense. As dearly as we cherish peace, we know if it is to be preserved in our land, we must prepare to defend it.

Our nation has never worshipped military might, nor sought military glory at the expense or sacrifice of others, and it has only been as President Monroe once wrote, "When our rights are invaded or seriously menaced that we resent the injuries or make preparation for our defense."

When it is necessary to meet such a call America answers, "We are ready." America is arming and in the mighty defense effort in which we are now engaged every man, woman and child will share.

How familiar the story is to every one of us, of our first great struggle for freedom and independence, and just as our forefathers gave their lives that we might enjoy the privilege of freedom and liberty, so we stand prepared to defend the priceless heritage they have given us to defend everything we have, honor and hold dear.

The threat which becomes more vital each day—that United States is obviously on the verge of war—causes every citizen to realize he must do his part, as a true American; women and children, as well as men, are lifting their eyes from the small problems of every-day life and pledging their strength and their loyalty to the great programs of defense which will keep the freedom for their children in the years to come.

As our great factories and defense projects increase daily the production of necessary materials, for our own use, as well as for aid to Britain, we are becoming more vividly aware of the seriousness of the statement of President Roosevelt, "We must be the arsenal of democracy."

From the time the Nazis invaded the lowlands, United States has speeded her program of defense. Steps taken by Congress, in rapid succession, increased our regular army strength to 400,000 in June 1940 at the time France signed an Armistice with Germany; in July the "two ocean" Navy Bill for 206 more warships; on to September 1940, when the compulsory Selective Military Service Bill was signed.

Since this time, modern equipped training-camps have been organized and thousands of our American boys are being trained to stand ready, if needed in defense of America. Billions of dollars have been appropriated in the expansion of every phase of our defense—our Army, Navy and Air Corps.

We are each given the opportunity of doing our part, aiding in our own way, whether great or small, the defense of our beloved America by purchasing Defense Bonds and Stamps. How little to ask of those who have enjoyed the privileges of living under the Stars and Stripes, being able to worship at our own altars, express our own faith and live in freedom in our own native land! Our nickels, dimes and quarters—billions of them—add up to ships and guns, tanks and planes, all for the defense of the liberty we love.

In days when nations speak to nations through the voice of guns, we find ourselves facing squarely the problem of being prepared to answer, without fear, any such challenging voice.

So let us all work together, each doing his best to invest all possible in the purchase of Defense Bonds and Stamps. Let us realize the importance of helping at the time we are needed—when our Nation requires each one of us to stand at attention in the Defense of Liberty.

Positive Americanism

By CLEO PAYE TURNER

It is time for the schools of the nation to realize their national responsibilities. Ever since the glorious days of Washington and Jefferson, education has been an indispensable force for the development of an enlightened citizenry of this land.

Our schools have become the first line of defense against schools of thought subversive to the American ideals. Every teacher who enters the classroom must accept as a sacred mission the use of American ideals to teach American ideals to America's children. What every school in America should be, is a "To foster and perpetuate a one hundred per cent Americanism."

This question has been asked of the American people, "For what do we give thanks in a year like this?" The question could be answered in several ways, such as this: Every one should be especially thankful for "The American Idea" carved out high and strong and left standing by our Founding Fathers. And then one must ask in another breath if we ourselves are well tending it, base, shaft, and peak. Above all, be thankful for unity, democracy, free education and open doors of churches.

Ideas are formed from positive influence and the whole organization of the curriculum must be designed to utilize the cumulative power of our American heritage that lies in American customs, traditions and institutions. Subversive activities designed to produce a fifth column in our land will have little effect upon a youth previously fortified with a sincere love for his country, a respect for its history, and with successful individual experiences in living in a democratic community.

True patriotism is not characterized by merely a passive attitude of acquiescence. Love of this country must be shown by an enduring strength of will and determination on the part of the individual to give of his best and noblest energies in serving the best interests of the community, state and nation. Knowledge of things American must be taught, but in addition there should be a loyal desire on the part of youth to serve.

Our young people must be made to feel that the blessing of liberty and opportunity which we enjoy have been bought at a price and that with every privilege there is a corresponding obligation. Those are only worthy of our free inheritance who are ready and willing to work and fight to defend it.

We must sell America, its constitution and its Declaration of Independence so completely to our own sons and daughters that they will be real zealots of the principles of Freedom, Peace and Democracy, eager to sell these ideals to all with whom they come in contact. We must teach them that it took the labor of centuries to produce a government of the people, by the people and for the people. Impress upon them the fact that Democracy must be a slow growth. That progress must use the failure of today as the stepping stones for the improvement of tomorrow. The younger generation of today must be taught that they must love America, they must live America, and most of all they must improve America. If we do this then Fascism, Communism, Nazism or any other ism except Americanism cannot survive on these shores.

Every American has a duty to his country which transcends every other consideration. If it asks of him service in the armed forces he should consider that service a duty.

Why We Should Get National Defense Bonds and Stamps

By JOHN LILLY

For the last eight or ten years the United States has been increasing and improving the Army and Navy. Its eyes open to the fact that if we have a powerful Army and Navy we will not only be more able to protect ourselves but we will be less likely to be attacked. There had to be some way of raising needed money for National Defense, other than by heavy Federal Tax.

On March the first, nineteen hundred and thirty-five, the Defense Savings Bonds and Stamps campaign began. In the middle of 1941, there was $3,900,000,000 out of the American peoples savings invested in this great cause. The maturity value exceeds $5,200,000,000. This is the largest sum of money invested in any single security and it represents the faith and loyalty of the American people. These figures are made of more than 2,500,000,000 men and women's savings.

The full and true faith of the United States Government is behind the payment on both principal and interest. We should never doubt the honesty and truthfulness of our Government. "The faith and truth of the U. S. constitution is fair. Its security we should not doubt for it is rare."

Those who hardly ever have enough money at one time to buy a whole bond may invest in the Stamp system. A person may buy a stamp for as little as 10 cents and 25 cents. The other stamp prices are 30 cents, $1.00 and $5.00.

With the first stamp you will get an album. You are to keep all your stamps in that album until you have enough to buy a Baby Bond. A Baby Bond costs $18.75 and in ten years the maturity value will be $25.00, or in other words it will increase at the rate of 25 per cent. You get $6.25 back in addition to the original $18.75.

The Series E Bond preserves the character of the Savings Bonds that has been so popular in the past. This type of bond is issued to meet the needs of the small investor that can buy for $18.75 a bond that will increase in ten years to the value of $25.00. Larger bonds are issued up to $1,000 that increases at the same rate of 25 per cent.

The Series F Bond is issued to meet the needs of those people who can invest up to $50,000 a year. It may also be bought by associations, trustees or corporations. They may buy for $74 a bond that will in 12 years appreciate to the value of $100.00. Still larger bonds are issued which give an investment yield of 2.53 per cent to mature in 12 years after date of issue.

The Series G Bond issued to meet the needs of individuals, trustees, associations and corporations that want current income checks. These bonds, offered at and privilege.

Every American has an important part to pay in National Defense. When you stop to think, Stamps and Bonds don't cost much and Uncle Sam certainly would appreciate every effort you make to help him.

What Uncle Sam means to me is symbol of my freedom, opportunity hard to express in words. He is to do as I please, say what I want, and to love America in the manner I choose.

The American youths of today are the men and women of tomorrow in whose hands our government lies. Defending America is a job that isn't easy, but for the freedom it offers, it is more than worth the time, energy and money on the part of the true Americans in this nation.

par, give interest at 2.5 per cent per annum. These are issued in denominations of $100 up to $10,000. They are redeemable at par if they are held for 12 years after issue date.

Persons may buy the Defense Bonds in Series E and the Stamps at United States Post Offices, Federal Reserve Banks, at banks and other designated sales agencies, or direct by mail from the Treasury of the United States, of from any Federal Reserve Bank.

The people of the United States have been a free people for 165 years and I would say that they would want to be here 10 times 165 years more. We have always through that 165 years had the right to speak freely, use the press, and worship God as to the dictates of our own conscience, so long as we do not trespass on our fellow man's rights. We now feel the need for all these things and we realize that if the United States Defense Workers haven't the needed materials, they can't make the needed machines. If we have not the needed machines and Hitler attacks us we will probably fall and lose all our freedom.

Therefore, in order to protect our freedom the American people have invested and we are investing in the National Defense Bonds and Stamps campaign. The little amount that you might put in may look awfully small but it takes the small things to add up and make the big things.

Let us all buy Defense Bonds and Stamp and save our freedom. It's worth it!

G. R. WILSON, general manager of the Wilson Funeral Home and Flower Shop, has been a resident of Ochiltree since 1907, coming to Ochiltree county from Buchanan county, Mo., his native state. Prior to entering the undertaking business in Perryton in 1921, he lived northeast of Perryton where he engaged in farming and stock raising. He still retains his farming interests. Bob Wilson has played a prominent part in the building of Perryton being ever active in civic affairs. For many years he served as a member of the Perryton school board.

Wilson Funeral Home Serves Big Area

Starting from a very modest beginning in 1921, Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Wilson have built the Wilson Funeral Home into one of the largest and most successful funeral services in this part of the Southwest. When the business was purchased from the late J. H. Norwood in 1921, the plant consisted of nothing much but a few caskets and very limited equipment for conducting of funerals.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson attended embalming schools in Chicago and Dallas and obtained state embalmers certificates from the Texas and Oklahoma boards.

Then in 1925, they purchased the building where their home is now located. It had been constructed by the Panhandle Lumber Co. for their office and retail store. An extensive remodeling program converted it into a modern funeral home with accommodations for chapel services, offices and living quarters.

As the business grew, so they expanded and added to their facilities for service. They now maintain a funeral home in Spearman with every facility for final rites for the people of that community. Edgar Womble is manager of the Spearman branch.

Territory now served almost exclusively by Wilson service includes all of Ochiltree and Hansford counties, north Hutchinson county, southwest Beaver county, southeast Texas county and Lipscomb county. Latest type funeral cars are maintained in Perryton and Spearman.

Started Growing of Flowers in 1930

While Mr. and Mrs. Wilson operated a flower shop for several years before 1930, it was not until that year that they constructed the first unit of their greenhouse and started the first commercial growing of flowers in Ochiltree county.

Under the able management of Mrs. Wilson this part of the business has grown until today they have a growing plant second to none for miles around. With 4,200 sq. ft. under glass, beautiful cut flowers and potted plants are growing that are in demand throughout a wide area.

Territory served by the greenhouse includes Spearman, Gruver, Beaver, Booker, Darrauzett, Lipscomb, Pollett and Shattuck.

Attend Flower Show

Mr. and Mrs. Oland Woodall were in Stillwater, Okla., over the weekend to attend the flower show sponsored by the Horticulture department of Oklahoma A. & M. college. Mr. Woodall is in charge of the greenhouse at the Wilson Flower Shop.

MRS. G. R. WILSON is active with her husband in the operation of the Wilson Funeral Home and Flower Shop and is the manager of the floral division of the business. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson are licensed embalmers both holding state certificates from the Oklahoma and Texas boards. Much credit for the smoothness of Wilson conducted services is due to Mrs. Wilson's efficiency and understanding.

Primps Up for Live Stock Show

Don, year-old Corriedale sheep, is rather pleased with his reflection after Marge Kauffman finishes primping the champion for the International Live Stock Show at Chicago.

New Oat and Barley Types

STILLWATER, OKLA.—(Special)—Two new varieties of winter oats and two of winter barley, thoroughly tested by the Oklahoma A. and M. College experiment station, have been distributed to the state's seed growers this fall, and will be ready for sale to farmers next year.

These winter grains can be put to good advantage in the northeast and southeast parts of the state where winter pasturage is not grown.

The four new varieties were selected and the seed supply increased by C. B. Cross, cerealist at the Oklahoma Agricultural Experiment Station.

Both varieties of oats are distinctly winter in type and should be planted in the fall. The barley varieties are intermediate in type and may be planted either in the fall or spring, Cross said.

Winter Fulghum C. I. 2500, a winter hardy selection from fulghum oats, provides a good pasture and its yield averaged 56.6 bushels per acre during the years from 1934 to 1941.

The performance of Oklahoma Selection 1446 was so conspicuous in the hard winter of 1935 that an effort was made to build up seed supplies for distribution. The average yield, for the five years period from 1935 to 1939, has been 60.9 bushels per acre.

Tenkow barley, selection from a cross between Tennessee Winter and Hankow, is medium in winter-hardness, being somewhat less hardy than Missouri to survive seven or eight out of ten winters in Oklahoma, and gives better yields than spring barley. In yield tests, over a five-year period, Tenkow has averaged 43.5 bushels per acre from fall seedings, and 28 bushels per acre from spring seedings.

Manchuria barley, a spring or intermediate type of barley, averages in the fall seedings, 43.4 bushels per acre, and in the spring seedings 24.4 bushels per acre.

Distributions of seeds this fall by Cross were as follows: Oklahoma selection 1446 oats, 277 bushels; winter fulghum C. I. 2500 oats, 39 bushels; Tenkow barley, 193 bushels; and Manchuria barley, 19 bushels.

Waka Club

"Benjamin Franklin said that when he was a boy the family carried on such an interesting conversation during the meals that he never knew that he ate," stated Mrs. Jim Davis at the meeting of the Waka Home Demonstration Club, Tuesday, November 18, in the home of Mrs. O. C. Rogers.

Other comments on "Ways to Make the Meal More Pleasant" were to set the table neatly, always have a pleasant conversation, have the table by a window where flowers, fish and birds can be placed, come to the table neatly dressed.

Names were drawn for the gift exchange at the Christmas party, December 16, in the home of Mrs. L. R. Conner. Mrs. Jim Davis, president-elect, appointed committee chairmen. A very interesting demonstration was given on "Table Service" by Mrs. O. C. Rogers.

Those present were Mesdames Jim Davis, P. W. Wernske, Walt Preston, Don Teater, C. B. Barber, Allen Dennison, Marvin Groves, Dan Manning, Norman Crum, J. R. Stump, and the hostess, Mrs. Rogers.

Meat Processing Demonstration

A meat demonstration built around the freezer locker method storage was held in Perryton Friday under the auspices of county extension agent E. W. Thomas and Miss Elizabeth Huffines. During the forenoon a mutton and hog belonging to C. O. Roach were cut up for storage in the freezer locker and curing of a portion of the hog carcass.

A beef belonging to Ollie Morris was cut up to utilize the choicer parts of the carcass as steaks and roasts for storage in the locker and canning of less valuable parts.

This method of handling the beef will conserve space in the lockers and will provide a ready supply of meat at home when it is not convenient to come to the locker in town or in an emergency. It also utilizes the entire beef without waste from the bones and trimmings. The cutting was done by Roy Snyder, meat specialist of the Extension Service.

The afternoon was devoted to canning under the direction of Miss Grace Neely, specialist in food preparation for the Extension Service. A total of 50 cans of meat products were processed consisting of stew, soup stock, hamburger and mince meat. Meat from the shanks, necks, flanks, and processed bones was used leaving the round, loins, ribs, forearms to go into the freezer locker. Mr. Morris expressed himself as being much pleased with this method of handling a beef.

Mrs. Mac Morris and Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Wood Sunday. They attended church in the morning.

The W. M. S. met with Mrs. J. O. Renfrow Thursday of last week. They had lesson in Royal Service and finished a quilt for Mrs. Mary Naylor. Those present were Mrs. S. H. Whittaker, Mrs. W. C. Naylor, Mrs. Mary Naylor, Mrs. Isabelle Jackson, Mrs. Raymond Jackson, Mrs. I. M. Whittaker, Mrs. A. M. Blackwelder, Mrs. Mabel Humphrey, Mrs. J. W. Cayler and the hostess, Mrs. Renfrow.

The Pribble boys combined maize for J. W. Cayler last Monday. Burt Teague hauled the grain.

Mrs. Ernie Allen returned to her home with her new son, who was born at Liberal Hospital November 7.

Chickens Should Be Treated Now For Fall Colds

STILLWATER, OKLA.—(Special)—Chickens like human beings are susceptible to colds. And, as in the case of people, the time to do something about colds is before they get started.

Just on the profit-hunting side of the picture, a healthy poultry flock benefits more from proper care and attention than does an ailing flock, says Don L. Brooks, assistant in poultry husbandry at the Oklahoma A. and M. College.

The best things that can be recommended for an ailing flock should be done while the birds are healthy, Brooks insists, adding that "It is unfortunate that in most cases of epidemics it takes the outbreak of the disease to rouse the flock owner to action."

At this time of year colds are prevalent. There are usually more sudden changes in temperature, accompanied by moisture during this season of the year. However, temperature and moisture are not as much responsible for the colds in poultry as are the many changes in management, housing and feeding conditions in late summer and fall.

Crowding a Hazard
In the fall more birds are on hand crowded into the same buildings which housed less birds during the spring and summer. There are also more birds for the same amount of feeders and waterers, grown together with hens or had Oftentimes the young birds were grown together with hens or had access to parasite and disease contaminated soil.

Cracks and openings in the north, east and west walls of the poultry house in many instances were not closed with the coming of cold drafts. Water may have come through the roof or floor. The birds have less access to green pasture. When cold, unfavorable weather arrives extra provisions must be made to supply it or other vitamin supplements.

Lowered Resistance
While colds are caused by infectious principles certain conditions definitely lower resistance and make birds susceptible. Crowded, dark, drafty and poorly ventilated houses, lice, mites, worms and inadequate rations lower vitality and resistance. Either one alone or in combinations may do it.

After colds start squirting sometimes over the chickens or putting something in the drinking water is no more satisfactory than doing the same thing with 100 persons in a room, Brooks points out. While individuals (chicken or man) may be benefited by frequent extreme attention, no flock medication has proved generally effective.

Serums or bacterins also do not give consistent protection. The

Two Months to Get Security Wage Records

Only two more months remain in which wage earners may secure statements of their social security wage credits for the year 1937, it was announced today by Dewey Reed, manager of the Amarillo office of the Social Security Board. Emphasis was placed on the importance of workers securing such statements.

"The law provides that wage statements may be secured only through the fourth calendar year following any year in which wages were paid or are alleged to have been paid. In order to secure a statement of wages paid, a worker may obtain from the Social Security out, stamp with a one cent stamp, postcard from which he may fill Board field office a self-addressed and mail. In return, he will receive a statement of all wages credited to his account since the law became effective in 1937.

"In case of discrepancy in the amount of wages credited to a worker's account, the matter should be reported to the local Social Security Board office where an effort will be made to reconcile and adjust any difference.

"The old-age insurance law first became operative in January 1937 and it may be possible that some employers, through oversight, failed to show on their reports the social security account numbers of some of their employees. This would mean that such employees do not have credit for wages they had earned." Reed stated.

flock owner should not get involved in a program of "doctoring" and neglect other needs of the flock that should have been provided long before the colds were noticed.

about five bucks worth of song books for which they extracted $50 or $75 from Perryton business firms, under the guise of advertising.

One business firm in Perryton when approached by the smooth tongued sales lady asked if the proposition had the approval of the Chamber of Commerce committee appointed to investigate such proposals. They told the promoter that if the committee endorsed the advertising scheme, they would buy the space. The promoter took the name of the committee chairman but they most certainly did not submit the song book to the committee.

There are probably some who will say that we had a part in the protest registered by the Perryton Legion against Congressman Eugene Worley's vote against permitting American ships to enter combat zones and belligerent ports. Such was not the case. We were not there and did not know it was coming up Monday night.

But we do want to add that we wholeheartedly endorse the Post's action and we do this with out any reservations, mental or otherwise, and if we had not been so strongly opposed to Congressman Worley's election in the first place, we would have more to say.

As it is, we only say that we are extremely sorry that the representative from this greatest of all Anglo-Saxon districts in the United States, cast his vote with the isolationists, the administration baiters, the Republicans, the herd that is so determined to hinder our great President in his efforts to save the United States and the other democracies of the world from the ever devouring and encroaching pass of Hitlerism.

Much favorable comment has been heard around town on the beautiful Red Cross window at the Barnett Bakery. The centerpiece of the window is a large cake with the American flag, correct in every detail, in icing. And by the way, their autumn leaf window of bakery products is a honey.

Bryan's Food Store report a very satisfactory attendance at their 15th anniversary celebration and party last Saturday. W. C. Bryan and his staff not only operate a store that is a credit to Perryton but every one of the force is a valuable citizen, active in church, school and civic affairs. It's folks like these that build towns.

If you are a red blooded American, proud of your right to say what you think and ready to defend the right of any other citizen to say what he thinks whether you agree with him or not, then attend the Parent Teachers program in the school auditorium next Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock.
