Unavoidable—
Zoo Additions—
Let George Do It—
Candidates' Cards—

Two killed in an automobile accident Monday morning. Two critically injured, perhaps dead by the time this paragraph appears in print. Two seriously injured in an automobile Sunday night, and one killed in an accident at Diversion dam Sunday afternoon. All "unavoidable" accidents if unavoidable means there was no intent on the part of any person to precipitate this series of tragedies.

What use preachments of safety and caution? Wichita Falls residents should be able to write their own editorials and draw their own conclusions in these tragedies which snuffed out lives in a few seconds' time.

Charles S. Francis, president of the chamber of commerce, and other workers of the chamber will join in the work of adding more animals to the Wichita Falls zoo. Mr. Francis hopes to secure a car-load of new animals to be placed in Scotland park. The growth of the municipal zoo is one of the remarkable accomplishments of the people of Wichita Falls. Dr. R. H. Graham and the Lions club started it. There was no campaign, but everybody helped the movement along. Now the zoo is becoming a thing of considerable size with a wide interest to the residents of this and other towns. The addition of active work by the chamber of commerce should make the Wichita Falls menagerie one of the best in the state.

Of course City Manager George D. Fairtrace may worry about what is going to happen to his budget when he begins to pay the grocery bills for the zoo. The Gila monster is said to insist on fresh eggs. An elephant eats hay, or perhaps alfalfa, and the lions undoubtedly will want beefsteak. We should worry. Let George do it. That's one of the advantages of having a city manager.

Traffic violations lead all other classifications in the number of arrests by city police during the month of June, with 789 paying fines for overtime parking and other things. Paying $2 for parking more than two hours is an expensive process, but an excellent reminder that others may wish to use the space in the business section.

Of the remaining 300 or more cases before the city court, 73 were for drunkenness. In other words, discounting traffic violations, more than 20 per cent of all cases of violation of city ordinances was for intoxication. So this is prohibition.

Here's the morning headache after the style of our friend Scoffelaw in the Daily Times: "Up at 8:30 a. m., an unearthly hour for a night worker, by a great pounding on the front door. And hustled me into bathrobe and one slipper to find the cause of the disturbance, a grinning ninny handing out a card for some political candidate. So slammed the door in his face, and back to bed, vowing to revise the popular order and vote the Republican ticket in the primary election and for Al Smith in the general election." —H. C. F.

Fairtrace Explains Plan of Handling City Collections

The city manager form of government won its first signal victory at the council meeting Monday night when a stiff battle over motion by Alderman J. W. Patton seeking to raise the pay of two city employes died on the table for want of a second by other councilmen.

"These men have been with the city for a long time, and their wages should not have been cut," said Mr. Patton in explaining that he wanted to return their pay to the scale on which it had been prior to the voting of the city manager form of government at the last election.

Demands Action

"I have brought this matter to the attention of the council before, and I would like to get some action on it," he continued.

Mayor Akin pointed out the matter was up to the city manager. Manager George D. Fairtrace then explained that salaries of a large number of positions had been cut for the sake of economy and to put this city in a general line with other cities.

"If we put two men back at the old scale of wages, we will let down the bars for everyone to ask for a raise," Mr. Fairtrace explained.

"The council has the authority to run the city," Mr. Patton said. "If we can't run it, the city is in awful shape."

Mr. Patton then called on Dr. A. H. Douglass, manager of the water department, to tell what he knew of the men, who are in his department.

Mr. Patton then made his motion that each man be paid $200 a month. An argument, which drew in all of the councilmen, followed. All expressed the opinion that the council has no authority under the present form of government and charter to in any way interfere with the city manager in setting the salaries. Alderman Oral Jones read that portion of the charter which expressly forbids the council from activities of this kind.

Motion Fails

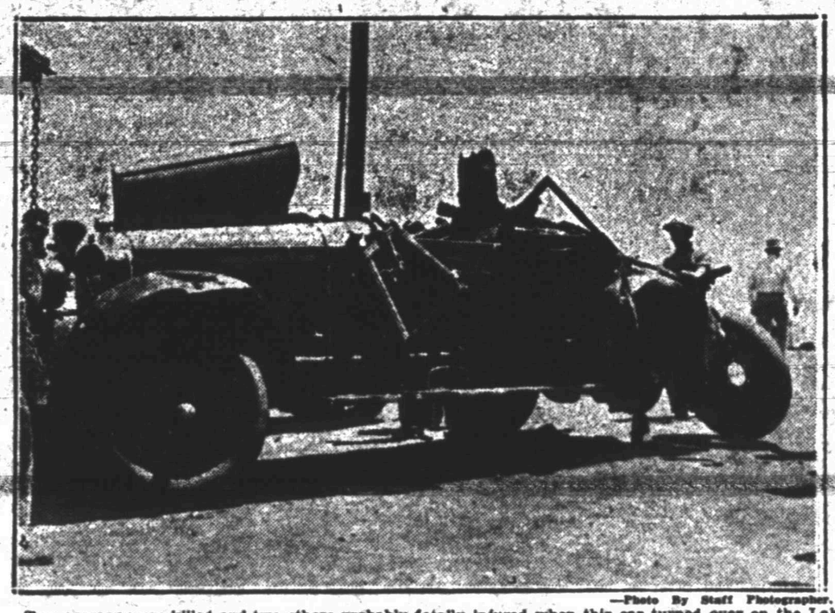

Mr. Patton then remarked that the city manager "certainly should listen to the city council which gave him (Fairtrace) his job."

As no support was given to the Patton motion by the other councilmen, nothing more was done about it.

When asked, after the meeting,

'Tommy's' Mother Rewards Nurse Who Helped Son

LOS ANGELES, July 2. (US)—In the early days of the war, when Nurse Edna Irving took care of a young British officer in the base hospital at Boulogne, it never entered her wildest dream that one day the gratitude of that young officer's mother would make her wealthy.

But today, still wondering if she might believe it, she told of receiving word from a firm of London attorneys that her name was set down in the will of Mrs. Julia Woodlyn for a bequest of 750,000 pounds.

Answered First Call

To the nurse, who went overseas from a little Canadian town when the first call came, Captain Maxwell Woodlyn was just one of hundreds of wounded men who came to the base hospital; one of the fortunate ones, who went away cured.

"Romance—why, no?" she smiled. "I know Captain Woodlyn, just as I knew so many others who were brought into our hospital. We corresponded occasionally, just as other boys I helped nurse wrote to me after they left—Christmas cards, that sort of thing.

Really Surprised

"I used to hear from his mother once in a while. Most of the war nurses have heard from the mothers of the men they took care of. I never saw her, and I only saw Captain Woodlyn once since the war.

"I was never more utterly surprised in my life than I was when the London attorneys wrote to me."

Mrs. Woodlyn lived in Manchester, said Mrs. Irving. She was the widow of Robert Woodlyn and had large holdings in England, Canada and South Africa.

Just Wounded Man

"I had heard something about Captain Woodlyn's mother being wealthy, but I never thought anything about it," she said. "In the hospital, he was just a wounded man who needed care, and of course it made no difference to us who the men were."

Mrs. Irving has been living in Los Angeles for several months, regaining her health after an illness. She has two sisters, living in a little Canadian town near Niagara Falls. Captain Woodlyn is in England, she said, and he has a sister, married to a Belgian "with a perfectly unpronounceable name."

Can't Believe It

"I haven't heard from him since his mother died," she said. "In fact, I haven't heard from any of them for a long time."

Mrs. Irving has written to the London attorneys and is awaiting further word from them.

"But I don't think I can really believe it, until the money actually arrives," she said.

DIXIE GRAFT PLANS MAPPED

Bartering of Federal Jobs To Get Airing

WASHINGTON, July 2. (US)—Prepared to "blow the lid off," the special senate committee to investigate the alleged barter and sale of federal jobs in the south announced today it would open its hearings in Atlanta next Monday.

Astounding revelations, it was expected, will be dragged to the surface by the inquiry, ordered by the senate during the last session upon demand of Senators George and Harris of Georgia.

Senator Smith W. Brookhart, Republican, of Iowa, chairman of the committee, has been quietly at work gathering a mass of data as the groundwork for the investigation. The opening hearings at Atlanta will occupy three days.

It is charged that postoffice and other federal employes have been forced to pay large sums into Republican political coffers in order to get jobs and that contributions have been exacted in a steady stream thereafter.

Senator George, in fact, charged that the suicide of a postoffice official in his state was due to the patronage system.

The committee announced that its sessions at Atlanta will be held in the federal court room. A long list of witnesses, already has been served with subpoenas.

FOUR CRUSHED UNDER AUTO AS CAR FLIPS

Miss Kate Hogeland And G. W. Denson Killed In Accident

TWO OTHERS MAY DIE

Little Hope Held For Cook And Nurse At Hospital

Miss Margaret Perryman, nurse, and Leonard Smith, cook, employes of the Wichita Falls State hospital, were in an extremely critical condition at local hospitals, and G. W. Denson, about 40, assistant supervisor at the hospital, and Miss Kate Hogeland, 26, nurse there, were dead as the result of an accident on the Lake Wichita road shortly after noon Monday.

Nurse Near Death

The accident occurred when the automobile in which the four persons were riding overturned at the crossing of the Wichita Falls and Southern railroad tracks on the Lake Wichita road. They were on their way to Wichita Falls when the accident occurred. A faulty brake, which is believed to have locked one of the wheels was blamed for the accident.

Attendants at the Wichita General hospital held little hope for Miss Perryman's recovery. She has a broken ankle, a broken arm, a probably fractured skull, cuts about the leg and possible internal injuries. She was taken to the hospital immediately following the accident.

Mr. Smith was suffering from a possible fracture of the skull, scalp wounds and severe bruises at the Wichita Falls Clinic hospital. Little hope was held for his recovery.

Mr. Denson and Miss Hogeland were dead when ambulances reached the accident scene. Two Burris-Shepherd ambulances brought in the two injured and the body of Miss Hogeland and a Hines ambulance took charge of the body of Mr. Denson.

Services Today

Mr. Denson is believed to have a sister in San Antonio. He came to Wichita Falls from California.

His body is being held at the Hines mortuary pending completion of funeral arrangements.

EFFORTS TO REVIVE CHILD PROVE FUTILE

Roberta Corbin, 12, Drowns In Pool at Cedar Park

SEARCHERS FIND BODY

Afternoon Swimming Party Ends In Tragedy Here

Roberta Corbin, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd H. Corbin of 1513 Taylor street, was drowned at the Cedar Park swimming pool Monday evening about 3 o'clock while scores of swimmers, unmindful of the tragedy, continued their play.

The little girl's death brings the total dead by accident in Wichita Falls within the past two days to four persons. Two were killed in automobile accidents and one was killed by a falling rock.

Line Forms Across Pool

The little girl and a party of friends had gone swimming in the pool. After a time Roberta was missed by her companions, who began a search for her among the crowd which had been sent to the pool by the heat of the afternoon.

In a few minutes the aid of men about the pool was enlisted in the search. They formed a line and felt their way across the pool until the girl's body was encountered.

She was in water over her head and she could not swim, according to friends.

Paul Merton, who is life guard at the pool, and a number of other men worked over the body until physicians arrived with a pulmotor. All medical contrivances for the revival of persons drowned were brought into use, but all to no avail.

Mrs. Corbin was in the care of physicians following the accident and was in a critical condition.

Adrenalin Fails

After physicians had worked with the body for about an hour and a half, the body was taken to the Hines mortuary, where it is being held pending the completion of funeral arrangements.

Roberta is survived by her parents, one brother and two sisters.

Mr. Corbin is vice president of the Seaboard Oil and Gas company of Texas.

In addition to the pulmotor and efforts at artificial respiration, adrenaline was used by Dr. W. L. Parker in desperate hope of stirring the heart of the drowning victim into action.

Candidates Carry Pleas to Voters

District, county and precinct candidates plunged into their campaigns for election Monday night in political rallies at Bellevue park in Wichita Falls and at Electra. Approximately 400 persons attended the Wichita Falls rally, while Electra turned out some 600 to hear the office seekers present their pleas.

First speeches of the candidates brought little in the way of verbal fireworks, the preliminary addresses being devoted chiefly to each candidate's qualifications for the office desired. R. O. Kenley presided as chairman of the Bellevue park meeting, which was preceded by a concert by the Panhandle band and a moving picture show by the park department.

J. Mears, candidate for precinct commissioner was the first speaker. He announced his candidacy and asked the support of the voters.

T. W. McHam, candidate for county clerk, announced his candidacy and asked the voters for their support and influence.

Unmasked Bandit Loots Drug Store As Patrons Sip Sodas

While several patrons sipped sodas and conversed among themselves, a lone hi-jacker held up the Parks Drug store at 1100 Holliday street early Monday night, forced W. E. Parks, the proprietor, to open the safe, then marched him to the rear of the store and there submit to a search of pockets, according to the report of Frank Burns, chief of police.

The hi-jacker proceeded leisurely and so quietly that the patrons did not learn that the robbery had occurred until several minutes after the man's departure with approximately $70 in loot.

"Don't leave the store or call police for at least five minutes after I leave," the highwayman warned Mr. Parks. The man, police were told, twice walked across the street, returned each time to glance into the store before finally disappearing. His warning to delay the alarm was heeded, the chief was told.

The man, the police were advised, had asked for chewing gum and stepped behind the counter as he was being waited upon. He held a pistol below the counter so as to be concealed from the view of others in the store.

"Keep your hands down and do as I say," he ordered. He directed that the safe be opened, obtained the money it contained, and then marched Mr. Parks to the rear of the store to be searched.

The Wichita county grand jury, impaneled Monday morning by Judge E. G. Thornton of the 30th district court, recessed at 5 o'clock Monday afternoon until 9 o'clock Tuesday morning without having returned any indictments.

Dollar No-Billed

Ollie Dollar, charged with burglary in connection with theft of merchandise from the Williams store at Seventh street and Ohio avenue several days ago, was no-billed by the grand jury and his release from the county jail was ordered.

An investigation into escapes from the county jail on three different occasions within the past three months was ordered by Judge Thornton in his instructions to the jury Monday morning. Judge Thornton asked that the body examine the interior of the jail to determine whether its structure is to blame for the escapes.

Other instructions given the grand jurors by Judge Thornton were of the usual nature. Judge P. A. Martin of the 89th district court addressed the jury by the request of Judge Thornton. A very light docket faces the July court, according to Ben Allred, district attorney.

Commissioners Bar Pryor From Office Until New Bond Completed

Edgar Pryor, Electra constable under charges of concealing a prisoner, and released under $1000 bond pending grand jury investigation, was ordered not to perform any of the duties of constable of precinct 4 by the county commissioners court Monday.

It was further ordered by the court that all deputies who had been appointed or who might be appointed by Pryor to carry on the work of his office should not be empowered to serve as deputies or to perform the duties of the constable's office at Electra.

The order of the commissioners court followed notice from W. D. Cross, W. N. Jackson, R. H. Cook and C. T. Richards, sureties for Pryor on a $1000 bond of office, that they could no longer carry Pryor's bond. The sureties were released by the act of the commissioners court.

A copy of the court order was forwarded to Pryor at Electra, so that he might seek other sureties. When a new bond is made he will be qualified to continue his duties as constable.

Everett Hughes, N. A. Moore, and Max Shumake, also candidates for tax assessor, gave their qualifications for the office.

P. A. Martin, candidate for district judge of the 89th court, thanked the voters for their support in the past and asked that they put him back in office in view of his age and experience in the work.

Harry Bunnenberg, candidate for the 89th court bench, asked that the voters give him a chance to render fairly and impartially.

Wayne Somerville, candidate for county attorney, told the voters that if they wanted efficiency to re-elect a man who had discharged it and reviewed his activities for the past term.

Bill Davenport, candidate for county attorney, said that he doubted if his qualifications for the office were better than those of his opponents, but that he knew that none of them needed the office more.

Robert K. Crain, candidate for county attorney, attacked the Somerville administration and said, "Personally, I like Wayne, he is a good boy, but as a county attorney he is just a good fisherman."

W. E. Wilson, another candidate for county attorney, expressed his efficiency for the position and asked the support of the voters.

E. W. Nicholson, candidate for county judge, spoke on the economical value and handling of the county's bonds and asked the voters for re-election.

Tax Reduction

John P. Marrs, candidate for county judge, said that he was in favor of retiring bonds as quickly as possible and that the office should be filled by a man who was a lawyer.

P. B. Curd, third candidate for county judge, said that he would give a real business administration if elected to office.

F. G. Swanson, candidate for representative of district No. 3, said in his speech that he was opposed to excessive fees of any kind and that he favored tax reduction where it was possible.

R. A. Long, candidate for representative, told the voters that he was a Democrat because he believed in the rule of the people and not to the advantage of a special organization. He also declared that he entered the race of his own accord and that he was under obligations to no one except the voters of Wichita county.

600 HEAR CANDIDATES AT ELECTRA MEETING

By H. I. KIEFER
Staff Correspondent

ELECTRA, July 2.—Approximately 600 persons heard a group of candidates for the Democratic nominations to county and precinct offices open their stump speaking tour of the county here tonight at an open air mass meeting in city hall park.

The meeting failed to develop any bitterness among opposing candidates, nor was there any marked enthusiasm among the hearers. Approximately 25 candidates spoke, and the completion of the program was delayed far into the evening.

Without exception, those candidates who are seeking reelection declared, in substance, that "I am running upon my record." Those seeking to break into the political circle, practically without exception, avoided criticism, except by occasional inference, of the incumbent and advanced platforms based upon qualifications.

Miss Eunice Jackson, district clerk, said she is asking re-election to a second term because of her official record. Jesse S. Smith, her opponent, declared he wants the office because he is qualified to run it.

Applause For MacWagner

G. M. MacWagner, candidate for constable at Electra, got applause when he promised that arrests for technical traffic violations will be few if he is elected. He severely criticised the handling of traffic arrests during the past.

R. W. Johnson, candidate for the same office, promised a careful enforcement of law "without fear or favor."

Ed C. Wilson, incumbent, W. H. Coffman and W. A. Ashley, candidates for justice of the peace, precinct No. 4, each spoke briefly.

Irvin J. Vogel, Ralph D. Pittman and C. M. McFarland, incumbent candidates for judge of the county court at law, each had words of praise for his opponents before presenting his own platform.

Candidates For Sheriff

S. M. Spruiell, for sheriff, declared he would put an end to "kangaroo courts" in the county jail if elected. H. L. White, an opponent, declared he would reduce the cost of operating the department and would enforce the law. W. G. Bralley, the sheriff, pointed out that after his election in 1926, he had appointed H. F. Hawkins, an Electra citizen, as his chief deputy.

John B. Rhea, for district attorney, is seriously ill at a Wichita Falls hospital, and could not appear. Speakers for him, however, referred to his training as a prosecutor while he served two terms as Young county attorney. W. L. Scott of Olney, also a candidate for the office, promised that he will "clean up the jail cases" if elected. E. F. Fruechte, first assistant district attorney for 21 months, said that during his connection with the office that more than 300 cases had been tried as compared with less than 100 during the 15 months before. Sam B. Spence, also a former assistant district attorney, asked for promotion "deserved by the fact that I have served as assistant to the district attorney for more than three years." He recited that he played a major part in disposing of some extremely difficult cases during recent months.

Platform For Bench

Ben P. Allred, George A. Smoot, W. W. Cook, the incumbent, and H. F. Weldon, each presented briefly the platform of his candidacy for judge of the 78th district court. Each insisted that his platform is a "constructive" one.

Guy C. Raley, seeking re-election as county tax collector, declared that the record of collections made during his service is among the best ever made in the state. Arthur Howard, present tax assessor and now running for tax collector, declared that Mr. Raley is violating the party precedent by seeking a fourth term.

Council Blocks Salary Hike

what the total raise would be if all city employees were brought back to the old scale of wages, Mr. Fairtrace said it would be about $8,000.

Alderman A. W. King was absent and did not participate in the discussions. W. E. McBroom, city clerk, was back from his vacation and attended his first council meeting in two weeks.

Alderman Patton made a motion that all home owners be given 60 additional days in which to pay their sewer rentals. On the explanation of the city manager that people are being allowed to pay their delinquent sewer rentals at this time, and that each case will be handled individually, the council failed to act on the motion and Mr. Patton did not press it.

Segregation Asked

H. Dulaney appealed to the council to take steps on segregation in the city which would provide districts for the negroes when the negroes are not living in servant houses of white people. It was referred to the city planning and zoning commission through the city manager.

Thelbert Martin, city attorney, presented 72 tax foreclosure suits for the approval of the council before filing.

Protests of business firms on police enforcement of the alley parking ordinance were given to the council by the city manager with the recommendation that action be taken to allow trucks and delivery working wagons time to load or unload with a maximum of 30 minutes. This exemption specifically does not include passenger cars which are used by salesmen, mayors, attorneys, reporters and others, even on business, but is intended only for truck loading and unloading. The council asked the city manager and city attorney to prepare an amendment to the present traffic ordinance for presentation at the next meeting of the council.

A permit granted April 26, 1926, to a contractor working on the Hamilton building for a temporary working shed "to about Jan. 1, 1927," was cancelled because of failure of the contractor to remove the obstacle to the sidewalk and street traffic. Several of the aldermen said the removal had been requested but that the requests had not been heeded. Alderman Hunt said that should more work be necessary at any time in the future, a new permit for the replacing of a construction shed could be granted.

A tract of land, 250 by 189 feet, near the city incinerator, given to the city several years ago for a park by Dr. S. D. Bullington, was returned as the city has decided not to develop the tract as a park due to the establishment of the incinerator.

Miss Hogeland has been employed by the Wichita Falls State hospital since November 20, 1927, the hospital records show.

Mr. Smith's mother, Mrs. Carl Smith, lives at Wills Point, Texas. His father is dead.

Miss Perryman was the daughter of Elbert Perryman, former sheriff of Montague county, who died several years ago. Her home is in Montague.

SERVICE TODAY FOR DAULTON

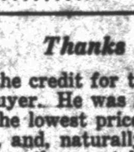

Funeral services for Elmer J. Daulton, 22, who was killed when struck by a rock at the Diversion dam Sunday afternoon, will be held from the Owens Funeral home at Burkburnett Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Burial will be in the Burkburnett cemetery.

Mr. Daulton was killed when a rock weighing about 10 pounds was cast from a boat onto the spillway of the dam for an anchor of the boat by Scott Allday, 14, son of Mrs. Alva Allday, 2703 Holliday street. The rock became detached from the wire which held it and slipped over the dam, striking Mr. Daulton in the head. Mr. Daulton was about 35 feet below the top of the spillway, standing with a group of friends.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Daulton of Midway; a sister, Mrs. Wiley Tyler of Burkburnett, and a brother, W. G. Daulton, of Waggoner station.

FORT SILL MAN KILLED IN CRASH

LAWTON, Okla., July 2.—Master Sergeant Theodore Smith, school detachment, Fort Sill, was instantly killed at 7 o'clock tonight when his roadster swerved into a ditch and overturned near Aviation field. Smith is from New York City and has 23 years' army service to his credit. He leaves a wife. Smith's head was crushed and the car was demolished.

County Gives $25 To Victim of Tornado

T. W. Williams, whose home was wrecked by a tornado which swept over eastern Wichita county and western Clay counties last week, was given a $25 donation by the Wichita county commissioners court Monday.

The commissioners also received a number of monthly statements from various county officers.

Miss Eunice Jackson, district clerk, submitted a statement on the $1,000 trust fund with her to take care of claims against the $18,000 trust fund released when the Kerr accounts finally were adjusted. The report showed that $895.98 still was on hand.

Kiwanians to Hear Convention Reports

Reports of the recent convention of Kiwanis International will be given next Monday by the delegates, according to an announcement made at the Kiwanis luncheon meeting Monday noon in the Kemp hotel.

William E. Young sang several vocal solos and was accompanied by Mrs. F. R. Collard. Mr. Young also was the victim of a mock trial because of his marriage to Miss Juel Ray. After the trial, Mrs. Young was presented as a guest. P. M. Cordell presided as chairman.

20 Candidates Fail To File Expense Reports

More than 20 candidates for precinct and county offices in Wichita county had not filed accounts of campaign expenditures with Miss Elizabeth Hall, county clerk, when the office closed at 6 o'clock Monday afternoon. Monday, Miss Hall said, was the last day for filing of the accounts, according to law. Miss Hall did not know the penalty for late filing.

Four candidates, J. D. Avis, John A. Donald, E. M. Bledsoe and W. P. Blair reported that they had spent no money in campaigning. F. G. Swanson, candidate for state representative, reported expenditures of $1.13.

AUTO VICTIM IMPROVING

Henry Franks, 18, of 514 Burnett, is rapidly recovering, and B. Branson, 25, of 707 Lamar avenue, was allowed to go to his home Monday after treatment at the Wichita Falls Clinic hospital. Both had been injured Sunday when their automobile was struck by a hit and run car driven by a negro on the Fort Worth pike. No arrests have been made, the police reported Monday night.

EDITH WILMANS AGAINST SMITH

Woman Gubernatorial Candidate in Stand

DALLAS, July 2, (AP)—In a signed statement here today Mrs. Edith E. Wilmans of Dallas, candidate for governor of Texas, declared that she would not support Gov. Alfred E. Smith, Democratic nominee for president.

"I have hoped against hope that Mr. Smith would not be nominated and that we would be saved from the necessity of declaring our contract void," said Mrs. Wilmans, "but my hopes have not materialized.

"I do not believe that the honest voter is bound by any pledge to support the Democratic nominee when the Democratic national convention has attempted to fill their contract with a people by delivering to us a rotten deal in place of the one we contracted for," continued the statement. "No court in the land in any civil contract will hold such contract binding where the consideration has failed.

"I feel that it would be better for the Democratic party to fail than to succeed in forcing upon the good citizens of the United States a man who, by his acts as governor of New York, has nullified the prohibition amendment in the state of New York."

Another to officially announce his intention of bolting the Democratic party here today was Thomas B. Love, candidate for lieutenant-governor and leader of the ultra-dry element of Texas democracy.

Declaring that a voter has as much right to bolt a nominee as a nominee has to bolt a platform plank that was adopted with his knowledge and without his protest, Mr. Love declared that for the first time in 40 years he would vote against the Democratic party.

"Prohibition is written into the constitution. It is the pride of my life that I helped write it. My conscience will not allow me to vote to put Alfred E. Smith in the White House."

Connally to Make Four Speeches In Tour of Wichita County Today

Congressman Tom Connally, candidate for the Democratic nomination to the United States senate, will speak four times in Wichita county Tuesday, according to announcements made Monday by W. R. Duke. His Wichita Falls address will be about 8:30 o'clock in Bellevue park immediately after the sing-song. In case of rain he will speak in the Memorial auditorium.

Mr. Connally's friends here have made arrangements for a flying tour of Wichita county starting at 10:30 o'clock in the morning at Burkburnett. From there he will go to Electra, where, after lunch, he will make an address at 1 o'clock. Iowa Park will hear the congressman at 2:30 o'clock. After that he will come to Wichita Falls, greet his friends, rest a short time and talk in Bellevue park.

Leo Underwood and the Wichita Falls band of the American Federation of Musicians will give a band concert on the downtown streets about 7:30 o'clock. The big band wagon will then go to the park where another concert will be given immediately after the singing and preceding Mr. Connally's talk.

A. H. Britain will preside and will introduce the speaker.

In speaking of Mr. Connally, Mr. Duke said Monday: "Tom Connally has become famous as a spokesman in congress for the Democrats in debate with the Republicans. For the past few months he has been using his powers of oratory and debate to convince the people of Texas he should be promoted to membership in the senate.

"Mr. Connally is generally recognized as one of the most interesting personalities in Texas. He was a farm boy in McLennan county with a farm boy's ambition to get into a more active world.

"While he was a student at the University of Texas, war was declared against Spain. Although he lacked but a few months of getting his law degree, he enlisted with the Second Texas infantry as a private. He was discharged with the rank of sergeant major.

"Twenty years later he was a member of congress when another and bigger war broke out. He left his seat in congress and enlisted in the army, giving up his congressman's salary for that of a soldier. I say this because it has been falsely said that he drew his salary as a congressman while serving in the army."

Woman's Forum Plans Open House For Fourth of July

Members of the Woman's Forum are planning a full day at the clubhouse for Wednesday, the Fourth of July. Festivities will open with breakfasts for swimming parties, and barbecue chicken luncheon will be served at the noon hour. At this time, a patriotic program will be given, which is expected to prove exceptionally entertaining.

At 7 o'clock, an old fashioned picnic will be held on the spacious grounds at the clubhouse when Mrs. Bain, the hostess will have the substantial articles of food prepared at a reasonable charge. Each one attending, is also requested to bring one dish of food, to furnish more variety. Tables and chairs will be arranged on the lawn for picnic parties, and those in charge expect to secure a band for the occasion.

Several groups have expressed intention to bring fireworks and it is the plan of forum officials to make the evening entertainment well worth attending.

Hostesses for the day are announced as follows: Mesdames J. C. A. Guest, J. D. Bright, Guy Raley, Roy I. Carter, D. H. Allday, W. L. Mulligan, R. H. Peterson and H. F. Weldon.

NAGGING HELD SLAYING CAUSE

Young Husband Relates Quarrelsome Career

HACKENSACK, N. J., July 2. (US)—William Bulluardo, 26, tired of the nagging and pleadings of his young wife, Nellie, 18, who desired to go to the movie picture theaters to dances and amusement parks, this afternoon strangled her in the back seat of his auto. Then he walked a mile and a half to the Hackensack police headquarters and said to Patrolman George Erlacker:

"I have just killed my wife and I want to be arrested."

"Ever since we were married my wife wanted pleasure, pleasure, pleasure," continued the self-confessed slayer. "She wanted to go to the movies all the time, but I could not afford it. She wanted me to go to dances, but I don't dance. Today again she nagged and insisted on me taking her to an amusement park. I told her I had no money for such things.

"We quarreled all day. I drove my mother to a christening and when I came back there was more quarreling. She got in the auto and demanded I take her to the amusement park.

"In a fit of anger I grabbed her by the throat and I strangled her to death. I never gave her a chance to scream. I just suppose it had to be."

Bulluardo said he then tried to kill himself. He used a hammer on his head, but that failed to even render him unconscious. Then he tried to stab himself, but the knife wasn't sharp enough to inflict any serious injury. Next came his conclusion to give himself up.

Dr. Ralph A. Gilady, acting county physician, performed an autopsy on the body of the girl-wife and said he found that the finger nails had sunk deep into the flesh of her throat. There was no evidence of a struggle. He found the body in the back seat of the auto, just as Bulluardo said. Bulluardo was committed to the Hackensack jail to await the action of the grand jury.

CHIC CHERIE — LATEST FASHIONS

Shall Cherie send this picture of Chief Rain-in-the-Face to Estelle who has just had her home done over in modern furniture? Possibly not—his decorations are modern certainly, but perhaps not new. Cherie will arrive herself, however as you see her. Carrying a new fitted case of two leathers combined in a manner triangularly smart. Wearing a knit coat in two tones of grey with modernistic assymetric pattern. Seated by her hostess in a modern chair beside a modern lamp, Cherie feels quite at home and shudders to think that she might have worn a robe de style or period costume!

She put in her modern suitcase only clothing appropriate to it. The sweater on the chair has a radio design of green on white. The dress she wears is of natural cashmere trimmed with diagonal ombre bands of green. Her step-in is trimmed with modernistic points of lace. Her purse had a skyscraper for an ancestor. Her shoes are of printed crepe de chine. This modern interior decoration is going to make life complicated, thinks Cherie. Will it be the correct thing to notify your guests in all invitations: "Dining room modern, drawing room modern, ballroom Louis XIV?" Anything's possible.

Opinions Diverge Widely on Who Was 'Fool,' Women or Men, At Houston

By LEOLA ALLARD

NEW YORK, July 2. (US)—There seems to be a difference of opinion as to whether it was the men or the women who made fools of themselves down in Houston.

A woman correspondent says the very least the men deserved was to be divorced, that some of them acted sick enough to be taken to a psychiatrist, and some should have been murdered.

A male correspondent, a little less violent, insisted that the women made the convention "impossible." When the men wanted their shirts laundered, the tubs were full of "teddies." When the men wanted a drink the boys were hauling ice water to the women visitors. Whatever the men wanted, the women got it first.

Men used to go into politics to get away from home troubles. Now they are mad because if they want to be alone they have to go home.

A girl was heaved out of a fast moving automobile, by a stranger from whom she accepted a ride. And a man suggests that it should be a lesson, and that girls shouldn't accept rides from "strange gentlemen."

Gentlemen, our eyes! Of course he might have apologized and tipped his hat as he drove away!

Women are proving that whatever men do, they do it better. But I doubt if they could drive fire trucks. Yesterday the red wagons went ringing up 57th street, in New York, and the brave firemen were hanging to the brass rail of the ladder truck with one hand, and slipping into their fire fighting paraphernalia with the other.

At the wheel, driving like a bat on the wing, was a little man with no coat, no collar and his face extravagantly lathered for shaving. He had, evidently, been caught in the act, and without so much as wasting a second to rub the suds off on his sleeve, he slid down the pole and vaulted into the driver's seat.

Can you fancy a fire big enough to induce a woman to do that?

But there are things that women do in public that jolt unmarried men into a perpetual state of bachelorhood. Only yesterday I saw one jawing her mate all the way down Fifth avenue, having HARD. The only thing she might have had that would license her to act that way, was a marriage certificate.

The blindfold test wouldn't account for it. But he might have been blowing smoke through his ears at the same time.

'Jailer-Mother' Receives Some Pointed Remarks From Miss Dix

Straight Talk to the Selfish Mother Who Acts as Her Young Daughter's Jailer—How to Deal With an Interfering Mother-in-Law—Why Marriage Between a Widower and His Dead Wife's Sister Is Liable to Be Happy.

Dear Miss Dix: I have an only daughter to whom I am utterly devoted. She is a good girl and I know she would not do anything wrong or indiscreet, but I do not let her go out with boys because I am afraid that if I do that she will fall in love, marry and leave me. I do not like to deny her the pleasures of girlhood, which are the best days of a woman's life, because I remember that when I was her age I was just as anxious as she is to have beaux and go about with young men. I feel like I am stealing her youth from her, but the fear of losing her keeps me from giving her any liberty.—A MOTHER IN DESPAIR.

Answer: It isn't love for your daughter that makes you shut her away from all the natural pleasures of her time of life for fear of losing her. It is selfishness. It is yourself you love, not her. If you really loved her, you would put her happiness and good before your own. You would sacrifice yourself to her. You would not offer her up on the altar of your own ego.

Because mothers are, as a rule, self-abnegating where their children are concerned, we always think of motherhood in terms of selfishness and sacrifice, but not all mothers are like that. Some mothers are monsters, who literally devour their children like some unnatural beast. They never consider their children's welfare or their happiness. Only their own.

I know mothers who demand to be supported in luxury, and I see their pale, thin, overworked children toiling like slaves to supply them with the indulgences they crave. I have known mothers to break their sons' and daughters' hearts by refusing to let them marry some girl or boy whose social status or religion was different from their own. I have known mothers who broke up their children's homes and brought about divorces because of some foolish quarrel with a son-in-law or daughter-in-law. I know mothers who keep their old bachelor sons dangling around them and prevent them from marrying by having hysterics every time one of them looks at a woman.

No. Mothers are not all selfish, and when a mother is selfish she is the most unmitigatedly selfish person in the world. And it seems to me, Mother in Despair, that you are qualifying for that class.

For it is a cruelly selfish thing to deprive a girl of her youth. That is her playtime, the only playtime she will ever have so long as she lives, the only time when she will be lighthearted and free from responsibility, with nothing on earth on her mind but her boyish bob.

No older woman ever looks back on the time when life was a giggle, she could laugh about nothing, when a plate of ice cream was a feast if your best beau treated you to it, when every dance was a thrill and when going on a picnic was more of an adventure than going to Europe is now, without putting up a secret prayer of thankfulness that she had that experience; that she had that good time in her girlhood.

And if girls enjoy their girlhood so much, think what a blighting, bitter disappointment it must be to those who are kept from these innocent joys! Think of the despair that must fill poor little 17's heart when she sees other girls going off on jolly parties and she has to stay at home with mother; when she sees the other girls having dates with some perfectly mar-vel-ous drug store sheik and she is never permitted to go anywhere with a boy!

Why, I tell you fate holds no more tragic moment, for youth is the time of pessimism, before we have learned of the law of compensation or acquired a philosophy with which to stay our souls. In after years the failure of no plan, the failure of no ambition, causes us one-half the despair we felt at not being able to go to some party when we were young.

You believe, Despair Mother, that it is best for a girl to marry if she marries the right man and that a woman is happiest and best fulfills the career for which she was created when she is wife and mother and housewife. Yet you would keep your daughter from this life in order to keep her with you. Perhaps you drug your conscience by saying that after a while, when she is older, when she is 35 or 40, you will be willing for her to marry. But that will be too late. Youth is a woman's marrying time, not only because she is then most attractive to men and has the best chance, but because it is when she is most adaptable.

And, after all, in keeping your daughter away from men for fear she will meet some boy and fall in love with him and marry him, you are having your trouble for your pains. She will do so anyway, and probably the quicker in order to get away from her jailer.

—DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix: I am 26 years old. I have been married eight years and have two little girls. My husband and I lived together in peace and harmony until two years ago when his widowed mother came to live with us. I am delighted to receive her, but she has ruined my home by taking possession of it and managing everything. She changed my eldest child's school. I had a French woman living with me who talked French with both my children and took care of the youngest. She dismissed her because she did not approve of foreigners teaching American children. My cook left because my mother-in-law nagged at her continually for being wasteful. My mother-in-law has installed her old servants, who are insolent to me. And so on and so on.

I have been as patient as possible and have given in in a thousand ways to enable us to live in peace, but I have come to the place where I cannot stand this any longer, and have told my husband that I cannot live with his mother, but he says that so long as she desires to live in his house he will never ask her to leave it. My mother-in-law is not old. She is a strong woman and has plenty of money. I am financially perfectly able to leave and take care of my children in a house of my own and raise them as I desire, but I am loath to leave, as I love my husband and we were ideally happy together until his mother wrecked our home. What shall I do? —MARY.

Answer: Put your cards all on the table, face up. Tell your mother-in-law that you refuse to be dethroned in your own home and to have your plans for rearing your children interfered with. Tell her that one or the other of you must leave the house, and put it squarely up to her whether, for the sake of having her own way, she is willing to break up her son's home and half-orphan his children.

It is so hard to discuss a matter like this without both parties getting angry and dragging in extraneous matters that really don't bear on the question that my advice to you is to write this all out in a dispassionate way and hand it to your mother-in-law. Recite in detail the changes she has made in your management of your children and household and ask her if she thinks she has given you a fair deal, and how she would have liked it if her mother-in-law had come into her house and treated her that way.

Very arbitrary and tyrannical people never recognize their own weaknesses. Their conceit makes them sure that they are incarnate wisdom and that they really are conferring a favor upon everybody else by managing their affairs for them.

So, perhaps, if your mother-in-law sits down quietly and calmly to read your indictment of her she may recognize that she was in the wrong and do the only wise and right thing. Go to live in some hotel and leave you in peace in your own home. Naturally, your husband doesn't like to ask his mother to leave his house, but he will be pleased as punch if she does it of her own accord.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—Three years ago my sister died, leaving a small child. Her husband and I have fallen in love with each other and want to marry, and I feel sure that my sister would rather have me take her place and take care of her husband and child than any one else in the world. But both our parents are very much against our getting married. What do you think? —A SISTER.

Answer: I think it would be a splendid arrangement. Nobody else would be as good to the child as you will be. No one else will come as near to rearing it the way she wanted it reared as you will. There is no reason why your parents should object, since the church has recognized that such unions are desirable by getting the law against the marriage of the deceased wife's sister repealed.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Manhattaners Prove Some Little Cowboys When Steer Runs Amuck

NEW YORK, July 2. (US)—Let Idaho look to its laurels, and Colorado tremble in fear! Let Texas—whether Rickard, Guinan, or state—beware of its boastings! For when it comes to rootin' hifalutin' rodeo—why Manhattan bids fair to make Cheyenne look like a small boy's backyard circus!

Yes—those westerners can ride! And they can rope! And they can bull-dog!

But—can they rope, tie and bulldog a steer while battling a tide in the North river? Echo—if echo dare reply—can they?

Well, our boys can! And what's more they did!

A full grown steer got loose. It probably is one of those Texas steers that went crazy from the heat of debate in the Democratic free-for-all, and was hitting high ahead of the Tammany special bringing Jimmy back to his temporary home.

Fun Begins

It jumped in the North river—and the fun began. Three sailors jumped off the deck of the California and disentangled the steer from the pier at the foot of Fourteenth street. The steer charged them and they fled. The spectators now in the hundreds, cheered. Three firemen succeeded in lassoing the animal, but not until it nearly capsized their craft. They retired to the safety of the fireboat station. Then they returned to the fray and after two hours succeeded in steering the steer alongside the pier. Patrolmen under Sergeant Reubold manned a barge and cast a sling and attempted to derrick the steer onto the barge. They would have succeeded, but the rope broke. Then another hour of bull fighting ensued, and the spectators had grown to thousands. Telescope vendors vied to supply the demand from the crushing throngs who cheered atop the Paramount, the Woolworth and other tall buildings. Manhattan libraries were exhausted—despite the fact that it was Sunday—from avid persons who eagerly sought to look up what a steer is. Meanwhile——

A mass attack by Manhattan patrolmen subdued the steer, and he was hauled ashore and turned over to the S. P. C. A., which triumphantly carried him off in a horse ambulance to the animal hospital.

Wanted: Name and address of the owner of a valiant and slightly damaged steer. Owner can have same by proving identity and what steer was doing in Manhattan streets.

WASTE NOT

Film Women Thrifty To Point of Re-Using Worn Hose

HOLLYWOOD, July 2. (UP)—Actresses of the film colony here turned thrifty to solve the problem of what to do with their old stockings, or at least, with the remnants left over from the anklet socks.

The latest along the boulevard is the stocking skull cap. The vogue is gaining in popularity with the mode for big open cars and the annoying habit curls have of getting tossed about the face while driving.

Alice White, one of the first to adopt the style, added dash to the novelty. She snipped off the tops of her chiffon hosiery, put tassels on the fraying ends, rolled the tops around as a brim and the result was cheap but chic.

There comes also the startling information that Mae Ree, First National's style creator, favors wooden hats for smart women.

Archbishop of Canterbury Stresses Need of 'Calm' In Prayerbook Row

LONDON, July 2. (UP)—A plea for calmness in facing the "grave, solemn occasion in the history of the Church of England" caused by the house of commons' rejection of the Revised Prayer book was voiced today by the archbishop of Canterbury, addressing a church assembly.

The house of commons' vote, the archbishop said, "flouted and violated the well-proved work of the church and state."

The assembly, he said, must rally its whole strength to find some way out as its besetting difficulties.

"I cannot see," the archbishop continued, "how the church assembly can be expected at the present time to offer a further prayer book measure to parliament. No measure would be non-controversial, and it would be indefensible for us to omit the very parts in which our difficulty lies.

"Nevertheless the situation cannot be allowed to drift. The church is responsible for ordering its own life. It is thrown back perforce upon administrative action by the episcopate—receiving, we trust, the consent of the clergy and laity."

C.-C. JOINS IN WORK FOR ZOO

Francis Promises Aid In Securing New Animals

A whole carload of rare animals for the Wichita Falls municipal zoo is the goal for which the Lions club and President Charles L. Francis of the Chamber of Commerce are now working.

Tentative promises were made Monday of a pair of sun bears, a new pair of lions and a pair of kangaroos. More are being sought.

In company with Sidney Putman, Mr. Francis called on a number of Wichita Falls business men Monday.

"A zoo committee will be named at the meeting of the chamber directors Tuesday to co-operate with the Lions club to help give Wichita Falls a real zoo," Mr. Francis said. "We were working on the proposition for a while Monday, and the business men of the city believe it to be an excellent thing.

"If possible, we want to get a carload of animals to be shipped to Wichita Falls along with Miss Sugar, the elephant which J. J. Perkins has given. The carload should include animals of such striking characteristics that this zoo will be a real show and play place that is worthy of any city."

LOS ANGELES, July 2. (US)—Calvin W. Avis, the husband who killed Fred Keller, asserted sweetheart of his wife, must face trial on a murder charge. Avis, who had expected to be released from jail after the coroner's inquest, was led back to his cell.

Washington Lawyer Dies By Open Gas Range

WASHINGTON, July 2.—William Royal Snyder, 41, lawyer, formerly of Chatttanooga, Tenn., today committed suicide in an apartment occupied by Miss L. Nelson, in a fashionable apartment hotel here.

Intercity Gang War Looms For Two U. S. Metropolises In Uale's Death

NEW YORK, July 2. (UP)—Authorities of America's two largest cities were confronted today with something new in criminal activities—an intercity gang war.

When Frank Uale, Brooklyn gang chief, was shot to death here Sunday, police attributed the killing to Chicago gangsters who had come here to settle a grudge against him because of his activities in the midwestern city's gang feuds. An exchange of communications with the Chicago police semed to bear this theory out.

And now authorities of both cities are inclined to the belief that Chicago will be the scene of the next murder, with New York assassins invading the western metropolis for revenge. Chicago police have been warned to head off the invaders before they enter.

First indication that Uale's slaying might be attributed to Chicago gangsters was its similiarity to the gang killings which have made Chicago famous. Uale was out for a quiet drive in his expensive automobile. He picked a quiet street and was blowing his horn to warn a group of children who were playing in the street.

Then, from behind, came another motor car. Just as it was about to pass the smaller car, a volley of rifle and revolver fire poured in on Uale.

Eye witnesses said the murderers' car bore an Illinois license plate.

A careful investigation of Uale's record, both here and in Chicago (where he was suspected of two important gang killings) gave further weight to the "Chicago" theory.

And then came word from Chicago that Joe Aiello, one of the newer powers in Chicago's gangland, had recently come to New York—and the very definite idea of an inter city gang war took shape.

TODAY'S BEST FISH STORY

B. F. Erwin of Dallas, old-time friend of George D. Fairtrace, city manager, spent Monday in the city.

Mr. Erwin told of fishing in Lake Kemp where he caught 2½ pounds of bream and 3 pounds of perch by using macaroni for bait.

"I buy a nickel's worth of macaroni at any grocery store and go to park or vacant lot near where I am going to fish," Mr. Erwin explained. "Then, while the water is still good and hot in my radiator, I hold some of the macaroni in the top of the radiator for about a minute to soften and toughen it. Then I just drop it on a piece of paper on the ground beside me, and thread my hook to it. The fish certainly seem to enjoy this diet better than minnows or worms for they bite better."

Gas Station Approved

A small filling station, for which permission for a permit was given by George D. Fairtrace, city manager, on the approval of the city council subject to his action, will be built at Dove and Pecan streets by J. T. Lee. It will cost $150, according to the building permit records in the city clerk's office.

ONE BALLOON RACER IN AIR

All Entries Accounted For But Frenchman

DETROIT, Mich., July 2. (UP)—Officials at the Ford airport awaited word tonight from Pilot Ferdinand Elmermacher to determine the winner of the Gordon Bennett international balloon race.

Twelve balloonists started from the airport Saturday and all had been accounted for tonight except Elmermacher. The United States lost its chances for permanent possession of the Bennett trophy this afternoon when the balloon "U. S. A." descended near Kendridge, Va.

In the absence of word from Elmermacher, air race officials expressed the belief that the French balloonist, Charles Dolfus, who landed "The Blanchard" at Walnut Cove, N. C., today would be the winner.

Hugo Kaulen Sr., German pilot, landed his bag "The Barman" at Chase City, Va., today and the French team, Georges Blanchet and Dr. George M. LeGallee, reported their craft, "The Lafayette," came down near Elk Hill, Va.

Shipping Board Committee Approves Trade

WASHINGTON, July 2. (UP)—Sale of the United States lines, including the Leviathan, queen of the American Merchant Marine, and the American Merchant lines, two government-owned passenger services, was approved today by the ship sales committee of the U. S. shipping board.

The plan of sale, which would practically take the government out of the shipping business, was not disclosed.

The sale proposal, drawn up by Chairman T. V. O'Connor, will be submitted to a meeting of the shipping board Tuesday. It is expected to be approved.

The United States lines includes the Leviathan and four other large vessels. The American Merchant lines include 10 combination passenger and freight vessels. Both lines are engaged in north Atlantic trade, operating between the United States, England and Europe.

Action of the ship sales committee virtually assures sale of the lines as the shipping board is known to be sympathetic to a policy calling for early disposal of government vessels to private operators.

An affirmative vote of five members, out of seven, is required for approval of the sale.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By CLARK KINNAIRD

NEW YORK, July 2.—A handsome Russian, who in czarist days was a military attache at embassies of his country in European capitals, is supporting his social career in New York as a professional blood-giver. He gets $100 a quart for his life fluid.

At a smart affair the other evening he received a phone call and rushed to his hostess with apologies. "A very dear friend has been taken to the hospital." He is used to making such excuses, for he is subject to call at any time, and in the fashionable circle in which he moves, with hopes of obtaining a rich wife, there is the impression he is an adviser on Russian affairs to a Wall street concern.

He appeared at the hospital in evening attire and went through the operation nonchalantly. When it was over, and the doctor was examining him, the Russian casually asked the patient's name. He likes to keep a record of those whose blood is mixed with his. Not always, however, do hospitals supply this information.

"The patient is Miss ——," said the doctor, giving a name in the Social Register.

After refusing to accept his usual blood-giving fee, the Russian exacted a promise from the physician that the young woman would never learn his name.

"Your blood saved her life," the doctor told him.

"I'd die of shame if she knew I did this for a living," was the response.

The doctor who told me this didn't think it was suitable for publication, "because nobody will believe it." But truth is stranger than fiction.

Felix Shoepolish, most celebrated cat in New York, is dead. Ironically his passing went unchronicled in the metropolitan newspapers.

For 10 years Felix was master of Zoe Beckley's house in West Tenth street. Miss Beckley, noted writer, is hostess of a salon that at one time or another attracts all the celebrities. Felix discovered that not only may a cat look at a queen, but a cat may sit in a queen's lap. For he knew Queen Marie of Roumania, whom Zoe Beckley visited in Bucharest and collaborated with in the preparation of stories.

When a newcomer appeared at the Buckley salon Felix either displayed his disapproval by leaving the room, or by immediately recognizing the visitor as a comrade and climbing the newcomer's lap to the lap for a snooze. He was constant in his likes and dislikes. He never made up with persons he ignored on a first meeting.

The scion of a noted family sent his fiancee, sailing for Europe, a bon voyage basket that cost $1000. It contained, besides the usual candy, fruit and books, a fluffy white poodle tied with silk ribbons and nestling in silks and furs. The basket, itself a work of art, was trimmed with antique embroidery and lace. A shop specializing in bon voyage gifts, puts up a box of candies priced at $100 and sells many of them.

WE'RE ALL ALIKE

We soon grow tired of things we have;
Their chosen days are few,
For it is just a human trait
To like things best when new.

I liked the roadster that I have
Till my friend got his coupe.
And now, with little persuasion,
I'd throw my roadster away.

Yes, we're all alike, we mortals;
We don't have to think very hard
To believe the grass is greener
In our next door neighbor's yard.

One-Minute Sermon

For three things the earth is disquieted, and for four which it cannot bear:

For an odious woman when she is married; and an handmaid that is heir to her mistress.—Proverbs, xxx, 21-23.

For a servant when he reigneth; and a fool when he is filled with meat;

Four lions were offered for sale by a New York zoo the other day. There's a chance to get even with your neighbor's chickens.

Another Prison Warden

COLONEL W. A. McDANIEL has resigned his post as warden of the state penitentiary at Huntsville, due to the illness of his wife which necessitates his presence in San Antonio. Warden McDaniel held the post of chief executioner for the state of Texas only a few months. His predecessor, N. L. Speer, resigned the post because of his opposition to capital punishment. It is an interesting commentary on criminal law that finds most prison heads opposed to capital punishment. It is also interesting to know that torture rack, hempen rope or electric chair, the murder rate continues to climb, and that those states without capital punishment have the least percentage of cases calling for maximum punishment.

Opening the Airport

WICHITA FALLS residents, planning their Fourth of July celebrations, should keep in mind the opening of the new municipal airport at Kell field. The program smacks somewhat of the patriotic, as well as of this city's achievement in building an airport. And we should thing of the Fourth of July as something besides a day of picnics, outings, fireworks, golf games or fishing trips.

The airport opening will keep in mind the meaning of July 4, and at the same time will offer unexcelled entertainment and a wealth of information to residents of this area. To many of us, aviation is still much of an experiment, or a sport for the daring and reckless. It is hard to believe that air travel and transportation is fast taking the place of the automobile and train, yet here in our own state we find the air mail an accepted and established institution, and passenger, express and freight air service daily between Houston, Fort Worth, Waco, Austin and San Antonio.

Wichita Falls should have these new advantages of air transportation, not only to keep pace with rival Texas cities, but in order that its residents may have the same advantages in business and pleasure accorded to a large portion of the state. Opening the airport should be a considerable step forward in the long journey of aviation progress that we have yet to make.

Let Your Conscience Be Your Guide

DEMOCRATS of Wichita county and other counties are going up and down the highways and byways and "telling the world" they will vote the Republican ticket this fall. Which is as it should be. There is no reason why a Democrat shouldn't turn and vote the Republican ticket, so long as he does not attempt to maintain his status as a Democrat. It is the free American privilege of the voter to change his mind or his party, but the Democrats who are attempting to ride the donkey in the primary election and the elephant in the general election should analyze their own hearts and minds before making the attempt.

The Democratic pledge has been and always will be the one method of assuring a white man's party and government in the South. That was its inception and is still its purpose, at least to the southern mind. When the pledge is so ineffective, or its advocates so weak, if that pleases you better, that Democrats desert the party wholesale, then two-party rule with each bidding for the negro vote is not far distant. This can be said in all kindness to the negro citizen, who is entitled to his proper place and part in the government. It is not the belief of this newspaper that such place and part is the balance of power between two white parties, or that such a system is to be desired or tolerated.

The party pledge is after all a matter chiefly between the voter and his conscience. There is little hope or effort to force its acceptance either legally or in party councils. It is a promise by the voter, of which no one knows except the voter. There is no penalty attached to its breaking, as there is attached to the raising of a check, the forging of a note or the failure to meet an obligation. There is no penalty—except that which is written in your own conscience and on your own character.

Al Smith's Chances

"TIME," magazine of criticism and comment, doesn't find Governor Al Smith's chances of election so slim. Here is the analysis of the presidential race made by the magazine:

When a man offers to do an important job, it is scarcely unreasonable of the men who want the job done to ask how he proposes to do it.

To demonstrate how Alfred Emanuel Smith might return the Democratic party to power in the land, proponents of the Brown Derby argued at Houston as follows:

There are 531 electoral votes.

It takes 266 to elect.

If the solid South—states which never have gone Republican—would stand by Smith, he would have 114 votes (Alabama, 12; Arkansas, 9; Florida, 6; Georgia, 14; Louisiana, 10; Mississippi, 10; North Carolina, 12; South Carolina, 9; Texas, 20; Virginia, 12).

Smith's prime claim to candidacy is his claim that he could carry his own New York, which has 45 votes. So that is the next factor to add. The solid South plus New York would make 159 votes.

The next consideration is the border states, usually Democratic but often Republican. Six border states total 64 votes (Delaware, 3; Maryland, 8; Kentucky, 13; Tennessee, 12; Missouri, 18; Oklahoma, 10).

Smith would have to carry most of the border states to be within striking distance. The solid South plus New York plus all the border states would be 223 votes.

Now the Democracy would have to invade Republican territory. The Smith appeal is primarily to urban voters. Therefore the next states to consider, in the order of their likelihood for Smith, are:

New Jersey, 14; Massachusetts, 18; Indiana, 15; Ohio, 24; Illinois, 29.

Needing 43 votes to win, Smith could be elected by carrying any three of these, or any two, if one of them were Illinois.

Should Smith fail to get 43 votes among the urban states, he still could win. There are four western states with Democratic leanings. They are: Arizona, 3; Montana, 4; South Dakota, 5; Colorado, 6; totaling 18.

This group, plus Ohio or Illinois or two of the other urban states could put Smith over, provided he had the solid South, his own New York and the border.

Governor Probes Slayer's Mind

ATLANTA, Ga., July 2. (UP)—The governor of Georgia stepped back into the role of a practicing physician while considering clemency petitions for Harold Hammond, sentenced to die in the electric chair for the slaying of a young mother and her infant child.

Governor L. G. Hardman, who was Dr. Hardman until his inauguration a year and a half ago, decided to examine Hammond personally before acting on the clemency plea next Tuesday. He has been petitioned by many people to commute the sentence to life imprisonment.

Hammond did not know that the physician examining him was the governor until the examination was completed. The governor was introduced as Dr. Hardman in order not to excite the prisoner in any way.

After the examination, Governor Hardman said he did not believe Hammond was either mentally or legally insane, but that he probbaly was suffering from sclerosis and was of low mentality.

No Luck

He was up for his university entrance examination. His intellectual attainments were known to be slight, but the powers that be were anxious to pass him, for he was a magnificent oarsman. As a matter of fact, he excelled in every kind of sport.

"Just put down something," pleaded his tutor. "Write down anything you can, and we'll get you through somehow or other." And he left his pupil to it.

He sat for two hours gazing at the virgin paper before him. Then he put down the one word: "Dam."

Later on his tutor came up to him more in sorrow than in anger.

"We can't pass you," he said despairingly. "You've spelled it wrong!"

Hoover Thanks Norris For Note

FORT WORTH, Texas, July 2. (INS)—Herbert Hoover, Republican candidate for the presidency of the United States, who has been promised the support of the membership of the First Baptist church here by its pastor, Rev. J. Frank Norris, "appreciates the fine note of friendship" contained in the clergyman's letter of congratulation, it became known here today when Rev. Norris announced the receipt of a letter from the secretary of commerce.

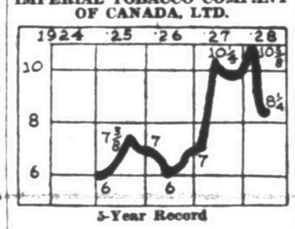

"Many thanks for your telegram of congratulation," Hoover's letter read. "I greatly appreciate the fine note of friendship it conveys."

Rev. Norris, in his letter to the Republican nominee, stated that Hoover's "religion, character and reputation for statesmanship made him the logical leader for the country." He predicted that Hoover would carry Texas by a majority of 500,000.

When A Girl Loves

© 1928 by NEA Service — by RUTH DEWEY GROVES

THIS HAS HAPPENED

Nathaniel Dann, an artist, is engaged to Virginia Brewster, whose father dies after losing his fortune in speculation. Niel begs Virginia to marry him at once, but an old family friend, Frederick Dean, and his daughter Clarissa persuade her to make her temporary home with them. This angers Niel, for he suspects Dean's motives. He returns to his work and quarrels with his model, Chiri, who is jealous of Virginia.

Clarissa openly snubs Mrs. Farley, who is staying for the Dean millions, by giving Virginia the seat of honor next her father at a dinner party. Later Mrs. Farley tells Dean he cannot throw her over for the younger girl without paying balm for a wounded heart. Rather than face a scandal which he knew would spoil his chance of winning Virginia, he meets her demands. To remove the other obstacle, he has the president of a company which he controls offer Niel a high-salaried position—provided he will go to San Francisco at once. Niel is overjoyed at the offer and goes to beg Virginia to marry him so they can go west together. But Dean interrupts the lovers' tete-a-tete.

Now Go on With the Story

CHAPTER XI

Nathaniel rose and greeted his host politely but distantly. "Have you had tea?" Mr. Dean asked Virginia.

"No, we were just talking," she answered.

"About something important," Nathaniel supplied as a direct hint. Dean smiled with mock geniality.

"Then will you order it, my dear? Let us make a little occasion of the afternoon," he said smoothly. He ignored Nathaniel completely.

When a servant responded to her ring Virginia gave the necessary instructions. "And rum," Dean added when she had finished.

They talked desultorily of commonplace matters, each occupied with personal thoughts, until tea was brought.

Nathaniel was furious at the interruption, and Virginia was disturbed. She was wondering if Dean had overheard her wild words as he entered the room. He was anxious to learn if Nathaniel had told Virginia of the offer he had received to go to the Pacific coast. He knew he had intruded upon a tete-a-tete between the lovers but that was his purpose, and he had no intention of withdrawing.

None of the trio wanted tea. Each simply went through the motions of taking it, Dean adding rum to his cup. Nathaniel curtly refused it.

As the afternoon dragged on Nathaniel was about to despair of an opportunity to tell Virginia of his splendid offer and beg her to consent to go west with him. He began to plan some way of getting rid of Dean . . . . he could not order the man out of his own drawing room. He was sure if Virginia had been her natural self she would have found a solution for their problem. But observing her closely he felt a stab of pity at the sight of her violet-shadowed eyes and weary, drooping mouth. There wasn't much resistance in Virginia at the moment, he perceived . . . she was depressed, despondent . . . it gave him an idea, however.

"Virginia, you look as if a brisk walk in the fresh air would do you a lot of good. How about going out for a while?"

Virginia turned to him eagerly. "I'm sure you're much too tired to think of it," Dean put in hurriedly.

"No, I'm not; I think it would be fine. I'll be down in just a moment, Niel," Virginia said, brightening perceptibly.

Dean glowered at Nathaniel when she was gone.

"I trust you realize she has had little time to recover from her great ordeal," he said accusingly. "Don't keep her out long; it would overtax her strength."

"I believe I know how to consider Miss Brewster's best interests," Nathaniel returned warmly.

Dean looked at Nathaniel over a cigaret he was lighting. Nathaniel became still warmer at the supercilious raising of his eyebrows.

"Your statement is open to question, Mr. Dann," Dean said sneeringly.

"That is something for Miss Brewster to decide," Nathaniel answered coldly. "I cannot see that it concerns you, sir."

"Then you do not know that Miss Brewster is, in a sense, my ward. And while she is a member of my household she is under my protection."

"I venture to hope you may be relieved of that responsibility very shortly," Nathaniel responded icily. "But until then I assure you I shall add my protection to yours."

Virginia returned at that moment and her presence prevented further verbal clashing.

Nathaniel lost no time, once they were out of the house, in telling her of Barrows' offer. Her reception of the news amazed him. She would not hear of his going.

"But Virginia, darling, we could be married at once. It's different, when it's a question of being separated. I shouldn't turn down this chance."

"Yes, you should, Niel. Don't you suppose I know you are planning to let your mural work go just for my sake? I couldn't have that. I'd always regret it even if you didn't. No, I'd rather live in a one-room flat and know that you were doing the work you love, getting near your dreams."

"Virginia, you inspire me, but I'm afraid I'm not a true artist, for you come first, before my work. I can't think of waiting years and years for you while I struggle for success in serious achievement. And I know I have no right to ask you to share real poverty with me. That's too big a price to pay for whatever fame I might attain if I gave up illustrating and commercial work."

"You have no right to make me a stumbling block in your career, Niel. I don't want you to go on doing pot boilers always."

"They will permit us to marry, Virginia. And even at that you will find it hard enough to endure the loss of your money. If I weren't so damned selfish and in love with you, I'd give you up altogether. That would be the decent thing to do, but I'm not up to it. Just thinking of it scares me stiff."

"I'd not let you do it. But I can't let you drop the murals, either."

"Well, I won't go west without you. But I'm going on with the pot boilers after I do the murals, because I can't stand this, and I won't let you starve for art."

"I've told you . . ."

"Yes, but you've never starved before. And you aren't happy where you are, so it's up to me to do something. Besides, you know I expect to like being married to you." He laughed happily, but a thought that crossed his mind sobered him instantly.

"You started to tell me about something or someone you were afraid of, just before Mr. Dean came in," he said seriously. "What was it, Virginia?"

"It wasn't anything. I was nervous," Virginia answered evasively. She had decided not to tell him that she was worried about the subtle change in Dean's manner toward her since she had been a guest in his house. If Nathaniel possessed this knowledge he would again attempt to persuade her into an early marriage, Virginia felt.

"You named Chiri as one of your fears. That's ridiculous, Virginia, but if you want me to break with her entirely . . . ."

"You don't think I'd be so priggish do you, Niel, as to want that? I can't imagine why I said I was afarid of her, but just for the moment I felt sort of helpless and at everyone's mercy. And she did fail to give you my message, you know. That wasn't friendly."

"I only hope all your fears are as groundless as any on Chiri's account," Nathaniel told her.

"I know I was a silly, but it's easy to imagine things when you are unhappy. You do forgive me, don't you, Niel?"

"It's taking advantage of me to ask me that our here on the street, Virginia."

"We can go back to the house," she answered smilingly slyly.

"To face the gargoyle?"

"Probably he's gone, if you mean Mr. Dean. I think I'd better go back, anyway; I'm feeling just a little bit tired."

They found Clarissa and Russell at home when they returned, so Nathaniel did not linger. Virginia went with him into the hall when he was leaving and they made a date for the following evening.

A few minutes after Virginia returned to the drawing room," Clarissa ran upstairs to dress for dinner. Russell was to drive her out on Long Island and they had to make an early start.

"She'll be an hour," Russell grumbled, "putting on no more clothes than hula dancer. What'll we do? Have a drink?".

Virginia had noticed a cocktail shaker and glasses on a table when she and Nathaniel came in. But she hadn't noticed until now that Russell's face was flushed and that he fumbled badly with his cigaret.

"No," she said. "I don't want one. You'd better not take any more if you're driving."

"Think I've had too many, huh? Well, say, you wouldn't blame me then if I did something I'd be afraid to do if I wasn't lit, would you?"

He came over to her and smiled with delight at what he considered his cunning.

Virginia made the mistake of smiling back at him. She knew instantly that it was a mistake, because he had her in his arms, kissing her on the lips before she could even suspect what he meant to do.

A tremor of disguest shook her from head to foot and she jerked violently to release herself. But Russell had caught her securely and Virginia was helpless. She continued to struggle and finally managed to turn her face away from his lips. The movement brought her eyes in line with the door. For one horrified instant she ceased to resist her captor and lay still in his arms.

Clarissa stood in the doorway.

ABE MARTIN

"Th' farmer could make plenty o' money if he'd go t' work," is a common expression among th' leaders o' both political parties, no matter what ther platforms say about agriculture. "Well, that's fair enough," said Bootlegger Ike Lark, when he read that th' Republican party would "avouch an' declare sacrosanct" th' Eighteenth amendment.

Favorite Jokes of Famous People

As Told by Them to
FRANK ERNEST NICHOLSON

BY EX-GOV. "MA" FERGUSON

Governor "Ma" Ferguson was the first (only only woman governor Texas has ever had. But woman governors aren't new; every married man has one.

Prior to "Ma's" governorship, her husband, Jim Ferguson, was governor—for a while. Jim wound up in a row with the politicians, got impeached and ran home and told his wife. "Ma" got together a few planks, built a platform of her own and jumped right into Jim's old chair at the state capitol. Then everybody began begging Ma's pardon.

Here's Ma's favorite:

"I know a little boy," Mrs. Ferguson told me, "aged 4 years, whose mother has exerted no little effort in teaching her son to be a model of good manners. When he received anything, he was trained to say 'Thank you!' and she lectured him continually upon the necessity of asking for things in the most polite phrases.

"Not long ago, the little fellow was asked to act as ringbearer at a wedding, and naturally this brought countless other lectures from his mother, on etiquette.

"At last the wedding day came, and in the course of the ceremony, the little boy was playing his part creditably until the minister said, in deep, majestic tones:

"'Give me the ring.'

"The little fellow did not move,

MRS. M. A. FERGUSON

"The minister cleared his throat.

"'Give me the ring!'—a little louder.

"This time the silence was broken when the boy, in his high, treble voice, piped:

"'Say please!'"

HEALTH and DIET ADVICE

By DR. FRANK McCOY
Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Mr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper.

How the Heart Works

The blood carries food, oxygen and water to the cells of the body, and removes their waste products, carrying them to the organs of elimination. It also regulates the body's temperature by conveying heat from the warm interior to the cooler parts, or acts like the water circulation of an automobile, by conveying the blood cooled by the skin evaporation to the parts that are too hot. In this way we always maintain a temperature in health of about 98.6 degrees.

The flowing of the blood is the principal transportation system of the living cells of our body, which would die very quickly if this circulation ceased.

The circulation of the blood is maintained in an interesting manner. The heart is the most important organ for propelling the blood, but the heart alone is inadequate for all of this work, and it is assisted by a contractive force of the arteries which pushes the blood forward with a pulse-like movement that is easily felt; in addition, the veins and lymphatics are equipped with valves that compel the blood and lymph to flow toward the heart and do not allow a backward flow. This process is greatly hastened by exercise.

The lungs also play some part in stimulating the flow of blood and there seems to be a fairly definite ratio between the number of breaths taken and the regularity of the heart beats. This is why deep breathing and exercise improve a poor circulation.

If you double up your fist, you can see just about how big your heart is. There are two streams of blood passing through the heart; one from the muscles and tissues of the body, through the veins, into the right auricle of the heart, which empties into the right ventricle by a valve which closes when the heart contracts, forcing the blood up the pulmonary artery into the lungs. The other flow is from the lungs to the other side of the heart into the left auricle which empties by a valve into the left ventricle, which contracts and forces the blood back to the tissues again, completing the circuit.

The arrangement of the valves is just the same as if two muscular force pumps were placed side by side, each handling a different stream of liquid. One stream is forced through the lungs, and the other through the rest of the body. You see, there are four cavities in the heart. Two are auricles on the upper part of the heart into which the veins flow, and these auricles empty into the lower cavities of the heart which, having the work of pumping the blood forward, are heavily muscled. These ventricles also have valves which prevent a back flow of blood from the arteries after the ventricles have emptied and while they are filling again from the auricles. The left auricle is filled by veins from the lungs containing red blood, and the right auricle is filled by veins from the general circulation and contains blue blood. That makes four sets of valves in the heart. They are little pouches arranged like doors which only permit the blood to flow forward.

The large arteries coming from the heart divide again and again until they end in exceedingly small capillaries which run everywhere through the cells. These capillaries are so thinly walled that the nutriment can penetrate out to the cells, and they are so closely grouped that even the smallest needle point thrust into the tissues will rupture many of them. The capillaries then unite together and form the veins which carry the blood back to the heart.

If you place your hand on your chest you can feel the heart beat. This is a little to the left in most people, but in some rare cases the heart is on the other side. The heart is surrounded by a lubricating sac called the pericardium. This is just above the diaphragm, and the stomach and intestines are just below. This is why gas pressure so often affects the heart.

Questions and Answers

Question—F. W. H. writes: "Several years ago in cranking my car I had a sudden 'crick' in the last joint of the back which caused a miserable pain at the time, and more or less ever since. It is in the back, extends down the front of the right leg, and mainly in the hip joint. Is worse at night and early morning, but wears off through the day. Am past 60."

Answer—You probably strained your back enough either to displace one of the vertebrae or to move the sacro-iliac out of position. As several years have elapsed since the injury, it will no doubt take a long time to bring about a cure. The best treatment is with osteopathy or chiropractic, and the use of hot applications to your back. Most practitioners using manipulative therapeutics have electrical appliances or therapeutic lights which will produce better effects in the treatment of your back than any form of heat that you can use in your own home. Until such treatment is started, have some member of your family apply hot compresses to your back once or twice daily for 10 or 15 minutes with several changes of hot towels.

Question—Mrs. A. J. asks: "What is lemon milk, and how is it prepared?"

Answer: Lemon milk is a kind of sour milk or substitute for buttermilk and is made by mixing the juice of one or more lemons with a pint of sweet milk and shaking vigorously together. Lemon milk is very easily digested, and may be taken by anyone. It should, however, be used as a meal itself, or taken in the same way as a milk diet, that is, a glassful every hour.

Two Killed When Car Plunges Into River

ELKHART, Ind., July 2. (INS)—Two women were drowned and a man was seriously injured today when the automobile of William Hansan, 45, a New York central trainmaster here, plunged into a river near here.

The dead were: Miss Mabel Bechtel, 29, of Elkhart; Mrs. Rudolph Endhart, 42, of Chicago, an aunt of Miss Bechtel.

The two women were drowned when they were pinned down by the car in the water.

Volcano Still Flares On Philippine Islands

MANILA, July 2. (AP)—With the town of Libog and several villages virtually destroyed by lava, the eruption continued today of the volcano Mayon, 240 miles southwest of this city in Albay province.

The largest eruption since activity began June 21 took place yesterday. People of the district in places remote from the volcano refused to turn to their homes, notwithstanding assurances of scientists that there was no danger.

SLAM EIGHT RUNS IN SIXTH

Fitzgerald and Stanton Take Honors

SHREVEPORT, La., July 2.—Clouting a total of 21 hits off of three Shreveport pitchers, the Wichita Falls Spudders swept through the final game of the series here with a 14 to 3 victory.

With the exception of the fourth inning when Deviveros tripled to center with three men on bases Shreveport was unable to start a scoring rally. Mike Cvengros held the Sports to six scattered hits.

Fitzgerald led the day at bat for the Spudders, gathering five knocks out of six times at bat including two doubles and a home run. Turgeon connected with the ball for four hits in five trips at bat ringing up a triple, double and two singles. Stanton, Spudder firstbaseman, clouted a home run over the right field fence.

The champions registered their first two runs in the first inning when Fitzgerald drove in Turgeon, who had tripled off of the left field fence, with a single to center. Fitzgerald registered the second marker on the next play when he came home on Swenson's long fly to center.

The Spuds scored two more tallies in their next trip to bat and knocked Wilkins, who started the game for the Sports, off the hill. Thompson relieved him with one out and two on bases. He held the champs to two runs and three hits until the sixth when the hard hitting Wichitans forced him to concede the mound to Williamson. Wichita Falls scored eight runs in the sixth before finally taking the field.

The champions made two other scores, one in the eighth and one in the ninth.

PARELLI MATS EASY OPPONENT

Singh Unable to Meet Winner

It didn't take long Monday night for Joe Parelli to demonstrate the fact that he could throw Young Hendricks any place, at any time he desired. Young Hendricks was substituted for Basanta Singh on a wrestling and boxing card staged by Alec Ross in Spudder park.

Singh, it was announced, was unable to appear due to injuries sustained in a match two weeks ago with Billy Hallas, the roughest of "rough wrasslers."

Hendricks gave Parelli the best he had but it just wasn't enough and as a result Joe took the first and second falls within a short time. However, Parelli is one of the best "mat artists" ever presented in Wichita Falls and Hendricks opposed a man whom few wrestlers have bested.

Ross staged three fast mitt pushing contests. In the main bout K. O. Shorty took three rounds out of four from Kenneth Adair and easily won the match. Shorty, although lighter and shorter than his opponent, made Adair kiss the canvas several times.

Johnny Owens came within an ace of obtaining a k. o. over Alvie Anderson. It was a four round match and Owens took every round.

Tommy Walton, if he had been more aggressive, could have obtained the decision over Martin Payne in the opener, which was a four round affair. Several times Walton had Payne hanging on the ropes gasping for air. However, Johnny failed to follow up his advantage and as a result Payne evened up his "losses" by slugging Walton around the ring.

Former Texas Coach Released At Jackson

JACKSON, Miss., July 2. (AP)—Failure of the team to win consistently under his direction was assigned as the reason for the release of Manager James P. "Snipe" Conley of the Jackson Baseball club here today.

Conley came to Jackson this year from the Dallas, Texas league club where he had made a splendid record. President Brannon announced two new managers under consideration, one of them Walter Barbare, former Memphis, Southern league player who managed the pennant winning team of 1927.

Spudders' Bachelor Secretary Is Back Home With Bride

Guy Airey, young bachelor secretary of the Wichita Falls baseball club, hit a double last Saturday morning at San Antonio, Texas and landed home late Monday afternoon still a secretary but not a bachelor. With him in the tour of the intervening bases between San Antonio and home came his bride, the former Mrs. Ruth Simpson Eldredge, who until a few years ago lived in Wichita Falls.

The couple was joined in matrimony at 10 o'clock Saturday morning. Visitors at the ceremony included Mr. Airey's mother, who came from Mobile, Ala., and his sister, Mrs. Hans Davis, of Wichita Falls. The newlyweds will make their home here at 1407 Fillmore.

Mr. Airey has been secretary of the local ball club for the last three years. His bride is the daughter of the late R. F. Simpson, who for many years was a druggist here. Mrs. Eldridge moved with her mother, Mrs. H. E. Wolford, to Fort Worth about four years ago.

RICKARD PICKS HEENEY TO WIN

But Judges Hold Faith In Tunney

By FRANK GETTY

NEW YORK, July 2. (UP)—Coincidental with the return of Tex Rickard from Houston today, the box offices for the forthcoming heavyweight championship fight were thrown open, and a brisk trade ensued.

Gratified by the sight of cash customers lining up to buy tickets for the Tunney-Heeney fight while it still is more than three weeks away, the promoter estimated that the receipts will reach $1,500,000.

The question of the respective merits of the contenders continues to take second place in public interest, although with the politics of June facing into the back ground, the fight of July is demanding more attention.

Heeney Unconcerned

Down at his New Jersey training camp, Tom Heeney perspires through the preliminaries to battle, apparently unconcerned by the rising clamor. The challenger hasn't even any particular interest in the "gate." He will receive more money for his share in the 15 rounds than he ever knew existed, and will return to the antipodes wealthy beyond his dreams, win, lose or draw.

As for Gene Tunney, the champion is giving studious consideration to the demand for tickets, for he is anxious to prove his theory that he is a bigger drawing card than Jack Dempsey.

Meanwhile, activity at Speculator is confined to sudden spills with noted authors into icy waters, and the ambitions of town barbers to become an American citizen and boxer.

Works Slowly

Tunney is working into shape slowly. Neither he nor Heeney has put on any extra effort as yet, so it is impossible for the casual observer to judge of the condition of either as far as what may happen on July 26 is concerned. Later this week, with the return of Ringmaster Rickard, there may be further activity. The time has come for good sparring partners to take some on the whiskers for the sake of the gate.

At the present writing, Heeney seems to have an excellent chance of going the full 15 rounds with the champion, but none whatever of outpointing Tunney. If there is to be a knockout, it will be accidental or the result of exhaustion on the part of one of the contestants.

Admitting that both can go 15 rounds, there seems to be but one logical outcome of the affair. Tunney should retain his title.

Since his return, Rickard has been busy rounding up opinions to the contrary. The promoter figures that every boost for Tom Heeney is a boost for the gate receipts. Jim Jeffries has expressed the opinion that Heeney has an excellent chance to defeat Tunney. So have a number of other old timers.

They all picked Dempsey at Chicago.

SEA MYSTERY TO BE STUDIED

Arctic Explorers May Solve Gulf Stream Riddle.

NEW YORK, July 2. (US)—Com. E. H. Smith of the U. S. coast guard ice patrol, formed in 1914, two years after the Titanic disaster, is to sail July 10 for the stormy arctic Atlantic waters between Greenland and Labrador as head of the first American exploration expedition of its kind on record.

Assisted by Lieut. N. G. Ricketts, as next in command, and by a picked crew, Commander Smith in the coast guard vessel Marion hopes to get an answer to the riddle of what happens to part of the gulf stream in the iceberg region. It is an open question whether an arm of the great northbound tropical current is deflected to the bottom of the icy North Atlantic, and whether it emerges somewhere off Baffin bay and Baffin land.

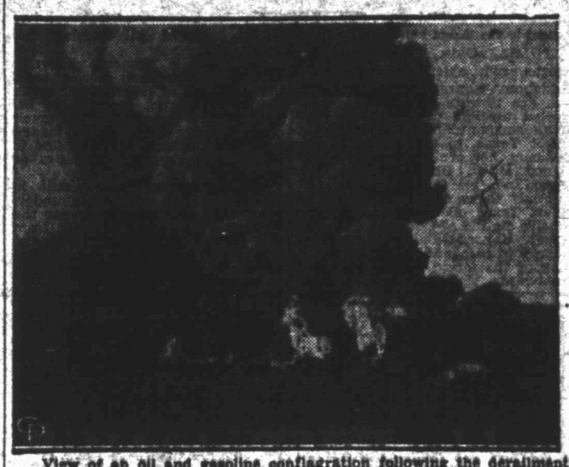

The gulf stream branch may even dive beneath the cold southbound Labrador current. Like other oceanographers, Commander Smith would like to know whether the Labrador current is a continuous stream or salty river overflowing from the Arctic ocean into the North Atlantic. There is a question also whether the Greenland current makes its way across to Labrador and why the western slope of Greenland is warmer than Baffin land on the same line of latitude.

Commander Smith expects to solve this summer these pressing problems of a region of which little is known as to its oceanography. These new facts, if obtained, are expected to add largely to results already obtained from 3000 observations of icebergs, their drift, rate of melting, and danger to shipping. As a result of this work by the ice patrol only three lives have been lost because of a ship's colliding with a berg in the last 14 years.

Thaw's Brother Must Return Mother's Gift

NEW YORK, July 2. (UP)—Judge Martin Manton of the United States court of appeals ruled today that Morris Copely Thaw, nephew of Harry K. Thaw, must return a $600,000 gift to his grandmother, Mrs. Mary Copely Thaw of Pittsburgh, Pa.

The cash gift was made in 1926 at a time, the court said, when Mrs. Thaw "was ill and incapable of passing judgment on the advisability of giving away so much money."

DRUGS USED IN INSANITY CURE

Brain Specialist Makes New Discoveries

NEW YORK, July 2. (US)—Prof. G. U. Ariens Kappers, director of the Central institute of brain research at Amsterdam, has discussed in a private lecture with American scientists at the medical center the newest means of treating insanity and epilepsy by means of certain curious drugs.

He also related how cases of general paralysis have been treated in Europe by means of inducing high fever in patients.

Through scientific friends the text of his professional message became available today.

After telling of a deeper study of miscroscopical changes in the brain and in the organs of endocrine secretion by neurological experts, he showed how insanity is being treated by means of improved forms of narcotic drugs. One of these is the sleep-inducing somniphene, used in cases of agitated melancholia. He told how Drs. Stuuman, Dozy and Kraus in a north Holland provincial hospital, using only somniphene, gave a patient 60 to 80 drops internally as an initial dose. This was followed twice daily by intramuscular injections for two weeks. Dr. Kappers added:

Many Cured

"In this way they succeeded in keeping the most agitated patients sleeping all the time, awakening only at each new injection, which moments were used to provide them with food. Results were very favorable, especially with younger patients. Altogether 26 per cent of the patients thus treated in the last five years were cured.

"It may be mentioned that somniphene by injection has also been applied sometimes in combatting the epileptic state.

"As prescribed, combined with a saltless diet, attacks were reduced to one-fourth and less of their former frequency. But the German luminal, called bardenal by the French, has been largely substituted, Dr. Irving said, in England, who applied it in 58 epileptic cases, saw their convulsions reduced to two per cent of former frequency.

He added that the "much dreaded paralysis" was yielding to science with better chances of recovery since Dr. Bordier, of Lyons, devised a treatment of the spinal cord with x-rays immediately after the fever was gone. He said Dr. Simon Flexner, of the Rockefeller institute, was "still active in trying to find an anti-serum for the disease and has a good chance since he succeeded in infecting monkeys with it."

Police Thwart Attempt To Steal Ballot Box

MEXICO CITY, July 2. (AP)—The election of General Obregon as Mexico's president yesterday has had a curious aftermath in news that a party of about 100 men attempted to steal the ballot box where President Calles voted. A body of mounted police dispersed the men and prevented them from taking the box away. Some arrests were made.

Authorities have refused to give out any information concerning the attempt or to give any theory as to why an effort should have been made to make off with this particular box. The president voted in a booth in one of the residence sections of Mexico City.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, July 2. (AP)—The cotton market was lower today on more favorable weather prospects and realizing or liquidation. After selling off to 22.35 during mid-day, October rallied to 22.64, but eased again in late trading and closed at 22.45, compared with 22.74 at the close last week. The general market closed barely steady, at net declines of 27 to 30 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 26 to 37 points, active months showing net losses of about 32 to 37 points under realizing or liquidation promoted by relatively easy Liverpool cables and hope of better weather in the south. There was considerable buying at the start on bullish private crop reports, but after a little irregularity, the market weakened under renewed liquidation.

The disposition to take profits on long cotton in advance of the holiday on Wednesday, was increased by favorable weather forecasts, and the market worked off to 22.23 for July and 22.20 for December during mid-day, or about 37 to 39 points net lower. Selling slackened at these figures, and the market recovered part of its losses on covering or fresh buying, encouraged by the continued bullish character of private crop advices, and expectations that the government report on boll weevil emergence prior to June 16 would tend to confirm private reports of heavy infestation.

Prices rallied to 22.43 for July and 22.48 for December, or about 20 to 28 points from the low level of the morning, but this bulge met a renewed liquidation and the market eased off again in later trading. Last prices were within 7 or 10 points of the lowest.

The official boll weevil report, issued at 3 o'clock, indicated a sharp decline in emergence between June 1 and June 15 and attracted bearish comment from local traders after the close.

Port receipts 3950. U. S. port stocks 862,749. Exports 21,353, making 7,491,646 so far this season.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, July 2. (AP)—An early decline of over $2 a bale was followed by a rather sharp recovery in the cotton market today when the demand was stimulated by bullish crop condition reports and uncertainty over the boll weevil report which was issued after the market closed. October contracts, which had traded off to 21.73, or 43 points net down, rallied to 22.10, but a further decline in final trading carried it down to 21.86 where it closed, net 30 points lower. The general market closed steady at a net decline of 25 to 31 points.

Liverpool cables were about as due, but the market here opened easy owing to the comparative dryness in the belt over Sunday. Prices eased off rapidly in early trading under long liquidation and some realizing in advance of the Independence day holiday. October sold off to 21.73 and December to 21.63, or 43 to 46 points below the previous close.

When these offerings were absorbed good buying developed, being induced by three private crop condition reports with condition averages ranging from 64.7 to 68.3 and with the acreage estimate ranging from 2 to 3 per cent. One authority made the indicated yield 12,900,000 bales. An announcement that the government would issue a boll weevil report later in the day helped the recovery. Before the demand was supplied October traded at 22.10 and December 22.00, or 37 points above the lows but still 6 to 9 points under Saturday's close.

After mid-session the market experienced another sinking spell when recent buyers sold on fears of a bearish weevil report. There was also a renewal of pre-holiday realizing. October closed at 21.86 and December 21.87, or 22 to 24 points down from the highs and 25 to 31 points below the previous close.

Cotton futures closed steady at a net decline of 25 to 31 points.

Highest Call Rate In Nine Years Results In Further Stock Slump

By BROADAN WALL

Universal Service Financial Expert

NEW YORK, July 2.—Calling of $75,000,000 loans put the call money rate to 10 per cent., the highest rate in nine years, and caused further decline in the stock market today.

The market remained orderly, however, and except in radio and a few other technical corners, the losses were not large as lower money rates are expected after the Fourth of July holiday.

Trading was extremely dull and individual influences had little effect except in the best grade investment shares where quiet accumulation was noticeable.

The 10 per cent rate was higher than had been expected, but it attracted sufficient funds toward the close to indicate some easing tomorrow.

Cast Iron Pipe lost 28 points, while Case and Texas & Pacific dropped 7. General Motors declined 4 points in the afternoon after holding throughout the morning, while Steel, Allied Chemical and other standard industrials lost 2 points or less.

Foreign exchanges remained dull. Cotton rallied a little after early weakness, while wheat and other grains benefited from favorable trade advices from aboard.

There was great condemnation of the reserve banks and most of it betrayed the lack of understanding of the bank's functions and money conditions on the part of the critics.

The reserve bank did not make the 10 per cent money. Stock trading borrowers and member banks who made loans to them are responsible. The reserve warned some weeks ago that as a result of its necessary corrective measures, gold exports, etc., members could only meet big requirements by reducing loans.

The mid-year turnover of funds was ahead but it was not until rates started to rise that the stock market correction started. Last week in the face of 7 per cent money and the most obvious indications that an 8 per cent money rate or higher would be witnessed early this week, bull leaders forced a turn in the market trend and attempted to attract a following to their moves.

Now they call the reserve all kinds of names although the reserve is no more to blame than any other doctor who is compelled to fall back on strong medicine to cure a severe illness.

Rails slumped with the rest of the list, although there was better absorption therein on the decline. Missouri Pacific again was the subject of favorable dividend reports. Erie was mentioned in similar advices, it being reported that those in control of the road were giving considerable thought to either a dividend on the first preferred, or a revamping of the capital structure whereby the first preferred would be exchanged for another dividend paying issue. Cerro de Pasco held well in good turnover as at least an extra dividend is expected at the coming meeting.

Grain

By THOMAS TEMPLE HOYNE

Universal Service

CHICAGO, July 2.—Wheat was up at Liverpool early today 4c to 5c and the local market responded with an opening bulge of 1½c to 2c. Longs sold out and all during the session bears pounded the market.

At the close wheat was up ¼c to ⅜c; corn was ⅜c higher to ⅜c lower; oats were ⅜c lower to ⅜c higher; rye was off ⅜c to 1c.

The news that Russia is in the world market buying wheat on a big scale, which accounted for the great strength in Liverpool, did not register powerfully with local professionals. They were not yet ready to believe that a big bull wheat market is in the making.

It should be no great surprise if again tomorrow morning the Liverpool market is up and strong at the opening. Our market has been pretty well cleaned out again and sentiment is bearish.

On an easing off early wheat may be an excellent purchase. Tomorrow it may start upward and not come back again to let shorts in who sell it. The session will be a short one. The market will close at 12 o'clock and not reopen until Thursday morning after the Fourth of July holiday.

Corn was erratic today and drew a lot of selling toward the close, after its earlier strength. It seems to be a dangerous market. It does not look to me like a good sale.

Everyone in this country can see that the prospects for the 1928 corn crop are brilliant. Everyone could see those prospects for the last two months. To suppose that innumerable traders have not already acted on that view is illogical. December corn especially has, I think, been constantly sold.

Anything that would stimulate buying might put corn shorts in a bad hole and one hard to get out of.

In the cash market wheat was unchanged to 2c higher; corn was unchanged to ½c up; oas were steady; rye was firm; barley was quiet.

STEADY SLUMP IN SEMINOLE

Storage Situation Shows Trivial Change

Special to The Record News.

TULSA, Okla., July 2.—The end of June found the greater Seminole oil field declining again.

Saturday it produced 248,078 barrels from 1093 wells, a gain of one new well, but a loss of 2137 barrels in daily output.

The comparative production report follows:

	Saturday	Wells	Fri.
Little River	44,502	125	44,005
Bowlegs	58,782	315	58,256
Earlsboro	80,763	273	83,427
Seminole City	51,306	300	51,365
Searight	12,735	68	12,812
Maud	.....	2	350
Totals	248,078	1093	250,215

Last week's production approximated 1,749,805 barrels, a daily average of 249,972 barrels. By days, it showed up as follows:

Saturday	248,078
Friday	250,215
Thursday	247,336
Wednesday	247,482
Tuesday	250,842
Monday	255,436
Sunday	250,416

Unofficial information indicates that there has been little or no change in the storage situation in Seminole. On June 1 there was 18,945,003 barrels in oil and around 19,000,000 barrels is expected to be the July 1 totals. Sinclair Oil and Gas company, Indian Territory Illuminating Oil company and several others have been adding to storage, while Prairie Pipeline company has been moving out of Seminole tanks into other tanks so it will have room for new production expected in Little River and nearby pools.

A week ago the daily runs by pipelines amounted to 246,760 barrels, and tank car shipments totaled 12,214 barrels, or 258,970 barrels, or slightly more than daily production. By firms the pipeline movement was:

Prairie	60,363
Magnolia	37,192
Sinclair	33,128
Oklahoma	30,052
Gulf	24,560
Texas	16,786
Shell	11,319
Empire	12,229
Cosden	8,306
Tidal	6,178
Barnsdall	5,318
Pure	4,651
Shaffer	4,027
White Oak	1,383
Consolidated	769
Champlin	280

In tank car shipments the Pure led with 4270 barrels; Carter was next for 4136 barrels and Amerada for 3808 barrels.

Amarillo Refiner Builds Plants in West Texas

Special to The Record News.

AMARILLO, Texas, July 2.—J. D. Wrather, president of the Amarillo Producers and Refiners corporation, which operates a small refinery at Borger, in Hutchinson county, and also a plant near Pampa, in Gray county, both in the Panhandle field, is now building refineries in West Texas. He announces that a 3000-barrel plant is to be built at Pyote, about 40 miles east of Pecos, in Winkler county.

Shallow gas in the Pawhuska district of Osage county holds up. The Indian Territory Illuminating Oil company has completed No. 392, in the northeast corner of 29-25-8e, for 7,250,000 feet of gas at 600 feet, and with a rock pressure of 140 pounds. Its No. 393, in the northeast corner of the southeast of the southeast of 4-23-9, made 1,250,000 feet of gas at 440 feet.

Another Shallow Gas Sand in Coleman Test

COLEMAN, July 2.—In a shallow sand at 765 feet, E. J. Cunningham et al. encountered considerable gas in the No. 1 I. Self, 150 feet east and south of the northwest quarter of the southeast quarter of the tract in the J. S. Loving survey No. 249. No gauge of the gas flow had been taken, but it was thought to be between three and four million cubic feet daily.

In the Jennings pool E. J. Cunningham et al. were nearing the top of the shallow sand at 1150 feet in the No. 4-A Jennings and will likely drill that well in during the week. It is an offset to the No. 3-A Jennings producer which was brought in several weeks ago. In the Jennings pool Cunningham, White, Simpson & Pinkerton are preparing to start drilling on the Nos. 3 and 4-B Jennings, going north from the two producers already brought in on the "B" lease.

Shell Pipeline Co. Runs Mixture Of West Texas and "Sweet" Crude

Special to The Record News.

TULSA, Okla., July 2.—West Texas crude, chiefly a sour oil, and Oklahoma-Kansas crude, a sweet oil, are flowing through the completed pipeline of the Shell Pipe Line company, from McCamey in West Texas, to the Roxana Petroleum corporation refineries at Wood River, Ill., and East Chicago, Ind., via Cushing, Okla.

Forty thousand barrels a day of West Texas oil is received at the Shell's station at Cushing, where as much Kansas-Oklahoma crude is mixed with it, and 65,000 barrels a day of the mixed oil is pushed on eastwards. The additional mixed oil is stored at Cushing for emergency uses.

A. K. Riddle, general superintendent of the Shell line, reports that the task of reconditioning the 10-inch line from Cushing to St. Louis is now under way, and much of it is being done with a loaded line. The Cushing-St. Louis line is 428 miles long, and 328 miles of it is looped.

The McCamey-Cushing unit is 481 miles long, and it is understood that sometime this year the Shell will start a new unit from this project in Texas down to the gulf coast, where the Roxana has a big terminal and refinery site near Houston.

Deep Test in Lea County Makes Flows

Lea county, New Mexico, came into the limelight when Mid-West Refining company's No. 1 State, in 9-19-38, made two flows of one and one-half hours each, says a wire from Roswell. The well is flowing through the eight-inch casing.

The test is 4085 feet deep, and drilling has been suspended awaiting the erection of tankage, and the changing from gas engine to steam power.

Operators in the district have placed no estimates on the production of the new well, but feel certain it means the opening of a new field in Lea county.

NEW STRENGTH IN GAS MARTS

Jobbers Increase Demand For Gasoline

Special to The Record News.

TULSA, Okla., July 2.—Mid-Continent refiners report many jobbers coming into the group 3 market for July supplies, and gasolines are reported stronger as a result. U. S. motor grade is now held generally at eight cents flat, the Empire Refineries, Inc., quoting that price for wholesale lots Friday morning.

Higher gravities are also dearer, due to the domestic and export buying that has cleaned up North Texas group, and given Oklahoma-Kansas refiners many inquiries from the exporters. Inquiry discloses 60-62, 400 endpoint gasoline held at 8¼ cents, with 64-66, 375 endpoint at 8½ to 8⅝ cents, while the 390 endpoint product is quoted around 8¼ to 8⅜ cents. The 68-70, 350-360 endpoint product is quoted at 8⅜ to 8¼ cents.

The "Navy" advance is understood to have been met by Barnsdall Refining company and Sinclair Refining company.

Burning oils continue unchanged, but fuels do not look strong. In fact the bids that Eastern, Gulf and Mid-Continent refiners submitted on the U. S. shipping board's inquiry showed fuel to be weak. Some bids agreed to lay fuel down to the ships at the gulf coast for 75 cents a barrel, or at the group 3 price of 60 cents a barrel.

Maud Excited at New Oil Pool Discovery

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 2. (UP) A new pool near Maud in Pottawatomie county, the Magnolia Petroleum company's No. 1 Fyke in the northwest of the southwest of the southeast of 20-7-5, blew in Sunday and flowed 150 barrels the first hour. Excitement is tense in Maud today as a result of this well.

The Want Ad In Your Home

Around the house goes The Wandering Want Ad. "Don't you think," says he, "in view of the fact that no one has used that cumbersome globe in the last three years you should sell it? And it seems to me that the old plaster cast bust is a bit out of place nowadays. And keep in mind two of my pet classifications if you want to realize a bit of collateral occasionally—Arts & Antiques and Books & Magazines."

Milady's tastes in clothing ebb and flow. The changing tides of fashion leave many useful and valuable garments hopelessly stranded in milady's closet. Wise she is if she employs our Want Ad columns to dispose of them quickly and profitably.

Today { At the Theaters

MISSION: Theater will reopen Wednesday.
STRAND: (Vitaphone pictures). "Ham and Eggs at the Front." Mitchell Lewis in "The Death Ship." Harrington sisters in "A Garden of Songs." Also Pathe news.
MAJESTIC: Dorothy Mackaill and Jack Mulhall in "Lady Be Good." Fables. Topics. Paramount news.
OLYMPIC: "The News Parade" with all star cast. Century comedy. Fox news.
GARDEN: "Burning Gold." Western. Comedy.
GEM: "Roaring Broncs." Serial. Comedy.

Ramon Novarro and Carmel Myers in "A Certain Young Man," opening at the Majestic Wednes-

"The Lion and the Mouse", with more lines and spoken dialogue than either Al Jolson's "The Jazz Singer" or Conrad Nagel and Dolores Costello in "Tenderloin" is announced by Manager Hans Smith to open Friday at the Strand. This is the third great advance and step forward in the spoken motion pictures.

◇ ◇ ◇

The newsiest news of the new week in the theater world is that the Mission theater is to be reopened Wednesday. This house was closed by fire a few weeks ago, and since that time, Manager Charlie Moorehead has been working hard to put it in shape again. It is all spick and span in its new decorations, and should give the fans the sensation of a brand new theater.

◇ ◇ ◇

A serial picture is to be started at the Mission with the opening matinee at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning. It is named "The Man Without a Face." Tom Mix in his latest picture, "The Horseman of the Plains," is to be the feature.

◇ ◇ ◇

Kids will be happy over the opening, for they are especially favored in the opening with a two for one matinee. This matinee will admit two for the price of one, but they must be under 12 years of age. It starts at 11 o'clock.

◇ ◇ ◇

The reopening of the Mission will give Wichita Falls just about as much in the way of motion pictures as Fort Worth is enjoying. Some great pictures are announced for presentation in the immediate future. If you want to hear a vitaphone feature and enjoy about 77 laughs, drop in and see "Ham and Eggs at the Front" at the Strand. "Lady Be Good" is another excellent picture. It is at the Majestic.

◇ ◇ ◇

Did you ever notice those funny little pictures in the theater advertisements that look like fleece clouds oozing out of blimp balloons? They have the name of the theater on the balloon and the slogan "cooled by washed air" floating around in the clouds. It's not a bad idea at that for the Strand, Olympic, Mission and Majestic theaters are cooled by washed air. On entering any one of these theaters the draught of air being forced out of the building is noticed. In the theater the force of the cooled air being forced in from above is noticed. It is that cool, clean air the little picture in the adds is trying to tell about.

◇ ◇ ◇

Damon Runyon, Bugs Baer and Will Rogers, the three big boys who have been entertaining the dear public with wise cracks during two conventions will now have to find something else about which to write. Political runarounds and conventions make the real live meat for these philosophical wisecrackers and also for their numerous poor imitators. The tough part of it is when everything is over and they have to go to work again in earnest in order to get news. Folks reading papers may not give it much thought beyond panning the paper for the few little things they may not happen to like. I wonder if they ever stopped to think what a "Sherman's opinion of war" of a thing it is to find things to write about so that a paper may be filled up each day.

◇ ◇ ◇

The new week and the lull following the conventions is something like the morning after the night before. It will take a little while to recover an interest in ordinary events.

Power to Match the Hills
with Magnolia Anti-Knock Gasoline
Powerful Even Burning Knockless

The Indian, buffalo, and wild life of retreating savagery still hold their own in isolated reserves. A rugged country of high mountains, precipitous cliffs and deep ravines maintains the hard-earned stamina of a passing age. Among such surroundings the vacationist in the Wichitas near Lawton, Oklahoma, can find scenic trails, fishing, swimming, boating, camping and outdoor sports just a step removed from the primitive. Or in the established resorts can be enjoyed golf, tennis, horseback riding and social entertainment in a modern environment.

The motorist will go well prepared for full enjoyment of the remaining West if he establishes the habit of visiting the Magnolia stations on his way. There he will find Magnolia ANTI-KNOCK gasoline with that "something extra" for the quiet, heavy pull. Courteous, personal service and pleasant, sanitary conveniences will add to the pleasure of the stop. Your motor will repay you in steadier, fuller power for your consideration in providing the full vigor of Magnolia ANTI-KNOCK Gasoline.

Magnolia ANTI-KNOCK Gasoline is a Red gasoline, but all Red gasoline is not ANTI-KNOCK. Look for the Magnolia sign.

Two well-worn theories—that the more a man shaves the harder his beard grows and that beards grow more rapidly in warm weather—have been exploded by an American scientist.
