MURDER, SUICIDE IS RULED

"Persecuted" Wife Is Blamed In Slaying Of Husband, Son

PENDLETON, N. C., Dec. 13 (AP)—A woman who apparently believed she was being persecuted by her husband and son shot both to death and then took her own life at their farm home near here.

The three were found dead in their beds yesterday.

Coroner James T. Buffaloe of Northampton county ruled the deaths "premeditated murder and suicide." He identified the victims as Mrs. Roberta L. Stephenson, 53, her husband D. D. Stephenson, 59, prominent farmer, and their son, B. Coley Stephenson, 29, World War II veteran.

The coroner said Mrs. Stephenson, in ill health for some time, evidently had been studying plans for the triple slaying for some time. Found in the big home were a marked book on the most effective way to kill wild game, several notes and a discharged .22 calibre rifle.

The notes indicated Mrs. Stephenson thought she was being persecuted, Buffaloe said.

All three were shot behind the ear.

Vet Benefit Hikes Ready In January

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13—Some 2,000,000 war veterans and their dependents are due shortly for that Congress-voted raise in the amount of benefit money they receive from the government.

The Veterans administration announced yesterday that checks to be issued late this month for delivery after Jan. 1 will show increases voted by the 81st Congress. These cover service connected disability and death compensations.

New Rates Explained

Veterans with service connected disabalities ranging from 10 to 100 per cent in degree will receive 8.7 per cent more money than they have in the past.

The old rates range from $13.80 to $138.00 a month for war service and $11.04 to $110.40 for peacetime service, depending on the degree of disability.

The new scale raises these rates to $15 minimum and $150 maximum for war service disabilities; $12 minimum and $120 maximum for peacetime service.

The VA says 1,882,000 veterans will receive these increases.

Widows Benefits Upped

About 58,000 widows receiving compensation because of the service connected death of a veteran, and who have one or more children, also will get increases. The monthly payment for a widow with one child is increased from $100 to $105, and the allowance for each additional child from $15 to $25, where the veteran's death was due to war service. For death in peacetime service, the widow receives 80 per cent of the war rates.

The new law also grants an increase in disability compensation payable to 20,000 World War I veterans whose disabilities are classified as "presumed to be due to military service." Previously entitled to only 75 per cent of the rates payable for direct service connected disabilities, veterans in this group now will receive the full rate.

Mercury Hits 19-Degree Low

A chilly 19 degrees—the coldest so far this fall—gave the South Plains the shivers early this morning, but the weatherman said the cold snap was on its way out.

By 2 p. m. the mercury had risen to 45 degrees.

At Dallas, the U. S. Weather bureau said "all the cold weather we're going to get right away is already here."

No cold fronts of any significance showed up on the United States weather map, assuring a few days of warmer temperatures.

Four Killed As Plane Plunges Into Potomac

Luck And Calm Of Survivors Aid In Low Casualty Toll

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—A Capital airliner wandered off a radar path leading into fogbound National airport last night and crashed in the mud of the Potomac river, carrying four of the 23 persons on board to their death.

The 19 survivors—an amazingly high number for a plane crash—were taken to the hospital at Bolling Air Force base, located nearby.

The dead were Mrs. William Chertow, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Neville Lassiter, a government employe who lived in Arlington, Va.; and the pilot and co-pilot, W. J. Davis and Lloyd L. Porter, both of Alexandria, Va.

Bodies Visible In Water

The bodies of Davis and Porter were recovered from the partly submerged wreckage hours after the crash. Workers hacked away at the fuselage through the night to get at the two bodies, which were visible in the water-covered cockpit by the light of rescue lamps.

Navy and Air Force men who sped to the scene in crash boats credited a number of factors for the high rescue rate. High on the list were luck and the relative calm of the survivors—most of them servicemen going home to spend Christmas.

In addition, there were reports that the plane's wheels were not in landing position, but were retracted into the fuselage. If true, this would indicate that the pilot had changed his mind about landing. It may have kept the death toll down by preventing the plane from turning completely over in the river's mud. With the wheels up, a compartively smooth water landing was possible.

Field Fogged In

The plane, a DC-3, had taken off from Memphis, Tenn., and had made one stop at Norfolk, Va. It arrived over Washington during what officials called one of the worst traffic days in the history of National airport.

The field was blanketed by fog ad soaked by a steady rain. Weather conditions here described as "approximately minimum"—400-foot ceiling and visibility of about 3/4 of a mile.

The DC-3 took its place over the field in a "stack" of planes which at one time numbered 40 aircraft, all waiting for a chance to land. After about an hour, the Capital airliner started down, guided by its own electronic equipment, and

Burglaries In City Reported

Three burglaries were under investigation of Lubbock peace officers today.

Someone climbed a fence at 3208 Ave. H and broke into a fruit stand, Mrs. Boyd Robinson said, taking 100 pounds of pecans, 60 pounds of english walnuts and 35 pounds of hickory nuts.

Total value was listed at $95.

Three .22 rifles, one of them an automatic, were reported taken from Hilton Supply company, on the Idalou highway.

Door Pried Open

Police found a door pried open at a Drive-in grocery, at Tenth and Ave. Q, but nothing was believed removed, a report said.

Bonds were set in the justice of peace courts of D. W. Robertson and C. E. Lynn today for several persons: James Taylor, a negro, $1,000 bond on a child desertion case; J. W. Adams, 26, of Comanche, $1,000 bond, forgery; Thomas Edwards, 36, a negro, $750 bond, child desertion; S. D. Lennox, a negro, $250 peace bond.

Adams and Edwards were returned here Monday in custody of Chief Dep. Sheriff George Eubank, from Comanche and Lamesa. Adams is charged with forgery of an $8 check Nov. 20 on W. O. Sanders, a Lubbock contractor.

Alfonso Urtado, 21, posted bond this morning on a grand jury indictment charging assault with intent to murder.

Dionicio T. Rosales, 27, posted $1,000 bond on a wife desertion charge.

Drey Lowe, 26, was fined $100 and county court costs on a drunk driving complaint, officials said.

Crop Cut Shift Asked

Some Farmers Take Big Drop On 1950 Cotton

House Leaders Put Dissatisfaction To Secretary Brannan

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—House farm leaders put it up to the Agriculture department today to take the next step in eliminating dissatisfaction of many cotton growers over proposed 1950 cotton acreage allotments.

Much of this dissatisfaction centers on the fact that as the new law—first cotton control program since 1942—works out in some counties, many growers take extremely big acreage cuts, some as high as 70 and 80 percent.

Unused Acreage Release Urged

The over-all national cotton acreage for 1950 is set in the program at 21,000,000 acres, a reduction of about 22 percent from the 1949 acreage of nearly 27,000,000 acres.

A House cotton subcommittee headed by Rep. Pace (D-Ga) canvassed the situation at a day-long session yesterday with Agriculture department officials and came up with a two-pronged attack on the problem.

First, it recommended that Secretary of Agriculture Brannan ask farmers who will not utilize all of their allotment acreage to release the unused portion to county committees and that he authorize the committees to reallocate this acreage to other growers within the county.

Second, it recommended that Congress act early next month to put a limit on the amount of acreage cuts which individual farmers are to take.

This subcommittee action came as individual members expressed

Hundreds Search For Missing Girl Scout In Northwest U. S.

Snow And Rugged Hills Hamper Efforts; Little Hope Held Student Is Still Alive

(By The Associated Press)

KELSO, Wash., Dec. 13.—Through wet brush that soaked them to the waist within minutes, hopeful townspeople plodded on today in their search for a 16-year-old Girl Scout missing two days.

Hundreds took part, fanning out in the rugged hills six miles northeast of here, an area overgrown with vines, brush and dripping evergreens—a cold, wet jungle with a slippery snow blanket.

More than two inches of snow have fallen since Ruth Aberle became lost while looking in the woods for a Christmas tree for a scout party.

The thermometer dropped below freezing Sunday night, and it was close to the freezing point last night. Woodsmen said there was little hope that the pert high school girl could have survived even the first night.

Search During Night

But townspeople refused to give up. An estimated 500 took part, many continuing through the night. In groups of 25 to 30 they moved through the woods, their flashlights searching the brush.

There was no Christmas rush at this southwestern Washington city. Streets appeared deserted as all available men joined in the hunt. Tavern stools were empty. Theaters reported nearly all-feminine audiences.

Some women were in the search too. The girl's mother, Mrs. William Aberle, took part Sunday night. Sent to a hospital later to rest, she slipped away to rejoin

Holiday Closings Slated By Stores

Members of the Lubbock Retail Merchants association will close their stores on Monday, Dec. 26, and Monday, Jan. 2, carrying out a regular closing schedule, Mrs. Gladys Workman, secretary, said today.

It has been the rule of the association for years that whenever a holiday falls on Sunday, stores will be closed on the following Monday. Christmas and New Year's day fall on Sunday this year.

Second Monday in January will be observed as dollar day, Mrs. Workman said.

SEMINOLE, Dec. 13 — A 25-year-old Paris, Texas, man was being held in the Gaines county jail here today in connection with the $77 hijacking of Y. L. Echols of Seminole, on a highway Monday night.

The robbery occurred about 9 p. m. three miles east of Denver City.

Echols said he had given the man a ride in his pickup truck earlier at Lovington. As they neared Denver City, the man held something against Echols' side and took his money. "I think it was a gun," Echols said.

Jumped From Truck

After the bandit took his money, Echols cut the ignition of the truck and "bailed out." The truck crashed into a railroad embankment.

25 Persons Killed In Pakistan Crash

KARACHI, Pakistan, Dec. 13 (AP)—All 21 passengers and a crew of four were reported killed in a Pakistan transport plane crash last night 45 miles north of here.

The list of casualties was not yet confirmed but it was reported that two Pakistan army generals were among the passengers.

The two generals, according to officials of the Pak Air company which operated the plane, were believed to be Maj. Gen. Sher Khan and Maj. Gen. Iftikhar.

The plane, a twin-engined DC-3, crashed in desert country. It was first spotted by aerial searchers early this morning and rescue parties were sent to the scene of the crash.

Vote Light In Bond Election

Only 275 votes had been cast at 1 o'clock this afternoon in the election to issue $550,000 in city bonds to enlarge the sewage disposal plant and $525,000 to buy rights-of-way to complete the city highway dispersal system.

The early voting was brisk despite the cold weather but tapered off during the late forenoon and continued light during the noon hour. Expectation was that most of the voting will be done this afternoon and immediately before the polls close at 7 o'clock tonight.

Lighter Than 1947

Voting during the morning was even lighter than in the bond election of December, 1947, when the poll totaled only 1,101. The heaviest vote ever cast in a Lubbock city bond election was 1,284 in December, 1945. It appeared unlikely that either of those figures will be exceeded today.

The only polling place is the Central Fire station, Tenth street and Avenue J. Voting will continue until 7 o'clock tonight.

The block between Ninth and Tenth street on Avenue J, bordering the fire station, has been re-

Stiff Protest At Indignities Being Lodged

U. S. Officials Are Claimed Subjected To False Charges

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—The United States today backed up a sharp new denunciation of Communist Bulgaria with an implied threat to break off diplomatic relations entirely.

Protesting against attacks on U. S. Minister Donald R. Heath, the State department declared the legation at Sofia is being subjected to such restrictions and indignities that it has virtually ceased to function.

Stiff Lecture Given

Undersecretary James E. Webb called into question "the Bulgarian government's intentions with respect to the maintenance of normal relations between the two countries."

The prospect of a possible first open break between the United States and one of the Soviet bloc governments flared last night. Webb then summoned Dr. Peter Voutov, top Bulgarian representative in Washington, to the State department for a stiff and forceful lecture.

The occasion was the publication of charges in the government controlled Communist press in Sofia. The articles said that both the State department and Heath deliberately lied in denying the minister had ever even seen Traicho Kostov, former vice premier who is the No. 1 defendant in the current Sofia "purge" trial. One article, signed by the director of the political department of the Bulgarian foreign office, accused the U. S. government of engaging in spying and subversive activity through official representatives.

Subject To Indignities

These most recent actions, the State department said, "are not an isolated development." It noted that for some time the legation "has been subjected to a series of indignities and restrictions including false charges against American officials, intimidation and persecution of local Bulgarian employees, refusal to issue visas to personnel assigned to the legation, and various restrictions on travel and housing."

The department reported that aside from questioning whether Bulgaria wants to continue normal relations, Webb said that the U. S. "take a most serious view of such deliberate actions which must in-

Body Of Infant Found In Lake

Body of a premature infant which had been thrown from a passing automobile was found in a lake bottom between Idalou and Lorenzo at mid-morning today.

The discovery was made by Harley Clark of Lubbock route 7, member of a South Plains Electric Cooperative, Inc., crew which was stringing a power line along the highway.

Picked Up Box

He said he picked up a box, which bore the name of Lubbock Memorial hospital as addressee and was labeled "5 per cent dextrose in saline," and tossed it playfully to a fellow worker, Delton Green of Lubbock route 3, before he was aware of what was in it.

Cled E. Ketchersid, foreman of the crew, notified the sheriff's office and Glen Newton, superintendent of the cooperative.

W. D. Robertson, justice of peace, A. W. Salyars, assistant district attorney, and Deputy Sheriff Frank Mitchell went to the scene to investigate.

To Make Investigation

Salyars said his office would conduct an investigation. He was unable to decide whether the infant was sufficiently formed to

C-C Deplores State's Setup

LONGVIEW, Dec. 13. (UP)—The East Texas chamber of commerce today was calling the state government an "organized disorganization."

In a tax letter to its membership, the chamber urged streamlining of the state government "to promote efficiency and economy."

"In 1945, Texas had 170 agencies, departments and institutions within our state government," the letter said. "They were directed by 122 administrative boards and/or individuals.

"... We have in our state treasury, 222 different checking accounts. They have from $20 to $80,000,000 in each account. In all accounts as of Oct. 31, 1949, these accounts totaled $171,633,039."

Session Call Opposed

The chamber deplored the calling of a special session of the legislature "for the purpose of passing a tax law designed to balance the budget," because "the necessary money is in these various accounts."

"There is almost $1,000,000 lying idle in the oil and gas enforcement fund," the tax letter noted. "Nearly $100,000 in the boiler inspection fund."

The chamber also charged that several departments collected taxes, a condition which if said could be corrected through streamlining.

"We have in some parts of our state government a veritable Chinese army, with one general to approximately three privates," the letter said.

The chamber said it has advocated the creation of a commission to study and analyze the Texas state government to suggest ways of promoting efficiency and economy. Gov. Allan Shivers has been "receptive to the idea," the letter said.

Mowery Elected Tech AH Department Head

Prof. Ray C. Mowery took over the reins as head of the department of animal husbandry at Texas Tech Monday, succeeding Dean of Agriculture W. L. Stangel.

Mowery was placed at the head of the department Saturday by action of the Board of Directors in a meeting on the campus. Dean Stangel had requested that he be relieved of the AH duties and that Mowery succeed him.

The new department head has been a member of the Tech faculty continuously since 1926. He is a graduate of Texas A and M and received his master of science degree at Iowa State. For the past several months he has worked closely with Dean Stangel on matters pertaining to the AH department.

Mowery announced no immediate changes in the department and college officials expect that the department will be run along the same lines as before.

Dean Stangel has been a member of the Tech faculty since the college was founded and was appointed dean of agriculture in 1945.

Poll Tax Receipt Shipment Received

A shipment of 1949 poll tax receipts has been received and approximately 500 taxes have been paid already, H. B. Bryan, county tax assessor-collector said Monday.

Normally 16,000 to 20,000 poll taxes will be paid in the county, Bryan said.

Shipment of the receipts, which will qualify voters for 1950 elections, was delayed this year by the proposed amendment abolishing the poll tax, which failed to carry.

Mining Town's Plight From Lack Of Food Gets Attention

SHALLMAR, Md., Dec. 13 (AP)—"Merry Christmas" seems to mean a little more to the 54 families in this poverty-stricken mining town today. There was three days' food ready for distribution and more was being collected in nearby towns.

But the trial was far from over.

Earlier reports that the townspeople had been supplied with enough food to last them until Christmas proved to be over-optimistic.

J. P. Andrich, the schoolteacher who focussed attention on the community's plight after several of his young pupils fainted in his classroom from hunger, was still worried.

Civic Groups Begin Plans

"Even if these miners return to work—and the chances don't look too good now—it will be some time before these children get the diets they need," he explained.

He apparently was succeeding in getting started a hot lunch program for the youngsters. Civic and veterans' groups in nearby Cumberland, Md., were formulating plans to begin the service, but the program still is in the planning stage.

He estimated he could feed his 50 students until June for about $1,500. He added, however, this fgiure included only the cost of food.

Word got out last Friday of the dire straits of the community, where the only available employment—The Wolf Den mine—has been idle since last March 31.

Work was spasmodic before then. The mine operated only about three months last year and only 12 days this year until it closed indefinitely.

H. A. Marshall, owner of the mine, said the mine couldn't operate until some orders came in.

He contended there was too much coal above ground underselling him on a bid basis because the small-time operation of his mine was more expensive than those of the larger and more mechanized ones.

Dairy Meeting For Lubbock Farmers Set Here Thursday

A meeting designated to interest Lubbock county farmers in establishing dairies has been called by County Agent D. W. Sherrill for 1:30 p. m. Thursday in the Texas Tech Aggie auditorium.

An outline of the milk supply in Lubbock, together with the amount of money spent for dairy products outside the city milkshed will be given those attending the meeting. Requirements for grade A milk plus pointers on stock care will also be reviewed.

Farmers Missing Money

Sherrill said the meeting is being called in an effort to get farmers of this area interested in dairy farming so that they might cash in on the thousands of dollars spent outside of Texas each month for milk coming into Lubbock.

Dr. J. J. Willingham, head of the dairy manufacturing department at Tech will discuss the milk supply situation here, while George Wilson of the Bell Ice Cream and Milk company will tell approximately how much money is spent in Lubbock for milk.

W. T. Hayden will tell about artificial breeding services offered in this area and Walter Gardner of the health department will give the requirements for Grade A products. Dr. F. G. Harbaugh, Tech veterinarian, will discuss diseases of cattle and how to avoid them.

Much Milk Shipped In

"Much of the milk consumed in Lubbock daily is shipped here from as far away as Wisconsin," Dr. Willingham declared, "And Lubbockites pay the taxes as well as the price of the milk into that state."

Both Willingham and Sherrill have expressed great interest in the establishment of small dairies in this region in order to supplement income of farmers who will perhaps have their cotton acreages cut next year.

"The city of Lubbock alone is consuming an ever-increasing amount of milk," Dr. Willingham asserted. "There are big profits in the dairy business here if farmers will only take advantage of them."

Dr. E. L. McCormick New Lubbock Pastor

Dr. E. Lee McCormick recently was called as pastor of the Myrtle Drive Baptist church on the east outskirts of Lubbock.

Rev. McCormick began his duties as pastor of the local church several weeks ago.

He is a graduate of Wayland Baptist college, Plainview, and Christian Theological college, and holds an honorary degree from the latter institution.

During World War II, he served as assistant chaplain to the 55th Battalion of C.B's, and later served with Rev. N. J. Westmoreland, Dr. Garland W. Morrison, and others in the establishment and early work of the Southern Baptist convention in the state of Kansas.

Last January, Rev. McCormick was called as pastor of the Kellerville Baptist church of Kellerville, Texas. Two days after his arrival there, the church structure burned. The pastor and his congreation immediately set about planning a new building and raising funds for its construction. With $1,500 to begin with, he led the congregation in the erection of a new $30,000 edifice which was dedicated in August. It was entirely free of debt at the time.

Rev. McCormick came to Lubbock in September to enroll in Texas Tech to complete work toward his master of education degree. He was called to the pastorate of the Myrtle Drive Baptist church in October.

The new pastor and his congregation now are working toward the construction of a new church building at the corner of Myrtle Drive and East Fourteenth. It is hoped that construction can be started by March 1 and completed by the first Sunday in August.

The church has succeeded in paying off several debts recently. Sunday school and church worship attendance have almost doubled sinve Rev. McCormick assumed the pastorate of the church.

Plainview Petitions Oilman For Tableau

DALLAS, Dec. 13. (AP)—Plainview would like Dallas Oilman Homer W. Snowden to set up a life-size nativity scene at Wayland college like the one he has in his front yard each year.

Snowden said yesterday that the Christmas tableau in his yard will be ready for visitors tomorrow night. He is erecting it again despite neighbors' complaints to the city council that the flood-lighted scene creates a traffic problem and destroys their peace and quiet.

Dr. J. W. Marshall, president of Wayland college in Plainview, wired Snowden this year, saying in part:

"We would welcome on the campus of Wayland a nativity tableau like the one you and Mrs. Snowden prepared in Dallas, which has blessed so many people."

Several Plainview businessmen sent Snowden similar messages.

The oilman said he has not decided whether to accept the invitation.

Every morning a hen belonging to a farmer at Zuna, Holland, flies through his bedroom window and lays an egg at the foot of the bed.

Mary Haworth's Mail

Urbane Man Pays No Heed To Appeals From Wife And Sister To Stop Flirtation

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: This about my brother, with whom I've always been very close. He is brilliant, well educated, well beloved, has a charming wife of fine family, and they have four children, the youngest in college. Their marriage has always been envied, but now I am afraid something beautiful is spoiled.

We've always had the same friends, amongst whom is Cleo, a very attractive woman whose husband is a close friend of Neil's. The two men have background and business in common and enjoy being together. Cleo is talented, clever, very feminine and fancies herself a femme fatale. For several years her charms have been focused on Neil at parties.

This is not her first flirtation, but she is being very persistent with Neil—and using the two men's friendship as a shield, she acts wide-eyed innocence if anyone tries to expose her hand. At first Neil's wife ignored the whole thing, but later she couldn't help seeing they were always together at parties and that old friends were being slighted as Neil began to narrow their social life down to foursomes with the other couple—just to talk business, he says.

SISTER FEARS MAN MAY LOSE HIS WIFE

HERETOFORE our group had seen Cleo's good side and admired her husband and when she flirted we overlooked it. But everyone is beginning to talk about this, and I can hear my heart pound in the silence that falls when I enter a room. Cleo, like Neil, is skirting old friends—particularly me, because she knows I can see through her.

I've tried to talk to Neil. I said that Cleo is acting like a half-baked girl instead of a matron and mother in her forties. I told him we've seen her so friendly and cuddly with other men in the past, that the group had been lenient because of her husband, and that he (Neil) should have more pride and dignity. Also I said she lets everyone kno wtheir foursome plans, as a way of warding off other plans. He simply says I'm not being fair to Cleo, that she is harmless.

I've talked to Neil's wife, who came to me with tears in her eyes. She too feels that Neil resents any criticism, so she has been charming to Cleo and goes along with the plans, but I don't think she will much longer. Some day she will be gone, I fear; and if she leaves she will not return, I know. I love her so much, and my brother too, that I wish to help if possible. What can be done?

Signed B. C.

HAS SISTER ALWAYS CHAMPIONED WIFE?

DEAR B. C.: One feels something wrong in this situation, quite apart from your brother's ill concealed halfway surrender to Cleo's studied campaign of conquest. There is a shawody suggestion of something fundamentally unsound in his marriage, as if his wife had never been more than a gracious nonentity and domestic figurehead in their "envied" alliance.

It is obvious that you feel personally affornted, injured or threatening by the encroaching degree of Cleo's success with Neil. But also it seems apparent that you would have been tolerant of her man-chasing in this instance—as in the past—if only she hadn't got between you and Neil; that is, if she had simply given his wife a hard time while continuing to include you in her inner circle, or shall we say in Neil's inner circle, which she controls now.

SISTER CANNOT DISPERSE CRISIS

MRS. NEIL'S passive sufferance of Cleo's invasion thus far, when evaluated in the light of your fear that she may give Cleo the field any day and if she does she'll never come back, suggests that she has always (to your knowledge) carried a cross in relation to Neil—in the sense of being second fiddle to his family, or maybe especially his sister, due to the family's (or your) insistent "closeness" to him after marriage.

Weighing the gentle sister-in-law you've had against the deviously masterful Cleo, you probably begin to "love" and appreciate Mrs. Neil as never before, seeing how sweetly she always gave you undisputed access to your brother's presence and ear. I suppose; and seeing how Cleo has maneuvered you outside his confidence already. I surmise this is your first time to side emotionally with Mrs. Neil on anything.

Now, assuming Mrs. Neil hasn't the fight or finesse to yank the rug from under Cleo, I doubt there is anything youn can do to dissolve the crisis. But if I were advising Mrs. Neil I'd certainly say she has full title to drop Cleo like a hot potato and adamantly refuse to cooperate in planned "foursomes" hereinafter — which might deal the triangle a body blow that would kill it off in time. M. H.

PLANNED AGREEMENT FACES SNAG

Solon Hits Trades Of Atomic Secrets

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13—Flat opposition to any new exchange of atomic bomb information with Great Britain was voiced today by Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo).

Johnson, a member of the Senate-House atomic committee, told a reporter:

"I don't favor any additional exchange of information with the British, or anybody else. I don't think we ought to give them the know-how. If we give it to them, some of their friends may find it out and it may get into the wrong hands."

It was Jonnson who created a stir last month when he said in a television program that this country now has bombs six times as powerful as those dropped on Japan in the war and is working on a weapon 1,000 times more powerful.

His outspoken opposition indicated that a proposed agreement for a broader atomic partnership with the British and Canadians will run into some trouble when it comes before the Senate-House committee.

Administration officials are understood to have promised the committee it will be taken behind the scenes of the American-British-Canadian atomic conferences before any attempt is made to put the proposed new agreement in force.

Reports indicate that the British are ready to abandon attempts to manufacture atomic weapons in exchange for a partnership in the American production effort which would bring British and Canadian scientists into the work here.

This would free most of the Belgian Congo uranium supply for U. S. use.

The present atomic act apparently bans any exchange of weapons information, although some officials believe the President could take matters in his own hands if he chose. However, since the act was passed, only non-military atomic cooperation has ben carried on by the three countries.

Johnson's attitude seems to represent a core of opposition within the Senate-House committee to any broader dissemination of atomic secrets than now prevails. Members who take this view feel the Russians still have a lot they would like to learn about production know-how despite their ability to bring about an atomic explosion.

Sachet, dusted into linings of shoes, absorbs moisture and gives easy glide to footwear.

Scent Of Many Uses

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

Sachet, which has made a spectacular comeback since grandma's day, boasts of many more uses than that of perfuming a drawerful of lingerie. Because it has the slippery slide of talc, it can be used on the skin. Because this highly scented powder has an affinity with clothink, it can match uses with perfume when it comes to imparting fragrances to personal effects.

The Greek philosophers who made a practice of perfuming their feet because they realized that fragrance travels upward and envelops the entire body had an idea worth adopting.

Working on their theory, try dusting sachet over the soles of your feet and the linings of your shoes. The power has a moisture-absorbing quality which justifies sachet claims to practicality as well as glamor when it comes to good grooming.

Beyond its traditional function of scenting fresh lingerie, sachet is nice to use inside of hatbands, and in the padding of dress hangers. Sachet can help to ease on a girdle, give easier slide to gloves if dusted inside of close-fitting fingers.

The refreshment table, laid with a brown cloth over gold, was centered with crystal candelabra entwined with gold encrusted ivy, and holding gold tapers. A gold tea service completed the arrangement. On the buffet and living room mantel were bronze chrysanthemums and bronze candelbra.

One hundred fifty guests called. The hostesses presented the honoree a crystal service for eight.

Choking Not Cheap Way To Kill Skunk

Winfield, La., Dec. 13. (UP)—Bryan McBride said ruefully today that he killed that skunk, but the beast's ghost has the last laugh.

McBride was sitting in the car of a hunting companion, Lou Anderson, when their dog chased a skunk toward the automobile. Before McBride could get the door shut, the skunk leaped into the back seat.

In self defense, McBride said, he choked the animal to death.

But the car upholstery was ruined and McBride and Anderson threw away their clothes. The total loss—$300.

Tech Students Hurt In College Mishap

Dal Brandon, 20, of Littlefield, a senior pre-medical student at Texas Tech, and Miss Betty Stringer, 22, of 1212 Ave. M, were injured shortly after noon today when they brushed against a moving automobile in the 1200 block College Ave.

They were taken in a McDonald ambulance to Lubbock Memorial hospital. Miss Stringer was admitted to the hospital suffering a possible jaw fracture and loss of several teeth. Brandon was treated for cuts and bruises and released.

Brandon, who lives at the hospital, where he is an orderly, said he and Miss Stringer, a nurse at the hospital, had just left a class at Tech and were crossing College when the accident occurred.

Police reports, filed by Doyle Clark and V. P. Stephens, said Brandon and Miss Stringer stepped behind an automobile into the path of one driven by Walter Wade Brand, 42, who has a service station and garage here.

Actually, they brushed against the side of his car, rather than being struck by it, Clark said, adding that Brand said he did not see the pair until a split-second before the mishap.

No charges are planned, the patrolman said.

Will Rogers Statue Is Planned At Tech

Preliminary work toward erection of an equestrian statue of the late Will Rogers donated by Amon G. Carter of Fort Worth was begun on the Texas Technological college campus today, Dr. D. M. Wiggins, president, said this afternoon.

Frank Sherwood, representative of Thomas S. Byrne, Fort Worth engineer and general contractor, was in Lubbock to arrange for terracing of the site where the college flagpole now stands and erection of a suitable foundation and pedestal for the statue.

The bronze statue itself has been at the college for some time. Sherwood is working with E. J. Urbanovsky, college landscape architect, on arrangements for placing the statue.

Tech Battles Wayland Tonight

Clash Slated At Plainview

PLAINVIEW, Dec. 13 (Special) —Wayland college's Pioneers play hosts to Texas Tech tonight in a freshman-varsity basketball doubleheader that is expected to attract a capacity crowd of 700 fans.

The twin bill starts at 6:30 o'clock.

Wayland, with a 3-3 record this season, may give Coach Polk Robison's Border conference five a tough time.

Victories by the Pioneers have been over McMurry, NNMI and Sterling (Kas.). Two defeats came at the hands of East Central, while the other was a double overtime loss to New Mexico Western.

Tech has won but two games in six played, defeating McMurry and Howard Payne, and losing to West Texas in an exhibition, Rice, Trinity and Baylor.

Forward Verdell Turner injured a foot in practice Monday and is a doubtful starter for the Tech Raiders. Other probable starters are Charlie Pinnell, forward; Jiggs Jackson and Jim Eddins or Jack Alderson, guards; and Gene Gibson, center.

Pacing the Pioneer attack will be Leon (Runt) Burch, six-foot, five-inch center who has scored 75 points in six games this season. At one guard post is Billy McClellan, five - foot, eight - inch mighty mite who has 54 points in five games, and at the other guard position will be George Goodson. Probable starting forwards are Ed Billings and Bill Kinghton. Likely to see action also are Don Dalley, a regular who has been out with injuries, and Leroy Green.

A full house of 700 persons is expected for the games, and 150 tickets are on sale to the public at 90 cents each.

Lubbock Five Tests Borger

Borger is next on the Westerner basketball schedule, and the local cagers are expected to have rough sledding Wednesday night when they enter the domain of the Bulldogs for that tilt.

The Bulldogs have a fine record at this stage of the season, having won 11 straight game, five coming in their own tournament last week which they won handily, defeating Stratford in the finals.

Lubbock has played but five games, winning them all, the last being a 56-31 decision over the Steers from Big Spring.

Monday in practice the Westerner squadmen went through a heavy workout, with basic shooting drills occupying the first part of the drill and offensive play patterns being used as the varsity and reserve teams alternated on the offense.

Jim Wilson and Walter Norton were seen at the center position in the single post attack being used by Coach David Cook. Forwards Jimmy Sexton and Tom Cheatham looked sharp on the court and in their shooting, as did Richard Allen and Carl Ince.

The white-shirted reserves were being paced by Bobby Day, Dean White and Norton.

Another workout is on the schedule for today, but it will be lighter than Monday's drill.

Sammy Baugh Leads Passers In League

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 13 (AP)—By the narrow margin of two points, Sammy Baugh of the Washington Redskins won the National Football league passing title for the sixth time in his 13 years as a professional.

Under the inverse grading system in which the number of completions, percent of completions, touchdown passes, wards gained and per cent of interceptions are all taken into account, the former Texas Christian ace finished with 16 points according to the league's final statistics released today.

Second place with 18 points went to the Chicago Bears' Johnny Lujack.

Baugh attempted 255 passes, completed 145 for a gain of 1,903 yards and 18 touchdowns. He had a percentage of completions of 56.9 and had only 5.5 per cent intercepted.

The Eagles' Steve Van Buren won ground gaining honors.

Other winners included:

Punt returns—Verda Smith, Los Angeles, formerly of Abilene Christian, 27 for 427 yards and an average of 15.8. His 85 yards against Green Bay also was the longest of the season.

Pacific Coast Loop Votes To Keep Rule

Two-Platoon System Receives Strong Support From Coaches

NEW YORK, Dec. 13 (AP)—College football's much maligned two-platoon system received support from new quarters today.

A newspaper nationwide survey showed more college football coaches for it than against it, with the main boost coming—surprisingly enough—from mentors of smaller institutions.

Coach Lou Little of Columbia, chairman of the football rules committee, issued a strong statement in favor of the free substitution rule.

Vote For Rule

Pacific Coast football coaches last night voted 7 to 6 in favor of keeping the rule that permits 11-man units to be thrown into a game at a time.

The New York Herald Tribune said it sent questionnaires to more than 500 coaches of big and small colleges throughout the country, asking:

"Do you believe in the two-platoon system and has it helped or hurt football?"

The paper said 48 per cent of the coaches replied that they thought the two platoon system had helped the sport and only 31 said it hurt the game.

Helps Big Schools

Another 7.5 per cent answered that the rule helped the big schools and worked a hardship on the small. The remaining 13.5 per cent was on the fence.

The paper said the survey showed the small college coaches liked the system better than did the bigtime tutors. Fifty per cent of the small college coaches who answered thought the two platoon played helped football. The bigger college coaches polled only 40 per cent in support of it with 38 against and the others doubtful.

Dutch Meyer Signs New TCU Contract

FORT WORTH, Dec. 13. (U.P.) —L. R. (Dutch) Meyer, head football coach at Texas Christian university for 16 seasons, has signed a new three-year contract, it was announced today.

Athletic Director Howard Grubbs made the announcement which ended rumors and speculation the past two months that Meyer planned to quit at the end of the past season.

Grubbs said Meyer would continue "in the full capacity" as head coach. This was in response to weekend reports that Meyer would continue as head coach under certain conditions.

Among these was the speculation that he would seek more time off from his duties to devote to his personal interests, including a farm.

Terms of Meyer's new contract were not disclosed. However, Grubbs also announced signing of a new contract by Othol (Abe) Martin, first assistant to Meyer, at "a substantial increase in salary."

TOURNEY POSTPONED

FORT WORTH, Dec. 13 (AP)—The Texas Athletic federation's state boxing tournament won't be held until next spring. The meet, originally scheduled this weekend, was postponed because the list of entries was not large enough.

In Zululand, the atmosphere is so clear that objects can be seen by starlight for seven miles.

Texas Christian To Bid For Sixth Win

(By The Associated Press)

Texas Christian university goes after its sixth consecutive victory of the young basketball season tonight.

Last night they thumped Missouri, 37-35, and meet the Tigers again tonight at Columbia, Mo.

Texas A. and M. won its first game last night, beating Abilene Christian 66-45. The Aggies and Wildcats play again tonight.

Three other Southwest conference teams are in action tonight Rice plays Sam Houston State, Texas meets West Texas State, and Baylor takes on Texas Wesleyan college.

NMU Athletic Setup Revised

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Dec. 13 (AP)—New Mexico university, with a football game against Army set for next fall, Monday shook up its athletic high command.

In an extra announcing the changes, the New Mexico Lobo, student newspaper said "intercollegiate athletics at the University of New Mexico finally have been put on a big time basis."

A change in personnel and organization was authorized by the New Mexico university regents.

Program Set Up

1. They divorced the intercollegiate sports program from the departments of physical education and put it under a separate department.

2. Berl Huffman, whose teams have won only four games in two years, was relieved as head football coach and made director of intercollegiate athletics. He was given broad authority over New Mexico intercollegiate sports and made responsible directly to the university president.

Pres. Tom L. Popejoy said university regents will make a new head football coach and two assistants probably within 60 to 90 days.

The old set-up shared direction by George M. (Blanco) White, assistant dean of the college of education, and Athletic Director Roy Johnson, professor and head of the department of physical education. Both retain these posts, but are freed of responsibilities in intercollegiate athletics.

Victory For Huffman

The change was a victory for the Texas-trained Huffman, who retained large personal popularity despite the inability of New Mexico university teams to win in intersection football tests.

Huffman, native of Grapevine, Texas, and graduate of Trinity university, was freshman and later backfield coach at Texas Tech. He came to New Mexico in 1947 after successful grid and basketball teams at Keesler air field.

Hike In Night Games Slated

NEW YORK, Dec. 13 (U.P.) —Baseball "around the clock" was in store today for National league fans.

Letting down the bars as never before, the club owners made it possible for their teams to play all night, if necessary, and even at night on Sundays and holidays, provided there is no interference with local or state curfew ordinances.

Cards Set Pace

The St. Louis Cardinals promptly set the pace for the new after-dark "merry-go-round" by announcing they will play the first night game season-opener in major league history on April 18 against the Pittsburgh Pirates, and that they will be competing against theaters and supper clubs for business most of the rest of the campaign.

"The people of St. Louis have demonstrated to us that they want night baseball and they're going to get it," said President Fred Saigh.

"We have never drawn well on opening day and I think we will at night," he said. "The largest crowd we ever had for an opener was barely 20,000 back in 1928. And the weather is no problem for us in St. Louis. In our first night game last year on April 22, the temperature was 80 degrees."

The exact extent of the increase in night games will not be determined until the 1950 major league schedules are drawn up early next year, but it seemed fairly certain that both leagues would play after dark as never before.

The "around the clock" deal in the National went into the realm of possibility when the club owners voted the following revolutionary measures into effect:

1. Wiped out the existing 12:50 a. m. curfew on night games.

2. Ruled that clubs can start games at any hour as long as they remain within the ordinances of their state or city.

3. Permitted club owners to turn on lights at any time during the season for afternoon games threatened by darkness or poor visibility due to weather.

Renewal Of Grid Series Reported

NEW YORK, Dec. 13 (AP)—If Army and Notre Dame are planning an early renewal of football relations, both are being coy about it.

The report popped up again last night.

A. J. (Dutch) Bergman, broadcasting over NBC, said Army and Notre Dame have agreed to a "home and home" series, probably beginning in 1952 or 1953.

Arch Ward, sports editor of the Chicago Tribune, wrote that the two teams will renew their rivalry "in about three years."

At West Point, a spokesman for the athletic department said, "we know nothing about it." Notre Dame officials declined comment.

Doak's Record Draws Praise

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

DALLAS, Dec. 13.—For some reason that doesn't show in the records, a flock of folk are belittling Doak Walker and looking with great suspicion on the fact that he has made every All-America team being picked except the one he personally asked to be left off of.

We say phooie!

Memories of these folks are pretty short or did they see him play the games he got into this past season?

Hampered By Flu

Walker, the Southern Methodist golden boy, was unfortunate enough to pick up some influenza germs and miss the game with Kentucky. Sports writers now telling the world he's not All-America would have taken a month off to get over such an attack. They wouldn't even have sat in the nice, warm Cotton bowl press box and eaten free hot dogs.

The Doaker managed to rally enough that he went in the next week and kicked the extra point that beat Texas.

In the Rice battle he was playing quite an All-American game until knocked into a wheel chair on the sidelines and incapacitated for most of the last half.

In the Texas Christian game, which he really shouldn't have played because of a bad charley horse, he was hurt early in the second half and spent the rest of the time on the bench.

Certainly, the fact that he came in contact with a flu germ, got conked by a wheel chair and hurt his leg doesn't mean he wasn't All-America.

Record Is Cited

Anyway, let's look at the record of what he did in the games in which he played last season:

Wake Forest — Completed 10 passes for 215 yards, passed for two touchdowns and kicked one extra point. SMU won 13-7, so who scored all the points, Bud?

Missouri—Made 105 yards rushing, 68 passing, averaged 43.0 yards punting, scored three touchdowns and kicked four extra points. He surely wasn't a flop that night, huh?

Rice—Made 54 yards rushing, 43 passing, punted for 42.0, passed for one touchdown, kicked two extra points. Pretty fair for a guy who played just half the game, eh?

Texas A. and M.—Made two touchdowns, kicked three extra points, passed for one touchdown, set up two with his passing and running. Nice work, don't you think?

Arkansas—Gained 98 yards rushing, 133 passing, made three touchdowns, kicked three extra points, punted for 49.0. Oughtta give the lad E for effort, anyway.

Picked By Coaches

Baylor—Made 60 yards rushing, 94 passing, kicked for 43.0, scored two touchdowns, kicked three extra points. Fair afternoon anyway.

Texas Christian—Made 54 yards rushing, 7 passing, kicked for 44.0, kicked one point after touchdown. Not bad for a fellow who plays a half on a bum leg.

Walker was the unanimous choice of the coaches for All-Southwest conference. For some reason they thought he was the stuff.

Three Raiders Honored

TUCSON, Dec. 13 (Special) — Champion Texas Tech placed three men on the 1949 All-Border conference football team announced Monday by Commissioner E. L. Larson.

Texas teams hogged top honors, with only one "non-Lone Star" performer making the first team. Hardin-Simmons and Texas Western each landed three berths, with West Texas State getting one. Halfback Wilford (Whizzer) White of Arizona State of Tempe rounded out the first team.

Selected from Texas Tech for the second consecutive year were Tackle Marshall Gettys and Guard Dan Pursel, with Fullback Bud Conley appearing for the first time. Cal Steveson was named to the second team.

University of Arizona failed to get a man on the first or second teams. All of the other eight schools were represented.

The first team included Robert McChesney, Hardin-Simmons, and Charles Kitchens, West Texas State, ends; Gettys and James DeGroat, Texas Western, tackles; Ernest Keily, Western, and Pursel, guards; Wayne Hansen, Western, center; John Ford, HSU, quarterback; Whizzer White, Tempe, and Hook Davis, HSU, halfbacks; and Conley fullback.

The second team was: Vince Cisterna, Flagstaff, and Wilson Knapp, New Mexico, ends; Bruce Womack, West Texas, and Tony Bernitsky, New Mexico, tackles; Bob Surratt, HSU, and Weldon Bates, West Texas, guards; William Gosselin, Tempe, center; Cecil Coleman, Tempe, quarterback; Harvey (Pug) Gabrel, Western, and Steveson, halfbacks; and Phil Neale, New Mexico A&M, fullback.

Sul Ross Admitted To Lone Star Loop

HUNTSVILLE, Dec. 13 (U.P.) — Sul Ross college, perennial football champion of the New Mexico Intercollegiate conference, was in new and faster company today—the Lone Star conference.

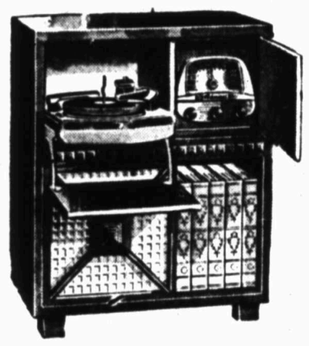

The Alpine, Texas, school was admitted to membership yesterday in the Lone Star circuit by unanimous approval of the four member schools.

Acceptance, however, was on a two-year conditional basis because of Sul Ross' location in West Texas, while other Lone Star members are in the eastern half of the state.

Between the Lines by Joe Kelly

BY AL WILLIAMS

There roams a student on the sacred Forty Acres of the University of Texas who thinks that the Longhorns should have had better than a third place tie in Southwest conference football this year, despite the fact that four games were lost by a total of 10 points.

The student, in a letter printed in the school newspaper, says that Coach Blair Cherry is lucky to be regarded as a fine coach after the past season, even though Texas was picked to finish fourth in the conference. He (the student) also thinks that Texas should have won nine games and lost one, that to Oklahoma, stating that under D. X. Bible the 'Horns probably would have been able to have a 9-11 season and be in the Cotton Bowl rather than watching from the sidelines.

All the ills for the record of the sophomore-laden Texas team are heaped upon the shoulders of Cherry, who has yet to produce a conference champion since taking over Bible's post in 1946.

The sentiment at the University is an odd one to figure. Used to winning for years in a row, the student body finds it hard to accept the fact that other teams also should win now and then.

After last year there was the Orange Bowl game to soothe their mounting anger at the team and the coaching. But this year there is nothing but the thought of what might have been had not Rice kicked a field goal and TCU and SMU extra points that spelled defeat for the Longhorns and erased hopes for a bowl bid.

Cherry came to the University at a crucial time in the history of the school, following the war years when the reserve programs kept the athletic ranks filled to the brim. He has had a tough row to hoe, and it seems that the equipment he has had to work with was not of the caliber of the post-war production of other schools.

It could be that 1950 will be THE year for the University. If not, then the criticism of the Cherry system can be expected to swell to an uproar, perhaps justifiably so.

If Cherry continues to lose year after year, then perhaps the complaints of his ability which up to now have been minor) will be justified. But as a believer in fair play and sportsmanship, this corner rides along with Cherry until future events prove the case for one side or the other.

After all, every team deserves to win occasionally, and there can only be victory when there is defeat.

Announcement of ticket sales for the Raisin Bowl game between Texas Tech and San Jose State on Dec. 31 at Fresno was made Monday. Price of the ducats is $4.80 per seat, which is comparable to any bowl prices. And it seems that the seats for Red Raider rooters will be on the 50-yard line. They may be bought at the Tech athletic office.

The Raider squad resumes its workout on Thursday for the tilt, and the entire team will swing back into action after a rest period that must seem short now that practices are about to resume.

Even should Tech not win the game, odds are that the entertainment planned for the squad following the tilt will not leave room for tears in the eyes of any of the Raiders—what with the Rose Bowl game, Los Angeles and Hollywood on the program. Would like the trip myself!

Unless games are scheduled late in December, the Lubbock Westerner basketball squad will find itself without competition from Dec. 20 to Jan. 3, a most unhealthy condition with district play beginning on Jan. 6.

In the schedule previously announced, Dec. 28-30 was set aside for the South Plains tournament to be held in Lubbock. But plans for the tourney could not be carried through to completion, and the Westerners gave up their right to appear in the Brownwood tourney before this fact became known. It seems that teams invited to the South Plains affair had already scheduled games for that date. Next year it is hoped the tourney will be held without any hitch in plans.

The Westerners, by the way, are scheduled in Borger Wednesday night. Next home appearance is against Pampa, Dec. 20, with the Plainview tourney Dec. 16-17.

When the Shamrock Charity Bowl game is unreeled in Houston on Dec. 17, six former Southwest conference stars will be on the professional all-star team that opposes the Cleveland Browns, winners of that All-America conference championship.

Slated for action are Tom Landry and Pete Layden, both of Texas; Jack Russell, Baylor, end; Bruce Alford, TCU, end; Martin Ruby, Texas A. & M., tackle; and Weldon Humble, Rice, guard.

Among other things being made available for the $30 cost of admission are a large number of Hollywood personalities.

Agreement On Coach Sought

WACO, Dec. 13. (AP)—Will Bob Woodruff come back to Baylor as football coach?

The man in the street here thinks he will.

Baylor university's athletic committee met for three hours yesterday. Members had "no comment."

Baylor President W. R. White said only that "we went into the matter thoroughly."

To Discuss Issue

The meeting was to discuss Baylor's confused athletic situation. Woodruff resigned as football coach Friday night. Saturday, Athletic Director Ralph R. Wolf quit.

Woodruff said he quit because of an "intolerable situation" in the athletic department and because he could not accept any "compromise settlement" of the differences between himself and Wolf.

Wolf quit to "clear the asmosphere for Dr. White and the board of trustees to reorganize the athletic department."

It was learned the athletic committee yesterday appointed a subcommittee to "work toward an agreeable settlement" of the athletic department confusion. This group, it was reported, was to meet again today.

Solution Is Sought

A reliable source said the subcommittee was working toward a solution that would keep both Woodruff and Wolf at Baylor.

Woodruff was to have started a new five-year contract as football coach in 1950, reportedly at $12,000 a year. His three-year contract expires this year.

There have been rumors that Wooduff would go to the University or Arkansas as football coach.

John Barnhill, present Arkansas football coach and athletic director at that school, has said the school's athletic situation would be aired at a meeting Friday.

Plains Quintet Tops Rigney Auto, 65-42

Six games were unreeled Monday night in the City Recreation department's basketball program, and a full schedule also will be played Thursday.

Plains Ice Cream topped Rigney Auto, 65-42, in the Commercial loop, with Richard Holly leading the way with 22 points, J. M. Smith garnered 13 for the Automen.

Also at O. L. Slaton gym, in a Femme game, Reese Air Force Base trimmed Citizens National, 44-23. With scoring honors was L. Wenzlick, and she made 18 markers, compared to Betty Giles' 10 for the losers.

Anton American Legion defeated Hawkins Service, 57-41. Tied for scoring honors were Bill Woods of the Legion and Joe Wheatley of Hawkins', each with 21.

Heath and Self shared scoring as 3501 Maintenance Squadron dropped Westerner Drive-In, 39-26. Self plays with the Westerners.

Tech Freshmen outscored McAdoo Chevrolet, 69-50. Doing most of the damage for the winners was Paul Nolen, 19 points, and Dewey Carr had 18 for the losers.

Mason Ramblers turned the trick on Reese Air Force Base, 65-50. Owens and Pearcy each made 18 for the Ramblers, and Englebertsor scored 13 for Reese AFB.

Haas First In Open Tourney

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 13. (AP)—Freddy Haas, jr., a comparative newcomer to the professional golfing ranks, won first money in Miami's 26th annual open golf tournament yesterday by defeating Bob Hamilton in a dramatic 18-hole playoff by two strokes.

It was the 33-year-old former national intercollegiate champion's second major triumph since he turned professional in 1946.

His first victory also was won in a playoff when he defeated Johnny Palmer and Ben Hogan in an extra round for the Portland, Ore., open in 1948.

One Under Par

Haas, tall and good humored New Orleans pro, carded a one-under par 35-34—69 against the veteran Hamilton's one over par 35-36—71.

Hamilton, pro from Landover, Md., suffered a bad case of putting jitters in the nerve-wracking playoff and lost all his holes by missing short putts.

Haas received $2,000 and Hamilton $1,400 plus $127 each as their share of the gate receipts from the playoff round.

The playoff was made necessary when both finished the 72-hole tournament with a record-shattering 264—three strokes under the tournament record established 12 years ago by Sammy Snead.

After turning all even at the end of nine holes—with even par 35's—Haas jumped into a one stroke lead when Hamilton missed a four foot putt on the par three 11th.

The match was evened on the next hole when Hamilton canned a curving 12-footer for a birdie three and Haas holed out in regulation.

Neither was on the green after the second shot on the long par five 13th hole, but Haas chipped to within two feet of the cup for a birdie. Hamilton left himself a six foot putt and missed, giving Haas the lead again.

On the short par three 16th Haas' tee shot was about 12 feet from the pin but Hamilton's ball dropped about 30 feet short into a deep gully. His pitch was less than six feet from the cup but he again missed while Haas holed out in par for a two-stroke lead.

They halved the 17th and 18th for the match.

Wildcats Score Win Over Maulers, 16-13

An upset marked play in the Boys club cage program Monday, with the Maulers losing their first game of the year in Pee Wee competition.

Turning the trick were the Wildcats by a 16-13 margin. Scoring honors were shared between Paul Sikes, a Mauler standout, and Glen Lawson of the winning Wildcats with 11 points each.

The other three games in league play were won by decisive margins, with the Five Fools stopping the Longhorns, 53-23, in the Junior loop. Gene Seward led the Fools with 17 points, and Morris Burger had 10 for the losing Steers.

The Hornets defeated the Big Five, 36-14, as Don Washington swished the net for 20 points. Billy Sims had six for the losers.

Dale Ball scored 18 points as the Palominos romped over the Five Angels, 27-13. Dean Fawcett tallied five markers for the losers.

Two Pee Wee games are on today's slate, with the Roughies meeting the Wildcats and the Mustangs playing the Buffaloes. The Eagles play Alley Rats in Midget competition, and Fancy Five tangles with Fungis Five in the Junior play.

Trades Avoided By Big League Owners

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 13—It looked like a "stand pat" year for baseball today as owners and managers pussy-footed around the annual major league meetings and ran like a thief at the mere mention of the word "trade."

"Everybody seems to be afraid to talk trade," explained Eddie Sawyer, manager of the Phillies. "They're afraid to give up what they have or take a chance with somebody else's risks. If this keeps up there's no reason why we won't see the same relative finishes in 1950."

Stengel In Market

Casey Stengel of the Yankees was about the only man belligerently in the market. He offered Connie Mack of the A's Johnny Lindell for Sam Chapman and then cooked up a likely package by offering Lindell, George Sirnweiss and Billy Johnson for Pitcher Joe Coleman.

"We won't discuss pitchers," was Mack's rebuff.

"Well," Stengel philosophized, "we aren't in too bad a shape. We won with a long string of injuries. If Spec Shea and Bob Porterfield can come through, and Joe DiMaggio can play say 125 games, we can probably stand pat as well as any other club."

Lou Boudreau of the Cleveland Indians was more concerned about his faded stars, such as Pitcher Gene Bearden, than he was about getting any new players. Bearden slipped from a 20-game winner to an 8-8 record.

Taylor Is Optimistic

"Gene was knuckle ball happy," Boudreau insisted. "The year before he was getting them to swing at that low one. This year they were waiting him out and, when he got in a spot, he couldn't get it over. He's going to have to change his style, throw some of those other type pitches. But he's a hard worker and I'm certain that he can do it."

Zack Taylor of the Browns, whose club finished seventh only because Washington was in the league, took an admirably optimistic outlook with the prospects of four new pitchers coming through for him. They are Al Widmar and Vern Taylor, both of Buffalo, the former a 22-game winner; Ed Albrecht, wo won 32 game at Pine Bluff, Ark., and beat the Chicago White Sox on the last day of the season, and Tom Fine of San Antonio, who might go in relief.

Keller Is Discussed

"We've got Earl Bruckner now as a bullpen coach and that should be a big break for our pitchers," said Zack. "Except for illnesses and injuries, our pitching wouldn't have been so bad last season, so we might come along."

Eddie Dyer of the St. Louis Cardinals was another who radiated a fair share of optimism.

"They said we were coming apart at the seams last year and we did pretty good," grinned Dyer, whose club "ran out of gas" and blew the pennant on the last day of the season to the Dodgers. "Yes, our lads have another ytar on them and I'm not saying I wouldn't make any deal I think would strengthen the club. They counted us out last year more than they are doing now."

The heat of the atom bomb "sun-tanned" some Japanese, but those closer to the blast area were bleached.

Fight Program Is Completed

Plans for the Dec. 19 Bill Henderson-Eddie Bertolino championship fight program at Chapman fieldhouse were virtually completed Monday with announcement of pairings for the preliminary bouts.

Promoter Edd Sides said Leonard Duncan, Hale Center middleweight, had signed to meet Young Amado, El Paso, in the six-round semifinal. Duncan has lost only once in nine pro starts, and that defeat was by Amado, in Carlsbad, N. M., several months ago.

A four-round special bout will pit Jimmy Moreland, former Houstonian who now resides in Lubbock, against Joe Chaplin, Shreveport welterweight.

One other four-rounder, matching opponents yet to be announced, will complete the card.

The Henderson-Bertolino main event will be over the 15-round route for the state lightweight title. Bertolino currently is the No. 1 contender for the vacant crown, while Henderson is rated No. 5.

Bertolino will leave his Galveston home today, arriving in Lubbock Wednesday. Both he and Henderson will work out daily this week at City Club gym.

Tickets went on sale Monday at Hub clothiers, Tech drug and City Club gym in Lubbock and at Talley's Barber shop in Levelland. Henderson's home town. Sides reported a brisk opening-day sale of the ducats, priced at $4 ringside, $3 reserved and $2 general admission.

WELLMAN "B" WINS

BROWNFIELD, Dec. 13 (Special)—Wellman's "B" cage team trounced the Brownfield High school "B" quint, 45-19, here Monday night as Doyle Welcher tallied 18 points. John Odell topped Brownfield with 10.

PARTNERSHIP CARDS MAILED

Cornerstone-Laying Ceremony Planned At Girlstown Today

As Girlstown, U. S. A., entered the ninth month since its opening, partnership cards were going in the mail today and plans were being made for a cornerstone-laying ceremony at the first permanent residence at Girlstown at sunset today.

Approximately 1,500 persons are on the mailing list for partnership cards, which will be given in gratitude for their share in making Girlstown, Miss Anthony said today in Lubbock.

Another development today, on the monthly anniversary of the opening of Girlstown which took place last March 13, was the announcement that Miss Anthony will be the general contractor for the next large building to be built at Girlstown.

Barn To Be Built

The next building will be a barn which will be used as a dining place for Girlstown and as an assembly place for South Plains groups.

Girlstown opened at Buffalo Gap near Abilene. It was moved in June to its present ranch site eight miles south of Whiteface, where the cornerstone laying ceremony will be conducted at sunset at 5:39 p. m. today. Rev. W. H. Hughes, pastor of the First Baptist church at Whiteface, will offer a prayer and Miss Anthony will place items in the cornerstone, which is to be opened 50 years hence. The 32-bedroom building is to be called Plains residence. Groundbreaking for the barn will not be conducted today as had been considered, because various details have not been worked out. They apply largely to labor.

Progress Is Reported

"From the Plains area, at least seven girls a day are being brought to our home and that makes it necessary that all available labor be utilized in completion of Plains residence," said Miss Anthony.

When the residence is completed, smaller buildings now occupied by children and adult members of the Girlstown family will be vacated and made available to workmen on the barn, so daily trips will not be necessary.

Asked her attitude toward progress during the first nine months of Girlstown, Miss Anthony said, "We have made strides in the nine months of our operation. This has been made possible through the interest of people, for which we are most grateful."

"Because of my impatience and awareness of the acute need of the home," she added, "I feel that we have not made as much progress in our building of the Plains residence as we could have made, but engineers and men in the building business have said that we are at least 60 days in advance in the building program, beyond what we would have been if we had let a contract for the building."

Miss Anthony will be general contractor and J. Rex (Andy) Anderson will be construction engineer for the barn.

No General Contractor

"Through this manner," said Miss Anthony, "we feel that we will eliminate several obstacles of securing labor and it will help to minimize loss of time which we have experienced in building the residence."

These is no general contractor for the residence, work being conducted through various labor unions and crafts and building contractors.

Under the plan of operation in building the barn, sub-contracts will be let on a time basis, in order to assure that the building will be completed in a specified time, said Miss Anthony.

The list of 1,500 to receive partnership cards includes around 1,000 who have contributed in kind and in service. Those who have contributed in kind, said the director, have given blankets, quilts and linens, for the most part. Those who have contributed in service include various members of labor unions who have contributed labor on Saturdays and "working partners" in Plainview, Midland, Whiteface, Levelland, Lubbock and Dallas who have rendered different services along the line of public relations in behalf of young girls.

Money Is Given

The remaining estimated 500 on the list have given cash contributions averaging about $10 each. Mrs. Lillie B. Hall of Lubbock gave $1,000 and sends a $50 monthly contribution, which is the largest from any individual. Two organizations send monthly contributions. They are the Lubbock Business and Professional Women's club, which sends $50 monthly, and the nursing staff of the Veterans administration at Waco hospital, which sends monthly gifts in varying amounts ranging from $56 to $75.

The partnership card, said Miss Anthony, is given to persons who have made definite contributions and displayed interest in the home, being given "only to individuals who have become part of the home."

Issuance of the cards is "our manner of expression of gratitude for help in making and molding our home in a home according to their desires—as a home for homeless and neglected young girls."

The cards bear a drawing of a nude girl. They are captioned, "Partnership, Girlstown, U. S. A., home for homeless." Following the name of the person to whom a card is issued is the following, "By taking a part in the development of Girlstown, U. S. A., the above person is entitled to be a partner in the future of Girlstown" and the date and signature of the director.

WORKER IS KILLED

KILGORE, Dec. 13 (AP)—Herbert Jones, 39, an oil field worker here, was killed by a shotgun blast shortly before midnight last night on the city's outskirts. The Gregg county sheriff's office was holding a suspect, a Kilgore man.

Daily MARKETs

Stock Market

TRADING AT NEW HIGH

NEW YORK, Dec. 13 (AP) — The stock market chalked up a new 1949 high in the year's fastest trading today.

Closing prices were best for the day in most cases.

Heavy profit taking sales kept the advance in low gear. Despite frequent interruptions steady progress was made.

Gains ranged from fractions to around a point — with one startling exception of a 33½-point jump in Superior Oil of California.

Rapid-fire business was done in fits and starts but at a rate fast enough to lift turnover above 2,000,000 shares for the full session.

High-priced Superior Oil advanced 33½ to 191 at one time. The company disclosed a plan today to split itself into two new corporations, one taking the oil assets and the other the natural gas assets of the original business. Stockholders will vote on the proposal at a special meeting called for Dec. 29.

Also up were Santa Fe, U. S. Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Philco, Radio Corp., American Smelting, Benguet Consolidated Mining, Du Pont, American Woolen, Standard Oil (NJ), Johns-Manville, and U. S. Gypsum.

Hanging back were several rubbers, distillers, and assorted industrial issues.

Cotton Market

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Dec. 13 (AP) — Cotton futures were easy in early dealings today, but turned steady on mill buying and demand attracted to the new crop positions which have been under selling pressure in recent sessions. Sentiment among some traders was that farmers will approve acreage and marketing controls on the 1950 cotton crop notwithstanding protest over the form of acreage allocatoin. Traders also noted that new crop months are selling under the loan on the 1950 cotton crop if the mid-November parity was taken as a base. Actually the loan on the next crop will be based on the mid-July parity of 1950.

There were 18 December transferable notices issued at New York and seven at New Orleans. They were believd to be stopped by leading spot firms.

Futures closed 55 cents a bale higher to 10 cents lower than the previous close.

Oats No. 2 white 94¼-95¼.

Corn No. 2 white, 1.64-66, nominal.

Sorghums No. 2 yellow milo, per 100 lbs. 2.30-35.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Dec. 13 (AP) — December wheat and March corn reached new seasonal highs at the board of trade today. The buying wave that swept through the futures market was the result of purchases credited to export interests.

After fairly steady buying in wheat and corn developed early in today's session, short covering aided the movement and absorbed profit cashing on the scale up.

Sales of around a million bushels of wheat to Mexico, expected to be completed today, was a motivating force in wheat, and floor talk of sales of corn to France influenced the action of that grain.

At the close wheat was ⅛ to 1⅞ higher than yesterday's close, December $2.22⅞-23¼. Corn was ⅛ to 2 cents higher, December $1.31⅞-32. Oats were ⅛ to ⅞ higher, December 77⅞. Rye was ¼ higher to ¼ lower, December $1.43. Soybeans were ¼ up to ½ lower, December $2.30 to 40¼. Lard was 15 to 23 cents a hundredweight higher, December $10.15.

West Chilled By Cold Wave

(By The Associated Press)

A mid-December cold snap chilled most of the western half of the country today.

For the second consecutive day temperatures dipped below freezing in parts of California. The mercury plunged below zero in some areas of Arizona. It hit -3 at Flagstaff, Ariz. Fresno, Calif., reported 27 above and it was 30 at Sacramento.

Smudge Firing Used

Smudge firing began at 8:30 last night in some low lying citrus areas but there was little, if any, damage to the fruit.

It was biting cold in eastern Montana, the Dakotas, Minnesota and in some parts of the central Rocky Mountain region. Readings were as low as 15 at Bozeman, Mont., and Dickinson, N. D.

The cold line extended from the Great Lakes region and the Mississippi valley westward to the Pacific coast. The East and South had comparatively mild temperatures.

Plane Crash

by ground-controlled radar at the airport.

As it came down the approach, officials related, it suddenly swerved from the radar path. Ground technicians lost it completely. A short time later it was found in the river close by Bolling, resting in five feet of mud and water.

Abilene Sailor Survives

Vice President Robert J. Wilson of Capital said:

"According to our best information, the ship was making a straight approach when it veered sharply to the right and into the water."

It was the first mishap Capital has had in 30 months. The last crash involving a Capital airliner occurred in July, 1947, when a four-engine plane struck a mountainside near Leesburg, Va., killing all 52 abroad.

This time, the crash scene was not far from the spot where the shattered pieces of an Eastern airliner carried 55 to their death in the Potomac last Nov. 1, after an aerial collision with a surplus P-38 fighter plane.

Robert Hensley, 26, a sailor from Abilene, Tex., who survived last night's crash, told reporters that he and another navy man, Jeff Buchanon, 25, of Laurel, Miss., were among the first to escape from the wreckage.

Accident Described

"As the plane came down it sort of made a couple of jumps and then it hit. We couldn't see anything and I blacked out," Hensley said.

"I remember coming out the left side of the plane through a hole and being out on the wing. We were in very shallow water.

"Jeff and I went back into the plane and started pulling out survivors. Some of them were impossible to get to, but I held a tourniquet on one man whose foot was cut off."

Buchanon said that the plane dipped and started down suddenly about 10 or 15 minutes after the "no smoking" light went on.

"We hit with a terrific impact and I could feel the tail of the plane swerve sharply to the right. I guess it was about five seconds from the time it dipped until the time it hit."

Cotton Acreage

concern over the possibility that the nation's cotton producers might reject cotton marketing quotas in Thursday's referendum.

Thursday the cotton farmers will vote on whether they want cotton marketing quotas such as were approved in pre-war days.

If more than a third of the farmers voting reject the proposal, then the government automatically will cut its cotton price support program from 90 percent of parity to 50 percent.

Chairman Cooley (D-NC) of the House agriculture committee said this probably would result in a cotton price drop of $50 a bale and "put the country's economy into a tailspin."

Cooley said he thought Secretary Brannan "probably" would follow the subcommittee's recommendation on unused allocations.

Such a step, he said, should provide sufficient acreage to satisfy other growers in the counties demanding more acreage.

Cooley and Pace said they have no estimate on the total of this unused acreage but said they thought about 900,000 acres would satisfy demand.

The subcommittee recommended that Congress, by resolution, limit the acreage cut for any individual as follows:

By providing that no 1950 cotton allotment shall be less than the larger of (1) 70 percent of the average acreage actually planted to cotton on the farm in 1946, 1947 and 1948, or (2) 50 percent of the highest acreage planted to cotton or to war crops regarded as cotton in any one of the three years.

Cooley said he will introduce the resolution as soon as Congress convenes in January. He said he thought there will be no difficulty in rushing the resolution through.

On another front yesterday 10 Texas farmers filed suit in U. S. district court here to stay enforcement of the cotton acreage program in Texas.

They contend the state's quota is being unfairly distributed among the Texas counties. Arguments on their motion for an immediate order to block the Agriculture department from applying the control program as presently planned were set for next Monday.

17 Cars Derailed In Oklahoma Accident

OSAGE, Okla., Dec. 13 (UP) — Seventeen cars of a Katy freight train left the main line tracks south of here early today and a spokesman for the railroad said traffic probably would be held up until tonight.

No one was injured as the cars, in the middle of the long freight, were derailed. Nine of the cars contained livestock.

The derailment occurred on the railroad's main line between Parsons, Kans., and Oklahoma City.

H. J. Craig said two passenger trains en route from Parsons to Oklahoma City would be held up until the damage is repaired.

Craig blamed the accident on shifting sand. He said the cars ripped up ties and track as they left the rails.

Two wreckers, one from Oklahoma City and the other from Parsons, were sent to the scene, about 1½ miles south of here across the Arkansas river bridge.

Craig said it was hoped the tracks could be cleared and repaired by tonight.

Missing Girl

the search. Other women took over an abandoned logging camp and began making coffee, which was trucked in 10-gallon cans to the searchers.

Old Camps In Area

There were other abandoned camps and cabins in the area. The father, a fiber company employe, expressed hope the girl had found one of these.

He said Ruth was not a girl to get panic-stricken, but feared she had little woods lore. He said she was easily confused as to direction, and probably would not have experience enough to follow a ridge or creek downhill.

One deputy sheriff said that if the girl fell and hurt herself she may never be found alive.

Two bloodhounds were brought into the search last night, but their value was doubtful in the region of rain, sporadic snowfalls and slush.

Pilot's Efforts Futile

A pilot flew over the area between snowfalls, atempting to follow footprints, but found only a confused mess of searchers' tracks criss-crossing the clearings.

The girl was with three teenage companions when she disappeared. Her brother, Bill, first went off to hunt a tree for the scout party. Then she decided to leave the other two to join Bill. He came back in 45 minutes. Ruth did not return.

She was clad quite warmly except for her feet. She wore blue jeans, two sweaters and a heavy coat. But her shoes were light and low-cut.

Cold Weather

cloudy skies prevailed. There was light rain today along the coast.

Ozarks Town Of Noel Lives Up To Name

Spectacular Christmas Show Presented By Missouri Town

NOEL, Mo., Dec. 13 (UP) — This southwest Missouri Ozarks town of 515 persons puts on a spectacular Christmas show in keeping with its name.

High on a cedar-covered hill to the west of the town, a huge star shines brightly. It can be seen for miles across the wooded ridges.

The community lights itself up like one big Christmas tree, starting almost two months before the big day. Newcomers say they find more Christmas spirit here than in other towns in which they've lived.

That's what a name can do.

Several years ago, when Ed Rousselot was postmaster, he suggested that the postmark "Noel" should be right fitting on Christmas mail. Attention thus was focused on this town along El River, not far from the Arkansas and Oklahoma borders.

This year the Lions club has a booth where it will stamp mail with the words: "Greetings from Noel, Mo., the Christmas city of the Ozark vacationland." The club secretary will handle the stamping.

At the postoffice, Kenneth Perry, new postmaster, said he expected to handle more than 600,000 cards and packages, the number cancelled here last year.

Programs Are Planned

Mayor R. C. Mott said that all churches and schools will have Christmas programs. The choral society will present a program of Christmas carols. All women's clubs and organizations were busy on Christmas projects.

Homeowners and storekeepers had their decorations shining brightly in keeping with the town-wide spirit. Up above the city, on the star-lighted hill, there were several great cedar trees decked out with lights. Loudspeakers boomed carols along Main street.

Mott said the chamber of commerce strung lights along Main street on Nov. 2.

Noel was named by the city's first postmaster in honor of Uncle Bridge Noel, an early-day settler in these p[illegible]

District 3-AA Meeting Held

LAMESA, Dec. 13 (Special)—A decrease in District 3-AA football admission prices in 1950 was voted Monday at a meeting of the district executive committee.

The committee also drew up next year's conference grid schedule, and acted on other matters relating to the district's athletic program.

Home Games Listed

Reserved seats, priced at $1.50 this year, will sell for $1.20 next season. The general admission price was reduced from $1.20 to 90 cents. The price of student tickets, 74 and 30 cents, remained unchanged. This schedule was approved by a 4-1 vote.

Lubbock's home football games in 1950 will be with Midland, on either Nov. 17 or 18 (depending on Texas Tech's grid schedule), and with Odessa, on Nov. 23, Thanksgiving day.

The Westerners' conference road games will be at Big Spring, Oct. 7, and at Lamesa, Nov. 3.

Coach C. R. Pattison said his team's complete 1950 schedule will probably be announced later this week, as soon as contracts for several non-conference games are received.

The complete District 3-AA slate for 1950:

Oct. 7—Lubbock at Big Spring.

Nov. 3—Big Spring at Midland; Lubbock at Lamesa.

Nov. 11—Lamesa at Big Spring; Odessa at Midland.

Nov. 17-18—Midland at Lubbock; Big Spring at Odessa.

Nov. 23—Midland at Lamesa; Odessa at Lubbock.

Nov. 30—Lamesa at Odessa.

Baseball competition in the district will be between April 10 and May 13, although schedules will not be arranged until schedules of the Longhorn and West Texas-New Mexico leagues are released.

The committee also decided to award trophies to district champions in football, basketball and baseball. Lubbock will be the first to receive a trophy as 1949 football champion.

Blind Man Forgives Wife For Stabbing

OCONTO, Wis., Dec. 13 (UP) — A blind man wants back his wife who allegedly stabbed him with a knife when, she said, he tried to strangle her during his birthday party.

Edward Vorphal, 65, appealed from his hospital bed for his 52-year-old wife's release as she pleaded innocent last night to charges of assault with intent to do great bodily harm.

Mrs. Vorphal, mother of 11 children, was released on $500 bond and a preliminary hearing was set for Dec. 21.

She said her husband attacked her as she was repairing a light cord with a knife Saturday night. She said she must have struck him with the knife, but added:

"I don't know how it happened or how I could do a thing like that."

Officers were dispatched to the residence of C. S. Williams at 2403 Thirty-first about 6 p.m. after Mrs. Williams had reported that a bullet had been fired into the house.

Officials believed the shot had been fired by some children in the neighborhood. Several instances of guns being fired in the area have been reported recently, they said.

Big City Faces Water Holiday

NEW YORK, Dec. 13 (AP)—How does a city-dweller get along for a day with little, or no water?

That's a question that city officials promised to answer today when they issued detailed instructions for a plan for a one-day water holiday Friday.

Stephen J. Carney, water commissioner, said he does not expect the 24-hour water fast to include a ban on cooking or other "vitally essential" uses.

Response Wonderful

But he said the plan, when outlined in detail, will represent a "super-effort at conservation" of New York City's steadily dropping water supply.

The public response to appeals for voluntary water saving so far has been "wonderful," Carney said, but still not enough to stave off the threat of possible rationing in the near future.

"We are still losing ground," he said.

Although New Yorkers are using 173,000,000 gallons a day less than normal, Carney said, the overall city consumption still is about 1,019,000,000 gallons daily.

Warning Of Rationing

As of yesterday, there were 84,563,000,000 gallons left in the city reservoirs. This was down some 700,000,000 gallons in the last 24-hour period despite light week-end rains.

Normal capacity of the city's three big reservoir systems is 253,000,000,000 gallons.

If the supply drops to 50,000,000,000 gallons, city officials have warned that rationing will be necessary.

In a new move to save water, Dr. William Jansen, superintendent of schools, yesterday ordered the temporary closing of 39 school swimming pools. Restrictions also were placed on use of school shower rooms.

Should a break come, it would be a partial reversal of State department policy. It has been keeping representatives in Communist capitals, regardless of strained relations, so they can serve as a "window" behind the iron curtain and send back uncensored reports. The county medical officer did not go to the scene, and no opinion was given as to the development of the infant. The body was found on the J. H. Bell farm. It was returned to Lubbock for burial at the county's expense.

Yugoslavian Horses Interned By Russia

VIENNA, Dec. 13 (AP) — Seven Yugoslav race horses are the latest victims of the feud between Premier Marshal Tito and the Russian-led Cominform.

The Russians won't permit the horses to be shipped out of Vienna across the Soviet occupation zone to Yugoslavia.

They came here two months ago for the fall racing season. Unless Tito and Generalissimo Stalin patch up their quarrel they are liable to be here next fall, too.

Iowa Student, Charged In Slaying Of Pretty Coed, Turns To Poetry As He Awaits Hearing

IOWA CITY, Iowa, Dec. 13. (AP)—A University of Iowa psychology student today turned to poetry as he waited in jail for a preliminary hearing in the strangulation slaying of a beautiful coed.

The hearing was set for Dec. 21 when the broad-shouldered Robert E. Bednasek, 24, was brought before Justice of the Peace C. J. Hutchinson here yesterday.

He is charged with the first degree murder of pretty Margaret (Geege) Jackson, 20, whose body, clad in a white, strapless evening gown was found early Sunday in a men's rooming house.

Hands Are Manacled

With his manacled hands clasped together, Bednasek shook his bowed head sadly from side to side in a negative fashion as he heard the charge against him read in the crowded justice of the peace office.

No formal plea was entered for the senior student from Cedar Rapids, Iowa, but his lawyer in asking for a preliminery hearing said his client would plead innocent.

Bednasek has said he "loved that girl more than my life" and that she loved him.

A friend who described Bednasek as an easy-going, popular fellow, took, upon his request, books of poems to the prisoner. Officers brought him the book of love poems, "This Is My Beloved" by Walter Benton. Bob Carpenter, of Cedar Rapids, said he took to the jail books of poetry by Elizabeth Barrett and Robert Browning.

Says Mind Went Blank

Bednasek, in a signed statement released by County Attorney Jack White yesterday, said that he had his hands on the girl's throat just before his mind "went blank."

The statement related how he and the girl, also a senior in psychology, had a candle lighted wine and lobster dinner in a room at the rooming house where he stayed, went to a fraternity dance where they had several drinks, and then returned to the rooming house for a nightcap.

"I poured out a drink for us . . . I kissed her a few times," the statement said.

He said Miss Jackson had placed her hands on his throat "in a playful manner," and he had told her "that was too high up to choke a person."

"I showed her the proper place on the throat to choke a person," Bednasek's statement said.

He said the next thing he remembered Margaret "was lying on the floor and was not breathing." He said he tried to revive her as she lay on the floor, and then laid her on a bunk bed and "tried to bring her to by using artificial respiration."

"When I couldn't bring her to I became frightened and I ran from the room," he said.

The girl's father, William E. Jackson of Burlington, Ia., a member of the Iowa state parole board, said his daughter was "an innocent, trusting girl" who "put too much trust in her companion."

He said the girl was not in love with Bednasek, and said authorities had verified there was "no wrongdoing on the part of my daughter."

Letters Are Found

Letters found in Bednasek's room showed the couple corresponded during the summer when the girl was employed in Denver.

One letter was signed "lots of love—Geege." Geege was Miss Jackson's nickname. In another letter, similarly signed, Bednasek was referred to as "Puci."

Her father's statment called the affair a "one-sided romance."

Jackson pointed out his daughter had invited another youth to her Kappa Alpha Theta sorority dance the night before her fatal date with Bednasek.

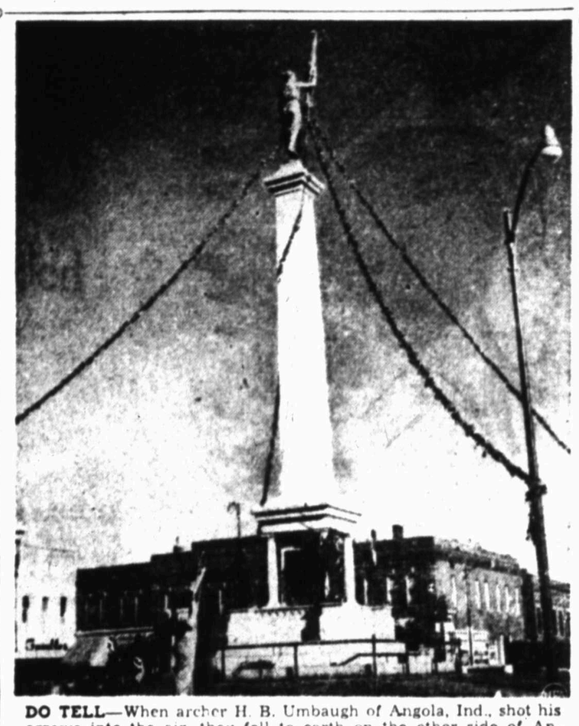

C. Warren Shelton, of Denver, Miss Jackson's guest at the sorority dance, said he met her in Denver last summer and did not know Bednasek.

He Wasn't Sore

In a statement released by authorities yesterday, Bednasek said he was "somewhat perturbed" because the girl had invited another man to the sorority dance but added that he wasn't "sore" about it "after Margaret explained it to me."

Among things found in Bednasek's personal belongings in his third-floor attic room at the "Empty Arms" rooming house, Sheriff Albert Murphy said, was a small wallet size calendar card with these notations:

Feb. 3—"Met G-G."
March 10—Steady.
June 10—
Had G-G last time."
June 11—"G-G left for summer."
July 16—
G-G said we were through."

In so doing, they solved the town's Christmas decoration problem by carrying over pieces of twine attached to strings of lights. Umbaugh will spend the next few weeks figuring how to get the lights down again without having to climb the statue.

Man Is Charged In Levelland Shooting

LEVELLAND, Dec. 13 (Special)—Albert Herrera, 28, was formally charged with murder and his bond set at $2,500 Monday in the Sunday morning shooting of Henardo Gonzales, also 28, a transcient farm laborer from Brady.

Herrera was charged at a preliminary hearing this afternoon in Justice of the Peace A. F. Odell's court. He was released from Hockley county jail this morning after posting bond.

Gonzales died in a Levelland street shortly before 11 a. m. Sunday after a single .22 caliber bullet had pierced his chest. In a statement to police shortly afterwards, Herrera admitted firing the shot and said a fist fight between he and the dead man had precipitated the shooting.

UN Fund Symbol Of Full Plate To 6,000,000 Hungry Children

By JOHN W. FINNEY
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13 (U.P.)—The United Nations international children's emergency fund has become a symbol of the full plate to more than 6,000,000 hungry youngsters and an example of world co-operation to their elders.

First established by the United Nations in December, 1946, the UNICEF has been an international attempt to deal with the problem of providing food, clothing, and medical care for children in countries that have been ravaged by war.

As such it has transcended international differences, side-stepped the cold war, and has known no barries of race, creed, nationality or politics. Russia is represented on the executive board of the fund. Satellite nations such as Bulgaria, Hungary, Poland, and Czechoslovakia have contributed money or food.

Funds Extended

Three years ago the UNICEF faced the problem of aiding 30,000,000 children in Europe alone. Since that time the fund has extended its feeding program to span 13 countries in Europe, including Eastern and Western Germany China, India, the Philippines, Japan, Korea, the Palestine area, Africa, and North and South America.

In all, the fund estimates that it has provided more than 2,000,000,000 meals for undernourished children, with the national governments supplying the cereals, vegetables, and fruits, and the UNICEF supply the supplementary share of milk, fats, cod liver oil, fish, or meat.

Besides feeding operations, there has been developed a health program designed to protect weakened children from the crippling effects of disease. In co-operation with the World Health Organization, the UNICEF has tested 17,500,000 children and given antituberculosis vaccine to 8,000,000.

Many Donations

The fund depends jointly on government gifts and private donations. As of Nov. 1, 1949, it had received from all sources the equivalent of $141,500,000, with by far the largest part, more than $98,000,000, received from governments. Thirty-six governments have made contributions, many of them several times.

More than half of the fund's resources have come from the United States. This nation matches the contributions of other governments on the basis of $2.57 for every $1 they contribute. Congress has authorized $100,000,000 for this purpose, and $75,000,000 has been appropriated through June, 1950.

In addition to government appropriations, last year the peoples of 45 countries and 39 self-governing territories donated more than $10,000,0000 to the fund.

Of the $141,000,000 received or pledged, all except $400,000 either has been spent or earmarked. Insofar as possible, the fund's resources are spent in the contributing countries for goods required under the program.

According to the U. S. committee for the UNICEF, a private group of citizens whose function is to lend their support to the work of the fund, there is no limit to the amount of money required to do even a supplementary job. Thus far, the fund has been able to aid only 6,000,000 children. An estimated 14,000,000 still need but have not received any of this international assistance.

President Truman said if children continued to be unfed and uncared for, the result would be "one of the greatest tragedies which the war could produce . . . a generation of children whose minds and bodies were stunted and warped."

Mr. Truman said that "the establishment of lasting peace depends in large measure upon whether these children, who will shape the future, have healthy bodies and a normal outlook on life."

TRUMAN CHOOSES HARD ROAD

Demand For FEPC To Face Congress

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13 (AP) — The Truman administration chose the hard road today in a quest for civil rights legislation: it issued a demand for Senate passage early next year of a fair employment practice bill.

Senator Lucas of Illinois, the Democratic leader, disclosed the plan to seek a vote on the FEPC bill. He said the attempt will be made early in the next session which he hopes will complete work on President Truman's "fair deal" program in July.

Heart Of Program

Lucas explained that he thinks the FEPC bill is the heart of the President's civil rights program. It is aimed at curbing job discrimination based on a worker's color, race or religion. It also is the most controversial of several measures the President has recommended and thus faces the hardest fight.

Some advocates have said it mighg be easier to win approval of the civil rights program on a step-by-step basis. They want anti-poll tax and anti-lynching bills considered first.

However, Lucas said the anti-lynching bill now on the Senate calendar is not satisfactory to the administration. He intimated it is too broad in its terms. Sponsors of the measure have said it would apply to violence in labor disputes.

Bill Not Cleared

Lucas noted that a bill to abolish state poll taxes as a requirement for voting has not yet cleared the Senate rules committee.

Besides the civil rights legislation, Lucas told reporters that several other important measures already pending in Congress will have a high place on the administration program. He would not forecast what new legislation will be asked by President Truman next month.

The Senate's first business will be a House-approved oleo tax repeal bill, the Democratic leader said. He observed that the Senate in the last session agreed to begin debate Jan. 20 on a compromise basing point bill, affecting absorption of freight rates in delivered charges. The judiciary committee has been ordered to bring to the Senate by Jan. 25 a measure to increase the number of displaced persons who can be admitted to this country.

Besides these, Lucas said the Democratic majority will give high priority to a House-approved bill increasing social security benefits and coverage. He added that President Truman is preparing about 10 new government reorganization plans for action by Congress.

On Negative Side

On the negative side, Lucas said he doubts there will be any new effort in this session to repeal the Taft-Hartley labor law. He said he thinks a farm price support bill

Shirley Temple Home Guarded Every Night

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 13 (INS) — Shirley Temple disclosed today that her home is under nightly guard for the protection of her 22-month-old daughter, Linda Susan.

The 21-year-old star said:

"I thought it was a good idea, just in case."

The guard was hired last October after her separation from John Agar, whom she divorced a week ago.

But she said that the employment of the guard had "no connection with my recent matrimonial difficulties."

Hoover Drafts Eight-Point Reform Program

Huge Savings Are Forecast

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13. (AP)—A campaign for government reform today boiled down to an eight-point program drawn up by Herbert Hoover. He forecast that it would save the taxpayers $2,000,000,000 a year.

The former President, addressing the national reorganization conference last night, predicted that this fiscal year's $5,500,000,000 excursion into red ink may be exceeded in the following year.

"We may be turning two Frankensteins loose in the land," Hoover said. "Their terrifying names are 'higher taxes' and 'inflation'."

Is HST's Estimate

The estimate of a $5,500,000,000 deficit for this fiscal year, ending next June 30, is President Truman's.

The two-day conference, sponsored by the non-partisan citizens committee for the Hoover report, neared its close today. Its wind-up schedule included presentation of an award to Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson for his "courageous efforts" at cost-cutting and unification in the military establishment.

Dr. Robert L. Johnson, national chairman, told the conference that "the public is being aroused, as at no time in our history, to the necessity of adopting a fundamental, intelligent, reorganization program for the executive branch."

Chairman Johnson, the president of Temple university, Philadelphia, told the 500 civic leaders from every section of the country:

Will Become Law

"If the people demand these reforms that can save them millions a year and guarantee our survival as a free people, they will become law."

Senator Democratic Leader Lucas (Ill) said today that Mr. Truman plans to send about 10 reorganization plans to Congress this session.

Hoover, who headed the official, 12-man reorganization commission which handed Congress 318 reorganization proposals last spring, advised the committee to focus its efforts on winning passage of only the "most urgent" items at the coming session of Congress.

Whereas economists agree that "taxation beyond 25 per cent of our national income will bring disaster," Hoover said, actual and prospective expenditures of federal and local governments promise to eat up "much more than 30 per cent."

Objectives Are Listed

He offered this list of objectives in approximate order of urgency:

1. Reorganizing the civil service where, he said, "at present Red Tape himself dwells." An accumulation of waste and deadwood, he added, makes for the "discouragement of good officials."

2. Reorganizing the budget and

THE QUESTION

Considering that more men would need to be added to the police force do you think a policeman should be stationed at each school?

THE ANSWERS

SOLON LEA, 2903 Twentieth, city recorder: "Yes, I'm sure that there should, but under the present set-up, we don't have enough officers on duty at one time to cover more than half of the schools. If a satisfactory system could be worked out for the policeman, I think that officers should be stationed at each school."

M. N. DAVIDSON, Route 5, policeman: "Well, there really should for the protection of the children, but the city wouldn't be able to pay for extra patrolmen. I feel that the older the children get, the harder they are to handle."

PETE HUBBARD, 2408 Twenfourth, city detective: "I think the ones that need it most should have it. Some of these schools can be handled very well with school patrols. If every school would organize and train schoolboy patrols, it wouldn't be necessary to put a policeman at each school. As far as I know, we've never had a child hurt where there was a schoolboy patrol. We have school zones around each school and if motorists would obey these schoolboy patrols, they could handle it."

WENDELL DEATON, 1010 Thirty-sixth, policeman: "Yes, I am sure that there should. Schools should have traffic direction especially for the younger children, even if it required adding more to the police force."

M. B. NORRIS, 1912 Ninth, city jailer: "I think they should, due to the fact of the new additions being taken into the city. Some drivers won't observe school zones and due to the fact that children are dismissed during heavy traffic times, they should be given adequate police protection."

GEORGE HALL, 2203 Thirteenth, patrolman: "Yes, I think there should. For the ones that need it at least. We would definitely have to have more men on the force though, if the schools were given the right kind of protection."

GUNMAN SHOWED PLENTY OF SPEED

Bandit Stages Seven Dallas Holdups In Hour, 45 Minutes

DALLAS, Dec. 13. (AP)—Dallas police sorrowfully point to a new crime record—seven holdups by one man in an hour and 15 minutes.

With the speed of a one-legged man changing socks in a revolving door, the gunman hopped in automobiles waiting for traffic lights, made his demands, then hopped out again.

The time table as it shows on the police blotter between 7:30 and 8:45 p. m. last night:

Sam Abranson—The quickie bandit hopped in his car, Abranson hopped out. Car disappeared.

Rev. John Goodman—(20 minutes later) Bandit jumped in. Goodman jumped out. Car disappeared.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Green—(10 minutes later) bandit jumped in, took Green's hat, watch, billfold and Mrs. Green's watch and wedding rings. Told Green to circle back to downtown Dallas. Gunman hopped out. Told Green to drive on.

Robert Andrews—Bandit hops in, says get going. Andrews says he'll have to wait for car in front to take off. Bandit can't wait, he takes off.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Hoops, jr.—Bandit jumps in car, tells Hoops to drive anywhere, but "do it quick." Bandit demands money. Hoops gives him $2. Bandit notices Hoops' little boy in back seat, gives the boy the $2, saying "I have a boy like that."

C. B. White—Bandit jumps in car, orders White to drive to downtown street. When White got to a signal light he stopped, jumped from car and told bandit, "you go your way and I'll go mine." Bandit goes other way.

Roy Cox—Bandit pops into car, same way as in other cases. Orders him to drive around, then one block from central police station he gets out, takes Cox's overcoat and identification card, waves Cox on.

When last seen, bandit striding calmly along street. He was described as about 25, wearing a blue, pin-striped suit and having a handkerchief tied around his head.

REDS PROSECUTE FORMER LEADER

Defense Attorney Blasts Own Client

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Dec. 13 (U.P.) — Former Deputy Premier Traicho Kostov's defense attorney turned against him today, called on Kostov to repent his "crime" and said that all charges had been proved against him.

Kostov sat silent but alert as his attorney spent one hour and 15 minutes condemning his client to the seven-man court trying Kostov and 10 others for treason.

The attorney, D. Dyukmedjiev, one of Bulgaria's outstanding courtroom orators, said he wished Kostov had been executed by royalist police when he was arrested in 1942.

Plea Is Ignored

The attorney ignored Kostov's plea of innocent On the first day of the trial Kostov denied that he plotted to assassinate the late Premier Georgi Dimitrov and overthrow the Bulgarian Communist regime with Yugoslav, British and U. S. help.

The attorney said there should be two more benches of defendants on trial, one to hold Yugoslavia's Tito and his aides and the other to hold "the aggressors to war"—the Anglo-Americans.

"Today ,the seventh day of this trial, we are faced with a horrible picture and in the middle is Kostov," the lawyer said.

Facts Are Recalled

"Credit must be given indeed to the vigilance of our organs, which revealed this conspiracy. We were headed toward catastrophe."

He recapitulated the facts mentioned by Prosecutor Vladimir Dimchev and said all the charges against his client had been proved.

Referring to the charge that Kostov was spared from a death sentence when tried by a facist court in 1942 because he agreed to serve as a police agent inside the Communist party, the attorney said:

"I say much better if the death sentence had been carried out against Kostov then."

Dimchev yesterday demanded the "fullest punishment" for Kostov and the other 10 defendants.

Near the end of his speech the attorney, looking first at Kostov then at the judges, said: "If Kostov's last words should show repentance for his crimes, I beg the court to take them into consideration."

UNIT SALES ABOUT SAME AS '48

Stores Hope To Make Up Lost Earnings Gaps By Christmas

BY SAM DAWSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 13 — "What do they mean, store sales are down?" asks a harried housewife. "They couldn't pack any more shoppers into the stores if they tried."

The lady may have something there. Certainly the merchants hope she has. They want to pack them in, right up to Christmas. It may help them retrieve some of their lost earnings position — profits have been lagging this year in many department stores, compared to recent bonanza years.

Unit Sales About Equal

Reports that Christmas sales so far are running from three to ten per cent behind last year across the country refer to total dollar volume. That doesn't mean that Santa will have a lighter load of presents to tote this year. It means they won't have cost so much.

Unit sales appear to be holding about equal to last year. The clerks are tieing up just about as many packages as last year, but, if the items bought are the same as last year, in many cases the price tag was about five per cent lower. However, in even more cases, apparently, the shopper is choosing a less expensive type of present.

Deadline Rush Seen

Some merchants are expecting that even dollar sales this Christmas will top last's, for a new record. They base this hope on: the return to the last-minute shopping rush habits of Americans; the extra shopping day in the final week this year, because Christmas falls on Sunday, while last year it came on Saturday; and the general feeling of economic optimism in recent weeks that may loosen dad's purse strings even more.

They also note that some of the larger items, such as household appliances and television sets, are moving out in volume under easy credit terms. Last year there were still some federal curbs on these terms. This year some stores are offering television sets on a "no down payment" basis. An especial fillip is given such buying this year by expectations of veterans that when payment time rolls around their insurance dividend will have arrived from Uncle Sam.

Over all, this year the merchant's lot is not an unhappy one.

Sales of luxury gifts and the higher-priced novelties are reported lagging in many stores, but the bargain basements are packed, and the "gift under $10" is getting a big play.

Woman Required To Post Bond In Case

Beulah Anne Woods, about 42, was arrested Monday afternoon and required to post trial appearance bond on a charge of libel—outgrowth of a divorce she was awarded from her traveling evangelist husband Guy N. Woods, a year ago.

The complaint was filed in county court Aug. 23 upon oath of Woods.

Malicious Statement Charged

It charged that Mrs. Woods, with intent to injure Woods, "did unlawfully and maliciously make, write, print, publish and circulate a malicious statement of and concerning one Guy N. Woods and affecting the reputation of the said Woods, to the tenor following:

"'I want it generally known and thoroughly understood that I divorced Guy N. Woods, Dec. 2, 1948, on the grounds of adultery. Any information other than this from anyone on this subject is a deliberate falsehood. My evidence is ironclad and open for investigation to proper persons. I regret I've been forced to send this statement out."

Records in the 99th District court of Judge G. V. Pardue show that Judge Pardue on Nov. 29, this year, entered a judgment upon his own motion "correcting and reforming" the docket, expunging from the record any notation to the effect that the divorce earlier granted in his court was "based upon grounds of adultery."

Mrs. Woods' complaint, filed in the 99th court Aug. 20, 1948, set up adultery as one of her grounds for asking for a divorce. Subsequently, in an amended petition filed Dec. 1, 1948, she confined her grounds to abandonment.

The bond was for $400, and was made returnable next Monday in the court of Judge Walter Davies, before whom she pleaded innocent of the libel charge Monday.

In the divorce decree, the court took cognizance of a property settlement and that no children had been born to the minister and Mrs. Wood.

Tieup Of Shipping Friday Indicated

NEW YORK, Dec. 13 (AP)—Federal conciliators continued efforts today to avert in East and Gulf coast shipping tieup, which a spokesman for 2,000 AFL ship's officers says is likely Friday.

The spokesman for the AFL Masters, Mates and Pilots association said last night the men may strike Friday if the 38 shipping companies involved do not make some concession on the union's seniority demands.

Representatives of the union and the owners met again yesterday with federal conciliators.

Student Charged In Attempt To Counterfeit Christmas Money

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 13. (U.P.) — A 23-year-old commercial art student will be arraigned today on federal charges that he sneaked into an engraving plant to counterfeit his own Christmas money.

"In a few more hours this man would have had all the Christmas spending money he needed," said Charles A. Ellis, special agent in charge of the San Antonio bureau of the secret service.

Ellis said the man, a navy veteran studying art under the G. I. bill of rights, entered the Acme engraving plant through a roof ventilator during the weekend while no one was in the building.

He said the artist used the company's cameras to make reproductions of five, ten and twenty dollar bills, completed the negatives and was working on the actual engraving plates when seized Sunday night.

ISRAEL, JORDAN OPPOSING PLAN

Problems Studied On Rule Of United Nations In Jerusalem

BY TOM OCHILTREE
Associated Press Staff Writer

LAKE SUCCESS, Dec. 13—The United Nations Trusteeship council begins today the difficult task of trying to carry out the general assembly's decision for international rule over Jerusalem. The occupying powers, Israel and Hashemite Jordan, say they won't give up their sections of the Holy City.

The New York Times reported that the U. S.—which joined Israel and Jordan in opposing international rule—had urged the two governments informally "against any precipitate action" protesting the U. N. decision.

Governments Cautioned

"It was understood," the Times reported, "that United States representatives in Tel Aviv and Amman cautioned both governments against any action that would jeopardize their relations with the Vatican and with other Arab countries."

Because of Israeli-Jorgan opposition, the 12-month Trusteeship council's chances for success are regarded as slim by many observers.

However, Roger Garreau of France, the council chairman, said he saw no reason to be pessimistic. He said the problem can be solved.

As a result of the Jewish-Arab fighting last year Jerusalem is now divided into two parts. Israel holds the modern section of the city, while Jordan legionnaires occupy the so-called "old city" which contains most of the shrines sacred to Christians, Moslems and Jews.

Informants said the Trusteeship council first will draft a statute for Jerusalem and suburban areas such as Bethlehem which would be included in the international area.

If the council succeeds in obtaining the "cooperation of the parties it will proceed to implement the statute," one source explained. That would involve the naming of a U.N. governor for the area.

If cooperation from Israel and Jordan is not forthcoming, the sources said, then the Trusteeship council would be forced to refer the Jerusalem question back to the general assembly next year.

This would shift the responsibility but might not bring the matter any nearer to a conclusion. The assembly has no powers of enforcement other than the pressure of world public opinion.

Catholics Support Issue

The 1949 assembly gave overwhelming approval to the internationization plan last Friday just before final adjournment. The United States and Britain supported Israel and were badly beaten in the vote. The core of support of the proposal came from Australia,France, the Arab states, the Soviet bloc and a number of the nations of Catholic Latin America. There is strong Roman Catholic support—led by the Vatican—for international rule of Jerusalem.

Nations supporting internationalization said such a regime would best safeguard the city's unique position as a place sacred to Christians, Moslems and Jews.

Israel expressed a desire to enter into an arrangement to guarantee free access and protection to holy places, but said by far the greatest portion of the city has no religious significance.

Russia Get Voice

The Israeli delegation said Jerusalem Jews would be deprived of the fundamental right to live in the country of their choice if the city is placed under U.N. rule. Jordan is not a member of the U. N. but presented her views opposing internationalization during committee consideration.

The decision to internationalize Jerusalem gives Russia a voice in an area where she has been shut out heretofore. The Soviet Union is a member of the Trusteeship council under Big Five power rights.

The Trusteeship council now is meeting in special session. Its regular session is scheduled to begin in Geneva Jan. 24.

Garreau said he expected much of the work on drafting a Jerusalem statute to be concluded in the meetings here. Final decision are expected to be reached in Geneva, however.

Much spade work already has been done on the Jerusalem statute. A six-nation working committee of the Trusteeship council issued a draft on the subject last February. Its consideration of the question grew out of the Palestine partition decision of Nov. 29, 1947, which called for Jerusalem's internationalization.

The working committee proposed the demilitarization of Jerusalem and the organization of a special police force there. The governor would be appointed for a three-year term and would be eligible for reappointment. It suggested that the legislative council could be a smaller body could be established with equal representation for Arabs, Christians and Jews.

San Antonio Couple Facing Deportation

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 13. (AP)—The U. S. Immigration and Naturalization service has set Dec. 20 as the tentative date for deportation hearings for two San Antonio residents.

Respondents at the hearing will be Mr. and Mrs. John Butt Crewe, charged with having been members of an organization that advocates overthrow of the United States government by force and violence.

Immigrant Inspector James A. Winters said the hearing is to give the couple opportunity to show reason why they should not be deported.

They came from Canada in 1920.

TRANSIT STRIKE LOOMS LARGE

Houston Bus Company Stands Firm Against Union Demands

HOUSTON, Dec. 13. (U.P.)—The Houston Transit Co. announced publicly today that, by previous agreement, it still planned to discontinue a safe driving bonus to its drivers, apparently a move that would foment a bus strike here by the week-end.

Transit company president Carl B. Frazer, in an open letter to Clayton Stone, president of local 260 of the Transport Workers Union of America (CIO), called the strike threat "uncalled for."

"The Houston Transit Co. has done everything within reason to meet the union's demands and avoid interruption of bus service," Frazer said.

"Understanding" Disputed

He stated that a new contract, still unsigned because of the plan to halt the bonus, was negotiated last month in the presence of Federal Conciliator James O. Hubbard.

"It was understood at that time that the new rate took the place of the old basis of pay, and that the bonus which the company had been paying voluntarily would not be continued," Frazer claimed.

At the end of a 14-hour strike that made a jumble of Houston traffic last month, bus drivers were given a 13-cent hourly pay increase.

Stone, announcing dissatisfaction with the contract earlier this week, said no understanding was reached that the $5 monthly bonus for safe driving was to be eliminated.

Mayor Joins Talks

Stone predicted a strike vote and a strike "by the end of this week" if the bus company goes through with its plan to stop the bonus.

Mayor Oscar Holcombe met yesterday with Stone, union vice president J. P. Kinser and assistant state CIO Director Carl McPeak to get a complete outline of the dispute.

The mayor, who acted as chief mediator during the brief walkout last month, had but a slight comment at the end of the meeting. "They just brought me up to date in the dispute," he said.

Stone told newsmen that "everything possible" would be done to avoid a strike before Christmas, which would keep thousands of shoppers away from downtown Houston and put a severe clamp on business.

PETS FOR HIRE

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (U.P.)—The Kalamazoo Humane Society has opened a "pet lending library" to help pupils in the public schools learn more about animal life. When school teachers think their pupils should have a look at a real animal they check with the society. If it has such an animal, it is delivered to the school for a day.

TRIBUTE TO A GREAT NEWSPAPERMAN—A portrait of the late Ernie Pyle, famous Scripps-Howard newspaper correspondent, is hung at the Press Box, a New York restaurant. His is the first of a series of paintings of famous newspapermen to be displayed in the restaurant's Hall of Fame. On hand at the unveiling were: William Donovan, wartime head of the Office of Strategic Services; John Shelton, artist who painted the portrait, and Henry Castello, co-owner and manager of the restaurant.

passed at the last session will be "sufficient" without action on the Brannan farm bill providing for subsidy payments.

On the international front Lucas said he expects the administration to push for approval of the international trade organization agreement and President Truman's 'point four" plan for American investments in backward areas abroad.

Lucas said he would welcome any cuts that could be made in funds for European economic recovery "without crippling the program." He added that Congress probably will be asked to consider a new appropriation to finance military aid to western European nations opposing Communism.

The Democratic leader would not predict that Congress will balance the budget. He made it plain, however, he does not think the lawmakers will approve income tax increases.

In fact, Lucas said he has found strong sentiment in Congress for wiping out high wartime excise taxes. He suggested some increase in corporation levies might be written into such a bill to prevent revenue loss.

High Living Costs In Red China Include Gasoline At $3 Per Gallon, Couple Says

WACO, Dec. 13 (U.P.)—Gasoline is selling for $3 a gallon in American dollars, about five times its former price in Tsingtao, China, under the Communist regime.

Mrs. Darline Sears, a Baylor University student, says her husband, who is in missionary work in the Chinese city, writes her that taxes on the Sears' home at the mission likewise have advanced from $50 to $5000 annually, U. S. currency value.

Mrs. Sears and her husband, the Rev. S. B. Sears, were Southern Baptist missionaries to northern China when the Communist took over.

They were warned repeatedly by the American consul of the approach of the Red forces and finally upon insistence of the consul, Mrs. Sears returned to America last Jan. 10. The pastor chose to remain at the mission base at Tsingtao.

Enrolled In College

Both the Sears call St. Joseph, Mo., their home.

While waiting to be reunited with her husband, Mrs. Sears enrolled at Baylor University to complete her college work. The few letters she has received from her husband have revealed some interesting things about Communist China.

Surprisingly enough to many, Sears wrote, was the decency the Communists have displayed, at least outwardly. There has been no interference with worship in Tsingtao. However, the missionaries have been able to start no new work. Each mission station is able to use one automobile.

Sears wrote that he has heard considerable anti-American propaganda in Tsingtao, but he feels the Communists seem to be fairer in their local administration than their predecessors.

Diet Changed

The diet has changed for the folks in Tsingtao. Fish formerly was common in the seaport; now pork is the only meat available.

Foreigners are not allowed to leave town or do any traveling, except to return to their home countries. And once out, the pastor writes, it is impossible for them to return to Communist China.

All organized mail service with the outside world has been cut off. Sears didn't know his wife was in Baylor until several weeks ago. Letters from Tsingtao must be given to Chinese friends, who carry them to Hong Kong, where they are mailed.

The Communists have not yet solved the Chinese inflation problem, according to Sears. He said he has paid as much as $25,000,000 (Chinese currency) for one meal's groceries and 2,000 Chinese dollars for a haircut.

3. Setting up the post office as a modern business and removing it from politics by modernizing 160 years' accumulation of "conflicting laws."

4. Unifying the federal hospital service which, when investigated, had patients for only 155,000 of its 225,000 beds but was about to provide 50,000 more meds at a cost of $1,300,000,000.

5. Merging the water conservation services—"they overlap; they have duplicate offices . . . A pork-barrel floats in those rivers."

6. Consolidating the administration of grazing and forest lands in the Agriculture department, instead of letting agriculture and interior maintain competing services and staffs.

7. Providing one central transportation agency to eliminate "overlap and waste" and to steer national policy in this field, vital to national defense.

8. Relieving the President of the burden of direct responsibility over 65 different agencies, and ironing out conflicting authorities between bureaus.

HUNT IN RED, JURY SAYS

SPRINGHILL, Nova Scotia. (U.P.)—A coroner's jury here would compel all hunters to wear bright red clothes and no white. The jury made its recommendation at an injuest into the death of Frank Cook, who was shot accidentally by Gerald Cole. Cole mistook Cook for a deer and no blame was attached.

FLY-SWATTER STILL GOOD WEAPON

Flies And Mosquitoes May Be Building Up DDT Resistance

BY FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Staff Writer

TAMPA, Fla., Dec. 13—You'd better get your fly-swatter and mosquito-slapping hand in shape—because next spring and summer those pests may give you your roughest time since the advent of DDT and other new insect killers.

That's the view of Dr. A. M. Boyce of the University of California, president of the American Association of Economic entomologists.

He says that growing evidence of the resistance of the house-fly to DDT and other powerful new insecticides, and recent findings that some species of common mosquitoes are getting too tough for DDT, all adds up to this gloomy outlook for next year:

1. Increasing areas of the nation may find their flies have built up the resistance already reported from many sections—not only to DDT but to other chemicals developed since its advent.

Situation Could Get Rough

2. More areas may find the mosquito resistance to DDT already noted in a few sections, and additional resistance strains may crop up. Furthermore, it might well be that nature's No. 1 divebomber will begin to build up the brush-off to a few strong insecticides which now work where DDT will not.

The latter chemicals are "lindane," and a third named "toxaphene."

Pointing out that those three chemicals at first worked against strains of house-flies that had become coy to DDT—but then showed evidence of having shot their bolts—Boyce told a reporter:

The same thing could well happen in the case of mosquitoes, although we're hoping it won't.

"This matter of resistance on the part of house-flies and mosquitoes could get really rough. It's possible that the people will eventually have to go back to the old method of the fly-swatter for the fly and hand-slapping for the mosquito."

Dr. Boyce was interviewed on the eve of a joint four-day session of his society with the Entomological Society of America and the Florida Pest Control association.

Researchers At Work

But while he declared that this matter of resistance constitutes the prime problem of insect researchers, he said there are hopes of overcoming it—and most of them are based on lessons of the continuing war being waged against pests which attack the rich citrus crops of Texas, California and Florida. Those states are the country's chief sources of citrus fruits.

Declaring that most of the advances made against all agricultural crop enemies of the nation stem from researchers done on citrus pests, Boyce gave this outline:

Citrus-fruit researchers believe they have worked out the hereditary pattern of pest resistance to insecticides—opening up the possibility of crossing extremely susceptible strains with extremely resistant strains in the hope of developing mediocre races that might be soft touches for a good insecticide.

These same researchers have determined exactly how an insecticide works when it does work—opening up the possibility of building up even more powerful compounds than are now available.

Two Negroes Sought After Taxi Stolen

DALLAS, Dec. 13 (U.P.) — Two negro men robbed a negro cab driver of $10 before dawn today, stole his taxi near downtown Dallas and fled.

Tommy Brown, jr., the 27-year-old taxi driver said the two men, about 18 and 30 years old, were armed when they approached him, demanded his money and drove away in his taxi.

All In A Lifetime — A Dog's Life

Reds Barring UNICEF Group From Romania

BUCHAREST, Romania, Dec. 13 (U.P.)—On orders from Romania's Communist government the entire foreign staff which ran the U. N. International Children's Emergency fund (UNICEF) left the country last night.

The group of U.N. officials left for Paris after the government gave them a week to wind up their affairs here. Romanian employes of UNICEF were left in charge to liquidate the operation which once handed out milk and examined children for tuberculosis. It was left to the ministry of health to decide whether the UNICEF office would continue to function under government control.

(Although no reason was given, the expulsion appeared to be in line with a current Eastern European policy of eliminating non-Communist agency operations.)

Future Is Bright For 19-Month-Old Who Needs A Home

MEXIA, Dec. 13 (U.P.) — The future looked pretty bright today for little "Dale somebody," a 19-month-old boy whose father is dead and whose mother can't provide a home.

More than 200 couples—in all parts of the United States—want to take the baby as their own.

Swamped By Calls

The Rev. A. W. Deguire, Limestone county Red Cross chairman, said telephoned and telegraphed inquiries had swamped him.

The identity of Dale's mother is a guarded secret. So is the identity of the five-member committee which will screen the applications and decide which couple is to become Dale's family by adoption.

Child Is Described

In the interim, the baby is being cared for by relatives. When he gets his new parents, they will receive the same anonymity that has covered Dale's mother and the committee that will give him away.

The Rev. Deguire has told the public only that Dale is 19-months-old, curly-haired, hazel-eyed and healthy. That was enough to create strong public demand for the baby, whose mother decided she is neither physically nor financially able to rear him.

Tot Finds "Radio" Gets Wrong Music

ATTLEBORO, Mass., Dec. 13 (AP) — Investigating two false fire alarms sounded two minutes apart yesterday, police discovered tracks of a toy wagon leading from the box.

They followed the trail to the nearby home of a three and one-half-year-old boy.

Officers Elected By Area Rabbit Raisers

The members of the South Plains Rabbit and Cavy Breeding association attended a regular business meeting Monday night in the office of the county agent, 2142 Nineteenth.

New officers were elected at the meeting. They included Ed Donelson, president; Greg Strader, vice-president; and Mrs. Jake Scharnberg, secretary and treasurer. Directors elected were L. E. Settle, Jake Scharnberg, V. N. Burleson, C. M. Harvin, all of Lubbock; and Sam Davis of Crosbyton.

V. M. Carrouth and J. D. Goodwin were accepted as new members of the organization.

The members discussed the marketing and advertisement of rabbits at the meeting. The next scheduled meeting will be held on Jan. 9.

Egyptian cigarette makers are demanding more protection by higher import duties.

HAPPILY, perhaps, but none the less truthfully, it may be said that the 1949 football season is on its last legs. With the exception of a double handful of "bowl games," the grid year is all over —including the shouting.

But there will be another year, so we make bold to suggest that the football nabobs, like their counterparts in other businesses, enlist the aid of modern science in further streamlining and improving their wares.

Specifically, we suggest use of radio from bench to quarterback (1) to let the coach do all the field generaling, instead of only as much as he can under our more archaic ways; (2) to eliminate the wear and tear on the turf by coaches sending in substitutes to pass advice and counsel to the quarterback; and (2) to put the responsibility for good or bad quarterbacking where it belongs, on the guy who does it, instead of as now, when nobody knows whether a bad play should be charged against a player, or the coach.

MOTORISTS who let their cars wander over the double-stripe on four-lane streets are engaging in one of the most dangerous of pastimes.

If they were only risking their own necks, limbs and automotive property, it wouldn't be so bad. But when they get over the double-stripe, as some frequently do on Lubbock's four-lane thoroughfares, they are risking the lives and the property of others.

In most cities where there are four-lane boulevards, heavy fines are slapped on the careless who wander across the double-stripe. In Los Angeles, for instance, such a lapse costs the careless 50 bucks, or maybe a jail term, or even both.

Lubbock should get tough in this department, too — providing the double-stripes are kept painted as they should be in order to show up.

A few $50 fines, or jail terms, or both, would put a stop to this dangerous and indefensible practice, but quick.

SEVERAL years before the war we were riding around in Baltimore. An uncle, driving us, pointed out several downtown parking lots, then showed us several old buildings of five, six, or eight stories in height.

"Those old buildings," he said, "soon will be torn down to make way for parking lots. Those parking lots I've just shown you were secured that way. Property owners in this older part of the downtown section have learned that they can make more off a parking lot than by renting space in old buildings—and their taxes aren't nearly so high. It's a good thing, too. We need parking space here more than we need old buildings."

The other day, in Pittsburgh, the Mellon interests paid $4,000,000 for a block of ground adjacent to a new $27,000,000 office building to house Mellon Steel. The $4,000,000 property will be improved by construction of a large garage, including five underground floors for parking.

In Manhattan, valuations of some midtown properties have dropped in recent years by $1,500,000—because lack of adjacent parking space has left those properties less desirable for any sort of rentals than they were before.

In Dallas, business men are worried and rightfully so. There have been so many new suburban business areas built up—because of lack of downtown parking—that downtown property values are being adversely affected.

What's happening in Manhattan and Dallas is happening in every city of Metropolitan aspects. It's going to happen in Lubbock if the city's leadership doesn't face up to the problem and begin to do something constructive about it.

LUBBOCK missed a grand opportunity when the new courthouse was started without arrangements for several floors of underground parking beneath it. Nor can the County commission be blamed for letting the opportunity slip by.

The County commission couldn't, by law, put the county into the parking business. It could, however, lease underground parking facilities to a private individual. It let the fact be known—which it was, and publicly. Some business men monkeyed around a little with the idea, then dropped it.

So a great opportunity was missed — just as other opportunities have been missed in Lubbock, because our once very active, farseeing leadership has become either too tired, too disorganized, or too busy with personal affairs to function as it once did.

Since the new courthouse parking opportunity went by the boards, Lubbock necessarily has had to go to parallel parking on many of its midtown blocks. That has cut down the number of parked cars which can be accommodated.

As time rocks along, parallel parking will have to be extended to other areas not now touched by it. That will push parking space farther and farther away from midtown.

Just as sure as you're born, the time will come when we'll have to have a one-way street, or two—which will further complicate parking problems. Thirteenth street is ready for one-way parking right now—especially between Avenue F and L. Part of Main is another prospect for one-way parking. So is Avenue J and parts of Avenue K.

IT'S HIGH time the leadership of this community got busy working on the parking problem.

If the chamber of commerce can't, or won't, take time to get on the parking job, then some group of citizens should organize to do it.

We're just kidding ourselves if we think we can avoid the parking problem; that what has happened to other cities, parking-wise, won't happen to us.

This is one problem that can't be solved by running to Washington or Austin.

BY DREW PEARSON: ROOSEVELT ASKED WALLACE TO ADVISE ON ATOMIC DEVELOPMENT

Albert Einstein Is Saddened By World's Folly

WASHINGTON.—Henry Wallace has come in for some vigorour criticism from this column, but it is only fair to give the real facts regarding Wallace's connection with atomic energy.

Gen. Leslie Groves stated last week that he withheld most atomic secrets from Wallace, then vice president, because he was fearful of leaks. But the ironic fact was that Wallace probably knew as much about atomic development as Groves and in the long run was more responsible than Groves for the birth of the atomic bomb.

PEARSON

Here are some facts, now pretty well forgotten, which may give perspective to the present furore over atomic energy.

First proposal to crack the atom came from Dr. Einstein in a letter delivered to President Roosevelt by Alexander Sachs of Lehman brothers. Einstein reported that he had learned via the underground that the Germans were working on atomic energy and that he believed refugee scientists could develop it ahead of the Germans. He especially had in mind the use of atomic energy for the powering of naval vessels.

Following Einstein's letter, Roosevelt appointed Henry Wallace as chairman of a super-secret government board to ascertain whether the highly speculative goal of atomic energy was worth the expense of trying to develop in wartime. Wallace was picked probably because he hed been in touch with some of the leading physicists—Enrico Fermi, Leo Szilard, Einstein and Dr. Harold Urey—also because he, himself, was a scientist and had been responsible for developing a hybrid corn which increased the nation's crop by 400,000,000 bushels.

U. S. Military Lukewarm

Wallace, after various conferences, reported back to FDR that atomic energy was definitely worth the enormous expense in dollars and manpower. As a result the Manhattan project was born.

At that time U. S. military leaders were not enthusiastic. They faced tremendous shortages of material and did not want anything to detract from the immediate winning of the war. General Marshall, then chief of staff, went along with the idea, but Gen. B. B. Somervell, in charge of supplies, was skeptical.

Perhaps it was because some of the brass hats considered the atom project a starry-eyed dream of a visionary vice president that General Groves was picked to command the Manhattan project. Groves, a genial and efficient engineering officer, was in the doghouse because he had built the Pentagon building, then considered something of a monstrosity, at considerably more expense than was estimated.

UNQUESTIONABLY Groves did withhold secrets from Vice President Wallace. But unquestionably also Wallace knew about as much as anyone else high up in the government regarding the progress of the brain child which he had helped to launch. For he continued his close contacts with General Marshall and Secretary of War Stimson; and Wallace's aides frequently wondered what lay behind his luncheons with Marshall and Stimson about which he refused to talk.

Later Groves and Wallace found themselves on the same side of the fence, when military leaders suggested that the Manhattan project be terminated. This was in the spring of 1945, when some military leaders argued that B-29s could sufficiently devastate Germany and Japan without an atomic bomb.

The Manhattan project, by that time, was secretly scoffed at by some as "Roosevelt's two billion dollar boondoggle," and a war department mission headed by John Madigan, a New York construction expert, was sent to Oak Ridge, Tenn., to decide whether atomic development should be stopped or go forward.

It was General Groves, by then emphatically sold on atomic energy, who threw his weight in favor of continuation. Undersecretary Patterson concurred.

Einstein Saddens

Old man Einstein, the godfather of atomic energy, is having his house painted. It needs more than that. It stands, gray and weather-beaten, on a residential street in Princeton, and one post of the porch is eaten away at the base by ants or termites.

But the things that make Einstein sad are not related to painting and carpentry. One is the condition of his invalid sister. Another is what is happening in international affairs.

His brown eyes are still bright, however, especially when he encounters a fresh idea. And for comfort, he always has his piano, where he improves tunes of his own.

In international affairs, Einstein is troubled by the cold war and its effect of rebuilding Germany. As an intellectual, he does not share the views of political and military experts about the menace of Russia. He thinks that a strong Germany offers a far greater menace and that the western policy of rebuilding Germany as a bastion against Russia is utter folly.

He doesn't express these views for publication. He tries to keep out of public life, and he shuns interviews. He was deeply hurt by attacks in the press and by mail which followed a previous expression of views.

When a visitor called on him recently, he discussed the east-west conflict, with a dolorous shake of his long white hair that reaches down to his shoulders. But he permitted only one sentence to be quoted. Coming from a man who is himself German, it was a powerful sentence.

The present policy toward Germany, said Einstein, "is the same madness the western powers committed after the last war."

WHILE Ku Klux Klan cross burnings and race troubles of the south make headlines, the less spectacular acts of good will below the Mason-Dixon line do not.

The other day at Orange, Texas (population 32,000) both white and colored citizens presented a new Ford station wagon to Willie Ray Smith, crippled negro athletic coach of the local negro high school.

The town honored Coach Smith not only for the fine football teams he has developed, but also for the excellent guidance he is giving to the youth of Orange.

A Penny For Your Thoughts, Ike

BY RUTH MILLETT: TO THE LADIES

The Feminine Viewpoint

A MARRIED couple is flirting with divorce when they start making these mistakes:

She refuses to go with him when a job takes him away from her home town.

They both start trying to prove to each other that they are still attractive to the opposite sex.

MILLETT

Instead of settling differences of opinion as they come along and then forgetting them, they keep right on fighting over the same issues.

She can't resist the impulse to threaten to leave him when they get into a bitter argument.

They let in-laws interfere in their decisions.

NAGGING AT EACH OTHER

They start picking on each other in public.

They give up the small courtesies that ease the strain of day-by-day living.

One of them starts telling their troubles to an outsider, not in an effort to get help, but to get sympathy.

They start going out on parties where there is a lot of hard drinking, and the usual messiness that results when a group of married couples start trying to recapture their youth.

One of them gets a "I've done my best and now I'm going to stop trying" chip on the shoulder.

None of these mistakes inevitably leads to divorce. But all of them flirt with it.

"Try And Stop Me"

Up Newport way, they tell a story of how the late Admiral Sims first attracted the attention of President Theodore Roosevelt. Sims, then a lieutenant j. g., sent a letter direct to the President in which he stated bluntly, "The trouble with our Navy is that it simply does not know how to shoot."

The startled President sent for Sims forthwith. The lieutenant did not retract. Instead, he proposed that a floating target be built, and that the entire Eastern flotilla steam by and fire at it. "Did the President order the target built?" asked the man to whom Admiral Sims was telling the story later. "He did," said the Admiral. "And did the Navy know how to shoot?" persisted the questioner. "Hell," said Sims, "they haven't hit that target yet!"

Writer Admits He Is Scared In Cadillac-Conscious L. A.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 13. — I dunno what it is about cities that hits you hard or soft, or whether the town molds the personalities of its people or the other way round.

RUARK

All I know is that when I am in a place like San Francisco I own it and when I am in L. A. I am scared to death.

I can hop off the plane in Denver or New Orleans and I am home before they dump the baggage into the claim room. Before the wheels touch at the San Francisco airport I am already a voting member of the community —ready to rassle for marbles or chalk. But the city of the turkey-furter and the venetian-violet sunglasses makes me wish for a mother to hold my hot little hand, or at least a seeing eye dog to get me safely across the streets.

You can pick up a phonebook in Casablanca or Honolulu or Havana and enter into combat with the operator with no fear or at least small timidity. I hate to approach the directory in Los Angeles, because I have never really known the difference between Hollywood and Beverly Hills or where the devil Burbank actually is. Also all I ever get is somebody's secretary, with the information that Mr. X's number is not in the public domain.

Writer Feels Sensitive

This is the town where you feel that everybody must have unlisted numbers and that all houses are surrounded by charged wire and fierce mastiffs. I always feel sensitive because I am not a movie character or at least a gossip writer, and I wouldn't dare walk into Romanoff's unless I was flanked by at least two grade-A producers.

All the people I do meet in Los Angeles are as pleasant as people elsewhere, but the strange people stare at you hostilely, as if you intended to cut into their racket.

I am abashed before the drugstores, which seem to be dressed up for a premier, and even the hamburg stands are too gaudy for my digestion. All the burlesque dancers look like Hedy Lamarr and they seem to be sore because they aren't. Everything I run across in public is a production and the only simple folks I meet are actors and directors and writers. They mostly stay home, because I think they are as scared of the place as I am.

WHAT frightens me most is the Cadillacs. There may be other brands of automobile in greater Los Angeles, but I haven't seen them. If you drive a Ford or a Chevvy or a Buick into a parking lot, the attendant doesn't bother to give you an identification ticket. But if you sail in with a Cad, a dogtag is mandatory, to keep the drunks from going off with the wrong car.

The one Hollywoodian I know who owns no Cadillac is a busy young man named Richard Widmark, a slight blond fellow with a pleasant giggle that comes out most sinister on the screen. Mr. Widmark is a mild man, but he was once cast as a hood who giggled while he pushed an old lady down the stairs and since then has slain literally hundreds of innocents for 20th Century-Fox.

Not Good Example

Dick is not a good example of a non-Cadillac owning actor, however, since he is a shy actor who tells his son that he really is a sailor on a ship. He also forbids television in his home. Because he is afraid of the impact of its blood-letting productions on his child. Widmark figures one professional villian is enough for one house.

There is an off-chance I may conquer my fear of the town on this visit, even though I have no Cadillac, because I know two chit-chat columnists, Bing Crosby's producer, three actresses, two actors and one script writer. And of course, Widmark. If things get too rough I aim to buy me a sailor suit and sign on with Dick in his nonexistant ship. It will at least give me professional standing in the community.

Today's Journal Editorial

IT MAY BE WORTH THE MONEY!

The possibility that many Americans might turn their jeers into cheers when the subject of congressional junkets is mentioned has been raised within the past few days.

Three Democratic senators—McClellan of Arkansas, Maybank of Maryland and Robertson of Virginia—returned from a trip to Europe with the expressed conviction that Marshall plan aid to those nations next year should be sliced by at least a billion dollars. Their convictions were strengthened, they emphasized, by their observations.

It remains to be seen whether aid actually will be sliced. The prospects, at best, are doubtful now. But the possibility definitely is brighter than it was because of what the senators saw.

If aid should be cut by a billion dollars—or by any substantial sum—this would prove one jaunt which really was worth the money. Such a saving as the among suggested would hit the jackpot for American taxpayers.

MENTAL HEALTH FIGURES APPALLING

Dispute Flares In Congress' Study Of Low Income Groups

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13 (AP)—A Republican cry that the Truman administrateion is trying to "scare" the people into backing a compulsory health program threatened today to upset a political truce in Congress' study of low income families.

The protest came from Rep. Rich (R-Pa.). He aimed it at testimony by John L. Thurston, assistant federal security administrator.

Thurston testified yesterday that three children in every average American classroom of 30 pupils "are destined to spend part of their lives in a mental hospital."

Scare Tactics Disputed

Rich, in a statement of his own, called Thurston's testimony "one of the most shocking statements to be made in the program to socialize this country." He added: "It smacks of terrorism and is directed at the parents of the millions of school children in the nation."

He charged that the Truman administration, "determined to socialize the United States, has used every trick of propaganda and duress to put over the main plank of its socialistic program—socialized medicine."

Senator Sparkman (D-Ala), chairman of the subcommittee of the House-Senate economic committee before which Thurston appeared as the first witness, took a different position.

He said he didn't think Thurston was using the figures on the mental health of school children "for the purpose of scaring us into a socialized medicine program."

Challenge To Investigate

"I naturally expected Thurston to testify in favor of the program," Sparkman told a reporter. He noted that Thurston is the top aide to federal security administrator Oscar Ewing, who is quarterbacking the administration's health insurance plan.

Sparkman said the testimony challenges the committee to take notice of "a very serious condition that exists in this country."

"It should inspire us to do a little digging to find out what the true facts are," he contended.

Earlier, Sparkman and the other three committee members attending the hearing had denounced with equal severity reports that there were "political" implications in the low income inquiry.

We are trying to get information for the good of the country and not for the purpose of building political ammunition for either party," Sparkman said in reference to the reports. He did not identify them.

Situation Appalling

Senator Flanders (R-VT), who proposed the inquiry, chimed in that he had "perfect confidence" that there was no trace of political purpose as far as the committee was concerned.

Rep. Huber (D-Ohio) said he was shocked by the mention of politics, and Rich himself told the hearing:

"If I thought for a minute that the committee was coming down here to play politics, I wouldn't be here."

The words were scarcely cold before Thurston and Rich tangled over the mental health statement.

"Nobody really knows how many millions of children are mentally or emotionally maladjusted," Thurston said. "But estimates by some authorities are appalling—perhaps three children in every average classroom of 30 pupils are destined to spend part of their lives in a mental hospital. It is estimated that 3,000,000 of the 30,000,000 children now in school suffer from serious emotional and behavior problems."

Evidence Asked

Rich agreed that the figures were "appalling" and asked Thurston to produce evidence. Rich was told by another FSA official that the estimates were the result of the best figures that researchers in this field "have been able to conjure up."

Rich took note on this in his later statement.

"As a government official on the Truman welfare state payroll, Mr. Thurston has a right to testify in favor of the spending and socialistic programs concocted by the White House planners," he said.

"But he has no right to wave the magic wand of conjuration and come up with an assertion which is bound to frighten and alarm the parents of all children attending schools in this country."

Dr. Winfred Overholser, superintendent of St. Elizabeth's hospital, a big government mental institution here, was asked by a reporter to comment on Thurston's statement.

"My impression is that it's substantially accurate," he said, adding that he "wouldn't question at all" the figures pertaining to school children.

Thurston, in the course of his testimony, urged approval of the administration programs for compulsory health insurance, to be financed by a payroll tax; federal aid to education, and broadened social welfare, social security, and vocational training programs to help cure the low income situation.

Secretary of Labor Tobin and Thomas C. Blaisdell, assistant secretary of commerce were called to testify before the subcommittee today.

Texas Guardsman To Get Hunting Rifle

AUSTIN, Dec. 13. (U.P.)—Master Sergeant Arthur Marroquin of Brownsville, was credited today with being Texas' champion recruiter in the National Guard enlistment campaign.

He will receive a hunting rifle donated by Gov. Allan Shivers for enlisting 40 new guardsmen in the state campaign which saw guard strength rise above 17,000 for the first time in its history.

The unit recruiting the most new guardsmen was Company B of the 112th armored cavalry regiment at Harlingen.

Boston Children's Hospital To Allow Visits On Holiday

BOSTON, Dec. 13. (AP)—Mom and pop will wait up for Santa Claus along with sonny in his hospital ward in a new experiment at Boston's great Children's Medical center.

But not all the tots who won't be home for Christmas can share the eve with their families in the world-famed hospital.

The doctors started a radical project for the not too sick medical patients.

No waiting for visiting hours if your child is in this particular 20-bed ward.

Drop in any time, feed him, give him his bath or sing him to sleep.

And you can play with him for hours in the big playroom at the end of the ward. It's crammed with dolls and dollhouses, mechanical gadgets for boys and all sorts of quiet games.

McAllen Man To Head Rio Grande Chamber

McALLEN, Dec. 13. (U.P.)—Members of the Rio Grande valley chamber of commerce have elected Horace Etchison of McAllen as president for 1950.

Chamber directors also elected Jack Frost, Raymondville, H. R. McKay, Brownsville, and J. C. Looney, Edinburg as vice-presidents; J. L. Head, Harlingen, secretary, and Byron W. Ogle, Weslaco, treasurer.

Actress Hurries To Join Ill Husband

BOSTON, Dec. 13. (AP)—Actress Greer Garson, en route from England to the New York bedside of her ailing husband, had to grab a train to complete her journey last night.

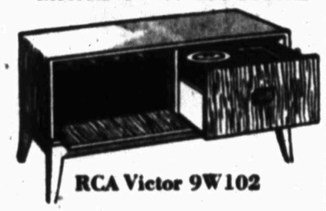

The plane that brought the actress over was one of 15 grounded at Logan international airport during the day by weather conditions.

Miss Garson, who has been in England for six months, said that production on her new picture was halted when she was informed that her husband, Col. E. E. Fogelson, was ill in New York.

Before boarding the train, Miss Garson said she talked with her husband's doctor. He reported Fogelson was "making good progress." He is reported to be suffering from a heart ailment.

IN HOLLYWOOD: BY ERSKINE JOHNSON

Video Success With One Old Vehicle Has Filmland Gaping

HOLLYOOD, Dec. 13 (NEA)—EXCLUSIVELY YOURS: Hollywood wants back a movie that went to television. "Nothing Sacred," the old Carole Lombard-Fredric March picture, is such a big hit on video that Warner Bros. are trying to land the remake rights. If they get them, the new version will co-star Danny Kaye and Virginia Mayo.

Barbara Stanwyck will be Clark Gable's leading lady in his next film, "To Please a Lady."

Dinah Shore won the title of America's Best-Dressed Woman two months ago. Now she's worried that she can't afford it. She told me: "I've bought more clothes in the last two months than I've purchased in five years."

Butch Jenkins may be making a film comeback at the age of 12. Ed Marin and Randy Scott are talking about starring him in their first independent movie, "Ride, Cowboy, Ride"—a western in which the leading character is a youngster.

It's Murray Lerner's neck.

Says the bachelor film producer: "I'd rather date a Hollywood secretary than a glamor girl. The secretaries have more brains and can talk."

Just Pals?

Barbara Dunn, the gal who made the N. Y. night spots with Cornel Wilde recently, is in Reno getting a divorce. Cornel visited her there en route to the coast. . . . Xavier Cugat returns to South America for another tour in February.

It's only a gag, but let's hope it does some good. For a trick opening in "Fancy Pants," Bob Hope looks directly at the audience and says:

"For the remainder of this picture there will be no more popcorn eating in this theater."

Frances Gifford, after playing Bing Crosby's leading lady in "Riding High"—"It's the first time I ever lost my man to a horse."

Producer Frank Ross tells me he still hasn't given up plans to film Lloyd C. Douglas' "The Robe." Ross was ready to go, with a completed script and Gregory Peck, when Howard Hughes took over R-K-O and rang down the curtain on everything not before the cameras. R-K-O still has an option on the picture.

Says Burt: "Just in case I break my neck."

Judy Garland spent the first day in "Summer Stock" in a strapless white bathing suit for a shower scene in which she sings, "If You Feel Like Singin', Sing." She not only washed a man right out of her hair a la Mary Martin, but she darned near washed her hair right off her head. She was in the shower for six hours.

Quieting Down

Larry Parks refused to give up his motorcycle riding while under contract to Columbia. But he'll put the bike in mothballs when he starts shooting on "Stakeout." It's his own production and he doesn't want to take any chances.

Bob Topping and Lana Turner have become such fiends for seculsion that they've asked fan magazines to stop photographing their new home . . . Ginger Rogers and Dennis Morgan are teamed for another film at Warner Bros. Ginger won her Oscar playing opposite Dennis in "Kitty Foyle" and the studio is hopeful that history will repeat.

I found Red Skelton in his dressing room making lengthy notes on the margin of his script. He explained: "When it ain't funny I change it. I drive writers crazy. But I keep track of the changes and when they release the picture I'm always right."

Silliest sight of the week: Ava Gardner dining alone at Chasen's and not a single man in the place paying the slightest attention to her.

Dennis O'Keefe has completed another screenplay — he writes under the name of Jonathan Rix. Title is "Baby Makes a Million." . . . Bob Hope is trying to get to Tokyo by Easter to entertain the troops there . . . Walter Wanger is paging Bob Preston for the lead opposite Joan Bennett in "The Ballad and the Source," to be filmed in Europe.

ELIZABETH TAYLOR DATES 'GREAT LOVER'—The movies' Elizabeth Taylor and 19-year-old Bob Precht, voted the "Great Lover" of the UCLA student body, arrive at a movie theater at Hollywood, in a get-acquainted date. With his selection as the best campus romancer, Bob won the right to escort Elizabeth to the Junior Prom.

FARWELL, Dec. 13 (U.P.)—State police today searched Southwest Texas for Hayden Cayson, prominent Farwell business man who has been missing since Friday.

Cayson was last seen Friday night leaving Guymon, Okla. for Amarillo. He was driving a 1946 Chevrolet and carrying about $700.

Water Shortage Hits Little Alabama Town

BERRY, Ala., Dec. 13 (AP)—Little Berry and giant New York have a common problem—water.

Two wells that furnish Berry's supply have run dry, Mayor Fred J. Johnson said yesterday. The town was left without an adequate supply of drinking water.

All residents were cautioned against waste. Water was being hauled into Berry in tanks from nearby streams.

Johnson also cautioned residents to guard against fires, as the city was without adequate water to fight them.

"Only the winter rains can help us," the mayor said.

Okinawa Is Planned As Major U. S. Base In Far East Area

OKINAWA, Dec. 13. (U.P.)—The U. S. Air Force apparently has won out over the U. S. Navy in the behind-the-scenes argument over what will be America's big base in the Far East.

The Navy wanted Guam. For their own purposes, the Air Force generals liked Okinawa.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, supreme commander for the Allied powers in Japan, leaned to the side of the Air Force. In addition to running Japan for the Allies, Gen. MacArthur also is U. S. Far East commander.

There still are no indications that the Navy will move its operations from Guam to Okinawa, but the Air Force seems to be concentrating now on this island south of Japan, which is about 67 miles long and averages three to 10 miles in width.

Building Progresses

The U. S. 20th Air Force has been moved from Guam to Okinawa and the commanding general of this hard-hitting outfit says the building program here on Okinawa is more extensive than that on Guam.

This is a very recent development. Only in recent weeks has the decision been made in Washington to build permanent structures in place of the temporary, substandard things that have been used since the end of the war.

There are two Air Force bases on Okinawa. One is Kadena and the other is Naha. Both are being modernized and improved.

Maj. Gen. Alvin C. Kincaid, 20th Air Force commanding general, said $24,000,000 has been authorized in the past few weeks for permanent buildings at Kadena.

It is expected that more money for Naha will be coming soon.

Not All He Wants

The $24,000,000 is not all that the general wants and is not all that he says he needs. "But," he declared, "it will make us operational."

Top American experts are arriving from Washington and Tokyo to push the project.

Some of America's newest and fastest jet planes are stationed here, as well as many B-29's.

Might Be New Base

Gen. MacArthur has hinted a time or two that this may be the place where the Americans will go when they move out of Japan after a peace treaty is signed. America's air arm could reach out over Japan with ease from bases here.

But perhaps of more importance than that is the role that the Air Force people see Okinawa playing in U. S. Far East defense set-up. They see Okinawa as a vital link in the defense chain which stretches from Alaska down through Japan and Okinawa to the Philippines.

Beyond a doubt, greater importance is being attached to Okinawa these days because of developments on the mainland of Asia. U. S. airmen frankly don't like the idea of nearby Formosa being in unfriendly hands. At the same time, they seem to feel that it is sure to fall to the Chinese Communists.

Aside from what the U. S. Air Force is doing on Okinawa, the Army is busy, too. The Army already has $58,000,000 allocated for its projects and it hopes to get more soon.

For awhile after the war, it looked as though Okinawa was going to be just another forgotten World War II battlefield. Today the scene is changing rapidly. A glance at the jet planes overhead gives one an idea of how fast it really is changing.

Get outdoor exercise. When indoors, let fresh air and sunshine in.

When cold starts, get to bed and stay there as long as you can.

HOW TO WHIP A COLD—Six ways to lessen the danger that a common cold will lay you low are illustrated above. Doctors agree that no normally active person can completely avoid exposure to cold, but much can be done to minimize the danger and to keep a cold from developing into more serious complications.

Little Theatre Play Gets Good Reception

Proof once again that local talent can draw as enthusiastic response from their audience as professional players was manifested Monday night with the presentation of "The Male Animal" by the Lubbock Little Theatre, Inc.

The presentation is the second of the current season. The play will be presented again at 8 p.m. today in the auditorium of the O. L. Slaton Junior High school.

Cast members evidently were told by their director to "enjoy yourselves on the stage," for they seemed to get as much fun out of playing their respective parts as the audience did watching them.

Real Comedy Presented

And for the most part, cast members kept their scenes up to the level of real comedy rather than mere slapstick.

Drawing laughs from the audience were Mallory Byrd, who plays the part of Cleota, the maid; Guy Wilson as Tommy Turner, the college professor; Betty Rhea Moxley as Patricia Stanley, a typical co-ed whose man problems are more provoking than any college trig course; and Bert McGinnis, jr., who played the part of Joe Ferguson, a former star football player who returns to his alma mater for a homecoming weekend.

Other Roles Given

Other good characterizations were turned in by Richard Kelisky as Ed Keller, a fire-and-brimstone breathing college trustee; Jeane Tinsley as Ellen Turner, wife of the professor, whose methods of holding her man frequently take a circuitous route; and Geralt Wayne Tippit as Michael Barnes, editor of the college magazine who starts all the fuss in the first place.

The part of Patricia Stanley was played by Betty Rhea Moxley instead of by Anne Eskin as had been previously announced.

Mrs. John Robert Moxley was director of the presentation, and Mrs. C. C. Caldwell was assistant director.

Enrollment At Texas Tech Reaches 5,844

Final registration figures for Texas Technological college this fall show 5,844 students enrolled, according to a report from the registrar's office.

Seniors make up the largest percentage of enrollment, with 1,672, followed by freshmen with 1,415. Sophomores number 1,189 and juniors 1,191, while there 377 graduates enrolled.

By divisions, the report shows arts and sciences ahead with 2,230 enrolled, followed by engineering with 1,543. Agriculture is third with 860, business administration fourth with 837, and home economics fifth with 374.

ROBERTSON TRIUMPHS

ROBERTSON, Dec. 13 (Special)—The Robertson All-Stars eked out 56-55 basketball win last night over Lubbock's Hoyt Furniture quint. Glenn Braden led Robertson's scoring with 17 points, while Deacon Johnson was high for the losers.

Just Winding Clock; Redcoats Not Coming

BOSTON, Dec. 13. (U.P.)—Mrs. Alice Mahoney telephoned to a Boston newspaper to ask facteiously if the British were coming.

She explained that she could see a single light burning brightly in the steeple of Old North church. It was there in 1775 that Paul Revere arranged to have his signal lanterns hung—one if by land and two if by sea.

A check on Mrs. Mahoney's query disclosed that the Redcoats were not coming. The light she saw was merely that of the sexton who had gone to the steeple to wind the big church clock.

Pure water has no color, taste, nor odor.

British Troops Work In Strike

LONDON, Dec. 13. (AP)—Wildcat strikers called mass meetings today to protest the Labor government's action in dispatching troops to keep three London electric power stations running during a labor dispute.

Strikers, who walked out against the advice of union leaders, threatened to spread the labor dispute to all of London's government-owned power stations unless the technicians from the armed forces were called out of the struck plants.

Nearly 150 royal navy technicians were sent yesterday to generating station at Dartford, Brimsdown and Taylors Lane after the sudden strike stalled streetcars in north London and blacked out another section.

More Help Planned

Labor Minister George Isaacs said more technicians from the army and air force would join the navy men to keep the plan's functioning.

About 1,000 men went on strike yesterday in a wage dispute. They disagreed with an arbitration council's award of a wage raise of one and a half pennies (about 1.75 cents) an hour. The wage increase, however, was not given to workers already receiving bonus payments.

All electricity generating plants and distributing services have been operated by a government-appointed authority since the industry was nationalized two years ago.

Police Aroused Over Mystery Fan's Notes

OMAHA, Neb. Dec. 13. (U.P.)—Detectives searching a prisoner were startled when they found a notebook with several interesting notations, including one which read "Marquette—killed a cop . . ." The prisoner put their minds at rest when he said he was reading a mystery story. "I had to write down the names of the guys in the book to keep track of them."

REPUBLICANS CALL STRATEGY MEET

GOP Chief May Find Out How Secure Job Is As Chairman

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13 (AP) — Guy G. Gabrielson may find out at a Chicago meeting of the GOP strategy committee today just how secure his future is as Republican national chairman.

The indications should be fairly plain even though only nine of the 23 members would have a vote in any national committee showdown that might arise. If Gabrielson doesn't make peace with his strategy group critics, some Republicans think a new move may arise to change GOP chairmen again.

Elected last August by a 52 to 47 vote of the national committee, Gabrielson has been struggling to bring a divided party together.

Whatever success he has had in that direction seems to have been off-set by the failure of the chairmen's friends to harvest campaign funds.

Cupboard Almost Bare

A finance committee, meeting in New York yesterday, found that with the 1950 congressional campaign just around the corner the GOP cupboard is almost bare.

To this financial problem has been added an argument over Gabrielson's move to obtain a statement of party principles for the campaign.

The strategy committee, headed by Arthur Summerfield, Michigan national committeeman, started work on such a statement before Congress quit in October.

At that time a group, including Summerfield, Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan, Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio and others, sat down and worked on a rough draft of such a statement.

Some Republicans said that without consulting Summerfield or other strategy committee members, Gabrielson sent out 250,000 letters to party workers asking them for suggestions on what a policy statement should contain.

Divided In Allegiance

This action was said to have made no new friends for the national chairman among strategy group members, already divided in their allegiance to him.

Of the nine strategy members who would have a national committee vote if a challenge to Gabrielson's leadership should arise, four voted for him and four against at the August meeting. As New Jersey national committeeman, Gabrielson didn't vote then.

Supporting Gabrielson at that time were Mrs. Howard A. Coffin of the District of Columbia, Roy E. Dunn of Minnesota, Rep. Cecil Harden of Indiana and Mrs. Charles P. Howard of Massachusetts, an ex-officio member of the strategy group.

Those who voted against Gabrielson included G. Mason Owlett of Pennsylvania, Mrs. Daniel J. Schneider of Colorado, Jewett Ross Todd of Kentucky and Summerfield.

Gabrielson succeeded Rep. Hugh D. Scott, jr., whose resignation was forced in a bitter intra-party fight. Some of Scott's friends, including supporters of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, are said to have given the new chairman only lukewarm support since.

If Gabrielson makes his peace with the strategy group, Republicans generally think there won't be any move now to get the chairman's job. If there is a row behind closed doors, some GOP members believe it may grow into a new ouster move.

Banquet Entertains Area Stove Dealers

Approximately 75 gas range salesmen and local appliance store owners attended an appreciation banquet sponsored by the West Texas Gas company and the American Gas association Monday night at the Lubbock Hotel.

The banquet climaxed a two-month sales drive throughout the Lubbock area. It was called an "Old Stove Round Up" party.

Representatives from more than ten neighboring towns saw salesmen winning in the contest awarded prizes by C. I. Wall, vice-president of the gas company.

Those receiving awards included L. Alexander of Lubbock; H. Hargrove of Lubbock; H. Campbell of Lubbock; James Minor of Post; W. P. Layne of Slaton; and W. N. Onstead of Littlefield.

Treatment Would Help Some Offenders

Sex Crimes Against Children Many Besides Rape, Murder

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Rape and murder are the extreme and most violent forms of sex offenses against children.

They've made headlines lately. But sexual offenses against children also take other forms, less violent. There are more of them.

What causes a man to commit any kind of sex offense against a child? I asked a couple of Washington psychiatrists.

They said there are a number of causes. Here are some:

1. Feeble-mindedness. A man of 40 may have the mind of a child.

2. Senility. An old man's brain may have deteriorated so that he's in his second childhood.

3. Disease of the brain. Syphilis, for example. Disease destroyed that part of the brain which previously kept a man from such an offense.

4. Bad early family and social training. It may have left a man socially immature so that he never fitted into grown-up society.

5. Or, for one reason or another, he has become a sadist who can find emotional comfort only in inflicting suffering or death upon a child.

Can such a man be cured by medical or psychiatric treatment? Some can, some can't. Almost nothing can be done for the feeble-minded (No. 1) or the old and senile (No. 2).

If the man with brain syphilis (No. 3) isn't too far gone, the disease can be stopped and in time he may resume a normal life.

Some of those in No. 4 and 5 may be cured by psychiatry, some not.

These doctors think the definitely incurable ones should be put away for life in a hospital or, if they've committed a crime, in jail. Why? Because, if let loose, they're a menace.

Starting Point Unpredictable

And they think the curable ones should be kept in custody for treatment until the doctors feel it's safe to let them loose again.

All sex offenders against children, these doctors think, should be given medical care as soon as first detected to get them out of circulation until they can be cured or, if incurable, permanently isolated.

Does a person progress (or retrogress) from one stage of sexual offense against a child to another until finally he rapes or kills?

Some do, some don't. An exhibitionist, for example, may never go beyond that stage although he needs medical treatment and should be isolated until cured, if that's possible.

Some may start with exhibitionism and go on to rape and murder. Others may start with rape and murder.

Federal Action Urged

Fifteen states and the District of Columbia have recently acted—more or less—to crack down on sexual abnormals. But what they've done or plan to do varies widely: from hospital treatment to stiffer jail sentences.

There seems to be no agreement among the 48 states on how to handle sexual offenders against children. Rep. Chelf, Kentucky Democrat, wants a sexual offense against a child made a federal crime, with psychiatric treatment for those not sentenced to death.

Fearing publicity, some parents don't report to police a sexual offense against their child. This leaves the offender free to approach, attack or maybe kill some other child.

The psychiatrists and J. Edgar Hoover, head of the FBI, think sex offenses against children would be cut down if police were called in on every case. This would help, no doubt.

But at this point in America's social development there are many instances where sex offenders against children are arrested and then released with hardly more than a brief detention, if any.

NAMED BY LEGISLATURE

Elliott Major Scott, of Washburn, Mo., was named by an act of the Missouri state legislature. The legislature of 1913, of which his father was a member, carried a motion that the baby be named in honor of Elliott Major, then governor of the state.
