U.S. Note Protests Soviet Interference

WASHINGTON—AP—The United States today charged Soviet Russia with causing a political crisis by an "unjustified interference in Hungarian internal affairs."

A sharp note, delivered to the Russian, British and Hungarian governments, and to the Soviet military commander in Budapest, said that the Soviet High Command by direct intervention has brought political difficulties in Hungary to a crisis.

An official summary of the note handed Moscow as Secretary of State Marshall traveled toward the Soviet Capital, said this government deems "unwarranted" charges filed against Parliamentary Deputy Bela Kovacs, who was arrested last week by Russian soldiers.

Kovacs until recently was secretary general of the Smallholders Party, the moderate majority group in the Hungarian Parliament, which the Communists and other parties have tried to oust.

The State Department's note added:

"The pattern of recent political developments in Hungary appears to threaten the right of the people to live under a government of their own free choosing, for it involves foreign interference in the domestic affairs of Hungary in support of repeated aggressive attempts by Hungarian minority elements to coerce the popularly-elected majority."

"The United States government is opposed to this attempt to nullify the electoral mandate given by the Hungarian people."

The note said that the grounds given for the arrest of Kovacs "are allegations that he "actively participated in the formation of subversive and anti-Soviet terror groups' and 'in organizing espionage directed against the Soviet Union'."

The Soviet action against Kovacs, the State Department said, was "taken unilaterally without prior discussion with the United States and the United Kingdom representatives on the Allied Control Commission.

Diplomatic authorities said the note was sent to Moscow by Secretary of State Marshall shortly

Round of Strikes Seen Result From Labor Restrictions

WASHINGTON— (AP)—Chairman Paul M. Herzog of the National Labor Relations Board said today proposed changes in the Wagner Collective Bargaining Act could set off a nationawide round of strikes.

The divergent views were prepared for Senate and House Labor Committees, both of which are considering amendments to the basic labor relations act, along with other measures designed to reduce industrial strife.

Herzog, whose job is to help administer the Wagner Act, said the strike wave might materialize if all provisions of pending overhaul bills were adopted, even though "no strike could be lawful" under one of them once an employer had made a simple back-to-work offer.

The NLRB chief put it this way in his statement submitted to the Senate committee:

"At best, several years of uncertainty and court litigation would flow from enactment of many of the proposals that amend . . . the act.

"At worst, American workingmen and their representatives would so resent the destruction of rights they have so recently won that work stoppages would sweep the country."

The Chamber of Commerce stand was outlined for the House committee by Herman W. Steinkraus, chairman of the Business Organization's Labor Relations Committee.

His testimony said "vast areas" of the Wagner Act have been left to interpretation by Herzog's board.

Because of "shifts in the board's policies," he said, "the employer has never known when a long-established administrative ruling would suddenly be changed with new and unforseen results."

House Studies Tax Bill to Finance Teacher Pay Hike

AUSTIN—(AP)—The first tax bill of the session was ready today for consideration by the House of Representatives.

Designed to raise an estimated $36,000,000 dollars annually to help pay teachers a minimum salary of $2,000 and to build and improve lateral roads, the measure was favorably reported last night by the House Appropriations Committee on a 16 to 4 vote.

Other significant committee actions yesterday included:

1. Approval by the House Game and Fisheries Committee of a bill giving the State Game, Fish and Oyster Commission broad powers to regulate seasons, bag limits and methods of taking wild life, except from coastal waters.

2. Favorable passage by the Senate Labor Committee, over the protests of organized labor, of two bills which would outlaw boycotts under the anti-trust laws of this state.

With approximately 75 school teachers on hand to hear discussion of Rep. C. S. McLellan's natural gas tax bill, a majority of the Appropriations Committee members made it clear early in the evening that they were prepared to give quick approval to the measure.

By voice vote they promptly accepted amendments by Reps. Claude Callaway of Crowell and Woodrow Bean of El Paso, respectively, raising the amount of the proposed levy and specially designating that money accruing to the available school fund be used to establish a minimum wage scale of $2,000 annually for public school teachers.

Callaway's amendment hiked the levy from 1 cent to one and eighty-five one-hundredths cents per 1,000 cubic feet of gas gathered—in addition to all other taxes now being levied. This boosted the estimated annual revenue from $20,000,000 to $36,000,000.

Bean's amendment would allocate one-fourth to one-half of the revenue to the available school fund to be used in paying a per capita apportionment up to $55 on a basis of the scholastic school census.

Bean was thus successful in putting before the House the major provision of his own tax bill, which opponents of new taxes had taken out of the hands of the Appropriations Committee yesterday and given to the Judiciary Committee.

New Fuel Crisis Threatens Britain

LONDON—(AP)—A new fuel crisis threatened storm-battered Britain today.

Ice and mountainous snows knotted the nation's transportation system and slashed critically needed coal production. The Daily Herald, organ of the ruling Labor Party, forecast "further checks" on fuel-short industry unless coal stocks get through.

A two day blizzard that died out last night had blocked 120 highways, stopped all movement on forty branchlines of the Great Western Railway Lone, and entirely isolated thirty-three South Wales mines, which went out of production. Attendance at other mines there and in the midlands was cut by 50 percent.

Prime Minister Attlee called a meeting of his emergency "coal cabinet" today.

Truman Referred To as Man With Common Touch

WACO—(AP)—Following is the text of an address by President Pat M. Neff of Baylor University in conferring an honorary degree on President Harry S. Truman:

Harry S. Truman, product of Missouri sun and soil and schools—born amid humble enviroments—rocked in the cradle of adversity—no silver spoon was yours—you grew to manhood's high noon in the quiet Democratic way of life—the Southern way. Engrained into your youthful blood and bones were the rich and romantic traditions of the Old South as evidenced by your 94-year-old mother who declared a few weeks ago that when she visited the White House she would sleep on the floor before she would occupy the bed in which Abraham Lincoln slept.

Mr. President, Baylor University, chartered by the Republic of Texas, the largest institution under Baptist control in the world, welcomes you today to her campus. As you honor us by your coming we in turn wish to honor you by conferring on you the institution's highest academic recognition, the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws.

The degree is given always in recognition of worth-while achievements. You embody, sir, the cardinal virtues of splendid accomplishments—honesty, industry, and economy. Your unbroken climb from your little Missouri farm to the White House should, down through the unyielding years, be a help, a hope and an inspiration to every struggling lad born where falls the shadow of the American flag.

You have clearly demonstrated that in this land of the free there is no post of honor so high but what the poorest, barefooted boy born beneath Texas skies may aspire to reach it. Though you occupy the most exalted and responsible place

Red Attack Makes Pessimistic Crew Of U.N. Delegates

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y. — (AP) — Pessimistic Security Council delegates, groping for a solution to global control of atomic energy, pondered today a Russian assertion that Soviet frontiers never would be thrown open to unlimited international inspection nor Soviet factories allowed to operate under United Nations control.

Andrei A Gromyko, Soviet deputy foreign minister, made these points clear in a major policy speech, devoted principally to an outspoken attack on the American control plan.

Gromyko said the United States proposals, already accepted by all members of the 12-Nation Atomic Energy Commission except Russia and Poland, were contrary to the basic economic and national interests of other nations and "directed against the independence of other states."

The Russian delegate insisted that he was infavor of strict and effective international control, but not on the broad terms laid down by the United States. While repeatedly assailing the American provisions in a 78-minute speech, Gromyko did not state how far his country was willing to go toward "strict" control.

The United States wants an atomic development authority with full powers of inspection and control of atomic matters everywhere.

Delegates generally reserved immediate comment pending a study of the text, but it was apparent that many envisioned major difficulty in clearing up the inspection-control problem in the face of the Russian stand.

Coming almost on the eve of the Moscow conference, the speech was viewed as specially significant.

Gromyko declared that "granting an international control organ the right to posses establishments for the production of atomic energy and unlimited power to carry out other important functions connected with the ownership and management of the establishments would lead to interference in internal affairs." He said that granting such powers was "incompatible with the State sovereignty" and "must be rejected as unfounded."

UNIQUE PROCEDURE

PORTLAND, Ore.—(AP)—Municipal Judge J. J. Quillin suspended a speeding fine when he learned Lee Walker, charged with traveling 39 miles an hour in a 25 mile zone, was a former Californian.

"You are the first Californian in this court in the past two months who was going less than 50 miles per hour," said Judge Quillin. "I would almost say you were deserving of a medal."

NEW EQUIPMENT

Chief of Police Louie Allen and Patrolman O. E. Payne returned late yesterday from Oklahoma where they purchased additional radio equipment for the department.

WACO—AP—A cold, blowing rain greeted President Truman in Waco as he stepped from his plane at 9:57 a.m. (CST) today.

It was in sharp contrast to the warm sunshine of Mexico City, where he had spent the last three days in a history-making visit.

The Sacred Cow was well ahead of schedule, but 150 officials had been notified of the change and were on hand to greet the President as he touched American soil for the first time since Monday morning. (He had crossed the border back into the United States near Brownsville at 7:45 a.m., flying through clouds at about 5,000 feet, the air port there reported.)

Waco Caught With Its Buntings Down

By MARTHA COLE
AP Staff Writer

The sudden change in plans, caused by the inclement weather, caught Waco with its buntings down.

All arrangements had been made to have the award ceremony and speech at the open air Union Bowl. When temperatures dropped below freezing and a bitter 20 mile wind whipped sleet and rain through the city, the event was moved indoors to the school's auditorium.

Pennants, buntings and other decorations had to be erected hastily. Workers were still hard at it when the President's plane landed at the airport, nine miles away.

"Oh, what a mess," one usher said.

Doors were opened at 9 a. m., but will be closed when the President arrives.

The steps up which the President walked to the stage were quickly erected—but remained unpainted. They were of pine.

Eighty Second Division soldiers guarded the beck door.

President Truman chose an important day in Texas history to visit the Lone Star State, records show.

Today is the 11th anniversary of the fall of the Alamo in San Antonio. It was on March 6, 1836, that General Santa Anna and his Mexican army overwhelmed the small Texas garrison that had been besieged in the Alamo eleven days.

The historic building is now a State shrine.

Orange, Texas, feels it had an important part in Waco's celebration.

Western Union called genial, calm, 39-year-old J. D. "Red" Hightower of Orange to Waco to handle part of the heavy load of telegraphic work there.

Hightower is frequently called on to handle big running stories where fast, accurate transmission is important. He is a favorite of many Texas sports writers.

The intermittent rain, whipped by a 20-mile wind, forced Baylor University officials early today to alter their plans for the degree awarding ceremony.

President Truman, after alighting from his four motor plane, went direct to the Presidential car, which had been brought here from Washington last week.

The runway at Municipal Airport was slick. Ice had formed on windshields earlier in the morning. Sleet whipped the uniforms of the 500 soldiers and policemen lining the highway into town, and guarding the streets.

Attorney General Tom Clark, Senator Tom Connally and Pat Neff, president of Baylor, were at the field waiting.

The three entered the plane, and remained about three minutes. Then the President appeared at the door of the plane. A ramp was moved up, and the big black Cadillac, the Presidential car brought from Washington, drove up to the ramp.

The group stood at the ramp as photographers, herded under the wing of the plane by secret service men, snapped pictures of the historic event.

Gov. Beauford Jester of Texas walked up and shook hands with Mr. Truman.

The President, Connally, Clark, Neff and Jester got into the official car, and escorted by secret service men and highway patrolmen, began their nine mile drive to Baylor.

The Presidential car, accompanied by a parade of several other large machines and escorted by a motorcycle brigade of officers, drove on rain-slick, narrow highways to downtown Waco.

A crowd already was gathered at Waco Hall, on the Baylor campus, where the President was due. By 10:30 a. m., the hall was four-fifths full. All who entered the hall had to have either invitations or passes.

House Republicans Are Taking Chance to 'Right a Great Wrong'

WASHINGTON— (AP)—House Republicans get their chance today to set up a monument to the last GOP President—Herbert Hoover—and at the same time "right a great wrong."

After 14 years, they were ready to designate mammoth Boulder Dam on the Colorado River Hoover Dam once more.

Senate approval and President Truman's signature still will be required.

Okayed only Tuesday by the House Public Lands Committee, the name-changing resolution won a quick place on the Chamber's calendar for a vote today.

To many Republican members the action brought an opportunity they have been waiting for since 1933.

That was the year Harold L. Ickes, President Roosevelt's Secretary of the Interior, discarded the Hoover label and announced that thereafter the dam would be given its "original and proper" name, Boulder Dam.

Witnesses before the public lands group noted that Congress never had got around to naming the dam formally. Since its conception, the title has depended upon the wishes of the current Secretary of the Interior.

During congressional debates on the Boulder Canyon project in the 1920's, the dam generally was referred to as Boulder or Boulder Canyon Dam.

As Secretary of Commerce during that period, Herbert Hoover had been instrumental in putting through the Colorado River compact which cleared the way for the Dam's construction.

President Calls For Reduction Of Trade Barriers

WACO—(AP)— President Truman, calling for a reduction of world barriers, delcared today the United States "can lead the nations to economic peace or we can plunge them into economic war."

FREE WORLD TRADE

The President, en route home from a three-day good-will visit to Mexico, stopped here to receive an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws from Baylor University. In an acceptance speech devoted entirely to the need for freer world trade, he:

1—Reaffirmed his faith in the Reciprocal Trade Act which has been under attack by some Republicans in Congress.

2—Struck out at those who would return to high tariffs and "economic isolation."

FOREIGN POLICY

3—Welcomed continuation of bipartisan support for a foreign policy which calls for cooperation in the economic as well as the political field.

4—Asserted that the alternative to "regimentation" of international commerce is the world trade charter to be considered by 18 nations at Geneva next month. The proposed international trade organization, he said, would apply to commercial relationships "the same principle of fair dealing that the United Nations is applying to political affairs."

(Mr. Truman made no reference in his remarks to Greece's appeal, with support from Britain, for American economic aid. Last Tuesday, Secretary of State Marshall termed the threatened collapse of the Greek economy a matter of "primary importance" to the United States. He said details of action proposed would be announced by the President.)

"The negotiations at Geneva must not fail," he declare d.

He termed the United States today "the giant of the economic world," and added:

"Whether we like it or not, the future pattern of economic relations depends upon us. The world is waiting and watching to see what we shall do. The choice is ours. We can lead the nations to economic peace or we can plunge them into economic war.

"There must be no question as to our course. We must not go through the 'thirties again."

He said reduction of trade barriers is a "settled policy" on this government, one of the "cornerstones of our plans for peace," and "a policy from which we cannot—and must not—turn aside."

"To those among us—and there are still a few—who would seek to undermine this policy for partisan advantage and go back to the period of high tariffs and economic isolation," he continued, "I can say only this:

"Take care! Times have changed. Our position in the world has changed. The temper of the people has changed. The slogan of 1930 or of 1896 are sadly out of date. Isolationism, after two world wars, is a confession of mental and moral bankruptcy."

As for bi-partisan cooperation, he said:

"Happily, our foreign economic policy does not now rest upon a base of narrow partisanship. Leaders in both parties have expressed their faith in its essential purposes. Here, as elsewhere in our foreign

New Commission Studies Budget

Meeting for the third consecutive day, Pampa's newly elected Commission made a further study of the city's current problem.

This morning the Home Rule setup, as provided by the State Legislature in 1912, was explained to them by the City Manager. During this time City Manager Garland Franks explained the method of Home Rule and what provisions it gave the various cities affected by it.

A study of the garbage system was made yesterday afternoon when the City Manager disclosed that the department was running into the red side of the ledger at present and would be for a year or so.

Most of the afternoon session was taken up in an explanation of the city budget and a breakdown was shown to the Commisison, including the money set aside for salaries, equipment, supplies, maintenance, and other general operating costs of the city.

To date, the Commission meetings have been devoted only to orientation of the city's workings and no decisions, ordinances or changes have been recommended or made.

This afternoon the Commission has been invited to attend the regular weekly meeting of the Police Department a 4 p. m.

Decision Announced In Surprise Move

WASHINGTON—AP—The Supreme Court today upheld, 7 to 2, the contempt convictions of John L. Lewis and his United Mine Workers.

The high tribunal at the same time upheld the $10,000 fine imposed on Lewis but ordered the $3,500,000 fine assessed against the United Mine Workers reduced to $700,000.

Th penalties grew out of Lewis' refusal to obey a court order to send his miners back to work during last November's soft coal strike.

The Supreme Court's long-waited decision was announced as the court met for a regular argument session.

Ordinarily, the highest tribunal announces decisions only on Mondays. Today's action caught all parties by surprise.

Chief Justice Vinson delivered the opinion of the majority.

Justices Murphy and Rutledge wrote dissenting opinions.

Justice Frankfurter wrote a concurring opinion. Justices Black and Douglas each wrote an opinion in which they concurred in part and dissented in part.

The court majority ruled thatneither the Norris-LaGuardia Act nor the War Labor Disputes Act barred the government from obtaining the injunction which resulted in the contempt proceedings.

It was this injunction that Lewis and the miners union were accused of flouting.

After the case had been appealed directly to the Supreme Court, Lewis suddenly ordered his miners back to work, on Dec. 7. He said he wanted the Supreme Court freed of any public hysteria in weighing the issues.

Chief Justice Vinson in his opinion said that the trial court properly found the defendants in the Lewis case guilty of both criminal and civil contempt.

The majority specified that in cutting down the union's fine to $700,000 it was doing so on this condition:

The union must pay an additional fine of $2,800,000 unless it shows within five days after the Supreme Court issues its mandate that it has fully complied with the lower court's order.

"The defendant union," Chief Justice Vinson said, "can effect full compliance only by withdrawing unconditionally the notice given by it signed by John L. Lewis, to J. A. Krug, secretary of the interior, terminating the Krug-Lewis agreement as of midnight, Nov. 20, and by notifying at the same time, its members of such withdrawal."

Secretary Marshall Stops in Paris On Way to Foreign Ministers Meet

PARIS—(AP) — Secretary of State Marshall, en route by plane to the Foreign Ministers Conference in Moscow, landed at Orly airport at 12:40 p. m. (5:40 a. m. CST today).

He flew from Washington by way of Bermuda and the Azores.

United States Ambassador Jefferson Caffery greeted the secretary and took him to luncheon at the ambassador's residence.

Secretary Marshall was to be the dinner guest of President Vincent Auriol tonight, and planned to confer with Premier Paul Ramadier before he continues to Berlin tomorrow for another stopover and a conference with United States occupation authorities on Germany.

Caffery boarded the plane and emerged with Marshall, who wore civilian clothing, a gray hat and dark overcoat. A small crowd was at the airport.

Jacques Kosciusko, chief of the presidential office staff, and Gen. Paul Grossin Auriol, a military aide, represented the French government.

"I am happy to be here," Marshall said, speaking on a French broadcasting network. "We have had a very fast trip and it is nice to be back in France again."

Ramadier halted a news conference to announce Marshall's arrival. He said the secretary would place a wreath at the tomb of France's unknown soldier tomorrow.

"This is not only a tribute to France's war dead, but a glorification of our common victory," Ramadier said, adding that France was "very happy and flattered" to have Marshall as a visitor. He paid this tribute:

"He was not only the leader of American armies, but one of the chief artisans of our liberation. This is a debt of gratitude for which we are eager to pay as much as possible. We only regret that his stay will be so short."

WASHINGTON— (AP) —Margaret Truman will make her radio debut Sunday, March 9, singing on a program from Detroit, 7 to 8 p. m. (CST).

The President's daughter will appear on the Sunday evening hour of the American Broadcasting Company network.

The announcement was made at a news conference held by Miss Reathal Odum, secretary to Mrs. Truman, who read a prepared announcement saying that:

Miss Truman does not want to base her career upon the fact that she is the daughter of the President—"She wishes to be accepted as a singer on her own merit, and in the same manner in which any other aspiring American singer would approach her career."

Miss Truman and her teacher planned her singing career "long before Mr. Truman became President of the United States," and they have worked long hours together perfecting Margaret's voice.

"The American public will now have an opportunity to hear Margaret and, for her part, she would like her air audience to judge her solely on the basis of her voice and musicianship," the announcement said.

Margaret has been studying for seven years with Margaret J. Armstrong, now the wife of Maj. Thomas Johnson Strickler, prominent business executive. Mrs. Strickler is a well known American opera and concert singer. She and her husband are old friends of the Truman family.

Troxell-Collingsworth Wedding Last Friday; Will Live in Borger

SHAMROCK—(Special)— In an impressive candlelight service, Miss Billie Jean Troxell became the bride of Ralph B. Collinsworth at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Troxell, Friday evening with Rev. Edw. C. Derr, pastor of the First Baptist Church, officiating.

An improvised altar was arranged in front of the fireplace for the exchange of vows. An attractive arrangement of Easter lillies and plumosa fern was reflected in the mirror above the mantel. Floor candelabra flanked the nuptial space and tall white floor baskets filled with Easter lillies and fern completed the setting.

Miss Frances King had charge of the recorded music. Preceding the ceremony, "Always" by Berlin, was played and the traditional wedding marches were used.

Miss Wilma Rae Haws of Childress, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a powder blue dress of wool crepe and carried a Colonial bouquet of pink carnations. Her accessories were brown.

Eugene Collinsworth, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attired in a dressmaker suit of grey gabardine accented with a pink blouse and black accessories. She carried a white Bible, which was a gift from the bridegroom, topped with two orchids. For something old and borrowed, she wore a lavaliere belonging to her aunt, Mrs. P. E. Montgomery of Pharr, who had worn it at her own wedding.

Mrs. Troxell, mother of the bride, wore black crepe and a corsage of red roses.

A reception was held following the ceremony. The three-tiered wedding cake was cut by the couple and served by Mrs. Marvin Davis. The refreshment table was laid with a lace cloth and centered with a bowl of cut flowers, flanked with lighted tapers in crystal holders.

Following the reception the couple left for a trip after which they will make their home in Borger.

For traveling, the bride wore a light brown wool jersey suit, fashioned with bell sleeves and a full back, with matching accessories. Her corsage was of orchids.

Mrs. Collinsworth is a graduate of the Shamrock High School and has been employed for sometime in Hudgins Jewelry Store.

The bridegroom, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Collinsworth, is a graduate of Shamrock High School and attended Baylor University. He is associated with Gus Erwin Drilling Contractors at Borger.

● WE, THE WOMEN

Women's Clubs Should Court Male Favor

By RUTH MILLETT
NEA Staff Writer

In New York at least something new is beng added to women's clubs —MEN.

The idea that women's clubs ought to attract men is the brainchild of Mrs. Mary O'Reilly Bollmann president of the N. Y. League of Business and Professional Women.

Ruth Millett

As a starter the New York Board of Trade was asked to have lunch with the League members. And other men's organizations will receive similar invitations.

Says the canny League president: "Because men love to talk, they'll be asked to make speeches at all these affairs.'

If the business and professional women feed the men well, let them do the talking, and flatter them with rapt attention — they are bound to win the men over to their side.

Women's clubs probably would not have such a low rating with American men if the women had taken the trouble to get the men on their side in the first place.

But they were so exclusively feminine that the men naturally reacted with ridicule.

A STEP FORWARD

It may look like a step backward to see modern business and professional women borrowing Grandpa's technique for persuading a man to accept her up-and-coming ideas—feed him well, flatter him, and then ask his advice.

But if it works it will be a step forward.

Women's organizations will never be as powerful as they mght be until men stop holding them in ridicule.

Make This Home Recipe To Take Off Ugly Fat

It's simple. It's amazing, how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Barcentrate (formerly called Barcel Concentrate). Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it.

If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow the easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Bill to Give Game, Fish Commission New Authority Goes to House Floor

By DAVE CHEAVENS

AUSTIN— (AP) —A revolutionary proposal to give the State, Fish and Oyster Commission inland regulatory powers now vested in the Legislature survived a searching committee examination and moved to the floor of the House today.

It would empower the commission to set up regulations for open and closed seasons for hunting and fresh water fishing over the State. It would give the agency authority to determine bag limits and methods and means of taking all wildlife, except salt water fish.

The bill by Rep. Claud Gilber of Rock Springs, was recommended for passage after he agreed to 13 amendments, most of them washing from it any hint of control over salt water fishing, either sport or commercial.

If finally enacted, it would erase from the statute books approximately 600 local game, fish and trapping laws which have long confused sportsmen over the State, but leave in force all laws bearing on salt water fishing.

The committee also voted its approval of measures providing a universal hunting license and a universal fishing license. It recommended passage of another measure raising the license fee for out-of-State hunters from $5.25 annually to $50.

Dozens of witnesses representing conflicting interests testified, wrangled and finally wound up apparently satisfied with what the committee had done to climax its six-hour session last night.

Inland hunting and fishing clubs sent a stream of advocates saying Texas needed to give the commission the broad powers if it hoped to continue to be a good place to fish and hunt. They said other States with poorer hunting potentials had tried the plan, and were now outstripping Texas. They begged the committee to let the commission, with its corps of experts in game and fish management, try the plans for two years. Then, they said, if it does not work, let the Legislature take its powers back.

Opponents said they thought it was not wise for the Legislature to divert itself of fish and game regulating powers. Those from tidewater regions said they would prefer to get along with the present statutes (which are enforced by the commission), and leave the making of future regulations—especially on commercial fishing—in the hands of their representatives in the Legislature.

AUSTIN—(AP)—The annual basketball carnival of the Texas Interscholastic League with 24 teams battling for State championships in three divisions opened today with Thomas Jefferson of San Antonio, Levelland and Johnson City occupying the unenviable positions of favorites.

Johnson City was in the first group marching into tournament play—the Class B teams.

Avinger of deep East Texas and Burkett of the mid-West were the initial teams to clash followed by unbeaten Marfa and Sugarland. Gruver and Pettus rounded out the morning's play. These two are the most active teams of the 24 coming to the big meet, the former having played 33 games and Pettus 34.

This afternoon Johnson City takes the court against Prairie Valley of Nocona. That game will end with the Class B first round and furnish semi-finalists for tomorrow morning.

The Class A teams get their baptism this afternoon and tonight with Bowie meeting Beeville at 3:15 o'clock, Plano tackling McCamey at 4:30, Alvin clashing with Levelland at 7:15 and Lockhart and East Mountain (Gilmer), another favorite, ending the night's play, their game starting at 8.30.

The Blue Ribbon boys—the Class AA teams—do not start swapping field goals and free throws until tomorrow afternoon. Before Crozier Tech of Dallas, the defending State champion, plays gifted El Paso in the first game of this division at 3:15 p. m. Finalists in both Class B and Class A will have been determined.

Critics are figuring on a finals Class AA battle Saturday night between Crozier Tech and Jefferson but are wary of El Paso with its 19-1 record. These two teams—Tech and El Paso—are considered tops of the upper bracket—the other game being between Bryan and Greenville. In the lower bracket Sam Houston (Houston) plays Amarillo in the first game of tomorrow night's schedule with Waco, which beat Crozier Tech a game in early season, meeting Jefferson in the final.

Some 300 boys are here for the big tournament—the twenty-seventh—and Gregory Gym at the University of Texas is expected to show its greatest turn-out for the three days and nights of battling.

Teams for Two Top Tourneys Line up

NEW YORK— (AP) —Selection of teams for two of the major post-season college basketball tournaments stood at the halfway point today as the fields for the N. C. A. A. and National Invitation playoffs in Madison Square Garden began to shape up.

The National Collegiate brackets now contain four teams, with Holy Cross and Navy lined up for the Eastern eliminations and Wyoming and Texas for the Western. Naming of two more teams in the East and two in the West will complete the picture.

Sports writers from Austin, San Antonio and Houston are scheduled to cover the meet and extensive wire service filing is planned.

Williams Arrives, Bosox Officially Open Training

By JACK HAND

SARASOTA, Fla.—(AP)—Ted Williams pulled his new car to a screaming stop and stepped out into the bright sunshine. The Boston Red Sox officially had opened spring training.

Lean and tan after two months fishing in the everglades, Slim Teddy held court in a sidewalk interview. Twisting and turning his head and craning his neck like a schoolboy, the slugger answered the queries of newsmen who had been awaiting his arrival.

In keeping with a quaint Williams custom, Teddy arrived late yesterday afternoon, hours after the regular workout and three days after the rest of the team reported. He mumbled something about being caught in the heavy traffic and visiting a reptile farm but nobody paid much attention. The team had arrived.

"Are you going to try hitting to left field this year?" a reporter asked.

"I'm not going to change my style," the splendid splinter replied as he eased into a pair of knee length woolen socks. "It all depends on what they do to me. If they pile too many men into right field, I'll have to do something.

"I think the club agrees with me that I am most valuable hitting that home run when I can. If it means the ball game for me to hit for the homer, that's what I'm going to try to do. I think I owe it to the club.

McNeely Will Go After 700-Point Mark in Tourney

By TED HEIER

NEW YORK—(AP)—Clift McNeely, of Texas Wesleyan, has surpassed Bob Kurland's 643 points that won the Oklahoma Aggies last year's National Collegiate individual high scoring basketball crown. McNeely now boasts 679 points and goes after the 700-point mark in the NAIB tourney that opens on Monday in Kansas City.

Jim Lacy, of Baltimore Loyola, who several weeks ago was only 29 points behind the Southwest star, now is far in the rear with 578 points and apparently had little chance of catching up, although he will participate in the Mason-Dixon tourney opening tonight at Washington, D. C.

Darrel Brown, of Humboldt (Calif) State, currently holds third place at 569 points, but since Humboldt's season is over, Brown may yield to McNeely's teammate, E. F. Parham, now fourth at 533. These are the only four players reported with 500 or more points.

The top seven scorers in the nation as reported to the Associated Press:

Reorganized Board to Discuss Homer Norton's Fate in Meeting Tomorrow

COLLEGE STATION— (AP) —The Texas A. and M. College Board of Directors meets tomorrow with the question of whether head Football Coach Homer Norton is to be retained high on the agenda.

Norton, under fire from the ex-students, has announced he either wants a vote of confidence or to be paid for the three and one-half years remaining on his contract and dismissed.

The board will be holding its reorganization meeting with two new members—Tyree L. Bell of Dallas and C. C. Krueger of San Antonio—attending. Bell and Krueger were appointed by Gov. Beauford Jester and confirmed by the State Senate Tuesday.

A president, vice-president and secretary will be elected, then the newly-elected president will appoint various standing committees. The meeting is scheduled to start at 1 p. m. and the coaching situation is not likely to be reached until mid-afternoon.

Other matters on the agenda include discussion of a proposed photographic and visual aids laboratory at the college and authorization for the president of the college to sign leases, contracts and other proposals during the time between board meetings. Pending are lease on an auxiliary aviation field near North Texas Agricultural College and contracts with the Veterans Administration and the Federal Housing Authority.

"CASSIE!"

She turned to look at him, and the shabby hotel lobby seemed to whirl about in a huge mist, and the breath almost stopped in her throat. It couldn't be Parker! It couldn't! And yet it was. Parker, tall and brown and handsome, his brown eyes lit with something she couldn't fathom, a look of happiness underlaid somehow with questioning, and doubt and pain.

"I've had a devil of a time finding you, Cassie!"

She couldn't move. But he came to her and took her arm. Her heart began to pound and her knees were weak.

They looked at each other for a long searching moment, with the hotel clerk eyeing them curiously.

"He said he was your husband, Miss Fletcher, but I didn't know. That's why I didn't let him have your key!" the clerk said.

Cassie laughed shakily. "Well, he isn't really—that is, he—"

"I'll take the key now, if you please," Parker said. The clerk handed it to him. "I was going to get your luggage and put it in the car, so we could get started the moment you came."

"But Parker, I—"

"Come on," he said gruffly. "I'll help you get your things now."

They stepped into the elevator, and almost automatically Cassie pushed the button for third. She couldn't seem to think somehow, but she didn't care much.

"What did you run away for?" Parker said, his voice still queerly gruff. "Fine way to do on Christmas Eve. Mama was sniffling when I got there, and Sid and Papa were so glum and forlorn it was pitiful."

"We got your wire, and I—I knew it would be awkward."

"Nothing awkward about it." If only he wouldn't look at her [illegible] questioning way.

"I don't know what could be more awkward!"

"I'd have come sooner if it hadn't been for the broadcast, Wednesday night. Mike talked to me Wednesday. We had quite a —nice chat."

"Mike?"

THE elevator stopped and they stepped out into the dingy hall. Cassie's knees felt as though they might buckle under her any moment. Parker took the key out of her hand and unlocked the door and she went in ahead of him.

"Yes, Mike," he said.

Her heart was pounding in great heavy thuds.

"He said you weren't going to marry him after all."

"No," she admitted.

"Why not?"

Her throat was full of cotton. "Because I found out I didn't—I didn't love him, after all."

Parker opened the closet and got out her suitcase and flopped it on the bed. He said, with his back to her. "He told me about the baby, too, Cassie."

"About—the baby?"

"Yes."

"So you—came back to—sort of make an honest woman of me. Is that it? You felt you had to come back?" The words trembled with contempt.

"He said you needed me, Cassie. He said you—wanted me. And that's all I needed to know." He whirled to face her now, his face oddly white and almost stern.

"Oh, he did? Mike's a great little fixer, isn't he?" Cassie cried. She clasped her hands together tightly. She wouldn't start crying. Not now. Oh dear, not now! "Well, I don't need you. See? I don't need anybody, now or ever. You don't have to feel sorry for me."

"Cassie, you stubborn little fool, a baby has to have a father, and as long as you're not going to marry Mike—and as long as I love you so—you could do that much for me! You could come back and let me take care of you."

"No, Parker. It's kind of you to want to do the right thing, and all that—"

"The right thing nothing, Cassie! I said I love you! I've always loved you, and there won't ever be anyone else."

"Parker!" she whispered. The room tilted crazily.

"You don't have to—love me, if you don't want to. All I'm asking is for you to come back to me."

She found herself suddenly in his arms, with her face against the rough tweed of his shoulder. Her arms felt the way his shoulders moved as he drew her tight against him. And she felt the hard pounding of his heart.

"What a fool I've been, Cassie!" he said huskily.

"I LOVE you," Cassie whispered, "more than I ever thought I could love anyone. Only it took me an awful long time to find it out. It took a lot of tears and remembering and thinking. But I know it now, and it's something I'll never forget as long as I live, no matter what happens."

After a while Parker said, "We'd better get moving. This is a horrid room, Cassie—and they're waiting for us back at the farm. It's Christmas Eve. Remember?"

They laughed together.

"We'll have to get married all over again," Cassie said. "This isn't even respectable, Parker Hamilton, you and I in a hotel room like this—and not even married."

"I promised Mama I'd bring you home. And I've spent this whole day going from one hotel to another, and believe me this town is full of hotels. Papa drove downtown in the truck to buy a bottle of wine, so we could celebrate. He even promised Sid a little nip, if I really brought you back with me."

"Parker—everything's going to be so wonderful!"

"Wonderful doesn't begin to describe the way it's going to be," he replied. He picked up her suitcase. "Come along now, Cassie Fletcher," he said, "we've wasted too much time, already. We've a long road to travel together, you and I!"

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Truman Text

relations I shall welcome a continuation of bi-partisan support.

"Our people are united. They have come to a realization of their responsibilities. They are ready to assume their role of leadership. They are determined upon an international order in which peace and freedom shall endure."

Mr. Truman said the pattern of international trade most conducive to freedom of enterprise is one in which the major decisions are made not by governments but by "private buyers and sellers, under conditions of active competition, and with proper safeguards against the establishment of monopolies and cartels."

He described the opposite pattern as one where governments make the decisions, with public officials dictating the quantity of purchases and sales, sources of imports and destination of exports.

"This was the pattern of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries," the President said. "Unless we act, and act decisively, it will be the pattern of the next century."

Everywhere on earth, he went on, nations are under "economic pressure," with a tendency toward rigid control of imports.

"If this trend is not reversed," he said "the government of the United States will be under pressure, sooner or later, to use these same devices in the fight for markets and for raw materials. And if the government were to yield to this pressure, it would shortly find itself in the business of allocating foreign goods among importers and foreign markets among exporters and telling every trader what he could sell, and how much, and when, and where.

"This is precisely what we have been trying to get away from, as rapidly as possible, every since the war. It is not the American way. It is not the way to peace."

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

A Definition of Our Town

Somebody defined our town just the other day as "A place where the people talk about you behind your back, and come to wait on you when you're sick."

I've got to admit there's something to it. A lot of our folks are inclined to be pretty outspoken and quick to criticize . . . even about little things, like a woman's hat, or a man's preference for a glass of beer, or the color of Cy Hartman's new barn.

But when anyone's in trouble, those differences and points of criticism are forgotten . . . and folks become neighborly and helpful, like they really are.

From where I sit, criticism never did much harm to anybody, so long as folks don't let it guide their actions . . . so long as they respect our individual preferences, whether they apply to hats or beer. That's the way it is in our town, anyway, and I hope that it's the same in yours.

Baylor

Secret service men were everywhere.

The stage, obviously hastily decorated, was draped with flags. Many men in caps and gowns were standing about. Some walked up to the stage, waiting for the Presidential entry.

President Truman arrived in the hall. The men in caps and gowns, inside near the stage, formed two long lines, ready to march onto the stage.

Several thousand people were mobbed outside, unable to get in. Secret service men and other officers swarmed everywhere.

Two men held their children on their shoulders to enable them to look through the doorway and get a glimpse of the President, smiling and shaking hands.

The capped and gowned men, faculty members of Baylor, walked onto the stage and took their places.

In the balcony, the Baylor Band began to play to entertain the tense, expectant crowd.

Photographers and newspaper correspondents came in and were seated in the orchestra pit, just in front of the stage.

All doors to the hall were closed except one, guarded by highway patrolmen. It took one newspaperman five minutes to get through the crowd outdoors, even though he was assisted by a patrolman.

Pat Neff came on to the rostrum. The benediction was delivered by Dr. Forest C. Feezor, of the Baptist Church here. The band played "Hail to the Chief."

"This is a great day for Texas, Waco, and Baylor," Neff said. "The eyes of the nation are upon us."

He told the audience that the President would not speak until 12 o'clock, when the speech was to be broadcast.

"I find the President has a sense of humor," Neff continued. "He is easy to talk to. That's the reason we have gotten along, even in this bad weather.

"We have a little time on our hands, so I'd like to introduce someone to you. When he went to Baylor, he was known as Talking Tom. He was known as Talking Tom because he was always ready to talk. I present to you one of my closest friends—our Senator, Tom Connally."

Connally took the stage and began a brief address.

President Truman, accompanied by Neff, walked onto the stage at 11:45 a. m. The band broke into a loud rendition of "Hail to the Chief" and the crowd stood up and applauded.

The President smiled slightly.

All doors were closed now, but persons still tried to enter. Highway patrolmen stood guard, and occasionally opened a door a crack to tell those outside to please quit knocking, that the auditorium was packed to capacity, and no one else could possibly get in.

One patrolman, after wearily opening his door time and time again, said plaintively to a reporter, "I guess they think my name is Richard."

Eighty-nine-year old Dr. J. T. Harrington, chairman of the Baylor Board of Trustees, stood up and, with Mr. Truman nearby, introduced the President as a candidate for a degree.

The crowd outside was growing, state highway patrolmen said.

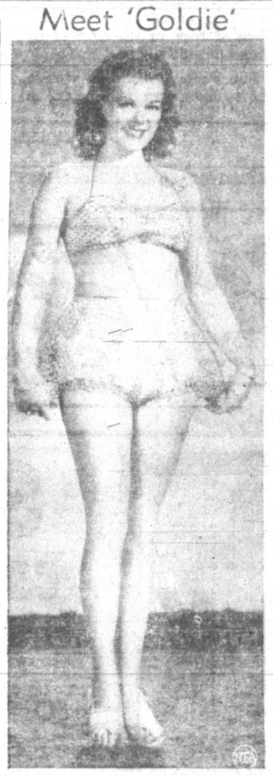

Following Dr. Harrington's address, Pat Neff, president of Baylor, spoke briefly.

"As you honor us by your coming, we in turn wish to honor you by conferring on you the institution's highest academic recognition, the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws," he said in part.

The robes, purple and gold and black, were placed on the President. The crowd burst into applause.

The President then began his major address, a speech that was broadcast nationally over the nation by radio networks.

Meet 'Goldie'

Something new in bathing suits is "Goldie," worn by Janis Paige in her forthcoming film, Wallflower. "Goldie" is made of gold metallic lace, so filmy that when dropped on the floor, it lands with about 1/1000th of the noise of a pin falling on a six-inch-thick rug.

Decision

"We well realize," Vinson went on, "the serious proportions of the fines here imposed on the defendant union.

"But a majority feels that the course taken by the union carried with it such a serious threat to orderly constitutional government and to the economic and social welfare of the nation, that a fine of substantial size is required in order to emphasize the gravity of the offense of which the union was found guilty.

"The defendant Lewis, it is true, was the aggressive leader in the studied and deliberate non-compliance with the order of the District Court; but as the record shows, he stated in open court prior to imposition of the fines that 'the representatives of the United Mine Workers determined that the so-called Krug-Lewis agreement was breached,' and that it was the union's representatives who 'notified the Secretary of the Interior that the contract was terminated as of November 2.' And certainly it was the members of the defendant union who executed the nationwide strike. Loyalty in responding to the orders of their leaders may, in some minds, minimize the gravity of the miners' conduct; but we cannot ignore the effect of their action upon the rights of other citizens, or the effect of their action upon our system of government."

The Chief Justice asserted that "the gains, social and economic, which the miners and other citizens have realized in the past are ultimately due to the fact that they enjoy the rights of free men under our system of government."

"Upon the maintenance of that system," Vinson added, "depends all future progress to which they may justly aspire. In our complex society there is a great variety of limited loyalties, but the overriding loyalty of all is to our country and to the institutions under which a particular interest may be pursued."

Tips Offered Couples Filing Joint Income Tax Returns

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON—(AP) — Here are points to remember about husband-wife filing of 1946 income tax returns by March 15.

A husband gets a $500 exemption for himself and he can claim another $500 exemption for his wife if she had no income.

If she had $500 or more income, she must file, either separately or jointly with her husband.

In such a case, if she files separately, she claims her $500 exemption and the husband claims only his $500 exemption.

If they file jointly, they claim a total exemption of $1,000.

If the wife has less than $500 income, she doesn't have to file a return but, no matter how small that income was, if she doesn't file—

Her husband can't claim the usual $500 exemption for her and, of course, since she isn't filing, she can't claim her own $500 exemption.

Keep these two things in mind:

1. Treasury experts say that where a wife has income less than $500—and she and her husband are going to file a return—they'll save money by making a joint return.

2. Where husband and wife can file jointly on Form W-2, the withholding statement, they should do so. It will save them time and effort, and for this reason:

The collector, by law, goes over their return and must figure out which is cheaper for them, a single or joint return. He gives them the benefit of the cheaper way.

If you're not in those two groups above, try both ways—single and joint returns—before deciding which you'll give the collector as your 1946 return.

The reason for trying it both ways is this: There's no simple answer to the question "Do husbands and wives save money by filing single or joint returns?"

A joint return may save for one couple by giving them full benefit of exemptions. It may cost another couple money by boosting them into a higher tax bracket.

If the combined income of a couple was under $5,000, they can file jointly on Form W-2 or the 1040 short-form or the long-form, depending upon their reason for making a choice.

If their combined income was $5,000 or more, but individually less, they can file separately on Form W-2 or the 1040 short-form, or jointly on the long-form.

When they file separately on form W-2 or the 1040 short-form, each is allowed a deduction of about 10 percent for personal expenses. It's already figured into the tax-table used with those two forms.

When they file jointly on Form W-2 or the short-form, they are allowed one deduction of about 10 percent but it is 10 percent of their combined income.

When they file separately on the 1040 long-form, with the income of each $5,000 or more, each is allowed a standard deduction of $500 for personal expenses.

If they file jointly on the long-form, they are allowed only one standard deduction of $500 from their combined income, not a $500 deduction for each of them.

But if one uses the long-form and itemizes deductions, the other must use it and itemize, too.

Last year and wives had to think of two kinds of exemptions when they filed a return: A normal tax exemption and a surtax exemption.

That's because, in figuring the tax, you had to work out, step-by-step, the normal tax and the surtax. There's been a change.

This year, in the actual figuring the normal tax and the surtax have been combined.

So now you think only of one $500 exemption for the wife and one for the husband: whether you can claim only one or both and deduct them from your income before it is taxed with the combined tax.

That's why, to make it easy on you, no distinction was made in this story between normal and surtax exemptions for husbands and wives.

BURGLARS MISS NOTHING

CHICAGO—(AP)—The thieves who broke into Peter Skizas' west side restaurant, he told police, were completely thorough in their job of stealing.

They took $50 from the cash register, cigars and cigarettes, a typewriter, a radio, silverware, cutlery, and raided the kitchen taking 20 pounds of butter.

Their final act was breaking open the telephone coin box and taking all the coins.

AUTO MIXUP

CHAMPAIGN, Ill.—(AP)— Martin Kamerer drove home from a parking lot in his new car and when Mrs. Kamerer arrived in an almost identical car from the same parking lot a few minutes later, Kamerer notified police.

Eliot had reported a few minutes earlier that the new car Champaign-Urbana friends gave him after Illionis' Rose Bowl victory over UCLA was missing from the parking lot.

Mrs. Kamerer returned Eliot's car, similar to her husband's and apologized for her mistake.

CARNIVAL BY DICK TURNER

"Frankly, I think the reverend has been spending too much time with the church's boys' boxing club!"

DISPOSAL OF BOTTLES POSES MAJOR PROBLEM

AUSTIN—Glass bottles. All kinds. Can't get rid of them. Can't break them. Kids'll get into them and get cut. Can't bury them. They won't decay and somebody'd dig them up. Maybe Dr. M. A. Nobles at the University of Texas can solve the dilemma. He's an assistant professor in the Department of Ceramics Engineering and ought to know something about glass.

These were the thoughts running through the mind of Si Casady, editor of the Valley Evening Monitor at McAllen, when he wrote to Dr. Nobles a few weeks ago.

Said Casady: "I've been wondering whether it would be possible to build a small home crucible in which glass bottles could be melted down into smooth lumps of glass. If nothing useful could be done with the glass, at least it would be transformed into a less dangerous state."

Replied Dr. Nobles: "We ran some expriments on re-melting used bottles. To melt two bottles at one time would require a large pot furnace, using a gas compressed air mixture as fuel. If the glass chunks are not put into an annealing oven immediately after melting and pouring, they will break up into a number of small pieces due to stresses set up in the chunks.

"But here's a suggestion. Glass can be ground to a fine powder in a ball mill. The powder could be sprinkled on the lawn and it would not cut barefooted children if they step on it. You could grind approximately three bottles in 12 hours to a fine powder in a pebble mill put out by a Pittsburgh scientific company for $57. You may have a friend who could make the mill for you and all you would need to buy would be just a one-gallon porcelain jar and maybe an electric motor."

Casady, however, felt that his editing of the Valley Evening Monitor mght suffer if he used this solution and replied: "The suggestion for powdering glass sounds like the ideal solution, but I am a little appalled by the thought of the time required per bottle."

Net result: Casady is more interested in a second suggestion made by Dr. Nobles, which is that he ship his bottles, if he has as much as 500 pounds, to the university for use in ceramics.

Note: Dr. Nobles doesn't want more than 500 pounds of old glass bottles. Casady's 500 pounds will be sufficient, thank you.

Man Killed in Dallas Theatre

DALLAS—(AP)—W. R. Camp, 34, was shot twice in the head and fatally wounded last night in a neighborhood theater as he watched a picture with his divorced wife. He died a few minutes after arriving at Parkland Hospital.

Two men in the audience seized Sam Williams Lyons, 53, also a divorced husband of the woman, and disarmed him of a revolver in the rear of the theater.

In a signed statement to police Mrs. Margie Lyons, 38, said she had married Lyons in 1934 and divorced him in 1942. She married Camp in October, 1946, and divorced him three months later.

She said two weeks ago she swore out a peace bond against Lyons and added:

"I was afraid something like this would happen."

Downtown Waco Firm Destroyed in Blaze

WACO—(AP)—A spectacular fire of undetermined origin destroyed the DeWitt Clark Lumber Company's plant in downtown Waco last night. Damage was estimated by the owner at $60,000.

Sparks, blown by a strong north wind, endangered buildings in two neighboring blocks, but firemen confined damage to the lumber plant. Three firemen narrowly escaped injury when a wall collapsed.

State highway patrolmen here to help control expected crowds for the visit of President Truman, helped City Police direct the crowds that covered sidewalks for blocks.

Gracie Reports

By GRACIE ALLEN

I see that the British goverment has bought the copyright for "Basic English" which is a system containing only 800 words. It's said that this will be used for official work, but that I can hardly believe.

Gracie

In the first place Britain's diplomatic system would be completely wrecked. No first-class diplomat could say "Yes" or "No" in only 850 words. To limit the members of the House of Commons to a vocabulary of that size would be practically gagging them and how could Winston Churchill pay his respects to a political foe without throwing an unbridged dictionary at him?

Of course, if governments were really practical they wouldn't need even 850 words. All their important business with citizens could be transacted with the one word "Gimme," supplemented in wartime by "We want you."

SENSITIVE SERPENT

DETROIT—(AP)—The ordeal of being in the public eye was too much for Nakomis, a sensitive serpent owned by an Indian woman.

Mrs. Matilda Milton, who was charged by police with disturbing the peace when she tried to take six-foot Nakomis shopping recently, said today that her pet king snake went into a decline after upsetting court appearances and died.

"Strangers staring at her, camera bulbs flashing in her face, made her a different snake in one day's time," Mrs. Milton said.

Nakomis will be buried in "the good soil of her birth, Toledo," her owner concluded.

England had 688 fatalities in a total of 113,200 factory accidents in a single year.

New Outbreaks of Disease Reported

MEXICO CITY—(AP)—Two new outbreaks of foot and mouth disease in Central Mexico have been reported by Secretary for Agriculture Nazario S. Ortiz Garza.

The secretary said that despite federal quarantine restrictions and some slaughter of sick animals, the disease had appeared at Calera, Guanajuato State, and at Mission, Hidalgo State.

He said brigades of veterinarians had been sent to both locations "to take whatever measures are necessary."

Texas Citrus Growers Optimistic in 1947

McALLEN—(AP) — The current quotation of $50 a ton for oranges struck an optimistic note for Texas citrus growers today.

They confidently predicted that at the present rate the supply of Valencia oranges from Texas would be over by the end of May.

Shipment of Valley oranges since February 1 have amounted to approximately 850,000 boxes, figures compiled by the U. S. Market News show. This is about 40 percent of the 2,150,000-box Valencia crop.

After 40 years of work, during which she won world-wide recognition for pioneering new methods for treating infantile paralysis, Sister Elizabeth Kenny will retire. Lack of funds to carry on her work and the need for a rest moved the famous Australian nurse to the decision.

Of every 100 victims of fatal road accidents in England, 49 are pedestrians, three are drivers of motor vehicles, and the remainder are bicyclists or motorcyclists.

Speaker's Family Really Lives With His Work at State Capitol

AUSTIN — (AP) — The housing shortage, if nothing else, made Mrs. W. O. Reed very happy when her husband was elected Speaker of the Texas House.

The Speaker and his family are furnished quarters by the state. It is a high-ceilinged five-room apartment directly behind the House chamber on the second floor of the Capitol.

"I'm just thrilled with it," said the slender, brown-eyed wife of the representative from Dallas. "If we hadn't been given this apartment, we'd be living in a hotel. And I hate hotel life."

The Reeds don't claim to live a normal family life in their Capitol-building home. They are almost obliged to eat, sleep and breathe legislation.

In their living room is a loudspeaker attached to the microphones on the House floor. The loudspeaker ,which is left on at all times, keeps Mrs. Reed in constant touch with the proceedings.

"Whenever something is about to happen, I start bustling around and do my work so I can go and watch," she said.

Mrs. Reed has contended with another problem most housewives are spared. It involves about 80 typewriters.

Just outside the speaker's apartment is a long corridor occupied by legislative stenographers—and the clatter of typewriters can be heard in the apartment from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

"The noise doesn't bother me, though. Neither do the porters who a.m.," Mrs. Reed said. am.," Mrs. Reed said.

"The only thing that did bother me was the high ceilings," she continued. "When we first moved in, I couldn't sleep with the ceilings so far up."

Rep. and Mrs. Reed have two daughters, Alicia Ann, 9, and Judith Kay, 4.

Alicia Ann attends school about five blocks from the Capitol and Judith Kay has a nurse, who keeps her outside at least three hours a day. They walk in parks or visit the greenhouse in the Capitol grounds, but Mrs. Reed says "it's harder on Judith than it is on the rest of us."

"She misses her backyard and her swing in Dallas," Mrs. Reed added.

"I miss my Dallas," Judith chimed in.

With just the nurse for Judy and a cook, the Reeds entertain frequently but not formally.

Mrs. Reed has not found that the speaker's wife has any more social obligations than wives of other representatives.

"We attend the same functions we attended when Otey was just a plain representative, except now we are usually in the receiving line," she said.

The apartment consists of three large rooms—a living room and two bedroom—and two smaller rooms —the dining room and the kitchen. Mrs. Reed explained that the children's bedroom was the speaker's office last session, and that the living room and other bedroom were formerly committee rooms.

"It's not elaborately furnished, but it's very comfortable," she said.

GRATITUDE

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—(AP)—Don Robertson, Chicago salesman, told police on his arrival at headquarters with an overtime parking ticket that he was prepared to pay up to $15 fine and take the usual tongue-lashing "I get up north" in Chicago.

away his billfold. Because he had responded so promptly they told him he would have to pay only five cents — the amount he had forgotten to put in the parking meter.

Robertson was so surprised he paid the nickel and donated $10 to the Policemen's Pension fund.

Police politely told him to put

Texas Today

By JACK RUTLEDGE
AP Staff Writer

Newspaper editors put stories of murders and budget cuts and the United Nations on page one for you, but the thing they get excited about personally is Le Affaire Teletypesetter.

Now, they're not holding out on you. This is no juicy scandal the owner is trying to cover up. A teletypesetter is merely a cold, soulless bit of machinery the layman wouldn't be interested in anyway, but which is causing an upheaval in the printing trade.

It is, briefly, a machine that bypasses the specialist known as the linotype operator.

One of the first big newspapers in Texas to install them is the Beaumont Enterprise and Journal plant.

The Beaumont experiment resulted in a serious strike. Papers all over the country have watched progress there. How is it working out?

"It's wonderful," says W. W. Ward, editor of the Beaumont Journal.

Ward took us over the plant, explained operations. It goes like this:

Reporters type their copy as usual. The copy goes to a sound-proofed room on the composing room floor, where five girls sit in front of machines that look like bulky typewriters with a little gadget or two added. These girls take the copy and begin typing it off at a dizzy pace. As they type, an inch-wide bit of perforated tape churns out the side. Each letter they type cuts a hole in the tape.

This tape is picked up by a copy boy. The original copy is attached, and a guideline on the tape to identify the story further.

It is then taken to the composing room. The tape is put into a slot attached to the linotype machine. As it feeds through the big machine sets type in metal. One man handles four linotype machines, keeping them fed with tape and making minor adjustments when they jam, etc.

After several inches of type is set, they take it, pull a proof, send it to the proofreader, who corrects it for errors. This corrected proof is then given to a linotype operator for changes. But even this operation is new. The machine has what is called a type-o-writer keyboard. Instead of the intricate, complicated old keyboard, it has a simple typewriter keyboard which almost anyone can operate after a little practice.

Ward said the advantages of teletypesetters are numerous: stenographers can do the work that formerly was done by professional printers. The human element is eliminated, and linotypes click steadily for hours on end, never stopping for operators to get drinks or smoke cigarets. The wear-and-tear is less, too, because although there is no lull, the pace is steadier, easier. Some professional operators have touches like feather and are easier on their machines than the teletypesetter, but on the other hand there are men who are rough on the linotypes. Every shop has one.

"We're more than satisfied," Ward said. "Production has increased and costs are down."

NO INVESTIGATION, JUST PRODDING NEEDED

A story on Page 1 in The News yesterday points up a question which had been handed about from person to person for some time in this community. It has to do with complaints from veterans about the slow service they have received from the Veterans Administration's regional offices here in Texas.

When the GI training and schooling programs were first announced, most people agreed that they were conceived well, that they would serve a great purpose. So, we agreed, they would, if they worked.

The story yesterday from Washington said an investigation might be launched, but perhaps that is not what is needed. Our legislators may be just a little over-investigation-minded. All that is needed in this instance, we think, is some prodding, and orientation course for field and office workers as to the forms they are requiring veterans and employers to fill out.

Proof that they did not all use the same practice in administering the filling out of the forms has been evident somewhat in the past. Cases of confusion have come up aplenty in the Panhandle, and Pampa has experienced its part of them. At least once during the past year, employers have been required to re-do forms for the trainees, who thought all along they were certified and that they would get their subsistence checks "any time now." But when those forms came back, trainees knew it would be another six months before any money could possibly come through.

At least one young man in this town was going to school at Waco, under the GI bill. He went to school until his money gave out, and then he quit. He quit because the government subsistence he had depended on did not come. That was a year ago, and he still hasn't got his money. And up until a few months ago, he was still filling out forms.

No, we don't think an investigation is necessary, because, in the first place, the term usually implies bad faith on somebody's part. We don't think there is anything of that sort indicated. It is merely a matter of expediting the work at hand, even if that requires expanding the offices and field personnel. Yet, expansion might be difficult in view of the fact that the government is seeking to cut expenses.

But a bogged down program is no better than none at all. Perhaps it will take a little more time, but in the meantime men who would like to go to college never will. They won't go because many of them have gone to little jobs in which they will manage to get by. It is very hard to go back to college, once one has been discouraged.

MACKENZIE'S Column

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Secretary of State Marshall—now en route to Moscow—has expressed doubt that the foreign ministers of France, Britain, Russia and America can write a German treaty at their forthcoming conference in the Soviet capital, because the Big Four still are in disagreement on fundamentals.

That's a disquieting (though not surprising) preview, because the rehabilitation of chaotic Europe hangs on the early conclusion of a constructive German treaty. We can go further and say that peace itself is largely dependent on how quickly and how well the Big Four deal with the now broken nation which but a brief time ago was the dominant power of Continental Europe—economically and militarily.

Of course we should recognize that, as General Marshall says, the negotiations will be extremely difficult." While the world is tensely anxious for the conclusion of a German pact, it doesn't wish to see a treaty which is the product of impetuosity. We want one which will put Germany on her feet economically while rendering her impotent to wage war—which will establish a Democratic government that will preclude the rise of Nazism and Prussianism again.

However, there is a point at which tactics of delay become deliberate obstruction. Anxiety over the Moscow conference revolves about this truth. Therefore we are justified in believing that the conference will produce a tabling of the cards to see who wants what—to see if there is anyone who doesn't want a quick settlement of Europe's crisis and a return of peace and plenty.

One of the toughest problems the Moscow parley will face is what form of government Germany shall have. The United States, Britain and France favors a Federation of German States, with a government of limited power. Russia, on the other hand, wants a strong central government.

Perhaps it is too much to expect that the Moscow conference will be able to iron out all the differences so that a treaty can be signed at the conclusion of this session. It may easily be that another conference will have to be held to complete the work. That needn't cause anxiety, however, so long as the tabling of the cards shows a real desire to get ahead with the job of putting Europe on its feet.

★ THOUGHTS

For the Son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost.—Luke 19:10.

God dropped a spark down into everyone,
And if we find and fan it to a blaze,
It'll spring up and glow, like
—like the sun,
And light the wandering out of stony ways.

Rural-Urban Day Observed by Club

Dave Savage, head of the U.S. Experimental Range Station, Woodward, Okla., yesterday addressed members of Rotary and their guests during the annual Rural-Urban Day meeting in the Palm Room, City Hall.

Savage told his listeners that the native range grasses of the Panhandle area of Texas are the best in the world for their food value. During his talk, Savage compared the food values or the different grasses with each other and explained at what times of the year the grasses were the strongest.

Each Rotarian had as his guest a farmer or rancher from the immediate vicinity. Among the guests present were members of the newly elected city commission and City Manager Garland Franks.

Leon and his guitar provided the entertainment portion of the meeting. Club singing was in charge of Virgil Mott. Irvin Cole, president of Rotary, presided at the meeting. The speaker was introduced by Quentin Williams.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

news behind the news

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

RECESSION — If the United States should slump into a recession in the next few months hard-headed manufacturers believe that the responsibility will fall on propagandists at Washington and Administration indifferences to the desperate need of additional rolling stock. These seemingly poles-apart issues are interwoven closely.

Whereas private economists and industrialists discern factors for continued postwar progress, lasting perhaps five wears or more, New Deal hangover officials insist that there will be a 1947 decline of a slight or severe nature. Since Treasury Secretary John W. Snyder recently upbraided these wailers, they now speak of it as a "readjustment," but their meaning is the same.

They attribute the dark prospect to: (1) President Truman's abandonment of their program for Federal regimentation of the nation's economy; (2) the Republican's Capitol Hill policies on finance, tariffs and taxes; (3) uncertainties in the field of foreign relations, especially in our dealings with Russia.

TALK—These forebodings may do exactly what the President's Economic Advisory Committee forecast when it warned that even a strong, healthy nation can be talked or propagandized into paralysis of production and consumption.

A feeling of doubt is creeping through the ranks of the nation's producers and consumers, as foretold by Advisory Economic Chairman Edwin G. Nourse.

Hearing constant talk of an imminent "recession," possibly a depression," they are running for a bomb cellar. They remember 1929's toll of unemployment, unsold goods and general collapse, and do not want to be hurt again in the same way.

"COLLAPSE" — Both consumers and producers are buying from hand to mouth, awaiting a fall in prices. They are satisfying only immediate wants. The buying splurge which accompanied the trickle of consumers' goods last fall and during the holiday season is slowing down.

Wholesalers are showing the same timidity. Not wanting to "buy high and sell low," they are keeping inventories at a low level. The basic producers — industry — naturally adjust their orders for raw materials, their production sheets, expansion program and employment plans to this recessional tempo.

On every side, the effect of this inspired and propagandized blow to national prosperity is evident. It may be significant that Moscow, on the radio and in its press announcements, has set up a similar cheering section in favor of a "capitalistic collapse" in the United States.

STAGNATION — With such a build-up at home and abroad, the great American "recession" or what-have-you of 1947 may need only a slight domestic shove to start rolling. And numerous officials at Washington, perhaps unconsciously, appear to be applying the pressure by their stubborn failure to meet the defands of industry for more rolling stock—especially box cars.

Although this problem has attracted little general attention, it has become a distinct threat to recovery. It has slowed production, thrown men out of work, kept goods from markets, forced up prices all along the line. It will become increasingly serious as new crops start to market in the next few months.

Senator Clyde Reed of Kansas, together with delegations of shippers, railroad executives and car builders from all sections of the country, begged, pleaded and stormed with Federal officials last Wednesday. They drew a picture of a nation which, despite abundant natural resources, record food crops, an industrial plant at peak capacity and a vast market of hungry, well-paid consumers, faces economic stagnation for want of sufficient locomotives, freight cars and other equipment.

FEWER—The railroad spokesmen mobilized by the Kansas Senator submitted some almost unbelievable figures to the officials handling this question.

Box cars are fearing out every day and replacements do not amount to half those scrapped. The capacity for construction of new units is 9,000 a month, but only about 2,000 are being built. Despite far heavier demands, there are 20,000 fewer freight cars on the rails now than there were a year ago.

Coal, wheat, lumber, newsprint, finished articles, etc., have piled up for lack of shipment to such an extent that there are not sufficient warehouses to hold them. Perishable stuff is rotting throughout the nation.

REASON—Severe weather, strikes and shipment of newly constructed box cars to Canada and foreign countries are partially responsible for the blockade of American transportation. But the larger reason is that the ecnomic controllers at Washington will not release enough steel, lumber and other materials for all-out production of new facilities.

Government officials acquainted with the gravity of the situation have tried to obtain a larger allocation for the building of box cars. But so far they have not been able to impress their colleagues. The latter prefer to promote construction of factories, apartment houses, homes and public works because they provide more employment and make a better showing on the political books.

But if the Cassandras prove to be correct in the forecasts of a 1947 setback, it will be due partially to Washington's failure to solve this seemingly simple problem.

Common Ground

By R. C. HOILES

Kirby Page Lives Cowardly Rather Than Courageously

In the last issue I said that Kirby Page violated the Eighth, Ninth and Tenth Commandments, "Thou shalt not steal, bear false witness or covet." Now I want to give evidence as to how he violates these Commandments in his book "Living Courageously".

In his book which he calls "Living Courageously" he deliberately advocates the government taking over the means of production and giving the owners of production bonds. Then he advocates a very steep progressive tax on incomes, inheritance and gifts to get the money to pay for these bonds and says that so doing is not unethical. Rev. Kirby Page cannot harmonize a statement like that with the Commandment, "Thou shalt not steal" or with any eternal universal principle. He cannot harmonize it because it is discriminatory, it violates the law that all men are equal before natural law as they are before God. It gives those people who have the power the right to take from other people the fruits of their labor. It is saying the majority by way of the state has a right to use coercion and force by way of taxation and to do a thing that the individual never had a right to do. If a thing is stealing for an individual it is stealing when the state does it.

In addition to violating the Commandments "Thou shalt not steal and covet," he is trying to serve two gods, the god of force and the god of love and men cannot serve two masters. Kirby Page has discarded the god of love and is recommending the god of force by way of the state.

He cannot define stealing that would not make progressive taxation stealing unless he contends the state makes the Commandments. But they do not, even if Rev. Page thinks they do.

The Status Quo Fallacy

In this book, Kirby Page is always talking about those people who wantt o preserve the status quo. Anybody who objects to Kirby Page's belief that capitalism should be overthrown wants to keep the status quo, according to Rev. Page. I know of nobody who wants to keep the status quo. He has no moral right, no honest right to say that those who oppose socialism want to keep the status quo. They oppose increasing power of the government because they know that our progress comes from respecting human initiative. Yet Rev. Page has the audacity to contend that "people who opose his method of turning the country over to a government like Germany and Italy and Russia are for keeping the status quo. The people who object to his advocacy of more socialism are the people who want the competitive system under the Sixth, Eighth, Ninth and Tenth Commandments, "Thou shalt not kill, steal, bear false witness or covet." That is what the competitive system really means that if men cannot serve as well as anyone else, they are perfectly willing to have someone else serve better. It does not mean special privilege and vested interests as he is constantly proclaiming. It does not mean that the man who is successful in producing wealth, like Edison, Ford, Chrysler and Rockefeller is exploiting or harming anyone by his success. It means that the gain of one in producing wealth is the gain of all. No man gets rich under the true competitive system by impoverishing others like they do in war or in gambling. He gets rich by enriching others; by giving other people more than anyone else will give them and yet the Rev. Page implies that these people are the vested interest people; that they are not sensitive Christian people. He says "Only the craven can tolerate the wreckage and cruelty of a competitive economic system when he comprehends its real nature". But, Rev. Page, we have never completely had the competitive system. The wreckage is due to too much government interference, too much coercion and not enough freedom and voluntary agreements.

In Hollywood

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD—Al Jolson is still a sweater boy. (Confidentally, Jane Russell looks much better in 'em!)

The nation's new singing sensational (in Larry Parks' body) was wearing his favorite attire, a white turtle-neck sweater and gray slacks, at a rehearsal for his second appearance, March 5, on the Bing Crosby show. Al has the best tan in California, but he whispered:

"I got it in Florida. In California, all I got is a beautiful coat of smog. But don't tell the Chamber of Commerce."

Despite eight offers for fall radio shows, Al refused to accept any of them. He'll do occasional guest shots instead.

"So I get my own show," he said, "and what happens? Right away they'll have me making with the jokes. I hate jokes. I just like to sing. I can sing on other people's programs without trying to be funny."

Al had just drien to the coast from Miami in two days.

"That's pretty good for an old man," he told Bing.

But later he told me:

"You had my age wrong in that piece you wrote. I'll be 59 on my next birthday."

Bing got off his best crack when Jolson kidded that he had seen "The Jolson Story" 200 times, qualifying him as "Mr. Callous of 1947."

"I," yawned Bing, "once saw one of my pictures so many times I finally got to know my lines."

ROMEO TOO SUGGESTIVE

Movie moguls; are in secret huddles putting more teeth into the censorship code. "The Outlaw" and "Duel in the Sun," the boys figure (after being hit over the head by the Legion of Decency), have given screen morals a bad name. But the final script of "Forever Amber" just got a clean bill of health from the Hollywood film censorship office.

There was only one cut, certain lines of a play which Amber sees at a theater. The lines, the censors said, were too suggestive. They were written by William Shakespeare for his play, "Romeo and Juliet."

Bob Hope and his long-time comedy stooge, Jerry Colonna, are partning company at the end of the radio season. . . . Jean Arthur is a daily visitor to a Hollywood gym. She's losing 30 pounds for her return to the screen at Paramount.

Sign on a Holywood hamburger stand: "Forever Hamburgers."

Sign on a locksmith's shop window: "If Richard won't open your door, I will."

BENNY TO DO VAUDEVILLE

Leo McCarey has a new movie plot in the works. Its titled "Good Sam" and is about a nice old guy who goes through life doing nice things for people and getting only tough breaks himself. . . . It's still a good bet that Jennifer Jones will do "Cass Timberlane" opposite Spencer Tracy for producer Arthur Hornblow. . . . Boris Morros is paging Richard Tauber for "Babes in Arms." . . . Teresa Wright just sunk a big hunk of dough into a company which will see pre-fabricated theaters and restaurants . . . As he hinted weeks ago, Jack Benny will play his first vaudeville date in years in May, Chicago on May 9th. New York two weeks later

It is unlikely that any opinion can integrate the world unless it is so flexible that it leaves every faith some grounds for hoping that it may survive and eventually triumph.

It's just a delusion that woman's place is in the home. The best homemaker is a woman who knows what is going on in her community and in the world, and who really works to get good government.

Today hunger stalks many sections of the earth and when men are themselves starving or see before their eyes their families and loved ones wasting away it is idle to talk of peace and freedom and the rule of right.

AS WE GROW OLDER .....By Dr. Alfred P. Haake

(Editor's Note: Alfred P. Haake, Ph.D., Mayor of Park Ridge, Illinois, is a noted Economist, Business Consultant, Lecturer and Author.)

As we grow older we learn that there are certain fundamental laws which man cannot change, and most of the troubles of the world come from trying to change those laws instead of adapting ourselves to them. One of them is that a soft object gets hurt when it hits a hard object. No sensible person tries to make a hole in a brick wall by butting it with his bare head. The wall is harder than the head, and the head gets hurt. You may win an election on the platform that heads ought to be harder than brick walls, with lots of people believing the nonsense, but when the election is all over, you will smash your head if you butt it against the brick wall.

Sometimes people get so excited about something they would like to see done that they forget to find out whether or not the way which they propose to use is a sound and sure way to do it.

It would be fine to have more to eat and wear and enjoy, and there are people who set out to get those things for us by the simple process of just giving everybody more money, arguing that we can raise the standard of living by paying higher wages, even though men do not do more work to earn those higher wages.

But, the plain truth, the law, is that we cannot have more without first producing more. We cannot eat bread until after it has been baked. We cannot have more cars to drive unless those additional cars are first made. And to wear more suits of clothes, we must produce more suits of clothes. We cannot eat or drive or wear in hopes and promises.

There were people a few years ago who thought we could bring prosperity and full employment by simply having the government spend a lot of money in any old way, without regard to the value of the work done, just so long as it made more jobs.

Well, the simple truth we discovered after billions of dollars were thrown away, for the returned soldiers to pay when you and I have passed on, was that merely spending more money just increased the national debt and raised prices. If you increase the amount of money in use without increasing the goods which are to be bought with that money, you pay more money for the same goods and prices go up.

We gave billions of dollars to workers to enable them to buy fewer goods. The prices had to go up. They could not do anything else. The simple truth is that when you take something away you have less left, and the only way you can have more is to add something to what you already have produced. That is just as true of cheese and crackers and eggs and lumber, as it is of simple numbers in arithmetic.

To ignore the laws of God is to ask for disaster. To obey those laws is to find true happiness and fulfilment. Even sorrow has its rewards and compensations, and failure can become the prelude to the greatest successes of our lives, if we will learn the lessons they teach and obey the laws they point to.

Growing older is a wonderful thing. It reconciles us to the inevitable and helps us to learn the ways to accomplish the possible. Every one of us can find in the setting sun of his days the beauty and joy that come only with age and understanding, in a land where men strive without ceasing to preserve Freedom under God.

Health Officer Urges That Special Care Be Given Common Diseases

AUSTIN—With the incidence of chickenpox more than 50 percent higher than records indicate for a seven year median, Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, issued a statement today declaring, "It is a great mistake to treat even light cases of childhood diseases such as chickenpox, measles, mumps, scarlet fever or whooping cough as though they did not amount to much. That sort of treatment makes it possible for these diseases to spread and cause serious outbreaks among children and their resulting impaired resistance makes them easy victims to other forms of infection.

"Some of the most serious outbreaks of chickenpox which we have had, have been traced to mild cases—that is, to cases too light for the doctor to be called. In some instances the children have continued to go to school and to associate and play with other children. In others, after they have been kept at home for a few days, they have returned to school and have scattered these germs around among their schoolmates. Eventually a group of cases—sometimes very serious ones—have developed from the carelessly-handled mild cases. The result was another epidemic that could have been prevented."

The State Health Officer said that the family doctor is the best judge of the seriousness of such childhood diseases, and suffering and anxiety will be avoided if the child is put to bed, and a doctor's advice sought and followed.

CHOOSY IN ITS WARNING

Rattlesnakes are not such sporting gentlemen as one is led to believe. They do not give a warning rattle before striking at a victim on which they intend to make a meal. It's only enemies capable of injuring the rattler who are warned.

Bishop Scores Bill to Legalize Horse Racing

HOUSTON—(AP)—The Rt. Rev. John E. Hines of Austin, bishop coadjutor of the Episcopal Diocese of Texas has joined those clergymen objecting to a bill now before the Texas Legislature which would legalize horse racing and pari-mutuel betting in the State.

"The moral and economic problems raised by consideration of a bill to legalize pari-mutuel betting on horse racing should arouse every Texan with a conscience," Bishop Hines said.

"Proponents of the bill who have used war heroes to appeal for the bill have done patriotism a disservice. It is incredible that the great State of Texas should be reduced to such in search of revenue. I shall do my best to arouse Episcopalians to shame with the passage of the bill."

DANGEROUS DREAM

KELSO, Wash.—(AP)—Motorcycle Patrolman Marvin Bishop congratulated himself on escaping from a traffic accident without injury.

Then he went to bed and dreamed about the accident. He threw up an arm, toppled over a bedside lamp and lost a tooth when the lamp fell on him.

Leaves From a Correspondent's Life Note Book

By HAL BOYLE

HAVANA—(AP)—Inflationary boom times are enriching Cuba's big sugar planters and creating a delirious heyday for its happy-go-lucky "obreros"—laborers—but its small middle class is being squeezed dry by rising costs.

From the fifteenth-century arrival of the gold-seeking Spaniards Cuba has been a country of fantastic contrasts between extreme wealth and barest poverty.

Members of the slowly evolving middle class in Cuba feel their nation's war-created sugar prosperity is grinding them back down toward the level of mass indigence.

"An obrero before the war made only about $1 a day," complained one office worker. "Now he gets $5. He has more money in his pockets than he knows what to do with. He lives in the same house he did before, and all he needs to wear is an old shirt and a pair of trousers.

"We of the middle class, however, must dress better. Yet our wages have risen much more slowly than those of the field workers. To buy a good pair of American shoes that cost me $8 before the war I now must pay $18. Government clerks got $60 a month five years ago. Now they get only $75 to $80—not nearly enough to make up for the rise in prices."

In Cuba, as in the United States, the onetime prestige of the white collar is being outweighed by the financial advantages of overalls.

The warborne wealth is reflected in intense building activity along Havana's famed Quinta Avenida which passes through the exclusive Miramar residential district to Marianao beach.

Hundreds of spacious plaster-covered brick villas costing $50,000 or more are going up. For $10,000 you get something that looks like a glorified chicken coop with windows.

The city boasts of its facilities for the care of indigents—forty percent of the national lottery goes to charity—but children and old women beg in the streets. At night tattered figures sleep huddled in midtown doorways, just as in China and in India.

Cubans are strangers to the unbiased attitude. They have deep and violent opinions on every subject and express them with an eloquent language of the hands.

They are thorough going partisans. If their favorite baseball team wins, the fans tie to show their enthusiasm by tying a banner to a motorcycle and speeding through the narrow streets, cheering happily as they disembowel friend or foe.

Ducks can rotate each wing separately and fly straight upward in a spiral.
