Aransas Shell Permit Sought

The U. S. Army Corps of Engineers has announced the filing of an application by Heldenfels Bros. of Corpus Christi for a shell dredging permit in Aransas and St. Charles Bays about a mile and one half east of Lamar in Aransas County.

W. J. Cutbirth, Jr., assistant executive director of the Parks and Wildlife Department, said in Austin that the application is pursuant to an amendment granted June 1 to the Heldenfels dredging permit.

No amount of dredging in cubic yards is specified in the permit amendment, but a particular area is specified.

According to the public notice released by the Corps of Engineers, the dredging is planned for Aransas and St. Charles Bays in a portion of the tracts numbered 68, 69, 70, 387 and 388.

It is provided that no dredging shall be done within 300 feet of live oyster beds, that dredging operations be far enough so that existing pipelines and structures will not be damaged, and that spoil from the dredging shall be replaced on the bottom of the bay in about the same locations as the dredging with no resulting decrease in water depth.

Cutbirth said Heldenfels still has a permit for Copano Bay dredging but that no new permits have been issued to the Corpus Christi firm or other firms.

He said no amendments have been issued in recent months to Copano Bay permits, and added, "I think Heldenfels has about completed their work in that bay."

Asked if any other permits for dredging shell along the Texas coast have been issued or amended lately, Cutbirth said, "None that I know of."

Any protests against the planned dredging in Aransas and St. Charles Bays should be addressed to the District Engineer, Corps of Engineers, 606 Santa Fe Building, Galveston, or, the corps area office in Corpus Christi.

MOTHER OF PARLIAMENTS. Britain is commemorating the 700th anniversary of its first parliament. The actual anniversary was Jan. 20, but ceremony was postponed to June 22 due to death of Sir Winston Churchill. The son of a French count, Simon de Montfort, is credited with organizing the first parliament after leading his barons to a victory over Henry III in a battle in 1264. Democratic parliaments the world over, including U.S. Congress, are to some degree patterned on British parliament which occupies historic Westminster buildings along Thames river in London, shown above. EXCISE TAX REDUCTION EFFECTIVELY IMMEDIATELY

Austin. — The Excise Tax Reduction Act of 1965, approved by the President on June 21, 1965, repeals certain excise taxes effective June, 22, 1965, and makes other important changes, according to R. L. (Bob) Phinney, District Director of Internal Revenue here.

The following taxes are repealed outright on sales made on or after June 22, 1965:

1. The retailers excise taxes on jewelry, furs, toilet preparations, luggage, handbags, etc.

2. The manufacturer's excise taxes on refrigerators, freezers, self contained air conditioning units, electric gas and oil appliances, radios, TV sets, phonographs, phonograph records, musical instruments, sporting goods (except fishing equipment), cameras, lenses, film and projectors, business machines, mechanical pens and pencils, lighters, and matches.

Also, the Act repeals the tax on the use of safe deposit boxes, effective for periods of use beginning on or after July 1, 1965.

Taxpayers who, because of the repeal of one or more of these taxes, are no longer required to file Forms 720 for calendar quarters beginning on and after July 1, 1965, should write "final return" at the top of the excise tax return for the quarter ending June 30, 1965, due on or before July 31, 1965, so that their names can be removed from the IRS mailing list.

The Act also repealed the special occupational taxes on bowling alleys, billiard or pool tables, and coin operated amusement devices (but not gaming devices) effective July 1, 1965.

Other changes made by the Act include graduated rate reductions of the tax on passenger automobiles, and repeal of other taxes on Dec. 31, 1965, or Jan. 1, 1966. In addition, the Act provides for retroactive refunds to May 15, 1965, of the tax on air conditioners and passenger automobiles, and for floor-stocks refunds of manufacturers taxes based on inventories of tax-paid articles held by dealers on the day after enactment of the Act.

More information about these changer may be obtained by contacting the IRS office.

TO POLAND? Speculation was high in Rome that Pope Paul may visit Communist-ruled Poland next year. Poland, largely Roman Catholic in religion, next year celebrates 1,000 years of Christianity. Speculation is also running rampant in Rome as everyone tries to predict what policy the Vatican will decide on regarding birth control. — WFS Photo

JULY DRAFT CALLS 908 TEXANS

Austin. — The state draft draft quota for July is 908, the highest in nearly four years, Col. Morris S. Schwartz, state Selective Service director, said Tuesday.

In November 1961, 923 Texans were directed to report for military service. The July call is the Texas share of a national quota for 17,100 men, all for the Army.

The state Selective Service director also announced that state draft boards will forward 4,820 males for Army mental-physical examinations in July.

The July quota will be filled mostly with men who are volunteers under 26 years old.

No man whose draft board file reflects that he is maintaining a bona fide family relationship with a wife or a child or children will be selected in response to this call.

Crash Is Fatal to 3 On Rain-Slick Road

2 Others Injured In Accident Saturday

Slick roads caused by a thundershower apparently were responsible for a two-car collision which killed three persons and critically injured another near here Saturday.

Dead in the Highway 35 crash are: Mrs. Richard E. Thurmond, 35, her daughter, Cynthia, 9; both of Corpus Christi; and Robert W. Spielman 17, of Rockport.

In critical condition late Saturday at Spohn Hospital in Corpus Christi was Richard E. Thurmond, 39. A team of five doctors had been operating on Thurmond for hours after multiple injuries were received in the wreck.

Highway Patrolman Rayford Brown of Rockport said Spielman's 1955 sedan apparantly went out of control during a rainstorm, spun around and into the lane of the Thurmond's 1964 station wagon.

Listed in fair condition with broken legs at Memorial Medical Center in Corpus Christi is Ricky Thurmond, 11.

Thurmond was driving the family station wagon north when it collided with Spielman's southbound sedan. It took about 20 minutes to pry the crushed and mangled vehicles apart to remove the dead and injured.

The Thurmonds, residents of Corpus Christi for the past 15 years, had been bound on a holiday trip. Thurmond is station manager in Corpus Christi for Tans-Texas Airways.

Justice of the Peace E. B. Crawford pronounced Mrs. Thurmond and Spielman dead at the scene. Cynthia, the little girl died of multiple injuries about 30 minutes after being admitted to a Corpus Christi hospital.

Two of the Thurmond's pet bulldogs were also killed in the crash which occurred about 2½ miles south of here about 9:30 a.m.

Double funeral services for Mrs. Thurmond and her daughter, Cynthia Kay, were held at 4 p.m. Tuesday at the Galloway-Wilson Funeral Home in Beeville.

Allen H. Otto, of the Norton Street Church of Christ, officiated. Burial was in Glenwood Cemetery in Beeville.

Mrs. Thurmond is survived by her husband, Richard Elroy Thurmond; one son, Richard C. Thurmond; her mother, Mrs. Betty Jo Cook; and her paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Cook of Louise.

Cynthia Kay is survived by, besides those listed above, her grandfather, E. C. Thurmond of San Benito.

Mrs. Thurmond was born in Mount Lucas. Cynthia Kay lived in Corpus Christi all her life and was a student at Fannin Elementary School.

Funeral services for Spielman, were at 2 p.m. Tuesday at the Cage-Marshall Funeral Home chapel at Rockport.

Spielman was a member of St. Luke's Lutheran Church and was a student at Aransas County High School.

Burial was in Prairieview Cemetery at Aransas Pass.

Surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alan Spielman of Rockport, and two brothers, Alan Spielman Jr. of McAllen and Michael Spielman of Rockport.

Overall Business Good Say Local Establishments

Business in Aransas County is better than it was last year at this time, although there has been some redistribution of tourists and other businesses.

This was the consensus this week of a representative group of filling stations, cafes, grocery store and service establishments in this area.

The three lumber yards all reported business was booming, with construction activity keeping most carpenters and other building trades personnel with more than they can do.

Several filling stations gave reports of "normal, compared to last year, but with all we can do," and one said his business had quadrupled in the last few weeks.

Among the beauty operators, the general impression was that business as a whole was better than it was last year at this time, but, because of new shops opening, it was off a little for some of the other establishments.

Frenzel Motors, the only new car dealer operating in Rockport (others are in area towns, with sales representatives here) said that "shop business is much better. We can't keep up with it, and we're happy with sales, although they could always be better."

The bait stand operators along the waterfront reported not much difference from previous years.

Roe's Grocery and the HEB store both reported that business was good, and exceeded a year ago.

Gas, water, and light connections continue to climb as new houses are built and the population increases.

Both drug stores report an excellent business, with all indications pointing to a better June than in 1964.

Washaterias are doing a greater business, also, for several reasons, among which are the influx of summer people; residence of a number of seismograph crews, probable precursors of increased oil activity in the Gulf; and increased business at the Navigation District's Cove Harbor, a mile south of Rockport.

Milwhite and Baroid mud companies have subleased from Cove Harbor Enterprises and Caspary and Wendell, and applications for land space around the harbor have been pouring in to the Navigation District office, in speculative preparation for the big oil play that everyone believes is developing in the Gulf.

As a result of the heightened shrimp activity off the South American coast, a local shipyard is busy with contracts, as is the one at Aransas Pass, and a third rumored for the harbor at the Cove. New drilling barges, shrimp boats, and crew boats are all expected to be built in this area if the expected oil play develops.

On the pleasure craft side of the ledger, Chuck Maslonka of Marineland, says they're running about even with last year.

METHODIST CHURCH DEDICATION HELD

The Methodist Church dedicated its building, built ten years ago, in ceremonies held last Sunday, with Bishop O. Eugene Slater officiating at the dedication ceremonies and preaching the Sunday morning sermon.

A barbecue dinner was served in the Fellowship Hall after church.

Mrs. R. C. McBride of Houston is visiting her mother, Mrs. A. G. Collin, this week.

Staes Resigns, Counselor Hired For Local Schools

Rex E. Staes, assistant coach at ACHS, Rockport, under John O. Baker, III during the past year, has resigned here to become an assistant coach in Jacksonville High School.

The announcement was made today by J. D. Gray, superintendent of the local school system.

Gray also announced the employment of Joel M. Mixon, who has been high school principal at Runge for the past several years, as high school counselor in the local school system.

Mrs. Mixon will teach high school English.

LBJ BEAUTIFICATION PROGRAM HITS REFUGE

A general face-lifting is in store for the Aransas National Wildlife Refuge beginning June 20, in keeping with "Beautification Week." The operation to be undertaken on the Federal Refuge near Austwell, is part of the overall program of the Department of the Interior's wildlife agency which would see similar projects undertaken at 27 national wildlife refuges and 19 national fish hatcheries administered by the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife's Southwestern Region.

Beauty enhancement endeavors at Aransas will include: The removal of several miles of unsightly above-ground telephone lines, the installation of a new entrance gate and adjoining fence, replacement of several weatherworn signs by new rustic-type designs more adapted to the surroundings, and numerous clean-up tasks.

Refuge Manager Bob Shields said that the beautification operation at Aransas will heighten the visits to the area each year by many thousands of conservationists who come to see whooping cranes, deer, javelina, turkey, ducks, geese, and hundreds of other birds and mammals which abound on the refuge.

SYMBOL OF HOPE. When this symbol for the United Nations flag was adopted by the U-N General Assembly on October 20, 1947, it was hoped it would soon fly over a peaceful world... the dream has yet to be fulfilled, but the hope lingers on.

LOCAL WOMEN RECALL FLOOD EXPERIENCES

Three local women, Mrs. Anthony de la Rocca, Mrs. Seth Steele and Mrs. Eugene Everett were recently returning from a vacation trip to Ruidoso, N. M., where they had been visiting Mrs. Steele's brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. McKenzie, when it became necessary to by-pass the flooded area around the Sanderson disaster.

Mrs. Everett said that after traveling all day, and until 11 p.m. the same night, they arrived in Fort Stockton where, after checking many motels, it became apparent no accommodations were available, as everything was filled to overflowing with refugees and workers from the flood area.

All of the surrounding towns were full, as well.

Fort Stockton people suggested that the weary travelers call the police station, where the local people listed accommodations in their homes for tourists and others.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Riggs were kind enough to welcome Mrs. de la Rocca, Mrs. Steele, and Mrs. Everett into their lovely home, and the local ladies have been loud in their praise of Fort Stockton and its people ever since. They want everyone to know of the kindness and generosity of the people in that West Texas town.

Sportsmen Report On Accomplishments

The Sportsmens Conservation Association of Rockport, in a letter to the membership, signed by M. W. Cochran, membership chairman, had the following reports to make to their membership:

Two years ago the Texas Legislature and the Governor granted the Parks and Wildlife Commission a two-year trial of regulatory authority in Aransas County, Texas. This year they again enacted into permanent law the same authority. In addition to granting this authority, the bill set up a restricted zone in which no netting, no crab traps, and no trotlines could be used. This restricted zone extends along the westerly shore of Aransas Bay, from Tally Island, along each side of the Copano Bay Causeway (which will be a fishing pier when the new causeway is completed), and easterly along the shore of Lamar Peninsula to Haile Point, a distance of approximately 30 miles in length and a half mile in width.

This restricted area will provide waters where wholesale catches are prohibited, and fertile water for sport fishing should result.

This accomplishment was made possible through the cooperation of the Parks and Wildlife Commission, who made discerning use of their regulatory powers. But to rest on this achievement would be to ignore an even more basic obligation, which is to keep Aransas, Copano and St. Charles from becoming muddy water bays such as Nueces Bay, which though it has provided many resources for the industrial development of the Corpus Christi area, has been practically written off as a fishing or recreation ground. This use of the waters of Nueces Bay was doubtless in the best interest of the people, but the same cannot be of our bays in Aransas County. Our waters and their natural resources are of far less value to industry than they are to all the people as a source of seafoods and recreational facilities.

The conservation of the grassy nursery areas and the exposed shell reefs where sea life is spawned and feeds, and the protection of the clean bay waters from the muddy silt which the shell dredges pour back into the bays in great streams of wash water, is an immediate responsibility of all citizens of this Coastal Bend. Only by preventing the deposit of mud and silt, long confined in the submerged reefs which are dredged for shell, can we expect to conserve the seafoods, the recreational opportunities, the bird-nesting and feeding grounds, vital to sportsmen and those seeking relaxation, nature study and recreation. And when these are no longer available, a unique and richly endowed area along the Texas Coast will have lost its gifts and the entire country will suffer the loss.

We need your support to help conserve the natural resources of the bays. We need your help to put over the idea that the natural resources should be equitably shared. We need you to join in the demand that no one shall be permitted to take any of our bay resources in such a manner as to damage others of those resources. We need you to join us in insisting that the few shall not benefit at the expense of the many.

We believe that the greatest good that the citizens of Texas can receive from Aransas, Copano and St. Charles Bays will be realized when the State of Texas sets aside these waters for recreation and conservation of the natural resources they now so bounteously afford. We ask you join us in the continued support of our earnest endeavor to attain this goal.

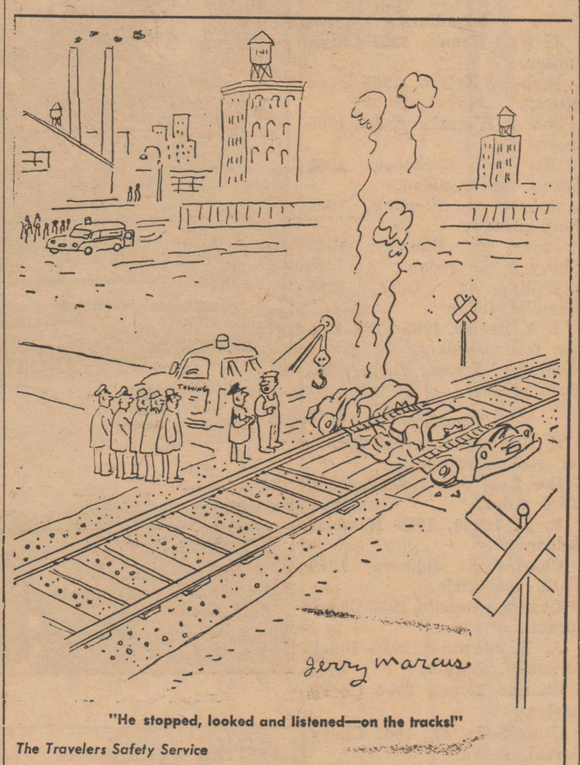

Your check for $3.00 will confirm your membership for next year and you will receive a card for the fiscal year July 1, to June 30, 1966.

Sincerely yours,
M. W. Cochran, Chairman
Membership Committee

WAGE REPORTS FOR DOMESTIC EMPLOYEES DUE

Many home makers in the Corpus Christi area fail to report their domestic employees for social security credits, according to L. L. Sharpless, field representative in the Social Security office in Corpus Christi.

Sharpless says that lack of knowledge of the law and of the procedures for filing employee tax returns is frequently given as the reason for failure to comply with the law.

"The law is very specific," says Sharless. "Anyone who pays $50 or more in cash wages to a domestic employee, in a calendar quarter, is legally obligated to report these wages to the Internal Revenue Service,"

Domestic employees include maids, yardmen, and baby sitters who work in the employers home. Most practical nurses are also considered to be domestic employees.

Sharpless emphasized that only cash wages paid domestic employees are to be reported. Wages in the form of room and board are not subject to the tax. Reports for this quarter, together with the social security taxes payable, are due in the office of the District Director of Internal Revenue, Austin, after June 30 and not later than July 31.

A free booklet for employers of domestic help, containing information about the proper methods of reporting wages, is available at the district office at 1802 S. Staples, Corpus Christi. The telephone is TU 3-5511, Extension 251.

FORGOTTEN CHAPTER OF CIVIL WAR IS UNCOVERED HERE

A forgotten chapter of the Civil War was uncovered here this week in a series of letters belonging to Mrs. Anna Lynn Hash, part of 900 manuscript pages written in longhand by her grandmother, who was one of the Southerners who left this country immediately after the Civil War, to seek their fortunes in Central and South American countries, far from hated Yankee domination.

Some of these people passed the rest of their lives in such far countries as Brazil, and British and Spanish Honduras. Others, among them Mrs. Vineyard, returned to this country.

George C. Hatch, her father, was born in North Carolina, but came to Texas as a young man and joined Deaf Smith's forces and was one of the men taken prisoner in San Antonio by the Mexican General Adrian Woll and marched to Mexico where they were held at Mier for a short time. All but Hatch and one other man were released, and these two made their escape the night before they were to have been shot at sunrise.

Walking to Point Isabel, Hatch and his companion returned to New Orleans, and from there Hatch went to Tennessee, returning to Texas in 1842 with his family and 26 slaves.

Four of the Hatch boys, William, Amos, Lemuel and James, joined the Confederate forces, and James, like his father, was sentenced to die when captured by Union forces, but also made his escape.

After the war was over, the Hatch brothers returned to Ingleside, but their father and his widowed daughter, Annie Hatch Bryne went to British and Spanish Honduras, where they spent about three years, returning to Ingleside in 1869, to spend the remainder of their lives.

While in Honduras, Mrs. Bryne, who later became Mrs. Vineyard and the grandmother of Mrs. Hash, wrote five long letters to Sir Clements Markham, as well as a novel, "Cay Jumel"—900 manuscript pages in all.

Recently, as a Mother's Day gift, Mrs. Hash's daughter, Joan Hash McCreary, typed the letters and novel, and bound them in two loose-leaf folders. In her preface, Mrs. McCreary says that she assumes Markham was a kinsman of her great-grandmother, and says that he was an English geographer and traveler who traveled in Peru twice, the second journey being undertaken for the purpose of procuring cinchona seeds for planting in India. This journey Markham describes in one of his books.

Later he spent time in India and Ceylon before becoming assistant secretary of the India Office in England, and a curator of its geographical department. Later he was secretary of the Royal Geographical Society before becoming president of that organization.

The first of the five letters in the books is dated September, 1867, and comes from Belize, British Honduras. The next, written June 2, of the same antedates it, and was mailed at Omoa, Spanish Honduras. The third, which bears no date, was mailed in Guatemala; the fourth comes from the "Comaygua" district in the same country; the fifth was from Puerto Cortez. In all, the letters total 97 single-spaced, typed pages, and give an interesting and apparently very accurate account of the natural history, agriculture and politics in British and Spanish Honduras, immediately after the Civil War.

For instance, Mrs. Vineyard says "The town of Omoa is a very pretty place—considering the houses consist mainly of adobe structures plastered with clay and white washed; with tiled and thatched roofs; nestling among the palms, limes and orange groves, near the base of the coast range mountains."

Omoa has changed little since then.

Likewise, to one who had seen Belize, British Honduras, before it was wiped out by the hurricane of recent years, the description of that area given by Mrs. Vineyard differed little from the area as it appeared before the hurricane.

The five letters are a storehouse of history and cast light on a period when the defeated people of the South were struggling against reconstruction to lead normal lives once more, either in this country or another.

Whatever happened to Hatch and his daughter, they apparently became disillusioned with the Spanish republics and returned to spend the rest of their days in this country, where many of their descendants still live.

George Bohn, Jr. of New Orleans, La., arrived to join his family who are vacationing at their summer home.

Hurricane Season Has Come Around Again; Take Precautions If a Storm Threatens

New York.—Hurricane season has rolled around again, and during the summer and early fall persons living in the Atlantic Seaboard states and on the Gulf Coast should look aloft to the weather and keep weather forecasts in mind, the American Insurance Association advised recently.

Summer vacationers at seaside resorts in particular should remember that the normal course of hurricanes is up the Atlantic coast and precautions should be taken for personal safety if a hurricane threatens.

A hurricane warning system already has been set up in Miami, Fla. by the United States Weather Bureau to keep constant watch for storms and to tract their courses.

Last year there were six hurricanes, and four of these moved onshore causing heavy property damage, much of which was covered by insurance.

However, most insurance policies do not cover damage caused by a wave wash, rising water and flooding, the Association said.

Three of the 1964 hurricanes struck Florida. They were Cleo on Aug. 26, (insured damage $65 million); Dora on Sept. 10, (insured damage $12 million); and Isbel on Oct. 14, (insured damage $2 million).

Another hurricane, Hilda, struck the Louisiana coast on Oct. 3, causing insured losses totaling $25 million.

These storms hit the United States after two years—1962 and 1963—in which there were no hurricanes to strike our coast.

A hurricane is a tropical storm, or tropical cyclone, carrying sustained winds of over 75 miles per hour in velocity.

In the last 50 years, 96 hurricanes reached the continental United States, an average of almost two a year.

In each of four years—1916, 1933, 1954 and last year—the United States mainland was hit by four hurricanes.

One of the most costly hurricanes from the standpoint of property damage in the past dozen years was Hurricane Carol, which struck New York (Long Island), New Jersey, and several New England states in 1954. After this storm, insurance companies paid $129,700,000 in losses.

Also, in 1954, Hurricane Hazel swept up the Atlantic coast causing insured losses totaling $122,050,000.

In 1961, Carla rushed into Texas and Louisiana causing insured property damage losses totaling $100,000,000.

Back in 1957, Audrey struck the Gulf Coast and caused 395 fatalities, although insured property losses were only $32,000,000.

Since then, hurricanes have taken some lives each year, but, thanks to advance warning by hurricane watchers the loss of life has been much smaller.

There were two hurricane fatalities in 1958, 24 and 1959, 65 in 1960, 46 in 1961, four in 1962, 11 in 1963, and 49 last year.

Obviously specific, precautions should be taken when a hurricane threatens, because a windstorm blowing at more than 75 miles per hour can pack a lethal punch.

Hurrcane Precautions

What to do before a storm:

If a storm threatens anywhere from the Caribbean to the U. S. mainland, your radio or television set will give you the latest information from the Weather Bureau. When a hurricane is born, U. S. Weather Bureau observers usually track it before the storm hits the continent. Observation planes are sent up to fly around and through the storm to gather first hand information as to the intensity of its winds. When a hurricane appears to be moving toward land, radio and television stations will break in with special bulletins telling of its position and the direction it is moving. Your newspaper will also keep you informed.

If you have a battery-powered radio, keep it equipped with fresh batteries for use in an emergency because hurricanes frequently knock down electric transmission lines, causing power failures.

If you live or are vacationing near a seashore, go inland if a hurricane is about to strike the area, and pick a place to stay on high ground. Hurricanes churn up the sea and when they hit, beaches and low waterfront areas may become flooded or swept by storm waves. And, high tides usually accompany them.

Go inland early, the experts advise, if your passage to safety is over a road that is likely to be under water with high tides. Rising tides frequently occur several hours before a hurricane hits, so move to higher land well in advance of the arrival of the storm. Travel during a hurricane is dangerous.

When you leave the low-lying area, take plenty of food and water in thermos or jugs with you. In particular, stock food that can be eaten without cooking.

If you are faced with riding out a hurricane in a house which is wellbuilt and away from the water, that's possibly the best place for you to stay. Be sure you have a stock of food ample for several meals. Sterilize and fill pitchers, kettles, pans, and thermos bottles with water for drinking—frequently the normal water supply is contaminated after a hurricane, and not safe for drinking. In many homes in coastal areas, residents also fill the bath tub with water for an extra supply.

Stock food that not only can be eaten with little or no cooking, but also food that can be kept without refregeration. Your refrigerator will not be working if the electric power goes off.

Bring into the house or store in the garage any movable items such as porch furniture, lawn furniture, lawn swings, barbecue grills, garbage pails and other objects. A lawn chair, picked up by hurricane force winds, could easily be blown through a large picture window, possibly causing injury to a person or persons inside the house. Movable awnings should either be raised and tied securely or removed entirely. As a matter of course in hurricane areas, trees close to buildings should be kept pruned. Hurricane force winds can blow down dead or over-hanging branches and when these fall, they can break windows or cause roof damage.

If you have storm shutters which can be put in place over windows, put them up well in advance of the storm. In areas frequently ripped by hurricanes, some homeowners have a television service man take down TV aerials until after the blow. Be sure garage doors are closed.

What to Do During a Hurricane

During a hurricane:

Stay inside the building. Keep your radio tuned to a local station for bulletins as to where the storm is and in which direction it is moving.

When hurricane winds begin blowing, one or more windows in the house on the lee side—the side opposite from which the wind is blowing—should be kept open to provide ventilation and to prevent damage under certain conditions. If hurricane force winds should blow a hole in the windward side of the building or drive a flying object through the side of the house, wind pressure will build up inside the structure. However, if you adjust the windows on the lee side this will allow the pressure to escape and reduce the possibility of having wind pressure lift the roof or push out the walls.

Be careful with fire, if oil lamps or candles are used for lighting, make sure they are not in a place where they will tip over.

After a Hurricane

Don't leave the house, except in extreme emergency, until you know roads and streets are clear, and free of rubble and fallen electric wires.

Stay home so you will not hinder first aid or rescue work. If you are not qualified to render important emergency assistance stay away from areas heavily hit by the storm.

If you have to drive your automobile immediately after a storm, drive carefully and watch for fallen wires and tree branches. Near swollen streams or flooded inlets, keep watch for washouts and undermined pavements. Rescue workers as well as ordinary residents should drive with extreme care and be ready to cope with any contingency.

Never, under any circumstance, touch fallen or dangling power lines or electric wires and keep away from all wires and steel fences. In a violent hurricane, live power lines can become entangled with metal fences, telephone and other wires, and contact could be fatal.

If your water service is affected, boil drinking water until you have been told service has been restored and your local Health Department says that the water is safe to drink.

Always be careful with fire during and after a storm. Your telephone service could be disrupted by the hurricane, and you might find it impossible to phone the fire department. And, if you are successful in reaching the department, the response of fire apparatus could be delayed if the streets are filled with uprooted trees, fallen limbs, or rubble left by the storm. And, if the water service has been damaged, low water pressure could make fire fighting difficult.

Above all, keep calm.

BLEVINS MARINA TO BE RENOVATED

William M. Blevins has applied to the U. S. Engineers for a permit to renovate the old Palm Harber Marina, proposing to dredge the existing channel and harber to an elevation of five feet below mean low tide level, to rehabilitate existing boat slips and bulkheads and to extend the existing bulkheads by new construction.

The existing wooden bulkheads would be replaced with concrete bulkheads. The existing bulkhead along the south side of the approach channel would be extended southwesterly for 130 feet.

One new bulkhead would be constructed from the southwest end of the existing bulkhead along the north side of the approach channel northwesterly for 175 feet, then westerly for 60 feet to tie into the existing bulkhead along the west shore of the harbor.

Another bulkhead would be constructed from the bulkhead along the north side of the approach channel northwesterly along the shore at the high bank line for 240 feet and then return landward along the north property line for 220 feet.

Spoil from the dredging would be placed on shore behind the bulkhead area. All bulkheads would be concrete and have a top elevation of four feet above mean low tide.

SOUTH TEXAS SHELL FISH STUDY BEGINS

South Texas bays are being surveyed by the Division of Sanitary Engineering of the State Health Department in connection with shell fish production.

The progress report of the Galveston Bay Survey group released Wednesday to the Texas Water Pollution Control board said that during the last month they have helped survey shell fish producing areas for certification that they are safe for oyster and other shell fish production.

Bays surveyed during the last month include Lavaca, San Antonio, Mesquite, Espiritu, Santo, Matagorda, East Matagorda and Tres Palacios Bays.

Survey work has been scheduled for early July in Copano, Aransas and Corpus Christi Bays. The work is being done with the "Little Dipper" the state owned boat used for Gulf Coast work.

LOW COST OF LUXURIES. The new $4.8 billion slash in excise taxes could bring down the prices of luxuries. Lady above would save 3 per cent. in automobile excise (averaging $75 per passenger car), and 10 per cent. on the fur and jewelry she's wearing. Also to be reduced in this second major tax cut in two years will be excise taxes on cosmetics, appliances, television sets, and numerous other goods, as well as reducing admission costs to cabarets and theatres. — WFS Photo.

Letter to the Editor . . .

The present specific tax is totally inadequate to provide the funds to effectively control the bloodthirsty mosquito.

The mosquito menace now interferes with the reasonable use of the outdoors by the majority of our residents. It is keeping recreational visitors out of our community. Not only are these pests chasing them out when they get here—but the mosquitoes are keeping them from coming. It is time to find ways and means to do something more effective in controlling this menace to health and comfort.

We will accomplish little by complaining about the present effort. But we can obtain the benefits of an adequate mosquito control program, if we are determined to have it and to pay for it.

According to an informed report, the present 5c tax levy raises $10,654.00. It takes all of this budget to buy insecticides, and oils, and to operate two fogging machines. It is evident that two additional dusting machines are needed to combat the hordes of mosquitoes as they move into the inhabited areas.

Ground machine application by county equipment is only a part of an adequate control program. This is true because the larvae produce mosquitoes at a rate many times greater than the rate of kill by machine applied insecticides in the residential areas. Preventive treatment is the key to an effective control.

The preventive treatment—or using effective methods to destroy the larvae in the breeding areas is the first step essential to effective mosquito control. This "ounce of prevention worth a pound of cure," takes man - power, equipment and materials, and by all means requires the selection of suitable methods and means.

Even with the best effort and the use of adequate ground equipment, there will appear once or twice each year—mosquitoes in great numbers. We can expect this to happen except in very dry years. At such times, to control the mosquito hordes it may be necessary to use the airplane to dust insecticide on a county wide basis. The program of mosquito control, to be effective, has to be planned and adjusted to meet the conditions of weather.

In order to get the most for the money and the effect expended, it is good business to employ a consultant, experienced in the use of insecticides, and one who keeps up to date with the special research work being conducted at Texas A&M and other laboratories.

The amount of money which the taxpayers should provide to have an effective mosquito control program can be estimated. Such a program may call for a 15c tax instead of the present 5c tax.

This cost can be fully justified by the benefits which will accrue to our economy from the increased tourist and residential population.

It is not a matter of being unable to afford an additional tax for this purpose—we cannot afford to do without it. While we may not all agree that our tourist and residential activities are the leading contributors to our economy, we can agree that to increase these activities will be most beneficial to our economy. We cannot afford the mosquito or any other factors which drive people out of this area, or keep them from coming.

People create value. Without peaceful use, there is no desire to own or participate in the use of the natural resources offered. People will not come in the increasing numbers we require to build value. Tax and market values are at stake.

Let's figure out the amount of increased tax needed, hold a special election and let the voters decide. Effective control of the mosquito menace is a county-wide community responsibility.
