

News Letter

From Congressman WALTER ROGERS

THE SOCIAL SECURITY PROGRAM: Most of you will remember that much attention was paid to the proposed expansion of the social security program by both the Republican Party and the Democratic Party during this election year. This proposed expansion anticipated an increase in those eligible for social security payments of about 14 million persons. Keep in mind that this does not mean an increase in the amount of payments to each individual, but is an increase in the number of people who will be on the social security rolls. Should this proposed expansion come about, the additional persons to become eligible for social security would come from the groups not now included in the program. These groups are listed by the Federal Security Agency as follows:

1. Farm operators (owners, tenants and sharecroppers).
2. Self-employed professional people.
3. Self-employed people who have a net earning of less than $400.00.
4. Employees of state and local governments who have a separate retirement plan.
5. Civilian employees of the Federal Government who are not under civil service. (There are some exceptions to this.)
6. Farm workers not regularly employed by the same farmer.
7. Domestic workers not regularly employed in the same household.
8. Certain groups of ordained ministers and employees of fraternal organizations, labor unions, etc.
9. Family employment.

In addition to the above groups, there are two groups with which social security coverage is optional:

1. State and local government employees.
2. Non-profit organizations.

Prior to the September, 1950, amendment to the Act, small independent business men were not included in the coverage list. However, they were included in September 1950, although a great many of them did not know it until they were called upon to make the required payments. This amendment was passed prior to my coming to Congress. I did not agree with the amendment as such for the simple reason that I have always felt that if social security is to be extended to the small independent business man, it should not be compulsory but should be a matter of election on the part of the individual business man. I am still of that opinion and would like very much to hear from these business men as to whether or not they want their social security status changed from compulsory to voluntary. It is entirely possible that this could be done in connection with the legislation designed to carry out the proposed expansion program. By the same token I would appreciate very much hearing from people in those groups not presently covered as to whether or not they desire to be covered, and if so, do they want compulsory coverage or voluntary? This is of great importance to the farmers and ranchers in the 18th District, and I sincerely hope that they will lose no time in expressing their views to me.

Much attention is being paid at the present time to the income limitation on those drawing social security. Prior to September, 1950, a person drawing social security was not allowed to earn more than $15.00 per month. In September, 1952, this was again changed so that such a person could earn up to $75.00 per month. In other words, if you draw social security and earn more than $75.00 per month, you must give up your social security or be in violation of the present law. When this matter was before the House in September, many members refused to vote for the bill because there was no increase in the income limitation. A large number of us were trying to get this income limitation removed, or at least increased to $125.00. Although we were not satisfied with the $75.00 figure, many of us accepted it so that the bill could be passed because it was the same bill that gave an increase in the social security benefits of $5.00 per month. There will be several bills introduced this year to remove the income limitation or to increase it measurably. The limitation works many hardships. For instance, if a woman prior to September 1, 1950, lost her husband and was left with a child to rear, she would receive approximately $41.25 per month social security. She could supplement this amount by her own earnings only to the extent of $15.00 per month. Her total income would be $56.25 per month. Any elementary school child could tell you that a growing under the prevailing grocery price-boy or girl could eat that much. There are many other instances that could be cited, but I mention this one because it happened in Pampa, Texas, and the widow was virtually threatened with prosecution if she did not refund to the government approximately $160.00 that she had drawn from social security while earning approximately $25.00 a week by the sweat of her brow in an effort to feed, clothe and house her child.

THE FEDERAL PAYROLL: The General Accounting Office has a good argument against the contention by many that the federal payroll cannot be reduced. In April, 1946, the number of employees in the GAO reached a peak of 14,904. On January 1, 1953, this figure had been reduced to 6,204, a reduction of 8,700, or nearly 60 percent in the last seven years. The General Accounting Office is now headed by Honorable Lindsay Warren, Comptroller General of the United States, and a former member of Congress from North Carolina. I do not know what degree of efficiency was attained in 1946, but I do know from my own experience with the GAO during the past two years that it is presently operated on an excellent basis from the standpoint of efficiency. Other government agencies would do well to follow the example set by the GAO.

MORE COURTESY IN TAX COLLECTIONS WOULD HELP: One of the best investments and the least costly in human relations is courtesy. It would do government departments well to give more attention to this rule. Especially is this true in the tax collection division of the Government. The Internal Revenue Department would do well to pursue such policy, and I am suggesting to it that certain forms in present use incidental to the collection of delinquent taxes be softened in language. The present form letter notifying a taxpayer of his failure to pay an installment on back taxes, when due, is so worded that many taxpayers receiving the same, undergo a violent reaction, not alone because of having to pay such tremendously high taxes, but primarily because they feel that the wording of the letter is an indictment of them—an indictment that they deliberately, maliciously and fraudulently failed, neglected and refused to make the payment when due. There are no doubt instances when such might be the case, but in my opinion the average American taxpayer is an honest, decent and law-abiding citizen, who wants to meet his obligations on time. However, there are circumstances wholly beyond the control of the taxpayer that might prevent him from being as punctual as he would like. Paying exceedingly high taxes is distasteful at best, and there is no justification for adding insult to injury. I would suggest that the internal revenue service re-arrange the language of their communications to at least avoid the conveyance of the impression to the taxpayer that he is a suspicious character. This could easily be done with no additional expense to the government, and would, in my opinion, pay great dividends in the possible reduction of some administrative costs.

Burgers, Beans Student Favorites

What are the favorite foods of Wellington students

It's hamburgers and beans, according to Mrs. G. B. Hopper, who is in charge of the school cafeteria. And she sees to it that they get a serving of these favorites at least once each week—with other foods to make a well balanced diet.

As an example of this, Mrs. Hopper listed the school cafeteria menu for the week beginning Monday, January 19:

Monday: Hamburger pattie on bun, onion, pickle, mustard, potato chips, lettuce and tomato salad, half pint of milk or chocolate milk, and peach cobbler.

Tuesday: cream of tomato soup with cracker; turkey salad on leaf lettuce, potatoes boiled in jacket; half pint milk or chocolate milk, enriched bread and margarine, and fruit jello.

Wednesday: Baked frozen cod filets, macaroni and cheese, tossed green salad, chilled tomatoes, enriched bread, half pint milk or chocolate milk, cream desert with merigune topping.

Thursday: bean-cheese burger on bun, cold slaw, potato salad, half pint of milk or chocolate milk, grapes.

peanut butter and peach half.

Friday: baked cured ham, honey candied carrots, seasoned spinach, cottage cheese salad, hot biscuits with margarine, half pint of milk or chocolate milk, and fresh grapes.

Which costs ½ as much in the long run?

Water heaters look alike.

Always find out about the tank inside when you buy. Automatic gas water heaters with corrosion-resistant tanks last two, three... even five times longer.

Remember two things when you buy. First, buy an adequate size automatic gas water heater—at least 30 gallons capacity, which gives you reserve for the future such as additions to your family or addition of hot water consuming appliances.

Second, all top-quality corrosion-resistant tanks are guaranteed five years. Some, like Ruud Monel, are guaranteed 10 years. They cost a little more, but in the long run, cost only one-half as much as low-priced water heaters.

Only GAS

- heats water fast
- costs so little to run

A 30-gallon Gas water heater gives more hot water than an 80-gallon heater run by any other fuel. Yet, Gas water heaters cost less to buy, install and run.

It Can Happen Here--It Has

It couldn't happen to me, to my family.

Yet in one year, 55,000 persons in this country were victims of the disease called polio. Most of them were children. It could not happen to them, but they couldn't deny the reality of shrunken limbs and twisted bodies.

Polio is as great an equalizer as death. It has no respect for high office or lowly station. It may sweep through slum areas with terrible crippling power, or it may sneak through a country village and attack one victim.

You could just as easily have been one in the numbers that doubled and tripled last year to become a new record.

Human significance can be lost when statistics are multiplied to such proportions. Names are reduced to anonymous titles in the long lists of those whom tragedy strikes.

As thousands of persons became new statistics—4,191 new cases of polio were reported in one week—and then as the intensity of the epidemic lessened, thousands more breathed thankful prayers that they were spared—and then forgot.

It's time to remember. It's time to remember that the helpless child is snatched from his family and encased in an iron lung is no less pitiful when his number is multiplied by hundreds.

It's time to remember those who died from polio, but also those who lived, because the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis was able to operate with funds made available by you and millions of other concerned people throughout the United States.

There was more polio last year, but there was more help. Never before did so many polio patients receive assistance from the March of Dimes in a single year.

Approximately 90,000 persons were aided by National Foundation chapters last year. Almost half were carry-over cases from previous years, who still needed help.

An estimated $28,000,000 in March of Dimes funds was used during the year to provide care for the stricken, an increase of $7,000,000 over 1951 for similar purposes.

The National Foundation shipped more iron lungs than the number supplied during the three previous years combined. Hotpack machines and "rock-ing beds" were dispatched to emergency areas.

Millions of dollars' worth of live-saving equipment was pressed into service and nurses and physical therapists were recruited.

The March of Dimes was aiding, through you, not just numbers on a page of statistics, but friends and neighbors who are bound to us in the common fight against polio.

The fight is not yet over.

Tests conducted last year in an epidemic area using gamma globulin, a blood fraction, demonstrated that the globulin is effective in giving human beings some degree of temporary immunity to the disease. For the first time, science was able to check the course of paralytic polio in the human body.

The ultimate goal of a lasting preventive and control is now in sight because of the research financed by the March of Dimes.

However, there is still a need to advance the control to effective use. Until the time that there is complete immunization against polio, thousands more will be stricken, and the March of Dimes will need funds to carry out a polio-fighting program.

Our role in the fight is an important one.

First, we need to become concerned that those suffering from polio, and those that will be stricken this year, be given aid. We may not be near enough to see their smile of thanks but can know that we're had some small part in relieving the agonies of tortured bodies.

Then we need to give—with our hearts as well as our pocketbooks. There is no price tag attached to a child's happiness or the well-being of a friend, telling of its value.

The goal Wellington has been asked to reach in the current March of Dimes campaign is only $2,000—less than a dollar apiece for every resident.

Miniature iron lungs will be placed in many of the business places where you may give your dimes and dollars. Personal contributions sent to The Enterprise, which is conducting the campaign, will be acknowledged in the columns of this newspaper.

You have a wonderful opportunity to do something about one of the worst evils in medical history. Let us give and not count the cost.

BIBLE COMMENT
FOR JAN. 18All Are the Friends of Jesus

Although there were many during Jesus' lifetime who called themselves His enemies, He also had many friends. They were people from all walks of life and included the very rich and the most poverty-stricken people of the Holy Land.

Most striking of all was the Saviour's love of little children. He included many thousands of them among His friends and made a point of letting them come to Him, rebuking His disciples who turned away the mothers bringing their children to see the Master.

His closest friends were the disciples themselves. They represented a cross-section of the society of the time. But there were great men of the age who felt a close friendship for Jesus. There was the Roman Centurion whose faith He commended; and Nicodemus, the ruler of the Jews.

There were friends who grieved for Him after the crucifixion, such as the man who claimed His body. Other wealthy men invited Him to their homes. Among these was Simon, the Pharisee, whose hospitality He accepted but whom He lovingly rebuked.

And then there was the legion of friendless, sick, needy and lonely who felt His great compassion. There were the crowds of common people who followed Him and listened to Him as He preached. Such a crowd was present to see the miracle of the loaves and the fishes.

Also, He accepted the "sinners" and people of ill repute who sincerely wanted to become more worthy. There were women among the friends of Jesus. They followed Him to Calvary and met Him on the Resurrection morning.

We can never know the names of all these people. We do know, however, of their great love and adoration. We know of His deep, everlasting love for them. Jesus was, and is, a friend to all, whether they accept that friendship or not.

We consider every woman beautiful until SHE declares otherwise.

People are taking more stock in peace. We hope it isn't watered.

COME HOME, GOVERNMENT!

Much has been said and written in recent months about the reduction of a federal government budget that has now reached $70 billion a year. As a candidate, President-elect Eisenhower reportedly said the budget could be cut almost in half within a few years. Some authorities on public finance have suggested a general reduction at a rate of about $10 billion a year. Dr. Harley L. Lutz, professor emeritus of public finance, Princeton University, is specific.

In a lecture to the Harding College student body, sponsored by our new School of American Studies, Dr. Lutz recommended basic changes in federal and state governmental responsibilities, and changes also in the allocation of tax sources. Under his carefully detailed plan a federal budget goal of $51.7 billion would be possible for the fiscal year 1955-56, and his tax plan for that year would bring in $53.8 billion, providing a $2 billion margin for debt reduction.

TOO CLUTTERED UP
Dr. Lutz goes back to the U. S. Constitution for a re-defining of the federal government. "Defense and foreign affairs stand out," he notes, "as the most important task. If the Congress and the top officers of the executive branch were free to give most of their time and energy to this important task, perhaps we would have clearer, more positive and more protective policies in these fields. As long as the time and energy of the Congress and executive officers are frittered away over a thousand petty, minor details we can expect only floundering across the board, with the small and the great tasks alike."

He recommends that all welfare services be made the full responsibility of the respective states; likewise education, highways and public health services. By giving all gasoline and oil taxes to the states, all except the sparsely populated states could maintain their own highway systems, he contends, pointing out that the federal government gets about $400 million more from these taxes than it pays back to the states in highway grants.

MORE STATE REVENUE
The need for additional school revenue in all 48 states could be met, Dr. Lutz points out, by giving to the states the present federal taxes on admissions, dues and initiation fees, safety boxes, bowling alleys, coin devices, and stamp taxes — which produced $527.5 million dollars in federal taxes last year. In the welfare and health services, he recommends that the federal government concern itself with research and counsel, leaving the financing to the states. However, he thinks the Old Age and Survivors Insurance (old age pension) problem can best be handled by the federal government, though he contends it should be placed on a pay-as-you-go basis.

"By leaving enough of the people's income at home," he says, "the several states can provide whatever may be needed for the various kinds of welfare and other services out of their own funds."

FANTASTIC BUREAUCRACY
One of the great causes of increased taxes, controls, and governmental burdens generally, Dr. Lutz observes, "has been the expansion of the federal government into many areas not logically or even constitutionally belonging to it." He lists the administrative and operating units of the federal government: Departments, 12; Offices, 594; Commissions, 9; Administrations, 28; Corporations, 21; Services, 125; Bureaus, 110; Divisions, 645; Branches, 25; Boards, 51; Miscellaneous, 416. Total, 2,055.

The key change in his tax revision recommendation provides for cutting down considerably on the federal income tax rate, so the states can have this source more for their local needs; and the obtaining of a major portion of the federal taxes through a manufacturers' excise tax, with food and food products excepted, and with alcoholic beverages and tobacco taxed separately. If the recommended changes in services from federal and state governments had been made a year ago, if needed efficiency measures had likewise been effected, and his tax revisions adopted, a reduction of $12 billion could have been made in the 1953-54 budget. The details of the Lutz plan may be found in his book, "A Platform for the American Way," Appleton-Century-Croft, New York. It's good reading for all taxpayers.

The prize crack of the week comes from an Arkansas farmer who has been fighting crab grass all his life. He declares that when crab grass is pulled up by the roots, piled on top of a flat stone and dried for weeks, and then burned, it will take root and flourish wherever its smoke touches the ground.

What Is Thrift?

If You Practice Real Thrift You Will Find
It Includes These Things:

1. SPEND, BUT DO NOT WASTE. This means the careful use of money, of materials, of time and energy.
2. SAVE, BUT DO NOT HOARD. Set aside regularly a part of your pay so you will have a financial reserve to see you through emergencies and to enable you to take advantage of opportunities which may come to you.
3. Do not get in debt beyond your ability to pay. Remember, there is always a day of reckoning.

Quails Get Consolation Award

Bobwhites Bring Home Tourney Championship

"Look what we brought home." That is what the Bobwhites said, Monday morning as they arrived at school. They were the victors in the Memphis Basketball Tournament, which was held in Memphis last week end.

The Quail Quails won the third place consolation trophy in that tourney. In the girls championship game the Bobwhites played the Lakeview Eaglettes by a score of 61 to 54. It was a very close game all the way. At the end of the first quarter the Bobwhites lead 15 to 12. At the half the Bobwhites had piled on to their lead and it stood 25 to 19. In the third quarter the game began to get hotter than a fire-cracker. Points begin to show on the board faster than you could count them. The Bobwhites led at the end of the third quarter. The score was 44 to 33.

In the final stanza the Eaglettes began to catch fire but the enormous lead that the Bobwhites had scored earlier in the game was just too much. The final score was 61 to 54.

The top hoopster of the evening was Jo Helen White. She turned in a score card that showed 47 magnificent points. Mary Phipps was second with 8.

High-point maker for the Lakeview girls was Sams with 41 points. It was a tight game all the way, but the stamina of the Bobwhites outlasted the Eaglettes.

Collingsworth County can defiantly be proud of the record set by the Bobwhites and also, the fact that the Bobwhites placed three members of their team on the All-Tournament team. They were Jo Helen White, Fern Neeley, and Fayteen Peeples. Each of the girls certainly deserved the honor they got.

The Bobwhites didn't have too much trouble getting into the finals in the girls bracket. In their first game they posted a 55 to 30 win over the homestanding Memphis team.

Shortly, after the first quarter the Bobwhites coach, Bill Phillips pulled the starting line-up and sent in the second team. Even with the reserves in the ball game the Bobwhites won the game easily. The reserves who got to play were Nancy Stephens, Verma Boyd, Wanda Phipps, Alice Wilkerson, Johnnie Robertson, Clea Clay, Velma Langley, and Patsy White. These reserves certainly did a fine job.

The high-point maker for the Bobwhites was Jo Helen White with 29 points. Erma Farris was next with 10.

Betty Hickey of Memphis was high-point maker for the Memphis team with 8.

In their final game before the championship game they routed the Paducah squad by a score of 41 to 25. After the first quarter the starting line-up was pulled out of the game and the reserves were sent in. The Bobwhites won easily with Jo Helen White leading the way. Jo Helen made 19 points, a little below her usual average. Fern Neeley was next with 14.

Romona Ellis of Paducah was high-point maker for her team with 7 points.

Then the girls took home the championship by their win over Lakeview.

The Quails went to the tournament and came home third, but some bad luck presented them from coming home the victors of their division.

In their first game the Quails met Estelline. It was a close ball game with neither team able to enjoy any sizeable point advantage. At the end of the regular play the game was dead-locked 43 to 43. In a three minute overtime Estelline managed to score 7 points and only limit the Quails to 4. At the end of the overtime period it was 50 to 47 in favor of Estelline.

The main contributing factor to the Quails' defeat was the fouling out of two of their main players. Wallace Blasingame and Jasper Peeples fouled out just before the overtime period.

Estelline went on to win the tournament crown. It was the consensus almost that the winner of this game would sack up the tournament.

The top scorers of the Quails were Alvin Homer and Jasper Peeples. Both made 13 points. Wallace Blasingame was second with 10 points.

Orcutt and Casper of Estelline were the top scorers for their team. They had 13 points each.

It was definitely a heart-breaking loss, but the Quails took it in good stride.

Saturday morning the Quails played Lakeview. Quail took this game with ease. The final score was 45 to 27. It was just another step for the Quails to the consolation crown. At the half it stood 28 to 12. In the last half the reserves carried the majority of the load in the ball game.

The top scorers for the Quails were Jasper Peeples and Wallace

Blasingame. Each tallied 11 points. Alvin Homer was hot on their necks with 10 points.

Andrews of Lakeview was top scorer for his team. He had 9 points.

The Quails played Saturday night for the consolation crown. Their opponents were the Childress "B" team.

It was another high-scoring affair. Quail jumped into an early and commanding lead. The final score was 77 to 44. Most of the ball game was played by the reserves. About the last 4 or 5 minutes the regulars played. The Quails seemed to be having trouble deciding who wanted the top scoring honors. Jasper Peeples and Wallace Blasingame each scored 18 points. Alvin Homer trailed with 16 points and Gaylon Tow as third with 14.

The high-scorer for the Childress crew was Nippert with 25 points.

Jasper Peeples and Alvin Homer made the all-tournament team. These boys played hard and well deserved that honor that they received.

Collingsworth County can certainly be proud of these two fine teams as well as the other county teams.

Patsy Combs, A. J. Welch Wed in Memphis Ceremony

The First Christian Church, Memphis, was the scene for the marriage of Patsy Nell Combs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hershel Combs, formerly of Wellington, to A. J. Welch, son of Mrs. Anna Mae Welch of Fort Worth and Buster Welch of Lubbock. B. M. Litton, minister of the Church of Christ, read the double ring ceremony.

Music was provided by Miss Mary Foreman, organist; and Mrs. Robert Sexauer, vocalist, who sang "With This Ring I Thee Wed" and "The Lord's Prayer" as the benediction. The traditional marches were used for the processional and recessional.

The decorative setting for the ceremony featured floor baskets of white gladioli and branched candelabra holding white tapers against a background of sunburst arrangements of jade. Huckleberry garland was draped along the chancel rail, its extremities marked by woodwardia fern.

Glenda Brewer of Wellington and Lynda Norman of Spur, cousins of the bride, lighted the candles. They wore teal blue velvet dresses fashioned with basque waists and full ballerina-length skirts. Their wristlets were of garnet roses.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a ballerina-length gown of nylon tulle over white Chantilly lace. The fitted bodice was topped with a jacket of Chantilly lace, which buttoned down the front with tiny self-covered buttons. The bridal veil cascaded to fingertip length from a dainty Juliet cap of lace banded with seed pearls. Her bouquet was a white orchid surrounded by fluer d'armour and lily-of-valley.

Miss Betty Ann Goodall was maid-of-honor. A quartet of bridesmaids was composed of Misses Carnis Durham, Linda Fields, Adrienne Bridges of Fort Worth and Sandra Mason of Odessa. They were identically attired in full-skirted waltz-length dresses of teal blue velvet, fashioned with eon jackets. They carried crescent bouquets of happiness roses and wore half-hats of matching velvet trimmed with rhinestone studded net.

Little Miss Rena Gayle Miller of Wichita Falls, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. She also was attired in blue velvet and wore a band of garnet roses in her hair.

Allen Davis of Fort Worth served as the groom's best man. Ushers were Earl Cox III of Fort Worth, Pheaton Carnes of Fort Worth and Adrian and Billy Combs of Memphis, brothers of the bride.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at the Memphis Country Club. The bride's table was draped with a net cloth over white satin. Mrs. Claud Johnson served the three-tiered wedding cake and Mrs. Leo Fields presided at the crystal punch service. Other members of the house party included Mrs. Paul Brewer of Wellington and Mrs. J. E. Norman of Spur, aunts of the bride, Mrs. Ed Monzingo and Myrtel Howard of Memphis and Mrs. Rudolph Miller of Wichita Falls.

For traveling the bride chose a smart wool suit of royal blue. She wore a winter white hat and other accessories of black. Her corsage was the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

The newlyweds are at home at 1603 Ave. S, Lubbock where they are both sophomore students at Texas Tech College.

Wellington residents and former residents attending the wedding were: Dorothy Robertson, Virginia Robey, Mrs. Morris Reed and sons, Mrs. Jimmy Kelso, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Hedley Teams Down Rockets, Rockettes By Heavy Margins

By JAMES GLASSCOCK
In two lengthy basketball games the Hedley Owls and Owlettes swamped the Rockets and Rockettes Friday night, January 9, on the Wellington courts. The final score in the boys game was 76 to 47 and the girls lost 26 to 54.

Both Wellington teams showed remarkable improvement on both offense and defense. In both the games, the Rockets and Rockettes appeared strong in the first half, but in the last half, they seemed to never get their second wind until nearly the last quarter. Both teams had some trouble hitting the basket, but for most of the evening they were off and on as far as their shooting was concerned.

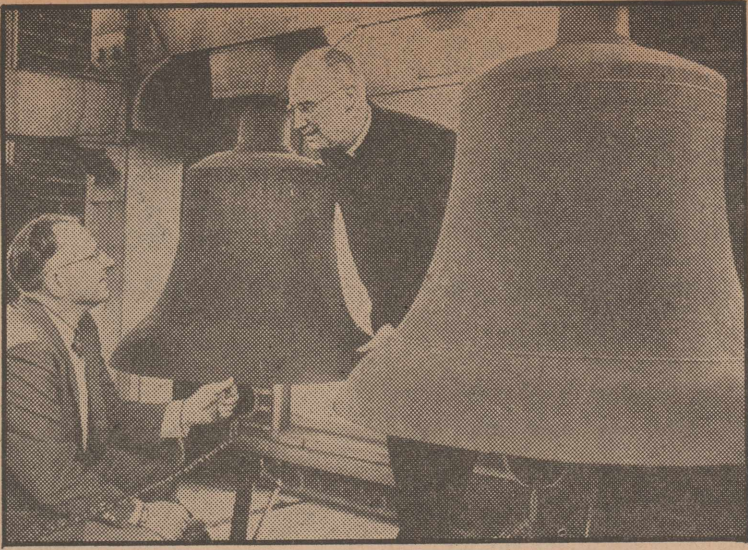

The two Wellington teams are still hampered by the lack of experienced ball players. It stands to figure that as the season rolls on, they will improve and make a good ball club.

In the girls game, the Owlettes took a decided edge in the first quarter. At the half the score was 32 to 12 for Hedley. At the end of the third quarter, Hedley had taken an even wider margin and their bid for victory was practically assured.

Late in the fourth, Wellington finally caught on fire, but it was too late to do anything about the high score Hedley had built up. As the ball game ended, they were leading 64 to 26.

It is interesting to note that Hedley made an average of 13 1/2 points per quarter, while Wellington could get only 6 1/2 points.

The top tosser for Wellington was Betty Cagle with 11 points. She made three field goals and five free markers. Shirley Pritchard was second with 8 points, made by four field goals.

High scorer for the Owlettes was Mary Sargent, with 35 points. She made 13 field goals and 9 one-pointers. Second, with 11 points, was Jo Ann Moore, made by four field goals and three free tosses.

The game between the Owls and Rockets was fast moving all the way. At the end of the first quarter the Rockets led 15 to 14. The second quarter was a see-saw affair, and ended 31 to 29 in Hedley's favor. After the half, Wellington began to lose ground, and as the third quarter ended, Wellington had a deficit of 11 points. In the fourth quarter things began to happen. Points for both teams began to click on the score board faster than you could count them, and the game ended 76 to 47.

High point maker for the Rockets was Ed Bawem with 18 points. Ed got 8 field goals and two free tosses. Winfred Bickert staff was second with 8 points. He took three field goals and two one-pointers.

The top hoopster for Hedley was Jack Quisenberry, with 35 points. He made 8 field goals and 9 free tosses. Brumberg was next with 14 points. He made four field goals and six free-tosses.

Charles Michael, a student in Panhandle A&M College, Goodwell, Okla., spent the week end here with his parents, the Rev. and Mrs. J. F. Michael.

Nash Motors to Introduce New 1953 Models in Dealer Showroom January 16

DETROIT — Nash Motors today announced its new 1953 Ambassador and Statesman models, featuring original continental styling and numerous mechanical advancements.

Highlighted by the advanced styling of Pinin Farina, renowned European custom body designer of Turin, Italy, the new models will be on display in dealer showrooms throughout the country tomorrow (Jan. 16).

H. C. Doss, vice-president in charge of Nash sales, revealed that the 1953 Statesman is powered by the new "Powerflyte" engine, and a new optional LeMans Dual Jetfire engine is offered in the Ambassador. New Nash power steering is available for the first time in the Ambassador model. Many new exterior solid and two-tone colors and interior upholstery and trim selections have enhanced the beauty of all models in both series of cars, he said.

A new luxurious custom hardtop convertible, called the Country Club, is featured in the full line of two and four-door custom and super sedans in both series.

"The simplicity and unity of Farina's styling keynotes in the 1953 Ambassador and Statesman a new American design treatment with a European flavor," Doss said. "Farina's creativeness and craftsmanship have won for Nash acclaim throughout the United States."

Farina, under exclusive contract to Nash Motors, has designed more individually styled custom bodies than any other designer in the world, Doss said. His famous crest, a symbol of royal appointment, adorns all 1953 models.

The Country Club hardtop models, Farina's latest styling accomplishment for Nash, provide both increased visibility and the open air advantages of conventional convertibles.

Many major mechanical advancements are featured in the new Nash cars, Doss said.

The development of a new induction system in the 1953 Statesman "Powerflyte" engine has increased its horsepower to 100. The added horsepower in the six-cylinder L-head engine was gained by increasing over-all engine efficiency without increasing displacement. The engine's outstanding fuel economy and dependability have been maintained, Doss said.

Among engineering changes in the "Powerflyte" engine are increased compression ratio from 7.0 to 1 to 7.45 to 1, a new double-barrel Duoflo carburetor, enlarged intake manifold passages, redesigned combustion chambers, a new "high-lift" camshaft, and an improved exhaust system.

The 1953 Ambassador is powered by a high compression six-cylinder overhead valve engine developing 120 horsepower. Called the "Super Jetfire", this engine, with a compression ratio of 7.3 to 1, is designed to operate efficiently on regular gasoline.

The famous high compression engine which established the greatest post-war record for performance in the grueling LeMans 24-hour sports car race is offered as optional extra cost equipment on the Ambassador model, Doss said.

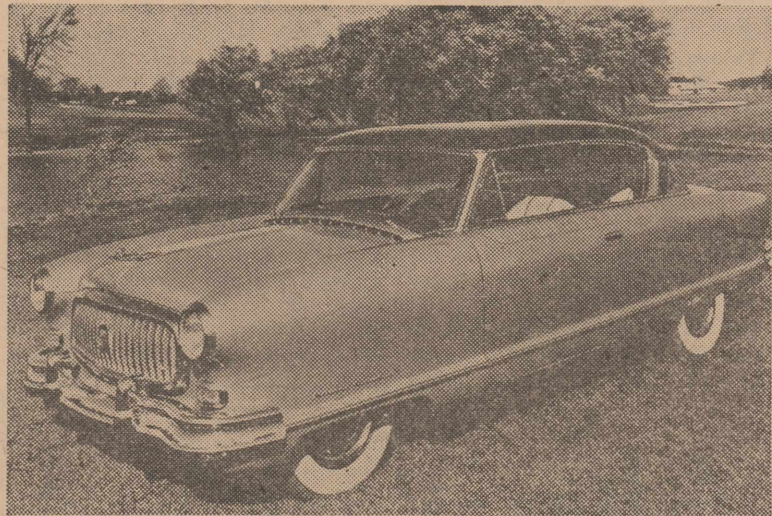

The new Nash engine is called the "LeMans Dual Jetfire", Doss said, after the LeMans, France, race considered to be the ultimate competitive test in engine performance and durability. Nash scored over all other American-built engines in the 1952 run.

The new six-cylinder overhead valve engine is equipped with an aluminum cylinder head and has a compression ratio of 8 to 1. It produces 140 horsepower at 4,000 rpm. Two side-draft carburetors work in conjunction with an oversized "Sealed-In Iso-Thermal" intake manifold. Along with the Super Jetfire engine, it has the only American-built seven-bearing, 100 per cent counterbalanced crankshaft.

Dual-Range Hydra-Matic Drive and automatic overdrive are available on all 1953 Nash Ambassador and Statesman models as optional equipment. Synchromesh transmission is standard on both cars.

Nash power steering, available as optional equipment on Ambassador models only, employs new en-

New 1953 Nash Ambassador Country Club

The new 1953 Nash Ambassador "Country Club" custom hardtop convertible shown above is featured in the full line of two and four-door custom and super models. Highlighted by the advanced styling of Pinin Farina, renowned European custom body designer, the new models feature original continental styling and numerous mechanical advancements. New Nash power steering and the new LeMans Dual Jetfire engine, are available in the Ambassador models as optional extra-cost equipment. Many new exterior solid and two-tone colors and interior upholstery and trim selections are offered on all 1953 Nash super and custom models.

engineering principles to give new steering ease and safety, Doss said. It is of simple but rugged construction, providing direct hydraulic actuation of the steering linkage.

According to Nash engineers, Nash power steering takes about 75 per cent of the effort out of steering, allows the driver to retain the "feel" of the road at all speeds, and gives positive directional control, even with hydraulic power off.

The new Nash models have an advanced type of independent front-end suspension called "Airflex Suspension," providing greater riding comfort and handling ease. Extra long and flexible coil springs are located above heavy steering knuckles which take direct vertical loads, resulting in reduction of unsprung weight. Four direct acting shock absorbers control low frequency spring action. Combined with Nash power steering, this new suspension system provides a new standard of steering ease, stability and safety, Doss said.

All 1953 Nash models feature

Nash-pioneered "Airflyte" unitized body construction, used in modern trains and planes. Body-to-frame bolts are eliminated as the integrated body and frame are welded together to form a single unit, said by Nash engineers to be stronger and more rigid. Airflyte construction substantially eliminates useless body weight, contributing to exceptional fuel and operating economy of Nash cars, Doss said.

Wheelbase of the 1953 Ambassador is 121 1/4 inches. The Statesman has a wheelbase of 114 1/4 inches. Integrated functional design, characteristic of Farina styling, accents the length and sleekness of the new 1953 hardtop convertible and sedan models. Body lines flow gracefully from front to rear, and both front and rear fenders are fully enclosed. The one-piece, die-cast grille bears the round Nash crest. Bold wrap-around ribbed bumpers are contoured to follow the outline of the fenders.

A new hood ornament, optional on all models, has been especially designed for Nash by the well-known artist, George Petty, creator of the famous Petty Girl.

All-around visibility is a key feature of the new Nash models, Doss said. The hood line is lower than the "Road Guide" front fenders, affording greater vision of the road ahead.

Door windows are framed with attractive aluminum extrusions, a unique construction principle developed by Nash. This feature reduces the width of windshield corner posts and center pillars on sedan models. Side windows on the Country Club models are permanently set in stainless steel frames.

The one-piece windshield, introduced on all models by Nash five years ago, has an area of 995 square inches, and is contoured both to the hood and fender line. The curved rear window of three-section design has an area of 1,008 square inches.

The large air intake of the famous Nash Weather Eye conditioned air and heating system extends the full width of the hood. New chrome trim enhances the appearance of the air intake. Heater and defroster fans of the Weather Eye system are combined in a single blower unit. The entire Weather Eye system is thermostatically controlled and is operated with a single control knob.

Nash-developed door handles are of an exclusive "Squeeze-type" design. A slight pressure on the under-side is sufficient to release the latch mechanism. Handles are flushed mounted on the door panels, increasing beauty and safety.

The taillight assemblies are part of the extended rear fenders. Directional signals, standard on custom models, are offered as optional equipment on super models. The gas filler is under the hinged cover of the right taillight, out of sight and fully protected from dirt and water.

The instrument panel design on the new 1953 models is both functional and beautiful, Doss said. The edge-lighted, reflection-proof instrument cluster is positioned so that all instruments are readily visible to the driver.

The large sliding, lighted drawer glove compartment, developed by Nash, is centrally located at the lower edge of the instrument panel. A finger grip at the lower edge eliminates any protruding handle or knob. The "pistol-grip" type hand brake is located to the right of the steering column for convenience and safety.

An interior feature is the unique arrangement of the "Duo-Coustic" radio speakers for better reception. The twin speakers are mounted at each outer extremity of the instrument panel, harmonizing with the overall panel pattern. The driver, as well as passengers, can hear the radio equally well, regardless of car speed.

The passenger compartment is forward in relation to the wheel centers, resulting in greater increased front and rear seat width, headroom and legroom.

The exclusive Nash convertible twin beds and "Airliner" reclining seat are available as optional equipment on all 1953 Ambassador and Statesman models, as well as tinted "Solex" safety glass to reduce road glare and heat rays.

Many new exterior color combinations are offered in the 1953 line of Nash cars, including 13 solid and 13 two-ton selections.

Madame Helene Rother, Nash Motors' interior design and styling consultant, has added new trim and fabric combinations in the new models. The selections include rich needlepoints, homespun and genuine leathers in super and custom models. The Nash Country Club hardtop convertible models are available in attractive leather and needlepoint combinations.

Hunters Can Get Trap Information

The Commissioners Court has made arrangements with Roland Smith, coyote trapper, which will result in safer coyote hunting for those farmers wishing to use dogs, County Judge R. L. Templeton announced this week.

Mr. Smith will notify Commissioner Jack Brewer of Wellington where his traps and cyanide guns are located, and by checking with Mr. Brewer, hunters may secure this information.

"This will enable the men who want to hunt coyotes with dogs to protect their dogs, because they will know where the cyanide bombs are located," Judge Templeton explained.

Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Payne of Miami were here Monday to visit his sisters, Mrs. L. Lawrence of Wellington and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Davenport of the Loco community, and other relatives.

Highlights and Sidelights FROM Your State CAPITOL

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association

AUSTIN — Get tough with traffic violators. That's Senator Carlos Ashley's suggestion for reducing the number of highway deaths.

The State Senator from Llano asks repeal of the motor vehicle registration law, passed at the last session of the legislature. In its place he would add $1 to motor vehicle registrations, thus to provide enough income to more than double the number of highway patrolmen.

At present Texas has 450 highway patrolmen. This would be increased to 1,000, under the Senator's proposal.

"It is my contention that only a get-tough policy of law enforcement, coupled with a stepped-up program of driver education, will bring traffic under control," Senator Ashley stated.

Further along the line of law enforcement, the House crime investigating committee probably will recommend that the legislature pass a law to speed up criminal trials.

Rep. Horace B. Houston Jr. of Dallas, a member of the committee, said the probers "found in many cases that a man commits a murder and isn't tried for two years or more."

The representative cited that by contrast a man who commits a murder in England is tried immediately, and there are very few murders in England.

"Courts and judges are not to blame for delays in trying criminal cases," Houston added. "It is changes in the law that are necessary."

The state board of education is anticipating trouble as a result of the U. S. supreme court's decision on racial segregation.

Construction of more schools and the employment of more teachers will be necessary. The financial worry is no greater than the problem of where to get the teachers. They are in short supply.

Thomas B. Ramey of Tyler has taken over as chairman of the board, succeeding R. B. Anderson of Vernon, who accepted appointment as Secretary of the Navy in the Eisenhower administration.

As a result of recent developments in the state hospital and special school set-up, the legislature will be asked for authority to appoint a medical man as director of the institutions.

As the system is now organized, the executive director receives $10,000 a year, while the medical director, who is subordinate to the administrator, is paid $15,000 plus certain living and other allowances.

If the new plan is approved by the legislature, the board will seek to employ a top flight medical man with administrative experience. It is anticipated that such action would alleviate organizational conflicts between administrative and medical personnel.

Some changing around among the state departments sees Jack Ross, secretary of state, moving in Feb. 1 as a member of the State Board of Pardons and Paroles. He takes the position of R. A. Smoot Schmid, who has served out a six-year term.

Ross became secretary of state upon the retirement of John Ben Shepherd, who is now attorney general. The new secretary of state will be Howard Carney of Cass County, a former state senator who did not run for re-election.

Missing from the Austin scene is Price Daniel, whom Shepherd replaced as attorney general. Daniel is now in Washington in the role of U. S. Senator, where he will take an active part in the campaign to restore the Texas tidelands to Texas.

In his most recent expression on the subject Daniel scored a reported plan of President Truman to set aside the continental shelf as a naval petroleum reserve.

Such a move, says the Senator, would be a flagrant violation of the law.

As of now the tidelands belong to the federal government under a decision of the supreme court. President-elect Eisenhower has indicated that he will support legislation to surrender the federal government's claim to the states.

The legislative committee of the Texas Press Association met Saturday in Austin to plan legislation calling for more detail in the reporting of public expenditures. A long-range legislative program of public interest was thoroughly discussed and outlined.

Jake Smyth, publisher of the Liberty Vindicator, is chairman of the committee. Members are: J. C. Phillips, Borger; Dick Dwell, Athens; Rigby Owen, El Campo; L. B. Smith, Brady; Brad Smith, Weslaco; Tom Whitehead, Brenham; Morris Roberts, Victoria; Franz Zeiske, Bellville; W. R. Beaumier, Lufkin; Jimmie Gillentine, Hereford; Victor B. Fain, Nacogdoches; George Baker, Ft. Stockton; Paul Fuls, Wolfe City; Louis N. Goldberg, Austin.

The association takes the position that making public the record of tax money — how it comes in and how it goes out — makes for honesty in government and helps the people understand more fully how the public agencies operate.

Another TPA committee — one on ethics — will meet next Saturday to formulate a code for the association's 500 member newspapers. Malpractices of various kinds will be banned, the penalty being loss of membership in the association.

Don Scarbrough, publisher of the Williamson County Sun of Georgetown, is chairman of this committee.

To wind up this column, here's a dramatic story and a true one.

The other night 22-year-old Robert Ernest Miers was ready to go to the electric chair at Huntsville. His head was shaved. He was due to die at midnight because he was convicted of murdering A. J.

Sendemer of San Antonio.

It was 25 minutes to midnight. Miers was talking to Father Francis Duffy, prison chaplain.

A call came from Austin. Governor Allan Shivers had granted Miers a three-day stay of execution because a defense attorney said he could produce a new witness in the slaying case.

Miers jumped up and kissed the chaplain on the cheek. He said he was "expecting something like this."

Later Governor Shivers commuted the sentence to life imprisonment on the condition that Miers shall never become eligible for clemency.

The case received considerable attention the past week when Linda Clark, his professed sweetheart, who is serving a five-year sentence at Gorce Prison Farm, said that she hoped to marry Miers "if everything turns out all right." . . . which it did.

Paging Noah Webster: To expedite — To confound confusion with commotion.

A clarification — To fill in the background with so much detail that the foreground must go underground.

WARNING MR. STOCKMAN

During drouth animals had little chance to build reserves of Vitamin A for carrying them through winter. Large number of aborted still born, or weak and deformed calves dropped last spring was a direct result of lack of green feed a source of Vitamin A.

Late winter is the big danger period. Cattle and unborn calves too valuable to risk loss. Stronger prices for stockers and feeders and common grade fed cattle by spring. Bidding will be strong for cattle next spring to re-stock drouth areas and improved pastures. Feed highly fortified Vitamin A cattle cubes for best results.

There is no better cattle cubes made than our 19% and 22% highly fortified Vita-Way range cattle feed cubes. They get results.
