Walter Winchell Is On The Receiving End Of Punches

(By The Associated Press)

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., July 22.—Week-end vacations momentarily were thrown into the discard in Hollywood today while everybody tried to find out from everybody else the low-down on the Al Jolson-Walter Winchell battle of the century last night.

There were as many opinions as the long-count of the Jack Dempsey-Gene Tunney embroglio provoked. However, there was a general agreement that Jolson hit Winchell last night as the columnist trod down the aisle at the Hollywood legion stadium to attend the weekly fight program there.

Vents His Anger

Jolson said he hit Winchell fairly and squarely in venting his anger over an understanding that the columnist, in preparing a scenario for the screen, had written disparagingly of Jolson and the blackface comedian's wife, Ruby Keeler. Miss Keeler, said Jolson, had cried much over the reported scenario.

Winchell, who denied such ungentlemanly conduct with his pen, claimed Jolson hit him on the neck and some other "guys" chimed in,

AL READY TO GO

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., July 22 (AP)—Any place, anywhere, any time and under any circumstances Al Jolson will meet Walter Winchell for a return engagement of their fistic encounter, the "mammy" songster said tonight in comenting on his fracas with the newspaper, columnist last night.

"You tell that fellow Winchell," the blackface comedian said, "that I'll meet him again any place, anywhere, any time and under any circumstances. And tell him this too: that I'll keep my hands at my side and let him take a good sock at me first before I start to work on him. Then we'll see whether I sneaked a punch on him."

Figures Given On Harvest Of Plains Cotton

More Than 260,000 Bales Of Cotton May Be Harvested In Plains Area After Reduction Of Existing Acreage

Figures Available

Reports Are Received From 14 Counties In Area; 900,000 Acres Remain Planted After Government Project

By J. SAM LEWIS
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

FROM the more than 900,000 acres of cotton remaining on the South Plains, including all counties on top of the caprock and several others just at the edge, more than 260,000 bales of cotton may be harvested this summer.

Reports received the past few days from 14 counties out of 20 in the area, including only half of Borden county, indicates 921,815 acres will be left in crop after 675,852 acres are plowed under out of the 1,613,632 acres reported cropped. Taking the lint yield of the several counties, as reported by county agents, 264,848 bales should be harvested if normal conditions remain from now on out.

Figures Available

Complete acreage reduction figures are available from: Bailey, east half of Borden, Cochran, Crosby, Dickens, Floyd, Garza, Hale, Hockley, Lubbock, Lynn, Scurry, Swisher and Terry counties. Incomplete reports are available for Briscoe, Castro, Dawson, Gaines, Lamb and Yoakum.

Summary gives the following on the above basis: 18,039 contracts signed for 75,852 acres out of 1,613,632 planted. Cash payments will be $2,844,164.13; optional payments, $1,948,672.62 with undivided payments bringing the total to $6,232,284.75. Bales optioned numbered 72,579 and the quota, not including several counties unreported, was 427,464 acres.

Definite reports from 13 counties outside of Lubbock are given below.

FINAL CHECK MADE

MULESHOE, July 22, (Special)—Final check of the cotton reduction acreage plan for Bailey county, as announced by J. B. Waide, jr., emergency county agent, shows 45 per cent of the land in cotton crop will be plowed under. Waide's records show 27,006 out of the 59,841 acres in cotton, as reported by 693 farmers, will be plowed under.

Farmers will receive in payment of cash sales of the crop, $203,201.50; option sales, $99,432.50 and options on 3,667 bales of cotton, a total of $302,634 in cash.

The county's quota was 8,850 acres and the offering was three times the quota.

Based on the expected yield for 1933, which is 173 lint pounds per acre, the remaining 32,835 acres should return 11,361 bales.

QUOTA IS EXCEEDED

MORTON, July 22, (Special) — Cochran county farmers exceeded their cotton acreage reduction quota by 50 per cent, pledged the plowing under of 46.4 per cent of their acreage and will have 9,187 acres left on which to make a crop, summary of the final report of acreage reduction here shows.

Total of 7,974 acres out of 17,161 planted to cotton, was pledged the government. Farmers will be paid as follows: Cash, $36,728; option cash, $23,977, with 1,053 bales optioned. There were 194 contracts signed.

Based on an expected yield of 141 pounds of lint per acre, the remaining acreage should yield 2,590 bales. The county's quota in the drive was 5,151 acres.

W. T. Magee, county agent at Levelland, advised the local committee on its work .

HAVE 86,040 LEFT

CROSBYTON, July 22, (Special)—Crosby county farmers will have 86,040 acres left out of their 157,747 acres planted to cotton, if the entire 61,705 acres offered the government, is plowed under, summary of the recent campaign as prepared by Glen Blackmon, Shallowater, emergency county agent, shows.

At the same time the government will pay farmers over half a million dollars for their crops plowed under. More farmers accepted the option plan. Cash payments for the entire crop amount to $267,054 while the option payment plan will return $30,292,406, with 11,950 bales optioned. Total cash receipts will

Burglaries In City Reported

Loot Is Obtained From Safe At Lumber Company; Knob Is Knocked Off; Nothing Taken From Oil Firm

Two burglaries, in one of which loot was obtained from a safe, occurred in Lubbock late Friday or early Saturday, lumber and petroleum company quarters within two blocks of each other being entered. Loot evidently was obtained in only one break-in.

An estimated $30 in cash was taken from a safe, from which the knob had been knocked, in the office of Foxworth-Galbraith Lumber company, 2317 Avenue H. The lumber yard was entered upon knocking a hasp from a padlock on a rear gate. The office was entered by a side window on the south side. A hatchet found in a room near the office was used by the burglar or burglars. Persons nearby reported they heard noises at the yard about 11 p. m. The yard was closed at 6 p. m.

Although Magnolia Petroleum company's warehouse and office at 2519 Avenue H, closed about 7 p. m. Friday, was entered, evidently nothing was taken. No money had been left there and a cursory inspection did not reveal loss of any stock, an employe said. Entrance was gained by prying an east window, at the rear of the building, enough to bend an inside lock so it could be manipulated. An office door was pried open. Exit was through a door, the lock of which was broken, at the rear.

Minimum Prices For Grain Trading Set

Roosevelt And Wallace Offer Plan Approval

Hastily Drawn Program Is To Prevent Further Collapse Of Commodity Prices; Story Of Trader Bared

Reach Agreement

No Trading Below The Closing Prices Of Thursday Will Be Allowed; Fluctuations Will Be Restricted

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 22.— Establishment of minimum prices for trading in wheat, corn and other grains until further notice were announced late today by Secretary Wallace after approval by President Roosevelt of a hastily drawn program designed to prevent further collapse of commodity prices.

Wallace disclosed that a trader, whose identity was kept secret, was "long" 13,000,000 bushels of corn and several million bushels of wheat and other grains when commodity prices began their precipitate decline last week. The trader was caught in the fall of prices and his large holdings have occasioned a market crisis which in Wallace's opinion necessitated action to prevent further declines and resort to minimum price fixing authority for the first time in recent market history.

Agreement Announced

He announced that as a result, the Chicago board of trade has agreed that when it reopens after being closed Friday and today that it will:

Allow no trading below the closing prices of Thursday.

Restrict fluctuation in any one day to five cents a bushel for wheat and for "other grains in proportion."

Both restrictions will remain in force until either they are released entirely or a program of commodity market reforms put into effect.

Other markets, including those at

Movie Production Being Threatened

HOLLYWOOD, July 22 (AP)—Production of sound motion pictures in Hollywood was to be virtually stopped tomorrow, with a strike of sound technicians in 11 studios affiliated with the association of motion picture producers called tonight at midnight.

Unless a settlement is effected, the strike will tie up a $200,000,000 production program that is well under way, will halt a weekly payroll of $1,500,00 and jeopardize the jobs of 27,000 workers in the studios.

The strikers are demanding a six day week, 12 hour maximum day and a uniform wage scale.

Baseball Twirler And His Wife Watch Bandits Work

St. Louis, July 22. (AP)—"Dizzy" Dean, St. Louis Cardinal baseball pitcher, and Mrs. Dean were among seven customers held up last night in the drug store at the Forest Park hotel where the Deans stay. Two robbers held the customers under guard as they took $200 from the druggist. None of the customers was robbed.

FLIGHT CONTINUES

NEW YORK, July 22. (AP)—The radio Marine corporation said tonight it had received a wireless message from Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh announcing their arrival at Godthaab, Greenland, after a flight from Labrador.

Post Sets Four Records In Hop

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, July 22.—Wiley Post set four records on his dash around the world. He made:

The fastest trip around the world.

The first solo flight across the Bering Sea and Sea of Okhotsk.

The fastest flight from New York to Berlin, 3,900 miles in 25 hours and 45 minutes.

In addition he was the first solo trans-Atlantic flier since Col. Charles A. Lindbergh to reach his announced destination without a stop.

Double Ring Ceremony Is Read In Relative's Home; Couple To Leave Soon For Honeymoon Trip To Fort Worth

By ROY P. PORTER
Associated Press Staff Writer

BURLINGTON, Iowa, July 22. (AP)—Atop a towering bluff swept by breezes from the broad Mississippi, Elliott Roosevelt, son of the president of the United States, was married tonight to Ruth Josephine Googins of Fort Worth.

The double ring ceremony was read in the flower bordered rock garden on the river bank estate of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Swilter, uncle and aunt of the bride, by the Rev. Naboth Osborne, retired Congregational minister.

Follows Divorce

Young Roosevelt's marriage followed by only five days his divorce from Elizabeth Browning Donner at Minden, Nev. It was Miss Googins' first marriage.

The bride wore a long, simply fashioned dress of white georgette, cut full in the skirt, and carried a large bouquet of lilies of the valley. The bridegroom wore white flannel trousers and a camel's hair coat. Neither was attended.

Supper For Guests

Guests at the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Albert G. Miller of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Moore of Chicago, Mrs. Park Sowden and her son, George, of Palatine Bridge, N. Y., Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Dall, Mr. and Mrs. George C. Swiler of Burlington, and their sons, Wesley and Hudson, Mrs. J. W. Swiler of

Lubbock Man Almost Trapped When His Home Catches Fire

Almost trapped when his four-room house caught fire late last night, Y. A. Haymes, 54, who lives four miles west of Shallowater, suffered second degree burns on his face, arms and hands.

Haymes was admitted at Lubbock sanitarium for treatment at 12:45 o'clock this morning. He remained for observation. The burns were not believed serious.

Details of the accident were not learned immediately. Members of the Haymes family were awakened by the flames, origin of which was unknown. The house and the contents were destroyed. No one else was reported injured.

Culbertson And Associates Defeat British Bridge Team

LONDON, July 22 (AP)—Ely Culbertson and his three associates of the American team won the Charles M. Schwab cup tonight by defeating the British combination in the international contract bridge match with a lead of 10,900 points in 300 boards.

The American quartet—Culbertson Mrs. Culbertson, Theodore A. Lightner and Michael T. Gottlieb—came from behind shortly before the mid point of the six days play and scored heavily with aggressive yet precise bidding.

Mollisons Are Off For Great Ocean Venture

Amy Carries A Lipstick While Jim Has No Baggage At All; Seek To Reach New York On Non-Stop Flight

Double Crossing

Expect To Land In America On Sunday Night; To Rest Only Short While And Then Start On Return Jaunt

(By The Associated Press)

PENDINE, Wales, July 22.—Carrying a lipstick for Amy and no baggage at all for Jim, the flying Mollisons took to the air today to make their long delayed flight to New York.

For Amy, "the greatest adventure of my life," for Jim, "this may be my last spectacular flight."

Their plan is to cross the Atlantic non-stop to New York, thence again across the sea non-stop to Bagdad. They ran their plane, the Seafarer, off the beach of Pendine sands and into the air at 11 a. m., Greenwich time, (6 a. m., E. S. T.).

(At 1:20 p. m., Greenwich time, 8:20 a. m., E. S. T.) the Mollisons were sighted between Fastnet Rock and the Cork mainland.

The Seafarer carried 400 gallons of gasoline, which Captain Mollison believed would provide an 800-mile margin. They expected to reach New York tomorrow night and they planned to rest only a short time before continuing the 12,000-mile adventure.

Weather Is Good

The weather as they took off was in sharp contrast to the turbulence that caused them to crash their plane on the first attempt last June 8. Instead of angry seas and howling winds there was brilliant sun and blue, passive water.

Mollison, who already has one North Atlantic flight in his experience—the first solo trip east-to-west—himself superintended the final arrangements.

"This may be my last spectacular

Dry Leaders Of Oregon Say They'll Fight Even Harder

PORTLAND, Ore., July 22. (AP)—Oregon, after 18 years of prohibition in one form or another, today had become the 20th state to vote repeal of the 18th amendment, and had erased every dry law from the statute books of the state.

A wet tide of ballots in yesterday's special election gave the repealists a margin of nearly two to one.

Dry leaders said that although they held some hope of victory, "we were prepared for such a jolt. We'll fight hrader than ever now."

County Agents Will Receive Cotton Instructions Monday

COLLEGE STATION, July 22 (AP)—Officials of the extension service headquarters here expressed the opinion today that by Monday all county agents would receive instructions permitting cotton farmers to begin to plow up acreage they offered to the government in its crop reduction campaign.

Scattered reports which reached here indicated very few agents had received the instructions and emergency permit blanks today.

Balbo Believes Next War Is To Be Fought With Aircraft

NEW YORK, July 22. (AP)—A firm belief that the next war will be fought in the air and that governments should concentrate on development of their air forces was attributed tonight to General Italo Balbo by a source close to the Italian aviation minister.

The leader of Italy's air squadron of goodwill, which is en route home after an epic mass flight to Chicago's Century of Progress also is convinced that lighter-than-air craft are valueless commercially or as a means of aerial defense or offense.

Oklahoman Dashes Home To Record

Wiley Post, globe-circling Oklahoma flier, landed at New York last night at 11 p. m. E. S. T. to establish a new world flight record and also a mark for a solo hop. His landing brought him a record of 186 hours, 50 minutes for the trip. He arrived nearly 22 hours ahead of the schedule he set in 1931 with Harold Gatty.

Pilot Has To Stall His Motor As Thousands Break Through Lines; Flashes Unexpectedly Out Of Darkness

BY WILLIAM R. SPEAR
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, July 22.—Wiley Post brought his monoplane "Winnie Mae" down to Floyd Bennett field at 10:59:30 p. m. eastern standard time tonight completing the fastest round-the-world trip ever made and a solo trip at that.

The one-eyed Oklahoman streaked across Canada and the United States on his last lap, from Edmonton, Alta., so fast that he shot down out of the darkness fully two hours before he had been expected. Making the last 2200 mile leg in a little over 13 hours, he cut his total elapsed time to 186 hours, 49.5 minutes.

Almost Exhausted

This bettered by more than 21 hours the best previous globe encircling flight, made by Post and Harold Gatty in 1931.

Faint "hellos" to his wife and brief greetings to his associates were all that Post's exhausted condition permitted.

The 25,000 persons who had gathered at the field to witness the end of Post's epochal flight seemed stunned by the suddenness with which he appeared. He had not been sighted for some time and was not expected for one or two hours.

Stalls His Motor

As soon as the thousands were aware that it was the Winnie Mae coming down in the center of the field, they made such a rush that about 3,000 of them broke through police lines and ran toward the monoplane. Post had to stall his motor to prevent possible injury to his well-wishers.

The flier, who had had but a few hours sleep since leaving the same field a week ago this morning, seemed near collapse.

An automobile in which Post was driven away pulled up alongside the Winnie Mae to receive the flier. Post perched atop the cockpit, exchanged the handkerchief on his forehead for a fresh eye-patch handed up to him, then rolled off the wing into the car.

Asks For Patch

Post's first request when he came to a stop was for an eye-patch. An ambulance surgeon made one for him.

The airport manager, explaining the confusion of the landing, said that "everybody was caught flat-footed."

"I personally didn't know Post was within 100 miles of the field," he exclaimed.

The aviator did not circle the

Swift Advances Made In Roosevelt Recovery Plan

Pledges Of Support Are Brought From All Over Nation

By JAMES COPE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Swift advances were made today in President Roosevelt's many-sided industrial re-employment march.

Telegrams by the thousand brought to him and to Hugh S. Johnson, his industrial recovery administrator, pledges of cooperation in the push for voluntary agreements from all employers to pay higher wages and make millions of new jobs by shortening work hours.

Oil Industry Agrees

Representatives of the many conflicting oil interests, meeting in preparation for next week's public hearings on their code of fair competition, agreed to extend the 40-hour week to all retail outlets, a move expected to mean altogether 200,000 to 300,000 new jobs in the industry. They proposed also federal price regulation and licensing.

Johnson called in shipbuilders and spokesmen of shipyard labor, proposed a compromise for their differences and asked them to come back with an agreement late tonight. Their code, under hearing for days past, is wanted quickly because the big naval construction program must be bid on this week and labor costs depend on the code's terms.

Order Is Signed

President Roosevelt, before starting a week-end cruise on the Sequoia, signed an executive order putting into temporary force, pending a hearing, labor benefits of a code presented by the rayon dyeing and printing industry. Its 100 plants were estimated to employ 30,000. The wages will be 35 cents an hour minimum for women, 45 cents for men; the hours 40 a week. In the

Plowing Is To Open In South

About 10,000,000 Acres Will Be Destroyed In Southland; Acceptances Being Mailed From Washington

(By The Associated Press)

ATLANTA, July 22.—The South will begin to plow up approximately 10,000,000 acres of cotton next week designed to take 3,500,000 bales from this year's crop for which the growers will be paid approximately $100,000,000 in cash in addition to options on more than 2,000,000 bales of government owned cotton.

Word came from Washington today that administrators of the farm law had formally accepted the first of the contract offers from cotton growers in sixteen states to plow up a certain portion of the acreage.

Acceptances Mailed

Approximately 15,000 acceptances of contracts were mailed to county farm agents from Washington. Administrators estimated that more than 950,000 contracts are in Washington or in the hands of county agents.

Acceptances will be mailed out rapidly as possible. In the meantime, emergency permits have been issued by some county agents.

Lands plowed under will be inspected by a member of the local county committee, the county farm agent, or a vocational teacher. Checks will be mailed from Washington immediately upon receipt of proof that land rented to the secretary of agriculture has been taken out of cotton production. The first

Woman Identified As Luer Kidnaper

ST. LOUIS, July 22 (AP) — Mrs. Vivian Chase, 32, fugitive bank robbery suspect and former resident of an East St. Louis, Ill., rooming house, has been identified as one of the kidnapers of August Luer, wealthy Alton, Ill., banker, chief of police Joseph Gerk announced today in ordering her arrest.

Mrs. Chase, also variously known as Alice White and Gracie Hickey, has been a fugitive since last October when she escaped from jail at Liberty, Mo., where she was held in connection with holdup of the National Bank and Trust Co. of North Kansas City.

Police withheld source of the identification, but it was understood to have been made by Miss Norma Vaughn, one of five prisoners held in the case, who the police at first thought was the woman who with two men seized Luer at his home the night of July 10.

Tears Are Outlet To Mother's Pride As Post Is Reported Safe In Gotham

(By The Associated Press)

MAYSVILLE, Okla., July 22.—Tears that gave outlet to a mother's pride and relief welled in the large soft eyes of Mrs. W. F. Post tonight when she heard the announcement that her son, Wiley Post, again had conquered, this time alone, the span of the earth's longitude in the Winnie Mae.

Wiley's father, a quiet farmer, gave vent to broad smiles and other members of the family, including several of the famed flier's brothers, listened eagerly to radio reports of the historic landing. They were at the modest little farm home three miles north of Maysville.

One of the most enthused of the family group was Mrs. T. M. Post, Wiley's 93-year-old grandmother, who cupped a hand to her ears to "hear all I can." She is almost sightless from the ravages of time.

Fearful lest the excitement of the family's great moment should prove harmful, the Post boys and Mr. Post have done all they could to eliminate any undue strain, as the flier's mother has been in poor health for some weeks. Therefore, the family preferred to remain at the tree sequestered little home by the roadside, close to the Washita river.

"My presentiment was right and I am so happy," the airman's mother exclaimed as she put a

Wealthy Oklahoma City Oil Men Are Kidnaped By Pair With Machine Gun

(By The Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 22.—Two men armed with a machine gun kidnaped Charles F. Urschel and Walter Jarrett, wealthy Oklahoma City oil operators, from the sun porch of the Urschel home as the pair were playing cards and sped away in a shiny black sedan.

Urschel's first wife was a sister of the late Tom B. Slick, the late "king of wildcatters," whose fortune once amounted to upward of $100,000,000. His present wife, who reported the kidnaping to police at 11:30 p. m., was Slick's widow. Urschel is trustee of the Slick estate.

Jarrett, one of the pioneers in Mid-Continent oil development, is president of the Jarrett Petroleum corporation. He began his career as an independent operator in southern Oklahoma in the early days of the Duncan field, 1915 to 1918, and was outstanding among the independents of that time.

In recent years, Jarrett has made and lost several fortunes but recently his efforts have been concentrated on lease and royalty trading. As with most of the old school of independents, wildcatting was his forte. He has lived in Oklahoma City several years.

As police and the two families laid plans for running down the kidnapers, details of the crime were withheld. It was not learned immediately whether ransoms had been asked.

Regulation Is Being Sought

Oklahoma Solon Declares Pipe Lines Should Be Regulated Under Recovery Act; Plans To See President

WASHINGTON, July 22 (AP)—One member of the vigilant bloc that hopes pipe line control will be embodied in a fair competition agreement for the oil industry said today that unless it is he will take up the case with President Roosevelt.

The spokesman was Representative Marland (D-Okla.) who told newspapermen he could not "understand why the industry does not try to regulate" pipe lines.

Hearings Begin

Hearings begin Monday before the national recovery administration on a trade code fixing hours and pay for oil producers, refiners and marketers. The bloc of which Marland is an adherent contends that big companies which own pipe lines as well as refineries and sales outlets have independents at their mercy through control of the pipe lines.

These big companies, they argue, can charge fees and allocate pipe line space as they choose.

"If they (pipe lines) don't come in under a code," Marland said, "I will take it up with the president. The regulation of pipe lines would have just as beneficial an effect as the recent regulations prohibiting interstate shipment of hot oil and I am going to do my best to see that something is done about it."

Hot Oil Described

"Hot" oil is that produced in violation of state regulatory laws.

In a recent report the Independent Petroleum association held the petroleum code now before the administration could not cover pipe lines because it was drawn up for the producing, refining and marketing divisions and added:

"Those who urge the inclusion of the pipe lines in the petroleum code may or perhaps may not ignore the fact that this inclusion would exempt the pipe lines from certain provisions of the anti-trust laws."

Lubbock Tailors To Attend State Convention At Waco

Carrying code suggestions of tailors of this section, six Lubbock tailors left Saturday for Waco where they will attend a state meeting on the national cleaning and dyeing code. The meeting will be held today in Waco.

The six delegates from here are: J. C. Sanders, O. W. McLeod, Bill Bray, Clyde Granberry and John Stinson. The party is expected to return to Lubbock Monday.

A meeting on the code was held here recently which was attended by cleaners and dyers from over the South Plains.

Girl To Face Murder Count

State Highway Patrolman Has Filed Charges After Accident In Which Youth Dies; Mishap Reported

CORPUS CHRISTI, July 22. (AP)—Lieut. Lee Miller of the state highway patrol today filed charges of murder against Elsie Perkins of Portland in connection with the death of Gordon Garrison, 17, of Mangum, Okla., Thursday night.

Garrison was injured fatally by an automobile as he walked along a street here. An engineer of a passing train saw the accident, telephoned to Corpus Christi from the next station and an ambulance was sent to the scene.

Acting on the description of the car given the engineer, Miller began a search of wash racks. Last night he found a car which had been cleaned and from the floorboard of which hair had been removed. The girl's arrest followed when she appeared for work at a pressing establishment here.

Less than a block from the scene of that accident, Russell Austin, 17, of Corpus Christi was wounded fatally when struck by an automobile. The driver said he was blinded by the lights of an approaching car. Austin's two companions corroborated his statement.

Now They're Waiting For A New War!

Huntsville, Ark., Experiences Unique Barbershop Fight With One Barber Ending Up By Paying Nickel For Shaves

HUNTSVILLE, Ark., July 22. (AP)—Huntsville, almost to a man, has been thoroughly shaven and shorn—and no wonder.

Sixty miles from a railroad, Huntsville for years had two barber shops—20 cents for a haircut, 15 for a shave. Then along came a youngster who thought he saw an opening. He cut prices to 15 and 10.

That started a barber war that shook old Madison county to its borders. By the end of the week the old shops were cutting hair for a nickel and throwing in a shave free.

Then the newcomer played his hole card. A large sign appeared in his window, announcing he would cut hair free and give any customer who wanted a shave a nickel for his trouble.

That broke the deflation. Before long one old shop had both haircuts and shaves back to a dime apiece; the new shop offered either for a nickel, the other old shop said it would sell either 5 or 10-cent haircuts and shaves, whichever the customer preferred.

By that time practically everybody had been barbered. Now the townsfolk are waiting for their hair to grow back so a new war can start.

D. S. Greene, agricultural agent of Leslie county, Kentucky, traveled 196 miles on horseback in one month this year to visit mountain farmers.

Opening Date For Schools Is Sept. 11

Opening date for the Lubbock public schools has been set at September 11.

This was the information learned Saturday from members of the board of trustees. The schools will run a full nine months, it was said.

Classification of all high school students will be made two weeks prior to the session's opening, R. W. Matthews, principal, has announced.

Woman Forgery Suspect Is Under Arrest At Amarillo

AMARILLO, July 22 (AP).—Cora Singleton, 37, former inmate of three different penal institutions, was arrested yesterday by Amarillo police on a charge of forgery.

The woman was taken into custody in an Amarillo bank, where she attempted to pass a check for $42, purported to have been signed by J. M. Hoffman. Police said she admitted forging Hoffman's signature.

Cora Singleton, alias Evans, alias Parker, has served terms for various charges in the Kansas state industrial farm for women, the Colorado state penitentiary at Canon City and the Federal Institution for women at Alderson, W. Va.

Futurist Idea
Illuminated Hat Is Latest Mode

ROME, July 22. (AP)—A revolution in men's hats is proposed by Filippo Tommaso Marinetti, sponsor of futurism.

Among 20 models he suggests for far-sighted gentlemen who leap ahead and wait for events to catch up with them are the armoured and the illuminated sky-pieces.

Predictions of military experts anent air raids inspired the first. It resembles a trench helmet.

The lighted hat is called futuristi., it is explained, only because of man's slowness in realizing some of his most urgent needs. It could have been put to good use long ago, Marinetti says.

A monument has been unveiled at Little Sandy Creek in Utah on the spot where James Bridger, pioneer, offered $1,000 for the first bushel of corn raised in Salt Lake valley.

Stocks Catch Breath To Struggle Out Of Collapse And Register Gains

Extreme Dash Being Halted

Biggest Saturday Trading In Wall Street Since May 27 Is Seen; Curtailment Will Start Monday

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, July 22. (AP)—Whirled by another maelstrom market, stocks caught their breath sufficiently today to struggle out with a net gain for the averages.

Up at the opening, down in midmorning and up again in the late trading, they again swung widely. But their extreme descents were much shorter than Friday's downward excursions, and although some bids were thinly placed at times the market was much less hysterical.

Gains Are Numerous

At the close net gains of a few cents to $4 were numerous; at the worst prices had been off $1 to around $5. Transactions aggregated 4,224,070 shares, the biggest Saturday since May 27 last when the turnover was 4,311,340 shares.

The enormous congestion of transactions in brokerage offices, necessitating long hours of overtime labor by augmented clerical staffs, lead the New York stock exchange to announce before the opening that beginning Monday and continuing until further notice trading would start at noon instead of 10 a. m., thus reducing markets to three hours duration. Similar curtailments were announced by other leading security exchanges here and in Chicago.

Not All Higher

Not all the prominent stocks closed higher, for offerings from battered margin accounts were still voluminous, but such losses as occurred were moderate—in many cases nominal. The Associated Press-Standard Statistics composite closed 50 cents higher.

Brokers attributed the final recovery to brisk short covering, since many traders were unwilling to leave for the week-end with their accounts open. Cotton, which had dropped more than $3 a bale in some positions, was up 15 to 70 cents net. Winnipeg wheat recovered partially from an extreme break of around 6 to 7 cents a bushel.

The stock exchange's decision to cut down trading hours helped revive memories of late 1929 when similar action was taken as a means of easing the burdens placed on clerical labors attendant upon big markets during the wild selling of that year the exchange did not open until noon on several occasions, and there were some full holidays.

Time Is Required

Whether the "corrective reaction" from bullish excesses had passed its climax in yesterday's air-pocketed session, Wall Street was hardly prepared to say. After so sharp a smash as this week's it was pointed out, considerable time is usually required to clean up the debris, and markets are frequently nervous after the actual crest of liquidation has been passed. Many members of the financial community expressed hope that quieter times were ahead.

Such New York commodity markets as are open on Saturdays during the summer were irregular. Bar silver weakened 2 cents an ounce to 35 1-2 cents, while futures after a strong opening closed with gains of 1-3 to 3-4 cents. Copper was firm and rubber mixed.

Business news maintained its cheerful tenor. Car loadings last week soared to a new high for the year, 648,206 cars, which with the exception of one week last October was the largest total since 1931. The gain over a year ago was 144,445 cars.

District Meetings Called To Discuss Printers Code

STEPHENVILLE, July 22. (AP) — R. F. Higgs, president of the Texas Press association, has called district meetings of the organization for July 28 to discuss a printers' code formulated by the National Editorial association for weekly printers and publishers.

It was believed the code would be adopted and authority given the association's executive committee to send delegates to Washington in August to submit the code to Hugh S. Johnson, administrator of the national recovery act, who asked for proposals from weekly printers and publishers.

Loss Of $400,000 Sustained As Fire Sweeps East Dallas

DALLAS, July 22 (AP) — A loss amounting to about $400,000 was caused by a fire late today which swept through two lumber yards, an ice house and several east Dallas homes.

Stocks of the Mayfield Lumber company and the Trinity Lumber company were ruined. The two concerns occupied an entire block.

The homes of W. W. Jenkins and Mrs. Bessie Green were burned, as was an ice station in the neighborhood.

Millionaire Creek Indian Sued For $200,000 Damages

EUFAULA, Okla., July 22. (AP)—Eastman Richards, millionaire Creek Indian, and H. G. House, his business manager, today were sued for $200,000 by George Barnett, who alleged alienation of the affections of Jeanetta Barnett, his former wife and the daughter of Richards.

Mrs. Barnett obtained a divorce in 1931, the district court allowing Barnett $15,000 alimony. It was the first such award in Oklahoma.

Patience For Debtors Asked

Morgenthau Urges All Mortgage Holders To Have Patience Before Trying to Dispossess Farm Owners

WASHINGTON, July 22. (AP)—Acting under instructions by President Roosevelt, Henry Morgenthau, jr., governor of the farm credit administration, today urged patience by farm mortgage holders contemplating court action to begin dispossessing farmers in default on mortgages covering their homes.

He renewed the appeal made by the president on May 12 when the farm mortgage bill was signed $2,000,000,000 available for refinancing farm mortgages and $200,000,000 for special loans to farmers faced by foreclosure.

Already farmers in serious financial straits have applied for loans of more than $100,000,000 from the latter fund, administered by representatives of the land bank commissioner through each of the 12 federal land banks.

It was reported, however, that refinancing of mortgages under the larger plan is proceeding slowly, but mortgage holders, looking for financial improvement of farmers, are generally hoping that they will soon receive full payment of their due and over-due claims.

It was also reported that as a result of this changed outlook, mortgage holders are showing a decided unwillingness to scale down their debt claims.

Essential In Cases

This is essential in most cases before mortgage refinancing will be possible under the act, which limits the amount the government can pay for first mortgages to 50 per cent of the appraised normal value of the land and 20 per cent of the insured permanent improvements.

Many of the mortgages, due to the depreciation in land values, now represent a sum in excess of the amount which could be offered them for their claim under the appraisal limitation.

Loans from the smaller fund, which are in great demand, can be made on second mortgages on land or on other property up to 75 per cent of the appraised value of the farmers possessions after deducting the amount of the first mortgage and other prior liens.

They can be made for sums up to $5,000 to farmers facing foreclosure or whose farms have been foreclosed but who still have a period for redeeming their property.

The loans can be made for 13 years with no instalments on the principle to be paid during the first three and with interest at 5 per cent.

Man Is Shot To Death When Five Bullets Lodge In Body

CORPUS CHRISTI, July 22. (AP)—Gus Singler, 31, as shot to death today at Aransas Pass, five pistol bullets striking him.

Walter Richardson surrendered a pistol to Deputy Sheriff May Keeper.

Richardson was held in jail at Sinton, facing murder charges. His examining trial was set for Monday at Sinton.

Murray Will Not Call An Election

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 22 (AP)—Governor William H. Murray said he would not call a special election in Oklahoma for the purpose of voting on repeal of the Eighteenth amendment. The legislature which recently adjourned adopted a resolution providing for submission of the question at the next regular election or the next special election.

"There won't be any vote before the primary election next July," said the governor. "I'm not going to call a special election on anything. They can wait until the primary to vote on it."

Man Given 25 Years In Pen For Slaying Last Christmas

TYLER, July 22 (AP) — Hiram Wright was convicted of murder and sentenced to 25 years' imprisonment late today for the slaying of Pete McKay at a dance at the Wright country home near Garden Valley last Christmas eve.

A defense motion for a new trial was made. The court will render a decision on this motion next Friday.

Pete's brother, Barney McCay, also was wounded fatally at the dance.

Demo Spending Seen As Issue G. O. P. Attack

One Of Oldest Issues In U. S. Politics First To Enter 1934 Campaign; The Republicans Claim Waste Made

BY BYRON PRICE
(Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)

WASHINGTON, July 22 — No matter how other issues may change between now and the congressional campaign of next year, the question of government expenditures seems already assured a large place on the hustings in 1934.

The democrats may be counted on to make the most of their scaling down of departmental spending, and of President Roosevelt's repeated warnings to congress that the budget must be balanced.

And it is against that very point in the democratic line that the first republican broadside has been principally directed. Representative Snell, the republican house leader, begins a detailed criticism of the administration by declaring the democratic congress went on a "spending spree," and ends it with a table setting forth tremendous totals for the democratic appropriations.

Mr. Snell also attacks the "new economy" of the Roosevelt regime. He enters the protest of an old guard which refuses to surrender an inch of its traditional principles. He does this, however, more or less incidentally, after he has talked at length about democratic spending.

On the question of special session expenditures he is dealing with a record already made, and not susceptible to change between now and election day.

Different Interpretation

THE developing issue is not over the amount of money authorized for expenditure. Republican and democratic figures are in substantial agreement. The question in dispute is just what these figures mean in terms of the burden they impose on the taxpayer.

The democratic thesis is that current running expenses of the government (that is, the regular departments) have been greatly reduced, and that special authorizations, including principally the $3,300,000,000 bond issue for public works, cannot properly be counted as a present expenditure because the government is borrowing the money and will pay it off over a long term of years.

Representative Snell calls this "trickery bookkeeping," intended to deceive the public into thinking the budget has been balanced when in reality it has not. He says any individual living beyond his income might similarly "keep two sets of books," entering his current living expenses on one and his accumulating debts on the other, but that such an operation would accomplish nothing but an eventual trip to the bankruptcy court.

The Gage of Battle

A GREAT deal more will be said on both sides of this question when the congressional campaign really gets going.

It is an issue already perpared beforehand; no matter whether general recovery is accomplished or not, the republicans are preparing to charge and the democrats to deny that whatever has been attained was purchased at the expense of public extravagance.

Thus one of the oldest issues of American politics is the first to enter the lists for 1934.

Relief Project Workers To Get 30-Cent Hour Minimum

WASHINGTON, July 22 (AP)—Workers on state and local relief projects financed through federal funds will receive a mininum wage of 30 cents an hour.

This was assured today under rules issued by Harry L. Hopkins, emergency relief administrator, who sought to carry out the spirit of President Roosevelt's reemployment agreement by setting minimum wages and maximum hours.

At the same time Hopkins announced that local relief units had been authorized to extend aid to destitute families of striking wage earners.

The rules issued by Hopkins said that no persons under 16 years of age shall be employed; that none shall be permitted to work more than eight hours in any one day, 35 hours in any one week or 150 hours in any month if the work involved is physical labor. If the work is in an office, the day is limited to eight hours and the week to 40 hours.

1200-Foot Long Structure Lifted Into Air By Storm

POINT EDWARD, Ont., July 22 (AP)—A freak windstorm, ripping with sudden fierceness over the loading sheds of the Canadian steamship lines here Friday lifted the 1,200-foot long structure into the air and dropped it on 107 workmen, killing one, injuring 14, and imprisoning all for nearly half an hour.

Russell Mair, 27-year-old Sarnia laborer, was killed by a falling beam. The others, caught under the falling wreckage, suffered injuries ranging from broken legs and arms to minor bruises. Physicians said they would recover.

"Pretty Boy" Floyd Writes He Stayed At Raton Hotel

RATON, N. M., July 22 (AP)—Signed "Pretty Boy" Floyd, a letter received here by Hugo Seaberg, hotel proprietor, stated that the much hunted outlaw had been a guest of the hotel on the night of July 9.

"I was registered under the name of Charles Hurd at the same time an Oklahoma sheriff and his deputies were hunting for me," the letter stated. It was mailed in Dallas, Tex., Wednesday.

tHE UgliEST hOuSe IN tHe WoRlD!

That's Proud Distinction Of Glen Ridge, N. J. Woman's "Defiance Manor"

BY PAUL HARRISON
NEA Service Writer

GLEN RIDGE, N. J., July 22.—Mrs. Daniel Aldsworth Warren, embattled resident of "Defiance Manor," the ugliest house in the world, is more confident than ever of victory in her single-handed campaign against the town council of Glen Ridge. She wants a change in the zoning ordinance so that her property can be sold as a business site. The town, however, has insisted that the place is in a restricted residential area.

For more than a year, now, Mrs. Warren has carried on her offensive. And "offensive" is right, since she has transformed the once sedate old mansion into a hideous monstrosity. The council thought a nice filling station or a store would be unsightly, did it? Well, she'd show it something really unsightly—a shrieking, clashing spectre that would give her uppity townsmen the jitters when they passed within a mile of it.

In a spirit of gay malice, Mrs. Warren went forth and bought paint. Yellow, jaundiced-looking paint, pink paint, purple paint, paint of a gangrenous hue, paint of an odious red. In wavering stripes and swirls, blotches and daubs, she smeared these assorted colors on the visible areas of her home from eaves to foundation. The result looked like a camouflage job executed by a mad modernist with delirium tremens.

A Real Riot of Color

It was a riot. Such a riot, in fact, that two policemen have been stationed there part of the time ever since to keep traffic moving on the street. From the pretentious new municipal building two blocks away came Mayor John H. Koch and his councilmen to view, shudderingly, this chromatic answer to their edict.

Mrs. Warren and her house got into the newspapers, and from far and near came letters of encouragement and commendation from sympathizers. "I believe," said she, "that there's an urge for mutilation in all of us—like the small-boy trick of painting mustaches on the people in advertising posters. I've had letters from business men, housewives, and even a minister, telling what they believe are the most awful color combinations. One cartoonist and two artists offered to paint grotesque figures on my house. People rght here in town (most of them are in sympathy with me) send in slogans, anonymously, to be posted areund the place."

House That "Jack" Built

Mrs. Warren is middle-aged, stoutish and well-spoken. And she seems a quiet and sensitive person in the privacy of her home, which, incidentally, is well furnished and in startling contrast to the garish exterior. There also is a Mr. Daniel Aldsworth Warren, a retired businessman, but he keeps in the background and is extremely reticent about the whole sensational business.

The couple bought the 13-room house, at No. 928 Bloomfield avenue, seven years ago as an investment. It was sold once, and repossessed on an unpaid mortgage. "Meanwhile," explained Mrs. Warren, "all through traffic had been routed over this street. It is now a main artery leading out of New York.

"In November, 1931, I went to the council with a petition signed by nearly everyone on this street to have it rezoned as a business section. We explained that it was no longer fit for residential purposes; that nobody could sleep with the traffic going past; and that the property value had depreciated until it could be sold profitably only for business places.

"The worst of it is that in the same block with our 100-foot lot are two junk yards, a public garage and a hair-tonic factory. Down the street are a metal polish factory and a lobster house. They were there before the area was restricted, so the council couldn't do anything about them.

"Well, the council voted a tie—three to three—and the mayor cast the deciding vote against us. I'll tell you I was mad! I decided I'd show 'em, and I'm doing it, too. They say I'll quit when I get tired of making myself ridiculous. As a matter of fact, I'm having more fun every day. I'm making exclusive Glen Ridge known from coast to coast as 'the town with the ugliest house in the world.' I have spent a lot of money and time making this place a first class, A-No. 1 eyesore, and I've only just begun."

Zoological Aspect

As she spoke thus farcibly, Mrs. Warren was waving a pair of red flannel drawers in a manner somewhat reminiscent of the fabled Barbara Frietchie and her flag. The unmentionables are to be worn by a negroid scarecrow which will flap dejectedly on the roof of the front porch. Two other ragged dummies already are ensconced there, together with a couple of discordant paintings of a blindfolded and somewhat deformed figure of "Justice." Additional pictures show a group of skeletons, labeled "Ghost Rulers," and seven hee-hawing jackasses. (There may be no significance in the fact that there are seven members of the city government.) Also there are wise-cracks and pictures of beer steins painted on the house, and in the front yard where the grass has been unbarbered for 15 months is a drooping clothes line bearing an assortment of weatherbeaten undergarments. At night a couple of floodlights illuminate the jumbled scene.

Mrs. Warren has a lot of deas about what to do with the few remaining vacant spaces. Also she intends to paint her concrete walk in red and yellow stripes, and to install a wrecked automobile on the lawn.

So far the civic pridesters have been unable to find any way of restraining all this defacement. But one of these days, rumor has it, a mysterious buyer is likely to walk in and offer the Warrens a great deal of money for the ugliest house in the world.

Seventeen of approximately 50 kerosene and gasoline inspectors appointed by Governor Hill McAlister of Tennessee are women.

First Annual Meeting Of Staked Plains Association To Be Held At Wayland On July 27 And 28

PLAINVIEW, July 22 (Special)—First annual meeting of the Staked Plains associational school of missions, is to be held at Wayland college Thursday and Friday, July 27 and 28, Mrs. R. F. Ivey, general chairman, announces. The meeting is on the order of an encampment, with those attending bringing supplies for the two days.

Five classes are to be held. Subjects and teachers will be:

Men's class, "In the Land of the Southern Cross," Rev. Willis J. Ray, Lockney, teacher.

Women's class, "Stewardship in the Life of Women," Mrs. J. Murray Malone, Plainview, teacher.

Young women's class, "The Word of Their Testimony," Mrs. E. H Perry, Plainview, teacher.

Two special groups, for children under nine and an open class, are scheduled. Mrs. Jeffries of Cotton Center teaching the former and Rev. J. Pat Horton, Plainview, the latter.

Saved In Crash

Mrs. Charles Rennie, above, floated in Lake Michigan for 30 hours on an airplane gas tank and saw her three men companions, including her husband, lose their holds on the tank and drown. Mrs. Rennie was rescued by a car ferry. The plane had crashed in fog.

Former, Present Husbands Of Gir Fight; One Dea

KENNETT, Mo., July 22 (AP)—gunfight between a former husba and the present husband of a 1 year-old Kennett girl resulted in th critical wounding of one and th suicide of the other here late yes terday.

Harry Bell, 24, who is now wedded to the former Jewell Hasty, wa seriously wounded by Arthur Pruett 44, the girl's ex-mate, who then turned his rifle on himself, inflicting fatal wounds.

Bell, a farmer of Pascola, 15 miles east of here, was rushed to a hospital at Poplar Bluff, suffering from abdominal wounds.

Pruett, who was shot twice by Bell before he committed suicide, was said by police and members of the family to have kidnaped Mrs. Bell a week ago, and to have held her at Gideon, 30 miles north of here, until Thursday night.

Bell's wife was the third wife of Pruett, who had been married twice since. She was married to Bell last January, but lived with him only a short time.

Union Men To Meet In City

Central Labor Council Calls Session For Monday Night; New Deal's Hours And Wage Scales To Be Discussed

Union labor men of Lubbock will meet tomorrow night at the Knights of Pythias hall, 1318 1-2 Texas avenue, for a discussion of hours and wages under the Roosevelt 'new deal', Fred Owens, electrician, announced yesterday.

The meeting will be held under the auspices of the Central Labor council beginning at 8:30 p. m., Mr. Owens said. Dick Gosden, representing the carpenters union, is president of the council, and N. L Ball, printer, is secretary.

Big Crowd Is Sought

The council urges every member of a union affiliated with the American Federation of Labor to be present, Mr. Owens reported, and particularly is it essential that members of the building trades unions be on hand.

The meetings here is in keeping with plans of William Green, American Federation of Labor president, for improvement of working conditions the nation over.

Mermaid

A cat, we are told may look at a king, but when pretty Edna Brown (above), a waitress, of Datchet, near London, went for a swim in the Thames River, recently, and landed on King George's estate, she lost her job for chatting with the monarch. Miss Brown didn't know that the stranger was her ruler, but the care takers of the royal estate made a fuss and she was discharged from her place of employment. However, the king may get her reinstated.

Sooner Banker Still Missing

Wife Of Man Returns To Home In Kingfisher; Declares She Went To Oklahoma City With Husband Wednesday

KINGFISHER, Okla., July 22. (AP)—Mrs. L. R. Carlberg, wife of the missing cashier of the First National bank of Kingfisher, which failed to open its doors Thursday morning, returned to her home in Kingfisher last night with her 7-year old daughter.

The young wife, near collapse with grief, told friends that she left Wednesday night with Carlberg for the home of an aunt in Oklahoma City. There her husband left her, saying he would be back by 11 o'clock, she added.

"He kissed me three times before he left," Mrs. Caldberg said, "and did not return. We waited up for him until 1 o'clock.

"Thursday I returned to Kingfisher for Betty May, our baby, and then went back to Oklahoma City hoping to hear from my husband. I have had no word whatever from him."

The bank is in the hands of C. R. Anderson, national bank examiner from Wichita, Kansas. J. A. Carlberg, father of the missing cashier and president of the bank for 30 years, is assisting in checking the books. Neither would make a statement regarding the bank's condition.

"My son left a note saying there were probably shortages," the father said. "I guess he had been playing the wheat market."

Oil Industry Is In Accord

Thousands Of Men To Be Put Back To Work Under Outline Of New Code; Retail Outlets Are Included

WASHINGTON, July 22. (AP)—In accord with the administration's idea to put as many people back to work as possible, the emergency national committee of the petroleum industry today voted to apply the 40 hour week to all retail outlets including agencies that handle oil products as a side line.

The committee, preparatory to the opening of hearings Monday before Hugh S. Johnson, the industrial administrator, also approved federal price regulation and licensing, an issue which has split the petroleum industry in the past few weeks.

Estimate Is Given

Harry F. Sinclair, chairman of the committee's labor sub-committee and advocate of bringing all retail outlets under the 40 hour week, estimated that its general application would mean putting from 250,000 to 300,000 men back to work as compared with an increase of employment of only 75,000 to 100,000 if all retailers were not covered.

The proposal as adopted provides that if maximum hours of labor and minimum rates of pay, in the opinion of the national recovery administrator, cannot be practically enforced among agencies handling oil products as a side line, they would be exempted but licensed to sell oil products not more than 40 hours a week and at prices not below those established by the administration.

Other Progress

Among other things in its day's work, the committee elected as executive committee of eight members, four from the major companies and four from the independents with Axtell J. Byles, president of the American Petroleum Institute as chairman.

This executive committee in substance will be the governing board of the oil industry under the proposed trade practice plan and act as liaison agency between the government and petroleum interests.

The committee approved 21 to 18 a proposal by Sinclair that it recommend to Johnson that the so-called lease and agency practice under which retail agencies are required to handle exclusively the products of one refiner, distributor, wholesaler or jobber, be prohibited in the code.

Some of the Standard companies and the Texas company, oil leaders said, opposed this recommendation and had proposed another rule which would permit refiners, distributors, jobbers or wholesalers to lease or sub-lease filling stations or sites for them for the distribution of their products.

Texas Tech Students Are On Tour To Include 15 States

Seven Texas Technological college students and Dr. J. O. Ellsworth of the department of agricultural economics are on a tour which will include 15 states in the Mississippi river region. They plan to visit farms and marketing institutions.

Members of the party, who left Lubbock July 15, are Mardes and Joe Clayton of Gail, Homer Brumley of Hereford, Cecil Kersey of Lubbock, Glenn Dobkins of Roaring Springs, Hubert Copeland of Tulia, Milton West of Lubbock and Dr. Ellsworth.

The party spent Friday in Kansas City. After covering the territory from Minneapolis to New Orleans, the students will return here September 2.

Annual Reunion Of Settlers Of "Strip Community" Is Set

ABERNATHY, July 22, (Special)—Annual reunion of the old settlers of the "Strip Community," near here, will be held Sunday, July 23, an announcement here says.

It will be held at the community school near Lakeview, with a family basket dinner on the ground. A large crowd from Lubbock and Hale counties is expected.

Young Screen Stars Show Summer Fashions

Here are some of the fashions which are being worn in Hollywood this summer. Organdie and chiffon are the favorites. A Reel Help

Patients Can Get Eyeful Too

COLUMBUS, O., July 22 (AP)—The shouts and screams that sometimes filled the office of one Columbus dentist when schoolboy patients called are ancient history now, thanks to the movies.

Youngsters need scant coaxing to climb into his chair, Dr. S. M. Hunzicker found, when assured Charlie Chaplin, "Our Gang" or "Felix the Cat" will perform from the small screen in front of them while the dentist derricks out a tooth.

An assistant operates a small motion picture projector while the dentist does his stuff. The screen is set just in front of the dental chair.

Children are not the only ones who like movies with their dentistry, Dr. Hunzicker has found.

The projector also has its scientific purpose. It can be used to show patients the result of X-ray photographs in greater detail than is possible from the small negatives.

New York taxicab drivers received about $26,000,000 in tips last year.

The finest electric refrigerator ever built

The New All-Porcelain Deluxe Frigidaire holds more food, freezes more ice and sets new standards of convenience and beauty

This amazing, new Super Series Frigidaire is as matchless in performance as it is in appearance. It holds ¼ more food, freezes large quantities of ice and offers a combination of conveniences never before found in any one refrigerator.

There's a roomy frozen storage compartment where meats, fish, poultry and ice cream may be kept frozen solidly until used. There are two big Hydrators for crisping and freshening vegetables — automatic defrosting — adjustable shelves — interior light — the famous Cold Control—ice trays that are released by a patented device at the touch of a finger.

And how you will appreciate the new style and beauty of this latest All-Porcelain Frigidaire! All resemblance to the old-time ice box has given way to lines and contours as modern as electric refrigeration itself.

Most important of all, the efficiency of the famous Frigidaire two-cylinder refrigerating unit has been stepped up 20%. It's extra powerful yet uses only a small amount of current even in the hottest of weather.

The new Super Series Frigidaire is now on display in our showrooms. Stop in and see it today.

SPORT — THE AVALANCHE-JOURNAL NEWS — FIRST ACCURATE COMPLETE

Lorenzo Meets Abernathy, Lubbock Plays Post To Open Tourney Today

First Game To Start At 2:30 This Afternoon

All Teams Are Strengthened By Outside Players; Abernathy, With "Flash" Walker Plays Lorenzo In Opener

With a promise of being small in quantity but rich in quality and fireworks, the second annual Avalanche-Journal Invitation baseball tournament gets off to a hot start this afternoon with four games.

Manager "Fats" Dillard's fast Lorenzo tribe, reinforced by the stronger players of the Ralls club, takes on Abernathy, a South Plains League team managed by Johnnie Rodgers and strengthened by the addition of several outside players, in the first game. Lubbock and Post follow as soon as the first game is over.

In accordance with tournament rules, all teams are to be on hand in uniform and ready to play at least half an hour before game time. It is requested of all managers to have teams on the field an hour before game time, so that preliminary workouts may be finished in time for the game to start when it is scheduled.

When double headers are scheduled, all four teams are requested to be at the field before the first game starts.

The first game of the double bill is slated to start at 2:30 o'clock at the finely groomed College Avenue baseball park, entrance to which is from Second street.

Low Admission Prices

Twenty-five cents will admit adult fans to the double header this afternoon. Children will be admitted for 15 cents. These prices will hold good throughout the week with the possible exception of the final and championship games, for which the price may be slightly raised.

The gate still is open for any additional teams which desire to enter the tournament, provided they so signify before Tuesday afternoon. Unless more teams enter, only one game will be played each day after today, but it was thought last night that several other clubs would change their minds and enter the fray. There is no entry fee, each club posting $10 as forfeit money, this to be returned when the team is eliminated or at the conclusion of the tournament.

The Lamesa club, winners of last year's tournament, indicated yesterday that it would not be here to defend its title, the management being unable to round up players. It is possible that the club may enter yet. Tahoka, Enochs and Amherst also signified that they might not enter. Previously, all of them had virtually promised to enter the tournament.

Ramblers With Post

The clubs entered have strengthened themselves to a great extent, and the games promise to be tough and hard fought. Post and the Lubbock Ramblers have thrown in together, the combination now considered a strong threat. Post already had a strong team, and the Ramblers were above the average on the South Plains. Together, the clubs should be hard to take out.

The Post-Rambler team will have two of the outstanding pitchers of the territory in "Rabbit" Middleton and "Bull" Thompson, local youth. Jack Thompson also plays with the club.

T. C. U. Star Here

An outstanding name on the Abernathy roster is "Flash" Walker, Ralls star enlisted by Abernathy for the tournament. He is the same "flash" who has starred on Texas Christian University teams for the past few seasons, making the all-Southwest conference cage team last winter.

Charles Presley and Lefty Ward, the latter a pitcher brought from Tulia and a not unfamiliar personage in this territory, will toil for Abernathy. The list also includes Herman Hanks, Percy Benson, Paul Keith, Scott and R. D. Prather, Truman Miller, Lefty Barrett, Ralph May, Dick Garner, Jean Crossland, Frank Helms, Bill Holloway and Ollie Walker.

Strong Mound Staff

Lorenzo is counting on its nurling staff of Carl Weiver, Monroe and Schluter to help carry it over the tide, and has a strong band of fielders and hitters to support the chunkers. The Lorenzo team has grown popular this season for its winning ability, having registered 18 victories. Although outhitting by almost double, the Lorenzo team was beaten last week by Tahoka, winner of the first half of the South Plains league season, 6 to 5, in a thrilling ball game. Jake Surratt, 17-year-old moundsman, and one of the three Surratt brothers playing for Lorenzo, held Tahoka to half a dozen blows.

Others on the Lorenzo team are Hershell Galey, former star catcher for Lubbocks Hubbers who is field manager for Lorenzo now; Carl Weiver, one of the most popular slingers of the section; Jeff Kezee, H. Wampler, Homer Surratt, Sam Gray, Leroy Huckabee, Cliff Eason, Van Galloway, Haden Moody and Guy Surratt.

The Hubbers, who oppose Post in the second game this afternoon, is due to be a strong contender for the title. The return of Harold Crites, hard-hitting, long-carrying, sensational-fielding outfielder, and Raymond "Evo" Marshall, to whom the same terms apply, to the Lubbock lineup assure a fast outfield, with Ed Hambright in the other position.

And A Fast Infield

Howard "Pus" Ballard at second, Cowboy Kyle at first, Burly Burleson at short and Cruck Webster or Dirty Waller at third promise a hustling and hard hitting infield. Volney "Satch" Hill and Manager Sled Allen are listed as catchers, with Lefty Wright the ace moundsman. Brownie Britt and Red Howell are also listed as chunkers.

There are no games scheduled for Monday, unless four or more additional teams enter the tournament. Tuesday's game will find the winners of today's contests meeting, with the losers of Sunday's games scheduled to play Wednesday or Thursday.

Unless additional teams enter the tournament, it is possible that managers may decide to play a three-defeat elimination tourney, although this was not definitely established yesterday. At least two defeats are necessary before a team is declared out of the running.

SPYING ON SPORTS

BY COLLIER PARRIS

BASEBALL TODAY and plenty of it at College Avenue Park. The first game of the second annual Avalanche-Journal Invitation tournament starts at 2:30 o'clock, with two of the toughest and best reinforced clubs of the territory slated to tangle. They are Lorenzo, who has won 18 games this season, and Abernathy, a South Plains league championship contender.

SLED ALLEN'S Lubbock Hubbers and the Post Antelopes will play the second of today's bargain bill. Post has thrown in with the Lubbock Ramblers, or vice versa, for the tournament, and you may look for a strong team. Either club is fairly stout, but put the best men of each together and you have a whizzer. The Hubbers are about the only club of the tournament which hasn't drawn in additional players, the reason being that the other clubs fairly beat Manager Allen to the much coveted stars of the Plains

Golf Loop On Home Stretch

Plainview Comes To Lubbock Today; Meadowbrook Goes North To Play Littlefield; Slaton Plays at Brownfield

The 1933 South Plains Golf league season starts down the home stretch today with only one more series of matches remaining after this afternoon's games.

Lubbock Country club, virtual champion with a big lead over its nearest opponent, will be at home to Frank Kimbrough and his hustling Plainview team this afternoon. Meadowbrook, having played out its home season, will go to Littlefield, and Slaton is scheduled to play at Brownfield.

Lubbock is a favorite to beat Plainview here today, in matches beginning at 1:30 o'clock, and increase its lead over the four lower clubs. Meadowbrook is slightly favored to take Littlefield and possibly keep up with the Country club, although 95 points behind the leaders in the standings. The Slaton-Brownfield matches are toss-ups, and due to see about the hottest golf of the day.

Captain Neil Vanzant of the Meadowbrook team requests all players desiring to go to Littlefield to be present at the Meadowbrook clubhouse by 11:30 o'clock this morning. Transportation will be provided for as many as sixteen players, he announced, although players are asked to bring their own cars so far as possible.

The season ends with matches of August 6, when Meadowbrook goes to Slaton, Brownfield plays at Lubbock Country club and Littlefield journeys to Plainview.

The standings:

Clubs—	W	L	Pct.
Lubbock C. C.	121	61	.665
Meadowbrook	98	84	.570
Plainview	79	82	.491
Brownfield	57	61	.483
Slaton	57	90	.388
Littlefield	28	81	.257

Senators Take Lead As Yanks Lose To Tribe

Cronin's Men Beat Detroit To Gain Full Game Over Losing Yankees; Athletics Win Two Over St. Louis Browns

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 22. — The Washington Senators again took top place in the American League by defeating Detroit 4 to 3 in a hard fought game that was not decided until the last of the ninth.

In the meantime, the New York Yankees dropped into second place, a full game behind the Senators, through a 2 to 1 defeat from Cleveland.

ATHLETICS TAKE TWO

PHILADELPHIA, July 22 (AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics won both ends of today's double header with the St. Louis Browns and took the series three games to one. The Mackmen won the first game 8 to 7 and the second 6 to 5.

Dib Williams' tenth home run of the season, coming with the bases filled, climaxed a seven run rally in the eighth inning to give the Athletics the opening encounter.

Jimmy Foxx' twenty seventh homer of the year with two on base in the third inning gave the A's a 5-0 lead that the Browns wiped out by scoring three runs in the fifth and two in the seventh.

Lott And Van Ryn Take Doubles Matches To Keep Americans In Davis Cup War; Need 2 Wins Today

Injuries To Vines Hurt U.S. Chance To Win Series

(By The Associated Press)

AUTEUIL, France, July 22.—The fighting American doubles team of George Martin Lott, jr., and John W. Van Ryn pulled the United States back into the thick of the Davis Cup tennis battle today with a straight-set triumph over the English pair, Frederick J. Perry and George Patrick Hughes, but the development of Ellsworth Vines' poor physical condition minimized the chances of saving the series tomorrow.

Lott's heroic play staved off another bad start for the Americans today and furnished the inspiration for the first U. S. victory in three straight matches. The set scores were 8-6, 6-4, 6-1 as the two ex-collegians finished with a blast of power.

Allison Meets Austin

England's two singles conquests yesterday kept the British forces in front 2 to 1, and they were heavy favorites to capture at least one of the two singles encounters tomorrow bringing together first Wilmer Allison and Henry W. (Bunny) Austin, then Vines and Perry, the rival top-ranking players.

Vines had two short workout today with an ankle bandaged, the result of a recent practice sprain, and bothered also by a pulled abdomen muscle. The American champion developed the abdominal injury while serving one of his "cannonball" shots, also in practice. He hurt his ankle the first time at Wimbledon but appeared fully recovered from this when he faced Austin.

Bernon Prentice, American captain, insisted Vines was in shape to give a good account of himself. His match with Perry will be an anti-climax unless Allison can stop the rampaging Austin, who lowered Vines' colors in straight sets and has been especially coached to combat both Americans.

Softball Schedule During This Week

In order that the American league season will not extend from three to six weeks longer than the National league season in the Lubbock Softball association, teams of the former organization will "double up" on their schedule for the next two weeks. By that means, the Americans will play only a week longer than the Nationals in the first half.

The doubling up was ordered yesterday by Ed Hambright, president of the Lubbock Softball association which has jurisdiction over both leagues. Each American league team will play two games this week and two next week. The National league ends its first half this week.

The National league schedule for next week is as follows:

Tuesday—City Hall vs. Avalanche-Journal; Wednesday —Texas Utilities vs. Meinecke Bros.; Thursday—West Texas Gas company vs. Kuykendall Chevrolet company; Friday —J. & J. Sporting Goods company vs. Lubbock Auto company.

The American league card for the week follows:

Monday—Hilton Hotel vs. Huie-Ribble; Lubbock Compress vs. A. W. McKee company; Tuesday—Peoples Ice company vs. Dee's Coffee Shop; Quicksall-Pryor vs. Federal Employees; Wednesday — Lubbock Printers vs. Weiss-Truck Terminal; Hilton Hotel vs. Peoples Ice company; Thursday—A. W. McKee company vs. Federal Employees; Quicksall-Pryor vs. Dee's Coffee Shop; Friday—Lubbock Printers vs. Huie-Ribble, and Lubbock Compress vs. Federal Employees.

The schedule for the last week will be announced next Sunday.

They're gaining on that elusive spector, the "Four-Minute Mile," and many critics believe one of the three great runners above will nail him before very long, particularly if they can be brought together in the same race. Cunningham and Lovelock are due to meet in Europe this summer.

Local Poloists Battle Lamesa

Captain Harold Griffith To Lead Lubbock Riders Into Contest Today With Strong Dawson County Lineup

Lubbock's polo team will make its second home stand of the season this afternoon when they meet a Lamesa club at the National Guard field at 4:30 o'clock.

The visitors today compose Lamesa's strongest lineup. It has defeated Lubbock at Lamesa, in two engagements. Lubbock has won two games over another Lamesa club, and will be battling today to overcome the "first" string and hold a one-game lead over the Dawson county opponents.

Crowd Expected

A large crowd of interested spectators turned out last Sunday to see the locals register a 12 to 5 victory over the Lamesans. Automobiles may be parked around the playing field and spectators may view the game from advantageous positions. A charge of 35 cents per automobile, or 25 cents per person is made at the gate.

Sheriff Gus White will lead the Lamesa club here tomorrow. A capable rider himself, he will have on his lineup the three Barron brothers and Bryan Fulkerson, all well known riders in that section.

Captain Harold Griffith probably will play the No. 1 position for Lubbock this afternoon, with Julian "Shorty" Williamson, who starred last Sunday, in the No. 2 position. Gaylord Hankins and Bob Hester probably will start, with Dock Harbaugh and Charles Taylor ready for relief duty.

Rotary Replaces A.B.C. As Leader

End of the third week of play in the Lubbock Junior Baseball league, which is sponsored by the four civic clubs of the city, finds the Rotary club team replacing the American Business club nine as league leader. The Rotarians have won four games while losing but one.

New uniforms and equipment arrived last week and with them a more eager attitude on the part of the youngsters, all of them under 17 years of age.

The first half of the schedule ends next week, and the first half race shall not be decided until the games are over. Either of the second place teams, each with three victories and three defeats, could emerge first half champion or at least in a tie for the first place by taking both its games this week.

The Rotarians and Lions must play three games this week, one previous game having been rained out.

In last week's games, the Rotarians won both their games, A. B. C. lost both, and Lions and Kiwanians split honors. Although at the bottom of the standings, the Lions club boasts one of the leading pitchers of the league in Charles Calhoun. Several new players were added to the Lions roster during the past week and the club promises much tougher opposition throughout the remainder of the season.

The league standings:

Clubs—	W	L	Pct
Rotary	4	1	.800
A. B. C.	3	3	.500
Kiwanis	3	3	.500
Lions	1	4	.200

Women's Joust Opens Monday

Feminine Golfers Of Lubbock Clubs May Qualify Monday Or Tuesday At Meadowbrook For City Open Tourney

The largest field of women golfers ever concentrated at one time on local links is expected to tee off Monday or Tuesday in the Women's City Open tournament at the Meadowbrook course.

The 18-hole qualifying round may be played at Meadowbrook either Monday or Tuesday. First round matches will be played Wednesday at the Country club course. Second round contests will revert to the Meadowbrook Thursday with finals at the Country club Friday. In the event more than three rounds are necessary, the tournament will be extended one day.

Mrs. Vernon Defends

Mrs. Rhea Vernon, Meadowbrook player, is defending champion, having won the title over a small but relatively fast field last year. She is one of the pre-tournament favorites, and will not be required to qualify for the championship bracket. Mrs. Vernon heads a cast of capable golfers at Meadowbrook.

Mrs. Marguerite Stiles, chairman of the women's division at the Lubbock Country club, promises a fast field of contenders from that organization, probably paced by Mrs. Paul Denson, wife of the Country club professional.

Prizes will be awarded winners and runners up in each flight, consolation flight winners, low medal scorer, and high scorer on a blind hole contest. The prizes have been subscribed by local business firms and by the two golf clubs.

Advanced Swimming Class To Be Offered At The City Pool

R. C. Douglass, jr., manager of City Swimming Pool is beginning an advance swimming course, for the benefit of those who took advantage of the beginner's swimming course and those who wish to improve their stroke.

The advanced course will deal with treading water, floating, diving, distance, artificial respiration, back swim, and surface diving.

When participants have completed the course, they will be in position to take examination of swimmers test given by the American Red Cross.

The two class periods for each group will prevent over-crowdedness, and let each individual have personal attention of the instructors. This is an effort to build more swimmers and life savers in Lubbock. Lubbock has more life savers, in proportion to the population, than any other city in Texas.

Gus Boehmer Beats El Paso Star For Midwest Net Title

OMAHA, Neb., July 22. (AP)—Gus Boehmer, jr., youthful net star from St. Louis, today won the men's singles championship in the Midwest tennis tourney here by defeating Russell Ball of El Paso, Texas, 6-3, 6-0, 4-6, 6-1.

Bill Kiley of Kansas City defeated George Ball, brother of Russell, for the junior singles title 6-1, 6-2.

Audrey Bartholomew, Omaha, took the women's title by trouncing Elizabeth Donohoe, Omaha, 7-5, 6-3.

Giants Divide Double-Header With Buc Clan

Leaders Take First, 1-0, And Drop Nightcap, 7-2; Braves Down Cardinals; Brooklyn Blanks Cincinnati

(By The Associated Press)

PITTSBURGH, July 22. — The Pirates and the New York Giants divided todays doubleheader and ended their six game series on even terms as Carl Hubbell pitched the league leaders to a 1 to 0 victory in the opener and the Bucs batted out a 7 to 2 victory in the second game.

A crowd of 27,000, the largest here in three years saw the twice-delayed double bill. The first game was interrupted in the eighth by a pop bottle shower as fans objected to Umpire Moran's decisions at first while the second was halted for an hour by rain in the first inning.

The split was costly to both teams as the second place Chicago Cubs won to reduce the Giants lead to 2 1-2 games while the Pirates remained four games behind.

BRAVES 9; CARDINALS 5

ST. LOUIS, July 22. (AP) — The Boston Braves pounded Bill Hallahan out of the box in the second inning today and won a slugfest from the St. Louis Cardinals, 9 to 5.

The Braves thereby advanced to fourth place and the Cards dropped out of first division.

After the Cards got four runs off Mangum in the first and third, Brandt held the locals scoreless until the ninth when the Cards made one run and filled the bases only to have Hornsby hit into a double play.

Swing Is Cut Down And Distance Lost If Left Arm Is Allowed To Bend

The long sweeping arc observed in the swing of an expert is acquired by an extended left arm. If the left orm is allowed to bend, the radius of the swing is reduced and distance will be lost.

The extended left arm also helps to gauge correctly the distance to the ball and connects the club with the hub of the swing, the left shoulder.

A slight bend at the top of the swing is permissible, but the arm must again be fully extended before the clubhead meets the ball. Any bend in the arm at impact can result only in heeling, topping, missing and other faults when the clubhead travels beyond or inside its intended path.

The extended left arm also is an aid to firmness which is necessary in the swing.

Motorcycle Polo Game Set Sunday

Captain Wade Anthony's Lubbock motorcycle polo team will meet the strong Wichita Falls aggregation here in a game next Sunday, July 30, Anthony announced Saturday. The game is a return engagement, the local boys having gone to Wichita Falls several weeks ago and won 12 to 4.

The game will be played at the Branson-Orr airport and is scheduled to begin at 2:30. The contest is under the sponsorship of the American Motorcycle association.

Anthony says the Wichita club is the strongest team the locals have played this year and a good contest is in prospect as the visitors will be seeking revenge for the defeat given them at home.

Following the Wichita game, the locals expect to hear word from national officials at Chicago regarding a national championship game to be played at the Century of Progress exposition. The Lubbock team is holder of the state championship, having defeated Fort Worth here July 4, and therefore is eligible to compete for the national title.

country. But the Hubbers will be strong enough to hold their own.

Lorenzo has combined its best players with some outstanding diamond performers of Ralls, and this entry is one of the favorites. The entire town of Lorenzo is expected to move out to College Avenue this afternoon, and every afternoon that sees Lorenzo in uniform. Big Hershell Galey, who wore the mask for Lubbock a couple of seasons ago, is field manager of the Lorenzo aggregation, and Fats Dillard is the bench manager.

YOU'VE heard of, maybe you've seen, Flash Walker, former ace of Ralls High school athletic teams, now one of Texas Christian university's best loved and most popular athletes, particularly when it comes to basketball, where Ralls and T. C. U. shine. Well, Flash has signed up with Abernathy to play second base in the tournament, and they tell us he's about the snappiest second sacker in these parts. Abernathy has drawn in several other out of town players, among them Lefty Ward, ace of the Tulia mound staff.

FUN AT COACHING SCHOOL

The vanguard of big shots who shall direct Texas Tech's third coaching school are to be given a rousing welcome on the night of July 31 when Tech entertains with another big "fun nite." Boxing and wrestling events between trained athletes will be staged in a specially constructed ring which will be located in front of the football grandstand. The floodlights will illuminate the place and fans will occupy the stadium. As a special feature, C. A. "Sheff" Sheffield will tangle with E. H. "Robby" Robertson in a heavyweight boxing bout. Visiting coaches will be introduced.

You shouldn't be disappointed with the brand of baseball in the tournament this week. The four teams mentioned above have gone out and got 'em, and they ought to pack 'em in.

IF YOU want to get next to this jinx called "depression," just try promoting a few baseball tournaments, or just try promoting baseball, in these parts. Maybe in any other parts. We got our first and major taste of it when we tried to take a hand in the proposed West Texas-New Mexico league, and lost everything but our spare tire (somebody cooped that at a basketall game last winter). For the past few days we've been trying to stir up interest in this tournament. After visiting ten or twelve towns and their baseball managers, we felt all up in the air about the proposition, thinking it would go over with a bang and that we'd have so many teams here this week we couldn't find room for 'em in the west part of town. That was the indication after talking with managers and players, who were all hot and ready to see action.

But, and here's where the rub comes in, when these managers tried to get their guys together for a series of week-day games, and sought for the ten bucks with which to pay the entry fee or the forfeit requirement, it was a different proposition. One by one they called in to say they didn't see how they could make it. The boys either were plowing cotton, jerking soda or doing nothing, either way being sufficient to keep them away from baseball except maybe once a week.

THERE'S been talk around that some of them were "scared" to come in, when it was learned definitely that Lorenzo, Abernathy, Post and Lubbock would be in. There may be something to that, there may not. Anyway, it is with deep regret that we forego the pleasure of seeing certain teams in the tournament. Lamesa and Tahoka were among the last to drop out, claiming that they just "couldn't afford it," and Amherst, Enochs, Levelland and Slaton put up the same story. Just why Wolfforth didn't enter, or hasn't entered, isn't quite clear, as the town is near enough that players can go to and fro during the tournament. Rumor had it that the club was "afraid," and another rumor that personal attitudes had something to do with it. It is to be regretted, as the club certainly would have proved a great drawing card. Maybe it will get in yet. The entry list doesn't close until Tuesday, although the tournament gets under way this afternoon.

Police Renew Liquor Raids

Woman Is Charged Saturday In Violation Of Pro Laws And Bond Is Set; Other Arrests Are Made Here

Coincident with filing of liquor possession charges against Babe Adams, 30, of the 2100-block of Twentieth street, before Victor H. Lindsey, United States commissioner, Lubbock police Saturday afternoon renewed a drive against beer and hard liquors. Bond was fixed at $500.

A 33-year-old man arrested last night by police with the Adams woman at her address pleaded guilty of vagrancy in corporation court Saturday afternoon and paid a $15 fine. The woman was charged with possession of about a quart of whisky, two pints of alcohol, and a pint of gin. Five cases of beer also were confiscated at the Twentieth street address, police said.

A 40-year-old man was arrested and about 200 bottles of beer seized by police Saturday afternoon in the 1400-block of Avenue E. Soon afterward, they arrested a 29-year-old woman and found about 60 bottles of beer in the 100-block of Avenue N.

BASEBALL'S BIG O

(By The Associated Press)

Wesley Schulmerich, now with the Phillies, replaced his teammate Chick Fullis in the Big Six yesterday as he registered one of the few important gains in hitting among the topmost batters of the major leagues. Schulmerich hit three out of four against Chicago for a seven point gain that lifted him from sixth place to third in the National League race. Spud Davis held his mark at .348 with one hit in three times up while the other Big Six members lost from three to seven points. Al Simmons, Joe Cronin and Chuck Klein failed to hit while Jimmie Foxx had only his 27th home run to show for nine trips to the plate. The standing:

Tech Enrollment Standing At 715

Second summer term enrollment at Texas Technological college totaled 715 students Saturday, President Bradford Knapp said. There were 1,082 students enrolled for the first term.

"The total number of individuals enrolled for the summer is 1,281, compared with 1,606 individuals enrolled for both terms of the summer school of 1932," said Doctor Knapp. "The reduction is 20.2 per cent. I feel that this is a very excellent showing in view of the fact that the legislature did not finish its work until the last day of May.

"Texas Tech and other colleges of the state could not know whether they would have funds for the summer school or not. The term actually opened six days after the legislature adjourned, giving a very short perio dfor advertisement and notice to prospective students."

President Knapp also pointed out that school teachers of many sections of Texas have been unable to cash their warrants, thus keeping them from attending summer school.

Muleshoe School Gets More Credits

MULESHOE, July 22 (Special)—Ten and a half additional credits have been granted the Muleshoe high school by the state department of education, Supt. W. C. Cox has been advised, making a total of 17 1-2 credits for the local school.

Last year the school received its first credits, seven. The additional credits enable graduates in the future to enter colleges operated by the state, without taking an entrance examination.

Storm Heads Toward Coast

Gulf Coast From Freeport To Corpus Christi Is Awaiting Disturbance; Warnings Are Being Posted

HOUSTON, July 22 (AP)—The gulf coast from Freeport to Corpus Christi tonight awaited a tropical disturbance of moderate intensity, scheduled to strike some time after nightfall.

While the Washington weather bureau in an advisory at 4 p. m. said the disturbance apparently had not changed its course, which would make it strike the Matagorda bay region, rising barometers at Houston, Galveston, Freeport, Port O'Connor, and changes in the wind direction at those points and Corpus Christi indicated the center of the disturbance may strike slightly to the west of the region named in the Washington advisory.

Warnings Posted

Northeast storm warnings, indicating a wind of from 30 to 40 miles an hour, were posted along the coast from Port O'Connor to Freeport.

Corpus Christi reported a falling barometer. The barometric pressure stood at 29.74 at 3 p. m. It stood at 29.80 there at ten a. m.

Rain was falling in Houston and a slight breeze was blowing. Coastal towns in the vicinity of Freeport and Port O'Connor reported varying winds up to 25 miles an hour.

The Matagorda bay region is sparsely inhabited, the only towns of any size on the shores are Palacios, Port O'Connor and College Port.

The disturbance consistently has been described as slight to moderate in intensity by the Washington bureau and it was believed here the wind would not exceed fifty miles an hour, which would not do much damage.

Rip Collins May Don Panther Uniform Today; To Meet Atz

FORT WORTH, July 22 (AP)—Warren "Rip" Collins, veteran right hand pitcher, who played in the big leagues for 10 years, expected to be in a Fort Worth uniform tomorrow afternoon when the Cats tackle the Beaumont Exporters in a doubleheader here. He has been notified to report to Manager Jake Atz tomorrow morning and if they can reach a salary agreement he will become a Cat.

Collins is coming here from his home in Austin, where he has been since he lost his job as a Texas ranger. He voluntarily retired from baseball in 1931.

Plains Cotton Figures Given

be $559,040.

The 1,494 farmers who pledged cotton acreage, should, on the basis of an expected yield of 159 pounds of lint per acre, harvest 27,361 bales of cotton. Last year the average was 268 pounds. The county's quota was 35,000 acres.

$500,000 To Be Paid

SPUR, July 22. (Special)—With 34 per cent of the county's cotton acreage pledged the government, cash payments to Dickens county farmers will approximate $500,000 says Grady J. Lane, county agent. Farmers signing number 990, the agent added.

His report shows 93,809 acres in cotton; 29,883.2 acres pledged; $110,267.50 cash payments; $139,824.25 on option payments and 5,128.23 bales of cotton under option.

The remaining 53,916 acres in cotton should, if the expected yield of 137.5 pounds of lint is made, produce 15,027 bales of cotton. Last year the lint averaged 157 pounds.

Dickens county's quota was 27,162 acres. The quota was reached easily, Lane said.

GARZA 22,281 ACRES

POST, July 22. (Special)—With 95 per cent of the farmers of the county pledging acreage in the cotton reduction drive, Garza county will plow under 22,281 acres, report of W. C. Taylor, emergency agricultural agent, shows. This figure is 37.9 per cent of the 58,705 acres reported by 617 farmers as planted to cotton.

Farmers divided about equally over the two payments; $87,613.50 is to be paid those taking the straight cash plan and $85,650.10 to those taking the option plan. Bales optioned were 3,177.

Line yield per acre was estimated at 128 pounds for the contract taking this the remaining 36,424 acres should produce 9,284 bales.

Acres pledged were nearly 50 per cent in excess of the 15,290 acre quota. Farmers are reported as expecting more than 128 pounds of lint. Last year the yield averaged 270 pounds.

TO GET LARGE SUM

PLAINVIEW, July 22. (Special)—More than a third of a million dollars in cash will come to Hale county farmers from the government in payment of the cotton acreage they offered for plowing under, W. W. Evans, county agent, reports. Reduction represents 47.5 per cent of the county's total.

Out of the 101,483 acres reported by 1,333 cotton farmers, 48,723 acres will be plowed under. Cash payments will amount to $245,567.58; option payments $133,621.55 in cash and 5,380 bales of cotton.

With a lint yield of 140.4 pounds per acre, the remaining 52,760 acres of cotton should produce 15,237 bales.

LEVELLAND REPORTS

LEVELLAND, July 22. (Special)—Hockley county farmers stand to raise over 20,000 bales of cotton after they have plowed up the 58,973 acres offered the government. These figures are based on the final report of W. T. Magee, county agent, on the cotton acreage reduction plan.

The county had 127,147 acres of cotton on 1,406 farms and these men pledged 58,973 acres, leaving 68,174 acres standing in crop.

Based on an estimated yield of 149 pounds of lint per acre, the remaining acreage will produce 20,316 bales.

Farmers will receive in cash payments $478,145, for option payments, $97,591 and 3,782 bales.

Last year a lint yield of 218 bales was reported. The county's quota for the drive was 26,480 bales.

TO GET $550,000

TAHOKA, July 22. (Special)—Farmers of Lynn county who offered 71,854 acres of cotton land to the federal government will receive over $550,000, report of Joe Williams, emergency county agent, shows.

Williams reports 175,641 acres of cotton land in the county, with 1,682 farmers offering 71,854 acres. For this, they will receive $243,738.60 on the all cash payment plan and $309,000 and options on 11,860 bales on the option plan. Lint yield this year was estimated at 128 pounds per acre compared to 183 last year. The quota for the county was 52,000 acres.

Based on the expected yield, the remaining acres will produce 26,569 bales of cotton.

TULIA GIVES REPORT

TULIA, July 22. (Special)—Three hundred and eighty-eight Swisher county farmers will receive nearly $90,000 for the 8,255 acres of land in cotton offered the federal government, final report of the cotton acreage reduction plan shows. C. B. Martin, county agent, has made his report to the federal government on the plan.

Cotton acreage in the county was 17,743. Cash payments will be $80,232.52 and $6,416.50 and options of 255.6 bales of cotton on the other plan. Contracts approved by the county committee were 388 in number.

Farmers, using the expected lint per acre yield of 155 pounds, should harvest 2,941 bales on the remaining 9,488 acres in cotton after plowing up their total. Swisher county pledged nearly seven times its quota of 1,234 acres, Martin said.

OPTIONS ARE TAKEN

BROWNFIELD, July 22, (Special) — Nearly two hundred thousand dollars in cash and options on 4,992 bales of cotton will come to 938 Terry county farmers who offered 31,633 acres of cotton land to Uncle Sam. This is the report of Raymond C. Reed, emergency agricultural agent handling the cotton reduction campaign.

Reed reports 68,823 acres of cotton belong to the farmers who offered 46.3 per cent of their total to the government. They will receive $63,065.51 in cash payments and $134,490.15 on the option plan, in addition to the bales optioned.

Lint yield this year is anticipated as 112.4 pounds per acre. On this basis, the yield should average 8,360 bales. Last year the yield was 197 pounds. Assigned quota was 26,502 acres.

QUARTER MILLION DOLLARS

FLOYDADA, July 22. (Special)—More than a quarter million dollars will be paid to Floyd county farmers by the federal government for the 30,596 acres offered the government in the cotton acreage reduction campaign just closed, according to records of V. S. Payne, emergency agricultural agent.

One thousand and fifteen farmers signed contracts covering 76,024 acres in cotton and offered 30,596 to the government. All-cash payment will be $130,605.50; option payment, $121,242.25 and 4,655.78 bales of cotton.

On the lint yield of 134 pounds for the year, 12,176 bales will be produced from the 45,248 acres remaining in cultivation. The county exceeded its 18,516 acre quota by 12,000 acres.

OFFER 38,003 ACRES

SNYDER, July 22. (Special) — Scurry county farmers reported 93,000 acres in cotton this year and offered 38,003 acres to the government for plowing under, according to W. R. Lace, emergency agricultural agent.

A majority of the 1,213 farmers signing up, elected the option plan. All-cash payments will be $69,095; option payments, $175,310 and 6,090 bales of cotton. Quota for the drive was 37,134 acres. Lint yield this year is estimated at 106 pounds per acre. On this basis the yield on the remaining 54,997 acres should be around 11, 659 bales.

Farmers in the eastern half of Borden county, 93 in number, offered 3,111 acres out of 6,655 planted to cotton, Mr. Lace reported. Cash payments will be $1,441; option payments, $17,441 and 588 bales of cotton. Lint yield is estimated at 104 pounds compared to 257 last year. "No quota was assigned but the farmers did ther part and then some," Lace added.

Stocks

WALL STREET REPORT

BY JOHN L. COOLEY

Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, July 22. (AP)—Following the ruthless battering of the past three days, stocks today recovered some of their losses and at the final gong many leading issues showed advances of fractions to 4 points.

At the opening, they were slightly higher but a fresh test of the vitality of the market came after about the first half hour and prices fell under their previous closing levels.

The market rebounded, however, on covering with the approach of the close, and on enormous volume for a Saturday session — 4,224,070 shares — the Associated Press-Standard Statistics average of 90 selected stocks rose half a point to 77.1.

Advances for the most part were well distributed throughout all categories. The alcohol stocks, which had been careening downward wildly since their recent joyride, were serene.

In the commodity markets cotton closed with a gain of from 15 to 70 cents a bale against extreme losses of 84. Silver was in active demand but other staples for the most part were nervous and irregular. The moratorium that prevailed in wheat futures yesterday was in force again by order of the Chicago board of trade. The bond market did a lively business, but prices were generally irregular.

Initial transfers on the big board were in huge blocks. Few sales of less than four figures were recorded by the overworked ticker during this period.

Cecil A. Cushman has been named head football coach at the University of Redlands, Cal.

KANSAS CITY REPORT

KANSAS CITY, July 22. (AP) — Cattle trade during the week at midwestern markets was featured by fairly broad demand for grain fed steers and yearlings at prices generally 15 to 25 higher, but instances of a 25 to 50 upturn on strong weight steers. Chicago had a top of 7.50 on several loads of 1240-1450 lb. steers and one load of yearlings. Western grass steers wound up on a 15 to 25 higher basis while most of the week's early decline on grass cows and heifers was recovered. Wintered Kansas grass steers sold upward to 5.75 and a spread of 3.50@4.75 took the bulk of the straight grassers. Stockers and feeder classes were in limited supply and quality for the most part was plain. Better grades are strong and off-quality kinds barely steady. Inishers paid up to 6.00 for fleshy yearling feeders while a few loads of well-bred grass steers went to feeder buyers at 5.00@5.50.

St. Louis and yearlings registered price uptrend, choice rangers to Chicago selling up to 8.75. Sheep ruled strong to 25 higher.

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, July 22. (AP) — Too few cattle and calves were offered at Fort Worth today to make a market. The few sales reported were at steady prices compared to sales of similar grades Friday.

Truck hogs sold at about steady prices with the top 4.50. Not enough sheep and lambs arrived to make a market.

Cattle receipts 200; calves 25; a few cull calves sold around 2.00 with packages of plain calves from 3.00@3.50; few canner and cutter cows 1.25@1.65; occasional sales of butcher cows 2.00; no good fat cows, steers or yearlings were offered.

Hogs 1,000 including 712 direct; bulk 175-250 lb truck hogs 4.25@4.50; few packing sows 3.00@3.50.

Sheep 200; quotations nominally unchanged with supply too light to test values.

Grains

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, July 22. (AP)—Outlines of the first broadly constructive plan to institute a rule of reason in the speculative grain trade took shape in Chicago today.

Preliminary to a national agricultural conference Monday at Washington, called by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, long-distance telephone talks between grain trade leaders here and government spokesmen in the national capital evolved a tentative proposal that instead of permitting unrestrained wide fluctuations in prices a method be adopted somewhat on the extreme advances or setbacks would be limited to a rule-of-reason range above or below $1.03 a bushel for wheat in Chicago.

The wheat standard of $1.03 a bushel here is equivalent to an average price of 88 cents a bushel on the farm, and is identical with the commodity parity aimed at by the agricultural adjustment law sponsored by the Roosevelt administration and recently enacted by congress.

Complete liberty to speculate at any range within reasonable limits either above or below the parity price would be preserved, the limits being say 95 cents as a minimum and $1.10 as a maximum. These specific limits, however, are not at present authoritative but illustrative.

Enforcement of whatever limits may be adopted would be attained by means of a government license system under the agricultural adjustment act. Traders in the various grain markets, Chicago and elsewhere, who did not subscribe to an agreement to refrain from buying or offering to sell grain outside of authorized price limits would be deprived of their rights to do business.

Highest officials of the country's grain exchanges are already en route to Washington to be in readiness to participate in prepatations for any action taken by the national agriculture conference.

finger to her mouth to "shush down" spontaneous conversation. In the family group were a few neighbors.

After Wiley's successful hop this week across the Pacific, his mother told an Associated Press correspondent, "something told me he had come through and would be all right."

She chuckled as she said her husband had had no such intuition, explaining that he "worried more than I did."

No one who knows Wiley's father could be fooled by his outer lack of interest in the flier's first world hop in 1931. Members of the family recalled how he had been displeased because Wiley left the farm to risk his life in barnstorm flying. But when his son and Harold Gatty, his partner in the first flight, returned home Mr. Post was on hand with other members of the family to greet the pair at Chickasha, the home terminus.

Now it is planned to have the Post family present at a homecoming reception for Wiley in Oklahoma City. The flier's father, no doubt, will stick to his plow to the last, but Mrs. Post said she doesn't believe he will "fail to show up."

Tonight, Wiley's mother reiterated her hope that "he will not make any more such hazardous flights, unless he has to." She said she wanted him to spend some of any profits he might make from the newest venture "to buy a home and settle down."

But Wiley Post has felt the urge of aerial ventures from the time he first envisioned the first airplanes that actually got up. He whittled models of them with his pocketknife as a lad. What will be his next dream?

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, July 22. (AP)—The cotton market continued nervous and erratic in today's short session but final prices were higher after further wide fluctuations. A late recovery in stocks helped the final rally, and the close was steady at net gains for the day of 27 points on July and 7 to 12 points on later positions.

The opening was steady as Liverpool came in better than due and sterling was firmer. Fresh waves of selling came on the market as stocks were easier and good rains were reported in the west.

The market quieted down for a period but in the late trading prices rallied rather sharply on short covering and October advanced to 10.24 and December to 10.44 or 44 points up from the lows. October closed at 10.22 up 11 points net, December at 10.40, up 7 points net and July sold right at the end at 10.03, up 27 points net.

Port receipts 16,018, for season 8,924,783, last season 10,090,638. Exports 19,792, for season 8,240,371, last season 8,475,500. Port stock 3,127,344, last year 3,456,803. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 122,409, last year 71,409. Spot sales at southern markets 8,302, last year 1,707.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, July 22. (AP)—An opening advance in cotton here today, met a renewal of liquidation which sent the price of December contracts down from 10.67@10.03 during the early trading, but offerings then tapered off and the market rallied on trade buying and covering. December closed at 10.50, with the general market firm at net advances of 3 to 14 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 13 to 37 points on a renewal of the buying movement which had been in progress at the close of yesterday's market and which was supplemented by considerable buying through houses with foreign connections.

Additional stop orders were uncovered on the decline which carried October off from 10.47@9.80 and March from 10.90@10.30 or about 60 to 67 points from the early high. Offerings then tapered off materially, however, and a steadier tone developed on a continuation of the trade demand, combined with covering or re-buying by some of the earlier sellers. Closing quotations showed rallies of some 47 to 50 points on active positions.

The opening advance here had the encouragement of relatively firm Liverpool cables and the feeling that yesterday's heavy selling had left the market in a much improved technical position. The renewal of liquidation seemed to take some of the early buyers by surprise and led to some reselling, but foreign and domestic trade interests absorbed the offerings and the buying broadened somewhat on the later advance. The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 138,000 bales ginst 77,000 last year.

Post Believes He Could Better His Record Again

Says He Could Make The Same Trip In Just Four Days

NEW YORK, July 22. (AP)—Wiley Post told friends tonight that "given a break in the weather" he could take off again in his ship, the Winnie Mae, and its present equipment and surpass the world flight record he had just established. He said he believed he could girdle the globe in four and a half days with good weather.

"Given a break in the weather," Post said while he was resting at a hotel, "I could take the Winnie Mae, with the same equipment and break my new record by making the trip in four days and a half."

Thousands Cheer

Nearly 50,000 cheering men and women pressed around the plane the instant it taxied down the field, but the tired pilot saw only one.

"Hello, Ma," he said to his wife in a soft voice.

"I'm pretty tired."

That was all Post had to say while he sat in his ship for several minutes before he was whisked into an automobile for a dash across the city to a New York hotel. He did pause for a moment to get a new eye patch for his left eye.

He and Mrs. Post were separated in the car by other passengers, but the airman reached over and patted her shoulder. She pressed his hands.

"I went to sleep at least 20 times between Edmonton and New York," Post said in his suite while he relaxed.

"But every time I would doze and drop the stick, I would wake up with a start. I do not know what makes an airman do this, but whenever the stick is dropped, he comes to."

Asked About Robot

Asked about the operation of his robot pilot, Post said:

"The automatic pilot functioned much better on the last lap of the trip.

"I had only three decent hours flying up to the time I reached Edmonton. One of these was before I reached Moscow and the other two were after I left there.

"The weather between Edmonton and New York today and tonight, however, was good until I passed Toronto. After that, I ran into a few thunderstorms and mist as I passed over New York state."

Revives On Ride

Post revived surprisingly during the ride to the hotel. A doctor who examined him pronounced his condition generally good, with a normal heart beat.

"Don't need it yet," commented Post laconically when someone suggested he get some sleep at once.

While a light supper was being prepared, Post took a shower. On the way into the city he had consumed food and coffee brought to the field by his wife.

Gatty, the companion of his first world flight, was in the car with him, as was Walter Harrison, managing editor of the Daily Oklahoman and Times.

Mrs. Myrtle Pease, San Diego, Cal., became California's women's pistol champion when she scored 193 hits out of a possible 200.

Thousands Greet Post As He Flashes Down To Landing In New York With A New Mark For Solo Hop Around World

lights, as he had been expected to, but flashed right down to a landing.

Wife Is In Car

In the automobile which carried him to his hotel where he arrived at 11:55 p. m., E. S. T., was his wife with a vacuum bottle of hot coffee she had carried to the field.

Although he flew the entire distance of approximately 15,400 miles alone, the first solo pilot to accomplish this, Post was aided by a robot pilot, a mechanical device designed to take over the controls in all but the most difficult flying. The robot failed to function during part of the flight, however, and Post was also beset by bad weather on much of his trip.

At 11:55 p. m. the dash to midtown was completed, and Post was half carried from the car into the lobby and taken at once to his room. He was hatless, and his hair was touseled.

Sirens Are Muffled

A squad of 18 motorcycles, their sirens muffled because of the late hour, accompanied him. About 100 men and women were standing under the brightly lighted marquee in front of the building, and cheered as the aviator's motorcade appeared.

With him were his wife, Thenholm, and one or two friends.

He was quartered less than ten blocks from the hotel in which General Italo Balbo and his airmen were staying.

Guests Are Aroused

Guests in Post's hotel, aroused by the noise of his arrival, leaned from their windows to get a better view.

Meanwhile, the crowd at the airport slowly began to leave. Earlier in the day there had been a possibility that they would see a takeoff as well as an arrival, for Maurice Rossi and Paul Codos had been hoping to leave before dawn on a flight to France.

Weather reports from across the Atlantic, however, were not favorable, and they decided to postpone their journey.

Post started his epic journey at 4:10 a. m. (Eastern Standard Time) last Saturday, July 16. He waved farewell to his wife and zoomed away into the sunrise.

Lands At Berlin

Twenty-five hours and 45 minutes later he came to rest at Berlin, setting a record for the 3,900-mile flight.

At 8:10 a. m. Sunday (Eastern Standard time) he took off for Novosibirsk, Siberia, 2,600 miles away, but after crossing into Russia he ran into clouds that hung so low he was forced to turn back and land at Koenigsburg, East Prussia, 315 miles east of Berlin.

There continued bad weather compelled him to take the rest he needed badly but which he wanted to deny himself for the sake of his enterprise, and he got away half a day later.

Alights At Moscow

But again he found Novosibirsk unattainable. Continuing bad weather and trouble with his robot pilot made him alight at Moscow and stay there two hours.

He finally reached Novorsibirsk at 10:27 a. m. Monday (Eastern Standard time). Fay Gillias, American aviatrix and only woman member of the "caterpiller club," was waiting to take charge of him and his ship, act as his interpreter and superintended the refueling while he napped briefly in a hangar.

The flier's next hop took him to Irkusk, where he landed at 7:35 a. m., Tuesday (Eastern Standard time) and remained less than four hours.

Flight Is Perilous

The flight west from there was one of the most perilous of his whole trip. Low clouds forced him nearer and nearer the ground and at one point his fuselage scraped the tree-tops. At 6:32 a. m. (Eastern Standard time) the next day he reached Rukhlovo, where he remained until 3:25 in the afternoon.

When the airman left Khabarovsk to shoot across the Pacific at 9:53 p. m., Wednesday (Eastern Standard time) he had a lead of more than 30 hours on the old record, and he zoomed into Alaska in quick time, being sighted over Nome at 1:30 p. m. the next day.

He encountered a heavy fog there, however, which balked his intention of flying on to Fairbanks, 400 miles inland, and after losing precious time flying around in what he calls "soup," he was forced down at Flat, west of Fairbanks, seven hours after Nome had spotted him.

Plane Noses Over

His plane nosed over and his controllable-pitch propeller was smashed. Arrangements were made quickly, however, for Joe Crosson, famed trouble-shooter of the Arctic airways, to rush him a new blade and guide him into Fairbanks at 3:42 p. m. Friday (Eastern Standard time).

He jumped the 1,450 miles from there to Edmonton in less than 10 hours, back in his stride once more, and little more than an hour later he was off on the last lap—to glory, and bed.

Directional signals and apparatus to receive them, details of which were closely guarded, were furnished by the United States army—the first time they had been used on such a venture.

Post gave them credit for guiding him straight to Berlin across the Atlantic and again into Alaska on his Pacific hop. So carefully has the apparatus been guarded that a rumor got out the flier had been ordered to destroy the instrument if he should find it necessary to make a forced landing, in which he might be disabled. This later was denied.

Grain Trading

Minneapolis, Kansas City and Duluth, are expected by the department of agriculture to take similar action when they reopen, probably Monday.

The Chicago market is the chief center for trading in futures which the restrictions will principally affect. Trading at the other markets emphasize cash transactions more importantly and largely reflect the trends of prices established by futures trading at Chicago.

There is a prospect that the Chicago market will remain closed Monday when a conference of representatives of grain exchanges and other phases of the industry will be held here with Wallace and farm administrators in an effort to plan a method for bringing about greater stability in grain prices and reducing speculation.

Other Conferences

Later, it was reported, this conference will be followed by others aiming to achieve the same purposes for trading in cotton and other farm commodities.

The revelation of the position of the "long" trader was made in a statement from the department of agriculture which opened:

"An astounding illustration of the result of individual unrestrained speculation as it affects commodity prices has been brought to the attention of the president and the secretary of agriculture.

"During the last administration a regulation requiring the reporting of all large grain holdings on the Chicago board of trade was rescinded and the regulation was not revived by this administration because it was believed that individual speculators had learned that it was contrary to public policy for individuals to gamble so heavily in wheat, corn and other grains that the prices to the farmers producing the grain could be thrown wholly out of line with the broad economic situation.

Reinstate Old Order

"Early this week the department came to the conclusion that the old order calling for information should be reinstated and this was done on Thursday.

"Today it turns out that one man, who had been 'long' on corn by roughly 13,000,000 bushels and was probably also long on other grains to the extent of several million bushels was caught in the decline of prices during the past few days, was unable to put up any more margin and would have to be sold out.

"This selling out process would mean in effect that by Monday morning, his brokers, 17 in number, would be compelled to dump 13,000,000 bushels of corn and several million bushels of other grain on the market and this dumping would naturally cause a severe break in grain prices—all the result of the selfish speculation of one individual.

One Of Several

"This speculator is only one of several who have traded wildly in large volume on both sides of the market.

"In order to protect the farmers and farm prices the Chicago board of trade has suggested and the department has approved action by the board setting closing prices as of Thursday, the last market day, as a minimum price below which no trading would be allowed until further notice. Fluctuations for any one day are being limited to five cents a day for wheat and grains in proportions."

Secretary Wallace communicated with Peter B. Carey, president of the Chicago board, and advised him that "strong action quickly" would be expected.

Plan Is Approved

Meanwhile, Wallace held a long conference with George N. Peek, chief administrator of the farm act, Charles J. Brand, co-administrator, Dr. R. G. Tugwell, assistant secretary of agriculture, and others of his intimate advisors to formulate a plan for achieving greater price stability.

They approved the plan for minimum trading prices and maximum daily fluctuations as a temporary expedient but resolved to concentrate without further delay on a broad program of reform for commodity markets which may require some time to develop. Reduction of the volume of speculation in markets will be one aim of the new program.

REAL NEWS!

New Deal Tailors Announce Opening

"The public be served." Pledged to keep this aim constantly in mind, L. B. Price yesterday announced the opening tomorrow of the New Deal tailoring service.

"This is the spirit of the president's 'new deal,'" Mr. Price thinks, "and we pledge ourselves to short working hours, high wages, quality work, and a fair price."

The New Deal tailoring service is located at 1203 Broadway and will do cleaning, pressing, and sell tailored-to-measure suits. All work will be given careful attention, Mr. Price promises, and he guarantees courteous and satisfactory service in every instance.

"While we expect to guard jealously a reputation for quality work," Price pointed out, "we are also proud of the fact that our prices will not advance in restraint of trade but will wait until inflation of the dollar is actually here.

"The public be served' is a motto we expect to put into every day practice."

SHAW REVEALS TERMS UNDER WHICH OWNERS MAY RECEIVE AID

DALLAS, July 14 (AP) — James Shaw, Texas manager of the Home Owners' Loan corporation, revealed today the terms under which harassed home owners might be aided by the government's plan establishing primarily to refinance mortgages on small homes.

"Loans to be eligible must be upon homes of valuation not exceeding $20,000 and the maximum that can be loaned is $14,000."

Notice-
Prospective Home Buyers

Read these two extracts from an interview with James Shaw Texas manager of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation.

Previous owners are rushing in to obtain loans to repossess their lost homes, those under danger of foreclosure are arranging to refinance their loans.

The day of "Low Priced Foreclosures" is about over. You will pay more for a home shortly.

I have for sale forty such foreclosure bargains today in Lubbock AT THE OLD PRICE for a short time only. Five room brick veneers as low as $949.00 and up to $1980 for the very best six room bricks.

"The law provides," said Shaw's statement, "also that in cases where citizens have lost their homes by foreclosure that the corporation may advance funds to redeem such homes . . .

If you are a SPOT CASH BUYER you will pay for putting off buying a home. Residents of Slaton, Plainview, Floydada, Levelland, Lamesa, O'Donnell: I have like bargains in your towns also. Write me for prices.

Grain Dealers To Gather This Week

South Plains persons interested in flour mills or in the handling of grain or grain products are invited to attend a series of meetings in Fort Worth this week when codes for the industry will be discussed.

The invitation was extended by G. E. Blewett, secretary treasurer of Texas Grain Dealers association. The program has been announced as follows: Wednesday, 9 a. m. terminal grain elevator operators; 2 p. m., commission merchants and brokers; Thursday, mixed feed manufacturers and feed dealers; Friday, country elevator operators, country grain shippers, farmers co-operative associations, farmers union association, and seed dealers; Saturday, flour millers.

The United States took about 10 per cent of all Italian exports in the last year, two-fifths of the purchases being foodstuffs and cheese being the largest single item.

Richard Dix And Wife Separate

Richard Dix, motion picture actor, and his wife, the former Winifred Coe, San Francisco society girl, have separated. "There are no hard feelings," the actor said. "We talked it over and decided a separation was best. We enjoyed different things. A divorce was never discussed." (Associated Press Photo).

Italy's Vocal Maestros Is Now Under Eye Of Mussolini

ROME, July 22 (AP)—Unskilled singing teachers will be forced out of business under one of Mussolini's latest decrees.

It sets up a committee of experts to look into the qualifications of Italy's voice maestros. Those who cannot produce a diploma from a recognized academy must shut up shop.

The decree was issued when the Duce received complaints that persons of sparse vocal attainments but sharp business acumen were profiteering off the country's reputation for voice preparation.

Home Demonstration Work To Be Reported On Monday

A committee of the Lubbock County Home Demonstration council is to appear at 10 o'clock Monday before the commissioner's court to present the six months' report of home demonstration work. Since the report was prepared another club, at Southwest Ward, Lubbock, has been formed with 17 members, bringing total to 451.

Mrs. V. L. Cade, council chairman, will be present as well as the following members of the educational committee; Mrs. G. K. Horton, Mrs. Gene Blakeley, Miss Oma Merrill, Mrs. G. L. Stell and Mrs. C. S. Davis.

Louise Slater, of Union, will make a report for the girl's work.

Blank Permits Awaited Here

Scores Of Farmers Visiting Office Seeking Information On Plowing; Instructions Must Be Given

Blank permits to plow under cotton contracted to the federal government had not been received late Saturday, County Agent O. G. Tumlinson said. He has been waiting since Friday for the permits and instructions on how the plan operates.

Scores of farmers have visited the agent's office the past three or four days seeking information on when to plow their cotton. Several communities have had a representative call at the office several times a day.

"Hundreds of dollars have been spent by farmers for gasoline to drive here asking about when they can start," the agent said. "Washington is giving interviews to newspaper reporters advising farmers to 'see your county agent and get your permit.' Saturday morning over the radio I heard the same thing.

"We have received several wires here in the office telling us not to issue temporary permits or other permits until we get instructions from Washington."

Tumlinson plans to be in his office Sunday in case the permits arrive. As far as he knows now, the papers will be handled through local committees.

Chrysler Boosts Pay 10 Per Cent

NEW YORK, July 22 (AP)—Affecting some 45,000 persons, the Chrysler corporation announced a 10 per cent wage increase for all employes in the United States, effective with the current pay period.

The announcement did not say if the increase was a restoration of a previous slash in pay.

Thirteen zinc and lead mills in the tri-state district around Picher, Okla., were prepared for reopening when demand showed signs of picking up recently.

WHITE HYACINTHS . . . to feed the soul

A GREAT department store, one of the largest in the country, published a most unusual advertisement. "Buy something you don't need," it read. And there is a sound and worthy philosophy beneath that seemingly cold and calloused plea—a philosophy that has endured for centuries.

"If I had two loaves," wrote the Persian poet, Sadi of Shiraz, "I would sell one, and buy white hyacinths, to feed my soul." And throughout all history, men have sold their loaves to buy white hyacinths.

We would modify the exhortation of the department store. Buy something you could do without, but something you very much want . . . The antique chair you've been promising yourself. The new carpeting for the dining-room . . . The electric grandfather's clock, or the sterling silver.

Values were never so great, for the amount expended, as now. You have only to turn to the advertisements in this newspaper to be convinced. Here is written a story too important for you to miss. And very often you will find you may keep both loaves . . . and have your hyacinths as well.

Farm Bureau Meets Friday

Two Hundred Residents Gather At Monthly Session Held At Hurlwood; Reports On Work Are Offered

Two hundred residents of Hurlwood community Friday night attended the monthly meeting of the Lubbock County Farm Bureau Federation in the school house. The program scheduled for the previous Friday night, with the exception of two out-of-town speakers, was carried out.

Mrs. W. W. Ferguson presided as local chairman. Miss Evelyn Horton, club girl, welcomed the visitors. Miss Dorothy Horton made a report on her bedroom work, she having won the county contest and placed third in the district, winning a trip to College station.

Report Is Made

Flora Cates, another club girl, made a brief report on her garden. She reported her garden, 72 by 115 feet, had enabled her to can 549 quarts of vegetables this season, valued at $219. For her work she also won a trip to the Dallas state fair.

Special music was furnished by Mr. and Mrs. Murray South. Women of the home demonstration club sang a special number, "The Progress of the Farmer."

A home talent play, "Across the Fence," was given by the workers of the community.

H. L. Gantz, director of organization of the Texas Cotton Cooperative association, spoke on the work done in the south by the American Cotton Cooperative association and in Texas by the T. C. C. A. He urged more attention to organized agriculture.

Among those from Lubbock were: Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Foster, H. L. Gantz and daughter, Miss Evelyn Gantz and George C. Cooper and daughter.

Local Groups Attend Course

Two Groups Of Lubbock County Men And Women Leave Saturday To Attend Short Course At College Station

Two groups of Lubbock county men and women left Saturday for College station to attend the annual short course sponsored by Texas A. and M. Work of handling the cotton acreage reduction program prevented attendance of O. G. Tumlinson, county agent and a number of men who remained in order to plow under cotton.

Women making the trip included: Mrs. A. R. Pendley, manager of the county market; Mrs. T. B. Prestidge, representing the county H. D. council; Mrs. Tom B. Cox, Foster; Mrs. G. L. Stell, Idalou; Mrs. S. V. Johnson, Mrs. Jack Combs and Miss Lillian Ecklund, Union; Mrs. L. C. Lincecum, Becton; Mrs. O. R. Copeland, Slide and Mrs. Bennett Lane, Carlisle.

Agent Leaves Today

Miss Isla Mae Chitwood, home demonstration agent, is leaving this morning. Wayne Shell, Fred Elliott and J. B. Potts also were in the party, driving cars for the women. Club girls who went were: Dorothy Horton, Hurlwood, winner of the bedroom improvement contest; Flora Cates, Hurlwood, third place winner, Myrel Carter, New Hope, fourth place winner, and Almeta Squires, County Line, honorable mention.

James C. Burroughs drove a truck on which 4-H club boys and several men rode. They included R. N. McClain, assistant county agent; W. E. Fry of Levelland; Owen Powell; J. L. Irish, jr., County Line; Laverne Pounds, Acuff; Junior Whiting, Becton; Clifford Jones, Becton; Phillip Brashear, Acuff; Ernest Shelley, Becton; Dan Spires, Idalou, and James Bearden, Center. Several other men planned to go later.

Trade Balance Is Seen Unfavorable

WASHINGTON, July 22. (AP) — The first unfavorable trade balance since August, 1931, was shown today in export and import figures for June announced by the department of commerce.

Exports amounted to $119,900,000 while imports amounted to $122,000,000.

In August, 1931, there was an excess of imports of $1,871,000.

For the six months ending with June this country had a favorable trade balance of $77,544,000 as compared with $93,226,000 in the same six months of last year.

In the 1933 period exports totaled $669,475,000 and imports amounted to $591,931,000.

The United States lost $3,244,000 in gold in June, having exported $4,380,000 and imported $1,136,000.

It gained, however, $15,129,000 of silver, importing $15,472,000 and exporting $343,000.

For the six months of the year gold exports have been far below the imports with a total of $93,703,000 going abroad and $183,514,000 coming into this country. The gain of $89,811,000 compared with a loss of $619,988,000 in the similad period of 1932.

Cotton exports played an important part in the June exports, amounting to $28,999,000 as compared with $25,737,000 in May and $13,275,000 in June, 1932.

Balbo Silences Rumors That He Is A Bachelor; He Calls His Wife By Wireless Telephone On His Jaunts

NEW YORK, July 22. (AP)—If, by any chance, you think General Italo Balbo doesn't actually fly his own of the 24 planes he headed here across the Atlantic from Italy, then you have another think coming.

The general himself said so today. "Fly my own plane!" he exclaimed in response to a question. "Of course I do. If I don't, what do you think caused these callouses?"

He threw up his hands, opened his palms and sure enough there were the callouses — several of them.

The general said it's no secret that he calls his wife by wireless telephone every night regardless of where he is—flyng or on the ground —and so he can't understand how word ever got around that he is a bachelor.

He also calls Mussolini. He does this from his plane. He did it while over the Atlantic, and he did it while flying over New York upon arriving here last Wednesday.

The general said he and his fleet would start their return flight to Europe next Monday morning. They will fly to Newfoundland, rest there a few days and then head out over the Atlantic. He has not decided whether he will take the northern or the southern route.

Balbo is enthusiastic about the reception New York gave him.

He said that he hoped to see Wiley Post when he arrives from his record-breaking trip around the world.

"If he reaches here early enough tonight I shall meet him at the field," he said. "Otherwise, tomorrow."

Six Members Of Family Are Dead In Italian Poison Plot

MESSINA, Commune of Ficarra, Italy, July 22 (AP)—All seven members of Nicolo Criso's family except himself died today as a result of what police called a poison plot caused by Criso's business quarrel with Carmelo Messina.

Messina was arrested with his entire family. Officials said the Messinas poisoned the Crisos' water supply which was used to cook the family meal.

Criso, 73, escaped because he refused to eat the untasty food.

Horseback Ride At Midnight Results In Injuries To Girl

TAHOKA, July 22.—(Special)—An irresistable impulse to take a horseback ride at midnight got two little girls into trouble and one of them was seriously injured.

Eva Mae Green, 8, and Bertha Green, 5, visiting at the home of O. W. Green, their grandfather, awoke about midnight recently and decided to take a horseback ride. Slipping out of the house, they went to the horse lot where they bridled two apparently domesticated animals.

The girls started to ride but the horses, unused to such performances, rebelled and Bertha was thrown as her horse crashed into a gate. The horse became tangled in the wire and trampled the five-year-old girl.

Her cries and those of her older sister, awakened her parents and grandfather and she was rescued. Her body was badly bruised from head to foot an she was cut in many places. Fever followed the injuries but she is recovering.

Name Counselors For Annual Camp Of Lubbock Girls

Counselors for Camp Wohelo, annual Lubbock Camp Fire girls' camp near Tulia, have been announced by Miss Elizabeth Conner, city Camp Fire executive, who will be in charge of the camp. Dates this year are from July 30 to August 6.

Miss Ethel Green, a junior at Texas Technological college, is to teach hand craft. She is guardian of the Sunowa group.

Nature craft is to be taught by Miss Elizabeth Montfort, a junior in the agricultural division at Tech college.

Miss Mary Frances Gale, the only girl life saving examiner in Lubbock, will teach swimming. Miss Gale, a graduate of Tech college, has been swimming counselor at the camp for the last two years.

Others Have Places

Miss Fern Holland, Tech senior, is to teach music. Miss Holland, assistant guardian of the Sunowa group, was music counselor last year.

Miss Inez Hensley, junior in Tech college where she is president of the Y. W. C. A., is to be in charge of dramatics and devotionals.

Miss Leona Gelin, Tech graduate, is to teach flag drills and games. She is guardian of the Wakishaka group.

The camp dietitian will be Mrs. Arch Harper, who served in that capacity last year.

Other Lubbock guardians who will attend the camp are Mrs. J. P. Giles, Miss Mary Green and Miss Vera Johnson.

Attractive Feature Of Small Garden Is Pool For Gold Fish

BY BLANCHE BEAN WILSON
Woman's Editor

As back-yard gardens gain in favor in the city, the addition of fish ponds to the flowers, trees and grass plots also grows in popularity.

One of the most attractive of the small places is that of Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Blocker, 1515 Fifteenth street. There is no separating hedge or fence between the front and back lawns, although most of the small back yard is hidden from the street by their cottage. And in a small space there, the Blockers have a grassy plot, flowers and a small pond, all this together making an attractive and comfortable out-door living room.

Although the place is small—a vest-pocket edition of a garden—it does not have the appearance of being crowded. This is achieved, principally, by the informal arrangement of the pond and by keeping the flowers in plots at the sides of the yard, leaving a sweep of grass unbroken.

Looks Natural

The pool is the center of their plot. It is small but informal in shape so that it has every appearance of being a natural body of water. Back of the pool is a small rock garden, covered principally by ground ivy, and there is a growth of grass and flowers that might have been placed there by nature.

One of feature of the Blocker place is that the family has done all of the work. The pool was planned by Mrs. Blocker and made by her and her sons last year. It is lined with cement and partially filled with water lilies. A few rocks have been placed around the edge to help with the natural setting. Goldfish live in the tank and, since they are fed regularly, come to the surface when people appear on the rim.

There is one bunch of arrow-head in the pool, in addition to the lilies.

Along with the other plants on the rim there is some tall grass that was brought from Yellowhouse canyon.

The informal theme of this pool has been repeated in shaping flower beds in the back yard of the home. Although there are a number of flowers planted there, much of the space has been devoted to grass. Folding chairs are kept near, so that the Blockers have a pleasant place for entertaining as well as for spending their time.

Another small back yard that has a pool as the center of attraction is that of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Williams, 2514 Twenty-First street.

Has Rustic Well

In addition to her pool, Mrs. Williams has an old-fashioned well built into her yard and a small stream leading from the well to the pool proper.

This pond is more formal than the Blockers and the general arrangement of the yard is more formal. At the back of the garden

Announcement Tea Friday Is Pretty Affair

Miss Georgia Mae Foster Is To Be Married To Bradley Gambill Here On August 1; Sisters Entertain

The engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Georgia Mae Foster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Foster, 1923 Broadway, and Bradley K. Gambill were announced Friday afternoon at a tea given in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Carter, 2009 Seventeenth street.

Three of the bride-elect's sisters, Mesdames Carter, Earl Moore and T. G. Waldrip, entertained. About seventy guests called. The couple is to be married on August 1 at the Foster home.

Miss Frances Larmer met callers at the door. Mrs. Carter stood at the head of the receiving line, which was composed of Miss Foster, Mrs. Mattie Jones, Miss Fannie Gambill, Mrs. S. A. Henry and Mrs. Moore.

Others Assist

Mrs. Madeline Larmer poured tea and Miss Valla Foster presided at the guest book. Others who assisted the hostesses in receiving and serving were Miss Ollie Virginia Waldrip, Evelyn Stewart, Louise Bates and Mrs. Leonard Cole.

A silver service was used on the tea table, which was covered with a lace cloth over pink and centered with snapdragons and sweetpeas. Pink candles were burning.

The announcements were made on small cards on the refreshment plates.

During the afternoon, Mrs. A. C. Sailors and Mrs. J. T. Shaver sang and Mrs. Cole played accordion selections. Miss Loula Denham accompanied for the singers and played piano selections.

Misses Larmer and Stewart are entertaining at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in Miss Larmer's home, 2218 Sixteenth, complimentary to Miss Foster.

Mr. and Mrs. Brooks Penney have gone to Rotan to make their home.

You Will Warm Up To This Paris Idea

Over a plaid organdie dress in red and white, (left), Patou places a "third piece" of black velvet in the guise of a draped sleeveless vestee. Black velvet mittens are charming and practical for nights that are a little cool. The black and white coin dotted organza evening dress, (right), gains all the protection against a chill summer evening by the adding of a "third piece." The faille vestee, which buttons at the waistline, gives warmth without being cumbersome.

Short Jacket Is The Ideal Thing With Evening Dress

BY JEAN PATOU
Written for NEA Service

PARIS, July 22. —The selection of a collection of evening dresses for summer presents a real problem t the woman who wishes to be well dressed. She is first of all tempted to choose the most summery, therefore the sheerest creations which, after all, are best suited to the season's functions. Yet she is aware that these attractive creations have a drawback and that is that more than probably, as the evening draws on, she will not be sufficiently protected.

While a woman can very well wear a satin dress in the summer, the very nature of the fabric makes it always somewhat formal and therefore does not convey a summery impression. A summer evening dress is always visualized as something almost tangible and vaporous, in lace, chiffon or tulle. But then comes the vexed problem of the wrap.

It is in consideration of this possible inconvenience that for many seasons now I have included a third piece in my summer ensembles, which a woman can retain after having discarded her wrap. This third piece has figured before in summer wardrobes in the guise of the "dalmatique." This was always a loose garment, sleeveless and very light, not as cumbersome as a wrap but offering a certain amount of protection. It was useful without being embarrassing.

Aside from the summer fur cape or wrap, there is only one possible evening wrap and that is the short jacket. I think that aside from the question of styles and trends, we have some sort of ideal composition of an ensemble. The short jacket, practical, yet sufficiently warm, necessary with the very decollete or sheer dress, is a perfect complement to the light evening dress.

To avoid taking away any of the characteristics of the summer

Courtesies To Visitors Here Are Informal

Some Are Returning To This City After Early Summer Trips; Others Are Going On Vacations

WITH the summer half gone, many people who have been away on vacations are returning. Those who are taking late trips are leaving or making their plans to go.

Informal entertaining continues for visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Bayless and son, Billy, have returned from a trip to Chicago and have gone to the mountains to spend a week.

Miss Helen Jennings, who accompanied her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Jennings, on a trip to points in Kansas, remained in Emporia, Kans., with her sister, Mrs. D. R. Davis. She is to be there for several months.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Baldridge and family left Saturday for a vacation in the mountains of New Mexico.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Herbstreit are visiting in Pampa.

Return From Visit

Mr. and Mrs. Walker Jackson and children and Mr. Jackson's mother, Mrs. C. T. Jackson, have returned from visiting with relatives in Oklahoma and Kansas.

Miss Dorothy Bennett is the week-end guest of Miss Billie Bob Jones, 2114 Thirteenth street.

Mrs. Erle Thompson and daughter, Miss Lola Thompson, and son, Erle, jr., are spending the week-end with Mrs. Thompson's other son, Tommie, on the Sneed ranch in Moore county.

Mrs. R. L. Stewart has returned from a visit with her mother in Lorena.

Miss Eunice Felty of Bailey is the guest of her cousin, Mrs. Ralph Moore, 1618 Nineteenth street.

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Gale are to leave today for Fort Worth where they will attend a reunion of Mrs. Gale's family at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Knight.

The Knights, who have been married fifty years, are celebrating their golden wedding anniversary this week. Their 11 sons and daughters are all to be there with their families.

Joins Fishing Party

Miss Neal Wilkins has returned from a fishing trip on the San Saba river with her brother, C. A. Wilkins, and Mrs. Wilkins of Colorado. Other members of the fishing party were Mr. and Mrs. I. C. Jarman of Colorado, Messrs. E. I. Bacon, O. T. Smithhart, John Hall and Eugene Hoyt, all of San Saba.

C. A. Wilkins, jr., of Colorado has spent the last week with his grandmother, Mrs. W. I. Wilkins, and his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Wells.

Mrs. S. B. Galland and daughter, Joan, of Whiteface are visiting with relatives in Lubbock.

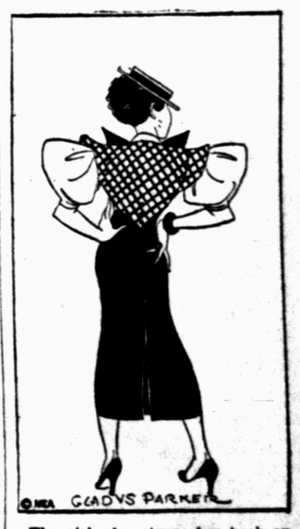

Miss Dora Alice Favor has returned to Abilene after a visit here as the guest of Mrs. Bode S. Adams, 2008 Sixteenth street. Miss Favor was graduated from Lubbock High school last spring. During her visit she was complimented with a number of small affairs given by the younger set.

Mr. and Mrs. Hunter W. Richardson and J. W. Sprinkle of Fort Worth are guests this week-end in the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Mitchell, 2310 Sixteenth street. Miss Betty Richardson of Fort Worth is visiting Miss Nancy Ruth Leaverton.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Whiteside are spending the week-end in Dallas.

Misses Ruby Gatzki and Emma Lou Young are visiting Miss Iva Dean Coleman in Turkey for a few days.

The Woman's Angle

Avalanche Woman's Editor

THIS is a dirge of summer time! A mournful hymn of listless days, an idle song of lassitude to let you know our needless ways, our drowsiness and sluggish mood are caused by old man heat.

Ho. Hum.

This is a chant of indolence:

The heavy work of a torpid brain steeped in the fumes of drowsiness, kept in a stupor by lack of rain in a country dogged by droughtiness and caressed by old man heat.

This is a song of hot July.

A laconic ditty to take the place of the things inspired by deeper thought; a paragraph to fill up space; a poem of inertia wrought; the result of too much heat.

Ho hum!

LET US KNOW

SO far this week a number of people who have pretty yards or gardens have been heard from. This series of stories on Lubbock's beauty spots, started last Sunday, is to continue through much of the summer. Perhaps you or your neighbor has a pretty place. If so, call us up. We want to know.

One of the prettiest gardens in the town was viewed under most favorable circumstances the other evening when a reception was given at the James H. Goodman home for the Ellis Carters. Guests who called that night were unanimous in their appreciation of the Goodmans' back yard and even those who are least sensitive beauty must have been inspired by that setting.

What might have been a stormy evening was a night of unusual calm. Lights had been strung about the garden, which is concealed from the road by a stone wall over which trumpet and other vines creep but there was little more light than would have been shed by a brilliant moon. Trees and grass completed the natural setting while Mexican music, played by a group of men outside, floated over the wall to enhance the romantic qualities.

THE FUTURE ARTIST

TILDON Daniel is going to be an artist when he grows up. He makes A-plus on his drawing at school now and he can draw the pictures in the funny papers so that they look just like what the cartoonists have drawn. He admits he makes good grades when he gets to go to school and, as proof, he tells that he passed last year after having been in school only a little more than three months.

You, too, may have met Tildon. He comes to see us twice each day this summer as he is selling cream to help keep the family in groceries. Sometimes he lingers a while for a little chat.

That's how we learned about Tildon's ambition to be an artist and how we know that he has to stay out of school in the fall to pull cotton bolls and how we learned that the box of cream he carries around isn't heavy.

Tildon is one of the small business men we meet every summer; one of that group that starts peddling something as soon as school is out in the spring and keeps it up at least until school opens again in the fall. He is just an ordinary ten-year-old with a freckled nose, white teeth, clear blue eyes and a thatch of sunburned hair that shows under his straw hat. He has a snappy come-back when grown-ups tease too much but he hasn't been on the streets long enough to be tough. He has a winning smile that he flashes while he counts his change and, with encouragement, he shifts his box of cream to a more comfortable position and lingers for a chat. That's how we happen to know that some of these days Tildon Daniel is going to be a big artist and not a little boy with a winning smile and a serious way of discussing this business of selling ice cream.

ONE of the customers telephones in to register a complaint about people who slam the telephone receiver on the hook and hurt her ear.

Somehow we have a feeling that to say too much on this subject might cause some of the readers to laugh up their sleeves—for perhaps we are guilty down here with all the telephoning we have to do. But, even if we are not in a position to do any preaching on the subject, the fact remains that most of us need the reminder of this complaint.

Such noises over the telephone line o give the ear a jolt and sometimes the ache is slow about leaving. The customer's complaint is a good one and something about which many of us need to be reminded.

Marian Martin Pattern

PATTERNS 9532 AND 9346

The newest colections of smart gowns hold many noteworthy style hints for the matron and for women who wish to conceal a few undesirable pounds. You'll find many of these features in the frocks sketched today. Contrast is ultra smart as applied on Pattern 9532 for the upper bodice and three-quarter puffed sleeves .The chic pointed seaming and pleats for animation give perfect proportion to the figure and are decidedly slenderizing. There's a wide scope for choice of fabric . . . all one, twin prints, two lovely monotones, or solid and print. Note the smart lines of Pattern 9346, vestee of contrast, and unusual skirt seaming. A belt may be worn, but we think the waistline moulded by tucks more slimming. Soft silks or sheer cottons will work up beautifully.

Pattern 9532 may be ordered only in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 requires 2 2-3 yards 39-inch fabric and 1 3-4 yards contrasting.

Pattern 9346 may be ordered only in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 3 1-2 yards 39-inch fabric and 1-2 yard 36-inch contrasting. Clear, diagrammed cutting and sewing instructions included with each pattern.

Send fifteen cents in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for each Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your Name, Address, the Style Number and Size of each pattern ordered.

Order your copy of the Marian Martin Pattern Book, full of fascinating fashion ideas—new fabrics, accessories and stunning styles to help you achieve a well-planned wardrobe. Slenderizing models, too, and styles for youngsters—all easy and inexpensive to make. Price of pattern book, fifteen cents. Book and pattern together, twenty-five cents.

Send your order to Avalanche-Journal Pattern Department, 232 W. 18th St., New York, N. Y.

Mrs. J. T. Bowers and Mrs. J. P. Landess, 2016 Eighth street, have as their guests their sisters, Mrs. A. L. Skeen and Mrs. J. B. Woodard, and children of Houston, and Mrs. Etta Walker and Mrs. Darwin Whitmore, and children of Snyder.

Magazines To Have Articles For PTA Units

Women Are Expected To Use Suggestions In Adapting Their Programs To School Situations At Home

BY MRS. J. M. CRAIN
Special Correspondent

CLAUDE, July 22 — (Special)— Plans for the completion of the outlines of the 1933-1934 parent-teacher programs are at hand. Beginning with the September issue Child Welfare magazine, the official publication of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, offers its usual timely and helpful program aids. Leaflets describing this series are now available and are offered free to officers of Congress units.

These programs have been planned for the use of Congress units wishing suggestive outlines for their program committee. These suggestions for programs are given to stimulate the association in getting a participating membership and in making adaptations to local needs. For those wishing to develop subjects intensively, each program is replete with reading references and a list of projects for the association to study and consider most carefully.

Chairmen Assist

This series of nine program outlines developed with the cooperation of nine national chairmen, all specialists in their respective fields of activity, is modeled after the one which was so popular this last year.

Mrs. E. C. Quereau, San Antonio, sixth vice-president of Texas Congress and director of program service, is eager to assist any program chairman who has special problems confronting her in this important phase of child welfare work. She will give suggestive outlines for programs in the Texas Parent Teacher, the official publication of the Texas Congress.

A better understanding of present-day issues which affect the welfare of children in the homes, schools and communities is the object of these suggestive programs.

Subjects for study and discussion are: "Living Together in the Family"; "Nutrition and Growth"; "What Are School Essentials"; "Alcohol and Narcotics"; "The Practical Application of Mental Hygiene"; "Youth and Social Hygiene"; "The Wise Use of Radio"; "Building World Understanding"; "The Motion Picture Situation."

It can be fashioned of faille or velvet or any other fabric with sufficient body. It must, however, supply the need for which it was created, that is, take up little room, afford a certain amount of protection, be attractive to the eye and at the same time prove a worthy compliment to the dress.

Mrs. Ed Hart of Plainview is the week-end guest of Mrs. Riley Hule, 2434 Twentieth street.

there is a space devoted to dahlias, roses and other such plants and a similar space where vegetables have been planted.

Although the well is there for ornamentation, it is kept filled with water. There is an old oaken bucket there and a gourd dipper, to complete the setting. The well has been built so that water runs from there through the small stream and down in to the pond.

Ivy, grass and flowers have been planted around this body of water, where a number of water plants are growing.

Lilies bloom in the fish pond. There are water hyacinths, two types of arrow-head and a type of grass upon which the fish feed. Bull rushes, cat-tails and other grasses that grow near water have been planted back of the pond. There is a rock garden, too, with violets and other plants growing.

Unusual rocks have been placed around the pond to add to its attractiveness. Frogs and other figures have been placed along the stream and on the edges of the pond. A small wooden bridge has been built across the stream.

There is a grassy plot in this yard, too, and flower beds around the edges. Shrubs, roses and other plants have been arranged to lend the color of their blossoms. Back of it all, poplar trees have been planted to give a background. This yard is surrounded by a fence and gates have been covered with arches to add to their beauty. Flag-stone walks have been laid in the grass.

Music Club

Ann Harding Changes Her Mind About Stage After Successful Pictures

BY ROBBIN COONS
Associated Press Movie Editor

HOLLYWOOD, July 22.(AP) —Ann Harding changed her mind about going back to the theater upon expiration of her current contract, and if one seeks reasons for that new agreement she has signed — for six pictures in two years — they are on the screen.

Two of them are "The Animal Kingdom" and "When Ladies Meet," and the other is "Double Harness," her co-starring film with William Powell, recently completed.

This trio of pictures, coming at the end of a contract which since her first big success, "Holiday," had brought her little in the way of prestige, is counted on to restore the Harding name to box-office strength.

"Double Harness" gives Ann a role that calls for all manner of histrionic display and for her presence on the screen a major part of the time.

Trapped!

As Joan Colby in "Double Harness" she carries out her business-like theory of marriage by tricking ne'er-do-well John Fletcher (William Powell) into wedding her. Fletcher dislikes the fetters of matrimony, but is becoming sold on it when Joan's spoiled young sister (Lucille Browne) in a peeve, reveals the trick that precipitated the marriage.

WILLIAM POWELL

Joan, desperately in love but gallant, is resigned to losing her husband, but fights on for his welfare and incidentally—after a lively and amusing climax—wins him back from the siren played by Lilian Bond.

Alice, Where Art Thou?

AMONG avowed candidates for the role of "Alice in Wonderland" is petite, blond, blue-eyed Helen Chandler. Helen has been trying to get various film companies to make the picture ever since she came to Hollywood four years ago— and now the studio that will make it is having an "Alice" contest to find an unknown for the role.

HELEN CHANDLER

Signing of Lillian Gish to an R-K-O contract may bring about completion of a once-planned film venture with her opposite Francis Lederer, the new romantic star. Four years ago Lederer, then in Europe, was signed to support Miss Gish in a silent picture. Talkies arrived, Lederer could speak no English, and the contract was canceled.

But Lederer, English mastered now, now is under contract to R-K-O, too.

More Satires

SHORT subject producers can't resist the temptation to make satirical films. One of the newer ones, called "Gentlemen Preferred," burlesques the recent Morgan investigation.

There's the head of the House of Mortimer, Prosecutor Spumoni, and fourteen Mortimer partners. Boys go through the audience selling pies, pop, peanuts and scorecards. "You can't tell who the partners are without a scorecard," they cry. Columbia's Ralph Staub is the dirter-director of this one.

Mack Sennett, who has made the most two-reel satires, never found them as successful as his less-sophisticated comedies.

Wide Variety Of Movies To Be Presented

"Hell Below," "The Billion Dollar Scandal," "King Of Jazz" And "The Narrow Corner" To Be Screened

LUBBOCK theatergoers this week will be offered a varied movie program, including adventure, romance, crime, music and mystery.

"Hell Below," thriller of submarine warfare, opens a three-day run at the Lindsey today. Robert Montgomery, Walter Huston, Madge Evans, Jimmy Durante, Eugene Pallette and Robert Young head the cast. It is a rapidly moving romance set amid thrills under the sea, on the water and in the air.

The story centers about a young naval lieutenant who, in an effort to save his closest friend, flaunts the commander's orders and almost brings death to the whole crew when the submarine is forced to the bottom of the sea with its motors disabled. Dismissed, he ends his romance with the girl he loves and sacrifices his life in a heroic adventure.

"The Billion Dollar Scandal"

"The Billion Dollar Scandal", featuring Robert Armstrong, Constance Cummings, Olga Baclanova, Frank Morgan, James Gleason, Irving Pichel and Warren Hymer, will be screened at the Lindsey Wednesday and Thursday.

The picture deals with a sensational expose of a gigantic swindle, brought about by an ex-convict as an act of vengeance against a powerful financier. The story reaches a climax with a senate committee investigation, during which the ex-convict becomes the "Man of the Hour."

Douglas Fairbanks, jr., Patricia Ellis and Dudley Digges head the cast in "The Narrow Corner," booked at the Lindsey for Friday and Saturday. Written by Somerset Maugham, the story is an engrossing tale of the earth's far off and little-known islands, where outcasts from all parts of the world have gathered. One of the principal characters is an island maiden, so native that she sees nothing wrong in a naked man or in making advances to the man she loves. A mad passion springs up between her and an Australian youth who is fleeing from the world because he accidentally killed the husband of a woman with whom he was having an affair.

"King of Jass" Revived

"King of Jazz" one of the most georgeous and melodic of all the music pictures in color, has been re-cut, re-edited and re-shot in some particulars, and will be screened at the Palace for three days, starting today. This revival of the popular extravaganza of three years ago is in keeping with the recent Hollywood trend toward musical productions.

Paul Whiteman appears in the starring role, and many favorites of the screen, stage and radio are in the cast. Some of the players, including Jeanie Lang, Bing Crosby, Nell O'Day and Jack Fulton, reached stardom as a result of their appearance in the picture when it was produced before.

A mother who uses her apron strings to their fullest length to retain her sons in a sort of slavery called mother love is defeated by Irene Dunne as the star of "The Silver Cord," which will be presented at the Palace Wednesday and Thursday. The story concerns an unique triangle in which a young woman, her husband and her mother-in-law take part. The fight of the two women over the man reaches an exciting climax when he is forced to make an epic decision. Laura Hope Crews, Joel McCrea, Eric Linden and Frances Dee head the supporting cast.

"A Shriek in the Night," a comedy mystery picture, will be screened at the Palace Friday and Saturday. Dealing with a series of mysterious murders, the story also has a newspaper tinge, a gay romance, and through it all runs a vein of hilarious comedy. Most of the action takes place in an exclusive New York apartment house. Ginger Rogers and Lyle Talbot head the cast.

"Tarzan, The Ape Man"

"Tarzan, the Ape Man," based on the hair-raising story of jungle adventure by Edgar Rice Burroughs, starts a three-day run at the Lyric today. Johnny Weissmuller, world champion swimmer, plays the title role as the strange white man who lives in the jungle like the apes. Other important roles are played by Neil Hamilton, Maureen O'Sullivan and C. Aubrey Smith.

Laid in Africa, the story concerns an attempt of a handful of English adventurers to find the mysterious "elephant's burial ground" where they hope to obtain a fortune in ivory. The daughter of the leader of the safari is captured by Tarzan, who takes her beyond reach of human hands by swinging through the tops of trees. Exciting adventures with wild beasts, pygmies and other jungle terrors make the picture one continuous thrill.

"What Price Innocence?"

An answer to the age-old question of "what shall we tell our children" is promised in "What Price Innocence?" which will be screened at the Lyric Wednesday and Thursday.

The story concerns a girl who lives through the teen age without being told about the "things of life" by her parents. When she reaches the age of 17 she discovers there are two kinds of love, but her discovery comes too late. Jean Parker heads the cast, which also includes Willard Mack, Ben Alexander, Minna Gombell and Bryant Washburn.

Tom Keene in "The Cheyenne Kid" will be the attraction at the Lyric Friday and Saturday.

At the THEATERS

Your Orchestra Seat Is An Automobile At This Theater; Ushers Use Bicycles In This Open Air "Drive-In" Movie

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

CAMDEN, N. J. July 22. —(AP)— Drive right in and see the movies—that's the idea behind a new theater here.

Seats in this new open air movie house—it covers an area of 250,000 square feet—are the cars themselves. Richard M. Hollingshead, jr., planned it!

Cars in Semi-Circles

In place of the conventional theater layout, there are seven tiers of parking inclines so arranged in a semi-circle that each row will accommodate several dozen cars.

The rows are 50 feet wide, leaving plenty of space for parking and at the same time giving room for arriving and incoming cars to find or leave a "seat" without disturbing anyone.

Screen Is Huge

The front row is not necessarily better than any other position in the theater, for there is a huge screen and adequate sound equipment. Engineers designed apparatus that would give enough volume to cover the huge arena and to make it possible to hear above noises made by motors.

Three huge loudspeakers concealed behind the 60-foot screen project the sound evenly throughout the enclosure.

On one occasion during an electrical and rain storm the show went right on, losing only three cars—of the open type.

There's no parking problem for movie fans at new theater in Camden, N. J., built on this general plan. You take the car in with you, escorted by an usher on a bicycle.

Baby Buggy Tax On New List Of Tariffs In Free State's Increase In Import Duties

DUBLIN, July 22 (AP)—Even the lowly baby buggy is included in the latest list of Irish Free State import duties.

Perambulators, defined by the minister of finance as "wheeled vehicles not mechanically propelled and ordinarily used for the transport of children," are made subject to a 75 per cent duty with a preferential rate of 50 per cent.

The tariff marks an increase of 16 2-3 per cent on British-made prams and 25 per cent on those of foreign make.

Parents bringing in a pram while on a temporary visit will be subject to the same rule applying to motor cars—duty will be paid on entry and returned on departure.

In addition, if the customs authorities desire, parents may be requested to produce the baby.

ISLAND ENDS ISOLATION

SINGAPORE (AP)—Christmas Island, one of the world's outposts, 800 miles south of this port and 1,000 miles northwest of Australia, is being placed in regular communication with the rest of the globe through construction of two wireless stations.

"Just Give Me Love", Says Mutt But His Weekly Bone Is A $125 Paycheck

By ROBBIN COONS
Associated Press Movie Editor

HOLLYWOOD, July 22.—"I am very tired," Mutt might have barked some seven years ago when he was a pup, "of being cute and pretty. I am going to show these people that although I am of the blood and to the manner born, I can act. I am an actor, not a beauty—a character actor!"

Be that as it may, Mutt proceeded to grow up into a dog who can act and who certainly is no beauty—unless you consider the beauty of the soul, and that photographs, too.

"It's the eyes!" glows Norman Taurog, the director, "it's the eyes that get me. Look at 'em!" And Mutt, who seems to know a meal ticket as well as a friend, obligingly turns loving brown orbs upward for inspection. Those eyes are set deep in a rather wistful dog-face, partly hidden by a shaggy white coat.

So Mutt It Is

A pedigreed Sealyham that cost

$150 would seem to deserve a more elegant title, but when they got around to christening this dog star there he was—plainly, obviously, inexorably Mutt. "A throwback," is the explanation.

Mutt has been in pictures since puppyhood, and is one of the most sought-after of movie dogs. Norman Taurog introduced him to the cameras when he was making two-reel comedies, and has used him ever since whenever a picture needed a dog and Mutt was available. Only Mutt's popularity kept him out of the touching dog role in "Skippy." Mutt was working at the time, and Taurog couldn't wait.

On the $150 that the dog cost, Henry East has realized approximately $15,000. Mutt, currently working with Maurice Chevalier and Sylvia Sidney in "The Way to Love," is drawing $125 a week. Like other noted dogs, he has taken a salary cut celebrating the depression. The weekly bone used to be $250.

His Man Friday

Mutt's constant companion is a young man named Rudd Weatherwax, who has taken Mutt locationing through California and other western states. Despite his pedigree, Mutt travels in the baggage coach—and so does Rudd, to be near his charge.

Being a movie dow Mutt has his share of temperament. He pouts—Norman Taurog says so—if anyone speaks crossly to him. He will perform difficult tricks at will, but he sometimes takes his own good time, and the director's, over a simple task like a bark.

For affection, however, Mutt will do anything. "Give me love," might be his slogan, "and let the dogs fight over salary!"

Back Taxes Paid
Floydada School Gets 20 Cents

FLOYDADA, July 22. (Special)—Delinquent taxes amounting to 20 cents and due for score of years to the Floydada school district, were paid to Collector Frank Moore recently. Payment and interest was only 21 cents.

The taxes were originally due the Floydada School District B, but it was absorbed by the independent district. Penalty and interest on all delinquent taxes since 1889 were abolished by the last legislature, leaving only one per cent to be collected.

More Power To Mr. Ickes

IN the next column to the right on this page today there appears at the beginning of The National Whirligig column, the story of the efforts of Interior Secretary Ickes to do a big job well.

More power to him—and may his political tribe increase!

One may say, without fear of contradiction, that Mr. Ickes' job is the most stupendous, the most far-reaching ever tackled by a Secretary of the Interior of the United States.

One may further say that if Mr. Ickes is successful in his present task he will be as much of a national hero as any general who has led American troops to victory upon the field of battle.

It is refreshing to learn that there are still men who consider a high public office as a high public trust.

It is further highly satisfactory to note that the first Democratic administration in more than a decade is furnishing that type of man.

GASTON MEANS, THE OUTCAST

Gaston B. Means, the unspeakably low person who fleeced Mrs. Edward B. McLean out of $104,000 with a fantastic promise of returning the Lindbergh baby, has gone to prison for his part in the affair. Now, for 17 years if the sentence runs its course, he will definitely be 'out of circulation'—a happy thing for the country.

But Mr. Means was not sent to Atlanta.

He was sent to the newest of Federal prisons at Lewisburg, Pa.

Why wasn't he sent to Atlanta?

Because the ordinary run of crooks and scoundrels incarcerated there wanted none of Means or his ilk.

Officers, frankly, were afraid the ex-Federal sleuth would be "put on the spot and bumped off", right inside the prison walls, by convicts who couldn't stomach his activities in connection with the Lindbergh tragedy.

It must be a terrible thing to be a criminal for whom no law-abiding citizen has a semblance of respect.

But it must be even worse to be a criminal so low that he cannot even command the tolerance of others outside the law.

Gaston Means is paying the price for a dastardly swindle—and big though the price may be it's not big enough.

RACIAL ECCENTRICITIES

When will America attain that age in its evolution when it will begin producing such eccentrics as England knew before she adopted a more serious mein? Upon attaining that age this may not be a better country but it will be more interesting and amusing.

The English have been traditionally strong in these characters. It has been the rule to hold the English as all more or less mad and rather proud of it. An Englishman even suggested the convenience of an asylum for the sane.

America doesn't produce men who set fire to their nightshirts to cure the hiccoughs, or who start drinking port when shaving in the morning and tuck away from four to six bottles a day.

There are quacks and mountebanks on these shores but none to compare with the prodigious Dr. James Graham, the entrance hall of whose London establishment was decorated like a temple of Aesculapius with the abandoned crutches of his patients. Within were great electrical machines, an electrical throne and a "celestial bed" in a "Great Apollo" apartment.

Another of the English eccentrics was Robert, better known as "Romeo", Coates. Inheriting money and diamonds from his father, he made a hobby of acting and appeared on the stage of the Bath theater in Shakespearian and other roles. He drove a coach shaped like a kettle-drum and drawn by white horses, and lived by his motto, "While I live I'll crow."

The English eccentrics were amusing and diverting; most of our own have made public nuisances of themselves.

Sales of beer in Oklahoma, legal now for the first time in 26 years of statehood, are said to be exceeding all expectations. Apparently, the "Sooner State" is fast becoming the "Schooner State."

Hitler has ordered his German admirers to cease the widespread practice of naming their babies after him, but we doubt very much if any German baby has yet been named Adolf Hitler Cohen.

Today's One-Minute Sermon

And it shall come to pass, if thou shalt hearken diligently unto the voice of the Lord thy God, to observe and to do all His commandments which I command thee this day, that the Lord thy God will set thee on high above all nations of the earth:

And all these blessings shall come on thee, and overtake thee, if thou shalt hearken unto the voice of the Lord thy God.—Deuteronomy 23:1 and 2.

The National Whirligig

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By George Durno

SECRETARY Ickes wants between four and five million men employed within a year.

To this end government money is to be spent with a highly liberal hand. All but two stops on the public works organ are to be pulled out very shortly. The two that square-jawed Ickes most earnestly hopes to keep closed are those controlling waste and graft.

Word seeping out from council meetings indicates our chief Public Worksman Ickes is making a mean stab at learning his piece letter-perfect. Every item is being checked and double-checked right down to the last $100 for repairing a Department of Agricultural barn.

When Ickes took over the Public Works Administration his temporary predecessors had worked out a $90,000,000 rivers and harbors program. He sent it back for re-checking with orders that it be co-ordinated. He told the council in executive session he wanted the time-honored "pork barrel" label removed.

Ditto for a public buildings program arranged by the Treasury Department which would run about three-quarters of a billion. This was turned over to Budget Watchdog Lew Douglas for scanning.

And finally Ickes prevailed on Secretary of War Dern to withdraw and re-examine an ambitious schedule for army housing, motorization and mechanization.

If the Public Worksmen can put 4,000,000 men back to work, Uncle Sam would be about half way over the hump. If you go into the dugout where Federal economists hatch statistics they will tell you it is necessary to get more than 8,000,000 idle men in harness before the expectancy of sunshine approaches normal.

When this number have gainfully employed their spending powers will give the other four or five million jobless a chance in "recreational occupations." Then there will be more beer gardens, theatres will need more ushers, garages will take on more mechanics.

Simple, isn't it?

LABOR: Organized labor isn't saying a thing for publication but the next time you meet it coming down the street notice the complacent look.

There's a reason. Union men are pulling the strings that make things dance down in the National Industrial Recovery Administration. General Johnson wouldn't admit it but Donald Richberg and Edward F. McGrady have slipped into comfortable places on the driver's seat and are having a lot of fun with the reins.

Richberg was general counsel for the Association of Railway Labor Executives. He is now general counsel for NIRA. McGrady was legislative agent for the powerful Bricklayers' Council of the A. F. of L. He is now assistant administrator in charge of labor.

You got a tip-off on Richberg's stand-in when the Advisory Board voted him $12,000 a year after Johnson had cut his pay to $6,000 and that figure had been set as a maximum.

Those executive orders President Roosevelt signed last week making Johnson permanent administrator and permitting various allied industries to tie onto the cotton textile code were conceived and drafted by Richberg.

McGrady's office is getting as much play from the big shots as Johnson's. And they're talking about other problems besides labor.

NOTES: President Roosevelt told a Congressman who called the other day to take his troubles to Budget Director Douglas. . . . About a week later the Congressman called the President on the 'phone and wailed that he'd warmed a chair in Douglas' ante-room for days without getting inside. . . . Mr. Roosevelt arranged an appointment for him. . . . After years of seeing Uncle Sam as the bogey man Latin America has experienced a change of heart if our confidential reports are to be believed. . . . Diplomatic pouch dispatches say President Roosevelt is being looked on as "the Great White Father" . . . No doubt our trade experts will play this situation across the Board. . . . The boys in the White House press room are getting a little irritated about Secretary Louis Howe's weekly paid broadcasts. . . . They claim he's scooping them on stuff he ought to hand out freely. . . . Mostly they're mad because the Colonel told on the radio last Sunday about the President's sight-seeing tour on Maryland's Eastern Shore. . . . The White House had formally denied the Presidential yacht would make any stops.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

THERE will be plenty of scowling and table-thumping between the steel barons and organized labor. But the disputants will not come to blows.

The government will see to that. It cannot afford to let the recovery program run aground on arguments over side issues. Both toms can show their claws if it will make them feel better but they mustn't scratch. Compromises will be effected where now no compromise seems possible.

The open shop principle is more of a sacred cow to the steel industry than to almost any other. Even the more progressive steel men get blood pressure at the thought of unionization from without. The government would rather let them have their way on this and get their cooperation on rebuilding purchasing power than to fight a compulsory licensing battle which would stir unrest in other industries. That's why labor will not be permitted to force the issue—at present.

There have been conferences in New York between labor leaders and financial men friendly to labor (there are such). As a result labor is privately willing to bide its time on unionization in consideration of immediate wage and hour benefits. But for the record it will enter a strong protest against the steel industry's policy toward unions.

Insiders say that a couple of points in the steel code are straw men set up to be knocked down. One is the provision that the president of a company shall be the final artiter in the event that representatives of employers and employes cannot agree. The other states that election of union officers must be held on company premises.

The industry will probably yield these points if pressed. That will give the labor leaders couple of trophies to show the folks.

Eventually there will be a real battle on the open shop question. But it won't develop while recovery still hangs in the balance.

RECRUITS: The administration has startled inside Wall Street by enlisting some of its known opponents as NIRA non-coms. Several New Yorkers who have been asked to help NIRA get organized are openly unfriendly to the New Deal—and even to the principle of industrial control.

Learning and education may be totally divorced. You may have a highly learned man who is totally uneducated.—Frank J. Sheed, London publisher.

The Real Struggle Is Just Beginning

THE NEW BOOKS

Eric Hatch Gives Light And Frothy Tale For Summer Reading In "Five Days"; Dr. Fishbein Writes On History Of Medicine; Romantic Days Of Old California Get Treatment This Week

SUMMER seems to be the ideal time for light and frothy farces; and one which might please you very well is "Five Days," (Little, Braun & Co.) by Eric Hatch.

This tale has to do with a young man named Beadleston Preece, who discovers abruptly that the vagaries of the stock market have transformed him from a rich man into a very poor one. He sits on the steps of his Long Island home, which has just been sold under the hammer, and contemplates suicide; but before he can transform thought into action a burglar comes on the scene and our Beadleston Preece makes a firend of him.

The Fun Begins

Then the fun begins. Preece and the burglar set forth and steal a private yacht, in which they begin an aimless but diverting tour of the waters about Long Island Sound. They pick up a girl from a New Jersey barge, recruit a henpecked millionaire who wants to escape from his wife and find their forces still further augmented by a pretty debutante and a restless bishop.

No very good purpose would be served by relating their further adventures in detail. But they have, as you can imagine, a rather hilarious time, and the whole thing makes pretty entertaining summer reading.

Mr. Hatch has a good touch for farce cbmedy of this kind. Occasionally he shows an echo of the cheerful insanity which makes Thorne Smith's characters so diverting.

On Medical Science

SINCE the dawn of civilization, mankind has been trying to increase its ability to fend off death and restore ailing bodies to health. This effort began slowly, progressed along an almost imperceptible rise for many centuries—and finally took a sharp turn upward. Medical science has made more progress in the last 130 years than in all of recorded history before the nineteenth century.

So says Dr. Morris Fishbein, the widely-read editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association, in "Frontiers of Medicine," (Williams & Wilkins) a readable little handbook in the new Century of Progress series.

This book is simply an outline of medical history, an exposition of the development by mankind of the art of healing from the primitive hocuspocus of the medicine man to the scientific technique of the modern hospital.

Medical history, says Dr. Fishbein, really begins with Hippocrates, about 300 B. C. Some four centuries later Galen became medical science's dominating figure, remaining such for 1200 years. Then, as people began to emerge from the middle ages, came the development of anatomy, of physiology, of more exact knowledge about the body and its secrets, leading up to the great era which began in the nineteenth century and is not yet ended.

No Useless Frills

A NEAT and straightforward detective story without frills, fancy language or exhibitionistic detectives is available for your entertainment in "Prove It, Mr. Tolefree," by R. A. J. Walling (Morrow).

Mr. Tolefree, that eminent London investigator who usually deals with business scandals, gets called down to an obscure country house to find out whether the well-known capitalist who was believed to have committed suicide did not, after all, get foully done in by somebody else.

Naturally enough, he finds out that that is indeed the case; furthermore, he finds out who did it. The finding out process is suitably complicated by the fact that someone keeps taking pot-shots from the dark at our Mr. Tolefree. When he finally bobs to the surface with the criminal in his teeth you have the feeling that you have read a very competent and entertaining mystery tale.

The Land Wins

THERE is an indestructible aura of romance hanging over the era of Spanish occupation of California. Here was an alien civilization, isolated and remote, colorful and stately, which grew up parallel with the rise of our own republic and which got submerged when the republic finally overflowed beyond the mountains. It will probably be a gold mine for writers for many years to come.

The newest book to exploit that field is "Mistress of Monterey," (Bobbs-Merrill) by Virginia Stivers Bartlett. It is an excellent and entertaining example of the romantic-historical novel.

Tells of Olden Days

The events described take place in the latter part of the eighteenth century, when Fray Juniper Serra was dotting California with missions and Monterey was capital of one of Spain's farthest provinces. We are introduced to the governor of California, an ardent adventurer who has fallen irretrievably in love with that land—as so many people have done since—and who will be perfectly happy if only he can get his young wife to join him there.

The young wife arrives on the scene at last. But the charm of California escapes her. She wants the elaborate culture of Mexico City; Monterey impresses her as a scraggly wilderness outpost. California is a lonely waste land, its people are half-civilized wanderers.

Her life is one long struggle to get back to Mexico. In that struggle she wastes her own life and almost destroys her husband's happiness; and in the end California is too much for her. The land wins; she loses.

Hitler Writes Of Self In Handbook

BERLIN, July 22. —(AP)—Germany's new congressional directory, the "Reichstagshandbuch," contains the first autobiography of Chancellor Adolf Hitler as a nazi deputy.

The sketch, generally assumed as written by Hitler himself, is the briefest in the book. It reads as follows:

"Born April 20, 1889, in Braumau-on-the-Inn. Catholic. Attended grammar school and lower realschuler. Building trades worker to make study possible. Soldier 1914-1920. Presently German reich's chancellor."

Letters To The Editor

Lubbock Reader Raps Fanatical Drys, Drunken Sots

Editor, The Avalanche-Journal: Our clergymen, and other self-elected guardians of their more tolerant, unassuming brothers' morals, private tastes and personal business, seem to be making a heap of unnecessary noise about the repeal of the Insane amendment. The Drys should not be so uneasy. After all, they will not be forced to drink beer.

They should know by now that the Wets are very tolerant. Did they not smile at the gyrations of the howling reformers over a period of thirteen years, and when they became dry over so much oratory, slip quietly down to Joe's Place and pay an exorbitant price for a little drink of pretty rotten stuff? Yes, they have been patient and tolerant.

The Drys should know by now that the Wets are not fanatics. Have you heard of the Wets trying to introduce a bill making it compulsory for everybody to drink at least three bottles of beer per day? No, they are not as fanatical as that. They recognise, far better than their dry brothers, man's inherent right to pursue happiness in his own way.

The Wets may think the dry brother would have a less vinegar-like visage, a more happy, tolerant outlook, and a healthier liver if he would take on a bit of the amber brew occasionally; but he would never think of trying to force him to drink "the nasty stuff" if he didn't happen to be so inclined.

Of course, if the Wets were fanatic about beer, now that they are in power, they would pass a law demanding the Drys drink a certain amount of beer each day. Only a doctor's certificate showing the citizen to be unable, in some physical or organic way to do his patriotic duty, would exempt him from the law.

True, the law would be hard to enforce, cost plenty of tax-money, and keep a large army of enforcement officers busy, but the Drys would be the last object to that. No doubt many would bribe public officials to look the other way while they poured the beer down the drain, thus causing a general disrespect for all laws; but then, the Insane amendment has done about all in that direction any set of laws could hope to do.

Who can tell? Perhaps our meddlesome, teetotaler would get a different outlook, or viewpoint after a few drinks. Perhaps he would decide this silly prohibition was a bit fanatical after all. Perhaps he would discover, as sensible folk have known all along, that the Dry fanatic and the drunken sot are the extremes on either end of the rum question, and represent, at best, and added together, a small percent of the total citizenship. Perhaps he would see that between the two nuisances there is a vast crowd of quiet, tolerant, temperate folk who tend their own business, meddle not with other peoples' moral and personal tastes, and are happier and healthier despite the fact that they like their beer.

Personally, I believe the above mentioned nuisances—the meddling moral-monger and the drunken pervert—should be locked in padded cells, preferably together, and be taught temperance, tolerance, and the proper respect for other peoples' rights. Being housed together, I believe they would, by their association, tend to reach a balanced, happier viewpoint on the great drinking question.

Of course, the sot has a right to be a sot, if he doesn't interfere with other people's happiness; if he doesn't make a nuisance of himself by spouting oratory upon the streets, or in public buildings; if he doesn't try at all times to force others to accept his fanatic, intolerant and idiotic ways and become sots also; and, if the collection plate doesn't have to be passed to keep his belly full, his bed prepared, and his braying oratory going.

The teetotaler, too, has a right to be a teetotaler, if—but why go on? After all the fanatic teetotaler and the drunken sot are "brothers under the skin." They should be classed under one head: "Public Nuisances."

Lubbock Reader Raps Fanatical Drys, Drunken Sots

Editor, The Avalanche-Journal: Our clergymen, and other self-elected guardians of their more tolerant, unassuming brothers' morals, private tastes and personal business, seem to be making a heap of unnecessary noise about the repeal of the Insane amendment. The Drys should not be so uneasy. After all, they will not be forced to drink beer.

They should know by now that the Wets are very tolerant. Did they not smile at the gyrations of the howling reformers over a period of thirteen years, and when they became dry over so much oratory, slip quietly down to Joe's Place and pay an exorbitant price for a little drink of pretty rotten stuff? Yes, they have been patient and tolerant.

The Drys should know by now that the Wets are not fanatics. Have you heard of the Wets trying to introduce a bill making it compulsory for everybody to drink at least three bottles of beer per day? No, they are not as fanatical as that. They recognise, far better than their dry brothers, man's inherent right to pursue happiness in his own way.

Lubbock County Farmers Expect To Raise Nearly 44,000 Bales This Year

Good Yield Is In Sight After Cut In Acreage

otal Of 140,400 Acres Left To Be Harvested After Reduction Of Nearly 100,000 Acres Is Made In Campaign

BY J. SAM LEWIS
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

UBBOCK county farmers, after offering Uncle Sam nearly 100,000 acres of cotton land, stand to se a crop of nearly 44,000 bales cotton should the estimated lint eld of 156.5 pounds per acre hold t.

At the same time, before the cotn is harvested, 2,491 men are heduled to receive over a million ollars in cash and options of 9,133 les at six cents a pound.

Final Report Made

These are some of the interesting cts revealed in the final report of ounty Agent O. G. Tumlinson on e cotton acreage reduction drive st completed the past week. Nearly 00 volunteer committeemen over he county assisted in the work.

There were four less farmers signd cotton contracts than there were eported to be in the county in the ensus taken in the spring of 1930, he census found 2,495 farmers, hile Tumlinson's committees conacted 2,491 farmers. The census owed only 2,232 farmers that year 929) had reported raising cotton.

41.5 Per Cent Reduced

Briefly, Tumlinson's report shows 8,159 acres planted to cotton this ar on 2,491 farms. Acreage offered or plowing under was 98,759, or 41.5 er cent, leaving 140,400 acres in tton.

Cash payments will amount to 8,627.33, with $237,215 to be paid n the option-payment plan and opions on 9,133 and 159-500 bales of tton. Total payments will be $1,-06,841.32.

Payments Start Soon

An average of $404.19 will be given ach farmer, in cash. Payment will tart shortly after the acreage is lowed under.

Farmers will average plowing nder a fraction over 39.5 acres ch, while they will have an averge of 56.3 acres left in cotton. The verage farmer has slightly under 96 acres in cotton.

103 to Receive $1,000

One hundred and three farmers in the county will receive more than $1,000 each from the sale of their cotton to the government. Eighty-two took the straight cash payment plan and 21 the option plan. Seventy four men will receive between $1,000 and $2,000 in cash; six will receive between $2,000 and $3,000 and two more than $3,000. With the option plan, 19 receive between 1,000 and $2,000 and two more than $2,000.

Theopolis R. Kincaide will receive the largest amount on one contract. He offered 300 out of his 600 acres in cotton and valued the crop at $3,-600. On another contract he will receive $1,040 from 130 acres on the option plan and options on 40 bales of cotton.

W. P. Martin Gets Largest

Largest amount to one man under the option plan goes to W. P. Martin. He offered 350 acres out of 700 planted and will receive $2,800 in cash and an option on 108.5 bales.

E. K. Hufstedler, jr., reported the largest single acreage in cotton, 800 acres. He offerd to plow under only 350 acres and he will receive $2,480 in cash and an option on 96.1 bales.

Eight farmers who accepted the all-cash plan, reported having cropped between 400 and 500 acres of cotton; one had over 500 acres and another 800 acres. Those electing the option plan showed six men with 400 to 500 acres and two with over 800 acres.

South Carolina Woman Has 10 Different Kinds Of Vegetables

BEAUFORT, S. C. July 22. (AP)—Ten varieties of fresh vegetables were offered for sale at one time by Mrs. C. A. Stroupe at the home demonstration community club market here. The vegetables, grown in Mrs. Stroupe's garden, included potatoes, beans, corn, peas, beets, cucumbers, onions, okra, squash and tomatoes. She also had eggs, butter, buttermilk, cup cakes, two kinds of bread, rolls and flowers.

A Startling Scene In The Land of Cotton

Farmers Plow Under Part of Crop to Help U S Boost Prices

Responding to the government's plea to reduce cotton acreage by 25 per cent so that a smaller crop will produce higher prices and better times, thousands of Dixie farmers are plowing up part of their growing cotton. This picture, taken on a plantation near Palmetto, Ga., is typical of many such scenes now being enacted throughout the cotton belt. The growers will be compensated for their loss under the terms of the farm relief law.

Potatoes At Eight Cents A Pound!

First Bunch Of Potatoes Grown In Lea County, N. M., Is Recalled By Old Timer; Ton Brings $160 In Surprise

TATUM, N. M., July 22.—(Special)—The first Irish potatoes grown in Lea county, brought eight cents a pound and the first lot grown amounted to a ton, bringing to the grower over $160. This is the story told by Bob Beverly, former sheriff and an old timer.

"Back in the early days here, when he had to ship in everything, H. B. Wright, now of Lovington, was operating a store at Knowles, in the southeast part of the county. He was selling potatoes at eight cents a pound because they had to be freighted from Midland, Texas and freighting was costly.

"'Doc' Townsend, who owned a ranch near Knowles, had been persuaded to plant some potatoes and they had prospered. One day at the Knight store he was looking over the stock and picked up the spuds.

"'Nice spuds, and a nice price,' he commented to Mr. Wright. 'What will you give me for some good old Lea county potatoes?"

"Wright had never heard of potatoes growing here, so he said, 'Doc, I'll give you eight cents a pound for all your home grown potatoes.'

"Townsend grinned, pulled his hat down over his eyes and got on his horse and rode home. That afternoon he started digging potatoes. A big wagon was filled with potatoes and off the rancher drove to town.

"Stopping the team in front of the Wright store, Townsend called out 'Mr. Wright, here's your potatoes.'

"Wright fingered the soft dirt on the potatoes. He was a man of his word, so he went in his store and after the load was delivered, paid Townsend his money. There was a little over a ton of spuds."

Use of new type planes on one coast-to-coast air line is expected to cut the passenger trip of 27 hours by more than eight hours.

Floyd County Farmer Claims Champion Calf Producing Cow

FLOYDADA, July 22. (Special)—A. B. Hanna, a farmer living 13 miles west of town in the Sand Hill community, claims the champion calf producing Jersey cow in this section, if not in West Texas.

The cow last September dropped two heifer calves. Ten months later she dropped two more, also heifers. One of the first twins died but the other three animals are thriving.

PLANT INCREASES BUSINESS

CROSBYTON, July 22.—(Special)—The Crosbyton Municipal Ice plant, owned and operated by the city, is enjoying the best season in its history, according to J. W. McDermitt, city secretary. Besides increased local business there is a steadily growing demand for ice over the territory.

EVERY HOUSEWIFE DESERVES AN ATTRACTIVE KITCHEN

Men take pride in their offices—women in their homes. But it's mighty hard sometimes to be proud of a kitchen that is completely dominated by a clumsy-looking old range. And it's usually just as hard to be proud of the meals that are cooked the old-fashioned way. A new modern Gas Range will make all the difference in the world in results achieved, in the appearance of the kitchen, in your feeling toward your daily work.

The handsome new color schemes, the new sizes, styles and designs of this year's Gas Ranges are an outward reflection of the many improvements that have made cooking with gas easier and more economical than ever. Beautify, modernize your kitchen with one of the newest Gas Ranges—see your gas appliance dealer.

Many Phases Of Home Making To Be Included In A. & M.'s Short Course

COLLEGE STATION, July 22. (Special)—Many phases of home making, self-improvement, yard beautification, cooking and sewing, are included in the program arranged for women and girls who attend the twenty-fourth annual farmers short course at the Texas A & M college July 24-29. The schedule calls for daily lectures featuring these various interests in the mornings, with afternoons devoted to participation in demonstrations of points learned.

While their husbands and brothers are busy learning the proper care of livestock and crops, the women and girls will devote their attention to the fine arts of home making. They will be divided into groups for lectures and study of wardrobe planning, bedroom improvement, canning, making grape juice, tanning kidskins to be used in making moccasins, and many other interesting subjects. Appreciation of music, art and literature will be stressed, as will courtesy and kindness to others.

In connection with this program, state winners will be announced in the various contests sponsored by the home demonstration agents of the Extension Service this year. Among these will be winners of the hooked rug and mat contest, cake contest, bedroom contest, and wardrobe contest. Included in the women's program will be meeting of the Texas Home Demonstration Association.

This "Country Doctor" Cures Plants Of What Ails Them; Covers State Of Wisconsin

MADISON, Wis., July 22 (AP)—One of Wisconsin's "country doctors" most in demand never counts a pulse or prescribes a pill, but he effects his share of cures.

Prof. Richard E. Vaughan of the University of Wisconsin's department of plant pathology is this "country doctor," and his clinics for sick plants of all sorts have been widely attended over the state.

With the co-operation of county agents and the school's extension department he is enabled to travel all over the state discussing causes, cures and prevention of plant diseases.

Two years of research and work will be devoted to making a historical map of the other Lode district of California, showing old trails, wagon roads, ferries and mining districts of 1849.

Equal Rights For Femmes Enters Poultry Yard At O'Donnell When Gobbler Ordered To 'Set' On Nest

O'DONNELL, July 22. (Special)—Equal rights for the feminine side of the poultry family entered the last stronghold of the male here this week when a prize turkey hen belonging to Hal Singleton, local business man, went on a strike and ordered her mate, Tom Gobbler, to "set" on her nest full of eggs.

Apparently becoming tired of setting on the nest, the turkey hen got off and left the job to other hands. She spends a considerable portion of her time in the poultry yard, strutting about and informing all and sundry hens, young and old, that she rules the roost.

Mr. Gobbler was forced to set on the nest in her place. He apparently gave up his lordship over the pen when the hen made so much trouble for him, he had to get on the eggs in self defense. So far none of the other toms have been so humiliated.

Mr. Singleton says never in his experience has be seen such a thing happen before.

Grows In Tower

Tree Lives 150 Feet Up In Sky

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — The north woods surrounding this city are full of tree planters—serving in the citizens' conservation corps—but none of them will be able to duplicate the feat of one little bird.

About five years ago this songster, evidently in the midst of house-moving activities, carried a seed to a crevice in the Central high school clock tower, 150 feet above the street.

The tree, now about four feet tall, was found recently by workmen. Its roots are imbedded in a crevice between two stones on a ledge.

Former Floydada Boy Now Is Cadet In U. S. Naval Academy

FLOYDADA, July 22 (Special)—Frank Manefee, son of Rev. and Mrs. C. J. Menefee, pioneer residents of Floyd county but now living in Arizona, is now a naval cadet in the United States Naval academy at Annapolis, Md., according to word received here.

Young Menefee, who graduated with the 1932 Phoenix high school class, passed his physical and mental examinations and has enrolled in the 1938 class at Annapolis. He stood seventh in scholarship among a class of 600 at Phoenix and completed his work in three and a half years instead of four years.

Time Is Only A Measure

PROGRESS is LIFE

THAT mighty panorama of the world's work, The Century of Progress at Chicago, provides a means for retrospection through which we may look back and take stock of the achievements of the past.

In Kaleidoscopic form we see the transition from the ox-cart to aviation; from the telephone to television; from the telegraph to telephoto; the strides of science, invention and exploration into the mysteries of the sea, the land and the stratosphere.

It's an inventory of the century's progress . . . a reminder that progress is incessant; an inspiration to carry on. And as we face forward again we see Opportunity as our guide beckoning us to follow in his train to greater achievement. It's a challenge to knowledge, to vision, to ingenuity.

It spurs men on to quicken their pace to keep abreast of march and it inspires youth to key their energies and talents and bents to win laurels in the open fields ahead.

It broadens vision. It proves that the dreamers are actually the doers . . . the inventors, scientists, explorers find ways of turning what is apparently intangible into things that are practical to better living and a higher culture.

Let's hear no more talk of inertia, industrial stagnancy, sparsity of opportunity. The denial is before us. The world moves on and every mile post is a goal to some accomplishment. The past is inspirational. The present is promise. These say to us "Chins up, chests out, square your shoulders, adjust your affairs and Forward March."

TARZAN OF THE APES No. 43

By Edgar Rice Burrou

After Tarzan left the tribe of apes, it was torn by continual strife and confusion. Terkoz, now their king, proved a cruel and capricious leader. In desperation the apes decided to turn him out. So one day as he returned to the tribe, five huge, hairy beasts sprang upon him.

At heart Terkoz was a coward. So he did not remain to fight and die. Tearing himself away, he fled, foaming with rage and hatred, into the jungle. Several days he wandered aimlessly. Swinging from tree to tree, this horrible, manlike beast came suddenly upon the two women.

He was right above when Jane saw him, his awful face thrust within a foot of her. One piercing scream escaped her ere the brute had clutched her arm. Then another mood seized him. He leaped into the trees, bearing Jane to a fate a thousand times worse than death.

Jane did not once lost consciousness as she was borne farther into the impenetrable jungle. The scream that brought Clayton stumbling through the underbrush had led Tarzan of the Apes straight to where lay the fainting Esmeralda. His ape training told him plainly the whole story. He instantly gave chase.

On he sped in the track of Terkoz and his prey. Terkoz heard and was spurred to greater effort. Three miles were covered before Tarzan overtook them. Seeing flight was futile, Terkoz dropped groundward. Tarzan bounded like a leopard into the open glade. Terkoz turned to fight for his prize.

ntrolled Industry s Roosevelt Aim In Conference

BY ROGER W. BABSON
yright for Avalanche-Journal
BSON PARK, Mass., July 22—Many rumors have come to this try concerning the London con- nce. The general impression is the conference has been a re. Such, however, is not the ternationalism Vs. Nationalism

resident Roosevelt is essentially internationalist. He believes in d peace and all nations working ther for the common good of world. When I first became acquainted with President evelt he was campaigning for League of Nations as vice- idential candidate on the Cox- evelt ticket in 1920. During the idential campaign last fall he efully emphasized the import- of the United States cooperat- with other nations, and promised hold an international business ference to settle the currency, t, tariff, and disarmament prob- . In other words, he took the ition at that time that the Unit- States could prosper only as ev- other nation prospered. This is h good economics and good als, and must some day be ognized as such. It is merely the plication of the "Golden Rule" nations and is a simple way of essing economic internationali- in plain English.

conomic nationalism, on the er hand, is based on the idea t each individual country is suf- ient unto itself. Nationalism is nded on the "laissez faire" policy. applies the rule of the jungle to tions. In the last century and a lf, it has been a tremendous im- tus in the development of society. is, however, like fire—a wonder- servant but a terrible master. In e last few years nationalism has ached the point where it has be- me the master rather than the rvant. Yet newspaper reports in- cate that President Roosevelt has come a nationalist and has swung to the program of looking out our own people first and allow- the rest of the world to shift itself. There is no doubt that the surface President Roosevelt s apparently abandoned interna- alism for nationalism as an eco- mic policy; but people very close him say this is not the case. This their explanation.

ntrolled Currency Vs. Controlled Industry

During the early months of this r President Roosevelt's associ- s drilled into him the necessity regulating currency. These econo- sts preached inflation to him gonally, while Father Coughlin of oit and others broadcasted it to public at large. For a few nths, the entire world seemed to eve that monkeying with our ks would give us more to eat more to wear. Of course, chang- the content of the dollar might ke it easier for some people to their debts, but it would not ate any more jobs, nor would it ng about a lasting prosperity. It uld be like a hypodermic. It ght make us feel a little more sh" for the time being, but when effects of the drug wore off we would realize that we were no better off than when we started.

Ever since the president's election last November, a small group has been telling him that controlled industry will be much more effective in aiding recovery than controlled currency. However, he was skeptical of this scheme, thinking that both employers and wage workers would strenuously object to being controlled. But the idea gathered momentum and finally the administration decided to experiment with regulated industry. This resulted in the enactment of the Industrial Recovery act. To President Roosevelt's great surprise, employers and wage workers, and the public swallowed the idea, "hook, line, and sinker." In addition, security and commodity prices began to rise rapidly. Men and women were called back to work and suddenly "happy days were here again!" So the suggestion of controlled industry, which the president and his advisers thought would not work, has produced such unexpected results that managed currency, which they thought would do the trick, has faded into the background.

The Real Facts

You do not need to bore a hole in President Roosevelt's head in order for him to see a good thing. He caught on quickly and sent Professor Moley post-haste to London. Professor Moley told the American delegates to lay off regulated currency and tell the world about controlled industry. Of course, the immediate public reaction was that President Roosevelt had turned selfishly nationalistic. Those who pinned great hopes on this conference, as a depression cure, were bitterly disappointed. The French say the president was like a farmer drilling for water who suddenly struck oil. They say that so long as he needed the rest of the world he was an internationalist, but when he found the United States could "go it alone" he turned sharply nationalistic.

But the real truth is that President Roosevelt is still an internationalist and still anxious to cooperate with other nations. However, he now wants the rest of the world to save itself by regulating industry rather than by controlling currency. He wants these other nations to drill also for water in the hope of striking oil. It is true President Roosevelt has "taken a new tack," but he has done so in the interests of a better and happier world. Ethics demand that every doctor who stumbles on a new cure tell the entire medical profession about it. President Roosevelt has stumbled on the regulation of industry as the best way out of the depression and a far better remedy than managed currency at this stage of the disease. Therefore, he has told the American delegates to forget the old bottle of medicine and try to sell this new remedy to the nations of the world, still holding to the fundamental truth that the prosperity of each depends upon the prosperity of all.

Rev. J. B. Cole To Preach At Church In Blountville, Tenn.

The Rev. J. B. Cole of El Paso, former pastor of First Baptist church here, has written friends that he is to preach a sermon in Blountville, Tenn., next Sunday at the celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the organization of the First Baptist church there.

The minister was baptised, licensed and ordained by authority of the Blountville church. He joined the church 56 years ago.

The Rev. Mr. Cole will be 75 years old on November 6 and on December 27 he and Mrs. Cole will celebrate their fiftieth wedding anniversary.

OLD COURTHOUSE RAZED

POST, July 22 (Special)—The old Garza county court house, erected here a quarter of a century or so ago under the personal supervision of the late C. W. Post, has been torn down.

Built of native stone, two stories high, the building was used by Garza county for many years until a few years ago a handsome brick and stone structure replaced it. Since then the old building has been used for various purposes.

C. V. O'Keefe bought the building. On the location Mr. O'Keefe is moving a filling station he owned across the town near the Postex mills. A smaller station is to be moved to the location near the mills.

"No wonder more people buy Buicks than all other eights in its price range combined!"

Buick Public preference for Buick today is so overwhelming that—with 11 eights in its price range to choose from—more people buy Buicks than all of the other 10 combined.

To the man or woman who is not familiar with the new Buick Eight, such dominance may seem almost unbelievable; but to those who have driven this car, and gained even the most casual acquaintance with its capabilities, the reasons for Buick's nation-wide leadership are crystal-clear.

"What," you may ask, "is so different about Buick? Why do so many people consider it superior to any other car selling at similar prices?" The answer lies chiefly in principles of design.

Because of its more enduring design and its finer quality, you will enjoy driving a Buick more years and many more thousands of miles than you would want to drive most automobiles. And you can buy it on easy G.M.A.C. terms. As a result, selection of a Buick is an economy as well as an assurance of thorough satisfaction.

Collector Of Bottles Looks For Colors And Dates First

NASHVILLE, Tenn. July 22. (AP)—It is not what is in a bottle or what has been in it that interests C. L. Hooberry, collector, but its color and where it was made.

A bottle made in America 100 years ago is worth much more than one made in England at the same time. His most prized is one of the old Virginia blown brown variety, 125 years old. Red ones and those of clear blue are prized.

The practice of making bottles into lamps and using them on the whatnot shelf spurs the collectors to find all the old bottles they can. Bottles used to be turned out in special issues, much as stamps are today. Presidential campaigns used to call for special bottles, often with the candidate's picture blown or molded into the glass.

Singing Convention Is To Be Staged In Lamesa On August 6

LAMESA, July 22 (Special)—Singers and music lovers from all parts of West Texas will meet in Lamesa on August 6 for an old-time, all-day singing convention, Bill White, Lamesa, chairman of attendance, announces.

Mr. White states V. O. Stamps in person, accompanied by his famous quartet will be here for that date. "Other talented and well-known artists from the western section of the state will also be present and contribute to the entertainment of the many song lovers in attendance," Mr. White says.

HO-HUM! MANANA!

HIGUERUELA, Spain (AP)—This town of 3,800 doesn't care much about suffrage. In an election to name 10 councilmen, only 35 came to the polls, and they all cast blank ballots. In the re-election only one vote was cast.

Services Are Planned Here

Special Affairs Arranged In Several Lubbock Churches At Both Morning, Evening Programs Today

Special services have been arranged in several churches at both morning and evening hours today. There is to be a visiting minister in one pulpit and missionary programs are to be presented at two institutions.

The Rev. Pat Henry of Fort Worth, state secretary of missions for the Christian church, will preach at the morning hour at the First Christian church.

Dr. Lewis Returns

Dr. Jack M. Lewis returns to the pulpit of the First Presbyterian church after an absence of a month.

C. A. Holcomb, jr., ministerial student, is to preach his first sermon in his home church, Asbury Methodist, at 11 o'clock this morning.

Women of the church are sponsoring a program on prohibition at this Methodist church tonight. The pastor, the Rev. Orion W. Carter, is conducting a revival at Idalou.

Students In Charge

Tech students are to have charge of the service at the First Baptist church this evening in lieu of the regular preaching hour. This is part of a missionary campaign carried on by students over the South.

The program will consist of a talk, "Getting Acquainted With Ourselves as Baptists," by Miss Bonnie Thomas and promotion of the sale of a book, proceeds which are to go toward the general mission board debt.

Evening services have been arranged by the Baptist group at Shannon park to follow the church hour. Anyone who desires may attend. The Rev. C. J. McCarty, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church, is to talk on "The Living Christ."

Buckskin Shoes For Fall Is New Style Note For The Men

ST. LOUIS, July 22 (AP)—Four years after their introduction by the Prince of Wales, brown and gray buckskin shoes for men show signs of becoming popular in America this fall.

They are the result, says A. G. Mudge, stylist for a large shoe company here, of the efforts of manufacturers to make a shoe for fall to take the place of sport shoes for summer.

Shorter vamps, narrow lasts and not a few "boot" heels will be seen this autumn, Mudge predicts. Plainer and more tailored effects, with fewer wing-tipped brogues, are forecast. Many of the brown and gray buckskins are being shown trimmed with calf.

Every four years, enough newsprint is made for a strip as wide as a newspaper and long enough to reach to the sun and back.

"Fisher Controlled Ventilation"—here's a magic phrase that means more than you can believe till you've experienced it yourself. At a turn of a handle you adjust ventilators—get the breeze just where you want it, and in just the volume you want.

It is really controlled ventilation, you see—and you, yourself, control it, not the speed of the car or the direction of the breeze.

This one feature alone would make Pontiac an outstanding car compared with others at or near its price.

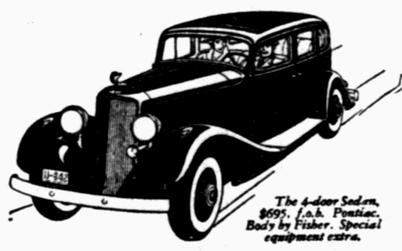

But Pontiac gives more. It is a Straight Eight, with a 77-horsepower engine that gives 78 real miles per hour.

It is a big car—115-inch wheelbase, and due to its balanced weight and design, it gives you safety, comfort, durability.

All this may lead you to think of Pontiac as a costly car. But its first cost is low and as for operating, ask any Pontiac owner, and you'll learn that it is giving 15 miles or more to the gallon.

Try a demonstration. And don't forget that it takes a Straight Eight to give Straight Eight performance. Be sure to try Fisher Controlled Ventilation. You'll be amazed and delighted. No car can be really modern without this comfort feature.

Your NEW CAR be sure it is MODERN as well as NEW!
