Diphtheria Cases—Freight to the Plains—What They Want—Strictly Business—

Ten new cases of diphtheria originated in Wichita Falls during the past week, according to the report of Dr. H. D. Fillmore, city physician. The ten cases might have been avoided by a sufficiently early use of diphtheria taxin antitoxin, a preventative which has been so perfected by medical science that in many cities it has practically wiped out the disease. The spread of this dangerous disease to other children may be prevented by wise parents who ask their family physician about the qualities of the toxin anti-toxin.

The Fort Worth and Denver railroad today will begin the acceptance of freight for points on its south plains extension. Forty miles of the road's line from Estelline has been completed. This extension of the Fort Worth and Denver offers another great opportunity to Wichita Falls merchants and industries. In the growth of this great section of Texas, no other town is so advantageously situated if it takes advantage of opportunities which are presented.

Transportation of mail, of express, freight and passengers is the most important problem in the development of any area, and the most vital necessity for continued progress. Transportation is also one of the most important items in the dairy industry, according to an article by J. L. Kraft in the Mississippi Builder. Wichita Falls has a Kraft cheese factory in process of construction. Mr. Kraft tells us in his article, printed in Sunday's paper, that "plenty of hard surfaced roads and good state dairy laws are essential" to successful dairying in the south.

Wichita Falls entertainment program for the winter, ranging from Ziegfeld's Follies to grand opera with the most noted artists of the nation appearing here, will attract many visitors to this city, visitors who will come on business as well as pleasure. Business men of many cities are realizing that good entertainment, in the form of moving pictures, musical comedy, opera concerts, lectures, football games or what not, is a vitally important factor in building friendship and trade. It seems to The Record News that Wichita Falls has an unusual program for the winter, one which should be utilized to the fullest extent by every industry and business in attracting friends and customers to this city for pleasure and for business.

Those who attended the Texas-S. M. U. game in Dallas Saturday know that a tremendous amount of business was transacted there because of this outstanding athletic event. All the color and froth of an intercollegiate football clash was merely a setting for the serious transactions of the commercial world which went on in almost every office, across luncheon tables and in after-game dinners and entertainments. As one business man from East Texas reversed it, "I came here strictly on business—but I HEAR we're going to have a football game, so I'm going to see it."

The new Wichita club, to cost $150,000 exclusive of furnishings, will give to this city club facilities equalled by few cities in the southwest, and no city the size of Wichita Falls. Construction of the club along such luxurious and modern lines marks another step in the progress of Wichita Falls as a city in which people will wish to live, and which people will want to visit. Leaders of the club and the owners of the building which is to house the club are looking well to the future of Wichita Falls in their ambitious program.

BURK ALL SET FOR GALA DAY IN BRIDGE FETE

Oklahoma Governor Will Deliver Address At Bridge Opening

MOODY CAN'T REPORT

Texas Governor Unable To Accept Invitation To Bi-State Party

"Burkburnett is ready to entertain the largest crowd to assemble there since the days when it was the center of the biggest boom in the oil world," C. R. Cowles, general manager of the Burkburnett chamber of commerce, declared Monday while in Wichita Falls distributing programs for the celebration to be held in his city next Saturday in celebration of the formal opening of the free bridge across the Red river. "From far and near in Texas and Oklahoma they will trek to Burkburnett to attend this celebration—and Burkburnett will leave no effort undone to entertain its visitors."

COMMISSIONERS ORDER BRIDGE ACCEPTANCE

The Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce Monday turned the new Burkburnett free bridge over to Wichita county and the commissioners court issued an order accepting it. With this move the responsibility for the bridge shifts from the chamber to the county. Hubert Harrison, general manager, with Charles I. Francis turned the deed over. The chamber will be repaid $19,500 which it raised to aid in financing the structure and it will be operated as a free bridge. An old toll bridge operated by a private concern is replaced.

Foremost among the visitors of honor will be Governor Henry S. Johnston of Oklahoma, who has accepted the invitation to attend and make an address.

Moody Can't Attend

Governor Dan Moody of Texas, who was also invited, will be unable to attend, it was announced Monday.

In addition to Governor Johnston, other honor guests will include the following:

Henry Leininger, chairman, and Jesse Bunch, Charles Carter, John Parker and C. W. Jones, members of the Oklahoma Highway commission;

VICK DENIES NEW CHARGE

Wichita Falls Physician Held For $2,000 Bond

Dr. J. T. Vick remained in Wichita county jail Monday night in default of $2000 bond following the filing of a charge of performing an illegal operation. The charge was filed before R. V. Gwinn, justice of the peace and Monday afternoon the amount of bond was agreed upon. Dr. Vick protested his innocence of the charge and declared this case was like three other charges against him, persecution.

Dr. Vick was acquitted in one murder case growing out of an alleged illegal operation. The three indictments pending now are along the same line. One charges murder and the other two illegal operations.

The present complaint alleges that the operation was performed Oct. 20 on a 17-year-old Vernon girl. Her condition grew worse and she was taken to a local hospital and officers called into the case. Attendants at the hospital Monday night said her condition was serious and she has only a fighting chance to recover.

E. F. Fruechte, assistant district attorney, with Deputy Sheriff Dick Morris began working on the case Sunday afternoon. The defendant was arrested about 6:30 p. m. and a court of inquiry held before Justice Gwinn that lasted for several hours. Monday bond was set at $2000.

MOODY PLANS TO CALL MEET OF TAX BOARD

Governor Asks For Legal Opinion On Changing Present Rate

RATE SET IN JULY

Since Setting Of Tax For Year State Gains Extra Funds

AUSTIN, Oct. 31. (AP)—State taxes may be reduced 20 per cent, making a saving of several millions of dollars for property owners, if the state automatic tax board can meet again legally and cut the rate set last July, Governor Dan Moody said late Monday.

The governor asked Attorney General Claude Pollard for an opinion as to whether a special session of the tax board could be called, declaring that conditions which guided the board, under statutory limitations, when the rate was set at 25 cents in July, having improved to such extent that a large surplus may be expected in the state treasury unless the rate is reduced.

He estimated a "very large increase in penitentiary farm revenues," pointed to the fact that general revenues are "running ahead of July anticipation," mentioned the $2,000,000 balance in the treasury Sept. 1, and estimated a heavy increase in collection of delinquent taxes, now that the cotton price depression is relieved.

The attorney general has not ruled on the question yet.

DENVER READY TO HAUL GOODS

Estelline Branch Ready To Handle Freight

Freight service for carload shipments will be started Tuesday over 40 miles of the Fort Worth and Denver railroad's extension into the South Plains from Estelline, it was announced Monday by O. M. Smith, general freight and passenger agent here.

The service on the completed portion of the new line will be limited for some time yet, said Mr. Smith. Carload shipments only can be accepted, he said, and there are no depots or agents in any of the towns now enjoying railroad service for the first time. Shipments at present must be prepaid, Mr. Smith said.

Owing to the fact that the railroad has no agents yet in the towns, it will be almost necessary for shippers to send representatives to supervise handling of their shipments, he said.

Towns along the 40-mile stretch of the line which has been completed are Quitaque, Turkey, Parnell and Tampico.

SOLON CLAIMS WOMAN HOLDS SECRET POWER

Fight On Governor Of Oklahoma Takes On Occult Note

CHARGE IS DENIED

Governor Says His Aide Has No Witchcraft Rule Over Him

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 31. (AP) When Governor Henry S. Johnston replies to allegations brought to light in a petition asking for a special investigating session of the legislature, he will do so in writing, he said today.

The petition, prepared by H. Tom Kight of Claremore, chairman of the house appropriations committee in the eleventh session of the legislature, was made public last night, but has not been presented to the governor. Kight said it probably would be presented, with names of 69 members of the legislature appended, within a week.

Dr. Hammonds Replies

While the governor was silent, Dr. O. O. Hammonds, state health commissioner, and husband of the governor's confidential secretary, hastened to answer a report, contained in a companion statement to Kight's petition, that Dr. Hammonds had collected fees for examination of compensation applicants to the state industrial commission. The commissioner said that records in the state auditor's office would be a reply to the charge. The companion statement was issued by E. P. Hill, veteran legislator from Pittsburg county, who said he was making none of the charges, but merely repeating what he had heard.

Governor Is Silent

Neither the governor nor Dr. Hamonds replied to the charge in Kight's petition that the employment of Mrs. Hammonds as confidential secretary is unauthorized by law. Both Governor Johnston and Mrs. Hammonds, however, some time ago denied as ridiculous a report that the confidential secretary exercised occult power over the governor. At that time the governor said Mrs. Hammonds had no knowledge of rosicrucianism, an Oriental philosophy in which the governor says he is interested as a student.

Governor 'In Fact'

"You should know that it is common talk throughout the state that she (Mrs. Hammonds) is governor in fact," Kight's petition said, "and that while the naked legal title of governor is vested in you, she holds the office and by an unexplainable control, performs its duties and exercises its powers."

QUOTING Mr. WEBSTER.

Rosicrucian or Rosicrucianism: n. (The name is probably due to a German theologian, Johann Valentin Andreæ, who in anonymous pamphlets called himself a knight of the Rose Cross (G. Rosenkreuz), using a seal with a St. Andrew's cross and four roses. One who, in the 17th century and the early part of the 18th, claimed to belong to a secret society of philosophers deeply versed in the secrets of nature—the society having existed, it was stated, several hundred years. The Rosicrucians were also called Brothers of the Rosy Cross, Rosy-cross Knights, Rosy-cross philosphers, etc. Among many pretensions, they claimed to be able to transmute metals, to prolong life, to know what is passing in distant places, and to discover the most hidden things by the application of the Cabala and science of numbers.

MILLIKIN JURY GOES TO BED

Verdict In Sanity Case Expected Tuesday

LOCKHART, Oct. 31.—The jury in the A. V. Millikin sanity hearing retired at 11:30 o'clock tonight without having reached a verdict.

The question of Millikin's sanity was placed in their hands at 10:45 o'clock and court attaches looked for a speedy verdict. But when an hour passed without a knock on the jury room door, Judge M. C. Jeffrey, before whom the hearing was conducted, instructed the jury to retire and resume deliberations tomorrow morning after breakfast.

Millikin, under death sentence for the slaying of Mrs. Virginia Petty of San Antonio, took little interest in tonight's proceedings.

LONG COURT FIGHT SEEN ON WARRANTS

Council Waits Action Of Judges On Injunction Filed Here

SHORTAGE LOOMS

Suspension Of Building Activity Possible On Adverse Ruling

All city improvement work in Wichita Falls may be halted.

This statement was made Monday by Mayor R. E. Shepherd and in such he enumerated the new auditorium, street and water improvements and cemetery work. Should the courts sustain the plea for injunction to restrain the city from issuing warrants it will mean that the city will have no funds with which to carry on the work.

City Without Funds.

"The auditorium is the most important thing for the moment," said the mayor.

"We have the state Baptist convention coming here November 16 and if all goes well it will be ready to house our visitors. Should we fail to receive the money the work will have to stop for certainly the contractors are not going ahead, finish and turn the building over to us unless they are paid for it. They have to pay their workmen each week and cannot be expected to carry the city.

"Wichita Falls will be placed in the position of a man who invites guests to visit him and has no place to house them. There are other features also to be considered. The city administration is scattered all over the city at present. The welfare agencies and kindred organizations are in the same fix. None of these will be able to be brought together for a more efficient and cheaper handling. The present method is costing the taxpayers money and it was our hope to end it.

Public Should Know.

"Beside the convention the Womans Forum has put up a large guarantee to have Marion Talley here November 25. This will affect our own home folks and we want to get the auditorium done.

"Of course we do not wish to run contrawise to the courts or be placed in the attitude of holding their judgments lightly or tell them the law for they are going to give the matter the utmost consideration and render judgment as they see it. But these are facts which the public may as well know."

Mayor Shepherd saw the possibility of a long drawn out court fight in the case. He said he understood that if the case was decided adversely to the plaintiffs they would appeal to the higher courts and while if the decision was adverse to the city it also would appeal. Attorneys for both sides were to present their briefs to the court Tuesday morning and it will probably be Saturday before the matter is officially decided.

Attack City Authority.

The injunction suit was filed by J. M. Childers, G. B. Isler and A. D. Magner seeking to restrain the city from receiving money on $214,000 in warrants that had been voted and sold by the council. The warrants were divided into $14,000 for the purchase of additional land for a cemetery, $100,000 to pay contracts for added work on the city auditorium and $100,000 for waterworks and street work.

The plaintiffs contended that the board had not issued warrants in fact but bonds and bore down heavily on the fact that the instruments were negotiable. They claimed the city did not have the authority to purchase the cemetery land without a bond issue. Testimony in the hearing Saturday was to the effect that contracts were outstanding on the auditorium to take all of the money and that some of the work had been done. The same was true of the water works, with $32,500 of the work completed and the money owed by the city.

Economy Claimed.

Attorneys for the city in their answer cited a long list of opinions from the higher courts that they said would sustain them. They also contended that stretching out the payment for the work with the warrants would make matters much easier for the taxpayers than either paying for all of the improvements in one year or in voting long term bonds where the interest charges would go much higher.

Government Traces Alleged 'Cover' Deal To Fasten Fraud On Oil Baron

Prosecution On Sinclair Meets Setback When Court Excludes Part of Evidence By Government

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—The government made impressive strides in its effort to connect Harry F. Sinclair with the $50,000,000 oil deal from which $230,500 in Liberty bonds have been traced to Albert B. Fall, at the Teapot Dome conspiracy trial today. Pounding away at the defense's chief contention that Sinclair did not own or distribute the alleged bribe bonds, Prosecutor Owen J. Roberts read to the jury three contracts, all bearing Sinclair's signature, which showed the oil millionaire as one of the chief moving geniuses of the mysterious Continental Trading company transaction, the deal by which the government alleges the participants in the Teapot Dome lease were "paid off."

Court Excludes Evidence.

Early in the day the government received a serious setback in the form of a ruling from Justice Frederick L. Siddons which kept the mention of Sinclair's name as directly connected in the early stages of the Continental Trading company transaction from the jury.

Roberts, however, developed other evidence to connect Sinclair with the $50,000,000 deal by placing H. L. Phillips, president of the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing company on the stand to identify the contracts.

This action was accomplished over vigorous objections of Martin Littleton, chief counsel for the oil baron. Justice Siddons, however, sided with the prosecution "that the evidence thus far offered and proposed to be offered tends to establish from reasonable deductions and inference that a jury would be warranted to draw, that the Continental Trading company was a mere instrument to accomplish that which the defendant Sinclair, as is charged here, with the defendant Fall was conspiring to bring about—to defraud the United States."

Phillips seemed rather an unwilling witness, answering "I don't remember"—or similar noncommital phrases when questioned by the prosecutor.

Government Not Satisfied.

The only point on which Phillips professed to have information, which concerned his actions in connection with the assignment of the Continental company's contract for the $50,000,000 oil deal, was not satisfactory to Roberts.

Finally, after a lengthly cross-examination by Sinclair counsel, Justice Siddons took the witness in an effort to wring from him some information on the subject. The court likewise was not very successful.

Genuine Corot To Be Exhibited Here When Yunt Art Collection Is Shown

A genuine Corot will be displayed among the beautiful pieces of art brought here by the Yunt Art Galleries which are being displayed by S. McClellan Yunt at the Forum. The Corot is one of the French master's early morning moods with the dim outline of the dark dawn and an occasional touch of pastoral life as so often seen in the masterpieces of Jean B. C. Corot. The great French artist liked to paint the early morning with its dark outlines and fresh clear atmosphere.

There are but two genuine speciments of Corot in Wichita Falls. They are owned by W. B. Hamilton and Walter Cline and have often been viewed in the private collections of the possessors by art lovers of the city.

Carnival Spirit Marks Celebration Of Halloween Here; Few Arrests

Ghosts, hobgoblins and other creatures of the spirit world mingled with ordinary folk Monday night in the celebration of Halloween on Wichita Falls streets. The carnival spirit was rampant and many boxes of confetti and paper streamers were thrown about. Maids knocked strange men's hats awry and flirted with others behind masks that concealed their identity.

The throng on the streets increased until about 8:30 p. m. the traffic men of the police department were almost swamped. The autos and pedestrains were playing tag with each other and occasionally the jams would become so great that signal lights meant nothing. It was a matter of move when you could.

Police Commissioner Roy E. Carter decided he would help out after the council meeting and took his station at Eighth and Scott streets. A roadster loaded with youngsters shot by close to his toes. The dignified city dad did a war dance back of about ten paces. Another car shot by brushing his coat-tail. Forward came the commissioner while other members of the council stood on the corner and applauded.

With the exception of few boxes and chairs scattered about, little damage was reported to police headquarters. Less than half a dozen arrests were made. Andy Ballard, youth, received a slight wound over the eye when struck by a fan in the hands of a fair masquerader.

THUG'S VICTIM FIGHTS TO LIVE

Louis Pickelsimer Shows Gain From Injury

There seems to be no crack in the wall of silence surrounding the identity of the assailant of Louis Pickelsimer, 17, who is battling for his life in Wichita General hospital, city and county officers said late Monday after a draught thrown out over two states had failed to corral the man who clubbed and shot the youth just before dawn Saturday.

Young Pickelsimer clung tenaciously to a dim spark of life as attending physicians, amazed at his success in retaining clearness of mind despite seemingly fatal wounds, declared that his condition was critical with little chance for his recovery.

"His condition is unchanged," was the report from the hospital late Monday night.

Boy Keeps Senses.

Never losing consciousness Monday, he was able to declare positively after a glance at a suspect who was brought from Fort Worth for him to view was not the man who had attacked him. He was also able to recognize and talk with his mother, who came from Geary, Oklahoma, to be at his bedside.

He was attacked by an older companion who clubbed him, shot him and robbed hiza as he lay in a haystack near Iowa Park. He was asleep, he said, when his associate first attacked him. The man robbed Pickelsimer of his shoes, and $4.70 before leaving him to his fate, the injured youth said. They had met at Bowie and were enroute to Mangum, Okla., in search of work, Pickelsimer declared.

The youth's scalp was "beaten to a pulp" and his skull was cracked, according to physicians. The bullet ranged through his face and lodged in his neck.

Infection Chief Danger.

"Infection of the bullet wound is the chief danger now facing him," it was said. "His condition will continue critical for several days, with but a slim chance of his recovery."

The suspect who was arrested at Fort Worth Sunday was taken into custody because he "answered the description" of the youth's assailant which was broadcast over Texas and Oklahoma. When brought here and taken before Piskelsimer, however, the injured youth was positive that he was not the man sought. The suspect said he was a coal miner enroute to Arizona in quest of employment and evidenced a willingness to answer any question regarding himself. Chief of Police Frank Burns and other city officials were convinced he was not the man wanted. After his release Chief Burns assisted him in finding an automobile ride toward his western destination.

Search Continues.

Both city and county officers continued their search for the attacker throughout Monday, and officers in Texas and Oklahoma have been furnished descriptions of the fugitive.

Sheriff W. G. Bralley is seeking to locate a man named Bud Gentry and the driver of a Chevrolet automobile who is reported to have given the boys a ride toward Electra Saturday. It is believed they may be able to give a better description of Pickelsimer's attacker than is now available. Pickelsimer said that his companion had mentioned having an acquaintance named Bud Gentry. Efforts to locate either Gentry or the driver of the Chevrolet were futile Monday.

City Council Orders Collection Of Delinquent Taxes For Sewers

Services Ordered Discontinued Where Property Owners Fail To Meet Payments

Sewer tax delinquents are going to be the object of a special drive in Wichita Falls. Mayor R. E. Shepherd brought the matter up Monday night before the citi council and all were outspoken in favor of enforcing this tax to the limit. Some favored the employing of a special crew of men to collect the back taxes while others favored immediately cutting off sewer service to those who have not paid up.

"We need this money," said Mayor Shepherd, "and it is not just for some to pay while others escape. The courts have decided we had the right to collect it and I am in favor of going the limit."

Stop Service.

Commissioner A. W. King said he thought suit should be filed and the service cut off also. It was decided to give a few days in which the delinquents might pay up before taking drastic action. The board opinion seemed to be that such a method would give all a chance and then to start the sterner measures.

The new vice ordinances were passed finally. The majority of these offenses are already against state laws but now can be handled in the corporation court.

Change in the route of the Tilden bus line was approved by the council. The new routing will start the line at Seventh and Broad streets and go east on Seventh street to the alley between Ohio street and the railroad track. The bus will go through the alley to Eighth street and west on Eighth street to Lamar street which street it will traverse north to Seventh street and west on Seventh street over the old route.

Water Meeting.

A map of Westmoreland park was submitted to the council to be approved and filed with the city engineer. The matter was delayed for one week as no application accompanied the map and another map is also needed.

A meeting to discuss water problems of the city will be held in the office of Mayor Shepherd Tuesday morning and all members of the council were invited to attend.

Genuine Corot To Be Exhibited

achievement to create an interest than to destroy one, once said Jean Leautaud, and these words by Robert Henri, greatest of living American portrait painters, "We are not interested in art as a means of making a living but as a meahs of living a life," from the inspiration for the bringing of the Ben Foster Memorial Art exhibit which will be shown at the Womans Forum beginning Tuesday under the auspices of the art department of the Womans Forum which will open its season's work with this exhibit and a program on Thursday afternoon.

The Corot is being displayed in the committee room of the club house and is shown there in the smaller and choice collection which Mr. Yunt is showing in the smaller room. The Ben Foster choice specimen, "Moonlight Shadows", a typical New England scene with the shadowed white house and subtle charm of the American painter at his best, is also being displayed in the committee room exhibit along with a Blakelock, a Dangerfield and two Inness pieces of art and others of unusual appeal to art lovers.

The major part of the exhibit is being shown in the auditorium of the Forum with the works of Ben Foster displayed on a background of maroon velvet hangings.

Most notable among these beautiful paintings of the late Ben Foster is his "In Maine" which breathes the odor of the great pines of the northeast and displays an unusually remarkable sense of perspective. Within a space of about 20 inches Foster has been able to portray a distance of about as many blocks, and retains a symmetry and consistency with the great out-of-doors. Foster loved the autumn season and only one piece of art on display at the Forum shows a spring mood. The versatility of the past master may be seen in his painting of still life—a jar of beautiful white plumy chrysanthemums as real as life.

The Ben Foster Memorial Art exhibit and works of other famous artists will be on display at the Forum from Tuesday afternoon until November 10. Mr. Yunt will take Forum members on a tour of the exhibit and explain the unusual beauties of some of the work Tuesday afternoon following the program of the general Forum session at 3 o'clock.

On Thursday afternoon Mr. Yunt will again conduct a study tour following the program to be presented by the art department of the Forum when it will formally open the season's work at 3 o'clock with a program in the charge of Miss Jennie Roberson, chairman of the Forum art department program committee, and supervisor of art in the city public schools.

Miss Erma Nala Voss will play two piano selections Thursday afternoon, "To a Water Lily" and "In Autumn," both by MacDowell. Mr. W. P. Killingsworth will discuss "Selection of Pictures and Framing of Pictures," while Mr. Yunt will discuss the Ben Foster exhibit and conduct a tour of the display.

INGROWN NAIL

Turns Right Out Itself

A few drops of "Outgro" in the crevice of the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night.

"Outgro" is a harmless antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

Sure of Himself Now!

So Clean Inside, No Fear of Perspiration Offense, However Over-Heated

Once a person realizes the wonderful properties in cascara, no other laxative in the market would even be considered.

It's no trick to "clean out the bowels." Dozens of things will do that. But a little natural cascara purifies the system clear through. Cleanses even the pores of your skin. Renders perspiration as inoffensive as so much dew! The old-fashioned way was "salts." They get action, but they take the mucous membrane along with the waste matter! Mineral oils are gentler, but they leave the bowels with a film of poisons for the blood to carry off through the pores. But when you cascarize the system, you get rid of all the poisons by normal muscular action of the bowels.

If you have the habit of taking medicine for constipation, or even for auto-intoxication, stop it. For a candy cascaret is a delightful form in which to take cascara; children love them, and the taste tempts most grown-ups to have "more."

And what a comfort to know you are in that clean, wholesome condition that does away with any need of deodorants, even in warmest weather! Try a cascaret tonight—see how you feel next day, and for days after! With the skin fresh and fragrant. All druggists, 10c and 25c.

"ANYTHING that gets results, was all the thought I ever gave to laxatives. In those days my perspiration was so acid, it used to rot my clothes. Then a doctor tipped me off to those wonderful little sweeteners—

The Most Important Customer In Our Store

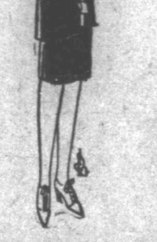

There's an old story about a tiny vendor of plum tarts in London who refused to permit a wealthy man to buy his day's supply, because, as he wisely stated, "I won't have any left for my regular customers."

Young as he was he had already learned the basic lesson of merchandising that it isn't the one or two big sales that count, but the "regular customers" who will make or break a business.

The J. C. Penney Company have built up this store with the help of the "regular customer." Mothers often bring their newly-married daughters here, knowing that our spirit of helpful service will assist them in the problems of their new home.

Eight Northwest Texas Freshmen Rate High At U. of T.

Eight freshmen students at the University of Texas from Wichita Falls and surrounding territory placed in the first 10 per cent in the school's intelligence tests, according to advices received by The Record-News Monday. These tests are given each year and are not used in grading the regular work of students but are more for the psychological department of the faculty. Dr. H. T. Parlin, junior dean of the college of arts, also uses them to aid in advising students who are falling down in their work.

The students placing in the first 10 per cent were Wymore B. Downing, Wichita Falls; Maco Boddy, Henrietta; Grace Brown, Electra; Fred Holloway, Bowie; James Oscar Levi, Childress; David Mead, Amarillo; Morton Rogers, Amarillo; and N. H. Swafford, Canyon.

PROGRESS ON IN TRUSCOTT

Building Program Gets Under Way

BY SENA ALLEEN WRIGHT.

TRUSCOTT, Oct. 31.—A substantial building program is under way in Truscott, Knox county, a West Texas town of about 500 population. A modern and up-to-date school building is under construction to care for the ever-increasing scholastic enrollment, and about a dozen new homes are going up at this time.

Truscott is located on the Orient railroad and is the trade center of a territory that measures up to the best farm land of West Texas. Cotton, corn, and all kinds of feed stuffs are raised in sizable quantities there. Four miles from the town is located the famous J. Y. Masterson ranch, which consists of over 200 sections of range land, stocked with fine Black Angus cattle.

Many Fine Buildings.

The following leading business concerns of Truscott are all housed in up-to-date brick structures; two grain elevators, one bank, five mercantile stores, two garages, cafe, lumber yard, two gins, and one picture show. Truscott claims more good brick buildings for its size than any town in West Texas.

A good up-to-date hotel is needed in Truscott as the town is unable to house all the people who are stopping there. Twenty people are employed at the edge of town at the booster station of the Magnolia Pipe Line company. Workmen at the Humble Pipe Line station, 20 miles west of Truscott, are also in the town's trade territory.

Band Organized.

A 28 piece municipal band has been organized at Truscott, headed by Charles J. Marts, which plans to enter the state band competition at the 10th annual West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention in Fort Worth next June. Truscott recently reaffiliated with the West Texas Chamber for the coming year.

40,000 Acres Planted To Wheat In Foard

CROWELL, Oct. 31. (Sp)—Wheat in Foard county is in good condition and practically all of this crop has already been sowed and a normal acreage or about forty thousand acres in the county will be planted to wheat in Foard county this year. As a result of the very early harvest of the 1927 crop, wheat land was prepared earlier than usual and has received full benefit of moisture that has fallen since that time and a splendid season for planting was provided over most of the county.

Historic Ship Anchor Found At Brownsville

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, Oct. 31. (Sp.)—An anchor weighing several tons of an old French four-master which many years ago plied the waves between Point Isabel and Bordeaux, France, will be on display in Brownsville during the first annual convention of the South Texas Chamber of Commerce, November 14 and 15.

The anchor was recently removed from the deep water channel dredged at Point Isabel and was brought with its ponderous chains to Brownsville. It is to be mounted in wooden frame.

Thalia Affiliates With West Texas Chamber

Special to The Record News.

CROWELL, Oct. 31.—The long list of towns affiliated with the West Texas Chamber of Commerce was further increased when six firms of Thalia, an inland town of Foard county, ten miles east of Crowell, took out memberships in this organization after solicitation by L. B. Campbell, staff member of the W. T. C. C. and Mack Boswell, secretary of the Crowell Chamber of Commerce. This is the first year that Thalia has been affiliated with the West Texas organization.

Flying Babies Take Air Spin

Because nursery tales of flying witches riding straw brooms; of gallant Arabian Knights soaring on magic carpets; and of Pegasus, the winged horse, always enthralled them, Betty Byrne, 8 and her sister Ann, 3, begged their mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Byrne, of Memphis, Tenn., to let them go for a ride in a "flying auto." She consented and now the children, after a 20-minute spin with Aviator Jess Windham, are Memphis' first flying babies.

Crowell Maps Varied Program For Mammoth Armistice Day Celebration

CROWELL, Oct. 31. (Sp.)—Probably the largest Armistice Day celebration for 1927 in this section of Texas will be held in Crowell on November 11th for which a program of varied activities has already been completed, consisting of fireworks display, speaking, stunt flying, football game, band music and other features.

The principal speaker for the day will be Capt. George Green, chaplain of the 142nd Infantry, U. S. A. Rev. Green has held every rank in the army from private to captain and is a veteran of both the Spanish-American and World wars. He has been the pastor to two of the last three Texas governors and is at present pastor of the First Baptist church at Austin. Other speakers for the day are Dr. R. L. Kincaid, state representative of this district; J. W. Beverly, John W. Wesley, W. A. Cogdell and R. P. Womack, all of Crowell.

The main event of the day will begin at 6:30 p. m. at the Crowell baseball park where a musical and speaking program will be rendered followed by a fireworks display. At five o'clock a smoke screen will be laid down over the city of Crowell and will furnish an opportunity for many people to see how a real war time smoke screen looks. This part of the program will be put on by Company I, 142nd Infantry, Texas National Guard and will last about 15 minutes.

R. L. Lowry, American Legion flyer of Plainview, will do stunt flying at different times during the day. A football game between Crowell high school and a team to be announced later will take place during the afternoon.

Delegates from every state in the union and from many foreign countries will be in attendance at this mammoth woman's club meeting.

The seven districts of the Texas Federation of Women's clubs are making free will offerings to raise the $25,000 fund required to finance the international and national session at San Antonio. Mrs. Homer D. Wade is the state biennial treasurer.

REAL WAR RELIC

German "77" Given To Crowell American Legion Post

CROWELL, Oct. 31.(Sp)—The Gordon J. Ford Post, American Legion of Crowell, has secured a 77 M.M. German cannon and will place it on the court house lawn on November 11 in connection with the Armistice Day exercises that will take place here then.

A personal letter was received by the legion Friday from Governor Moody announcing this cannon as a gift. There are only a few of these relics left for distribution and Crowell considers itself fortunate in securing one of them.

TWO TOWNS TO DINE TOGETHER

Crowell and Vernon C. C Banquet Slated

CROWELL, Oct. 31. (Sp.)—One hundred citizens of Vernon and an equal number of Crowell citizens will meet together in a banquet to be held in the basement of the Baptist church here Thursday night. This banquet is one of a series sponsored by the Vernon chamber of commerce and is held in order to promote the friendship and to become better acquainted with Vernon's neighboring cities.

The meeting is to be a get-acquainted and entertaining affair, half of the program to be furnished by the Crowell chamber of commerce and half by the visitors. As the purpose of the meeting is to promote friendship between the two neighboring cities, Geo. D. Self of Crowell who will be toastmaster, will not permit any "long-winded" after dinner speeches from either side that might in the slightest cause ill-feeling between representatives of the two cities.

COTTON YIELDS SET RECORDS

Foard County Farmers Set Marks

Special to The Record News.

CROWELL, Oct. 31.—Over 10,000 bales of cotton have been ginned in Foard county this year and this amount is believed to be over half of the cotton that will be produced in the county for 1927. Production is heavier than was expected and many yields that are the heaviest in the history of this section have been reported.

John Ray who lives in the northeast part of the county has already gathered 110 bales off of 114 acres of land and he feels certain that he will gather at lesat 20 bales more off of this land which will make the 114 acres average more than a bale to the acre.

Probably the outstanding yield in the county and which is likely to be the best in the state is coming from the farm of M. L. Cribbs who lives about 15 miles northeast of Crowell. More than two bales to the acre have already been gathered off of his 14 acre crop and Mr. Cribbs believes that the yield from this 14 acres will exceed three bales to the acre by the time that picking is over.

FARMER WOMAN IN OKLAHOMA

Praises Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Because It Gave Her Health and Strength

In a sunny pasture in Oklahoma, a herd of sleek cows was grazing.

They made a pretty picture. But the thin woman in the blue checked apron sighed as she looked at them. She was tired of cows, tired of her tedious work in the dairy. She was tired of cooking for a houseful of boarders, besides caring for her own family. The burdens of life seemed too heavy for her failing health. She had lost confidence in herself.

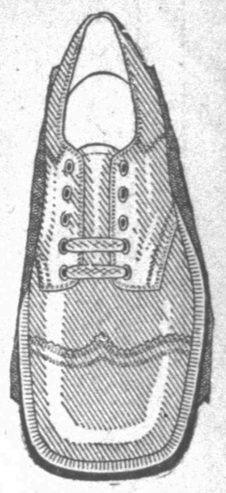

One day she began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and her general health began to improve. She took it faithfully. Now she can do her work without any trouble, sleeps well and is no longer blue and tired.

This woman, Mrs. Cora Short, R. R. 9, Box 387, Oklahoma City, Okla., writes: "Everybody now says: 'Mrs. Short, what are you doing to yourself?' I weigh 135 and my weight before I took it was 115. I have taken seven bottles of the Vegetable Compound."

Are you on the Sunlit Road to Better Health?

THE PIED PIPER

Follow Where He Leads, for His Is the Kingdom of Love

Drawn by Dorothy Flack

WHEN Love plays the pipes the whole world dances a merry measure to the gay tune. Like the Pied Piper, he plays such enchanting melodies that whether you will or not you simply have to fall into line and follow him wherever he leads.

And what a motley procession Love leads! No one dares refuse to listen to his merry lay, and before you know where you are you are keeping step to his music. Princess and beggar-maid, rich and poor, beautiful and plain, you'll find them all together, for Love is no respecter of persons or rank.

He's the democratic ruler of the strongest kingdom on earth—the Kingdom of Love—and he rules with a wisdom and justice that make him beloved by everyone.

So don't refuse to follow him, for when you first hear the soft, sweet melodies of Love's song entering your heart you may be sure that you are one of the chosen ones, and have been picked to enter his vast kingdom of happiness and content.

Don't fear to follow when you hear the tune that this Pied Piper plays, for he will lead you to the goal of heart's desire, and far from refusing to listen, you should merrily and joyfully follow him wherever he leads, for you may be assured that only in this way will you attain your dreams of—"And so they lived happy ever after."

Be Gentle in Criticism

By Lucy Lowell.

WE ARE most critical of those things in others which we should most criticize in ourselves.

Our own pet little failings—easy enough to pass over them, find excuses. "Some day I must get at that in a serious way and throw it out. I oughtn't to have it, but after all it's just a bit of weakness."

LUCY LOWELL

But the same thing, the same bit of weakness in another rouses our ire. "How odious!" we say. "Unspeakable! Why in the world doesn't he do something about it?"

Well, it's human nature, a sort of weed in the garden of social intercourse, this tendency, which should be pulled out.

"He is not well bred that cannot bear ill-breeding in others," said Benjamin Franklin. Which is only a concrete way of stating a general proposition.

I dined in a restaurant one evening with a party which was kept more or less in turmoil by the demands of a young woman guest. She sent the waiter here and there, asking for another plate, more silver, changing food she had ordered for something else, all with the most beautiful air of doing those things by royal right. That it disturbed everyone else didn't in the least trouble her, if she noted the fact at all.

I asked about her afterward. "She comes from a home where there is a surplus of well-trained servants and everything just so?"

"On the contrary," a friend replied, "There never has been a servant in the house nor an extra fork nor anything but the simplest and plainest. She can't overlook any possible fault, you see, because she always has been surrounded by faults."

And there you have it. The person who most nearly has had perfection in and about himself is the one most tolerant of lack of it. He does not have to proclaim the fact that others are not right to prove his own worth.

Don't Worry About Your Blood Pressure

By Chas. A. L. Reed, M.D., Former President of the American Medical Association.

"THAT fellow is a blood-pressure nut," said one of my professional colleagues to me, pointing to a man who was leaving his consultation room just as I entered.

"What's that?" I inquired, knowing full well what he meant but wishing to hear him say it.

CHARLES A.L. REED, M.D.

"He's perfectly well, but has heard of 'blood pressure' and thinks it's something dreadful. So he keeps running in here to have his pressure tested. It's always normal. But soon he comes trotting back to see if it hasn't changed. He's literally obsessed with the fear of blood-pressure."

We, all of us in the profession, know this type.

Blood-pressure is a thing about which too much fuss is made. Some people do nothing but discuss the variations in their blood-pressure, to the detriment of the mental health. Doctors are always seeing patients who look and feel perfectly well but say they are suffering from "blood-pressure," as though it were a disease.

Blood-pressure, whether high or low, is not a disease, but a constitutional peculiarity which makes it advisable to observe care in certain directions in order to preserve efficiency in mind and body. People with abnormal blood-pressure are apt to react in a special way to toxaemia and fatigue, for instance.

The average blood-pressure between seventeen and forty is 125 millimetres of mercury in men and 115 in women. After forty there is a slow rise in the average, which is 136 for both sexes at sixty. Of course, considerable variations occur. As a rough guide, 25 per cent above the average, or below it, may be considered as abnormal, but no hard and fast line can be drawn. That means that a man under forty with a pressure over 150, or a woman with one of 140, is near the limit, and that a person at sixty should not have a blood-pressure much over 160.

It is impossible to legislate for low blood-pressure, but the limit is about 105 mm. for men and 100 for women. The tendency to high blood-pressure is hereditary, but the cause of abnormality either way is unknown, and probably lies in variations in the functions of the endocrine or ductless glands.

Hardening of the arteries is a result, not a cause, and younger people may have perfectly sound blood vessels with a high pressure. Although most high pressure subjects are of the stout and healthy-looking John Bull type, many are lean and nervous. In these the high blood pressure is probably caused by the mental state. Anxiety can raise the blood-pressure many points. The symptoms generally appear as a result of mental or physical overwork, prolonged worry, excess of food or drink or tobacco, or an infection, acute or chronic.

In women hardened arteries may appear at the change of life. They are not due to the high pressure itself, but to its effects first, on the ductless glands and, through them, on the blood vessels or heart.

Low blood-pressure is as common as high, but it receives much less attention. Its subjects are generally the meagre kind; thin, slouching people with narrow long chests. They are not athletic and choose sedentary occupations. They are rarely very well and have a habit of easily tiring and a general lack of endurance in contrast to the heroic efforts they often make to carry on with their work. They get occasional headaches and giddiness and suffer from pallor and cold extremities after mental or physical strain or an infection. Nevertheless, insurance figures show that they have a much better expectation of life than the average.

Don't worry about high blood-pressure of itself. Accept it as a constitutional peculiarity, governed by natural law, and one therefore to which you should adjust yourself intelligently by rational habits of life. But you can't do it by being a "blood-pressure nut."

It's Just Plain Foolishness To Argue On Which Sex Is Superior of Genus

Which Is Superior Sex? Well, That Depends—Shall Quarter-Century Wife Forgive or Divorce Unfaithful Husband? Advice to Woman Who Hates Housework.

DEAR MISS DIX—An argument has arisen, in a group of which I am a member, over which is the superior sex, and we decided to ask you what you think about it. We mean the superior sex not only in the domestic way but also in a business way. JAMES VAN R.

Answer:

Which is best, roast beef or ice cream? Potatoes or roses? Automobiles or railroad trains? Sunshine or rain? Your question is foolish, and cannot be answered because neither sex is wholly superior to the other. One excels in one thing, the other in another thing, and it is idle to contrast them without defining just what qualities you mean.

If you mean physical strength, undoubtedly the male is superior. There are no female Dempseys or Tuneys. No woman outside of a circus who can lift the loads that a husky longshoreman throws about, yet after the child-bearing period is over the length of life among women is longer than among men, and many a frail little mother outlives all her stalwart sons.

When it comes to courage the male sex is superior. Many women are afraid of mice. Very few women are brave enough to stay alone in house at night. But the woman who trembles at the very thought of a burglar will climb up on an operating table without a tremor and let surgeons cut her to pieces, while most men have to be driven to the dentist by their wives. Any doctor will bear testimony that women have ten times the nerve about bearing pain that men have.

When it comes to intellect the male sex is superior. We have had no lady Shakespeares, or Thackerays, or Edisons. No woman has written a supremely great book, or painted a supremely great picture, or built a supremely great edifice, or made a great invention, or become a great captain of industry.

But perhaps the creator is as great as the thing created, and the reason that women have achieved no great triumph in literature, or art, or industry is because their genius has gone into the bearing and rearing of children. For woman shares with God in the making of man.

When it comes to business the male sex is superior, because men are better equipped by nature for the struggle of money-making. They have stronger constitutions and fewer nerves than women, and can better stand the strain of hard daily labor. It is safe for them to go to places where it would be dangerous for a woman to go. They have been in the business game since the beginning of time and have acquired and inherited natural aptitude that most women lack.

They are not subjected to temptations that women are. Their sex is an asset to them instead of a handicap to them, as it is to a woman. And they are more apt to succeed than a woman is because when they go into a business or profession they do it for a life work instead of just as a temporary makeshift until they get married, as a woman does. Nor do they have to give up their careers when they marry as a woman generally does.

But, while men in general are superior to women in business, there are many exceptions to this rule. There are many women who are financial geniuses, and the backbone of many an office is the woman private secretary who has all of its details at her fingers' end. Also women's tastes and knowledge of their sex gives them a preeminence as buyers and sellers in women's wares.

And when it comes to getting the most out of a dollar and saving money, any ordinary woman can make rings all around the men of her family. Very few men ever put anything aside until they get married, and the savings banks will tell you that their female depositors far outnumber their male.

When it comes to the moralities the female sex is superior. Far more women than men walk the straight-and-narrow path and it is the women of every community who are the backbone of the churches and of every good and philanthropic work.

The female sex is superior to the male in the domestic virtues. There are many more faithful wives than there are faithful husbands, many more wives who try to make happy homes than there are husbands.

But it is foolish to try to compare the sexes. All humanity is cut off the same bolt of cloth and they are much of a muchness.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX.—After living together for 25 years and raising a family of children who are grown and married, I find that my husband is unfaithful to me. He asks forgiveness and promises to go straight from now on. He has always been good to me and never given me an unkind word. But I feel this is such a disgrace that I cannot continue to live with him and am thinking of getting a divorce. But I have not told my children of this yet. I wanted to ask you first. Dear Miss Dix, is it my duty to forgive and forget and give him another chance?

WISCONSIN.

It isn't a matter of duty, dear lady, it is a question of how you can salvage the most happiness for yourself out of the wreck of your life. No one who has experienced it cannot imagine the shock and horror it is to a woman, the insult it is to her wifehood, to discover that the husband whom she has loved and trusted, the father of her children, is false to her. It rocks the very foundations of her world and makes her feel that there is nothing in heaven or earth in which she can believe, or to which she can tie.

You are going through that experience now, and the natural human impulse is to break all ties that have bound you to the man who has deceived you. You feel that he is something unclean, and that you want to get away from him as far as possible. You have the right, that law gives you, to do so if you wish. You have no further duty to the husband who has betrayed you.

But before you take the fatal step consider well if you will really benefit yourself by leaving him. Divorce is not a magic panacea that will heal your heart, or make you forget, or put you back as a girl where you were 25 years ago. You can't do away with your marriage and all that has gone with it.

If you get your divorce, you will be homeless. You will probably have to go and live with one of your married children, and that will not be pleasant. In-laws may take you in out of pity and charity and a sense, but they never want you, and your children will be better off without you in their homes. You will have nothing to do, no interest to fill in your idle hours.

Even if you have enough money to live on, your situation is not greatly improved, because no women are more forlorn than the elderly women who drift from boarding house to boarding house, and hotel, with no occupation save killing time.

So I think that for your own sake it will be best for you to forgive and forget your husband's offense against you. It seems to me that you might well overlook this slip in a husband who has been good and kind to you. Many a woman does that and lives happily ever after. DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a woman 50 years old. My mother had 10 children and all of my life I had to do the dirty housework. Then I got married and I still had to do housework, which I hated. My husband did the kind of work I liked to do and enjoyed doing. But my children have worried at me until they made me give up the factory and stay at home, and now I have to do again the housework I hate.

A TIRED-OUT MOTHER.

Answer:

Don't be chicken-pecked. Go back to the factory and do the work you like to do. Not every woman is domestic in her tastes. You have served your turn at cooking and washing dishes. Let the youngsters do it a while.

DOROTHY DIX.

Our Rhyming Optimist

By Aline Michaelis.

IT may be true that in the world of men one needs to wear a mask the whole day through, to hide the inner self and being when these must be sheltered from the casual view. For there are secret depths of joy and bliss, of love and loathing that no man would share with other eyes; hope's height and hate's abyss, and flowing wells of rapture and despair. But in the welcome hours of release from all restraints unfriendly eyes impose, in tranquil twilights or with dawning's peace, the soul must face the secrets that it knows. The issues of its good or evil ways must all be met, however hard the task; the self that hides through busy, toil-filled days must in the end confront itself, unmask!

Folly's Daughter

A Thrilling Mystery of New York Night Life

By Ann Lisle

Dan Urges Marriage

MOTORING in from Tuckahoe over the wonderful smoothness of the Bronx parkway Jill relaxed completely. The speed-law permitted thirty-five miles an hour, and Dan drove a steady thirty.

Jill didn't talk much until they were stopped by the congestion at Fordham. Then she said suddenly:

ANN LISLE

"I wonder what your cousin, Mrs. Sylvester, would think if she met Folly——"

"They wouldn't understand each other at all," Dan said anxiously.

He was suddenly very rabbit-like. Jill realized that he was frightened at the mere thought of having his cousin, Mrs. Sylvester, meet Folly Duane. She found herself thinking of the Anita Spain incident and the way Dan had been incapable of handling it . . . If he had faced Mrs. Moore, the housekeeper at the Shannon, if he had refused to let Anita lie, if he had not permitted her to be drawn in, if she had never defied Mac Shannon in anguish because he could believe such things of her—how different everything might be.

She laughed suddenly. "Life's funny, isn't it?"

"You don't take things seriously enough, darling."

"I don't want to take things seriously, Dan . . . I want to be young."

"I want you to enjoy your youth. But you must have a sense of proportion, dear. I think you've been sulking all evening because of your own mistake in taking a high-ball. You must observe more, Jill. You must watch when you are beyond your depths socially. Then you won't make breaks."

"Were you ashamed of me?" she asked sullenly.

For a wild moment she half hoped Dan Ames might be going to say "Yes." Then she could thump her ring in his face and tell him that he needn't be ashamed of her a minute longer. But instead he concentrated on the car as he turned carefully into the Concourse. And when he had made his conservative turn he slowed down a bit, put his arm about her as meticulously as he drove his car and said gently:

"My little Jill is tired. You are irritable, dear. I think it is the drink. You're not used to drinking. I don't want you to get into the habit."

"I hate the stuff," she cried vehemently.

It seemed to her that she would never get home, never achieve the quiet peace and freedom and decent privacy of her bed. And while she was revelling in the fact that Folly was down at Bonnie's and wouldn't come barging in on her in a few hours, Dan was thoughtfully planning for Sunday.

"We ought to get a very early start. Very early. The Sunday drivers are most annoying. It might be pleasant to go to Westport, or even Bridgeport—or possibly New Haven. But we should start no later than 8. And at that we won't get back until midnight. On the whole, I think I'll try for New Haven. That is if you can be ready at 8."

"And you'll drive fast all day?" Jill asked. "Terribly fast."

"I'll have to if we're to make New Haven," Dan said.

Jill was relieved. He couldn't talk much then. He couldn't get her much if he was driving fast, for he wasn't the sort of man to do any one-arm driving if he was going more than twenty-five miles an hour.

They had lunch at the Taft at one. By three they were on their way back. At seven they were sitting down to dinner at a delightful old-fashioned inn near Norwalk.

"We've traveled some," Dan said. . . . "I hope you enjoy this as much as I do. If so we ought to plan an automobile honeymoon."

"A honeymoon!" Jill found herself getting sick and faint at the words.

"Oh—not for ages," she said nervously. "We don't want to get married for ages yet."

"Don't we?" Dan asked with a sudden flare of passion.

He leaned across the table. He took Jill's hand in his. "Listen, darling. I'm a man and I love you. I love you better than anybody or anything on earth. I am mad for you. If I had the sun and the moon and the stars at my disposal I'd give them to you. Do you believe that?"

"Yes," said Jill, moved in spite of herself. "I do believe that . . . And it is wonderful to know it. Somehow, Dan, you've just given me back my faith in everything."

"I'm glad," he told her. "I'm proud. I want to give you faith in everything, but above all faith in me. You're my little gift of sunshine. You make me feel that all's right with the world. And so it's natural I should want you—for my own, isn't it,"

"Yes—I suppose so," Jill said faintly. . . . But this time she was not frightened at the thought. After all there had never been any one to think of her with much love or devotion. And it was wonderful to be first with some one—to have some one care more for you than for even himself.

"What are we waiting for, then?" Dan asked. "Why don't we get married soon?"

"All right," Jill agreed. . . . The sooner the better. Then she would be committed. The die would be cast. This sick passion of longing for Mac would surely stop once she was married to Dan.

"This month," Dan urged.

"All right. October's a lovely month. . . ."

"I can't wait. . . . Why not tomorrow, Jill?"

Dinner Monday Evening Marks End Parties Honoring Tuesday Bride

As a climax to the many attractive parties which have feted Miss Catherine Moore, whose marriage to Dwight Ross will take place Tuesday evening at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Moore, Number 4 Crestway, at 8:30 o'clock, Mrs. C. D. Shamburger and her daughter, Mrs. Eugene Anderson, entertained members of the bridal party at the home of Mrs. Shamburger, 2501 Ninth street, Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock with a delightful five course dinner.

The predominating note of the pretty house decorations was the wealth of beautiful pink rosebuds which with ferns and smilax entwined made an attractive color scheme of pink and green, the chosen colors of the bride. The light fixtures were lent a festive air by the entwined smilax and fern.

The table was set in a "T" shape and was lighted with tall pink candles set in silver candle holders. Pink rosebuds and feather-like ferns further embellished the table. The perfect appointments were set upon a cutwork table cover over pink satin. The favors for the ladies were small colonial corsages of sweetheart roses while the men received bouttonieres of pink rosebuds.

A toast to the bride was given by Ray Puckett, while Mrs. John Rhea gave a toast to the bridegroom.

Covers were laid for the following: Miss Moore, Messrs. and Mesdames W. M. Moore, Ray Puckett, John Rhea, Jouette Bonner, Grady England, R. E. Shepherd, Mrs. Harry Hall from Charleston, W. Va., H. Twain Class Enjoys Halloween Party

Members of the Twain class of the First Methodist church Sunday school enjoyed a masked Halloween party in the basement of the church, Saturday evening. The room was decorated in orange and black with ghosts, witches and black cats hanging about the room, making it look like a veritable "spook'n'haunt."

After the group had unmasked numerous games were played under the leadership of Mrs. T. P. Picard. In the game of "coo-coo" Mrs. R. W. H. McCulloch won the prize for performing the best stunt. Mrs. J. G. Green told the always interesting "ghost" story, of the dead man Jones and amid screams and yells parts of his body were passed around the room. At the conclusion of the story the dead man appeared among the guests in the form of a ghost.

THE RIGHT WAY TO BANISH FAT

Combat a cause which modern research has discovered. Turn food into fuel and energy, rather than into fat. Supply a natural element which your system lacks. That is the method embodied in Marmola prescription tablets.

People have used Marmola for 20 years—millions of boxes of it. They have told others the results. Now, in almost every circle, you can see the results in new beauty and new vim. Why not learn the way to attain them?

A book in each box of Marmola tells you the formula, also the reasons for results. You will know why the effects come, and why they are beneficial. Go ask your druggist—in fairness to yourself—for a $1 box of Marmola.

Have you been invited to Miss Brouthertin's next tea party? You are to be in the receiving line? That's fine, Mary Lynn's parties are always quite lovely, don't you think?

Little Miss Brouthertin is the charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Brouthertin of 1819 Collins and has just arrived at that interesting age when her pep and enthusiasm keep the entire family busy and on their toes. She is two years old and lays claim to a pair of very large brown eyes and golden curls, a gift not to be "sniffed at," especially when accompanied by the social trait of entertaining frequently at tea.

Besides a gift for pure southern hospitality, Mary Lynn is quite a conversationalist — her newest achievement being a positive "sure" instead of the more sedate "yes sir" and "yes ma'am" Mother has tried to teach her.

Mr. and Mrs. Brouthertin have made Wichita Falls their home for the past several years. Br. Brouthertin is chief engineer for the Texas company.

Officers Of Class Honored Guests At Club House Event

Chrysanthemums and black decorations made festive the Womans Forum Monday noon when the Wesley Girls class of the First Methodist Episcopal church, South, honored the incoming and retiring officers of the class with a delightful luncheon.

Mrs. F. L. Mercer, president of the class, was the clever toastmistress of the occasion and presided over the program graciously. Invocation was given by Mrs. J. C. Russell of Electra, a former member of the Wesley Girls class. Accompanied on the piano by Mrs. J. E. O'Brien, Mrs. Lula Richardson Dean gave a group of songs including "Love's in My Heart," by R. Huntington Woodman, "Little Rose of May," Kathleen Blair Clarke, and "The False Prophet" by John Primble Scott.

Mrs. Ralph DeShong gave a clever toast the Wesley Girls while Mrs. E. B. Lehrack and Mrs. Joel MacGregor in gypsy costumes predicted the future for the members of the class and gave a weird tale of woes beheld in a glass pot which formed a part of the clever costume worn by Mrs. MacGregor.

Dainty glass poudre jars were given retiring officers who made short talks of appreciation.

An unusual feature of the program was the informal open house held following the luncheon by Mrs. W. W. Silk, teacher of the class, who was unable to appear at the luncheon on account of a badly sprained ankle sustained Friday evening.

The 103 members of the Wesley Girls class who attended the luncheon included the following: Mesdames Jay Lewis, A. H. Drake, Ben Hathorn, J. R. Welch, P. E. Miller, Joel H. MacGregor, J. C. Hanks, Grover C. Bullington, T. E. Dobson, P. F. Lesh, George Dimock, E. S. Drummond, D. H. Allday, R. M. Morrow, Roy F. Calvert, O. G. Duff, N. M. Clifford, L. C. Ulrich, C. C. Collier, W. C. In Hoosier Land

NOW the Supreme Court of Indiana has been asked to oust Mayor John L. Duvall of Indianapolis, "inasmuch as Duvall never was legally elected mayor of that city." Duvall was convicted of violating the corrupt practices act recently and fined $1000, sentenced to 30 days' imprisonment and disbarred from holding public office for four years, dating from November 2, 1926, the date of the alleged law violation.

Because of alleged fraudulent practices in his campaign and because of alleged fraudulent failure to report campaign promises, Duvall has never been elected legally, it is contended in the proceedings. After he had been thrown out by a jury, Duvall named his wife as mayor of the big Hoosier city.

Practical politicians, who are legal evadors and practice honest graft within the law, belong to the same tribe of tax eaters. They fight for office because they see rich pickings in the distance.

When they win office they shake the plum trees for their relatives and their followers when the fruit is ripe.

This it appears from the proceedings is what happened in the Hoosier capital city. Indianapolis citizens have voted to go to a city manager form of government. And the vote was five to one. They cannot inaugurate the city manager plan until the year 1931. In drafting the city charter amendment for the change the Duvalls saw to it that should the people win the day of emancipation would be in the far distant future.

Mercy For Women Slayers

MRS. Emma Alice Harvey, confessed slayer of her husband, at Fairbury, Nebraska, was sentenced to life imprisonment instead of the gallows. And the judge said this to the woman slayer, "If you were a man you would suffer the supreme penalty for your cold blooded murder." This jurist of Nebraska had it in his power to send the slayer to the gallows or the electric chair. He gave her life imprisonment, which is perhaps as terrific a form of torture as an easy death on the gallows high or in the chair where the current sizzles.

Mrs. Catherine Cassler, sentenced to be hanged in Chicago October 28, has been granted a stay of execution. She slew a cabinet maker for his life insurance. She was not the actual slayer, but she planned it. Is it true that women pay? They do not pay if sent to trial for murder if they are beautiful or fascinating or if the emotionalists dominate the trial or the jury.

Why Not Do It?

NINETY per cent of 1000 business leaders of this country have approved a new calendar. The year would consist of 13 four-week months, with an extra day left over annually and two extra days in leap year. Every week day would fall on the same date.

And why not? We muddle along with an antiquated calendar when there are good reasons for systematizing things in a convenient manner. The reason we do nothing about it is the reason that governs us in most other matters of suggested improvement. We just simply hate initial inconvenience. We would rather let well enough alone than go through the necessary motions of adjusting ourselves to something better. And that's why the human progress is so slow.

Voting Is Trying

IF A man fails to vote in the South American republic of Uruguay he may be fined or even thrown into jail. That makes a citizen take his citizenship seriously. It's a sad slant on human intelligence that men have to be forced to vote. If men and women have the slightest idea of what life and living are all about, they will never let anything but death keep them from voting. For in the ballot lies their hope of governing themselves wisely. They can't govern themselves wisely unless they try. And voting means trying.

A Poor Excuse

WHEN visitors in Russia comment on the poverty and general wretchedness of conditions in that country, they are told that "you should have seen Russia under the czar."

That's the kind of excuse many of us are prone to make for ourselves whenever we are in error. We seek for comfort in the fact that we are better than somebody else or that the conditions which we have brought about are not as bad as they might be. That's a lazy excuse. It shows no ambition and no heart for a better day. We ought always to be comparing our work with what it might be, the ideal. The acceptance of the second best, because it is not so bad as something else, is a poor, weak gesture.

Keeping Machine Going

SEVEN years ago the U. S. treasury department estimated that we, the people of this country, spent 23 million dollars a year on sports, amusements, and luxuries. The amount is doubtless greater now. Your first thought might be that this is a lot of waste. The fact is that our habit of freely spending for this sort of thing is one of the reasons for our prosperity. We keep the big manufacturing and selling machine going by our luxurious habits. We keep a multitude at work. We provide a continuance of prosperity.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By BURTON RASCOE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—It has occurred to me that a dislike for any kind of people might easily be cultivated by one who often rides on the subway in New York. It is no idle fiction that the subway trains harbor the most revolting specimens of humanity that one could hope to find. It is not that they are ill-dressed or dirty (although they are often that) or especially repugnant of appearance. They are bad-mannered, it is true, as evidence by the extraordinary impatience which they display in trying to enter a train; but this is not the real reason for disliking them.

The real reason lies in an indefinable atmosphere that surrounds them all. Their faces whether surly, bright, smugly satisfied or cynical convey an impression of decayed minds; of self-centered pigmy-souled people. Why this should be so is beyond me. But I do know, that if I were to let my emotions run wild, I should cherish a virulent dislike for subway riders. They always beat me to a seat.

I was sitting in the men's room at the Grand Central when a seedy looking individual began to explore the waste paper basket in front of me. He extracted reams of paper before he found suitable reading matter. This I saw was the book section of the Sunday Times. And he carefully sat himself down, donned a pair of ten-cent store spectacles and proceeded to observe the criticisms of the new books, as set forth by the learned Times critics.

* * *

Grand Central is a lonely place at two o'clock in the morning. It would be hard to find more than a score of people in the entire place. An army of negro porters take up the task of swabbing down the marble floors. The vast empty auditorium holds only the sound of swishing mops and the floor glistens and reflects the blue dome above. If one is not careful, he will slip on the wet floor.

A number of establishments in the city are solely devoted to beautifying cats and dogs. And the treatments employed are almost (if not more) numerous than those used on human beings. One of your pets may have a shampoo, a hair cut, a marcel, and other varieties of wave, a pedicure, treatment for skin diseases, for removing parasites and for growing hair.

MODISH MITZI — Mitzi Gets the Wrong Answers — By JAY V. JAY

Mitzi really means to start her Christmas shopping early. First, what does everyone want? "What, Dad, does your heart desire most in this world?" she asks lightly and tactfully, which is an excellent opening for a description of a new car Dad saw somewhere. Mitzi turns a shuddering shoulder so you can see the new scarf tie at the back.

Mitzi took Aunt Sophia out shopping thinking she could find a clue for a Christmas present. What Aunt Sophia really wants above everything else is a grand piano. You will notice that Aunt Sophia wears a dress with a new collar fastened with an ornament in front and tying in the back. Mitzi's skull cap has the new plastic motifs painted on it.

"The only thing I can think of wanting right now, Mitzi, is a new young man," says Polly. Polly's eyes become dreamy under her upturned felt thinking of the possibility. Mitzi feels rather discouraged, almost defeated if it were not that she receives a certain uplift from her new black satin dress with the swathed girdle of ecru lace.

If people don't know what they want, then she'll decide for them. This hat of Mitzi's with the feather ornament is decidedly chic. Her dress has the dipping Vionnet neck line. It also carries wide contrasting bands. After all, Mitzi has decided to take her list to what the shops provide.

HATTIE

A STORY OF LOVE AND SACRIFICE

By SAMUEL MERWIN

HATTIE JOHNSON, just 17, is a somewhat colorless little girl, who works in the mailing room of a printing and bookbinding establishment. She and the office boy have been seen holding hands—otherwise there has been no romance in her life. One day a girl who had formerly worked in the mailing room comes to call. Her name is

LUCILLE OVERMAN, and she is now working in pictures. She takes Hattie to the studio where she, Lucille, is to have a screen test. Hattie there is seen by the famous director,

DE BRISSAC, who makes a screen test of her and offers her a contract. Hattie lives with her married sister,

ALICE, and her baby daughter, Emily, and

GRANDMA, a querulous semi-invalid. They all start for California with De Brissac, who suggests books for Hattie to read to "form her mind." On the train she meets

HENRY O'MALLEY, De Brissac's head camera man. They arrive at Beverly. Hattie goes to the studio to find De Brissac, and he kisses her. Clandestinely, so that De Brissac will not know, Hattie and O'Malley meet and go out together. A dark little girl comes to Hattie's dressing room, saying it used to be hers. De Brissac wants Hattie to go away for a week with him on his yacht. The little dark girl comes to his office while Hattie is there and tries to throw acid on her, but De Brissac prevents her, although his hand is burned. Hattie tries to tell Alice that she can't go back to De Brissac's studio to work but her sister tells her they need more money and that she must stick to her contract. She refuses to go to De Brissac's office again after work and meets O'Malley and goes to dinner with him. O'Malley wants Hattie to leave De Brissac and try for work in another studio. He asks her to marry him and next evening brings a lawyer to look over her contract.

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE

Hattie blushed again, as Mr. Wurtzel nodded in friendly interest; and she felt a little stirring pride in Henry. He seemed very competent, a match for almost anyone.

"You can bet"—this was still Henry—"that the girl Armand de Brissac chose out of all the hundreds that were after him is good for Aldridge Mortimer. Just a minute—I'll get right on his traail." He was gone only a brief time. "Was he interested?" asked Henry, standing over them with an air of triumph. "I'll say so. He's coming right over. He thinks we'd better not meet downstairs, but to engage a suite and leave the number sealed in an envelope at the desk. He's on his way by this time, so you'd better come right along."

Accordingly, in the suite upstairs, Hattie found herself clasping the hand of another famous director. Mr. Mortimer had none of de Brissac's pleasantly crisp off-handedness. He was tall, well-made, rather severe, with rimless nose glasses and a deep groove just above the spring, between his eyebrows, that gave him the effect of a permanent frown. He was all business. Hattie found her wits fluttering when he turned sharply on her to explain that the day of the star system was over. Inexperienced girls could no longer hope to draw down hundreds and thousands of dollars a week. That had been absurd from the start. It was, when you came right down to it, what was the matter with the pictures. Empty-headed little girls, absurd young "heroes," directors with a passion for publicity—yes, the directors, too!—petted and spoiled and outrageously overpaid, the lot of them, had gone off their heads, acted like a lot of wild Indians, and brought the entire business into disrepute.

There was no gainsaying this. The day of the pampered little star was done. All the big men in the business had put their heads together and settled that. Further, Mr. Mortimer, keenly studying their faces, read their anxiety; and when Mr. Wurtzel suggested five hundred a week as a proper salary for Hattie he laughed aloud—laughed sharply, without smiling. And they had finally to accept a hundred and fifty. It would have seemed a fortune, once upon a time, but not now. Only too well Hattie knew that the family would absorb it. To Mr. Mortimer's suggestion of a long-term contract the lawyer, rather surprisingly, offered vigorous objection. He refused to let Hattie sign for more than the one picture. This frightened her. That three-year contract had seemed, in its exacting way, to protect the future. Thoughts arose of a not far distant day when this new salary would stop short. And Hollywood swarmed, these dull days, with idle actors and actresses, idle directors, idle writers. But Mr. Wurtzel was firm. He said it would be unwise for her to tie herself up at such a salary.

Later, downstairs, after the quietly satisfied Mr. Mortimer had gone, he smiled cryptically and said—"Leave all that to me, Miss Johnson. I'm sure we can do better for you. Just be patient for a little while."

And when she was tucked in beside Henry, speeding out Wiltshire boulevard past the ghostly palm trees and the huge lighted-up hotel, he said—

"Didn't I tell you Wurtzel could fix it up. Just look at us—this morning we didn't know where we stood, now we're all set for a new deal—a step forward! And he's got still more up his sleeve. You just watch him! He knows what he's up to every minute. No careless talk there—his words mean what they say. . . . He's with de Brissac's lawyer, J. B. Fanner. You'll like it on the Plantagenet lot. Nice lot of people. It's always been quiet—not one of the madhouses. Very efficient, too. They don't waste the money Earthwide spits. Got it down fine. . . . In a way, I'm glad we were able to work so fast—you know, clinch the thing. I—well, Hattie, I had a little disappointment today. Oh, it's nothing that'll hold me back—not in the long game, and you bet your life I'm in on the long game! —but—oh, it's just that this L. A. crowd I've been talking with seem to have gone cold on me. It's all right. Don't you worry. I'm going up to Frisco Saturday, and I tell you I'm going to make things hum up there. They're no pikers like these L. A. brokers, they're the real birds. They've got the coin, too."

On Monday morning Hattie took an automobile to the new studio. It was at some distance from the Earthwide lot on one of the highways to the beach, and was, despite the impressive name of Plantagenet Town, smaller and more crowded, with a long row of wooden buildings, painted white, along the street and three huge enclosed stages within. Here she had no miniature bungalow for her own, but only a dressing room on the second floor of a flimsy wooden structure. On the Earthwide lot, too, there had been (she was forlorn! aware of this now) a considerable morale, a sense of common purpose, a degree of quiet good humor. But Plantagenet Town was a factory indeed. Orders were given there, curtly. The manager, the directors, the foremen, the boy at the door scowled much as their chief scowled. She thought of that deep furrow above the spring of his glasses; it seemed a symbol of the Plantagenet spirit. Before noon of this first day she saw one of the foremen and a tall gentleman in puttees who someone said was the new art director, fighting savagely. The art director knocked the foreman down. Their language frightened her.

She felt wistfully sorry that Mr. Wurtzel thought it unwise for her to make a last call at the old lot. He wished her to wait until the legal difficulties were adjusted. There were a good many there she would have liked to say goodby to, people who had shown her kindness. But, at that, she couldn't have faced de Brissac. And that dark girl might be back. In her thoughts she clung to Henry. It seemed wonderful that he would and could protect her. What it came down to, plainly enough, was that she couldn't think at all; she could only give herself to the moment as it passed, with that bewildering sense of being carried on rushing currents.

At least she had made a decision. That was nothing. It seemed wholesome; and even as the shadow of de Brissac fell here, too, bringing the thought that perhaps she hadn't been fair with him, that perhaps his need of her had been, after all, real, her unstable heart ached for all that might be wholesome and clean.

Mr. Mortimer was directing "Little Nell" in person. He was another strong man. But she found with dismay that he had none of de Brissac's sensitiveness and subtle leadership. He was clear, sharp, inclined to be harsh; all business. It seemed to Hattie that all his staff were afraid of him. The head continuity writer, a Miss Gurfee, blonde and faded but with alert eyes, hung on his words, watched him as a dog watches, appeared to be studying his moods. The violinist, a moody Russian, spoke to no one; carried a folding stool and his instrument and a book, and sat about in corners. The camera men worked with hardly a word.

And said, Verily I say unto you, Except ye be converted, and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven.

Whosoever therefore shall humble himself as this little child, the same is greatest in the kingdom of heaven.—Matthew xviii, 2-4.

Health and Diet Advice

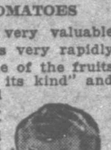

By DR. FRANK McCOY

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Dr. McCoy, who can be addressed in care of this paper.

USE MORE TOMATOES

The tomato is a very valuable fruit, and its use is very rapidly increasing. It is one of the fruits "bearing seed after its kind" and was first cultivated in Peru and Central America. It was, for a time, considered unfit for food, and even within recent years the ridiculous statement has been made that tomatoes might be the cause of cancer.

There is not the slightest bit of evidence to show that the use of tomatoes could be harmful in any way, and on the other hand, abundant evidence to prove that tomatoes stand at the very top of the list of healthful foods, containing, as they do, so many of the vitamins together with the organic minerals and valuable fruit acids.

The use of tomatoes has a distinctly beneficial effect increasing the function of the liver, and a tomato fast often produces marvelous results in the treatment of hepatic disorders.

Of course, the tomato, like all fruits, contains a large percentage of water, but there is also a small amount of protein, fat and barbohydrates, as well as a goodly proportion of mineral matter which is strongly alkline, being composed of the salts of potash, lime, magnesia, and iron. Owing to the presence of citric and malic acids the tomato is not alkaline when eaten, but after being burned in the body leaves an alkaline salt.

For those who are suffering from any kind of acidosis, there is no better fruit to use, as the action of the acids of the tomato assist in removing such wastes as uric acid from the system.

The tomato is rich in the fat soluble vitamin "A," which is known as the anti-rachitic vitamin. Its use should therefore assist in preventing rickets. The vitamins "B" and "D," which are called the anti-neuritic vitamins, are found in the tomato, so the tomato should be good in any form of nervous disorder. Vitamin "C" or the anti-scorbutic vitamin prevents the development of skin disorders. This is found in large quantities in the fresh tomatoes.

Fresh tomatoes should be used whenever they are available. The hothouse crop has increased more than 500 per cent during the last few years, so tomatoes can be secured the whole year round.

The tomato is called the "love apple" in France and England and the Italians call it the "golden apple."

Those who will use tomatoes liberally will find they are practically worth their weight in gold.

Begin speding more money for tomatoes and other friuts, and less for denatured food products.

QUESTION: H. C. asks: "Can cholecystitis and chronic appendicitis be cured without an operation? Have been ailing for three years."

ANSWER: Most cases of cholecystitis and appendicitis can be cured without an operation. The first thing for you to do is to improve the functioning of your intestines. The colitis which precedes appendicitis must be eliminated. When this has been accomplished, any inflamation which may exist in the gall bladder or liver usually disappears as these biliary organs become irritated mostly because of intestinal poisons, which are reabsorbed, from conditions of colitis and intestinal inflamation.

QUESTION: Mrs. J. R. asks: "Of what fruits does the fruit diet consist, and how taken? Am troubled with sour stomach after eating. Would this diet relieve it?"

ANSWER: An exclusive fruit diet would be helpful in overcoming your sour stomach. Only one kind of fruit should be taken on any one day, but you may use as much as you desire. I have found th following fruits to be most useful for this purpose: Apples, apricots, peaches, pears, grapes, oranges, grapefruit, plums, berries, tomatoes, pineapple and melons.

ETTA KETT — By Robinson

KID DUGAN — By Dick Dorgan

Dear Al,

Well, old boy, we had a great trip all over this country and Babe Ruth and me is sure popular because everywhere we went Babe had to autograph balls until his hand was nearly wore out and I carried the pills for him to sign on, not that I was his caddy you understand. I was just doing the Babe a favor for he was darn nice to me. We saw more hick towns than you do when you're playing four shows a day in vaudeville and Dugan and I ought to know because we knocked them dead on the bush circuit one winter. I know if you join the Marines you see the World and if you join Babe Ruth you see more hick hotels than you can find in ten movie comedies. If the Mrs. has missed me she has kept it a secret. I ain't even heard from her, and I don't want to because the last thing she told me was she was going to New York shopping. You can't shop in New York with soda crackers.

Your friend,
Jack Keefe.

SIXTY BATTLE PLANES BUILT

Uncle Sam Will Enlarge Aerial Army

MITCHEL FIELD, NEW YORK, Oct. 31. (AP)—The first of a fleet of 60 planes, equipped for bombing and carrying six machine guns for attacking troops on the march, was given a test flight today. The 60 planes are to be turned over to the attack division of the army air corps at Kelly field, Texas.

Lieutenant Edmund P. Gaines, who made the test, said the six machine guns could spray ground troops with bullets while the plane was traveling at 150 miles an hour.

The plane, which is powered with a 570 horsepower motor, is designed to carry six small bombs as well as 5000 rounds of ammunition for the battery of machine guns. Two of the machine guns are concealed in each side of the lower wing and operated from the pilot's control "stick" by electricity. A double machine gun is mounted atop the airplane motor, firing bullets between the blades of the propeller. Two other machine guns are operated manually by the pilot's observer.

Lieutenant Gaines flew the ship 20 feet above imaginary trenches in the test "attack" today.

53 Stolen Autos Found in Cache

AUSTIN, Oct. 31. (AP)—Efforts to find owners of 53 stolen automobiles recovered by Ranger Captain Frank Hamer in the break-up of an apparently long functioning "theft ring," in the Llano mountain section were continued Monday from the ranger headquarters here.

Hamer said a rancher near Llano suspected of being the ring leader is out under $2500 bond there, while investigation continues. He expects continued recoveries to bring the number of cars to about 100.

Cars of which rewards totaling some $1500 rewards were offered, already have been identified by owners, Hamer said. Some of the cars, he related were sold to Llano citizens under "bogus" bills of sale.

Ranger headquarters was getting in touch with police and detectives throughout the state with a view of identifying more of the cars and tracing others stolen and perhaps not yet recovered.

1927 Turkey Crop May Set Record

FORT WORTH, Oct. 31. (AP)—Urging turkey producers of the state to hold unmatured birds off the Thanksgiving market and condition them for the Christmas and New Year trade, members of the Texas Poultry and Egg association meeting here yesterday made plans for moving the 1927 turkey crop.

The crop this year will be the largest in five years, it was estimated by members of the association. There will be an increase of from 25 to 30 per cent over last year, it was said.

The turkey market here at present is 18 to 22 cents on foot but by the time they are picked and dressed and shipped east after the middle men's profits have been taken the prices there will range from 45 to 50 cents a pound, it was estimated.

DALLAS HERD ORDERED TO PAY UP BACK TAXES.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31. (AP)—The Dallas Athletic association operating the Dallas baseball club was ordered today by the board of tax appeals to pay $4255 back taxes.

The association sought deductions in taxes in amounts of bonuses paid in 1922 for baseball players' contracts on grounds that they were made only for a single playing season. In reaching the decision favoring the government the board held that although contracts were only for a single season renewal provisions were equivalent to the club's holding a contract with each player for an indefinite period and therefore the association was not entitled to a deduction.

'Ghost' Automobile Espied in Desert

Five Mummified Bodies In Death Car

By Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 31.—Investigation today threw a few more dim beams of light on the reported finding of a "ghost" automobile containing five mumified corpses in the great American desert south of Daggett.

It is believed that the bodies may be those of members of a family who left Los Angeles 11 years ago for a ranch on the borders of the desert.

Original ownership of the reported automobile was traced through its license number to J. B. Sexton, Los Angeles color chemist. He recalls it as a 1914 model which he purchased when new, but could not remember to whom it passed when he disposed of it.

Lawrence J. Callahan of Memphis, Tenn., reported discovery of the car and its ghastly burden to the automobile club of Southern California. The corpses, he said, were those of two women, two girls and a boy. It is thought that the victims may have been stricken after drinking from a poisoned well.

Two men sent out by the automobile club were unable to find the car. They were able to make only a partial search of the region.

Wichita Falls Chess Players See Gain In Telegraph Contest Against Tulsa

The Wichita Falls-Tulsa Chess Match, which is being played by telegraph, has reached a very interesting stage in the seventh move, in-so-far as the first game is concerned. Tulsa, playing White, opened with one of the most difficult and complicated openings known in chess, sacrificing the king's bishop pawn in order to obtain a very powerful attack centering on black's king's bishop pawn which is black's weakest point. However, when this opening is properly defended, the outcome has been proven by masters of the game to be a decided advantage to black.

Wichita Falls has, up to this stage of the game, successfully defended this opening and appears to have a slight advantage at the end of their seventh move. In making their seventh move of knight to king two they have placed themselves in a position to castle on their next move, completely destroying Tulsa's strong attack on Wichita Falls' kings's bishop pawn.

In the second game of the match there is no apparent advantage on either side, however, at the end of the seventh move Wichita Falls appears to have better development of their pieces than Tulsa.

For those who wish to follow the game move by move, they will find the setup on both games on display at the Tenth Street Drug store.

MELLON-PUTS BRAKES ON CUT

Treasury Head Opposes $500,000,000 Slash

By Universal Service

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31—Throwing down the gage of battle for one of the hottest revenue fights in recent years, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon today called upon congress to reduce taxes but stop at $225,000,000.

Widening instead of narrowing the breach between the administration and the congressional and organized business forces demanding a larger cut, Mellon's program signalized a finish fight with progressive republicans probably holding the balance of power.

Democrats are lined up to force a reduction of $400,000,000 to $500,000,000 with many republicans demanding only slightly less. The progressive republicans leaned today toward the Mellon position, emphasizing scaling down of the public debt rather than taxes.

Mellon Outlines Limit.

To the house ways and means committee, opening its hearings on the coming tax reduction bill, Mellon urged these specific reductions:

A one and a half per cent cut in the corporation rate, bringing it down to 12 per cent with an estimated revenue loss of $135,00,000.

Lightening the burden on small corporations by permitting those with net incomes under $25,000 and not more than ten stockholders to pay on partnership rates. Estimated loss $30,000,000 to $35,000,000.

Lowering of surtax rates of incomes of from $16,000 to $90,000 with a loss of $50,000,000.

Repeal of the inheritance tax, chopping $7,000,000 off the revenues.

Tax exemption for incomes from American Bankers' acceptances held by foreign central banks of issue.

Bars Auto Tax Cut.

Mellon strongly opposed any change in the automobile and admission taxes.

Coupled with Mellon's program was an especially sharp warning to congress against risking a deficit in the national treasury, or assuming that treasury estimates of revenue were too low.

"In these figures the treasury has not consciously nor as a matter of policy played safe," Mellon told the committee. "If tax reductions are made or appropriations voted on the assumption that the present figures understate probable future receipts, responsibility for such reductions or appropriations must be assumed by those who advocate them.

Conservative Estimates.

"The treasury has placed the probable receipts at the highest figures compatible with the most dependable forecasts and facts which careful and disinterested investigation could secure.

"It should be remembered that estimates do not include any expenditures that may be incurred by reason of new legislation. The treasury believes that tax reductions should not in any event be in excess of approximately $225,000,000."

Mellon's surplus estimates, far more than his tax reduction figures, were lower than congress had been led to expect. The surplus for the treasury year ending next June 30 was stated by Mellon as $455,000,000. That for the following year he estimated at $274,000,000.

The difference of $181,000,000 between these two estimates was declared to be more than accounted for by a prospective drop of $87,000,000 in net back tax collections, and one of $145,000,000 in repayments of loans to railroads.

Although the committee had not expected Mellon's reduction proposals substantially to exceed $250,000,000, there had been informal estimates from the treasury of a surplus in this treasury year approximating $600,000,000.

A STATEMENT BY PACKARD

WE ARE appreciative of the fact that with the large increase in demand for the Packard car you may be under the impression that delivery cannot be made for several months. This is wrong.

During this year Packard has invested nearly ten million dollars in increased manufacturing facilities. This expenditure is now bearing fruit in increased production, and today we can offer reasonable dates of delivery on nearly all types and practically immediate delivery on the Packard Six five-passenger sedan.

Why not buy a Packard Six today, pay for it within a year, as many prefer to do, and then keep it five or more years as does the average owner? If your present car is of average value it will more than make the new car down payment and leave no cash outlay except for the small monthly notes.

PONIES ARE "IN."

Just what Dana Bible and Texas A. & M. have in store for the Southern Methodist university Mustangs Saturday at College Station, of course, is a question that cannot be answered before Saturday. But unless Dana has a bag of dazzling tricks hidden away that he has not even given a hit of, the Ponie apparently are "in." Bible and Captain Joel Hunt of the Farmers scouted the Texas-S. M. U. game. Critics aver that had Texas ever threatened seriously after the first quarter debacle that saw Morrison's men dash over for two touchdowns, the Ponies would have opened up and tabulated a couple more. But as it was, the Methodists are said to have grabbed the 14-0 lead, which was the total scoring for the day, then closed down and displayed little of their offensive ability, thereby showing Bible and Hunt absolutely nothing, as it were, more than Bible and Hunt already knew.

* * *

If the Ponies in truth played Texas "under wraps," then the Ponies should beat the Aggies this week-end. The individual battle brewing between Hunt and Gerald Mann should prove a spectacular one with the fleet Mustang breezing under the wire a few lengths out front. Both athletes will be in top physical condition. Neither came away from the week-end clashes slowed by injury. There appears slight possibility now of the Methodists not coming through the conference schedule undefeated and repeating as champions.

THE WINTER LEAGUE.

Hot stove leaguers musing over the brilliant performance of the Dixie championship Wichita Falls combination by a re-check of Texas league statistics covering the season just closed may discover many interesting tidbits. For instance, there were only two players in the Roberts circuit who clubbed as many as three triples in one game. Tom Connolly, Beaumont veteran second sacker, walloped Messenger of San Antonio July 3 for three three-ply blows. The other three-time triple swatter was Tom Jenkins of the Spudders who slammed McColl of Dallas August 23 for a trio of triples. There were several players who poled two three-baggers in a game, among them being Pete Turgeon. Pete punched Tiny Owens and Ruel Love of Dallas July 12 for a pair.

* * *

Three Spudders clubbed as high as three doubles in one game. Lapan shot Watt, Hubbell and Sullivan of Fort Worth for a two-bagger each April 29. LaFayette combed three doubles from Sullivan's delivery July 10 and on July 18 Griffin plunked Newman for one two-bagger and Good for two. They were Santons flingers.

* * *

Fitzgerald and Jenkins rode among the select few Texas leaguers who hit for a total of 10 or more bases in one game. Fitz pecked Caldwell, Tuero and Freeze of Waco for a total of 13 sacks May 21, and Dynamite Tom stroked Robertson and Holzhauser of Beaumont Junt 11 for 10 bases. Fitz socked three homers and a single for his bases. Tom hit two homers and a double.

* * *

There were three players who scored as many as five runs in one game, Tom Taylor of Houston, Gross of Dallas and Jenkins. Jenkins crossed the plate five times August 31 in a game that saw Waco use six pitchers.

* * *

George Payne, veteran Spudder hurler and the league's leader in games won, has the reverse distinction of being one of four players who struck out as many as four times in one game last summer. Grabowski of Houston nad the Indian sign on George the afternoon of September 7.

* * *

LaFayette, the Dixie champs' first baseman, is the only athlete who smacked six safe hits in six times up. George opened his fusslade on Ross of Beaumont raked Freeman merrily and then finished with Caldera July 29.

* * *

In six games did a Texas league batter drive in as many as six runs. Three of these six-run hitters were Spudders. Turgeon accounted for a sextet against Pillette and Darrough of Beaumont May 27. Benton drove in six runs June 6 from the service of Blankenship and Wilkins of Shreveport. Tom Jenkins has the distinction of turning the trick twice. He clubbed Robertson and Holzhauser of Beaumont June 11 to bat in six runners and repeated June 18 against Newman and Good of San Antonio.

Dove Season In North Texas Ends

AUSTIN, Oct. 31. (AP)—Dove shooting closed in the north hunting zone of Texas Monday at sundown and will open Tuesday at daybreak in all territory south of the line that extends from the Rio Grande near Del Rio to the Louisiana state line above Cleveland.

Open season for ducks effective north of the line on October 16, also will become effective Tuesday in the south zone, although it is reported here that ducks have not gone much further south than this part of Texas yet. No weather cold enough to send the ducks to the lower Rio Grande valley or the gulf coast has been felt, according to information from south Texas.

Six weeks in which wild turkey gobblers may be hunted except in eight limited counties will open Nov. 16. No zone distinction is made for turkeys and deer, for which seasons correspond, or for quail. The quail season will open December 1 and continue until January 16.

HAGEN LEADS PRO GOLFERS

Walter Shoots 141 To Top P. G. A. Qualifiers

CEDAR CREST COUNTRY CLUB, DALLAS, Oct. 31. (AP)—Walter Hagen, four times professional champion of the United States, proved his right to contend for the title this year by scoring 141 here this afternoon to lead a field of 65 professionals in the qualifying round of the Professional Golfers tournament.

Hagen added a sparkling 69 to a morning round of 72 to lead the field.

Hagen was three strokes ahead of his nearest competitors, Albert Alcroft of Youngstown, Ohio, and Joe Turnesa and Gene Sarazen of New York who finished with 144. Al Espinosa of Chicago was two strokes behind them with 146.

Johnny Farrell of Mamaroneck, N. Y., tied Espinosa at 146 and Harry Cooper of Los Angeles, Francis Gallett of Wauwalosa, Wis., and Jack Farrell of North Shore club, Glenn Head, N. Y., scored 147s.

Six Tie With 154.

After this the field strung out until six players, tied at 154 for the last five places in tournament play. Because darkness was falling over the course it was necessary to postpone the play-off until tomorrow.

Hagen scored his brilliant total after he had had some tough luck in a trap on the first nine of the morning round and gone two over par. He was by far the steadiest man on the course, however, and came home in one under par to give him a 72 for the morning. In the afternoon he assaulted the first nine again and scored two birdies for a 33, two under par. The last nine he negotiated in a par 36.

John Perelli of Feather River Inn, Calif., gave the gallery one of its biggest thrills when he negotiated his morning trip out and came back in 38 for a par 71. Perelli is 20 years old and is playing in his first big tournament. He attracted a gallery in the afternoon, but rewarded it with a 44 on the first nine but shot a par 36 on the final nine for an aggregate of 151 and a place among the qualifiers.

Hampton Fails.

Harry Hampton of Memphis was the only one among the leading favorites to fail to qualify. Hampton's putts played him false all day and he was forced to take an 80 and a 78 for an aggregate of 158.

Friends of Tommy Armour, the open champion, almost gave him up when he took a 77 in the morning and then started poorly in the afternoon, but he shot a 75 to get under the wire easily.

Match play will start tomorrow at 9 o'clock and each match will go 36 holes. Hagen, because of his exhibition today was a heavy favorite tonight, but Gene Sarazen, who is noted for his ability to get the masters' goat in match competition was equally well backed.

SORDS POINTS---By Jack Sords

'Twas a Pretty Good Year for Real Estate Salesmen

HE SOLD REAL ESTATE IN FLORIDA FOR A WHILE.

Stand back all you Jeffries and Dempseys and make room for a comeback that is a comeback.

The let-up in the Florida real estate boom made it possible for Bill Doak to prove to the world that 36 is not too old for a pitcher to come back after a long layoff.

Doak gave up baseball for the lot selling game when it was quite a racket down there, but when the puncture came he found himself out of a good job. Naturally the first thing to enter his mind was to try a comeback. He was 36 years old then, but "what of it," thought Bill, "I still have the stuff and a few weeks at the training camp will put me right back where I left off."

How well he traveled the return road is shown in the averages. He won eleven games and lost eight for the Dodgers. Not so bad for a real estate salesman, and the Dodgers were not the New York Yankees by a long shot. Their whole season's play was marked by indifference.

Doak first came to the Brooklyn team from the St. Louis Cardinals where he made a reputation as a spitball artist and was considered to be one of the most feared men in the league. He came in a trade for Leo Dickerman.

Sports Done Brown

By NORMAN E. BROWN.

Baseball—as a business—is a rather uncertain investment.

This assertion doesn't apply to the New York Yankees perhaps. Col. Rupert has had a fairly stabilized business of recent years with Miller Huggins as general manager of his plant, Babe Ruth as foreman of the hit foundry and the finest line of ivory hunters in the business digging up more material for him.

But for the other club owners there are anxious moments.

Eleven years ago last spring the Cleveland ball club changed hands. Charley Sommers who helped build it up, who had seen an old wooden park replaced by the modern concrete and steel stands, and who had seen three or four teams flirt with pennants, found himself in a financial dilemna. The fact that the Cleveland club wasn't a big money maker didn't lessen his problem.

James C. Dunn, western railroad construction magnate, bought the club for himself and friends.

Within four years Dunn had made the club repay him for his investment and had placed the club on what seemed to be a firm basis. The team won the pennant in 1920.

It has had two or three good years since but hasn't repeated. Dunn's death hurt the club. The fans began to ride Manager Speaker (and the same ones now want him back). The club fell into lean days.

For two or three years the failure to inject new life into it has brought the charge that unethical tactics were being used in forcing Mrs. Dunn to dispose of her holdings.

Now a Cleveland syndicate takes over the club—well aware of the fact that it will take three or four years perhaps to rebuild the team, make a winning and popular ball club out of it.

The "gold mine" that was Dunn's for a few years played out.

Two famous comedians of baseball have broken into the news of recent days. One is Casey Stengel and the other Al Schacht.

Stengel a comedian?

Most assuredly. In his playing days the former Giant outfielder was recognized as one of the natural comedians of the game. His clownish antics in the outfield livened many a dull game and his cutting up on and off the diamond made him one of the most popular members of any team on which he played. This likeable disposition made him, also, a valuable "team" man as he helped keep up the morale of the club through trying days.

Somewhat buried by Stengel's joviality, however, was a keen baseball brain. He was a good judge of players, quick to read opposing batters, and of value to his own pitchers in working those batters.

With the end of his big league playing days he was actually in demand as manager. There are few instances of this kind. Too many playing stars have fizzled as pilots.

Stengel was with the Braves when given his release from the majors. He accepted the management of the Worcester club of the Eastern league to try himself out. He proceeded to lead that team to a pennant. That was three years ago. In 1926 the Toledo club owners signed him as pilot. The team was a hopeless mess. Stengel carried it to fourth place that year and then drove it through the American association to a pennant this last campaign.

Schacht is slated to leave the Washington Senators after serving for several years as Nick Altrock's foil in their laugh-provoking pantomines.

Schacht was a pitcher until his arm went dead. He dropped out of the majors for a couple of years, to return as a comedian. He, too, is a smart baseball man, a shrewd judge of pitching, and possessor of a winning personality.

It may be that Schacht will "go it alone" as a comedian but there is also a good chance that he, too, will try his hand as manager.

Purple Pirates Out For Blood

Newtown Terrors Change Their Monicker

It used to be the Newtown Terrors, but now it's the "Purple Pirates" who will strive for North Texas and South Oklahoma independent football supremacy. Old standbys of the Thrift team have gone together in reorganization under the name "Purple Pirates" with the Stone brothers on deck again.

The team is composed of both former high school and college grid luminaries. Teams wishing games can get in touch with one of the Stone boys at Burkburnett in the Oil City news stand, it is said, or by mail to Box 42, Thrift, Texas.

The team already has been practicing industriously and expects to line up a formidable Sunday schedule. The bulk of the games will be played on Sabbath afternoons. Any topnotch gridders wishing to join the club will be given favorable recognition, it is understood.

The Frederick Bearcat football team suffered the most drastic drubbing in years at the hands of the Lawton aggregation last Friday, getting the small end of a 26 to 0 score, the game being played at the Comanche county seat before a large crowd. Several of Coach Roy E. Danford's young athletes were crippled at the beginning of the contest and more were added to the casualty list during the fray. On the third play, John Wessel, a dependable halfback, suffered a blow to an injured knee when he collided with one of his own teammates and had to retire from the game. He was replaced by Harrison Roe, who was also bothered with an injured knee which he received last winter in a cager game. He again injured this member and had to be taken out before the end of the contest.

PACK IN GREAT PLAYING SHAPE

McCallum Drills Lightly As Electra Game Nears

Not that Coach Bud McCallum thinks the Electra game here Saturday will be anything like a breeze for the Coyotes, this week's grid sessions at Wichita Falls high school will be comparatively light. McCallum is taking as few chances as possible of incurring further injuries to his men. With conference games booked against the "weaker" clubs of district one over the next two week-ends, McCallum and Francis plan careful drill in perfecting smoothness of play in their offensive. Not-so-good interference running and ball handling behind the line of scrimmage balked the Pack from defeating Lubbock Saturday and gave the Westerners a well-earned 12-12 tie game.

The Coyotes, according to McCallum himself, are in "fine condition." Every regular will be ready to perform Saturday if needed, McCallum said.

Ken Mills, fullback, is hampered by a charley horse and a stretched arm sinew, but expects to be ready for the gong. Jack Leggett, who waged a great game Saturday at Lubbock, has a charley horse, also, but should be in to condition soon. Red Bell played only a short period Saturday, being pulled out lest he redamage a cracked nose. A few more days, and he will be all set.

Signal drill and limbering-up exercises constituted the Monday afternoon workout slate.

ZUNDY BATTLES FAIRVIEW HERE

Herb Ludgate's Junior college gridders took the day off, recuperating from the hard game with the North Texas Aggies here Saturday, and getting down to their studies which have been neglected to an extent by several athletes.

Roy Golden put his Zundelowitz juniors through a bristling scrimmage session in preparation for the Fairview game at Wilson field Friday afternoon. Fairview eased out on Zundy last week by a 13-12 score, but Golden's crew expects to turn the tables at home. Two of Zundy's men got away for touchdowns in the Fairview mill but were pulled back on penalty assessments. So Golden's lads feel they have the edge on Fairview.

Morris Reagan's outfit hasn't billed a game yet for this week. Both Zundy and Reagan, incidentally, are looking forward to their intramural tiff here November 22.

FROGS TAKE DAY OFF.

FORT WORTH, Oct. 31. (AP)—Unscratched from their battle Saturday with Baylor Bears, the Texas Christian university Horned Frogs today were given a day off from scrimmages and practice. A bit of setting up exercises was the only work slated for the day.

Goal Posts Shift Betters Football

Game Speeds Up, Injury Bugaboo Lessened

By WILLIAM S. LANGFORD.
Secretary of the Football Rules Committee, N. C. A. A.
Copyright, 1927, By Universal Service

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The reasons for the moving of the goal posts from the goal lines to the end lines must be obvious to all who have followed football over a period of years, and who recollect the lengthening of the playing field by the creation of the "end zones" into which forward passes were played.

Were Unfair Barrier.

The goal posts and cross-bar were actually "out posts" and formed an unfair barrier to the successful completion of many perfect scoring plays. Standing as they did at the margin of the touchdown territory they were an obstruction to the team trying to rush or pass the ball across the goal line and they were the cause of not infrequent injury to both attackers and defenders of the goal. Conversely, if a team had made a successful defense and won possession of the ball by holding its opponents for downs on say, its five-yard line near the center of the goal line, its position for a kick out from behind thte goal line was unfairly jeopardized by the presence of the goal posts. Again suppose a team had held its opponents on the six-inch line directly in front of one of the goal posts and had there won possession of the ball on downs. How was it to put the ball in play on the succeeding down with the goal posts obstructing a legal snap back?

The physical difficulties plus the more important opportunity of avoiding unnecessary injury to players led the committee to move these goal posts back to the margin of the playing field. This change makes the try-for-point after touchdown (if by kick) a bit more difficult but will, it is hoped, encourage the remaining options of either rushing or passing the ball over the goal line.

Benefits Kickers.

The handicap of the extra distance of 10 yards for a goal from field is more than over-balanced by the better angles which are offered from positions near the side lines on third or fourth down or when a try for goal, from the field is "the last chance." Hence it is believed that the drop and place-kicking will not suffer by this change.

Other minor changes were adopted to speed up the game and to eliminate unnecessary and unsportsmanlike delays; also to prohibit the use of certain equipment which had been the cause of injury to opponents.

It is interesting to note that these changes were adopted only after the fullest discussion and most careful consideration and that the action of the committee was unanimous in every instance.

Playing 'em Over
With the Dixie Champions

The Spudders were rained out of the series opener with Santone at Spudder park Thursday, May 12, and then to make matters worse, lost to the Bearville gang on the following day by a 7-5 score.

But the boys had an alibi; it was Friday and 13th.

We got away to a running start in the third frame, scoring a pair, but the Bruins tied it up in the fourth. Then we upped and counted three in that old "lucky seventh," but the Tamaletown crew pushed five around in the ninth to overcome the three-run lead and beat us.

It was tough sailing for our pitchers. They couldn't get the ball over. George Payne hurled a sprightly eight couplets, but in the ninth got in Dutch. He walked Najo and then Brown and Klein dropped a couple of dinkies into left field, filling the bases. Skipper Carl chased George and sent in Herb Cobb. Herbie wasn't right. He walked Long, forcing in a run. Nufer batted for Sep Good and popped out to Swenson at third. Flaskamper hoisted to Fitz with no advance. Herb then walked Philbin, hit Sanguinette and walked Leslie. Roberts relieved Cobb and walked Najo. Estell relieved Big Jim and Brown retired the side by forcing Najo at second. Newman turned us back in order in our half of the ninth.

There were only two extra-base blows combed in this game, both by Spudders. Jenkins socked a double and Turgeon clubbed a triple.

Gymnasium To Open This Week

The business and professional men's gymnasium at 605 Scott will be thrown open to members this week, said A. B. Ross, promoter of the club, Monday. Shower baths have been installed and part of the equipment has arrived, Ross said. Practically all of the equipment is expected on hand in a day or so.

STEERS STILL AMBITIOUS.

AUSTIN, Oct. 31. (AP)—Despite their 14 to 0 defeat Saturday by Southern Methodist university, the Longhorns of Texas university returned to practice today for the Baylor game here Saturday confident of winning it without much ado. The Longhorns still harbor some ambition for the conference title although it seems to have gone glimmering. Texas A. & M. College might defeat S. M. U. Texas Christian university might do it, but it would almost take a defeat by the Rice Owls for S. M. U. to give Texas the title since the Longhorns have tied with T. C. U.

RYAN BEATS TEMPLE.

RYAN, Oct. 31. — The Ryan Cowboys defeated the Temple football team on the local field by a score of 7 to 6. The game was hotly contested throughout. Rutledge, Karr and Palmer were the outstanding players for the Cowboys. This makes Ryan's fourth consecutive victory. Temple has the strongest team the local lads have played in the South Central conference.

HORNSBY SUIT LAGS.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 31. (AP)—Hearing on the suit brought by Frank L. Moore, betting commissioner of Newport, Ky., to recover $70,000 from Rogers Hornsby, captain of the New York Giants and former manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, was continued today until December 19 because of a congested circuit court docket.

Megargel Gridders Bunch of Battlers

G. L. Belcher at Megargel has himself another pretty tough little grid aggregation. They're a fighting gang, anyway. The club has been rocking right along bowling the boys over. Megargel's latest feat was that of holding the powerful Bowie team last week to a 6-6 draw. Every one of the Megargel boys were in the battle up to the hilt. Hammett, C. Cross, Rue and Walsh performed nobly in the forward defense and Captain Bradshaw and Taylor were the outstanders in the backfield. The starting lineup was composed of J. Cross and Rue, ends; Hammett and Heath, guards; Kunkel and Walsh, tackles; C. Cross, center; Bradshaw, quarterback; Taylor and Arnold, halfbacks; C. Colgan, fullback.

DOC CANCELS GAME

EL PASO, Oct. 31. (AP)—Cancellation of the football game Saturday at Alpine with Sul Ross State Teachers college on account of failure to agree on officials one week in advance was announced here Monday by the athletic council of the Texas College of Mines. Coach E. J. "Doc" Stewart of the Miners is seeking another game here for the date left open. The athletic council in its announcement said that it wished no repetition of unpleasantness caused by "incompetent" officials in games at Alpine. Agreement on officials a week in advance was stipulated in the contract between the two schools, it was stated.

PONIES DRILL LIGHTLY.

DALLAS, Oct. 31. (AP)—The Southern Methodist university Mustangs went through only a light workout today in preparation for their game at College Station with Texas A. & M. Saturday. Coach Morrison deemed their work in defeating the University of Texas, 14 to 0 here last Saturday as meriting a rest.

SURVEYS MADE FOR CROWELL AND THALIA NATURAL GAS LINES

90-DAY CLAUSE IN CONTRACTS

Towns Expect Gas In December

Special to The Record News.

CROWELL, Texas, Oct. 31.—Culbertson Brothers of Fort Worth have 90 days from September 20 to start work on a natural gas system to supply Crowell and Thalia with domestic gas from the Roxana well north of Thalia, it is stipulated in the franchises granted by the two towns.

The cities of Crowell and Thalia have been surveyed completely by Culbertson Brothers. From the city limits of each place, surveys have been made to the gas well, 12 miles northeast of Crowell and one mile north of Thalia.

The well had a daily gas production of 6,000,000 cubic feet before it was plugged back. It is believed Crowell and Thalia will be burning gas before January 1.

FARMER RANCH POOL.

Panhandle Refining company, Burton and MacGregor are getting another well in the MacGregor pool, located in the North Anderson ranch subdivision of Archer county. It is their No. 3 Farmer, north offset to No. 1-B, which drilled sand from 1503-03 1-2 feet and was bailing.

WELL GOES DEAD IN MUENSTER POOL.

The first well in the Muenster pool to "go dead" is Sun Oil company's No. 1 Hacker, completed several months ago as an average producer and at the time the only well in the pool making gas. The well had been making some water and on October 1 efforts were started to decrease the water and increase the oil. On October 24 it was placed on the pump and now is making neither oil, gas nor water.

FLUHMANN DELAYED.

Gulf Production company's No. 1 Fluhmann in the W. A. McKinney survey of Wilbarger county and just south of the Fluhmann field, was reported fishing for tools at 1277 feet.

CONSOLIDATED-WARD.

Consolidated Oil company and Underwood are drilling below 1000 feet and looking for the 1040 foot sand in their No. 1-B Ward, which is an effort to extend the Ward pool to the southwest. The well is located 966 feet south and 150 west of the northeast corner of block 1382, T. E. & L. survey, Archer county.

CONSOLIDATED-WAGGONER

Four miles due south of Electra and a mile south of production, the Consolidated Oil company is moving in a rig to drill its No. 1 Waggoner, located 150 feet south and east of the northwest corner of section 35, block 5, H. & T. C. survey, Wichita county.

GASOLINE MARKET.

Refiners of the Wichita Falls area opened the week with prospects of additional big orders for export. Saturday an order for 1,000,000 gallons of 64-66, 390 end point and 64-66, 375 end point at a price 6.50 to 6.625 closed the week. Refiners reported the domestic demand unchanged.

HINES-WHITTAKER.

Harry Hines and the Panhandle Refining company are drilling at 1290 feet in their No. 1 Whittaker, located in block 26, Harris subdivision of Archer county, being southwest of the Turbeville field.

HEDRICK-CAMP-FLEITMAN.

The Hedrick-Camp Drilling company has made location to drill its No. 1 Fleitman as a southeast offset to Carey's No. 1 Koelzer producer in the Thomas Scott survey at Muenster. Hedrick - Camp Drilling company has also made location for its No. 2 John Bayer, 300 feet north of No. 1 which is being placed on the pump to extend the Muenster field a quarter of a mile southeast.

Activity centered around the Carey well is all that is left at Muenster. Hamilton and Martin are drilling below 700 feet in their No. 1 Peter Bindle, an east offset to the Carey No. 2 Koelzer. Continental Oil company has also brought in a well in this area and has spudded in its No. 2.

ESTEGREN RECOVERING.

E. F. "Rusty" Estegren, geologist, is regaining his old time strength and sturdiness after having been laid up here and at Marlin for many weeks while he withstood an attack of rheumatism. Estegren has been on duty for a week and will soon be himself again, he says.

Natural Gasoline Industry Expands

The natural gasoline industry is in the multi-million class.

The 1200 plants in the oil country today cost $250,000,000. They will manufacture in 1927 approximately 1,600,000,000 gallons of natural gasoline. This colume of motor fuel would fill 200,000 tank cars and a four-inch pipeline for 460,000 miles.

In 1911 the natural gasoline industry produced 7,500,000 gallons, and 10 years later it produced more than 473,500,000 gallons, a gain of 6200 per cent, and from 1921 to 1927 it has increased 238 per cent.

PECOS GAUGE SHOWS CLIMB

Two New Gushers Given Western Field

Special to The Record News.

SAN ANGELO, Oct. 31. — The third hourly open flow gauge of Pecos county producers to revise pipe line prorating completed Monday, indicated total daily potential production of around 300,000 barrels by 40 wells, an increase of approximately 70,000 barrels. At the same time two gushers were added.

All Pecos wells heard from had tested as high as on the previous gauge some two weeks ago and others a month ago, and several showed big gains, notably Mid Kansas and Transcontinental, a Yates, from 781 to 1175 barrels in an hour, and California 3 Yates, lease 1, from 133 to 1041 barrels in an hour, the latter due largely to deepening Mid Kansas-Transcontinental 3-B Yates, under some back pressure, gauged almost 700 barrels in an hour without water. It had made as high as 15 per cent water.

Total daily production from 32 wells was computed at 231,272 barrels on the gauges governing pipe line proration October 17-31 inclusive.

With the first oil pumped Sunday through Illinois Pipe Line company's new 136 mile 8-inch line from Pecos county to Del Rio it is expected pipe line runs, now 30,000 barrels daily, will be raised to 33,000 barrels. Gulf is ditching for a line from the field to the Orient railroad near Hurdle.

Simms No. 2 Smith, near the center of the south line of section 103 T. C. Railway Co. survey, gauged 825 barrels the first hour from 1246 feet, top of the big pay. Allsman and Bell No. 3 Pecos river bed, near the northeast corner of section 60, and on a direct line between 3-B Yates and Gulf No. 1 Thompson, was reported in for 175 barrels of oil hourly with 7 per cent water. From the first pay topped around 1100 feet Mid Kansas, Transcontinental 1-D Yates, in section 62 was making 300 to 400 barrels of oil daily drilling at 1178 feet. Gulf 2 Thompson, latest Crockett county producer, is making 10 or 12 per cent water.

New Pipeline Coming.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31. (AP) — Transcontinental Oil company shortly is expected to announce plans for construction of a 45 mile 10-inch truck line from Pecos county, West Texas, to the ship canal at Houston, which will be built by a subsidiary, United Producers Pipeline company, having daily capacity of between 30,000 and 50,000 barrels. The project will involve about $12,500,000, including terminal storage, and connect with the topping plant at the coast. The outlet to the coast would afford a world market, with a wider range of prices.

Production Increases Seen For Seminole In Shooting of Producers

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 31.—Indications are that the Seminole field will make some additional gains during the week as the wells shot and being shot are cleaned out.

After dropping for five consecutive days in daily output, the field Saturday morning registered a 474-barrel increase. The 954 wells gauged 405,334 barrels, compared with 404,860 barrels from 948 wells the previous 24 hours. The shooting program and the completion of six new wells, none of them of exceptional size, accounted for the increase.

Field reports say that following the shooting, the wells are to be cleaned out, swabbed and then put on air, and it may be a week before the results of this operating policy are seen.

The 116 wells permitted to be shot by pools: Earlsboro pool, 30; Bowlegs, 61; Searight, 18; Seminole City, eight. None are to be shot in Little river.

GULF LEADS FIELD

Gulf Production company led West Texas in production during September, averaging 84,005 barrels. The Texas company had 45,682 barrels; Magnolia Petroleum company, 38,953 barrels, and Humble Oil and Refining company 35,193 barrels.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31. (AP)—An early advance in the cotton market today was followed by a reaction, which carried the price of January contracts off from 20.62 to 20.20. That delivery closed at 20.26, compared with 20.37 at the close of Saturday, the general market closing steady, at net declines of 6 to 14 points.

The market opened firm at an advance of 16 to 20 points on covering, combined with trade buying believed to be partly for foreign account, and local or commission house buying stimulated by relatively steady Liverpool cables and an unfavorable view of weather conditions in the south. This absorbed considerable realizing and a little southern selling on an advance which carried prices up to 20.55 for December and 20.77 for March, or about 25 to 28 points above Saturday's closing quotations.

Demand then seemed to taper off as if the bulk of the buying had represented covering of shorts, and failure of the market to attract more general support, appeared to disappoint early buyers, as other holders of contracts. Realizing developed and in late trading, a little more southern selling was reported, while there was re-selling by early buyers.

December declined to 20.10 and March to 20.32, or about 17 to 20 points net lower, and 42 to 45 points from the high price of the morning. Closing quotations were 6 to 12 points up from the lowest on renewed covering.

Private cable advices from Japan said the cotton mill curtailment there was due to a sudden increase in spindleage since the beginning of the year in preparation for the repeal of night work which is to become effective in a year and a half, and to prevent over-production meanwhile. The advices said there was no reason to expect Japanese demand for American cotton would fall behind last season's.

Exports today 54,312, making 2,090,876 so far this season. Port receipts 58,671. U. S. port stocks 2,296,851.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 31. (AP)—Trading in today's cotton market was mainly of a pre-holiday character, the market here being closed tomorrow. All Saints Day. After advancing 27 to 30 points in the early trading prices turned easy, December contracts declining 45 to 50 to 20.35, and closing at 20.38, 17 points net down. The general market closed steady at a net decline of 14 to 18 points.

The market opened steady, first trades showing gains of 16 to 18 points in sympathy with higher Liverpool cables. Prices continued to advance after the start on buying based on reports of rains in the western belt and promise of colder weather. January traded up to 20.90 and March 20.99, 27 to 28 points above the previous close. Short covering in advance of the holiday helped the advance.

Around noon the market turned easy on liquidation by disappointed buyers and prices declined for the remainder of the session, resting 10 points net in the final trading, with January at 20.40 and March 20.61. The close was 7 to 9 points above the lows due to some covering at the end.

Exports for the day totaled 54,113 bales.

Tax Cut Recommendation of U. S. Treasury Aids Tone On Wall Street Stock Market

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Secretary Mellon helped a faltering stock market, today. Not that his estimate as to the limit of tax reduction was particularly pleasing to market followers but that his recommendation as to cutting tax on corporate income was liked in banking and brokerage circles. A technical recovery was just petering out and professionals were increasing their short sales when the secretary's ideas were presented on the tickers. Steel, motors and others of the better grade stocks immediately met better support and as a result the entire list closed higher.

Commodity markets turned quieter but dipped again on further bearish weather advances. The Norwegian krone in a further advance, featured an otherwise quiet foreign exchange market, and was close to par at the close.

Tax reduction opinions of the secretary roused varied comment among bankers and brokers. In banking circles there was almost as much talk of his recommendation that estate taxes be cut as there was concerning the corporate income reduction. It was the latter that interested brokers and the more speculative community most, however. They saw therein a stimulus to business that would offset the decreasing margin of profit that steel men and other industrial leaders complain of. However, a recommendation is a recommendation and a tax cut must be voted by congress. As the next congress will be in session coincident with a highly important presidential campaign hte secretary's recommendations did not have the influence they would at another time.

Practically every wire house had the tip before the opening to buy General Motors: "With top at 124." Even those circulating bullish dope, therefore, are none too sure of their ground. Before an hour's trading passed so many buying orders with stop-loss protection were received that the specialist refused to take any more. Even he must have been nervous and not without reason, for none knows more than a specialist how an active stock goes when the sharpshooters start touching off the stops.

There was no new fundamental development in the motor group and the one factor ahead remains the General Motors directors' meeting next week. A new rumor was started that a $6 regular annual dividend rate would be declared but the insiders stuck to their story that a $5 regular rate and a $2 or $2.50 extra disbursement is to be expected.

Pools did not neglect the opportunity present by the slight improvement in sentiment that resulted from the better tone of the market. Houston, Texas Gulf and others were pushed higher against a rather crowded short interest but their activity was due entirely to technical considerations. Freeport Texas and radio were among the outstanding specialties, with the groups interested therein for months most active. Confidence is still expressed that Freeport will increase its dividend before long while radio responds to the expectations of even further gain in earnings in the remaining months of the year.

From the gist of conversation in some quarters it seems that those interested in both the oil and baking stocks will "try something" if and when a satisfactory market is experienced.

WHEAT SLIPS IN LATE TRADE

Market Opens Strong But Slides At Close

By Universal Service

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—Wheat gave quite an exhibition of strength early in the session today but broke sharply later on and showed losses at the close of the session. Trade was more active than it has been for some time and there appeared to be greater outside interest in the market.

Corn was lower much o fthe day, feeling the weight of local selling and of liquidation of some long lines. News of the day contained nothing to stimulate selling, but there is a belief that private crop report to be issued today will sustain recent estimates. Oats held firm much of the time, while rye felt the influence of wheat.

Loses for the day in wheat prices were ⅝@⅞c, corn closed ⅜@½c lower, while oats were ¼c higher to ¼c lower at the finish. Rye was unchanged to ⅜c lower. Export sales of 800,000 to 1,000,000 bushels of wheat were reported to ⅝o over. Export sales of 800,000 to 1,000,000 bushels of wheat were reported at the seaboard, largely Canadian. Liverpool wheat closed 1¼@2¼ pence higher and Buenos Aires closed unchanged to ¼c higher.

Tnoe of the corn market was heavy most of the day and net declines established. Liquidation by scattered holders was probably brought on by the weakness of the market to attract more buying interest. Weather over the belt was less favorable and the old crop movement from the interior is not as large as a year ago. That failed to get much buying support of the proper kind and this disheartens longs.

Oats lost the early strength when the wheat market reacted but held fairly well.

Rye trade was light.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, Oct. 31. (AP)—Confronted by announcement of 3,288,000 bushels increase of the United States visible supply, wheat values weakened at the last today under general profit-taking sales. Earlier the market had scored a sharp advance elargely because of further reports of frost in Argentina.

Closing quotations on wheat were nervous, ½ to ⅝c lower, corn ⅜ to 1¼c orf, oats ⅛@¼c down to ½c up, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 50c.

Corn prices acted heavy most of the day. Frost shown at some points was regarded as beneficial, and the corn visible supply increased 1,966,000 bushels. Oats reacted with corn.

Provisions were easier on account of scattered selling which more than offset an advance in the value of hogs.

COTTON LOSES EARLY GAINS

Monday Market Is Weak Affair

The cotton market advanced several points early Monday, only to lose what it had gained, closing 10 points below the close of Saturday.

Local cotton buyers paid from 16¼ to 20.10 cents for the staple, with a small amount of the higher grades being quoted at 20½@20¾ cents.

This was the first time this season that any grade of cotton has sold on the Wichita Falls markets for as low as 16¼ cents. That comparatively small price was paid for some poor quality snaps.

Receipts were light Monday as is usually the case following the week-end layoff, Wichita Falls cotton yards reporting but 75 bales received.

No change was reported in the seed market, local gins continuing to pay $36 a ton for prime seed.

MANY ENTRIES IN BURK SHOW

Poultry Fanciers Compete For Prizes

Entries are being received daily for the poultry show to be held at Burkburnett in connection with the community fair and the formal opening of the free bridge across the Red river on November 4 and 5, according to G. C. McGown, Wichita county agent.

"The Burkburnett poultry show will be one of the most representative events of the kind held in northwest Texas this year, judging from all indications," Mr. McGown said Monday. "Poultry fanciers from many neighboring Oklahoma towns will have exhibits at the show, as well as numerous poultry growers from many sections of northwest Texas."

The show will be held under the direction of the Burkburnett Poultry association, of which August Loehoeffer is president. Mr. McGown will serve as clerk of the show and assist with the judging.

The Texas-Oklahoma fair association has tendered the use of the coops used at the show here during the fair for the Burkburnett exposition.

KIWANIS CLUB HOLDS PARTY

100 Attend Frolic Given By Women

Wives of some 100 members of the Wichita Falls Kiwanis club were hosts to their husband's Monday night in the Kiwanis club Halloween frolic at the Womans Forum.

The banquet was followed by Halloween stunts and dancing but a comic program given during the dinner was the feature of the evening.

The Barn Yard Quartet, composed of Grover Bullington, Paul Harding, J. L. Jackson Jr. and Eli Morgan, which was organized at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon, sang "She'll Be Comin' Around the Mountain."

That Scotch.

Kitty Ruth Jackson, small daughter of Mrs. J. L. Jackson, was presented in a dance, "The Piggly-Wig," and gave a reading.

Madame Olga Smirkovitch, introduced by Mrs. Grover Bullington, toastmaster, as a noted Russian singer, sang a selected number—something "to a rose"— and pinned the rose on J. T. Gant with a kiss. Then "she" sang "Roamin' in the Gloamin' " with that Scotch ring and everybody knew "she" was Joel MacGregor.

Mrs. Phil Cordell, accompanied at the piano by Miss Elizabeth Cole sang "Come to The Fair," which was an invitation for all to take part in the Halloween stunts which followed.

Suitable Menu.

The following menu, in which various Kiwanians will recognize their names, was served: turkey a la Kiwanis (A. Marks dressing); escalloped corn de Baber; presidential yams; Mulligan's manna; synthetic salad supreme; pumpkin pie Sherrill variete and kaffee.

The following gentlemen and their wives were present: A. Marks; G. C. King, A. C. Camp, M. A. Ellis, K. A. Bell, J. N. Sherill, W. H. Caldwell, W. S. Ivy of Duncan, Okla., George W. Winburne Jr., D. Revival Brings Church Additions

The revival services in progress at the First Baptist church continue with good results, officials said Monday.

More than 30 persons responded to the invitations Sunday, following the sermons by Dr. John R. Sampey, evangelist. Five united with the church Monday evening.

Dr. Sampey this week is preaching a series of sermons based on the gospel of John.

At 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, Dr. Sampey's subject will be "The Good Shepherd." At 7:30 in the evening, "Martha and Mary." For each service, the choir and soloists will sing special numbers, in addition to leading the congregational singing.

Commissioners Approve Nurses' Home Plan

One grade crossing was eliminated by an order of the county commissioners' court Monday to move about one-half mile of the Burkburnett-Bacon road between mileposts 10 and 11 to the east side of the Wichita Falls and Northwestern tracks.

Later a petition was presented by Gus Hemme to have six miles of this road from Bacon to Wichita Falls widened to 60 feet and straightened. He had the signature of all but three of the property owners concerned. Those signing agreed to donate the right of way to the county. Hemme afterwards withdrew the petition and will make an effort to get the other owners to sign, it was said. Two of them are non-residents.

O. G. Williams was awarded the contract to install electrical fixtures at the county farm. The price was $697.

At noon the court was the guest of the management of the Wichita General hospital where the members met with the city members of the hospital board. The heads of both governments agreed that a nurses' home ample to care for student nurses should be built. However, neither is in position to spend the money at present, it is said, so no definite action was taken.

Water Rights Meet Fails, Lack Quorum

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 31. (AP)—Failure of the all-Texas water rights commission to secure a quorum Monday temporarily blocked formal protest against change in the present state water laws with the five representatives present adopting a resolution calling on J. A. Kemp, chairman protem of the committee, to set a second meeting date for November 12 in San Antonio.

Ziegfeld Follies are being eagerly anticipated by Wichita Falls folk and it seems to most of us that November 8, which marks their first appearance in the city, is a long way off. Be that as it may, our interest will be increased undoubtedly with advance reports on the Follies and the many attractions they are reputed to offer. Mail orders may be sent in now, it is reported, and early reservations are urged.

* * *

Al Russell's Baby Vampires outvamp Cleopatra when it comes to that accomplished art — and one may be thus entertained at the Mission theater this week during the appearance of the company, reputed to be one of the best touring Texas at this time.

Sunday performances drew crowded houses, it was reported, and the entire program brought down hearty applause. Of special note was the Bon Ton Ballet in which the "Babies" established themselves as dancers of grace and charm. The Hawaiian entertainers from the South Sea islands demonstrated their genuine talent on a variety of string instruments and proved intensely entertaining to devotees of Hawaiian music.

Monday's attraction was a stock presentation of temptations of New York an dthe somewhat gullible character of a young girl induced into the sordid life of crooks, — her ultimate "going straight" and a romance of two ex-crooks who return to the path of decent folk.

Al Russell's entertainers are enjoyable in spite of the fact that quick action is lacking in the working out of the stock company's plot. The solo numbers and dance duets were of notable quality and it may be said as a whole the bill is well balanced and highly entertaining.

Charles Morehead, new manager of the Mission and formerly of the Olympic, has announced that admission will be 10 and 25 cents instead of the former 10 and 50-cent prices.

City's New Sanitary Code In Effect Today

Most of the food handlers in Wichita Falls had compiled with the sanitary code and had Wasserman tests made Monday according to Dr. L. I. Lucey, city sanitary officer. Those who do not have Tuesday will be subject to a fine and enforcement of the ordinance will start at once. Dr. Lucey said that co-operation of the owners of stores has been excellent. The restaurant owners have also aided the department. There have been only a few cases and Dr. Lucey feels this has been more a case of carelessness than wilful neglect.

We wish to thank our many friends for their kindness during the illness and death of our husband, father and brother.

First Terracing Demonstration Of Season Scheduled Wednesday

Wichita county farmers have been invited to attend the first terracing demonstration of the season to be held on the farm of J. S. Hansard, about eight miles from Wichita Falls on the Charlie road, at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning, County Agent G. C. McGown announced Monday.

"We are particularly anxious that all farmers in this section who contemplate terracing their lands this year or who are in any way interested in terracing attend this demonstration," Mr. McGown said.

"This demonstration will inaugurate our fall and winter terracing campaign. All who have lands subject to washing may learn something of advantage by attending."

Mr. McGown hasn't determined how long it will take to terrace the Hansard farm, but said it may be an all-day job.

"We will terrace a 70-acre field," he said. "I haven't made a close examination of the tract, so I do not know how many terraces will be necessary. The time required, of course, will depend on the number of terraces needed."

SOMETHING ELSE

—for you men to think about who owe YEARLY pay notes on your homes and that is the LIFE INSURANCE angle. If you owe $3000 on your house and only have $3000 life insurance, don't you see that if something should happen to you, your family really would have no insurance at all for you OWE it all on your house. While if you had your home in this institution you are certain to own it clear in seven and a half years from the start, and then if something happened to you, your family would have ALL your insurance clear and the home paid for! Yearly pay notes are no proper form of home ownership. Pay for your home as you earn your money, by the month, and be assured of complete ownership in a definite period. Nearly 2000 people are doing this with us. We urge you to do the same.
